Floyd man fined for illegal deer

A Floyd County resident entered a plea of guilty to the charge of possession of an illegal doe in Johnson County District Court last week.

Mike Adams of East Point was fined $300, plus $47.50 court costs, and ordered by District Judge Daniel R. Sparks to pay $753.84 replacement costs for the deer.

The doe was taken during the 1989 Johnson County deer season, according to Conservation Officer Jeff Preston of Wittensville, who made

Collins reportedly implied that two persons from the Zoning or Variance boards told him Adams influenced their decision. At Monday's meeting, Adams, producing a list of members of the two boards, said he contacted each member and all denied making the statement to Collins, Adams asked Collins to name the two who had reportedly contacted him, and the councilman refused to give the names.

Adams said he had reminded the zoning board "that they have to go by the law." He also gave each council member a copy of policies relating to the zoning process and review proce-

Collins did not apologize, although he did say, "I was repeating what I was told. I have nothing against your (Adams') honesty or character."

"I've never known Larry to lie," said Councilman Charles Hale. "I've always admired his honesty."

While he had the floor, during the citizen input section of the meeting, Adams also responded to questions he said had been raised concerning his carrying a gun. His job as arson inspector for the city, he said, has led to threats against his life, owing to his success in obtaining convictions of

Taking the long way home

Calf Creek schoolchildren walk home Monday, skirting the crumbling roadway above a 50-foot drop to the creek, that has prevented their school bus from taking them home. Residents say the sliding road stopped the mile-long bus run up the hollow four times this year, for days at a time, causing hardship for both them and their children. Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo stated that road repairs will begin as soon as possible, once specialized road equipment owned by a private company is finished with a current commitment.

A crumbling road in Calf Creek has prevented school bus travel four times in past months, requiring 30 children to walk as much as two miles a day to and from the bus stop. But the road will be repaired as soon as possible, said Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo Tuesday.

The road has been closed four times to bus traffic since Jan. 1, said Calf Creek resident Martha Kidd, who has 11- and 13-year-old daughters crossing the section of road each day. Sheand other local parents are scared of the possibility of a serious acci-

"The road broke in January and the county has come out a couple of times to red dog it and to prop it up, but it keeps washing down," said Kidd. "These children have to walk over it every day, or get parents to drive across to drop them off. It's a danger for all of us.

Kidd and other parents say at least 30 children now have to walk to the mouth of Calf Creek to meet the school bus. Earl Ousley, Floyd County school's Transportation Director, said the decision to stop the bus run up Calf Creek was necessary to insure the safety of the schoolchildren.

A petition was circulated in the past week, describing the road situation and requesting assistance in repairing and rebuilding the broken section. It was signed by 65 persons, and copies were sent to Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, Rep. Greg Stumbo, US Cong. Chris Perkins, and state Secretary of Trans-

Tuesday morning to discuss the road problem. Stumbo said that work to repair the crumbling road, which runs next to a 50-foot bank beside the creek, will start as quickly as possible.

"We're going to have to drill into rock, so we can set the steel in and do the job," said Stumbo. "This is the only way we can take care of the problem. We're going to get Hayes Drilling to come in with a special drill, that can swing over the bank and do the drilling. Once the equipment is available, it should take no time, maybe half a day.

Stumbo noted that the effort was complicated by the proximity of houses, which prevents a reculting of the road more deeply into the bank. He was unable to set a date for when road work would begin, saying a start date depended on when Hayes Drilling completed it's present project on Pine Mountain.

Bert Combs, US Congressman Chris Perkins, and Appalachian historian Harry Caudill, concluded Friday, with general agreement among panelists that 30 years of regional development efforts have been successful, but that serious, long-term problems

The panel discussion was presented by the Modern Social Problems class at Prestonsburg Community College on Monday and Friday of last week

On Monday, area social workers and teachers examined the impact of poverty in Floyd County and the effects of last December's CBS showing of "48 Hours", which featured the county in a negative light. (See the March 7 edition of The Floyd County Times for Monday's panel discus-Friday's mixed group of high ranking politicians and local leaders examined the problem, if not from the proverbial ivory tower, certainly from a perspective somewhat removed from the cycle of poverty facing nearly one quarter of Floyd County's population.

"We have made tremendous progress on the poverty problem in Appalachia and in Eastern Kentucky, said Combs, to the overflowing audience in the Pike Building auditorium. "I think the programs sponsored by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations were successful, to a large extent. The Appalachian Regional Commission was enacted and brought hundreds of millions of dollars into the region for roads, water projects, and other facilities. I think this school (PCC) is symbolic of the improvements that have been made since the early 1960s.

Bush said he wanted to be the 'Education President', but the current budget shows cuts in student loans," said Perkins. "I see nothing in his recent bill to Congress that will improve education in this area."

Perkins noted that positive change in the region can be encouraged, but without federal support, it will have to be accomplished on a piecemeal basis, without the federal resources which could speed the process. He also discussed the pervasive attitude of cynicism which, he said, exists in Washington, DC, toward those living in poverty.

There's a real lack of compassion in Washington," said Perkins. "It seems that everyone thinks the poor are lazy and don't want work. Well, I know some pretty shiftless people in Eastern Kentucky, like everyone else does, but I know that most are hardworking people and they want jobs."

A basketball referee was assaulted Tuesday night after the 15th Regional Basketball Tournament game between Allen Central and Belfry high schools, when he was attacked by an irate Floyd County fan.

According to Kentucky State Po-lice reports, Ellis Spurlock, 40, of Printer waited outside the Johnson Central High School dressing room for Ronnie Gene Osborne, a referee from Harlan County, When Osborne came out at about 10:30 p.m., Spurlock struck him in the face with his fist, causing a laceration to the right

Osborne was taken to the Paul B. Hall Medical Center in Paintsville where he was treated and released. Spurlock was arrested and charged with fourth degree assault.

Company wants to mine Robinson Forest

BREATHITT COUNTY - Arch On The North Fork mining company, one of Breathitt County's largest employers, is seeking a permanent permit from the state to mine 3.1 million tons of coal located under land adjacent to the University of Kentucky's Robinson Forest.

The 105 acres in question are located on the northern and western boundaries of the forest, which was established through a trust fund to benefit the school children of Breathitt and surrounding counties. UK officials are seeking to have the land designated "unsuitable for mining," due the negative impact UK believes mining will have on the 11,000 acres of land in and around Robinson Forest.

Arch officials have stated that if they are prevented from mining the land, Arch will be forced to cease operations in the county late this year. It is currently estimated that Arch generates $50 million in revenue for the county annually, and directly or indirectly employs 2,000 people. (The

Fox hunters object to deer stocking

MAGOFFIN COUNTY-Fox hunters in Magoffin County have protested against the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife's plan to stock 500 deer in the county over the next two years.

Concern among local fox hunters is that an increased deer population would have an adverse effect on their hunting dogs. Other concerns expressed to the department by Magoffin County Judge-Executive pro-tem Henry Clay Sizemore included the danger of more car accidents caused by deer in the road and the effects of wildlife grazing on farmers' crops.

Despite objections, the plan to stock deer is scheduled to begin later this year. (The Salyersville Independent)

Burglary linked to liquor store fire

MAGOFFIN COUNTY- A fire in a liquor store near Salyersville is believed to have been started by burglars seeking to hide their crime.

Dave's Imperial Liquors, located on the Mountain Parkway east of Salversville, was burned last week. Evidence at the scene led investigators to believe that arson was the cause of the blaze. Bottles of wine and whiskey were reported missing, and kerosene containers were found at the scene. A heavy smell of the flammable liquid was also present after the fire.

The case remains under investigation by the Kentucky State Police. (The Salyersville Independent) suspected arsonists.

"I carry a gun like any other police officer - for my protection," he said. BINGO ASSAILED

Also in the citizen comment section, Rev. Dean Robinson questioned the opening last weekend of an alleged bingo parlor in downtown Prestonsburg.

Robinson said he observed "children and babies" at the bingo parlor Sunday night. "Can't we control who's going to be there?" he asked.

Robinson's questions prompted discussion by council members of the legality of the new bingo enterprise.

Clerk Sue Wells said the operation had not received a business license from the city, which is required even for nonprofit organizations as the operation purports to be.

Police Chief Greg Hall said a city ordinance requires that a "place of charitable gaming, even nonprofit, has to pay the city 525 a day of operation.

Councilman Mike Vance moved that the operation produce proof of nonprofit status and pay all relevant business fees. Council unanimously approved the motion.

SIDEWALKS FOR SCHOOL

Mayor Ann Latta reported sheand Public Works Superintendent Mike Meade had met with Highway Department engineer Denton Biliter concerning sidewalk construction around the new Prestonsburg Middle School on KY 1428. Officials of the Floyd County School System had previously asked the city for sidewalks in the vicinity of the school, to be ready for occupancy in August.

Latta said sidewalks are needed from the entrance to Briarwood to Poplar Street, a distance of about 2000 feet. She said construction would need to include curb and gutters, utility strip, earth fill and four-feet wide sidewalks. At one point a gully will have to be filled, she said.

The mayor also recommended asking the school board to work on extension, fill and sidewalks to tie in with the city's work on roadside walkways. She said the state will share in the work.

Biliter, she said, also looked at construction of sidewalks around Prestonsburg High School. The city's school to the bridge on KY 1428 were proclaimed a "million dollar project" Biliter, Latta said.

On a motion by Callihan, council agreed to ask the state highway department for a "scope and study" of nighway and sidewalk projections for the stretch of road in light of plans for the proposed US 23 construction on the west side of the river.

Council also heard the first reading of an ordinance to repeal a 1964 ordinance closing Margaret Street.

A recommendation that city fireighters not participate in planned burning of structures outside the city, except for training purposes, was introduced by Councilman Hale, with a second by William Callihan.

The motion arose from a request that the fire department burn an empty structure on Abbott Creek, an estimated one mile from a fire hydrant. Council approved the motion.

