For annexation of new school site :

City ponders limit stretch

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg City Council took tentative steps Monday toward annexing the Middle Creek area, approving a motion to "study and pursue the feasibility of annexing Middle Creek through the Clark addition on both sides of Rt. 114."

At the Prestonsburg City Council meeting Monday night, members expressed concern that the new high school will be built outside city limits and may lose the Prestonsburg name. Councilman Jerry Fannin asked that the council prepare a resolution requesting the Floyd County Board of Education to keep Prestonsburg as part of the new school's name.

Mike Vance, a member of the Prestonsburg council, said he had talked with several residents of the Clark Addition, and that he encountered no opposition to the annexation proposal. Vance said residents there want city annexation.

Teamsters come back to schools

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

"We want to let the people know we're back and we're going to be working hard to get the non-certified school personnel organized," said Teamster Business Agent Ronnie Abshire.

Abshire met with Floyd County non-certified personnel at Jenny Wiley State Park on Saturday to discuss a renewed organizing campaign for the cooks, bus drivers and custodians employed by the school board. Over 300 employees signed union cards in 1986, in an effort to get union representation. The board of education has never recognized the group as a union. The move came after the board proposed a reduction in pay for the non-certified personnel.

Abshire admitted the effort had been put on hold in Floyd County while the union had been concentrating its efforts to organize the non-certified school personnel in the Pike County school system.

"I'm going to be at the next school board meeting to tell the board we're still here and see what we can do," Abshire said. "I'm going to meet with representatives from each school if I have to, to re-generate this campaign. We have not given up on helping the non-certified personnel. Due to circumstances we've not been as active as we should have been."

Abshire told the small group of Freddy James, former city administrator, asked the council to wait until after the new high school has been built before annexing the area, explaining that the school system will install sewer and water lines in the area. According to James, funds saved from not paying city permits will save the school system enough to cover cost of pipe installation.

Mayor Ann Latta said the council must have a plan of implementation, which begins with the study of the proposal. Latta said the city must do a preliminary zoning, but that all property would probably stay the ways it is. "A farm will still be farmland; residential will still be residential," Latta explained. Annexation will also require an ordinance, according to Latta, and residents will have 60 days to file objections after the second reading of the ordinance. Annexation would then go on the ballot. Latta explained that 55 percent of the property owners must protest to stop enactment of the measure.

Latta asked Prestonsburg Fire Chief if the annexation will affect the fire department's insurance ratings since the area is four miles from the Prestonsburg fire station. According to Blackburn, regulations require a substation every three miles, but that insurance ratings are done in stages. "The (ratings) stay the same," Blackburn said, "then for every extra mile over the three mile limit, people's ratings there will drop so many points."

Sam Campbell, who will officially become city administrator Thursday, was asked to prepare the annexation study and report to the council at its next meeting.

In other business, council members expressed concern about the problem of stray dogs in Prestonsburg. Ned Pillersdorf, an attorney representing the Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society, which operates the animal shelter, said it does not have funds to hire someone to pick up the strays, nor does it have anywhere "to put them."

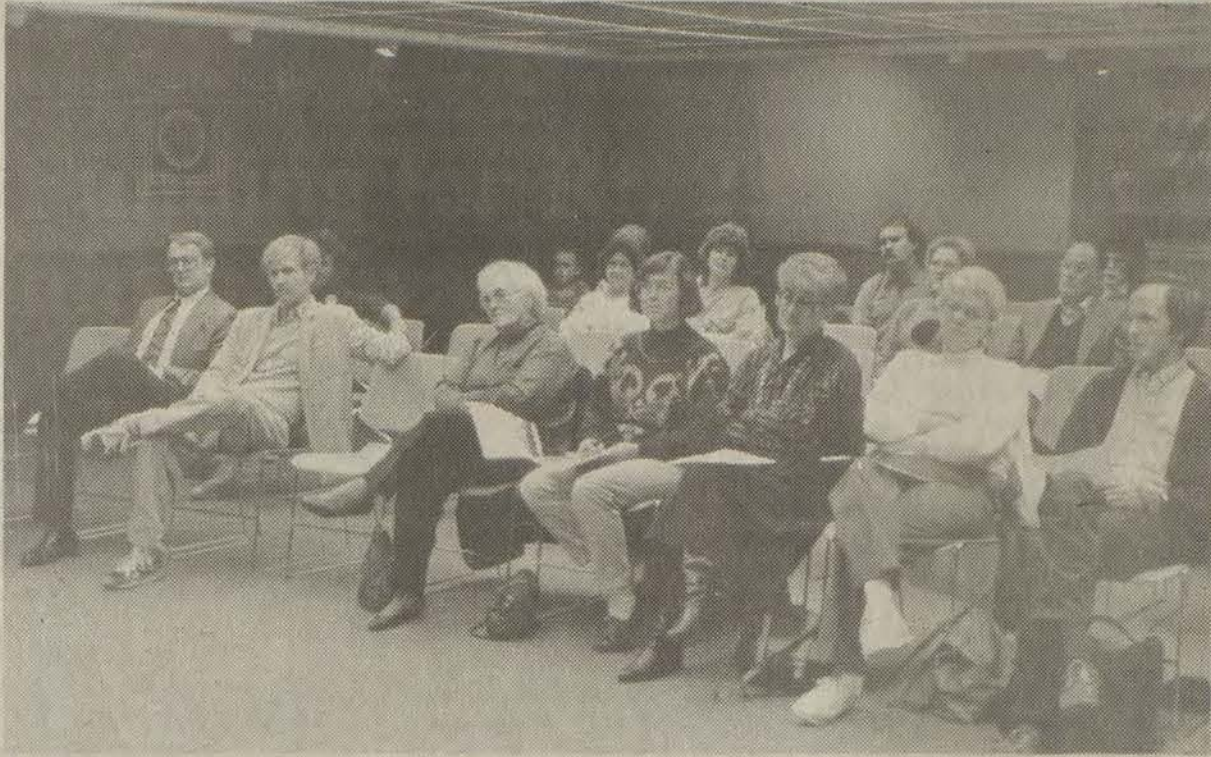

Pillersdorf explained that despite expansion of the facilities, it was "filled to capacity." Pillersdorf said the animal protection society wants to save as many animals as it can, and has a 63 percent adoption rate.

Pillersdorf said the shelter could only afford to hire one employee to staff the shelter, and the society has been having difficulty keeping one. "How can you get someone to work for an annual $6,700 salary, if they have to smell sewer all day," Pillersdorf said, referring to sewage seepage the animal shelter is currently experiencing.

"If we must install a new sewer system, we will go broke," Pillersdorf told the council, explaining the installation will cost $3,500.

Mike Vance told Pillersdorf he

Health hazards discussed

Floyd Countians in Action listened to George Baggett, a chemist, writer and speaker on incineration, discuss the problems associated with incinerators. Baggett told the group he thought Medisin's incinerator located beside Highlands Regional Medical Center was emitting toxic fumes into the air. Medisin representative Robert Ford was on hand to tell the citizens the company will investigate Baggett's claims to see if a problem exists. If Baggett's claims are founded, Ford said corrective measures would be taken. (photo by Susan Allen)

Waste burner a hazard, but safeguards possible

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A medical waste incinerator at Highlands Regional Medical Center is considered a health hazard but could be made safe with several additional safeguards, said George Baggett, a chemist, writer and speaker on incineration and air pollution.

Baggett spoke to Floyd Countians in Action Monday night at the Floyd County Library concerning Medisin's incinerator at Highlands Regional. Robert Ford, vice president of Medisin, attended the meeting and showed a video identifying medical waste and how it should be handled and labeled.

"In my opinion, this type of incinerator is not state of the art," Baggett said. "It puts a tremendous amount of pollutants in the air. I feel you have every right to be concerned," he told the group.

The hazard, Baggett said, results from plastics being burned together with metals which causes the formation of hexavalent chromium chloride, a toxic vapor which has been associated with lung cancer, according to a study by Vanderbilt University in Tennessee. Baggett said from his observations at the incinerator on Monday he felt this gas was being created.

Baggett said that after talking to hospital and Medisin representatives about the vapor, both sides are concerned about the issue.

"I'm concerned and I think the hospital is concerned," Baggett said. "I provided them with some new

Perkins' efforts pay off :

Funding for Rt. 23 hits halfway mark

An additional $3.4 million has been approved by Congress for four-laning between Paintsville and Prestonsburg, a 13-mile stretch of Route 23.

The funds are part of a conference agreement of the Transportation Appropriations Bill for fiscal year 1991 that passed the House on Friday. The bill will now go to President George Bush for final approval.

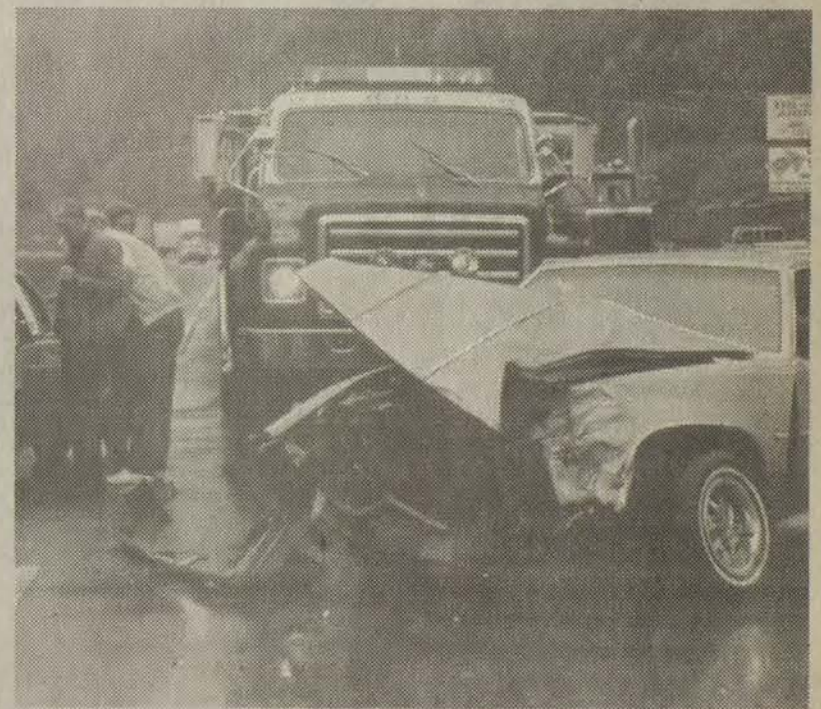

"The toughest part about this (funding) is convincing others how important Route 23 is to Eastern Kentucky," said Congressman Chris Perkins, who was instrumental in getting the measure approved. "I believe the expansion of Route 23 is vital to improving the commercial and economic link between towns in the Seventh District and other states."

This year's funding approval raises the total to over half the amount requested by the Kentucky Department of Transportation. Route 23 is the major artery of Eastern Kentucky, connecting several counties and estimated to serve over 250,000 people in the region yearly, Perkins said.

Funding for reconstructing Route 23 will come from two sources with Floyd County's section under construction now, to be built with state Resource Recovery Funds.

The seven-mile section through Johnson County has been designated as a federal demonstration project and will be built with federal dollars.

The total price tag for the 13-mile reconstruction project is approximately $70 million.

Car, coal truck collide

A Cutlass Oldsmobile and a coal truck collided at the intersection of Route 23 and US 114 in Prestonsburg near Wal-Mart at approximately 10 a.m. Tuesday. The driver of the car, Bill May of David, was entering Route 23 when the accident occurred. Jerry Hicks was the driver of the coal truck. No injuries were reported in the accident. The incident was investigated by Prestonsburg Policemen Mike Conn and Darrell Conley. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Two respond, two don't to Times' questionnaire :

Candidates talk issues as election day nears

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

With two seats on the Floyd County Board of Education up for vote on November 6, The Floyd County Times prepared and mailed a questionnaire to each candidate seeking the office of school board member in an effort to inform voters how the candidates stand on issues facing the Floyd County School system.

Four candidates will be on the ballot in the November election with two candidates seeking the office from each educational district involved.

Incumbent James D. Adams of Prestonsburg, faces opposition from Eddie Billips, a resident of Abbott for the board seat in District One. District Two shows current board member Ray "Shag" Cambell of Allen, facing Franklin Delano May, also an Allen resident.

Only two candidates responded to the Times' questions, Adams and Billips. The following is each candidate's answers to the questions.

Ed Billips

Q: Why are you seeking the office of school board member?

A: There is no single reason for my seeking this office and I do not think one reason could be listed above another. However, I want to bring to the light of day the lack of proper spending toward our children and the abuse of taxpayers money for self serving reasons.

I want to correct the upside down balance of high administrators salaries and low test scores, high drop out rates, and improper funding for our children.

Q: What do you feel are the three major problems facing the

"...each of us is a teacher."
-James D. Adams

school system in Floyd County and how can they be solved? What can you do personally as a school board member to accomplish this?

A: Morale is a big factor in our problems. When you see inadequate supplies and teaching materials for classrooms how can you expect teachers to be motivated or for our children to be on the same level as others around them?

I remind you that this is not something that just happened, this lack of funding has gone on for a long time. When nothing is expected from administrators or board members then this reflects to the teachers and students. Parents and citizens feel helpless and as though they can do little or nothing. As a result a cycle of low morale is created.

Transportation is another enormous problem. We have children in our system spending 10 or more hours a day being transported to school, in the classroom, and transported home. After this 10 hour day, homework then begins for an hour or more. Result, 11 hour days! Most adults would find this routine almost unbearable. Why should we expect these children to do well in school?

Buildings are in deplorable condition. We have not maintained these buildings at an acceptable rate. We must have a maintenance program that keeps our facilities in a constant state of repair. Our present administration seems to have the idea that you build a new facility and then let it go until it's time to build another. We pay a tremendous amount of money to administrators to look after these facilities and it's time for us to expect better of them.

As a board member I feel that by having involvement from the community, parents, teachers and students we could reason together and solve our morale and related problems. When you combine all of these areas together the end result is low test scores, high drop out rates and little hope for the future. When board members allow each of you to become involved, then and only then will these problems be solved.

Q: What do you feel are the duties of a school board member?

A: We are to oversee the operations of the school system in a proper and meaningful way so that every child in this county receives the best possible education under the best possible conditions available to him or her.

We are to serve the taxpayers in a manner of their interest and see that each and every tax dollar is spent in the most efficient way for these same children. Our actions should be made public on a regular monthly basis through the local news media. The public should see where this money is being spent.

Q: In your opinion, what are the long term goals board members, administrators, teachers and parents should be looking toward in education in the next four years?

A: Involvement! Plain and simple. We will have a tremendous task of putting into place the programs for the education of all of the children of this county. We need to understand that this will take the cooperation and help from each of us to accomplish. Anything less will result in total disaster.

Our children must come first. This new system cannot be allowed to operate by the rule of a few, it must have the involvement of all to succeed.

Q: What is your opinion of the new educational reform act? How do you feel it will affect education in the state, county?

A: We have before us the opportunity of a lifetime to change the educational system forever. This act is receiving national recognition and is serving as a model for other areas in New York and Iowa right now. If allowed to function, we will be able to become innovative and go beyond traditional ways of education.

We have the opportunity to fund our children in the classroom as they should be supplied and give them the same opportunities that others have had for years.

However, it is not just a question of dollars and cents. Money is not the answer to all of our problems. We must, through this reform, have the right to speak up in support of our schools and to become involved in the decision making process. We cannot tax people to the limit and not allow them to be involved in the decisions.

Q: What is the first thing you hope to accomplish if you are elected to the Floyd County School Board?

A: To make a motion that no child be allowed to sell anything for the purpose of raising money for school supplies for classrooms. With the tax rate being proposed at this time we should have all the money needed to supply these needs. Each and every board member should be held accountable for funding for classroom materials. We cannot continue to have high salaries for administrators and have the children fund the classrooms.

Q: What is your opinion concerning site based management being implemented into the school system? Do you feel parents should be involved in the operation of the school system?

