Floyd jail restricted by state; new jail possible

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

An order by the state Corrections Cabinet to limit holding time in the Floyd County Jail to four days may dramatically increase prisoner transportation costs for the county and require rapid county action to begin building a new jail.

Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo received a letter Friday, informing him of the Corrections Cabinet's decision to reduce the jail to a 96-hour prisoner holdover facility, beginning March 1.

In the letter, the Cabinet cited seven years of inspection reports, which listed the facility's multiple deficiencies, including the lack of a control room, multi-purpose room, a secure holding area, a conference room, a medical exam room, and an outdoor recreation area.

The letter also indicated that the jail, located on the third floor of the county courthouse building, was currently rated as having 71 beds, noting that only 25 beds were allowed under existing square-footage requirements.

State biannual inspections of the jail began in 1982, following legislation passed by the General Assembly that sought to upgrade local prison facilities, in response to increased litigation concerning the conditions and operations of Kentucky jails.

Funding was made available by the state to improve facilities or build new prisons, said Robert Powell, Corrections Cabinet assistant director of local facilities, and $40 million in bonds were issued. Forty new jails were built in the last five years with this assistance, draining the state created fund dry. Floyd County, says Powell, never applied for renovation or building funds.

Despite the lack of state funding, attempts were made to fulfill state requirements.

"We have worked to meet state and federal prison regulations," said Stumbo. "In the last two or three years, we've removed some bunks, and have included a visitor's room and built walls separating other rooms. We put speakers in the jail elevator and have provided beepers for the jailers. We've done everything we can do with the third floor. Little county jails just have trouble meeting these state guidelines."

For the past seven years, the jail has received waivers from the state, allowing continued operations, with the understanding that the county would eventually come under regulation compliance.

Apparently, the Corrections Cabinet lost patience with the county. As stated in Friday's letter, "...in view of the deficiencies and Floyd County's continued request of waivers, I (Corrections Cabinet Secretary John Wigginton) feel I have no choice but to order the Floyd County Jail serve only as a holdover."

"It's been eight years since the standards were enacted," said Powell. "We can't continue to grant waivers. Unfortunately, this is a common problem throughout the state."

The impact of turning the current jail into a 96-hour holdover facility will be costly to the county, say both Stumbo and Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson.

"If this goes through, my department will have to spend more time handling prisoners, rather than being out trying to capture them," said Thompson. "Depending on where we had to transport them, we'd be raising the costs for fuel, as well as tying up deputies. We might need another full time deputy just to deal with

Ill Weather

The weather forecast for the remainder of this week is the type people contend makes them catch colds and generally makes them sick.

Wednesday will be mostly cloudy with a 40 percent chance of showers and a high at 60-65 degrees.

Wednesday night and Thursday are about the same with continued clouds and showers likely. The low during the evening hours will be in the mid 40s. Thursday's high will be about 60, with a 70 percent chance of rain both periods.

New entrance to The Times

The Times has almost completed its inner office relocations. So to avoid confusion to our customers, here's the lowdown on the entrances. The old entrance way, the one on the right, is now the entry to the Editorial and Sports departments without going through the building.

The glass door on the left, which has been the main entrance for almost a half a year now, is still the door to the business office, in charge of advertising, circulation, subscriptions and other newspaper business.

The center, double black door is for employees only; it leads to our layout room — a bad place for customers to enter.

We hope our readers and advertisers will find the new arrangement as agreeable as we do, and we look forward to showing off our new editorial offices once they are complete.

Neighbors helping neighbors

A Household Shower will be held Friday, Feb. 16 for the Leslie family whose house burned on Sunday, Feb. 4. Bennett and Debbie Leslie of Emma, along with their two daughters, Shea and Amber, lost everything in the fire and are staying with her mother while looking for a place to rent.

The shower is being given by Sally Goble and Mary Zemo at the Freewill Baptist Church of Cow Creek at 7 p.m. Friday in hopes of gathering clothing and household items to get the Leslie family back on their feet again.

Notice to property owners

Property owners who have property damaged by any form of coal mining activities before August 1977 may be entitled to repairs paid for under the 1977 Reclamation Act. The money for these repairs has been paid into a reclamation fund by local coal operators for the past 13 years.

For more information contact the local department of abandoned mines at 886-1786 or in Frankfort at (502) 564-2141. If repairs are of a priority nature, i.e. life or property threatening, contact the Office of Surface Mining at (606) 325-4737, for emergency treatment.

Board to meet

The Floyd County Board of Education will meet in regular session tonight at Prestonsburg High School. The 6 p.m. meeting will include a report of the long range planning committee, as well as reports on the use of school facilities by community groups, Garrett-Wayland water supply, Channel 1 network, and other activities.

Contributing to conservation

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center accepted a donation Monday from George Lee, a representative of Elk Horn Coal Corp., sponsoring development of a recycling project on the grounds of Mountain Comprehensive Care's greenhouse project in Prestonsburg. Chalmer Howard, director of the project, noted that the aluminum recycling program was designed to improve the ecology of Floyd County, as well as provide meaningful work for developmentally disabled clients of the health care organization. Other sponsors of the project include Martin County Coal Co., Wells Ready-Mix, Kanahwa Steel, East Kentucky Equipment, and Joe Bolton. Recycling should begin in early March.

Fire destroys Bypro store

A fire swept through Osborne Furniture Store in Bypro Tuesday evening, destroying the structure and its contents, according to Wheelwright firefighter Jerry Tackett.

Fire departments from around the area responded, including Southeast Fire Department and the Prestonsburg Fire Department. According to reports, other structures were threatened by the blaze, but the fire was brought under control by about 8:40 p.m.

The store was reportedly owned and operated by Homer Osborne.

No injuries or estimates of damages were reported at press time.

Firefighter "housewarming" develops skills

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

It's not often that firefighters have the opportunity to spend four or five hours burning a house down.

That's what the Prestonsburg Fire Department did Monday afternoon, as in-depth, firefighting training was conducted for full-time and volunteer city firefighters, using an abandoned house behind Highlands Regional Medical Center. The hospital owns the house and land and wished to have the structure removed.

"We've asked the fire department to do this for two reasons," said Robert Ford, safety and security director for Highlands. "First, this house is abandoned and presents a liability to the hospital, if someone went in and hurt themselves in it. Secondly, we try to work closely with the city fire department to improve safety in the area. Training on this house will improve the firefighters' skills and benefit the community."

"It's not often that we get the opportunity to use a quality house to train in," said Fire Marshall Larry Adams of the single-story white house, which had clearly seen better days. "We plan to put it to good use."

The firefighters participating in the training donned their bulky protective gear and received an informational and safety briefing from Adams, including a walk-through of the structure.

"It's important that you don't get scared and that you stay calm during the exercise," said Adams to the trainees, as they crowded into the soon-to-be-ignited house. "I want you to think safety at all times. You need to trust your partners who are working with you. When you're in a burning building, filled with heat and smoke, your life depends on your fellow firefighters."

Capt. Kenny Crisp ignited the first exercise, which required teams of three to conduct a search and rescue operation through the smoke-filled house. Crisp built a fire in a wash tub in the most structurally sound room of the house, billowing smoke and creating a low visibility environment. Firefighters crawled, wearing oxygen tanks, through the house, in a pattern designed to find anyone trapped or disabled by smoke.

"We want to get all of our firefighters used to heat and smoke," said Adams. "The first time you're in a burning house, it's really hard on you. This practice will make our firefighters better able to handle the real thing."

Following the search and rescue training, separate fires were built, and trainees were required to enter the

Police check of parked vehicle reveals stolen vehicle/runaways

A routine check of a parked vehicle at the intersection of KY 3 and US 23 Sunday by Prestonsburg police resulted in the discovery of a stolen vehicle and two juvenile runaways, and the arrest of a Paintsville man.

Prestonsburg police Sgt. Gerald Clark responded, on behalf of the Floyd County sheriff's department, to a report of a vehicle parked on the roadway of US 23 and KY 3. Approaching the vehicle, Clark observed three persons in the car, apparently changing drivers.

Upon questioning, the three stated that the vehicle belonged to their father. A check of vehicle registration showed that the vehicle belonged to Gordon Robinson from McKee. The car was later reported stolen by the Berea Police Department.

The driver of the stolen vehicle, Robert L. Meade of Paintsville, was arrested and lodged in the Floyd County Jail. He was charged with receiving stolen property, no operator's license, falsely reporting an incident and two counts each of endangering the welfare of a minor and unlawful transaction with a minor.

The juveniles, both from Falmouth, were placed in the Big Sandy Area Detention Center and were charged with receiving stolen property. They were later released to their parents.

Clark was assisted in the investigation by Sgt. Sue Blackburn.

Martin school official acquitted

PIKEVILLE—A Pike County jury acquitted Martin County school official Michael Kessinger of murder Monday, after six hours of deliberations.

The jury ruled Kessinger not guilty of the 1986 shooting death of John M. Lester of Pike County, during a brawl at Lester's ex-wife's home in Elkhorn City. Kessinger claimed that Lester repeatedly threatened him during the incident, and finally attacked him with a pocketknife, prompting the shooting.

Special prosecutor Jerry Patton, Floyd County commonwealth's attorney, disagreed with Kessinger's version of the killing, claiming that Kessinger was guilty of murder.

Kessinger, who had been previously tried for the same crime, was released following the verdict. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Magoffin mine closes

SALYERSVILLE—The Wolverine Mining Corp. on Gun Creek was shut down last week, leaving 45 people out of work.

The mine operation, owned by Costain Coal Corp., had stopped shipping coal in early January and a company spokesperson reported that the operation had ceased to be profitable.

Ten to 15 of the laid off miners could be transferred to mine operations in Pike County, according to a company spokesman. (Salyersville Independent)

Draffin men arrested on drug charges

PIKE COUNTY—Two Draffin men were arrested Friday on drug charges, following a Kentucky State Police investigation.

A search warrant was issued on the residences of Don Smith and Jerry Adkins. Several bags of marijuana, valued at about $400, were discovered at Smith's residence. He was charged with trafficking in marijuana, less than eight ounces, and possession. Adkins was arrested and charged with possession. Both were lodged in the Pike County Jail.

Traffic lights placed after three fatalities

LAWRENCE COUNTY—An order by Transportation Secretary Milo Bryant was issued Friday, to place a traffic light at the intersection of US 23 and KY 3, following a fatality that occurred there last week. Two other fatalities occurred only hours after the order was signed.

All three fatalities involved coal trucks crashing into passenger vehicles. The intersection has been an acknowledged problem for years, because of coal trucks from Martin, Pike and Floyd counties which use US 23 to deliver loads to docks along the Big Sandy.

Bryant noted that he had reservations about installing a light at the intersection, because of the danger of rear end accidents and jackknifing. Work to install the new light was to begin Monday.

date," referring to the fact that the city once had an independent school system which was consolidated with the rest of the county.

Consensus was not forthcoming on council's vote to accept Ordinance 5-89, affecting class title, grade and number of authorized positions among city employees.

In considering the ordinance, presented by the city's personnel committee, Mike Vance proposed an amendment that would raise the pay grade of the clerk and treasurer to 29, up from 28 and on a par with assistant directors of departments. The proposal led to a round of heated debate, focused primarily on parliamentary procedure.

Collins and William Callihan expressed the opinion that the proposed ordinance had to be voted on before amendments could be made. They apparently contended that changes to the schedule needed to go back to the personnel committee, although exact contentions were lost in the heat of argument.

Council members finally passed the ordinance with Vance's amendment on a roll call vote. Collins and Jerry Fannin voted nay, Callihan abstained, and the other councilmen approved the ordinance, insuring its passage. Following that vote, all of the council members voted in favor of another amendment which would defer the ordinance's effective date until the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1.

With both amendments attached, a third vote was taken with all voting aye.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson appealed to the council to share with his office in purchasing a dog trained to sniff out drug caches. Thompson, backed by Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall, estimated that the total cost of buying the dog, paying for trainer instruction and construction of a building for the animal would amount to about $9000.

On a motion by Collins, with a second by Vance, council approved the purchase and agreed to contribute $3500.

Council members also voted to increase life insurance coverage for city employees from $5000 to $10,000. Monthly premiums for the increased coverage would rise to $312 (for all employees), from the present rate of $145.

Council also reviewed an offer from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, which would give the city 80 percent of its road aid money in July, rather than have the total spread out in quarterly payments as it now is. In return, the city is asked to put three percent of the road aid funds back into a cooperative program to deal with road emergencies in communities throughout the state.

"This would free up our (road aid) money when we need it," said Latta, referring to the need for road repair during the summer months.

City administrator Fred James added that if the city put some of the July allocation into a savings account, it should draw enough interest to reclaim the three percent.

Goebel moved, with a second by Danny Hamilton, to authorize Latta to get a copy of the proposed contract from the Transportation Cabinet for closer examination.

In other business, council members Charles Hale and Collins expressed concern over a citizen complaint that the police department was charging $10 to open locked car doors for car owners who had accidentally locked themselves out. Chief Hall informed council that his department does not open locked cars any more because of potential liability if the car door is damaged.

"Newer cars nearly all have electric doors and you can't open them with a 'slim-jim' without damaging wires. If that happens, we would have to pay for damage," the police chief said.

Latta said that dispatchers, when they receive calls for help in unlocking doors, should, "tell people the police don't do it and give them names of people who do and that it will cost."

Also during the meeting, the city's attorney, Larry Brown, informed council members that Judge Hollie Conley has dismissed a suit against the city and fire inspector Larry Adams, brought by the estate of Sharon Robinson who died last year in an accident at a former nightclub in the city.

All council members were present at the meeting. The next regular meeting is set for Monday, Feb. 26, at 7 p.m. at the Municipal building.

transportation." Stumbo agrees. "If we restrict the jail like this, we'll have higher prisoner transportation costs. Also, we'd have to pay about $20 per day to lodge each prisoner, if we used the Johnson County facility," said Stumbo.

Despite the order by the state to convert the jail to a holding facility by March 1, hope does exist to have the order revoked. Steps were taken to begin planning a new jail facility. Advertisements for architects have been placed and potential funding sources for the project are being examined.

"I talked with a state man and went over the jail," said Stumbo. "He figured that it would cost about $200,000 to bring it up to current standards, but he said that more work would have to be done later. We believe that it would be best to go ahead and replace the facility. A project of this size would run two to two and a half million dollars."

Powell, of the Corrections Cabinet, agreed that a real attempt by Floyd County to begin work on establishing a new jail could allow the Corrections Cabinet to grant a waiver and permit the jail to operate until a new facility is constructed.

"It's been our policy in the past to grant a waiver if a county is committed to the renovation or building of a new jail and provides proof of their intentions through action," said Powell. "If Floyd County makes a commitment to change, last Friday's order could be withdrawn."

Powell also stated that the building of new facilities, rather than the renovation of old jails, tended to be more cost effective in the long run.

Judge Stumbo has requested a public hearing with the Secretary of the Corrections Cabinet for the end of this week or early next week. He will present Floyd County's proposal for a new jail and request that last week's order by the state be withdrawn.

"I think the jail is in reasonable shape, but we have to meet state and federal standards," said Stumbo. "Our main problem is a lack of space. We just don't have any room to do anything more with the facility. I still feel that people were put in jail for punishment, not to stay in something like the Holiday Inn. I hope that, if the state sees the progress we've been making and what our intentions are, they'll change this decision."

A location for the new jail facility has not yet been determined. According to Stumbo, it may be constructed in the parking lot, behind the courthouse, or away from the courthouse, at a currently undetermined site.

Disabled should not wait to apply for Social Security

Workers in the Floyd County area suffering from a physical or mental impairment which prevents them from working should consider applying for Social Security disability benefits when it appears the impairment will last 12 months or longer, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said. Social Security disability benefits can be paid to workers under 65, disabled widows and widowers 50-60, and to unmarried adult children who become disabled before reaching 22.

Under Social Security, a person is considered disabled if he or she has a severe impairment which prevents him or her from doing any substantial gainful work and is expected to last for at least 12 months or result in death.

No payments can be made to a disabled worker, widow, or widower for the first five full months of disability.

Before a person applies for disability benefits, it will be helpful if he or she gathers certain information. This will help speed the application process, Kelly said. This includes:

- The person's Social Security number.
  - Date last worked.
  - Date person became sick or was injured.
  - Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of doctors, hospitals, institutions, or clinics that provided treatment.
  - Military service dates, numbers and VA claim number if available.
  - List of kinds of jobs performed in previous 15 years.
  - Names and Social Security numbers of spouse and children.
  - Claim number for workers compensation or any other public disability payments.
- "Of course, the most important thing to do first is to advise your doctor of your plans to file for disability so he will have time to prepare copies of your medical records for your claim," said Kelly.

A person should not delay applying if this information is not all available. Anyone wanting more information about Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, or Black Lung can contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is 886-8525.

OWENS REPLIES TO FLOYD CO. TIMES' "CHEAP SHOT"

Friday's Paper stated that the county truck broke a wooden bridge through on a "little used road" near Hueysville. It's a funny thing to me that 3 families use this road everyday, but they call it "little used." They also stated that the truck "appeared to be" trapped on what "appeared to be" private property. "APPEARED TO BE"—It could have "appeared to be" a U.F.O. But the fact is there is a cemetery and 3 families there. The fact is, I returned Floyd County Times' call before they printed this story and I told them that we had parked the truck for the night on the other side under a streetlight. When they took their pictures, there wasn't even anyone around the truck, in the truck, OR on the scene. Good news don't sell papers and I feel that the Floyd County Times likes to pick on politicians and I must be their favorite. But of course, "It appears that" someone is telling them what to do as usual.

P.S.—I think it's a shame the way the Floyd County Times aggravated these people to death by calling each family. These are good people. People, I can't apologize for the Floyd County Times.

Health care tops labor/management negotiations

Health care is the current key issue in labor/management negotiations, says Earl Leonhardt, a federal mediator based in Cincinnati.

Leonhardt spoke last Thursday at a dinner/seminar sponsored by the Big Sandy Area Labor Management Committee (BSALMC) at May Lodge in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. The purpose of the seminar, as are all BSALMC activities, is to improve communication and understanding between labor and management in the region.

"At the bargaining table, health care is the number one issue," said Leonhardt. "Health care costs jumped 20.4 percent in 1989 and medical plans on average increased in cost from $2100 to $2600 in 1988. These costs tend to take away any raises of workers. I don't know where the price increases will end."

Leonhardt blamed the price of newly developed medical techniques and the increased cost of substance abuse programs for the large increases in health care coverage costs. He noted that the adoption of national health insurance was an increasingly strong possibility, in the face of soaring insurance costs.

In Eastern Kentucky, where many have no medical coverage, such a program could be positive. Leonhardt expressed caution, however, stating that such a program would require excellent organization and implementation by the federal government.

In examining further trends, Leonhardt stated that industry appeared to be moving toward southern states. He noted the need for more nurses and health care professionals in the job market, as well as the growth of contract employment companies, which provide temporary office, accounting, and computer support.

In labor/management negotiations, child-care issues were beginning to be considered and work-stoppages had increased in recent years, he said.

Finally, Leonhardt discussed the possible opportunities being created for the US economy by recent changes in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

"There is a huge, new market opening up in Eastern Europe," said Leonhardt. "I see a lot of good possibilities for us to develop these new markets. Anyone willing to pay $6 for a Big Mac, like they're doing in the Soviet Union, will provide a good market for us."

A meeting of the Big Sandy Area Labor Management Committee will be next Tuesday at the old Big Sandy Area Development District building at 130 North Lake Dr. in Prestonsburg. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Leslie stays in running

Prestonsburg physician Larry Leslie said today that he intends to stay in the race for the position of US Congressman for the 7th Congressional District.

A Republican, Leslie is seeking the party's nomination in the May primary.

Leslie said that after his initial announcement intending to withdraw from the race, he found a groundswell of support for his candidacy and decided to "stay the course."

Leslie said, "For years I have talked of the importance of having a stronger two-party system in this state. I believe that one way to achieve that goal is by encouraging GOP primaries whenever possible. I look forward to a good campaign up to the May primary and beyond."

Leslie has been active in community affairs, including serving as a member of the board of Alice Lloyd College and the Big Sandy College Educational Foundation. Leslie is currently the Floyd County Republican Chairperson.

In re-affirming his candidacy, Leslie vowed to be a Pro-Life Congressman. His theme for the campaign is simple and to the point: "I will be a sober and prudent congressman who opposes abortion."

Leslie is a native of Prestonsburg and the son of the late Dr. Edward B.

Leslie and Alta Hall Leslie. Leslie and his wife Lynn have been married for 22 years and are the parents of two children, a daughter, Elizabeth, age 21, and a 19-year-old son Larry.

Editorial

Perhaps it's time to set some records straight concerning The Times' news policy and philosophy.

First — and foremost — The Floyd County Times is an independent, apolitical newspaper. That is, it is not tied to or controlled by any political, or quasi political, party or faction. No one who owns a share in the newspaper or who works in the news/editorial department holds selected office. Nor has anyone who owns a share or works here ever held an office or aspired to hold one. In short, no overt politician or behind-the-scenes politico pulls our strings.

Second, The Times does not intend to endorse editorially, either outright or by inuendo, any candidate for public office — unless the choices seem so outrageous as to warrant a conscience-driven endorsement and unless we believe that our blessing will truly make a difference. Persons wishing to make a political statement may do so by paying for advertising space which gives them the right to say what they want and where they want it, with some obvious limitations. They may also submit a letter to the editor, which will be published for free, as long as the letter is signed, is not libelous and adheres to reasonable standards of good taste.

