Boy Briefly Taken Hostage; Suspected Robbery Attempt

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

An attempted armed robbery Sunday night at David resulted in gunfire and the taking of a 15-year-old boy hostage.

Irvin Shepherd, owner of the Middle Creek Carry Out Store, stated that he and his 15-year-old grandson left Shepherd's trailer on the hill above the store Sunday night at about 10 p.m. to turn on the power to his store, so it would be warm in the morning. His grandson went out the door a few minutes before Shepherd.

When Shepherd walked out, he saw a man with a beeper's hood over his face, holding a pistol to his grandson's head, at the end of the trailer.

"The man with the gun didn't speak," said Shepherd. "My grandson said 'Do whatever they say or they're going to kill me.'"

When Shepherd turned, he saw another man, wearing a ski mask and carrying a sawed-off shotgun, coming from the other side of the trailer. Shepherd jumped into his truck parked next to the trailer, thinking to ward off the two attackers. The second man came around to the driver's side of the vehicle and pointed the shotgun at Shepherd's head, as he started the engine.

The first man yelled to shoot out the truck's tires, but the ski-masked man lowered his weapon and fired into the truck's motor, Shepherd said. Shepherd threw the truck into low gear, but heard his grandson shout, "No, Papa, don't. He'll kill me."

Shepherd said he dove out of the truck door and saw his grandson break free of the man holding him. Both ran into the trailer as several shots were fired.

According to Shepherd, the two assailants then jumped into the running vehicle and drove off on KY 404 toward Prestonsburg. Shepherd quickly called the Floyd County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, who had been sworn into office only minutes before, received the call and responded with Chief Deputy Rodney Holbrook.

The law officers' route was blocked in David by a passing coal train. Witnesses said the stolen truck's progress was also blocked on the other side by the passing train. The truck reportedly turned and headed back KY 404 toward Magoffin County.

Thompson stopped the train and had a motorist take him to Shepherd's trailer. State police and the Magoffin Sheriff's Department were notified, but no one was apprehended.

The stolen vehicle was discovered at Saltlick in Floyd County, near Hueysville on Monday morning. It is believed that the assailants looped through Magoffin County and reentered Floyd on KY 7. Apparently, the shotgun blast caused the engine to fail. Witnesses saw two men exit the truck and disappear on foot.

"The first man was left-handed and I think he carried a .25 caliber automatic," said Shepherd. "It sure seemed like this was well planned because they must have known what I do on Sunday nights. My grandson was shook up but neither of us were hurt."

Shepherd believes the assailants were trying to steal money from his store earnings, thinking that he kept it in his home.

State police and the Sheriff's Department are investigating the incident.

County Attorney Faces Challenges

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

No one ever said being county attorney would be easy.

Jim Hammond, 45, who took office Monday as the newly elected Floyd County Attorney, knows better than anyone just how big the job before him actually is.

"Floyd County has the 15th heaviest legal caseload in the Commonwealth of Kentucky," said Hammond, a Martin native. "Last year, there were about 4,400 criminal cases going through court here. We're talking about a very large workload."

Hammond takes over his position from former County Attorney David Barber, whom he defeated in the Democratic primary in May. He is currently developing a plan of action to deal with the work ahead of him.

Jim Hammond

"The duties of this position have increased dramatically in recent years," said Hammond. "The county attorney is the only county official who's involved in all three branches of government."

"First, the county attorney is prosecutor in District Court. He is also required to assist in circuit and appellate court, when necessary. This is the position's judicial function."

"Next, the county attorney acts as primary advisor to the fiscal court and is charged by statute to protect the county's treasury. This is the position's legislative function," Hammond, 45, said. "Finally, the county attorney is the chief civil council to the judge-executive, an executive function."

Combined with these responsibilities is the requirement that Hammond prosecute delinquent taxes through-

County To Request Funds For Dredging

A plan to dredge portions of the Big Sandy River in Floyd County to prevent future flooding has moved closer to reality following notification of the state office of Disaster and Emergency Services (DES) of Floyd County's intent to pursue the project.

According to Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, a letter was sent to DES on Dec. 31, explaining the need for such a project. This notification was required in order for the county to insure eligibility for funding assistance from state and federal agencies for the flood-prevention project.

Stumbo noted that the Beaver Creeks, Main Beaver, the Big Sandy and tributaries of the Big Sandy would be affected by the dredging. While no price had been set on the project, Stumbo estimated an expenditure of roughly $5 million being necessary to complete the needed work.

"State and federal support would be able to pay for 62 percent of the project," said County Attorney Jim Hammond. "The big hurdle will be where to get the other 38 percent in local funds necessary. We may be required to shave back the extent of the project."

"However, it was necessary to put in an application. If we didn't, we'd have shut the door on attempting the project," Hammond said.

Partial funding for the program will be drawn from the Hazard Mitigation Grant program, operated by the state and supported by the federal government. Floyd County qualifies on the basis of being declared a disaster area three times in 1989.

Martin Council Sworn In, Police Officers Approved

Four council members were sworn in Wednesday night by Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith, and two new police officers were approved for hiring by city council.

Denzil Halbert, Earrit Hayes, James Robinson and Joe Simpson were all sworn in as council members by Griffith. John Maddox and Pete Grigsby Sr. were not present at the swearing-in.

Two new police officers, Darrell W. Bradley and Patrick Morris, were both approved for hiring by the council, on the recommendation of Griffith. Bradley, a certified fire instructor and police academy graduate, will be hired for full-time duty, receiving $4,400 an hour. Morris will be hired on a part-time basis at $3.75 an hour and will receive further training in police procedure. Both will be placed on a five-month probation period, which is standard hiring procedure.

In further action, council approved a measure to pay each council member $25 per month, provided the member attends the monthly council meeting. Mayor Griffith will receive $100 per month, plus 20 cents per mile in travel expenses. Robinson abstained on the vote for the wage increase.

Simpson requested that the problem of vandalism in Martin be considered by council. He noted that three cars were broken into at the Martin schoolyard during a dance over the weekend and that city and private vehicles have had tires punctured in recent months.

Simpson stated that he believed that Martin police were doing their best to prevent the problem, but that further action was required.

"I don't know how we're going to do it," said Simpson, "but it's going to have to be taken care of."

He recommended that city police patrol on foot in town, and both he and Griffith said that police vehicles should drive more slowly through town, in order to spot possible illegal activity.

Councilman Halbert requested that a portion of land which he owns be incorporated into city limits. Grif-

A Dangerous One

Fire raged through the home of Ray and Elizabeth Wright in Caney, at the mouth of Johnson Fork, Wednesday afternoon. According to Mrs. Wright, the washer and dryer in her utility area had been running for some time, prior to the fire. She was outside hanging quilts and cleaning her yard, when she reentered the house to discover the utility area on fire. Wright was delayed in contacting fire authorities and, as a result, David and Prestonsburg Fire Departments responded to the call, but were unable to save the structure. Prestonsburg Fire Marshall Larry Adams said nothing was salvageable from the interior of the house. It is believed that the clothes dryer was the initial source of the fire. Neither the house, owned by Billie Joe Justice, nor the Wrights possessions were insured against fire.

Neutral Skies, Neutral Temps

No big changes are forecast in the weather outlook for the weekend.

Friday's skies will show some sun, with highs in the lower 40s. Friday night and Saturday will continue to be partly cloudy and cool, with lows in the mid-30s and highs reaching into the mid-40s.

Sunday will be mostly clear, turning cloudy on Monday. Tuesday shows a chance of rain or snow possible. Highs in the 40s and lows in the mid-20s to mid-30s are expected during this period.

The News Year In Review

Compiled from articles that appeared in The Floyd County Times

January

Wheelwright's water crisis abated after a harrowing couple of weeks when the community's water source disappeared. A new water pipe system was on tap.

Perhaps the biggest news of the year in Floyd County was the mid-month intervention in the county school system by the State Department of Education, invoking the state's academic bankruptcy law. Whitley County was in the same boat. State Superintendent John Brocks said, "We will go into Whitley County, we will go into Floyd County with the most positive attitude humanly possible." He cited problems of finances, attendance and dropout rates in the takeover.

Prestonsburg Heck's discount department store announced it would close, one of 20 in the chain to shut its doors permanently.

Prestonsburg Foodland took on a new name, Food Lyon.

A state hearing officer recommended the state drop its case against Gary Branham and Triple B Mining which had been accused of mining without a permit at a site on US 23 North that included an old family cemetery.

More than 80 candidates filed for office for the May primary election.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin dedicated its mammography equipment and Outpatient Surgery Center.

January deaths included: Bertha Blankenship, Artie Moore Cooper, Brady Henderson, Bill F. Hill, Laura Yates, Nancy Adkins, Millard Branham, Maletta Gay Campbell, Michael Casper, Gladys Cornett, James Harlie Gilliam, Darwin Hunt, Alonzo Justice, Nanie McCoy, Eddie Parsons, Earl Prater, Maude Slone, Samuel Stamper, Ballard Lee Sword, Brandi Waddles, Gracie Adkins, Mae Adkins, Harold Allen, Edgel Blackburn, Mahala Chappell, Leonard Compton, Margaret Compton, Frank Fouts, Hubbard C.

"Huck" Francis, Raymond Goble, Sylvia Hayden, Earl Layne, Virgie Short Layne, Sheila Sue Music, George D. Ratliff, Walker Newsome, Lewis Adkins, Ollie F. Ellis, Joe H. February

Rock slides worried folks on KY 1428, KY 7 and in other parts of the county as changing weather creaked the old hills.

Indictments abounded: Federal court indicted an Allen resident for counterfeiting; Floyd County grand jury indicted two for murder, among its other indictments.

Unseasonably warm weather prompted flowering trees to bud.

Barkley Sturgill and Janet Stumbo entered the race to replace Dan Jack Combs on the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Strike Tentatively Settled, Agreement Goes To Members

WASHINGTON—A tentative agreement was announced Monday to end the bitter nine-month strike by 1,700 coal miners against Pittston Co.

The agreement, which was worked out between UMW President Richard Trumka, Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole, and Pittston representatives. It has not been determined when miners will return to work, but the agreement will go before union miners for ratification within 8 to 10 days. Terms were not disclosed but both sides declared it a victory for collective bargaining. About 200 Pike County miners were affected by the strike. (Mountain Eagle)

Victim Panel Possible For Drunk Drivers

CATLETTSBURG—A panel of drunken driving victims may be created in Boyd County, to relate their personal experiences to persons convicted of DUI.

Incoming Boyd District Judge Marc Rosen proposed the panel on his first day on the bench Tuesday, with the intention of educating DUI offenders to the dangerous effects of drunk driving. Defendants would be required to attend the panel discussion as terms of probation or as a condition for not giving a defendant the maximum sentence in DUI cases.

Rosen said he will not implement the plan immediately, until he sees what action the General Assembly takes on DUI laws during the current legislative session. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Non-Profit Firm Fights To Survive

PAINTSVILLE—After one year of operations, Excalibur, a non-profit manufacturing firm designed to train and employ dislocated workers, is struggling to continue operations.

Excalibur manufactures brass fittings for American Standard's plant in Paintsville. The concept of the firm developed through the combined effort of the Paintsville-Johnson County Industrial Authority, Johnson County's Project 2000, PCC, the state's Cabinet for Human Resources, and American Standard. Excalibur has faced numerous financial crises over the past year, requiring restructuring of the company's financing, according to Scott Perry, spokesperson for the five-member Excalibur board. (Paintsville Herald)

Pike Man Shot

DORTON—A Pike County man was shot early Thursday morning by an unknown assailant.

Walter Johnson Jr., 37, of Jenkins was assaulted at 3:30 a.m. Thursday morning in Dorton, according to State Police reports. Johnson was shot once through the upper left chest. He was transported to Jenkins Hospital and transferred to Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington, where he was listed in stable condition.

No arrest was made and the case is under investigation by Det. Claud Tackett.

Family Members Arraigned For Mine Violations

LONDON—Four members of the Crawford family of Woodbine were arraigned in federal court in London for 18 counts of federal mine safety violations. The alleged willful violations by Kenneth, Zonda, Timothy and Jeffery Crawford are believed to have contributed to the deaths of three miners killed on Aug. 15, 1985, at the R and R #3 Mine in Woodbine in Whitley County.

According to US Attorney's office for the Eastern District of Kentucky, three of the four accused have been convicted on past violations of the 1977 Mine Safety and Health Act.

out the county and enforce child support payments, primarily cases involving court-ordered Aid For Dependent Children (AFDC). As of July 1, 1989, there were 3,365 child support cases within Floyd County.

"If we did nothing but service these cases," said Hammond, "it would be difficult to handle the sheer numbers."

In terms of the county's criminal docket, an overload of cases exists, according to Hammond. He noted that between 200 to 300 DUI cases alone are currently pending. Realistically, says Hammond, it takes one day to try each such case.

Assisting Hammond in his work is an assistant county attorney and four administrative workers. Hammond hopes that he will be able to organize his team so that cases move as quickly as possible through the judicial system.

"I believe that both the state and the individual are entitled to a speedy trial," stated Hammond.

Aside from fulfilling his many responsibilities, Hammond places special emphasis on two issues he wishes to address during his term in office.

"Floyd County is in a unique position at the current time, in that we don't have a high level drug problem," says Hammond. "With the proper protection and enforcement of laws, we have the opportunity to have a drug free county."

"I also hope to assist in creating an environment in the county which attracts industry to the area," said Hammond. "I want to promote the development of good quality and good paying jobs here in Floyd County."

5th stated that the city attorney would be required to examine the question.

In the minutes read before the meeting, it was stated that Martin Police Chief Herschel Lester received a pay raise and incentive pay at a special meeting held on Dec. 12. Lester will now receive $1200 per month, a $142 monthly increase.

