Board Vice Chairman James A. Duff and member Ray "Shag" Campbell met with Floyd County Education Association representatives yesterday and Duff proposed a 16.5 or 17 percent pay increase, Rowland said.

Duff met with Hager Monday evening to discuss his talks with FCEA representatives.

Hager told negotiators yesterday, he would recommend seven of the eight proposals but would not recommend the proposal containing Duff's proposed increase, Rowland said.

Hager did offer an incentive package to the teachers.

Superintendent Hager submitted a proposal to the striking teachers Friday morning. yesterday, after an early morning meeting at the Floyd County Library.

Floyd County Circuit Judge Hollie Conley reports that he is in good shape following a minor mishap last Judge Conley was bitten by a man who had suffered a seizure while driving and lost control of his vehicle on Route 80 near Martin.

The victim, Steven Holbrook, 31, of Prestonsburg, had reportedly suffered a seizure while driving, causing Holbrook to lose control of his vehicle and crash into a guardrail before coming to a stop. Judge Conley and several others had stopped at the Hager presented a package on the scene of the accident and were atseizure after the accident.

This week at the strike

DECISION TIME . . . After eight days of negotiations, Floyd County superintendent Ronald Hager, left, and FCEA representatives Bud Reynolds, Janice Allen and Carol Stumbo prepared a proposal to be voted on this week by the FCEA membership. Strike talks took place at the Floyd County Public Library in Prestonsburg.

strike negotiations beginning with Friday's session.

FRIDAY: Superintendent Hager's claimed in his remarks prior to the meeting that the teacher's demands had become greater and greater during the negotiations. However, he was still saying he hoped a settlement could be reached.

The tone for the day's negotiations began on a somewhat confusing note when Superintendent Hager informed FCEA members Bud Reynolds, Carol Stumbo and Janice Allen C.O.B.R.A.(Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act) which deals with the right for employees to continue to pay for health benefits in the event of a layoff, firing, reduction of hours which would affect health benefits, etc.

FCEA members were not aware of the meaning of C.O.B.R.A. and Reynolds asked Hager to explain. Hager quipped back, "You're the expert, you look it up."

After about six hours of talks, to two sides emerged with tenta-

It was announced at 4:30 p.m. the negotiators planned to continue the talks until a settlement on all the issues were resolved. However, that did not happen.

SATURDAY: The mood of Hager and Reynolds was hopeful at the beginning of Saturday's session. Both men hoped school would be back in session by Monday.

After the six hour session, Hager passed out a typewritten copy of a news release which stated: "To go beyond the fifteen (15) percent budgeted by the school board would seriously impact programs desperately needed for children in our school district. Any funds for the raises beyond those already obligated would come from programs for children who are in danger of dropping out of school or students with special learning needs."

Also discussed Friday during the regular monthly meeting was a proposed fire district tax for Middle Creek. Two residents were on hand to present the court a petition, signed by 200 people opposed to the tax. After about 20 minutes of debate it appeared that one objection to the tax concerned residents of Magoffin County who lived within the fire department's boundaries but would not be required to pay the levy unless a similar tax was enacted by the Magoffin Fiscal Court.

Glenn Vaughan, speaking for the Middle Creek Volunteer Fire Department, noted that he and several other members were headed to the Magoffin County Fiscal Court meeting to propose the tax for them. The fire department covers approximately two miles into the adjoining county. Vaughan explained that the department could not cut off service into

Approximately fifty members of the Independent Truckers of Eastern Kentucky went on strike against Mud Creek operations of Buck Coal Company following the closing of the Bert T. # Floyd parents rally in support of teachers

A group of Floyd County parents met Monday morning at Archer Park in Prestonsburg to organize a demonstration at the board of education building in Prestonsburg, to speak out against school conditions and voice their support for the teacher's

"The teacher's shouldn't have to buy their supplies for the school. The money that's sent in here should be in the schools," said Susie Osborne, a concerned parent. "The teacher's are fighting for our kids and we're fighting for their pay."

Joyce Everly, a long time education activist, passed out white ribbons to the parents to wear during their protest.

Before the parents left the park, they sang "We Shall Overcome" and held prayer.

The pickets marched up the sidewalk of Main Street in Prestonsburg, chanting their rally song, and continued to the administration building, where they walked up to the front steps, then circled the building periodically. They stopped in front of Superintendent Ronald Hager's window and asked for him to come out. Just as the pickets paused, the blinds was closed at one of the windows. "We've gone too far to turn back now," said Yulonda Newsome.

Everly, who has been fighting for years for education reform, was ecstatic about the parents' protest.

"It's like a dream come true. The parents now understand that you have to fight to win. I'm here for the same reason these parents are; the children have paid the price for the political games played at the board of education and we're not gonna stand back and do nothing no more."

Although Everly does not now have a child in the school system, she feels the need to continue the fight. 'No, my child is not in the school system, I just sent him off to college. But I am a taxpayer and I want to know where the money is going."

The parents grew in strength from the rally in the park, from about 30 to about 60 at the picket line. Parents brought their children and a few teachers also participated in the demontenwald says BSADD is looking for ways to add them to the network.

The Corps of Engineers would be "a principal player" in plans to utilize the lakes, said Recktenwald, because while the state legally owns the water, the Corps is responsible for management of the resource. They have agreed to participate, he said. The agency operates Fishtrap Dam in Pike County, Paintsville Lake in Johnson County, Dewey Lake in Floyd County, and other impoundments in Knott and Lawrence County.

The regional approach would also help minimize the effect of drought, such as the one two years ago, Recktenwald adds.

"It won't link reservoirs, but in one sense they are already linked through the rivers. If we need additional flow in a particular stream or river bed, they could release more water to accommodate that. For instance, if there was sufficient flow in Pikeville but not in Prestonsburg, more water could be released out of Fishtrap," explained the director. In Prestonsburg, he noted, one alternative is to run a direct pipeline between the city's treatment plant and the reservoir itself.

"Before it's all over, we may see the same thing between Paintsville treatment plant and Paintsville Lake,"

For the consumer, a regional approach could mean that when overall water supplies shrink, day-to-day availability doesn't.

"With the drought two years ago, there were some restrictions in flow to non-essential users—such as car washes-and that type of thing. While those are strong businesses, they're not considered essential. Hospitals are essential," he adds. "Had that drought gone further, there could have been situations where there would have been penalties for higher water

Recktenwald also expects homeowners in the Big Sandy Valley to rely more and more on public water systems and less on wells and ground water. The shift will come, he says, as the result of a lessened and poorer quality ground water supply brought about by mining activity and coal, gas and oil exploration. "That's why the lakes are criti-cal," he adds. "These massive impoundments can provide supply during short river flows and, during lowflow periods, will assure consistent service. This will allow larger systems-and even the smaller onesto expand their service areas."

The planning process is required by law, and one of its best aspects, says Recktenwald, is that local operators are being involved. In the past, he says, specialized firms were hired to create plans, and these plans "often didn't reflect the real world

"The state...is using as a principal resource the people who use the water and those who actually provide the service-water supply operators, chairs of utility systems and so forth. That's a radical change, and we're tickled to death with that process."

BSADD's role will be to help create the advisory council and develop draft planning documents.

'What we're doing in Eastern Kentucky will be similar to what will happen state-wide, but we're leaps and bounds ahead of some of the others," he added.

Preliminary census data indicates that Kentucky's population is declining to the point where the state may lose one of it's seven congressional districts.

That means two things: (A.)we'll have six, instead of seven U.S. Congressmen and (B.) we'll have a well-known Republican running for governor.

Both A and B are subject to change, with A less likely to occur than B.

Initial census counts show that the state is about 11,000 people short of the number needed to retain all seven congressional districts. If the final tally picks up those 11,000, we get to keep all seven districts

It's highly unlikely, though, that we'll keep all seven of the congressmen currently representing those districts.

One in particular is rumored to be considering giving up his seat regardless of the census outcome.

That's Larry Hopkins, a GOP representative from Kentucky's 1st District, who has often been mentioned as a potential candidate for the Republicans in the '91 gubernatorial race.

Hopkins has more than the census to think about while pondering his choices. If he doesn't run for re-election to Congress, Hopkins gets to pocket more than $600,000 he has amassed in PAC and campaign contributions.

That's enough to make a fellow consider plan C- retiring from politics all together and taking up the easy life.

There may be no reliable means for predicting earthquakes, but there could be some signs in the stars.

In early December, when the earth, sun and planets are lined up just so, geologists believe the time could be ripe for a major earthquake and Kentucky could be in on the action.

The New Madrid Fault, which runs along the same lines as the Mississippi River, is high on the list of potential earthquake zones, and scientists believe the fault is ready to roll.

Depending on the strength of such a quake, the affects on Eastern Kentucky are likely to be slight while Western Kentucky faces the possibility of massive destruction.

Still, a major quake could hit us pretty hard. Preparing for the worst might be in our best interest.

Three-quarters of Kentucky's 176 school districts have asked the state for permission to open preschool classes this fall for at least some of their district's disadvantaged children.

Next year the preschool programs, for four-year-olds, will be mandatory.

For many school districts, the problem with implementing preschool programs won't be how,

The state hopes to help solve that by allocating dollars to provide for expanded facilities.

Those dollars should come before pre-school is mandatory and facilities should be built be-

Otherwise, we'll be packing fouryear-olds in like sardines in many school systems already overcrowded, understaffed and overburdened.

Pre-school is a good idea, but pre-arrangements must be accomplished first if the program is to succeed.

No Time For Laughing

I had already written this week's column when I heard that Stevie Ray Vaughn was dead. It was a funny column, but right now I just don't feel like laughing.

