Two people were transported to a local hospital following the collision of a pick up truck and a farm tractor on the Mountain Parkway at Middle Creek yesterday. James Alex Hughes, 22, of Middle Creek was reportedly driving a tractor on the shoulder of the highway when he was struck by a pick up truck (inset) driven by L. Pinson, 67, of Toler at about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday. Both Hughes and Clifford Ann Pinson, a passenger in the pick up truck, were transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center where they were treated and released. Asbestos at complex within safe levels

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Thin layers of asbestos fireproofing recently discovered at the Green Acres housing complex in Prestonsburg were deemed not to be dangerous this week.

The asbestos was discovered during recent modifications to the buildings at Green Acres and was tested for its impact on workers and residents of the complex.

"Our findings were that we didn't have any (asbestos fiber) levels above EPA and OSHA guidelines," said Jeff Stutsman, vice president of Jerry Taylor Environmental of Lexington.

Taylor explained that the site was tested using the PCM testing method and that levels of asbestos fiber posed no danger to workers or residents of Green Acres.

The asbestos layer is located between the inner wall and the outside layer of brick and siding, according to Chris Robinson who actually conducted the on-site test for the asbestos fiber. OSHA guidelines dictate that fiber levels not exceed .10 fibers per cubic centimeter. Robinson said that levels at Green Acres were only found to be .028 with several test sites reporting levels too small to record.

"I'm not too concerned or worried about it," said Nicole Conley, a resident of Green Acres. "At least I'm not worried about it yet. From what I've heard it isn't anything to get upset over."

State Lottery share is $109 million+

Kentucky Lottery officials Friday announced that its regular quarterly payment to the state this week totaled $19,220,000.

"Kentucky coffers have been enriched by more than $109 million because of the lottery," said Russ Davidson, senior vice-president of finance. "Since our beginning, we have generated $109,220,000 to the state or about 35 percent of our total sales."

Davidson added that about $163 million has been won by players in prizes, including the 24 people who have won more than $1 million since the lottery began on April 4, 1989.

Retailers, too, have benefited from the success of the lottery and have received about $16 million in commissions for selling the tickets.

More humid

Weather looks humid, but there is rain forecast until this weekend. Picnickers plan accordingly.

Wednesday, increasing humidity, partly cloudy, high in upper 80s. Wednesday night, partly cloudy, low around 70.

Thursday, partly cloudy, high around 90. Thursday night, partly cloudy, low around 70.

Friday through Sunday, Chance of thunderstorms each day, highs 87-92 all three days, lows around 70 all three days.

The Floyd County Solid Waste Commission board meeting will be Wednesday, July 25 at the Courthouse Annex Building at 3 p.m.

New lawman in W'wright

DANNY MILLIGAN

A new face has been seen behind the city cruiser in Wheelwright since July 10. Choosing from 10 applicants, the Wheelwright City Commission unanimously voted to hire Danny Milligan of Prestonsburg to fill the vacancy left by former police chief Randy Johnson.

The 27-year-old lawman comes to the city of Wheelwright with experience as a Floyd County detective and deputy sheriff. Milligan said he intends to hold road checks for DUIs in the near future and plans to cut down on public intoxication in the area.

The new police chief will be hiring two auxiliary police officers and is going to attempt to get a state or federal grant to hire two full-timers. A 1981 Prestonsburg High School graduate, he and his wife Rita are relocating to Wheelwright.

Employment up/down

Unemployment rates for the Big Sandy region were up slightly in May from the previous month, but down from last year for the same time period, according to figures from the state Employment Services in Prestonsburg. The counties of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin recorded an average unemployment of 8.7 percent for May, as opposed to 8.6 for April and 10.9 percent for May 1989. Johnson reported the lowest unemployment with 6.6 percent and Magoffin the highest at 20.3. Floyd County registered a 7.2 percent unemployment rate and Martin, 8.5.

Fuel leak worries West P'burg residents

Prestonsburg firefighters and rescue workers were on the scene of a large diesel fuel leak Monday in West Prestonsburg.

The leak occurred when a tanker truck crossed the railroad tracks near Duncan and Hawkins streets and scraped a drainage plug from the bottom of the vehicle's fuel tanks. About 30 to 40 gallons of diesel fuel spilled into the street, according to Mike Wells of the Prestonsburg Fire and Rescue Department.

Workers covered the spill with sand and placed the contaminated substance in large containers for disposal.

Residents of West Prestonsburg were initially concerned that the diesel fuel might make its way into a supply of ammonia nitrates stored near the scene of the spill.

However, said Wells, "There was never any real danger of that happening. We covered the spill and kept traffic off the spill until we had the scene cleared. Diesel fuel is some very

Three counties involved in Pike shooting incident

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man was arrested Monday night and charged with first degree assault and possession of a handgun by a convicted felon, following a shooting incident in Pike County.

Dennis Baker, 32, of Toler's Creek was arrested at his home at 11:40 p.m. Monday. Baker is accused of shooting Delmer P. Baldrige of East Point in Johnson County.

Baker and Baldrige were reportedly having an altercation over a past business deal when Baker became hostile toward Baldrige and forced him out of the car at Cedar Gap in Pike County.

Baker reportedly pulled out a .38 caliber handgun and fired twice at Baldrige who was running away from the car the men were riding in. Baldrige was struck once in the right leg by a bullet which exited the right leg and lodged in the left leg. Baldrige managed to continue running to a resident's home from where Pikeville City Police were called.

Baker apparently fled the scene and was arrested later at his home in Toler's Creek. He was transported to the Pike County Detention Center by Trooper Greg Roberts of the Kentucky State Police and Pikeville Assistant Police Chief James Justice. He was charged with assault in the first degree and possession of a handgun by a convicted felon.

Baldrige is listed in fair condition at Methodist Hospital in Pikeville.

The shooting remains under investigation by Trooper Roberts and Pikeville police officers Richard Harris, Cal Runyon, Ray Akers, Woody Pruitt and Justice.

Jumping the tracks

A train car derailment at Auxier Friday caused temporary concern as the chemical contents spilled onto the main road through the community. Work crews spent 11 hours clearing the roadway and containing the runoff. (Photo by Tim Preston)

Auxier railroad spill contained

A railroad car filled with ammonium nitrate fertilizer overturned in Auxier Friday morning.

Officials with state Disaster and Emergency Services, along with workers from the Floyd County Highway Department, the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and CSX Transportation, worked for more than 11 hours to clear the spill.

The car was on a feeder track within about 250 feet of the Southern Explosives unloading station when the spill occurred.

"After they got the car turned back over there were between 35 and 50 tons of the material in the road," said David Chaffin, DES director. "There is a creek there that runs into the Big Sandy River, and with the heavy rain spreading the stuff around, there was some concern that it might be washed into the creek."

"But the highway department brought in sand so that we could dike around the spill, and there was no problem," Chaffin said.

With the help of an endloader borrowed from the Auxier Water Company, workers cleaned the spill up and had cleared the scene by 7:30 p.m.

Ammonium Nitrate is an odorless, crystalline substance used as an explosive agent in area coal mine operations when it is mixed with diesel fuel. The substance is completely stable and non flammable in its solid form.

No injuries were reported in connection with the spill.

Pot, pills, beer taken

Four separate raids conducted this weekend by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department netted a variety of illegal substances, including marijuana, hashish oil and Sunday beer.

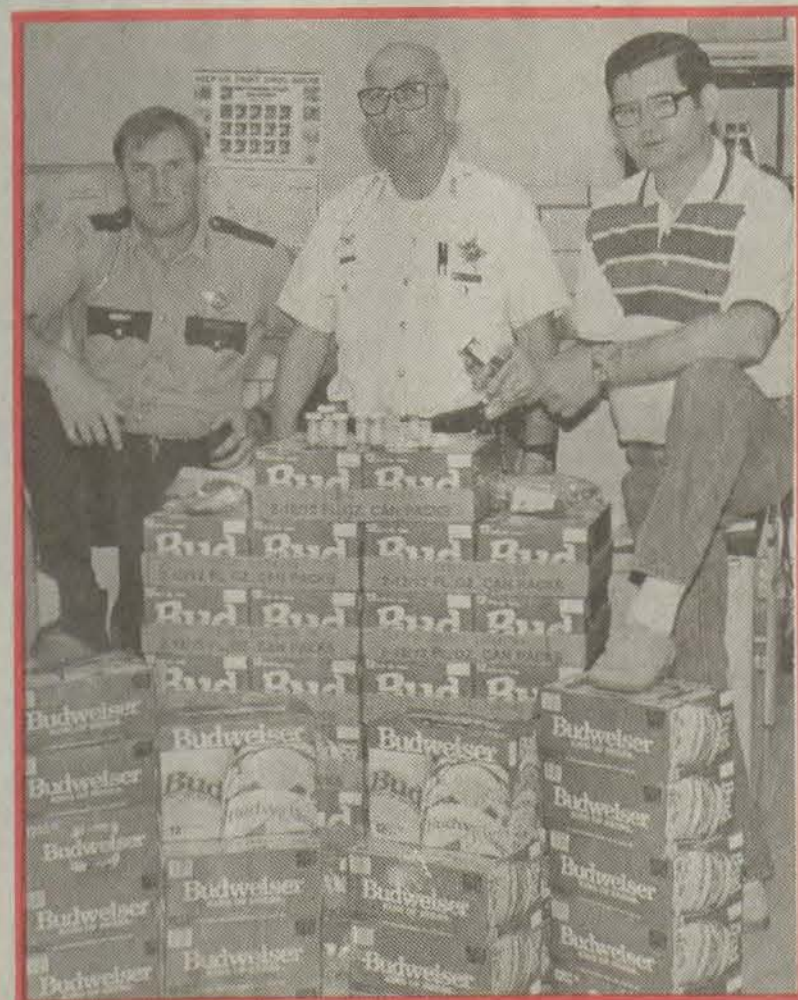

The raids were conducted in the Toler's Creek area by Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and Deputies Danny Jarrell, L. Newsome, C. Newsome, Roy Compton, Larry Shortridge, E. Rickman, Chuck Ousley and canine officer Dingo.

One raid led to the confiscation of a variety of prescription drugs in improper containers. Valium, Xanax, Flexoril and several bottles of Tylenol with codeine were seized by the officers.

Six bags of marijuana and one bag of marijuana soaked in hashish oil were confiscated along with one marijuana plant about two feet tall.

The last of the raids netted 23-1/2 cases of beer which was allegedly being sold on a Sunday, a violation of alcoholic beverage control laws.

No arrests were made in connection with the weekend raids, and investigations are continuing, according to the sheriff.

Candidate favors return of coal taxes

by Pam Shingler
Editor

While it's a given that persons running for public office must have a knack for saying what voters want to hear, Lt. Gov. Brereton Jones has made two announcements within the last week designed to endear him to Eastern Kentuckians.

Last week in a speech to members of the Kentucky Coal County Coalition at Midway, Jones, a candidate for governor, said he believes the state's coal-producing counties should receive a bigger share of the revenue generated by the coal severance tax.

Jones told the audience that local governments in the coal regions should receive 50 percent of the severance tax revenue, up from the present 12 percent.

Under current laws, the 46 counties in question are given about $21 million of the $192 million the state takes in from the tax. Jones said those counties should receive more of the money to help finance such projects as industrial parks and municipal utilities.

He cautioned, however, that the change in tax disbursement should be phased in to allow an adjustment to the loss of funds on the state level. He also said that residents of other parts of the state must come to realize that they have a stake in a healthier economy in the coal-producing regions.

In a call to The Times yesterday, Jones announced his interest in further development and upgrading of Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

"At Jenny Wiley, we have to work to restore the beach and put more picnic tables out," Jones said during the unsolicited call. "We also need to establish restrooms at the north and south entrances and do some things to spruce (the park) up and make it more desirable."

"I'd like to encourage increased attention to Jenny Wiley," he said, acknowledging that he has been

Magoffin nixes 911, gets garbage rule

SALYERSVILLE — Magoffin County Fiscal Court last week voted down a 911 emergency system and voted in mandatory garbage collection. Beginning in August, residents will have to subscribe to garbage pick up. Cost will be $6.50 per month until December when it goes up to $7.50. (The Salyersville Independent)

Varney man dies in crash

PIKEVILLE — Walter Lynn Young, 33, of Varney was pronounced dead at the scene after he apparently lost control of his car, ran into one embankment, overturned and crossed into another on the other side of the road, late last Wednesday. The accident occurred at Ford's Branch. (Appalachian News-Express)

Two separate crashes in Johnson are deadly

JOHNSON COUNTY — Two accidents last week resulted in the deaths of two Johnson County residents. Shannon Price, 17, of Meally died Friday as a result of an accident Thursday evening on KY 40. Price apparently lost control of his car, skidded over a 15-foot embankment, was thrown from the car and then pinned under it. He died at St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington.

Another Meally resident, John D. Lowe, 24, was killed when his car crossed the center line and collided with a coal truck on US 23. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Yet another vehicle death

PIKEVILLE — Jason Elswick, 40, of Virgie was killed Monday when the vehicle he was driving went off the road and into an embankment on US 23 south of Dorton. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Jenkins Community Hospital shortly after 10 a.m. (Lexington Herald-Leader) approached by local people about the needs of the state park.

"Everyone recognizes that under the (Bert T.) Combs administration, we developed one of the finest state parks systems in the country, and we have to continue to help it grow," Jones said.

"If we take care of the state parks, they'll take care of us," he added, indicating the economic potential of the tourism industry. "If we try to get by with minimum care, tourism will not be forthcoming. The state has a tremendous asset in the state park system. If not given the proper care, we won't get proper support from the parks."

Jones added in the telephone conversation that his "number one goal is to bring the different parts of Kentucky together."

Responding to criticism he says he has received for not being a native-born Kentuckian, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate said he grew up in the coal fields of western West Virginia, which makes him relate better to the problems of Eastern Kentucky than to the Lexington area.

House Okays added 23 funds

Congressman Chris Perkins has announced that the US House of Representatives, acting on the recommendation of the Appropriations Committee two days earlier, voted last week in favor of increased funding for US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

"It is encouraging that at a time when Congress has less and less money to allocate, that we have been successful both in the past and now the present in acquiring needed funds for this highway," Perkins said.

The funding approval marks the fourth consecutive year in which the Congressman has been able to secure federal money for US 23.

Perkins said that construction along the highway was scheduled to begin this year. He also noted that the $4 million funding approval now raises the total of federal funding to over half the amount requested by the Kentucky Department of Transportation, according to information provided to Perkins two weeks ago.

"These structural improvements [to US 23] are crucial to Eastern Kentucky's efforts to improve its infrastructure, its economy and its link with other states in the region," Perkins said.

The funding, part of the Transportation Appropriations Bill for fiscal year 1991, now goes to the Senate for consideration.

slippery stuff when it's spilled, so the main concern was that we keep cars and trucks off it."

Residents were afraid that the diesel and ammonia nitrate would be given a chance to combine and make a highly explosive substance commonly known as Anfo, often used as an explosive at area mining operations.

Fire and rescue workers were called to the scene shortly before 10 a.m. Monday and had the spill cleaned up by 4:30 p.m. No injuries were reported.

The truck which developed the leak is owned by Direct Transit Transport of South Dakota and is believed to have been on its way to the Christian Appalachian Project warehouse.

'40s vintage motel lost to time

by Pam Shingler
Editor

A Prestonsburg landmark for more than four decades is crumbling to dust and soon folks will try to remember what it looked like, the memory slowly fading.

Brown Motor Court, built in the 1940s when North Arnold Avenue was a busy thoroughfare, is being torn down for want of use. Once a block away from US 23, the motel was a busy place in its heyday as motorists and businessmen sought comfort and rest.

