Historic May House may be restored, used by county

by Pam Shingler
Editor

With encouragement from officials of the Kentucky Heritage Council, a Floyd County committee is ready to move forward with plans to restore one of the county's oldest houses.

David Morgan, director of the council, Monday told the local Bicentennial Committee that the Samuel May House in Prestonsburg is "very stable and restorable."

Members of the committee, charged with arranging locally for Kentucky's 200th birthday in 1992, have been exploring the possibility of saving the house, believed to have been built in 1817. If the possibility turns to reality, tentative plans include making the house headquarters for the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, a meeting place for civic and historic clubs and a tourist attraction.

"The May House is a good, impressive Federal (architectural style) house. It would rank with any in the state," Morgan told the Bicentennial Committee.

Morgan also said his office is willing to assist the committee with architectural and engineering consultation and with grant support to fund renovation. He added that if the state legislature passes House Bill 48, which will allow funding for the state Bicentennial celebration, funds will likely be available to contribute to the restoration.

Earlier in the day, committee member Frances Brackett took Morgan and his assistant Becky Shipp on a tour of the house. Morgan was particularly impressed with the interior woodwork, calling it "incredible" with mostly original, Federal styling.

Brackett said estimates put the cost of restoration at close to $250,000. She said that while structurally sound, the house needs new electrical and plumbing work to meet current standards. It also needs a new roof and interior plaster repair.

Sandy Valley from Virginia. The holder of a large tract of land, May is thought to have made the bricks for the two-story structure on the grounds. He served as a state representative and senator from Floyd County before selling the house to his brother Thomas in 1842 and moving west.

May House could be getting a facelift

Floyd County's Bicentennial Committee is looking at the possibility of restoring the historic Samuel May House in Prestonsburg. Built in 1817, the house is believed to be one of the oldest structures in Floyd County—if not the oldest. The committee received encouragement from officials of the Kentucky Heritage Council Monday.

The porches, which are deteriorated, were probably not included on the original structure, according to Morgan, and might be removed rather than repaired. When built, the house faced open fields rolling toward the river with its back toward the hillside. Today, it fronts on a side street, and at the back of the house is busy US 23.

Because of will restrictions, the house cannot be sold out of the family, but Brackett said present owners E.B. May Jr. and Bill May have expressed willingness to lease the building, long term for a nominal fee.

The house, which is on the National Register of Historic Places, was reportedly built by pioneer settler Samuel May, who migrated to the Big paring a book on Floyd County families, collecting church histories, involving high school and grade school students in historical projects and promoting a resurgence of interest in the area's history and related tourism potential.

The local Bicentennial Committee is seeking input from persons throughout Floyd County who have an interest in planning Bicentennial projects. The aim is to have as many communities as possible involved in the state's 200th anniversary.

Persons interested in joining in the planning may contact committee chairman James O. VanHoose at The Bank Josephine. The next committee meeting is set for Monday, Feb. 26 at 4:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg.

Wonderful/then wet

Wednesday looks good for sun lovers but the rain is due back Thursday.

Wednesday will be sunny, with a high in the mid-50s. Wednesday night will be mostly clear with a low in the upper 30s.

Thursday, it's back to the Dark Ages. It should be cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain, and a high between 55 and 60 degrees. Thursday night will continue cloudy and rainy. Lows will dip into the lower 40s.

A bit of Atlantic City

Those who enjoy the action at Las Vegas or Atlantic City can get a taste of the fun for only $5 Friday night. The Prestonsburg Jaycees, in conjunction with the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, are sponsoring a Casino Night from 8 until midnight. The $5 admission entitles the player to $30,000 in "Funny Money" to use at the game tables throughout the evening. Playing such games as Roulette, Craps, Black Jack and Cage Dice, participants increase their bank to partake in the auction at the end of the evening.

Items donated by generous area merchants will be auctioned off to the highest "bidder." Proceeds go toward the Prestonsburg Jaycees for charitable projects and to assist in such projects as the Festival of Faces Parade and the Jesse Stuart Book Club.

Education Forum to meet

The Floyd County Education Forum will hold a public meeting Monday, Feb. 5, at 6:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg. Forum chairperson Jean Rosenberg urges all those concerned to attend.

Water Commissioners to meet in Wayland

The commissioners of the Beaver Elkhorn Water District will hold their regular monthly meeting Wednesday, Jan. 31, at 6:30 p.m. at the water office in Wayland. The meeting is open to the public.

Love lines sought

Valentine's Day is almost upon us, and what a better gift to your loved one than a description of your most romantic moment printed in the paper. The Floyd County Times is seeking original stories about how our readers met their mates, their courtships or any other memorable moment worth writing about.

The deadline for these glimpses is Friday, Feb. 9, and selected stories will appear in the special "Love and Marriage" tab to come out on Valentine's Day. Writers, be sure to include a phone number and address, in case we need to clarify anything, and send along a picture if you wish.

27 officers respond to weekend disturbance

by Frank Clark
Staff Writer

A disturbance at the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center early Saturday morning escalated out of the control of staff security, requiring the assistance of 27 area police officers to quell fighting.

Trouble began in a student's room sometime around midnight Friday, over a dispute in deciding what program should be watched on television, said Neil Eskildson, director of the center in Prestonsburg. Fighting and name-calling spread through a portion of the center, involving between 50 to 60 students, he said.

"Some of those involved in the incident had been drinking alcohol," said Eskildson. "The drinking contributed to the problem."

Eskildson noted that the situation spread beyond the control of the weekend staff at which point area police were notified.

"I received a call that a riot was going on at the center," said Floyd County Sheriff Paul Thompson. "I called in deputies from around the county to respond, to support Prestonsburg City Police."

"The problem we have revolves around just a few individuals who aren't accustomed to the discipline we have at the Job Corps."

Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall was notified of the disturbance and responded with 10 police officers and seven auxiliary police officers. Two Kentucky State Police troopers also responded to the disturbance.

"When we entered the building, there were 50 or 60 students in the hallway exchanging words," said Hall. "We attempted to get them to break up and go to their rooms, but our attempts failed. So we began to remove some students from the building."

According to Hall, officers encourtered difficulties arresting those who appeared to be the source of the disturbance. Friends of those arrested blocked police officers and had to be forcibly moved out of the way. Hall also noted that, for him and his officers, entering the building was a mistake.

"We were surrounded and separated once we went into the building," said Hall. "Some of the students

Incumbents to face challengers

Four candidates have filed to run in the May primaries for the two state house district seats that encompass Floyd County, according to the Secretary of State's office in Frankfort.

In House District 92, which includes portions of Floyd, Knott, and Letcher Counties, incumbent representative Russell Bentley (D) of Topmost has filed for reelection. He will be challenged by Bobby Hicks (D) of Mousie.

The state seat for House District 95, which lies completely in Floyd County, has received two filings. Incumbent Greg Stumbo (D) of Prestonsburg and Edward Patton Jr. (D) of McDowell are both seeking the house position.

For the Seventh District US Congressional seat, held by Democrat C. Chris Perkins, two other Democrats have entered the race: Jerry Cecil of Winchester, and Ray Adkins of Whitesburg. Two Republicans will face off for the position: Will Scott of Pikeville, who ran unsuccessfully against Perkins in 1988, and Larry Leslie of Prestonsburg.

In the contest for Kentucky's Senate post held by Mitch McConnell, the incumbent faces opposition from fellow Republican Tommy Klein of Louisville. Democrats John Brock of Frankfort and Harvey Sloane of Louisville will butt heads in the primary for the Senatorial seat.

The filing deadline was Monday. Primaries will be May 29, the day after the Memorial Day weekend.

Computer helps to hone writing skills, introduces students to other cultures

by Pam Shingler

I think it was right for Sadao to help the American and I am glad that he did. It shouldn't matter what nationality a person is. You should always try to help someone in need.

That's part of a conversation about a book that a Wheelwright High School student recently carried on with a student at a kibbutz in Israel. The interchange is made possible by a program called New Ground, a telecommunications network for Kentucky teachers and students, that presently involves Allen, Martin and McDowell elementary schools and Wheelwright, Allen Central and Betsy Layne high schools.

The computer "conversation" allows the Wheelwright students — and soon others in the county — to share information with students in other Kentucky counties and other countries simply by entering information into the computer network.

"It has opened up the world for students. They don't think just East Kentucky any more," said Carol Stumbo, one of the leaders in getting other teachers connected with the network.

"As a teacher of English, the advantages are tremendous," said Stumbo. "Students don't ask why they're writing this. They write without thinking about it."

In terms of the hookup with the Israeli school, Stumbo said her students researched the country for a couple of weeks before they began exchanging messages with the foreign students. "My kids are saying, 'Well, they're not really so different after all,'" she said.

In Bud Reynolds' social studies classes at Martin Elementary, students draw numbers to decide who gets to use the one computer for the limited time they have. Each team of two students is rationed 15 minutes of See WRITING SKILLS, Page 5

St. Rep. Greg Stumbo spent Tuesday morning learning about the new computer network at Martin Grade School. Showing him the ropes is Carol Stumbo, teacher at Wheelwright High School and a leader in getting the new computer hookups into area schools. Rep. Stumbo also answered student questions about legislative school reform.

Smack dab in the middle of the road

Prestonsburg Police had their hands full Monday morning, directing traffic around a disabled coal truck. The truck's axle broke, loosening two of its wheels. The tie-up on US 23 caused heavy northbound traffic to be rerouted onto North Arnold Avenue. Repairmen spent several hours trying to fix the problem before the truck was able to move.

Fires blaze in Floyd County

Several volunteer fire departments around the county reported responding to calls for help from area residents.

The newly formed David Volunteer Fire Department takes the title for the most fires fought this week, with one in Blue River and a second near Hippo. While the family of Larry Adams of Blue River slept Sunday a fire started in the attic. Adams' son awoke about 5:30 a.m. to a smoke-filled home and aroused the rest of the family. They called the David fire department while removing some of their personal belongings.

Derek Hicks, firefighter, said the 12 members of the department responded within 15 minutes and extinguished the fire with a minimal amount of water in about 10 minutes. Hicks attributed the fire to the thin layer of rock used in the attic as a chimney, noting that the radiant heat was responsible for igniting the wooden structure.

Hicks estimated the damage at about a $1000 in structural, contained to the attic and further smoke and water damage in the remainder of the residence.

The second fire took place Monday at around 11:30 a.m. in a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Greg Davis near Hippo on KY 850. The cause of the fire was a faulty flue pipe in the first floor/garage area. Apparently, the heat from the pipe set the insulation on fire.

Harold man arrested by KSP for stabbing

A Harold man was arrested Thursday for allegedly attacking his estranged wife with a knife.

State Police report that Scotty Parsons, 37, was at the home of his wife Leona Parsons, 40, picking up some of his belongings, when a fight developed between the two. During the fight, Parsons allegedly stabbed his wife's right hand three times, before fleeing from the scene.

He was arrested at a nearby business place by KSP Detective Lee Weddington and was placed in the Floyd County Jail.

Parsons was charged with first degree assault and terroristic threatening. Mrs. Parsons was treated and released at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

The case is still under investigation by state police.

Hectic Day In Court

Tuesday was a busy day at the courthouse, as people packed into district court for hearings. Sheriff Paul Thompson's presence was eventually requested to quiet the chattering so that Judge Henry Stumbo could conduct the business of the court. According to the district court clerk's office, Tuesday's five-page docket which brought so many before the judge was large, but not unusual.

tion on fire behind the aluminum siding, Hicks said. The fire truck arrived within 10 minutes and extinguished the fire in less than five with a small hose line. The firefighters then blew the smoke out of the house with exhaust fans. Hicks estimated the structural damage at less than $500 with further smoke damage to belongings.

Keith Hayes, secretary/treasurer of the Maytown Fire Department, reports another fire taking place Wednesday, Jan. 21. At around 11:30 p.m. the department received a report of a blaze at a house owned by Mike Layne in Maytown with five firefighters responding. Hayes noted the structure was a probable total loss and no cause was cited for the fire. The Garrett Fire Department also responded with five members to the call. No injuries were reported.

On Thursday, Jan. 25 at 1:50 a.m. a fire was reported to the Mud Creek Fire Department, according to Delmer Frasure, secretary/treasurer. Randy Hall's home on Mink Branch near Craynor sustained damages to a closet and one bedroom during the blaze, cause unknown. Frasure said that Hall was not at home when the fire began but returned to find the closet engulfed. After attempting to douse the fire himself unsuccessfully, he called the local fire department and five firefighters responded.

Southeast Fire Department reported a car fire Sunday, Jan. 28, occurring between 10:30 and 11 p.m. at Buckingham. Apparently the car, owned by Terry Hall, was in motion when it caught fire. Hall pulled over and escaped safely. Fifteen firefighters responded, including some from Wheelwright, but the car was totally involved by that time and was unsalvageable. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

have been in this type of situation before, and they know how to intimidate. If they really had wanted to make trouble, we wouldn't have had enough police officers to deal with it."

Hall noted that the police officers had to use force to exit the building, pushing students out of the way. Two police officers injured their hands during the incident. No students were reported to have been injured and Hall reported that his officers did not strike any students with nightsticks.

STAFF REVISES POLICIES

The weekend incident at the center forced a reanalysis by Job Corps management of the policy for dealing with security problems at the center.

"The problem we have revolves around just a few individuals who aren't accustomed to the discipline we have at Job Corps," said Eskildson.

"We have young people in our program between the ages of 16 and 22. Those who complete the program have a good job placement level and benefit greatly from being here. In order to deal with these recent problems, we are going to work together with local authorities, to ensure that the program continues to be successful."

On Monday, Eskildson, Chief Hall, City Administrator Fred James, Sheriff Thompson, Job Corps security personnel and other officials met to determine a plan of action to deal with the center's security questions.

Four primary recommendations were developed, which were presented Tuesday to four student government representatives from the Job Corps Center.

First, the center will increase the present size of its security during those hours when most trouble is reported.

Second, center management will work more closely with local authorities in insuring security at the facility.

Third, an improvement in the training of security persons and all center staff was suggested, so that difficult situations can be resolved by staff members, by working with the students.

Finally, the staff will check more closely the students returning to the center who have been out on pass, to prevent alcohol or drugs being brought into the center.

These recommendations will begin implementation immediately, according to Eskildson. He also noted that seven students have been dismissed from the center, following the weekend incident.

Chief Hall stated that the weekend incident sparked needed changes between Job Corps and the City of Prestonsburg.

"We really have to do something when it reaches this point," said Hall. "We probably should have dealt with this eight years ago, when the center started up. The center is currently cooperating with us completely in the effort."

Five center students were arrested during the incident and were lodged in the Floyd County Jail. They included Marshall Killins, 19, charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct; Bernard Holmer, 19, charged with failure to disperse and disorderly conduct; Lane Richard, 22, failure to disperse; M. Anthony, 19, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, unlawful assembly; Michael Jones, 19, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest.

Guest Editorial

48 Hours Rebuttal by Wilmay

This reply about the programs that incensed more than one Floyd County may offer a different approach to the matter of proving to the outside world that Eastern Kentucky has had abundant progressive citizens in every generation since pioneer days. Many transients joined local people to improve conditions. Few realize the unbelievable obstacles confronting this section or any mountainous region, the horrendous expense involved in building good roads in the hill country. Efforts are made herein to show that the sacrifices of our ancestors paid off in rich dividends, often in the lives of boys and girls.

Unfortunately, this amateur writer cannot include all entitled to recognition. Numbers listed are no longer alive. There is uncertainty about one or two, but readers will get a reasonable idea of the fact that many in each generation have distinguished themselves in various professions and ways. The proportionate number increases almost annually. The names are not alphabetized or categorized, and some error may creep in. I did the research in the early fifties when a group founded the Floyd County Hall of Fame.

Among those still living are former governor Bert Combs, of Manchester and Prestonsburg, now an outstanding attorney in Louisville. Dr. Arville Wheeler of Johnson County, on the staff of Peabody University for years. Curtis Owens from Right Beaver, an instructor in Pace University of New York. Monroe Wicker of Morehead fame, from Martin and Prestonsburg. John Preston of Allen, now mayor of Paintsville, author of a book about this area. Dr. Justin Turner, reared in Maytown, professor at Middle Tennessee University.

