Local and federal races are set :

Something for everyone in Tuesday vote

by Scott Perry
Floyd County Times Editor

Poll watchers expect a light to medium turnout next Tuesday of Floyd County's 27,332 registered voters, despite a general election ballot that offers something for everyone.

Heavier voter responses are likely in two Floyd County districts where school board races are the only local issues to be decided on the November 6 ballot. Other choices Tuesday will include contests for the United States Senate; United States Representative for Kentucky's 7th Congressional District; and four proposed amendments to Kentucky's constitution. Here's a summary of the November 6 line-up:

Floyd County Board of Education

Incumbent school board members James D. Adams, in school District 1, and Ray "Shag" Campbell, in school District 2, face challenges in their November 6 re-election bids.

In District 1, Prestonsburg businessman Eddie Billips will attempt to unseat Adams, a five-term incumbent and current board chairman.

The non-partisan race is restricted to voters in Courthouse #1, Trimble Branch #2, Depot #3, Richmond #4, Cliff (1) #5, Porter #6, Auxier #7,

YOUR ATTENTION PLEASE . . .
A sample ballot published on page D 12 incorrectly includes precincts labeled Martin #10 and Allen/Dwale #43 as precincts for the District 2 school board race. The correct precincts are Martin #19 and Allen/Dwale #44.

Cliff (2) #45, Rough and Tough #12, and Abbot #35 precincts.

In school District 2, Franklin Delano May will challenge current board member Ray "Shag" Campbell.

The race is restricted to voters in Maytown #14, Cow Creek #9, Mouth of Beaver #10, Martin #19, Halbert #20, Drift #21, Prater Creek #39, Arkansas #43, and Allen/Dwale #44 precincts.

U.S. House of Representatives

Floyd voters will help decide the outcome of a 23-county race for a two-year term as U. S. Representative for Kentucky's 7th Congressional District.

The candidates include Democrat incumbent Chris Perkins and Republican challenger Will T. Scott. The race is a rematch of the 1988 election which saw Perkins emerge as the winner.

U.S. Senate

The race for one of two Kentucky seats in the United States Senate will be determined in a state-wide vote Tuesday.

The ballot pits freshman incumbent Mitch McConnell, a Republican, against Democrat challenger Harvey Sloane for a six-year term. Kentucky's second Senator, Wendell Ford, is not up for election this year.

The Amendments

Four proposed amendments to Kentucky's century-old constitution will be offered Tuesday for voters' consideration on "yes" or "no" votes. Amendment No. 1, if approved, would allow Kentucky's General

Some precincts merged:

Polling places set for voters

On Tuesday, voters will cast ballots at 44 locations throughout Floyd County instead of the usual 47, because three precincts were merged last year.

Voters at Garrett #16 and Rock Fork #37, will now vote in #16 at the Garrett Grade School kindergarten room. Voters at Lackey #17 and Wayland #18 will vote at the Wayland Senior Citizens Center in Wayland. Porter #6 (1) and Porter #46 (2) will vote in Porter #6 at the VFW Club Building.

Only residents of Allen voting in the Allen/Dwale #44 will be allowed to vote in the District 2 school board race. Election officers will ask voters where they live before casting their ballot.

Polling places are as follows with the precinct number, name and location.

- Number 1- Courthouse: Floyd County Courthouse.
- Number 2- Trimble Branch: Prestonsburg Grade School.
- Number 3- Depot: Warehouse at Christian Appalachian Project building, West Prestonsburg.
- Number 4- Richmond: L & H Used Cars Office.

Mine fatality draws suit for "negligence"

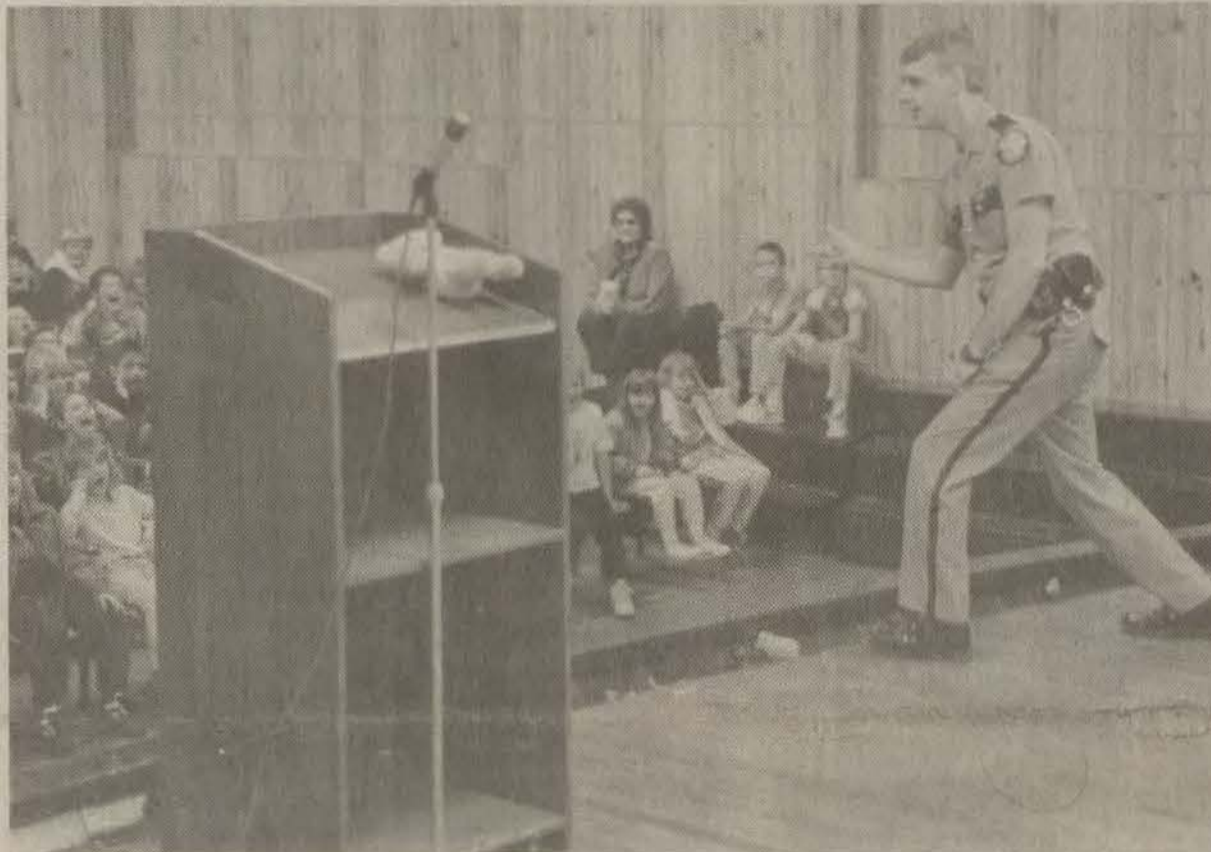

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Litigation filed on behalf of Brenda Slone in Floyd Circuit Court October 18, alleges that the death of her husband last year in a Floyd County mine, was the result of negligence on the part of Prestonsburg Contracting and Todco, Inc.

James D. Slone of Inez was killed in a rock fall November 9, 1989 at New Generation Mine No. 2 at Long Branch, near Dewey Lake. Slone was employed with Prestonsburg Contracting in a mine owned by Todco, Inc. when the accident occurred.

Slone had been operating a cutting machine to remove coal in the mine, in a process known as pillar extraction. According to Mike King, engineering coordinator of the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA), Todco Inc. was not authorized to perform this type of secondary coal extraction, based on a preliminary report filed after the

Thieves swipe computers

by Tim Preston
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Sheriff's office is investigating a weekend burglary at the Charles F. Clark Elementary School where four computers and a VCR were taken.

Clark Elementary Principal Irene Goble said Tuesday that the building was secure as of approximately 8 p.m. Friday night, but workers who were painting at the building discovered a total of three broken windows at the facility early Saturday morning.

Upon further investigation it was discovered that three computer terminals and related hardware had been taken from the special education department of the school, with one computer and a VCR taken from the main building.

Floyd County Sheriff's Deputy Danny Jarrell said that fingerprints were taken from one of the broken windows, as well as a doorknob which was thought to have been used by the burglar or burglars. Jarrell said that the suspect or suspects entered the main building by breaking a small window and unlocking the main door, and that one window was broken in a classroom, but, the suspects apparently did not enter the room. Jarrell said that arrests may be made pending further investigation of the break in. Jarrell added that neighbors did not report seeing or hearing anything unusual Friday night or Saturday morning.

Seven schools awarded flags

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Seven Floyd County schools will be honored for raising student attendance and lowering student dropout rate by the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Educational Foundation at its Flags of Excellence/Progress ceremonies next month in Frankfort.

Allen Central, Betsy Layne, McDowell, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright high schools and Melvin and Prater elementaries will be recognized at an awards ceremony at the Farnham Dudgeon Civic Center in the Capital Plaza in Frankfort, November 27 at 1 p.m.

"We're very proud of the staff, parents and students who helped in achieving this goal," said Floyd Superintendent Ron Hager. "The board established the goals in the district to improve student attendance and achievement and everyone worked together to make this happen."

Floyd County was listed as one of the 20 counties with most improved student attendance and most improved dropout rate. Allen Central, Prestonsburg, McDowell and Wheelwright high schools and Melvin Elementary were listed as schools with the most improved attendance. Allen Central was also named as one of the schools with the most improved dropout rate. Melvin and Prater elementary were listed as schools who earned Flags of Progress.

"We had the support of the fiscal court, district judge, county attorney, it was a county-wide effort," Hager said. "We want to double our efforts to continue the effort into next year."

The attendance rate rose from 92.7 percent to 94.3 percent, above the state recommended 93.5 percent, Hager said. The dropout rate was 2.8 percent.

"I think this is the best attendance increase in this district since 1967," Hager said. "This will increase the

Lake death is attributed to natural cause

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson said Tuesday that preliminary autopsy reports on the decomposed body of Robert Stephens discovered October 12, at the golf course near Jenny Wiley State Park, indicated that the man died of natural causes related to a "mass" on the man's brain.

Nelson said that a post mortem investigation of the remains showed several metal fragments or shrapnel in various parts of the man's body, but the wounds were believed to have existed before Stephens' death. The coroner said that Stephens was a veteran of the United States Army and that the metallic fragments could have been war wounds, but added that he was not aware of when the man served in the military.

According to Nelson, Stephens, 57, of Huntington, West Virginia was

Allen 'eyesore' burned in litter control effort

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Litter Task Force's campaign to target eyesores throughout the county caught the attention last week of one Allen resident who, along with the Allen Volunteer Fire Department, saw it as a perfect opportunity to benefit both groups and play a part in cleaning up the county.

Denzil Ray Hall read the October 17 Floyd County Times article about the task force's efforts to "create a new awareness" concerning litter problems in the county and begin a program to educate citizens about how the problems can be solved.

Hall contacted task force member Dolores Smith about a house his father, Troy, owned on Route 1428 adjacent to the Community Action Center in Allen. The fire department burned the house Monday evening and at the same time, received three hours of valuable firefighting training.

"I read where the task force was making an attack on litter and eyesores and I contacted the fire department to burn the house down in an effort to help clean up the community," Hall said. "I hope this will open the eyes of the rest of the county and people will make an effort to beautify our area."

Fire Chief Joe Reynolds agreed burning the structure will improve the appearance of the area and it provided a chance for the volunteer firefighters to practice fighting house fires.

"It helps us in training and gives us a chance to check out our equipment," Reynolds said. "Plus it gives the men additional training."

"If several others (property owners) in the area are willing to do that, we can get our community cleaned up," Reynolds said. "Anyone interested in getting an old structure burned needs to contact the fire department."

"I want to personally thank the volunteer fire department for their assistance in this clean up," Hall said.

Funny business

Area businesses and organizations gave out treats, dressed "fit to kill" and decorated rooms Sunday at the Holiday Inn during safe trick or treat, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Rotary Club. Police estimated it to be the largest crowd ever to attend the event, as thousands of children and adults braved the cold weather to pick up their treats.

Tess Whitmer?

There were a lot of ghosts and goblins out Sunday at the Holiday Inn for a night of safe trick or treating but many children were dressed as Army soldiers in honor of the thousands of Americans stationed in Saudi Arabia. Tiffany Frasure decided to dress up as Tess Whitmer, assistant editor of the Floyd County Times, who will soon be leaving for Saudi Arabia, with Tim Preston there in spirit. (photo by Kim Frasure)

Assembly to call itself into special session. That privilege is now restricted to the Governor.

Amendment No. 2, if approved, would allow Kentucky's General Assembly the right to review, approve or reject administrative regulations during or between sessions of the Legislature.

Amendment No. 3, if approved, would alter the state constitution to give the Kentucky General Assembly more authority to: classify and regulate cities; grant cities "home rule" powers; set limits on local government tax rates and debt capacity; regulate city elections and the terms in office of city council and commission members; and regulate local government taxing powers, including the power to grant limited tax exemptions to businesses and industries.

Amendment No. 4, if approved, would provide a tax exemption for the real property owned and occupied by, and personal property, both tangible and intangible, owned by institutions of religion.

No Contests

Though they face no opposition, incumbent Democrat State Representatives Greg Stumbo, representing Floyd County in Kentucky's 95th District; and Russell Bentley, representing Floyd, Knott and Letcher counties in the state's 92nd District, will appear on the November 6 ballot.

No Republican candidates sought the seats in last May's Primary Election.

The polls will open next Tuesday at 6 a.m. and remain open until 6 p.m.

Litigation

accident. This finding was based on a review of the roof control plan for the mine. The pillar extraction process, which was apparently being performed in the mine just prior to the accident, is considered to be secondary mining method.

Nine miners were working the same section of mine as Slone, when small pieces of roof began dropping, warning of an imminent collapse. According to reports, Slone left his machine to evacuate the area, but a large cave-in occurred, covering approximately 90 feet of the shaft. All miners, except Slone, reached safety. Slone was trapped and died at approximately 5:20 p.m.

The civil action alleges the roof fall occurred through the negligence of Prestonsburg Contracting and Todco, Inc.

Also named as defendants in the suit are Burl Johnson and Bennie Brewer, both of Floyd County. According to the legal action, Johnson and Brewer, representing Prestonsburg Contracting, Todco, Inc., and Great Fidelity Life Insurance Company, came to the home of Mrs. Slone and requested she release her claim against the defendants. Mrs. Slone signed the release but, the civil suit alleges, the release was secured through coercion, duress, and intimidation. The litigation asks that the release be set aside due to "unfair settlement claims practices."

Mrs. Slone's attorney, Leonard Stayton of Inez, has requested a trial by jury.

A complaint in a civil suit lists only the plaintiffs's cause of action.

For whom the bell tolls

by Scott Perry

That ringing you hear in the distance is a death knell and the cries are those of our neighbors.

This month, in a double-whammy of unparalleled proportion, nearly 650 coal miners lost their jobs in southeastern Kentucky. In less than two weeks 650 families in Knott, Perry, Letcher and Estill counties lost their hopes for the future and their means of existence in the present.

The layoffs by Arch on the North Fork, Inc. and South East Coal aren't surprises, they're confirmation of prophesy. They're proof that the eggs in our economic basket are rotting.

For decades we have known that coal is a depleting resource and that coal mining job opportunities are as vanishing a species as the black rock miners dug from the ground.

For years, concerned Eastern Kentuckians have attempted to find a way to balance the loss of coal jobs in efforts to create new opportunities. But we have been traveling the rutted road to diversification alone, with only an occasional hitchhiker from Frankfort picked up along the way.

Now our travels have come to a crossroads or, more certainly, the brink.

We must have jobs if we are to survive.

If Eastern Kentucky falls deeper into the abyss, you can be certain that the rest of the Commonwealth will be dragged down, too.

Listen, Kentucky, for whom the bell tolls.
It tolls for thee.

Dollars and sense

A wiser man once said that for every problem, there is an answer...if only you can find it.

Eastern Kentucky's economy is more than a problem, though, it's a crisis. Still, there are some answers. If we are to succeed in our efforts to shed our dependency on the coal industry, we must have help. Help in the form of both dollars and sense.