Latta questioned a survey reportedly being sent by Cablevision to area senior citizens requesting financial data. Council interpreted the survey proposal for sidewalks from the high to indicate that only handicapped or economically disadvantaged seniors are entitled to a cable discount rate. Latta said she believed the discount rate to apply to all senior citizens. City Attorney Larry Brown was asked to check into the matter.

Councilman Jerry Fannin suggested motorists exiting Sally Gatewood parking lot be allowed to turn either left or right and that exit signs be moved to allow better vision for motorists

In other business, council members discussed a proposal to annex a section of Mountain Parkway and passed a locked car policy for police officers. (See related stories.)

Budget meetings were confirmed for the council members and the fire department for today, public works on March 21 and police department on March 28.

All council members were present, except Danny Hamilton. Next meeting is Monday, March 26, at 7 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

Poverty-

solve the poverty problem in Floyd County, other panel members representing the local media, churches and educational system were asked to describe their roles in the development process.

"I don't know if I should respond like a politician and give a prepared answer, rather than answering the question," said Rev. Tim Jessen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg, eliciting some hard looks by several panelists.

"I think the church can help people develop an understanding and concern for their neighbors, promoting the idea of people helping each other. I also think it's important not to become dependent on outside help to overcome the problem. I do believe the church can be at the forefront of this struggle," the minister said.

The role of education in overcoming poverty received emphasis from several panelists.

"At one time, education was not highly valued in the area, because the coal industry didn't require workers to have a high school education," said Ron Hager, Floyd County's school superintendent. "This attitude is one we're attempting to change."

Hager noted that the development of equity between school systems was vital, saying that schools throughout the state should provide education levels and should receive equal economic support from the state.

Elaborating on the importance of education in removing poverty, Mike Mullins, director of the Hindman Settlement School, said that an understanding of the past is necessary to develop a plan for future change.

"Many people in Appalachia don't know where they've been and don't understand their own history," said Mullins, a Floyd County native. "I know, because I wasn't taught about it in school. An understanding of this area's history is needed, to promote

In keeping with the development of a more knowledgeable Appalachian community, discussion turned to the role of the press in Eastern Kentucky. Tony Turner, news director and co-anchor of WYMT Mountain News, stated that providing the facts and the truth about the region was his news program's primary task.

Showing the facts about Eastern Kentucky and questions about CBS's '48 Hours" portrayal of Floyd County last December elicited strong comments from panelists.

"Dan Rather and '48 Hours' are ignorant and don't understand about Appalachia and Eastern Kentucky," said Gov. Combs, receiving loud

Others saw the reaction of local citizens and politicians to the program as the real story behind the

"The real issue about Muddy Gut, and its portrayal by CBS, is that we're blaming the victim of poverty for the situation," said Mullins. "This does nothing positive. We need to work together for change."

The allegedly skewed view of Floyd County presented in the show also angered several panelists.

"Idon'thavea problem with what 48 Hours' showed," said Turner of WYMT. "What I have a problem with is with what wasn't shown. It is the responsibility of a news program to be accurate, and not just show one side of an issue. I think that's what

Despite the seriousness of Friday's discussion, the panel did end on a lighter note, as Billie Jean Osborne, a retired band director and representaive of country singer Dwight Yoakam from Betsy Layne, addressed the audience. She noted how upset Yoakam was at the county's portrayal in the program and discussed the biased attitude exhibited by the "48 Hours" crew.

'They didn't want to film the new school or field house in Betsy Layne," said Osborne. "They kept asking me, saying since I was so intelligent, why did I stay in Eastern Kentucky? They wanted to know if I was trapped. They just didn't understand anything about Floyd County."

Gearheart noted that his company Com Cable Co., based in Harold, to had no wish to displace Charter against their will, but said that if the city could negotiate a way of purchasing Charter's equipment and right to serve Allen and then resell the service rights to TeleCom, he would be happy to serve the area.

Gearheart said services provided by TeleCom included access to 22 channels and four pay channels, for 540 hookup fee.

At the request of councilman Gary Elliott, Gearheart agreed to waive the hookup fee for 90 days following service start-up. He also noted that the listed monthly charge was firm, subject only to line construction costs, which could raise monthly charges to some extent. He also said that school would have to pay for cable service, citing the fact that schools pay for other services like electric and gas.

Council agreed with TeleCom to talk with Charter Cable about purchasing the company's equipment and rights to serve Allen, with the intention of reselling to TeleCom.

Present at Monday night's meeting were Mayor Vernon Porter and council members Elliott and Ann

To sell liquor or not is Price residents' question

1982, is putting the issue of legal liquor sales in the community up for vote again on April 22. This petition was a result of an area businessman seeking to obtain a beer license and an entertainment license to open a club in the building beside the railroad tracks in Price.

A beer license was denied to Char-les Hutchinson by the Floyd County Beverage Control Administrator, Denzil Allen, due to the petition against his application for an entertainment license, according to records at the County Clerk's Office.

In February Hutchinson was also denied the entertainment license because of the complaints against it from area residents and also on a written recommendation of County Attorney Jim Hammond, reading, "The applicant has a criminal case pending in Floyd District Court; a court date was set, he failed to appear, and an FTA was issued. Also, a plumbing health warning was posted on the building being renovated by the applicant. Said warning was removed by the applicant or at his discretion, contrary to the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky." Hutchinson said he planned to have a juke box and pool tables, as well as live entertainment on occasion, at the proposed club. He also noted that he would be the only establishment affected if the precinct

"I don't see what the big deal is. I've tested the juke box out, and even at full blast it can't be heard from the road," he said. "And there is the same type of place only 1-1/4 miles up the road at Hi Hat."

The petition for such an election in that precinct called for only 37 names, but the residents gathered 150, according to County Clerk Carla Bolton. The county will have to foot the bill for this election, which will cost around $1200, Bolton said.

She also noted that a wet/dry election was the residents' only choice if they wanted to keep places of entertainment, which sold beer, out of their community.

Hutchinson is confident, even if 150 of the 363 registered voters in Price signed the petition in favor of a dry precinct, the area will remain wet. "I know some of those people who signed that petition, and they said they did it just to get the people off their backs, and some even signed it twice," he commented.

Hutchinson noted that he has put a lot of money into this venture.

Jail not for kids

Dear Editor,

Somebody's child is still being put inadult jails in Kentucky. Somebody's child, who has no criminal charges against him or her, continues to be slapped in the slammer without a chance for an alternative placement.

This is more barbaric and unjust than cockfighting. Can Kentuckians be any less outraged over their children than they recently were over their chickens.

House Bill 756 will help to achieve the deinstitutionalization and the jail removal of Kentucky children.

Some kids need secure detention. Most kids do not. None of them deserve to be put in adult jails.

Sincerely,

— Mildred Aukerman

Would allow state employees

a democratic voice

Dear Editor:

I am writing to let legislators and local readers of your area know that an important piece of legislation is currently being heard in the Kentucky General Assembly. This piece of legislation is House Bill 387—Classified Employees Political Freedom Act (CEPFA). A copy of the following has been sent to H. Ramsey Morris Jr., all members of the State House Government Committee, and other local newspapers.

As a political representative of Kentucky citizens, you surely understand the social and economic need for Kentucky to present a positive image to the rest of the country and even to the world. For too long our state has been viewed as ignorant and backward. Our political system is largely responsible for this view. You can help bring us out of our "Dogpatch" image and into the 1990s by working to pass House Bill 387, the classified Employees Political Freedom Act.

Democracy succeeds only when citizens are actively and vocally involved in the political process. American willingness to exercise loudly and insistently the constitutional right to freedom of expression and freedom from political harassment has long been a source of inspiration for citizens of politically oppressed countries. Our freedoms have given them the courage to demand changes in their political systems. Just recently Americans watched and applauded as the Berlin Wall crumbled, as Nicaragua elected a new, democracy-oriented leader, as Romanians took to the streets to demand social change, and as MacDonald's - surely the most easily recognized symbol of democratic capitalism — surfaced in the Soviet Union

Political freedom appears to be sweeping across the world. Why, then, are many Kentuckians denied the right to free political expression simply because they are employed by state government? Can you, in good conscience, support and applaud political freedom in the rest of the world while continuing to deny it to many of your own constituents?

There can be no harm in a private citizen in his or her own private time working to support a candidate who represents the citizen's personal, political convictions. I understand the need to keep politics out of the workplace and the need for protection from political harassment; but House Bill 387 provides for these issues and might be a first step toward bringing Kentucky out of the oppressive system of political nepotism that has put politics in the workplace and has caused political harassment.

Please, for the sake of democracy in Kentucky, allow state employees the right to political freedom of expression. Vote for House Bill 387. —Bonnie D. Campbell

In praise of police

Dear Editor,

Due to the efforts of the Prestonsburg Police Department, the rash of recent thefts and vandalism seems to be over. My family was victimized not once, but twice by the same persons. Until it happens to you, you cannot understand the anger and fear that one encounters with the occurrence of theft. With three small children in our home, there has almost been a paranoid state with regards to locking doors and setting burglar alarms.

Thanks to the tremendous efforts of Detective Jeff Stumbo and Police Chief Greg Hall, these people have been apprehended and are lodged in the Floyd County Jail or on juvenile probation. In addition to this, a majority of our personal belongings have been recovered. It is with overwhelming gratitude that I write this letter commending the Prestonsburg Police Department on their efforts. They truly deserve recognition for they are the BEST on the Big Sandy River.

House Week in Review

Historic events provided bookends at the beginning and end of last week's activities in the House of Representatives.

I'll start first with the latter event. After eight months of deliberation and study, the Task Force on Education Reform completed its work and a comprehensive education package — totaling some 800 pages of proposed model legislation — was introduced in the House. The race against the clock is now on for our Education Committee to review the bill and move it to the full House for consideration before the end of the 1990

We have 14 legislative days left before we recess on March 29 to approve sweeping education changes and find a way to fund them. And even though education has dominated the headlines for much of the session, work is also continuing on the rest of the budget for the 1990-92 biennium. Plainly, much work remains to be done and time is growing short.

