For sporting events :

Board says no to rate increases

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A measure to limit broadcasting of local high school sporting events to one local radio station and to raise the price of admission to Floyd County athletic events failed to pass the Floyd County Board of Education at Wednesday's meeting.

Principals voted unanimously at a meeting Tuesday, to ask Superintendent Ron Hager to present their recommendations for bids to be taken from local radio stations and approve a single radio station to broadcast high school sporting events. That move, plus raising ticket prices to sporting events, would generate the necessary revenue for the athletic program to be self-supporting, said Athletic Director James F. Francis.

"Right now, basketball is the only program supporting itself," Francis said. "The reason for the increase is that we are forecasting a deficit for the athletic department."

The principals' recommendation sought to raise the price of high school admission tickets for events from $3 for adults to $4 and from $2 for students to $3. However, students at the home team site would be allowed to purchase advance tickets at the school for $2.

"I think to raise the prices to that amount would be too much," said Board Vice Chairman James Duff. "If you raise the price it would cut back on attendance at these events. There's a lot of people not working in this county right now and it would cut back attendance even further. I think it (admission price) ought to be cut if possible. If you raise it, you'll have an empty house, it's almost that way now."

"The reason the principals asked for this increase is the schools didn't have enough income to operate these programs," said Superintendent Ron Hager. "If they don't have the revenue, they will have to reduce the sports programs."

Thomas Tackett, principal at Adams Middle School, spoke to the board on behalf of the request.

"The decision was based on sound financial judgment to keep the athletic programs on a sound basis," Tackett said. "It's needed so money is not drained from the board for supplies for the kids and teacher's salaries. We need to break even on athletics."

Tackett's comments did not sway the board however, as a motion made by Board Chairman James Adams for the increase died for lack of a second.

Random drug searches are approved at schools

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Dingo, Floyd County's trained, drug-detecting dog, will be allowed to visit county school's this year, but not for education purposes. Dingo will be on duty searching for illegal drugs in the county schools.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson received permission from the Floyd County Board of Education at Wednesday's meeting, to make periodic, unannounced sweeps of the county's high schools with Dingo in an effort to keep drugs out of the school system. Thompson was granted permission to search any grade schools that may also have a drug problem.

One injured

One person was injured Thursday afternoon when a passenger car and a school bus collided on Route 80 near Martin. Eighteen kindergarten students from Martin Elementary avoided injury on the bus, while the driver of the car received facial injuries. More money for state schools :

Vo-ed fund hike awaits Bush's pen

A $100 million provision to the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act was approved overwhelmingly Thursday by the U.S. House of Representatives and now awaits only the President's signature before being passed into law, Congressman Chris C. Perkins announced.

The provision, created by Perkins two years ago, will channel $100 million toward badly-needed new equipment and facilities for vocational schools. Perkins said this will enable vocational schools to meet the increasing demands by American companies for skilled labor in the coming years.

"It is imperative that educational opportunities for skilled workers keep pace with the ever-changing demands of the workplace in our country," Perkins said. "This provision is specifically designed to provide vocational schools with the necessary resources to do that."

Perkins acted upon the success of another education formula, the Concentration Grants formula, in authoring a similar provision whereby the $100 million would be targeted to vocational programs in Eastern Kentucky and to other schools that show the greatest need for improvements.

The Congressman also cited a report commissioned by Congress last summer as reason that vocational schools in Eastern Kentucky deserved the new funds. The report, completed by the National Assessment of Vocational Education, concluded that students living in economically depressed areas should receive top priority for new equipment and upgrading of existing facilities.

"The inclusion of this formula, I feel, makes this the most important piece of legislation for Eastern Kentucky in more than a decade," Perkins said.

No students injured :

Second bus mishap prompts manhunt

At least one person was injured Thursday afternoon when a passenger car collided with the rear of a Floyd County school bus. The wreck is the second accident involving a Floyd County school bus in a three-day period.

The accident occurred on Route 80 near Buck's Branch at Martin shortly after noon Thursday.

The bus was returning eighteen Martin Elementary kindergarten students to their homes when the accident occurred. None of the children or driver Renaldo Frazier were injured.

Witnesses at the scene said that a passenger in the car got out of the vehicle and jumped over a guardrail and ran away from the scene. Members of the Floyd County Sheriff's Department later returned to the scene to search for the unnamed suspect and officers discovered a quantity of marijuana along the trail of the man.

"We found approximately $1,500 worth of marijuana over the guardrail and down the hill from where the car was. We had the dog (Deputy Dingo Dog) and he found the big bag," said Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson. "We'll have to wait and see what the state police officer handling the case wants to do before any arrests are made."

Thompson confirmed that officers had interviewed the driver of the vehicle for further information.

The vehicle's driver, Gary Hall, 35, of Hippo, was transported to Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin where he was treated for facial injuries and advised to seek further help at the UK Medical Center.

The name of the passenger in the vehicle is being withheld at this time.

The accident is under investigation by Kentucky State Police Trooper

Education group sets annual meeting

The Floyd County Education Forum will hold its annual meeting Thursday, October 4 at 7 p.m. at Allen Central High School in Eastern. Members of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, along with FCEA, concerned parents and other civic organizations to discuss the education reform bill.

The public is invited and urged to attend this meeting for a better understanding of what will take place under House Bill 940.

Economic development is focus of forum :

United we stand, group agrees

There was a familiar ring to a roundtable discussion Wednesday on the topic of economic development in Floyd County, but a new tune appeared to be emerging from area business leaders participating in the informal talks.

"It's time to quit talking. It's time for action," noted forum participant Ed Music. "We've been talking about the same problems for years."

Music's point was echoed by most of the panel's 24 participants who gathered Wednesday at May Lodge in a forum sponsored by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, the First Guarantee Bank of Martin, Bank Josephine and First Commonwealth Bank.

Scott Hazelett.

No arrests have been made in connection with the accident.

The mishap Thursday came on the heels of another accident Tuesday involving a loaded Floyd County school bus.

In the Tuesday accident, the wheels of a 71-passenger bus slid off a narrow roadway at Buckeye, despite efforts by driver, Michael Compton, to avoid the mishap. The bus was carrying 60 to 70 students from Adams Middle School, Clark Elementary and Prestonsburg High School.

Both accidents are being investigated by school transportation director Earl Ousley, state police and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department.

To boost local school revenues :

Property tax upped, utility levy imposed

Floyd Countians will notice an increase in their property taxes and also in their utilities beginning in January, after the board of education voted Wednesday to raise the tax rate and levy a utility tax.

A 43.5 cents per $100 assessment tax will begin in January 1991, along with a three percent utility tax on electricity, gas, telephone, water and television which will be added to the monthly bill. A 41.8 cent per $100 assessment was set on motor vehicles.

The new tax rate and the utility tax is expected to generate $3,443,566, with $2,450,000 coming from the property tax; $493,566 from the motor vehicle tax; and $500,000 from the utility tax.

Last year's property tax rate was 28.5 cents per $100 assessment and the motor vehicle tax was 26.8 cents per $100 assessment. Income generated from that tax rate was $1,704,060.

The board announced its intent at the August meeting to levy the higher tax under provisions of the state Educational Reform Act. The first year under the act, school districts have the opportunity to increase taxes without citizens being able to recall the amount or the opportunity to place a referendum on the fall election ballot to protest the tax.

Under the reform act, school districts can receive $2 from the state for every $1 generated locally by the tax.

There will be refreshments and special gifts for all members who attend.

Litter Task Force meeting

With the leaves starting to change soon and falling off the trees, the trash along the sides of the roads will be visible again. With this in mind the Floyd County Litter Task Force is asking all its members to come to the September meeting this Monday at 7 p.m. at the Stumbo Park Convention Center in Allen. Chairperson Charlotte McFall reminds members that the time has come to get the community cleanup groups going full force again and she urges everyone to attend.

