State officials say board could be held accountable :

BINGO! Where does all the money go?

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer and Scott Perry
Times Editor

State investigators would neither confirm nor deny Tuesday that they will review the financial records of a group called the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association to determine how that organization raises and spends funds.

An attorney with the state Department of Education said Tuesday that a weekly bingo game operated by the booster club is a "criminal" activity and the Floyd County Board of Education could be held accountable under state laws.

Efforts this week by the Times to determine the membership and financial activity of the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association were unsuccessful. Prestonsburg High School principal Robert May, an apparent leader of the group, declined to name individual members.

May said the organization was "private" and its financial records would be open to inspection if the newspaper could give "a good enough reason" for seeking the review. May said Monday he was unaware of a state law that requires charitable "gaming" organizations to file quarterly financial reports with the Floyd County Court Clerk.

The Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association operates a weekly bingo game at Prestonsburg High School, and May said this week that "some" of the proceeds from those games go to the school. He did not detail how much of the revenues went to underwrite school activities.

Bingo games are illegal under Kentucky law unless groups sponsoring the activities meet certain guidelines. The law says charitable gaming is permissible only if organizations, among other criteria:

-maintain a charitable tax exemption according to the Federal Internal Revenue Code;

-use only volunteer personnel who receive no remuneration for conducting the gaming activity;

-keep accurate records and books showing the number of persons who played; the total amount of monies received; the expenses incurred; the name and address of each person to whom expenses were paid; and the amount of net proceeds;

-deposit all proceeds from the gaming activity into a checking account devoted exclusively to the gaming activity. Money for expenses shall be withdrawn only by checks having preprinted consecutive numbers and made payable to specific persons or organizations; and

-use all proceeds solely for the purposes consistent with the charitable functions. Kentucky law also requires charitable gaming organizations to register with the county clerk and provide:

-proof of the organization's tax exempt status;

-a quarterly accounting of all money received from the gaming activity, all prizes paid out, all expenses paid, and all monies retained for charitable use.

The Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association fails to meet many of those requirements for authority to conduct regular Monday night bingo games.

The organization is not registered with the county clerk, nor are financial documents on file in the office.

Miners in Floyd, Martin counties affected :

Major layoffs hit coalfields

Hard times in the coalfields struck home this week with reported layoffs at operations in Floyd and Martin counties.

Officials with Branham and Baker Coal Company, headquartered in Prestonsburg, were unavailable Tuesday to confirm reports the company had shut down its Beverly Ann tipple at David Monday, idling at least 100 workers.

In Martin County, details were more specific as Martin County Coal officials confirmed Tuesday that 75 underground miners had been permanently laid off.

Martin County Coal president Raymond Bradbury said the layoffs were a result of a slow market, brought about by high stockpiles at the nation's utility companies and an unusually mild winter.

"It was anticipated that this would be a bleak year for the industry," Bradbury said Tuesday. "We had to prepare ourselves to be able to remain competitive."

Bradbury said Martin County Coal was shutting down "at least two underground mines," adding that most miners affected by the layoffs were from Martin County.

The coal market, Bradbury added, "is going to be on the down side for the near future." No date was in sight, he added, for a callback of idled workers.

County to adopt state trash plan

In a spin-off of the state's Adopt-A-Highway program, Floyd County officials are looking at the idea of community groups adopting county roads in an effort to clean up Floyd County.

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce approached Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo about possibility of the county providing trash bags and road signs to communities that want to conduct their own clean-up program.

Residents of Cracker Bottom in Martin have scheduled their first community clean-up this Saturday, in conjunction with several civic groups doing their state sponsored Adopt-A-Highway clean-up.

For more information about adopting a county road contact the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce or the county judge-executive's office.

The aftermath . . .

The Floyd County Times contributed $47 to the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association Monday during the organization's weekly bingo game at Prestonsburg High School. State officials say the operation does not meet legal guidelines for operating a "charitable gaming" operation but they declined to say if the organization would be the subject of an investigation.

Billips accused of "possible violations" :

Election probe asked

A Middle Creek man has asked state Attorney General Fred Cowan to investigate "possible violations" of Kentucky election laws which he alleges occurred during Eddie Billips' successful campaign for a seat on the Floyd County Board of Education.

In an April 1 letter to Cowan, Middle Creek resident Tim Sizemore alleged that Billips' campaign for the District 1 school board seat involved three "possible violations" of election law, including contentions that Billips had received free advertising in The Floyd County Times and from unspecified radio stations.

Sizemore also contended that the Floyd County Political Action Committee and the Floyd County Education Association were "in violation of the Kentucky election law by exceeding the legal limit of financial help in the campaign to elect Mr.

Eddie Billips to the position of school board member in Floyd County."

Specifically, Sizemore alleged that political advertisements were published in The Floyd County Times "on October 31, 1990, November 2, 1990, and November 9, 1990 and listed as 'paid for by the candidate' but Kentucky Registry of Election Finance do not show that the above

Education reform not going to go away :

Sanders says teachers should "seize the day"

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Dr. Penney Sanders urged Floyd County teachers Friday to "seize the day" and make education reform work, noting that the clock was ticking on implementation of new laws and those laws "are not going to go away."

Dr. Sanders, head of the state's new Office of Education Accountability, told members of the Floyd County Education Association (FCEA) Friday that Kentucky's Education reform Act was entering the second year of a six-year implementation process, adding that school systems dragging their feet on putting reform measures in place could face serious consequences.

"We either take the opportunity now to restructure education or it's going to be done to us," Dr. Sanders said. Schools which fail to meet reform requirements in a timely fashion, she added, can be declared "schools in crisis."

"Those schools can be closed and students sent elsewhere or we can send someone in who will get the job done," Dr. Sanders said.

Addressing the FCEA during its annual meeting Friday at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center, Dr. Sanders said too many school officials accepted what she called "a misconception" about school reform, believing that provisions of the new law would be amended or eliminated when the state's General Assembly meets in 1992.

"Those people are dead wrong," Dr. Sanders said. "The reform act is

Melvin in, Prestonsburg out on site-based votes

Melvin Elementary became the fourth school in Floyd County to approve school-based decision making, following a faculty vote Thursday.

Teachers at the elementary school voted 12-3 in favor of school-based decision making, which represented a 75 percent plurality favoring the plan. State law requires only a 66 percent favorable vote to begin the program, which transfers school decision-making authority to a local panel. The governing committee will include the school principal, two representatives from the school's teachers and two representatives from the school's parents.

In a vote also held last Thursday, teachers at Prestonsburg High School rejected a school-based decision making proposal by a vote of 21 to 19.

Melvin joins McDowell High School, Betsy Layne High School and Allen Elementary as Floyd County schools which have adopted school-based decision making.

State law requires that all schools in the state implement the plan by 1996.

Residents to study crime-watch idea

Residents of Middle Creek are organizing a neighborhood watch program to combat the problem of "ongoing" thefts in the area.

About 25 citizens met Monday night with Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and Kentucky State Police trooper Ghomer Prater to obtain information about a group watch to discourage crime in their area.

Edgar Stephens, a co-organizer of the citizens group, said residents have suffered from a rash of thefts in the area and hopes forming a neighborhood watch will help curb the problem.

The neighbors helping neighbors group will learn:

- to observe homes;
- to report suspicious circumstances to the police;
- to secure homes, apartments, businesses and farms;
- to secure neighborhoods; and
- to identify personal property.

The group will meet again April 18 at 7 p.m. at the Middle Creek Fire Department. All residents and business owners are urged to attend this meeting if interested in participating.

For more information contact Stephens at 886-1706 or Milton Harvey at 886-1381.

Funds okayed for Martin city project

The City of Martin has received funding for new administrative offices as the result of a state grant announced recently by Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson.

A $5,000 grant from Area Development Fund has been awarded to Martin for partial reimbursement of funds used to construct a city hall. Supplemental funding of $87,764 from local authorities is incorporated in this project for a total cost of $92,764.

Floyd youth dies :

Teens are killed in accident

Two teenagers, including a Floyd County youth, were killed Monday morning after the car they were riding in crashed head-on into an embankment at Sitka in Johnson County.

Terry Kevin Isaac, 18, of Bevinville and Shelia Fairchild, 15, of Paintsville died of injuries received when the 1979 Buick being driven by Isaac dropped off the road shoulder and struck an embankment. Both passengers were thrown from the vehicle after it struck the embankment, said Kentucky State Police. The accident occurred at 3:45 a.m.

Both victims were taken to Paul B. Hall Medical Center where Fairchild was pronounced dead. Isaac was flown to Cabell-Huntington Hospital where he died at 6:35 a.m., according to Johnson County Coroner J.R. Frisby. The teenagers were returning home after visiting relatives for the Easter holiday, Frisby said.

No seat belts were worn, police said. The accident was investigated by Kentucky State Police trooper Larry Preston. The Johnson County Sheriff's Department, W.R. Castle Fire and Rescue Squad and Burchett's Ambulance responded to the scene.

Isaac is survived by his parents, Terry and Lorraine Burke Isaac of Bevinville; a sister, Krystal Gail Isaac; maternal grandparents Nobel and Mable Burke of Bevinville and paternal grandmother, Opal Isaac of Bypro.

Funeral services will be Thursday, April 4, at 11 a.m. at the Little Rock Old Regular Baptist Church at Halo.

listed articles were paid for by the candidate."

Sizemore also alleged "there are reasons to believe that the Floyd County PAC consisting of teachers in the Floyd County School System was in violation" of election laws.

"Records show," Sizemore wrote to Cowan, "that on October 15, 1990 the Floyd County PAC donated the sum of $200 to candidate Eddie Billips...Previous to this date the Floyd County Education Association, consisting of Floyd County teachers, placed a political (ad) in the Floyd County Times newspaper endorsing Eddie Billips...Also prior to the November 6, 1990 school board election Mr. William "Bud" Reynolds, President of the Floyd County Education Association, mailed letters to Floyd County teachers urging them to vote for Mr. Billips.

"The $200 donation, the newspaper endorsement, and the cost of the postage placed the Floyd County Education Association's contributions to Eddie Billips' campaign in excess of the legal limit permitted under Kentucky election laws," Sizemore alleged in his request for an attorney general's investigation.

Sizemore also contended "there are reasons to believe that Floyd County radio stations gave free air time to Mr. Billips in his campaign for school board member." He mentioned no specific radio stations in his letter to Cowan.

Advised of the request for an investigation, Billips responded that the attorney general was "welcome to look at any money I've spent."

Floyd County Times publisher Scott Perry said the newspaper "does not contribute advertising space to political candidates."

Neither the Internal Revenue Service nor the Kentucky Secretary of State's office have the organization listed as tax exempt.

Proceeds from bingo games appear to have been used by the organization for purposes other than for educational or charitable needs.

In November, 1988 Prestonsburg High principal Robert May purchased a 1989 Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck for $7,196.40. The vehicle was registered to "Prestonsburg Athletic & Academic or Robert May."

Persons associated with the organization, including May, have apparently received "reimbursements" from the group's accounts. May said Monday he would not be available this week to discuss or review the group's finances.

The group has no contract on file with the Floyd County Board of Education authorizing use of school facilities for bingo games. Superintendent Ronald Hager said Tuesday no contract was required: school policies indicate otherwise.

Other booster organizations associated with Prestonsburg High School apparently receive little or no financial assistance from the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association. Football and basketball programs at the school sponsor their own fund-raising activities and private groups, like the Blackcat Booster Club, raise monies for school groups.

Fred James, president of the Blackcat Booster Club, said his group was not associated with the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association, and he had no knowledge of that group's operations.

James said his organization raised funds, mainly through the sale of advertising in an annual football program, and those monies were spent to help offset team travel expenses and to help purchase needed equipment.

School band boosters also expressed little knowledge of the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association, and members of that group knew of no funding the association may have provided toward band expenses. Band boosters conduct their own fund-raising events to help purchase uniforms and to help pay travel expenses.

Nearly 100 people paid the $15 entry fee Monday for the regular weekly session of bingo at the high school. Players could participate in other games, buy concessions and compete for door prizes. Cash prizes of $50 were paid to regular bingo winners.

Steve Yater, an attorney for the state Department of Education said Floyd County's board of education could be held accountable if the board condones illegal activity on school grounds. Yater added that operating "under that name at a school facility reinforces the misconception it is a school-related activity." If any school activities received funds from the association, Yater said, it is the local board's responsibility to see appropriate accounting of the funds.

The county board maintains no records on the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association.

Cooper Whitt, assistant director for school district finance with the state Department of Education, said Tuesday that his department director, Ron Moubrey, would contact Floyd superintendent Ron Hager this week to discuss issues concerning the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association. Whitt said it was "possible" his department would "become involved" in reviewing school-related bingo activities.

Any activity or organization which purports to be school-related, Whitt said, should be controlled in some degree by the local board.

Phil Austin, an investigator with the state Office of Education Accountability, would neither confirm nor deny reports that his office was reviewing operations conducted by the Prestonsburg Academic Athletic Association.

County lottery winners listed

In the past month, Kentucky Lottery players from the surrounding area have won thousands of dollars. These lottery players are just a few of the big winners from Eastern Kentucky during the month of March, according to Jeff Riley, regional manager of the Prestonsburg Lottery Office.

The winners are: Tinsley, Patton, $580, Pick 3, of Garrett; Della Craft, $580, Pick 3, of Wayland; Russell

Melvin; Billy Lowe, $660, Pick 3, of Pikeville; Freddie Williams, $500, Pick 3, of Prestonsburg; Michael Charles, $1,000, Kentucky Treasures, of Pikeville; Melissa DeRossett, $50, Kentucky Treasures, of Prestonsburg; Russell Hall, $2,100, 7-11-21, of Virgie; Henry Prater, $815, Lotto Kentucky, of Salyersville; Elizabeth Hamilton, $50, Kentucky Treasures, of Prestonsburg; Mark Coleman, $500, Break Fort Knox II, of Pikeville; Teresa Akers, $23, Lotto Kentucky, of Banner; Brian Stapleton, $660, Pick 3, of Harold.

New motel will open Monday

A new motel in Prestonsburg is scheduled to open Monday in the Prestonsburg Village Plaza.

Super 8 Motel will open its 80-room facility under the management of Stannual Mullins of Prestonsburg.

"We wish to be a family and community involved business that will appeal to all segments of the traveling public; corporate; tourist; seniors; government; and local patrons," Mullins said. "Super 8 is a very quality conscious economy chain with over 750 locations nationwide."

The business is a partnership between Roberts and Kech Developing Company, builders of several Super 8 Motels in Kentucky, and Impac Management of Port Orange, Florida.

Attorney pleads guilty to fraud

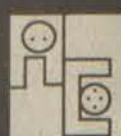

Kenneth Starling Baker, formerly County Attorney of Perry County pleaded guilty in United States District Court at London March 28 to two counts of Bank Fraud and one count of Defrauding a Bankruptcy Court.

According to Assistant United States Attorney David P. Grise, who is prosecuting the case, the bank fraud charges concerned false statements and documents provided by Baker to the Pikeville National Bank in connection with loans made to "K-Star Enterprises, Incorporated", a company formed by Baker. The bankruptcy charges concerned Baker's concealment of a piece of heavy equipment from a bankruptcy trustee during a bankruptcy case involving Kentucky Coal Company of Floyd County. Each of the crimes was committed during Baker's tenure as Perry County Attorney.

The plea was entered on March 28 after jury selection had already begun in the trial of the case. Sentencing is set for May 30 at 3:30 p.m. in London before Judge Eugene Siler. There is no agreement between the parties as to what sentence Baker will receive or what recommendation the United States will make to the Court.

Baker was indicted last October in indictments including the above charges, together with two counts of "fixing" traffic citations. The counts concerning the citations are to be dismissed pursuant to a plea agreement.

The charges carry a combined maximum penalty of 9 years in prison and/or a $750,000 fine.

not going to go away. The nation is looking to Kentucky for a role model in reform and this is our moment to seize the day for the children of the commonwealth so that as we move into the 21st century we are not found lacking.

"I know the battle will be long and I know the battle will be hard," she added. "But anything worth achieving is worth fighting for."

Dr. Sanders focused much of her attention Friday on a provision of reform legislation dealing with school-based decision making, a system which allows individual schools to govern themselves. The issue of school-based decision making has created considerable debate in Floyd County.

"School-based decision making is not just something we picked out of the sky and dropped in (to reform legislation)," Dr. Sanders told FCEA members. "It fits. It's a revolutionary piece of the package and it is critical."

Under reform legislation guidelines, at least one school in each Kentucky district must have school-based decision making in place by the fall of 1991. By 1996, all schools in the state will be operated under the school-based decision making process.

Dr. Sanders explained that her office, created by the General Assembly as part of the 1990 Reform Act, is responsible for seeing that school systems follow education reform provisions. The office has three initiatives, she said, which include:

- Monitoring implementation of the Reform Act;
- Audit and review of school finances, both federal and local; and
- Investigation, with the "power to look at any problem" involving waste, mismanagement or misuse.

The reform act will bring "major changes" to Kentucky education in the next two years, Dr. Sanders said, and "parents and teachers need to be on the same team."

"Those who think the reform measures won't work are wrong," she said. "The only failure we face is when we fail to try."

"The status quo," Dr. Sanders said to a standing ovation from FCEA members, "has not served our children well."

Hearing to discuss Kuwait jobs availability to Floyd Co.

U.S. Congressman Chris Perkins will hold a congressional hearing in Prestonsburg Friday, April 5, "to make sure that Eastern Kentucky businesses and workers are getting a fair shake for jobs in Kuwait."

The hearing, which will last for two hours, will begin at 1 p.m. at the Adams Middle School on South Lake Drive. It will consist of three panels of witnesses.

The first panel will include Michael W. Owen, principal deputy assistant secretary of the Army for Installations, Logistics, and the Environment, and Human Resources official Darvin Allen. Owen will speak for the US Army Corps of Engineers and Allen will testify for the Kentucky Department of Employment Services.

Members of the second panel will include Scott Distler, general manager of Stewart Mechanical Enterprises of Louisville; Roger Gribble, acting regional administrator for the Small Business Administration in Atlanta, Georgia; and Bill Robinson, vice chairman of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

Roger Recktenwald, executive director of the Big Sandy ADD, and Jeffrey Noel, executive director of Management and Operations of the Kentucky Cabinet of Economic Development, will be the constituents of the third panel.

Perkins said he is conducting the hearing to find some answers. "It's been an awfully long time since I've seen one thing that's been on so many people's minds than how to get a fair shake in Kuwait. Everywhere I go in Eastern Kentucky, people ask me what's the best way for them to find out what's going on in Kuwait. Then they want to know who can help them get over there," said Perkins, who is the new chairman of the Education and Labor's Employment Opportunities Subcommittee.

"I want to help us find out where the jobs are in Kuwait. And I want to make sure, without a doubt, that Eastern Kentucky is getting a fair shake for these jobs," he concluded.

New Jersey's Representative Robert Andrews is also scheduled to attend the hearing.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

You can mark your calendars, tie a string around your finger, write it on the back of your hand or just ignore it, but this Sunday is the beginning of Daylight Savings Time.

For some reason that defies reasoning, Daylight Savings Time begins to wake up at 2 a.m. and set the clock to 3 a.m. April 7 to be exact...and if you're one of those who see punctuality as a virtue, you'll want to wake up at 2 a.m. and set the clock to 3 a.m. Otherwise, it will be later than you think.

Daylight Savings Time is a wonderful thing unless you have a very small child who is accustomed to running amok from daylight to dark. Then, the extra hours of sun are a curse that cause more than one frazzled parent to pray for a new Ice Age.

We understand.

The minimum wage increased Monday from $3.80 to $4.25 an hour, guaranteeing a minimum wage earner a weekly income of $170. That's not a lot of money, particularly for folks trying to raise families.

We've been on both sides of the minimum wage debate—as an employee who earned it (and less) and as an employer who pays it.

Either side of the coin has a legitimate argument.

Workers want to be able to feed their families.

Employers want to control their costs so they may compete in a global marketplace.

It's Catch-22 in bold print.

Our crystal ball predicts that mandated increases in minimum wage will lead to higher unemployment and tougher times for young people entering the job market for the first time. The economics of that prediction add up...an employer will look for a $7.00 an hour employee to do the work of two $4.25 an hour employees.

