Teachers, bus drivers okay strikes

Classes may still start on schedule

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It appears that the 1991-92 school year could start as scheduled even though a majority of Floyd County teachers voted Thursday to strike.

The Floyd County Board of Education decided at a special meeting Thursday to ask the state Department of Education for assistance in solving a budget impasse between the district's budget committee and the school board's representatives.

Superintendent Ron Hager told the board at Thursday's meeting that he and Kentucky Education Association financial advisor Gretchen Lampe failed to reach an agreement on budget issues after a marathon meeting Thursday.

Meanwhile, Floyd County Education Association (KEA) members held a strike authorization vote early Thursday. Teachers voted 223-66 in favor of a strike if it became necessary.

FCEA president Carol Stumbo said after Thursday's meeting that she felt teachers would not strike until Lampe, Hager and Ron Moubray, the state's financial administrator, had the opportunity to discuss the stumbling blocks preventing an agreement between the two sides.

"Teachers are not unreasonable," Stumbo said. "Speaking for myself, I think teachers will give them the opportunity to look at the problem. This should have occurred two months ago. We're glad they're willing to take a look at it."

Board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell made the motion for state assistance after Hager announced that the district currently had no budget.

"We can't vote to give a raise to anyone at this time without a budget," Campbell said. "We need to get a third party in here to sit down and iron this thing out."

Lampe agreed with Campbell, but urged the board to consider keeping a 50.9 cent equivalent tax rate, which would most likely mean an increase in property taxes.

"It's very important that you understand that this equivalent rate be kept at 50.9 cents or the district will lose money," Lampe said. "Keeping the 58.6 cent rate will cause the equivalent rate to go down and you'll lose local funding."

The suggestion to increase property taxes brought a response from board member Eddie Billips.

"Has anyone involved in compiling these figures considered the economical tax base in Floyd County?" Billips asked.

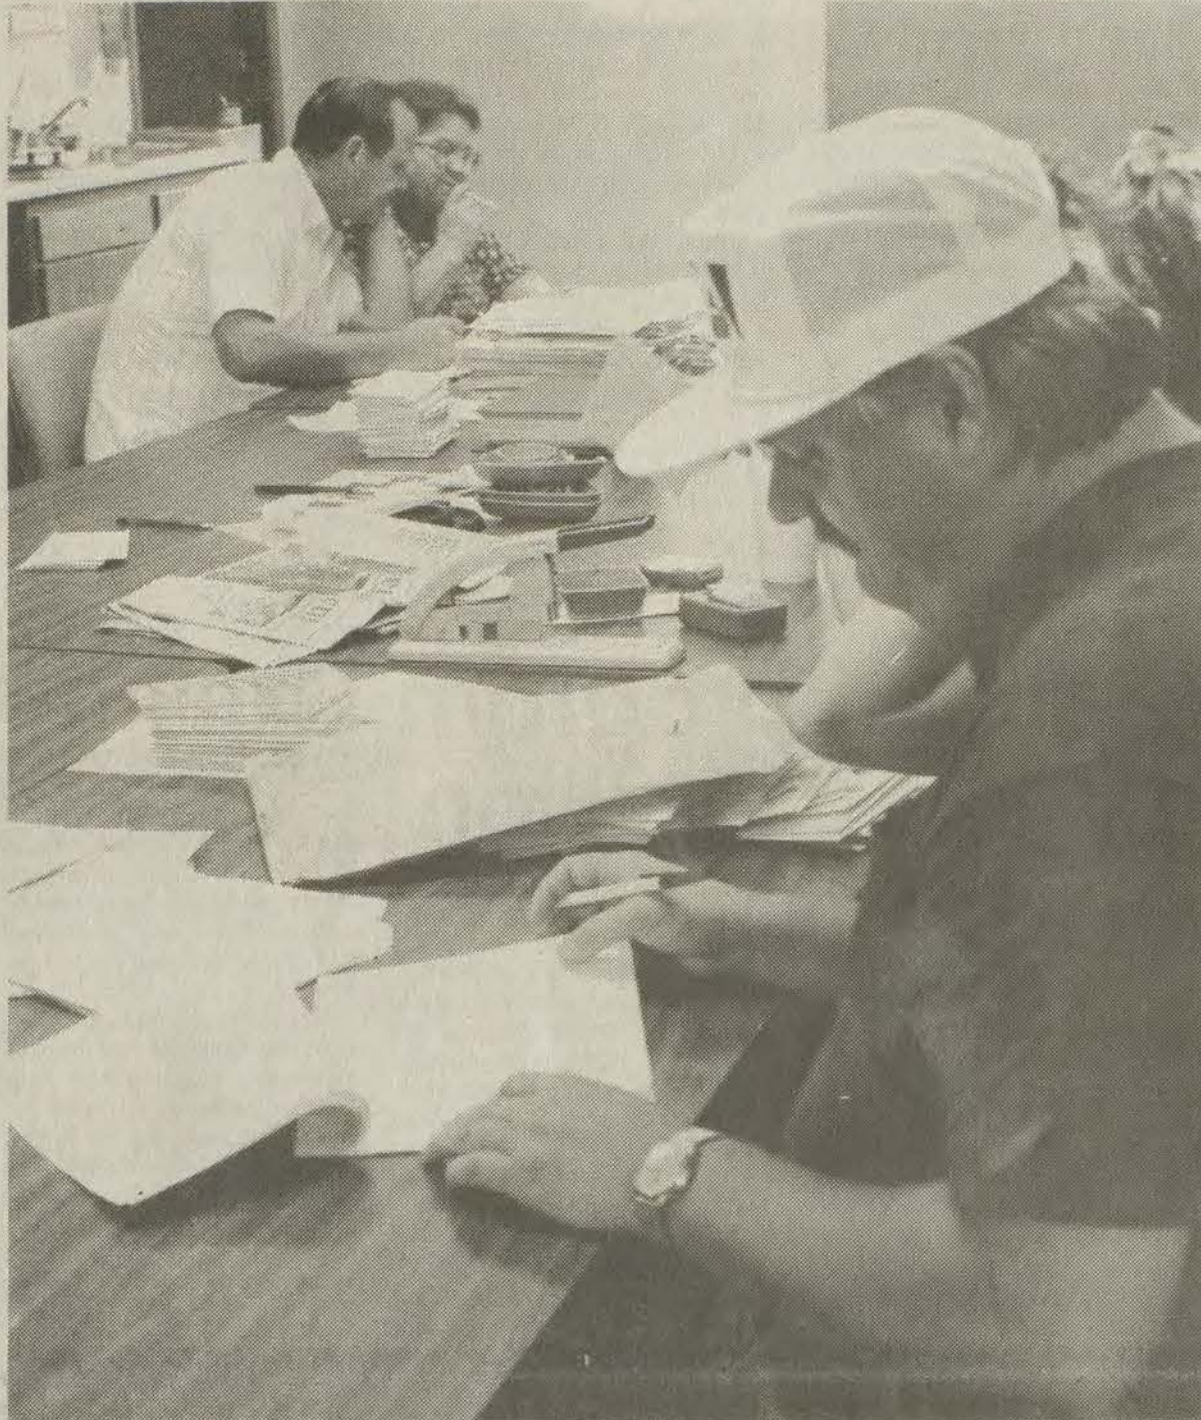

Lampe responded that under Kentucky's Education Reform Act, if a county's tax base declines the state will make up for the loss in revenues.

Campbell cut off the discussion at that point and instructed Hager to contact Moubray as soon as possible to schedule a meeting.

Hager said after the meeting that it would probably be next week before a meeting between the three could be scheduled.

Though talk of an increase in property taxes or levying a three percent utility tax was discussed at Tuesday's meeting between the budget committee, planning committee and board representatives, board members appeared opposed to any

Classified workers to set course Tuesday

More than four dozen classified employees of the Floyd County Board of education voted unanimously Thursday evening at Stumbo Park to authorize a walkout, but they put strike plans on hold to see what their teaching counterparts will do.

The group, representing school bus drivers, cooks and janitors will meet again Tuesday, September 3, to set their course of action. The group said they would not cross a picket line if the district teachers decided to strike.

While a proposed pay increase was discussed at Thursday's meeting, classified employees appeared more concerned with board recognition of their vote to be represented by the Teamsters union and indicated during the meeting that union recognition was a priority issue.

The vote Thursday to authorize a walkout was 55-0, but the number voting was, by far, a minority of the classified employees working for the county school system.

In an August 19 meeting of the county board of education, a majority of board members polled by Teamsters representative Ron Abshire indicated they would not endorse union representation for classified employees.

Blood drive sets new donor marks

A cry for help was heard and heeded this week as more than 175 people turned out at the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Prestonsburg to give for the "Great American Blood Drive."

According to Billy Biddle, donor resources consultant, three records were broken during this week's drive, which was conducted on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The single day record is now set at 66 registering to donate; the blood-drive total record was passed with 178; and the Rotary vs. the Jaycees on-going battle surpassed the past three drives' total collection.

Pikeville also had a record-setting drive this past week with over 160 pints collected, Biddle added.

Anyone who still wishes to donate can give at the Prestonsburg Center, located in the Municipal Building, on Tuesdays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. or Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Bizzack is low bidder for overpass

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Preliminary construction could begin this fall on the Prestonsburg connector from new Route 23, but full-scale development won't begin before the spring of 1992.

Tentative approval was given last Friday, August 23, to a $15.4 million bid for the ambitious project, which calls for construction of an overpass near Glyn View Plaza. The construction bid, offered by Bizzack Bros. Construction, has not yet been awarded.

According to Chuck Childers, a construction engineer in the Pikeville office of the state Transportation Cabinet, the Prestonsburg connector for new Route 23 will be elevated, passing over Route 114 near Glyn View Plaza, and joining existing Route 23 near the Holiday Inn. The connector will offer continuous traffic flow, with no stop lights, and on-off ramps to allow access to and from Prestonsburg via existing Route 23.

The project is part of the reconstruction and four-laning of Route 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The Floyd County section of the 13-mile new road is well underway and construction of the Johnson County segment is tentatively scheduled to begin in 1992.

Bizzack Bros. Construction has also begun building an intersection which

Transplant recipient is a "miracle," doctors say

Larry Hardin, 44, nephew of Prestonsburg resident Pat Mills, became the first Martin County native to successfully undergo a heart transplant operation, having survived the critical first 48 hours in good shape in the University of Kentucky intensive care unit at Lexington.

"He's a miracle," said Hardin's surgeon, Dr. Michael Sekela, who headed the seven-man operating team.

The transplant took about four and one-half hours, starting at 4 a.m. last Wednesday. Hardin was removed to the recovery area at 8:30 a.m.

Within 22 hours of the operation, he was weaned from the mechanical respirator. On Friday the drain was removed along with the IV's.

He was sitting up on Saturday and started on solid food. On Sunday he was able to move to a chair and receive visitors with the promise that he would soon leave the ICU for a private room.

Hardin, son of the late Sandy Hardin, a former Prestonsburg police officer, and Vicie Blackburn Hardin, was taken to the Big Sandy Regional Airport by a neighbor, Keither Endicott, and flown to the medical center where he immediately underwent the surgery.

Because Hardin is doing so well, Dr. Sekela assured family members that he is "95 percent" sure that Hardin will not reject the heart. He was scheduled to undergo his second biopsy, Wednesday. The first biopsy showed no evidence of rejection.

Hardin, who also underwent quadruple heart bypass surgery, will be in the hospital about twelve more days, according to Mrs. Mills, and then he must stay in an apartment adjacent to

School parents camp out to get choice of teachers

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Parents of students attending John M. Stumbo Elementary at Grethel lined up early Wednesday morning for the annual and unusual ritual of registering their children for classes—at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Parents who wanted to pick their children's teacher for 1991-92 school year knew they had to get there early to be the first in line for registration. They also knew that if they left the school premises, they would lose their place in line unless a replacement relieved them. Their stand-in had to meet criteria established by the principal in order to keep their position at the school.

Requirements to be declared a stand-in are to be at least 18 years of age and be a relative of the person who was leaving the school grounds.