Attending Wednesday night's meeting were Council members Halbert, Hayes, Robinson, and Simpson and Mayor Griffith.

Accidents Occupy Local Police Officers

Several accidents occurred this week in Prestonsburg, according to the City Police, and most were due to vehicles pulling out in front of the others.

According to Officer R. Frasure, Saturday, Dec. 30 at 9:11 a.m., Russell Blair, 22, of Hager Hill was traveling north on KY 1428 when an unknown driver pulled out in front of him. Blair hit the driver in the right rear, but the damaged car did not stop.

On Thursday, Dec. 28 Arthur Hughes, 72, of Prestonsburg, was turning onto KY 1428 from Cox's Auto Parts when he apparently turned into the path of west bound Michael Collins, 20, of Prestonsburg. Hughes' vehicle was towed away, according to Officer R. J. Conn.

In a similar accident Tuesday, Dec. 26, Charles May, 42, of Paintsville, and Gold Slone, 18, of Prestonsburg were both traveling south on the four lane section of US 23 in town, when May, in the right lane, turned in front of Slone, in the left lane, to enter SuperAmerica. Officer Mike Conn cited May for no insurance.

A parking lot accident occurred in Prestonsburg Village Sunday, when Rose Castle, 34, of Hunter backed into a car owned by Charlie Bowling of Annville. Sgt. Sue Blackburn said Castle was driving a full size vehicle and was unable to see the sub-compact car as she was backing.

Last Thursday, Dec. 28 saw an unusual accident involving an auto and an air conditioning unit. Apparently Penelope Roberts of Lexington had parked her car at Mayo Trailer Park and it somehow slipped out of gear and rolled 25 feet before striking the central air conditioning unit of a Mr. Haywood's trailer. Roberts claimed she had left her car in first gear, as reported by Officer R.J. Conn.

Don't Mess With A Coal Truck

Cordell Martin, 73, of Hindman, while attempting to turn into the parking lot of Triangle Market in Martin, ran head-on into a coal truck driven by Steve Blackburn, 27, of Prestonsburg. Martin was transported to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, with a dislocated shoulder. He was reported in stable condition Thursday. Martin was not wearing a seatbelt during the accident.

Non-Credit Class List Available At PCC

A list of non-credit classes to be offered this winter and spring at Prestonsburg Community College is now available in the Continuing Education/Community Services office at PCC, Room J102, and at the Pikeville Office, 408 Main Street, Pikeville.

The classes, which range from self-improvement and enrichment to leisure time activities and crafts, usually meet for two to six weeks for two to three hours a week. In addition to these short term classes, music, dance, gymnastics and karate classes meet one or more times a week for the entire spring semester.

Also resuming in January are GED classes on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Thursday and Friday mornings at Prestonsburg and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in Pikeville. Driver's education classes are also offered at both campuses. Programs designed for business and industry will be arranged to suit the needs of the business and industrial communities served by PCC.

Classes that begin in January include an 'ACT' preparation class, a Bible study class and a bread baking class. Also, the Community Chorus will resume its weekly meetings on Monday nights. Individual piano lessons, voice lessons and lessons in violin, viola, cello and string bass are scheduled, as well.

Classes scheduled to begin later in the semester include basic mathematics review, memoir writing, brass and woodwinds instrumental lessons, CTBS preparation, developmental and social history of the Big Sandy, a workshop for child care providers, print making, wildflowers and ferns of Eastern and Central Kentucky, flower arranging, the oral interpretation of literature, clogging and finding a job.

For more information about any of these classes, call the college at 886-3863, ext. 278, in Prestonsburg, or 432-4800, in Pikeville.

Karate Classes Offered At PCC

It is not too late to enroll in Tai Kwan Do Karate classes at Prestonsburg Community College. Classes in Korean karate are taught Mondays and Thursdays by Roger Derossett, a teacher at Porter Elementary School and holder of the Black Belt rank in Tai Kwan Do. Participants of all ages are welcome to take part in these classes. Enrollment is open throughout the semester. For further information, call the Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, PCC, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Clarification

Two clarifications are needed about the Fiscal Court story involving the Census Bureau Enumerator positions, which appeared in Wednesday's paper. According to Eugenia Hall, recruiter for Floyd County, the bureau has received 40 qualified applicants, but no positions have been filled as of this date, and the salary for crew leaders is $6.50 per hour and for supervisors, $7.50 per hour.

The Way Of The Dinosaur

Most Floyd Countians hope that when icicles such as these finally drip dry, no more will come in their place, at least not this winter. With temperatures more than a tad milder than last week, the mini glaciers that have decorated mountainsides so profusely are getting harder and harder to find.

Keep Yule Long Burning

For those persons who still have a little Christmas spirit left, the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival will sponsor an "Old Christmas Party" at the May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Sunday, Jan. 7, beginning at 2 p.m.

Jan. 6 is marked as Epiphany on the calendar and is the last of the "12 days of Christmas," the day the settlers termed "Old Christmas." The late Edith Fitzpatrick Ames, founder of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, revived "Old Christmas" many years ago by hosting a party on the Sunday closest to the date, according to Festival Director Kathy Lowe.

Lowe said that this event eventually outgrew James' home and is now sponsored by the festival and held at the lodge.

Some of the activities which participants can expect are traditional mountain singing, dancing and storytelling in an informal setting, along with gingerbread and spiced tea and other appropriate refreshments and games.

A highlight of the day is the traditional reading by Laura Weddle of a short story, "The Cattle Low at Midnight," written by the late Floyd County historian Henry P. Scalf.

Other featured performers will be the Kentucky Folk Festival Band, the Gum Branch Heart Breakers, "Stories for Children" by Georgia Muncy, singing by John Skaggs and dancing lead by Clarence Henson.

Admission to "Old Christmas" is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Heartfelt Thanks

"I want to thank everyone who helped me to help others have a Merry Christmas. Without the help of all the good people in this area we would have never been able to have this party for so many needy families. It would be impossible to name each and everyone who helped make this possible but I want to thank you all from the bottom of my heart."

Highlands Coronary Care Unit Celebrates 15th Anniversary

The ability to provide special care and advanced cardiac services needed by patients suffering heart attacks became a reality on Saturday, Dec. 16, 1974, when Highlands Regional Medical Center opened one of the first Intensive Coronary Care Units in the Big Sandy Valley.

Dr. Jerry Fraim, MD, family practitioner, who served as medical director of the unit and chairperson of the Critical Care Committee for the first three years said, "The primary benefit of the Coronary Care Unit is contingent upon observations and treatment initiated by the medical nursing staff. CCU nurses are trained to recognize early warning signs and complications of acute myocardial infarct (heart attack).

"Over the 15 years of operation of the Coronary Care Unit, there remain many people in our area who are alive, functional and productive because they were admitted to Highlands' Coronary Care Unit, treated and managed appropriately during the course of their acute myocardial infarct."

Other medical staff for the original CCU committee included Dr. C. Riveria, Dr. J.W. Sutherland and Dr. W.B. Cook. The original nursing staff consisted of Chris Naville, Sharon Dingus, Pat Willis, Denice Queen, Virginia Hall, Teresa Cartmell, Sandra Mann and Glenda Patton.

According to Kathy Rubado, public relations coordinator of HRMC, equipment for the original four-bed unit was provided through the efforts of Paintsville businessman Proctor Brown. "He spearheaded a donation drive among local coal companies and area businesses," she noted.

"Through his effort money was raised and special training and monitoring equipment purchased and put into use. So began a service essential to the quality care of heart attack patients," Rubado said.

In 1976, the Coronary Care Unit expanded to seven beds and 1984, to its current 12-bed capacity. In 1984, HRMC's Coronary Care Unit was one of the first in Eastern Kentucky to use Streptokinase, a then new clot dissolving drug, according to Rubado.

Today's CCU nursing staff are all certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support Training and over half are also certified by the American Association of Critical Care Nurses.

15 Years Of Coronary Care

Physicians and nurses celebrate the 15th anniversary of the Highlands Regional Medical Center's Coronary Care Unit. Funding for the center was spearheaded by Paintsville businessman Proctor Brown.

Fighting Smoke And Flame

Directing a jet of water into the flames, a firefighter equipped with a breathing apparatus works to control a Caney house fire Wednesday. Because the roof of the house had an old tin underlining, the flames spread quickly from the utility area, where the fire started, to the rest of the house. Flames continued to reappear, even after being initially doused, until firefighters were able to get several hoses directed on the burning house.

Getting Some Air

A Prestonsburg firefighter leaps out of a house in Caney that was destroyed by fire Wednesday to seek some fresh air. Firefighters from Prestonsburg and David fought for over an hour to extinguish the flames. Said Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, "This was a tough one. We haven't had a fire like this in quite awhile."

Directors Named

Methodist Hospital in Pikeville has appointed a program director and clinical director to head its new 22-bed, inpatient psychiatric program.

Helen Gathright, MA, is the new program director, and Dr. John Freer, MD, is the clinical director.

Gathright will be responsible for the day-to-day administration of the new program, and Freer will direct the medical and clinical portion of the psychiatric unit, according to a hospital news release.

Located on the eighth floor of the hospital, the program is designed to serve the needs of people in Pike and surrounding counties. The program will provide short term, inpatient psychiatric care for an average of three weeks. Hospital officials plan to open the unit this month.

Gathright received her undergraduate and master's degree in counseling and psychology from Louisiana Tech University in Ruston, La. Freer earned the MD degree from the University of Kentucky College of Medicine and served his psychiatric residency at the Fort Logan Mental Health Center in Denver, Col., and the Menninger School of Psychiatry in Topeka, Kan.

BLHS Sponsors 'Storybook' Christmas

The Betsy Layne High School BETA Club chapter sponsored a storybook drive, Nov. 15-22, during which time members collected more than 200 storybooks. Teacher Lizzie Hamilton's homeroom collected the most — 56. Storybooks were picked up by Reed Coles, a representative of the Lexington Herald-Leader for distribution to children in the region. Among students participating were (l-r) Teresa Spears, Leigh Ann Smith, Dwayne Stevens, Andrea Clark, Denise Hunter, Michelle DePoy, Kimberly Hamilton, Stephanie Conn and Melissa Harmon.

I shed no tears on New Year's Eve. When the clock struck midnight, I rejoiced. Despite the speed with which my days seem to be sliding, I was glad to see the '80s pass.

They never suited me. They never fit comfortably. They seemed too tight around the chest and waist, making breathing difficult. Where support should have been, they were baggy and limp. Some say they looked good, but the fabric was never expected to hold up.

For the duration of the decade, I felt like an alien in a foreign land, held against my will, not easily grasping the language, not appreciating the idiom, averse to the customs.

When President Jimmy Carter accused the nation — apparently rightly — of "malaise" and was laughed out of office, I began to feel out of place.

We seemed to enter an era of ignorance. Ignorance in the literal sense, in that as a society we began to ignore our problems, ignore our responsibilities, ignore our obligations and ignore, to the point of abandoning, our need for a system of ethics and standards.

We entered an era where the catch phrase was "give me." We heard it echoed by rich and poor, by young and old. The concept was adopted without regard to race, creed, religion, age, sex, etc. Like a baby with its first taste of Pepsi, we collectively cried "More."

We saw parents care more about the name on their children's butts than they cared about what was going into their mouths or up their noses or into their brains. We saw folks making $10 million a year do whatever was necessary, employees and products be damned, to make $11 million. We saw political leaders sell their souls for a handful of votes and a campaign donation. We saw helping agencies and so-called Godly people vie for dollars to help themselves to security and comfort. We saw welfare recipients and corporate executives alike use an unchecked system to elude work. We watched complacently as the gap widened between those who got and those who didn't get.

For no concrete reason, I'm hopeful about the '90s. I'm hopeful that the tide is turning, if ever so slightly. I like President Bush's "kinder and gentler" idea, and I hope it catches on, not just as a fancy phrase, but as a tangible concept we can grab hold of and believe in.

What's more, I intend to hold the president to it. I intend to let him know when he ceases to practice what he preaches.

I hope everyone is tired of the selfishness that characterized us as a nation during the '80s. I hope everyone agrees it's time we put on a new outfit, one that has emblazoned on the chest "Give" instead of "Give me." Happier new year.

I was saddened to read of the death of Richard Muse. I had the pleasure of spending several hours with him last summer for a story about his collection of superhero memorabilia. Listening to him speak reverently of his childhood comic book and film heroes, I was convinced he truly believed in "truth, justice and the American way."

Compliments Protesters

Dear Editor,
Speaking as an ex-Kentucky woman and ex-teacher who left the Floyd County area in 1950, who always returned each year, and has seen the progress that has been made in Eastern Kentucky as no less than spectacular, I'd like to compliment the citizens who had every right to protest the blow given to them by "48 Hours." From what source did they get the 47 percent illiteracy rate? It was not that low 40 years ago. A pat on the back to all who fought back!

Hears About Program

Dear Editor,
(This letter was addressed to the CBS Broadcast Group)
I did not see the "48 Hours" program, but I have heard awful things. I was born in Floyd County, Kentucky, and I am very proud of it. WE were not rich, but Mom and Dad were very good people. We raised everything we lived on.
I think what was in the "48 Hours" program was a slap in the face for the people. Why didn't you tell about all the beautiful places and beautiful four lane highways, all the shopping malls? No, you just wanted a story and you did not give a damn who you stepped on, you just wanted a story.

Why couldn't you put the good with the bad? No, you think people are trash. I hope you can sleep at night.

