Melvin man shot 3 times in Friday scuffle

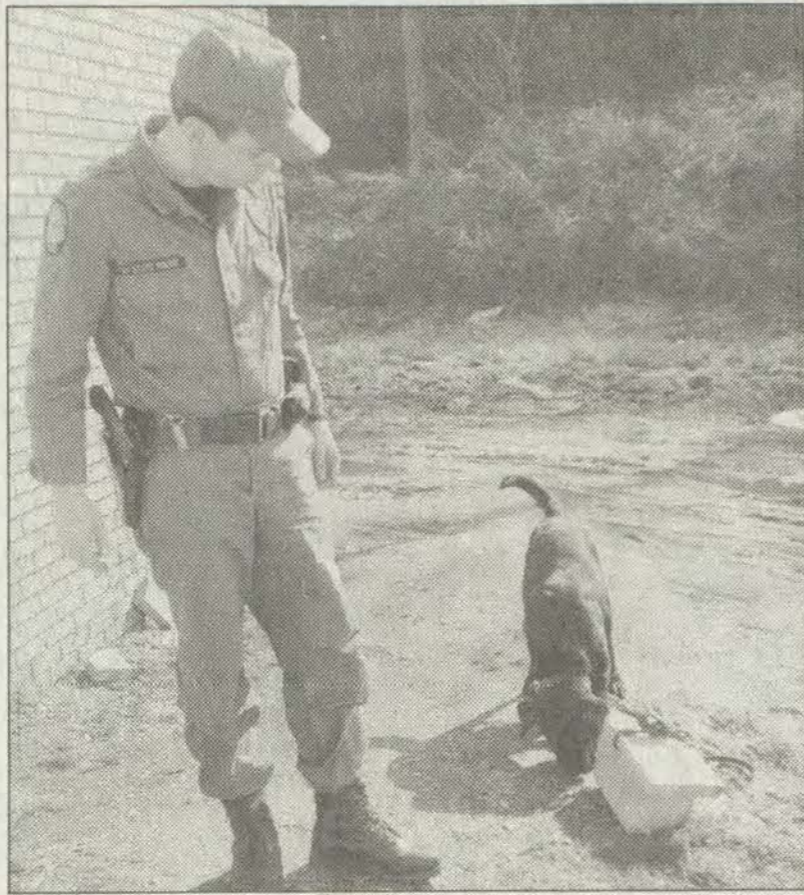

A Melvin man was shot three times by a Weeksbury man early Friday morning, during an argument at B & R Arcade in Melvin.

State police reports allege that Charles Ray Johnson, 38, of Weeksbury shot Kenneth B. Younce, 41, during a scuffle that broke out between the two at about 12:15 a.m. on Feb. 2.

Younce was struck in the chest, left shoulder and left wrist with slugs from a .38 caliber handgun. He was taken to McDowell Regional Medical Center where he was listed in stable condition.

Johnson was arrested and charged with first degree assault. He was lodged in the Floyd County Jail.

The case is still under investigation by the state police and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department.

Sniffing out trouble

Four furry members of the Kentucky State Police Canine Unit assisted state, county and city police officers in a drug search Monday of the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center. The search came at the request of Job Corps administrators, as a part of the monthly health and safety inspection at the Center. A single, partially smoked marijuana cigarette was the only reported find, according to police reports.

Drug search yields little

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

A full scale drug search was conducted Monday at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center, using four drug-sniffing dogs from the Kentucky State Police Canine Unit.

State police, Prestonsburg Police, and members of the Floyd County Sheriff's Department participated in the search, which netted only a single, partially smoked marijuana cigarette, found in the student common area.

The search came at the request of Job Corps administrators, said Len Grant, a Job Corps placement officer.

"We hold a monthly health and safety inspection," said Grant. "The Kentucky State Police was requested to join in this inspection, to search our dormitory areas for illegal substances."

A room-to-room search was conducted, as well as an examination of all lockers at the facility. The four specially trained dogs required frequent breaks from the search, because of warm temperatures in the building and the size of the facility.

"When the dogs get hot or tired, they begin to breathe through their mouths," said a KSP dog handler. "This means they aren't using their noses to sniff out drugs. When we see panting, we pull them out and let them cool off."

The dogs used in the search, two

German shepherds and two black labradors, were prepared for their work through a three-month training program and weekly four-hour training sessions. Using a rolled up cloth covered with the scent of drugs, the dogs are trained to find minute quantities of illegal substances, despite ingenious attempts at masking the drugs' location, the officer said.

"It's the dog's play drive which prompts them to look for drugs," the officer said. "It's a big game for them, and when it stops being fun, they stop searching."

Despite a thorough search, only a single marijuana cigarette was found.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson noted the value of an intensive search at the facility.

"If there is a drug problem here, this is one of the first steps that can be taken to cure it," said Thompson. "Making those involved in drugs afraid of being caught is the only way to deal with the problem. If we don't, anyone involved will continue doing what they're doing."

Grant noted that the Center's administration was satisfied with the search. "I'd say we're pleased that drugs weren't found. That indicates to us that we're doing our jobs here at Job Corps," he said.

Thursday will be even nicer. The weatherman calls for sunny and warm conditions, with a high running up into the lower 60s. Cowabunga!

Job Corps, Floyd County: Are improved relations needed?

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

What's it like to be young, black, and a student at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center in Prestonsburg?

For many of the young men enrolled in the federally-sponsored job training and education program here in the Floyd County, the answer to this question is a mixed one, with praise given to the educational aspects of Job Corps, combined with concern over local community reaction toward Corps members.

"The Center is a place that gives young people hope," said Eddie Mitchell, a 19-year-old masonry student from Miami, Fla., and governor of student government. "I came into this program with nothing, but I've developed confidence in my own abilities."

"I heard about the Job Corps program from friends who'd been in it," agreed Robert Riley, 19, of Chicago.

"It's hard when you go into town and people just stare at you. They just see your color and they don't see your good aspects."

Hassan Tillman
Job Corps student

"It was something I wanted to do. Before I came, I wasn't doing anything with myself. Now I really am."

Other students echoed this positive response to the work of the Job Corps. About 165 young men between the ages of 16 and 22 live, work and study at the large, eight-year-old facility just off Water Gap Road in Prestonsburg.

They come from around the country, seeking a chance to receive a high school education and vocational training in a highly structured environment. Some continue, through an advanced training program, to receive college credits at Prestonsburg Community College.

The maximum length of stay in the program is two years. If advanced training is sought, another year can be added to the student's term.

Despite the positive aspects of the educational program, problems do exist at the center. Some of the incoming students, about 20 percent according to members of the student cabinet, don't bring a positive attitude to the program. Occasional troublemakers take alcohol or drugs into the facility. Fights occur at times. The expected problems generated by putting 165 young men who don't know each other together into one place flare up.

However, the toughest problem faced by most students is the frequent lack of acceptance shown by Floyd County residents towards Job Corps students.

"It's hard when you go into town and people just stare at you," said Hassan Tillman, 21, a carpentry student. See JOB CORPS, Page 3

Tunnel collapse suffocates businesses

The collapse of a railway tunnel under KY 550 near Hueysville on Jan. 19 and the subsequent closure of the road for repairs has taken an economic bite out of areal businesses.

A number of business operations, including two service stations, a grocery market and two hardware stores, all report a serious decline in customers since the road closure, which prevents traffic from traveling between the Hueysville/Garrett area to Eastern and KY 850.

For many area residents, the road closing makes traveling to nearby businesses a roundabout hassle.

"This has been a real inconvenience for people around here," said James Duff, co-owner of Right Beaver Food Market and the next door

Tru-Value Hardware Store. "That section of road has been dangerous for a long time, and now it's completely closed. We need to have the state highway department act on the problem right away, before business falls off any more. We've lost about a quarter of our customers since the road was closed."

Duff noted that Rep. Greg Stumbo and Sen. Benny Ray Bailey have both been contacted and a petition was being circulated, collecting names of residents and businesses fed up with the slow progress of the state in fixing the road.

Cooley Service Station and D & A Ashland Service also have seen a dramatic drop in business, which has also threatened their economic health.

"We've lost a lot of business, about half of it," said Tommy Cooley of Cooley Service Station. "I've been here about three years, but if they don't get that road fixed and opened, I'm not going to be here much longer."

Doug Prater, of D & A Service, noted a similar drop.

"We're getting 35 to 50 percent less customers. I've also heard that it'll take 10 weeks from now before the state will get the work done. That's going to be a real problem for us."

Local state highway personnel referred inquiries about the road work on KY 550 to the Office of Transportation in Frankfort. The Frankfort office did not return a call from the Floyd County Times as of Tuesday evening.

Road closing hurts businesses

A railroad tunnel collapse closed KY 550 almost three weeks ago, cutting the route between Hueysville and Garrett with Eastern and KY 850. Local businesses have noticed a sharp downturn in activity, due to the lack of easy access for customers to the area. Business owners are circulating a petition to the state to speed repair work. The state Transportation Department has not said when road work will be completed.

10 days (jail time) worth of junk

Millard Little of Eastern was sentenced Monday to 10 days in jail on charges of criminal littering, in connection with this dump site located in his backyard. According to Floyd County Ecology Officer Cleveland Tackett, Little's sentence was one of the harshest ever handed out for illegal dumping, marking an escalation in the level of seriousness with which littering crimes will be considered in the county.

Litter leads to lockup

An Eastern man received 10 days in jail, a $57 fine, and was put on probation for 170 days, on charges of illegally dumping trash in his backyard.

According to Cleveland Tackett, ecology officer for Floyd County, Millard Little has been a long time offender of state littering and trash disposal laws.

"I've warned this fellow about his dumping activities over a period of time," said Tackett. "After a warning, they'd start to clean the place up, but pretty soon they'd be back to their old ways."

The large trash dump, located across KY 550 from the entrance to Turner Branch, contains everything from vehicle parts, to building materials and household trash. Tackett noted that Little apparently had been accepting money from area residents for trash disposal. This, said Tackett, may have accounted for the stiff penalty levied against Little.

"This is the first time I remember anyone going to jail because of dumping," said Tackett. "Usually a small fine is given. What this shows is that people are recognizing that garbage is a serious problem. People are going to have to comply with the law."

The summons issued charged Little with criminal littering and noted that he appeared to be running a land fill without a permit.

Little failed to appear in court on the charge this week and was found guilty in absentia.

Regional Roundup

Salyersville man run down

MAGOFFIN COUNTY—A Salyersville man was hit by a car and killed Saturday at Wonnie in Magoffin County.

According to state police reports, Lee Montgomery of Flat Fork was driving a 1981 Oldsmobile North on KY 2019 Saturday, when he saw Hayden Ward, 58, standing on the centerline of the highway. Montgomery swerved left to avoid Ward, but Ward apparently moved in the same direction and was hit.

The victim was taken to Paul B. Hall Medical Center where he was pronounced dead on arrival by county coroner J.R. Frisby.

The case is under investigation by KSP.

Husband/wife arrested for pot

PIKE COUNTY—A Kentucky State Police drug investigation resulted in the arrest of a Pike couple Friday.

Mark and Judy Irick from Franky Fork of Harless Creek were arrested Friday, following the issuance of a search warrant on the couple's residence. Officers confiscated an undetermined amount of marijuana, a small amount of cash, and a police scanner.

The two were charged with trafficking in marijuana, involving more than eight ounces, and were both lodged in the Pike County Jail. The case remains under investigation.

Virgie man arrested for bootlegging

VIRGIE—Russell Hall was arrested Friday night after state police executed a search warrant on Hall's Midnight Market and Hall's residence at Robinson Creek.

A total of 3,222 cans of beer, 64 bottles of whiskey, 18 bottles of vodka, six bottles of gin, and one bottle of rum were confiscated following the search. Hall was charged with the illegal sale of alcoholic beverages and the illegal possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale.

Hall was lodged in the Pike County Jail.

Magoffin receives food/shelter grant

MAGOFFIN COUNTY—Magoffin County was awarded a supplemental grant of $13,228, directed at emergency food and shelter programs in the area. The grant was sponsored by a board made up of voluntary organizations from around the county and chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

A local board has been established to determine how the funds will be distributed. Local organizations will play a vital role in the distribution process. (The Salyersville Independent)

11-man burglary at UMW office

PIKEVILLE—Eleven United Mine Worker members wearing camouflage clothing were arrested early Monday morning after they allegedly broke into UMW District 30 office in Pikeville.

According to state police reports, the Pikeville Police Department requested KSP assistance at 12:56 a.m. Monday, to investigate the reported break in. Four state police and three Pikeville police arrived at the scene, secured the perimeter of the District 30 office and attempted to make contact with subjects in the building. They received no response.

A search was conducted of the building, and 11 persons were discovered on the third floor of the building and arrested. All were lodged in the Pike County Jail on third degree burglary charges.

According to sources familiar with the case, the 11 arrested were Phelps miners involved in a long term dispute with both Colonial Coal Co. and with UMW District 30 over strike benefits. The union had informed the miners that strike benefits would be terminated last December, due to the lack of hope for settlement of a five-year-old strike.

All 11 arrested were released on bail early Monday morning.

The Bank Josephine has once again expanded its operations in Floyd County. With the opening of its newest branch office in McDowell the bank now has five branches, a main office and a free standing Automatic Teller Machine (ATM).

The Left Beaver Branch office began business on Jan. 23 and held its grand opening reception on Tuesday, Feb. 6, with several board members and other officials. The other branch offices are in Allen, Prestonsburg, Harold and Garrett. The main office is downtown Prestonsburg and the ATM is in the Prestonsburg Village to allow easy access by area shoppers.

According to Branch Manager Willis Hall, the new building replaces the trailer originally used in Wheelwright. Hall says he sees the new location as quite an improvement that will offer better convenience and more services to the local customers.

Other familiar faces will greet Bank Josephine customers at the new location. Ginny Isaac of McDowell is the customer service representative, specializing in loans. She has worked for the bank for 12 years and was previously at the Allen branch.

The head teller is Sabrina Hall who has been with the bank for seven years and was previously at the Wheelwright Branch Office. Also from Wheelwright is Margaret Jones who brings three years of experience to the new location. She had been in bookkeeping at the main branch.

Customers will find a modern lobby with safety deposit boxes, a conference room, manager's office, loan office, and a three-window teller area inside the building. Also available for quick service is one drive-up window and an ATM, operable without leaving the car.

With the addition of this new branch, Bank Joe's immediate expansion plans are complete, for now.

Cutting the ribbon

Jobs data to be collected here

The Census Bureau will collect labor force data through its Current Population Survey from the Big Sandy area the week of Feb. 18-24, according to William F. Hill, director of the bureau's Charlotte, N.C., regional office.

The local data will contribute to February's national employment and unemployment picture to be released March 9 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Information supplied by individuals to the Census Bureau is kept confidential by law. Only statistical totals are published.

December data, the most current, showed a national civilian unemployment rate of 5.3 percent.