Dr. Henry Martin, another alumnus of Maytown High, Dean of Students at ECU for long time, now retired. Ray Halbert, Maytown born and bred, graduate of MHS and U.K., founder of DOCUMENTATION, one of the first computer card file systems. Dr. Russell Anderson, of Ypsilanti, multi-millionaire business man, brought up in McDowell, famous world-wide for establishing churches in Korea and Hawaii, co-founder of Hyles-Anderson College in Hammond, Indiana, also the author of FIVE THINGS A MILLIONAIRE CAN'T AFFORD. Loretta Lynn of Johnson County, needs no comments, a superb singer. Others in the entertainment field. For sports, King Kelly Coleman of Wayland, well remembered by basketball fans.

So far as is known the following are deceased: Green Hackworth of Middle Creek, first head of the World Court in the Hague. Fred Vinson of Louisa, Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court under President Roosevelt. Judge Will Leslie from Emma, this county, eminent on Texas Court of Appeals and renowned as a Methodist layman. Dr. Palmer Hall, from Left Beaver, Dean of Students at Morehead State University and at West Virginia Tech. Dr. Jack Allen of Prestonsburg, member of the Peabody staff for years. Carl Woods from Allen, a professor at Morehead University, Eastern Kentucky University and in South Carolina University in Columbia. Dr. Ida Martin Chiaraviglio, another alumna of Maytown, reported to have been one of the first women in this county to acquire a Ph.D. One generation removed, her son, Lucius, must by now have his degree from Harvard. Devert Owens, instructor at U.K. was reared on Right Beaver. Dr. Harkey Mayo was born and reared in Prestonsburg, served as a professor at Georgetown University, was Advisor on International Law to at least one president. His great uncle, Bee Mayo from Allen, founded a school in Texas that became a normal college.

One might continue indefinitely, many overlooked, example: Russell May, landscape artist of Prestonsburg, and pardon a personal reference of another generation removed, Dr. Greg May, now in Kansas, were both natives of Maytown and Manchester, respectively, and proud of it. Greg is in research at the Houston Space Center, got his Ph.D. from Yale several years ago. The entire family adores our gorgeous hills.

After all, only Kentucky provided a Lincoln, and he came from a log cabin; moreover God sent his Son to a humble peasant family, not to one of the Sanhedrin. Intelligent citizens of Eastern Kentucky readily admit that deplorable conditions still exist here, but we resent being stigmatized by some of the media who portray the worst as if it were the entire picture. How would they feel if we classified New York City with Harlem? Our populace loves the hills. This is home. For all its flaws, we are proud of it. Congratulations to those supplying the bumper signs.

Remember this little joke, or some version of it, author unknown. As a Kentuckian went through the heavenly portals, St. Peter began showing him around, pointing out that each state had individuals in a gigantic building marked with the correct name. When they approached the one for Kentuckians the guide motioned the man to be quiet, adding that the Kentuckians gave them more trouble than all others. The new arrival inquired why and how. To which Saint Peter replied, "They wanna go home every weekend."

Need one ask which of Governor Wilkinson's Kentucky they were from?

Barbs & Bouquets

By Marty Backus

Hey folks! Have you ever seen things that really bug you because you don't know what they are? I've seen some recently that really have me scared.

You've read about the sink holes in Florida, haven't you? Those are the holes which suddenly appear, get bigger and deeper as each day goes by. In just a matter of days, these sink holes will take a person's entire back yard, barbecue grill, potted plants, dog and, in some cases, the garage with the family car still in it—gobbled up never to be seen again.

That's down in Florida where they should stay. But right now, especially here in Floyd County, I've noticed what might be termed sink holes.

Hundreds of them. These sink holes, if that's what they are, appear to be very selective in where they form. It seems they have a mind of their own, moving across Floyd County right in the lanes of US 23 North, all the way to Ashland.

Even truckers using this highway seem to have been forced to use the left lanes of 23 to elude these sink holes.

One individual said these are just Eastern Kentucky potholes, something as common as cock-fighting. Well, friend, I can't buy that, because it wasn't that long ago I remember state road crews repairing, patching and blacktopping this road. I remember it so well because it was just before the election. Sinkholes have to be the reason for formation of these gaps on the surface of 23 north. The only other way that blacktop can be torn off in such a short time is really heavy over-weight traffic, and for the life of me, I haven't read recently where any over-weight traffic has been spotted by the law. These may be pot holes, but I doubt it. Because if they were pot holes, the people wouldn't stand for it and neither would our elected officials. This is something caused by nature, not man or machine. If you disagree with me then go to Frankfort Thursday and talk to the members of the legislature about fixing your roads.

Letters

Response to a response

Dear Editor, I am sending along a copy of my rebuttal to the response letter I received from CBS about the first letter I wrote them about the "48 Hours" program on Floyd County. I do not believe that their letter reflected the people of Floyd County.

Dear Andrew Heyward, executive producer,

Sir, thank you for your answer to my letter to "48 Hours". In retrospect your program did reflect negatively on Eastern Kentucky, especially Floyd County, and in my opinion your program has left a stigma on the people of Floyd County and also the ones like myself that have moved on to other areas of our great nation. The group you speak of does not, in any way, represent all of Floyd County and its residents.

But "48 Hours" portrayed and made it appear that way. Sir, your duty as a program director or producer is to give facts like I told you in the last letter, but it was evident that "48 Hours" had only one thing on their mind and that was to take a handful of people, not a group as you are stating to me, and making the situation as bleak as you can for all of Floyd County.

Mr. Heyward, I believe you should recheck your sources on those families you are talking about and I believe if they all had it to do over again they would tell you, Dan Rather, Phil

Jones, and the rest of your checkout counter trash, where to go.

Incidentally, I would love to know where you got your figures. Sir, in respect, I went to school in Floyd County a little three-room school house. I also went to McDowell High School until I moved and as far as education goes mine from Floyd County and its school system was much greater than the big city school I ended up in. Not only did I learn from the school system and its teachers, such as Wade Slone and Sylvia Newman, but many more, and this is not counting what the mountains taught us kids. And the people that were our elders were our teachers also, and that lesson darn sure wasn't how to smoke crack.

Mr. Heyward, what have New York and its schools and people taught its kids? Sir, just look at your situation and the monster that has been created.

Sir, our choices in life and what God gave us, they are not yours, "48 Hours" or CBS's or the federal government to change us. We are what we are and proud of it.

Mr. Heyward, you may as well have kept Gerald, if you think what you did is fair and honest piece of reporting. At least he is halfway open about his trash reporting.

Sir, the only thing I have to say is you and CBS owe it to Floyd County to try and rectify that damage you have done. But, I don't think you Big Apple Folks have that kind of courage to come back and turn a wrong into a right. It appears to me that you are just sitting back and hoping that Floyd County will just disappear.

In closing, I know that it was said that there are two Kentuckys. I am proud to be a part of the Eastern end. Education wise I don't know of a failure coming out of the mountains. Failure is just a state of mind. I can't think of a place you can find more progress than in Eastern Kentucky, except maybe N.Y. or Chicago where the crack is. In other words, Mr. Heyward, you don't fool with me and mine and I won't fool with you and yours. Again sir, I am asking you and your company to try and make right what you and your company made wrong. Sir, even though I live in Texas, a lot of people know I came from Floyd County, Kentucky, and when I lived in Michigan a lot of people knew I came from Floyd County, Kentucky, and it's kind of hard to explain to them that Floyd County is not what you made it out to be. I am hurt and embarrassed by what you did to us. Sir, CBS and "48 Hours" have labeled a county and its people, now you owe us to make your slanderous program right.

Respectfully,
--Danny Ison

Controversy continues
Dear Editor, I'm writing in regard to your recent article on the purchase of "Four maintenance vehicles for the county," or "Don't give us any flak or we'll take our trucks and go home." I don't appreciate being made a part of child's name calling by a corrupt circus of politicians interested in only one thing: how much money they can take out of our pockets and put into theirs. It's ridiculous for a news source such as The Floyd County Times to give credibility to such antics of our so-called "Fiscal Court." The real story is whether we should take money out of our depleted (their words) county road budget to by $100,000 worth of "Four Wheel Drive Cadillac," credit that phrase to one of my listeners. The Magistrates are only required to attend one meeting per month, they're paid over $28,000 a year and they get over $300 expense money a month. I don't blame them, if you had this job, and actually had to justify something, you'd be upset too! My only real objection to being robbed is that they don't use a gun! Maybe we could arrange to call them something more appropriate like: "Jesse", "Billy", "Bonnie" and "Clyde," with "Al" pulling their strings.

And does anyone still believe that nothing corrupt goes on in Floyd County politics? Doesn't it make you ashamed to think that throughout the world, so many people are willing to die for the freedom and democracy we take so lightly? Stand up and fight to make Floyd County honest, for everybody. WDOC AM and WQHY FM has broadcast the news under the direction of Gorman Collins Sr. since 1957, and will continue in the future, despite criticism by the Fiscal Court.

Sincerely,
--Gorman Collins Jr.

Seeks Akers family

Dear Editor, I am trying to find information about the descendants of Ruben Akers, a son of Thomas Blackburn and Elizabeth Baldrige Akers, who was born in 1851 in Floyd County, Ky. He married Lucinda Hite in 1872 and to them were born Nancy Akers, Anna Lee Akers, Rosa L. Akers and John Logan Akers.

Joe E. Ward, son of William J. and Sarah Hicks Ward, married Rose Akers. John Logan Akers married Sallie Preston, daughter of Clell and Levina Ward Preston. Anna Lee Akers married Bascom Ward, a great nephew of William J. and Sarah Hicks Ward.

I am a descendant of John R. Akers, a half-brother of Ruben Akers, and I would like to correspond with descendants of Ruben and Elizabeth Akers or anyone having knowledge of this family. I am trying to compile a complete listing of all descendants of Thomas Blackburn Akers. I will be happy to share my research with anyone interested.

Distressed Over Roads

Dear Editor, We are writing this letter to express our view of the Wednesday, Jan. 10, edition of The Floyd County Times concerning the "Tricky Road Conditions Endanger Area Residents" article.

In this article Judge John M. Stumbo said that he would do what he could for these people. Magistrate for District 2, Jackie Edford Owens, said he was going to help them as soon as they could even if they didn't live on a county road.

Well, that was three weeks ago, and these people have still received no help. And we know what we are talking about because the writers of this letter are the residents of this road.

Legislative Prospective

By Rep. Greg Stumbo

The activities of the 1990 General Assembly continue to unfold as issues multiply and Kentuckians flock to the Capitol to support their particular causes.

I am pleased to report that a bill was passed this week in the House Transportation committee which would require school buses to be equipped with radio transmission equipment.

I sponsored this measure in response to a potentially dangerous situation which occurred here in Floyd County recently. The driver of a McDowell High School bus enroute to the school was unaware of flash flood waters approaching the school. The students were dropped off at the school and shortly found themselves surrounded by quickly rising waters. An emergency evacuation was necessary to remove students from danger.

In situations like flash flooding, time is of the essence to ensure the safety of those involved. This bill makes provisions for all school buses to carry radio transmission equipment as a means to alert bus drivers of road conditions and other situations which could require rerouting or other evasive measures. With radio equipment on board, bus drivers can also make immediate contact with medical personnel, for instance, should a passenger suffer a sudden illness or in the event of an accident.

Radio equipment is an absolute necessity for buses that travel rural routes in remote county areas. A provision is included in the bill that may allow, at a school board's discretion, buses operating solely in city limits to be exempt from the provision. Further, the bill allows radio equipment such as citizens band units to be used in rural school buses. This type of radio equipment would reduce costs incurred with special emergency radio equipment such as those used in 911 dispatch units while still maintaining contact with equipped buses.

Some school districts in the state have already installed radio transmission equipment. My colleagues from those districts report that the devices have proven to be effective in a number of emergency situations.

The bill will now be scheduled for consideration by the House. Also, during this third legislative week, residents of several East Kentucky mountain communities traveled by motorcade to the Capitol to mount an intensive lobbying campaign for the repair of US 119 that stretches from Cumberland to Whitesburg in Letcher County.

It is imperative that road improvements are made in East Kentucky as transportation is a key element in future growth and development.

In other legislation action last week, the first of several anticipated environmental bills was approved by the House of Representatives. House Bill 31 prohibits the issuance of permits for incinerating solid waste by the Natural Resources Cabinet until regulations to safeguard the environment are in effect.

I sponsored an amendment to the bill designed to protect Highlands Medical Center from unnecessary regulation in its medical waste incineration operations.

While the General Assembly has been occupying itself with the business of addressing necessary legislation for the new decade, the Education Reform Task Force has continued its meetings. Task Force members are hopeful the final report of the panel will soon be ready to submit to the entire membership of the General Assembly for action.

The Curriculum Committee has released several proposals that will more than likely become a part of the core foundation of its final recommendations. Those recommendations from the Curriculum panel include:

- Elimination of early grade levels;
- Statewide preschool;
- Comprehensive statewide technology program;
- Summer school and a 15-day extension of the school calendar;
- Mandatory school until age 18;
- New statewide evaluation program; and
- Community service for students, possibly as a graduation requirement.

The new technology proposal would allow the state to provide one computer for every six students in every elementary and secondary school in the state. It would also make Kentucky a pioneer in the use of computers in schools. In his budget address to the General Assembly, the Governor proposed a spending increase of $780 million over the next two years. Of that, $512 million was designated for school reform including equalization between wealthy and poor school districts.

Please provide input into the issues discussed in this article or any others you feel require legislative attention. You can contact me by writing Room 304, State Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601 or by calling the toll-free message line made available by the General Assembly for Kentucky residents. That number is 1-800-372-7181.

There are 12 people living on this dangerous road. Five of them are children, the oldest one being only seven. One of the children is a diabetic. What do his parents do when this child needs immediate medical attention and the road is untravelable again?

We are told that because we live so close to the Maytown Fire Department, we are in a protected zone. But yet, if one of our homes were to catch on fire the only thing we could do is watch it burn down because a fire truck could not get up this road.

It is the law that our children go to school, but if we cannot get them to school because of this road, they do not get to make up any work they missed and their grades have to suffer for it.

We have been told that we do not live on a county road. But they do not refuse our county tax money every year. Part of these county taxes go to the local fire department, why should we have to pay for something that we can't even utilize (even in emergency situations)? Is this fair to all the hard working people up here?

We purchased this property from Carl Duff, who says he signed a 15-foot right of way on each side of the road to the county. Mr. Duff and Mr. Owens were opponents in the Magistrate's race a few years ago. Now the two don't get along the best ever. Should we suffer for this? All we ask is that the personal grudges of individuals stay out of the way of the decision to help us.

Last spring this road stayed blocked for two weeks due to a huge mudslide. Judge Stumbo sent a dozer up here to remove the slide, but only a couple of hours later, Magistrate Owens had it loaded back up and took somewhere else. Before anything had been done to our road. At this same time the county dumped about five loads of red dog at the bottom of the hill. They said they would be back to put it on our road. Well, six months later, the property was sold and the present owner refused to let up put it on our road. Now this red dog is spread on his driveway.

We have maintained this road since it was built in 1986. We have put our money and efforts into the road in emergency situations, while being assured by the judge and magistrate that they would help us as soon as possible. (As soon as possible hasn't got here yet.)

Some of us watched the county workers on Saturday, Jan. 6, lay red dog on a driveway from the road to the house. There is only one house on the hill. Are these people in more desperate need than us?

Judge Stumbo tells us that he needs to borrow a dozer from Coal-Mac. If for some reason he can't use the county dozer, why can't he rent one for the job? After all, they can be rented every day.

We saw in the Wednesday, Jan. 17, edition of the Times that the county wants to buy four maintenance vehicles. We sure do hope one of these will be available to help us out.

We have tried to contact Mr. Owens several times in the past about problems that have arose. But we always get an answering machine. So we leave a message, but generally that is the end of it; no return calls.

Mr. Stumbo lately seems to be out of his office a lot and is unreachable. But when he is there, all we seem to get is broken promises.

We want to ask Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and Magistrate for District 2 Jackie Edford Owens, what does it take to get your help? When one of our vehicles rolls over this mountain and kills one of our children, that is something that can't be made up for.

Maybe ball parks and private driveways are on the priority list in these two elected offices.

People of Floyd County, if you think "48 Hours" disgraced Floyd County, you had better be glad they didn't film our road.