You also said awful things about the young people, sir. You don't have to come to Eastern Kentucky to find teenage marriage, homeless people, poor people sleeping in the street or living in old houses; you just look out your window and you will see more than you want to see. Why don't you write about your own state and city?

There are homeless people with nothing to eat, sleeping on the street, Mister. You will find those things all over our USA, in every state, not just Kentucky.

One more thing I have to say...People of Kentucky, get out your pen and write to CBS. Tell them what you think and how you feel. Don't let them win; fight back because they did not show the real Kentucky, just what they wanted to see.

Why is it you could not put in the nice things? Because you just wanted to hurt people, wasn't that it?

No One Took Advantage'

Dear Editor,
I've read numerous opinions of the recent showing of "48 Hours, Another America." Since I am the teacher interviewed and shown on the program, may I express my opinion, please?

I have taught in the Floyd County schools for 22-1/2 years. That sentence alone speaks volumes.

When we were approached concerning the program, I had several questions. I have both Vickie and Lisa Johnson in class, so it was safe to assume the cameras would be in my classroom. Let me emphasize one point...no one took advantage of my "trusting" nature...no one! I lost my trusting nature about 20 years ago! The statements I made are true. Every teacher in America could use more money in the classroom and would be glad to account for any expenditures. However, money is not the only solution. Someone other than the teacher must care! When my students say "Somebody should do something..." I replay "Who is this somebody? Give me a name." Money without concern is meaningless.

So many good points were shown. We have few, if any, homeless families, and friends open their doors for them. In Washington, D.C., they sleep in the park across the street from the White House!

The thing that has upset the politicians so much is that now the entire country knows "Yes, there are two Kentuckys...and yes, there are two Floyd Counties." If you doubt this, drive east past Winchester, or leave Route 80 at Martin and drive southeast on 122.

I live among some of the finest people in the world. I have some of the finest students in the world. It is my opinion that they deserve much as students in Frankfort, New York City or Washington, D.C. It's just a shame that a judge had to order a fair share for them!

Maybe someday when a student says "But that isn't fair," instead of saying "Who promised you life would be fair?", I can say "You're right, it isn't, and it will be changed."

Thank You,
Doris Osborne

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

As I sat home watching the TV this past Tuesday night I first had a few laughs from a comedy or two. Then Thirtysomething came on. Not being a regular watcher of this time slot, I decided I'd stay tuned. Boy, was I depressed.

First of all, it dawned on me, that this wonderful New Year brings my 30th birthday (as if that wasn't depressing enough).

Then this Mike character takes some writer's workshop to find out he's concentrating too hard, and readers like the plain truth!

Job hunting was as bad on Thirtysomething as here, and Hope's house looked exactly like mine — stuffed animals and dirty dishes in every corner.

Why am I watching my life on TV? I should be sleeping, I'd tell myself. But the old eyelids would not stay closed. No they kept popping open and staring at the ceiling. So I began to count sheep. Yes, I know it's an old wives tale, but hey, it's worked for my daughters these past few nights when they had trouble going to sleep. "Mommie, I can't go to sleep now," they scream from their room. I yell "Count sheep." It works and 20 minutes later they're out.

But these blasted television shows that depress you right before bed time do a number on me, I'll tell you. So, I figured "what the hey," got up and decided to take Mike's workshop advice and write the truth. And since I'm writing the truth, I must confess, if I get this out of my system and on paper maybe, just maybe, I can get some shut-eye. And, I think from now on I'll stick with the Coz and my heroine Roseanne. At least I can go to bed with a smile.

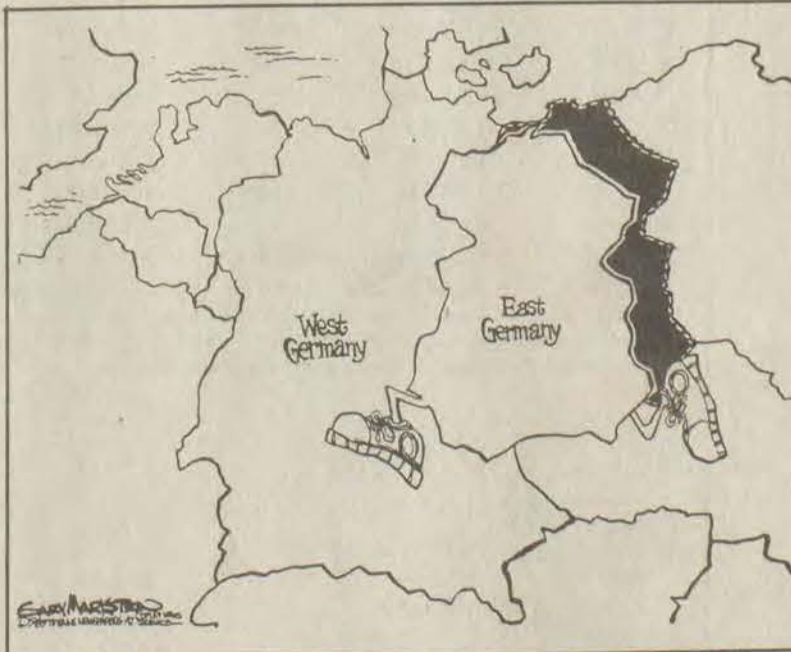

Till next week, I'll say Good Night now.

Year In Review 1989

A group of local citizens began a campaign to change the status of liquor sales in Prestonsburg. Volunteers collected signatures for a petition to order an election in Prestonsburg area precincts.

Speculation was high that a regional lottery office would be located here.

Several Cow Creek families brought suit against Coal Mac Inc. over the installation and operation of a deep coal mine in the area.

Dan Greene and The David School were featured in the first of ABC-TV's public service series on Unsung Americans.

February obituaries were for Opal Adkins, Servia Akers, Geneva Bryant, Wayne McCarty, William Davis, Donald Dorton, Rannie Hall, Regina Mayo Roberts, Curtis Stumbo, Kirk Bolen, Delpha Gayheart, Azzie B. Hall, Ben H. Layne, David Louder, Green Bud Mosley, Pauline Northrup, Fred O'Bryan Jr., Pauline Osborn, Polly Rose Shell, Thomas Shepard, Pauline Stone, Bill Taylor, Sylvia Worland, William Allen, Rebecca Baldrige, David Gayheart, William Hale, Beulah Hall, Mildred Holbrook, Dave Kilburn, Sam King, James Maynard, George Redding, Violet Stumbo and Christopher Salisbury.

March

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo certified the order for a special election aimed at ending legal sales of alcoholic beverages in eight Prestonsburg precincts. Election was set for April 22.

Allen, Martin and McDowell areas got the option for new telephone services through modernization of South Central Bell facilities.

Dickeytown residents got a blast when rock dynamiting on US 23 shook their homes, causing damage to many structures.

The first of recurring high waters for the year hit on March 6-7.

Kentucky Lottery chose a Prestonsburg location for its satellite office to serve the state's southeast region. William O. Goebbel was named coordinator.

Prestonsburg Utilities got a bill for $2.3 million from Kentucky West Virginia Gas.

The county school board voted to cut personnel and close Drift and Spruce Pine elementary schools.

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center told of its interest in modernizing and using three mostly empty historic buildings on Front Street. The agency will work with the city to get funding through a Community Development Block Grant.

Floyd County is among Kentucky counties in which food stamp clients will be directed into jobs, vocational training or GED classes to remain eligible.

Shakertown Offers Look Into Kentucky's History

Historic Shakertown

Village appears to be in a backward time machine, with emphasis on authenticity and a simpler life.

Snow might cover the ground where the Shakers once prospered. The trees may be bare. But winter in the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill brings new opportunities for visitors to enjoy the particular qualities of the season: the serene beauty of the winter landscape, the austere grace of the architecture—no longer obscured by foliage; the slower pace. A tranquility permeates the village.

Warm hospitality and bountiful meals are a year-round tradition at the restored historic community. Winter is the season that the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill offers afternoon teas and winter one-price plans.

Those who have made Winter Weekends an annual tradition will find new events on the 1990 schedule. The popular Shaker music program will still follow dinner on Friday night, but each weekend features a different soloist or ensemble. Varied musical interpretations selected from over 20,000 Shaker hymns, will be given by the Pleasant Hill Singers, soprano Lisa Dawson, the Shakertown at South Union Quartet, or Time Change of Louisville.

Each Saturday brings new ways to experience Pleasant Hill. An introductory program features the award-winning documentary, The Shakers: Hands to Work, Hearts to God. This film by Ken and Amy Burns is narrated by David McCullough, and intersperses historical photographs and films with interviews of the living Shakers and scholars, and views of existing Shaker sites.

In addition to the time allowed for exploring the village at leisure, an in-depth tour is offered on Saturday afternoon. Conducted by Pleasant Hill's senior interpreters, the "Beyond Simplicity" tour will concentrate on specific aspects of Shaker life at Pleasant Hill.

The Winter Weekend one-price plan includes lodging, meals, tours and music programs. Participants are invited to enjoy all the planned activities or set their own pace for savoring winter in the village.

This year Shakertown has planned seven Winter Weekends: January 12-13, 19-20, 26-27, February 2-3, 9-10, 16-17 and 23-24. The all-inclusive price of $120.00 plus taxes per person, covers two nights' lodging, five meals, the village tour and all special events. Children's prices are available.

WINTER WEEKDAYS
The Winter Weekday one-price plan is available Sunday through Thursday nights from January 14 through March 8. The special rate for mid-week includes two nights' lodging and five meals for $85 plus taxes, per person.

WINTER TEAS
A favorite winter tradition at Pleasant Hill is afternoon tea. Served Monday through Friday, the tea includes a mouth-watering assortment of tea breads, tarts, ham biscuits, cheese wafers, candied grapefruit rinds, and a choice of hot and cold drinks. Taken in the candlelit Trustees' Office dining room, tea can cheer a dreary winter day.

ABOUT SHAKER VILLAGE
Located on more than 2700 acres in the bluegrass region of Kentucky, the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill is the only National Historical Landmark in the country with all services in original, historic buildings. The nonprofit, educational corporation preserves 30 original buildings and interprets the life and culture of this 19th century religious sect. The structures have been adapted to provide not only a tour, but also a country inn with 81 lodging rooms and a dining room.

For Winter Weekend and Winter Weekday reservations, write the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill, 3500 Lexington Road, Harrodsburg, Kentucky 40330 or call (606) 734-5411.

Veterans' Questions And Answers

QUESTION: May I borrow on my Veterans Group Life Insurance policy?

ANSWER: No. Your Veterans Group Life Insurance is a term insurance policy and does not develop a cash or loan value.

QUESTION: I have been receiving a widow's pension from the Department of Veterans Affairs for the past 20 years. If I remarry, will I be able to continue to receive the pension?

ANSWER: No. When a widow remarries, her pension terminates.

QUESTION: My spouse and I are veterans of the armed forces and plan to use our GI Bill education benefits to attend school. May we claim each other as dependents?

ANSWER: Yes. Any veteran may claim his/her spouse as a dependent for education benefits, provided a certified copy of the marriage certificate appears in both VA files.

QUESTION: I have questions about my recent Agent Orange examination. Whom should I talk to about my concerns?

ANSWER: If you have any questions about your Agent Orange examination, contact the environmental physician at the VA medical center where you had the examination.

QUESTION: Is it true that husbands of female veterans are eligible for the same Department of Veterans Affairs benefits as wives and widows of male veterans?

ANSWER: Yes. A husband or widower has the same status as a wife or widow of a male veteran and is eligible to receive the same benefits if otherwise entitled.

QUESTION: May a veteran be covered under National Service Life Insurance and Veterans Group Life Insurance at the same time?

ANSWER: Yes. The programs are separate.

Waste Not, Want Not; Landfill Costs To Rise

Higher landfill development costs combined with restrictions on the source of garbage could drive up trash disposal costs for rural residents to the point that "their garbage bills will be higher than their electric bills."

That was one message from state Sen. Greg Higdon, a Fancy Farm Democrat who addressed a legislative breakfast at the recent Kentucky Farm Bureau convention in Louisville.

Higdon, who chairs the Senate agriculture and natural resources committee, said environmental issues, such as solid waste disposal, will likely have a "big impact on farmers in the very near future."

He predicted that the 1990 legislative session will move to restrict the flow of out-of-state garbage into Kentucky landfills. But further restrictions on county-to-county movement of trash could price garbage disposal out of the reach of rural areas, he said. Higdon cited cost estimates for developing landfills under stringent new federal guidelines at upwards of $500,000 per acre.

"If we limit those landfills to be only for people in a single county, the cost will be prohibitive for those people," he noted. "The rural counties won't be able to handle the load."

Wetland preservation policies will be another key environmental issue in 1990, Higdon told the farm group. He said he expects a bill to be prefilled soon that would increase the state's land transfer tax and earmark the revenues for the purchase and preservation of wetlands.

Youth Program Available Through CAP

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program Inc. is now taking applications for a youth job try-out/education program in Floyd County which will serve economically disadvantaged school dropouts between the ages of 17-21 who are interested in obtaining a GED and employment.

The program is funded by the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program of Hazard and the Department for Human Resources.

The program will begin Monday, Feb. 12, and run for 13 weeks. It is expected to lead to permanent employment.

For more information contact the Floyd County CAP office at Allen, or call 874-2965. Applications will be taken Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Kentucky Jobless Rate Upward In November

Unemployment in Kentucky and the nation inched upward between October and November, producing matching rates for the first time in nearly 10 years.

The state's preliminary 5.2 percent jobless rate in November was up from 5.1 percent in October, but well below the November 1988 figure of 6.5 percent, according to the Cabinet for Human Resources monthly labor trends report.

