Construction overruns concern board of education

Allen school materials promised by July 23

by Pam Shingler

Escalating costs for the Left Beaver High School, the status of other building projects and discussions of bids occupied a three-and-a-half hour special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education Wednesday night.

"When you're digging into the side of a mountain, you don't know what you're going to find."

James Ellis, architect

The architect and contractor presented change orders totaling almost $300,000 to the original contracts for the school that will consolidate McDowell and Wheelwright high schools.

The hilltop site of the new school on KY 122 near Hi Hat has proved to be more challenging than originally projected, according to the building team.

Hot and wet

There is a 90 percent chance of thunderstorms today. Rains could be heavy at times and the high is expected between 85 and 90 degrees. Tonight there is a chance of thunderstorms clearing after midnight, with the expected low in the low 60s.

Saturday should be mostly sunny with the high expected between 75 and 80 degrees. Saturday night will be mostly clear with the low temperature in the lower 60s. Sunday, look for partly cloudy skies with a chance of light showers and a high in the low 80s.

Reid trial begins

The trial of Martin pharmacist Ronald Reid on federal charges of conspiracy to distribute controlled drugs began yesterday in Fayette County.

Reid is accused of aiding Dr. George Sullivan of Hindman in a scheme to distribute Dilaudid tablets, a Schedule 2 controlled substance intended for pain relief. Sullivan pleaded guilty earlier this week to charges of running a criminal enterprise through the drug distribution scheme.

Sullivan will face formal sentencing Aug. 17 in Fayette Circuit Court.

Francis appointed Wayland patrolman

At a special meeting Monday night of Wayland Town Council, Danny Francis of Garrett was appointed police chief.

Francis, who has had state training and was a Marine Corps policeman, will serve in a part-time capacity until July 23, when he will join the city's staff full time, according to Mayor Hobert Webb.

Francis replaces Mack Stewart who resigned last month to join the Prestonsburg Police Department. Terry Hill has been serving in the interim.

Literacy Luncheon is next Thursday

The third annual Floyd County Literacy Luncheon is set for Thursday, June 28, at noon at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

The event is sponsored by the Floyd County Adult Literacy Council and Prestonsburg Rotary Club to create awareness of the county's adult literacy problems and to recognize tutors and students.

Tickets for the event are available from Rotarians or by calling the council office at 886-READ.

Architect James Ellis and contractor Sam Martin Jr. showed the board a video tape in which topographical maps, footage of the site and statements by excavators and engineers attempted to support their position.

Unanticipated drainage problems and new information on the lay of the land prompted the need for increased expenditures, Martin and Ellis contended.

Almost a dozen core drillings and 20 electronic soundings of the area failed to reveal, they said, a section of the topography where the topsoil, which has to be removed, goes to 28 feet deep. The entire location was apparently believed to be rock under shallow topsoil. Martin referred to the section as a "rock hollow."

"When you're digging into the side of a mountain, you don't know what you're going to find," Ellis told the board members. "You assume the configuration between drillings will be consistent, but that is not always the case."

Some changes in the original drainage plan were required by the state highway department, Martin said, so that runoff from the site does not endanger traffic along the curvy state route.

In addition, the contractor said excavators had run into more water seepage than expected which also affects the drainage system and project costs.

The only negative-price change would result from a highway department order to relocate the school's proposed sewage treatment facility. The plan change would lop some $16,000 from the projected cost.

Problems with excavation of the proposed football field entailed more above-estimate costs, Ellis said eliminating the bleachers and making the field smaller than regulation-size would resolve part of that cost overrun.

The board, however, balked at the requests.

"We're looking at almost $300,000 in change orders tonight on one project," said Supt. Ron Hager after quickly calculating the costs of the seven proposals. "You're talking about (the equivalent of) eliminating five or six classrooms, which is our priority."

The board refused to approve the change orders before having a review of the site by officials of the state Department of Education, despite the contractor's warning that work on

Citizen advisers appointed

In an apparent response to requests that community members and teachers be given a voice in determining budget priorities, Floyd County Board of Education Chairman Dr. James Adams Wednesday night appointed such a committee.

Adams submitted to Supt. Ron Hager a list of "112 to 115" persons from throughout the county to serve on a committee to "make recommendations for prioritizing the budget."

The board chairman added that committee members could also help the board inform citizens of the county about the financial incentives contained in HB 940, the state's new education reform act. Under the new law, school districts can receive more funding if they raise more locally.

Adams asked Hager to inform the proposed committee members and to call a meeting. He also told the other board members that they could review the list and recommend additions to Hager.

At last week's regular meeting, representatives of both the Floyd County Education Forum, a citizens group, and the Floyd County Education Association, made up of teachers, asked the board to expand community input to budget decisions.

Adams' announcement came at the end of special board meeting and followed a public reconvening of the board after an executive session that lasted more than a half-hour. Only a handful of the near capacity crowd that sat through most of the meeting remained when the announcement was made.

the site will be halted.

ALLEN ELEMENTARY

Metal materials for construction of the new Allen Elementary School will be delivered the week of July 23, the board was told by architect Randy Burchett and contractor Ervin Akers. "Are you sure it will be here?" Hager asked, referring to months-long delays. Burchett said he had been assured it would by supplier Don Pelphrey. The architect reported he had been told that "it takes 12 to 14 weeks for a building of this size to be fabricated" by the manufacturer and that about eight weeks' worth of work has been done.

Akers added that the concrete footers and foundation would be poured when the fabricated materials arrive. The contractor estimated the first phase of the building would be completed by "next April or May."

OTHER BUILDINGS
The board was assured that both Adams Middle School and Duff Elementary School (Garrett/Wayland) will be ready for fall usage.

Architect Burchett said the roof has to be completed on the middle school.

While Martin and Ellis anticipate the completion of the Garrett/Wayland consolidated school by late July, they reiterated that certain mandated

Teachers take salary issue to parents

by Pam Shingler

Sporting buttons stating "We will not accept leftovers," members of the Floyd County Education Association turned out en masse for Wednesday night's special meeting of the county Board of Education.

FCEA acting president Bud Reynolds told the board, during the meeting's public comments segment, that the teachers planned to "go to the parents and community tonight," regarding their request for a 20 percent salary increase for the coming year.

Reynolds said he was passing out petitions to the teachers present to be signed by parents in support of the teachers. The petition reads: "We, the parents of Floyd County children, support our teachers in their efforts to obtain a 20 percent pay

'Dreamcoat' dazzles.....

by Kathleen Carroll
Contributing Writer

What has energy and colorful banners, cowboys and camels, and Elvis in Egypt? The answer: "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," performed this summer by the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre.

The story is simple. Joseph, one of the stars of the Book of Genesis, is so favored by his doting father Jacob that his jealous brothers plot against him and sell him into slavery in Egypt.

But Joseph, played by Whitney Wilcoxson, has more comebacks than Richard Nixon, and soon he is Pharaoh's deputy, the man who can read dreams and who keeps Egypt prospering through good years and bad.

His triumph comes when his brothers, who have not shared his good fortunes through the years, arrive begging for food. Joseph forgives them — this is the Bible, after all — and the curtain descends on a happy ending.

The vocally-demanding show is enlivened by the talents of Penelope Walker, Tatiana Michelle, and Chrissy Wright, who share the narration. The blending of their voices creates an exciting sound that will knock your socks off.

The entire cast turns in a spirited performance, full to the brim with energy and happiness. Michael King, as Potiphar, sparks the chorus through a charming softshoe. Tia Lynn Schollenberger writhes across the stage as the lusty Mrs. Potiphar.

A spirit of clowning is provided by Jonathan Goble and Eric Ratcliff in a variety of supporting roles. Neil Seibel and the brothers remember better times during "Those Canaan Days," a schmaltzy, and funny, French cafe number. The real show stopper is Neil Morris as Pharaoh. Telling you why would ruin the surprise — but you won't soon forget it. The music, written for the late '60s and early '70s, is anything but dated in this production. Richard Oberacker and his mini-orchestra with a mega-sound have again worked their magic. What could be a middle-of-the-road pop sound, jumps to life with a hot beat and synthesized rhythms.

Many of the rhythms have metamorphosed into a physical, pulsing, new age sound.

Even the scene changes are a joy. Most of the set is on wheels. The cast folds, unfolds, swings, and rearranges the set, resembling a cartoon with their frenzied motion — and with the set's unexpected pop-out features. Boxes and ramps that serve as simple backdrops, with a few twists become pyramids and other constructions.

Keep an eye out for the wandering Sphinx.

From Joseph's technicolor coat, to the sets, to the scenery, to the costumes — everything on the set radiates vibrant color. The show is sponsored by the Martin County Coal Co. First Commonwealth Bank sponsored the sets and costumes.

An instant smash with children, the whole show is in constant motion,

Out of the dumps

After spending almost two weeks cleaning up about a dozen illegal dumps throughout Floyd County, the county government bought the grass seed, and Coalfield Reclamations of Betsy Layne used its hydro-seeder to reclaim the cleaned areas. The hydro-seeder is a large tanker-type truck from which a worker mans a "gun" that shoots the seed into the surface. Since no equipment has to be set up at each site, the workers were able to complete the reseeding of all the newly cleared dumps in one day. Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said that with grass growing on the illegal dump sites, he hopes people will be less likely to throw their garbage there and instead use the garbage collection system provided by the county. Burglars vandalize supply store

Prestonsburg Police officers are investigating the burglary and vandalism of a local farm supply store.

Ratliff Farm Supply, located on South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg, was reportedly vandalized and robbed late Wednesday night.

Prestonsburg Police Detective Jeff Stumbo reported that the burglars entered the store through the ceiling and vandalized the store before taking "a couple of firearms" and a small amount of cash.

The burglary is under investigation by Det. Stumbo and members of the PPD.

Regional Roundup

Solid waste report questions fund use

PAINTSVILLE—Findings of an audit that uncovered a "material irregularity or illegal act" by a former official and a former employee of the Johnson County Solid Waste Commission will be presented to the next session of the Johnson County Grand Jury, Commonwealth Attorney Leo Marcum said last Friday. The audit showed that more than $14,000 in expenses were not properly withheld from the paychecks of former commission chairman Sherry Lyons and former landfill secretary Peggy Jo Jones. (The Paintsville Herald)

Occupational tax for Ashland proposed

ASHLAND—An Ashland commissioner unveiled a plan Tuesday that he said would shift the tax burden from the elderly and others on fixed income to those working in the city, generating more revenue. Winston C. Morris introduced his plan, which would make dramatic changes in the sources of city income. Under the plan, city stickers would be abolished, the city's insurance tax would be reduced from 14% to 8% and the 1.5% business privilege tax would be cut to 3/4%. To replace the estimated $1.773 million which would be lost, Morris proposed an occupational tax of 3/4%. (Ashland Daily Independent)

New city ordinance to change downtown looks

PAINTSVILLE—Downtown Paintsville will acquire a new look over the next 24 months, thanks to an ordinance adopted last week by city council. The ordinance will require, by June 1992, that all store signs not meeting new criteria be removed. Prohibited will be: the "attachment" of billboards to buildings; more than one sign per building; signs over 30 square feet; signs which cause light or glare problems and signs with hang over the public right of way by more than 12 inches. (The Paintsville Herald)

Testimony begins in Magoffin sex trial

STANTON—The trial of a Magoffin County man and his three sons was briefly interrupted Wednesday when the girl they are accused of sexually abusing broke into tears on the witness stand. Raymond Gibson Sr., 63, of Burning Fork, the girl's grandfather and his three sons: Raymond Gibson Jr., 34; Darvin Gibson, 41 and Russell Gibson, 32, all of southern Indiana were among 23 people indicted by a 1986 Magoffin County grand jury on charges of physically and sexually abusing children. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Garbage rate hike is proposed

LOUISA—In a special meeting Monday, the Louisa City Council, with a 4-2 vote, approved the first reading of an ordinance for an increase in garbage rates. If the ordinance passes in its second reading, household garbage rates will increase from $6 to $7.50 while rates outside the city will rise from $7 to $8.50. Rates for those over 65 will not be affected. The proposed ordinance also carries a rate hike for the 142 businesses located within Louisa. (The Big Sandy News)

Fiscal Court to vote on garbage question

WHITESBURG—Letcher Fiscal Court members held hearings for proposed increases in garbage rates by four contract garbage haulers last week, but instead of granting the raises, court members said they will vote on a mandatory garbage collection ordinance June 29. The ordinance would allow franchise haulers to continue collection, despite the fact that county officials claim that the system has never worked properly. (The Mountain Eagle)

Marijuana seized in FADE raid

LOUISA—The home of Randall Smith, 60, of Rt. 4 in Louisa was raided June 12 by officers from five area law enforcement agencies. Police confiscated 47 marijuana plants, a garbage bag containing marijuana, a container of marijuana seeds, drug paraphernalia, 10 shoulder weapons and two handguns. Smith was not arrested at the time of the raid. (The Big Sandy News)

Fiscal Court freezes fire department funds

INEZ—The 1990-91 allocation for the county's five fire departments and the Martin County Rescue Squad will be frozen until the departments sign a contract with the county. The departments will be asked to agree to the following terms: to respond to any fire in the county where they may be needed; to charge no subscription fee; to charge no more for fire reports than what the individual's insurance will pay and to list the county as co-payee on insurance purchased for them by the county. (The Martin Countian and Mercury)

Court sponsors day care

PIKEVILLE—At Monday's meeting, the Pike County Fiscal Court voted to sponsor day care and transportation services to needy and moderate-income families. The services are in conjunction with Big Sandy ADD and the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources and are a part of the JOBS Program created by the Welfare Reform Act. Pike County is one of 18 selected to participate in the JOBS program. The program is targeted for families who receive Aid for Families with Dependent Children. (AFDC). (Appalachian News-Express) tests cannot be done until the site has a water supply.

Martin said that some testing has been done with the help of Maytown Volunteer Fire Department which has brought water to the site.

Burchett and Martin reported they have a preliminary site plan for the proposed Prestonsburg High School. The project, Burchett said, is "at its infancy."

For the proposed addition to Betsy Layne Elementary, Ellis and Martin said core drilling must still be done on the site and that state approvals are needed for site work.

OTHER BUSINESS
Confusion arose over bidding on the demolition of the burned out Betsy Layne Elementary building.

Russell Frazier, assistant superintendent for finance, reported that while one bid had been opened at last week's meeting, another bid had come in and had not been delivered to either him or Hager. The bid had reached the administration receptionist before deadline for bidding and apparently had been routed to Frankie Francis, buildings and grounds director. However, the bid was not forwarded for opening along with the other.

Questions of whether the other bid had been accepted were raised, at which time Attorney Bill Gordon Francis said that if it had been accepted, then it either had to be honored or a motion would have to be made to reject it and rebid the demolition at the July meeting. The attorney advised that any new bid advertisement should instruct the bidders to turn bids into the superintendent's office directly.

Hager termed the situation "embarrassing," and the board agreed to have Frazier readvertise the bidding.

Pop concessions were won by Pepsi and Coca Cola representatives with individual schools deciding which brand to accept. Frazier pointed out that Magoffin County schools are able to purchase soft drinks at almost $1 per case less than Floyd.

