New Education Commissioner to review local procedures :

Site spat a "high priority" for Boysen

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A year-end flurry of activity concerning the development of a controversial new Floyd County high school apparently has caught the eye of the state's highest education official, and a "high priority" review of the issue is expected.

Dr. Thomas Boysen, who became Kentucky's first Commissioner of Education on January 1, is aware of the controversy surrounding development of the new Prestonsburg High School, spokesperson Donna Pace said Tuesday.

"It is an important situation and it is something Dr. Boysen is aware of," Pace said. "It is a top priority. Dr. Boysen said it is not a formal investigation at this time because he has not had time to review the situation."

Dr. Penney Sanders, newly appointed director of the state's Office of Educational Accountability, will review the situation with Dr. Boysen, Pace said.

Steve Yater, legal counsel in the state Department of Education, confirmed Boysen "will be looking at this" and said he forwarded a report on the board's procedures concerning development of the Prestonsburg High School project.

The validity of the deed for the property, approval of the contract for site development, the bidding procedures used and the immediate approval of minutes for a special board meeting December 28 "merit some attention," Yater said.

"I see some potential problems with the situation and I have pointed those out to the commissioner and he will see what needs to be done," Yater said. "It will be up to Dr. Sanders and Dr. Boysen to see what needs to be done."

"There looks to be problems with (the school project), but there may be some facts we don't have that may explain away some of the problems," Yater said. "But it seems to have some relatively serious problems with it."

Controversy concerning the deed to the Middle Creek site stems from the exception of coal rights to the seller of the property, Allen businessman David May.

Yater said if some board members were unaware of the coal exception in the deed at the time they voted to purchase the property, it could cause a problem.

"If several board members were misled about the deed, the exact status of the project could be a cause of concern," Yater said.

Yater said he had also "made a suggestion" to Dr. Boysen, advising how the state could "avoid" additional expense on the project while the issue is under review.

Yater, citing attorney/client privileges, declined to elaborate on that suggestion.

Approval of the minutes of the December 28 special board meeting at the conclusion of that meeting will also be an area scrutinized by the state, Yater said.

"The approval of those minutes could pose a problem," Yater said. "Minutes are usually approved at the next meeting of an agency in order to make corrections, some reconsideration of items and to determine any incorrect information," Yater said.

Arrest is answer to bomb call

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Former Betsy Layne High School assistant football coach Donnie Ray was arrested Monday evening in connection with a Monday afternoon bomb threat which forced emergency service workers to evacuate students at Betsy Layne High School.

Approximately 600 students were forced to leave the Betsy Layne facility at shortly after 2:30 p.m. Monday when school officials received a phone call which warned that a bomb was present on the campus.

Following the evacuation, members of the Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department, Kentucky State Police and Floyd County Sheriff's office searched the building for an explosive device. Searchers found no such device, and returned students to classrooms before the end of the school day.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said Tuesday that he and Kentucky State Police Trooper David Maynard arrested Donnie Ray at his home in Hurricane in Pike County. Ray was charged with terroristic threatening and lodged in the Floyd County Jail in lieu of a $2,000 full cash bond. Jail officials said that Ray was released from custody Tuesday morning.

Thompson said that he did not question Ray regarding his motives for the bomb threat.

The rest of the story . . .

A story in last week's edition of the Times concerning former Magistrate Eddie Caudill failed to include the dispositions of cases of others indicted along with Caudill. The outcomes of those cases are as follows :

Thomas Lafferty Sr. and Thomas Lafferty Jr., acquitted on theft charges; Hugh Fugate, pleaded guilty to three counts of theft by deception, one year in jail; Harlos Marshall, pleaded guilty to two counts, theft by deception, sentence unknown; Ballard Crum, found guilty of theft, three-year sentence; Kenneth Roberts, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charge, sentence unknown; Irene Merion, acquitted of charges; Ricky and Jackie Crum, and Naomi Green, Robert Duncan and Lowell Samons, charges dismissed.

