Pay hike okayed for Latta

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta will draw a full time salary for putting in a full day's work, at least for the time being.

In a 4-2 vote Monday, Prestonsburg city council members approved a motion from councilman William Callihan that called for the elimination of the job of city administrator and transferred a part of the administrator's salary to the mayor. The city administrator's post has been vacant since the March resignation of Sam Campbell.

Callihan proposed Monday that Latta's salary be increased from $7,800 to $25,000, a hike of $17,200, contending that the mayor was now performing all the job duties once handled by the city administrator. He suggested the city could save money by having the mayor work full time and by eliminating the $27,000 paid annually to the administrator. The difference between the mayor's salary increase and the elimination of the administrator's salary is $9,800.

Callihan's proposal drew objections from councilman William O. Goebel, who noted that though he thought the mayor was "worth $25,000," more study was needed on the issue. Goebel said he was concerned over "setting a precedent" on the mayor's salary, and he thought the issue should be reviewed by the council's personnel committee.

Latta, who said she had "mixed feelings myself" about the salary increase, added that the "question is: do you want to pay me for what I'm doing, or do you want me to do it without being paid?"

Latta said council had the authority to raise or reduce the salary of mayor at any time, suggesting that the salary rate "should be set with the job."

The Agape House (Prestonsburg Adult Day Care Center) will officially open its doors to the public Wednesday, April 24, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. in a grand opening celebration.

Opening remarks by dignitaries will begin at 11 a.m. Among those speaking will be Mrs. Libby Jones, wife of gubernatorial candidate Berton Jones; John M. Stumbo, Floyd County Judge Executive; Ann Latta, Prestonsburg Mayor; Linda Napier, representing the state Division of Aging; Roger Recktenwald, executive director, and Doug Lawson, Big Sandy Area Development District's Division of Aging. Rev. Mike Taylor will present the invocation and Rev.

Ron Masters will close with the benediction.

The public is invited to tour the new facility, said Patsy Evans, director of Prestonsburg Senior Citizens. Agape House staff will also be on hand to answer questions.

Agape is a Greek word which means love, and the center promises to live up to its name, offering a home away from home for those individuals needing help coping with daily life. The center helps families keep their aging parents at home by providing a caring, active environment to these individuals while the caregiver is at work. It also provides a respite for the caregiver.

Dottie Perry, whose arthritis became so severe that at one time she could not walk, loves the new center. There she found friends, said her mother, Bonnie Leedy, and the therapy she needed. She receives therapy from the crafts and through daily exercise, such as walking.

Her mother previously sat before the TV set, just watching, not comprehending, said Mrs. Leedy. "At the center, current events are discussed, helping the patients keep mentally alert," she said.

"Mom looks forward to the day now. She's happier. She's met several people now who she enjoys talking to," said Mrs. Leedy.

Keene Setser also looks forward to his days at the center with his friend Orville Ousley, who works there as a volunteer. Setser's wife died about three months ago, and he became severely depressed. He found

County Attorney alleges :

Bid laws violated

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond advised Floyd County Fiscal Court members Friday not to pay for work performed at the county jail because the company and the county jailer appeared to have violated state bidding laws.

The dispute, between the fiscal court and Disponette Service Co. of Lexington, centers on the method used to obtain the air conditioning expansion job.

A April 21 letter from Consolidated Credit Inc. (CCI) of Lexington on behalf of Disponette Service Co. to Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo alleges Jailer Lawrence Hale recommended the job be billed in four phases to avoid the project being put out for bids.

"Mr. Hale informed my client that the job would have to be done in four phases of $5,000 each fiscal year so that the job would not have to be put up for bid," said J. Michael Dearing, staff attorney for C.C.I.

Hammond said Friday that it appeared to him that the company admitted to breaking state bidding laws and told the court members if they approved paying the bill, they could be removed from office.

"We can't pay a bill that's not in accordance with the law," Hammond said. "They've admitted in this letter that they conspired to break the law. I told them to go ahead and sue us. If a judge rules that we owe the bill, we'll pay it. If you authorize payment now, you could be removed from the court for misfeasance."

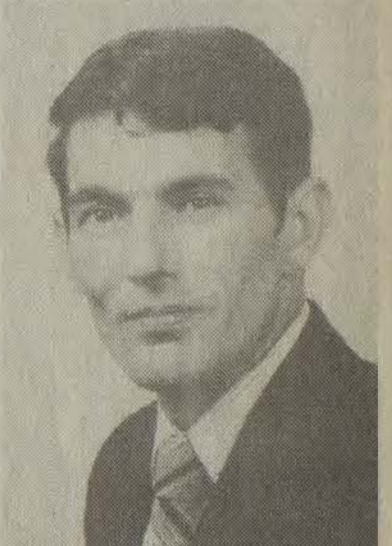

Hale told the court he felt the money came from his budget. Hale did not respond to Hammond's allegations.

The letter from Dearing said that the arrangement to do the project in phases was made in a meeting with Hale, Stumbo and Disponette.

Judge-Executive Stumbo said he did not attend any such meeting and said he was unaware of the arrangement until he received bills from the company. Stumbo also said the invoices were not signed by the person whose name is on them.

"I don't know anything about this," Stumbo said. "I never discussed it with anyone. Plus, the bills have Larry Kidd's name on them and that's not"

Roger Nelson

Nelson elected to top spot for state coroners

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson has been elected president of the Kentucky State Coroners' Association. Nelson is the first Eastern Kentucky coroner to hold the office.

Nelson's election was announced at the association's 24th annual conference held recently in Louisville, where he was also recognized for his cooperation with the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Program.

Nelson has been instrumental in establishing laws and regulations for coroners since 1982. He has also served on all committees and was area representative for four legislative sessions.

Nelson assumes the position from out-going president Terry Dabney of Taylor County.

Closure request renewed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd Countians In Action asked the Floyd County Fiscal Court Friday to close a medical waste incinerator operating at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Scott Walker, speaking for the citizens group, said that under Senate Bill 2 and Senate Bill 169-88 the county has the authority to close an incinerator operated by Medisin Inc.

"If Medisin's incinerator is listed as burning hazardous waste it can be stopped under Senate Bill 169," Walker said. "If it's not listed as hazardous waste it can be closed under Senate Bill 2. If, for some reason it's not listed as either, then we ask you to go forth with the solid waste ordinance passed by this court and enforce it."

County Attorney Jim Hammond said he would have to research the statutes relating to the incinerator and see what could be done under those laws.

Walker said if the county fails to close the incinerator under new state laws or to enforce its ordinance, the group will file a federal toxic tort lawsuit.

Hammond asked why the group hasn't already filed a civil action in

Site-based proposal fails

Prestonsburg Elementary teachers held a site-based decision making vote Monday and the measure failed 21-17.

All faculty members voted with 17 voting to implement the program next year and 21 voting no, said Debra Walker, a teacher at the school. It was the second vote this school year at the school. The first vote was 10 voting yes and 25 no. A 60-day waiting period is required under local board policy before teachers can petition school principal Gwen Harmon to hold another vote.

All schools in Kentucky must have site-based decision making councils in place by July 1996.

State task force meets at May Lodge :

Road plans, wishes aired

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Floyd County's turn at testifying before a state transportation committee was cut short Tuesday by check-out time at May Lodge, but the contingent did get in a few licks before the two-day session was adjourned.

Members of the state's Legislative Task Force to Study Highway Needs convened the District 12 highway meeting Monday but reserved Tuesday for public comment on the seven-county region's road needs.

Floyd County was last on the agenda, following representatives from Letcher, Lawrence, Knott,

Johnson, Pike and Martin counties. Testimony was offered on a variety of road needs, from ongoing construction projects to county "wish lists."

Testimony from Floyd County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo, Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens and County Attorney Jim Hammond was abbreviated by the task force's need to vacate their May Lodge meeting group to make way for another meeting, but the local contingent did manage to get some of their remarks on the record.

Both Stumbo and Hammond stressed the need for a four-lane connector between new Route 23 and Route 3 leading to Inez, a project promoted earlier by Martin County Judge-Executive John Callahan. Current state highway plans call for new Route 23 to connect with an existing two-lane section of "old" Route 23 near Highlands Regional Medical Center. Floyd and Martin County officials have asked the state to reconstruct and four-lane existing Route 23 from the hospital to the new Route 3 intersection, a distance of about two miles.

Hammond urged the state to reconsider its original plan for tying new Route 23 to Route 3, which called for

Saudi soldier longed for mountain peace, quiet

by Tim Preston
Contributing Writer

After spending months hauling heavy explosives through fields cluttered with Iraqi landmines, Jeff Potter said the quiet beauty of the mountains is the only medicine needed to calm his nerves and soothe his soul.

"I missed these hills so much," said Potter. "I went out on the back porch when nobody was home and just listened to the quiet. It was so incredible, you don't realize how much you take for granted."

Potter, the son of Danny Greene of David, was sent to the Middle East on August 17, 1990 to help combat engineers clear fields of landmines. His official duties entailed hauling cases of highly explosive materials to the combat engineers and providing ammunition to front line troops.

"Other than being shot at with all the explosives in the truck," said Potter, "I think the scariest part of it was driving through the narrow roads they would make in the minefields. You just couldn't see where you were going because of all the smoke from the burning oil fields. I knew I didn't have anyone to blame but myself if something went wrong. It would have all been my own fault."

"The sandstorms were another thing," said Potter, reflecting on hazards of desert life. "I've just never seen anything like that. It's just like a tornado or something. All you can do is dig in and ride the storm out. You can't see five feet in front of you during a sandstorm."

Potter said that life's small luxuries, soda and television in particular, mean more to him now. "I look at things a little differently now. Any of the little things that we take for granted — pop, television, the hills and especially the weather. I couldn't tell you how good it feels to be back in a normal climate. When we first got off the plane (in Saudi Arabia), I was standing near the engine and I thought 'I can't wait to get away from this thing because it's so hot,' but when we walked away it didn't get a single degree cooler. I just thought 'Oh, no, what have I gotten into.'"

Potter said one of the highlights of his return to the United States was sleeping in a waterbed.

"A friend of mine I stayed with slept on the couch and let me sleep on his waterbed. After sleeping in tents, holes and in my truck, I fell in love with that waterbed."

Looking to the future, Potter said he would like to move into a less stressful arena. "I would like to work for one of the trucking companies. I think it would be great to haul around a nice big load of something soft like paper, or anything that doesn't explode. That would be fine with me."

While in Saudi Arabia Potter served in the United States Marine Corps with the Seventh Motor Transport Battalion.

Friday chase ends in crash

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A late morning police chase Friday through Prestonsburg ended on a city street after a 24-year old Johnson County, man who was having a diabetic reaction, crashed the car he was driving into a parked vehicle.

Prestonsburg Police and Kentucky State Police pursued Donald R. Hill of Nippa after it was reported he was driving erratically on U.S. 23 and through Prestonsburg, causing several accidents, said Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall.

Hill was driving a 1977 Chevrolet which struck a 1984 Mack coal truck at Prestonsburg High School; an Airborne Express van driven by Ricky Hitchcock; and an El Camino owned by Norwood Farms, Hall said.

Hill's vehicle failed to negotiate the sharp S curve on South Lake Drive, became airborne and crashed into the parked El Camino. Hall said Hill's vehicle knocked the parked car about 20 feet.

Hill was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where he was admitted for observation, said hospital spokesperson Kathy Rubado. She said Hill was treated for a diabetic reaction.

OSHA warns city to protect rescue workers

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Prestonsburg has been called on the carpet by the federal Office of Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), but the city won't likely face punitive measures.

Mayor Ann Latta reported Monday that OSHA inspectors had found the city to be in violation of regulations concerning policy and procedures pertaining to employees who may be exposed to blood, but she said corrective measures were underway.

Latta said federal laws required that any workers who may come into contact with blood, including rescue personnel, police and fire department employees, be offered Hepatitis B vaccines as protection against infectious disease. The mayor said all personnel had been notified that the vaccines are available through the Floyd County Health Department. The city will pay the $144 cost of the inoculations.

The OSHA inspection, which Latta said was the result of a complaint filed with the federal agency, also directed the city to upgrade forms for reporting employee injuries; ordered the city to comply with regulations concerning the handling of clothing exposed to blood; required the use by rescue personnel of face masks which offer eye protection; and directed the city to develop written policies for dealing with emergency situations.

Latta said the city had not been cited for the violations of OSHA regulations, but had been granted time to comply with all provisions. She said most problems detailed in the OSHA inspection had been corrected.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

For the record, Earth Day was Monday. Beyond the hype, every day is Earth Day.

With each revolution on its axis, our planet moves closer to extinction.

Now there's a comforting thought.

It is no more comforting to realize that the Earth's highest form of intelligent life is also the planet's greatest threat to existence.

"We have met the enemy and he is us," said Pogo the Possum. When will we ever learn?

wouldn't look too good in an evening gown at the inaugural ball, has caught some flak for being the front man in his wife's campaign, yet we've heard no complaints from the media concerning the Invasion of the Better Halves of other contenders.

Frankly, we're weary of listening to representatives and reading press releases. We'd much prefer that those who would be king tell us personally why they deserve the throne.

Coal and the economy.

In Eastern Kentucky that translates to bread and butter and, while much is being said about diversifying our coal-based economy, the king isn't quite ready to abdicate.

Coal will be a vital asset for our area for some time to come and it could become even more of a player in our economy if we go beyond digging it out of the ground and shipping it out of the region.

Take, for instance, the approach offered by Coal Technology Corp. of Bristol, Virginia. That company is using coal liquid and gasoline to manufacture automobile fuel, anti-freeze and windshield-washer fluid.

Such an industry is tailor-made for Eastern Kentucky.

Perhaps Coal Technology Corp. would be interested in expanding. Perhaps the state could issue an invitation and maybe a few incentives.

Opportunity knocks. The coal-gasoline combination apparently doesn't.

Speaking of opportunities, we've had the pleasure of discussing the upcoming primary election with the wives of at least two gubernatorial candidates but none of the candidates themselves have yet darkened our door.

One candidate's spouse, who shall remain anonymous except for the fact that he probably Kentucky's constitution is nearly 150 years old and its age is showing.

While few will argue that it is time for a change, everyone will argue on how to go about it.

Two camps appear to be forming to address the issues. One promotes gradual revision of the constitution through the amendment process and a second supports a total rewrite through a constitutional convention.

Critics of the convention process worry that such will be dominated by special interest groups whose agendas will be cluttered with political issues and which lack long range appeal. They fear the product of such a convention will be nothing more than a modern day version of our existing constitution, which reflects the political climate of the mid 1800s.

Critics of the amendment process for revising the constitution argue that procedure could draw out needed changes for decades and they remind us of the fact that Kentuckians have historically voted down amendments proposing major revisions.

We tend to side with the all-or-nothing crowd who endorse the call for a constitutional convention.

In just a few short years, Kentucky will enter the 21st century.

We can crawl into the future or boldly go where none have gone before.

Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead.

Editor:

I started working for Woodrow Burchett, attorney at law, Prestonsburg, 40 years ago on April Fool's Day, when I was offered the job I told him I would try it a week.

The biggest benefit I received from this job was the people I met. Some of my best friends are the ones I worked with on their workers' compensation claims.

The saddest part of having to file the widow's claims when the husband dies, I'm glad to help them get their payments started again. At the present time I am working on three separate widow's claims.

A very dear friend of mine is a lady who had a claim many years ago. She is from a very large family in Floyd County. Her brothers, brother-in-law and many relatives are among the ones I would have not met otherwise. I appreciate their friendship.