I really want to cry.

I actually thought it was funny when people got tears in their eyes after John Lennon was killed. Even the deaths of people like Jim Croce and Elvis Presley didn't faze me. I guess that's what I get for laughing.

When someone has truly touched your soul, you can't let them pass without mourning. I guess I understand that now. "Things that I used to do, Lord I won't do no more."

Stevie Ray Vaughn is dead, that is a cold shot.

To me, Stevie Ray Vaughn was the epitome of everything that I wanted my own music to be. Both revealing of the writer, and introspective of the listener, they were merely notes, but I was truly touched by everything the man did.

I think of the second guitar solo in Vaughn's "Tin Pan Alley", a song on the second side of his second album, and my heart breaks to think that we have lost the man who played that solo with such feeling and conviction. To quote Stevie, "It's the roughest place I've ever been."

The song, which described life in a seedy, run down tenement neighborhood, always reminds me of my days in Newport. But, that is the way all of Vaughn's work was to me. He always communicated a thought or emotion that I not only understood, but that I felt in my heart and in my soul.

Music is indeed a funny animal. I sit here while writing this and I realize that I am completely shattered by the death of a man that I never met. I never had any conversation with Stevie Ray Vaughn, but I think I knew him well.

I think that is all I care to say for now, other than adding that if you did not know, or care, who Stevie Ray Vaughn is, treat yourself and go buy every album he ever recorded. For those who are familiar with his work, let me speak for us all and say that August 27, 1990, is a black day.

A part of all of us has died.

"and that's a cold shot baby, lord that's a fact," Stevie Ray Vaughn 1954 - 1990.

Time to Settle

Dear Editor:

Teaching is not just a hard job, but a vocation. A teacher in the public school system has to deal with exceptional students of different socio-economic backgrounds, as well as average students. A teacher has to divide oneself between up to 35 individuals who range from economically and intellectually disadvantaged to exceptionally intelligent children who need to be challenged.

I don't think that any of these teachers want any of these children to "fall through the cracks," but they do. It is common knowledge that many people graduate from high school and can't even read on a third grade level. Where are these children falling and whose fault is it? The teachers seem to blame the school boards and the school boards seem to blame the teachers or the parents.

At the moment, teachers suffer from burn-out and lack of materials. The present school board has agreed to salary increases and more classroom materials. How informed are the teachers and the School Board of day to day problems of the system? How informed are they about new developments in education?

Meanwhile, as the system fights against itself over policies, our children are suffering from a lack of education. I think that a compromise has to be reached. If "children are the future of society" is not just a cliche, then these people who are so involved with our children must stop and consider the children and reach a compromise.

Our children are having a long vacation. They're playing innocently in a battleground of politics, greed and anything but real concern.

The Brady Bill

Dear Editor:

While serving as Press Secretary to President Reagan, a man named John Hinckley shot me during his failed attempt to assassinate the President. Hinckley easily purchased his concealable Saturday Night Special at a Dallas pawnshop. In Texas, as in more than half of the states in America, there is no "cooling-off" period to give police the chance to run a background check on the buyer. Each day I live with the consequences of that easy gun sale.

The US House of Representatives is set for a showdown on several important gun control bills this fall. The one I'm watching with the most interest is supported by 91 percent of the American people, every major police organization in the nation, and is vital if America hopes to reduce its everescalating level of handgun

This legislation is known as "The Brady BIII" (HR 467) and would require a national, seven-day "cooling-off" period before the purchase of a handgun. During those seven days, local law enforcement officials would have the opportunity to run criminal records checks of handgun purchasers. This cooling-off period would prevent the John Hinckleys of the world from easily buying handguns over-the-counter. Last year, 9,536 Americans were murdered with handguns. And according to a Justice Department study, 639,000 violent crimes a year are committed by criminals armed with handguns. No American is safe from the threat of handgun violence.

We fell a few votes short of passing the Brady Bill last time, but each Member of Congress will have the chance to vote on this key bill within the next several weeks. My wife, Sarah, and I are asking all Americans to help pass this public safety bill by writing their Representatives urging a vote for the Brady Bill. Because seven days can

Upgrade the Bridge

Dear Editor:

This letter is to all the truckers who are mad and boycotting Prestonsburg. You people don't even realize what the issue is here! I, as well as every citizen in this region, am well aware that "Kentucky wouldn't have an economy without people to drive those trucks." We are proud, too. Proud that we have fine men to drive those long hours to keep the economy going. But the city is not trying to throw a wrench in that sytem. They are trying to prevent people from getting killed on that bridge if it falls into the river from the weight of the trucks.

Would it actually take the death of a human being to open your eyes (and minds)? If that's what you are waiting for then you people are a sad excuse! There are many people who don't have jobs at all and I know I sound like the "same ol" same ol'," but your trucks could be in a lot worse shape than just being "rerouted." Lighten up and cope! Let's all work together. That bridge is a potentail hazard to human life (when overweight).

I think the bridge should be upgraded or "strengthened" to hold the weight of the loaded trucks, but that is another story. Instead of having meetings to boycott the city, why not petition to strengthen that bridge!

- Sincerely, Keesha Lawson Lackey

P.S My husband works at a mine. Although he does not drive a truck, he is part of the coal economy. I just want to see it all work and stop the "beefin'."

For the Students

Dear Editor,

I would like to address the issue of the teachers' strike. I voted for the strike and was on the picket line on day one. I felt it was the most important thing I ever did for my students. Yes, for my students.

Money has been spent in this county on programs and materials and exorbitant administrative salaries without the input from students, parents or teachers.

Parents and teachers alike have griped for years. This accomplished nothing. Teachers have united and negotiated for two years and this accomplished nothing. In the meantime the exorbitant administrative salaries got higher and money was spent on yet more programs not backed by teachers who have to implement them, and more than their fair share of monies were spent on certain schools while others received the leftovers.

Negotiations since the strike have established parental and teacher input into curriculum, county budget priorities and school budget priorities. The strike has established a regional center for certain materials which all schools could have access to, not just a few.

The strike has united teachers like nothing I have ever experienced. The strike has united parents like nothing I have ever experienced. The strike has united parents and teachers and some administrators and some board members and some citizens to fight back against an unfair system and to protect and reject an unfair system.

Was the strike necessary? Yes! Was the strike for teacher salaries only? No! Should ever citizen in Floyd County join the strike by calling the board office, keeping children out of school until this is settled, by joining the courageous teachers on the picket line? Yes!

The times they are a changing and our tactics must change also. Is the teacher strike a pleasant thing? No! Is the strike a good, positive, necessary thing? Yes!

As Iraqi forces patrol the streets of Kuwait and threaten Saudi Arabia, the US Department of Energy is engaged in formulating a National Energy Policy. It is not an easy task. If it were, we would already have one. Instead, over the past several decades, we have had many energy policies.

In the electrical utility industry, durability and continuity have not characterized government policy. In the mid-1960s, for example, the federal government promoted the nuclear option, and the industry invested billions of dollars in nuclear facili-

However, constantly changing regulations, exacerbated by Three MIle Island, sent the cost of nuclear plants soaring and lengthened the lead times for licensing and construction to about 14 years. Cost and uncertainty forced many electric utilities to cancel plants. Some that completed their plants, budgeting them according to the best available knowledge, were later faced with the prospect of tions of the higher construction costs. Utilities grew understandably wary of nuclear power, and have placed no new orders for more than a decade.

With the passage of the Clean Air Act in 1970, electric utilities were urged to shift their generation facilities away from coal to oil and gas for environmental reasons. Only three years later, after the Arab Oil Embargo, the use of oil became anathema. The government formulated elaborate plans to get utilities to switch back to coal, at the expense of utilities and their customers.

In 1978, the decades-old system of price controls on natural gas came to its logical conclusion: shortage. Congress promptly prohibited the use of natural gas by electric utilities for new plants.

Through all the changes, coal has remained the backbone of the electricity supply system. Coal produces 57 percent of our electric energy supply, and its supply is virtually limitless. The utility industry has spent billions of dollars to meet environmental standards for coal-fired plants - successfully. In 1987, according to the environmental Protection Agency, total sulfur dioxide emissions were down 21 percent from the 1970s despite an 85 percent increase in utility coal use over the period. Other emissions and wasteproducts have been similarly curbed.

Yet acid rain and global warming legislation loom, casting doubt on future use of coal. New restrictions would require new environmental controls, adding significantly to the capital cost and possibly pricing coal out of the marketplace. The electric utility industry and the US Department of Energy have invested heavily in clean coal technologies, but the industry may simply not be in a financial position to make the investment to deploy them if other environmental costs are too heavy.

Meanwhile, the wheel has swung around again. Natural gas is now in adequate supply, and the prohibition on its use for electricity generation has been repealed. Gas is viewed in many quarters as the preferred fuel for new generating capacity. This presumes that the US possesses an abundance of gas that adequate pipeline capacity will be available. That may be true, but proven reserves total only nine years' worth at current price levels. Utilities gambling heavily on gas may run into higher prices, at least, and possibly shortages in years

With no restrictions on importation of oil, and prices low, some East Coast utilities turned back to desperation to that one-discredited source, with its attendant national security risks. Will events in the Middle East sent the cost skyrocket-

Lately, environmental concerns are prompting a revival of interest in nuclear power. Indeed, new and inherently safer nuclear technologies are appearing and emission-free, but utilities are understandably reluctant to make the huge investments without some assurances that they will not be financially penalized in the after seeing the statement and remarked he thought significant progress had been made.