Third, this newspaper stands for and practices, as far as is humanly possible, the concept of fairness. Many is the time that reporters have stayed on the phone late into the night, holding up the press at times, in attempts to reach all parties involved in controversial issues. Many is the time potentially important stories have been held for later publication or killed because a reporter could not get the other side of an issue. Many is the time when what appeared to be a big story fizzled when all sides were examined or the motives of the informers were found questionable. That's not to say, we haven't occasionally been hoodwinked, but we try not to fall for the same manipulator twice.

Of course, the meaning of the word "fair" is sometimes called into question. Too many times, folks consider something fair only when it puts them in a good light or when it reinforces their own deep-seated insecurities and prejudices. When we speak of fair, we refer to the basic philosophy that every issue has at least two sides, sometimes many more, and that each reasonable side deserves to be considered and presented.

Our goal is to ferret out those aspects of an issue and present as many as possible or reasonable, without passing judgment. We believe that most of our readers are capable of judging for themselves once they have a better understanding of an issue and have access to factual information.

We admit to a heap of cynicism — just like most Eastern Kentuckians. Perhaps we've seen one too many broken promises and one too many crumbled idol. Perhaps, too many times, we've experienced the old adage that "the more things change, the more they stay the same." We tend to be cynical when we consider what it takes to be elected to public office. We're cynical when we consider the animosity that develops when an election is lost. We're cynical when we consider what an addiction power can be, and we're likewise cynical when we consider how vicious folks can become when the power pendulum swings away from them. We've seen, unfortunately, too many people with the noblest of goals be sucked into power's whirlpool.

Nonetheless, The Floyd County Times attempts not to let cynicism override fairness. It's a goal we perhaps don't always reach, but we continue the quest.

Overall, what The Times does — or attempts to do — is to inform the public of activities, issues and events in Floyd County. We try to do this with fairness, objectivity and integrity. Sometimes our attempts hurt, sometimes they liberate. The newspaper also attempts to provide a public forum for debate of public issues. There are no sacred cows, no strings being pulled from outside the walls of this building, no vendettas to be played out, no axes to grind.

And our readers can count on this policy. They deserve nothing less.

Legislative Perspective

With Rep. Greg Stumbo

During the course of a legislative session, issues as varied as the weather in the Commonwealth come before the General Assembly. As bills make their sometimes rapid march through the process, groups that possess intense feelings for certain issues crowd into the Capitol to lobby for legislative votes.

Last week "Miss America" 1990 topped the list of visitors to the General Assembly. She encouraged legislators to use their influence to motivate the young people of Kentucky. Hundreds of Farm Bureau representatives, retailers and restaurant owners sandwiched themselves into the halls of the Capitol, as did Mothers Against Drunk Driving to support stricter drunk driving laws.

Two Constitutional amendments were approved by members of the House last week. House Bill 13, which passed 91-1, allows the General Assembly to call itself into special session. That power now belongs solely to the Governor. The proposal allows the Speaker of the House and the President Pro Tem to convene a special session if two-thirds of the members of each chamber request it.

Another House proposal would allow the General Assembly to veto administrative regulations passed in the interim. This measure could be used as protection from bad regulations that do not comply with legislative intent. Both bills require a public referendum vote if passed by the Senate.

We also unanimously approved a bill to permit eligible veterans to apply for the Vietnam Veterans Bonus. The bill would extend the application deadline from Feb. 28 to Aug. 31. The measure also makes World War II and Korean War veterans who served during the Vietnam War eligible for the bonus.

A proposal passed the House that would save lives and money by requiring insurance companies to cover mammography screening if coverage for mastectomies is included in their policies. This legislation would provide for early detection of breast cancer for many more women, thus cutting the cost of critical hospital care. Breast cancer is the number one killer of women.

My legislation, House Bill 417, born out of the recommendations from the Second Annual East Kentucky Leadership Conference, will combine public and private efforts to generate new jobs and economic development in the mountains. In his budget proposal, the Governor has earmarked $250,000 to be used in conjunction with private contributions to develop a multi-county Jobs Creation Authority. I envision the authority acting as a mini version of the state's Economic Development Cabinet with its development focus in East Kentucky. The authority will be governed by a board made up of the private sector and mayors and judges of the region. House Bill 417 is scheduled to come before the House Economic Development and Tourism Committee, Wednesday, Feb. 14.

Coal severance tax legislation that I am sponsoring will return 50 percent of the tax collected to East Kentucky governments to be used for much needed improvements such as new infrastructure. Sixteen percent would be earmarked for educational improvements.

A spotlighting bill has been approved by members of the Senate. Although I believe this bill needs work, some type of legislation is needed to protect the fox.

I am developing a complex road improvement plan for the Floyd County area. In the next few weeks, I will release the details of the projects earmarked.

Please contact me on these issues by dialing the toll-free legislative number, 1-800-372-7181.

House Week In Review

With Rep. Russell Bentley

Two possible changes in Kentucky's constitution were approved last week in the House of Representatives, along with a bill that would change the way trustees and council members are appointed to the state's higher education boards.

Several substantive issues were addressed in the House as the 1990 session of the General Assembly nears its halfway point.

House Bill 16 would grant the General Assembly power to veto executive regulations, if approved first by the Senate and then the citizens of Kentucky. The purpose of this is to give us a way to block regulations which do not meet legislative intent. Currently, the General Assembly may only act on these regulations during regular sessions every two years.

House Bill 13, which passed the House by a vote of 91-1, would allow the General Assembly to call itself into session, provided that there is a petition signed by two-thirds of the General Assembly.

Presently only the governor can call a special session and this amendment should provide for much-needed balances between the branches of government. If this constitutional amendment is approved by the Senate, it, too, will be placed before the voters of Kentucky in November.

The General Assembly is allowed to present up to four constitutional amendments during any session. Constitutional amendments, if passed by both houses, then go to the Secretary of State to be placed on the ballot so you, the citizens of Kentucky, can make the ultimate decision.

Another important measure which gained House approval last week was a bill that would restrict the governor's control of the university governing boards.

House Bill 136 calls for the establishment of a citizens' commission which would screen gubernatorial appointees to university boards and the Council on Higher Education. The commission would have seven members, one for each Supreme Court district, appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Legislature.

Once established, the committee would receive nominations and recruit candidates for each university board vacancy, then submit three names to the governor, who would then make the final appointment.

Under current law, there are no limits on the governor's power to appoint board members.

Students' driver's licenses would be revoked under House Bill 43 if they decide to drop out of school, have an excessive number of unexcused absences, or fail four courses in one semester. This dropout-prevention legislation will now go to the Senate for consideration.

In committee action, a bill that would provide a logo to help consumers distinguish Kentucky foods from those that are imported was passed by the Agriculture and Small Business Committee. Estimates show that $1.8 billion in food is shipped into Kentucky each year. Supporters of the bill say that at least 80 percent of that could be grown in the state if producers were confident they could find markets.

Kentucky would no longer participate in the "Super Tuesday" presidential primary under another measure adopted in committee. Instead, the state would hold its presidential primary on the regular election date in late May.

If approved by the House and Senate, Kentucky would be the second state to withdraw from Super Tuesday, which cost the state $3 million in March 1988 while drawing only 22 percent of the eligible voters.

Advises take care with cure claims

Dear Editor,

The recent Surgeon General's Report on Nutrition and Health has been widely discussed in the media and publicized in TV commercials for its formulations of Dietary Guidelines for Americans. Another subject mentioned in this report is the wide availability in the marketplace of fraudulent products and services. Many of these are described as "very costly yet are promoted as having nutrition or health benefits that have not been substantiated in the scientific literature". (References are given; page 705.) Some examples of these fraudulent products and services are:

• Bee pollen as a source of youth and health or as an energy pill for athletes; lecithin as a diet aid, or in combination with vinegar, kelp and vitamin B6 for the prevention and cure of heart disease; aloe vera for treatment of an array of unrelated medical conditions; hair analysis for determination of nutritional status.

• Consumers should be aware that bottles and packages containing these products will not have health claims on the labels, as label claims are controlled by the Food and Drug Administration and must be verified. The unproven claims are made in leaflets, brochures and books which are always nearby. Because of our cherished freedom of speech, the manufacturers and promoters know they can say anything they want in these publications, and in this way the public is defrauded.

The Registered Dietitians in Kentucky strongly urge the citizens of our state to purchase nourishing foods and dependable scientific advice rather than the fraudulent products and services mentioned in the Surgeon General's Report.

McConnell's Comments

Sen. Mitch McConnell

CLEAN AIR LEGISLATION WILL AFFECT MANY KENTUCKY INDUSTRIES

One of the most important issues that the Senate will deal with this year is clean air legislation. When a final bill is passed, it will not just affect one or two individual industries but will cut across economic boundaries and impact, one way or another, virtually every home and business in the nation. It is critical that any legislation signed into law balance the needs of the environment, the energy industry and the economy.

The clean air proposal currently before the Senate, S. 1630, a bill sponsored by Senator Max Baucus (D-MT) would, in its present form, be damaging to many states and particularly Kentucky. For example, the bill contains provisions that:

• could preclude the use of much of Kentucky coal because of sulphur dioxide limits;

• would increase the cost of electricity purchased by the Paducah uranium enrichment plant to the point where its survival would be in jeopardy;

• would kill the development of clean coal technologies because of the lack of sufficient incentives and unrealistic compliance deadlines; and

• would force autos in Kentucky to meet tailpipe standards which may be needed in California but are more stringent than necessary for other regions of the country.

Perhaps the best illustration of how this legislation will affect Kentucky's economic base can be seen in the number of workers that will be directly affected by S. 1630. The coal industry employs over 30,000 people and pumps more than $4 billion each year into the state's economy. Uranium enrichment supports over 2,000 jobs in Western Kentucky. Over 46,000 workers make their living in chemicals and textiles, and the 10,000 auto manufacturing jobs scattered throughout the Commonwealth could face more layoffs as new-car prices increase. In addition, rising utility rates would cut cruelly into the pocketbooks of those least able to afford it—the elderly and families on fixed incomes.

KY to use Valentine's Day to hail foster parents

Kentucky is putting its 2552 foster moms and dads on pedestals on Valentine's Day to salute their contributions and to draw attention to the state's need for more foster homes for troubled children.

Feb. 14 has been proclaimed Foster Parent Recognition Day in Kentucky by Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson. In many communities special events will be hosted by the Department of Social Services. A statewide foster parent training session and reception at the Capitol are planned in Frankfort.

Some of the local foster parents will be attending the reception according to Kathy Bohr, local recruitment/certification worker for the program. Bohr noted that the Floyd County recognition day would be held on June 23 at the Jenny Wiley State Park with a picnic. "Due to the inclement weather we usually have this time of year we just decided to postpone the celebration to warmer months," Bohr said.

There are five foster parents in Floyd County and the next informational meeting will be in Pike County at the Summit building on Tuesday, Feb. 27. The two counties have consolidated to their present small numbers, according to Bohr.

"Foster families deserve the respect and admiration of all Kentuckians," said Social Service Commissioner Larry Michalczyk, "because they give thousands of Kentucky children a second chance at a stable home life.

"Today, social workers, counselors and other child protection professionals know that foster parents must be part of the treatment team, whether the youth involved has been abused or neglected or has a behavior or delinquency problem.

"Annually more than 2500 Kentucky children are removed from their families by court order due to abuse or neglect and need the stability of a foster home. And because our residential treatment system is over taxed, we sometimes must ask foster parents to temporarily open their homes to youth with more severe needs."

Michalczyk said that the public too often gets only the image of a foster parent giving out hugs and kisses, helping with homework and wiping away tears.

"Yet foster parents also sit up all night with a frightened, confused child reliving an incident of abuse. They attend school conferences involving troubled children acting out in class," he said.

"They buy show tickets one day and call back for more the next day, after a social worker calls about a child and the foster parent says, 'I'll take him'."

In addition to the various activities saluting Kentucky's foster parents, the Department for Social Service will also use the observation as an opportunity to showcase the state's needs for additional foster homes.

"For example, last year we were able to complete the screening and training requirements to open 201 new foster homes," Michalczyk said.

"However, we had to close another 227 homes due to withdrawals, relocations and failure to adhere to our child care policies.

"Right now we have no foster families in Hickman, Nicholas and Owsley counties, and only a single foster home available in Caldwell, Livingston, Robertson, Spencer and Trimble counties. And we have black foster families in fewer than one-third of Kentucky's counties," he said.

"Clearly, our recruitment efforts have to be year-round process. We hope that, by putting our current foster parents before the public for praise and recognition, we may be able to encourage other families to check into the program in their own county."

Anyone interested in more information about Kentucky's foster care system, the training and requirements for becoming foster parents or simply to discuss foster parenting may call 1-800-232-KIDS.

Pikeville Hospital adds occupational therapist

Until now, patients who needed the special skills of an occupational therapist were driving more than 100 miles to obtain the service. Now, the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky, Pikeville, is able to provide the much needed service to the residents of Eastern Kentucky through occupational therapist Linda Whitten, a Floyd County native.

Whitten came to the Methodist Hospital after recognizing a need in the area for occupational therapy services. "As a class project, I, along with some classmates, had to design occupational therapy services for a facility which currently did not offer the service. We set up the fictional services for a local school district here in Eastern Kentucky and discovered how badly the services were needed," Whitten said.

"I am glad I chose to return to Eastern Kentucky. I have found it very rewarding working with patients here and knowing that they can now receive this service locally which they could not have previously," Whitten added.

As an occupational therapist, Whitten works with patients to develop the patient's self care skills and sensory, motor, postural and emotional development with the objective of helping improve the patient's functioning in every day life. Patients who have a diagnosis of stroke, cerebral palsy and sensory developmental delay are just a few of the ones who can benefit from occupational therapy.

Whitten is a nationally registered occupational therapist and is licensed in the state of Kentucky. She is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Eastern Kentucky University. As part of her education, Whitten completed three internships.

She completed a three-month internship in psychosocial disabilities at Welborn Baptist Hospital in Evansville, Ind., and a three-month internship in physical disabilities at Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville, Tenn. Whitten completed a third internship to specialize in pediatrics at Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis.

At this time, Whitten sees patients at the Methodist Hospital and she is working with some local school systems to provide services for students who need the therapy.

LINDA WHITTEN

Local reclamation office recognized

The Prestonsburg Regional Office of the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement was recognized last week for its outstanding job performance in the surface mine permit overflight program.

The overflight program requires the overflight and aerial videotaping of every surface coal mine permit in the state as part of the 1988 settlement agreement between the National Wildlife Federation and DSMRE. The Prestonsburg Office monitors surface coal mine operations in Floyd, Martin and Johnson counties and until recently had inspectors in Magoffin County.

The award was presented to Regional Administrator Ricky Phipps by Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet Secretary Carl Bradley and Department Commissioner William Grable during a luncheon at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

"This award is the first of its kind," Commissioner Grable told the group. "It's one thing to win an award that is presented annually, but quite another for a group of individuals to do their job in such a manner that makes us want to institute an award presentation. The office should be especially proud."

In the Level I review, the videotapes of permit sites were reviewed first in the local offices by the assigned field inspector and supervisory personnel. Any problems viewed on the tapes were followed up by on ground inspections.

The tapes and accompanying paperwork were then sent to the department's central office in Frankfort for a Level 2 review. Any unaddressed problems found during this review were referred back to the local office and the field inspector followed up with an on ground inspection.

While all the department's regional offices are involved in the overflight program, the Prestonsburg office effort was exemplary, said David Nance, assistant director of the Division of Field Services.

"The first thing we noticed was how quickly the jobs were flown, tapes reviewed and the paperwork sent to Frankfort," Nance said. "Then there was the paperwork itself. It was consistent, uniform and nearly error-free. Next, was the number of follow-up inspections required by the Level 2 review. Fifty-five percent of the tapes reviewed statewide required a followup. Only 17 percent of Prestonsburg's Level 2 reviews required followup."

The appearance of the permits taped in the Prestonsburg region were also a factor in the recognition. "In viewing the tapes of the area, it was evident that vast strides in reclamation have been made in recent years," said Secretary Bradley.

"This shows what can be accomplished when the operators and the department work together," said Commissioner Grable.

Carl Campbell, director of the Division of Field Services, said he hoped to make the award an annual event.

Folk-singer, story teller at United Methodist Church

Folk singer and storyteller Ed Kilbourne is coming to the First United Methodist Church on Sunday, Feb. 18. He will be in concert at the 11 a.m. worship service, the 5 p.m. Junior UMYF meeting and the 6 p.m. Senior UMYF meeting.

With what one reviewer called "a touch of James Taylor in his voice and a whole handful of Garrison Keillor in his storytelling style," Kilbourne has become known over the years for his concerts of moving music and insightful monologues. His latest album, "Beyond Belief" (Fly-by-Night Records), features his vocal, guitar and keyboard work, as well the backup vocal skills of his wife, Mick, and guitar and harmonica tracks from fellow South Carolina artist, Tom Davidson.

Kilbourne began his career in the 1950s and early '60s, singing in folk groups while in high school and college. Since then he has performed solo in over 5000 concerts in Europe, Asia and in almost every one of the states of the US. He has opened concerts for artists such as Kenny Rogers and Michael Martin Murphy, and for two years he was lead singer for the Colorado band, White Rock.

Kilbourne and his family make their home in southern York County, not too far from Rock Hill, S.C.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank each and everyone who helped in sickness and death of our mother. We thank those who sent food and flowers, Dr. Allen Hyden and every employee of Riverview Manor Nursing Home. Especially each and every nurse and nurses' aid on the second floor for all the kindness, love and good care they gave our mother. We wish to thank the Preston Funeral Home for all their kindness to the family and also Minister Hubert Slone and singers.

Card of Thanks

The family of Charles E. Hicks wishes to thank those friends, neighbors and family who were so kind and considerate during their loss of a loved one. Your kindness was a great comfort. A special thanks to Rev. John Woods for just being there and also to Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

THE FAMILY

Card of Thanks

The family of Grace Shepherd Patrick wishes to acknowledge and thank the many friends and relatives who visited the Hall Funeral Home and sent floral tributes in case we didn't get to personally acknowledge. It was a great comfort to the family to know that friends still remembered our mother after leaving so many years ago from Eastern Kentucky.

A special thanks to the Rev. Alonzo J. Dixon, and the Topmost Baptist Church for conducting such a loving and caring funeral service.

Also, a special thanks to Tommy Hall, John Hall, Jr., John Hall, Sr. and the entire staff of Hall Funeral Home for their many kindnesses and consideration in our time of sorrow.

Grand opening

The grand opening ceremony for the new Big Sandy Area State Farm Service Center in Betsy Layne was held last Thursday. The office, which opened officially on Dec. 18, is managed by John Spangler and presently employs eight others. The center deals strictly in auto accident claims.

Firefighters

house and extinguish them. This "live burn" drill allowed firefighters to experience the heat of a real fire, and learn techniques of using a firehose to put out flames.

The final portion of the exercise involved an exposure drill, as the whole structure was set on fire. Firefighters learned to lower the heat of a full-blown fire and confine the fire to a single structure.

As the building was quickly consumed in towering, 30 foot flames, it was difficult to not be impressed by the sheer destructive force of the roaring inferno.

"This training was mainly for the new boys who haven't been in an actual fire," said Fire Chief Tom Blackburn. "The real thing can scare you to death, so this training is designed to get them over the claustrophobia and fear of being in a burning house. They've learned how to pace themselves and follow the rules of safety."

Adams agreed with the Chief's assessment.

"This was the first such training we've had on a burning house in three years," said Adams. "No matter how much class training you get, a live fire like this is the best experience and develops a good firefighter."

Local fires destroy three houses

Two fires took place this past week, puzzling area firefighters as to their cause, and a third fire was attributed to a coal stove pipe.

John Hunter, 74, of Printer, managed to escape his burning home with no serious injuries, but could only watch with his neighbors as his house, with his belongings inside, burned to the ground. According to reports, the fire began in Hunter's coal burning stove around 9 p.m. Saturday. Apparently, the stove pipe had overheated and ignited the ceiling and quickly spread to an adjoining bedroom.

When Hunter tried to phone the fire department, he found his phone line dead and his lights out. Several Left Beaver firefighters responded, but the structure was too far gone to save.

An unoccupied house in old Allen, owned by Tom Porter, was reported to have caught fire near 9 p.m. Monday. According to Joe Reynolds, captain of the Allen Fire Department, when the 16 firefighters arrived on the scene one room was totally in flames. There was no gas to the house and Reynolds reported the fire was of a suspicious nature, but since the owner had planned to tear the house down anyway, no investigation is ensuing. The neighboring house was in no danger, due to the quick reporting and arrival of the fire department.

A second abandoned house took two burnings to complete its destruction Thursday, Feb. 8, according to Mack Stewart, assistant chief of the Wayland Fire Department. The house on Stafford Branch owned by Darlin and Faye Newsome is under investigation for arson. Stewart said he wouldn't rule out the possibility of vandals.

The house, which had been unoccupied since June of 1989, was reported to the Wayland firefighters as being on fire at 6 a.m. Thursday. At that time the damage was contained to a hole about 4 by 6 feet in size in the kitchen floor.

The second blaze was reported at around 2:40 a.m. Friday and this time the whole structure was engulfed when the fire fighting unit arrived. The structure was deemed a total loss and threatened neighboring houses due to its size, but fortunately the members of the department were able to contain the damage to that one site.

