

Pleasant

The weather promises to be pleasant for the next few days. The rain should hold off until the weekend

Wednesday, partly sunny, high in mid-80s. Wednesday night, partly cloudy, low in mid-60s. Thursday, repeat Wednesday; night time weather is the same, too.

Friday shows increasing cloudiness, with chance of rain late Saturday and on Sunday. Lows all weekend should be 65-68. And on Friday and Saturday, highs will be around 90, and about 85 on Sunday.

Fiscal Court changes dates

The regular Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting has been rescheduled from Friday, Aug. 17, to Friday, Aug. 24, due to conflicting schedules of some of the members. The court meeting will begin at 10 a.m. as usual and, as usual, it is a public forum.

Members wanted

The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series is now selling membership tickets. Membership entitles a person to enjoy the entire season for one price, including performances by The Sounds of New Orleans jazz band, the Linden Woodwind Ouintet, Robin and Linda Williams, three choirs from Eastern Kentucky University, PCC Community Chorus concerts and a bonus concert in May.

The membership campaign headquarters in Prestonsburg is Owens Music Center in Highlands Plaza and in Paintsville at Citizens National Bank, Broadway location.

Membership costs $25 for adults, $15 for students and $50 for families; individual performance tickets are not available.

Time's running out for showtime

Although many have enjoyed the sights and sounds at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre this year, there are quite a few who have not made it to see a show. Whatever, your reason for not going yet, you still have a week and a half to try to squeeze in all four shows. Remember, the season ends on Sunday, Aug. 26.

Strike vote today

Teachers reporting for school this morning for their opening day were to have been faced with voting "yes" or "no" to a strike.

Coordinators were to pass out the ballots to Floyd County Education Association members outside school premises. Votes are to be counted this afternoon at the Kentucky Education Association office in Prestonsburg.

FCEA President Bud Reynolds said last night that if a simple majority vote in favor of a strike, plans are in place to follow through, with strike headquarters at the Little Bear Market in Allen.

Floyd County Superintendent Ron Hager said yesterday that he "hopes they honor their contracts.

Hager would not say if he has a contingency plan if teachers do not report to class Thursday.

Officials show new school

by Michael Rosenberg Editorial Assistant

School was dedicated Sunday afternoon before an overflow crowd in the new facility's gymnasium.

Floyd County Superintendent of Schools Ron Hager presided over the ceremony, which began with a rendition of the National Anthem by Ginger Howard and an invocation by Benny Blankenship of the Prestonsburg Church of Christ.

Supt. Hager gave a welcome to the new facility. Hager said today's children have "more world exposure than any previous generation" with the constant media exposure. A school for today's early adolescent must be "specially designed," according to

Hager.

Hager also stated that "children The Dr. James D. Adams Middle endure many changes during this period in their lives" and that a middle school program must "provide a transition from elementary to high school," as well as provide support during the period of change.

The middle school, he said, will allow the school system to provide "the best educational opportunity for students who are changing from childhood to adolescence."

Hager added that the facility was still under construction, with the foreign language and industrial arts classrooms not yet finished. The school will be finished in the next few months, he said.

It's a 'misunderstanding'

"What we have here is a failure to communicate is the conclusion of a group of Prestonsburg businesspersons concerned over a boycott of city businesses by coal haulers.

Many area truckers have vowed not to shop in the city since the closing two weeks ago of the Bert T. Combs bridge on US 23 to trucks hauling more than 80,000 pounds.

"The state gave the city a black eye," said car dealer Estill Carter at Monday night's Prestonsburg City Council meeting. "We don't have just a bridge problem, but a tremendous communications problem."

The council last month, in a special meeting, responded to a request from State Secretary of Transportation Milo Bryant to approve closing of the bridge to heavy trucks. Bryant had flown into town, looked at the overweighted bridge and deemed it unsafe for loads over the 80,000-pound limit. The state needed the city's approval on the section of roadway located in the city.

"None of us are saying you did wrong," said Carter, speaking for a group of businesspersons attending the meeting. "You did right, but it was perceived wrong. Milo (Bryant) did a number on Prestonsburg. He made a decision and dumped it on us."

Council members and business owners agreed that misconceptions reign in the controversy, some fueled by media reports that have cast the city as the villain in making the truckers take a longer route in carrying coal to loading docks in Catlettsburg.

"The truckers' fight is not with the city of Prestonsburg. I totally support the truckers' organization," Latta said. "All we need is to get a dialogue started."

State Rep. Greg Stumbo had requested last year that the state reroute heavy trucks around the city because of his concerns over the safety of the

Cancer patient convicted of pot charge dies

SITKA — Ricky Dean Morris, a Johnson County cancer patient who was convicted of possessing marijuana he said eased the side effects of his cancer treatment, has died of cancer complications at his home in Sitka. He was 33. His case drew national attention in 1988 after his home was raided in November 1987. A conviction followed in July 1988. However, he served no jail term and his fine was suspended. Morris alleged at his trial that the marijuana combatted the side effects of chemotherapy and enhanced his appetite. Services for Morris will be at 1 p.m. today at Fraley and Son Funeral Home in Paintsville. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

2 Carter men arrested in drug raid

GRAYSON — Two Carter County men were arrested on felony drug charges last Thursday during a three-day sweep by state police that netted more than 2,000 plants valued at $3.6 million. Billy Gene Carroll, 49, was charged with five counts of cultivating marijuana. A total of 1,138 marijuana plants were cut from Carroll's farm. Harold Porter, 56, was charged with one count of cultivating marijuana. More than 115 plants were taken from Porter's farm. Each count is a class D felony, punishable by up to five years in prison. ASHLAND — Officials are considering a request for an ordinance that would take the boom out of boom boxes. Businessman Burt McGee asked the Ashland Board of City Commissioners to enact an ordinance limiting the volume of car radios, boom boxes and PA systems. MOREHEAD — Local Sanitation Service Inc., which owns and operates Rowan County's only licensed landfill, is proposing to accept 100 tons of municipal solid waste per day from Philadelphia. Hazard chosen for new psychiatric hospital

HAZARD — A long awaited psychiatric hospital to serve Eastern Kentucky will be located in Hazard and operated by Appalachian Healthcare Inc. Many government and health care officials say the 100-bed hospital is needed because the nearest psychiatric facility is Eastern State in Lexington which has a shortage of space. Many of the patients who will use the new hospital will be referred by the court system or local mental health centers. (The Courier-Journal)

GRAYSON — The Carter County school system finished more than $700,000 in the red, but help is in place, in the form of state-assisted management, to help get the district back on firm financial footing. Former deputies sue Pike sheriff

PIKEVILLE—Pike County Sheriff Charles "Fuzzy" Keesee said Monday that a $4.5 million federal lawsuit filed against him by three former deputies is "frivolous" and without merit. In the suit, former detectives Paul Hatfield, Fred McCoy and Barry McCoy alleged that they were wrongfully discharged in August 1989. The suit said the firing was intended "to punish each plaintiff for exercising his right to free speech and expression" through "public criticisms of the defendant" relating to a news conference in which the deputies accused Keesee of running a corrupt department. ARGILLITE — Each summer for the last two years, state wildlife officials have loaded a flock of Canada geese, 14 in number, into cages at their home at Greenbo Lake and hauled them to Cave Run. Prestonsburg police officers have revealed information on three drugrelated arrests at Archer Park last month, according to Police Chief Greg Hall.

Benefit bash wows at JWT

by Kathleen Carroll Contributing Writer

Jimmy Stewart was there. Even Paul Lynde and John Travolta made an appearance. Anyone who wasn't at the Jenny Wiley Theatre benefit on Monday night missed a terrific show!

Unfortunately, some might have stayed home—thinking there would be no "big name" entertainers appearing at the benefit. Why, even George Bush showed up!

All right, now you're suspicious. But all of these people really were on the Jenny Wiley Theatre stage — in the person of impersonator Paul R.

In many ways all the "greats" were there. Everything that made Ethel Merman and Gene Kelly great was right there on the stage — all the talent and all the class. The actors from the company of the Jenny Wiley Theatre are our artistic future. They are the names in tomorrow's papers; and they gave a splendid perform-

Not even the 10-minute shower that delayed the show could dampen the spirits of the company. This was their chance to show their appreciation to the theatre board and theatre supporters — and the company's grafitude shown on every face.

The show was a potpourri of great moments in musical theater, some stunning dance routines, and a dash of drama. Under the guidance of director Michael King and musical director Richard Oberacker, the show not only featured the skills of this summer's company, but also spot-

In the spotlight for the first time was Jonathan Goble, a native of Prestonsburg, who sang "Don't Say You Love Me." Also, assistant stage manager Meshelle Murphy was outstanding as she was joined by Chrissy Wright and Penelope Walker in a "Dreamgirls" medley.

Costumer Michelle Bardo joined Pamela Frambes, Jonathan Goble, Neil Seibel and Robert Smith in a dance number choreographed by Chrissy Wright. Mark Baker left his usual post in the orchestra to sing "You're Nothing Without Me" with David Stokes. Davin Adams, a sixth grader from Pikeville, entertained with a piano solo.

Tatiana Michele, with the help of Ashton Byrum, Robert McMaster and Tia Lynn Schollenberger, let the audience know that it was "Rose's Turn" (a scene and song from "Gypsy"). Matt Miller delivered a delightful monologue from "Division Street." And special mention should be made of Rachel Ona Craft, who had her first opportunity this summer to perform some solos.

Richard Oberacker arranged a medley from "Jesus Christ Superstar" that was performed by Penelope Walker, Robert Smith and Pamela Frambes. This is one play that should be produced by this theater - and

Strange Enough By Tim Preston

Nasty Cigars and New Bosses

Of all the strange things I've written about in the past three months this could be the strangest yet.

I sit here staring at the computer screen, practically comatose and of bleary mind, after a weekend of pondering the future of my newspaper career, and while trying to forget the smell of Gatewood Galbraith's cigar. Strange Enough?

First off, I have to say that as of this time I have been without sleep for what seems like weeks and am currently running on energy borrowed from 10 to 20 cups of coffee. To explain the incredible run on sentence about the career and the cigar, let me begin at the beginning. As you may have read in the papers, there has been a big change in the world of local newspaper publishers.

Our publisher, Marty Backus, was offered a position with the Appalachian News Express in Pikeville. LaJeune Waggoner, the Pikeville publisher, went to a paper in North Carolina. Paintsville Herald publisher Scott Perry came to us here at The Times, and Anne Chaney, a former Floyd County Times editor, became the new publisher in Paintsville.

Like the sands through the hourglass, these are the days of our lives. In case you didn't follow that who is where thing, let me sum it up for you. Almost everybody who works for a paper along the Big Sandy just got a new boss.

To top things off, my new boss was to be a man who I considered the news world's toughest competitor. I thought of him this way because I used to work for his competition. Oh, how the paranoid mind reels at the possibilities. As it turns out though, this shouldn't be a problem. Actually, I expect great things to happen here at the Times, but I will admit losing several nights' sleep in the process.

