Copy costs to good marks

School Board Agenda Is Full Of Diverse Items

Issues ranging from the costs of duplicating paperwork and milk to the adoption of hiring procedures to increases in construction work jam-packed the agenda of the Floyd County School Board, meeting Wednesday night at Betsy Layne High School.

The board also heard reports on per pupil expenditures, emergency bus procedures, average daily attendance and the new family life planning skills curriculum.

The board approved bid changes—all for increases—on construction projects and projections for Prestonsburg Middle School, Garrett-Wayland School and the Left Beaver high school site. The requests came from architects and engineers working with the projects.

In a related matter, board members agreed to the installation of a chain link fence around the sewage plant at the Garrett-Wayland construction site to keep children away from a potentially dangerous setting. Also increased was the cost of duplicating school materials. Persons needing school records had previously been paying two cents per copy, which is quite a bit under what the service costs the school system, according to Superintendent Ron Hager. The board approved a new per copy cost of 10 cents.

Requests by vendors of milk in cartons to rebid existing contracts because of dramatic increases in the cost of raw milk were rejected by the board. "I know milk costs are going up," said Chairman James D. "Doc" Adams, "but why not hold them (vendors) to the original firm bids."

A representative of Pet Milk Co. responded, "This is the first time we've ever been faced with such costs of raw milk. We have always bid schools at a very narrow profit, but now we're in a situation where we're operating at a loss."

Adams appointed a committee, consisting of Hager, Assistant Superintendent Russ Frazier, food director Wayne Ratliff and Attorney Bill Francis, to advise the board regarding the purchase of milk products.

The board also accepted an offer by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Adkins to remove an unused mobile home at Betsy Layne Elementary School. School officials said the structure is unsafe and would be costly to remove.

The board also agreed to give its unusable and unsaleable, junked buses to the Floyd County Rescue Squad. The rescue squad indicated in its request that the buses would be used to practice extrication of children in case of a bus emergency.

On Hager's recommendation, the board approved the school system's joining of the Council for Better Education Inc. Also approved was the adoption of a safety policy supported by the Kentucky School Boards Association Risk Management Trust. Adoption of the policy will result in a three percent reduction of insurance costs for the system, Hager said.

Transportation director Earl Ousley was authorized by the board to apply for a federal license for a high frequency communication system. Ousley told of plans by his department to install a two way radio communications system that would eventually be operational in all county school buses. For a basic cost of $22,000, Ousley said, the board can purchase 20 mobile units, a base station and a repeater for a tower. "We would like to add about 20 more each year until we get a complete set," Ousley said.

Hager added that he hoped the communication system would "eventually be in all buses and all schools."

In his report to the board, Ousley also explained how he makes decisions on whether conditions are safe for bus travel. Among his sources of information on road conditions, he said, are the Jackson Weather Station, Kentucky State Police, highway workers, private citizens and bus

Clear Weekend

The weekend weather looks to be clear and cool, with no precipitation in the forecast.

Friday will be partly sunny and colder with daytime highs between 35 and 40. Friday night will be partly cloudy and cold, with a low dipping down into the upper teens.

Saturday will bless us with mostly sunny skies and continued cool temperatures, highs rising to 35. Sunday will continue to be sunny and cool, with daytime temperatures between 35 and 40 and nighttime lows in the 20s.

We'll see a change on Monday, as clouds move into the area and temps jump into the mid-40s to mid-50s.

Tuesday will bring a heat wave to the Floyd County area, as daytime highs stretch into the mid-50s to mid-60s. Lows will fall only into the 40s.

Enjoy the sun this weekend!

Martin Luther King Holiday Closings

Monday being a federal holiday will result in the closings of many federal offices, such as the US Postal Services, but other offices, such as the state Department of Employment Services will be open. Call before making a trip.

All area banks will be operating during normal business hours, as will all county and city offices. Garbage pick-up will continue its normal course and Floyd County Schools will be open.

Prestonsburg Community College has decided to observe the national holiday and all classes are canceled. Nor will the business office be open. The Times staff will be here working as usual, so to all those who have the day off, Happy Holiday.

At PCC Saturday

The Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics Math Bowl 1990, Prestonsburg Regional, will be this Saturday at Prestonsburg Community College beginning at 9:15 a.m. in the Magoffin Learning Resource Center. Schools participating include: Everts High School, Garrett Grade School, Lee County Middle School, Loyall School, Paintsville Junior High School, Pikeville Junior High School, Sebastian Middle School and Whitesburg Middle School.

Members of the PCC faculty will act as match officials with awards to be handed out at 2:10 p.m. by PCC President Henry A. Campbell Jr., Dean Robert Allen and Professor Hassan Saffari. The winner and runner-up from each region will be invited to participate in the State Finals to be held on Saturday, Jan. 27 at Kentucky State University.

Labor/Management To Meet In Pike

The Big Sandy Area Labor-Management Committee will hold its first meeting of the year at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 16, in the District Court Room at the Pike County Courthouse in Pikeville.

The committee was awarded a grant from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and is now able to proceed with a variety of projects that will foster communication between labor and management.

The public is invited to attend and give input. For further information contact Scott Robinson, program director, at 886-3036 or 886-3667.

Program Means Jobs, Independence For Mentally Ill

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Society has come a long way since the days when family members who were "kinda quire" were relegated to closed off attics and, more recently, since the days when they were whisked away to institutions for a lifelong robotic existence.

With the revolution in medications in the past 30 or so years, professionals who work with mentally ill persons now favor getting those people back into society and allowing them to be productive people.

But the stigma remains. Use the jargon of the psychological professions, such as "severe psychiatric disability," and most people conjure images of the mass murderer or the crazed gunman.

Psychologist Tony Bentley is trying to dispel those images and rid society, at least in this area, of the stigma attached to mental illness.

"Psychiatric illness is biological," says Bentley, the director of Project TIME, which tries to get persons with mental disabilities back into the job market and living independently. "It has nothing to do with intelligence or emotional capability, and most mental illness can be controlled with medications."

Bentley, who's affiliated with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in Prestonsburg, has been traveling a five-county region since last summer to drum up jobs for mentally ill and mentally retarded persons in the area.

"We have had fantastic cooperation from employers," says the director of the project, which operates with state and federal funding. "I didn't expect it. The employers who've hired these people have learned that they can function in jobs and do well."

One loud cheerleader for the program is Mark Thornburg, manager of the Sears catalog store in Prestonsburg. Bentley and his staff recently hailed Thornburg as their first "employer of the month."

"If I had the positions, I would take 12 more of him," says Thornburg, referring to the Project TIME employee he accepted. "He's always here, and the atmosphere among the other employees has been noticeably more upbeat since he came."

Thornburg's employee has had a "major mental illness for several years," according to Bentley. "He has been in and out of the state hospital and in intensive day rehabilitation programs. This is his first chance to earn an income in several years."

Bentley stressed that the employee is on medication and is getting strong

State School Board To Appeal Ruling; Grade Cards Vary

A ruling last week by a Franklin Circuit Court judge that seemed to overturn the State Department of Education's takeover of Floyd and Whitley county schools will apparently be appealed. That's the decision of the state board of education which met Wednesday afternoon in Frankfort.

The board stood by last year's move to intervene in the operation of the two school systems and indicated that both school systems will remain in Phase III under the Educational Improvement Act.

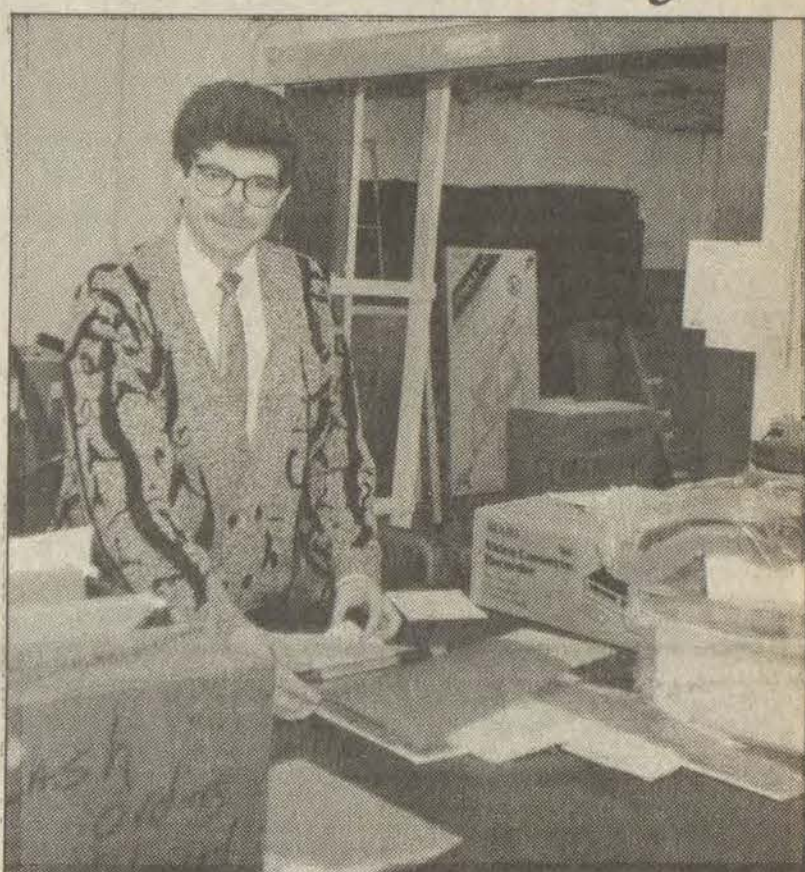

How the Floyd County School System is faring under the management assistance of the state department appears to be somewhat unclear, depending on which department official is talking.

In a report to the state board, Betty Steffy, deputy superintendent for instruction for the state, said the education department is "not as optimistic" about Floyd County's progress under Phase III as it is about that of Whitley County.

"Substantial progress has been made in the design of effective management procedures, programs and policies," reads Steffy's report on the local school system. "However, little evidence exists that the district has been able to implement these plans to the point where substantive changes are visible at the school, classroom and student level, with the exception of the student attendance initiatives."

"It is my opinion that a return of full local control for the Floyd County School System may not be in the best interest of the children there or the taxpayers," the report said. Steffy did, however, recommend that the local

'Employer Of The Month'

Mark Thornburg, manager of Prestonsburg Sears, has earned "employer of the month" designation from Project TIME, a Mountain Comprehensive Care program that places persons with mental illnesses or mental retardation in jobs. Thornburg was the first employer in the area to hire a project client.

Drug Sweep Nets Eight In Area

An area-wide drug sweep which began Thursday, involving state and local law enforcement officials, resulted in eight arrests, including a woman wanted for four felony drug charges in Floyd County.

Billy Sue Penon of Pike County was arrested on 33 counts of forged prescription drugs charges committed in both Pike and Floyd counties, according to a release by Kentucky State Police (KSP). She was one of eight persons arrested Thursday in Pike, Floyd, Johnson, and Magoffin counties.

These arrests represented the culmination of an 11-month investigation conducted by the Drug Enforcement Special Investigation Section of the KSP, in conjunction with KSP Post Nine, the four county sheriff's departments and the Pikeville Police Department.

"It's been a long time since we've had a sweep like this," said Trooper Lynn Cross, who was involved in the Floyd County arrest effort. "The way it works, is NARCs (narcotics agents) come into the area and get sealed indictments against offenders. The warrants are given to troopers, and we make the arrest, take them in, fingerprint them, and put them in jail."

"In Floyd County, the sheriff's department provides assistance to us, backing us up with deputies. On things like this, we like to work together."

Cross detailed Thursday's drug operation as he sped down KY 80 toward Hueysville, to rendezvous with narcotics agents, prior to an attempt to arrest a Salt Lick man wanted on drug charges. Two county deputies followed in a cruiser, providing backup in the operation.

"There's a well organized drug problem in the area," said Cross. "We see marijuana, cocaine, and prescription pills moving in the area. During these arrests, we have to be very careful when approaching homes."

The home in Salt Lick where the suspected drug felon was thought to reside was first approached by narcotics agents, in order that a correct identification of the suspect could be made. Trooper Cross and Floyd County Deputies waited to make the arrest. No one was on the premises, and the operation was temporarily suspended.

KSP noted that 43 felony and 12 misdemeanor warrants were issued in the four counties. The operation began at 9 a.m. Thursday, and resulted in eight arrests as of 4:30 p.m. Thursday, with seven arrests pending. Offenders were lodged in the county jails where the arrests were made.