Other bills aimed at improving our education system and the way we fund it moved out of committee last week.

One major problem we've tried to state prison syste deal with involves making certain that property taxes in Kentucky are non-violent felons.

House Bill 429, adopted by our budget committee, would allow the state Revenue Cabinet to remove local assessors from office for malfeasance of office or for consistently or deliberately undervaluing property.

Currently, property valuation

Currently, property valuation administrators may only be removed by local circuit courts. Another reform facet of this legislation would require both the buyers and sellers of property to sign deeds and would make it a felony to lie about the purchase price of property on this document.

A bill aimed at improving local boards of education across the state cleared another hurdle. Our Education Committee approved legislation requiring school board candidates to show proof of a high school diploma or equivalent. Senate Bill 215 would require the candidates to submit the proof when they file nomination papers for a school board seat.

Two important corrections bills also received committee approval last week. House Bill 603 would establish a special commission to develop a long-range plan for our overcrowded state prison system. The bill also encourages alternative sentencing for House Bill 667 would strip the state of most of its authority to close county jails. County jailers and judges would serve on a commission and assist in writing jail regulations. More state money would be required for housing prisoners if the bill becomes law and additional funding for jail construction would come through a $10 increase in court costs.

By Rep. Russell Bentley

In other action, a committee approved legislation which would allow the state racing commissions to set dates for intertrack wagering and to require Kentucky tracks to simulcastraces. The wide-ranging proposal would not force Churchill Downs and Keeneland to simulcast races to each other.

A campaign-finance reform measure was adopted by the House, reducing the legal threshold for identifying individual contributors by name on finance reporting forms from $100 to $25.

The other historic event occurred when the governor signed legislation which originated in the House making Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday a state holiday. Kentucky thus becomes the 41st state to recognize Dr. King's important contributions. The holiday will be observed on the third Monday of January, beginning in 1991.

Legislative Perspective By Rep. Greg Stumbo

Legislation with significant impact upon a variety of areas within the Commonwealth received positive endorsements from lawmakers this Affecting the mechanism by which child support is paid in the Commonwealth is House Bill 639. The legislation was passed by the House and establishes specific support guidelines that conform to the federal Family Support Act of $988. Passage of the measure was necessary to conform to the federal mandate and involved a possible loss of substantial amounts of federal assistance to the Human Resources Cabinet if not implemented.

But, the final version of the bill includes six amendments. Supporters of the amendments said the amendments are necessary so that

Kentucky can move forward in creating a positive example of child supportenforcement.

One successful amendment provides for an order for temporary child support and another reinstates the Child Support Enforcement Commission.

We also altered the child support bill to allow immediate wage assignment to collect the support payments unless good cause can be shown. And, the measure was also revised to include a monthly child support guideline table used by the court to determine child support obligations.

We also passed House Bill 425 that legislation also requires that emergency patients admitted into a hospital be tested for AIDS to allow that knowledge to be available to medical staff. Within the measure, a provision directs that convicted prostitutes be tested for AIDS,

House Bill 113, the "living-well" legislation, has now passed both the House and the Senate.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson vetoed his first bill of the 1990 session. The measure would have increased reporting requirements for state agencies that lease property from the private sector. The measure would have required that leases costing more than $200,000 a year be included in state agencies' budget requests. And, it would also have required leasing companies to disclose who owns the property.

Bills signed into law include:

*House Bill 4 changes the date of the qualifying examination for property valuation administrators.

*Senate Bill 57 increases the number of workers' compensation administrative law judges from 10 to 15. *Senate Bill 60 increases the minimum number of employers needed to form a workers' compensation selfinsurance group.

Education reform legislation and the long-awaited decision on specific tax proposals still remain uncertain.

Report to Kentucky By Sen. Wendell Ford

SMALL FARMERS SHOULD BE FREED FROM A POINTLESS TAX-WITHHOLDING BURDEN

My office has been flooded with complaints from Kentucky farmers who face a nightmare of paperwork stemming from a totally unnecessary tax-collection provision slipped into a federal deficit-reduction bill passed

Thave already introduced legislation to help start the process of addressing these very well justified complaints. I plan to work with others in Congress, including other members of our Kentucky delegation, in responding as quickly as possible to this very serious and widespread problem.

This problem is particularly aggravating for two reasons: It imposes a pointless bureaucratic burden on small and part-time farmers across Kentucky and the nation. And it enables the federal government to temporarily get its hands on tax revenues from hundreds of thousands of struggling, seasonal farm workers who lack sufficient earnings to pay taxes in the first place.

All of this trouble has been caused by an obscure provision of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989.

This provision applies to farmers who already are required to with-hold Social Security payments from farm workers' checks. It says that these same farmers also must with-hold federal income taxes from farm workers' pay, effective with the beginning of this year.

Farmers are being taken by surprise by this previously unnoticed provision in a massive budget bill. Small-scale family farmers are not prepared to see that tax-withholding forms are filled out properly by part-time workers. They have enough to do without trying to become tax advisers to workers who might be on their farms for only a short time.

This burden might have some justification if it could help to balance the federal budget. But most farm workers, including many struggling to raise families, are seasonal workers with incomes requiring the payment of little or no taxes. More than half earn less than $5,500 a year, meaning that all of their tax with-holdings would be refundable.

The government would collect some $240 million in the first year of these new withholdings. But net revenues would drop to only about $20 million a year as farm workers began filing for tax refunds. In effect, the government would be using our farmers as middlemen in a drive to get interest-free loans from those least able to part with their had-earned money.

This is an extreme example of a growing federal tendency to mask the budget deficit at all costs and to pile burdens on the backs of middle and low-income people.

I know that others, including US Rep. Hal Rogers and Sen. Mitch McConnell from our state, also have introduced bills to lift this intolerable new burden. Our task now is to work together in a bipartisan fashion—and to work as quickly as possible—to restore a degree of fairness to a highly important aspect of our tax laws.

Yeah, I can read it: 'VOTE FOR GEORGE BUSH, THE ENVIRONMENTAL PRESIDENT'.'

April 22 is the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, when millions of Americansfirst demonstrated their concern for a cleaner environment.

In Kentucky, many activities are scheduled for Earth Day weekend, but Earth Day 1990 is much more than one weekend in April, according to state coordinators Ken Cooke and Julie Brumback Smither of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. The coordinators say they want the 20th anniversary year to be a perpetual campaign for environmental awareness and action through the entire decade Government Program Funds: Billions of dollars in federal and state government assistance to communities for a variety of locally administered programs are distributed each year. By law, many of these funds are allocated based on census population, age, housing, income, poverty and other statistics. These projects include educational, health, human services, and community development programs that help everyone.

ing these program funds to local governments, so there is a lot more money at stake in the census than just one-year allocation.

By making sure that everyone is counted, a community will receive all the funds to which it is entitled.

* Plan for Development: Local government planners and economic developers depend on accurate census statistics to plan for the future. Expensive public and private developments - such as schools, health clinics, factories and shopping centers - are linked to the study of census population and housing totals.

If the census is not complete, the success of these developments which so often involve millions of dollars, hundreds of jobs, and years of effort - could be put in jeopardy from decisions based on inaccurate or incomplete information during the planning stages.

And you don't have to be a government official or an officer in a big company to put census numbers to work. Census information about your area often is as close as your neighborhood library. Just look at these ways civic and neighborhood leaders used census statistics to help meet the needs of their communities. Their high number of working mothers with small children in a lowincome neighborhood—revealed by breakfast Sat. a study of census statistics prompted community leaders in a midwest city to seek and win approval for a day-care center.

· Elderly residents in an urban neighborhood in the South had no recreation facilities. By using census numbers to bolster their request for a community center, the senior citizens' organization was able to argue successfully before the county commissioners for a new center.

 Minority organizations in a western city were upset with their lack of adequate representation on the city council. Using census facts and figures, they were able to win a redistricting that allowed voters to choose additional minority council members in the next election.

Census numbers aren't meant to sit on a shelf in a big volume gathering dust. They are meant to be put to work in your community.

ESTILL NEWSOME

All the pain and grief is over, Every restless tossing passed; I amnow at peace forever, Safely

Did you wonder I so calmly trod the valley of the shade? Oh! but Jesus' love illumined every dark and fearful glade.

And He came Himself to meet me in that way so hard to tread; And with Jesus' arm to lean on, Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely, For I love you dearly still: Try to look beyond earth's

There is work still waiting for you, So you must not idly stand; Do it now, while life

When that work is all completed, He will gently call you home; Oh, the rapture of that meeting,

CARD OF THANKS

For all the kindness you have shown, we thank you very much, for sympathy in sorrowing days, for friendships' healing touch, with gratitude our hearts are full, though words cannot convey the tender thoughts and thankfulness we hold for you today. ## Reports of adult abuse up sharply

In 1980, there were fewer than 3,000 reports of abuse of adult Kentuckians, including 1,500 involving spouse abuse.

By the end of the decade, state adult protection staff were working with a caseload of more than 15,000 reports, including 8,600 cases of spouse abuse, according to statistics in the 1989 Kentucky Adult Protection Services Registry Report by the state Department for Social Services.

More than anything else, veteran Social Services investigators attribute the dramatic increase in these reports to one point: many Kentuckians now considerabuse of adults the same way they see child abuse or neglect - a situation in which the victim and/or family needs outside help.

"Public awareness on issues such as spouse abuse, neglect of the elderly and self-neglect by adults unable to care for themselves has grown significantly here and nationwide in the past 10 years," said Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalczyk.

'And while these numbers reflect a more accurate picture of the scope of adult abuse in Kentucky today, we also feel the state still has a long way to go before there is an equal public attitude about child abuse and adult

"It's natural human nature for people to react more readily to a defenseless child in a potentially harmful situation than to a spouse or an be able to seek help on his or her own," Michalczyk said.