On to bigger and smellier things.

Have you ever been around a really rank cigar?

I recently did an exclusive interview with gubernatorial candidate Gatewood Galbraith, during which he lit up a rather large, expensive and foul-smelling cigar. The interview went well and I have to admit that much of what Galbraith had to say made sense.

The most interesting part of the interview happened when we walked to the courthouse to snap some photos. As Gatewood was posing for me, no less than three vehicles passed by and screamed slogans of support for the candidate. I have never, ever seen that happen before.

Sure, people who are at political rallies scream their support for their favorite candidate. But, can you imagine Gov. Wallace Wilkinson standing on the streets of Prestonsburg and watching three car loads of people drive by and scream, "Go Get 'Em Wally!!!"? I don't think so.

Galbraith turned out to be the most interesting interview that I have ever done, but there is one thing I have to say as I close.

The next person that smokes a Garcia Vega Gran Premio Cigar in the office of The Times is likely to be greeted with a fire extinguisher and several cans of air freshener. Boy, do those babies stink.

Goodbye . . .

Dear Editor,

I've had quite a few setbacks this summer and really thought I was coping very well. Now, I find Pam Shingler is leaving Floyd County.

This is another loss for our troubled school system. Pam always made the students see that they could be recognized for their academic achievements. We have always recognized athletics in Floyd County. Before someone gets their back in the air . . . I love sports. Some of my best friends are coaches and I admire these young athletes who run each morning to tell me what they've accomplished. However, this quiet child needs to be recognized also, and Pam did this so well. Pam, you have truly been an inspiration to us. I, for one, thank the Lord for having known you — if just for a short while.

I wish you well in Frankfort. Don't ever forget us out here.

> Goodbye and good luck. -Doris Osborne Hi Hat

Relates problems in Louisville

Dear Editor.

Because we still have family and friends in and around there, we hope you can find space in your paper to let the people there know what is happening to many of your own people here in Louisville.

On Aug. 19, the Kentucky State Supreme Court will hear a lawsuit brought against the city of Louisville by residents of three neighborhoods who want to stop the city (Mayor Jerry Abramson and former County Judge Harvey Sloane) from using an urban renewal project to remove their established communi-

The city falsely declared our neighborhoods "blighted" so it could forcibly displace us under the urban renewal laws.

The outcome of this lawsuit will have a tremendous impact on all the people of Kentucky because if our neighborhoods are declared blighted, NO ONE in this state is safe from losing his home. In fact, Appellate Court Judge Michael O. McDonald stated recently, regarding these neighborhoods, that "If that's blight, then 75 percent of Louisville is blighted."

Eleanore Garber, an attorney for the neighborhoods, addressed the issue at a recent pre-hearing to keep the city from tearing down homes they had already bought. She stated that although the demolition of the neighborhoods has been billed by the city as urban renewal, city inspectors have not found even one sub-standard home in the Standiford and Prestonia neighborhoods, two of the areas.

Obviously urban renewal laws are being misused. The city has simply found a way to acquire our homes at a cheap price. The reason the city wants our neighborhoods is not for airport expansion as we were first told, but instead they want it for private development of airport related businesses, such as motels, gas stations, car rental agencies, etc. because of our prime location — adjacent to Standiford Field and easy access to the major interstates.

Although we love our city, we think we have been unjustifiably wronged. We would like you, our people, and the state of Kentucky be made aware of the monumental decision facing the Supreme Court.

-Cleve and Betty Combs Louisville

Looking forward to coming home

Dear Editor,

I have lived out of Floyd County for the last 20 years and out of Kentucky for the last three years. I keep up with the local news through my family and the Floyd County Times. I am very, very pleased with the new format you adopted some time ago.

I am especially pleased with the recent clean-up campaign for Floyd County. Several times in the past 20 years I have brought numerous people to Floyd County for a visit. They always comment about the trash everywhere. I have not been home since September 1989, but I will be home at Christmas. I'm looking forward to seeing the new look, with no trash on the roadsides. I'm glad Eastern Kentucky is taking pride in their beautiful hills (which I miss very much). Unfortunately my job demands I stay in Florida.

—Deborah H. Campbell Lake City, Fla.

Puzzled over taxes Dear Editor.

I read where Senator Mitch McConnell categorically rejected the premise of raising taxes and sent his thoughts to President Bush. Where has he been when my taxes are going up? Reagan said no taxes would be raised while he was president. Now my question is, how come taxes were higher in 1987 than in 1986. In 1986 I made $1200 more than I did in 1987, but in 1987 I paid $500 more. I asked my friend that fixes my tax form how come I paid $500 more, I thought the taxes were not going up? He said that what I didn't understand was it was hidden taxes. I am from Prestonsburg, born there. I might not be very smart, but I am not stupid. Have McConnell answer please.

Language, But Whose? by Willie Elliott

Recently a columnist of the Lexington Herald-Leader did a piece on traveling outside the state. He told how he had to explain about the horse farms, the politicians who were running for office, and things of that nature. Since this took so much time explaining, he suggested we take in-state

Since he lives in Lexington, he does not have the same problem as travelers from the eastern part of the state.

When I was in the Army, I was always greeted with this kind of reaction when I reported to a new duty station: "Let's see now, you are from either West Virginia, Tennessee or Kentucky." I could live with that since it does not include enough of an area to constitute a geographical dialect.

But you know how they carry things to extreme. They will say something like this: "Say something for us" (as if we were a talking dog or something). Then as a group they will laugh and say how quaint and entertaining the speech is. They will pick up a little expression and use it all week. I suppose they think they are being kind, but I say this is making

Well, I caught on to this very quickly. I practiced my Chet Huntley and David Brinkley middle-of-America speech and used that exclusively unless I wanted something. If they were going to use my native language for entertainment, they were going to pay for it. When they asked me to "talk some for them," I would tell them that I didn't feel like it. Then they would try to bribe me. The use of the old ration card would get me to utter something like, "You boys have pert near got me talked into it." They were so naive that one sentence would be sufficient. Off they would go to tell their friends of the new expression.

If I were at one of their parties and getting what I wanted, I would give a little extra. I would say something like this: "Let's play like (pretend) the war's over and go home" or "Make out like (pretend) you enjoy all this free travel that the government if giving you."

The staff sergeant in my outfit was always making fun of my language. This was a man from the New England area who was always getting "iders" and talking about Castro's "Cuber." Now I like the Kennedy clan as well as the next person, but if they can put "er's" in their ideas and Cubas, we can put them on our wasp. (Why do we call them waspers?)

Along those lines of why do we call it that, I had an experience in northern Ohio dealing with language. When I was growing up, we always called the nails or staples that are used to put up barbed wire "steeples." I have no idea why. Anyway, I went to a hardware store and asked for two pounds of steeples. The proprietor asked, "Why, are you building a very small church?" I told him that we were putting up barbed wire. "Oh," he said, "you want two pounds of staples."

All I can say is that I have had enough of people laughing at my language, and if they don't stop, I'm going to scream like a painter (panther).

Hemp in Kentucky's future?

Staff Writer

"Our granddaddies never grew crack or heroin, but they sure grew the heck out of hemp," says gubernatorial candidate Gatewood Galbraith.

Galbraith, who recently visited the offices of The Floyd County Times, is using the issue of legal hemp growth in Kentucky as his platform in the race for governor.

Hemp is better known as mari-

"Hemphas the longest and strongest fiber of any plant in the plant kingdom. It can be used to make almost anything, including paper, cloth and rope. The oil produced by the hemp seed is what the first diesel engine was designed to run on. The oil can be used to make a very high grade motor oil," Galbraith said.

Will the issue of drug use would affect his campaign?

"I have the most effective drug program going. If you eliminate the marijuana smoker from the case files of the police, you have eliminated 80 percent of the so called drug users." Galbraith said. "That leaves only 20 percent of the original number left for police to concentrate on.

THE CIVIL WAR INSTITUTE by Dr. Thomas D. Matijasic History Professor

On Sunday, June 24, some 245 people from cities and towns throughout the United States and Canada gathered at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania. They ranged in age from 16 to 87, and they represented every race, religion and social group within North America. The only thing uniting these individuals was a desire to learn more about the American Civil War.

specialized, week-long, summer program developed by Gettysburg College to bring together scholars, researchers and Civil War fanatics of every description. The institute concentrates on one aspect of the war each summer. The theme for this year's activities was "1865 - The Final Year of the War."

The program began with a presentation by Phillip Shaw Paludan, professor of history at the University of Kansas. Pauludan is best known for his research on Northern society during the war, and his address reflected his academic bias. He pointed out that the common people were more important to the Union cause then famous generals or politicians, because the war effort could not have been sustained without their support.

One of the major factors adding to the growing strength of the Union military during the last year of the war was the utilization of large numbers of African-American soldiers. The Institute recognized the contribution made by black soldiers during the war in an address by Joseph Glatthaar, the author of "Forged in Battle," and with a special showing of the film "Glory." Glatthaar pointed out that blacks suffered a tremendous amount of discrimination in the Union army during the Civil War.

Many Northern whites did not plot. want black soldiers in their army. To pacify the white population, black soldiers received less pay, generally performed more fatigue duty, and had to serve under white officers. Yet blacks were eager to serve, especially the free blacks of the North. In all, 178,000 black soldiers joined the United States Colored Troops (USCT). and saw action in 41 major engage-

Local stylist wins big in competition

The Ohio Valley Region of Fantastic Sam's Hair Salons held their Regional Hairstyling Competition on Saturday, July 28 at the Radisson Hotel in Louisville, with a Big Sandy team bringing home a prize.

Fifty-seven teams representing over 150 stores all vied for a spot on the Ohio Valley Regional Team that will compete in Las Vegas, Nev., on

Successful stylist

Debbie Blanton, hair stylist, and Scott Little, model, won big in Louisville last month. Representatives of Fantastic Sam's Hair Salon in Paintsville, they were awarded "Top Male Model" for the Ohio Valley Region and will go on to compete in an international competition in Las Vegas, Nev., on Sept. 16.

Sept 16, an international competition with teams from all over the world representing over 1400 stores.

Teams from the Pikeville store were stylists Edwina Belcher and her model Rita Hamilton and stylist Brent Sturgil and his model Pam May. The Paintsville store sent stylist Debbie Blanton and her model Scott Little and stylist Jackie Lemaster and her model/daughter Natalie Lemaster.

The contest lasted from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., testing the stamina and nerves of all involved," said Jerry McCoy, co-owner of the Paintsville, Pikeville and Prestonsburg stores. "With the prize for a winning team being an expense paid trip to Las Vegas, the competition was intense and the judging extra critical."

The awards ceremony started about an hour after the judging, with only one winner in each of the three categories

Louisville's Dixie Highway store won Top Child Model; the Clarksville, Tenn., store won Top Female Model, and the Paintsville store, Debbie Blanton and her model Scott Little, was the winner of Top Male Model.