Included among those arrested were Henry Burger, Robert Webb, Dewey D. Bishop, and Tony Fronto of Pike County, Jeff and Kenneth VanHoose of Johnson County, and Valerie Oney Montgomery of Magoffin County.

The drug arrest operation will continue until all suspects are apprehended, state police said.

Reckless Homicide Is Jury Verdict

A Prestonsburg woman has been found guilty of reckless homicide in the 1988 shooting death of her husband, a Floyd County deputy sheriff.

A special grand jury handed down the verdict Wednesday morning, determining that Betty Layne, 54, shot her husband, Nathaniel Buck Layne, 53, during a domestic dispute at their home in Goble-Roberts on Oct. 30, 1988.

According to Perry County prosecuting attorney Andy Markelonis, the defendant alleged that her husband attacked her with a police nightstick and a revolver during the incident. She testified that she attempted to prevent the attack by firing a pistol. Investigation showed that the deceased was shot three times in the chest and abdomen.

The defendant claimed self-defense, stating that she was a long-term victim of abuse. Markelonis contended that the defendant did not have any injuries following the death of her husband and questioned the validity of this defense.

The jury reduced the initial indictment of murder to the lesser charge of reckless homicide.

Markelonis expressed disappointment at the verdict. "I believe the defendant deserved at least a manslaughter conviction in the case," said the prosecutor. "When it was reduced to reckless homicide, I asked for the maximum penalty of five years, but she was just given a year in the correctional facility. I'm very disappointed by the jury's decision."

Attorney Larry Webster of Pike County represented the defendant in the trial. Special Prosecutor Markelonis was brought into the case when Floyd County Commonwealth's Attorney Jerry Patton was determined to have a conflict of interest in the case, having represented the defendant's family in prior civil cases, said Patton's secretary Dave Woods.

Robber Foiled By Intended Victim

An attempted robbery Tuesday resulted in the arrest of a Langley man.

According to state police records, Randy Manuel of Langley knocked on the door of Charles Robinson of Maytown at about 12:18 a.m. Tuesday, wearing a mask and armed with a shotgun.

Robinson apparently refused to allow Manuel entry into his home. Manuel then allegedly fired through the door and forced his way into the house. Robinson struggled with his assailant and was able to hold the robber until police officers arrived.

Manuel is currently being held in the Floyd County Jail. He is charged with first degree robbery and wanton endangerment. No injuries were reported in the incident.

Calling In The Troops

Trooper Lynn Cross speaks by radio with agents of the Drug Enforcement Special Investigation Section of the Kentucky State Police yesterday near Garrett. State Police, narcotics agents, and county sheriff's departments participated in the drug arrest sweep throughout Floyd, Johnson, Pike, and Magoffin Counties. About 43 felony warrants were issued and eight arrests were made, as a result of an 11-month undercover narcotics investigation conducted in the region.

Regional Roundup

Hazardous Truck Spill Forces Evacuation

PIKE COUNTY — A tanker truck carrying liquid nitrogen turned over on its side on Ky. 319 near Hardy Wednesday night, at about 9:20 p.m., resulting in a vapor leak which forced the evacuation of 50 people.

The tanker truck, driven by Robert Travis, turned over and began leaking the nitrogen vapor. Disaster and Emergency Service personnel, firefighters from Belfry and Blackberry, and the Pike County Sheriff's Department responded. 50 persons who lived within a half mile radius of the accident were evacuated at midnight, according to state police reports.

The roadway was cleared by 8 a.m. and evacuees were allowed to return to their homes.

Woman Killed In House Fire

MOREHEAD — A 21-year-old woman was killed Sunday in a house fire, which is suspected to have started accidentally by a 15-year-old who was smoking in an adjoining bedroom.

Doris Caudill had just moved into the home with her family three days prior to the fire. Allegedly, her sister, Doris Caudill, was smoking cigarettes in another bedroom, lighting them with candles. The girl believed she had extinguished the flames before going to sleep. There was no electricity in the house.

Four other family members escaped the blaze, suffering from cuts, burns and smoke inhalation. A Morehead firefighter was also injured in the blaze.

Elliottville and Morehead fire departments responded to the fire. (Morehead News)

Coalfield Shoot-Out Indictments Dismissed

HAZARD — Indictments were dismissed Monday against four men charged in a shoot-out over a coal hauling contract in Perry County.

Elhannon Jones Jr., 61, was shot to death on the road leading to Lost Mountain mine owned by Cyprus Coal Company on March 4, 1989. Zack Caldwell, 62, part owner of a rival trucking company, which outbid Jones for the hauling contract in 1988, was shot once in the side, but survived the incident, and was charged with murder. Don Jones, 28, and Walter Ritchie, 25, were charged with tampering with evidence in the case.

Special prosecutor and Letcher County Commonwealth's Attorney James Craft cited the need to conduct additional investigation, while moving to dismiss the indictments. Perry Circuit Judge Calvin Manis agreed that questions surrounding the case needed to be cleared up, and granted the motion.

A special prosecutor is expected to submit the case to a new grand jury next year. (Louisville Courier-Journal) drivers.

In other reports, the board heard much good news.

In his treasurer's report, Russell Frazier revealed that the system's ending balance in December was more than $980,000.

Frazier also reported that the school system's expenditures on library books, textbooks and instructional materials this year will amount to $26.45 per pupil, about $10 more than is required by the state. Frazier said the Floyd County system is now ranked number one in the state among schools of similar size in per pupil expenditure in this area.

Administrator E.P. Grigsby Jr. also gave a positive report on average daily attendance figures. "At the end of the first three months of this school year, we had an average daily attendance for the district of 96.2 percent," he said. Last year's figure for the same period was 94.99 percent, he added.

For the fourth month, the ADA was 93.7, Grigsby said, compared to 92.5 for the same month last year. He commended the high schools for "tremendous improvement."

Assistant Superintendent Gary Frazier reported on the state-mandated curriculum in family and parent life skills, which he said is to start this month in some schools. He added that parents may review the curriculum for different grade levels at each school library and he explained that parents have options if they don't want their children to participate in the program.

The board made no public comment on its collective or individual reaction to last week's ruling by Franklin Circuit Court that struck down the State Department of Education's intervention in the local school system. Nor was there reaction to the State Board of Education's decision to appeal the court decision.

County Attorney Jim Hammond swears in newly-elected Wayland Mayor Hobert Webb and Councilman Gene Mullins on Wednesday night at the Wayland town hall. Hammond had to produce his own Bible for the ceremony, prompting some lighthearted concerns among those gathered that the Wayland council might need future religious guidance.

Pack Suit Is Settled

A legal settlement between Ervin B. Pack, former principal of Wheelwright High School and a physical education instructor at Melvin Elementary, and the Floyd County School Board was reached Dec. 27, at the U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

According to a press release provided by school board attorney Bill Francis, Pack agreed to receive $25,000, plus one half of a year's salary for a physical education teacher in the school system for the 1989-1990 school year, in payment for damages of any and all monetary claims made by Pack.

Pack agreed to reimburse the school system, via the Floyd Circuit Court Clerk, in the amount of $8,901, for monies allegedly misappropriated while he was principal at Wheelwright.

The $10,000 paid to Pack came from a Pittsburgh insurance company.

As a part of the final order, the school board and former superintendent Pete Grigsby continue to deny any wrongdoing on their part, in the removal of Pack from his position. The board noted that because litigation could be lengthy and expensive, it was determined that a settlement would be most beneficial for the school system.

district be given one more year to "demonstrate it can meet minimum state standards for accreditation, academic achievement, dropout rate, attendance, fiscal responsibility and a balanced budget."

On this end of the state, just a short time after the meeting where Steffy read the department report, Robert Gover told the Floyd County Board of Education meeting at Betsy Layne High School of his report to the state's education officials. Gover is the department's designee in working on site with Floyd and Pike county school systems.

"I want to compliment you on the progress I see you're making," Gover told the local board. Of his written report, dated Dec. 15, 1989, and addressed to Dr. John Brock, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, Gover said, "I think it's a good report. It shows that progress has been made."

Gover's report highlighted the fact that the local board's working budget was balanced, that recommended staff positions had been eliminated, that several recommended staffing recommendations were in the works, and that the percentage of pupil attendance appeared to be improving.

He also pointed to positives in increased staff meetings in individual schools, the implementation of a superintendent's newsletter and of administrator training, the adoption of planning initiatives and goal setting, and changes in hiring practices and in the advertising for positions.

Among Gover's recommendations were "heightening efforts in establishing trust with the community," continued curriculum monitoring and the need for a "comprehensive plan of building maintenance." He also recommended the addition of assistant principals at many of the schools. "Your principals are worked pretty doggone hard, especially in the high schools," he told the board.

In the first paragraph of his report, Gover said, "The challenges facing the Floyd County Schools are enormous and the fiscal resources available to them are severely limited. Even more crippling to their educational progress is the maneuvering of those individuals and groups 'out of power' to subvert the actions of those empowered to move the district forward. Oftentimes, in this struggle, sight of developing educational programs for children is dimmed."

At the board meeting, member Tommy Boyd asked Gover, "Why did (you) give a glorious report and Brock on TV just killed us?" (He was apparently referring to comments by Brock at a news conference following the state board meeting.)

"I'm just speaking for myself," Gover said.

It was stated Wednesday in Court-house News that, in a suit involving Robert Duncan v. Milo Bryant and Steven Coffey, the plaintiff was seeking to have his driving privileges reinstated, following charges of DUI in August, 1989. The suit brought by Duncan actually requested reinstatement due to an alleged refusal to take a breathalyzer test.

Bad Spill On A Tight Corner

A coal truck driver experienced difficulty negotiating this curve on KY 979, near Teaberry, last week. Truck drivers in the Mud Creek area have expressed concerns to Floyd County Times reporters in recent weeks over road conditions and the need for road improvements within the county. Higher fuel prices have also had an economic impact on area drivers, prompting driver strikes in Pike County.

Four Day Diabetes Seminar At HRMC Prefaces Unit Opening

JOHN FURCOLOW, MD

Diabetes is an age old condition plaguing thousands and with no apparent cure, only treatment. Alarming is the diabetes incidence rate in the Big Sandy Valley, at nearly six percent of the population, surpasses all national averages.

In order to better serve the needs of area diabetic patients, Highlands Regional Medical Center has announced the opening of an In-Patient Diabetic Unit in the spring of 1990.

In preparation for the unit's opening, an in-depth, four day diabetes education seminar was held at Highlands in December for all involved nursing personnel. Guest speakers from related medical and ancillary departments presented information covering all aspects of the condition and problems affecting the diabetic patient.

Dr. John Furcolow, MD, internist, addressed the Pathophysiology aspects of diabetes, its two types (diabetes mellitus and diabetes insipidus); the role of labs; acute complications of the disease and the effects of hypoglycemia (an abnormal, decrease of sugar in the blood).

Don Hicks, technical director of the lab, discussed different tests required to properly evaluate the diabetic patient.

Tom McIntire, director of pharmacy, reviewed medications, such as insulin and other oral agents needed for the treatment of various diabetic conditions.

Dr. Mark Caruso, MD, internist, discussed chronic complications related to diabetes including Vascular (blood vessel) Disease, Retinopathy (noninflammatory disease of the eye), Neuropathy (functional disturbances or pathological changes in the peripheral nervous system), and Hypertension/Hyperlipidemia (high blood pressure/high concentration of fatty substances in the plasma).

Barbara Rodenbeck, dietitian, provided information on the newest concepts of the nutritional management of diabetes through diet.

Linda Omer of physical therapy services spoke on exercise and the diabetic patient and the treatment of foot infections frequently found in diabetics.

Brian VanHoose, manager of CDS Home Care Equipment Company, demonstrated different types of glucometers available for monitoring blood sugar levels.

Lora Hamilton, RN, quality assurance, and coordinator of the diabetes seminar, spoke on effectively teaching the diabetic patient self help training in areas such as blood sugar monitoring and insulin injections. She also addressed the psychosocial implications faced by all diabetic patients.

Hamilton stated, "Highlands' new Diabetic Unit will provide comprehensive in-patient treatment of acute symptoms which are serious enough to require hospitalization. Currently, many of these patients must seek hospitalization in distant cities.

Following the "48 Hours" television show on Muddy Gut, a local TV station aired an answer to that report. If you recall, a number of local officials and leaders were on hand to comment on the CBS coverage of how things are in Eastern Kentucky.