Is it too much to ask, just to help make our road safe enough to take our kids to school, to go work, or just to go to the grocery store, without having to pray to God to still be alive when we get down or up the hill?

computer time. Many use their free period and lunch time to send computer messages to students at the three other participating systems, Estill, Warren and Whitley counties, Reynolds said. Tuesday, a no-doubt surprised student at Estill County Middle School received a message from St. Rep. Greg Stumbo when the student logged on to the computer. The legislator tried his hand in Reynolds' class that morning in sending a response to student questions about education reform.

In what is referred to as a conference, students in the four counties "discuss" different topics via computer. For some weeks, they'll be engaged in a conference on schools, exchanging research about education and the legislature's charge to reform the Kentucky system.

Part of the exercise, said Reynolds, is the students' development of a "fantasy high school" — what they, as consumers, would like to see.

Carol Stumbo said her students have already participated in a computer environmental conference during which Tennessee Senator Albert Gore Jr. responded to student questions. Another environmental discussion is planned for March.

Reynolds' students have also participated in a conference on the Vietnam war, prompted by the fact that many of their fathers were involved in the conflict. The conference resulted in the students' doing extensive research about the war.

One of the most common exchanges for the students concerns books they're reading. By sending succinct book reviews through the computer network, students in other schools become more interested in reading, Reynolds said.

"When my students first saw the notes of the Estill County students, they practically ran to the library to look for the same books," he said.

The computer network was initiated by teachers, said Reynolds, adding that the cost of equipment has come not only from the schools, but also from teachers' pockets.

"We've asked for four more computers for a writing lab in the library," Reynolds said, "and parents have expressed an interest in raising the money."

The start up cost for the project is not cheap. Carol Stumbo said that, beyond the cost of the computer itself, a modem for telephone transmission costs $300, the telephone line, $60, and the time on the line, about $20 per month.

The formation of the system was funded in part by a grant from the Bread Loaf in Schools Program from Middlebury College in Vermont, in which the Wheelwright teacher participates.

Other teachers involved in the local project are Glenda Blackburn at Allen Elementary; Brenda Hamilton, Gwen Hamilton and Lucy Reynolds at McDowell Elementary; Willie Elliott at McDowell High School; Shirlene Hamilton and Delores Woody at Wheelwright; Patricia Watson and Patricia Murphy at Allen Central High, and Bonnie Hall at Betsy Layne High.

Happy Birthday, Seniors!

State Government News Summary

Waste not ... Reportedly the most comprehensive solid waste regulations in the state's history became effective Jan. 16 on an emergency basis. Department of Environmental Protection officials say the emergency regulations, which include the technical requirements for landfills, public involvement provisions and local planning standards, will be effective until they are replaced by permanent regulations. Proposed permanent policies have been filed with the Legislative Research Commission. Public input is part of the approval process. For information, call Division of Waste Management, 502/564-6716.

Opening in New York ... Andrew T. Coiner has been appointed director of the Kentucky Economic Development Office in New York. An attorney, Coiner was formerly executive director of the Office of International Marketing in the Cabinet for Economic Development.

Computerized ... Because of rapid changes in federal and state rulings, the Department for Social Insurance has put its four-volume "Field Services Operation Manual" into a statewide computer system. This gives the department's 1322 caseworkers immediate access to up-to-the-minute policy information via computer.

Public meetings ... Institutes for Aging and Children, Feb. 8, 9 a.m., Vest-Lindsey House, Frankfort; Commission for Health Economics Control in Kentucky, Feb. 21, 9:30 a.m., Department for Health Services auditorium, Frankfort; Commission for the Homeless, Feb. 23, 3 p.m., United Way of Kentucky, Louisville; Public Assistance Appeal Board, Feb. 23, 8:30 a.m., Human Resources Building, Frankfort.

Pediatric care is subject of nursing workshop

The care of pediatric patients is the topic of two workshops to be held at the Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg in February.

The two one-day sessions, co-sponsored by Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals and HRMC, will be Friday, Feb. 9 and Friday, Feb. 16.

The programs are specifically designed for pediatric nurses, according to Gail Wise, coordinator of MSU's continuing education program. "While the second session could be considered a continuation of the first, a participant does not have to attend both days," Wise said.

Topics to be discussed include the normal growth and development of children and identifying methods of nursing assessment and treatment of common childhood diseases.

Instructor for both sessions will be

Nancy Holler, a member of the nursing faculty at Prestonsburg Community College.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and class will start at 9 a.m. The cost of each workshop is $42, which includes handout materials and refreshments.

Nurses attending either session will receive contact hours as approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing.

Additional information is available from MSU's department of nursing and allied health sciences at 783-2632.

Parent Quiz

Do Your Kids Watch Too Much TV?

Here's a quiz to see if YOUR kids watch too much TV.
Answer Yes or No:

1. I set limits on how much television my kids can watch.
2. Each week, my children and I choose the programs they'll watch. At other times, the set is turned off.
3. My kids have interests besides TV. They play games, read books, or play a sport.
4. The set is turned off during meals.
5. Sometimes, we watch programs together. Then we talk about what we've seen.

How Did You Score?

Four or five "Yes" answers is very good. Three is just fair. Less than three means your child's schoolwork may be hurt by watching too much television.

Hospice volunteer training to begin

The Hospice of Big Sandy will begin offering Volunteer Training classes for anyone interested in helping hospice patients and families, Tuesday, Feb. 13, at 6 p.m. in the third floor conference room of the Johnson County Courthouse.

According to executive director Chris Conley, anyone can be a Hospice volunteer. "All that is required is a desire to help others who are facing one of the most difficult times of life—the death of a loved one," she said.

"Hospice volunteers come from all parts of our community. They can perform many roles ranging from running errands to providing a caring ear for the patient and family members," Conley explained. "There are no prerequisites for being a Hospice volunteer other than a willingness to share some time and energy with people who need help."

The volunteer sessions will be each Tuesday evening through March 20, from 6-8 p.m. and will cover topics such as communication skills, death and dying and what do volunteers do.

Hospice also needs volunteers who are interested in areas other than patient/family care. "People who are interested in helping Hospice through fund-raising or public relations also are needed to help the program grow and thrive," Conley said.

For further information about the sessions, call the Hospice office at 789-3841 from 8-2:30, Monday through Friday.

"Anyone interested in learning more about Hospice is welcome and urged to attend the first session on Feb. 13," Conley said.

Three defendants in cockfight saga get day in court

Three of the persons arrested two weeks ago on charges of cruelty to animals, stemming from a Kentucky State Police raid of a cockfighting arena at Doty Creek, appeared in Floyd District Court yesterday.

Shirley Ray Slone and Vernon Kelly Slone, both of McDowell, entered guilty pleas and were fined $250 each. They were also ordered to pay court costs amounting to $47.50.

Thomas Clough of Paris also pleaded guilty and his fine was dismissed. He was also assessed court costs of $47.50.

Other defendants in the case who have entered not guilty pleas have been assigned a court date of May 2.

The maximum penalty for the misdemeanor charge is a year in jail and/or a $500 fine.

South Central Bell extends service hours

South Central Bell has extended the hours its service representatives are on call, which should make it easier and more convenient for many customers to take care of their telephone service needs, according to Art Willett of SCB's regional Pikeville office.

The new office hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Willett said the company is extending the office hours by opening an hour earlier and closing an hour later to offer customers greater flexibility in doing business with South Central Bell.

"Research has shown that traditional hours no longer adequately meet today's customers needs for handling home telephone service," Willett explained. "There are an increasing number of single households and dual-career households, where working people may find it difficult to call the business office during their own working hours. "We're trying to respond to the changing needs of our customers and give them the quality of service they deserve."

Customers can call the service center to establish, transfer or disconnect home telephone service. Service representatives will also assist them with billing questions or place orders for additional features.

In addition, 24-hour service is available for certain transactions through an automated business office service called RightTouch(R) service, Willett said. By pushing the buttons of a touch-tone telephone, residence customers can get account information, order duplicate bills, make payment arrangements, order Custom Calling services, or disconnect service. To use RightTouch service, customers can dial 1-557-7777, toll-free.

The telephone numbers for South Central Bell service representatives are listed in the Customer Guide pages in the front of the South Central Bell telephone directory and on customers' telephone bills.

Job search is focus of class at college

"Finding a job or getting a better one" is the thrust of a workshop set for Feb. 1 and 8 at Prestonsburg Community College.

Planned each evening from 6-8:30, the workshop will focus on writing resumes and cover letters, interview techniques, dressing for the interview, following up on interviews and applications and other skills that will help participants improve their chances of getting a new or better job.

The two sessions will be taught by PCC instructors Robert Looney and Tom Gies.

To register, call the college's continuing education and community service office at 886-3863, ext. 278.

Fans, players, coaches irate

Daredevils win third in a row, squeaking by Rebels, 64-60

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner got his pregame wish as his Daredevils were set to face coach Johnny Martin's Allen Central Rebels in Floyd County conference basketball action Friday night at the J. H. Campbell Arena.

The McDowell mentor had hoped that his team could continue the good play experienced in previous games. Continue the good play they did as they upset the homebound Rebels, 64-60, for the Daredevils' third straight victory and fourth in the last five games.

The game was played before a crowd hostile toward the officiating. The officials were none too popular with the crowd either way as players, fans and coaches became disenchanted with the calls.

"We didn't lose the game, it was taken from us, and you can quote me on that," said Allen Central coach Johnny Martin. "In 17 years of coaching, this was the worst officiated game I have seen."

The fans were constantly on to the officials and every call they made. The third period was bogged down with whistles blowing constantly.

"You couldn't get in the flow of the game because of the whistles blowing all the time," said Rebel point guard Kevin Spurlock. "You just brush someone and they called a foul."

McDowell had gotten off to a horrendous start losing its first seven games of the season. Turner is hoping that his team is starting to peak and will be at top form when the district tournament comes around.

Steady performer Marc Hall led the Daredevils in scoring with 18 points. Brother Stacy added 17 points, and upcoming starter Mike Duddleson tossed in 14 points. Keith Shelton, who had a career high 41 points in an earlier game, finished the night with 11.

Cotton Parson topped the Rebels in scoring with 18 points, and teammate Rick Smith had 13. The Rebels were in foul trouble during the game with Smith, Joey Conn and Kevin Spurlock fouling out in the fourth period. Smith got into early foul trouble and had to sit out a big part of the game.

The Rebels looked like a team in control as they opened the game by jumping out to an 11-2 lead in the first period with Parson connecting on seven quick points, including a three-pointer. Spurlock hit a three-pointer to help the Rebels to a 16-10 lead at the close of the first.

Allen Central held leads of 19-10, 21-12, and 23-17 before running off seven straight points to take a 30-17 lead, mainly behind the play of the 6'5" Smith. Smith had a three point play and two free throws to lead the charge. The Rebels led at the half 34-28.

"The coach got on to us because we weren't working and passing the ball quick enough," said Stacy Hall of his team's performance in the first half. "We were standing around and he told us to come out in the second half and work the ball around and our shots would start falling for us. We did that and we started moving on defense, and we got some steals off our trap and zone defense."

After a Smith basket to open the third period, Smith picked up his fourth personal foul that brought the displeasure of Coach Martin, who was then whistled for the technical foul. Shelton hit two free throws for the personal foul and hit one of two on the technical call. McDowell retained possession and Marc Hall scored underneath to make it a five-point play, cutting the lead to three, 36-33. The Rebels extended the lead back out to five, 41-36.

With the Rebels leading, 45-42, McDowell's coach Turner was called for a technical foul. Kevin Spurlock hit both free throws. On the possession, newcomer Terry Spurlock took an offensive rebound and scored to make it 49-42, Allen Central.

Shelton hit two free throws, and Marc Hall added a bucket to close to within three, 49-46. Duddleson then hit a three-pointer just at the buzzer to tie the game, the first time since 2-2, at 49-all.

McDowell took its first lead with 7:02 to go in the final period on a drive by Marc Hall. Dougie Hopkins followed with two free throws to make it 53-49. Allen Central tied the game at 53-all on two free throws by Mike Hancock and a basket by Conn.

After the Daredevils took a 59-53 lead with 4:22 to go, the Rebels made a last attempt at a comeback, cutting the lead to one, 59-58, on a Conn free throw and two buckets by Parsons.

Conn made one of his patient moves under the basket to score, but the basket was disallowed because of a charging call. The call was Conn's fifth personal. Kevin Spurlock soon followed Smith and Conn to the bench with 2:30 left in the game.

According to Marc Hall, the Daredevils had to be careful of being overconfident after the Rebel players departed via the foul route. "I've seen games where the starting five fouled out and the opposing team became overconfident and lost the game. We just told our players not to quit and we didn't."

McDowell held on to take the contest 64-60.

"I think once the players realized they were still in the game they began to play better and our defense picked up. The tempo changed and we played well the second half," McDowell's mentor said.

Turner says that his team is coming on at the right time and is playing better overall basketball. One difference in his team has been the play of Mike Duddleson.

"Mike has good range and he plays very aggressive on defense," Turner explained. "With him in the lineup he allows us to do more things on defense."

The win avenged an earlier loss to Allen Central at McDowell when the Daredevils fell 75-55.

Off and running

The only time the basketball is tossed in the air is at the beginning of the game. Here the Wheelwright Trojans and Elkhorn City Cougars start game one of the Kentucky Single Class A regional tournament at Pikeville.

Sailing through the air

Stacy Hall (12) of McDowell sails past H.D. Fraley (14) of Elkhorn City in the second game of the Kentucky Single A regional tournament at Pikeville Monday night. Todd Conley hit a three-pointer just before the buzzer to defeat the Daredevils 69-64.

Gibson's 24 points give Lady Rebs 60-50 victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Allen Central Lady Rebels got a 24-point performance from the number two guard position as Teresa Gibson poured in 24 points to help the Lady Rebs to a 60-50 Floyd County conference victory over the McDowell Lady Daredevils.

The win was of the come-from-behind variety. Allen Central, who has been trying to find itself of late, went to a different second half defense to control the offensive prowess of one Lori Bryant.

"We went to a box and one," said Lady Rebs mentor Bonita Compton of her team's defensive strategy in the second half. "We had to stop Bryant, and the box and one worked."

The McDowell junior lit up the scoreboard with 17 first half points as she seemed to be scoring at will against the Lady Rebels' defense in the first half. Bryant finished the game with 21 points, but could only manage four points in the second half.

Allen Central opened with a 6-2 lead early, only to see the Lady Devils

McDowell winning string snapped by Cougars

The McDowell Daredevils, on a roll and winners of three straight and four of their last five games, were on the verge of winning number four straight when the Elkhorn City Cougars got some fourth quarter breaks to win over the upsurging Daredevils, 69-64.

The game was even closer than the final five-point margin.

Eighth grade sensation Todd Conley hit a three-pointer with two seconds on the clock to break a 64-64 tie and give the Cougars the victory in the second game of the first round of the Kentucky Class Single A regional tournament at Pikeville Monday night.

The Daredevils, after serving notice in the 58th District that they were alive and well, gave the same indication to 15th region team by playing the highly regarded Cougars close. McDowell, off to a slow start at the beginning of the season, seems to be playing with so much more confidence mainly because of the improved play of Keith Shelton, 6' 5" senior center.

Kermit Belcher, who led the Cougars in scoring with 17 points, got Elkhorn City off to a good start, with three quick baskets enroute to an 8-2 lead. Shelton then went to work for the Daredevils as the big center, scoring his team's last 10 points of the first quarter to give McDowell a 15-11 lead. Hal Akers' three-pointer and a bucket by Belcher put the Cougars on top, 16-15, at the first stop.

Two for Compton

Brad Compton (21) of Wheelwright scores two points against Phelps Monday night in first round action of the 15th Regional basketball tournament at Pikeville. Wheelwright fell to the Hornets, 70-63.

Wheelwright drops one to Phelps in Classic

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Kentucky Class Single A regional basketball tournament got underway Monday night at the Pikeville High School Fieldhouse as the Wheelwright Trojans and Phelps Hornets got the games going. A big crowd from Wheelwright was on hand to support the Trojans.

The Wheelwright High School band played the National Anthem excellently. The Trojan band is one of the county's finest. Large balloons, carrying the message "Good Luck Trojans," floated around the gymnasium as the festivities began.

Wheelwright looked sharp in the opening quarter and a half, jumping out to an early lead with some good defensive play. Paul Hall's quickness netted him some early points to help the Trojans.