State panel urges left-side exits on buses

Frankfort - The state school board is to decide today whether to require left-side emergency doors on new flat-nosed, transit-style school buses. The board's chief adviser on bus standards said yesterday that the 70-seat transit models — which include several other new safety features — could account for some 200 of the 600 new buses Kentucky school districts are expected to buy over the coming year. (The Courier-Journal)

Firm to answer GROWL by Friday

Ashland — A court battle that has kept a Greenup County landfill from opening appeared closer to a resolution Tuesday as the two sides continued their dialogue over a proposal to make the project smaller. A group opposed to the Green Valley Environmental Corp. landfill in Greenup County sent a list of 14 questions Tuesday to the company...The letter concluded by saying that Greenup Residents Opposed to Waste Landfill (GROWL) believes "that this proposal could be a very important first step toward resolving many of the environmental concerns raised" by the landfill. (The Daily Independent)

Decision on landfill permit imminent

Catlettsburg — The Kentucky Secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet is expected to decide by Wednesday whether to revoke the operating permit of Cooksey Brothers Landfill. The Division of Waste Management and the Cabinet's law department have prepared information that lays out all enforcement options that can or should be taken with regard to recent violations at the landfill, said John Nichols, deputy secretary for the Cabinet. (The Daily Independent)

State's witness to get probated sentences

Whitesburg — The state's chief witness in the trial of a Letcher County man accused of plotting to kill a Whitesburg attorney will be sentenced to probation under a plea agreement reached in Letcher Circuit Court. Gary Melvin "Peewee" Caudill, 38, was scheduled to stand trial last week on charges of arson, assault, perjury, terroristic threatening and wanton endangerment. Under a plea agreement reached before his trial, Caudill will be placed on probation for 15 years under the condition he stays outside of Letcher County during that time. (The Mountain Eagle)

Law shuffles districts' revenue, figures show

Frankfort — Newly released figures show Kentucky's school-reform law has led to a drastic reordering of school districts in the amount of money they have to spend per student. That shakeup indicates the reform law's blend of money and incentives is "working just about exactly the way we proposed" to reduce inequality of funding between rich and poor school districts, said House Budget Committee Chairman Joe Clarke. (The Courier-Journal)

Airport road on hold

Inez — Although the bid has been opened and accepted, the state has still not signed the work order giving approval for the contractor to begin construction of a new 1.5 mile road to the Big Sandy Regional Airport on the Johnson-Martin County line. Bob Bodner, executive director of the Office of Aeronautics for the Kentucky Department of Transportation, said Tuesday that he thinks the road will probably wind up being two lanes wide, instead of having a proposed passing lane on the hill, as originally planned. (The Martin Countian & Mercury)

Students urge school to restart hunt for chief

Lexington — Interim President Charles Wethington, one of two finalists for University of Kentucky president, yesterday defended the eight-month presidential search and said UK needed a swift end to the process. But UK's student government, by a narrow vote, demanded a new search in which the interim president could not be a candidate. Student leaders condemned the search as "fundamentally flawed" one day after Lexington faculty leaders in the UK Senate issued a similar denunciation. (The Lexington Herald-Leader)

president of the Floyd County Education Association, told the board several administrative personnel were not willing to adhere to the agreement made last month which ended the recent teacher's strike in Floyd County. "We've had reports that individuals in the administration think our agreement is only an agreement on paper," Reynolds said. "They are reluctant to let teachers become involved, especially in budgetary matters. Some are unwilling to give up their power. Some principals have shown outright anger at teachers for wanting to look at the budget." "I told all the principals at our meeting yesterday (Tuesday) I expected their cooperation concerning this agreement," superintendent Ron Hager said.

Reynolds responded the association's executive committee had met and all areas of the agreement would be monitored and the board would be informed of any problems.

After receiving a letter from Hager requesting only Reynolds be allowed to address the board on behalf of FCEA members, Reynolds wanted to know if another member of the executive committee could take his place if he was unable to attend.

Hager responded he also asked Reynolds to submit, two weeks in advance, any specific items the group planned to discuss at the meeting.

"During our negotiations, you told us Mr. Hager there would not be a September meeting of the board," Reynolds said. "That is why we did not submit any specific items to be discussed."

Hager countered that he said there possibly would not be a meeting in September.

Nevertheless, Board Member Duff, along with other board members, agreed there would be no problem with another member of the executive committee filling in for Reynolds to speak at the meetings.

Representatives from the Floyd County Parent and Teacher Association and Floyd County Parents for Better Schools addressed the board about concerns in the school system.

James Stratton, speaking for the PTA, asked the board to reconsider its decision to add a half an hour to the school day. Stratton, who also teaches at Betsy Layne High School, said he was concerned that attendance figures would drop later in the year because the extra half hour "makes for a long day."

The board gave no response to the request.

Debbie Hayes, spokesperson for Parents for Better Education, asked the board to recognize the group and work together with it to better education in Floyd County. She also asked if the group could make brief visits to each school in order to assess first-hand the needs of schools in the county.

The board gave no response to the request.

In other business, the board approved:

- to hire a contractor to remove hazardous wastes stored at local schools;
 - transfers, employment, resignations, leaves of absence for certified and non-certified personnel;
 - a special education policy manual;
 - a nit-free policy to help control lice outbreaks in the school system;
 - declared an emergency at Duff Elementary in order to pay for the firefighter and fire truck stationed at the school;
 - heard a report on student tests results;
 - postponed boiler replacement at Prestonsburg and John M. Stumbo elementaries;
 - tabulated and awarded bids for custodial supplies and equipment; and
 - authorized the superintendent to receive quotes for liability insurance.
- The next regularly scheduled meeting of the board will be Wednesday, October 10. All board members were present for the September 12 meeting.

Adding to Recktenwald's list of assets, Burl Spurlock, a member of the newly formed Floyd County Economic Development Authority, noted that funding mechanisms were beginning to take shape for the purpose of financing development projects.

Spurlock noted that the development of a multi-county Eastern Kentucky Economic and Job Creation Authority had received funding commitments from both public and private sources and the local authority had been funded by both city and county governments.

intimidate students not to bring drugs into the schools. They won't know when we're coming and most won't take a chance of being caught. We also want to let students know that anyone found to be in possession of illegal drugs will be prosecuted."

Dingo is trained to sniff out marijuana, ice, crack, cocaine and a host of other illegal drugs. The dog will be allowed to patrol the entire school grounds, including student lockers and parked cars, checking for any contraband. If the dog has a reaction indicating the presence of a drug, the sheriff's department will search out the origin of the scent.

"This could be a deterrent to students from bringing illegal substances to the school," said Superintendent Ron Hager.

Sheriff Thompson, along with Kentucky State Police Trooper Ghomer Prater informed the board that D.A.R.E. (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) programs will be implemented in fifth grade classes in all Floyd County schools. Assistance from the KSP, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and the sheriff's office will provide enough trained officers to implement the program in all schools, Thompson said.

"This is a 17-week prevention program," Trooper Prater told board members. "You are there with the students one day a week and getting involved in activities with students and you get to know them. And when a trooper is there at a (D.A.R.E.) graduation and you see these kids who are drug free, it brings tears in your eyes. It makes you happy for what you have committed yourself to."

Superintendent Hager and the board pledged full support for the program, including providing any available funds to the program.

"I feel this is the most important program in our schools," Hager said. "It's a tremendous experience for these kids and it helps build their self-esteem. It's an outstanding program and shows a good cooperative effort between the sheriff's department and the state police."

Poisonous plants

Everyone enjoys a leisurely walk through colorful autumn woods and parks. Unfortunately, harmful plants such as poison ivy and poison oak disguise themselves well among multicolored trees and shrubs.

The National Safety Council reminds hikers to steer clear of vines, shrubs and ground cover. If you do come into contact with poison ivy or oak, wash the area immediately with soap and water. A commercial lotion will help relieve the itching and swelling, but it's best to see a doctor if your reaction is severe.

Pot growers in Floyd County are seeing a decline in merchandise as the Floyd County Sheriff's department is declaring a war on drugs with numerous raids in the county. Members of the Floyd County Sheriff's Department confiscated two large marijuana plants during a drug raid from the Caney Creek area Tuesday. Chief Deputy Linzie Hunt said the plants were of very high quality and would demand a high street value. Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and the sheriff's department urges anyone with information about marijuana being grown in Floyd County or reports of any other illegal drug use can contact the sheriff's department at 886-6711 to report to the offenders. (Photo by Tim Preston)

The Cabbage Patch

by Marie Harmon

Your excess garden products can be preserved by canning, freezing, drying, pickling and "holing up."

Fruits and vegetables do not improve in quality after harvest. Always harvest sound, healthy produce at their proper stage of maturity. Be very careful to avoid bruising and the breaking of skins as this can cause spoilage by rotting and moisture loss.

Carrots, turnips and parsnips can be stored right where they grow. Just before the ground begins to freeze in the late fall, cover these, in the row, with a heavy mulch of dry leaves, grass or straw. As you dig and use these vegetables, drive a stake at the end of where you stopped so you will be sure not to miss any as you harvest the rest of them at later dates.

The best way we ever stored cabbage was making a long deep trench, pulling up the cabbage and turning it upside down in the trench while covering the entire plant, except the tip of the roots, with damp soil and mulch. Be sure to pack the cabbage close together in a single row. The flavor and texture will improve with this method.

"Holing up" is the best way to store potatoes. Stored in metal trash cans with holes in the bottom for drainage will prevent rodent damage and loss. If sprouting occurs they are in too warm a place. Sweet taste indicates the storage area is too cool. Never wash potatoes before storing.

Sweet potatoes need a warm drying area; allow 2-3 weeks curing time before storing in boxes or crates in a dry, warm place. When I was young it was always the kids' job to wrap each sweet potato in its own newspaper cocoon. Then they were placed in large trunks and barrels in a cold room. Back then there were only two warm rooms in our house — the front room and the kitchen.

