Federal court delays action on county's new waste law :

General Assembly to decide the next move

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Federal Judge Joseph Hood put a decision on hold Wednesday that will determine the constitutionality of Floyd County's solid waste ordinance, but he left in effect a temporary restraining order that blocks implementation of the ordinance.

Medisin Inc., a for-profit company that operates a medical waste incinerator at Auxier, filed suit against the county on January 18 after the fiscal court adopted an ordinance that requires waste site facilities to obtain a permit from the county.

Both sides agreed to delay the decision after meeting in chambers with Judge Hood before Wednesday's hearing. The temporary restraining order will remain in effect if Medisin can post a $10,000 bond by 5 p.m. Monday. The judge raised the amount for bond from $2,600.

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said after the hearing if the state fails to pass legislation during a current special session of the General Assembly that would require the state to permit waste site facilities, the county would request a trial to decide if the ordinance is constitutional. If legislation is passed, Hammond said, the county would be "pre-empted" and its ordinance would be "moot."

Hammond added that one amendment to pending legislation would exempt medical-waste incinerators and, if passed, would only require Medisin to pay the fees for ordinary waste disposal.

Medisin contends the ordinance is unconstitutional because it restricts transportation of medical waste that it burns at its incinerators. Medisin currently accepts medical waste from five Eastern Kentucky hospitals and other medical facilities, and claims the county is trying to put it out of business.

Floyd Countians In Action, a citizens group, claims emissions from the medical waste incinerator are responsible for various illnesses in the Auxier community. The group started public demonstrations against the company last summer when the company announced they planned operation of a second incinerator. Several members of the group travelled to Frankfort yesterday to express their views about the incinerator.

News in Brief

Judge's farm is target of thieves

A Middle Creek farm owned by Floyd County Judge Executive John M. Stumbo was burglarized earlier this week.

According to Judge Stumbo, the thieves struck "sometime Monday night" and took "a couple of saws, a bench grinder, a VCR, a microwave oven and some meat from the deep freeze." Stumbo added that other items may have been taken from the farm, but they had not yet been noticed.

Stumbo said the burglary was under investigation by Kentucky State Police trooper Stacy Trees and Floyd County Sheriff's deputy Chuck Ousley.

A state police spokesman said Thursday afternoon that no report had been filed in connection with the burglary. Deputy Chuck Ousley could not be reached for comment on the case.

Stumbo said no one was home at the time of the burglary.

GOP's Hopkins to visit this Saturday

Republican gubernatorial candidate Larry Hopkins will drop by Prestonsburg Saturday to talk with area residents during a Meet the Candidate session at the Holiday Inn from 8-9 a.m.

Hopkins is blazing a campaign trail through Eastern Kentucky. Hopkins stopped in Paintsville Friday and plans to travel on to Pikeville after Saturday's breakfast in Prestonsburg, said Dr. Larry Leslie, chairman of the Floyd County Republican Party.

Valentine gifts await lucky blood donor

During the week of February 12-14 the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Prestonsburg is sponsoring a Valentine's week promotion.

In addition to providing a free cholesterol test, Mountain Comprehensive Care will provide a free flower arrangement and Wal-Mart will give away a free box of candy to one lucky donor who's name will be drawn on Valentine's Day.

The donor center's normal hours during the week will be Tuesday 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Wednesday and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information call the Prestonsburg donor center at 886-1557.

Martin City Council fails to draw quorum

City officials in Martin said a special meeting of the Martin City Council will be scheduled this month, after the regular meeting of the group was canceled Wednesday night due to the lack of a quorum.

Martin council members were scheduled Wednesday to discuss implementation of measures to reduce financial deficits and water loss in the city owned water system along with placement of an assistant chief and administrative officer in the city fire department.

Council members were told that the city water system showed a significant loss during the last fiscal year due to a possible water leak in the system. Problems were compounded by several outstanding accounts uncollected by the city. Council members agreed to look over a list of suggestions to correct the problems at the February meeting.

Fourth Freedom Forum speaker suggests :

Make war an "impossibility"

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

"I used to bring people up to date on economic sanctions," said Fourth Freedom Forum's Marc Hardy during a recent speech, "now, I find that they know exactly what I'm talking about."

Hardy, who was in Prestonsburg earlier this week for speaking engagements with the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and the Paintsville Kiwanis Club, spoke about the view's of the Fourth Freedom Forum in an interview Wednesday morning.

Hardy's duties as spokesperson and executive director are simple enough, to let the world know that battles can be fought with economic power rather than military might. "I think the urgent point of my message is this, 'Give trade a chance'. People are starting to understand that if you pull the pillar of economics from under someone, then you have toppled that person's world," said Hardy.

According to Hardy, the ultimate goal of Fourth Freedom Forum would be the implementation of automatic economic sanctions against any world leader who would use military force in an offensive manner.

"What we want to do is make waging war an economic impossibility, while incentives would make peace very profitable," said Hardy.

Although the group supports the current action in the Persian Gulf, Hardy is not without criticism of the effort.

"President Bush missed a real chance to make a mark on the world," said Hardy. "If he would have kept the economic sanctions up against Iraq, he could have not only won the war, but also he could have won the peace." Hardy said that economic sanctions and incentives should be offered to Jordan, Iran and other countries which might get involved in the war. "We should be saying to them 'if you get involved we are going to shut you down financially, but if you stay out you can enjoy the incentives and trade status offered."

Hardy argues that military action will always cost more than economic warfare. "People have said 'we tried that, it didn't work', but they don't realize that the international sanctions against Iraq have had very little time to be effective. Our soldiers are going to be there (The Persian Gulf) for a long time, even after we win this war. The country will have to be rebuilt and a political vacuum will exist. All of the neighboring countries will want a piece of Iraq, and we will remain there until it is finished. I ask people 'what if it would have taken a year? Or five years? If no lives were lost, then it (economic sanction) is very cost effective."

"We created this guy (Saddam Hussein), we and the other western nations. We knew his intentions and still we sold him everything he wanted. We knew his plans years ago, and now we have to wage war with him. If we could have implemented economic sanctions against him when he gassed 4,000 Kurds in his own country, he wouldn't be able to consider military action now," Hardy said.

"Japan tried to take Pearl Harbor by force and they couldn't do it," Hardy said. "Now, the Japanese have bought most of Hawaii. Economics is the one thing that everyone has to contend with."

Asbestos problem solved, school official says :

Tile removed, class resumes

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Special reading classes have resumed at Martin Grade School after maintenance personnel removed several loose tiles Tuesday that contained asbestos fibers.

The special reading classroom was closed and sealed Monday after Health Coordinator Ned Bush, investigating complaints from parents, inspected the room and found the loose tile.

"We had a minor (asbestos) release," Bush said Thursday. "The asbestos wasn't in the adhesive, it was in the tile. The tile was removed from the room and property sealed and disposed of. It took about 15 minutes. Under federal law we had to seal the room. When we put the notice on room it looked like the skull and cross bones on a poison bottle. I'm sure it scared some parents to death."

"At the beginning of each school year, we send a letter to parents informing them that there is asbestos in the school," Bush added. "Parents need to read those letters."

Parker Moore, director of the state's asbestos abatement program, said an inspector had visited the school Thursday and found the tile had been removed in compliance with state and federal regulations. Moore added that other areas of concern, stairways and an area in the cafeteria, were inspected and they posed no danger of a fiber release. Moore said it was "unlikely" a release had occurred.

"We're waiting on all the documentation to be filed to get a clear picture of what went on," Moore said. "But, I think it's unlikely any fibers were released."

Moore said a release probably didn't occur because none of the tiles had been shattered or severely broken. He suggested maintenance crews keep a coat of wax on areas where the tile was worn. He said fibers would remain intact unless the tile was "virtually ground into dust" or if it was sanded.

Bush said asbestos exists in virtually all the schools in Floyd County except the two new schools that opened this year.

"This summer we're planning to remove asbestos from John M. Stumbo, Betsy Layne Gym and McDowell," Bush said. "Asbestos was found on steam piping at John M. Stumbo. There's a hot water tank coated with it in the boiler room. At McDowell it's in a closet and five or six classrooms. There's not any danger at this time. We inspect all areas targeted every six months."

Bush said an asbestos log is on file at every school and in the central office. He said any parent who is concerned about the level in their school may contact the school principal or the central office.

"I had one mother call me this morning concerned because her son has severe allergies and she didn't want her son going back to the school," Bush said. "I told her asbestos is microscopic and she don't have to worry."

Moore said he agreed asbestos is microscopic but did not know the effect of fibers on human allergies.

Long term exposure to asbestos has been proven to cause lung diseases, including cancer.

Board will honor Stumbo during February meeting

Floyd County Board of Education members will honor Wheelwright teacher Carol Stumbo for being chosen as one of the nation's five Christa McAuliffe scholars. The meeting will be held at Betsy Layne High School at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Stumbo was honored in Washington, D.C. on January 25 by the National Foundation for the Improvement of Education for her use of telecommunications in her classroom.

Stumbo will assist in the development of a 12-day teacher conference this summer at Stanford University.

The board will also discuss a host of other matters including: creating assistant principal positions in each school district; declining student enrollment and attendance; and implementing Teaching and Learning with Computers at the second grade level.

The meeting is open to the public.

Glynview Plaza developer ordered to pay bank loans

The developer of the Glynview Plaza in Prestonsburg has been ordered to pay more than $285,000 in overdue bank loans to Lexington banks by Fayette County Circuit Judge Rebecca Overstreet.

James A. Hughes, and his firm James A. Hughes and Associates Inc., was ordered on January 22 to repay $128,475 to Citizens Fidelity Bank and Trust Company. In a separate case, Hughes was ordered on December 28 to repay Matewan National Bank of West Virginia $157,041 by Fayette Circuit Judge James Keller.

Several lawsuits were filed against Hughes and the company in 1990 for allegedly failing to pay creditors.

The CIT Group/Equipment Financing Inc. of Berwyn, Pennsylvania, filed suit seeking $32,281 in equipment used at Glynview Plaza. Hughes is challenging the suit.

Other suits include:

- The City of Pikeville is seeking to terminate Hughes' lease to develop the Pikeville Riverfill property. The city alleges Hughes obtained loans on the property but did not proceed with development.

- Valley Decorating Co. of Fresno, California, alleging a $37,883 debt.
- Culp Distributors Inc. of Dayton, Ohio, alleges $27,014 debt.
- The Lexington Herald-Leader Co. alleges $5,743 debt.

Unemployment rate falls in region

The impact of seasonal layoffs in December was offset in many Kentucky communities by the end of other short-term layoffs and a smaller workforce, resulting in lower jobless rates in 67 counties.

In the Big Sandy region, the unemployment rate fell from a revised 5.8 percent in November to a preliminary 5.3 percent in December. Local rates ranged from 4.5 percent in Martin County to 10.1 percent in Magoffin County, the only double-digit rate in the ADD.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 29.9 percent had worked in mining, 29.3 percent in trade, 16.7 percent in construction, 6.8 percent in manufacturing and 6.4 percent in services.

Both November's revised and December's preliminary state rates were 5.4 percent, slightly above the December 1989 rate of 5.3 percent.

December also marked the sixth consecutive month Kentucky was ranked below the national rate, which rose from 5.8 percent in November to 5.9 percent in December. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

The drop in working Kentuckians nearly equaled the 14,000 decrease in the labor force. Ed Blackwell, the cabinet's chief analyst, said the labor force shrunk because the tobacco harvest season ended and people unable to find Christmas jobs dropped out of the market.

Trade had another good month with 2,600 new workers mostly in apparel and department stores because of the holiday season. A related sector called transportation, communications and utilities rose 1,000.

Manufacturing was boosted by jumps in transportation equipment caused mainly by the recall of Ford Motor Co. workers from a brief lay-off, tobacco processing industry and textiles and apparel.

