Deficits, booster issue draw harsh words :

State's ire is evident

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA) offered strong words at Thursday's special board meeting in two issues facing the Floyd County School System.

Letters from the investigative arm of the state's education department made strong recommendations concerning a letter written by Prestonsburg High School principal Robert May to all high school booster clubs asking them to cease operations and in reference to a two-year old deficit at Martin Elementary.

OEA's director, Dr. Penney Sanders, sent a letter to chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell, board attorney Cliff Latta and superintendent Ron Hager calling May's letter "erroneous and inaccurate" because it said

Hager vows to contest board ouster

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The legality of Thursday's special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education could be questioned because the board secretary named to replace current secretary, superintendent Ron Hager, was not present at the meeting.

After some debate, the board voted 3-2 to name Gary Frazier to serve as secretary, replacing Hager.

Hager took exception to the board's decision by saying that there could be some serious "violations to the law" because state law requires the secretary to present at board meetings.

"I want to go on record that I contest this action of the board," Hager said. Hager said a violation of Kentucky Revised Statute 160.270, which states that "the secretary shall be present at the meetings of the board," could result in board members' removal from office.

"It (being replaced as secretary) was never discussed with me," Hager said. "I contest this action. It's a non-paying job, now it's just a matter of principle."

Chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell appointed Hager as acting secretary until Frazier, who Latta said is on vacation, returns.

Board members Mary Hall and James Duff argued against Hager being replaced and wanted to rescind their yes votes at the July meeting naming Frazier as secretary.

"Can three members of the board have a special meeting, which I think has happened in the past, without notifying the superintendent?" Hall asked board attorney Cliff Latta.

(See Ouster, page two)

all booster clubs at the high school were part of a Kentucky State Police investigation into the weekly bingo games that were held at the school. Sanders also recommended May be reprimanded for his actions.

"The only issue being investigated is the bingo operations at several schools without a proper contract," Sanders' letter said. "Principal May's letter asking booster organizations to cease operations unless they follow the guidelines he set forth is also erroneous.

"He (May) is not qualified or licensed to interpret or recite the law to booster organizations, especially when he fails to follow it," Sanders' letter added. "Principal May's function is as a principal; not to set board policy, he is to follow it."

Sanders' letter also said proper disciplinary action should be taken against May and the board should publicly disavow and rescind his letter to the booster clubs.

Chairman Campbell asked Hager what he intended to do about the situation.

"I'll do my job on it," Hager said smiling. "That letter just came in, it's dated August 1."

Latta recommend the board take formal action to rescind May's letter and publicly state they did not approve of his actions. Latta said it should be pointed out that the law cited in May's letter to the boosters dealt specifically with charitable gaming laws.

Board member James Duff made the motion to publicly disapprove and rescind May's letter and asked the board attorney to review the current policy dealing with booster clubs in relation to the use of school facilities.

Motorcycle accident kills one

A motorcycle accident on Friday, August 2 near Honaker resulted in the death of a Floyd County man Tuesday.

According to state police reports, Edessel Case Jr. of Honaker was driving his 1974 Honda motorcycle west on Route 2030 when he apparently lost control of the bike on a curve and crossed the center line, striking a 1991 Toyota Corolla driven by Clifton Hughes.

The 26-year-old Case was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin and later transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia, where he died at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 6.

Funeral services will be held today (Friday) at the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home at 10 a.m.

Trooper David Maynard was the investigating officer.

Deputies suspect trap, call for backup in raid

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

While presenting a drug awareness and prevention program to a group of Headstart teachers Wednesday at Adams Middle School, Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and D.A.R.E. officer Ricky Thornsby were unaware of the real-life drama unfolding involving the eradication of marijuana in a remote area of the county.

Deputies Lloyd Powers and Don Johnson were on assignment in Skull near Wheelwright checking out tips the department received on marijuana patches in the area. The situation became tense when officers found a patch of marijuana with fishing line around it, which indicated it could be booby-trapped, and when they observed two or three individuals above them on a hillside.

Deputy Powers radioed for assistance at approximately 2:40 p.m., according to a sheriff's dispatcher. Powers indicated the patch might be booby-trapped and reported a suspicious vehicle on the roadway below the area. Powers asked that the sheriff be contacted.

The dispatcher sent a runner to Adams Middle School to inform Thompson and Thornsby about the situation. Before the messenger reached the two, Thornsby had radioed in that they had finished their presentation at the school.

The sheriff and Thornsby immediately proceeded to the scene, traveling on Route 80 to Garrett and then on to KY 7 through Wayland and crossing over Buckingham Mountain at Beaver to Wheelwright. Viewing it as an emergency situation, the officers raced to the scene.

Deputy Thornsby secured the roadway at the location while Sheriff Thompson hiked up the hillside to the two deputies.

"What had me concerned was that the deputies were not in uniform," Thompson said. "If the marijuana belonged to the individuals they observed, they might have thought someone was trying to steal it. Someone could have gotten shot."

Deputy Powers also called for assistance from Wheelwright city policeman Charles Harmon. Harmon arrived at the scene before the sheriff and Thornsby.

When the sheriff arrived at the location, deputy Powers said the individuals he had observed apparently left the area and he discovered the fishing line was being used to hold the marijuana upright.

"I traced the line out and found it was not a booby-trap," Powers said at the scene. "When we first came upon it, I told Don to back-off and wait for assistance. I was afraid we might get shot."

Powers and Johnson cut and removed 59 marijuana plants from the scene and also found water containers in the area. A limited search of the hillside was also conducted, but the officers did not find any more marijuana.

In other eradication efforts, Powers, acting on a tip from a concerned citizen, found and confiscated over 20 marijuana plants near Garrett Tuesday.

Anyone with information about marijuana being grown in Floyd County is urged to contact the sheriff's department at 886-6711 or 1-800-834-5430. All information will be kept confidential.

Third mishap occurs at perilous crossing

by Tess A. Whitmer

The intersection on the east side of Prestonsburg at the entrance to the Jenny Wiley State Park was the site, on Wednesday, August 7, of yet another accident. It was the third accident at that intersection in less than one month.

According to Ricky Conn, investigating officer for the Prestonsburg Police Department, David Pratt, driving an '81 Chevy Malibu, was leaving the park heading west on Route 3 and failed to stop at the intersection of Route 1428, striking a 1985 Dodge Aries driven by Darlene Campbell, 36, of Prestonsburg.

Campbell was in the process of making a left turn from Route 1428 into the park entrance. The front of the Malibu struck the left rear of the Aries, sending the car into a 180 degree tailspin, Conn said.

Campbell was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center to have her leg X-rayed. The passenger of the Malibu, who was also the owner, fled the accident scene. Pratt, 20, of Letcher County, was arrested for DUI (BA .10) and taken to the Floyd County jail.

Deadline passes :

Council ballots are set

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

Tuesday, August 6 was the filing deadline for city council races in Floyd County. Prestonsburg, Wayland, Wheelwright, Allen and Martin all have elections this fall.

Eleven candidates will vie for eight seats on the Prestonsburg City Council in the non-partisan city election this fall.

Eight incumbents and three other Prestonsburg residents beat the filing deadline of August 6. The newcomers to the Prestonsburg race are George Preston Archer, who lives on North Arnold Avenue, James Clay Osborne, residing on South Highland Avenue, and Gorman Collins Sr. of First Avenue.

According to City Clerk Sue Webb, none of these three candidates have run for City Council previously.

The incumbents running for their third term are Danny Hamilton, Charles Hale and Michael Vance. Gary Brown and Jerry Fannin are both seeking the nod for their second consecutive terms.

William O. Goebel is seeking re-election for his fifth consecutive term and William Callihan is running for his fourth.

Bill Ray Collins has been on the council since 1980, except for the years 1986 and 1987 which he did not serve.

Six seats are open for the Martin City Council and six people have filed for election into those positions. Only four of those people are incumbents. Councilmen Joe Simpson and Eric Hayes will not be seeking re-election.

Those registered are incumbents E.P. Grigsby Sr., Denzil Halbert, Ralph Frye, James Robinson and newcomers Jeffrie Randall Jones and Steven Jenkins.

Martin Mayor Raymond Griffith is also running for re-election. He is unopposed.

Four Wayland residents beat the filing date for the November election. They are Tommy Robinson, Robert Stewart, Eugene Mullins and Curtis Tufts. Tufts is the only non-incumbent running.

Wheelwright City Council should be a hotly contested race with eleven candidates vying for four seats.

Incumbent commissioners R. Randal Johnson, Larry J. Mullins, Dennis Holbrook and David Sammons have all filed, as have Lowell Parker, Robert Little, Luther Johnson Jr., Andy Wayne Akers, Alan Taylor, Martha Simmons and Vence Bates.

Both Taylor and Parker ran for mayor of Wheelwright two years ago but lost to Kenneth Johnson. This is Johnson's first term as mayor. Bates also was a candidate for political office two years ago; he sought a seat on the city council but was not elected.

State says no to extensions

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A decision by the Floyd County Board of Education at its July meeting to continue several contracts for security services at county schools has caught the attention of the state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA).

Director of OEA, Dr. Penney Sanders, said Tuesday that as far as her office was concerned the contracts were canceled July 12.

"It was OEA's understanding, based upon a review of the minutes of the June 11, 1991, Floyd County Board of Education meeting that school board order 8002 directed the cancellation of all previous security contracts that were not properly bid," Sanders said Tuesday.

"Recently, OEA has learned that security considerations in Floyd County have prompted action to continue or revise one or more of these contracts until the beginning of the school year," Sanders added. "A letter will be directed to the board of education and the district office re-stating OEA's position that the previous contracts were not properly bid and that they have been directed canceled by unanimous board action, effective July 12.

