The Floyd County Times

A federal drug investigation of five current and former local health-care professionals ended Thursday, with the arrest of all five persons, including a well-established Martin pharmacist and a former Floyd County doctor who had been barred from practicing medicine in Tennessee in 1981.

Ronald Lee Reid, 49, owner of Reid's Pharmacy in Martin, was taken into custody on federal drug charges and was reportedly led from his Martin business in handcuffs by Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

Also arrested were Dr. George Sullivan, 51, of Hindman and his wife, Linda Bates Sullivan, 38, also of Hindman. Dr. Sullivan formerly practiced medicine in Floyd County at the Beaver Valley Clinic (now closed) and has most recently worked for the Whitesburg-based Mountain Comprehensive Health Corp. He had been barred from practice in Tennessee in 1981 for improperly prescribing narcotics, according to news sources.

All of the arrests led from federal charges of illegal activities centered around operations at the Beaver Valley Clinic in Floyd County and the Vicco Clinic in Perry County, according to a DEA agent.

Information on the investigation and arrests remained sketchy Thursday night. Four of those arrested were detained in the Floyd County Jail, prior to being transported to Lexington to be indicted by a Federal Grand Jury.

Reid, Linda Sullivan, James C. Taylor, 52, of Paintsville and Douglas Fleming, 47, of Van Lear were all briefly lodged in the county jail.

Dr. Sullivan, following a telephone discussion with DEA agents, agreed to turn himself in to authorities Thursday evening.

According to a press release from US Attorney Louis DeFalaise's office, Sullivan is charged with one count of continuing criminal enterprise, one count of conspiracy to sell controlled substances, 162 counts of using a communication facility to violate narcotics laws, 81 counts of illegal distribution of controlled substances, and other charges. He faces possible life imprisonment and a $2 million fine.

Reid is charged with one count of conspiracy to sell controlled substances, 76 counts of illegal distribution of controlled substances, and other charges. He faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

The narcotics investigation was under the control of the DEA. State police officers provided information to DEA agents, as well as transportation for some of the prisoners. Local authorities were not informed of the investigation until only hours before the arrests.

According to a report in the Louisville Courier-Journal on Sunday, Sullivan has been under federal investigation in Kentucky for allegedly writing prescriptions for drugs, such as painkillers, tranquilizers and stimulants, without proper authorization from the DEA. He is also reportedly being investigated for Medicaid fraud.

The investigation has apparently been hampered by a Nov. 28 fire which destroyed the Perry County clinic where he formerly worked, shortly before investigators were to review his records.

The same article also states that Sullivan also worked at the East See ARRESTED, Page 2

Under Cover

Linda Bates Sullivan, 38, of Hindman, hides her face while leaving the Floyd County Jail with an unidentified agent, following the arrest of her and her husband, Dr. George Sullivan on federal drug charges. Both have been accused of illegal drug activity relating to the operations of the Beaver Valley Clinic in Floyd County, and the Vicco Clinic in Perry County. A Martin man and two Johnson County men were also arrested.

Filing Deadline Is Approaching

The January 29 filing deadline for the 1990 elections is fast approaching.

No one has yet filed for the seat for State House District 95, now occupied by Rep. Greg Stumbo. The current House Majority Leader has 10 days to officially file with the state election commission.

State House District 92, which encompasses parts of Floyd and Letcher counties and all of Knott County, has been filed for by Rep. Russell Bentley, opting for a second term.

No Relief In Sight

The forecast for the next few days presents only a slight relief from the wet stuff on Monday, other than that you are advised to take your rain gear wherever you go.

Friday will be cloudy with a 30 percent chance of light rain in the p.m. with a high from 50-55. Tonight rain is likely, 70 percent chance, lows in the low-40s.

Little doubt about rain on Saturday, with an 80 percent chance, although the temperature will be breezy and mild hitting in the mid-50s during the day and dropping into the low 30s at night. Watch for icy roads.

Sunday there is a chance of continued rain with highs only in the 40s.

Monday comes the sun with a high remaining in the 40s. And Tuesday there is a chance of more rain, with the highs in the low-50s. Ah, well!

Lottery Antes Up

The Kentucky Lottery last week sent a check for $12 million to the state, representing about 35 percent of the proceeds generated by ticket sales since Oct. 1.

The lottery has now contributed $75 million to state coffers since tickets went on sale April 4, 1989, according to lottery officials.

"Our goal, determined by the state for our first full year of operation, was $70 million or about 35 percent of an estimated $200 million in sales, and we have exceeded that goal after just three quarters," said Lottery President Frank Keener.

PCC To Train Community Leaders

A University of Kentucky program designed to develop community and student leadership in Eastern Kentucky will base its future local operations out of Prestonsburg Community College (PCC).

The Appalachian Civic Leadership Project, funded through a $1.3 million grant provided by the Kellogg Foundation, plans to provide $15,000 per year for the next three years to PCC, says PCC President Henry Campbell. Campbell anticipates that a leadership development position will be created at the school to be filled locally or by one of the college's current staff.

Kellogg, a Michigan-based foundation designed to assist people in the areas of health care, education, and agriculture, agreed to provide the grant to the project, which was developed through the joint effort of UK and the Brushy Fork Institute at Berea College. UK will administer the portion of the program affecting PCC and four other community colleges in Eastern Kentucky.

"The program at our school will seek to develop leadership in two areas," said Campbell. "First, we are going to reach out to potential leaders in the community. Secondly, we will focus on those who are currently enrolled in our college. There are many potential young leaders here in our area who could benefit greatly from this leadership program."

According to the project paper developed by UK, four separate approaches will be used in order to promote leadership.

First, a Commonwealth Leadership Program will be implemented, creating fellowships that will allow 25 adults in the region to partake in two years of leadership training. PCC will administer some of this training for area residents selected for the fellowships.

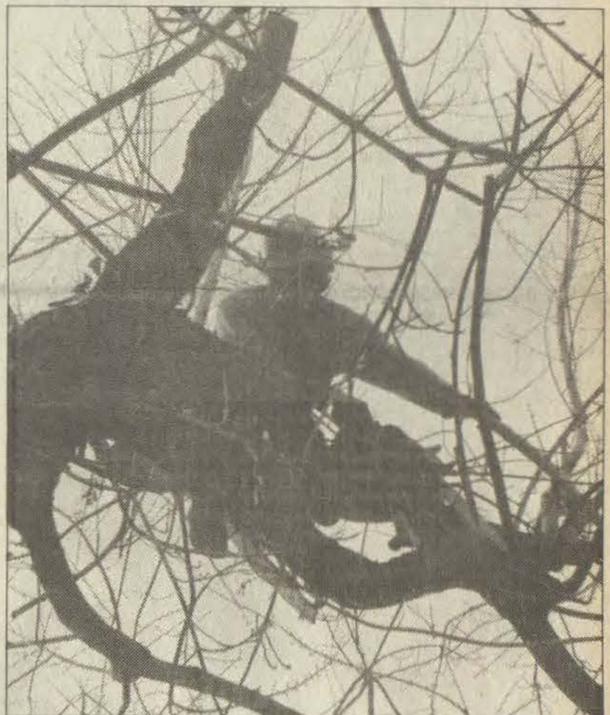

An Appalachian Student Leadership Program will be established on the campuses of UK, Berea College and five UK community colleges, including PCC. The goal of this program is to encourage students to remain in their communities, acting as effective leaders.

A series of public information booklets, examining issues facing mountain communities, will be printed and distributed. The material will be used to develop public awareness and stimulate discussion of regional concerns. Specific topics will include education, health care, and water resources.

The final aspect of the program involves a public issues forum. Public discussions will be organized on community college campuses to discuss issues facing rural, mountain communities.

Dr. Ron Eller, who heads UK's Appalachian Center, will supervise the three-year project. Start-up for the project is expected to be February or March.

Spring Work In January

Unusually warm temperatures Thursday surprised everyone and allowed some local workers to trim a few trees. Rain and cooler weather in the forecast over the next few days will probably curtail further Spring-like activity.

Census Not Just a Numbers Game, Affects Total Region

by Tess A. Whitmer
Staff Writer

A large project is about to take place in Floyd County and across the nation, creating 229 temporary jobs here. The Census Bureau is in the process of hiring enumerators for the 1990 Census which will begin in the spring.

On March 23, census questionnaires will be mailed out. In the meantime, from February through May, enumerators will visit housing units in rural areas to drop off or pick up forms. The large project starts in April, when those who did not respond properly to the questionnaires get personal visits from Census employees. All field work is expected to be complete by October and the final counts will be delivered to the President on Dec. 31.

JOBS AVAILABLE

Any person who passes the test and meets the qualifications can have a temporary job this year lasting from March through August, or thereabouts. These jobs pay $5.50 an hour, plus 24 cents per mile, and will require between 30 and 40 hours of work per week, according to Dale Miller, recruiting officer and supervisory clerk.

Other positions, such as crew leaders and supervisors, pay higher.

Outside of passing the 30-question test designed to determine a person's ability to administer questionnaires, work with numbers and interpret maps, the qualified applicant must be over 18 years of age, have a car, be a US citizen and have no felony convictions. Those 16, 17 and 18 years old can also apply if they possess a high school diploma or equivalent.

All enumerators and Census Bureau staff are required to sign an affidavit and take an oath to uphold the law of confidentiality. The bureau is looking to test 496 persons to fill 229 slots. The reason for the over-stock of applications, according to Miller, is that some persons may already have found jobs by the time the census taking begins, others will not keep their jobs and not everyone will qualify.

"It is important that we keep such a large applicant pool so we can still get the job done should such problems arise," he said.