For the fifth consecutive month non-farm employment (i.e. trade, manufacturing and services sectors) grew, reaching an all-time high in this category of 1.49 million jobs in December.

"Growth in non-farm employment is good news, because since our records began in 1939, a yearly decline in this category has meant a recession in Kentucky," Blackwell said.

The category that includes self-employed people, domestic employees and people working in family businesses rose by 1,900 workers.

The U.S. Department of Labor's estimate of Kentuckians working in December, based on census surveys, was 1,661,500, compared to the November figure of 1,676,200 and 15,600 higher than the December 1989 report of 1,645,900.

The federal estimate of unemployed Kentuckians was 95,500 in December, up 700 from November's 94,800 and 2,900 above the November 1989 figure of 92,600.

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for December was 1,757,000, a decrease of 14,000 from November's 1,771,000 and 18,500 higher than the December 1989 figure of 1,738,500. The civilian labor force includes non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who actively are seeking work. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for a job in four weeks.

Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure employment trends rather than to actually count people working.

Senior photography course

"High School Seniors" — advanced and intermediate — was the subject of a week long course recently attended by Steven G. Porter of Porter Studio in Prestonsburg. Pictured with him is his instructor, Larry Peters, master photographer from London, Ohio. Professional Photographers from all over the world travel to Pittsburgh, PA. to attend Triangle Institute held in January each year. The Institute attracts up to 350 students and offers at least 20 photographic courses ranging from advanced photography, computers in the studio and retouching. The highlight of the week was a banquet sponsored by Eastman Kodak, where each student received credit toward his or her "Master of Photography" Degree.

Blood Center committed to military programs' need

Central Kentucky Blood Center officials say Central Kentucky residents are responding well to the need for blood donations to support both area patients and Operation Desert Storm. According to Trina Hembree, Community Relations Consultant for the Blood Center, "we fortunately have been able to collect enough blood up to this point to provide for the local need as well as the military programs' need."

Central Kentucky Blood Center has been sending 25 units of blood each week for Operation Desert Storm since before Christmas. The Blood Center has committed to sending at least 80 units per week if the military blood needs increase. Central Kentucky Blood Center joins Blood Centers across the country who have committed to supplementing the blood needs of the military.

As the Central Kentucky Blood Center commitment is increased, Blood Center officials plan to target particular donor groups and ask them to increase their participation in support of Desert Storm. Blood Center officials also remind donors that blood needs are continuing and donations should not be made specifically for Desert Storm needs. "We will continue to meet the needs of our hospitals and the U.S. Military in a consistent manner. We are concerned that an initial influx of donors may not meet the continuing need of the Desert Storm Operation or area patients" according to Hembree.

The Prestonsburg Donor Center is open each Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for all people in the surrounding area to give blood on a regular basis. Blood Center officials in Prestonsburg comment that several people have donated in response to Operation Desert Storm. For more information about donating in Prestonsburg or to make appointment, call Donor Center officials at 886-1557.

FCIA members say several residents have developed skin rashes and breathing problems which they associate with emissions from the incinerator. Members also complain of dense smoke which is emitted by the incinerator. Several members have vowed to close the facility.

Medisin representatives have maintained the incinerator meets all state and federal guidelines regarding emissions. Vice president Robert Ford has said emission tests show no harmful chemicals being released and that ash from burned medical waste tests negative for pollutants.

Medisin is part of Consolidated Health Systems which owns Highlands Regional Medical Center.

The fiscal court adopted the ordinance January 18 and it requires applicants to pay $2,500 for a permit and to post a $1 million bond for handling solid waste and a $5 million bond for hazardous waste. It would cost waste site facilities not owned by the county $1,000 an ounce to dispose of hazardous waste. Solid waste companies would pay $250 a ton.

Ground Hog wrong:

February expected to be mild

by Gil Russell
National Weather Service

In spite of the Woolly Worm predictions and whatever forecast the Ground Hog came up with on February 2, the National Weather Service expects February to be a rather mild month.

The official National Weather Service forecast for Kentucky for the month of February is for temperatures to average above the normal while precipitation amounts will be near normal.

In Southeast Kentucky, based on records at the Jackson Weather Office, daily high temperatures average around 42 at the beginning of the month to around 46 by the end of February. Overnight low temperatures range from around 21 in early February to around 25 by the end of the month. The average precipitation for February is 3.69 inches which includes any rainfall as well as the water equivalent of any snowfall.

Statistically speaking, February is normally the month of greatest snowfall in Southeast Kentucky, average 7.8 inches. The greatest snowfall ranged from 21 inches in February 1985 to only one inch in 1990. This is based on 10 years of records available in the Jackson Weather Office.

Based on the predication of above normal temperatures we would expect most precipitation in February to be in the form of rain. However, this does not preclude the possibility of an occasional cold spell with some heavy snow. Any such periods of cold and snow would most likely be of short duration.

Registration now underway for GED on TV spring session

Registration is now underway for the spring session of GED ON TV—a program in which students use the the KET/GED Series to prepare for the GED exam. Kentucky residents interested in enrolling can call (800) KET-4433 for more information.

Many people who would like to obtain their GEDs need advance preparation. The GED ON TV program appeals to adults who want to study for the GED at home because of transportation difficulties, child care problems, work schedules, or a desire for privacy.

Enrollment in the GED ON TV program, which costs $19, provides each student with three workbooks that follow the television programs, a pre-test and practice test, and a certificate that pays for the GED examination fee. The certificate is issued once the course has been completed. A KET support staff is available through the toll-free telephone number to answer questions, provide tutorial assistance, and help students determine when they're ready to take the exam.

Broadcast throughout the year, The KET/GED series has prepared at least 3,200 successful candidates for the GED examination since going on the air in 1985, and more than 31,000 people have called to inquire about the GED ON TV program.

The GED exam, administered regularly at various sites around the state, tests ability in writing skills, social studies, science, math, and interpreting literature and the arts. Substantially upgraded last year to more accurately measure its equivalency with a high school education, the five tests now focus on higher-level thinking skills.

The KET/GED Series was produced by KET in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education and Mississippi Educational Television.

University of Kentucky series puts Gulf crisis in perspective

by Dr. Thomas D. Matijasac
Associate Professor of History,
PCC

The University of Kentucky has organized a series of lectures by noted scholars to help students and interested members of the general public understand how the current crisis in the Middle East developed. The lectures are held on Tuesday nights at 7:30 p.m. in the student center on the main campus of the university.

In the first of these lectures held January 29, U.K. Professor Robert Olson discussed the rise of Arab Nationalism. Olson believes that Arab Nationalism was actually declining until the advent of the Iraq-Iran war in 1981. That war led to an increase of Arab nationalist feeling and an increase in the inter-Arab dependency, especially among Iraq, Jordan, the Palestinians and Yemen. This inter-dependency led to a de facto coalition among these groups which contributed to the present crisis. Olson said in order to regionalize the growing power of this Arab coalition, Iraq might try to curtail the plans of the coalition. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait supported U.S. efforts to curb the power of the Iraqi-led coalition.

The second lecture, entitled "The Arabs and the West," was presented by Dr. William Shorrock of Cleveland State University. Shorrock views the present conflict as part of a much larger clash of cultures that has been going on for more than 12 centuries.

During the Middle Ages, Moslems believed that their culture was the center of truth and enlightenment. For some 10 centuries, Islam was advancing in land and culture. This Moslem tide peaked in 1683, when the Turkish armies laid siege to Vienna, Austria.

Since 1683, Islam has been on the defensive. For three centuries it lost ground to the Christian West. By 1900, European states were beginning to divide the Ottoman Empire (the last of the great Moslem states) into spheres of influence. As Arab minorities within the vast Ottoman Empire became infected by the germ of nationalism, Arabs began to dream of creating a separate Arab state.

During the First World War, the Ottoman Turks joined Germany and Austria in their fight against Britain and France. In order to weaken the Ottoman state, Britain encouraged the Arabs to rebel against their Turkish masters. She also promised Arab leaders that they would be given sovereignty over Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, and Palestine. Unfortunately, those dreams were frustrated when the war ended and the League of Nations sanctioned the extension of British and French control over these regions. Thus, feeling betrayed by the Western powers, hatred and mistrust of the West has continued in the Middle East to this day.

Many Arabs see the United States as the inheritors of the British role in the region. As the strongest of the Western powers, we are viewed by some Arabs as the new crusaders or, at the very least, as a conquering power from a foreign culture. Our superior fire power will give us victory in the war against Iraq, but it will be much more difficult for us to achieve a lasting peace in the region.

The next lecture in the series will discuss intra-Arab politics. Dr. Abdul Rifai of Berea College will make the formal presentation and Dr. Chung-In Moon of the U.K. Political Science Department will add some additional comments. The lecture is free of charge and is open to the general public.

Attacking a culprit

The Kentucky State Police recently brought their drug and attack dog to Mr. Caldwell's 6th, 7th, and 8th grade class. Rex with his handler State Trooper Stacy Trees put on an excellent program on finding drugs and doing attack work. State Police Detective Les Stapleton volunteered to let Rex attack him. Allen Elementary students express their thanks to the Kentucky State Police for taking time to come to their school for this presentation.

Pollution of Licking River leads to $100,000 penalty

A Kentucky Corporation has been fined and its operator, Samuel T. Alcus, has been sentenced for violating the Clean Water Act by discharging brine into a tributary of the Licking River in Magoffin County.

Louis DeFalaise, United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, said the sentencing was pronounced by District Judge Joseph M. Hood in U.S. District Court in Lexington on February 1.

Samuel T. Alcus of New Orleans, entered a plea of guilty and received a three year probation sentence. Alcus must pay $10,000 with the statutory assessment based on his conviction for negligent discharge of brine into the tributary. However, $5,000 of the fine was ordered suspended on the condition that restitution of that amount be paid to the Kentucky Hazardous Waste Management Fund.

The corporation, AEI-KAARS Production Company, was sentenced to a fine of $100,000 with a statutory assessment based on its conviction of willfully discharging the brine. Part of the corporation's fine was suspended on condition that restitution of $50,000 be paid to the Kentucky Hazardous Waste Management Fund.

The Hazardous Waste fund will be used to correct the environmental harm that was created. Alcus and AEI-KAARS Production Company operate oil and gas wells in Magoffin County.

The investigation leading to the convictions was jointly conducted by the Office of Criminal States Environmental protection agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Kentucky Division of Water, Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

Smith assists with Navy's newest fighter

Navy Master Chief Petty Officer Curtis M. Smith, son of Curtis L. and Nancy Smith of Harold, was recently selected as part of a hand-picked team to assist in the preparation of the Navy's newest jet fighter.

The aircraft Smith is evaluating with his command is the F-14D "Super Tomcat." The jet's systems can process target and weapons data substantially faster than its predecessor. New engines give the 20-ton jet over 30 percent more thrust and dynamic flight capability far superior to previous models. The Navy says the new jet is a technological leap which will maintain fighter air superiority into the 21st century.

Smith is currently serving with Air Test and Evaluation Squadron Four, Naval Air Station, Point Mugu, California.

A 1968 graduate of Phelps High School, Phelps, he joined the Navy in April 1969.

Get tough on trash

by Scott Perry

Most of the debate in Frankfort concerning solid waste disposal has centered on what goes into Kentucky landfills. But what's not going into those landfills is just as important.

Weak-knee politicians in many Kentucky counties continue to avoid implementation of mandatory participation solid waste disposal programs for fear they will be soiled in the process.

While they drag their feet on the issue, tons of garbage bags continue to be dragged to the banks of streams and the sides of roads.

Certainly we must act to control the flow of waste into our state and the types of waste that flow into our landfills. We must also eliminate the trash that floats down our rivers and creeks and piles up at nearly every rural wide spot on nearly every rural road.