Kentucky Education Associate Financial Officer Ray Tackett and Board of Education Finance Officer Russell Frazier worked together on budget figures in an attempt to find the funding necessary for an 18 percent pay increase.

SUNDAY: After five and a half hours of talks, Hager announced only a 15 percent increase could be possible and he would contact board members to see if they wanted the negotiations to continue. He said he asked teacher's to return to the classrooms on Tuesday. If the teachers failed to do so, he felt he had no choice but to seek an injunction against the teachers.

Reynolds emerged from the meeting with high hopes that were quickly dashed when informed of Hager's comments to the press.

The negotiating team went to a rally at Stumbo Park in Allen after the session and informed the crowd of over 600 of the days events. The salary increases approved for administrators was read to the crowd which brought gasps from those who attended at some of the high increases and basic salaries.

Board Member Tommy Boyd who was at the rally, was telling those in the crowd to "Hold 'em to 20 (percent), they've got it."

MONDAY: About 30 parents and teachers met at Archer Park in Prestonsburg to organize before protesting in front of the board of education administration building in Prestonsburg. Parents in attendance voiced their concern about the lack of supplies and unsanitary conditions at the schools their children attended. They said the protest was planned to show Hager and board members they were in full support of the teacher's decision to strike the system.

School Board Members James A. Duff and Ray "Shag" Campbell met with the FCEA negotiating committee to discuss the group's proposals and to see if an 18 percent pay raise was possible. Duff said he felt the board could go "a few percentage points above" the initial 15 percent pay raise approved. Duff and Campbell met with Hager to discuss their meet with the group. A special called board meeting on Tuesday was mentioned if Hager agreed with the results of the meeting.

TUESDAY: FCEA's bargaining committee met with Hager at 9 a.m. at the Floyd County Library and Hager submitted a proposal to the group. FCEA's executive committee planned to review the proposal and submit it to the membership for a vote, hopefully by Wednesday or Thursday. It is possible school could be in session next week. The requests proposed by the teachers are: no reprisal/no reward for any student or employee as a result of the strike; equitable distribution of monies for instructional supplies and materials and a consistent program of instruction for all schools and students; guaranteed participation of Association-designated members in determining individual school budgets, priorities for the school system budget and implementation of House Bill 940, particularly as it involves instruction or budget; increased staff development funds with Association involvement in determining what activity and who may participate; determining how additional time is used pertaining to the seven-hour school day; and an 18 percent salary increase.

Jail fire, accident keep fire department busy

Members of the Prestonsburg Fire and Rescue Department were called to the Floyd County Detention Center Monday following reports of smoke and a small explosion.

Firefighters searched the building and the roof of the facility only to discover a faulty electrical outlet which had apparently shorted out.

Fire workers disconnected and removed the outlet, which reportedly shorted due to the presence of an unidentified liquid which had run into the receptacle.

A single vehicle accident on South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg kept firefighters busy for several hours on Sunday afternoon.

Reynold Dillon, of Prestonsburg, reportedly lost control of his vehicle at 2:15 Sunday afternoon and crashed into a utility pole on South Lake

"He (Dillon)wasn't hurt in the accident," said Major Mike Wells of the Prestonsburg Fire Department. "But he snapped that telephone pole perfectly in two. He was driving a Toyota Celica and he must have hit the pole just right. There was quite a bit of damage to the front of his car but, he came out okay."

Firefighters remained on the scene for several hours as utility workers placed a new pole and fixed wires damaged by the accident. "The pole didn't fall," said Wells. "The lines to the other poles kept it from falling and becoming a hazard, but we did have to secure the area from Carter Funeral Home up to Graham Street until the repairs were complete."

No injuries were reported in connection with the accident.

Weekend rallies at Stumbo Park give teachers, parents a boost

Teachers and parents gave each other much-needed shots in the arm at weekend rallies at Stumbo Park in Allen after a week on the picket lines and negotiations with the Floyd County Superintendent Ron Hager.

The initial rally, held at 10 a.m. Friday, gave striking teachers a chance to sing their picket line songs and to offer words of support for their decision to strike for a stronger voice in school budget decisions, equal distribution of teaching supplies to each school and a pay raise.

We Want You to Know

Why Floyd County Teachers Are on Strike

Crayons, Scissors and Soap

For years, Floyd Co. students, their parents and teachers have financed the public schools. Floyd Co. teachers believe this is wrong.

With the school budget increasing more than 33% this year, we believe the days of students' having to bring their own crayons, scissors and soap to school should be

Students are being told that they will again have to raise funds themselves and to bring in their own school supplies. Meanwhile the superintendent has installed new football lights at one school. He has carpeted another school and hired professional painters to paint two schools that will not even be in use within a few years.

At the same time administrators have expensive new computers and office furniture, students have to buy their own construction paper. Floyd Co. teachers believe this is wrong.

Floyd Co.'s superintendent evidently doesn't agree with us. That's one of the reasons why we're on strike.

The Great Gap

Floyd Co. teachers' salaries are in the lowest 20% in the state. Floyd Co. school administrators' salaries are in the highest 20% in the state.

Floyd Co. teachers believe this sends the wrong message to the students and parents of our community.

Floyd Co. teachers believe that the school district's resources should go where they will make the most difference — to the teacher and students in the classroom.

Floyd Co. teachers believe the school district should make sure existing, basic programs — including teacher salaries — are well-funded before we begin new programs. Evidently, the superintendent doesn't agree with us. That's one of the reasons why we're on strike.

To make matters worse, the average administrator's raise is almost twice what the superintendent is proposing for teachers' raises.

Can donations help young burn victims

markets and area residents in West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio will now be able to donate their used aluminum beverage cans to benefit young burn victims treated at Cabell Huntington Hospital in Huntington, W.Va., as part of Aluminum Cans for Burned Children (ACBC), an in-store recycling program introduced by Foodland recently.

In an announcement made from the Bluegrass Foodland here, Elza Green, president of Foodland Group, said, "ACBC enables us to benefit the community in two ways at once; we can do our part to promote recycling for the environment, and we can support area residents treated at Cabell Huntington Hospital's Burn Intensive Care Unit."

Residents can now donate their used aluminum beverage cans at recycling bins located in area Foodland supermarkets. Foodland will then sell the cans to Alcoa Recycling

Carolyn Mancinelli, marketing coordinator for Alcoa Recycling Company, pointed to the success of ACBC in Pittsburgh, Pa., as an example of this program's potential. "Since 1985, resident donations have generated over $250,000 to help meet the needs of young burn victims in the Pittsburgh area. Although we're just getting started, we anticipate strong community support here as

The introduction of this regional three-state ACBC brings the number of ACBC programs underway nationwide to 25; together these programs have earned over $1 million to help burn victims.

Cabell Huntington Hospital services 27 counties throughout the tristate. The Burn ICU is the only facility of its kind in West Virginia. The iour-bed unit treats about 70 burn victims a year.

According to Dr. Traylor, "The number itself is not significant until you consider the time and intensity of treatment needed to aid the recovery of each patient. The average hospital stay for each burn patient we treated last year was 14 days, with some patients staying as long as 80 days. That's a total of about 940 days of patient care provided by the burn unit last year."

AAA "Gas Watcher's Guide" helps save gas and money

To help car owners rediscover easy ways to save gasoline and money AAA is releasing a new version of it's "Gas Watcher's Guide", available free to motorists.

The guide lists simple tips for motorists to save at least 20 percent of their current individual fuel use, which AAA says could collectively mean a savings of hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil daily.

"While oil supplies are adequate to meet present needs," according to Kathy Gross of AAA, "smart car owners will become gas watchers again — both to soften the impact of recent price hikes and to extend vital natural resources."

Along with tips on good driving techniques and proper car mainte-nance, the 1990 "Gas Watcher's Guide" pamphlet offers advice on buying gasoline, gas saving features to look for in new cars and even how to organize car pools.

Here are a few of the tips listed in the "Gas Watcher's Guide";

* If you own more than one car, use the most fuel efficient vehicle as often as possible.

* When buying a new car remember that cars with automatic transmissions generally use more fuel than those with manual shifting. * Check your vehicle's air filter twice per year. More often in dusty * In hot weather do not fill your

Blackcats Impressive In 30-0 Victory Over Bobcats

What seemed to be a concern for the coaching staff of the Prestonsburg Blackcats was eliminated Friday as the Blackcats traveled to Betsy Layne for a District 2 game against Gerald Newsome's Bobcats. When the lights regained brightness, the scoreboard read 30-0 in favor of the Blackcats. The two teams were playing their first district game and the first game of the new season for Prestonsburg. The win gives the Blackcats a good start in defense of their district title. The loss drops the Bobcats to 0-2 on the season, 0-1 in district play, and Coach Newsome's charges are still looking for that elusive first touch-

While the Betsy Layne defense was tough in the first three quarters, the offense had trouble of getting in

Not only was the Bobcats' defensive impressive, but so was Coach Bill Letton's Blackcats. The total scoring in the first half was a touchdown and a pair of safeties as both teams turned the ball over.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard in the first quarter with 2:05 showing on the clock when sophomore halfback John Goble (5-9, 155) carried the ball across the goal line from 1yard out for a TD. Jason Storey (6-1, 184) kicked the extra point for a 7-0 Blackcat lead.

Things didn't get any better offensively for the Bobcats as quarterback Brian Combs was sacked and called for intentional grounding of the football and was penalized 5-yards. On third and 15, senior halfback Bobby Wise (5-7, 150) was tackled in the end zone by Todd Goodman for a safety and a 9-0 Blackcat lead.