Testing in Floyd County will take place in the following places throughout the county during the listed dates and times: Floyd County Courthouse Annex, Prestonsburg, Jan. 19, 16 and 26 and Feb. 2, 8, 15, 22 and 28, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.; Cow Creek Fire Department, Jan. 25 and Feb. 1, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.; Allen Fire Department, Jan. 22 and 31, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.; Martin Youth Center, Jan. 23 and 30, at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m.; National Guard Armory, Prestonsburg, Jan. 24 and 29, Feb. 6, 13, 20 and 27, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Those hired will be notified by the middle of February and will begin distributing questionnaires around the first of March.

"We are striving to hire all local people for this task, since those questioned will be more likely to answer questions from someone they know or are familiar with," Miller noted. "There is a possibility for some of those hired to continue in other areas after the completion of the census taking here if there is a need."

Miller said that testing was rather slow the past few months but has increased about 300 percent in the last two weeks. He attributed the poor response to the fact that many persons had temporary jobs during the holidays and still others thought it was a minimum wage job. Also, he noted, the media have been spreading the word, as have local office holders.

"We don't anticipate any problems gathering information. All of the enumerators will be wearing identification and are required to keep the data collected confidential," Miller stressed.

ABOUT THE CENSUS

This year marks the 21st Census in the nation's history and the largest and most complex ever undertaken. The Census Bureau expects to count 250 million people and 106 million housing units.

About a week before Census Day (April 1), most households will receive a questionnaire by mail. Others, depending on location, will have forms delivered by census takers. Roughly five out of six households will be asked to fill out a longer form.

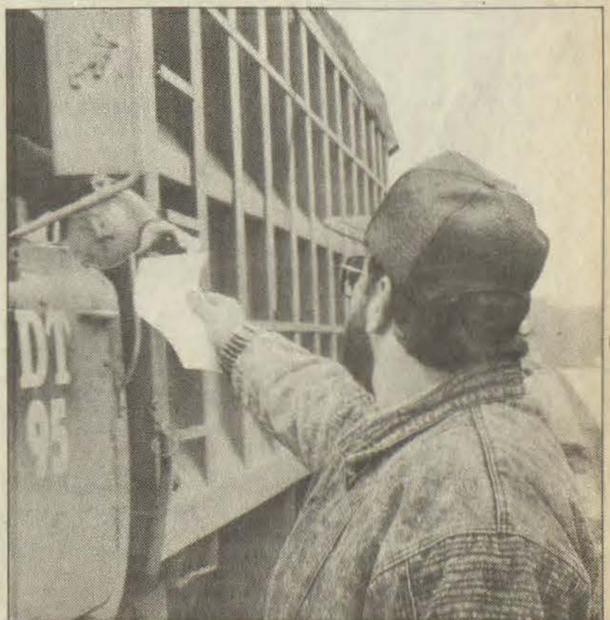

The questions are basic. The short form asks about race, Hispanic origin, age, marital status; whether a residence is rented or owned, the number of rooms, etc. The longer form asks additional questions on ancestry, employment, education, income, type of housing, utilities, and so on.

If a returned questionnaire is incomplete, a census employee must contact that household to obtain the information. Then the answers on the questionnaire are combined with those from other questionnaires to produce statistical totals for various geographic areas. It is these combined numbers, not the personal answers, that are published and put to thousands of uses.

Time To Organize

Toby D. Collins of Pike County, hands out leaflets in Prestonsburg Thursday to independent Floyd County coal-truck drivers. Collins requested drivers to attend a Sunday evening meeting at Marlow's Country Palace, to discuss the price of fuel, tires, and payments for coalhauling. "It's time we worked together to solve our problems," said Collins. "We got to do it ourselves."

Gasoline Odors Evacuation of 10 Louisa Homes

LOUISA - Around 10 Louisa homes were evacuated Wednesday evening when emergency personnel received reports of gasoline odor in the storm sewers. Residents were allowed to return to their homes after two to three hours once it was determined that the concentration of gasoline was minimal. Sewers were flushed to relieve odor. The incident is still under investigation. (The Big Sandy News)

Paintsville Fire Chief Opposes Dismissal

PAINTSVILLE—Owen Doyle, attorney for terminated fire chief Paul Burk, said he had not formulated a defense for Burk because he had "nothing to go on." Doyle claims he had not been notified of the Monday hearing and had seen no specific charges against Burk to support his dismissal. Mayor Preston told council that Burk's dismissal involved over-budget expenditures in the city fire department; department purchases being made without required purchase orders; personnel problems that included reductions in the department's number of volunteer firefighters; and the chief's refusal to work "shifts." (The Paintsville Herald)

Truck Drivers Cited For Strike Violations

PIKEVILLE—Attorneys for Hawkeye Coal Corp. asked Pike Circuit Judge Bayard Collier on Thursday to ban the picket line and fine 16 people in contempt of a restraining order designed to restrict the picket line outside of its mines. The company charged truckers with repeatedly violating a restraining order limiting the number of pickets to two, various acts of vandalism against replacement coal trucks and an assault on a company employee. An attorney for the striking truckers also filed a motion to allow more pickets near Hawkeye's mine at the Pike County airport. Attorney Larry Webster also charged some company employees with being in contempt of the court order by carrying guns and intimidating the pickets. (Appalachian News-Express) same as a trailer bought today. People aren't going to pay any taxes if they don't think they're being treated fairly," Rosenberg said.

PVA Hall, stating that he had not been informed of the existence of the petition, said that a reevaluation of property values in the county was presently underway.

"We've been doing a reevaluation for the past year," said Hall. "So far, we've revalued 25 percent of all property in the county. It's an ongoing process which can't be done overnight. We're talking about 18,000 parcels of property which must be examined."

Hall affirmed that some inequities in property values do exist in the county, but he noted that similar inequities exist throughout the state.

"The Lexington papers make it seem like the problem's worse in Eastern Kentucky, but it's statewide," said Hall. "Fayette County and western Kentucky have the same troubles. We are trying to be fair with everyone, but we can only do the job with what we have. We don't have all the funding we need."

The Floyd County Education Forum's petition will continue to be circulated within the county in the coming weeks.

Prestonsburg Coal Company Wins Award

The Knott-Letcher-Perry Independent Coal Operators Association recently presented the "Member of the Year" award to the Emmanuel Coal Company Inc., Prestonsburg. Emmanuel joined the KLPICOA on March 17, 1989. At that time the company had 15 employees, and by December 1989 they had 64. Jack Fitz, president of KLPICOA, stated, "Emmanuel Coal Company Inc., through their growth and professional manner in which they conduct business, is a prime example of fulfilling the spirit and motto of our Association... 'Together We Can.'" Accepting the award are director Bill Terry, Mr. and Mrs. John Burke and Mr. and Mrs. Vic Rice, owners, and Fitz.

Few Eligible Kentuckians on Medicare Have Applied for Extended Medicaid

About 5,600 Kentuckians covered by Medicare also became eligible last year for help from the state's Medicaid program in paying some of their health care costs.

In 1990, Kentucky's number of qualified Medicare beneficiaries (QMB) could grow as much as 13,000. Yet that is still less than one-fourth of the estimated 58,500 potentially QMB-eligible Kentuckians, most of whom have simply failed to inquire about the benefits.

Under federal law, Medicaid, the state-federally funded program providing health care for people with low incomes, will pay Medicare premiums, co-insurance and deductibles for Kentuckians who meet certain guidelines.

"This could amount to as little as $500 or as much as $12,000 for each person a year," said Kentucky Medicaid Services Commissioner Roy Butler.

"These are out-of-pocket expenses that might be so costly for some people that they would postpone or avoid seeking medical care," he said.

Kentuckians must meet the following criteria in order to qualify for help from Medicaid:

- * receive Medicare Part A (hospitalization) benefits;
- * have a gross income at or below 90 percent of the federal poverty level ($469 a month for an individual and $622 a month for a family of two); and
- * have resources, such as bank accounts and certificates of deposit, of not more than $4,000 for an individual and $6,000 for a family of two.

Medicaid assistance includes payment of Medicare Part B premiums, an average of $29 a month; Medicare deductibles, such as $592 a year for hospital stays; and the 20 percent of co-insurance Medicare recipients must pay.

This extended coverage is expected to cost the Medicaid department up to $12 million during 1990, including $8.8 million in federal funds. The assistance cost Kentucky's Medicaid program $1.5 million in 1989, the first year it was available. (This included $1.1 million in federal funds.)

Medicare recipients who think they may be eligible for this Medicaid coverage should contact the local office of the state Department for Social Insurance.

Childcare Series Slated At OLWH

The WomanCare program at Our Lady of the Way Hospital will offer a weekly series of eight classes on child care beginning Wednesday, Jan. 24, and running through Friday, March 16.

The program is directed toward parents who are expectant or who have delivered recently and will cover areas from the newborn at birth to growth and development.

Instructors for the series will include physicians, mid-wives, pediatric nurse practitioners, RNs and other health professionals. The series will be held in the Health Education building across from the hospital and is free to the public.

Presentations on each topic will be given four times: each Wednesday and Thursday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. A free gift for mother or baby will be given to each participant.

SCB Extends Service Center Hours

South Central Bell has extended the hours its service representatives are on call, which should make it easier and more convenient for many customers to take care of their telephone service needs, according to Art Willett of SCB's regional Pikeville office.

The new office hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Willett said the company is extending the office hours by opening an hour earlier and closing an hour later to offer customers greater flexibility in doing business with South Central Bell.

"Research has shown that traditional hours no longer adequately meet today's customer needs for handling home telephone service," Willett explained. "There are an increasing number of single households and dual-career households, where working people may find it difficult to call the business office during their own working hours."

"We're trying to respond to the changing needs of our customers and give them the quality of service they deserve."

Customers can call the service center to establish, transfer or disconnect home telephone service. Service representatives will also assist them with billing questions or place orders for additional features.

In addition, 24-hour service is available for certain transactions through an automated business office service called RightTouch(R) service, Willett said. By pushing the buttons of a touch-tone telephone, residence customers can get account information, order duplicate bills, make payment arrangements, order Custom Calling services, or disconnect service. To use RightTouch service, customers can dial 1-557-7777, toll-free.