The lamest argument we've heard in opposition to mandatory garbage collection is also the oldest argument.

The cost would be just too much of a burden on poor Kentuckians.

In reality, few active garbage collection services cost patrons more than 30¢ a day — less than a cup of coffee at your favorite restaurant.

Compare that to the cost to taxpayers for cleaning up roadside dumps or the cost our children will pay for a fouled environment.

If individual counties won't act to resolve our trash problems, Frankfort must take the lead.

Universal collection must be mandated and enforcement of dumping laws must be strengthened.

The alternatives are obvious...to the eyes and the noses.

Justice for all

If Kentucky is to truly make headway in the fight to remove drunk drivers from our highways, laws which govern such matters must be applied equally to all persons who violate them.

A first step in that direction would be for our legislators to end the practice of allowing indefinite court continuances in DUI cases.

Sixty days from the date of the offense should be sufficient time for anyone to prove their guilt or innocence, yet court dockets are often clogged with cases that are months and sometimes years old. Unfortunately, some of those continuances are reflections of undo and unfair influence on our justice system and that who a person is carries more weight than does equal justice under the law.

Speedy trials and uniform sentencing, the latter of which is already provided for under Kentucky's Slammer Bill, may not reduce the number of first-time DUI offenders, but it would certainly have an effect on repeats.

You drink, you drive, you pay. No matter who you are or who you know.

Editor:

A boy from another school, Jason Hall, wrote an article saying the schools in Floyd County needed cleaning up. This is true, and I agree that Adams Middle School is clean, but I do not agree with the part about, "There are not clean schools, like Prater and Harold. They should be cleaned up."

Harold or Prater might be small. They might not have a gym, but they are clean (unlike some schools in Floyd County, not mentioning any names).

Harold is one of the best schools in Floyd county. Harold has some of the highest CTBS test scores. And when Harold students go up to Betsy Layne High School, they have at least seven in the top 10.

Kristy Tackett
Harold student

Editor:

Harold School is better than some schools. We don't have kids smoking in the halls or down around in class. Harold school is cleaner than some schools. We don't like our school being called dirty. We don't have people getting expelled every two weeks.

Editor:

I have recently returned from Washington, D.C., after attending a conference concerning Medicare offered by the National Association of Medical Equipment Suppliers. Considerable coverage has been given to Medicare changes in the new federal budget, especially the beneficiary's responsibility for an increased deductible and premiums. There are, however, other less visible cuts and changes that are part of a serious long-term erosion of health care for our nation's elderly.

These cuts are in payments for the home medical equipment (HME) services that provide oxygen, wheelchairs, hospital beds and other items that are critical to the health and mobility of elderly and disabled people.

For Fiscal Year '91, $215 million in HME reimbursement funds were slashed from an overall budget for HME of $2 billion—more than a 10 percent cut. Total reductions over five years will exceed $2 billion.

Without adequate reimbursement, it will be impossible for the home care companies that provide HME services to maintain current levels of care. Service reductions will be felt in a variety of ways, including:

* Reimbursement cuts will force HME companies to reduce their geographic service areas. Some beneficiaries may be left without service.

* HME companies will reduce their product inventories. For example, Medicare covers more than 40 types of wheelchairs, ensuring the proper "fit" of wheelchair to the patient's particular needs. A beneficiary may no longer receive the optimal product or may have to wait for a "special order" shipment from the factory.

* Timely hospital discharge for patients requiring home medical equipment will be impeded. Under the budget legislation, Medicare payment forms may be filled out only by physicians and hospital discharge planners. Home care companies, which have the manpower and the expertise in processing the complex Medicare HME payment forms, are now restricted.

Home health care keeps patients out of hospitals and nursing homes, reducing the national health care cost burden. With an increasingly elderly population, it's one of our best options. Medicare home medical equipment benefits need to be upgraded and strengthened, not cut and complicated!

I urge our community's physicians, social workers, discharge planners along with the elderly citizens—and the disabled individuals who are also dependent on home care services—to join me in communicating emphatically to our elected officials that the current federal approach is both counter-productive and unacceptable.

Editor:

I'm a student from Harold Elementary and I'm writing this letter concerning a recent article by Jason Hall, student.

I do agree that some schools do need to be cleaned up, but using examples of his own opinion was an uncalled for gesture.

I agree Adams is an extremely clean school, but you must also take into consideration the fact that the school is a new and a very expensive one with a lot of new, modern equipment. Whereas, Harold is a much older school, not made for new, modern tools such as the ones used at Adams. Harold was also built for a small number of students compared to that of Adams Middle School, which is another reason expensive equipment wasn't purchased.

I was greatly offended by his statement about Harold and Prater. I assure you, and everyone else, that both schools do what they can with, what little they've got. Compared to some other schools, both are extremely well taken care of.

I do believe in the freedom of speech and people's freedom to voice their own opinion, so let me make known the fact that Harold (and Prater) may not be very modern, but they do what they can to "clean up."

In my own opinion they both do an excellent job at teaching. When it comes right down to it, you won't find many schools that are as well taken care of as Harold and Prater that have the ability to keep such high standards of learning, yet still manage to keep an overall high attendance and also keep the highest CJBS scores in the county. They may not be spotless, but they do a good job.

No offense to the author, but the statement was not based on fact and was simply absurd.

Charity Salisbury

Editor:

It seems to me that our present governor is a Republican who ran on a Democratic ticket. He promised no taxes and a lottery that was supposed to go towards our schools.

He turned around and allowed the legislature to pass laws that are unconstitutional. For example, the school board in Floyd County has been allowed to raise taxes to whatever they want. To me, that is nothing but dictatorship.

Politicians, like Ron Hager (Superintendent of Floyd County Schools), are receiving raises from our higher taxes. Big money was spent to build a new school and it's already falling apart. It will take more money to repair it. But that hasn't benefited our kids a bit more.

Right now legislators are down there voting on drunk driving legislation but nobody's talking about driving on cloud nine (drugs). I'd rather meet somebody on the road who staggers than someone who thinks he's flying when he gets in his car.

Politicians were mad about the story 48 Hours did on Muddy Gut, but the way I see it, they're turning all of Floyd County into a Muddy Gut. People can't afford to pay these taxes and they aren't receiving benefits from the additional monies raised. Floyd Countians need to stand up and be heard!

Editor:

The seventh graders at Harold are writing to this newspaper due to a former submission by the student, Jason Hall. In this editorial he stated that some schools in Floyd County needed to be "cleaned up," and then went on to give such examples as Harold and Prater.

We all agree that Adams Middle School is one of the cleanest but it's also the newest, most advanced, and the biggest school in Floyd County.

We fully believe in the freedom of speech but when stating your opinion offends people, like us, you're better off not to name examples. We all know Harold and Prater aren't the newest or cleanest schools in Floyd County but we do the best we can with what we've got.

Ten Years Ago

(Wednesday, February 11, 1981)

A houseboat, owned by Johnny Gray, was destroyed and two other boats were damaged by a weekend fire at the Jenny Wiley Boat Dock Marina. An electric heater was suspected to have started the blaze.... Gusting winds downed power lines in several areas of the county including East Point, Left and Right Beaver Creek and parts of Prestonsburg... U.S. Congressman Carl D. Perkins responded to claims that a project to "channelize" Beaver Creek "is dead", by saying the project, "is still very much alive."... Prestonsburg City Council members expressed disappointment that U.S. 23 in Prestonsburg was not included for repairs by the state transportation department... Prestonsburg Utilities Superintendent Bill Howard said that bids for several water systems in the county are now being accepted. The proposed water systems will be funded by $4,200,000 in grants for the projects... State department of education survey teams recommended that several schools in Floyd County be merged, while suggesting that other facilities should be renovated or retired. The team recommended that McDowell and Wheelwright High Schools be replaced with a centrally located facility... There died: William L. New classes begin this month at PCC

Several new general interest classes are scheduled to begin at Prestonsburg Community College during the month of February.

A mathematics review for the National Teacher Examination will be offered on two consecutive Monday evenings beginning Monday, February 11 and concluding on February 18. The class will provide an overview of the math required to pass the general knowledge portion of the test. Dr. Reza Akhlaghi is the instructor.

"Communication Between Men and Women: Fact or Fiction?" is the name of a new class being taught by Communications Instructor Bob Looney at the college. The class will explore how men and women communicate and miscommunicate with each other. Questions will be raised about whether there are gender differences in communication that interfere with our mutual understanding. The class will be held on Tuesdays, beginning February 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the college.

A pencil drawing class for adults, taught by Tom Gies, begins on Tuesday, February 12, also at 9 a.m. in the art studio in the Pike building on the Prestonsburg campus. The five week class will include drawing with pencils and charcoal and will help the students draw what he or she sees. Light, shadow, texture, contrast and perspective will all be discussed and demonstrated. A special 20 percent discount will be offered to all participants aged 50 or more. Retired folk and senior citizens are particularly welcome to this class.

Dr. Bill Loftus will present a class called "Stress, the Person, and Relaxation" beginning Wednesday, February 12, starting at 6 p.m. The class will teach participants about the Relaxation Response and help them deal with stress in a positive manner. Students will take part in relaxation exercises as well as discussions.

For more information about any of the courses described above, please call Prestonsburg Community College, Office of Continuing Education and Community Services, 886-3863, ext. 278.

Students, homemakers make holidays special for patients

The holiday season at the Methodist Hospital was made nicer by the kind hands of Pikeville Elementary School fourth, fifth and sixth graders and the McCombs Homemakers Club.

During the Thanksgiving holiday, Susan Lucas' fourth, fifth and sixth grade art classes made turkeys to be placed on the patient's meal trays. The turkeys were constructed in a way that allowed patients to have mints placed in the body portion of turkey so they received two treats in one.

During the Christmas holiday, the McCombs Homemakers Club made stuffed teddy bears for the children who were either patients in the outpatient surgery department or in the pediatric unit. The teddy bears were given out by the hospital volunteers as the children were being admitted.

Hospital administrator Dr. John Tummons said, "many hours and hard work were put into both of these very special projects. We appreciate the efforts these groups made on behalf of our patients."

Tackett, Fields

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Fields of Hazard announce the engagement of their daughter, Traci Maria, to Ernie Tackett, son of Ermal Tackett of Harold and Joann Lykens of Honaker. Miss Fields is a graduate of M.C. Napier High School and Alice Lloyd College. She is employed by the Perry County Board of Education. Mr. Tackett is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, Pikeville College, and Morehead State University. He is employed by the Floyd County Board of Education. The wedding will be at 2:30 p.m. March 30 at Big Creek Baptist Church at Hazard.

Hackworth, Jervis

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hackworth of Salyersville announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Patricia Carol Hackworth, to Mr. Vernon Jervis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maryland Jervis of Cow Creek. Mr. Jervis is employed by Ronald Adams Auto Parts. Miss Hackworth is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. The wedding will be solemnized Thursday, February 14, at 8:30 p.m. at the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist Church. The gracious custom of open church will be observed. A reception will follow at the church.

Education: key to coping with mental illness

The Mountain Comprehensive Care Center has been chosen as pilot program to train relatives of persons with a mental illness to be educators for other families in similar situations.

The Family Education Program, developed by the Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services, teams mental health professionals with family members to teach classes on coping with and learning about mental illness.

"It's very difficult to deal effectively with an environment that is not understood," Paula Tamme, director of the departments' Community Support Program, said. "In order to cope with mental illness, you have to have the facts regarding diagnosis, treatment and resources."

"Family education emphasizes coping with the illness instead of curing it and educating the family instead of providing therapy," said

Tamme. Six Kentucky community mental health centers are participating in the program. Also participating are Bluegrass Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board Inc., Lexington; Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center, Corbin; Green River Comprehensive Care Center, Owensboro; Lake Cumberland Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board Inc., Somerset; and Lifeskills, Bowling Green.