Commonwealth cites local affiliates

Commonwealth Life Insurance Co. has announced that members of its Kentucky Mountain Agency, based in Prestonsburg, have won several top awards for performance during the 1989 sales year.

Account manager Phil Sandlin and his Jackson staff of the Kentucky Mountain Agency have won a President's Citation for being among the top staffs in the company.

Account representatives Paul Howard of the Paintsville office and Michael Whitt of the Hazard staff each earned a Bronze Circle Award in recognition of sales and service to their clients.

Governor better get 'on train', Stumbo tells chamber members Saying "it's a pleasure to be here with people who have some sense," State Rep. Greg Stumbo outlined recent actions in the Kentucky General Assembly to members of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce Monday.

"Our goal is to have a bold, innovative plan for educational reform," Stumbo told the chamber members, gathered at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, for their monthly membership meeting. "The biggest thing we have before us is educational reform."

The state legislator gave a synopsis of the proposed reform package. Included is the combining of early grade levels, a statewide preschool program, and a comprehensive technological system that would, Stumbo hopes, give every Kentucky student access to computers.

Also under consideration for the state's educational system renovation, he said, is an extension of the school year, mandatory enrollment through age 18, new evaluation methods for teachers and programs and the implementation of school-based management.

In reference to a State Senate bill that has been interpreted as potentially crippling to Prestonsburg's park system, Stumbo asked, "Do you know the difference between the bill and Elvis Presley? There's a chance Elvis is alive somewhere."

The representative also reiterated his support for legislation that would bring a bigger share of the Coal Severance Tax back to the coal-producing counties. "I'm asking that 15 percent (of the tax revenues) be returned to the schools and that a clean coal technology center be established in the coal fields," he said.

Anticipating comment on the legislature's recent squabbles with Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, Stumbo said he and the governor are "still good friends," but that they differ as to the roles of the administrative and legislative branches of government.

"There's a cohesive feeling in the legislature, the best in the 10 years I've been in," he said. "The bottom line is if (the governor) doesn't want to get on board, the train's going to leave without him."

He added that he supported the governor's inclusion in his budget proposal of matching funds for the East Kentucky Jobs Creation Authority. The multi-county authority, Stumbo said, can be a mini version of the state's Economic Development Cabinet with a focus on this region.

Responding to a question on the governor's controversial plan to raise state operating revenue, Stumbo said he believes "most people seem to prefer a one cent sales tax increase" over other proposals.

Coal industry workshops set here

Two workshops on preventive enforcement in the coal industry have been scheduled for Eastern Kentucky during March.

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is the site of the March 8 workshop, and Pine Mountain State Park in Pineville will host the March 7 workshop. Each workshop is set for 6:30-9 p.m. and is sponsored by the Kentucky Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

Each workshop will bring together coal operators and personnel who inspect mining worksites to discuss laws, regulations and ways the two groups can work together to prevent surface mining problems, according to a department spokesman.

Using preventive guidelines, an inspector will be encouraged to point out to a coal operator areas that, if left unattended, may become violations of current coal mining laws and regulations, said Commissioner William J. Grable.

An example, Grable said, would be for an inspector to draw attention to small gullies on the side of a reclaimed slope. The operator can then correct the problem before a heavy rainstorm deepens the gullies and puts the site in violation of the law. Being cited for non-compliance of the laws costs the operator both time and money, he said.

A violation also costs the department time and money because the inspector has to do more paperwork which keeps him for getting into the field for further inspection work. Recording and follow up on a violation also involve time and money, Grable said.

During the workshops, department officials will discuss operator involvement in the permitting process, ownership and control, preventive enforcement techniques and bond release procedures. Times also will be set aside for individuals to talk one-on-one with a department official to voice concerns or ask questions.

For information, contact Eddie Riddle at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement in Frankfort by calling 502-564-6940.

Taking a tumble

This Ford Ranger, driven by Trent Hicks, 25, of Middle Creek collided with a Chevy S-10 driven by Larry Joe Wells, 18, of Blue River and flipped over Thursday night on the Mountain Parkway, sending both drivers to Highlands Regional Medical Center for treatment. Both were released Saturday. The Floyd County Rescue Squad, the Kentucky State Police, and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department responded to the accident.

dent from New York. "They just see your color and they don't see your good aspects. We do cleanups in the area, and we had a picnic for elderly people last summer, but it seems like nobody ever hears about it."
"I'm from Mississippi, so I'm used to some of this," said John Eskridge, 19. "Some people call us niggers, when a few of us go out together. I just try to ignore it, but it's hard."
At times, stares and name calling turn into something more ugly.
"Four of us walked down to the store a few months ago," said Riley. "Some drunk guys went by in a car and shouted at us, as we were walking. Coming back, the car went by again and stopped. One guy got out and took off his coat to fight us, calling us niggers. It was a mess, and the police came down to the Center later, because of the fight. If one of the guys in the car hadn't told them that they started the fight, we could have been in a lot of trouble."

Certain stores and places of business in the area discourage doing business with Corps students. Signs have even been placed, saying no Job Corps members allowed on the premises.
This inability to see Corps students as individuals with something to offer, is what is most painful to the students.
"We really just want some acceptance, to fit in here," said Riley. "I think people get the idea of what we're like from TV, or something. It's not true. We have feelings, and this kind of thing hurts."
"I know we're strangers here," said Tillman, "but I hope people can realize we want to work with them. We'll bend over backwards to do it, if we could just have people to reach out and work with us, also."

At Christmas, several local churches did just that, providing gifts and entertainment for students who couldn't go home for the holidays. This, according to Len Grant, a placement officer at the Center, is a positive step in improving the relationship between Corps students and local residents.
"These kids have put a lot back into the area, working to fight fires, bringing water up to Wheelwright when they had problems, and working during the 1984 flood," said Grant. "There tends to be a perception that our place is some sort of detention center, which it isn't. Until we can change this idea, things aren't going to improve."
For more information, or for any person who would like to work to improve the relationship between Job Corps and the Floyd County community, call Grant at 886-1037.

Pikeville man named to coal organization

US Sen. Mitch McConnell last week announced the appointment of five Kentuckians, including a Pikeville man, to the National Coal Council, a board that advises the President and Secretary of Energy on national coal policy.

Along with Charles Baird of Pikeville, the appointees are Eddie Beck of Bowling Green, John Newton of Lexington, Gary Livingstone of Louisville and J.J. Shackelford of Nevsdale.

McConnell had submitted the names to Energy Secretary James D. Watkins.
Established in 1984, the council draws members from a cross section of those who mine, transport and burn coal, as well as those involved in research and development technology and other support organizations within the coal industry, McConnell said.
The council is a self-funded private sector group that informs and makes recommendations to the energy secretary.

Cable service considered at Allen council meeting

Cable television service was the focus of Monday night's Allen town council meeting, as citizens and council members aired their concerns and complaints to a representative of Charter Cable.
Kenneth Jaskot, general manager of Charter Cable, fielded questions from the occasionally irate cable customers at the meeting. Many questioned the billing confusions which began last fall when the company switched over to a new billing system and a large number of errors occurred.
Jaskot noted that 168,000 calls were made to the company during November, when the billing problems began. Checks sent in for payment were credited to the wrong accounts, resulting in incorrect billings.
Jaskot promised that the new system being implemented would soon take care of the glitches and that a new phone system would be better able to handle customer calls for services.
"What we did was very frustrating for the customers," said Jaskot. "We'd like to apologize for it, and I promise that the situation will improve greatly once the new system is implemented."
Jaskot also stated that no new rate increases were scheduled by the cable company, and a hookup would be placed in the Allen school for no charge, as specified in the current contract.

City council decided to wait one more month before deciding whether or not to renew a contract with Charter Cable. The council added an amendment to the contract, requesting that council have control over rate increases by the cable company. Jaskot said he would take the amendment to his superiors, but doubted that it would be approved, as it went against federal guidelines for cable companies.
In other action, it was noted that James Stevens was hired as the new police officer for the city. The salary for the city police officer was also increased at the December meeting by $100 per month. The purchase of a radio for the police patrol car was approved at last month's meeting.
Present at Monday's meeting were Mayor Verne Porter and council members Ann Bentley, Elmer Parsons, and Gary Elliott.

The circus has arrived, folks, and the great thing is we don't have to pay a penny to watch the show — at least not straight out.

In the center ring is Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, with a dazzling display of ego and arrogance, guaranteed to knock your socks off. Sporting a seeming insatiable appetite for power, he defies all who stand in his way. His feats of legerdemain are demonstrated nightly in front of television audiences as he revises history and amazingly appears to believe his own delusions.

In the second ring, determined to move to center, is a devastating array of wanna-be's, known as the legislature. With death defying daring, they fight for their honor and for the allegiance of their richest and most prolific constituency. Their proclivity to concentrate on the smallest of pictures to the exclusion of the total has confounded past audiences.

Occupying the third ring, located behind the stands, hardly discernible, are the citizens of the Commonwealth. Commonly billed as dupes and rubes, they perform a stunning act in which they sit in awe of the main attractions. In previous shows, they've grasped at promises and signs of hope and have emitted blood-curling, albeit silent, screams as the lights have gone down. Watch as they toss their coins into the mouths of the performers in the other two rings. Watch them flush their self-esteem, confidence and dreams down the drain. Watch them fade into the sawdust and become totally invisible. Watch their children's futures grow dimmer and dimmer as they sink into the quagmire.

Please don't leave when the curtain comes down, though. The entertainers in the third ring might decide to do a stupendous act: clean up the mess and clear out the arena. It just might be worth paying to see.

Attorney General to get tough with DUI

Dear Editor,
Recently, I announced the final recommendations of my Task Force on Drunken Driving, which after a year-long review reached the undeniable conclusion that drunken driving continues to be a serious problem in Kentucky.

The Task Force's 32 recommendations, many of which are now before the 1990 General Assembly, attack the drunken driving problem on four fronts: prevention, treatment, prosecution, and punishment. Never before have we, as a Commonwealth, dealt with drunken driving completely.

The measures we are proposing are tough, some controversial. We are suggesting lowering the legal blood alcohol limit from .10 to .08. This is significant when you consider that nearly 25 per cent of all fatal alcohol related crashes in Kentucky in 1988 and 1989 involved drunk drivers with a blood alcohol level of .08 or less. The Surgeon General as well as the American and Kentucky Medical Associations agree that a person with a blood alcohol level of .08 is seriously impaired and has no business behind the wheel of an automobile.

We are also recommending an open container statute which simply means no open containers of alcohol in a motor vehicle. This would not automatically result in an arrest for DUI for the offender. Nineteen other states have such a law.

Another badly needed change in the law would require treatment for those convicted of drunken driving and would provide for monitoring to insure those who need treatment for alcohol abuse are receiving it and therefore will be less likely to become a habitual drunken driver.

Since becoming Attorney General, I have met and talked with the families of victims of drunken drivers. Their stories are heartbreaking. No one should have to endure the pain they feel or experience the loss they have suffered. However, we can, if we work together now, act to insure that this tragedy doesn't continue to happen on Kentucky's highways.

I urge every Kentuckian to support the DUI legislation (Senate Bill 163 and House Bill 333) now before the General Assembly by calling (1-800-372-7181) and/or writing your state senator and representative. We can make our highways safer for all Kentuckians.

Show was 'pure camp'

Dear Editor,

Here is another letter which was sent to the producers of "48 Hours." Greetings from "Another America!" And Congratulations on your recent "48 Hours" parody and traditional conceptions of people and life in Eastern Kentucky. Your program went so far beyond the usual stereotyped hillbilly comedy as to become pure camp. Believe us, we haven't laughed so long and heartily since Al Capp went out of print.

We wish to point out, however, that there are certain aspects of our culture that you neglected to explore. As examples, you failed to touch on our quaint dialect, our picturesque dress, and log cabin homes. We didn't see a single flooding scene nor a moonshine liquor run. Then, there's our annual Sadie Hawkins Day, always an elaborate and gala affair. No farce on our locale is complete without features such as these.

We urge, indeed, we insist that you return tout de suite, start filming, and complete the job. (Note: tout de suite, meaning "on the double," is an expression that comes from France; like Eastern Kentucky, France is not part of the USA.) We guarantee footage that will make the "Other America" sit up and gasp. By "Other America" we mean the one outside of Eastern Kentucky, where there is no poverty, no illiteracy, no violence, and where only first class citizens reside. You know the America we're talking about.

Since things are pretty tough all over you shouldn't be embarrassed because you lack the financial means for a second trip in. No problem! Floyd County is setting up a fund to defray all expenses, with maybe a bit left over. We understand our good neighbors down at Muddy Gut, have already, among themselves, collected enough for the gasolene. Also, Pansy Yokum has volunteered to come to New York to ride back down with you. She can read road signs, explain directions, and show you where to make your marks should your signature be required anywhere along the way. Pansy is friendly and obliging. You'll like Pansy!

We realize that you found housing too primitive, living too rigorous, at our local Holiday Inn where you previously stayed, so we've arranged more suitable accommodations for you this time. The McSwine girl, who keeps a sort of boarding house, says she'll be glad to put you up. There's such a distinctive air about her place that you're certain to feel right at home. The other tenants may grunt and complain a bit, but, again, no problem. We'll keep their troughs sloshing full of Kick-a-Boo Joy Juice. This should keep them quiet at least long enough to get the filming done. Injun Joe is this minute out in his tepee cooking us up a fresh batch.

Be assured you will have complete freedom while you're here. Go where you wish and film what you like. Our only stipulation is that you not include any pregnant teenagers in your team. While we are sympathetic, we're too busy with wedding preparations for our own young people to give unwed mothers the attention and care they need.

All is prepared here, so you people hurry right on down. We'll be waiting for you, and that's a promise! Sincerely Yours,
Eastern Kentucky Ban "48 Hours" Society
Pollyanna Wiley, President
P.S. "Another America" a "fair and honest piece of reporting"? Aw, come on, Andrew Heyward! You've got to be joking.

Responds to letter

Dear Editor,
This is in response to the letter written by Bertha Slone.

She said that you couldn't go up Mud Creek without getting your car muddy. I disagree with her as I go to Mud Creek very often and I have not encountered any muddy roads. In fact there are black top roads up most of the hollows and there are some beautiful homes on Mud Creek also. My son lives on Mud Creek and he has a nice home. In fact, there are many beautiful homes on Mud Creek as there are in Prestonsburg.

I agree that Eula Hall has done a great job with the clinic, but you know we must all remember that she is not God. I also know personally you can be treated at the Mud Creek Clinic if you don't have any money. But, I also know they dun you to death as well.

they like it. So don't knock it. Let's try to get someone to show the good things about us. I live about 12 to 14 miles from Muddy Gut and no one has to live that way except by choice. I feel the state or county should fix them a decent road.

All "48 Hours" did was make a big funny out of the wedding that they showed, also out of the abuse trial. I have never seen the court house at Prestonsburg that empty on any occasion. Even when there is no court it is full of people.