Hall hit the first shot of the game for Wheelwright and followed that with a steal and a lay in, in conjunction with a Jimmy Helton basket, to give the Trojans a 6-0 lead. A three-pointer by Harold Johnson made it 9-2 as Wheelwright raced to an 18-14 first quarter advantage.

Hall opened the second period with a basket to give Wheelwright a 20-14 lead early. Steve Johnson's two free throws made it 22-16, following a basket by Phelps' Robbie Baker. The Hornets then ran off 13 straight points to take a 29-22 lead. A 6-2 run by Wheelwright made it 31-28 at the half.

Hall's three-pointer with 4:46 to go in the third period, tied the game at 35-35 and the lead began to switch hands on alternating possessions.

After Johnson's free throw tied the game at 41-all, Mike Wallace and Danny Francis hit buckets to give the Hornets a 45-41 third period lead.

Mike Justice made it 47-41 in the opening seconds of the final stanza.

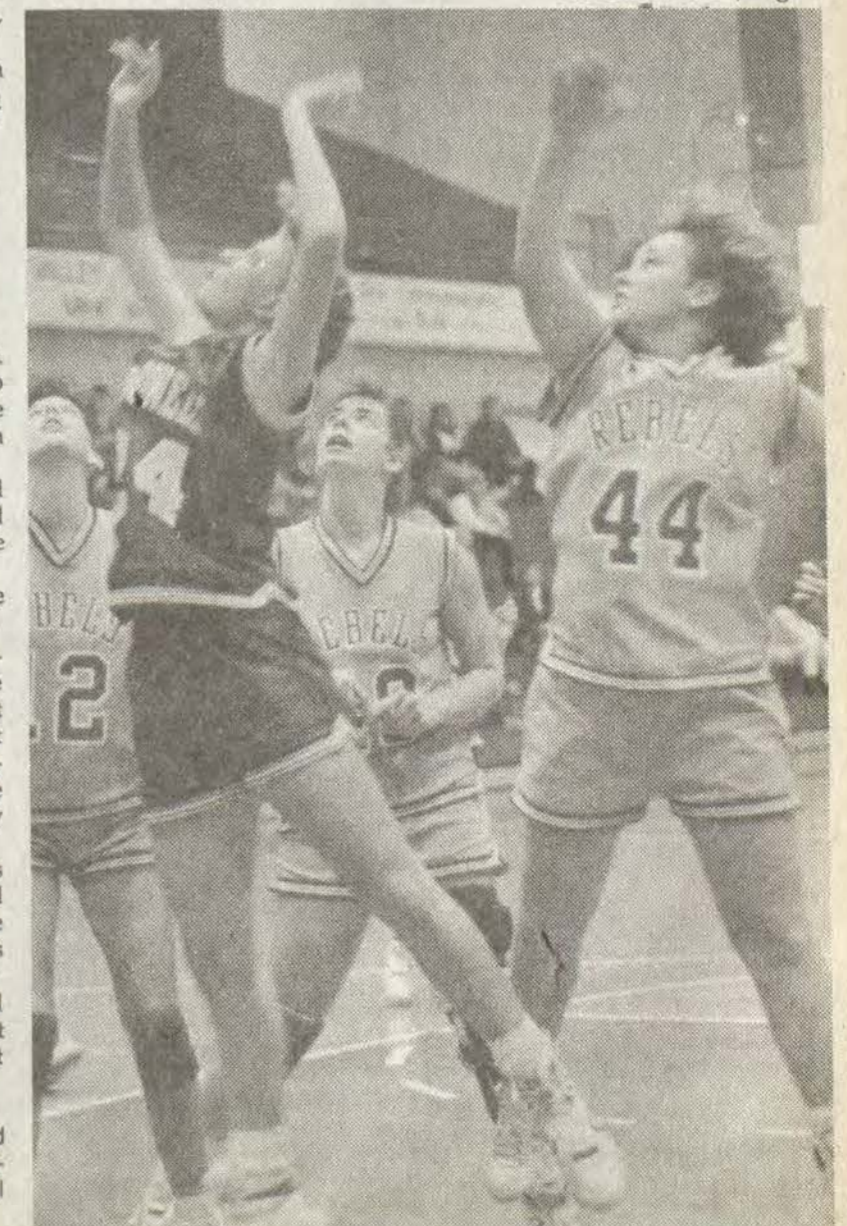

Two free throws by Brad Compton and Johnson's charity toss cut the lead to three, 47-44. Francis then went on a personal tear, tossing in six straight points to give Phelps its biggest lead at 53-44. The Trojans were unable to catch the Hornets, and they fell 70-63.

Harold Johnson led all the scorers with 17 points and Paul Hall finished with 14. Mike Charles topped the Hornets in scoring with 18 and Francis tossed in 16.

Wheelwright falls to 4-7 and Phelps improves to 7-8. Wheelwright will host Jenkins on Tuesday night at Wheelwright.

Surrounded by Rebels

Shelby Howell (24) of McDowell scores against Allen Central Monday night in women's action at Allen Central. The Lady Rebs came from behind to win 60-50.

Three-point attempt

Steven Johnson (35) launches a three-point attempt over a Millard player in regional action last weekend at Millard. A cold first quarter was the downfall as the Trojans lost 91-85.

McDowell

the flu, hit a three-pointer to break a 20-20 tie with 4:35 to go in the second quarter and give McDowell a 23-20 lead. Marc Hall's two buckets at the end of the second stanza made it 32-28 at the half.

McDowell took its biggest lead at 44-37 with 3:19 to go in the third stanza. Tyler Bailliff then was fouled by Shelton, his third, on a shot. The basket was good and Bailliff converted the free throw. H.D. Fraley's two points made it 44-42. McDowell eased back out front by six, 48-42, on baskets by Marc Hall and two free throws by Stacy Hall.

Momentum began to shift toward

Elkhorn City as the Cougars scored six unanswered points to tie the score at 48-48 at the end of the third period.

Chris Rose gave Elkhorn City the lead for the first time since the first quarter on a lay up opening the fourth period. The Cougars then built the lead to five, 54-49, with 5:20 to go in the game. Shelton then picked up his fourth personal foul and had to depart to the pines. Two free throws by Doug Hopkins made it 54-53 with 4:20 to go.

McDowell caught the Cougars at 59-59 with 2:31 remaining and took the lead at 61-59 on a Marc Hall basket. The game was tied at 63-63 when Conley hit the front end of an one and one to give the Cougars a 64-63 lead. Stacy Hall on the missed second free throw was fouled with :12 showing on the clock. Hall hit the first and missed the second one to tie the score at 64-64, setting up the heroic three-point shot of Conley.

Stacy Hall's 22 points led the Daredevils in scoring with 22 points. Shelton finished the game with 21 and nine rebounds, and Marc Hall added 12 while pulling down nine rebounds. Britt Stumbo had four assists for McDowell and Hopkins dished off three. Kermit Belcher had 10 rebounds for Elkhorn City.

The Daredevils will entertain the chargers of Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido Friday night in a big conference match up.

come back and tie the game at 6-6. Bryant hit a 16-footer from the corner to get the tying basket. After a 10-10 tie, McDowell went on top, 14-10, on baskets by Bryant and freshman Kristy Mullins. The Lady Daredevils led at the first stop, 17-14.

Allen Central standout Jo Ann Conn was having problems getting her shots to fall. McDowell ran its break to perfection on two occasions and began to build a second quarter lead. Bryant's jumper just before the buzzer gave McDowell a 35-28 half time lead.

Allen Central returned to the court in the third period with a new plan. A box-and-one defense. The chaser was on Bryant. The Lady Rebs' change of defense also picked up the tempo on offense and when the smoke had cleared at the end of the third quarter the game was tied at 39-39. McDowell could only score four third period points.

McDowell's offensive woes continued in the final stanza as the Lady Rebs outscored the visitors 15-2 to take an 11-point lead, 54-43. Bryant's final four points came on four free throws at the end of the fourth quarter. Allen Central shot 11 free throws in final two minutes of the game, hitting six.

Conn finally got into the flow of the game and tossed in 17 points.

Stacy Moore, who played a super defensive game, added six.

Priscilla Crawford and Jenny Slone each added eight points in the game.

Allen Central will entertain the Lady Eagles of Virgie tomorrow night (Friday) and McDowell will host the Lady Blackcats of Prestonsburg tomorrow night.

Bass can see your line and lures

Ever since the very first bass lure was made, anglers have argued about how well bass could actually see that lure. As a result, today's lures are painted in a wide assortment of colors, and every pro's tackle box will have at least three color versions of the same lure.

"Well, the most recent studies by fisheries scientists have established that bass can see colors quite well," laughs Ken Cook, himself a former fisheries biologist and now a top tournament bass angler and member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "The eye of a bass has all the necessary physiological characteristics that enable it to see colors quite well underwater, and if you fish very long, sooner or later you'll experience a trip in which bass seem to hit only lures of a certain color."

"Not only do bass see lures, they see line," adds Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler Guido Hibdon. "When bass are not active and you have to leave a lure like a jig or plastic worm in front of them for a longer period of time, bass will study the line as well as the lure."

"I've had this happen to me several times. In fact, I've watched bass swim up and touch the line, never paying any attention to the lure at all."

"That's when you need to change to the lightest, smallest line you can find."

Cook prefers to use natural color lures in clear water, and fluorescent color lures in muddy water conditions.

"In clear water," he says, "I like shad or bluegill-type colors, such as a smoky gray or blue-green. Surprisingly, perhaps, red is an excellent lure color in clear water, as are blue and purple."

"In really muddy water, I like chartreuse, or a fluorescent char-treuse/blue combination. Orange is often a productive color, too."

Dr. Loren Hill of the University of Oklahoma has done numerous studies of bass vision, both under laboratory conditions as well as in lakes throughout the United States. The light penetration into the water determines which colors are most visible.

"Because light penetration decreases with depth," says Cook, "the color lure you choose for shallow water fishing may be entirely different than the lure you need for deep water."

Basketball star floors opponents with hustle

(Editor's note: The following article reprinted with permission from the Dayton Daily News. Lisa Oney is the granddaughter of Rosie Ferguson of Green Acres in Prestonsburg. Oney excels in both basketball and softball. The article is written by Ron Jackson.)

Lisa Oney has created a new statistic for the West Carrollton High School girl's basketball team. It is called "times on the floor diving."

"I keep track how many times she hits the floor," said clock keeper Barry Reed, who doubles as Oney's softball coach in the spring.

"Against Miamisburg, she was on the floor for a season high 14 times. I tell her she's not going to make it through the season at that rate," Reed said.

The 5'10" junior may be outplayed occasionally, but rarely out-hustled. If floorburns were a criterion, Oney might be an All-State candidate. Her teammates nicknamed her "Animal."

"Lisa is extremely aggressive on the ball and away from the ball," said Roxie Laycox, Pirates girl's basketball coach. "She's definitely a kamikaze player. She shows no regard for her body and she's not afraid to mix it up."

"Her enthusiasm and spirit fires the other kids up," Laycox added. "She's definitely an inside force. She's unselfish. I have to tell her to take it to the hoop more."

Oney's best performance came against the Miamisburg Vikings. She scored 22 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to help propel the Pirates to a 61-41 victory over their rival, an effort that clinched Neighbors Athlete of the Week honors.

Last spring Oney transferred to West Carrollton from Charles Page High School in Tulsa, Okla. She fit right into the Pirates softball lineup as a clean-up hitting first baseman.

Oney batted .446 and drove in 40 runs. She contributed significantly to the Pirates' Western Ohio League district and regional championships.

The Pirates, 23-3, lost in the state semifinals. Oney earned All-WOL first team as a sophomore.

Oney plays softball with a passion. It's her first love.

In fact, her dream is to play on the Oklahoma State women's fast pitch softball team. The Cowgirls, based in Stillwater are perennially a national power.

"Living there gave me an opportunity to play the game at a higher level," she said. "The pitching I faced out there was unbelievable, very, very fast compared to pitching here in Ohio high school ball. It took me a while to adjust to the slower pitching we face here."

Oney said she would like to study physical education and become a coach.

WE INVITE YOU TO LEARN ABOUT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

A person who feels called to membership in the Catholic Church should contact a local parish. There are people there who are ready to help as you listen for the leading of the Holy Spirit. A Catholic friend, neighbor, or family member will often be happy to accompany you on these first steps.

If you are already baptized:

It is the policy of the Catholic Church that persons who are already validly baptized in another Christian community are not rebaptized if they choose to join the Catholic Church. Instead, they are received into full communion with the Catholic Church, confirmed, and then invited to participate in the Eucharist for the first time with the Catholic Church.

If you are not already baptized:

Adults who are not already baptized and wish to join the Catholic Church will be initiated in stages in the midst of the community. The sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation and first Eucharist are the three Sacraments of Initiation which bring a person into full membership in the Catholic Church. Parish communities will pray and walk with a person along the faith journey.

Wasp basketball experience pays off--literally--for dentist

Dr. Ken Martin, former Wayland resident and former member of the Wayland Wasps of 1964, now living in Cookeville, Tenn., where has a dental practice, recently took home a grand prize of a $10,000 shopping spree for sinking four shots at half time of the Tennessee Tech and Murray State game.

Martin won the shopping at Shelton's Jewelry Store in Cookeville.

Dr. Martin hit all four shots, and "it was nothing-but-net on all four," said jewelry store owner Ricky Shelton.

Each contestant had to register at one of the businesses in Cookeville and a drawing was then held to select those who could go out on the TTU basketball court at half time and compete for the prizes.

The contestant then was required to hit four shots into the basket within 25 seconds and do it in a certain sequence: a layup shot, a three-pointer (from the top of the key), an NBA three-pointer (from about 23 feet out) and a half court shot.

Martin is no stranger to the game. He went to Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., on a basketball scholarship. And he played state championship basketball in high school at Wayland. Martin is the son of the late Melvin (Nick) and Josephine Martin of Estill. Martin played basketball for Tommy Boyd (now school board member) at Wayland in 1964, the year the Wasps went to the state tournament.

The unusual thing about the 1964 Wasps was that all five starters received a college scholarship. Members of that team were: Martin, Brawnley Williams, Danny Handsford, Phillip Johnson and Tommy Martin.

Martin enjoys coaching basketball in the Junior Pro leagues in Cookeville and works with his three sons, Jamie, 15, Scott, 12 and Todd, 6.

After his name was selected for the competition, Martin went out to the school gym where his son Jamie was playing and practiced his shooting, he said.

According to Martin, while he practiced he prayed.

"I told the Lord that if I was to hit such a shot, it would have to be something He wanted to happen."

Martin said out of 15 practice shots, he hit just one. "Just one," he said, "just enough to let me know that it could be done. I give the credit to the Lord."

Martin was able to return to coaching his junior pro boys with his head high. By the way, there was only one second left on the clock as the ball swished through the net.

Martin said after the feat that he was a "Kentucky shooter" being from Wayland.

$10,000 shot

Ken Martin, formerly of Wayland, launches the shot that netted him a $10,000 shopping spree at a jewelry store in Cookeville, Tenn. Martin is a former member of the 1964 Wayland Wasps that went to the state tournament.

Lady Blackcats best Lawrence Co., 67-61

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Kathy Slone and freshman Raquel Cain combined for 49 points to guide the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats to a come-from-behind 67-61 win over the visiting ladies from Lawrence County Monday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Slone tossed in 27 points and Cain added 22.

Cain, who didn't start, had two three-pointers in the game, with most of her points coming from the perimeter.

"Kathy (Slone) had a real good game for us," Prestonsburg mentor Bridgett Clay stated, concerning the performance of her leading scorer. "Our free throw shooting, which has been horrendous lately, was somewhat better. Our defense was good as we caused Lawrence County to turn the ball over 15 times. They just couldn't handle the pressure." Lawrence County held a four-point lead at the end of the first quarter, 16-12. The Lady Blackcats lit up the board with 23 points in the second period to take a 35-29 lead to the locker room at half time.

"We fell behind in the third quarter and we made a run at them and came back and then we would fall behind again," Clay stated. "Edwinna's (Hale) play in the game, especially in the first half, kept us in the game. If she hadn't played as well as she did I don't what we would have done."

Prestonsburg trailed in the fourth period, 53-50, with four minutes remaining in the game. A 14-2 spurt put the Lady Cats up by nine, 64-55.