We don't have to look any farther than our own front yards to see that theory in practice. How many coal miners have lost their jobs to the technology of economy?

The time will come, we suspect, when Americans will spend less time maintaining their standards of living and more time just trying to survive.

Unfortunately, our crystal ball offers no glimpse of a solution.

Dr. Penney Sanders' crystal ball gives a more precise picture of the future.

Addressing the Floyd County Education Association Friday, Dr. Sanders, head of the state's Office of Education Accountability, said education reform is here to stay and school systems better get with the program.

Local school officials who are delaying implementation of various reform aspects on a belief that the legislation will be altered or scrapped in '92, are "dead wrong," she said.

Dr. Sanders said the reform legislation is already into the second year of a six-year implementation process and schools which don't toe the line could face serious consequences, not the least of which is a state takeover of schools in crisis.

It's time, Dr. Sanders noted, for Kentucky educators to "seize the day."

Amen to that.

Times staffer Tess Whitmer, who has been Lt. Tess Whitmer for most of the past six months and serving with operation Desert Storm in Saudi Arabia, will be back in the good 'ol U.S.A. this week, but don't expect to start seeing her byline anytime soon.

Tess will take a few weeks off to reacquire herself with the little things we all take for granted...like running water and Kentucky weather.

After spending half a year in the desert, a vacation is due.

Wonder if she'll go to the beach?

Another Times semi-regular is, no doubt, a happy camper this week.

Mike Rosenberg, who spends his summers and vacation time behind an Apple keyboard here at the newspaper, spends the rest of his time in a place called Durham, North Carolina, where he claims to be a student at Duke University. Mike also is a statitician for the Duke Blue Devils, who just happened to win the NCAA national championship Monday night.

Duke has been after a national title for some time, appearing in the final four in four of the last five years, and, since UK wasn't eligible for the tourney this year, we're happy the Blue Devils won. Wait'll next year.

Many contributions were received for the Easter Egg hunt held Easter Sunday at Jenny Wiley State Park. It took the combined efforts of many individuals and businesses to make this event a success. Sav-More and the Prestonsburg Rotary Club would like to express their thanks those who contributed to this endeavor:

Jerry's Restaurant, Auxier Road Gas, A & B Auto Glass, Inc., Hair Decisions, Pat's Paint & Wallpaper Company, Fountain Korner Drug, Ritchies' Hallmark, Lloyd's Hardware, and Billy Ray's Restaurant.

We'd also like to thank the Floyd County Rescue Squad, the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, Mrs. Debbie Stumbo and her home economics classes at James D. Adams' Middle School, the Army Corps of Engineers and Jenny Wiley State Park.

Special thanks to all Sav-More employees who helped the Easter Bunny with coloring and hiding the eggs.

This poem was written during the Vietnam War and was found on Hill 691 in Vietnam by a group of Marines. Written on the wrinkled piece of paper was this: Pfc. Franklin Scaff, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and the Marines of Echo Company, 2nd Battalion, 4th Marines. It was found in an old scrapbook of Phyllis Jane Elswick of Marion, Ohio. I thought your reader's might be interested in it since the writer is from Prestonsburg.

WHO CARES IF A MARINE DIES?

Take a man put him alone put him 10,000 miles from home;
Empty his heart of all his love,
make him live in sweat and blood.

This is the life I have to live and why my soul the devil gives.
You peace boys can't learn from your easy chair
You don't know what it's like over here.

You have a ball without even trying while over here men are dying.

You burn your draft cards, then march at dawn, and plant signs on the White House lawn.

You all say you'd ban the bomb,
there's no real war in Vietnam!
You use your drugs, and have your fun,
and then refuse to use a gun.

There's nothing else for you to do, but then we're supposed to fight for you.
I'll never understand you till the day I die;
You made me hear by buddy's cry.

I saw his arm a bloody shred, and then I heard Doc say, "He's dead."

It's a big price to pay,
not live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die, he paid the price, but what did he buy?

He bought your life, by losing his,
but who gives a damn what a Marine gives?

His wife, his parents, and maybe his sons,
but they're about the only ones!

In December I wrote a letter to our State Representative Carl C. Perkins, asking for some special recognition for Marlow Tackett, who provides food, clothing, toys, etc. for so many people here in Eastern Kentucky.

In the letter I attached a copy of a Christmas story that actually happened 14 years ago as told to me by Marlow Tackett. This family, 14 years ago, inspired Marlow to have the Christmas program that now happens every year.

Just this month I received a letter from Mr. Perkins granting the recognition Marlow has long deserved. He made this recognition a permanent record in the Congressional Record of February 21, 1991. I ask that you print this information so that all of Floyd and Pike counties and surrounding counties can share in the recognition of Marlow as Saint Nick of Eastern Kentucky, just as Mr. Perkins proclaims.

I sincerely hope that you can share the value of this information with your public.

Congressman Perkins' speech to members of the House of Representatives follows:

Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor that I would like to recognize today a true Santa Claus in Eastern Kentucky, a gentleman by the name of Marlow Tackett.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you and everyone assembled here today: What is Christmas all about?

For Marlow Tackett, my friends and colleagues, the answer was simple. Christmas is about giving, about helping those in need, and about brightening the lives of people who've been dealt a bad hand somewhere along the way.

Back in Pike County where whole communities have collapsed by coal fields bled dry, Marlow Tackett gave. He gave of his time, his energy, and the little money he owned to provide toys, clothes, fruit, food, you name it, to those families and children who needed it most.

Mr. Speaker, 14 years ago, Marlow brightened one family's Christmas by responding to a little girl's written plea for help for her family.

Now, my friends and colleagues, the people of my district in eastern Kentucky are a proud folk that are reluctant to accept handouts from anybody. So when Marlow showed up at that little girl's doorstep in Pike County laden with gifts, food, and good will, her mother greeted him with a whole deal of skepticism, because, you see, she didn't know that her daughter had written Marlow.

But when that mother looked at Marlow and saw that he was genuine, that he truly wanted to help her and her family enjoy the best Christmas possible, she welcomed him with open arms and a warm heart.

Distinguished friends and colleagues, 14 years later, Marlow is still doing what he does best, spreading cheer and good will to families throughout Pike County and beyond. He is still giving everything of himself so that others less fortunate may enjoy a truly Merry Christmas. So at this time, I would like to turn the tables, and humbly recognize and honor the real Saint Nick of Pike County and Eastern Kentucky, Mr. Marlow Tackett.

God bless him.

I would like to have my shipmate's poem printed in your newspaper on behalf of our troops who served in the Persian Gulf. The poem, written by FC2 (SW) Marvin Honeycutt, USN, aboard the USS KIDD, follows. The poem was written February 20, 1991.

From deep within my grateful heart
A feeling must rise to hear its voice
To thank you all who've taken part
For supporting us by your own choice.

Operation Desert Storm
Has taken us far away
Far away from our daily norm
But Americans we will stay.

We've received your mail by the ton
And by the truckload I am sure.
By the time this war is won
Your caring words will help endure.

From deep within my grateful heart
There's a message I have for you Thanks for showing us from the start
Just what an American can truly do.

Your patriotism is rivaled by none.
Your generousities are many.
And until our job is completely done
For your kind words I'll not take a penny.

So from the Persian Gulf I say thanks
From the men and women proudly serving
On ships, in air, on land, and in tanks
A heartfelt thanks you are quite deserving.

U.S. law tells workers they cannot be fired for going on strike. That rule is as clear-cut and fair as any law on the books. In a free society, a worker should be free to join a union and strive for better conditions without fear of losing his or her job through employer punishment or discrimination.

Since 1935, workers have been assured by federal law that they have a right to collective action and a right to strike. That law has worked to limit industrial strife, to build an effective system of collective bargaining and to create the most productive industrial force in the history of the world. Today, everyone who works for wages in the U.S. benefits from improvements gained by organized labor. Holidays, paid vacations, pensions, health insurance and other benefits were virtually unknown for most workers before the basic right to bargain collectively was guaranteed.

However, during and since the greed-fed Reagan era, those same workers are being told "We can't fire you for striking, but if you do strike, we can 'permanently replace' you." Clearly, that is a contradiction in the law. It defies logic that anyone can find a distinction between being fired and being permanently replaced.

Replaced or fired, the bottom line is workers are losing their jobs for exercising their rights. That is why working people are asking Congress to pass House Resolution 5 and its companion bill, Senate Resolution 55—legislation designed to stop the practice of hiring permanent replacements. The legislation would not stop employers from operating during a strike; it would stop employers from promising possession of the strikers' jobs.

A few employers see the existing loophole in the law as a way to get rid of workers who exercise their rights. By refusing to bargain in good faith, employers may force a strike and then permanently replace the workers who strike.

Existing law prohibits employers from offering replacements a better deal than they offered employees—but there is nothing to prevent employers from offering even lower wages and fewer if any benefits to replacement workers.

This practice has given rise to the hiring of unqualified, untrained workers in highly skilled trades. While employers reap the benefits of decreased payroll outlays, America suffers as the quality and integrity of its products decline.

Further, replacement worker wages cannot buy the products they produce. Our shift toward a service-wage economy—even in the construction and manufacturing trades—reduces demand for high-priced items which drives prices higher still and places more and more families at the poverty level.

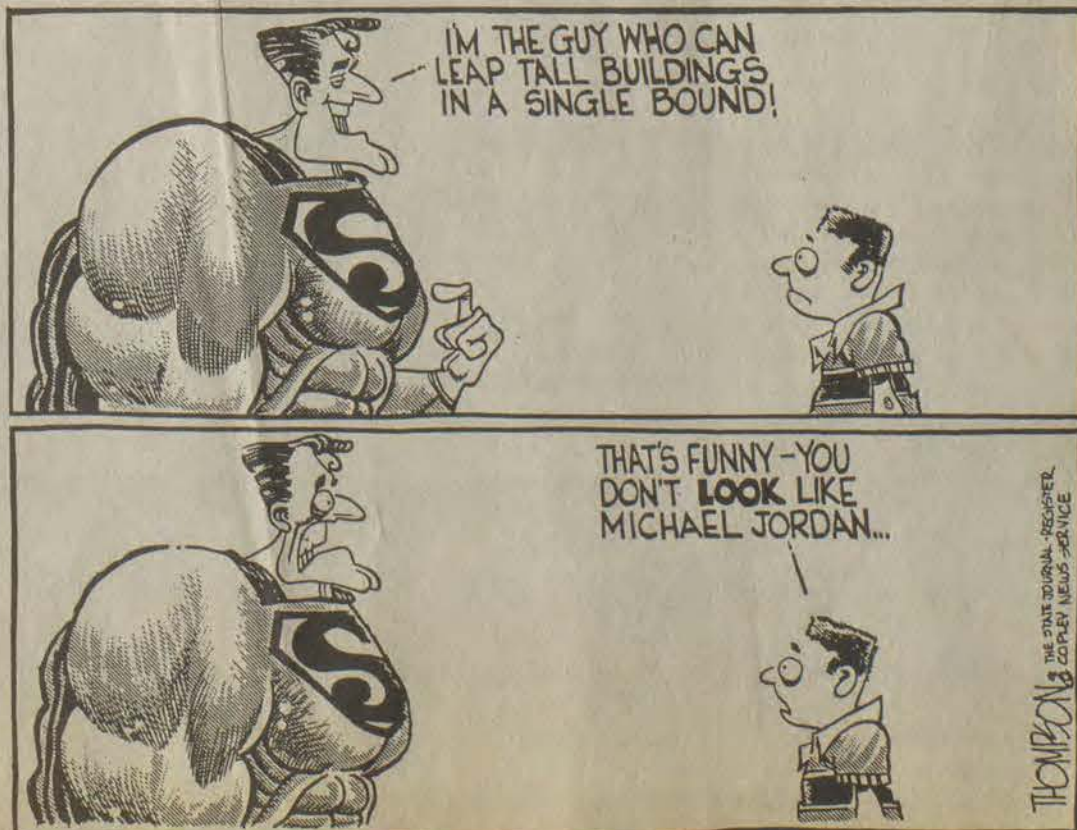

Frank Lorenzo tried it at Eastern Airlines. It's happening now at Greyhound as a "new breed of management" seeks to evade or destroy collective bargaining benefits.

The vast majority of employers do not want to be associated with the tactics of Frank Lorenzo. Those employers should not remain silent on the issue of permanent replacements.

Employers who believe in justice and fair play should join America's working men and women to get the anti-strikebreaker legislation through Congress so we may together turn to some of the problems that threaten both labor and management—such as the national health care crisis.

Passage of this legislation is essential to provide workers with a bargaining tool by which to protect personal dignity, fair wages and fair treatment and so that American may regain her strength and viability in global market competition.

M. Ray Allen will be inducted into MSU's Alumni Hall Of Fame

A former Floyd County resident will be inducted into Morehead State University's Alumni Hall of Fame as part of the University's 1991 Founders Day celebration on April 5.

M. Ray Allen, formerly of Floyd County, currently of Clifton Forge, Va., whose work has earned him numerous awards, and Wayne M. Martin, vice president/general sales manager for WKYT-TV, will be recognized as distinguished graduates during the Alumni Awards Dinner at 7 p.m. in the Adron Doran University Center.

The dinner is the final event in a series of public activities marking MSU's 69th anniversary as a state institution. Other events include the Convocation and Awards Ceremony at 10:30 a.m. in Button Auditorium.

John R. Hall, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Ashland Oil, Inc., will be the convocation speaker and a luncheon will follow at which time major donors and volunteers will be honored.

A three-time graduate of MSU and former head basketball coach, Martin earned his A.B. degree in business and history from MSU in 1968, an M.A. degree in education in 1972 and the Rank I administrative certification in 1973.

Martin coached the Eagles for nine seasons, taking the team to back-to-back NCAA appearances and a school record 25 victories in 1983-84. Twice the Ohio Valley Conference Coach of the Year, he also was the 1984 Southeast Region Coach of the Year.

He resigned as coach in 1987 to become sales manager for WYMT-TV in Hazard. In January 1990 he was named WYMT's vice president and general manager as well as vice president of its parent company, Kentucky Central Television, Inc. In May 1990, he was named to his current position.

Martin is a member of the MSU Board of Regents and chair of its Presidential Search Committee. He also sits on the board of directors of the Pioneer Federal Savings Bank. He is a member of Rotary International, Lexington Rotary Club, the National Association of Broadcasters and its Kentucky affiliate, the Lexington Advertising Club, the Greater Lexington United Marketing Committee, the National Association of Basketball Coaches and the Kentucky-Indiana All-Star Basketball Committee.

Allen, a native of Martin, earned his A.B. degree with a double major in English and physical education in 1963 and an M.A. degree in secondary education in 1965. He later received the M.F.A. degree in theatre arts at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Currently teaching English, drama and journalism at Alleghany County High School in Virginia, Allen taught at Lewis County High School in 1963-65. He also has coached various sports, winning several tournament championships over the years. Giving up coaching in 1985 to devote his energies to writing and other activities, he is the founder and president of Appalfocks of America Association.

Founder and director of the Mountain Heritage Program, a writers workshop held annually in Clifton Forge, Va., Allen also organized Prestonsburg's Kentucky Highlands Writers Workshop.

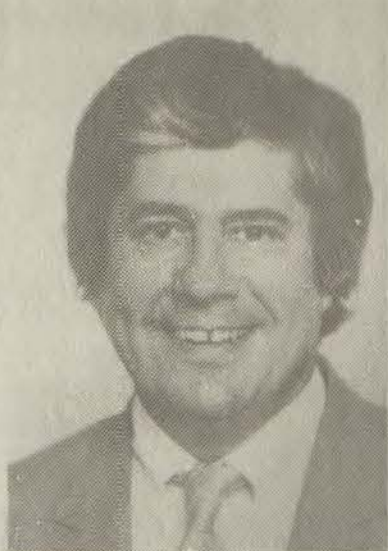

His poems have appeared in several magazines and quarterlies, including Appalachian Heritage, Nostalgia, Green River Writers Magazine, Artemis and Appalachian Voices. His first volume of poems, "The Roads I Travel," was published by Nightshade Press and a second volume, "Between the Thorns," is due for release by ROAD Publishers in July.

Since 1985, Allen has won more than a dozen awards for his poetry. He was a 1989 Pushcart Prize nominee.

Dinner tickets are $10.50 each and must be purchased and picked up in advance, according to Larry Stephenson, Founders Day ticket chairman. The deadline for reserving and picking up tickets is 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 2. Tickets will not be sold at the door.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Activities Office on the second floor of ADUC, the cashier's window in Howell-McDowell Administration Building and at the Alumni Center.

Additional information on tickets is available by calling Stephenson at (606) 783-2071 or the Alumni Center at (606) 783-2080.

Signal timing

Pedestrians of all ages misinterpret the flashing "Don't Walk" signs at intersections. A flashing "Don't Walk" means that you should not start across the street. However, the National Safety Council recommends if the sign begins to flash when you are in the middle of the street, continue on your route.

Sun shines bright on Easter Egg Hunt

An "Easter Egg Hunt," sponsored by Sav-More and the Prestonsburg Rotary Club, was held at Jenny Wiley State Park on Easter Sunday.

Despite predictions of bad weather, the weatherman cooperated and the event was enjoyed by approximately 150 area children.

Prize winners at the Easter Egg Hunt were: Daniel Risner, Ella Campbell, J.P. Craft, Jessie Woods, Amanda Conn, Eric Combs, Rachael Collins, Troy Jarvis, Brett Hall, and Ray Ratliff.

Also Maria Woods, Tiffany Fraley, Joey Lemaster, Alex Lowe, Dedie Grimstead, Michael McDonald, Tammy Romaine, Crystal Slone, Billy Gibson, and Courtney Collins.

Others were Amber Perry, Shana Roberts, Crystal Layne, Jennifer Hall, Michael Morrison, Andrew Maxwell, and Danny Layne.

Also Scott Howe, Rita Slone, Tiffany Bentley, Carolyn Shepherd, Sasha Miller, Kendra Blankenship, and Justin Cottrell.

Winners of the Easter Egg Coloring Contest at Sav-More were Alyssa Cawood and Brandi Johnson. Both contest winners of the coloring contest received a goody-filled Easter basket.

Atrazine corn herbicide restricted

Floyd county corn producers face the loss of certain weed control sprays if they do not have an up to date certification card, according to Gene Ball, Floyd County extension agent.

Effective September 1, 1990 all atrazine containing products have been classified as "Restricted Use" due to ground water concerns. Thus, atrazine and all other products containing atrazine must be purchased and applied by certified applicators only for persons under the direct supervision of a certified applicator. Previously, atrazine was considered a "General Use" herbicide product.

Atrazine is the foundation corn herbicide used for broadleaf weed control in Kentucky. Therefore, this change in registration status could have a significant impact on Kentucky corn growers.

The maximum amount of atrazine that may be applied to corn and sorghum per year is three pounds per acre.

Applications for atrazine to corn and sorghum exceeding 12 inches in height is prohibited.

Atrazine containing products may not be mixed, loaded, or used within 50 feet of all wells, including abandoned wells, drainage wells and sink holes.

Ball emphasizes that these individuals who purchase and apply agricultural pesticides, who are not certified by me need to obtain certification before they will be able to purchase products containing atrazine.

Two meetings to certify producers to use atrazine have been scheduled for April 4, one at 1:30 p.m. and another at 6:30 p.m. Both meetings will be held in the conference room of the Floyd County Courthouse Annex.

Free garden soil test

Billy Merritt, chairman of the Floyd County Extension District Board announced Thursday that soil test from the first 50 Floyd County gardeners will be analyzed free of charge.

According to Merritt, this is the second year for the Extension Board to furnish such assistance to gardeners. This is an attempt to encourage better use of lime and fertilizer and to increase the production of garden produce.

Ball emphasized that soil tests should be taken as soon as possible — air dried — and taken to the Floyd County Extension Office (1 pint of soil). The samples will be assembled and taken to the University of Kentucky for analysis. The results and recommendations for fertilizer and lime use will be made and mailed to the soil sample owners.

Gardeners wishing to be involved and who are not sure about how to take a soil test should call the Floyd County Extension Office and ask for leaflet AGR-16 or talk with office personnel.

Persons wishing to have soil testing for lawns, pastures, hay crops can have such samples run for a fee of $2.50 per sample plus postage.

Gardeners who would like to have a copy of the University of Kentucky Garden Bulletin, HO-63, Home Gardening in Kentucky should contact the County Extension Office at 886-2668.