Prestonsburg put together a drive after the ensuing kick off and pushed the ball deep into Bobcat territory. On a fourth and two from the Bobcats' 5-yard line, Betsy Layne's defense stopped the Blackcat drive as Goble tried to power his way up the middle. The Bobcats took over on downs at their own 5-yard line. With the Bobcats facing a third and 11 situation, Combs handed off to Chad Mitchell (5-11, 165) who was caught in the end zone for another safety. The two points gave Prestonsburg a 11-0 lead.

Betsy Layne's defense dug in and, after Allen James picked up a Blackcat first down on an 18-yard run, Blackcat quarterback Aaron Tucker, who has shown a lot of maturity at the signal calling spot, was thrown for a 2-yard loss. Facing a third and 17 situation, Tucker tried to hit McGuire with a pass and Mike Cecil alertly picked off the pass for an intercep-

In the third quarter, the Blackcats' John Clark took a Betsy Layne punt on his own 30-yard line and ran it back 70-yards for a touchdown for a 17-0 lead.

The Blackcats weren't through yet. In the fourth period, Clark struck again when he took a handoff from Tucker and broke tackle for a 15yard touchdown run. Storey missed the extra point and the Blackcats led

With the big lead, Coach Letton moved Clark to the quarterback spot and the junior hit split end Worthie McGuire from 22-yards out for the final touchdown. Storey added the extra point and it was 30-0 at the

"We looked better defensively," said Letton, of his team's first game. "We are still a little slow offensively coming off the ball. I feel that our speciality teams played real well."

this one. I'm sure they will come in here fired up and our players will be fired up also."

Prestonsburg defeated the Yellowjackets last year at Whitesburg 7-6 for a big district win. The Blackcats went on to win the district title.

Follows the blocking

John Goble (44) of Prestonsburg follows the blocking of the offensive line up field as the junior halfback picks up some yardage on this run against the Betsy Layne Bobcats. Goble scored a touchdown for the Blackcats in their 30-0 win over the Bobcats.

wright Trojans in the second week of high school football in Floyd County, as the two teams met at Brackett

Fairview took advantage of five Trojan turnovers (all fumbles) to race to a 18-8 victory over the host school.

The Trojans were impressive on defense, but it was the offense that let this one get away as Wheelwright coughed up the ball five times, three coming on kickoff returns or punts.

The Trojans' defense kept the Eagles at bay, but even the defense had to tire after spending so much time on the field.

"We played a good defensive game." Trojan coach Roger Johnson said, "but they had to get tired spending most of the second half on the field. The speciality team hurt us tonight." Johnson was speaking of his kickoff return unit which fumbled three times in the second half, allowing Fairview to recover the football.

Fairview's lead held up until the closing seconds of the third quarter when the Trojans' Robby Wright took a Eagle punt and galloped 65-yards to the Fairview 15-yard line before he was hauled down with 3:09 to go.

Trojan quarterback, Steven Johnson hit tight end Bryan Rhea from 5-yards out to tie the game at 6-6. Adams took a pitch out from chance to take the lead with 3:53 Johnson and ran the conversion in for a 8-6 Trojan lead.

On a fourth and eight situation for Fairview in the fourth quarter, the Eagles were forced to punt. On the receiving end Wheelwright's deep back Robby Wright fumbled the punt and Fairview recovered, giving the

Paintsville's defense stifles Rebels, 41-0

For all the Paintsville fans who were concerned about the Tigers' defense, or the lack of it after the Sheldon Clark game, your worries are over. Coach Walter Brugh righted that wrong Friday as the Tigers slowed down the Running Rebels of Allen Central 41-0.

Against the Cardinals in the Big Sandy Bowl, the Tigers' defense was found to have some holes up the middle. That wasn't the case Friday night at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

A big move for the Tigers this year was moving Billy Phelps from receiver to the quarterback spot. Phelps was the number one receiver for Paintsville a year ago.

Paintsville put 14 points on the scoreboard in the first quarter as Phelps hit wide receiver Matt Williams, who has had two good games, on a 26-yard pass for a touchdown. Brian Benson added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Later in the quarter, it was the teamwork of Phelps and Williams once again as Williams took a Phelps pass, this time from 15-yards. Benson kicked the extra point — it was

The game got off to a bad start for the Rebels in the first quarter when on first play from scrimmage a B.J. Aldrich pass to Brett Meadows was picked off by Paintsville on the Rebels 35-yard line. But that was a mild setback compared to the injury to Aldrich, who had to leave the game. Jamie Slone took over the quarterback duties for the injured Aldrich and just could not get the Rebel offense moving.

It was 20-0 on a 25-run breakaway by Morgan Cyrus in the second period. The Rebels blocked the extra point attempt by Benson

On the Rebels next possession, on a first down play, Allen Central's Slone fumbled the football and Paintsville recovered, setting up the Tigers next score—a 32-yard TD pass from Phelps to Williams. Phelps threw for the conversion with a short toss to Mike Eldridge and it was 28-

Paintsville lit up the scoreboard at the Don Daniels field again in the third period when Eddie Young went in from 8-yards out for a touchdown. Drew Dorton kicked the extra point

The Tigers, 2-0, put the final score on the board with a 4-yard run by Matt Kazee in the final period.

The Rebels, 1-1, could not contain the passing game of Phelps as the 6-3, 215-pound senior passed for 146yards, including three touchdown tosses to Williams. Phelps was eight of nine in the passing department. Holbrook was one for one. Brad Tiller carried eight times for 60-yards rushing. Eddie Young gained 42-yards on seven carries. Paintsville had a total of 240-yards on 40 carries for a total offense of 404-yards.

Fairview took over at the 50-yard line on downs. On the first play from scrimmage, Morrison broke tackle and ran 50-yards for the touchdown and gave the Eagles an 18-8 lead that held up the remainder of the game.

Could it happen again? On the ensuing kickoff, the Trojans fumbled the ball again and Fairview recovered, spoiling any chance the Trojans might have had.

James Branham led the Wheelwright defense with 11 tackles. Rhea, managed only 23 carries for 90 yards who had 11 hits the first game against rushing. Johnson had a good night Betsy Layne, had seven against Allen Central was led in offense by Todd Lucas's 48-yards on 11 carries. Tommy Gibson carried the ball nine times for 43-yards. The Rebels had a total of 104-yards on 30 carries. With Aldrich hurt, the Rebels did not pass as much, throwing only four times with one completion. That was a 8-yard toss by Aldrich before he was injured. The Rebels had a total offense of only 112-yards.

Allen Central will travel to Phelps Friday night in week three of high school football. The Rebels will be looking to get back on the winning track against the Hornets.

Paintsville will stay on the road as they travel up Left Beaver for an encounter with the Wheelwright Trojans.

the Trojans to try and grind it out. "We wanted to go to out passing in hopes that it would open things up on the ground," said Coach Johnson.

"This team could have easily folded," said Rex Cooksey, who is returning to the head football position at Fairview. "We are a young team and going only one way and that's up." Coach Cooksey said that he was pleased with his young team's defense in the game and feels that he defeated a good Wheelwright team.

"This is the best Wheelwright team that I have seen here in several years," he said. "We got some good aggrestimes. Neither team had any inter- sive play out of our defense tonight."

SQUIRREL SEASON OPENS SEPTEMBER 1

In the so-called Eastern Zone, in which Pike and Floyd counties are included, squirrel season opens September 1. Because squirrel populations are directly related to the mast production, Eastern Kentucky hunters should have a bumper crop of squirrels this year. In fact, the amount of mast (nuts from hickory, walnut, oak and other trees) has been increasing steadily since 1985 with the largest increases occurring in 1989. An abundance of mast results in healthier squirrels and an increased reproduction rate, thus increasing the entire squirrel population.

The first half of the squirrel season opens in the 29 counties of the Eastern Zone on September 1 and runs through November 9. In the Western Zone, the first part of the season runs from August 18 through October 31. Squirrel season then opens again statewide on November 20 and remains open through De-

Deer season is rapidly approaching, and hunters participating in the early bow and blackpowder seasons should be fine tuning their equipment in the next couple of months.

FINDING BASS AFTER THEY SPAWN CAN BE A PROBLEM

Top bass pro Larry Nixon calls it "the toughest two weeks in bass fish-

What these two Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff members are describing is the post-spawn slump, an in between time when bass have left the shallow spawning beds but before they establish residence on deeper summer structure. It takes place between February and May, to work to make them strike." and lasts for about two weeks.

The bass are very lethargic or weak FISHING IS A FAMILY AFFAIR and do not hit lures well. Some aren't even strong enough, after the rigors of spawning, to chase a lure.

"You can attack the problem several ways," says Nixon, who has won more than $700,000 in his career. "Normally, bass begin spawning first on the upper end of a lake where the shallow water warms first."

While those fish are spawning, the bass farther down the lake are still in a pre-spawn condition, and they may not spawn for another two weeks. Not all bass in a lake spawn at the

"Fish for the most active bass, the spawners," continues the Evinrude pro, "and gradually work your way down the lake. By the time the bass on the lower end of the lake go into post-spawn doldrums, the fish on the upper end should be active again."

Not all lakes are large enough for anglers to do this. On smaller impoundments, anglers must follow the same fish right into the post-spawn period.

'I suggest looking for the first available deep water near the spawning area," says fellow Evinrude pro Denny Brauer. Ledges, the mouths of creeks and even simple break lines When we fish together out of the are used by bass at this time.

"I like to use crankbaits and plastic worms because they can be worked slowly," Brauer adds. "Make repeated casts and work the area thoroughly because it's usually a long time between strikes."

Cover is often an important ingredient in where bass will locate during this time. Both Nixon and Brauer emphasize bass will frequently use the very same cover on their outward movement that they did when they were coming in. They will also tend to use the same cover year after year.