Another large family that had claims for workers' compensation came in the office to file at the same time. I can recall we had different people filling out their papers at the same time. I also see members of this family every day and I consider them my friends.

There are so many others and I would not attempt to list their names but each of you know who I am talking about. Thanks.

Editor:

After receiving so much positive response to my letter (to the editor) published in the Floyd County Times April 12 weekend edition, I would like to address a few more points about the proposed new Prestonsburg High School.

As I stated in the previous letter, "the existing football field has never been intended not to be used for the football games." The same goes for the existing Prestonsburg Field House, it is still intended to be used for ALL Prestonsburg games and any tournaments. While attending Prestonsburg High School in the early 70's, lacking laboratory facilities, for chemistry or physical projects, I was given the assignment of calculating the seating capacity of the present field house. I found that this gym could seat more than three thousand persons for basketball games and possibly one thousand more in folding chairs on the floor for other activities such as graduation ceremonies, concerts, political rallies, debates, and maybe someday there will be enough interest in academics vs. sports to fill the entire field house with people for an academic contest between different schools.

Why then do certain individuals continually protest the Middlecreek site by saying, "We can't get another field house like this one, because it will cost too much"? There are no plans to tear down this excellent facility, I think this is more "misinformation" that someone is using to stop our children from getting a "new" high school. Those of us who attended Prestonsburg High School have always known that the gym is a place that allows children a haven for skipping class. Ball playing and cheer-leading are extra-curricular activities, not something to miss class over. The "school" with a physical education facility is planned for the Middlecreek site, not the sports facilities. I have donated wiring materials and labor to the Booster's Club for improved "boys" coaches' offices, and now have volunteered same for a dressing room for the girls' basketball team. I would not have done this if there had been any plans to tear down the Prestonsburg Field House and as I said there are no plans to do so.

Mr. Billips Option #2, that he referred to in the April 10th issue of the "Times," says he favors "renovating the existing high school." Mr. Billips said "he estimated the cost of Option #2 at $3.7 million, noting that the funds could be found by redirecting $1.2 million proposed for renovating the existing Prestonsburg Elementary and $1.3 million proposed for remodeling the present Prestonsburg High for the central office. I'm confused again how $1.2 million plus $1.3 million add up to $3.7 million. They add up to $2.5 million not $3.7 million. Mr. Billips is gaining $1.2 million somewhere, and the Central Office is still located in a building built in 1927; which is inaccessible to wheelchair bound persons like my wife who has been a board employee for 12 years, teaching at Clark Elementary.

Another problem I have with Mr. Billips Option #2, is that it would move kindergarten thru 5th grade elementary students onto the same campus as 9th thru 12th grade high school students. This would result in problems too numerous to mention in this letter, but perhaps my next letter will address a few of these.

Stay tuned for Option #3.

Sheriff Paul Thompson will soon be gathering a few children who will attend the Ky. Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch in Gilbertsville, in Western Kentucky.

Last summer, the Sheriffs' Ranch had a record number of boys and girls. Eleven hundred and three children, split almost equally between boys and girls, enjoyed this summer camp experience. Since 1979, over 11,000 children have attended.

There has been a lot of adverse publicity about law enforcement officials in the past few months in Kentucky. The sheriff and his deputies are to be commended for taking care of needy children by making this summer camp experience possible for them. The sheriff provides the transportation to and from the camp for the children attending, as well as hosting fund raisers for the camp. Sheriff Thompson helps in many other ways as well.

In addition to being involved with the Ky. Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch, over seventy Kentucky Sheriffs have a DARE Program in the schools; many Block Watch Programs; and some are starting a TRIAD Program to help the elderly. Sheriffs are proving that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

Our summer camp will open Sunday, June 9. If you know of an unfortunate 9-13 year old, please contact Sheriff Thompson. Last year, two children from Floyd County enjoyed this once in a lifetime experience, free of charge to them.

Today is my first full day back at the newspaper. Gosh I missed this. All last week while I was visiting my family I kept telling them how anxious I was to get back to Kentucky, back to work and back to my life. They all asked why I wasn't using this opportunity to look for a job closer to home, i.e. Ohio. I reminded them that Kentucky was my home, and I'd have no other.

They just didn't understand, except for my mom who said she wished she still lived in Kentucky, too. In all the world there is no place like this. No place that can keep you in constant astonishment at its beauty and hidden treasures. No place that makes you feel wanted and needed, no matter how small a part you play in the big picture. No place that harbors such down-to-earth and down-right friendly people.

As I expected, there have been some changes at the paper, but Scott assures me that I won't have a problem blending back in. As far as I can see the changes are all for the better, and I am really excited about getting reacquainted with the newspaper biz. There are some challenges ahead, but I look forward to tackling them with every bit of enthusiasm I can muster. Which is plenty since I've been stor-

Community service:
a challenge for the 90s

by Martha McSteen
National Committee to Preserve
Social Security and Medicare

All the money in the world, whether public or private, cannot solve America's deep-rooted social problems.

And while there is no question that government plays a critical role in addressing America's social problems, there is no substitute for people helping people.

Illiteracy, hunger, homelessness, drug abuse and other social ills looming over everyday life in America are really symptoms of larger problems in today's society. In part, they stem from the breakdown of the traditional family structure, the disintegration of communities, and for many people, the loss of hope and self-respect.

Disadvantaged Americans—whether handicapped, illiterate, drug abusers, or poverty stricken—need our personal support. They need people who care, who can offer friendship and impart values and skills that will lead them to a better future and convince them there is light at the end of the tunnel.

As people and organizations throughout the country participate in the "Points of Light Celebration of Service" this month, senior Americans as volunteers are also being honored. Sponsored by the Points of Light Foundation, an offshoot of the President's volunteer program, the celebration will spotlight Americans who are meeting today's social challenges in our communities through volunteer service.

Every day, thousands of seniors volunteer in community programs, offering their knowledge, skills or just a helping hand to others. More than any other age group, seniors possess a wealth of experience that can be shared by others—especially those truly in need. And for retirees, it also offers a great outlet.

In fact, some volunteer programs are run exclusively by seniors. For example, there is the "Seniors Serving Schools Program" in Mission, Kan. The program, a joint partnership of the Volunteer Center of Johnson County and the Shawnee School District, gives senior volunteers the opportunity to provide their knowledge and talents to educating young people in their community.

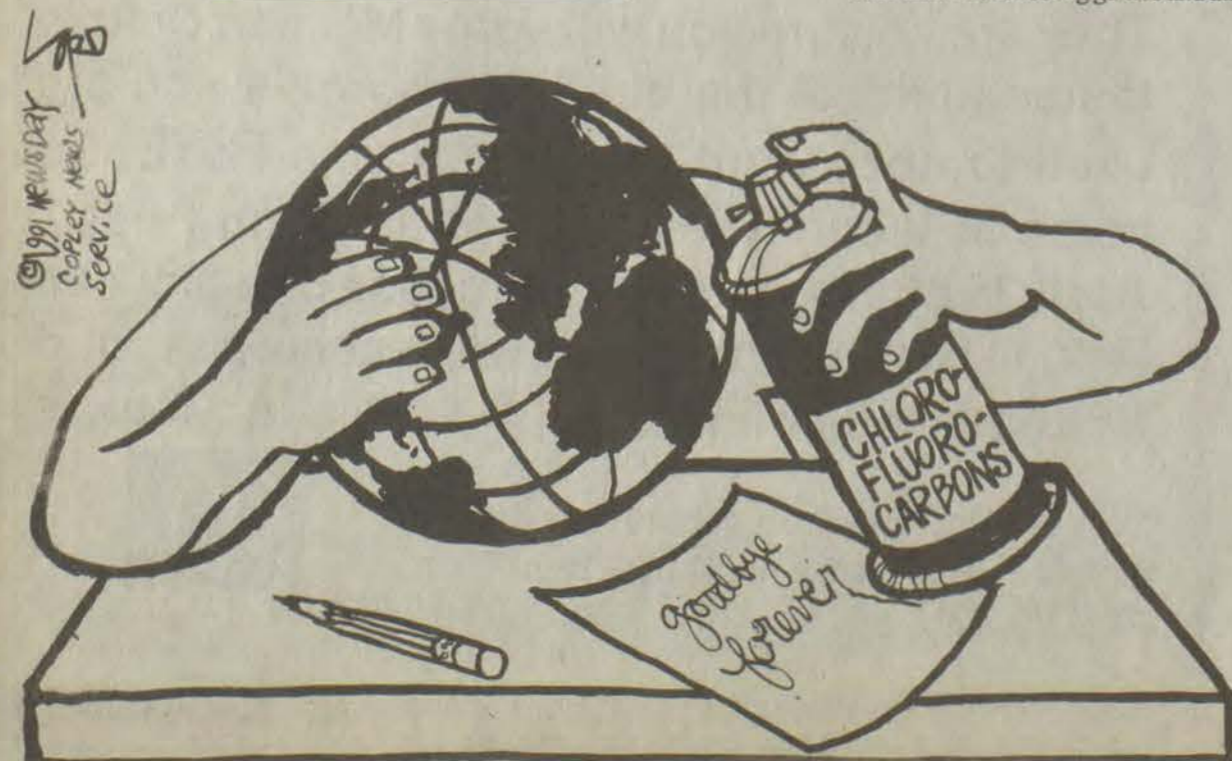

While you may not be able to help the whole world as a volunteer, you can make a difference in your own community by just giving a little of your valuable skills and time.

America's greatness comes from its people, both young and old. If ever business, union, school, club, group or place of worship developed community service projects, we would surely set a shining example for the rest of the world.

ing it up for six and a half months. Look out Floyd County, Tess is back.

Since Kim has mentioned me so frequently in her column, I thought I'd use a little of this precious editorial space to pay a great, big thank you to her. One couldn't ask for a better friend. The four days I got to spend with her and her family before I left for Ohio were wonderful. Her girls were refreshing and her home was welcoming. She adopted me as if I was one of her kids as well as her friend, and I had a high time sharing all my rediscoveries of civilian life with her (the blow dryer incident is true, I still am amazed seeing myself in the mirror with curled hair and makeup).

Right now the hardest thing for me to cope with is free time. I hardly know what to do with myself if I'm not constantly busy or on the run. I haven't relearned how to relax and take some quiet time out for myself. I wonder if everyone else who is returning has the same hurdles to leap as I do. And, I wonder when I'm going to have something else to write about in this column besides my experiences with Saudi Arabia and coming home.

the matter.
 "We're trying to avoid this thing being tied up in court for years," Walker said. "Our concerns are getting more and more urgent. It's the time of year where more and more people will be outside mowing grass and doing yard work. There won't be any gardens in our neighborhood this year. The only thing planted in our area is two air monitors in Mr. (Paul) Horn's yard."

Walker also expressed concerns about Medisin's storage of ash in dumpsters on site, since no landfill in the state is permitted to accept medical waste ash.

"The dumpsters have no covers and the wind blows ash all over the place. Isn't there something the court could do to make sure it's covered?" he asked.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the group would have to discuss that matter with state officials.

Walker also asked about rumors that the state of Florida will be trucking in ash to be disposed of in a landfill at Ivel.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said there are no plans for a landfill at Ivel and that coal ash will be accepted from the state of Florida. Stumbo explained that the ash will be dumped in a deep mines at Ivel owned by Industrial Fuels.

Hammond said that ash can't be buried in Florida and that only ash from coal sold by the Floyd County company would be brought back to be buried. Hammond said a permit has been filed in Frankfort to accept the ash.

Another citizen's request Friday, was for a road at Home Branch on Endicott. Emogene Burchett asked the court for work on the Home Branch Road saying elderly residents in the area could not be transported out by ambulance if the need arose.

"I have a deed that calls for a 12-foot road," Burchett said. "The road now is in the branch. You can't get out unless you have a 4-wheel drive."

District One Magistrate Gerald DeRossett agreed with Burchett, saying, "The road is in the creek. It's a creek, not a road. It's a disgrace."

DeRossett said other landowners in the area would not allow the county to widen the road to get it out of the creek.

After the deed was examined by Hammond, he suggested to Burchett that she hire an attorney to file a lawsuit to obtain a quiet title to the deed.

In other business Friday, the fiscal court:

- Approved a contract between the court and the state Transportation Cabinet for a new bridge at Ivel;

- Appointed Avery Lee Harmon as a water commissioner;

- Acknowledged receiving 1991-92 budgets from the sheriff and coroner;

- Approved the 1991-92 budget for the county extension service;

- Approved payment to Howard K. Bell Engineers for work on the Melvin/Weeksbury project;

- Approved minimum wage changes and cost of living increases;

- Approved a $990 refund to the sheriff's office; and

- Passed a resolution to sell the state Transportation Cabinet a portion of land at the Minnie Park for $16,000.

All magistrates attended Friday's meeting. The next regular scheduled meeting of the fiscal court will be Friday, May 17 at 10 a.m. in the Floyd County Courthouse Annex. The public is invited to attend.

Latta

"My feeling," she said, "is if I'm going to work full time, I should be paid for it."

The salary increase was approved on a 4-2 vote with Goebel and councilman Danny Hamilton voting "no." Councilmen Billy Ray Collins and Charles Hale were not present for the meeting.

In a follow-up to the salary issue, council voted 5-1 to have the city's personnel committee study the extra workload on other city employees which may have arisen by the elimination of the city administrator's post. The committee will make recommendations on other possible salary hikes at the May 13 meeting.

In other business Monday, council: authorized Mayor Latta to negotiate roof repairs at the city municipal building after no bids were received for that work; approved a contribution of $750 toward the purchase of equipment and supplies needed by the Prestonsburg Little League;

approved a plan to move city police department offices to the second floor of the municipal building in space opened up by the move of Big Sandy Area Development District offices; agreed to study further a plan to develop a skateboard park at Archer Park;

adopted a resolution to participate with the Prestonsburg High School History Club in a Sister City project;

authorized advertisement for bids for the replacement of a bridge at Archer Park with the estimated $60,000 cost of that span to be split between the state ($40,000) the city park board ($10,000) and the council ($10,000);

adopted resolutions authorizing the city utility company to seek grant funds for the expansion of water treatment facilities;

approved a motion to schedule one monthly meeting of council during May, June, July and August; authorized city volunteer firefighters to sponsor a circus on June 16; and okayed fundraising roadblocks for the fire department volunteers (April 27); Disabled American Veterans (May 4); and the animal shelter (June 9).

A proposal to cut the hours city businesses which sell alcoholic beverages may stay open died Monday when council declined to give second reading to an ordinance concerning the issue. The proposed ordinance would have required those businesses to close at midnight instead of 2 a.m.

The ordinance, prompted by problems at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn, was apparently considered unnecessary after city police chief Greg Hall said problems at the motel had been solved.

Council will hold a special meeting at 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 1, to review the fiscal 1991-92 budget.

Organizational Meeting To Be Held

Thursday, April 25 — 7:00 p.m.

At the former Abigail Theatre Building

Court Street, Prestonsburg

Let's get it together and showcase the vast amount of talent we have in Floyd County!

— PASS THE WORD! —

They serve 2-, 3-, 4- and 5-ways at Dixie Chili. But since 1947, their health insurance decision has gone just 1-way.

Variety is the spice of life at Dixie Chili. Except when you talk to Dixie Chili owners, the Sarakatsannis brothers, about their health insurance. Only one company has been good enough for the last 43 years — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

The family business has grown since the Sarakatsannis' father opened Dixie Chili in an eight-foot-wide storefront. There are four more restaurants. Seventy more employees. A retail and mail order business.