Let's give Christian Appalachian Project a great big hand for their fine efforts that they put forth to help the needy. And let's give all of Floyd County a big hand, as we do have decent and hard working people here. I feel the people on Muddy Gut were very misled about the purpose of "48 Hours."

Give the teachers and students and Wheelwright High School high praise for what they have accomplished on their own.

Magistrate replies to Langley residents

Dear Editor,
(Editor's note: Reply refers to Langley residents who complained in a recent letter about the condition of a road in their area.)

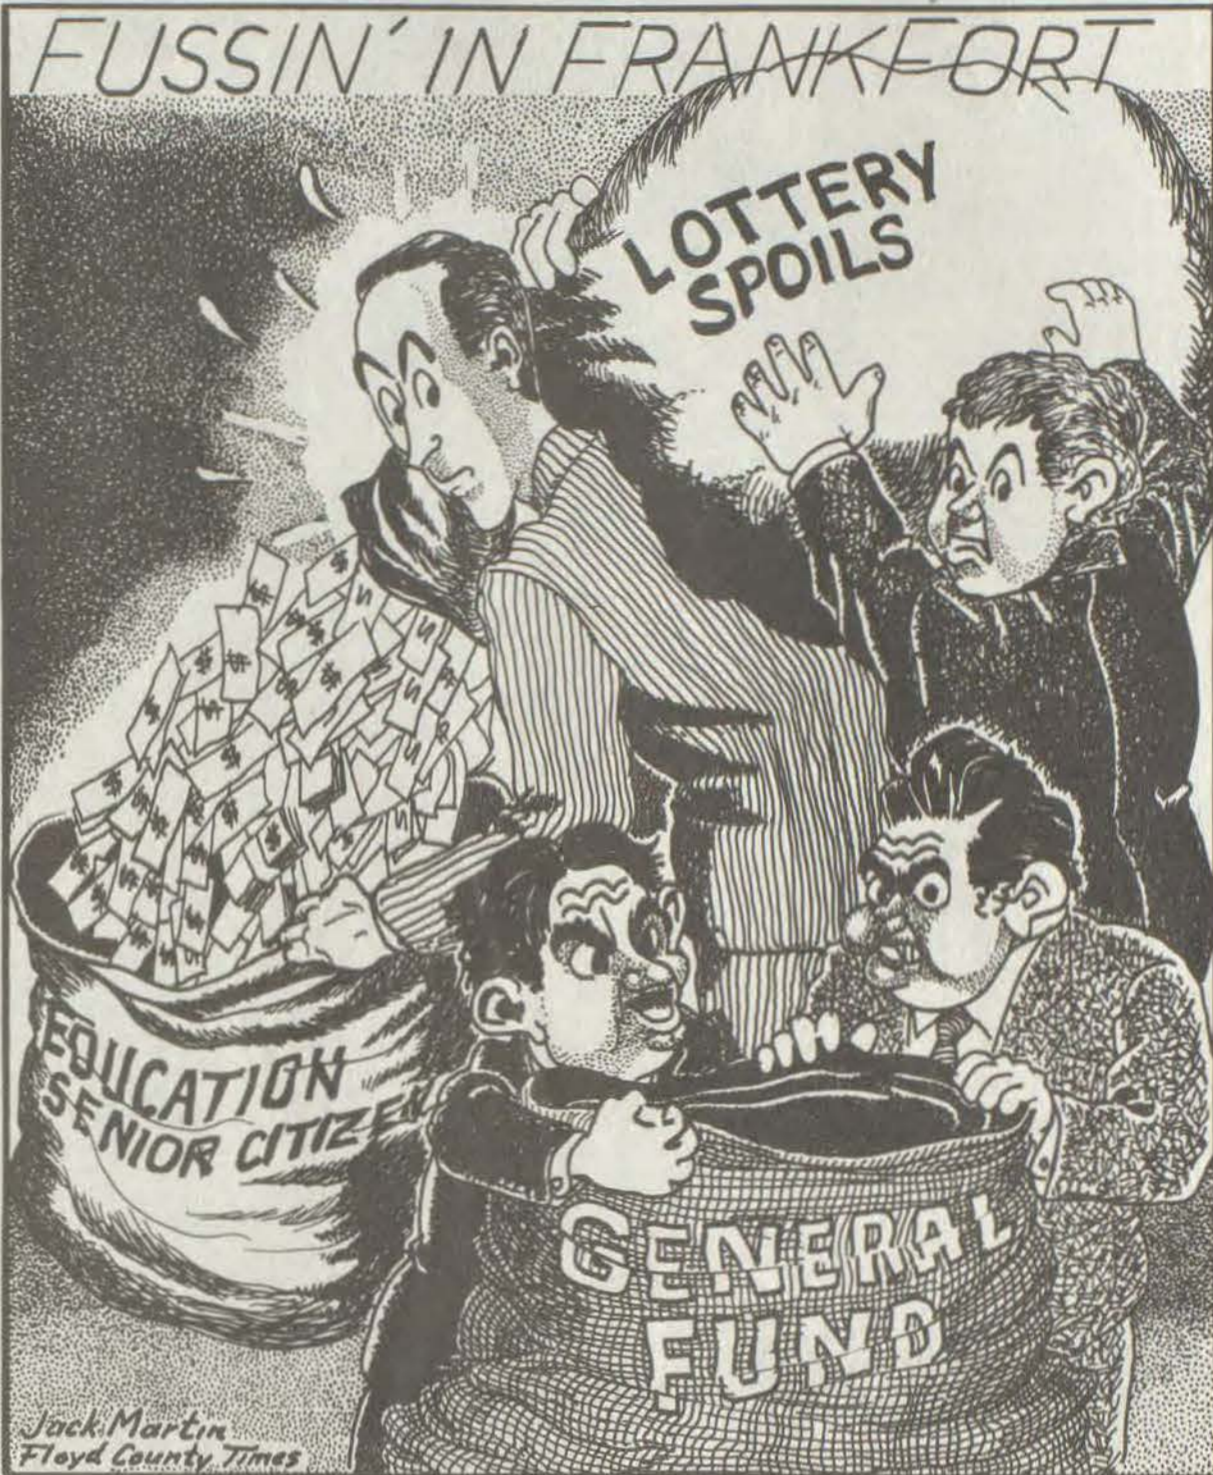

These people want to know WHY I haven't gotten to them yet. First, we are taking care of the school bus roads and county roads first. They ARE NOT county. These people stated that if they had a fire that a fire truck could not get up their road. It wouldn't matter if this road was smooth and as solid as it could be, I doubt if a fire truck that was loaded with water could pull this hill because it is steeper than a "mule's face."

These people say that they have been told that they do not live on a county road. THEY'RE RIGHT—it's not a county road. The Federal Disaster people said it would take approximately $75,000 to repair this road and hill if it was county, BUT IT WASN'T.

They (the residents) also talked about the county taxes they pay that goes to the Fire Departments and such. I don't like paying taxes myself, but I do. What I pay and what you all pay wouldn't make a dent in what the Fiscal Court gives the Fire Departments. We give to the Fire Departments and Rescue Squad around $32,000 a year which equals around $128,000 in one term and THEY NEED MORE.

These people also said since me and Carl Duff—the previous owner of this land—ran against each other in the election years ago is why they feel that they can't get this road fixed. Oh, but we forget so quick. Do you all remember when we came down there with a dozer and two trucks and red dogged from the foot of the hill to the top of the hill which took us about five days? Have we forgotten about the time we graveled it from the top to the bottom? We have graded this hill several times. How about the time my truck driver was going up the hill and it was so steep that when his engine died, his brakes wouldn't hold him and he bailed out of the truck and the truck went down the hill and jammed into the bank? YOU KNOW WHAT—Mr. Duff lived there all this time. I don't hold grudges.

You people also stated that last spring you had a mudslide in the road and that the dozer was unloaded there and two hours later I had taken it somewhere else. LET'S TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT IT—The dozer WAS unloaded there BUT Carl Duff had rented a dozer which was being used to push the mud down the hill and was about to cover up property that belonged to Kentucky West Virginia

Gas Co. When we tried to help remove the slip out of the road, Carl Duff threatened to sue us. When we parked the equipment until we could try to get this problem settled, the next day SOMEONE got on the county dozer and was running it and our insurance doesn't cover NON-COUNTY employees. So the machine had to be picked up because if a kid got run over, the insurance wouldn't cover them.

Some of these people say that on Saturday, Jan. 6, that they saw the county workers lay down red dog on a driveway to one house. Well, you're bad wrong people. There happens to be four houses on that road and a cemetery. I don't mind at all going with anyone and showing them this road.

Some of these people say that they have called me on my answering machine and they don't get returned calls. I have returned their calls more than once and I have been there with the equipment and with the Federal and State Disaster people trying to get the money to fix this road, but like they said—IT'S JUST NOT COUNTY. The reason I've got an answering machine is because my wife and kids were being cursed out when they answered the phone over road problems.

You people drove up that hill when you bought the property and you knew what you were buying. Carl Duff burnt you—NOT ME.

Legislature responds to governor's ads

Dear Editor,
The television advertisement being aired by Gov. Wilkinson incorrectly accuses the General Assembly of attempting to "grab" money raised through the lottery and put it in "their General Fund." The Governor seems to be saying that the General Fund is some type of slush fund that the legislators use for non-governmental purposes.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The General Fund, to which the Governor refers, is the largest of seven operational funds through which all state government programs are funded. The Revenue Cabinet collects billions of dollars in taxes every year, most of which is channeled into the General Fund. The Constitution of Kentucky specifically delegates to the Kentucky General Assembly the responsibility of determining where your tax dollars are most wisely spent.

The Kentucky Lottery was not established by the Governor. It was established during a Special Session in 1988 by the General Assembly. The Constitutional Amendment, which the voters of Kentucky approved prior to this Special Session, made no mention of where and how lottery proceeds are to be spent.

The members of the General Assembly are ready and willing to work with the Governor to devise the most efficient and effective use of all revenues generated by state taxes and fees, and by the lottery. The role of the Governor in this process is significant. By law, it is the responsibility of the Governor to propose a budget, which the legislature carefully evaluates as it formulates and enacts a budget bill. It is the budget bill which ultimately determines how all state revenues are expended. We are willing to work with the Governor in a fair and open manner. We expect the same from him.

The purpose of this letter is to clarify some of the misleading information being reported to our citizens. Again, the General Assembly encourages citizen participation in the governmental process. We urge you to continue to utilize the toll-free message line (1-800-372-7181) or to write your legislators expressing your views and concerns.

Protests appraisal

Dear Editor,
I am writing you to make a complaint concerning the Office of the Master Commissioner of the Floyd Circuit Court. I am involved in a situation where my property is being sold by that office. The secretary of that office appraised the property for the auction. I requested to know how much she appraised the property for to find out her appraisal was $175,000, which, I felt, was considerably low. I rebutted that appraisal by getting my own licensed, qualified and experienced appraisal expert to look at the property to find that the appraisal done by the Master Commissioner's secretary was $55,000 lower. When the Master Commissioner's office was confronted with the discrepancy, he indicated that she had not done an on-the-spot appraisal of the property. The secretary's reaction was "I was only off $55,000!" My goodness, that's the price of a new home!

During my investigation into this matter I also found out that to the best of my understanding and knowledge, that the secretary is not licensed, nor has she been to real estate school. I would like to know with all the qualified licensed appraisers in Floyd County, why such an important office is playing with human lives and their future to be handled by non-professionals.

In Kentucky, you are required to be licensed to be a hair dresser, to be a doctor or a lawyer. I was advised that in Kentucky, the law does not require you to be licensed to appraise property, but to just have "a warm body" and own real estate. To the best of my knowledge and belief, these are the only qualifications the Master Commissioner's appraisal witnesses have.

My complaint is that I don't understand why the county does not require someone to be qualified and licensed to appraise real property subject to sale by the Master Commissioner's office. I would like to ask anyone interested in this to help me form a committee to approach our Floyd County Officers to require appraisal witnesses used by the Master Commissioner's office to be more qualified. Please let your opinion be known. In the meantime, I would like to challenge anyone having property sold by the Master Commissioner's office to have their own qualified appraisal experts to do an appraisal. I do not wish to hurt the Master Commissioner's office or anyone in that office, but I do want to help someone else not be hurt by a similar situation. I just feel that this position is too important, and that the appraisal done on the property being sold should be performed by a qualified professional.

State Government News Summary

Tax free ... The Revenue Cabinet has announced that federal retirees, both military and civilian, are not required to pay Kentucky income tax on their 1989 pensions. The Cabinet advised that 1989 returns, including fiscal year returns beginning in 1989, should not include federal pension income, but should include any Kentucky tax withheld or paid by declaration on these pensions.

Emergency responses ... More than 1,600 environmental emergency incidents were reported to the Department for Environmental Protection's Environmental Response Team in 1989. The figure represents a 70 percent increase from 1988 when 948 incidents were reported, according to Jack Wilson, director of the state Division of Water, which administers the ERT program. Wilson urges citizens to "continue being the eyes and ears for the team." To report an environmentally threatening situation, call the 24-hour number for ERT, 502-564-2380.

Down the road ... The proposed $600 million bond issue for highways was unanimously endorsed by participants in the 12th annual Kentucky Transportation Conference recently in Lexington, sponsored by Kentuckians for Better Transportation. Ron Slone, manager of Watson's and president of the Pikeville Chamber of Commerce, was among leaders urging adoption of the bond issue, which encompasses completion of the southern portion of US 23 from Dorton to Jenkins, among other roads.

Getting serious about pollution ... A joint Environmental Crimes Workgroup, involving state and federal agencies, has been established in Kentucky. The state Attorney General's office, Justice Cabinet, and Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet have entered into a written Memorandum of Understanding for the identification, investigation and prosecution of violations of state environmental laws. The US Attorney General's office, FBI and federal Environmental Protection Agency have also pledged support. The Kentucky State Police recently consolidated its environmental monitoring duties into a single unit, Hazardous Devices/Materials Unit, assigned to the newly-created Special Operations Section. The unit's mission is to locate and investigate complaints about illegal dump sites, to assist in the event of hazardous materials spills and to monitor the importation of hazardous and infectious wastes. The FBI has installed an environmental crime hotline in Kentucky. To report a suspected environmental crime involving hazardous waste or pollution, call 1-800-367-0160.

Meeting ... The Governor's Task Force on the Arts will meet Feb. 7 at 2:30 p.m. in room 109, State Capitol, Frankfort. The task force's mission is to study and evaluate programs of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, Kentucky Arts Council and other arts organization. For information, call 502/564-8076.

McDowell continues to roll; defeats P'burg, 87-70

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Daredevils continue to play good basketball, besting the Prestonsburg Blackcats, 87-70, Friday night in high school basketball. The game was a big conference match for both teams as they try to stay in the conference picture with frontrunner Betsy Layne.

Stacy Hall led the Daredevils in scoring with 33 points. Hall's performance drew the praise of his coach.