We must be willing to share some of the burden with Frankfort:

-A larger share of coal severance taxes must be earmarked for economic development here;

-Surplus state property, including that to be created by reconstruction of Route 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg, should be prepared and made available to industrial prospects;

-Tax incentives, such as those offered in state Enterprise Zones, should be more easily attained by prospects willing to expand to locate here;

-Local companies should be encouraged to stay in our area through tax and investment incentives;

-Vocational schools must be funded and equipped to train and retrain the region's workforce for the types of jobs we might attract;

-Regional offices, professionally staffed, should be created to oversee economic development efforts; and

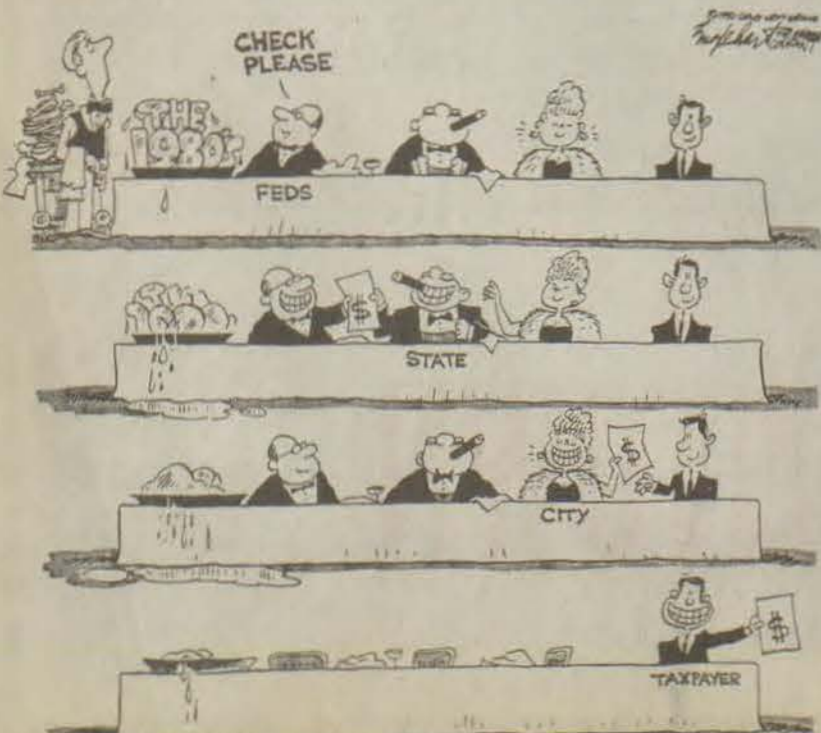

-A long-term, low-interest loan pool should be created to help communities and counties underwrite the costs of improvements and expansions of utility services;

-Locally, we should unite with other Big Sandy counties in the search for industrial prospects;

-Local property owners must set reasonable prices for land that could be developed into industrial sites;

-Local governments must set job development at the top of their lists and refuse to allow politics to interfere with efforts.

Dollars and sense. A little of both can go a long way.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

The focus in the present school board race in the Prestonsburg area has been on buildings rather than on the quality of education that takes place within them.

But, when the incumbent advertises in your paper that "never in the history of the Floyd County school system has more progress been made" in short a time, credulity is trained to the limit. I wonder exactly what history he is remembering, as we are often tempted to rewrite it to suit our own ends.

Does "in so short a time" refer to the last two months, when the system was wracked by a teacher's strike which was resolved in spite of, and not because of his leadership?

Or does "in so short a time," refer to his last term? In those four years, we have seen a superintendent removed due to pressure from the state, a new one selected after extensive community input, then his removal and the putting in of a long-time confidant of the Board Chairman — with no public input or reasons given.

We have seen, year after year, the Floyd County Schools rank in the very bottom of the state academic rankings; we have witnessed state takeover because of academic bankruptcy; a curriculum audit requested by his own superintendent which disclosed glaring deficiencies in the entire system from curriculum to buildings, to fund-raising, etc.; the report of the "Blue Ribbon Committee" which largely confirmed the findings of the audit; numerous lawsuits against the Board, etc.

Or does "in so short a time" refer to the last twelve years perhaps? Having lived in Prestonsburg eleven years, I can go back that far. In 1979, the system was disrupted by the demand for the removal of asbestos from Prestonsburg High School, a move the Board resisted — though now asbestos removal is demanded in every school by legal mandate. In the early eighties, citizens demanded removal of superintendent and board, and more than one state superintendent and state board was forced to deal for endless hours with the "embattled Floyd County school system."

In response to these problems, many creative solutions have been formulated by citizens and parents in the county — school-community partnerships, the Young Authors and Writing programs, an outstanding alternative education program at the David School, active community and parent educational groups — but the board can not take credit for these as it has consistently resisted community input and help.

Of course, we are tired of this negative emphasis; we wish it would all go away, and we can attempt to rewrite history, as the good doctor seems to be doing, as we would like it to be, not as it was.

However, "those who refuse to learn the lessons and mistakes of their history will be condemned to repeat them." One hopes that the voting adults of Floyd County will have learned the lessons of its recent history so that the next generation of children will not be condemned to repeat them.

Democracy is in trouble if the people of Eastern Kentucky continue to shun the polls on Election Day. According to statistics, only 32.8 percent of the voters went to the polls last May. 8,421 citizens are not registered to vote in our area.

Yes, democracy is in trouble if citizens fail to register and fail to vote. All citizens should remember that freedom didn't come easy to our founding fathers. We can lose our freedom as easily as we have gotten it. We are free only because our forefathers valued freedom, and sacrificed for it.

Ask yourself, do we deserve freedom?

Vote on November 6.

Editor:

With references to Kathleen Carroll's article regarding taking responsibility for one's action, I agree wholeheartedly, people should take responsibility for their actions. Very few people do these days. Responsibility for actions is as far as I go.

Jimmy Carter wasn't reelected because he allowed our military strength to become so weak that the communist forces in the world were just waiting to walk right in. He also gave away the Panama Canal which weakened our position there.

The trade deficit comes when we buy more outside our country than at home. Why? Because the prices of goods are so much cheaper. I buy American whenever I can and the prices are becoming very competitive with foreign markets. Thank God!

Just after President Reagan was elected I lived in England. I couldn't tell you the number of people who asked why the American people would elect a president and allow his wife and mother to run the country. They were, of course, referring to Carter. Most people liked President Carter but he often received bad advice, especially from his wife and mother.

When President Reagan strengthened our weak defense forces he had to make up for Carter's bumbling. If anyone thinks that Russia or most countries, especially in Europe and Asia, are impressed by military weakness they are badly mistaken and know nothing about the world around them.

I am not opposed to taxing the wealthy. Keep in mind "big business" employs the majority of people in this country.

I was amused at the statement that President Bush didn't fire Gen. Dugan. I believe this was Mr. Cheney's responsibility and he took care of the business at hand.

I believe we are on the brink of war because Kuwait has been invaded by a very powerful madman, Hussein of Iraq. If they take over any more oil rich countries, oil will trickle out at a very high cost. I wonder, if those people objecting to our troops going to Saudi Arabia won't be the first to complain about higher gas prices. England, who has oil in the north sea, pays nearly four dollars a gallon for gas. It could very easily happen in this country even with our oil in Texas, Oklahoma and Alaska.

The reason we have an energy crisis is simply Americans are very wasteful and use massive amounts of oil, gas, or their derivatives. When was the last time you walked anywhere instead of driving a car? We are all guilty.

I pray the Iraqi conflict will so be over without loss of lives, especially Americans.

We are not in this conflict alone. Most countries have contributed troops, finances and support.

In reference to education. It takes a student, teacher and parents to educate a child, working together for a common goal.

The Floyd County Times has, in the past, been a hometown newspaper. It has become very liberal. When I think of any of the news media, I am reminded of the old saying, "Believe nothing you hear (or read) and only half of what you see." I have the most respect for Cal Thomas for his straight forward reporting. Be nice to see his commentaries in your paper.

Believe it or not, I read Kathleen Carroll's article as soon as I get my paper. She challenges the mind, favorably and unfavorably.

Editor:

It is appropriate that a few serious comments be made relative to the location of a new high school.

There appears to be a considerable amount of dissatisfaction among people in our community as to why they were denied any input into the location of the new school — and with considerable justification. Should a new school be constructed — which is debatable — there are many serious points to ponder.

FIRST: Uppermost, and above all other considerations, is the issue of safety. The greater number of students, and the greater the distance traveled, increases the chance for serious accidents and the loss of human life.

SECOND: The school, as presently located, is very accommodating to the people and students of this community and in close proximity to the college for students who wish to participate in classes and activities offered to qualifying students by the college.

THIRD: BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS IN THIS TOWN, which are already suffering, will be adversely affected. These people who attend activities at the Prestonsburg High School will no longer be coming into town, in many instances, and patronizing local businesses and restaurant facilities. Businesses which are already hurting will suffer even more.

FOURTH: The increased cost of extending water and sewer facilities to the proposed "new location" on Middle Creek could much more wisely be spent in extending a "back-up" line to the Dewey Reservoir as a supplementary source of water in times of severe drought — as we experienced two years ago. It would also appear that the Superintendent of Prestonsburg City Utilities, Bill Harvey Howard, who over the years has done a fine job for the city, would have no alternative other than raise water and sewer rates for all residential users in an effort to offset the tremendous cost in extending these facilities to the proposed "new location."

FIFTH: The present high school, or one located in the Mayo Hollow, would be within easy access to both the fire and police departments should an occasion arise that requires their services.

SIXTH: The fact that the people were denied any participation, as a community, in the location of a new building site is most troubling. This is their community, their school, their children, and their money; they, and they alone, should have decided, working in full participation with the appropriate state officials, where the new high school is to be built. Or could it be that the School Board chose to keep the public in the dark — other than Tommy Boyd and Ray "Shag" Campbell who voted against building a school at the proposed new location — that the School Board was prepared to pay $400,000 for a piece of property that was purchased on October 24, 1985, for a sum of $55,000 — almost nine times what had been paid for the same property five years earlier? For verification check Deed Book No. 295, page 590.

All these matters deserve the most thoughtful and careful consideration.

Editor:

During the past weeks, the Chairman of the Board of Education has been spewing, hissing, and spreading rumors about what he will do to the strikers if he is reelected. This is called the game of threats and retaliation, played daily in the Floyd County school system. However, the key word is "if."

On election day, the voting booth is as private as a tomb, and in that privacy, a voter should vote his or her conscience. Let's take away the "if" and preserve the integrity of our teachers in District One. Let them teach without an "if" being held over their heads. Put democracy back into the hands of the people and do away with current dictatorship.

Our teachers work each day to the tune of accountability. Now is the time for the voters to be accountable to the children. Someone once said that all it takes for corruption to prevail is for a few good men (or women) to sit and do nothing.

Remember in November — Do Some Soul Searching. Vote!

State to monitor election activities

With a U.S. Senate race, school board contests, legislative elections, and heated local ballot issues, "there is, unfortunately, a high potential for vote fraud activity during the upcoming November 6 election," according to Attorney General Fred Cowan. To prevent as much illegal activity as possible, investigative teams from the Attorney General's office will again visit polling places throughout the state on election day.

"Although we like to keep the bad guys guessing and not disclose exactly where we'll be, it's safe to say that we will have more investigators in more places than in any election since the reform laws of 1988 went into effect," Cowan said.

In addition, vote fraud will be targeted at the federal level as well. Cowan says Louis DeFalaise, U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky and other officials have announced that their agencies will be closely coordinating with the election fraud efforts of the Attorney General's office in the coming election.

Cowan said decisions on where to place the Attorney General's monitoring teams were made in response to calls and written requests from citizens and local officials, the need to have a statewide presence, and based on knowledge of certain "hot spot" areas where the potential for election violations is high.

In conjunction with the monitoring teams, the Election Fraud Hotline will also be available for citizens to report any suspected violations.

The Hotline, which was established as part of the 1988 election reform laws, "allows Kentuckians to be directly involved in the effort to clean up elections," according to Cowan. Complaints and allegations of wrongdoing received on the Hotline can be directed to the Attorney General's investigators in the field or to the Kentucky State Police Post nearest the area in question. The hotline has received nearly 1,400 calls during the past four elections. The Hotline (1-800-328-VOTE) is available year-round but will be staffed longer hours, 5:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on election day.

This will be the fifth statewide election since the election reform laws took effect in July, 1988. According to Cowan, his office has conducted vote fraud investigations in 66 counties.

Pre-school program to begin

Within the next two to three weeks, at risk four year-olds in Floyd County should be able to attend a new half-day pre-school program offered by the Floyd County Board of Education.

Children who were four years of age before October 1 are eligible to attend this year. Pre-school centers have been set-up at Betsy Layne, Clark, Garrett, Osborne, Prestonsburg and Stumbo elementaries. Children from all parts of the county, who are eligible to participate in the program, will be provided transportation to and from schools, breakfast and lunch, and will participate daily in programs designed to develop their physical, mental and social skills.

"Because it is the first year and space is limited, four year-olds have to be from low income families and qualify for free lunch to be eligible," said Robert Davidson, supervisor for the board of education. "The program is being funded by a state grant and next year we hope to offer the program to three, four and five year-olds."

The number of students who are expected to qualify for the program is 129, Davidson said. The number is determined by a survey of students who qualify for free lunch in kindergarten. It was determined that 309 students were eligible but the Head Start program has an enrollment of 180 students. The grant will be used to fund the 129 positions not served by Head Start, Davidson said.

"It's going to be exciting," Davidson said. "The only problem will be finding those 129 students who are eligible to participate."

For additional information contact Davidson at 886-2354 or the school principal. Applications for enrollment can be picked up at the school.

"Bank Shot" new game

The Kentucky lottery has announced their newest $1 instant ticket game, "Bank Shot." Orders for those tickets began on Friday, Oct. 26, and the game will be available for sale upon delivery. The ticket has four sets of basketballs in the "scratch area." Scratch off all the basketballs, and if your total score beats the "Lottery Score" in any game, you win the amount shown. A player may win more than once on each ticket.

Due to the unexpected sell out of "Aces High," the game is being made available earlier than scheduled to meet the instant ticket sale demands. "Sales for our instant tickets have happily surpassed our projections," said Larry Sipes, acting president.

Police fingerprint children during safe trick or treat night

Members of the Prestonsburg City Police Department performed fingerprinting services for approximately 150 children on Sunday as part of the "Safe Trick or Treat Night" held at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

Detective Sargent Jeff Stumbo, Chief Greg Hall, Assistant Chief Roy Roberts, Patrolman John Hunt and Sargent Gerald Clark worked with the children and parents to establish a permanent record of the children's identities.

"We urge all parents to have their child fingerprinted. Fingerprints can be very valuable to investigators if a child should happen to turn up missing," said Detective Jeff Stumbo. "We try to publicize when and where we will be offering fingerprinting services, but if anyone would like additional information on fingerprinting they can call us at the Prestonsburg Police Department."

Stumbo added that Assistant Police Chief Roberts and Sargent Clark have been very active with the fingerprinting program, having conducted similar activities at local stores and churches.

Hager said representatives from the board will attend the award ceremony, along with representatives from the schools who will be honored.

The ceremony will feature Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock, Dr. Betty Steffy and Dr. Dan Branham of the Kentucky Department of Education; and G. Ted Smith and Jim Daniel of the Kentucky Educational Foundation. Entertainment will be provided by Miss Lexington, Mary Dudley Manley, speech students from Warren East High School and the chorus from Franklin County High School.

The Flags of Excellence program recognizes schools with outstanding academic achievement. In order to receive a Flag of Excellence, a school must have less than a five percent dropout rate; show improvement in test scores; achieve 95 percent attendance or better or improve attendance by one percent; and correct major program and service accreditation deficiencies.

Other counties and area schools to be honored include the following: Pike, Knott, Martin and Lawrence counties; Salyersville Elementary in Magoffin County; Venters Branch Elementary in Martin County; Doran High School in Pike County; Flat Gap Elementary and Johnson Central High School in Johnson County;

Carr Creek Elementary in Knott County; Millard Hensley and Salyersville elementaries in Magoffin County; Ezel Elementary in Morgan County; Paintsville Middle School; and Jackson Rowe, Johns Creek, Kimper, Phelps and South Williamson elementaries, and Johns Creek High School in Pike County.

diagnosed in 1987 as having a "mass on his brain." The mass reportedly caused Stephens to suffer from seizures and severe paranoia. "He was apparently suffering from paranoia and was very afraid of people," Nelson said. "That would substantiate why he spent two to two and one half months in the hills away from people."

Before his death, Stephens had been seen by park rangers and campers who were apparently disturbed by the man's unkempt appearance.

Stephens' body was discovered October 12, by Floyd County Deputies who were searching for marijuana plants. The skeletal remains of the body were identified by a driver's license which was discovered with the body, and the identification was later verified by dental records.

TO THE VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION NO. 1

A board of education has been defined as a group of citizens who are concerned with the proper functioning of the school system.

To me, the important word in that definition is "concerned." A person who runs for a board of education knows that the job entails long hours, frustration, and little recognition. Indeed, in a pluralistic society, the concern of many groups often manifests itself in outcries against policies and programs proposed by board members. At such times, sitting on the board can be a frustrating and thankless experience.

It follows, therefore, that only someone who feels a deep and abiding concern for education; only someone who is dedicated to excellence and progress; only someone who has a need to give of himself for the good of others - only such a person would seek and be elected to a board of education.

Doug has served on the board for nineteen years. For the past seven years, he has served as chairman of that body. He is respected by educators and the general public for his concern and dedication to the youth of Floyd County.

I urge my friends and fellow citizens to vote for James D. "Doc" Adams on Tuesday, November 6. He is qualified to continue!