As this Northern Kentucky based business has grown, Blue Cross and Blue Shield has been able to supply the people and the products necessary to adapt to the Sarakatsannis family's changing health insurance needs.

Today, as in 1947, Dixie Chili employees still have the best choice of doctors and hospitals around. And they still have the most recognized health care card in Kentucky.

If you're interested in choosing Blue Cross and Blue Shield for your company, call us. We'll serve up a generous portion of Kentucky's most popular health plan.

Good isn't good enough anymore.

Former Gov. Bert T. Combs to speak at Pike graduation

An Eastern Kentucky native who gained national prominence as governor of Kentucky will be the speaker at the 1991 Pikeville College graduation on Mother's Day, May 12.

Bert T. Combs served as governor from 1959 through 1963, a time of great change in the mountains. An attorney, he resumed his private practice of law after his term until being appointed to the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals by President Lyndon Johnson in 1967, a position in which he served until 1970.

He then practiced law with the Louisville-based firm of Wyatt, Tarrant and Combs, and in 1978 was appointed by President Jimmy Carter to the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, charged with advising the president and secretary of state on matters of arms control, disarmament and world peace.

A native of Manchester, Combs has deep roots in the region, and practiced for many years in Prestonsburg, where he also served as city attorney and commonwealth's attorney.

Pikeville College graduation ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. in the College Gymnasium on Sunday, May 12. For more information, contact Pikeville College at (606) 432-9326.

Four honored at Spring workshop

Four professional educators received honors for outstanding service and dedication to the education profession at the spring workshop of the Eastern Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

The honorees were Patty Burchett, junior and high school mathematics teacher at Paintsville High School; Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., president of Prestonsburg Community College; Sheila Vice, mathematics consultant for the state Department of Education; and Zella Wells, high school mathematics teacher at Johnson Central High School.

Plaques were presented to each of the four on behalf of the EKCTM by Professor John D. Sammons, president, during the March 28 workshop held at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and attended by some 175 professional educators. The honors were awarded based upon service, dedication and contribution to education, and each of these four individuals were found to be outstanding in all areas. Mrs. Wells, formerly of Prestonsburg, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wallace who reside at Riverside Drive.

EEO

DEAR FLOYD COUNTY CITIZENS:

A committee for Long Range Planning has been working for several months gathering information to use in writing Goals and Objectives to submit to the Floyd County Board of Education for adoption as a basic Long Range Plan for the next 3-5 years. Listed below are results of that work.

This is not a plan for the total operation of the school system. It is a plan which deals with strategic areas of operation within the school system that the committee feels, when adopted and implemented by the board, will address basic concerns that have been identified and discussed during the months the committee has been functioning.

The committee takes this means to invite participation from the community before "Action Plans" are added to make this a complete document.

FOR YOUR CONSIDERATION:

GOAL 1:

TO IMPROVE THE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT OF THE SCHOOLS...

The Floyd County School District:

- Will insure all school facilities and grounds are kept in a condition which is conducive to working and learning in providing an environment that is safe, sanitary, and secure by August 1991.
- Will increase the staff and student pride in the school by June 1992.
- Will implement a program of preventive maintenance for all school facilities and grounds by August 1992.
- Will establish a program to recognize, annually, the outstanding job performance of its certified and classified employees by August 1991.

- Will expand alternatives to the current methods of disciplining students by August 1992.
- Will establish alternatives to corporal punishment of students by August 1991.
- Will implement student-centered philosophies in all classrooms by June 1992.

GOAL 2:

TO IMPROVE CURRICULUM TO MEET THE NEEDS OF INDIVIDUAL STUDENTS...

The Floyd County School District:

- Will adopt an annual set of district goals and objectives consistent with outcomes mandated by the Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990 and Long Range Planning goals and objectives as each relates to student needs by August 1991.
- Will establish a scope and sequence for each subject and grade level taught in the district by June 1993.
- Will implement a plan for monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of each school program it supports by August 1992.
- Will adopt a program to improve student writing throughout the curriculum by October 1991.
- Will broaden the curriculum offerings in speech, fine arts (drama, music, art), and additional course offerings to meet goals of Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990 by August 1992.
- Will implement a plan at each school to insure the six student outcomes mandated by Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990 (1) Applications of basic skills, (2) care concepts, (3) self-sufficiency, (4) group membership, (5) thinking and problem-solving, and (6) integration of knowledge) are addressed by the curriculum and teaching strategies by August 1993.
- Will establish a plan at each school to use techniques which encourage across-the-curriculum teaching activities, the short exploration of subjects, the application of learned concepts, and the use of citizen-life skills by August 1993.
- Will implement a program which provides curriculum alternatives for students who are unable to succeed in conventional course offerings by August 1994.
- Will develop a five-year technology plan which addresses the district curriculum objectives as mandated by the Kentucky Educational Reform Act of 1990 by January 1992.
- Will begin staffing subject area coordinator positions by August 1992 and complete the staffing by August 1993.

GOAL 3:

TO IMPROVE THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT...

The Floyd County School District:

- Will prepare an annual projected itemized budget which relates to goals established by the school district and long range planning committee by July 1991 each year.
- Will secure training for all staff in performance-based assessment, alternative teaching methods (cooperative and collaborative learning), and technology training that exceeds offerings of KDE by August 1992.
- Will insure that each school develops a plan for "continuous assessment" as identified by KERA '90 by June 1992.

- Will equip each school/administrative building office with a modern/fax machine to speed written communications by October 1991.
- Will review future building plans through public meetings to gather community input on an annual basis.

Please send your responses to this "Working Copy" plan to any of the committee members listed below, or mail directly to: John K. Pitts, Floyd County Board of Education, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. a connector through a section of the Paintsville-Prestonsburg Airport.

Hammond also recommended that the state strongly consider four-laning a section of the Mountain Parkway and Route 114 from Campton to Prestonsburg, contending the project is vital to the economic interests of both Central and Eastern Kentucky.

Hammond said new roads either completed or under construction in Eastern Kentucky would shift retail traffic from this region toward the Ashland-Huntington markets and away from Lexington. He added that "25 percent" of Lexington's retail sales came from Eastern Kentucky dollars, contending that completion of a four-laned Mountain Parkway was important if the central part of the state was to maintain that revenue source.

Floyd County Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens, noting that "others are asking for millions and I'm just asking for thousands," addressed the task force on the need to improve Route 177 and Route 7 in Floyd County. Owens said those roads were in considerable disrepair and needed only minor work for improvement.

Many of the road needs voiced in Tuesday's meeting overlapped among counties in the District 12 area, particularly the concerns for completion of Route 23 and Route 460 to the Virginia border.

District 12 officials, who maintain an office in Pikeville, noted that much of the reconstruction for those highways remained on long range lists, but they did indicate the stretch between Prestonsburg and Paintsville was progressing.

District 12 supervisor Denton Billiter said Tuesday that the Johnson County leg of new Route 23 "could be let for contract" as early as next year. The road is currently under construction in Floyd County, and a bid for an extension of the project, which takes the road near Hager Hill in Johnson County, was awarded Friday to Bizzack Brothers Construction.

Billiter also announced the construction of a new road in Floyd County, connecting Garrett and McDowell, would be underway soon. A bid for construction of the first phase of that new road was let Friday, also to Bizzack. The second phase could be included later this year.

someone to talk to, someone with whom he could discuss his squirrel hunting and fishing days. Setser and Ousley plan to plant a small garden and raise tomatoes for the center.

The center, which began accepting clients on March 25, currently has seven clients enrolled in the program. Three are Alzheimer patients.

"Having Alzheimers is like being in a room with all the objects flying around," said center director Karen Davis. She said the center caters to the individual needs of its clients.

"All they want is someone to love them and talk with them," said Davis. "They are still young at heart."

Davis said that she learned in a recent seminar through the Sanders Brown Center on Aging in Lexington to be whatever her client needs her to be.

"The caregiver has to change his lifestyle. The Alzheimer's patient cannot change his," said Davis, who told the story of a patient who could only eat with a spoon. The family tried to change the man's habits to get him to eat with regular silverware. He could not. "Now the whole family eats with a spoon," she said.

The center offers an activity area, a recreation area, a day bed, and an eating area. Meals are provided by the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen's Center. Clients are served breakfast, lunch, and an evening snack. The Senior Citizens' bus is also available to pick up individuals, but caregivers are encouraged to bring their family member to the center, Davis said.

Agape House is partially funded by the state, said Doug Lawson with the Big Sandy Area Development District's Division of Aging. A sliding fee, based on the client's income (not the caregiver's income) is charged.

"Ability to pay is not a determining factor," Lawson said. "No one will be turned away for lack of funds."

Big Sandy Area Development District hopes to expand the program sometime during the next fiscal year. The agency hopes to offer in-home respite care, so that caregivers can go shopping or just get out of the house for awhile, Lawson said.

For more information about the center, call Prestonsburg Senior Citizens' director Patsy Evans at 886-6855; Adult Day Care director Karen Davis at 886-0265; or the Big Sandy ADD Division of Aging Services at (606) 886-2375 or 1-800-866-1086.

Kentucky Opry News

by Billie Jean Osborne
Director, Kentucky Opry

In traveling throughout the county to 13 elementary schools, I am finding so much excitement being generated about the upcoming FACES Festival.

I love the many different themes that schools are coming up with for their floats I guess the cash prizes that are being given for this would help them to get excited — $400 to the best elementary entry and $400 to the best high school entry. Second place prize is not bad, either — $200.

Then, to the civic organization having the best entry, there will be a $200 first prize and a $100 second prize.

All soldiers in Floyd County who have returned from Saudi Arabia are invited to ride a float in this parade. Isn't this exciting?

There is one big question in every community that is being asked — what is the FACES Festival? Learn this and think about it: F — family; A — arts; C — culture; E — education; and S — springtime. What a wonderful message! It provides something for everyone in Eastern Kentucky. If every person would join in and help with the festival, we could make it grow into a great one. It is our festival and will be what we make it.

And now for my interest in FACES. I know that everyone has heard of the Kentucky Opry. This is a big weekend for us. Our first public concert is on Saturday night, May 18, at the Prestonsburg gym. We have two other groups performing with us, the Gum Branch Heartbreakers and Goose Creek Symphony. What a night of entertainment!

Help us reach our goal! Every family in Floyd County is urged to come out and join us; let's sell every ticket to this concert. Be there to cheer us on when we take the stage in our tuxedos and rhinestone outfits. We need your support.

Who passed from this life
April 26, 1989

*A heart of gold stopped beating.
Two smiling eyes closed to rest
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.*

Daddy, you was a man who was so proud of your family and home.

Kindness and love were all that you knew. For your own wants in life were very few.

Many of times you have helped us when your health was not well. You gave a helping hand and as a father, and husband to mommy, you never failed. With a heart of gold and love so strong you would lead and guide me whether I was right or wrong. I couldn't have asked for a better daddy, and one like you are few.

We love you Daddy and miss you very much.

HALL FUNERAL HOME

Proudly Adds Another Feature:

A Life Remembered® Tribute Program Videotape

We at Hall Funeral Home are excited about a new optional service we can offer you.

"Tribute Programs" is a tasteful and wonderful way to add new meaning to the funeral or memorial service. The six-minute video tape is a tribute to a LIFE carefully prepared from pictures of the person.

Yes, a tribute program may also be pre-arranged and completed. Selections of pictures, a musical theme from a long list of hymns or other music, and favorite scripture passages are all part of this unique service. All these elements are combined with sophisticated video technology and a sensitive production approach provided by National Music Service.

Eastern Ky. families have expected Hall Funeral Home to provide leadership. This new feature is expanding nationally, and we are proud to be the first in the state to offer it to the people we serve.

Collins returns from Africa

Navy Fireman Apprentice Tony D. Collins, son of Bobby D. and Mazig Hamilton of McDowell recently returned from a seven-month deployment to the western coast of Africa and the Mediterranean Sea while serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Inchon, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The helicopter carrier and her embarked Marines played major roles in several multi-national exercises including a Spanish amphibious training exercise at Sierra de Retin, the Nato Exercise Display Determination at Saros Bay, Turkey, which included forces from Turkey, Spain, Italy, Portugal, Germany and the United Kingdom, and an intensive combat training exercise with French forces at the Camp de Canjeurs training facility in southern France.

The USS Inchon joined with Commander Sixth Fleet's flagship, USS Belknap and other U.S. ships to support Operation Desert Storm at the outbreak of hostilities in Iraq.

The ship and its embarked composite squadron conducted over 3,500 aircraft movements in support of Operation Desert Storm.

During the deployment, USS Inchon sailors gave their time and skills in goodwill projects in Naples, Italy; Catania, Sicily; Malaga, Spain and Toulon, France. The projects ranged from hosting picnics, parties, and ship's tours for orphans, to painting cartoon characters on the walls of children's hospital wards.

A 1989 graduate of McDowell High School, he joined the Navy in September 1989.

Noted writer George Ella Lyon addresses teachers' group

Kentucky writer George Ella Lyon spoke to the Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of English/Language Arts on Tuesday, April 16, at Prestonsburg Community College. An audience of 38 heard her discuss how the ordinary events of our lives can become stories that children can tell and write down.

Ms. Lyon, who grew up in Harlan County and now resides in Lexington, has written such children's books as Father Time and the Day Boxes, A Regular Rolling Noah, and AB Cedar: An Alphabet of Trees. Many of those present bought autographed books from her.

All of Ms. Lyon's stories come from her own Eastern Kentucky experience. She explained that our culture devalues events that do not occur in well-known urban areas. But the important thing about each event is not where it occurs but the individual and the human emotions. Her story for A Regular Rolling Noah came from the experiences of her grandfather, who once worked on a freight train that carried animals. He took care of cows, pigs, chickens, and other animals while journeying back and forth on the train. Ms. Lyon turned the events into a picture book with a story children love.

Ms. Lyon also believes in the importance of stories for children. "If children do not experience stories, very often they can't see their lives in terms of story," she said. In that case, it is difficult for them to make sense out of their experience. In the classroom, she values journal keeping and story writing from one's experience. "Stories are a way of telling ourselves what happened," she declared. "They tell where we come from and where we're going. They get us out of the present moment and give us a broader world."

She suggested several techniques for getting children to write: take a short movie or TV show that presents a shallow story and get the children to flesh it out with more events and details. Make up a story that grows out of one you already know, and make up a story for something that has no story, like Father Time. Ms.

Lyon used this idea to write Father Time and the Dayboxes.

The EKCTE plans to hold another after-school meeting with techniques on teaching writing, perhaps in May, if speakers can be obtained.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

IS PRO WRESTLING REALLY A SPORT OR A SHOW?

Hulkamania. Wrestlemania. Rick Flair. The Four Horseman. Rock and Roll Express. It all sounds phony. Is it?

Thousands on thousands of wrestling fans fill centers around the country just to get to see their favorite wrestler beat up on someone or just the opposite. Millions and millions of dollars are being spent to get to see some of the hottest names in the wrestling business show their wares. Is it on the up and up? How can a person, whose muscles are bulging out and looks as if there is not an ounce of fat anywhere, take having his head bang against "a turnbuckle" and still survive? Or be beaten in the head by a fist from an opponent (it is always a 10 count from the fans)? Or have his head smashed with a steel chair?