The afternoon before the first frost (if you are lucky enough to know when it will be) pull a few tomato plants up and hang them upside down in the garage or basement. Mature green tomatoes can be pulled carefully and spread out in a dark corner and covered with paper to keep the light out. Tomatoes that are put in the window for sunlight become better. Always check your stored tomatoes at least once a week to remove ripened and damaged ones.

Today I harvested the last hickory king corn for vegetable use. The balance will be allowed to harden on the stalks for stock feed this winter.

I made about two gallons of cut off pickled corn. Having forgotten just how to pickle corn, I went through every canning book I own, not one had a recipe. Luckily, my husband remembered. We made a salt brine that would float a fresh egg and covered the corn by placing a plate upside down over it. We then set a jar of water on the plate, which does better than a clean rock, and covered it with a clean, white cloth. After it completely stops working, and no bubbles show, we will can it up for later use.

WalkAmerica Committee sets $15,000 goal

The WalkAmerica Committee for the Big Sandy Regional walk-a-thon has announced the 1990 goal for October's event. During a Team Captains party recently, Barbara Maynard, chairperson for the sixth annual WalkAmerica event, said $15,000 is the goal the March of Dimes hopes to raise during the event. WalkAmerica is the largest fundraiser for the March of Dimes and it is the nation's largest walking event. The money raised at the Big Sandy Regional WalkAmerica will help the March of Dimes fund their campaign for healthier babies.

Businesses represented at the Team Captains party included: Rax Restaurants, Pikeville High School, Key Club, Pizza Hut, Food City, Methodist Hospital of Kentucky, Citizen's Bank, Kentucky Power Company, Watson's, South Central Bell, K-Mart, The Telephone Pioneers, First National Bank of Pikeville, Immanuel Baptist Church, The Exercise Company and Pikeville National Bank.

The party was held at The Landmark Inn in Pikeville during which team captains received information about the mission of the March of Dimes, as well as, the materials they need for their walkers. Maynard said there is still time to register a team. Anyone interested should contact her at 437-3521.

WalkAmerica will begin at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20 at the main

Pikeville National Bank location. Walkers will proceed to downtown Pikeville and return back to the bank location, a distance of about four miles. Walkers should be at the bank location by 9 a.m. to turn in their money and have pictures taken. Immediately following the walk, a picnic will be held at the Pikeville

Mini Park. During random drawings at the picnic, walkers will have the opportunity to take home prizes including dinner at Shoney's, dinner at the Landmark Inn, free pizza from Mr. Gatti's, a year's subscription to the News-Express and a month's membership at The Exercise Company.

Soapbox

These days there seems there is a national week or month for everything. For example, did you know that September was Cable TV Month, National Cat Health Month, All Home Value Days, National Clock Month and National Sight Saving Month. As a matter of fact next week is National Farm Safety Week, wow.

If those don't sound absurd enough, read on for the list in October: Consumer Information Month, National Adopt-a-Dog Month, National Car Care Month, National Pizza Month (alright!), National Kitchen and Bath Month (what?) and National Cosmetology Month.

Of course there is one week in the month of October that I take special interest in, that is National Newspaper Week, although to National Be Nice to Also, I think we should not National Fire Prevention opment Week. There are they should get their own.

by
Tess Whitmer

I do find another week of really what I started off wanting, that is National Pet Peeve Week (Oct. 8-12). Pet peeves can be really funny, as a matter of fact, the name itself is kind of amusing. Doesn't it seem to say that you really like these peeves and hold them near and dear to your heart?

If you look up "pet" in the dictionary it says "favorite, especially liked, greatest, particular." The definition for "peeve" is "an object of dislike or annoyance." The two together mean "your favorite thing to hate?" Why not? (That sounds like a few people I know).

People love to talk about their pet peeves. I did some asking around at the office the other day and everybody had something to say. I got mostly the standard: Leaving the cap off the toothpaste (buy the pump, that will solve that), not putting the toilet seat down, more than 12 items in the express checkout lane, Kentucky drag racing, people not using their turn signals, etc.

One fellow here said he had too many to enumerate and, besides, they were his pet peeves and he didn't want to share them with everyone else. Personally, I think he is his own pet peeve.

My pet peeves usually change from week to week; the one that tops the list this week is, having a call put through to my office when I'm on the other line. Now tell me, what are you supposed to do when you are trying to get a story from someone on line 1 and the intercom goes off "Tess, call line 2"?

If you don't take the call, the caller usually hangs up and you never know who it was. If you do take the call, the person you have to put on hold may not be available again before press time. To compound the dilemma, I quite often have someone in my office waiting on me or have a staff writer standing at my door mouthing questions to me while I'm trying to talk on the phone.

The other day some poor fellow actually paced back and forth in front of my doorway for about 10-15 minutes while I was interviewing someone on the phone. Just as he was handing me a note with his purpose of business written on it, I concluded my call. You know what he wanted, to pick up a half dozen copies of last Friday's paper. I really was quite annoyed that someone else in the office didn't help this man with such a simple thing and made him wait on me.

But, that is the really funny thing about all this, many of those calls that are put on hold forever could have been handled by anybody. My recommendation to anyone who calls the office is: If you have a real simple question about how much it costs to get things in the paper or deadlines for certain kinds of news, go ahead and ask the receptionist instead of trying to get a hold of someone in the editorial department. It should be much quicker.

On the subjects of phones and pet peeves, another one of mine is the answering machine. Who invented these things anyway? I guess for some they are very useful, but I personally hate them. I hate talking to one, because I get intimidated if I have to pause to think about what I'm saying and there is only silence. And, I can never decide how to conclude the call, do you say "thank you" or "good-bye" or just hangup. (Just hanging up is hard for me, because another one of my pet peeves is when someone doesn't say good-bye).

I guess I could just not leave a message, but I hear that answering machine owners get really annoyed when someone doesn't leave a message. I guess it plagues their mind all day who it was who called them. The absolute injustice though is when you make a long distance phone call and get that stupid machine; now you have to pay to talk to a recorder. What an insult. I also have this complex about the need to be somewhat witty when I do leave a message, only for a friend of course, I never do that if it is a business call.

Being a single person, living alone, I imagine I may have to break down someday and get a machine, but it will be a struggle.

I did think of one thing it would be useful for the other day, however: You know how when you want to make a long distance call from a pay phone and charge it to your home phone the operator has to call your home and approve it. I thought maybe I could put a message on my machine saying something like "Yes, I give my permission for Tess to charge this call to herself." That would get them, wouldn't it?

Editorial:

Hell is paved . . .

by Scott Perry

The road to Hell is paved with good intentions.

No doubt the state means well in its project to repair Route 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Despite those good intentions, we officially dub that thirteen-mile stretch The Road to Hell...now and forever.

With 24-hour repair work in process, in many of the same areas presumably fixed last year, traversing the distance between Prestonsburg and Paintsville is as pleasant as suffering the heartbreak of psoriasis and as safe as riding a pogo stick in a minefield.

Traveling the road late one night this week, we found our nerves tested in several locations where poorly marked, poorly lit and poorly flagged construction was in process.

The delays we can understand, but the lack of safety and cautions is disturbing. Running up on a construction zone with little warning is spooky, particularly in the wee hours when fog and darkness already make the going rough.

Repairs to Route 23 are necessary, for sure, and contractors are no doubt diligent in their efforts to rush the job.

But if they must work at night, a few extra precautions are needed.

Good roads in this part of the state are sights to behold, but we don't fancy beholding them from a hospital bed.

...with infants' skulls

The road to Hell is paved with infants' skulls.

Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ali Kamenei has called for a holy war to oust U.S. troops from Saudi Arabia, suggesting that any Moslem who dies in trying will claim instant martyrdom.

What kind of religion is this that glorifies murder?

What kind of people are these whose lives are absorbed in violence and blood?

What sort of God would show favor to such atrocities?

This isn't religion, it's fanaticism.

These aren't people, they're animals. This is no God we've been taught to worship.

If the eye of God is indeed fixed upon these religious zealots, certainly it is tear-filled.

If it is martyrdom these idiots desire, lets deliver. Before more innocent people are claimed.

THE CRISIS IN THE GULF

By James Miller of Hillard, Fla.
a student at the
Carl D. Perkins Job Corp Center

I think what is happening in the Middle East is bad. Why doesn't Saddam Hussein come to his senses? He knows he doesn't stand a chance against the United States Army. Why doesn't he just get the hell out of Kuwait? We, the people the God put on this earth, need to strive for world peace! All Saddam Hussein is doing is causing more and more corruption in the Middle East. They call this man a president? He is not a president, a president is supposed to be a leader. A leader is not supposed to invade someone else's country and do what he pleases. This country, called Kuwait, had everything going well until this so-called president decided he wanted to take over.

If there is something wrong with his country, it is his job to see that it is straightened out. That's what a president is supposed to do.