"It was a very exciting moment," McCoy said. "During the announcements we all sat holding hands with our eyes closed in anticipation, and when the Paintsville store's name was said we practically leaped out of our seats. Debbie and Scott were still in shock when they were led up to that stage to receive their award.

Moving the whole kit and kaboodle

Moving day meant much more than packing up some boxes and hiring a van for Don Rice, whose house sat on the right of way for new US 23 on what is now KY 1428 (formerly US 23, ironically). Kentucky House Movers of London was in charge of moving the 45-ton house about one-half mile away in the Little Paint section last Saturday. The company has moved two structures and plans to move six more in the displacement program for the reconstruction of the route between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. Clearing of the right of way for the long awaited road is reported to be beginning this week. (Photo by Scott Perry)

Rape inside marriage is still rape, law says

Wife rape is now a crime in Kentucky and mental health professionals who work with domestic violence victims are preparing for a possible increase in cries for help from battered spouses.

Kentucky's 1989 Uniform Crime report included 829 cases of rape. At the same time, a survey last year by the Kentucky Domestic Violence Association of 666 spouse abuse center clients found that 299 had experienced forced sexual relations with a spouse or live-in companion.

Counselors at the state's 10 rape crisis centers and 14 spouse abuse centers recently completed training on House Bill 38, Kentucky's marital rape law.

"This joint training session highlighted both the provisions of the new law and the special needs of abused spouses who have been raped," said Carol Jordan, domestic violence specialist with the state Department for Mental Health and Mental Retarda-

"In the past, these victims often have fallen through the cracks. We've had services for rape victims and services for victims of spouse abuse, but not services for victims of both," Jordan said.

"In preparation for dealing with cases arising from the new law, rape crisis center staff learned about domestic violence and spouse abuse center staff learned about sexual as-

The training covered areas such as each agency's services, Battered Woman Syndrome and Rape Trauma Syndrome, a review of assault statutes and sexual assault statutes, the importance of forensic examinations in gathering evidence for criminal proceedings and ways agencies can begin to address victim needs and when to make referrals.

The staffs of the agencies at the training divided into groups according to service regions to begin a dialogue on how to coordinate local

'Rape crisis center and spouse abuse centers which serve the same areas opened communications and discovered referral methods which will best serve the marital rape victim," said Jordan.

"Marital rape victims' needs are slightly different," said Jordan. "Sexual assault is the most intrusive type of assault and will impact the victim differently.

"A marital rape victim frequently experiences an overwhelming sense of shock at being raped by the person in whom she should be able to place the greatest trust — her husband.

"Women raped by their spouses often face an extra difficulty in sharing their painful experience with

Since marital rape had only been illegal since July 13, state officials will learn much about this underreported crime as time goes on. In order to learn about the problem in a comprehensive manner, a client questionnaire has been developed.

"Counselors at the rape crisis center and the spouse abuse centers will ask the same questions to victims of marital rape to determine what improvements need to be made in the service area," said Jordan.

"For instance, we will find out how law enforcement agencies and the court system responds to marital rape, if women use the new status to prosecute the offender and obtain recommendations from the victims themselves on how to improve services to victims of spousal rape."

Easter Seal vols working locally

Funds collected by these volunteers support the many direct service facilities the Easter Seal Society operates throughout the state for people with many types of disabilities.
For five of the last six consecutive years, the Kentucky Easter Seal Society has been ranked as the top Easter Seal affiliate nationwide. This honor is based on scope of services to the disabled, administrative excellence, and low fund raising costs.

According to the Society, fund raising costs are low due to the efforts of dedicated volunteers such as the door-to-door collectors. The Society is hopeful that area residents will support these local volunteers when they call at their homes.

Residents of this area can receive Easter Seal services at any of the six Easter Seal centers in the state. The Society's rehabilitation services help children and adults overcome their physical disabilities resulting from birth defects, traumatic accidents and debilitating diseases.

Feds provide reference for radon removal

Kentuckians wanting to remove their homes tested for radon may potentially hazardous radon gas from their homes can now look to a federal referral list when choosing a radon mitigation company.

The Environmental Protection Agency lists 22 Kentucky companies ring naturally from the breakdown of as having been trained and tested for radon removal procedures through its voluntary national proficiency program.

The Kentucky Department for Health Services administers the program in the state and coordinates training and testing for interested companies.

Jeana Phelps, coordinator of the department's radon control program, says that Kentuckians who discover elevated levels of radon gas in their homes now will know which companies are in good standing with the federal agency's procedures and standards for radon removal. "After a home has been tested and the homeowner knows that radon needs to be eliminated, two things should be done," she said.

"First, the homeowner should choose a contractor from the EPA proficiency list to make sure the company has been trained in proper radon elimination methods.

"Second, the homeowner should become familiar with the EPA's radon mitigation guidelines to make sure that the contractor's work follows these state-of-the-art procedures.

Both the list and a copy of the guidelines are available from environmentalists in local health departments in all 120 counties.

Phelps also recommends that the homeowner require, in the written contract, that the mitigation company agree to abide by EPA-sanctioned techniques and procedures for radon

Companies on the list have undergone training and testing that cover topics such as radon entry, testing procedures, inspecting buildings, selecting a reduction company, health effects and worker safety.

The companies in the voluntary program agree to continuing education and retesting every two years. Firms that do not continue to meet EPA requirements will be removed from the EPA referral list.

Additional training and testing sessions are scheduled for 1990 and Phelps says she expects more Kentucky companies to be added to the

ADDRESSING ANTI-PERSPIRANT DOUBTS

While deodorants suppress bacterial growth and mask odors under the arms, anti-perspirants actually reduce underarm perspiration. However, many people avoid using anti-perspirants because they contain aluminum compounds. High levels of aluminum have been found in the brains of some Alzheimer patients. In 1987, the FDA addressed this issue when it concluded that "the amount of aluminum that might be absorbed through the skin from an anti-perspirant would be insignificant." Further study has since brought forth no conclusive evidence that aluminum in the diet, medication, or cosmetics increases the risk of this disease. Consumers should certainly avoid the use of anti-perspirants (or deodorants) if they irritate the skin or initiate allergic reactions.

Dear Prestonsburg Area Residents:

Your Wal-Mart store here in Floyd County will be celebrating its fifth anniversary this September. In honor of this occasion, all of us at Wal-Mart want to say thank you to our customers, friends, neighbors, and the retail community in the Floyd County area for the support you have shown us. We want your Wal-Mart store to be more than just a place where you shop for your general merchandise needs. We are committed to being partners with community residents by contributing our time, talents and dollars to a variety of local needs. This commitment is true not only in Floyd County, but in each and every Wal-Mart store community in our 30-state trade territory.

Wal-Mart associates are proud of the fact that our time and money remain in the Floyd County area to benefit local needs. For instance, last year, Wal-Mart contributed more than $6 million throughout our 30-state trade territory benefiting local communities we serve. Wal-Mart associates raised one half of this amount through their local fund raising efforts with the Wal-Mart communities.

We are pleased with the economic partnership we have established in Floyd County and throughout the State of Kentucky. In 1989, Wal-Mart employed over 9,886 Kentucky residents and operated sixty-one Wal-Mart stores and three Sam's Wholesale Clubs with an annual payroll of more than $79,488,731 million. This resulted in a significant increase to the retail sales potential of each community where Wal-Mart is located and directly strengthened the local economies. A leader in the Buy American program in 1989, Wal-Mart purchased merchandise from 64 Kentucky based vendors totaling $276,985,702 at retail. As responsible state residents, the company also paid $6,448,922 in taxes (excluding state and local sales tax collected) to Kentucky.

On behalf of the 191 Wal-Mart associates here in Floyd County and the 61 Wal-Mart stores in the state of Kentucky, thank you for making our jobs possible. In return, we pledge to continue the basic principles our company was founded on: superior customer service, quality merchandise, every day low prices and satisfaction guaranteed. Thank you Floyd County for making these first five years the best.

Sincerely,

Nelson Walker Prestonsburg Wal-Mart Store Manager

We congratulate our 5 year association for a job well done!

Record number found jobs with help last year

A record 85,236 Kentuckians obtained new jobs last year thanks to the state Department for Employment Services, with nine out of every 10 placements made to full-time positions and one in every five placements in higher-paying manufactur-

Between July 1, 1989, and June 30, 1990, the agency exceeded 80,000 placements for the third consecutive year, including nearly 73,000 in fulltime positions. Each Employment Services placement interviewer helped an average of 352 people find Employment Services Commissioner Darvin Allen said Kentucky manufacturing employers led other sectors with 24,677 or 29 percent of the job openings filled. "We've been able to hold our edge in manufacturing while many other states are having problems," Allen

"Kentucky has developed a broad growth in textiles, apparel, printing and publishing and motor vehicle

Retail and wholesale trade comprised 17,501 or 20.5 percent of the placements. Another 17,446 or 20.5 percent of the applicants filled service positions. The remaining placements were spread throughout other Allen said several factors aided Kentucky's continuing success linkng applicants and employers.

We've had about 30 satellite manufacturing job base with steady companies related to the Toyota plant in Georgetown begin operations and most of them use our services," he

"Those companies not only create their own jobs, our records show the new positions have a ripple effect, adding service sector jobs as well."

Another element in the record placement level is the fact that an estimated 1,300 Kentucky businesses now use the Department for Employment Services exclusively to meet its job placement needs.

Allen said, "We spend a significant amount of time emphasizing employer involvement. This year we've created a state Job Service Employer Committee and are encouraging local JSECs in all field offices." About 75 percent of the officers have a local ISÉC.

"Employer input is crucial to effectively serve employers and job seekers," said Allen. "Establishing a state JSEC brings employers together and encourages the exchange of business ideas and suggestions.

The 28 local Employment Service offices are called upon for a wide variety of services including job counseling and testing, job recruiting and employee skills workshops.

"We exceeded last year's placement goal of 74,700 by 14 percent,"
Allen said. "The visibility of our local offices over the last two years has multiplied the number of applicants using the department from 225,000 to nearly 400,000."

"We're proud of the job employees do in local offices and we recognize that it's a vital part of Kentucky's economy."

KEN'S SPORTS: STATE SOFTBALI

This is what we had set our goals on for this year," says Kenny Conley, coach of Ken's Sports Shop's state slow pitch softball champions.

Reaching that goal, they defeated The House of Trophies in the final game of the state double elimination tournament 9-0 at Owensboro last weekend.

The local team went 6-0 in the ter being the first game, a 7-6 win over The Stalkers.

With the championship, Ken's Sports Shop brought home the coveted trophy, declaring the team Kentucky's finest Class B slow pitch

The tournament involved 52 teams from around the state who converged playoffs with the only close encoun- on Owensboro for the Kentucky ASA Class B Slow Pitch Championships in which a total of 103 games were played.