On hand to add to these comments was Kentucky Governor Wallace Wilkinson. Although he did object to the network's handling of the subject, he made a comment that was quite disturbing to a number of people. The infamous remark was his reference to two Kentuckys.

I really did not know what he meant by the term "two Kentuckys" until his appearance yesterday before the legislature. Now I know there are two Kentuckys. Number one is all of Kentucky, but the eastern part, which appears to be number two.

In his address, the governor was proposing building, funding, repairing, widening, growing and anything progressive, for everywhere but Eastern Kentucky.

What about it? If those folks in Frankfort didn't know how we were going to vote each election, do you think we might get more?

The Floyd County Times has at times come under some heavy fire about its policy of withholding names of writers of letters to the editor. It's a policy which we think is necessary at this time.

I don't particularly like having such a practice, but until the attitudes in some corners of our county change, it's necessary.

For example, during the take-over of the Floyd County Education System by the state, would we have received so many letters to the editor if we were going to print the writer's name? Would they have written the letters and signed their names without fear of losing their jobs?

We at The Times require that each letter to the editor be signed, with an address and telephone number listed. We then verify the authenticity of each letter before it's printed.

There are times when even this policy is taken advantage of by a few. But, if you follow the rules, anybody can play. In a letter to the editor in this past Wednesday's paper, I believe our policy of allowing names to be withheld by request was taken advantage of.

The writer, it is noted, falls into the category of possible political revenge should their name be signed to the letter. However, this person walked a very fine boundary line between what is allowable and what is not.

Their letter, which is under the heading "Agin' Stumbo", raises a number of questions about roads in our area, jobs, etc., and the reader is offered a multiple choice of names to answer the questions with. Of these multiple choices, Rep. Greg Stumbo's name is the only one which appears in all the questions.

Our "name withheld by request" policy is for those concerned citizens who are the everyday folks who know and see things about our county they think we should be aware of. They're the ones who could be fired or persecuted for things they write.

The "Agin' Stumbo" letter was a poor disguise of what the author wanted. Do you know what he/she wanted? a.) A cheap political shot at Stumbo; b.) Another sleazy way of showing how politics are still operated in Floyd County; c.) How sometimes it takes no guts to stir up something if your name is withheld; or d.) To slam Walt Disney, since Goofy's name was the second most used in the questionnaire.

Letters

Reader Offers A Different View Of Eastern Kentucky

Dear Editor,
Let me try my hand at a view of Eastern Kentucky. It is not the land of junk cars and trash, but rather the land filled with beauty.

There is no place on earth as beautiful as Eastern Kentucky in the springtime or fall. The spring is filled with flowers of every color and in the fall we have trees filled with colors that inspire the hearts and brushes of many artists.

Many poets live up here in the mountains. I guess it because we live far away from the city life and close to nature that we are able to see the real beauty of God's wonderful world. That is hidden by large buildings in the cities.

There is no feeling so great as to go to the top of one of these hills, sit down and listen to the sounds around you; birds singing, woodpeckers making holes in trees, see a woodchuck, a ground squirrel or the wild rabbit, or maybe see a raccoon. See the squirrels playing, having the time of their life. It's the same with the people; we enjoy life because, like the birds that fly, we are free to live the way we choose to live.

You have heard about the mountain top experiences, let me share a real mountain top experience with you. Go to the top of any of our mountains, look out over the horizon, what will you see? A world filled with every shade of green, trees as far as the eye can see and a sky filled with blue.

Eastern Kentucky is filled with lakes for swimming and fishing. I can't understand why "48 Hours" and Mr. Jones chose to come down here and play in the mud after a flood in Muddy Gut Hollow, when they could have told the rest of the story. I guess some people just like to play in the mud and never see the real world around them.

In the words of the poet James Still: "I shall never leave these hills" or the words of the editor of the Floyd County Journal, Tim Sizemore, "It's not money for gas that keeps me from going to New York City, it's my heart."

The pride of Eastern Kentucky is in the hearts of our people. We are stickers like Elmer's Glue. There is a bond between us that cannot be broken, we are fighters who will not give up our way of life. Like the Indians who visited our land to hunt, they loved the land, to them it was the happy hunting ground; a place where they wanted to spend eternity.

It's the land that makes Eastern Kentucky so beautiful. A land where you still find wild berries, hickory nuts, walnuts, for those who want to pick them. The land where the Red Fern grows as well as many other species of ferns and wild plants grow. The land where Ginseng, May Apple and Yellow Root grows, which is found in medicine bottles and in health food stores through this nation.

When I travel to Lexington and places far away I see beauty, it's true. But when I return, take the exit at Winchester to the Mountain Parkway, drive down to Stanton, from there I see the small foothills that lead to Eastern Kentucky. My heart begins to leap within me for joy. For I know I am going to my home. To my place beside a small stream, where the water is so clear you can see every sandstone rock and pebble that lies on the bottom. I was born here in these mountains and choose to die here. Yes, I understand what Poet Still felt when he said, "I shall never leave these hills."

Defends Floyd County From National Media

Dear Editor,
Here is a copy of the letter I sent to CBS Broadcast Group and Phil Jones.

I watched "48 Hours" Thursday night and I'm not pleased with the way it was presented to the people. I was raised in Kentucky. Eastern Kentucky, Floyd County. I'm not ashamed of my people or the way I was raised. Lived up in a hollow myself. I'm not stupid people. We kept our house clean and we kept ourselves clean. I do know how to write and I learned that in a very fine school. Maybe you think because of the way we talk we are dumb. You are very mistaken. We have faith in God and love for one another and we know how to survive, and that makes us very smart people.

The people you filmed are not dumb and they certainly didn't look filthy to me. Roads and creeks get muddy in any state, it's an act of God. Do you think you're the man to change it? I don't think you are.

Those people living up hollows and creeks chose to live that way and most of them are very happy. For those in Floyd County who do not want to live that way there are more large modern homes. Floyd County has many fine schools. Why didn't you film Allen Central School? A fine large school in Eastern Kentucky. It has only been built a few years. We have new shopping malls and one of the finest hotels, Holiday Inn, just built. We have some of the finest restaurants. All of this in Floyd County, Ky. We have many fine parks and camping areas. Jenny Wiley is just one of many. We also have many good doctors and hospitals.

So Phil Jones, film and show this part of Kentucky. The state of Kentucky is a fine state and it keeps growing. We have many new four lane highways. Didn't you use any of them? So you see we're not dumb, we know when we've been misrepresented.

Proud of My Home State, Kentucky and Floyd County,

Questions

CBS's Ethics

Dear Editor,
(We are subscribers to your fine paper and were amazed at the picture "48 Hours" showed in December; enclosed is my letter to CBS.)

Is there any way to get Dan Rather's address? I would prefer writing to him; he's 180 degrees out from Walter Cronkite, who is much more professional and decent. It would be nice to bury Rather in letters against his idea of truth.)

My family lived in Floyd County for 13 years. We loved the people and I grieved for some months after leaving. We were waiting for the entire length of "48 Hours" to see something, anything, familiar and positive.

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

During a recent trip to Paintsville I thought I'd take the scenic, but curvy road over Abbott Mountain instead of taking the risk of having my car swallowed up by the outrageous potholes on Route 23. Little did I know that several other people had the same idea.

First, on my way to Paintsville, I was sandwiched between two motorists who were totally aggravating. In front was a person who either had never traveled the Abbott route or was just out for one of those so-called "Sunday drives." Behind me was this fabulous sports car with a young man who seemed to be letting me pull him along as he rode my bumper during half the trip.

We came up in what could be termed somewhat of a straight stretch, you know, the kind that has just a teensy curve around the bend. Anyway, the sports car was by us like a flash of lightning. "Geez, I hope there's no one coming the other way," I thought. He was lucky there wasn't, considering the traffic that day.

After I reached my destination and completed my business, I sat in the car debating which road I'd take back to the office. Should I go ahead and try to dodge the potholes and possibly hit an 18-wheeler doing the same thing, or have one of those huge rocks fall off the cliff on top of me and my car. No — the insurance company would just call it an "Act of God." and if I made it out alive I'd never see the funds to fix my car.

So I decided to take the same route back as I did getting there. The return trip was a tad different, only in the aspect of mine being the third car in line. The two in front had to be pupils of the Mario Andretti School of Driving, taking those curves like pros while I hung back reluctant to even try to keep up.

But then I realized that those drivers looked too young to be pupils of Mario's and probably didn't even know the name. So, I thought "Okay, I'll give it some gas and catch up." Stupid idea Kim, there was a time or two there when I saw initials engraved on roadside trees.

How are they going so fast? These kids are nuts, I can't keep up with them. I let off the gas and decided they could look in their rear view mirrors and say "Come on, Grandma, get the lead out," or even "typical woman driver" (you know how some male chauvinists can be). I didn't care anymore.

Anyway, I chose 55 to stay alive and 45 in the longer curves. And sure as can be, I lost sight of the black and silver streaks I had tried to follow back to the office.

Whata day! I certainly learned my lesson: You just can't keep up with the younger generation. To all readers: Drive safely and PLEASE wear your seat belt, you may need it someday.

Meeting Of The Minds

Floyd County's two representatives to the Kentucky General Assembly, Rep. Greg Stumbo, left, Democrat from Prestonsburg, and Rep. Russell Bentley, Democrat from Topmost, conferred recently during a break in meetings. The 1990 session of the General Assembly began last week amid debate over a number of issues facing the state. Reps. Stumbo and Bentley have jointly sponsored House Bill 184 which would add kidnaping to the existing murder statute when the kidnaping victim dies as a result of the kidnaping.

Floyd Countian Spotlighted By Transportation Cabinet

Winter usually puts the average family to the test. Parents must see that winter clothes are ready, family cars winterized and houses made cozy. Public agencies must also winterize. They lay in stocks of seasonal materials and line up contractors on contingency agreements. But, when all is said and done it comes down to the preparedness and dedication of the individual worker. In the dead of winter, no employee feels the responsibility of his calling more than the state and local road maintenance worker. All other ordinary and emergency services of government, business, and individuals depend on the road crew to do its job in winter storms. Kentucky's Transportation Cabinet has 118,000 tons of salt and 840 pieces of heavy equipment. Without the worker on the crew, neither salt nor truck is worth a dime. While citizens have come to expect these employees to show-up when needed in the crunch, the personal side of their quiet heroics is often forgotten. Donald Castle Jr. in Floyd County gets just as cold as you. His bed feels just as cozy when he sees the temperature drop and the snow fall. Yet his home phone number is on the Transportation Cabinet Emergency Snow and Ice Plan Roster and its eventual ring ends his private thoughts. When the weather changes overnight, his day may start at midnight in order to prevent morning rush hour tie ups in Floyd County. Castle gets rolled out, like a firefighter, without regard for the hour, under the Kentucky Snow and Ice Emergency Plan. When he gets his three or more layers of clothes and fills his thermos with coffee, he can bank on more than an eight hour day. His only stops will be for fuel and reloads of salt and sand. The really big storm will mean 12 grueling hours in the cab. A snowfighter is driving on slick roads in a monster vehicle, not the agile, front wheel drive sliver of the family. "When snow begins and the rest of us think 'How can I get home,' snowfighters' work is just beginning," said Transportation Secretary and Commissioner of Highways Milo D. Bryant. Kentuckians demand that roads be safe to travel soon after a winter storm begins. "The economy suffers when people and cargo are delayed and frustrated. The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet priorities the routes to be treated, but the worker get the job done," he added. Castle and his 2500 buddies on Kentucky's crews will work all those 27,000 miles of roads, from priority A to the B and C priorities.

Cold December Means Hot Bills

The second coldest December on record coupled with the holiday season likely resulted in higher than normal energy use by area residents. According to the National Weather Service office at Huntington's Tri-State airport, 27 out of 31 days in December were below freezing and six days the temperature dropped below zero. In fact, at Farmers, Ky., the mercury plunged to 24 degrees below zero, setting a new state record for the coldest day in any December.

"These sustained cold temperatures, added to shorter daylight hours and the holiday season, resulted in higher electrical usage and therefore higher electric bills in many cases," said W.W. Zoellers, division manager of Kentucky Power Company. Average increases are hard to estimate due to the variation in every customer's usage and living habits, Zoellers mentioned. "One thing is for certain: using supplemental heaters and/or turning up the thermostat on one's furnace, in an effort to stay warm and comfortable during bitter cold weather, will result in increased usage of energy. "Although we can't do anything about the cold weather, our customer service representatives are available to answer questions and explain programs we have to help customers. For example, we offer an Equal Payment Plan, which allows customers to pay the same amount every month, thus lessening the impact of high winter heating or summer cooling bills. We also, in certain cases, can set up payment arrangements for individuals having temporary difficulty paying the winter heating bills," said Zoellers. "Customers having these problems should contact their nearest Kentucky Power office," he said.

