Truck, car collide :

Teaberry man dies in mishap

A two-vehicle collision Wednesday afternoon involving a coal truck and a passenger car on Rt. 979 at Teaberry resulted in the death of a Floyd County man.

According to Kentucky State Police in Pikeville, Sterling J. "Bud" Hamilton, 32, of Teaberry, died at approximately 11:50 p.m. Wednesday from injuries suffered in a two vehicle collision on Rt. 979. The accident occurred as Hamilton was traveling North on Rt. 979 when he rounded a curve and was struck by the front tandem axle of a tractor trailer rig driven by Richard Ousley, of Drift. Ousley was not injured in the accident.

Hamilton was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Deputy Coroner Glen Frazier. No seatbelts were in use at the time of the accident, which remains under investigation by Troopers John Blanton and Danny Stumbo of the Kentucky State Police.

Deputy Coroner Glen Frazier said Wednesday that Hamilton died from "multiple trauma and fractures to the chest." Funeral services for Hamilton will be 10 a.m. Saturday, December 8, at the Samara Old Regular Baptist Church at Teaberry under the direction of the Nelson Frazier Funeral Home.

Mine work eases fears near Garth

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd Countians traveling KY Route 122 on Left Beaver will notice a significant difference in the road condition near Garth this winter—no ice on the road. Also, a Left Beaver family's fears of their home sliding off the hillside are being relieved.

As part of a federal Abandoned Mine Land (AML) project, a landslide beside the Floyd County Technical High School is being removed and water seeping from an abandoned coal mine is now being channeled through a culvert under the road. The Garth reclamation project contract was awarded on September 28 to Nickell Brothers Dozer Inc. for approximately $116,000 and is expected to be complete December 14.

The Claude Hall Reclamation project was more complicated and required the Hall home to be moved in order to remove a landslide that had moved under the house, said Bob Fleming, chief of the Ashland office of AML.

The damage to the hillside behind the home is extensive and is the direct result of an abandoned underground mine, Fleming said. A gabion wall

Service fees will help defray costs :

Development of 911 system is advancing; more work needed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Work on the county's 911 emergency telephone system is progressing daily but it will still be some time before the system will be operational.

County and Prestonsburg City officials are in process of locating and naming roads and streets in the service district to ensure all Floyd Countians can be located in the event of an emergency.

"We're still quite a bit of time off (before the system is functional)," said Floyd County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo. "During our investigation, we have found three areas named Spurlock and many other areas that have the same name or no name at all. We've got to get these areas identified before we can proceed."

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta said city workers have encountered the same problems with several city streets having similar names and other streets having no name.

"We are going to bring the matter before the (city) council at Monday's meeting and decide how to proceed on this," Latta said. "But, we are still a long way off from having the service operational."

South Central Bell customers have noticed an 89 cent charge on their telephone bills for the 911 service and are wondering why it is being charged when the service is not available.

The service charge is being levied now in order to generate enough funds to pay for the computerized system once it is put into place, Stumbo said. The system will display on a computer screen the name, address and telephone number of the residence where the call is being placed as soon as a dispatcher answers the call.

"That way if someone is calling who can't speak, we'll know whose home it is and where they live and someone can be dispatched to check out the situation," Stumbo said.

The county has finished an updated, detailed map of the entire county with all residences listed, Stumbo said. After all the unnamed roads and hollows are designated, the postal service will assist the county in pinpointing locations, he said.

The central dispatch office for 911 could be located in a new jail, which is currently being discussed by the fiscal court, Stumbo said. The state Corrections Cabinet ordered the court last year to construct a new jail due to the condition of the existing jail. The court recently received a feasibility study pertaining to the construction of a new facility.

Stumbo said the court is presently trying to determine what type of facility is needed.

"The study says we will need 95 beds in the year 2010 or 2015," Stumbo said. "We are at the stage right now of trying to decide how many beds to include. No matter what, it's probably going to cost $2-$3 million. We're going to be doing something pretty quick about the situation. But, we may include the central dispatch office for 911 in the new jail."

Joe Jones, a South Central Bell representative, spoke to the fiscal court last October about the 911 system. At that time, it was estimated it would cost $58,123 for installation of the system and a $4,455 monthly fee would be charged for operation. Jones estimated it would take two years to get the system operational.

Bond reduced for suspect; hearing held :

Police offer murder info

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A $1 million bond was lowered Wednesday to $250,000 for a Louisville man charged with the murder of his 85-year-old father and the case was bound over to the Floyd County Grand Jury at a pre-trial hearing in district court.

Douglas Hughes, 48, was arrested November 29 at his Louisville home on a murder warrant in connection with the shooting death of Billie Hughes of Salt Lick. Hughes was found dead November 24 at his Salt Lick residence, the victim of four gunshot wounds.

Doug Hughes appeared in court Wednesday with his attorney, Gerald DeRossett, to listen to evidence presented by Kentucky State Police Detective Kenneth Slone to determine if the case should be bound over to a grand jury. Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton represented the state at the hearing.

During questioning by Patton, Detective Slone said Hughes admitted to shooting his father because he, Doug Hughes, felt his father was visiting his mother, Buleah, too much while she was a patient at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

When Slone was asked how Doug Hughes came to be a suspect in his father's murder, Slone replied that neighbors had seen Hughes' car leaving from the direction of Billie Hughes' residence around the time of the murder and, "Doug Hughes told me he shot him," Slone said.

According to the detective's testimony, Doug Hughes and his father had "bad feelings" between them since Doug Hughes was a teenager. Slone's description of Billie Hughes, based on interviews with family members and neighbors, painted Hughes as a "man set in his ways who wanted everything his way and was strict with his children."

Defense attorney DeRossett asked Slone if any witnesses or Hughes had alleged Billie Hughes had been abusive toward his son.

"Hughes said his father had whipped him before and when he came back home after being away for a time, when he was younger, his father didn't want him going out of the hollow and told him he was going to quit smoking," Slone said.

When DeRossett asked Slone if Billie Hughes had a violent past, Slone responded he had been told by witnesses, but had not verified that Billie Hughes had served two prison terms for two separate killings.

Slone said family members had (See Murder, page two)

For certified status :

Martin to consider application

by Tim B. Preston
Staff writer

Martin City officials are considering participation in the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Certified Cities program following a Wednesday night visit by Floyd County Chamber of Commerce representatives.

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta was joined by Chamber of Commerce representatives Delores Smith and Chalmer Frazier in presenting the various aspects of the program, explaining that if the city of Martin were approved by the program, Floyd County would be the first county in the state to have two certified cities within its boundaries. Mayor Latta also said that although Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Paintsville did not receive certified city status upon initial application, she believes the city of Martin could be certified during its first year. "If you take a look at your city and see what you have to offer, you will find things that you hadn't counted on," said Latta.

The Martin officials took no action on the issue during their regular council meeting Wednesday, but did agree to work with Chamber of

"Tis the season for holiday rip offs and Prestonsburg Assistant Police Chief Roy Roberts has a few tips to help holiday shoppers avoid problems.

Holiday Shoppers Beware

"If you have packages to put in the car while you are going to another store, put them in the trunk of your car," Roberts said Thursday. "These people are out to steal packages, tape cases, stereos or anything they see laying out. The best advice is to lock the car up with no packages or valuables in plain view."

According to police, holiday rip-off artists prey on the confusion and bustle associated with holiday shopping. Roberts points out that small changes in shopping habits can remove the opportunity for thieves to swipe valuables. "Women leave their purses in shopping carts at stores while they aren't with the cart. Somebody can come by and snap up that purse and be gone before they know what's happening," he said.

Roberts recommends that women carrying purses either leave them on their shoulder or have someone else watch the bag.

Officer Rick Conn also recommends that wallets and other valuables be kept out of sight of potential thieves by leaving the items at home or at least keeping them concealed in a closed purse.

The Prestonsburg Police Department will have extra officers patrolling shopping areas in the city throughout the holiday shopping season, with undercover and auxiliary officers in stores and parking lots. Handicap parking and fire lane enforcement will also be double checked through the season.

"Prevention is the key," said Roberts. "If a thief doesn't see something he wants in a car, he probably won't break into the car. A little common sense goes a long way," he added.

For educational reform in Kentucky :

New year ushers in more of state's New Deal

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Many of the provisions are already in place or in the works, but the roots of Kentucky's Education Reform Act will begin to take hold in 1991, when a new year ushers in a New Deal for education in the commonwealth.

Kentucky's Education Reform Act has been described as historic, monumental, dramatic and unique. But in most circles, it's known simply as House Bill 940.

Adjectives aside, House Bill 940 changes the way Kentucky school children are educated. It's an out-with-the-old, in-with-the-new system which began with a court ruling that declared its predecessor unconstitutional. House Bill 940 became law during the 1990 session of Kentucky's General Assembly and many of its aspects took effect last July.

As the new year arrives in just a little more than three weeks, more provisions of the reform measure move from the drawing board to the assembly line. Reconstruction of the state's educational system continues throughout the year.

The reform timetable for 1991, as developed by Kentucky's Legislative Research Commission, includes:

-On January 1, Kentucky's first Commissioner of Education takes office. Thomas C. Boysen has been named to that post. The Commissioner will be Kentucky's chief state school officer, replacing the elected Superintendent of Public Instruction in the role.

-On January 1, a new Office of Education Accountability will be formed to monitor implementation of the reform act, investigate wrongdoing and report to the legislature. Dr. Penney Sanders, a Bullitt County principal, was named this week to head the new department.

-By January 1, each local board of education must have adopted a policy for implementing school-based decision making in the district.

-By January 1, an Interagency Task Force on Family Resource Centers and Youth Services Centers is to have a completed implementation plan for development of those centers.

-By January 1, the state's Council for Educational Technology is to have a completed five-year plan for educational technology.

-By January 1, the state Board of Education is authorized to adopt regulations establishing standards school districts shall meet in student, program, service and operational performance. Those regulations become effective on July 1, 1991.

-On June 30, 1991, all employment positions in the Department of Education will be abolished.

-On June 30, the Commissioner of Education shall recommend to the Division of School Finance a method for funding continuing education.

-On June 30, each district with fewer than 20,000 students shall have joined a consortium involving two or told him Billie Hughes had a bad temper and usually carried a gun.

DeRossett asked if Doug Hughes had a criminal background and Slone testified Doug Hughes was arrested in 1972 in Floyd County for shooting someone with intent to kill but the victim later dropped the charges.

Billie Hughes was found dead with a .38 caliber handgun in his front pants pocket, Slone said, but there was no indication he was trying to get the weapon.

Doug Hughes was "highly intoxicated" when detectives arrested him at his Louisville home, Slone said, and he was not questioned about the murder until the next morning. "That's when he told me he shot his father."

Doug Hughes apparently went to his father's home one last time to try to convince him not to visit his wife so often in the hospital, Slone said. The two apparently argued over the matter and Doug Hughes shot his father, Slone said.

DeRossett asked Slone if Hughes had indicated he acted in self-defense.

"He said his father put his hand in his front pocket and he (Doug Hughes) then began firing over his father's head and he didn't stop until he shot his father three or four times," Slone said.

Doug Hughes' brother, sister, wife and several family members attended the hearing and were prepared to testify on Hughes' behalf, DeRossett said when requesting a bond reduction. DeRossett said he felt Hughes would not flee the state and bond should be lowered.

"What we have here at the most is reckless homicide or manslaughter," DeRossett said. "I don't feel he is a risk (to flee)."

Patton countered with, "A man who is shot in the back of the head and in the back is murder. That's the charge we intend to pursue before the grand jury. I feel he is a good risk to flee, he doesn't reside in this county and due to the prior shooting incident, he has a history of violence," Patton said.

Attorneys agreed on the $250,000 bond.

Slone said preliminary autopsy reports indicated Billie Hughes had been shot from a downward angle and two slugs were recovered from the body. He noted the home did not appear to have been ransacked and no items in the home seemed to be out of place.

The case will be brought before a Floyd County Grand Jury in January.

Hughes remained lodged in the Floyd County Jail Thursday.

Surgery Open House

Highlands Regional Medical Center's nursing staff was recognized for their dedication to their patients and to the surgeons during OR Nurses' Day on November 15.

HRMC wing has open house

Rarely is anyone allowed a glimpse behind the closed doors of the operating room. However, on November 15, an Operating Room Open House was held to celebrate National Operating Room Nurses' Day.

"Behind the scenes" corridors and surgery rooms were opened for Highlands personnel to tour and see the complex instruments and equipment used in surgery.

As part of the celebration a luncheon was held for the operating room nurses with Dr. Nabil Basha, Highlands Chief of Surgery, giving a brief talk. He stated "Appreciation is the word to describe the feeling of all the surgeons at HRMC toward the OR nurses, technicians, and anesthetists. Your extreme dedication is beyond reproach. On behalf of all my colleagues I extend our sincere thanks to each and every one of you for a job well done."