Tamme said the goal of the program is to identify family members who may be future co-trainers and to promote involvement in support and advocacy groups.

Besides the mental health department, the program is co-sponsored by the Kentucky Alliance for the Mentally Ill (KAMI) and the Kentucky Mental Health Association (KMHA). The program is endorsed by the Kentucky Association of Regional Programs (KARP).

The long-term objective of the program is to establish family education classes at all 14 mental health centers and to increase the number of self-help groups in the state.

"The reason family education is so important is because roughly 50 percent of Kentuckians with a mental illness live at home with their spouse or parents," said Tamme. "And the family members need to know how to cope and not be overwhelmed by the illness."

For information on signing up for the classes, contact Tamme at (502) 564-4448 or Ellen Garrison at (502) 589-8600.

Seeking help:

A hurdle in domestic violence

Two recent Kentucky spouse abuse cases ending in murder show the severity of domestic violence and the need for help for victims, say officials of the state Department for Social Services.

Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalczuk said that violence in a relationship is rarely a single incident.

"Far too many of the victims experience severe patterns of abuse before someone calls the police or this agency," Michalczuk said. "There is no 'reasonable' number of violent acts before help should be sought. There is no normal period of time to wait and see if the hitting will stop."

Michalczuk said that a variety of factors keep many victims from leaving an abusive relationship or seeking help.

"These include embarrassment, isolation by the abuser from those who could help, financial vulnerability, belief that the children must have a father, and religious beliefs on the sanctity of the marriage," he said.

Another common reason abused spouses do not immediately get help is their hope that the situation will change and the violence will stop.

"At the same time, many victims may blame themselves, rather than the violent spouse, for what is happening," he said. "Others have a very real fear of even worse treatment by the violent spouse if they seek help."

While various reasons are given for not seeking assistance, Michalczuk said, "A very troubling response, to me, is 'I didn't know where to turn.'"

"Where to turn" may be either local law enforcement agencies or the local Social Services office, both of which respond to spouse abuse reports. Adult Services branch manager Richard Newman said, "Our adult protection staff recognize the 'fear' and 'safety' factors."

"In order to act as advocates for domestic violence victims, our workers are trained in the importance of being discreet," he said. "These are highly volatile situations and our presence, if not handled correctly, could accomplish just the opposite of our role to protect and help the victims."

"We encourage, support and advise. We stress protection and safety for the victims and children, through referral to services such as spouse abuse centers and the courts to obtain necessary protective orders," Newman said.

"Our goal is for the victims to know that they are not alone, and that there is confidential help available to them."

Michalczuk said, "In 1980, there were just over 1,500 spouse abuse cases reported in Kentucky. For 1990, we've estimated that there were more than 10,000 reports of spouse abuse in this state, including almost 5,000 women and children going to the spouse abuse shelters."

"As public awareness of the crime and the social problem of spouse abuse increases, so does the need for a coordinated public response to victims in need of protection," he said. "People need to recognize that spouse abuse is not a private matter. It's against the law."

For more information, or seek help contact the Big Sandy Family Abuse Center, Prestonsburg, 606-886-6025.

Students view filmstrip

David Chaffins with Disaster Emergency Service recently attended Mr. Caldwell's class at Allen Elementary. Chaffins taught the class about earthquakes, telling students what to do in the event of an earthquake emergency. The students also watched a film about earthquakes. The presentation was filmed and was broadcast to the entire school using the new closed circuit T.V. equipment.

What kind of food do they eat in L.A.

by Beth Jones

Do people in large cities eat soup beans? This is a burning question in my mind. If these people do eat them, what do they call them? Pinto beans or brown beans, I guess: it makes them sound more city-like.

Do you think city folks cook their soup beans with a big slab of salt bacon and serve them with corn bread and a big onion head? I think not. I'll just bet they buy the kind in a can that is heat-and-serve. Somehow, I think all the down-home taste would be lost in the canning process.

I wonder if people in Los Angeles ever eat mustard greens and kraut and Wieners? I bet they don't even eat pickled beets. I personally don't like pickled beets, but I think everyone should experience the taste. I think city people lead a sheltered life in the food department. Really, don't you think everyone should experience squirrel and gravy?

I guess we aren't really cultured in "fine" dining. I bet none of the old-timers ever had a souffle or quiche. How would one ever get a mountain man to eat escargot? Somehow, I don't think it would be easy to get a man that was raised on ham hocks and shuck beans to eat a snail. Pretty dramatic change, don't you think?

I wish everyone could have the chance to eat some of my mamaw's chicken-n-dumplings. No matter where I go or what I do, nothing will ever taste as good as that rich chicken broth and tender dumplings.

Berry dumplings, whether raspberry or blackberry, are other favorites of mine. I don't mind getting scratched by briars if these scratches result in sweet, juicy dumplings floating in rich sauce.

I do think some mountain foods are disgusting, though. I can't believe that someone would want to eat meat taken from a hog's head. My grandfather loves this head cheese or souise as it is better known. The very sight of this disgusting stuff makes me cringe.

I also would not eat a squirrel's brain. My mamaw used to say that it was the leanest and most tender part of a squirrel. That may be so, but I hope never to find out.

I may find a few mountain foods disgusting, but for the most part, I feel we have some fine dishes. Yes, I am fairly sure that city dwellers have missed some fine dining by bypassing this part of the country. I'm not complaining, though. There will just be more for me.

Senior Citizens—The real story

In the course of a day's work at this paper, one never knows what's coming next. Car wrecks, fires, interviews, floods and disasters in general are the usual menu items for any reporter. Sometimes things just seem like one bad news story after another.

Wednesday provided an exception to that rule.

I spent a couple of hours in the company of some very lovely ladies at the Prestonsburg Senior Citizen Valentine lunch at the Holiday Inn.

A lot of people might pass on a chance to spend time with senior citizens, but they don't realize what a wonderful group of people these seniors are.

All of the people involved in the Valentine event were exceptional people. They are not like other people. They are courteous and polite, well informed and knowledgeable. They have strong opinions, powerful memories and a lifetime of knowledge to share. They deserve our respect, but do not insist on having it.

Thanks for having me, it truly was a ray of sunshine in an otherwise bleak day.

In other business...

I came across something very interesting in my desk this week. It was a series of notes and other items which belonged to the late Frank Clark.

In this series of notes there was a profile of a newspaper editor in Texas who, around the turn of the century, was angered by the public's criticism of his writing. The editor, who admitted that he had often omitted or softened a story to save someone's feelings, said he was tired of it and had decided to print only the truth in his paper from that point forward. Readers found these items (among others) when they opened the paper the following week:

"Tom Spradlin married Miss Cordie Meador last trade's day at the county seat. It ain't generally known, but the marriage was brought about mainly by a Remington shotgun manipulated by the bride's father. Tom concluded that marrying the girl was the healthiest thing he could do until other arrangements were made."

"Dave Chartier died at his home two miles north of here Thursday night. Doc Holderness, who is an old friend of the family, attended him a few minutes before he died. He gave it out that Dave died of heart failure. That is a lie! Dave died from drinking too much of a very poor grade of mail order liquor."

The editor also wrote of the marriage of a hometown boy and a girl who, "flirts with all the traveling salesmen she meets and never helped her mother three days all put together in her whole life. She is anything but a beauty, resembling a gravel pit in the face and walks like a duck."

Prestonsburg is a small town and very little happens that someone doesn't notice. A little truth could go a long, long way in this town.

Does anybody get the message?

Allen Central students place in regional Sweet 16 competition

Three Allen Central High School students have placed among the top four winners in their categories in the Sweet 16 Regional competition held last week at Morehead State University.

Michael G. Ousley placed fourth in the Art: two-dimensional category. Both Rodney Wiley and Delbert Goins received third place in the Journalism: Advertising/Promotion competition for their project on recycling.

Ousley, a sophomore, is the son of Jerry and Ramona Ousley of Hippo; Goins is a son of Delbert and Susan Goins of Martin; Wiley is the son of Rodney and Pam Wiley of Hippo.

These students will vie for scholarships at the state finals of the Sweet 16 Academic Showcase in Lexington March 13-16. The top four regional winners in each of the 12 academic categories will compete in the event at Transylvania University. They will be introduced to the audience between games of the boys' state basketball tournament.

A total of 503 students participated in the regional competition held at Morehead. The students were from 67 high schools in 26 counties.

Students participating were from regions 9, 10, 15, and 16, which included these counties: Boone, Campbell, Kenton, Pendleton, Bracken, Harrison, Mason, Robertson, Nicholas, Bourbon, Clark, Montgomery, Bath, Fleming, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, Floyd, Pike, Lewis, Greenup, Boyd, Carter, Rowan, Elliott, Lawrence, Morgan and Menifee.

A total of 1,758 students from 209 high schools in 99 Kentucky counties have registered to compete in the four regionals of the 1991 showcase.

The first regional was held at Eastern Kentucky University. The remaining regionals will be held at Murray State University on February 16 and Georgetown College on February 23.

Students are competing for a total of $75,350 in scholarships to be awarded through the Academic Showcase this year. The scholarships may be used at any Kentucky college, university or post-secondary educational institution.

Since the program began in 1985 by Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler, more than $350,000 in scholarships has been awarded to 326 students from 168 Kentucky high schools.

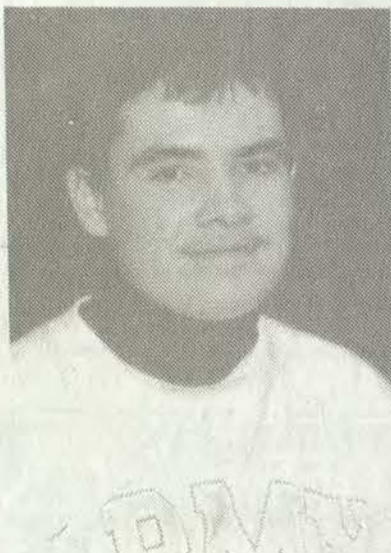

The Academic Showcase has competitions in Art, 2-D and 3-D; Music, vocal and instrumental; Journalism, feature writing and advertising/promotion; English, essay and creative writing; Speech; Computer; Mathematics; and Chess. All competitions are individual except for math, computer and advertising/promotion which are team events. University faculty and professionals judge the events.

First through fourth-place winners received plaques and an opportunity to go to the state finals to vie for college scholarships.

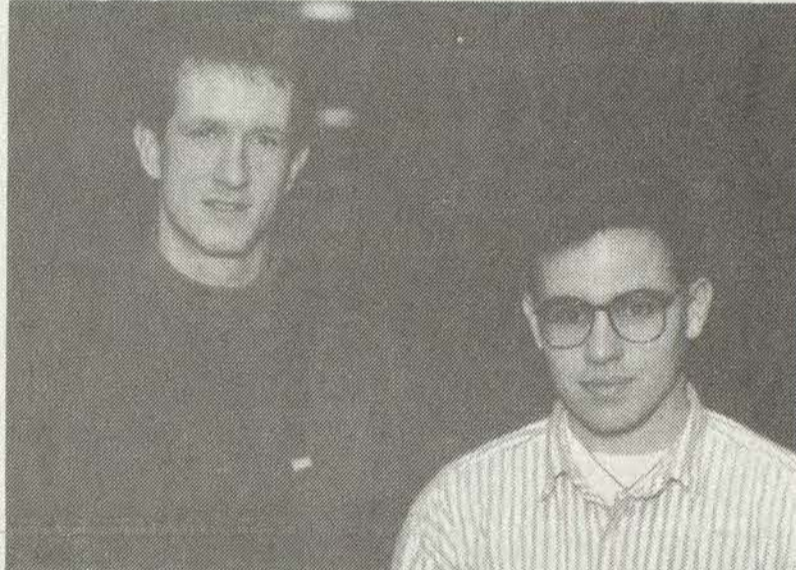

Individual students who win first place on the state level will receive $2,000 scholarships; second place, $1,200; third, $850 and fourth, $600. Team members who are state winners each receive $1,350 for first place; $950 for second; $650 for third; and $400 for fourth.