Interference call costly

Blackcats Squander Chances In 13-7 Loss To M.C. Napier

Interference call, plus Fumbles, plus Stopped on the one, adds up to a 13-7 loss. So it went for the Prestonsburg Blackcat's Friday night at M.C. Napier as the Navajos and Blackcats hooked up in an important District 2 contest. At stake: a playoff berth in the state playoffs next week. The result was a three way tie for the number two spot between Prestonsburg, M.C. Napier and Leslie County. All the Blackcats needed to do was win the remaining two district games (Morgan County comes to town Friday night) and the playoff spot would have been theirs. However, the Navajos played like they wanted to advance, while Prestonsburg struggled on offense. The defense teams for both squads were excellent.

The big play of the game came with the score tied at 7-7. On a third and six play from the Blackcats' 44 yard line, junior Mike Hopson intercepted a pass from Navajo quarterback Sam Mullins and returned the ball to the M. C. Napier 26 on what looked to be a clean interception. However, the officials called Hopson for pass interference much to the displeasure of Blackcat fans. The ball was moved on the call to the Prestonsburg 33 yard line for a Navajo first down, Steven Dixon moved to the 29 on a four yard gain. On a third and eight situation, Mullins hit Dixon off the right side for a 29 yard touchdown pass that put the Navajos ahead to stay 13-7. The extra point attempt was blocked.

Prestonsburg was not without their chances after the interference call. Following the ensuing kick off, the Blackcats finally looked like a team that wanted to go on in the playoffs. With the ball on the Blackcats' 45 yard line, a flag on first down play against M. C. Napier for a personal foul put the ball on the Navajos' 40.

Prestonsburg began grinding it out on the ground behind the running of Johns Goble and Hopson. The Blackcats moved the ball to the 16 yard line where Goble picked up ten yards to the Napier 6. Hopson carried to the 4 yard line on a first down play. On the next carry, Goble was brought down at the 2 yard line, where Napier was called for a face masking moving the football half the distance to the 1 yard line. On a fourth and goal play, Goble was handed the ball and a clear hole to the goal line on a sweep to the right. A Navajo defender came out of the end zone and stopped Goble a foot short of the goal line stalling the drive as Napier took over on downs.

With 2:07 remaining in the game, Dixon moved out to the 15 yard line of Napier. An off sides call against Prestonsburg moved the ball to the 20. Lark Begley had a thirteen yard run to the 34 yard line. On first down from the 34, Dixon fumbled the football and Prestonsburg recovered the fumble with one more chance to win the game. That chance was shortlived as Blackcat quarterback John Clark faded back and let go with a pass to Worthie McGuire that was intercepted on the M. C. Napier 1 yard line ending the Blackcats' hopes of pulling off the win.

Prestonsburg took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter off of a Napier turnover. After Mullins hit Begley with a 31 yard pass, Todd Goodman recovered a Navajo fumble on Napier's 38 yard line with 2:13 left in the period.

Goodman picked up eight yards on a carry and Jonathan Leslie followed with a four yard gainer and a first down. Goble carried for gains of eight and eleven yards moving the ball to the Napier 6 yard line. On second and goal, Goble crossed the goal line to pay dirt for the touchdown. Jason "Golden Toe" Storey added the extra point.

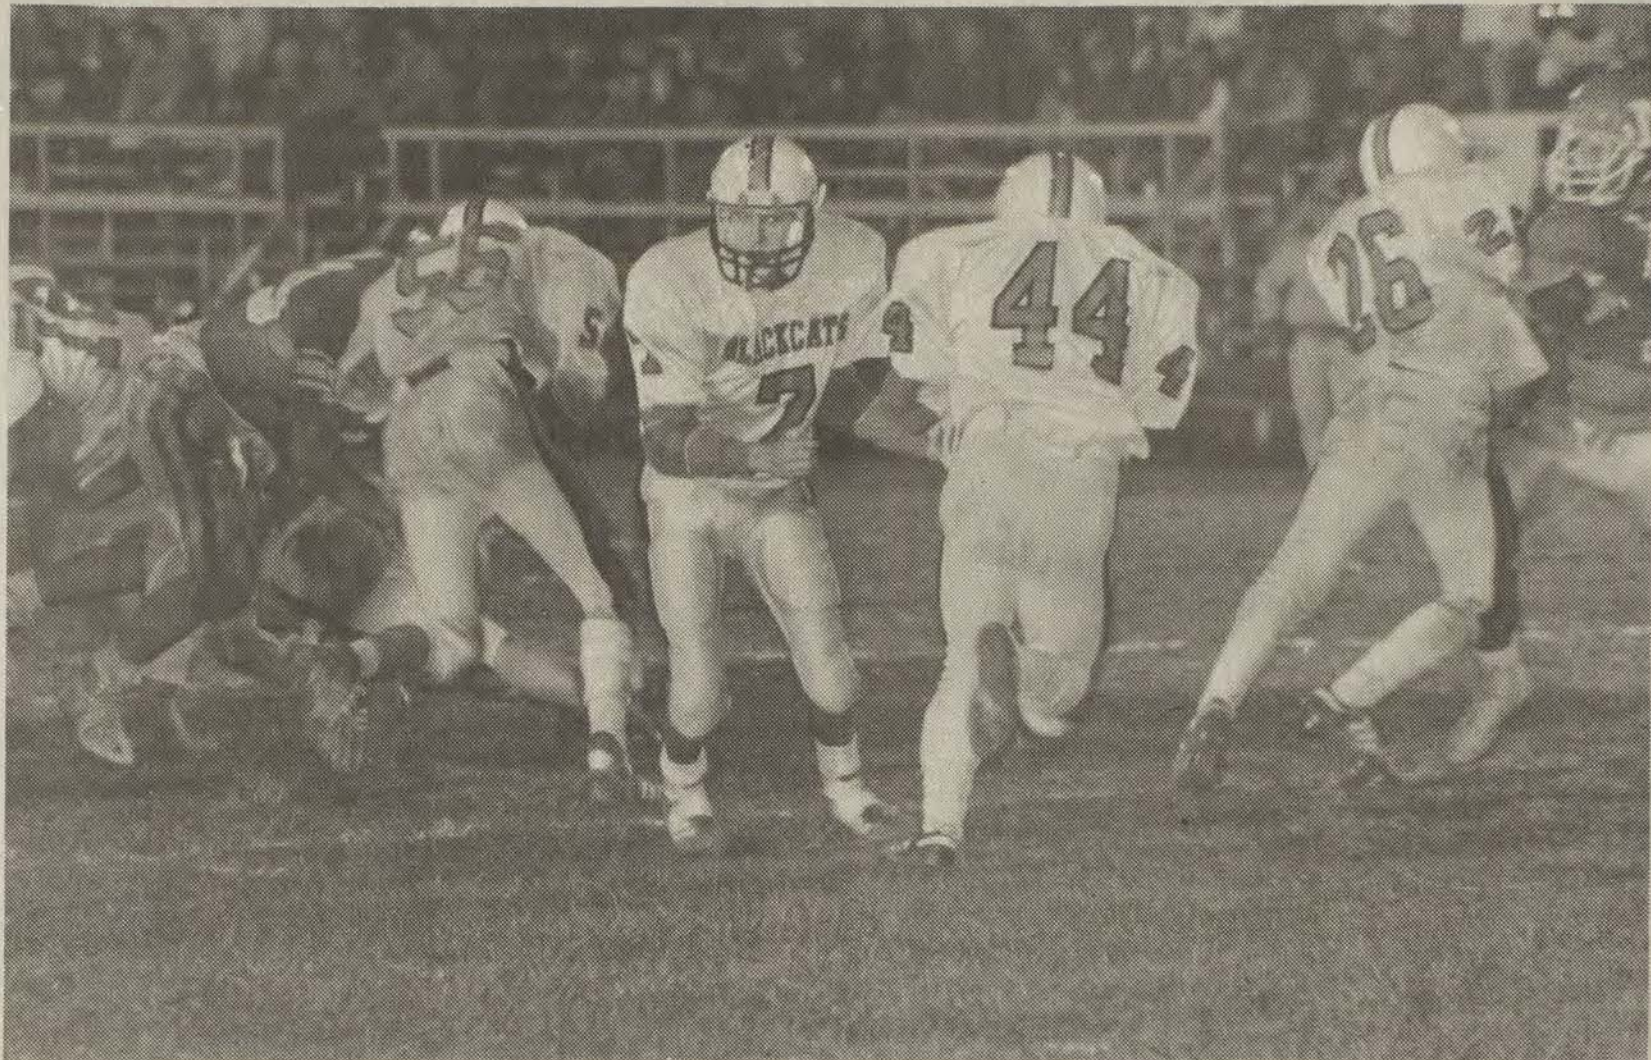

The Navajos tied the game at 7-7 on a touchdown by Dixon with 1:19 remaining in the second quarter. Dixon carried the ball on the first two plays of the drive, and was stopped on two good tackles by Aaron Stepp. On third and ten, Dixon crossed up the Blackcats' defense with a pass play that was good for 22 yards and a first down. Behind the running of Dixon, Napier moved the ball to the Blackcat 1 where Dixon scored. The extra point was good.

Prestonsburg's defense arose to a challenge before the half ended. Prestonsburg took the football on their own 21 yard line, and on first down fumbled the ball which was recovered by Napier. With 58 seconds remaining, the Navajos moved to the Prestonsburg 3. On a second and three, Dixon was stopped a yard short of a touchdown as the half ended with the running star lying on the ground with his arms stretched as far as possible but still short of the score. The Blackcat defense held at a very crucial time in the game.

The way the playoff picture stacks up after the loss, if the Blackcats defeat Morgan County this Friday night at home, the Cats will advance, if they lose then Leslie County (who Prestonsburg defeated) will get the second district spot. So a lot will be riding on Friday night's game.

Dixon amassed 141 yards rushing on 26 carries for Napier. The Navajos

Allen Central Captures Fourth In Row With 30-12 Win Over MMI

Saturday afternoon at Millersburg Military Institute, the Allen Central Rebels football team set two new school records, by winning four in a row and by winning their fifth game in a season. The previous most wins by a Rebel football team was set at four by the 1988 and 1989 Rebel teams. This year the 1990 Rebels are 5-5 after a 30-12 victory over MMI.

Senior running back Tommy Gibson continues to pile up the yards, as well as touchdowns, as the hard running back rushed for 210 on 25 carries, scored three touchdowns and two conversions to lead his team to victory.

"Tommy didn't even have a touchdown until the KSD game," said his coach Dewey Jamerson. Gibson scored three touchdowns in that game has been on a tear since then. In the first quarter against the Millersburg Military Institute, Gibson scored on a ten yard run that capped off a 53 yard drive by the Rebels. Gibson scored the two-point conversion to make it 8-0.

Millersburg came right back with a score of their own when on the ensuing kick off, they returned the football 75 yards for a touchdown.

"They just took the ball and went all the way untouched," explained Jamerson of the long run. "I don't know how they did it, but they did."

Allen Central came right back, playing with confidence thinking they can score with each possession of the ball, and made the score 16-6 on a pass play action from B. J. Aldrich to Robert Jervis for 35 yards. Gibson ran the two-point conversion for the Rebels.

"We scored on the first two possessions we had," remarked Jamerson. "We kept the football most of the first half. But they had that long run back on us and then they also scored on their second possession."

MMI put six more points on the scoreboard in the second period on a fifteen yard run. Again the conversion was no good as the Rebels went into the locker room at half time with a 16-12 lead.

"We didn't look good in the first half," the Rebel mentor explained. "We just didn't play that well at all." In the third period, Gibson struck again on a run from ten yards out to make the score 22-12 as the extra point attempt failed. A good defensive effort by the Rebels held the host team at bay as the Rebels became more and more confident as the game went on.

Gibson finished the scoring with a fifteen yard run in the fourth quarter to go ahead 30-12 after the conversion run by Aldrich.

Allen Central rushed for 343 yards on the ground led by Gibson's 210. Todd Lucas ran for 39 yards on six carries and Jamie Rister had 34 yards on four carries.

Jamie Clark, who did not play all that much because of suffering from a previous ankle injury, had 23 yards on just three attempts. Aldrich carried four times for 22 yards. Aldrich was one for three in the passing department, the lone completion a 35 yard touch down pass to end Robert Jervis.

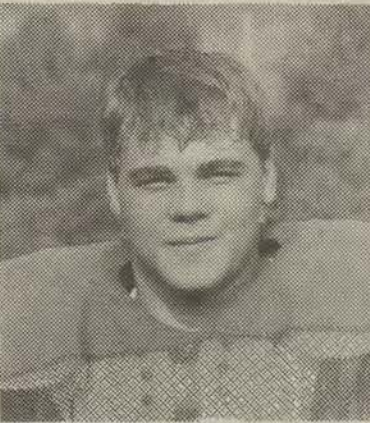

Brian Wallen led the Rebels defense with three solo hits, eight assists and a block field goal attempt. Tim Slone had four solo hits, six assists and recovered one fumble. Chuck Clark had nine assists on defense for the Rebels. Jamie Rister had four solos and four assists while Robert Jervis collected three solos, four assists and had one sack. Steve Bailey had a one sack, three solos and one assist on defense. Shawn Bailey had three assists in the game. Senior Brett Meadows had a good defensive afternoon with three solo hits and five assists.

"If we can win our last game and have a winning season it will be a big boost to our football program here at Allen Central," said Jamerson. "I told our seniors if they want to do something for this program when they leave here, just win the last game."

The Rebels will have a chance to establish yet another record when they face the Betsy Layne Bobcats this Friday night at Betsy Layne in the season final for both schools. A victory over the Bobcats, who has yet to win a game, would give Allen Central a winning season (6-5) something the school hasn't been able to accomplish in football before.

"We want to have a winning season," Jamerson says.

Magoffin County Closes Season With 20-0 Win Over Wheelwright

Magoffin County elected to travel to Wheelwright Thursday night to play the Trojans, in what would have been a home game for the Hornets but, due to recent rains, the Hornet's football field could not be used.

The game, originally scheduled in Magoffin County Saturday afternoon, had to be moved to Wheelwright because the low lying field was flooded.

However, the Hornets played like they were at home in a shutout over the Trojans 20-0, behind the running and scoring of Hornet's fullback Brian Osborne. Osborne carried the ball 25 times for 116 yards giving him 1,115 yards in his high school career. Osborne scored all three touchdowns and ran for one conversion.

When you look at the total offense figures for both teams, Magoffin County did not have much more total yardage than the Trojans. The difference in the game was in the turnover department. Wheelwright turned the ball over three times — two interceptions and a fumble.

Osborne scored his first touchdown off an interception with 10:31 remaining in the second quarter. On a second down play from the Hornets 33-yard line, Trojan quarterback Steven Johnson went deep to Bryan Rhea when Osborne intercepted and returned it 46 yards for the score. The conversion play failed.

The Trojans had good field position on the kickoff, taking the ball to their own 40-yard line. Wheelwright drove inside the Magoffin County 30, behind the running of Ryan "the Speedster" Johnson and Mike "Power Train" Justice.

However, on a third-and-seven, Steve Shelton seemed to have the open field on a handoff from Johnson, but lost his footing on the slippery field and the ball was downed. The Trojans were forced to punt and it was the turning point for the Trojans.

Magoffin County took the ball and moved into Trojan territory to the 15-yard line. Hornet quarterback Terry Traylor carried for 12 yards and Osborne powered his way into the end zone from 3-yards out. Osborne then ran the extra point for a 14-0 Hornet lead.

With 1:34 remaining in the half, Wheelwright was facing a third-and-twenty-six, when Ryan Johnson picked up 14 yards with the clock moving. On fourth down, Steven Johnson's pass was intercepted by David Gibson to stop the drive as the time expired.

Wheelwright committed its third turnover in the third period with 7:34 to play. On a second-and-eleven, Johnson hit Bryan Rhea on a short pass for 2 yards, but Rhea fumbled the football on the Magoffin County 48, where the Hornets recovered.

Magoffin County marched to the Trojan's 5-yard line, where Osborne scored his third TD of the game to make it 20-0, with 11:52 remaining in the game. The drive covered 52 yards on 13 plays and took 6:51 seconds to complete. The touchdown was Osborne's 17th TD of the season and he has ran 32 conversion plays.

The Trojans knocked on the Hornet's door with their next possession. Johnson hit freshman standout Arnold Adams for an 8-yard pass and then hooked up with Adams on a 33-yard pass play. Ryan Johnson gained 5 yards and Mike Justice picked up a

SHELDON CLARK HEADS AND SHOULDERS ABOVE THE 15TH REGION GIRLS

There is no doubt in the mind of basketball fans around the Fifteenth Region as to who is number one in the preseason rankings of girls basketball. When you talk about a team that is head and shoulders above everyone else you have to figure it will be the Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals of coach Robin Harmon and that is because of 6'1" Ida Bowen, standout center for the Lady Card, who stands "head and shoulders" above everybody else. The Lady Cards are the number one team in the Fifteenth Region. The number two spot goes to coach B.J. Elswick's Lady Cougars of Elkhorn City. The Lady Cougars lost Stacey Spake and Kari Belcher, but returns Julie Belcher, Donna Deel and Dana Deel. Also coming back for the Lady Cougars will be 6-0, Samantha Cook who was a big reason the Lady Cougars went to the semifinals of the state tournament last year.