"This letter will recommend that if security is necessary for a short term, a new contract should be entered into," Sanders said. "Bidding will not be necessary if the terms of the contract call for a total of less than $10,000. If longer term security services are necessary and will result in a contract exceeding $10,000, it should be advertised for appropriate competitive bidding.

"It is neither the desire nor the function of the OEA to deprive Floyd County school systems of needed security services. OEA's only interest is to assure that such contracting is done within the framework of Kentucky Revised Statutes," Sanders concluded.

The board voted at its July meeting to extend two security contracts until September. Board attorney Cliff Latta said Tuesday that he was not sure which contracts had been continued.

The board had contracted with

Deficits

The board voted unanimously to rescind May's directives. May was not present at the meeting.

OEA's second letter addressed an issue of a deficit balance in the general fund at Martin Elementary. The board soon became aware that two other schools also closed the school year with deficits.

Adams Middle School and Duff Elementary, coupled with Martin's deficit, amounted to over $40,000.

Russell Frazier, finance officer for the school board, said Martin finished the year $17,500 in the red; Adams, $21,692; and Duff, $246.08.

The Martin deficit was addressed to the board by a letter from the state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA) asked what steps had been taken by the board and principal William Hughes to erase the deficit.

Chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell directed superintendent Ron Hager to read several letters from OEA investigator Phil Austin addressing Martin school's situation.

A letter from Austin dated July 29, 1991, said he had contacted several companies owed money by the school and the creditors said they had not received payment on the overdue bills.

Austin's letter said that if the board did not take the appropriate action, the matter would be forwarded on to the State Board of Secondary and Elementary Education and the state's Education Commissioner, Thomas Boysen.

The board agreed to pay Martin Elementary's debt, but wanted to know how it occurred. Hughes was asked why the debt had not been erased and how he planned to rectify the situation.

"(It happened) more than anything by not paying close attention (to the financial matters at the school)," Hughes said. "If we could do different types of fundraising, the board has turned us down on a few, we could pay back the board."

Hager said he had written Hughes a letter on July 26 asking him to outline a plan to erase the deficit, but he had not received any response from Hughes.

The board asked that Hughes submit his plan for erasing the deficit. The debts will be paid from the school system's general fund.

The board was informed about the Adams and Duff school's deficits during a report from the annual budget.

Frazier told the board the debts were incurred without his or Hager's authorization.

"Who authorized them?" Campbell asked

"In some cases teachers and in others, the principal," Frazier said. "You can't pay for supplies with (school) construction funds."

Board member Eddie Billips asked Frazier if he would trace the expenditures back to who authorized them and what was bought.

Frazier said he could and the board directed him to present a report at the next meeting.

"We can't pay these bills until we get some answers to this," Campbell said. "Mr. Hager, direct the principals to be at the next meeting and explain this."

"We've got debts amounting to almost $45,000 and nobody knows what they were for and who authorized them," Billips said. "These items were bought without the superintendent or the finance officer being aware of it. Somebody needs to be called in and answer for this."

The principal at Adams Middle School is Thomas Tackett and Ralph O'Quinn is the principal at Duff. Tackett was present during the Thursday meeting, O'Quinn was not.

In other action, the board re-scheduled the August meeting for Monday, August 19 at 6 p.m. at Betsy Layne High School.

All members were present at Thursday's meeting.

ing only one person beat the filing deadline and will be on the ballot in November. Incumbent Gary Elliott is the only person registered to seek election to the Allen City Council where five seats are up for grabs. In addition to Elliott, Anna Bentley, Chris Waugh and Elmer "Fudd" Parsons are the present council members.

The term for a city council member runs two years, with all members coming up for re-election on the same year. The non-partisan races will be on the ballot for city voters during the general election on Tuesday, November 5.

Ouster

Latta said that could conceivably happen, but that all board members would have to be notified of a special meeting.

"They could say they tried to contact the other members," Hall said. "I think if we have a meeting called on short notice, all board members should be sent a letter by certified mail."

Campbell said that would be "no problem."

"I was unaware that the superintendent had a contract that extended until June of next year," Duff said. "It wasn't real clear to me (at the July meeting) that Mr. Hager didn't want to give it up. I assumed he discussed it with (board member) Mr. (Eddie) Billips and told him he wanted to give it up."

Billips made a motion at the July meeting to "relieve" Hager of the secretary's position because of an increase in a superintendent's responsibilities and duties under the state's Education Reform Act.

The board voted unanimous in July to replace Hager.

The day after July's meeting, Hager responded that he had a four-year contract to serve as secretary and he had not relinquished his duties associated with that position.

Latta said after Thursday's meeting that Hager would act as secretary to the board until Frazier returned.

When asked if Hager could refuse the position, Latta said, "I don't think he'd want to. The chairman asked him to do it."

Hager recorded the minutes during Thursday's meeting.

Tip leads police to pot patch

by Dena Johnson

Correspondent

Acting on confidential information, Wheelwright police chief Charles Harmon confiscated 31 marijuana plants at an undisclosed location early Wednesday morning.

Upon finding the plants, Harmon said, "Through eradication efforts, I feel that we can do our part to keep drugs out of the hands of children. This is the first of several crops planned to be destroyed."

The plants, with an estimated street value of $31,000, were destroyed by Wheelwright police sergeant Bill Wagner.

"This was one of several patches we are aware of," Wagner said. "More raids are upcoming. One of our main concerns is getting this stuff off the street."

An investigation has been launched into the incident and arrests are expected.

five security companies to provide patrols at 10 school facility in the county at an average cost of $9,455.60 per month.

Questions were raised in May about the contracts after it was discovered that the contracts were not put out for bids; not all contracts and no performance bonds were on file at the central office; and security personnel could not be found at several of the facilities.

In a related matter, a Martin Elementary parent, who complained to the board about lack of security service at the school, filed a harassment charge May 20 against the owner of one of the security companies.

Tallina Rayburn alleged in her complaint that Bill "Crush" Dingus, owner of B & D Security, harassed her on May 17 at the school grounds about complaining to the board about the lack of security.

Rayburn's complaint alleged Dingus threatened to have someone beat her up.

During arraignment proceedings on the charges Wednesday, August 7, in Floyd County District Court, a pretrial date of November 14 was set.

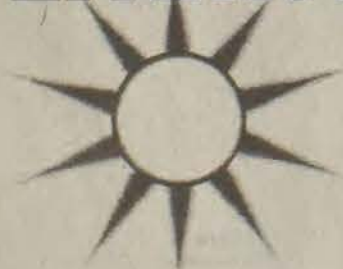

Dingus said in court Wednesday that he "did not know Rayburn," but said Martin principal Bill Hughes had told him Rayburn had been complaining about him.

"The principal told me you were throwing off on me and I just asked you to get off my back," Dingus told Rayburn in district court. "I don't know you lady."

Rayburn said five police vehicles were on Martin's campus the last day of school because she said Dingus had threatened her and she believed those threats.

Dingus' company contracted with the board of education to provide security services for Martin Elementary, Floyd County Technical High School and the bus garage at Garth. The contract said the company would be paid $11.70 an hour for two guards working 96 hours seven days a week. The contract called for a $1 million performance bond. There was no bond for B & D on file at the central office.

Floyd programs receive grant monies from Arts Council

Three Floyd county programs have received grants from the 1992 Kentucky Arts Council.

The Jenny Wiley Theatre received a $12,539 challenge grant; Prestonsburg Community College received a $1,500 grant for orchestral development and appreciation; and Floyd County Schools received a $10,800 grant.

The Kentucky Arts Council approved spring grants totaling $2.4 million. Categories included organization development, challenge grants that match an arts organization's own fund raising efforts, specific projects, artists residencies in the schools and community artist residencies. The grant projects were announced by Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson at the May meeting go council members of Frankfort.

"The arts and Kentucky artists have a special and distinct role to play in increasing the quality of life of all our citizens," Gov. Wilkinson said. "These grants have a positive impact throughout the state, from the smallest to the largest community, in part because they return tax dollars directly to our communities."

Martin Newell, executive director of the council, said the increased funds from the state legislature and the National Endowment for the Arts have helped meet essential needs this year. "Good things are happening as a direct result of state and federal support for the arts. We want to share the credit with the communities who put that money to work."

The council staff is dedicated to making the arts available to all citizens of Kentucky through administering grants and services to individual artists, arts organizations, schools and other groups providing arts programs throughout the state. It is governed by sixteen private citizens appointed by the governor and has a 1992 budget of $4 million, primarily from state and NEA funds.

MSU revamps fall registration

Morehead State University's fall registration, slated for Thursday and Friday, August 15-16, has been redesigned, so that students may register for classes in their major department before going to Laughlin Health Building to pay fees.

"This is a new procedure for regular registration, but we've been scheduling class schedules at the department level for advance registration for some time now," said Gene Ranvier, MSU registrar. "This should alleviate much of the congestion in the registration arena and streamline the entire process."

Students who have not declared a major will begin the process in Allie Young 233. Students who have not previously been admitted or those who have not enrolled since last fall will need to stop first at the Admissions Office in Howell-McDowell 301 if undergraduates or, if graduate students, at Ginger Hall 701.

Registration hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days and entry time into the payment area at Laughlin is based on an alphabetical system by last name. All fees should be paid during this period.

Part-time students will be registered from 5 to 6 p.m. at Laughlin on Thursday and Friday. Registration information nights for the University's off-campus classes will be conducted at the regional centers on Thursday, August 15, from 5 to 7 p.m.

All MSU classes, including evening and off-campus, will begin meeting on Monday, August 19.

Schedule adjustments will be processed Monday through Wednesday, August 19-21, in the student's major department without a penalty fee. Effective Thursday, August 22, through Monday, August 26, drop-adds will be processed in the Office of the Registrar with a $10 late fee charged.