Consol Gives 1990 Coal Outlook

The market for the U.S. coal industry in 1990 is expected to improve from last year's levels when record consumption and production were achieved, according to a news release from Consolidated Coal.

Most economists are projecting continued slowing in the growth of the domestic economy, although a recession generally is not anticipated.

Nevertheless, this level of economic activity will still result in higher demand for electricity.

Utility coal demand is projected to increase in 1990 due to the electricity generation increase, although some of the growth in electricity demand may be met by increased nuclear and hydro generation.

Demand for metallurgical coal by steel companies is expected to be flat in 1990, reflecting slackening demand for steel.

Steam coal used by industrial plants is forecast to remain close to the levels of last year. Coal exports are expected to remain at the strong 1989 levels.

Consol expects its solid performance to continue through 1990. Sales volumes are expected to reflect the effects of the anticipated growth in U.S. coal demand. Even with little or no growth in sales, however, earnings should remain strong because of continued improvements in productivity.

Consol continues to be concerned about the prospects for acid rain legislation as well as recent publicity concerning the global warming phenomenon.

Acid rain legislation, as currently being considered in Congress, would place a disproportionate share of the cost of emissions reductions on a relatively small number of states.

The company supports legislative provisions that would spread the cost of compliance more equitably and would mitigate the impact on communities that are economically dependent on the coal industry.

The company claims that any legislative action on global warming would be premature, as the phenomenon requires long-term intensive study before response strategies are developed.

Consol also believes that the national interest would be served best by encouraging and fostering the development of clean-coal technologies.

Southeast Coal Outlook

Based upon continued strength in various domestic and export markets, coal production in southern West Virginia, southwestern Virginia, and eastern Kentucky is projected to record a gain of 3 percent or more in 1990.

This follows increased demand in 1989, when coal output in this region rose by an estimated 2 percent, despite widespread work stoppages which occurred mid-year.

Even though shortages of certain premium grades of coal should diminish in 1990, buyers of coal produced in this area still should be concerned about securing adequate supplies.

This situation, which contrasts greatly with what existed two years earlier, is expected to result in strengthened prices. Major buyers include electric utility companies in the southeastern and midwestern U.S., as well as domestic and overseas steel producers.

doses of self confidence, an effective therapy in itself, by being able to work and earn an income.

"There are no exceptions because of his illness," Thornburg said of the employee. "He has a real job and gets real pay. In fact, he could do a lot more if he had more confidence and that's improving all the time. He's super with customers."

Thornburg added that the employee is always outside waiting on the manager when he arrives each morning to open the store. The only time the employee has been late, said Thornburg, was when he had car trouble. He called in to tell the boss of the problem. "I didn't think he'd be late because of his car, but a little while later here he was. He had found someone to bring him to work."

Having a mentally ill employee creates no extra work for the manager, Thornburg contends. "It's not any more work than any other employee. I don't treat him as if he has a disability, I don't think of him as having a disability."

"The reason Mark is so outstanding," says Bentley, "is that he can see the capabilities of this individual and that this person is good in the business."

The project director added that Thornburg has gone beyond the simple act of hiring a project client. "He has called legislators and lobbied for the program. He has expressed to them his own experience and has talked to Sears administrators encouraging them to use this program in other stores."

"He's also talked to other employers in the community, letting them know that there's another work force available."

"More employers need to be aware and not be so apprehensive in giving these people a chance," says Thornburg, whose interest in working with the handicapped goes back to his days as a Sears manager in Harlan. "I had hoped to assist with a program such as this when I was there, but I wasn't able to." He did work with Special Olympics as a member of the Harlan Rotary Club and is now working with the Prestonsburg Rotary Club on programs for Special Olympics.

In Project TIME, Bentley's philosophy is to place the employee and then train him or her to do the specific job required. Each employee is given a job coach — sometimes Bentley — who learns the job and then works alongside the employee for as long as it takes the employee to become skilled enough and feel comfortable enough to do the job alone. Bentley, for instance, worked at Sears unloading trucks and doing other tasks until the employee was able to manage on his own.

If the employee has a problem on the job, Bentley or one of his staff will come to the job site to assist. Bentley, for instance, tells of one placement who began to have hallucinations on the job, and the employer called.

When Bentley arrived at the job site, he worked beside the employee, urging him to ignore the visions and concentrate on the job. The incident soon passed and the employee was able to complete his task.

Bentley has placed seven employees and has about 40 other clients who have indicated a desire to be placed in jobs.

Employers, he says, are expected to pay the employees as they would anyone else. But since many of the jobs are at or near the minimum wage level, Project TIME allows the employees to continue with some public assistance.

"The government," Bentley says, "is finding it's difficult to go from entitlements straight to a job and independence." The program allows for a kind of financial bridge between full public assistance and full independence.

"Our goal is to assist these people

New Year Brings Changes At P'burg Donor Center

Central Kentucky Blood Center has announced new donor hours for its Prestonsburg Donor Center. Blood Center officials say the Donor Center, located in the Municipal Building on North Lake Drive, will open for blood donations on Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Blood donations at the Prestonsburg facility during 1989 were down by 200 pints when compared with donations in 1988. Yet transfusions in Eastern and Central Kentucky Hospitals have remained high, according to officials.

"We're hoping that Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday donor hours will be convenient for more donors," said Tim Thompson, donor resources consultant for the Prestonsburg Center.

Some donor requirements have also changed with the new year. "Generally speaking, anyone who is in good health, between the ages of 17 and 67 and weighs more than 100 pounds is now eligible to donate," Thompson said.

"If you have been deferred recently because of low iron count or medication or if it has been a year or more since your last donation we urge you to stop by the Donor Center. You may now qualify under the new donor requirements," says Georgia Sanders, Donor Center coordinator.

Anyone interested in an appointment or with questions can call 886-1557.

A Man Of Good Taste

US Sen. Mitch McConnell was in Eastern Kentucky yesterday to put in some plugs for his candidacy for reelection and to talk about impending acid rain legislation that could have tremendous impact on the coal industry. He made stops at Excaliber, a cooperative manufacturing plant in Johnson County, and termed the local initiative effort "exactly the kind of thing we'd like to see in this area." He also spoke at a Lions Club meeting in Hazard and attended a fundraiser in Prestonsburg. In a brief stop at The Floyd County Times offices, he got a chance to read the local news.

FBI May Examine Property Valuations

by Frank Clark Staff Writer

Floyd County's property valuation office may be the focus of a future FBI investigation, following a request by Louis DeFalaize, United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, to investigate PVA operations in Pike County.

According to an article in the Lexington Herald-Leader Tuesday, a letter was sent from DeFalaize to the FBI, requesting an investigation into the Pike County PVA operations to determine if bribery or extortion was involved in the setting of property assessments. Also requested was an examination of the use of the US mail system to report fraudulent assessments to state officials.

FBI Agent Ally Mackenzie, who is currently involved in the Pike investigation, was quoted as saying that the investigation might spread to Floyd and Magoffin counties if FBI work in Pike County is fruitful.

Bill Cheek, spokesman for the FBI, could not confirm yesterday if such an investigation might spread to Floyd County.

"What makes this case so unusual is that a reporter got a copy of the letter from the US Attorney to the FBI, requesting an investigation," said Cheek. "This is what opened the door to our releasing information about the case. However, any investigation of Floyd County goes beyond the scope of the letter that was published, and I can neither confirm or deny the report. I can say that an investigation is being conducted in Pike County."

No local officials have reported contact from the FBI regarding an investigation.

"All I know about the case is what I've read in the papers," said Lovell Hall, Property Valuation Assessor for Floyd County. "I've had no contact from anyone at the FBI. I realize that inequities exist in property valuation throughout Kentucky, but it's not all the PVA's or the Revenue Cabinet's fault. It's a combination of these and the state legislature. I've heard that Kentucky ranks 48th in revenue collection for property. But it also ranks 48th in the support given to the administration of tax collection."

"Lovell's done a pretty fair job in his office," said Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo. "I haven't seen anything out of line. Some property and house values may not have been changed in 20 or 30 years, but records are continuously being updated. I haven't been contacted by the FBI about any problems. For me and anyone in public office, it's much better to have your property valued high, because it's the first thing people look at if they're after you."

Jim Hammond, County Attorney, also reported no contact with FBI officials. "They haven't contacted this office," said Hammond. "I personally feel confident that the elected officials of the county are making every effort to collect the proper taxes."

Hall agreed that there existed no apparent grounds for investigation in Floyd County.

"I wouldn't know where or why they would think an investigation is needed," said Hall. "It'll probably be one of those things that will be forgotten until someone stops into our (PVA) office asking questions a year from now. Then again, they could be in our office tomorrow," Hall said.

Cowan Seeks Reform In Campaign Finance And Government Ethics

Proposals aimed at "returning Kentucky government to the people of Kentucky" are being taken to the 1990 General Assembly by Attorney General Fred Cowan. He is proposing partial public financing of gubernatorial campaigns in Kentucky and the adoption of a code of ethics for the executive branch of state government.

Cowan says these new proposals are a logical extension of the ongoing efforts to combat vote fraud throughout the state. "Reforming Kentucky's political system must be a three-tiered effort that includes the voter, candidate and the office holder. We started our reform at the ballot box and we

Tax Refunds May Await Some Locals

The names of Kentucky taxpayers to whom federal tax refund checks were issued in 1989 but returned to the IRS as "undeliverable" have been released by William E. Palzkill, district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

The list includes 427 individual tax refund checks totaling $162,519.79, and the average refund check is $380.60.

According to Palzkill, the taxpayers may have moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the IRS. Sometimes the handwriting on the tax return may simply be illegible.

When a refund is returned by the Postal Service, the IRS attempts to find the taxpayer and deliver the checks, but there are always some who cannot be found, according to Palzkill.

Palzkill also noted that electronic filing will be available again to taxpayers in 1990. Taxpayers who file electronically can elect to have their refund deposited directly into their bank account thereby eliminating the possibility of a lost, stolen or undeliverable refund check.

Taxpayers who are expecting a refund and have moved or changed their name during the year are encouraged to contact the IRS. Kentucky taxpayers can telephone IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040 to claim their refund.

PCV Valve Affects Engine Performance

Has your car started using oil? It's not uncommon for an engine to burn a quart or so with every two or three tanks of gas after it has logged 75,000 to 100,000 miles.

Advancements in oil and filters, engine design and metallurgy have resulted in vehicles which may go twice that far with minimal oil consumption. How well the vehicle has been maintained usually is the determining factor, says the Car Care Council.

Oil burning is the result of oil entering the combustion chamber, usually past worn valve seals or piston rings. When the condition becomes severe enough, the car will smoke and spark plugs will foul. Major engine repairs may be necessary.

The valve controls the amount of vacuum which is sucking the fumes out of the crankcase. Too much or too little can be harmful to the engine. Too little venting action can cause pressure to build up in the crankcase, leading to blown seals and erratic engine operation.

Too much vacuum can cause a mist of oil, rather than just vapors, to be drawn into the combustion chambers.

The PCV valve should be checked as part of seasonal services. Costing only a few dollars, it's a good investment in preventive maintenance, emphasizes Car Care Council.

Workshops Offer Counsel To Future Doctors, Dentists

Sixty-five high school seniors who live in certain Kentucky counties and who want to become physicians or dentists will get an early start toward their goal next summer at the University of Kentucky, University of Louisville or Kentucky State University.

Students will be chosen to attend a five- or six-week college preparatory workshop at one of the universities from among applicants who live in Kentucky counties or areas of some counties that have too few physicians or dentists.

Graduating high school seniors who live in Floyd County are among those eligible to apply.

The workshops are part of the state's Professional Education Preparation Program, which was designed to help increase the number of students in medical or dental school from Kentucky counties experiencing a shortage of physicians or dentists.

Students attending the workshops will meet and work with medical and dental students and professionals and receive instruction in reading, writing, study skills and problem solving.

They will also have classes in biology, chemistry and other sciences to improve their chances of doing well in their premedical or pre-dental college studies.