"I got a technical foul called on me over a call," said Clay and after that we got to going."

Prestonsburg shot over 50 percent for the game and turned the ball over only nine times.

"We have been working hard in practice on that area of our game," the Prestonsburg mentor said.

The Lady Cats are now 6-7 on the season and will host Paintsville tomorrow night (Thursday) and will travel to McDowell Friday night.

Don't push, now

Barry Clark (14) of Harold seems to be pushed around under the basket against the Virgie Jr. High Eagles. The action took place in the Pikeville Bears junior high tournament last weekend. Harold lost a close one 53-52 to Virgie.

Battle of teammates

Stacy Moore and Pam Webb (12) of Allen Central battle each other for the ball in a game against the McDowell Lady Daredevils Friday night. The Lady Devils fell at ACHS, 60-50.

Tips for better boat battery performance

The batteries that keep your boat humming don't require a lot of maintenance, but the care they do need is critical for long life and maximum performance.

Bo Dowden, a well-known bass tournament professional and member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff, offers these suggestions for taking care of your boat's batteries:

"The two most important aspects of battery maintenance are to keep them fully charged, and to make certain they're filled with fluid," explains the former marine dealer.

"Of these two, the most important is keeping the battery charged. It should be charged immediately after a fishing trip, when the batteries have been drawn down from trolling motor and depthfinder use.

"Don't wait a week or two to charge them, do it immediately." If the battery is not charged, the metal plates inside will become covered with the sulphur from the battery's sulphuric acid, and when that happens, it won't take a charge.

"This sulphur build-up begins right away, and it doesn't take long for it to ruin, or at least shorten the life of a battery."

"Battery fluid level should be checked often," says the Evinrude pro. The metal plates visible when the caps are removed should be completely submerged, and if they aren't, distilled water should be added.

"What happens most often to cause the fluid level to go down is that a charger is left on the battery a long period of time and the fluid inside begins boiling," explains Dowden. "You simply vaporize the fluid right out."

"This is the main problem with leaving a charger on and unattended for hours. You can't really over-charge a battery, but once the fluid inside gets hot, you can boil it away. The best battery chargers available today have automatic cut-off switches that prevent this from happening."

During the winter months, or when your boat won't be used for a long period of time, Dowden suggests removing the batteries and charging them at least once a month.

"It isn't as critical to store unused batteries on wood surfaces as it once was," he says. "Years ago we cautioned everyone never to store batteries on concrete, but today's batteries usually have better plastic cases so they don't lose a charge as fast as they did then.

"It's probably still a good idea to put the batteries on some type of wood platform, just so any accidentally spilled battery acid doesn't stain the concrete."

Dowden believes a boat battery properly cared for will last at least two years, depending upon how heavily it is used. A neglected battery allowed to discharge completely and have sulphur build up inside may last six months or less.

WHERE THE BOTTOM LINE IS LESS!

Bassin' with the Pros

Using Light Line Will Make Difference
If you want to catch more bass, then switch to light line.

That's the advice of Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler Guido Hibdon, considered by many to be one of America's finest light tackle bass fishermen. He regularly uses lines testing as low as six and eight pounds, even in the heavy-bass waters of Florida.

"Light line gives your lure a totally different presentation," explains Hibdon, winner of the 1988 BASS Masters Classic. "Lures look more natural because they aren't pulling a heavier, stiffer line through the water."

"If you're careful and recognize the limitations of light line, you can do anything with it you can do with heavier line. I regularly flip into thick cover with 12 and 14-pound test line, but most anglers use 20 to 30-pound test."

The Johnson pro made a believer out of many eight line skeptics recently when he landed an 11-pound, 8-ounce largemouth from Lake Okechobee's grassbeds on six-pound test line.

"I could see the bass in the clear water," Hibdon recalls, "and I made at least a dozen casts to her with eight-pound test line, putting my lure right in front of her."

"She never looked at the lure, but instead looked at the line. She could see it, and realized something was wrong."

Before he cast with the lighter, thinner six-pound test line, however, Hibdon resorted to a trick taught by his father years ago in the clear Missouri lakes where Hibdon learned to fish. He used a marking pen and "camouflaged" the line with black marks every three or four inches for several feet above his lure.

"The marks made the line appear broken and less noticeable," laughs Hibdon, who has used this trick in several other professional tournaments. "The bass grabbed the lure on the first cast."

"When bass are very spooky and hesitant to chase lures, either because of weather conditions, heavy fishing pressure, or clear water," Hibdon adds, "light line will give you an extra edge."

"I have often fished down a bank right behind other anglers who were using much heavier line and caught fish when they weren't getting any strikes at all."

Using light line also means using rods designed specifically for that purpose, Hibdon emphasizes. He prefers a six and one-half foot spinning rod with a very limber trip. This light action provides a cushion against line breakage so the rod plays the fish, not the line.

"I check the line often for abrasions, and re-tie my knots after catching two or three fish," he notes. "Line is the least expensive item in my tackle box, but it's probably the most important item, because it is my direct connection to the bass."

"If you take care of your line, I think it will take care of you."

recommend that bass boaters and other high performance enthusiasts install a water pressure gauge on their boat. Outboards can lose water pressure if the motor is trimmed or raised too high, or if the water intake is covered with weeds or mud. Loss of water pressure can lead to overheating. A water pressure gauge gives earlier warning of trouble than an engine temperature gauge.

Where The Bottom Line Is Less!

Helton's shot

Jimmy Helton (15) of Wheelwright scores two of his six points on this shot against Phelps. The Trojans lost to the Hornets in the Kentucky Class Single A tournament.

Second straight upset

Lady Trojans pull another surprise

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor
Coach Donnie Daniels and his Wheelwright Lady Trojans are building themselves a reputation of pulling off big upsets in high school basketball. For the second consecutive game the Lady Trojans had a balanced scoring attack in knocking off a regional power.

Wheelwright defeated a good Virgie Lady Eagles team, 50-43, at home last week. Earlier the Lady Trojans knocked off Allen Central in a big conference game. Jedon Hood, beginning to play up to expectations, scored 23 points to lead the surprising Wheelwright team to victory. Remember, Wheelwright surprised everyone by capturing the 58th District title last March. This is the same team that has had a taste of winning and has the talent to compete.

Wheelwright scored 18 first quarter points, led by Becky Allen with nine first quarter points, to put the Lady Trojans ahead for good at 18-7. Wheelwright held a half-time lead of 26-20.

Allen finished the game with 12 points and April Bradford scored nine for the winning Lady Trojans. Bentley was the leading scorer for Virgie with 14 points. Rowe and Gibson tossed in 12 points apiece.

Wheelwright Trojans fall at Millard, 91-85

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Wheelwright Trojans, looking to be in tune for the Class "A" Classic this week, took to the road to Millard High School Friday night before a packed house on homecoming night.

Mustang sensation Barry Hopkins scored 28 points in carrying the Mustangs to a close 91-85 victory over the Trojans. Ronald Chaney and Shawn Rutherford each tossed in 11 points.

The outcome may have been different if the Trojans had not experienced one of their slowest starts this season as they fell behind 27-9 in the first quarter. The Trojans played the Mustangs even in the second stanza and outscored them in the second half.

Trailing by 20 points at the half, 49-20, the "new look" Trojans trailed by 15 going into the final quarter. Wheelwright mounted a comeback that fell short by outscoring the host school, 35-26, in the final stanza.

Wheelwright, playing sophomores, has impressed area coaches with its new look.

"I think they are a better team with the sophomores playing," Allen Central coach Johnny Martin stated recently. Martin's Rebels won by eight over the Trojans at Wheelwright.

David Little was the big gun for the Mustangs in the first period, scoring 13 first quarter points. Little finished the game with 19 points scoring just six points the rest of the way. Sophomore Harold Johnson was the leading scorer for Wheelwright with 28 points, sharing scoring honors for the game with Hopkins. Steve Johnson added 14 points and senior Chad Hall tossed in 12.

Wheelwright is now 4-8 on the year.

Last second shot sinks Harold

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Harold Red Devils fell on hard times in the Pikeville Bears Junior High Basketball Tournament Friday evening at Pikeville College gym.

The Red Devils, playing an extended tournament after the completion of the regular season in Floyd County, were invited to take part in the post-season tournament, facing Virgie. The Red Devils led all through the game and fell, 53-52, on a last second shot by Stanley Wright.

Game scoring honors went to Danny Osborne, who hit two three-pointers to get the younger Eagles back in the game. Osborne had 26 points for Virgie. Brian Hunter led the Floyd County team with 24 points.

Harold held a nine-point advantage at half time, 26-17. Virgie closed the deficit to one, 36-35, going into the final period.

In the fourth quarter with 39 seconds to go in the game, Harold was on top, 51-45. Osborne then hit a three-pointer to make the score, 51-48.

Harold was fouled and put on the foul line where the team missed the front of a one and one. Osborne then launched another three-pointer from the same spot that found its mark to close within one point, 51-50.

The Red Devils on the next possession turned the ball over, setting up the heroics of Wright. With 12 seconds to go, Wright hit a two-pointer to give the Eagles the win. Harold had the ball with eight seconds to go, but a long court pass went array as time expired.

Besides Hunter's 24 points, Chris Potter had 17 points. Harold's big forward, Barry Clark was held to five points.

Virgie (53) Osborne, 26; Little, 2; Baker, 11; Cole, 6; Wright, 8. Harold (52) Potter, 17; B. Hunter, 24; G. Hunter, 6; Clark, 5.

Betsy Layne Grade loses to Pikeville

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats lost to the Pikeville Elementary Panthers, 40-29, in the first round of the Pikeville Bears Junior High Invitational basketball tourney.

The Bobcats, who hadn't played since December, were paired against the tournament favorite Pikeville. The younger Panthers were 10-1 going into the tournament and are coached by former Pikeville High School coach, Howard Wallen.

Betsy Layne stayed close to the Panthers through the game. They trailed at half time by only five points, 20-15. The Bobcats were led in scoring by Keith Hamilton with 15 points. Walters led the Panthers with 20.

Betsy Layne (29) Ryan Orlega, 4; Keith Hamilton, 15; Dave Kimbler, 2; J. Hall, 2; C. Hunt, 6. Pikeville (40) Walters, 20; Krentzer, 8; Coates, 2; Ford, 8; McCoy, 2.

The South's Icewater Bronzebacks

For a select group of Southern anglers, January is a month of giant smallmouths. What sets these fishermen apart from the rest of Dixie's anglers is that they are eager to brave the bitter cold and endure the icy winds for a chance to battle a small, brown fish.

They are smallmouth anglers, and they are as devoted to their favorite fish as the finest golden retriever is to his master. Like a retriever faithfully treading icy water for a fallen duck, these anglers will doggedly pursue their elusive quarry through the frigid depths of a highland reservoir, in the cold and quiet pools of a clearwater stream, or in the heated currents of a Southern steam plant.

Fred McClintock, a Dale Hollow smallmouth guide from Celina, Tenn., ranks January as one of the best bronzeback times of the year. "I believe it has to do with the rapidly approaching cold. The fish sense it and embark on a feeding spree which lasts from late December through mid-January. In my opinion, the first 10 to 14 days in January are probably the best time of the year to catch a trophy smallmouth."

For the most part, McClintock finds schools of big icewater bronzebacks holding near vertical drops in 15 to 25 feet of water, with drops into the old river channel being of key importance. His most productive structures are normally located off of channel points, and for this reason, these select areas are his primary targets.

When the fish are "on a good feed", as McClintock says, he opts for artificial lures, specifically a group of lures known collectively as "drop baits".

Lady Bobcats go to 14-5 with win at Paintsville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats ran their season record to 14-5 by defeating the Paintsville Lady Tigers, 55-43, Monday night at Paintsville.

The Lady Bobcats, becoming one of the top girls' basketball programs in the region, were led in scoring by Jamie Smith with 13 points. Brenda Hamilton tossed in 12 points and Melissa Bailey also had 12.

Betsy Layne trailed at the half, 23-21, after leading at the end of the first quarter, 11-8.

Betsy Layne outscored Paintsville, 16-8, to reclaim the lead at 37-31. The Lady Bobcats' bench once again made a contribution to the win. Consistent bench play has been a big plus for Coach Gary Hopkins' Lady Cats.

Betsy Layne never trailed as the Lady Bobcats' defense held the Lady Tigers and went on to post the 55-43 win.

Stapp and Davis led the Lady Tigers in scoring with 11 points each. Nikki Webb scored seven points off the bench, and Brianna Boyd tossed in five.

Betsy Layne will host Belfry Monday night in a rematch game.

Three to 5-inch plastic grubs rigged on 1/4-oz. leadheads are his first choice. Top colors include chartreuse, white, pumpkin, and smoke.

White or yellow 1/8-oz. deer hair or marabou jigs are also used, and sometimes tipped with a 3-inch plastic grub trailer. And 1/2-oz. vibrating "blade" baits (like the Silver Buddy or Heddon Sonar) are among McClintock's most productive coldwater lures.

Each of these drop baits is fished in the same manner: simply cast, allowed to sink on a tight line, and then worked with a pump-and-drop motion that allows the bait to touch bottom between hops. Most often, strikes occur as the lure is falling, so a tight line must be maintained at all times.

Like most smallmouth experts, McClintock utilizes a technique known as "contouring a point" when working his drop baits. After determining the approximate depth range at which the fish are holding, the boat is positioned in deep water off the point and a cast made toward the shallows.

The bait is then worked slowly through the promising depth range with consecutive casts while the boat is eased along the contour of the point. This enables anglers in both bow and stern to cast to productive waters.

McClintock also uses a technique

he calls "contour paralleling". Here, the boat is kept overtop the depth at which the fish are holding. Casts are then made ahead of the boat as it is maneuvered around the point, thus keeping the bait in the fish's locale at all times. "The technique is extremely precise," McClintock notes, "but you must be certain about the fish's exact depth or else you will be fishing overtop or underneath the school."

When the smallmouths are not feeding aggressively, this professional angler suggests stashing the artificials and fishing with live bait. Creek or sucker minnows in the 4 to 6-inch range are preferred for most icewater smallmouths, but he uses 6 to 8-inch minnows when hunting 6 to 8-pound trophies.

His tackle choice is designed to present minnows on a long, thin line while retaining sufficient backbone to land a battling trophy bronzeback. "I use 8-foot downrigger rods, Shimano Baitrunner spinning reels (which allow the fish to pull line from the reel with no felt resistance), and, depending on water clarity, a quality 6 to 10-pound line. This rig lets the smallmouth take my bait without feeling a thing, and the long, limber rod then lets me play the fish without breaking the light line."

Terminal tackle includes a strong 1/0 hook and one or two small split-shots placed 24-inches above the hook.

Fred McClintock uses a flasher or paper graph to locate a school of smallmouths on a structure before lowering his minnows to them. "There are two ways to fish these minnows," he says. "The first is to sit directly overtop the school and drop the minnows under the boat."

"Because I like to cover a little more water, I normally use a long line/slow trolling technique. Basically, I start easing around the point with my trolling motor and let out line until the bait starts bumping bottom. Then I pull in a few feet of line to position the bait a couple of feet off the bottom while I'm moving at a constant speed." McClintock normally fishes with 50 to 60 feet of line between rod and hook.

Smallmouths are a perennial favorite of fishermen throughout the South, but their tendency to school during the winter months, coupled with a voracious appetite and a brutal display of power, makes the bronzeback a boon to January's ice-water anglers. Be patient, enjoy your day on the water, and follow these tips to smallmouth success!

Trout released at Paintsville Lake
 The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife released 20,000 rainbow trout in Paintsville Lake on Jan. 16 and an additional 15,000 on Jan. 18. There is no size limit on rainbow trout and the possession limit is eight per person, per day. A valid Kentucky fishing license and trout stamp are required. 1989 fishing licenses and trout stamps will be valid through Feb. 28, 1990, due to the license year changeover. Kentucky residents under age 16 or over 65 and Kentucky veterans with a minimum of 50 percent service-connected disability do not need a fishing license or a trout stamp. The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife resources operates on funds received from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses, and the trout program is funded primarily by the sale of trout stamps.