Other potential factors impacting Kentucky's adult abuse numbers are more reports from police following changes in the adult protection law in 1984, the aging of the population, high cost long-term care forcing more elderly citizens to move in with children for care, and increased alcohol

Statistical information in Kentucky's 1989 adult protection report includes:

* A profile of the alleged victims showing 1) the overwhelming majority (85 percent) were women; 2) nearly a quarter of the alleged victims (24 percent) were 60 years of age or older; and 3) more than half (55 percent) were married compared to 16 percent who were single, 13 percent widowed, percent separated and 6 percent divorced (1989 percentages were virtually the same as in 1988);

*Total reports climbed from 13,495 in 1988 to 15,496 last year, while substantiated cases rose from 9,924 (70 percent) to 11,012 cases (71 per-

* The investigations involved 13,611 individuals, compared to 11,958 reported victims of adult abuse the previous year;

* Cases of spouse abuse — the most prevalent type of adult abuse reported — rose from 7,428 in 1988 to 8,600 last year;

* Cases of self-neglect (an adult unable to act to meet personal or medical needs) dropped from 2,079 in 1988 to 2,002 last year;

* Neglect by caretaker (relative, guardian, nursing home staff, etc.) was up from 1,720 cases in 1988 to 1,884 in 1989;

*Incidents of alleged exploitation (usually of the elderly by relatives, guardians or other caretakers) grew from 712 in 1988 to 782 last year; * All other types of adult abuse

(incidents of non-spousal physical abuse) rose from 2,537 in 1988 to 3,271

* The reports were made primarily by law enforcement agencies (4,334), spouse abuse shelter staff (2,825), hospital personnel (1,099), relatives (1,029), friends of neighbors (737) and home health agency staff

Parkway residents explore annexation

on the Mountain Parkway near Clark Elementary School, are interested in possible annexation of their area by the city of Prestonsburg, Councilman Mike Vance told his fellow council. members Monday night

"I understand several (residents) are interested in annexation," Vance reported. On a motion by Vance and seconded by Bill R. Collins and Charles Hale, council members voted to study the feasibility of annexation.

Mayor Ann Latta said that the procedure for annexation includes a proposal by the council. "If 50 percent of the owners or residents of the area in question gather a petition on the proposal, it must be put on a ballot and voted on," Latta said.

petition is forthcoming, annexation can take place at the will of the coun-

City administrator Fred James said yesterday that annexation holds a number of pluses for the residents. These include lower water rates, access to the city's sewer system, fire and police protection, regular pickup of larger trash items (appliances, tree cuttings, etc.) and installation of streets and curbs.

Residents of Clark Addition now pay a subscription fee for city fire protection, have no regular police protection, pay higher water rates and have no sewage system other than private septic tanks, James said.

Missed free throws costly as Rebels fall to Belfry in OT

It was standing room only (and not much of that) at the Johnson Central High School gym Monday night, as the 15th Regional Boys Basketball Tournament resumed after a week's layoff, while the girls regional tournament was played in Elkhorn

It was semifinal action as the Allen Central Rebels and Belfry Pirates sparred in the second game of the evening. Missed free throws in the closing minute of regulation play by the Rebels helped Belfry take a 60-57 overtime victory over Allen Central.

Belfry placed four starters in double figures, led by J.J. Hylton's 15 points. The game was being played under sad circumstances for the Pirates team because of the untimely death of Scott Vickers, a member of the Belfry team.

An empty chair at the end of the bench and roses were in memory of the senior basketball player. Towels with "number 34" and "Scott" on them were worn in the uniform pants of some of the Belfry Pirates during the team's warm ups before the game

Allen Central fell behind early in the fourth quarter by six, 47-41, when the Rebels called time out with 6:14 remaining. Rick Smith was fouled and hit the front end of a bonus shot. After a Belfry turnover, Smith canned a sixfooter to make the score 47-44. Paul Stafford's free throw made it 48-41 in favor of Belfry

Terry Spurlock took a missed Rebel shot and stuck it back in for two points to draw Allen Central to within two, 48-46. Belfry was called for a walking violation, turning the ball over to Allen Central. The Rebels returned the favor on a bad pass. Stafford then gave Belfry a little breathing room with a 12-footer with 3:59 remaining.

Allen Central caught the Pirates at the 3:28 mark on two free throws by Cotton Parsons, who was playing on a stress fracture in his foot, and took a 51-50 lead.

Belfry misfired on the next possession, and on the trip down court, Parsons show a three-pointer hastily. Paul Kinser was fouled and sank both charity tosses for a 52-51 Belfry lead with 2:43 to go. AC turned the ball over with 1:46 to go in the game and Shawn Hager connected on two charity tosses. Belfry then led by three, 54-

Allen Central's Todd Lucas missed on a three-point shot. Mike Hancock grabbed the rebound and missed only to take the ball on a second attempt and score on a seven-footer to close to within one, 54-53.

With 22 seconds to go, Belfry turned the ball over to the Rebels on a walking violation. Parsons was fouled and sank both free throws to give Allen Central a 55-54 lead. So Allen Central had the ball, the lead, and Lucas was fouled with eight seconds remaining.

back of the rim and Belfry got the ball into the hands of sophomore Hylton for the trip up the floor. Hylton drove Lucas' free throw hit hard off the to the basket where some confusion occurred. One official called Hylton for charging and the other overruled by calling a foul on Kevin Spurlock.

Hylton was awarded the free throws much to the displeasure of the Rebel bench. The sophomore sensa-tion hit the first charity toss to tie the game at 55-55. Hylton missed the second one that could have won the game. Central attempted a desperation shot with three seconds to go as the game went into overtime.

Lady Cougars 15th Regional Champions

The 15th Region has a new girls basketball champion, as the Elkhorn City Lady Cougars defeated a determined Johnson Central Lady Eagles team 64-49 Saturday night at Elkhorn City. More than 4,000 fans piled into the Elkhorn City gym to watch the Lady Cougars take the title behind the 22-point performance of Stacey

It was a noisy crowd that was on hand to support the 31-2 Lady Cougars. Elkhorn City coach B.J. Elswick has fulfilled a dream in going to the Sweet Sixteen this week at Bowling Green. The Lady Cougars will square off against Nelson County in a 2:30 p.m. start tomorrow afternoon.

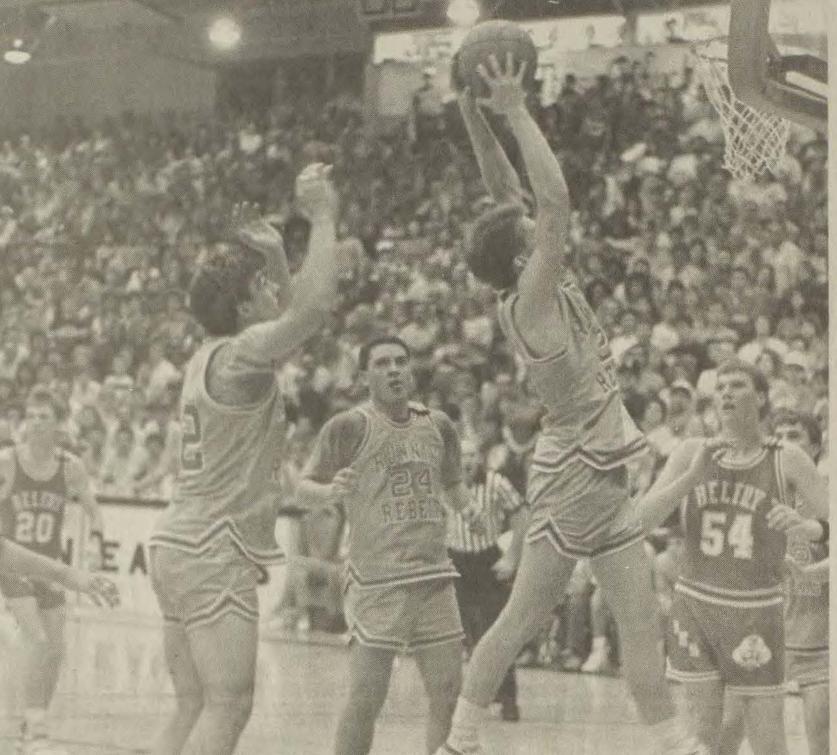

The Johnson Central team played its heart out for coach Steve Wicker and fans. The Lady Eagles represented the 57th District well.

Emma McCarty led the Lady Eagles in scoring with 18 points. The Lady Eagles upset the Dorton Lady Wildcats on Friday evening to make it to the final game.

After Johnson Central held a brief 3-2 lead, the Lady Cougars ripped off eight unanswered points to take a 10-3 lead and held a 18-9 first quarter

Lady Rebels lose to Lady Eagles in Regional tournament, 76-74

Bonita Compton was happy to have her Lady Reb team back into the 15th Regional tournament at Elkhorn City. Allen Central has been absent from the classic for several years now. This was a good Lady Rebel team with a lot of talent, veteran and young. The stay in the playoffs was shortlived as the Floyd County team fell to the Lady Eagles of Johnson Central,

Johnson Central rolled out to a 6-0 lead quickly on baskets by Emma McCarty, Lisa Blevins and Melissa Butcher. A basket by Jo Ann Conn and three-pointer by Teresa Gibson cut the margin to one, 6-5. After Blevins hit from the corner, Darnella Bradley's basket and another threepointer by Gibson gave Allen Central

In the second period, Stacy Moore hit from close in to make it 23-17. After a basket by Susan Roberts for Johnson Central, buckets by Conn and Gibson cut the lead to three 24-21. Allen Central stayed close until middle way the second stanza when Johnson Central went on a run of 10-0 to take a big 41-27 lead.

Johnson Central held a 44-32 halftime lead as both teams headed for the locker rooms.

Allen Central cut the lead to eight, 44-36, with early third period scoring by Gibson and Conn. Two free throws and a bucket by Butcher made it 48-36. Johnson Central extended the lead to 17 points, 59-42, with 4:10 remaining in the third period.