Wins third straight

Smith's 18 points lead Rebels to win over P'burg, 59-54

Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido was hoping that the confidence his team had gained with close wins over Harrison County, an overtime thriller at Wheelwright and the blowout at Phelps, would carry over to the conference match up Monday night with Allen Central.

However, that was not the case as the Blackcats fell to the host Rebels in yet another close one, 59-54.

Senior center Rick Smith tossed in 18 points in leading a balanced Rebel offensive attack against the Blackcats. The win avenged an earlier loss at Prestonsburg for the Rebels.

"I was hoping our confidence would stay up for tonight's game," the Blackcat coach said, "but it just didn't."

Joey Conn got free under the basket on the first play of the game for an easy basket for the Rebels. Worthie McGuire, who has been playing well lately, tied the game at 2-2. Kevin Adams put Prestonsburg up 4-2 on an easy one underneath. Conn on a short jumper tied it at 4-4.

Prestonsburg led 8-4, 10-7 and 12-9 before Allen Central ran off eight straight points to take a 17-11 lead. Adams hit just before the buzzer to end the first at 17-14.

The Blackcats came into the game hoping to be able to run with the Rebels as they did against Phelps.

"We were trying to pressure on defense but we never could get out in the lanes. Again our rebounding was excellent at Phelps, but tonight it was terrible," Parido explained. "At Phelps, for every bad shot we took in the last three to four weeks we made up for them."

Allen Central continued to put pressure on the Blackcats by scoring the first seven points of the second quarter to take a 23-14 lead. Prestonsburg cut the lead to seven just before intermission, 28-21, on two baskets by Adams and Chris Slone's three points.

Kevin Spurlock and Cotton Parson scored early minute baskets for a 32-21 lead in the third period. McGuire hit to make it 32-23. After Mike Hancock's three-pointer, Prestonsburg ran off eight straight points to cut the Rebel lead to four points, 35-31.

Two free throws by Joe Burchett then made it 39-38 with 58 seconds remaining. Smith took an offensive rebound for a put back as the quarter ended, 41-38.

Prestonsburg took the lead for the first time since the first quarter at 52-51 on two free throws by Adams with 2:16 remaining. The lead changed hands at 53-52, 54-53, and 55-54, Allen Central, with 1:14 to go. Jeff Sloan missed an eight-footer on the ensuing rebound, and the ball went out of bounds giving possession to AC.

Conn was fouled with 22 seconds remaining and the big forward connected on both shots for a 57-54 lead. Chris Slone's three-point attempt fell short as the Rebels rebounded the ball.

"I thought we had a chance to win the game. We were killed on the offensive boards. They got some big offensive rebounds even late in the game," said Parido. "But you can't win without these things. You got to do the little things right."

"Offensively we stood around and that might be to Allen Central's tribute. They pushed us out on the floor until right there at the end when we started getting the ball in the middle and that's what caught us up and put us ahead. Getting the ball in the middle was the key. We never would do that. We were standing around most of the time."

Todd Lucas came off the Rebel bench and sparked the host team with seven points in playing in only his second game. Lucas hit a big three-pointer at the start of the fourth quarter. The sophomore hit two free throws as the game ended to give the final margin of 59-54.

According to Coach Parido, Allen Central did the things they had to do to win. He felt that his team worked hard again as they have the last four to five ball games.

"For two and a half quarters we played like we have been playing," Allen Central coach Johnny Martin said. "Cotton (Parsons) got into foul trouble and he had to come out, so we had to shift our defense and when you bring in younger players you lose some on defense.

"Kevin Adams is a tough player and we were keeping our eye on Slone (Chris) and Adams was getting loose," Martin continued. "We didn't get the help tonight as we got the other night (Betsy Layne game). There are some adjustments we need to make and hopefully we can make those adjustments before tournament time."

Martin says that his team didn't play that well on defense but did what they had to do to win down the stretch, echoing the words of Coach Parido.

Allen Central finishes 5-3 in the conference and still has a chance to tie Betsy Layne for the conference lead as of this writing.

Adams led Prestonsburg, 8-10, in scoring with 12 points. Ray Collins finished with 11 and McGuire tossed in 10 points.

"We were killed on the offensive boards."

—PHS coach Parido

For Allen Central, 9-11, Kevin Spurlock had 10 points and Joey Conn finished with nine points.

Prestonsburg will host Pikeville tomorrow night (Thursday) and Allen Central travels to Leslie County Friday night.

Lady Rebs hand BLHS first conference loss

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One victory was all the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats needed to clinch their third straight Floyd County Conference title as they entered last Friday night's game with second place Allen Central.

After Allen Central came away with a 69-56 win over the first place Lady Bobcats, Betsy Layne is still needing one more win to claim the title outright.

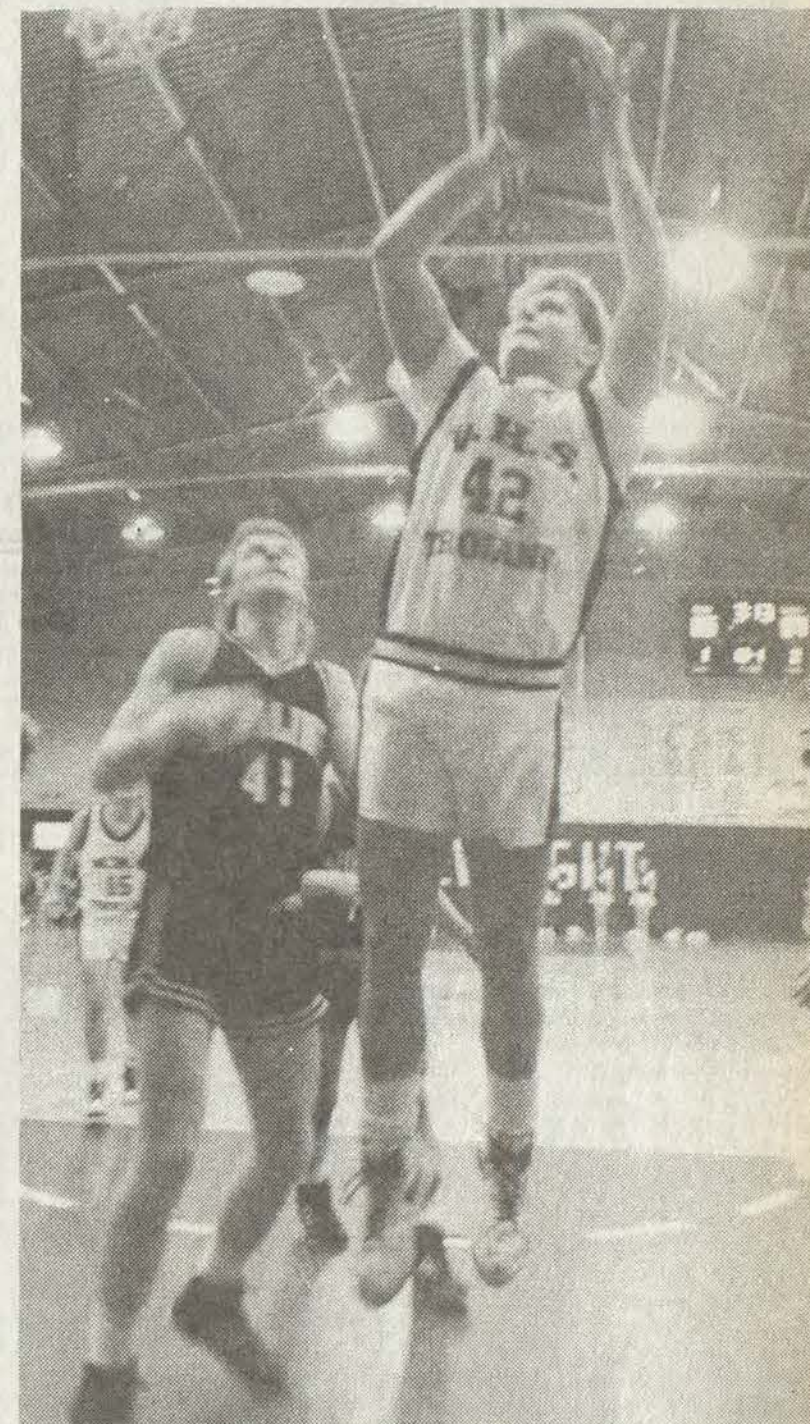

The Lady Bobcats entered the contest as the first place conference team with an unblemished 6-0 record. Allen Central was 4-2 in conference play and each team had two conference games to play. The win for the Lady Rebs keeps their hopes alive for at least tying for the top spot.

Teresa Gibson, who hit four three-pointers in the game, led the Lady Rebs in scoring with 21 points. Jo Ann Conn, who only had three points at half time, finished with 14 points as did teammate, Stacy Moore.

The Lady Rebs' game plan was to stop Betsy Layne standout Brenda Hamilton who was held to only 10 points in the game. To stop Hamilton,

Lady Rebs clinch conference 2nd place

by Ed Taylor

Coach Bonita Compton's Allen Central Lady Rebs sewed up second place Monday night as her squad defeated a good Prestonsburg team, 65-43, at Allen Central.

The Lady Blackcats, known for their comeback abilities, mustered together a drive that brought them to within two points of the Lady Rebs at 28-26. But Allen Central put together a scoring drive of its own and moved the lead back out to 19 points by the end of the third period.

Prestonsburg applying defensive pressure, caused the Lady Rebs some problems in the latter part of the second stanza and early in the third.

Freshman Jenny Yates, getting her second start, led the Lady Rebs in scoring with 18 points. Yates scored seven straight in the first quarter that brought Allen Central back from a 9-4 deficit.

Allen Central center Jo Ann Conn tossed in 15 points after being held scoreless in the first period. Conn had a big game on the boards for Allen Central in pulling down 11 rebounds and handing off four assists in her unselfish play.

Stacy Moore scored on a lay up in the opening seconds of the first quarter to give Allen Central a quick 2-0 lead. Prestonsburg then went on a 9-2 spurt to take a 9-4 lead. Yates then hit an 11-footer. On the next possession, Yates hit again from the same spot and was fouled. The Lady Reb hit the free throw with 2:41 to go in the first quarter to tie the game at 9-9.

Yates, from the same spot, again scored to give Allen Central the lead, 11-9. A bucket by Darnella Bradley for AC and a basket for Prestonsburg by Edwina Hale, ended the first period at 13-11 Allen Central.

Allen Central got its running game in gear in the second quarter when Conn took a picture perfect pass from Moore for a lay up off a fast break to make it 17-11. After Cathy Slone, who scored 27 points, hit two from the charity stripe, Conn scored underneath off some good ball movement and was fouled. Moore then hit an eight-footer to put Allen Central on top, 22-13.

Conn picked up her third per-

WW defeats Mullins, 75-67, in Homecoming matchup

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County basketball season is winding down as tournament time approaches. Friday night at Wheelwright the Mullins Tigers provided the opposition as the Trojans held their traditional homecoming festivities. The Trojans came away with a 75-67 win over the visiting Tigers.

The gym was also packed for another reason and that was a "welcome home" for Garnis Martin, the winningest coach in Kentucky football. Martin used to be a player at Wheelwright in basketball, baseball and football. (See related story.)

Senior Bobby Hood tossed in 20 points to lead the Trojans to victory. Sophomore Harold Johnson added 16 points.

Wheelwright jumped out in front early on the Tigers and led at the first stop, 19-11, and extended the lead to 12, 40-28, at the half.

Mullins came out in the third quarter and put on an offensive show, as outscoring the Trojans 21-14, and closed the lead to five, 54-49.

Wheelwright played tough in the fourth quarter in holding off the charging Tigers and winning its sixth game of the season, 75-67.

Russell Clark tossed in 36 points for the losing Tigers. Jamie Boyd added 11 points for Mullins.

"We played well in spurts," said Wheelwright mentor Monroe Jones. "We have had trouble hitting our free throws recently. We hit 63 percent against Jenkins, 65 percent against Prestonsburg and 63 percent against Mullins."

The Trojans will host the Daredevils of McDowell tomorrow night (Thursday) in an important conference game. Prestonsburg defeated the Trojans in overtime earlier at Wheelwright.

Allen Central, Betsy Layne spar in defensive gem

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Allen Central Rebels and Betsy Layne Bobcats met Friday night at the J.H. Campbell Arena on the campus of Allen Central for a top conference match up between the two schools.

Both teams displayed defensive prowess in the 44-32 game which saw the Rebels win over the Bobcats.

The two teams had to go to overtime at Betsy Layne earlier in the year before the Bobcats won out.

"One thing we have been trying to do," said Rebel coach Johnny Martin, "is sell our kids on defense. Good defense will win ball games for you."

Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome has always been a coach who preaches defense to his teams. "If you play good defense, your offense will come around," the Betsy Layne mentor said earlier in the year.

Both teams got at it in the first quarter after Allen Central scored the first three points to go up 3-0 and later 5-2, the Bobcats' defense held the Rebels scoreless the rest of the period as Betsy Layne raced to a 14-5 first quarter advantage on a three-pointer, just before the buzzer, by Adam Gearheart.

Allen Central's Rick Smith opened the second period with two quick baskets to close to within five, 14-9. The Bobcats pulled back out by nine, 20-11, midway through the period. Baskets by Cotton Parsons and Joey Conn made it 20-15. Two free throws at the end of the second period by Gearheart sent the Bobcats to the locker room with a seven point, 22-15, lead.

Sam Stewart's basket at the start of the third period opened the Bobcat lead to 24-15. And then everything went wrong for the Bobcats as the Rebels tightened their defense and outscored Betsy Layne, 12-0, to take a 27-24 lead at the end of the third stanza. The Bobcats could only score two points in the period.

With these two teams playing who would have ever thought that the score would be 27-24 after just three quarters and that Betsy Layne would only score two points in a quarter? In the period, seldom-used Todd Lucas got his chance to play in a varsity game and contributed seven points, including a three-pointer at the end of the third quarter that brought the crowd to its feet.

"I had been looking at Todd in junior varsity games and he had been playing well in practice," said Coach Martin. "I told him two or three games ago that I was going to give him a chance and never did. So tonight I thought that this was as good a time as any."

Does this mean that Lucas will start the next time for the Rebels?

"Well, I've been known not to break up a winning combination," said Martin.

The situation didn't improve much in the fourth quarter for the Bobcats as they were outscored 17-8 in the period in losing to Allen Central, 44-32. Another thought! Betsy Layne scoring just 10 points in a half.

"We didn't really care about offense in this game," former Betsy Layne player Cotton Parsons said, "we just wanted to concentrate on defense. It feels great to be able to win this one. We did a great job against Elkhorn City, and it just carried over to this game."

"We played a 1-2-2 matchup zone against them," said Kevin Spurlock, also a former Bobcat player. "We got a lot of help from Terry Spurlock and Todd Lucas tonight."

"It was as about as good as we have played this year," Martin said of his team's win. "We shot a lot quicker than we did against Elkhorn City. Betsy Layne is a good defensive team and a lot of people don't realize that they played a good defensive game against us."

Martin said that the reason for inserting Lucas into the lineup at the start of the second half was that his outside shooting wasn't getting it done. "In the first half we weren't trying to run our defense and we fell behind."

"Spurlock (Terry) came off the bench and gave us a big life, especially on the boards," the Rebel mentor explained, "and he has been helping us since he joined the team."

Martin was pleased that for two straight games Spurlock (Kevin) has been able to play 32 minutes of basketball.

Kevin Spurlock led the Rebels in scoring with 13 points. Smith added nine points.

Gearheart topped all Bobcat scorers with 11 points. Phillip King had eight and Stewart tossed in seven.

Allen Central will travel to Leslie County Thursday night and Betsy Layne will visit Pikeville in top regional game Thursday evening.

Allen students 'jump' for Heart Association

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Got some news for you! Jumping rope is not just for girls anymore. That's the word from Beth VanBibber, Northeast Division Director of the American Heart Association.

VanBibber was in town to supervise the "Jump Rope for Heart Disease" at the Allen Grade School where more than 60 students are taking part. Each student goes out and solicits sponsors of the rope jump. Each is then placed in groups of six where someone in the group is to be constantly jumping rope. The rope jumping sessions are for a duration of three hours divided up into two one-and-a-half hour sessions.

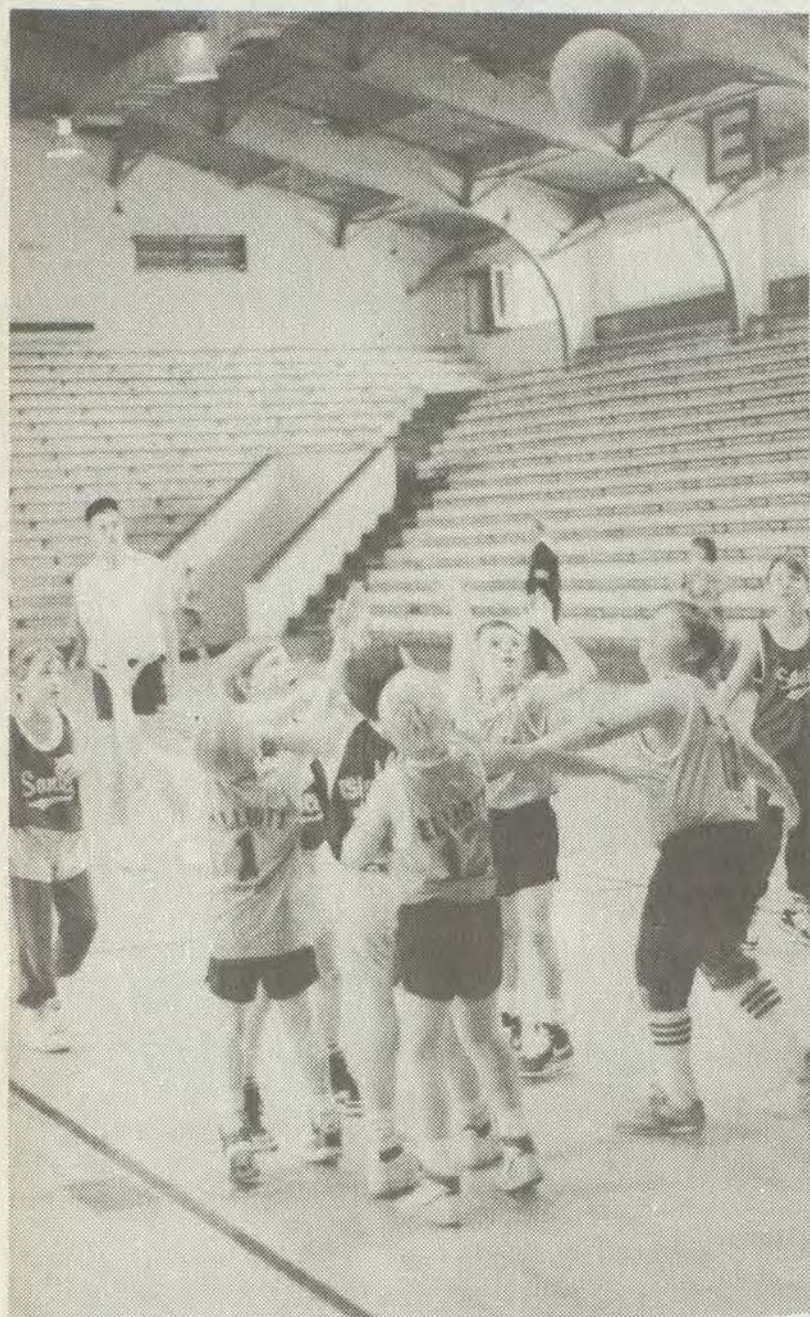

"Each student gets pledges from sponsors who pledge to give so many cents for the 180-minute marathon," David Mosley, the marathon coordinator, stated. "They have to go out and collect the money after the marathon. That will be the hard part. They're having fun now."

According to VanBibber the marathons run nationwide from September through April. The program is in its 10th year.

"Jumping rope is not just for girls anymore," VanBibber stated. "Now joggers jump rope, as do boxers and others in training. Jumping rope is good exercise for the heart."

"David (Mosley) has done an excellent job of coordinating this marathon," VanBibber said.

The Northeast Division Director stated that the Prater School held its own Jump-A-Rope marathon before Christmas and raised $600. The program is expected to be held annually at the Allen Grade School.

Prestonsburg Intramural League

Black vs Gold

In boys intramural action at Prestonsburg Elementary, Bobby Spencer's Black team won over Gordie Ratliff's Gold team, 68-60, behind the 29-point performance of Greg Jones. Jones got help from teammate Jason Spencer who had 21 points and James Dixon who netted 10. Nathan Johnson tossed in eight points.

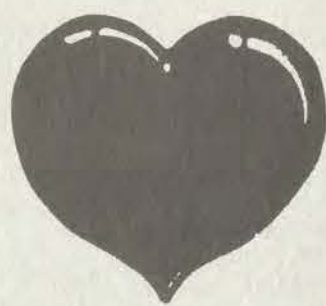

In the losing effort, Mike Goble had 22 points to lead the Gold team. Thomas Ratliff tallied 17, and Brian Allen tossed in 13. Tom Wallen chipped in with eight points.

White vs Blue

Martin Newberry scored 23 points and C.D. Poston hit for 19 as the White team of Ashland Gearheart defeated the Blue team, 90-60. Also for the winning White team, David Gearheart had 18 points, and Seth Hyden added 11. James Joseph scored nine points and William Marsellette had six. Thomas Ousley added four.