"Stacy is becoming a more complete player for us," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "He is doing things better the last seven or eight games."

Prestonsburg entered the game with a 2-2 conference record and McDowell stood at 2-3. The victory was McDowell's fifth in the last seven games, as the team continues to get good play out of center Keith Shelton who finished with 22 points.

Senior center Kevin Adams had a good offensive game with 24 points. Adams is a talented center who can get free under the basket. He has a soft touch and can hit the short jumpers.

The game was close in the first quarter and a half. The game seemed to move slowly with the officials keeping their whistles active. The Daredevils jumped out to 12-9 early and led at the first stop, 19-18.

Chris Slone, who had 11 points in the game, hit two free throws at the start of the second quarter, to put the Blackcats on top 20-19 and give Prestonsburg its only lead in the game.

With McDowell on top 27-26, the Daredevils outscored the visitors, 10-3, to take a 37-29 lead with 2:28 to go in the second period. After a basket by Stuart Robinson, Stacy Hall scored four points and Scott Shannon added a free throw to give McDowell a half time lead of 42-31.

A 15-7 run early in the third quarter moved McDowell out to a 19 point advantage, 57-38. From that point on, Prestonsburg had to play catch up with McDowell.

Prestonsburg defeated McDowell at home earlier in the season, 74-55. In that game Chris Slone had 27 points.

"We played good defense tonight," Turner stated. "We held Slone to 11 points and any time you do that you've done something."

"I feel Scott (Shannon) did a good job on the boards for us. In the first quarter they killed us on the boards. In the second quarter we pulled even with them, and Scott helped out on the boards in the second."

"Adams got 24 points, but he's a big boy and is capable of doing each night out."

Turner sees the play of Keith Shelton as a good sign for his ball club.

"In the last four or five games it seems Keith is hungry for the ball," Turner stated. "So we're trying to get the ball to him." Shelton added 22 points in the game.

While the McDowell coach says that his team is taking each game one at a time, he said the team is also building on what it has accomplished thus far.

"We're trying to improve on what we've been working on. The kids are working hard and we're getting in better shape and all these things just come together."

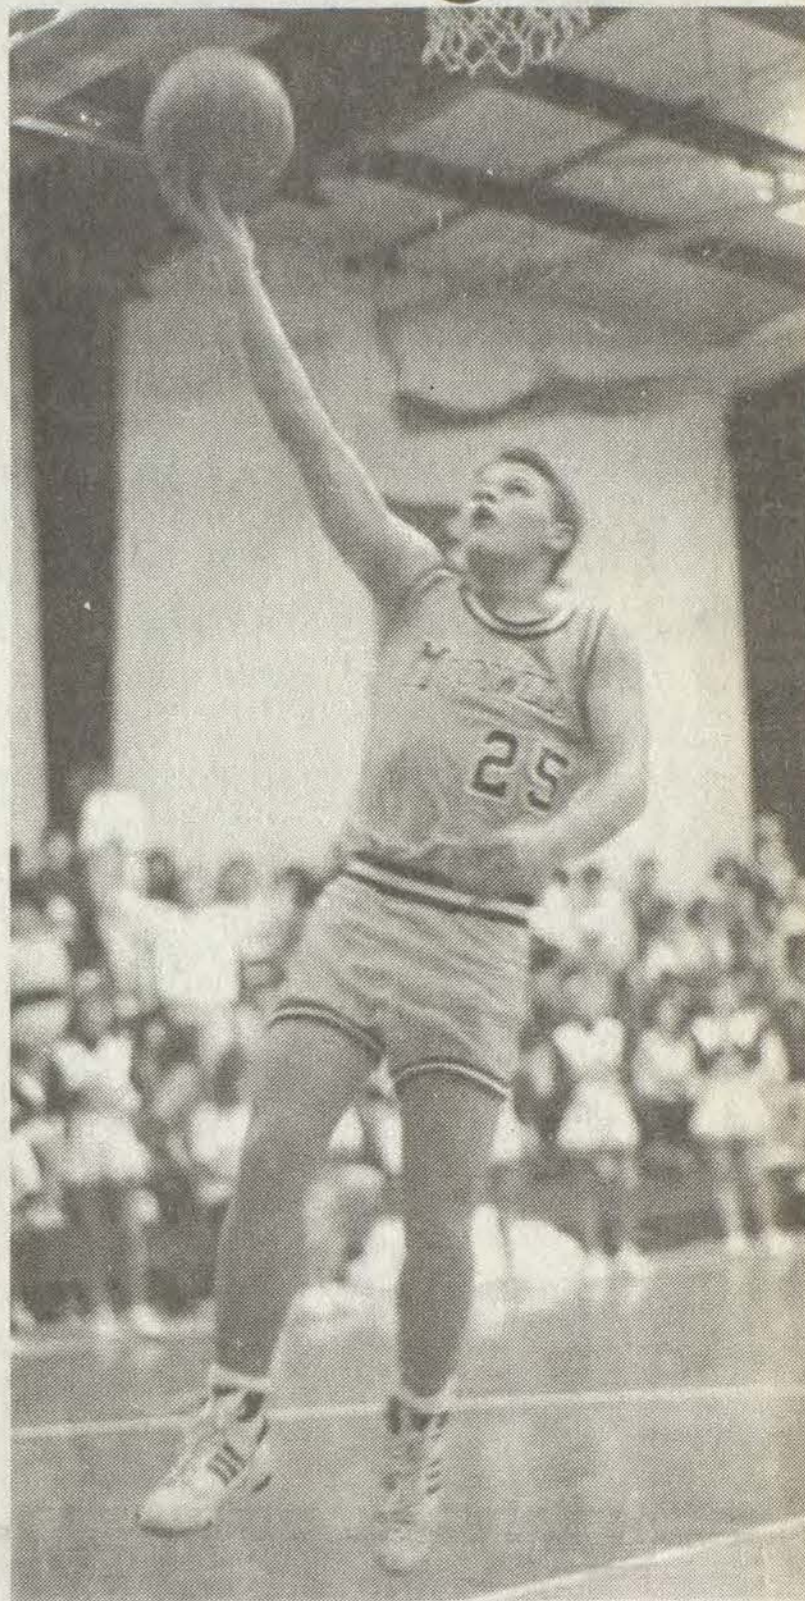

"Any time you play a county team, it's going to be a tough game. Whether home or away, you'll have your hands full if you're not ready for them. We're still in contention for the conference title."

Marc Hall, who scored 14 points in the game, says that his team started to tire in the fourth quarter.

"We couldn't move our feet on defense," he said. "Our team is getting smarter. Our coaches are getting smarter. They know when to substitute. Our team knows how to run the offense. Our attitude is great and practices are good. Nobody is up tight. We come to practice, relax and have fun."

For McDowell, Mike Duddleson had 11 points in the conference win. Stuart Robinson tossed in 10 points for Prestonsburg. McDowell improves to 3-3 and Prestonsburg falls to 2-3 in the conference.

Newsome wins 300th

King tosses in 21 for Bobcat win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Ashland Tomcats came to the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse in their "greyhound lookalike" bus Saturday fresh off a big victory over 15th Region power Johnson Central. The Tomcats, however, ran into a bunch of Bobcats and fell to the host school, 66-55.

The victory ran Betsy Layne's record to 11-6 overall and gave Betsy

Layne head coach Junior Newsome his 300th career win as a high school coach at the Floyd County school. (See related story.)

Junior forward Phillip King poured in 21 points to lead the Bobcats' balanced attack. Junior guard Adam Gearheart had 15 first half points but, because of foul trouble, had to sit the pines for most of the remainder of the game. Gearheart failed to score in the second half and finished with 15.

"I hated it," he said of his foul-plagued game.

Center Sam Stewart added 15 points also in the game.

Ashland's big duo in the middle, Randy Lovins and Wes Salyer, combined for just nine points. Lovins tossed in just seven, and Salyer could only manage two. Rusty Gray was the top scorer for Ashland with 22 points. Rob Lynch added 10 for Ashland.

Betsy Layne outscored the Tomcats 18-6 in the first quarter and never relinquished the lead. Ashland's Jason Strader scored the first two points for Ashland in the opening minutes of the game. Gearheart and King combined for the next six points for Betsy Layne.

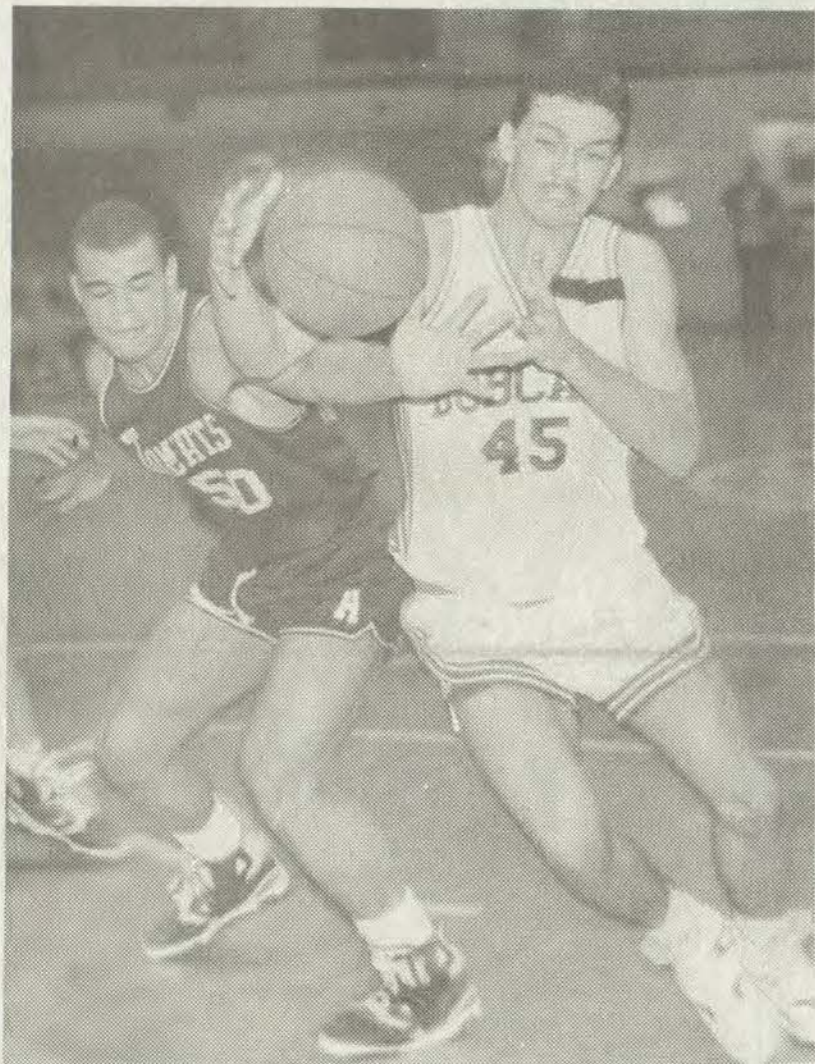

After a Gray bucket, a 12-2 spurt gave the Bobcats the first period lead. Gearheart had two three-pointers in the first stanza. In the quarter, the Betsy Layne center missed three uncontested lay ups which is uncharacteristic of the 6' 5" senior and prompted Coach Junior Newsome to remind him of the misses.

In the second quarter, Betsy Layne held a big lead of 33-14 when Ashland began to make a move before half time. The Tomcats outscored Betsy Layne 10-2 to close the gap to 11, 35-24 at the half. One basket for Betsy Layne was a "rimmer" by Chris Newsome that made six rotations around the rim before it fell through.

"In the first quarter and middle of the second, we played as good as any team I've had here at Betsy Layne," Coach Newsome stated. "We executed well and played good defense again. We did start getting a little careless and let them back in the game."

On the scouting report, Newsome said he knew that the Tomcats would run and jump on defense and double team their guards. "We worked on that in practice and executed well and got some easy baskets. Once we got by their press, we had some two on ones and three on ones and scored off of it."

Slone nets 35 points

Lady Blackcats slip past Paintsville, 64-63

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Forget that she was playing on a bad ankle. Forget that she picked up two quick first quarter fouls and was relegated to the bench. Forget that!

Just remember that she played long enough and was strong enough (ankle wise) to score 35 points and lead the Lady Blackcats of Prestonsburg to an exciting 64-63 victory over the visiting Lady Tigers of Paintsville last week. She, of course, is junior Kathy Slone.

Slone, who had injured her ankle in practice, took the ball to the basket with consistency and was either fouled, scored or both. The southpaw forward found the left side of the court to her liking as she drove around the Lady Tigers' defense for a lay up.

The win over the Lady Tigers avenged an earlier 10-point loss at Paintsville.

Prestonsburg took a 4-0 lead on two baskets by Amy Reed early. Paintsville then went on a 9-0 spurt that netted them the lead at 9-4. Then the Lady Blackcats, behind the scoring of Slone, made a run of their own at 10-2 that gave them a 14-11 lead.

Slone sat out four minutes of the first period because of her two quick fouls but still managed to score eight first quarter points. The Lady Cats led at the first stop, 19-17.

The lead exchanged hands several times until Prestonsburg, trailing by one, 28-27, scored the last six points of the half to go to the locker room with a 33-28 half time advantage.

"We're a team that plays in spurts," said Prestonsburg's coach Bridget Clay, of her young team. "But tonight we got off to a good start."

After buckets by Cindy Chandler and Jennifer Stepp, opening the third period, Slone scored eight straight points, using her quickness to get some turnovers, and drove the ball to the basket as the Lady Blackcats built a 10-point lead at 41-31.

The Lady Tigers did not "die" as they rallied behind the inside scoring of Chandler and Stepp to pull to within two, 41-39, in an 8-0 run with 3:05 remaining.

Carrie Merion's two free throws and two charity tosses by Slone, coupled with a basket by Slone, put the Lady Cats back out by eight, 47-39. Not being able to stand prosper-

Crawford's 24 points push McDowell past Prestonsburg, 63-47

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Lady Daredevils of McDowell got sweet revenge last week over the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats. Prestonsburg defeated the Lady Daredevils earlier in the year, 50-43. Last Friday night McDowell got 24 points from junior Priscilla Crawford to defeat the visiting Lady Blackcats, 63-47. In the previous game, Crawford had 13 points.

Game high scoring honors went to junior Kathy Slone of Prestonsburg with 33 points. The high scoring forward had 35 points against Paintsville the night before.

The 24 points by Crawford, along with her 10 rebounds, represented an individual high for the junior guard. Crawford has, in the past, been passing up shots, but against the Lady Blackcats she was looking to take them.

McDowell coach, Cassandra

Keathley, said that her team put together two good halves in winning over Prestonsburg.

"We had a good second half against Prestonsburg," the Lady Devil mentor stated. "Something we haven't had too many times this season. We always have a good first half and play bad in the second. Tonight we put together two good halves in winning."