A: I feel that site based management is nothing more than the manner in which schools of 25 years ago were operated, only with a new name. We have community involvement and concern. I feel that we should immediately go through the motions of site based management and practice for a year so everyone will become aware of the situations that will result from the new system.

Why wait until the last minute? Let's start now and work through the potential problems rather than wait and be faced with bigger problems later. I have publicly stated many times that the parents should be involved in the school system. Only this time, as more than just someone to buy candy. This time as active, concerned and meaningful people with an opinion that counts.

Q: Several sites for new schools in Floyd County have experienced problems including lack of water and required a tremendous amount of site preparation before construction began, how could those problems have been averted?

A: While carving out sites is a problem to all of us in this area, in both expense and location, it certainly should never occur to us after the project is nearly finished to see if we have enough water. When you build your home this is one of the first things you ask. Do I have water? When a contractor takes a bid, I was always under the assumption that he would be responsible. He has a price and must live within this price. If he runs over, he eats the loss, if he stays within his budget he stays in business. Improper planning is only one of the reasons for these problems. Proper planning and management is the only solution for this problem. These are the first things any of us have to ask when we build, it is inexcusable to allow the board of education to allow these things to happen.

Q: What process should be used in selecting the name for a new school in Floyd County?

A: It should be named for the community that it is being built to serve. If this happens to be a combination of communities, then it should be either a joint name or have the communities and students choose a name. Here again, we have no involvement allowed by the board. The second thing I hope to accomplish is to have no more schools named after people but rather than communities. How about, "Taxpayer High?"

Q: How do you feel basic skills of students in the Floyd County schools should be measured?

A: This is always a tough question to answer. So many people have so many different ideas that it tends to become confusing. I think we should first be measured against ourselves to rate our own methods. From there we must measure in a regional, state and national level. Like it or not, we are to produce educated children that we must be able to compete across this vast nation of ours. We must know how we fare in regard to English, math, science and communications as well as other fields to ensure our children are ready for the next step of their lives.

James D. Adams

Q: Why are you seeking the office of school board member?

A: Upon my graduation from medical school, I decided to return home to practice my profession. During my first few years of medical practice, I gained a perspective that I was part of a viable, honest and ever changing society which had its problems but which recognized the fact and worked toward solutions. It was a knowledge that if I were a part of the problem, I was also part of the solution. It was a knowledge that the contribution of the individual to society was important and could make a difference.

I believe that through education we can show each individual his or her own worth and his or her place in society which they, through their efforts, shape and improve. Therefore, I chose to run for school board member in educational division number one in 1969. I still retain this perspective and realize that each of us is a teacher. Each person we meet may learn from us as we may learn from each person we meet. By working together and sharing ideas, we can, and will, have the best school system in Kentucky.

I am concerned with the proper functioning of our school system. I feel a deep and abiding concern for education and I am dedicated to excellence and progress in our schools for the future of our students and our community. "I share your hopes, desires and aspirations for our school system and I am committed to working tirelessly in your behalf and in the behalf of our most precious resource—our children."

Q: What do you feel are the three major problems facing the school system in Floyd County and how can they be solved? What could you do personally as a school board member to accomplish this?

A: Most school districts in Kentucky have encountered problems in recent years as has the Floyd County school district. There was such a disparity between the poor and the wealthy district that students did not have equal educational opportunities. The recent Combs' decision declaring the funding and educational process unconstitutional, and the subsequent passing of House Bill 940 by the 1990 General Assembly, will provide equal educational opportunities throughout the commonwealth for all students. However, these actions alone cannot ensure or guarantee equality. It will require all segments of the educational community, working together in harmony, to implement the provisions and intent of the Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990.

The first major problem that we need to work together to overcome is to provide the best academic and extra-curricular facilities possible to house the best educational programs for our students. The day to day environment and school climate tremendously impact students' attitudes, self-esteem and achievement.

Secondly, the recruitment of the best qualified teachers, administrators, support staff to work with our students on a daily basis is a problem. We have many excellent classroom teachers, administrators and support staff members, but we still need to be able to entice the best qualified individuals to locate and accept employment in Floyd County. The new guidelines established recently by the reform act and the local board will help in the recruitment and employment of the best qualified individuals by the superintendent.

Thirdly, a serious problem facing the school district is parental involvement in the education of their children. It is proven that parents are the greatest influence in a child's learning. Therefore, we need greater parent involvement at their child's school, and better cooperation between the home and the school. This can be accomplished with programs to help parents learn and understand how they can and should be involved in their child's education.

As your board member, I will totally support and work with parents, school personnel, businesses and all segments of the community to secure the best school facilities possible for our students, to support the recruitment of the best qualified school personnel and support all programs insuring parental involvement in their child's education.

Q: What do you feel are the duties of a school board member?

A: The duties of a board member are specified by state statute. Board members are elected from specific educational divisions, and are a member of the board of education. Board members cannot act individually on board responsibilities, they can act only when the board is in session.

The primary function of the board is the general control and management of the public schools in its district. It sets policies to ensure proper operation and effective management of the school district the best level of educational opportunities obtainable. The board employs the superintendent, establishes the district budget, approves sources of revenue for proper funding of the educational programs and support services, approves salary schedules and the district's curriculum.

Q: In your opinion, what are the long term goals board members, administrators, teachers and parents should be looking toward in education in the next four years?

A: The local board of education has established short term goals for the school district. They include greater student achievement, better school and community relations, greater student attendance, a reduction in the drop out rate, and the board has also established a committee consisting of parents, citizens, business leaders, civic leaders, religious leaders, teachers and administrators to develop a strategic long range plan for the school district. This report is due in early December 1991 and establishes a plan for the school district for the recommendations since the General Assembly has established seven state-wide goals to be achieved by each school district. However, we must all work together to provide a sound educational program for the twenty-first century.

Q: What is your opinion of the new educational reform act? How do you feel it will affect education in the state, county?

A: The Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990 will change dramatically the educational process and programs in Floyd County and the commonwealth. I believe it is one of the most important pieces of legislation in our time and I will totally support the implementation of the provisions of the act. The reform act enables local boards of education to provide fully funded equal educational opportunities for all students, regardless of where they live.

It provides for greater teacher and parent input in district and local school decisions. Individual schools participating in site based decision making will have greater teacher and parent control through school councils. Individual schools, through their councils, will determine school expenditures, programs, personnel selection, and will be totally responsible for their student's education. Also, individual schools and school districts will be more accountable to the public for the education of the students.

The reform act also enables the local school district to implement educational programs for four year old children, summer school, evening and Saturday classes, tutorial programs, and computer technology classes in elementary and high schools. In actuality, the reform act will greatly enhance the educational opportunities for all the youth of the commonwealth in a different manner than previously provided.

Q: What is the first thing you hope to accomplish if you are elected to the Floyd County school board?

A: I would like to continue with the present building program, to ensure proper educational facilities for all the youth of Floyd County and to begin full implementation of the provisions of the Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990.

Q: What is your opinion concerning site based management being implemented into the school system? Do you feel parents should be involved in the operation of the school system?

A: House Bill 940 enables individual schools the opportunity to implement site based decision making. I believe the process will work well in Floyd County if all participating individuals on school councils will work toward the common goals of improving schools and providing students the best educational programs possible.

The individual school councils, consisting of the school principal, three teachers and two parents, will make decisions relating to instructional time, budget and expenditures, personnel employment, student policies and other items specified by statute. Prior to implementing the process, individuals involved should be provided inservice training on the proper process of site based decision making.

I believe it is an excellent opportunity to involve parents in the educational decision making process and will bring about greater community involvement in our schools.

Q: Several sites for new schools in Floyd County have experienced problems including lack of water and required a tremendous amount of site preparation before construction began, how could those problems have been averted?

A: The School Facilities Construction Commission provides funds to construct new schools is throughout the commonwealth. The Floyd County School Districts Facility Survey indicated a tremendous need for new schools to replace those constructed years ago which were inadequate to house students, provide proper educational programs, and below the 100 year floodplain. The survey established a prioritized list of new school facilities and projected that the school districts unmet needs exceeded $45 million.

Students, regardless of where they live should be able to attend school in a modern, safe school facility. It is the responsibility of the local board to select the school site after compliance with the requirements of the Division of Buildings and Grounds, Kentucky Department of Education, the state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education, and the School Facilities Construction Commission.

Prior to the selection of a school site, the local board must ensure the site is of sufficient acreage, above the 100 year floodplain, accessible to public utilities, and in compliance with the school facilities construction criteria.

The state has established the criteria for the selection of all school sites and the local board of education must comply with these requirements to be eligible to use state funds for the school projects.

Q: What process should be used in selecting the name for a new school in Floyd County?

A: Traditionally, in Floyd County

the process of naming a new school has been to retain the name of a school if a new school is constructed. However, when two or more schools are consolidated, a new name is generally assigned to give a new identity and not favor one school over another. This generally helps to bring about a sense of harmony among the students.

Whether it be a president, governor, mayor or other individual when considering the name of a public facility such as Governor Louie B.

Nunn naming the Bert T. Combs Parkway, Archer Park named by the City of Prestonsburg after Mayor George P. Archer, Clark Elementary after Superintendent Charles Clark, Stumbo Elementary after John M. Stumbo, Allen Central High School after Dr. J.H. Allen, Stumbo Park after Judge Henry Stumbo, it is usual and customary to name a facility after someone who has worked hard and unselfishly to bring the facility into existence.

Q: How do you feel basic skills of students in Floyd County schools should be measured?

A: I believe that each student should be pre-tested in each subject area at the beginning of the school year and post-tested in each subject at the conclusion of school by a nationally recognized test document such as the Stanford Achievement

Test. It is through this process that parents, teachers and administrators have reliable facts to determine overall student progress as well as achievement during the school year.

Parents need to know how their child is achieving in school, teachers need to know how and if their methods of instruction are helping children attain what they have taught, and administrators and school councils need to determine if the scope and sequence for each subject being taught is appropriate. We need to have more accountability for pupil achievement from the beginning to the end of the school term.

Langley Post Office..... where history gathers

by Duna Combs
Contributing Writer

Mrs. Phyllis Brown, postmistress of the Langley Post Office processes the mail, sells stamps and displays historic photographs of Maytown residents and their town. The photographs, many brought in by her patrons, spark conversations. As residents come in for their mail, the older folks can be overheard telling the younger Maytowners how it used to be.

The photographs are handsomely matted and framed with museum labels, and positioned in the free space above the mailboxes so they can readily be seen. More photographs are added daily.

Many photographs remind us of past residents. The portrait taken at the turn of the century of the Bringer Allen Family of Goose Creek is among the collection. Pictured are Bringer, his wife, Susan, his sons, Joseph Hawley, Seyler Colfax, and Charles E., and his daughters, Effie, Rosalie, and Octavia. Other photographs include a shot of John May and his many progeny, and a picture of Spencer Combs with a mess of squirrel in his right hand. Newly added to the collection is an old photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Combs with their five grown daughters.

Among the collection are photographs that capture landmarks we once knew. There is also an aerial view of the town. Taken from an opposing hilltop, the photo is a record of the streets and buildings of a time past, and of the old gristmill and dam site which was the meeting place for grinding meal. Another photo depicts the early Maytown Methodist Church in its original site. Every board, window and cupola is in place.

Also on display are pictures of the old swinging foot bridge that crossed Beaver Creek, the early Maytown High School erected in 1939, largely through the efforts of concerned parents, and Troy Jake Webb's mansion with formal walkways shows early Maytown architecture. Two pictures of Maytown, taken in 1915 and 1923, show the large home of Andrew J. May. There is also a picture of the May Memorial Methodist Church, established in 1868, and built by the three sons of Rueben May.

There are some fascinating "action" pictures in the collection. One photograph shows Maytown's first Kentucky-West Virginia gas well geyser shooting forcefully into the sky. Mrs. Polly Martin, who always had time to go to young people's birthday parties and play "granny" to them, is pictured.

employees who attended the meeting they had been overlooked concerning the distribution of new money coming into the school system. He said he was encouraged by the outcome of the August teacher's strike and felt the teachers had gotten what they deserved.

One problem with working conditions in the Floyd school system is that workers have no legal recourse when their rights are violated, Abshire said.

"They're going to do as they please as long as they can get away with it," Abshire said. "We're not here to tell them to hire and fire; we're here to set the rules to go by and to make sure it's right. Justice is what it is. Some days you're the bug; some days you're the windshield."

Abshire pointed to negotiations with the teachers as a sign that non-certified personnel were "not important enough" to enter into negotiations concerning worker's rights.

Abshire said the Teamsters plan to meet with interested employees in the smaller cities of the county to find out if worker's still want to be represented by the union group. From there, countywide organizational meetings will be held and efforts to be recognized by the school board will be made.

Those employees who attended the meeting voiced concerns about working conditions they face and wanted to know in what direction to proceed.

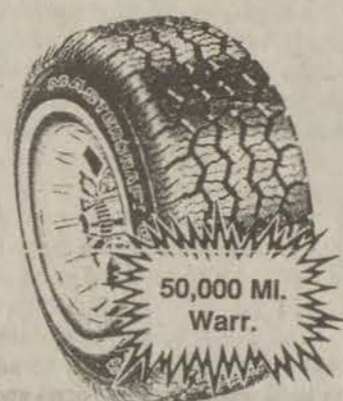

Abshire said the first step is seeking recognition from the board and, if that move fails, it will be up to the membership to decide what form of action to take.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Eastern Kentucky-3, Oakland As-0.

Say what?

Okay, Cincinnati gets the credit for sweeping Oakland in the World Series, but Eastern Kentucky has a right to crow and a legitimate claim to a share of the glory.

How so, you say?

Jose Rijo, winning pitcher in game one and game four and World Series MVP, made his professional baseball debut from the mound at Johnson Central park as a Paintsville Yankee.

Glenn Braggs, who scored the winning run in game two of the series and prevented a Pittsburgh homer in the decisive sixth game of the National League playoffs, got his pro baseball start in the outfield at Johnson Central park as a Paintsville Brewer.

Pro baseball is gone, probably forever, from Eastern Kentucky. But the 1990 World Series brought a big piece back...for keeps.

While Congress appears to be at a standoff over whether they should increase tax rates for the rich or eliminate certain tax deductions for the wealthy, compromise is not a total loser in the federal budget debates.

On Sunday, the U.S. House of Representatives let the American public know members were willing to make sacrifices to ease the deficit woes by cancelling a half-million dollar order for new furniture.

But looking good to the public and looking good in the public are horses of different colors.

Forget the furniture, but a $350,000 renovation of the House beauty shop stays in the budget.

Will Congress make any meaningful progress in resolving our national deficit problems?

Only their hairdressers know for sure.

Members of the Floyd County Economic Development Authority have their priorities in order in a decision to begin a search for a local economic development director.

Creating new jobs and bringing new dollars in Floyd County will be an uphill fight, and a full-time pro is needed to lead the charge. Competition is fierce in the job-development market and despite all their well intentions, volunteers can no longer keep pace in the race to lure new industries to Kentucky communities.

Any funding that local government contributes toward the economic diversification effort should be viewed as an investment in the future. The payoff, when it comes, will be a more predictable economy.

In a little less than two weeks Kentucky voters will go to the polls to decide the future.

While the race for U.S. Senate between incumbent Mitch McConnell and challenger Harvey Sloane hasn't offered voters much meat, it is one of critical nutritional value. The winner will help decide our national diet for the next six years.

Despite our state's dominant Democratic registration, Kentuckians have never been known to stomach a liberal platform on the national scene. They have with some regularity, in fact, shown a preference for a more conservative approach, nationally, for government... a belief that the less Washington intrudes in our lives the better off we are.

The race between McConnell and Sloane isn't one of party, but of principle.

As a matter of principle, McConnell best fits our needs.

Consider that on November 6.

Kentucky's General Assembly can make great strides toward eliminating the influence of politics in education with one stroke of the pen in the 1992 session.

Limit the service of local board members to one, five-year term.

Anti-nepotism measures approved in the 1990 session will do little to address the real problem of politics in our schools...cronyism.

Limiting the terms of board members should redirect their priorities toward education and away from the power that comes from long-term control of people's jobs and people's lives.