"My sister got here at 5 a.m.," said Freda Allen Wednesday. "She wanted her daughter to be in one certain teachers room. I'm saving her place while she went home."

Though some parents felt the situation was ridiculous, they stayed at the school in order to pick a teacher for their children.

"I don't understand why it's done this way, I think it's silly," said Don Laferty, whose children will be in fifth grade. "I went to school at Prestonsburg Grade School and they stopped doing this in the 1950s. But, I understand the teachers voted to do it this way."

Laferty said that although the parents have a good time during the long wait, he thinks children should be alphabetically assigned to teachers.

"There's only so many slots available anyway," Laferty said. "After that it doesn't matter. I think it's become more important this year because most grades are going to be split. Parents really don't want their kids in split grades."

Sharp eye leads to arrest of kidnapping suspect

A keen eye by a Prestonsburg Police officer Tuesday evening led to the recovery of a vehicle stolen from Ohio and the arrest of a Floyd County man under indictment.

Patrolman Mike Conn observed a suspicious vehicle at Greer Meat Company on South Lake Drive at 10 p.m. Tuesday and his investigation resulted in the recovery of the vehicle reported stolen from Warren, Ohio and two arrests.

Jennifer R. Nosse, 19, of Warren, Ohio and Floyd E. Kirby, 18, of Auxier were arrested by Conn and were lodged in the Floyd County Jail. Kirby was indicted by a Floyd County Grand Jury earlier this year on charges of kidnapping and theft, said Prestonsburg Police chief Greg Hall. Nosse and Kirby remained lodged in jail awaiting extradition to Ohio to face charges on the auto theft, said a jail spokesman.

School campout

The mood at the school took on a picnic-like atmosphere with baskets of food, parents joining in card games and others reading while stretched out on lawn chairs, the fact that there were no bathroom facilities available because the building was locked angered the parents.

"Parents were also here Sunday night," said Fayette Slone. "But, the building was kept open so the bathrooms would be available. Some people here don't have anyone to stand-in for them and it's just not fair. All of this could have been done in one day anyway, I don't know why we have to do this."

Slone said parents made the decision to camp out all night at the school because choosing their child's teacher was important to them. But, she didn't understand why it had to be done in such a manner.

"It seems that they just want to see what they can make us do," Slone said. "I've never seen anything like it."

"I think it's some kind of power play," Laferty said. "It's really a sad thing. But we all try to make the best of it and enjoy each other's company."

How does anyone know if a parent leaves the school grounds?

"Oh, there's people watching," Laferty said. "They know when someone leaves and then their number is given to someone else. One guy that was here at 5:00 (a.m.) had to leave to babysit. He came back and his number was up in the 50s. It's just unbelievable."

So as dusk began to settle in

Wednesday, those fortunate to have stand-ins took orders for food from those less fortunate and the group of parents went back to reading their magazines and playing cards waiting for the doors to open at 10 a.m.

John M. Stumbo principal Gary Newman could not be reached for comment.

the hospital in Lexington.

In most instances, heart transplant patients must remain close by the cardiology section for a couple of months. In Hardin's case, though, Dr. Sekela said Hardin must remain near the unit for about four weeks. Then he would be able to return home and released into the care of Dr. Rodney Handshoe.

Medical expenses are accelerating. The apartment, which houses exercise equipment Hardin will need during his recovery period, costs about $160 per day, according to Mrs. Mills. The surgery costs more than $300,000, she said.

To help the family offset these expenses, contributions may be made to the "Larry Hardin Fund." Donations may be submitted to the Reverends Carl Crum and Jess Perry at the Big Elk Baptist Church.

Greeting cards or letters of encouragement may be mailed to Hardin at:

University of Kentucky Hospital, Chandler Medical Center, Room 678, Lexington, Kentucky.

Hardin and his wife, Ada Horn Hardin, reside on Hardinville Road at Blacklog in Martin County. His wife and her son, Orville Ray Horn, are staying with him through his recovery at UK Hospital.

For more information about Hardin, call Mrs. Joe Mills at 886-6244.

Early intervention program receives almost $1 million

Kentucky children aged birth through two who have a developmental delay will reap the benefits of early intervention services, thanks to a federal grant.

The U.S. Department of Education has granted the state's Infant/Toddler Program (ITP) $979,000 for identification of children who are in need of early intervention, for case management and for written family service to identify children who are in need of early intervention services and to work out a plan of action for helping these children," said Dennis Boyd, commissioner of the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services.

"By spending money on the very young with developmental delays, we not only save money in the long run but give these children the extra attention and help they need to be successful," said Boyd.

"We want to avoid having these children play the catch up game the rest of their lives."

ITP is an "umbrella" for various ongoing and developing intervention projects seeking to identify and serve children who have a developmental delay.

Developmental delays are mental and/or physical delays in development that occur at an early age. Early intervention services increase the chance for children with developmental delays of leading a more normal life than might otherwise be possible.

The services which will be provided under the grant include:

Evaluation and Assessment — a medical and developmental evaluation for determining program eligibility and for establishing what services the child and his or her family needs.

Service Coordination — all children will be assigned a service coordinator (caseworker) to help the family access available services in the community.

Individualized Family Service Planning — a plan of action; a service plan that is family focused will be developed for all eligible children.

Approximately 1,100 infants and toddlers have been identified as having a developmental delay or a condition which may lead to a delay and are presently receiving services.

increase in taxes.

"We can give teachers a six percent increase and classified workers a 10 percent increase without raising taxes," Billips said after the meeting. "I think it's ludicrous to raise taxes at this point. We've not even gone through a full year of last year's increase and the reassessment of property in this county is not finished."

Board member Tommy Boyd agreed with Billips about a tax increase, but said he wanted to honor the 13.5 percent salary increase promised to teachers.

"We promised them that and we should do it," Boyd said. "I hope Moubrey can come in and find it. I worry that they might strike."

FCEA's executive committee has scheduled a meeting Friday (today) to discuss Thursday's developments.

ties in the new route with existing Route 23 near Highlands Regional Medical Center. That project is slated for completion in the late spring or early summer of 1992, and includes a new bridge spanning the Big Sandy River.

Meanwhile, a proposed connector tying new Route 23 with the existing highway at Hager Hill in Johnson County apparently has been put on hold. According to a report in Wednesday's Paintsville Herald, state highway officials will redesign the Johnson County tie-in after contaminated soil was found in the path of the original project. The newspaper reported that a report on soil testing had not been completed this week and no new plans had been developed for the Johnson County intersection.

Kentucky food stamp program earns federal award

For the second consecutive year, the Kentucky Department for Social Insurance has earned a $4 million bonus for operating one of the most accurate food stamp programs in the nation.

Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson announced recently that a check for $4,274,224 will be presented in August to state officials.

That brings to more than $8 million the bonuses Kentucky has earned since the U.S. Department of Agriculture began the food stamp eligibility determination and distribution accuracy reward program two years ago. It also represents 67 percent of the federal bonus funding given out this year.

Robinson attributed Kentucky's showing to the agency's 1,400 food stamp caseworkers. "Our employees are hard-working, dedicated people who care that their clients receive all the benefits they are eligible for," he said.

"Plus, we have a nationally recognized training program that has played a part in reducing and keeping the number of mistakes to a minimum," he added.

For the 1990 federal fiscal year, Kentucky's food stamp program had an error rate of 4.37 percent on $330 million in benefits. "That's the second best in the nation and more than a full percentage point better than the seven other states in the southeast region," said Robinson.

"Our program was second only to a state food stamp program with a caseload significantly lower than Kentucky's and with administrative costs per case twice as high as ours."

Hawaii led the nation in 1990 with a food stamp error rate of 4.06 percent on $81 million in benefits. At the same time, Hawaii averaged $41 in administrative costs on its 33,105 cases while Kentucky spent only $20 each in administrative costs for its 174,359 cases.

The national average spent on administrative costs is $21 per case.

Kentucky's 1990 error rate also represented an improvement over 1989, when it had the lowest rate in the nation at 4.79 percent.

Robinson said the department would develop a plan to use the funds to improve the agency's services during the current fiscal year.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

Every bank likes to loan large sums to qualified customers. But, at First Guaranty National Bank, we welcome the opportunity to make even the smallest loan too. We know that small beginnings can lead to steady and constant growth because we were small once too.

When we first opened back in 1946, we made small loans to our neighbors. Young couples borrowed just enough to fix up a place to start housekeeping. Soon, families grew and eagerly anticipated a new home of their own.

We were especially pleased when those couples came back to let us finance their new homes. Folks didn't move around much in those days and homes were built with a lifetime in mind. A lot of care and planning were involved and we were there to help.

First Guaranty National Bank is and always has been locally owned so we've been around to watch as those homes assumed characters all their own. We've seen skinny seedlings grow into tall shade trees and flower beds flourish more beautifully each year. Now some of those homes are called the old homeplace and the memories they hold are precious.

Yes, small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank. They give us the opportunity to meet needs and to establish lasting relationships with new customers. Relationships that have taken us from a brand new bank back in 1946 to a strong and sound financial institution today. So sound, in fact, that we are one of only three banks in Kentucky recognized in the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

The check's in the mail

To tax or not to tax.

To teach or not to teach.

Those are the questions.

The answer to the first could ultimately decide the answer to the last, and that is the problem.

Of course the situation is much more complicated than that and we'd explain it to you if we understood it ourselves.

But we don't, so we won't.

What we do understand is that school is about ready to not start in Floyd County.

Everything old is new again.

One year after a 10-day teachers' strike delayed the start of the 1990-91 school year the basic bones of contention are the same and the results are likely to be the same.

This is education reform?

Seven months ago, state Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen proclaimed Floyd County as the "Cinderella" of school reform.

Looks like Cinderella's carriage turned back into a pumpkin on the way to the ball and the new, improved Department of Education more appropriately fits the description of the Invisible Man than it does any semblance of Prince Charming.

Meanwhile, the Floyd County Board of Education and superintendent Ronald Hager have provided the leadership of mules, refusing to budge even after the two-by-four hit them squarely between the eyes.

As if a year's worth of inaction wasn't enough, we now have the prospect of another tax increase to ice the cake and, presumably, to pay for another year's battle in the education revolution.

Yeah, right.

The check's in the mail.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

A MUCH NEEDED CAMPAIGN FOR CHILDHOOD IMMUNIZATION

I want to use this week's Report to Kentucky to spread the word about a very important campaign — the National Immunization Campaign against diseases now threatening a growing number of our children.

It is a sad fact that our nation is falling behind in this vital area of health care — with intolerable results.

Our national immunization rate for children under the age of two is among the lowest in the Western Hemisphere. In Kentucky, only slightly more than half of our children are receiving all of the immunizations they need by that age.

The result is that thousands of children are now being exposed to preventable diseases that appeared to have been brought under control only a few years ago.

Kentucky so far has not felt the most serious consequences of this changing situation. But we are seeing signs of a national epidemic of measles. More than 27,000 cases of measles and more than 80 deaths from related complications were reported on a national basis in 1990.

We cannot ignore this growing — and unnecessary — threat to the lives and well-being of our children.

This is why I want to pass along some crucial information on the immunization campaign being launched by the Children's Action Network, involving leaders of the entertainment industry and the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Working with the Surgeon General and a broad coalition of health professionals and others, the network has set out to educate parents on the need to begin vaccination programs in the very early months of children's lives.

The network has established a toll-free line — 1-800-525-6789 — for those desiring information on such vital subjects as the availability of childhood immunizations regardless of the ability to pay.

Another goal of the campaign is to strengthen public support for health-care and vaccination programs for our children.

I know that Kentucky has a strong commitment to progress in these areas. And the Congress has been working on proposals for increased federal support of sorely needed immunization programs.

We have a lot of work to do on a national health-care system that has left 37 million Americans, including 700,000 Kentuckians, without health insurance of any kind.

But we cannot wait for answers to the problem of childhood immunization. We should be hearing a lot more about this issue — and about the current campaign — during National Immunization Week beginning September 21.

This is one campaign that could go a long way in preventing unnecessary suffering and protecting the future of our children. I hope that Kentuckians will be fully involved in this effort — and that we will begin to see the best possible results in the very near future.