OR nurses are vital members of the surgical team. Their diverse responsibilities range from assisting in surgical procedures and patient education to maintaining a clean, sterile environment. Their goal is to provide the best professional nursing care possible to the surgical patient. And they are always there to hold a hand, to offer words of encouragement, and to comfort, smile and care.

Highlands' OR nurses are committed to continuing education, with one example being Rhonda Scanlon, RN, who recently received her certification as a CNOR (Certified nurse in the operating room). Highlands' OR nursing staff consists of eight registered nurses.

The OR nursing staff thanks all those who helped to make their day special.

with a performance of the cantata "King of Love" by the First Baptist Church. The Prestonsburg High School Honor Choir will join with the Methodist Choir for a 6:30 p.m. performance. More performances may be scheduled as groups confirm dates throughout the two week period.

Thursday, December 13, has been dedicated as "Career Day" at the mall, with all Floyd County High School seniors being transported downtown to meet with representatives of colleges and universities, as well as local businesses. "We encourage parents to visit on career day," said James. "They need an opportunity to meet these people just as much as their kids do."

The Winter Fest Mall will actually be found in two downtown locations. The arts and crafts, state agency displays, church bazaars and merchant exhibitions will be found in the Court Street location of the former Dollar Store. Performance exhibitions and concerts will be held across the street in the former location of the Dove House Christian Bookstore. Shoppers will find a convenient entrance to the mall from the parking lot behind the store, as well as free parking on downtown streets throughout the month of December.

"It is very much a festival atmosphere," said Prestonsburg Tourism Director Fred James. "We will have the area craftsmen and musicians and people everywhere. We will have guest appearances by Santa Claus and possibly the Teen Age Mutant Ninja Turtles. It is a very exciting project."

Commerce representatives toward an application for the program.

After the regular meeting was called to order, Councilman Denzil Halbert made a motion to have Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith approach the State Public Service Commission to protest a requested 22.6 percent raise in natural gas prices by the Martin Gas Company. The motion was approved by the council, although Councilman Earrit Hayes noted, "You protested the last one and it didn't do you any good, did it?"

Mayor Griffith informed the council that Governor Wallace Wilkinson had pledged to match funds of $20,000 for the Martin Area Community Recreation Organization (MACRO) during the recent Capitol to the Counties session held in Pikeville. "He (Wilkinson) thought it was a great idea," said Griffith. "He said that if I could bring him a $20,000 bank slip from MACRO that he would match $20,000 toward the project. We've got until he's out of office to get this done." According to the mayor, MACRO has already raised $8,000 for a city park project.

Griffith also stated that he had prepared a list of names for city streets to be used in conjunction with 911 emergency service maps. The street names will be adopted or rejected at a future meeting of the Martin City Council.

Before adjourning to executive session, council members approved a $100 cost of living adjustment for all Martin city employees.

After returning to regular session, council members approved the hiring of two assistant fire chiefs and a custodian. The assistant fire chief positions will pay $200 per month for 35 to 39 hours on the job. The custodian position was approved without a salary or job requirements. No personnel have been approved to fill the positions.

All council members were present at the meeting except E.P. Grigsby Sr. and John Maddox. The next regular meeting of the Martin City Council will be 7:00 p.m. Wednesday, January 2, at Martin City Hall.

Truck accident detours traffic

A Prestonsburg man narrowly escaped injury on North Lake Drive Wednesday night when a street light came crashing into the roof of his truck.

Kenneth W. Damron, 29, of Prestonsburg, escaped injury when a scrap metal truck he was following caused a utility pole to break, allowing the large street light attached to crash into the Damron vehicle. The pole was broken by a piece of scrap metal which jutted from a truck owned by Landon Ray Daniels of Ashland.

"The driver of the scrap truck said that he felt the load shift," said Prestonsburg Police Officer Mike Omerod. "Then when he looked back he said he heard the pole snap and saw sparks flying."

Prestonsburg police officers blocked North Lake Drive to traffic for approximately six hours while Kentucky Power employees installed a new utility pole and restored power to the lines. Fifteen members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department assisted in the operation with emergency lighting equipment.

No injuries were reported and no charges were filed in connection with the incident.

will be installed behind the home and a retaining wall will be constructed on the embankment in front of the home to stabilize the slide. Extensive drainage pipes will be installed around the home to divert the draining water from the coal mine.

AML crews had to move the home in order to perform the necessary work to contain the slide and will move it back when the project is complete, Fleming said.

A $534,000 contract was given to Branham Enterprises of McDowell September 9 and the project is expected to be complete March 3.

Both projects are being funded from the AML's emergency fund, which allows the department to immediately begin work on projects when the health and human safety of residents are in jeopardy as a direct result of abandoned coal mines.

Ask, and ye shall receive

by Scott Perry

The winds of change are gusting, but there's time for calm before the storm.

The ongoing debate over the ifs and wheres of a new Prestonsburg High School appears headed for a boil come January, when the power structure of the Floyd County Board of Education is likely to change.

There is time, though, to lower the heat and to avoid a scalding.

Before any more action is taken on the proposed new school, the current board should accept the fact that it could all be for naught when 1991 arrives.

This week, one member of the board noted that "the people" do not want the school moved outside the downtown area.

In response to that claim, another board member asked, "how do you know?"

That, friends, is the question.

It is a question easily answered.

Ask those who are to be affected by the decision.

With millions of dollars set aside for this project, a few hundred bucks set aside for testing public opinion would be money well spent.

Board members, like any elected officials, are employed to serve the wishes of their constituents.

So let's hear what those constituents wish and put the horse before the cart.

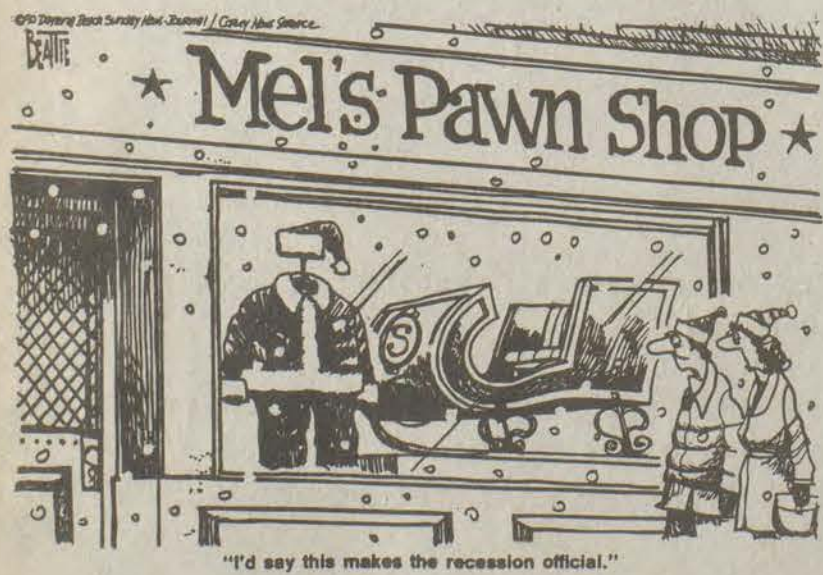

That's the only way to travel.

A day to remember

Today is Pearl Harbor Day, the 49th anniversary of the beginning of World War II.

Take a moment today to reflect on the sacrifices of those who gave their lives for their country during that conflict, then flip over a few pages to find the addresses of local servicemen and women stationed with troops in Operation Desert Shield.

Drop them a line. They'll surely appreciate hearing how much we appreciate them.

Letters

Editor:

As each day passes, we all see, hear, or read how this world is tethering between war and peace.

I believe that war has not erupted yet, because of the one weapon everyone has, prayer. God has given everyone, young or old, big or small this mighty weapon, but our school system is hindering some from using this weapon. Almost every Wednesday night, the night most churches have prayer meetings, there is a ballgame or other school activity.

Even, the school board meets on Wednesday night.

This causes parents and students to have to choose between church and school. Also, recently on Sunday morning, I saw some of the youth leaving church. When asked where they were going, they replied, "Basketball practice and majorette practice." If these students had refused to attend practice they would have been penalized. Once again, God's weapon was weakened.

But, after thinking about this, I realized it was not only the school system's fault, but the public's fault as well. We attend the Wednesday night games and agree to the Sunday practices. Therefore, I say it's time we stop.

There are seven days in a week, surely the schools in this system do not have to schedule games on Wednesday night and coaches could give their teams a day of rest. So that we can all join together to use the strongest weapon to bring about peace -- prayer.

Between The Lines

by Susan Allen

'Tis the season, unfortunately, for those women who feel the need to ask Santa for a "social statement" fur coat to measure, supposedly, their success in the world.

Instead, the statement being made is that they are shallow enough to believe paying $5-$10,000 for the hides of small animals, whose lives consist of daily suffering for human vanity, somehow catapults them into the high society category.

All they are doing is padding the pockets of furriers who have no conscience and are only interested in making a buck off those who are stupid enough to pay for a fur coat.

Believe it or not, flannel is sexier than fur.

It's more rewarding to love an animal than to strip it of its hide and wear it on your back.

Power of the Press.

That phrase is heard countless times daily in good and bad light. But the truth remains, if you want a public official to do his job, which is to serve the people who elected him, show him not doing his job, then stand back and watch out. Bad press can make him do more work in one week than he will do on his own all year.

Wouldn't it be nice if our elected officials maintained our roads, listened to our gripes, cleaned our culverts and did what they're paid to do without a little "Press Prodding"?

Say, when is Santa Claus coming to town?

Notes

by Kathleen Carroll

Attack of the incumbent spouses!

Carol Hubbard may have a difficult time running for office in the 7th district where tolerance for political spouses is running low. She either needs to hit the issues early or downplay the former beauty queen credentials. Her sudden hankering to return to the mountains smacks of opportunism, or is this the 1992 political season's first sighting of buzzards circling the corpse?

Martha Wilkinson's track record is sure to affect Mrs. Hubbard's chances of success. Mrs. Wilkinson's unannounced candidacy for the governor's office has raised more questions than money (and she has raised a lot of money). Will the tactic of an 11th hour announcement make a successful grand entrance onto the political scene, or should politicians be coy? Even more damaging may be Mrs. Wilkinson's acceptance of campaign contributions from garbage operators while her husband, the governor, is seeking to bar out-of-state waste from Kentucky landfills. Talk about (forgive the phrase) politics making strange bedfellows!

First Martha, now Carol... what will be next, offspring of politicians running for office? — oops! Sorry, Chris.

All in all, the business of championing the family name is a power grab that could strangle this state. It is an indication that we are now, more than ever, in need of new politicians whose naivete will not hinder their creativity in finding solutions, and whose lack of political connection will not allow the present political machines to continue gorging themselves.

A word about the Fiesta football fracas

It is a shame that the residents of Arizona have rejected a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr. It is an outrage that the University of Louisville football team would agree to appear in the Fiesta Bowl, turning a deaf ear to the urgings of many Kentuckians.

In reality, the issue of a Martin Luther King Jr. holiday should never have come to a vote. In Arizona (speaking as a former resident) residents were asked to vote on the holiday because the politicians refused to take a stand that might prove unpopular and endanger their political careers. It was a nice, clean way of giving "the people what they want" without jeopardizing their popularity. Unfortunately, the selection of Americans who have distinguished themselves in service to this country is also reduced to a popularity contest — much like we elect cheerleaders.

Using this model, perhaps we should begin the tradition of staging an annual holiday election to honor those who have proven to be the most popular. Let's set aside a paid holiday, unnamed of course because the person being honored will change, and elect the most popular American — criteria and credentials not required.

UoFL, please withdraw from the Fiesta Blunder — a move that will bring you more respect than a winning football team.

Lottery sponsors Harvest Food bank

The Kentucky Lottery Corporation is sponsoring the Second Harvest Food Bank network as part of its "Fun and Games" instant ticket promotion, lottery officials announced this week at the God's Pantry Food Bank in Lexington.

James E. Hosker, president of the Kentucky Lottery, presented checks totaling $8,802.75 to the Second Harvest network. The Second Harvest's Lexington area food bank, God's Pantry, received $3,785.19 as its share of the lottery funds.

"For every losing Fun and Games ticket collected at Lottery retailers, five cents goes to feed the hungry through the Second Harvest Good Bank network," Hosker said. "The funds collected through this promotion are distributed directly to Second Harvest's seven regional food banks serving Kentucky."

The Second Harvest food banks, which provide food to needy persons in Kentucky are God's Pantry, Lexington region; Day to Care, Louisville region; Kentucky Food Bank, Elizabethtown region; Purchase Area Development District, Mayfield region; Free Store Food Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio, servicing the Northern Kentucky region; Huntington Food Bank, Huntington, West Virginia, servicing the Ashland, Kentucky region, and Tri-State Food Bank, Evansville, Ind., servicing the Owensboro, Kentucky region.