Course directories with a complete listing of classes and registration information are available from the Office of the Registrar, Ginger Hall 201. The telephone number is (606) 783-2008 or toll-free in Kentucky, 1-800-262-7474.

Editorial :

In God We Trust?

by Scott Perry

If we have learned nothing else from the trials of six Eastern Kentucky lawmen charged with providing protection for drug runners, we know that our trust in public servants is worthless when that trust must compete with human greed.

That should come as no particular surprise. After all, the source of that greed offers ample warning of where our reliance should be.

"In God We Trust."

You'll find that "disclaimer" on every scrap of U.S. currency just like you'll find a warning on every pack of cigarettes.

Smoke and you could get sick.

Put your trust in the wrong place and you could get burned.

Law and order in some parts of Eastern Kentucky (we suspect all parts of Kentucky) seems to be available to the highest bidder.

Nothing is more dangerous than a cop on the take.

Nothing is more disturbing than evidence that those we have trusted to fight crime are criminals themselves.

Where do we turn and how do we restore the confidence we must have in those sworn to protect us?

We have no answers.

Greed is an incurable disease.

Cutting energy aid could raise all bills

by Michael Baly III
President,

American Gas Association

Low-income and older Americans will be praying for a very warm winter if Congress dramatically cuts winter heating assistance.

The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) is slated to be reduced almost 40 percent this year, continuing a five-year decline and reducing by more than one million the number of households receiving assistance.

This is not just a poverty issue—cuts in LIHEAP funding affect everyone, because adequate funding plays an important role in keeping bills stable for all customers. Most utilities and state public service commissions have agreements that prohibit customers from being cut off in winter months. Thus the cost of service rises for everyone who is able to fully pay their bills.

Even at its funding peak in 1985, the LIHEAP program helped less than one-third of eligible households. The average LIHEAP benefit is about $200 a year, versus about $1,000 in energy costs. The current program reaches less than 20 percent of eligible families, and a further cut in this winter's funding level will mean that many households will have to choose between heating or eating.

Another dramatic program cut is a giant step backward and confronts the most needy in our society with yet another stumbling block in their efforts to avoid joining the ranks of the homeless.

The U.S. Department of Health & Human Services reports that in 1988, the most recent year data is available, 58 percent of the households receiving LIHEAP benefits had incomes of less than $6,000 annually, and 37 percent of those households contained at least one person over 60 years of age.

Natural gas and electric utilities have long been aware of this severe problem and many of them have organized private fuel assistance funds in cooperation with other community groups. Since the first of these was established in 1977—more than two years prior to the start of the LIHEAP program by Congress—over $134.4 million has been collected and distributed to 857,000 households.

However, the private sector efforts will continue to fall far short of helping all of the households that need assistance, unless the federal government steps in.

As the nation moves toward a free market for energy and creation of a national energy strategy, we must be mindful of the needs of low-income Americans and provide a strong safety net through LIHEAP.

Instead of cutting LIHEAP, the federal government should be increasing it. An estimated 18 to 20 million households in America need LIHEAP to help protect them against health problems, homelessness and other social dilemmas.

If Congress doesn't at least maintain current funding levels for LIHEAP, the nation is taking a big gamble on the winter weather, a gamble that involves millions of Americans.

Editor:

Small-business owners have never questioned the need to provide for workers' compensation insurance. Employees who are injured on the job certainly deserve and need help covering medical costs, as well as a percentage of their wages to make ends meet. It's only fair.

What isn't fair, however, is a recent proposal to increase workers' compensation premiums by a minimum of 24 and as high as 43 percent. The only apparent justification for the increase is that insurance companies believe they aren't making enough money. That's hard to imagine.

And if that's not bad enough, consider that this increase, proposed by the National Council on Compensation Insurance, would be enacted regardless of an employer's history of workers' compensation claims.

They may have never even filed a workers' compensation claim, but employers will suddenly be forced to spend considerably more to provide the same coverage. We hate to remind anyone, but our recession is still a reality and many businesses, particularly small firms, have been and will continue making cutbacks to keep people employed in times of lower revenues.

Perhaps insurance companies should try and do the same—cut back, make do with less—but that's not likely. Especially when you consider that Kentucky insurance companies need no approval before enacting a rate increase, which is like giving someone a blank check!

The National Federation of Independent Business/Kentucky, which represents more than 6,000 small-business owners, certainly hopes that State Insurance Commissioner Elizabeth Wright makes the effort to find out how much workers' compensation really costs and not rely on a national advisory board to tell them that it's not enough.

THE MATH STANDARDS AND KENTUCKY SCHOOL REFORM

by Professor John D. Sammons

There is no doubt that Kentucky is on the threshold of school reform. The mechanism is in place to effect change at all grade levels in the public schools. We are hearing talk of nongraded primaries, a testing program including student portfolios that is unique to Kentucky, and local school councils which will provide the impetus for site based management. In addition to these comments, there is a great deal of talk especially among math teachers and administrators about implementing the Mathematics Standards. What is so significant and important about the Standards?

The Curriculum and Evaluation Standards as proposed by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics are not a product of the Kentucky school reform package. The Standards are the result of a massive undertaking by the NCTM in cooperation with other professional organizations and governmental agencies to improve the quality of mathematics education in the elementary and secondary schools of this nation. Comparisons of various tests indicate that functional mathematical abilities are a matter of grave concern whenever U.S. students are compared with those of other industrialized countries. An excellent overview of this entire scenario can be found in the booklet Everybody Counts. The timing for implementing the Standards just happened to coincide with Kentucky school reform. However, the thrust and intent of the Standards is a plus one correlation with the thrust and intent of the school reform package. The Standards, if implemented properly, should have the effect of raising the student's analytic ability to reason. They accentuate a performance based approach to the learning process as opposed to a skills based approach.

How have the Standards been implemented into Kentucky public schools? First, the Standards have been officially accepted through the Kentucky Mathematics Framework, published by the Kentucky Department of Education, which lists the mathematics curricula and objectives for all grade levels (this book should prove to be of grave interest to parental groups such as PTA's or PTO's). Second, acceptance at the local level has occurred through the adoption of standards based textbooks (the state delayed mandatory textbook adoption for a year to allow a better selection of standards based texts to come on the market). Third, also at the local level, manipulative kits will be purchased by the local school districts to supplement the standards based textbooks.

What are manipulative kits and are they absolutely necessary? The manipulative kits consist of teaching aids to be used in conjunction with the textbooks in this discovery/learning process. The mathematics teacher will be using manipulatives on a daily basis and this kit could possibly be more important than the text itself for the standards based approach. In addition, the necessity for such an approach is even greater whenever one considers the testing program to be implemented in this state. Kentucky is to have a N.A.P.E. (National Assessment of Education Progress which is standards based) like test, the results of which will be used to reward schools that do a good job.

I would add that these manipulative kits, in addition to the necessity of appropriate calculators at all grade levels, are going to be expensive. Understandably, local boards are not used to this type of expense from non-laboratory classes; however, the math classroom of the 90's will be a lab-classroom of sorts. The student will be learning by doing and thusly progressing to higher levels of analytic reasoning ability. If everyone understands this—board members, administrators, teachers in other disciplines, parents, and students it will make the transition to the Standards much easier on mathematics teachers during these difficult times.

John D. Sammons is a mathematics professor at Prestonsburg Community College and is president of the Eastern Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Kentucky Opry
By Billie Jean Osborne

Last Monday night, August 5, was a wonderful surprise for me. I really did not expect such a crowd of people. I want to thank all of you for supporting the Kentucky Opry this summer. I would like to apologize for the show lasting so long. I had to do it. This was to show you the educational side of the Opry. When we get this in one package, Kentucky Opry can become a learning and performing arts center. I hope to have the children's theatre working by next summer. If we could only find a temporary facility to call home, we could make things happen twice as fast.

This Monday, August 12, James D. Adams Middle School students, under the direction of Cathy Caudill, will perform the musical "Clowns." I think adults and children will enjoy this production. There will be clowns of all sizes, shapes and fashion. Bring all the family with you, for a night of entertainment at the theatre this Monday. We promise to get you home much earlier. We need all of you to come out and continue to support us.

Good reasons why more people are coming to us.

Howard named vice president of National Geographic Society

The husband of a former Floyd County native has joined the leadership staff of National Geographic Society.

John T. Howard, husband of Nancy Combs Howard, has been named senior vice president and chief operating officer of the National Geographic Society. Howard will be in charge of all or part of National Geographic's manufacturing, membership, property and accounting departments. Howard said he's going to enjoy the new position, though it does not come with a large salary increase.

"I have always admired the Geographic," Howard said. "It is an American institution, but it's also on the cutting edge of communications with four magazines, two television series, a book division and the sponsorship of scientific research and geography education."

Before assuming his new post in Washington, D.C., Howard, 44, was president of Time Customer Service Inc. in Tampa, Florida. Howard opened Time Inc.'s magazine-subscription and data-processing division in Tampa in 1987. The division was formerly based in Chicago.

During his stay in Tampa, Howard became an integral part of the business and social community, serving as director of First Florida Banks Inc., a trustee of the University of Tampa and a member of the United Way executive committee. He also served as a member of the board of governors for the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce.

Howard's wife, Nancy, is the daughter of Mrs. Bennie Combs of Pikeville, formerly of Floyd County, and the late Dr. Gene Combs. She is the granddaughter of the late Octavia and Townsel Combs and Judge and Mrs. Caudill, former residents of Prestonsburg.

Blood center has successful drive

In the month of July, 111 people from Jerry's Restaurant, Long John Silvers, First Guarantee Bank, Kentucky/West Virginia Gas, First Commonwealth Bank, Carter-Hughes Toyota, Mountain Comprehensive Care, and Jenny Wiley State Park volunteered to donate blood at the Prestonsburg Donor Center located at the Municipal building on North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg. Contributing to the success of the drives were Boyd Thompson, Anna Allen, Larry Frances, Debbie Hoskins, Brad Hughes, Harold Reynolds, and Johnny Martin who served as drive coordinators. The Floyd County Blood Program is greatly aided by the community support of these groups.