The telephone numbers for South Central Bell service representatives are listed in the Customer Guide pages in the front of the South Central Bell telephone directory and on customers' telephone bills.

Historical Society Gets Exhibit Funds

The Kentucky Historical Society has announced the award of $5,715 from the Kentucky Humanities Council for the continuation of its traveling exhibit program, Museums To Go.

Initiated in 1986 with Humanities Council funds, the program circulates two-dimensional displays on 15 topics that span history, literature, the arts, and technology. In 1989, over 33,000 people viewed Museums To Go exhibits in libraries, state parks, and other locations throughout the commonwealth. Grant funds will make it possible to continue shipping exhibits at no cost to the borrower and to produce four to six new exhibits in 1990.

A toll-free Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) Line has been added to the Kentucky General Assembly's legislator message and bill status service.

Hearing impaired persons with TDDs can now call Frankfort from anywhere in Kentucky at no charge to leave messages for legislators or check the status of a bill.

The toll-free TDD number is 1-800-526-6493. Experienced TDD operators will man the line each Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. during the General Assembly session.

Bill Rogers, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on the Deaf and Hearing Impaired, said he hopes many hearing impaired persons will call the toll-free number to express support for House Bill 20. That bill, if passed, will establish a dual party telephone relay service for hearing and speech impaired persons, providing them with virtually unlimited access to the public telephone system.

Persons with regular "voice" telephone may contact their legislators by dialing 1-800-372-7181.

The toll-free TDD line is being provided by four telephone companies: AT&T, Cincinnati Bell, GTE and South Central Bell. Establishment of the line was coordinated jointly by the Legislative Research Commission and the Commission on the Deaf and Hearing Impaired.

Letters

Put Spirituality Back In Schools

Dear Editor,
Kentucky schools may soon be posting permanent plaques inscribed with our national motto, In God We Trust, and the preamble of our state constitution. We, the people of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, grateful to Almighty God for the civil, political and religious liberties we enjoy, and invoking the continuance of these blessings, do ordain and establish this constitution. The plaques affirm a mounting need to stem the erosion of historic foundations of social character and patriotism in the classroom.

The action grew from an original resolution offered by this writer to the Kentucky General Assembly. Enthusiastic support for the resolution came from prominent Kentuckians. Excerpts from their letters to me follow.

Dr. John Brock, superintendent of public instruction: "(The plaque) would be a step toward revitalizing patriotism and insuring that our heritage is passed on to young people. The public schools are facing some serious and dangerous problems."

US Senator McConnell: "Your resolution is consistent with the position I have always taken, and I wish you every success in your efforts."

US Senator Ford: "Your concern is shared by many Kentucky citizens, and I hope you will be successful in your endeavor to resolve the confusion regarding the legal status of spiritual values in education."

Former Governor Brown: "Enlist

me as one who widely endorses your efforts."

Former Governor Nunn: "If we are to achieve excellence in our young people, we must return to our roots. You have my wholehearted support."

Former Governor Chandler: "You can depend upon my full support."

Former Governor Carroll: "It is with great enthusiasm that I support your effort."

Letters of support also came from Congressmen Hubbard, Snyder, Rogers and Natcher, from Nelson Allen, chairperson of the Kentucky Senate Education Committee, and from Gary L. Bauer, former director of the White House Office of Policy Development.

Individuals or groups wishing to sponsor plaques may contact local school boards or write Sam Peavey, Ed.D., 2307 Tyler Lane, Louisville, Ky 40205, for more information and appropriate plaque design. It is time to take a firm stand for Kentucky children.

Notes From 'Another Hillbilly'

Dear Editor,
I am another hillbilly mad as hell over the TV program, "48 Hours." I never dreamed that they would stoop that low. We are not going to let them get away with that, are we?

I can't believe that they would show places like Muddy Gut Hollow. Some places in Kentucky always did look like that. I know because I was born and raised there in Prestonsburg.

If people there want to live like that, it's nobody's business, and if they choose to stay there, it's still no one's business. It's up to them to stay or leave.

I left Prestonsburg back in 1966. It wasn't because I never liked my hometown. It was I wanted a better job, and I found it here in Warsaw.

He talked about the slums there. Well, I can tell you, here in Indiana, we have places and houses that would make Muddy Gut Hollow look like a rose garden. And that's no lie. I see it every day.

I think that Prestonsburg sure has changed, for the better, since I left there. Since Mayor Latta has been in office, it is a lot cleaner, no trash on the street, none on the highway.

I think she has cleaned up the county for the better. If I were there, I would shake her hand.

I was home last year. I could see the change. I drove around places, like the lake, and I think it was nice and clean, myself.

I think they should come back and do it (the filming) over, not just in one place, but all the beauty that's still down there.

Thank you for listening.
—Mary Perry

Believes Kennedy Behind '48 Hours'

Dear Editor,
Kentuckians are some of the most interesting people one will ever meet and Jones succeeded in airing one of the most boring shows I ever saw. Sure, many of you are angry at Phil Jones and his portrayal of your region and its people. Don't get mad—get even.

Regardless of the invitation to CBS from Gov. Wilkinson and Rep. Greg Stumbo inviting them to return to the state for another side of Kentucky, if CBS has the audacity to show up, JUST SHOOT THEM ALL DOWN AND SORT THEM OUT LATER. Kidding, just kidding!

Let me tell you what this was all about, in my opinion. David Burke is president of CBS-News and in this capacity is responsible for "48 Hours". David Burke, former administrative assistant to... Sen. Ted Kennedy. As Casey Stengel used to say, "You can look it up." Check out Burke's role in the book, Senatorial Privilege, The Chappaquiddick Cover-Up. Burke wants his old boss, Kennedy, to become president. And since Burke and Kennedy are so bankrupt of ideas, they looked at some old "Poverty in America" films from the 60s and decided that would be Teddy's platform. I kid you not! You get the picture—show America mired in poverty, send Teddy around the country yapping about it and there you have it, "Teddy in 1992." Heh, heh, talk about their little plotbackfiring. They sure underestimated the fighting Kentuckians.

As Burke is so devoid of ideas, I offer him one, gratis. Burke, why don't you take your crews to Massachusetts, home of Kennedy, Dukakis and... Barney Frank? You would need at least 48 hours to detail the depth of corruption in that state...

I would like to make two points about Rep. Greg Stumbo's otherwise excellent letter. (1) I hoped he would have included in his invitation to CBS to investigate certain members of the school board and Superintendent Hager; and (2) Please, Greg, find someone other than Robert Kennedy to admire and quote... You might find some interesting reading regarding the late senator in Patricia Seaton Lawford's book, The Peter Lawford Story — Life With the Kennedys, Marilyn and the Rat Pack.

By the way, David Burke is receiving a copy of this letter.
Sincerely,
—Helen Storie Nicola
Tucson, Ariz.

Questions State Medical Card Distribution

Dear Editor,
I have a question I would like to ask and an opinion I would like to express. First, why is that some people who really need a state medical card cannot receive one? The reason I ask, is because my brother is a diabetic and he has to have insulin injections in order to live. He has been unable to work and the state still refuses to give him one. Because of his illness, last year his left lung collapsed. He was in the hospital at least two weeks. Ever since then, not a month goes by that he doesn't have to be admitted into the hospital. He doesn't have money to buy the insulin he needs and the state won't give him a "card."

In my opinion it sounds as if the state is committing a crime. Attempted Murder! Because if he does not receive a state medical card, he can't get his insulin, and he can't see a doctor regularly, and he will die.

Thank you for your time in reading this. I think everyone should know what is happening to people like him.

The Floyd County Fiscal Court heard arguments this week in favor of moving the proposed Big Sandy Airport to a Floyd location. This collision was the fourth incident involving a county truck... An application for a second Appalachian project similar to the Middle Creek project now under development was sent to Frankfort Saturday by the Floyd County ASCS Committee. This new proposal covers the Bull Creek, Dwale and Emma sections of the county. Areas that would be included are Town Branch, Bull Creek, including all the land in both forks which drain into Bull Creek. According to the application this will affect about 11,500 acres... Inadequate toilet facilities, sub par lighting and a shortage of facilities are listed at the Martin school by Dan Dixon, Supervisor of General Sanitation Services Program... The Commonwealth of Kentucky and the City of Prestonsburg joined Monday in a circuit court action to close the Eagles club here. It has been alleged that within the past year the premises, or a portion of the premises, have been used for the purpose of unlawfully selling and/or passing intoxicating liquors in dry territory... Prestonsburg flood gates can be closed in three to four hours after the key has been turned on the gates, Dick Davis, Superintendent of the Flood Wall, said this week. Plans have been made to add, if possible, two men from the Fire Department, Emergency Squad and Water Department, Davis said, for around the clock shifts... There died: Rev. Charles H. ## Poison Oak

By Clyde Pack

Good To The Last Drop
(Editor's note: Mr. Pack's remembrances of growing up in a coal town will run occasionally in The Times.)

The folks who lived in Thealka in the 1940s were—by and large—good, hard-working, God-fearing people. Yet, I don't want to leave the impression that every last one of them was perfect. Be assured that, just like every other society anywhere, we had our warts.

For example, one old gentleman was well-known for his insobriety. Furthermore, it was this man's whiskey drinking that nearly prompted a bunch of us boys (who were merely practicing the art of recycling almost 50 years before it became fashionable) to partake in the evils of drinking ourselves. Now don't misunderstand. It wasn't intentional on his part or anything. It just kind of happened.

You see, when he'd finish a bottle, he'd step out onto his back porch and fling it into the pile of old tin cans that had accumulated in the back lane behind his house. (Incidentally, every house in Society Row had its own pile of tin cans, and every so often men from the Northeast Coal Company would come and haul them away.)

Since our show fare resulted chiefly in our ability to gather pop bottles and pieces of scrap, iron, many of us frequented this old gentleman's pile of tin cans on a regular basis.