Nationally, employment was up from 5 percent in October. Kentucky and the United States have not had corresponding figures since December 1979, when both posted 5.7 percent rates. The comparable state and national rates were not seasonally adjusted.

The federal estimate of Kentuckians working, based on census surveys, jumped 44,100 between October and November to a record 1,669,900. However, the estimate of unemployed Kentuckians increased 3,500, pushing the jobless rate up.

Meanwhile, a separate estimate, based on a survey of 3,700 Kentucky employers, showed a net decline of 8000 jobs in the state.

"The census surveys provide an unduplicated count of Kentuckians who are working, both here and commuting to other states," said Ed Blackwell, Kentucky's chief labor market analyst. "Information from the employer surveys shows the location and category of about 600,000 jobs."

"Historically, the federal and state figures have been similar, but Kentucky's recent economic growth has been so rapid that our job estimates may not reflect many of the new positions," he said. "However, previous estimates based on employer surveys have not differed by more than one percent from final payroll reports from the state's more than 70,000 businesses."

Blackwell said more inclusive figures from all the state's employers should be available by March. "When we have those numbers, our estimates of jobs in Kentucky may match the federal employment estimates more closely."

"It's important to remember that our figures are estimates used to measure trends. The only way to get an exact count would be to conduct a house-to-house census each month."

Trade employers reported 4300 more jobs in November, as more workers were on the payrolls at department and clothing stores and groceries, which were gearing up for the holiday season.

Service employment rose by 1000 with increases in business and health services. Other gains were in coal mining (+700); education (+600); federal jobs (+200); and transportation, communications and utilities (+200).

On the down side, agricultural employment fell by 9700, which Blackwell said is normal during the winter months, when the need for workers is reduced.

Construction employment decreased by 2200, as fewer building projects are planned for colder months, Blackwell said. Other declines were recorded in finance, insurance and real estate (-200) and manufacturing (-100).

The category that includes self-employed people, domestic employees and people working in family businesses showed 2600 fewer workers.

Crunching The Numbers

Steve Allen, center, directs the county's mandatory audit of Sheriff Department records, following Henry Hale's departure from office. According to Paul Hunt Thompson, Floyd County's new sheriff, the audit is causing some money troubles for his office, since the collection of delinquent taxes which funds the department's operations is not possible during the audit. Thompson hopes that the five day grace period, which will be allowed after the audit, will enable the department to collect December taxes.

December

The state's Appropriation and Revenue Committee supported more funding for the proposed Allen Elementary School.

The chairman of the Floyd County grand jury requested that a special state investigator examine the Nov. 7 local elections.

The county school board authorized sale of bonds for the proposed Allen Elementary and accepted bids for the first phase of the McDowell-Wheelwright Consolidated High School.

Record breaking cold swept in in mid-month and stayed, causing extensive damage to water lines and testing utility power.

CBS-TV's airing of a "48 Hours" segment on Floyd County drew varied response, but most residents seemed to think that the account was unbalanced and showed only negatives. It focuses on poor families, cock fighting, spouse abuse and other issues.

Floyd Fiscal Court sponsored a hearing on the installation of a 911 emergency telephone number in the county.

The state agreed to steer about $500,000 to the renovation of Jenny Wiley Sumer Music Theatre facilities.

Lottery Doles Out $108 Million To Players Since Games Began

At the end of 1989, lottery players across the state can cheer at their good fortune in receiving more than $108 million in prizes since the games began on April 4.

"Since our first day, we have returned about 50 percent of what we make to players," said Frank Keener, president of the lottery. "That's at least half of the proceeds from each and every game." Keener said that the prize pool is as much as 54.75 percent for some games.

Lotto Kentucky is designed to provide 50 percent of sales to players in prizes. Of the prize pool, 79.5 percent goes to the top prize of correctly picking six of six numbers, 6.5 percent to the five of six prize pool and 14 percent to the four of six.

Kentucky Cash, the lottery's daily game, is slightly different because it offers a fixed prize payout, but the game too has hit in the 50 percent range, with an average of 50.7 percent.

Since total cumulative sales are $216,193,968 as reported in the last week of the year, players have received about $108,096,984. The state receives about 35 percent or $75 million. Retailers receive five percent which means that those people who sell lottery tickets have received more than $10 million in commissions.

"Our leading retailer is still the Kentucky Souvenir Shop in Milton," Keener said. "The owner, Bob Rowlett, has successfully incorporated the art of promoting lottery tickets into his whole marketing strategy. He recently passed the $1 million mark in lottery ticket sales and has made his store the fun place to buy tickets."

Keener said that the lottery plans to introduce a new game early in 1990 "with a few other surprises planned during the year."

"A primary goal will be to expand our on-line retailer network," he said. "We have received another 350 terminals from GTECH and will install those as quickly as we can have telephone lines laid." He said that the additional terminals will bring the on-line retailer network to 1500 and that potential on-line retailers are being notified now.

Hall Sparks Rebels Over Trojans In His First Start

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

After the Allen Central Rebels fell at Magoffin County last week, fans almost expected some changes were about to be made in the Rebels' basketball camp. The Rebels turnover ratio versus number of possessions wasn't all that great at the Hornets' nest.

A change in starting lineups, one for better ball handling, another for missing practice, were in order for the Allen Central Rebs Tuesday night against the Wheelwright Trojans.

Senior center Joey Conn missed a starting assignment because of missing a practice. However, Conn got into the game late in the first quarter and contributed 12 points in the Rebels' 72-56 win over Wheelwright. Conn also pulled down eight rebounds for his club. Starting in the place of Conn was Mike Hancock.

Junior Brian Hall got the starting assignment at the point guard position as Kevin Spurlock was moved to the number two guard spot. Hall responded with 15 points, eight coming in the first quarter, and four steals. Hall found the openings in the Trojan defense and drove the lanes for a lay up or he pulled up for a short five-footer.

Spurlock says that he likes the new position. "I'm more creative at the number two guard position," he said. "I really like it at that spot."

Spurlock took scoring honors for the Rebels with 17 points as he also pulled down seven rebounds and picked up six assists. According to Coach Martin, he liked what he saw and will stick with the new line up.

"Brian (Hall) has been playing good for us," he said, regarding the new point guard. "I thought he deserved a chance, and he did a good job for us. I gave him the opportunity and he responded. Kevin (Spurlock) is the type of player that will accept any chance to win. He is a winner and wants to win."

Hancock scored first for the Rebels on a drive to the basket. Wheelwright standout Harold Johnson, who took scoring honors with 23 points, hit the next two buckets to give the Trojans a 4-2 lead. Brad Compton's free throw made it 5-2. Baskets by Spurlock and Hall gave the Rebels a 6-4 lead. Johnson hit the back end of a two-shot free throw to tie the game. Hall's basket with 3:46 remaining in the first period gave the Rebels the lead for good at 8-6.

The Rebels were getting good weakside help on defense to neutralize Wheelwright's 6'5" center Brad Compton inside. Compton had to work for his shot as the Rebels converged on him. However, with the concentration on Compton, Johnson found himself open for some easy baskets. Allen Central opened up a 14-point advantage, 31-17, and held the lead at the end of the first half, 40-26.

With the Rebels on top, 62-38, in the fourth quarter, the Trojans made a run by outscoring the host team, 13-2, to close to within 13, 64-51. An 8-3 run by the Rebels pushed the lead back out to 17 points as the Rebs won their second conference game.

"This team needs some wins," the Rebel mentor stated, following the game, "and we need to play some games in a row. The weather has hampered us. I don't want the kids to get down. Everybody thinks we should be undefeated now. But we lost two games to perhaps the best team in the 15th Region (reference is to Magoffin County) and then we lost to Clay County at Clay County."

"We need to be more consistent in our play and learn to take care of the ball better," Martin said. The Rebels committed only 12 turnovers in the game.

"In our first 30 possessions we scored on 21 of them," the Rebel coach went on to explain. "I thought we had a good first half but I didn't like our defense in the second half."

Martin, who was suffering from a ear infection, was pleased with his team's overall performance in the game.

Spurlock's 17 points led the Rebels. Cotton Parsons, who always seems to have a steady performance, tossed in 16 points with three three-pointers. Parsons also pulled down four rebounds for Allen Central. The Rebels shot 55 percent for the game and outrebounded the Trojans by just two, 33-31.

Wheelwright turned the ball over 13 times and made eight of 14 free throw attempts.

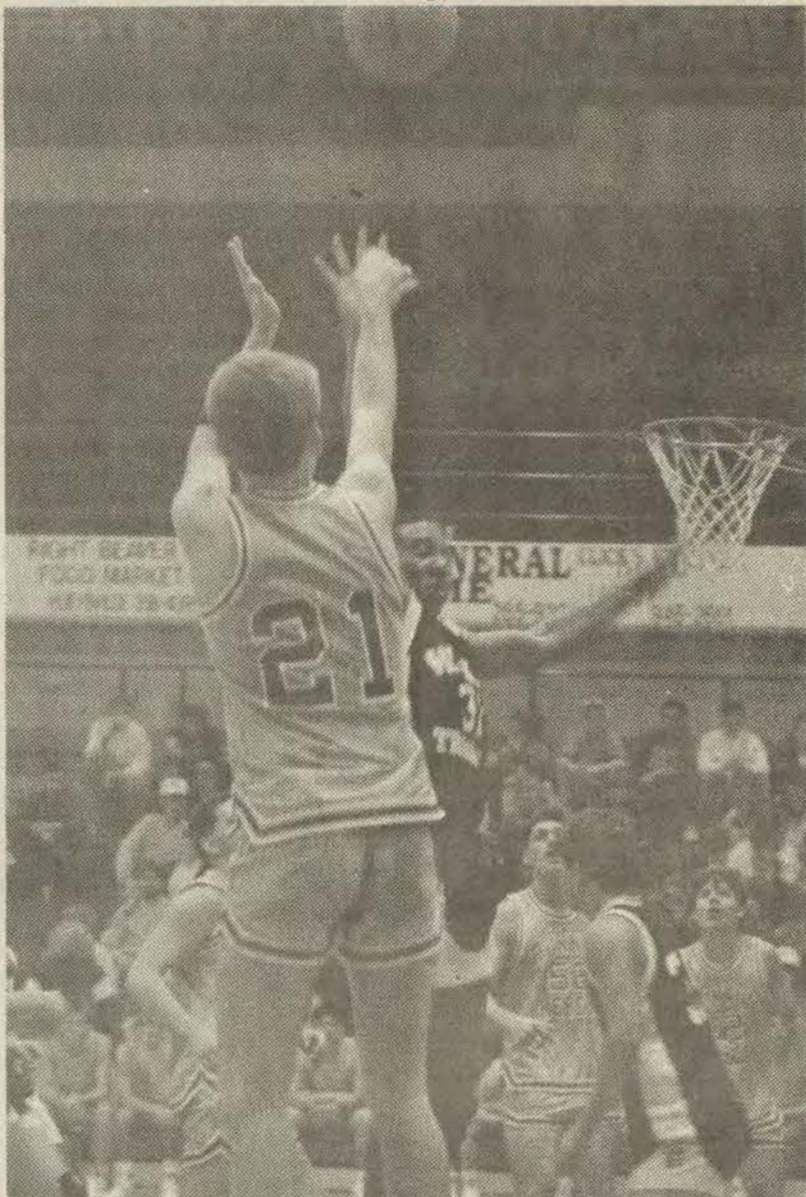

Johnson's 23 points led the visiting Trojans. Compton added 11 points in the loss.

Allen Central goes to 3-3 on the season and 2-0 in the conference. Wheelwright is 2-4 overall and 0-2 in the conference race. Allen Central will play Paris tonight in the Laurel Classic while the Trojans will host front runner Betsy Layne Tuesday night in another big conference match up.

Coach Likes Way Lady Rebels Played

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Allen Central Lady Rebels coach Bonita Compton says she likes the way her team is playing basketball these days, especially after it defeated the Wheelwright Lady Trojans, 53-33, for a big conference victory.

Senior all-conference candidate Jo Ann Conn scored 20 points to lead the Allen Central team to victory. Teammate Teresa Gibson, using the three-point route, scored 16 points.

The Lady Rebels used a tight zone trapping defense to confuse the Lady Trojans on offense. The defense also closed down the passing lanes of Wheelwright so they could not get the ball into Jedon Hood.

"We started out in a 1-3-1 zone with Jo Ann (Conn) coming out high. We tried to play Jedon man to man," assistant coach Edgel "Bide" Click remarked.

The Lady Rebels looked like a different team than previous outings. "The difference is bringing Jo Ann back to the middle under the basket. We had her out on the wing and she couldn't score from out there," Click said.

The move paid off for the Rebels as the senior center took some good passes underneath for some easy baskets. By posting down low, Conn was able to hit some short turnaround shots.

The ability to get the ball into Conn was another pleasant surprise for Compton.

"Gibson and Webb did a great job getting the ball in the middle," Compton said. "Our whole attitude is different."

"Webb did a good job for us," Click stated. "She knows how to run our offense."

The Lady Rebels opened quickly, scoring the first six points of the game on baskets by Stacy Moore, Conn and Gibson. The Lady Trojans tied the score just as quickly on two free throws and a bucket by Jedon Hood and a base line jumper by April Bradford. A 9-1 run by Allen Central gave the Lady Rebs a 15-7 first quarter lead. Gibson scored seven points in the period, including a three-pointer.

Conn took over in the second period using her quickness to get free for some close in shots. Conn scored eight second-period points as the Lady Rebels headed to the dressing room with a 27-12 lead.

Allen Central ran its lead out to 20 points, 39-19, as Conn continued her good play. Gibson hit two three-pointers to give Allen Central a 28-point cushion at the third stop, 50-22.