"The amount of money sent to each regional food bank is based upon the population of poverty levels in each Kentucky county within the food bank's service area," Hosker said. God's Pantry will receive 43.1 percent of the Kentucky Lottery allocation to the Second Harvest Food Bank network since its poverty population accounts for approximately 43.1 percent of the total persons in poverty for the state of Kentucky.

Ministers provide team healing service

Minister on call

Rev. Rolland Benstrup, chairman of Highland Regional's Medical Center's Minister-on-Call program, Mary Flannery, PBX supervisor, and Kathy Allen, director of volunteer services, discuss benefits provided to patients by this ministry of healing service.

The needs of a patient are many, with physician and nursing care being primary. However, spiritual needs are most often served by a minister. In many cases where death may be imminent or has already occurred, the patient and his family need the comfort of a minister. Likewise, the elderly or terminally ill patient often needs the counseling of a minister.

The Minister-on-Call program has been in existence for several years at Highlands Regional Medical Center. It provides counseling and guidance not only to patients, but to everyone in the hospital. These visiting ministers make rounds daily and carry a beeper for 24 hour availability and emergencies.

Chairman of the volunteer ministers, Rolland (Benny) Benstrup, has been providing a ministry of healing at Highlands for four years. Reverend Benstrup says when he gets a referral from the cleaning lady mopping the floor and she asks him to see someone because they've been crying, he goes to help because he knows he is needed.

The main reason Rev. Benstrup became involved in the program is the team ministry which brings healing into people's lives. "In the team, we help each other," he explained.

The Minister-on-Call will counsel patients and their families or, if needed, contact their minister. Rev. Benstrup says this is the best program he has ever been in.

Eight active ministers from the surrounding area comprise the Minister-on-Call program. Their services are voluntary and they are scheduled on weekly rotations. Participating in the program are the following ministers: William Pollack, Mayo United Methodist Church, Paintsville; Father Joseph Muench, St. Martha's Catholic Church, Prestonsburg; Hondel Adams, First Christian Church, Prestonsburg; Ron Masters, Community United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg; Tim Jessen, First Presbyterian Church, Prestonsburg; Jennings West, Lancer Baptist Church; Jack Perry, Martin Church of Christ, Martin; and Rolland (Benny) Benstrup, Our Savior Lutheran Church, Paintsville.

Kathy Allen, director of volunteer services, stated, "The ministers provide a valuable service to the patients and staff and are always dependable. The nurses realize how important this service is to the patients and are a good source for referrals to the ministers."

Anyone can make a referral to the Minister-on-Call program by contacting any nurses station or the hospital operator. Ministers wishing to participate in the Minister-on-Call program should contact Kathy Allen at 1-800-533-HRMC, or 886-8511.

Osteopathic Medicine Serves America's Underserved

In America, the land of plenty, there are plenty of people who do not have access to quality medical care. The medically underserved population is comprised of individuals and entire families who face roadblocks to adequate healthcare.

Recent findings by the federal Pepper Commission suggest that there are 31 million Americans with no health insurance, and another 21 million who are underinsured. In addition to the economic barriers, it is increasingly difficult for the millions of Americans living in rural areas to find adequate healthcare.

"The medically underserved include the uninsured and underinsured; the poor, including the working poor; the elderly; and those living in rural areas and inner cities," says Mitchell Kasovac, D.O., President of the American Osteopathic Association.

Surprisingly, the majority of uninsured Americans are employed full-time. Some work for companies that provide health insurance plans which require extensive cost sharing, making some medical services unaffordable for employees. Some workers are excluded from health coverage due to a pre-existing condition. Others do not have health insurance as part of their benefit package because their employers simply cannot afford to insure the health of their workers.

The Medicaid system, a healthcare public assistance program funded by state and federal government, assists only 40 percent of the poor. Some Americans do not know how to enter the system or do not have the appropriate information to file an application. Others do not apply because of language barriers.

"Families living in rural and inner-city communities encounter healthcare barriers of their own," according to Dr. Kasovac. Rural residents often must travel a great distance to seek medical care. In large cities transportation systems are often deficient when it comes to transporting the elderly and the ill. As a result, a person may be in the advanced stages of a disease when they finally get treated.

The availability of services is also a problem in rural areas. Small community hospitals often do not have enough doctors on staff or enough emergency room physicians. Small hospitals also may have limited testing facilities.

Since 1892, osteopathic physicians have been serving the medically underserved, especially those in rural areas. While osteopathic physicians make up only 5 percent of the total physician population, they comprise 15 percent of all physicians practicing in the areas where the population is 10,000 or less.

"From physicians who volunteer their time at inner city homeless shelters, to those who are the lone physicians in rural areas, osteopathic medicine has a history of providing healthcare to those who need it most," says Dr. Kasovac.

The American Osteopathic Association focuses on the medically underserved during 1990 with the theme "One Hand to Heal, One Hand to Hold: Osteopathic Medicine Serves America's Underserved." The nation's 29,650 osteopathic physicians pledge to continue serving America's underserved in the future.

In Loving Memory of Jason Douglas McCauley

He was with us until that day, God took the urge to call him away. With the crash it took his life, The pain of losing him it felt like a knife. The one we love so dear, He was so gentle and yet so full of cheer. With his goodbye, We keep asking why a person like him had to die. The love of him was plenty, Because he was in the hearts of many. Even though you are dead and gone, The memories of you linger on. He is in a place, where he and God say their grace, In the place he went without a trace, None of us will be able to forget the smile on his sweet face.

You are sadly missed by:
Mom, dad, son, brother and sister and all of your loved ones, and all of your friends

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Andy Lee Tackett would like to extend their appreciation to all those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the Regular Baptist ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional services.

Strange Enough

by Tim Preston

I thought it was innocent 'til proven guilty

I'm pretty sure that half of the people who read this column aren't going to agree with what I have to say, so let me preface this column with the standard disclaimer which states that views expressed in this column are the opinion of the writer and do not necessarily reflect the views and opinions of the editors or publishers of this newspaper.

That out of the way, let us think about the relative merits of urinating in bottles in order to prove that we aren't guilty of something we have not been accused of.

On the surface of this thing there is a good idea, underneath is an abominable concept.

In order to get a nowhere, $3.85 per hour job mopping floors you must first urinate into a bottle and submit that bottle of urine for examination. This is both degrading and an invasion of privacy. Unless you just do not consider the inner workings of your digestive system private.

Most people do not object to this, based on the thought that if they want a job it is something which must be done. Out the window with the premise of innocent until proven guilty.

The dangerous school of thought tells us that we are doing our part to help fight the "War on Drugs" and that those with nothing to hide have nothing to fear. What that type of thinking leaves behind is the fact that someone who does drugs can abstain for a few days, pass the test and get the job. Where's the harm in that? If you can't answer that question for yourself I worry for you.

Before I go any further let me state for the record that I do believe in drug testing. I think that anyone who pilots a plane, drives a train or bus, or otherwise has the lives of others in their hands should be tested.

I don't believe in the concept of random drug testing though, because it allows the test subject a possibility of escaping detection. I think the aforementioned bus drivers and airline pilots should be tested on a daily basis with test results being inspected before that person is allowed to work. Otherwise there is nothing to deter our hypothetical pilot from saying, "Hey, I can get away with it this time."

We have seen the devastating effects of drug use in this country and we do not like it, but we should not be so blind to reality that we support anything and everything that just says no.

Political candidates who have less impact on law enforcement than you and I stand strong behind "Just Say No" slogans, businesses tell us that they have drug free workplaces. Do we feel good in supporting those people even if their efforts are inept? Yes, we do.

Are we wrong? No, we are not. But then again, yes we are.

When it comes right down to it, I have to admit that I resent the "Big Brother" tactics more than I resent the thought that the janitor at the local burger stand smoked a joint last weekend.

Read your newspaper and watch your television. Notice just how many groups of people who want to limit what you say, what you do and most of all, what and how you think.

We now have warning stickers on our music and no choice but to urinate in a bottle for a job mopping floors or flipping burgers. Where does it end?

I realize that writing about bottles of urine is offensive to most people, but will you be so offended when the bottle is passed your way? I hope so.

Mountain Voices

A Family Affair

A school faculty is somewhat like a big family. That means that a lot of quarreling, in-fighting, making up, and loving goes on all the time. All the members don't always agree, but they do agree that each one belongs to the group for good or bad. This belonging feels good even when one is the center of much of the criticism because each member knows that the love will return when the critics have had their day. McDowell High School (and McDowell Elementary since we are so close together physically) exemplify this comparison with a big family.

Sure, we have our little disagreements over things that don't amount to a hill of beans. The trouble is that we don't realize how trivial the things really are. (Is this beginning to sound familiar in a "real" family setting?) We carry on about something as silly as whether or not we should have a homeroom. I join right in these little fracas, but I can now see that the question of having a homeroom period or not having a homeroom period ranks right up there with picking the colors from the prom. Oh, I'm not saying that we don't need these little points of contention — we do. They make life more interesting. We just need to keep them in the proper perspective.

Not all these discussions are trivial — some truly deserve our attention and consideration. But again we need to be tolerant of those who can't see things as clearly as we can. That's the way a democracy works. It may not be efficient, but it sure cuts down on letting one or two people run the show. This is the way things go at "our home away from home." Other faculties, if they are honest, will agree that this is about the way it is.

Then there comes a time when we put all this aside because we have a crisis in the family. You know how it is: Uncle Bill hasn't spoken to Big Doug for years, but when a big crisis comes, they make up. They may or may not go back to the feud once the crisis is over. Last week was such a week for the teachers at McDowell.

Last week McDowell lost one of her former teachers in a car accident. We all fondly remembered Vivian Allen and sadly recalled her troubles from her last accident. She was doing so fine in retirement and enjoying her grandchild. We just wish that she could have spent a little more time with him, but as my wife is fond of saying, "God knows best." To Vivian's family and many friends we offer our condolences, and to Vivian we simply say, "Rest in the arms of the Lord."

Another moment had a more welcomed outcome. Sally Miller's husband, Hugo, who was a principal here for many years, had what seemed a serious illness. Of course, Sally was in a state of disbelief — we all were. We offered encouragement, hope, and prayers. When the doctors found the illness to be relatively minor condition (ulcers), we were all relieved and thankful.

For this week we put aside our differences because we had to attend to more serious things. This is not to say that we won't be back at it again next week. Why? because that's the way families do things. Oh, by the way, we have another rule: We can talk about us, but you better keep your mouth off us. (And we will do the same for you.)

Fall Festival held at Auxier Elementary

The Auxier Elementary PTA sponsored a fall festival in the Auxier gym on Monday, Nov. 10. Activities included face painting, basketball free-throw shooting, darts, cake walk, duck pond, country store, ring toss, bingo and many other games.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the king and queen and prince and princess of the fall festival. The king was Jason Burke and the queen was Crystal Blackburn. The prince was Jason King, and the princess was Tonya Honeycutt.

The evening ended with an auction of all remaining items from bingo and the country store. The auction was conducted by Auxier principal, Wayne Combs. All proceeds and donations went toward efforts to buy televisions and computer equipment for the school.

Festival winners

Auxier Elementary's fall festival prince and princess are Tonya Honeycutt and Jason King, both are fourth grade students.

Smile Awhile

by Sarah Hopson

A fashion pate

Several weeks ago our son said he would like to have his hair cut differently. We soon discovered that "differently" meant a flattop with numbers sheared so deeply into the back of his head the cranium would practically be exposed.

"You want what?" my husband asked with venom rising in his voice.

"I want another flattop except this time, I want my basketball number cut out in the back" he said, evenly.

"I'd just as soon see you with a tattoo on the side of your face," my husband groaned.

"But, Dad," J.R. lamented, "everybody on the team is getting their hair cut that way."

"I'll bet everyone's not, either," my husband said, indignantly. "Ten dollars says Hunt won't have one."

"You're on!" J.R. beamed, triumphantly. "Call him."

Jimmie motioned for me to pick up the telephone and call Hunt's house. After ten rings, Hunt's father groggily answered the phone.

"Robin, this is Sara. I'm sorry to be calling so early, but Jimmie wanted to know if you and Brenda were going to let Hunt get numbers shaved in his hair."

The other end of the line was silent for a few minutes before Robin answered, saying, "Sara, it's 7:30 in the morning. I can't believe you called to ask me that especially since Hunt is lying in his bed with numbers already chiseled out in his scalp. And because this is obviously important to you his numbers are outlined with blue dye. Brenda let him do it."

"You're not serious?" I asked.

"Sara," he replied, aggravatedly, "I swear it on his bald little head."

I apologized for the call and thanked him for his candor before announcing to Jimmie that he'd lost the bet.

"You mean he had it done? I can't believe it!" my husband exclaimed.

"What is this worked coming to? The next thing you know, he'll want an earring."

"Jimmie," I said, soothingly. "I think you might be blowing this way out of proportion. Kids like to do bizarre things to their hair. It's called non-violent rebellion or something."

"Well, if that's what he wants, he can use his own money."