Allen Central then began a comeback, outscoring the Lady Eagles, 11-4, to close to within 10 points, 63-53, of the Lady Eagles at the end of the third period of play. In that spurt Gibson hit her third three-pointer.

Allen Central made its presence known in the fourth period when the team closed to within six points, 67-61, with 6:01 to go. Conn scored six straight points and a basket by Moore made up the run. After a three-point play by Butcher to give Johnson Central a 70-61 lead, Gibson hit her fourth 'trey' to make it 70-64 with 4:35 remaining.

Blevins from the corner, her favorite spot, gave Johnson Centrala 72-64 lead. Bradley's basket on the putback kept things close at 72-66. With 3:20 to go, Conn missed two free throws, and Roberts hit a free throw to give the Lady Eagles a seven-point lead.

Bradley hit a turnaround jumper to close to within five, 73-68. Blevins tried to drive the base line and was called for charging. Conn hit underneath for Allen Central to make it a three-point game, 73-70, with 1:44 remaining. Carol Sparks and Belcher hit three free throws for a 76-70 lead. Conn scored on a good move underneath to make it 76-72

McDowell downed by Feds Creek

Last second shot misses in upset bid

Feds Creek's Jody Thompson, a future Wildcat at the University of Kentucky, had his future coach in the audience to watch the 6'5" Viking center go up against the "never say die" Turner Turnarounds of McDowell in Monday night's first semifinal match up between the Daredevils and

UK coach Rick Pitino put in an appearance at the Johnson Central gym and got to see more than just Thompson, as senior center Keith Shelton put on a show for the Kentucky coach. Shelton outscored and outrebounded the Feds Creek star in the game as Thompson had to retire to the pines early in the first quarter with foul problems.

Thompson had 12 points in the game and seven rebounds. Shelton netted 18 points, pulled down 13 boards and had one block shot (one of Thompson's).

McDowell looked like the team that was determined to make a trip to Freedom Hall. The Daredevils had upset in mind as they were not awed by the Feds Creek hype. However, the Vikings, who struggled at times during the season, showed that their preseason pick as the number one team in the 15th Region was no joke. With Feds Creek leading 53-51 early in the fourth period, Shelton hit a short turnaround for a 53-53 tie and then sank a free throw that gave McDowell a 54-53 lead with 5:23 remaining. The Vikings then ran off six unanswered points to move ahead

Game of the year

The game of the season in girls basketball took place when the Sheldon Clark Lady Cards met up with the Elkhorn City Lady Cougars for the fourth time this season. The Lady Cougars won for the fourth time as they defeated a really tough Sheldon Clark team, 55-50, in 15th Regional play.

Central was forced to foul and picked on Shawn Hager who missed the front of the bonus. However, Belfry got the rebound and Hager was again fouled with:03 remaining. This time Hager found the basket and canned both charity tosses to give Belfry a 60-57 victory.

For Belfry, Hager finished with 10 points, Paul Stafford had 12 and Williamson tossed in 10.

Allen Central was led in scoring Rick Smith with 18 points. Joey Conn finished with nine. Conn hurt his knee on a spinning move to the basket late in the third quarter and had to leave the game as doctors worked with him.

Conn attempted to return in the fourth period but was unable to continue and was a big loss to the Rebel offense. The extent of the injury was not known at the time, but according to a team physician, surgery on the knee was not ruled out. Also according to the physician, Parsons' foot was to be put in a cast on Tuesday.

The play was for Stacy Hall to take the ball in for the last shot. Hall went base line and pulled up with a fivefooter that was weak and time ran

"We wanted to let Stacy take the last shot," McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner said. "It was the shot we wanted. It just didn't fall.

"We missed some free throws and turned the ball over and that always hurts a team," he remarked. "You hate to lose these kinds of games. I feel we played a good game. We stopped Thompson and played good defense and represented our district

The lead changed hands 21 times in the game and eight in the first stanza of play

McDowell missed seven free throws in the game which is very uncharacteristic of them. Stacy Hall missed two front ends of bonuses. Turnovers down low were a problem for McDowell who closes out the season with a 13-17 record.

Freshman MIke Duddleson made his presence known in the game for McDowellas hedrew the assignment of guarding Thompson. Duddleson, at 5'9", did a good job on the future all-stater, holding him to only two

Elkhorn City topples Sheldon Clark, 55-50

Elkhorn City coach B.J. Elswick's Lady Cougars felt the tension as the Sheldon Clark Lady Cards and his team were about to face each other for the fourth time this season.

Forget about the two regular seasongames Elkhorn City won. Forget about the Lady Cougar victory over the Lady Cards in the Nothing But The Net Tournament at Betsy Layne. What was about to take place has many fans believing this semifinal game of the 15th Region Girls Basketball tournament is really the championship game of the playoffs.

tha Cook, gave Elkhorn a 4-2 lead. The score was tied at 4 and 6 before Elkhorn took an 8-6 lead and built it out to 10 points at 19-9 with 53 seconds to go in the first quarter. The Lady Cougars led at the first stop, 19-

Julie Belcher hit a three-pointer to give the Lady Cougars a 26-16 lead, when a Jennie Kirk basket, followed by a bucket by Linda Slone and four free throws, gave Sheldon Clark a 8-0 run and closed the lead to 26-24 at the end of the first half.

Ida Bowen, the Cards' 6' 1" junior center, could not get involved in the offense in the first half. Bowen was held scoreless in the first quarter and had four in the second.

Katina Preece's free throw in the early going of the third period, folfirst half points. Duddleson hit back lowing a Lady Cougar turnover, to back three-pointers in the third quarter that put the Daredevilsahead, 37-35 made it 26-25. Each team traded baskets until Elkhorn City took a 3631 lead on baskets by Kari Belcher and Barb Mullins.

Sheldon Clark started going to Bowen more in the middle as the junior scored six straight points to bring her team back to within five 44-39. Bowen had 10 points in the sec-

However, the Lady Cards could get no closer as they dropped from tournament action, 55-50. The Lady Cards closed the season with a fine 29-5 record and represented the 57th District and 15th Region well wherever they went to play.

Early spring is walleye time

by Aaron Pass

As late winter melts into early spring, the fishing bug bites and gets anglers itching to test their local water. A traditional target over much of the country at this time is the walleye.

The walleye is often erroneously called the "walleyed pike" or "jack pike." The walleye actually is a member of the perch family, including sauger and yellow perch. (We won't even get into all the fish, mostly sunfish, that are miscalled "perch"). The walleye's other nickname, "marble eye," is descriptive of this species' large, opaque or milky eyes.

Those large eyes and slightly elongated jaws filled with needle-sharp teeth (causing it to be confused with the pike) suggest two important facts about the walleye lifestyle. It is a denizen of deep, dark waters, and it is a predator, feeding mainly on smaller fish. Anglers take note, as these two habits are the keys to walleye catching success. Another walleyecharacteristic that is of particular interest to early spring anglers is that this fish spawns very early in the year. When water temperatures reach the low to mid 40 F range, walleyes congregate to stage an upstream spawning run. This not only concentrates the fish but also brings them into shallow water where they may be more easily caught. Anglers casting bucktail jugs, softbodied plastic grubs and lead heads tipped with a live minnow probecreek mouths and deep river pools. A slow, steady retrieval with occasional "hops" imparted to the bait is effective. Small minnow-shaped crankbaits also are effective, but since walleye fishing means bottom bumping, lots of hang-ups occur. Cheaper lures are easier on your pocketbook.

The spawning run means more and faster walleye action and the opportunity to cast to fish in relatively shallow water. During the rest of the year, walleye angling consists mostly of deep vertical jigging and deep trolling with lures or bait at 20, 30, 40 and even 50-foot depths.

However, even spring anglers must remember the walleye's big, light sensitive eyes. Particularly in shallow water, walleyes dislike and avoid intense direct light. Thus, the best times to fish for them are early morning, late afternoon and at night. (where safe and legal). Cloudy "gray" days are also good.

Don't wait for a crashing strike walleyes take the bait gently. Even when hooked, walleyes are not noted as strong fighters. Light tackle spinning or casting with an 8-pound to 12-pound test line is sufficient for most spring walleye fishing. The real appeal of this game fish is its succulent white meat. A platter of firm, white walleye fillets is a fish course second to none (and ahead of most) from either fresh or salt water.

Girls 15th Regional Best Tourney In A Long Time

If you missed the 15th Regional Girls Basketball tournament at Elkhorn City last week you missed a good one. I believe the tournament was one of the best that has been played in a while. Tournament director Jerry Childers did a great job in putting the tournament together. The hospitality room was the best.

The tournament was exciting for the fans, but hard on the coaches. I have this problem of always feeling for the losing coach. You want to say something to make him or her feel better. But those kinds of words don't come easy. The refereeing left somewhat to be desired. So what, it has been like that all season!

The atmosphere of the Elkhorn City/Sheldon Clark game was electrifying. The fans really got into the game, and I don't think they have gotten out of it yet. Two big rivalries. Always makes for good competition. Both teams ranked and battling each other four times during the season.

I think that Robin Harmon, Lady Cards coach, is a class person. She does a tremendous job of coaching. You can tell that her players have the highest respect for her

B.J. Elswick, Lady Cougar mentor, also does an outstanding job with his team. Both teams, get this, both teams will return a strong unit next year. It will all pick up again this fall. I hope each team plays a home and home series again.

The Lady Rebs of Allen Central represented our district very well. They almost pulled the props out from under the Lady Eagles of Johnson Central. A 76-74 loss and a chance to tie the game in the last five seconds made for a heart breaker for the Lady Rebels. Coach Bonita Compton brought her team a long ways and also will return a solid unit next

Our Betsy Layne Lady Cats made a good showing against the Lady Cougars in game one. We appreciate all the enjoyable games they have played this season. They too will be strong coming back next season.

A new award for the tournament this season was the "Band" award which went to the Mullins High School. They were excellent! And very deserving of the award. Johnson Central, who played with a lot of heart, was the tournament's runnerup, and each player received a miniature silver basketball as well as a team trophy. Elkhorn City received gold miniature basketballs. The team free throw trophy went to Phelps High School who shot 85 percent. Samantha Cook won the individual free throw trophy by shooting 92 percent.