Kentucky Partnership for School Reform To Begin Public Information Campaign

By John R. Hall
Chairman and CEO
Ashland Oil, Inc.
Partnership Co-Chairman

For 625,000 Kentucky children, school will never be the same. The Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) guarantees that it will be better than it used to be.

Since this landmark legislation was passed in 1990, educators, administrators, state and local officials, parents and concerned citizens have been working diligently to carry out the vast changes required by the law.

Many of those changes have already occurred. On the state level, the Education Cabinet has been reorganized under newly appointed Education Commissioner Thomas E. Boysen. A new State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education is already functioning. At the local level, 139 of Kentucky's 176 school districts have enacted tax increases to take advantage of the law's funding mechanism. New facilities are being planned. Equipment is being purchased. Parent-teacher councils are being formed. Teacher salaries have been improved. Kindergarten programs are being offered for at-risk four-year-old students. Family resource and youth services centers are being created.

That's the short list. A lot of exciting change is taking place in public schools across Kentucky today. So much is happening that it's difficult to keep pace with the changes. Most people have heard of the Kentucky Education Reform Act, but research has shown that few believe they really know what the law provides.

A new public awareness campaign that will kick-off this month should help remedy this situation. This massive campaign is being sponsored by the Partnership for Kentucky School Reform and funded by private donations. The partnership is a non-partisan coalition of more than 50 public and private leaders representing Kentucky's business, civic, governmental and educational organizations.

The partnership is an outgrowth of the national Business Roundtable's 10-year commitment to education and was spearheaded by the chief executives of United Parcel Service, Humana and Ashland Oil.

The public awareness campaign has both advertising and public relations activities. Television, radio, billboard and newspaper advertising, as well as displays in 12 Kentucky malls, will tell Kentuckians about KERA. A traveling display housed in a colorfully decorated school bus features key KERA provisions. A special section of the bus can be tailored for each community the bus will visit.

The effort is designed to help all Kentuckians understand the general provisions of the law. Over the next two years, we hope to have the big yellow school bus make a stop in every Kentucky school district. A visit by the bus will enable every community to be aware of KERA and what it takes to make school reform happen. Since the bus will have both state and local information, it should provide an opportunity for parents and others to find out more about changes within their school district.

We hope you will visit the school bus when it comes to your community, but not just to become versed in KERA. We hope you will use the visit to begin asking your local school officials questions about their plans to implement the important changes contained in the reform. If an honest and open dialogue can be established, it will go a long way toward helping to institute school-based decision making — another KERA component.

So, visit our big yellow school bus. Look for the ads in your local newspaper. Watch for them on television. Listen for them on the radio. They tell an important story about the future of Kentucky and better educational opportunities for everyone.

LRC offers school reform videotape

The Legislative Research Commission has produced a video program examining the 1990 Education Reform Act, with emphasis on the major changes that will be implemented in schools this fall.

Among the topics discussed are school-based decision making, the upgraded primary system, parental involvement in governing schools, the revamped state Department of Education, the new Office of Education Accountability, and changes in school financing.

Copies of the videotape, which runs 24 minutes, are available from the LRC's Office of Public Information. Tapes may be checked out and viewed or copied at no charge, or purchased for $10. Tapes are also being provided to commercial and cable TV outlets statewide.

Hosted by former WAVE-TV Frankfort reporter Ferrell Wellman, the program features comments from teachers, parents and administrators who are making the new law a reality. A previous tape introducing the reform act was prepared by the LRC last year and similarly distributed.

For a copy of the tape, contact the LRC Office of Public Information at (502)564-8100, or the Education Reform Hotline toll-free at 1-800-242-0520.

1 in 10 men get Prostate Cancer

A PSA Test can save them.

You Can Help.

For men, the prostate gland is a problem. Located at the base of the spine, it's small, about the size of your little finger, and produces fluids for the male reproductive system. Its location makes it impossible to see and difficult, and uncomfortable, to examine by a physician.

When cancer strikes, the disease is usually not discovered until it has spread to other parts of the body. This makes it difficult and often impossible to treat. Yet, like other cancers, if discovered early, treatment has a better chance of being successful.

A simple new blood test is now available to make routine checking for prostate cancer easier and more accessible than ever before. It's called the PSA or Prostate-Specific Antigen test. Like many other diagnostic tests, it isn't 100% perfect, but it is more effective than conventional tests.

HIGHLANDS REGIONAL
The Medical Center of Eastern Kentucky
US 23 North, Prestonsburg, KY

When used alone it increases detection chances by approximately 20%; in combination with a rectal exam, it increases chances by 35%.

Right now, about 100,000 cases of prostate cancer are diagnosed each year in the U.S., and 32,000 men will die of the disease. 1 in 10 men will develop prostate cancer during their lifetime and the risks increase with age. You can help. If you're a man, ask your doctor for a PSA test. If you're a woman, talk to the men in your life and urge them to get a PSA test. Simply call your family physician.

Because what you know can save your life.

The PSA test is one in a series of new diagnostic tests available through the clinical laboratory at Highlands Regional Medical Center, serving your physician with newer and better testing procedures.

For a free brochure describing the PSA test, phone Ann Martin 1-800-533-HRMC.

HRMC offers new prostate cancer detection testing

A new blood analysis procedure to aid in the detection of Prostate Cancer is being offered by the Clinical Lab at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

The test, for measuring Prostate-Specific Antigen or PSA, is accomplished through a simple blood test. According to medical researchers, this could provide an effective, easily available method of screening for Prostate Cancer, the number two cause of cancer death among men in the U.S. after lung cancer.

In recent studies, the PSA blood test proved more accurate in detecting Prostate Cancer than traditional rectal examinations which have been the conventional method used by physicians. In 70% of the cases, rectal exams failed to detect the disease until it had spread to other parts of the body. The PSA blood test increases detection chances by approximately 20%; when used in combination with a rectal exam, it increases the chances by 34%.

The PSA blood test may make screening exams more popular and wide-spread.

Currently, about 100,000 cases of Prostate Cancer are diagnosed each year in the United States and 32,000 die of the disease annually. One in 10 men will develop Prostate Cancer during their lifetime and the risks increase with age, especially among men with a family history of the disease. Treatment of Prostate Cancer includes surgical removal of the Prostate Gland as well as hormonal treatments, radiation therapy and chemotherapy.

The National Cancer Institute announced plans for a major study on the effectiveness of PSA screening and early treatment, but the results won't be available for approximately 10 years.

The Prostate Gland produces fluids in the male reproductive system. Under normal conditions it produces measurable amounts of Prostate-Specific Antigen which increase in volume when the gland becomes enlarged. Cancer can be a cause of enlargement and an increased level of PSA in the blood stream. But not all elevated PSA levels are cancer.

related. Similarly, not all cancers result in elevated PSA levels. Even so, the PSA test is more accurate than other currently available tests. Additionally, it is a relatively easy, convenient an economical means for family physicians to test their patients.

The clinical laboratory at Highlands Regional Medical Center has recently offered state-of-the-art, computerized PSA testing according to John G. Boswell, M.D., staff Pathologist and medical Director of the lab. Family physicians may refer their patients to Highlands for a blood sampling, a procedure which takes approximately 10 minutes. The PSA test is then performed by the lab and results are forwarded to the family physician. If results are suspicious, the family physician will order additional diagnostic testing such as a needle biopsy, in which a small tissue sample is extracted for analysis.

The PSA test is one of a series of new diagnostic tests available through the clinical laboratory at Highlands. Additional capabilities include a second Dimension system for blood chemical analysis; a Bactech Automatic Microscan Blood Culture unit; and a Sysmax automated Hematology analyzer that checks blood for a wide range of blood disorders from anemia to leukemia. A new automated microbiology system now provides complete analysis for such things as throat cultures in 6 hours compared with 18 to 24 hours previously required. And, buy fall, a new IMX system for tumor markers will assist in cancer detection without the use of radioactive tracer materials.

Highlands and its medical laboratory are accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

Impetigo, contagious skin infection, requires prompt medical attention

Impetigo is a messy and moderately contagious skin infection which is most common among children but, can attack a newborn infant.

The infection is caused by common bacteria, and it often starts with a minor scratch. It seems to be more common during warm weather, particularly among children who are living under crowded conditions.

When impetigo is first noticed, it takes the form of a sore, often on the upper lip. A blister forms, and when it breaks the secretion dries to form a thick, golden crust. Under this thick crust, the sores spread to other parts of the face and sometimes to the hands.

Many physicians feel that antibiotics are needed in all cases of impetigo. These may be prescribed as oral medications or as injections.

For many cases of impetigo, it is advisable to cleanse the sores with soap and to expose the 'de-crusted' area to the air. In other cases, your physician may suggest that you use an antibiotic or other antiseptic ointment to speed the healing process. One important thing to remember is, after any treatment to the sores, do not cover them with a bandage. It will delay the healing. It usually takes a week or two for the sores to heal completely. Impetigo temporarily leaves blemishes, but it does not leave permanent scars.

The disease spreads from one person to another only through direct contact. A youngster with an active infection should be kept home from school and away from other children in the home and should have separate towel and washcloth from other members in the family. Towels, sheets and clothing should be thoroughly laundered. The person who is taking care of the infected child should scrub his or her hands with antibacterial soap after treating the sores.

The child with impetigo needs to see a doctor. If a newborn baby is infected, the disease can be very severe and should be treated by a doctor immediately. If an older child

Recently a contract was awarded in the amount of $500,000 to construct a new gymnasium at the center which will provide recreation space for the Job Corps students. Local residents will also be involved with the students in intramural activities.

U.S. Congressman Chris Perkins is a staunch supporter of the National Job Corps program and is very proud of the Carl D. Perkins Center which is named in honor of his late father. Carl Perkins was responsible for much of the legislature that established Job Corps, and Chris Perkins has continued his effort in his current position as chairman of the House of Employment Opportunities Sub-Committee.

OLW receives approval to train others: Aids training for professionals

As of July 1, the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, in meeting the requirements of KRS 214.610, has mandated that certain licensed professionals must complete an educational course on the transmission, control, treatment, and prevention of Human Immunodeficiency Virus Infection as a condition of relicensure.

As a healthcare provider, Our Lady of the Way is concerned with the transmission, control, treatment, and prevention of this disease. Because of this concern, and to assist other healthcare providers, two OLW employees have been working to gain approval for an AIDS Education Training Seminar.

Judy Hamm, Infection Control Nurse and Leeda Music, 3-11 pm House Supervising Nurse put together the program that was submitted to the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources for approval. In May of this year, Hamm and Music received approval for their training seminar after a review committee for the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources determined that the program was, in fact, in accordance with the requirements mandated by KRS 214.610.

After gaining approval, Hamm and Music attended a course entitled, "AIDS-Train the Trainer" seminar at the Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital, which is offered by the East Central AIDS Education and Training Center.

The Mason AIDS Bill states that

Podiatrists, Chiropractors, Optometrists, Social Workers, EMTs, Dentists, Certified Lab Workers and their staff, Physical Therapists, Athletic Training Personnel, and Pharmacists must complete the educational training as a condition for relicensure.

To date, Hamm and Music have given two AIDS Training Seminars and have two to give in the near future. The Seminar approved for use by Our Lady of the Way contains the following objectives:

- * Identify facts concerning AIDS and HIV infection
- * Understand the prevalence of AIDS and HIV infection within the USA and the local community
- * Identify modes of transmission associated with high risk behaviors
- * Describe and identify the concept of universal precautions
- * Recognize the importance of and use of barrier devices and universal precautions
- * Identify methods of environmental kill of HIV Virus
- * Identify the needs of AIDS victims, and assist them in obtaining services through the use of national, state, and local resources.

According to Hamm, "This is a much needed educational training seminar and we are willing to work with any organization that needs training."

If your organization has employees that must meet the requirements or if you just want to offer this educational seminar to your employees, call Judy Hamm at 285-5181, ext.

363 to arrange a date and time.

AIDS is a rapidly growing epidemic and healthcare providers or community service providers must be prepared to react and serve appropriately.