Many wrestling fans get up tight when you voice your opinion that it is all fake! No one can take those beatings and not suffer injury. No one! It doesn't matter how muscular he is.

MOST TV MATCHES — WIMP MATCHES!

When you watch it on television you can always tell who is going to win. Do you think the brain thrust behind the organization is going to let a little unknown come in and pin the Hulkster? No way! Or the Demolition lose to two unknowns? It won't happen! When the challenger is wearing powder blue trunks and has fair skin, he is a loser. He is always already in the ring and all the attention is focused on the one being threatened — Hogan, Jake "The Snake" or others. He has already been declared a loser when he climbs in the ring.

Saturday Night's Main Event matches are only designed to promote some big match coming up that can only be seen on pay per view or in person. That is where the mega bucks are. On Saturday Night's Main Event, Hogan may face Andre The Giant. (NOTE: I don't know if any of these wrestlers are wrestling now. I got disgusted with it all). It is billed as a title match. Folks, Vince McMahon isn't about to let the title change hands on free TV. So, Andre bashes the Hulkster. He is disqualified for illegal tactics, but Hogan keeps the belt. Hogan goes to the hospital where Mean Gene is doing remote broadcast. The condition of Hogan is unknown. The question is will he wrestle again? Will he be able to heal well enough to get revenge on the Four Horsemen? (Whoops, wrong federation). Get revenge on Andre?

Now to find out, you must be willing to do one of two things. Appear in person at the cost of $150 per ticket to see the event or be willing to fork over $20 to $30 to watch it on pay per view.

Is it on the up and up? I remember watching by satellite a sports call-in show where the viewers could call and talk about any sport subject they wished. One caller wanted to know how the panel felt about professional wrestling. After holding back and trying to conceal their laughter, they answered as honest as they could. Their remarks were that someone writes a script for each event. The two wrestlers involved, along with the chosen referee and any other person or persons involved, practice their match according to the script. The official is the key person as far as letting the two wrestlers know what to do and when to do it. Time limits on each match are important as well as the time keeper letting the groups in the ring know how much time remains in the match.

Fake or real? Well, it is entertaining, but I don't see it as anything to take too seriously. I don't mean to rain on anybody's parade, but I was asked what I thought of it. And there you have it. Do I still watch it? Whenever I can stand it!

Until Friday, Good Sports wrestling fans!

Errant Throw Gives Betsy Layne Tournament Win

It took two tries, but the Betsy Layne Bobcats and Millard Mustangs finally got in their first round game in the Pikeville Invitational Hillbilly Days Classic at Pikeville Saturday evening. The game was started Friday night with two-thirds of an inning played when the rains came. The Mustangs had on their hitting shoes against left hander Todd Akers as they took a 4-0 lead before the game was suspended. Akers was having problems getting his breaking pitches over and the Mustangs were teasing off on his fast ball.

Play was resumed on Saturday afternoon under balmy weather as temperatures hovered in the low 50's and high 40's. It was more football weather than baseball. It was the kind of weather where coffee and hot chocolate out-sold Pepsi three to one.

Betsy Layne had to play catch up all the way and finally claimed the victory with a run in the bottom of the seventh inning on an errant throw — his third — by catcher Jason Adkins.

With two out, Danny Paige singled to center field. Mike Damron was brought off the Bobcat bench to pinch run for the ailing Paige, who had injured his ankle. Damron stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Damron got a late start for third and Adkins, in picking up the ball, threw to third to try and nail Damron. The ball short hopped the third base and bound away from him while Damron was picking himself up and coming home with the winning run.

Akers, who struggled in the opening inning on Friday, looked sharp on Saturday as he gave Millard just one run the rest of the way. Akers was mixing his pitches up real well and keeping the Mustangs off stride at the plate. The hard throwing left hander used his curve ball and off speed pitches to set the Millard batsmen for his fast ball. Akers retired 15 of the last 17 batters he faced. He set down the last seven in a row, striking out four of the seven. Akers finished with seven strike outs in the contest. He issued just one base on balls.

"Todd's a good pitcher," said Betsy Layne mentor Junior Newsome. "He got stronger as he went along. He just needed to get loose. Todd has trouble if he doesn't get loose."

Newsome said he knew if Akers could hold Millard, it would give his team a chance to win.

Akers said an absence from the mound for so long affected his pitching early.

"I haven't pitched for 13 days," he explained. It was the best outing for the big left hander this season.

Millard had been "mercied" by Betsy Layne in the seasonal opener for both squads, 13-3 at Millard. However, the Bobcats were not taking the Mustangs lightly.

Steve Coleman got things started for Millard in the first inning with a long triple to right centerfield. Ronald Adkins followed with a RBI single. Kevin Justice reached on a base hit and journeyed to second on a wild pitch. With one out, David Little singled, scoring Adkins. Jamie Damron fanned and while the rains came, Brett Moore lined a double to right center to drive in two runs before the game was suspended.

The game was picked up with designated hitter Greg Adkins at the plate. Akers fanned Adkins to end the long, long first inning.

Betsy Layne struck for two runs in the bottom of the first inning. Keith Hall reached on an error at second base and then stole second. Hall's attempt to steal third resulted in Adkins' first overthrow at third base and Hall scored from third. With one out, Adam Gearheart lined a base hit to right and he stole second. Gearheart came in to score on Barry Collins RBI single. Collins stole second and third. Danny Paige walked but was picked off of first by Little, Chris Newsome fanned to end the Bobcats' first.

Millard scored their final run in the second inning when Chris Bartley singled, leading off the second frame. Bartley was erased on a fielder's choice play on a grounder by Coleman. Coleman stole second to set up the Mustangs second run. Coleman then came home on a run producing a single by Ronald Adkins. Akers struck out Kevin Justice and Reed Adkins to end the inning.

Only two runners reached base against Akers for Millard the rest of the way. Akers issued walks in the fourth and fifth innings. Millard failed to collect a hit the remainder of the game.

The Bobcats tied the game at 5-5 with three runs in the bottom of the fifth. First baseman Keith Hall hit a one-out solo home run over the right field fence — a line hugger — 310 feet away. Chris Potter followed with a solid base hit to left. Potter, using his speed, went from first to third on a catcher's error. Gearheart's second base hit scored Potter and Gearheart came home on a RBI single by Danny Paige.

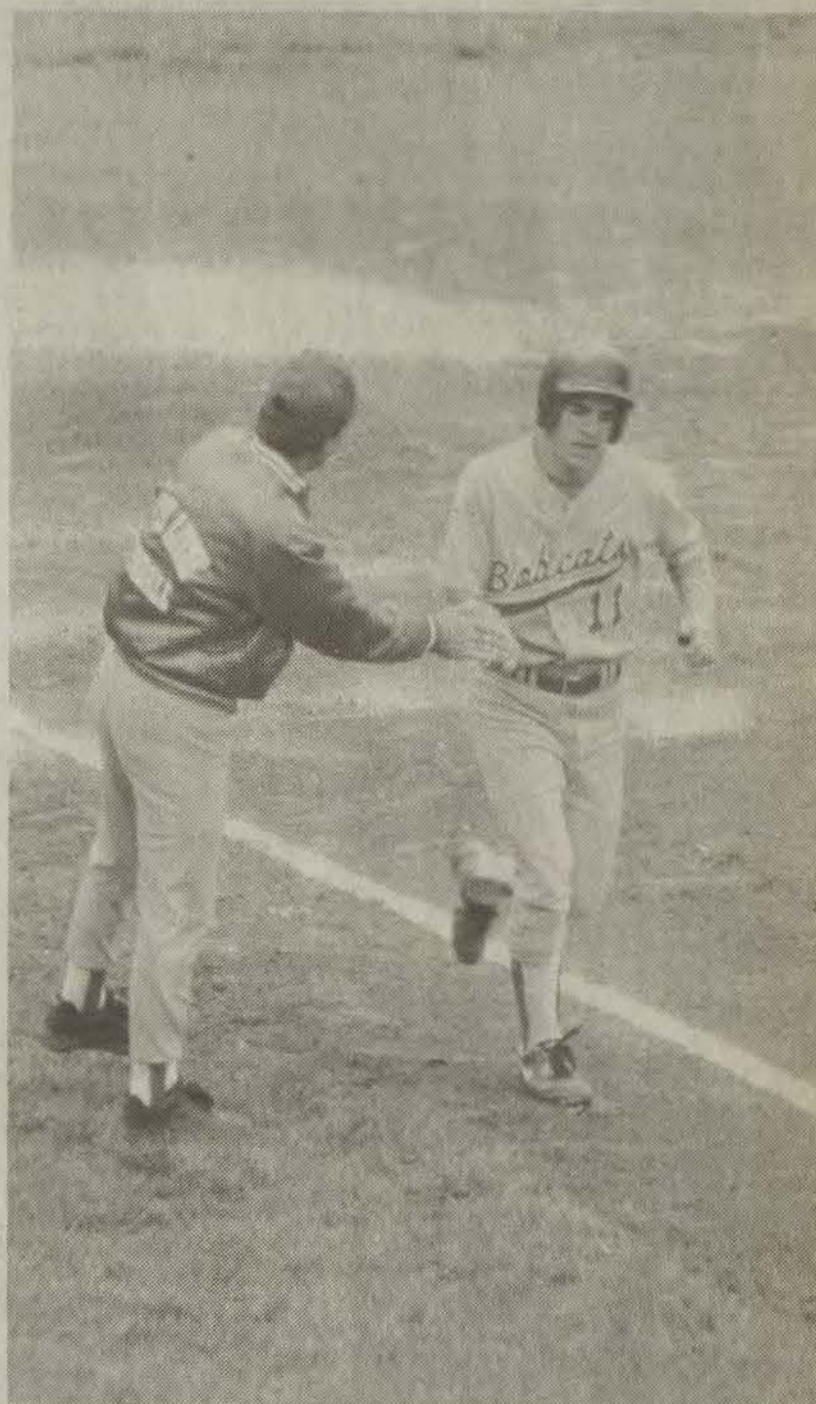

Little, who started the game, was relieved by Coleman in the fifth inning and Coleman suffered the setback for the Mustangs. Little yielded four runs on three hits in his four innings of work. Little failed to get anyone out in the Bobcats' fifth inning. He fanned three batters while walking one.

Coleman gave up two runs — including the winning run — on three hits. Coleman struck out two batters and walked one.

Gearheart, Collins and Paige each had two hits for Betsy Layne. Ronald Adkins had two single and two RBIs for Millard.

The semifinal and championship games, that was scheduled to be played this past Sunday, was called because of rain and cold weather. The semifinals and finals will be

Blackcats Squander Lead In 8-7 Loss To Shelby Valley

Base Hit Here!

Sean Damron, Prestonsburg, takes a healthy cut at the ball against Shelby Valley Saturday evening under the lights. Damron singled on this pitch although it looks otherwise. Prestonsburg lost, 8-7. Dale Conn is the home plate umpire. (Photo by Ed Taylor)

It was a heartbreaker for the Prestonsburg Blackcats in their opening round game against the Shelby Valley Wildcats in the Pikeville Hillbilly Days Invitational tournament at Pikeville Saturday afternoon. The Blackcats squandered a 7-4 lead late in the game and fell to the hard hitting Wildcats 8-7 as Shelby Valley scored five times in the bottom of the sixth inning to take the one run advantage.

Blackcat starter Aaron Tucker was breezing along until he ran into some control problems in the sixth inning. The big right hander walked Kevin Robinson leading off the sixth frame and then issued a base on balls to Kevin Caudill. Both runners moved up a base on a wild pitch. Tucker fanned Marty Little for the first out, but Glen Salyers reached Tucker for a base hit, scoring Robinson. Tucker issued his third walk of the inning when number nine hitter Shannon Wright drew a walk to load the bases.

David Johnson singled, driving in Caudill and Salyers. Blaine Tackett hit squibbler up the third base line. The slow grounder was fielded by Tucker but the throw to home plate was too late as Wright crossed home plate. John Clark came on in relief of Tucker with the score 7-6. Jeremy Johnson, who homered earlier, was intentionally passed, loading the bases for Shelby Valley. Pitcher Kevin Bowling helped his own cause with a solid base hit off Clark to bring in two runs for a 8-7 Shelby Valley lead. Clark fanned the next two batters.

Prestonsburg took advantage of some early wildness by Bowling as they pushed across three runs on two hits, three walks and two hit batsmen. Neil Slone doubled for the Blackcats opening the second inning. Tucker scored Slone with a base hit. With one out, Scott Stephens singled home Tucker, who had stolen second base. Mark Bentley walked to load the bases. Walks to Sean Damron and John Clark forced home two runs.

Shelby Valley got two runs back in the bottom of the third inning on a home run by Jeremy Johnson, a blast over the left field wall that appeared at first to be caught by left fielder Mark Bentley. However, the ball sailed over the fence 310-feet from home plate. Blaine Tackett had Clark promptly hit the first pitch from Bowling scoring Cavins with Damron going all the way to third. Damron and Clark scored on a two out double by Jason Story.

Prestonsburg put the first two batters on in the fifth inning when Clark reached on an error at shortstop. Jason Crisp got a base hit on a bunt that was perfectly laid down. Story then struck out; Slone popped to first and Tucker bounced back to the pitcher to end the threat.

Shelby Valley scored a run in their half of the fifth on a one-out double by David Johnson. Johnson went to third when the ball was bobbled at shortstop. Johnson scored on a wild pitch to make it a 3-3 game.

Bowling picked up the win for Shelby Valley. The lefthander fanned 10 Blackcat batters and walked four. Shannon Wright came on to pitch the seventh inning for the Wildcats in picking up the save. Wright struck out the last two batters he faced while walking just one.

Tucker got the loss for Prestonsburg. Tucker had five strike outs and walked four.

Prestonsburg falls to 10-3 on the season while Shelby Valley improves to 8-1.

Paintsville scores in bottom of seventh to hand Rebels 3-2 loss

Paintsville. Always, traditionally strong in high school baseball. Defending state champions from last season. Experienced. Good hitting, pitching and defense. Someone forgot to tell the Allen Central Rebels all this as the two schools met last week at Paintsville.

The Tigers scored a run in the bottom of the seventh inning to come from behind and post a hard fought 3-2 win over the visiting Allen Central team.

Paintsville had tied the game 2-2 with a run in the bottom of the sixth inning. The Rebels went out in order in their half of the seventh. Brad Tiller lead off the Tigers' seventh with a double to left center field. Jason Holbrook grounded out, third to first. Blankenship picked up the game winning RBI with a solid base hit scoring Tiller with the winning run with one out.

The Rebels went on top 2-0 with two runs in the top of the second inning after being retired in order in the first. B.J. Aldrich drew a lead off walk from Fairchild. Phillip Ritchie reached on an error at third base and Robbie Sexton loaded the bases with a base hit. Aldrich crossed home plate on Brad Scott's bouncer to short and fielder's choice play. The Tigers elected to go for the double play rather than the play at home. Scott was safe at first, picking up the RBI. John Martin fanned for the second out of the inning and Chuck Laferty's grounder was missed played by Tiller at short for an error permitting Sexton to cross home plate with the Rebels' second run.

Paintsville got one run back in the bottom of the fourth inning when Matt Williams singled leading off. Williams was thrown trying to steal second. Collins singled and Eldridge followed by popping out to first base. Todd Porter then doubled home Collins to make it a 2-1 game.

Allen Central wasted an opportunity to score in their half of the fifth inning with runners at second and third. Laferty reached on an error at first base and stole second. After Stewart Hall struck out, Stevie Robinson singled, putting runners on first and third. Robinson stole second. Martin grounded out to short with Laferty holding at third and Aldrich ended the threat by bouncing out to second.