'It's important to understand how bass are using the cover or structure." says Nixon, "because the potential strike zone at this time of year is small. Study the cover or depth change with a depthfinder so you understand it and can pinpoint your casts."

'The real key is to work any area you think has post-spawn bass very slowly," emphasizes Brauer. "The fish are not active so you really have Recently, Green, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff and one of the true veterans of the sport, was joined in the tournament ranks by his two sons, Ricky Jr., 24, and Keith, 17. Wife Betty has been attending tournaments with her husband for years and often practices with him.

"It's really a great feeling," says Green. "I've thought about his for years, and I'm just thrilled that it's been able to happen.'

Ricky, Jr. has actually fished 12 professional tournaments with his father over the past two years. Earlier this spring, Keith entered his first professional event, the Texas Bassmaster Invitational on Lake Sam Rayburn, Texas, where he finished a very respectable 47 out of 281 con-

During the Rayburn tournament, Ricky Jr. and Keith practiced together in one boat while their parents practiced together in another. They kept in touch by radios.

"I've fished Sam Rayburn for years," explains the Johnson pro, "and I took the boys around to a number of my favorite spots. Then at night, we'd all sit down together and study maps and compare notes."

"I think the proudest moments I had were watching them walk through the weigh-in lines with sacks of fish."

Green first took his sons fishing when they were less than three years old. Keith, in fact, caught his first bass at 18 months.

"He hooked it himself with a plastic worm," says Green, "and when he did, I made him land it by himself. It was nice three-pounder, and he's been manufacturer of the nation's top hooked ever since."

The biggest problem, according to Green, is tackle. The boys are beginning to accumulate tackle the way their father has for years, and Green is afraid one day soon he may have to enlarge the storage area in his

Roberts Finishes 37th In Elvis Presley 5K

Paintsville's Rick Roberts finished 37th out of 2200 runners in the Elvis Presley International 5K run last weekend in Memphis, Tennessee. Roberts finished with a time of 17:47, a disappointing effort, he said.

"If I had run like I did in the threemile run at Matewan where I finished with a 16:20 I would have done better," the running enthusiast said. Roberts said that in preparing to leave for Memphis he forgot his racing shoes and had to stop and purchase a pair on the way.

"The shoes were new and not broken in and that hindered me," he said. "That and the Memphis heat hitting me in the face. I ran good for the first two miles and it was all down hill for me after that. The humidity was so high and the temperature was 82 degrees. At Matewan it was around 56 degrees."

The 17:47 time placed Roberts fifth in his age group of 35 to 39-year olds. Roberts plans to run in the Charleston Distance Run on Labor Day. The distance run is for 15 miles. Channel 8 out of Charleston plans to cover the race live.

Weight Control AT Forty Is As Easy As Regular Exercise

Experts agree that your ideal weight from when you were 20 years old should be your ideal weight when you're 40 years old. However, keeping trim through your middle years can be achieved without drastic dieting or high-impact aerobics.

The secret to keeping a trim figure is working with your body, not against it, participating in a regular exercise program to maximize your calorieburning potential, says Nordic Track, cross-country ski exercise machine.

Why does age tend to produce pounds? "We become less active, which not only causes us to burn fewer calories each day, but also causes us to lose muscle, our body's most metabolically active tissue,' says James Rippe, M.D., in the ar-"Another problem is that they're ticle "Stop Fighting the Battle and Win the Weight War," in the June laughs Green, "but I believe I can live issue of Prevention magazine. The result, says Dr. Rippe, who is director of the exercise physiology and nutrition laboratory at the University of Massachusetts Medical School, is that we don't burn calories the way we could when we were younger.

Muscle Versus Fat

Experts tell us that it is not so much the number of pounds on the scale that matter, but rather the percentage and distribution of body fat. "Ideal," in these terms, means 20-30 percent body fat for women in their forties; 15 to 25 percent for men. Body fat can be determined with a Futrex body fat analyzer, or by simple tests performed by trained personnel at health clubs.

'People who keep active generally have a lot more success in controlling their weight than people who try to do it just through dieting," says Dr. Rippe. "It's a fact of life that we lose muscle as we age. But, resistance training can maintain muscle and in some cases it can even increase it," explains Dr. Rippe.

Aerobic Exercise Burns More

"Regular aerobic exercise will help those aged 40 and up to efficiently lower their body fat percentages for the long term," says Jim Bostic, NordicTrack president and CEO. "You can tone your body, maintain your weight and achieve cardiovascular fitness by working out for 20- and protect you from heart disease. minute sessions, three times a week. For reducing weight, we recommend 30-minute sessions, four times a week. Longer or more frequent workouts will accelerate weight loss," explains Bostic.

Aerobic exercise is vital to losing and/or maintaining weight. Exercise increases your metabolism while you're exercising, and helps you burn additional calories for hours after-

"One of the most efficient calorieburning exercises is cross country skiing. Nordic Track, which simulates the motions of cross-country skiing, gives you a great workout and a high level of calorie burning, with no impact," Bostic says. "NordicTrack is also ideal for people who are just getting started, because of its nonjarring motion.'

Other Exercise Benefits Weight control is not the only benefit from exercising during the middle years. Exercise can help increase your HDL(good) cholesterol, lower your blood pressure, help you manage stress, give you more energy, improve your mental capacity NordicTrack recommends consulting your physician before starting an exercise progam. A physician can help you determine the normal target heart zone for your physical condition. (The target heart rate is 70 to 85 percent of your maximum heart rate. Determine your maximum heart rate by subtracting your age from

P'burg Jr Woman's Club Horse Show Draws Large Crowd

The Floyd County Times

If you happened to drive by Archer Park this past Saturday night and wondered what all the excitement was about, the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club held their 26th Annual Horse Show, as a large crowd of fans gathered for the event.

The evening was perfect, weatherwise, although some might have complained of it being a little warm. But once the events got underway, everyone seemed to get involved in the different classes, 27 to be exact, and just relaxed and enjoyed them-

Show officials included John Young, judge, from Johnson City, Tennessee. Dan Grigson from Stanford was the ring announcer. Ringmaster was Jack Sammons from Belfry. Farrier (blacksmith) was Harland Pennington from Paris. Rudolph Ousley, local veterinarian, acted in the same capacity in the show. Mark Craft of Ewing was the show's organist. Show manager was Barbara Bloomer, who is also President of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club. Assistant Show Manager was

Chris Prater of Martin, who took part in the Pole Bend, Barrel Jump and Trophy Dash, has been around horses

"I guess you can say that I have been working with horses and around horses all my life," said Prater. Prater's horse, Successful Stan, a 13year-old, has won several first place trophies for Prater.

Prater says that he trains his own horses and tries to take in all the horse shows that he can.

"Yeah, I train my horses," he explained. "It takes about a year to get one trained just right. Especially those you get green. I plan on taking part in the Greenup County Horse Show Labor Day weekend. I try and go somewhere every weekend".

Lafe Hall of Endicott, rides Shawn Rafferty, a 13-year old quarterhorse he has had for 8-years. Hall, like Prater, is owner and trainer of his horses. He says that he tries to ride his horse everyday and is more of a trail rider. Hall took first place in the Pole Bend with a time of 22.280.

Delano Conn, Martin, began competing in horse shows back in the '60s and has just returned to competition this year, after a layoff of several years.

"I have really missed it," Conn relates. "I got involved in mining operations and left horse shows for the last 7 or 8-years." Conn unlike Prater and Hall, who race quarterhorses, had two rack horses and one pacing mare.

"I like to watch the quarterhorses though," Conn says. "I also train all of my horses and I have trained horses for other people around here, in West Virginia and Ohio."

"I love the horse shows," Conn continued." They help me to take my mind off of mining. I can come to one of these shows and just relax and enjoy all the other horses and meet friends here."

Conn recently won first place in Style Amateur Racking at the Beef Hyde in Pike County at the J & B

Conn was quick to add that without his wife, Delores, help he couldn't do it. "She has been, always been, a tremendous help to me in anything I do," said Conn. "She is over there right now taking care of the horse."

Conn explained how he trained vide good fishing. Ask any good owner who's taken advantage of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' fisheries technical guidance program. (It's free.) The response might go something like this...."Why, there were so many weeds in that pond, you could hardly see the water, let alone catch a fish!" (The pond owner thought the fish and wildlife department might be able to help, so he contacted the state conservation officer in his county to find out. The officer took all the necessary information, along with the pond owners request for technical guidfisheries biologist.)

my turn, you see. But, boy was it worth it! I've got bass, channel cats and bluegill in that pond — and" he said with a wink, "they're growing bigger every day."

This can be your success story, whether stocking a new pond or, like the fellow above, making things right in an old pond. (Good farm pond fisheries management really begins before a pond is in place. So, if you're planning to build a pond, consider contacting your district fisheries biologist for tips on the best location, shape of the basin and good depth.

HOW TECHNICAL GUIDANCE WORKS

After receiving your application, the biologist schedules a time to study the information and evaluate your pond before making any recommendations. Sometimes electroshocking is necessary to find out just what the ance, and turned it into the district problems are. (Electroshocking is a routine fish-study procedure which "It took a little time — had to wait momentarily stuns fish and brings them to the surface where they can be netted and placed in a live well for examination.) Sometimes the best remedy for an old pond is to remove all the fish and start over.

HOW TO GET FISH

You must apply for the farm pond stocking program. The deadline is September 30. Although technical guidance is free, there is a $10 fee for fish supplied by the fish and wildlife department.