Free and reduced meal guidelines announced

The Kentucky Department of Education recently announced the policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price for meals served in school participating in the National School Lunch Program and/or School Breakfast Program. Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility. The listing is for family size, income for free meals and income for reduced meals:

One person, $0 - 8,606, $8,607 - 12,247; two people, $0 - $11,544, $11,545 - $16,428; three people, $0 - $14,482, $14,483 - $20,609; four people, $0 - $17,420, $17,421 - $24,790; five people, $0 - $20,358, $20,359 - $28,971; six people, $0 - $23,296, $23,297 - $33,152; seven people, $0 - $26,234, $26,235 - $37,333; eight people, $0 - $29,172, $29,173 - $41,514.

For each additional family member, add $2,938 per year to the income level for free meals and $4,181 to the income level for reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Foster children may also be eligible for these meals. Families with foster children should contact the school for information regarding benefits. Additional forms are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time with each school district required to verify a sample annually. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

For school officials to determine eligibility, households receiving food stamps or AFDC must list the child's name, their food stamp or AFDC case number and the signature and name of an adult household member. Households not receiving food stamps or AFDC must list: child's name, names of all household members, social security number of the parent or guardian who signs the application (or an indication that neither possesses a social security number), the amount of monthly income received by each household member, identified by source, and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data.

Households that list a food stamp or AFDC case number must report when the household no longer receives these benefits. Other households approved for benefits are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size. Also, if a household member becomes unemployed, or if the household size increases, the household should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for benefits if the household's income falls at or below the levels shown above.

Under the provisions of this policy, a school official will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the determination, he/she may contact the school either orally or in writing.

In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child shall be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If any member of a household believes that he has been discriminated against, he should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

A "Fair" exhibit

Coal highlighted at State Fair

Kentucky's five coal associations, the Governor's Office for Coal and Energy Policy, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Department of Surface Mine Reclamation and Enforcement along with several Kentucky coal companies, sponsored a "coal exhibit" at the Kentucky State Fair, recently held in Louisville.

Kevin Myers, Director of Community Relations for Coal Operators

& Associates, Inc. said, "The coal exhibit allowed the industry to go to the people. Surveys show that people are just not educated about coal and this is one place to start educating."

Exhibit seekers were able to get free coal samples, coloring books, other coal paraphernalia and ask questions about the industry.

Everyone involved with the exhibit termed it as a success and plan to revive the idea for next year's Kentucky State Fair.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

LOOKING BACK: TEACHERS THAT MADE A DIFFERENCE

This week, I'm beginning school as a freshman at Prestonsburg Community College. It is a very awkward feeling for me to not be returning to McDowell High, so I thought I'd take this opportunity to give credit to the people that have gotten me this far into life. I never thought I'd be thanking the very teachers who put me through sheer misery for 13 years. I guess now that I'm older, I can appreciate the dedication teachers give to their students.

Thank you, Pam Frazier, my kindergarten and second grade teacher. I thought I was pretty intelligent in those days, and you gave me my first experiences at being at the head of the class (which I enjoyed thoroughly). Thanks also for tolerating my behavior. I have many great memories of your classroom.

Thanks, Phil Paige, for challenging my mind. I admit that I was scared to death the first time I entered your class, but I soon grew to like and respect you. I had always made good grades, but you expected more from me than anyone else had. I actually had to study, but it was worth it. You had fresh ideas and made even the most boring work seem interesting. You taught me that I could do anything if I tried hard enough.

To my talented and gifted teacher, Sharon Martin Lavender, thanks for bringing out my creativity. You were the one who gave me the idea to study advertising in college (which I still want to do). You even took me on the most interesting field trip I ever went on, the infamous trip to the bread factory. Boy, was that interesting.

Sally Miller, I could never thank you enough. You gave me my start in journalism. You helped me to shape my ideas into stories. You pushed me into writing poetry, which I now love. You even listened to all my problems and helped me to solve them. I owe so much to you.

To you, Billie Jean Osborne, I'm so grateful for everything you've done. After being around you, I gained confidence and learned to be proud of myself. You taught me to enjoy life and what it has to offer. You took me to the Kentucky Opry and let me live a part of your dreams. Thank you for everything.

No, Willie Elliott, I'm not going to leave you out, even though you pushed me around when I was a freshman. It was you that helped me to get my first articles into the paper. You were also a good critic of my work. Thanks.

To the rest of my teachers, I'm sorry that I couldn't name you all. Each of you has a place in my heart. I appreciate all of the teachers, guidance counselors, and principals. Thanks for all the experiences, memories, and tests (well, maybe not the tests).

Poetry contest deadline is near

The poem should be no more than 20 lines and the poet's name and address should appear on the top of the page. Entries must be postmarked by September 30, 1991. A new contest opens October 1, 1991.

Mountain Voices — by Willie Elliott —

WHAT A WEEK

Last week was a busy one for me. In fact it was so busy that I did not have a chance to write one thing during the whole week. Considering the things that I took part in, the time away from writing was worth it. However, I would not want this type of schedule to become habit forming.

Member of the county-wide budget committee met at 1:30 on Monday, and this meeting was followed by a meeting of the district planning committee. It may be that we will look back on these two meetings and say this is where education took a more positive turn in Floyd County. I saw teachers, administrators, parents, and community leaders work together in an atmosphere much different from what might be expected under the circumstances as they now stand. Representatives from these two groups made recommendations to the Floyd County Board of Education, and I gathered that the board was willing to work on the plan in good faith. Regardless of what the board does (or can do) with the proposal, we must not lose sight of what took place in those two meetings. We have to put together a good school system, or we all go down the tube together. If these two meetings are just two bricks in a large structure, they are two blocks we didn't have before.

I was expected to attend both the budget committee and district planning committee and then help with the teacher's rally before the board. It is important that we are not given certain things simply because we have not asked for them. Then, there are some things (such as access to budgets) that will create some friction. We simply must diplomatically work through this friction.

I take some liberty in saying that I was busy Tuesday. I spent the early evening hours playing tennis. I think it is important that one gets his backhand and overhead shots down pat before returning to school. If a person went back to school with these shots all fouled up, it would have an effect on his teaching performance. Best to get these things corrected in time to start the school year with high hopes and determination. Is this a good enough excuse? Well, it is all I have to offer.

On Wednesday the site based council at McDowell High School spent a whole evening (up till 11:30 p.m.) interviewing candidates for the principalship at this school. This is certainly one task that cannot be taken lightly. The council members, faculty, and student body will be affected greatly by the decision that this group makes in this matter. This is what the legislators had in mind when they enacted KERA, and I suppose most members who envisioned this system did not intend for the decisions to be easy.

On Thursday I attended a meeting with other teachers, parents and administrators on the extended school program which includes the summer school program and after school tutoring programs. This program has so much to offer that it behooves all of us to look into the possibilities for our students. Here, I think, is a chance to do some things that are a little different. There is money for this program. Let's get out there and use that money for creative learning.

On Friday I was in Prestonsburg with representatives from KET. This group was working on ways to improve the quality of education that is offered on the STAR channels on KET. Hopefully, I learned something that will make the German class more meaningful for my students this year.

I mention these things not to get someone to think what a martyr I am or how hard I work. I do mention them to illustrate that the job of a teacher is a hard one. But more than that, I mention them to point out what can be done when we work as a team. When people have some input into the decisions of a system, they are happy. Happy people accomplish things. Unhappy people screw things up.

I look forward to the new school year. We have a new program in math that promises to be effective. We have more computers to work with. The individual teacher has more money to buy those things for creative teaching. All of these things are terrific, but they will lose most of their luster if we don't work as a team. I know we can do it. In fact, we don't have a choice. If we are to survive, we MUST work together.

Floyd Countian reaches out to communities through education and commitment

Dr. Donald Frazier has been involved in many firsts at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. He was the first Ph.D. student in the department of physiology and biophysics of which he currently sits as chair.

Born in the Floyd County town of Martin, Frazier grew up in a home where education was emphasized. "In my own family, I was lucky in that a college education was never a question—it was a given. Although my parents were certainly far from affluent, they proved they would make whatever sacrifice necessary to educate my sister and me," he said.

But it wasn't a career in science that initially brought him to UK. "I came to UK to play basketball and quickly learned that I'd better focus my talents on academics. My skill in basketball was not quite as good as I thought," he laughed.

As visions of a career in basketball diminished, Frazier considered medical school. "My uncle was a physician who ran a local clinic complete with its own drug store. My father ran the lab aspect of this clinic. They were famous for the fact that they never sent a bill."

For economic reasons Frazier went into a Ph.D. program rather than an M.D. program.

"I received a National Institutes of Health predoctoral fellowship to do a Ph.D. program that was a lot easier on me financially than paying for a clinical education," Frazier explained. "Looking back on it I still think that it was a good decision. I've been able to stay in the medical environment and participate in the education of physicians, as well as stay involved in research that has application to medical practice.

"I have a fair amount of time to spend on other endeavors such as science education, research and teaching," he continued. "In medical practice, to do it well, requires a considerable time commitment to your patients. The way I like to talk would have probably limited me to one patient a day. It's probably wise I turned to an academic career since I certainly very much enjoy the educational aspect."

After receiving his Ph.D. from UK, Frazier accepted a position in New Mexico for five years before returning permanently to UK. Upon his return, he simultaneously developed a laboratory at Marine Biological Labs in Wood's Hole, Mass. For nearly 11 years Frazier spent summers with his family in Wood's Hole.

"I was in charge of a neurosciences fellowship program known as the Grass Foundation Program. It was a terrific time in my life. I was here in the winter, would leave in May and stay on the Cape through September conducting experiments and taking care of my students. I owe the University of Kentucky quite a bit for allowing me that opportunity since it was indeed a turning point in my career."

In 1980, Frazier became chair of the department of physiology and biophysics. But his dedication has involved him in many projects and programs that extend beyond his administrative duties. He is currently the program director of a NIH program project grant which also lists him as the principal investigator on two of six projects. He has been a constant member of NIH panels and review groups.

When he's not speaking at a national seminar on the importance of biomedical research, or speaking in Washington on guidelines of scientific education, Frazier can often be found working in his office, down the hall teaching, or spending time with students on one of his innovative departmental programs.

One such program is the College of Medicine's Minority High School Student Research Apprentice Program of which Frazier serves as director. Now in its tenth year, the program has been highly successful. With an NIH budget that has increased from $3,000 to $30,000 since its inception, the program sponsored 15 students and two high school teachers this summer. The purpose of the program is to encourage minority students to develop a career interest in biomedical research and the health care professions. At the same time, high school science teachers who participate are challenged to feel again the excitement of research and to share this renewed interest with their students.

One reason Frazier's programs are successful is not only because of his personal interest in each project, but also his interest in the people who participate. His enthusiasm is infectious.

In addition to the high school apprentice program, Frazier has coordinated numerous other outreach opportunities including a program for undergraduate minority students, summer teacher workshops, and most recently, a toll-free science hotline. The hotline is available to students, teachers and parents in the state who need research information or have a "substantive" question. Currently, Frazier is the coordinator of the program. He takes most of the initial calls and answers the question or channels the call to a faculty resource person in another department. In one month, the hotline received more than 200 calls.

Frazier is committed to encouraging interested students to pursue a career in science despite the negative public image the field has been credited with. There has been a lot of national publicity concerning the impact of the relatively low funding for research grants submitted to the NIH. The image most often portrayed to the public is that of a career under siege. Understandably, this can create apprehension for a high school student who would like to envision a future in science. Frazier believes that there must be a more conscious effort to stress the positive side of a career in research.

Smile Awhile — by Sarah Hopson —

EMPTY NEST

For the past several weeks, friends of ours have been expressing their pain and anxiety brought about by their children who are leaving the area to attend college.

"I don't know what we're going to do with ourselves," one of my friends commented. "We haven't been alone for 24 years."

"Think of it as a time to get to know each other again," I said soothingly. "Now you'll have the opportunity to do what you used to do before the children came along."

"We're too old to do what we used to do," she cried.

"You're not that old," I reassured her.