Small Garden Referendum Scheduled

A referendum for small grain producers will be held Wednesday, April 3. Floyd County Farmers who wish to participate can vote in the Floyd County Extension office, first floor of the Courthouse Annex.

OLW to celebrate world health day on April 12

Our Lady of the Way Hospital, in conjunction with the Floyd County Health Department and the Community Health Advocates, will celebrate World Health Day on April 12, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Mountain Christian Academy's gymnasium.

This year's theme for World Health Day is "Should Disaster Strike, Be Prepared!" The idea for the theme comes from the United Nation's declaration of the 1990's being the "International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction." The theme of World Health Day will focus on disaster relief and will spotlight the measures that individuals, communities, and nations can take to prevent disaster-inflicted injuries and deaths.

The day's events will include booths and presentations on CPR, first-aid, choking, poison control, spouse abuse, Rape Victim Services, radon gas, emergency services, drug overdose, fire and other natural disasters, and family disasters.

Innoculate early

Beginning at infancy, youth should get vaccinations against childhood diseases, advise officials of the Kentucky Department for Health Services. High vaccination rates insure that once-common diseases will not return.

asters, and family disasters.

Sponsoring agencies include First Guaranty National Bank, First Commonwealth Bank, The Bank Josephine, Hardees, McDonalds, and Druthers.

Admission is free, prizes will be given to participants, and everyone is welcome.

Slone participates in Artic Warrior

Army Spec. Dennis K. Slone has participated in Arctic Warrior 91, a training exercise for the defense of Alaska.

It provided an arctic environment for a major land battle between two large conventional forces in the state's interior, air-to-ground operations in support of the land battle, and air intercept operations. The exercise is conducted every other year to train Alaska-based forces to employ and sustain combat units.

Slone is a ground surveillance systems operator at Fort Richardson, Alaska. He is the son of Ernestine Slone and Gene A. Slone, both of Prestonsburg.

The specialist is a 1986 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Vietnam veterans reunion to include Desert Storm tribute

The Third Annual Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Reunion, also known as I.Z. Bluegrass, is scheduled for May 17-19 at the Fountain Plaza adjacent to the Capital Plaza Hotel in Frankfort.

The reunion is billed as a patriotic celebration to honor those who served in the U.S. Armed Forces during the Vietnam-era (1962-1975) and will include a tribute to Operation Desert Storm troops on Saturday, May 18. Approximately 4,000 are expected to attend this year's reunion. There are 110,000 Kentuckians who served in the military during the Vietnam era.

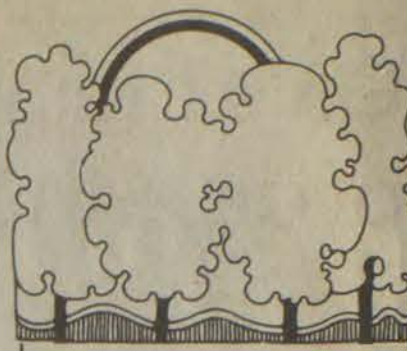

In addition to the Desert Storm tribute, this year's reunion will feature helicopter flyovers and rappelling, military displays, activities at the Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Memorial including a POW/MIA ceremony, drill team, live entertainment, veteran information booths and speakers on veterans issues. The reunion is open to the public and all events are free.

For further information, contact L.Z. Bluegrass, Inc., P.O. Box 4884, Louisville, KY 40204.

A proud tradition

Our funeral home has been responding to the needs of the community for many years. To continue this proud tradition of helping families in their time of need, we now offer the Sunset SecuritySM Plan.

Sunset SecuritySM, offered by us as a member of the Kentucky Funeral Directors Burial Association, is a plan that lets you reduce the stress your loved ones will experience at the time of a funeral.

Through Sunset SecuritySM, you can pre-arrange a funeral now. The plan offers an inflation-proof feature that lets you save money by freezing the cost of a funeral at today's prices. And it provides special tax-saving advantages.

We'd like to give you a "Personal Record Guide" and tell you about the Sunset SecuritySM Plan. Just complete the coupon below and we will contact you.

Card Of Thanks

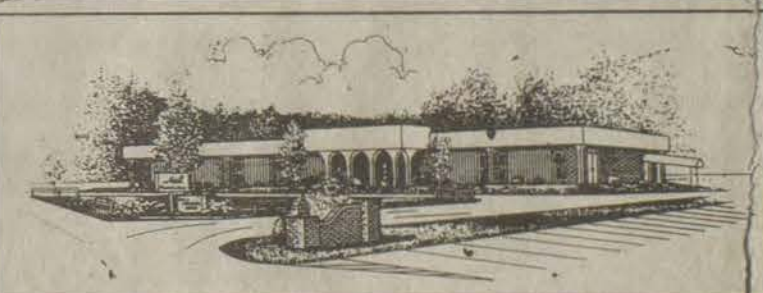

*Perhaps you sent a lovely card, Or sat quietly in a chair
Perhaps you sent a floral piece, If so we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, As any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all, Just thought of us that day.*

*Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part.*

A very special thanks to Charlie Wright, Greenville Branham, Loretta Stephens and Betty Ousley. Also our sincere thanks to Pastors Gary Blair and Darrell Howell.

To those who sang such beautiful songs, we thank you. To Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home, Roger, Sandy and Glenn our heartfelt thanks for their kind and professional services.

THANKS TO H.R.M.C.

Thanks to the doctors and nurses at Highlands Hospital. When you go there you really feel at home, the treatment and care they give you makes you feel that way.

Without the help from our Lord and Dr. Reedy whom I think is the greatest doctor, I don't believe I'd be alive today. I truly love her. I've been in ICU and 4th floor and they really care. So thanks again. Also to my grandson Thomas Slone.

Give the greatest gift of all — the gift of life

April 22-28 marks National Organ Donor Awareness Week, a time set aside to remind us of the lives saved each year due to organ donation and to encourage people to give the greatest gift of all: life. And it appears that many do indeed give the gift of life—a recent study reveals that 89 percent of people would permit donation of a loved one's organs after death, while 45 percent would donate their own organs.

Yet, while laws exist to ensure that hospital staff request organ and tissue donation when patients are pronounced brain dead, the effects of these laws has been discouraging. As a result, there's a renewed push towards recruiting organ donors.

"When one person donates his or her organs and tissues, many lives are saved," said Dr. Milford Maloney, president of the American Society of Internal Medicine. The headlines often tell of heart and kidney transplants, but it's possible to transplant about 25 different organs and tissues, including: corneas, bone and cartilage, liver, bone marrow, heart, lungs, pancreas, kidneys and skin.

Also, people can request that their body be used for anatomical study if needed. This makes it possible for others to study the human body and conditions that affect it, such as disease, disabilities and injuries.

Organ donation is a very personal decision. However, it's helpful to discuss your choice with your physician, family and friends. Explain to them why you're thinking about becoming a donor. Let them offer their opinions about organ and tissue donation. You may discover they're already donors! Your physician is an excellent source of information about organ and tissue donation. He or she can answer questions that will help you make your decision. Your local hospital, state medical association or library can help you obtain information.

A person who receives a transplant must meet two criteria: first, he or she must be the patient who needs the organ or tissue the most, and second, he or she must have the best chance of adapting to the available organ or tissue.

Since time is critical for a successful transplant, special national networks—linked to regional organ centers—are used to speed up the process of matching donors and recipients. And a 24-hour nationwide hotline is available to put doctors in touch with the nearest organ recovery center.

The Uniform Anatomical Gift Act allows anyone 18 years of age or older and of sound mind to become a donor. Minors can become donors with a parent's or guardian's consent.

A uniform donor card must be filled out with your name, what organs and tissues you wish to donate, and if you want your body donated to a medical or dental school. Two witnesses must sign the card, and your date of birth and other personal information is also needed.

Many states include an organ donor section in your driver's license. If your state does offer this service, you don't need a separate donor card. (To find out if your state uses this method, contact the state's licensing bureau).

Your card immediately identifies you as a donor, saving vital time, which is crucial for a successful transplant. Be sure to carry your card with you at all times and make sure your family, friends and physician know you are a donor. Even though you have a donor card, your physician is required to ask for a family member's consent before removing organs.

Many people feel apprehensive about how organ donation affects their lives right now, and questions often come up about qualifications to be a donor, wills, costs and other practical considerations.

It's important to know that neither age nor medical history should stop you from becoming a donor. The transplant team decides if your organs and tissues are useful. And when it comes to your will, you do not need to include any statement about your decision to become an organ donor, since your donor card serves as the necessary documentation.

When donated organs are used in a transplant, the recipients' health insurance policy or federal funds should cover the cost. The donor family does not pay any of the cost.

"While new drugs and improved surgical techniques have increased the number of successful organ and tissue transplants, the key to saving countless lives remains in the number of people willing to become donors," Dr. Maloney said.

Dr. Maloney recommends that if you have any questions about organ donation, ask your physician.

OLW hosts med-surgical emergencies workshop

On April 11, Our Lady of the Way will host a Med-Surg Emergency workshop. Robin Dennison, RN, MSN, CCRN, CS will direct the workshop.

The cost for non-OLW employees is $30. This workshop is worth 7.2 contact hours.

Ms. Dennison has experience in critical care, medical-surgical, and cardiopulmonary nursing. Robin is also a faculty member of the American Journal of Nursing, Nursing Boards Review, and the president of Continuing Education for Health Professionals, Inc., of Huntington, West Virginia.

At the completion of this program, the participants will be able to:

- * describe a format for quick assessment of the patient having an emergency on the medical-surgical unit.

- * identify emergencies which may be seen on the medical-surgical unit.

- * discuss the clinical presentation and signs/symptoms of emergencies

- * discuss the nursing management necessary for these emergencies

- * discuss follow-up care after the emergency.

Pre-registration and pre-payment is required. Registration begins at 8 a.m.; the program will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. and end at 4 p.m.

For further information or to register for the workshop, call Carol Prater, 285-5181, ext. 358.

"About loneliness"

Loneliness is a painful feeling that something is missing in our lives. It's an empty, aching sense of being disconnected from friends, family or the world. It is perfectly normal to feel lonely at times and I think it is part of the human experience which we all share and can relate to.

Loneliness is not the same as being alone. One person might feel lonely in a crowd while another may be completely alone and not feel lonely at all. Depending on their situations and personalities people respond to loneliness differently. Some folks experience transient loneliness after a change in their lives. A move to a new community; beginning a new job; entering retirement; the death of a loved one; separation or divorce may be causes for loneliness. As people make adjustments to change and make new friends, however, their lonely feelings disappear. In this sense loneliness can be very growth productive. It can motivate us to take a fresh look at ourselves and to explore new avenues for self-development.

Other people feel lonely most of the time. Their loneliness may be linked to shyness; poor self-esteem; a lack of communication or social skills; or a painful past. A person who has been abused, for example, or who has experienced the loss of a parent in early childhood, may have difficulty in trusting others.

People who experience chronic or overwhelming loneliness often respond to it in ways that, unfortunately, compound and perpetuate the problem. They may become withdrawn and fearful of change or hurt, waiting for others to come to them instead of making the first move. They might become self-absorbed and so caught up in their own misery that it becomes hard for them to show interest in others. Many lonely people are often very self-critical believing themselves to be unworthy of the positive attentions of others and thereby setting themselves up to be lonely. For others, the reverse can be true—they may become angry and bitter if they think others are to blame for their loneliness and drive people away with their unpleasantness. Still others, desperate for companionship, seek attention and affection through sex, marry unwisely or cling to anyone who befriends them.

So, does the key to overcoming loneliness lie in developing relationships with others? No. It depends on developing only one healthy relationship—and that is with yourself. No one else can make you happy or give you good feelings about yourself. They must come from inside you. The old saw about having to like yourself before anyone else will be really true. Current wisdom assumes that people are social beings who require the companionship and affection of other human beings from cradle to grave. It is widely held that interpersonal relationships of an intimate kind are the chief, if not the only, source of human happiness. I am not sure that this is entirely true. I wonder how many people feel inadequate and ineffective in life because they are unable to successfully fulfill that expectation. And I wonder how many people might be able to cease chafing against their loneliness if the message we gave was that it's okay to be alone. It's okay to prefer living alone; to enjoy solitude and private time; to like one's own company; and to find greater satisfaction in nurturing individual talents more carefully than personal relationships.

It is certainly true that the people we tend to like and admire the most are those who are independent and comfortable with themselves and have interests and talents which they share with others. Working on being happy with yourself is really a double cure for loneliness. At the same time that you please yourself, you become more pleasing to others.

Choosing your cosmetic surgeon; academy offers free brochure

An estimated three million people will undergo cosmetic surgery in 1991. Despite the fact that cosmetic surgery is more predictable than ever before, it is still a serious undertaking. Choosing the right surgeon is the single most important decision you will make.

In an effort to provide the public with all the facts necessary to make an informed choice, the American Academy of Cosmetic Surgery has developed an informational brochure entitled "Choosing Your Cosmetic Surgeon", which is being offered to the public free of charge.

The brochure includes simple guidelines to assist in the selection of a qualified surgeon. It also explains the meaning of board certification in cosmetic surgery and provides certification criteria.

To obtain the brochure, or for information about cosmetic surgical procedures, contact the American Academy of Cosmetic Surgery's Cosmetic Surgery Information Service at 1-800-221-9808 or write: American Academy of Cosmetic Surgery, 159 E. Live Oak Ave., Suite 204, Arcadia, CA 91006.

Returning veterans must be reinstated to equal positions, pay and seniority

Reserve and National Guard members who were called to active duty during Operation Desert Shield and Desert Storm have certain job rights assured under the Veterans Reemployment Rights law.

Those who were activated or volunteered for active duty are encouraged to contact their employers as soon as possible after their return. They can also contact the nearest state employment services office for a Fact Sheet on Reemployment Rights for Returning Veterans.

Veterans who left their jobs for military service and were discharged or released under honorable conditions are entitled to reinstatement within a reasonable time to a position of like seniority, status and pay. Time requirements vary, but in general, returning veterans have 90 days to exercise their reemployment rights.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Veterans Employment and Training

Service is responsible for assisting veterans and employers with reemployment rights. The director for Kentucky is Rick Netherton, who is based at the Kentucky Department for Employment Services, 275 E. Main Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40621, phone (502) 564-7062.

Returning veterans who did not have jobs when they entered military service should visit their nearest state employment office. The 28 statewide offices of the Kentucky Department for Employment Services have veterans employment representatives to provide special assistance for veterans seeking jobs or training opportunities.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

AS LONG AS IT'S NOT UNLV

So went the cry from basketball fans around our county. As long as it is not UNLV. That was the popular statement when fans were asked who would they like to see win the NCAA tournament. When asked why not UNLV, the answer was not that they held anything against the players, but they sure didn't like the action of Jerry Tarkanian, head coach of the Runnin' Rebels.

"I feel that he has a strangle hold on the NCAA," said one basketball fan.

"I just don't like the attitude he has taken," said another.

"I never did trust anyone who was bald," said yet another one.

Whatever the reason, most basketball fans don't appreciate the Rebel coach; however, the players were a great team. And everyone I have talked to said they have nothing against the players — they are a great team — they just don't like the "Tark."

On a more refreshing note, the Wayland Lady Wildcats represented the state of Kentucky well in the recently completed National Junior Pro basketball tournament at Knoxville this past weekend.

After viewing all the teams, there is no doubt in my mind that Wayland was the best team there. But they just didn't play the way they were capable of playing. They were beaten by Lansing, Michigan (who won the tournament) for their first loss, 56-51. It was the first quarter jitters that did in the local team.

Win or lose, they were a great team — a talented team. Coaches Kevin Webb and Roger Horne did an excellent job with them.

When I went to the state tournament at Bowling Green, I said that it had to be the worst officiating that I had ever witnessed. I mean worse than the 13th, 14th and 16th region officials. But when I took in the type of officiating at Knoxville, at the national level, it was pathetic. Two particular officials who called together were examples of the type of refereeing found there. They did not belong on the floor refereeing a church game or any kind of game. They had to be the worst officials that have come along.

In the game against Lansing, Michigan, I was at the Wayland end of the floor taking pictures. Veronica McKinney had just missed a short jumper. Brooks Christi (the tallest player on the floor) grabbed the rebound, dropped the ball on the end line (out of bounds) no call. The ball took one bounce in out of bounds territory, still no call. Christi reached and picked the ball up with her foot out of bounds and still no call. Where was the official? Standing right in front of the play.

Veronica McKinney went up and pulled down a clean rebound, no one in front of her at all. She was whistled for the foul for going over the back of an invisible player. Pathetic!

Fourth quarter of the final game, Wayland down by two. Scott County player dribbled the ball off her foot and out of bounds. The ball goes back to Scott County. But where was the official? Again, in front of the play.

It was good tournament. I don't mean to imply that all the officiating was that bad, but the majority of it was. Bill Gearheart said it best. "We could get two high school kids to call and do a better job than they (the referees) are doing."

I was glad to see a good crowd from Floyd County at Knoxville. They really stood behind this fine team.

Junior Pro basketball is the greatest thing that came to Floyd County. I hope that it will never die down, but only get stronger. I am a strong supporter of the game. We need to get the girls involved more in the junior pro programs. I think now would be a good time to start having meetings to discuss next season and how to make it stronger.

Baseball time! Until Friday, good sports everyone!

Thornsberry scores 24 :

Lansing hands Wayland 56-51 tournament loss in nationals

The Lansing, Michigan Junior Pro girls' varsity team rolled into Northwest Middle School in Knoxville, Tennessee with a perfect unblemished record of 22-0. But evidently the perfect record didn't seem to awe the Wayland Lady Wildcats any as they played the Mideast winners tough.

It took an extra effort for the Michigan team before subduing the Wayland team 56-51 in the semifinals of the tournament.

Brooks Christi tossed in 26 points, mostly on easy inside shots, and Heather Woods added 10 points for the victorious Michigan team.

Kathy Thornsberry, who had a great tournament, scored 24 points for Wayland and Veronica McKinney tossed in 13.

Lansing jumped out to a 12 point lead, 49-37 early in the fourth period and looked to make it a blow out. But, the Wayland girls were not about to concede the win and, led by Thornsberry and McKinney, mounted a come back that saw the lead whittled down to five, 50-45. Thornsberry scored 14 of her team's 18 points in the final period. The hot shooting Wayland star seemed to score at will once she got the ball down in the block for Wayland. Her soft turnaround jumper was hard for Michigan to stop, which brought a comment from the Lansing coach at the scorer's table: "that girl can really play basketball."

Lansing was constantly going into the left handed shooting Christi as she was consistently hitting the lay up inside. Wayland's defense, along with being a much smaller team, allowed Christi to score. Christi scored eight key points down the stretch for Lansing to help preserve the win.

Lansing led 40-33 going into the final period. Baskets by April Newsome and Thornsberry made it 42-37. Lansing ran off seven unanswered points as Wayland looked unorganized on the floor, creating several mental turnovers. The 7-0 run gave the Michigan five a 49-37 lead.

Michigan led at the end of the first quarter 16-5 as Wayland scored only one field goal in the period. The Lady Wildcats missed six free throws in the first quarter while hitting three.

Lansing collected their biggest lead of the game, 18-5 when Woods hit a basket to begin the second stanza. A 9-2 run by Wayland put them right back into the game. McKinney hit a jumper and April Newsome followed with a basket. Tonya Bentley grabbed a rebound and went coast-to-coast for a lay up. McKinney hit a free throw and Melena Gearheart, who played a game on the boards, had a put back for two points. McKinney's two free throws made it 20-16. McKinney hit two field goals at the end of the period to cut the lead to 24-23 at the half. Newsome picked up her fourth personal foul before the half ended.

Lansing started going to Christi more in the third quarter and the big center responded with 10 points to give the Lansing team a 40-33 lead after three quarters.

Lansing hit nine of 16 free throw attempts. Christi was six of eight from the charity stripe. Wayland was 11 of 20 from the free throw line. McKinney hit five of six attempts.

"Let The Games Begin"

Floyd's Basket at :05 Gives Wayland 50-48 Win Over Doraville, Ga

It looked like a "made-to-order" opening tournament game for the Wayland Lady Wildcats as they went into round one of the 1991 Junior Pro National Tournament at Knoxville, Tennessee Friday morning at 8 a.m. Doraville, Georgia was one of the few teams that the Lady Wildcats could match — size wise. The Doraville team did not have the height advantage other teams would hold. However, the Doraville, Georgia squad proved to be a handful for Wayland in the opening round.