With the consolidation of Virgie and Dorton, to form Shelby Valley, the Valley team gets the clear spot for number three. The Dorton team of Bobby Spears last year was one of the top teams in the Fifteenth. This year combining with the Virgie Lady Eagles of last season will make the a legitimate contender for the regional crown. Connie Rowe and Tara Bentley will join the likes of Jodi Baker and Melissa Collier from Dorton to form a very strong team.

Allyson Preece and Melissa Coleman will find the fourth spot for Phelps not to easy hold, but still gets our pick for fourth place. When you talk about upcoming talent blended with experience you do not have to look any farther than the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats. Coach Bridget Clay's squad will be back with a talented freshman squad of last year that has grown up after a year on the hardwood. However, the young talent is not the reason for being optimistic about this team. Senior Kathy Slone, 21.0 per game last year as well as ten rebounds would make any coach thing positive about the upcoming season.

Not overlooking another loaded girls team will be coach Bonita Compton's Allen Central Lady Rebels. The center position vacated by the loss of Jo Ann Conn, will be the hardest spot for the coach to fill. However, everything else seems to be there, speed, quickness, and scoring for a number six ranking in the region. Teresa Gibson, Stacey Moore and Darrella Bradley (their apparent to Conn) will lead a young sophomore dominated team on to the floor, namely, Jenny Yates who could be the quickest player in the region.

Pikeville gets the number seven rating with a returning cast that has experience plus knows how to play defense, something you don't see in girls basketball a whole lot. Teresa Lockhart and LaTonya Anderson returns for the Lady Panthers. McDowell will be the surprise of the Fifteenth Region this season as senior Lori Bryant returns to lead the Lady Daredevils of coach Cassandra Keathley. Jenny Slone, who can on strong for the Lady Devils last season also will return with a healthy start. Michelle Cook and Kristi Pack will help the Lady Daredevils also. This is a talented team at McDowell and with a coach that knows the game it could be a successful one.

The Paintsville Lady Tigers will hold down the number nine position with the Betsy Layne Bobcats a very close tenth position.

Believe this will be the toughest Fifteenth Region in girls basketball than we have seen for a while.

Next Wednesday's column we want to look at some of the top eighth grade basketball players on both girls and boys teams in Floyd County. Future columns will deal with the upcoming basketball season overall. It should be a good one. I'm ready. Until Friday, good sports. Always, always be good sports! You will always be a winner if you do.

HEAD UP A CREEK TO CATCH AUTUMN BASS

Autumn is the one time of year when bass fishermen don't mind being caught up a creek without a paddle.

That's because creeks are prime places to catch largemouth bass this time of year. The fish are moving shallow, they're feeding heavily, and they actively chase fast moving lures.

"Fall is really my favorite time of year to fish," says Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler David Wharton, a well-known tournament pro and former guide on Sam Rayburn Lake in Texas. "Bass are both easier to find and to catch because they're in predictable locations and usually feeding pretty aggressively."

Wharton suggests anglers begin looking for autumn bass in major lake tributaries, and concentrate first around shallow vegetation along the edges of channels.

"Begin your fishing in the mouth of a big creek," said Wharton, "and gradually fish your way back. Bass will be located in a distinct area of the creek, depending upon how far they've moved into it. Once you locate this area, you'll usually find bass in the same area in other creeks, too."

Wharton looks first for vegetation like milfoil, lily pads, moss, or weeds that may grow along the shoreline and extend out into deeper water. In the absence of vegetation, Wharton concentrates on stumps, fallen logs or bushes.

"The availability of cover is extremely important in locating bass in these creeks," Wharton points out, "because the fish are feeding heavily on baitfish. The bait will invariably be in or near the cover.

"That's why vegetation is such a good place to look. The greenery attracts and holds small minnows because it provides both food and cover for them. At the same time, bass use the grass for their own hide-and-ambush tactics."

Spinnerbaits are the lure of choice for fishing autumn creeks, says Wharton, because they can be worked shallow or deep, fast or slow, and are basically weedless around thick, heavy cover.

"I will usually begin with a chartreuse and white spinnerbait with a single size five silver willowleaf blade," he explains, "and I'll ripple it just under the surface around the cover."

"Later in the day, or if bass hit and continually miss the lure, I'll fish it slower and deeper. I let the fish tell me how they want it."

Fall is also an excellent time to catch trophy bass, said Wharton. Big bass, which are normally far less active than smaller bass, also begin feeding more heavily this time of year and become more susceptible to artificial lures.

Trojan first down on an 8-yard run, moving the ball down into Hornet territory. On first down, Johnson lofted a pass to Rhea that was intercepted in the end zone by Osborne, his second of the game. The big full-back returned the ball to the Wheelwright 22-yard line. The drive stalled out for the Hornets because of the defensive play of James Branham and Robbie Wright.

Wheelwright had the last possession of the game and during the drive the Trojans were flagged for three personal fouls. Ryan Johnson had a 6-yard pickup on first down, and on a carry by Adams, the Trojans were called for their first personal foul. On the next play, a pass play, another personal foul was called.

Facing second-and-twenty-nine, Steven Johnson hit Wright with a pass for 18 yards. On third down, a third personal was called. Justice picked up 10-yards on the last play of the game.

Magoffin County totaled 216 yards offensively, rushing for 162 yards. Traylor was 1-3 in the passing department for 54 yards. The Hornets fumbled the football once with Osborne recovering. Magoffin County was penalized 20 yards on two calls.

For Wheelwright, Justice carried 13 times for 50 yards. Ryan Johnson had 46 yards on 13 carries and Adams finished with 35 yards on eight attempts. The Trojans had 137 yards rushing and Steven Johnson was 7-14 passing for 73 yards, giving the Trojans a total offense of 210 yards. Wheelwright was penalized four times for 40 yards.

Magoffin County closes their season with a 7-3 record and Wheelwright falls to 1-9 with the final regular season game this Friday night at Elkhorn City.

Shannon, Shelton To Play For Mountaineers This Season

Two former McDowell High School graduates — Dickie Joe Shannon and Keith Shelton — are members of the Berea College mens basketball team this season.

Shannon, a 6-1, 205 pound sophomore guard, begins his second season as a Mountaineer. A business major at Berea, Shannon is the son of Donald and Carlotta Shannon of Printer. Shannon was part of the "dynamic duo" guard tandem that led the Daredevils basketball team to the 58th District title in 1988-89 basketball season. Shannon teamed with Henry Webb (now at Alice Lloyd) at the guard position to form the best guard combination in the fifteenth region.

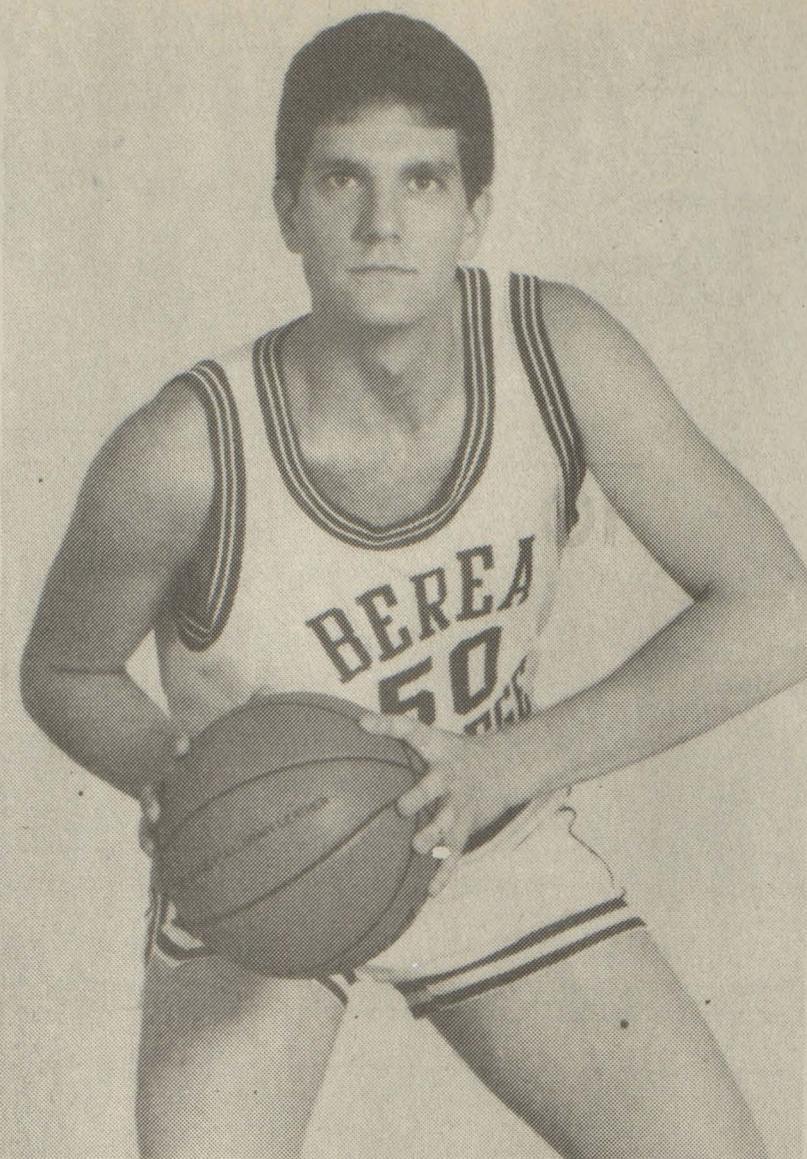

Shelton, a 6-6, 204 pound freshman center, also is a business major. He is the son of Eddie and Alice Shelton of McDowell. Shelton, was part of the Daredevil team last season that was runners-up to Allen Central in last season's district tournament. Shelton tossed in 44 points in a game against Greenup County last year and was a major force in the Daredevils upset win over the highly regarded Pikeville Panthers in last year's fifteenth Regional tournament.

The Mountaineers are coached by Roland Wierwille who begins his 19th season at Berea with an overall record of 285-203. Last year's squad finished with an overall record of 11-13.

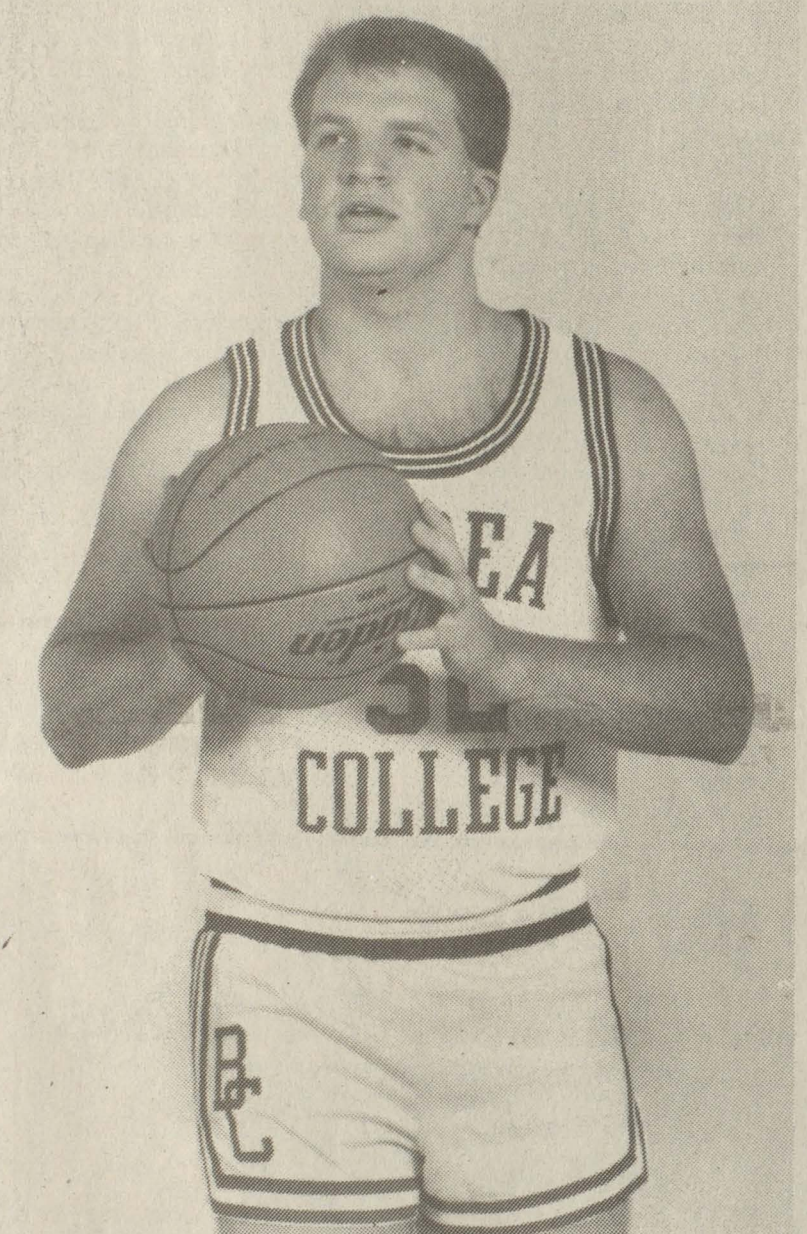

Over the years, Coach Wierwille's teams have won three KIAC (Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletics Conference) titles, one NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) District 32 title and, in 1985, made an appearance in the NAIA National playoffs in Kansas City. Wierwille's players have won all-conference honors on 29 occasions and all-district honors eighteen times.

Assisting Wierwille will be Berea graduate and veteran basketball player Craig Jefferson. This is Jefferson's second season as assistant coach.

P'Burg JVs Rolls Past Previous Undefeated Johnson Central, 28-18

The Johnson Central Golden Eagle junior varsity football team was undefeated last week, but lost their first game after facing the Prestonsburg Blackcats. Blackcat Seth Hyden scored two touchdowns to lead Prestonsburg to a startling 28-18 win.

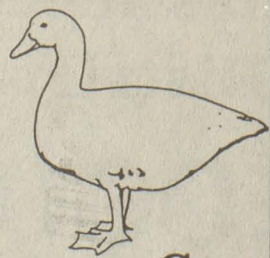

Prestonsburg, who also defeated

Belfry's junior varsity squad earlier this year, got scoring out of Dwayne Garza and quarterback Jason Crisp. Both players each scored a two-point conversion in the game.

The JV Blackcats are a talented unit and the future of Blackcat football looks to be solid for the upcoming year.

Panthers unbeaten

Betsy Layne JVs Fall To Pikeville, 34-14

It has been another successful football season for the Pikeville Junior Varsity Panthers. As a matter of fact, it has been a successful past three seasons for the Pike County team. The junior varsity team has remained undefeated for the past three seasons as they finished the current year at 5-0.

Monday night at the W.C. Hamby Athletic Complex in Pikeville, the junior Panthers rolled to a 34-14 victory over the Betsy Layne Bobcats. The Panthers took an early lead and led all the way, posting their fifth victory of the season.

Pikeville scored on their second possession of the game, a drive that covered 54 yards in seven plays. Jason McCoy carried the ball 35 yards for a touchdown with 3:26 left in the first quarter. Shane Vanhoose passed to Steve Kreutzer for the two point conversion as Pikeville led 8-0.

The Panthers wasted no time in scoring in the second period on another long drive that went 63 yards. It took the Panthers just five plays to cover the distance, with the score set up on a 29 yard run by McCoy. Nathan Elswick scored the touchdown on a four yard run with 9:53 remaining in the half to give Pikeville a 14-0 lead.

The Panthers made it 20-0 when Shannon Cochran grabbed a Betsy Layne fumble and scooted 60 yards into the end zone for a touchdown with 2:26 remaining in the half. But the Panthers were not through in the half. With only 35 seconds remaining in the half, Kreutzer took a Vanhoose pass for 42 yards and a touchdown to give the Panthers a 26-0 lead.

The Bobcats scored on the final play of the half when Doug Hammond scored on a 47 yard run. Bobby Wise ran the two point conversion and it was 26-8 at the half. The Bobcat score was set up by 23 yard run by James Keathley.

Betsy Layne scored their final touchdown in the third quarter when Hammond darted in from 22 yards out with 4:35 remaining in the period. The score came off of a rare Pikeville turnover.

The game's final touchdown was scored by Pikeville's McCoy with 2:21 left on a 10 yard run. Vanhoose passed to Kreutzer for the two point conversion to make the final score 34-14.

Pikeville picked up thirteen first downs and carried the ball 32 times for 168 yards rushing. Vanhoose two for seven in the passing department for 69 yards. The Panthers fumbled the football once and lost possession. Pikeville was penalized twenty yards on two flags.