Business was less brisk when the present US 23 bypassed the motel and other stopping places cropped up closer to the highway.

But Helen Clark remembers that for many years locals irreverently referred to the inn as "heartbreak hotel" because of the number of men who needed a place to stay when "their wives put them out."

"It was always a nice place, though, and I'll miss it," said Clark who lives across the street from the once popular sight.

Having lived in the same house for some 64 years, Clark can fairly well trace its development.

Her uncle, Dave Branham, she said, constructed the large house that stands on the property, now owned by Don Chickering of Branham and Baker Coal Co.

The house, which she describes as "beautiful, with the prettiest doors," originally sat closer to the river bank but has been moved nearer the street. Branham is believed to have built the house in the 1930s.

The main part of the building, facing Arnold Avenue, was first a filling station and then "grew into a motel."

Bill and Lena Brown, who had formerly operated the old Elizabeth Hotel on First Street in Prestonsburg, are the hostelry's namesakes. They used the middle building as a laundry and turned Branham's barn, which sat farther back, into another part of the motel complex.

The Browns later sold the place to Belle Sturgill, who often provided meals to tenants, much like a boarding house, according to another neighbor, Josie Howard. "She fed them (the boarders) well and treated them really well," Howard said. "It was always full."

The motel has not operated as such for several years, but some of it was rented out as small apartments until last year, Clark said. She remembers when the last tenant moved about a year ago. Clark pointed out that several of Chickering's employees lived in the apartments for a time.

Clark said that the present owner has indicated he plans to landscape the lot. "I'll miss seeing the motel," she said, "but I know he'll do a good job on the yard and it will be pleasant to see."

Controlling the menace of mosquitoes

If mosquitoes are beginning to buzz around your house and become a general nuisance, now may be the time to declare war, according to Gene Ball, Floyd County Extension Agent.

To control these menacing insects you should first know something of their life cycles.

All mosquitoes go through four life stages: egg, larva, pupa and adult. Eggs are laid either singly or in rafts on the surface of quiet pools of water or along the edges of streams or pools where they remain until they become wet. The eggs of some of these floodwater type mosquitoes can survive long periods of drought.

Mosquito larvae or wrigglers develop in water. They come to the surface to breathe through a short tube at the end of their body. Mosquito larvae feed on micro-organisms found in the water, grow rapidly and become pupae in about seven days.

The pupae, called a tumbler, is a non-feeding stage in which the mosquito changes from larvae to the adult. Only adult females are blood feeders; most must have a blood meal before they can lay eggs. Different species have different hosts, but there are a large number that feed on humans. Mosquitoes also feed on most mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians.

The feeding habits of the female mosquitoes are not only annoying, but in some cases a bite can result in the transmission of diseases. Currently the viral encephalitides are the most important diseases transmitted by mosquitoes to man.

St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE) has caused several deaths in Kentucky in previous years. Birds provide a reservoir for the virus and it is transmitted to man when a mosquito that has fed on an infected bird subsequently feeds on a human. The major vector of SLE in Kentucky is the northern house mosquito, Culex pipiens.

Dog heartworm is a filarial disease that is transmitted by some mosquitoes to dogs and cats.

There are two groups of mosquitoes that can be pests. The Culex group is widely represented by the northern house mosquito Culex pipiens. There are container breeding mosquitoes. Females lay their eggs in rain barrels, bird baths, tin cans, old tires, car bodies, cisterns, eave troughs, catchment basins or any other small collection of water. The life cycle is short with development being completed in 10-14 days.

These mosquitoes are vicious biters and often invade homes to feed on humans. They are also bird feeders which provides the opportunity for them to transmit St. Louis Encephalitis from the bird reservoir to humans.

The Aedes group are represented by Aedes vexans, a floodwater mosquito, and Aedes sollicitans, the saltmarsh mosquito. The adult females of both of these mosquitoes lay their eggs in the mud along streams or pools. Flooding triggers egg hatch, and the larvae develop rapidly becoming adults in 8-10 days. Aedes sollicitans is especially a problem in Western Kentucky where they breed in coal mine strip pits.

Both of these species are fierce day biters that can be tremendous nuisances. These mosquitoes are strong fliers and can be found many miles from the breeding site.

Freezing changes some flavors: the potency of onion flavor decreases; that of spices and garlic increases.

Adult mosquitoes can fly long distances, therefore it is often necessary to supplement good larval control with adult control procedures.

Mechanical barriers such as screening on windows and doors or air blast doors at the entrance to dairy barns or stores will prevent adult mosquitoes from entering. Those insects that do get into structures can be killed with an aerosol space spray containing synergized pyrethrum. In other cases similar control can be obtained by using insecticide impregnated PVC strips.

Persons working or playing in mosquito-infested areas should use mosquito repellents containing ingredients such as diethyl phthalate, diethyl carbate, diethyl toluamide, and ethyl hexanediol. Check the label for these active ingredients.

Individuals can reduce the number of areas where mosquitoes can find shelter by cutting down rank weeds or grasses. Regular lawn mowing helps to reduce mosquito harborages.

Obviously shrubbery or flower plantings should not be removed, but mosquitoes can be controlled in these areas with residual insecticide sprays such as Sevin, malathion or Dursban.

Other control measures home owners should follow for mosquito control are:

— Destroy or dispose of tin cans, old tires, or other artificial water containers;

— Clean gutters and remove any standing water under or around structures, or on flat roofs.

— Change water in bird baths at least once a week and stock ornamental pools with top feeding predacious fish.

— Fill or drain puddles; be sure ditches are not seeping and clear vegetation to facilitate drainage.

— Fill tree holes or drain them.

— Place tight insect-proof covers on cisterns, cesspools, septic tanks or fire barrels where water is stored.

— Eliminate standing water around animal water troughs.

The Cabbage Patch

by Marie Harmon

It has been some time since I have written for The Floyd County Times, and I am quite thrilled to start again.

This week I would like to stress keeping your garden clean and clear of weeds and grass up to the first killing frost. Weeds and grass compete with your vegetables for nutrients, sunshine, fresh air and moisture.

Weeds have their place in the garden. Really—without them there would be no humus matter to replenish the soil. No exercise for the gardener who plows them in, pulls them up to mulch tomatoes and beans with, or plays Santa Claus with the goose-necked Hoe, Hoe, Hoe.

So many times we rush to have the earliest producing garden in the spring. Mainly to brag: I have had green beans and tomatoes, etc., so far! Our garden spots get worked when the soil is either too wet, too cold or both, doing untold damage to the soil. After a few early items, our zeal dies along with the matured garden vegetables.

We should always remove old plants and weeds from the garden. Till or plow them back into the soil. Your garden will have fewer weeds year after year as less and less are allowed to go to seed.

Never replant the same spot with the same vegetable. Set out late plants in this area, or plant corn where beans were. This will keep your garden producing until a killing frost.

Use all excess garden produce for canning, freezing, storing and sharing with those who have no garden.

With 180-210 frost-free days in this area, July is the last month you can plant with hope to harvest, with the exception of turnips, mustard and other greens which should be sowed around the middle of August.

Maybe you will lose some or all of your last planting. If so, you still come out the winner, as you have been eating out of your garden for about two and a half months longer than your one-crop neighbor. You have a deusey tan and feel great!

Now is a good time to pull any sweet potato vines loose that are taking root. If allowed to continue to grow they will "steal" nutrients from the main plant, with smaller and fewer potatoes to the hill.

Harvest all vegetables as they become mature so your plants can continue to produce.

To prevent the "home canned" taste of green beans that so many dislike, add a pinch (two or three grains) of summer savory to the top of each quart of beans before adding water. Use your own recipe and methods for great beans next winter.

To make your own V-8 juice, all that is needed, if you do not have a juicer, is to add five-10 other vegetables to your tomatoes while cooking. Strain the vegetables and pulp out with your tomato seeds and skins. Process as regular tomato juice. Each "batch" will taste a little different, but each will be good. I use onions, garlic, sweet and hot peppers, carrots, green beans, lima beans and soy beans. It is easier to juice everything except garlic, onion and pepper. Happy eating.

Clean, well cared for garden ready to start producing.

Clear first crop after harvesting and plant again in small areas.

Coordinated by Dave Chaffin and Marcia Salyer of the state DES regional office, the Federal Emergency Management Agency course covered special planning, training, equipment and liability issues associated with risks posed by hazardous materials, including Extremely Hazardous Substances (EHS). The US Environmental Protection Agency has identified 358 EHS's such as methyl isocyanate which was involved in the Bhopal, India, chemical tragedy. Each Kentucky community is believed to have varying amounts of EHS. (DES photo)

KET to feature Lynn, Gayle

Settle back for an encore of some down-home country music as coal miner's daughters and singing sisters Loretta Lynn and Crystal Gayle sashay into Symphony Hall to join John Williams and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

This Evening At Pops performance airs on KET at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 21.

In this delightful change of pace, Gayle opens the evening of country crooning with a medley highlighting her hitsong "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue."

Lynn performs "You're Looking at Country" and "Always on My Mind" and offers a tribute to Patsy Cline with a medley of hits, including "I Fall to Pieces," "Walking After Midnight," "Back in Baby's Arms," and "Crazy." Then the sisters join forces on "Coal Miner's Daughter" and a medley of songs featuring "Cry" and "Rocky Top."

In a rousing finale, the Boston Pops tops off the evening with "Sentimental Journey" and "Seventy-six Trombones."

Evening At Pops is a joint production of WGBH/Boston and the Boston Symphony Orchestra Inc.

Two join ARH

Appalachian Regional Healthcare Inc. has announced the appointments of Janelle K. Bettin and Teresa L. Burgess as Administrative Fellows. ARH fellowships provide a structured field experience which aids in preparing individuals for a health administration career.

Bettin has accepted assignment to personnel and will focus her efforts on employee training. Burgess has accepted assignment to the office of the president. Both positions are based at ARH's corporate office in Lexington.

Bettin, formerly a registered nurse at the University of Kansas Medical Center, earned a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing and a Master of Science degree in health services administration from the University of Kansas.

Burgess earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. She earned a Master of Science in Health Administration and Business Administration from the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

The hospital in McDowell is part of the ARH network.

CAN'T TAKE A JOKE?
One of the things I think the whole world loves about the United States is the sense of humor its population has. I think that's apparent by the many imitators of our humor. But in recent years I have noticed what I think is a turnaround in what we consider funny, a direction that saddens me because I think we're losing our sense of humor to cynicism.

Now before I go any further, let me make something clear. This is not an editorial. This is my column, my opinion. This will probably offend some folks who will strongly disagree with what I think. I've even got folks here at the paper who think my thoughts of what's funny are offensive not only to them, but to individual groups if the joke is told on that group.

I think that's what has contributed to our country becoming what it is now — a mixture of different races, cultures and beliefs who, despite this, have been able to laugh at themselves.

Now I have to interject this before I go any further. No, I am not an insecure, insensitive person who has never been part of a group or minority that has been the subject of good natured and sometimes characteristic jokes. I left the mountains of West Virginia and lived in the Washington, DC, area for six years. I know about all the hillbilly or West Virginia jokes that were ever told.

The first West Virginia jokes I heard later turned to Polish jokes when I came back to the mountains. So I have had jokes told on me because of my job, my ancestry, my having thin hair, my gut, where I live, etc. I think we all have been butts of jokes and I think in most instances the jokes were told with no malice, which anyone with any sense of humor enjoyed.

However, we have gotten to the point where we let other more serious and less flexible opinions control what we say. We're afraid to say anything about anybody, group, organization, because we're afraid someone will jump up and say they are offended, or they feel less than a person when this or that is said. Or if you tell "those kind of jokes" you are ignorant, uneducated, classless, unfeeling, narrow minded, bigoted, redneck, racist.

Sure we have people who are mean and go out of their way to hurt and harm individuals because of their race, where they come from or even what they belong to. They not only are vindictive with the use of the tongue, but other actions that are physical and destructive.

But humor, and most of it is good, helps relieve us from an already too serious world that can't take a joke. I believe a whole lot of laughter goes a lot further than a whole lot of criticism.

And finally, this joke titled "Hillbillies know economics." Luke Farby always said in time of economic stress a man with a big family had to do a heap of thinkin' to keep them from starvin'. What he did, he said, was pay his kids a quarter if they wouldn't eat no supper at night and then charge them a quarter for their breakfast in the morning.

Anybody offended?

Teacher,

Floyd County School System

The Floyd County Education Association (FCEA) met on Friday, July 13, to prepare plans in the effort to get a 10 + 10 raise for the coming school year.

Acting president Bud Reynolds emphasized that there is more involved than a pay raise. He said, "Teachers are attempting to open up the Floyd County School System. We want to be involved in decisions that affect the children we teach daily. We feel we have talents and capabilities that are not being utilized by our administrators. We know better than anyone what our children need."

FCEA has compiled these 10 points on which the members wish to negotiate with the Floyd County Board of Education:

1. Task Force made up of teachers, students, parents and community leaders to plan for implementation of House Bill 940
2. Department heads
3. Content area specialists to assist teachers
4. Professional treatment
5. Teacher aides (any thing that might help eliminate time wasted by teachers, freeing them for classroom instruction)
6. Promotion/Merit to be on performance of person in question, free from political affiliation
7. Consistency of programs and materials among schools
8. Fair, adequate and meaningful evaluation of teachers by qualified people in their areas of instruction
9. Open communication between Floyd County

Board of Education, administration and classroom teachers concerning instructional decisions, directions and implementation of instructional form —10. Input and participation in determining district-wide budget priorities.

The educational association decided to continue with petitions to businesses and the citizens of Floyd County. FCEA felt that many people in the county are not fully aware of the efforts to restructure our schools. To this end, they prepared a list of information (and questions) that the organization feels teachers and the general public need to know.

The Floyd County School System will be receiving $4.7 million additional dollars for the 1990-91 school year.

How do you, the taxpayer, want this money to be spent?

Did you know that the Floyd County principals received a $10,000 raise four years ago? Under a proposed plan the average salary for principals in Floyd County will be $48,000. The proposed average salary for teachers will be $28,000.

Do you realize that 18 administrators will make approximately one million dollars. With this same amount of money, 32 experienced teachers could be hired. Do our board members value the administrators more than the teachers who actually teach our children?

Citizens, do not be misled. The tax increases were enacted by the state legislature to implement House Bill 940 to restructure our educational system. The 10 + 10 increase that the teachers are asking for would come from state monies. The $4.7 million is adequate to cover the raise that the teachers are asking for.

Someone Please Save Me

From Thursday

I am living in fear of Thursday. Not every Thursday, just this Thursday, tomorrow. The day that the girls in advertising scheduled me for a haircut.

Let's start at the beginning, shall we?

A couple of weeks ago Susan began her series of Tim abuse jokes with the never popular theme of "You need a Haircut."

This became a bit of an obsession with Sue as she needed me endlessly about how good my hair would look in one of those swept-back, short-on-the-top, young executive-type haircuts. There was no escape. I knew I was in trouble, however, when she volunteered to actually pay for the aforementioned swept-back, short-on-the-top, young executive-type haircut.

Knowing that Sue is not what you would call overpaid, I thought her offer was a futile threat at best. I thought, "By the time that she can afford to pay for an extra haircut, this stuff will be hanging halfway down my back."

I entertained that thought until I saw the box labeled, "Preston Haircut Fund."

Sue or one of her cohorts had taken a Pop Tarts box, covered it with paper and decorated it with pictures of things like scissors and electric hair clippers. It was placed conspicuously in the break room at the office and was quickly being filled with the pocket change and spare dollar bills of my beloved coworkers.

It soon dawned on me that there was simply no way out.