"That reminds me, Dad," J.R. grinned, broadly. "You owe me a ten spot."

"See there," Jimmie spouted. "When you let them get the upper hand, they start to talk smart."

"I was just kidding, Dad," J.R. whined.

"When I was growing up, my father would never have allowed me to do something as stupid as having numbers carved out in the back of my head."

"Jimmie, that was 30-years ago. And I seem to remember you wore a ducktail," I chided.

"I didn't know ducks had tails," J.R. stated.

"It was a hair-do that all the boys wore, J.R., but the back of our heads weren't shaved. If you had your head shaved back then you were either going into the service or to the pen."

J.R. looked at me sadly and dejectedly started making his way back to his bedroom. My heart went out to him because I knew he only wanted to be like everyone else. And it hadn't been so long ago that I couldn't recall how important it was to "fit in."

"Jimmie," I said, with a tear in my eye, "I think this is one time you ought to let him have his way. He's only making a statement."

"What's he stating, that he's an idiot?"

"Of course not. He's saying that he wants to make a decision about himself. It's not as if his hair won't grow back."

"Sara," my husband said through clenched teeth, "you're very possibly contributing to the delinquency of a minor."

"That's absurd!" I screamed. "He's a normal 13-year-old who wants to have his hair cut like everybody else."

"If everybody else had their noses pierced would you want J.R. to do the same?"

"Of course not."

"If everybody else wore their underwear over their blue-jeans would you let J.R.?"

"Probably not," I answered, uncertainly.

"Okay, then," Jimmie continued, "If everybody was going to have a picture of Rick Pitino tattooed on their derrieres, would you allow J.R. to do it?"

"Only on one condition," I replied, coyly. "He'd have to let me get one, too."

Personally, I think J.R.'s hair looks cute. As for me, I'm still contemplating the possibility of hunting a tattooer.

Kinzer to attend Young Leaders Conference

Jeri Kinzer of Allen has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference, December 4 through December 9. She will be among 395 high school students who have demonstrated academic achievement, leadership and citizenship from across the nation that will attend the conference for outstanding young leaders.

The theme of the National Young Leaders Conference is the Leaders of Today Meeting the Leaders of Tomorrow. Throughout the six-day conference, the scholars will meet with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

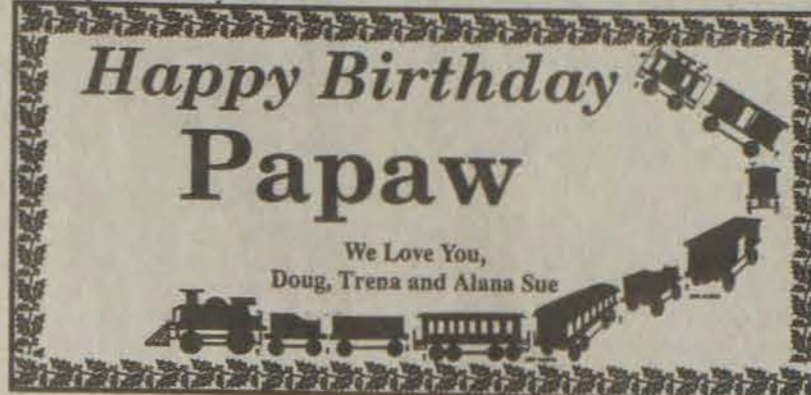

Highlights of the program will include welcoming remarks from a member of Congress on the floor of the United States House of Representatives, a government relations forum comprised of senior-level congressional staff and lobbyists from corporations and public interest groups, and a panel discussion led by prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Diplomatic embassy visits and a briefing at the state department will also be among the week's activities.

Miss Kinzer will meet with Senator Wendell H. Ford, Senator A. Mitchell McConnell, Representative Carl C. Perkins, or designated members of their staffs. These meetings provide an opportunity to discuss important policy issues and focus on topics of state and local concern.

Culminating the National Young Leaders Conference will be The Mock Congress on national Service during which scholars assume the roles of United States representatives by debating, lobbying, and voting on proposed volunteer service legislation.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council. Founded in 1985, the council is a non-profit, non-partisan, educational organization committed to recognizing outstanding youth and providing them with a "hands-on" civic learning experience in the nation's capital. Over 300 members of the United States Congress join in the commitment to educational excellence as members of the council's Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors.

Ice skating safety

Ice skating is one of the most popular winter sports. But while it can be loads of fun—a hard fall can cause serious injuries.

The National Safety Council suggests wearing skates that fit comfortably and provide enough ankle support to keep you on your feet. In addition, skate blades should be professionally sharpened at the beginning of each season.

Be sure to skate only on specially prepared skating areas where you are sure the ice is not weak and will withstand your weight. Always check the ice for cracks, holes and other debris.

Long Term Care Case Management Project

A 2-year pilot project of long-term care case management services is being implemented in six Kentucky counties. Sponsored by Sen. Benny R. Bailey (D-Hindman) and enacted by the Kentucky General Assembly, a portion of the "Health Care Reform Act of 1990", requires the Cabinet for Human Resources to provide single-entry point, comprehensive case management for long-term care clients receiving Cabinet services.

The program is being implemented in Floyd and Magoffin Counties by the Big Sandy Area Development District. The area development district will expand upon the Homecare assessment and case management system to include persons living in the community and in nursing homes, regardless of age. Case managers will help eligible clients enter the long-term care system and obtain the services they need.

To be eligible for the program a person must live in the Floyd and Magoffin counties, be receiving or applying for a long-term care service provided by the Cabinet, and need services for 6 months or longer due to a functional impairment. Functional impairments include, but are not limited to, reduced ability to eat, bathe, dress, keep house cook, shop, and do laundry.

More information about the program can be received by calling Jody Spradlin with the Big Sandy Area Development District office at 886-2374, or by calling Dale Niswonger with the Division of Aging Services in Frankfort at (502) 564-6930.

Scholars program offers full merit scholarship

Transylvania University in Lexington offers talented high school seniors a chance to compete for full merit scholarships worth more than $50,000 over a four-year period. Through the William T. Young Scholars Program, Transylvania annually selects 25 students to attend the private liberal arts college for four years without paying tuition and fees or room and board.

Finalists who are not awarded a Young Scholarship will receive consideration for a President's Scholarship. The amount of this award varies, but is substantial.

Winners are selected on the basis of academics, leadership, character and citizenship. Because the scholarship is based on merit, the financial background of a student's family has no bearing upon selection.

The Young Scholars Program was established to recognize outstanding students and attract them to Transylvania. Privately funded by individuals and corporations, the scholarship has been lauded as "one of the most ambitious merit-award programs in the nation" by The Wall Street Journal.

Founded in 1780, Transylvania was the first college established west of the Allegheny mountains. The university has an enrollment of about 1000 students and offers a bachelor of arts degree in 23 majors.

For more information about the William T. Young Scholars Program or Transylvania, call (606) 233-8242, or write the Office of Admissions, Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky 40508.

Young authors blast off

During Children's Book Week and Young Authors Blast off week, students at Stumbo Elementary had book buddies to visit their room (older students read aloud to the younger students), creative sessions on puppet making and book covers. Students also dressed as their favorite book character. Pictured are members of Mrs. Karen Henry's third grade class: Sheena Akers, Jonathon Howell, Brent Newsome, B.J. McKinney, Heather Hamilton, Pam McKinney, Jamie Tackett, Desirae Tackett, Beth Hall, Joshua Hamilton, and Brandy Hall.

Board approves policy for youth service

A resolution encouraging Kentucky elementary and secondary schools to make community service opportunities available to their students was approved by the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education at its meeting on November 14.

The statement says the board views school-based community service as an essential part of the learning process and encourages its integration into the school curriculum. Community service can improve learning and help students become responsible citizens, the resolution says.

To obtain maximum benefits, students should be performing needed, meaningful services in the community, and these experiences should be linked to the total educational program, board members said.

Students should also be given opportunities to reflect and gain understanding from their service experience, they said.

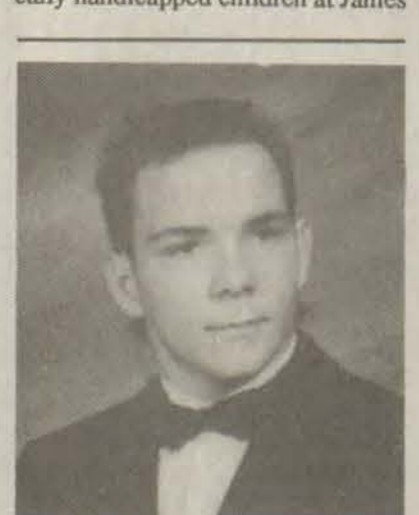

The board action followed a report by participants in a pilot youth service project conducted in three Kentucky schools last year, presented in conjunction with the observance of National Community Education Day.

Deborah Tronzo, principal of Crawford Middle School in Fayette County, said a peer tutoring program there helped motivate and build self-esteem in the students taking part. Students improved in their attendance and appearance because of their commitment to the program, she said.

Some students were so enthusiastic about their volunteer work with the God's Pantry food bank and Habitat for Humanity that they continued to take part during the summer vacation, Crawford teacher Fran O'Connell said.

A bill providing federal funds for school-based community service programs was approved to states on a competitive basis for developing or expanding service programs operated in schools or by local partnerships.

The $287 million bill also provides funds for community service programs for college students, for part-time and full-time conservation and human service corps for young people and for President Bush's Points of Light initiative.

Lane Elementary in Lexington and worked in community projects on weekends.

Hart County students collected food and supplies for hurricane victims, wrote Christmas cards for nursing-home residents, took part in safety and anti-drug programs and organized a school clothes closet.

Technical assistance for youth community service programs is provided by the Department of Education's Division of Community Education. Several other Kentucky school districts or individual schools also offer community service programs for their students.

Melvin students selected for talent search program

Three students from Melvin Elementary have qualified and applied for participation in this year's Talent Search for mathematically and verbally advanced students sponsored by Duke University's Talented Identification Program (TIP).

Melvin students qualifying were Allan Akers, son of Jack and Sandra Akers of Melvin; Tiffany Compton, daughter of Judith and Denver Compton Jr. of Weeksbury; and Veronica Johnson, daughter of Bert T. and Joann Johnson of Wheelwright.

The program identifies gifted seventh-graders from a 16 state region in the south, southwest, and midwest. To be eligible, students must have scored at the 97th percentile or better on an in-school achievement or ability measure.

Students will take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or ACT Assessment (ACT), normally taken only by college-bound juniors and seniors, in December, January, or February. Many of these students score better than the average college-bound senior on these measures.

All participants will receive Certificates of Merit and some will be eligible for state-wide recognition ceremonies or a variety of educational programs. TIP, established in 1980, has provided thousands of stu-

Blankenship studies to build bridges

Phillip Blankenship

Phillip Blankenship of Prestonsburg has a childhood dream—he wants to build a bridge.

A senior in civil engineering at the University of Kentucky, he came close to fulfilling that dream while working in Pikeville this past summer.

"I have a transportation scholarship from the Kentucky highway department," he said. "This summer, while working for the district office in Pikeville, I had an opportunity to observe a bridge being built."

Blankenship went with the engineers to inspect the work and sat in on meetings where various decisions were made about the footings and superstructures.

Now, when he listens to his professors talk about steel structures and reinforced concrete, he has a better understanding of what it all means.

"I like the construction part of engineering," he said. "It's fun to go out with the inspectors and talk to the contractors."

The son of Wanda and Bennie Blankenship of Prestonsburg, he is one of four children. His older brother, Darrell, and his father are both ministers in the Church of Christ.

"My mom is an interior designer—she helped me a lot in decorating my apartment in Lexington," he said.

His sister, Diane Fish, is the oldest child in the family and works for Appalachian Research in Prestonsburg. Timothy, the youngest, is a student at Prestonsburg Community College.

"I went to Prestonsburg first and then transferred to the Lexington campus," Blankenship said. "It was a good stepping stone that helped me grow. I didn't have to deal with living on my own while learning how to study and adapt to college classes."

Blankenship's roommate, Shawn Thompson, is a senior in electrical engineering from Pikeville. "We met at Prestonsburg Community College," he said. "There are about 20 of us here majoring in engineering. It's great to have a support group to help with studies and to have fun with."

The decision to attend a college close to home proved successful for Blankenship. He has a 3.68 grade point average at UK and has applied to be a University Scholar.

As a University Scholar, Blankenship will work on both his master's degree and his bachelor's degree at the same time. "I should have my master's degree by December 1992," he said.

President of the UK chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, he also is active in Chi Epsilon, the civil engineering honor society, and Tau Beta Pi, the general engineering honor society.

Religion is also an important part of Blankenship's life. He meets every Wednesday night on campus with "Cats for Christ," a Bible study group from the Southside Church of Christ in Lexington.

"There are about 40 of us in the group," he said.

A 1987 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Blankenship misses being in a marching band. "I played trombone in high school, but I don't have time for band now," he said.