Williams led off the Tigers' sixth with a double to right center. Collins grounded out to third base and Eldridge's fly ball to left field moved Williams to third base where he scored on a base hit by Porter to tie the game at 2-2.

Fairchild was credited with the win in going the distance for Paintsville. Fairchild fanned seven Rebel batters while giving up but two walks. Fairchild allowed Allen Central just three hits. The Tigers were guilty of committing three errors.

Sexton suffered the loss for Allen Central in a very well pitched game. Paintsville collected nine hits in the game off Sexton, but the Rebels' defense kept the Tigers from scoring. Sexton struck out six Paintsville batters and walked only one while hitting a Tiger batsman.

"Robbie pitched a very strong game for us," said Rebel coach Anthony Moore. "A couple of calls went against us and that allowed them to tie the game. Actually, we should have scored two more runs but got a bad call at first base. Our kids played their hearts out in that one."

Scott had one RBI for Allen Central. The other run was unearned.

Williams was perfect at the plate for Paintsville with three hits in three at-bats. Porter had two safeties. Blankenship got the game winning RBI.

The loss dropped the Rebels to 2-4 on the season. The Rebels will travel to Wheelwright tonight to face the Trojans on their home turf. Thursday night the Rebels will play at Johnson Central.

Beaver Yankees Second Victim Of Wayland Cubs

The American Amateur Baseball League has just gotten started and already the Wayland Cubs recorded their second win of the season with a 7-1 win over the Beaver Yankees at Hindman Monday evening.

The Cubs collected 11 hits in the game led by Corbett Howell's two hits — a double and single. Howell had one RBI in the game. Eric Casebolt drove in two runs with a double and Brian Crawford had a base hit that scored a run.

Brian Patton singled as did Brandon Merrill. Merrill had one RBI for the Cubs. Nicholas King had one hit with one RBI as did Tim Moore. Nick Sammons collected one hit for the Wayland team.

Wayland had a shut out going until the bottom of the top of the sixth inning when the Yankees put together back to back hits to push across their only run.

The Cubs plated two runs in each of the first and third innings and pushed across three in the second to win their second straight game.

Wayland will be back in action at the Hindman field Wednesday when they face the Hindman Blue Jays in a scheduled 7 p.m. game.

Rebels get but one hit

Robinson tosses one-hitter in 4-0 shutout of McDowell

Some great pitching and great fielding sent the Allen Central Rebels past a very good McDowell Daredevil team 4-0 last week in high school baseball play at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex on the campus of Allen Central High School.

Stevie Robinson was in control all the way as he blanked the Daredevils on just one hit — a fifth inning, two-out single by Earl Cook. Robinson recorded six strike outs in the route going performance for the Rebels to run the Rebels record to 3-4 on the year.

The Rebels made two great plays in the field. One by B. J. Aldrich at third base on a hot grounder and a super play by Stewart Hall at shortstop.

Shannon Price started for McDowell and suffered the loss after just going two full innings. Price experienced some wildness in the third inning when the Rebels scored twice, and was relieved by Bud Kidd.

The first three men reached for Allen Central in the third frame when Brad Scott was hit-by-a-pitch. John Martin and Stewart Hall walked, loading the bases against Price. McDowell coach Greg Johnson brought in the hard throwing Kidd who prompted Robinson to fly out deep to left field that allowed Scott to trot home on the sacrifice fly. Kidd got the second out in the inning when Frank Martin hit a drive to center-field where it was handled by Toby Vance easily. Kidd issued a two out walk to B. J. Aldrich to once again load the bases for the Rebels and then he hit Chuck Laferty to force in the innings second run. Phillip Ritchie left the bases loaded when he popped out to first base to end the inning.

Allen Central had taken a 1-0 lead with a single run in the second inning on a two-out base hit by Ritchie to center field. The ball was kicked around in the outfield and Ritchie advanced on to second base. Ritchie moved to third base on a wild pitch and when McDowell's catcher, Earl Cook, threw wide of third base, Ritchie came on to score.

The Rebels got their final run in the fifth inning to make it a 4-0 game. Stevie Robinson walked to lead off the inning and went to second on a wild pitch. A base hit by Frank Martin scored Robinson.

Allen Central had four runs on just two hits and they played errorless baseball. The Rebels stranded six runners. McDowell had no runs on just one hit and they left four runners on base while also playing errorless baseball.

Price had two strike outs and walked two in his two innings of work. He hit one batter and gave up just one hit. Kidd worked the final four innings, allowing just one hit and striking out four. Kidd gave up five walks and he also hit a batter.

McDowell falls to 4-4 on the season, losing three of their last four games. Coach Greg Johnson said that he is working to get his pitching rotation set before the district tournament.

McDowell will face Prestonsburg in a double header at the Allen Park this afternoon beginning at 5 p.m. Friday McDowell will host Shelby Valley in a twin bill also at the Allen Park.

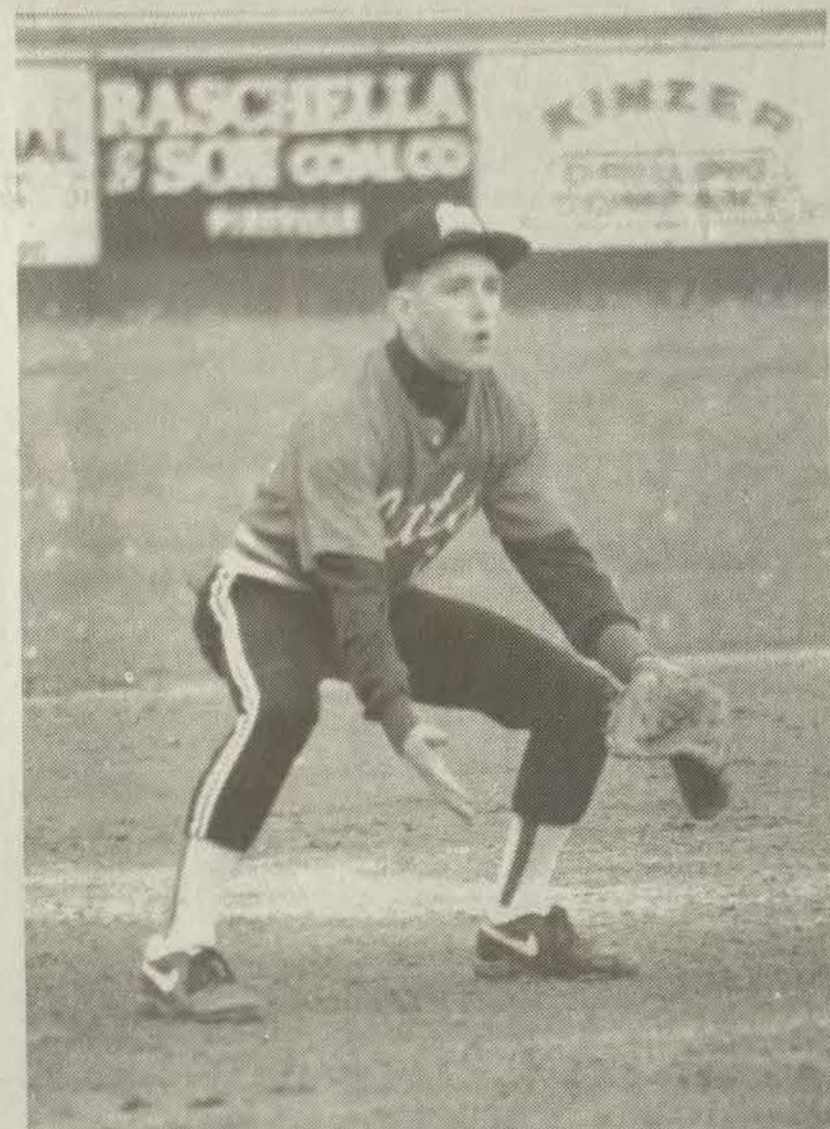

Allen Central takes on Wheelwright tonight at Brackett Field and then will face the Golden Eagles of Johnson Central Thursday afternoon at Johnson Central.

Central Finance captures preseason tournament over Booty's, 11-4

The Minnie Softball League got their season underway by holding their annual preseason softball tournament at the Minnie Park this past weekend. If the tournament results are any indication how the regular season will go, it looks as if Central Finance will be the team to contend with this year.

Sunday, Central Finance defeated

Booty's 11-4 to win the double elimination tournament. Central Finance scored seven times in the sixth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and win easily over Booty's.

Central Finance had taken a 3-0 lead in the first three innings only to see Booty's tie the game with three runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Burnett Little hit a home run for Booty's in the losing cause. Lonnie Johnson was the winning pitcher for Central Finance while Bobby Hall suffered the setback.

In the seven run sixth for Central Finance, Bear Johnson had a double and RBI for the winners. D.C. Carter, Tom Hall, Mark Helton, L.J. Johnson and Bill Hammonds each drove in runs.

Central Finance won over Weeksbury in the first game of the tournament 12-7 behind the pitching of Gene Tackett. C. Johnson had a three-run home run for Central Finance in the first inning.

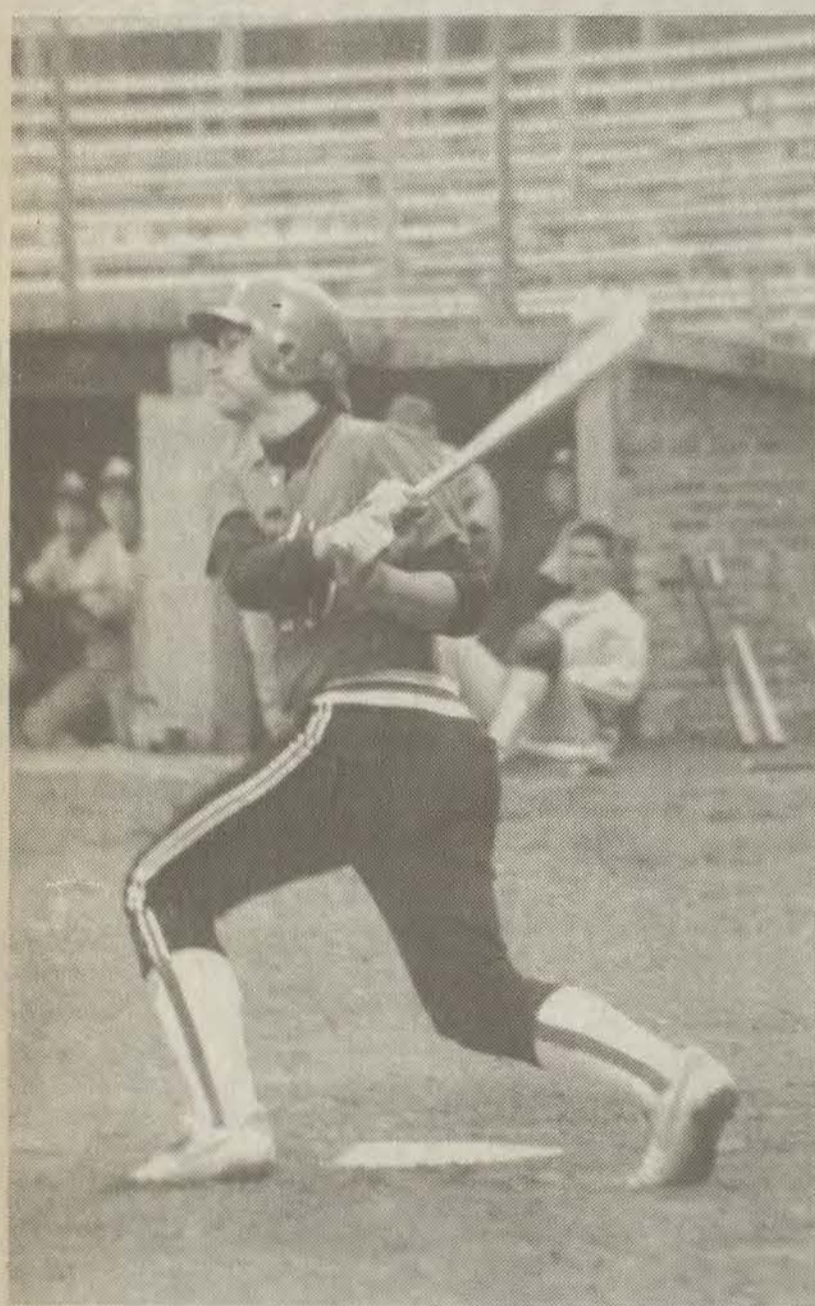

In the second game, Central Finance had an easy time with a 16-3 win over Heinisch Pharmacy of McDowell. Robert Little clubbed a two run home run in the fourth inning for the winning team.

Central Finance faced Booty's in the winners bracket and came away with a slugfest 15-14 win. Booty Hall hammered a two-run homer run for Booty's in the fourth inning. Gene Tackett again picked up the win.

In the winner's bracket, McDowell Hospital fell to the Central Finance team 18-4 in a rout. Ricky Roberts connected on a two-run home run in the first inning for the hospital team. Gene Tackett recorded his fourth win of the tournament.

Team members of the Central Finance squad are Gene Tackett, Lonnie Johnson, Bill Hammonds, Robert Little, Willie Johnson, Mark Helton, Terry Hall, Stevie Helton, Jamie Hall, D. C. Carr, Delmas Johnson, Dennis Johnson. Willie Johnson is the teams coach.

The Minnie Softball League will be playing their regular season games at the Minnie Park every Sunday afternoon.

Having good season!

Bassin' with the Pros

WILLOW LEAF SPINNER-BAITS ARE EXCELLENT SPRING BASS LURES

"They come through cover easily and have the added advantage of producing a very natural flash in the water. I'm convinced bass strike them because the blades look like bait-fish."

For years the willow leaf spinnerbait with its distinct blades shaped like weeping willow leaves has been a tournament winning lure for the bass pros. It was in use in a few areas long before the pros "discovered" it, but its success in professional fishing has put it into tackle boxes everywhere.

"I think it looks more natural in the water," says former world champion Charlie Reed, who has used willow leaf spinnerbaits for many years.

"They produce more flash than a standard spinnerbait, but you don't get quite as much throbbing action," the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler explains. "Their main advantage is that they come through vegetation better than other spinnerbaits."

If you're fishing especially thick vegetation, such as milfoil, all that's needed is to change to smaller willow leaf blades, and the lure will slide through the greenery like a lawn mower, says Reed.

"I've used small number three willow leaf blades on a heavy three-fourth ounce spinnerbait," he notes. "It looks funny, but it works."

Willow leaf blade options are as varied as they are for other spinnerbaits. Many anglers use tandem willow leaf blades that produce even more flash. When Reed fishes a tandem willow leaf, he prefers to use two smaller blades, such as number four's, because they have less drag and are easier to retrieve.

"I'll also mix blades," explains the Johnson pro, "putting a small Colorado style blade ahead of a large willow leaf. It gives the appearance of a big baitfish chasing a smaller one, and at times seems to make a difference."

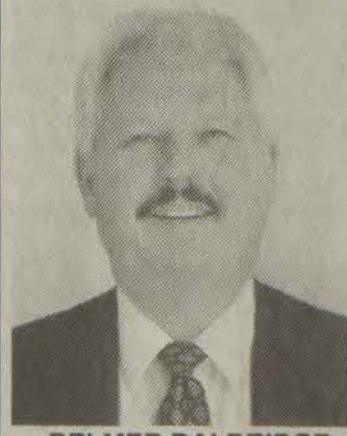

Reed prefers to fish gold willow leaf blades in off-colored water because he thinks they appear more natural, while in clear water he changes to nickel blades. He rarely uses anything but white skirts.