I have no earthly notion as to which one of us it was who thought of the idea, but one day when we were poking around looking for whatever might be turned into some quick cash, one of the boys with whom I shared a clubhouse (two or three pieces of old roofing tin nailed at an angle to the corner of our smokehouse and covered with an old linoleum rug that someone had thrown away) noticed that practically every whiskey bottle still intact had about half a swallow left in it and if you'd hold the bottle just right, it'd drain down and fill the bottom corner with a little amber-colored triangle. Furthermore, all the bottles had been recorked before they'd been discarded.

Anyway, who ever was in charge that day said, "I got a good idea. Let's get all these liquor bottles and take them to the clubhouse."

When somebody asked why, he said, "Just do it. I'll show you why."

We did it, and what he showed us was that if we'd pour all the half-swallows of whiskey into just one bottle, before long we could have us a whole half pint.

We put our plan into action and met every day after school to gather up the empties and drain their remains into one bottle. In order to measure our progress, we even put little pencil marks on the edge of the bright yellow label of the bottle we were attempting to fill, much like we'd have done to the door facing if we were measuring our height.

We worked diligently, paying no attention to the various brands. Every drop we could find went into that one bottle, and after what seemed like forever, but was probably no more than a couple of weeks, our bottle would hold no more.

We were one proved bunch as we passed it around and held it at arms length for inspection.

"What now?" one of us asked.
"Now we drink it, silly," another answered.

"Not me," someone else protested.
"This stuff's got every kind of whiskey in the world in it. It'd kill every blessed one of us. I wouldn't drink it if someone held a gun on me."

"I know—let's sell it."

"We can't do that. They'd put us in the pen for boot-leggin'."

After much high-level discussion led to no agreeable solution, we decided to hide it, think about it and meet later to decide its fate.

In the 1940s, though, Muddy Branch was one exciting place and, to say the least, our interests were varied. Before long, thoughts of the world's strangest half pint of whiskey waned and were replaced by some other devious plan. As a matter of fact, I had personally forgotten about our stash until one day, probably a week or 10 days later, when I was looking for pop bottles in the pile of tin cans behind the house of the man who had provided us—one swallow at a time—with all our whiskey.

It was then I noticed the empty whiskey bottle with the strange little pencil markings on its bright yellow label—much like we'd have done to the door facing if we were measuring our height.

To this day I don't know if he'd been watching us and helped himself to our concoction when we weren't looking, or if he'd bought the bottle from one of my cohorts who'd decided to turn a slick little profit with a one-way split.

Either way, it seems that the old fellow not only had the last laugh, but also enjoyed his liquor—right down to the very last drop.

Wonder who held the gun on him when he drank it?

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

There seems to be an outrageous "flu bug" flying throughout the county, taking a bite out of a lot of people.

The nasty little critter took a hunk out of my youngest daughter on Monday. Temperature, excruciating headache, little pale face, with dark brown circles under her eyes.

It was awful. My heart was aching as bad as her head seemed to be. But, thank goodness, we took her to the doctor (Papa and I) and he gave her a penicillin shot which has returned her to her natural self.

It's amazing how these viruses spread. The school closings across the state are unreal. The young and elderly seem to be having the worst experiences because of the flu. And recovery is slow and painful.

It's so hard for a mother to have to sit and see her child in pain and not be able to take the pain away. Just rocking and hugging and hoping somehow a little TLC helps sooth the hurt.

If all the mothers in the world could only prevent these nasty little flu bugs from biting our little ones, boy, wouldn't it be a better place. But realistically, since we can't, I suppose we'll have to continue with lots of tender loving care, sleepless nights and worried minds.

Til next week, take care.

Religious Viewpoints

by Father Joseph Muench
Pastor,
St. Martha's Catholic Church

On this day all of us should be thinking about one issue. There has been a plague on our country for more than 10 years. It has wiped out more of our citizens than the black plague of the Middle Ages, yet, we have come to accept it as the status quo. This plague is called abortion.

Each year 1.5 million Americans are murdered in their mother's wombs. This process is physically painful both for the mother and the unborn person, to say nothing of the spiritual and emotional injury sustained by mother and victim. How can we make it stop?

First, we must pray. Without wisdom and grace any effort we make will be futile. Pray in reparation for the past and current evil generated by abortions. Pray for the conversion of those who perform them and procure them. Pray for a change in our nation's laws. Pray that we, as Americans, can love and respect each person from conception until they pass unto eternity.

Second, learn how to love people. Love is contagious. If we can help others love by loving them then we will have what it takes to effect true social revolution: converted people. Love means making a decision to serve the good of the beloved person at the expense of our own self. "There is no greater love than to lay down one's life for a friend," Jesus said. Love teaches us that each person has value and must be respected. When people are loved and respected abortion is unthinkable.

Third, we must work, as the Lord directs us, for the conversion of our society. For some this will mean pursuing public office. Others will be called to demonstrate and lobby for social reform and new laws that are pro-life and anti-abortion. For some it will mean teaching their children the truth that destroys prejudice and selfishness and replaces it with respect and love. One thing is certain, we must not sit back as a people, a church nor as individuals looking for someone else to get the job done. It is not a question of if but of how I will work to end abortion for those who are persons of true and certain conscience.

Above all, Jan. 22's dreadful anniversary should remind us of the limitations of human beings and their inability to find or be the solutions to the ills of society. Indeed, abortion is another example of the cure being worse than the sickness. Such a cure is the product of the human mind which is fallible and serves as an example of how dangerous human reason can be when separated from an objective standard of truth which determines morality.

Furthermore, just because we can make mistakes does not mean we are free from guilt when we make them. We are responsible for what we know and for what we can know. For those who do not see God's truth in nature there is revelation. Everyone, therefore, who has the power of reason can know that abortion is wrong in every case. God is trying to teach us, if we would only listen.

I have personally counseled many people considering abortion. The joy of knowing that there are children alive today because of such efforts is beyond words. I have also been involved on the practical level of helping parents face the trials of child bearing and rearing. We can be glad that churches offer these loving and life-giving services to unwed mothers and to families who face crisis and chronic problems during pregnancy and rearing the children. I have also marched in Washington and Frankfurt.

Furthermore, I have ministered to many women who have had abortions and the men who have fathered aborted children in an effort to help them find divine mercy and forgiveness. Once they have received God's mercy and have seen the truth about abortion they often become its most vigorous opponents. These are not extracurriculars nor are they boasts. These are the least I can do to save a child's life. How about you, the citizens of Floyd County?

I know you are too good to stand idle in the face of a child's destruction. Consider your political involvements and candidates. Consider your opinions and statements. Don't fall victim to a double standard of truth or morality but stand with integrity for LIFE from conception to human fulfillment in heaven for everyone.

For the love of Jesus.

Census

Neither a census taker nor any other employee of the Census Bureau can reveal information about an individual or his/her household. Census personnel take an oath to uphold this confidence. Failure to do so can mean five years in prison and $5000 in fines.

Title 13 of the US Code prevents any agency — Immigration, the FBI, the IRS, the courts, the military, welfare agencies — from getting any information about a person. In fact, personal information from the 1990 Census will be locked up until the year 2062.

PURPOSE OF THE CENSUS

From 1984 to 1993, the total cost of planning, carrying out and providing the results of the census will be about $2.6 billion. More than $1.3 billion will be spent in 1990.

The 1990 Census will tell us how the nation is changing; the condition of housing, education, employment and income information about the area, plus the social and economic pulse of the nation.

The two main reasons for the creation of the Census was to provide population counts needed to apportion seats in the US House of Representatives and to determine state legislative district boundaries.

However, the uses for the Census are innumerable. Accurate Census numbers help federal and state governments provide assistance to communities for housing, health, human services and other programs.

Some of the uses by federal programs include: Assess the need for equal employment opportunity programs; identify areas needing energy assistance; develop programs to reduce unemployment; identify areas needing programs to stimulate economic growth; establish fair market rent values and to enforce fair lending practices.

The state and local governments use the Census to develop social services programs, including programs for the elderly and handicapped; identify areas for low-cost housing programs; establish occupational and vocation education programs and to plan school district boundaries and school construction programs.

Businesses consult the Census to select sites for retail stores and new plants and to assess labor pools. And individuals may utilize the released Census data to assist in family tree research since individual Census forms are unsealed after 72 years. The Prestonsburg Community College's Library has statistical data from Census taken in previous years available to anyone seeking that type of information.

For a number of reasons, about 2.2 million people were not counted in the last census (about 1 percent). This is called an undercount. Among minority populations the percentage was higher — about 6 percent.

Unfortunately, an undercount can result in flawed decisions. Inaccurate counts can curtail projects and cause lower funding for community programs and services. Often, those who could benefit most are those who are shortchanged when there's an undercount, Miller pointed out.

Being missed in the census affects not only the people missed — everyone loses if everyone is not counted, he said.

Be Healthy In 1990s And Beyond

By Robert Engelman
Scripps Howard News Service
A cure for AIDS is nowhere in sight and cancer is still likely to strike about one in three Americans, but the 1980s were an incredibly productive decade for preventive medicine.

Some of the research results remain controversial, but scientific consensus is pretty strong on some basic points and guidelines. None is particularly onerous.

One key to health is understanding how to rank health threats by risk and then pay the most attention to the greatest hazards.

Seen this way, it's no wonder public interest in heart-healthy eating went off the charts during the '80s. A lot of experts have debated whether the cholesterol craze is overblown, but a basic fact is often overlooked:

Coronary heart disease is the nation's biggest killer, responsible for a half a million deaths in the United States each year. With odds like that, a little prudent attention to diet makes sense.

Diet advice in a nutshell: Make raw fruits, fresh vegetables and whole grains a major part of your diet.

You don't have to eliminate foods that contain saturated fat and cholesterol. The more unprocessed fruits, vegetables and grains you eat, the less room there is for fatty foods. And the same diet that reduces heart disease risk appears to help lower blood pressure and prevent some cancers.