As for all the United States troops over there helping Saudi Arabia, I bless them with all my heart. There are many worried families in the United States and other countries who are over there helping us help Saudi Arabia.

If they could just pray to God, those men and women will be coming home safe and sound. If a war should break out there are going to be a lot of soldiers coming home in body bags! I hope one of those soldiers is the man who started all of this mess — Saddam Hussein!

They call him a leader? Hah!

Festival Fun

The rainy weather didn't dampen enthusiasm for the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival held last weekend at Jenny Wiley State Park. Many visited the craft booths set up in the Amphitheatre parking lot, while others ventured up to the May Lodge to hear area Bluegrass bands perform and to attend workshops for the dulcimer and guitar. Curtiss Vickers and Joe Ramey held the dulcimer and guitar workshop which gave the audience the history, style and different makes of the instruments. Craftspeople displayed their unique and traditional works of art for those visiting the festival. Floyd County's own "Gum Branch Heartbreakers" performed their traditional old time Bluegrass, gospel and country music Saturday at the May Lodge, after musical events had to be moved inside due to the stormy weather. Members of the band, pictured from left are, Chuck Tackett, Mike Hall, Denzil Ray Hall and Paul Neil Allen. (Photos by Susan Allen)

What is a floppy disk? What is a hard disk? Do some disks hold more than others? For the answers to these and many other mind boggling questions, please read on.

today we have three main medium for storing information. The 5 1/4 inch floppy disk, the 3 1/2 floppy disk and a hard disk. Let's talk about each in turn.

The term "floppy disk" is one of those amazing descriptive terms that abound in this age of generic labels. Inside its protective shell, the floppy disk medium is floppy, that is flexible, and is a wide, flat disk. The disks are stamped out from side rolls of the magnetic medium like cutting cookies from dough. The wide rolls composition is the same as that of recording tape, a plastic substrate on which a magnetic oxide is bound. Unlike tape, however, all floppy disks are coated with magnetic material on both sides.

Floppy disks have been made in sizes from 12-inches down to two inches. Only three of these have acquired acceptance in the PC community: 8-inch, 5 1/4-inch, and 3 1/2-inch. Bigger came first, but as technology has advanced, the 3 1/2 inch disk will now hold more information than the larger 5 1/4-inch or even the 8-inch floppy disk.

This would probably be a good time to inform you that just because the 3 1/2-inch has a hard protective cover, it is not a hard disk. The disk inside is still as floppy as ever, only the cover has changed. We know these as hard shell floppy disks. But what then is a hard disk?

A hard disk is just that, the disk is hard. Although there are many different materials used to make the hard disk, they are usually pressed from sheets of aluminum. Inside each case of the hard disk we will find from one to many platters or hard disk. Although the hard disk can be external we usually find our hard disk inside the computer and hence we may never know it is there unless we either take the top off of the computer or as "dos" if it is there.

Once you have a hard disk, you'll wonder how you go along without it. After you've used a hard disk, a personal computer won't seem like a computer unless it is equipped with one.

Until the next time, I'll see you, when I see you.

Selective Service system is 50 years old Sunday

The Selective Service System is celebrating its golden anniversary Sunday. This small federal agency, best known for the drafting young men into the Armed Services during times of war, turns 50 years old Sept. 16.

The modern-day Selective Service System was responsible for providing manpower to the military during World War II, and the Korean and Vietnam conflicts. Since the agency's inception in 1940, more than 15 million young men have been inducted and well over 100 million have registered. The last draft ended in 1973, and today, men are only required to register with the agency. But the System is prepared to reactivate the draft at a moment's notice, if ever given the go ahead by Congress and the President in a crisis.

The tradition of military conscription in America predates the Revolution, but it wasn't until the months prior to the US entering World War II that the military draft mechanism was placed in the hands of a civilian agency. It was on Sept. 16, 1940, that President Franklin Roosevelt signed the Selective Training and Service act, creating the country's first peacetime draft.

In July 1980, because of studies and exercises indicating reduced military readiness with the Selective Service System in deep standby, and with the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, President Jimmy Carter revitalized the agency. Once again registration became a national requirement for all young men age 18 through 25, and since 1980 nearly 25 million young men have registered.

Young men must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday at any local post office. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and/or up to five years in prison. Men who fail to register as required are ineligible for employment in the Executive Branch of the federal government and the US Postal Service. They are also ineligible for federal job training benefits and education grants and loans. Registration is also a prerequisite for many state jobs and state benefits.

Moving in at MSU

Site-based decision making

by Willie Elliott

The new idea in elementary and secondary education is site-based management. Site-based management gives much of the decision making power to teachers, principals, parents and even students. This new concept is based on the idea that the people who will make most of the decisions are in a position to know what is best for the students and the community.

Last spring the schools of Floyd County had a vote in which the faculties voted for or against site-based management. All schools were told that the grade school and the high school with the highest percentage of teachers voting for this system, would use the site-based management system. Allen Elementary and Betsy Layne High School had the highest percentage voting for this, and they will be the pilot schools using this decision-making method.

At McDowell High School approximately 80 percent of the faculty voted for site-based management. Even though that was not high enough to earn a pilot program, the teachers and principal, Robert "Bob" Hall, have begun a system in which teachers are allowed to make some of the decision. As with all rules, this group must operate within state and board regulations.

The group has resolved several problems by using this system. The group approved a policy on tardiness that works better for both the principal and the teachers. This policy is within board guidelines and really keeps the children in class more than the old rule. Sometimes teachers will make tougher decision on themselves than the principal will. McDowell teachers voted to stay on campus until the last bus has run. Last year only a few teachers would stay for this time frame.

Teachers have different reasons for staying, but most of the reasons seem to center on the ideas of helping students or getting ready for the next school day. Alberta Turner gave this as her reason for staying: "Staying after school until the last bus leaves is an expression of professionalism. As teachers, our first responsibility is to 'be there' for the students. Personally, the time can be used to plan, organize, relax, wind down, catch up — whatever! This would be an excellent time for parents to visit."

Janet Bowling, who teaches home economics and is faculty advisor for several clubs, gave this reason for choosing to stay: "Since not all students work at the same pace, some may need extra time to catch up on final details of projects or assignments. The extra thirty minutes can provide this time. My club members will find this time invaluable as well for completing their tasks. I feel good knowing they may not have to miss a class in order to get everything done."

The person who would seemingly lose more in this system is the principal, but he seems to support the idea more than some of the teachers. Here is how Bob Hall sums up his ideas on site-based management and why he is advocating its use: "Of course I favor shared responsibility. Ownership of a decision includes a person's commitment to it. I'm very proud of our faculty's desire and willingness to help in managing our school."

Teachers are happy because someone values their opinions on the job of educating today's young people, and the principal is happy because he has a faculty that is more likely to work together. This gives him more time to do the thousand and one things a principal must do each day.

Lining up

Students crowd the lobby of the Administration Building at Pikeville College during fall registration. This year's enrollment was the largest in many years, and marked the sixth consecutive year of enrollment growth at the college.

Pikeville College enrollment completed

Pikeville College's fall enrollment totals 972 this semester, according to final figures released this week, making this the sixth consecutive year Pikeville College's enrollment has increased. Total enrollment in the fall 1989 semester was 925.

"We were particularly pleased at the number of freshmen who enrolled this fall," said President William H. Owens. "We think that Pikeville College has a lot to offer students entering college for the first time like personal attention that only a small college can provide. These figures show that students understand that."

Of the 972 students enrolled, 201 are beginning freshman and 167 are students who are transferring from another school.

Eight hundred twenty-two students attend Pikeville college full time, while 150 attend part-time, providing a full-time equivalent enrollment of 891, compared to 873 last fall.

A majority of the 972 students, 636, are from Pike County, with others from Floyd County (111), Letcher

County (39), Mingo County, W. Va. (39), Johnson (20), Martin (19), Knott (14), and Buchanan County, Va. (16). Other area counties represented in the Pikeville College student body include Breathitt, Fayette, Greenup, Jefferson, Jessamine, Lawrence, Leslie, Magoffin, Menifee, Montgomery, Perry, Rowan and Wayne, as well as Pike County, Ohio, Lincoln and Logan counties in West Virginia, and Dickenson County, Va.

1990-91 AIM season tickets on sale

From Chinese acrobatics and a Shakespearean farce to a Civil War musical and haunting native American flute melodies, the 1990-91 Arts in Morehead (AIM) series will offer programs to please the whole family.

AIM is a cooperative effort between Morehead State University and the Morehead/Rowan County Arts Council.

Season tickets for all nine events are available at $30 for an individual, while families may subscribe to the season for $50.

"The program committee has put together an outstanding array of events," said Yvonne Baldwin, AIM program chair. "The season represents family entertainment at its best. There are programs to delight the children and to appeal to the artistic senses of adults. We really think it will be an exciting year for area residents who join us," Baldwin said.