The Betsy Layne High School cheerleaders won first place in the cheerleading award and 12 players were named to the All-Regional team. Those named were Ida Bowen, Terri Harmon of Sheldon Clark; Melissa Butcher, Lisa Blevins of Johnson Central; Stacey Spake, Kari Belcher, Smantha Cook and Julie Belcher of Elkhorn City; Jo Ann Conn of Allen Central; Melissa Anderson, Bridget

The support of the community of Elkhorn City and the students at the high school was amazing. You could tell that they loved the Lady Cougars. Going into town toward the gym, there were Cougar prints even up the local bank's sign, as well as windows. Store fronts were decorated supporting the Lady Cougars. And a sign across the bridge that said "beware you are almost there" warned the fans of what was to come.

Girls high school basketball is not dead in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky. Floyd County could have such a program if school officials and administrators would get behind it more. I hope some day soon we can see that kind of enthusiasm in our county over girls basketball - they

Allen Central's outstanding player and one of the best in the 15th Region, Jo Ann Conn, was inadvertently left off the original list of All-Regional team at Elkhorn City. Instead the trophy was given to Susan Conn, Betsy Layne. The mistake was that of the tournament committee in count-

Conn scored 34 points, single game high for a player in all the tournament, against Johnson Central. She has been a mainstay for the Allen Central program for the past four years and will make some college an excellent player.

According to Allen Central coach Bonita Compton, Conn was named on all coaches' ballots in the voting, and Susan Conn wasn't named on any of them. "When they saw the name Conn, they thought it was Susan Conn, a substitute for Betsy Layne, and gave her the trophy. Jo Ann was really hurt over it," Compton explained. "We recounted the votes and the mistake was discovered. They would not recount the votes until 15 minutes after the error was discovered. The trophy is not the big deal, but recognition is. She deserves to be recognized as the others were because of the college scouts in the gym."

Compton said that Susan Conn will be allowed to keep the trophy that she received and that the regional tournament committee said "they would mail lo Ann one." However, Compton explained that the Kentucky High School Athletic Association says that the trophy should be returned and that the Betsy Layne coach should be the one who retrieves it.

I say let Susan keep the trophy and see that this sort of thing doesn't happen again and one of our young athletes doesn't get hurt. We here in Floyd County and the 15th Region is and everyone has the highest respect for her. Jo Ann Conn was a member of the original All-Regional

Comstock named KIAC Coach of the Year

Pikeville - Pikeville College's first-year basketball coach Marc Comstock has been named the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Coach of the Year for 1990.

Comstock, who was previously assistant coach at Fort Hays State University in Kansas, coached the Pikeville College Bears to a 14-14 season, far superior to last year's 4-22 win-loss record.

"The Coach of the Year is an award I share with the team," he said after learning of the decision by the KIAC's coaches on Wednesday, March 7. "It wouldn't have been possible without. their hard work, and without their being receptive to the kind of playing we tried to do this year. I hope they share the feeling of achievement I feel from this honor.

Comstock's previous experience includes 11 years as assistant coach. first at Hillsdale College in Michigan and later at Toledo University, Eastern Kentucky, Cumberland College and Fort Hays. Before coming to Pikeville he had compiled a 249-win, 98-loss record during his assistant coaching career As KIAC Coach of the Year, Comstock becomes Kentucky's nominee for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Coach of the ## Ten biggest upsets ever....

by Paul Finebaum

Scripps Howard News Service Immediately following James Buster" Douglas' stunning knockout of Mike Tyson, an announcer on HBO proclaimed,"This just may be the biggest upset in the history of boxing.

Later, sportscasters around the nation amended Jim Lampley's remark stating, "It may be the greatest upset in the history of sports."

It sounded good at the time. But as it really?

Certainly the victory by Douglas was shocking. The mere fact the fight lasted two rounds defied logic. But back to the question: Was it the greatest upset of all-time.

I have pondered that over the last few days. In a furious search through a variety of record books, I have concluded it was not. But it was close.

It is tempting to say the greatest upset in the history of sports occurred in 1987 when Joab Thomas hired Bill Curry as Alabama's football coach. However, we'll leave that for another

Here are the 10 greatest upsets in

1. USA hockey team beat the Soviets in the 1980 Winter Olympics at Lake Placid. The stirring victory ignited a nation. It's one thing for an unknown fighter to beat the champion, but here were the world's most powerful nations battling in the Olympics. Given no chance going in, the USA pulled the shocker, which will forever be remembered as one of the greatest moments in sports his-

2. New York Jets over Baltimore Colts in Super Bowl III. The Jets, led by Joe Namath, were given no chance in the 1969 game. The oddsmakers rated them 18-point underdogs. But Namath led a stirring 16-7 victory, shocking the sports world and changing the face of professional football

3. Cassius Clay over Sonny Liston. Liston entered the heavyweight fight 7-1 favorite against the Louisville lip. When Liston failed to answer the bell in the seventh round in Miami Beach, Clay leaped into the air, proclaiming, "I am the greatest." For nearly 14 years, he kept his word.

4. New York Mets winning the 1969 World Series. The year before, the Mets finished in ninth place in the National League, 24 games out of first. But not only did they shock all of baseball by winning the pennant, they bested the Baltimore Orioles, four games to one, in the World Series.

5. Carnegie Techover Notre Dame in football in 1926. The Irish entered the game 8-Dand regarded as the best in America, Carnegie Techhad lost to New York University and Washington and Jefferson. Knute Rockne thought so little of the opponent, he allowed his assistant, Hunk Anderson, to coach the game. Rockne went to Chicago to scout the Army-Navy game. Carnegie shocked Notre Dame, 19-0. 7. Villanova over Georgetown in 1985 NCAA basketball, Villanova barely made the NCAA field, so it was shocking when Rollie Massimino's Wildcats slew Patrick

Ewing and the Hoyas, 66-64. 8. Buster Douglas over Mike Tyson. Douglas was given no chance in this fight in Tokyo. Las Vegas bookies refused to put a price on the bout, although some books listed it as 40-1. But the fighter from Ohio knocked out Tyson in the 10th round to become heavyweight champ of the world.

9. Texas-Western over Kentucky for the 1966 NCAA basketball championship. The school now known as UTEP pulled one of the greatest upsets of all time, when it defeated Adolph Rupp's Kentucky team, 72-

10. Paul Hornung winning the Heisman Trophy in 1956. The occasion marked the first time since 1935 - the first year the trophy was awarded - that the winner was not a consensus All-American. #### Different Size Limits Help Regulate Bass Populations

You're catching a lot of bass at your favorite lake, but all the fish seem to measure less than 12 inches in length. Do you need to change lures or techniques?

"Perhaps not," says Ken Cook, a former fisheries biologist and now a top tournament bass pro and member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "There could be a problem with the lake or with the bass fishery within

"It might be time for the state to impose a special length limit on that lake's bass to improve the fishery."

Bass fishermen everywhere are encountering more and more specialized regulations on lakes throughout the United States. The most common of these regulations are length limits that specify what size bass may

"Size limits are a management tool used to control the harvest of bass populations," explains Cook. "When they first began to be used a few years ago, everyone thought they were the magic cure to heal ailing lakes, but biologists have since learned every lake is different and must be evaluated for its own special needs.

"The two most commonly used regulations are the minimum size limit and the protective slot limit," explains the Evinrude pro.

"A minimum length limit controls over-harvest in which too many fish are being removed. In many instances, the minimum length usually established is 12, 14, or perhaps 16 inches. This protects smaller bass, and generally allows them to spawn once before they might be removed.

"A protective slot limit," continues Cook, "allows only fish of a certain size to be removed. A slot might protect bass measuring 14 to 18 inches, for example. Anglers can keep bass measuring less than 14 or more than Cook emphasizes that bass anglers everywhere should try to work closely with state fisheries biologists and provide them with as much information on the fish they catch as possible, since they spend more time on the lakes than anyone else.

"I believe we'll see more and more slot limits in the future," says Cook, because they allow anglers to take home smaller bass to eat, and at the same time satisfying the desire to catch larger trophy-sized bass measuring over the slot limit.

One of the best success stories of sizelimits is Lake Fork in Texas, where the slot limit is 14 to 21 inches. Because of such a long protective length, Lake Fork has become an excellent trophy bass lake and produced numerous fish in the 10 to 14-pound

Size limits are not a cure-all for every lake's fishery, emphasizes Cook. Some lakes, he says, have such poor fertility they will never produce a lot of bass, and others may actually have too much food that literally out-

"Fisheries are dynamic and everchanging," says the Evinrude angler, "and regulations for size limits may actually need to be changed after several years.

"The first thing biologists must do is clearly identify and define the problem, and then continue to monitor it, as they implement various

Walleye and Sauger

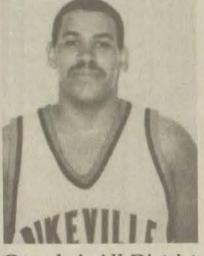

Begin Spring Runs Walleye and sauger begin spring spawning runs in several Kentucky waters this month. So get out that angling equipment and get ready for some "laid back" fishing.

Early in March, walleye anglers can find toothy lunkers lurking in the tailwaters of Cumberland, Laurel, Nolin and Paintsville Lakes. And don't forget the spots where creek channels empty into lakes, especially if they contain warm-water areas produced by discharge from power dietary delicacy for predator fish species, which means anglers can find notonly walleye, but white bass, black bass and striped bass as well.)

Good numbers of walleye also can be found in the North, Middle and South forks of Cumberland River during March. Live minnows and minnow-imitating lures are effective for catching walleye in river pools and below riffles. At night, walleye move to riffles and shoals to feed and when water temperature reach the 46 to 55 degree range, eggs are dropped. Spawning peaks between mid-March and early April.