Take away the job-doling power, concentrate on learning power and Kentucky schools will be at the top of the ladder in no time.

At 2 a.m. this Sunday it will be 1 a.m.

Huh?

Daylight Savings Time ends at 2 a.m. October 28, time to set the clocks back an hour and get back that hour of sleep you lost last spring.

The most depressing thing about the end of Daylight Savings Time isn't that it signals the official end of summer, but that soon we'll get to watch the sun set at lunchtime.

Soap Box

Letters, letters, letters—they are the life blood of my unit. The other day a group of troops were sitting around with long faces and in response to the Captain's "What wrong now," they said "You won't let us get our mail, sir!"

Lesson #1 for all officers: If you want your soldiers to have good morale, let them have their mail, ASAP.

I'm no different. I can be dead tired or hungry, but when I get an envelope with the promise of news from home or friends, everything else goes on hold. My favorite time of day is hiding out in my room with mail to read.

The staff at the Times has been great about keeping my spirits up.

Their letters are both funny and touching—and the cookies were a big hit!

I only wish I could be as good at reciprocating those missives of good cheer. I'm blessed to have the forum of the newspaper to write an open letter to all its readers. I count you all as friends.

Last week I promised to let you know the emotions here. They change daily. When we initially received the news that we were definitely going to Saudi Arabia, that was the roughest time. The females in the unit (we have 13) had a hard time keeping their fear out of their eyes. My only words of consolation to them was that "This is what we're here for." As an officer I'm supposed to know the right thing to say. I can't tell them not to worry—I'm worried—about the chance of chemical attack, desert living, terrorist attack—the unknown.

The last is almost the worst part for me and I know many others. Where are we going to be? What will we be doing? What kind of environment is it? Will we be in the field or in a building? Should we drink the water, eat the food? Will there be malls—oops—just kidding.

But I think that our biggest fear, if you can rank fear, is that everyone at home will forget us. A letter from friends or family means that someone out there is thinking of us. So please, if you know someone in the service of this country—don't forget to write.

Notes

An ill wind blows ... a new Cold War?

From the looks of the brisk winds that have descended upon Prestonsburg, our mild autumn is becoming a little more interesting. Those with the savvy to predict the severity of winter by examining nature are getting busy, too. In Pikeville the woolly worm warns of a woeful winter.

Yet, I can't help but wonder if the weather doesn't echo our election campaigns. What promised to be a fairly boring election season is becoming a blustery bid for our votes.

At least the campaign commercials on the radio are taking a turn toward the intriguing as candidates start their traditional mud-slinging. What we hear can have a profound impact on our votes in November—if we don't listen to those airwaves very carefully.

Most radio ads are recorded by people who sound like you or me or like our neighbors. They come across like close friends who are taking time to share with us their wise insights into just where a candidate really stands.

And they say radio is dead. I don't know the power of the airwaves, but recently I heard some of these commercials. Their tone, their message, even their pace seems to hide what is really being said.

Most of these election commercials have one theme: "The other candidate in this election is crooked, will cheat you, will not look out for your interests, and is incompetent." There is seldom a word about how they are different or about how they would change things (no, they might have to live up to a campaign promise). This is called negative campaigning. When we hear a commercial like this, we should immediately think of this translation: "My campaign is going nowhere and I need to get some attention. Because I have no substance and no personality, I will attack the other guy to make myself look good."

Other commercials simply mislead the voter into believing a candidate is something he is not. For example, the speaker in one commercial sounded like anyone's trusted neighbor. He makes the candidate of his choice sound like a true friend of the farmers. And he was pretty convincing.

Then I began to wonder: just what had this fellow done to benefit the farmers? As far as I know, he had done nothing that would warrant such loyalty. In fact, I am certain that the candidate has a history of supporting legislation that both benefited and harmed farmers' interests (like other candidates). Come to think of it, I believe both candidates agree on farm legislation. Gee, that is not what the commercial said — Who do I believe?

Another commercial featured a speaker whose voice had the tone of a scolding grandfather. He sounded angry as he raved on and referred to the candidate as "that boy." Again, I found myself caught up in the rhetoric. "Why, the nerve of that boy," I thought. But, upon reflection, I realized that I had responded emotionally, just like the speaker wanted me to. What frightened me? I had responded without thinking for myself.

And therein lies the new "cold war." This "cold war" is a war of disinformation; a war in which candidates try to attract votes without letting their voters think. In this "cold war," the politicians might win because they seek to gain their place of prestige and privilege without exhibiting their credentials and abilities. It's a war when a "drug free" lie detector test qualifies a candidate, rather than the candidate's integrity.

Electing our officials based on how they sell their personality and their ability to make us feel good about ourselves will lead Kentucky politics into a new Ice Age that leaves the voter helpless in the search for responsible government.

It doesn't have to be this way. The voters can win elections, but only by keeping the heat on our politicians. It is our responsibility to question the facts behind everything candidates say. So listen, but carefully, to those radio commercials. Because the answers, my friend, are there in the airwaves if we look for them. The answers, my friend, are blowing in the wind.

Letters

Editor:

In years past we have all been subjected to campaign ads, and this year is no different. As a first-time candidate for public office, I know how important it is to be recognized by the voter. However, in keeping with the efforts of the Litter Task Force, I am not allowing any posters, billboards, or related campaign material to be affixed to trees, power poles, or road signs. Neither I, nor anyone associated with my campaign for school board, has placed campaign material in this manner. As a matter of fact, if you see my material on public property please feel free to remove that same material.

Here's hoping we as candidates can, and will, act responsibly.

Editor:

I am writing this letter in concern of the excavation going on in the area of Hi Hat, Ky., at the new Left Beaver school site. Since January, the Triple B Construction Company has been taking dirt and rock from the site on the hill and filling (no, dumping) it all over the community within a two mile radius. They have transformed our peaceful neighborhood into a landscape more resembling a war zone. Rock trucks and other heavy equipment are driven on Route 122 for one-eighth of a mile on a regular basis, often with inadequate flagging.

On Monday, Oct. 22, I sat in traffic along with approximately fifty other vehicles. The traffic was backed up due to an explosion that sent mud, rock, and debris across both lanes of the highway. Once a lane was cleared traffic was still not allowed to move, for some unknown reason, much to the amusement of the construction employees working at the time.

At present the road is only "very hazardous mud," due to the rain. On sunny days it is a yellowish-orange fog of dust unimpeded by even headlights. The same school buses which will bring children to this school are now subjected to these conditions daily.

The television cable system for six local homes was broken, earlier during the excavation, due to a tree which was felled into the highway sans a flagman. The line was repaired, but has been damaged repeatedly by bulldozers and other heavy equipment, often resulting in a two to three day loss of service to the surrounding homes.

Recently, a three foot wide trench was dug across the road to lay a drain line. This trench has been left filled only with dirt and gravel, which are constantly rutted out forcing all traffic to come to a halt in both lanes to prevent damage to vehicles.

I could continue, but anyone who lives near, or is forced to drive, this stretch of Route 122 are all too familiar with the situation.

I am more than thrilled that our children are getting a new high school. My question, is all this necessary?

Why is this company so careless, are there no regulatory agencies to watch over this type of construction? Don't the officers of Triple B Construction know, or care, what is occurring here? Is there anyone from the Federal, State or County Governments concerned enough to watch out for the citizens and constituents of this area?

Incinerator

information they were not aware of until now."

Ford said he had received the new information and it would be investigated. "Mr. Baggett brought up some points of interest and I'm going check it out. If the emission is a problem area it can be corrected readily."

Baggett asked Ford if it was necessary from the citizens point of view for the emissions to be cleaner, would Medisin be willing to make the improvements.

"Yes, that would be a very achievable goal," Ford said.

Baggett said that although most companies that operate incinerators claim to fall within state, federal and local regulations, those regulations are virtually useless. "State rules don't matter if they don't regulate them. They're not protecting the health and safety of the citizens."

Since Medisin's incinerator burns only 150 pounds of waste per hour, it does not have to meet federal guidelines, but Ford said the facility operates within all of the federal and state requirements.

Options Baggett suggested to the citizens were to either attempt to close the facility or to set up a mediation session with an independent mediator to try and resolve the problem.

"If mediation fails, then it would be both sides go to their corners and come out fighting," Baggett said. "I've found you all are not a bunch of radical, crazy people but a bunch of concerned people."

It was recommended that wet scrubbers to control acid gases, bag houses to control particulates, denox equipment to remove nitrous oxides and activated carbon filters to remove organic vapors be installed to make the incinerator environmentally safe. The cost for the additions was not known but a much larger facility in Pennsylvania had put the cost at $2 million, Baggett said.

Baggett said the hospital had been working from inadequate information provided by consultants who sold the hospital a "bill of goods" posing as reputable people but failing to address the people who live around the incinerator.

"You have the option of suing to close the incinerator," Baggett said. "I think the pollutants from this facility are toxic. I think it's possible to close it down. The politics involved seem to be on your side and I think you all are holding more cards than you think."

Audience members complained Medisin refused on numerous occasions to meet with FCIA to discuss their concerns and fears about the facility.

Ford said due to the negative publicity generated by the group about the incinerator a meeting was never scheduled. However, he said Medisin and hospital officials were willing to work with the group.

Barney Walker, with FCIA, asked Baggett if he would eat the vegetables grown in the area.

After some hesitation, Baggett replied, "No, I don't think I would." Audience members also asked Baggett how patients in the hospital could be safeguarded against the vapors, even though the citizens themselves continued to smell the odors inside their homes with all the doors and windows closed.

"That's a very valid concern," Baggett said. "There is no attempt to control emissions."

In a phone conversation with Ford on Tuesday, Ford said the incinerator fell within state guidelines and a study will be conducted to see if the emission of hexavalent chromium chloride poses a threat in this area. He said Baggett said it was a "possibility" the vapor was being released.

"Even if it is a safe emission of hexavalent, I think we can work through policy and procedure changes and a reduction in the type of waste that causes the gas, to control the problem," Ford said. "This is a new concern that has never been raised before and Mr. Baggett is the only one in the nation saying that right now. But we will investigate it. If there is hexavalent chromium being created, it's not a high amount."

Baggett admitted he is not "a fan" of incinerators and would rather see the amount of waste generated reduced instead of being burned. "The hospital needs to look at the long run and do what's right."

Floyd Countians in Action will meet Monday, November 5 at 7 p.m. at Horn Chapel in Prestonsburg to discuss what plan of action they want to pursue. The meeting is open to the public.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER DISTRICT #1

For the last twenty years we have had the same leadership, the same promises, and the same results. We have heard over and over again that more of your tax dollars is the only cure for our problems. When that happens we see just where those tax dollars go...for the central office and administrators. HOW MUCH MORE? Now we hear a plan to use the Prestonsburg High School for the central office. This building holds approximately 1000 students, how many people is the board planning to hire for the central office. All this at a time when our children are attending school in buildings that are in much need of repair, transportation is turning into an endurance test, and morale is low. More tax dollars and more administrators with their salaries is not the answer. IT'S PROPER AND EFFECTIVE MANAGEMENT OF WHAT WE HAVE NOW! Let's stop the waste and put our children and their needs first for a change. The choice is clear...it's either our children or the same results as has been produced for the last twenty years.

would like to see the council do more for the shelter, and asked the council to install the sewage system for the shelter.

Pillersdorf accepted the offer with enthusiasm, but asked the city to contribute more to the shelter in its next budget.

"What would it (the shelter) be like if we didn't supply the shelter," Councilman Bill Callihan asked, referring to the animal society's free use of the city owned building.

"What would Prestonsburg be like if we didn't have the shelter," Pillersdorf responded. "One reason we're here is that the city has always helped us." Pillersdorf explained that providing an animal shelter is the responsibility of the county. He said he plans to approach the Floyd Fiscal Court for increased funding.

Latta commended the shelter and said the council's next budget will increase its funding. Latta also requested the council purchase equipment to capture stray animals, saying that police and public works personnel will pick up the strays and transport them to the shelter. The council agreed to purchase equipment at a cost of approximately $200.

Council members also agreed to purchase a garbage truck, a packer which goes on the back of the truck, a 3/4 ton pickup, and a snow plow and salt spreader. Steiners of Huntington, West Virginia, was awarded the contract for a new garbage truck and packer, bidding $29,128 for the garbage truck and $19,765 for the packer. Music Carter Hughes of Prestonsburg, was awarded the contract for the 1991 Chevy 3/4 ton pickup, bidding $21,657.

R & S Truck Body Company received the contract for a snowplow and spreader, bidding $4,355.

Also approved at the meeting was the council's annual audit. Steve Allen, with Allen, England, and Hensley, explained the audit to the council and said an independent auditor's report had given a "clean opinion on the city." One point of contention with the audit was the separation of the park and tourism audits. Allen said that previous city administrators had requested the audit be submitted separately, but in theory, "all of them should be included." Council members passed a motion to "include the park board and tourism commission in future audits.

Other action taken included the second reading of the ordinance authorizing participation in the Kentucky League of Cities Investment Pool Plus. James explained that the program is also called "zero checking account."

"Every penny in the bank is drawing money for you," James told the council, saying the investment changes at 1:59 p.m. everyday. "You can buy C.D.'s with it, or write checks against it," James said, explaining that the investment program means a lot of money in terms of interest.

Another financial matter discussed was the need for additional funding for the Prestonsburg Volunteer Firefighters. According to Latta, the volunteers are $500 in debt and had asked the city for help in purchasing new uniforms. Council agreed to give the volunteers $500 for the purchase.

Also discussed at the meeting was the firefighters' new training tower, which has not been completed though construction began last spring.

Freddy James told the council that the blocklayer, Howard Rice Construction Company, had not come back. "All he needs to do before the decking can go down is put in one more layer of blocks," James said.

Latta suggested inviting the Job Corps to complete the project since they have good block layers and are supervised. James explained the city could not do that since it was a question of "construction liability." Latta asked Mike Meade, director of public works to contact the construction company and have it finish its job.

Councilman Danny Hamilton brought a complaint before the council. Hamilton said numerous citizens had contact him, complaining that the city began its Jenny Wiley Festival clean up too early. Hamilton said booths were still selling food, and people were still eating, but the clean up was "blowing dust." Mayor Latta asked the council to look into the situation and prevent it from happening next year.

Also approved at the meeting was the appointment of Perry Summers to replace Martha Ann Damron, and Eugene Luka to replace Lou McCray on the tourism commission.

Roy Roberts, Prestonsburg police officer, demonstrated a traffic control light that officers used in the Jenny Wiley Festival to detour traffic away from the parade route. Roberts said he and another officer, Mike Omerod had made four devices at a total cost of $170. Roberts said Bill May of Prestonsburg made the boxes to house the device.

A letter from Patsy Evans, director of Prestonsburg Senior Citizens, was read to the council. Evans thanked the council for their help in making the center number one in the state.

The council then went into executive session for the acquisition of property. No action was reported from the closed section.

Council members attending were Jerry S. Fannin, Dr. Gary D. Brown, William R. Callihan, Michael D. Vance, and Danny Hamilton.

Women-owned businesses have increased since 1980

The places where you get your clothes dry cleaned, buy perfume and purchase car insurance are very likely these days to be owned by women.

In 1988, women owned 4.1 million non-farm businesses, up 62.5 percent from 1980, according to the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Labor Department.

Total receipts from women-owned (non-farm) businesses nearly doubled between 1980 and 1986, from $36.4 billion to $71.6 billion. These receipts included 975,000 businesses in the retail and wholesale trade, 451,000 businesses in finance, insurance and real estate, 2.3 million in the services industry, and 224,000 in mining, construction and manufacturing.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION NO. 1

Having served on the board of education for the past nineteen years I have focused my attention upon the academic preparation of the youth of our area. I feel my efforts have been justified by the fact that student achievement in our local schools, as verified by scores on State (CTBS) and National (ACT) tests by students at Prestonsburg Elementary, Clark Elementary, Auxler Elementary and Prestonsburg High School, are above the regional and national levels. Student attendance has increased to the highest level since 1967 and the current dropout rate of 2.8% is one of the lowest in the state and nation. Last year, graduates of Prestonsburg High School earned and accepted over $800,000 in scholarships and grants.