It took the heroic's of Kristel Floyd to pull out a hard fought 50-48 win over the Georgia team. With five seconds left in the game and the score knotted at 48-all, Floyd took a pass from Jessica Stumbo and, off balance, launched her game winning shot that bounced twice on the rim before falling through. Time ran out for the Georgia team as the Wayland team advanced to the semifinals of the tournament.

Wayland held a five point lead going into the tournament. In fact the Lady Wildcats led throughout the game until 4:14 of the fourth quarter when Doraville scored four unanswered points to erase a 42-39 deficit and assumed a 43-42 lead — their first. Two free throws by Floyd and a basket by Kathy Thornsberry gave Wayland the lead back at 46-43. Wayland kept the lead at three points, 48-45 on a basket by Thornsberry. However a free throw by Becca Hawkins and Willow Flaharthy tied the game at 48-48 with 14 seconds to go. Wayland called time out to set up a play. That's when the ball — on a broken play — went to Floyd who then shot off of one foot.

There was some anxious moments for Wayland even after the horn had sounded ending the game.

"The Georgia coach wanted three seconds put back on the clock," said Wayland coach Kevin Webb, "because he thought that April had walked when she intercepted the pass." The officials had not called a walking violation on Wayland; therefore, the game ended in a 50-48 Wayland victory.

It looked as if the Wayland squad was going to have an easy time of it jumping out to a 6-0 lead on baskets by Floyd, April Newsome and Angel Horne. The lead went to 12-4 as Newsome scored two baskets and Horne connected from outside. Hawkins then went coast-to-coast on two possessions to cut the lead to four, 12-8. A 5-0 run by Wayland made it 17-8 and Floyd's basket just before the end of the quarter gave Wayland a 19-8 first quarter lead.

Melena Gearheart scored opening the second quarter for a 21-8 game. It was then that Georgia went on a 10-0 spurt and pulled to within three, 21-18. Veronica McKinney ended the drought with a free throw. A free throw and basket by Jill Newman made it 22-21 before rallied and went out by six at the half, 29-23. Gearheart hit a key basket and Jessica

Hamilton scored three points in the period. Wayland led by five, 40-35 at the end of the third quarter.

"After the first period I thought we might have an easy game," said Webb of his teams play in the first period. "But we let them back in and had to hold on to win."

Thornsberry led Wayland with 11 points. Floyd finished with nine and McKinney added seven.

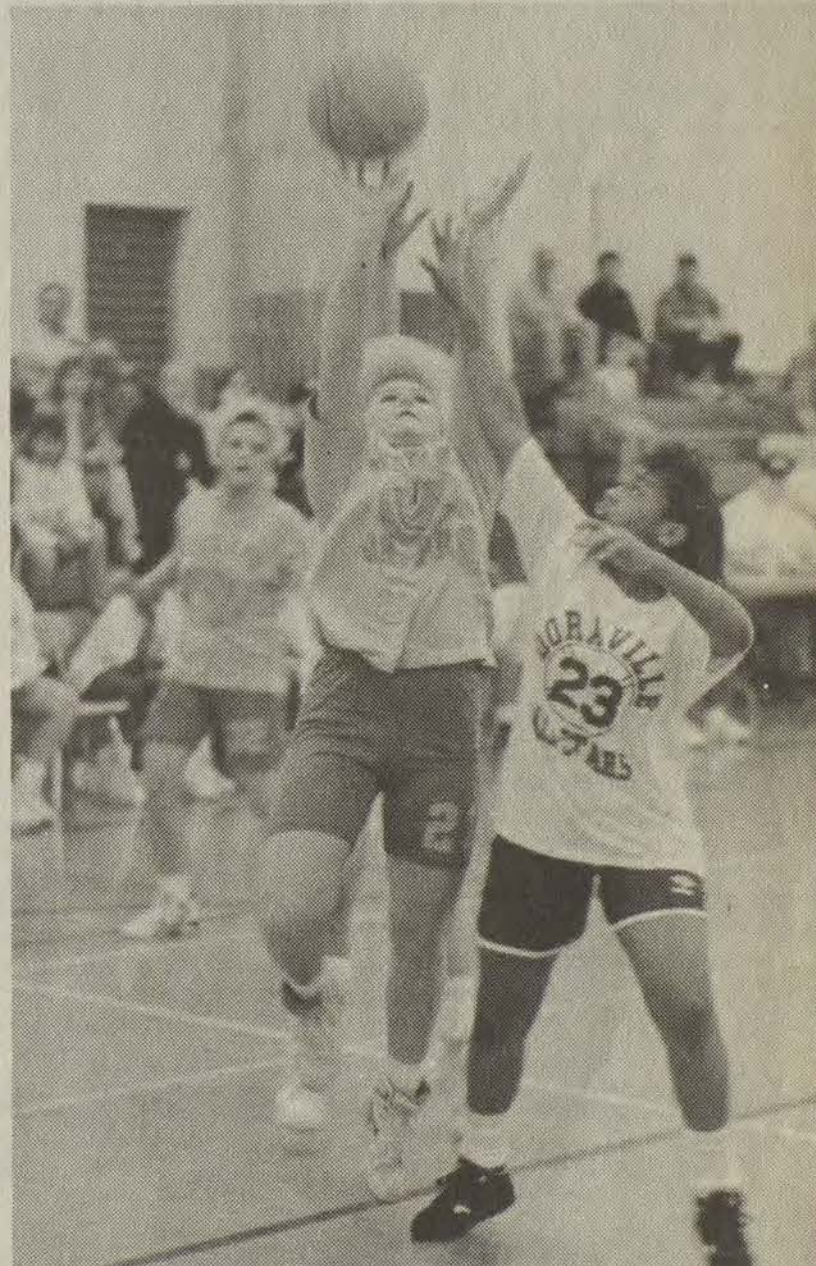

Game scoring honors went to Doraville's Becca Hawkins with 18 points. Jill Newman finished with 16.

Doraville hit a cool 7 of 20 from the free throw line. Hawkins was four of 11 from the charity stripe. Wayland hit 10 of 27 attempts.

Making Kentucky All-Star Team is top priority for JC Salisbury

For most of the 15,000 plus players of boy's basketball in the state of Kentucky, their dream is to someday be able to play on the Kentucky All-Star team that faces a similar team from the state of Indiana in a two game summer series.

For Johnson Central's Jody Salisbury, he is no exception to that dream. The 6' 10" giant of the Golden Eagles will be afforded that chance when he recently received an invitation to the two day tryout camp. The Kentucky/Indiana All-Star series is sponsored by the Lions Club in each state.

Salisbury averaged 22 points per game this past season for Alvin Ratliff's Eagle ball club. The mountain of a player pulled down 13 rebounds per contest and averaged three block shots a game with two assists. Salisbury shot 81 percent from the free throw line which is excellent for a big man. The Eagles' leading scorer connected on 54 percent of his shots from the floor.

The all-star try outs will be held at the Thomas Moore College gym on April 27 and 28. Coaches for this year's Kentucky team will be Owensboro's Randy Embry and Bobby Washington of Bryan Station.

According to his father, Bud Salisbury, Jody is not taking this opportunity lightly.

"Jody is very serious in making the team," he said. "He hasn't been laying around but has been in the gym in his spare time working out. He really wants this bad."

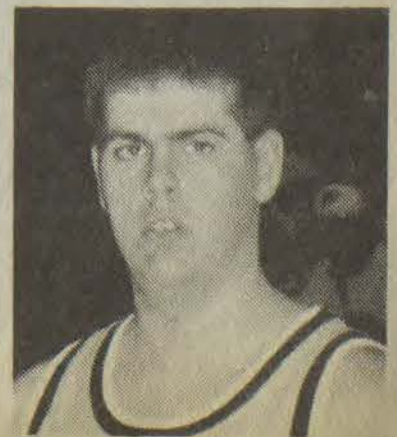

Salisbury has been on several colleges' shopping lists but the Golden Eagle has yet to make a decision as to where he will be playing next year. However, according to the elder Salisbury, an announcement could be forthcoming.

"We still want to look at some things before deciding," said Salisbury. Salisbury has carried a 3.0 grade average and scored a 22 on his ACT test.

Other good news to follow the Johnson Central player is that he also has been invited to L. A. Gear's Pump

(See Salisbury, B 2)

Allen Central Travels To Jenkins For Track and Field Meet; Places Second

Coach Dewey Jamerson got his track and field season off to a good start with a second place finish in the Jenkins Track and Field Meet last week at Jenkins. The Rebels placed second overall.

Junior Shawn Bailey placed third for the Rebels in the discus throw. Bailey recorded a throw of 83-feet. Brian Wallen, state hopeful in discus this year, missed the meet for being in Florida.

Freshman Ken Bradley took second in the 800 meters and placed a strong third in the 400 meters. Jerry Combs, a fifth grader, was third in the two mile run.

The Rebels 400 Meter Relay team of Mike Cox, Kenny Crum, Jason Sammons and Shawn Robinson, placed second in the relays race with a time of 56.42. Crum placed first in the shot put with a toss of 37-feet, six and half inches. This is the first time that Crum participated in this event according to his coach.

In the Two-Mile Relay, Cory Heintzelman, Ray Lyons, David Turner and Todd Howard—all grade school students—took second place for Allen Central with a time of 13:30.60

Dropping 70 pounds has payed off for James Howard a junior at Allen Central. Howard had a toss of 85 feet and three inches for second place in the discus throw. The Rebel junior also finished third in the 800 meters with a time of 3:02.30.

Allen Central senior, Robert Jarvis, who struggle the first 300 meters and walked the last 100, still finished strong enough to place second in the 400 meter with a 1:04.00.

"Roberts legs began to tighten up on him and he really struggled the first 300 meters. He just had to finally walk the other 100 meters," explained Coach Jamerson.

Jervis along with Shane Stumbo, Dan Stumbo and Jamie Slone finished second in the mile relay with a time of 4:18.

Jason Sammons, who is an eighth grader at Martin, took second place in the 100 Meters at 13:40.00 and placed third in the 200 Meters run with a 27:59.00.

Senior Jamie Slone's 5:35.00 was good for second place in the 1 mile run. Slone, competing in the high jump for the first time, took third place with a 5-foot and 4-inch jump. In the 110 hurdles, Slone was third with a 21:00.00.

Dan Stumbo ran a 12:43.00 in the Two Mile run good for a second place finish. Shane Stumbo was third in the One Mile run with a 6:26.99

In the discus throw, fast improving Tim Slone threw a distance of 113-feet, four and a half inches for first place. Slone placed second in Shot Put with a 37-feet and one inch toss.

The only girl in the Allen Central track and field program is Jessica Wade who is a sophomore at the Right Beaver school. Wade took first place in the 800 meters with a 3:12.00; first place in the one mile at 7:14.00 and first place in the two mile at 16:57.00

"Jessica's legs were tight so we ran her in the 800 meters just to get loosened up," explained the Allen Central coach. "Then we entered her in the two mile run. But when they called for those running in the one mile, she said 'you want me to run that.' So she did."

"Most of the finishes we had were new school records," Jamerson related. "I am very pleased with the way we did. And we did not go there and embarrass ourselves. We did very well.

"We had a lot of parents that made the trip with us and that was great," he said. "It was a good experience for these kids and, if it did one thing, it showed them that some are not working as hard as they thought they were. Maybe it will get some of them to work harder."

The Rebels will be off during the school's spring break but will return to the track on Tuesday, April 9 and again on Thursday, April 11. Both meets will be in the Pikeville Track and Field Meet at Bob Amos Park in Pikeville. Starting time is scheduled for 4:45 p.m. This is the second year for track and field at Allen Central.

Drops 49-47 loss to Scott Co.

Wayland Lady Wildcats Eliminated In Junior Pro National Tournament

The teams were big. The competition was tough. The stakes were high. For the Wayland Lady Wildcats' junior pro varsity team, it was just enjoyable to be able to participate in such a prestigious tournament.

The Lady Wildcats fell to Scott County, Tennessee, 49-47, in the third round of the 1991 Junior Pro National Tournament Girl's Varsity competition at Knoxville this past weekend.

"We just didn't play ball like we were capable of playing," said Lady Wildcat coach Kevin Webb after his team fell to Scott County. "We just didn't come down here and play like we were capable of playing."

It was down the stretch of the final game that the Lady Wildcats had problems with the taller Scott County squad. With 16 seconds remaining in the game and Wayland trailing 49-47, Kathy Thornsberry grabbed an errant pass and headed up court with the path open. Thornsberry spotted Kristel Floyd wide open underneath the basket and gave the ball up to Floyd who drove to the goal only to be fouled hard by a Scott County player with four seconds remaining in the game. The ball just about went through. Floyd stepped to the four line when Scott County decided to take a time out and ice the shooter. When play resumed, Floyd toed the line and saw her first shot go astray off to the right. She also missed the second shot and Scott County claimed the rebound and the game.

It was a game group of Wayland girls who never did quit against the much bigger team. Wayland took their first lead, 32-30 in the opening seconds of the fourth quarter on a basket by Heather Nelson.

After Ella Watson tied the game, Veronica McKinney hit a short turnaround for a 34-32 lead for Wayland. Scott County scored the next six points to go out in front 38-34 following two turnovers for Wayland. The Lady Wildcats were giving up two and three shots to the taller Scott County team.

A basket and a three-point play by Thornsberry gave Wayland the lead back, 39-38 with 3:40 remaining in the contest. Tonya West gave Scott County the lead 40-39 with a basket underneath. Thornsberry's offensive rebound, put back, made it 42-41 as the lead went back and forth. Scott County went on top 45-41 with a 5-0 run on baskets by West, Crystal Leuallen and a free throw from Ashley Reagan.

Two free throws by Thornsberry followed by a basket from Scott County's Leuallen made the score 47-43. With 1:16 showing on the clock, Floyd canned two free throws for a 47-45 game. After a Scott County turnover, April Newsome tied the game 47-47 with a short jumper off the base line. With 44 seconds showing, West calmly dropped in two free throws for a 49-47 Scott County lead. Wayland had the ball and a chance to tie the game but turned the ball over by throwing it out of bounds. Scott County then turned the ball over, setting up the two free throws by Floyd.

Wayland trailed by five points, 13-8, after one quarter of play. Thornsberry and Jessica Stumbo had three points each in the first quarter. Scott County went to the locker room with a 18-14 lead in a low scoring affair.

The two teams exchanged baskets in the third period until Wayland caught the Scott County five 26-26 late in the period. The two teams were tied 30-30 at the third stop.

Thornsberry led Wayland with 18 points. April Newsome tossed in eight. Veronica McKinney, Kristel Floyd and Jessica Hamilton each added four points.

West led Scott County with 18 points to tie Thornsberry for game high honors. Watson netted nine points and Becky Mason scored seven.

Wayland was nine of 17 free throws which is uncharacteristic of this team in that they shoot much better. Scott County connected on just seven of 20 attempts.

International try outs. Ten players from the state of Kentucky will be chosen to travel to California for this "showcase" tournament.

"The tournament is designed to showcase high school and junior college players that have yet to decide on a school to attend," said Salisbury. "Eddie Ford, who got up the junior all-stars last year, is heading this one up."

Salisbury has been invited to be listed in "Who's Who In Sport's", a listing of players and a short biography of each one. The book comes from Lexington.

It will be a busy summer for the Johnson Central center.

NOTICE TO CLOSE ROADWAY

At the regular meeting of the Floyd County Fiscal Court, duly held on March 15, 1991, a petition was received from the land owners of a certain piece of land connecting two parcels of land located behind the Slim-Way Excerise building. The Court agreed to advertise for the closing of the roadway that runs between the two parcels of land owned by Rhonda Keathley Clark and Ronald D. Clark and if no objections are received, the Court will officially close said roadway at the next Fiscal Court meeting to be held on April 19, 1991. Any objection to the closing of this roadway must be filed with the County Judge/Executive before 10:00 a.m. on this date.

Clark Stifles Bearcats In Relief As Prestonsburg Post 8-6 Win

The Prestonsburg Blackcats finally got their 1991 baseball season underway and on a winning note as they held off a good Johns Creek Bearcat team and posted a 8-6 win over the host team.

John Clark picked up the win in relief of starter Chris Cavens. Clark pitched the final three and two-thirds innings striking out 10 while giving up just one run on one hit. Clark walked two in the stint. The loser was Chris Cannon who allowed the first seven runs in the first four and two-thirds innings he pitched.

Prestonsburg scored three times in the fourth inning to overcome a 4-3 deficit and take a 6-4 advantage. Anthony Howell got the rally underway for Prestonsburg with a walk. Howell advanced to second on a groundout. Jason Crisp sent Howell home with the tying run when he singled to center field. Crisp went to second on the throw to home plate. Crisp moved to third on a sacrifice fly. Neil Slone then delivered a base hit that scored Crisp from third. Jason Story capped off the rally with an RBI double for a 6-4 Blackcat lead.

Johns Creek got a run back in the bottom of the inning on an RBI double off the bat of Jerry Ison in the sixth inning. The run closed the gap to 6-5.

What proved to be the winning run for Prestonsburg was scored in the top of the fifth inning. Shawn Damron lined a two out double to the outfield and with two out, Scott Stephens drew a two-out walk. Crisp then hit a grounder that was misplayed scoring Damron.

Again for Johns Creek, Jerry Ison singled in a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to cut the margin to 7-6.

Prestonsburg added a final run in the top of the seventh. With two out, Jason Crisp tripled with two out in the frame and Clark followed with a bloop single to right center to score Crisp.

Johns Creek had taken a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the third on a two run single by Chris Gannon with no outs.

Prestonsburg collected 10 hits in the game led by Jason Crisp's four hit night. Crisp had a triple and two RBIs in the game. Story and Clark had two hits each. Clark had two RBIs and Story, who had two doubles in the contest, collected one RBI. Slone and Damron both added doubles for Prestonsburg.

Jason Taylor and Jerry Ison led the six hit Johns Creek attack with three hits each. Taylor had a double while Ison had a double and three RBIs. Doug Blackburn added a run scoring double for the Bearcats while Gannon had two RBIs.

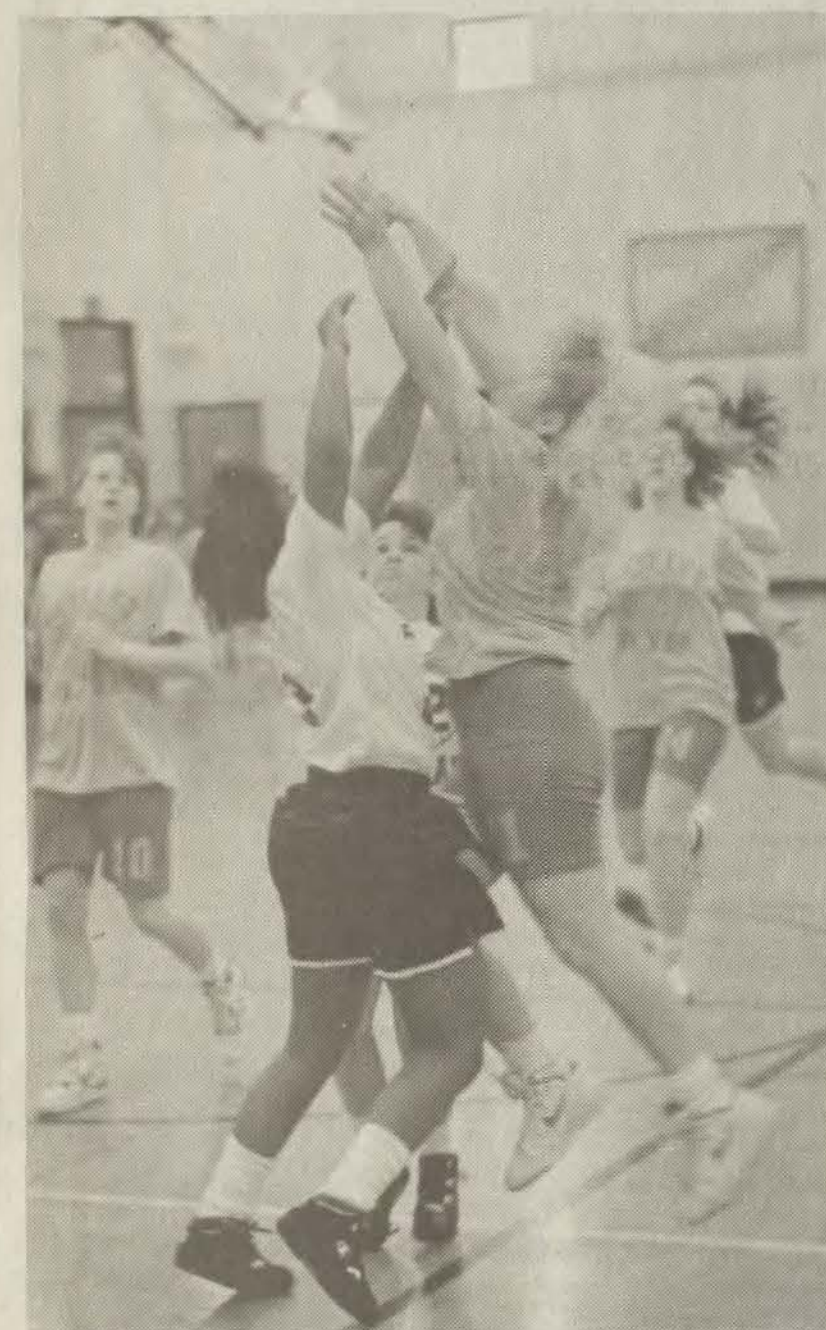

Prestonsburg (1-0) will play three games this weekend. Friday the Blackcats will travel to Magoffin County for a 1 p.m. scheduled game and then on Saturday, coach Russell Shepherd and his squad will face the Millard Mustangs in a noon double header at Millard.