Wheelwright outscored the host team, 11-2, in the fourth period to close the deficit, as Compton emptied her bench.

Allen Central was horrendous from the free throw line, hitting five of 26 charity tosses. The Lady Rebels turned the ball over 12 times. Gibson had nine assists in the game, mostly on feeds inside to Conn.

"We can get better," Click said of the Lady Rebs.

April Bradford led the Lady Trojans in scoring with 12 points. Hood picked up nine points and Stephanie Little added five.

Allen Central improves to 3-4 on the season and goes 2-0 in the conference. The Lady Rebs will play top ranked Sheldon Clark Monday evening.

Wheelwright (33) April Bradford, 12; Becky Allen, 2; Jedon Hood, 9; Stephanie Little, 5; Carrie Smith, 3; Shena Collins, 2.

Cold 4th Hampers Bobcats; Johnson Central Wins, 51-48

With the temperatures warming up outside after a cold holiday season, the fourth quarter for the Betsy Layne Bobcats wasn't so warm as they went cold against regional power Johnson Central Tuesday night at Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats held a five-point advantage, 41-36, as the two teams began fourth quarter play. The Golden Eagles then outscored the host team, 15-7, to take a 51-48 victory over the county's top team.

Johnson Central's 6'9" senior center Joey Salisbury tossed in 19 points in leading the Golden Eagles to victory. Betsy Layne center Sam Stewart tossed in 21 points for game high honors. Adam Gearheart tossed in 19 points. After Stewart and Gearheart the scoring fell off drastically for the Bobcats.

"We had to go with some inexperienced players," Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome stated. "King was out with an ankle injury and, of course, Larry's still out." King, the team's second leading scorer, is expected to return to the Bobcats lineup against Wheelwright on Tuesday night.

"We still should have won the game," Newsome said, despite using the inexperienced players. "It will be good for them and the team later on in the year. The only time Johnson Central led was with a minute to go. We missed some key free throws and turned the ball over three times in the final minutes. We had the shots but they just wouldn't go down."

Newsome said he was proud of the way his team played against the Golden Eagles.

The only other double figure scorer was Conley with 13 points. Pelphrey ended up with just nine points.

Chris Newsome, who had a good game against McDowell, ended up with just two points. Keith Hall, another standout Bobcat player, failed to score.

"We're off the rest of the week until Tuesday night, so we can heal up," Newsome says.

The Bobcats drop blow the .500 mark at 3-4 and stand at 2-1 in the conference standings.

Johnson Central (51) Pelphrey, 9; Rice, 4; Conley, 13; Fairchild, 4; Salisbury, 19; Jennings, 2.

Hall's 31 Put McDowell Over Mullins

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Daredevils won their second game of the season with a 94-76 victory over the Mullins Tigers in the Pikeville Invitational basketball tournament, played Wednesday night at Pikeville.

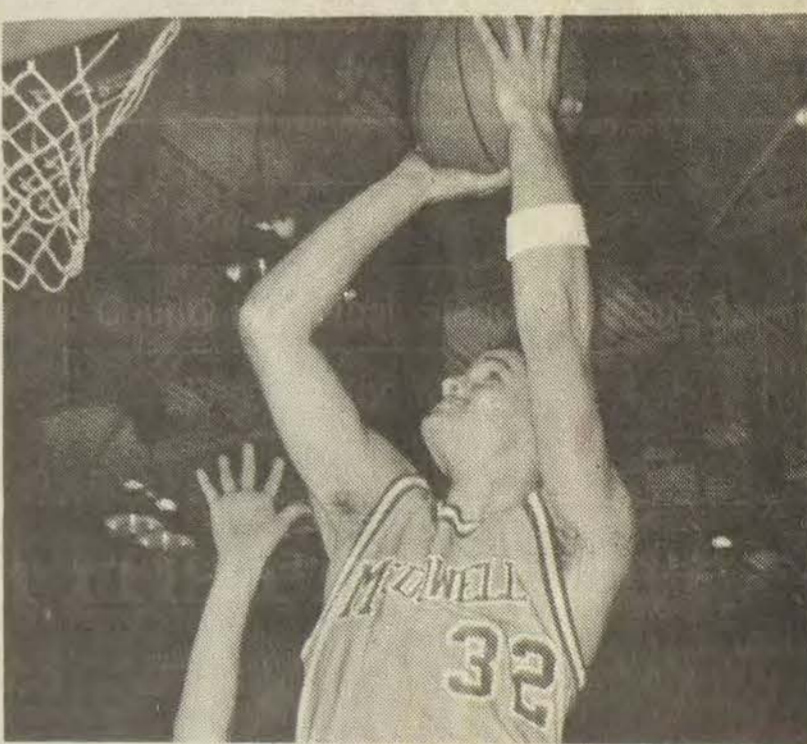

Senior Marc Hall led the Daredevils' win by tossing in 31 points. Senior center, 6'5" Keith Shelton added 18 in the win.

The Daredevils, 2-8, got only their second win of the season. However, they have been a good first half team. Wednesday night they put together two good halves to defeat the Tigers and advance to the semifinals of the invitational.

Both teams were hot in the first period with the Tigers holding a slim two-point lead at the first stop, 24-22. Russell Clark, Mullins' lone returning starter and leading scorer from last year, along with Jamie Boyd, led the Tigers in scoring with 16 points each. Mullins placed five players in double figures. However, that wasn't enough to offset the scoring of Hall.

A 24-17 McDowell second period put the Daredevils up by five, 46-41.

Best, Worst, Most, Least...

County Coaches Look Back, Reveal New Year's Wish

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

What a year it has been! Not only for basketball fans but also for the county coaches. We wanted to have some fun with the coaches in a question and answer time.

We started off by asking Bridget Clay of Prestonsburg about her greatest victory. She relates that it was in the 1987 district tournament when her team was victorious the first time. Clay says her most disastrous loss was when her squad lost to Johnson Central in her first game as coach.

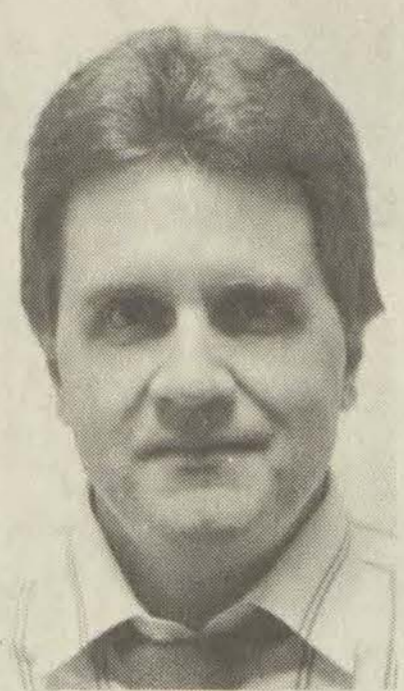

The Lady Blackcats' mentor says that her worst defeat came at the hands of Phelps in the first round of the 1987 regional tournament. The most disappointing loss was to Wheelwright in the 1988 district tournament.

What was the worst and best facility that she has played in? The worst facility was won by Morgan County, and Clay says that she prefers the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse as the best facility to perform in. Rule changes always have a way of getting to coaches. The rule change that Clay says she dislikes is the elimination of the jump ball, however, she applauds the three-point rule. The best opposing player to face her team was Autumn Damron of Virgie. No coach deserves a technical foul, but the Prestonsburg coach says she has been whistled for seven since she has been coaching. And the most unbelievable shot she has seen made in basketball came from her own Michelle Clemmons when with two seconds to go, Clemmons scored from half court. Clay's New Year's wish for everyone is to help the homeless.

Allen Central Lady Rebels coach Bonita Compton says that her greatest win was over Dorton in the regional tournament in 1985. "We had lost to them before during the regular season," Compton explained. The most disastrous loss was to Cassandra Keathley's McDowell Lady Daredevils in the district tournament in 1988.

Compton says that the worst loss she has ever experienced was to Whitesburg. The most disappointing loss was to Wheelwright when April Bradford hit a three-pointer to beat her.

The worst facility for Compton to coach in is Millard's gym, and she likes the confines of the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Compton, like Clay, dislikes the rule change that eliminated the jump ball. The loosening of the seat belt in the coach's box is the rule change she likes.

"...about 50-80 technicals"

The best opposing player to play against was Betsy Layne's Raquel Keathley. Compton goes one better than Clay in the technical foul ratings with eight. "The most unbelievable shot I have seen was when Billy Hackworth hit a shot beyond half court against us after she transferred from Allen Central to McDowell," Compton explained.

Compton's New Year's wish for everyone is to have a healthy season and her resolution for the new year—win the district tournament.

A win over Prestonsburg in last season's district tournament was the greatest win for McDowell coach Cassandra Keathley. However, Keathley said that the most disastrous loss for her was to Elkhorn City in last year's regional tournament at Paintsville. The worst defeat she suffered was a one-point loss to Prestonsburg during last season's regular schedule.

Keathley says that the most disappointing loss was to Wheelwright in the district tournament last year. "We played sloppy," she said.

Feds Creek gym got Keathley's vote as the worst facility she has played or coached in and Betsy Layne was the best facility. "I'm kind of partial, I guess," she said.

Bonita Compton
"...a healthy season"

The McDowell mentor doesn't like the three-point shot or the coach's box as some of the rule changes in years gone by. The change in the seat belt rule is to her liking.

"The best opposing player that I have had to play against is Glenda Vanhoose of Paintsville," she stated. Keathley says that she has had six technical fouls called on her in her one year-plus of coaching and a Lori Bryant basket beyond half court against Virgie was the most unbelievable shot she has witnessed.

Bryant says her New Year's wish for her team is that they will gain confidence and finish higher in the conference this year. Winning the district tournament is her resolution for 1990.

Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats coach Gary Hopkins, no stranger to the basketball wars, considers the win his team got in the 1980-81 preseason tournament final game as his greatest win. Hopkins says the 92-point humiliation at the hands of Allen Central was his worst defeat.

"The worst loss I had was at Clay County. That was my first game as a coach," Hopkins stated.

A loss to Wheelwright in the 1983-84 season was Hopkins' most disappointing loss. Hopkins says that the worst facility he coached in was the old Elkhorn City gym, and he likes the Knott County Central facility as the best.

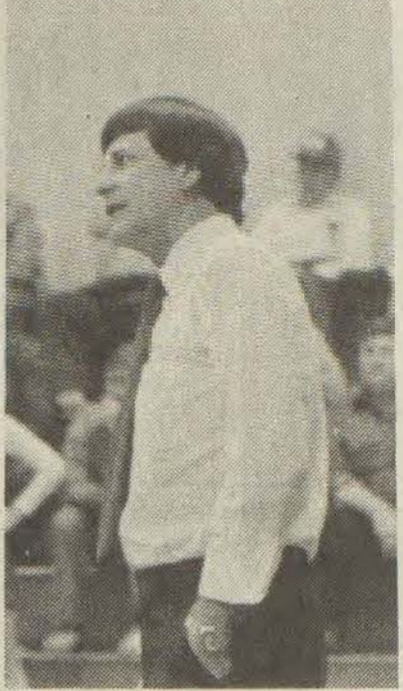

Cassandra Keathley
"...three-point goal"

The coach's box is the rule change that irritates the Lady Bobcats mentor. He likes the smaller basketball for girls and the elimination of the jump ball. Vancreeching (first name unknown) of Lawrence County is the best opposing player that he coached against, and Hopkins has received eight technical fouls during his coaching career.

"Joe Marsh hit a shot from half court in the district tournament to beat McDowell," Hopkins said as he described the most unbelievable shot he has seen. Hopkins' New Year's wish is to win the regional tournament.

First-year coach Donnie Daniels has to regard his opening season win as his greatest win. Daniels, who assisted at Bates Creek, says the most disastrous loss was in the finals of the regional tournament. The worst loss Daniels has suffered was this season at Hazard. The most disappointing loss was also the Bates Creek loss in the regional tournament.

The worst facility Daniels said he ever played in was the old McDowell gym and the Lady Trojan coach considers the Western Hills High School gym in Frankfort as the best facility. Daniels doesn't like the coach's box rule but likes the elimination of the jump ball. Daniels says the best opposing player was Candy Fannin of Hazard who also shot the most unbelievable shot at the hash mark on a hook shot.

Junior Newsome
"...Phelps in regional"

Daniels says his New Year's wish is to get the Lady Trojans back into the regionals where they deserve to be. His resolution is to learn more about coaching.

Betsy Layne Bobcat coach Junior Newsome recalls the regional championship victories in 1976 and 1980 as his greatest wins. The first game of the 1984 regional against Phelps was his most disastrous loss. Newsome says the worst loss he has suffered as a coach was a 30-point setback and the loss to Phelps ranks as his most disappointing loss.

Newsome ranks the old Morgan County gym as the worst facility he has coached in. The Bobcat mentor doesn't like the three-point rule change but likes the alternate possession rule.

Ervin Stepp ranks as the best opposing player who has performed against a Bobcat team, and Newsome has been the recipient of between 15-20 technical fouls in his coaching career. Jeff Riley's center court shot that beat the Bobcats one point was the most unbelievable shot that Newsome has seen. The Betsy Layne coach's New Year's wish is that everyone have a Happy New Year.

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin cites his team's two victories over Lafayette as the greatest wins of his coaching career. A 20-point loss to Betsy Layne in a preseason tournament game was his most disastrous defeat. His worst loss came at the hands of Prestonsburg in last year's district tournament. That game also ranked as his most disappointing loss.

The Cordia gym ranks as the worst facility that Martin has coached in. "We had to dress in the boiler room onetime," the Rebel coach explained.

Martin dislikes the changing of the coach's box, but he likes the three-point shot as a rule change. Former Virgie great Todd May is the best opposing player that Martin has coached against.