Here are a few more preventive health guidelines, ranked according to their likely benefit:

—If you smoke, quit. Smoking is not only the greatest single preventable cause of cancer deaths, it also is a major risk factor in heart disease and countless other health problems.

—Exercise. Don't worry about doing it for 20 minutes three times a week. Just get up off the couch and try to stretch and move your body from time to time. The evidence is overwhelming that even a little physical activity has multiple health benefits and can prolong life.

—Have your blood pressure checked periodically, and take steps to control it if it's high.

—Drink alcohol in moderation, if you drink at all. Alcohol's health benefit is minor at best, its hazards considerable.

—Think safety. Wear seat belts in your car and install smoke detectors in your home. Although an unglamorous research topic, accidents are a major cause of death and disability, especially among the young.

—Have a personal physician and dentist. See the doctor to check cholesterol and blood pressure and for treatment of health problems that either don't clear up on their own or are beyond your abilities to manage. Visit the dentist twice a year for preventive maintenance.

—Relax. Uncontrolled stress is probably more harmful than whatever it is that's causing it. Take a few deep breaths from time to time.

—Get enough sleep. A full night's rest — along with an occasional midday nap, if you can — contributes to overall alertness, health and well-being.

• Much of the nation launched winter with some of the coldest temperatures on record. Not surprisingly, the frigid air proved fatal in some cities.

The greatest threat of severe cold is to the elderly, and it takes the form of hypothermia—literally, "underheatedness." Not only cold itself but alcohol, certain medications and chronic illness can contribute.

Prevention is basic. Respect cold weather and plan ahead to stay warm. Symptoms of hypothermia include uncontrollable shivering, stiff muscles, slurred speech, labored breathing, weak pulse and confusion and disorientation. The condition demands immediate medical attention.

For more information, the National Institute of Aging has produced a brochure, "Accidental Hypothermia." Write for a free copy to Hypothermia, NIA Information Center, P.O. Box 8057, Gaithersburg, MD. 20898-8057.

Ashland Regional Cancer Center Expanding, Increasing Services

Ashland's Tri-State Regional Cancer Center will have a new look for 1990. The center is expanding to improve its services in order to better serve the tri-state area.

Since the opening of the center in 1985, the number of patients treated each day has more than doubled. This steady growth has initiated the construction of a 2400 square foot wing to be added to the rear of the building.

The new wing will include two new examination rooms, an upgraded nursing department, expanded engineering unit and a conference room which will double as a patient education area.

"Education is an important step in the therapy of each patient," explained Dr. Jeffrey Lopez, medical associate of the center. "Patients will now have access to various library materials and video tapes to accompany their treatment."

The Cancer Center will also offer educational seminars concerning different types of cancer upon request. The public may call toll free outside of Ashland, 1-800-225-8161, for more information.

Among the most important improvements to the center is the addition of the new Theratron 80 Cobalt 60 machine. The new machine will be used to treat cancers that require a lower energy, such as head or neck conditions. It will also serve as a "back up" machine to prevent delays in treatment should any problems occur with the present system.

"The Cobalt machine is an extremely reliable piece of equipment," stated Dr. Bobby Baker, center director. "This should enable us to treat patients on a more timely basis, resulting in less wasted time."

Other upcoming changes at the cancer center include the introduction of a new skin cancer program during the month of January. The program, entitled "Skin Cancer Specialists" has been designed to create a greater awareness throughout the tri-state area of the dangers of excessive sun exposure.

"Many people believe that because of our location, we are not considered a target area for skin cancer. They find an unusual spot on their body and ignore it as 'old age' or another mole," reported Dr. Baker. "We intend to educate the public about the warning signals of skin cancer and inform them about the areas that require medical attention."

Tri-State has opened a new telephone line to address questions specifically related to skin cancer, 1-606-325-SKIN. The center will also offer free skin screenings throughout the year to kick off the program.

Exhibit Explores Facts And Fakes Of Daniel Boone

An exhibit celebrating the life and legend of Daniel Boone will open June 1 at the Old State Capitol. "The Legend of Daniel Boone: The First Frontier Hero" will display the art and artifacts which established his image as "the prince of pioneers."

The exhibit will show over 50 artworks and illustrations of Boone, including the 1820 Chester Harding oil acclaimed as "the authentic image" of the famed frontiersman. More than 25 artifacts attributed to Boone and his family, including three fire arms, will illustrate the facts and fakes of "Booneabilia."

Other collections of artifacts will interpret the 18th century world in which he lived. Exploring visitors will sit at a half-face wilderness camp or stand with the defenders of Fort Boonesborough.

Daniel Boone (1734-1820) is a worthy hero. Over the years, he became a hunter, trailblazer, marksman, Indian fighter, surveyor, soldier, farmer, judge, and family man. Boone was all of these and more.

Young Club Impacts Community, Helps Members Advance

by Tess Whitmer
Staff Writer

Young adults looking for a way to increase their personal development and leadership training have a perfect solution in the form of a newly organized group right here in Floyd County.

The Prestonsburg Jaycees, as they're called, do not limit their membership to only residents of the city, but extend an invitation to all persons ages 21-39 in the county to join.

The national Jaycees organization is designed to help its members improve in three basic areas: Individual, community and management development. The individual development area offers the members those personal skills such as goal setting, time management, communication, family and spiritual development and leadership training that will aid the member in pursuit of personal goals.

The community development programs benefit the community and people in the community. They also tie together the other two areas through the use of the management and personal skills acquired in the planning and carrying out the various community activities.

Efforts in the management development area will lead to a stronger chapter organization, better planning and management, a sense of pride, fiscal stability and recognition as a strong group of young people.

According to management vice president Donna Roope, the Prestonsburg Jaycees are fast becoming a strong chapter, presently ranked 27th out of 75 chapters in the state after only a year in existence. Roope noted that the chapter originally applied for a charter in November of 1988 and after waiting the 75-day period and recruiting the required 20 members, became an official chapter in January 1989.

The group's first project, and now its largest, was the Festival of Faces Parade. The parade is scheduled for May 19 this year so members are hard at work gearing up for that event.

Other projects the group handled during its first year were a blood drive, battling with the Prestonsburg Rotary Club and the Prestonsburg and Martin Kiwanis clubs for the title (Rotary won.); a Casino Night at the Holiday Inn to raise money for Muscular Dystrophy; and a Pre-Kentucky Derby party, also for MD.

Muscular Dystrophy is the pet project of the National and State Jaycee Clubs. Kentucky Jaycees donated around $40,000 to the charity last year, with the local chapter contributing $650 of that sum.

"It's really something to have a child thank you for money you donated toward a cure that might someday help her to walk," Roope said. The poster child for MD spoke at a recent convention.

"Being a Jaycee is a lot of work at times, but it is always fun, and it is an avenue for self-improvement."
--Donna Roope

The members of Jaycees have the opportunity to attend many conventions throughout the year, including the national convention in Louisville in June. In addition, numerous seminars are given locally, free of charge, to enable members to advance their personal goals and develop professionally.

"The Jaycees is quite a bargain if you look at all the professional and personal training opportunities which are offered free or at a charge of as little as $5 and $10," Roope pointed out. "The annual dues are only $40 the first year and $35 each year after. Normally, one workshop will cost a person twice that much through regular channels."

The club is expanding rapidly, with the membership continuing to grow, enabling the group to take on more endeavors. "We try to gear all our projects so there is something of interest to everyone throughout the year. We attempt to make them fun, as well as profitable," Roope explained.

Some of the new projects planned for this year include the Jesse Stuart Book Project, a golf tournament, a Race Night at the Holiday Inn and a Ghost Run in October. Roope noted that the members continually develop new ideas and borrow others from sister groups in the area.

"All of our project ideas are compiled and detailed booklets are maintained on each, which we submit during regional conferences to qualify for awards," she continued. Individual members are eligible to compete in several categories, such as writing and speech. The chapter also competes for group awards.

The Prestonsburg Jaycees recently won 10 awards from their district, region and state during the 2nd Quarter All-State Convention in Louisville.

The club was recognized for "Chapter of the Quarter," and Roope received "Jaycee of the Quarter" in the district. The club also received "Most Improved Chapter" and had the most membership growth in the region.

Among the state awards brought home by the Prestonsburg Jaycees was a Citation of Merit $600 Club for their donation to MD. Anita Hale and Cathy Prater won second place in Population Division 3 in community development for their project "First Annual Battle for Blood." They also received a third place Impact award on this project.

National Jaycees
Week
Jan. 21-27

Roope was recognized with a second place award in Population Division 3 in Management Development for the regional meeting she chaired. She also earned a third place Impact award, along with the Catalyst Award given by president of the Kentucky Jaycees Don Shchieman for "Making Things Happen" in the second quarter.

Other members who attended the convention were Tommie Sue Branham and Brian Ousley.

Roope said the club is striving to be in the top 15 of the Jaycee Clubs in the state. "We have come such a long way in such a short time. We used to have to beg people to join but now they are coming to us and we are thrilled," she said.

"Right now we have only single or previously married people as members and we are really looking for some married persons to join. We also hope to attract some teachers into the club," she added.

The only stipulation to be a member is that you are between 21 and 39 years of age, are a responsible, mature person and of good moral character. The national Jaycees organization was originally all male, but females have been admitted since 1984 and are now a strong force in the club.

"Being a Jaycee is a lot of work at times, but it is always fun and it is an avenue for self-improvement," Roope stressed. "All of our members are energetic and put 110 percent into their work as a Jaycee. It really is a great organization to belong to, to help yourself and your community."