"We took some shots we shouldn't have," Keathley continued, "and we let down on the press some, but overall we played well."

McDowell's press caused Prestonsburg some problems as the Lady Blackcats turned the ball over early in the first quarter. At one time Prestonsburg turned the ball over on four straight possessions, allowing McDowell to pull out to a 13-9 first quarter lead.

Oney has more local connections

Lisa Oney of West Carrollton (Ohio) High School, who was featured in last week's edition of The Times, has more connections locally. She is the daughter of Herbert Ray Oney, formerly of Prestonsburg, now residing in Moraine, Ohio.

The young athlete has hopes of someday playing for the Oklahoma State University women's fast pitch team.

Juan Thomas (50) tries to go straight up against Sam Stewart of Betsy Layne on this shot Saturday night at Betsy Layne. Stewart and Thomas had their little shoving matches in the game, the way Stewart likes it. Betsy Layne won over the Tomcats, 66-55.

Bobcats

Neither team could do anything early in the third period. Turnovers plagued the Bobcats, and they could not get a shot at the basket. The coldness of Ashland prevented the Tomcats from closing the margin more. Ashland pulled to within seven, 37-30, with 3:50 to go before Betsy Layne could score. Chuck Lafferty hit a jumper to break the brief drought. Betsy Layne then pulled back out by 14, 44-40, on a 7-0 run.

The Tomcats could not get any closer than the 11-point final margin. Ashland fell to 6-11 on the season.

"I saw in the paper where both big men for Ashland scored in double figures against Johnson Central and the Salyers kid had been scoring in the high 20s all season. We knew they were big and physical inside," said Newsome. "We told our kids we were going to have to do a good job denying the ball inside. We were going to have to block off the boards well and not give up the second and third shots."

Senior center Sam Stewart said that the Bobcats "just went out and played hard man-to-man defense."

Newsome credited the changing defense of the Bobcats that did not allow the Tomcats to get any continuity on offense.

"We changed our defense throughout the game and that kept them from getting any kind of flow on offense," he stated.

Stewart had 15 rebounds in the game for Betsy Layne. Newsome pulled down eight boards. Both teams made 50 attempts at the basket with Betsy Layne hitting 26 and Ashland connecting on 20.

Betsy Layne will be at Allen Central Friday night for a big conference match up. A win at the Right Beaver school would clinch the conference title for the Bobcats.

"We've got two tough games coming up against Allen Central (Friday night) and McDowell. McDowell is playing really good basketball right now and we need to win one of them to lock up the conference championship," Newsome said.

W'wright falls to Feds Creek

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Wheelwright Lady Trojans let an early lead get away from them and fell behind the visiting Feds Creek Lady Vikings to lose a 67-59 inter-county game to the Pike County school.

The Lady Trojans were unable to contain sharp-shooting guard Claire Fuller as the 5' 2" junior tossed in 31 points. Senior Carmelia Slone added 29 as the two standouts outscored the Wheelwright team. Fuller is the three-point specialist for the Lady Vikings.

Wheelwright took a 14-9 first quarter lead but the Lady Trojans defense fell apart in the second period and allowed the Lady Vikings to go to the dressing room with a two point, 30-28 lead.

Wheelwright regained the lead after the third quarter but couldn't stand the prosperity and was outscored in the fourth period, 22-14, in dropping the game to the host team.

Jedon Hood, who is playing great basketball of late, scored 23 points. Carrie Smith had a big game for the Lady Trojans with 17 points, and April Bradford added nine points.

The loss dropped the Lady Trojans to 3-9 overall and 1-4 in the Floyd County Basketball Conference. The Lady Trojans will entertain Bridget Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats tonight (Wednesday) in a 6:30 p.m. game. The girls' game can be heard over WXXZ-FM with the golden voice of Jeff Meeks.

Lady Blackcats

ity, the Prestonsburg girls let the Lady Tigers back in the game on a 7-0 run, and Paintsville closed to within one, 47-46. Slone's two free throws gave Prestonsburg a 49-46 lead going into the final quarter.

With Prestonsburg leading, 58-51, with less than four minutes remaining in the game, Stepp went to work for the Lady Tigers, scoring seven unanswered points, that, coupled with a three-pointer by Stacy Logan, cut the Prestonsburg lead to two, 60-58. Stephanie Allen then hit a big time shot, a turnaround jumper that hit nothing but net to put the Lady Blackcats up 62-58 with 2:00 to go. Stepp's basket and free throw made it 62-61 at the 1:46 mark.

Edwinna Hale then took a short jumper that missed the mark, and Paintsville rebounded and called a time out with 1:16 to go. On the ensuing play, the Lady Tigers turned the ball over, and Hale was immediately fouled on the in bounds play. Hale missed the front of the one-and-one, and Paintsville rebounded and called another time out with :45 to go. After the in bounds play, Slone stole the ball at mid court and fed a nice pass to Reed for a lay in and a 64-61 lead.

Paintsville had the ball and missed from underneath with Slone grabbing the rebound and being fouled. Slone could not connect on the front end of the one-and-one and the junior forward committed a silly foul with :10 seconds showing, her fifth. Stepp connected on both free throws to make the score 64-63 as time ran out.

"Our transition game was good tonight," Clay said of her team's effort. "Neither team gave up tonight. We stayed in there all the way."

Prestonsburg turned the ball over 16 times in the game and hit 57 percent of their free throws, a stat that Clay says her team is improving in. Reed pulled down eight rebounds in the game to lead in that department to go along with her 13 points. Slone had four boards and Allen three.

Stepp led the Lady Tigers in scoring with 21 points. Logan finished with 13 while her teammate Jennifer Davis added 11. Cindy Chandler had 10.

Prestonsburg improves to 7-7 while the Lady Tigers lose for the fifth time with 11 wins.

P'Burg JVs drop close one, 48-47

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats junior varsity team lost a close one to the Lady Tigers of Paintsville, 48-47, last week. Jennifer Davis had 19 points in the win for Paintsville, and Sherry Green added 17, three baskets by the three-point variety.

Prestonsburg players, trailing by 11 points at half time, constantly found themselves having to play catch up basketball. Prestonsburg trailed by one point, 46-45, with 1:04 remaining in the game and with Amy Reed at the free throw line for two tosses. The freshman guard missed the two charity tosses and Paintsville claimed the rebound.

The Lady Blackcats got the ball back with 27 seconds showing on the scoreboard clock, and Reed missed on a six-footer.

Paintsville's Lisa Hayslett then hit a free throw to make the score 48-45. Prestonsburg's Rachel Cain scored a basket to close the gap to 48-47. After Jennifer Davis was fouled and missed, the Lady Blackcats got the ball with five seconds to go, but one pass too many allowed the clock to expire.

Cain led the Lady Blackcats in scoring with 12 points. Christy Little, an eighth grader, added 11. Edwina Hale and Reed finished with nine points each. Stephanie Music had a good game on the boards and scored three points.

Prestonsburg was coming off a conference loss at McDowell Friday night to play the host team. Prestonsburg's defense rose to the occasion in this game, holding Harrison County to just four second period points.

The Blackcats outscored the host school 12-4 in the second quarter to take a half time lead of 30-23 after trailing 19-18 at the end of the first period.

Harrison County made a comeback attempt in the third stanza, cutting the lead to four, 48-44. Prestonsburg then held off another late charge in the fourth period in winning its sixth game of the season against 10 defeats.

Stuart Robinson and Jeff Sloan each tossed in nine points for the Blackcats.

Betsy Layne outpaces young Cards, 83-48

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was homecoming night at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse, and Bobcat fans poured in to the fieldhouse to take in the festivities of the evening as eight lovely contestants vied for the title of "Miss Homecoming 1989-90."

Brenda Hamilton was crowned "Homecoming Queen, 1989-90" by the student body at the local high school. Hamilton plays for the Lady Bobcats basketball team.

In the action on the court, the Bobcats rode the 20-point performance of Sam Stewart to an easy 83-48 victory over the younger Sheldon Clark Cardinals. Junior Adam Gearheart tossed in 16 points, and Phillip King added 12.

Sheldon Clark did not place anyone in double figures although 10 different players scored with Brian Pinson leading the way with eight points.

Betsy Layne built a 38-20 half time lead over the Cardinals in running their record to 10-6. Twelve players saw action for Betsy Layne in the homecoming outing and all 12 dented the scoring column.

Betsy Layne's inside - outside game was too much for the Cardinals and the Bobcats' defense slowed down the Cardinal attack. Sheldon Clark fell to 4-15 on the season. The Cardinals are going to be a team of the future with the young players they have.

W'wright Lady Trojans look to escape cellar in PHS game

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Bridget Clay's Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats will be at the Trojan palace tonight in a big Floyd County conference basketball game. Both teams enter the game with identical 1-4 conference records, which is all that really matters at this stage of the season.

The Lady Trojans were basement dwellers all season until the Lady Blackcats lost to the McDowell Lady Daredevils Friday night.

Coach Donnie Daniels' team is hoping for a good outing out of senior center Jedon Hood, who has been on a tear of late. Hood has scored 23, 24 and 23 points in her last three games. It is all shades of last season when the center made her presence in the county race known and led the Lady Trojans to the 58th District title.

When you talk of quickness on the basketball court in girls basketball, you must bring up the name of Kathy Slone. The southpaw junior forward has had her own good games also. The speedster has totaled 27, 35 and 33 points in her last three games. Like Hood, Slone will be expected to lead the Lady Blackcats to victory to avoid going to the basement in the standings.

Both clubs will battle each other again at Prestonsburg on Feb. 13. Where Wheelwright is a veteran club, Prestonsburg is young and looks to several freshmen for contributions.

Look for this one to be a good one. Game time is 6:30 p.m. with the game being aired over WXXZ-FM.

Lady Cats fall to Belfry, 62-61

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats, playing for the first time in a week, fell to the visiting Belfry Lady Pirates, 62-61, on a basket by freshman Christy Stepp at the buzzer. Stepp took game scoring honors with 21 points.

The win avenged an earlier 52-48 loss to the Lady Bobcats back in December.

Neither team was able to mount any kind of a lead throughout the game as Betsy Layne held to a slim three-point lead at the half and a one-point advantage, 47-46, at the end of the third period.

Betsy Layne, 14-6, took the lead in the final period, 61-60, when Stepp's shot found the basket just as the horn sounded. The Lady Bobcats, who had been on a roll of late, had won five games in a row before falling to Belfry.

Sherita Joplin added 16 points for the Lady Pirates and Melody Francis tossed in 11.

Brenda Hamilton was the leading scorer for Betsy Layne with 19 points, and Brianna Boyd had an outstanding game with 17 points. Boyd has become one of the bright spots for the Lady Bobcats this season. Melissa Bailey had nine points for Betsy Layne in the loss.

The Lady Bobcats will try to take another step toward their third straight conference championship when they're hosted by the second place Lady Rebels of Allen Central Friday night at Allen Central. A win for the Lady Bobcats would give them the title and top seed in the 58th District Basketball Tournament on Feb. 28. Betsy Layne is 6-0 in the conference while Allen Central stands at 4-2.

McDowell defeats Owsley

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One was sick, another missing and one suspended. So goes the story of the McDowell Lady Daredevils basketball team as they had to play short-handed against the 14th Region Owsley County Lady Owls.

The Lady Daredevils had three players out, two of them starters. Nikki Mullins was out because of sickness and Shelby Howell was not present. Starting guard Priscilla Crawford was sitting out a one-game suspension for an altercation against Harrison County Saturday night.

The Lady Daredevils got a 20-point performance from center Jenny Slone as they rolled past the Lady Owls, 67-53. Junior Lori Bryant tossed in 19 points.

"We were slow starting against Owsley County," McDowell coach Cassandra Keathley stated. "We didn't take the lead until three minutes to go in the first half."

The Lady Daredevils used their zone press effectively in the waning minutes of the first half to cause the Lady Owls to turn the ball over and pick up some easy baskets.

Sharpshooter Vicky Marshall, who is averaging 40 points a game, managed 31 points, most of those coming in the first half.

"She hit three three-pointers on us the first half," explained Keathley, "so we went to a triangle and one defense with the chaser on her. We stopped her that way—that is until the fourth quarter."

Marshall had six three-pointers in the game in scoring her 31 points.

"We had good success with our press in the closing minutes of the first half so we stayed with it in the second half also," said Keathley. "Off the press we got some easy baskets and led at one time by 24 points. Owsley County couldn't stop Jenny (Slone) inside."

The Lady Daredevils' defense limited the host school to just four third quarter points as McDowell moved out to a 19-point lead at 49-30, going into the final stanza.

Marshall hit for three more three-pointers in the final quarter, but it wasn't enough. The Lady Owls lost, 67-53, to McDowell.

Christy Mullins added 10 points for the winning McDowell team. Kristy Pack had eight points in the game. Bryant and Slone each pulled down eight rebounds in the game. McDowell runs its record to 6-11 on the season and will host Dilce Combs on Friday night and Phelps on Saturday in make up games.

Sports Network: Part Three

Jeff Meeks: Sportcaster, WXXKZ-FM

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jeff Meeks, station manager of station WXXKZ-FM, is no stranger to the profession of sportscasting. Meeks has been doing sports since his early days at Eastern Kentucky University, where he received a BA degree in broadcasting.

Meeks also worked part time for station WDHR-FM in Pikeville before coming to WXXKZ in 1986.

"I did one season of Pikeville College games," he said. "When I came to WXXKZ I came as a sports announcer. Just because I am station manager I still do the sports because I enjoy doing it. I have to enjoy it and I still do enjoy it."

Meeks also spent one year as the "Voice of the Cubs" — the Pikeville Cubs, minor league entrant in the Appalachian League. Meeks speaks of the days he would spend on the road with the team and some of the members of the club that is now in the major leagues.

"We would spend five days out and five days in," he related. "I mostly have always worked alone in the booth. If one of the players were injured, I would ask them to come up in the booth and do the color."

Meeks says the old Pikeville Cubs team moved because of lack of fan support in the area.

"Sometimes there would be as few as 25 fans watching a game," he said. "Other teams didn't want to travel to Pikeville or Paintsville for that matter, to play any games. So the league office told the owners to pull out of Pikeville 'if you want us to schedule you.'"

Meeks says that his station mostly follows Prestonsburg sports because this is what the people want.

"We're not opposed to covering other games," he remarked. "What the community wants, that we will do. We like hard work and we don't shy away from it."

Meeks says his station is open to any kind of sports programming the community would want. However, the station manager thinks the problem today is communication between the listeners and sponsors.

"The people who listen to the games and enjoy them being on the air should tell the sponsors so. Our advertisers, like any other advertisers, really don't know if their sponsoring is effective."

WXXKZ also broadcasts all Prestonsburg football games and also did some Saturday afternoon games of the Allen Central Rebels.

"A parent called me one day from Allen Central and asked what was the possibility of doing some Allen Central football games. I said 'there is a good possibility. Have your coach to call me.' I wouldn't have known about doing Allen Central games if that parent hadn't expressed an interest."