Don't get me wrong, I want and need a haircut. I just don't want to actually have to be there when it happens.

Anyway, the girls made an appointment with a hairdresser/stylist/beautician/cosmetologist whose work is very reputable and told me to start thinking about what styles I might like.

I am kind of partial to the Mohawk look, or maybe one of those really close shaved cuts that high school football players get, you know the ones with numbers and symbols carved in the side.

I really like the idea of having my hair done like Vivian of the British television show "The Young Ones." That style basically entails three large spikes of hair, one on either side of the head with one large one on top.

I'm told that I need a style that projects a positive image of myself and the newspaper.

I think the girls are just jealous because I have more hair than they do. Which leads me to think that when I sit down in the chair for my haircut, the girls are going to slip the stylist/beautician/cosmetologist/barber an extra five bucks and instruct her to give me a flat top.

Paranoia? Could be.

Just remember though, it pays to be paranoid when the whole world is out to get you.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

MEETING OUR HOUSING NEEDS WITHOUT FRAUD, WASTE

Communities across Kentucky and the nation are struggling to overcome one of our most serious human problems — the lack of adequate and affordable housing for millions of Americans, including a growing number of children.

I strongly believe that our federal government has an obligation to become an effective partner in these desperately needed efforts.

But I also believe that our government must take care to become an honest partner by protecting its housing programs from the fraud and waste we have seen in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the federally insured savings and loan industry in many parts of our nation.

I am pleased to report that the Senate recently passed the National Affordable Housing Act in a long overdue move to create this honest and effective partnership. I hope that this legislation will be approved by the Congress and signed by the President without delay. And I hope that it soon will begin to end a plague of homelessness that already has touched the lives of well over 40,000 individuals in Kentucky alone.

The National Affordable Housing Act can reverse a decade of neglect — a decade in which federal housing programs were cut by more than half when they should have been strengthened to meet a developing crisis in housing for low and middle-income Americans.

Our Senate bill renews farsighted investments in alleviating human suffering, stabilizing trouble-plagued families and reducing the immense cost of social problems related to inadequate housing, homelessness and despair.

It creates a Housing Opportunity Partnerships with state and local governments and the private sector to increase federal investments in affordable housing. States and localities would share in these investments in new and rehabilitated housing, with the emphasis on rehabilitation. They would establish highly flexible, five-year plans to meet their own housing needs in rural as well as urban areas.

Our bill consolidates a mishmash of nine existing programs into a single partnership and creates a unified HUD operation to ensure strict program accountability and funding control.

It imposes a two percent capital requirement on the Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance fund and includes other provisions to strengthen that fund. This should help to ensure that we never face an FHA bailout even remotely similar to the intolerably expensive savings and loan bailout in progress today.

Our goal is to start making sound investments in truly productive housing initiatives to replace the incredibly wasteful and often corrupt programs of recent years.

The National Affordable Housing Act meets the needs of lower-income families in many ways. It includes improved rental assistance, an expanded role for the Farmers Home Administration and a HOPE program designed to help struggling families buy public housing units and other property controlled by HUD.

We must begin to overcome homelessness and reclaim the cherished American dream of home ownership. I see this legislation as a very reasonable down payment on that dream.

McConnell's Comments

By Sen. Mitch McConnell

LEGISLATION WILL HELP FIND MISSING CHILDREN

Last week the US Senate unanimously accepted legislation I proposed that establishes a national clearinghouse for information on every report of a missing child in the United States.

My amendment, known as the National Child Search Assistance Act of 1990, requires law enforcement agencies to funnel data on missing children to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) in Washington, DC. From the NCIC, legal authorities will be able to access up to the minute information on missing children 24 hours a day.

The National Child Search Assistance Act of 1990 is only the latest step I have taken in my fight to protect America's children. Since coming to Washington in 1984, I have become one of the pointmen for child protection legislation in the Senate, introducing or sponsoring nearly every child protection bill that has become law in the 99th, 100th and 101st Congresses. I have testified before both the Senate Judiciary and Senate Labor and Human Resources committees, which share jurisdiction on this issue, on the need for constant vigilance in the protection of our children.

As an active participant in a number of national organizations and task forces established to develop and advocate more effective child protection policies, I have testified before the Attorney General's Commission on Pornography on the harm that pornography inflicts on children; I am also a member of the Senate Children's Caucus and assisted in advancing the Caucus' flagship legislation, the Young American's Act.

The National Child Search Assistance Act of 1990 represents another tool our police officers can use to tear down the wall of horror that revolves around the missing children problem. Creating a national center for collecting information on child disappearances will not only enhance and streamline our ability to access information and collect valuable statistics for analysis, but most of all it will help find our missing children.

Witnesses miracle

Dear Editor,
Last Sunday night services were very wonderful at the Church of God of Prophecy.

About the middle of the service someone noticed Bro. Jack Yates was slumped over and his eyes were closed. Pastor Arner Whittaker went to investigate.

Dr. Allen Smith looked for a pulse and found none and said that, indeed, Bro. Yates was dead.

The saints of God began to pray and seek God for Bro. Yates. After about five minutes of prayer we saw his eyes move and life began to come back to Bro. Yates. He stood up on his feet and said he felt no pain. Bro. Yates has had heart trouble before.

Bro. Yates spoke openly to the church. He said, "I was there in heaven with Jesus and he told me to go back, that I was needed for the last days' work."

God has been doing signs and wonder in the church: cancers healed, spines and bones mended and the casting out of devils and many more.

I thank God for our pastor, Arner Whittaker, and his family, a builder of faith for the saints of God. Bro. Yates, we appreciate you, that Jesus gave you back to the church. We give Jesus all the glory.

Those who witnessed the raising of the dead were Pastor Whittaker, Pam and Charity and Josh; Geneva Carter, Mabel Wiley, Tommy and Sue Chamberlin's sons, Tommy Jr. and Shane; Deacon Guyland Meade and Thelma Meade, Victoria Meade, Betty Kendrick, Evangelist and Mrs. Allen Smith, Linda and Brandon Smith, Erma Perry, Elence Howes, Charles Hayes and the wife of Bro. Yates, Annette Yates.

Education is 'two-way street'

Dear Editor,

Hurrah for Pam Shingler! I loved her lecture #3 (F.C. Times, Friday, July 13). If my students read it, I'm sure they thought I wrote it, since I've said it to them many times. You made good points, Pam, and I commend you for the things you said.

We sometimes forget that the process of education is a two-way street. True, the teacher should be trained in the subject matter and ready to present this to the student. The teacher should have a plan of activities to enhance the learning of this material and a follow through to see the effects of this learning. But is this all? Certainly not! If I see a doctor and he prescribes medication, I must take the medicine. If a lawyer takes my case, I must give him the facts with which to work. Even then, the doctor and the lawyer have other resources; hospitals, nurses, courts, juries, etc.

Why then, can we think the teacher alone has the responsibility for education? We think nothing of millions spent on space telescopes, ball player contracts, super highways and such. But if a teacher needs materials or enlists your support with your child's study habits, you say "that's your job, not mine!"

You can no longer live in this state of apathy! Our county is suffering, as is our state, and certainly, our country! Education is as essential to the progress of our society as is the home in which we live. But it cannot be done by a few. We must all be a part of this important function. Don't tell me you can't do a thing with your child... what do you expect me to do when I have him one hour a day... that is, if he isn't absent with your permission! Help your schools! Be interested in the process of education. Back the good teacher and demand he be paid well for his talent. If your child has a teacher who isn't doing his job, scream to the high heavens until you get him out of your child's life!

Demand the very best of your elected board members... after all, you did elect them. Demand the best... this is your child's life and future, your child's chance for a better life. Give the best of yourself. Allow time for teacher conferences, PTA or Academic Boosters. You have the time for ball games, so your schedule can't be too crowded. Your job as a parent is the welfare of your child. Education is a vital part of that welfare.

Floyd County has an excellent chance to bring our schools to the highest level ever. It will take the teacher plus the board plus the community to see that this achieved. I'm ready... are you?

O.K. Pam, ready for Lecture #4?

Enjoys keeping up

Dear Editor,

I have really enjoyed this paper. This past year, I have been sick for so long and I can keep up with family and friends this way.

Kevin Spurlock and Cotton Parsons, the ball players from Allen Central, are my nephews. And Coach Denzil Halbert is a dear friend.

Thanks for all the good reading and coverage of everything. Best wishes to all you wonderful people in Floyd County — I love you. (I lived in Martin for 21 years.)

Applying for social security benefits

by Jim Kelly
 Social Security District Director
 For the Big Sandy Area

If you plan to apply for Social Security retirement benefits, but can't visit a Social Security office, you can apply by telephone.

Social Security personnel will take the necessary information over the phone and arrange to complete your application by mail.

You can call your Social Security office and make arrangements to file your claim by telephone.

You should apply for retirement benefits at least two or three months before you plan to stop working. This will help assure that your benefits will start the month of your retirement. The first check should be received early in the month after the first full month of your retirement.

You will need certain documents to establish your eligibility for benefits. They include your Social Security card or a record of the number and your birth certificate. These documents must be original records or copies certified by the agency that issued them.

If you do not have the original records or certified copies, you should call your Social Security office so we can advise you in obtaining your proofs. Marriage records, divorce records, as well as the military service record DD-214, are needed if they apply to you.

You should also have your Form W-2 for the preceding year, or, if you are self-employed, a copy of your Schedule SE. The reason is that most recent reports of your earnings may not yet have been recorded in Social Security records.

If you have any more questions, you can contact the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory under US Government. The people there will be glad to answer any questions.

Card of Thanks

The family of Lula Hatfield Jones wish to thank all the people who helped to make the passing of our dear mother a little easier to bear. We will never forget all the people who visited, brought food, sent flowers or comforted us during our time of sorrow. We extend special thanks to Dr. Mary Hall and the nurses at McDowell Hospital for the loving care they gave our mother. Also thanks to the ministers of the Regular Baptist Church. As always, thanks to Johnny Hall and his staff for the kind, professional service they have given our family once more.

LULA HATFIELD JONES FAMILY

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Arnold Cooley express thanksgiving and gratitude to the many friends and relatives who supported us in our time of bereavement. We are grateful for all the help, kindness and expressions of sympathy through food, flowers, calls and cards. Also for all who showed care by their presence.

We are thankful to the Floyd Funeral Home, Rev. Jack DeRossett, Robert & Virginia DeRossett and all other singers. My thanks to Orville Cooley and Edd Kuss and pallbearers.

Myrtle Baisden and Cooley Family

Card of Thanks

The family of John Harrison Blair would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one who helped in any way during the loss of our beloved father. To those who sent food and flowers or just came to be with us, we thank you. To Brother Jim Smith and Brother Virgil Hunt and singers of the Free United Baptist Church for the beautiful music. To Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service. We will never forget your kindness, may God bless each and every one of you.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN H. BLAIR

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to extend our sincere appreciation to all those who helped in any way during the illness and death of our loved one, Edna Collins. We thank you Dr. Browning, Dr. Edwards, Dr. Dominguez and all the nurses on the 3rd floor of Humana Hospital-Louisa, those who sent food, flowers or contributed in any way. Your kindness, sympathy and prayers have been greatly appreciated. Thanks to Hondel Adams, pastor of the 1st Christian Church, for your comforting words and Jones-Preston Funeral Home for all that you did to help us in our sorrow. May God Bless you all.

The Family

Card of Thanks

The family of Alta M. Whittaker wish to convey their gratitude for the many expressions of sympathy shown by friends, neighbors and relatives. Her life touched all that knew her in a way that will never be forgotten; she is only, "Gone Away With A Friend."

Sister first to take final vows in region

by Elizabeth Bishop
Sister Kathleen Weigand of the Dwelling Place Monastery in Martin became the first sister to be fully received into a religious community in Floyd County when she took final vows July 7.

Having lived at the monastery since 1985, Sr. Kathleen has worked at St. Martha's Catholic Church as a pastoral minister. Her duties included visiting many of the people in the area, helping with Christmas baskets and various duties required by the church. She is a full time student at Prestonsburg Community College, majoring in early child development.

Sr. Kathleen, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., came to Eastern Kentucky in 1978 as a volunteer for the Christian Appalachian Project based in Lancaster. Later as an employee, job responsibilities brought her to Floyd County where she first met the Sisters of The Dwelling Place Monastery at Blue River. She joined the community in 1985. During the past five years, she has lived a life of prayer and study, learning the way of life of the Sisters of St. Benedict.

In 1987, she took "temporary vows" in which she began the preparation for permanent commitment to live her life for God in a monastic community.

During the ceremony Saturday, Sister Kathy Huber, Prioress of the Convent Immaculate Conception of Ferdinand, Ind., and Monastery Superior Sister Judy Yunker of the Dwelling Place Monastery accepted the vows of stability, obedience and fidelity to the monastic life.

Sr. Judy explained the vow of stability is a commitment to the local monastery. This includes commitment to both the religious aspect and the geographic area. Fidelity to monastic life encompasses community members in a common life of prayer and work, in addition to poverty and chastity. The vow of obedience means that these religious sisters will live their life according to the rule of St. Benedict, founder of the order.

During the ceremony in which Sr. Kathleen professed lifetime commitment, Sr. Judy placed the community ring on her finger symbolizing "the community's commitment to Sister Kathleen as she commits herself to God."

In addition to the Mass and ceremony in which the Bishop of Lexington Diocese Kendrick J. Williams was the celebrant, an Eastern Kentucky style celebration took place with a pig roast and square dance.

The Dwelling Place Monastery was established in Floyd County in 1982 as a dependent monastery of Convent Immaculate Conception of Indiana. The monastery is now in the process of seeking independence. Its members include Sr. Judy Yunker, Monastic Superior and part time employee of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Sr. Eileen Schepers, case manager at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Sr. Kathleen, Sr. Carolyn Lambert, Child Care worker at MCCC, and Sr. Nancy Sherman, elementary teacher at St. Francis School in Pikeville.

Sr. Kathleen expressed sincere thanks for the prayer and support of her family, friends and all the people of Floyd County who helped her reach this historic day in the life of the Sisters of St. Benedict of Floyd County.

The Dwelling Place Monastery is located on the top of Mount Tabor on Bucks Branch in Martin.

Reunions

Owsley Family

The 27th annual Isaac N. and Millie Jane Owsley family reunion took place at the Miamisburg Mound Park, Miamisburg, Ohio, June 30, with 84 members and 10 guests present. The Owsleys formerly resided in Estill.

Officers presiding were president Cecil Edwards, vice president Margaret Edwards, both of Middletown, Ohio, and secretary-treasurer Wonda Sheffield of Wellington, Ohio.

Postcards of a reproduced snapshot of the Jerry and Martha Owsley family were sent to all family members to announce the reunion date.

After a bountiful meal, silent prayer was held in remembrance of loved ones, followed by prayer by Bro. Dencil Owsley. The business meeting was presided over by vice president Edwards. Secretary-treasurer Sheffield, in addition to reading the minutes, also read a postcard of greetings from honorary family member, Oliver Schein of Dietzenbach, West Germany.

With no children of Mr. and Mrs. Owsley present, silver dollars were awarded to Martha Owsley of Estill for eldest member present and to Cody Trager, whose parents reside in Wellington, as youngest descendant present. Silver dollars were donated by Lilly Terry of Huron, Ohio, for the 1990 and 1991 reunions.

The proposed date of Saturday, June 22, 1991, was set for next year's reunion, again to be held at the park in Miamisburg. Election of officers resulted in David Pennington of Columbus, Ohio, chosen as president; Bob Sheffield of Norwalk, Ohio, vice president, and Laurie Gayheart, Washington Courthouse, Ohio, secretary-treasurer.