The season will open Saturday, Sept. 29, at 3 p.m. with the Chinese Magic Revue, a group of Chinese acrobats with a blend of gymnastics, magic, dance and comedy. The afternoon performance is scheduled for MSU's Athletic-Academic Center.

The 1990-91 season will also include:

Oct. 14, North Carolina Shakespeare Festival's production of "A Comedy of Errors," 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

Dec. 3, Meridian String Quartet, a young ensemble that is rapidly gaining critical acclaim nationwide, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Jan. 17, "An Evening with Mark Twain," a one-man show featuring Marvin Cole and the caustic humor of one of America's greatest authors, 8 p.m., Breck Auditorium.

Feb. 8, Atlantic Winds, Orchestra of New England wind section members presenting classical works for oboe, bassoon, flute, clarinet and French horn, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

March 14, "Banjo Reb and the Blue Ghost," a Civil War musical complete with traditional tunes and war tales and featuring television's William Mooney and David Holt, 8 p.m., Button Auditorium.

April 9, Stan Bumgarner, classical guitarist, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

May 1, R. Carlos Nakai, native American flutist of Navajo-Ute heritage performing traditional melodies of his culture and original works, 8 p.m., Duncan Recital Hall.

Also included in the series is a special holiday trip to Lexington for a performance of the ballet classic, "The Nutcracker," on Dec. 15, with a bus leaving the campus at noon. Reservations will be required and there will be an additional $5 fee.

"As a mother of three young children, I am pleased with the high quality of performing arts programming AIM will offer the region this year," said Susan Victor, president of Morehead/Rowan County Arts Council.

"When you look at the individual ticket cost for events such as these in Lexington or Cincinnati, a season subscription is a bargain and you don't even have to drive very far," she added.

Season tickets for the nine programs are available now through members of the arts council and from MSU's Academy of Arts, located in Rader Hall 206. Season subscriptions may be ordered by writing AIM, P.O. Box 950, Morehead, KY 40351, or by calling Baldwin at 783-2659.

Single event admissions will be $6 for adults and $3 for non-MSU students. MSU students with valid ID cards will be admitted free.

For those people who want to encourage future programming of similar quality and other community arts programs, there are supporting membership categories in which a portion of the contribution is tax deductible. These are: Contributor, $75;

Patron, $125, and Benefactor, $150. Some of the 1990-91 season programs have been made possible by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts foundation, of which the Kentucky Arts Council is a member.

13th Annual VIP Day to bring student prospects to campus

High school juniors and seniors are invited to attend the 13th Annual VIP Day at Georgetown College, Saturday, Oct. 20.

The visitation to the campus enables prospective students and their parents the opportunity to tour the campus and to meet and talk with faculty. A program filled with vital college entrance information and entertainment, VIP Day also features interviews and auditions for fine arts grants in music, art and communication arts, sessions on financial aid and competitive exams for science and math scholarships.

Registration for the day-long event begins at 8 a.m. in the Cralle Student Center. The opening session then follows at 9:15 a.m.

Among the day's highlights will be a concert featuring the Georgetown College Chorale, which has recently returned from a concert tour in Europe. Then at 1:30 p.m., Georgetown will play Cumberland College in a football match-up at Hinton Field.

Georgetown College is a four-year private, Christian liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

Founded in 1829, Georgetown is located off Interstate 75, 12 miles north of Lexington and is only a few miles from Interstate 64.

The Forester Sisters to appear in concert

The Forester Sisters, a country-music quartet from Lookout Mountain, Ga., will perform in concert at Eastern Kentucky University on Friday, Oct. 19, as part of ECU's Homecoming '90 celebration.

The concert, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Alumni Coliseum, will be the annual "Pops for Music's Sake" fundraiser. Proceeds from the benefit concert will support the ECU Department of Music's Scholarship Fund.

Tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased at the ECU music office, 101 Foster Music Building, ECU.

One of the sisters, Kathy, is a graduate of ECU. She will be featured at Homecoming activities on Saturday, Oct. 20, and will be honored that day as the Department of Music's "Alumna of the Year."

"The Forester Sisters are known for the quality and energy of their performances," said Dr. John Roberts, chair of the ECU Department of Music.

"We're delighted to be bringing this kind of musical entertainment to the students, alumni and other friends of ECU. We also appreciate the Foresters' generosity in helping us with 'Pops for Music's Sake' this year."

Larry W. Bailey, director of alumni affairs for ECU, said the scheduling of a major concert had capped off plans for Homecoming '90.

"We're excited about the concert, not only because the Foresters are such successful professional musicians," he said, "but also because Kathy Forester is an ECU Alumna."

The Forester Sisters have performed musical selections ranging from ballads, to country standards to gospel.

The four sisters and their 12-piece band have just released their eighth album, "Come Hold Me."

Songs from the album range from the '40s-like ballad and title-track, "Come Hold Me," to the '90s country-drive of "Nothing's Gonna Bother Me Tonight."

The family began its musical career by singing in church, as did many country artists.

They sang together in various combinations, gradually turning their church experiences into paying dates at parties and in night clubs in the Chattanooga area.

When Warner Bros. Records asked them to come to Nashville for an audition, they thought it was a prank.

It wasn't. The musicians have expanded their repertoire since their first single, "That's What You Do When You're in Love," released in 1984.

After June and Kathy graduate from college, Kim and Christy interrupted their own college educations so that the four could pursue a musical career.

They have performed with the likes of Alabama, George Jones, Ricky Skaggs, Marie Haggard, Kenny Rogers and the Oak Ridge Boys.

In 1986, they received the Academy of Country Music's "Top Vocal Group Award." Their first album garnered them a Grammy nomination.

Georgetown College launching ad campaign for development

Georgetown College will launch a $30,000 advertising campaign beginning this fall in the Louisville and Lexington, Ky. metropolitan areas, announced college vice president for development, J. Richard Carlton.

The campaign, "Making A Difference," is the theme for the institution's five-year capital campaign and was designed and developed in-house. Magazines, business newspapers, and television and radio stations in the two cities will be tapped by the college to spread the campaign's theme.

According to Carlton, the campaign will dramatically demonstrate ways Georgetown College, its alumni, its faculty and staff, and its students are making a difference in their communities, states and nation.

"Georgetown has a marvelous story to tell," said Carlton. "It's a unique place that makes a difference in a lot of lives. I hope our advertising campaign will cause the public to say, 'I didn't know that about Georgetown College!'"

Although targeted for Louisville and Lexington, the campaign will also be seen in other key cities across Kentucky.

Georgetown College, founded in 1829, is a four-year, private, Christian liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. The school is located 12 miles north of Lexington in the heart of Kentucky's bluegrass region.

Dr. W. Morgan Patterson is president.

Careers in the 1990s

Need for agricultural engineers grows

By Ed Deitz
UK News Bureau

Perry Jones wants to get his career rolling with Deere & Co., the agricultural machinery manufacturer that he smilingly calls "the Elvis of the profession."

Chris Ampfer, on the other hand, wants to wrestle with the environmental ramifications of burying trash and garbage.

As diverse as their goals are, they are studying in the same academic department at the University of Kentucky — the agricultural engineering program, based in UK's College of Engineering but administered jointly with the College of Agriculture.

A sample list of courses shows how that works: Calculus, physics, computer science, fluid mechanics, electrical circuits and electronics; soil science, animal nutrition, plant biology, food chemistry and hydrology.

Four years of hard work in the program can pay off with starting salaries of $28,000 a year and higher, professors say.

According to the College of Agriculture, fewer and fewer people are directly involved in food and fiber production, in farming.

There is a need, however, for more people trained in the technology and the sciences that deal with the engineering challenges of agriculture.

The major employers of agricultural engineers are:

—Agribusiness manufacturers, who produce equipment and supplies for agriculture, such as farm machinery, buildings and building materials, environmental control systems, feed, fertilizer and chemicals.

—Food processing plants and the manufacturers of food and fiber processing machinery.

—Public service agencies, such as the federal Agricultural Research Service and Soil Conservation Service, and universities and state agricultural extension services.

—Agricultural producers, who need consulting engineers and managers for large production operations.

—Engineering consulting firms in the construction field or an aspect of water resources and land reclamation.

Students in agricultural engineering can choose one of four options: power and machinery, food engineering, natural resources engineering or structures and environmental engineering.

Agricultural engineering professors Fred Payne, Scott Shearer and Gary Felton explain the different career paths.

Power and machinery, Shearer says, deals with the design and development of automated controls and machines, and systems used to produce and harvest crops.

Food engineering involves the processing and handling of agricultural products, Payne points out.

Natural resources engineering, Felton says, is "conservation engineering" to enhance agricultural production, to protect the environment and to prevent pollution of the ground, air and water.

Structures and environmental engineering is the design and environmental control of buildings used to grow plants or animals, Shearer says.

Perry Jones, a graduate student from Bourbon County, chose power and machinery because, he says, the increasing sophistication of farm equipment "offers some real interesting challenges."