A member of the Student Athletic Council (SAC), he makes time to attend UK's home football and basketball games. "I love to cheer the Cats," he said.

He also takes a few weekends off from studying to go home and fish. "Bass fishing with my family is the greatest," he said.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor

SURGERY HAS SLOWED ME DOWN

I recently had some minor surgery for skin cancer, and I never really realized how difficult it can be to do the things you love to do best.

Wednesday, I had to return to my doctor's office for a visit at Pikeville because of an infection that occurred around the surgical area. I was at the McDowell/Prestonsburg game Tuesday night, and did it hurt. Not the game, my minor surgery (if there is such a thing).

I don't think being cut on, anywhere, is minor. The doc' said I was going to have to just take it a little easier than before, at least until it heals fully. It is very difficult to have to miss a ball game. With all the sectional playoffs going on and high school basketball in full swing, it is just getting exciting on the courts. — but the doc' said take it easy.

THIS WEEK'S BEST NEWS

I was glad to see that the Cincinnati Reds signed Bill Doran to a three-year contract this week. Doran is to receive a guaranteed $7.3 million over the next three years with a fourth year option. Doran came to the Reds in a trade with the Houston Astros in the final month of the regular season and was a big factor in the Reds winning their division. Way to go, Marge!

LAST WEEK'S BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT

I could not find a Gatorade, lemonade anywhere. That's right! No good cold Gatorade, lemonade. Plenty of the other stuff, but no lemonade. Oh, well there's next week.

LAST WEEK'S BIGGEST JOKE

Jerry Tarkanian's victory over the NCAA. Score it: Ark 2; NCAA 0. Next year he will be back in the seat as hot as it is.

COACH TURNED HUNTER

Hayes Hamilton, Grethel, says that hunting has caught his fancy of late and he is really enjoying the sport. Hayes said that he thought about returning to the coaching ranks but decided against it. The former John M. Stumbo coach had some fairly good teams in years past. Hayes deserved a chance at a high school job.

"I never really was interested in a high school coaching job," Hayes told me at a recent high school game. No one can deny the record he established at the Stumbo school. A look back at the high school players that have gone through Betsy Layne High School will find that many have played for Hayes Hamilton. Now, he is hunting and fishing and enjoying it.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE IN ORDER TO THE REBELS

Coach Dewey Jamerson and his fine Allen Central football squad were named champions of the EKMC conference at a recent meeting. (Story and pictures in this section) Jamerson was also named Coach of the Year in the conference. Way to go Rebels!

LOCAL CABLE SYSTEM TO CARRY BETSY LAYNE BASKETBALL GAMES

WPRG-TV, Channel 5 in Harold will be telecasting, live, all of the Betsy Layne home basketball games this season. Doctor Don says that the cable system will provide the best local coverage they can. Play-by-play will be handled by none other than the Flash himself, Joe Back. Joe is anxious to get back on the tube. His fan letters have slowed down.

REMEMBER DEPARTMENT

Grade School basketball sectional's are underway. Three sections, Section I, Section III and Section IV got underway last evening. McDowell starts tonight. Scheduling problems exist for two sections because they have to schedule around high school games. The county tournament will start sometimes next week.

KENTUCKY WILDCATS RANKED IN TOP 25

Coach Rick Pitino keeps playing down his teams return to the Top 25 of the college basketball rankings. The Cats deserve a little recognition for the comeback they have made in the past two seasons. In their last year of probation, the Cats will be able to take part in the NCAA tournament next season whether by invitation or by automatic berth. The latter comes by winning the Southeastern Conference tournament.

Until Wednesday, good sports. Be good sports!

Lady Bobcats Have Easy Time With Johns Creek, 77-22

Coach Bill Newsome's Betsy Layne Lady Cats had no trouble with the Lady Bearcats of Johns Creek Wednesday night as they rolled to an easy 77-22 win over the visitors.

Jamie Smith and Briana Boyd combined for 45 points to lead the Lady Cats to their second victory of the season. Boyd tossed in 23 points while Smith finished with 22.

Finding the basket was the most difficult thing of the night for the Lady Bearcats. The Johns Creek team scored only five points in the first half, getting four in the first and one in the second.

Betsy Layne used a full court press to cause Johns Creek a lot of problems. The Lady Cats picked up some easy baskets off their defense.

Dee Dee Martin added nine points for the Lady Cats and Nikki Webb scored seven.

Johns Creek was led in scoring by Bowman with six points. Heather and McCoy scored four each.

Betsy Layne goes to 2-1 on the season and will host the McDowell Lady Daredevils in a big conference match up at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse. Johns Creek is 0-2.

Allen Central Rebels Streak Ends; Fall To Jenkins Cavaliers, 65-63

The Allen Central Rebels, riding a three-game winning streak and playing some good basketball, fell to the Jenkins Cavaliers Tuesday night 65-63. The loss was the first of the year for the surprising Rebels.

"We played terrible basketball," said Rebel coach Johnny Martin. "Neither team played very well. They just shot better than we did for the game."

Jenkins shot 62 percent for the game, hitting 22 of 35 shots. Allen Central hit 40 percent, making 23 of 57 attempts.

The Rebels had a chance to tie the game or go ahead with 18 seconds to go, after Jenkins converted two free throws to take a 63-61 lead. Brian Hall, losing his sense of time remaining, fired up a three-point attempt with 13 seconds to go while being guarded closely. Allen Central was forced to foul and Jenkins hit two free throws for a 65-61 game. Allen Central connected on two free throws, but time expired before they could get the ball back.

The Rebels had the lead, 40-32 toward the end of the third quarter but lost the ball on four straight possessions and Jenkins took advantage of the miscues, scoring on each tying the game. In the fourth quarter, Jenkins held a nine point lead with just a minute and a half to go but the Rebels tied them before losing in the closing seconds.

"It was a game we should have won," said Coach Martin. "We committed 23 turnovers in the game to their 26." Martin said that this was the first loss for his Allen Central. See ALLEN CENTRAL, B 3

Mullins FT at :34 helps McDowell nip Lady Blackcats, 52-51

If the game between the McDowell Lady Daredevils and Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats is any indication of how the 58th District girl's basketball season is going, it promises to be exciting.

Tuesday night at the E.P. Grigsby Jr. Fieldhouse, Christy Mullins hit the back-end of a two-shot free throw that gave the Lady Daredevils a thrilling 52-51 come-from-behind victory over Bridgett Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats.

McDowell coach Cassandra Keathley was not that impressed with the play of her squad. "Overall we looked decent," she said, "but I wasn't that impressed with the way we played. We weren't running our offense the way we should and our shots just didn't fall for us."

"Against Mullins we hit about everything, but tonight we were really cold," she said.

Cold was what the Lady Daredevils were, as they struggled in the first quarter. It wasn't they didn't get the shots, but they just wouldn't go. The "ice cold" shooting allowed Prestonsburg to take a 13-2 first quarter lead on the strength of the three-point shooting of Amy Reed.

Reed started the game with a trey as the entire Blackcat team hustled on defense. Not only did Reed hit the treys, but the sure-shooter played some tough defense on McDowell's leading scorer Lori Bryant, who managed only four points in the first half. Bryant was tracked every step by Reed and sometimes doubled team. Reed hit three three-pointers in the first quarter.

McDowell turned the ball over five times in the period. McDowell did not score in the final five minutes of the first quarter. Their only points came at the 5:07 mark on a layup by Mullins.

McDowell picked up the intensity somewhat in the second period, as they took advantage of Prestonsburg's turnovers to close the gap. However, the Daredevils had problems at the charity stripe hitting only five of 14.

The Lady Blackcats turned the ball over on their first three possessions of the second period. Basket by Bryant and a free throw by Jenny Slone, made it 13-5. Kathy Slone, using her quickness, broke free for a layup and was fouled. Slone missed the free throw, but Melissa Bailey was there to grab the offensive rebound and was fouled on the put-back. Bailey hit one of two for a 16-5 Prestonsburg lead.

McDowell trailed 22-12 with 3:46 remaining in the first half. Shelby Howell tossed in two free throws and Mullins hit a short jumper to cut the lead to six, 22-16, and Prestonsburg held a 24-14 lead at the half. Prestonsburg had 10 turnovers in the second period.

Trailing 32-21 in the third, Bryant hit a three-pointer to make it 34-24. The trey made seven straight points Bryant scored in the third — something she had to do in order for McDowell to win.

"I told Lori at halftime she was going to have to look for her shots and we needed some scoring out of her," said the Lady Daredevils mentor. "You can't make them if you don't shoot."

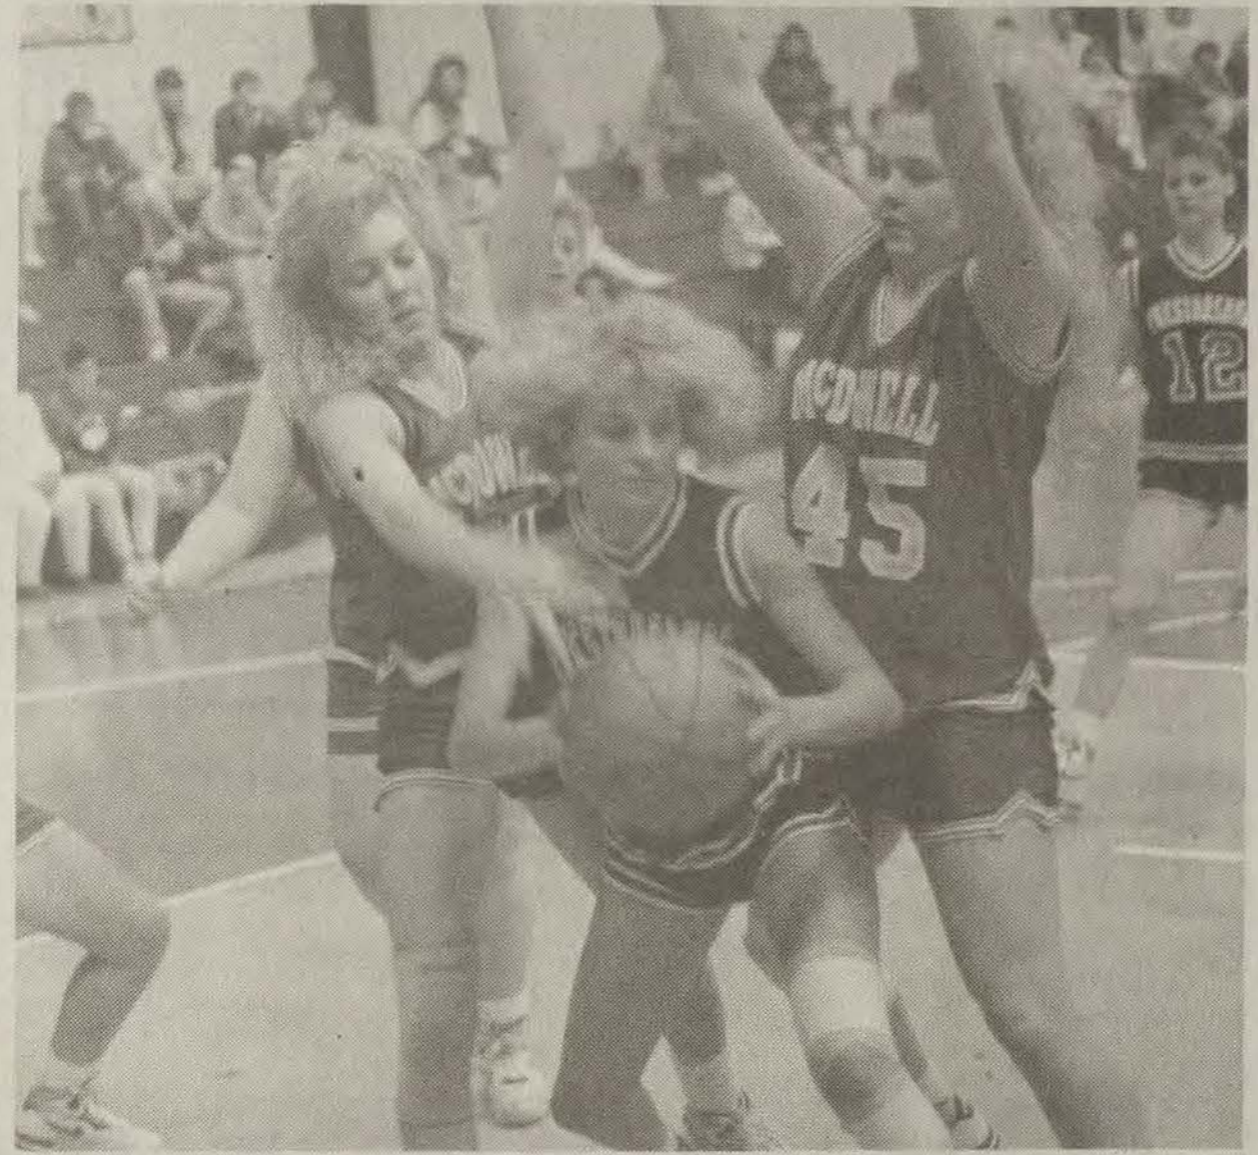

Shoot the senior forward did, as she not only looked for her shot, but hit it. Bryant scored 11 points in the third quarter as the Daredevils drew to within nine, 41-32. Kathy Slone picked up her fourth personal foul with just three seconds left in the third, which prove to be costly.