New convention center to be completed soon :

Datebook open, filling up

Convention facilities in Floyd County will expand next month when the new Jenny Wiley Convention Center opens for business.

The $1.5 million complex will add to the county's tourism trade and is expected to be a major asset to Jenny Wiley State Park and Floyd County, said park administrator Leon Russell. Several events have already been booked at the facility, which has a seating capacity of 1,000.

The building has a portable stage and dance floor, a full kitchen and screens and video equipment to handle just about any event to be held at the center, Russell said. The park is now accepting bookings after March.

Three rooms in the center will be named after Indian tribes that settled in the state, said Susan Crowley, with the state Parks Department. The tribes are Iroquois, Shawnee and Cherokee.

The Jenny Wiley theater group will develop a special play to be performed in the complex if a "rainout" should occur during a performance at the amphitheater, Russell said. "That way, instead of people going home disappointed, we can immediately move the play indoors."

The Kentucky Opry will also be invited to use the complex for performances until a permanent facility can be found for the Opry, Russell said. "It's not finalized yet, but we hope to let them use it as often as they can."

"We can't hardly wait (until it opens)," Russell said. "We've watched it grow and we're as anxious as we can be. I believe we'll be able to handle just about anything."

A public grand opening is planned for some time in early February to let the general public tour the facility.

The project has been under construction for almost a year, which included a three-month delay to obtain the proper permits from the Army Corps of Engineers for the construction. It is scheduled to be complete in approximately four weeks.

Anyone interested in booking an event at the center after March should contact the group sales department at Jenny Wiley by calling (606) 886-2711.

Executive director, administrative aide hired :

Chamber takes on "new" look

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce will take on a "new" look this year, following the appointments this week of an executive director and an administrative aide.

Byron Keith Akers was introduced Monday to the membership as the new executive director hired by the chamber in an effort to boost membership and services to its members. Charlotte J. McFall was hired as administrative assistant and will be in charge of the chamber office.

Reaching all Floyd County businesses and re-organizing membership dues categories are two primary issues Akers wants to address.

Akers' plan includes allowing individual as well as non-profit organizations an opportunity to become chamber members and he hopes to expand membership from 120 up to 500 by the end of this year.

"I'm looking forward to getting out there and meeting business owners and telling them what the chamber has to offer them," Akers said.

"It's very important for us all to work toward a common goal."

Akers is a graduate of Morehead State University with a degree in communications, radio and television. He was recently employed as a

She is married to Richard T. McFall from Richlands, Virginia, who is the plant superintendent at United Coal Company at Meta in Pike County.

During the business session of the meeting, president Dolores Smith told members a representative would address the Floyd County Board of Education at Wednesday's meeting to tell the board specifically what programs or changes it would like to see the school system adopt.

Betsy Layne group voices concern :

Lax security riles parents

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Rising concern about reported in-school fighting, drug use, bomb threats and overall security at Betsy Layne High School has prompted parents to seek action from the Floyd County Board of Education.

Kathy Potter, parent of a Betsy Layne student, said Tuesday there are "major problems" at the school and several parents are considering sending their children to another school in the county.

"I know when those children lay down at night, they can still see the fights and the blood in the hallways and bathrooms," said Potter. "I'd like to know who's in charge? We need to have consistent discipline at the school."

Floyd County Schools Superintendent Ron Hager said Tuesday he was unaware of any unusual problems at Betsy Layne and concerns about fighting and a lack of discipline were "news" to him.

"We have not had an inordinate number of fights occurring at the school," Hager said. "I've talked with the principal (Adrian Bentley) and he said there are students causing problems at the school and they have been dealt with. Fighting does occur in every school in this county and in this country."

The problem of unauthorized personnel in the school will be curbed in the future by the employment of a security guard at the school, Hager said. The guard, who is expected at the school "in the very near future," will be posted at the gate to the entrance to the school to ensure only those persons having legitimate business at the school will be admitted, Hager said.