He wants to be involved in the design of machinery "that'll be a real benefit to the farmer, help him do his job easier, faster and better."

Chris Ampfer, also a graduate student, chose natural resources engineering because of his interest in environmental issues.

A graduate of Campbell County High School, Ampfer says he hopes to apply the knowledge he has obtained at UK working with waste disposal systems, particularly landfills.

"It's a hot issue at the moment and it's probably going to get a lot hotter. I think there'll be plenty of opportunities when I get out."

Editor's note: "Careers In The 90's," a feature service of the University of Kentucky, examines career opportunities through the decade of the 1990s.

"Beatlemania" comes to MSU

"1964: As the Beatles" will perform at Morehead State University on Friday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium. From haircuts to singing voices, the four young men will deliver a re-creation of a "Beatles" concert. The concert is sponsored by MSU's Student Government Association as part of the University's annual Parents Weekend activities, Sept. 28-30. Admission is free but donations will be accepted at the door to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund.

Art show at MSU

The Morehead Art Guild will hold its 10th Annual Pine Grove Competitive Art Festival at Claypool-Young Art Building at Morehead State University on Sept. 22. Art work submitted must be framed and ready for hanging.

The festival features both professional and non-professional categories in the following: Landscape, Still Life, Portrait, Animal, Flowers, Non-Objective and Miscellaneous. There is a special category for high school and college students.

An innovation of this year's show is that judging for all awards other than purchase awards will be done by the artists entered in the show.

Artist registration is from 8-10 a.m. and the show will be open for viewing for 1-5 p.m. Area artists will demonstrate from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Demonstrations are open to the public. For further information call 784-6238.

Completes fire fighter school

JAMES TODD GRAY

James Todd Gray, formerly of Allen, now of Lexington, recently completed a 14-week program and graduated from the Lexington Fire Department Training School, ranking third in a class of about 300 applicants. He was accepted into fire school after passing a series of written, physical and psychological tests.

Upon graduation, he qualified as a Lexington City and State Certified Firefighter, certified Emergency Medical Technician and is trained for "operations level" in hazardous material. He is currently assigned to Station One, Headquarters, Engine One, the busiest city station, averaging 1400 runs yearly.

Gray received the prestigious Carl Travis Award voted on by the other recruits and presented by the Fraternal Order of Firefighters.

He was a member of the Allen Volunteer Fire Department for nine years, attaining the rank of Lieutenant. He is a 1983 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, received an associate degree from Prestonsburg Community College, and plans to pursue a degree in fire science at Eastern Kentucky University.

Gray is the son of Jimmy D. and Kay Gray of Allen. He is married to the former Amy Turner of Drift and has two daughters, Rachael and Rebecca.

The "Beatles" to perform at MSU

Morehead State University's Student Government Association will present "1964: As the Beatles" in concert on Friday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium, as part of the Parents Weekend activities.

McCartney; Tom Work as George Harrison and Greg George as Ringo Starr.

The concert is free and open to the public. Donations will be accepted at the door to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund.

"As The Beatles," the four young men have tried to capture the fabulous sound that sparked the British invasion of the mid-sixties. Their intensive research into the costumes, haircuts, speaking and singing voice, stage movements, facial movements and equipment have allowed them to create and incredible recreation of a "Beatles" concert.

The group considers its work to be the most authentic and endearing tribute to the "Beatles." Voted 1989 NACA College and University Contemporary Music Artist of the Year, it has received praise from many college campuses, newspapers, magazines, record officials and talk show hosts.

Alistair Taylor, former president of the "Beatles" label Apple Records, said that "the resemblance was uncanny, it sent shivers down my spine, it was just like the boys, never have I seen another groups go to such detail....born again 'Beatles'!"

The performers are: mark Benson as John Lennon; Gary Grimes as Paul

MSU to host FHA meeting

Morehead State University will be host to 200 high school students and teachers for the Region 9 Fall Meeting for Future Homemakers of America — Home Economics Related Occupations (FM-HERO) on Friday, Sept. 28.

The conference, designed to provide training for new officers, will be held in Lloyd Cassidy Building and Reed Hall, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., according to Jane Ellington, assistant professor of home economics.

by Ed Taylor

WHY ATHLETES ACT AS THEY DO

The case of Derrick Miller, former basketball player with the Kentucky Wildcats, taking a new Toyota pickup truck out for a test drive over night and not returning the car until a week later, has a person wondering what does a kid learn in college anyway? Here is someone who went through four years of school at UK and comes out with a theft charge against him. All that he can say is "it was a stupid mistake."

Do college basketball players think that they are exempt from the rules that govern other people? I mean to take a truck out for a test and not have it returned until a week later is absurd. Now he is in trouble with the law and his reputation ruined, like one Derrick Minnifield for bad checks some time back.

Not only that, Miller has to face charges of hitting a woman in the face. What possesses such young men of their caliber to act as they do?

FIVE REDS UP FOR FREE AGENCY

The Cincinnati Reds will have a decision to make 15 days after the World Series is over. The decision is whether to sign five of this year's team members to new contracts or just let them go on the market. Sounds cruel doesn't it, the way they talk about human beings being let go on the market.

The five are Tom Browning, Rick Mahler, Danny Jackson, Bill Doran and Ron Oester. The Reds, in deep need of pitchers anyway, have three — all starters — on the shopping list. Browning, might be worth one year with the Reds, but not at some ridiculous price. The southpaw really hasn't had a great year outside of his rookie season when he won 20 games.

Danny Jackson, on the other hand, would not be missed in the Reds rotation. The million dollar plus pitcher has had a horrible last two seasons (including this one) and chances are his miseries will continue. The Reds should go to the free agent market (there's that word again) and replace Jackson with a consistent winner (if there is one available).

Mahler, perhaps the most consistent of the three pitchers, has shown a lot of improvement this year, considering the fact he hasn't pitched all that much for the Reds until recently. Mahler can be replaced from someone in the farm system.

I must admit that I saw no reason for the Reds to trade for Bill Doran from the Houston Astros. Now, I must admit, I was wrong. Doran is a better ballplayer than what the Reds are putting at second base now. He has more power, hits with more consistency and is a good defensive second baseman. The Reds should, and I believe they will, sign Doran to contract to keep him in his hometown.

Ron Oester, has been a faithful Reds player, and hasn't said much. He is dependable and I believe some other club would have wanted Oester a couple of years ago, but now I don't know. If he can stay on with the Reds he had better take the contract. I don't think he will find many open arms in the free market.

...OTHER GOOD PLAYERS AVAILABLE

On the free agency market, there will be several good players available. Whether the Reds, who have not been known to enter the bidding wars, get involved in the active bidding remains to be seen. However, here is a chance to sign some quality players to help next season and, if they win their division, be able to repeat next year. Of course the "big cheese" of the Reds will have to confess that it is going to cost them some bucks. But if you win a division, maybe a pennant and possibly a World Series, you can afford it. Darryl Strawberry, Kevin Gross, and others could be helpful to the Reds in 1991. However, I doubt they could sign Strawberry to a contract. But Braggs and Hatcher will not be around long. Until next week good sports and remember be a good sport.

PITINO: "U. K. FANS WILL LIKE JAMAL MASHBURN"

One of the things University of Kentucky head basketball coach Rick Pitino will be able to do this year that he did not have the luxury of doing last season is being able to substitute. One of the reasons for such optimism from the UK coach is the recruiting class plus two walk-on's who will be added to the squad this year.

According to Coach Pitino, UK fans will be pleased with the performance of Jamal Mashburn.

"Jamal is 240-pounds and with no body fat," he said of his prize recruit. "He is a big guy and this year's team should be very interesting. We will be young but very talented. We will probably start two or three freshman which is rare at UK to have that many freshmen playing that many minutes. Players on the team tell me that Mashburn is in a class by himself."

Coach Pitino said that John Pelphrey will always play basketball at the University of Kentucky. "John has put on about 10-15 pounds of muscle since last year," said the UK mentor. "We lost Derrick Miller, our two guard (shooting guard), and we were not able to recruit anyone to replace him. So, John will start at the two guard position even though we have three or four players who can compete for that spot. Jody Thompson, walk-on Junior Braddy and John. John may have to fill that void."

On the subject of Jody Thompson, Feds Creek's outstanding player, Pitino said that he has not seen him play since he came to Lexington "because we're not allowed to watch them right now. I understand he is in good shape. Jody shoots the ball well but is a little timid and it will take a little time to get him out of that."

"The players also tell me that Gimel Martinez is fundamentally sound," he stated. According to Pitino, Martinez will start at center for the Wildcats this year.

"If we were to start the season today, Martinez would be our center. Mashburn would be at the small forward spot and Reggie Hanson our power forward. Sean Woods would be at the point guard and our number two guard would be Pelphrey."