A Coke representative who was present at the meeting reported that if a company is bidding for the business of the entire county, the company can give a better rate. Frazier said that school principals indicated they preferred to have a choice.

This week's special session was a fiscal year "wrap up" meeting. The next regularly scheduled board meeting will be July 11.

Two graduate from Transy

Two Floyd County students received bachelor of arts degrees from Transylvania University in commencement ceremonies May 27.

Peter Winston Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cook of Prestonsburg, graduated with a major in psychology. He is a Paintsville High School graduate.

Lisa Harris, daughter of Elizabeth Martin, is a graduate of Allen Central High School. She also majored in psychology.

Local hero

After being recognized by Reader's Digest and President George Bush, Dan Greene has become well known for his work with The David School and literacy programs. Cathy Brown and a crew from WSAZ-TV3 were in town last week to interview Greene for a Hometown Hero spot to run during this week's Celebrate Floyd County series. The spot is to appear on Saturday, June 23, during NewsCenter 3 at Six. The Channel 3 team surprised Greene during the June 14 Rotary Club meeting. (Photo by Marty Backus) raise. (Mandated 10 percent from the state, plus 10 percent new monies coming into the county.)"

The teachers will "take the petitions door to door and to businesses" throughout the county, Reynolds said.

Copies of the petition will be distributed at next Thursday's meeting of school representatives in the organization, who will then be expected to get copies to other teachers, according to FCEA public relations director Gwen Hammond. She said the signed petitions will be turned in to the board at its July 11 meeting.

The board at its regular June meeting last week agreed to seek funds for a 15 percent increase. Ten percent of the increase is mandated by the state; any additional is to be decided locally.

Reynolds pointed out Wednesday that with the state's increase in income and sales taxes, a 10 percent raise will amount to an "actual decrease" in pay.

Several teachers had taped hand-made posters throughout the cafeteria of Prestonsburg High School where the board was meeting. "The color we want is green. Let's talk!!!" one read. "Commitment + investment = excellence," said another.

Reynolds told the board the salary was not the teachers' only concern, however. He read a list of other concerns in response to a request from board member James Duff.

The list includes:
Task Force made up of teachers, students, parents and community leaders to plan for implementation of House Bill 940.

Appointment of department heads.

Content area specialists to assist teachers.

Professional treatment: to commit to professional development of teaching, input into development programs we are to teach, pay for teachers to attend conferences, sponsoring of more workshops, training

Student honored

Judy Elizabeth Lawson, a student at McDowell High School, has been selected as a United States Achievement Academy National Award Winner in art.

She was nominated by art instructor Johnny Stambo.

prior to implementation when new programs are mandated, low-through on new programs.

Teachers' aides (anything that will eliminate time wasted by teachers, freeing them for classroom instruction.

Promotion/merit to be on performance of person in question, free from political affiliation.

Consistency of programs and materials among schools.

Fair, adequate and meaningful evaluation of teachers by qualified people in their content areas of instruction.

Open communication between the board, administration and classroom teachers concerning instructional decisions, directions and implementation of instructional programs.

Input and participation in determining district-wide budget priorities.

Reynolds thanked board members Dr. Mary Hall, James Duff, Ray "Shag" Campbell and Tommy Boyd for meeting with the teachers' group to discuss concerns.

The association official added the teachers have met more than 75 times and "are committed."

Chosen evaluator for Cities program

Susan V. Martin, administrative assistant at Highlands Regional Medical Center, has been selected as an on-site evaluator for Kentucky Certified Cities Program, a statewide program aimed at enhancing economic development for Kentucky cities.

Evaluators meet with community officials to examine community aspects including industrial/tourism development, community planning, utilities/infrastructure, downtown revitalization, education and community appearance. After each visit, evaluators recommend ways for the community to capitalize on its assets and remedy any obstacles to growth.

Martin will begin the evaluation visits this month. Cities that receive certification are honored at an awards luncheon in November. In 1989, more than 70 cities participated in the program, and 64 were certified.

The Certified Cities Program is conducted by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce as part of the Chamber's efforts to prepare Kentucky for the coming century. The program has received national awards.

In a swirl of brightly colored fabrics, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" ends with a bang. The show, one of four in repertory at Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, is a delight for adults and children alike. (Photo by Tom Carroll)

Setting an example

Jeri Lynn Baines, Miss East Kentucky for 1990, recently donated blood at the Central Kentucky Blood Center's donor station in Prestonsburg. Raines had volunteered to help promote the blood center's efforts to recruit blood donors during the difficult summer months, according to Tim Thompson of the center. A University of Kentucky junior, Raines is from Elkhorn City. She will compete for the title of Miss Kentucky in Louisville on July 14.

Rural phone rates drop

Some rural South Central Bell customers will pay 95 cents to $8.70 less each month as a result of a regulatory plan designed to give the telephone company and its customers the opportunity to share the gains achieved through efficient management.

The rate decreases will be reflected in mileage charges paid by customers who live in areas more remote from their telephone switching office. "These decreases will make one-party service more economical for our rural customers," explained South Central Bell Manager Art Willett. Customers who live the farthest from the switching office will see the biggest decrease.

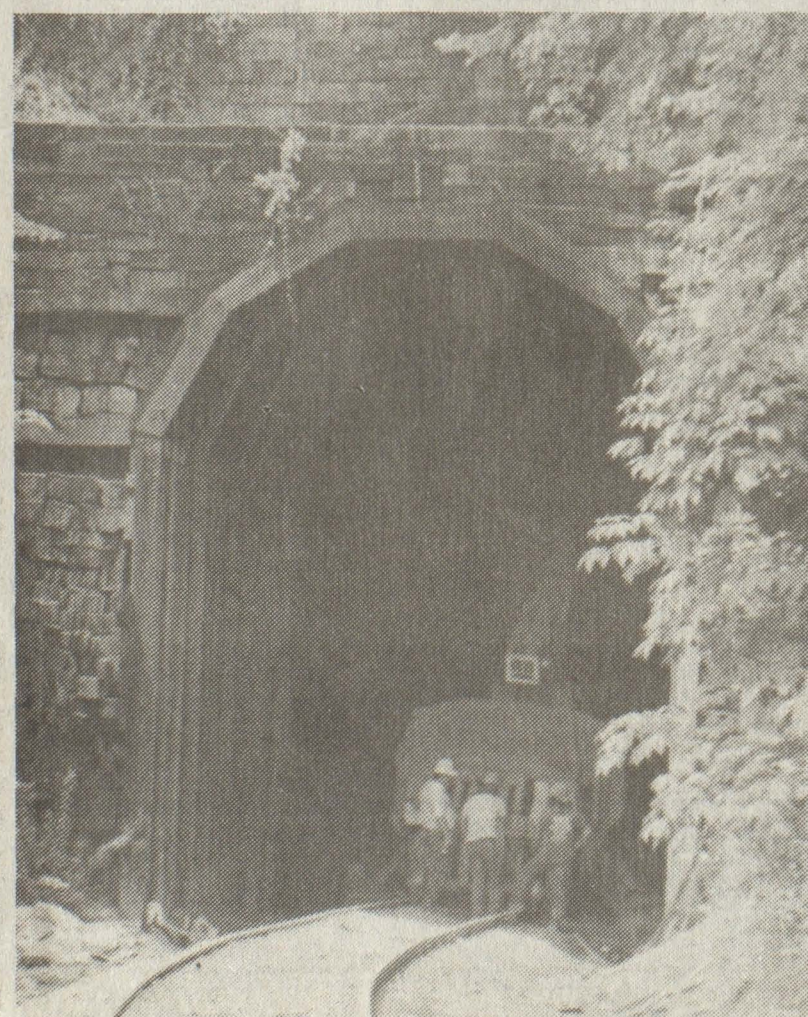

The regulatory plan, called incentive regulation, was approved by the state Public Service Commission in 1988 on a two-year "experimental" basis. Each six months, South Central Bell calculates and reports its earnings to the commission. The company and its customers share earnings above the level authorized by the commission.

If the company earns below the authorized level, telephone customers pay only a portion of any increase needed to bring earnings back to the bottom of the range of authorized earnings.

"The incentive plan is designed to give our customers the opportunity to share in gains achieved through good management of the business and to give the company positive motivation to operate even more efficiently," Willett said.

According to Willett, this will be the third time telephone rates for certain services have been reduced since the incentive regulation plan was implemented.

Repairs 'under' way

CSX Transportation workers began repair work on the Midas Tunnel at Eastern this week. A section of the tunnel's roof collapsed in February causing a train to partially derail. The train's engine was reportedly only two cars ahead of the area that collapsed. Workers said that the faulty roof section was being reinforced with Gunite, a sprayable form of concrete, reportedly stronger and longer lasting than the wooden beams that have supported the tunnel roof for many years. with a lot of energy. It's also a short show, only an hour and 20 minutes in length, not enough time for them to get bored. The Sunday and Wednesday night performances make the show ideal for church groups to treat themselves to a picnic, fellowship, and a wonderful Bible story.

There is a crazy quilt of musical styles in the show. It includes a softshoe, reminiscent of vaudeville. Cowboy ballads were never so sweet as "There's Another Angel In Heaven." You can just picture Gene Autry moseying across the stage. If this weren't enough, there's a calypso song and dance complete with huge bananas.

And energy? From the moment the cast explodes onto the stage to the irrepressibly joyful ending, the show will have the audience laughing and clapping to the music — and will send them out smiling into the summer night.

The show will be performed throughout the summer. Call the Box Office at 886-9274 for information and reservations.

Hazard scene of voc. ed. ceremony

The Hazard State Vocational Technical School will host commencement exercises for Vocational Education Region 12 at 7 p.m. on Friday, June 29, at the Sherman Neace Athletic Center, M.C. Napier campus, Hazard.

The guest speaker will be Dr. C. Nelson Grote. Anyone who has completed the program requirements for graduation since September 1989 at the Hazard State Vo-Tech School, Breathitt County AVEC, Knott County AVEC, Lee County AVEC, Leslie County AVEC, or Letcher County AVEC will be eligible for graduation at that time.

Admissions deadline applies to documents

The University of Kentucky's new admissions deadline for undergraduates, moved to Aug. 1 for the fall 1990 semester, is also the deadline for all necessary documents to arrive in the admissions office.

The key documents which need to arrive in the admissions office by Aug. 1 include official transcripts and official test score reports, says Joe Fink, UK director of admissions.

"People need to request that transcripts be sent to our office as soon as possible," he said.

"For a person who wants to enroll at UK this fall to be well served, the applicant needs to complete the process with us as early as possible," he added.

Students who have applied for admission during the first week of school in past years found many of the classes they wanted to enter were already filled, and most of the housing options already taken, Fink noted.

Park dances

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is the scene of community square dancing every Saturday night during the summer.

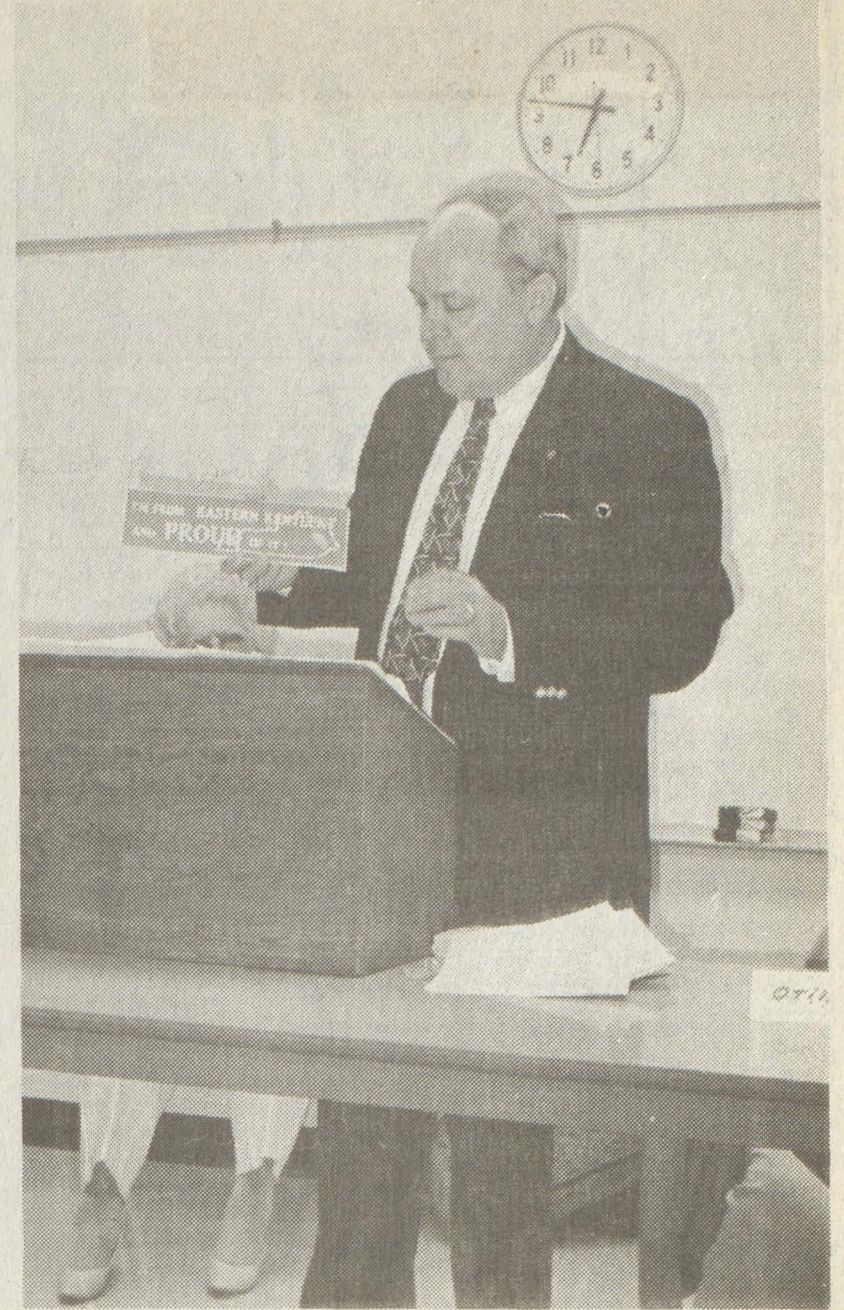

The dances, open to the public, are set for 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the campground, according to recreation director Johnny Martin.

Granddaughter honored

Cindy Griffith has been awarded certificates for the Student Government's Representative of the Year and Outstanding Office Helper at Southside Middle School in Florence, S.C. Get some pride back

Marty Backus, chairperson of the Floyd County Litter Task Force and publisher of The Floyd County Times, addressed the Floyd County Chapter of Retired Persons Friday asking them to help take pride in their county and get involved in the cleanup campaign. As he handed out bumper stickers reading "I'm From Eastern Kentucky and Proud of It," he said people need to accept that as a creed to live by and take pride in the beauty of the county, instead of defacing it by throwing out litter as they drive by. Why is that?

Last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Kentucky Press Association had its summer conference at Kentucky Dam Village, affording me my first venture into the western part of the state. Although I grew up in Kentucky and have traveled and lived all over the US, I confess I'd never been west of Louisville in this state.