Parents have also voiced concern about the number of times the sheriff's department has been called to Betsy Layne High School.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said deputies have been called to the school "about nine or 10

Officials say school flaws aren't serious

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Cracks in classroom walls and in hallways at the new James D. Adams Middle School are due to "routing," settling of the building and no evidence of structural damage has been found, said Randall Burchett, architect for the school.

Most of the problems have been confined to the area containing the sixth grade classrooms, and repairs will be made this summer after the school year ends, Burchett said. There is no danger or damage to the structure, he added.

"There is no structural damage at the school," Burchett said. "The building is completely safe. We wouldn't allow any child in that school if it wasn't safe."

Burchett explained the situation was "normal" with new buildings, but said the sixth grade classroom area is being monitored weekly to determine how much settling is occurring. "We're not turning our back on it," Burchett said.

Caulk is being used as a temporary solution to the problem until the weather permits a permanent solution, which could be replacing the entire wall, Burchett said.

School Superintendent Ron Hager said contractors had already been "ordered" to completely replace a wall in the sixth grade area and to repair any damage to the school.

Langley man is charged with rape

A 30-year-old Langley man was arrested December 26 and charged with three counts of first degree rape and two counts of first degree sodomy after an alleged incident involving two juveniles.

Delano Hagans was arrested by State Police Detective Les Stapleton and charged with allegedly getting two juvenile females intoxicated on December 20 and having sexual intercourse with them and also engaging in a deviate sexual act with both. Hagans was lodged in the Floyd County Jail and later freed on a $25,000 property bond.

Local wood industry recruitment begins

In December 1989 a small task force got together with a goal to bring forest related industries into Eastern Kentucky. One of the group's early tasks was to list the positive assets of the area for forest industry expansion beyond the "sawmill" or primary wood industry stage.

Eastern Kentucky also has access to half of the nation's population within a day's drive and has a plentiful and trainable workforce. State incentives for manufacturers include "free" land and buildings after taxes and equipment loans as low as 3.276 percent.

The negative but false perceptions that some people have of Eastern Kentucky. These false perceptions include ideas that Eastern Kentucky has an antiquated road system, that the labor force is strike prone, and that training or quality education is not readily available.

reinforced from the bottom," he added. The walls do not have any weight of the building bearing on them, Burchett said.

Several contractors will be involved in the repairs, Burchett said. Reinforced concrete will be poured under the existing footers in an effort to stop the building from settling further.

Frankie Francis, director of Buildings and Grounds for the board, said the administration is "very much aware" of the situation and he felt the building is sound. "I assume the state wouldn't let us occupy it if it wasn't," he said.

Pike man charged with murder in accident case

A Pike County man has been charged with murder following a two vehicle collision on Rt. 197 at Elkhorn City which left one man dead.

According to Kentucky State Police in Pikeville, James Potter of Elkhorn City was charged with murder due to alcohol involvement in an automobile accident after he crossed the center line while traveling north on Rt. 197 and pulled into the path of a vehicle driven by Mark Looney, 28, of Breaks Virginia, before spinning off the road and striking a home. According to a spokesperson for the Pike County Coroner's office, Looney was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. James Potter was lodged in the Pike County Jail following the accident. State Police said that no seatbelts were used in either vehicle involved in the accident, which remains under investigation by Trooper Mike Crawford and Detective Ken Slone of the Kentucky State Police.

times" since the beginning of the school year and, for various reasons, deputies were at the school four out of five days after the Christmas vacation.

"We've just begun to work at Betsy Layne," Thompson said.

Thompson said most problems come from students who have been expelled from classes who don't want to leave the school and persons arriving on campus who have "no business" at the school.

As to reports of drug problems, Thompson believes the situation has been exaggerated.

"They may not have as big a drug problem as they have been led to believe by the media," Thompson said. "I'm sure the reported pill overdose was caused by outside people."