"New" fish are fingerling size, that is one-to three inches long. Bluegill and channel catfish are usually released in the fall, while largemouth bass are added the following

STOP RUMOR

Unfortunately, too many people believe that farm ponds stocked by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources are open to any angler. This is not true.

Pond owners, who obtain fisheries technical guidance or participate in the farm pond management program, are not obligated to any way to allow public fishing. Though encouraged to give responsible anglers permission to fish, private landowners have the final say on who may enter their property.

Almost half of all Kentucky anglers enjoy fishing farm ponds on a regular basis, and part of the reason is pond owners are willing to share their fishing enjoyment.

Statewide size and creel limits apply to farm ponds as well as streams, rivers and lakes. Check the current fishing digest for details. (At the discretion of the owner and fisheries biologist, a farm pond may be placed under special fishing regulations to achieve specific management pur-

Realignment In The NFL

by Gale Sayers

The National Football League recently announced that it will expand by two teams in 1993 and begin realignment in 1992. Complete realignment would take place in 1994. I am in favor of these moves, but I think more must be done by the powers that be in the NFL to hold teams in place once the realignment has occurred.

Realignment — a reorganization of the divisions and conferences would be done along geographical boundaries and hopefully would have several benefits. First, it would solve the dilemma of teams like the Phoenix Cardinals who play in the NFC East Division, despite the fact that they are three time zones away from most of the division, and the Atlanta Falcons who are in the NFC West, clear across the country from their time zone. That makes for some hard road trips.

Realignment also would, ideally, create some natural rivalries that should exist now and don't because of the current alignment. It would be great to see teams like the Houston Oilers and Dallas Cowboys in the same division. Right now they aren't even in the same conference and rarely play a regular season game. Their annual preseason games are always great, with the winner promised "the bragging rights to Texas." Regular division play between these two teams could create one of the hottest rivalries in football. The same situation exists with the Miami Dolphins and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers who rarely see each other during the regu-

But a true rivalry is built on more than geographical location; it is built on great players playing against each other year after year. One of the great rivalries of all time is the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears. I was lucky to be playing for Chicago and feel what that rivalry was like during its heyday. Players like Dick Butkus, Bart Starr, Ray Nitzchke and Paul Hornung lived for football and great competition. Fans want to hang their hats on players, and it's tough these days with everyone jumping from team to team. Great football traditions are built on guys like Walter Payton. I couldn't imagine Payton pulling the business that some players do, always looking for a better deal somewhere else.

Some team owners are even worse. Guys like Cardinals owner Bill Bidwell, who pulled out of St. Louis for Phoenix and Robert Irsay, who left Baltimore for Indianapolis, will cause problems for realignment if they are allowed to pull up stakes at any time. Again, rivalries are not built on greed, but love for the game, and a city and a team that stick together. The NFL must, when studying realignment, find a way to better control an owner's right to move a team. There has to be a commitment to NFL cities. Without a lasting commitment, the game will be in trouble, and realignment will have been for nothing.

Now on the one, I could say Kenny

by Hank Aaron

This has been a freakish year for no-hitters in baseball. So many pitchers have gotten through nine innings of baseball without giving up a single hit that they've made it look easy. There's no simple explanation for all the no-hitters. One reason may be that there are more good pitchers --players who may not win 20 games a season but who will win a solid 10 to 15 games a year.

I played in a fair number of no-hit games, and it was a challenge whether I was supporting the pitcher or trying to break up an opponent's no-hit bid.

The wildest game I played in was on May 29, 1959, when Harvey Haddix of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitched 12 perfect innings against my team. I don't believe we managed more that one "loud" out against him during those 12 innings. Meanwhile, the Braves' pitcher, Lew Burdette, was giving up 10 or 11 hits. But every time the Pirates got men on base he would get a ground ball that would turn into a double play and get him out of trouble. The game was sco. less until the 13th inning when Haddix gave up one hit and ended losing 1-0. That was a real heartbreaker.

In some ways, I think there is more pressure on the fielders than on the pitcher. When the ball is hit, every fielder makes a special effort to reach the ball. No one wants to be blamed for costing a pitcher a no-hit bid. Every eye in the press box will watch the play, and there always will be someone who'll point a finger at a fielder if he doesn't make the out, no matter how hard he tried.

When you are on the team that is being "victimized" by a no-hitter, you try your darndest to break it up. After all, it's embarrassing to both the player and the team to go an entire game without a single hit.

Twice, I've been the last out in a no-hitter, and that is truly embarrassing. It happened against Don Wilson of the Houston Astros and Kenny Holtzman of the Chicago Cubs. Everyone on the other team rushed the mound and started celebrating and having a good time. Meanwhile, I had to make the long, slow walk back to the dugout. The Holtzman no-hitter back in 1969 sticks in my mind for another reason. It was in that game that I hit the hardest ball I ever hit in my 23

REDS WATCH

Well, we are getting down to "dog days" in the baseball season. The Cincinnati Reds at the time of this writing are currently holding to first place in the National League West with a meager six and a half game

The next three weeks will be a deciding factor for the slumping Reds. They must come out the next three weeks with at least a four and a half bulge. Many are saying that the Reds have the advantage over second place Los Angeles and third place San Francisco because 17 of the Reds final 23 games will be played at Riverfront Stadium. I don't see it that way. The Reds, since moving into Riverfront in 1970, have never been a good team at home. Unlike the days atold Crosley Field. The Reds are 37-25 at home. That's 12 games above .500. The Oakland A's at home are 40-22; Boston Red Sox, 39-21. Pittsburgh has the worst won and lost record, 37-27, at home of the divisional leaders.

The Reds will take their last West Coast trip on September 5 when they will play the Giants two, the Dodgers three. The Reds will then come home to play 14 of their final 19 games at home. That home schedule will include three with the Dodgers and two arm for the Reds pitching staff. with the Giants. So in the next three weeks the Reds will face their challengers a total of 10 times. They must come away with a 7-3 record in those 10 games. The Reds will then finish the season playing the bottom three teams in the West, San Diego, Houston and Atlanta. Five games remain with the last place Braves, a team that has been hard for Cincinnati to handle this season. It should be an exciting final month of baseball for all Reds fans as they keep their eyes on the divisional leaders.

Another note! It is good to see Eric Davis starting to swing the bat with some consistency. Could it be the glasses he started wearing? The All-Star centerfielder has had eight hits in his last three games, raising his average some 21 points. If Davis continues to hit at this pace and Larkin can get his bat "ringing the cash register" again, the Reds could be playing for the National League Pennant past Sunday to run his record to 6-5. Mahler has always been known as a control type pitcher. He doesn't give that many bases on balls. Mahler says that he expects the Reds and Pirates to meet in the National League Playoffs come October. The Reds and Pirates split their 12 regular season games, 6-6. The two also seem to be evenly matched in every other department except the long ball where the Reds give way drastically to the Pirates. Four of the Pirates six wins over the Reds also came at Riverfront

Yet another note! The return of Tom Browning and Danny Jackson to the Reds rotation will be necessary for the Reds to win it. The "kiddie corps" cannot carry the load on the mound. A more consistent Jose Rijo would be a tremendous shot in the Rick Mahler, an emergency starter for the Reds lately, has had two outstanding outings against the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates. Mahler beat the Cubs and then the Pirates this back on August 17, 18, 19. However, it was during a time when the Reds were not playing as good as they are So, Reds fans, keep the faith and keep watching the Reds. The next three weeks will be crucial for them.

COON HUNTERS DELIGHT

The Middlecreek Sportsman Club will be holding a Coon Drag, Swim Race, Bench Show and Treeing Contest Sunday, September 9 at 10 a.m. at the Connelley Farm Pond in Salyersville. Admission to the event is $1 per person.

HORSE SHOW GREAT!

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club Horse Show was very exciting. I really enjoyed being at the show. A good crowd was on hand and the ladies did a great job of organizing the show. Some of the most beautiful horses were on display. It is amazing how they can train these large animals to do what they do. Made me want to just go home and pat old Ranger (my dog) on the head and tell him I appreciated him. I did!

MONROE RARING TO GO

Wheelwright Trojan head basketball coach, Monroe Jones, just can't wait for the basketball season to get underway. He is expecting his junior-led team to be a contender this season. Jones keeps the clock at the Trojans football games.

Bowling is an easy sport to pin down

when 9-year old Deana Cardone and her 5-year old sister, Claire, went bowling with their father recently. No one threw a gutter ball.

The explanation was simple: They were playing bumper bowling. That's where inflatable bumpers are placed inside the gutters to prevent balls from rolling off the alley.

Bumper bowling was designed to help beginners, especially children, learn the sport without becoming

'Bumper bowling is great for those just learning to bowl," says Henry Mayo, owner of Rebel Lanes here in Prestonsburg. "Especially kids."

Mayo says that bumper bowling will be coming to Rebel Lanes in the near future.

"Bumper's are so expensive," he continued. "They cost somewhere around $2,000. I have one pair located and I am definitely looking at Bowling can be played alone or in a group. Although the sport is most popular as a winter activity, it can be played year-round. It is relatively inexpensive and attracts players of all ages and ability levels.

Rebel Lanes hosted the Special Olympics last year where hundreds of handicapped kids came to bowl.

Other groups that are attracted to bowling are the winter leagues. Rebel Lanes holds leagues every night of the week with the women bowling on Monday and Thursday nights at 6:30 p.m. Mayo says there are still some openings for both nights. The men bowl also on Tuesday nights and again on Wednesday evening. There is a mixed league on Fridays at 7 p.m.

Leagues usually operate on a handicap system. This allows players of varying ability levels to compete with one another. Less accomplished players are permitted to add a specified number of points to their score each game.