"You don't have to limit your use of willow leaf spinnerbaits to thick vegetation," advises Reed. "They're excellent lures to use around any type of heavy cover, like fallen logs, stumps and even boulders."

Wayland Rolls Past Hindman Reds 24-0

Corbett Howell and Rodney Bentley had three RBIs each for the Wayland Cubs as they posted an easy 24-0 win over the Hindman Reds in American Amateur Baseball play at Hindman.

The win was the season opener for coach Ronnie Patton's club. Bentley had a triple, double and single in driving in his three runs. Howell doubled and singled as he drove in three.

Brian Crawford had three hits in the game for Wayland with one RBI. Brian Patton also collected three singles in two runs batted in evening. Brandon Merrill had a good night at the plate for Wayland with three base hits.

Jay Arnett had a double and two singles with one RBI in the Cubs' rout. Eric Casebolt collected two singles and two RBIs in the victory. Nicholas King drove in two runs with a two-run double.

Casebolt pitched one inning for the Cubs in the "mercy" game. Casebolt had two strike outs. Crawford hurled one inning, fanning all three batters he faced.

The Cubs scored five runs in the first inning and pushed across six in the fourth frame for their two big innings. Hazard collected only one hit in the game.

Coach Patton is high on this year's team and the league over all.

"It is a better league than Little League," said Patton. "Kids learn more in the American Amateur League." In the new league players are allowed to lead off base, whereas in Little League they are not.

"I would like to see it come into our county," Patton continued, "and let people look at it. We have a tournament at the end of the regular season (about 16 games long) and then we play a state tournament. It is a good league."

Wayland is in a league with teams: the Hindman Reds, Hindman Bluejays, Beaver Yankees, and a team from Caney. The teams play about twice a week at the Hindman field. Patton hopes to schedule a game or two here in Floyd County. The age groups include those that are in the 9-10 age group.

Boat Docking: A Lesson In Deception

By Mark E. Thomas

What's the toughest boating maneuver you've ever attempted?

Most boat operators I know would answer backing in a straight line. And that, of course, is a basic skill required for docking your boat properly.

Here's some tips from the Brunswick Marine Group on boat control.

Remember back in high school, when you first participated in driver's education? Most beginning drivers dreaded their first attempts at parallel parking. It's the same with boaters learning to dock their craft as it should be done.

That's because proper procedure calls for a little backward navigating. And backing a boat is difficult—at first. Yet almost every boat is easier to load and board from the stern. So every boater should learn to back his craft into a slip. If you've tried it and felt as awkward as a high school sophomore under the stern eye of a driving instructor, don't despair. After a little practice, the maneuver comes easy.

The best way to learn is by practicing in open water. This will save the dents and bruised egos that comes with bouncing off unmovable objects.

And you should always pay attention to prevailing tides and winds. These can be a major factor when you're running at reverse in low speeds.

Practice your steering corrections and throttle touch. If you go light on the gas, winds and tides will push the boat off line. Too much gas, and you may leave a highly personal identification mark on the pier.

So take these tips from the Brunswick Marine Group and work on getting the combination of steering and throttle control just right. And save some face by starting out in the open. In a matter of hours you'll be docking like a pro. And your boat's finish will thank you for a job well done.

Lady Tops Sign JUCO Standout Christy Jordan

Western Kentucky's Lady Topper basketball program added to its impressive stable of talent by inking 5-10 guard Christy Jordan from the junior college ranks.

Jordan was a standout for Sullivan Junior College in Louisville during the '89-90 season, leading the nation in field goal percentage with a 66 percent accuracy rate. Sullivan posted an impressive 30-2 mark that year, losing out in the regional finals. Jordan averaged 20 points, 7.1 rebounds, 2.9 assists and 2.3 steals per game.

"Christy is instant offense," commented Sullivan Junior College Coach Laura Litter. "She's a pure shooter."

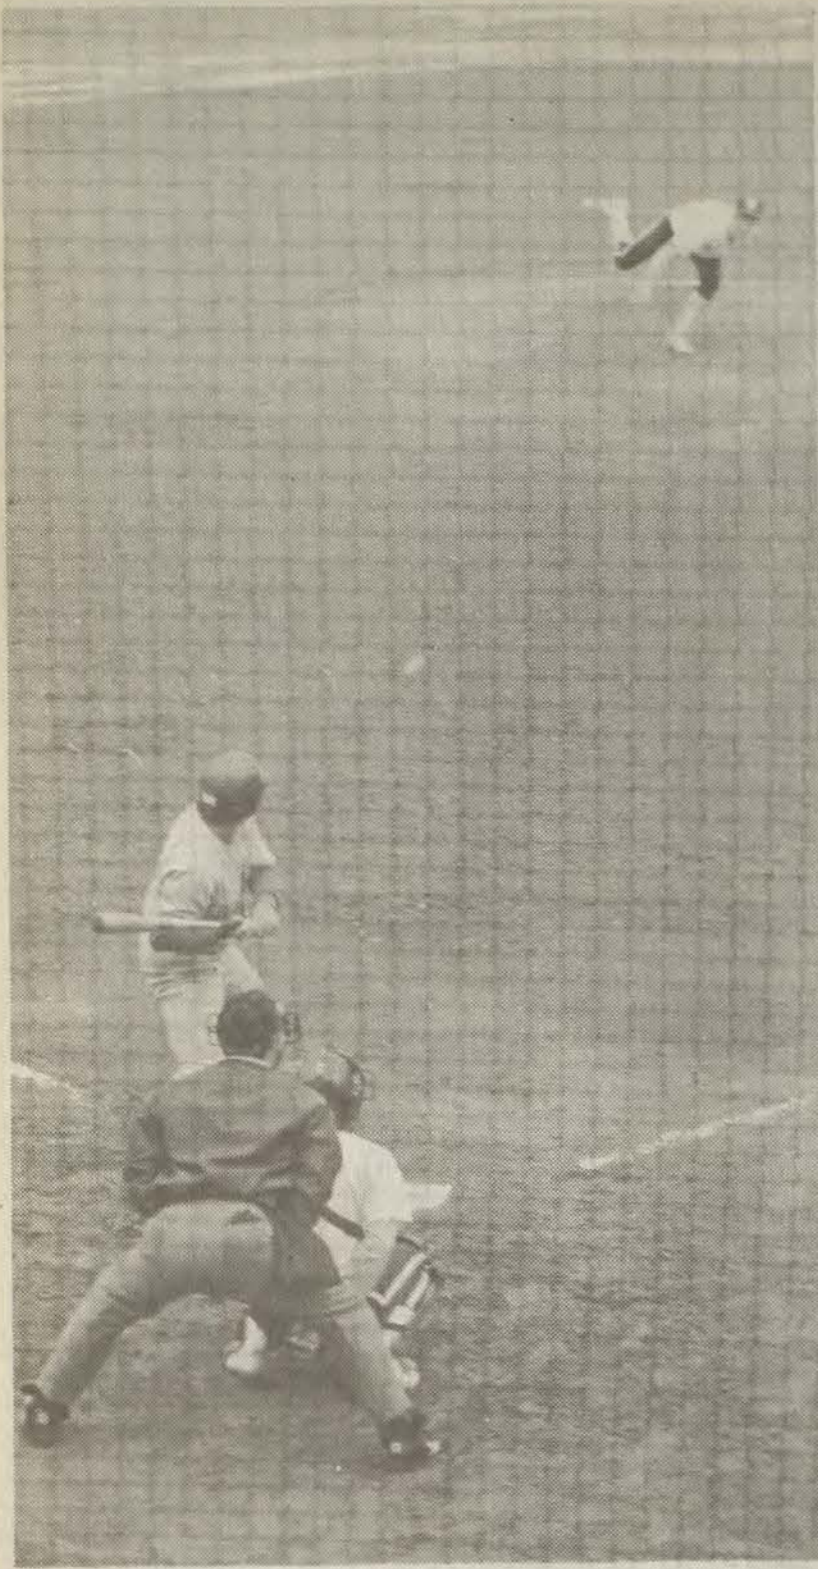

A native of Louisville, Jordan played her high school basketball at Ballard High, the alma mater of Lady Topper Lori Abell. An All-District, All-Region and All-State selection, Jordan's Bruins went 23-5 her sophomore year, 23-5 her junior season and 24-6 her senior year. She averaged 23 points and seven rebounds as a senior, earning Converse All-America honors.

"Christy Jordan will give us instant experience and quickness in the backcourt," commented WKU Head Coach Paul Sanderford. "She has great enthusiasm for the game and is a hard worker. I know she is looking forward to next year."

Jordan said her decision to continue her basketball career at Western was an easy one. "I have been coming to Western's camps since I was a freshman in high school, so I was very familiar with the campus and the program. Western is like one big, happy family. I liked the coaching staff, the players and the overall atmosphere and I just want to be a part of that."

Jordan is the third Lady Topper signee this season. She joins early signees Ida Bowen of Sheldon Clark and Veronica Cook of Franklin-Simpson on the list of Lady Topper recruits.

Western Ky Announces 1991 Football Schedule

Western Kentucky University football coach Jack Harbaugh and his Hilltoppers are looking for better things in 1991!

Better, that is, than last year's disappointing 2-8-0 record. But, that will be another challenge against a rugged schedule.

Western's '91 slate will run 11 games, including matchups with three schools — Middle Tennessee and Northern Iowa at home and Eastern Kentucky on the road — that earned berths in last fall's NCAA playoffs.

The Hilltoppers will play six games at home for the first time since 1986 — five of those in the first seven outings of the campaign.

The Toppers kickoff the '91 season on the road at Austin Peay September 7 (6:30 p.m.). Then, its back to the friendly confines of L.T. Smith Stadium the following weekend (September 14, 7 p.m.) where Western hosts Murray State in the home opener — the first contest in a three game homestand for WKU.

The remainder of the Hilltopper home slate features cross state rival Morehead State (Sept. 21), Middle Tennessee (Oct. 5), Troy State (Homecoming, Oct. 19), Northern Iowa (Oct. 26) and Eastern Illinois (Nov. 9). The Morehead and MTSU games will kickoff at 7 p.m. and the Homecoming date with Troy State is set for 5:30 p.m. The November matchup with Eastern Illinois will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Western's other 1991 trips take the Toppers to Eastern Kentucky (Oct. 12), UT-Chattanooga (Nov. 2), Indiana State (Nov. 16) and Illinois State (Nov. 23).

Traditional rivals Austin Peay and Murray State return to the Hilltopper schedule this fall after a year's absence. And, Troy State as well as Northern Iowa are new names on the slate. However, WKU and Troy have met once previously (a 10-10 tie in 1976) and the Toppers squared off against Northern Iowa twice in the 1970's, winning both contests.

Last year, Western posted victories over Morehead State (24-0) and Illinois State (19-9), but dropped decisions to Middle Tennessee (20-7), Eastern Kentucky (35-12), Eastern Illinois (28-6), Indiana State (29-27) and UT-Chattanooga (22-21).

Four of the toppers 1991 opponents posted winning records in the '90 campaign (three of those en route to I-AA playoff action) and a fifth reported in at .500. Austin Peay suffered through an 0-11-0 year. But, the rest of WKU's '91 opposition went a collective 61-52-0 (54 percent).

Through the years, Western has met the 11 teams on the '91 schedule a total of 287 times, winning 167 games, losing 104 and tying 16, an impressive .610 success ratio!

The Hilltoppers hold series advantages over six of those teams — Austin Peay (28-4-1, Morehead State (37-7-2), Eastern Kentucky (37-28-3), Murray State (28-22-7), Illinois State (5-0-0) and Northern Iowa (2-0-0). ON the other hand, Eastern Illinois (7-1-0), UT-Chattanooga (7-3-0) and Middle Tennessee (by the narrowest 28-27-1) hold an edge in action with WKU gridiron teams. And, Topper teams are .500 versus Indiana State (1-1-1) and Troy State (0-0-1).

RECIPROCAL AGREEMENT DISSOLVED

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has dissolved the reciprocal license agreement with Tennessee as of April 18. The move affects sport fishermen and waterfowl hunters on Kentucky Lake as well as anglers on Dale Hollow Lake.

In the past, either Kentucky or Tennessee fishing licenses were valid on portions of both lakes identified as "reciprocal zones," and sportsmen followed the regulations of the state which issued their license. In other words, Kentucky licensed anglers followed Kentucky's size and creel limits while Tennessee's fishing regulations applied to those with a Tennessee fishing license. The same held true on hunting licenses for Kentucky Lake waterfowl hunters.

Now, however, Kentucky Lake anglers and waterfowl hunters, and fishermen at Dale Hollow, will need an appropriate Kentucky license when on Kentucky waters and a Tennessee license when on Tennessee waters.

A difference in fishery management philosophies between Kentucky and Tennessee authorities triggered the dissolution of the agreement which dates back to the '60's.

KDFWR has implemented stricter size and creel limits on Kentucky and Barkley lakes to aid in rebuilding crappie populations hampered by poor reproduction in the drought years of the mid-80's. Hopefully, these changes will produce the kind of fishery Kentucky anglers repeatedly have said they want — quality size fish.

"The fish and wildlife department of Kentucky anglers are very concerned about maintaining quality fishing opportunities in this portion of Kentucky Lake," said KDFWR Commissioner Don R. McCormick.

Much to the credit of Kentucky anglers, they willingly agreed to stricter size and creel limits to insure a healthy, quality crappie fishery now and for the future.

Tennessee has no minimum size limits on crappie — or black bass.

The issue became a matter of fairness. Was it fair for a Kentucky angler to have to pup back small eight- and nine inch crappie or bass while the person in the boat beside him — fishing on Tennessee license — could keep any fish he wanted? The state fish and wildlife department and Kentucky fishermen didn't think so.

"Most of the people we've talked to on that end of the state say we (the department) should have done it a long time ago," according to Pete Pfeiffer, director of KDFWR's fisheries division. "They're concerned that Tennessee's regulations are too liberal to properly care for the resource and that Kentucky anglers were getting an unfair deal."

So, the longstanding reciprocal licensing agreement was dissolved.

The affected area at Kentucky Lake essentially lies between the mouth of Jones Creek and the mouth of Cypress Creek. The actual state line is the center of the main lake channel now marked by red and black buoys. To the west of the buoys is Kentucky water, to the east is Tennessee water.

A reciprocal zone never existed on Lake Barkley. That lake crosses a "horizontal" (east-west) border, and the type of license needed and the rules to be followed are simply determined by which state you're fishing in.

Dale Hollow Lake, most of which is in Tennessee, meanders back and forth across the state line in the southcentral portion of Kentucky. Although the world famous fishery is unaffected by any new size or creel limits, its reciprocal license zone was part of the Kentucky Lake agreement, to exist. Those fishing in the Kentucky portion of Dale Hollow Lake must have a Kentucky fishing license and follow Kentucky regulations, while those fishing the Tennessee portion must have a Tennessee license and follow Tennessee laws.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER® PROS

One of America's all-time favorite game-fish is the ever popular crappie. Found in nearly every fresh water stream, lake, pond and reservoir and rated #1 for table fare, this prolific specie goes by a number of favorite names. In Tennessee it's a slab, in Georgia a "Krappy", in Florida a speckled perch and in Bayou Country it's a Sacalait (Sok-A-Lay).