When these fish return to lakes' deeper water later in the spring, anglers should try live bait and spinner rigs around rocky points.

Primarily a river fish, sauger also begin moving upstream in March, but because man-made obstacles slow their progress, sauger tend to congre-plants. (Warm water attracts shad, a gate near locks and dams. Anglers dorsal finanda white tip on the lower can find the best sauger fishing in Kentucky Lake tailwaters and below locks and dams on the Ohio and Kentucky rivers.

Both Walleye and sauger tend to stay near the bottom, protecting their light sensitive eyes from bright sunshine; therefore fishing early in the morning and late afternoon produces the best results. And, since both species locate their prey by sight, brightly colored lures seem to work best in low light areas. Sauger go for jigs with twister tails, minnows and crankbaits.

Sometimes anglers have trouble telling the difference between walleye and its smaller cousin, sauger. The glassy-eyed walleye has a long slender body and a mouth filled with canine teeth. Coloring is light with indistinct markings except for a dark blotch near the bottom rear portion of the

By Carolyn Lynn

With similar body shape and canine teeth, the silver and black sauger has a dark saddle of vertical blotches across its back and a series of dark spots in irregular diagonal rows on the sides and dorsal fin.

Members of the perch family, both species provide an excellent meal, especially when cooked over a campfire in the crisp spring air. (Sauger is tastier if the red-colored flesh is removed when filleted.)

Anglers may keep 10 fish per day of either walleye (and hybirds) or sauger; the possession limit is 20. The size limit on walleye is 15 inches. There is no size limit on sauger.

Walleye are released annually in Cumberland, Carr Fork, Laurel, Martins Fork, Nolin and Paintsville lakes by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. In addition, walleye are stocked annually in Licking, Rolling Fork and Russell Fork rivers and above the falls in the Cumberland River.

Society Items for Wednesday's Paper must be received no later than 10 a.m. Monday morning

What better way to start the day than to receive a hug from a child. Affection is the spice of life, and receiveing such rewards from well mannered children is a pleasant experience. At least that's what the seniors at the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen Center displayed as they lovingly and gratefully accepted the gift of a squeeze from the children in the Drift Headstart program.

Hugs are necessary for developing young and old is the premise the Headstart program is promoting by visiting area senior citizens centers. The program is entitled HANDY-O and promises lots of hugs and appreciation from the Headstart children, according to Earnestine Shelton of the Drift Headstart.

During the month of March Headstart groups travel to different Senior Citizen Centers in the county and entertain with songs and hugs. They also have the chance to improve inter-generational socialization between the young and old by working on projects together.

This past Monday, the Drift Headstarters created "ants on a log" with the Prestonsburg Seniors. The project itself, combining celery, peanut butter and raisins, was enjoyed by both ages alike, as was the final step - eating the creation. The children handed out Shamrocks, "good for one hug," to each of the seniors present, and also stayed for lunch.

Local couple to marry Friday

Mr. and Mrs. James Crace of Prestonsburg announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Leslie Ann Crace, to Freddie Arthur Collins of Prestonsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Collins. The ceremony will take place at the Katie Friend Baptist Church Friday, March 16, at 6 p.m. Friends and family are welcome to attend. A reception will immediately follow the wedding.

Celebrates 8th

St. Patrick's Day, as it is celebrated 1-1/2 cups beef broth in America, is a fun, rowdy and boisterous holiday, an excuse for college students (and those long past their college years), to drink green beer and wear buttons that say, "Kiss me, I'm lrish." (Or, "I'm not lrish, but kiss meanyway")

St. Patrick of course, is the patron saint of Ireland, but his holiday has been adopted by many people who don't have a drop of Irish blood. The saint is credited both with having introduced Christianity to Ireland and with having driven all the snakes out of the country.

To accomplish these tasks, St. Patrick must have been an energetic and dedicated man, so it is fitting that his holiday is celebrated with such

But if you're not into green beer or fighting crowds at the nearest parade, how do you celebrate St. Patrick's Day? Why not prepare a traditional Irish feast for family and friends? Even if you're not Irish, such a dinner is sure to be delicious and enjoyable. For a main course, you could try a dish such as Shepherd's Pie. Or try one of the featured potato recipes. After all, the Irish are also well known for their ability to vary the average potato dish and incorporate it into every meal.

SHEPHERD'S PIE 1 lb. ground beef

1 tsp freshly ground black pepper 2 bay leaves

2 whole cloves Dash Thyme leaves

1 cup carrots, sliced l cup onions, sliced

l cup mushrooms, sliced 1 cup celery, diced

1 cup whole kernel corn

1-1/4 Tosps flour

1 lb potatoes, cooked I Tosp margarine

1/2 cup skim milk

1 Tosp chives, chopped 4 ozs mozzarella cheese, shredded In a skillet brown beef and drain excess oil. Add 1 cup of broth, pepper, bay leaves, cloves and thyme

Cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Add carrots, onions, mushrooms, celery and corn. Simmer until vegetables are tender.

In a small bowl gradually add remaining broth to flour, stirring constantly to form a smooth paste. Add to beef and vegetables. Simmer 5 minutes or until slightly thickened.

1/8 tsp black pepper, preferably ground, or to taste

About 1/4 cup matzo meal (or 2 to 3 Thsps all-purpose white flour, preferably unbleached)

For Frying Vegetable oil

To Serve Applesauce, commercial sour cream, or plain yogurt.

Shred or grate the potatoes alternately with the onion to keep the potatoes from darkening. (The size of the shreds is a matter of personal taste. Coarse shreds produce lacier latkes with rough edges. Fine shreds or grated potatoes produce denser, smoother latkes.) Squeeze the excess and matzomeal. Let the mixture stand for about 5 minutes, so that the matzo meal can absorb some moisture. If the mixture still seems very wet, add a bit more matzo meal.

In a very large skillet, over me-dium-high heat, heat oil that is about 1/8 to 1/4 inch deep until it is very hot but not smoking. To form each latke, use a large spoon to transfer some of the potato mixture to the oil; then flatten the mixture slightly with the back of the spoon. The latkes will be irregularly shaped. An alternative method (which makes more evenly shaped latkes) is to press some of the potato mixture into a large serving spoon; then carefully slide it off the spoon into the hot oil.

Continue making latkes until the skillet is full, leaving a little room between each one. Fry the latkes until they are well browned on both sides and crisp around the edges. Drain them well on paper towels. Repeat the process until all the latkes are

OVEN-FRIED POTATOES

AND GARLIC 2 lbs. new potatoes, scrubbed

1 Tbsp coarse salt

1/2 cup olive oil 8 large cloves garlic, thinly sliced

Salt and freshly ground black pepper 1/2 cup loosely packed flat-leaf parsley leaves minced

Place the potatoes in a large saucepan. Add water to cover and the salt. Bring to a boil over high heat; cook until the potatoes are nearly, but not quite, tender, about 15 minutes. Test them with a skewer, which should meet some resistance in the middle. Drain the potatoes and let them cool.

Preheat the oven to 500 degrees. When the potatoes are cool enough to handle, cut into thin slices.

Pour 1/4 cup of the oil into a 12-1/ 2 by 8-1/2 inch glass baking dish.

Place the potatoes in the dish, coating them with the oil. Sprinkle the garlic over the top, season generously with salt and pepper. Add the remaining 1/4 cup oil, pouring it all over the potatoes. If any potatoes aren't covered with oil, turn once so they are completely covered. Bake the potatoes until golden on both sides, 15 to 20 minutes, checking them occasionally to be sure they don't get too brown. To serve, sprinkle with the parsley. Makes 4 servings. STEAMED NEW POTATOES WITH TARRAGON BUTTER

ADULTS AND CHILDPROOF CAPS

Childproof caps on medications have helped to greatly reduce the number of accidental poisonings of children under age six in their own homes. Ironically, the caps may contribute to the accidental poisonings of children in their grandparents' homes. The problem lies with the inability of many older people to manipulate childproof caps. Arthritic adults in particular find them difficult to open. Consequently, elderly patients may circumvent the intended purpose of childproof caps by leaving them off, aligning the arrows, or switching bottles. If a visiting grandchild finds the improperly-stored medication in his grandparents' home, the stage is set for an accident. This can prove disastrous for a child. Also, a medication that is improperly exposed to air may lose its potency, which can be detrimental to the older

ANNIE ALLEN CIRCLE MEETS AT CHURCH

The Annie Allen Circle, WMU, of the First Baptist Church, met Monday, March 5, at 7 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall of the church. Ruby Garrett opened the meeting with prayer.

In the absence of the officers, Garrett served as president and Maman Leslie as secretary-treasurer. The program was entitled "That They Might See," with Faye Patton, Garrett and Eva Collins participating.

Names of Baptist missionaries observing birthdays in March were read, and prayer was held for them. It was decided that the April meeting would be held at the home of Roberta Sloane on South Arnold Avenue.

Garrett and Patton served refreshments to Ada Meade, Myrtle Allen, Dixie Webb, Maman G. Leslie, Patsy Evans, Collins and Sloane.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Word has been received here that Mrs. Lon C. Hill, who formerly resided in Prestonsburg and moved several years ago with her husband and their family to Huntington, W.Va., is showing marked improvement from an illness of the past few years and an injury received in a recent fall. The Hill family has many relatives and friends here and throughout the area who wish her continued improvement.

LAMPLIGHTERSHEAR HISTORYSTORIES

The Lamplighters of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday, March 6, at 3:45 p.m. at the church Fellow-ship Hall. Patsy Evans presided and welcomed those in attendance, especially Myrtie Hill Davis, who was attending her first meeting.

The Rev. Steve Hopkins led the group in prayer. Tom Foy discussed making robes for the Cantata he is planning on the Sunday prior to Easter.

The group was delighted to hear stories of early Prestonsburg, narrated by Myrtie Hill David, and recorded by Evans and Foy for the forthcoming centennial.