Anyone interested in finding out more about the Prestonsburg Jaycees is urged to attend one of the meetings on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at the Floyd County library at 7 p.m. or contact one of the following members: Brian Ousley, president; Cathy H. Prater, individual development vice president; Rosemary Armstrong, community development vice president; Brennan Dye, membership development vice president; Pam Goble, treasurer; Jeff Hicks, secretary; Tommie Sue Branham, director; Glenna Cesco, director; Anita Hale, director; and members Tony Armstrong, Joel Back, Carla R. Bolton, Debbie H. Click, Kim Frasure, Linda Lennox, Lisa Meade, Steve Pack, Jayne Pitts, Madonna Simpkins, Peggy Thompson or Roope.

Wayland PTO Goes To The 'Donkeys'

The Wayland Parent Teachers Organization recently sponsored a donkey basketball game, during which teachers challenged the parents and won by a score of 16-4.

The event began with donkey riding flag bearers Eric Hall and Leavodis Casebolt and was followed by court action between the Tailtwisters (teachers) and Muleskinners (parents).

Tailtwister members were Ronnie Patton, Cindy Thorpe, Sheilah Ratliff, David Combs, Jan Shepherd, Deidre Moore and Rhonda Slone. The challenging Muleskinners were Mike Thorpe, Donnie Combs, Ricky Casebolt, David Allen and Don Crawford.

Halftime activities involved Bob and Gwen Harmon competing against Laura and Don Crawford in a donkey diapering contest. The Harmon's won.

Cindy Thorpe was crowned "Jack Queen" after beating out Michelle Ramey, Deidre Moore, Rhonda Slone, Laura Crawford, Anna Martin, Della Craft and Jan Shepherd in a musical donkey contest.

Certificates and trophies were presented by Genia Hall and Susan Bailey, PTO officers.

Floyd County Families: Our Heritage

Granddad was transferred to Va. where he was under George Gordon Meade, his father's cousin.

I'll tell you a little about him. He had gone to school at Va. Military Institute with Gen. Lee. They had grown up close together and knew each other well. So when he was appointed General over the Army of the Potomac at that time because it was the army stationed in Va. and Md. around the Potomac river.

The best I can describe Gen. Meade is the way granddad described him. He was strictly military. He went by the books on every thing. He was always calm, self-controlled. He always went by the orders. Was always unruffled. He always snapped out his orders to the men. The men called him "snapping turtle". Of course, they didn't call him that to his face or out of disrespect. They admired him and respected him very much. They liked him as a General and would have followed him anywhere.

When Gen. Lee heard that Gen. Meade was General of the Army that was in Va. His men asked "General, you've gone to school with Gen. George Gordon Meade, what kind of man is he, what can we expect from him?"

Gen. Lee said, "Well, he's a brilliant man and a wonderful campaign planner and I'll tell you right now that if we ever meet him in battle, he'll give no quarters and he'll ask for none. It will be a fight to the finish." That's what happened when they met at Gettysburg, Pa. When General Meade was head of the Union Army and General Lee of the confederates. They fought for three days without ceasing until the confederate army broke and Lee gathered what was able to travel of them and headed back south to Va.

That was the beginning of the end of the confederate. Because of the beating they received there they never could get their strength back. I think that if Gen. Meade had pursued them then maybe he could have finished it off but his men were so worn out, he wouldn't try to make them march any further. He let them rest there a couple of weeks before he went anywhere else with them.

I don't know whether granddad was in that battle or not, I wish I could remember, but I know later on, I was very small, granddad was in his 70's they had a reunion at Gettysburg, the Civil War Veterans did and of course granddad was invited. He was asked to be one of the speakers at the reunion. I suppose he must have been in that battle by them wanting him to talk on it. The reason I remember it so well, was that granddad was old and to have to make that trip by train, dad was worried about him and because dad was worried, us kids were worried. We thought so much of granddad, especially me. He went and made it back just fine.

Granddad fought with Gen. Meade all the way through. He was with him at Appomattox when the surrender was made. I've heard that tale so much I'll never forget it.

They'd had Gen. Lee boxed up in Petersburg all winter because that was a town between Richmond and the Union Army. He held out there to keep them away from Richmond and when he realized he couldn't hold out any longer he let Jefferson Davis know. So the capital was moved, Davis, his staff and all the papers, by train to Danville.

Lee started to get between the Union Army and Danville, but Grant was there. Grant was head of all the Union Army. He had been in Georgia and South Carolina but had been called back to help out in Va. He quickly had them to pursue Lee. They overtook him at Appomattox and boxed him in there.

Lee's supplies were coming by train from Lynchburg. Grant called Phil Sheridan with the cavalry from Shenandoah Valley. They came down and cut the railroad between Lynchburg and Appomattox. Lee couldn't get any supplies so there was nothing to do but surrender.

Next morning, early, Lee sent his aide with a white flag and a note to Grant to meet him in Appomattox and they would talk over terms of surrender.

Of course, Grant went at once. They were all waiting. As soon as one of Grant's men saw it was going through, he rushed back and told Gen. Meade that the terms of surrender had been drawn up and that Lee was signing them when he left.

Unflappable Gen. Meade, who never got ruffled about anything, and was always composed and self contained, jumped on his horse and started racing it around the camp holding the reins in one hand and his cap in the other, his hair flying, and yelling at the top of his voice. When his men saw their General acting like that, they knew it could mean only one thing "that the war was over."

They all started yelling, dancing and throwing their hats in the air until Grant heard them where he was. He sent an aide to Gen. Meade to hold it down. That they would have no celebration as long as the Confederate Army was stationed within hearing distance.

That brought him back to his senses. He quietened down and quietened the men.

Grant had his men to start loading wagons with food and sent them to Lee's Camp. He said he wanted the men and horses to have something to eat before they started home. Generals Grant and Meade went that night and visited Lee and his men.

That is about as much as I can remember about the Civil War as he told it. When he got back home, he married Sally Roberts, daughter of Jimmy Roberts, who was a sister to Uncle Lemuel's wife, Nancy. She had inherited from her father the land we now call the George Hamilton Fork of Roberts Hollow. They built their house on up above the Hamilton house. That's where all the children were born and raised until almost grown.

Granddad must have had a fairly good education. All I know of him doing to raise the family was teach school. He was elected magistrate two or three times. He was an assessor and census taker.

After Rhodes died in 1865 his mother was still living on there with Jane and her son. Then Jane married again to William Ash. I don't know where he was from but they moved.

Granddad didn't want his mother to live there alone so they decided to sell the place and she could come to live with his family.

They sold it to Kenis Spurlock. My dad, Alex, was a good sized boy and he remembered what they got for the place. All the land from the road all the way to the head of the hollow. They paid her $6.00 in money, a team of mules, and some books, granddad wanted the books to help out in his teaching because there were hardly any books.

The pupils were told to bring any kind of books they had to school. Most when they came had the family Bible. Therefore he wanted the books to help out in his school work.

He built Grandma a little house in the orchard behind where he lived. She had her own garden, chickens, and everything. I think she helped Grandma raise the kids. I remember dad talking about her always spinning and weaving and making them clothes. I guess she was very strict with them because he said that when they (the kids) did anything wrong, that they'd rather their mother punished them than Grandma. She must have been pretty hard on them.

Garden Soil Test Analysis Free To First 100 Gardeners

Billy Merritt, chairperson of the Floyd County Extension District Board, announced this week that soil tests from the first 100 Floyd County gardeners will be analyzed free of charge.

Merritt said this is the first attempt by the extension board to furnish such assistance to gardeners to encourage better use of lime and fertilizer and to increase the production of garden produce.

County Extension Agent Gene Ball emphasizes that soil tests should be obtained as soon as possible — air-dried — and taken to the Floyd County extension Office (1 pint of soil). The samples will be assembled and taken to the University of Kentucky for analysis. The results and recommendations for fertilizer and lime use will be made and mailed to the soil sample owners.

Gardeners wishing to be involved and who are not sure about how to take a soil test should call the Floyd County Extension Office and ask for leaflet AGR-16 or talk with office personnel.

Persons wishing to have soil testing for lawns, pastures and hay crops can have such samples run for a fee of $2.50 per sample, plus postage.

Gardeners who would like to have a copy of the University of Kentucky Garden Bulletin HO-63, Home Gardening in Kentucky, should contact the County Extension Office at 886-2668.

Financing College Is Workshop Topic

A workshop for students and their parents who want help in filling out forms required by colleges before students can receive financial aid is set for Thursday, Jan. 25, at Prestonsburg Community College.

PCC counselor and financial aid coordinator Brenda Music will conduct the workshop slated for 6 p.m. in room 132 of the Johnson building on the campus.

Although some types of aid are available all the time for students, other funds are limited and early and accurate applications will put students in a better position to get funding, Music said.

For more information on the workshop, call PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 278, or for information on financial aid in general, call Music at ext. 223.

WHS Gets 1st Conference Win Behind Helton's 20 Points

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Foul trouble continues to plague the McDowell Daredevils. The conference game with Wheelwright Tuesday night was no exception. The Daredevils' two leading scorers, Marc Hall and Stacy Hall, left the game via the foul route as the Daredevils fell to the run-and-gun Trojans, 73-71.

Jimmy Helton, making his second start of the season, poured in 20 points to lead the Trojans in scoring. Center Brad Compton overcame a slow start and added 11 points in the win.

"Jimmy (Helton) played a solid game for us," Wheelwright coach Monroe Jones said. "He just needs to be consistent in his play."

The Trojans started the game with a three-guard offense to handle the ball better, according to Jones.

"It helped us to play a better defensive game and to handle the ball better," he stated.

Jones says he plans to stay with the new offense as long as his team continues to play the way they are now.

"Our defense has been lacking and the three guard offense gives us a real boost," said the Trojan mentor.

The big spark for the Trojans came in the third period when Chad Hall entered the game and, using his football speed, scored all nine of his points in the period to help the Trojans, on a 11-6 run, to overcome a 23-18 deficit.

On three occasions Hall took the defensive rebound and took the ball coast to coast for a bucket. Wheelwright held the lead at half time, 31-29.