The sheriff's department has conducted several random drug searches at Betsy Layne with the county's drug dog, Dingo, but no drugs were found.

About 25-30 parents attended a meeting last Wednesday to discuss options and solutions to the problems at the high school.

Mary Conn, a parent, said parents are not looking for anyone to blame for the problems but only looking for a way to improve education and the environment at the school.

"We are going to take our concerns to the school board and leave it up to them to make our school better," Conn said. "We support our school; we love our school. We only want something done to correct the situation. We are losing excellent students to other schools because of the disruptions at the school. We've been telling the same story for six months and nothing has been done."

Potter said she and several other parents had met with Hager prior to the beginning of the school year to discuss problems at Betsy Layne.

"Mr. Hager told us to go back and get involved in our P.T.A. and P.T.O. groups and work to make the schools better," Potter said. "We did that but nothing has changed."

Hager said a solution to the problems at Betsy Layne depended, in a large part, on parents supporting their school.

"Parents need to support their schools and reinforce discipline measures taken at school by disciplining children at home," Hagersaid.

Since the state's ban on corporal punishment in schools, Hager said the possibility of after school detention and Saturday classes would be discussed in an effort to discipline students.

Prestonsburg crime figures indicate decrease in DUIs

Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall released 1990 crime statistics this week, noting a 36 percent increase in drug related arrests and a 20 percent decrease in DUI arrests in the last three years.

cers made 50 drug related arrests in 1989, marking a 36 percent increase in drug related arrests in 1990.

In 1990 Prestonsburg police officers investigated 5,216 complaints, issued 3,189 citations, completed 1,735 arrests, established 4,571 contacts, opened 130 criminal cases, closed 113 criminal cases, investigated 417 accidents, performed 671 bank escorts, 1096 motorist assists and completed 262 criminal investigations.

"We are going after it a little harder," said Hall. "Plus, there seems to be more people trying to make money by trafficking drugs in the city."

Hall said police officers made 474 more arrests in 1990 than in 1989.

"In 1990 the Prestonsburg Police Department was responsible for removing $22,500 worth of marijuana and $8,000 worth of cocaine from the streets, along with a large quantity of other drugs, such as prescription drugs and LSD," Hall said.

Meade, 28, of Dema was arrested December 30 on charges of third degree arson, third degree burglary and possession of marijuana, less than eight ounces. The complaint said Meade allegedly tried to destroy the home of Terry Bentley, located at Printer, by "intentionally setting fire to the home." The citation alleged Meade had entered Bentley's home by kicking in the door. She was arrested by KSP Trooper Eddie Crum and taken to jail. She was released under a $2,500 cash bond.

opportunities for students; development of a process to motivate students to a high degree of achievement; include an enrichment program from another learning center, such as the Hindman Settlement School; and for the chamber to work with the school system in order to achieve these programs.

"If we just tell them what we want, we're not doing our part," said member Chalmer Frazier. "We've got to become involved in our school system or we're not doing our job."

Smith agreed, saying, "They're not mind readers. It is up to us and the citizens of this county to go before our board of education and let them know what we expect from our school system and show them we support it. It's our job to tell them what we want. It's also our job to listen to their side and it's their job to listen to our side and then discuss the issues."

In other business, the chamber decided to: expand the board of directors to 25 members; equip the chamber office, located across from the Town Center Building behind Whitten's Taxi on North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg; hold board meetings once a month and general membership meetings quarterly and to offer a longer program; hold the first Business After Hours meeting in March and to hold meetings once every two months; and to begin sending out a newsletter once every two months to members in order to inform the membership about issues in the county.

Mammography screening now available at health department

The Floyd County Health Department is now offering mammography (Breast Cancer) screening services to low-income women in Floyd County.

Only low-income women over age 45 who have never had a mammogram are eligible. Women age 35-44 who have a family history of breast cancer and meet the other criteria are also eligible.

Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said the screenings will benefit Floyd County women who until now have not had access to this medical service.