Trophies are also awarded to state winners. In addition, the high school of each state winner will receive $1,000 to be used for the school's academic programs.

Not pictured are Brandon Holbrook, Justin Ray, Phillip Johnson and Jarrod Compton, who were presented in full military dress as the audience sang "God Bless the USA."

Melvin students display patriotism

God Bless the U.S.A. rang loud and clear at Melvin Elementary last Thursday night, January 31.

Linda Holbrooks and Inez Owens' third and fourth grade students, dressed in camouflage, red, white and blue, were a colorful display as they pledged allegiance to the flag and sang the national anthem. They gave a rousing rendition of many other patriotic songs, with Old Glory proudly waving before a large audience of parents, teachers, and friends. It was a heart-felt performance, touching the hearts of everyone there.

During this special service, the children recognized past veterans, families of service men and women serving in the East and held a moment of silence for those who are risking their lives for our country.

The program ended with the audience joining in to sing God Bless the U.S.A.

Osborne spelling bee winners

Dr. W.D. Osborne Elementary School recently released the names of its Spelling Bee winners. Winners in the individual classrooms were as follows:

Fourth grade, Mrs. Orvill, teacher: Katrina Gilliam, daughter of Raymond and Marie Gilliam; Mrs. Vance, teacher: Jason Mullins, son of David and Carolyn Mullins.

Fifth grade, Mrs. O'Neill, teacher: Larry Nobili, son of Lawrence and Martha Nobili; Mrs. Akers, teacher: Dustin Hall, son of Kenny and Gabriella Hall. Sixth grade, Mr. Slone, teacher: Sabrina Paige, daughter of Walter and Vicky Paige; Mr. Jones, teacher: Renna Flannery, daughter of Bobby and Edith Flannery.

Seventh grade, Mr. Johnson, teacher: Shoneque Oden, daughter of Duane and Kalawese Oden.

Eighth grade, Mr. Gibson, teacher: Marleana Johnson, daughter of Otis and Edna Johnson.

The school winner was Marleana Johnson and the runner up was Larry Nobili.

Smile Awhile

by Sarah Hopson

Hair today, gone tomorrow

Several weeks ago, I wrote in this column about a family friend who found himself in an unusual predicament concerning the loss of a T-shirt. Strangely enough, things of this nature frequently happen to this person.

A couple of weekends ago, our friend and three of his buddies decided to go camping and fishing in a remote locale that had few modern conveniences.

Though our friend is not an accomplished camper or fisherman, he enjoys the camaraderie and refreshments these excursions provide. So while he did forget to take a rod and reel, he remembered to bring along his cooler and sense of humor. (The first started the trouble: the latter helped him through it.)

It seems that while the guys sat around the campfire discussing different topics of interest, the conversation turned to the problems associated with aging. "I don't care about getting older," our friend said. "I'd like to grow old with a few hairs on my head."

"They've got stuff for that now," one of the guys offered.

"I'm not wearing a rug," our friend said. "The last time I tried that my cat clawed me to death."

"No, there's a medicine that encourages hair growth called Monoxodye."

"Really?," our friend asked innocently. "How does it work?"

"It stimulates the hair follicles."

"Is it safe, or will my nose drop off 20 years from now?"

"Sure it's safe, I use it myself."

Our friend gave his buddy an amazed look since his hair resembled Art Garfunkel's. That's when he decided he'd have to try this wonderful elixir.

"I didn't know you had a problem," our friend said.

"Well, I did, but I don't now."

"Can I get some of that?"

"I happen to have some in my travel bag. I'll get it for you."

Our friend was so ecstatic the Fountain of Youth was within his grasp that he lunged for the magic potion and started rubbing it through his hair.

"Massage your scalp real well," our friend was told. "You'll be able to see the results by Sunday evening."

For the next two days, all the men bragged on our friend's "fuller" looking hair. And though no one had a mirror, our friend certainly thought his hair felt thicker.

"Rub it in a little more over here," he was told.

"Yeah. You missed a spot here."

"Let me rub it in for you."

By Sunday evening as they packed to leave, our friend acted as if he had a new lease on life.

"My wife's going to be surprised," he excitedly said.

"She sure is," they all chimed. "You look like a different person."

All the talk bolstered our friend's ego to the point that he refused to look at himself until he reached the privacy of his own home.

When his wife opened the door she almost fainted.

"I really must look like a new person," he said with a smile.

"Do you ever, Bozo!" she screamed.

"What do you mean?" he sputtered.

"Your hair is orange!" she cried. As you may have already guessed, the "supposed" Monoxodye was peroxide.

It took two bottles of Grecian Formula to make him presentable for work the next day. He told us the worst part of it all is his co-workers called him Ronald Reagan.

Floyd students selected for all-state chorus

Seven Prestonsburg High School students have been selected by state-wide auditions to participate in the Kentucky High School All-State Chorus.

The Chorus will perform as a part of the Thirty-Third Annual Kentucky Music Educators In-Service Conference being held February 6-9, in Louisville. The experience will culminate in a concert open to the public

Friday evening, February 8 in the Robert Whitney Hall of the Kentucky Center for the Arts.

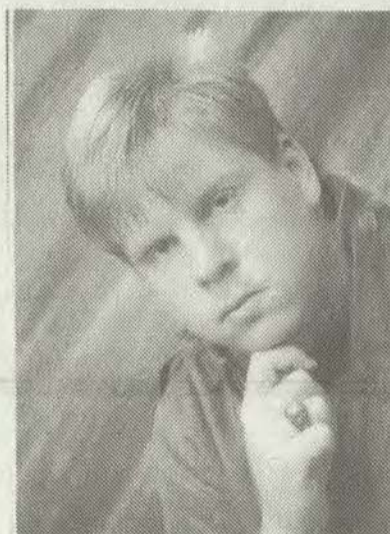

The students chosen are members of the P.H.S. Honor Choir under the direction of Elizabeth Frazier. Ms. Frazier is the K.M.E.A. chairperson of the Credentials and Election Committee.

The students are: Susanne Dawson, daughter of Fred and Barbara Dawson; Jennifer Gray, daughter of Denver and Ruth Gray; Tim Lester, son of Cecil and Janet Lester; Chris McKinney, daughter of Dale and Hilda McKinney; Raleigh Nelson, son of Mary Louise Nelson; Candice Sturgill, daughter of Gertie McKenzie and John Sturgill; and Tracie Wells, daughter of Doug and Bobbie Ann Wells. GED recipients may qualify for scholarships

A new program to aid recipients of High School Equivalency Certificates, GEDs, to continue their quest for further education is being inaugurated by the Christian Appalachian Project this year.

Scholarships are being offered in Floyd, Rockcastle, Garrard and Lincoln counties. Anyone who has received a GED is eligible to compete for $1,000 or $500 scholarships.

The scholarships are non-renewable, and are applicable for the first year for educational expenses — tuition, books, room, board, or personal expenses — transportation, child care or food — while attending school.

The scholarship can be used wherever the recipient wants to go, which may include any college, university, or vocational school.

Anyone, at any age, who has received a GED by a local board of education as a result of participating in a Christian Appalachian Project preparation program in Rockcastle, Lincoln, Garrard, or Floyd county is eligible to apply for a scholarship.

One or two recipients will be chosen from each county based on a combination of GED test score, financial need, two letters of recommendation and a one page statement about what the applicant wants to accomplish and how a degree or vocational certificate would help him or her reach their goals.

"It is important that we give low-income, GED recipients incentives to further develop their skills so that they will be eligible for better job opportunities," said Glen Taul, manager of scholarships.

Applications are due March 15. Completed Floyd County applications are to be sent to Rose Price, Christian Appalachian Project, Box 1119, Martin, Ky. 41649. Applicants in Garrard, Lincoln, Rockcastle, Madison, Casey, Pulaski and Jackson counties should send applications to Glen Taul, 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, Ky. 40446.

Applications and more information on the program is available from Cathy Bailey, Family Life Center School, Route 3, Box 35, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456, 256-5307; Glen Taul, 792-3051; or Rose Price, 285-5111.

Floyd technical high school will participate in state meet

The State Department of Education has chosen the Floyd County Technical High School faculty and students to attend the Tech Prep Conference in Louisville next month. Only five other schools were selected statewide to participate.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together teams of superintendents, school board chairs, principals, regional directors, area center principals, and community college representatives to begin the process of "Tech Prep". This concept focuses primarily on higher expectations for secondary students, redefining and retooling vocational programs to include academic integration for entry into technical programs, and developing articulation agreements between secondary and postsecondary institutions. The tech prep track will provide a viable direction for a wide range of students to prepare for the future.

The Floyd County Technical High

School is in the second year of the Tech Prep program and is the only vocational center in the state to offer an all-day program that not only focuses on training but also the academics that apply to that area. The team will consist of Tom Hardwick and James Staggs, applied academic instructors; James Taylor, carpentry instructor; Libbi Hall, special vocational liaison; Ronald Turner, principal at the technical high school; Jody Sword, principal at Allen Central High School; James Ratcliff, Prestonsburg Community College.

Five area high school students are also part of the team: Jennifer (Nikki) Webb and Jennifer Ratcliff seniors from Betsy Layne High School; seniors, Derrick Ousley and Jeff Bradley, and junior Billy Hall from Allen Central High School.

Students will present activities, experiments and demonstrations to make those attending the conference more aware of the applied academic curriculum taught at Floyd County Technical High School.

Appalachian studies conference planned

The 14th annual Appalachian Studies Conference, dedicated to the memory of Kentucky author and activist Harry Caudill, will be hosted by Berea College March 22-24.

The 1991 conference theme is "Environmental Voices: Cultural, Social, Physical and Natural," and, on March 22, keynote speaker Wilma Dykeman will open the weekend of discussion, programs and presentations.

Dykeman, author of more than 20 books, will explore the environmental attitudes of Native Americans and European immigrants to Appalachia. Musical entertainment will follow her banquet address.

Conference registration is $60 for adults, $25 for youth (elementary and high school), which includes a one-year membership in the Appalachian Studies Association (ASA).

For conference information, Barker can be contacted at CPO 2347, Berea College, Berea, Ky. 40404, or phone (606) 986-9341, Ext. 5222.

Allen Central clinches title; Wheelwright Trojans triumph

Lady Rebels Clinch Conference Tie With 60-29 Win Over Wheelwright

The Allen Central Lady Rebels came one step closer to winning their second Floyd County Conference title by handing the Lady Trojans of Wheelwright a 60-29 defeat. Allen Central, last year's 58th District tournament champions, needs only to defeat Betsy Layne tonight or see a McDowell loss to Prestonsburg, to win their second title in as many years.

The Lady Rebels left no doubt that they are on a mission by scoring the first 11 points of the game to jump out to a 11-1 first quarter lead. Stacy Moore scored seven of the first 11 points for the Lady Rebels. Kandi Holbrook, a freshman, had the only point for Wheelwright in the period.

In the second quarter, Holbrook, the shortest player on the floor, grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck it back in over the rest of the tall timber. Holbrook's basket made it 22-10.

The Lady Rebels ran the lead to 30 points, 46-16, by scoring the first 17 points of the third quarter. The only points for Wheelwright came on a three-point basket by Barbara Perkins. Marsha Brown, a freshman for the Lady Rebels, hit a trey before the quarter ended to put Allen Central up 49-16.

Wheelwright scored the final six points of the game on two baskets by Stephanie Little and two free throws by Vicky Johnson.