Of course, as those who've been there know, I was in for a treat. Those rolling hills and lush farms are almost as beautiful as our higher terrain. I found the people very much Kentucky with the same language and warmth as their eastern kinfolk. Two things pose great differences, however.

First, the roads are a joy to drive on. There are four-lane highways all over, even though the two-lane ones are for the most part straight and smooth. On country two-lane roads, I had to check myself to keep the speedometer at or below 70, something we never have to worry about since on most of our roads feeling safe at 55 is an unusual sensation.

I kept wondering why this section has such good roads and ours are so poor. There, four-lane highways parallel and crisscross smaller roads that are better than just about any we have. Why is that?

Second, the cleanliness of the roadways there was a striking contrast to ours. Seldom is there a stretch of highway, primary or secondary, that does not sport an "Adopt a Highway" sign. The sponsors range from businesses to civic clubs to government offices to church groups to school organizations.

So intrigued was I that I started looking for litter. In three days of driving throughout the region I saw one brown paper bag and one aluminum can along the roadways. Contrast that with what you know I saw when I started climbing back toward the hills en route home. Why is that?

There was one major disappointment. I noted on the map that I was less than an hour away from the Mississippi River. Having spent four of the best years of my life in Arkansas near the mighty river, I wanted to see it again for the first time in 12 years.

It was a rather silly whim, but I drove to Wickliffe, Kentucky, where a bridge crosses the Ohio River to Illinois and then almost immediately another crosses the Mississippi into Missouri. I simply crossed into Missouri, turned around and drove back to Illinois where a decrepit sign marks the site of old Fort Defiance, long gone, and the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

I had to see the joining of these magnificent waterways, so I veered off the highway and onto a dirt road that took me to the point where the Ohio empties into Old Man River. Recent high waters had littered the low lying area with debris, including most prominently a host of plastic milk jugs.

The sight was sad, but nevertheless I got out of the car and walked to the waters' edge. I had intended to sit down on a rock on the river bank and watch nature's majesty. But as I neared the water, my sense of smell was assaulted. Imagine being surrounded by 100 Port-a-Pots that had not been emptied for a week on the hottest day of August. That's kin to the odor the two rivers emitted. I couldn't stay.

Driving off, I thought of all the open sewers that empty into the Beaver creeks and Mud Creek and all along the Big Sandy, which merges with the Ohio. Then I thought of that occurring thousands of times over as the Ohio winds its way from Pittsburgh to Wickliffe. And I thought of the same thing happening where the Missouri, the Arkansas and all of the other rivers dump into the Mississippi. Then the tired old river pours itself into the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean which mingles with the Pacific and every other ocean.

Then, I thought that added to this is all the industrial waste that runs unchecked into these bodies of water. And I wondered at how we could do this to our earth. I wondered if anyone could smell that putrid aroma and have much hope for the future or much respect for our record of stewardship. There's no doubt that we are on the verge of being the first species to destroy its own habitat — and in the process destroy ourselves. Why is that?

Nix to an amendment
Back in the real world, I am increasingly concerned over the vocal hysteria that's manifesting itself over the issue of flag burning. I'm concerned that a significant segment of the population is remaining silent out of fear of being labeled liberal or unpatriotic or, horror of horrors, a communist.

It pains me to see radicals burning the American flag, and as many times as I've disagreed with the national administration's philosophies and tactics, I have always revered the flag — the symbol of a form of government that, while not perfect, is still the best man has ever devised.

At the same time, the movement to make flag desecration the subject of a Constitutional amendment terrifies me. I am in awe of the Constitution. I get a lump in my throat when I think of what wisdom, foresight and inspiration was involved in its creation. The one thing that sets us apart from all the people of the world is this document which after 200 years remains the envy of those who love freedom. I cannot imagine living under a system that omits even one of our cherished rights.

An idiot could burn the original piece of paper on which the Constitution was written and all its facsimiles and its concepts would remain a guarantee for our way of life. The concepts, floating in the air around us, embedded in our minds and hearts, are infinitely more important than the piece of paper on which they are written.

And perhaps the most important concept is the freedom of speech, the freedom to dissent, to criticize, to go against the main. Like the memorable patriot, I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.

The views of some folks make me so angry, I want to throw up, to chew nails, to spit. But because I cherish the right to my peculiar opinions, I respect theirs, and I will tolerate them — because I have the right to be tolerated.

The flag is not the Constitution, it is not the Bill of Rights. It is a symbol of the these freedoms and of this nation. Burning it does not singe the concepts. Attempts to squelch dissent, however, hit at the heart of the Constitution and of the nation. They burn huge holes in the fabric of freedom itself. That's what scares me.

And I'm scared of the rash of politicians so eager to flow with the vocal tide that they would allow our system to be eaten into — the system that allows them to be. Is public office so important to them that they propose to tamper with the most basic of freedoms?

So, what if the Constitution is amended in this fashion for this reason? Then what if a pseudo-patriot decides philosophy poses radical questions that are unpatriotic, will college students be deprived of the study of the world's great thinkers? What if another false prophet decrees that blond, fair-complexioned people are superior, what happens to those of us who don't fit the mold?

Our military men fought against this way of thinking in World War II. For 40-some years, we've expended zillions of dollars combating the narrowness of communist-bloc countries where the freedom of speech and dissent were not tolerated.

It's ironic. Now when the countries of Eastern Europe are testing the wings of freedom, we — the shining beacon of democracy — are considering outlawing dissent.

It's enough to leave any true patriot, any true believer in democracy and freedom shivering in his or her shoes. Brrrr.

"It will take a lot of courage," County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. cautioned members of the Floyd Fiscal Court last week as he introduced the county's new solid waste ordinance for its first reading. The ordinance provides that all homeowners must file a permit with Floyd County Solid Waste, showing that they have an approved means of garbage disposal. In addition, the court authorized $50,000 for a down payment on an Osborne Branch property for a new sanitary landfill...The investigation of the June 7 slaying of Chester Calhoun drew an inquest from the FBI involving possible violations of the victim's civil rights. Calhoun was shot and killed by trooper Phillip Nickles after he was stopped and resisted arrest...David King, one of the two brothers under 21-year sentence for the kidnap-murder of James L. Wells, made an unsuccessful prison break attempt from LaGrange prison on June 9. He and another prisoner were found before nightfall...A recent $97,650 HUD grant to the David Community Development Corporation is the only one of its kind in the state. The grant will be used to build a David volunteer fire station and to pay engineering costs for a new housing development there...Owners of property in the Watergap area which has been condemned by the state for the construction of the new KY 80 stand to receive substantially increased cash settlements for their property as a result of circuit court jury decisions here in recent weeks. The jury more than doubled the assessments in several cases and in one case almost quadrupled the original award...There died: James K. Crisp, 62, of Martin at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Clinis Waddles, 61, of Topmost, at General Hospital in Grundy, Va.; Orville Elmo Cornette, 65, of Auxier at his home; Carmel Witten, 65, of Wittensville, at Paintsville Hospital; Chester "Red" Johnson, 54, of Garner at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Floyd County schools may receive as much as $557,000 in additional funds from the state in the 1960-61 school year, Superintendent V.O. Turner said this week. Estimates indicate Floyd County could possible receive $2,065,000 in state funds under the Minimum Foundation Program in the forthcoming school year. This compares with $1,507,879 the school district received in the 1959-60 school year...The low-rent public housing program proposed for Prestonsburg was apparently in good standing as the City Council voted to continue the planning service necessary to such an improvement...A scholarship fund which would benefit one graduating senior from each of Floyd County's nine high schools was proposed this week by the First National Bank...Three new burglaries by "front door artists" were added to the growing list of break-ins in the area the last few days. Robbed Tuesday night was the Estill post office. The second break-in was the entrance into the Lackey Motor Company. Robbery of the Richmond-Callahan Hardware and Furniture Store at Inez was another...There died: Anderson Moore, 70, of McDowell at McDowell Hospital; Wilbur Raymond Joy, 57, of Prestonsburg, at his home; Ed Waddles, 83, of Bypro, at a son's home; Ballard L. Hughes, 76, of Lackey, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Millard Hall, 43, of Wheelwright, at McDowell Memorial Hospital; Dora Brown, 71, of Drift, at her home; Frankie Reynolds, 59, of Printer, at her home.

County and state officials this week sought to clear the right-of-way of the Left Beaver road of all encroachments so that a contract for blacktop surfacing for a part of the route may be awarded on or about July 12, Judge E.P. Hill announced...The Prestonsburg City Council has asked that an engineer from the Kentucky Public Service Commission be asked to make an appraisal of the property of the Prestonsburg Water Company which the City hopes to buy. An appraisal made by an "independent" engineer was $125,000...Two fires here Wednesday created damage estimated at $3,000-$5,000. The first of the blazes was the home of George Burchett. Late Wednesday, a fire broke out in the cleaning department of the Prestonsburg Dry Cleaners located in the Harkins building...There died: Elizabeth Lafferty, 92, of Bull Creek, at a daughter's home; Kimer Davis, 60, of Drift, at Martin; Rebecca Hager Baldrige, 50, of East Point, at her home; Maggie Mullett, 6, of Minnie, at Stumbo Memorial Hospital in Lackey; Minnie Rader, 44, at Beaver Valley Hospital.

Recently, while waiting to take pictures of the county reseeding some area dumps they had only two weeks ago cleared, I noticed that someone had been dumping again. There lay fresh garbage in an area that had taken several hours to clear. So, as I sat in my car getting angrier and angrier, I thought it was about time to quit handling these criminals with kid gloves and say what I really think.

What a disgrace. I can't believe how inconsiderate some folks can be. There are people in this county who are working very hard to see it cleaned up. The county government has put in many manhours clearing illegal dumps. And yet, with one unconcerned toss of a hand, out goes a disposable cup or a soda can, consequently, in seconds, destroying the beauty it took centuries to create. And at the same time the dumper says to those who clean, "you are wasting your time, cause I don't care."

You people, and you know who you are, who dump your trash over the hillside should be ashamed of yourself. You are a disgrace and don't deserve to be called Floyd Countians, because obviously you don't care about the condition of this county or your neighbors.

I'd like everyone to know that the County Judge-Executive, the County Attorney and the County Magistrates, as well as the Sheriff's Department and the County Ecology Officer, have all agreed to do their utmost to prosecute and bring to justice those who deface our lands.

I am only one among many who have pledged to keep our eyes open and report any violators of the county litter laws. And, I don't care if a person hates me for turning them in. They apparently don't care about the rest of us or they wouldn't be trashing up the land we have to live on.

How can anyone be so callous and uncaring, and stupid. There is a mandatory garbage pick up in this county. Everyone is billed $8 per month. If you can set it out on your curb and have someone come there and pick it up for such a small amount of money, why bother loading up the car and driving to a secluded place to throw it over the hill?

What do you think happens to it then? Do you think it disappears? No! It lies there and accumulates and draws rats into someone else's view and onto their property. It doesn't go away, people. Wise up! And who do you think suffers? Your children, because they are the ones who will have to live with the mess or clean it up.

And when you dump your sewage into the creek, where do you think it goes? Sure it may be out of your sight, but it floats down to somewhere else. "Get it out of my yard! Who cares where it goes after that." This subject makes me angry. The good Lord didn't create this earth for us to trash it and abuse it. It's only on loan for a short time — as the song goes, we need "to save some for tomorrow, keep it and pass it on down." The earth is something to treasure, not destroy. Think about that the next time you uncaringly toss garbage out the door.

Some people may say "Nuclear war will destroy the earth soon anyway, so why bother?" Well we don't know this. Even Army soldiers while in the field will put their cigarette butts in their pocket until back in garrison. Maybe they know something we don't.

If the world is going to be destroyed, let God do it, it's not our place, we are just renters. So remember, you litterers, people are watching you and you will be punished in one way or another.

And parents, please teach your children the importance of disposing of waste properly. It's really discouraging to go downtown Prestonsburg on Saturday morning and see all the trash left there by the teenagers from the night before. Yes, it gets cleaned up. But, who do you think pays the salary of the person picking it up? Your tax money. If nothing else I've said prompts you to teach your children, maybe the idea that it affects your wallet will!

Kim's Korner

By Kim Frasure

In this column I'd like to try to bring a smile to a few faces. Sometimes, in this crazy world of ours it's rare to see good news or hear it on the tube. Therefore I try to make this a space for someone to read and enjoy.

But, unfortunately this week I can't live up to that. You see, we've received some very disturbing news of a former co-worker, Frank Clark. Frank, was a member of the editorial staff here. We talked occasionally over stories or special editions, my girls and Frank's girlfriend.

I didn't know Frank outside of work, but I never knew of him without a smile, a friendly word and an optimistic outlook. My youngest daughter would head for Frank and his computer when visiting me at work. He'd always let her play a game or two and she would question him to no end. But, he always answered her with a smile.

Frank has been diagnosed with having a brain tumor and was hospitalized at Good Samaritan in Lexington. I heard Tuesday night, his family was moving him home to Pennsylvania for surgery. I can't tell you how unsettling news like this is. I can only ask you for prayers and best wishes for a fine young man, Frank Clark. *****

If I may, I'd like to extend a thank you to William "Bill" Scheidrich of Michigan. I only met Bill the day of his and my Aunt Janet's wedding. They always lived too far away for me to be able to visit so I never saw Bill again until Janet's funeral.

Janet used to call me here at work and send me cards about her favorite Kim's Korner. She let me know, in her own words, how proud she was to open The Floyd County Times and see her niece.

She said she wished she had my courage and spunk. As I told Bill, I couldn't understand her thinking of me with courage, when she fought for over 30 years with diabetes, going through open heart surgery, and yet she fought harder and harder.

Janet was spunky, and I can't express how good it makes me feel to know that her husband continues to read her niece's column. He may be a born Yankee, but he's now a Hillbilly and us Littles are proud to have him. Thank you, Bill!

Against funding

Dear Editor,

I think it is ridiculous that the Fiscal Court would agree to give Dale McKinney $5000 to buy fireworks. That money could be spent for more important things than somebody's big party. Besides, the way Mr. McKinney can shoot off his mouth they shouldn't need any fireworks anyway.

Kentucky doesn't often enjoy the national praise the newly enacted education reform program has attracted. Called "the most intelligent state reform program that has been adopted anywhere in the country," Kentucky's reform legislation has been held up as a model by education leaders, by other state's Governors, and even by President Bush.

From coast to coast editorial writers commend it to their own legislators as a bold stroke, "sweeping away entrenched bureaucracies, entrenched disparities in spending and entrenched attitudes about schools and how schools should be run." (San Antonio Express News)

The long history of neglect and minimal spending has victimized Kentucky by such state rankings as:

1. 50th in adults with high-school diploma;
2. 5th in unemployment;
3. 49th in college graduates; and
4. 46th in per-pupil spending for education (despite claims of many that Kentucky has been "spending and spending").

In addition more than one-quarter of our Kentucky children are beginning life under severe economic and social disadvantage. Without special effort to break this cycle, many will not acquire the educational skills to provide for their own support, let alone contribute to the Kentucky economy.