On behalf of Robert Sloane of Lexington, author of "Alice Lloyd: Boston's Gift to Caney Creek," and his niece, Pollyanne O. Wiley of Prestonsburg, Docia B. Woods presented this book to Hopkins and Foy to be placed in the church library. The book contains a story by Woods, called "Christmas at Bonanza."

Hopkins offered the blessing for the spaghetti dinner which followed.

Present were Hopkins, Foy, Evans, John Evans, Pearl Robertson, Ada Meade, Rhoda Tussey, Harmon Tussey, Rebecca Rasnick, Faye Patster Patton, Lucy C. Helen Music, Don Music, Myrtle Allen, Maman Leslie, Jerri Midkiff, Vivian Fraley, Ora Bussey, Woods, Mary Catherine Music, Roberta Sloane and Ruby Lamping.

Public health officials are reminding Kentuckians of an additional spring cleaning chore—poison proofing the home

Nearly 42,000 poisoning incidents, including 21 deaths, were reported to the Kentucky Regional Poison Center in Louisville last year. Gov. Wallace Wilkinson has declared March 18-24 Kentucky Poison Prevention Terry M. Wescott, acting manager of the product safety branch in the Department of Health Services, said parents - and anyone who might have small children in their homes should remember two things about poison proofing.

"They should check for the proper storage and labeling of potentially hazardous items," Wescott said. "They should also make it an ongoing practice to properly use these

"Many poisonings occur when medicine or hazardous products, which are normally kept locked up or out of reach of children, are being used and adults become careless with

For example, Wescott said, if you're in the midst of using a hazardous product or doling out medicine to the kids and the telephone rings don't get distracted.

"Be aware of the necessity of putting away potential poisons - even if you're going to be out of the room for just a few minutes," he said.

Wescott offers the following additional tips for poison proofing.

Keep products in original containers. The label identifies the product and gives directions for its use. If a poisoning does occur, the label contains valuable information that the poison center and/or physician will need to know.

Do not alter the safety packaging closures provided on many producis, and tightly close the container after each use.

'It's tempting to remove some of the child-proof tops to make the prod-ucts easier to open," he said. "But this can be very dangerous.

Find a safe place for the storage of all household chemical products. The storage area should be locked. Medicine should also be stored in a separate locked place

-Always have sufficient lighting when giving or taking medications. "There have been poisonings because people get up in the middle of the night and take medicine without thoroughly looking at what they're taking or what they're giving to others," Wescott said. Avoid taking medicine in front of children since youngsters tend to imitate adults. "One of the biggest mistakes people make is calling medication 'candy' when giving it to children," Wescott warned. "This could make kids more prone to eating medicine like candy if they happen to find an open bottle of pills."

Hazel Bailey Is Fighting Cancer With A Tough, New

ast April, 73 year old Hazel Bailey, from Martin County Kentucky, began her fight with cancer. It was serious, involving her abdominal and pelvic regions, liver and an area near her heart. There was no time to lose.

Immediately following surgery in Lexington, Hazel was referred to Highlands for chemotherapy-specialized chamical treatments. Hazel was able to return home, visiting Highlands every four weeks for her "chemo".

Hazel found she now has a tough, new team on her side. The new Cancer Program at Highlands now offers expanded outpatient and chemotherapy services. A tough team with a caring touch.

Says Hazel, "they're good to me...every one of them, the nurses and everyone. When I go in there they all grab me and hug me and love me ... "

Until there's a cure for cancer, we can only improve the ways we find it and treat it. And at Highlands, we keep getting better at getting you better, a whole lot closer to home.

The New Cancer Program At

Child Care Coalition plans conference

before and after school will be offered at the first statewide conference of the Kentucky Coalition for School-Age Child Care in Frankfort on Friday and Saturday, March 16 and 17.

Ellen Gannett, director of training for the National School-Age Child-Care Project at Wellesley College in Massachusetts, will conduct a workshop for school administrators and community agencies interested in starting child-care programs.

Ruth Fitzpatrick, school-age child care director for the Kentucky Department of Education, will lead a follow-up workshop for administrators already involved in child care programs. Aiding her will be Nancy Robeson of the department's Division of School Food Services, Lydia Roberts of the Department of Social Services and Bess Howard of the inspector general's licensing division.

Deborah Amsden, an educational consultant and home economist from Newark, Del., will describe ways of helping parents improve their parental and household management skills in a workshop on "Survival Skills for

Other activities will include a session on programming for older children, a workshop on environmental projects, a theater workshop, and a nutrition and crafts fair. Participants will also tour local school-age child care programs.

Forty Kentucky school districts now offer school-age child care programs serving more than 2000 children. Many child care programs are offered as part of local community education programs.

Most of the programs are designed for children 5 to 13 whose parents work and need care for their children

Dear Friends

Dedicated to Dave and Merlin Roop of Weeksbury "dear Friends" if ever again you pass my way, Please leave a cheery smile to brighten my day, It will bring back memories of our long ago past And reinforce our friendship that we knew would last.

The years have rolled on and time has sped by, Those dear precious memories bring tears to my eyes, But then I think of the good times we once had It cheers me up and I don't feel so bad.

You went your way and I went mine. We still keep in touch with the tie that binds, True friendship lasts down through the years Through sadness and sorrow, through smiles and tears.

As I review all the memories of the good times we shared, I'll always remember you as the dear friend who cared. If you ever pass my way again,

Stop by for a visit with your long ago friend.

Jenny Wiley

The Indians came one rainy night. They captured Jenny who put up a fight. It did no good, they led her away. But she made up her mind to return one day.

They killed her children, they made her cry. But Jenny was tough and she would not die. They took her away, they went to the west. They gave her last baby an Indian test.

They tied him to wood to see if he'd cry. They said if he did he would surely die. He kicked, he screamed, he fussed, he cried. They smashed our his brains and Jenny's child died.

Jenny was bought and forced into slavery. An old Cherokee liked her because of her bravery. She was smart and she learned lots of Indian ways. She was able to escape after many long days.

She crossed the Big Sandy with Henry Skaggs' aid. The settlers there told her not to be afraid. They took her to Tom, she considered herself lucky. She was old when she died at River, Kentucky.

A Glance At The Situation

Since time began, We've had an Able and a Cain,
A season of drought, a period of rain.

The world or the church, To live in sin or have faith and the new birth. To go to rest and paradise when we die,

Or to live forever in a dark world of a lie. It would seem better by far, to go and live where God and the

Than to live eternally in a lake of fire.

To walk upright like a human and a man, Or to crawl like the beast they say we are, And spend eternity in burning fire Where Satan, our enemy, and his angels are. Do you want to go there, Sire?

God, our Creator, has a program, we must confess; Tis called righteousness or holiness. You must adhere and bow down if you are to ever hear the sound; Come ye blest, you've fought the good fight. You've overcome the darkness with the Light. Now you're worthy to enter in, You've kept yourself upright and free from sin.

A new life you'll begin. When you leave time and into eternity go, You can rejoice forever in a land that's above down here below. We'll put off this body that's called flesh, And enter into a body that's forever fresh. You'll shine like the stars at even time,

Now don't be an atheist or an infidel. You don't want to spend forever in the depths of Hell? Neither be an evolutionist or an agnostic; These are the things that make God sick. God wants us to be such as He himself. He doesn't want to put us forever on the shelf.

In your new body that's made so sublime.

There's no end of joy, there's no end of pain: For you're going somewhere, to live again. It's how you respond here to God's advance; This will decide what you have done, with your last chance. Will you straighten up now and fly right? Or go out to live in the horrors of an endless night?
It's up to you, you're the only one who can decide—,
How, what direction you will take on your last ride.

He's coming again to separate the goats and the sheep, To put you at rest, or cause you to weep. He's the Creator and has the right, To put us in the Darkness or place us in the Light.

Don't let that day and time catch you off guard; He has commanded us to work, though it may be hard. If it were easy, no doubt everyone would do, But the fiery trials are for me and you. Hold up your head and be strong til the last, You'll see him coming at the last trumpet's blast. Put you on the whole armor and be true til the end, Keep yourself unspotted from this world of sin. Then you can hear him say, "Come ye blest and enter in."

What are you going to do about it, Brother? As for plans,_ there is no other. Do you want eternal darkness or everlasting light? Will you show yourself a coward, or join in the fight? Jesus gave it all on Calvary's tree, Why should he expect less of you and me? The prize is great __ the cost is small.

No doubt __ that's whys we must offer all.

I beseech you, __ present your body a living sacrifice. To offer less just wouldn't be nice. When the time comes for us to go away, We'll wish we had on That Day.

Now Brother, don't let Satan or his agents balk or foil you up. Jesus had to drink his bitter cup. You'll have to too, if you want to go up. There's a Lake of Fire or A Land of Rest, Do you want to go down, or live with the Blest? The time draweth nigh for the Final Test. We will suffer in Hell forever and aye, Or live with Christ in an Endless Day.

He said, "I am the Way."

-Bro. Roger Reed Sr. Hueysville

Undying love

I still picture her in the tenth grade As I peeped through the one plain glass, The windowpane in the old schoolhouse door. I see in my mind her jet-black hair, White teeth as lovely as January's untouched snow, Eyes that said, "I want to be loved. Please be kind." Inalienable innocence.

Beautiful skin tanned from the warm summer sun, A smile that turned my heart upside down. I knew then I would always love you. There was something about you That filled my heart with joy.

After knowing you for over thirty years I still feel the same way. Only now I love you more. I guess most of the time I expect too much. Romeo may have died for Juliet, Poe cried out for his Annabelle; But of all the women who ever lived, Claudette, you are the only one for me. I love you very much, my Valentine. -Ralph Hall

I've been sitting here on my lilly pad Looking like a big ole lonely bull frog. This heart's been feeling pretty darn bad Like an old wandering stray dog.

Since my baby went and ran away With a man called daddy king toad, Lord, it's been a sad ole lonely day. Tonight I'll carry the same heavy load.

For you, babe, I will suffer and cry, Lay here in the sun and just frown. Gonna leave open one big sad eye 'Cause some snake might swallow me down.