Family members present from Kentucky were Larry and Debi VanHoose, Laura and Isaac of Somerset; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carter, Dayton; Kenneth and June Hutchinson, Estill; Michael and David White, Estill; Gary VanHoose and Lara, Lexington.

From Ohio: Ron and Pam Temple, Tonya and Shane, of Carlisle; Linda Hoerner and Danielle, Miamisburg; Marsa Skinner, Samantha and Adam, Wellington; Paul and Wonda Sheffield, Wellington; Bob and Diane Sheffield, Amanda and Tesia, Norwalk; Todd and Kim Rowland, Michelle and Erin, Homerville; Bruce and Ruth Edwards and Jessica, Sullivan; Dencil and Vertie Owsley, Franklin; Rhonda Beculheimer and Chad, Franklin; Lorain Mosley and Lisa Tolson, Franklin; Cecil and Margaret Edwards, Middletown; David and Becky Pennington, Steven, Chris and Michelle, Columbus; Joe and Sandra Clark, Kyle, Ashley and Betsey, Cincinnati; Priscilla Moland, David and Kelli, Camden; Tim and Laurie Gayheart, Wendell, Travis and Jessie Ann, Washington Courthouse; Tim and Terri Brubaker, Wellington; Judy Trager, Steven, Alex and Cody, Wellington; Ken and Pam Lafferty, John and Jennifer, Franklin; Jim Edwards, Middletown; David Sikora, Jeff and Greg, Wellington, and Jerry and Lois Sikora, Wellington.

From Indiana: Martha Owsley, Harold and Ruby Jones, Bill J. Owsley, and Earl Owsley, all of Marion; Susan Owsley of Gas City, and Donald and Deborah Owsley of Hartford City.

Guests were Ryan Mahaffey, Virginia Sizemore, Laurie Howell, Nick Henry, Lushelle Smith and Harold Dunn, all of Franklin, Ohio; Tony Wedage and Angela Carter of Kentucky; LaGina Kemper of Gas City, Ind., and Jenny Mares of Columbus, Ohio.

Robinson, Brown

The Robinson and Brown Family Reunion will be Friday, July 20 and Saturday, July 21.

On Friday there will be a swimming party at the Archer Park swimming pool. Those attending are asked to bring a snack or a dessert and soft drinks. Sandwiches will be provided.

On Saturday the day kicks off at noon with a family recognition time. At 1 p.m., a covered dish lunch will be served. Family members are also asked to bring soft drinks. After lunch there will be games.

From 4:30-6:30 p.m. the skating rink has been reserved at Archer Park. From 7:30-9:30 p.m. a period of reminiscence of the past is planned at the Spurlock Bible Church under the direction of Dan Heintzelman. A slide show will be featured, including some singing and reminiscing. The church will be open to friends as well as family.

Family members are asked to bring a small picture in a frame of a loved one who has died to be placed beside the altar for a memorial service. Pictures will be returned. Anyone who has extra of such pictures can submit them for a family tree and album.

Anyone needing further information can contact any of the following: Charlotte Crum at 886-2242, Eliza Dotson at 886-3318, Bonnie Dotson at 886-8258, Barbara Slone at 886-6765 or Peggy Prater at 886-2733.

Bentley Family

The Bentley Family Reunion was held June 30 at the Charlie Bentley farm at McDowell. About 100 persons attended the enjoyable event.

A Bentley family genealogy was contributed by Euge Martin and was enjoyed by all who received one. Food, games and prizes were featured, and old acquaintances were renewed and new ones made.

The master of ceremonies for the event was a cousin, Ruth Ann Honaker of Catlettsburg. She also entertained by dancing. Another cousin, Myrtle B. Newsome, also danced the Charleston.

Christian songs were led by Carl Bentley and Gary Moore, with the cousins joining in to help sing. Pictures were taken of all the families present.

Prizes were given in several categories. They were: oldest person present, Lexie Harrington; youngest person, Katy Bentley; person with the most children present, Vernace Bentley; person with the most grandchildren, Myredia B. Armstrong; person who had been married the longest, Macel Thornsberry; person who traveled the farthest, Patti Conley; champion horseshoe pitchers, Randy Looney and Bill Cooper; couple married the shortest time, David Bentley and Kim Bentley.

The family plans to have the event again next year.

Hopkins Family

The descendants of James Calloway and Mary Elizabeth Hopkins will meet Sunday, Aug. 5, at the convention center at Allen Park in Allen. Registration will begin at 10 a.m.

Participants are to bring a covered dish and drinks. Dinner will be a 1 p.m., and good music will be provided.

For information, contact Denver Osborne at Hi Hat, 377-6772.

Leslie Reunion

The annual Leslie Family Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 12, at the Pikeville High School cafeteria. Family members are asked to bring a covered dish. Festivities will begin around noon. For more information, contact Rebecca Bowles at 432-1557.

Vietnam veterans reunion to spotlight huge flag

A new POW/MIA flag thought to be the largest ever made will have its first official unfurling at the second annual Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Reunion, July 20 and 21 at the Water Tower (Zorn Avenue, off I-71) in Louisville.

The flag which measures 30 feet by 45 feet and weighs 92 pounds was made possible through private contributions by veterans and organizations. The flag is too large for any flag pole and will be displayed between two fire truck aerial ladders.

Cindy Dumas, chairperson of the reunion and a nurse who served in Vietnam, said that the display of this POW/MIA flag at the Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Reunion is most appropriate as there are still 2,302 MIA's from the Vietnam war with 22 of those being from Kentucky.

The flag, she said, serves as a reminder to continue the efforts being made to have POW/MIA's returned to America.

More than 3,000 Vietnam-era veterans and their families and friends are expected to take part in the annual reunion. This year's reunion will feature helicopters, a POW/MIA ceremony, live entertainment, veteran information booths and speakers on veterans' issues.

60 now magic age for discounts

Kentuckians who have celebrated their 60th birthday are now eligible to participate in a voluntary discount program offering reduced prices to eligible adults.

House Bill 108, passed by the 1990 General Assembly, expands Kentucky's existing Senior and Physically Disabled Adult Discount Program by lowering the age of eligibility for elder Kentuckians from 65 to 60.

The discount program was established by the 1980 legislature for senior citizens 65 and older and placed in the state Department for Social Services Division of Aging Services. The program was previously expanded in 1989 to include people, age 18 or older, with a congenital or acquired condition that is medically diagnosed as a substantial disability.

Aging Services director Sue Tuttle stressed that one important aspect of the program has never changed. "Participation by Kentucky retail merchants, businesses and services providers has always been and remains completely voluntary," said Tuttle.

"However, there is no indication that reducing the age of eligibility to 60 will have any impact on the number of Kentucky businesses which offer such discounts."

Identification cards for Kentuckians who have met the criteria for reduced rates under this program are available through the more than 200 senior citizens centers across the state.

Driver's ed class to begin July 26

A new session of driver's education classes will begin on Thursday, July 26, at 6 p.m. at Prestonsburg Community College.

The class, open to anyone 16 years old or older who has a learner's permit, is designed to help participants learn to operate an automobile competently and according to Kentucky law in preparation for the driving examination for an operator's license.

According to instructor John

Noakes, after the first class meeting which consists of classroom instruction and discussion, six individual driving sessions will be arranged to fit each participant's schedule and goals. The on-the-road instruction takes place in a specially equipped driver's education car.

For more information, call the Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Wood industry focus of Morehead seminar

Morehead State University's Office of Wood Technology, Kentucky Economic Development Cabinet and the Kentucky Forest Industries Association will cosponsor a program for companies interested in the hardwood dimension industry in late July.

The program will consist of two one-day sessions, the first to be held on July 25 at the Greenwood Executive Inn in Bowling Green and the following day, July 26, at the Ramada Inn in London.

According to Robert Bauer, MSU wood technologist, hardwood dimension is the process of taking lumber and putting it into any form that can be utilized by a furniture company or plant to be made into a product, such as legs for chairs.

"The main purpose of the program is to try to get people to add more value to their lumber," said Bauer.

Topics will include investment and production requirements for hardwood dimension, raw material supply, yield, product pricing, marketing, investment and personnel requirements.

Experts in the field will be on hand to present discussions and to answer questions. The program will allow time for interaction between speakers and the audience.

Additional information is available by calling Bauer at (606) 783-2023.

"WE SELL KENTUCKY"

When Embry's needed a new health insurance company, they returned to a familiar label.

A few years back, Embry's of Lexington left Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky for another health insurance company. They said our rates were too high.

In 1989, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky welcomed a new client — Embry's of Lexington. Now, why would a company who left us want to come back?

Embry's learned the hard way that some health insurers lure new business with low rates the first year — often to follow up with steep rate hikes in succeeding years.

So Embry's signed up with us again. For a fair price. For value. For service. For the most recognized health care card in Kentucky. And Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky has taken steps to insure that Embry's — as well as companies across the commonwealth — joins the growing number of businesses that stay with us year after year.

We're concerned about rising health care costs. So we're working with our customers to control claims, cut administrative costs and keep our company on sound financial ground. We want to deliver the best value in health insurance possible — a value that will build strong, long-term relationships with every customer we have

We have not reached all our goals. Not yet. But we're on our way. Choose us again, or for the first time. And choose the health plan companies across Kentucky are coming back to.

Stanton slates Corn Festival

Guaranteed to be the corniest festival ever, the Stanton Tourism Action committee is hosting the first annual Stanton/Powell County Corn Festival July 28-29 at the Stanton-Powell County Community Park.

Activities include arts and crafts booths, cloggers, live music, and a genuine moonshine still on display. Among the contests are corn on the cob eating, best scarecrow, corn cob pipesmoking and crowning of a Corn Festival Queen.

Also, the committee is working on what it hopes to be the world's biggest popcorn ball.

Plan to attend this fun-filled event. In case of rain, the event will be held indoors.

Courtesy rides highways of "road warrior" mentality

Common courtesy and cooperation are important elements in safe driving. Let's return our highways to safe avenues — where all motorists can enjoy the pleasures of travel.

Violence on the nation's highways is turning once fun-to-drive roads into battle zones where tempers flare and motorists forget common courtesy in their desire to be king of the road.

From speeding to tailgating to failure to yield on freeways, traffic violations are taking their toll. In 1988, speeding was a primary factor in 61 percent of 49,000 recorded fatalities. Failure to yield right of way accounted for another 11.3 percent. And 20 percent of all persons killed were pedestrians.

What happens? Someone tries to cut in a long line of traffic. Drivers shout back and forth between cars. Tempers flare, fists fly. Sometimes, gunfire erupts. Results can be tragic, even fatal.

What's wrong? Highways are crowded. Drivers are reluctant to slow down. And today's pace forces people to hurry. Gone are the days of courteous driving — when motorists respected each other.

It's time now to do something about the "Road Warriors," those drivers guilty of discourteous, rude and "dirty" driving.

AAA recommends these tips to courteous driving:

- Know the rules and stay alert.
- Don't drink and drive
- Obey speed limits.
- Anticipate traffic congestion and allow plenty of time.
- Yield right of way.
- Don't tailgate.
- Use turn signals to communicate; don't engage in shouting matches.
- Use headlights properly.
- Don't be a frequent lane changer.
- Keep your vehicle fit.
- Don't block intersections or driveways

Remember, also, to control your emotions. They affect your ability to think and reason, and they are contagious. If you're emotionally upset, don't drive. If you encounter an emotionally distraught driver, ignore them. — Do not engage in verbal or aggressive behavior.

If you are tied up in a traffic jam, use the time constructively. Mentally review your plans for the day, listen to soothing music or practice relaxation techniques.

Slone swings hard

Marsillett bats Prestonsburg to 10-0 shutout of BC North

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars kept rolling during the All-Star tournament at Inez Monday afternoon as they ran past the Beaver Creek North team, 10-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Jeremy Osborne. William Marsillett carried the big bat for the Prestonsburg All-Stars, picking up three hits in the contest, including a fourth inning solo home run.

The loss eliminated the Beaver North team from the All-Star tournament leaving Prestonsburg as the lone representative of Floyd County in the All-Star Classic.

Prestonsburg jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a double by Jeremy Osborne, a walk to Marsillett. Both runners crossed home plate on a two-run double by Ricky Lemaster.

Prestonsburg extended its lead to 3-0 with a single run in the second. Mike Castle reached on an error at first base. After Shawn Davis struck out, Jeremy Osborne got his second hit of the game, driving in Castle.

North put two runners on in the top of the third on walks, but Osborne struck out Larry Hunter to end the inning.

In the Prestonsburg third, Jason Hackworth drove in two runs with a base hit. Bennett Allen led off with a single, and Lemaster was hit by a pitch from Kevin Robinson. Jason Osborne walked to load the bases, and after Chris Hicks fanned, Hackworth delivered his two-run single. Hackworth later scored on a base hit by Mike Castle to make it 6-0.

Prestonsburg scored a lone run in the fourth inning, after Beaver North went out in order in the top of the inning. The run came on Marsillett's solo home run, a shot over the left center field fence.

In the Beaver North fifth, Tim Belley led off with a walk and was forced at second base on a grounder by Shannon Slone. Slone then was thrown out trying to steal second. Jonathan Scarberry walked, and Kevin Robinson struck out ending the frame.

Jason Hackworth's triple got things under way for the Prestonsburg All-Stars in the bottom of the fifth inning. Hackworth scored on Mike Castle's ground ball to short. Davis walked and after Jeremy Osborne struck out, Marsillett singled to drive in Davis. Marsillett crossed home plate on a base hit by Allen.

Beaver North collected only three hits in the game, a first inning single by Shannon Slone, Jamie Potter's second inning single and Brad Allen's double in the second. Osborne then gave up no hits the next five innings.

Osborne struck out eight batters in getting the win. Robinson fanned seven while taking the loss.

Prestonsburg will advance to the semifinals of the tournament in a game against Magoffin County. Besides Magoffin and Prestonsburg, Morgan County and Paintsville remain in the tournament. The finals are scheduled for Friday evening.

The Beaver North team represented the area well, winning in first round play over a good Harold-Allen-Prater team. North lost to Paintsville in the second round of play to drop to the losers' bracket.

In an earlier game against the Martin County All-Stars, Jason Osborne fired a one-hitter as the Prestonsburg team blitzed the Martin County team, 30-0. The only hit for Martin County was bloop single to left field by Duncan in the third inning.

Castle's 5th inning homer leads HAP past Beaver South, 5-1

The Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) Little League All-Stars advanced to the quarter finals of the Little League All-Star District Tournament at Inez Friday evening, handing the Beaver South All-Stars their second tournament loss, a 5-1 setback.

The loss eliminated the Beaver Creek team from tournament play. Beaver South had lost in opening round play to Prestonsburg and defeated Wheelwright for the lone win.

HAP lost to Beaver Creek North in the first round. Both teams played each other in the losers' bracket.

Brandon Castle's home run in the bottom of the fifth inning, with one out and a runner on base, broke a 1-1 tie giving the HAP All-Stars the victory.

With one out, Lance Jones, batting for Shana Clark, doubled to left field, and then Castle hit his home run to give HAP a 3-1 lead.

Rocky Newsome singled but was caught off base and tagged out for the first out. Marcus Hamilton then singled. Michael Collins got a base hit, and both Hamilton and Collins scored on a base hit by Brent Akers to give HAP a 5-1 lead.

HAP collected seven hits in the inning. The All-Stars only had one hit off T.T. Pack until then, that being a fourth inning double by Chris Newsome.

Beaver South could not get things going in the top of the sixth, although one runner did reach base, Charles Twiss on a single, only the second hit of the game off starter Rocky Newsome.