The win gives Allen Central a 5-1 conference record and 12-9 overall. Allen Central's only loss came against McDowell. The two teams could meet in the first round of the district tournament starting February 27.

Allen Central was led by Stacy Moore and Darnella Bradley with 10 points each. Jenny Wiley and Pam Webb scored eight each and Rhonda Leedy added seven. Brown finished with six points on two three-pointers.

Little led the Lady Trojans with nine points and Holbrook finished with seven. Five points were scored by Shena Collins.

Wheelwright is still looking for their first conference win in suffering their 10th straight defeat. The Lady Trojans are 0-5 in the conference and 2-10 overall.

Wheelwright will travel to June Buchanan Monday night and will host Prestonsburg on Tuesday night.

Allen Central will be at Betsy Layne tonight and make a trip to Clay County Saturday night.

Wheelwright stuns Rebels, 81-69 for first conference win

It was bound to happen. Someone was to feel the wrath of the caged Wheelwright Trojans. All season long the Trojans had been finding ways to lose the close ones. Finding ways to help the opposition along. This time it was different. Tuesday night the Trojans found themselves and played to the ability that many expected of them the first of the season.

This time it was the Allen Central Rebels who were the victims at the Wheelwright fieldhouse. Wheelwright handed the Rebels a 81-69 setback in picking up their first conference win of the basketball season. The Trojans had lost their previous four conference outings.

Wheelwright looked like anything but the team of the past previous 16 games. This was a new, exciting Trojan team, yet the same players. What made the difference? Coach Monroe Jones says it was combination of things.

"We started putting some of them that didn't want to play on the bench," he said. "We have practiced more and we are starting to play defense."

Jones cited the fact that they beat a team like Jenkins and they are 18-2 and in the Class A tournament in Lexington. Jones feels that his team is capable of playing with anyone on any given night.

"Our confidence was down," he explained, "and the players started believing what I was saying all along. We rehearsed it all in practice and things are different."

Things were certainly different for the Trojans against Rebel coach Johnny Martin's ball club. The Trojans came out hot and jumped all over Allen Central on defense creating several Rebel turnovers.

Junior forward Harold Johnson put on a shooting clinic in scoring 35 points to lead the Trojans. However, it was not just Johnson, but the inside play of Shane McCoy, 21 points, was just short of outstanding. McCoy got some good post up baskets. Johnson on the other hand scored from all over the court. From three-point land or inside the paint. One thing that can't be overlooked was the assists that Johnson picked up. Johnson was constantly looking inside for McCoy and hit the 6' 4" center with some excellent passes.

"It was a team effort all the way," said Coach Jones. "Johnson played an excellent game for us and Shane bodied up underneath and got some big baskets."

A team effort it was, especially on defense, when the Trojans gave good weak side help. Allen Central had problems handling the Trojans' pressure man-to-man defense.

The game was marred by a barrage of technical fouls. The first technical foul came when a player off the Allen Central bench was thought to be trying to trip one of Wheelwright's players. That took place with 1:27 remaining in the third quarter.

"One of Wheelwright's players stepped on his toes in taking the ball out of bounds," explained Coach

"This is new to me...It bothers me I can't coach in tonight's game"
 Allen Central coach Johnny Martin

Martin of the technical foul. "He jerked his foot out from underneath the Wheelwright player and the referee

Napier has easy time with McDowell in 62-40 Victory

Christy Combs tossed in 20 points and Alice Brewer added 15 points as the visiting Lady Navajos of M. C. Napier posted an easy 62-40 win over the McDowell Lady Daredevils.

Napier outscored the Lady Devils 12-4 in the third period to open a 14 point lead, 45-31. Combs led the Lady Navajo charge with five points, including a three pointer in the quarter.

After Kristi Pack hit a basket underneath for McDowell at the 6:31 mark, Napier scored 11 unanswered points to get up 57-33. Napier's full court press caused some problems for the Lady Devils, McDowell passing was anything but sharp.

McDowell jumped out quickly in the first quarter, taking a 4-0 lead on basket; by Lori Bryant and Jenny

S. Slone. Brewer hit a three to make it 4-3. Bryant hit a 10 foot jumper that put the Lady Devils up 6-3. Napier then ran off eight straight points and went on top 14-6.

With 2:55 to go in the second period, Napier extended their lead to 12 points, 31-19.

Four consecutive turnovers by the Lady Navajos let the Lady Devils back into the game. Slone hit a four foot jumper, Christy Mullins stole the ball and went solo for two. Bryant hit two free throws and then a layup to cut the lead to 31-27. Kathleen Gadbury grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck it back in just before the buzzer sounded ending the second quarter. The Lady Navajo's led 33-27 at the half.

In the final quarter, Napier shot 15 consecutive free throws, hitting 10. Brewer connected on seven of nine. One free throw came at the end of a three point play. Napier hit six treys in the contest, two each by Collins, Combs and Brewer. Bryant had McDowell's only trey.

Bryant led the Lady Devils in scoring with 19 points. Slone finished with 12. Pack had six points.

McDowell falls to 6-10 on the season and stands at 3-2 in the Floyd County Conference.

The Lady Daredevils will be at Prestonsburg tonight to face the Lady Blackcats.

Bobcats six game streak ends with 71-59 loss to Belfry

Coach Junior Newsome and his Betsy Layne Bobcats saw their six game winning streak come to an end Tuesday night as the 12th ranked Belfry Pirates posted a 71-59 win over the Floyd County Conference leaders at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse. The last time the Bobcats had lost was to Shelby Valley by one point in the semifinals of the Pikeville Invitational.

J.J. Hylton fired in 20 points to lead four double figure scorers for the Pirates. Mark Williamson and Shawn Hager each scored 11 points and Tim Kinzer added 10.

Three Betsy Layne players led Betsy Layne in scoring with 15 points: Phillip King, Adam Gearheart and Chris Newsome.

The Bobcats jumped out to a 8-0 lead in the first quarter on layups by Newsome and King. Gearheart hit a short jumper and Newsome grabbed a rebound for two points to cap off the rally. Hylton hit a six footer to break the Pirates drought with 5:33 remaining.

Betsy Layne held an 18-9 first quarter lead in their upset bid.

Betsy Layne continued to lead the Pirates in the second quarter until Belfry caught up at 24-24. Two free throws by Eplin at the 3:31 mark helped the Bobcats retake the lead at 26-24. Mark Williamson's free throw cut the lead to one before Adam Gearheart's three-pointer mushroomed the lead back to four, 29-25.

A short jumper by Williamson and a shot inside the paint by Brett Muha tied the game at 29-29 with 1:06 left in the first quarter. Shawn Hager hit two free throws before the period ended to send the Pirates to the lockerroom with a 31-29 first half lead.

The third period was the downfall for the Bobcats as Belfry scored 10 straight points to take a commanding 41-29 lead before Newsome's basket with 3:42 to go ended the cold spell. Belfry outscored the Bobcats 18-9 in the third period.

Betsy Layne could get no closer than eight points, on two occasions — 58-50 and 60-52. A basket by Hylton and two free throws by Hager sewed up the Pirates 17th victory.

For Belfry, Williamson and Chris Phillips each had eight rebounds.

Phillips finished with nine points.

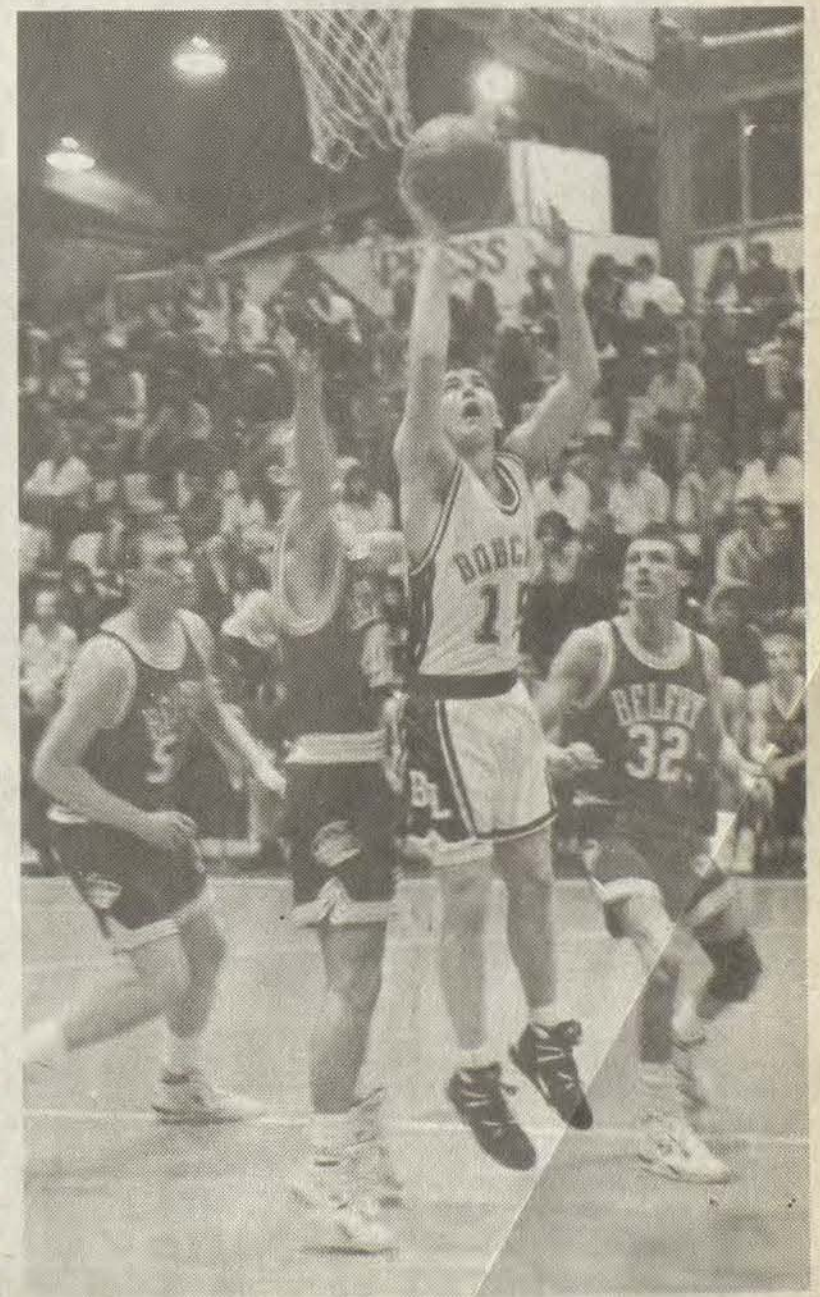

For Betsy Layne, besides his 15 points, King hauled down 14 rebounds, his average per game. Gearheart and Keith Hall each had three assists in the game.

Betsy Layne was a cold 23 of 59 from the field to with four of nine from three-point land. Belfry shot a hot 31 of 54 for 57 percent and was one of five from the 19'9" line. Belfry out rebounded the Bobcats 34-24. The Pirates turned the ball over 19 times to Betsy Layne's 13.

Belfry won the junior varsity game 57-52 holding off a late charge by the 5-5 Bobcats. Steven Staton scored 18 points to lead Belfry and Jason Newsome tossed in 15 points for

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor

CASE SEES RENOVATION OF ALLEN FIELD AS PRIORITY ONE

Floyd County Babe Ruth League Director Harold Case, while agreeing with local folks up Right Beaver, sees the need to refurbish the Allen ballpark as project number one.

"I'm not disagreeing with the ones up Right Beaver, they do need a field, but if we are going to host the state tournament next year, we need to first of all get the Allen Park field fixed up," he said. "I am behind the ones up Right Beaver 100 percent. And again they do need a field."