Damon Stepp's 25 points led the Blue team. Larry Morris netted 15 points. Rob Risner and Rich Hall scored seven and six points, respectively while teammates Jeff Bingham and Paul Collins added four and three points.

Allen Central coach Bonita Compton changed her lineup and started freshmen Jenny Yates and Jenny Wiley, to match the speed of the Lady Bobcats.

On defense, the Lady Rebels employed a triangle and two, concentrating on Hamilton and Brianna Boyd. Boyd finished the game with 16 points, including three three-pointers.

The Lady Bobcats came out with a full court pressure defense, but Allen Central passed over the press and got some easy baskets early to take the lead for good at 6-5. Betsy Layne led at 1-0 and 5-4. Allen Central's defense caused Betsy Layne some problems in the first quarter as the Lady Rebs raced to a 17-12 first quarter lead.

With the Betsy Layne defense concentrating on Conn on the inside, Gibson riddled the nets from the outside to force the Lady Bobcats to come outside. Gibson hit the "treys" and caused the "Rebel Rousers" in the seats to hold up the number "three" on place cards. Allen Central led at the half by five, 36-31.

Betsy Layne was held to six third quarter points and the Lady Rebs held an 18-point lead at the third stop, 55-37.

Betsy Layne, a ball club that has played tough all season, began to mount a comeback in the final stanza. With 3:56 remaining, Boyd hit a three-pointer to cut the Allen Central lead to nine, 61-52. The Lady Cats sent the Lady Rebs to the charity line where the Lady Rebs were unable to connect on their free throws.

Boyd scored 10 points in the fourth quarter as she tried to bring Betsy Layne back into the game. Allen Central missed eight front ends of one-and-ones in the final stanza.

Allen Central improves to 5-2 in conference play and Betsy Layne goes to 6-1. Conn had seven rebounds for the Lady Rebels and point guard Stacy Moore dished off six assists. The Lady Rebs missed 18 times from the charity stripe.

Bobcats Claw Bearcats, 85-75

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats got some balanced scoring from three players to topple the visiting Johns Creek Bearcats, 85-75, at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse Saturday night.

The win was the 12th of the season for Junior Newsome's ball club, against seven defeats. The Bobcats remain one of the top teams in the 15th Region and will go up against 15th power, Pikeville, Thursday night. Center Sam Stewart scored a game high 25 points for the Bobcats in leading the scoring. Junior forward Phillip King added 23 points, and Adam Gearheart tossed in 22.

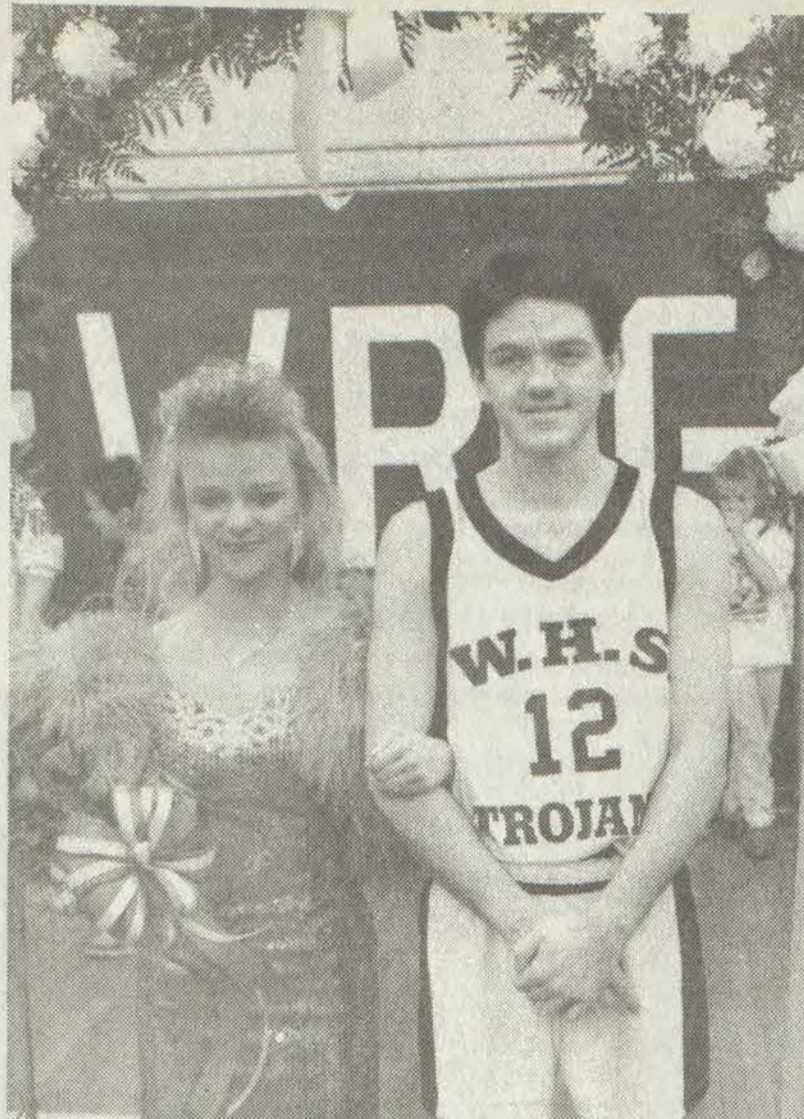

Scott King led the Bearcats in the scoring department. Chad Hunt tossed in 22 points in the loss.

Betsy Layne, behind the scoring of the threesome, managed a 22-17 first quarter lead but trailed at the half, 40-39. The Bobcats then blitzed the Bearcats in the third period by outscoring them 31-16, using their running game and pressure defense to cause several Bearcat turnovers. Johns Creek could get no closer than the final margin of 10 points as the Bobcats went on to capture the intercounty game, 85-75.

Betsy Layne will be at Belfry Saturday night for another big 15th Regional test against the Pirates.

Lady Rebel freshmen capture Whitesburg round robin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Bonita Compton's Allen Central Rebels can boast of having some of the best freshmen girls basketball players in the county as the young Lady Rebels traveled to Whitesburg to take part in the round robin playoffs.

Allen Central was scheduled to play Knott County Central in the first game of the round robin, but the Lady Patriots did not show up so the game was ruled a forfeit.

In the second game against host Whitesburg, Jenny Wiley tossed in 17 points to lead the Allen Central entrant to a 43-42 one-point victory over Whitesburg.

Also for Allen Central, Stacy "Mini" Moore added 12 points in the win. Jenny Yates, the "speedster", had eight points. Jessica Wade added five points and Pam Webb contributed one point.

Younce led Whitesburg in scoring with 14 points. Baker added 11 and Henson tossed in eight. Swisher "swished" the nets for seven points while teammate Holland scored two points.

In the final game, the Lady Rebs won over Fleming-Neon, 35-24. Stacy "Mini" Moore led the way with 12 points and Pam Webb added eight. Jessica Wade and Jenny Wiley scored four points each for the Lady Rebels. Jenny Yates had three points and Tonya Crum tossed in two.

Girls basketball in Floyd County has some top notched freshmen playing this year which speaks well of the future of girls play in the county.

Prestonsburg breaks century mark with 110-79 victory over Phelps

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Some teams only dream of the kind of game the Prestonsburg Blackcats played against the Phelps Hornets Saturday night. The Blackcats scored 110 points against the host team in an outstanding win.

"We made up for every bad shot we had taken the last four to five weeks," Coach Parido said.

The Blackcats started hot in the game, hitting on 65 percent of their shots in the first half.

Center Kevin Adams led a balanced Blackcats scoring attack with 20 points as five players scored in double figures. Ray Collins had 19 points, including three 'treys' in the game. Chris Slone had 16 points and two three-pointers. John Clark tossed in 13 points with one three-pointer.

Mike Charles and Robbie Baker each scored 24 points to lead the Hornets in that department.

Both teams played close in the first quarter. Prestonsburg struck first on a bucket by Slone, and after a Danny Francis basket, Slone canned two free throws to make it 4-2, Blackcats. Baker tied the game and Worth McGuire's three-point play gave Prestonsburg a 7-4 lead and the Blackcats never looked back.

Baker tied the game with a three-pointer at 7-7 for the last tie of the game. An 8-2 run put the Blackcats up 15-9 and they led 23-16 with 4:12 remaining. Jukey Dotson's basket and Mike Justice's three-point basket made it 25-21 at the first stop.

Prestonsburg was a team that could not miss, able to get the ball down low to Adams for some easy baskets, as well as hit from the outside. Another 10-5 run put the Blackcats up 35-28. But the Hornets were not ready to roll over and give up as they went on a 5-0 spurt to cut it to two, 35-33.

That's when the Blackcats began to break things open. A basket by Slone, an eight-footer by Jeff Sloan and Slone's three-pointer — and the Blackcats were on top 44-33. They then extended the advantage to 49 points, 50-46 at the half.

McGuire's 10-footer made it 82-62 early in the final period. After a three-pointer by Baker, the Blackcats outscored the Hornets 15-4 for a commanding 97-69 lead. Aaron Tucker's basket made it 99-73 and Slone's short jumper put the Blackcats over the century mark at 101-75.

Tucker hit a three-pointer to make it 105-77. James Derossett hit for two and it was 107-79. Jeff Sloan topped off the evening of scoring for Prestonsburg when he hit a three-pointer at the buzzer to make the final count, 110-79.

The 110 points was the biggest offensive showing for the Blackcats in several seasons.

The win improved Prestonsburg's record to 8-9. ****

sonal foul midway the second stanza and was relegated to the pines. The Lady Rebs then began to make some miscues on offense and turned the ball over to the Lady Blackcats. Slone's bucket just before the horn made it 26-19, Allen Central, at the half.

A 7-2 run by Prestonsburg brought the Lady Blackcats to within two, 28-26. Allen Central then turned up the offense another notch and went on a 7-0 run to make it 35-26. Two baskets by Slone sandwiched between a bucket by Yates, and it was 37-30.

The Lady Rebels went on a tear from that point, scoring 12 unanswered points and a commanding 49-30 lead.

Prestonsburg could get no closer than 18 points in dropping the 65-43 conference game.

The loss took Prestonsburg to 2-5 in the conference and 8-10 overall. Allen Central is 6-2 with still an outside chance of tying for the conference lead.

Cathy Slone led all scorers with 27 points for the Lady Blackcats. Edwina Hale, who got off to a good start by scoring six points in the first quarter, finished with eight points. Carolyn Reffitt had six.

Besides Yates' 18 and Conn's 15, Darnella Bradley added nine points.

Stacy Moore and Teresa Gibson tossed in eight apiece. ****

 Scott Shannon (45) battles a Sheldon Clark player for the basketball in high school action last Thursday night at McDowell. McDowell ran past the Daredevils, 104-76.

McDowell Blisters Sheldon Clark, 104-76

"I am pleased with the way we played tonight," is the way McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner summed up his team's effort against Sheldon Clark Thursday night at McDowell.

The Cardinals had defeated the Daredevils in a previous meeting at Sheldon Clark by the nine points. It was different this time around as the Daredevils' offense exploded for a 104-76 win over the Cardinals. This is the first time the Daredevils hit the century mark this year and one would have to go back some years to find the last time the team did it.

Five Daredevils hit double figures in the game. Stacy Hall led all scorers with 24 points. Brother Marc Hall added 22 and freshman Mike Duddleson tossed in 16 points. Britt Stumbo hit for 15 points, including the basket that made the 100th point. Keith Shelton had 13 points in the game. Dougie Hopkins just missed double figures with nine points.

The game was won early in the first quarter when the Daredevils blitzed the younger Cardinals by scoring the last 12 points of the first quarter and moving out to a 31-12 first quarter lead.

McDowell built its lead to 29 points, 43-14, early in the second period. As always, when a team gets a big lead the players have a tendency to let down and play a little sloppy. Such was the case with McDowell, which brought the wrath of Coach Turner. "Quit fooling around and play some ball," was his order from the bench.

"We got sloppy there in the second quarter," he said, "but that is to be expected of a team with a big lead."

The Daredevils had no problems from that point on as the fans were just watching to see the century mark put on the board. On an acrobatic shot by Britt Stumbo, the ball banked through the rim for points 99 and 100.

Stumbo was fouled on the play and sank the free throw.

"We are playing good basketball right now," Turner remarked. "We are hustling on the floor and playing with a lot of intensity as a team."

"When you're losing, it is hard to keep a team's intensity up," explained Turner of his team's earlier woes.

Marc Hall had 10 rebounds for McDowell. Shelton and Stacy Hall pulled down eight each. Stacy Hall handed off eight assists in the game.

Sports Profile: Part Four

Dale McKinney: WMDJ-FM

One of Jesse Ventura's favorite expressions is "I tell it like it is." Ventura, as many know, is one of the announcers of the World Wrestling Federation on television. You know — the controversial guy!

On the local front, we have our own colorful, controversial and sometimes get-under-your-skin sportscaster. He is none other than WMDJ's Dale McKinney.

McKinney began his sportscasting in the late '60s with the Virginia Sailors of the old American Basketball League for station WXRA in Washington, DC. McKinney spent one year with the ABA team before returning to Floyd County. McKinney graduated from Martin High School and played ball under Coach "Hoss" Halbert.

McKinney is a popular announcer on his station, listened to by many on his early morning show. To many, he is the announcer they love to hate. His controversial ways have caused many listeners to keep tuning in just to see what he is going to say next.

McKinney seems always find some subject to talk about that doesn't sit too well with the listeners. For instance, the Eddie Sutton fiasco. McKinney never did hide his dislike for the coaching abilities of Eddie Sutton or of Pete Rose with the Cincinnati Reds.

"I like Rose as a player. I thought he was a great major league ball player," McKinney explained, "but I don't think he knows how to manage a ball team."

"With Rose gone things have to be better for the Reds this season. I believe they will be a more exciting team to watch."

McKinney says that he is a sportscaster by necessity and not by choice.

"When I began my station in 1982, Dan Lazuki was my sports director. When Dan left, I had to assume the position of sportscaster," explained the WMDJ owner.

McKinney is also known for the many years that he coached basketball at Clark Elementary School where he was very successful. McKinney coached such former Prestonsburg players as Kelly Cecil, Todd Nairn and Tony Whitaker. He also had the starting five of last year's Prestonsburg Blackcats 15th Regional champions on his team at Clark, a team that went 21-3 in grade school.

"They were a very unselfish team," says McKinney. "They cared about each other because they grew up together."

McKinney has seen many players come and go in the 15th Region but cites Todd May as the best player and Henry Webb as the most complete player he has seen play in the region.

On his label as controversial, McKinney says, "I try to be. I try to be controversial. My play-by-play is like nobody else's. If a player makes a good play I will be the first to heap praise on him for his good play. But if there is a bad play I call it as I see it."

"My criticism of players is not to be harmful, but constructive," said the one time ABA announcer. "I believe it makes them better players."

McKinney says that he has yet to see a basketball player in Floyd County who plays the full court.

"I don't see us producing any college players in the county," said McKinney. "We have freshmen who come into high school with some deficiencies and they still have them when they are seniors. The coaches in the county are not nearly as dedicated before. You don't have the 'Hoss' Halberts any more. Halbert used to coach the freshmen, 'B' Team and varsity. Coaches today won't do that today because they are pampered. They will not go to the grade school games and watch the grade schools."

"Coaches demand what they are not willing to put in themselves," he continued. "Attendance is down at ball games because it is not exciting. When the coaches and players start giving all, then the fans will come back."

"When I do a game on radio, it is completely factual," he said. "The old saying 'If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen' is still true today."

McKinney's station has been sponsoring a "Player of the Week" for the last five years. "We also at district tournament time have plaques we present to the 'Players of the Year,'" stated McKinney. "There has been no one acknowledge kids more than we have."

McKinney relates that he had been approached to do the Kentucky Class Single A state tournament from Lexington this year. "They called me and offered me the position, saying they were looking for someone new and refreshing."

"I feel I have an excellent rapport with the coaches in the county," he added.

Whether you love him or hate him, he is still Dale McKinney, sportscaster for WMDJ at Martin, and the listeners love to hear what McKinney has to say.

Johns Creek topples McDowell in overtime

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Daredevils took the road into Pike County to face a tough Johns Creek Bearcats team last Friday evening. The results were not as pleasing as the way the Daredevils performed.

"We played good basketball for three and a half quarters," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "However, I wasn't completely disappointed in the way that we played."

The Daredevils, coming off a big win over Sheldon Clark, fell to the host team, 83-75. Johns Creek placed six players in double figures, led by Bill West's 20 points. Chad Hunt and Simon Ratliff added 14 points each while Paxton Weddington tossed in 13 points. Scott Keene and Phillip Burchfield tallied 10 points each.

McDowell center Keith Hall led the Daredevils in scoring with 24 points. Stacy Hall had 16, while brother Marc tossed in 14.

McDowell had an 11-point lead with three minutes left in regulation play. Johns Creek hit three three-pointers and a two-pointer to tie the Daredevils and send the game into overtime. Paxton Weddington hit two three-pointers in the span, and Phillip Burchfield hit one to tie the game.

"We missed some free throws down the stretch," said Turner of his team's inability to hit from the charity stripe. "We let them back in the game."

McDowell was guilty of turning the ball over 18 times in the game. Marc Hall and Shelton had 10 rebounds for McDowell, and Britt Stumbo pulled down five boards.

Shelton and Stacy Hall handed off five assists each in the game. McDowell, trailing by seven at the first stop, 24-17, went to the locker room with a four-point half time lead. The Daredevils also ended the third quarter with a 13-point advantage.

Johns Creek outscored the visiting Daredevils 24-11 in the final quarter and 11-3 in overtime.

The Daredevils will visit the Trojans of Wheelwright tomorrow night (Thursday) in the final conference contest of the season.

Mr. Donnie Bush
Carter-Hughes Toyota, Inc.
U.S. Highway 23 North
Prestonsburg, KY 41653

Dear Donnie,
1989 finished the decade with us learning to do business in a new way. Customer satisfaction became the theme of our efforts in operating the Service Department. Customer expectations increased and profits became harder to increase. "Business as usual" became a thing of the past. For 1989, you and your staff rose to the occasion.

I am proud to announce you and your dealer's Service Department have received the 1989 Toyota Touch Service Excellence Award. Your commitment to satisfying your customers, while maintaining an efficient service operation, is apparent and I am proud to be associated with a professional like you.

The Cincinnati Region and Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A. congratulates you on a job well done! With your efforts, Toyota will reach its goal of "#1" in customer satisfaction. Keep up the extra effort

Sincerely,

Bob Waltz
Regional Service Manager

Prestonsburg Junior Basketball

Games played Saturday, Feb. 10
VARSITY LEAGUE
Pistons vs Sonics
 Coach Mike Potter's Pistons team defeated Bobby Spencer's Sonics, 53-39, in varsity play last Saturday afternoon at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Brian Hunter led the Pistons in scoring with 16 points. Chris Potter tossed in 15 and Barry Clark hit double figures with 10 points. Ryan Ortega had five points in the victory while John Bingham added three. Greg Hunter and Larry Morris tossed in two points each.
 Jason Spencer led the Sonics with 12 points. Jason Burke and Jeremy Burke each scored nine points. James Joseph had seven points while Tom Slone tossed in two.
 The Pistons led by one, 15-14, after one quarter of play. The Sonics were only able to score two points in the second period as they fell behind 21-16 at the half.
Lakers vs Bulls
 Jeremy Hall scored a game high 25 points to lead his team, the Lakers, to a 62-57 win over the Bulls in the second game of the varsity league Saturday afternoon. Hall had 10 field goals, one three-pointer and two free throws in scoring his 25 points. Chad Caldwell had a good game with 20 points for the Lakers. Seth Hyden added eight points while teammate Bret James was scoring five points. Newman and Spurlock had two points each.
 The Bulls were led by David Gearheart's 16 points. S. Damron tossed in 15 and A. Howell scored 14. Greg Jones added 12 points.

TRAINING LEAGUE
Sixers vs Lakers
 The Sixers remained undefeated with a perfect 8-0 record as they defeated a good Lakers group, 40-24, in training league action Saturday.
 Neal Hamilton was high scorer for the Sixers with 14 points. Wesley Sammons added 11. A. Jarvis had five points in the game and a duo of players tossed in four points, K. Conley and B. Stumbo. M. Slone scored two points in the game.
 Only two players scored for the Lakers. Holbrook had 13 points and Castle chipped in with 11.
Pistons vs Bulls
 In a close one (and this league seems to have its share of close ones), the Bulls won over the Pistons, 31-29. The Bulls scored 16 points in the final quarter to overcome a 21-15 deficit and win the game.
 John Ortega led all scorers with 27 points, scoring 14 in the final quarter, to lead the Bulls to victory. J.W. Stephens added four points.
 For the Pistons, R. Music tossed in 15 points and T. Taulbee added eight points. J. Skeens had four points and N. Peters added two.
Sonics vs Hawks
 In another close one, the Sonics got by the Hawks, 22-16, behind the 10-point scoring of Shawn Ousley. The Sonics led at the half, 10-8, and were up by four, 16-12, at the end of the third period.
 Ryan Hardee had six points for the Sonics, and a trio of players hit for two points each: Joe Campbell, Jody Hurt and Buck Combs.
 Seth Crisp tossed in 10 points for the Hawks and Nathan Fannin had six points in the loss.