South had taken a 1-0 lead in the second inning on four walks. Jason Bevins, who led the inning off with a walk, came around to score when Newsome, who experienced some wildness, walked Mike Stephens to force in Bevins.

South had put two runners on in the third with one out. However, Newsome got out of further trouble via a pitcher's best friend, a double play. Terrance Mullins led off with a base on balls, and one out later Newsome walked Bevins for the second time. Pack then grounded into a double play to end the inning.

HAP tied the score at 1-1 in the bottom of the third on an unearned run. Willie Meade reached on an error. Pack fanned Keith Marsillette and Shana Clark, but issued a walk to Reed. Newsome's ground ball was mishandled, and Meade scored, tying the game.

South had a one out base runner in the fourth inning, but was unable to advance him beyond second base.

Brandon Kinzer got South's first base hit in the fifth inning with two outs, but Newsome fanned Bevins to end the inning.

The winning pitcher was Newsome, and Pack suffered the loss. Newsome had nine strikeouts, fanning the side in the first. Pack fanned eight in the game. HAP played errorless baseball while South committed four errors, three in the third. Newsome issued seven base on balls, and Pack passed out only one walk.

The final score was not indicative of the closeness of the game, as well as the competition. Pack had retired the first six batters he faced until the error leading off the third inning. Had that not occurred, he would have retired nine straight.

Newsome was equally as sharp getting the South side in order on strikes in the first and just allowing two hits. While he was stingy with his base hits, he did experience some control problems, but his defense shone behind him.

AMS cheerleaders best squad at camp

The new Adams Middle School hasn't even opened its doors for business yet and already its cheerleaders are racking up trophies. Recently at the National Cheerleaders Association cheerleading camp, the middle school cheerleaders were recognized as the best cheerleading squad at the camp.

The camp was held at the Prestonsburg Community College and attracted more than 100 cheerleaders from surrounding counties.

The National Cheerleaders Association is sponsoring the "Award of Excellence" at each of more than 315

NCA camps across the United States.

The Adams Middle School "A" team cheerleaders were selected for this award above all other cheerleaders at the workshop on the basis of their cheerleading technique, unity, friendliness, cooperation, leadership and sportsmanship.

As the winner of the "Award of Excellence" the school's A team cheerleaders automatically qualify to compete in the NCA 1990-91 High School Cheerleaders National Championship in Dallas, Texas next December.

See AMS CHEERLEADERS, B 2

NCA Camp's best

The Adams Middle School cheerleaders have already brought one trophy to be installed in the yet to be designated trophy case of the new school. They were named the Best Cheerleading Squad at the recent National Cheerleaders Association camp. Squad members are (not necessarily in order) Jenny Morrison, Paula Heater, Alyson Allen, Erin Howell, Samantha Heater, Stephanie Osborne, Missy Slone, Jennifer Walters, Leigh Billips, Deana Ousley, Heather Pack, Carrie Francis, Kristy Prater, Amy Adams, Leslie Blackburn. Team coach is Kara Huffman, assisted by Kelli Alexander. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Magoffin scores 4 unearned runs in 4th to hand HAP a 7-4 loss

The Little League All-Star tournament is winding down as four teams are left to vie for the championship title. One team, a Floyd County team, fell from further competition Monday evening at the Inez park. Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars lost to the Magoffin County All-Stars, 7-4, on a throwing error by pitcher Marcus Hamilton.

HAP held a 4-1 lead going into the bottom of the fourth inning. HAP starting pitcher Hamilton was breezing along until he started experiencing some control problems.

With one out, Neal Allen worked Hamilton for a walk. Dwayne Risner singled to center field. Joe Mills' grounder to shortstop Brandon Castle was mishandled for an error, allowing Allen to score. Mike Caudill walked to load the bases as Hamilton struggled with his control. He then issued a walk to Joe Jayne to force in a run, making it 4-3.

Hamilton fanned Jason Robinette but walked opposing pitcher Brandon Jenkins to force in the tying run at 4-4.

Kenny McFarland then hit a slow rollerback to Hamilton, and it looked like the inning would be over without further damage. But Hamilton uncorked a wild throw over the first baseman's head, and three runs crossed home plate as the ball was thrown away.

The three unearned runs gave Magoffin County a 7-4 lead that it never relinquished. Magoffin County had only one hit in the six-run inning.

Brandon Castle came on in relief of Hamilton and struck Howard out to end the inning.

HAP took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Castle got a one-out single and was erased on a force play at second off the bat of Rocky Newsome. Newsome stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. Chris Newsome walked, and with Hamilton at the plate, Newsome came home on a wild pitch by Jenkins.

HAP made it 2-0 with a single second inning run. Again with one out, Jamie Kidd got a base hit and moved to third on two wild pitches. Kidd scored on Willie Meade's base hit.

Hamilton breezed through the Magoffin County second, and HAP plated two more runs for a 4-1 lead in the top of the third. Rocky Newsome picked up a one out double, a ball that hit off the fence. Chris Newsome was hit on the head with a pitch, but suffered no injury because of the helmet. After Hamilton grounded out, Mike Collins grounded to second where the second baseman elected to go to home to get Newsome, but was unable to nail him as Newsome scored. On the throw back to third, Chris Newsome came in to score HAP's fourth run.

Magoffin County pushed across a run in the bottom of the third when Hamilton began to show signs of wildness. After he struck out Caudill leading off the frame, Jayne singled up the middle. Robinette's bouncer forced Jayne at second for the second out. Hamilton then threw two straight wild pitches and uncorked a third one to allow Robinette to score. HAP got a bad break in the fifth inning when Chris Newsome got a one out single. Then Hamilton's ground ball that was headed for the outfield hit Newsome on the leg and he was called out. Hamilton moved to third on two wild pitches but was left stranded as Collins struck out.

The Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars put two men on in the top of the sixth but were unable to move them around.

The winning pitcher was Jenkins, and Hamilton took the loss. Hamilton pitched a good game, giving up just two hits, but the one error hurt him. Jenkins struck out seven batters, and Hamilton recorded five. Castle fanned three in his innings of work.

HAP stranded eight runners, one in each inning except the sixth when two were left on base.

Blackcats to open football practice Monday, July 23

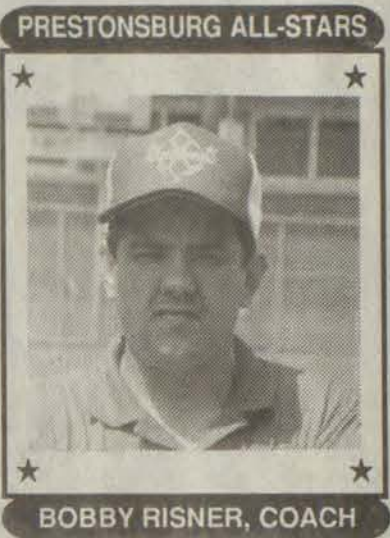

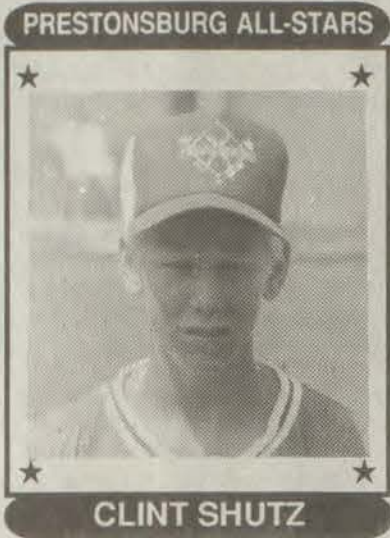

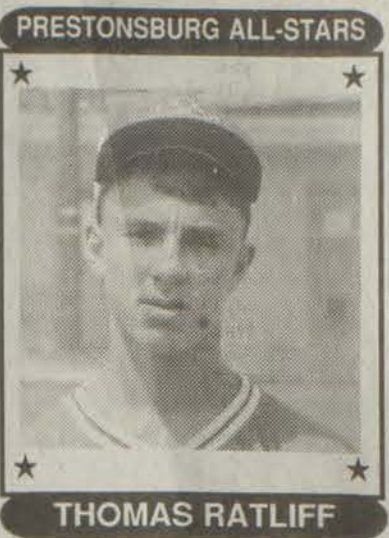

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will officially open this season's football practice, July 23 at 6:30 p.m. All players are asked to be at the first practice ready to go, according to assistant coach Bill Hoppman.

Hoppman said if any players have any questions about the upcoming practice time, they may stop by the high school this Thursday and Friday between the hours of 4 - 7 p.m.

The Prestonsburg football team will head to Georgetown for football camp July 29 - Aug. 1. The team will play two scrimmage games: Aug. 3 at Harlan County and Aug. 14 in Huntington, W. Va.

So, football time is upon us, as all four county teams get ready for the season opener with an optimistic view.

Harold's Damron captures KY junior amateur championship

Robert Damron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Damron of Harold, captured the overall Kentucky Junior Amateur Golf Title recently at the Lincoln Homestead Golf Course in Springfield, Ky., and brought the victor's trophy back to Eastern Kentucky.

Damron, an avid golfer, shot a 68, 73 and 72 to win the prestigious tournament. However, this is not the first time the 17-year-old golfer has won the title. He has been the overall winner on one other occasion. Damron won his age group for the 11 and under, 14-15 and 16-18.

Damron comes from a golfing family. His dad, Bill Damron, last week won the Paintsville Invitational, and his brother Mike is a golf pro at Lonesome Pine Golf Course in Big Stone Gap, Va. His other brother, Patrick, won the state title for the 11 and under age group.

"Everyone in our family plays golf except my sister and mom," remarked Damron.

The Harold native attends Dr. Phillips High School in Orlando, Fla., where he last year led his high school golf team to the state championship.

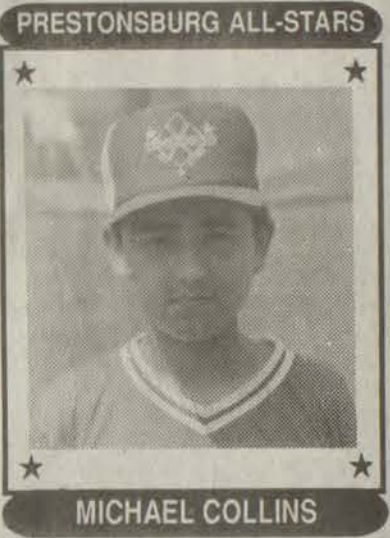

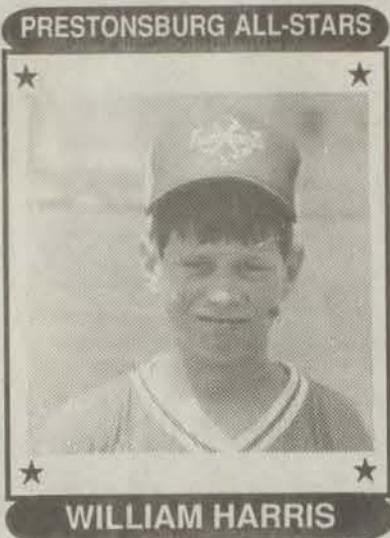

"We are just a three-year-old school," said the golf champion, who began playing golf at the early age of six, "and we have won the state title two of the three years."

Damron placed third overall individually in the state of Florida in tournament play and was also named the Most Valuable Player in the state tournament and All-District at Orlando.

"Our five players at Dr. Phillips High School were the All-District team," he explained.

Damron says there are no immediate tournaments in the future for him. He took part in a tournament in Louisville last week, as well as the Paintsville Invitational.

He says that he has aspirations to some day turn professional.

All-American Cheerleader

Erin Howell, 12-year-old daughter of Tommy and Susan Howell of Prestonsburg, was chosen an All-American Cheerleader at the recent National Cheerleaders Association camp. Five girls were chosen by the instructors to compete for the honor of All-American. To compete, each contestant had to do a cheer learned at the camp and incorporate two stunts into the cheer. Howell is now eligible to participate in the Eagle Aloha Bowl in Hawaii, Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade and the St. Patrick's Day parade in Ireland. In order for Howell to make any or all of these trips she must bear the expenses for each. According to her instructor, Kara Huffman, donations will be accepted to help defray the expenses of the trip. Anyone desiring to donate may contact Huffman or Howell's parents. Howell will be an eighth grader at the Adams Middle School this fall. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

This year's first Adams Middle School A team squad is composed of 15 girls from Prestonsburg and Clark elementary schools. Their coach, Kara Huffman, says that the girls, although from different schools, are just like family.

"They all get along so well," she said. "You would normally not expect that when two schools consolidate. But these girls are really united."

Of the 15 team members, nine are from Prestonsburg and six from Clark. They work hard together with one goal in mind, to be successful as a squad.

Huffman, assisted by Kelli Alexander, says that the girls will be cheering at the school's football and basketball games.

The presentation of the NCA "Award of Excellence" squad came at the completion of a full camp of training on cheerleading technique, cheers, chants, jumps, partner stunts and pyramids, as well as a leadership program for sportsmanship, crowd participation, responsibilities, organization and dedication.

Determination wins out

Mets' Clark becomes 1st girl to make HAP All-Star team

Sign on club house door: "No girls allowed." Such was the feeling about girls becoming members of certain "club houses" in bygone years. Why, a girl playing baseball was an unknown thing just a few years back! They were the cheerleaders, majorettes or the pom pom girls. Not any more. Several girls now play on different teams.

However, the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars have, for the first time, a girl playing on their all-star team. Her name? Shana Maria Clark, 12-year-old student at Harold Elementary.

She is the daughter of Gene and Audrey Clark Hinton of Harold and Gary Clark of West Liberty. Her grandparents are James and Bessie Kidd of Harold and Ken and Martha Clark of Honaker.

Clark was named to the HAP All-Star team this season after having batted .450 for the regular season with her team, the Harold Mets. Clark also pitched for the Mets team, winning four games.

Clark remembers her best game of the season which was the opening game and she was picked to pitch for the Mets.

"I pitched against the Ivel Reds," she related, "and struck out eight batters, which was my season high for one game. I pitched a shutout and just gave up two hits."

Clark says that she is not just a fast ball pitcher, but likes to throw a curve ball also.

"In that game I had a triple and two doubles," she explained.

One of the highlights of the season was when she struck out Marcus Hamilton, the power hitter for the Mud Creek Cubs. "We're good friends," said the modest Clark. "He is a good player and we're just good friends."

Clark said she considered it an honor to be named to the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Star team. "I consider it a privilege to have been chosen and get to play baseball with all the good players we have on our team. I get along real well with the other players on the team and they seem to appreciate me more now."

Clark says that she gets kidded about being the only girl on an all boys team, but that's okay, since she knows that she is appreciated.

Clark said although she didn't hit any home runs this past season that she did come close a few times.

"If I could have played on a field like the one at Inez, I would have had a few," she remarked.

Clark says even though this is her last year in Little League she plans to play Babe Ruth baseball next year.

"I got interested in baseball by watching it on television," said the Little League All-Star. "So one day I went out to play and made the team. I never played Pee Wee ball at all because I didn't know anything about it or Little League. I only started playing when I was 11 years old."

"... they seem to appreciate me more now."
Shana Clark

Clark says her favorite player is Darryl Strawberry, and the New York Mets are her favorite Major League team.

How does her mother feel about her playing baseball instead of being a cheerleader or majorette? "Mom really supports me," says Clark. "She goes to all the games she can when she doesn't have to work."

"Shana has been hurt several times physically," said Mrs. Hinton. "She's been in and out of emergency rooms but she just picks herself up and tries again. I believe she is going to make it because she is a very determined young girl."

Mrs. Hinton confesses her lack of knowledge of the game of baseball and finds it humorous to be watching a baseball game on television with Shana explaining every play to her.