E.K.C.E.P. TRAINING OFFERED

The Department For Employment Services is now taking applications for a training program in telephone installation. The class is funded by the Eastern Kentucky C.E.P., Inc. (EKCEP). The class will be taught in Lexington, Kentucky. The EKCEP will offer assistance with expenses. The class will begin February 12, 1990 and will consist of 12 weeks of training in all phases of telephone installation and repair. Requirements for enrollment in this class are: Must be at least 18 years of age, cannot be color-blind, and must be willing to relocate in other states for employment. In addition all applicants must meet eligibility guidelines as established by the Job Training Partnership Act (J.T.P.A.) and the Eastern Kentucky C.E.P. For additional information, please contact the Department For Employment Services at North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. Deadline for applications is February 6, 1990. EKCEP has been designated by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky to provide services under the Job Training Partnership Act in conjunction with The Cabinet for Human Resources, Department For Employment Services.

Sports Networks: Part Two

James Allen, Sportscaster, WQHY-FM

C "Ollie" Robinson, once the voice of high school basketball in Floyd County and sportscaster/announcer for radio station WDOC-AM/FM, was a popular figure on the radio networks locally. James Allen, currently the sports director for station WQHY-FM, was a student under the tutelage of Robinson for 14 years.

"I owe everything to C 'Ollie,'" said Allen in a recent interview. "He taught me a lot in the radio business." WDOC-AM/WQHY-FM is the second oldest station in Floyd County. The station was established in 1957 by Gorman Collins Sr., the station's owner and manager.

Allen is from Prestonsburg and is married with three children, two boys and a girl. Allen's wife is Erelane Allen.

"I really enjoy my work as an announcer," said Allen, "and being associated with the game of basketball."

Allensays that he tries to schedule a balanced number of games to be aired over WQHY and tries to get each school on with the same number of games.

"We're a regional station," he says, "and we may carry some Pike County games using Pike County advertisers."

Allen stated that the best games he has had the privilege of covering were during last year's regional tournament at Prestonsburg.

"You can't get any better than what we had last year," he said.

"I enjoyed watching Todd May play for Virgie," Allen remarked when asked to name some of the players he remembers. "Also Dickie Joe Shannon of McDowell was a pleasure to watch play."

What of future plans? "Just keep on broadcasting until I keel over."

Allen sees the addition of Teresa Jones as color commentary as a big plus for QHY's basketball coverage.

"Teresa has been a big addition to our broadcasting booth," he stated. "She just adds a lot to it." This is the first year Jones has been in the booth.

C "Ollie" Robinson, pioneer of high school sports in Floyd County; James Allen, keeping the tradition going.

Cheerleaders to compete for tourney title

Basketball won't be the only state championship competition held in Lexington's Memorial Coliseum during the first Kentucky All A Classic Basketball tournament Feb. 7-10.

Cheerleading squads accompanying their basketball teams to the finals will also have an opportunity to vie for the title of state tournament champions. Squads will be judged during their team's first basketball game on sideline and floor cheers.

Awards will be presented to the top three cheerleading squads on Friday night between games (about 8:45 p.m.). The first place team will also receive individual awards.

Susie Boone, cheerleading competition organizer, said that "the cheerleaders will have the same opportunity as the basketball team in that they can compete with schools of comparable size. The cheerleaders have worked hard all basketball season cheering at the games so we thought it was important that they be recognized also."

The Kentucky All A Classic basketball tournament is for Class A schools which have 424 students or less in grades 10-12. Of 145 eligible schools, 121 will participate in regional play. The first place team from each of the 16 regions will participate in the finals in Lexington.

Lady Rebels lose to regional foe, 77-60

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor
It has been a long season for the Lady Rebels of Allen Central. Once regarded by many as one of the top contenders for the 58th District crown and a possible 15th Regional dark horse, the Lady Rebs have struggled all season. Things didn't get any better against the Lady Golden Eagles of Johnson Central last week. The Lady Rebels dropped a 77-60 game to the Johnson County school.

Johnson Central had a battle on its hands through the first three quarters as the Lady Rebels refused to give up. Allen Central's leading scorer, Jo Ann Conn, then fouled out of the game. The two teams were tied at 12-12 at the end of the first quarter, and Johnson Central held a slim two-point lead, 29-27, at half time and led by four, 53-49, going into the fourth period. The Lady Rebels then began to foul and put the Lady Golden Eagles on the foul line where they converted their free throws.

Following Conn to the bench in the fourth quarter were Darnella Bradley, who led the Lady Rebs in scoring with 21 points, and Sonia Allen. Allen Central then had to go to its younger freshmen players, and the Lady Eagles outscored them 24-11 in winning by 17.

Allen Central continued to miss at the charity stripe connecting on only nine of 26 free throw attempts.

Melissa Butcher topped the Johnson Central team in scoring with 21 points as she shared scoring honors with Bradley. Jo Ann Conn scored 11 points before fouling out. Teresa Gibson, who has been playing well of late, had 12 points. Allen finished with eight points.

Johnson Central (77) Butcher, 21; Sparks, 12; Blevins, 15; Roberts, 12; McCarty, 15.
Allen Central (60) Conn 11; Gibson, 12; Moore, 5; Bradley, 21; Allen, 8; Wiley, 3.

Eagles' 3-pointers doom Allen Central, 83-71

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor
Coach Bobby Osborne's Virgie Eagles lit up the scoreboard at Allen Central last week as they hit 10 three-pointers enroute to an 83-71 victory over host Allen Central.

Chad Bowling, a 5' 11" junior, scored 22 points to lead the Eagles to victory. The big scorer in the three-point arena was junior Mitch Harris who hit four 'treys' and finished with 18 points. Bowling, Kevin Hall and Ernie Burke each had two three-pointers in the contest.

Allen Central stayed in the game behind the scoring of power forward

Joey Conn and center Rick Smith. Conn totaled 24 points for the Rebels while Smith added 22. Mike Hancock, getting a rare start, tossed in 10 points, including two three-pointers.

Virgie led by just three points at the end of the first quarter, 19-16, as the Rebels never were really out of the game. Allen Central couldn't get any scoring out of its front court to go with the inside play of Conn and Smith. Virgie led at the half, 39-32.

Virgie placed five players in double figures in winning for the 11th time this year while losing only four. Allen Central is 6-10 after the loss to Virgie.

Freedom Day: Anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln's approval of the 13th Amendment that abolished slavery, in 1865.

Greensboro Sit-In Anniversary: On this day in 1960, four students in Greensboro, N.C., sat down at a Woolworth store lunch counter and ordered coffee. Refused service, they remained all day. Before the week was over, the protesters were joined by a few white students. The protest spread rapidly, especially in the southern states, resulting in more than 1,600 arrests by the end of the year and leading to equal accommodation, regardless of race, at lunch counters, hotels, and business establishments in thousands of places.

Robinson Crusoe Day: Anniversary of the rescue in 1709 of Alexander Selkirk, a Scottish sailor who had been put ashore on the uninhabited island of Juan Fernandez at his own request, following a quarrel with his captain—the basis for Daniel Defoe's book Robinson Crusoe.

Notable births: Sherman Hemsley, actor, 52; Garrett Morris, comedian and singer, 53; Stuart Whitman, actor, 54.

Jazz show slated for Ashland center

Two respected names in jazz and popular music, songstress Cleo Laine and musician John Dankworth, will appear in concert Thursday, Feb. 8, at 8 p.m. at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland.

Tickets are on sale at the center box office, 1306 Winchester Ave., or by calling 324-3175 on weekdays from 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Laine is the only singer to receive Grammy Award nominations in the Female Jazz, Popular and Classical categories. She won a Grammy in 1986 for her album, "Cleo at Carnegie: The 10th Anniversary Concert." Her latest album, "Woman to Woman," is a collection of songs with words and music written by women. Laine's husband and music director, Dankworth is a jazz musician, composer and pops conductor. He arranged and conducted the music on her latest album.

Accompanied by the Dankworth Quartet, they will present a program

Brush up on mathematics in PCC course

"Basic Concepts in Math" is the title of a four-session, eight-hour review of mathematics concepts that starts Saturday at Prestonsburg Community College.

The class, set for 10 a.m.-noon, Feb. 3-24 in PCC's Magoffin Learning Center, is designed to help participants master basic mathematics concepts without resorting to a calculator. Addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions and decimals will be covered.

The class is for anyone who wants to improve arithmetic skills and particularly for high school students who plan to take a correspondence math course in the summer or for returning college students who need to take the CPP test this spring.

For information, contact the office of continuing education and community service, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Crafts show solicits entries

Craftspeople from across Kentucky are being asked to exhibit their creations at the St. Matthews Kiwanis Club 8th annual Arts and Crafts Fair, the weekend of May 19-20 in Louisville.

Exhibitors rent space for their displays and keep the money from their sales. The club donates the space rental fees to the Home of the Innocents, the state's only long-term nursing care facility for children.

The only requirement, according to fair planners, is that the crafts be original; manufactured items are not allowed.

For information on the fair and space reservations, contact Charles Theobald, Kiwanis Arts and Crafts Fair, 11210 Rannoch Lane, Louisville, KY 40243.

The recipe appears in this week's edition of County Kettle.

KY Craft Market Slated at Louisville

The spring Kentucky Craft Market, sponsored annually by the Kentucky Department of the Arts, will be open to the public Saturday, Feb. 3, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m., in the West Hall of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Some 120 craft businesses, selling everything from quilts and quilted items, baskets, toys, furniture and wearables to stuffed toys, corn shuck flowers and jewelry will be available — many of the finely crafted items that have become favorites at the prestigious New York International Gift Fair.

In addition to the collection of Kentucky crafts, there will be a "Kentucky Crafted" Gallery and a fashion show. A highlight of the fashion show will be Miss Kentucky Melanie Glasscock modeling wearable art.

Kentucky musicians will provide entertainment at the market. On Sunday, Homer Ledford, a nationally known musician and a juried participant of the Craft Marketing Program, will perform antics on his guitar and dulcimer. Featured on Saturday will be Louisville songwriter/singer Debbie Tuggle whose song "I am Home in My Kentucky" is a part of the Ashland Oil Co. presentation "Kentucky is My Land." Entertainment is scheduled each day at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Two days of the big market, Feb. 2 and 3, will be devoted to wholesale buyers who come to the market from all over the country.

Admission will be $2, with those under 12 and over 60 years of age admitted free.

As America enters the '90s, the return to home cooking has become much more than a trend. Healthful diets and family "cocooning" have brought back the custom of eating at home. It is down-home cooking with a twist...homemade foods must be quick and easy to make.

The return to home cooking highlights more homemade desserts and homemade breads. Bread making has become more simplified than in the past because of new products on the market developed just for that purpose.

Yeast manufacturers have developed quick-rising yeast that cuts dough rising time in half. Appliance manufacturers have introduced machines with dough hooks to make kneading dough a breeze.

One appliance manufacturer, Oster, has combined a heavy duty doughmaker with a mixer, a blender and a slicer/shredder/saladmaker to make a handy, all-in-one appliance.

For a booklet featuring many easy-to-make homemade bread recipes tested by Oster's professional home economists, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Oster Bread Making Recipes, 5055 N. Lydell Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53217.

The booklet highlights proper bread making hints and tips, and features basic bread recipes, as well as specialty breads like Pecan Carmel Rolls and Spaghetti French Bread. Whether you're a novice bread baker or an experienced one, you might enjoy this booklet.

This week County Kettle offers bread recipes for your enjoyment. At the end of the column look for solutions from Betty Crocker on common breadmaking problems. The first recipe is contributed by Tom Gies, a professor at Prestonsburg Community College. Tom recently held a class on bread making, featuring the following recipe:

NO-FAIL NUTRITIOUS BREAD

In a coffee cup, mix: 1/2 cup of 85-degree water, 1 package yeast and 1 Tbsp white sugar; let sit in warm place about 10 minutes.

In the meantime mix in a large bowl: 2 cups 85-degree water, 1 beaten egg, 1 tsp salt, 1/2 cup melted lard or shortening and 1/2 cup white sugar. Add yeast mixture.

Mix in any or all of the following: 1 cup oat bran, 1 cup wheat germ, 1 cup milk solids or dry milk, 1 cup anything else you'd like to try.

Add flour until mixture is kneadable. Turn out mixture on floured board; knead until lumps vanish and elasticity develops (about 10 minutes). Set kneaded dough to rise in greased mixing bowl; cover with wet cloth. Allow 1 to 2 hours for dough to double in bulk.

Remove from bowl, punch dough down and roll it to 3/4 inch thickness. Separate dough into 2 equal halves. Sprinkle rolled out dough with cinnamon and sugar if desired. Roll each slab of dough into loaves, and set to rise in greased bread pans. Allow 1/2 to 1 hour for dough to double in bulk.

Place loaves in cold oven. Set temperature at 425 degrees. After 15 minutes, reduce setting to 375 degrees and continue baking for about 25 minutes more. When baked, remove loaves from pans; place on cooling rack and cover loosely with hand towel.

SOUR CREAM COFFEE LOAF

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1-1/4 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 container (8 oz.) dairy sour cream
1 tsp grated lemon peel
2 cups Martha White Self-Rising Flour
1/2 cup chopped pecans
3 Tbsp brown sugar
1 tsp cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in sour cream and lemon peel. Fold flour into creamed mixture. Do not beat. Spoon half of batter into prepared pan. Combine pecans, brown sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over batter. Spoon remaining batter over topping. Bake 55 to 60 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Makes one loaf.

IRISH SODA BREAD

4 cups flour
3 Tbsp sugar
3/4 tsp baking soda
1 Tbsp baking powder
6 Tbsp butter or margarine
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups sour milk

Mix the dry ingredients and cut in the fat. If you don't have sour milk, sour any sweet milk (reconstituted dry, diluted canned, fresh) with a splash of vinegar. Beat the eggs and milk and stir this into the dry mixture. Turn out onto a floured linen or paper towel and knead ten strokes, no more. Traditional Irish recipes call for the addition of one and a half cups raisins to this recipe. Turn into a greased, cornmeal-coated pressure cooker for baking by direct method for about 45 minutes. Cut a cross into the top before baking, to aid in even rising.

COUNTRY GARDEN MUFFINS

1-1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup uncooked quick rolled oats
2 Tbsp dark brown sugar
2 Tbsp baking powder
1/2 tsp cinnamon
1/4 tsp nutmeg
1/4 tsp salt
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup vegetable oil
4 oz. cubed, cooked lean ham (about 3/4 cup)

1/2 cup unpeeled, finely shredded fresh zucchini
1/2 cup finely chopped cooked carrots
Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Prepare 12-cup muffin pan by spraying each cup lightly with vegetable cooking spray.

Combine flour, oats, brown sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt in a large mixing bowl; set aside.

Combine milk, egg and oil in a separate mixing bowl; stir in ham, zucchini and carrots.

Pour liquid mixture into dry ingredients and stir just until dry ingredients are moistened; do not over mix. Divide batter evenly into prepared muffin pan (about 1/4 cup per muffin cup).

Bake at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove immediately to cooling rack and cool thoroughly.

Refrigerate until ready to serve. Makes 12 muffins.

ANSWERS FROM BETTY CROCKER

Q. What causes biscuits to crumble after baking?

A. Either too much shortening was used or it was cut in too finely. Blend shortening and flour with a pastry blender until it resembles fine crumbs.

Q. Is it best to keep bread refrigerated?

A. Especially during warm weather, refrigerator storage will delay rapid mold growth and staling. But, whether stored in refrigerator or, in cooler weather, at room temperature, bread keeps for the same amount of time, 5 to 7 days. For longer storage, place in freezer.

Q. Why do loaves of bread crack on the sides?

A. Either dough is too stiff and contains too much flour, or it is rolled too tightly and stretched too much during shaping.

Q. I added one cup of oat bran to my wheat bread recipe and the bread fell when baked in the oven. What happened?

A. Either the amount of oat bran was too much for the recipe or the loaves were allowed to rise too long, allowing gluten strand to stretch too much to support bread during baking. Try substituting oat bran for up to 1/8 of all-purpose flour.

Q. What can I do to make yeast bread that isn't heavy?

A. When mixing dough, begin with small amounts of flour. Add additional flour as needed, up to maximum amount called for in recipe, to get dough to correct texture. Be generous with rising time in the bowl and bread pans. Heat oven to correct temperature before baking loaves.