JUNIOR VARSITY
Celtics vs Pistons
 The Celtics bested the Pistons, 33-30, in a barn burner Saturday afternoon at the Prestonsburg gym. Tom Nunnemaker led all scorers with 13 points. J. Stanley had six points and W. Meade had five. C. Spurlock tossed in four points and teammate B. White added three. J. Caudill netted two points in the win.
 J.P. Skeens and Jeremy Osborne led the Pistons with seven points each. T. Farler scored five points as did M. Gillespie. Jason Osborne, S. Branham and B. Price scored two points each.
Bulls vs Hawks
 The Hawks fell to the Bulls, 40-34, in JV action Saturday. R. Lemaster tossed in 18 points for the winning Bulls team. B. Pugh had six points, and Z. Shepherd and J. Hackworth added four each. Four players scored two points each for the winning Bulls: J. Shepherd, T. Lansdale, C. Wiesner and M. Castle.
 C. Hicks led the Hawks with 14 points. A. Damron had five points and N. Newsome and J. Blackburn added four each. D. Perry had three points. J. Luster and R. Young netted two points each.
Sixers vs Lakers
 Big second and third quarters for the Sixers helped them to defeat a good Lakers team, 47-29, in JV action Saturday. Marsillett had 14 points to lead the Sixers in scoring. Frazier added 10 points and Kiser tossed in eight as did McGuire. P. Hall netted four points and Clark scored three. Bellamy and Potter each had one point.
 For the Lakers, Morris had eight points. Pack scored six. Leste and Burchett added four each. Halehill had three points while Cornett and Burke scored two points.

Collins brothers make verbal commitment to Richland

Two Paintsville High School standouts, Chris and Craig Collins, one a former player, gave their verbal commitment last Tuesday to play basketball at Richland Community College in Decatur, Ill., next season.
 Chris Collins, a high school standout at Paintsville a year ago, has been attending the University of Kentucky where he has done well academically. He will transfer to Richland College with a 3.0 GPA. Collins averaged 19.1 points per game, four assists and five rebounds.
 Craig Collins is enjoying a very good season with the Paintsville Tigers.
 "We are happy to have been able to secure the services of two players of the caliber of Chris and Craig," coach Jim LeMaster stated. "We feel that they can come in and contribute immediately to a program that has been dissipated this season by injuries of every type."
 "We look forward to getting the Collinses on campus, and feel they will have very rewarding careers at Richland."

NAMING THE UNMENTIONABLE

There is a new breed of television commercial on the air that recognizes the patient's desire to take responsibility for his own health care. These new television spots are all remarkable for their failure to mention the name of the medications they promote. The reason for this is that the law prohibits drug manufacturers from naming prescription medications on television. Instead, the commercials will name specific symptoms, and then encourage viewers to ask their doctor or pharmacist about suitable prescription medications made by the manufacturer. Those who wish to follow through on these television "mysteries" need only ask the pharmacist for the answer.
 Pharmacists at COOLEY APOTHECARY look forward to meeting the complete pharmaceutical needs of every member of your family, so if you would like us to help you solve that medication "mystery" or need assistance choosing on over-the-counter remedy, ask us first. Everyday low prices are available on prescriptions so for accurate, sound and safe advice you will find us located at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

PHS has a winner in academic team

PHS has a winner in Academic Team

Prestonsburg High School's Academic Team won its fifth consecutive district championship in the Kentucky Governor's Cup academic competition Saturday.

Students who placed in individual categories are Ernest Croot, second place, math; Mike Partington, third place, math; Byron Crider, first place, social studies; Dustin Haley, first place, science; Stacy Webb, first place, language arts, and Kevin Adams, first place, English composition.

In team events, Prestonsburg took first place in both Future Problem Solving and Quick Recall. Kim Home, Wendy Reed, Paul Horn and Brian Stewart were future problem solvers who presented the best solution to the nuclear arms race.

Byron Crider, Ernie Croot, Dustin Haley, Stacy Webb, Mike Partington, Mark Blackburn, Mamata Majumdar and Jody Wallen were the victorious quick recallers.

The PHS academic team must now prepare for the upcoming regional competition of the Governor's Cup. PHS will host that competition. The quick recall tournament, open to the public, is set for Feb. 24 at 1 p.m.

Spelling Bee winner

Steve Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Goodman of Eastern, was the winner of the Maytown Grade School Spelling Bee and competed in the countywide spelling bee at Prestonsburg Elementary School Friday.

National Science Center offers student workshops

Students in Kentucky and other southeastern states are eligible to attend free workshops in science, mathematical problem solving, electronics and computer science this summer at the National Science Center in Fort Gordon, Ga.

NSC will host students in grades 9-12 for TRACK, Technical Resource Applications through Communication and Knowledge, summer workshops. The workshops were jointly developed by NSC and Oak Ridge Associated Universities.

Student courses and dates include:

—Physically Phyt (physical science) is designed for ninth grade students who need an introduction or review of basic physics concepts and principles. It offers a variety of hands-on activities beginning with scientific classifications, building simple machines and planning a total environment. June 24-29 and July 22-27.

—Math Triathlon, also for ninth graders, lets students perform activities using strategies to solve real life problems. Population sampling, painted cube problems and probability games will be included. June 24-29 and July 8-13.

—Compu-TRACK, designed for the IBM-compatible computer, introduces basic computing skills. Students will learn to create, edit and print documents in a word processing package, as well as explore Lotus and dBase software packages. June 10-15 and July 22-27.

—Electro-Charged (electronics) offers instruction in the basic techniques of soldering and practical applications of AC and DC circuits and meters. June 10-15 and July 8-13.

The workshops are free, as is housing, according to an NSC spokesperson. Students will be responsible for their own transportation to Fort Gordon, located near Augusta in eastern Georgia. Meals and recreational activities will be offered at reduced rates.

Application deadline is April 16.

For more information or to register for the 1990 TRACK Summer Workshops, contact Gerri Jones, National Science Center, ATZH-NSC-E, Bldg. 25722, Fort Gordon, Ga. 30905-5689; telephone 404/791-7862/2009.

Conference for parents of children with handicaps set for March 17

The fourth annual Kentucky Parent/Professional Conference on Children with Handicaps, coordinated by the Directions Service Center, will be held March 17 at the Harley Hotel located on Paris Pike in Lexington, from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

The focus of the conference is building confident parents and sensitive professionals. A variety of topics will be offered dealing with parenting a child with handicaps. Representatives from community and state agencies as well as parent organizations will be available at the Information Fair.

lunch will be provided for all applicants and conference confirmations will be sent by mail with a waiting list in case of cancellations.

Overnight accommodations are available before or after the conference and can be made directly with the hotel at 1-800-321-2323, with state rates available for conference members.

For more information contact Marie Lunger at the Directions Service Center at 1-800-234-0497 by Friday, Feb. 16.

Named to KSU list

Parent's Rights

By Joyce Everly

Harvest For The Future

If you give a man a fish, he will have a meal.
If you teach him to fish, he will have a living.

If you are thinking a year, sow seed.
If you are thinking ten years ahead, plant a tree.
If you are thinking one hundred years ahead, EDUCATE THE PEOPLE.

By sowing seed, you will harvest once.
By planting a tree, you will harvest tenfold.

Kuan-tzu, Chinese sage

In excerpts from J. Cy Rowell's article on "The Five Rights of Parents", Right One — to be informed about teachers and principals — he states: "Each September school officials want detailed information about the students. Parents are requested to complete registration forms and to submit last year's report cards. Nurses want health records. Teachers ask about the hobbies and interests of the children. And administrators want to know which parents live on federally owned property and which parental incomes qualify the children for free lunches."

However, how many of you reading this column know where your child's teacher got his/her degree, what their education emphasis was, what evaluation they received from the educational supervisor. How many years of experience does your child's teacher have? Has he/she attended special workshops? Has he/she received any awards for outstanding work?

The same questions could and should apply to the principal of the school your child attends.

Teachers and principals throughout this county know about your child's health, likes and dislikes, home life (if your child is the least bit outgoing) and they probably know a lot about your financial situation, too.

In my opinion, you should know more about your child's teacher's professional background than you do now.

One of the biggest problems Floyd County's school system has faced, through the years of community and state scrutiny, is communication. Communication between and among teachers/student, parent/teacher, administration/parent and administration/community. I see the "right to be informed about your child's teacher and principal" as a starting point to remedy this ongoing and often frustrating problem.

In conclusion, Rowell tells us: "The distribution to parents of biographical sketches and data about the staff should be an intentional and routine practice. Just as the schools need certain information on students, parents have a right to expect and to receive comparable information on the school's personnel. The parental right to be informed about the teachers and principal is the essential starting point in building parental confidence in a school."

Geography expert

STEWART ROBERTSON

Stewart Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robertson of Prestonsburg, won the Geography Bee at Prestonsburg Elementary School on Monday, Feb. 5 and now has a chance to compete for a $25,000 national prize.

A seventh grade student of Social Studies teacher Gwen Hammonds, Robertson answered the most oral questions on geography correctly and has completed the first round of the second annual National Geography Bee sponsored by National Geographic World, the society's magazine for children, Amtrak and Kudos Snacks.

The bee began at the individual schools across the country on Jan. 29. The winners of these competitions took written tests to compete on the state level. The top 100 students across the state will be eligible to compete in the Kentucky State Bee on March 10.

Interviewing Santa

Reporters Shane Stevens and Megan McHale, both of Prestonsburg, interviewed Santa (Josh Collins of Staffordsville) and Mrs. Claus (Katy Mueller of Tomahawk) about the meaning of Christmas at Our Lady of the Mountains School's December PTO meeting. Each grade presented a program.

Vocational education celebrated this week

National Vocational Education Week is this week, Feb. 11-17, and schools and industries across the country are observing this year's theme "Vocational Education — It Works."

According to officials at Mayo State Vocational Technical School, vocational education is the fastest growing area of education today. More than 26,000 institutions offer vocational education programs with more than 18 million Americans enrolled.

Students in these programs are preparing for a wide range of careers in industry, marketing, distribution of goods and services, agriculture, health and business.

Through classroom instruction and a variety of on-the-job or simulated work experiences, students develop both specific occupational skills and sound work habits to make them valuable employees, the Mayo officials said.

Bureau of Labor Statistics figures indicate that more than 80 percent of the jobs in the 1990s will require an increasingly high level of technical skills, such as those taught in vocational education programs.

Citizens are invited to visit Mayo, located on Third Street in Paintsville, during this week. For more information, call 780-5321

WHS students support drug war

by Lisa Johnson

Fifty Wheelwright High School students are supporting the "War on Drugs."

Norma Fairchild, the school's SADD adviser, received a petition from the Kentucky Department of Education. The petition was started by Courtney Wright, who won the Miss National Teenager Pageant and who has requested that Kentucky's high school students sign a petition supporting the "War on Drugs." Wright will receive an audience with President George Bush to present the petitions.

Fairchild sent the petition to Rosemary Weddington, director of the Division of Recognition and Special Events, who will send petitions to Wright. The petitions are to be bound into a book and presented to the President. With this gesture, Kentucky teenagers will show the president that they support his efforts.

FBLA Week at BLHS

The week of Feb. 11-17 has been declared future Business Leaders Week at Betsy Layne High School. The FBLA is established to promote better business by educating the business leaders of tomorrow and by creating greater interest and understanding of America's business enterprise system.

Several in-school activities have been planned for this week to encourage students to get involved in FBLA.

The FBLA at Betsy Layne High School has elected 1989-90 officers. They are Stephanie Conn, president; Andrea Newsome, vice president; Jessica Damron, secretary; Sabrina Cooley, treasurer; Leslie Porter, reporter; Paulette Mitchell, historian; and Sherella McClanahan, parliamentarian.

Two of the activities already performed by the FBLA this year include a food drive for Thanksgiving, with proceeds going to God's Pantry in West Prestonsburg and in December the collection of toys which were donated to needy children in the area.

MSU slates open house

Morehead State University's admission office has scheduled an Open House for Saturday, Feb. 24, for prospective students to visit the campus and learn about MSU programs.

"This activity is designed for students and their parents to see the campus, to talk directly to individual faculty members and learn what opportunities are available," said Alan Baldwin, coordinator of recruiting activities. "A special treat of this day is the family will be our guests at the men's and women's basketball games."

The afternoon program begins with registration at 1 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center, followed by a tour of academic program and student organization exhibits.

Representatives from admissions, financial aid, housing, student development, campus organizations and academic areas will be on hand to answer specific questions. A special information session on financial aid and how to pay for college has also been planned.

A tour of the campus and visits to the residence halls and athletic facilities are scheduled prior to the basketball games.

For those unable to attend this event, another open house is slated for March 31.

Who's Who inductee

Denise Bush, daughter of Freddy and Glenda Bush of Harold, has been nominated to Who's Who in Kentucky Future Business Leaders of America. She will be recognized for her achievement at the FBLA Regional Conference at Morehead in March. Bush is a senior at Betsy Layne High School and plans to attend college in the fall and major in accounting.

Accepted

Rodney A. Stevens, a senior at Transylvania University, has been accepted for the 1990-91 school term by the University of Kentucky School of Dentistry.

He is the son of Jack and Joyce Stevens of Garrett.

Crystal Dawn Martin, daughter of David and Cathie Martin of Halo, is the winner of the spelling bee at W.D. Osborne Elementary School. A sixth grader in Sherry Morris' class, she is active in her church and Girl Scouts and plays on the Wheelwright Lady Trojans basketball team. Her grandparents are Fon and Eloise Martin and Evelyn Hall of Halo and Elsie Sanders and Dorothy Davis of Ypsilanti, Mich.

Young author

Ashleigh Nicole Frasure, daughter of Kim and Ronald Frasure Jr. of Prestonsburg, was recently presented with a Certificate of Recognition for distinguished accomplishment in short story writing. Her story was entitled "Winter Wonderland." She is in Virginia Davis' third grade class at Prestonsburg Elementary School.

UK offers mining Scholarships

The University of Kentucky mining engineering department is offering 1990 fall semester scholarships to outstanding high school seniors.

Valued at $1,000 to $2,000 per semester, the scholarships provide "an excellent opportunity for both men and women," said G.T. Lineberry, assistant professor of mining. "The career opportunities for technically-trained individuals in mineral-related fields is unlimited."

Lee Saperstein, chairman of the UK mining engineering department, says that well-qualified coal mining engineers are in great demand. "All of our graduates have found a good paying job within the first three months of graduation," he said.

To find out more about mining engineering and the scholarships, students in Eastern Kentucky may contact UK's Lineberry at 257-8026, or Danny Belcher in Dorton, 639-6275.

Prizes offered for best essay on Civil War

The General Humphrey Marshall Camp of the Sons of Confederate Veterans is sponsoring an essay contest for high school and junior college students in Eastern Kentucky to raise awareness and interest in the region's Civil War heritage.

Prizes are a $100 savings bond for first place and $50 savings bond for second and third place entries. Prizes will be awarded to the winners at the Confederate Memorial Day Ceremony in Paintsville on June 3.

The focus of the essay must be the Eastern Kentucky area during the Civil War, 1861-65, and the essay may examine Union, Confederate or civilian topics as they relate to this region. Double-spaced typed, the essay must be from 500 to 2,000 words in length and include a bibliography.

Maps and photographs may be included, and the use of family papers, such as letters, diaries and photographs, is encouraged.

Entries must be accompanied by the student's name, address, telephone number and school name. Deadline for entries is May 7.

Graduates ALC

Karla Stumbo Dean, daughter of Clark and Carolyn Stumbo of McDowell, is a December graduate of Alice Lloyd College in Pippa Passes. She majored in business and received a 3.75 grade point average during the last semester. A cheerleader, she was a member of the ALC Student Government Association, The Talon yearbook staff and Business Club. She resides with her husband Caleb Dean, also an ALC graduate, and their 11-month-old daughter Heather Renee at McDowell.

Tiger Day planned at Georgetown

High school juniors and seniors from Kentucky are invited to attend the annual student visitation day, Tiger Day, Saturday, Feb. 17, at Georgetown College.

The spring visitation day to the campus enables prospective students and their parents to have the opportunity to tour Georgetown College and to meet and talk with faculty. A program filled with vital college entrance information and entertainment, Tiger Day also features interviews and auditions for fine arts grants, sessions on financial aid and competitive exams for science and math scholarships.

Registration for the day-long event begins at 8 a.m. in the Cralle Student Center. The opening session follows at 9:15 a.m. in the John L. Hill Chapel.

For more information contact: Admissions Office, Georgetown College, Georgetown, KY 40324-1696, or call (502) 863-8009.

The Floyd County Education Forum encourages community involvement in our school system. We were disappointed to read that the State's consultant puts citizen efforts in such a negative light.

SUBJECT: PROGRESS REPORT ON FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOLS

The challenges facing the Floyd County Schools are enormous and the fiscal resources available to them are severely limited. Even more crippling to their educational progress, is the maneuvering of those individuals and groups "out of power" to subvert the actions of those empowered to move the district forward. Oftentimes, in this struggle, sight of developing educational programs for children is dimmed.

In the search for a realistic view of the Floyd County School System, one must look at both its negative and positive aspects. If one only sees the schools from the negative perspective taken by some outspoken citizen and employee groups, this will not result in lasting improvements that are necessary to achieve the excellence referred to in the curriculum audit and in other published studies of recent months. In any event, if long-term improvements are to be realized they must come from within the local structure itself and not from interventions.

Both research and experience indicate that to have quality schools there must be an effective leader in each school. The principal is usually that designated person. Therefore, those who are serving as principals must be fully trained and efforts made to elevate them to the fifth level of Maslow's hierarchy—self-actualization. When they are functioning at this level of effectiveness, coupled with the proper support and supervision of their superiors and adequacy in financing, an appropriate level of pupil growth and achievement can be expected.

Making Education Count for ALL Kentuckians

Working together, we can give our children the message that we want the BEST SCHOOL SYSTEM in the state.

Poster contest open to students in grade schools

Kentucky school children in grades one, three and five are eligible to enter the "Color Me Beautiful...Like You" poster contest, sponsored by the state Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services and the Kentucky Developmental Disabilities Planning Council.

The theme of the 1990 contest is to evoke images of all children attending school together and "to provoke thought and compassion in school children for those who are disabled," said Mental Health/Mental Retardation Services Commissioner Dennis Boyd.

All children who complete a poster will receive a certificate of participation. State winners will receive a $100 check and an expense-free trip to Frankfort for the child, a parent and the child's teacher. The trip will include a guided tour of the state Capitol.

Posters will be judged for each grade at the local school, county and state level. Contest winners will be announced in March, which has been proclaimed "Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month."

Last year, 1700 children from 50 school districts entered the contest, Boyd said.

Wins Harold 'Bee'

Deanna Spears, a fifth grader, was the winner of the Harold Grade School spelling bee. She is the 10-year-old daughter of James and Ruth Spears.

Party celebrates good conduct at OLM School

Our Lady of the Mountains School celebrated its December conduct honor roll students with a special party planned by parent volunteer Amy Ball of Prestonsburg.

Red balloons contributed to the festive environment. White tablecloths with "Write on Me" and crayons on them invited creativity and served as gameboards for "Hangman." The students also played Bingo and Simon Says. Winners received candy prizes, and refreshments were served.

Honored were: Grade 2, Jack Absher and Allison Ball of Prestonsburg, Katie Karn of Whitehouse and Princess Witten of Staffordsville; Grade 3, Kristina Arriola and Megan McHale of Paintsville, Lindsay Bailey of Salyersville, Joshua Fitch of Van Lear, Adam Hutchinson of Langley, Jacob Karn of Whitehouse and Pawan Maddiwar of Martin; Grade 4, Jilleyn Brown of Prestonsburg, Abigail Rodriguez of Warfield and Ann Hall of David.

Grade 5, Rebecca Daniels of Prestonsburg, Marty Hall of David and Pallavi Maddiwar of Martin; Grade 6, Sherill Chua of Paintsville, Mark Rivera of Prestonsburg and Stephanie Sizemore of Martin; Grade 7, Lori Holbrook of Prestonsburg, and Grade 8, Tara Pickrel of Prestonsburg.

Practical Ideas for Parents To Help Their Children
Published weekly by the Floyd County Board of Education's Office of Instruction
Gary K. Frazier, Assistant Superintendent

February is "I Love You" Month

February is a month when we think about love. And it's a good time to make a special effort to show your love for your child.

There is no age limit for telling a child you love him/her—teenagers need to hear you say it as much as grade schoolers do. Here are some ideas on how to do it:

*Each day during this month, make a habit of telling your child something you like about him/her. You may want to do it at a regular time, perhaps at bedtime.

*Sometimes actions speak louder than words. A simple hug or a smile can often say more than a lengthy compliment.

*Try leaving notes for your child. You can tuck a note in a jacket pocket, post a note on the refrigerator, or include it in a lunch box. These notes will remind your child of your love even when you're not together.

Branham is Miss Red, White and Blue

by Haley Caudill and Amy Allen
On Oct. 12, Shelia Branham was chosen Floyd County's Miss Red, White and Blue.

"I was very nervous. I didn't think I had a chance," said Branham, a 17-year-old senior at Wheelwright High School and the daughter of Charlotte Branham.

She was escorted by John Ferrari, 16, a junior and the son of Louis and Linda Ferrari.

Dyslexia is program topic

The East Kentucky Tutorial Program of the Hindman Settlement School will conduct its spring Parent Tutor Workshop on Feb. 17-18.