The present academic program provides each student the best possible level of educational opportunity obtainable commensurate with the resources of the school district. House Bill 940 will enable us to provide educational programs and facilities, above the present program, to allow and encourage each child to attain his or her fullest potential. Some of the new programs and facilities recently implemented or currently being developed and implemented to properly educate every child for the Twenty-First Century are:

- * Computer laboratories purchased for all Floyd County high schools. All new elementary, middle, and secondary school facilities will have complete computer laboratories.
 - * Purchased the highly acclaimed IBM "Write To Read" computer laboratory at the cost of over $200,000 for each elementary school. They are currently being installed so that the "Write To Read" will be an integral part of the elementary curriculum.
 - * Purchased and installed computerized equipment necessary for all high schools to participate in KET's Star Channel, making available advanced placement courses such as probability and statistics, Japanese, Russian, and Physics, for all our high school students.
 - * Developed new curriculum guides that have been completed and distributed to staff for the 1990-91 school year.
 - * Employed Library Paraprofessionals to insure that all school libraries are open for student use the entire school day.
 - * Provided free textbooks for all students in grades K-12 beginning this school year.
 - * Eliminated all student fees this year so students can participate in a "Free and Appropriate" education.
 - * Received a grant in the amount of $359,547 to provide after school programs and summer school programs for students who are at risk of being retained in a class or grade or of failing to graduate on time. This program will start at the beginning of the second semester this school year.
 - * Received a grant in the amount of $80,000 to implement a district-wide Alcohol and Drug Prevention and Intervention Program in grades 4-12.
 - * Received a grant in the amount of $326,000 to implement a program for four year old children who are identified as at-risk. This program will begin this year.
 - * Adopted an organizational plan to achieve uniformity throughout the system by establishing that elementary schools will be Kindergarten through fifth grade; middle schools will be grades six, seven, and eight; and high schools will serve grades nine through twelve. This plan coincides with the building plan adopted by the Floyd County Board and approved by the Kentucky Department of Education. The first of four middle schools for the district opened this year and provides a state-of-the-art middle school program.
 - * Kindergarten 5 days weekly
- Never in the history of the Floyd County school system has more progress been made in such a short period of time. The progress has moved the District to a more solid foundation from which to launch the reform measures of the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990.

Nurse practitioners eligible for Medicaid reimbursement

New federal rules will extend Medicaid reimbursement for services provided by approximately 225 nurse practitioners in Kentucky effective immediately.

Previously, advanced registered nurse practitioners (ARNP) had to be paid through a physician or a medical clinic. However, in 1989 Congress required states to allow certain ARNPs to bill the Medicaid program directly as an enrolled provider of medical services.

Commissioner Roy Butler of the Kentucky Department for Medicaid Services said, "Federal law only specifies that family and pediatric types of nurse practitioners be allowed to participate in the Medicaid program, but we've elected to allow all ARNPs to enroll."

"It's not practical to allow some to participate and not others. Besides, the same factors which prompted the federal government to allow participation-increased accessibility to treatment and lower costs-apply equally to all ARNPs."

Nurse practitioners are registered nurses with additional training and education in a specific field and who practice under the general supervision of a licensed physician. About half of Kentucky's ARNPs are certified in pediatric or family medicine and another 25 percent in obstetrics and gynecology.

Nurse practitioners will be reimbursed either at 75 percent of fixed

Woman's club hosts Old Fashioned Night

Bonnets, aprons, high top shoes, and long dresses were in high fashion last Monday evening when the GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club observed "Old Fashioned Night." The club entertained its daughter club with a dinner in the fellowship hall of the Garrett First Baptist church.

Mrs. Alice Kendrick of Pikeville, seventh district governor, was the principal speaker, choosing as her topic, "Membership." Mrs. Kendrick gave her listeners a list of unusual, innovative, and provocative ways to stimulate the acquiring of new members. Mrs. Kendrick had planned to present a new video on "Federation", but was unable to do so due to a faulty hook-up.

Gifts of marble desk paperweights were presented by the club president, Jo Ann Hall, to Maxine Martin, Libby Martin, Blanche Bamer, and to absentee Lula Coburn for long-term membership in the club. The president also presented a gift to the seventh district governor.

Ruby Akers, a past governor of the district, gave a brief account of her recent trip to the Northeast, emphasizing the beauty of the landscape.

In addition to the governor and her guest Faye Stinnett of Pikeville, those attending the dinner were Celia Ward Little, Anna Sue Stumbo, Doris Lawson, Linda J. Elliott, Jerri Turner, Karen Slone, Mildred Salisbury, Ruby Akers, all of Drift club, and Jo Ann Hall, La Faye Hughes, Marie C. Mullins, Marsella C. Bradley, Joyce P. Stevens, Maxine Martin, Elizabeth Duff, Louise West, Blanche Bamer, Libby Martin, all of the Wayland club, and Alice Sparkman and Kanessa Hall, guests.

The next club meeting will be held in the home of Libby Martin, south of Wayland, Monday, Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. A speaker from Prestonsburg Community College will be present.

"Clash of the Beavers"

Rebels Get Third Consecutive Win; Defeats Trojan 24-14

"The last few weeks, practices have been going great," said Rebel Coach Dewey Jamerson of his team's current three-game winning streak, the longest in the school's football history. "We played good against Wheelwright and it was good going home."

The Rebel mentor was basking in his team's 24-14 win over the Trojans in Friday night's "Clash of the Beavers" game at Wheelwright's Brackett Field. The win ran the Rebels record to 4-5 overall and it was the first district win for Allen Central.

The Rebels continue to play good football, not only on offense but also on defense. "Our defense has really come along since the first of the season," Jamerson said. "The players are starting to have confidence in each other. The defense knows if they can hold on defense, their offense is capable of scoring some points. The offense knows that if they can score some points the defense can hold the opposition. They have confidence in each other."

The story in the game was the continuing running game of the Rebels, led by senior running back Tommy Gibson. Gibson has been on a tear of late, rushing for 100 plus yardage in his last three outings. Gibson had 164 yards against KSD; 183 yards against Fairview and put together 125 yards Friday night against Wheelwright.

The Rebels had a scoring drive in their opening possession of the game but fumbled the ball on the 8 yard line of Wheelwright.

The Trojans took over and moved the ball into Rebel territory to the Central 33. Wheelwright picked up three first downs in the drive that stalled out on the 23.

Allen Central took the football with 4:22 remaining in the first quarter and kept control with 10:55 showing on the clock in the second when they scored on a 2-yard run by Gibson to give the Rebels a 6-0 lead.

The drive took 13 plays that began on the Rebels 7 yard line. Gibson ran for 40 yards in the series of downs and two penalties on the Trojans gave the Rebels two first downs.

It didn't take the Trojans long to come back with a touchdown that tied the score at 6-6. Trojan quarterback Steven Johnson hit Chuck Hutton with a 38-yard pass. On a carry by Mike Justice, the Trojans were whistled for a clipping call and the ball was moved back from the 16 yard line to the Rebels 31. On first down and long yardage, Ryan Johnson, who has been blessed with speed, broke loose and raced 31 yards for a Trojan touchdown.

"Johnson has really been blessed with speed," said Jamerson of the Trojan speedster. "Some people would kill for that kind of speed."

On the onside kick attempt by the Trojans, Allen Central got good field position on their own 48 yard line where they marched 52 yards on a drive that was topped off with a 11-yard touchdown pass from B. J. Aldrich to Brett Meadows. Aldrich threaded the Trojan defense with a bullet of a pass that found Meadows waiting in the endzone. Allen Central picked up four first downs in the drive.

The Rebels made it 18-6 with a touchdown just before the half on pass play action from Aldrich to Robert Jervis. The pass was good for 21 yards. Todd Lucas carried for 24 yards on the drive.

With 9:47 remaining in the third period, the Rebels faced a second and 17 after a loss of yardage play and penalty. Aldrich then hit Gibson with a 21-yard toss to pick up a first down. On third and 10 for the Rebels it was Aldrich completing a pass to Lucas for 13 yards and a touchdown to send the Rebels up 24-6.

Wheelwright's new found offense put together a good drive that resulted in a touchdown. The Trojans started on their own 32 yard line and marched 68 yards for the score. With the ball resting on the Rebels 3 yard line, Mike Justice took Johnson's handoff and a hole created by James Branham and struck paydirt with the run. Arnold Adams carried the two-point conversion to make it 24-14. The drive took 10 plays and consumed 5:05 on the clock.

The Trojans had the ball with 1:53 remaining in the game in a drive that started on the Trojans 32. Johnson hit Bryan Rhea, who had an outstanding game, for 18 yards. On second and 10, Allen Central intercepted a Johnson pass to end the threat.

Goble On A Carry

Prestonsburg's John Goble (44) is surrounded by Pikeville defenders in Friday night's contest between the Panthers and Blackcats. Pikeville won over the Prestonsburg squad 41-21 as the Blackcats committed four turnovers.

Pikeville Rolls Past "Turnover" Plagued Blackcats, 41-21

If anything, the Prestonsburg Blackcats (5-4) did not look like their selves Friday night against the Pikeville Panthers (7-2) in their 41-21 loss. Call it fright, being awed at playing Pikeville or whatever, but the Blackcats did not play as they have shown they are capable of playing. The Blackcats had problems taking care of the football as they turned the ball over four times — two lost fumbles and two interceptions.

But also credit the Panther defense. It was excellent in the first half, allowing Pikeville to build a 34-0 halftime lead. But there was another factor in the defeat. Speedster J.J. Bailey. All Bailey did in the game was carry the football 15 times for 245 yards rushing and score three touchdowns in his team's seventh victory of the year. Prestonsburg lost for the fourth time this season.

Prestonsburg collected a respectable 369 yards on the ground but it didn't compare to Pikeville's 417. Another category that had a bearing on the game was the turnover ratio. Where Prestonsburg had four turnovers, Pikeville had none.

Pikeville jumped out in front 6-0 early in the first quarter when, on the first possession and third play from scrimmage, Bailey crossed the goal line from 2 yards out. Bailey had set up the touchdown play when he carried the ball on a second down play for 55 yards before being stopped on the 2-yard line by Worthie McGuire. A bad snap prevented the Panthers from adding the extra point.

The Blackcats put together a good drive of their own on their next possession as they moved the ball from their own 34 yard line to the Panthers 22 only to see John Goble fumble the ball with Pikeville recovering. During the possession, Goble on a third and one, broke tackle and picked up 30 yards on the carry to move the ball into Panther territory.

Again, with Prestonsburg in possession from their own 36, a third down pass from Blackcat quarterback John Clark to McGuire for 14 yards moved the ball into Pikeville territory. Again the Blackcats fumbled the football and again Pikeville recovered when Jason Varney fell on the ball.

With 10:45 remaining in the second period, Kevin Lockhart scored on a 26-yard run to make it 12-0 as the extra point attempt failed. The touchdown was just six of the 28 points Pikeville would score in the second quarter. After a Prestonsburg turnover — an interception — Darryl

Napier Uses "Airwaves" To Hand Bobcats 42-6 Defeat And 9th Loss

The M.C. Napier Navahos, looking to keep their playoff hopes alive, passed for 164 yards in handing the Betsy Layne Bobcats their ninth loss of the season with a 42-6 victory Friday night at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Field at Betsy Layne. Napier still has a shot at a runners-up berth in the playoffs, trailing Prestonsburg by a game. The Navaho's will face the hard hitting Blackcats this Friday night at M.C. Napier. The win also evened Napier's record to 5-5 overall and 2-2 in district play.

Betsy Layne, shut out in their previous four games, put six points on the scoreboard in the first period to break the long scoring drought.

Napier took the lead for good when Navaho's quarterback Sam Mullins galloped 13 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter with 2:16 left. Mullins hit Steve Caldwell with a toss for the two-point conversion to take a 14-6 lead.

The Navahos scored on their first possession of the game when they marched 52 yards on six plays for a TD. The scoring play came on pass play action from Mullins to Steve Dixon, who then lateraled to Aundra Hall who ran 39 yards for the touchdown with 8:10 showing on the clock. The conversion attempt failed.

Betsy Layne, on their second possession of the game, tied the game at 6-6. The Bobcats' drive started on their own 30 yard line. Doug Hamilton rushed for a four yard pick up on two carries. Combs continued the drive with a pass to Chad Mitchell good for nine yards and a Bobcat first down. Combs then found Randy Woods for a 21-yard completion and another first down on the Navaho's 36 yard line. After Jamie Kidd picked up two yards, Combs again found Woods for a 34-yard touchdown pass with 4:48 remaining in the first period. The long awaited scoring drive broke the Bobcat drought.

M.C. Napier began pulling away from the Bobcats in the second period by scoring two times. Hill scored on a 4-yard touchdown run which capped off a 54-yard drive for the Navaho's. Hill also added the two-point conversion.

Steve Dixon scored the periods second touchdown that gave the Navaho's 30-6 half time lead, when he carried the football 13 yards to paydirt with 5:27 remaining in the half. Mullins hit Caldwell with a pass for the two-point conversion.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, however, in the final quarter Napier scored two more touchdowns to wrap up the scoring. Mullins hit Caldwell from 19 yards out with 11:54 to go in the game. Mullins scored the final TD on a 12-yard run with :47 showing on the stadium clock.

The victorious Navaho's picked up 14 first downs. Napier ran the football for just 57 yards on the ground, however, Mullins passed for 164 yards on eight completions in 24 attempts. The Navajo quarterback

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

IT WAS APRIL AND MAY IN OCTOBER FOR REDS

I must admit something. I never thought the Cincinnati Reds had the kind of team that could win the National League Western Division, the Pennant and then sweep the A's in four in the World Series.

I was one of those persons that thought that April and May was just a coincidence. That the Reds were not legitimate world champion contenders. As the regular season was drawing to a close, I thought my opinion was that much more warranted as the Reds struggled over the last five weeks and sort of "backed into the Western Division title."

When they did win it, I thought well, there is no way they can defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates for the Pennant and the right to go to the World Series. After all, the Pirates had won nine of their final 10 regular season games, including a sweep of the Mets. Bobby Bonilla and Bobby Bonds were on a home run hitting spree and besides all of that the Pirates would tear up the Reds pitching staff.

Game one of the playoffs, the Reds looked like the same old team of five weeks back. Get a three run lead and lose it and the game. No heart, no determination and no guts. Eric Davis even misjudged a ball in the outfield and that was unheard of.

What happened? It became April and May in October for the Big Red Machine. The next five games the Reds looked like the old Cincinnati Reds of April and May. Hitting was there again. The pitching was excellent. The defense was superb as always and there were good, timely hits. The result — a National League Pennant.

How did I feel about the Reds going up against the "mighty Oakland A's" in the World Series? I have always thought the A's were overrated as the whole American League is. The hitters in the National League as well as the pitching is much better. So I stood with the Reds. Why? Because it was April and May in October. During the months of April and May no one could touch the Reds. So I figured the A's couldn't either. I went with the Reds in six games. I thought that Mike Moore (12-13) would perhaps win a game against them. Why, Moore? Because junk pitchers fare better against the Reds than a hard thrower. Atlanta's Glavine is a good example. His off speed and junk pitches kept the Reds off stride in each of his three victories against them this year. So Moore was that kind of pitcher. However, we know what the Reds did to Moore.

After the four game "sweep" the Oakland A's still had the nerve to proclaim themselves the best team in baseball. Arrogance will impress no one but turn people against you. Regardless of what Tony LaRussa stated, the A's did take the Reds for granted. The Reds out-hit, out-pitched, and just out-played the boys from California. Two big winners, Bob Welch, 27 victories and Dave Stewart (who always looked mad) 23 victories, never won a World Series game. Dennis Eckersley, supposedly the best pitcher in the bullpen for the A's, could not showcase his stuff.

Stewart made the statement after the loss, "we will be back next year, will the Reds?" I don't know Dave, but be watching your TV set around World Series time next fall and we will see. But as for the Reds in 1990 — it was April and May again in October.