Curtis Tackett

Curtis Tackett, 66, of Harold, died Wednesday, August 7, in the Pikeville Methodist Hospital, following a long illness.

A son of the late Charlie and Verdie Clark Tackett, he was born November 8, 1924 at Amba, Kentucky. A coal operator for Curtis & Nancy Coal Company, he was a member of the Pikeville Independent Coal Operators Association. He had also been a member of the Pikeville Regular Baptist Church for 41 years.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy Hunter Tackett; one son, Aaron B. Tackett of Harold; one daughter, Lois Kidd of Harold; four brothers, Elmer Tackett of Dvale, Delmer (Bob) Tackett of Teaberry, Carmel Tackett of Chillicothe, Ohio, Eddie Tackett of Logan, Ohio; six sisters, Magnolia Warrens, Nora White and Gracie Gilbert, all of Waverly, Ohio, Mary Pfifer of Grove City, Ohio, Lora Jean Ray of Columbus, Ohio, Romalue Howard and Flora Tackett, both of Chillicothe, Ohio; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday, August 11, at 10 a.m. in the Hall Funeral Home chapel with Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial will be made in the Tackett Family Cemetery at Honaker with Hall Funeral Home caring for these arrangements.

Mr. Tackett's brothers and brothers-in-law will serve as pallbearers.

Understanding the Struggle:

The Aftermath - Czechslovakia

(part VII of a series)
 by Dr. Thomas D. Matijasac
 Associate Professor of History
 Prestonsburg Community College

In less than a year and a half, Vaclav Havel has transformed Czechoslovakia from a rigid, Communist oligarchy into a fully functioning democracy. The new freedom felt by the citizens of Czechoslovakia has found expression on the streets of Prague and Bratislava in the form of music. Rock music, once banned by the Communist government, is now played openly in clubs, dance halls, and even in the middle of Wenceslaus Square. Crowds of two or three hundred people will sometimes gather around young musicians playing old Beatles tunes and sing along with the band. In a recent interview with Lou Reed, Vaclav Havel commented, "For 20 years there was only the most banal pop music in our radio. Now, it is already possible to hear on the radio music that previously people could only clandestinely exchange on tapes." Sometimes people were arrested for distributing audio cassettes. Rock star Michael Kotap now sits in the Czech Parliament.

Havel also managed to negotiate a treaty with the Soviets providing for a phased withdrawal of Soviet troops from his nation. All 73,500 Russian troops will leave Czech soil by June 30, 1991.

Czechoslovakia held its first real election since 1948 on June 8, 1990. Havel's Civic Forum received 48 percent of the vote. The other major parties to emerge from the election were the Christian Democratic Union, the Green Party, the Social Democratic Party, and the Communist Party. Only the Communist Party is not committed to the idea of a multiparty democracy.

On a recent trip to Prague, I conversed with an older gentleman named Tomas about the state of Czechoslovakian politics. Tomas, a high school language teacher, expressed great confidence in President Havel. He told me, "I knew him only as a dramatist, but I think he is also a politician." He did, however, express dissatisfaction with economic conditions but he placed the blame on Havel's advisors.

Later in the afternoon I met Adora Phillips, a young American who worked as an English teacher in an elementary school. Adora gave me the distinct impression that Czechoslovakia was still a culture in transition. The old habits of living in a totalitarian state were still with the common people. "There is a great deal of suspicion among the people here. Before the revolution, people would go to the government and tell on others. That created suspicion. That didn't vanish after the revolution."

Adora also mentioned the rapid rise in prices. Many of her students have complained that there are too many foreigners visiting their country. They resent the fact that Czechoslovakia's borders are now open, but Czechs don't have enough money to visit other places.

Adora had a point. While in Prague, I went to Smetana Hall to attend a performance being given by the Japanese Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra. The expensive seats near the front of the concert hall were filled by foreign tourists, most of whom were French, British or German. Young Czechs were crowded into the moderately priced seats in the rear of the building.

Dr. Emanuel Pluhar, the Deputy International Secretary of the Czechoslovakian Social Democratic Party, noted that most Czechs were unhappy with the economic progress of their nation. Pluhar reported that a recent poll indicated that 34 percent of the people were completely unsatisfied with the state of the economy. "What we need as a party is an alternative economic program which will transform our state-run economy into a market economy." Pluhar indicated that the Communist Party still had some strength and that if economic conditions continued to decline, there was still a certain danger that it might reemerge as a major force in Czech politics.

In spite of these economic problems, Pluhar does not believe that Czechoslovakia will ever revert to a one party system. He noted that Czechs were culturally and politically oriented toward the West. He believes that his nation will eventually join the European Common Market and he would like to see the United Nations guarantee the security of his country against future aggression.

In his rather candid book Disturbing the Peace, Vaclav Havel wrote, "I'm not really comfortable in the role of a distributor of hope and encouragement to those around me, since I'm always on the lookout for some encouragement myself." During the intermission at Smetana Hall, the young Czechs from the back rows moved forward to sit in the empty seats near the stage. The young people of Prague have a real desire to hear, play and appreciate music, just as they have a real desire to live and work in a free country. Havel has given them hope for the future and they will encourage him as he leads their nation along the path of democracy.

Adkins celebrates 80th

Belle Adkins celebrated her 80th birthday on the 4th of July with her son, Morton Adkins Jr., and his children, Terry Adkins, Chrissy Adkins, Melissa Adkins and her friend Betsy from Hepibeth, Georgia. The family took the guest of honor shopping.

Adkins received many gifts and birthday cards. She expressed her appreciation to her family and friends for their gifts and added, "I had a nice time."

Clark, Barger wed

Heather Clark of Wayland and Michael Barger of Garrett were united in marriage on July 11 in a private ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Joe Clark of Wayland and the late Linda Clark. The groom is the son of Ronnie Barger of Saul and Linda Barger of Garrett. A reception was held following the ceremony. They are now residing at their home with twin daughters, Tiffany and Brittany.

Young bankers hold fifth annual convention

The Kentucky Bankers Association's Young Bankers Division is "Going for the GOLD!" during its Fifth Annual Convention, "Go for the GOLD (Great Opportunities for Leadership Development)", August 10-12, 1991 at the Marriott Griffin Gate Resort in Lexington.

The three-day agenda features several highly noted speakers in their respective fields. Among the speakers are Carl Hurley, Ed.D., of Lexington and Rich Wilkins, Rich Wilkins & Company, Louisville. Noted as America's funniest professor, Hurley will address the convention at Sunday's banquet at 7:00 p.m. Wilkins will speak on building positive attitudes toward yourself, others and success on Monday during the general session at 11:00 a.m.

Several awards will be given during the convention including the Outstanding Personal Economics Program (PEP) Banker of Year. Each year Kentucky PEP bankers contact over 50,000 elementary, junior and senior high school students throughout the Commonwealth to help educate them about banks, banking services and personal financial management skills.

Over 150 bankers and their guests will attend the convention. The Young Bankers Division is open to all bankers between the ages of 21 and 45 whose bank is a member of the Kentucky Bankers Association.

Rheumatology clinic to open at Highlands

Highlands Regional Medical Center will offer a Rheumatology clinic beginning August 29. This new service will be available every Thursday from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Medical Offices on the second floor at Highlands.

A variety of conditions called "rheumatism" will be treated in this clinic. Rheumatism is a term used by physicians to classify diseases that affect the joints and their supporting structures. It is accompanied by pain, stiffness, or limitation of motion in these parts. These diseases include: rheumatoid arthritis, degenerative joint diseases, inflammations of the spine, bursitis, fibrositis, myositis, neuritis, lumbago, sciatica and gout.

Dr. John Furcolow, Internal Medicine, and Dr. Mark Caruso, Internal Medicine from Highlands will see patients in the Rheumatology clinic. Dr. Robert W. Lightfoot, Jr., Internal Medicine and Dr. Frederick Coenraad de Beer, Internal Medicine (both specialists in Rheumatoid disorders and both Professors of Medicine at the University of Kentucky) will also see patients.

Appointments in the Rheumatology Clinic are accepted by physician referral. To schedule an appointment, please call the Medical Offices at 886-8511, ext 671.

Highlands Regional Medical Center and its surgical facilities are accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JACHO).

After completion of the workshop, participants will be able to:
 * demonstrate patient assessment including obtaining an "AMPLE" history
 * demonstrate the primary survey utilizing the ABC approach

Phone Dewey Lake for Information

Dewey Lake has a new information number, 886-6398. You can call this number any time for 24 hour lake information. The recording will provide you with lake and tailwater information condition, temperature, elevation, fish being caught and rainfall received. This recording will also provide information on trout stocking, water safety, current events at the project, campground and picnic shelter reservations.

In the event of high water at Dewey Lake or on the Levisa Fork, you can call to hear the lake level and river levels in Prestonsburg and Pikeville and the rate of rise. The recorder will be updated every morning by 8:30 am. So take note of this number, 886-6398, and call to find out what's what at Dewey.

The road calls

"Get your motor runnin'
"Head out on the highway,
"Lookin' for adventure,
"Or whatever comes our way."
-Steppenwolf

If you read Wednesday's paper, you may have seen the article I wrote about the two German students who were biking across the United States. That's quite a feat they've set out to accomplish. I know lots of people who think that a car ride from here to Lexington is a long way.

Put yourself in their situation for a moment. Though they aren't going to bike from St. Louis to Denver, they're still going to ride almost 2,000 miles, or about 3,300 kilometers, by their reckoning.