The workshop introduces parents, educators and other interested persons to the learning problems of children with dyslexic characteristics. It is planned for the May Stone Building on the Settlement campus from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday and 1-4 p.m. on Sunday.

In case of snow, the workshop will be the following weekend.

The first day will be especially helpful to teachers and principals who are interested in learning more about dyslexia, according to school officials.

For information on the free workshop, call 785-5475.

Branham was elected as Wheelwright's representative by the student body. She then went on to compete in county competition at McDowell High School where she was viewed by a panel of judges who were looking for poise, grace and overall appearance. Each high school in the county had a representative.

"When I won, I was really shocked. I had no idea or confidence that I would win," said Branham.

For being chosen Miss Red, White and Blue, she received a crown, a trophy and a rose. She also rode in the annual Red, White and Blue Day Parade in Martin.

David students seek information

Kathy Hanon's history class at The David School is studying prohibition and moonshining in the mountains, and students are seeking first-hand information from persons in the area.

Persons who have information about experiences with making illegal whiskey and about the time when the use of liquor was banned nationwide should call Okie at 886-3834, after 3 p.m., or call the school at 886-8374 to leave a message.

Celebrating FBLA Week

The week of Feb. 11-17 has been proclaimed Future Business Leaders of America week in Prestonsburg by Mayor Ann Latta. FBLA is a national student organization that teaches business leadership skills to high school students, as well as helps them develop an understanding of the free enterprise system. With Mayor Latta for the proclamation signing are officers of the Prestonsburg High School FBLA, from left, Jennifer Ousley, reporter; John Clark, parliamentarian; Sabrina Martin, president; Missy Newsome, secretary; Wilma Miller, treasurer, and Patricia Click, vice president. Club sponsor is Judy Combs.

WE INVITE YOU TO LEARN ABOUT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

A person who feels called to membership in the Catholic Church should contact a local parish. There are people there who are ready to help as you listen for the leading of the Holy Spirit. A Catholic friend, neighbor, or family member will often be happy to accompany you on these first steps.

If you are already baptized:
It is the policy of the Catholic Church that persons who are already validly baptized in another Christian community are not rebaptized if they choose to join the Catholic Church. Instead, they are received into full communion with the Catholic Church, confirmed, and then invited to participate in the Eucharist for the first time with the Catholic Church.

If you are not already baptized:
Adults who are not already baptized and wish to join the Catholic Church will be initiated in stages in the midst of the community. The sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and first Eucharist are the three Sacraments of Initiation which bring a person into full membership in the Catholic Church. Parish communities will pray and walk with a person along the faith journey.

Pregnant teens focus of OLWH program

In view of Floyd County's ranking third in the state in teen pregnancy, the WOMANCARE program at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin is initiating a childbirth preparation program for pregnant teens.

The "I Love My Baby" program, scheduled to begin Feb. 27, is an eight-week program for expectant teens and their support persons.

The program is designed to provide expectant teens who are two to four months from their due date the opportunity to meet with other young women who are faced with similar experiences, decision and fears, according to the hospital's health education officials. The program will include various practical experiences that may lead to a more relaxed pregnancy, labor and birth.

Karen Potnis, CNM, certified nurse midwife at the Potnis Clinic in Martin, is the instructor. The childbirth classes will present pre-birth experiences, such as learning relaxation and breathing patterns, seeing a film of a vaginal and a cesarean birth and learning ways to recognize the signs of labor.

In addition, the teen program will include practical suggestions on coping with the responsibilities of being a parent in the teen years and familiarize teens with various social programs available to give assistance to mothers and their babies. The program will cover post delivery care, including breastfeeding, bottle feeding and general care of newborns.

Classes will be each Tuesday at Seton Complex from 4:30-6 p.m. Cost will be worked out on an individual basis and should not prevent anyone from participating, officials said.

Teens who are interested in the "I Love My Baby" program should call 285-5181, ext. 358, for more information or come by the health education office, located across the street from the hospital, to register in person.

Folk dance evening set for Hindman

The Hindman Settlement School will have its monthly folk dance evening on Saturday, Feb. 24, in the May Stone building at 7:30 p.m.

Musicians will be Randy Wilson, Lee Sexton, Marion Sumner and Donley Shepherd. The free event is open to inexperienced, as well as experienced dancers and is cosponsored by the Kentucky Arts Council.

Burke, Zervos wed

Teresa Faye Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Burke of Hager Hill, was married to Peter Zervos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zervos of Philadelphia, Pa., on Saturday, Dec. 30, in Indianapolis, Ind. The bride graduated from the University of Kentucky and the groom from Temple University. Both are biologists for Eli Lilly and Company in Indianapolis.

Arts Council sets deadlines

The Kentucky Arts Council has announced deadlines for 1990-91 grants to support and develop the arts in Kentucky communities.

Applications are being accepted for Artists in Residence, Community Artist Residencies and Project grants, according to a news release from the council.

The Project Grant was designed to provide opportunities for Kentucky nonprofit organizations to enhance or complement their arts programs. Projects may focus on the development of arts organizations and the art forms they present, community arts development, support for Kentucky artists and arts education.

The Community Artist Residency Program supports the work of outstanding people in Kentucky communities and neighborhoods. Its purpose is to promote individual and community self-expression, exploration and pride essential to both community and arts development.

Applications for Project and Community Artist Residency grants must be postmarked by March 15.

Artists in Residence grants place outstanding professional artists in residencies in Kentucky schools and communities to work, demonstrate their art forms and share ideas, creativity and talents. These applications must be postmarked no later than April 2.

Persons interested in information on initiating new arts events in their communities or in helping to further existing arts programming are encouraged to contact the Council for guidelines. Staff is available to advise on organizing new arts groups, program planning and grant preparation.

The Kentucky Arts Council, a division of the Kentucky Department of the Arts, is a 16-member citizens board appointed by the governor, which receives grant applications and disperses funds.

For information, write the council at Berry Hill Mansion, Frankfort 40601; or call 502/564-3757.

Parent Center looks for office

The Floyd County Parent Resource Center is in need of donated wheelchair accessible office space in or near Prestonsburg. The center operates 32 hours per week.

The center provides support, advocacy and printed information to parents of special needs children in Floyd and surrounding counties. In operation for 2-1/2 years, the center is currently housed on the third floor of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in Prestonsburg. It is a tax exempt, nonprofit, United Way agency.

Persons with suggestions for available space may call 886-8572, ext. 58, or 886-1723, or write Floyd County Parent Resource Center, c/o MCCC, PO Box 1340, Prestonsburg 41653.

Clogging classes slated for PCC

Three levels of clogging classes will begin at Prestonsburg Community College on Monday, Feb. 19. Judy Hensley of Salyersville is the instructor.

Beginning clogging will meet from 6-7 p.m.; beginning-plus from 7:15-8:15; and advanced from 8:30-9:30. Classes will run for eight weeks, through April 9, in room 102 of the Pike building on campus.

Clogging is a form of solo step dance related to both tap dancing and Irish-Scottish folk dancing. It is frequently combined with western or mountain square dancing and can be performed as a line dance. In addition to providing participants with an enjoyable pastime, it is a form of aerobic exercise.

For information or to register, call PCC's office of continuing education and community service, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Hamilton arrives at Texas station

Army Pvt. David R. Hamilton has arrived for duty at Fort Hood, Texas. Hamilton is an indirect-fire infantryman with the 67th Army Regiment.

He is the son of David A. and Karen Hamilton of Stanville and a 1988 graduate of Betsy Layne High School.

Just 3 shy of 100

Lura Stafford Moore of West Prestonsburg celebrated her 97th birthday Dec. 23. The daughter of the late Grace Gibbs and Carl Stafford of Paintsville, she is believed to be the oldest living Stafford. Better known to her friends as Granny, she says she's looking forward to her 100th birthday. She is the mother of Wade Moore, Opal Bolen and Grace Moore of Prestonsburg and Mable Hicks of East Point.

Study on marital rape releases findings

Forty-five percent of 666 women interviewed in Kentucky Spouse Abuse Centers in 1989 had been raped by their husbands or live-in partners, according to preliminary survey results released recently by the Kentucky Domestic Violence Association.

In one of the most extensive studies of spousal rape ever conducted, Kentucky Spouse Abuse Programs interviewed shelter residents and non-resident counseling clients to determine the extent and severity of sexual abuse in client populations.

Women were interviewed within 72 hours of entering shelter or prior to their sixth non-resident counseling session. Since clients entering shelter were in crisis, interviews were not conducted during the first 24 hours of residence. During the one-year study period beginning Jan. 1, 1989, shelter staff interviewed about 30 percent of the women entering the shelter for the first time that year.

Victims identified by this year-long study of marital rape, ranged in age from 16 to 72. Of 299 women responding that their current spouse or live-in partner had forced sexual relations, 57 percent were forced to have sex after being beaten, 30 percent were forced to have oral-genital sex, 30 percent were forced to have anal intercourse, and 48 women (16 percent) described being penetrated by a variety of objects including bottles, plastic toys, wooden spoons, belt buckles and, in one instance, a lead pipe. (Percentages exceed 100 because women reported multiple assaults and multiple sexual acts.)

Eight percent of the women were forced to have sex in the presence of others, including their children and husband's relatives and friends. Seventy-eight percent of the women had children living in the home at the time of the assault.

"I believe that these findings are indicative of the scope and seriousness of sexual assault in marriage," commented Helen Kinton, president of the Kentucky Domestic Violence Association. "It is clear that we must take immediate action to protect the health and safety of women and children in the Commonwealth."

Kentucky is one of the only 12 states that do not recognize marital rape as a crime. Rep. Marshall Long (D-Shelbyville) has introduced legislation (H.B. 38) to remove the marital rape exemption from Kentucky's sexual assault statutes.

County Kettle

Is a feature offered by the Floyd County Times. Send all recipes, kitchen tips and suggestions to "County Kettle," The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653

While truffles are considered a delicacy, they also are surprisingly easy to make at home. In fact, that little extra personal touch often is more appreciated by your Valentine. This Valentine's day—in addition to the "Earl Grey Be My Valentine" Truffles—why not lavish your loved one with an array of homemade offerings including the "Sweetheart's Gateau," and "Tea for Two Cookie." And to cap it all off, steal their heart by sharing sips of Earl Grey's "Stolen Heart!"

EARL GREY "BE MY VALENTINE" TRUFFLES

2 Tbsps unsalted butter, softened
 2 Tbsps powdered sugar
 2 tsp honey
 8 ozs semisweet chocolate, broken into pieces
 1/3 cup heavy cream
 3 Tbsps Earl Grey English Liqueur
 1 cup whole hazelnuts or almonds, shelled, toasted and skins removed 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa powder

 1/2 tsp ground cinnamon

In a medium mixing bowl, beat butter about 30 seconds. Add sugar and honey. Beat until light and fluffy. Set aside. In top of double boiler, melt chocolate over simmering water, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat. Add heavy cream and Earl Grey English Liqueur; stir until well blended. Cool. Add chocolate mixture to butter mixture. Beat until light and fluffy. Chill, covered, for 1 hour or until firm, but pliable.

Meanwhile, set 36 hazelnuts aside. Finely chop remaining. In a small bowl, combine cocoa powder and cinnamon. Line a baking sheet with waxed paper. Using hands, form mixture around whole hazelnuts with waxed paper. Using hands, form mixture around whole hazelnuts to make 1-inch balls. Lightly roll truffles in cocoa mixture, then in remaining chopped hazelnuts. (If mixture becomes too soft, return to refrigerator halfway through assembly of truffles.) Makes 36.

TEA FOR TWO COOKIES

3 cups all-purpose flour
 1 tsp baking powder
 1/2 tsp ground ginger
 1 cup unsalted butter, softened
 1 cup granulated sugar
 1 egg
 5-1/2 Tbsps Earl Grey English Liqueur
 1 cup sifted powdered sugar
 Several drops red food coloring

In a medium mixing bowl, stir together flour, baking powder and ground ginger. In a large mixing bowl, beat butter for 30 seconds. Add sugar; beat until fluffy. Add egg and 3 tablespoons of the Earl Grey English Liqueur. Beat until well blended. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture, mixing well after each addition. Turn dough on a lightly floured surface. Knead gently until well combined.

Form dough into a ball. Wrap in plastic wrap; chill several hours. On lightly floured surface, roll chilled dough to 1/4-inch thickness. Using a 4-inch heart-shaped cookie cutter, cut out cookies. Place cut-out cookies on ungreased baking sheets. Bake on low rack in a 325 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until cookies just begin to color lightly (cookies should not brown). Cool on wire rack.

Meanwhile, combine powdered sugar, the remaining Earl Grey English Liqueur and red food coloring; mix well. Using a decorating bag and writing tip, pipe icing over cookies in desired fashion. (Or, using the tip of a small spoon, drizzle icing over cookies in zig-zag fashion.) Makes 14.

EARL GREY SWEETHEART'S GATEAU

8 ozs semisweet chocolate, chopped
 1/2 cup unsalted butter
 7 large eggs, separated
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup Earl Grey English Liqueur
 2 tsps finely shredded orange peel
 3 Tbsps all-purpose flour

1/2 tsp cream of tartar
 Powdered sugar
 White chocolate curls
 Dark chocolate curls
 Red raspberries

Grease and flour a 9-inch springform pan. In top of double boiler, melt chocolate and butter over simmering water, stirring until smooth. Remove pan from water. Cool. In a large mixing bowl, beat egg yolks until light. Gradually add sugar, 1/3 cup of the Earl Grey English Liqueur and the orange peel. Continue beating for 5 minutes or until pale yellow. Add chocolate mixture, mixing lightly until blended.

Sift flour over chocolate mixture, stirring just until flour disappears. Set aside. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Fold whites, half at a time, into chocolate mixture. Pour batter into prepared pan, spreading evenly.

Bake in a 300 degree oven for 50 to 60 minutes or until a wooden pick comes out with a few moist crumbs clinging to it. Remove pan to wire rack. Sprinkle remaining Earl Grey English Liqueur on top of cake. Allow to cool completely in pan, about 1 hour. When cool, remove sides of pan. Invert onto serving platter. Remove bottom of pan. Invert again. Dust cake lightly with powdered sugar. Top with chocolate curls and red raspberries. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

STOLEN HEART

1 oz. Earl Grey English Liqueur
 1/2 oz. Southern Comfort
 Cranberry Juice

BOND CELEBRATES 13TH BIRTHDAY

COOLEYS RETURN FROM FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cooley recently returned from a Florida fishing trip. While in Florida the Cooleys stayed with her sister, Pat Reynolds in Palm Bay. While there they were entertained by her aunt and his uncle, Ruth and Dewey May. Another uncle of Mrs. Cooley's, Herb Patton and wife Zella, visited with them. The Cooleys also visited with former Floyd Countians, Jimmy and Sue Owens in Daytona Beach.

WEBB GREATLY MISSED BY THOSE WHO KNEW HER

Relatives, neighbors and other friends of Mrs. J.O. Webb Sr. were saddened to learn of her death this past week at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg. A quiet reserved and unassuming lady, Mary Margaret Webb dedicated the greater part of her life to her family, her church and her community. To all of them, she seemed to give the assurance, "If you need me, I'll be ready and willing to help you." She'll be greatly missed.

Celebrates 8 years

Scottie Samons, son of Doug and Sherry Samons of Van Lear, celebrated his eighth birthday on Feb. 6 with a party at Archer Park skating rink. The theme of the party was Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

He is the grandson of Walker and Olive Preece of Inez and Mary Samons of Martin.

Attending the event, along with his parents, were Diana and Daniel Wells, Mari Conn, Sherry, Byron and Megan Hall, Brian and Sabrina Wells, Pam, Jessica and Emma Burke, Bryant and Bradley Lafferty, Mike Lynch, J.R. Music and Adam Greene.

The birthday boy, a second grader at Porter Elementary School, said he is grateful to those who attended and for the gifts he received.

REBEKAHS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The regular meeting of the Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 was held Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. with the noble grand Beverly Hackworth presiding. Those on the sick list, and those needing sympathy were recorded. Cards to be mailed to them were signed.

After changes in some of the offices, the following people were installed: Paulena Owens, right supporter to the noble grand; Myrtle Allen, left supporter to the noble grand; and Vina Nuckles, colorbearer. Hope Whitten acted as the installing officer and Lorena Wallen as installing marshal.

Hackworth reported on the visit to the Mountain Manor Nursing Home with several members on Sunday, Feb. 4 where singing and music were enjoyed by the patients and guests.

Hackworth presented a "Certificate of Attendance" to those members with perfect attendance for the last year, these were recorded at the Grand Lodge meeting in Frankfort. Receiving these awards were: Lorena Wallen, Deborah Johns and Dora Johns.

Due to the resignation of Mabel Jean LeMaster as lodge deputy, Whitten was elected to fill this vacancy. Members were reminded of the initiation of Tuesday, Feb. 20 with refreshments to be served at 6 p.m. and were asked to bring either salads, deserts or sandwiches.

Birthday greetings were extended to Margaret Baldrige. A monetary gift for the Kentucky Educational Loan Fund was allowed.

Donna Thomas presented a program from International Level on "The Power of Sharing."

The noble grand asked all appointed officers to assemble in the center of the floor where they were welcomed and thanked for accepting their offices and were presented with vases of flowers with Rebekah decals by the noble grand. So honored were Donna Thomas, Margaret Baldrige, Nuckles, Owens, Allen, Virginia Goble, Norma S. Stepp, Wallen, Debbie Johns, Whitten, Dora Johns, Claudine Johns and Violetta Wright. Others present at the meeting were: Hackworth, Mary Ann Prater, Pearl Robertson and LeMaster. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Feb. 20 at the IOOF Building.

EL HASA WIDOWS CLUB MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Maxine Bierman and Roberta Sloan were in Ashland on Tuesday, Feb. 6, to attend the El Hasa Widows Club at the El Hasa Temple. Bierman, who was elected secretary of the group, says that a membership drive is now underway and that widows of Shriners from all temples are eligible to become members. The next meeting is Tuesday, March 6, in Ashland.

RIFFE VISITED BY GRANDSON

Mary Allene Riffe had with her at her home in Prestonsburg this weekend her grandson Carl Mirzaian of Lexington. They attended services at the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg.

BRIDAL SHOWER HELD FOR CLEVINGER

Janelle Clevenger, bride-elect of Michael Keith Duff, was honored with a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday evening, Jan. 30, at the Happy Hollow Free United Baptist Church, at West Prestonsburg.

The room was decorated in pink and white. The serving table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a bouquet of pink roses intertwined with greenery and flanked with candelabra holding pink candles.

Relatives and friends called throughout the evening, bringing gifts and best wishes. Several others who could not attend sent gifts.

ROSE ON THE ALTAR ANNOUNCE BIRTH

A rose on the altar of the First United Methodist Church of Prestonsburg during services there this past Sunday announced the birth of Ian Frazier Barrett, son of Tonya and Steve Barrett, and grandson of Judy and Keith Kittle, born on Wednesday, Feb. 7, in Huntington, W.Va.

FAMILY TRAVELS NORTH FOR BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Osborne, Jane Bond and Holly and Aaron Bond of Prestonsburg and Mr. and Mrs. William Osborne of Louisville, traveled to Frankfort, Ind., recently for the 85th birthday celebration of Mrs. Henry (Nora) Beavers.

While up north, they also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gagle of Fremont, Ind., Nancy Stampe and John Henry Stampe of Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. E. Osborne is the niece of Beavers and the sister of Mrs. Gagle.

HOMES ATTENDS LOUISVILLE WEDDING

Mrs. Curt Homes has returned to her home here from Simpsonville where she went to attend the wedding of her granddaughter Mia Todd, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Todd, to Peter Smith of New York City, N.Y. The ceremony was held in the Methodist Church of Louisville with a reception for family and friends following.

CERAMICS AND CANASTA OPEN TO CLUB MEMBERS

Members of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club are reminded that a class in ceramics is being taught by Eileen Burchett at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park each Tuesday beginning at 10 a.m. The proceeds from the sale of the finished products go to the club's liability insurance.

Orders for Easter theme ceramics or other mementos may be placed with Burchett or the club's president Phyllis Herrick, or by contacting any member of the club.

Also on Tuesdays at the same location, Maxine Bierman will offer a class in canasta. All club members are invited to attend either or both of these classes.

LAMPLIGHTERS VISIT MOUNTAIN MANOR

The Lamplighters of Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31, under the direction of Beverly Hackworth, visited the Mountain Manor Nursing Home on Sunday of last week. Members of this group were joined by some of the patients in singing "The Old Rugged Cross" and other hymns, accompanied by Debbie Johns on the piano. Visitors included Hackworth, Johns, Myrtle Allen, Dora Johns and Paulena Owens.

Hackworth noted that plans have been made to visit the nursing home on the first Sunday of each month at 2:30 p.m. and invites other members of the Rebekahs to attend.

FDA offers tips for snackers

by Ruth E. Weisheit
Consumer Affairs Officer
Food and Drug Administration

Many people seem to be so rushed there's often no time for three sit-down meals. So we have become like the animals in the field — grazers.

Grazing is becoming a way of life. Grazing can be grabbing the nearest food in order to satisfy a gnawing hunger. But don't try to satisfy the sweet tooth with pseudo-nutritious "healthy" sweets like granola bars says registered dietitian Gail Levey, spokesperson for the American Dietetic Association.

But among teens, indiscriminate snacking often leads to obesity. The good news is that teen-favored cheeseburgers and cheese pizza do provide needed calcium and protein.