Will the Reds make a trade over the winter months? A consistent front line pitcher is a much needed addition to the Red's staff. I believe that Jack Armstrong will be back next year stronger than ever. He is going to be a good pitcher for the Reds. Chris Hammond will be with the Reds come next spring also. He has good potential. Well until next spring, I mean next Friday, good sports and always be good sports.

Allen, Prestonsburg "B" Squad Play To A 12-12 Standoff

They played for 24 minutes. They were tackling, being tackled, grinding on the ground and still they settled nothing after the horn sounded for the final time. The Allen Eagles, undefeated, and the Adams Middle School (AMS), losers of only one game, played to a 12-12 tie last week in the preliminary game of the "Cold Bowl", so appropriately named by P.A. announcer Freddie James.

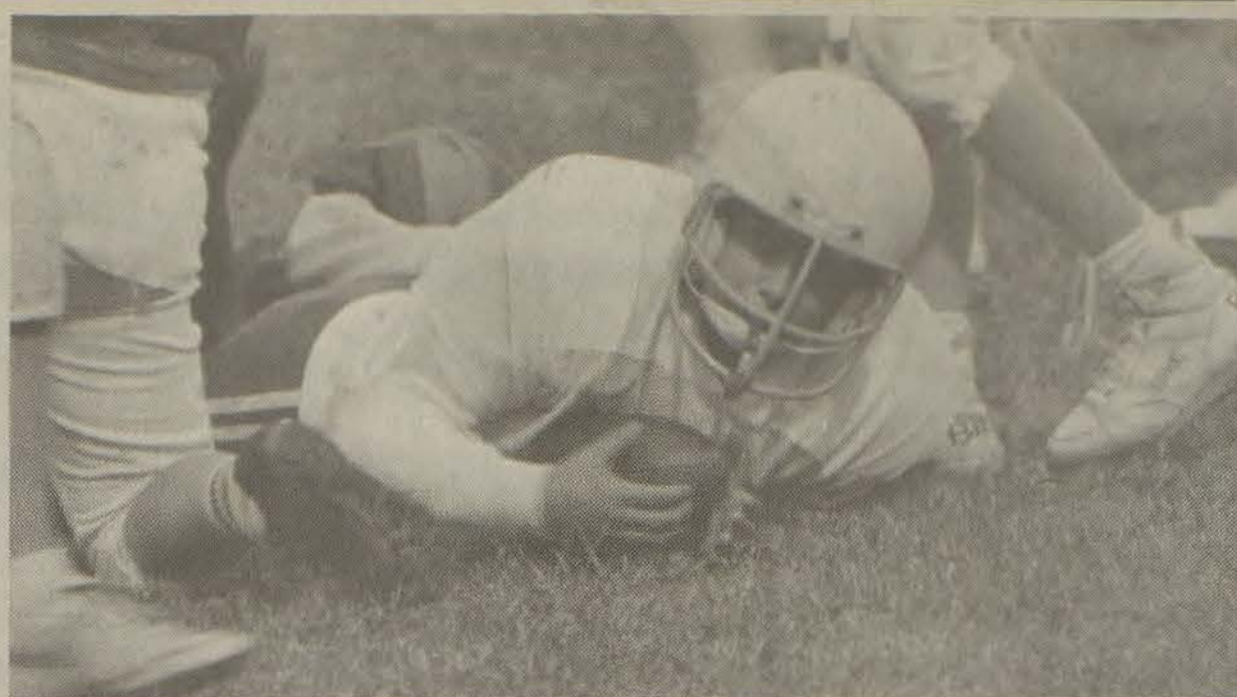

Blackcat quarterback Mike Castle hit Matt Lafferty with a 45-yard pass with 5:26 to go in the third quarter to tie the game at 12-12. The Blackcats had a chance to take the lead on the two-point conversion, but failed.

Allen had taken a 6-0 lead early in the first quarter on a 60-yard TD run by Brandon Castle. The Eagles added to the score to make 12-0 when, with :46 showing on the scoreboard clock, Keith Marsillet broke tackle and raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

A turnover by Allen led to the Blackcats' first score. Late in the second quarter, Matt Lafferty intercepted an Allen pass and returned it 45 yards for a touchdown and cut the lead to 12-6.

With the score tied 12-12, Allen again turned the ball over to the Blackcats when they fumbled the football on their own 34 yard line. John Moore carried to the 19. On a pass play, Brandon Castle intercepted a Blackcat pass on the Allen 5 yard line to stall the drive.

Adams had a chance to win the game with 22 seconds remaining. Wesley Samons intercepted a Blackcat pass and returned it to the Adams 45. Allen moved the ball down to the Adams 29 yard line on a 29-yard pass play from Castle to Tony Craft. However, time ran out before the Eagles could get back on offense.

"Being A Running Back Is Hard, Mom..."

Brandon Castle of Allen "B" team finds that the running back position is not the easiest spot on a football team as the Adams Middle School Blackcats stopped the big runner on this play. Castle had a 60-yard touchdown run against the Blackcats. The two teams completed the game at a 12-12 tie. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

Rebels

"At the start of the season I told our players that the magic number for this year was six," the Rebel mentor explained his team's goal of six wins to ensure the Rebels a first ever winning season. "This team realizes that they have to go one step at a time. It is a credit to them because it would be easy to overlook some people and they have been focused on what it will take to have a winning year. They want to have a winning season."

Jamerson had praise for his team in the fact they are listening to what is being told them. "They listen and I listen to them. I told them if they had any suggestions to tell me. If they thought of something that would work tell me. Not that we would use everything, because I reserved the right to have the final say so. It is like the Jenkins game, when Aldrich scored the winning touchdown, he called that play himself."

Jamerson says that anytime a team has a winning streak going it will build confidence. "Our turn around began I believe in the Hazard game. Even though we got beat bad, our defense was not all that bad. The players began to believe in the defense we were trying to play. "I told the seniors, if you want to do something for this program get six wins and have something to build off of next season."

The loss dropped the Trojans to 1-8 on the season and Allen Central goes to 4-5. Allen Central had a total offense of 344 yards. 270 yards rushing and 74 by passing. Aldrich had four completions in five attempts. Three of the passes were for touchdowns. The Rebels were penalized five times for 40 yards and they had one turnover — a fumble. Allen Central had 20 first downs.

Gibson was the leading rusher for Allen Central with 125 yards on 25 carries. Lucas had 64 yards on eight carries.

For the Trojans, Ryan Johnson had a great game with 106 yards on seven carries. The speedster scored a touchdown for the Trojans. Hutton finished with 42 yards on five carries. Steven Johnson had five for 14 completions for 138 yards. The Trojans rushed for 205 yards in totaling 343 offensive yards. Johnson was intercepted twice in the game and the Trojans had no fumbles. Wheelwright was penalized 65 yards on seven flags and had 10 first downs.

Defensively for Allen Central, Jamie Slone had four solo tackles as did Tim Slone. Jamie Rister had three and Kevin Clatworthy had two. Rister had seven assists Clatworthy had five. Gibson had five assists on defense also. Steve Bailey and Brad Scott each had three assists in the game.

Allen Central will travel to Millersburg Military Institute on Saturday while the Trojans will visit Magoffin County Saturday afternoon.

Blackcats

Ratiff scored from 7 yards out for the score. For the third straight time the extra point failed. In the series of downs, Bailey picked up a gainer of 32 yards before he was finally brought down by a duo of defenders, McGuire and Mike Ramadan. The run moved the ball to the Blackcat seven.

Prestonsburg was forced to give up the football with 6:46 remaining in the second quarter when McGuire punted the ball to the Pikeville 36 where the Panthers took over. On the first play from scrimmage, Bailey broke two tackles and raced 64 yards for a touchdown, and a pass from Christian Caudill to Cochran added the two extra points and it was Pikeville 26-0.

Prestonsburg was intercepted for the second time in the half when Kevin Lockhart intercepted a John Clark pass on the Pikeville 23-yard line. On a second and nine play, Steve Cochran was called for an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty for his run in with tight end Aaron Tucker. The run in fueled an outburst between the two players later in the series that resulted in both players being ejected from the game.

Caudill then hit Murray Garvin with a pass good for 40 yards and put the ball on the Prestonsburg 25. Two plays later, on a third and five, Caudill connected with Garvin in the endzone from 21 yards out for a touchdown. Caudill ran the conversion and it was 34-0 as the half came to an end.

Pikeville had a touchdown called back early in the third period, when Caudill again hooked up with Garvin for a 41-yard TD pass. However, the touchdown was nullified when the Panthers were whistled for a clipping penalty, bringing up a fourth and 13 for Pikeville. Ramadan stopped on a sweep play and Prestonsburg took over on their own 46 yard line for good field position.

The Blackcats drove the ball to the Panthers 23 yard line where Clark hit Worthie McGuire with a 23-yard TD pass to put the Blackcats on the scoreboard. Jason "Golden Toe" Storey kicked the extra point to make it 34-7.

Pikeville retaliated with a score of their own, a 3-yard run by Bailey into the endzone. Jason Howell added the extra point for a 41-7 game. Bailey had a good run in the series of downs when he carried for 46 yards before he was brought down by Mike Puckett on the Blackcats 2 yard line.

For the fifth time in the game, Prestonsburg moved into Pikeville territory and within scoring distance only to have the drive stall out. Jonathan Leslie had a good series of downs for the Blackcats as he carried five times for 33 yards in the drive. A 15-yard facemasking penalty against the Panthers helped move the ball for Prestonsburg. However, on a third and three, Seth Hyden was thrown for a 5-yard loss and, on fourth down, Clark's attempt to hit McGuire was incomplete.

Pikeville took over the ball with 11:56 to go in the game and held it until 4:23 remained, causing the Blackcat defense to have to stay on the field for much of the quarter. Pikeville's drive stalled out on the Prestonsburg 9 yard line.

With the Blackcats in control, Leslie carried two times for a Blackcat first down and, on a first down play, John Sparr took a handoff from Clark and found an opening for a 78-yard touchdown run. Storey added the extra point and it was 41-14.

On the ensuing kickoff, Storey tied an on side kick that worked when Ramadan recovered the ball for the Blackcats. Seth Hyden carried three times for 17 yards moving the ball to the Panthers 37 yard line with Jason Crisp in at the quarterback spot. Ronnie Goodman moved to the 30 yard line on a carry. A pass interference call against Pikeville spotted the ball on the Panthers 15 yard line where Hyden went up the middle for a 15-yard touchdown run. Storey added the extra point as the game ended at 41-21.

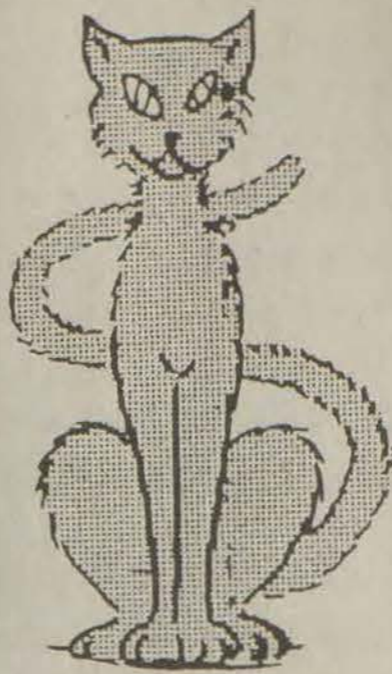

Bailey's 245 yards led the Panthers in rushing. Chris Wood had 65 yards on 13 carries. Caudill passed for 89 yards on three completions on seven attempts. Pikeville picked up 15 first downs and had two third down conversions. The Panthers were penalized 79 yards.

Sparr was the Blackcats' leading rusher with 103 yards on three carries including his 78-yard TD run. Goble carried 14 times for 81 yards and Leslie finished with 73 yards on nine attempts.

The Blackcats had 47 yards in the passing department. Clark hit Worthie McGuire with two passes good for 15 and 23 yards. Adam McGuire had one reception for nine yards. Prestonsburg had 15 first downs and picked up five third down conversions. The Blackcats were penalized 25 yards in the game.

was intercepted twice. Napier fumbled the ball once but recovered their own fumble. Napier was penalized for 90 yards on eight flags.

Betsy Layne picked up seven first downs in the contest. The Bobcats could manage just 11 yards on the ground while Combs passed for 57 with four completions in 18 attempts. Combs was intercepted three times in the game. Betsy Layne lost their only fumble giving them four turnovers in the game. The Bobcats were penalized 30 yards on two calls.

Betsy Layne will travel to Lawrence County this Friday night to face the undefeated Bulldogs who sport a fine 9-0 record. Napier will face District 2 rival, Prestonsburg Friday night.

The Goodin Brothers of Lebanon Oak Flooring Co. are accustomed to standing on solid ground. That's why they've kept Blue Cross and Blue Shield since 1953.

A lumber company has stood on this site since the 1890s. Lebanon Oak Flooring Co. itself has been in business since 1919. Today, Charles and Robert Goodin still turn Kentucky Oak into nationally renowned hardwood floors. And they still keep the health insurance company they've kept for 37 years—Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

"We take a paternalistic outlook toward our people. We want to take care of them. We want the best."

Sure, the Goodins have to other insurers in the past. Some companies have offered them lower rates than Blue Cross and Blue Shield. But Lebanon Oak Flooring keeps coming back.

"You can take your Blue Cross card and go to any doctor you want, anywhere you want."

At one time, there were 13 companies producing hardwood floors in Kentucky. Today, there are only two. Lebanon Oak survived by offering the highest quality products at fair prices.

The same is true for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky. Health companies have come and gone. But year in, year out, none have been able to match the quality, accessibility and service offered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield for over 50 years.

We're honored to have been the Lebanon Oak Flooring Company's health insurance company for 37 years. We'd be honored to work with your company for the next 37. For more information, call us or your local Blue Cross and Blue Shield representative.

We'll put you on the ground floor of Kentucky's most popular health insurance company.

Good isn't good enough anymore.

Browns lead series 8-5, but 49ers have won last two meetings. After early embarrassing losses to Jets, Chargers, Chiefs, Browns came alive to shock Denver three weeks ago.

HOUSTON 34 VS NEW YORK JETS 17

If Oilers don't have revenge in mind, they should have. Teams last met in New York in 1988 with Jets destroying Houston 45-3. Wesley Walker caught six passes and scored three touchdowns.

NEW YORK GIANTS 27 VS WASHINGTON 20

Teams played typical Giant-Redskin nail biter in Washington just two weeks ago, Giants coming up with fifth straight win of season 24-20. New York held to just 57 yards rushing.

TAMPA BAY 21 VS SAN DIEGO 20

Chargers have won all three contests with Bucs, all games, believe it or not, were played in Tampa. San Diego lost four of first six games of season, Tampa Bay surprisingly won four of six.

COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

The college football season isn't winding down, but there are just four weekends left after Saturday and conference races are in the heating up stage. In fact, this could be elimination week for a couple of hopefuls.

The Big Eight and Big Ten, until recently, were known as Nebraska, Oklahoma and the other six, and Ohio State, Michigan and the Little Eight. Things have changed.

As last year, Colorado must face Oklahoma and Nebraska on successive Saturdays. The Buffaloes met the challenge last season, defeating them both. This year might be tougher. They host Oklahoma Saturday, and the Sooners are not the same team that wret 7-4 last year. Colorado shut down Oklahoma 20-3 last season, but the prospects of a repeat performance are not that promising for the Buffaloes. We favor Colorado but the margin is so slight.

Arkansas, the defending champion of the Southwest Conference, finds itself on the outside looking in. The Razorbacks have already taken licks from T.C.U. and Texas Tech, and they met Texas last Saturday. This week they go to Houston where Arkansas will be the underdog. Last year, the two teams put 84 points on the scoreboard, the Hogs winning finally 45-39. The Cougar's beat Texas A & M two weeks ago, and they'll prep for their showdown with Texas in two weeks by beating Arkansas.

The forecasting average is still not up to past performances, but we climbed a little. Through games of Saturday, October 13th, we're .720 with 937 right and 364 wrong.