The Kentucky Education Reform Act has been termed a "revolution." To that I say, "right on!" That's what our citizens demanded and that's what the General Assembly and Gov. Wilkinson have provided. It is revolutionary—it's proof that Kentucky's deep-seated educational problems are solvable; it's complex; it's long-term; and it will be very disruptive to "business as usual" in the educational establishment. One of our problems here (and in most places in the United States) has been the grab for the simple solution or the "quick fix." This program does not do that and that's why it is so special.

The program is an integrated whole, a garment with pieces that fit together. It's systemic, not cosmetic, change. It's more important and more ambitious than reform in other states because it doesn't target just one simple solution. It offers a comprehensive program based on national thinking with some unique Kentucky twists.

We would never say this program is perfect, or that it goes far enough in every way. But it does put in place the tools to create basic change in the way students are taught.

The law says that "schools shall expect high levels of achievement of all students." Multiple approaches to help schools help students learn have been created. These new tools comprise the "whole" program.

They include school performance standards; rewards and sanctions based on school performance; new performance based testing; the elimination of patronage and nepotism; continuity in state education leadership; decisions made at the local school level; significantly expanded remedial study and pre-school programs; family resource and youth service centers; additional teacher preparation, strong state oversight and authority over malfunctioning districts, and much, much more.

Finally, let me conclude by discussing taxes. For the first time in the last 20 years the General Assembly and the Governor faced true reality. A state near the bottom of the nation in school spending can't create new jobs without investing in the education of its future workers and citizens. No one likes raising taxes—the Prichard Committee volunteer citizen members included—and it's human nature that a tax increase draws opposition.

BUT, LET'S GET THE FACTS STRAIGHT!!

The new taxes (one cent sales tax, income tax modifications, and corporate taxes) are projected to raise $1.27 billion in General Fund revenue through 1992. The 1990-92 elementary and secondary education budget amounts to $949.7 million more than the present budget. This is 74.7% of the new money in the tax bill. Higher education will receive $210.5 million more and the "work force development" (vocational education) $27.6 million more, bringing the total new education spending to $1.188 billion more than the present budget. This is 93.5% of the new tax revenues contained in House Bill 940. I believe it to be far cry from the "less than half" myth that is being perpetuated by critics of the new legislation, which detracts from the real challenge—improving schools.

I say the Task Force, the General Assembly and Gov. Wilkinson should be commended for their courage and foresight. Let's be proud of what has been done. Now, if the Governor, legislators, parents, citizens, teachers, school officials and media work as hard to get reform in the classroom—admittedly a big job—as they did to get it in the statutes, Kentucky can be assured our children will be the real winners.

Scripps Howard News Service
Roger Smith earned more than $2 million in 1989 as chief executive officer of General Motors Corp. That's no small amount, but it's not outrageous when you consider that GM led the nation in sales and profits last year.

Dozens of CEOs earned more money than Smith in 1989. So you could argue that the biggest fish in the pond is entitled to be as well compensated as the other chief executives.

But whatever the merits of paying princely salaries to corporate managers while they're working, there is not much to be gained by paying them princely pensions after they retire.

That is why GM is taking so much flak for its decision to pay Smith $1.2 million a year, nearly doubling his pension, after he steps down on Aug. 1. He'll be making as much in two weeks of retirement as the typical auto worker earns in a year.

Admittedly, GM sold cars and made money during the 10 years Smith served as CEO, but its share of the US auto market fell from 43 percent to about 35 percent. Hardly a reason to rejoice.

"We think Roger Smith could eke out a retirement at $749,000 a year," said Michigan Treasurer Robert Bowman, who opposed the increase for the state pension fund, which owns 1.5 percent of GM stock.

All told, the new pension plan for Smith and 3,500 other GM executives will cost the company an additional $42 million this year.

"GM could make much better use of this money," said Bowman. No doubt the United Auto Workers will have similar views. Look for the UAW to use Smith's pension as a bargaining wedge when it negotiates a new contract with the three big auto companies this summer.

It's one thing to pay an executive $1 million a year when he's working. It's something else to pay him $1 million a year when he's fly-fishing in Canada, golfing in Palm Springs or visiting his maiden aunt in Columbus, Ohio.

The argument that good people will quit the company unless they are showered with benefits is mostly hokum. It's perpetuated by executives who cheerfully serve on each other's boards of directors.

One suspects many of these people would make less somewhere else, not more.

Yet matching the other guy's benefit package has become a game of one-upmanship in which every company tries to be more generous than the national average. You can see where that leads.

The worst example of nest-feathering is the "golden parachute," a severance agreement under which executives who lose their jobs are given millions of dollars to go away.

Armand Hammer, the 92-year-old chief executive of Occidental Petroleum, has a severance deal that could pay him more than $16 million. Sidney Sheinberg, president of MCA, the movie-maker, would get $16.8 million, 23 times his salary. Toymaker John Amerman, Mattel's CEO, would get five times his salary and benefits if he were fired after a corporate takeover.

The list goes on and on. Often, the parachutes protect a whole squadron of executives, not just the man at the top.

Stockholders are beginning to balk at these agreements. In some cases, suits have been filed to prevent excessive compensation.

Corporate boards should stop behaving like good old boys and ask themselves whose interests they think they're protecting.

As long as companies are willing to make such deals, CEOs will be happy to accept them.

Whenever I am in Washington, DC, I go to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial to spend a few moments with my buddies. During that quiet time near dawn, I remember each of them as they were. As I touch each name on the Wall, I can still see their faces and hear their voices. We were so young, so full of life. Death had not touched us, and we bore no scars of battle.

Dying was a concept as abstract as patriotism, yet each of us—as had the generations before us—soon came to understand the meaning of both. Those of us who eventually made it home had left our youth in Vietnam, but we returned with a commitment to our friends who will be forever young. In this respect, our generation is no different than those who answered their country's previous calls to arms.

Our commitment is not to their memory alone, but also to the ideals and values they died believing in. I'm not ashamed to admit it: Our flag, to me, is the living symbol of all those things, good and true, that my buddies laid down their lives for. In life, they respected and loved what it stands for.

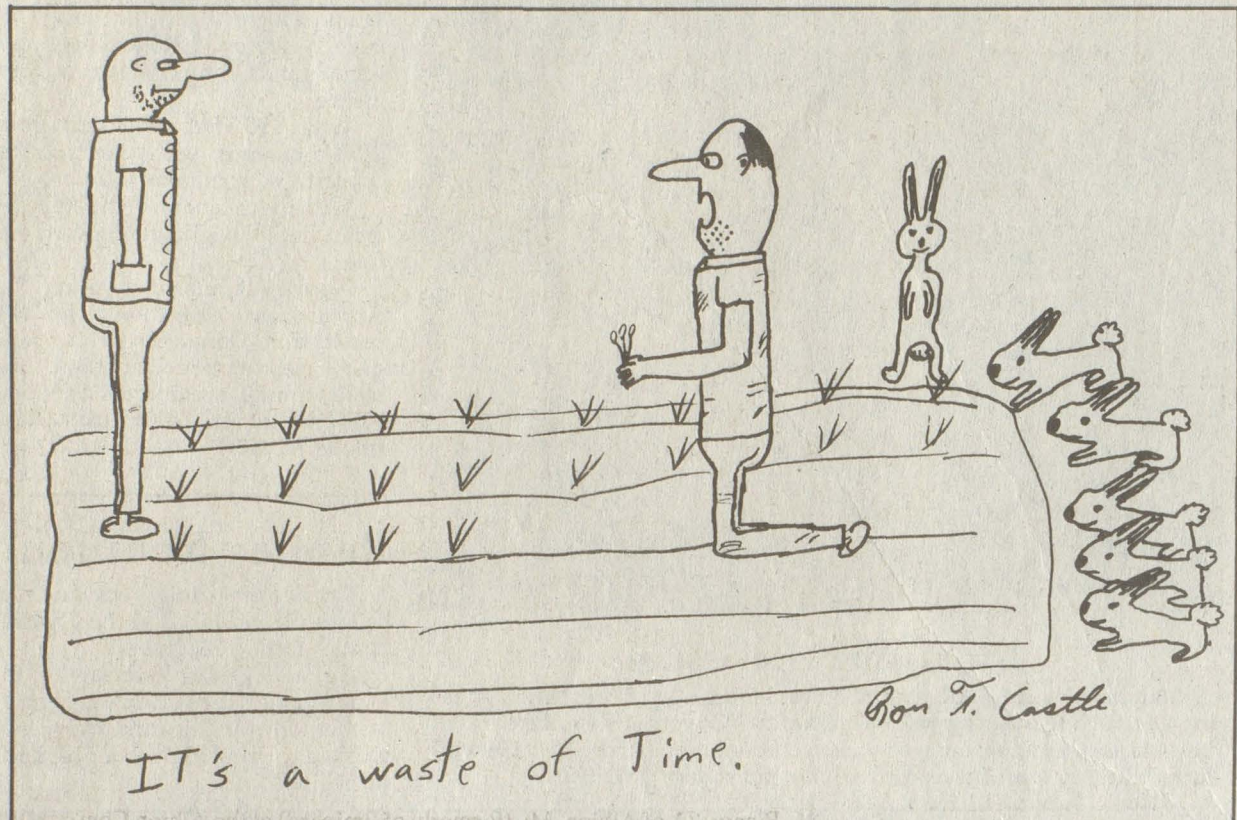

And in death, it draped their caskets in honored glory, and in memory of who they were, what they did, and why they did it.

When someone burns that flag, or spits on it, or tramples it, then he is desecrating not just the flag, but also the memory of those brave men and women. To accord such repugnant acts of disrespect and defiance constitutional protection based on some legal interpretation of "free speech" defies logic and must not be permitted to continue.

"We, the people" have the right and the obligation to protect our flag by adopting a narrowly drawn constitutional amendment which will settle this issue once and for all. Statutes which existed prior to Texas v. Johnson have been overturned. Congress' attempt to draft new flag-protection legislation now faces the constitutional challenge we predicted it would.

The only sure course is the one that made the most sense from the beginning: Amend the Constitution.

Our flag deserves this protection. It is the torch the poet spoke of that we the living must hold high and pass on to future generations. We have a commitment to those who are no longer with us, as well to those who will follow us, to Stand By Our Flag.

SOLDIERS FACING EARLY RETIREMENT DESERVE OUR HELP

With the apparent collapse of Communism in Eastern Europe and a relaxation in world tensions, Congress and the Bush administration have pledged to reduce military spending and our current troop levels. In order to meet new budget constraints, each branch of our armed forces will be cutting thousands of personnel.

These reductions will save billions of dollars; however, they do not come without a human cost. Those people discharged early will be thrust into a very competitive job market without many of the benefits that non-service workers would receive if they were laid off. After years of faithful duty, many soldiers will face unemployment without adequate health-care coverage for themselves or their families.

These men and women deserve better than this and I have cosponsored legislation that will create a package of benefits to help ease the transition between military service and civilian life.

This legislation includes measures that will:

- * Provide pay for officers and enlisted personnel who are involuntarily separated after seven years of continuous and honorable service. The legislation will remove the current $30,000 cap on separation pay.

* Qualify soldiers for 26 weeks of unemployment benefits seven days after being discharged. Current law only provides for 13 weeks of benefits that start four weeks after termination from the service.

* Provide job search and referral services for eligible service personnel and their spouses, along with priority placement for federal jobs. The President will also be asked to establish a committee to seek private-sector cooperation for job placement opportunities; and,

* Enable qualifying service personnel to continue receiving health benefits under the military's CHAMPUS program at active duty rates for three months after separation.

The men and women in today's military are volunteers. Many joined to make the service a career. Because of their dedication to duty we can carefully reduce our military spending, concentrate on domestic priorities, and enjoy the benefits of world peace. These people represent the finest our country has to offer and we must not allow them to become the forgotten victims of the "peace dividend."

We owe each and every service person who faces early retirement a debt of gratitude and help in finding a civilian job. The legislation I have cosponsored will go a long way in easing their transition and giving them a fresh start in a new, more peaceful world they helped to create.

Ledford at Appalachian Celebration

Dulcimer craftsman/musician Homer Ledford along with his Cabin Creek Band will be the featured artist for Appalachian Family Night on Thursday, June 28 at 8 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center. The event is part of Morehead State University's 14th annual Appalachian Celebration, a weeklong tribute to the culture and heritage of the region. Tickets for the concert and dance will be available at the door at $5 for adults. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Appalachian Celebration begins Sunday

"Music from the Mountains" figuratively and literally will fill the air during Morehead State University's 14th annual Appalachian Celebration scheduled June 24-30.

Traditional music of the mountains will be explored during the noon and evening concerts scheduled throughout the week in keeping with the Celebration's theme, "Music from the Mountains."

The White Horse String Band will be the featured group at the opening reception on Sunday, June 24 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in the gallery of Claypool-Young Art Building. MSU's Appalachian Treasure Award will be presented during the evening to Loyal Jones, director of the Appalachian Center at Berea College and a regional author. On display will be "Where the Mountain Laurels Bloom," an exhibit of photographs by Pictureman Mullins.

Entertainers for the weekday noon concerts will include C. Roger Lewis and Friends on Monday; Debbie and Sandy Knipp on Tuesday; Randy Wilson on Wednesday; folklorist and the Celebration's scholar-in-residence Lynwood Montel with "Kentucky's ghosts" on Thursday, and Garry Gray, Tull and Shelly Glazener on Friday. Concerts will be held on the lawn in front of the Camden-Carroll Library or in case of rain in Button Drill Room.

In addition to the displays and demonstrations of Appalachian crafts in Button Drill Room, throughout the week will be special performances and speakers. On Monday from 2-3 p.m. the Tildon Hogge Dulcimer Band will appear, followed at 3 p.m. by C. Roger Lewis and Friends.

Tuesday's lineup includes Tull and Shelly Glazener at 1 p.m. and naturalist John Tierney speaking from 2-4 p.m. Featured guests on Wednesday will include Randy Wilson at 2 p.m., followed by a repeat performance by the Tildon Hogge Dulcimer Band.

Returning Thursday will be Tull and Shelly Glazener at 1 p.m. and John Tierney at 2 p.m. Friday brings the triple bill of Debbie and Sandy Knipp at 1 p.m., J.P. and Annadeene Fraley at 2 p.m., and the White Horse String Band at 3 p.m.

Evening events range from poetry readings and lectures to gospel music and traditional mountain tunes. The programming for Monday will be poetry reading by Lee Pennington, Celebration scholar-in-residence, at 7 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center. The evening also will include music by Gerry Gray and Tull and Shelly Glazener.

Pennington, author of "The Flowers, the Land and Green: Appalachian Wisdom," will appear again on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in ADUC. Wednesday evening will be "Old Tyme Gospel Music" with C. Roger Lewis as guest host in Duncan Recital Hall at 7:30 p.m.

"Appalachian Family Night" will be the theme for Thursday evening with an 8 p.m. concert and dance featuring Homer Ledford and his Cabin Creek Band in the Crager Room, ADUC. Tickets, available at the door, will be $5 for adults. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

One of several musical highlights of the Appalachian Celebration is the Gathering of Traditional Musicians set for 7:30 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall on Friday. Among the musicians expected to participate are J.P. and Annadeene Fraley, the Bottom of the Barrel Bunch, Alfred Bailey and many others.