WHERE THE BOTTOM LINE IS LESS!

Don Lane's 1991 Basketball Camp Scheduled For June, July At Transy

With the approach of summer in Kentucky, the summer basketball camps begin to send out their pamphlets to advertise their upcoming camps. The Don Lane Basketball Camp, one of the state's largest, will open in June beginning June 10-14 for boys 10-14 years of age.

Young basketball players from across the state — and from other states — will sharpen their basketball skills at Lane's camp this summer at Transylvania University in Lexington.

The camp will offer seven sessions for boys and girls between the ages of seven and 18. Coach Lane, head coach at Transy for 16 years, and his staff of high school and college coaches provide individual attention to the campers, who are grouped according to age, size, and experience. High school teams may elect to attend the camp as a group.

Tuition is $195 for resident campers, $170 for commuters, and $80 for seven to 10 year olds, who attend a special half-day camp.

Last year, over 1750 campers represented 110 teams, 25 states and three foreign countries.

For more information, contact Coach Lane, Transylvania University, Lexington, KY 40508, or call 606/233-8270.

Shelby Valley Scores Three Times In 7th To Down Betsy Layne, 5-4

At the W.C. Hambley Complex in Pikeville Thursday evening, Blaine Tackett's one out, two run triple in the bottom of the seventh inning drove in pinch runner Matt Tackett and Shannon Wright with the tying and winning runs as the Shelby Valley Wildcats edged Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats 5-4 in high school baseball. The victory was the Wildcats first ever baseball win.

Trailing 4-2, Dwayne Bentley, pinch hitting, got the winning rally underway in the seventh with a walk. Kevin Bowling followed Bentley with a base hit and Wright drove in Bentley with a base hit to make it 4-3. One out later Tackett came through with his game winning hit.

The Bobcats had taken a 4-2 fifth inning lead off Shelby Valley starter Jeremy Johnson. With the score tied at 2-2, Keith Hall singled off Johnson and went to third on a bunt off the bat of Chris Potter when the ball was errantly thrown into centerfield. Potter stole second and Adam Gearheart's grounder scored Hall while Potter going to third. Potter later came home on a sacrifice fly ball by Darren Gearheart to make it 4-2. Betsy Layne scored the first two runs of the game to take a 2-0 lead after three innings. In the second inning, Barry Clark singled and Barry Collins followed him with a base on balls. Hall picked up an RBI with a single that scored Clark. The Bobcats scored an unearned run in the third inning after Darren Gearheart led off the inning with a double. After Chris Newsome walked, designated hitter Jeff Mitchell in field grounder was misplayed and Gearheart scored.

The Wildcats came back in the bottom of the third inning and tied the game at 2-2 on Blaine Tackett's two run single. Kevin Bowling had a single following Johnson's bloop double to left.

Bowling picked up the win in relief of Johnson. Bowling pitched three hitless innings allowing only one walk while striking out five.

Todd Akers, starter for Betsy Layne, suffered the loss. Akers went six innings allowing six hits and all five runs. Akers walked five batters while fanning two.

Tackett had three hits for Shelby

Valley including a triple and four RBIs. Bowling added two singles for Shelby Valley.

Keith Hall led the Betsy Layne hit parade with two singles and two RBIs. Betsy Layne falls to 1-2 on the season while Shelby Valley is 1-0 with their first diamond win as a new school.

Betsy Layne is currently in Florida taking part in a tournament in the Sunshine State. The Bobcats will return home and will face the Millard Mustangs in a double header Tuesday afternoon at home.

Lady Topper Basketball Has A Record Setting Season

Bowling Green, Ky. — Western Kentucky University's Lady Topper basketball team enjoyed a record setting season in 1990-91, winding up the year with a 29-3 record and a seventh straight trip to the NCAA Tournament.

The season was highlighted by a school record 21 game winning streak, as Coach Paul Sanderford's troops went undefeated for nearly three months (November 26th through February 23rd). Sanderford's ninth year on the Hill resulted in his eighth 20 win season, his fourth Sun Belt Conference title and his third Sun Belt Conference Coach of the Year honor. And, Sanderford picked up his 200th career win at Western, knocking off nationally ranked Long Beach State in an overtime contest in Diddle Arena.

The '90-91 Lady Tops won their fifth consecutive Bowling Green Bank Invitational, the 1991 Illini Classic and played in the title game of the season opening Wahine Invitational in Hawaii, losing out to North Carolina State. Western defeated Florida State in the second round of the NCAA MidEast Region, advancing to the Sweet 16 for the third time in the past seven years. The Tops ended the season with a 68-61 loss to Tennessee in the MidEast semifinal game in Knoxville, Tennessee.

"I'm very proud of this basketball team and what we accomplished," commented Sanderford. "Our motto was to 'get it done in '91' and we did that. We played team basketball and found a way to win."

Balance was a key all season, as six Lady Toppers finished the season averaging double digits in scoring, led by junior guard Kim Pehlke (13.6

ppg). And, four Lady Tops averaged six or more rebounds per game, led by junior forward Lisa Lang (7.4 rpg). Western shot 49 percent from the three-point stripe, averaging 83.5 points per game, the second best scoring average in school history. Western ranked first in the nation in three point shooting for much of the season, paced by Pehlke (45.5 percent) and sophomore backcourt mate Renee Westmoreland (44.6 percent).

The Tops will return four starters next season — Pehlke, Westmoreland, Lang and sophomore center Paulette Monroe. Mary Taylor, who started 28 games at a forward spot, will graduate, along with key reserves Kim Norman and Kelly Smith. Taylor averaged 11.9 ppg and 6.0 rpg and became the 14th member of the Lady Topper 1,000 point club.

"We will have a strong nucleus coming back next year," Sanderford noted.

Poor Boy's Fish Locator: The Plastic Worm

By Mark E. Thomas

When midsummer bass are holding deep and hard to find, high tech bassin' tools like electronic fish locators seem worth their weight in gold. But what happens when the system goes down? Do you forego a weekend of fishing and waste these otherwise productive hours?

Not on your life. Take a tip from the pros and put your faith in the fish-finding ability of a plastic worm. Tournament professionals have been drifting worms to locate deep water bass for longer than it takes to rig up Texas-style. And they'll wager their winnings that the system pays off for anglers with the patience to do it right.

Here's how it works. When bass are deep, work your boat, like the ProCraft 180 Pro, along obvious deep water structure—points that appear to ease out into the depths, or along bluffs or old creek channels.

After you've located some bassy-looking territory, work your worm right along the bottom, from the deepest point back towards the shallows.

Comb every inch of the structure, keeping the worm deep and working it slowly back to the boat. If one stretch of likely looking territory is unproductive, move to another. But keep that worm in the water as much as you can.

Every time you bring a bass to the boat, drop a marker buoy over the side, pinpointing the exact site of the catch. In these midsummer deep water situations, odds are there will be several fish holding near the vicinity of the one you've just landed.

Expert bass fishermen using this method have often taken a limit from right under the marker buoy. And if the fishing turns off after you've taken several bass, move on to new structure and repeat the process. You can always return later when the fish are less spooky.

Now I'll let you in on another secret. Pro anglers often times use deep water worming to find bass even when their electronic equipment is performing perfectly. The technique's that good. And besides, there's nothing more rewarding than using old-fashioned fishing savvy to beat a lunker bass on his home turf.

So with the aid of marker buoys and a good boat, and for the price of a slip sinker and a plastic worm, you can scan the depths utilizing the bassin' braille system and beat the busted fish locator blues.

The fishing experts at ProCraft Boats suggest try "worming-up" deep water bass the next time you head for the lake—it just takes a little practice to perfect the touch. And please remember: don't toss your litter over the side. Let's all pull together to keep America's waters clean.

A Second Look At Sports

LOCAL LAKES AND PARKS HAVE MUCH TO OFFER

Some of the finest fishing and activities can be found around our local lakes and parks here in Floyd County.

Dewey Lake and the Jenny Wiley State Park offer the outdoorsman many opportunities to just get out and enjoy the great outdoors. When in season, the Sky Lift at Jenny Wiley is breathtaking with all its beauty displayed on the ride up the hill. The view is spectacular when the trees are all in bloom. Just to walk the trails and to take time to stop, sit down and enjoy the sights is something that many take for granted. We are blessed to have a state park here in Floyd County that can be enjoyed in so many ways. But, yet, we who live here rarely take advantage of the lake area.

Whether we are fishing, or just in a boat riding the lake area is a delight. Skiers and swimmers will enjoy being at Jenny Wiley.

The nine hole golf course at the state park affords the weekend golfer or the retired golfer a course that is a challenge. There are many things to see and enjoy at Jenny Wiley.

Other county parks include Stumbo Park at Allen. Walking trails as well as swimming and golf are at the disposal of county residents. A picnic area and pavilion allows families a time to get out and enjoy the outdoors together. A convention center is available for reunions and other gatherings. The park is the location for much Little League, Babe Ruth and high school baseball action in their season.

Stumbo Park also has a nine hole golf course available and the course has been very active lately. So, if it's just a "walk in the park" or a good game of golf, Stumbo Park is the place to enjoy such activities. Tennis courts greet those who desire a good game of tennis when you enter the park.

City owned Archer Park also has many activities through the spring and summer months. A nice park geared just to the youngsters welcomes each visitor. Archer Park is also home to the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen Center — Kentucky's number one center. Picnic tables and areas are there for family outings also.

A large swimming pool (in season) is always a favorite spot for those who are looking for ways to escape the summer's heat. Softball, Little League and Senior League baseball fields are also a beehive of activity. Basketball goals as well as a large upstairs gym are located at Archer Park. When you feel like a night of roller skating, Archer Park has the county's only facility. The rink may also be rented for private parties.

Handball courts are also available at the city's park.

Archer Park boasts of US Tennis Approved tennis courts that were recently refurbished. It's a busy place for high school as well as invitational tournaments.

Perhaps not as large as the other county parks, the Minnie Park at Minnie still has a good assortment of activity. Tennis courts are available for the tennis enthusiasts. Outdoor basketball courts as well as softball and baseball fields are also available. Swings and a picnic shelter are there to enjoy.

We, here in Floyd County have many areas we can enjoy this spring and summer. Don't stay home all the time but get out and take advantage of the great outdoors. You will not be sorry you did.

Junior Pro Facts

Harold Johnson, junior at Wheelwright and a member of the Trojan basketball team, holds the state record for the most assists in the Kentucky State Junior Pro tournament. Johnson had 13 assists in one junior varsity game in 1987.....Adam Gearheart, senior at Betsy Layne holds two state varsity records. Gearheart hit the most free throws in a tournament, 10, in 1987. The 10 free throws was the most made in a single game also a state record.....Jeremy

Clark, a freshman at Allen Central, holds the most points scored in a varsity tournament — 81. Clark holds the record for most points in a single game — 41. Clark accomplished the feat in 1990. Other state records Clark holds. Most field goals made in one game, 16; most free throws made in a single game, 12; most free throws made in state tournament, 27. All total, Clark holds five state tournament records....Floyd County varsity team won the tournament sportsmanship award last year.

Satisfy your wild streak—try fishing on the run

Anyone who says fishing is boring has truly missed the boat. They don't know about the times in summer and fall when fish are packed into big schools and are feeding on the surface. That's when angling on the run can just about jump start your heart.

Picture this. A wide stretch of glassy water, suddenly dimpled by hordes of fish in a wild feeding frenzy. You see the splashes, or gulls diving in the distance, and position your Astro Bass Boat for the chase.

Next you're on the throttle, running as fast safety permits, drawing ever nearer to the water erupting action. Your heart pounds as the boat leaps forward, for it may be only a matter of minutes before the frenzy wanes, and time is on their side.

Now you're within casting distance. The feeding orgy is so strong that the fish ignore the boat. You cast a lure that resembles the hapless prey into the middle of the fray. The reel bends, the line sings out and a rush of adrenaline leaves your temples pounding.

The schools move and you move with them, always on the lookout for diving gulls or surface water that seems to boil up through the heat glare. Especially in the fall, action like this can go on throughout the day...if you've got the nerves and the boat to stand up to it.

Chasing schooling fish provides the kind of excitement that appeals to those of us who love fast boats and fast fishing. Fortunately, it's available on both freshwater lakes and offshore. Largemouth bass school in a number of our lakes, and white bass are notorious for their schooling activities in both summer and autumn.

Schooling saltwater species include both striped bass and bluefish off the Atlantic coast. These eagerly sought game fish congregate for surface action throughout the autumn months.

And don't overlook landlocked stripers for some fishing on the run. Stripers have been stocked in a great number of our inland reservoirs. They're voracious feeders, grow to tackle busting sizes, and school in both summer and fall in these freshwater environments.

Schooling is simple enough to understand, once you witness the activity. Sport fish that have been loafing in the comfortable temperatures of deeper water congregate beneath masses of small forage fish packed near the surface and, compelled by hunger and the cooperative tactics that schooling provides, rush upward in a ravenous feeding binge.

That's when you need to be on the water, cruising slowly, eyeing the distant surface calm with all the anticipation of an osprey.

When the calm erupts with frothing water, leaping forage fish and diving gulls, there should be only one word left in your vocabulary: Charge!

The activity may subside, only to reappear in the distance. So, like the folks at Astro Boats say, keep up the chase, and you are promised an experienced, adrenaline pumping hours of action packed boating and fishing.

DON'T BOOZE AND BOAT

Smooth sailing on a summer day—gentle winds and nothing to do. Inviting? Maybe. But, did you know that boating accidents are one of the nation's leading causes of accidental death; second only to highway crashes?

Ironic? Not really, the results of drinking and driving are always the same. The National Safety Council says be a sensible skipper and don't booze and boat.

NATIONAL SAFE BOATING WEEK

June 2 through the 8 is National Safe Boating week. The National Safety Council says be safe on our waterways and enjoy the lakes. Remember don't booze and boat. They don't mix.

FISHING WHATEVER YOU WANT IT TO BE BUILD A HEALTHY ATTITUDE

If you've pondered the notion of getting into fishing, what are you waiting for? Fishing doesn't have age, sex or physical limitations, and it's a great way to build a healthy mental attitude.

The beauty of fishing, say the experts, is it can be whatever you want it to be. It can be a lawn chair on a river bank, a can of worms dug from the garden and an inexpensive rod and reel propped in a forked twig. Turn on the portable radio to your favorite tunes or sporting event, and sit back and enjoy nature.

Or it can be a large sea going vessel equipped with high tech tackle sophisticated electronic gear. Strap yourself into a fighting chair and give it your all while you struggle with a marlin or tuna.

Or it can be anything in between. Indeed, serious modern day anglers tend to talk fishing in a language only scientists can understand. But shouldn't lead you to believe there's no place for the entry level angler.

Relaxation and tranquility aren't the only benefits you'll get from fishing. Given today's environmental concerns, you can feel good about your contribution through license fees and excise taxes on fishing and boating equipment. No other segment of society has done more to protect their resources than sport anglers.

In most states, license dollars go directly to fish and game departments to stock lakes, build public access sites on lakes and rivers and improve water quality.

Also, federal excise taxes on fishing tackle are returned to the state from which they were collected for use in similar projects.

If you want to enjoy the outdoors, and do your part so that your kids and their kids can enjoy the outdoors also, try fishing.

Johnson youth to vie in National cheerleading meet

A Van Lear youth will compete in national cheerleading competition April 5-6 in San Antonio, Texas.

Michele Fannin, a senior at Morehead, is a member of the university's varsity cheerleading squad. The squad submitted a videotape consisting of a cheer, sideline and fight song routines to qualify.

MSU faces James Madison University, George Mason University, University of North Carolina-Wilmington, Wright State University and the University of Alabama-Birmingham in the Division I competition which is sponsored by the Universal Cheerleaders Association.

The squad won the Division I National Championship in 1988.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

Daisy Deussen

One of the most exciting game fish created by man and mother nature has to be the hybrid striped bass. Pound for pound they are as strong as any fresh water specie that swims.

The hybrid was created by crossing a female striper with a male white bass. The results can be found in rivers and reservoirs across the country.

In early spring a hybrid goes through a spawning process even though the specie is sterile. They will migrate upstream anytime there is moving water and can readily be found gathering below a dam or shoal. Flashy lures such as spoons, tail spinners, maribou jigs and chrome Rat-L-Traps are effective.

Some of America's best hybrid fishing can be found in East Texas near Dallas. Lake Ray Hubbard is one of the best.

Fishin' Tips are brought to you by America's #1 Fishing Boats.

Wayland Lady Wildcats

Time to Make a Sign

Pitino's Breakfast of Champions coming to Lexington April 3

The Second Annual Rick Pitino's Breakfast of Champions is coming to Lexington on Wednesday, April 3, according to Chairman Oscar L. Combs, Publisher of the Cats' Pause. The breakfast will be held from 8 to 9:30 a.m. in the President's Room at Commonwealth Stadium and will be followed by a special auction at 9:30 hosted by auctioneer and former Wildcat great Vernon Hatton.

The theme of this year's event will be "A Tribute To Reggie Hanson" and Hanson will be the special guest of Coach Pitino along with the current Wildcat players and coaches. "This is the first time that the team and coaches will be accessible to the general public in an open, casual setting," Combs said. "Fans who come will get a chance to meet them, talk to them and get some autographs. It should be a terrific day for all Wildcat fans! Best of all, it is being held during "Spring Break."

"And this looks to be the best auction ever in the history of the event. Our auction this year will be highlighted by the now famous plaid jacket from Dawahares that was worn by Coach Pitino during the Alabama game."

Other auction items include: tickets to UK games during the 1991-92 season; a golf game with Athletics Director C. M. Newton and former All-American Ralph Beard; a fishing trip for striped bass with Coach Joe B. Hall and famous fishing guide Tony Campisano; Reggie Hanson's game jersey; signed NBA basketballs and many more special items. Tickets can be purchased at any Central Bank location or by writing to: The Breakfast Of Champions, PO Box 13154, Lexington, KY 40583-3154. Advance tickets are $20 adults, $4 children 13 and under and $2 for the auction only. All proceeds go to the Leukemia Society, Kentucky Chapter. Free parking is available in the Blue Lot off of Alumni Drive.

BASS CAN BE FRIGHTENED BY A VARIETY OF SOUNDS

If you talk to our fishing partner, will the sound of your voice frighten the bass?

Do the fish spook if you accidentally stumble over your tackle box, slam a rod locker lid, or continually turn your trolling motor on and off?

Questions like these concerning the ability of bass to hear noises both in and out of the water have puzzled anglers for years, and often dictate the way they fish. Former fisheries biologist Ken Cook, now a top ranked tournament professional and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff, has studied bass hearing for years, and offers several tips for fishermen.