For Betsy Layne, the Bobcats collected six first downs and carried the football 38 times for 207 yards rushing. Betsy Layne was 0 for five, passing for zero yardage. The Bobcats lost the ball on two fumbles and were penalized twenty yards on four calls.

Bulldogs Go To 10-0; Bobcats Falls To 0-10 In 37-6 Loss

While the Lawrence County Bulldogs continue to win football games the Betsy Layne Bobcats continue to lose football games. Friday night at Lawrence County the Bulldogs notched their tenth win without a defeat as they came away with a 37-6 victory over the visiting Bobcats.

What so amazing about this win for Lawrence County is that they ran only seven, yes seven, offensive plays to build a 30-6 lead over Betsy Layne in the homecoming night victory.

Webb Roberts led the Bulldogs attack rushing for 100 yards on two carries including a eighty yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Eric Cantrell gave the Bulldogs their first lead at 6-0 on a twelve yard touch down run in the first quarter. Travis Phelps added the two-point conversion to make it 8-0.

After Roberts eighty yard jaunt, Howard Adams carried the football 47 yards on a end around sweep and Phelps added the two extra points for a 22-0 blitz. Betsy Layne put six points on the scoreboard when Bobby Wise scored from fifteen yards out, before the first quarter ended. Lawrence County held a 30-6 half time lead as Jay Childers scored from one yard out and Phelps hit Steve Alley with a conversion pass.

Neither team could score in the third quarter as Lawrence County coach Billy Goldsmith began to substitute freely. Roger Lyons topped off the Bulldogs scoring with a 1 yard run in the fourth quarter. Roberts kicked the extra point for Lawrence County.

The previous best season for the Bulldogs was in 1988 when they went 9-2. The 10-0 record is the best in school history, and the Bulldogs are not even competing for a district title this year.

Betsy Layne, will look to salvage a win out of the otherwise disappointing season as they host the Allen Central Rebels in a intracounty game. The Rebels are the hottest team in the county as they have won their last four games.

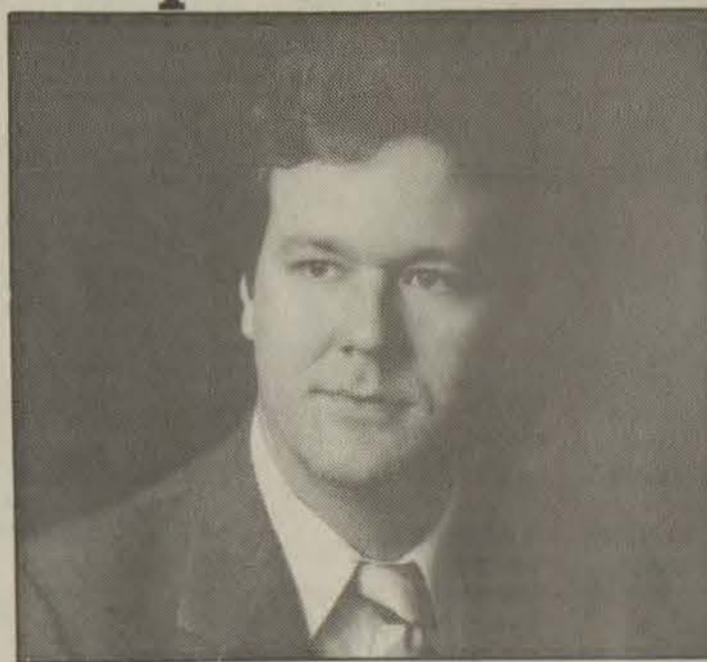

Betsy Layne will be looking to break two streaks in the match up — a ten game losing streak of their own and Central's four game winning streak.

Hunting Continues At Fort Knox

More than forty deer have already been taken by area bow and arrow hunters in this year's hunt on the Fort Knox military reservation. Post officials are hopeful that the continued good conditions at the fort — plus the fact that an additional weekend has been added to the deer season for hunters using shotguns and muzzle loaders — will make 1990 the best year yet.

Fort Knox Hunt Control officials recently announced the dates for this year's hunt, which added one more weekend for local gun hunters to get that elusive prize buck. More than 87,000 acres of the post will be open to hunters November 24-25, December 1-2, 8-9 and 15-16; bow season continues through November 18.

Officials say those selected for gun hunting permits from the more than 5,000 applications received this year will be notified by mail in early to mid-November.

To find out more about hunting on Fort Knox, call (502) 624-7311 or 624-2712, or write: Hunt Control, 9333 French Range, Fort Knox, KY 40121-5000.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

Charles Campbell

How do you choose the right depth finder and where do you mount it for best performance?

For high speed navigation, mount the unit on the console with the transducer on the transom or inside the hull if you have a fiberglass boat. This unit can be a liquid crystal with a digital depth readout or a flasher. Some like to install an in-dash when there is room on the console. Liquid crystal units can serve a dual purpose. Good high speed navigation, plus detail charting at slow speed.

A high resolution unit as a liquid crystal with a good fish identification feature works best on the bow of the boat. The transducer should be mounted on the foot of the trolling motor. Remember this is the unit you'll use 90% of your fishing day.

The Floyd County School District is beginning a new half-day pre-school program for four (4) year old children at the following schools:

- BETSY LAYNE ELEMENTARY
- GARRETT ELEMENTARY
- PRESTONSBURG ELEMENTARY
- CLARK ELEMENTARY
- OSBORNE ELEMENTARY
- STUMBO ELEMENTARY

Children who were four years of age before October 1 are eligible to attend this year. However, because of limited space, preference will be given to children who qualify for participation in the district's school food service program.

There is no charge for participation in the program. Children will be transported to and from schools, provided breakfast and lunch, and participate daily in programs to develop their physical, mental and social skills before entering Kindergarten next year. This is a great opportunity to help your child get a good start in school.

For additional information, please contact Mrs. Roberta Davidson, Supervisor, Floyd County Board of Education at 886-2354 or the school principal. Applications for enrollment may be picked up at school.

COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS

Auburn tied Tennessee, 26-26; Tennessee obliterated Florida, 45-3; Florida hosts Auburn Saturday. In all probability, the loser will be out of the race for the Southeast Conference title. The Tigers nipped the Gators last fall, 10-7, on their way to their three-way tie for the championship. Auburn looks to be too strong for Florida again.

Colorado beat Nebraska last year 27-21. That completed the all important necessity for Buffalo victories over both Oklahoma and the Cornhuskers. Colorado went on to win the Big Eight title. Nebraska is at home against Buffalo Saturday, and it will be difficult for them to beat the Big Red in their own backyard. Our pick, Nebraska.

The game of the day in the "basketball conference," the Atlantic Coast Conference, matches Georgia Tech and Virginia. The undefeated Cavaliers are at home. Through the first seven games of the season the Orange and Blue of Virginia has rolled up 337 points, giving up only 80. Their powerful offense will be difficult for Georgia Tech to control. The Cavaliers edged Tech last fall, 17-10, and Virginia should win again.

The winner of Saturday's biggie in the Big Ten in Champaign, Illinois, between the Illini and Iowa will have the inside track to the conference title and Rose Bowl. Should the Hawkeyes win, the schedule would favor them at home against both Ohio State and Purdue. Illinois must travel to Michigan and Indiana before finishing at home against Northwestern. First things first. The winner in this feature, Illinois.

In the Southwest Conference last fall, Houston's Cougars ate up the Frogs of T.C.U. 55-10. This year, the Frogs have more bite in their horns having already bombed Arkansas, last year's champion 54-26. However, the Cougars are at home and are favored.

Finally, in the Pac-10, the powerful Washington Huskies are favored over Arizona in Seattle and will vie for the league title and Rose Bowl host.

WHAT'S THE OUTLOOK?

It's been a good year for Kentucky's deer herd and hunters across the commonwealth can expect a successful 1990 season.

The general gun season for deer is open November 10-19, except in Zone 6 where the season closes after November 14.

John Phillips, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, says this year's harvest could exceed expectations. "We've had adequate rainfall this year which has produced abundant ground vegetation — and we've not seen abnormally extreme weather conditions. We've had a good fawn crop."

Phillips labels the herd in the Western two-thirds of the state "stable." The only exception is Zone 1 (Livingston, Crittenden, Webster and Logan counties) where population numbers are up considerably. "To maintain the balance necessary to assure a healthy herd, we need a good harvest in Zone 1," said Phillips.

Phillips says the largest increases in herd and harvest will be in Eastern Kentucky.

Initial reports indicate that the deer harvest for Kentucky's bowhunters will be up slightly this season. And, although the numbers aren't yet in, it's expected that muzzle-loading enthusiasts enjoyed a similarly successful harvest during their two day "early" season.

THE IMPORTANCE OF DEER HUNTING

Deer hunters play a vital role in Kentucky's deer herd management program.

To assure a proper balance and a healthy future population, it is necessary to remove a calculated number of does and bucks from the herd each year. Both man and deer benefit from good stewardship of wildlife populations.

Deer harvest regulations are the result of careful study and are tailored for each particular region (harvest zone). That is why all hunters are required to check their deer at check stations. Knowing how many deer were out there at the start, and how many were harvested, a wildlife biologist can accurately project how many will need to be taken next season in order to maintain acceptable populations.

Left unchecked, Kentucky's deer population would "explode" from its current post-harvest level of about 300,000 to over 2.5 million — in less than five years. The effect on man, animal, land and food supplies would be devastating.

Intelligent population control and use of a wildlife resource is essential in today's world. And through conservation and wildlife management, we have the proven capability to mold "the nature of things" into a realistically livable situation.

Practical experience and scientific research consistently point to controlled sport hunting as the most favorable and fundamental method of successful deer management. Anything less than responsible care of the deer herd and making sure damage and waste is kept to a minimum, is completely unacceptable to both wildlife managers and the public they serve.

NEW THIS YEAR

The 1990 General Assembly passed several new laws which affect deer hunters in Kentucky.

Some of these new laws have to do with the wearing of hunter orange, obtaining written permission to hunt, shooting across roadways and spotlighting.

Hunters should also remember that zone locations and harvest regulations change can change annually. What was a Zone 1 county in 1989 may be a Zone 2 county in 1990.

The 1990-91 KENTUCKY DEER HUNTING GUIDE provides general explanations of new statutes affecting deer hunters and discusses the most common violations. These booklets are available where hunting licenses and deer tags are sold.

A deer hunter without his deer guide is "unarmed."

ODDS ARE....

Did you ever wonder what the chances are of being selected once you have applied for a deer quota hunt?

As you might expect, the odds vary from area to area and range from better than "even money" bets to "long shots."

The "long shots" include Yellow-bank Wildlife Management Area (WMA) and Dewey Lake WMA where, because of the high number of applications, the chances of being drawn are just slightly better than one in ten.

On the other hand, it's a better than "even money" bet that hunters applying for quota hunts at Grayson Lake, West Kentucky or Peabody/White City WMAs will be selected.

LICENSE REQUIREMENTS

All persons who are required to purchase a hunting license are also required to purchase a deer permit before hunting whitetails in Kentucky.

On the flip side, those who are exempt from purchasing licenses are also exempt from purchasing deer tags.

No one, however, is exempt from tagging and checking harvested deer at an authorized check station. Estimates are that 25 percent of otherwise legally harvested deer are never brought to a deer check station.

Generally speaking, persons who do not need hunting licenses or deer tags include: Kentucky residents hunting on their own lands, tenant farmers hunting upon farmland where they reside and work, Kentucky residents 65 years of age or older, Kentucky residents on military furlough, Kentucky residents who are certified totally and permanently disabled and Kentucky resident veterans who are permanently and fifty percent disabled as the result of military-related injuries. (For complete legal wording refer to KRS 150.170).

All hunters, regardless of their license status, must personally check their deer at a check station, no exceptions. And, that deer must be tagged.

Hunters who are exempt from purchasing deer tags must attach a card or piece of paper giving their name, address, date taken, and location. All deer must be tagged — even if with a homemade tag — before the carcass is moved.

JAW RETURN PROGRAM

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is encouraging deer hunters to participate in its "jaw return" program.

Those who participate will receive a free hunter orange KDF&WR "Co-Operator" cap.

To qualify for the free cap, hunters must remove the lower left jaw from the harvested deer, clean it, let it air dry for a couple of days and return it to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Pre-addressed jaw return envelopes are available at deer check stations.

Wildlife biologists gain valuable information by studying the returned jaw bones. The data generated is an important part of Kentucky's deer management program.

PROMOTING BETTER LANDOWNER RELATIONS

Hunters everywhere are becoming increasingly concerned with "posted" lands and the difficulty in finding places to hunt.

One idea for developing better landowner relations might be "share the bounty." If you wish to hunt on an individual's property, offer a portion of the venison. And don't dump a side of meat on that person's front porch, have it professionally cut and wrapped. That landowner will remember your generosity — and you will likely be welcome to return next season.

If the property owner has no interest in the deer meat, suggest that you will donate his share to a charitable organization involved with feeding the hungry. This concept is becoming increasingly popular with sportsmen's groups across the commonwealth.

Owners private property hold the key to the future of all sport hunting and hunters would do well to take advantage of every opportunity to cultivate better landowner relations.

Harold, Betsy Layne Girls Split Two Games

The Harold Lady Red Devils and Betsy Layne Lady Cats squared off twice in a three day period, splitting the two games at the Betsy Layne gym.

In Friday night encounter, the Lady Cats blitzed the shorthanded Lady Devils 67-26. Jamie Ratcliff, one of the county's outstanding eighth graders, scored 30 points to lead the Lady Cats in scoring. Misty Clark and Amanda Eplin each added twelve points.

Betsy Layne built a ten point advantage, 21-11 after one quarter of play and rolled out to a 37-15 half time lead.

Jessica Hamilton tossed in fourteen points for Harold and Kelli Stanley added seven points.

In a rematch of the two teams played Monday night, also at Betsy Layne, coach Eddie Rose's team placed three players in double figures as they avenged the earlier loss, coming away with a 43-46 victory over the Lady Cats.

Kelli Stanley tossed in sixteen points to lead the Lady Devils in scoring. Jessica Hamilton added eleven and Melinda Gearheart tossed in ten, forming a balanced attack for the Lady Devils.

Jamie Ratcliff led Betsy Layne with thirteen points while Misty Clark netted eleven.

"We were without Jennifer Damron in the first game Friday night," said the Harold coach. "She doesn't score a lot of points but she can play defense. And that was the difference in the game."

The game was close throughout until the Lady Devils built a ten point lead late in the fourth period. The score was tied at 18-18 at the half and Harold hung to a three point advantage at the third stop.

"Jessica (Hamilton) and Melanie (Gearheart) played an excellent game for us," said Rose.

Betsy Layne (36): Jamie Ratcliff, 13; Misty Clark, 11; Amanda Eplin, 6; Misty Reynolds, 2; Jessica Hamilton, 4 at Harold (43): Jessica Hamilton, 11; Melinda Gearheart, 10; Jennifer Damron, 2; Ashley Bartley, 4; Kelli Stanley, 16.

Betsy Layne Bobcats Edges Mullins 39-36 Behind Newsome's 10 Points

The Betsy Layne Bobcats defeated a stubborn Mullins Grade school boys basketball team last week 39-36 for their fourth win of the season. Ryan Newsome tossed in ten points to lead the Bobcats in scoring and Jeremy Rogers added nine points.

The Bobcats had to come from behind in order to receive the win. Trailing 21-17, the Bobcats came back behind the scoring of Newsome and Randy Wallen. With the score tied at 33-33, Newsome grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck the ball back in with 2:09 left to give the Bobcats a 35-33 lead. Nathan Hinkle tied the score with a short jumper. But on a short jumper Newsome put the Bobcats back on top. Randy Wallen then stole the ball and hit a jump shot that made the score 39-35. Justin Harris finished off the scoring with nine seconds to go by hitting a free throw to give the final margin.

Besides Newsome's ten points and Rogers' nine, Wallen finished with five points and Jason Hall had six. Justin Harris led the Mullins Tigers in scoring with fifteen points. Chad Coleman added night points.

In the "B" team game, Nathan Hinkle scored ten of sixteen points in the second half to spark Mullins to a 32-20 win over Betsy Layne. The game was tied at half time 12-12.

Rodney Hamilton led the Betsy Layne junior team with nine points and Anthony Kizer added seven points while Mike Hunt scored four.

Mullins (36): Justin Harris, 6 3-6 15; Scott Battistello, 1 0-0 2; Chad Coleman, 4 1-2 9; Jamie Hamilton, 2 0-0 4; Nathan Hinkle, 2 0-0 4; Brian Hurley, 1 0-0 2 at Betsy Layne (39): Wesley Frazier, 3 0-0 6; Randy Wallen, 2 1-2 5; Mike Hunt, 1 1-2 3; Jason Hall, 3 0-0 6; Ryan Newsome, 4 1-2 10; Jeremy Rogers, 3 3-9 9

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

It was almost Halloween.....

by Tim B. Preston

The handful of residents who had been left alone by the ghouls roaming the once quiet streets of their small town huddled together now. Clinging to each other in hope of an end to this long day. An end, which would somehow see those who survived through the night.