Room and board and all workshop instruction will be provided without charge to the participant. Each student will also be given an expense allowance.

The workshops will be only the first in a series of activities that will be provided the participants. Additional programs and services designed to help them succeed in becoming doctors or dentists will be provided throughout their undergraduate and medical or dental school studies.

Interested high school seniors can get further information and application forms from their high school counselor or principal, or by contacting the Professional Education Preparation Program, Kentucky Council on Higher Education, 1050 US 127, South, Suite 101, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Applications must be received by March 1.

They Had Their 'Druthers'

Lunch at Druthers Restaurant was the treat for 51 students in Prestonsburg High School's Touchdown Program on Nov. 28. To be eligible to dine out, each student had to have missed no more than one day of school during the second six weeks. An attendance drawing for Touchdown Program students during the third month resulted in the following winners: Christina Stacy, $25; Rebecca Hamilton, $5; Stacy Reed, $5; Martha Slone, $5, and Rhonda Spears, a tee shirt. Dance Classes Available Through PCC

The Spring Semester of dance classes began Thursday, Jan. 11 at Prestonsburg Community College with ballet classes. Returning as instructor is Jan Hurst. Hurst is a classical ballet performer, teacher and choreographer. She has taught ballet at PCC for several seasons and has been a teacher and choreographer for numerous companies including the Portland Ballet and Springfield Ballet. This past term she was teaching and performing in Germany. Measurements for recital costumes will be taken during the first weeks of class according to Hurst.

In addition to teaching ballet and pointe, Hurst will take over the instruction of three jazz classes which will be taught on Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 17. Classes include children's beginning jazz, children's intermediate/advanced jazz and a teen/adult jazz class.

Tap classes for children and adults will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 16. Sabrina West will teach the children's beginning and intermediate/advanced tap classes. Sabrina has studied dance since the age of six. She has studied under Peggy Darius, Tonya Bennett, Robin Carlson and Yvonne DeKay of Ironton, Ohio, and most recently studied under Linda Francis of PCC. Jenny Wiley theater fans will remember Sabrina as Annie. The teen/adult tap classes will be taught by Linda Francis. Francis taught tap classes last spring for PCC.

For more information, call PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 278.

13 Honored At WHS

by Denessa Dailey,
Melissa Tackett
& Lisa Johnson

Thirteen students at Wheelwright High School were chosen recently as "Student of the Month" award winners. The awards were given to the top student in various subjects.

Students honored were: freshman Derek Little, English; junior Marcha Wilson, math; senior Nolan Newsome, social studies; senior April Bradford, science; senior Lorena Aguilar, French; senior Toby Weingarten, journalism; freshman Shannon Hall, commerce; sophomore Evan Hall, art; freshman John Collins, vocational education; junior Jennifer Tackett, special education; freshman Ryan Johnson, health and physical education; senior Missy Thornsby, cultural journalism, and senior Terry Chad Hall, computer math.

The awards were presented by Principal Lonnie Slone in the auditorium and were viewed by the student body. The students received applause from the student body and faculty.

County Students Attend Writers Workshop At Park

by Charlene Cook

About 180 students from Floyd County attended the fourth annual Writers Workshop on Nov. 22 at May Lodge. The purpose of the workshop is for the students to meet and talk with well-known journalists, photo-journalists, storytellers and poets.

Students from five high schools in the county read from poetry and personal narratives, performed skits and sang songs as part of the morning and afternoon sessions. Students also attended eight different sessions conducted by professionals.

Don Bevins, special events coordinator for WPRG-TV 5 in Harold, was the moderator of a news panel that discussed how Eastern Kentucky is presented through the news media and how the journalists work. Other participants in the news panel were Tim Sizemore of the Floyd County Journal, Bob Smith of WSAZ-TV in Huntington, W.Va., and Sherry Sparks of WYMT-TV in Hazard. Smith said he thought the program was tremendous.

"This is a great opportunity for us and you," Smith told students at the workshop. "Children get a chance to express themselves. Back when I was in school, we didn't have stuff like this. I really enjoyed being here and talking with the kids."

Al Stewart, Knott County author of The Untoward Hills, read several of his poems to the students. Dr. Bob H. Baber, professor of English and theater at Southeast Community College in Cumberland, told several different short stories. Steve Porter and Paula Goble, both photographers from Prestonsburg, showed off some of their work at the workshop.

Angie DeBord, originally from North Carolina, now living in Virginia, and Florida Slone, her mother-in-law from Knott County, liked to play games. One of the games was called "pewstink." This is where two groups of people get on separate sides of the room and try to pull other people on their side. The ones with the most people at the end of the session wins. No rewards or anything like that, it is basically a lot of fun.

Christy Lackey, a student at Wheelwright High School, read her narrative, called "The Day She Wanted To Die." Charlene Cook, also a WHS student, read her poem, "Mom." Other performances were by students from McDowell, Allen Central, Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne high schools.

The workshop committee includes Willie Elliot, McDowell High School; Gary Frazier, assistant superintendent of Floyd County schools; Bonnie Hall, Betsy Layne; Shirlene Hamilton, Wheelwright; John N. Patton, Prestonsburg; Jean Rosenberg, Floyd County Education Forum; Delores Smith, chairperson of School Community Partnership; Thelma Spears, assistant coordinator of the writing program; Carol Stumbo, coordinator of the literary magazine of the writing program, and Patricia Watson, coordinator of the literary magazine.

The students who attended the workshop enjoyed talking with groups of participants and thought the program was great. What the students disliked most was the fact that there wasn't enough time to go to all the sessions.

Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats Go To 4-0 In Floyd County Conference

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Betsy Layne's coach Gary Hopkins and his Lady Bobcats took another step in their quest for the Floyd County Basketball Conference title with a 57-31 victory over Donnie Daniels' Wheelwright Lady Trojans.

The Bobcats came into the conference matchup with a 3-0 record and holding a one game lead over also undefeated Allen Central Lady Rebels. Allen Central is 2-0 in the conference.

Betsy Layne got a balanced scoring attack from all of its players in winning for the eighth time this season. Brenda Hamilton led all scorers with 14 points. Jamie Smith, who did a good job on the boards, added 11 points as did Melissa Bailey. Bailey has been playing some good basketball of late for the Lady Bobcats.

April Bradford led the Lady Trojans with 10 points as the only double figure scorer for Wheelwright. Becky Allen managed six points. The Lady Bobcats' defense stopped the scoring of Wheelwright's leading scorer, Jedon Hood, who finished with just five points. All of those came in the fourth period.

The meeting was the second in the last three weeks for the two teams.

Betsy Layne won over the Lady Trojans in the earlier meeting at Betsy Layne.

Both teams were sluggish in the first period as Betsy Layne jumped out in front 5-0 on a three point play by Bailey and a basket by Hamilton. Allen scored underneath for the Lady Trojans and Bradford hit an eight footer off the base line and another from 12 feet out to cut the lead to one, 7-6.

Smith hit a turnaround to give the Lady Bobcats a 9-6 first quarter lead.

Betsy Layne came out in the second quarter with pressure defense which caused the Lady Trojans some problems. Betsy Layne capitalized on the mistakes and built a 17-9 half time lead. Wheelwright could only manage three points in the second stanza.

Hamilton scored eight third period points as the Lady Bobcats began to open up a sizable lead. Bradford scored again off the baseline, which seems to be her favorite place, at the start of the third period to draw to within six at 17-11. A 10-0 run by Betsy Layne pulled the lead out to 16 at 27-11.

Wheelwright could not find the range in its shooting and was unable to close the gap on the Lady Cats in losing, 57-31.

"We wanted to pack it in tonight," Coach Daniels stated. "We got out rebounded at Betsy Layne so we wanted to pack our zone back in and try and keep them off the boards as much as possible. At the six-minute mark Jedon (Hood) went out and there went our height."

"Overall we played well defensively," Betsy Layne mentor Gary Hopkins explained. "We hit the boards hard and blocked out well at times. We had good quickness off our press tonight and had good coverage full court, and our girls kept hitting the passing lanes."

According to Daniels, his team didn't perform well defensively. "I was disappointed the way we played offensively. We were not moving good away from the ball and there were no picks for each other."

"We just need to sit down and reevaluate our man to man offense," he said.

Daniels said that the Betsy Layne press did not bother his team as much as appeared.

"Yeah, the press bothered us some of the time, but I thought we handled it for the most part. Considering what Allen Central did to us, we look a hundred percent better on the press," remarked Daniels.

"Tonight we worked for the better shot even though we didn't shoot as well. The last three or four games, teams have been denying our perimeter shooting and we haven't been going inside with the ball like we should have."

Daniels said that Hood didn't play her type of game against the Lady Bobcats.

"Jedon reached, stood and didn't intimidate. She didn't play her game like she is capable of playing," he said of his leading scorer. "The height of Betsy Layne caused her some problems and she didn't adjust well to it all."

"We're still a young team and we will gradually get better as the season goes along," Daniels stated.

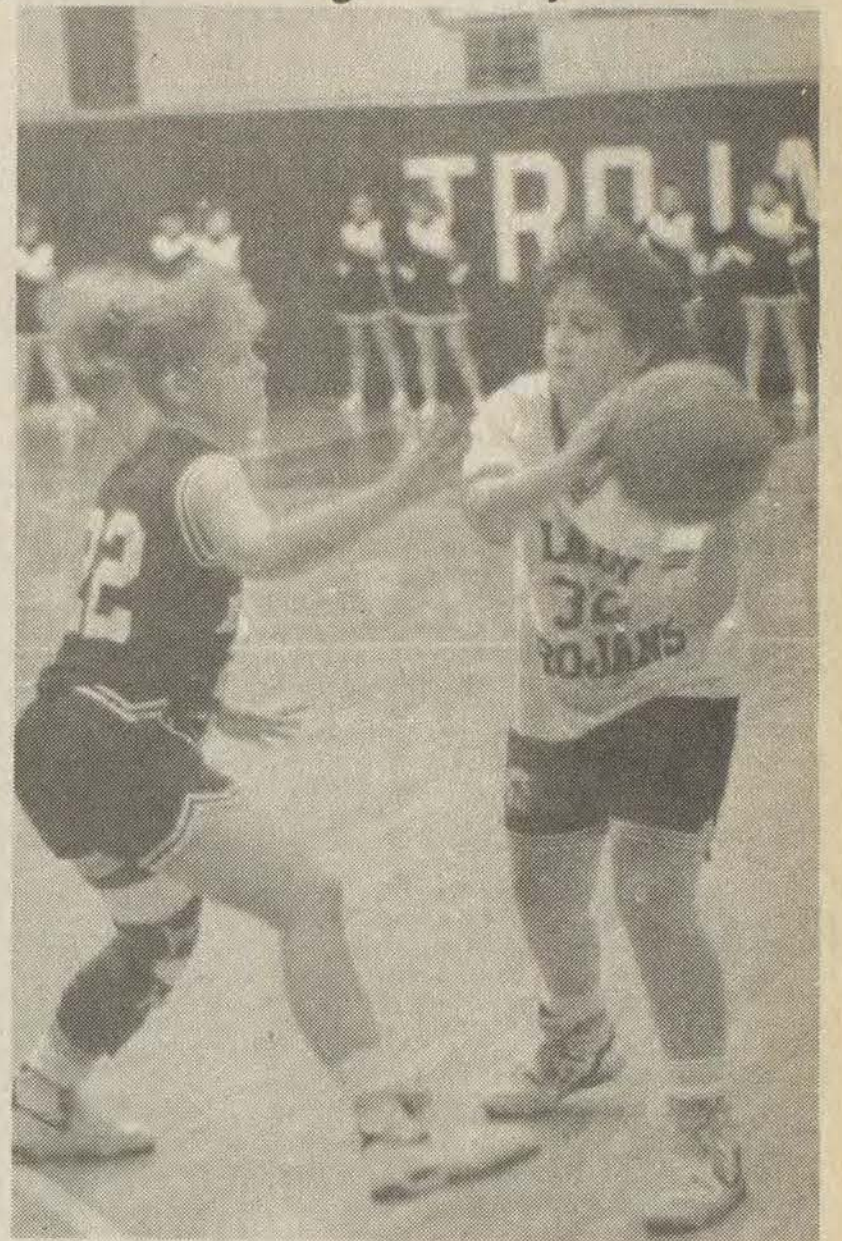

Betsy Layne's inside game made a difference in the outcome of the game according to Coach Hopkins.