Meeks played four years of baseball at Mullins High School before going on to college. His dad, Arnold Meek, also coached at Mullins and Virgie. Meeks has been married to Donna Meeks for five years. He has a daughter, Jessica, who is two years old. They live at Mare Creek in Stanville. His hobbies include reading and computer science. Meeks says that he also enjoys his time with his family.

Bassin' with the Pros

Spinnerbaits Will Catch Winter Bass, Too

Everyone thinks of spinnerbaits as warm-water lures for shallow bass, but they'll catch deep bass in cold water, too.

"All you need to do is use a heavier model with a single larger blade," explains popular bass tournament pro David Wharton, "and work the lure very slowly in deep water."

Wharton, a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff and a former guide on Lake Sam Rayburn in Texas, used the lure often when he took clients out for winter largemouths. Anglers like spinnerbaits in winter because they have faith and confidence in them.

"A big spinnerbait, particularly one that weighs about 3/4-ounce and has a single big size 7 blade, is a big bass lure, too," Wharton explains. "I know of a number of 10-pound bass caught on spinnerbaits in winter."

Blade size is really important in spinnerbaits, adds the Johnson Outboards pro, because the blade is what produces the lure's vibration and flash. The larger the blade, the harder the vibration and brighter the flash.

"I like to try to match blade size to the approximate size of baitfish in the water," Wharton says. "In fall and winter I like larger blades, because the bait is larger. In summer I use smaller blades because the bait is smaller."

Blade sizes for spinnerbaits range from size 1, which is about the size of a small fingernail, to size 8, which is as big as a half dollar.

"Flash is important, too," notes the Texas angler, "because it is what gives the lure its baitfish-like appearance as it moves through the water. I use silver blades in clear water, gold blades in stained water, and copper blades in muddy water.

"Years ago, many of the spinnerbait manufacturers offered painted blades for spinnerbaits. I caught a lot of fish on blades painted chartreuse or white, but not many anglers use painted blades anymore."

"I think it was more like a fad that we've just grown away from, but they did catch fish."

Wintertime spinnerbaiting should be along channel drops, deep riprap, or the edges of heavy cover, says Wharton. It's important to move the lure very slowly, too, because the fish won't chase the lure very far.

"You can even crawl the spinnerbait along the bottom the way you fish a worm or jig," says Wharton.

"Make certain the lure you use has its blade attached to a ball bearings wivel so it spins easily. Whenever you feel the blade stop spinning, you can probably set the hook."

Wharton even knows of instances where winter bass picked up spinnerbaits lying motionless on the bottom.

"A client may have made a cast and had a backlash, or turned to get a cup of coffee," says Wharton. "By the time he started to reel again, a bass had taken the lure."

Blackcats, Trojans in make up game

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and Wheelwright Trojans will meet tonight in a conference make up game that was supposed to have been played on Jan. 12.

The rescheduling of games has created a crowded schedule this time of year as teams jockey to get all conference games in.

Wheelwright will come into tonight's contest with a 1-4 conference record and currently in last place in the standings. But coach Monroe Jones' team is playing much better basketball this time of the year.

Harold Johnson, Paul Hall and Jimmy Helton (all sophomores), plus the improved play of senior Chad Hall, have created a more up tempo game for the Trojans. Wheelwright's defense has been causing some problems for opponents, as they have been trapping half court.

Prestonsburg will enter tonight's contest with a 2-3 record and looking to even the won and lost record. Prestonsburg won over Harrison County last Saturday night, 68-61. Kevin Adams is playing some tough basketball in the middle for the Blackcats, and always dependable Chris Slone is in the wing. Stuart Robinson and Jeff Sloan have been more offensive minded the past two games, and that will be a big plus for coach Gordon Parido's Blackcats.

The two teams will have a rematch at Prestonsburg on Friday, Feb. 13, as the conference schedule will close out for this season in preparation for district play that begins on Feb. 28.

Game time is 8 p.m. tonight. This will be a good one!

WKU baseball's Denes Field set for spring improvements
Denes Field, home of Western Kentucky University baseball since 1968, is set for major improvements in seating and facilities this spring. Those improvements — to be financed with private funds — are scheduled to be part one of a two-phase program that will eventually convert Denes Field into one of the finest college baseball facilities around.

DeVoe's strict discipline doesn't set well with 'Gator fans
Florida's interim basketball coach Don DeVoe has had his up and downs since taking on the job with the departure of Norm Sloan. Florida fans haven't really taken a liking to the deposed ex-Tennessee mentor. His latest run in, as everyone knows, has been with the attitude of one Dwayne Schinitzus over the length of the center's hair. DeVoe demanded that the hair be cut. Schinitzus balked and then complied with the demands. However, the 7'2" center cut the hair and then quit the team. Florida will be better off without the conceited basketball player who is constantly fighting the rules of a ball club.

Owners look serious in "lockout" threat
The baseball owners are letting the major league players know that they are serious about the threat of locking the gates to spring training unless an agreement is reached with the players union before the start of spring training in two weeks. The owners are trying to get around arbitration and reach some agreement on players' free agency. The players are hollering how the owners are making all that money and they are not getting any of it. Poor fellows, after all those thousands they are getting to play a game of baseball. The fear of standing in the "cheese" lines is ever so threatening to them. If they had a business of their own, they would want to control how their money is spent.

Strawberry enters alcohol rehabilitation center
New York Mets outfielder Darryl Strawberry has committed himself to an alcohol rehabilitation center to get help with his drinking problem. The All-Star outfielder has admitted to having such a problem, which is step number one to recovering. Strawberry, at age 27 one of baseball's highest paid players, has been a mainstay for the Mets outfield. If he stays healthy, he has many years of service to offer the New York team. Pete Rose never admitted he had a problem until he was suspended. Admitting a problem exists must take place before help can be obtained. To deny there is no problem, when in reality there is, is foolish.

Curry continues to get commitments
New Kentucky head football coach Bill Curry continues to get verbal commitments from some in-state and out-of-state blue chip high school football players. Danville's All-Stater Donnie Redd is among the latest to commit to the UK program.

Good luck to Panthers
Good luck wishes go to the Pikeville Panthers as they face action today (Wednesday) in the second game of the Kentucky All A Classic state tournament (2:30 p.m.). The Panthers will battle one of the state's top ranked teams, University Heights. If Pikeville can get by University, a state title could be coming back to the mountains.

Make up game date set
The make up date for the Allen Central and Prestonsburg conference game has been set for Feb. 12 at Allen Central, according to Rebel coach Johnny Martin. Both boys and girls will see action on that night.

Dilce Combs to visit McDowell Friday, Phelps Saturday
The Dilce Combs girls basketball team will be at McDowell Friday night at 8 p.m. for a make up game with Cassandra Keathley's Lady Daredevils. Also on Saturday night the Phelps Lady Hornets will be in town for a make up game.

Two doubleheaders feature Pikeville College teams
The Pikeville College Bears and Lady Bears have two doubleheaders scheduled this week, on Thursday, Feb. 8, and Saturday, Feb. 10. On Thursday at 5:15 p.m., the Lady Bears will host Campbellsville College. The Bears will battle the Clinch Valley Cavaliers at 7:30 p.m. The teams have designated the Thursday game "Pikeville National Bank Night." All PNB employees and their families will be admitted free. The Saturday contests will pit the Lady Bears against the Union College Lady Bulldogs at 5:15 p.m. and the Bears against the Transylvania Pioneers at 7:30 p.m. The Saturday games have been designated "Pike County School Night." All employees of the Pike County School system and their families will be admitted free.

Besides exciting basketball action, these double headers will each offer six spectators the opportunity to win a Dodge truck from Deskins Motors that will be presented at the Feb. 24 Bears game against Cumberland," said Phillip M. Blake, associate director of external affairs at the college. The Feb. 10 game will be the last chance to see the Lady Bears in action at home and all Lady Bears fans are urged to be there, Blake added.

STATE NEEDS MORE PUBLIC LANDS
Kentucky does not own enough public land to meet the increasing demand for more outdoor recreational opportunities. At the same time, many of the state's natural areas that could be set aside for wildlife and public use are being lost to agricultural/industrial conversion.

Compared to surrounding states, Kentucky is one million acres behind in providing wildlife recreation areas for its residents to enjoy. In fact, each Kentucky resident has less than .03 of an acre in public land available for outdoor recreation.

And, as Kentucky's economic development grows, bringing more industries and more people into the state, the demand for quality recreational opportunities will escalate.

Currently, no source of money is available with the potential to fund the kind of land acquisition program needed to provide these recreational opportunities and protect Kentucky's remaining wetlands and natural areas.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, which is funded through the sale of hunting and fishing licenses plus some federal monies, is the primary state agency that purchases land for wildlife conservation and recreation. The fish and wildlife department has identified close to $100 million worth of land that needs to be bought for wildlife conservation, but the agency only has about $2 million to spend on this kind of land acquisition, a sum far too small to make much dent in the public land deficit.

Sometimes, taking a look back brings the current picture into better focus. Kentucky once had 23 million acres of forest, over two million acres of prairie and 1.6 million acres of wetlands.

Less than half of the state's forest remains, only 200 acres of scattered, degraded prairie are left and only 20 percent of Kentucky wetlands are intact to soak up and filter flood waters and provide homes for various plants and animals. Kentuckians cannot allow this trend to continue. We must achieve a balance between industrial/population growth and the preservation of Kentucky's natural areas.

For more information on the current status of public wildlife recreation lands in Kentucky, contact your district wildlife biologist, or call the Division of Wildlife in Frankfort, (502) 564-4406.

Newsome captures 300th career victory
Milestone: A significant or important event in history, in the career of a person.
That's the way Daniel Webster defines the word "milestone." What has this word to do with Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome? Coach Newsome reached an important event in his career as the Bobcats head basketball coach by winning his 300th game with a victory over the Ashland Tomcats Saturday night.
Coach Newsome even remembers win number one.
"It was against Dorton back in the 1975-76 basketball season," the much respected coach remembers. In the 1976-77, season Newsome took his team to the state tournament at Louisville.
Win number 100 couldn't be figured out. However, assistant coach Keith Henry remembers win number 200.

"It was against Pikeville at Pikeville," Henry explained. "Everybody was beating up on Pikeville that year. We went there to play them and were playing terrible basketball. Coach Newsome came into the locker room at half time and threw his keys against the wall and they splattered all over the place. You should have seen those kids picking up those keys. But we won the game, barely."

Newsome has built the Bobcats into a consistent winner each basketball season. His strict discipline program has made mediocre players good players and good players, great players.

He has won the respect of basketball coaches throughout the state of Kentucky. When the talent graduates and others begin to think that the Bobcats are going to be weak the remark is always, "They still have Newsome."

Newsome took a two-year break from the coaching ranks before returning last season. His team shared the conference title last season with Prestonsburg and McDowell, and he was voted "Co-Coach of the Year" along with Johnny Ray Turner of McDowell and Gordon Parido of Prestonsburg. Coach Newsome has always been courteous to this sports department, and we cherish his friendship.

Coach Junior Newsome: Career win number 300.

All A Classic to tap academics

The Kentucky All A Classic, Kentucky's first statewide high school basketball tournament devoted to smaller schools, will recognize ability off the court as well as on.

The tournament, which will feature 120 teams from all 16 regions, will honor those student athletes who have excelled in academics while participating in extracurricular sports.

Each school taking part in the tournament will select a candidate of high academic achievement who will vie for the title of regional representative. The "Kentucky All A Academic Team" will be comprised of these 16 representatives, one from each region.

This is the first year for the tournament and a cornerstone of the event will be an emphasis on academics, according to B.B. Kendrick, region one spokesman and athletic director for Ballard Memorial High School.

"This tournament is focusing on academics as well as athletics," he said. "We need to recognize those kids who have devoted so much time to sports and been academically successful as well."

Kendrick added that part of the tournament will be tours and other education-related activities for the students, and if the tournament generates enough support, a grant foundation for Class A schools will be established.

The Kentucky All A Academic team will be honored with trophies during the awards ceremony following the championship game.

Regional playoffs for the tournament started this past Monday and will continue through Feb. 3. The winning team from each of the 16 regions will come to Lexington for the state finals at Memorial Coliseum Feb. 7-10.

Store and magazine sponsor teen contest

1990 MISS TEENAGE AMERICA

Contenders for the 1991 Miss Teenage America title may pick up their entry forms in any US K-Mart apparel department beginning this month. Entry deadline is June 1. Candidates must be enrolled in high school through at least 1991 and have special achievements.

The Miss Teenage America program, now in its 29th year, is among the nation's most prestigious achievement programs, recognizing outstanding young women between the ages of 13 and 18. It is not a beauty pageant or a talent contest.

The main emphasis of the program is on scholastic achievement, individual accomplishment, general awareness, community service, poise, appearance and personality. A prerequisite for entering the program is a 3.0 grade point average, according to Teen Magazine, which operates the program.

The young woman who is named Miss Teenage America 1991 will receive a $15,000 college scholarship and an entire wardrobe from K-Mart Apparel, modeling opportunities and her own monthly column in Teen Magazine. She will have the opportunity to travel nationally, appear on radio and television programs and on the cover of Teen Magazine.

K-Mart Apparel has been a major corporate sponsor of the Miss Teenage America program for the past six years.

"The Miss Teenage America program represents high American ideals and has a strong commitment to education. We are proud to have Miss

The Breast Cancer Support Group will meet tomorrow, Feb. 8, at 6 p.m. in the Floyd room of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

"She symbolizes the outstanding abilities of tomorrow's leaders and will serve as an excellent representative not only for K mart, but for America's youth," added Smith.

The 1990 recipient of the title was 17-year-old Jennifer Kissick from Carlsbad, Calif. Kissick was chosen from over 10,000 applicants throughout the United States. She will represent K-Mart as its 1990 Teen Fashion Advisor.

Kissick is described as an ambitious and hard-working student with a long list of extracurricular activities, ranging from the March of Dimes and the Villa Encinitas Elderly Home to her dedication to her high school cheerleading squad of which she is captain.

Kissick also judges gymnasts of all ages in a variety of gymnastic competitions. She is California's youngest Class III judge and aspires to become a world-class gymnastics judge someday. After high school, Kissick plans to attend Stanford University and pursue a career in broadcast journalism.

Winter is the season to go back to one's roots — root vegetables, that is. Turnips, rutabagas, parsnips, celeriac (celery roots) and Jerusalem artichokes (sunchoke), are "in season during cold winter months, and their rich, earthy flavors go well with cold weather foods, such as turkey or beef stew.

In addition to being sturdy, inexpensive and highly versatile, roots offer a sound nutritional boost to your diet. Turnips and rutabagas, for example, are low in fat, provide fiber and are a fair source of potassium. When prepared without a lot of added butter, cheese or high-fat sauces, root vegetables are an excellent addition to meals designed to lower your risk of cancer, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Most American households, however, underutilize root vegetables in their menu-planning. The following tips can help you discover your roots:

— Turnips have a round, white body and a purple crown. They can be prepared any way you cook potatoes. Try them boiled or steamed, mash with herbs, or concoct a turnip chowder. They're also good in stir-fried dishes, or sliced into salads.