The basic equipment for bowling on his being here. We're thrilled to are bowling shoes with leather soles for sliding and a bowling ball made of rubber, plastic or urethane.

For a new beginner in bowling it would cost somewhere between $70 and $80 to get the basic equipment," related Mayo. "A cheap ball would run around $45 and shoes run about Something unusual happened and buy an old ball and bring it in and People don't watch others bowl. They we will plug the holes and redrill the ball for $15.

"Basically, we have house balls beginners can use to get started and we rent shoes," continued the Rebel Lanes owner. Rebel Lanes rents their shoes for seventy-five cents per pair.

There is a difference in balls. A conventional ball will meet at the first joint on the finger going away from the hand. There is also a "fingertip ball" that meets at the first joint up the finger. Mayo says that his staff can fit anyone wanting to order a new

"Anyone of our staff here at the lanes can take a fitting ball we have and measure the bowler to a proper fit," he said.

The big advantage to bowling is not only the sport of it but the exercise it offers.

We have had people who had been golfing all summer and come back to bowl and wake up the next morning with aching muscles," says Mayo. "It is the best form of exercise that you can get. Bowling requires you to use more muscles. You bend your legs, use your arms and back."

"I had one girl come in this past year and said that she had played 72 holes of golf and bowled one time and couldn't get out of bed the next day. You use more muscles in bowling.'

Bowling is not overly complicated or strenuous. "When you are feeling stress, bowling is the best form of relief," remarked Mayo.

Some feel the game is hard to learn, but Mayo disagrees .

"Bowling is the simplest sport to learn," he added. "Bowling is less demanding that other sports. Anyone who walk and chew gum at the same time can learn to bowl."

Mayo stated that Rebel Lanes will be having instructional classes this winter and each bowler will be videotaped and shown his or her mistakes.

"The class will be mostly for women, but men can attend also," stated Mayo, "and we will show them what they are doing wrong."

Will the classes be expensive? "No, just what it costs to bowl."

Mayo says that he encourages new bowlers to join a league even if they haven't bowled before. "Some people $35. Some bowlers go to flea markets will tell me that 'I'm soembarrassed!'

are more concerned with their own

"We had a group last year from the Bank Josephine who had only one person who had ever bowled before. They won the league last year," Mayo remarked. Mayo says that value wise, bowling is much better that going to a movie. "You will pay between $7.50 to $8 to watch a movie and pay for pop and popcorn. You can bowl for two hours and drink pop and eat popcorn here and get a lot more exer-

"Not only that, but you are socializing with other people.'

Bowling is a game of concentration. There is a lot of eye-hand coordination and concentration involved. Bowling is a skill sport. The main thing in bowling is concentrating enough to put the ball in the place you want it every time.

However, bowling is more than standing there and throwing the ball. There are four or five-step approaches to learn and it helps to have someone watch you to see what your are doing wrong and to give you ideas on what you can do to improve.

'You can go and play a game of golf and shoot a 10 on the first hole and know that you are going to have a terrible game. In bowling you can leave the first three or four frames open and come back with three or four strikes and know you are going to bowl your average," says Mayo.

Rebel Lanes, like most area bowling alleys, charges around $1.25 per game and in the evenings the charge is $1.50. Open bowling is held during week days and Saturdays and Sun-

So if you are looking for a sport that you can become involved in and get plenty of exercise, go to a flea market, buy a used bowling ball and have it plugged and redrilled to fit your hand. Then go out and have a great time bowling.

Working Together to Make Good Communities Better

Civic Leadership

Leon Huffman, administrative assistant in the company's Pikeville Division, has been volunteering his time to community projects for many years. "I believe God spared my life when I had lung problems about eight years ago to do community work," said Huffman

He is currently involved in the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, Pike County Coal Expo, Pikeville Downtown Revitalization, Pikeville/Pike County Industrial & Economic Authority, Big Sandy ADD District, Coal Operators Association, Pikeville Business & Professional Association, Kentucky Council of Area Development Districts, Mountain Water District, Mountain Utilities Management Corporation, Meta Baptist Church, Thomas C. Cecil 375 F&AM and the American Heart Association.

Certainly one could say: "Where there's a community project, Leon is there doing his part to make his community an even better place to live and work."

March of Dimes

Jackie Robinson, intermediate clerk in the company's Pikeville Division, for the past three years has been volunteering her time as a team captain for the March of Dimes "Walk-a-thon."

According to Jackie, March of Dimes "Walk-a-thons" are fun and "they give me a chance to help those who may not be able to help themselves."

Special Olympics

John Fliehman, station supervisor in the company's Pikeville Division, has been involved with Special Olympics for eight years.

As an active member of the Pikeville Knights of Columbus for the past 10 years, John has helped sponsor Special Olympics, the Mental Retardation Foundation and Camp Shawnee - - a camp for mentally retarded children.

When asked why he works with these special children, John said, "It's fun. You know they appreciate your time and effort by the way they act. It's a rewarding feeling to work with these special children."

Community Committees

Ray Tosti, marketing and customer services representative in the company's Pikeville Division, volunteers his time as chairman of the Kentucky Apple Festival; president-elect, Kentucky Festival Association; chairman, St. Michael's Parish Council; director, Chamber of Commerce in Paintsville; and other various community committees.

According to Tosti, "Communities need volunteers to help make their towns better places to live and better neighborhoods for their children to grow up in. I want my children to be proud to say they're from Paintsville."

These employees are just a few of the many dedicated, hard-working volunteers throughout our company. They would all agree that "We're Working Together to Make Good Communities Better" - - better places to work, play, worship, and do business - - in short, better places to live. Kentucky Power is pleased to pay tribute to them and to recognize them for what they're doing for all of us.

Who is the Ideal American again to search for the country's Ideal American Couple. Four finalist couples will be chosen and flown to New York City for an expense paid romantic Autumn weekend. While there, one will be named the Ideal American Couple 1990, and honored with a Caribbean cruise and national TV appearance on "Live with Regis and Kathie Lee." The couples will also be featured in the February 19, 1991, issue of Family Circle maga-

The national search celebrates America's romantic mood as documented by independent surveys, a card line from American Greetings called Couples, and the more than 57 years of practical advice on romance and marriage from Family Circle, the world"s largest-selling women's magazine. To give the contest a 1990's twist, couples may submit their entries as a video or essay.

"Being named the Ideal American Couple has added to our lives and brought even closer," says Keith Brand of Baton Rouge, LA, who with his wife, Vicki, were last year's winners. "We received congratulatory letters from around the world," she adds, "but one of the most memorable souvenirs of our reign is Kolton Lee, our newborn son, born June 25,

"Like the Brands', the thousands of entries received last years were inspiring proof that America's couples are communicating and expressing their love for each other," says Caroline Kennemuth, vice president, creative development at American Greetings, and co-creator of the Couples card line.

"How heart-warming it was to read the real-life love stories of our readers who entered the contest," adds Jackie Leo, Family Circle editor-inchief. "With today's hectic lifestyles, it's encouraging to see that so many couples take the time out for romance.'

CONTESTRULES: Any couple 18 years of age and older, who are residents of the US or Canada are eligible to enter. No purchase is necessary. First they need to select a romantic category that defines their relationship and parallels one of the four stages of loves as symbolized by the Couples card line: Falling in Love (new love); In Love (sure of their love), Expressing Love (affectionate love), and Still in Love (love that has

Second the couple must submit an original essay of no more than 100 words with a photograph taken within the last three months, or a one minute videotape in which they appear. In the essay or videotape, the couple needs to describe the romantic stage of their relationship, why it is special, why they chose each other, and anything they feel makes them the Ideal American Couple.

All entries must be sent to Ideal American Couple Contest 1990, Box 4097, Blair, NE 68009. Entries must be received by September 24, 1990, and are bound by complete official rules. Additional information regarding the contest rules can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope (residents of Washington need not include postage) to: Ideal American Couple Contest 1990 Rules, Box 4389, Blair, NE 68009. Request for rules must be received by September 7, 1990.

Four finalist couples, chosen by independent representatives of American Greetings and Family Circle, will be flown to New York City for an expense-paid romantic weekend, October 17-23. The couples will see a Broadway show, enjoy a carriage ride through Central Park, be romanced with chocolates and roses and receive a beauty make-over from Family Circle. While in New York, one of the finalist couples will be chosen as the grand-prize winners during the Ideal American Couple Romantic Luncheon on October 22. That lucky couple will receive a week-long expense paid Caribbean cruise during Valentine's Day Week 1991.

Green beans, snap beans or string beans (as they were once called), are members of the legume family. This vegetable is populat throughout Kentucky and goes well with many types of meals. The green bean is mild in flavor and may be served in a variety of ways - cooked as is or prepared in casseroles, stews, soups, main dishes or cold salads. They also go well with different seasonings such as chives, dill, marjoram, mint, oregano, thyme, lemon, mustard, onion, parsley, pimiento or chili powder.

Green beans have the advantage of being low in calories and yet provide a good amount of several nutrients. One-half cup of unseasoned green beans has about 15 calories, is low in sodium, and provides fiber, vitamin A, potassium, magnesium and small amounts of folic acid and ascorbic acid.

FRESH IS BEST

Fresh green beans are available year around, but to eat freshly gathered green beans is a delightful experience that happens only during the summer months. While green beans are plentiful, preserve some for later use by freezing, canning or pickling.