Case says that the present condition of the Allen ballpark is not too good. According to the Floyd County director, the infield is in need of repairs. Also, Case stated his concern over the entrance way to the field for small cars and motorcycles. Both, he says, have destroyed the infield.

"What the county needs to do is put a fence all the way around it with walk through gates and one large gate on the third base side for vehicles to get through. That way the gates can be locked and motorcycles will not be able to get on the field."

Case said that Floyd County hopes to host one of the three state tournaments this year, either for the 13 year old Prep League, 13-15 year old Parent League or the 16-18 year old Senior League. Case said it will cost the league $600 if they are chosen to host one of the tournaments.

An earlier start on the regular season games is high on the agenda for the Babe Ruth League. Case remarked that in order for the league to get an early start, permission to use the Allen Central baseball field will be needed, providing the field is prepared for playing.

"If we can use the Allen Central field we should be able to get our Prep League started around the middle of April. The other leagues (13-15 Parent and 16-18 Senior) will not be able to start until after the high school season is over."

The league director said that present plans are to have four Prep League teams, eight Parent League teams and four Senior League teams. "That has not been finalized yet, but hopefully that is what we can have. The problem is the shortage of fields. There are just not enough to play on," he said. "We definitely need more facilities."

One of the problems in using the Allen Central field if it is fixed up for playing, has been the insurance question. "Our insurance covers any player on any field he plays on," said Case. "We have a $1 million dollar liability policy that covers everyone connected with the league — boosters, concession workers to name a few."

"We would like to get some of the Prestonsburg teams back into our league," remarked Case. "They used to be in and we miss having them with us."

Case stated that he would like to see the county install water fountains on the grounds at Stumbo Park and that permission be given to the league to install billboards around the outfield fence. Case said it would be a money raising project for the league.

A meeting is expected to be called some time in the next three weeks to discuss the upcoming season and scheduling plans. Case said that there is not a shortage of coaches and many have said they would return this year. However, if the league expands, other coaches will be needed.

It has been a hardship on our players in the county to find a place to play baseball. Last year in Floyd County alone we had 72 organized baseball teams (Pee Wee, Little League, Babe Ruth, Senior League). It is an ongoing problem finding some place for all these teams to practice and play — especially the older leagues.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone. Be good sports!

McDowell wins first meeting:

Conference share on line tonight as Daredevils visit P-burg

While up U.S. 23, twenty miles from Prestonsburg, a battle will be going on in the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse between Allen Central and conference co-leader Betsy Layne, two other teams will be preparing to square off for the second meeting of the season between the two schools.

However, for the McDowell Daredevils, their game tonight with the Prestonsburg Blackcats becomes a big game for the Daredevils. It is a big game if the Daredevils want to keep pace with the Bobcats in the Floyd County Conference race. McDowell, currently 4-1 in the conference, will face a team they came from behind and defeated earlier in the year at McDowell.

In that game, Stacy Hall had one of his best games of the year, tossing 29 points. Hall will once again try and lead his team in a repeat performance. Teaming with Hall will be Barry Hall, a replacement in the starting lineup with the defection of Mike Duddleson. Duddleson played in the first game for the Daredevils and canned 13 points. Hall had only five points against the Blackcats in the first meeting, but has shown improvement since then. Hall is a threat from the three-point line.

LAST TIME THEY MET
McDowell 82 Prestonsburg 73
McGuire 18 Hall 29
McDowell 8-13
Prestonsburg 4-13
Conference: McDowell 4-1;
Prestonsburg 2-4

Dale Hinkle, who also netted 13 points against the Blackcats, has been coming off the bench and providing some scoring punch for the Daredevils. Hinkle is tough down under, but the slap against him is his defensive play.

Doug Hopkins has picked up some of the scoring slack for the Daredevils since the last meeting between the two county teams. Hopkins has been averaging around nine points a contest since then.

Prestonsburg, looking to improve on their conference record, has perhaps improved on their overall play more than any other team in the county. The Blackcats figure to be a team to be reckon with in the district tournament.

John Clark and Worthie McGuire will lead this team tonight and Aaron Tucker has shown some mid season form to become a big part of the Blackcats' offense. One reason for the improvement in the Blackcats' game has to be the improvement in Chris Burke underneath the basket. Burke seems to roam the baselines and paint area better than earlier in the season. Jason Crisp, has been spotty but when he is in the groove he is hard to stop.

Summarywise, the Daredevils must show they want to win the conference title and that must start tonight. They must forget the five game skid they have experienced lately and try to regroup against a club that is starting to come into its

Combs scores 29 as Napier Rolls past Allen Central, 65-41

Freshman Kristi Combs scored 29 points to lead the M. C. Napier Lady Navajo's to a 65-41 victory over host Allen Central Saturday night. The freshman standout had nine field goals and one three-pointer while hitting eight of 13 free throws. Paula Collins added 15 points for the Lady Navajo's.

Allen Central again was forced to play without leading scorer Teresa Gibson.

One of the highlights of the evening was the unveiling of a banner that will be hung in the Allen Central gym in memory of Judy Eversole, former Allen Central coach who died November 7, 1990. The 1982 Lady Rebel 15th Regional championship team was honored at the game.

Only one player scored in double figures for the Lady Rebs, who just seemed to be going through the motions on the floor. Damella Bradley had 11 points to lead the Allen Central team. Jenny Yates tossed in seven points in the loss. Two other players — Stacy Moore and "Mini" Moore — had six points.

Early turnovers created a hole for the Lady Rebels in the first quarter. However, it was early in the second that the Lady Navajo's began to pull away. Allen Central turned the ball over on five of their first six possessions. Napier jumped out to a 6-0 lead on two baskets by Combs and a bucket by Collins. Stacy Moore scored for Allen Central on a short base line jumper. However, the Lady Rebs were unable to take advantage of Napier's cold shooting by turning the ball over on three straight occasions — mostly to mental mistakes. The Lady Navajos led at the first stop, 12-10.

In the second stanza, Napier went to a 3-2 zone press and scored quickly on two baskets by Collins on base line jumpers. After a free throw by Rhonda Leedy, Combs picked up a garbage basket to give Napier a 18-11 lead. The Navajos extended the lead to 31-19 at the end of the first half.

A 11-5 run in the early going of the fourth period gave Napier a 52-35 lead which went to 57-39 with less than two minutes remaining. Napier scored the last eight points of the game for their final 65-41 score.

Napier only scored two field goals in the third quarter — one by Combs and the other by Collins. However, the Lady Navajo's shot 10 free throws, connecting on six of them.

The loss was the fourth for Allen Central in their last five games. The Lady Rebs will play the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats Friday night in a conference game. The loss dropped the Lady Rebels to 10-9 on the season.

Their remaining six games will be played on the road.

ree saw it and said he was trying to trip the player."

In the fourth period, coach Martin protested vocally on a called foul and the coach was whistled for a technical. Martin continued the one sided conversation and was charged with another technical. Steven Johnson stepped to the charity stripe and canned all four technical shots. However, before play resumed Coach Martin was forced to leave the game, because the player's technical was charged to the coach, plus the two he received brought an automatic ejection. Martin walked over and shook the hand of coach Jones and headed to the Rebels' dressing room with a standing ovation from the Rebel fans.

"One of Wheelwright's players threw a shoulder into one of our players and no foul was called. The play happened right in front of me," said Martin. "I told him about it and he called the first technical. I then told him that was the best call he had made all night and used some words I shouldn't have. He called the second one on me.

"I don't want to use the officiating as an excuse for losing," remarked Martin. "We just didn't play good basketball and we didn't really run anything offensively.

"I told the referees that we were playing bad and I was coaching bad and they were helping things," said Martin laughingly.

Because of the ejection, Martin will be forced to serve a one game suspension, which is the game against Betsy Layne tonight.

"This is something new to me," he said. "All the years that I have coached, grade school or high school, I have never missed a game. I have been sick, real sick, and never missed coaching my team. This is really bothering me not being able to coach the Betsy Layne game." Martin said that the closer it gets to playing the game the more it bothers him.

"I have never been through this before," he continued. "I don't know how to act. I thought about calling coach (Gordon) Parido and asking him how you are supposed to act since he has been through it before." Martin says that he has forgotten the game at Wheelwright and that his team has had some good practices since then.

McCoy put the Trojans on the scoreboard first with a basket underneath. A three point play by Todd Lucas gave Allen Central their only lead of the game at 3-2. Wheelwright scored the next six points on turnovers to take an 8-3 lead.

The lead went to 18-6 when the Trojans ran off 10 unanswered points. Johnson had six points in the spurt. Chuck Laferty ended the Rebel drought with a jumper. Wheelwright led at the first stop, 20-10.

Wheelwright kept pounding away at the Rebels and held a 13 point lead, 27-14, midway through the second period. The Rebels, behind the scoring of Laferty, cut the lead to six, 27-21. Laferty had a three-pointer, a short jumper and fed Stewart Hall with a good pass to account for the six points.

Steven Johnson, Harold Johnson and McCoy stopped the Rebel run with baskets of their own to give Wheelwright a 33-21 lead at the half.

Wheelwright took their biggest lead of the game, 45-28, in the third quarter. On two turnovers by Wheelwright, Stewart Hall hit two three-pointers and free throw by Ronnie Sammons cut the lead to eight, 45-37. It was then the technical was called on the Allen Central player on the bench breaking what momentum the Rebels had obtained. Harold Johnson hit a basket and Steven Johnson a free throw to put the lead back at 11.

A rare four point play by Laferty closed the lead to seven, 50-43, at the end of the third period. Laferty hit a three-pointer off the right side and was fouled with 11 seconds remaining in the quarter. Laferty connected on the free throw to complete the play.

Allen Central trailed 70-57 in the final quarter before the two technicals on Coach Martin. Wheelwright hit six straight free throws to build a 19 point advantage.

Allen Central made one last run at Wheelwright late in the quarter with a 7-0 spurt to cut the lead to 78-67. Larry Patton hit a basket for Allen Central to close out the scoring.

"Our team needs to learn that we have to play defense each night," remarked Jones. "You can't go out every night and think you can outshoot a team. You have to play defense. We played defense tonight."

Jones said that Betsy Layne was in the driver's seat as far as the conference championship goes. Wheelwright has three conference games remaining on their schedule — two with Prestonsburg and one with McDowell. Jones recalled the game his team lost to McDowell in overtime at home earlier.

"We gave that one away," he said. "If we had won that one and the next three we have left, we could have finished second or third."

Johnson's 35 points led the Trojans. McCoy tossed in 21 points and Steven Johnson finished with 12. Layne Bailey, off the bench, had a good outing with 10 points.

Laferty led Allen Central with 21 points. Laferty had three three-pointers in the game as he continues to play good basketball for the Rebels. Hall finished with 15 points with two treys and Ronnie Sammons put in his good, consistent game with 14 points. Larry Patton, off the bench, tossed in 10 points.

Allen Central, looking to regroup, will travel to Betsy Layne tonight and Wheelwright will entertain the Sheldon Clark Cardinals.

Allen Central evens their record at 12-12 in losing their third consecutive game. Wheelwright improves to 5-12.

Short Handed McDowell slips past Pikeville

At Pikeville Tuesday night, the McDowell Lady Daredevils got revenge for an earlier loss to the Pikeville Lady Panthers by slipping past the host school, 64-60. Foul trouble plagued the Lady Devils in the second half, but the McDowell bench rose to the challenge.

"We played a real good ball game," said McDowell's coach Cassandra Keathley. "We got into some early foul trouble and then Lori picked up two quick ones in the third period. But our bench came through for us. Carrie (Newsome), Shelby (Howell) and Nikki (Mullins) did a real good job for us."

In the third quarter, Bryant, who had picked up two fouls in the first half, was tagged with two personals in the first minute of play and eventually fouled out with four minutes to go in the third period.