Indiana was former member of the Little Eight in the Big Ten, but no longer. The Hoosiers tied Ohio State two weeks ago, and Saturday they're at home against Michigan. The Wolverines jumped all over the 5-6 Hoosiers last fall, 38-10 and even though this is an improved Indiana team, it's difficult to pick the powerhouse from Ann Arbor to lose. So...Michigan.

KENTUCKY'S NEW "SPOTLIGHTING" LAW

The 1990 General Assembly passed an important statute regarding the practice of "spotlighting" wildlife in Kentucky.

Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 150.395 states "no person or group of persons may deliberately cast the rays of a spotlight or other artificial light, with the intent to poach, into any (area) where wildlife or domestic livestock may reasonably be expected to be present."

Of course, there are some exceptions. The law does not apply to the headlights of vehicles in the normal course of travel or to lights used after dark in legitimate farming activities. Spotlighting is generally an illegal hunting tactic because many kinds of wildlife (especially deer) are "frozen motionless" when bright light is aimed into their eyes. In Kentucky, almost as many deer are taken illegally each year by poachers, many using spotlights, as are harvested legally.

In some instances, use of a spotlight while hunting at night can be perfectly legal, as in raccoon or possum hunting (Nov 20, 1990 - Jan 31, 1991). Hunters use lights in the field to locate these animals. Use of artificial lights is also permissible when taking bullfrogs (May 17, 1991 - October 31, 1991). Raccoons, opossums and bullfrogs are the only species which may be legally harvested at night.

Actually, the new spotlighting statute replaces an old law, which the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled unconstitutional in 1987.

The old statute had made it illegal to "cast the rays of an artificial light" while in possession of a firearm or "other implement" which could kill a deer or rabbit. The appeals court ruled that law unconstitutional; for "overbreadth," meaning that the wording was not specific enough. (How many "implements" capable of killing a deer or rabbit can you name?)

Although the court found fault with the broad wording of the old law, it did agree with the law's purpose and intent. In issuing its opinion, the court called the practice of taking game by artificial light a "reprehensible act."

Another Kentucky statute (KRS 150.390) makes it illegal to molest, take or pursue wildlife in any manner other than designated by controlled hunting season regulations. The state attorney general's office has issued an opinion stating that causing a deer to bolt by the use of artificial light constitutes molesting. If you're shining a light on a deer and the animal breaks toward the thickets, you could be cited for molesting the animal, even if you have no thoughts of breaking the law by poaching.

Remember — regardless of your intent — deer, darkness and spotlights simply don't mix. And it can cost as much as $1000 for the court to decide what your intentions were. Be on the safe side.

MOTORISTS USE CAUTION

Kentucky motorists make a special effort to keep an eye out for deer during the months of October and November.

Fall is breeding season for whitetail deer. Bucks become especially active as they travel over a sizable territory in search of receptive does. As their increased movement takes them onto and across roadways, the likelihood of accidents increases. Kentucky's deer hunting season also occurs during this period and may increase deer movement.

Motorists should be especially alert near any area where woods or heavy ground cover are adjacent to the roadway. Routes which deer are known to travel are marked by road signs.

Whitetails will remain concealed in a treeline or along a fence row as long as possible, until forced to enter an open area. At times, deer seemingly appear from nowhere.

Deer move mainly at night. Periods just before daybreak and dark are also high-traffic times, as deer travel to and from bedding and feeding areas.

Drivers should not expect deer to run when a vehicle approaches. Headlights often blind the animals, causing them to freeze in their tracks, or bolt wildly in confusion. It's best to stop instead of trying to go around the animals.

Motorists should also remember that deer, especially does, often travel in groups. When one crosses the road, it's likely that others are following behind.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources urges motorists to contact a state conservation officer or phone 1-800-25-ALERT to report any accidental collision with a deer.

Run draws many entrants

For Martin's Branham, 5K's Are Fun; Wins His Fourth

Jimmy Branham Jr. of Martin enjoys getting out on the highway and running in the 5K races that the First Guaranty National Bank of Martin sponsors during Red, White and Blue days in Martin. The four-time winner has been running since he was six years old and has won the Red, White and Blue 5K run since he started entering in 1987. According to race director Terry Sizemore, Branham will have to move up to a different age group next season. Branham runs in the 10 and under age group and took the top spot with a 26:29.

"Jimmy (his dad) thinks that he will have to go by and pick him up whenever he starts out," explained his mother Carol Sue, "but he never has to, he does all right."

Branham said that the RW&B 5K is the only race that he has run in and he enjoys it a lot.

Another Martin runner claimed the overall first place for the women — Jessica Wade. Wade finished with a time of 22:58. The time was also good for first place in her age group of 11-15 year olds. Wade was running in the race for the third year and this is the second year she has won the title.

The overall winner for the men's division was David McGuire with a 17:03. McGuire along with his brothers, Tony and Joe, are frequent runners in all the regional races. McGuire has been running for three years now and had never finished higher than second before in the RW&B 5K run. Last year's defending champion, Rick Roberts bypassed the run, citing retirement from the sport as the reason.

"Rick Roberts has done a lot for racing in this area," said McGuire. "He will go out and bring in the best runners that he can find. He could have won many of the runs himself if he hadn't gone out and got top runners. Even if it meant that he would finish last, he still would be looking for top runners."

"Rick has run a long time. He can't go up, because he has accomplished so much," said McGuire. "I beat him seven times and he has beaten me seven times."

Brothers Tony and Joe have been running two and one year, respectively.

In the female 11-15 age group, Sarah Hinkle finished second behind Wade with a time of 31:58. Kevin Patton took first place with a 20:24 in the male 11-15 age group. Kenneth Scarberry finished second with a 22:09. Third place went to Kenny McKinney at 25:11.

Joe McGuire was first in the men's 16-29 age group. McGuire had a time of 19:51. Second place went to brother Tony at 20:54. Staff Sergeant Jason Pavolko was third with a 22:04.

In the 30-39 age group, finishing second behind Dave McGuire's 17:03, was Dewey Jamerson, Allen Central football coach with a flat 23:00. Kevin Stumbo was third.

Ray Ratliff was the 40-49 men's winner at 20:38 and coming in second was Bruce Hinkle at 21:09. Third place went to Roger Varney at 21:21.

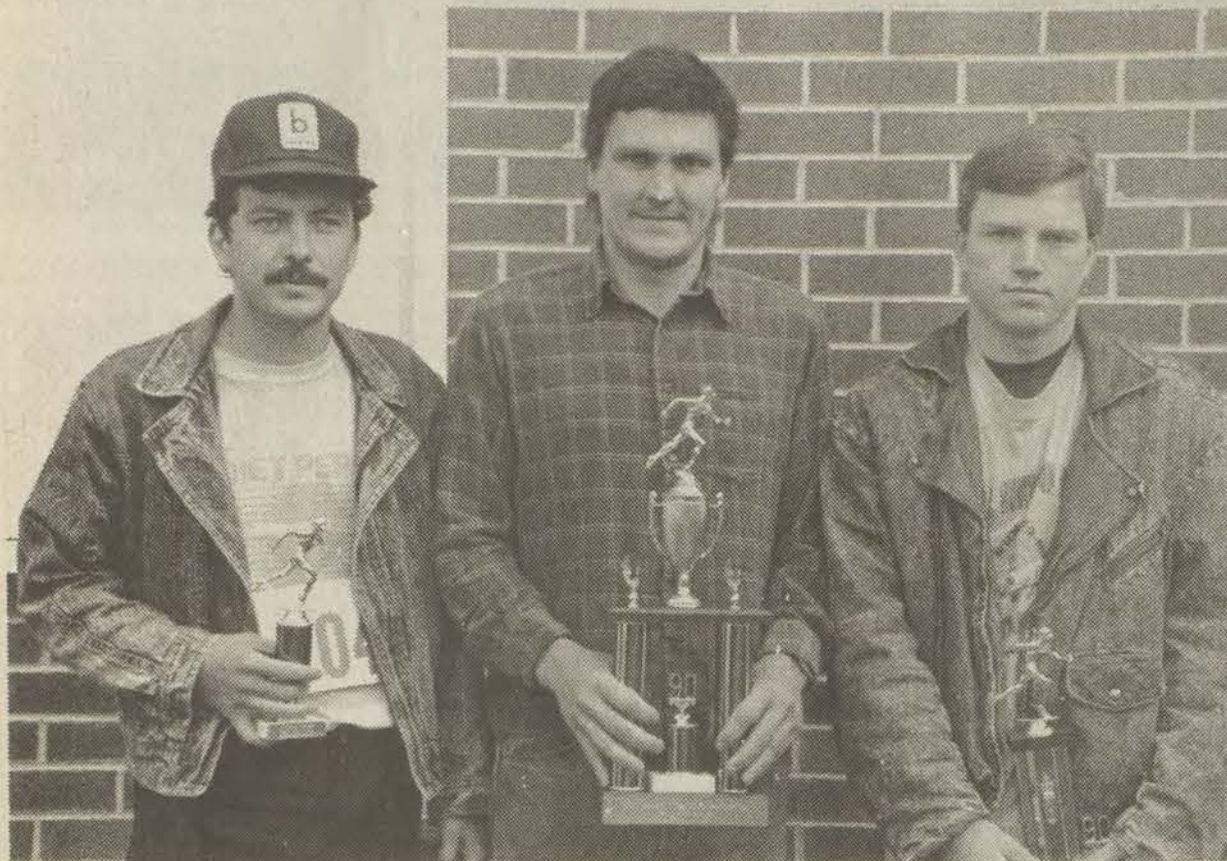

For the women's divisions 30-39 Deborah Coleman was first at 26:44. Marvin McFaddin, Paintsville and another racing enthusiast, won the men's 50 and over at 18:55. Jimmy Gray of Allen took second with a 22:58. Ron Varney pulled in third at 23:47.

The First Guaranty National Bank also sponsored the antique car show. Results were not available. One of the highlights of the events was the performance of the cloggers from Garrett who entertained the large gathering.

Whitetails Unlimited To Offer Hunters Free ID Cards

With the gun season right around the corner, sportsmen are preparing to take to the field in pursuit of the elusive white-tailed deer. Most sportsmen and women can testify to the fact that each year more and more private land is being posted against hunting and trespassing.

On a national average, statistics support the fact that over 85 percent of sportsmen and women will be hunting on private property.

What percentage of these sportsmen will obtain permission to hunt the site that they select? Trespassing and hunter/landowner conflicts are a growing concern. In a recent study, trespassing has been cited as the #1 reason for landowners posting their property to regulated hunting. The same study reveals that most landowners do not mind hunting on their property, but do want control over who uses their land for recreational purposes.

As part of its Project P.O.L.I.T.E. (Permission Of Landowners In Order To Enter) Program, Whitetails Unlimited, Inc. (WTU) has produced, and with a contribution from the Federal Cartridge Company, is distributing free of charge hunter/landowner identification cards throughout the U.S. to help curb the growing problem.

How the program works: when a sportsman has selected where he would like to hunt, he approaches the landowner for permission. Upon introducing himself and requesting permission to hunt, the sportsman presents the landowner with a completed WTU Card. Once permission is granted, the landowner is requested to sign and date the lower portion of the card, which the hunter keeps. The landowner retains the portion of the card containing the hunter's name, address, phone number, vehicle make and license number.

The ID card gives the hunter an ideal tool to supply a private landowner with proper identification. It has also proven to encourage hunters to ask permission prior to hunting on private lands. Properly implemented, it assists landowners in controlling the number of hunters on their property. Proper identification has made landowners more receptive to allowing respectful hunters on their property. Federal Cartridge Company is proud to support a program that will continue as it has in the past to open thousands of acres of private property to regulated hunting.

FREE HUNTER ID CARDS are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Whitetails Unlimited, Inc., Attn: Project P.O.L.I.T.E., National Headquarters, P.O. Box 422, Sturgeon Bay WI 54235.

Makes Beavers Column

Local Teenage Fisherman Makes Record Catch

Leigh Ann Blackburn of Floyd County ended her summer vacation from school with a fishing trip to Lake Michigan. It was an exciting experience for Blackburn. Not only did she land her largest fish ever — a 22 pound salmon — but she also landed herself into a syndicated sports column that ran in eight Michigan newspapers.

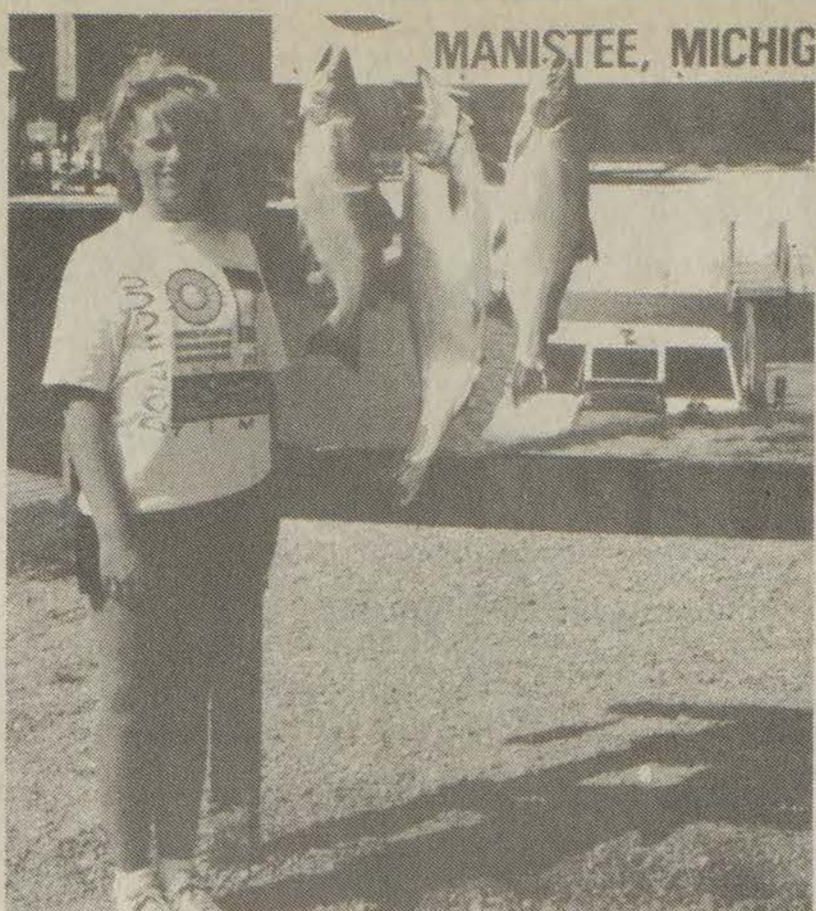

Writer David "White Cloud" Beavers in his column, The Great Outdoors, ran a picture of her with her catch of the day that also included a coho and a steelhead, each weighing more than 14 pounds.

Said Beavers, "Bragging rights for the largest Michigan salmon caught by an out of state teenager goes to Leigh Ann Blackburn of Betsy Layne, Kentucky. She caught the big chinook salmon while fishing with her grandfather, Walter Hall."

Blackburn had fished the same waters three years ago where she caught a 10 1/2 pound king salmon, but this year's outing was definitely a move up.

Leigh Ann is the daughter of Rhonda and Cliff Blackburn and has two younger sisters, Candice and Kelly. Blackburn is a high school freshman and honor student at The Piast School in Martin.

Roberts Runs 401st Race And Then Calls It Quits

For the past 12 years Rick Roberts has been running around the country and at one time out of the country, entering all the races that he could get involved in. Less than two weeks ago, Roberts ran his 401st career race at Hodgenville in the Lincoln Days Rail Splitter 10K run. Roberts finished 11th overall with a 38:15 and placed third in his age group, something that is uncharacteristic of Roberts. The long time race enthusiast cites the injuries that he has had to endure the past two years as the reason for retiring from the sport that he dearly loves.

"I haven't been able to do a lot of things that I would enjoy, because of racing somewhere," Roberts explained. "Now I can do some of the things that I have wanted to do. Read books, see other parts of the country. Just relax."

Roberts set a goal for himself this year of taking part in his 400th career race. He accomplished that at Inez in the Fifth Annual Pumpkin Festival two mile run. In that run Roberts finished third with a 10:58.