In the championship game, Ken's Sports Shop scored early in the first inning with two runs, taking a 2-0 lead. Shelton walked and Bowensock doubled, scoring Shelton. Bowensock, who moved to third, scored on a

House of Trophies put a runner on base in the top of the first inning, but Ken's turned a 6-4-3 double play to halt any scoring.

The scored stayed 2-0 until the fourth when the Floyd County team plated three more runs. With one out, Hale singled and Howard followed suit with a base hit, putting runners on first and second.

After Bobby King's fly ball to left was caught for the second out, Mike McQuate lined a triple to right center, scoring Hale and Howard. McQuate scored on Jerry Fultz's base hit.

Four more runs crossed the plate in the home team's fifth. Tim Rice and Shelton lined base hits, leading off the inning. Bowensock went out to short field. Blankenship then lined a triple to left, bringing in Rice and Shelton. Hale tripled home Blankenship after Shepherd popped to short. Howard's base hit completed the scoring as Hale came in to score.

McQuate continued his torrid hitting with a three-hit outing, including his fourth triple of the tournament. Jerry Fultz had three hits for the winners with a second inning three-bagger. Shelton was three-forfour in the game.

Ken's scored four first inning runs and pushed across five in the second to overcome an 8-4 lead by Verable Chevrolet. Ken's scored three in the third, five in fourth and pushed across four in the sixth to win handily over Verable Chevrolet.

In the semifinals of the winners' bracket, World Tower fell to the eventual champions, 10-0. Jimmy Blankenship was three for four in the game with two doubles. Tim Rice chipped in with two hits as he picked up the win. At one point in the game, Rice had retired eight straight batIn the championship game of the winners' bracket, Ken's Sports Shop handled Vessels Roofing to the tune of 6-1. Vessel's lone run came in the first inning as Ken's scored three times in the bottom of the inning and never looked back. Hale had three hits for Ken's and Howard added two. According to Coach Conley, the victory in the tournament finally gave his team the title that has eluded them the past four years. "Now we have a first place trophy to go with the two second and one third place trophies we have," Conley stated. "This is the one we wanted to win and we have it." And they have the huge trophy to prove it! Ken's Sport's will take part in the 35 and over tournament next weekend. However, the team will not play in the Mid-West championships this year, which it won last season, because the group moves up to a higher class. For the local softball team, this has been an up and down year - not playing the good softball early that the players were capable of playing. As the season progressed they seem to right themselves for the tourna-

"We played the best defense that we have ever played," said Conley, "and we did not commit one error in the six games that we played. Our infield is about as good as it can get."

The House of Trophies made no noise in the last two innings, going out quietly. Tim Rice was the winning pitcher for Ken's Sports Shop.

In the only real challenge to the local softball champions, The Stalkers, who defeated Ken's Sports Shop in the Bluegrass Games in Lexington in July, fell 7-6 in game one.

The Stalkers took a 3-0 lead by scoring three times in the top of the first inning. Ken's came back with four in the bottom of the frame to take a 4-3 advantage. In the inning, Shelton led off with a base hit but was forced at second on a grounder by Bowersock. Blankenship singled, putting runners on first and second. Greg Shepherd then unloaded a threerun home run to tie the score. Hale singled following the homer and scored the go-ahead run on a base hit by Howard. Ken's took a 5-3 lead with a single run in the third inning. Mike McQuate's singled scored Hale, who reached on a fielder's choice.

It was 7-3 after five innings, following a two-run fifth for Ken's. Hale tripled with one out and scored again on another single off the bat of

The Stalkers stalked back in the sixth inning with two runs to make it 7-5 and pushed across a run in the top of the seventh to come within one run. However, Ken's held off the late charge and won 7-6. The Bluegrass Merchants furnished the opposition for the Floyd County team in game three. Ken's had an easy time with a 14-3 win. A five-run third opened up the game for the local squad. Shepherd had his second home run of the tournament, coming in the first inning with Blankenship on board.

Mike McQuate also had a home run leading off the second inning. The former McDowell star also tripled in the third and had doubles in the fifth and seventh innings. Howard had three hits, including a triple.

In game four, Shepherd and Blankenship played long ball as Ken's Sports defeated Verable Chevrolet, 21-9. Blankenship and Shepherd hit back-to-back home runs in the first inning. Shepherd's blast, a solo shot, was his third roundtripper of the Jenkins scored the touchdown with 9:03 remaining in the first quarter of the two 12-minute quarter game, when Chad Steneg carried the ball into the end zone from one yard out. Robbie Smith added the extra point to make it 7-0.

"I was really disappointed with our team on the first series of plays," says Coach Johnson. "We just weren't mentally ready to play at the start of the game. I told our players after the game that they can't wait until the game starts to get ready mentally, they have to do that before the game starts. It's not just all physical but Wheelwright, on first possession, put together a good drive. Mike Juson first down for a pick up of six yards. After Ryan Johnson moved the ball inside his team's own 40-yard line, freshman Arnold Adams took a hand off from quarterback Steve Shelton, who started in place of regular quarterback Steve Johnson, and moved to the Jenkins 26-yard line for a pick up of 14 yards and a Trojan first down.

Caudill got the call again on first down and rushed for 12 yards and another Trojan first down inside the 15 yard line of Jenkins. However, a clipping call against the Trojans assessed the Wheelwright team 15 yards and moved the ball back to the 29yard line for a first and 25 situation. The Trojan offense then bogged down and turned the ball over to the Cava-

The Allen Central Rebels football yards and a Rebel first down. team found the going rough at Jenkins in the EKMC Gridorama Saturday night against Fleming-Neon. Not only was the going rough offensively for the Rebels in the 21-0 loss, but the going was also rough on the field as the rains played havoc on the field.

Neon didn't waste any time putting points on the scoreboard, scoring on the first series of plays from the opening horn. It took the Letcher County team less than two minutes to hit pay dirt as Todd Kincer broke tackle and raced 45 yards for a touch-down. Ronnie Phipps added the ex-tra point to make it 7-0.

The Rebels showed they were capable of moving the football on their first possession, picking up three first downs. Fullback Tommy Gibson, a power runner, carried the ball on a second and 10 situation from the Robels' own 46, for 18 yards and a first down.

Rebel quarterback B.J. Aldrich picked up four yards on a sweep around right end. Gibson carried the next two times for 2 and 8-yard gains for another first down. On a fourth and five from Neon's 33-yard line, Gibson carried the ball for a plus 7

Todd Lucas moved the ball to Neon's 15-yard line. Aldrich's pass was incomplete to Lucas, and Clark was stopped at the line of scrimmage, bringing up a fourth and three. However, the Rebels were whistled for an illegal motion call and sent back to the Neon 19-yard line. Gibson carried out of the backfield for a 2yard pick up, and the Rebels were forced to turn the ball over to Neon on their 19.

Neon made it 14-0 with a TD with 3:16 remaining in the first quarter. Daniel Sexton carried the ball from 12 yards out for the score, and Phipps added the extra point. On the series of plays, Neon was caught with a second and 16 when Josh Fleming found a hole in the Rebel defense on a sweep to the right side and ran for 32 yards before he stumbled and fell with no one around him.

Neon added a final score middle ways of the second quarter to make the final margin of 21-0. Gibson carried the ball nine times for the Rebels for 56 yards rushing. The big senior running back seem to just bounce off would-be tacklers in the good outing. Fleming rushed for 55 yards on four carries for Neon. The Rebels will open their regular season Friday against Jenkins at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

Here's how spring flooding affected bass fishing

Well known bass tournament pro Ken Cook can't remember ever fishing under such drastic conditions, and he hopes he doesn't have to do it again.

Cook, a former fisheries biologist and now a member of the Evinrude Outboards pro staff, fished a tournament late this past spring during some of the heavy rains and flooding that hit portions of the nation.

În a word, fishing was tough. "During the two tournament days, the waterrose between six and seven feet," explains Cook. "I have fished rising water before, and it's normally a fairly good time to fish, but not when it comes up that much that

Cook was fishing a national tour-nament on Truman Lake in Missouri when the flooding occurred, and the fast rising river affected both fish and fishermen, says the Evinrude pro.

"The fish became very scattered," he explains. "Rising water usually moves bass to the newly flooded vegetation, but because the water rose so much, the fish had far more cover

"That cover changed from day to day, too, as the water continued to rise. We started fishing in practice when the bass were in shoreline bushes. Then, as the water rose, those bass moved to newly flooded willows. The next day the fish changed to flooded hardwoods, and after that, to something else.

"Because rising water tends to scatter fish, you want to use a fast moving lure like a spinnerbait so you can cover a lot of areas," he explains. "In this case, however, floating debris, particularly matted grasses, clogged spinnerbaits and buzz baits so they weren't effective."

As a result, Cook continues, anglers were forced to use slow-moving lures like jugs where they could better control the retrieves. They had to fish much slower and they couldn't cover as much water.

"I spoke with other anglers who fished lakes with similar flooding problems about the same time," says Cook, "and they encountered the same situation. You needed to fish fast to cover a lot of water, but you couldn't because you couldn't use fast moving lures effectively."

Water rising that dramatically creates other problems, as well, the Evinrude angler points out. One is that you can't relocate specific cover or structure that held bass just a day

"In practice I found a little logjam where I caught a seven-pound bass,"

When hydrilla is still under the surface, as it is throughout much of the winter and spring, Wharton recommends using a lure that dives deep enough to touch the top of the vegetation. This can be a spinnerbait or crankbait, although some use jigs.

Bass will hold down in the hydrilla or just above it," explains the Johnson pro, "but you have to keep your lure just above the vegetation so it doesn't get snagged. Most fishermen develop a feel for when the lure touches the grass, then adjust their retrieve to keep the lure above it.

"Getting the lure down is just part of the technique," continues Wharton. 'Lure speed is also important. Bass often want a fast-moving lure under these conditions, too. That's why a heavier spinnerbait often works better. It allows us to fish deeper water

Coach Johnson said that his team needs to get Brian Rhea more involved in the offense.

Daniels Complex gets new lights

Turn on the lights!

Something new has been added to the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central High School.

New lights will now brighten the Rebels football field. They have been installed and — hopefully — will be ready for Allen Central's Friday night encounter with the Jenkins Cavaliers in the Rebels' season opener.

The Right Beaver school has been without lights since the football field was first built. The Rebels were forced to start their games early and as the days became shorter, games had to be scheduled for Saturday afternoons.

Now with the installation of lights, the Rebels will play their games on Friday nights, allowing more fans to come out and enjoy the football

Coach Dewey Jamerson, new head football coach at Allen Central, says he is excited about the lights being installed. The inserting of lights at the field was a long time project of former principal Don Daniels and former head football coach Donnie Daniels. Both have since departed the Eastern school, however, both agree it is gratifying to see the lights installed.

Principal Daniels retired this year, and Coach Daniels moved to Wheelwright last season to take over the girl's basketball program.

Coach Jamerson says that the game with Jenkins Friday night, Aug. 17, will be played at 5 p.m. — just in case the lights are not be ready in time for the first game.