Why would any sane person ride thousands of miles through wind and weather on a ten-speed bicycle?

Because it's there. When I asked them why they were doing this, they answered, "because it's something that most people won't do." They talked about "a touch of adventure."

Needless to say, I was impressed. I don't think that I could ever undertake a quest like that. My legs just aren't good enough to carry me that far. I would like to see more of this country, though. I'd do it by car if I had my druthers.

The notion of adventure is something that I don't see much anymore. A group of my friends and I called ourselves "The Joumeymen" and traipsed around the state and beyond trying to find the end of the road, wherever that was.

We discovered sacred plastic cows and signs that warned us, "At the end you meet God." One branch of the group even made it as far as Niagara Falls at one point, driving all the way to Canada for the sole purpose of buying a Big Gulp at the Canadian equivalent of 7-11.

So what's my point in recounting all this silly stuff, you ask?

People my age in this town are always looking for things to do. Usually, the pastime of choice is driving up and down the streets of Prestonsburg, or going to Paintsville or Pikeville to run circles around the plazas. We can go to the movies or rent something and bring the movies to us.

The Germans said that they were shocked as they traveled across the country that when they stopped in campgrounds, all the people that they met, although they were good people, were old. They said that they hadn't met another group of younger travelers, and they had been across six states when they stopped in Prestonsburg.

So, why don't people go exploring anymore? There's a lot to see in Johnson, Floyd and Pike counties if you look in places you haven't been, and there's even more to see elsewhere.

How about it? Pile into a car and get on the road. Take the road less traveled, and destinations like Daytona Beach don't count. You'll be surprised at what's out there.

Don't worry about running out of gas, that's part of the fun.

So, until the road finally ends...

Later days.

Mountain Voices — by Willie Elliott —

BUT SHE STILL WON'T COOK

Several ladies at church and in the community have been giving me a hard time because I have been writing "bad" things about Linda. The fact that Linda admits that she hates cooking and fixes a meal only once in a blue moon doesn't seem to change their way of thinking. So, I told Linda that I would write a glowing report of her cuisine if she would only produce some. I told her it didn't have to be anything great — just something to eat.

Her reaction to that proposal was this: "And if I don't cook?" I told her I would continue in the great American journalistic custom and tell it like it is. She said she was in favor of truth, and the truth is, as she said, "I'd rather be bad mouthed in the paper than cook."

She did try to bake a cake for church on Saturday evening. While the cake was baking, she went out to admire her pond for the fifteenth time that day. Ryan decided he would use the kitchen wall for a bouncing board. Needless to say, the cake fell and looked like a chocolate pancake. There were the usual comparisons with Betty Crocker and Julia Child that Ryan and I use on such occasions.

She went on and on about how she couldn't cook. Ryan and I agreed with her but told her we loved her anyway. There's more to a family than cooking — Wendy's, Lee's Famous Chicken, Brenda's Place and any number of eating places. But the truth of the matter is that Linda can cook. The problem is that she WON'T cook. She announced that any day the temperature went over ninety degrees we would have to eat out. I said, "In Eastern Kentucky, that's practically every day of the summer."

"I know," she said. If I were working each day and really needed nourishing food, I would have a different attitude toward this cooking thing. The truth is that I'm not hurting myself and don't intend to. I'm on vacation. You may come to my house and find Linda working away digging or cutting weeds in the yard. Most men would be shame-faced and dash out, and take over the job. Not me. I continue reading, writing or typing on the computer. At first, Linda tried the old guilt trip about men doing certain kinds of work. It worked about as well as my ploy to improve her cooking.

So, we both do our things and are quite happy. When sandwiches and soup won't do anymore, we head out to Nanny's house and say, "Nanny, what is that special thing you do to food?"

"You mean 'cook it,' don't you?" She eyes us carefully and notices that we are in desperate need of solid food. In no time flat, a real meal appears. We all agree how it must be a miracle and eat heartily.

Then, we are off to do our things until hunger drives us back again. Some men say uncomplimentary things about their mothers-in-law. You will hear me say only positive things about Nanny. I may not be too bright, but I know better than to bite the hand that feeds me.

FOUR LETTER WORDS

I was reading an article in the Lexington Herald-Leader Thursday that told of a U.S. Representative from California, George Miller, cursing a Kentucky Congressman, Carroll Hubbard, in front of his constituents from Paducah.

From the article, it seems that all Hubbard was guilty of was pestering Miller, the chairman of the House Interior Committee, to speak with a group of voters who had traveled a long way to discuss an important issue with him.

Now no one would accuse legislators of being inhuman or perfect, but certainly they could be expected to maintain some sort of professional etiquette. It's ironic that when you see the politicians that represent your area during campaign time they are all pleasant, happy individuals. But see them in their own backyard in Washington and their true character emerges.

Such behavior may be acceptable in California, but it truly has no place on the floor of our country's capitol. Shame on Miller.

Speaking of four-letter words, I tried my hand at one last week with mixed results. Yes, it was the ol' diet time again.

When I was gone across the ocean I managed to shake loose 25 pounds of unwanted flesh. (I'd recommend serving in a war to anyone who's trying to lose weight.) About one month after I came home I put back on five of those pounds. That didn't bother me too much, because I expected once I started eating again I'd put on a little weight. The occasional beer I was having didn't help any either. I've since switched to vodka and grapefruit juice, less calories.

Well, two weeks ago I stepped up on the bathroom scale and — groan — I had gained another four pounds. My mother has always told me that I got my father's genes and would be fighting fat all my life. I hate that.

So, I dug up this diet a friend had given me that only required you to suffer for three days in a row and the other four days of the week you could eat what you wanted. I'd lose 10 pounds in one week if I stuck to this religiously.

I must admit, I wasn't the most pleasant person to be around after having a lunch of only five Saltine crackers and a slice of cheddar cheese. I only cheated twice. Oddly, hotdogs where my downfall both times. I don't even like hotdogs that much, but they were there. I was hungry, so I ate one (actually two).

On my third day of torture, a co-worker told me her mom had lost 60 pounds on this same diet. I was really encouraged then. But then she said if a person cheated on the diet they would lose nothing. NOTHING?! No way, how could eating one, okay two, little hotdogs stop you from losing the promised 10 pounds?

Well, I only managed to lose five pounds. I guess it must have been the teaspoon of sugar and cream I put in my coffee that was my downfall. I was happy about five pounds, since that was all I was trying to lose anyway. But I figured I could have eaten food I liked, just in smaller portions, and lost as much, instead of suffering through tuna fish, cauliflower and beets for three days.

I was so happy to be off that diet that on the fourth day I came into the office screaming, "DOUGHNUTS, somebody give me DOUGHNUTS!"

Scott said I didn't need any doughnuts. Nice guy. But Ed Taylor was happy to oblige, after a bit of bribing. Nicer guy.

To make a long story short, I gained the five pounds back during my four days of feasting. Time to start fasting again. So now you know, if you see me on a Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, and I am less than my usual pleasant self, it is because I am on my off days of my teeter-totter weight program.

UK Appalachian Center names 1991 Commonwealth Fellows

Shirley Thompson

Beverly May and Shirley Thompson of Floyd County are among 24 persons from 20 eastern Kentucky counties who have been selected for the 1991 class of the Commonwealth Fellowship Program sponsored by the University of Kentucky Appalachian Center.

The two-year program begins August 14, with a four-day seminar at the Kentucky Leadership Center in Jabez, near Somerset. The program is designed to locate and nurture emerging community leaders in Kentucky's 49 Appalachian counties. The Fellows will attend a series of seminars over the two year period, participate in Community Issue Gatherings, work on individual community projects, and be linked through computer networking.

The 1991 class is the second group of Appalachian leaders to participate in the program. They are part of a larger program, the Appalachian Civic Leadership Project, which is coordinated by the UK Appalachian Center, but also includes the UK Community College System, the Cooperative Extension Service, and the Brushy Fork Institute of Berea College.

Funding for the program came in part from a $1.2 million grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation in 1990. The project is aimed at developing leadership and public policy discussion in central Appalachia.

Fellows in the leadership program are expected to develop a plan of study and action, with the help of the program staff, that will relate to a specific social area or issue. Each Fellow may receive up to $2,000 toward the accomplishment of his or her plan.

In addition, each Fellow will receive a small computer capable of linking with the University and other Fellows for ongoing communication. Computer training also will be provided.

To qualify for the program, applicants must have been residents of Kentucky's Appalachian counties for at least three years with plans to remain in the region. The Fellowship class is generally comprised of new or emerging leaders in the early to middle stages of their careers or adult lives. People from all social, economic and educational backgrounds are encouraged to apply.

Morehead extended campus to offer more business classes

Morehead State University's College of Business has added additional classes to its fall 1991 offerings at the Big Sandy Extended Campus Center in Highlands Plaza Shopping Center near Prestonsburg Community College.

Two sections of Salesmanship (MKT 350) and one section of law and Ethics in Business (MNGT 463) have been added to the course schedule, according to Michael Harford, chair of MSU's Department of Management and Marketing.

The prerequisites for these business courses will be waived for students enrolling at the Big Sandy ECC, Harford said.

One section of MKT 350 will be taught from 3:30 to 4:50 on Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning August 19, while the other will meet Wednesdays from 6 to 8:40 p.m. beginning August 21.

MNGT 463 will be offered on Thursdays, beginning August 22, from 6 to 8:40 p.m.

In addition to classes in business and education, the fall schedule at the Big Sandy ECC includes several courses designed for registered nurses with diploma or two-year degrees who wish to earn their BSN degrees.

A registration information night will be held at the ECC on Thursday, August 15, from 5 to 6 p.m. Mail-in registration is currently underway and will be accepted postmarked through August 15.

At the undergraduate level, the cost per credit hour is $60 for students taking classes at MSU's regional locations.