— Rutabagas are closely related to turnips, but are larger, denser and have a sweeter, more assertive taste.

Try rutabagas baked in foil or mashed with cooked apples.

— Parsnips are a cousin to carrots, and are among the sweetest of root vegetables. Use them in soups, purees and even muffins. Steamed plain, they have a sweet flavor.

— Celeriac is a homely relative of celery, but you eat the root rather than the stalk. It's good shredded in salads or in soups or pancakes.

— Jerusalem artichokes are neither from Jerusalem nor are they artichokes. They are tubers with a mild, sweet, nutty taste. Use them in place of potatoes in soups or in place of water chestnuts in Oriental dishes.

Parsnip chowder is a traditional New England favorite. The recipe below is sweet and creamy like the traditional version, but is quicker to make and lower in fat. This chowder is a delightful first course, or you can add some poached fish to make a main course, served with a salad and some whole grain bread.

PARSNIP CHOWDER

- 1 lb. parsnips
- 1 lb. potatoes (2-3 medium)
- 1 cup onions, finely chopped
- 3 cups water
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- 1 cup skim milk
- 1 cup evaporated milk

Peel the parsnips and the potatoes: dice into 1/2-inch pieces. Place in 3-quart saucepan or Dutch oven with the onions and water. Bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat to low, cover and simmer 15-20 minutes (or until vegetables are tender). Mash a few times with a masher, but leave some vegetable pieces whole. Add the milk and the evaporated milk, stirring constantly; reheat but do not allow it to boil. Add more pepper or salt, if desired, to taste and serve.

This will make 5 to 6 servings (1-1/4 cups each), with a fat content of 1 gram and about 185 calories.

Artichokes are at their peak in March, April and May. When selecting artichokes, look for those that are firm and compact, with a fresh olive-green color, and that feel heavy in relation to their size. The best are round in shape, but size has no bearing on their quality or flavor. Avoid artichokes that appear dull or discolored, soft or open-leaved.

Be sure to refrigerate artichokes immediately, since they are quite perishable. They will keep in the refrigerator for up to a week, but are best used as soon as possible. Don't wash them until you are ready to use them.

Whole artichokes can be a healthy menu addition if you skip the lemon butter, hollandaise or mayonnaise-based dips. Lowfat vinaigrette or tomato-based sauce are good alternatives. Artichokes are also delicious stuffed with wholesome ingredients such as whole wheat bread crumbs, spinach or mushrooms.

ARTICHOKES WITH TARRAGON-TOMATO VINAIGRETTE

- 4 large artichokes
- 1 lemon, halved
- 1/2 cup white vinegar
- 3 Tbsps wine vinegar
- 2 scallions, minced
- 2 rounded tps Dijon-style mustard
- 2 tps fresh tarragon, chopped (or 1/2 tsp dried)
- 2 Tbsps olive oil
- 6-8 cherry tomatoes, seeded and diced
- 1/4 cup red onion, chopped
- Freshly ground pepper, to taste

Cut off the artichoke stem and slice the top third off each artichoke. With kitchen shears, remove the thorny tips of the leaves. Rubbing each with the lemon to prevent discoloration.

Bring some water to a boil in a large non-aluminum pan or Dutch oven. Add the lemon halves and the white vinegar, then the artichokes. Simmer for 30 to 40 minutes, or until the bottoms are tender when pierced with a knife.

Remove the artichokes and invert on paper towels to drain. Carefully open the center and pull out the purple leaves. Scrape away the thorny chokes with the tip of a spoon.

For the vinaigrette mix the wine vinegar, scallions, mustard and tarragon in a medium bowl. Slowly whisk in the olive oil, then set aside at room temperature.

When ready to serve, place the artichokes, at room temperature, on individual plates. Stir the tomatoes and onion into the vinaigrette and season with pepper to taste. Spoon the vinaigrette into the center of the artichokes and serve.

This recipe provides 4 servings, each with 7 grams of fat and 108 calories.

Among the best seasoning for cauliflower are thyme, basil, dill, nutmeg, parsley, caraway, celery seed, curry powder, mace, mustard, rosemary, sage, savory, tarragon, garlic, chives, lemon juice or ginger, chives, lemon juice or ginger. A little lemon juice in your steaming water will also help keep cauliflower white.

A stir-fried dish is usually associated with Oriental flavors such as soy sauce and ginger. The following recipe uses the stir-fry technique, with its advantages of speed and limited need for fat in cooking, and the favorite flavoring of Northern Italian cuisine — red wine vinegar and garlic. Despite the amount of garlic used, the sauce is not overwhelming, but a deliciously balanced complement for cauliflower. Broccoli can also be substituted for cauliflower in this recipe.

CAULIFLOWER

NORTHERN ITALIAN STYLE
1 small to medium head of cauliflower
2 Tbsps margarine or olive oil
4 cloves of garlic, finely minced
1/8 tsp freshly ground pepper
2 Tbsps red wine vinegar
2 Tbsps water
Trim the cauliflower and separate into small flowerets.

Heat a large saucepan or wok over high heat for 30 seconds; add the margarine or oil and heat for another 20-30 seconds. Reduce heat somewhat and saute the garlic in the heated oil, stirring constantly, until it just starts to brown. Add the cauliflower and stir for 2 to 3 minutes. Add the pepper, vinegar and water. Cook over low heat, covered about 10 minutes.

This recipe yields 4 one-cup servings, each with 5 grams of fat and 78 calories.

P'BURG WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

Members of the executive board of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday, Feb. 1, at the Floyd County Library with Phyllis Herrick, the club's president, presiding. Matters to be brought before the club at 7:30 p.m. that same evening were discussed. Present were board members Phyllis Herrick, Linda McGuire, Elizabeth Ramey, Dorothy Harris, Docia Woods and Boots Adams (former president).

Herrick also presided at the regular meeting, after welcoming those in attendance and leading the Pledge of Allegiance.

Dorothy Stover presented the devotions, based on a copy of the "Advent," and also read a portion of a prayer by Saint Francis of Assisi.

In the absence of Shirley Callihan, Burieta Gearhart introduced Ed Carol of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Department, stationed in Prestonsburg, who showed slides of his work and fielded questions from the group.

In the absence of Lida Howard, recording secretary, Elizabeth Ramey, corresponding secretary, took notes of the meeting.

Ramey read a letter from Maxine Bierman, who served as auctioneer for the "white elephant" sale during the January meeting, thanking the president and members of the club for the cookbook presented to her in appreciation of this service.

The treasurer's report was given by Dorothy Harris. The president appointed the following members to serve on the by-laws committee: Joyce Allen, Adams, McGuire, Lois George and Erlene Daniels.

On behalf of Eileen Burchett, Bierman announced that a class of ceramics is being offered by Burchett at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park, each Tuesday morning beginning at 10, and on that same day, Bierman will offer a class in Canasta, there. She suggested that members bring sack lunches and spend each Tuesday there. Proceeds for the sale of ceramics are to be used for the club's liability insurance.

Mabel Donahoe reported that she, Jane Wallace and Docia Woods had completed the club's press book, and it was announced that news of some of the club's activities was published in The KFWC's Winter Magazine.

The president announced that Adams had contributed $25 to be donated to the GFWC Centennial Fund "to develop a unified action plan for the nation's volunteers."

Life membership and liability insurance were discussed, with suggestions regarding these matters to be presented to members of the by-laws committee for consideration, and a report to the club is to be made at the March meeting.

Garnett Fairchild announced that Sister Margaret, who works with the local Hospice of Big Sandy, would like to go to China for two weeks and Fairchild asked the club to consider donations for this trip. Several members brought items to be used by Bierman in her project to aid underprivileged children in grooming at the First Christian Church of Prestonsburg.

Hostesses for this event were Drema Miller, Wonnell Godsey, Beverly Hackworth, Martha Johnson, Nancy Martin and Ruth Hall. McGuire assisted in serving.

From a table decorated in the Valentine motif, delicious refreshments of cake, coffee and nuts were served to members of the executive board and Mabel Donahoe, Wallace, Bierman, Polly Sparks, Gearhart, Dorothy Osborne, Dorothy Stover, Fairchild, Martin, George and Phyllis Stanley, members, and Ed Carol, a guest.

The next meeting will be Thursday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. The devotional leader will be Kathryn Poe. The program leader will be George and the program will be given by Phillip Elliot of the First National Bank of Prestonsburg. The hostesses for this event will be Ditty Tackett, chairperson, and Eve May, Linda Howell, Pauline Sparks, Sue Martin and Roberta Davidson.

WE INVITE YOU TO LEARN ABOUT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

A person who feels called to membership in the Catholic Church should contact a local parish. There are people there who are ready to help as you listen for the leading of the Holy Spirit. A Catholic friend, neighbor, or family member will often be happy to accompany you on these first steps.

If you are already baptized:

It is the policy of the Catholic Church that persons who are already validly baptized in another Christian community are not rebaptized if they choose to join the Catholic Church. Instead, they are received into full communion with the Catholic Church, confirmed, and then invited to participate in the Eucharist for the first time with the Catholic Church.

If you are not already baptized:

Adults who are not already baptized and wish to join the Catholic Church will be initiated in stages in the midst of the community. The sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and first Eucharist are the three Sacraments of Initiation which bring a person into full membership in the Catholic Church. Parish communities will pray and walk with a person along the faith journey.

Books & Things

By Trisha Morris, PCC Librarian

It is evident from magazine feature stories and recent bestsellers that the American people enjoy reading about the candid lives of famous people.

The following biographies and autobiographies from the Prestonsburg Community College's library tell the personal stories of those who have lived in the spotlight of the political arena.

Bess W. Truman by Margaret Truman. In the days before US Presidents were television stars and first ladies were fashion models, there were Harry and Bess Truman. This is the untold story of Bess W. Truman and her love for her husband Harry, as only their daughter could tell it.

Margaret Truman has been able to draw on her own personal reminiscences and a treasure chest of "found" letters to bring her parents alive in this rare and intimate biography.

This book traces Bess Wallace from her birth in 1885 in Independence, Mo., through her courtship and marriage to Harry, her years beside her husband during his political life, to her death in 1953 in Independence.

Margaret Truman reveals, for the first time, the strong role her mother played in Harry Truman's important political decisions. She takes us behind the scenes during Harry's ascent to the Senate, the Vice Presidency, and, after the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, to the White House's oval office.

As Margaret Truman has written so faithfully about her father, she has now done equal justice to the woman who stood beside him in the highest office of the land. Through her personal narrative and their frank and uninhibited correspondence, the reader is an eyewitness to the Truman family.

An Outdoor Journal
Lincoln
First Lady From Plains
Exile

mans' lifelong love affair and marriage.

An Outdoor Journal by Jimmy Carter. An active sportsman and armchair naturalist, former President Jimmy Carter has taken this time to reminisce about his seasons of fishing, hunting and hiking from his childhood in Plains, Ga., to the White House days and beyond.

This very personal journal is peopled not by heads of state but by unforgettable characters: Rachel Clark, who could catch more fish than anyone around Plains; Mr. Bob, whose good coon hunting dogs could sniff out a wily fox; and Wayne Hapster, who each year celebrated his birthday simultaneously with the annual hatch of Green Drake Mayflies.

With humor and charm the former president describes the discomforts and revelations of his encounters with the natural world. He tells of fighting rattlers, training bird dogs, stalking wild turkey, hunting ducks and searching for rhino and Bengal tigers.

Author of three national bestsellers, the former president has here written his most personal and revealing book.

Lincoln by Russell Freedman. Abraham Lincoln stood out in a crowd as much for his wit and humor as for his height. Here is a warm, easy reading biography of our Civil War president, illustrated with dozens of carefully chosen photographs and prints.

Russell Freedman separates his book into the three popular divisions of Lincoln's life: his boyhood, career as a country lawyer and courtship and marriage to Mary Todd; his presidential years (1861-1865); and that tragic last evening in Ford's Theatre on April 14, 1865.

The book is doubly rich for researchers by providing a sampling of Lincoln's writings and a detailed list of Lincoln historical sites.

First Lady From Plains by Rosalyn Carter. In this candid account, Rosalyn Carter tells of her youth spent in the rural South; the strength that her father demanded of her; the man whose picture she fell in love with months before they actually met; the challenges of being a Navy wife and a young mother of three small boys; and of her position as a partner in the family peanut business.

She comments on the political and social turbulence in the South during the earliest years of her husband's political efforts, the exhausting congressional and gubernatorial campaigns that she helped her husband run, and her personal trials as a shy housewife thrust into the spotlight as a public figure in the Georgia governor's mansion.

From that triumphant march in the bitter cold of Inauguration Day 1977 when the Carter family stepped from their motorcade to walk with the people, to their final hours in the White House, Mrs. Carter offers insights into such critical events as the Camp David summit meetings between Sadat and Begin and the hostage crisis in Iran. She takes the reader behind the scenes at the White House, from the festivals of State Dinners to a tour of the mansion and its many treasures.

First Lady of Plains is the story of a small town girl from Georgia who loved and supported her husband through years of hard work, family campaigning and finally into the White House.

Exile by Robert Anson. Picking up where Woodward and Bernstein's The Final Days left off, reporter Robert Anson relates the intimate story of former president Richard Nixon's life after he was driven from office by the revelations of the "Watergate affair."

Anson recounts Nixon's private anguish, his legal and financial struggles, the behind-the-scenes drama of President Ford's pardon, the strange support of the Chinese leadership and the writing of his memoirs. He follows Nixon's comeback from physical illness and mental injury beginning with his admission of sorrow and regret during the famous Frost interviews, relates the continued loyalty of his family and his relationship with Presidents Ford, Carter and Reagan.

A most revealing portrait of one of our most infamous presidents, this story of Nixon's survival delineates the former president's complex personality.

L.B.J. by Clarke Newlon. This popular biography of the 36th President of the United States, originally written while Lyndon Baines Johnson was in office, has been revised and updated to add new material. It describes his last few months in the White House, the agony brought to his life there by the Vietnam War, his decision not to run again, his return to the LBJ ranch and finally his death there.

This intimate close-up portrait includes detailed accounts of Johnson's pioneer ancestors and his boyhood in Johnson City, Texas. It tells of his relationship with President Franklin Roosevelt, his political career and a little known account of that fateful day in November when he became President in the cabin of US Air Force One.

A Sobering Thought

By Kevin Shannon, Substance Abuse Counselor

(Editor's Note: The use of the male pronoun throughout this column in no way implies that all alcoholics are male.)