"Bass have a dual hearing system," he explains, "and both are of importance to anglers. The fish have an inner ear system that picks up high frequency sounds, and a lateral line system that picks up lower frequency vibrations.

"The inner ear system, which is similar to that in humans except there is no actual external ear, seems to pick up sounds that tend to frighten bass. This includes those dropped tackle boxes, the slap of a paddle against the water, even the trolling motor noises.

"The lateral line, which is a row of scales down each side of the bass, is actually a direction sensing set of auditory nerves. The lateral line picks up vibrations made by minnows, crayfish and even lures."

Any noises that vibrate water molecules, explains the Evinrude pro, are transmitted very well through the water, since water is five times as dense as air.

Sounds that originate in the air, such as voices, do not penetrate the water well and seldom spook bass.

"Bass are very aware of what is happening in the water around them," Cook continues, "but not what is happening above them."

Cook considers the hearing system to be more acute than the vision a bass has, even in clear water.

"Observations from glass bottom boats in some of the clear Florida springs seem to indicate hearing may be the first sense activated," he says. "Observers sat below the water line so they could see bass reactions to lures cast by an angler standing up on the deck.

"The instant a lure hit the water and began to sink, bass would dart out from their hiding places to look, but once they actually saw the lure, they simply turned and swam back into hiding."

Anglers should be aware of the acuteness of hearing in bass, says Cook, and make as little noise as possible in their boat. It's better to keep a trolling motor on a constant low speed than continually turning it off and on, and lures should be retrieved erratically to more closely imitate the vibrations produced by injured baitfish.

It is, however, perfectly all right to talk to your fishing partner, especially when you feel a bass begin to bite.

FISHING SEMINARS POPULAR DURING THE OFF SEASON

Ask any bass tournament pro what he likes to do most when he isn't fishing, and he'll answer talking about fishing.

It's not only fun, but also big business. During the winter months the many of America's best known anglers criss cross the nation each week not just talking but actually teaching the sport of bass fishing to hundreds of thousands of fans.

Winter is the time of year when most of the major sport and outdoor recreation shows are held, and many of them feature one or more fishing seminars by bass pros each evening. The pros also speak at colleges, store openings and even corporate sales meetings.

"I really enjoy it," says Guy Eaker, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and one of the busiest speakers on the seminar circuit with more than 40 seminar engagements annually.

"People want to learn the techniques we use to catch bass, so I view seminar speaking as a way to give something back to the fans who support us in the tournaments.

"The key to giving a successful seminar is sharing your knowledge and experiences. I want my audiences to feel the same things I feel when I'm on the water, to become excited about catching bass.

"That's really why people come to our seminars. They want to learn how to catch bass, so I emphasize teaching the techniques and tricks we use in the tournaments."

Eaker gave his first seminar in 12975 in Knoxville, Tennessee, while actually practicing for a national tournament in South Carolina. He and several fishermen flew in one afternoon, presented their seminars and flew out early the next morning.

"Seminar engagements are nearly always that way," acknowledges Eaker. "I do a lot of seminars at colleges and universities, and we usually have them on five consecutive nights.

"The trouble is, they'll be in five different cities and states. I may be in North Carolina tonight, Minnesota tomorrow, then Texas, California and Florida, all in the same week."

Despite such a hectic travel schedule and the fact it takes him away from his home and family, the Evinrude pro thoroughly enjoys talking about his favorite sport. The nervousness he felt during his first seminar has been replaced with polished confidence.

Eaker's largest seminar crowd totaled more than 6,000 listeners, while his smallest numbered just 25. The time of year a seminar is scheduled, he feels, has the greatest influence on crowd attendance.

"January, February and March are the best months for seminars," he explains, "because the colder winter months limit fishing activity. By February and March, especially, people are ready to get out on the water again.

"They've read about the newest tackle and equipment, and they're anxious to learn how to use it.

"The summer and fall months usually have lower seminar attendance because people are fishing, hunting, or busy with other outdoor activities."

SAFETY TIPS FOR TURKEY HUNTERS

Hunters in anxious pursuit of wild turkeys may be especially susceptible to "mistaken for game" accidents and should make every effort to keep safety in the field a top priority.

Although there were no reported turkey hunting accidents in Kentucky during 1990, the rapid growth in the sport's popularity commands that gobble enthusiasts pay closer attention than ever before to the rules of safe hunting.

The very nature of turkey hunting lends itself to the possibility of accidents. Generally, the more successful turkey hunters are those who can make themselves effectively invisible and produce sounds like a turkey! However, there are several safety tips that won't curtail effectiveness which turkey hunters would do well to remember.

While wearing hunter orange is highly recommended, turkey hunters argue (with some merit) that the blaze color betrays their location to the birds, since wild turkeys have keen eyesight. However, hunters can safely mark their location by tying a piece of hunter orange material high above the spot where they're concealed. This way, one hunter can detect another's position, and the bright, unnatural color remains well above a turkey's eye-level. Remember too, that a wild turkey is more apt to detect motion than color.

Hunters also should take extra care when changing locations or carrying a harvested bird from the field. For these activities, put on the hunter orange cap and the vest which has been cleverly concealed in a "cameo" bag — and put the bird in the bag so its colors won't draw the attention of other hunters.

Remember too, that hen calls are much safer — and usually far more productive — than gobbler calls. Using a gobbler call may draw other hunters and create an unsafe situation. Unfortunately, you can't always rely on the other guy to be safe, especially if you sound like a big gobbler.

Hunters should always avoid colors naturally associated with wild turkeys, especially red, black, white and blue.

The general rules of safe hunting also apply. Treat every gun as if it were loaded, always point a firearm in a safe direction and positively identify all targets and backgrounds before firing.

NEW STATE RECORD FISH

DeWayne West of Hopkinsville has posted a new Kentucky state record for a yellow bass.

West's one-pound, one-ounce fish, taken March 10 from the Little River of Lake Barkley, exceeded the previous record by two ounces and measured just over 12 inches long. Kentucky's state record fish are determined by weight.

The previous state record (15 ounces) for yellow bass stood less than a year and had been held by Gray Tracy of Frankfort.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

Charles Campbell

You've picked the fishing boat to meet your needs, matched it with just the right outboard for best performance and now comes the time to choose the right prop.

There are many to select from. Aluminum props are less expensive, will damage easier than stainless, but can be repaired when necessary.

Stainless Steel is more expensive, faster and will take more abuse than aluminum. Props are measured in pitch and diameter.

They come in three or four blades. A four blade prop delivers a good hole shot and generally a stable ride. A three blade prop usually moves the boat a little faster. Here's a rule of thumb. The smaller the pitch 22 or 23, the better the hole shot. The larger the pitch 26 or 27, the better top end. Most dealers can recommend the best choice.

Fishin' Tips are brought to you by America's #1 Fishing Boats.

Small World

The fisherman's wife

Spring has arrived once again, bringing with it all the signs and symptoms we have come to expect. The Easter lilies have bloomed, various beautiful birds are singing outside our windows and a great number of men are being afflicted with that strange malady called "fishing fever."

It's been a few months since the cold winter winds drove them in from the lakes and streams, and now they're becoming restless again. But before we pursue this avocation any further, let's take a few minutes to consider the fisherman's wife.

The role of housewife doesn't come with any exact job description, but a woman who has the dubious lack of being married to a fisherman will have a few things in common with all other such fortunates. Not only is she expected to know where the sweat shirts and heavy socks are stored, but the insulated lunch pails and thermos jugs for coffee are often considered to be her responsibility.

Whatever schedule she has worked out for herself is easily disrupted by the barometer, thermometer and general atmospheric conditions. Whenever fish are biting, all other factors are put on hold and, instead of expecting her guy to "bring home the bacon," she will wait long hours for him to come dragging in with "the catch of the day."

More often than not she will have to listen to some sad tale about the ones that got away. She will soon learn that keeping the skillet hot is a futility and will have stew made or pork chops at the ready so the family doesn't wind up having to eat cheese sandwiches.

She will learn to be careful in prying open the little containers in the refrigerator. What she expects to be some bit of leftovers could very well be live bait he has stashed away for his next outing.

Of course there will always be the little artificial bait called lures scattered over the house. They will be in the form of a rubber worm, a shiny minnow or a jarfly with a feather attached—not to mention the hooks. They will be dropped in little trays on the dresser, a saucer on a shelf or the pocket of a jacket being laundered.

For a change of scenery she might decide to take a little trip of her own, but before she can put a piece of luggage in the family car she will have to remove about three rod and reel combinations to make room. And if anyone is to ride in the back seat, she will have to move a tackle box out of the floor lest they stumble and break a leg.

Just in case she decides to look in the tackle box to see what makes it so heavy, she will see a wild assortment of things. There are little compartments that might be organized, but usually are not.

The assortment will include fish-hooks, bobbers, sinkers, leaders, floaters, a piece of string, wire cutters, a small can of oil, a rusty nail and a can opener. There will also be lures with funny names—names like Buzz-bait, Hula-popper, Jitterbug and River-runt.

What she won't recognize in the chosen tackle is the hundreds—maybe thousands—of dollars that have been invested in it. Just as beauty is in the eye of the beholder, the treasure will be to him and not to her.

Just when she thinks the marriage has reached a status quo and the pair has adjusted to the situation, he will hear of yet another stream or pond that might hold anything from a whale to a crawdad and his next trip will take him farther and longer.

The assortment of tackle he has accumulated won't be enough for this. He will have to buy down-riggers, stronger lines and a bigger boat. He will also have to get bigger coolers to take up more room as they sit empty.

But now and then his luck will change. The thermometer, barometer and signs of Zodiac will come together in such a way that fish are affected. Steelhead, coho, brown trout and chinook will get in line to strike whatever bait they're offered, and it will take whatever energy he has left to dress, package and freeze.

The fisherman's wife will then be expected to share his enthusiasm when he comes home, all smiles, and gives to his friends some good fresh fish he caught himself—and only she will realize these little offerings have cost him at least a hundred dollars a pound.

April contemplations

Monday, April 1, it was announced that Times' advertising staff would be conducting their duties from Rooms 1001 and 1002 at HRMC.

by Kim Frasure

It has recently been noted that the scratch which took away 90 percent of sales representative Anita Stone's cornea, the bump into the vacuum layout designer Shawn Hamilton incurred (and now has to have her entire leg in traction) landed them in adjoining hospital suites. Sales representative Jeff Sammons, while taking a shower before work, became dizzy, ill and faint, and then drove himself to another, closer hospital to find he was suffering from a blood clot. Ad manager Kim Frasure admitted herself this week in fear something was sure to happen, and her writer's block for Kim's Korner is continuing.

But, advertisers must not fret, for Publisher Perry has installed personal phone lines for each sales person, so that business may continue as usual.

Publisher Perry became extremely upset Thursday afternoon when his wife (and his collection manager) Celeste Perry was rushed to the emergency room for the removal of a phone from her left ear. Mrs. Perry has been working extra hard to collect from overdue accounts.

Just when he'd returned to the office, Publisher Perry caught sight of the bookkeeper, Susie Music, and the classified ad manager, Kari Gayheart, dashing for the medicine cabinet for eye wash.

Perry, needing caffeine, headed for the coffee pot, only to be passed in the hallway by the darkroom technician, Mike Burke, who was holding his blood red hands in the air.

"Burke, what happened to you?" asked Perry.

"Well, sir," replied Burke, "I was developing some very 'hot' photos."

Then as Perry was pouring his much needed cup of caffeine, Willie Conley, Tim Burke, and Jenny Ousley nearly knocked him over.

"Wait a minute," Perry shouted. "Where are you three going?"

His only answers were sneezes, coughs and runny noses.

Perry was then paged to answer line one. Reluctantly, he did, but only to hear Ed Taylor, Floyd County's No. 1 sports editor, had joined the realm of HRMC in room 1003. Yes, sports fans, Ol' Ed was admitted by Dr. Inix after he had to remove marbles from Ed's eyes. Ed was covering the annual marble tournament at Wheelwright.

Poor Publisher Perry, full of anguish and exhaustion, was praying for no rain. For Tim Preston's hip hurts profusely when it does, and Janice Shepherd's allergy's, well, Kimberly Clark doesn't make enough tissues. Publisher Perry has one staff member whose health he never worries about—only those Susan Allen writes about.

Jodi Blackburn, circulation manager, skipped the county this week after waiting two years for a much needed vacation.

Johnny Adams, Zyndall and the press room crew are suffering ink blots over their entire bodies, but are expected to be cleared sometime this weekend.

Typesetter Hannah Adams, otherwise known as "the quiet one" sprang from her chair late Thursday evening, ran to the phone, pressed the intercom and screamed "NO MORE ADS AFTER DEADLINE, YOU DAMN AD PEOPLE!"

Well, in total shock, Publisher Perry, sliced the tip off his finger with his X-acto knife while laying out the front page. Perry jerked a few times, whether in fear, we have no idea.

The next scene was B & B Ambulance scraping him off the floor and heading for HRMC.

It is expected readers will see a few full page ads from HRMC after so many of the Times staff members have been admitted. What Green Cross Green Shield won't pay for, trade-out will. So be sure to get next week's edition. We hear there will be a special on plastic surgery. Till next week...

Old days, old ways:

Kindred spirit of ancestors remembered

Minnie Howell

far limits of King James' grant. With the price of beaver pelts in demand in Europe, they would have been wise to seek a place where beavers were plentiful—to places which bear their names, Right Beaver Creek and Left Beaver Creek. They had been told to "trade and traffic." In my opinion they have been doing just that around here ever since.

There were many problems facing colonists coming into an unknown place. When they learned to do as the Indians did, they were able to meet their daily needs from scratch. We know this as some of us still go about our daily lives holding onto the things from those days. Our methods of gardening came basically from the Indians who befriended and taught them.

One way to make friends with a new group of people is to marry into them. That was exactly what the settlers did, as the boat load of English brides sent over by the king did not satisfy the needs of all.

Other research on this topic has been done. Calvin Waddles of Topmost had traced the Martin family to the place where his house sits. He told me that when they came in, there was a big Indian chief living at Patton, who had a bunch of girls. So, the Martins, like many other early settlers, took Indian maidens for wives.

Indian ways of life were just as complex as those of civilized Europe. One difference was that Europe developed the raising of farm animals, while Indians perfected ways of farming. Along with farming was begun the raising of farm animals, brought in from Europe to supply their needs with daily products and a surplus to trade, or sell for money, to purchase things they could not make themselves. A highly complex system was worked out.

At the time Minnie and I were born, the ways of making a living from farming the land in Floyd and Letcher counties were the same as it had been for hundreds, maybe thousands of years. Only the tools have improved. The plows, harrows, drags, seed saving for the next year's crop could be seen. Farms were large and people, who did not have such a layout, helped those who did, so that their needs might also be met. There was plenty of hard work for all. Today it is done on a much lighter scale, if at all. (Thank goodness!)

Yet some of those ways have held to our day. I remember my dad taking corn to the mill at Maytown to be ground into cornmeal. I recall watching the huge stone millstones turning as they changed the grain to meal. The mill was very, very old. It creaked as it turned and the water splashed on.

Cornmeal could be purchased in the stores, but they still loved the taste of the old way. When the May mill was no longer in use, he took it to Orville Homer, who had perfected a new way to run a mill without water.

Mrs. Jean Horner Spencer, wife of Ralph Spencer of Eastern, told me that her father had converted a Star brand gasoline engine into a natural gas engine. Many people had free gas. This gave him a better profit. Once my dad took a turn (a sack of shelled corn) to be ground at Mr. Horner's mill. Dad came back with a funny story to tell. He told us that Orville had trouble with his mill that evening, and it had unground all the corn that he had ground that day. So, he had to start all over again. He was having a little difficulty that day but this was not the problem. Dad loved to pull jokes on us. We children did not catch it at once, but my mother did, of course. They had to explain to us and we all had a good laugh.

Today we see around us the absence of the old ways. The lack of milk cows in the pasture is allowing the plant community to take over.

While the pasture grows up in briars and weeds, we go to the store for our milk. Most of us agree that this is an improvement, but there are those who prefer the old way.

Minnie Howell is a lady of tradition. When she lived at the head of a hollow on Henry's Branch, she led us to her barn, one day, to show us the nice brown Jersey cow which she had recently purchased. We could not believe our eyes!

Later Minnie gave up her country residence and moved to Maytown. It is much less work to live in the city and purchase everything; however, last summer a small vegetable garden could be seen growing in her back yard. Minnie is one who can not stand to see food go to waste, so when she became tired of making canned tomatoes and juice, she pulled them all up, to keep from seeing them spoil on the vine.

When Minnie feels good she likes to make a big dinner with her old fashioned recipes. She invites friends in to eat the cornbread, mustard greens, hogs head, stack cake and other dishes — enough to fill her large table. The day I stopped by, she was making a gingerbread stack cake.

To cooked apples she added sugar, a small amount of flour, and spices to make the icing, and cooked the mixture long enough to get the flour done. She spread the apples between the layers and then covered it all over. Sitting on a glass stemmed cake dish, it was a sight to behold.

We stopped in the sewing room to see her pieced quilts: The Log Cabin, The Hummingbird, and Nine Patch were under construction, but the Oak Leaf and Trip Around the World were ready to quilt. Minnie can make a rainy day sun shiny inside her home. The visit was so pleasant that I forgot it was a rainy, dismal day outside.

One of her sons had brought two hogs heads the day before and asked her to make souse (head cheese) from them. She had already completed the job. All the excess grease was removed; the odor of the spices could be smelled as I looked at it. As you may imagine, I was very happy when she gave me two generous slices and some ginger cakes made from excess dough when I left. All I can say was that there was a sandwich made from the souse as soon as I got home and it was yummy! I would have made it sooner but I had no bread with me.

In conclusion: We can very well assume that we do not practice the old ways because the work required to produce them is too hard! We sacrifice quality for leisure time.

Cabbage Patch

By Marie Harmon

I have had a request from a friend for an article on the growing of beets. She says she can not grow very big ones; join the crowd. There is an old saying here that it takes a contrary person to grow big beets. Well, if that were true, you would not be able to get one of my beets in a dish pan. My husband can and does grow beautiful beets and he is very meek and gentle (he says).

Beets are an important homegrown vegetable, are relatively easy to grow, are resistant to most vegetable insects and diseases, use little garden space, and are easy to store. Beets and beet greens are a good source of vitamin B1 and C. The leaves are richer in these vitamins plus also contain Vitamin A and iron.

Beets can be grown anywhere in the U.S., but they do tend to do better in the northern sections of the country. Beets are a hardy plant that can

On eggs and turtles and hanging judges

When I was a kid growing up in Muddy Branch, my mother was a big believer in breakfast. So, from the time I started first grade, until I finished high school, she fixed breakfast every morning.

Furthermore, she disliked those old cold cereals, and, of course, at that time she'd never even heard of pop tarts and instant oats. So, nine times out of ten, what she'd prepare was a slice of home-cured ham or bacon — and an egg or two. On weekends she'd usually fix biscuits and gravy to go with the bacon and eggs.

Consequently, I'd almost bet that I averaged eating 30 or 40 eggs a month. Now, I know that's a lot of cholesterol. But, since no one had ever heard of that back then, eggs were a breakfast staple for everybody.

Apparently, even some folks today haven't heard of cholesterol, either, for I read in the paper the other day about an 88-year-old man who eats 25 soft-boiled eggs a day.

The article also stated that while the American Heart Association recommends that people should eat only 300 milligrams of cholesterol a day, this man takes in 5000. This prompted a study by a University of Colorado professor who found that the old gentlemen's cholesterol checked in at normal.

Another thing that the piece in the paper said about the man (who was never named) was that he lived in a retirement home and had a poor memory. It didn't say why he ate so many eggs, but maybe the bit about his having a poor memory explains it. Perhaps he can't remember whether or not he's had his breakfast. So, just to be on the safe side, he does.

Idea about breakfast aren't the only things that have changed since I was a kid. Another is the great American hero.

Mine were Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and Lash Larue. Nowadays, kids not only look up to all sorts of real people, but also to such things as fictional Teenage Mutant Turtles.

I read a while back that "experts (whomever they may be) felt that it wasn't healthy for young people to watch the Mutant Turtles on TV because the turtles displayed too much violence.

Now, even worse, is the report published last week that there is a fear out in Encinitas, California, that kids are "venturing into local sewers in search of their pizza-eating, crime-fighting heroes."