Travis Ford, who decided to forego his scholarship at Missouri this year and walk on at UK but will not be eligible to play until next year, has been giving Sean Woods fits. "They are competing against each other right now and will be competing against each other next year for the point guard position. But that is good for Sean."

Pitino talked about the favorite here in the mountains — Richie Farmer. "He's looking o.k.," Pitino said. "A lot of people seem to be interested in Richie Farmer. Richie Farmer is just a fair basketball player and does not have a great work habit. He is a lovely young man. As nice of a guy as I would want to coach. I say this to people and they take it the wrong way when I say it."

"Billy Donovan, who carried on his back the entire Providence College basketball team was a 5' 10" point guard. When I took the New York Knick's job, he played for me," recalled Pitino. "But we had to let him go. I tried everything to get him past a certain date, which meant we had to pay him in full. I wouldn't release him until he got to that point. Finally we released him."

"All the people at Providence, Rhode Island were stunned. They could not believe that the best player in the NCAA tournament that year could not make it in the pros," continued Pitino. "I tried to explain to them, appreciate what he did in college. He was a phenomenal college basketball player that year — but he wasn't a pro."

"Farmer is probably one of the best high school basketball players there will ever be for what he did for a basketball team. Incredible what he had done for that team considering his height and the size of the school. And that should not take away from that type of story. Richie is just going to be an average college basketball player which is fine. He's a good student. A great kid. We're happy to have him in our program."

"Some people in Eastern Kentucky think that he is going to play in the pros," remarked Pitino. "Nothing wrong with believing that. But he's not going to. He's just not in the class with some of the players we have already here, but we are happy to have him."

In next Wednesday's sports section, Coach Pitino looks at more of the new players, the upcoming schedule, the SEC, plus his future at UK.

Trojans hold off Bobcats 6-0 in JV game

Monday night at the Betsy Layne football field it was time for the junior varsity teams to get some playing time in as the Wheelwright Trojans and Betsy Layne Bobcats hooked up.

Trojan quarterback Steven Shelton carried the ball over from 1-yard out on a quarterback sneak to give the Trojans a 6-0 victory over the host team Betsy Layne.

The game was well-played for both teams as defense became the name of the game. For the victorious Trojans, Chuck Hutton carried the ball nine times in rushing for 50-yards. Steven Shelton managed 12-yards on four carries. Cruse Caudill carried four times, gaining 11-yards for the Trojans. Wheelwright had two completions in nine attempts for just 15-yards passing and a total offense of 97-yards. Wheelwright had eight first downs.

The Trojans had only one turnover in the game, a fumble which Betsy Layne recovered. The Trojans were penalized twice for a total of 10-yards. For Betsy Layne, the Bobcats managed only 59-yards offensively. Berne Eplin carried the ball seven times for 20-yards. Doug Hammond had 16-yards on four carries. Brian Combs passed six times with two completions for 14-yards. Betsy Layne had 45-yards on the ground.

Betsy Layne was penalized once for 15-yards and they fumbled the ball once. The Bobcats picked up three first downs.

Will Tigers Have A "Thorn" In Their Paw as Blackcats Visit?

Is this the time to be going to Paintsville to play the Tigers of coach Walter Brugh with a thorn in their paw? I mean, to be the team that has to face a Paintsville team that just got whitewashed 20-0 by Frankfort? A team that has breezed past previous opponents and seemed to sputter at home against Frankfort?

For Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton and his team, that is the next stop on the Blackcats' 11-game schedule.

The Tigers had no offense against the Frankfort squad and played little defense. Paintsville also had problems holding on to the football as they fumbled their way to the shut-out. Could it have been that the Tigers finally played some competition stronger than what they had already faced? Sheldon Clark was not much of a match for the Tigers. Allen Central and Wheelwright provided no strong resistance to the "Brugh Masters 11."

However, Paintsville is a very talented team, with perhaps the best quarterback in the region in Billy Phelps, 6-3, 215. Phelps not only can throw the ball but can also gain some important yardage on the ground.

Three newcomers to the Tigers have been very impressive in the backfield with Phelps. Freshman Brad Tiller, 5-9, 175, has everyone talking about the potential of the youngster, especially after he gains some experience. Two sophomore's run the backfield well for the Tigers. Morgan Cyrus, 6-0, 190, and Eddie Young, 5-8, 175. All three are new to the Paintsville team being transfer students. Cyrus and Young came from Lawrence County and Tiller from Martin County.

When it comes to throwing the football Phelps' favorite target is Matt Williams, 5-7, 165 end. Williams has been on the receiving end of several touchdown passes by Phelps, gathering three against Wheelwright two weeks ago.

The Blackcats, according to Coach Letton, are looking better and better with each game. Letton also says that the Paintsville game is a big game for his Blackcats as they enter the rough part of their schedule.

"We have games with Greenup County, Belfry and Leslie County coming up," he said earlier. "The Paintsville game will be a big one for us."

Actually, the next two non-district match-ups will be important to the extent of providing some momentum going into a big district game against Leslie County on October 5.

John Clark has thrown for two TD's this year and last week hit Worthie McGuire with a 74-yard pass against Johnson Central. Aaron Tucker showed that he can do more than pass with a 40-plus run against the Golden Eagles. Add John Goble, Mike Hobson and Allen James to the backfield of the Blackcats and the depth there is clearly seen.

The game may not be important as far as district standings go, but for both teams it can be a great momentum builder as the next three weeks for both teams will indicate.

Last year the Tigers defeated the Blackcats 14-6 in a downpour at the Prestonsburg Athletic Field.

Game time tonight is 8 p.m., and if you can not attend the game in person you will be able to tune in on WQHY-FM, 95.5 or WXXZ-FM, 105.5 to hear all of the play by play of the game between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. "Raceland is Raceland"

Rebels travel to Raceland tonight for district game

Allen Central football coach Dewey Jamerson says that "Raceland is Raceland" when asked about the Boyd County team. By that Coach Jamerson was speaking of the rich tradition the Rams have in football and the power teams that usually come from Raceland.

However, last year was disappointing year for the Rams. They failed to make the playoffs after being there the previous three years. The Rams finished last season with a 6-5 record including a 48-14 win over the Rebels at Allen Central.

One of the reasons that Rams' coach Bill Tom Ross saw for a dismal 6-5 record was the lack of depth and conditioning. As a result, Raceland players did required running all summer and reported to practice in better condition.

The Rams are loaded in the backfield with third-year starters Matt Bostick, Shannon McCoy and Mike Thompson lining up behind quarterback Jesse Justice.

"We have an all-senior backfield that's the biggest, strongest and quickest we have ever had," said Ross. "I feel we can run with a lot of authority."

McCoy, 5-9, 195, has good speed and has developed into a running threat. Thompson, who was moved from fullback to halfback, is the strongest player on the team, according to Coach Ross.

Raceland's ground game will be complemented by an improved passing attack. Justice, 6-0, 190, will be returning for his second year at quarterback and has impressed Coach Ross.

"He has an excellent passing arm," says the Rams' mentor. "We'll be throwing the ball more than we have because of him."

If you have a quarterback who can throw the football there must be someone who can catch it. The Rams have just that person in Brian Fletcher, who was moved from from running back to wide receiver. Pencil in Shane Davidson at tight end and wideout Nate Fannin.

Raceland will face the Rebels with a 3-1 record. After dropping the season opener to Ashland Paul Blazer 41-8, the Rams have won the last three games over Bardstown, 25-8; East Carter, 49-0 and last Friday over Lynchburg (Va.), 34-10.

Allen Central will come into tonight's contest with a 1-3 record. The Rebels won their opener over Jenkins in double overtime, 20-14. Since then the Rebels have dropped their last three to Paintsville, 41-0; Phelps, 28-0; and Magoffin County, 19-6.

Allen Central is moving the ball better. With starting quarterback B.J. Aldrich still out, the Rebels have found a big hole they need to plug. Wide receiver Brett Meadows has been starting at the spot, but inexperience at the position has curtailed most of the Rebels' passing game.

Game time is 8 p.m. at Raceland. No radio of the game unless you are fortunate to pick up a Raceland Station.

Suffers broken collar bone

Taylor out as Trojans visit Bearcats den tonight

For the Johns Creek Bearcats, last Friday night's victory over the Betsy Layne Bobcats was a joyous win, because it was their first of the season. However, the Bearcats suffered a loss also. The loss of Jason Taylor, Bearcat quarterback.

Taylor was hit hard in the third period by the Betsy Layne defense and had to be helped off the field and later was diagnosed as having a broken collar bone and the fleet-footed sophomore will be lost to the Bearcats the remainder of the season. Taylor rushed for 89-yards on six carries and had two completions for 22-yards passing. Taylor took a punt in the first quarter and returned it 56-yards for a touchdown.

fullback spot and at running back will be Johnny Thompson. Hunt piled up 56-yards against Betsy Layne in carrying the ball eight times.