Crappie move shallow in early spring to spawn near structure. They love fallen trees, brush piles, weed beds and rock piles. After spawn they do prefer to stay near deep structure and most always run in schools.

In a private pond or small lake, a couple well placed bales of hay in shallow water will provide excellent habitat for spring time crappie.

Mountain pleasure horse association is registering Kentucky gaited horses

Kentuckians love their horses, and the state has been very prominent in the development of American Saddlebreds, Walking Horses and other gaited horses. One of the less recognized (so far) easy riding horses developed here is the Mountain Pleasure Horse, and the Mountain Pleasure Horse Association is currently registering horses to form the nucleus of this new registry.

The Mountain Pleasure Horse is a combination of several of the gaited type horses that were available to the savvy Kentuckians who bred for their ideal horse that was easy riding, but would step out and cover some ground, which they could ride all day and had the temperament to do anything required.

The resulting horse, to this day, used to pull the plow or mower on steep slopes and provide hours of sure-footed riding enjoyment in places you'd swear a horse couldn't go. These breeders couldn't afford the luxury of having one horse to work, another horse for the children to ride and yet another horse for their personal riding enjoyment—so they bred the horse that could do it all. This horse is a curious mixture of family pet and farm implement and is uniquely a product of Eastern Kentucky.

The MPHA will accept stallions for the "foundation registry" only until July 1, 1991. After that deadline, a male horse must be by a registered Mountain Pleasure horse and out of a registered Mountain Pleasure mare in order to be registered as a Mountain Pleasure Horse. So it is important that owners of stallions contact the MPHA soon about registering their horses with the Association. The registration books for mares will be open for about a year and a half, but the exact deadline for mare registrations has not yet been set.

Trail riding is a high priority for the owners of these horses. Great pride is taken in knowing special trails that you can share with friends, and all the participants take pride in challenging their horses with the length of the ride, the speed of the ride, and the terrain to be traveled.

The current population of Mountain Pleasure Horses is relatively small at this point because these breeders have raised only enough horses to satisfy their personal riding/work requirements. A good riding mare is not bred if she's needed for working and the family has no need for an additional horse at this point. As a result, the population of horses does not grow because there's not, currently, an economic incentive to take the mare "out of commission" by impregnating her. That's one thing the MPHA plans to change.

Furthermore, good stallions may service only five or six mares a year because there is not an exchange of information about the stallions available. Currently the owner of a mare breeds to a stallion owned by his next door neighbor or, indeed, a stallion he owns himself. While there is an amazingly broad population of these horses throughout Eastern Kentucky, there is relatively little cross pollination of bloodlines.

The common denominator is that all of these horses have an evenly spaced, four beat, lateral gait with moderate forward speed and extension, without exaggerated knee and hock action. The two key attributes are the natural gait and amiable disposition, which breed true. Proper breeding will enhance these desirable characteristics in successive generations and no action devices, aids or harsh training methods are permitted.

To ensure that these two key attributes are not diluted by ill-advised breeding, all horses submitted for registration with the MPHA must be inspected, videotaped and approved for registration by vote of the MPHA Board of Directors. To further ensure the integrity of this breed, all horses accepted for registration must be bloodtyped before registration papers will be issued.

The introduction of bloodtyping is a foreign one for most of the old-time breeders of the Mountain Pleasure Horse—proving parentage of a horse was not as important as proving the riding ability and disposition. And it adds to the cost of breeding a registered Mountain Pleasure Horse (the total registration cost is $75 for adult horses). But this element is one the Association deemed essential to 1) establish the background and history of the breed, and 2) establish credibility when marketing these horses to people becoming newly acquainted with the breed.

There is potentially a tremendous demand for these horses. This is truly a pleasure horse for people of all ages and all levels of riding skills. Selling the Mountain Pleasure Horse is not the primary challenge facing the MPHA. Establishing a basis for the breed so that the supply of Mountain Pleasure Horses is not dangerously diminished by selling to "outsiders" is the primary challenge. Our goal is to firmly establish this breed as an additional natural/economic resource in Eastern Kentucky, while bringing about a recognition of this very special product developed by eastern Kentuckians over the last 100 years.

For further information about whether your horse qualifies for registration as a Mountain Pleasure Horse, or to arrange for your horse to be inspected for registration, you can write the MPHA, P.O. Box 670, Paris, Ky. 40361; or call David May (Salyersville, 349-2534); Paul Stamper (Ezel, 725-5635), Shirley Combs (Campton, 668-3089), or Gordon Layton (Paris, 987-4604).

Local student is member of academic team on way to National Tourney

A team of students from Kentucky State University, including Ralph Davis III, a senior liberal studies and political science major and son of Ralph and Ann Davis of Prestonsburg, will advance next month to the national finals of an academic "college-bowl"-styled competition.

KSU's Campus All-Star Challenge team won its sectional tournament in Nashville on April 6-7, beating out six other teams. At the national finals in Los Angeles, the team will compete with winners and runners-up from seven other sectionals for nearly $250,000 in scholarship awards. The top prize is $50,000 for academic scholarships for the winning school.

Campus All-Star Challenge is based on the old television show, "College Bowl," and features quick-recall question-and-answer competition. It is sponsored by the American Honda Motor Co., Inc.

The finals are scheduled to be televised on the BET cable network this summer.

KSU's 1990 team placed fifth in the nationals, losing in the quarter finals, but earning $5,000 for the university's scholarship fund. Davis was a member of that team.

Pikeville Hillbilly Classic To Resume Sunday With 3 Games

Rain and cold weather played havoc on the Second Annual Pikeville Hillbilly Days Classic high school baseball tournament at Pikeville over the past weekend. Thursday's games got off all right under some blue skies.

But when Friday rolled around, the threat of rain loomed all day long. Games between Millard-Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg-Shelby Valley were postponed until Saturday because of inclement weather. Last Sunday the semifinals and finals were again scheduled to be played but the weather did not cooperate and the tournament has been postponed until this Sunday, weather permitting.

In the first game at 2 p.m. Johns Creek will face host Pikeville. Betsy Layne will battle Shelby Valley in the second semifinal game at approximately 4:30 p.m. The two winners will meet at around 7 p.m. for the championship game.

It has been a great tournament thus far, despite the cold weather. Some very good baseball had been played and good crowds have turned out to take in the games.

Pikeville tournament officials have done an excellent job of putting on this great tournament. High school baseball is exciting and fun to watch. The 15th Region is wide open this year with several teams having a chance to advance later in May.

After church and dinner Sunday, drop by the Pikeville field and take in an afternoon of some good high school baseball.

Small World

The good life

Now that the Persian Gulf War has ended and the troops we were so concerned about have been returning home, this beautiful spring weather is appreciated all the more.

Flowers are blooming in profusion, even the wild ones on the hill-sides and along the road. The goodness of God is all about us and, if things are reasonably well with us, surely we can call it "living the good life."

That expression could also apply to some of the creatures we see about us. For instance, there is a lone squirrel that lives and plays in the trees near our house. It has thrived on the walnuts left on the ground where we didn't quite gather them all from last year.

We have enjoyed watching this small animal though it always keeps its distance from us. And lest it run off to greener pastures and to play in other families' trees, I have been setting out pans of peanuts bought especially for it. I've also been giving it the dried walnuts I spent long hours gathering and hulling so I would have for salads and candies. I hope our squirrel thinks it has the good life.

There is at least a pair of robins that also have things going their way.

About two years ago we set out five apple trees in the field out back. They are growing and blooming but some weeks ago my husband noticed that one of them was growing crooked. He got some nice string and tied to the tree, then anchored it to a stake driven in the ground. He wanted the tree to grow straight like the others.

Sometimes Walter sits on the back steps or at the picnic table to watch the squirrel and the many birds that are usually around.

One morning he noticed two robins trying to build a nest. One sat with the first few straws on a tree limb high above the ground. The other was out by the apple tree he had braced with the string. It was pulling earnestly at the cord that would be a soft addition to the new nest.

The string was too strong for the robin's beak—but the bird didn't know that, and every morning he has worked diligently while his mate waited and watched.

Sometimes he would stop to rest on the ground or a post, and all the time he would be looking at the object of his desire as if trying to plan a new way to approach it. With a new start, he would get a firm grasp and pull the string so tight the small tree would give only to snap with enough force to jolt the robin. But still he never gave up.

I went to the door this morning and noticed that the string was gone. "Walter, come back and look," I said. "That robin finally got your string."

"Yes, I know," he answered. "He had a little help."

"Help from where?"

"The days are getting on," he explained, "and they weren't going to get a nest built in time to raise a family. He was determined to have that string so I cut it in four pieces. The nest is pretty well finished by now."

Kim's Korner

Often in these columns, you'll read clichés by the dozens. This one is no exception.

At one time or another, we've all heard the saying, "You can't get there from here."

Myself, I kind of figured it was mostly used by out-of-towners who tried to get to the now out-of-business Arby's here in Prestonsburg. You have to admit it was a weird location for a restaurant.

At any rate, Jeff and I left here last Wednesday for Louisville. We were going down for the Kentucky Press Association Seminar and Awards Banquet.

Neither of us was familiar with Louisville and, boy, could you tell it.

Our destination was the Galt House East, located on 4th and River. Sounds easy enough, doesn't it.

What some people failed to tell us was the many one-way streets we would encounter. We found 4th Street right off the bat. But the problem was where the Galt House was located. We couldn't get there from where we were.

We were getting so aggravated, it was unreal.

There we were, circling 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th streets over and over again.

Finally, we were stopped by a red light. As I stuck my head out the passenger's side window (to get a better view of a two-way street), I noticed these two guys cracking up as I was screaming for Jeff to turn right at the next light.

They must have thought I was nuts.

To make a long story short, we did indeed make our destination. Worn out and exhausted, we couldn't wait to get to our rooms.

This cute-as-a-button (college student) bellboy politely takes our luggage and we were off to the 12th floor.

Once we were in our rooms, we were happily pleased at how nice they were. Jeff and I made a pact, the car would stay in the parking garage until Friday when we were to return home.

On Thursday morning, we were to join the rest of KPA members at the seminar in the Weatherby Room.

In the newspaper business, or should I say advertising, we speak with several other papers daily. We sat at a table with two ladies who had smiling, friendly faces. As I began to pull out my chair and we looked at each other and smiled, I said, "Hi, I'm Kim Frasure with the Floyd County Times."

One of the ladies said, "I thought that was you when I saw you come in the door. I'm Rose Ann with the Big Sandy News (at Louisa), and this is Melody."

Rose Ann and I had spoken on many different occasions, but we'd never met.

It was really weird that we'd chosen to sit at a table with people we talk to every other week.

"How did you know me?" I asked.

"From your column with your picture," she said.

Wow, I said.

The seminar began and we were all ears to Mr. Burning's suggestions on how we could improve our departments. Time passed quickly and we were, too soon, to go to brunch.

A gentleman stepped up to the podium and said, "People, I have good news and I have bad news."

The good news — lunchtime is here and the food is almost ready!

The bad news — We'll be dining in the Wilkinson Room.

It didn't take long to figure out that Governor Wally was not a favorite in these parts.

Later on Thursday evening, Jeff and I and the girls from Big Sandy News were going to go over to the the Galt House West and try out the River Grill for dinner.

We got off the elevator on the second floor and saw several men in navy blue suits standing around another gentleman.

"Looks like IBM," I said. "Let's go around them."

As I turned to see if the gang was behind me, I was face to face with Governor Wilkinson. Well, hello, Governor Wilkinson, I said.

What else does one do when you're staring the governor in the face.

Needless to say, the gang was laughing hysterically. I couldn't help but say how much the governor looked like my father-in-law — and Jeff and the girls couldn't believe I did.

You guys do look alike, Ron!

The awards luncheon was on Friday and we came home smiling from ear to ear.

The Floyd County Times came away with a first place, two second place, and one third place award.

Sure made the trip worthwhile, even if we had a heck of a time getting there.

Till next week.

Jenny Wiley AARP works toward a better future for elderly

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Jenny Wiley Chapter No. 3528 AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) is making an impact on the world of the elderly and low income.

AARP is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping older Americans achieve independent, productive retirement lives. The local chapter of AARP accomplishes these objectives through its community programs, its commitment to each member, and its support of the national chapter.

Each year, the AARP sponsors a Tax-Aide program to help older citizens or the low income prepare tax forms. The service is free and members of the AARP volunteer their time to help prepare tax statements. Arnold Moore, local coordinator of this program, said AARP volunteers assisted more than 700 people this year.

"Sometimes," said Moore, "that assistance was simply answering someone's questions."

Another program helps relieve the financial burden of the elderly by lowering insurance premiums.

AARP's 55 Alive Mature Driving Course is available to anyone 50 and older. It is held two or three times each year, depending on the need for the clinic. At least 15 individuals must attend the refresher course before it can be held. To be eligible for the insurance discounts, participants must take the course every three years.

"It reduces your insurance premium, besides making you a safer driver," said James E. Goble, treasurer of the local chapter.

Another aid to the elderly and low income is the Health Fair held each year. Complete blood work, eye and dental exams, and EKGs are just a few of the screenings offered. The health fair is co-sponsored by Highlands Regional Medical Center, where the fair is usually held. This year, however, the fair will be held during the Senior Citizens Olympics at Jenny Wiley State Park.

AARP also offers health insurance to its members. Goble told of a young woman who could not receive Medicaid Supplementary Insurance because she was a few years shy of the age requirement — 65. Although her husband had insurance coverage, she was without it. Goble made a call and discovered the woman was eligible for another type of insurance coverage through AARP.

Another aspect of the AARP is its Legislative Committee, which keeps tabs on legislative priorities. Representatives of the group work with government leaders to promote passage of legislation beneficial to Kentucky's older population. Chalmer Frazier, a member of the Jenny Wiley chapter, serves on the state Legislative Committee. Ruby Akers is chairman of the local Legislative Committee.

A fringe benefit of AARP membership is a membership card which provides discounts on motel rooms, rental cars, etc. National membership to the AARP costs $5 annually for both husband and wife. Local membership is $2 for each individual.

AARP is also a place to socialize. Occasionally, AARP members plan excursion trips, such as a boat ride on Dewey Lake. At each meeting, held at Highlands Regional Medical Center on the third Friday of each month, guest speakers present topics to assist the elderly. Speakers from Mended Hearts, Inc., Social Security Administration, and the hospital's pharmacy and dietary departments have presented lectures to the group. The group meets at the hospital's cafeteria around 6 p.m. for supper and then moves to the meeting room for the business session.

The Jenny Wiley Chapter of AARP was instituted on December 9, 1982, and was organized in the First Presbyterian Church. Jack Freed, the chapter's first president, was instrumental in establishing the chapter. Freed served as president of the chapter for two years. Other presidents have included James E. Goble, who served three years; Orville Cooley, two years; Dorothy Osborne, one year; and Sina Blanton, who is the current president.

Other chapter officers include Gladys Allen, vice president; Shirley Callihan, secretary; and James E. Goble, treasurer.

With its growing membership, AARP is a volunteer service with a strong voice. Its motto is "to serve, not to be served," and the local chapter is fulfilling that motto. Its volunteers are dedicated individuals who strive to serve their community and state.

A large, yellow status symbol

A line from "Sixteen Tons," one of Tennessee Ernie Ford's big hit records, says, "I owe my soul to the company store." No doubt, in many cases that was true. But sometimes as I look back, I think perhaps that I might owe even more than that.