Although they actually haven't found any children in sewers, there have been reports of "a few tennis shoes and sneaker prints found in storm drains."

Also, an Encinitas sewer maintenance worker's 5-year-old daughter asked him if she could go to work with him and play in the slime. Is that scary, or what?

All I can say is that somebody had better bring back those Saturday morning matinees where six-shooters never ran out of bullets, the good guys always won, and nary a drop of blood was ever seen.

Some of these old B-westerns sometimes featured, too, a usually unsavory character referred to as "the hanging judge." But, according to still another newspaper story, Judge Warren Litynski of St. Peter, Minnesota, will likely never be called that. Last week, according to the article, a St. Peter citizen was charged with animal abandonment after he was accused of leaving five puppies to die in a trash bin.

No doubt, to the chagrin of pet lovers everywhere, Judge Litynski fined the man one dollar.

Haywoods host family at Easter

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood had their entire family as their guests on Easter Sunday. They included Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Haywood and daughters, Melissa and Jacquelyn Haywood of Belfry and Miss Rebecca Haywood of Falmouth, who remained for a few day's visit with her parents.

Spring revival planned at First Christian Church

A spring revival will be held at the First Christian Church here from Thursday through Sunday, April 11-14, with the Rev. Gus Andrews, evangelist, bringing the messages. These are to be coordinated with color slides.

The Rev. Andrews and the church's pastor, the Rev. Honel Adams, extend a cordial welcome to attend these services.

Haywoods are recovering from surgery and accident

Relatives and friends of Carlos and Arthur W. Haywood will be glad to know that they are recuperating at their home in Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Haywood recently underwent surgery at U.K. Medical Center in Lexington and spent a brief period in the Markey Cancer Center there.

Mr. Haywood injured his leg in an accident this past week.

Rummage sale in progress

A rummage sale, sponsored by the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club is in progress at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park. The public is invited to come and browse and buy.

Herefords visit relatives here

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford and Mr. and Mrs. David Hereford had their family with them during the Easter holidays. Visiting them were Dr. and Mrs. John Hereford and son, John Robert Hereford of Kingsport, Tenn., and Dr. and Mrs. Ronnie Goble of Winchester. The Gobles were also guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Goble of the Auxier Road.

Limings are houseguests of Mrs. Josephine Fields

Josephine and Steve Liming of Cincinnati were here during the Easter holidays for a visit with relatives and friends. They were the houseguests of their aunt, Mrs. Josephine (Peenie) Fields, and spent some time visiting with another aunt, Mrs. Douglas Perry, who has been ill.

Following services at the First United Methodist Church on Easter Sunday, they and Mrs. Fields dined at May Lodge.

Mrs. Liming will be remembered as the former Miss Josephine Archer, daughter of the late Judith and Bill Tom Archer, of Prestonsburg

Miss Wallen visits mother

Miss Joyce Wallen of Lexington was here during the holidays for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Thelma S. Wallen, and other relatives and friends.

Welcomed into church fellowship

Welcomed recently by letter into the fellowship of the Community United Methodist Church, were: Phillip and Desiree Kisner, from the United Methodist Church of Olive Hill, and by baptism, Mrs. Charles (Eva) Gearheart, upon her profession of faith.

Retired teachers will meet April 11

Mrs. J.C. (Norma S.) Stepp, liaison person for the Big Sandy Retired Teachers Association, reminds retired teachers of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Lawrence counties of the luncheon-meeting to be held on Thursday, April 11, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. Registration will start at 9:30 a.m. The program will consist of singers from the Allen Grade School, and music on the harmonica and a stringed instrument by Marcus Owens.

Matters of importance to retired teachers will be discussed. Mrs. Stepp, Mrs. Georgia Muncy, president, and other officers of the B.S.R.T.S.' organization, urges all members and those who may be interested in becoming members to attend and participate in this worthwhile event.

Family guests on Easter Sunday

Mrs. Phyllis Ranier had as her luncheon-guests on Easter Sunday members of her family, Mrs. Ruth Worland and Mrs. Alan Ranier.

Easter lilies placed in church sanctuaries

Easter lilies were placed as remembrances of relatives and friends in sanctuaries of churches throughout Prestonsburg, for services on Easter Sunday.

The churches where these were placed, those who were remembered, and those making these thoughtful contributions included:

At the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial): Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Hunt, by their family; Huck Francis, by his wife, Betty, and children; and the Rev. M. Robert Regan, by his wife, Lucy.

At the Community United Methodist Church: "In memory of:" Louise Hicks and Alton Moore, by Charles R. Shepherd; Tom Neeley and Lawrence Douglas Neeley, by Marie Neeley, Carol and Craig; Turner and Janey Branham, by John and Mary Branham; John Branham, by Opal, Fannie, and Peggy Branham, and in memory of their parents by the Rev. Ron and Marion Masters.

Prayer partners so honored at this church were: Christina Simpson, Pam Leslie, Jean Burke, and Ernestine Collins.

Remembered with Easter lilies at the First United Methodist Church, here were: Mary Jane Brown, by Mable H. Brown and family; Stella Spurlock, by Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Blackburn; May K. and Dick Roberts, by Kaye and Bill Baird and family, and Judy and John Wade and family; Inez and Joe Hobson, by Fred and Madelyn Cottrell; Micki Sparks, by Carol and Rev. Wayne Sparks; Mr. and Mrs. W.J. May, by W.J. May, Jr.; loved ones, by W.J. May, Jr.; Joseph Lee McCauley, by Jeanette McCauley; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, by Clara and Raymond Bradbury; Arnold and Frances Compton, and Karen Jean Snavelly, by the Snavelly family; Richard Langefeld, by his family; Henry Harris, Sr., by Mrs. Henry Harris; Ann O. Stephens, and Dr. Raymond Stephens, by Jack Carter; Edward Worland, Sr., by Ruth Worland; Allen and Mabel Painter and Douglas Painter, by Kevin, Ronna, and Timothy Yeager; Dr. and Mrs. George P. Archer, by Emily, Aaron and Margaret Damron; Russell May, by his family; John P. Branham and John Robert Branham (grandson), by Mrs. John P. Branham and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Hereford, Sr., by Major and Mrs. Bernard Williams.

These persons were also honored with Easter lilies:

Josephine Fields and Douglas Perry, by Kaye and Bill Baird and family, and Judy and John Wade and family; Richard Spurlock, by Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Blackburn; Barbara Bloomer, by her Secret Sister; those serving in Saudi Arabia, by Major and Mrs. Bernard Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Williams.

Prestonsburg Woman's club will meet Thursday

Members of the G.F.W.C./K.F.W.C. Prestonsburg Woman's Club are reminded by their president, Mrs. Linda McGuire, of the regular monthly meeting to be held Thursday (tomorrow) night, April 4, at 7:30, at the club's Arts and Crafts House, at Archer Park. This will be the G.F.W.C. Centennial Commemoration of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club's Seventieth Anniversary, with the program entitled "Reliving Club History," and will include a historical skit by Mrs. Kathy Lowe. The program leaders will be members of the club's executive board. The devotional leader will be Lucy C. Regan, and hostesses will be Maxine Bierman, Phyllis Herrick, Sarah Goble, Kathryn Poe, Lois George, and Barbara Dawson.

As per usual, members of the executive board are asked to meet there at 7 p.m., on that same date.

New homemakers

Mrs. Frances Pitts, home economist, has announced that several persons have recently been added to the list of Floyd County Homemakers' members. Members-at-large and the names of those by whom they were recruited include: Theresa Wise, by Sharon Caudill; Lois Gault, by Alta Gibson; Vicky Horne, by Lorena Horne; Fern Johnson, by Verna Tackett; Beverly Conley, by Bessie Conley; Diane May, by Helen Boyd; Abby Prater, by Joyce Allen. Other new members are Diane Burchett and Sharon Goble, Betsy Layne; Madge Davis, Lancer, and Judy Hale, Martin.

Attend Hackworth rites

Among the relatives of Manis Hackworth, formerly of Floyd County, who recently attended funeral services for him, in Ada, Ohio, where he resided for the past several years, were his sister, Mrs. Elsie Leake, and her daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Ramey and Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, all of Prestonsburg and vicinity, and another daughter, Mrs. Charles Spradlin and Mr. Spradlin, of Versailles. Also attending from a distance were Mr. Hackworth's sisters, Mrs. Flora Conley, of Riceville, and Mrs. Edna Floor and her husband, of Roan, Indiana. His other surviving sister, Mrs. Jerry Hackworth and Mr. Hackworth and family, and his other surviving brothers, Ernest and Earl Hackworth, their wives and families, reside in Ada, Ohio.

nix, Arizona, came here prior to Easter for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Leonard Grant, and Mr. Grant; her brother, Allen Bolling; and her grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Allen. Mr. Stark returned to Phoenix after spending several days here. Mrs. Stark remained for a longer visit and, with her grandmother, attended services on Easter Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church.

FDA's most frequently asked questions

by Patricia A. Leathem
Consumer Affairs Officer
Food and Drug Administration
How long can I keep canned foods? What's Mexican vanilla? Are there lots of pesticides on foods we eat?

The Food and Drug Administration's Consumer Affairs Officers—representatives to consumers in communities around the nation—receive and answer thousands of questions such as this each year. Here are some of the most often asked questions we get about foods:

Question: How long can I keep canned goods?

Answer: Canned goods produced under good manufacturing processes, and stored at mild temperatures, will be safe for years.

Third birthday

Chance Edwin Bradley, son of Randy and Polly Bradley of Abbott Creek, celebrated his third birthday at Disney World in Orlando, Florida at the Polynesian Resort restaurant along with Mickey Mouse and all his friends dancing the Holla for him. Dinner, cake and ice cream were served and gifts were opened afterwards. Attending the party were his older brother, Trent Bradley; younger sister, Whitney Austin; younger brother, Case Holden Bradley; and a family friend, Mornie Sparks. His maternal grandparents are Warner Willis, Jr. of Auxier Road and Mary L. Noakes of Prestonsburg. His step-grandfather is John Noakes, also of Prestonsburg. His paternal grandparents are Lula Bell Bradley of Prestonsburg and Charles E. Bradley, also of Prestonsburg. His step-grandmother is Della M. Bradley of Prestonsburg.

Question: Is MSG safe? When can it be present and not listed on the label?

Answer: MSG, or monosodium glutamate, is formed when sodium is added to glutamic acid, or glutamate, an amino acid that occurs naturally in most types of protein. MSG most commonly is made through a chemical fermentation process.

It occurs naturally in many foods, such as corn and tomatoes. It is also used, like salt and pepper, to make foods taste better. FDA has approved it as a safe food additive.

However, some people may be sensitive to MSG. Such reactions don't last long. They were first known as the Chinese restaurant syndrome because of the common use of MSG

The steamboat Bertrand was heavily laden with provisions when it set out on the Missouri River in 1865, destined for the gold mining camps in Fort Benton, Montana. The boat snagged and swamped under the weight, sinking to the bottom of the river.

It was found a century later, under 30 feet of silt a little north of Omaha, Neb. Among the canned food items retrieved from the Bertrand in 1968 were brandied peaches, oysters, plum tomatoes, honey and mixed vegetables. Scientists analyzed the products for bacterial contamination and nutrient value.

Although the food had lost its fresh smell and appearance, they detected no microbial growth and determined that the foods were as safe to eat as they had been when canned more than 100 years earlier.

Consumers should consider the condition of the can more than its age. Bulging ends can mean that deadly toxins have grown within the can. A battered and bent can should also be avoided. A stained label may indicate a leak.

Question: I bought some vanilla in Mexico and a friend said it isn't safe to use. U.S. Customs told me to call FDA.

Answer: FDA standards for vanilla require that it be derived from vanilla bean. Mexico allows the extract from Tonka beans to be labeled and sold as vanilla because it tastes and smells like vanilla. Tonka beans contain coumarin, which has been prohibited by FDA since 1954 as an unsafe food or food additive. It is also outlawed in many other countries.

Question: Are our foods heavily laced with pesticides?

Answer: No. Pesticides cost money and have to be used carefully, so farmers appear to be using them cautiously. More than 96 percent of the fruits, vegetables, grains, dairy and other products analyzed by FDA in 1988 either contained no residues of pesticides or the levels found were well below legally permitted limits.

These very low levels were again revealed in a 1989 analysis of 18,798 food samples of both imported and domestic foods. Samples include foods from all the states and Puerto Rico, along with products from 89 foreign countries. FDA testing methods permit the agency to detect any of 256 pesticides.

In general, residues present at 0.01 parts per million or above can be measured. For some pesticides, levels in the parts per billion range can be measured. Even though modern pesticides are designed to be safe and not persist, FDA advises food preparers to scrub fruits and vegetables in plain water prior to eating them to remove dirt, pesticides, bugs and microorganisms.

Questions: What is erythorbate? It is listed on the label for hotdogs and a friend says it is the chemical name for earthworms.

Answer: Please, go back to your friend and tell them the additive sodium erythorbate is not another name for earthworms. This safe food additive is a relative to vitamin C. It is synthesized in various ways, one of which is from sugar. It is used to provide color in meat products. Both FDA and the U.S. Department of Agriculture work diligently to keep worms (as well as questionable food additives) out of the food supply!

All price reductions should not be taken as green light for shoppers

Bargain hunters should ward off the urge to buy merchandise at every sale, since low prices do not always indicate a true bargain, said Frances Pitts, Home Economist for Floyd County.

"Wise shoppers know that an item is a bargain only if it is needed and affordable," said Pitts.

Pitts said that personal needs, wants, values and goals—as well as available resources—should be examined before purchasing sale priced items. "Finding a bargain during a sale should involve the same kind of thinking, planning and comparing used to determine a good buy at any time," she said.

A positive sales experience, Pitts said, is when the customer saves money and is able to stretch the family income on a needed purchase.

"A negative sales experience occurs when the customer spends money on products and services that are not needed," said Pitts.

Aimless bargain hunting can result in useless buys, wasted time, money and energy, Pitts warned.

Before purchasing at a sale, Pitts said bargain shoppers should answer questions like:

- * How important is this item?
- * Do I really need it?
- * Have I planned for this purchase, or am I acting on an impulse to buy?
- * Can I afford it? Will I have to give up something more important?
- * Can I do without it?

They serve 2-, 3-, 4- and 5-ways at Dixie Chili. But since 1947, their health insurance decision has gone just 1-way.

Variety is the spice of life at Dixie Chili. Except when you talk to Dixie Chili owners, the Sarakatsannis brothers, about their health insurance. Only one company has been good enough for the last 43 years — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

The family business has grown since the Sarakatsannis' father opened Dixie Chili in an eight-foot-wide storefront. There are four more restaurants. Seventy more employees. A retail and mail order business.

As this Northern Kentucky based business has grown, Blue Cross and Blue Shield has been able to supply the people and the products necessary to adapt to the Sarakatsannis family's changing health insurance needs.

Today, as in 1947, Dixie Chili employees still have the best choice of doctors and hospitals around. And they still have the most recognized health care card in Kentucky.

If you're interested in choosing Blue Cross and Blue Shield for your company, call us. We'll serve up a generous portion of Kentucky's most popular health plan.

County Kettle

By Marie Harmon

Having just eaten TOO much and not even leaving room for my favorite food, ice cream, I am miserable. Since this is the first time I have written this column right after eating, I don't know just how it will go.

I received another large group of recipes from Thelma Spencer and I will use most of them, if not all, this time. I tried one on BEEF Mexicana tonight, and as I said, I over did it. I used egg noodles in place of the rice, and added home grown turnip and mustard greens.

BEEF MEXICANA

- 1 large onion sliced (or chopped)
- 2 tsp. cooking oil
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 2 8-oz. cans tomato sauce
- 1 can whole kernel corn
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

Chili powder if you like Fry onions in oil until tender. Add beef; cook and stir until lightly browned. Stir in tomato sauce, corn and seasonings. If you like hot dishes, then add a generous pinch of chili powder. Simmer gently about 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings. Serve with rice, hot corn bread squares, or on toasted hamburger buns.

OLD FASHION FLOAT

- 1/2 c. sugar
- 1 tsp. flour
- Beat 4 eggs, add flour mixture and beat until light yellow. Scald 1 qt. milk. Add to the above mixture. Cook until spoon is coated. Remove from heat. Cool. Add 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Pour into baking dish. Beat until frothy 4 egg whites. Add 8 tsp. sugar, continue beating until stiff. Pour over mixture in baking dish. Place baking dish in cold water. Bake 45 minutes at 350°.

PEACH COBBLER

Because peaches will soon be on the market, Thelma thought this would be the best time to publish this.

- 8 to 10 ripe peaches
- 1 stick margarine, or butter
- 1 c. self-rising flour
- 1 c. sugar
- 3/4 c. milk

Melt butter in a large pan; layer in sliced peaches, very little juice. Sweeten peaches, if needed. Make a batter of flour, sugar and milk; pour over peaches. Bake at 375° for 35 minutes or until golden brown.

SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD

- 2 c. cold water
- 1 c. white cornmeal
- 1 tsp. salt

Mix and boil for 5 minutes. Beat 1 c. milk, 3 eggs and 3 tsp. melted margarine. Mix all together and pour into a well greased 9 or 10 inch pan, or a deep skillet. Fry 4 slices bacon, crumble on top. Bake 45 to 50 minutes in 400° oven, until top is firm and brown.

BONELESS CHICKEN BREASTS

Remove skins and dip chicken breasts in mixture of eggs, milk, garlic, and coat with bread crumbs. Brown both sides in oil. Place in casserole dish. Pour 2 1/2 c. chicken broth, and 1/3 c. white wine over chicken. Top with shredded parmesan cheese. Cover dish with aluminum foil. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in a 350° oven. Note! bake large breasts about 45 minutes.

Serve with side dish of rice and a tossed salad.

RICE SIDE DISH

- 1 c. converted rice
 - 1 stick margarine
 - 1 can onion soup
 - 1 can beef consomme
- Mix all together. DO NOT ADD WATER. Bake 55 to 60 minutes in a 350° oven.

PERFECT MEAT LOAF

- 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
- 3/4 c. quick oats (raw)
- 2 eggs slightly beaten
- 1/4 c. chopped onions
- 2 tsp. salt

- 1/4 tsp. pepper
 - 2 8 oz. cans tomato sauce
- Combine first six ingredients thoroughly with one can of tomato sauce. Pack firmly in a loaf pan 8x4x3. Chill for one hour. Unmold into a shallow baking pan. Bake at 350° for one hour. Pour the remaining can of tomato sauce over loaf and bake 20 minutes more, until loaf is nicely glazed. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

(THELMA'S) MEAT LOAF

- 2/3 c. dry bread crumbs, soaked in 1 c. milk
 - 2 eggs beaten
 - 1 1/2 lb. ground beef
 - 1 tsp. sage
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - dash of pepper
 - 1/4 c. grated onions
- Mix all ingredients together, thoroughly. Lightly press into a baking dish and cover with sauce.
- Sauce
- 3 tbsp. brown sugar
 - 1 tsp. dry mustard
 - 1/4 c. catsup
- Mix together and pour over loaf. Bake at 350° for 45 to 50 minutes.

BURGUNDY BEAN STEW

- 1 lb. bacon
 - 3 cans (21 oz. each) kidney beans (drained) save 1 c., liquid
 - 1 Bermuda onion chopped
 - 1 green pepper chopped
 - 1 8 oz. can tomato sauce
 - 1 c. red Burgundy or dry red wine
 - 1 tsp. brown sugar
 - 1 tsp. horseradish
 - Bermuda onion rings
- Fry bacon, until crisp drain. Heat oven to 350°. Layer beans, onion and sliced green pepper in ungreased casserole. Crumble bacon and mix with reserved bean liquid and remaining ingredients except onion rings. Pour over bean mixture. Top with onion rings. Cover and bake 1 hour. 8 servings.

QUEEN CITY CHILI or (CINCINNATI SPICY CHILI)

- 1 qt. water
- 1 tsp. garlic salt
- 1 1/2 tsp. vinegar
- 1 8 oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 4 med. onions, grated
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 dashes thick steak sauce
- 1 tsp. crushed red peppers (hot)
- 6 med. bay leaves
- 1 tsp. ground allspices
- 2 lbs. ground beef fried brown and crumbly salt to taste Bring water to boiling. Add next 11 ingredients in order given. Stir and bring to boil again. Add browned beef and salt to taste. Cook on lowest heat for at least 8 hours. Makes 1 1/2 quarts or more.