Martin says that he has received between 50-80 technical fouls since entering coaching. He was quick to point out that many came in his early days of coaching. "I would get around eight a year. But not so many now as then," he explained.

Martin says his New Year's wish for everyone is that they not drink and drive and his resolution for 1990 is not to lose anymore ball games.

Defending district tournament coach Johnny Ray Turner remembers when he was a big underdog in the district tournament and his girl's team upset Prestonsburg in the district to advance to the regionals. As a boy's coach, Turner says the 61-60 conference win over Betsy Layne was his greatest.

Turner's worst defeat was when he coached at Salyersville and lost to Johnson Central by 40 points. His most disappointing loss was last year in the regional finals when he lost to Prestonsburg.

"The worst facility was at Salyersville, because we had no gym," Turner recalls. "The best facility was the Knott County Central gym. The coach's box is one rule that Turner dislikes. The three-point rule is to Turner's liking."

The best opposing player was Keith Gregor from Henry Clay on the boy's side and Robin Harmon from Sheldon Clark for the girl's. Turner says that he has had less than 10 technicals called on him as a coach. Paul Anderson's last second shot that won the state tournament was the most unbelievable that Turner witnessed.

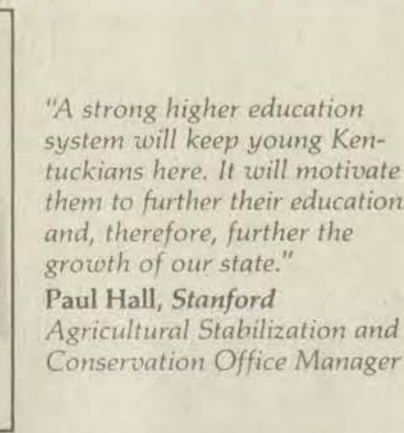

Turner said that his New Year's wish is that fans would support their teams more.

Blackcat coach Gordon Parido was in Lyon County when this survey was taken. We were unable to reach Monroe Jones from Wheelwright. We will try and get up with the two coaches to get their views of the past and a look to the New Year.

"It's our responsibility to provide quality education from kindergarten through college. The more educated our society, the higher the level of thinking. This can make Kentucky more competitive for industry."
Susan Wesley, Liberty Attorney

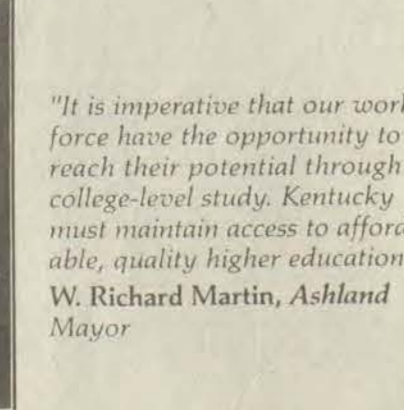

"A strong higher education system will keep young Kentuckians here. It will motivate them to further their educations and, therefore, further the growth of our state."
Paul Hall, Stanford Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office Manager

"Those who have benefited from higher education must make sacrifices and commitments to improve our schools. We must convince our youth that a college education is essential—it's not an option anymore!"
S. Dianne Blanford, Henderson Attorney

"It is imperative that our work force have the opportunity to reach their potential through college-level study. Kentucky must maintain access to affordable, quality higher education."
W. Richard Martin, Ashland Mayor

Priority Number One: EDUCATION

Two entities impact every person in Kentucky, each and every day: the weather, which we cannot influence, and higher education, which we must.

Regardless of whether your home is in the country or the city, the support and success of Kentucky's public higher education system is closely linked to your future... to the future of the nearly four million individuals in the state... and to the future of the Commonwealth itself.

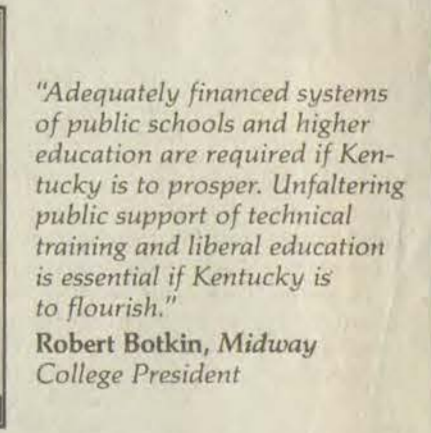

Although Kentuckians sometimes do disagree on major issues, this subject is an exception—nine out of ten concur on the importance of quality higher education.* Here's a sample of what people are saying, state-wide.

*Source: Public opinion survey conducted by Cambridge Reports, Inc., March 1988

"An intellectual environment promotes growth toward an individual's full potential. Even after your formal schooling, you discover the educational process continues indefinitely."
Dean Sorg, Frankfort Heating-Cooling Contractor

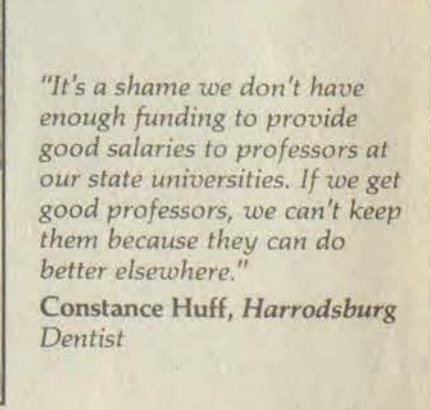

"Adequately financed systems of public schools and higher education are required if Kentucky is to prosper. Unflinching public support of technical training and liberal education is essential if Kentucky is to flourish."
Robert Botkin, Midway College President

"We all must realize that competition among states for economic development is greater than ever in our history. Therefore, we must continue to aggressively support higher education for Kentucky."
Danny Renshaw, Madisonville Company President

"It's a shame we don't have enough funding to provide good salaries to professors at our state universities. If we get good professors, we can't keep them because they can do better elsewhere."
Constance Huff, Harrodsburg Dentist

at halftime. McDowell had built a 14-point lead in the second stanza only to let the Tigers cut the lead back to five with a minute and a half remaining.

The third period was nip-and-tuck as the Tigers were able to close to within two points at 63-61.

The Daredevils' defense picked up in the fourth period as well as their offense as the Hall boys tickled the twine.

"We put pressure on them in the fourth quarter and that caused Mullins some problems," Turner related. "Stacy and Marc had good games." Marc Hall had 14 rebounds, six assists and five steals to go along with his 31 points. As a team, McDowell shot 55 percent from the field. Mullins connected on 40 percent.

McDowell committed 20 turnovers and pulled down 37 rebounds as a team.

Stacy Hall tossed in 15 points in the Daredevil win. Hall also had a game high 19 assists and stole the ball five times. Marc Hall had 14 field goals in the game as he took control and showed the leadership the Daredevils needed.

McDowell hit 19 of 32 free throws while Mullins connected on 14 of 27. "We played good basketball," Johnny Ray Turner, McDowell head coach, said of his team's effort against Mullins. "We're doing better as a team and have more positive attitude. Our bench really added to the win for us."

Also for the Daredevils, Keith Shelton had 18 points as he showed some aggressiveness in the game. Shelton had nine rebounds and five block shots in a good defensive effort. He also dished off four assists.

"Our defense just wore Mullins down in the fourth period," Turner said. McDowell improves to 2-8 and will play Pikeville tonight at 7 p.m. in the semifinal round.

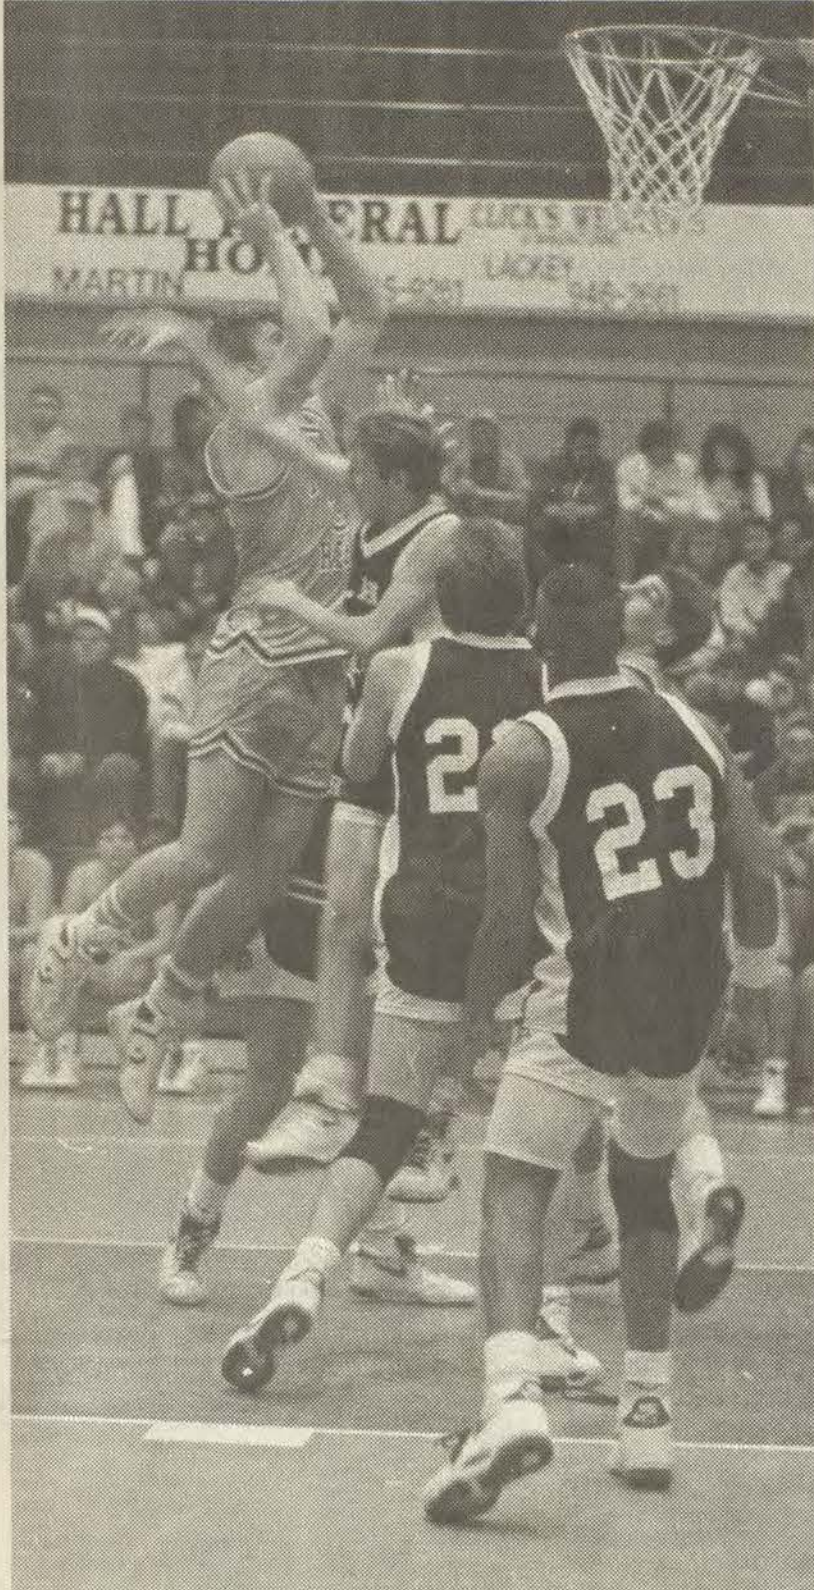

Besides Clark and Boyd's 16 points, Keith Justice tossed in 14 points and Jamie McPeck added 13 points. Joel Younker had 11 points in the loss. Coach Greg Napier's Tigers will be a contender by the time the district tournament rolls around.

All "A" Classic Needs 'Angels'

The Kentucky All "A" Classic needs angels! Sixteen of them to be exact, to assure the success of the first annual Kentucky All "A" Classic.

Estimated cost to stage the tournament — the first in the nation specifically for small high schools — is $100,000. Most of this is needed to provide transportation, lodging, meals and expenses for the 16 participating teams and to pay for tournament expenses. The balance goes to scholarships, equitably distributed, among schools participating at all levels.

Cost of bringing a team to the tournament, assuming each stays all week long, is about $5,000, according to Stan Steidel, Classic director.

Any funds left over after tournament receipts are added in will be returned to the participating schools as scholarships or as direct grants to the schools for use in educational programs.

In return for the $5,000, each sponsor will receive:

- Four seats in the special box seat section (floor level, courtside). There is no monetary value attached to this. You simply must be a special sponsor to sit in these sections.

- A banner/sign identifying each regional host/sponsor in front of the box seat section assigned to them, easily available to TV cameras.

- Valet parking for one vehicle for each session.

- 100 general admission tickets for the first session in which the regional team participates, a value of $500, with which the sponsor can do as he pleases: Resell, give away, turn back.

- Special listing in the program, valued at $300.

- Recognition in each regional program as appropriate, value $100.

- An interview on the All "A" Network during halftime of the appropriate game with the sponsor, value $300. Network will be statewide, the recognition will be statewide.

- A total of 75 free commercials, promotions, mentions on the All "A" Network, valued at $7,500.

Clark Falls To Stumbo In Tourney

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a good season for the Clark Lady Indians as they were 15-2 entering the Floyd County Grade School tournament Wednesday night. However, the Lady Indians just had to be paired against the only undefeated girls grade school team in the county, the John M. Stumbo Lady Mustangs.

Dee Dee Martin tossed in 18 points for the Lady Mustangs to lead them to a 39-25 victory over the Lady Indians.