Look for the 49ers again

While most minds are still focused on the current baseball season, National Football League teams have been in camp for some time and are getting ready to open a new decade of football. I think it will be a great

Looking at the conferences, I still think that the Denver Broncos are tops in the AFC. Despite the fact that they can't seem to win the big one, they are a talented team, and we may see them getting another shot in the Super Bowl this season.

I'm very impressed with the way coach Marty Schottenheimer has the Kansas City Chiefs playing, and they might turn into a real powerhouse this year with guys like Christian Okoye coming into their own.

The Cleveland Browns also look to be strong again this year and playing for the conference title. If Bernie Kosar can stay healthy at quarterback, great things could happen for

In the NFC, there are some great division battles shaping up. Buddy Ryan's Philadelphia Eagles picked up Jim McMahon in the off season, the perfect backup for quarterback Randall Cunningham. I think it will make Cunningham an even better player and will help give them the edge in the NFC East.

An even better struggle is shaping up in the NFC Central with the Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions im-

Vikings and Chicago Bears remaining tough. Even Tampa Bay looks to be coming around. This may be the most competitive division in football. I don't really think there is a question as to who will be at the top of the NFC at the end of the season. San Francisco has earned everyone's respect. If the Los Angeles Rams can find consistency, it may be tough for the 49er's, but I'm sure that they will come out on top.

I really think the San Francisco 49ers are still the best team in football. They showed what they were made of last year by staying focused and winning consecutive Super Bowls, their fourth NFL championship overall. They now have an excellent chance to win another. They have mastered the competition and now see their real challenge as winning a fifth NFL title.

Although Steve Young played brilliantly subbing at quarterback when Joe Montana was injured last season (he would be the star of any other team in the league), the success of the 49ers depends on some key players staying healthy. If players like Roger Craig, Tom Rathman and Jerry Rice are able to play a full season, it will be hard to stop the 49ers from taking it again.

CHANGE IN SHOOT HOURS FOR WOOD DUCKS

Shooting hours for wood ducks will be one-half hour before sunrise until sunset during the Sept. 12-16

Opening hunting before sunrise on certain migratory bird seasons was recently allowed by the US Fish and Wildlife Service.

The change is good news for duck hunters because wood ducks are more active and apt to be taken just before sunrise.

Roberts wins three-mile run

Paintsville's Rick Roberts kept his winning streak alive with a win in the Sixth Annual Hatfield-McCoy Three Mile Run in Matewan, W. Va., over the past weekend:

Roberts found himself in a "dogfight" with Col. Bob Foglesong, an Air Force fighter pilot from Washington, DC. Roberts never dusted Foglesong until the last hill at the two-anda-half mark of the three-mile run. Roberts finished with a time of 15:56 to Foglesong's 16:14. The win was Roberts' third in a row.

Friday, before the race, Col. Foglesong received orders to go to the Middle East next week, Roberts said.

Tim Caudill finished third in the run with a 16:57. Caudill did hold the course record at 16:08 until Roberts'

Roberts will place his winning streak on the line as he travels to Memphis, Tenn., this weekend for the Elvis Presley International 5K Run. According to Roberts, it will also be the state championship.

"Several thousands will be in this race," said Roberts, who is trying to reach 400 races in his career this year. "That's when my winning streak will come to an end. I will be shooting to win and at the same time hoping to finish in the top one or two hundred."

Pigskin Report

HIGH SCHOOL SEASON AROUND THE CORNER

Well, the grid-o-ramas have all been played and the serious part of the 1990 football season is about to unfold as four of our county teams will be playing for a district title and hopefully a trip to the state. The real season starts this Friday night with Allen Central, Wheelwright and Betsy Layne getting in their first games. Prestonsburg will wait until Aug. 24 to innaugrate its season.

UK FOOTBALL OPENER SET FOR SEPT. 1

The University of Kentucky Wildcat football will get underway on Saturday, Sept. 1 as the Cats host Central Michigan. Some good news is that the Cats' road games may be on the tube on a pay per view basis. A decision on this should come within the next week. UK should be a strong team this year. The Cats may not be strong enough to win the SEC but will be more competitive in the conference this year.

GEORGETOWN WILL BE CONFERENCEFAVORITE

Georgetown College was once again picked by the Mid South Conference coaches to repeat as conference champion. Georgetown was 7-3-1 last season and went a perfect 6-0 in the conference.

of August, the Cincinnati Reds will be facing a tough schedule of games as they try to keep dodging the oncharging San Francisco Giants.

After a brief two-game encounter with the St. Louis Cardinals on the road (second game played tonight), the Reds will return home to face the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates, who are also trying to either catch or dodge the New York Mets (as of this writing the Mets led the Pirates by half of a

So it will not get any easier for the Reds even after the three-game set with the Pirates. Don Zimmer will bring his "hot" Chicago Cubs to Riverfront for a three-game series. The Cubs never seem to have problems with the Reds, whether at Wrigley or Riverfront. After that, it is on to Three Rivers Stadium for a four-game battle with the Pirates.

The Reds will complete their schedule with the Eastern Division with a Sept. 2 game with the Cubs at Wrigley Field. The Reds have four games remaining with the Giants, two at home and two away; six with the Los Angeles Dodgers, three at LA and three at home.

After the series with the Giants, the Reds have 44 games remaining, 22 at home and 22 away. Cincinnati will play its last six games of the regular season at home; Atlanta, three;

San Diego, three. A split of the remaining 44 games would give the Reds an 87-69 record, which would not be good enough for a divisional crown. It will take 96 wins to capture the title which means that the Reds would have to win 31 of the remaining 44 games. The Reds are 35-35 since June 10 and are not playing that good of baseball right now.

Can the Reds go 31-13 over the last 44 games? Who knows!

1990 BASS MASTERS CLASSIC

There are fishing tournaments, and then there are fishing tournaments. And of the thousands of angling contests across America each year, the BASS Masters Classic is the most prestigious of them all. In fact, just making the cut to the Classic is the goal of most American anglers who compete (or want to compete) in the BASS tournament trail.

Why? Because the BASS Masters Classic is the Super Bowl of bass fishing, the Test-of-the-Best. A total of 41 of the nation's best bass anglers will compete for the Classic crown. And the winner, the man who outfishes the rest of the best to be pronounced the world's finest bass angler is well

The 1990 BASS Masters Classic will again be held on the James River in Richmond, Va. And according to the tidal charts, the fishing should be even better than last year. The James is a large, fertile river that produces, on the average, bass in the 1- to 4pound range. Five- and six-pounders are common, and largemouths in the eight- to 10-pound range are caught

FUN FOR ALL

The BASS Masters Classic is not just a week for the tournament anglers, but a week of entertainment and adventure for the spectators who travel from across the country to participate in the excitement. Thousands of spectators will watch anglers such as Rick Clunn, Larry Nixon, Hank Parker, Guido Hibdon, Denny Brauer, Roland Martin, Ken Cook and Paul Elias launch their boats and weigh in their fish. People who are willing to spend the day on the banks of the James can watch these top pros try to catch the fish which will earn a check for $50,000.

On Wednesday, Aug. 22 from 8-10 a.m., you can meet all of the Classic Anglers at Dorey Park in Richmond (ask for directions when you get to Richmond). Bring a camera, lots of film, and anything you want the

Commission to meet Monday

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission meetings are going to be longer in the future.

Beginning with its next scheduled meeting, Aug. 20 and 21, the commission will spend two days instead of the traditional one discussing fish and wildlife issues.

The first day will be devoted primarily to reviewing programs and receiving updates from Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources staff members. Decisions on scheduled agenda items will be made on the second day of the meeting.

Meetings on both days are open to

It approves the department's budget, sets fish and wildlife regulations (including season dates and limits) and generally oversees the operation of the depart-

The tournament dates are Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug 23-25. At 6:15 a.m. each day, the public is invited to attend the Launching of the Pro's at Osborne Boat Landing in Richmond. The Weigh In Show, held in the Richmond Coliseum, starts at 2:15 each afternoon.

The Classic Outdoor Show, one of the largest fishing/boating shows in the country, will be open to the public during the Classic. Hours are: Thursday and Friday, noon-7 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-7 p.m.

Also, a fully rigged BASS Masters Classic Ranger Boat/Evinrude XP 150 outboard combo will be given away to one lucky spectator. This rig is valued in excess of $20,000 and is exactly like the ones the pros will be fishing from. You can register for the boatatthe Classic Outdoor Show, but you must be present at the final weigh in on Saturday to win.

Masters Classic program will air Sunday, Sept. 16 from 12:30-1:30 p.m. and then again from 10:30-11:30 p.m. FOR TOURNAMENT ANGLERS

This year, tournament anglers attending the Classic might want to check out a unique fishing workshop called "How to Promote Yourself and Attract Sponsors." The goal of the workshop is to help tournament anglers better their career by attracting financial sponsorship and muchneeded media exposure.

The workshop will include such topics as: what sponsors look for in an angler, the proper way to approach a sponsor, where to find sponsors, how to work with the press and how to gain positive exposure.

The workshop will be conducted by Tim Tucker, the BASSMASTER senior writer who has covered the tournament scene for several years, and Mike Walker, creator of awardwinning fishing promotions and one of the dominant advertising men in the fishing industry.

Seminar participants will receive a supply of publicity photos, a supply of professionally written resumes, sample press releases, sample letters for approaching sponsors and a seminar workbook for later reference. All-time fishing great, Roland Martin, says, "Anyone who is serious about a career in fishing cannot afford to miss this workshop. I only wish that it had been available when was starting out!"

Cost of the workshop is $200, and seating is limited. To enroll and reserve your place, send a check or money order to Walker Communications Inc., 7950 E. Acoma, Suite 102, Scottsdale, AZ 85260. For Visa and MasterCard orders, or for more information, call toll-free 1-800-248-

Attacked by a rogue phrase

by Aaron Pass
As the Scottish poet Robert Burns so aptly observed, "The best laid schemes o' mice an' men.....Gang aft Agley." This is also true of the stirring outdoor prose that graces our hunting and fishing magazines and col-

Often these are mere glitches such as typos, word transpositions or benign redundancies. Most of us who essay to picture verbally the great outdoors have been guilty of such phrasing as, "....as the sun was set-ting in the west," — forgetting in our attempt at eloquence that the sun hardly ever sets elsewhere.

Sometimes the errors are more factual. One writer redundantly advised that, "Wetlands are always damp." Another was no mathematician: "America's four species of catfish — the blue, the channel and the flathead - may be caught...." And one was a bit hazy on geography, reporting that when the crappie are biting on a certain lake, "the word spreads up the East Coast as far as Ohio."

However, sometimes the words take a weird turn so that the error itself makes a strange kind of sense. Here is a sampler of rogue phraseology that conjures up mental images wholly unintended by the writer.

Apparently looking for cheap thrills as well as a trophy, a deer hunter wrote that he waited for two hours for "the big buck to come into a clearing and expose himself." Another claimed that he "shot a buck out of my tree stand." He did not report how the buck got up there.