For senior citizens, a good snack should be rich in calcium, such as low-fat milk, cubes of low-fat cheese and low-fat yogurt. Whole grain oatmeal cookies, graham crackers and raw fruits and vegetables provide dietary fiber along with vitamins and iron often lacking in the diets of older people.

Snackers must be knowledgeable and read labels to determine which prepared foods are nutritious and which are expendable. Marilyn Stephenson, a registered dietitian at FDA, says, "If you get nutrition wise and develop nutrition literacy, no matter who you are, snacking will work for you."

Newborn care class slated for OLWH

The health education department of Our Lady of the Way Hospital will hold the fourth class in the Childcare Series on Wednesday and Thursday of this week at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The class is for expectant and new parents and will cover sponge and tub bathing, circumcision care, umbilical cord care, diapering, diaper rash, the use of baby products and dressing baby.

Christine Fairchild, RN, from Johnson County Health Department, will be the presenter on Wednesday, Feb. 14, at 10 a.m. Katie Isaac, CRN, of Frontier Nursing will be the presenter Feb. 14 at 1 p.m. Garnett Hall, LPN at Mud Creek Clinic, will be the presenter on Thursday, Feb. 15.

The class is free and a gift for mother or baby will be given to each participant.

METHODIST CHURCH OPENS FAMILY CENTER

The Consecration Service for the Family Life Center of the First United Methodist Church was held this past Sunday during services there. The Chancel Choir, directed by Elizabeth Frazier, went from the main part of the church to the new building singing "Amazing Grace." Along their trek they were joined by several of the 219 in attendance. Speaking briefly were The Rev. Harold Hunger, superintendent of the Methodists' Ashland District, the Rev. Quentin Scholtz, pastor of the host church, and E.E. "Bud" Glenn, a member of the church who rendered a solo written by Gary Brown. From there the group went to the church's fellowship hall, where a bountiful meal, prepared by the women of the church, was enjoyed.

LAMPLIGHTERS VISIT NURSING HOME

Members of the Lamplighters Club met in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church Tuesday, Feb. 6 at 3:45 p.m. with Patsy Evans in charge. Tom Foy opened the meeting with prayer. Present were The Rev. Steve Hopkins, Tom Foy, Patsy and John Evans, Rhoda and Harmon Tussey, Ada Meade, Dolly and Bill Pettrey, Myrtle Allen, Rebecca Rasnick, Judy Hooker, Vivian Fraley, Lucy C. Regan, and Pearl Robertson.

Following a brief meeting and the signing of Valentine's cards most of the group went to the Mountain Manor Nursing Home to deliver the Valentines to residents there and later gathered at Jerry's Restaurant where they enjoyed supper together.

LADIES DAY OUT

"Ladies Day Out" will be observed by the First United Methodist Church on Tuesday, Feb. 20, when several of the UMW will go by church bus to the Pilgrim Blemco Gibson Glass Factories at the Huntington mall. The bus is scheduled to leave at 8 a.m.

WALLACE FAMILY HAS GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace had as their guests on Tuesday afternoon, Eva Collins of Prestonsburg and her houseguest, Fannie Merrit of Louisa. Pie and coffee were served.

On Sunday the Wallaces' guests were Kay Roberts Baird of Pikeville and Judy Roberts Wade of Indiana, who left with them mathematics books which once belonged to their mother, Mae K. Roberts, with the request that they be presented to the Wallaces' daughter, Zella Faye Wallace Wells of Paintsville, who is also a math teacher.

MERRIT IN TOWN

When Fannie Merrit of Louisa arrived here recently for a visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins Sr., they prepared an old fashioned fried chicken and gravy breakfast with all the fixings. Mr. Collins is showing some improvement after his ill health. All three attended church services Sunday.

COLLINS HOST ANNIE ALLEN CIRCLE

The Annie Allen Circle WMU of the First Baptist Church of Prestonsburg met Monday, Feb. 5, at the home of Eva Collins. Lucy Regan, president, gave the scripture reading, and Faye Patton led the group in prayer.

Regan was in charge of the business session. The minutes were read by the secretary, Rebecca Rasnick, treasurer, reported that $11 was collected by Myrtle Allen during the meeting. It was reported that the Lottie Moon goal for this year had not been reached.

The president gave the watchword: "And the King answered and said, 'In as much as you have done it unto the least of these, My Brethren, you have done it unto Me,'" from Matthew, 25:40.

Faye Patton presented the program entitled "The Persistent Heart." She added that the Southern Baptists have a goal to spread the word of God to all the people by the year 2000. She also spoke of mission needs.

Ruby Garrett read 1st John, 3:1, which deals with the matter of judging others and speaking out against them. She also read a list of Baptist missionaries who are observing birthdays during the month of February and led in the prayer for them.

The condition of Beatrice Collins, a member of this group, was discussed and concern for her health along with admiration of her courage throughout the year were expressed.

The hostess used a Valentine motif in decorating her serving table from which a variety of refreshments were served to Fannie Merrit of Louisa, a guest of the Collins family, and members Patton, Garrett, Rasnick, Regan, Dixie Webb, Ruby Lamping, Myrtle Allen, Docia Woods and Gorman Collins Sr.

The next meeting will be held Monday, March 5, at 7 p.m.

Precious Valentine

You're the sunshine when there's a rainy day.
You're the path when I need to find my way.
You were there when I had only one dime.
Every day, every sweet night, be my precious valentine.

Held me like a baby when I had to cry.
You were the rainbow that made my tears dry.
Loving you keeps my good life in line.
Every day, every sweet night, be my precious valentine.

The melody would be a hundred pages long.
The lyrics would withstand old Father Time.

—Thomas J. DeRossett
Van Lear

The Vows Taken

(dedicated to Roger and Trena Hotelling Jr., May God bless them.)
The words we said together
Are the vows that were taken.
We plan everyday of our future we're makin'.

I'll never love another for you have stolen my heart.
And deep down inside
I realize we'll never part.

To love you is but a dream that I have longed for.
And now that I have you
I desire nothing more.

Telling you about my emotions isn't hard to do.
All I have to say is that I love you.

—Linda Oliver
Garrett

Love Is...

Love is a bright, glowing light
That seems to brighten the darkest night.
Love is a brilliant rainbow
That has some magical glow.

Love is a gentle touch
That is shared between two people who love each other so much.
Love is a gentle, warm smile

Love is a special thing...
It makes two people's hearts sing!
Love takes a lot, but it is also giving.
This is what makes life worth living.

Pikeville Hospital sets abuse seminar

A child and spouse abuse seminar will be taught at Methodist Hospital of Kentucky in Pikeville on Feb. 16 by Dr. Mary Fox.

The workshop is part of the nursing continuing education program offered by the hospital. The session begins with registration at 8:30 a.m. in the fifth floor classroom of the hospital.

The workshop is free to employees of the hospital; others will be charged $25. Five contact hours will be awarded for participants.

Dr. Fox will concentrate on how to recognize the signs of abuse, what to look for, what should be reported and the legal aspect of reporting suspected abuse.

For information, contact Jesse Keene, RN, at 437-3525.

Childbirth classes set for Our Lady

Our Lady of the Way Hospital, in collaboration with the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association, will begin the next series of six weekly Childbirth Education Classes on Monday, Feb. 26, at the Seton Complex from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Personnel trained by the Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Association will be the instructors. The series will run through April 2.

A maximum of 10 registrants will be accepted for each series. OLWH recommends early registration in order to secure a place in the class. Interested couples or individuals may register for the Feb. 26 series or for the series which will begin on April 16, by contacting the Community Health Education Office at 285-5181, Ext. 358, for more information.

Sizemores have first baby, a son

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Terry Sizemore of Martin announce the birth of their first child, a son, Dane Steven Sizemore, on Sunday, Jan. 28, at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The baby weighed 7 pounds, 14 ounces and measured 20-1/2 inches.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Merle M. May and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sizemore, all of Martin.

Maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Merritt of Emma and the late Mr. and Mrs. Miles M. May of Martin. Paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stephens of Martin and the late Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sizemore of McDowell.

at the church. The meeting was conducted by Dorothy Stover in the absence of chairperson Phyllis Stanley. The program was entitled "Hope of the Homeless" and was led by Geneva Carter, assisted by Rose Glenn, Nancy Howard and Charlotte McFall. Kathryn Frazier accompanied the group at the piano.

During the business session, the ladies pledged enough to carpet the hallway of the fellowship hall and the entrance to the new Family Life Center which was dedicated Sunday, Feb. 11.

Stover recognized Anna "Baby Annie" Stumbo for her efforts in assisting the United Methodist Women's special missions. Since she was unable to attend, she was presented with a dozen red carnations, a special recognition pin and a thank you note from the group at her home Sunday, Feb. 11.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Mary Sue Moore and Mildred Branham to a new member, Laurie McCutcheon, and other members: Stover, Howard, Glenn, McFall, Harris, Carter, Frazier, Victoria Spradlin, Vera Ford, Gladys Blackburn, Dorothy Marshall, Dorothy Wells, Josephine Fields, Virginia Jefferies, Maurine Mayo, Fannie Runnels, Jane Wallace, Alice Harris, Lee Boswell, Mable Allen, Elizabeth Ramey, Ann Alley, Kathy Fitzpatrick,

She is the granddaughter of William and Polly Hall of Prestonsburg and Monroe and Nancy Adams of Middle Creek.

Local woman chosen for board position

Eileen Recktenwald of Dwale has been elected to the board of directors of the Kentucky Council on Child Abuse.

She will serve as a member of the program committee and as the agency's representative from Eastern Kentucky.

An employee of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Recktenwald will work closely with Janie Beverley, regional coordinator at the Eastern Kentucky office of the council.

The local office last year sponsored the second annual "Stop the Hurt" day in Wayland. The event showcased the talents of 200 young people in performance, as well as recognition of key volunteers who work to end child abuse. The event is slated again this year for April.

The Council on Child Abuse targets its efforts to reduce and ultimately end the growing numbers of child abuse cases. In fiscal year 1988-89, more than 44,000 children were affected by reports of abuse in Kentucky.

Hazel Bailey Is Fighting Cancer With A Tough, New Team On Her Side.

Last April, 73 year old Hazel Bailey, from Martin County Kentucky, began her fight with cancer. It was serious, involving her abdominal and pelvic regions, liver and an area near her heart. There was no time to lose.

Immediately following surgery in Lexington, Hazel was referred to Highlands for chemotherapy—specialized chemical treatments. Hazel was able to return home, visiting Highlands every four weeks for her "chemo".

Hazel found she now has a tough, new team on her side. The new Cancer Program at Highlands now offers expanded outpatient and chemotherapy services. A tough team with a caring touch.

Says Hazel, "they're good to me...every one of them, the nurses and everyone. When I go in there they all grab me and hug me and love me..."

Until there's a cure for cancer, we can only improve the ways we find it and treat it. And at Highlands, we keep getting better at getting you better, a whole lot closer to home.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY

BOB BABBAGE 125 CAPITOL ANNEX
FRANKFORT 40601

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Wallace G. Wilkinson, Governor
Honorable John M. Stumbo, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the statement of assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Floyd County, Kentucky, as of June 30, 1989, and the related statement of cash receipts, cash disbursements, and changes in fund balances for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of Floyd County. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards, the Single Audit Act of 1984, the provisions of OMB Circular A-128, Audits of State and Local Governments, and the Audit Guide for County Governments issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. This cash basis system does not require the maintenance of a general fixed asset group or general long-term debt group of accounts. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Floyd County at June 30, 1989, and the related statement of cash receipts, cash disbursements, and changes in fund balances for the year then ended, in conformity with the cash accounting basis described above.

The accompanying additional information, provided on Schedules A through E, including the schedule of federal financial assistance programs, is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional analytical data. This information has been subjected to tests and other audit procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

As required by the Single Audit Act of 1984, we have reported on the county's financial statements (page 1), its system of internal accounting and administrative controls (page 27), and the county's compliance with laws and regulations (page 30). The following comments and recommendations were disclosed during our examination of the financial statements and our study and evaluation of the county's system of internal controls and its compliance with laws and regulations.

Prior Year Comment and Recommendation
In the prior year audit report, we reported that the Solid Waste, Inc. Fund was not in compliance with the Uniform System of Accounts record-keeping requirements established by KRS 68.210. This finding has not been corrected and is commented on again in the current year.

Current Year Comment and Recommendation
Compliance With Laws and Regulations of All County Programs:
The Solid Waste, Inc. Fund Was Not In Compliance With The Uniform System Of Accounts Record-Keeping Requirements Established By KRS 68.210. Minimal accounting records required by the Uniform System of Accounts, as authorized by KRS 68.210, were not maintained by the Solid Waste, Inc. Fund. These include a receipts ledger and disbursements ledger. We recommend the Solid Waste Board of Directors take the necessary action to ensure minimum accounting records are maintained by the Solid Waste, Inc. Fund.

We are confident the above findings and recommendations will be useful to you in managing the operations of the county in a matter consistent with effective accounting and compliance controls.

Sincerely,
Bob Babbage
Bob Babbage
Auditor of Public Accounts

Sweethearts Now and Forever...

...In Floyd County

True love

'Love and caring' = 70 years of marriage

In a time when half of all marriages are expected to end in divorce, the 25th wedding anniversary sometimes marks a milestone. A Golden anniversary, denoting 50 years of togetherness, is cause for a major celebration.

But 70 years ... that's practically unheard of.

Yet Felix and Etta Crisp of Allen have been together for seven decades and there's no sign of a parting.

Picture a breezy spring day in 1917. A beautiful young woman meets a handsome young man at a water well where they both are drawing water.

Taken with one another, Etta Boyd and Felix Crisp feel the sparks. They experience a wonderful courtship until April of the following year, 1918. That's when Felix goes to war, World War I, the so-called war to end all wars.

"I don't love her like I used to. No, I love her better."

—Felix Crisp

It wasn't long after Felix arrived in France that, as he puts it, "the Germans held their hands high and surrendered quick, after seeing how bad I was."

Returning home after the war, he and his pre-war sweetheart were married on Jan. 17, 1920. "All we ever wanted was to have a family and take care of them," said Etta, a sparkle in her eye.

And that's what they did. At the end of the year, their first child, Eula, was born.

Although times were hard and they lived in a modest two-room, rented house in Allen, the little family was extremely happy, the anniversary couple contend.

Soon the family grew to include Obie and Ray. The couple say they never went anywhere without their children. Among their happiest memories is the family walk to church on Sundays. (They have been members of the Old Regular Baptist Church in Harold since 1946.)

Mrs. Crisp admits that her husband was always "pretty good" to work around the house,

"but he's better out in the yard."

While her husband spent most of his career as a barber, Mrs. Crisp says she never failed to have three meals a day on the family table—a practice she says still holds true.

"I don't love her like I used to," says Crisp, in a joking mood. "No, I love her better." Watching his clear blue eyes linger on his wife is enough to know that he is still as much in love as he was in 1920.

What is their recipe for a strong and lasting relationship?

"Love and caring," they both agree. "The marriage was strong to begin with and has just stayed that way," says Mrs. Crisp, who contends that the most precious gift her husband ever gave her was their children.

After 70 years, the couple reside in the house they built together and are quite proud of their family.

Daughter Eula O'Neil, a retired teacher, lives in Gallipolis, Ohio, and is the mother of two daughters. Obie, now deceased, was the owner of Allen Machine Shop. He gave his parents two granddaughters, as well. Ray, also an Allen resident, is a retired oil field supply salesman. He has three daughters and one son.

Altogether, the couple who fell in love over a well have eight grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

Valentine getaways, It's not too late

One of the most romantic ways to celebrate the Valentine season is with a short trip with just you and your beloved, alone with no kids in tow and no friends and relatives vying for your time.

Several Kentucky state parks have scheduled getaways for the weekend following Valentine's Day.

Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, near Jamestown, for instance, is planning a Valentine's Sweetheart Weekend, Feb. 16-18. For a package price, you get two nights' lodging, special Saturday night Valentine buffet and dance, "Nite at the Races" and a square dance. For information, call 1-800-325-1709.

If you're up for a little longer journey, Barren River Lake State Resort Park, near Lucas, has scheduled Honeymoon Weekend for this weekend. A Monte Carlo party, "Not So Newlywed Game," and Valentine's dinner and dance are all on tap. A package price that includes two nights' lodging is offered. Call 1-800-325-0057.

While maybe not so romantic, Carter Caves State Resort Park at Olive Hill has slated "Strange Music Weekend." Set for Feb. 16-17, the time is devoted to music played with non-traditional instruments and novelty music of the past. But, perhaps that is romantic, after all. Call 1-800-325-0143.

Cumberland Falls State Resort

Park is pitching its fabulous "moonbow," a night rainbow, one of only two in existence. The other is at Victoria Falls in Zimbabwe, Africa—a little bit further piece. According to park naturalists, the best time to see the Kentucky moonbow is winter on a clear night with a full moon.

To figure possible dates to view the oddity, check your calendar for moon phases and note when the moon is full; include the day on either side. You just missed the one on the weekend of Feb. 9-11. But park naturalists say the weekend of March 9-11 is also a good bet. For information, call 1-800-325-0142.

Valentine Memories

Sweet memories

Yes, in a time period of 74 years, I have collected a whole big bunch of them. In fact, I have written pretty much a complete story about my life, but since my book is on hold for the present time, I thought maybe I should share a couple of my memories that seem to get more vivid as the years go by.

To tell you about this one big memory I have I must go back to about 1937 and the place, Wheelwright Junction, a grocery store and rooming house, run by Marion and Susan Hatfield Martin. I was working in the mines at Wheelwright and rooming at Marion and Susan's place. Of course, they served food also.

And it was while I was lounging in the store room waiting for supper to be served, Susan, otherwise known as Lady, was minding the store. Little did I realize that what happened within the next few minutes would be the beginning of events that would lead to a really big change in my life.

Anyhow, I was still waiting for supper to be served, it had become

Little love

Valentine's Day is a very special day.

Every year I get a box of Valentines to take to school and give to my friends.

It's hard sometimes trying to find special ones for my close friends and ones not so mushy for the boys in my class.

But it always works out. I love making the special boxes we get to make to put all our Valentines in.

And the party is fun, too. We always get to have chips, cookies, candy and sometimes pizza.

I think my favorite Valentine in my box this year is the one for my teacher. She's real nice and pretty, too. So she needs a real nice Valentine.

very quiet, but then the silence was broken by foot steps, and I looked up to see this very pretty girl, carrying her school books. Of course, by this time, I was very much awake. After this school girl left the store, I inquired of Lady as to who that girl was who had just left the store. With a shocked look on her face, she replied, "That's my daughter (Irene)."

And even though this memory was only a few minutes in the making, it would have to rate at the top in my memory department.

The other memory I promised was on March 29, 1938, when Irene and I were married. And the memories roll on with a very workable team of Irene Hatfield Martin and Julius Owens Slone.

Happy Valentine's Day

Hugs and Kisses, Cupid is near. It's the time of year for Valentine cheer. Feb. 14 is St. Valentine's Day, a day set aside as a lovers' festival.

The custom of Valentine's Day has no connection with the two legendary martyrs named St. Valentine whose lives are commemorated on Feb. 14. Popular theories connect the lovers' celebration with the Roman fertility festival of the Lupercalia on Feb. 15 or the mating season of birds.

One long-standing tradition associated with Valentine's Day is the sending of valentine cards. The paper valentine dates from the 16th century, and the valentine may have been the original greeting card.

Hearts are the popular symbol associated with Valentine's Day, but flowers and sweets are among the favorite gifts. This is the busiest day of the year for many florists and candy shops, with requests for red, yellow, white or chocolate roses at the top of the list.

Sisterly love

My sisters and I would like to invite the friends and relatives of our oldest sister, Edna Conley of Bypro to join us in wishing her a happy birthday on Feb. 19, 1990. She will be 90 years old on that date.

She is the widow of A.J. Conley, formerly of Jackson, Ohio, and she is the daughter of Andrew Jackson and Cora Coburn and grew up in their home in Hueysville. After her husband's death, she moved to Bypro, where she still shares a home with her sister, Mary Ellen Wilson.

Edna is an accomplished musician and played piano for the choir of the First Baptist Church of Wheelwright, of which she is a member — still plays when she is physically able to attend church.

Even at her age she still has a great sense of humor. One of her greatest hobbies is listening to Nashville music on television.

We three sisters want to wish her the happiest of birthdays and hope she has many more.

Love and marriage: Some pointers

by Fr. Joseph Muench
Pastor, St. Martha's Church

As a pastor I have prepared some 12 couples a year for the last nine years for marriage. The preparation involves much more than planning a nice wedding ceremony. To be ready for marriage a couple does not have to be ready for one day, but for a lifetime.

Life is a mystery. It begins and ends in circumstances beyond our control. Every person who lives today depends on God and two human parents just to start their life. No two parents can conceive their children without God. More than we belong to family, we belong to God. This simple fact doesn't change at marriage. So one of the basic steps a person should take in getting ready for a lifetime of married love is to realize who they are and where they have come from as individuals. Do we know and live like we belong to God? Do we realize we are absolutely responsible to Him as our creator? Do we treat others like they belong to God, especially a potential spouse? Every one of us comes from God and we belong to Him.