"For the most part, the women who will receive mammograms through the health department do not have private medical insurance and are ineligible for Medicaid," he said. "With this new program, these women will be able to have this valuable health screening."

The American Cancer society estimates that in 1990, 2,200 women will have been diagnosed with breast cancer and 650 more Kentucky women will die of the disease. Mammography screening can detect breast cancer in its early stages which improves survival rates.

State Health Services Commissioner Carols Hernandez, M.D., said that the new service, eventually to be offered by health departments statewide, provides a more comprehensive cancer check-up for Kentucky women.

"Health Departments have traditionally provided Pap tests to catch cervical cancer in its early stages, taught women how to examine their own breasts for lumps and counseled smokers about the risks of lung cancer," he said.

"With the addition of mammography screening to health department services, low-income women will be offered a chance to detect breast cancer in its earliest, most treatable stages."

Hernandez says that women at the highest risk for breast cancer are being targeted for the screenings.

"We know that women over age 45 are at more risk of developing breast cancer than younger women," he said. "That's why our screening program, in accordance with established medical guidelines, will emphasize women of this age."

The new service is being added across the state as a result of a $1.3 million appropriation by the legislature in its 1990 session.

Floyd County women who want more information about mammography screening through the health department should contact the nurses at the Floyd County Health Department at 606-886-2788.

Robbery suspect sought

State police are still seeking a suspect in the armed robbery of a Pike County grocery store late Monday night.

According to police reports, a white male wearing a tan cap with a long bill, green army field jacket, dark pants and a bandana over his face entered the L&M Market at Kimper at approximately 11:20 p.m. Monday and demanded money. The suspect then fled from the store on

The clerk at the store told police the man was armed with "a long gun".

The robbery remains under investigation by Kentucky State Police Detective Richard Ray. Anyone with information about the robbery is urged to contact State Police in Pikeville at 437-7311.

Adopt a serviceman project becomes nationwide effort

A project that began in San Mateo, Calif. in 1968 during the Vietnam War has revived and is reaching into the very heart of America. A project to adopt servicemen and women in the Persian Gulf is spreading across the nation, including Kentucky.

The endeavor, now named "America Supporting Americans," was conceived by Linda Patterson, whose brother was serving in the U.S. Army infantry in Vietnam. Ms. Patterson persuaded her city council to adopt the infantry division and during 1968-73, the people of San Mateo sent, by name, more than 4,000 packages and thousands of personal letters to the constantly changing 150-odd men of that company.

Ms. Patterson is now providing the same service nationwide for servicemen and women in the Persian Gulf region. She has set up the private, non-profit, tax-free organization for communities across the United States to contact in coordinating this effort.

Kentucky's Senator Wendell Ford is urging towns and communities across Kentucky to join in this nationwide effort to adopt American military units in the Gulf.

Ford said he is sending letters to every mayor in Kentucky requesting their participation in this project and their support in organizing community efforts to send individual letters and cookies to American military units stationed in the region.

There are currently over 600 battalion-sized units in the region, each consisting of approximately 600 men and women of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marines.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

January in Kentucky. It's a time when streams overflow, the thermometer bottoms out and snowflakes keep school children home. January is also the month when many elected officials officially assume their offices and, yes, the time for our annual lecture on...you guessed it...open meetings and open records.

Since many people are becoming public servants for the first time this month, we offer this summary of Kentucky Open Meeting and Open Records laws as an educational service. For those who continue in office, it's a reminder. And, for those "public" officials who choose to ignore the law, this is a notice that we find such attitudes abhorrent and open to attack.

So, without further ado, let us begin...