On Saturday, performers will take to the Outdoor Stage on the Laughlin Health Building lawn, beginning at 10 a.m. with the music continuing to 2 p.m. Entertainers appearing will include the White Horse String Band, Judy Muse and Family, Debbie and Sandy Knipp, Laura Lee Duncan, the Tildon Hogge Band, J.P. and Annadeene Fraley, C. Roger Lewis and Friends and Ginny Hawker and Kay Justice.

WMKY90.3 FM, public radio from MSU's campus, will broadcast the concert live from noon to 2 p.m.

With the exception of the Appalachian Family Night, the concerts are free.

Additional information on the Appalachian Celebration may be obtained from Donna Reynolds Spangler, Celebration coordinator, Office of Regional Development Services, MSU, Morehead, 40351-1689. Telephone, 783-2077

June is Kentucky rivers month

Kentucky is a commonwealth blessed with an abundance of environmental resources — especially water. Kentucky's many creeks, streams, waterways and about 12 major river systems run about 80,000 miles throughout the Commonwealth.

Because of water's importance to Kentuckians, June has been proclaimed Kentucky Rivers Month by Gov. Wallace Wilkinson to encourage all citizens to renew their appreciation and enjoyment of Kentucky's rivers and streams.

Besides being a time for Kentuckians to celebrate their rich river heritage, Kentucky Rivers Month is also a time to rededicate community efforts toward protecting the scenic, environmental, recreational and cultural values of river resources.

Twenty-two water activities, sponsored by various environmental and nature organizations, were planned to celebrate Kentucky Rivers Month. Moonlight canoe trips were to be taken on the Barren, Licking and Kentucky rivers. Kentucky River historic cruises on the Dixie Belle Riverboat are being sponsored by Shaker Village at Pleasant Hill.

A Big South Fork River interpretive program was presented by the National Park Service, and Canoe Kentucky Outfitters are sponsoring a whitewater rafting excursion on Elkhorn Creek.

Also, 25 Kentucky counties bordering the Ohio River scheduled a riverbank cleanup along the entire 981-mile length of the Ohio River, from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cairo, Ill.

This is the sixth consecutive year Kentucky Rivers Month has been held in conjunction with American Rivers Month.

American Rivers Month is observed to illustrate the value of local rivers as community assets and to promote policies supporting river conservation. Also, educating event participants and public officials about opportunities to protect river is emphasized.

During June, states all across the country will be joining Kentucky in the effort to focus the public's attention on rivers and their importance.

Morgan O. Jones, Kentucky Wild Rivers program coordinator, said, "Kentucky Rivers Month recognizes Kentucky's rivers as the valuable resources they are and the various qualities they contribute to everyone in the Commonwealth."

Bevins, Jenkins fire one-hitter

While fans get heave-ho, Braves survive Giants 7-6 in 8

If a good game of baseball is your cup of tea, then the Minnie Ball Park was the place to be Tuesday afternoon as two of the top teams in the Beaver Creek Little League got together for a top divisional game.

The Drift Giants played host to the Martin Braves with the Braves coming away with a hard fought 7-6 eight-inning victory over the Giants, behind the combined one-hit pitching of Jason Bevins and Thomas Jenkins.

The victory clinched the number one spot in the Beaver Creek South Division for the Braves with a 15-1 record.

The game had everything a baseball fan would want to see in a game: hitting, fielding, pitching and controversy.

Besides all the action on the field, there was plenty on the sidelines as a Brave fan and coach was given the old "heave ho" because they vocally expressed their discontent with the base umpire's calls.

Coach Ed Moore had his team ready for this one as Patrick Bryant took to the mound for the Giants against the ace righthander of the Braves, Jason Bevins. Both pitchers went the first six innings for their respective teams; each had to depart because of the limit of innings allowed. Thomas Jenkins got the win in relief with T.T. Pack suffering the loss.

The game was highlighted by some outstanding defensive plays on both sides and timely hitting.

The Giants came from behind to take a 4-3 lead, going into the top of the sixth inning, needing just three outs to upset the highly regarded Braves.

Beau Tackett led off the Braves' half of the sixth and hit the first pitch for a game-tying home run. The Giants were unable to win it in their half of the sixth and the game went into extra innings when, in the top of the eighth, the Braves pushed across three runs for the 7-4 win.

The Braves sent nine batters to the plate when they did all their scoring with two out. Brandon Moore struck out, leading off the inning, and Tackett walked.

After J.P. Skeens fanned, Brandon Kinzer singled home Tackett with what proved to be the winning run. Jason Bevins walked and Adam Coleman lined a double to center, bringing home Kinzer and Bevins.

The two teams played scoreless baseball through the first two innings with the Giants taking a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the second without the benefit of a base hit. Matt Marcum walked and stole second. He went to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error at first base for the Braves. Steve Hamilton and Robert Moore struck out ending the inning.

Martin tied the game with a run in the top of the third on a one out hit and a run-producing single by Tackett.

The Giants put two runners on in the bottom of the third but were unable to move them around.

Martin came back in its half of the fourth to take a 3-1 lead on a two-out double by Bevins and a run-scoring hit by Coleman. Coleman's two-bagger scored Kinzer who was on via fielder's choice, and Bevins.

Steve Hamilton's grounder to first in the fourth brought home Matt Marcum, who had walked, leading off, with a run to make it 3-2. Drift took a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the fifth with two outs. Bevins seemed to find his real stuff after having struggled with his control earlier. The big righthander can "smoke" the ball

5 runs propel Stars past Astros

A pitchers' duel was not the order of the day in a game between the Minnie Astros and McDowell Stars. Combined, there were 33 runs scored and 30 base hits, 17 by the Stars and 13 by the Astros. Five pitchers took the mound for the two teams.

When it was settled, the Stars came away with the 18-15 win and improved to 14-2 on the season.

Angel rally falls short in loss to Padres

The Martin Pee Wee League tournament got underway Wednesday evening at the Martin Ball Park with two games scheduled.

The Martin Padres and Martin Angels hooked up in the second game of the affair with the second place Padres coming out with a 12-8 win, but not before a scare from the Angels.

The Angels scored four runs in the bottom of the fifth inning in a comeback attempt. However, the rally fell short.

Nick Martin, Ethan Blackburn and Brian Jones each had home runs for the Padres in the tourney game with all three players going three-for-three in the game. Ryan Manns had a three-for-three outing. Blackburn had a triple for the Padres, and Jones doubled in the game also. Graden Allen had a Padres double.

The Padres scored five runs in the top of the fifth and pushed across three in the second and four in the fourth. The Angels scored two in the first and third innings.

For the Angels, Gabriel Shepherd was perfect at the plate with a three-for-three night. Shepherd had a triple in the contest. Craig Hubbard doubled for the Angels going three-for-three. J.T. Absber, Adam Salisbury and Scott Ison also had three hits in the game.

The Stars trailed 8-4 going into the bottom of the fourth inning when they scored six times on three home runs. Mike Stephens homered with Mark Walters on board, and Nick Little hit a solo shot. Pete Dawson topped off the six-run fourth with a three-run home run.

The Stars got home also from Nick Little, his second, and Brian Adams in the fifth inning to fuel an eight-run fifth. Little's shot was a two-run homer, and Adam's came after Terrence Mullins had tripled. Jason Collins also had a triple in the inning scoring Jeff McGuire and Brent Ousley.

Dawson and Ousley doubled in the third for the victorious Stars. Mike Stevens was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Jason Collins. Dawson also hurled for the Stars.

Joe Hall started for the Astros with some relief help from Ryan Crum.

Pikeville College gets new assistant

The Pikeville College basketball program has hired a new assistant basketball coach, Mark R. White, who has three years college coaching experience at Austin Peay University in Clarksville, Tenn.

White will spend the summer representing Pikeville College at various basketball camps around the state and getting to know the Pikeville basketball program, according to head coach Marc Comstock.

"Mark comes highly recommended from the staff of Austin Peay," Comstock said. "He has been student assistant coach, graduate assistant and most recently, assistant men's basketball coach there. That experience will be an asset to our program."

"Personally, he has a lot to offer as well; he is an aggressive and enthusiastic individual who can help generate the kind of visibility our program needs."

White has a master's degree in education from Austin Peay. He is a native of Russellville.

Tigers get home run power in defeating Dodgers, 24-9

The Martin Tigers, league champions, got some timely hitting in the form of home runs to eliminate the Martin Dodgers in the first game of the Martin Pee Wee tournament being held at Martin.

Brandon Sizemore, who has been on a tear of late, smashed two round trippers. George Hall and Adam Hutchinson had a home run in the Tigers' win.

The big inning for the Tigers was the second when they scored 12 times to add to an already 5-2 lead. The game was called after the bottom of the fourth inning because of the mercy rule in Pee Wee baseball.

The Tigers will advance in tournament play and face the Padres in tonight's action at the Martin Park. The Padres defeated the Angels, 12-8.

Three players were four-for-four in the game for the Padres — Sizemore, Steve Allen and Ann Hall. Alex Patton was three-for-three. Allen had three doubles for the winners.

George Hall, besides his home run, smashed out two doubles. Ann Hall and Rhonda Hall had a double and Trish Hall belted two two-baggers. Ann Hall added a triple to her hitting night.

Andrea Bailey and Miranda Combs went three-for-three in the game for the Dodgers. Dusty Stevens had two hits including two doubles. The Angels scored four runs in the bottom of the fourth but could not avert the mercy rule.

Cards score six in 4th; defeat Rangers

In the Minnie Pee Wee League, the Garrett Cardinals scored six times in the fourth inning to hand the K.C. Rangers a 16-5 loss.

The Cardinals, who were 4-5 coming into the contest, bested the 9-3 Rangers in a defensive battle at the Minnie Field. Missed plays and some wildness led to the Rangers' downfall.

The Cardinals scored three more times in the fifth inning before Nathan Tackett came in to relieve Josh Stumbo, who was the losing pitcher. Matt Bentley pitched five strong innings for the Cardinals and picked up the win.

The Cards plated two runs in the sixth inning, and the Rangers scored once for the final score of 16-5. Nick Hall had two RBIs for the Rangers.

The Wayland Wasps forfeited the second game of the evening to the Bondo Sluggers. The victory extended the Sluggers' record to 12-0 and a firm hold on first place in the league.

Tying run heads home!

Beau Tackett of the Martin Braves touches third base as he heads home with the tying run. Tackett hit the first pitch from T.T. Pack leading off the sixth inning for an inside-the-park home run. The Braves went on to post a 7-6 win over the host Drift Giants. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

McKinney has hot bat

No surprises as Reds win two, 26-4, 22-3

The Martin Reds followed the hot bat of Mike McKinney to a sound 26-4 win over the Martin Blue Jays, and Phillip Robinson's home run against the Maytown Mets helped the Reds to a 22-3 victory.

Against the Blue Jays, McKinney had two triples and a double in picking up five RBIs for the Martin team.

"Michael is coming around now for us," says Reds coach Lonnie Robinson. "He sat out last season and did not play Little League baseball and he is just now getting in the groove. Just think what he could do if he had played last year."

Robinson said that he is glad that McKinney's bat has come alive with the league tournament coming up next week. The win helped the Reds capture first place in the Beaver Creek North Division with a 12-2 record.

Martin scored nine first inning runs against the Blue Jays and plated eight in the third. McKinney drove in two runs in the first inning with his double. His second inning triple helped him pick up two more RBIs, and in the third inning the big outfielder tripled home another run.

Kevin Robinson of the Reds also had a good day at the plate with a three-run double and two singles. Catcher Rusty Young had two doubles in the game for the Reds. Jason Shannon collected five RBIs, three coming on a double. Phillip Robinson and Shannon Ferrell each had three hits in the game.

Sam Bentley was the winning pitcher. Bentley struck out four batters. R.C. Duff suffered the loss. Duff also had four strikeouts.

For the Blue Jays, who collected 10 hits, the only extra base hit they managed was a home run by J. Bentley. Bentley's blast came in the first inning with a teammate aboard. Misty Mullins had two hits in the game, as did R. Bentley.

In the Reds match with the Mets, Phillip Robinson had a home run in the 22-3 win over the Maytown team, who could only manage one hit in the game, that being an RBI double by L.

Martin in the third inning.

Robinson had three hits in the ball game. Jason Shannon, who is swinging a hot bat of late for the Reds, collected four hits.

Kevin Robinson had a third inning double. Shannon Slone tripled in the first inning and doubled in the second.

Martin scored 11 times in the third inning when the first two men walked, and Shannon's base hit scored both runners. Robinson then came up and homered over the fence with Shannon on base. Two straight errors against the Mets set up Rusty Young's two-run single. Sam Bentley and Shane Blackburn drove in two runs with base hits in the inning.

Kevin Robinson was the winning pitcher with seven strikeouts. The seven Ks gives Robinson 101 in 44 innings of pitching.

Roberts takes Liberty race

Local runner Rick Roberts captured the Fourth Annual Run For Liberty 2.6 Mile run last weekend at Warfield.

Roberts finished with a 14:05 finish, nosing out challenger Dave McGuire of Price by eight seconds. The 14:05 time was a new course record, breaking the old mark of 14:40 set by McGuire last year.

"Dave is the best runner to come out of Floyd County since 1978 when

HOROSCOPE

June 24 through June 30

By A. Murphy

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Enjoy the attention and affection that you receive from your partner, but remember to be equally giving and loving in return. Don't take anyone for granted.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

The frustration you are feeling is valid. Work toward reconciliation with that person you have been neglecting. Focus on a loving future and take steps to attain it.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Make some changes in your daily routine. Do not give in to things that go against your views. Keep open communication with family, especially those whose influence you value.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Don't fight over or worry about money problems. Learn all that you can about your finances and be extravagant only once in a while when you can afford to be.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Ask yourself if being right is worth losing a friendship in the process. Allowing someone to make a mistake, as long as there is no danger, can be the best thing for them.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Your loneliness will not last forever. Fulfill your own desires and work on what you care for. Concentrate on your art and you will be discovered by those who care.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Do not remain where you are being ridiculed, neglected or abused. Get safely away and seek help to start over. You are too precious to allow yourself to be hurt.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

If you are feeling under the weather, examine your diet closely. Try to go for a day without any sweets. Go for a walk instead and see how good you feel in the morning.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Seek tranquility for your mental health. Find a job that you feel is important that has no financial compensation. Count the benefits in various areas of your life.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Don't allow that misunderstanding or problem to fester until people get hurt, including yourself. Put a stop to the nonsense through straightforward honesty.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Deal with temper tantrums with a very cool head. It is how you handle yourself in the worst of times that your best is decided. Try never to get distracted by pettiness.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Decision-making can feel especially difficult at this time. Don't panic and don't resent it, just seek the advice of someone you trust. Always keep calm. All will be well.

TV PIPELINE

Nell Carter probably won't be misbehavin' on TV

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Several years ago our local NBC affiliate telecast a musical review called Ain't Misbehavin' with Nell Carter as one of the leads. Do you know if NBC ever plans to run the show again, or if it was ever released as a video? I would love to see it again. —B.T. Harris, Kahului, Hawaii

A: Nell Carter, along with some members of the original cast, recreated their 1978 Tony-winning tribute to Fats Waller, Ain't Misbehavin', for NBC in 1982. I doubt seriously it will ever be re-broadcast. However, there are addresses you may write to for information about a video tape of this special. Write: MPI Home Video, 15824 Rob Roy Drive, Oak Forest, Ill. 60452; or Home Vision, 945 Concord Place, Framingham, Mass. 01701.