While in the 1940s the Northeast Coal Company store was many things to many people, to me the large, yellow, frame structure became a kind of status symbol.

It became a place where, as a 10-year-old boy in faded overalls, I could go on those long, hot and dusty summer days to be (and act) cool. I really felt ten feet tall and bullet proof when I got old enough to be sent after certain items instead of having to tag along with Mom or Dad when they needed a pound of nails or a box of starch.

On those days when Dad and Mom didn't need anything the shaded store porch was a neat place to sit — to observe the busy activities of the community, to watch the C and O shifter pull loaded gons of coal from the Number Three mine.

Grown men who worked on the night shift would sometimes gather on those long afternoons, and I'd gather with them. We'd sit and watch the cars go up and down the highway in front of Fred Sherman's house, or count the loaded coal trucks that dumped into the tippie hopper that sat behind the store.

I'd pour a bag of salted peanuts into a bottle of Spur Cola and sit and sip while they'd chew, whistle and spit and say how the night shift was better than the day shift, but they sure were glad they weren't on the hootowl.

As the conversion shifted from Ted Williams to Joe Louis to John L. Lewis, and the piled-up shavings would be spread across the steps by gentle summer breezes, I'd spend those afternoons in a state of manliness — until everyone got bored and went home or until my little brother Joe would come and say that Mom wanted me.

So, even though the company store was the chief provider for all those things essential for keeping the stomachs of the miners and their families full, it was much more than fact.

For a long time it had the only phone in the community, and emergency calls were made from (and to) the store. Furthermore, the glass showcases that sat gleaming in front of well-stocked shelves of food items, featured all sorts of clothes, shoes and assorted dry-goods.

Once I went with Dad to the second floor and helped pick out my first (and only) bicycle. It was a Schwinn. I rode it until it literally fell apart.

As I look back to those days, the old company store represented a place and time in my life where I straddled the shaky fence between childhood and adolescence — where just being there unaccompanied by an adult — meant I was no longer just a kid.

I'll never forget its sweet, musty smell or the way my bare feet felt on that cool, oily, wooden floor as I'd strut through the large front doors, slap down my nickel on the tall, wooden counter and say, "Gimme a chilly Imp."

I owe many pleasant memories to the company store.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge NO. 31 meets

Members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met in regular session on April 16. The Noble Grand, Jean Hickman, presided. Goble, a member of the board of directors of K.R.T.A., both of whom had recently attended the state meeting, in Louisville.

Assistant Professor of Psychology
Prestonsburg Community College

For Bill Loftus, It Was A Better Way To Get Home Sooner.

Bill was lucky. He walked away from his car wreck last September. His seat belt probably saved his life, but it left him with a nagging pain in his lower abdomen. He toughed it out for two months before seeing his family physician, Dr. Blake Burchett. It was a hernia, needing surgical repair.

Bill did some homework on the hospital, a surgeon and even an anesthesiologist. He checked costs and reputations, looking for the right balance between economy and quality care. He needed to be in and out of surgery fast, and back home as soon as he could. The answer was Same Day Surgery at Highlands.

Bill is one of a growing number of smart healthcare consumers who ask for information and prices these days. With the help of his family doctor, his surgeon, Dr. William Cook, and the surgical and nursing staff at Highlands, he learned what he needed to know.

"We went into all the little details...how long it would take...what we were going to do...what recovery time would be like. I wanted to get in, I wanted to get it done and I wanted to get out. Everything went like a well-oiled machine...the people were wonderful, the care and concern that I experienced was wonderful."

To learn more about Same Day Surgery, ask your family doctor or call Ann Martin at Highlands, toll free 1-800-533-HRMC or locally, 886-8511.

All cookbook collectors out there, a new one is on the local market. Having only seen this one at a glance, I can't say too much about the recipes except the ones that were copied for me. They seem to be good ones and some are different. The book is from the Doison Pentecostal Church, John Randall Calhoun, pastor. The book can be purchased from any member of the church. The cookbook can also be obtained by calling him or his wife, Judy.

 2 c. oil
 2 c. vinegar
 2 (18 oz.) ketchup

TIPS FOR BUYING CHEESE:

Smell the cheese, if any ammonia odor is present, do not buy as the cheese is overripe and will have an unpleasant flavor.
 Check the texture. A firm cheese should feel slightly elastic and have no soft spots. A soft cheese should feel soft but not liquid.
 A soft rind should be evenly colored and moist. A firm rind should not have any cracks or bulges.
 Ask to sample the cheese before you buy. This is an accepted practice in cheese shops, deli's and many supermarkets.

Cabbage Patch

by: Marie Harmon

Carrots, rich in vitamin A should occupy a prominent place in every home garden. Carrot seeds are very, very small and hard to sow evenly, unless you mix them with a teacup of fine, dry sand.

This mixture, thoroughly stirred, can then be sown quite evenly in a shallow trench. Some will sprout their seed between two layers of wet paper for four days. They are then allowed to dry out just enough to be able to handle them easily.

The soil that carrot seeds are planted in must be well prepared. It should be deep, and well pulverized. Carrots will do well in any soil, but it should be free of lumps and rocks, because these will cause the roots to split and become deformed.

Carrots are another hardy vegetable. They can and should be sowed as soon as the ground can be made ready. To sow the seed in a trench, stretch a string down the row next to the ground and pull the corner of a hoe lightly near the string. Sow the seed and cover very lightly with fine soil. The seed can be covered easily by pulling an upside down rake along the trench. As carrot seeds are slow to germinate it is a good idea to leave the string in place until they start coming up. The planting or sowing of an occasional radish seed will help to break up any crust on top and also mark the carrot row. After the radishes are large enough to pull, they will not damage the carrot seedlings.

As most of the cultivation of carrots is done by hand, the rows can be closer together than most vegetables, unless you wish to plow or till the balks. Heavy thinning often makes the difference in a crop of good carrots and a crop of small stringy ones. Carrots need room to grow.

Never plant the long tapering type carrots here as the soil in most gardens is too hard and has a tendency to pack, even when a ridge is built up. I have found the Denver half-long carrot to be the best all round seed for this area. I am not saying, by no way, for you to sow only this type. What works well for me might not be satisfactory for you.

Carrots are generally disease and insect free. If you have a wireworm problem in your garden, then a light sprinkling of wood ashes should be all you will need to reduce their activities.

Carrots should be weed free. Mulching the carrot rows will eliminate the tedious hand weeding job. For the best of taste and more vitamin content leave your carrots in the ground until after frost. Then dig and store your carrots for winter use. Stored carrots have more nutritional value than canned or frozen ones.

KENTUCKY POWER EMPLOYEES AND CUSTOMERS "THANK YOU"

We've just come through one of the most devastating storms in recent history. More than 47,000 of the homes, schools, stores, and other businesses in 14 eastern Kentucky counties lost their electricity in the widespread damage caused by the wind, hail, rain, and tornadoes the evening of April 9.

Many of Kentucky Power's employees didn't see their families for a couple of days as they, joined by workers from other states, toiled around the clock to restore power to everyone. We are extremely proud of our employees and their tireless and unselfish efforts in this disaster.

Our customers have shown patience and understanding during this difficult time. Our telephone system was jammed for nearly 24 hours, and even though we had many people answering your calls, it took a while for some of you to get through. And because of the widespread damage to our poles, lines, and transformers, some of you were without electricity for 24 hours or more.

We are happy to report that our people worked throughout this hectic period under adverse conditions with no serious injuries. We congratulate them for this.

We thank them for a job well done... and our customers for their support.

Loafer's glory, part 2:

Tricks, treats and humor at Eastern

Back in the good ole days at Eastern many a trick was pulled to have a little fun. Probably the worst was the painting of a sawmill on Sawmill's cow one Halloween night and pushing over Windy Britches' new out house on another Trick or Treat night. Soaping of cars and the schoolbus windows was always fun for the less adventuresome. One of the worst was when pranksters, old enough to know better, hid on the cemetery hill and threw fresh cow manure on the passing cars. Someone reported it to the State Police who came and chased them home.

The most frightening, yet harmless, was when kids from out-of-state brought a new trick. The idea was to frighten drivers, but then remove the dangerous looking object before they drove to it. This is the way they prepared it.

First, the boys found a wire long enough to reach across the highway. Then they placed newspapers across it, with the fold riding on the wire. Next they found two poles long enough to raise up the paper barrier, and twisted the wire around them at one end. The group divided in half, taking up stations on each side of the road. By lifting the poles upward until the paper was about a yard above the highway, they raised and lowered their contraption for several hours that night.

Some drivers stopped to look to see if it was safe to drive over while the pranksters lay safe and silent in the deep ditches along the sides of the highway. One motorist flashed a light around but either did not see them or respected the cleverness of their work enough to let it go on. Kids who knew about the plan, but were not allowed to go out to participate, could hear the cars slowing down and knew that they had got another one. It was hard to wait until next day to hear the outcome.

All of the kids looked forward to Halloween. We borrowed or removed without permission, ears of dried corn from the fields before dark, to tickle with. The shelled kernels were put into deep pockets or a bag for the purpose of carrying it as we walked from house to house. With some kind of disguise, we set out to visit every home in town. One moonlight Tick Tack night I found a shiny dime in the road. Happily, I placed it in the same pocket as my corn. By mistake I tossed it away with the corn, somewhere along our path.

When we arrived at a home, one person was selected to go up to knock. When the owner came to the door the old Trick or Treat threat was made to them. Most gave us treats to keep us from playing a trick on them. Some treats were apples, popcorn balls stuck together with boiled molasses, or other homemade goodies. If they had no treats, we peppered their roof with corn as soon as they closed their door. If they opened it again, they saw no one there, but they could hear us running off into the darkness. Much to our dismay, once a tiny Ticktacker, out for their first Halloween experience, threw corn on the home representative who came to the door. If he had not been wearing glasses his eyes may have been injured.

Most all the houses had tin roofs. If we knew the person was friendly, we would begin our approach with a tiny shower of corn. With pauses in between, we increased the attack until the person invited us in. Since most everyone raised chickens, they did not object to the rain of dried corn in their yards. The birds always helped with the cleanup. Once a senior citizen, Kendall Moore, whom we had failed to visit because we thought he would not have any treats, gave out silver coins—quarters and fifty cent pieces. The news came to us after we had returned to our homes. Quickly we went out again, running straight to his home. With much enthusiasm, corn supply gone, we knocked on his door. Too late! He had exhausted his supply.

When we became older and the trick or treat things did not interest us, we found walking on the highway a great way to have fun. Back then, cars were scarce after dark. About 11 p.m. almost none came along. All traveled at a slow speed. We linked our arms together four deep across the road and began to walk military style. Two or three WW II veterans were in the crowd. Someone began to sound cadence. When we grew tired of familiar rhymes, we called out others we knew. My favorite set the beat to the left foot with: "LEFT-LEFT - left my wife and 48 kids and an old gray mare and a peanut stand which I do write when I left! LEFT-LEFT!" This was repeated until another person began another chant.

We walked up and down the straightway, which divided our town, many times. Many a kid was on their best behavior because they feared that Magistrate Zeb Ousley would get them.

When you start dressing up on Halloween you never know who might be interested enough to disguise themselves and go along with the kids. My cousin Nancy was whirling, dancing Topsy with a pair of nylon hose over her head and a suit of men's long handle drawers on over her clothes. For lack of anything better to wear, I put on some of my dad's old clothes, including a brown felt hat, and a pair of canvas work gloves. With the brim pulled low over my face, I developed a silly walk, and no one knew me!

My sister-in-law dressed in a long handle costume with a white diaper for a kerchief on her head. She had told me to go on over to the gathering on the railroad in front of Belve and Vade Osborne's house and she would be along soon. When she came she almost frightened me out of my wits. Otha refused to speak as her voice would give her away. She kept unknown only as long as she could keep her laughter down, which was not long. It was so funny. Out of the darkness, she had come—a white, ghostly figure, walking all humped over, along the railroad track. Never leave people until you see what they plan to wear.

Real Estate

Solid growth expected in third quarter of this year, National Association of Realtors says

Economic indicators suggest the recession is near its end and the recovery should be in place by mid-summer, yet, in order to sustain long-term growth, increased investment is necessary, the National Association of Realtors said today in its most recent outlook report.

According to NAR's April "Real Estate Outlook," which is a monthly forecast for the economy and real estate, the recent burst of home sales and construction activity will help end the recession and start the economy back on a growth track. "Increased consumption spending will help restore the employment losses that were the immediate cause of the slump," says NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo in his monthly economic commentary, which is contained in the outlook.

Tuccillo predicts that the first quarter of 1991 will be the last for any significant declines in gross national product growth for quite awhile, and the second quarter will mark the end of the downturn, with healthy growth returning in the second half of the year.

However, while consumption will produce short-term growth, jobs and a "happier America," it's not the whole story, Tuccillo says. "If we allow the nearsightedness that afflicted the Eighties to infect the Nineties, then expansion will be the exception and stagnation the norm," he warns. Tuccillo says the real economic need at this time is new investment.

"It's hard to think of planning for the future except in terms of impoverishing the present. The reality is that the necessary shifts are marginal—they may pinch but they will not strangle," Tuccillo notes.

The enclosed outlook includes the following predictions for 1991:

- Sales of existing single-family homes are expected to total 3.21 million units, dropping 2.8 percent from 1990.
- Sales of new single-family homes are expected to total 513,000 units, dropping 3.6 percent from 1990.
- Housing starts are expected to total 1.055 million units, dropping 12.2 percent from a year ago. A total of 836,000 starts for single-family units is expected, dropping 7.2 percent from 1990. Starts for buildings with two-to-four units are expected to total 27,000 units, falling 28.7 percent from 1990; and starts for buildings with five or more units are expected to total 193,000 units, falling 26.9 percent from 1990.

• The national median existing-home price is expected to reach $96,300, rising 1.2 percent from last year. The national median new-home price is expected to reach $126,200, rising 3.2 percent from 1990.

• Interest rates for fixed-rate, 30-year mortgages are expected to average 9.2 percent, down from 10.1 percent in 1990. Interest rates for one-year, adjustable-rate mortgages are expected to average 7.5 percent, falling from an average of 8.4 percent last year.

• Real gross national product (the total value of the nation's goods and services) is expected to fall by an average rate of 0.2 percent, compared to an increase of 1.0 percent in 1990.

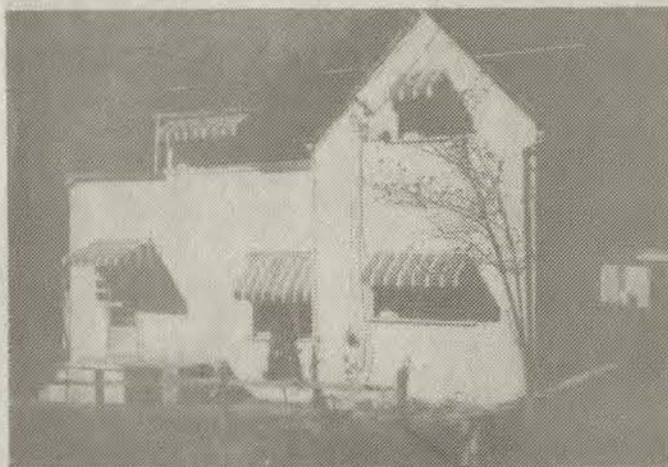

• The civilian unemployment rate is expected to be 6.8 percent, up from 5.5 percent last year.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing more than 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