- Q. How can family members deal with an alcoholic?
 A. Family members play a key role in motivating people to get the help they need. Here are some of the things that family members can do:
- Be realistic, it is important to admit that your relative has a drinking problem.
 - Don't regard this as a family disgrace. Alcoholism is a disease and recovery is possible with the proper treatment.
 - Don't hide the liquor or dispose of it. Usually this only pushes the alcoholic into a state of desperation. In the end, he will simply find new ways of getting more liquor.
 - Don't nag, preach or lecture to the alcoholic. You may only increase his need to lie or force him to make promises he cannot possibly keep.
 - Avoid any threat unless you think it through carefully and definitely intend to carry it out. Idle threats only make the alcoholic feel you don't mean what you say.
 - Don't use the "if you loved me" appeal. That is like saying "if you loved me, you would not have diabetes."
 - Don't try to protect the alcoholic. You cannot take his medicine for him. Don't remove the problem before the alcoholic can face it, solve it or suffer the consequences.
 - Don't let the alcoholic persuade you to drink with him on the grounds that it will make him drink less. It rarely does.
 - Attend open AA meeting and Al-Anon meetings, and if possible go to a competent counselor who has had experience in this field.
 - Above all, don't put off facing the reality that alcoholism is a progressive illness that gets worse as drinking continues. The earlier alcoholism is treated the better the chances for recovery.

ADMINISTERING FOOD AND DRUGS

Antibiotics are prescribed in an attempt to kill harmful bacteria in the body. Quite often, they destroy beneficial bacteria, as well. For instance, antibiotics may destroy the intestinal bacteria that synthesize vitamin K and folacin. The loss of these nutrients can be harmful to someone who has a marginally adequate diet. As a precaution, then, it is a good idea to supplement antibiotic use with plenty of green, leafy vegetables that are rich in vitamin K and folacin. By the same token, certain foods can interfere with antibiotic absorption. For instance, acidic fruit juices can destroy penicillin G and "uncoated" erythromycin. These antibiotics should be washed down with plain water. Patients should ask their physicians if a prescribed antibiotic's effect will be compromised by certain foods. If so, they should be scrupulously avoided.

COOLEY APOTHECARY wants you to know that we carry a full line of prescriptions as well as over-the-counter remedies. If you or someone in your family is ill and your physician prescribes medication, keep in mind that we maintain the highest standards of the pharmaceutical profession. Learn for yourself why your friends and neighbors already rely on us. Complete patient profiles are maintained to aid us in checking for possible drug interactions. It also allows us to quickly give you any information you need for income tax and insurance purposes. We are located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

See you later, Big Bird

Kentucky Educational Television has changed its afternoon lineup of children's programs because of ratings and parent requests.

Sesame Street, previously aired at 3:30 p.m. moves to 5 p.m. each weekday afternoon. Square One TV, formerly broadcast at 5 p.m., is now on at 3:30, followed by 3-2-1 Contact at 4 p.m. Mister Rogers' Neighborhood remains in its current slot at 4:30 p.m.

Tim Tassie, KET network director for broadcasting, said parents prefer Sesame Street to air later in the afternoon so young children returning from day care may tune in.

"The decision also was based on our knowledge that there are 'latch-key' children returning home from school in the afternoon," Tassie said. "We want to be able to provide them with quality programming between 3:30 and 4:30."

Jesse Stuart group sets awards dinner

The Jesse Stuart Foundation's annual awards dinner is scheduled for Friday, April 6, at the Jesse Stuart Lodge, Greenbo Lake State Resort Park. This event has become a homecoming for Stuart fans across America. This year should be particularly enjoyable, because it will be in the new conference facility.

As is the tradition, awards will be presented in four categories: (1) leadership, (2) scholarship, (3) service, and (4) education. College students to discuss environment

A Campus Environmental Conference for college students is set for Kentucky State University in Frankfort, Feb. 24.

The conference is sponsored by the KSU Earth Day Committee, Kentucky Conservation Committee and Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection.

Purpose of the meeting, which lasts from 9 a.m.-4 p.m., is to allow students to air environmental concerns and assume a positive role in environmental protection, according to a state spokesman.

Keynote speaker will be Art Williams, commissioner of the state environmental protection department. Following his talk, student participants will set priorities for local and global environmental issues.

During a luncheon, students will meet a number of environmental leaders, and later will discuss plans for Earth Day 1990.

For more information, call Ken Cooke, department for environmental protection, 502-564-3410.

State tree project spotlights schools

Kentucky schools will have an opportunity to participate in the 20th anniversary of Earth Day by planting trees on school property.

Tree seedlings will be made available to every school in the state for the joint observance of Arbor Day, April 6, and Earth Day, April 22, according to Carl Bradley, Secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

Three state divisions, Conservation, Energy and Forestry, are cooperating to distribute trees and a small commemorative plaque to any school in the state that wants them.

Mini-grants available for energy audits

Ten to 12 high schools in Kentucky will receive mini-grants for next school year to conduct energy audits to identify wasteful energy practices in their facilities, according to the state Division of Energy, Cabinet for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

A Request for Proposal is being sent to each of the state's public and private high schools and vocational schools. The Student Weatherization/Audit Training (SWAT Jr.) program will train one student and one sponsor from each of the selected schools to conduct in-depth energy audits. They will then report to the principal and board of education on areas where energy can be saved.

The program is sponsored by the Division of Energy.

Salute to the counselors

Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo signs a proclamation to designate this week as School Counseling Week in Floyd County. With Stumbo are counselors, from left, Edgar Craft, Prestonsburg High School; Arlan Isaac, Betsy Layne High School and Elementary; Jane Meek, Prestonsburg, Auxier and Clark Elementary Schools; Bobby Jones, Wheelwright High School and Melvin and Osborne Elementary Schools; and Larry Jervis, Central Office Counselor Coordinator.

School Counseling Week observed locally

Feb. 4-10 is National School Counseling Week, sponsored by the American School Counselor Association. The school counselors' theme for this observance is "Charting New Directions for the 21st Century."

School counselors assist young people with social education and career decisions. The purpose of the week is to focus on the services school counselors can provide for America's students. Today's students are faced with more challenges than ever. School counselors will celebrate, as they explore new directions with American youth.

Floyd County has joined in the observance of this national week with the signing of a proclamation by Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo. The proclamation reads as follows:

Whereas, school counselors are employed in public and parochial schools to help students reach their fullest potential as human beings, and Whereas, school counselors are concerned with students being better able to understand themselves, their abilities, strengths and talents as they relate to career development and awareness, and Whereas, counselors help parents to focus on ways to further the positive educational, personal and social growth of their children, and Whereas, counselors care about uniting teachers, parents, administrators, special service personnel and the community to form an effective guidance program for students, and

Whereas, counseling is seen as an essential part of the educational process for each student as they adjust to our very complex society, and Therefore, I, John M. Stumbo, Floyd County Judge/Executive do hereby proclaim the week of February 4-10 as National School Counseling Week.

Education workshops planned for parents

Parent groups involved with improving education will have an opportunity to share information about their efforts at upcoming education workshops for parents.

"Parent Involvement for Education" is the focus of the workshop, set for March 14 at Prestonsburg Community College and March 15 at Hazard Community College. It is planned by the Division of Equal Education Opportunities of the state Department of Education and the outreach offices of the Catholic Social Service Bureau.

"The purpose of the workshop is to affirm parents' role in the education of their children, to encourage them to be actively involved in their children's learning and educational decisions and to acquaint them with community resources," said Gwen

Hall, a member of the workshop planning committee. "We hope existing parent groups will participate because they are both inspiration and resource for other parents."

Hall said three concurrent sessions are planned for the morning. A guest speaker will address participants during lunch, and a panel, made up of parent group representatives will discuss community resources in the afternoon.

Tables for exhibits by community groups will be set up in the hallways at each location, Hall said. Groups are asked to send a representative with brochures, information sheets and displays about their work.

"Workshop participants will be encouraged to visit tables before and after the workshop and during breaks to acquaint themselves with the resources in their community and to connect with persons who can assist them and their children with educational goals," Hall said.

Representatives of parent groups willing to share information at either or both workshops should contact Hall at HC 71, Box 1446, Prestonsburg 41653, 874-9170, or Sister Nancy Casey, 331 Intermount Heights, Baxter, Ky. 40806, 573-2329.

Additional details, including information about preregistration, on the free workshops will be released later this month, Hall said.

The General and the star

Country music star Waylon Jennings and Kentucky First Lady Martha Wilkinson, head of Martha's GED Army, joined to encourage more adults to enroll in GED programs during KET's recent "GED Call-In '90." More than 2500 persons from 112 counties called in during the show, with most asking for information on enrolling in GED programs. The first lady gave Jennings a framed GED certificate, signifying his passing of the GED test last fall.

Clark PTA joins Jif program

Clark Elementary School PTA will participate in the innovative Jif Children's Education Fund which will contribute a minimum of $4 million to participating parent-teacher groups in mid-1990, announced Fay Prater.

The new fund differs from other corporate school programs in that parent-teacher groups and their elementary schools become eligible for Jif Children's Education Fund monies merely by registering. There are no additional requirements.

The company will contribute 10 cents to the fund for each pound of Jif Peanut Butter purchased in stores anywhere in the US between Feb. 1 and April 30. The company anticipates that sales volume during that period will create $4 million, but if that amount is exceeded, the contribution will be increased for each additional pound purchased.

After the fund-raising period, the Clark PTA will receive a check for Clark's share of the total fund contribution, Prater said. The school's share will be determined by the size of its total enrollment in kindergarten through eighth grade, compared to the total enrollment in those grades at participating schools.

Prater added that the PTA is also participating in the optional bonus plan. This plan involves collecting cash register receipts for the purchase of Jif Peanut Butter over the same time period. Submission of the receipts can increase the school's final funding.

Prater said persons buying the peanut butter should save and mark the receipt which identifies the size and price of the jar purchased. Receipts should be sent to: Clark School PTA, 140 S. Clark Dr., Prestonsburg 41653.

The receipts must be received no later than May 7.

"We will receive an additional 12 to 64 cents (depending on size) for each jar of Jif purchased," she said. "This could substantially increase our share of funds and allow us to do even more for Clark School."

The PTA will be able to spend the funds received on whatever it believes will help Clark and its students, Prater said.

"We hope that all members of our community will remember to choose Jif Peanut Butter during February, March and April when they're at local stores because the more Jif sold the larger our share of the fund will be," she added. "We are pleased to be able to participate in this program as one more way we can try to improve elementary education for the children of Floyd County and help encourage increased parental involvement in the children's school."

Poster contest open to students

A poster contest, based on the theme "Earth Day 1990: Care About Clean Air," is being sponsored by State and Territorial Air Pollution Program Administrators and the Association of Local Air Pollution Control Officials.

The contest, open to students in kindergarten through 12th grades, is coordinated in Kentucky by the state Division for Air Quality, which has mailed notices to principals and science coordinators in public and private schools.

Each school is to have its own preliminary poster competition, with winning posters then submitted for state judging. The state winner will advance to national competition. Prizes will be awarded at both state and national levels.

For information, contact contest coordinator Lillie Cox, Division for Air Quality, 316 St. Clair Mall, Frankfort 40601.

Georgetown accepting scholar applications

Outstanding high school student leaders may apply for the Georgetown College Pastors' Christian Leadership Scholarship Program before March 1. Applicants are nominated by their church pastor. Pastors must complete a one-page essay regarding the student's leadership abilities. Students' one-page remarks should outline their ability to be active college campus leaders and qualifications for this scholarship.

According to Steve Cook, director of church relations, the scholarship is only awarded to students accepted for admission at Georgetown College. Students also must complete the college's application for admission.

Applicants for the Pastors' Christian Leadership Scholarship will be selected by a committee of three ministers and three college staff members by mid-March.

Students will be selected on the basis of their leadership levels, Christian commitment, an essay outlining their scholarship qualifications, and the recommendation from their pastor.

Georgetown will award 53 scholarships. Of those, three are half-tuition scholarships, amounting to over $10,000 for four years, and 50 are $400 scholarships for four years.

All nominees, said Cook, will receive consideration for other types of financial aid.

Nominations should be mailed to: Office of the President, Georgetown College, 400 East College Street, Georgetown, KY 40324-1696.

For more information or application forms, contact Cook at (502) 863-8041.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

A public meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m., February 12, 1990, at the Lakeside Elementary School, 4 miles north of Sandy Hook on Route 7, to discuss placing Elliott County in the Eighth Wildlife District.

The Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission is considering a request by several Elliott County sportsmen's clubs that Elliott County be assigned to the Eighth Wildlife District, instead of the Seventh, where it is now.

This reassignment would mean that sportsmen in Elliott County would help select, and would be represented by, the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commissioner for the Eighth Wildlife District. In addition, fish and wildlife law enforcement supervisory authority for the county would change, as would district representation in functions of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, a citizen's conservation organization.

The purpose of this public meeting is for public comment on this proposed change. In addition, anyone wishing to express an opinion on this proposal is welcome to write or call the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources at the address given below.

All public comments will be carefully considered when this proposal is brought before the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission at its March 4-5 meeting in Frankfort.

Realtors Group Supports Legislation

"We commend the efforts of Reps. Michael Andrews (D-Texas) and William Thomas (R-Calif.) for advancing an important piece of legislation that would alleviate restrictions unfairly placed on real estate entrepreneurs under the passive loss rule of the 1986 Tax Reform Act," NAR president Norman D. Flynn, said recently.

"We support this bill because it would eliminate the bias against rental real estate under the current passive loss rules and would allow equal treatment between rental and non-rental activities," Flynn said.

The 1986 Tax Reform Act created new federal tax limitations on the amount of losses from passive investments that may be deducted from the amount of income generated from non-passive activities. Passive activities are defined as activities in which a taxpayer does not materially participate, and any rental real estate activity. Thus, rental real estate is considered inherently passive even if rental activity is the principal business of the taxpayer.

"It is critical that we work to allow real estate entrepreneurs material participation in real estate," said William D. North, NAR's executive vice president. "We believe it is only fair to permit individuals, whose principal business is real estate, to deduct their rental real estate losses against their other income," he added.

NAR, and other real estate industry groups, have been working on a proposal to determine which taxpayers are indeed in the "real property business" so that they can then test for material participation under the general rules applicable to all non-rental businesses.

Under this proposal an individual would be considered in the real property business if 50 percent of the taxpayer's time and at least 500 hours are spent in real property operations. Real property operations include development, redevelopment, construction, reconstruction, acquisition, conversion, rental operation, management, leasing, brokerage, appraisal and financing.

"Although we understand the great pressures the federal government faces in reducing the budget deficit, we believe the real estate industry, under the 1986 tax reform act, was singled out and has shouldered a disproportionate amount of the tax burden," said Stephen D. Driesler, NAR's senior vice president of government affairs.

"We are not asking for preferential treatment, only equal treatment—real estate entrepreneurs in rental real estate have been unfairly treated under the passive loss limitation," Driesler added.

Prior to congressional adjournment, Andrews and Thomas, both members of the House Ways and Means Committee, introduced legislation containing the basic principals supported by NAR.