Q: Could you please supply me with some facts about Stephen Baldwin of The Young Riders? I'm interested in his age, hobbies and marital status. Also, what's the fate of the series? Does it have a chance, or will it be gobbled up by a show full of dirty one-liners and sexual innuendo? I'm dying to find out more about Stephen. All I've heard is that his brothers are Alec and Billy. —Carrie Kincaid, Marietta, Ohio.

A: Stephen Baldwin was born in Massapequa on Long Island on May 12, 1966, into a family of seven children. He is the youngest of four brothers. He first discovered acting in high school and, inspired by the success of his older brother Alec, began planning his own acting career at the age of 16. He went on to study at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and the Herbert Berghof Studios. He made his feature film debut in The Beast, followed by Homeboy, Born On The Fourth Of July, and Last Exit To Brooklyn. Even though he has appeared in several episodic series, The Young Riders is the first regular role on a television series for this young actor. He is single and makes his home in New York City. The series has been renewed, but it will move from its Thursday night time slot to Saturday nights.

Nell Carter

Q: I am wondering what happened to the Afro-American lady who played a college student renting from Ozzie and Harriet on the Ozzie And Harriet show. Where is she now? —M.S. Shears, Anchorage, Alaska

A: I believe the lady you are referring to is Brenda Sykes. She was born in Shreveport, La., June 25, 1949. After appearing as Jennifer in Ozzie's Girls in 1973, she was cast in the series Executive Suite (1976-77). I am sorry there isn't more recent information available for you at this time, but I will keep looking.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.

LITTLE LEAGUES TO PICK ALL-STAR TEAMS

Well, the Little League regular season is winding down to the final few regular season games and some tournaments are either underway or will start next week. It has been a good season for the leagues around Floyd County. We all have been treated to some exciting baseball.

However, the leagues will now begin the process of picking an all-star team from each league to represent them in the Little League tournament at Inez this year.

Last year's tournament was held at the fine Little League complex at Paintsville which has a super ball park for such an event. But the folks in Martin County can be proud of their facilities also and I am sure they will go out of their way to put on a good tournament. It will be an exciting time for many of our area teams as they look to go on to state play.

Here in Floyd County we will have five teams taking part in the double elimination tournament: Wheelwright, Harold-Allen-Prater, Beaver Creek North, Beaver Creek South and Prestonsburg. In each league it will be difficult to pick the players who will take part on the teams. There are many deserving players, yet only 15 can be chosen. It is a big decision for each of the coaches and sometimes there are hurt feelings because a certain player didn't make the team.

Parents have a tendency to get involved in the choosing process and only hinder the deserving player making the team. Each league wants to field the best team possible. The first place team in each league will get three players on the all-star team and those who finished lower in the standings will have fewer.

At least one player will be chosen from each team so every team is represented. Sometimes the best 15 players will not make the team. I personally believe that the best 15 players in the league should make it.

If a team has a group of outstanding players and only three can be chosen, then some player with lesser abilities is named for the sake of naming a player from every team; someone is being shorted. Take the best 15 players in the league if all come from one team. That is what an all-star team is — the best.

There are plenty of good pitchers — I mean hard throwers — in the leagues around the county this year. I will not attempt to name them in fear of leaving someone out. But if you have been watching the games, you know who they are.

A TRIBUTE TO CASE

Harold Case, Martin, is in his 16th season associated with the Floyd County Babe Ruth League. He has spent 13 years in the league as a coach and the past three years as the league's president. He has done a great job. I have known Harold for several years, even when he was coaching the Martin Babe Ruth team. Harold has always been dedicated to the league and I would hate to think where it would be today if he had not taken such an active interest in it.

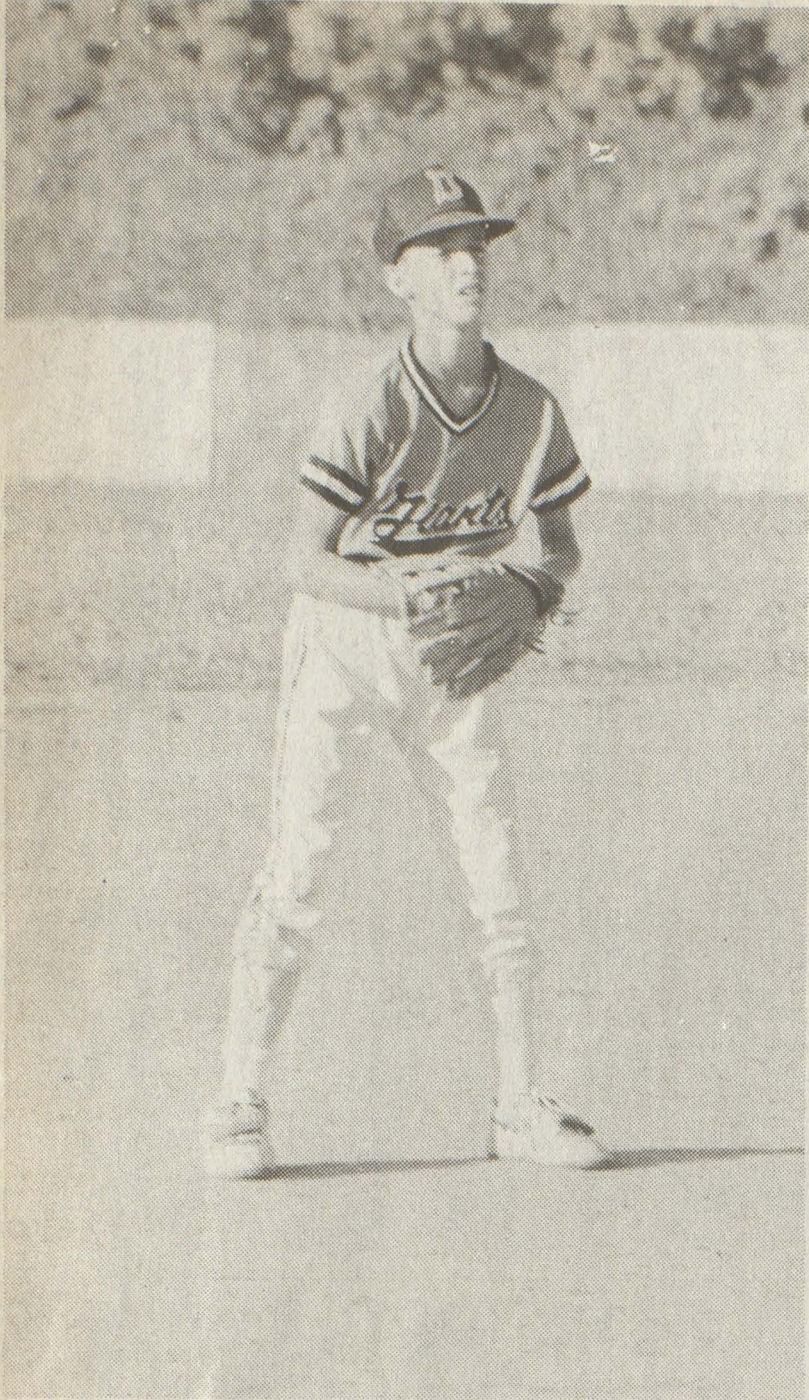

Every year Harold would take his vacation when the All-Stars played. He never missed a game and has seen many players from Martin and the surrounding area be successful. He has given of his time and talent to see that Floyd County has the best Babe Ruth league around. To you, Harold Case, we tip our hats (if we wore one). Thanks for an outstanding job!

BRAGGS GETS START WITH PAINTSVILLE PRO CLUB

Did you know that Glenn Braggs of the Cincinnati Reds got his professional start with the Paintsville Minor League club. Braggs broke in with Paintsville in 1983 where he had a batting average of .390 with 16 home runs and 74 RBIs. Braggs led the Appalachian League in games, hits, doubles, walks, runs, homers, RBIs and total bases and batting averages.

Returns from injury!

Water Safety Council, Corps urge swimmers use caution

The US Army Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake, in conjunction with the Paintsville Lake Water Safety Council, urges all swimmers to use caution and to be watchful of the following conditions when swimming at Paintsville Lake.

INABILITY TO SWIM OR SWIM WELL

Many drowning victims had no intention of going into the water. Everyone needs to learn to swim or improve swimming ability.

COLD WATER

Any water below 70 degrees F. hampers a swimmer's capabilities and endurance. It may even cause instant body reactions that lead to drowning. Water in lakes, gravel pits and quarries may be below 70 degrees even during the summer. Swim where you can use the buddy system, but don't become over confident. Your buddy may be having as much fun as you are and look the other way just when you need help.

DANGEROUS AREA

There are no designated swimming areas at Paintsville Lake. Swimmers swim at their own risk, unless the area has been designated as an unauthorized area. Swimming in off limits and unauthorized areas leads to drowning because of unmarked holes, current, pollution, undertows, cold water, the illegal attachment of rope swings to trees and the lack of lifeguards. Obey off limits or unauthorized area signs and directives. Obey safety rules. Before wading, swimming, or diving in an unfamiliar area, find out the depth, temperature and whether there are hidden rocks, strong currents, or sudden dropoffs.

Alcohol and swimming don't mix.

MUD CREEK PEE WEE LEAGUE

3-run 5th gives Cubs 4-3 win over Reds

For four innings the Mud Creek Reds led the Mud Creek Cubs, 3-1. In the top of the fifth inning, the third place Cubs pushed across three runs to take a 4-3 win over the Reds.

The Reds scored their three runs in the first inning on doubles by Anthony Tackett and Ryan Hall. Tackett had one run batted in, and Hall's double brought in two runs.

The Cubs had taken a 1-0 lead with a single run in the top of the inning on an RBI single by Jonathan Parsons.

In the Cubs' fifth, base hits by Kenneth Johnson, Scott Collins and Parsons scored three runs with Parsons driving in the winning run. Scott Collins was the winning pitcher.

Williams shuts out Tigers 4-0

The league-leading and undefeated Mud Creek Smurfs shut out the Mud Creek Tigers, 4-0, in Mud Creek Pee Wee play. Adam Tackett had a two-run homer in the fourth inning for the winners. Justin Akers had a run-producing double in the first. Crystal Newsome had a two-bagger in the Smurfs' second and teammate Jonathan Howell doubled in the fourth.

Shannon Williams was the winning pitcher. The Smurfs are 11-0 on the season.

Pikeville alumni set tennis meet

The Pikeville College Alumni Association is preparing for its annual Kenneth Huffman Memorial Tennis Tournament to raise money for student scholarships at the college.

The tournament, which will include men's and women's singles and doubles as well as mixed doubles competition, has been scheduled for Aug. 6-12 at courts on the lower campus and at Bob Amos Park and Hambley Athletic Field.

Trophies donated by the First National Bank of Pikeville will be awarded in each competition for first and second place, and T-shirts and drinks will be provided by East Kentucky Beverage Company. Gift certificates for participants have been donated by area businesses.

Play will begin Monday, Aug. 6. Players must register by mail for the tournament by 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 2. Each player is asked to make a suggested donation of $10 for each event entered.

For more information, contact the Pikeville College Alumni Office at 606-432-9326 or Tournament Director Jeanne Williamson at 432-0420.

and intimidates the batters with his fast ball.

Bevins struck out Chris Branham and Chris Moore, leading off the inning. Then Bevins had trouble finding the plate, walking Justin Hopkins and Patrick Bryant. Pack was down 0-2 and lined a single to right center, bringing in Hopkins and Bryant. Marcum fanned, ending the inning.

Pack came on in the top of the seventh and retired the Braves in order even though he did walk Charles Twiss leading off the inning. Twiss was gunned down at second base by Marcum in trying to steal. Cornette bounced back to the mound and John Paul Skeens struck out.

Jenkins had an easy half of the seventh with the help of his team's defense. Jenkins walked Robert Moore, leading off, and fanned Jamie Bowling. Chris Moore then hit a bouncer to J.P. Skeens at short who stepped on second and fired to first to complete the double play.

In the bottom of the eighth inning, the Giants' rally came up one run short. Jenkins walked Hopkins and Bryant, the first two batters in the inning. An errant throw from Twiss to third allowed Hopkins to score, making it 7-5, and Bryant moved into third base. Pack bounced back to the mound, and Patrick came in to score on the throw to first. 7-6 Braves.

Marcum drew a one-out walk and was shot down by Twiss, trying to steal second. The call drew the "boos" of the faithful home crowd. Jenkins then coaxed Eric Cook to bounce back to the mound for the final out.

Bevins struck out 12 batters while issuing nine walks. Jenkins fanned one and walked three. Bevins did not allow a hit through the first four innings until Pack's single in the fifth. That was the only hit Bevins allowed in his six innings of work. Jenkins did not allow a hit in his two innings.

Bryant, who also pitched an outstanding game, struck out 10 Braves batters and walked just three. Bryant retired the first seven batters he faced before giving up a base hit. Bryant gave up eight hits in the contest.

Rating the 1990 Major League Baseball Cards

by Babe Waxpax

One thing's certain about the 1990 baseball cards. There's something for everyone.

With designs ranging from wild to tame, loud to quiet and bland to outlandish, there's a veritable smorgasbord of colors, styles and photos available to the connoisseur.

I've critiqued this year's Donruss, Fleer, Score, Topps and Upper Deck cards. Here are my ratings:

1. Upper Deck — Clean, sharp and attractive. Upper Deck has retained the style that brought it so much success in its 1989 premier season. I like the large photos on front and back. I also like the team and Upper Deck logos on the front. The card's biggest minus, however, is the erasable ink. A solid swipe with a good pencil eraser will destroy a card. Still, an easy number 1 choice.

2. Score — After two years of clean conservative designs, Score has introduced a palette of colors. Two-tone front borders and color-splashed backs all seem to jibe into a fairly attractive package. I also like the debut of team logos on the front. Good job, Score.

3. Fleer — Nabbing a page from Upper Decks, Fleer used a lot of white background to enhance the cards. It's not nearly as effective as Upper Deck. There's too much white and not enough picture. However, I still prefer Fleer's comprehensive statistics on the back.

4. Topps — Throwing caution to the wind, Topps tried to capitalize on the computer age with a colorful dot matrix border design that reminds me of a programming class I took in college. I hated that class. I like these cards only slightly better.

5. Donruss — Red, red everywhere. After thumbing through about 50 of these cards, I saw streaks of red flashing across my subconscious for hours. I don't like red. I don't like these cards.

Because I know my rankings don't necessarily reflect the opinion of the general baseball card-buying public, I conducted two unscientific surveys in an effort to determine which cards were most popular.

Cards used in the surveys were Mauro Gozzo of Donruss, Mike Stanton of Fleer, Fernando Valenzuela of Score, Ryne Sandberg of Topps and Don Mattingly of Upper Deck.

I asked the respondents to rank the cards from worst (one) to best (five).

First, I surveyed 33 adults (23 men and 10 women). Of those, 10 collector have collected cards.