"I will not defend my title in the Red, White and Blue 5K run," Roberts announced. The 5K run was held last Saturday at Martin.

Roberts began his career in 1978 in the Paintsville Apple Run where he placed 16th overall with a 39:47 time. "I can still remember that race," he recalled. "I was leading at first and I had a side stitch and I slowed down." Roberts said a year later he finished fourth at 35:15.

Roberts said the first race that he won was the Richmond St. Jude 5,000 Meter Run in Richmond. He had a record run of 16:50 that still stands today.

He has been active in out of the country races such as the Glasgow Marathon in 1985. The Boston Marathon was also on his list of races as he participated in both the 1982 and 1989 run. Although he qualified for the marathon three times, Roberts

OUTDOORS FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER® PROS

Larry Colombs

If you spend a lot of time around lakes, rivers and ponds, there's a good chance you will happen upon two amphibious creatures that many people overlook as excellent table fare. Both frogs and turtles rate high on the list of edible species. Although, in their natural state, neither may appear too appetizing.

Frogs are best taken after dark with a spotlight and gig. Many states have seasons and bag limits. Check your laws.

Turtles, both snappers and soft shells are generally unprotected and can be taken anytime and by nearly any method.

Care should be exercised when dealing with a snapping turtle. Their powerful jaws can inflict a damaging wound. Cleaning a turtle requires a very sharp knife, a heavy-duty set of skinning pliers and a lot of patience.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's #1 Fishing Boat.

OUTDOORS FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER® PROS

Rhonda Wiley

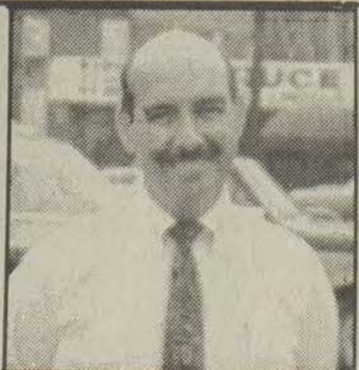

During the hottest months of summer, it is more difficult to keep fish alive because of the very high surface temperature of the water.

Carry an extra bag of ice on board the boat during this time of year. Several times during the day, toss a handful of ice in the livewell. Keep the aerator running as much as possible. If your system has an automatic livewell timer, turn it on and let it cycle. The added oxygen, plus the couple degrees of cooler temperature will keep the fish lively.

Some anglers fill a plastic milk jug to 3/4 its capacity and freeze it overnight. Place the solid jug of ice in the livewell around mid-day to help keep your catch alive and fresh. Handle the fish carefully and release any you do not intend to eat.

Bassin' With The Pros

HOW A PRO PREPARES FOR A BASS TOURNAMENT

Preparing for one of today's major bass tournaments takes more than simply loading your tackle and driving to a lake.

For Larry Nixon, who has won nearly $1 million in bass tournament prize money, getting ready for a tournament takes at least two full days.

"I spend a lot of time thinking about the lake I'll be fishing before I ever start choosing the lures I want to take," explains the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler. "I try to learn what the water color is like, as well as the quality of the bass the lake produces."

"These two factors basically determine the size of lures and the fishing techniques I'll use in the tournament. When I know that, I can pack accordingly."

A lake with clear water, for example, generally calls for smaller, lighter lures that will be fished in deeper water. On the other hand, a lake that produces a lot of three-to-five pound bass will require heavier tackle and larger lures.

The Evinrude pro feels learning the conditions he will be facing also gives him a mental boost to go to a lake where you can expect to catch heavy bass," he says, "and as you pack the appropriate big bass lures you can feel your adrenalin start flowing. You get excited."

"Going to a lake where the fishing is difficult and the bass are small is always tough mentally, but if you know about such conditions in advance, you can plan for them and keep your confidence high. A lot of fishermen don't do this, and because they don't have any confidence they usually fish poorly."

One of the things Nixon often does when packing for a long tournament in which his fishing techniques may change is to take the hooks off all his crank baits and put the lures in one big plastic bag.

Then, when he gets to the tournament lake and sees the water conditions, he chooses only the lures he wants to use and puts the hooks back on them.

"Bass pros are notorious for taking far too much tackle to a tournament," Nixon continues, "but we do it because we want to be prepared for the different conditions we might encounter."

"I will usually take six worm boxes, three grub boxes, and I don't know how many crank bait boxes to a tournament. I also want to take at least 15 rods and reels."

"I use five different types of rods," says the Evinrude pro, "and I take three of each type. Two will be in the boat with me, while the third is kept as a spare in case I break one."

One thing Nixon has realized in the 13 years he's been a fulltime professional bass angler is that it now takes much longer to prepare for a tournament than it did when he first started.

"The competition is much harder now," he explains, "and you have to be prepared if you want to have any chance of winning."

William Natcher, a statesman for the nation

Representative William Natcher, of Bowling Green, hasn't missed a roll call vote in Congress in 37 years.

by Aileen Hall

The sun was never brighter in Kentucky than on election day in 1953. That is when William H. Natcher of Bowling Green, Ky., was first elected to Congress. Winning every successive election since that day, he has set records that are not likely to ever be broken.

Natcher represents the Second Congressional District, but the entire state can take pride in the standards he has set and the high regard he has earned from his colleagues.

The January 20, 1990, issue of "Roll Call", the newspaper of Congress, contains the story of a poll taken by a Washington public relations firm. In an annual survey of House and Senate staffers, Representative Natcher was voted the Second most respected member of the House. Only House Speaker Tom Foley ranked higher in the survey.

Now in this nineteenth term — and his thirty-seventh year — Natcher has never missed a day in Congress or a roll call vote. He had set a world record as far back as twelve years ago that continues to expand.

He was first sworn in on January 6, 1954, and from that date through October 15, 1990 he has responded to 12,549 consecutive roll call votes and, in addition, 4,188 quorum calls — a total of 16,737. Both the 1978 and 1990 Guinness Book of World Records contain a citation concerning this record.

This record in itself indicates the commitment Natcher feels about taking care of the people he represents. "I made up my mind as a teenager," he says, "that if I ever were elected to the House or the Senate, I was going to do it right."

"Doing it right" has set another record almost as unbelievable as the votes he has cast. He has never accepted a campaign contribution.

In a day of expensive media blitzes, he has his own ideas of how to get elected — and how not to become obligated to any group or faction. He has never taken a poll, has no advance men and no press secretary.

He spends his own money to finance his campaigns, and he can well afford his style. It includes driving his own car into the different towns in his district, parking on some side street and walking around to the different businesses and talking with constituents.

Besides, he does not wait until election time to reach the people he represents. When Congress is in recess, he is likely to make a call "back home" to say he is coming to town and wants to get a few community leaders together to talk. After explaining some of the issues coming up, he will say something like, "Now I'd like to know what your thinking is about this."

There is a rare mutual trust between the Congressman and his people, and this has certainly paid off for them. "We have five new lakes in my district," he says proudly. "I brought in 100 new industries, the National Guard, airports, hospitals. We've come a long way."

While his first priority, of course, is the district he represents, there is a pervading sense of fairness and understanding as you listen to him talk. It is as if he has made a pact with himself to do good for all people who deserve a lift.

Natcher is a member of the Committee on Appropriations and is a Chairman of the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations. This is a privileged committee, and members serving on it cannot serve on another standing committee.

Many articles about this remarkable man have appeared recently in People Magazine, The New York Times, The New York Post, Washington Post, and Wall Street Journal among many others.

But the story many people would most enjoy reading is the journal Natcher keeps himself. This journal was begun with his election in 1953. He writes in it at least once a week, and when it reaches 300 pages he has it bound in the Government Printing Office at his own expense. He is now writing on the fifty-first volume.

He has shared some of the stories he admits to having included in the journal, but he does not let anyone read it — yet. He says, "You'll have opportunity to read it some day."

At least some of the stories concern his old friend Carl Perkins, Representative from the Seventh Congressional District from January, 1949, until his death in 1984. Their offices were only a few doors apart in the Rayburn House Office Building.

He said, "It was nothing unusual for Carl to stop in after he'd gotten another bill passed on a favorite cause for education. He would announce, 'Well, I just got my bill passed. Now when can I get my money?'"

"On one particular morning," he added, "Perkins came by before we'd unlocked the door. He gripped the doorknob with that big, strong hand-clasp — and it just fell off in his hand."

Natcher receives visitors in an office that is filled with memorabilia — momentos from people in his district and from others he has served with. He is courteous and considerate of ideas shared with him, always warm and friendly.

He does not usually sit in the big leather chair behind the massive desk, but rather has a few chairs arranged by a window where he joins a visitor in a relaxed atmosphere. Always aware that a visit can be interrupted by some urgent call, he will ask right away, "Well, what's on your mind today?"

Glancing around the office, a visitor is greeted by pictures of his wife, Virginia, and his daughters, Celeste and Louise. There are others of grandchildren and people who have been important in his career. The eight Presidents he has served with have autographed pictures to him — Eis-

See NATCHER, C 3

Natcher's impressive collection of memorabilia covers a span of nearly four decades.

Why not start a new tradition for Halloween? Bake a Ghost Cake for your favorite goblins, and you won't hear a boo in the bunch! Start with a First Prize Chocolate Cake.

First Prize Chocolate Cake

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
4 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
1 3/4 cups buttermilk
2 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 cups sifted self-rising flour
2 cups sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 13x9x2 inch baking pan. Combine butter and chocolate in small saucepan. Melt over low heat; remove pan from heat and set mixture aside to cool. Beat eggs in mixing bowl with electric mixer for about 2 minutes on medium speed. Blend in buttermilk and vanilla. Add flour and sugar to buttermilk mixture; beat until well blended. Stir in chocolate mixture. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 40 to 45 minutes or until cake begins to pull away from sides of pan and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan for 10 minutes; remove from pan and cool completely on wire rack. Makes 12 to 15 servings.

After baking your First Prize Chocolate Cake, follow these easy steps.

1. Allow cake to cool, then place on a large serving platter.
2. Cut two corners off of on 9-inch side to form a semicircle for the ghost's head.

3. Stand corners against sides of cakes to form the ghost's arms. Attach corners and frost cake and arms with your favorite white frosting.

4. Decorate cake as follows: Separate 2 chocolate sandwich cookies. Use 2 halves, filling side up, for eyes; press 2 black jelly bean halves into cookie filling for little eyeballs. Use a third chocolate sandwich cookie, filling side up, for mouth.

Elegant Halloween Showpiece "Takes the Cake"

Elegant Centerpiece Pumpkin Cake is a unique Halloween dessert — perfect to serve at a fancy dinner. Shaped like ripe golden pumpkins on the vine at harvest, these cakes add a touch of class to any table, dazzling adults and children alike.

Made by putting two fluted tube cakes together to form a round pumpkin shape, this attractive dessert can be prepared on a large, medium, or small scale, depending upon the size of the cake pans used. Once the cakes are assembled, frost them with orange frosting and decorate them with stems made from almond past (marzipan) and with leaves and vines made from commercially-prepared fruit "leather" snacks (available at most supermarkets).

This attractive cake tastes as good as it looks and is packed with wholesome fall flavors, including pumpkin (packed with vitamin A), allspice and cinnamon.

Elegant Centerpiece Pumpkin Cake

(recipe makes one 12-cup fluted tube cake)

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups granulated sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. ground allspice
1 cup solid pack pumpkin (canned)
1 cup vegetable oil
3 eggs
Orange Frosting (recipe follows)
Assorted fruit leathers for leaves and vines
Almond paste for stems.

In large bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, and allspice; set aside. In large mixer bowl, beat pumpkin, oil and eggs for 2 to 3 minutes, or until smooth. Add liquid ingredients to dry ingredients; mix well. Pour batter into greased and floured 12-cup fluted tube pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40 to 50 minutes, or until toothpick comes out clean. Cool for 10 minutes; invert onto wire rack to cool completely. Repeat recipe to complete second half of cake. Cool second cake completely.

Orange Frosting: Combine 4 cans ready-to-spread vanilla frosting with orange paste food color.

Leaves and Vines: Cut assorted leaf shapes from a variety of fruit leathers. Cut long strips; twist to make vines.

Stem: Shape almond paste to resemble stem. Dust lightly with cocoa powder, if desired.

To assemble: Place on cake upside down on serving plate. Frost flat top using about 1 cup frosting. Place second cake on top to form pumpkin shape. Cover center hole with cardboard circle to form base to hold stem. Frost cakes completely (including cardboard) with remaining frosting. Decorate with stem, leaves, and vines as desired.

For one large Pumpkin Cake: Make recipe twice to yield two 12 cup fluted tube cakes.

For one medium Pumpkin Cake: Make 2 cakes using 6 cup fluted tube pan. Follow above recipe once; fill pan 1/2 full each time. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Repeat with remaining batter.

For six small Pumpkin Cakes: Make 12 cakes in mini-fluted tube pans. Follow above recipe once, fill pans 1/2 full. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

Frosting (for medium or small cakes): Combine 3 cans ready-to-spread vanilla frosting with orange paste food color.

Serve either of these ghoulish delights at your Halloween party with fresh sweet apple cider. Now sweet apple cider can be made without a cider press. Process cored and cut-up apples in a food chopper, blender, or food processor. Spoon the pulp into a muslin sack or cotton pillow case and squeeze bag to extract apple juice. Pour juice into clean glass containers. Sweet cider will keep for four to five days. It can be frozen for up to six months.

Halloween should remind us that pumpkin has a place in our diets. Research has shown that foods rich in beta carotene — the plant form of Vitamin A — may help lower cancer risk.

Beta carotene is a substance found in most dark, leafy-green vegetables, broccoli and red, yellow and orange vegetables and fruits; citrus fruits; and the juices from any of these.

The human body efficiently converts beta carotene to needed vitamin A; which is a possible dietary inhibitor from certain cancers, especially those of the lungs, skin and digestive system.

Beta carotene also plays a role in good vision, beautiful skin; a strong immune system; and bone and tooth development.

At this time of year, this means you should celebrate the pumpkin because it is the richest source of beta carotene in the fruit or vegetable kingdom. All things considered that makes pumpkin pie a pretty decent dessert choice.

Pumpkin Muffins
1 3/4 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1 egg, slightly beaten
3/4 cup milk

1/3 cup oil
1/2 cup canned pumpkin
1/2 cup raisins

Blend dry ingredients; in separate container whisk together the milk, egg, oil and pumpkin; add all at once and stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Do not overbeat.

Fold in raisins; spoon batter into greased muffin cups, filling each cup two-thirds full. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm.

Cookies from Home!

Several Floyd Countians are among the troops that have been mobilized to the Middle East. Among cards and letters from home, and an occasional telephone call, one thing we can do to keep up morale is send homemade cookies and snacks.

To protect cookies on their long trip, follow these easy suggestions: — Wrap cookies in pairs, back to back and place them in a can, box or other sturdy container that is padded on the top and bottom with crushed paper.

— Then pack containers in another sturdy box, padding with crumbled or shredded paper.

— Seal with strapping tape, wrap with paper and seal again.

Sturdier cookies, such as sugar cookies, travel better than fragile ones, such as rosettes.

Be sure to send a letter with your treats!

Election Time

Yes, it's not long before we Floyd Countians will be traveling to the polls to cast our vote. For as long as I can remember I have heard my elders say it is time to make that rooster crow. So, now you know the majority of my family are Democrats, right?

Then to my Father's disbelief, his only daughter grew up and had the audacity to marry a Republican.

Boy, is politics a hot topic on holidays at our house. After ten years of my father-in-law's participation in politics, my family and I have come to a realization. IT'S NOT THE PARTY ONE VOTES FOR!

"Aghh!" you say, "She's nuts!" Well, it shouldn't be.

We should vote for the candidate we feels is best qualified for the position.

"That's what they all say," you think.

Well, maybe. But it's still a cold hard fact.