Wheelwright opened the third period with scoring eight straight points and went on top, 39-29. McDowell went on a 11-0 spurt led by Marc Hall to take a 40-39 lead.

"We were in foul trouble there at that point and had to go to a two-guard offense. McDowell extended its defense out and pressed us and we did not control the ball well against it," Jones relates. "Soon as we got our three guard offense back in the game, they handled it well and took the ball into Brad (Compton) for a couple of baskets."

Marc Hall picked up his fourth personal foul in the third period with 2:50 remaining and eventually fouled out on a call with 4:33 remaining in the final stanza with the score tied at 56-56. Stacy Hall lasted 22 minutes longer as he departed the game with 4:11 showing on the clock. The loss of the two top scorers was a big blow to the Daredevils' offense.

"I thought we did a good job on Marc tonight," said Jones. "We always go out to challenge the other team's best player. We challenged him every time he got the ball. He either had to drive through our defense and charge or shoot over it. We went to intentionally put pressure on Hall and Shelton."

Wheelwright rolled out to a 64-56 lead with 3:26 to go. A three-pointer by Mike Duddleston and a bucket by Keith Shelton made it 64-61. Compton took an offensive rebound and put it back in to give the Trojans a 68-63 lead. Two straight three-point plays by McDowell tied the game at 68-68 with 49 seconds to go. Wheelwright took the lead for good on a three-point play by Steven Johnson at 71-68.

Jones says that his team is crawling out of a slump it has been going through.

"You don't just jump out of slumps. We were 0-4 and we look for something to build off of and we are building on kids who are playing consistent for us."

The Trojans are 3-6 on the season and will face Elkhorn City tonight at Elkhorn City and will entertain the Cardinals of Sheldon Clark Saturday night before Allen Central comes to Wheelwright on Tuesday night for a conference game.

Allen Slips By Devils

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Phillip Patton tossed in 22 points to lead the Allen Eagles to a 56-51 come-from-behind victory over the Harold Red Devils Wednesday night in the Floyd County Elementary tournament at the Betsy Layne gym. Allen's standout guard, Cory Reitz, added 20 points.

A cold second quarter for the Eagles found the Allen team in trouble at half time with the Red Devils holding a 31-16 lead as they went into the locker room. Harold outscored the Eagles, 18-4 in the second stanza.

The two teams had split the previous four games they faced each other in earlier in the season. However, Allen, with its football program, got a late start on the season. Coach David Mosley and Stevie Halbert have worked hard with the Eagles to bring them around to a tournament favorite's role.

In the second half, the Eagles began to find their shooting eye and they outscored the Red Devils 40-20 in the half. A 22-11 run in the third quarter brought the Eagles to within four, 42-38. The Eagles then doubled the score on Harold in the final stanza, 18-9, to go on and win by five, 56-51, in a gallant comeback game.

For Allen, Matt Porter had eight points and Joe Howell tossed in six.

The Red Devils placed three players in double figures with Brian Hunter leading the way with 18 points. Barry Clark added 14, and Chris Potter scored 12. The Red Devils close out a good season for Dwight Newsome's team.

Lady Daredevils Claim First Conference Win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a long time in coming. A victory for the Lady Daredevils of McDowell.

The last time McDowell won a ball game was on Nov. 18 when they defeated Feds Creek in the Millard Invitational Tournament. The only two previous wins for the Lady Daredevils came in the invitational. The first was a close encounter with Mullins.

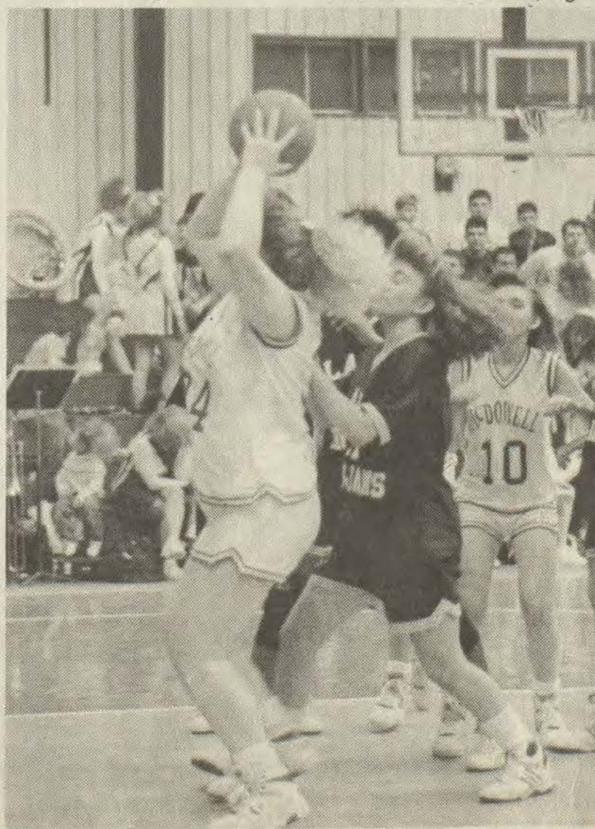

That is all behind the Lady Devils as they slipped by Wheelwright 49-46 Tuesday night at McDowell in a conference game. Both teams came into the game without a conference victory, each having lost three times.

Critical turnovers and missed free throws proved to be the downfall of the Lady Trojans. Wheelwright missed eight free throws in the fourth period; four of those were front ends of one and ones.

The score was last tied at 43-43 when Lori Bryant hit a basket with :55 seconds to go to give Wheelwright a 45-43 advantage. Jedon Hood had a chance to put the Lady Trojans on top with two free throws, but she could connect on only one to draw to within one, 45-44. Kristi Pack, who made the key free throws down the stretch, hit two charity tosses to go up 47-44.

Wheelwright had the ball with three seconds to go. On the ensuing

Gearheart's 21 Points Put Flashes in Title Game

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

"Praying, hair pulling and tie snapping" describes the seriousness of Martin coach Jimmy Hopkins as his team is in defense of the Floyd County Elementary basketball tournament championship, which they currently hold.

The Purple Flashes, 19-1, had to play without one of their starters and top rebounder, Ronnie Sammons, who is nursing an ear infection as they defeated the John M. Stumbo Mustangs, 54-48, at the Betsy Layne gym Wednesday night. Availability of Sammons in tonight's championship game is not known at press time.

Byron Gearheart tossed in 21 points to head up the Purple Flash victory. Teammate Hubert Likens scored 17 points in the win.

After holding a 12-8 first quarter lead, the Purple Flashes trailed at the half, 23-19, as the Mustangs outscored Martin, 15-7, in the second quarter.

"We came back in the second half and applied pressure, made some adjustments on defense," Hopkins said of his team's turnaround. "We went to our 1-2-2 trap defense and Stumbo seemed to tire out. Our defense definitely won it for us."

Martin led throughout the second half by eight to nine points when Stumbo would cut it back to three. With 1:09 to go and Martin up by three, the Purple Flashes went to a stall. Stumbo was then forced to foul and the Flashes connected on the charity tosses.

Fleming-Neon's Slow Down Doesn't Slow ACHS Rebels

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Fleming-Neon cagers figured they could not run with the Allen Central Rebels so they thought they would play a little keep away during their encounter Tuesday night on their home court.

Rick Smith led the Rebels' charge with 14 points as the Floyd County school came away with a 46-38 win. Smith, who has been foul-prone lately, managed to finish the game in leading the Rebels.

"We played Fleming-Neon back in the summer," Rebel coach Johnny Martin explained, "and we beat them pretty bad, so they decided they could run with us and held the ball on us."

Martin said it wasn't a very pretty win, but he was ready to accept any kind of a win.

"Our kids really enjoyed winning," he said. "They were in school happy and having fun because they won. We didn't beat a very good team. If we had gone to Lafayette and played a good game and got beat they would have been down. Wins do that to a team. That's what we need to put together a streak and that will help our kids more than anything."

The Rebels held a two-point lead at the half, 21-19. Allen Central outscored the host team, 19-9, in the fourth period to overcome a 29-27 disadvantage.

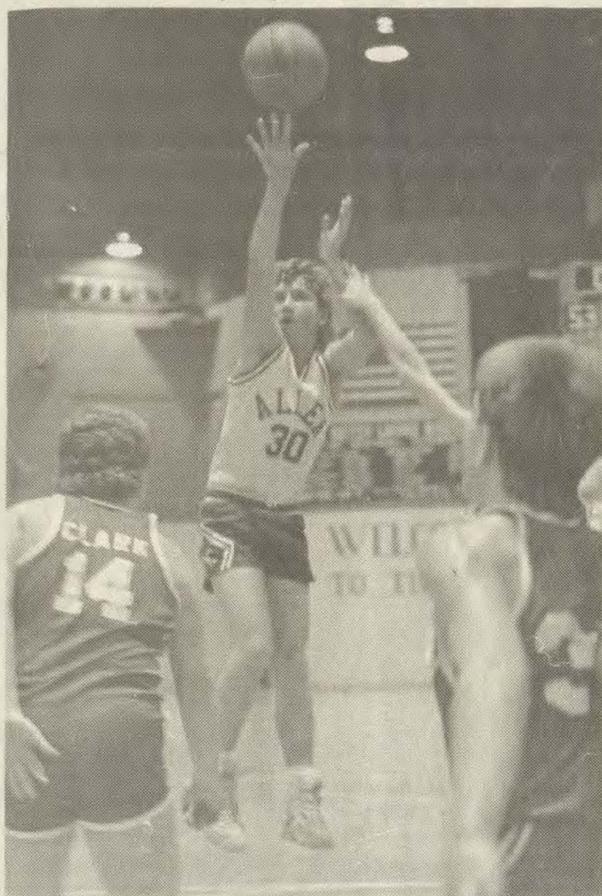

"That's the way it was all through the game," Martin explained, "one point leads all the way." "We outscored them 15-8 there at the last when they started shooting the ball."