"Maybe not, but everything we did centered around the kids. Now we'll be forced to do things alone."

"Is that so bad?" I asked.

"You just wait," she cautioned. "When J.R. leaves you'll be devastated. You'll see how hard it is to adjust."

"J.R. won't be leaving for four more years."

"Yes, I know. But believe me, the time will go by quickly. Then you'll be feeling the same way we are. The house will seem bigger, the nights will get longer, and you'll both wonder what you're going to do with yourselves."

While my friend worked herself into an anxiety attack, I remembered back to the time when my older sister first went away to college. Our entire family helped her pack and escorted her to the dorm where we all immediately started crying and hugging each other as if we would never see her again. On our way back home, we all started composing letters to her, reminiscing about all the good times we'd had together. As I recall, it was a sad episode in our lives that ended when she arrived home three days later for a weekend visit.

"What are you doing home?" my father asked.

"I was homesick."

"But it's only been three days. You used to take trips that lasted longer than that, but you never wanted to come home then."

"Aren't you glad to see me, Daddy?" she asked as she dumped a ton of dirty laundry onto the floor.

"Sure, but I thought we wouldn't see you until Thanksgiving."

"My money wouldn't last until then."

That began the first of many weekend visits that culminated in her returning home the second semester to attend the local community college. I tried to comfort my friend with this thought, but failed in my attempt when she screamed, "But we don't want him to come home!"

"Then why are you upset?"

"Because he's gone," she lamented, "and when he does come back, it won't be the same."

"He'll still be your son. Listen, birds do it all the time. They nurture their little ones, teach them how to survive, then they let them go."

"Thanks for the philosophy lesson," she groaned, "but he's leaving home not learning to fly."

Seeing that my attempt to console her was not working, I tried to agree with her dilemma by saying, "I don't know how you're going to survive it. It'll be difficult, but Thanksgiving will be there before you know it."

"That's encouraging. Then he'll be here for a couple of days before he leaves us alone again."

"But there's Christmas."

"So what? Then we'll just get used to his being here longer before he leaves us again!"

"I'll tell you what. I'll let J.R. move in with you for a couple of weeks so you can gradually adjust to his being gone."

"Would you really do that for us?"

"Sure. It'll give us some time to ourselves, and J.R. will enjoy the change. He's crazy about you all."

As I went into J.R.'s room and began packing his things, I noticed the posters on the walls, the scummy dish of half-eaten macaroni and cheese, the dirty socks under the chair, and the pizza spots on the ceiling. By the time I emerged from the room, I was hysterical. Going to the phone, I dialed my friend's number and began crying like a banshee. "Jean! How could you send your son away! It's unnatural."

"I don't suppose J.R.'s coming to stay with us, right?"

In four more years, I'll be the one leaving — in a straight jacket.

VACATION ANXIETY

Vacation starts tomorrow and I am so excited. This past week I have been seen prowling the office muttering to myself and occasionally screaming. Don't let this fool you though, I am not losing my mind, I am just making it painfully obvious that I need this vacation.

Although vacations may be relaxing and revitalizing, planning for them is not. I am going with a friend and we decided way back in June that we would coordinate our vacations so we could go together.

First we were real frivolous and wanted to go on a cruise. I guess in June we had that kind of money.

Come July, the money started getting short and we decided to change our plans to a road trip to visit a few friends along the east coast that I met while serving in Saudi Arabia.

We were going to go to Virginia Beach for two days, travel north to Washington D.C. for a day or two, bop on over to Baltimore and take a trip on a friend's boat to Ocean City, eat seafood and come back to Baltimore, then go to Fairmont, West Virginia, to visit yet another friend and possibly, time permitting, head on up to DuBois, Pennsylvania, to see my mom.

Well, sometime in early August my traveling partner decided she wanted to have a few days to rest up from our travels before returning to work and she wanted to come home a day or two early. Sounded good to me, sorry Mom.

Two weeks ago, I hadn't heard back from my friends in Baltimore and a co-worker was having his annual Labor Day Bash, which we wanted to attend, so we changed plans once again. We decided to cut everything out except Washington D.C. and we were going to take a train there and save on driving time.

So now the vacation was looking like a fun-filled weekend locally and then a three-day trip to D.C. with plenty of time left to recuperate. I would even be able to attend my Reserve drill weekend when I got home and wouldn't have to make it up.

Two days after we settled on these plans, I got a letter from the Baltimore gang saying they were anxious to see me and wanted to know more details of my plans. I went right to my friend's work and changed plans again. We haggled over the train ride for awhile, but determined it would be more economical, if longer, to drive.

Oh, I forgot to mention, sometime during all this my boss tried to talk me out of taking the vacation, reminding me that Hurricane Bob had hit Ocean City and it probably wouldn't be any fun there now, anyhow. No Way! I'm going, I've worked too hard planning this stupid trip.

Well, here I sit on Thursday morning, trying to get some last minute hotel reservations and I still haven't heard back from the Baltimore group. My touring partner is being pessimistic about the trip and I'm about ready to tear my hair out. What's still left of it, that is.

The whole reason we were being so flexible with our vacation plans in the first place was so we wouldn't feel rushed or as if we were going to miss something we had scheduled.

I'm sure it will all work out okay. It might not be the most memorable experience, but certainly won't forget the lesson on vacation planning that I've learned.

I'm almost looking forward to getting back to work so I won't feel so pressured. Next year, I'm taking the cruise. Then all I will have to decide is whether to fly or drive to the departure point.

Well, now when you don't see this column next week you will know why.

A Look At Sports
by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

HOW OFTEN DO YOU SEE IT.....

When a team that is supposed to be a favorite plays sloppy and then when the season is just about over and they are for all practical purposes eliminated, they begin to play like a team that is in front.

Such a team is the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds are playing the old Red machine of last year. The bats are hot; the pitchers are in the groove. If it wasn't so late in the season, you would say they had a shot at it. But, facing reality, it's over for all the teams in the National League West except the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves.

Marano Duncan has certainly been a different Duncan since coming off the disabled list. Bill Doran may have to set back and watch as Duncan's bat is smoking. Throw in a Chris Sabo and you have another Red who is shining. Sabo has 20 home runs and a good shot at surpassing last year's total of 25. How about that Hal Morris with seven points off the league lead in the batting title chase?

Even the pitching department has been a surprise in the past two weeks. Scott Scudder, also recently off the disabled list, has certainly pitched much better than earlier in the season. Tom Browning continues to struggle every time he takes the hill for the Reds, although he has won his previous two starts. Browning continues to give up the "gopher" ball, leading the league with 26 home runs yielded this season.

Eric "The Dead (Red)" Davis is back off the disabled list. If being on the DL has helped other players, what is the reason Davis isn't swinging a potent bat? Just doesn't care to, I suppose.

Is it good that the Reds' "kiddie corp" has started throwing strikes now? Well, yes and no. Yes, if you want to trade them during the winter months, the Reds can point to the strong finish they had. No, in that the Reds management is silly enough to think because they had a strong finish they will pitch well next season and just keep them on for next year. Depends on how you look at it.

It is too bad that someone had to end their season by crashing into an immovable wall. Lenny Dykstra, Philadelphia, is out for the year with a severe shoulder injury he suffered when he crashed into the leftfield wall at Riverfront. Management and especially the officials of the city of Cincinnati should have known that outfielders sometimes lose sight of the wall and body slam it. They should have known that someone could suffer such an injury that Dykstra suffered and pad the walls to begin with.

THE FIRST OF 10 WEEKS BEGINS TONIGHT...

And that means that cooler weather will be moving in and with it rain. Football season would be great if it just didn't rain. Can you imagine trying to take pictures while it is raining? Cameras are a very expensive piece of equipment and were not designed to be used in the rain. However, you have to try and try — and try — in order to at least get some pictures. Well, we're looking forward to the season anyway but just wishing that it would not rain, get cold, snow or freeze.

HERE'S A THOUGHT...

Will there be a football season if the teacher's decide they want to go on a strike? What will happen to contracts signed with other out-of-the-county schools whose teachers are not on strike? Interesting!

Be good sports, even if the teachers do strike. It is very becoming of a sports fan! Until Wednesday, good sports.

High School Football Opens Tonight

Prestonsburg Faces Estill County At Irvine

It has been a month since the Prestonsburg Blackcat football team began preparing for the start of the 1991 high school football season. Well, it all gets underway tonight as the Blackcats travel to Irvine to face Estill County in the Choo-Choo Bowl.

"We're in pretty good shape as far as injuries go," said Blackcat mentor Bill Letton. "We will have to be alert because Estill County has a pretty good football club."

The start of the 1991 season will be different from last year's in that the Blackcats were injury riddled in opening the season in '90. This year, however, the attitude in the Blackcat camp is very positive and Prestonsburg should be a top district contender.

Ten seniors return to this year's squad plus a corps of young talent. The Blackcats will have depth in the backfield, led by junior John Goble (5-10, 160). Joining Goble in the backfield will be sophomore Dwayne Garza (5-8, 185) and senior Josh Hyden (6-0, 165). Robbie Watson, a 5-10, 146 pound senior will see playing time in the backfield for Prestonsburg.

John Thomas Clark (5-10, 155) will play the split end spot while senior James Derosssett (6-3, 168) will be at the end position as will Kevin Vaughn (6-1, 153). Jason Crisp (5-8, 130) will play a flanker position as will junior Glenn May (6-0, 142).

Junior Aaron Tucker (6-3, 166) will call the signals for Prestonsburg against Estill County. Senior David Thacker (6-3, 204) will play center. Brian Horn (6-2, 278) will be at tackle on the line for the Blackcats as will Bill Bottoms (6-1, 225).

Prestonsburg will be facing a team that will undoubtedly be much smaller, especially on the offensive line.

"We'll average about 149-pounds on the front line," said Hoover Niece, the Engineers' head coach. "We're a very young team and a lot of our kids will have to go both ways. We don't have a lot of depth and having lost a lot of kids we'll have a depth problem. We call our line the "Smurfs" because of their size."

ording to Coach Niece, only three return with any experience from last year. "We have no returning seniors on our offensive line," he stated. "Defensively, we'll have four seniors and four sophomore's. We don't really have any one person that stands out on the defensive line that I could call the leader."

The Engineers lost their quarterback from last year and will move last year's wide receiver Johnny Bennett (6-1, 185) into the signal calling position. Pat Bailey will run at fullback and the tailbacks will be John Lyle or Lynn Freeman.

Estill County finished 7-4 last year and has moved from 3A to 2A this year. Estill must compete with such powerhouses as Danville, Mercer, Western Hills and Boyd County. Anderson and Bourbon are also in the same district.

Coach Niece says that he is anxious to get the season started and that he hopes that his team will show some improvement as the season goes on. "I think we will get better with each game. Maybe the Smurfs will become giants as the season progresses."

Niece said that the Engineers will mix up their offense about 50-50 in passing and running the football.

"We are not, not yet anyway, a good running team and we are untested at the quarterback spot," Niece commented. "We just have to wait and see what happens."

After the bowl game an offensive and defensive player from each team will be named. The winning team will also receive a trophy. Game time is 8 p.m. and it should be a good one

New Season Starts Tonight :

Trojans, Bobcats Open Season in Big Game

The Wheelwright Trojans and Betsy Layne Bobcats square off tonight in what could be a very big game for both ball clubs. It is more than just an opening game for both clubs — it means momentum.

Wheelwright will travel to Betsy

Layne tonight to get their 1991 season officially underway. Game time is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Trojans looked more impressive in their final preseason scrimmage against Jenkins, than they did against Phelps earlier. The performance of the Wheelwright backfield will be the key to an opening game win for Donnie Daniels club. Against Phelps they sputtered some but rushed for 142-yards against Jenkins Saturday night.

In the backfield will be Arnold Adams, a sophomore. Adams is more of a power runner taking the ball up the middle for the Trojans. Joining Adams will be the fleet-footed Steven Jackson. Jackson's quick step along with his speed makes him a threat in carrying the ball. No doubt the Bobcats defense will be keeping their eye on Jackson.