Specific information on courses or registration procedures is available locally by calling the regional coordinator, James Ratcliff, at (606) 886-3863. Information also may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Graduate and Extended Campus Programs toll-free at 1-800-262-7474 in-state, or 1-800-354-2090 from adjoining states.

Smile Awhile — by Sarah Hopson —

ON THE SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK

Thankful that Little League baseball season was officially over, I was somewhat dismayed to learn that my husband and son had decided to spend our vacation with Billie Plunk whose husband, Eric, is a relief pitcher for the New York Yankees.

Although I wanted to see Billie, and I'd always dreamed of going to New York, the thought of smelling hot dogs and shoving my way through the crowds at yet another baseball park was not enticing.

Needless to say, several days later we were graciously received in New York by the Plunk's and their perfectly behaved one-year-old son, Eric Samuel. And though I secretly believe Billie was happier to get the home grown green beans we brought from her Granny Neva than she was to see us, she never let on because she played the consummate hostess during our five-day stay.

The only down side was the traffic. This can best be explained by imagining Apple Day Parade traffic and multiplying it by the entire population of China. Undoubtedly, every car ever made was headed toward Yankee Stadium because I could have read "War and Peace" twice in the time it took to reach the stadium each day.

If you left at 5 p.m., you would easily execute the eight miles by the second inning of the game. If you left earlier, you were subjected to the traffic on the swaying, rickety George Washington Bridge which you actually had to pay to cross!

Even though I'd had my fill of baseball, I have to admit that walking into historic Yankee Stadium was thrilling. Seeing the statues of baseball immortals Mantle, Dimaggio and Maris, and bumping into Phil Rizzudo on the elevator (who delighted in thumping everybody on the head with a talking rubber hammer was quite an experience for mountain folk).

One of the most interesting aspects of the trip for me was that no one mentioned my accent. After a few days, I learned the reason was that no one in New York speaks English. And those who do sound like extra's from a Godfather movie. Even the concession stand workers don't speak English, but they can say "thank you" in a heavy Jamaican brogue if given a gratuity.

Contrary to popular belief, everyone we came in contact with was courteous. No one attempted to steal my purse, mug me or break line. Some even excused themselves as they shoved their way through the crowds so the mace I bought was unnecessary.

Yankee Stadium is located in the Bronx so in order to return to New Jersey where the Plunk's reside, we had to pass through a section of Harlem. Always depicted in the movies as an unwelcome section, I was pleasantly surprised. Particularly when I learned that you could get your windows washed at a stoplight without having to buy gas. Of course, if you failed to pay the "attendants," they would shout obscenities, but you couldn't hear what they were saying over the screeching of your tires as you pulled away at 75 miles per hour. Billie assured us that if you remained stopped long, you could also get your car stripped in less time than it takes to change a tire.

Billie also took our son to the Statue of Liberty. I had seen the statue when Billie took us on a tour when we first arrived. In fact, I saw it three times on that excursion. I still believe it was unintentional even though Billie kept saying, "She knew exactly where she was going."

I was almost relieved when we finally had an accident the day before we left because I had been anticipating it for days. Our car was rammed in the side by another vehicle as we sat in traffic; an extremely unusual occurrence since our car hadn't moved from one spot for over ten minutes.

Happily, we never missed a game. We even got to see the fans throw a plastic dummy of Madonna from the stands into right field directly behind Jose Canseco. It unnerved him so, hit a homerun his next at bat.

Despite the traffic, the hospitality and generosity of our hosts made it a wonderful visit and an event our family will always remember.

When the Plunk's come to visit us, we're going to reciprocate by taking them to a high school basketball game. I know they'll be thrilled, but at least the drive from our house to the gym won't take long.

HOROSCOPE

August 11 through August 17

By C.C. Clark

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
This is a positive time for you. Make the most of it. Things have been tough over the past few months, so take advantage of this time for smooth sailing and relaxation.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
It's time for you to speak out about things that are bothering you. You'll be surprised at the results when people discover how you really feel about certain situations.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Commitments may weigh heavy on your shoulders this week, but you rise to the occasion and accomplish what must be done. At times it seems answers are long in coming.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
A major career change is in store for you. Certain individuals are unsure whether or not you can be trusted. You must let them know you are good at keeping secrets.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
You will be both delighted and surprised by the turn of events for the week. An exciting opportunity may come available.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Don't judge others by what you believe to be true. If someone continues to ask for your advice, but never takes it, don't waste your time offering it.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Although things haven't gone according to your plan, don't worry. Everything is actually working out for the best, even though you may not realize it.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Your creative powers go unmatched over the next few weeks. You'll even amaze yourself at the ideas you come up with. This is the perfect time to look for other employment.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Don't allow negative outside forces to come between you and loved ones. Romances may be somewhat on the rocky side, but everything will work out by the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
There are times when you feel you are traveling in circles and can't get anything done. Try not to lose your temper with others; they aren't responsible for your bad mood.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
It's important for all of us to compromise in our relationships. There will be times when loved ones actually know what is best for you before you do.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
This is a very busy time for you, but you love it. Your negotiating powers will come in handy when dealing with authority figures. You will get what you want.

VIDEO BIJOU

Film adaptations do novels justice

By Steven Alan McGaw

Films can often lead us to explore other art forms and other artists. Sad to say, I probably would have missed the works of E.M. Forster were it not for this pair of meticulous adaptations of his novels. A Room With a View (1985)

No film is perfect, of course, but it's difficult to imagine how one could improve upon this sumptuous production. Helena Bonham Carter stars as a young Englishwoman whose senses are awakened during a carefully chaperoned trip to Florence, Italy. The cast includes Maggie Smith, Denholm Elliot, Julian Sands, Daniel Day-Lewis and Rupert Graves. The screenplay received an Oscar, as did the matchless art direction and costumes. Maurice (1987)

This project was a riskier endeavor for director James Ivory and company and somewhat less successful. The novel is comparatively little-read, mostly due to the subject, and the pace is, at times, gratingly slow. Still, few films can match this one for polish and attention to detail.

James Wilby stars as a conservative young Englishman in 1910 who must cope with the growing realization of his homosexuality and what it will mean in his restricted world. Fine support comes from Rupert Graves, Denholm Elliot and Ben Kingsley. © TV Listing Inc.

TV PIPELINE

Richard Dean Anderson once had professional-hockey goal

By Taylor Michaels
 Q: Six of my friends and I are fans of MacGyver, and we were wondering if you could give us some information about Richard Dean Anderson. We are dying to know. —V.F., Carlsbad, N.M.

Richard Dean Anderson

A: Richard Dean Anderson was born on Jan. 23, 1950, in Minneapolis. Originally he had intended to be a professional hockey player, but after breaking both arms on the ice, he decided to pursue a less violent career. He is, however, the manager of, and a player for, the Hollywood All-Star Hockey Team, which raises funds for charities in NHL pregame activities nationwide.

Anderson's first major television role came when he landed the part of Dr. Jeff Webber on the daytime drama General Hospital in 1976. He continued with it for five years and then starred in two CBS series, Seven Brides for Seven Brothers and Emerald Point N.A.S. He has made numerous guest appearances on other series, and he began MacGyver in 1985.

Q: I would like to have a mailing address for the country music show Nashville Now. —Carolyn Spencer, Macon, Mo.

A: The address for that show and any show seen on The Nashville Network is TNN, Viewer Services, 2807 Opryland Drive, Nashville, Tenn., 37214. Be sure to put the name of the show you have comments or questions about on the envelope. They are sorted, dated and forwarded to the producers. You can also call Viewer Services directly with your comments. That number is (615) 883-7000.

Q: I would like some information on Barbara Bel Geddes. What's happened to her? She just disappeared from Dallas. I'm not surprised she wasn't on the final show. It was about as poor as a show could be. They could have had a family reunion and made it interesting for everyone. —Frank Fenstermaker, Lewisburg, Ky.

A: Bel Geddes was born on Oct. 31, 1922, in New York. She appeared mainly on the stage and in films until she began her role as Miss Ellie on Dallas. She played that role from 1978 until 1984, when she left the show to have open-heart surgery. Donna Reed played the role until Bel Geddes returned in 1985.

I've called all around trying to get some more recent information about her, but, like you said, she just seems to have disappeared. She has a farm in upstate New York, so it's possible she's there. Sorry I don't have any more information on her.

While the final episode of Dallas was questionable, it ranked in the top 25 shows for that week.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

DARLING SUES PINIELLA; BUT MAYBE GARY ISN'T SUCH A "DARLING" UMPIRE

It doesn't make sense to me. Did you see the replay that ESPN showed of the home run (?) Bill Doran hit against the San Francisco Giants? You know, the one that was overruled by umpire Gary Darling after Dutch Rennert called it fair. The replay showed clearly that the ball sailed over the fence in fair territory and did not wrap the foul pole as Darling claimed.

The reversal caused quite a stir in the Reds dugout as Reds manager Lou Piniella and Paul O'Neill were given the old heave-ho after protesting the overruled call. But things got worse. Lou let his mouth get ahead of his thinking and called Darling a biased umpire that would never give the Reds a call.

Enter Ritchie Phillips, Major League Umpires' mouthpiece. A $5 million law suit against Piniella has been filed because Darling (with the encouraging of the umpires association) feels that his integrity has been questioned.

His integrity needs to be questioned after such a ridiculous call that he made. The other umpires in the crew need their integrity questioned also. Why did they let Darling overrule the call of Rennert? Because he was the home plate umpire? That is no reason.

I personally do not approve of the actions of Piniella and O'Neill. I have never been one to condone any kind of emotional outbursts in any dugout and I feel that Piniella was wrong in voicing his assessment of Darling as an umpire. However, at the same time, the umpires' association or National League President Bill White should not tolerate the incompetent calling by umpires such as Darling.