Reporting on what may well be the worst case of flinching we've ever heard of, a writer related, "When Joe took a quick shot at the big buck, he swapped ends in midair and bolted into the brush." Deer hunters are not the only victims of transposed thought. Consider this case of grand larceny—auto. "Going back to camp for lunch, I saw a turkey driving my truck down the road."

Occasionally a writer will hybridize two different words, giving the editor a vexing choice. One writer advised that, "the key to success is versarility." We weren't sure if he meant versatility or virility, as either makes a good point. The same person in the same story also said that while stalking a deer, he had "violated a carnal rule." Perhaps he had been in the woods too long.

But above all else, the unclear pronoun antecedent leads to the most interesting mental images such as, The ducks were headed straight for the blind where the hunters waited with their wings cupped and their feet outstretched."

To give fishermen their fair due in the world of poor word choice, we present the angling expert who wrote, When you catch a trout at a given depth, it is seldom a fluke." Ouite so, but conversely, when you catch a fluke at any depth, it is almost never

And fittingly, it is another angler who takes top honors for stretching his syntax into quite a fish story. The writer reports that a record crappie was "caught on a live minnow weighing five pounds, 1 ounce." Not only would I be happy to catch fish the size of that guy's bait, I would love to see the crappie that bit a five pound

The number one killer in Kentucky and the nation is heart disease, and it can strike at any time. That's why Our Lady of the Way Hospital is now part of the Heart Emergency Network, a system designed to reduce the time between the onset of a heart attack and the initiation of advanced medical treatment. By combining the resources of Our Lady of the Way Hospital and the Saint Joseph Heart Institute, the Heart Emergency Network assures you of receiving the most advanced cardiac services available.

It's A Matter Of Time.

The sooner a heart attack victim receives treatment, the better the chances for complete recovery. The Heart Emergency Network brings immediate cardiac emergency services to where they're needed most: right here at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. We can administer clot-dissolving drugs right in our Emergency Room, quickly restoring cardiac functions and helping minimize damage to the heart.

And we have a direct 24-hour electronic communication link to the physicians at the Saint Joseph Heart Institute.

Know The Signs.

The first step to saving your heart is to lead a heart-healthy lifestyle, which includes eating a high-fiber, low-fat diet; exercising; and not smoking. The next step is to know the symptoms of a heart attack so that you know when to seek help. The warning signs include:

■ Pain, pressure, fullness, or a squeezing sensation in the center of the chest, lasting 2 minutes or longer. Severe pain that radiates to the shoulders, arms, or neck.

 Shortness of breath, dizziness, fainting, nausea, or sweating.

Some of these symptoms may not be present, or they may subside and return. Any one of them needs immediate attention, and we're ready to give it, any time, day or night.

Going for records

Baseball must keep track of more records than any other sport. Every possible variation of hitting and fielding is there in the record book. Some ords. are pretty obscure. I wouldn't be surprised to hear a sportscaster say a player had just set the record for most consecutive singles by a left-hander in the American League during a twilight doubleheader while batting as a designated hitter.

But some records are important, and when a player is closing in on a big one, the pressure really increases. The media follows the player's every move, and it gets to be like he's under a microscope.

This year Cal Ripkin Jr. of the Baltimore Orioles has set fielding records, including most consecutive chances by a shortstop without an error. Cal also has not missed playing a game for years. As time goes on, he gets closer to Lou Gehrig's record of 2,130 straight games set from 1925 to 1939. That was a record no one thought would ever be challenged.

There has been some speculation by the media that Cal's play was suffering because of these records. The suggestion has been made that a day off would help, and the only reason he was still being played every game was to continue the streak.

I don't think so. Cal is the kind of player who can live with pressure. If he wasn't, he would have bowed out of the consecutive game streak long ago. I agree with his manager, Frank Robinson: You've got to play the best player available for each position, and there's nobody better than Ripkin at shortstop. The man is fielding his promised to no one.

position flawlessly. I've seen him make plays that other shortstops would never attempt. So I don't think he's uptight at all about these rec-

Now I have my own perspective on records from the time I broke Babe Ruth's all-time home-run record when I hit my 715 in April 1974. I feel that the best thing for a player is to approach every game as if it had no meaning or importance beyond the desire to win and to play the best game possible. You can't think about records when you go to the plate not if you are a professional athlete.

Roger Maris was another player who faced pressure when he broke Babe Ruth's single season home run record by hitting 61 homers. Roger had it tougher than I did. He was on a time limit. It had to be done in that one season. Roger also played in New York City, the media capital of the world, and the Yankees had more writers traveling with them than

The press only started hounding me after I reached 700 homers. But after playing over 20 years in the major leagues, I wasn't going to let breaking a record get me uptight and unable to swing the bat the way I knew I could swing it. You can't play this game uptight.

I finished 1973 needing just one more homer to tie Ruth and another to break the record. Those home runs came quickly in 1974, the record coming at the Braves' home opener. I was thankful for that, because in baseball and in life, tomorrow is

Fishathon finds 2 more winners

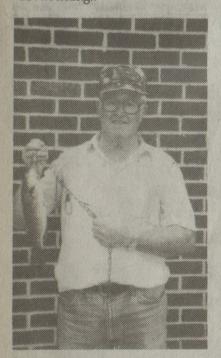

It was a good week for two Floyd County anglers as they were the lucky ones to catch some nice bass and exchange them for prizes.

John Huffman of Prestonsburg won two $50 awards. He won a $50 gift certificate from Ken's Sport's Shop and also $50 in cash from the Floyd County Health Department.

Paul C. Combs of Prestonsburg received a check for $100 from Giovanni's Pizza of Prestonsburg.

The tagged fish are part of the Prestonsburg Tourism Committee's ongoing program to help bring tourists into the Prestonsburg area. The committee recently turned loose 150 small mouth and 150 largemouth bass into the river and lake.

There are still plenty of tagged fish in the river and lake. Thousands of dollars in cash and prizes are just waiting for anglers to catch. Be sure to get a Fishathon Tag in order to be eligible for that big catch. Good Fishing!!

Milestones help parents identify kid's nutrition needs

Because parents are the primary influence on children's nutrition, they need accurate information to make healthful food choices, according to Jeannette Endres, registered dietitian and professor at Southern Illinois University.

Endres counsels many parents on numerous nutrition situations using "developmental milestones" that segment childhood nutrition into age groups: infants to 12 months, toddlers 1 to 3 years, preschoolers 3 to 5 years, and children 6 to 8 years. INFANTS TO 12 MONTHS

"Now that he can eat solid food, he loves to break crackers and squish bananas," observes one parent, describing her infant's interest in exploring food.

For baby, eating is more than just food—it's a time to squish, mash and fling — all in the process of learning. Encouraging children to explore tastes and textures is an important part of their sensory and motor development, Endres said. Parents should introduce a variety of foods then allow children to "explore."

TODDLERS, 1 TO 3 YEARS

"The mere sight of spinach makes her scream," marveled the frustrated parent of a two-year-old.

Toddlers may refuse food during this stage, Endres explains. Although it can be discouraging, Endres advises parent to keep their sense of humor and to realize that this, too,

This is a critical time for influencing a lifetime of good eating habits, so try not to use food as a reward or a eat certain type of food simply because their parents are so insistent that they try it," she explained.

As toddlers near their second birthdays, their growth rates slow and they eat less — even though they are more active. During this period, Endres suggests high-energy foods that provide protein, calcium and iron such as eggs, milk, iron-enriched cereals and a variety of meats.

PRESCHOOL/YOUNG ELE-MENTARY, 3 TO 5 YEARS "He won't eat meat or carrots but he loves peanut butter," complains the parent of a preschooler. Preschool and young elementary school children sometimes become "picky eaters," so parents need to make sure the foods they do eat have plenty of nutrients, Endres explains. Parents should offer nutrient-rich foods such as yogurt, cooked, tender carrots, oranges, chicken and other meats.

Supplement regular meals with between-meal snacks to ensure a balanced diet. Healthy snacks might include vanilla wafers and milk or fresh fruit salad.

CHILDREN, 6 TO 8 YEARS

"She wants to choose her own clothes, television shows and even her own meals!" exclaims the parent of an independent 6-year-old.

At this stage, children often want to make their own choices. Parents should provide a selection of nutri-

Billions available for home repair grants and loans

Most homeowners are unaware that regardless of their income there are federal, state and local programs that will help them repair and remodel their homes.

Government at all levels recognizes that neighborhoods are the basis of life in our country. When a neighborhood deteriorates, many things happen both physically and socially. Homes that are shabby seem to make a neighborhood more attractive to crime and criminals. An area in decline is like a spreading cancer.

As homes become rundown and in need of maintenance, the residents lose their desire to keep up the neighborhood. Streets become receptacles for trash, schools lower their standards and very quickly the selling price of homes in the area drops sharply. This accelerates the cycle of degeneration.

In order to keep and maintain the nation's housing and neighborhoods, government at all levels has programs to give homeowners money (that does not have to be repaid) for repairs or to lend them money at below market levels or at no interest.

In many areas utility companies will do energy conservation work free or at low cost and in other places will lend homeowners money at no interest to pay the contractor of their choice for the necessary work. In addition there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

These programs are not restricted to low-income people, slum areas or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single or multi-family dwellings are eligible for some programs regardless of income. Most of the loans offer long terms and low payments. Some of the other home improvements covered under these programs are: attic and wall insulation, new windows, outerwall siding, security doors and locks, window guards, sidewalks and masonry work, bathrooms and kitchens, electrical and plumbing work, new roofs, gutters or downspouts.

Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, has just published "Consumers Guide to Home Repair Grants and Subsidized Loans," a 208page book which lists over 8,500 sources of loan and grant programs offered by all levels of government, utility companies and others, typical programs offered and eligibility requirements.

Form letters for inquiries to these loan and grant sources are included, as well as detailed instructions on determining your debt-to-income ratio for eligibility. The book can be obtained for $10.95 plus $2 shipping and handling from CERC GRANTS, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, N.J. 07050, or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 for credit card order.

Beetles emerging from soil; ready to damage crops soon

Green June beetles are emerging from the soil and may damage trees, shrubs, fruits and vegetables in the coming weeks, according to an entomologist at the University of Ken-

The beetles feed on the leaves of many trees and plants as well as corn ears, ripening fruit and garden vegetables, said Lee Townsend, an Extension specialist with the UK College of Agriculture. Green June beetles especially enjoy thin-skinned fruits, such as peaches, grapes, blackberries and raspberries.

The pests are about one inch long and have velvety green wing covers and bronze to yellow areas along the side of the body.

Green June beetles are active in lawns and grassy areas in the early morning and late afternoon. They burrow into the soil, leaving small mounds of loose soil that resemble miniature mole burrows. At night, they stay under debris or in the soil. Birds, especially blackbirds and robins, are useful natural enemies of the beetles, Townsend said. A physical barrier such as cheese cloth may be used to protect small plantings.