However, the Bobcats had better not get too keyed on Jackson as Ryan

Next Game: Magoffin County, home

Johnson will be the third runner out of the Trojan backfield. Johnson is one of those runners who, if he can break early tackles, can break away quickly.

Steven Shelton will start at the signal calling position for Wheelwright. Shelton is still having to prove that he can throw the football as he had but one completion in the two scrimmage games — a 35-yard toss to receiver Mutu Oden Saturday against Jenkins. Of course the offensive line for the Trojans is going to have to afford him more throwing time and that could be the rub. The Trojan line hasn't actually opened too many holes for the backfield.

Chuck Hutton has been impressive in the two scrimmage games. Hutton will take to the sidelines and then cut back and, if he finds an opening, he is a hard one to stop.

The Wheelwright defense has been very impressive in the two games. Led by Marty Tackett, Oden, Jackson and Shelton, this undoubtedly is the strong point of the Trojan team. The Trojans like to hit hard.

Hitting hard will be the thing they will have to do against the Bobcats. The Bobcats will be looking for revenge. The Trojans handed the Bobcats a loss at Wheelwright in opening the season last year and that will weigh heavily on the Bobcat minds.

The Trojan defense will be put to the test by a trio of runners. Jamie Kidd (5-10, 195) is quick, very quick. He's a strong ball carrier who reads the defense very well. Doug Hammonds (5-9, 150) likes the outside patterns and carries the football up the middle with a lot of power despite his size. Add James Keathley (5-9, 210) and you have your power runner. Keathley is a strong ball carrier and could pose some problems for the Trojans up the middle.

A very talented Bryan Combs (6-3, 195) will be at the quarterback spot for the Bobcats. Combs possesses a strong throwing arm and, combined with his throwing and the running out of the backfield, the Bobcats could be hard to handle.

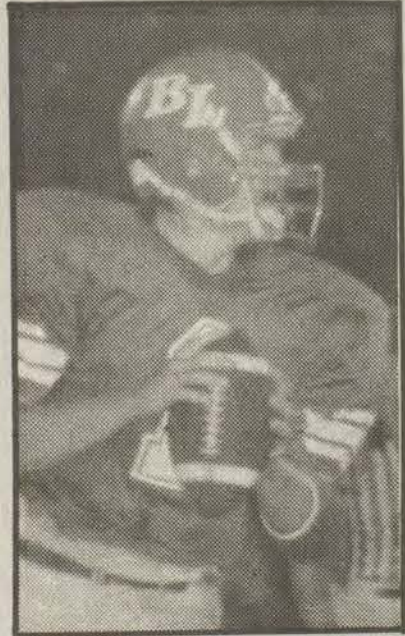

Others to watch for the Bobcats will be seniors Chad Wilson, Todd Akers and Randy Woods.

The Bobcat defense will be led by everyone's favorite Ashley Lykins (5-10, 250 junior). Lykins just seems to thrive on hitting the opponents hard. Freshman surprise Brandon Combs (6-2, 270) will start for the Bobcats. On defense, watch for Chris Tomlinson (5-9, 210), Kelly Hall (5-11, 225) as well as Akers.

Bailey Injured :

Allen Central To Play Whitley County Tomorrow

The Allen Central Rebels will begin the quest of another winning football season as they travel to Williamsburg to face Whitley County in a bowl game. The Rebels will have to make the trip without the services of one of their top defensive players, Shawn Bailey. Bailey had to undergo surgery in Pikeville because of knee injury.

The Rebels will face Whitley County, which finished 7-4 last season. Whitley plays in a tough district with the likes of Knott County, Cawood, Bell County and Lynn Camp. Whitley is coached by Mike Campbell who says that he lost five of his top players from last year's squad.

"We've got 40 players on this year's team and we lost five of our top players from last year," he explained. "All five of them were all-conference performers. We lost our quarterback, tailback and wingback. Also we lost two off our offensive line who were all-conference."

"We like to run a wing "T" offense," commented Campbell.

At the quarterback spot for Whitley County will be Joe Adkins (6' 1", 175). Adkins is a junior and in his first year at the QB position. In the backfield for Whitley County will be Mark Smith at fullback. Smith is a 5' 8", 185 senior who will do most of the running for Whitley. Joining Smith behind the quarterback will be Kevin Risley (6', 170) at the wingback slot. The tailback will be B.J. Shriner a 5' 7", 140-pound senior.

"We are a run-oriented team," Campbell stated, "and we will throw the football about 30 percent of the time."

Junior Shane Moore (6' 3", 240) will head the defensive line for Whitley County. Moore plays the outside tackle position. Helping Moore on the line will be senior David Hackler (6' 2", 205). Hackler will be at a tackle spot.

Allen Central will be more of a ground team as quarterback Brad Scott has found difficulty in hitting some holes. Robbie Sexton will be playing his first year. Lucas will be in just his second season after having a sensational season last year. Slone is an experienced ball carrier, seeing some time last year in the backfield.

ALLEN CENTRAL REBELS
Last year's record: 6-5
Last Game: Did not play
Next Game: Fleming-Neon, home

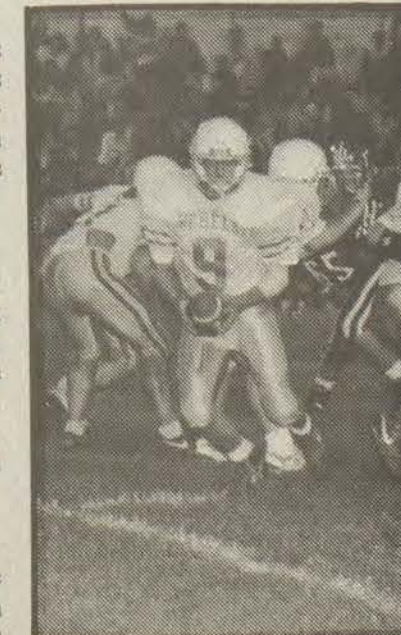

The offensive line for Allen Central must create some openings as the backfield is only effective if the line can open things up. That seems to have been the problem for Allen Central in their two scrimmages this season. The offensive line just hasn't opened things up. The comparison between this year's line and last year's is vastly different. Last year's line was considerably larger and experienced. After losing 16 seniors, and most of the offensive line, the Rebels will have to go to youth to try and fill some holes.

Where the Rebels suffer is in lack of experience at the quarterback position and on the offensive line. Four-year starter B.J. Aldrich is gone and Scott must learn to read the defense in order to help the Rebels. Scott is a solid runner himself and will, on occasion, keep the ball.

The Rebels have the talent to be another winner. Once they have a game or two under their belts, they will start to put things together. This is a young Rebel team and many freshmen will be expected to contribute to the success of the team.

Game time is 8 p.m. at Whitley County. No radio.

Brad Scott leads the Rebels offense at Quarter Back as they travel to Whitley County.

Once again the brave predictors will try and predict how each game will come out as the high school football season gets underway. New prognosticators join the team this year. Some confess their ignorance of the sport of football but are willing to give it a good old college try. The circulation department has a member this year in Jodi Blackburn. Way to go Jodi!

New Football Season Brings New Rule Changes; Points of Emphasis

A new football season is about to dawn on us and, with the coming of a new season, come some new rules and new emphasis on old rules. Following is a list of rule changes for the 1991 high school football season as well as some points of emphasis to be stressed this season:

— When on the college or pro field, the 18' 6" goal is used.
— The "half stripes" on the ball may be white or yellow.

— Measuring devices other than the 10-yard chain are permitted.

— Airborne receiver gets forward progress if driven back by opponent.

— If the officials determine a player is unconscious or apparently unconscious, he may not return to the game without a physician's written permission.

— The penalty for intentionally swinging or kicking at an opponent shall be 15-yards and disqualification.

— It is illegal for an offensive player or member of the kicking team to go out-of-bounds then return and participate.

— Batting or grounded punt legal only beyond the neutral zone.

— The penalty for being outside the sideline box is a warning the first time, five yards the second time, and 15-yards thereafter.

POINTS OF EMPHASIS

— PLAYER SAFETY: Use only legal blocking and tackling techniques. Keep the helmet out of direct contact. Avoid late hits, piling on and contact out-of-bounds.

— SPORTSMANSHIP, ETHICS, INTEGRITY: Behavior on the field must improve. Coaches must be leaders. Taunting and baiting have no place in the game. Show respect for opponents, maintain proper conduct, use common courtesy and be honest.

— POSITIONS OF PLAYERS AT THE SNAP: The focus is on scrimmage kicks with the kicking team placing players in the "no man's land" between the backs and the linebacker as a way of gaining a blocking advantage or creating doubt as to eligible receivers.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

This is a fantastic time for you, especially where romance and career are concerned. But whatever you do, don't have an affair at the office.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

You want to believe in someone close to you, but they haven't really earned your trust. Give it time, and just take things at face value for a while.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Rough words may be exchanged with loved ones, but you must read between the lines to see what is really being said. Be smart and don't let your temper get the best of you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Money disputes will cause problems on the domestic front and you must resolve them. A child needs your undivided attention, even if only for a few hours.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Spending time taking it easy will refresh and revive your sagging spirits. This is a good time to start a new diet and exercise program.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

A co-worker could wreak havoc with misinformation. Nip it in the bud by confronting them. If you don't, you will risk total chaos and lose face.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

A new look is just what you need to get you going. You might try blowing a few bucks on some new clothes in order to start out the fall in style.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

A long talk with a friend or loved one will help resolve some misguided feelings. Keep an open mind when dealing with all love relationships.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Great financial news will send your head whirling. Consult several experts before signing any contracts, and keep a clear head in all business deals.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Knowing which way to turn isn't going to be easy for you or those close to you. It seems every time you turn around there is another major decision to make.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Take it easy. You've done all the groundwork for a specific project, and now it's time to let someone else do the work. Let go and spend time with your family.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Your romantic sector is really heating up. If you're single, you'll be surprised by a new mate. If you're already in a relationship, things are really going to spark.

'The Taking of Pelham' makes for one exhilarating ride

By Steven Alan McGaw
 It's difficult to imagine a film that delivers more sustained tension and suspense than this masterpiece by director Joseph Sargent.

so tense, and Sargent keeps reminding us of the passing minutes with constant shots of clocks and watches. Shaw is absolutely ruthless, both in his dealings with the authorities and with his fellow hijackers.

The Taking of Pelham One Two Three (1974)
 Robert Shaw (Jaws, A Man for All Seasons) leads a group of hijackers in the takeover of a New York subway train, demanding payment of $1 million ransom for the safe release of the 17 passengers aboard — within one hour! Walter Matthau delivers a sharp, focused performance as the harried, transit-authority detective who tries to communicate with Shaw, while scrambling to raise the ransom.

Peter Stone wrote the screenplay from John Godey's bestselling book, adding great dashes of cynical humor along the way. You also couldn't ask for a better supporting cast (Martin Balsam, Hector Elizondo, Doris Roberts, James Broderick, Jerry Stiller, Tony Roberts) or for a more appropriate score, thanks to composer David Shire. For an evening of unrelenting tension and super entertainment, take a ride on this one.

The time limit is the key element in making this film

Aspiring actor needs luck, talent and hard work

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Could you tell me about movie auditions out here in Tennessee? I am really interested in going into acting.
 —Dana Claborn, Talbot, Tenn.

A: Unless there is a movie being shot in your area, I would have to say your chances of getting into acting are slim. I don't know your acting background (college plays, community theater, professional productions), but I hope you already know it's a difficult profession. Kevin Costner worked for years before The Untouchables brought him stardom. John Wayne was virtually unknown until Stagecoach.

Acting opportunities are scarce in Tennessee, unless you go to Nashville. The best places to look are New York and Los Angeles. I would suggest you decide what area you want to go into, get as much information about it as possible, make some contacts and save some money. I know this sounds like a lot of hard work, and it is. I'm sorry I couldn't tell you about Tennessee movie auditions. Good luck!

Q: Jeopardy! is my all-time favorite game show. I would appreciate your supplying me with an address so I could write them. I have an idea for making the program even more enjoyable and would also like to suggest a new category. I read your interesting column every week.
 —Volita Riddle, Prescott, Ariz.