SAUCY STEAK SKILLET

- 1 lb. boneless round steak, cut into serving pieces
- 1/4 c. all purpose flour
- 1 tsp. oil
- 1 large onion chopped
- 1 can whole potatoes, drained (reserve liquid)

- 1/4 c. catsup
 - 1 tsp. worcestershire sauce
 - 2 tsp. bell pepper flakes
 - 1 tsp. instant beef bouillon
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1/2 tsp. pepper
 - 1 pkg. frozen Italian green beans
 - 1 jar sliced and drained pimentos
- Coat beef steak pieces with flour; pound into steak, brown in oil in a 10 inch skillet. Push beef to the side, cook and stir onions in oil until tender. Drain. Add enough water to reserved potato liquid to measure 1 cup. Mix potato liquid, catsup, worcestershire sauce, pepper flakes, instant bouillon, salt, marjoram and pepper; pour on beef and onions. Heat to boiling, reduce heat. Cover and simmer until beef is tender, 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours.

Rinse frozen beans under running water to separate. Add potatoes, beans and pimento to skillet. Heat to boiling, reduce heat. Cover and simmer until beans are tender, 10 to 15 minutes. 4 servings.

stand light frost. They can and should be sown as soon as you can get the ground ready. Sowing at intervals of three weeks will give you a fresh supply of eating beets. The last planting should be about 2 1/2 months before the first frost date in the fall of the year.

A good loose soil that does not pack after a rain is best for beets. Soil that has had a good amount of well rotted manure and compost is ideal for beets. Never sow beets in soil that has had fresh manure added to it. They, as with most plants, will not tolerate fresh manure.

Beets do better in a raised ridge or bed. Sow the seeds and cover with 1/2 inch of fine soil. After the seeds are covered, you can sprinkle a little salt on the row to kill any early weeds. Beet seed and seedlings are tolerant to salt and, as far as I know, no other vegetables are. For later and main crop beets it is better to plant the Detroit Dark Red as they are the main crop beet. For earlier beets use an early type. Baby beets are harvested when they are about 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Simply pull the beets out of the ground and cut the tops off 1/2 inch from the root to prevent bleeding.

Beets to be stored for the winter must be mature. It is better to leave them in the ground until a frost is expected. The soil should be dry, if possible, when these are pulled. Even humidity and temperature give the best results when storing beets. The maximum storage time is four to five months. The humidity must be high to prevent shriveling; therefore, place the beets in crates and sit in moist sand to accomplish this. The storage could all be eliminated by pickling the beets at a earlier stage.

Child's earache should not be ignored

Earaches are very common in children, especially below the age of five. Most frequently they come as the result of a common cold. This type of earache, (called serious otitis media by physicians) results from a buildup of fluid inside the ear. At times, too much fluid will collect, creating a feeling of pressure inside the ear. This can lead to rupture of the eardrum and drainage from the ear. These earaches may occur quite suddenly.

In children, earache may be caused by an infection or by an allergy. The Eustachian tube, which is a small opening between the middle ear and the back of the throat, can become blocked by either of these two situations. When this stopped up condition occurs, fluid forms in the middle ear and pain and infection result. As the child grows older, this type of earache tends to go away. This is because the Eustachian tube becomes longer and bends a little so that bacteria have a difficult time getting into the middle ear.

Another common cause of earache in children is infection of the ear canal. A parent should never use a bobby pin or other tool to clean a child's ear because of the danger of infection. As a matter of fact, most doctors advise parents not to clean out ears with any sort of instrument, even the popular cotton swab, because they may force the wax deeper into the ear where it becomes packed. Also the skin is irritated from scratching or poking. If the wax does build up and blocks the ear canal, it should be removed by a physician.

Normally the wax, which is steadily produced, dries and comes out by itself.

Generally speaking, any ear pain which is significant and continuous should be reported to your physician. It is not a good idea to fight infections on your own. As a matter of fact, most doctors advise parents not to put any medicines in the ear unless specifically recommended by the doctor. This even applies to such popular home remedies as warm oil or ear drops. To do so may make the diagnosis of your child's ear problem more difficult.

Playing on the field of dreams

by Dr. Douglas E. Herman assistant professor of history

Spring is that wonderful time when so many things are made new, and for fans of baseball, "the national pastime," spring could not come too soon. A new baseball season is beginning, and our yearnings for success for our favorite teams rise. As that immortal baseball poem "Casey at the Bat" puts it, "that hope which springs eternal" is for a winning year, and in the spring all things are possible. A magic period is starting, a span when dreams will be nurtured and many fulfilled. At this point, with pleasures being anticipated, may be the best moment to reflect on baseball's significance in American life.

Many observers have attempted to discover why "the boys of summer" have such a hold on our national psyche; this column is at best a modest addition to that literature. In the late nineteenth century, the great novelist Mark Twain asserted that "baseball is the very symbol, the outward and visible expression of the drive and push struggle of the raging, tearing, booming nineteenth century." Baseball was the most popular sport in the United States in that era, and the energy expended to win paralleled the country's output to become an internationally powerful, industrialized nation. The motivation of players to crash into walls to catch batted balls (witness Eric Davis of the Reds last season) and to be "the best there ever was" at the game is similar to the locomotion of the American people generally, a striving to accomplish worthwhile goals in spite of immediate risks.

Something like fifty million people watched the PBS documentary series "The Civil War" last September. After such a monumental look at the most dramatic crisis in American history, where does the producer, Ken Burns, turn next? To baseball, which Burns calls "a kind of Rosetta stone for the American spirit and soul." The original Rosetta stone, found in 1799, contains the same passages in Egyptian hieroglyphics and Greek and allowed modern scholars for the first time to translate the ancient Egyptian language. In a five-hour documentary history of baseball, Burns hopes to convey the game's meaning as essential to understanding American culture.

Sports historian Randy Roberts of Purdue University notes the decisive paradox in playing baseball in America. On the one hand, all the major professional teams from the beginning of the sport's professionalization (1869 — the Cincinnati Red Stockings) have been based in large cities, and the majority of major-league players, especially in the nineteenth century, came from cities. The substantial degree of teamwork needed to win reflects the corporate state and industrial production in factories.

But the game's mythology and symbols point back to the nation's rural and agrarian past. Though baseball evolved over many centuries from similar stick-and-ball games, we like to think it was "invented" in Cooperstown, New York, a community today the size of Prestonsburg, in 1839 by Abner Doubleday, who became a Civil war general and whose troops shared the sport with other Union soldiers. (The only tangible evidence for this claim is a scruffy leather ball found in a trunk in Cooperstown in the 1870s.) Even in the most congested cities, the game is played on open, grassy fields (though the grass is sometimes artificial). Many of the famous old homes of major-league teams — Crosley Field, Forbes Field, Ebbetts Field, the Polo Grounds, Wrigley Field — suggest farming imagery in their names. Originally, spectators sat at the edge of the outfield (more agricultural imagery), and outfielders had to wade through the crowd to catch long fly balls. Later, fences were placed around the outfield, like stringing barbed wire across the great Plains, and bullpens were built for pitchers. Finally, baseball season coincides with the planting, growing, and harvesting seasons.

But the paradox of a rural game played in an urban nation possibly finds its most important expression in this fact: unlike most modern sports, baseball is not regulated by a clock. This means that a game is not finished until the last out is made. No matter how dominating one team has been, it is always possible for the other team to pull out a victory, even if they have only one out or even one strike with which to work. As Yogi Berra, an all-time great player and average manager, put it, "It ain't over till it's over." This is what gave the dramatic punch to "The Natural," that outstanding baseball movie: Roy Hobbs was down to his last strike before he hit a three-run homer to send his fictional team into the World Series.

(An aside here: Bernard Malamud's early-1950s novel, from which the 1984 movie was taken, was in turn loosely based on a true incident in the late 1930s in which the Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman was shot in a hotel room. Unlike Roy Hobbs, he played major-league baseball again the next year.)

So instead of being structured in the way that factory production or city life is, baseball can extend over an indefinite period, as country life often does. This timeless quality aggravates many people but attracts more. The game's pace fosters the illusion of an "endless summer," an element I find more and more comforting as I grow older because as a teacher, summer is the only season when I can relax.

Americans supporting baseball in the past also maintained another myth: the best baseball in the world is played in the United States. Hence our arrogance in calling our professional leagues' championship the World Series. American marines took the game to the lands around the Caribbean Sea early in this century, and many of those countries, especially Cuba, today field outstanding teams. Other American soldiers exported the sport to Europe and East Asia after World War II, and the Japanese became fascinated with it. But it's still hard to beat a United States baseball team, and that gives us a feeling of national superiority. It's too bad in these days of terrorist attacks that it's too risky for the president to stand up at a ballpark and throw out the season's first pitch, as presidents from William Howard Taft to Richard Nixon used to do; that act identified American preeminence in baseball with our international political leadership. George Bush, the former Yale first baseman, would surely love to do it.

In a less debatable direction, baseball contains numerous admirable elements. For instance, to be played well, the game utilizes many different sizes of participants, from the stocky catcher and tall first baseman to the small shortstop and second baseman. Even these characteristics are more stereotypes than necessities; each position can be handled by any size player, unlike such sports as football and basketball. Each player must make an individual, multi-faceted contribution, yet it blends with the rest of the team's efforts to produce a group result. Unlike some other "team" sports, no one player can win a baseball game by himself or herself.

But much of baseball's ultimate appeal is magical, as the recent movies "The Natural" and "Field of Dreams" remind us. In the former, it's symbolized in Roy Hobbs' bat "Wonderboy"; in the latter, the supernatural is in the ball diamond and the cornfield bordering the outfield. For so many millions of its fans, baseball, like Ray Kinsella's ballpark, puts us in deeper touch with ourselves and people we care about. Then we can, like Terence Mann, walk from the outfield into the cornfield of eternity with greater confidence.

Poems wanted for contest and anthology

Poems are now being accepted for entry in Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum's new "Distinguished Poet Awards" poetry contest. Cash prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded, including a $500 grand prize. The contest is free to enter.

Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any style. Contest closes May 31, but poets are encouraged to send their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in the Winter 1992 edition of Treasured Poems of America, a hardcover anthology. Anthology purchase may be required to insure publication, but is not required to enter or win the contest. Prize winners will be notified by July 31.

Poem should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. E, 203 Diamond St., Sistersville, WV 26175.

Brewer enlists in US military

Donald Joseph Brewer, 18, of Inez has joined the United States Army for a three-year term of enlistment qualifying for a $1,000 cash enlistment bonus. He is the son of Donald and Mary Francis Brewer of Inez.

He will begin active duty on April 16 at Ft. Benning, Georgia where he will attend eight weeks of basic training followed by advanced specialized training in his chosen career field as an infantryman. He will then be stationed in Korea.

Brewer is a 1991 graduate of Sheldon Clark High School. He was assisted in his enlistment by staff Sgt. Jay Pavolko of the Prestonsburg Army Recruiting Station. For more information about the Army's cash enlistment bonus, call Sgt. Pavolko at 886-9455.

Head start parent of the year

Tracie Mitchell has been named Floyd County Head Start Parent of the Year. She is from the John M. Stumbo Head Start Center. She and her husband, with two children, reside at Mud Creek. Part of the judging for this honor was based on a letter about Head Start. Mrs. Mitchell's letter was based on what head start has meant to her. She is an outstanding parent and really loves children — she puts her whole heart into the children. Congratulations are extended to Tracie Mitchell.

Look who's one!

Jamie Nichole Lafferty celebrated her first birthday with a party at her house on Bull Creek. She is the daughter of James and Ida Lafferty, and the granddaughter of Thurman and Geraldine Lafferty of Bull Creek, and Agen and Janice Mullins of Blue River. Her many guests were entertained by a clown who brought cheery smiles to their faces.

MSU to hold workshop for health professionals

Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health professionals will sponsor a workshop for medical technologists Friday, April 12, in the Adron Doran University Center.

The program, entitled "Hypochromic Anemias," will run from 12:30 to 4:25 p.m. The cost is $18.

Serving as the instructor will be E. Anne Stiene-Martin, a medical technologist with the Department of Clinical Science at the University of Kentucky.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Pursuant to KRS 231.040, an application for a renewal permit to operate a place of entertainment to be located on Frasures Creek road one mile above Martins Bestway on the left hand side of the road, McDowell, Floyd County, Kentucky with the mailing address of HC 78, Box 225, McDowell, Kentucky, 41647, has been made by Curtis Tackett, of HC 78, Box 225, McDowell, Kentucky, 41647. The name of the proposed business of entertainment is Tacketts Carry Out. The nature of the business will be store, sell beer by the drink and carry-out, juke box, pool tables and live music on Fridays and Saturdays.

Pursuant to KRS 231.070, the Floyd County Attorney shall investigate whether the applicant lacks good moral character, or whether the applicant will obey the laws of the Commonwealth in the operating of the business, or whether the applicant, within the last two (2) years prior to the date of filing the application, has been convicted in Kentucky of maintaining a public nuisance. Any interested citizen having information relative to whether said applicant lacks of good moral character or willingness to obey the laws of the state in the carrying on of the business is requested to file the same in writing with the County Attorney's Office. Said written information shall be signed, dated and reflect the current address of said citizen providing the information and must be delivered to the County Attorney's Office no later than the 15th day of April, 1991.

Pursuant to KRS 231.080, a hearing has been scheduled on April 18, 1991, at 1:30 p.m. or as soon thereafter as same can be heard before the Floyd County Judge/Executive at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The Floyd County Judge/Executive shall hear evidence in support of or in opposition to the granting of the permit. Any person desiring to oppose the permit shall have filed in writing no later than April 15, 1991, with the Floyd County Clerk allegations that show cause as to why the application should not be granted. All such filings shall be signed, dated and reflect the current address of said citizen.

JIMMY MARTIN HAMMOND
Floyd County Attorney

NAR outlook sees housing industry on the rebound

Signs of a rally in the housing industry are starting to emerge, and a rebound should be evident by the second half of 1991, according to the latest monthly economic outlook by the National Association of Realtors.

The association's March issue of the "Outlook for the Economy and Real Estate" attributes the recovery to renewed consumer confidence in the economy and continued low mortgage interest rates. "Growth in housing should be well underway by the second half of 1991," the outlook says.

The average rate for fixed-rate, 30-year mortgages is projected to trend downward from 9.3 percent in the first quarter to 8.9 percent in the fourth quarter; for one-year, adjustable-rate mortgages, the average rate is projected to decline from 7.6 percent to 7.4 percent.

The outlook cites anecdotal evidence indicating that traffic started picking up in both the existing- and new-home markets in late January, likely a reflection of an easing of consumer concern over the Persian Gulf crisis. The ensuing successful end to the war has further fueled consumer optimism, and, as a result, higher home sales are expected in the months ahead. Although total sales in 1991 will remain below those for 1990, the industry largely is past its lowest point, the outlook says.

Starting from an anticipated annualized rate of 2.973 million units in the first quarter, the sales pace of existing single-family homes is expected to build momentum through the year, rising to 3.081 million units, 3.287 million units and 3.397 million units in the second, third and fourth quarters, respectively. Similarly, the sales rate of new single-family homes, predicted to be 439,000 units in the first quarter, is expected to keep rising through the year. A sales rate of 462,000 units is forecast for the second quarter; 509,000 units, for the third; and, 546,000 units, for the fourth.

The greater housing demand likely will trigger more housing construction, provided builders are able to obtain access to financing. Lower interest rates may help ease the severe credit contraction that has crippled the development industry over the past year, the outlook says. A rate of 710,000 single-family housing starts is expected for the first quarter—the low point for the year. The starts pace is expected to jump to 808,000 in the second quarter, 903,000 in the third, and 918,000 in the fourth.

The outlook contains the following predictions for the real estate industry and economy in general for 1991:

- Sales of existing single-family homes are expected to total 3.185 million units, falling 3.6 percent from sales for 1990.
- Sales of new single-family homes are expected to total 489,000 units, dropping 8.3 percent from 1990.
- Housing starts are expected to total 1.059 million units, dropping 12.0 percent from a year ago. A total of 835,000 starts for single-family units is expected, dropping 7.3 percent from 1990. Starts for buildings with two-to-four units are expected to total 27,000 units, falling 27.9 percent from 1990; and starts for buildings with five or more units are expected to total 197,000 units, falling 25.6 percent from 1990.

- The national median existing-home price is expected to reach $95,600, rising 0.4 percent from last year. The national median new-home price is expected to reach $124,300 rising 1.8 percent from 1990.
- Interest rates for fixed-rate, 30-year mortgages are expected to average 9.1 percent, down from 10.1 percent in 1990. Interest rates for one-year, adjustable-rate mortgages are expected to average 7.5 percent, falling from an average of 8.4 percent last year.

- The annual growth rate of the real (inflation-adjusted) gross national product (the total value of the nation's goods and services) is expected to decline by an average rate of 0.1 percent, compared to an increase of 0.9 percent in 1990.

- Consumer price inflation is expected to grow at a rate of 4.4 percent, compared to 5.4 percent in 1990.
- The civilian unemployment rate is expected to be 6.6 percent, up from 5.5 percent last year.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing more than 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

GOVERNMENT FORECLOSURE SALE

Date: April 15, 1991
 Time: 11:00 A.M.
 Place: Floyd Co. Courthouse
 Prestonsburg, KY

HOUSE AND LOT
 Box 153
 David, KY 41616

This is a nice three-bedroom home with carport, on city water and sewer. It is located next to the David Post Office. It consists of a living room, kitchen and dining room combined, three bedrooms, and one bath. This property is considered suitable for the FmHA Program. This would be an excellent buy for an investor interested in rental property or for resale after minor repairs.

The deed which contains the legal description to the property may be examined at the Office of the Floyd County Court Clerk in Deed Book 323, Page 240. Farmers Home Administration holds a First Mortgage Lien on this property that will be released after the sale.

Terms: CASH, or 10% of the bid price on the day of sale with good and sufficient bond for the balance, bearing interest at the legal rate as set forth on the Judgement and Order of Sale filed with the U.S. District Court, until paid, due and payable 30 days from the date of sale, and said bond having the effect of a judgment. Upon default by the purchaser, the deposit shall be forfeited.

HOW TO EASE THE STRESS OF SELLING YOUR HOUSE.

Even under the best of circumstances, selling a house comes with a certain amount of anxiety. The key to minimizing it is selecting a sales associate who has the knowledge and sensitivity to take you comfortably through the process. Which is why you should consider a CENTURY 21® Sales Associate. In a recent nationwide survey of homeowners, a leading research firm reported the CENTURY 21 system was preferred more than five to one over the closest competitor. Perhaps it's a direct result of our commitment to service. A commitment we put in writing. The CENTURY 21 SELLER SERVICE PLEDGE™ certificate outlines exactly what you can expect every step of the way. It's your assurance of professional, courteous and responsive service. Just tell us what you want. It's as good as done.™

ABSOLUTE REAL ESTATE AUCTION

265 Acres m/l near Yatesville Lake
 Just 5 miles East of U.S. 23, Louisa, KY
 Saturday, April 6, 1991, 10 a.m. on Location

265 acres m/l will be divided into 14 tracts ranging from 1 acre to 85 acres. The auctioneer reserves the right to group and regroup.

DIRECTIONS: From U.S. 23 in Louisa go west on Ky. Rt. 3 approximately 3 miles and turn left toward Yatesville. The property is approx. 1 mile south of Yatesville at Bradley Gap. Watch for signs!

AUCTIONEERS NOTE: More than half the property, Tracts 1, 2, 3 & 5, has been used as pasture for horses and cattle but is also frequented by the deer who roam the area. The property along Blaine Creek, Tracts 9 through 14, has been farmed in the past, but now that the Yatesville Lake is a reality it might be better suited for residential development or for fishing camps. The wooded land which includes the upper part of Tract 1 and Tracts 6, 7 & 8, which the resident deer now share with the other wildlife of the area, could be developed, cleared for pasture, or left as is. On the other hand the entire parcel would make an excellent planned use development or farmstead. If you're interested in investing for the future, this property which is less than a mile below the Yatesville Dam should be carefully considered.

TERMS: 10% down day of auction with balance due within 30 days. Announcements made day of auction take precedence over previous written material or statements made.