Marriage is a mystery. Just as human life cannot be conceived without God's intervention, so, a marriage is not the product of mere human love. When a man and woman exchange the covenant of marriage, it is God who joins them. God permits them to share in each other what really belongs to Him. Therefore, marital love cannot be the absolute possession of another person. Rather, since we must always defer to God's place in the life of the person we love, marital love must be based on reverence and commitment. In such a love, selfish gratification and domination are unthinkable. The world doesn't understand this type of love, but then, the world is producing a 50 percent failure rate on marriages. Reverent love does not come and go and it does not pass away.

Another important step in getting ready for marriage is to be realistic. Married life gives privileges and responsibility to husbands and wives. For example, only a person responsible enough to provide a stable family environment should engage in sexual expressions of love. This is possible only in a marriage based on reverence and commitment. Any other scenario runs the risk of exposing the potential child to an unsatisfactory home life, and of unjustly burdening or endangering one or both of the potential parents. This is true even when artificial contraception is used since it does not always work. In other words, can the couple handle the rights and privileges of marriage well? The answer to this question should never be obscured by circumstances (i.e. premarital pregnancy) nor by strong emotional infatuation. If one or both parties preparing for marriage cannot say "Yes" to this question then one can ask, do they really love the person they want to marry and the children they may bring into this world?

Another major consideration in the area of realism is addressed by the question, "How much am I willing to change in my lifestyle when I get married?" Some think they can continue living very much the way they did when they were single. These folks usually don't stay married long, and for many reasons. First, this attitude leads them to give their wants and needs priority over their spouses. Second, this way of life leads them to other relationships with members of the opposite sex that may threaten their marriage. Some simple approaches to this concern are learning to recreate together. Learn how to work together on various projects. Learn how to show signs of consideration and affection to each other. In other words, learn how to spend time together and deliberately plan to spend most of your time together — both with your children, and at other times, alone with your spouse.

Finally, as a Christian pastor, I must say that the more personal and responsible a person is toward Jesus in their single life, the better prepared they are for marriage. The more spouses share their faith by praying together as a couple and with their children, the more potential they have for having a successful marriage. The fullest expression of love is service. The best service is to lead a person to Jesus. Who is called on to show this love and service more than spouses? In fact, the primary duty of a husband and wife is to help each other experience God's love.

To those of my readers preparing for marriage I ask a special blessing on you so that you may be truly prepared for a life long marriage when you head up the aisle on your wedding day. To those already married, I hope you will be able to see or to bring these elements into your marriage. To these, and those anxious over marriage, see your pastor or another local minister. Marriage is meant to be a wonderful calling from God. So don't take it for granted. You belong to a God who loves you and has made you a special reflection of His Image — so don't make any decision about yourself or someone you love without reverence, prayer and good counsel.

If you wish to abide in love, abide first in God who is love. In Him you will find the love you need. Only in God will you find that right kind of love to share for a lifetime.

Books & Things

By Trisha Morris, PCC Librarian

The song says "Love is a many splendored thing," the poets say "Love make the world go round," and the book publishers say "Love is a subject that will sell." Looking up "Love" in the card catalog at the Prestonsburg Community Library, one finds the books range from cook books and nostalgic Norman Rockwell picture books to advice books on the whys and wherefores of that mysterious, much written about emotion.

The Love Apple Cookbook by Donald Bevona. If you're versed on European history, it won't surprise you that the Love Apple Cookbook is about the many ways to use the tomato in cuisine. If you are as unversed as I was, let me tell you what I learned. "From the start of the 16th to the middle of the 19th century the tomato vine was considered a violent aphrodisiac and shunned by European cooks" — consequently the name "love apple."

Besides the fascinating botanical history, the book tells how this small berry-like fruit became the large, nutritious and varied fruit that today adds zest equally to hamburgers and salads.

In all the recipes collected here, the tomato is the vital ingredient. It is used in soups, appetizers, meat, poultry and fish dishes, even jams, pies and candied using plum tomatoes. Bevona's recipes are drawn from Italy, Spain, France, Greece and Latin America, as well as the United States.

To make sure there are always ample "love apples" to test each and every one of these luscious recipes, Bevona has included a chapter on growing tomatoes and storing them, so that lucrative yields will last the frugal gourmet past the harvest month.

Men and Women: The Poetry of Love, edited by Louis Untermeyer. Here is a most charming collection of love poetry. This book is for all those who have fallen in love or out of it; for lovers past, present or future, and for everyone who has cried or sighed over the stanzas of Browning, Joyce or Blake.

The poets reflect love's "unpredictable and often contrary moods, its eager anticipation and rapt consummation, as well as its unrequited ardor." The emotions expressed range from fear to fulfillment, from the delight of complete possession to the anguish of loss. They span from the ancient to the modern and from the familiar to the not-so-famous. Their moods are multiple, their emotions unpredictable, but they all speak the many-voiced language of love. It is a book to savor for small snacks of emotion.

Norman Rockwell's Love and Remembrance edited by George Mandoza. Mandoza has matched the best of Norman Rockwell with the best of American literature to create this oversized book of love and things remembered. The artist, whose drawings showed America to itself, touched lives and hearts with young love, mature love, family love and wishful love. Monthly gracing the covers of The Saturday Evening Post, Norman Rockwell's pictures captured moments that sometimes happened only in the heart.

Here, those special pictures are matched with equally moving poetry or literary selections. Francis Church's famous editorial from the 1897 New York Sun, "Yes Virginia, there is a Santa Clause," accompanies Rockwell's print of the overworked bearded gentleman surrounded by mail and scratching his head with a feather quill, and William Butler Yeats' "When You are Old" serves as a literary subheading for Rockwell's comfortable senior couple enjoying a cup of tea and each other's company before a glowing fire.

More than just a collection of nostalgic Rockwell prints, this book is a literary treat for those who will stop to read between the pictures.

The Ability to Love by Allan Frome. Love has inspired poetry, music, novels, plays and mini series, but it hasn't inspired its own scientific questioning. What is love? Why do people fall in love so often associated with anguish, disappointment and disillusionment? What is the power called love?

From Elizabeth Barrett's How Do I Love Thee to the chapter on No Bed of Roses, this book attempts to answer all the questions of love. Frome examines Freud's theories, D.H. Lawrence's novels and Margaret Mead's anthropological studies for his answers, as well as his questions.

An all encompassing book, it covers love of the opposite sex, love of a friend, love of self, and love of things. It is pre-Dr. Ruth, but it is an authority that has been quoted in many later studies. At the end, it answers its own question — "The ability to love is not some special talent, but the largest part of our ability to live."

What to do about 'fat' gifts

by Dr. Herman M. Frankel
News USA

What happens if you're trying to cut down on fat and sugar and someone gives you a big-hearted box of chocolates on Valentine's Day? How would you respond?

Most people do one of the following:

1. Say "Thank you!" and start eating.

2. Act hurt, sad or offended, and say, "I can't eat this! You know I'm on a diet!"

3. Ignore the gift and continue as if nothing bad happened.

Any of these may work for you, but over the years, I've heard from my patients that there are other options as well.

4. (Diversion.) Have one piece and say, "I'll save the rest of these to share with the people at work (school, home, other)."

5. (Humor.) "I'd love to eat this, but I'd better not. I'm allergic to chocolate, and I break out in fat!"

6. (Frankness.) "How nice to be remembered by you in this way! I'm not sure you know that I'm staying away from chocolates, but I love the idea."

7. (Fiction.) "How nice to be remembered by you in this way! I'm not sure you know that I'm not allowed to eat chocolate any more, but I love the idea."

The option you choose will depend on who is giving you the gift, what the gift really means, and why you are hesitating. You can make the task easier by pausing now and mentally rehearsing your response. The goal is to make choices that are both gracious and health-enhancing.

The best way to say "I love you" to yourself is to know what's important to you, and let your choices reflect your values.

(Dr. Herman Frankel is chairman of the board of the Obesity Foundation.)

A time to remember romance, Valentine's Day provokes all kinds of amorous activity. But, whether sending sentiments on perfume scented paper, a dozen roses or sharing a candlelight dinner for two, keep in mind that sweets for the sweet — particularly chocolate — is a tradition that's tried and true!

Thought to be an aphrodisiac by the early Aztecs and later by Casanova, chocolate is cited by candy manufacturers as a top seller during holidays such as Valentine's Day. Racking up nearly $4.2 billion in sales last year, manufacturers attribute $348 million of that total to premium products like the truffle.

Considered to be the "Cadillac of the candy business," truffles come in dozens of varieties. In fact, new and different flavors — such as the "Earl Grey 'Be My Valentine' Truffles" — are constantly being created.

Named by coincidence, this creme de la creme of chocolates originated in France in the 1940s. Confectioners claim that a Parisian chocolatier mixed together chocolate and butter, rolled it into a ball and decided to call it a truffle because of its resemblance to the real thing.

Although quite different from their candy cousins, true truffles ironically possess a similar culinary status. Known as the "black diamond of haute cuisine," a truffle is a mushroom-like fungus that sells for as much as $2,000 per pound. This delicacy is most often found about 12 inches underground near the roots of oak trees in several European countries and the US. The most prized ones, however, are found in northern and central Italy and the southwestern Perigord region in France. And, because of their subterranean locale, truffles can only be traced with the help of dogs' and pigs' sense of smell.

Wild truffles have become very rare, and most attempts to grow the plants commercially have failed. As a result, a great deal of secrecy shrouds the entire business. Truffle finding maps are passed down from father to son or are bequeathed as potential riches. Also, to protect their routes and methods, many of the industry's hunters do their truffle tracing at night or early dawn, making it difficult to be followed.

In addition to its exclusive availability, the truffle has an aristocratic history. Its use in exquisite dishes dates back to Babylonian times where it was regarded as a delicacy and dispatched to the reigning king by the basketful. Thought to have aphrodisiac qualities, truffles were adored by the Romans. In fact, the great Roman scholar Pliny the Elder wrote in 60 AD, "Better to suffer a wheat famine than a shortage of truffles."

Other truffle enthusiasts include numerous Renaissance princes, Napoleon, and King Louis the XV of France, who preferred his truffles grated into an omelet.

Class Cooking for Valentine's Day

Walnut Shortbread and fine motor development

by Mark F. Sohn

Say it with tulips, say it with chocolates, or say it with poetry — I love you. For your valentine, whoever it is, take a moment for love — take a moment to bake a heart-shaped cake or this Walnut Shortbread. When it is warm, instead of cutting into 1-inch by 2-inch cookies, cut hearts. Using a heart-shaped cookie cutter or a cardboard stencil, cut several hearts for a Valentine tower. Make a white frosting and color it red. Frost each layer and put a rose on top. This sweet valentine tower says, "I love you."

ABOUT SHORTBREAD: It is served on airplanes and sold in fancy boxes at Christmas. Shortbread is a sandy, crumbly cookie, buttery-rich and not sweet, this "cookie" is a cake or biscuit of Scottish origin. It is short because the butter keeps the gluten in the flour from forming strands.

Because shortbread is plain and easy, to make it is associated with children. It is often baked in a round pie tin and cut into wedges like pieces of pie. The most basic recipe calls for 1 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar, and 2-1/2 cups of flour.

From the British Isles there is Edinburgh and Ayrshire Shortbread. And from a 1964 cookbook there are the short cakes from ye Bathe. My source for the following ye Bathe Shortbread recipe is A Concise Encyclopedia of Gastronomy by Andre L. Simon.

Take a pound of flower and rube into half a pound of butter, very fine; then put in half a pound of flo sugar & wet it with white wine to a paste, then rowl it very thick & cut it round with ye top of ye Drudger, & knotch it round with a squef & bake them upon a tin.

The following Walnut Shortbread recipe was adapted from Great Dinners from Time and Life. I hope you like it.

DIFFICULTY AND YIELD: Easy. With just four ingredients and one baking step, this is easy. Use a food processor and it is ready for baking in just minutes. This recipe makes 60 cookies.

INGREDIENTS: 2 cups of butter, softened, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of walnut pieces, 4-1/4 cups of flour.

STEPS: Preheat the oven to 325 degrees. Take out a 10 and 1/2 by 15 and 1/2 inch jelly roll pan. Do not freeze it. Now mix the dough using a food processor or an electric mixer.

FOOD PROCESSOR METHOD: With the cutting blade in your food processor, process the butter and sugar. When they are fully mixed, add the nuts. When the nuts are the size of a piece of rice, add the flour. Process until fully mixed. Spread the dough as directed below.

Mixer Method: Grind or chop the nuts — don't let them get oily. Set the nuts aside and cream the butter with the sugar until it is white, light and fluffy. While creaming the butter, scrape the sides of the mixer as needed. Stir in the nuts. Sift in the flour, stirring it in by hand.

When the dough is mixed, spoon it into the baking pan. Spread and smooth it out. It will not change shape when it cooks, so after covering the dough with waxed paper, level it with a spatula or roll it level with a can of cold pop.

Bake it for 40 to 45 minutes, or until lightly brown. Cool for five minutes and slice it into 60 pieces: make 15 cuts across the pan and four lengthwise. Cool in the pan another 1/2 hour. For Valentine's Day cut your cookies into hearts — save the scraps for yourself!

LESSON/ACTIVITY: Fine motor development, ages 18 to 24 months. Fine motor development requires the use of hands and fingers. In addition to the towers suggested below, children, aged 18 to 24 months, should scribble spontaneously, pour objects from containers, put objects into containers, and copy a line you have drawn.

Activity 1: Tower of four cookies. Cut ten one-inch square cookies. Using four of the cookies demonstrate building a tower. Tell Little Sam what you are doing. Then ask him to copy your tower. By two years, many children will build a tower of eight cubes. If this is easy, cut smaller cookies. If it is difficult, cut larger cookies.

Activity 2: Lines and Circles. Use four to six cookies to form a line or circle. Have your little Sam copy what you have done.

Activity 3: Kitchen Towers. Look around your kitchen for other materials that can be used to build towers. With Little Sam try building towers with cottage cheese containers, small cereal boxes, cans of cat food (they are made to stack,) bars of soap, spice boxes, small containers of yogurt and jars of baby food. Make a tower display; among family members have a tower contest.

Mark F. Sohn is a Professor of Education at Pikeville College and the author of Education in Appalachia's Central Highlands, a book available at the college bookstore.

Say 'I love you' with Walnut Shortbread

Buttery rich and not sweet, this cookie is easy to cut and easy to eat. You can cut it into Hearts and write a poem for your Valentine. Or as shown above, you can make shortbread towers of these block-shaped cookies with your child.

Valentine tidbits

by Charlene Cook
Wheelwright High School

Ever since the 14th century, Valentine's Day has been dedicated to lovers.

Valentine's Day takes its name from St. Valentine, a Roman priest who died on Feb. 14 during the Claudian Persecution.

I don't know much about the Claudian Persecution, except that Valentine was thrown into jail because he would not go against what he believed in. While he was in jail, he was beaten with clubs and later beheaded.

Another bishop of Interamna, now known as Terni, also has a claim on this day. The bishop choked to death on a fish bone.

Both Valentines seemed to have died on the same day. Neither of them wrote songs or poems or anything. So no one really knows how the day came to be named for them.

Valentine's Day is traditionally observed by young men sending young women a message or a gift or candy or even sometimes a big, red heart.

The students at Wheelwright feel that Valentine's Day is a time for romance. Others feel that it is for roses and chocolate candy. Some of the students at WHS like to spend Valentine's Day with the one they love. The boys like to show how much they love their girls by sending them a teddy bear with a little message telling how they feel. Later, a boy might treat a girl to a nice romantic, candlelight dinner.

No matter how you spend Valentine's Day, just as long as you are safe and with the one you love, you will be all right.

Good marriage takes a lot of work, love...and a little bit of luck

by Tess A. Whitmer
Staff Writer

Everyone will agree that the general view of marriage has changed in the last 25 years. With more than half of today's marriages ending in divorce, the new generation can expect to have more than one significant other in their life. People are waiting longer and longer before finding the right mate and are able to quickly dissolve a marriage should they find they made the wrong choice.

With all the negative stigma attached to marriage, and its high failure rate, the Floyd County Times decided to ask a few couples at the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center what the secret of their success was.

The couples waited until the average age of 19 to get married; some earlier, some later. And all were either raised with the church or found religion later in life.

They all agree that love and respect and the ability to treat one another fairly and with kindness are key aspects to a long and happy marriage. No one couple bragged of a trouble free marriage, stating that they never saw divorce as the solution. Knowing they had to live the rest of their lives with their mate, they felt the only solution was to forgive and forget.

"I think it's a tragedy what's happening nowadays. I know we had the kind of trouble and suffered like the young people today do, but it passes. They give up, we keep plugging along. That's the difference," noted Christine Meade, who has been married to her husband Ransome for 40 years. "Good or bad, we're together."

Ransome pointed out, "It's not what generation you're from, but what's in your noggin. When I grew up I found out that what they were trying to teach us when we were young was true; because I found it later in the Bible that it (staying married) was the right thing to do."

Harvey and Siltania Howard, who have been married 43 years, said, "The key to a long marriage is give and take, accept responsibility and be willing to work and live a Christian life and be faithful to the Lord."

Walter and Minnie Akers, who have been together 48 years, remind young people that "it takes two to quarrel and two to love. Love is the thing that binds us together."

Most of the men agreed that back when they were married they looked for a woman who could cook, although some noted that that isn't as important now with the discovery of frozen and pre-packaged food. The women said they looked for a husband who was honest, hard working and responsible, someone who was a good provider.

Mac Tackett, married to Elizabeth for 55 years, said cooking was important but added that he looked for a wife who was "honest and paid her debts and went to church."

Like other couples, many of the duos admitted that they have had problems during their years of marriage. Josephine and Freeman Branham, married for 39 years, related that "it had to be love that kept us together otherwise we wouldn't have made it. Plus we joined the church."

So to sum up the lesson for the day: Love is not the only thing that will keep a marriage together; it takes work. If people are honest and treat one another with respect and kindness and have a love for God and His word, no problem is too big to overcome.

Two and a half centuries of togetherness

Representing 269 years of successful marriage, couples from the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center agreed to get together and discuss their marriages. All attributed their success to love and God. Their consensus on advice to a newly married couple is: Work your troubles out instead of dissolving the marriage; whatever is a problem now will pass. The couples, and the number of years married, are: (left to right) Walter and Minnie Akers, 48; Mac and Elizabeth Tackett, 55; Bert and Clara Allen, 44; Freeman and Josephine Branham, 39; Harvey and Siltania Howard, 43, and Ransom and Christine Meade, 40.

Advice from Bible and parents makes for long marriage

By Tess A. Whitmer
Staff Writer

Although Bud and Opal Henton have not been married the longest of people you may know, their story and the advice they give can be considered valuable.

Exactly 46 years and five months, five children, 12 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren later, they agree that a good marriage takes a lot of luck.

In 1943 Opal was sitting on the steps of Hunter's Store in Pike/Floyd Hollow when she saw Bud for the first time. "I was 17 and he was 19, and I saw him walking down the road. It was love at first sight," she said.

Opal recalled that people used to call Bud "Get out of the way Henton," but she wasn't so anxious to follow that advice. (Bud's real first name is Galloway).

"After we met, I saw her nearly every day after that," Bud noted. "When we first started dating her dad tried to run me off, but I was determined and his disapproval made me that much more anxious to have her," Bud said.

The two dated for two years before he joined the Navy. When he came back, he looked her up and they were married.

Like so many people at that time, they moved to Michigan in 1953 for Bud's job at General Motors. They lived in Michigan for 30 years and came back to Kentucky to live in the house Bud's mother had left them when she died.

When the two were first married, Bud noted that Opal was a good cook. It was after sampling some of her food that he decided she was the woman for him. "I remember bragging to other fellows at work about the great breakfast I got, biscuits and sausage gravy, and the special lunches and dinners that were always ready for me on the table," he said. "But she started talking to these other women about how their husbands just got up and had them a bowl of cereal and packed their lunches, next thing you know I was in the same category as those other fellows."

Times were tough when they were first married, they said, and Opal had to get a job working in restaurants, where she stayed for 13 years, and then at a box factory, working for another 13 years.

The two raised four children and one grandchild as well. With Opal working days and Bud afternoons, they rarely saw each other, except on weekends. Bud jokes that not seeing each other was probably the reason their marriage lasted so long.

"Boy, when we moved down here it was tough going for about three years," Bud recalled. "It makes a lot of difference after you retire because you both have your own routines." They related several problems they had to work out during their time together, but agreed that it was well worth it.

"Love has a lot to do with the success of a marriage," Opal said. "Everybody has a time when they want to call it quits. I only got mad and stayed away from him one night and said 'never again, if I'm going to leave, I'm gone for good and I'll never come back.' But that time never came."

reading "A man's not complete until he's married...then he's finished," he said he does not really believe that. "I don't believe that's true, but you are finished if you don't try to make a go of marriage. You have to work a little bit on the give and take of marriage," he said.

Bud and Opal both take their wedding vows very seriously and feel that young people do not really know what the sacrament of marriage is all about, the ups and the downs.

"If a person wants to get married, there should be a few things explained to them about what they're getting into. Kids today fly in too fast and they end up working for $3 an hour and try it for three or four years and they look around and find out they aren't any further than when they started, so they just quit," Bud noted.

"Fifty-two percent of the people that get married get divorce and that ain't right. It should be explained to them what the Bible says about it, 'When you get married you become one flesh and let nobody put a sander in between'," he continued. "And they should know what adultery is and what getting married means.

Bud and Opal agreed that people don't seem to care about religion anymore. He said he never did until he got older and now he's pretty tough with it, spreading the word. "People should stick to it and work through their problems.