"Nikki played one of her better games offensively," he said. "She was going inside well. Jamie (Smith) got off to a slow start but played better in the second half. Missy (Bailey) is being more consistent in her play the last three or four games. I couldn't ask for better inside play than we got tonight, but we are still missing the easy baskets."

"I like the press tonight," he continued to explain, "and tonight we were moving our feet instead of reaching. We cut off their passing lanes and took that away from them."

Betsy Layne will take on challenger Allen Central tonight at Betsy Layne in a 6:30 start. Wheelwright will host Bridget Clay's Lady Blackcats.

Two Many Timeouts Help Rebels To Win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It is always good to keep informed. Even in the game of basketball, it is always helpful to know how many timeouts you have left in the game. Such was the case at Allen Central Tuesday night as Leslie County, front runner in the 14th Region, came to J. H. Campbell arena.

With 12 seconds remaining in the game and trailing by two points, Leslie County called a timeout. On the ensuing out of bounds play, the visiting team was having trouble getting the ball in bounds when they called time out. The only problem was they had no timeouts left.

A technical foul was called and the ball given out of bounds to Allen Central.

Leslie County led at the half, 33-27. Allen Central outscored the visitors 14-8 in the third period to tie the game at 41-41. With the score tied at 53-53, Allen Central scored to take a 55-53 lead. Then the "misspent time out" play happened.

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin felt that his team is playing better basketball.

"We definitely played better than we did in the Laurel County tournament," he said. "We were able to do things that we couldn't do at Laurel County. We were more patient on offense in our shot selection. And I thought we played good defense."

Martin says that a lot of people just didn't realize how good of a team Leslie County was.

"They were averaging 80 points a game, but we held them to 53," he explained, "and that was because of good defense. Leslie County is a good ball team and a good shooting team. They came here with a 11-2 record and one of the top teams in the 14th Region."

"It has helped us as a team to be able to play some games consistently," Martin said. "We at one time played five games in three weeks and go down there and play three in four days. We have three tough road games coming up next week (actually the Rebels will play their next five games on the road) and that will make 15 games we will have played and only three home games. It's just an unbalanced schedule."

Six of Allen Central's last eight regular season games will be home games. Three of the next five road games will be conference contests.

Rick Smith led the Rebels in scoring with 18 points. Joey Conn and Mike Hancock added 12 points each. The win brought Allen Central's record to 4-6 overall. The Rebels remain 2-0 in conference play and will face the challenging Betsy Layne Bobcats tonight at Betsy Layne in an 8 p.m. encounter.

Caldwell led Leslie County in scoring with 17 points. Wilson added 14 points in the loss. Leslie County drops to 11-3 for the season.

Leslie County (53) Wells, 6; Helton, 8; Caldwell, 17; Couch, 6; Wilson, 14; Hensley, 2.

P'Burg Travels To Wheelwright

Gordon Parido's Prestonsburg Blackcats will be on the road again tonight as they travel to Wheelwright for a 58th Conference game against Monroe Jones' Trojans.

Prestonsburg, which seems to stay on the road, will carry with them a 1-1 conference record. The Trojans will be looking for their first conference victory. The Trojans are 0-3 in the conference and 2-6 overall.

Game time is 8 p.m. and will be broadcast on WXXZ, 105.5.

Rough Third Quarter Befalls Lady Cats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jodi Baker tossed in 20 points as the Dorton Lady Wildcats won over the emotionally high Lady Blackcats of Prestonsburg 65-45. The victory ran Bobby Spears' team's record to an impressive 8-2.

Prestonsburg, coming off an emotional 64-63 overtime victory over the Lady Panthers of Pikeville, had a rough third quarter as the Lady Wildcats outscored the Lady Cats, 21-6.

The two teams played close in the first period. The score was tied at 10-all at the end of the first. The Lady Wildcats outscored Prestonsburg, 21-13, to take a 31-23 half time lead to the locker room.

The third found the Lady Cats scratching for baskets as they had trouble in finding the basket. Dorton slowly increased its lead in the third stanza behind the scoring of Baker and Melissa Collier.

Kathy Slone scored 20 points in leading her team in scoring. Carolyn Reffitt added nine points.

Other double figure scorers for Dorton were Collier with 11 points, Sha Barnett, 13, and Bridgette Poe, 10.

Prestonsburg falls to 5-4 on the season. The Lady Blackcats will visit the Trojan Palace tonight at 6:30 p.m.

Prestonsburg (45) Edwinna Hale, 3; Kathy Slone, 20; Amy Reed 5; Carolyn Reffitt, 9; Raquel Cain, 4; Karri Merion, 4.

McDowell Ladies Lose To Jackson County, 74-33

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Lady Daredevils lost their seventh straight game of the season as they fell at Jackson County, 74-33. Cunnagin led the host team in scoring with 15 points. Collins added 11 points in the win including a three pointer.

Lori Bryant led McDowell in scoring with 15 points. Priscilla Crawford tossed in eight points. The loss ran the Lady Daredevils' record to 2-7. McDowell won its first two games of the season by winning the Millard Invitational tournament and has had problems putting the "Ws" in the win column since. Cassandra Keathley's corps has the talent to compete against any team, but seems to have a problem of putting together two good halves.

McDowell was only able to score 13 points in the second half, seven in the third and six in the fourth, in suffering the team's seventh setback.

McDowell plays six freshmen on team and is a very inexperienced team. There are no seniors on the team and the leadership is not there for this young team.

The Lady Daredevils will entertain the Wheelwright Trojans on Monday night at 6:30 p.m. in conference play.

Gearheart's 19 Points Lead Bobcats Over Wheelwright Trojans 17-59

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Having not played in a week and suffering a loss at the hands of the Johnson Central Golden Eagles, the Betsy Layne Bobcats got back to winning ways with a 76-59 victory over the Wheelwright Trojans. The victory did not come as easily as the score might indicate.

Senior Adam Gearheart scored 19 points to lead the visiting Bobcats to their fourth win of the season. The Bobcats have lost four times. Sam Stewart tossed 16 points for the Bobcats in the win.

After leading by four at the end of the first quarter, 12-8, Betsy Layne stretched the lead out to eight points, 18-10. The Trojans then went to work outscoring the Bobcats 10-2 to tie the score, 20-20.

Jimmy Helton, getting a starting assignment in the place of the injured Bobby Hood, sparked a Trojan charge by scoring five quick points and making some key steals. Berne Eplin's basket made it 22-20 before Brad Compton hit two turnaround baskets and Paul Hall's bucket gave Wheelwright a 26-22 lead. Sophomore Bradley Akers hit a basket just before the horn to cut Wheelwright's lead to 26-24 at the half.

"We but our subs in then and they became disorganized," Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome said of the Trojan run. "But that is the only way they are going to learn."

Betsy Layne came out running in the third period. A 13-4 spurt put the Bobcats out in front by 11 points, 43-32. Betsy Layne's defense was able to take Compton out of the Trojan offense.

"Sam (Stewart) did a better job on him in the second half than he did in the first," Newsome said, "and we also denied him the ball inside."

"We came back out in the second half playing the same level of ball we played in the first half. Betsy Layne just turned it up and went ahead of us," Trojan mentor Monroe Jones stated.

Chuck Lafferty came on in the game and hit two three-pointers late in the third period to give the Bobcats a 15-point lead, 53-38, at the end of the third stanza.

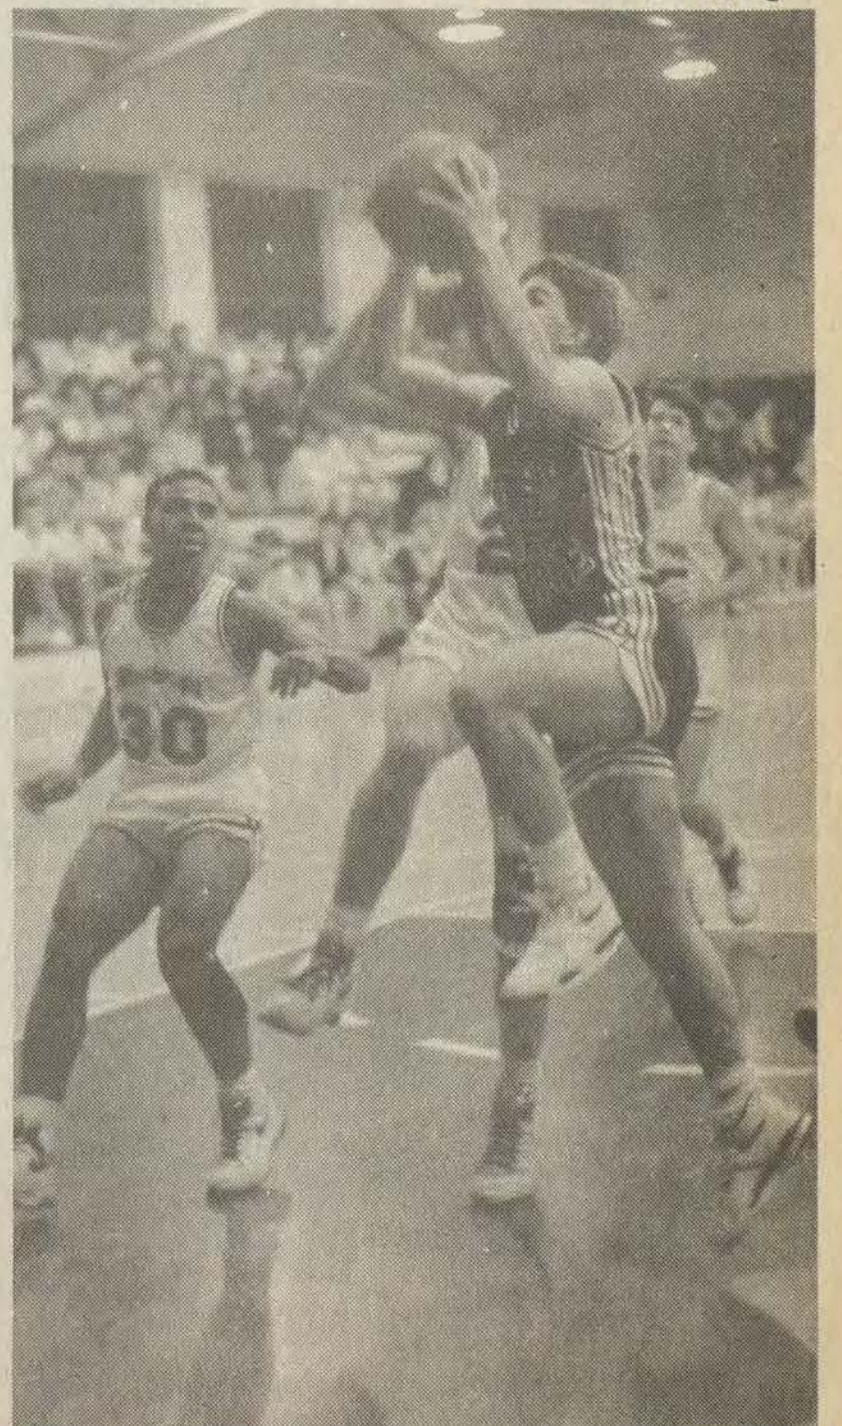

Betsy Layne built its lead out to 21 points, 63-42, before winning the conference contest.

"Jimmy (Helton) certainly played a good game for us tonight," Coach Jones said. "He has certainly earned a starting spot at least until the next time. We have something to build on. You put together a good first quarter and then a second one. Soon you have a complete game together. Betsy Layne's press hurt the players some."

"We played better defense in the second half and ran the break," Newsome explained.

Chris Newsome added 12 points for the winners. Stewart had 14 rebounds for the Bobcats and Keith Hall dished off four assists. Gearheart was

QUESTION: WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO FLOYD COUNTY BASKETBALL?

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Last year three of the top five 15th Regional teams were from Floyd County. McDowell, which dominated the region the last two years, Betsy Layne, always a regional power, and Prestonsburg, eventual winner of the title last March.

What has happened? I am asked this question frequently as I gather with the fans at ball games across our region. There are a variety of reasons, I suppose. Last year's crop of graduating players were second to none in the region. District 58 had some of the top players in the sport. They are gone! Young players must take the place of the graduating seniors.

McDowell and Prestonsburg were hit the hardest by the graduation route. Gone are Henry Webb, Dickie Joe Shannon and Rady Martin. All three are playing college basketball. Prestonsburg lost a host of players, including the state's leading percentage shooter, Scott Hall, and the state's third best free throw shooter in Thomas Nairn. Plus, there's the loss of Todd Justice and dependable sub Johnny Wright. Younger players have had to step in and take their place.