Green June beetle populations also can be reduced with Sevin, which is Gardeners can increase the num- should be an inch of water in the ber of blooms and extend the season of annuals by mulching, fertilizing, watering, removing dead blooms and pruning, according to a University of Kentucky horticulturist.

"For most annuals, the major summer problem is having enough soil moisture," said Sharon Bale, an Extension specialist with the UK College of Agriculture. "Inadequate soil moisture is critical, especially when plants are heat stressed.

Mulching is one of the best ways to retain soil moisture and moderate other environmental extremes, according to Bale.

said. "Mulched flower beds do not dry out as quickly during extremely dry periods. It also helps moderate soil temperature. Some annuals such as New Guinea Impatiens need bright sunshine for maximum growth, but their roots grow better at a lower soil temperature.'

Mulching also helps reduce weed competition.

If a little fertilizer is good, a lot of fertilizer definitely is not better, Bale added. Frequent applications of high levels of fertilizer can cause annual flowers to produce fewer and smaller

If an organic mulch, such as straw, bark or grass clippings, is used, natural decomposition of the mulch may tie up some of the available nitrogen in the soil. Therefore, annuals can benefit from some added nitrogen fertilizer. A water-soluble fertilizer is fertilize individual plants rather than having to cover a large area. "Watering will be necessary sometimeduring the growing season," Bale said. "Watering may seem simple, but it is one of the hardest gardening tasks to do right. Common mistakes are watering at the wrong time of day and not applying enough water. "Because many people work, late afternoon or the evening is the most convenient time to water. However, watering in the late afternoon or evening is not good for the garden because the foliage stays wet at night and this helps promote many disease problems."

Bale recommended using a leaky pipe or a soaker hose, which direct water at the soil rather than the foliage. Since these mechanisms are placed only where water is needed, they conserve water.

"When you do decide to water the garden, water, don't sprinkle," she said. "Frequent, light watering tends to bring plant roots too close to the soil surface, and plants generally don't tolerate periods of dry weather. Apply about two inches of water at a time to

The Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center has won something to be proud of. It has been named the best senior citizens center in the region and is one of four senior citizens centers across the state competing for the "Senior Center of the Year

In its first year, the competition is sponsored by the Kentucky Division for Aging Services and Kentucky Association of Area Agencies on Aging. The competition is designed to recognize Kentucky's best senior

Also, one of the goals of this competition is to give centers the opportunity to educate the judges about the network. Judging teams consist of staff from the governor's office and representatives from other key areas.

Judging was first done on the Area Development District level. The 15 ADD winners were rejudged to select the regional winners. Prestonsburg center won on these two levels. The statewide judging will be in September, and all participants will be recognized at the annual center directors' workshop awards banquet. The statewide winner will receive a monetary award and a trophy.

The Prestonsburg Center has about 500 members with an average of 45bound members.

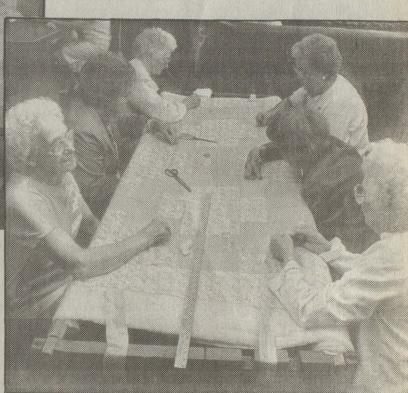

Evans said that the local support from organizations like Prestonsburg Community College and the Rotary Club helped tremendously in the judging on both levels. She also noted that the judging helped staff members to evaluate their center and determine if there was something that they were not offering.

Not only does the center provide the activities pictured at right, but also day and weekend trips to plays, craft shows, Renfro Valley, Nashville, Tenn., and other places. And, the center provides transportation to physicians and shopping centers and anywhere else there is a need.

This week Kentucky corn is the topic of discussion. Here are some informative tidbits and recipes from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service, brought to us via Frances Pitts, Floyd County home economist. Corn is an American cereal plant that was popular even before Columbus discovered our country. Fresh ears of corn are moist and sweet with plump, tender kernels. They can be roasted on the grill, made into a corn pudding, pickled as a relish, cooked cream style or whole kernel.

FRESH IS BEST

For best flavor, eat fresh corn soon after picking or purchasing. Serve for lunch or dinner. While fresh corn is most flavorful, it freezes extremely well on the cob or cut off. Freezing corn in the summer means enjoying its good flavor and nutrition throughout the year. Corn provides carbohydrates and also some vitamin A, protein, thiamin, riboflavin and niacin. One average size ear has about 70 calories.

They camped at Poncha Springs and Barr Lake State Park.

Campers making the trip were Don and Maxine Goble, George and Laura Vaughan, Dallas and Ruby Sammons, Tom and Mary Nell Bingham, Jessica and Erica McKinney, all of Prestonsburg; Jimmy and Melva Clevinger of Pikeville; and Red and Betty Miller and Russ and Joyce Williams of Franklin, Ohio.

They were joined at Poncha Springs by friends of the Binghams, Betty and Norm Tripp of Tucson, Ariz., and a cousin of the Vaughans, Art and Betty Harris of Montrose,

They also visited Aspen, where they played in the snow; Cripple Creek and Georgetown, both gold mining towns; the Monarch Pass, where they crossed the Continental Divide; the Denver Mint and Leadville, where they took a train to one of the highest peaks.

Heading back, they spent a day in Cheyenne, Wyo., where they visited the beautiful state capitol. The next day took them to the home in Nebraska of William (Buffalo Bill) Cody. In Pella, Iowa, one of the young campers, Jessica McKinney, celebrated her 13th birthday at a pizza party at the Pizza Hut.

The complete trip took the campers through Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana. Despite the cool weather in the mountains and the tiring pace, everyone had an unforgettable time.

An exceptional teacher

So many of you have asked me to write about our Floyd County teachers' situation. And, yes I've shied away from the subject. Only until I got the chance to read a speech prepared by Carol Stumbo.

I understand this was the same speech she gave at the Aug. 8 meeting at Prestonsburg High School. I was told the speech was heartbreaking and after reading it, mine was broken.

If you've read Kim's Korner in the past, you may know that Carol Stumbo is my all time favorite teacher. I cannot express in words what this lady means to me. An exceptional teacher, caring, giving, sharing are just a few words to describe her character.

Thirteen years ago, I, along with other classmates, did not have the chance to participate in the writing program. What I would have given to be a part of that. What I would give to have my daughters have the opportunity to experience such a program with her. But, it's not going to happen. Ms. Stumbo is returning to the classroom from what I understand. But, her fight for Floyd County students will

The hours this lady gave to us were long into the night. Long after the school bell rang for us to end our day. The papers she carried home to mark with those dreaded red pens. The lessons, activities, debates, she planned at home for us to encounter the next day. The phone calls she got from us at an unrespectable hour of night. All denote the amount of energy the lady had and the amount of respect we had for her. We needed her, and she was

She's a soft-spoken lady with strong words to speak. And her words are well worth hearing. To think of possibly losing a teacher of her caliber chills my spine.

When Embry's needed a new health insurance company, they returned to a familiar label.

A few years back, Embry's of Lexington left Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky for another health insurance company. They said our rates were too high. In 1989, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky welcomed a new client — Embry's of Lexington. Now, why would a company who left us want to come back? Embry's learned the hard way that some health insurers lure new business with low rates the first year - often to follow up with steep rate hikes in succeeding years.

So Embry's signed up with us again. For a fair price. For value. For service. For the most recognized health care card in Kentucky. And Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky has taken steps to insure that Embry's - as well as companies across the commonwealth - joins the growing number of businesses that stay with us year after year.

We're concerned about rising health care costs. So we're working with our customers to control claims, cut administrative costs and keep our company on sound financial ground. We want to deliver the best value in health insurance possible - a value that will build strong, longterm relationships with every customer we have.

We have not reached all our goals. Not yet. But we're on our way. Choose us again, or for the first time. And choose the health plan companies across Kentucky are coming back to.

Good isn't good enough anymore.

been preparing for this day by purchasing new clothes, buying school supplies, and filling out registration and medical forms," said Detlef B. Moore, executive director of the Kentucky Dental Association. "Hopefully, you haven't forgotten the back to school dental appointment."

During a back to school check-up, a dentist can conduct a thorough examination and prepare the child with a dental regimen for the next year, or until the next dental appoint-

Following are some of the areas a dentist will explore in a back to school

Tooth decay, or dental caries, is the major cause of tooth loss in children. It is caused by bacteria from foods containing sugars and starches. A dentist will spot cavities during a routine visit, but also will advise the child about foods that create cavitycausing bacteria.

Some form of periodontal disease affects about 40 percent of children and about 70 percent of youths in the United States. An early sign of periodontal disease is swollen gums that bleed easily, especially when

Children need smaller brushes "If you're a typical parent, you've specifically designed for them. Generally, a brush with soft, end-rounded or polished bristles is recommended because it is less likely to injure gum tissue. All children go through toothbrushes quickly. A dentist will recommend suitable brushes, as well as

A dentist will check to make sure the child is getting the appropriate levels of fluoride, one of the most effective elements for preventing tooth decay. Even though the regular water supply may be fluoridated, it is still important to discuss with the dentistany additional fluoride needs the child may have.

Sealants are clear or shaded plastic materials that can be painted onto decay-prone surfaces of the teeth. By forming a thin covering over the pits and fissures, the sealants keep plaque and food out of the crevices in the teeth, reducing the risk of decay.

Malocclusion is a condition in which the teeth are crowded, crooked and out of alignment with each other, making them difficult to clean. As a result, they are more likely to decay, and the gums more likely to become inflamed. A dentist may refer a child to an orthodontist, a dentist who teeth are brushed. If the child participates in a sport, the dentist can fit him or her with a mouthguard to protect teeth during practice sessions and the actual competition. Mouth protectors guard against injuries to the entire mouth area, especially the teeth, lips, cheeks and tongue. They also protect against head and neck injuries by cushioning blows that might otherwise cause concussions and lead to jaw fractures.

Smokeless tobacco is a dangerous addiction that carries multiple dangers, including oral cancer and heart disease. As little as three to four months of smokeless tobacco use can cause periodontal disease and produce precancerous lesions. Tobacco in any form can jeopardize a child's health and cause incurable damage. A dentist can graphically explain the hazards of smokeless tobacco to a young person who thinks it's cool.

"TRAVELING ON" WITH OUR FLOYD COUNTY TIMES

It's never too early to introduce a NEW reader/subscriber to the Floyd County Times. In the photograph, Harmison Hale joins his 6 month old name-sake grandson Kaehn Harmison Hale, in Minneapolis, Minn. reviewing the important headlines of a recent issue of the Times, taken along by Harmison and Eva in their visit to the Minn. Lake Country.

Kaehn Harmison was looking for a release reference to a recent honor—that of receiving a proclamation by Governor Wilkerson which in essence is a forerunner to a "Kentucky Colonel" honor.