A: The address for Jeopardy! is 1040 North Las Palmas, Hollywood, Calif., 90038. The show is indeed popular. ... It consistently ranks among the top five syndicated shows.

Q: I don't know if you can answer this, but could you give me Larry Bird's address?
 —Manny Sanborn, Newport, N.H.

A: Write to Bird c/o Boston Celtics, 150 Causeway

Alex Trebek

Street, Boston, Mass., 02114.

Q: My boyfriend and I have an ongoing dispute about the Happy Days cartoon, which aired on Saturday mornings several years ago. In this cartoon, Fonzie had a dog named Mr. Cool. I say he was black and brown and my boyfriend says he was black and white. We have a major wager on this. ... Who is correct? This dispute is driving me crazy!
 —Tanya Patrick, Bozeman, Mont.

A: I'm sorry, I really tried to get this one. I called all over, and the only thing I got was the title of the cartoon. It was called Fonz and the Happy Days Gang. No one could tell me what color the dog was. No one could find a picture. I thought it was black and white, but someone else thought it was black and brown. Another person thought it was blue. So, I'd suggest you call this bet off.

Report gets 'thumbs-up'

By Susan Allen Staff Writer

State and local members in a report released last week by Susan Allen and Bob Haddock in school construction projects in generally in agreement with the auditor's recommendations. Haddock made 16 recommendations state law vests in the legislative Subcommittee for Education Accountability. Officials responding to their comments are as follows:

Dr. Pamela Sanders, director of Education Accountability:

"We are very pleased the audit is completed. The implications of the report are not only relief to Pile and Haddock, but also to the taxpayers of Floyd County. We will, for a long time, look it over." (See Report, page four)

"I think the audit didn't get very deep and didn't get into a great deal of specifics in Pile and Haddock's report. I think Pile and Haddock were used as an example to develop problems to be used within the state to educate in school construction projects."

James Arvile Duff, board member:

"I haven't really had a chance to digest it, but I agree with a lot of the suggestions Mr. Haddock made. I'm sure, for a long time, look it over." (See Report, page four)

New Districts, New Coaches, New Season

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

August 30, 1991. The beginning of the high school football season. This year the football season beats school in opening. Football in Floyd County promises to be even better in 1991. As I put together my third football tab, I often go back and look at the previous years and see if there is anything new that should be added.

This year there will be two new coaches (one not so new) and new district alignments as a new season begins. I am excited about this year.

Many of the fans, no matter how long they have followed high school football, still have trouble identifying the officials signals on the field. This year we have put a composite chart inside this special tab to help in trying to understand what was called.

Also inside, are pictures, stories and other bits of information that we hope will make this the best tab we have done. A lot of work has gone into putting together this tabloid, but it has been very enjoyable. I certainly love being able to be around the young men and coaches that handle our schools' football teams. To them I am very grateful for all their support and very needed help. Without them there would be no need for the tab.

To the fans. You're great! This sports department appreciates you.

Thanks to all those who had a helping hand in putting this tab together. Our publisher Scott Perry; Jenny Duxley in layout; Kim, Shawn, Jeff and Deedra in advertising. A special thanks to Tess Whitmer for all her efforts in editing. Without all these people, this adventure would not have been possible.

Gridiron Wars To Be Heavy This Year

As we enter the last of August we notice that the leaves are starting to turn and that signals a new season — fall. Along with the new season, weatherwise, comes a new season of battles on the gridiron. High School football season is upon us and all the players and coaches are optimistic this particular season. The reason for so much optimism is the new district alignments.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will try to go to their third consecutive playoff game as they return a talent squad that was 7-5 last year. Gone from the Blackcats schedule are rivals Paintsville and the Pikeville Panthers. It will be a tough district for Coach Bill Letton's ball club with the likes of Sheldon Clark and Belfry providing some interesting competition. Always tough Belfry will play at the Cats lair this year.

The season will be evenly split with five home games and five on the road, as each school will play only 10 games, this compares to 11 last season. The Cats will travel to dangerous Shelby Valley, Sheldon Clark and Morgan County for district games. It's on the road to Estill County to open the season while Middlesboro and Belfry will be at Prestonsburg for non-district games.

The Allen Central Rebels, coming off their best season ever, will be very young, but will have some returning players that saw action last year for Dewey Jamerson's club. The Rebels graduated 16 seniors last year and have 10 players returning.

However, the new alignment will definitely be a plus for the Rebels schedule this year. Gone are strong Raceland, Hazard and Fairview plus Paintsville. The Rebels will have to face the likes of Pikeville who, many feel, can win it all again this year.

Coach Jamerson believes his team will be more evenly matched this year than last, and the new alignment will benefit his team.

Wheelwright has a new coach, yet, not so new. Donnie Daniels returns to the gridiron replacing Roger Johnson. Daniels is no stranger to the gridiron battles and the Trojans expect to be better than their 1-10 finish of a year ago.

The Trojans will be quick with a lot of speed in the backfield. Betsy Layne appears on the Trojans' schedule again this year as the Bobcats were the only victims of the Trojans last year.

Betsy Layne will open the season against Daniels' club and it should be a good one to get the season started for both clubs. Betsy Layne is certainly an improved ball team from last year (0-11). The Bobcats are not, as of yet, a team with a coach, but have had the help of an experienced principal in Alan Osborne. Osborne along with Gerald Newsome have instilled a winning attitude in the Bobcats.

A tough district is what Betsy Layne must compete in this year. Teams like, county rival Prestonsburg, Shelby Valley, Sheldon Clark, Morgan County and Magoffin County will make it a long haul in district play. However, with a new attitude in camp and a desire to show that last year was a mistake, the Bobcats will be close to a .500 club.

Floyd County High School football. On the move in September, October and early November. There are a lot of exciting games on each teams' schedule and it could be a good year for each team.

ASK THE COACH

Q. What is the total playing time of a pro or college football game?

A. Both pro and college games are 60 minutes long. A game is divided into four 15-minute periods.

Q. If the ball passes through the uprights on the kickoff, will the kicking team be awarded three points?

A. The rule is the same for both college and pro football — the kick would not score a field goal.

Q. How long is a TV timeout?

A. A commercial is generally 60 seconds long. Announcers and officials try to return to play with a minimum amount of delay following a timeout for a commercial. Timeouts are usually less than one-and-a-half minutes.

Q. Is a backward pass treated any differently than a lateral pass in the rules?

A. In both college and pro ball any pass that doesn't go forward is considered to have gone backward.

Q. On a kickoff, can a forward pass be made?

A. After possession changes, no forward passes can be made. Backward and lateral passes are the only passes that are legal on a kick off.

Q. If on the last play of the game a touchdown is scored and no foul occurs, is there a kick for the extra point?

A. The kick for an extra point is always allowed after a touchdown, even if time has expired.

Youthful Rebels Hope To Repeat Last Year's Winning Season

The Allen Central football Rebels are coming off their most successful year since the start of the football program at Allen Central. Last year the Rebels were 6-5 overall and also won the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference. Quite an impressive accomplishment for a school that is that old in football.

What do you do now for an encore? Gone are 16 talented seniors and returning will only be eight seniors and only four with any experience. Throw in 11 freshmen and you have an unbalance of youth versus experience. But that doesn't concern Rebel mentor Dewey Jamerson as a successful season is not found in the win and loss column.

"This year will be the same as last year," he said, "and that is for every player to go out there and give it all they have. If they do that and we don't have a winning record, we will still have a successful season."

Dave Gilliam, James Howard and Shawn Bailey will be three returning starters from last year's squad that will have to show the leadership on this year's club. Another one that Coach Jamerson will be looking to is Kevin Dye at 220-pounds. Dye will be handling the center position.

Gilliam will be found in the backfield with Howard playing the guard spot. Bailey will be at one tackle spot.

"It's not as bad as it sounds," explains Jamerson. "We'll just have to spread the guys coming back out more."

Jamerson said that his end positions are open, but could be filled by such talent as Frank Martin and Phillip Ritchie. "We are going to have a lot of speed on this team," said Jamerson. "Several players are very quick and Martin is one of the top athletes on this team."

According to Jamerson, the quarterback spot could go to Brad Scott who really isn't that sure he wants the position.

"Right now it's Brad's to lose," said Jamerson. "He doesn't want it and Parrot. "We're going to be okay," said Jamerson, "and this is going to be an enjoyable year. These are good kids and a joy to be around."

"We're going to be young and there is going to be a lot of playing time for everyone," Jamerson commented. "We have a good bunch of freshmen coming in and we just hope everything carries over from last year." Jamerson said that he would like to keep about seven freshmen every year and, if all of them play hard and give 110 percent at practice and during the games, the Rebels will be all right and the fans will enjoy watching them play.

"I just want the kids to know that there is more to winning than what a record might show," he reminded himself. "If we play hard and play good, then good things will come and wins will come."

Jamerson was quick to point out that a winning football season such as last year's is always a boost to the school's program. "We have enough coming back this year that played last year and know the feeling of having a winning season. They will want that again."

With the new alignment of the district this year, Jamerson said that he would have "given a million if they could have played this year's schedule last year."

"Because of the new alignment we will play and compete better than last year," he said.

Jamerson firmly believes that his Rebel squad can definitely be one of the top four teams in their district and make their first playoff game. With the new alignment the top four teams in each district will be allowed to advance to the playoffs after the regular season.

Allen Central will face Johns Creek, Elkhorn City, Fleming-Neon, Wheelwright, Jenkins, Pikeville and Phelps in district games this year.

"Pikeville is going to be very tough," Jamerson stated. "They have something like 40 players out this year and they are going to be a top team in our district.

The Rebels will face non-district foes such as Whitley County, Sheldon Clark and Leslie County. Allen Central will open their season on a Saturday (August 31) when they travel to Whitley County for a bowl game.

"I don't know anything about Whitley County," said Jamerson. "They must have had a good season last year or they must not have done anything, but they are paying us $500 to come down and play the bowl game."

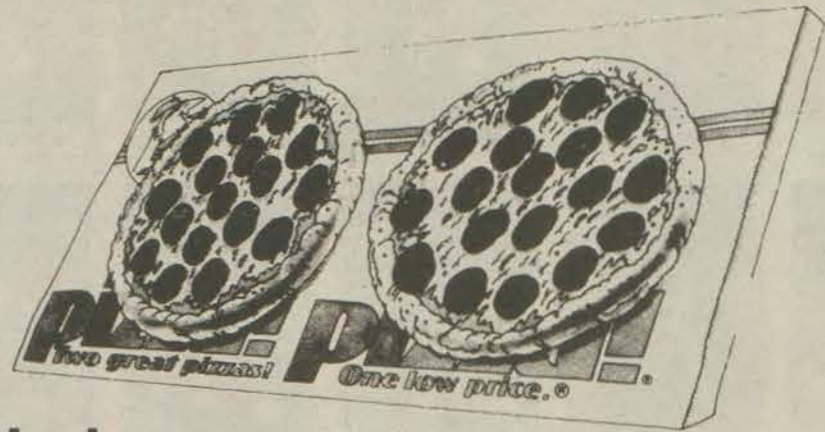

Allen Central Rebels will be looking for winning season number two as they race onto the grid iron August 31.

Kidd, Hammond, Combs As Bobcats Hope For Better Things

Forget last year's 0-11 season. The Betsy Layne Bobcats have. As far as the Cats are concerned that is history, and a new season is about to take shape.

That's the word out of the Bobcats' camp as they look forward to opening day against the Wheelwright Trojans August 30 at Betsy Layne.

What is the difference in this year's team and last year's? The Cats believe in themselves. They believe they can be winners and are set to prove it.

Bryan Combs looks to play with more confidence than he had last year. "Lack of confidence hurt Bryan last year," said Betsy Layne coach Gerald Newsome. "This year, he went to the UK camp and led his team into the finals down there. Accomplishing that boosted his confidence an awful lot. Bryan has always had a good, strong throwing arm."

Newsome said that Combs has learned the options better than he did last year. "I think it would be safe to say that Betsy Layne will be a throwing team this year," stated Newsome.