Neither team was burning the nets in the game as the Lady Indians failed to score in the first quarter. Stumbo took an 8-0 lead in the first. Stumbo managed just three second-quarter points as Clark netted six. Stumbo led at the half 11-6.

A 16-6 run in the third quarter was too much for the Lady Indians to overcome as they fell behind by 15 points.

Along with Martin's 18 points, Melissa McKinney added 10 points for Stumbo and Cynthia Hamilton netted six.

Jamie Clay led the Lady Indians with 12 points. Christy Little tossed in seven.

Stumbo (39) Melissa McKinney, 10; Dee Dee Martin, 18; Amanda Hamilton, 1; Cynthia Hamilton, 6; A. Tackett, 2; Evelyn Hall, 2
Clark (25) Christy Little, 7; Andrea Shepherd, 2; Maria Hicks, 4; Jamie Clay, 12.

Newsome Free Throws Give Stumbo Boys 49-48 Victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Grade School basketball tournament got back on schedule Wednesday night at the Betsy Layne gym as both John M. Stumbo teams captured second round victories.

The weather has played havoc on the tournament which was to have been completed in early December. Because of the snow the playoffs were canceled until school resumed after the holidays.

Once the game began, Jason Newsome's two free throws with 19 seconds remaining gave the Stumbo Mustangs a 49-48 hard fought victory.

Newsome tossed in 17 points to lead the Mustangs' scoring. Derrick Newsome added 14 points.

With 23 seconds to go in the contest, Prestonsburg had a one-point lead, 48-47, and the ball. The younger Blackcats attempted shot missed, and Newsome rebounded the ball and took it the length of the court where he was fouled with 19 seconds to go. Newsome converted both charity tosses to give the Mustangs a 49-48 lead. Prestonsburg had the ball, and with four seconds showing, Jason Newsome blocked the shot of Chad Caldwell. The ball went out of bounds and back to Prestonsburg with one second to go. Prestonsburg lobbed a pass to Charles Shell who shot the ball before the time expired as the Mustang crowd held their breath while the ball danced on the rim and fell off.

"Shell played a great game for Prestonsburg," Mark Newsome, Mustang coach, stated. "We just drug around in the game and never really got into our offense. Prestonsburg also was a little stale in their play."

Stumbo employed a 2-3 trap zone that held the Blackcats at bay. Damion Stepp, the Blackcats' top scorer was limited to four points, those coming on four free throws.

"We put a chaser on Stepp," Newsome said. "He is a great ball player and we tried to stop him with a chaser."

Newsome credits the defensive play of Steve Johnson on Stepp as being a big factor in the outcome of the game.

Caldwell was top scorer for Prestonsburg with 13 points. Charles Shell had nine and David Gearheart added six.

Chad Frazier had 12 points for Stumbo to go with the Newsome boys' 17 and 14 points.

Stumbo will advance to play Martin in the semifinals on Saturday, Jan 13.

 Stumbo (49) Jason Newsome, 17; Derrick Newsome, 14; Shannon Newsome, 2; Chad Frazier, 12; Steve Johnson, 2; Rocky Newsome, 2.

Floyd County Grade Schools Resume Tournament Play

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

With milder temperatures in the air, the snow all gone and school back in session, the Floyd County Grade School tournament got underway Wednesday night at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne. (See related stories.)

The first round was played when McDowell and Osborne on Dec. 11. Then came the snows and the closing of schools. According to Mark Newsome, tournament director, the playoffs will continue this coming Monday and Tuesday evenings, Jan. 8 and 9. Monday night McDowell Lady Daredevils will battle the Maytown Lady Wildcats in a 6:30 p.m. encounter. At the 8 p.m. start, the undefeated Osborne Eagles will go up against the Jason Martin-led Wayland Wasps.

On Tuesday evening at 6:30 p.m. the Allen Lady Eagles will entertain the Lady Bobcats of Betsy Layne Elementary. Harold, winners twice over the Allen Eagles, will once again meet David Mosley's high flying Eagles at 8 p.m. to finish off the first round of play.

Semifinal action will get underway on Jan. 13 at 6:30 p.m. when two girls power houses get together for the third time this season. Doug Derossett's Martin Lady Flashes will go against the undefeated Lady Mustangs of John M. Stumbo. The Lady Purple Flashes have fallen twice to the Stumbo team in regular season play.

Martin boys team will go against the Stumbo Mustangs also for the third time. Martin won both of those regular season outings. Martin is highly favored to capture its second consecutive title.

On Jan. 15 the second round of semifinal games will be played at 6:30 p.m. when the winners of the McDowell-Maytown girls game will meet the winner of Allen-Betsy Layne. At 8 p.m. the winner of the Osborne-Wayland boys game will be pitted against the winner of Allen-Harold.

The championship rounds will be played on Monday, Jan 16, with the girls games getting underway at 6:30 p.m. and the boys following at 8 p.m.

Trophies and other awards will be presented after the championship games are over.

This will be a good tournament for all basketball fans to take in. The grade school tournament has always been a big draw in Floyd County. Some good eighth grade basketball players will be showcased in the playoffs. Cheerleading competition also will be part of the events.

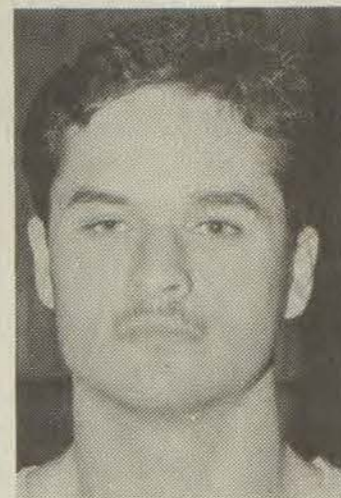

On any given day in America, roughly 20 million people buy take out food.

First Presbyterian Celebrates 90th Birthday on New Year's Eve

The First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg celebrated its 90th birthday and the completion of its 90th year with a bang on New Year's Eve, 1989.

The local Presbyterian congregation went into the decade of the '90s in grand style, celebrating the fact that it had been organized on the New Year's Eve that ushered in this century — Dec. 31, 1899.

The New Year's eve "Watchnight Party" climaxed a year of celebrations, the most significant of which was a decision to expand the church's facilities. Groundbreaking was Oct.

8, 1989. A historical drama was presented on Aug. 20 as a kickoff event for the fundraising phase of the building program.

On the last day of the year, the congregation gathered for a time of fellowship, refreshments, games and worship to bring in the new year and decade. During a period of table games, Prof. Robert Perry of Prestonsburg Community College played a ragtime and some old favorites for an old-fashioned "sing-along."

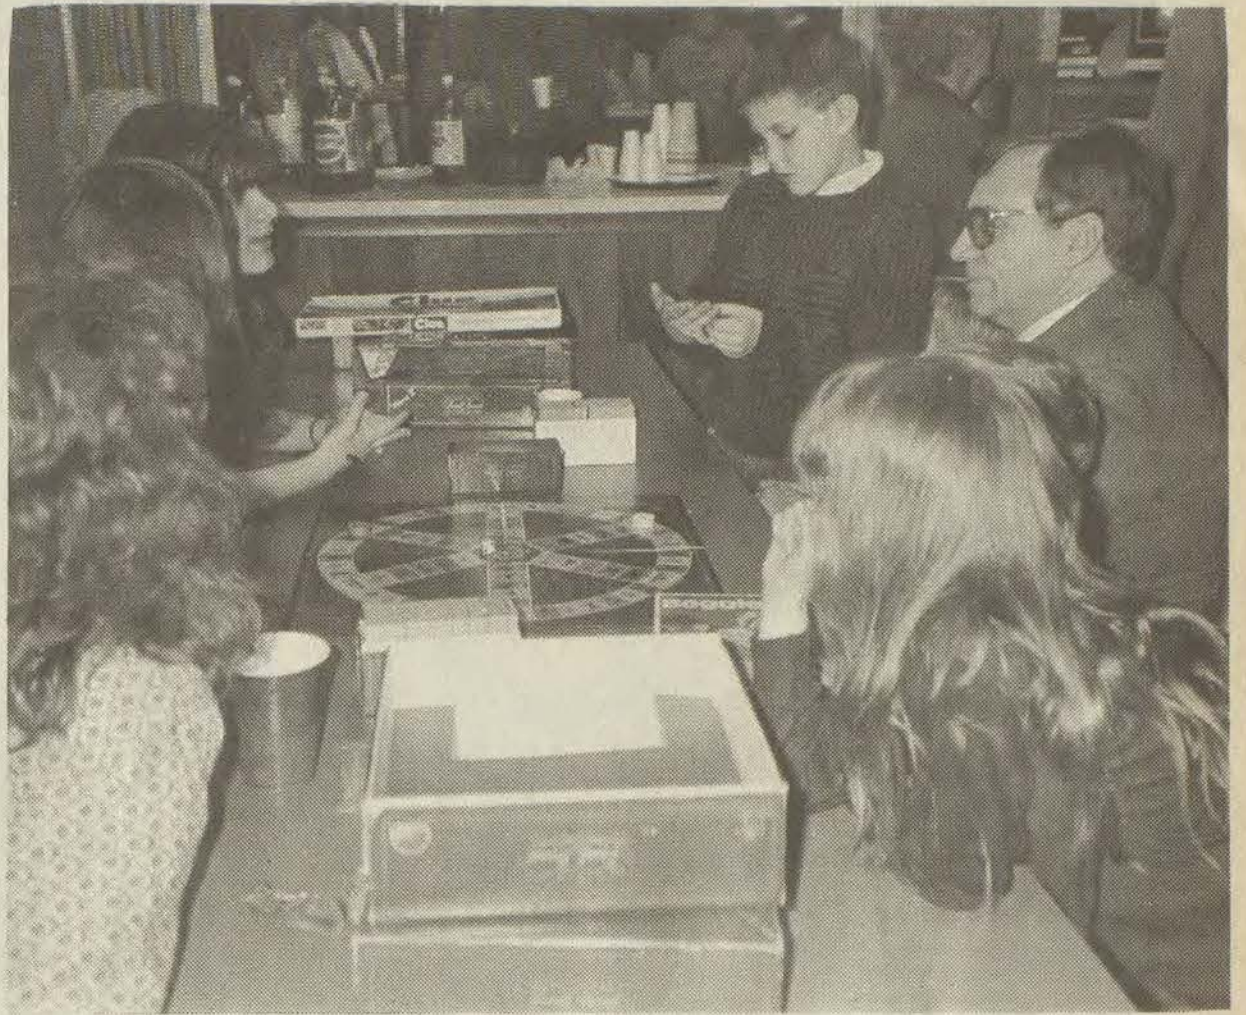

For the refreshment period, some persons were asked to bring recipes that were favorites of past members. Thus, the celebration included Mrs. W.C. Rimmer's brownie sheet cake, Mrs. F.L. Heinze's plain cupcakes, Mrs. O.P. Powers' white cake, Mrs. Emery Clark's oatmeal cookies, Mrs. Ruth Davidson Soward's date dainties and walnut cream candy, all prepared as they might have been sometime during the church's history. Preparation of these special treats was coordinated by Sarah Goble and her daughter Sue Martin.

The Goble family provided gospel music preceding the closing Communion service in the sanctuary. The Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the church during the decade of the '80s, asked worshippers to remember and recall events and persons in the past who were significant to them.

After the serving of the Lord's Supper, the service concluded just at midnight with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

On New Year's Day, workmen began to erect the steel that would form the structure of the new church addition. After celebrating 90 years here, the congregation proceeded quickly to new hopes and dreams as it moves toward its centennial, Jessen said.

'Trivial Pursuit' At A Major Event

Rev. Tim Jessen joined church youth in a playful game of Trivial Pursuit during a New Year's Eve program at First Presbyterian Church. In addition to watching the new year come in, the congregation celebrated the church's 90th anniversary.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Women's Club

Amid jingling bells, colored lights and other decorations of the season, and the scents of holiday foods, guests arrived Monday evening, Dec. 18, at the home of Libby Martin, south of Wayland, where she entertained the GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Women's Club members with the annual Christmas dinner.

Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, director, Pike County Health Department, was guest speaker, entertaining and informing her listeners with a color slide presentation of her recent trip to the Holy Land. Dr. Fox's knowledge of the historical facts concerning each location, her expertise in photography and her interspersing anecdotes made for a very enjoyable evening.

Eddie Howard, formerly of Wayland and a past club member, now a neighbor of Dr. Fox, accompanied the speaker to Wayland. Georgia Stapleton of Estill was also a guest.

While the speaker was setting up for her presentation, Anna Marie Martin sang "Thy Word" accompanied by recorded music. She is the teenage daughter of James E. and Loretta Martin and a granddaughter of Mrs. Otto Martin.

Those attending were Jo Ann Hall, Marie C. Mullins, Lula Coburn, Marsella Bradley, Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, Eddie Howard, Georgia Stapleton, Anna Marie Martin and Libby Martin with her co-hostess, Loretta Martin and Maxine Martin.

The next program meeting will be Monday, Jan. 15, at the home of LaFaye Hughes, Garrett.

Baby New Year

The first baby born in 1990 at Highlands Regional Medical Center was Savanna Latisha Evans, here with the proud mother, Latisha Evans of Lovely in Martin County.

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

As their family grew larger Rhodes had to travel farther and farther to hunt meat to keep his family supplied. He would hunt for one full day and spend the night wherever night overtook him and then hunt back the full day on his return. He would usually have a good supply of game.