Betsy Layne lost Keith Hall, Durant Newsome and Barry Hamilton. Allen Central and Wheelwright probably lost the least (in number) of any of the county schools. Craig Martin, the Trojans' leading scorer, is gone. Kevin Webb and Todd Duff have departed the confines of Allen Central.

Young players need to learn the ropes. The experience is not there. We have the same coaches, but the players change each year. There is a learning process they must go through to be able to perform under the system they are to play in.

The Floyd County teams have not been successful, thus far, against other teams outside of the district. Our five boys teams have a combined record of 7-25 against out of county teams. In the girls division, the record is somewhat better at 12-14. Out of the 10 teams, boys and girls, we have only two teams with winning records. Both of those are in the women's division: Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg.

Betsy Layne's Lady Bobcats have played seven out of county opponents and hold a 4-3 record. The Lady Bobcats are 8-3 overall. Prestonsburg has the most success against out of county schools with a 4-1 record. Johnson Central defeated the Lady Cats earlier. Prestonsburg has a 5-3 overall record.

Wheelwright has a 2-1 record over out of county teams and both of those wins came against Dorton. Prestonsburg is 3-4 with opponents from outside the county.

The 15th Region is one of the toughest in the state this year. Pikeville, no doubt, gets the number one ranking with big wins over two Lexington schools. The Panthers also captured their own prestigious tournament with a win over Feds Creek.

What of McDowell, last year's district champion? Again, young players. Look at the Daredevils' schedule. Losses to Millard, no patsy; Greenup County at Greenup County; Virgie (twice) at Virgie and Pikeville; Henry Clay; Lafayette; Pikeville at Pikeville; Magoffin County. What coach, but Johnny Ray Turner, would take a young team into a schedule such as this.

Coach Turner is right: it can only help down the stretch.

What of the future in Floyd County basketball? One only needs to look at the young players who are filling the shoes of graduated players and see that the future is bright for high school basketball in our county.

Sports Update:

Floyd County Grade School Basketball Tournament

Weather permitting the Floyd County Grade School basketball tournament will get back in full swing tomorrow (Saturday) at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne, according to Mark Newsome, tournament director.

The games will begin with a 9 a.m. morning session in the girl's bracket. McDowell Lady Daredevils and the Maytown Lady Wildcats will tangle in the first game. McDowell was the winner of the Section II playoffs while Maytown finished second in Section I. Marsha Brown, 4'7", will lead the Lady Wildcats against McDowell.

In the second contest, a boy's game, at 10:30 a.m., Osborne will battle the Wasps of Wayland. Jason Martin will lead the Wasps against the only undefeated boy's team in the county. John Hall heads the scorers of Osborne.

At noon on Saturday, the Allen

Lady Eagles will be pitted against the Lady Bobcats of Betsy Layne. This will be a good one, as April Newsome tries to lead the Lady Eagles into the semifinals against Jamie Ratcliff and the Lady Cats.

In the final game on Saturday, and this should be a good one, too, the Allen Eagles will try and soar past the Harold Red Devils. The Red Devils hold a 2-1 edge in games played against each other during the regular season. Allen is a talent team with a trio of players to put the points on the board. Cory Reitz has been the top scorer for the Eagles and Phillip Patton provides the board work. Harold is not without scorers in Brian Hunter, Barry Clark and Chris Potter. Look for a barn burner.

The tournament will resume on Monday, Jan 15, as the semifinal games will be played. Doug Derossett's Lady Flashes of Martin will take on county rival John M. Stumbo's Lady Mustangs at 6:30 p.m. The Lady Mustangs hold a 2-0 regular season edge over the five time defending county champions. Traci Dingus and Roni McKinney will lead the Flashes against Dee Dee Martin and company. In game two on Monday, the other two Martin - Stumbo teams will be pitted against each other. The reverse is true in this series. Martin holds a 2-0 edge on the Mustangs.

On Tuesday, Jan 16, the winner of the McDowell and Maytown game will go up against the Allen and Betsy Layne winner. In the boy's bracket, the winner of the Osborne and Wayland game will match up with the Allen and Harold winner.

The championship games will be played on Wednesday, Jan 17, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Bobcats Will Host Rebels In Conference Match Up

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats, having to play short-handed because of injuries, will try to partially regroup as they will host the front running Allen Central Rebels in a big, big conference game for both schools.

"It is definitely a big game for both of us," Allen Central mentor Johnny Martin said. "We're looking forward to it. I just hope we will play well."

When reminded that the Bobcats have been short-handed of late, Martin said he remembers times that his team also played short-handed.

"We all have played without some players at one time or another," he said. "I would rather see them with everybody playing. I hate it for the kids that will not be able to play."

The partial regrouping of the Bobcats will come when Phillip King, the Bobcats' leading scorer, is expected to return to play.

"Next game," King said when asked when he will be able to play again after sitting out the Wheelwright game. "I'm ready to play."

"We don't want to rush things with King and risk hurting his back any worse than it is," Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome said of King's return. "He could have played against Wheelwright, but we will wait."

According to Martin, the Betsy Layne floor has been good to his players when they have played on it.

"We always play good against Betsy Layne on their own floor," he said. "I don't why we do, but we do. We are not a good home court team. Never have been. Guess it's because we have to play in this big mausoleum."

"When you have players out like Betsy Layne has had, it takes time for the other players to adjust to that. We've had to go through it before when we lost Rady (Martin). The players have to learn to adjust," Martin went on to explain.

"It takes some luck to be a good basketball team," he said. "Luck that you can stay away from injuries and other things."

Allen Central currently leads the Floyd County Conference with a 2-0 record. Betsy Layne is 3-1. The Bobcats need this one because they have suffered their lone setback on the road.

Game time for the shootout is scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight. The game will be carried live on WPRG-TV, Channel 5.

Student Is A Devil On The Sidelines

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Mascots are funny people who do funny things at games to entertain the crowd. Once upon a time, every high school had a mascot. But, of late, very few school mascots have been seen.

For instance, Mr. Rebel at Allen Central has been missing at the Allen Central home games. Once a central figure of the Rebel cheering section, the Rebel hasn't been seen this basketball season.

Another mascot that needs to be found is the Blackcat of Prestonsburg. The last time he was seen was at the Morgan County - Prestonsburg football game.

But one mascot you will always see, whether at home games or on the road, is the McDowell Daredevils' "Mr. Devil" mascot. James Blackburn, a 17-year-old sophomore at McDowell, says he enjoys being McDowell's "Mr. Devil."

"Mark Isaac got me started being a mascot," the sophomore stated. "I was filling in for another person who was absent. I did a good job and people liked me and they wanted me to keep doing it. I really enjoy being the mascot for the school."

Blackburn says that some of the qualifications of being a mascot are to be able to move around, be goofy and comical at games.

"You have to put your pride out of the way," he said. "You just go out there and do what comes natural. Get someone out of the crowd and dance with them."

Blackburn, who is in his second year as McDowell's mascot, practices his routines at home. He likes to watch other mascots on television and look at their routines.

"During the regional tournament last year, I had a lot of people come and tell how much they enjoyed my routines. One woman from Prestonsburg even came up, hugged me and said I was the best mascot she had seen. A lot of people brag on my dancing and I get insults from others. Mostly parents will compliment me," he said.

Being mascot brings on an automatic chance next year, according to Blackburn, who relates that he was a mascot once before in Bakersfield, Cal., before coming to McDowell.

"I was some big yellow bird," he said. "I guess that's what it was."

Blackburn says the suit he is required to wear gets really hot (What else for a devil's suit?) and that he sometimes feels like he is going to pass out.

Blackburn says that he attends all road games that McDowell plays in and enjoys being with the team.

Blackburn is the son of Neva and Jerry Ratliff of Thelma (Knott County).

A Little Devil

James Blackburn, 17-year-old sophomore at McDowell High School, reveals himself in two perspectives: as a full fledged Mr. Devil and as a young man needing a break. Blackburn was a mascot in Bakersfield, Cal., before taking on the Daredevils' job.

Lady Rebels Face Betsy Layne Tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Allen Central Lady Rebels hope to pick up some valuable ground on the front running Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats in tonight's conference match up between the two rival schools.

Betsy Layne sports an unblemished 4-0 record with half the conference schedule played. A Lady Bobcat win would give Betsy Layne a commanding lead. Allen Central also is undefeated in conference play with a 2-0 record. A win on the road for the Lady Rebels would help AC pick up some valuable real estate in the conference race.

Allen Central has won over Wheelwright at home and on the road at McDowell. The Lady Rebels will be on the road to Prestonsburg and Wheelwright next week. Betsy Layne has been playing some good basketball in spite of losing two games in the Nothing But The Net tournament last week. Allen Central lost to 15th Regional power Sheldon Clark at Sheldon Clark, 60-43.

This has the makings of a top notch game. The starting time is 6:30 p.m. and you will see a good girls game at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse.

Local Man Takes Helm Of Group That Helps Children

"Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me; for such is the kingdom of heaven." Matthew 19:14

"Verily I say unto you, in as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matthew 25:40

"No man stands so tall as when he stoops to pick up a crippled child." Shriners Motto

At the December meeting of the Oleika Shrine Temple of Lexington, well known Prestonsburg businessman Kelly Moore was elected Illustrious Potentate for 1990. The Potentate is responsible for directing the activities of the 3500-strong Oleika Temple, which is dedicated to serving children afflicted with orthopedic problems and those with complications of severe burns.

The Shrine of North America supports and maintains 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burns institutes, including one in Lexington and in Cincinnati. The children treated at these hospitals receive everything at no cost, and no insurance is needed. The money for the treatment is gathered through the labor of the members of the Shrine.

Any child under 18 with an orthopedic problem or a serious burn-related problem, regardless of race, color, creed or financial status can receive treatment, according to Moore.

"One child may require years of care running into thousands of dollars, often into millions. Not only is the best medical attention available given the children, but they also receive gentle, tender, loving care by the hospital staff, the Shriners and their families," he noted.

The Shriners provide the patients with entertainment, toys, games, books, pajamas and gowns, bedrooms slippers, etc. At Christmas time, every child in the hospital or out-patient services is given toys and a fruit basket by the local Shriners.

Also provided is transportation to and from the hospitals. The Floyd County Shriners own and operate vans and buses for this purpose, Moore said. The child who has a lengthy stay also has the opportunity to have an uninterrupted education with tutoring through teachers at the hospital.

The work and research at the burns institute is quite remarkable. The developments of recent years include new techniques in plastic surgery and use of artificial skin.

"Amazing progress in life saving has been made," Moore stressed. "At one time a child burned over 50 percent of their bodies had a slim chance of surviving. Today, those burned over 90 percent of their bodies not only survive but go on to return to normal, healthy lives." All this because of dedicated men like Kelly Moore.

As Potentate of Oleika Temple, Moore "lifts to his shoulders" an important burden and a huge responsibility. But, looking at his record, he has the experience to do it. He has been an active Shriner for 18 years of his 20 years as a Mason. He is past master of Zebulon Masonic Lodge #273.

For 15 years he served as local Shrine Circus Chairman. Under his leadership the Prestonsburg Circus financially topped all rural circuses for all 15 years.

Moore is a 1962 graduate of Prestonsburg High School and a 1963 graduate of Ashland Barber College. In 1961, he was married to Sue Dawson. They are the parents of a son, William Thomas, and a daughter, Kelly Sue. The Moores have been active members of the Thomas Moore Memorial Free Will Baptist Church for 18 years. Kelly Moore coached grade school football here for four years and officiated local football for 16 years. Presently, among his duties outside the Shrine, he is secretary of the Sandy Valley Flying Club.

"The Oleika Temple stands ready to serve the Eastern Kentucky area as liaison between the crippled and burned child and the hospitals operated by the Shrine of North America," Moore said, adding that anyone who knows of a child in need of service can contact him or any other Shriner, and they will make the necessary arrangements for the child's care.

Local Couple Married In Presbyterian Ceremony

The First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg was the setting for the double ring ceremony uniting Pauline Newsome and Charles David Ward in marriage Saturday, Nov. 25. The officiating minister was the Rev. Timothy Jensen, pastor of the church.

Daryl Clark, nephew of the bride, provided music at the piano and sang "Lady," "You Light Up My Life" and "Only God Loves You More." Andrea Newsome, great niece of the bride, registered the guests.