Jamie Kidd leads a talented backfield for the Bobcats. Joining Kidd behind Combs will also be James Keathley and Doug Hammonds. Hammonds and Kidd will be at the halfback slots, and Keathley will run at fullback. Also, seeing playing time in the backfield will be senior Randy Woods. According to Newsome, Woods lacks the foot speed that he needs. "Randy has good hands and is an intelligent player, but he is a little slow," explained the Bobcats' assistant coach.

Betsy Layne will have to contend in a very tough district this season with the likes of Prestonsburg, Shelby Valley, Whitesburg, M. C. Napier and Sheldon Clark. The Bobcats will face three nondistrict foes in Elkhorn City, Wheelwright and Johns Creek. This year will be somewhat different for the Bobcats in that six of the ten scheduled games will be played at home.

"I'm glad to get rid of Leslie County (from) our schedule," said Newsome. "I also would like to see them move Morgan County out of our district. They have the worse dressing rooms that we have ever been in."

Betsy Layne will return 16 seniors, which will give them experience, as well as a blend of youth, for the coming seasons. Fifteen players graduated from the Bobcat squad last year.

However, as of this writing, without a coach, Betsy Layne seems to be jelling under the make-shift coaching staff. Along with Newsome, school principal Alan Osborne has been working out with the team, and the players seem to be performing as they always did under the guidance of a coach.

Betsy Layne is not without its voluntary help. Chris Stewart, Jody Cecil, Carless Reynolds and Patrick Spradlin have been at every practice, working with the new-look Bobcats.

When the line of Betsy Layne lines up on offense and the field seems to tilt their way, it is because the Bobcats will average around 220 pounds on the line.

The Bobcats will introduce three new freshmen to the fans this season and the coaching staff thinks they are "can't miss freshmen." Shannon Hall (5-10, 260) will be one of those frosh's. "Shannon is so broad he really presents a problem for the opposition," said Newsome. "He is so broad that he is hard for them to wrap. He is a tremendously good blocker."

Another freshman that will see playing time on both sides of the lines is Brandon Combs. "I can't say enough about Brandon," explained Newsome. "He is a hard worker and I really believe he can be an All-State tackle, even at Betsy

Bobcats

Layne, by his senior year. He just has the right attitude."

Sophomore Jamie Robinette will see a lot of playing time for the Bobcats. "Jamie is as tough as they come," relates Newsome. "He is tough as nails."

"There is a lot of spirit on this year's team," said Carless Reynolds, former Bobcat player. "They seem to have that winning attitude, something they didn't have last year. We work as a team, whereas, in the past they wanted to be individuals. This team works together."

The Bobcats may lack depth in some areas, but not on the Bobcat line. "We won't be hurting on the line," said Newsome. "We have new kids who played there a lot and even some in grade school last year."

Newsome, who resigned as head coach, says that his face became too familiar last year. "These kids saw my face all the time," he said, "and they knew that I wasn't going to walk away and leave them even though I did resign. We are just going to forget last year and, as far as they are concerned, last year has been forgotten. These kids are a great bunch of kids, and they are fun to be around. They discipline themselves this year and that is part of a new attitude.

"Mr. Osborne, he is going to be the best thing this team has had," Newsome continued. "On both sides of the scoreboard, the team is enthusiastic, and Mr. Osborne has them thinking that way. He's a disciplinarian, and the kids are enthused about him."

New thinking in the Bobcats' camp could mean a turn around of last year's 0-11 season. The Bobcats may not win them all, but they will go into each game believing they can — because they believe in themselves.

New Alignment Brings New Teams To Blackcats

It won't be easy. Coming out on top in the newly-aligned Region 4, District 2 Class AA district will not be easy for whomever may be the number one team after the season is over. However, the Prestonsburg Blackcats have to be figured to be one of the teams that could win it all.

Prestonsburg returns almost their entire backfield from last year, led by junior John Goble (5-10, 160). Goble will play the tailback position and the speedy junior is expected to be the main ball carrier for Coach Bill Letton's team.

The new district alignment will bring three new teams to the Prestonsburg schedule as Shelby Valley, Sheldon Clark and Magoffin County enter for the first time. This will be the first time that Sheldon

Clark and Magoffin County have competed for a district title.

Unlike last year, the top four teams in the district will advance to the playoffs this season.

By looking at the Blackcats' schedule, fans can see that the Cats have their work cut out for them, but the returning players bring the needed experience necessary for a district title.

"We are looking good now in practices," said Coach Bill Letton as his team prepares for the opening season. "Our timing is good for this time of year. We haven't put all of our plays in as of yet. We're running real good right now. Overall, we are coming along real good.

"Defensively, we're looking better all the time," he continued. "Every time out we are doing better. We work hard in all our practices, and we are working on the fundamentals of the game. We're also paying more attention to tackling this year and angle pursuits."

Also returning to the Blackcats team this year will be junior Aaron Tucker (6-3, 166). Tucker will be the signal caller this year for Prestonsburg as Clark (5-10, 155), who quarterbacked the club last year, will be moved to a split-end position. Tucker was a standout at the quarterback position as a freshman, throwing for over 1200 yards. Last year, after some inconsistency, Clark was moved into the slot.

Look for sophomore Dwayne Garza (5-8, 185) to come running out of the backfield at the fullback spot. Garza, a power runner, has shown a lot of potential in the early practices for Prestonsburg.

Senior Robbie Watson (5-10, 146) will also see some time at the fullback position. Sophomore Josh Hyden (5-9, 160) will be at the tailback position, as will senior Ronnie Goodman (5-9, 155).

"We have had some very good practices," said assistant coach John Derossett. "The kids have worked hard and I think it goes back to the weight program we had back in the summer."

Derossett sees the Blackcats as a 10-0 team. "If I didn't, I wouldn't be out there every day."

Realistic or not, the Blackcats will definitely be a solid contender.

Gone from the offensive line will be Trevor Blackburn, Mike Ramadan, Aaron Stepp and Jack Howard. There doesn't seem to be any alarm about filling the spots on the all-important line.

Ready to step in at one of the guard positions will be Kyle Fitzpatrick, (soph, 6-1, 225) whom Derossett has described as a pleasant surprise in this year's practice sessions. Brad Wells (soph, 5-9, 173) along with senior Brandon McDonald (6-4, 180) will also be on the offensive line at guard.

The center spot will be filled by senior David Thacker (6-3, 204). Prestonsburg will have good size at the tackle positions as Brian Horn (jr., 6-2, 278), Bill Bottoms (jr., 6-1, 225) and Charles Thompson (sr., 6-1, 215) take charge.

Senior James Derossett (6-3, 168) will be one end while Kevin Vaughn (soph., 6-1, 153) will be at the other. Flankers and split ends will see junior Jason Crisp (5-8, 130) and Glenn May (jr., 6-0, 142) at the positions.

May will go both ways as he takes a spot at cornerback. Josh Hyden and Ronnie Goodman will be on the defensive side at cornerback also. Goble, Tucker and Adam McGuire will hold down the defensive end slots while John Clark will be at free safety. Garza also will see some playing time at the free safety position. Strong safety will be adequately filled by Robbie Watson and Jody Cornette (soph., 5-9, 140).

Derossett, Wells, McDonald and Nunn will be the linebackers with Brian Horn and Jay McIntyre (jr., 5-8, 189) at the nose guard.

Thacker will go both ways at the defensive tackles spot. Fitzpatrick, Horn, Thompson and Bottoms also will be used at tackle.

Best Wishes To All Floyd County Teams!

HEAD COACH: BILL LETTON

Trojans' Experienced Backfield Pleases Daniels

Wheelwright has a new coach this year, yet he is not new. Donnie Daniels has been through the football wars, spending four years at Allen Central as their head coach. Since moving to Wheelwright after the '89 season, Daniels will replace Roger Johnson as the new Trojan mentor.

The Trojans of Wheelwright had anything but a successful year in '90 and all indications are that a repeat is not in order this time around. Last season's 1-10 record is just a memory that will soon be forgotten after this season, if the returning players have anything to say about it.

Senior Eddie Shelton feels this year's club will better last year's by four games.

"We will win some games this year," said the fleet footed running back.

Wheelwright will enter the season with a whole new district alignment that is tailored made for them. "They finally put us in a district that we can compete in," explained Shelton.

No longer will the Trojans have to face the likes of Russell, Hazard and Fairview. "We traded all those teams for one tough team — Pikeville," said the father of Ryan Johnson, who will be in the backfield for the Trojans.

Instead Pikeville, Johns Creek, Phelps, Allen Central, Fleming-Neon, Jenkins and Elkhorn City will make the district the Trojans must compete against.

It's the backfield that has pleased Coach Daniels thus far in practice. "I am really pleased with our backfield," Daniels commented. "We have a lot of experience coming back and it will make a lot of difference in the way we move the football.

"We have five or six backs that we can put back their," he said, "and they all have close to the same ability. All have speed, they can run. Some have better lateral movements than others, while others have more power."

Two of the backfield members will be both fast and able to move the ball up the middle. Arnold Adams is a power runner and, as a freshman last year, showed a lot of promise. As a sophomore, Adams will be called on for the needed first down yardage.

Shelton had to sit out last year because of a separated shoulder injury in the first game of the season against Betsy Layne. Shelton will be one of the top backs in the district and, according to Daniels, will carry the ball quite a bit.

Chuck Hutton, who Daniels says is the quickest man on the team, possesses that quick, break-away speed to get outside the defense. "Chuck is very quick," explained Daniels, "and he will run the ball a lot."

When you think of Hutton as the fastest player on the Trojan squad, and then think about him teaming with one Steven Jackson, you have to see why Daniels is so high on his backfield. Jackson can flat fly with the football. He has some of the best moves in the backfield of anyone in the district. "Steven is very quick, fast, with very good break away speed," said Daniels. "However, he also has a good set of hands for catching the ball. He has outstanding moves all the way around. Moves that you just don't teach a player."

A player that Daniels is very high on this year is Ryan Johnson, who came on late last year in establishing himself as a power runner. "Ryan is a hard nose player," stated Daniels. "He takes punishment and he dishes out punishment. He is a tough football player."

The quarterback position will be anchored down by junior Steven "Teeter" Shelton. "Steven has an average arm for a quarterback," explained Daniels. "He throws the ball well within himself. He reads the defense real well and has very good speed. He is a good option quarterback who can use his speed."

Charles Johnson a sophomore will be the backup quarterback to Shelton, but according to Daniels, Johnson will be on the line until needed at the QB spot.

Freshman Justin Rhea will be counted on to contribute as a frosh. Rhea is a quick learner according to Daniels. "Justin is a victim of having no grade school football. He is a smart player and picks things up very quick."

Marty Tackett will lead the Trojan defense. "I don't think there is a better defensive player around than Marty," Daniels said. "He will be flip-flopped around."

Senior Chris Short will be on the defensive line for Wheelwright. "Chris just flies to the football on defense," said Daniels of his senior. Third year player Jody Johnson will be a plus for the Trojans on "D". "Jody has come along real well for us," explained Daniels.

Another pleasant surprise for Daniels' Trojans has been Cruise Caudill. "He has come along real well, also," Daniels said.

Dennis Crager, a second year player, expects to contribute to the scheme of things for Wheelwright on defense. "He is a very hard hitter and Dennis will help this ball club a bunch. He is also a leader on the field." At end will be either Munta Oden, Mike Crager, Ronnie Newsome or Matt Johnson.

"Really, we have no standouts," Daniels said, "but we are hoping they will come along and be a good ball team."

Daniels respects Pikeville as the favorite in the district. "Fleming-Neon will be down some, but they always seem to have a good ball club. I feel that Elkhorn City will be a sleeper in our district." What about fourth place? After all the top four teams go to the playoffs in each district, Daniels is hoping that his club will be that fourth place team if not higher.

"Our goal this year is to improve everytime we step onto the field," said the Trojan mentor. "Right now our technique is slow and we're not reacting, we're thinking."

Daniels feels that his coaching staff must stress fundamentals and techniques in order for there be a change from last year and to overcome the losing attitude.

If the backfield shows up that Daniels expects, it could definitely be a different year for the Trojans.