Both teams exchanged turnovers in the opening minute of the fourth period. Bailey also made it tough for the Lady Daredevils with five blocked shots in the game. Bryant hit a jumper from 12 feet to close to within seven, 41-34. After a turnover, Karrie

McDowell overcomes 13 point half time deficit; defeats P'burg 82-73

It was a "hot" night at the Devils Den in McDowell Tuesday, as Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats came calling on Coach Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Daredevils in each team's first conference game.

The game, McDowell's fourth and Prestonsburg's second, was a good one as one would have expected.

"I believe this is going to be the trend of Floyd County basketball this year," Coach Turner stated. "All county games are going to be tough ones. There isn't anyone in the district who is going to be overpowering. Allen Central looked good in their first three games and Wheelwright is playing good basketball"

The Daredevils overcame two things in the first half—sloppy play and a 13-point halftime deficit—to record their second win of the season and first conference victory. The game was indicative of what is taking place this season. A large crowd was at the Grigsby Fieldhouse to take in the game between the two rivals.

McDowell caught the Blackcats at the 4:56 mark of the fourth quarter, 61-61. Dougie Hopkins hit a three-point shot to put the Daredevils on top to stay at 64-61. McDowell built a 10-point advantage, 74-64, at the 2:10 mark only to see Prestonsburg charge back.

Aaron Tucker connected on two free throws and John Clark followed suit. Joe Whit made a steal and raced in for a layup. Robert Hammonds then broke open for a easy bucket to make it 74-72. McDowell scored the last seven points—all free throws—of the game to close out the 82-73 win.

The Blackcats looked sharp in the opening quarter taking a quick 7-2 lead on baskets by Chris Burke, Worthie McGuire and a three-pointer by Jason Crisp. A bucket by Matt Johnson and two charity tosses by Dale Hinkle made it 9-8 Prestonsburg. McGuire hit Hammonds underneath with a pass and a bucket for a 22-16 first quarter lead.

Prestonsburg continued to look sharp in the second quarter rolling out to a 37-23 lead behind the scoring of John Clark and three-point shooting. Tucker, Clark and Whit each had treys in the run. Prestonsburg enjoyed the 13-point halftime lead.

A 15-3 run by McDowell at the start of the third period cut the lead to one, 54-53. Crisp connected on two free throws and then Mike Duddleson came back with a basket to make it 56-55. McDowell took a brief lead, 57-56, on a basket underneath by Duddleson. Hammonds hit two free throws just before the quarter ended to give Prestonsburg a 58-57 third quarter lead.

"Prestonsburg just pushed the ball up and down the floor against us in the first half," said the Daredevil coach. "We were standing flat-footed and not playing good defense. In the second half we started hitting the open man and just out played them."

"Dale (Hinkle) played a good game for us. He has a good touch for a big man and he started the first three games but Dale was lacking on defense," Turner said. "He is a real good player and has good moves."

Hinkle came off the bench to spark the Daredevils' third quarter drive. Hinkle tossed in 13 points in the game, hitting seven of eight free throws and pulling down a couple of key rebounds in the fourth quarter.

Tackett responds.....

"Who do you leave your team with if you leave the game?"

"If a coach is ejected from a game, who does he leave in charge of his team if there isn't any assistant coaches?" asked Paul David Tackett in response to last Wednesday's commentary regarding the situation that took place at Martin on November 21.

Those schools involved met with Floyd County Athletic Director Frankie Francis and resolved the issue. However, Tackett felt that his side should be told in the name of fairness.

Tackett's contention is if a coach has been ejected from a game with three technical fouls, who is to take charge of a group of grade school ballplayers if the coach leaves the floor and area of play? The question is a valid one. Who does take charge? There are no assistant coaches in grade school as in high school.

"In high school I can see a coach having to leave the floor or area because he has an assistant to take over. But not in grade school ball," said Tackett. "I have been in this long enough to know you just don't take a group of grade school players and turn them over to anyone."

"If you let a parent take over, and they get involved some way they shouldn't, who are they going to hold responsible? The coach is responsible!" Tackett said.

Tackett says he was thinking of the kids on his team. He did not want to leave them there on the floor with two officials before, why did they get them to call a big game like the one in question?" asked Tackett.

The John M. Stumbo coach also cited the fact there have been coaches come to Stumbo to play and received three technical fouls and were not expected to leave the gym. "As far as sportsmanship goes," he related, "you can ask any parent or

Allen Central Football Rebels 1990 EKMC Champions

Though the 1990 football season has ended, the awards keep coming the Allen Central Rebels way. Monday night the Rebels were named the 1990 Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference (EKMC) champions. The Rebels were 2-0 in the conference this year.

"It's just another boost for our football program here at Allen Central," said head football coach Dewey Jamerson, who also was named the Coach of the Year in the conference. This is the first time an Allen Central team has won the championship.

"Now, we not only had a winning season but we are winners of our conference as well," the Rebel mentor went on to explain. "We're starting to bring home the hardware now and the kids love seeing that. It will definitely help our program here at Allen Central."

Eight Rebel players made the All-EKMC team. Named to the All-EKMC Offensive Team were:

-Tommy Gibson, running back. Gibson was the work horse out of the backfield for the Rebels this year. Having a slow start the senior full-back found himself in the KSD game and scored three TDs. From that point on, Gibson was a force to be reckoned with.

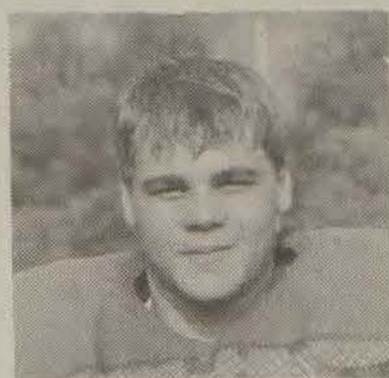

-Also named was senior quarterback B.J. Aldrich. Aldrich had to miss part of the season because of a shoulder separation but returned in time to help turn the program around.

-Kevin Clatworthy, senior guard, made the All-EKMC team also. A hard hitter, Clatworthy led the offensive line for the Rebels this season. -Newcomer to the Rebels' team was Todd Lucas, running back. Lucas was named as All-EKMC for his contribution from the backfield position. Lucas made a difference in the Rebels' running game, forcing opposing teams not to be able to key just on Gibson.

-Defensively, Tim Slone, senior linebacker; Brett Meadows, senior end; Brian Wallen, senior tackle and Robert Jervis, defensive end, were named.

Elkhorn City was second in the conference this season. Other members of the conference are Jenkins, Wheelwright and Fleming Neon.S

Trojans Place Two On All-EKMC Squad; Branham Named Specialist of the Year

It wasn't a great year for the Wheelwright Trojans this past football season, but the Trojans received some consolation when two of their team members were named to the All-EKMC squad and one was named as Specialist of the Year.

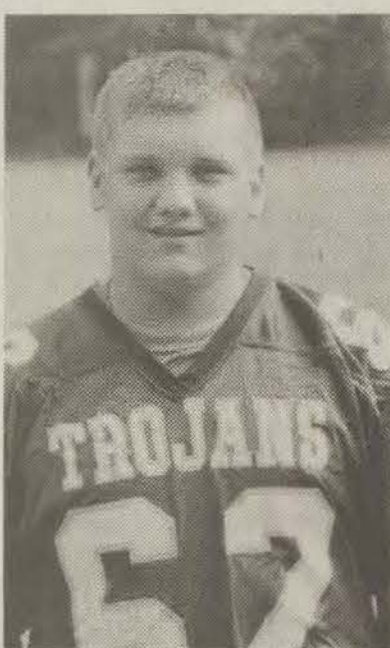

Mike Justice, a strong running back, was named to the All-EKMC Offensive team at the fullback position. Justice, a hard runner and strong, was the leading rusher for the Trojans this past season. Justice was also a strong defensive lineman for the Trojans, who suffered through a 0-11 season. The conference committee did not let Justice go unnoticed for his individual accomplishments this past season.

Also named from the Trojan team was Brian Rhea. Rhea was named a defensive linebacker averaging close to nine solo hits a game. A quick player, Rhea was outstanding at the end position also. Possessing good hands, Rhea was the team's leading receiver also.

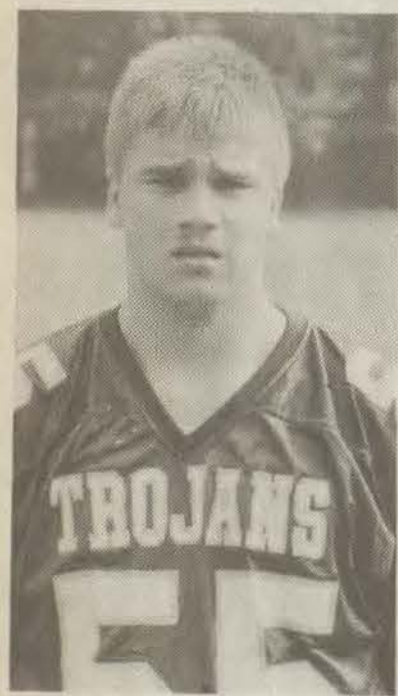

Hard work and determination is the way to describe the play of James Branham, defensive specialist. Branham, a senior, was named the Specialist of the Year in the EKMC conference. Branham had four blocked punts this past season and ran one back for a touchdown.

While the team went winless, these young men showed how to be winners, individually.

1990 EASTERN KENTUCKY MOUNTAIN CONFERENCE CHAMPS

Newsome hit a jumper to make it 41-36. The lead went to three, 41-38, when Bryant hit two free throws after another Prestonsburg foul. Reed and Edwinna Hale hit two free throws each to put Prestonsburg up 45-38 with 4:13 remaining in the game.

It was then Bryant took charge, picking off an errant pass and driving the length of the floor for a layup. Hale missed two charity tosses and Bryant hit a three-pointer to make it 45-43. The Lady Daredevils tied the score at 45-45 on two Nikki Mullins free throws and took the lead at 47-45 on two free throws by Christy Mullins at the 2:49 mark.

Carolyn Reffitt tied the score at 47 on two free throws. At the 2:24 mark of the final stanza, Slone picked up her fifth personal foul and Christy Mullins connected on two charity tosses. Bryant came back with two points off an offensive rebound to put the Lady Devils up 51-47 with 1:54 to go.

McDowell went to a stall at 1:14, and went underneath for a basket but Bailey was there to block the shot and the ball went over to Prestonsburg. Reed grabbed an offensive rebound for Prestonsburg and stuck it back to make it 51-49. It was then Christy Mullins hit the free throw for McDowell and a 52-49 lead.

Bailey scored the final basket for Prestonsburg in a 52-51 loss. Trailing by one with seven seconds to go, Prestonsburg intentionally fouled Mullins.

Mullins missed both tosses and Prestonsburg had the ball and called timeout. Coach Clay launched a losing campaign with the referees to have five seconds put back on the clock.

The play was set and Reffitt launched a three-point attempt that just missed.

"We just stood around too much tonight," said Keathley after her team's second win of the season. "We took some bad shots. I guess it's just that free spirit in them."

Bryant led all scorers with 28 points — 24 coming in the second half. Christy Mullins tossed in 10 for McDowell.