"I know nothing about baseball," she stated. "I will have to watch every ball game that comes on television that she wants to watch. And she will tell me every play."

Mrs. Hinton is proud of her daughter and her accomplishments in baseball. "She'll sit and talk baseball with anyone who will talk with her," the All-Stars mother says. "Her coach, Milton Stanley, who coaches the Harold Mets, has helped her an awful lot. Shana is just a big tomboy. She got into baseball because all her friends are boys and they played baseball. Each time she has had to fight for respect. She has earned all of it."

Mrs. Hinton, who manages a Dollar General store in Pikeville and tries to attend as many games as she possibly can, says that some fought hard to keep her daughter off the All-

Star team. "Wilbur Samons, who coaches the All-Stars, said he didn't want any girl on the All-Star team. I told him, if she wasn't good enough to make the team that was all right, just don't discriminate against her."

The votes for the All-Star team went Clark's way and she was voted on the team.

Coach Stanley says that Shana is one player with no attitude problem. "She just goes out and plays hard all the time," said Stanley. "She handles everything real good. Shana was one of our starting pitchers and is a real good hitter. I haven't heard any bad comments from any of the players or parents."

Stanley says that he doesn't favor Clark over any of the other players. "They all get treated the same with me," he said. "I have taken them fishing and some of the players have been to my home. They are treated the same, including Shana."

Stanley says that he has always tried to encourage his star baseball player. "I told her that she was good enough to play Babe Ruth baseball next year, so I encourage her to do so."

Mrs. Hinton says that Shana became a Mets fan because she wore the Mets uniform so much.

Clark also plays basketball for the Harold Red Devils and has three other sisters at home.

"My youngest sister, younger than me, likes baseball, although she doesn't play," explained the All-Star player. "My two older sisters never did play."

Not only is Clark the only girl on the HAP All-Star team, she is also the only girl player in the Little League Tournament at Inez.

Baseball. Not just for the boys anymore.

Makes All-Star team

Local fans' opinions

Rose should go to jail; still be in Hall of Fame

You would have had to have been living in another world not to know about the escapades of one Pete Rose, former major league ball player, former major league manager and (hopefully) former gambler.

Rose has been found guilty of cheating on his income taxes and pleaded guilty to two charges against him. Rose has had his run in with baseball commissioners and other problems that seemed to surface on baseball's all time leading hitter.

The fallen hero faces up to six years in prison and a maximum $500,000 fine. Rose is scheduled to be sentenced July 19 by US District Judge S. Arthur Spiegel.

The Times went to the fans around Floyd County to get their response to the situation involving the "sure shot" Hall of Fame player. Here are some of the responses we got.

"If it was us that cheated the government on taxes they would not have waited this long to put us in jail," said Terry Mullins of McDowell. "Yes, I think he should go to jail. However, I don't think they should keep him out of the Hall of Fame. That is something he accomplished as a player."

What hearts are influenced more by a major league ball player than that of Little League baseball players who find heroes in the major league players.

David Turner, McDowell Stars, says, "I think they should give him a fine for what he did and not send him to jail. I believe they should keep him out of the Hall of Fame for what he did."

J.P. Skeens, Martin Braves, disagrees with Turner. "I think he should go to jail. I don't think he deserves to be in the Hall of Fame because he cheated on his taxes."

ERNIE MOORE
"let him pay the price"

A person who has been around baseball for many years, Ernie Moore of Drift, believes if he has "done a crime, he should pay."

"Pete's record will always stand and because of that they should not keep him out of the Hall of Fame. If we had done what he did we would be in jail now. He is not above the law."

Cecil Lester, Prestonsburg Senior League baseball coach says, "They should just give him a fine and let him go. He does belong in the Hall of Fame and this should not keep him out."

"I hope he doesn't go (to jail)," said David Turner Sr. of Drift. "But I believe he deserves to go because he broke the law. He is my favorite all time ball player. He replaced another one of my favorite players, Don Blasingame. When Pete came up I said

JASON SPENCER
"he should go to jail"

"who is this Rose person." Bobby Spencer, Prestonsburg, says that Rose should go to jail, and he believes that the all time singles hitter will.

"We have Lou Pinella now, so I don't really care," Spencer said.

Son Jason agrees with dad. "Yeah, I think he will go to jail. He is guilty and he should be put in."

David Gearheart, Prestonsburg: "He is guilty and should be put in jail, but I don't think he will be."

How do some of the women baseball fans feel?

"I believe he is guilty," says Jerri Kinzer, expert scorekeeper. "But I don't think he will go to jail."

JERRI KINZER
"Yes, he is guilty.."

Barbara Bevens, Martin, thinks he is guilty. "Yes, I believe he should be put in jail, but I don't think that he will be."

Pat Lemaster, Prestonsburg, says, "No, he should not go to jail. I haven't heard too much about it, but I have heard that he broke the law."

Martin Braves power hitter Thomas Jenkins: "I believe he is guilty, but they should just make him pay a fine and let him stay out of jail."

Whatever your opinion may be, Rose has had a great career as a player; there is no denying that. On those credentials alone should be considered for the Hall of Fame. He is the all time hitter in base hits in Major League baseball. He deserves to be in the Hall of Fame.

"I don't know much about it.."

However, he did break the law of tax evasion which carries with it a punishment by the law and as many in our survey said, "what if it had been us?"

Judge Spiegel has a lot of leeway in sentencing Rose who could receive probation or a prison sentence. Judge Spiegel must keep all Americans in mind when passing out this sentence and ask this question. "Are baseball players, especially Hall of Fame players, above the law?" We will find out, as will Pete, on July 19.

Modern day Goliath vs David rematch in Goodwill Games

This summer, the Goodwill Games will feature many exciting showdowns between the world's best athletes and teams in 21 sports. However, the most interesting may come in the 100-meter butterfly as Matt Biondi and Anthony Nesty square off in a modern day rematch equivalent to David vs. Goliath.

Biondi will attempt to avenge his loss to Nesty, who hails from the tiny nation of Surinam, at the 1988 Seoul Olympics. The showdown highlights the Goodwill Games swimming events on Sunday, July 22.

Nesty's homeland of Surinam, which has only 11 swimming pools, is located on the Northeastern coast of South America. Following a 21st place finish in the event at the 1984 Olympics, Nesty's father decided that his son needed better facilities to fulfill his potential and relocated the family to Jacksonville. The move more than paid off in Seoul as Nesty captured Surinam's first Olympic medal in swimming, out touching Biondi at the wall to win the gold. Nesty, who swims for the University of Florida, now looks forward to the chance of continuing his success at the Goodwill Games.

"The finest athletes in the world will be competing there," Nesty said. "I'm excited about being included in that elite group."

Biondi anchored the United States swimming team at the 1988 Olympics, winning seven medals — five gold, one silver and one bronze. As would be expected, he gained worldwide attention with each victory. But as much exposure as Biondi gained for each win, he gained nearly as much notoriety for his loss to Nesty.

Biondi won the event with relative ease at this year's USShort Course Nationals but will face stiffer competition in Nesty at the Goodwill Games, which will be held July 20 through Aug. 5 in Seattle and other cities throughout the state of Washington.

"Any time you bring together the best in the world in their respective discipline, you have competition that pushes people beyond what is expected of them," Biondi said of the Games.

The fastest of all fish in the sea is the swordfish, which can swim 68 miles per hour.

Baseball stadiums vary for different power hitters

by Hank Aaron

Certain parks are known for giving up a lot of home runs. Others are very tough on long ball hitters.

The first thing to look at is the dimensions of the field. If you have a ballpark that is 330 feet down the alleys and 310 feet down the left field line, 310 feet in dead center field, 360 feet down the alleys and 310 feet or 315 feet along the right field line, then it's a hitter's park.

But if the fences are 460 feet in center field and 380 feet in the alleys, then it's going to be difficult to hit it out. If you hit in dead center field, then you are going to have to hit the ball a pretty good poke.

In a park like that, in order to be a good hitter, you have to become a dead-pull hitter. That means hitting the ball down the foul lines where the fences are closest to home plate.

In the early part of my career, I sprayed the ball all over the field, so dimensions didn't matter that much to me. In 1957, when we won the World Series and I was named Most Valuable Player, I hit 44 home runs and about 20 of them were to right field and the rest to center or left field.

When I became a disciplined hitter and began to wait on certain pitches, then no ballpark bothered me. All ballparks are about the same distance down the lines to the fences.

If there was one park that gave me trouble, it was Candlestick Park, home of the San Francisco Giants. The reason was the unpredictable wind. Sometimes it blows out. Other times it blows in, and sometimes it blows across the field. You never know what to expect.

Among the famous ballparks that have since been torn down, I liked Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The only thing that would keep the ball in was the high wall in right field. No player with power had trouble hitting the ball out of Ebbets Field.

The Polo Grounds, where the New York Giants played, was a different story. There you had to be a dead pull hitter. Hit anything to center field and it was a graveyard out there. I did reach the center field bleachers, one of only a handful of players to accomplish that feat.

At the Polo Grounds, you could bloop the ball one time and watch it go out for a home run. The next time you came to the plate, you could hit one as hard as it could possibly be hit and then watch it be caught in center field.

In the American League, Boston's Fenway Park features a high green wall that has, in my opinion, ruined many hitters. A hitter looks at that "green monster", as they call it, and adjusts his swing to hit it. Suddenly, he's on the road in another ballpark and that inviting green wall isn't there anymore.

In general, I think it is a big mistake for a hitter to adjust his swing to fit a ballpark's peculiarities.

Where The Bottom Line Is Less!

Perkins Center wins 3 in softball

The Carl D. Perkins Job Corp Center keeps winning in softball, taking three games recently.

The local center team traveled to Western Kentucky where the players won a doubleheader over the Great Onyx team, 7-4 and 8-5. The center also outslugged number one Golconda, 16-15 at Archer Park.

In the game played at Archer Park, Perkins Center scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to knock off a good Golconda team 16-15. The local team trailed going into the inning 15-14.

According to coach Billy Blackburn, good defense in the first two innings was the key to his team's win over the visiting team. Perkins scored three first-inning runs and plated five in the second to take a quick 8-0 lead.

Gabriel Guayton singled to lead off the first inning for Prestonsburg. Leonard walked and Thornsby followed with another base on balls. After Guayton advanced to third, Earl Carroll hit a long fly ball that brought Guayton home with the first run of the game.

Leonard scored on another sacrifice fly by Bo Jackson (no, he's not). With two out, Xavier Stone doubled to score Thornsby.

In the second inning, Perkins batted around in scoring five times to take a 8-0 lead. Four walks and hits by Thornsby and Johnson helped the Perkins Center to score five runs.

Golconda was not about to be silent long, roaring back with four runs in its half of the third to cut the lead to 8-4. Walks coupled with two hits and two fielding errors for Perkins opened the door for the visitors to score.

Golconda tied the score at 8-8 with four more runs in the top of the fourth, collecting five hits and a walk. Carl D. went back up 10-8 with two in his half of the fourth on five walks.

After both teams failed to score in the fifth, Golconda tied the game again in the sixth at 10-10 on two hits and two Carl D. errors.

Carl D. went on top, 12-10, with four big runs in the bottom of the sixth Jackson and Mills walked, and Stone doubled both runners home. Bo Jackson then followed with a double, scoring Stone. The local team scored its fourth run with a run on a fielder's choice.

Golconda was not through. Five runs in the top of the seventh gave the visitors their first lead at 15-14. Thompson and Henderson reached on errors, and Vaughn singled to load the bases. Stone misjudged Victor's fly ball and all runs scored on the miscue, including Victor. Golconda scored on a triple and a single to take a one-run lead.

After Leonard was called out on strikes, Earl Carroll walked and Bo Jackson doubled. Big Bryan Mills singled both runners in giving Perkins a 16-15 win over the number one team.

In a doubleheader sweep last Saturday in Western Kentucky, the local softball team won over Great Onyx in game one, 7-5. Perkins pushed across four runs in the top of the second inning to go on top 4-0. Walks and errors opened the door for the Perkins Center to put runners on for James Johnson who singled and Gabriel Guayton's double.

Perkins pushed across two more runs in the sixth inning to go up 6-0. Both runs came across as the result of Bill Lee's home run.

Great Onyx scored four times in the bottom of the seventh inning to make it 6-4, ruining Lee's shutout bid. Perkins pushed across a run in the top of the seventh on a double by Johnson and an error.

Great Onyx made a comeback attempt in the bottom of the seventh, but the rally fell short as the team could only score one run.

In the nightcap, Perkins came away with an 8-5 win over the host team. Perkins scored two first-inning runs and pushed across three in the second for a 5-0 lead. Great Onyx made it 5-3 with three in the bottom of the second. Both teams plated two runs in the third, and Perkins made it 8-5 with one in the fourth.

Leonard, Carroll and Jackson all had three hits each in the second game. Bill Lee was the winning pitcher. Mike Thornsby had a big second game with a double and triple. Mills collected a walk, double and single in three at bats.

Umpires get no respect

These four umpires have been at it since July 16 calling the balls, strikes and bases at the Little League All-Star tournament at Inez. It hasn't been easy for these umpires as the fans and coaches think their strikes zones are pretty low. However, the men in blue are the final authority on the calls made and they stand firm. Umpiring baseball gets you no respect no matter how you call it. Overall, they have done a good job. (Photos by Ed Taylor)

NOTICE TO DELINQUENT FLOYD COUNTY TAXPAYERS

Kentucky Law requires the County Attorney to notify delinquent taxpayers that delinquent taxes have not been paid so that they may have an opportunity to pay the taxes before a lawsuit is filed against them. In that event, delinquent taxpayers could also be assessed additional costs, including court costs resulting from the lawsuit required to collect the taxes owed.

The Tax Collection Division of the Office of the Floyd County Attorney has been advised by the Floyd County Sheriff and Floyd County Clerk that certain taxpayers have failed to pay their property taxes and are now delinquent.

A letter of notification of delinquent taxes has been sent to the taxpayers who have failed to pay their taxes, giving them notice of this delinquency.

If the delinquent taxpayer thinks that he or she does not owe the bill, or if the property has been sold prior to the year(s) of tax liability, or if he feels that the property bill is incorrect, he should immediately contact the Property Valuation Administrator (Tax Commissioner) and get the bill(s) corrected.

These delinquent taxpayers are urged to immediately take the notice letter to the Floyd County Clerk's Office and make arrangements to pay the delinquent taxes, if owed.

Please take notice that the amount stated in the notice letter does not include interest and/or penalties owed by reason of the nonpayment of the taxes. However, the delinquent taxpayer may call the Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, (606) 886-3816, and get the exact amount that is due upon receipt of payment. Payment can then be made to the County Clerk either in person or by mailing the payment in check or money order form.

The longer the property tax bill remains unpaid, the more interest and/or penalties will be added, so it is important that the delinquent tax bill is settled immediately.

We Can Do It!

'We want our lipstick'

Women working in war-related industries during World War II often wore the same clothing on the job as men. But, in an effort to "stay feminine," they also wore heavy makeup.

Beauty in a bottle

by Vicki Moeser
Smithsonian News Service
Beauty may be in the eyes of the beholder, but when it comes to appearance, Americans aren't taking any chances. In 1989, according to conservative estimates, we spent $25 billion on "personal care products" — including cosmetics, toiletries, fragrances and powders. Clearly, beauty is big business.

"Appearance is a complex thing," says Dr. Barbara Clark Smith, a historian at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington DC. "We know or believe that our looks do not express our essential selves; many of us would say that, fundamentally, a person's looks don't matter."

"Yet the energy that so many of us invest in appearing right, the time and money we are willing to spend, the discomfort we are willing to undergo, all suggest that looks, and the social rules that govern them, matter a great deal in American culture."