Upper Deck proved to be an overwhelming favorite with 15 first-place votes and 121 points. Fleer finished second with 109 points and six first place votes. Score was third with 107 points and three first place votes. Topps finished fourth with 95 points and six first place votes. Donruss failed miserably with the group, scoring only 63 points with three first place votes and 21 last place votes.

Then I conducted the same survey with a group of 22 third graders. The results were nearly opposite that of the adult survey.

Donruss, least favorite with the adults, was the overwhelming favorite of the children with 12 first place votes and 93 points. Topps finished second, followed by Score, Upper Deck and Fleer.

What do these surveys prove? Probably nothing. But they do show that baseball card tastes of adults and children have little in common.

It's also very obvious that Upper Deck cards, the most expensive on the market, are produced for adults. Donruss, probably the easiest to obtain, are targeted for children.

Moore gives out sign!

Spring cleaning Fido

by Aaron Pass

Spring and summer bring their own set of circumstances for dogs and for dog owners. Whether your own pooch is a hard working hunting dog or a family pet or both, right now is an excellent time to consider the health and comfort of your canine companion.

First on the list should be a spring checkup by your veterinarian. This would include the usual vaccinations for rabies and other canine diseases and a check for the parasitic worms — round, hook, whip and tape worms are worrisome pests that rob a dog of energy and can cause serious health problems if left untreated. Hunting dogs that have spent time in the field particularly are prone to picking up some unwelcome guests.

A heartworm check is also in order. Heartworms are a nationwide problem today. Spread by mosquitoes, which act as intermediate hosts, heartworms are a serious and potentially fatal threat to your dog. Prevention is the best course since the heartworm treatment is expensive and physically rough on the dog.

Heartworm prevention is simple and can be accomplished by a monthly pill. However, the preventative could kill a dog that already has a heartworm infestation. The veterinarian should certify that the dog is free of heartworms or clear up any present infestation before a prevention program is started.

"My Dog Has Fleas..." may tune your guitar, but is a pain for your pooch. Fleas are not only a major annoyance but can result in a painful rash and allergy. A truly heavy flea infestation actually can drain away enough blood to make a dog anemic. Also, fleas are an intermediate host for various tapeworms. Your dog can pick up this noxious parasite while nipping and biting at the irritating fleas.

A dip or spray of flea killer for Fido, a good cleaning and anti-flea treatment for the kennel, and fresh bedding are the ways to get the jump on fleas. Subsequent treatments for both the dog and the kennel area may be necessary before the end of summer. Be sure to read and follow the instructions when using flea killers.

A working hunting dog in a cold environment may consume large amounts of food to keep up its energy and stamina. Even a non-working dog kept outside in cold weather will need about 30 percent more calories in the winter. However, starting in the spring, we should cut back on Fido's food. Working dogs develop large appetites and (like some human athletes) can almost explode into obesity during the off season.

Exercise and conditioning should continue during the summer for working dogs. Not only will regular exercise keep your dog in shape, it will also keep Fido feeling like part of the family. Summer can be very long for a dog languishing in a kennel. Take the time for regular runs and some personal interaction for both the physical and emotional well being of your dog.

Race

I used to run against Jim Brown of Prestonsburg High School," Roberts said of McGuire. "He is an accomplished runner and just a super person and good sport."

McGuire, who is a former boxer, finished with a 14:13 for second place. McGuire's two brothers, Joey Tackett and Tony McGuire, also placed in the top five. Tackett placed third at 16:18 and Tony McGuire was fifth at 16:35.

Rule McGuire of Paintsville took the fourth position with a 16:20.

There were 68 runners in the race at Warfield.

Roberts says that he and other runners will be traveling to Morehead to take part in the Appalachian 5K Run this Saturday. Roberts also stated that he will be running in the Goodwill Games on July 21.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER® PROS

Larry Coltrane

When selecting a new bait casting reel, pick one that feels good and fits comfortably.

If you are a true right hander, you might take a serious look at the left hand retrieve models. These are, in reality, the true right handers reel.

With a left hand retrieve, the rod never leaves your right hand. You have more control over the fish, more hook setting power and probably better feel, if you are a right handed person.

Because left handed retrieve reels are not big volume sales items, you might find a much wider selection of models to choose from in the conventional, right hand retrieve bait casters.

High speed models, Flippin' reels and Crankin' reels are all available in the conventional models.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 fishin' boat.

Review: Mountain Magic

Potential shines in literary effort

by Michael Rosenberg
Editorial Assistant

The fifth edition of the Floyd County Literary Magazine Mountain Magic, entitled Shades of Memory, is about to be released countywide.

The magazine is composed of the top submissions to a contest run during the school year. The result is the best looking edition of this book, compared to the previous four.

The volume was produced on a desktop publishing system, so it looks very professional. The end of the book, with pictures and notes about the individual authors and artists, is a nice touch.

As for the works themselves, the quality varies. The artwork found sprinkled among the written works ranges from average to very well done. Some artwork is used to illustrate the stories. With some selections, the addition of the artwork detracts from the feeling of the work, but this only happens in a few cases. However, the artists have "showcase sections" for art exclusively, and some is excellent.

The prose work comes in three flavors: essays, personal narratives, and short stories. These works do exactly what they are supposed to — give the author's impression of an event. They are well written and have an honest feel. They cover the spectrum from humorous to serious and are quite good.

The essays are a category with a lot of gray areas. In a couple of cases, these essays read more like personal narratives than anything else. The essays that were more "essay-like" are well thought out, but read a bit stiffly, as if the writer became a little too concerned with structure in deference to content. Even so, these were better than average reading.

The short stories are the high points of the book. These stories show real imagination and are well executed. Most of the stories are humorous, but one or two have a darker tone. In these stories, the students really strut their stuff. With work, some of these stories could be saleable on a larger level.

The weakest part of the book is perennially the poetry. This weakness continues into this year's edition. Although the effort is there, the style, for the most part, is not. In most cases, the poets lose much of their impact by trying to squeeze their ideas into rhyme. Using simple rhyme schemes trivializes many of the poems' sentiments. The meter in much of the poetry is either flawed or nonexistent.

There are some exceptions, mainly the few free verse poems, but many are simply awkward.

Looking at overall quality, this issue of Mountain Magic is the best yet. The work produced by the county's students continues to improve. The one word that best describes this writing is potential. These students have taken the first step in starting to produce their works, but much of their work is still rough. The next step for these students is to examine their own styles and improve them.

This book is not a collection of Nobel Prize literature, but for a group of high school writers and artists in a writing program that's just starting to pick up steam, it's a pleasant surprise. Check out Mountain Magic, it's worth a read.

Mountain Magic is $4 per copy and will be available soon at area businesses.

Mining Kentucky's literary talent

When Gurney Norman, University of Kentucky English professor, talks about the importance of mining to Kentucky, chances are he's not talking about coal mining.

"In Kentucky we have an incredibly rich literature — it's a gold mine, a motherlode, terrific raw material for drama," Norman says.

In 1986 Norman and Andy Garrison, a filmmaker at Appalshop, an arts production collective in Whitesburg, began a series of discussions about Norman's short story "Fat Monroe."

When Garrison first read the story, which takes place in the mountains of eastern Kentucky, he found it "remarkable — it really spoke to me." As he and Norman discussed their perceptions of the story, Garrison decided that "Fat Monroe" would translate well into a dramatic film.

The result is the first Appalshop non-documentary film in 20 years, a 15-minute production of "Fat Monroe" directed by Garrison and shot in May of 1989 in various parts of Letcher and Perry counties. Kentucky native and longtime Appalshop friend Ned Beatty, whose film credits include Deliverance and The Big Easy, stars as Fat Monroe.

Norman thinks the casting of Beatty as Fat Monroe is a perfect choice. "Ned is absolutely beautiful in this role," Norman says. "He's a funny and extremely versatile actor."

For Ned Beatty, this was a homecoming of sorts. "I was born and raised in the Louisville area — St. Matthews — and was part of a touring company that did children's theater in Whitesburg in the early '60s," Beatty says. He was in the cast of Rumpelstiltskin, which played at that time in Whitesburg grade schools.

"'Fat Monroe' is a terrific story. I grew up around men like him — carpenters who would send me out for sky hooks and widgets, always testing my naivete," Beatty says that he enjoyed working with 10-year-old William Johnson who, he says, has "good impulses for 'pretend.'"

From Carbon Glow, Johnson was cast as Wilgus. "Here's a kid who had never acted before," Norman says, "and he was totally untimidated. When William was being chosen, Andy asked him if he had any questions. 'I have one,' he said. 'Is it OK if I throw rocks in between takes?' What a perfect question! Andy assured him it would be fine."

The idea for "Fat Monroe," Norman says, came 28 years ago as he was driving the mountain roads near Hazard, where he grew up. "Driving through the mountains on those two-lane roads was a very productive thing for me to do," he says, "because the unchanged landscape triggered memories easily."

A few months later, in the army at Fort Benning, Ga., Norman would get off work at noon on Saturdays and check into the Ralston Hotel in Columbus, Ga., to work on his fiction. This is where he started writing "Fat Monroe."

Norman hopes that the story and the film will provoke critical thinking and stimulate good talk. "I believe film is useful in directing attention back to the word, the dialogue in the screenplay is practically unchanged from the dialogue in the story."

He adds that the video version of the film will include a 15-minute interview with him talking about the film and about Kentucky literature. Norman hopes that the 30-minute video will be useful as a classroom tool.

Norman says the final day of shooting was an extremely moving one. "The final scene was shot about sunset after a rainy afternoon. We were surrounded by beautiful green mountains, the clouds were thinning out, and the sky was full of light. I thought back to the 24-year-old kid starting to write 'Fat Monroe' at the tiny desk in the Ralston Hotel. It was a magical moment for me."

Comments, suggestions or questions about "UK Science & You" may be directed to the Research Communications Office, University of Kentucky, Lexington 50506-0057.

Appalshop film spotlights region

"Fat Monroe," a story by UK professor Gurney Norman, left, was recently made into a 15-minute film by Appalshop filmmaker Andy Garrison, center, and starred Hollywood star and Kentucky native Ned Beatty.

Floyd residents graduate MSU

Morehead State University's May graduates included 10 Floyd County residents who completed degree requirements during the 1990 spring semester.

Graduating were Elizabeth Bishop of Martin; Debra Click of Betsy Layne, William A. Cobb of Langley, Kendall Epperson Jr. of Prestonsburg, Teresa Clark Frazier of Betsy Layne, Gregory A. Jones of Printer, Michael McKinney Jr. of Martin, Keith D. Moore of McDowell, Byron Nunnery of Prestonsburg and Cynthia Osborne of Hi Hat.

Two of these students graduated with honors. Graduating magna cum laude was Elizabeth Marie Bishop of Martin who earned an AB degree. Graduating with distinction was Debra Jean Click of Betsy Layne who earned an AA degree.

To graduate magna cum laude, a student must earn a cumulative grade point average of 3.6 to 3.89 on a 4.0 scale. Associated degree recipients who complete a minimum of 32 semester hours at MSU and earn a cumulative grade point average of 3.6 or better graduate with distinction.

Lees alums to meet

A meeting of Lees College alumni will be held on Tuesday, June 26, at 7 p.m. in the college's on-campus guest house. Plans for Alumni Weekend 1990 and other alumni activities will be discussed. For more information, call 666-7521, ext. 16.

Summer days at MSU

Taking summer classes doesn't preclude a little fun in the sun, as students at Morehead State University have found out. The outdoors, whether grassy lawns or concrete benches and steps, becomes an ideal place to study. Deb Ward of Auxier found herself a shady location to review class notes. Ward is completing her Rank I. (MSU photo by Beverly Tadlock)

Local students participate in summer program

Marc Jones and Ibourahima Fofana of Prestonsburg, Aaron Crum of Betsy Layne and Kathleen Craft of Allen are attending an eight-week summer enrichment program at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

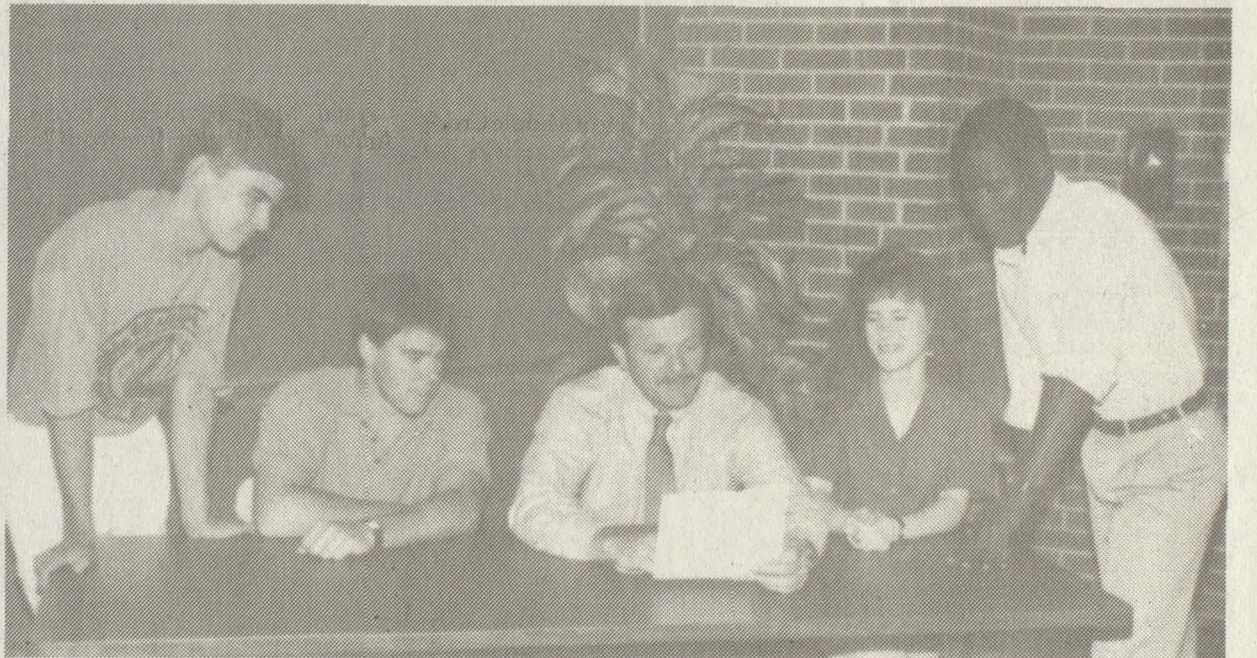

Some 39 sophomore, junior and senior students from Kentucky colleges are participating in the Health Careers Opportunity Program, designed to give selected students a better chance in competing for positions and succeeding in medical, dental or pharmacy schools. The program is funded by the Federal Division of Disadvantaged Assistance of the Public Health Service.

By providing hands-on activities, study skills instruction, problem solving sessions and enrichment classes in the sciences, the program works to recruit, admit and retain minority and rural students to the health professions. Program components include meeting and working with medicine, dentistry and pharmacy faculty and students as well as taking classes in chemistry, biology and physics.

Jones is the son of Gypsy Jones. Hailu Bogale is the guardian of Fofana. Crum is the son of James Crum III and Delois Howard. Craft is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar V. Craft.