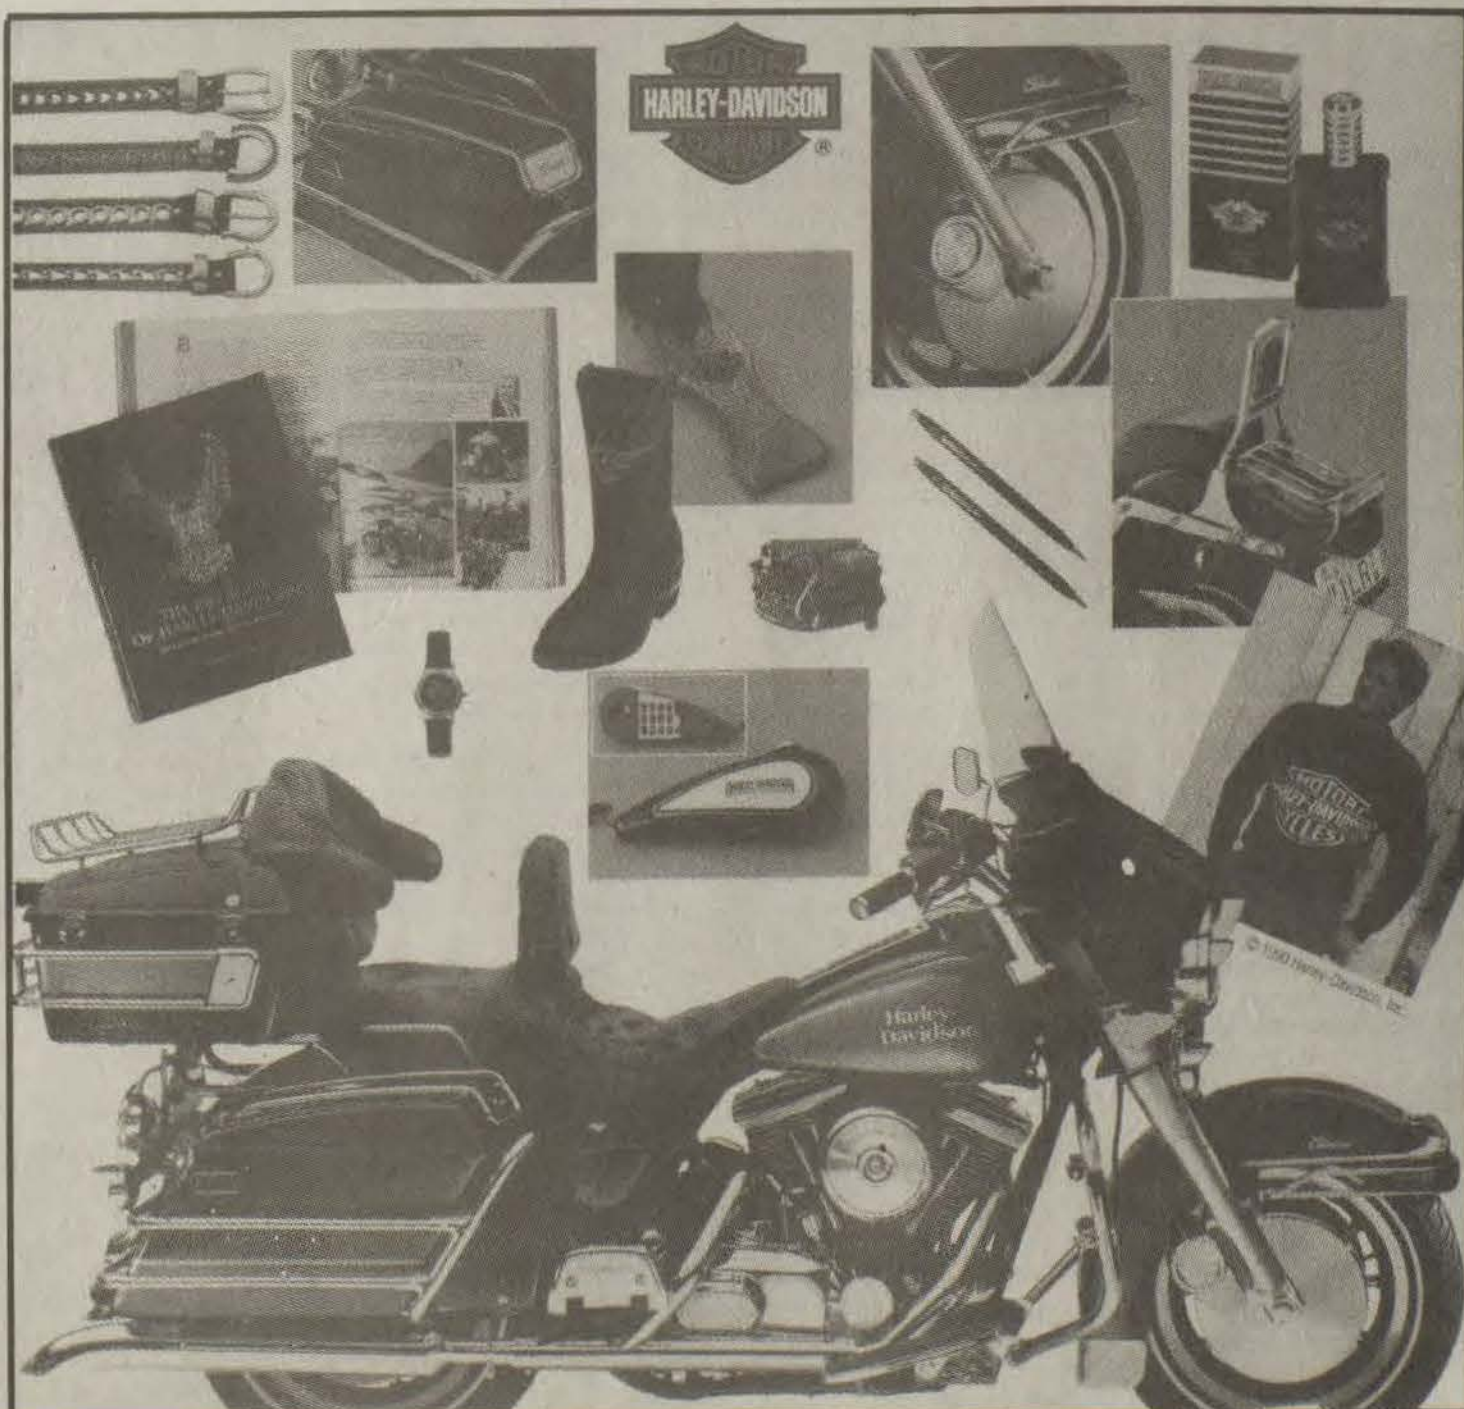

Reed led the Lady Blackcats with 14 points including three treys. Bailey had 13 points and Carolyn Reffitt scored nine with two three-pointers. Slone scored eight points before fouling out.

McDowell goes to 2-1 and 1-0 in conference play. Prestonsburg, playing their first game of the season, is 0-1 and in the conference.

The Lady Daredevils will be at Betsy Layne tonight and Prestonsburg will host Allen Central.

Dogs Need Special Care In Cold Weather

Dogs can suffer cold weather ailments

Many people think that dogs, because of their warm winter coats, are impervious to the elements. This just isn't true. That four footed friend of yours that bounds through the snow, nose down, hot on the scent of your favorite game, can suffer from many of the same cold weather ailments as you do. The difference is that dogs are driven. A dog's instinct to pursue the wild game it's after, coupled with its intense desire to please you, its master, can result in a serious over-extension of the dog's physical capabilities. Remember, dogs don't possess the logic it takes to pace themselves. If you're hunting in big country you may be far from camp when you realize your faithful companion is in serious trouble.

Here are some helpful tips to keep your hunting dog healthy during the winter season:

* Preseason training. Just like you, your dog will be less likely to give in to the cold if he is in good shape. As the hunting season approaches, increase the amount of exercise your dog gets. If you plan on beefing-up the dog's diet, do it a month before the start of the hunting season. Feed your dog its regular meal directly before the hunt — feed it two to three hours before.

* Recognizing and treating frostbite. Dogs exposed to very cold weather or prolonged hunts in the snow are likely candidates for frostbite — recognize the conditions in which frostbite occurs. Frostbite is a superficial, minor burn caused by extended exposure to the cold. It usually occurs on the extremities — paws, ears, tail, etc. To help prevent frostbite while in the field, stop occasionally and clean off the ice that builds up in the fur of the dog's extremities. The problem with frostbite is that many times you don't know your dog has been frostbitten until the following day. If your dog shows signs of discomfort, such as licking his paws for long periods of time, take him to a warm place and wrap him in a warm blanket. Gently massage the frostbitten area to stimulate the circulation. If redness and irritation persist, clip the area and apply a first aid ointment containing cortisone or aloe. Allow the dog a day or two off.

* Can your dog get a cold? Extended hunts in very cold weather lower a dog's resistance to infection. Although there is no known canine disease like the human common cold, sniffing, sneezing and coughing are symptoms that may signal other infections, such as pneumonia, brought on by too much exposure. Keep an eye on older dogs after a strenuous hunt. Consult your vet if symptoms persist.

* Treat your dog with respect. Owners of good gun dogs regard time spent in the field with their four footed hunting companion as a love affair rivaled only by the variety that they walked down the aisle for. Know the capabilities and limitations of your dog. Be it German Short Hair or Labrador Retriever, each breed has its own strengths and weaknesses. Dogs are not machines. Serve them and they will serve you.

"Why did I get into coaching?"

Bobcats To Face Charged Up McDowell Team Tonight

The Floyd County Conference basketball wars will continue tonight as two of the county's top teams will face each other at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse at Betsy Layne.

McDowell, (2-2), coming off a big 82-73 win over Prestonsburg Tuesday night, will be looking to stay perfect in the conference. Betsy Layne, (1-1), who fell to Paul Lawrence Dunbar, 74-60, in Lexington, will be playing their first conference game. The Bobcats defeated a good Feds Creek team in their season opener.

McDowell will be counting on a good scoring attack in order to offset the quickness and speed of the Bobcats. Stacy Hall, averaging 21 points per game, will lead the Daredevils. Hall had 29 points against Prestonsburg in a come-from-behind victory. McDowell must get more point production out of Mike Duddleson in order to match up with the Betsy Layne defense. Duddleson, who showed signs of coming around against the Blackcats with 13 points, had a sub par game against Greenup County (five points).

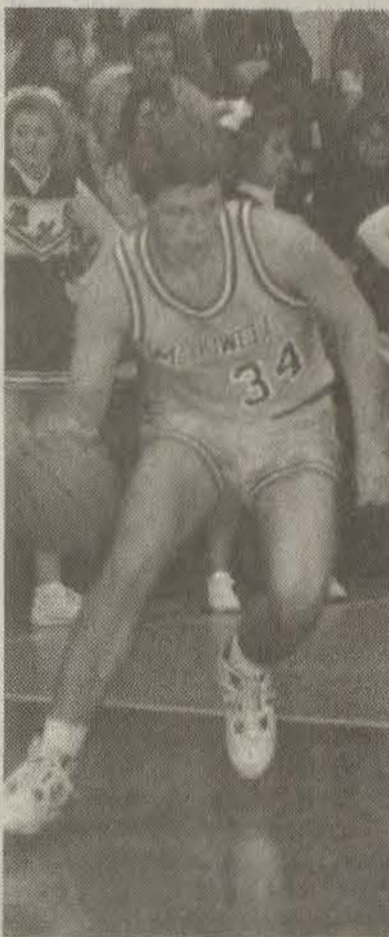

McDowell is a team that can put up the three's. Dougie Hopkins, has shown what was said in the pre-season reports, that he can take the three's and score. Hopkins runs the ballclub from the point guard spot and rarely looks to score—but can.

The Bobcats, returning four starters from last year, is strong all the way around. A balanced ballclub with good speed and quickness. A good rebounding ballclub with Phillip King, 20.5 points per game, taking charge underneath. King is hard to stop down low. Once underneath, the senior power forward has the moves to put the ball in the basket.

Talk about outside shooting, Adam Gearheart fills it up as well as anyone. Gearheart, 15.6 points per game, likes the three-point area and is "least bashful" to shoot from there. Chris Newsome and Keith Hall brings experience back into the Bobcats' lineup.

A good match up early in the year, both teams are up tempo and like to push the ball up and down quickly. Home court advantage could be the factor in this one.

teams to Jenkins anywhere and the first EKMC conference loss at Allen Central.

"We're a better team than we showed Tuesday night," Martin explained. "There wasn't that big of a crowd there and we just had a hard time of getting into the game. The players didn't do too well and I guess I didn't either because we just weren't ready."

The game was won at the free throw line for Jenkins. The Cavaliers connected on 21 of 30 attempts while Allen Central hit 12 of 17.

Brian Johnson led the Cavaliers in scoring with 21 points. Johnny Williams added 20 and Robert Smith tossed in 16.

Hall led the Rebels with 18 points and Todd Lucas netted 15. Ronnie Samons had 13 for the Rebels.

Allen Central will face a good Prestonsburg team in their first conference battle this year. There will be no girls' game tonight, but a junior varsity game will be played before the boys' varsity. Game time is 6:30 p.m. for the JV game and the varsity will get underway around 7:30 p.m.

Turner said he switched his team offense and mixed up the defense a little more than in the 67-57 loss to Greenup County. "Greenup County was a quick team and a good team," said Turner.

Stacy Hall scored 29 points to lead the Daredevils. Hall connected on 15 of 15 free throws as he seemed more tuned in the game against Prestonsburg. Duddleson tallied 13 points in the win for McDowell. Britt Stumbo added seven points and Matt Johnson finished with six.

McGuire was the Blackcats leading scorer with 18 points. Clark netted 16, while Crisp scored 11. Tucker finished with nine points for Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg hit only four—one in the third—of 32 shots in the second half, shooting eight percent. The Blackcats hit 14 of 18 free throws in the second half. The Blackcats scored 51 point the first and only 22 in the second: McDowell had a 29-point fourth period in their comeback. McDowell is 2-2 and goes to 1-0 in the conference. Prestonsburg is 0-2 and 0-1 in conference play.