And apparently, it has always been true. For millennia, women and men have used cosmetics to protect their skin as well as embellish or enhance their looks. The ancient Egyptians used cosmetics; so did early civilizations in Greece, Rome and China. Throughout the Middle Ages and Renaissance, men and women alike wore cosmetics.

During the Victorian era, polite society frowned on the use of artificial beauty aids, calling such products immoral. The only way to improve on Mother Nature, people believed, was the generous use of soap and water, a proper diet and plenty of fresh air and exercise.

By the turn of the century, modest applications of powder and rouge were tolerated on older women; younger, unmarried women were expected to remain "natural." But that was soon to change.

World War I accelerated feminine emancipation, and paradoxically inspired women to make greater use of cosmetics. It was an era when women won the vote, millions worked for a wage and thousands attended college. "The growing acceptance of makeup was reflected in the era's growing acceptance of consumption, sexual expressiveness and women's visibility in the public sphere," Smith says.

"Fashion, beauty and glamour could be bought across the counter at department stores and drugstores, through mail-order catalogs or at beauty parlors in the 1920s," adds Smith, who is curator of an exhibition, "Men and Women: A History of Costume, Gender and Power," at the Museum of American History.

"Beauty experts, advertisers and women's magazines offered a democratic message: Every woman could be beautiful. But she did have to put her time, money and attention into pursuing beauty."

The beauty business blossomed in the 1920s. Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein were leaders in the industry, pioneering in the development of new makeup products and techniques. After developing makeup — even coining that term — for film stars, Max Factor began marketing to the general public.

The pursuit of beauty was popular among all women. During the '20s, black women such as Annie Turnbo Malone and Madame C.J. Walker pioneered in the development of hair and skin treatments and trained thousands of women in beauty culture. Many of them opened beauty shops in the expanding black neighborhoods of Northern cities.

"The beauty business offered important job opportunities for many African American women at a time when most were limited to employment as domestic servants, agricultural laborers and laundresses," Smith points out.

The Log Cabin, Part 8

Old days were rich time for kids

by Barbara P. Martin
Contributing Writer

When Susie (Click Hicks) was a small girl, her father built a log cabin near the tunnel at the mouth of Wilson's Creek.

She recalled happy times playing and fishing in Right Beaver Creek, at the Bethel Regular Baptist Church house. If you have never played in a creek as a child, you cannot know the many pleasures available for discovery there. They swung on a huge swing that hung on a big tree in the churchyard.

There was a swinging bridge that spanned Beaver Creek at the church house, and another about 1/4 mile up the creek. Susie's father told her that the wires of the bridge were held up by a dead man. She was so frightened that she did not try to cross it.

The cabin, at the left of the tunnel going toward Maytown from Eastern, sat in a grassy area with fruit trees growing around it. Henry Morris was the last to live there. It burned down after he moved.

The time of Susie's family's move to Wilson's Creek was when Roberta Click, her mother, heired the land. Joe build a house on the land and they moved to it. Susie told of their yard at the new house. It was bare of grass as was most everyone's at that time.

Every Friday was yard sweeping day.

A neighbor had joined us in this old timey talk, and they agreed the reason for the grassless yard was that the chickens were allowed to run loose on the place. They ate every blade of grass and were known to pull it up by the roots. Susie's neighbor, Melissa Campbell, recalls that some folks who moved into houses with grassy yards got busy and removed every bit of it as soon as they could.

GRASSLESS YARDS

Now, why would you want a yard with no grass? For one reason those old push lawn mowers were expensive to buy and had to be propelled manually. Mowing grass was useless work that could be applied to tasks more vital to their lives than appearances.

Another good reason for having no grass was the children. You could play so many good games there. Marble games, hopscotch, roly holly — all left their marks in these yards.

Active youngsters in the family played jump rope — single throw, double Dutch, hot pepper, high water, Cinder Ella dressed in yellow, and many other games. (Adults also played marbles. A game called "buy in" required the use of 20 huge stone marbles.)

Susie told of playing round town, a ball game similar to baseball. I believe the difference was that you could stack as many as you wanted on a base, as long as they could touch a part of the base. The object was to make the round and return to home base as quickly as possible before you got tagged out by someone throwing and hitting you with the ball or touching you with it while still in their hand.

Two captains chose up the teams from as many as were present to play. Susie remembered that if they did not get twins Little and Lillie Bentley on the same team, there would be a fight before the day was over. All batted by taking turns. Pitcher and catcher rotated to whoever wanted to fill those places.

It was quite a popular game in those days, and the schoolyard in Maytown was the scene of action every weekend. Some of my earliest memories are of my dad taking me to this event with the threat that if I did not behave, I could not go again. He was an ardent ballplayer.

Susie's uncle, Bascom Stephens, had a store on the opposite side of the tunnel from their cabin. He and his wife Verge raised their family

IN THE GROOVE

Sometimes I know there are those who get extremely tired of hearing or reading the same words over and over. And our highways seem to be in more columns and more conversations than just about any other topic. Wonder why?

The strip of road that's really getting on my nerves, and others' as well, is just in front of Prestonsburg Village and on down, in front of the Steak House. Now people, this strip of highway is DANGEROUS. Especially if you happen to drive a small car. If you're not knowledgeable of the fact that this piece of highway has grooves that your tires fit completely down into and your car swerves from side to side like you're on a real bad carnival ride, you could possibly be in big-time trouble.

In a conversation with my brother-in-law, Barry, we were discussing this very topic. He, being unaware of the grooves, approached this particular spot in a small car doing 55-60 mph. As he gasped for breath, thinking the car was going to flip, he courageously fought the steering and was soon back on track.

"What's the deal there anyway?" he asked. "I don't know, but there're times when I feel I'm driving on the two right side tires of my car, too."

Maybe fresh blacktop was poured on a day the temperature rose to 100 degrees. Then a convoy of 18-wheelers came traveling down the highway loaded with tons and tons of black gold, and the road just melted from the pressure. Just a guess, but whatever made this aggravating strip of highway so darn dangerous to drive should be remedied. I wish someone out there would fix it.

And, maybe instead of black top, wouldn't it be nice to have our highways of concrete like our neighbors in Perry County? Maybe it's a heck of a lot more expensive, but it just seems it would be cheaper in the long run.

Our State Highway Department has to spend a fortune in blacktop, preparing, and repairing and repairing and repairing. Let's fix em' for good, once and for all, and not have to worry about repairing them. I'm just afraid one day I'm going to drive to work and sink into a big, black, asphalt hole.

Till next week, keep all four wheels on the ground and drive safely.

Yeah! Hallelujah! After months of pestering everyone I knew who cooks, I finally got someone to take the plunge and hand over some favorite, home-cooking recipes for this column. It was probably the threat of doing a column on cooking for the single-person (namely me) including such daring dishes as Ragu spaghetti, canned noodle soup, frozen pizza and nacho chips with cheese (my full repertoire of cooking).

Well, thank you, Charlotte McFall of Abbott Creek for sharing these recipes for devilish delights. I assure you they are not low-cal. But, having been to Charlotte's house for dinner, I can attest she is a marvelous cook and baker. So, readers, when you're feeling a little naughty, or you have a special occasion requiring you to bring a dessert, try one of these gems. Charlotte assures me that they are practically no fault, so you won't be surprised by the results.

First, let's try some cheesy recipes.

CHERRY CHEESE DESSERT CAKE

1 box white cake mix
1 small container Cool Whip
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 can cherry pie filling

4 ozs. cream cheese

Bake cake per directions in 9x13 pan. Cool completely. Combine Cool Whip, sugar and cream cheese together and spread over cooled cake. Top with pie filling.

LEMON CREAM CHEESE COOKIES

1 8-oz. package cream cheese, softened
1 package golden pound cake mix
2 tps grated lemon peel
2 Tbsps lemon juice
1 egg beaten
2 cups powdered sugar
1 Tbsps lemon juice
1/2 tsp vanilla
dash of salt

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Reserve 1/4 of cream cheese. Mix cake mix (dry), lemon peel, lemon juice, egg and remaining 3/4 cream cheese until blended. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls about 2 inches apart onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake until firm, 13-15 minutes. Cookies will not be brown. Cool slightly before removing from cookie sheet. Cool completely. Mix reserve 1/4 cream cheese and remaining ingredients until smooth. Frost cookies one at a time.

CHOCOLATE MARBLE CHEESE CAKE

3 8-oz. packages cream cheese, softened

1-1/2 cup sugar

3 eggs
1-1/2 tsp vanilla extract
6 ozs. melted semi-sweet chocolate melted

Prepared graham cracker pie crust
Beat cream cheese at high speed with electric mixer until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar, beat well. Add eggs one at a time, beat well after each. Stir in vanilla. Divide mixture in half and stir chocolate into half of mix. Pour 1/2 of plain mix into graham cracker pie crust, top with half of chocolate mix. Repeat to use all of mixture. Gently swirl with knife to create marbled effect. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack away from draft. Cover and chill for 8 hours or more.

This recipe can be adapted into a vanilla cheese cake by adding one more tsp vanilla extract and omitting chocolate. On this one, after cooking, leave the oven door ajar with cake still inside for 1/2 hour before removing, then chill.

PHILLY CARROT LOAF

1 8 oz. package cream cheese, softened
1-1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs beaten
2 Tbsps milk
2 Tbsps vanilla
2 cups flour
1 tsp baking powder

1 tsp cinnamon

1/2 tsp baking soda
1-1/2 cups shredded carrots
1 cup chopped pecans
1/4 cup raisins

Combine cream cheese and sugar, mix well. Blend eggs, milk and vanilla, add combined dry ingredients; mix until moist. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into greased floured 9x5 loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or until done and cool for 10 minutes before removing from pan.

CHERRY CHEESE PIE

1 9-inch graham cracker crust
1 8 oz. package cream cheese softened
1 14 oz. sweetened condensed milk, not evaporated
1/3 cup lemon juice from concentrate
1 tsp vanilla
1 21 oz. cherry filling chilled.
In large bowl, beat cheese till fluffy. Gradually beat in condensed milk until smooth. Stir in lemon juice and vanilla. Pour into pie crust; chill 3 hours. Top with pie filling.

Now let's try some of Charlotte's cookies. (Had enough yet?)

CHOCOLATE-OATMEAL COOKIES

1-1/4 cup margarine, softened

3/4 cup firm packed brown sugar

1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tsp vanilla
1-1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 tsp baking soda
1 tsp salt
3 cups uncooked oats, quick or old-fashioned
12 ozs. semi-sweet chocolate morsels
3/4 cups chopped nuts

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Beat margarine and sugars until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; beat until well blended. Gradually add combined flour, soda and salt; mix well. Stir in oats, chocolate morsels and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet, cook 9-11 minutes; cool on wire rack. Makes 6 dozen.

BUTTERMILK OATMEAL COOKIES

1 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
1-1/2 tsp vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp salt
1 cup old-fashioned rolled oats
3/4 cup confectioner's sugar
Heat oven to 350 degrees. In large bowl, with electric mixer, beat butter or margarine, softened at medium speed until creamy. Gradually beat in 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar then vanilla, all-purpose flour and salt.

When blended and smooth, stir in old fashioned rolled oats (not instant). Shape into 1 inch balls and place on ungreased cookie sheet about 2 inches apart. Bake 18-22 minutes until light, golden brown. While warm, dredge in 3/4 cup confectioner's sugar, cool on wire rack. Make 2-1/2 to 3 dozen at 96 calories each.

DREAM COOKIES

2 cups whipped topping (at room temperature)
1 egg beaten
1 tsp vanilla
1 box cake mix, lemon, spice, orange or chocolate
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar

Fold topping, egg and vanilla together; add cake mix and stir well. Put confectioner's sugar in separate bowl; drop cookie mixture by teaspoon into sugar to coat each cookie lightly. Put cookies on lightly greased cookie sheet and bake in preheated 350 oven for 15-20 minutes. When done, edges will be slightly brown. Makes about 5 dozen.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

A SIGH OF DISBELIEF

With all the effective drugs that are available for treating asthma today, one might suspect that the danger posed by this condition is beginning to subside. Quite the opposite is true, however. According to the National Center for Health Statistics, the number of asthma-related deaths in this country has risen from 2,598 in 1979 to 4,580 in 1988. Ironically, health experts speculate that the effectiveness of such drugs as theophylline may be to blame for the increased mortality rate. Many asthma patients may now feel that theophylline and the new inhaled medications may have fostered and impression that asthma is a less severe disease than it really is. The truth of the matter is that asthma can be life-threatening if patients are lax in seeking treatment and taking medication properly.

COOLEY APOTHECARY meets the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your family's pharmacy. Our records are fully maintained for all drug warnings, drug interactions and personal drug allergies here at #2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. MasterCard and Visa honored plus we welcome all third party payments. Open: Mon. - Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-3.

Hint: Asthma should never be self-treated.

KSDAR MEMBERS ATTEND PICNIC

KSDAR State Registrar, Mrs. Ray Brackett, and past KSDAR State Organizing Secretary, Virginia Goble, both John Graham DAR members, accompanied by Mrs. Stephen R. Brackett, Borders Chapel, and Viola Williams and Vickie Pack of Paintsville, were guests of the London DAR Chapter on June 26 for the meeting and picnic held at the home of past regent, Nell Terry, of the Isaac Road.

BUSSEY FAMILY REUNION

Ora Bussey had as her houseguests during the past two weeks, members of her immediate family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bussey and daughter, Bianca Bussey, of Irvine, Calif., Bill Tom Bussey of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Elizabeth and Jennifer Bussey of Mocksville, N.C., and Mr. and Mrs. James Bussey of Ft. Ord, Calif.

On Saturday, July 7, Ora Bussey's daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Garland Godsey, entertained with a family reunion and dinner for this group at their home.

Joining them for this occasion were other family members, including Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Leslie and sons, Jonathan and Blake, of Prestonsburg, Linda Godsey of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Baker of Owensboro, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy England and daughter, Cynthia and Amanda, of Pikeville, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Howard and son Robert, Maggie Howard and Libby Pack, Jess, Josh and Jodi, all of Tudor Key; Johnny and Jason Bussey and grandson Nova Hyden, all of Paintsville, Judy Bussey of Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bussey and Kelly Evans of Berea.

Friends joining the family for this event were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wise and daughter Shirley of Paintsville.

HISTORY OF JOHNS CREEK COMMITTEE MEETS

Members of the committee working on the history of Johns Creek for the "Floyd County Bicentennial History Book," to be published in June, 1991, met at May Lodge, Thursday, July 12, where they had lunch and a discussion of their homeland. Many facts about Johns Creek were recorded.

The committee will meet again at this same location on Thursday, July 26 at 9:30 a.m. to complete this historical discussion, and any persons who were reared on Johns Creek, prior to the beginning of Dewey Lake, are invited to meet with them at that time and to take part in this interesting endeavor.

The committee would welcome any interesting facts about the history of Johns Creek.

Members of the committee who met on Thursday were Bill Foley, Sylvia Foley Purdy, Jackie Crider, Nola Crider Stepp, Hobart McGuire, Eugene Cline, Opal S. May, Norma S. Stepp and Virginia S. Goble.

DRIFT WOMEN LEARN OF KOREAN CULTURE
The GFWC/KFWC Drift Woman's Club met on Monday, June 18 for a very special program on international relations. Hostess Karen Slone invited a speaker from Korea.

This speaker, Minha Stumbo, grew up in Seoul, Korea. She met her husband while he was serving in the US Armed Forces.

Minha has lived in this area for 10 years, but she still maintains close contact with her homeland. She shared an abundance of information with the ladies of this club, telling of Korean customs, food, clothing, books, magazines, sports, schools, television programs, drugs, crime, the black market and AIDS in Korea. An informative question-and-answer session followed.