One night while looking for a place to stay he found a cave. He pulled a log across the front of it and filled in behind it with dry leaves. The cave was a deep recess under an overhanging rock. He put his meat behind him and built a fire on the other side of the log. He had his supper and was sitting there when he heard a panther coming. He could see it's eyes shining just outside the circle of light. He'd raise his gun to shoot but was blinded by the glare of the light. He knew if he just wounded the animal it would attack him. He kept ready to shoot, knowing the animal was ready to leap. He knew he must do something quickly, so he grabbed a stick of wood that was burning and threw it directly at it's eyes yelling as loudly as he could at the same instant. He said that panther must have jumped twenty feet down that mountain side. He said he heard it go down the mountain, across the valley and up the other side screaming at every leap it took.

He decided he's better get some sleep. He lay down behind the log, but his hunting knife on his chest and held it, tip of blade up, with both hands. He figured that if the panther came back and jumped on him, it would hit the knife. Finally he went to sleep.

When he awoke the next morning the sun was shining and his fire had burned out. The panther had not returned.

Again, he was out like that. He was in an open space with no place to hide except climb a tree. So he climbed a big tree and hung his sack of game in the branches above his head. He made himself as comfortable as he could and dozed off to sleep. When he awoke the moon was shining and he heard a wolf sniffing around the tree. It reared up on the tree almost to his feet. He shot and it dropped down. After a few minutes a wolf reared upon the tree. He shot and it dropped down. He did that five times. He decided that there was something wrong with his gun that he should have killed that wolf. The next time when the wolf reared up on the tree, he shot a little to the left. The wolf yelped and ran off. He settled back and went to sleep again. When he awoke, after daylight, and climbed down from the tree there were five dead wolves lying around the base of the tree. He had killed one each time he shot. I don't know whether he skinned them and took the pelts home or not but anyway he had killed five wolves.

All the times he was gone on these trips Sally and the children were to stay inside the cabin and never open the door for anything.

One day it was real hot and she had a cooking fire on the hearth to get supper. She decided to open the door just a little bit so it wouldn't be so stuffy as she cooked. She was working at the table and felt that eyes were watching her. She turned around there was an Indian's head stuck into the crack of the door watching her. She grabbed the ax and swung it at the Indian's head. She was trying to split his head but he jerked his head back and she just got him on the cheek, splitting it from the cheek bone down.

When he jerked his head back, she bolted the door. She watched and knew that there were four outside. They kept going around the cabin to see if there was a way to get in. Pretty soon she heard them on top of the cabin. She kept watching the chimney. When she saw soot fall down she knew that one was trying to come down the chimney.

She ran to the bed, grabbed a pillow, tore it open and threw feathers on the fire. The smoke was so much, the Indian started coughing and scrambled out of the chimney. They left and she didn't see them any more. She evidently scared them as badly as they had scared her.

Rhodes must have been a powerful man, stout-strong. Once when he was hunting, he heard a man holler. The man had been bitten by a rattle snake. Rhodes did what he could in first aid. The man was so far along, he couldn't walk so Rhodes put him on his back and carried him about five miles to the nearest settlement.

He must have been a very stout man to do that. Anyway he was a champion prize fighter.

Back then, they fought with their fists. They would make a ring, two men would get in the ring and would fight until one was knocked out of the ring. Rhodes was champion in his county, and once, I don't remember whether it was Pike or Floyd Co. A champion of another county came and wanted to fight. Rhodes said, "allright, I'll fight, but let's have a drink of cider before we fight." The man agreed so Rhodes reached down, took the stopper out of a thirty gallon jug of cider and picked it up and took a drink. Without putting it down, he reached it to the other man. The man backed off and said, "no, I don't think I want to fight", so he got on his horse and left.

Rhodes and some men had been to the settlement for supplies. They were going to their homes, a rattle snake reared up on the bank beside the road. Rhodes reached out with his left hand, caught the snake by the throat with his right fist knocked its head completely off. The men hunted until they found it and said the head went about twenty feet from where it was knocked off. He must have been a fearless man.

After his brother Samuel came to Ky. and settled on Tolers Creek, Rhodes moved to the Mouth of Mud Creek, now Harold, but he didn't live there very long.

He got a job with surveyors. Back then you could survey a tract of land, register it and it was yours. So Rhodes surveyed on Spurlock, what is known as Spurlock Fork. Where all the Spurlocks live and got the deed to it. He built his house there and they moved there, him and his family. Showing you how land was at that time, this man working with Rhodes surveyed the whole of Prater Creek and it belonged to him. He offered to sell it to Rhodes for Forty coon skins. Rhodes said he could have gotten the coon skins in a weeks time but he didn't want Prater Creek. He didn't have any use for it. He had more land than he could cultivate and he'd only have to pay taxes on it. That was the problem.

They raised about everything they ate. They weaved the cloth for their clothes. They even made their own shoes. I don't know how they tanned their leather but I reckon they did for they made their own shoes.

Rhodes had a problem from one fall to the next to get cash to pay his taxes so he didn't want any more land to pay taxes on.

When they had to have something from the store they always took chickens, eggs, feathers, honey or something to trade for what they needed, there was no need for money and it was very hard to come by.

I often think what Prater Creek would be worth. The timber, minerals and all, if he had gone ahead and bought it for forty coon skins but anyhow he didn't.

HOROSCOPE

January 7 through January 13

By C.C. Clark

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

You are loyal to a friend who is attracted but seems arrogant or orders you around. You share laughter with one who helps to build a relationship.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

It is time to make a commitment to your job. You have been slacking off lately, and now it is important that you stay ahead of the rest of the pack to succeed.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

You get a wish regarding improvement and acceptance of your personality by someone very important to you. A woman friend could bring you great luck in business.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Justice will require you to pay obligations, like returning that overdue library book, or paying that parking ticket. Your job will require more time than usual.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

You will feel like doing your spring cleaning a little early this year both domestically and emotionally. You must break some long-standing ties that are bringing you down.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Be careful when shopping; you will feel a certain compulsion to buy everything. Don't. You are under a great deal of emotional stress that you need help with.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

You find an energy that drives you to do things you have been putting off for months. You no longer feel the restlessness, but a certain motivation to be a better person.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

It will be necessary to keep your temper in heated arguments with loved ones. The past couple of weeks seem to be nothing but one long argument. Things smooth out soon.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

You are able to cajole those who oppose your plans. You can mobilize your powers to conquer what is arrogant in a partner: join hands in a slow concession.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Though you feel tensions, someone who is friendly will help you to relax. Do a lot of research before making a major purchase, or beginning a new project.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

You will experience a loss in the near future, but you will grow stronger from the situation. Money problems subside soon and run smoothly for awhile.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

A child, or someone childlike will need your undivided attention this week. You will need to make some plans for future events that involve loved ones.

TV PIPELINE

'Growing Pains' star debuted in top miniseries 'Roots'

By Polly Vonetes
 Q: I would like some information on Tracey Gold, who plays Carol Seaver on Growing Pains. I thought she was 17, how old is she?
 —Kim Jackson, Madisonville, Ky.

Tracey Gold

A: Tracey Gold, born May 16, 1969 in New York City, was raised in Southern California. She is the oldest daughter of a thriving show business family. Her father, Harry Gold, is an actors agent in Hollywood, and her mother, Bonnie, is a former advertising executive. Tracey's career began at age 5 when she began working in commercials. She made her television acting debut as Missy Ann in the ABC miniseries Roots. Since then she has accumulated an impressive number of TV credits. Tracey combines her full acting schedule with her leisure time activities, including swimming, going to the movies and collecting James Dean memorabilia. She hopes to attend college and she would like to concentrate in the dramatic arts.

Q: My husband and I have a bet. I say the woman who plays the horny old lady on Dear John is the same one who played Samantha's forgetful and bumbling aunt on Bewitched. He says it was Claire Bloom. Who's right?
 —Barbara Bellringer, Eagle River, Alaska

A: I hate to tell you this, Barbara, but your husband knows his ladies. Billie Burke plays Mrs. Philbert on Dear John. Aunt Clara, however, was played by Marion Lorne, not Claire Bloom.

Q: Would you please give me some background information on Daniel J. Travanti? Birthday, schooling, marital status and movies he's appeared in and what is he doing now?
 —Pam Faile, Lancaster, S.C.

A: Travanti was born on March 7, 1940 in Kenosha, Wisc., the youngest of his Italian immigrant parents' five children. A straight-A student, he turned down athletic scholarships and left his hometown at 18 to enroll at the University of Wisconsin. After graduation, he studied at the Yale School of Drama and entered the Army. Following his discharge in 1963, he went to New York and appeared in stage productions and television shows. He was a regular on General Hospital for six months and guest starred on numerous series before starring on Hill Street Blues. His movies include: Adam, Adam: The Story Continues, Aurora, A Case of Libel, Murrow and more recently Howard Beach: Making the Case for Murder. He earned his master's degree in English from Loyola-Marymount University in Los Angeles in 1979, he is single and lives in Pacific Palisades, Calif.

Books And Things

By Trisha Morris, PCC Librarian

January, the first month in the Gregorian Calendar, begins with a celebration of New Year's day as a legal holiday in Canada, the 50 states of the United States and in 123 other nations of the world. Once a year Americans clean up their records, report to their Uncle Sam, buy a new calendar and remake all the resolutions they broke last year.

The following reference works from the PCC library are specially created to identify the significant days that are celebrated by the nations of the world. With their combined information the celebration of January one becomes very interesting.

The American Book of Days

Comp. George Douglas. A book that tells a snippet about every single day of the year. The information for January one fixes the beginning of the celebration of the New Year as 747 BC when the Roman world offered sacrifices to the god Janus and substantial gifts to their emperor. Since that time the day has been celebrated in many different ways. The Druids gave gifts of ceremoniously gathered mistletoe and the Saxons observed the day with gifts and festivals. In Scotland it was an ancient custom for boys to canvas houses asking for money and singing the ditty:

I wish you a Merry Christmas
And a Happy New Year

Instant Almanac of Events,
Anniversaries, Observances...
Poems For The Great Days

A pocketful of money
And a cellar full of beer...
And, in America the first Tournament of Roses was held in Pasadena California on January 1, 1886 because, the botanist Charles Holder suggested that carriages be decorated with natural flowers and paraded to celebrate the ripening of the oranges.

Anniversaries and Holidays, Comp. Mary Hazeltine. A book packed full of tidbits concerning the holidays both famous and obscure. From it we discover that the celebration of the first day of a new year has not always fallen on January one. In the middle ages it was March twenty-fifth, the ancient Egyptians began their year on September twenty-first, the autumn equinox, and the ancient Greeks celebrated June twenty-first, the summer solstice, as the beginning of their year. The Chinese make the new year celebration their greatest festival and for four thousand years, until adopting the Gregorian calendar, they celebrated the new year between January twenty-first and February nineteenth.

Anniversaries and Holidays, Comp. Ruth Gregory. A book like the others but different in its wider depth of information. It reveals that the first day of January is more than the beginning of a new year. For the Christian Church it is a holy day of obligation celebrating Christ's submission to Jewish Law with the circumcision. In Greece the first day of January is Saint Basil's day, celebrated along with New Year's day to honor the fourth century bishop of Caesarea. It is the birthdays of J. Edgar Hoover, Paul Revere and Betsy Ross among others. It is the independence day of Cameron, Haiti, Western Samoa, and Sudan. It is the Anniversary of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and it is the day of the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena and the Rose Bowl football game held annually since 1902.

Instant Almanac of Events, Anniversaries, Observances... Comp. Leonard Spinrad. From this book we learn that January was named after the Roman God Janus because his two face enabled him to look toward the future and the past at the same time. And that printers have a special reason to honor the month since it contains the birthday of Benjamin Franklin.

January is the month of medical anniversaries (heart transplant and appendectomy), of racial freedom (Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation), the first air flight (in 1793 in a balloon), and the opening of the UN headquarters. And since the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, January has also been the month of U.S. President's inaugurations.

Poems for the Great Days, Comp. Thomas Clark.

"Thoughts For a New Year",
by Gail Burket
Leave Tarnished sorrow, disappointment, doubt,
Old worry, prejudice, defeat and fear
Heaped like a cast-off weary load outside
The shining portal of another year.
Untraveled hills and valley
gleam beyond
That wayfarers attain with mounting zest.
Who hears no useless burden
from the past
Will find the miles ahead are best

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Homecoming Queen

Susan Renee Stephens, 13-year-old daughter of Johnny and Juanita Stephens of Hunter, was crowned McDowell Junior High Homecoming Queen for 1989-90. She is a cheerleader and basketball player for the McDowell Daredevils and is a member of the Academic Team and SADD.

Twins are born less frequently in the eastern part of the world than in the western.

Chess-Mates

Robert Perry and Trish Slone puzzle over a game of chess during New Year's Eve "watchnight" celebration at the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg. The congregation spent the evening in celebration of its 90th birthday and welcoming in the new year.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application
Number 836-5118,
Major Revision

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wheelwright Mining, Inc., HC 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41654 has filed an application for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision does not propose any additional surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 359.49 acres located 0.5 mile south of Price in Floyd County.

The proposed major revision area is approximately 1.9 miles north from State Route 122's junction with State Route 979 and located 0.1 mile east of Left Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37-24' 21". The longitude is 82-44' 42".

The proposed major revision is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by Wheelwright Mining, Inc. The proposed major revision will underlie land owned by Flossie Moore, David Dawson, et. al., Roberta Luxmore, Glenda Jones, Clovis Moore, Andy Collins, Wheelwright Mining, Inc., Jack Martin, John C. Frazier, James McGuire, Carl Dudley and Melvin Mullins.

This major revision proposes to reclassify 0.12 acres of stockpile area, 0.14 acres of haul road B and 0.33 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 face up area as Elkhorn No. 1 face up area; and transfer 355 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 underground mining area to the Elkhorn No. 1 coal seam.

This major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 10-27-4f.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.