Tickets for the event are priced at $10 and $5, reserved seating only, with a vast majority of the seats being sold for $5. Proceeds of the tournament will go towards the construction of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association Hall of Fame and Museum.

The boys' contest on Saturday, as well as both championship games on Sunday, will be telecast to a state-wide audience on a delayed basis, originated by WKYT-TV in Lexington, and WYMT-TV in Hazard. There will be no live television of this year's tournament.

Fairdale, the 1990 boys' state tournament champion, heads a strong field of four teams into this year's tournament, and are led by Tennessee signee and 1990 state tournament MVP Jermaine Brown. Belfry, the defending 15th Region champion, a team that returned a majority of its members for this upcoming season appears strong, as does Bates Creek, led by recent Western Kentucky signee Darrin Horn. Graves County appears to be on the way to establishing itself as a 1st Region power under Coach Bob Hoggard, who led Oldham County to the boys state tournament on several occasions.

Girls play is being inaugurated for the first time this season. Lisa Goodin and the Lady Cardinals of George Rogers Clark are expected to again be a power in the 10th region, as are Coach Morris Stewart's Boyle County Lady Rebels in the 12th region.

POWER RATINGS

Colorado No. 1; Bowls Are Mismatched, Several Teams Overlooked

Miami fell to third with their narrow 30-28 win over San Diego this past weekend. Colorado moved to first. The Power Ratings continue to rank unbeaten Georgia Tech much lower than the AP and UPI polls, however, Tech is only fifth this week.

Only one college game remains in the 1990 season, Army and Navy play and neither team is in the top 50. Navy is a two-point favorite.

As the bowl season begins this week, the Power Ratings predict the winner of the California Bowl, C. Michigan vs San Jose St., to be San Jose St. by 15 points. C. Michigan is the Mid-American Conference Champion and San Jose St. represents the Big West.

There are 18 major bowls that follow this week's games that involve 36 teams. Unfortunately, several teams have been overlooked this college season due to money considerations or automatic bowl berths. Some cases of point include:
No. 27 South Carolina (6-5-0)
No. 30 North Carolina (6-4-1)
No. 39 Virginia Tech (6-5-0)
No. 41 Baylor (6-4-1)
No. 44 San Diego St. (6-5-0)
No. 46 Hawaii (6-5-0)
No. 50 Temple (7-4-0)

Some of the teams that will be participating in bowls include:
No. 53 Wyoming
No. 67 Air Force
No. 85 Louisiana Tech

In addition, many of the bowls will include mismatches that will do little to solve this year's dilemma of come to any of my practices and you will see that our kids are well behaved. I have told my players they are never to talk back to a referee.

"I felt the technical fouls called on me at Martin were unwarranted. They were calls that were cheap. One official on the first one said he would throw me out of the gym if I didn't sit down," Tackett said. "On the second call, I called his attention to a carrying violation that he did not call. At no time did I curse the referee or was I angry. Even after the game was forfeited I was not mad."

Inexperienced referees can cause havoc at big games if they do not take control. One thing a referee cannot have at the game is "rabbit ears." You have to be able to be tolerant in most situations.

At this time of year, all good officials are tied-up with high school games, leaving the grade school teams to get what and who they can. Tackett's point is a good one. A coach just cannot walk off and leave his team on the floor without someone being responsible. A lot of foresight is needed when it comes to coaching.

The largest fish ever caught by rod and reel was a white shark that weighed over 2,500 pounds!

"Who is No. 1?" In fact, only two of the bowls pair top 10 teams together. The Orange Bowl features No. 1 Colorado and No. 6 Notre Dame and the Cotton Bowl pairs No. 3 Miami with No. 7 Texas.

The biggest mismatches include the following bowls:
Fiesta Bowl
No. 45 Louisville and No. 22 Alabama
Louisville is 9-1-1, but has not beaten a significant opponent. Wins over WVU and Pitt looked good at the time they were played, but WVU ended 4-7-0 and Pitt 3-7-1. Louisville does not belong in a major bowl despite their fine record.

Sugar Bowl
No. 8 Tennessee and No. 26 Virginia

Virginia began the season with high hopes and at one time was No. 1. However, Virginia has now lost three of their last four games and appears unable to match-up with Tennessee. Virginia is now playing like a No. 50 team due to injuries and other problems. A healthy Virginia could pull an upset.

A complete run down of all the pre-Christmas bowls will be featured next week.

Rebels To Test Waters Tonight At Prestonsburg

Coach Johnny Martin's Allen Central Rebels, the surprise of the 58th District, will bring his 3-1 Rebel team to the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse tonight to face Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats who have yet to win a game.

The Blackcats dropped a hard one Tuesday night to the McDowell Daredevils. The Blackcats put 51 points on the scoreboard in the first half building a 13-point lead only to see it evaporate in the third period. For Prestonsburg, hitting from the field was the problem, hitting only four baskets in the half. John Clark, averaging 21.5 points per game, will bring the Blackcats onto the floor as they look for their first conference win. Clark, point guard, has found success in hitting the three-pointer. Clark scored 25 points against a good Elkhorn City team in the team's opening loss.

Worthie McGuire, 6' 5" senior, averaging 18.0 per game, plays outside as well as inside. McGuire likes the short 10-foot jumper from the foul lanes. Jason Crisp has been playing good basketball for Prestonsburg. A heads-up type player, Crisp can hit for the treys also. He likes to drive the lanes and is quick.

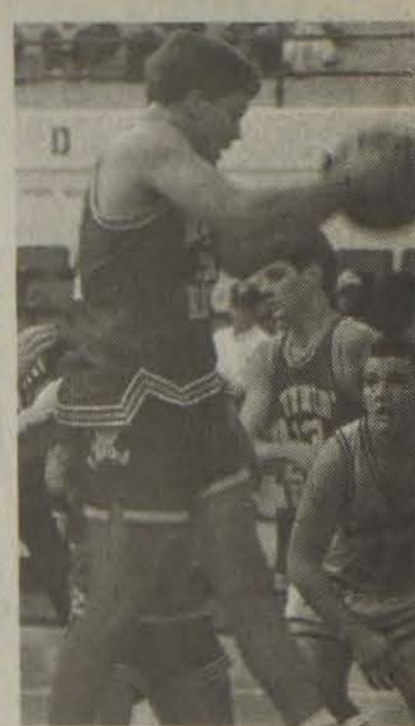

Allen Central, 3-1, will come off a disappointing loss to the Jenkins Cavaliers at home Tuesday night. The Rebels have surprised a lot of people and could have been 4-0 going into this one. Untested players have risen to the occasion for Coach Johnny Martin's ballclub. Brian Hall, 16.5 points a game, will not have to carry the offensive load for Allen Central. Hall, one of the few players that saw action for Central last year, will find help from Ronnie Samons, 13.0 per game.

Samons, the point guard, has been impressive thus far. The biggest addition to the Rebel team is transfer student Chuck Lafferty. Lafferty has been a workhorse on the boards and a consistent scorer up to the Jenkins game, where he only scored four points. Todd Lucas, 18 points per game, like in football, has been a pleasant surprise this year. Lucas is quick and can shoot from "treys land".

A problem for the Rebels will be blocking out the taller Blackcats.

Chris Burke, (6' 6" 1/2), and McGuire, (6' 5"), could pose a problem for the Rebels. Putting together four good quarters for the Blackcats is imperative.

Chuck Lafferty

Ahead 5-2 at the time!

Trojans Off To Great Start

Looks To Keep Things Going Against Neon

Off to a good start for the 1990-91 basketball season, the Wheelwright Trojans will face a team that is in a rebuilding year. Fleming Neon brings a 1-1 record to the Trojans' pit tonight to face a 2-0 Monroe Jones' team that has won and won handily over the previous two opponents.

Wheelwright will be led by Paul Hall, averaging 21 ppg, in a game that could give the Trojans a better start than they have experienced in past years. Hall is a good scorer and plays the floor well. Good court sense and desire motivates this young man.

Hall will have one of the county's best underneath and off the wing players. Harold Johnson, 19.5 ppg, plays power forward and is an aggressive player. Johnson can play all over the floor, and he knows his range and three-point area is in it.

Wheelwright is a quick team and with the addition of 6' 4" Michael Newsome the Trojans are stronger on the boards. Newsome is averaging close to 13 ppg, but is deceptively quick. Steven Johnson runs the ballclub and is carrying a 11 ppg average into tonight's contest.

The Trojans will be a pressing team. Pressure defense is their game as well as a run the floor on offense. No time clock needed here against this team. The Trojans are for real. A good balanced ballclub.

Head off at the pass

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

Tina Turner to be inducted into rock's hall of fame

Tina Turner has recently completed what's been called the most successful tour of her career. The six-and-a-half-month "Foreign Affair" tour took the rock 'n' roll queen through 121 shows in Europe, attracting 3.1 million fans. Her Barcelona performance will be available on pay per view television Jan. 4. Two weeks later, on Jan. 16, Turner is scheduled to be inducted into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame.

Tina Turner

Production has begun on Sisters, the hour-long drama about four very different sisters and their families. The series, scheduled for mid-season on NBC, stars Swoosie Kurtz, Patricia Kalember, Julianne Phillips and Sela Ward.

Dallas, now in its 13th season on CBS and the longest-running current entertainment program in prime time, has filmed its 350th episode. That surpasses Bonanza's 318 episodes, but still trails Gunsmoke's 402. Series star Larry Hagman directed the episode, which features a cattle drive led by the Ewing brothers with their three sons. It will be broadcast in early 1991.

Comedy lovers will be introduced to the first talk show created exclusively for comedians when Ha! The TV Comedy Network premieres its new show Comics Only, in January 1991. The show will provide an opportunity for stand-up comedians to sit down, perform their material conversationally and express their points of view, giving audiences a glimpse of the real lives of today's hottest comedians.

The critically acclaimed series Midnight Caller, starring Gary Cole, has been selected as a recipient for a special San Francisco American Scene Award. The Awards are presented annually to productions which portray women, minorities, seniors and the disabled in positive, non-stereotypical roles. The committee noted Midnight Caller's overall efforts to cast roles in a non-stereotypical and diverse manner since the series' inception in 1988.

George C. Scott has been signed to star in the telefilm Mittleman's Hardware for ABC. Hector Elizondo also stars in this contemporary drama about an aging owner of a hardware store who suffers amnesia and is helped by a group of Hispanics.

Academy Award-winning actress Marlee Matlin has entered into an exclusive development arrangement with Lorimar Television and executive producer Robert Singer to star in an hour-long pilot written and produced by Singer, for the fall of 1991 on NBC.

TV PIPELINE

Ed Begley Jr. a cameraman before becoming an actor

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Where can I write to Ed Begley Jr.? I saw him in a recent movie and think he is an interesting actor. Could you provide some information as to where he was born, schools attended and if he is married? —J. Smith, Atascadero, Calif.

A: Ed Begley Jr. was born in Los Angeles on Sept. 16, 1949. He is the son of the late actor Ed Begley. He landed his first TV role at age 17 in an episode of My Three Sons. Soon after, he appeared in a recurring role in the dramatic series Room 222. Begley worked as a cameraman for a local television station after attending Valley College and until beginning his film career with Walt Disney Studios. He appeared in a series of Disney films which starred Kurt Russell. The turning point in his career came with his role in St. Elsewhere. Now starring in NBC's new series Parenthood, Begley is separated from his wife.

Q: Could you tell me when Frank Sinatra won his Oscar for playing Maggio in From Here to Eternity? Did they play his hit song of that day, "Young at Heart," when he went up to collect his award? Al o, where could I write to him? —Ed Mampel, Kingsland, Texas

A: Frank Sinatra won his Academy Award in 1953. I may be wrong, but the usual procedure during the awards show is to play the theme of the movie winning the award, in this case, From Here to Eternity. Write to Sinatra at 70-88 Frank Sinatra Blvd., Rancho Mirage, CA 92270

Q: I am a big fan of Richard Grieco, who played Dennis Booker on Booker. Could you please tell me all about him? Will he be back on TV and his address? —Dana, Terre Haute, Ind.

A: Twenty-four-year-old

Ed Begley Jr.

Richard Grieco was born in Watertown, N.Y. A gifted athlete, he excelled in such sports as hockey, lacrosse and football. Named an All-American high-school football player, Grieco attended Central Connecticut University on an athletic scholarship with his sights set on a career in law. While in college he was entered in a national competition known as the "Best Face of the '80s" and emerged as a clear-cut winner. The contest led to a contract with a modeling agency in Manhattan. It was during this time he realized his desire to act and began two years of intensive theatrical study. His first audition led to his first professional role on the daytime drama One Life to Live. He turned down many offers before accepting Fox's offer to join the cast of 21 Jump Street. Look for him to be appearing in another series soon. Write to him c/o Joe Dera Associates, 584 Broadway, Suite 1201, New York, NY 10012.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.