SELECTING AND STORING When you purchase fresh green benas, look for crisp, tender green beans without blemishes. Pods that are well shaped with small seeds are best. They should be a bright color for the variety and should snap when bent. Store fresh pods in the vegetable crisper or a plastic bag in the refrigerator. For best quality, use

within two days. TIPS ON HANDLING

To wash beans, place them in cold water, lifting from the water into clean water until there is no dirt remaining. Snap offends. Leave whole, break or cut into bite-size pieces. For Frenchstyle beans, pull through a bean slicer or place beans on a cutting board and slice lengthwise with a knife.

1/4 tsp mustard seed (per pint jar) 1/2 tsp dill seed (per pint jar) 1 clove garlice (per pint jar) 5 cups (1 1/4 quarts) vinegar 5 cups (1 1/4 quarts) water 1/2 cup salt

Wash beans thoroughly; drain and cut into lengths to fill pint jars. Pack beans into clean, hot jars; add pepper, mustard seed, dill seed and garlic. Combine vinegar, water and salt; heat to boiling. Pour boiling liquid over beans, filling to 1/2 inch from top of jar. Adjust jar lids. Process in boiling water for 5 minutes (start to count processing time as soon as water in canner returns to boiling). Remove jars and complete seals if necessary. Set jars upright on a wire rack or foled towel

HOW TO FREEZE FRESH GREEN BEANS

1. Select young, tender beans that snap when broken.

2. Allow 2/3 to 1 pound of fresh beans for 1 pint frozen beans. Wash thoroughly.

3. Remove and discard ends and strings, if necessary.

4. Cut or break beans into 1 or 2 inch pieces.

5. Place beans in blanching basket in boiling water.

6. Heat 3 minutes (2 minutes for Frech-style); keep heat high under

7. Plunge the basket of beans into cold water. 8. When cool, remove beans from water. Drain well. 9. Pack beans into fresh bags or containers.

10. Leave 1.2 inch headspace. Seal by twisting and folding back top of bag with a twist tie. 1. Freeze immediately. Store at 0 degrees.

Homer Wells Needed An Accident Like A Hole In The Head.

rescue squad, all of them... we do appreciate them!'

ONE ALMOST KILLED HIM, THE OTHER SAVED HIS LIFE.

The blizzard struck early on December 15. High winds, drifting snow. Cablevision manager Homer Wells had the day off, but came in to help his repair crews. On remote Sugar Loaf mountain it happened.

While cutting away a tree from a downed cable, the heavy trunk suddenly broke loose. Its full force slammed the side of Homer's head and bludgeoned him to the ground.

Co-worker, Nathan Frisby, radioed for help. Ambulance team Sam Stephens and Johnny Spencer, struggled over slick roads, then on foot, up Sugar Loaf. They delivered Homer unconscious to the Emergency Room, the ER, at Highlands.

ER physicians didn't like what they saw. A severely fractured skull and worse, a subdural hematoma — a huge blood blister swelling against Homer's brain — a killer without immediate neurosurgery. The closest neurosurgeon was at Cabell Huntington Hospital. Roads were impassable. Copters grounded. Time running out.

Holes had to be drilled in Homer's skull to relieve the pressure. Risky, but no choice. On the phone with UK Medical Center, ER physicians opened two holes successfully. But special follow-up care was urgently needed, so a treacherous trip began. Accompanied by a Highlands physician, Homer was moved by ambulance to Huntington. There, neurosurgeons credited Highlands' quick and bold response with saving Homer's life.

The injury has left Homer temporarily impaired with a condition that can be treated with physical therapy. Meanwhile, his wife, Christine, speaks for him: "He's doing great. The doctors at Highlands did save his life. You couldn't ask to be treated any better."

Artists and Craftsperson from festival so successful. Many of the eight states will gather at Fenton in Land Between the Lakes for the annual Labor Day Arts and Crafts Festival on Sept. 1, 2 and 3. Nearly 200 exhibitors have registered to show and sell an almost endless variety of handmade items.

Sponsors of the event are making arrangements to accomodate a record crowd, especially with the record number of exhibits already registered. The 1989 show drew 151 craftsperson and more than 17,000 visitors, making it the largest event of its type in Western Kentucky.

But, says Peggy Wright of Kentucky's Western Waterland, there is more. Music will be provided by Jack Jones who will feature the Dulcimer. He is traveling to this region from Georgia and encourages active participation in his shows. Both he and his wife will be entertaining all three days. Food concessions will also be on hand and a variety of drinks.

A crew of approximately 75 people, most of whom are volunteers, is necessary to handle all the various jobs which help to make the

they want to look. Two or three months after birth, the baby will be able to control its head movement much better.

That's among some of the informational tips for new parents offered recently by Kosair Children's Hospital in Louisville, an affiliate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine and Alliant Health System. There's more:

Babies cannot keep their eyes steady for long periods. Since newborn babies' eye muscles are weak, it is not surprising that sometimes their eyes look in different directions. If a baby's eyes cross once in a while, there is nothing to worry about. If the eye crossing becomes habitual after two or three months of age, you will want to tell the baby's doctor.

Babies smile when comfortable and feeling good. At around a month or six weeks of age, the baby learns to smile on purpose.

Babies hear before they are born. Soon after birth they learn to turn their head toward sounds. They like soothing and gentle sounds. For this reason, it is very important to talk a lot to babies in a gentle, calm voice.

What kinds of sounds will the baby make? Besides crying, a newborn makes little grunting noises. After several months, these little noises turn into what we call cooing. Then comes a period of trying out different sounds, called babbling. You may hear a five-month-old baby just playing at mak-ing sounds over and over.

"4th Year Of Business"

Human babies can see when first born, but they cannot turn their head well enough to look exactly where Some time after that, the baby will learn to say "Da-Da," which is easiest, and then "Ma-Ma" and "Bye-ing and grabbing, first using the whole Bye." By the time it is a little over a year old, the child will probably be able to say three more words. All babies have different rates at which they begin talking.

A baby doesn't understand the meaning behind words as older childrendo. For example, the word "NO" doesn't mean much to a baby. It may understand that the parent is upset when she or he says no by the tone of voice, but that's all. The baby doesn't understand it should stop what it is doing. This has to be learned, so tender patience on the part of the parent is required.

Because all the muscles are weak, it is hard for a baby to control body movements. A newborn only has a little control of its head. It can bobble it to one side or the other when on the stomach, but cannot lift it up when lying on the back. When held in a sitting position, the baby can only hold its head still for a moment before it tips one way or the other.

This means that when you put the baby on its stomach, it can move the head if it happens to spit up. This also means that as you handle the baby, you should support the head with your hand or arm to help keep the head from wobbling.

The child will be able to hold its own head upright by three or four months of age. At two to three months, a baby is learning to control its head. And by four months, it learns to roll

These abilities, the new things a baby can do, are called milestones. Each baby has its own rate of growing and learning new behaviors and Babies have very important and strong reflexes. That means the baby moves or responds automatically. One movement like this is called a startle or Moro reflex. When it hears a sudden loud noise, or is moved suddenly, the baby throws outs its legs and arms and cries.

Another reflex the baby has is the sucking and rooting reflex. When you touch or stroke the baby's cheek, it turns toward the touch and opens the mouth, trying to suck whatever is Another automatic movement is the grasp reflex. When something touches the inside of the baby's hand, it grabs it very tightly and after a minute or so lets go.

These reflexes tend to protect the baby from danger and help it cope with an unfamiliar world. When the baby is three or four months old, it learns to corral or to bring both arms ing and grabbing, first using the whole hand. Later the baby uses its thumb and fingers to pick things up.

A baby doesn't learn to sit alone until sometime between six and nine months. Creeping and then crawling, standing and then walking come gradually toward the end of the first year of baby's life. Most babies are walking by 14 months.

What about sleeping? Newborn babies may sleep more than older babies, but their sleep is in shorter time periods. Out of each 24 hours, a new baby sleeps about 12 to 14 hours. This means the baby is awake from will help you get to know and to eight to 12 hours. will help you get to know and to enjoy your baby better. eight to 12 hours.

A baby may sleep only half an hour at one time, and for hours another time. Few babies sleep as long as five hours at a time at first. Sleeping through the night means a baby sleeps a long stretch of time, such as from midnight to 5 a.m. That doesn't usually happen until six to 12 weeks of age. It may not happen until six months or more.

You may want to so some reading on your own to find out more about what babies do and how they grow. Besides pamphlets and booklets you may have, the public library has many books that may be helpful. Ask the librarian to help you find something. Knowing what to expect of your baby smile can be affordable.

Martha Sexton (now deal)...Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE Kenneth Ray Sexton and Doc Rey-

FLOYD CIRCUIT

....Defendants nolds, Jr... By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the March 30 term, 1990, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 13 day of September, 1990, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit: That certain tract of land, lying and being on the waters of Branhams Creek of Big Mud Creek, in or near Grethel in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being the same land conveyed Doc Reynolds, Jr. by Kenneth Ray Sexton on May 10, 1989, as recorded in Deed Book 327, page 645, in the records of the Floyd County Clerk's Office on May 23, 1989, described more particularly as follows:

Beginning at the branch about 20 foot to a marker running up the point of the hollow to the top of hill to an oak tree; thus on up the hill to the Step Rocks at the back of the rocks to an oak tree; thus running down the point to the mouth of Clearing Hollow to a Sycamore to a branch at the head of the branch; thus running down the branch to the second drain on the right hand side of the branch; thus running back to a 20 foot road at the point of beginning. A 15 foot road is excepted in this property for family use. Containing 14 acres, more or less.

The mineral is exclused from this

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $11,252.00, accrued interest of $3,690.65, with interest thereon at 9.535% annually from the 1 day of July, 1990 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 27 day of August, 1990. MARSHALL DAVIDSON,

Master Commissioner