The day had begun on an odd note they remembered. Nearly everyone who gathered to collect the morning mail talked of the sleepless night they had spent, and the low pitched wail which was only audible to those on the edge of the quiet little town. Little was made of the night before however, and soon the talk in the post office lobby settled to the standard conversations of weather and leaves turning color. Two men spent nearly an hour arguing about the merits of putting plastic over windows on the inside of the home or the outside.

Just a normal October day in a small town.

The first sighting of the ghouls, as they would come to be known, was shortly before noon.

Local barber Melvin Colms was enjoying a midday walk which he felt was long overdue. Business in the shop was incredibly slow this morning and Melvin thought that the day was perfect to begin the program of walking and exercise his doctor had recommended after his last hospital stay. Little did Melvin know that the beginning of his new exercise program would mark the end of his days.

As he walked past the alley between the local pool hall and a small jewelry store he noticed a glimmering in the darkened alleyway. Initially Melvin thought nothing of it, "Probably a piece of tinsel or some other garbage" he thought. Curiosity however, soon overcame the barber and he walked into the unnaturally dim passageway.

No one, including Melvin, saw the clawed hand as it grabbed the barber's head and twisted it off in one fluid motion.

As things go in any small town, it was not long before the body was discovered and the local police moved in to analyze the situation.

The alley was cordoned off with the bright yellow "Police Line - Do Not Cross" ribbon, and patrolmen, detectives and fire officials speculated about the cause and time of death. The real question on everyone's mind was, "Where is the head that goes with this body?" The local police chief and city detective agreed that the state police should be called in to investigate.

The chief was just about to relay an order to a patrolman when he noticed that the collective group of police and firemen were surrounded by foul smelling creatures who seemed to be giggling and laughing like residents of a home for the unstable.

For whatever reason, the chief could not see the faces of those who surrounded him. Only their foul stench registered in his brain. By the time he realized that the creatures meant the group harm, it was far too late. The smallest of the creatures leaped into the crowd of officers and slaughtered four men before the others could react. The remaining ghouls followed suit and relieved the officers and detectives of their worldly problems.

The group of people who had gathered behind the police-line ribbons saw nothing.

One officer had been working to control the crowd stood with his back to the melee of horror, after three hours of standing guard he walked into the crime scene to find the decapitated bodies of 18 men. Ten were officers he had worked with for years, and he recognized the badge numbers and the firearms of his friends. He stumbled to his knees and lost his breakfast when he realized that the men had been mutilated and murdered without so much as a single gun shot to warn others.

The crowd which had gathered near the ribbon had slowly disappeared as the time dragged on without so much as the sight of a single policeman. A few hardcore townies with nothing better to do anyway remained at the sight.

They were shocked when the lone policeman came screaming and running out of the alley. Behind him were six darkened figures.

The officer turned to see the figures in pursuit and withdrew his revolver from its holster. Some of his fellow officers had often ridiculed him for carrying such a high caliber weapon, or small cannon as they teasingly said, but right now he was so happy to have the big gun that he confidently spun around on one foot and fired two slugs into the torso of the creature closest to him. If its face could have been seen, the officer would have noticed the smile on the ghoul's face as he sank his claws deep into the patrolman's belly.

Two or three of the hardcore watchers immediately turned and ran in terror, others who stood staring in disbelief were claimed by the ghouls.

Within thirty minutes the town was ablaze with stories of ten foot tall ghouls who eat the heads of humans. Many were scared, most discarded the stories as Halloween fantasy.

Those who had seen and those who believed the stories gathered in the basement of the local post office. After all it was the only fallout shelter in town.

Stocked with canned food, crackers and shotguns they huddled for warmth and security behind the bolted steel door. Occasionally there would be sounds from above them which were unlike anything they had ever heard, filling their hearts with fear. After a week in their self imposed exile, shortages of food and water forced the group to elect someone to gather the courage to leave the shelter and find provisions. The fear among the group was tangible as they realized that although many people knew they were there, none had come to say "stay" or "go".

Eventually Bill Manson, who was the oldest man in the group volunteered to leave the security of the shelter. Less than one hour later Manson came back and knocked on the heavy steel door. As the door opened and those inside peered out expectantly, the old man simply turned and walked up the stairs leading to the street.

The others, having no idea what to make of the old man's actions simply followed him out into the sunlight.

As their eyes adjusted to the bright sun they looked with horror at the display left behind by the ghouls.

More than 200 slightly decomposed human heads which had been crudely aligned to spell three human words.....

TRICK OR TREAT.

There is now a small town in this state where children do not dress as ghosts and goblins and adults do not decorate pumpkins and buy candy. Although the night of the ghouls was never completely investigated, and certainly never solved, those who chose to remain still choose the last days of October as the time when the family will pack up the car and leave town.

The few who now gather to wait for the morning's mail to be put in their boxes don't talk about the visit by the abominations, nor do they even think about it.

The new town barber is patronized by the old men and young boys who do not need or want the fancy styles and foams offered at the local beauty parlor. The new barber is a nice enough guy, but no one seems to befriend him.

The story is much the same for the new police chief, a one time patrolman who had moved away from the city, living somewhere in upper Washington during the visit by the ghouls.

Otherwise things have settled back to the usual small town pace. It has been years since the incident and many people have taken advantage of the low cost of new homes in the town.

It is late October. A low hum can be heard on the outskirts of town..... No one sleeps well.

Must be Halloween night

by Tom J. DeRossett
Van Lear

No one was in the house but me
A scary show was on TV
Loud screams came from outside
Lord, sure must be Halloween night

I took a peek out the door window
There at the gate was a white glow
Couldn't see much in the shallow light
Lord, sure must be Halloween night

Went to the phone to call next door
That old phone was dead for sure
On and Off went the hallway light
Lord, sure must be Halloween night

The door bell rang and rang
Them old shutters went bang, slap, bang
Outside, October wind blew just a might
Lord, sure must be Halloween night

I kept hearing someone say "Wake up!"
Well, if that don't beat all the luck
I dreamed up a pretty good fright
But you know tomorrow is Halloween night!

Wait till Martin comes,

a Halloween story

An old man was out for a walk. When a storm came up, he looked for a place to take shelter. Soon he came to an old house. He ran up on the porch and knocked on the door, but nobody answered.

By now rain was pouring down, thunder was booming and lightning was flashing. So he tried the door. When he found it was unlocked, he went inside.

Except for a pile of wooden boxes, the house was empty. He broke up some of the boxes and made a fire with them. Then he sat down in front of the fire and dried himself. It was so warm and cozy that he fell asleep.

When he woke up a black cat was sitting near the fire. It stared at him for awhile. Then it purred. "That's a nice cat," he thought, and he dozed off again.

When he opened his eyes, there was a second cat in the room. But, this one was as big as a wolf. It looked at him very closely and said, "Shall we do it now?"

"No," said the other cat. "Let's wait till Martin Comes."

"I must be dreaming," thought the old man. He closed his eyes again. Then he took another look.

Now there was a third cat in the room, and this one was as big as a tiger. It looked the old man over, and it asked, "Shall we do it now?"

"No," said the others. "Let's wait till Martin comes."

The old man jumped up, jumped out the window and started running. "When Martin comes, you tell him I couldn't wait," he called.

Aaron Kelly's Bones

Aaron Kelly was dead. They bought him a coffin, had a funeral and buried him.

But that night he got out of his coffin, and he came home. His family was sitting around the fire when he walked in.

He sat down next to his widow and said, "What's going on? You all act like somebody died. Who's dead?" His widow said, "You are."

"I don't feel dead," he said. "I feel fine."

"You don't look fine," his widow said. "You look dead. You'd better get back to the grave where you belong."

"I'm not going back to the grave until I feel dead," he said.

Since Aaron wouldn't go back, his widow couldn't collect his life insurance. Without that, she couldn't pay for the coffin, and the undertaker said he would take it back.

Aaron didn't care. He just sat by the fire rocking in a chair and warming his hands and feet. But, his joints were dry and his back was stiff, and everytime he moved, he creaked and cracked.

One night, the best fiddler in town came to court the widow. Since Aaron was dead, he wanted to marry her. The two of them sat on one side of the fire, and Aaron sat on the other side, creaking and cracking.

"How long do we have to put up with this dead corpse?" asked the widow.

"Something must be done," agreed the fiddler. "This isn't very jolly," Aaron said. "Let's dance!"

The fiddler got out his fiddle and began to play. Aaron stretched himself, shook himself, and began dancing.

With his old bones rattling and his yellow teeth snapping and his bald head wagging and his arms flip flopping, around the room he went.

How that dead man danced! But pretty soon a bone worked loose and fell to the floor.

Look at that!" said the fiddler.

"Play faster," said the widow.

The fiddler played faster.

The dead man kept dancing and the bones started popping out onto the floor.

"Play, man, play!" said the excited widow.

The fiddler fiddled and dead Aaron danced. The Aaron fell apart, collapsed into a pile of bones, all except his bald headbone that grinned at the fiddler, clacked its teeth and kept dancing.

"Ho, Ho," said the headbone. "Ain't we having fun!"

The fiddler couldn't stand it. "Widow," he said. "I'm going home," and he never came back.

The family gathered up Aaron's bones and put them back in the coffin. They mixed them up so that he couldn't fit them back together. After that, Aaron stayed in his grave.

But his widow never did get married again. Aaron had seen to that!

The Ghost with Bloody Fingers

A businessman arrived at a hotel late one night and asked for a room. The room clerk told him the hotel was all filled up. "There is only one empty room," he said. "But we don't rent that one because it is haunted."

"I'll take it," said the businessman. "I don't believe in ghosts."

The man went up to the room. He unpacked his things, and he went to bed. As soon as he did, a ghost came out of the closet. Its fingers were bleeding, and it was moaning, "Bloody fingers! Bloody fingers!"

When the man saw the ghost, he grabbed his things and ran.

The next night a woman arrived very late. Again, all the rooms were taken except the haunted room.

"I'll sleep there," she said. "I'm not afraid of ghosts."

As soon as she got into bed, the ghost came out of the closet. Its fingers were still bleeding. It still was moaning, "Bloody fingers! Bloody fingers!" and the woman took one look and ran.

A week later another guest arrived very late. He also took the haunted room.

After he unpacked, he got out his guitar and he began to play. Soon the ghost appeared. As before, its fingers were bleeding, and it was moaning, "Bloody fingers! Bloody fingers!"

The man paid no attention. He just kept strumming his guitar. But the ghost kept moaning, and its fingers kept bleeding.

Finally, the guitar player looked up. "Cool it, man!" he said. "Get yourself a Band-Aid."

The Hearse Song

Don't you ever laugh as the hearse goes by,
For you may be the next to die.
They wrap you up in a big white sheet
From your head down to your feet.
They put you in a big black box
And cover you up with dirt and rocks.
All goes well for about a week,
Then your coffin begins to leak.
The worms crawl in, the worms crawl out,
The worms play pinochle on your snout.
They eat your eyes, they eat your nose,
They eat the jelly between your toes.
A big green worm with rolling eyes
Crawls in your stomach and out your eyes.
Your stomach turns a slimy green,
And pus pours out like whipping cream.
You spread it on a slice of bread,
And that's what you eat when you are dead.

Progressive board

Members of the executive board of Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center were pleased to learn that the center was named number one in Kentucky, saying, "Now you know what we have always known." ## Medicine aid transition to smooth job hunt for AFDC recipients

Under Kentucky's welfare reform plan, immediate loss of Medicaid coverage will no longer hinder Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) recipients trying to break the welfare cycle.

Effective October 1, families may receive up to twelve months of Transitional Medical Assistance after their AFDC benefits are discontinued due to increased earnings from employment.

"As AFDC recipients reenter the working world, medical and insurance expenses are a shock," said Commissioner Roy Butler of the Department for Medicaid Services. "This program will give them a chance to get back on their feet and an incentive to keep working."

"Nearly 11,000 Kentuckians, whose medical aid would have been cut off when they were disqualified for AFDC, will now have a smoother transition into full time employment," Butler said.

Transitional Medical Assistance is part of Kentucky's welfare reform plan and is intended to aid AFDC recipients' successful move into the work force.

If a family loses AFDC benefits because of an increase in earnings or hours of employment that pushes their income over assistance limits, the plan continues their Medicaid coverage. Additionally, the family must have received AFDC benefits three of the preceding six months and have a dependent child up to 18 years of age living in the home.

"This program will make a big difference for people with children," Butler said, "because they won't have to immediately devote their new income to a child's medical care while the family is learning to stand on its own."

Participants in the program must adhere to a strict income reporting schedule to remain eligible. During the first six months, continuation of benefits is automatic if a child lives in the home and if recipients report gross earnings and actual child care costs.

During the second six months, child care costs are deducted from earnings and if the total exceeds 185 percent of the federal poverty level for that family size, benefits may be discontinued.

In cases when AFDC benefits are lost because of an increase in child or spousal support, the family may get medical assistance for four months after AFDC payments have ceased.

Eligible clients are automatically enrolled in Transitional Medical Assistance and notified about the program when their AFDC benefits cease.

"The number of participants will rise each month as new people are approved for the program," Butler said. "During the first year, the program will cost about $3.7 million. And by October 1992, when it reaches full implementation, the cost will be about $9.1 million."

Ky. schools & hospitals save by saving energy

Kentucky schools and hospitals are reaping monetary benefits through energy-saving projects funded under the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet's Institutional Conservation Program

(ICP). A report compiled by the cabinet's Division of Energy, indicates an overall average savings of 25 percent after the installation of energy-saving projects such as new boilers, energy management systems, insulation, windows and other conservation measures. These institutions can utilize the dollar savings for other education and health care activities. The report listed 69 school districts with an average savings of 27 percent on 244 buildings. Twelve colleges and universities saved 26 percent on 44 buildings. Nonprofit schools saved eighteen percent on 27 buildings, and 25 hospital buildings reduced energy usage by 34 percent. Year-to-year weather differences were considered in compiling the report.

Public and private nonprofit school and hospital buildings completed prior to April 20, 1977, are eligible for matching ICP funds through Kentucky's Energy Assistance Trust fund and the U.S. Department of Energy.

School and hospital officials interested in more detailed information on this program can write James H. Noland Jr. or Betty Yates, Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Division of Energy, 691 Teton Trail, Frankfort, KY., or call them at (502) 564-7192.

Oh, no! Not Another Meeting!
by Robert E. Looney
Assistant Professor of Communication

Prestonsburg Community College
As we enter into the autumn of the year a great many things begin to happen. The leaves begin to engage in their technicolor display, we return our shorts and swimsuits to storage, the school year is well under way, and we start preparing for the little ghouls and goblins that will visit us at the end of this month. Also at this time we see people gathering to plan upcoming activities: holiday parties, reunions, quarterly and end-of-year reports, and projects for 1991. With the thoughts of these activities entering our minds, a shocking reality strikes us, "We're going to have to schedule a MEETING!"

Whether we are in a business which has to distribute information or if we are simply trying to plan an upcoming activity, we find ourselves in a position of having to organize a gathering. A gathering we ominously labeled a MEETING. This term can strike fear in the hearts of anyone who has endured a multitude of seemingly endless sessions which have been disguised as, "just another meeting." Visions of locations with no parking, scheduling conflicts, boredom, time consuming banter, meaningless discussion, and disorganized structure race through our minds as we realize another MEETING is at hand.

Although most of us have attended session where these nightmares have occurred, we want to be assured that nay gathering we plan will not be perceived in this manner. As insurance against such a negative reaction by our colleagues, we should follow three simple rules suggested by Professor Harry L. Ewbank, author of Meeting Management.

— Rule #1: Meet only when there is a specific purpose and when it is advantageous or desirable to solve problems and make decisions as a group.

— Rule #2: Meet with all (and only) those necessary to do the job.

— Rule #3: Plan and distribute an agenda well in advance of the meeting time.

If, after reviewing the meeting rules, we see the necessity of calling people together, we want to insure that our meeting is well conceived. To promote success there are several items to consider when planning the actual meeting. We must prepare for the location, day and time, special needs of the session, early notice, and goals to be accomplished during the meeting.

The first major factor is choosing the location of the session. The meeting can be anywhere: in an office, home, school, library, community room, or even a banquet hall. Try to find a location that is convenient to most people. Seek a location with plenty of parking, easily accessible, and comfortable for the people attending.

The more difficult task we will have is selecting a date and time. This step in planning requires some suggestions from people who will be attending. Strive to select days and times that most people can attend without conflict. Typical "bad days" for most meetings tend to be Monday, Friday, and Sunday. Look for a time which will allow most to attend and is sufficient enough in length to cover all the discussion items necessary.

When we have determined where and when the meeting will be held, notice must be given to the participants. Notification should be provided as early as possible so most persons may attend. A good method of notice is by either telephone or personal contact. Written notice is even better. Written notice provides a permanent record of when, where and what the meeting will contain.