If Joe Snow was a candidate running for an office he had held for years, and he is the only one who has benefited from it, but those close personal friends and relatives are going to put Ol' Joe back in office, should we vote for him just because he is registered in the same party as you, mom, dad, grandma, and grandpa? I certainly hope not.

by Kim Frasure

What if Hal Sal, was his opponent and Hal spoke words of great importance and expressed ideas you agreed with, BUT Ol' Hal was registered with the "other" party.

#1. Do you vote for Joe because he is registered in the same party as you are?

#2. Do you dare cross over and vote for Hal, and take a chance on someone finding out?

Face it, if you are the only one behind that curtain, pulling that lever, NO ONE but you is going to know which way your vote was cast. For, in reality, the Rooster doesn't crow and water doesn't spray in your face from the Elephant's trunk when the lever is pulled.

You are safe, so VOTE this coming election, but vote wisely and consider your options. Remember, if you don't vote, you have no right to complain.

'Till next week...

Natcher

Natcher's personal journal now includes 51 bound volumes.

enhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford, Carter, Reagan and Bush.

He knew Kennedy longer, and better, than the others and their alliance has made him a favorite; but he is quick to praise the traits and strong points of the others. Like the majority who elected our thirty-fourth president, he liked Ike. "Eisenhower," he stated, "would look you square in the eye and tell you exactly what he wanted."

This same honest and open evaluation has been made of him by his colleagues. Former House Speaker Tip O'Neill once said, "Bill Natcher runs the House as a parliamentarian better than anyone I've ever seen." Often asked to take the gavel during a contentious debate, he is given a standing ovation when it ends.

In an article for the "New York Post," former Senator William Proxmire wrote, "Natcher is a thoroughly professional legislator, in the best sense, a real national treasure ... Here's a congressman who produces the highest quality product in legislative service at the lowest price and with uncompromising honesty."

Natcher very rarely accepts a social invitation for the evening and his sensible schedule is no doubt a factor in his obvious good health. At the age of 80 he continues to drive himself to his office, arriving before 7 a.m., to work with his efficient staff of five. Dianne Rihely is his Administrative Aide.

For someone who campaigned for office on his record as County Attorney, and at no expense to the people, Congressman Natcher has carved himself an honored place in history. He is a Baptist, a Democrat and a statesman in the finest sense of the word.

Those 16,737 votes were not likely all counted with the majority, but you can believe they were all cast in the best interest of his beloved district—and for the nation he has honored so well.

Grandparents please respond

Some elder Kentuckians find life after 59 is truly "the time of their lives." Others, however, learn that few activities and fixed incomes take some of the shine off the "golden years."

But almost 200 elder Kentuckians with limited incomes make their days brighter as volunteers in the state's Foster Grandparent Program, a 23 year effort to match children with special needs — ranging from mild behavioral problems to severe disabilities — with senior citizens over the age of 60.

"In this program, everyone benefits: the volunteers who receive small monetary and large emotional support and the children who gain extra love and attention," said Commissioner Dennis Boyd, whose Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services administers Kentucky's program.

"The children receive daily, one-on-one attention from a caring individual. The foster grandparents not only get to see the results of their companionship, but also gain a great deal of fellowship with other senior volunteers," said Boyd.

As recently as the early 1980s, the state's foster grandparent program was geared toward children confined in facilities. Today, however, the program reaches into Headstart programs, day care and public schools, spouse abuse centers, teen pregnancy programs and other community or-

by Willie Elliott

The Fishing Trip
 by Willie Elliott

Ryan finally talked me into taking him fishing. Having gone to the German Bridge area with someone else in the past, he decided that would be a good place to catch two fish. Yes, for some reason, that was his goal. But, alas, we did not catch anything. On second thought, I guess we "caught" many things — a fish just wasn't one of them.

Ryan decided that Sunday morning would be a fine time for this adventure. It was a cool, cloudy morning that had "sleeping time" written all over it. But this would be no day for extra snoozing, so up we got to prepare. As he listed the things he would take, I was reminded of Captain Ahab and his struggle with Moby Dick. I did not want to associate such an innocent fishing trip with such a single-minded revenge, so I told him he reminded me of Sir Issac Walton. The allusion was wasted. After we packed enough stuff to outfit a unit in the Middle East, we were off.

It seems strange that a nine year-old boy off on a fishing trip would listen to "Young Guns." What was even stranger was his father singing something about "going down in a Blaze of Glory." After listening to both sides of that tape, Ryan informed me that I could listen to whatever I wanted. I told him that was "big" of him. As luck would have it, there was a program on the radio touting the music of the sixties. I asked him what he thought of the sixties' music, and he said it would pass with a push.

When we got to the spot that Ryan deemed a fine place to catch fish, we unpacked. Ryan got all his fishing things, and I got out my camera and food. As Ryan cast his hook into the murky water, I was convinced not one fish was living there. However, I did get several photographs of his fishing. That will mean more to me than any fish he will ever catch. I do hope I am around when he catches one that really excites him.

While Ryan was fishing (is it fishing if you don't catch anything?), I took several shots of the German area of Dewey Lake. As I was taking the photos, I realized that my students and I have a lead for the German class that McDowell students take via satellite from KET. Eventually, all the fishing finished, it was time to go home. So, as I was leaving, I took a photo of the sign that referred to the German area, and I made a note to ask the Corp of Engineers for some history or leads on people of German extraction in this area.

Yes, we did catch something. It was a father and his son spending some time together on a Sunday in autumn. We may aim for high accomplishments or dream of making fortunes, but I suppose when we get right down to it, it is much like the beer commercial says, "It doesn't get any better than this."

Seniors celebrate open house

The Big Sandy Area Development District hosted an Open House Celebration for the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens and their director, Patsy Evans, on Tuesday, Oct. 16, from 1:30 until 4:30 p.m. at Archer Park. Bonnie Hale, Aging Planner was the Mistress of Ceremonies.

After an opening prayer led by Estill Lee Carter, Patsy Evans opened the program by introducing Ed Music who told the history of Archer Park and the Senior Citizens Building. George Preston Archer, Dr. George Archer's son, told of his father's vision of the park and the Senior Citizens Building and how it became a reality.

Patsy Evans expressed her gratitude to the Big Sandy Area Development District and to all the civic leaders, churches, business, hospitals, and, especially, the senior citizens, for their support which made this award possible.

Otila Smiley shared her memories of the Center in its beginnings and how it has grown in these past years.

Orbie Vaughan, another member of the center, told what the Center has meant to her. She remembered the first quilt made at the center, purchased by Dr. James Adams.

Fall colors decorated the open house. The table was white with orange flowers, donated for the centerpiece by Jenny Wiley Florist. A silver candelabra with orange candles, and orange napkins with "Prestonsburg Senior Citizens — Home of the No. 1 Ky., Dears" lettered in gold also graced the table.

All tables had place mats made from clippings of the newspaper articles carrying the news of the award.

Those Center Board members present included: Darrell Patton,

Judge Executive John M. Stumbo read a county proclamation declaring Tuesday, October 16, as Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Day. Mayor Ann Latta read a city proclamation honoring the day and the center for distinguishing itself and bringing honor to the City of Prestonsburg through its active involvement and volunteerism in community activities.

Delmas Saunders said the Benediction.

Refreshments were served by Bonnie Hale, Addie Stambaugh and Mary Ann Hall.

Approximately two hundred persons attended.

Class of 1950 celebrates 40th Reunion

Jenny Wiley State Park was the fall setting for the 40th Class Reunion of the Prestonsburg High School Class of 1950, held the weekend of September 14 through 16, 1990.

The festivities began with a cookout on Friday, Sept. 14, at 5 p.m. on the cabin grounds near the boat dock.

On Saturday, Sept. 15, at 11 a.m., everyone boarded the "Daniel Boone" tour boat at the Jenny Wiley Boat Dock for a three hour trip on Dewey Lake. A picnic lunch was enjoyed by all at the dam, which was the site of the 1950 Senior Class Sneak Day forty years ago.

The social hour began on Saturday evening at 5:30 p.m. in the May lodge, and ended with a picture session of the attending graduates. The banquet began at 7 p.m., with a "welcome" by Homer D. Neeley, Master of Ceremonies. During the dinner, piano music was provided by David Banner Leslie.

Following the dinner, everyone sang the school song, "Loyal and True." The reunion highlights were shared by Emma Lou Martin, and followed by the introduction of teachers Lucy Regan and Alice Harris, and guest Fannie Runnels. Two songs were sung by the men's quartet of Edmund Burke, Paul Hager, Eddie P. Hill and Bill Runnels, accompanied on the piano by David Banner Leslie. A memorial poem was read by Mary Ford Hale in honor of the deceased class mates. Each of the graduates were introduced and gifts were given by Vyvyan Combs Ponsetto. The graduate traveling the greatest distance to attend the reunion was Ruth Helen Hall Trezona from Tampa, Fla.

Everyone agreed that a 45th Reunion was in order. The program closed with a benediction in unison. The program was followed by a dance.

Sunday morning, Sept. 16, a farewell breakfast was served to the graduates and guests in a private area of the dining room at May Lodge.

The Prestonsburg High School Class of 1950 had 65 graduates, three of whom were deceased — Bonnie Kitchen Culey, 1980; Delores Ray Lemaster, 1982; and John "Ted" Stepp, 1984. Hazel Price Clifton passed away the weekend of the reunion in Florida. Jerry Hager, another classmate, who lived in California, passed away the latter part of September. Of the remaining sixty graduates, the following graduates, teachers and guests attended the weekend reunion:

Darrell "Bud" Alexander, Betty Archer Davis, Delmar and Lillian Baldrige, Clara Lucille and Doug Garrett, Willie Derossett Petry, Emogene and Ray Branham, Joe "Buddy" Harris, Ruth Joy Derossett, Homer D. Neeley, Bill Runnels, Emma Lou and Clarence Martin, Donald and Shelby Willis, Lucy Regan and Alice Harris (Teachers), and Fannie Runnels (guest), all of the Prestonsburg area.

Attending from out of town were: Mary Ford Hale and Nancy Arnold of Somerset; Paul C. Hager of Berea, Ava and James Conley of Nicholasville, Edmund Burke and Joan Jackson, Vyvyan Combs Ponsetto, Gerald Leslie, and Sylvia Music Sparks of Lexington. Claude and Kathleen Arnett of Chelsea, Mich., Jack Crawford of Lebanon, Va., Betty Jo and Roland Savilla of St. Albans, W. Va., Ruth Hall Trezona, Tampa, Fla., Norma Jean and Barry Lockwood of Cartersville, Ga., Eddie P. and Margaret Hill of Starkville, Miss., Mary Alice Phillips of Goodlettsville, Tenn., Grace and Bob Myers of Noblesville, Ind., Donald and Thelma Preston of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Mae and Arnold Moore of LaGrange, Ohio.

Big Sandy District Retired Teachers Meet

The Big Sandy District of the Kentucky Retired Teachers Association had a membership meeting at May Lodge on Saturday, Oct. 13, with Georgia Muncy presiding.

The luncheon meeting followed the pre-retirement meeting at Prestonsburg Community College and was attended by state officers: Russell Boyd of Johnson County, president; Robert Kelly of Frankfort, president-elect; M.L. Archer and H.C. Dutton of Johnson County, chairmen of the membership committee.

Strategy to recruit new members to the association was discussed. All retired teachers are encouraged to sign the white card at the time of retirement and if not, should do so now since this allows the Kentucky Retirement System to deduct $15 from the November check for annual membership dues. This revenue is used to support the legislative program.

Also attending the meeting were Edith Roberts, Melvina S. Thomson, Ethel Fetterly, Anna Ruth Arnett, Imogene Salyer, Erma Boyd, Virginia Goble, and Alice Martin.

8th annual Old Time Fiddler's Covention

The eighth annual Renfro Valley Old Time Fiddler's Convention is set for Friday and Saturday, Nov. 2-3, 1990, at the Old Barn in beautiful Renfro Valley, Kentucky.

The Renfro Valley Fiddler's Convention is not a contest. This event is held with full respect for the individuality of each fiddler and with each person seeking to see or hear the skill of all others, not compete against them. Young or old, professional and beginner alike, all fiddlers can relax and enjoy the music and fellowship.

On Friday night, each fiddler will be introduced individually, interviewed briefly, and asked to play three tunes of choice. We suggest a waltz, a reel, and a breakdown, but it is really up to the individual fiddler to play what he likes. Performers may bring their own sidemen, or the Renfro Valley entertainers will be happy to provide accompaniment. We do ask that no electric instruments or drums be used.

Saturday will be filled with jams, tune swaps and workshops. Anyone who makes or repairs fiddles is invited to bring samples or repairs for display and demonstration.

So ... even if your fingers are a little stiff, your bow arm a little less responsive than it used to be, or you have "hung it up" so to speak ... come play with us. Your wealth of skill and experience will be much appreciated.

All young fiddlers, male and female, are also urged to participate. For you, this can be an unforgettable learning experience.

And if you fall somewhere between these two groups, be sure to be here. We promise to keep you really busy.

Remember, the fun get underway at 4 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 2. We have set this event in the Fall to get away from the busy festival and show season and just to relax.

A certificate of participation will be given to each fiddler. This special certificate, suitable for framing, will serve as a long-lasting reminder of an enjoyable weekend in historic Renfro Valley.

Shows are scheduled for Friday, Nov. 2, at 4 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 3, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Admission is $5 per show or $12 for a weekend pass. Come down, have fun. Experience a true part of Renfro Valley and Kentucky's Country Music Capital. We will surely do our part to show you some fine fiddlin' — an art we all respect. For information, call 1-800-765-SING.

Alzheimer's Disease support group leaders are needed

As America's population continues to grow older, ways to help this aging sector are being addressed vigorously. It is estimated that currently 47 percent of the population over the age of 85 is affected by Alzheimer's disease. The University Kentucky Sanders-Brown Center on Aging is at the forefront of research and programs targeted toward this group.

A free training seminar for those who would like to be Alzheimer's disease support group leaders has been planned for Friday, Nov. 2, from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the UK Carnahan Conference Center, Lexington. The day-long program is sponsored by the UK Sanders-Brown Center on Aging's Alzheimer's Disease Research Center. Current leaders and co-leaders are also encouraged to attend.

Topics to be addressed to strengthen a support group include working with community resources, developing a quality program, relating to the caregiver, group dynamics and listening skills, marketing and publicity, and working with the aging network.

The seminar is free, but registration is required. For further information and to register, please call Barbara Helm at (606)233-6363.

In 1990 the economic cost of cardiovascular disease will total $94.5 billion, the American Heart Association estimates. This figure includes physician and nursing charges, hospital and nursing home costs, medications and lost occupational output as a result of disability.

Each year more than 300,000 people die of heart attack before they reach the hospital. Many of them might have been saved, says the American Heart Association. Studies indicate that 50 percent of heart attack victims wait more than two hours before getting to an emergency room.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

BOB BABBAGE

125 CAPITOL ANNEX FRANKFORT

To the People of Kentucky Honorable Wallace G. Wilkinson, Governor Honorable John Stumbo, County Judge/Executive Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the statement of receipts, disbursements, and excess fees of the County Clerk of Floyd County for the year ended December 31, 1989. This financial statement is the responsibility of the County Clerk. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The County Clerk is required to prepare her financial statement on a prescribed basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the cash basis and laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and excess fees of the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 1989, in conformity with the basis of accounting described above.

We were unable to obtain sufficient evidence from other auditors concerning the calendar year 1988 fee audit. This report had not been issued and therefore the impact upon any potential deficit is uncertain.

As required by Government Auditing Standards, we have reported on the County Clerk's statement of receipts, disbursements, and excess fees for the year ended December 31, 1989 (page 1), its internal control structure (page 7), and compliance with laws and regulations (page 9).

We found the County Clerk's accounting procedures and compliance policies in good order. We wish to commend the County Clerk for her effort and urge that similar efforts be made in the future.

Sincerely,

Bob Babbage Auditor of Public Accounts

Audit fieldwork completed- July 6, 1990

The above transmittal letter accompanied the audit report presented to the fiscal court and is published pursuant to KRS 43.090(2).

Copies of the complete audit report, including the accompanying financial statements and additional information, are available upon request by contacting the State Auditor of Public Accounts, 125 Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.