The matters worsened when Jenny Slone got into foul trouble with four fouls in the third period.

"Kristi (Pack), hurt her ankle and couldn't play," explained Keathley. "Debbie (Fannin) didn't even make the trip because she is sick."

With the depletion of her troops, Keathley went to the bench and the pine sitters responded. Howell tossed in 10 points in a reserve role and Newsome added nine. Mullins, although she scored just two points, helped control the boards.

It was in the third quarter when McDowell overcame the Lady Panthers by outscoring the host team 22-13 to take a 50-47 lead going into the fourth quarter. A late charge by the Lady Panthers was withstood by the Lady Daredevils in posting their seventh win of the season and avenging the earlier loss.

Jenny Wiley boosts Lady Rebs Past Lawrence County

Four players scored in double figures as the Allen Central Lady Rebels closed out their home basketball schedule with a 76-56 win over the Lady Bulldogs of Lawrence County. Five games remain on the Lady Rebels schedule and all five are on the road.

Sophomore Jenny Wiley tossed in 17 points to lead Allen Central to their eleventh win of the season. The Lady Rebs have lost nine times. Three other players hit for double figures. Darnella Bradley tossed in 16 points and Stacy Moore had 15. Jenny Yates, in a reserve role, had 12 points.

Melinda Marcum led the Lady Bulldogs with 16 points. Darnella Jordan added 14.

Allen Central led at the first stop 15-11 and went to the lockerroom with a 32-21 lead. The Lady Rebels were able to hold their 10 to 12 point advantage throughout the game and outscored the Lady Bulldogs 31-21 in the final stanza to post the 20 point win.

Allen Central hit 15 of 25 free throws for 60 percent and Lawrence County had 14 of 28 for 50 percent.

Freshman Marsha Brown had a three-pointer for Allen Central. The Lady Bulldogs hit six three-pointers — three by Chapman and three by Jordan.

Allen Central will travel to Betsy Layne tonight for a match up with the 8-11 Lady Bobcats.

Lady Daredevils in thick of race visit Prestonsburg tonight

Conceding that they are the only team that has a chance to tie the Allen Central Lady Rebels for the conference championship in the last two weeks of the conference schedule, the McDowell Lady Devils will visit the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse tonight. The game will have a significant meaning to both clubs with Prestonsburg looking to place second in the race and receive a first round bye in the upcoming district tournament.

Prestonsburg, the preseason pick to win the conference, will enter tonight's game with a 3-3 record while McDowell stands at 3-2. A victory tonight for Prestonsburg will tie the two teams with McDowell having to play Betsy Layne at home Tuesday night and Prestonsburg having two remaining games with Wheelwright.

In this game two players that are considered top choices for the Player of the Year in Floyd County will square off against each other. Both are in the top ten in stats in the state of Kentucky. Kathy Slone, the left-hander, will try and lead the Lady Blackcats as she has done all season. Slone is quick but only managed eight points in the first meeting at McDowell.

However, Slone was suffering from an injury then. The other is Lori Bryant. Bryant tossed in 28 points in the first meeting between the two schools as McDowell won by one, 52-51, in a come-from-behind effort. Prestonsburg led by as many as 13 points, 34-21, in the third period only to see the lead disappear.

Amy Reed led the Lady Blackcats in scoring with 14 points. Reed is a heads up type of ball player who knows the court well and seems to be calm in all situations. A team leader with good outside shooting abilities.

Melissa Bailey has definitely made Prestonsburg a better team. The 6' 1" center seems to take more pleasure in her blocked shots than points scored although she is very capable of the latter.

McDowell 52 Prestonsburg 51
Bryant 28 Reed 14
McDowell 6-10
Prestonsburg 10-7
Conference: McDowell 3-2;

Carolyn Reffitt is another hard nosed player. Good shooter from outside and plays well underneath the basket.

Beside's Bryant, McDowell has their own inside game in Jenny Slone. Slone is one of those type of players that if she gets in a streak she can't be stopped. Slone needs to shoot the ball more instead of looking to pass off.

For the Lady Daredevils to win this one, some scoring must come from Debbie Fannin or Christy Mullins at the guard spots. The defenses always key toward Bryant, where good play at the guard position would open things up for her.

This will be a good one. A real barn burner. No runaway either way here. The last one was settled by one point, look for the same. It will be a basketball fan's delight. You will want to come out and see this one. Game time is 6:30 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. The game can be heard over radio station WXXZ, 105.5.

Rebels, minus coach, face Bobcats in important conference game

Tonight at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse, the Allen Central Rebels will have to face Betsy Layne without the services of their coach, Johnny Martin. The Rebels travel to the "Bobcat Den" as the final two weeks of conference basketball rolls around. Martin, the Rebels mentor, will be a spectator in the stands tonight as his team takes the floor. A position the veteran coach doesn't enjoy.

"This is new to me," he said. "They have made it clear to me what is expected of me. I cannot go into the lockerroom before the game or even at halftime. I can't be around the bench."

For the fiery coach, it will be hard to observe this one from the stands. "It really bothers me," he stated. "The closer to the game the worse it is."

Martin was assessed two technicals in the Wheelwright game Tuesday night and a third technical on a player on the bench was also charged to the coach. Thus automatic rejection. Thus automatic suspension for one game.

But the Rebels will be more than up for this one. "Win for the coach" could be the battle cry of the charging Rebels in Bobcat country. Chuck Laferty will lead the Red and Gray team against his former teammates. Laferty has been providing the point production for the Rebels and will find help in junior Stewart Hall (15 ppg). No one plays as hard as Tony Soler. Soler has an intensity level that never seems to diminish. A hard worker on the boards, Soler is averaging around eight boards a game.

When you talk about consistency, Ronnie Sammons is just that for the Rebels. He is always giving it all on defense and in running the ballteam from the point guard position.

One problem the Rebels will have is not how to stop one player but three. Phillip King, Adam Gearheart and Chris Newsome have been the nucleus of this Bobcat squad all season. While the three are providing the points, perhaps the best point guard in the county is Keith Hall. Hall does not burn the nets in scoring, but he knows how to run a team. Hall makes very few turnovers for a point guard and complements King, Gearheart and Newsome nicely.

The Bobcats are in a dog fight with McDowell for that number one spot. Each team has lost but once in the conference. Betsy Layne starts tonight with a 5-1 record and must travel to McDowell (4-1) Tuesday night to face the Daredevils on their home court. McDowell took a one point victory over the Bobcats in the first meeting against the two clubs.

Then in the consolation game of the Pikeville Invitational, McDowell delivered another blow to the Bobcats.

Winning tonight against Allen Central is a must for Betsy Layne. The pressure is on the Bobcats as the Rebels will be playing loose and looking to upset the apple cart of the Bobcats.

Game time is 8 p.m. and WPRG-TV will air the game live on Channel 5.

HOROSCOPE

February 10 through February 16

By C.C. Clark

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Your schedule will be hectic this week, but take some time to plan a fun trip for the future. Your plans should include traveling with a loved one who thinks as you do.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Tensions may be eased on the work and domestic fronts by facing reality. You can't always get every little thing done. Sometimes you have to take time for yourself.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Domestic problems could arise if you continue to misunderstand your partner. Don't make the mistake of alienating loved ones just because you disagree.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Pay close attention to details, especially at work or school. You'll make authority figures understand your thoughts by keeping calm and explaining things rationally.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Important people will play a major role in your life this week. Make a good impression by being yourself, but don't fall into the trap of being self-important.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
A business opportunity may find its way into your life soon. Look at the facts carefully before buying into the idea. Be aware of what is going on around you.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Love and romance may be just around the corner for the lucky Leo. You may rekindle the flame of an old love affair, or a new person may be on your horizon.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Don't take yourself or others too seriously. Feelings of gloom and doom can be dealt with easily. Take in a movie or chat with a humorous friend, and all will be well.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Emotions could play havoc in your work environment if you let them. Keep your head on straight and fight those feelings of paranoia with hard facts.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Your love life may be waning, but things aren't really as dull as they seem. There is something definitely brewing under the surface. Watch your partner closely.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Be determined to go after the things you want, not just now, but later on as well. It seems easier to sit back and let others take charge, but actually it is not.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Domestic chores need your attention this week. Even if you don't have the time, it is important to create a safe and homey atmosphere for yourself and those around you.

VIDEO BIJOU

'Real Life' walks the line between obnoxious, humorous

By Steven Alan McGaw
Real Life (1979)
This film is definitely not for all tastes and certainly not without its flaws, but I'd still recommend it. Filmmaker and comedian Albert Brooks stars as an obnoxious comic who decides to broaden his skills, pad his bank account and, primarily, inflate his ego by overseeing the making of a film about the typical American family.
The best part of the film comes first; the "set up" is really funnier than the execution. Brooks engages a computer and its attendant experts to find the needed family unit. They process information from thousands of people ready to have their lives invaded by a camera crew.

Finally a selection is made and, amid the laughs, you almost feel sorry for these poor schmucks, suddenly intimidated by an army of rude invaders taking over their home and tearing their lives apart.
Brooks excels in the not-remotely-sympathetic role of the obnoxious "filmmaker," creating a character you watch with horrified fascination; Charles Grodin is hilarious as the harried Dad who learns too late to prize the peace and quiet of anonymity. Frances Lee McCain is also excellent as Grodin's wife.
This movie has flaws; it's cynical, it's obnoxious, maybe a little overstated. But there are also some real laughs in this show, too. Give it a chance. © TV Listing Inc.

TV PIPELINE

Al Pacino began his craft watching others as an usher

By Polly Vonetes
 Q: I have heard of Al Pacino for many years, but only recently did I discover his great talent. Could you please give me a brief bio, including his debut picture? Also, is there an address where I could write to him?
 —Teresa McAllister, Keokuk, Iowa

Al Pacino

A: Al Pacino was born Alberto James Pacino on April 25, 1940, in New York City to Salvatore and Rose Pacino. He began acting as a child. Working as an usher in a movie theater, he initially learned his craft by watching some of the biggest stars on screen. He later studied drama with famed acting coach Lee Strasberg and put his training into practice by performing in repertory theater in Boston. Pacino first gained critical attention in 1968 when he received an Obie Award in the Actors Studio Workshop production of The Indian Wants the Bronx. He went on to gain wide acclaim in the Lincoln Center presentation of Camino Real and on Broadway in Does a Tiger Wear a Necktie? for which he won a Tony in 1969. His first feature film, Me, Natalie, was in 1969. Write to him: c/o Actors Studio, 432 W. 44th St., New York, NY 10036.

Q: Can you give me the mailing address of Beatrice Arthur, who plays the part of Dorothy on The Golden Girls series? Also, could you tell me if she was a student by the name of Helen Hansen at Robert E. Lee Jr. High in the late '30s in Miami, Fla.?
 —James McClure, Harker's Island, N.C.

A: She certainly doesn't look it, but Isabel Sanford was born on Aug. 29, 1917, in New York City. She was in the theater for 30 years before deciding to come to Hollywood. Sherman Hemsley, born on Feb. 1, 1938, could very easily have played her son on The Jeffersons.

Golden Girls, 846 N. Cahuenga, Hollywood, CA 90038.
 Q: Where and what is Falcon Crest doing? Is it off the air for good?
 —Ray Stermitz, Gardiner, Mont.
 A: I am afraid Falcon Crest has disappeared from the prime-time schedule forever. You may find it in syndication someday, but there will not be any new episodes. The series is no longer in production. I, too, was sorry to see it go. It was one of my favorites.

Q: I read in the Commercial Dispatch that Isabel Sanford was born in 1917. That would make her 73 years old wouldn't it? Would that also make her older than Sherman Hemsley?
 —Dorothy Washington, Brooksville, Miss.