Once the date and location are established and people are notified, we must prepare for any special needs we have for the meeting. Make sure that these are available well in advance of the meeting. Common needs are notepads, pencils, audio-visual equipment, chalkboards, tables, chairs, a podium, and the availability of refreshments (a necessity if the meeting will last long). If possible, organize such needs twenty to thirty minutes prior to the beginning of the meeting. Finally, for meeting success, give serious consideration to what should be accomplished in the course of the session. The key to a positive perception of our meeting is preparation. We should create an agenda that is accurate and that we are willing to follow exactly in order to keep the meeting on track. Give this step much thought and care, for it can make the difference between a successful gathering and one that people dread attending. One other suggestion here, allow a few minutes at the beginning of each meeting for people to get acquainted with one another. This brief socialization period helps the meeting begin on a positive, more comfortable note.

We should also take a few moments at the end of each meeting to assess the reaction of people attending. Find out if they liked the meeting. Were they comfortable. Did they feel the group was productive. And most importantly, do they have any suggestions for change.

The success of a meeting is often measured by the manner in which it is planned. We find ourselves either planning or participating in meetings virtually all the time. They do not have to be sessions that people want to avoid. Through careful consideration of the people attending, location, date, time, special needs, and tasks to be accomplished, our meetings can be successful.

Stephen E. Branham
Petty Officer 3rd Class, Navy

Richard A. Robinson,
Prestonsburg

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Stephen E. Branham, son of Steve Branham, Sr. of Betsy Layne, Ky., is currently deployed to the Middle East in support of Operation Desert Shield while serving aboard the battleship USS Wisconsin, homeported in Norfolk, Va. A 1987 graduate of Betsy Layne High School, Branham joined the navy in September 1987.

Operation Desert Shield is the largest deployment of United States military forces since Vietnam. The operation is in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and threat to Saudi Arabia.

On station in the Persian Gulf, Wisconsin will provide naval gunfire support to U.S. Marines upon their arrival in the region. Wisconsin's presence in the Gulf and her ability for sustained operations there send a clear message of security to the multinational force and an equally clear warning to Saddam Hussein.

Richard A. Robinson, of Prestonsburg, recently enlisted into the Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program, according to SSGT Huff, the local Air Force Recruiter.

Robinson, a 1988 graduate of Johnson Central High School, is scheduled for enlistment into the regular Air Force in March, 1991. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Tx., he will receive technical training in his designated career area.

Robinson will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the community college of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training school.

Series Fever

World Series fever has no doubt subsided a bit for the less ardent fans, but for the winning team and its devotees, coming down to earth will take a bit longer.

Having attended a few games at Riverfront Stadium, many of us in Eastern Kentucky considered the Reds to be our home team and it was a real thrill to see them win over the Oakland A's.

There were many highlights from the four games, but I keep remembering how Ricky Henderson talked to himself. Whether he hit a home run or struck out, he always discussed it with himself.

At least he came out better than

Red Sox Player Roger Clemens who talked to umpire Terry Cooney in the playoffs. Even if Henderson didn't agree with himself, he at least got to stay in the game.

Shortstop show

Walter McNeil of Pikeville is another sports fan who enjoyed the series, and it brought back memories of another game in another time.

Some years ago Leo Durocher was manager of the New York Giants and was having his problems with the team. His shortstop had wound up with the ball falling between his legs, three times in a row.

Durocher reprimanded the player. "Here," he said, "let me have the ball and I'll show you how to play shortstop." Then he, too, dropped the ball between his legs.

The Replay

I'll probably never watch a series game again without remembering a time when my father, Jack Sellards, was still living and we were watching a game along with my husband, Walter, and my brother, David Estill.

The year was 1980 and I don't even remember who was playing but the score was tied when a batter hit a home run that would put his team ahead.

So spectacular was the hit and so crucial to the final score that the camera crew repeated instant replays of the player running the bases.

My father didn't understand the replays — he just kept seeing the same batter going the same distance.

After watching the fourth time, he said, "I declare, I think they're going to run that little feller to death."

Last Word

Georgia Muncy is a dynamic lady who taught school in Pike County for several years. She's had a great impact on the lives of her students, and what she said was usually considered to be the last word.

When she began teaching, Bob Edmonds was one of her first students. Much later she taught Bob's daughter, Pam, and now Pam has a little girl, Katie Smith.

Georgia has retired from teaching and is working with the "Keep Pike Beautiful" program. Her schedule includes doing presentations for children's groups, and sometimes little Katie and her friends participate.

Assuming the role of Auntie Litter, Georgia does a puppet show that encourages keeping Pike County beautiful and clean. She makes her point as puppets, Jan and John, do a little chant that goes something like, "If you don't throw it down, you don't have to pick it up."

At home recently, Katie's mother asked her to pick up some scrap paper. "No," Katie answered, "I didn't throw it down."

"But what makes you think you're not to pick it up?"

"Because the Bible says so," Katie replied.

"The Bible does not say that," her

Looking for a friend

Another busy school year has begun for Kentucky's Children. A year of learning, making friends, attending school activities, and being part of a loving family. But not all children are so lucky. One such child is eight year-old Theron Christopher. Chris doesn't have a permanent, caring family. He is one of over two hundred and fifty children in Kentucky who wait to be adopted.

Chris is a healthy child who loves sports and whose future ambition is to be a truck driver or a policeman. He is working hard to overcome his oppositional behavior which is a result of his early years of neglect. This is especially hard for him as he is mildly mentally handicapped. Chris has worked hard and is currently being mainstreamed in a regular third grade class. He is on medication to control his hyperactivity and attention deficit disorder.

Chris can be very loving and appealing. He can, with the help of the right family, become all that he can be. For more information on Chris or on the other waiting children please call the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or your local Department for Social Services at 886-8192 or 324-4131.

GED vouchers available through Columbia Gas

Columbia Gas provided sixteen individuals in Floyd County an extra incentive to take their GED exam this year by making available, through a GED Foundation for Adult Education, free GED test vouchers. These vouchers were designated for individuals who have been pretested and have a financial need. In addition to the vouchers, Columbia Gas offered additional training with a Job Readiness Workshop for those individuals who successfully earned their GED with a Columbia Gas voucher.

MOUNTAIN TRANS-PLANTS
 By Clyde Pack

A few weeks ago, I received a clipping that a reader had cut from the Dayton Daily News entitled, "Uprooted Kentuckians recall flight to Fairborn."

What made the article of particular interest was that the "uprooted Kentuckians" discussed were from Meally, a little community stretching along Buffalo Creek on Route 40, three miles east of Paintsville.

The writer discussed several families from Meally that had moved to Fairborn, the first being that of an out-of-work coal miner in the late 1950s or early 1960s — the exact date wasn't clear — who chose this northern city as the place to seek employment because his wife's sister had lived there since the late 1940s.

The names of all the families mentioned were very familiar: Sammons, Muncy, Williams, Childers, Sisco and Preston. The Prestons were discussed a bit more in detail.

"A good estimate would be that at least 50 members of the Preston family moved to Fairborn — a number which today, with in-laws, children and grandchildren added on, would be considerably higher," the clipping stated.

By and large, the article was very complimentary — perhaps even a sort of tribute — to the Kentucky folks, implying that they were good, useful, hard-working members of the Ohio community who had helped Fairborn prosper economically "as factory workers, merchants, butchers, restaurateurs, real estate agents, civil service employees and construction workers."

The entire scenario is very familiar, though, because we've all experienced the loss of families and friends who migrated north to where the jobs were. Fairborn is just one city to have welcomed the willing workers from Eastern Kentucky's coal mining communities during that era. There were many more.

One that comes to mind is Wabash, Indiana. Even I worked there in the summer of 1965. My first job at the Celotex plant (actually in Lagro) found me on a work crew of seven men. Six of us were from Johnson County. The seventh was from Tennessee. I returned home that fall to continue teaching school. As far as I know, the others are still there.

And how about Mt. Vernon, Illinois? It was about that time — perhaps a little later — that half of Wheelwright moved there. Of course, these folks didn't go looking for work. They took their work with them because Inland Steel packed up and moved its operations to southern Illinois, and these folks went along.

So, while I suppose it is a bit unusual that so many people from Meally ended up in Fairborn, there's nothing at all unusual about finding large numbers of Eastern Kentuckians in large northern cities. The exodus from the mountains that began in the 1950s has continued all these years.

It's too bad, really, that folks with roots so deeply buried in mountain soil have been forced to transplant them elsewhere. The only good I can see from it all is that places like Fairborn and Wabash and Mt. Vernon, Illinois are a lot better off for having adopted these good ole hill-billy families.

Influenza—it can be prevented

The flu...it happens every winter. Chills, weakness, loss of appetite, aching of the head, back, arms, and legs. It is a contagious disease that affects the whole body. For healthy adults and children, the flu can be a moderately severe illness, with virtually all patients resuming normal activity within a week. But, according to the American Lung Association of Kentucky, flu can be life-threatening for certain individuals who are considered to be at "high risk."

Influenza and pneumonia combined have ranked as the sixth leading cause of death in the United States since 1979. At greatest risk from severe effects of the flu are the following groups: adults and children with chronic disorders of the cardiovascular or pulmonary systems, including children with asthma; residents of nursing homes or other chronic-care facilities; otherwise healthy individuals 65 years of age or older. Physicians, nurses, and other personnel who have contact with high risk patients, and providers of home care to high risk persons such as visiting nurses, as well as all household members, including children also need to be vaccinated because they can transmit influenza to high risk persons.

To be protected from the 1990-91 flu season, the American Lung Association of Kentucky recommends that high risk individuals consult their physicians about obtaining a flu shot between October 15 and November 15. "Flu shots have to be taken once a year since the virus strains change annually," said Robert W. Powell, M.D., President of the ALA of Kentucky. "Since the flu vaccine is made from inactivated viruses, no one can get influenza from receiving the flu shot."

If a person does get the flu, the usual device is to stay in bed and drink lots of fluids. The anti-viral drug Amantadine, available through a physician, is useful for treating someone who develops influenza A, particularly if it is given as soon as possible after the onset of the flu. Taken early, it can shorten the length of illness and reduce the severity of symptoms. Amantadine is also useful as a preventative for those unable to get a flu shot because of a severe allergy to eggs.

Pneumonia is the most common complication of the flu. Susceptible individuals, particularly those over 65 years of age, should ask their physician about the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine. Revaccination may be considered after three years for high risk children who received their initial vaccination when they were younger than five years of age, and after six years for older, very high risk individuals. This vaccine is reimbursable under Medicare.

"Flu and its complications can be prevented with early vaccination," said Dr. Powell. "All it takes is a visit to the doctor or health department!"

Information about flu and pneumonia can be obtained from the ALA of Kentucky by calling 1-800-366-LUNG.

A Friendly Face Where You Need It Most.

Tanya Skeens, the friendly face of Care Connection at UK Medical Center, working in support of Highlands' patients and staff.

U.K. MEDICAL CENTER. The doctor says you have no choice. Suddenly you're on your way. You don't doubt the medical treatment. But the trip is all so bewildering. There's a serious health problem or the fear of one. Maybe an emergency. The 128-odd miles of Mountain Parkway stretches to eternity. The City, The maze of streets. The sprawling medical complex. Finding the right building. Parking. Corridors. Elevators. Strange faces. Paperwork. The waiting. Seems like the whole family came along. But now it only adds to the confusion. How long will it be? What if we have to stay overnight?

Every year, thousands of Eastern Kentuckians are referred to Lexington through Highlands and our family physicians. We're concerned about your healthcare and we're concerned about the stress and the outright hardship of the trip. We're concerned, too, about your return home for critical follow-up care. The transfer of records and reports. The loss of valuable time.

That's why we created Care Connection, a patient representative — a friendly face — from Highlands at UK Medical Center. There to help you find your way. To help speed up the paperwork. To help ease the waiting and the worrying for patients and their families. To help physicians prepare for their patient's return.

Care Connection is a community service at no charge. It's part of a growing healthcare network for the greater convenience, comfort and continuity of care of our patients and our physicians.

Your doctor will give you a Care Connection handbook with maps and other vital information about Lexington. Once you're there, Care Connection takes care of you.

Smile Awhile

By Sara W. Hopson
TALLYHO!

Because I am an animal lover, I usually don't like to think about hunting season. Though I realize that overpopulation can lead to the starvation for many of my wildlife friends, I still cringe whenever I see wild-eyed doe eyes staring lifelessly back at me from the bed of a truck.

Whenever hunting season arrives, I think of the story George Auxier told about his daughters (Tammy and Carla) wanting to go squirrel hunting with him. One Saturday morning he relented and took them along. When he saw a squirrel sitting on a log, he aimed his rifle and shot, but as the squirrel fell backwards, the girls started screaming, "Daddy! You killed that little squirrel." Needless to say, the girls' never asked to go again.

Because I still feel the way Tammy and Carla felt about hunting then, I wasn't privy to the preparation that goes into this arduous sport until a friend of mine told me about helping her husband prepare for his annual deer hunting outing.

"Boy, what a weekend," my friend said, as she wearily strolled into my office and flopped down in a chair.

"Didn't get much rest, eh?" I asked.

"Are you kidding? Clyde went hunting Saturday."

"What's so hard about shooting a gun?" I said, innocently.

"That's the easy part. Getting ready to go takes all the work. I must have washed his camouflage outfit a hundred times before I got all the scent out."

"Killed a skunk last time, eh?"

"No, you have to wash the outfit with baking soda to get the human scent out. The outfit also has to be really soft so you won't make any restling noises and scare the animals away."

"You mean if the gun doesn't," I said, sarcastically.

"You obviously don't know how involved hunting is," she stated. "Hunting prey is no easy task. Why I even have to soak his rubber-soled boots in mink oil to make them waterproof before he puts the scent pads on them."

"What kind of scent does he put on his boots," I laughed, "eau de buckskin?"

"Don't be absurd. This weekend he's using 'doe-in-heat' scent."

"That'll drive the bucks wild," I hooted. "Is it expensive?"

"Are you kidding? We save pennies all year for this. Why the cassettes alone cost $40."

I was almost afraid to ask, but my curiosity got the best of me. "Okay, I'm game. What tapes?"

"Well, last year we got a set of tapes complete with instructions that mimicked the sound of a fawn in distress. Clyde got so good at impersonating one that a buck bounded out of the bush and propositioned him. It startled Clyde so that the buck got away before he could get a shot off, and it was a six-pointer."

"You've got to be kidding," I chided as tears of laughter started to run down my cheeks. "I can't believe he actually goes around making deer sounds."

"It's not funny, Sara," Suzanne said with an irritated edge to her voice. "There are several videos with different techniques which prepare the hunter for the things he has to face in the wild. You'd be surprised at the various products that are on the market. Did you know that fox urine is hard to obtain?"

"No kidding!" I exclaimed.

"Don't tell me that someone runs after the fox and makes him go in a cup! That couldn't be hard, it would be next to impossible."

"For a country girl, you sure don't know much about hunters," she said, as she glared at me. "Let me ask you something. Did you know that deer can detect ultraviolet rays?"

I stared back at her blankly.

"Aha! I knew you didn't. But deer hunters know this so they buy UV blocker spray - unscented of course - and douse themselves in it so the deer can't see them."

"Please," I protested.

"No, I want you to understand how serious a sport hunting is," she continued. "After Clyde has detoxed himself, painted his face, and hung his buck grunt over his head..."

"Wait a sec," I interrupted. "Just one question. What is a buck grunt?"

"Oh, it's used in combination with a set of fake or real deer antlers that you rattle to make the buck think there's a fight."

"What does it sound like?" I asked.

"Sort of like a subdued belch, but it works like a charm. Clyde told me that last year when he blew it, he barely had time to get up in his tree stand before a four-pointer appeared."

"What does he need with a tree stand?"

"True deer hunters never down a deer on the ground. They shimmy a tree and shoot at it from above."

"After all that, it seems that it would be less trouble and expense if he just rented a helicopter?" I shrieked with laughter.

"Don't be silly. How would he be able to detect a buck scrap from a helicopter?"

"I don't know," I answered.

"What's a buck scrap?"

"That's a buck rut. You pour doe urine in the scrap and..."

"I don't want to know," I said, quickly. "Just tell me one more thing, did Clyde catch anything?"

"Yeah, pneumonia and poison ivy," she whispered as she left the room.

Somehow I wasn't surprised.

"Let's Talk about Mental Health"

Today's world is very complex and fast-paced, with perhaps the only reliable future being change. Human beings often have trouble adapting to the type and amount of change going on around them. The stress of everyday living often causes anxiety and discomfort that is difficult to manage.

Generally speaking, when a person's reactions to life cause extreme discomfort, or when these unpleasant reactions or feelings last for more than a short period of time, professional help should be considered.

Anxiety is a common symptom of distress in one's personal life. Everyone develops coping mechanisms to deal with the stress of living. These coping methods become a fixed part of a person's style of relating to others. Often, people reach a point in life where there is more pain than pleasure, and they find themselves helpless to change the situation. This is when outside professional help is so important.