The church was decorated with greenery of ferns and mauve satin bows and ribbons. An archway of greenery and fresh ferns stood at the entrance of the pulpit, which was decorated with candelabra on a white lace tablecloth. Mauve satin wedding bows marked the family and guest pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her son Larry Douglas Parsons. She was dressed in a Victorian wedding gown of Venice Lace and satin adorned with three rows of pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and ivory roses with greenery and ribbons.

LaDonna Parsons, daughter of the bride, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Emogene Kidd of Grethel and Sandra Brockman of Lexington. They wore tea-length dresses with mauve bodices and mauve taffeta skirts. The maid of honor carried a fan of roses and wore a spray of mauve flowers in her hair. Jessica Megan Tibbs served as flower girl and Brittany Taylor as junior bridesmaid; both are great nieces of the bride.

Roy Kidd Jr. and Randy Woods served as groomsmen and ushers. Ray Turner of Drift was best man. Matthew Ward, son of the groom, served as ringbearer.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony. The hall was decorated with ivory and mauve wedding bells and ribbons. The bride and groom's table was covered with ivory lace and mauve trim and held the three-tiered wedding cake.

The couple spent their honeymoon in the Bahamas and now reside at Auxier Heights.

National Jaycee Week, Jan. 21-27

New Local Organization Observes National Week

National Jaycee Week was recognized as the week of Jan. 21-27 by the signing of a proclamation by both Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo. This is the 70th anniversary of Jaycees in the country. With Mayor Latta at the signing are (seated) Donna Roope, management development vice president, and Brian Ousley, president; (left to right standing) Anita Hale, director; Tommie Branham, director; Cathy Prater, individual development vice president; Lisa Meade; Jeffrey Hicks, secretary; Linda Lenox, Kim Frasure and Steve Pack. Other officers not pictured are Rosemary Armstrong, community development vice president; Breannan Dye, membership development vice president; Pam Goble, treasurer; and Glenna Cesco, director. The Prestonsburg Jaycees meeting Thursday nights at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library, new members are always welcome.

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

I guess I should tell something about the family now. I'll leave granddad off till last because I want to tell about his Civil War experience.

I'll start with his oldest boy Lemuel. He bought what we know as the Bill Martin Branch, down there above where Elzie Adkins live now. (Hancock owns it now, 1985). He built his house right the foot of the hill, when we lived there the chimney stones were still there and a big sweet apple tree he set when he lived there.

He married Nancy Roberts, daughter of Jimmy Roberts. They had one daughter—Martha. She married Squire Hamilton and they built the house down at the Mouth of the hollow where Hancock live now. Squire and Martha had a large family. There was (1) Samuel who married Sally Stumbo. (2) Tolby married Bessie Hale (3) Alex married Martha Halbert (4) Basil married Flossy Hale. There were two other boys (5) Preston and (6) Paris but I don't know who they married. Three daughters (7) Virgie didn't marry (8) Ellen married Charlie Moore and (9) Lexie married Alonzo Ferrell. Later on they sold on Spurlock and bought on Little Mud. (At the Mouth of Trace Branch.) That is where most of the family was raised.

Next is McDonald and Robert. After the Civil War they took their families and went West. Uncle Bob, as we called him, settled in Mo. I can remember him quite well. He'd come back often to see granddad and the rest of the family. I can remember, he brought one of his sons, Donald with him. That's the only one of the family I know about. I don't know where he settled in Missouri but that's where he died.

McDonald went on to Kansas. Kansas was only a territory then. I can't remember him ever coming back or any of his family. After Kansas was made into a state and divided into counties where he settled was named Meade Co. I guess if we ever went to Meade Co., Kansas, we would find several Meades who are our relatives.

Rhodes Junior, married Polly Howell and had two children. They had Thomas (Preacher Tom) and a little girl. Soon after Polly died, the girl died. Rhodes broke up house-keeping and Tom went to grandmother's to live. She was a sister to Polly.

They didn't know Tom was coming. I remember they said, "when he came in, he had his clothes tied up in a bandanna handkerchief in one hand and his little sister's hat in the other." Grandma said, "son what in the world are you doing here by yourself?" and he said, "Aunt Sally, I come to stay with you. Dad sent me to live with you." She said, "you've got a home as long as I have." They raised him. He lived with them until he married.

He married Rose Mullins. Her mother was a sister to grandmother also. Betty Mullins. She and Rose were first cousins. They had two children.

Robert (Bob) still living on Little Mud) married Myrtle (Myrtie) Case, daughter of Morg Case.

(William) Willie married Pearl Spivey.

Rose's sister Julie died and left a little girl, Bessie Caseholt. Tom and Rose adopted her. She married John Yates, my Aunt Alice and Booker Yates son.

Rhodes married again. I don't know her last name. Her name was Eveline. She had one son, Wayne. He must have had nephew. When he joined the church, his dad brought him for Uncle Tom to baptize. I remember, they stopped at our house and ate dinner as they were going through. I know he was a nephew to Uncle Tom so he must have had a half sister who married a Hall.

Next: Kate married Will Lynch. I don't know her children. They moved to Rockcastle in Martin Co. Later I did learn some. Lum, Will, Nola, Thomas married Lucretia Hager from Hager Hill in Johnson Co. He moved to White House. That's where he raised his family.

He had two sons Samuel and Jed: His daughter Leona, Kate, Viola and Anna.

Leona married Robert Ousley. I don't know who Viola, Jed or Sam married. I knew some of Sam's family and wife but don't know her maiden name.

(Aunt) Jane married Robert Marshall. They had one son, John, Preacher John Marshall. Robert was wounded in the Civil War. He came home and died and was buried up there in the head of Spurlock Branch where Rhodes and Sally are buried.

Jane stayed with with John—with her parents until the year after the Civil War ended in April. Rhodes died that winter. I don't know how old he was or what killed him but they buried him up there above the house on the hill.

Granddad—John Printer, at age 16, volunteered for service in the Union Army. He told them he was 18. They took him because they needed men.

The family was completely split during the Civil War. Sally having come from Va. Her father with slaves on the plantation and Va. leaving the union—she couldn't see but that they were right. Three of her sons felt that way too.

Rhodes said they could never have two governments in this country so he decided to go with the union. Thomas, Lemuel and John P. sided with him.

Granddad was in Ky. 131st infantry. The first battle that he was in was Bull Creek.

He was serving under Gen. James Garfield at the time. He was the same James Garfield who was later elected as president of the U.S. in 1880 and was assassinated before his term was out.

They came upon these confederate soldiers camped there at Bull Creek. They had a little battle. It must have been only a skirmish for as far as I know only one confederate soldier was killed and no union soldier. The confederate soldier's grave is still there beside New Route 23 just below Allen near Dwale on the side of the highway.

They (union) were stationed there for a while. Garfield and his aids were billeted in a house in Prestonsburg. It is still standing for it carried the historical marker.

NOTE: This home was recently bought by the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, and has been razed to make way for their new main office building. (1986).

While there, granddad got a pass to go see his parents because he was so close. He went by night because he was afraid of the confederate soldiers—sniper—would see him if he traveled by day. One night he went home, stayed a couple of hours with them and started back to camp. As he was coming along about Allen, the moon was shining bright, he heard horses coming and reined his horse into the bushes beside the road into the shadows where he couldn't be seen. They came on. It was five confederate soldiers on a mission or patrol. He remained perfectly still until they were even with him. He then wrenched his rifle and told them to throw down their weapons that they were surrounded. Of course, they couldn't see to know how many were there. They did as they were told. He told them to turn their horses and go back the direction they had

Be grateful when a loved one offers to cook dinner for you this week. This person needs your undivided attention for at least one evening this week.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Your mood this week may be introspective. A family member may be emotionally upset due to a romance gone sour. Take time to console them.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Restlessness has you out and about all week. A loved one gives you a special gift that may take some heavy duty thinking to understand. Show your appreciation.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You should be able to tackle any home project now. You may feel disinclined to make visits, but once there you will be surprised at how much fun you are having.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Your parents or someone close will need your moral support. This is a good time to start a savings account for a rainy day. Don't let a bad dream get to you.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You will feel like painting the town, but it would probably be best if you stayed home. Someone close to you is trying to handle an emotional crisis alone. Seek them out.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Keep your mouth shut at work this week. You could actually bring grave financial problems on yourself by speaking out of turn. Show extreme caution when driving.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

It would be best to keep secrets to yourself this week. Don't begin any new projects if you can avoid doing so. This is a good time to make travel plans.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

This is a period of creative expression for Virgos. A young person could use a special visit or outing. Let your imagination run wild with a creative project.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

A misunderstanding with a loved one could lead to some heated arguments. It is important to make lists this week in order to keep up with important details.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Recent work efforts are likely to be the subject of great approval. If you are planning on a shopping spree, don't forget that birthday present for someone special.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

You quite likely receive some great news. This is a favorable time to expand your business horizons. Make sure you are ready when opportunity knocks.

TV PIPELINE

David McCallum successful even after 'U.N.C.L.E.' role

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Could you please give me some information on David McCallum? Also I would like to know how many years The Man From U.N.C.L.E. was on TV. I watch it on syndication and it is one of my favorite shows.

A: Man From U.N.C.L.E. aired on NBC from September '64 to January '68. David McCallum, who starred as Illya Kuryakin, was born Sept. 19, 1933, in Glasgow, Scotland, the son of a concert violinist. He began his career there as a stage and screen actor during the 1950s. He came to the U.S. in the early '60s and played guest roles in series including Perry Mason, The Outer Limits and The Travels of Jamie McPheeters before winning the role Illya that made him famous. In 1975 he starred in his own short-lived series, The Invisible Man. His films include: Billy Budd, A Night to Remember, The Long, the Short and the Tall, Freud, The Great Escape, Behind Enemy Lines and The Greatest Story Ever Told. He married Katherine Carpenter in 1967. They have two children and reside in New York.

Q: Can you tell me what happened to the cast from the TV series Laredo? And do you know if they are going to make a Laredo new show?

A: The western series Laredo aired from 1965 until 1967. The cowboy heroes of that series have aged a little since then, and though still performing, there is little chance they would film a new Laredo. Neville Brand played Reese Bennett. His deep, rutted features and tough manner kept him one of the busiest actors in television, playing hundreds of villainous roles way into the '80s. Peter Brown, who played Chad

David McCallum

Cooper, has enjoyed steady employment on daytime soap operas. He played Dr. Greg Peters on Days of Our Lives for seven years, followed by roles on The Young and the Restless and Loving. Capt. Edward Parmalee was played by Philip Carey who, since 1979, has starred as Texas tycoon Asa Buchanan on the daytime serial One Life to Live.

Q: What other movies has Jan-Michael Vincent played in besides Going Home, Hooper, Airwolf and Hitlist? Also, is there an address to where I can write him?

A: Jan-Michael Vincent has appeared in some 200 television shows and 18 movies. Space does not permit me to list all his credits, however some of his more recent movies include: Winds of War, Born in East L.A., Enemy Territory and Last Plane Out. His last validated address is: P.O. Box 4399, N. Hollywood, Calif. 91607.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered. Personal replies cannot be granted. © TV Listing Inc.

Dancing Through Old Christmas

year old boy with five confederate soldiers as his prisoners. I guess he must have been pretty brave. After they had been there for a while they were on their way to Va. to aid the soldiers there. Most of the fighting was in Va. trying to protect the confederate capitol at Richmond.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-5118, Major Revision #2

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Wheelwright Mining, Inc., HC 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41654 has filed an application for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision does not propose any additional surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 359.49 acres located 0.5 mile south of Price in Floyd County.

The proposed major revision area is approximately 1.9 miles north from State Route 122's junction with State Route 979 and located 0.1 mile east of Left Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37-24' 21". The longitude is 82-44' 42".

The proposed major revision is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by Wheelwright Mining, Inc. The proposed major revision will underlie land owned by Flossie Moore, David Dawson, et. al., Roberta Luxmore, Glenda Jones, Clovis Moore, Andy Collins, Wheelwright Mining, Inc., Jack Martin, John C. Frazier, James McGuire, Carl Dudley and Melvin Mullins.

This major revision proposes to reclassify 0.12 acres of stockpile area, 0.14 acres of haul road B and 0.33 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 face up area as Elkhorn No. 1 face up area; and transfer 355 acres of Elkhorn No. 2 underground mining area to the Elkhorn No. 1 coal seam.

This major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 10-27-4tF.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date. 11-24-tf.