On medical track

Four local students are participating in a summer enrichment program at the University of Kentucky Medical Center designed to enhance student's preparation for health careers. They are (l-r) Marc Jones, Aaron Crum, program director John Wiggs, Kathleen Craft, and Ibourahima Fofana.

America in which she served as scholarship chairman and represented her school on a regional level in the STAR storytelling competition.

During Betsy Layne High's commencement ceremonies, she was presented with a plaque in commemoration of STAR events and a $750 scholarship from Kentucky Business College. She hopes to secure employment locally in the fall.

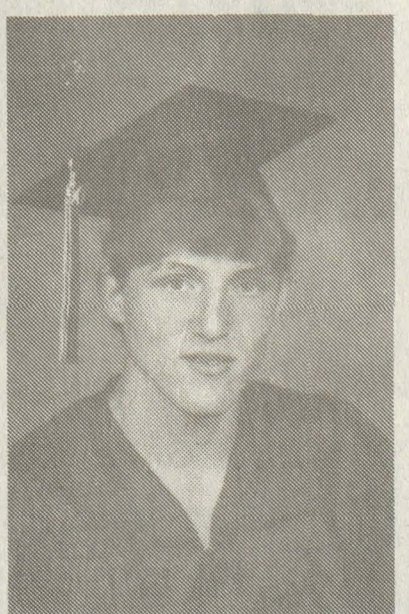

JULIE RACHELLE HALL

Julie Rachelle Hall, daughter of Vernis and Frona Hall of Galveston, attained an unusual distinction on graduation night this year.

Hall who completed graduation requirements at Betsy Layne High School in January, was able to attend two commencement ceremonies on the same evening.

She attends Kentucky Business College of Pikeville and has completed her course of study in secretarial studies and word processing to a point eligible for participation in yearly graduation exercises.

While Hall attended Betsy Layne, she participated in many extracurricular activities. The most notable of these was Future Homemakers of

Slone accepted

Denver Slone Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Slone Sr, has been accepted into the Lexington Electronic Institute for a training program. At the end of the two-year program he will receive an Associate in Electronic Engineering Technology degree. The training program will begin July 9. Slone is a 1990 graduate of McDowell High School.

PCC slates program for children

Four weeks of "Summer Kids College" will begin on Monday, June 25, at Prestonsburg Community College.

For the third year, young people will be able to participate in a variety of classes including Computers, Science and Nature Studies and Arts and Crafts. Classes will meet Monday through Friday from 1-4 p.m. Each class will be taught for three different age groups: 6-7 year olds, 8-10 year olds and 11-13 year olds.

Students will have several enrollment options, ranging from signing up for the total four-week program to taking one course for just two weeks. Enrollment is limited.

For more information, call PCC's Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Two accepted at Lees College

Two Floyd County students have been accepted to Lees College in Jackson for the fall term, according to Lees director of admissions Jerry McIntosh.

They are Karen Frasure, daughter of Gary and Monique Frasure of Prestonsburg, and Robert Hood, son of Robert and Saralee Hood of Wheelwright. Frasure plans to pursue an associate of arts degree and Hood plans to major in office administration.

PCC pins 13 nursing students

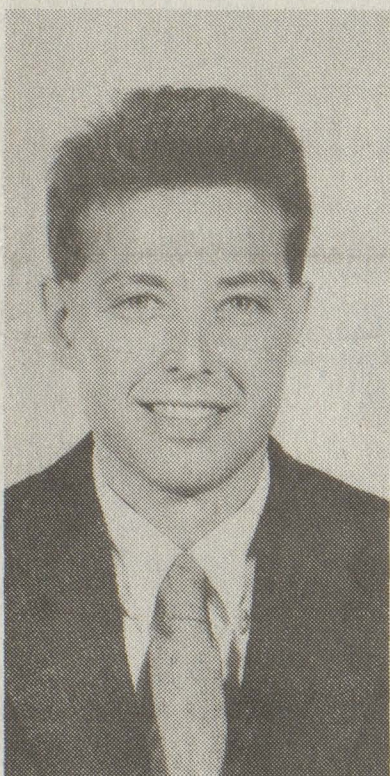

Prestonsburg Community College Associate Degree Nursing Program Pinning Ceremony for the spring graduates was held May 3 in the Pike Auditorium on the college campus.

The graduates have completed an intensive curriculum that qualifies them to take the licensing exam in July to become a registered nurse.

Outstanding Academic Award was presented to Joan Hopson; Outstanding Clinical Award to Diana Crider and the Freshman Award of Excellence to Ethel Marcum.

The following students received pins: Rosemary Arnett of Salyersville, Rolleen Bentley of McDowell, Diana Blackburn Crider of Prestonsburg, Angleia Conley of Salyersville, Terry Hackworth of Hager Hill, Kanzia Hamilton of Minnie, Joan Hopson of Tomahawk, Debbie McCoy of Auxier, Dale Ratliff of Belcher, Gina Reed of Salyersville, Berniece Stephens of Salyersville, Pamela VanHoose of West Van Lear and Barbara Wisecup of Seitz.

Excels at WVSOM

James Campbell of Prestonsburg, a first-year student at the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine in Lewisburg, received recognition at the WVSOM 1990 spring awards ceremony for excelling scholastically in first year studies. The accredited college trains family practice physicians for rural Appalachia.

Tuition policy to be reviewed

The Task Group on Tuition Policy Review, which was established by the Council on Higher Education on March 12, will hold its first meeting on June 25 at 1 p.m. in the conference room of the Council offices in Frankfort.

The Task Group was directed by the Council on Higher Education to review the existing tuition policy and consider alternative ways of setting tuition, to review the relationship between tuition and financial aid, to develop and recommend a tuition policy to be used by CHE to set tuition rates for the 1992-93 and 1993-94 school years, and to report back to the full Council with its recommendations by the March 1991 Council meeting.

UK Pharmacy dean's List

Two Floyd County residents were named to the University of Kentucky School of Pharmacy dean's list for the spring 1990 semester.

Clare Raven Day of Middle Creek and Janet Elizabeth Hicks of Prestonsburg received this distinction.

Union dean's list

Dr. Paul S. Moore, vice president of academic affairs at Union College, recently announced the 1990 spring semester presidential laureates and dean's list.

Two students from Floyd County qualified for the dean's list, Frank Green of Prestonsburg and Stephanie R. Hall of Stanville.

To be included on the dean's list, a student must have completed at least 12 hours of graded work with a 3.25 grade point average for the semester.

Scholarship winner

Mary Elizabeth Dudleson, daughter of Ernest and Kathy Dudleson of Prestonsburg, has been awarded the E.O. Robinson Scholarship, a trustee's scholarship, and an honors scholarship at Georgetown College, according to Dr. David Forman, Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid.

Recitalists

Students of Roma Lou McClanahan performed in a piano recital on May 20 at the Coal Run Church of Christ. Participating were, 1-r, Tammy Conn, Jaime Carter, Rachel Reid, Elisha Carter, Amanda Adams and Roma Lou McClanahan.

Appearing in recital

Among student musicians participating in the piano recital last month presented by teacher Roma Lou McClanahan were, front 1-r, Jessica Stumbo, Rachel Rasnick, Courtney Reid, Kitty Swiger, second row, Beth Blackburn, Chris Ford, Bethany Tiller, Amanda Clark and Matthew Porter. McClanahan students who were not able to perform were Robert So, Rosalina So, Melia Thompson, Rebecca Thacker, Tane Johnson, Tamara Johnson, Chris Jones, Jessica Hamilton, Matthew Robinson, Rebecca Robinson, Robert Bailey and Andrew Scott.

Students attend Pike festival

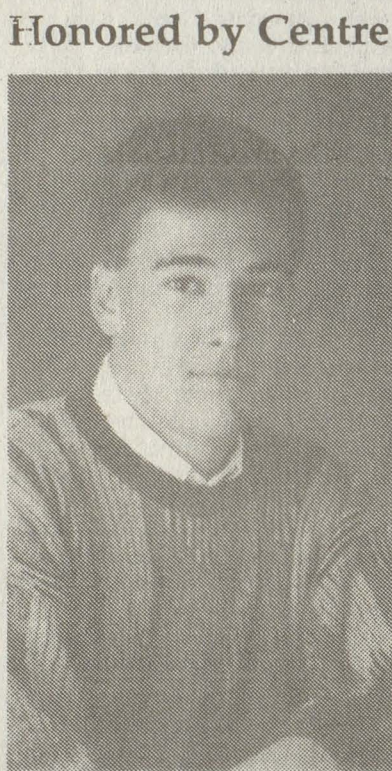

Piano students of Roma Lou McClanahan recently participated in the Kentucky Music Teachers Association Keyboard Festival at Pikeville College. At the state-sponsored festival, students perform two pieces by memory and are judged for a rating and comments on their selections. Students also take a theory test. Receiving honors during the Keyboard Festival at Pikeville College were, from left, Amanda Adams, Jaime Carter, Tammy Conn and Rachel Reid. Adams, Carter, Reid and Melia Thompson won superior ratings, and Conn and Rebecca Thacker earned a good rating. Dr. Jay Flippen of Morehead was the contest adjudicator.

Food program adds two sites

The Floyd County Technical High School at Garth and McDowell High School have been added to the list of locations for the Summer Food Service Program for Children, sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education. Free lunches will be served to all children 18 years of age and younger at 12 centers across the county from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., Monday through Friday from June 25-July 31. Meals must be eaten at the schools involved. The locations are Allen, Auxier, Garrett, Martin, Maytown, Melvin, Prestonsburg, Stumbo and Wayland elementary schools, Wheelwright and McDowell high schools, as well as the technical high school.

Martin resident honored at TU

Leenata G. Maddiwar, a student at Transylvania University, was recently inducted into the Lampas Circle of the Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK) leadership honor society. Maddiwar, a rising senior, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G.L. Maddiwar of Martin. Election to membership in ODK is one of the highest honors possible at Transylvania University. Nominees are evaluated on a high standard of performance in many areas, including scholarship, athletics, campus and government activities and the creative and performing arts.

JOE BURCHETT

Joe Burchett, son of Barbara and Joe A. Burchett of Prestonsburg, has been awarded an honor scholarship from Centre College, which awards 75 honor scholarships each year from over 400 applications, according to Dr. Thomas McKune, director of admissions.

The scholarships are valued at $10,000 over a four-year period and are awarded on the basis of superior academic achievement, strength of character and leadership ability in school and community life, he said.

Burchett is a 1990 graduate of Prestonsburg High School graduating with a 4.0 grade point average. He served as an officer in the National Honor Society, was a member of the National Beta Club and was vice-president of his junior class. He played on the basketball team for four years and the tennis team for five years, and was selected an outstanding senior by the faculty.

He is a member of the First United Methodist Church where he is active in the Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Wesley Handbell Choir. He has also served on the City of Prestonsburg's Teen Board. Burchett plans to pursue a career in engineering.

Three locals are Berea grads

Three Floyd County residents received degrees from Berea College in outdoor commencement exercises on Sunday, May 27.

Connie Faye Branham received a bachelor of arts degree in English. The Prestonsburg High School graduate is the daughter of Ray and Emogene Branham of Prestonsburg.

McDowell High graduate Danny Tuttle received a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics, and Eric Lawson, also a McDowell graduate, earned a bachelor of arts degree in history. Lawson is the son of Ted and Edna Lawson of Hi Hat. Tuttle's parents are Buck and Birdie Tuttle of Abbott Creek Road, Prestonsburg.

Pursuant To Application No. 836-5222, Major Rev. #1
1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Kodiak Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Box 551, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240 has filed an application for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision proposes to delete 0.50 acres of surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 424.36 acres located 2.50 miles East of Drift, Kentucky in Floyd County.

2. The proposed major revision area is approximately 2.50 miles West from State Route 979's junction with Frasures Branch County Road and located on Lower Wolfpen Branch. The latitude is 37° 28' 48". The longitude is 82° 42' 17".

3. The proposed major revision is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7.5 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by Vannie Kidd. The proposed major revision will underlie land owned by Vannie Kidd.

4. The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant To Application Number 836-0198, Amendment 1
(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Prater Creek Processing, Incorporated, Box 170, Tollage Creek Road, Pikeville, Ky. 41501, has filed an application for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation. This amendment proposes to add an additional 138.0 acres of surface disturbance and underlie an additional 0.2 acres for a total proposed permit acreage of 428.2 acres located 1.3 miles west of Justell in Floyd county.

(2) The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.7 miles southwest from Justell County Road's junction with U.S. 23 and located 0.2 miles south of Hunts Fork. The latitude is 37 degrees 33 minutes 18 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees 39 minutes 10 seconds.

(3) The proposed amendment is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by this amendment is owned by Industrial Fuels Mineral Company, Grady Watson, Bonnie Cassady, Green Kidd, Leonard & James Hall, Joe Jarrell, Lee Kidd, Fed Conn, Clark Akers, Mont Gibson, Fred Akers Heirs, Willie Akers Heirs, Mart Boyd, Mrs. A.A. Boyd & Juan Boyd, and the John W. Boyd Heirs. The proposed amendment will underlie land owned by Industrial Fuels Mineral Company and the John W. Boyd Heirs. The operation will use the area, contour, and auger method of mining. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of the Hunts Fork County Road. The operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

(4) The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653-1397. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application 836-0218
In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Vagabond Coal Co., Inc., 1411 Bell Shoals Road, Brandon, FL 33511 has filed an application for a permit for a surface coal mining and reclamation of approximately 14.44 acres located 2.0 miles southeast of Long Branch in Floyd County.

The proposed operation is approximately 2.0 miles Southeast from SR 304 junction with Long Branch Road and located 0.50 miles Northwest of Big Branch. The latitude is 37° 43' 40". The longitude is 82° 41' 15". The surface area is owned by Myrtle Porter Heirs and Richmond-Harkins.

The proposed operation is located on the Lancer U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the contour method of mining.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Pursuant to Permit Number 836-5221
In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 16:120, Section 4: (a) (b), Coal-Mac, Inc., P.O. Box 3428, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, phone (606) 432-0171, Permit Number 836-5221, proposes the following blasting schedule. The blasting site consists of approximately 5.65 surface disturbance acres located approximately 0.2 miles southeast of Drift in Floyd County. The operation is further located approximately 0.16 miles southeast from State Route 1011's junction with Simpson Branch Road. The latitude is 37° 28' 40" N. The longitude is 82° 41' 02" W.

Blasting operations shall be conducted during daylight hours (one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset) except by special permit issued by the Department of Mines and Minerals. Said permit to be issued on the basis of safety. Detonations of explosives are proposed to occur from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Entry to the blasting area will be regulated by signs or barriers. An authorized company representative will prohibit access to the blasting area by unauthorized persons at least 10 minutes before each detonation. The warning signal shall consist of three (3) short air horn or siren blasts five (5) minutes prior to detonation and two (2) short blasts one (1) minute prior to detonation. The all-clear signal will be one long air horn or siren blast following an inspection of the blasting area.

If, due to emergency conditions where rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions arise, or the safety of the operator or public requires a detonation at a time other than that specified above, residents within 1/2 mile of the blasting site will be notified by the company of the situation and all normal precautions will be conducted. 6-6-4tW.