Stumbo was attired in the style of dress that Korean women wear for special occasions, and she made a wonderful impression on those in attendance, who would like to thank her for an enjoyable evening, and to invite her to come and be with them again.

LOCAL CHURCH WOMEN REMINDER

Otela Smiley, president of the Local Church Women, reminds all members and other women throughout this area of the meeting to be held Friday, July 20 at 10:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg and she urges them to attend.

WALLACE, WELLS TRAVEL

Mrs. Frank Wells Jr. of Paintsville entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace of Prestonsburg on Thursday and Friday of last week with a trip to Stearns. While there, they made the scenic railroad tour to the Blue Heron. They returned home via Pineville, Williamsburg and Middlesboro, and enjoyed the scenery there.

Show highlights the heart

Is it indigestion? Just a shortness of breath? Or could it be the warning signs of a coronary?

"How to Beat Heart Attacks" is the title of a one-hour television special, sponsored by Appalachian Regional Healthcare, that leads the audience through a typical heart attack, teaches them to recognize its symptoms, learn what to do about it and how to measure their own cardiac risk.

The show will air next on WYMT-TV, Channel 57 in Hazard, on Monday, Aug. 13 at 7 p.m.

Noted experts offer advice on lifestyle changes that will lower the risk of heart disease for viewers and their families.

A special feature is a heart attack quiz used during the program to help viewers measure their own risk of heart attack. Heart Attack Quiz forms have been provided through the cooperation of Citizens Bank and Trust, Kentucky Power Co. and Peoples Bank and Trust and may be picked up at those locations or at the reception desk of any ARH hospital.

The show will also preview the soon-to-be-opened cardiac catheterization lab at the ARH Regional Medical Center at Hazard. The lab will have an array of state-of-the-art technology for patients to receive cardiac diagnosis and treatment near home.

Sheep will not drink from running water.

KENTUCKY'S WAITING CHILD

Three year old Mike and his two year old brother Gary are energetic, healthy pre-schoolers. They need a permanent home to grow and blossom. Can you be that family?

Kentucky has over 275 children waiting for an adoptive family. Like Gary and Mikie, these children wait in foster homes, if they are lucky. Kentucky has a shortage of foster and adoptive homes for minority children.

The Department for Social Services is looking for people who can make a commitment to children. You can be single, an apartment dweller, or have a moderate income. There is no fee charge for services.

If you want to make a difference in the life of a child, consider fostering or adoption. For information call:

Beauty

During this time, some black women used skin bleaches, a practice that reflected the power of the white community to set standards of beauty. But white women, too, bought skin bleaches and whiteners, since "white" women actually have a variety of skin colors, and relatively few fit the stereotypical pale Anglo-Saxon complexion.

Depression not depressing for makeup industry

Although the Depression ravaged the economy in the 1930s, the cosmetic industry thrived. The strived-for look was one of cool, urbane sophistication. Movies influenced that look. Women everywhere longed to emulate the allure of Hollywood stars of the day, including Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer and Jean Harlow.

Eyeliner and nail polish gained popularity. In 1932, Revlon was founded with a single product: nail enamel. Until then, nail polish was available in three pale, translucent shades: light, medium and dark. Revlon founders Charles Revson, his brother Joseph and chemist Charles Lachman developed an opaque nail enamel in colors never before seen, including pinks, corals and reds.

As his first market, Charles Revson targeted professional beauty salons. To sell the salons, he painted his own fingernails with different shades to dramatize the color variety offered by his fledgling company.

Beauty products for men, on the other hand, were largely limited to shaving and hair-care items. In 1937, American men paid an estimated $200 million to keep up appearances. Mostly they spent their money in barbershops, but a sizable amount went for home use of shaving creams, razor blades, lotions and other toiletries.

By World War II, more than 6 million women were working outside the home for the first time, most in war-related industries. "Many donned trousers for factory work," Smith says. "But advertisers, government spokesmen and others agreed that women should be careful to 'stay feminine'."

Guns and roses

Lipstick became an important symbol of femininity during the war. In July 1942, the US government's War Production Board sought to discourage cosmetic companies from producing lipstick and other beauty supplies. Three months later after a groundswell of complaints, the board changed its mind, agreeing that lipstick was important in maintaining morale.

A Tangee Lipsticks ad in Photoplay magazine put it this way: "No lipstick — ours or anyone else's — will win the war. But it symbolizes one of the reasons why we are fighting...the precious right of women to be feminine and lovely — under any circumstances."

Despite the war, overall sales of cosmetics in the United States increased 65 percent from 1940 to the mid-'40s. According to one account, American women spent nearly $30 million for 5000 tons of lipstick in 1946, of which nearly $6 million went to the government for luxury taxes — or, as Life magazine pointed out — enough to pay the president's salary (at that time) for 77 years.

For postwar women, the fashionable shape became the hourglass silhouette, heralded by Christian Dior's "New Look." The look was the antithesis of wartime dress — the shoulder lines were softer, the waist was pinched in and the skirts longer and billowing. The beauty industry produced a wide range of cosmetics to complement the look. The fashionable women now wore scarlet lips and long, gleaming nails.

A 1957 poll of American college women showed that more than 99 percent used lipstick and about half used eyebrow pencil and mascara. The general attitude toward makeup seemed to be expressed by one coed's opinion: "I prefer natural beauty to artificial beauty, but I also prefer artificial beauty to natural homeliness."

The early '60s saw women wearing heavy, dark eye makeup and white lipstick. False fingernails and eyelashes gained popularity. But by the mid-'60s, the beauty industry faced a major revolution.

"At times," Smith says, "groups that have dissented from the dominant culture have made their own alternative ideals broadly felt." She cites as an example the "Black is Beautiful" movement, which fostered new concepts for African American femininity and masculinity. Blacks drew on African cultures for clothing; both men and women rejected hair straightening in favor of the "Afro" or "natural."

"Fashion also became a target for the feminist movement," Smith adds. "In 1968, feminists picketed the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. In a dramatic protest, they threw symbols of women's oppression — bras, girdles, curlers, high heels, cosmetics, dishrags and steno pads — into a trash can. Many feminists stopped wearing makeup, bras and nylon stockings, shaving their legs and plucking their eyebrows.

A flood of back-to-nature products filled store shelves in the 1970s and '80s. The implication was the lotions and cosmetics — hinting at vitamin-packed goodness or herbal purity — would not only make one's skin more presentable, but healthier as well.

"Natural" products in bio-degradable containers are likely to appeal to today's environmentally aware consumers. But one thing appears certain: While Americans have embraced the ideals of their 1890 counterparts concerning exercise and diet, they are not likely to give up the promise of beauty in a bottle.

Appalshop salutes storyteller

Roadside Theater will perform its original production "Pretty Polly" at the Appalshop Theater in Whitesburg on Saturday, July 21 at 8 p.m.

The drama puts together tall tales, family remembrances and traditional mountain songs accompanied by guitar, banjo and fiddle to tell the story of a local storyteller, Polly Branham Johnson.

Aunt Polly, as she was called by all who knew her, was born on Big Beaver Creek in Eastern Kentucky in 1864. She died in 1947, leaving behind a great wealth in the stories and songs that were collected from her by the WPA Writer's Project in the 1930s and early '40s.

Roadside Theater weaves these stories and songs into a high spirited show that sees life through the eyes of the storyteller, who lived through hard times and good in the Appalachians. For the three Roadside performers, all born and reared in the mountains, "Pretty Polly" helps to explain this place where they grew up, live and work.

To make reservations for "Pretty Polly," call Appalshop at 633-0108, Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

KET features songs, stories of America

A patchwork quilt is formed of many different pieces, each with its own shape and color. In a sense, America is a patchwork of multi-ethnic and multi-regional cultures.

Folklorist Alan Lomax explores America's diverse cultural heritage through song, dance and story in the five-part series "American Patchwork," airing on KET at 9 p.m., beginning Tuesday, July 24.

For more than 50 years, Lomax has been recording American folk music, starting with the songs of cowboys and prisoners, a project undertaken with his father, John, during the Depression. The Lomaxes made the first high-fidelity field recordings of folk music and collected 30,000 samples for the Archive of American Folk Song at the Library of Congress.

Through his CBS radio series, the younger Lomax introduced folksingers Burl Ives, Leadbelly, Josh White, Pete Seeger and Woody Guthrie to a national audience.

"American Patchwork" travels the country demonstrating America's cultural melting pot and weaving anecdotes and history among the songs, stories and dances.

The Aug. 14 show will look at this region. Titled "Appalachian Journey," it explores the way in which every valley of the Smoky Mountains produced a new mix of British culture influenced by the Cherokee Indians and, eventually, by contacts with African-American culture and urban influences. Tall tales, ballads, handmade toys and square dancing are all part of the cultural heritage found in the southern mountains.

The series is presented by North Carolina Public Television.

there. The Click kids loved to visit him. The store was in front of the house, and they lived in the back part. Ruth Gunnel and her family were the last to live in that house.

As time passed, the traveled roads were cut off from the Lim Tunnel area. Bascom and Verge moved with their unmarried children into the W.H. Martin house at the mouth of Lens Howard Hollow at Eastern.

This brings to mind a comment heard several years ago. Fletcher Gayheart Sr. said that he went over to visit them. When he went in Aunt Verge was sitting there churning, reading a book, listening to the radio and whistling, all at the same time.

He questioned her to see if she was keeping up with all of those activities, and she could tell him what she read, what the radio had said, and the tune was correctly whistled. Those old timers were accustomed to high performance.

Floyd and Bonnie are the only living members of that family. Gene Burley Patton, related to the Ratliffs, was the last to live in that house. It has been purchased by the coal company that is strip mining our area.

Susie's daughter, Charlotte, married Ted Caudill from Carr Creek. Charlotte won the Governor's Merit Award for high scholastic performance when she was in the Knott County School system, under Gov. Nunn. The certificate hangs on the wall of Susie's living room along with a picture of Charlotte's family.

On the paneled wall, which looked somewhat like those in the old cabin, was a hand-painted picture of her barn. It was done by a friend. A miniature washboard and wash tub hangs near the door and indicates that she recalls the old days and the hard work with some fondness. Her grey and white cat Fluffy was lying at the door in the sun when I went out.

I left Susie finishing her pickle relish with the help of Melissa, whom she calls "Bug." Bug substitutes for Susie's legs these days, as she fetches things for her.

for his wife and one for him. The late Norman Allen recalled how S.P. had called him to come and take a picture of him sitting on his tomb. Norman took the picture of the smiling Doc Bogue, sitting on his vault, and published it in The Floyd County Times.

All tell of S.P.'s fun attitude toward life. When the kids had dances at his house, he sat and patted his foot until the last note died down.

Willie Frasure told of some pretty funny pranks the boys pulled growing up around there. The boys caught the Ratliffs gone once and burned sulphur under the house.

Not being acquainted with such doings, I had to get an explanation. Willie said that the house becomes so full of a bad odor that you cannot stay in it until it has time to air out.

CRANDELL LEE SLONE III

Celebrating his first birthday on May 5 with a clown cake and ice cream was Crandell Lee Slone III, son of Crandell Jr. and Roxann Slone. The party was at the home of the young man's grandparents, Crandell and Wanda Slone of Shelbyville, formerly of Allen.

Attending were his great-grandmother Lottie Crisp, formerly of Allen; Linda, Billy and Belinda Robinson of Mt. Washington; William and Michelle Montgomery of LaGrange; Doris and Ashley Webb of Crestwood and Charles and Mary Jackson of Louisville.

The birthday boy is also the great-grandson of Nova Slone Corn of Martin and the great-great-grandson of R.L. and Roxie Mae Pitts of Middle Creek.

Craft business is workshop topic

How to set up a crafts business will be the focus of an Extension-sponsored workshop at the Redbird Mission in Beverly, Ky., July 24.

Topics at the workshop include preparation of a business plan, permits, licenses and regulations, taxes, loans, pricing and recordkeeping, said Patti Rai Smith, University of Kentucky Extension home-based business specialist.

"We have many experts lined up to help crafts makers learn more about operating a profitable business," Smith said.

The workshop will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will continue throughout the day. The workshop is free and open to anyone who wants to learn more about the crafts business.

For more information about the workshop, contact the Floyd County Extension office at 886-2668 or Redbird Mission at 598-2709.

Research tells me that S.P. "Doc Bogue" Ratliff was a man of his own opinion. Without the influence of others, he made up his mind. This is evident in the fact that he did not want to be buried in the ground as is traditional.

Years before his death, he had two vaults constructed above ground, one

When Seconds Count, Think Of Us First.

The number one killer in Kentucky and the nation is heart disease, and it can strike at any time. That's why Our Lady of the Way Hospital is now part of the Heart Emergency Network, a system designed to reduce the time between the onset of a heart attack and the initiation of advanced medical treatment. By combining the resources of Our Lady of the Way Hospital and the Saint Joseph Heart Institute, the Heart Emergency Network assures you of receiving the most advanced cardiac services available.

It's A Matter Of Time. The sooner a heart attack victim receives treatment, the better the chances for complete recovery. The Heart Emergency Network brings immediate cardiac emergency services to where they're needed most: right here at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. We can administer clot-dissolving drugs right in our Emergency Room, quickly restoring cardiac functions and helping minimize damage to the heart.

And we have a direct 24-hour electronic communication link to the physicians at the Saint Joseph Heart Institute.

Know The Signs.

The first step to saving your heart is to lead a heart-healthy lifestyle, which includes eating a high-fiber, low-fat diet; exercising; and not smoking. The next step is to know the symptoms of a heart attack so that you know when to seek help. The warning signs include:

- Pain, pressure, fullness, or a squeezing sensation in the center of the chest, lasting 2 minutes or longer.
- Severe pain that radiates to the shoulders, arms, or neck.
- Shortness of breath, dizziness, fainting, nausea, or sweating.

Some of these symptoms may not be present, or they may subside and return. Any one of them needs immediate attention, and we're ready to give it, any time, day or night.

1989 State-by-State average home prices

It was still possible to buy an average-priced home for under $50,000 in 1989. Two states recorded average selling prices below $50,000 last year—Iowa, the lowest in the nation at $48,883, and Oklahoma at $49,653.

It was also possible to spend more than $225,000 for the average-priced home; Hawaii recorded an average selling price of $228,983 last year. Hawaii's average home price was more than $50,000 ahead of the second most expensive state, Massachusetts, at $175,851.

The average state housing prices are based on more than 450,000 homes sold in 1989 by the 6,000 offices that comprise the CENTURY 21® residential real estate system in the United States.

A total of 40 states had a lower average selling price than the national average of $100,204 recorded by the CENTURY 21 system in the U.S. Seven of the ten states with a higher average were contiguous along the east coast—New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Connecticut, Vermont and Massachusetts.

Twelve states recorded 1989 average selling prices between $50,000 and $59,999. In this group, North Dakota had the lowest average at $51,404, followed in ascending order by South Dakota, Arkansas, Idaho, Montana, Kansas, West Virginia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Missouri and Wyoming.

An additional 11 states recorded averages between $60,000 and $69,999. In ascending order they were, Utah, Oregon, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Ohio, Minnesota, Texas, Colorado and Michigan.

Every state that had an average price in excess of $100,000 either bordered or was within 150 miles of an ocean. Of all the states that bordered an ocean, only Oregon, with an average price of $61,435, was in the lower half of average prices for all states.

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is the largest real estate corporation in the world. Approximately 11 percent of all residential real estate transactions completed in this country were handled by a CENTURY 21 office. Collectively, an estimated $65 billion in real estate was sold last year by the CENTURY 21 system.