The game of major league baseball is hurting itself with baseball fans all over with all the bickering, complaining, accusations and just childish attitudes of a lot of those involved. It certainly has gotten wild!

Poor Eric Davis. He is exhausted. So, they put him on the disabled list. What's new for the Cincinnati centerfielder? That's where he has been most of the season. Hey, it would be nice to be on the list and draw a cool $3 million-plus. Chris Jones has been called up again for who knows how many times. Jones is getting like the chickens of a certain farmer. The farmer moved so many times that when the chickens saw him coming they would just lay down and cross their legs. Now, Jones probably doesn't even unpack his bags when he returns to Nashville.

Are rumors correct? The Reds offered Davis to the Atlanta Braves and the Braves turned down the deal. Is it also true that he was offered to five other clubs and they also turned the offer down. If the Reds can't beat the Braves on the field they will try and upset the "apple cart" by sending them Davis.

The Braves don't need Davis. They have better players in the outfield now than Davis will ever be. I'd take Dave Justice anytime.

What is so frightful about Davis is that the Reds may have a hard time unloading him.

SALUTE TIME.....

Salutes go to Kaye and Don Willis who work so hard in handling the tennis tournaments at Archer Park. The Willis' will be at it again starting August 18 when the Branham and Baker Tennis Tournament gets underway. I know that the players that have been in the tournament year after year appreciate all that Kaye and Don do for the game. We appreciate them very much.

FOOTBALL TAB DATED AUGUST 30

Our annual football tab is scheduled to come out on Friday, August 30, the day high school football season begins. Be watching for it!

This should be an exciting year for football in Floyd County. New coaches, new district alignments and a new start. Coach Bill Letton's Prestonsburg Blackcats should have a banner year. This will be a strong Blackcat team with experience coming back.

Until Wednesday, we wish all the fans the best of sports. Be good sports, it wears well!

Crawdads look for revenge...

Sadie Hawkins Day Gets Underway At Auxier

Watch out, you L.A. Slicks! The Crawdad Bottom Crew is looking to avenge their loss in last year's Sadie Hawkins Softball Tournament. No mercy!

It will be "no holds barred" as the Sadie Hawkins Softball tournament gets underway this Sunday at 2 p.m. as the whole town of Auxier will turn out to see who will have bragging rights for a year when the four sections of Auxier meet in tournament play.

The rules? There aren't any. Don't be surprised if you see four softballs on the field at one time. Hey, there could be four runners on one base. It's the craziest softball tournament you will ever witness and it could only happen in Auxier.

At the 2 p.m. starting time the L.A. Slicks will try and defend their title against such foes as the Wells Addition Wimps (whoaaaa), the Crawdad Bottom Crew and of course not to forget the Flood Bottom Floats. Will the Slicks be slick enough to take the title again? "Expect anything in this tournament," is the word getting out.

Not only will there be a double elimination softball tournament, but other events will highlight Auxier's Sadie Hawkins Day festivities. A horseshoe tournament will get underway Saturday at 2 p.m. The tournament is open to everyone of all ages. Sack races, a tug-of-war and a basketball shoot-out are other events that will catch the fancy of many athletes.

"We will have track and field events for the kids," said Bobby Castle, who will act P.A. man for the softball tournament. Castle's problem is getting all the names straight.

Before the horseshoe tournament, a big parade is expected to draw a big crowd as it gets started at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Really, the celebration gets underway tonight with three live bands, led by the Yard Apes (come on now). "They are really a good band," said Castle.

The dress for the Fifth Annual Sadie Hawkins Day celebration is Sadie Hawkins/Li'l Abner style. "In fact we are going to have a Sadie Hawkins and Li'l Abner look alike contest," added Castle.

Castle said that most of the events are free and all events on Sunday will be free. "Instead of giving trophies out this year," stated Castle, "we are going to give cash prizes like in horseshoe and other events."

If you are a rummage/garage sale nut, you will find the giant rummage sale that will take place Saturday as (See Sadie Hawkins, page 13)

For Allen Central...

Building Stamina Is High Priority In Practice

(Editors note. We will be profiling each high school football team in the next three weeks. This week we will look at the Allen Central Rebels)

It is hard to believe, but the high school football season is fast approaching as the regular season gets underway on August 30 for most teams. The Allen Central Rebels will not officially start until August 31 when they play in a bowl game at Whitley County.

While the team is awaiting the opening of the 1991 football season, drills, running and hitting the pads has occupied much of the day for the Rebels as football practice is in full swing. In fact the Rebels have been practicing for about a week now and they work out twice a day — once in the morning and again in the evenings.

This will be a very young Allen Central football team. Losing 16 seniors from last year's 6-5 squad will definitely have a bearing on the season ahead. However, second year coach Dewey Jamerson feels that his young squad can respond to the loss of so much talent and still have a decent year.

"In winning, it's not always how good your record is," he said. "It's how well you perform on the field. In order to do well, you have to be in shape to play."

That is one of the things that Jamerson is drilling into his young squad this season — being not only being able to play but ready to play.

"If a player's not in shape, he could lose some ball games for you," the Rebel coach said, "or he could go out there and get himself hurt."

"We have a cemetery over across the road from the football field that sits on a hill and the first week of practice we didn't come down to the field but the players learned that place well," he said. "We ran up and down the hill to get in shape."

Jamerson's thinking is that there is no use in coming to the football field if a player is not in shape.

Drills, drills and more drills make up the practice time for the Rebels as well as walking and running time.

"A player that is not in shape may be in the ball game late and get so tired he will find himself out of position," Jamerson stated. "If our defensive man makes the first lick on a tackle, he is suppose to hold that for at least three seconds after the whistle sounds. If he is out of shape, he may give up before then."

"I tell my players that you get in shape and dish out the punishment on the field," explained Jamerson. "I want them to let me know if they are getting tired and then come out of the game. I want them to tell me about it."

"I don't care how well in shape you are, you are bound to get tired on the field with everyone hitting you. Plus the heat, it has to have an effect on you."

The Rebels didn't actually begin on the field until Thursday (yesterday) in full pads. Now, the team has begun work on their passing drills and hitting the pads. Optimism is high in the camp of the Rebels with several players showing some great promise.

"When I played at Wheelwright under my dad and Coach (Don)

Daniels they stressed running a lot.

We were in shape. I remember someone coming up to me in college and (See Allen Central, page 13)

MSU Athletic Director Steve Hamilton Is Inducted Into Ohio Valley Hall Of Fame

Morehead State University Athletic Director Steve Hamilton was inducted into the Ohio Valley Conference Hall of Fame during the annual OVC Honors Luncheon in Nashville.

"It is a tremendous honor to be included with such distinguished company as those in the OVC Hall of Fame," Hamilton said. "I have enjoyed my association with the conference as a player and coach, and now as an administrator. I hope to continue to be apart of its growth and development."

Hamilton, a standout athlete in baseball, basketball and track during his playing days at MSU, has been the University's athletic director since July, 1988. He had served one year as acting athletic director. He spend 14 seasons as the Eagle baseball coach and is MSU's all-time winningest coach with 305 career victories. His teams won five divisional championships and two OVC championships. His 1977 and 1983 teams participated in the NCAA baseball tournament.

During his college career, Hamilton played on championship teams in basketball, baseball and track. He established five MSU records in rebounding and is the Eagles' all-time leading rebounder and fourth leading scorer. He earned basketball All-America honors in 1957.

Hamilton may best be known for his 11 years of major league baseball experience. He pitched for the Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators, New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox, San Francisco Giants and Chicago Cubs. The originator of the "Folly Floater," he pitched in two World Series for the Yankees.

He also played two seasons with the Minneapolis Lakers, becoming the only professional athlete to play in both a World Series and an NBA Championship Series.

Branham And Baker Tennis Tournament Set For August 14-18

The Ninth Annual Branham and Baker Tennis Tournament will be held August 14 through the 18 and August 22 through the 25 at the Archer Park tennis courts.

Events include men's and women's open, A, B and C singles; A and B doubles; mixed doubles.

Deadline for entry into the B and C events is Monday, August 12, at 6 p.m. Deadline for entry into the open A and mixed doubles is Monday, August 19, at 6 p.m.

For more information call Kaye or Don Willis at 886-2552.

After retiring from professional baseball in 1972, Hamilton was named manager of the Johnson City Yankees of the Appalachian League for the 1973 season. He also served as pitching coach for the Detroit Tigers in 1975.

A graduate of Charlestown (Ind.) High School, Hamilton earned a bachelor's degree from MSU in 1958 and a master's from MSU in 1963. He is married to the former Shirley Potter of Raceland. They have four children, Stephanie (Turner), Elizabeth (Monet), Robert and Daniel.