Johns Creek totaled 289 offensive yards last week with 247-yards coming on the ground.

Wheelwright will be coming off a 38-12 loss at the hands of the Hazard Bulldogs. The Trojans know they need a win bad. This will be a big game for the Trojans for the simple reason of putting together a decent

Colonels Host Future OVC Member SE Missouri Saturday

Coach Roy Kidd's Eastern Kentucky University Colonels host future Ohio Valley Conference member Southeast Missouri State University Saturday night at Roy Kidd Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

SEMO comes into the game fresh from an opening 24-12 decision over Central Florida, while Southeast Missouri has won eight in a row (including six to close 1989) and owns victories this season over Southwest Baptist (21-7) and Missouri Southern (17-0).

"Southeast Missouri seems to be a well-coached team on film and come into this game with a lot of momentum," said Kidd. "We need to go into this game and improve from last week's game against Central Florida. We're certainly not looking ahead to any game on our schedule. This one is going to be tough enough and we'll have to be ready."

SEMO is paced on offense by quarterback Jason Liley who has hit 37-62 passes for 412 yards and two TDs. Wide receiver Darrell Philon and tailback Steve Jones have each caught eight passes. Jones tops Indian rushers with 193-yards in 44 carries and has scored three TDs.

"We'll have to try and control both these players because they have the ability to bread the big play on a team," Kidd said.

Southeast is also tough on defense, having allowed only 219-yards per game, including only 64-yards per game on the ground. Linebacker Sean Steinmann leads the Indians with 12 tackles this season.

Eastern began its 1990 season allowing just one TD and two field goals to UCF. Of the 50 passes the Indians threw, four were picked off by Eastern.

"I thought our defense played well considering they were on the field so much (81 snaps). We tried to substitute as much as possible to keep them fresh but they had the ball quite a bit," Kidd said.

Offensively, tailback Markus Thomas was the leader with 139-yards in 20 carries, including an opening TD scamper of 57-yards. Other TDs were scored by Colonel quarterback Lorenzo Fields and fullback Rick Burkhead.

Eastern rolled up 204-yards rushing on the night as senior All-American tackle Al Jacevicius led the way by grading out at 82 percent and being named the OVC's offensive lineman of the week.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The POWER RATING is compiled by Environmental Engineer Larry Atha of Marmet, West Va., and is a partly subjective and partly mathematical computation. In the chart, each line shows from left to right: rating position, name of school, (wins, losses, ties), POWER RATING, this week's opponent and predicted margin of victory and/or score for team in column one.

KENTUCKY TO REGROUP AND WIN OVER INDIANA

Last week Kentucky was one of 11 teams that were upset in the POWER RATING "Top 50". Overall the POWER RATING was 25-12, including a 6-1 record in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Indiana will be playing their first game of the season and this coupled with Indiana's graduation losses from 1989 are the reasons Kentucky is picked to win 19-10. Coach Curry must find more offense to be competitive when the Wildcats begin playing their conference schedule.

Fortunately, both Indiana and next week's opponent North Carolina should provide Kentucky with the opportunity to improve their offense.

Louisville appears to be back on their schedule for a bowl after last week's win over Murray State 69-0. Louisville is picked to win 28-13 this week. Louisville faces stiff test the following week at West Virginia University although the Mountaineers do not appear to have the team they had last year.

Locally, Morehead was beaten 24-0 by Western Kentucky, but should win this week over Kentucky State.

Eastern Kentucky was a 24-12 winner over Central Florida last week and is favored over SE Missouri State this week by 21 points. Eastern Kentucky continues to hold their number two POWER RATING in Division 1-AA and plays Georgia Southern, Western Kentucky and Middle Tennessee State the next three weeks. As predicted, Georgia Southern lost to Middle Tennessee State last week.

Local officials see need for fan education in rule books

Knowing and understanding the rules. That seems to be the problem today in high school athletics concerning football, basketball and baseball. Knowing why an official would make certain calls and why some carry more severe penalties than others is important.

For Keith Henry and Dale Conn, two Floyd County officials in high school football, that seems to be a problem that keeps getting worse.

"One call that has been made already this year, not around here, is the "free kick" rule that never has been called in our area," says Henry, a veteran of four years of calling high school football games. "The kicker gets a free kick without any players coming at him. Now if you allow a team to do that here, you had better be ready to get in your car in a hurry. Especially if it wins a game for someone. It has always been in the rule book, but the fans don't understand the rule."

"The fans being educated on the rules would be very helpful in understanding the game," related Conn, a two-year referee in football. "Because they think they know but don't understand the rules, creates problems for all officials." Conn also calls basketball and umpires baseball games in the summer.

The two officials took some time last Monday night to give a rundown on new rule changes in high school football this year.

The players cannot wear any kind of decorations (personal clothing) and the towels used must be solid white.

The quarterback can go to the sidelines to get the play. However, the player can not be more than 15-yards away and must be ready to play on the signal to play.

On a time out, the team may go to the sideline and huddle. Only the 11 players on the field may do so, no one from the bench.

The two local officials are both approved by the State Association and are members of the Local Association.

HOROSCOPE

September 16 through September 22

By C.C. Clark

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

Uncertainty seems to be the word for you this week. A minor mistake in your world of perfect order could send you out on a tangent. Pay close attention to your feelings.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

It is time for you to take a much needed vacation. If it's not possible to get away just now, perhaps simply some extra sleep would provide the needed rest.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Take more time than usual to organize your thoughts and feelings this week. You will be faced with a difficult challenge. Be sure to look before you leap.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Reading will help to solve a problem that weighs heavily on your mind. The answers won't come easy, but they are definitely there. Watch your money closely.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Don't get bogged down with the petty details of life this week. Let go and live a little. Take some time to just enjoy life and the art of living well.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

You need to let go of that negativity; you are hurting not only yourself, but those around you also. If married, your mate comes through when it really matters.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Let off that steam with some exercise. You'll feel better and it is possible you will be an inspiration to those around you. Friends will surprise you this week.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Whatever you do, don't take your frustrations out on your romantic partner. Instead give them credit for understanding your moodiness and just appreciate that they are there.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

That change in your work environment is near, but don't push things. Be careful not to push your ideas too strongly this week; it could backfire on you.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

You need to look out for what is yours and let others worry about their own business. It is tempting to stick your nose where it doesn't belong, but don't do it.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Romance is definitely on the way for you. Be sure not to rush into anything you may regret later. Watch your money wisely and set up that savings account.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

You will feel great happiness and worthiness toward life. Others will appreciate your enthusiasm and zest for life and it will even make their lives a little happier.

TV PIPELINE

'Alien Nations' Gary Graham launched career with 'Hardcore'

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Alien Nation is my favorite program but nobody seems to be able to tell me anything about Gary Graham, who plays Matthew Sikes. Can you help me out? —P.D. Smythe, Glen Avon, Calif.

A: Gary Graham was born in Long Beach, Calif., but grew up in Orange County, Calif. He studied both pre-med and drama at the University of California, until a co-ed actress/singer/dancer influenced him to switch to acting. His motion picture debut in Hardcore launched him into a chain of pictures including starring roles in Hollywood Knights, All The Right Moves, The Arrogant, Robojax and The Last Warrior. His movies for television include Scruples, No Place To Hide, Money On The Side, Atlanta Child Murders, Fire On The Mountain, Thou Shalt Not Kill and Dirty Dozen, Part III. A resident of Los Angeles, 40-year-old Gary spends his free time riding motorcycles, dancing, and searching for that perfect woman.

Q: Recently I viewed the movie Heathers with a group of friends. One of the characters looks familiar to me, as if I have seen him in another movie. His name is Christian Slater. The only difference in this movie and Gleaming The Cube is his hair color. Could you tell me if it is the same person and a little bit about him? One more thing, could you tell me what other movies he has been in? —Amanda Venters, Ayden, N.C.

A: Twenty-one-year-old Christian Slater starred in Heathers with black hair; in Gleaming The Cube he had light blond hair. Actually his hair is brown. His other films include The Name Of The Rose, Tucker: The Man And His Dream, and Pump Up The Volume. He began his acting career at age 7, when his mom, a casting director, got him a role on One Life to Live. A native New Yorker, he was born on Aug. 18, 1969.

Q: There was a two-hour movie a few years ago that I've been trying to get the name of to see if I can get it on video or see if it's coming back on TV. It stars Linda Evans and Jack Thompson. She's from a big city with two kids and she meets and marries a man from Australia who runs a sheep station. He also has two kids. He is killed in a plane crash and she is left to run the station and take care of his kids. —Pat MacArthur, Carlsbad, N.M.

A: The film you seek is named The Last Frontier, and also stars Jason Robards, Meredith Salinger and Peter Billingsley. It was a CBS made-for-television movie and aired in two-parts on Oct. 5 and 6, 1986. Write to Audience Relations, CBS Television, 51 W. 52 St., New York, N.Y., for information.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.