Q. What would prevent my cornbread from crumbling?

A. Measure all ingredients carefully, especially flour, eggs and shortening. Always use large eggs. Be sure that flour has been stored in cool, dry place. Mix batter a minimum amount of time. Be sure that your oven temperature isn't too high, as this will dry the bread. Cut and serve while warm, not hot.

HOMEMAKERS TO MEET AGAIN IN FEBRUARY
Floyd County Homemakers meetings, which were not held during the month of January, due to the weather conditions, are scheduled to begin in February. According to Frances Pitts, Floyd County Home Economist, meetings will be determined by the school schedule: If the weather is too bad for school, it's too bad for Homemakers' meetings.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEMBERS REMINDED OF MEETING
Phyllis Herrick, president of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club, reminds members of the club's regular monthly meeting Thursday, Feb. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the Floyd County Library and she reminds the club's executive board of the meeting there at 7 p.m. on that same date.

KIWANIANNES HEAR FROM HEALTH EDUCATOR
Members of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their regular luncheon meeting Thursday, Jan. 25, at 12:30 p.m. at May Lodge. Hope Whitten, president, was in charge of the meeting, and led the group in the Kiwanianne Creed.

Mabel Jean LeMaster presented the devotionals, of which the theme was "Numbers," and ended her discussion with prayer.

Dorothy Osborne read the minutes of the December meeting, and Garnett Fairchild gave the financial report. She said that dues are payable in October. Listed as sick were Mary Margaret Webb and Anna May Mellon.

A "thank you" card from Hope Whitten, expressing her and her family's gratitude for the thoughtfulness shown following the recent death of her husband, Denzil Whitten, was read.

It was reported that a card of thanks was received from the family of May K. Roberts, expressing their gratitude for the monetary contribution in her memory to the First United Methodist Church, and it was announced that a contribution would soon be made to the First Presbyterian Church in memory of another member, Mary Lou Layne.

Osborne discussed with the group the current tax problem, which is referred to as "Cheating Our Children," and stressed the importance of fair property tax evaluation. Jane Wallace, program chairperson, presented Jane Bond, Health Educator from the Floyd County Health Department. Bond is a former president of this group.

Bond told of the many services offered by the local health department including a T.B. control program, prenatal care, food inspection, and the heart clinic. She said the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes had been most instrumental in promoting this latter project.

Enjoying the meeting and luncheon were Hope Whitten, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Dorothy Osborne, Garnett Fairchild, Lucy Regan, Dixie Webb, Ada Meade, Myrtle Allen, Jan Wallace, Jane Bond and Docia Woods.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 22, at 12:30 p.m. at the lodge.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club Learns about Mended Hearts Group

Speaking for Mended Hearts Inc., Larry Adams, chairperson and trainer for the Big Sandy Area Chapter #220, gave his story to the members of the GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club Monday evening, Jan. 15, in the home of club member LaFaye Hughes of Garrett.

Adams, of Blue River, who is also a police officer, a fire marshal, and a member of the Garrett First Baptist Church, told of his own bout with a heart attack, which caused him to realize the importance of such a group as Mended Hearts.

The speaker explained that the organization serves people in the Big Sandy area by sending trained personnel into the homes or to the hospitals to visit with those who are facing heart catheterization, angioplasty, artery or valve replacement, or recovering from one of those or any other heart problem, to encourage them and to answer questions in a positive manner.

Such a visit is usually initiated by the patient's physician, who contacts Mended Hearts and requests that it send someone to visit the patient. The visitor will not only bring information and encouragement but also a rose and a small pillow, which the patient may use to place against his or her chest when coughing.

On the back of the pillows is the chapter name and number and its motto, "It is great to be alive and help others."

Mended Hearts is the only organization of its kind in the area, the nearest being in Lexington and Louisville. There are 185 in the United States and one in Canada. Charlotte Adams accompanied her husband and explained the training program for visitation, of which she is a part. A question and answer period was allowed and much discussion ensued. Literature on the organization was distributed.

A business meeting was conducted by club president JoAnn Hall, prior to the program, in which she announced the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs annual meeting April 18-21 in Lexington. Devotions were given by Marsella Bradley, Club Collectread by Ina Cooley, and Pledge to the Flag by Betty Mullins. Minutes were read by secretary Vera Allen.

The hostesses, Hughes and Blanche Bamer, served refreshments to Gloria Faye Rister, a guest from Garrett, Marie Mullins, Hall, Cooley, Allen, Alma Souleyrette, Betty Mullins, Bradley and Libby Martin, and the speakers, Mr. and Mrs. Adams.

The next meeting of the club will be in the home of Marsella Bradley, Garrett, Monday, Feb. 19.

Martin News

by Nancy Taylor

Tim Shelton of Martin has returned home from Central Baptist Hospital after an extended stay. Shelton is feeling much better and the family wishes to thank everyone for their thoughtfulness during his stay in the hospital.

Congratulations are in order for Herbert Griffith of David for receiving his high school diploma through the GED program recently from the David School. Griffith is employed at the David Service Station.

Polly Justice of Martin and her fiance L.P. Tussey enjoyed an afternoon of relaxation recently. The couple enjoyed dinner together and a drive through parts of Breathitt, Magoffin and Knott counties.

Pastor Dan Heintzelman and wife Sylvia are enjoying a vacation to Atlanta, Ga. The Heintzelmans are visiting with their daughter Ruthie and son-in-law Tip.

Many people have been down with the flu lately. The three of us here, Ed, Greg and I have been no exception. We have all three had it and it has been rough. We thank the Lord, though, for our recovery.

Birthday Greetings
Birthday greetings to Renee Tussey of Martin, daughter of Mr and Mrs Robert Tussey; Stella Spurlock, also of Martin, and Lisa Collett of Martin who observed her 22nd birthday this past Sunday.

Several members of the Ellis and Rosie Reffitt family celebrated birthdays in January. Daughter Irene Griffith and great-granddaughter Ashley Seal celebrated theirs as did grandsons James L. and Herbert Griffith. Two sons had birthdays in January, Frank and Kenneth Reffitt, along with two granddaughters, Carolyn and Mary Ellen Reffitt. One son-in-law, Bobby Messer, also had a birthday. All these in January!

According to Pastor Dan Heintzelman of the Spurlock Bible Church, slides will be shown on Sunday, Feb. 11, at 7 p.m. of the church and congregation in its early days. Heintzelman has many slides that have been taken through the years of the early ministry of the church. Everyone is invited to attend this service.

If you have any Martin area news, please call 886-1237.

Son of local man on national TV

Alan Grant of Fort Lee, N.J., appeared on "The Wheel of Fortune" television game show last night, was the winner and will appear tonight and again tomorrow night in the taped segments.

On Thursday night, after winning a total of $85,000 in cash and prizes, he says hello to his father and step-mother, Leonard and Abby Grant of Prestonsburg.

During the taping of the show in December, the 36-year-old Grant was accompanied by his brothers, Miles Grant of San Diego, Calif., and Neil Grant of Fort Lee, who also appear on stage after the show.

ALICE LLOYD COLLEGE SEEKING MEMORIAL DONATIONS

Clara Hicks Johnson, president of the Floyd County Chapter of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association, announced that in the near future Robin Fox Branham, director of Alumni Affairs at ALC, will mail letters to Floyd County alumni members, asking for donations for a memorial to be placed at this institution in memory of Alice Lloyd and June Buchanan.

Johnson adds that if any persons know of Floyd Alumni members residing outside this county, it would be appreciated if they would notify the Alumni Office at the college at once, so that letters may be sent to them as well.

Donations may be sent to The Floyd County Chapter Memorial Fund, Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, KY.

Toward a literate state

In literacy efforts, much has been done; much remains to be done

by Pam Shingler
Editor

The Kentucky Literacy Commission last week issued its annual report for 1988-89, and the news is both good and bad.

The good news is that 113 Kentucky counties, including Floyd, are receiving state funds for coordinating literacy programs. Floyd is also among 27 counties where the Department for Employment Services and Department for Social Insurance encourage food stamp recipients to enroll in basic adult education programs.

Also good news is that the number of businesses supporting adult education has increased significantly, according to the report, which cites more than 45 Kentucky businesses and industries with on-site programs for employees.

In addition, state government agencies, corporations and foundations have stepped up efforts to provide appropriate reading materials for new adult readers and have funded programs to encourage parent-child reading.

Importantly, more than 2,000 Kentuckians are volunteer tutors for literacy students. Together, they donated 450,600 hours to teaching adults to read last year.

The bad news is that much remains to be done. More than 400,000 Kentuckians, 25 years old and older, are believed to be functionally illiterate, and 1.2 million Kentuckians need basic education, according to report figures.

There's more bad news. More than 650,000 adults in Kentucky, 25 years and up, have less than an eighth grade education. More than 9.7 percent of Kentucky adults report completing less than five grades of school.

In addition to the loss of human potential because of undereducation, the report alludes to how the number of non-readers affects all Kentuckians. A University of Kentucky survey of adults enrolled in literacy programs enrolled in a reading program because of family encouragement.

Demographically, the survey records that 63 percent of those enrolled in literacy programs are male and 37 percent female; 79 percent are white, 18 percent black, and the median age is 37.6 years.

The median number of years of school completed by the literacy students is 8.6, with 40 percent having less than an eighth grade education. Apparently, about 16 percent completed high school without being able to read.

"There is no agency, group or organization that can conquer the challenges Kentucky faces as we strive to remain competitive in national and world markets, since it is not always the lack of jobs, but rather a lack of skilled individuals to meet the economic demands," says Literacy Commission Director Audrey Tayse Haynes in her introduction to the annual report.

"There was a time in our history when literacy was a point of personal pride," Haynes says. "Today, it is a matter of survival."

For a copy of the report, which includes information on how business and government are combining to attack the state's literacy problem, contact the Kentucky Literacy Commission, 110 US 127 South, Frankfort, 40601.

More than 650,000 Kentucky adults have less than an eighth grade education; 9.7 percent completed less than five grades of school.

Georgetown Sponsors Summer Study Abroad

College students wishing to spend several weeks in the British Isles this summer and earn credit for it may be interested in Georgetown College's British Studies Program.

The program, which offers transferable credit to other colleges, as well as Georgetown, is set for July 11-Aug. 13.

Instruction will be offered in the following subjects: anthropology, archeology, art, business, clothing and textiles, computer science, criminal justice, education, English literature, environmental design, geography, history, hotel and restaurant administration, library science, mass communication, music, planning, political science, sociology, speech and hearing sciences, speech communication and theatre.

At a cost of $2,699, the summer study fee includes tuition for six hours credit, round trip air fare from Cincinnati, private room, travel connected with the courses and transfers/baggage handling, according to Dr. Eugene Hall, associate dean for undergraduate studies.

To qualify, students must have completed 28 semester hours with a 2.0 GPA. For information, contact Hall at 502/863-8033.

Former resident on UK dean's list

Allen Carter Roberts, 22, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, was named to the dean's list at the University of Kentucky for fall semester.

He is the son of Susan Carter Roberts, guidance counselor at Cardinal Valley Elementary School, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Carter of Prestonsburg.

lists several pocketbook-related findings. Keep in mind that these findings relate to adults who have had the courage and drive to learn to read.

—44 percent of non-readers are unemployed.

—25 percent have been employed less than half-time since leaving school.

—25 percent have an annual family income under $5,000.

—20 percent receive Medicaid/Medicare or food stamps.

—22 percent received disability income.

—42 percent have incomes inadequate to cope with emergencies.

—7 percent receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

The UK survey also reflects a distressing family pattern among the persons just now learning to read. The median education for their fathers is 5.9 years of school and 8.4 years for their mothers. On the plus side, almost 50 percent said they

MSU Prof Receives Fulbright Grant

JOHN SEELIG

A Morehead State University faculty member in social work has received a Fulbright grant to conduct research in Ethiopia. John Michael Seelig, coordinator of MSU's social work program, will spend the next six months studying child welfare systems in the country's capital, Addis Ababa, and Shewa Province.

Seelig, an associate professor, is MSU's first participant in the prestigious Fulbright Program. Individuals are selected on the basis of academic professional qualifications plus their ability and willingness to share ideas and experiences with people of diverse cultures.

Seelig, who left earlier this month, said that he believes that Ethiopia offers a rare opportunity to look at the evolution of a social welfare system in its embryonic stages.

Local Librarian To Index Berea Magazine

TRISHA MORRIS

Trisha Morris, assistant librarian at Prestonsburg Community College, has been awarded an Appalachian Studies Fellowship from the Mellon Foundation to index the "Appalachian Heritage" magazine from its first issue in 1973 to the fall issue of 1989.

"Appalachian Heritage" magazine is a quarterly publication containing fiction, poetry, essays, interviews and articles by Appalachian authors about the Appalachian region and its people.

The magazine was published originally from Alice Lloyd College and edited by Albert Stewart. Since 1985 it has been published by Berea College under the editorship of Sidney Saylor Farr.

According to Morris, "Appalachian Heritage" has grown into one of the leading publications of the region. "This index will allow readers and scholars to more easily access its material," she noted.

Art, music, drama featured At Marshall next month

Several chances for the culturally minded to expose themselves to fine music, art and drama present themselves in February at Marshall University.

The drama category is filled by the Marshall University Opera Theatre performing Carlisle Floyd's musical drama "Susannah" in two performances at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 9 and 10, in Smith Recital Hall.

Directed by Linda M. Eikum-Dobbs of the Marshall music faculty, the work is a "kind of morality play," which fulfills Floyd's personal commitment to write operas that attempt to "make some commentary on timeless human problems in a contemporary way."

Each performance will be followed by a seminar on the sensitive human issues the work addresses, probing such areas as the relationship of violence, religion and cultural formation, role of the victim in society, the challenge to look at our actions and behavior, how the music weeds the emotional-psychological affects of Susannah, and the role of the arts in social responsibility.

Tickets at $5 may be purchased at the door or in the Music Office 154-A Smith Music Hall.

Paintings by New York Artist Selina Trieff covers the art portion of February's agenda. Trieff's works will be on exhibition in the Birke Art Gallery at Marshall University Feb. 2-24, with the artist presenting a slide lecture on her work Monday evening, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. to which the public is invited.

Trieff, whose large format figurative works—five by six feet—combine the human figure, animal images and a sense of theatre, draws from historic art and mythology. Her paintings have been termed allegorical and, while representational, remain in the realm between realism and abstraction.

Located in Smith Hall on the first floor, the Birke Art Gallery is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturdays from 1-4 p.m., and Monday evenings from 7 to 9. There is no admission charge.

Three full days and evenings of jazz round out the cultural calendar. Feb. 1-3, during MU's 21st annual Jazz Festival. Smith Music Hall will be filled with the sounds of jazz each evening beginning at 8 p.m.

The festival, directed by associate professor of music J.D. Folsom, will feature the Bob Thompson Trio of Charleston on Thursday. The Tactical Air Command Jazz Ensemble, led by Chief Master Sergeant Ronald G.

Meadows, will perform Friday; and the festival will conclude Saturday with a concert by the university's Jazz Ensemble, featuring guest artists from the festival.

The concerts are free and open to the public. For complete schedule, contact the music department at 1-304-696-3117.

Morehead announces December graduates

Morehead State University's December graduates include nine Floyd County residents who completed degree requirements during the 1989 Fall Semester.

Those graduating and the degrees they received were: Susan K. Chaffin of Prestonsburg, MBE; David DeRossett II of Prestonsburg, AB; Bradford Hall of McDowell, BBA; Douglas R. Hall of McDowell, BBA; Mary L. Holbrook of Prestonsburg, BSW; Cindi B. Hughes of Langley, AME; Claude R. Robinson of East Point, BS; Kelli Stumbo of McDowell, BBA; Clarence Woods Jr. of Hippo, MBA.

Local student named to college foundation

Lee Ann Bottoms, a senior at Georgetown College and a native of Floyd County, is an appointed member of the Georgetown College Student Foundation.

The Foundation, now in its 12th year, is a student organization that helps raise student scholarship funds. Membership applications are reviewed by the current Foundation members and new members are officially appointed by Dr. W. Morgan Patterson, Georgetown College president.

Host Families, Local Coordinators Needed For Exchange Program

Host families are being sought for high school exchange students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, Brazil, Ecuador, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Thailand and Yugoslavia for the school year 1990-91 in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August 1990, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in June 1991. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking American high school students, age 15 through 17, who would like to spend a high school year in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, France, Spain, New Zealand or Australia or participate in a five-week summer host family stay throughout Western Europe.