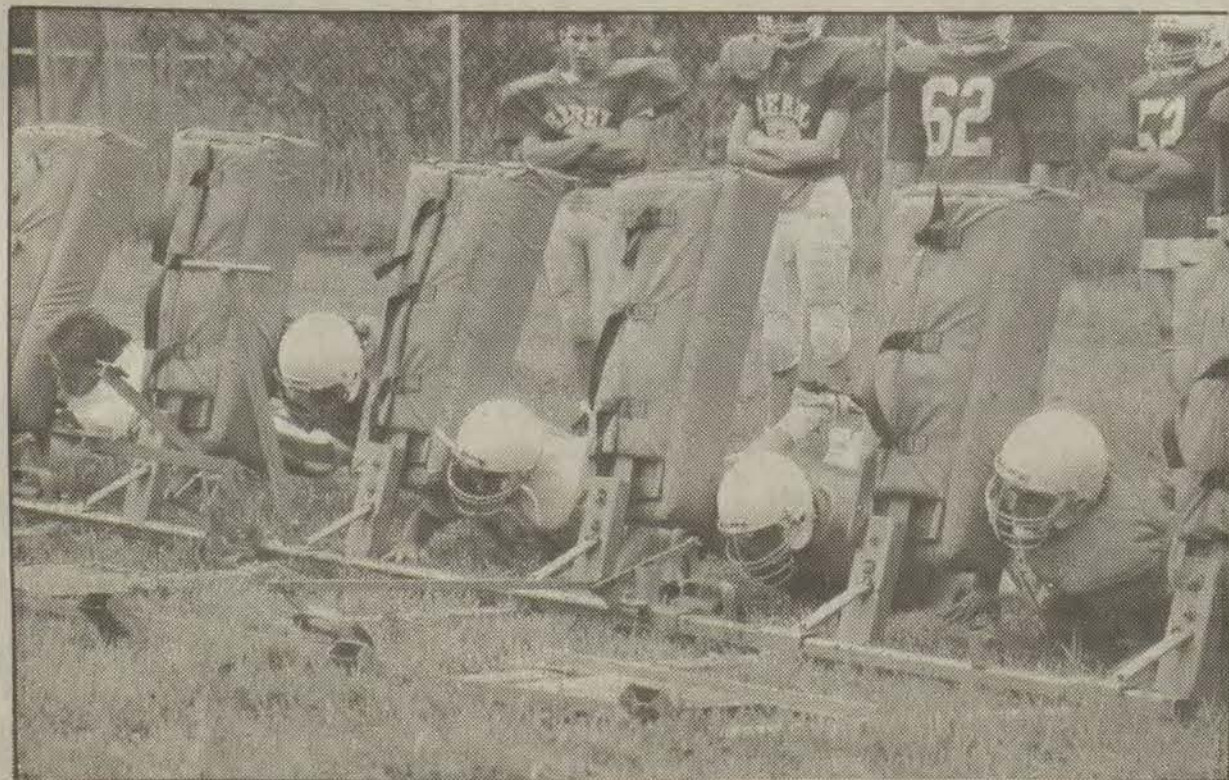

He joins MSU President Emeritus Adron Doran (a charter member), former Eagle athletic director and basketball coach Bob Laughlin, former MSU basketball and football coach Ellis Johnson and long-time Eagle baseball coach and standout John E. "Sonny" Allen in the 33-member OVC Hall of Fame.

Hunter Safety Course Draws Large Crowd: New Dates Set

The response to the Hunters Safety Course held recently at McDowell Firehouse #2 was so great that a repeat course will be held on August 13, 14 and 15 at the same location.

On August 13 and 14, the hours of the course will run from 6-9 p.m. On August 15, adjusted hours will be from 5-9 p.m.

For more information on the Hunters Safety Course, contact Greg Kidd at 377-6826.

"This thing must be made of lead!"

In their first full day on the practice field, the Allen Central Rebels had the privilege of moving the pads around the football field. The Rebels have been avoiding the heat by holding morning and evening practices. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Carl D. Perkins Softball

WAL-MART VS RUDY'S

Rudy's collected 27 hits in scoring a 18-8 five inning win over Wal-Mart in softball action at the Carl D. Perkins field this week. Rudy's scored six runs in each of the second and fourth innings to put the "W" in the win column. Wal-Mart at one time led 7-2 going into the bottom of the second. Wal-Mart had scored four first inning runs and three in the second for their only lead.

Floyd Compton had a second inning home run for Rudy's. Scotty Branham tripled in the third and Rick Bevins collected three doubles for the winners. Bevins drove in four runs in a four-for-four outing. Woody Jarrell and Rudy Pennington also had four hits for Rudy's including two doubles. Jarrell picked up five RBIs in the game.

Ron Moore, Rick Wheeler and Toad Conley doubled for Wal-Marts.

Dwayne Dawson was the winning pitcher while the loss was pinned on Keith Crum.

HAPPY'S VS WAL-MART

Scott Conley and Doug Salyer each hit third inning home runs and Rick Wheeler was perfect at the plate with four hits and collected seven RBIs as Wal-Mart defeated Happy's 17-11 in softball play.

Wal-Mart scored nine times in the bottom of the sixth inning to erase an 11-8 Happy's lead. Wal-Mart then shut out Happy's in the top of the seventh for the win.

Floyd Compton had the only home run for Happy's — a blast in the second inning. Keith Rowland and Glenn Rowland collected two doubles each and all came in the first and fourth innings. Jeff Cochran doubled in the fourth also.

Besides his home run, Conley also had two doubles for Wal-Mart in the fifth and sixth innings. Rodney Campbell doubled in the fourth and Jesse Goble had a sixth inning double.

Keith Crum was the winning pitcher and Mochan McKenzie suffered the loss.

MARTIN VS CARL D. PERKINS

Carl D. Perkins was spotted a 8-0 lead in two innings and then had to hold off a on charging Martin team to win 13-9.

Charles Mobley homered in the six-run first for CDP. Denton Wynters had a first inning triple. Mobley also had two doubles for the winners.

Joey Conn carried a big bat for Martin with a triple and double. Harry Conn had a fourth inning double.

Michael Stanley was the winning pitcher while the loss went to Tommy Hall.

After CDP took a 8-0 lead with six in the first and two in the second, Martin cut the lead to 8-4 with a lone run in the third and three in the fourth. Martin mounted a mild comeback in the seventh inning but the rally fell short.

CDP VS HAPPY'S

Happy's scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to post a 7-5 win over CDP. Happy's had taken a 5-1 lead with a five run second. Perkins scored two in the third inning and pushed across a run in the fifth and finally tied the game at 5-5 with a run in the top of the seventh.

CDP out hit Happy's nine to six but couldn't come up with the timely hit with runners on base.

Bill Michael had a second inning triple for Happy's. Happy Rowland and Danny Kenster also had two-baggers for the winners.

Kenster picked up the win and the loss went to Michael Stanley.

RUDY'S VS FLOYD COUNTY TEENS

It was Floyd Compton against the FCT team as he had a game that many players only dream about. Compton had five hits as he hit for the cycle with a base hit, double, triple and home run. In fact, Compton had two singles in a perfect five-for-five game. Compton drove in eight runs. Compton homered in the first, tripled in the third and doubled in the fourth.

Jack Endicott also cranked out a home run in the fourth inning for Rudy's in their 20-13 win. Joe Harmon had a first inning double for Rudy's.

Jeff Burchett and Rob Myers had home runs for FCT. Burchett hit two home runs with one in the first and again in the seventh. Burchett then doubled in the fourth.

Dwayne Dawson was the winning pitcher and the loss went to Burchett.

RUDY'S VS FCT

Kenny Music collected four hits and drove in three runs to lead Rudy's to a 11-6 win over the Floyd County Teens in softball play at the Carl D. Perkins softball area.

Joe Harmon had a fourth inning double for Rudy's while teammate Mike Countz collected two two-baggers.

Jeff Burchett hammered out two home runs in the losing cause for the FCT team. Burchett hit a first inning round tripper and then homered again in the sixth.

Rudy Pennington was the winning pitcher while the loss went to Burchett. Rudy's collected 23 hits off of Burchett.

Rudy's edged S & S Petroleum 20-19. Compton hit two home runs in the game with the first on coming in the first inning. Jack Endicott had a first inning homer also.

S & S Petroleum scored nine runs in the sixth inning to overcome a 10-9 deficit and took a 18-9 lead. However, in the bottom of the sixth, Rudy's plated six runs for a 18-15 count. S & S added a run in the top of the seventh and was cruising with a 19-16 advantage until Compton's slam in the bottom of the inning.

Scottie Branham, Kenny Music and Clifford Tressler had triples for Rudy's. Tressler also had a double in the third inning. Rick Bevins doubled in the third while Dwayne Dalton had two two-baggers for the winners.

Scotty Howard had three doubles for S & S. He doubled in the first, fourth and sixth innings in collecting four hits and picking up eight runs batted in.

part of the celebration. All items will be 25 cents. So, you can do a little shopping while enjoying the activities.

Castle said that a lot of fun will be available for all those who come out. It will be an inexpensive outing and everyone is welcome.

A gospel sing will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. just before the softball tournament.

Sadie Hawkins Day is sponsored by the Auxier Historical Society.

"Everyone has really pulled together for this celebration," said

Castle. "The people in the area as well as the churches and fire department are all involved and have helped us a lot."

Get your Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner clothes out and head on down to Auxier this weekend for a time of your life and be sure to watch out for those unpredictable softball players. Maybe they should hold more than a gospel sing before the game.

said "didn't you play for Wheelwright? The one thing I remember about Wheelwright was that you fellows would run, run and run and never seemed to quit." That was quite a compliment I thought."

With the new alignment in district play this year, Jamerson is excited about the prospects of his team making it to the playoffs this year. Under a new ruling, the top four teams in each district will advance to the playoffs. Jamerson definitely believes that this year's Rebel football team can accomplish that feat.

Now, for the Allen Central squad, it is run, run, run and run some more as they practice themselves into shape for the upcoming season.

HERE'S HOW TO PLAY:

To play Scrambo-Mania, look for the scrambled words appearing in the blocks of each of the participating merchants on this page. Unscramble the letters and put the unscrambled word on the appropriate line on the entry form provided above. Send the completed entry form to: THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES, P.O. BOX 391, PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY 41653.

THE DEADLINE FOR ENTRIES IS NOON EACH THURSDAY!

Remember, some words may be unscrambled in a variety of ways, but you can submit only one answer. ONE ENTRY PER HOUSEHOLD. Persons submitting multiple entries will be disqualified.

You must unscramble all of the words correctly to qualify to win the prize money. In the event of a tie, a winning entry will be drawn at random. If there is no winner, all of the prize money will be added to the next week's pot of $50. No purchase necessary. Employees and relatives of employees of the Floyd County Times are not eligible for prizes.