Psychological help covers a broad area. Psychologists are trained to provide a variety of services. These include psychotherapy, psychological assessment for emotional strength, intelligence level, vocational aptitude and neurological problems.

Psychological treatment can take a variety of forms. In general, the goal is to increase self-understanding and self-awareness as a means to encourage positive change. Sometimes change can be quickly attained through direct training in new behavioral skills.

Psychologists, through their understanding of how people learn, have developed a variety of behavior-modification techniques for rapid behavioral change. The learning of these techniques enables people to cope more effectively with their reality and more assuredly get from their lives what they want.

This mental health brief is brought to you by the Kentucky Association of Regional Programs, representing Mountain Comprehensive Care and the state's thirteen other private, non-profit community mental health centers.

Cost-effective energy design workshop set for Kentucky home builders association

A workshop that will examine cost-effective energy design measures is being held for Kentucky home builders, architects, and heating and air conditioning contractors on Thursday, Nov. 8, at the Capital Plaza Hotel in Frankfort. It is being sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Kentucky, the Division of Energy of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, the Kentucky Public Service Commission and a host of utility companies across the state. The workshop will focus on building guidelines that offer designs incorporating conservation, passive solar, and natural cooling.

The home buyer of the '90s probably will place more emphasis on energy efficiency when purchasing a new or used home. Energy-efficient features save utility dollars and usually offer more comfort, with fewer cold drafts and indoor temperature swings. The detailed guidelines in this workshop can better equip the competitive home builder in effectively communicating the cost benefits to the potential home buyer. The workshop will be conducted by Mike Nicklas, nationally recognized expert from Innovative Design Inc., Raleigh, N.C.

For more information about the workshop contact John M. Stapleton, Division of Energy, 691 Teton Trail, Frankfort, KY. 40601, telephone number (502) 564-7192.

Volunteer teens lend helping hand at Highlands Regional

By Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Highlands Regional Medical Center's volunteer teens have given new meaning to the word caring. Wearing their candy-striped uniforms, volunteer teens assist HRMC staff and patients with cheery smiles and lively steps.

The volunteer teen program began in early September, according to Cathy Allen, director, and already there are 22 active volunteers at the medical center and many more applications to process. The program is restricted to high school teens who possess a 2.5 grade point average. Volunteers are then selected through school references and personal interviews. The selection process takes about two weeks, depending on the references, according to Allen, who encourages teens to apply as volunteers.

Don Hicks, laboratory director, hopes the volunteer program will encourage teens to become laboratory technologists because there is currently a shortage of medical technologists in Kentucky hospitals. "Technologists are now being regulated. They must be qualified," Hicks said, explaining that technologists are leaving hospital laboratories for private doctor's offices.

Missy West, 17, who works as a volunteer in the lab, plans to become a lab technologist or a pathologist. West says she likes being a volunteer at HRMC. "I feel wanted," West said, adding that she also likes to watch the process of laboratory testing. West, who puts in about eight volunteer hours per week, plans to attend Prestonsburg Community College this fall and later transfer to Eastern. She is the daughter of Charles and Gay West of Allen.

Another laboratory volunteer, Heather Halfhill, whose mother is director of budgeting at the hospital, said her mother always talked about how busy the hospital was. "I had spare time. I wanted to help out," the 14-year-old freshman said, explaining that her volunteer hours do not interfere with her homework or her social life. Halfhill works Mondays, Wednesdays and occasional Saturdays, and returns home around 8 p.m.

Halfhill plans to pursue a career in law and thinks the volunteer work will "help with college references." Her duties in the lab include running errands, answering the phones, filing, and escorting patients to the lab. She is the daughter of Charles and Mary Halfhill of Prestonsburg.

Leann Farler, a volunteer nurse's assistant assigned to pediatrics, knew she wanted to go into the medical field when she was in the third grade. "I read and studied about physical therapy, and it seemed something I'd like to do," Farler said. The teen says she would be lost if she "didn't do things like this." Farler, 15-year-old daughter of Stan and Nellie Farler of Auxier, plans to try for a scholarship to Florida State University.

Her duties in pediatrics include getting ice cream, ice, and toys for patients. Farler said she also takes the small patients into the toy room where she tells them stories and talks with them.

Farler said the volunteer work is like a job. Volunteers are obligated to show up on time and to attend a certain shift. The volunteers are also required to wear a uniform for which they pay a $5 deposit. Volunteers may either wear a red and white striped dress or a cobbler style vest. According to Allen, the deposit will be returned when volunteers return the uniform to the hospital.

Enrolled in the volunteer program are Mary Allen, Stephanie Childers, Angie Collins, Jeri Charles, Allison Dunn, Susan Elkins, Leann Farler, Heather Halfhill, Glenda Holbrook, Teresa Honeycutt, Mandy Horn, Jeannie Hughes, Tammy Jenkins, Jennifer Lilly, Carey Moore, Stacy Powers, Chrystal Powers, Angaleena Presley, Jessica Ray, Kristal Vaughn, Lealice Wright, and Missy West. Volunteers Halfhill, West, and Farler seemed to have a cheerful attitude about their job. "When they (patients and staff) appreciate it, that's the best reward you can get, knowing you can help people," Farler said as she picked up yet another dropped toy to place into the reaching hands of an asthmatic infant.

Thank you!

There are so many of you that read this column about my Grandmother, and so graciously gave her your prayers, I can't begin to thank you. She phoned me last Sunday night and sounded so wonderful, your response has really encouraged her.

She told me she had received letters and phone calls from various counties in Kentucky — and also from several other states. My spirits warmed to think so many of you reached out to her through your prayers. The well wishes and greetings continue, this week several readers have asked how she is doing.

Well, my Grandmother is now taking her radiation treatments in Louisville. This requires her to stay in Louisville during the week, but she is allowed to come home on the weekends.

She says she has never felt better and the doctor is now telling her that she might have only thirteen radiation treatments, instead of the twenty-five they originally planned.

My Grandmother is convinced all your prayers are making this possible.

From the bottom of my heart, thank you.

Thank you all!

by
Kim Frasure

Surprise responses

Last week's column brought much surprise to my brief statements. I had anticipated a few phone calls from those who might either agree or disagree.

To my surprise, the phone calls brought only comments of agreement.

I suppose all we can do now is wait to see how the election turns out. It should prove to be very interesting — oh, the Thrill of Victory and the Agony of Defeat await us ...

'Till next week ...

Halloween

Long before the world heard of Freddy Kruger or Jason, long before the world thought of gore and guts as part of the holiday, Halloween was a time of renewal and celebration of the afterlife.

For costumed children passing from house to house, imagine instead spirits wandering eerily abroad. For "trick or treat," imagine the ritual burning of those failing to supply pagan priests with wood for their bonfires. For the modern bonfire, imagine a bone-fire with actual bones crackling in the flames. Most modern Halloween costumes derive from the Celtic festival of the dead once celebrated throughout the British Isles.

The Celts called their festival Samhain (SAH-win). Taking place on November 1, it was the major holiday of the Celtic year and marked the beginning of their winter. Celtic priests, the Druids, led the people in sacrifices of animals and offerings of vegetables and fruits. Entire communities lit sacred fires on hilltops the night before Samhain. They then lit their hearth fires anew with coals from the bonfires as a symbol of religious renewal for the coming year.

Ever present in the minds of the worshippers was the large number of mysterious forces in nature that had to be appeased. Especially remembered were the people who had died during the year. The Celts sought to speed these souls on their way by leaving out food and drink to sustain them on their trip to the underworld.

Christian missionaries found Samhain to be a serious stumbling block in their campaign to convert the Celts. Customs hallowed by centuries of devotion were not readily abandoned by farming people who felt the need for divine help to survive weather and circumstance. In 601 A.D., Pope Gregory I (the Great) instructed missionaries to coopt pagan customs by assimilating them to Christian practice. About a century later, this policy led to the designation of November 1 as All Saint's Day, a feast day that honored all Christian saints. The day was also known as All Hallows' Day — "Hallow" being another name for saint.

The old beliefs never wholly died out. Halloween (short for All Hallows' Eve) still carried for the Celts, and other cultures sharing their traditions, the overtones of an extinct religion. The associations with the dead and their journey to the afterlife dimly persist. Additions such as the jack-o'-lantern harmonize with the older traditions. The Irish developed the custom of placing a candle inside a hollowed and carved turnip and using this skull-like lantern to light their way from house to house on Halloween. Witches, bats, and other creatures real or imaginary that came to be associated with Halloween similarly hint at the holiday's dark past.

Fortunately, Halloween has always had a festive side. These recipes will help make a party of the holiday and remind us that the ancient Celts enjoyed Halloween even as they used the occasion to communicate with the dead.

Scottish Halloween Cake

This white cake — a tradition in Scotland — is covered with an orange frosting decorated with Halloween figures such as witches on broomsticks, black cats, and bats. The Scots often include little charms in the cake revealing the fortunes of those who find them — a button for those who will stay single (at least for the coming year), a ring for marriage, and a horseshoe for good luck.

2 sticks butter
3/4 cup granulated sugar

6 eggs
3 cups self-rising flour
1 tbsp grated orange rind
1/4 cup milk
apricot jam (for between layers)

In a mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition.

Add flour, orange rind, and milk. Mix. Pour 1/2 of batter into each greased and floured cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 25 to 35 minutes, or until a cake tester comes out clean. Cool on a wire rack.

Slice each layer in half horizontally. Place on cake plate. Spread apricot jam between each layer.

Icing

1 box confectioner's sugar
1 cup butter

1/4 cup orange juice
orange food coloring
water, if necessary

In a mixing bowl, combine confectioner's sugar, butter, orange juice, and food coloring. Mix thoroughly. Add water if necessary for spreading consistency. Ice the cake.

Decorations

4 ounces semisweet chocolate
1 ounce bitter chocolate

To make chocolate silhouette: Melt the two chocolates together in a double boiler. Make a paper cone out of wax or parchment paper. After chocolate cools slightly, cut tip of cone and outline silhouettes on wax paper. Fill in silhouettes. Let harden. (To speed hardening, place in refrigerator or freezer). Peel off wax paper. Decorate top and/or sides of cake.

Four centuries later, the Church established All Souls' Day, November 2, partly to further Christianize the season. On this day the faithful were supposed to attend mass and pray for souls in purgatory. All Souls' however, ironically reinforced the widespread pagan belief that the dead returned to their earthly homes at this time of the year. People often simply continued their ancient customs such as leaving out food and drink for the returning dead.

In England, "soulers" traditionally walked along the streets on All Souls' Day singing. Soul cakes specifically baked for the occasion were given to them, but in many parts of Britain, other foods and even money came to be substituted for the cakes. France, Italy, Switzerland, and other European countries maintained similar traditions of their own.

Mexico today offers the most exuberant All Souls' Day celebration anywhere. Drawing heavily on Aztec traditions as well as on Christianity, the Mexicans celebrate the day with colorful songs, poems, processions, and foods with the theme of death. Families erect altars at graveside and offer special foods for dead relatives. Amid exploding fireworks, the participants remember their beloved dead with gravity and joy.

Dry Bones Cookies

These All Souls' cookies are a

Swiss delicacy. Despite their grim name, they have a crunchy texture of almonds.

1 stick butter
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 tsp ground cinnamon
3 eggs
1 tbsp rosewater
2 3/4 — 3 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp salt
1 1/2 cups almonds, coarsely chopped
1 egg yolk beaten with 1 tablespoon water for glaze.

In a mixing bowl, cream butter, sugar and cinnamon until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition.

Add rosewater, 2 1/2 cups of flour, and salt. Mix. If dough is too sticky, add more flour gradually.

On a lightly floured surface, knead in ground almonds. Chill dough overnight. Shape dough into 2 1/2 rolls (bones). Brush with egg glaze. Place on lightly greased baking sheet.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool on baking sheet 2 minutes; then cool on a wire rack.

Store in an airtight container.

A blessed All Hallows' Eve to you!

Kiawannians meet

The Kiawannians met Thursday, Oct. 15, 1990, at the May Lodge.

The meeting was called to order by President Hope Whitten, who also led the club in the Kiawannians Grace.

Cabbage Patch

By Marie Harmon

Looks like I am back on mulch again. There are so many, many good things about this practice that I cannot seem to get away from it.

Rotting mulch, with the help of fishing worms, has a way of working itself down (even into hard pan), loosening up the soil and breaking up clods.

When I first came here, almost forty years ago, this ground was so hard you had to use a pick to work a garden patch. Soil was so poor it would not grow a healthy weed. Now it is loose with good tilth.

The first winter here we hauled truck-loads of cinders and ashes and spread them over the clay. In the spring we could see a big difference in the soil at plowing time, where there were no cinders the clods were large and unbreakable. All weeds, leaves, and corn stalks were plowed in. We did not have access to much barnyard manure, but all we had was used, along with fertilizers and lime.

Everyone laughed and made jokes about our foolishness. Some folks still laugh, but we still mulch, compost and plow in green manure corn crops. Our soil continues to produce healthy, lush crops and the soil becomes more workable each year.

Along with loosening soil, mulch gives organic matter that helps crops extract nitrogen from the air. Mulch-enriched soil supplies phosphorus and potassium in large quantities. Mulch and compost, which to me are the same in different farms, provide nutrients, sometimes into the subsoil. This subsoil, more commonly called hard pan, should be worked up if at all possible. The deeper you can plow ground, the looser your top soil stays and more nutrients remain in the soil.

All my life I have heard how good wood ashes are for the ground, but I had NEVER used coal ashes and cinders. I, for one, know that coal cinders and ashes are good for our soil. We still heat with a wood-coal stove and all ashes are spread over the ground in winter months to be plowed in the spring. This prevents unsightly cinder piles, also.

Last week I received a call to come and pick up some grass clippings. The person said they would furnish the bags, but as I am not in the best of health at this time, I had to turn the offer down. I sure hated to but there are times we cannot do what we would like. I still catch myself thinking about what I would have done with those grass clippings. I do appreciate the offer. Thanks.

The Statue of Liberty was originally to be set up at the Suez Canal.

People believe if a fly lands on your nose, somebody has something to tell you.

Making children's beanbags? Save peach and plum seeds and cherry pits, wash and dry them and fill the bags. They're lightweight and easy to use.

Catch your calls wherever you are.

Even when you're out catching a little relaxation.

Call Forwarding lets you transfer your calls to any other number you choose. So you don't have to stay by the phone waiting for important calls. And when you're not at home, you don't have to worry about an unanswered phone telling strangers you're away.

There are other services that make your life easier, too.

Call Waiting lets you call home, even when your talkative teenager is on the telephone. Because Call Waiting will sound a tone to let your teenager know there's another call. And if you're using your phone, you won't have to worry about missing emergency or important calls.

Speed Calling 8 lets you reach any of eight selected numbers by dialing only one digit. It's great for children and helpful in an emergency.

Three-way Calling is great for telephone reunions and for planning meetings. It lets you talk to two different people in two different locations—at the same time—even if the calls are long distance. (Long distance rates may apply.)

Plus these services are affordable. Just $2.75 a month for any one service. Additional services are $1.75. Or, order all four for just $8 a month. And if you order before November 30, you can save the $15.50 connection charge. To order, just call 1557-6400, toll-free. The restaurant is now accepting donations of toys and various other items to be given to needy families before Christmas. In exchange for a donation, patrons will receive either $1 off a medium or $2 off the price of a large pizza. The drive will run until December 12.

The toys and other items will be distributed through the government housing program to families throughout Floyd County.

"With the help of Floyd Countians, Pizza Hut and its employees will be able to give a needy Floyd County youth a brighter Christmas," said George Meade, Pizza Hut assistant manager.

For more information contact Meade or Alicia Parsons at 886-1377.

Top retirement areas listed

America's top retirement communities have been identified and ranked in the recently published "Retirement Places Rated" from Prentice Hall Press. The book, by retirement expert David Savageau, includes home prices provided by Century 21 Real Estate Corporation.

The final rankings were based on climate, personal safety, health care, leisure activities, part-time job outlook, money matters and housing costs. The 1990 edition is the third published in seven years.

Moderate housing costs are the rule for most of the top 25 ranked areas. Sixteen communities had typical home prices below $80,000. Eight of these communities had prices below $70,000. The average cost of a home nationally was $120,500 in the third quarter of 1990, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The housing costs listed in the book are for a typical retirement home, defined as a 1,600 square foot, site-built, two/three bedroom, 1-1/2 bath house with garage. Home prices for communities included in the book ranged from a high of $258,000 in Honolulu to a low of $60,600 in Brownsville-Harlingen, Texas.

"Housing costs are a prime consideration for individuals or couples who are planning retirement," noted Savageau. "Seven of every 10 retired persons in the country own their own homes; 85 percent have paid off their mortgages. Many retirees choose to buy down in order to have more discretionary income and leisure time," he added.

Florida clearly dominated the "top 25" list with five of the top 10 locations and 12 of the top 25. Texas and South Carolina each landed three communities in the top 25. Arizona, with two communities, was the only other state with multiple communities in the list.