Both the grandfather and the grandson thoroughly enjoyed the Times together. An application for a subscription for the younger Hale should be coming forward in the not too distant future.

Frozendesserts with Simplesse Several fat and sugar substitutes have are packaged like ice cream and are been developed in recent years.

"Consumers should know the characteristics of fat substitutes and most benefit from these products," said Fudeko Maruyama, an extension food and nutrition specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"It is necessary to know the sugar equivalent of artificial sweeteners and whether these and fat substitutes are heat stable," the nutritionist said.

One fat substitute, Simplesse, has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. Another, Olestra, is awaiting FDA approval.

Simplesse, manufactured from egg whites and milk protein, has the taste and texture of fat without the calories, Maruyama said. It has about one to two calories per gram, compared to nine calories per gram for fat.

"Heat causes the product to break down," she added. "So it cannot be used in cooked or baked foods, but it can be used on hot foods.

"Although products are not available at this time, sour cream made with Simplesse could be used on baked potatoes and coffee whitener could be used in hot coffee. Other potential products containing Simplesse are mayonnaise, cream cheese, salad dressings, artificial butter and cheese spreads.

The FDA has approved Simplesse as a Generally Regarded as Safe (GRAS) food additive in frozen desserts, according to Maruyama. Frozen desserts made with Simplesse are being test marketed in Louisville, Although frozen desserts made with artificial fat are intended to be used as a substitute for ice cream, they cannot be called ice cream because of FDA regulations, according to Maruyama.

FDA "Standards of Identity" require a product to contain a minimum amount of certain ingredients. For instance, ice cream must contain "The FDA approval process is long and complex, so it is unclear when Olestra will be declared safe for use in foods."

Consumers may choose from three FDA-approved artificial sweeteners, Sweet 'n Low, Equal and Sweet One.

Sweet 'n Low (saccharin) is 300 times sweeter than sugar; one packet is the equivalent of one teaspoon of sugar. It is heat stable and can be used in cooking and baking.

Equal (aspartame) is 180 times sweeter than sugar; one packet is equivalent to one teaspoon of sugar. It is not heat stable and may lose its sweetness over time.

Sweet One (acesulfame-K) is 200 times sweeter than sugar; one packet is equivalent to two teaspoons of sugar. It is heat stable.

"These sugar substitutes generally work best in recipes the manufacturers develop specifically for their product," Maruyama said.

4.2 There shall be two (2) classes of building sewer permits:j (a) for residential and commercial service, and (b) for service to establishments producing industrial wastes. In either case, owner(s) or his agent shall make applica-tion on a special form furnished by the City. The permit application shall be supplemented by any plans, specifications, or other information considered pertinent in the judgment of the Superintendent. A permit and inspection fee of twenty five ($25,00) dollars for a residential or commercial building sewer permit shall be paid to the City at the time the application is filed.

4.3 All costs and expenses incidental to the installation and connection of the building sewer shall be borne by the owner(s). The owner(s) shall indemnify the City from any loss or damage that may directly or indirectly be occasioned by the installation of the building sewer.

single connection aforementioned.
4.5 Old building sewers may be used in connection with new buildings only when they are found, on examination and test by the Superintendent, to meet all requirements of this ordinance.

4.6 The size, slope, alignment, materials of construction of a building sewer, and methods to be used in excavating, placing of the pipe, jointing, testing and backfilling the trench, shall all conform to the requirements of the building and plumbing code or other applicable rules and regulations of the City. and materials must be approved by the Superintendent before installation.
4.7 Whenever possible, the building sewer shall be brought to the building at an elevation below the basement floor. In all buildings in which any building drain is too low to permit gravity flow to the public sewer, sanitary sewage carried by such building drain shall be lifted by an approved means and discharged to the building sewer.

4.8 No person(s) shall make connection of roof downspouts, Foundation drains, aeraway drains, areaway drains or other sources of surface runoff or groundwater to a building sewer or building s ing drain which in turn is connected directly or indirectly to a public sanitary sewerunless such connection is approved by the Superintendent for purposes of disposal of polluted surface drawings. 4.9 The applicant for the building sewer permit shall notify the Superintendent when the building sewer is ready for inspection and connection to the public sewer. The connection and testing shall be made under the supervision of the 4.10 All excavations for the building sewer installation shall be adequately guarded with barricades and lights so as to protect the public from hazard. 5.2 Stormwater other than the exempted under Section 5.1, Article 5, and all other unpublished all other unpolluted drainage shall be discharged to such sewers as are specifically designated as combined sewers to storm sewers to a natural outlet approved by the Superintendent and other regulatory agencies. Unpolluted industrial discharged, on approval of the Superintendent, to a storm sewer, combined sewer, or natural outlet. 5.3 No person(s) shall discharge or cause to be discharged any of the following described waters or waters to any cooling water or process waters may be

(a) Any gasoline, benzene, naptha, fuel, oil, or other flammable or explosive liquid, solid, or gas. (b) Any waters containing toxic or poisonous solids, liquids, or gases in sufficient quantity, either singly or by interaction with other wastes, to injure or interfere with any waste treatment process, constitute a hazard to humans or animals, create a public nuisance, or create any hazard in the receiving waters of the wastewater treatment plant.

(c) Any waters or wastes having a pH lower than (5.5), or having any other corrosive property capable of causing damage or hazard to structures, equipment, and personnel or the wastewater

(d) Solid or viscous substances in quantities or of such size capable of caus-ing obstruction to the flow in sewers, or other interference with the proper operation of the wastewater facilities such as, but not limited to, ashes, bones, cinders, sand, mud, straw, shavings, metal, glass, ground garbage, whole blood, paunch manure, hair and fleshings, entrails and paper dishes, cups, milk containers, etc., either whole or ground by garbage grind-

5.4 The following described substances, materials, waters, or waste shall be limited in discharges to municipal systems to concentrations or quantities which will not harm either the sewers, wastewater treatment process or equipment, will not have an adverse effect on the receiving stream, or will not otherwise endanger lives, limb, public property, or constitute nuisance. The Superintendent may set limitations lower than the limitations established in the regulations below if in his opinion such more severe limitations are necessary to meet the above object tives. In forming his opinion as to the acceptability, the Superintendent will give consideration to such factors as the quantity of subject waste in relation to lows and velocities in the sewers, materials of construction of the sewers, the wastewater treatment process employed, capacity of the wastewater treatment plant, degree of treatability of the waste in the wastewater treatment plant, and other pertinent factors. The limitations or restrictions on materials or characteristics of waste or wastewaters discharged to the sanitary sewer which shall not be violated without approval of the Super-intendent are as follows:

(a) Wastewater having a temperature higher than 1501 Fahrenheit (65' Celsius). (b) Wastewater containing more than

(g) Any radioactive wastes or isotopes of such half life or concentration as may exceed limits established by the Superintendent in compliance with applicable state or federal regulations.

(h) Quantities of flow, concentrations, or both which constitute a "slug" as de-

(i) Waters or wastes containing substances which are not amenable to treatment or reduction by the wastewater treatment processes employed, or are amenable to treatment only to such degree that the wastewater treatment plant effluent cannot meet the requirements of other agencies having jurisdiction over discharge to the receiving waters.

Legals

(j) Any water or wastes which, by interaction with other water or wastes in the public sewer system, release obnoxious gases, form suspended solids which interfere with the collection system, or create a condition deleterious to structure and treatment processes.

5.5 If any waters or wastes are discharged or are proposed to be discharged to the public sewers, which waters contain the substances or possess the characteristics enumerated in Section 5.4 of this Article, and which in the judgment of Superintendent, may have a deleterious effect upon the wastewater facilities, processes, equipment, or receiving waters, or which otherwise create a hazard to life or constitute a public nuisance, the Superintendent may: (a) Reject the wastes

(b) Require pretreatment to an acceptable condition for discharge to the public

(c) Require control over the quantities and rates of discharge, and/or

(d) Require payment to cover added cost of handling and treating the wastes not covered by existing taxes or sewer charges under the provisions of Section

When considering the above alternatives, the Superintendent shall give consideration to the economic impact of each alternative on the discharger. If the Superintendent permits the pretreatment or equalization of waste flows, the design and installation of the plants and equipment shall be subject to the review and approval of the Superintendent.

5.6 Grease, oil, and sand interceptors shall be provided, when, in the opinion of the Superintendent, they are necessary for the proper handling of liquid wastes containing floatable grease in excessive amounts, as specified in Section 5.4(c), or any flammable wastes, sand, or other harmful ingredients; except that such interceptors shall not be required for private living quarters or dwelling units. All interceptors shall be of a type and capac ity approved by the Superintendent, and shall be located as to be readily and easily accessible for cleaning and inspection. In the maintaining of these interceptors the owner(s) shall be responsible for the proper removal and disposal by appro-priate means of the captured material and shall maintain records of the dates, and means of disposal which are subject to review by the Superintendent. Any removal and hauling of the collected material not performed by owner(s)' personnel must be performed by currently licensed waste disposal firms.

5.7 Where pretreatment or flow-equalizing facilities are provided or required for any waters or wastes, they shall be maintained continuously in satisfactory and effective operation by the owner(s)'

5.8 When required by the Superintendent, the owner of any property serviced by a building sewer carrying industrial wastes shall install a suitable structure together with such necessary meters and other appurtenances in the building sewer to facilitate observation, sampling and measurement of the wastes. Such structure, when required, shall be accessibly and safely located and shall be constructed in accordance with plans approved by the Superintendent. The structure shall be installed by the owner at his expense and shall be maintained by him so as to be safe and accessible at all times.

5.9 The Superintendent may require a user of sewer services to provide information needed to determine compliance with this ordinance. These requirements may include: (1) Wastew and volume over a specified time period. (2) Chemical analyses of wastewaters. (3) Information on raw materials, proc-

ses, and products affecting wastewater volume and quality

(4) Quantity and disposition of specific liquid, sludge, oil, solvent or other materials important to sewer use control.

(5) A plot-plan of sewers of the user's roperty showing sewer and pretreatent facility location.

(6) Details of wastewater pretreatment

(7) Details of systems to prevent and control the losses of materials through spills to the municipal sewer. 5.10 All measurements, tests and analyses of the characteristics of waters and astes to which reference is made in this ordinance shall be determined in accordance with the latest edition of "Standard Methods for Examination of Water and Wastewater", published by the America Public Health Association.

Sampling methods, location, times, duration, and frequencies are to be determined on an individual basis subject to approval by the Superintendent.

5.11 No statement contained in this article shall be construed as preventing any special agreement or arrangement between the City and any industrial concern whereby an industrial waste of unusual strength or character may be accepted by the City for treatment.

ARTICLE 6 6.1 No person(s) shall maliciously, willfully, or negligently break, damage, destroy, uncover, deface or tamper with any structure, appurtenance or equipment which is part of the wastewater facilities. Any person(s) violating this provision shall be subject to immediate arrest under charge of disorderly con-