"Our kids are worried more about their won and lost records," the Rebel coach stated. "We could have scheduled some easy teams and maybe have a 10-1 record now. But that doesn't help a team."

Allen Central's senior forward Joey Conn, who has been averaging in double figures, fouled out with only four points. Cotton Parson tossed in 14 points to share scoring honors with Smith.

"We pulled out to an 11-point lead near the end," said Martin. "Then one of their players hit a three-pointer at the buzzer to cut it down."

Allen Central goes to 5-7 on the season and will take on the Blackcats See ACHS REBELS, Page 3

Matt Porter (30) of Allen scores two of his eight points on this jumper in the fourth quarter against the Harold Red Devils Wednesday night. The Eagles came from a 15 point half time deficit to win over Harold, 56-51.

Bobcats Whip Up Right Recipe

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats of coach Junior Newsome took to the road as they journeyed to Connors High School in Hebron with all the right ingredients in the Famous Recipe Basketball Tournament this week.

The Bobcats are constantly sought by tournament officials to take part in many invitational. Next week the local school will take part in the WYMT-TV invitational at Knott County Central.

Newsome's Bobcats got off to a good start, recording a combined total of 49 points from Sam Stewart and Adam Gearheart. Stewart totaled 24 points and Gearheart poured in 25 enroute to a close 69-68 win over Madison Central in the opening game of the tournament. Gearheart was a doubtful starter because of a sprained ankle during the Allen Central game.

The Bobcats struggled in the first three quarters of the game. Madison Central held a nine-point advantage, 21-12, at the end of the first quarter. The lead was extended to 13, 39-26, at the half and went to 14 points entering the fourth period.

Stewart and Gearheart caught fire in the fourth stanza and the Bobcats outscored Madison Central by 15 points, 27-12, to take the one point victory, 69-68.

Phillip King tossed in 11 points in the win for Betsy Layne which improves to 7-4 and will be in action tonight (Friday) against Campbell County in a 8:15 start as the Famous Recipe Invitational continues.

Thomas Stacy led Madison Central with 21 points and teammate Cecil Benton added 14. Madison Central falls to 5-7 on the season.

The Famous Recipe tournament is a 16-team invitational played at four different sites. The semifinals and finals of the tournament will be played at Northern Kentucky University on Saturday afternoon and evening.

in bounds play, the ball was picked off by McDowell as time ran out.

Wheelwright led by seven in the second quarter, 21-14, but a 7-0 run off three consecutive turnovers by Wheelwright allowed the Lady Devils to tie the game at 23-23 as the first half ended.

The Lady Trojans then had a five-point advantage early in the fourth quarter at 40-35. McDowell then scored six unanswered points to take a 41-40 lead on a basket by Nikki Mullins.

"Our team is still inconsistent and that is what is killing us," said McDowell coach Cassandra Keathley. "These girls have to have two to three turnovers before they settle down or miss their assignments a couple of times down the floor."

Keathley believes she needs to play more people during the course of a game.

"We can't depend on two scorers. Jenny (Slone) and Lori (Bryant) are carrying us offensively. The other players haven't been scoring much. We did get more help from the bench tonight."

Free throw shooting has been a problem for the Lady Daredevils of late. Keathley sees her team's problem as just lack of concentration. "That's what it is. These girls can hit the free throws. They are not concentrating when they go to the foul line," she said.

Keathley says her team is trying to play a more up tempo game than in the past. "Sometimes the up tempo game works and other times it doesn't," explained the Lady Devils mentor. "It does keep the girls from standing around."

Because of Wheelwright's slower tempo, Keathley says that her team should have been quicker than Wheelwright.

"We missed a lot of lay ups," she explained, "and I told the girls that we had a lot of work to do yet."

Slone and Bryant combined for 28 points, 14 each, to lead the Lady Daredevils to their first conference win.

Jedon Hood topped Wheelwright with 14 points. Point guard Becky Allen tossed in 12.

"We didn't shoot free throws that well, but we made enough to win down the stretch," explained Hopkins. Martin hit on eight of 12 free throws for 66 percent shooting. Stumbo made 13 of 22 for 59 percent.

According to Coach Hopkins, another starter, Kelly Stephens, hurt his wrist in the game and is questionable for tonight's championship game.

"We need Sammons in the line up," Hopkins said of the upcoming championship game. "Ronnie can give us the added offense we need and he can hit the baseline jumpers."

Jason Newsome led the Mustangs in scoring with 20 points. Derrick Newsome netted 16 points.

Lady Flashes' Title Hopes End With Loss to Stumbo

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The defending Martin Lady Purple Flashes saw their title dreams end at Betsy Layne Wednesday night as they fell to the undefeated Lady Mustangs of John M. Stumbo, 44-41.

The Lady Flashes have been the Floyd County champions the last five years and were going for an unprecedented sixth title this time around. Poor free-throw shooting, something that has plagued this team all season, saw the game slip away.

Martin put together a good game in the first half leading 23-17 at the half. Then the Lady Flashes' defense seemed to collapse in the third period.

"We couldn't hit our shots in the third period," Martin coach Doug Derossett stated. "We had them down 10-12 points in the first half and we came back out in the second half and our defense let down."

Stumbo coach Paul David Tackett echoed the same. "They didn't seem to play as hard on defense in the second half as they did in the first," he said. "They came back out flat."

The Lady Mustangs pulled themselves together and started the come back as their 2-3 zone press caused the Lady Flashes some problems.

"They turned the ball over several times off our press," Tackett explained. "and we got some easy baskets off of our defense.

"Our girls were nervous at the start of the game," he said, "and we told them in the locker room at halftime that being down six points is not bad and we were in good shape and it was their game to win."

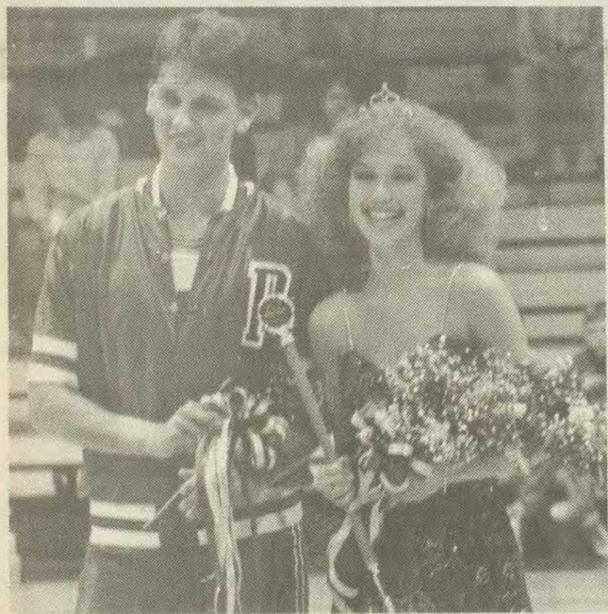

"We missed a lot of easy shots underneath," Derossett stated, "and the free throws didn't fall for us." Martin made only nine of 24 free throws in the game.

"Our girls came back and played hard," stated Tackett. "We had so many turnovers in the game that we couldn't tell how many, but credit Martin's defense for that. Melissa (McKinney) played heads up ball for us and hit the free throws when we need them."

Melissa McKinney hit four of six free throws down the stretch to preserve the win for John M. Stumbo. McKinney finished the game with 17 points to lead the undefeated Lady Mustangs. Stumbo's record stands at a perfect 15-0 making them the second undefeated Stumbo girl's team in the school's history.

Dee Dee Martin added 11 points in the win. Melissa Johnson tossed in eight points.

Krystal Floyd led Martin in scoring with 16 points. Traci Dingsus added 11 points as did Roni McKinney.

Brown's two free throws with 12 seconds remaining gave the Lady Wildcats a little breathing room.

McDowell got hot in the fourth quarter with a 19-12 run to cut into the Maytown nine point lead.

TV PIPELINE

William Devane turned to acting instead of plumbing

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I am curious to know something of William Devane on Knots Landing. I have seen him in several movies, most recently in Preppie Murder. Can you tell me if he is married, family and age? All other members of the cast appear on talk shows but never have I seen him. —Betty Priory, Emerald Isle, N.C.

A: William Devane was born on Sept. 5, 1939, in Albany, N.Y. He claims he would have become a plumber or carpenter if he hadn't discovered acting. When he was in his teens, he joined a little neighborhood theater and discovered he had a natural bent for acting. After one year in college, he headed for New York City and enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. In 1962 he began a long association with producer Joseph Papp and the New York Shakespeare Festival. Moving to Los Angeles in 1971, Devane signed to portray J.F. Kennedy in the special, The Missiles of October, for which he received an Emmy Award nomination. Devane and his wife of 26 years, Eugenie, and their two sons, Josh and Jake, live in Sherman Oaks, Calif.

Q: I am a big fan of Robert Englund star of the Nightmare on Elm Street series. I was wondering if you know of any address to write to him. —Maria Schatz, Watertown, N.Y.

A: Write to Robert Englund, c/o Nightmare on Elm Street, 7060 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

Q: For years I've had questions concerning the name Montgomery but I never bothered to write any of the publications that answer questions because I figured if they did answer my question I would most likely miss it.

William Devane

But I read TV Weekly like a true New Yorker reads the Times, so if you can answer my questions I know I'll be sure to see it. I know that Elizabeth M. is the daughter of Robert Montgomery, but I've wondered about the other Montgomerys. I've noticed three and they all had one thing in common—all used their middle initial. Belinda J., Tannis G., and a young boy whose name I don't recall. Can you tell me if they are related? —Susan Corus, Rogue River, Ore.

A: Robert Montgomery had two children, Elizabeth and Robert Jr. Elizabeth has three children, but they go under the name of Asher. There isn't any information on Robert Jr. There are at least 10 Montgomerys in the entertainment business and nothing indicates they are related. Your letter concerning acting actors who served in the armed forces was very informative.