Families interested in either program should call toll free 1-800-SIBLING.

Also participating in the exchange student program in Kentucky is the American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation. The non-profit organization is now looking for additional field staff in many Kentucky communities.

The local coordinator position provides an opportunity for flexible, part time work. Responsibilities include selecting host families, serving as liaison to schools, civic groups and local press and organizing activities for host families and students during the program year. Training and support are provided by the national office and at regional meetings.

Local coordinators receive financial compensation for every student placed and supervised, an opportunity to earn points for European travel, and the satisfaction of supporting a community-based movement to increase cross-cultural understanding.

Anyone interested in becoming an AIFS local coordinator and setting up an exchange program in their community should call Barbara Miller at 1-800-322-4678.

Student group salutes Ashland

Morehead State University's chapter of the Kentucky Education Association/Student Program recently honored Ashland Oil Inc. for its efforts to increase public awareness of the importance of education and the role of teachers. Dan Lacy, right, vice president for corporate communications, accepted the award on behalf of the firm from MSU President C. Nelson Grote. Assisting with the presentation was Dena Fannin of Sandy Hook, the student group's vice president for public relations.

David School fetes December grads

The David School graduated three high school students and 10 adult education students during ceremonies Jan. 12 at the school. Originally scheduled in December, the graduation had been postponed because of weather conditions.

Receiving high school diplomas were Freddie Hicks of Garrett, William Marsillett of Prestonsburg and Kevin Nelson of Salyersville. Nelson, who has already entered the military, officially received his diploma in an informal ceremony in December.

Adult education students recognized at the graduation were Johnny Ray Boyd, Patricia Kay Banks, Natalie Elliott, Brenda Lou Frasure, Sue Ellen Gibson, Jo Ann Goble, Brenda J. Johnson, Sharon Frances Olive, Jeffrey Lee Sammons and Zetta Tackett.

Speaker for the occasion was Frank Carlton of the school's board of directors. Teacher and counselor Marty Green also presented certificates to members of his community service class for their outstanding work.

A reception for the graduates, their families and friends followed at the school.

Hicks is the son of Dannie and Maralee Hicks, and Marsillett's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Marsillett. Nelson is the son of Ronnie and Judy Nelson.

All smiles

Freddie Hicks, left, of Garrett and William Marsillett of Prestonsburg received their high school diplomas in ceremonies recently at The David School. Also graduating, but not present for the ceremony because of military obligation, was Kevin Nelson of Salyersville.

Garrett student participates in travel study in Ecuador

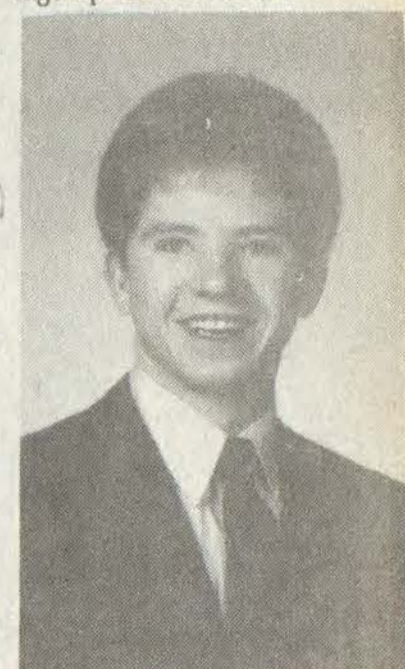

A Garrett man, Kevin Moore, was to have left Jan. 22 to study island biogeography, tropical ecology and tropical conservation as part of a Centre College off-campus trip.

Moore, son of Tandy and Dana Moore, is a 1987 graduate of the June Buchanan School at Pippa Passes. A Centre junior, he is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Twenty Centre students are participating in the three-week program, which includes travel and study in the Amazon Rain Forest, Galapagos Islands where Charles Darwin developed his theory of evolution, Volcanic National Park in Quito, Pasachoa Nature Preserve and Octoval Indian Market.

While in the region, the students will have the opportunity to participate in activities such as snorkeling off the shores of the Galapagos and fishing for piranha in the Amazon River.

KEVIN MOORE

Bottoms is intern at Georgetown

Lee Ann Bottoms of Prestonsburg, a senior communication arts major at Georgetown College, has been named as intern for the Office of Public Relations at Georgetown College, according to director Marcus C. Whitt.

As intern, Bottoms will prepare Georgetown College student news releases for hometown newspapers. In addition, she will coordinate fine arts news and events for Georgetown College.

Bottoms is a 1986 graduate of Prestonsburg High School. Georgetown College activities include the Student Foundation, Maskrafters drama group and Phi Mu Fraternity. She is the daughter of William and Jenny Bottoms of Prestonsburg.

Literacy training set

The Floyd County Literacy Council will sponsor volunteer tutor training classes Feb. 22 and 24 at St. Martha's Church on Watergap Road, near Prestonsburg.

The first session of the training program is set for 6-9 p.m., Thursday, and the continuation will be from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Saturday. Lunch will be provided on Saturday.

Persons who want to learn to teach adults to read are invited to attend the training session, which is free. For more information, call Ann Greene, literacy council coordinator.

EKU graduates two from Floyd

Two Floyd County students received degrees from Eastern Kentucky University at the end of the fall semester.

Kristina Lawson of Dana earned a master's degree in business administration and Michele Stephens of Hueysville got a bachelor's degree in fashion merchandising.

The university's 593 December graduates were honored by receptions sponsored by ECU's nine colleges on Dec. 16.

Faculty and administrators of the colleges were on hand, as well as family members of the new graduates.

Eastern holds no formal commencement ceremonies in December, but all fall semester graduates are invited back to participate in the annual spring commencement, this year scheduled for 1:30 p.m., May 12.

The new degree-holders join more than 60,000 ECU alumni in Kentucky, the region and across the United States.

Retirement is focus of UK book

by Susan Straub
UK News Bureau

Forest J. Bowman wanted to write a book about retirement that everyone could understand. He certainly succeeded with The Complete Retirement Handbook.

"People keep telling me, 'I can read this and understand it,'" said Bowman, who published the revised edition of his book this month through the University Press of Kentucky. "This really is a book for everyone who might ever retire because it examines practical things that people tend to overlook."

Comprehensive in approach, the book covers everything from the physical aging process to finances to retirement communities.

Bowman teaches a course on wills and trusts at West Virginia University College of Law, where he has been honored three times for teaching quality.

The most important piece of advice in the book, Bowman said, is to "start early when planning for retirement."

Students make Berea dean's list

Two Floyd County students have been named to the Dean's List at Berea College for the fall term. They are Kristina E. Bevins, daughter of Bill and Barbara Bevins of Printer, and Sheree Lynn Scott, a Wheelwright High School graduate and daughter of Beverly Hall of Lexington, N.C., and Clyde Scott of Ypsilanti, Mich.

To be eligible, a student must maintain a 3.0 grade average and earn grades of B or better in at least four full-credit courses, the equivalent of 16 semester hours.

"Anyone can have a nice pot of money tied up for retirement if they start early enough," said the author who advises everyone to start planning for retirement by age 35.

However, Bowman says it is possible to improve your retirement income, even if you do not start until age 60.

Bowman advises anyone planning to retire to depend on themselves, rather than the government, for financial security. "Anyone is a fool to depend on government or anyone else for retirement," he said.

Bowman is on the faculty of the West Virginia University Summer Institute on Aging, conducts retirement seminars and provides training for the West Virginia Commission on Aging.

The book is available from bookstores or from the University Press of Kentucky, 663 South Limestone, Lexington, KY 40506-0024.

TARA PERNOT

Named To Honor Roll

Tara Pernot, daughter of Ruby Pernot and the late Dr. Robert Pernot of Centralia, Ill., has been named to the high honor roll at the University of Illinois, Champaign.

She is the granddaughter of Fletcher and Delcie Gayheart of Eastern and the great-granddaughter of Bernie Gayheart of Eastern and Rhoda Napier of Riverview Manor Nursing Home.

Pernot is enrolled in the honors program at the university, studying computer engineering and pre-med. She has also been named to the James Scholar Program which consists of students who have high ACT scores, are in the upper five percent of their class and maintain a college gpa of 4.5 in a 5.0 system.

Pernot was recently awarded the Illinois State Merit Scholarship, in addition to the four-year full tuition Illinois Veteran Scholarship which she received upon high school graduation.

Clark students hear presentations on careers

A number of speakers have given presentations to Patricia Dye's class at Clark Elementary School in recent months, discussing their careers and the requirements needed for respective positions.

Charles Halfhill, an operation supervisor at Columbia Gas Company, spoke about his position, educational requirements and salary. He also gave the pros and cons of his job and emphasized the need for a good basic education for most positions at Columbia Gas.

Anne Chaney, former editor of the Floyd County Times, spoke about the various educational, professional and communication skills needed in her profession. She also stressed the need for knowledge about computers and printing presses and for a sound scientific background. According to Dye, many students expressed enthusiasm about her career as a possible choice for themselves in the future.

Oscar Ratliff of Kentucky Power Company also discussed the many career opportunities available at the company. He brought booklets for each student about careers in electricity. He stressed the importance of a good well rounded education and emphasized writing and communications skills.

Dr. Rudolph Ousley, DVM, was invited by student Jill Goble to talk to the class about his career. Goble interviewed Ousley about his basic job description, salary, educational requirements, and other aspects. Dr. Ousley's wife Teresa described a veterinarian's heavy work schedule and the demands placed on him by being on call 24 hours a day. The class also had the opportunity to see a video tape of an actual surgery.

Pam Ray, a dental hygienist who works for Dr. Fred Meece of Prestonsburg, spoke to the class about her career. Dye noted that the class was surprised to discover the amount of scientific education this career requires. Ray also spoke to the class about dental care and presented toothbrushes to each student.

Discussing career options

Oscar Ratliff, an employee of Kentucky Power Company, visited a class at Clark Elementary to discuss his career at the company and what is required of him.

Clark conservation essay winners

The Conservation Essay contest at Clark Elementary produced three winners on the topic of "Water, What's on Tap for Me?" David Baldrige (center), Jessica Allen (left), and Annie Meadows won first, second and third place, respectively. The winners will receive cash prizes and certificates at a dinner this spring. All school winners will be honored at the dinner by the Floyd County Conservation District.

Station sponsors bluegrass festival

Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, a top bluegrass music act, will headline the WMKY Bluegrass Festival, Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Morehead State University's Button Auditorium.

Opening the show will be Charlie Sizemore, a Lexington-based bluegrass musician and former Prestonsburg Community College student.

The show is being sponsored by WMKY-FM, MSU's public radio station. Tickets will go on sale at the door at 6:30 p.m.

PCC student enlists in Army

AMY JO STIFF

Amy Jo Stiff, 19-year-old daughter of Shirley Stiff of Portsmouth, Ohio, and student at Prestonsburg Community College, recently enrolled in the U.S. Army.

Stiff plans to seek a bachelor's degree in journalism.

A 1988 graduate of South Webster High School in Ohio, Stiff was a member of mixed chorus for three years; softball team for three years; track team for one year; Pep Club for two years, and Scioto County Teen Institute, two years, which trains students to educate other high school students on the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

About joining the Army, Stiff said, "It has been my goal since I was a junior in high school. The Army college fund was also a motivational force — for three years enlistment I will receive $22,800 for college."

PHS graduate Meets President

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Timothy R. Spradlin, a 1976 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, was visited by President George Bush and participated in joint exercises with the Tunisian armed forces while deployed to the Mediterranean Sea aboard the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal.

The President addressed the crew prior to the US/USSR Malta Summit. Spradlin participated in several exercises in various locations, along with other units of the Sixth Fleet.

Spradlin joined the Navy in September 1976.

Valentine's Dance scheduled at PCC

Prestonsburg Community College's Student Congress will sponsor a Valentine's Dance, Saturday, Feb. 10, at 9 p.m. to midnight in the Martin Student Center.

PCC students, faculty and staff will be admitted free. Admission for all others will be $2.

A Sobering Thought

Twenty Questions For Parents

1. Has your child's personality changed dramatically?
2. Do his or her moods change suddenly, intensely and without provocation?
3. Is your child less responsible about following instructions and household rules?
4. Has he or she lost interest in school?
5. Has your child changed friends and peer groups?
6. Are you missing money or easily sold objects?
7. Is your supply of liquor dwindling?
8. Have friends talked to you about your child's behavior?
9. Has your child been arrested?
10. Does your child strongly defend his or her right to use alcohol or other drugs?
11. Does your child "turn off" to talks about alcohol and drugs?
12. Does your youngster get into fights with others?
13. Do you detect physical signs of alcohol or drug use?
14. Does your child lie to you and others often?
15. Do you find bottles or drugs hidden around the house?
16. Is your child irresponsible in using the family car?
17. Does your child stay alone in his or her bedroom most of the time?
18. Does he or she resent questions about activities and destinations?
19. Has your child's relationships with other family members deteriorated?
20. Has your child been caught dealing in drugs or giving them to friends?

Alcohol and other drug abuse can create "Mr. Hydes" out of once happy youngsters and isolate them from those who love them. By observing your child, getting to know his or her friends, and talking to your child about problems, including drugs and alcohol, you should be able to learn whether he or she is involved. COLD FACTS

Many people persist in their belief that they can catch a cold by getting caught in the rain. The truth is, however, that colds are not spread by cold, dampness, or climate changes. Neither can a person get a cold as a result of having "lowered resistance." The fact is that colds are transmitted by physical contact. When scientists placed healthy subjects in a closed room with sneezing, coughing, cold sufferers, fewer than ten percent of the healthy subjects were infected. However, when those with colds touched their noses and then shook hands with healthy subjects, more than 75 percent got sick after rubbing their own noses or eyes. This makes a good case for hand-washing as a good cold preventive technique.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. Our records are fully computerized for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug allergies here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

HINT: Flu vaccine does not prevent against the common cold.

Faculty to play for scholarships

Faculty members in Morehead State University's department of music will use their musical talents to raise money for student scholarships at the Faculty Showcase Recital, Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. at Duncan Recital Hall.

A variety of works are scheduled for the evening, ranging from a standard concert repertoire to jazz, according to department chairman Dr. Christopher Gallaher.

Performing for the benefit will be Michael Acord, clarinet; David Anderson, saxophone; Jon Burgess, trumpet; John Viton, oboe; Jay Flip-pin and Larry Keenan, keyboards; Dr. Earle Louder, euphonium, and Gallaher, drums.

For ticket information, call the MSU music department at 783-2473.

MSU plans play

"The Real Inspector Hound," described as a comic murder mystery, will be presented by Morehead State University theatre students, Feb. 6-11 in the Kibbey Theatre on the MSU campus.

Performances are scheduled Feb. 6-10 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 11 at 2 p.m. For reservations, call 783-2170.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Some Families May Qualify
For the Earned Income Credit

These are typical of questions asked by taxpayers and are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. My neighbor says that because my income is low and we have children we may qualify for a special tax credit called Earned Income Credit (EIC). What is EIC?

A. EIC was created by Congress to allow low-income families with children to keep more of the income they earn. A major feature of the EIC is that it is refundable. That means that even after reducing the tax liability to zero, a taxpayer may still get the benefit of the credit by receiving a refund of any amount over the tax liability.

Q. What is the maximum EIC credit?
A. For tax year 1989, the maximum credit is $910.

Q. What is the maximum income level to qualify for EIC?
A. For tax year 1989, you can earn as much as $19,340 and still qualify for a credit.

Q. Is there a minimum income level to qualify for EIC?
A. Yes. Since the credit is based on earned income such as income from wages, salaries and tips, you must report some earned income on your tax return to qualify.

Q. What other qualifications are there for the EIC?
A. You must file a tax return. If your income level is low enough so that you are not required to file, you may still want to file a return to claim the Earned Income Credit. Your filing status must be either head of household, married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er). You must maintain a household in the United States and must have at least one qualifying child.

Q. Is it possible to claim the earned income credit before filing a tax return?
A. Yes. It is called "advanced earned income credit" and, if you qualify, you can get the credit in your paycheck during the year rather than waiting until after you file your return. Fill out Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," which is available from your employer or IRS.

Q. How can I find out more about EIC rules?
A. Call IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676 and ask for free Publication 596, Earned Income Credit.