OPEN MEETINGS: Basically, this law states that all meetings of public agencies be open to the public at places and times convenient to the public. Executive sessions, or closed meetings, may be held, but only under specific circumstances. Exceptions to open meetings include:

- Deliberations by the Kentucky Parole Board.
- Deliberations on the future acquisition or sale of real property, but only when publicity would likely affect the value of a specific piece of property to be acquired for public use or sold by a public agency.
- Discussions of proposed or pending litigation against on behalf of the public agency.
- Grand and petit jury sessions.
- Discussions or hearings which might lead to the appointment, discipline, or dismissal of an individual employee...without restricting that employee's right to a public hearing if requested.
- Meetings between public agencies and industrial prospects.
- State cabinet meetings and executive cabinet meetings.
- Committees of the General Assembly other than standing committees.
- Meetings which federal or state law specifically are required to be conducted in privacy.
- Meetings which the Constitution provides shall be held in secret.

No votes may be taken in closed session. All official action on any subject must be recorded in open, public meetings.

OPEN RECORDS: Public records are defined as "all books, papers, maps, photographs, cards, tapes, discs, recordings or other documentary materials...which are prepared, owned, used in the possession of or retained by a public agency."

The public (you) and the press

(us) have the right to inspect and copy any and all documents fitting this definition.

Any public official who violates the provisions of either the open meeting or open records laws is subject to fines.

Okay, that's the nickel tour. Now, we'll add our two cents worth.

Too many times, in too many places, public officials feel that their elections are tickets to operate their offices in any manner they see fit. Too often, in just as many places, the public accepts this practice without complaint.

We don't intend to accept infringements upon the public's right to know, and we do intend to complain...loudly and often, when public officials attempt to restrict our access to public records or attempt to conduct public business in private. You should complain, too.

That's the lecture for this year, class. We hope no refresher courses are necessary.

Has it really been four years since the last gubernatorial race kicked off?

Time sure flies when you're having fun.

During the last primary campaign, we were taken by the comments of one relatively unknown Democratic candidate for governor who campaigned on the fact that he was not a Frankfort leap-frog who had made a career of seeking elective office and who vowed that he would ask the voters for just four years to straighten out Kentucky.

That candidate was Wallace Wilkinson.

Has it really been four years since the last gubernatorial campaign kicked off?

If you're interested in running for governor or one of the less useful state offices, you have until January 29 to toss your buffalo chip, er, hat into the ring.

That's the deadline for filing for statewide offices.

So, if you've had a hankering to be Secretary of State, State Auditor, Attorney General or State Treasurer, better get with it and get in line.

There's already a pretty crowded field in the Looking to Be Governor (Lt. Gov. for short) race, so you might want to steer clear of that one and shoot for Superintendent of Public Instruction, the only state office with a legislative mandate to do absolutely nothing for a state check.

Other Voices

Effort needed to put school system back on track

by Terry W. Stewart Banner

I started out this evening somewhat angry. However, the practical side of me said, "Terry Stewart, search into those feelings and find where your real anger lies."

Well, with a considerable amount of time spent on deep thought and searching the thoughts released in my inner self, I think the true source of anger has come into focus. You see, I am an employee of the Floyd County Board of Education.

I started to write down all of the things that frustrate and anger me about the Floyd County Board of Education. However, I have changed my mind. I think I will simply write down the things I expect from the new Floyd County Board of Education:

A maximum focus should be placed on the quality of education to the Floyd County students.

The teachers are the front line of contact with students. This Board must respect, honor and support good, strong teaching practices in each school.

The administration (central office) is very top heavy with personnel that are not efficient, nor enthusiastic about education; many continue to work in lieu of retirement simply because little responsibility is attached to their position. Under those circumstances, why retire? I expect the central offices to be realigned with people that are talented, efficient and enthusiastic about quality education and are not easily bent by political pressure.

I expect a new superintendent—one with creative ideas (for education), complete honesty, and very, very strong leadership ability. This person must expect and demand quality performance from all persons within his authority.

I expect the new Board to correct the apparent misuse of authority, personnel and money by the past Board and to make it plain that even the thought of this kind of misuse will not be tolerated.

I also expect to see the new Board to rename each school within this county for the community in which it is located and not for any person. (i.e. James D. "Doc" Adams Middle School, etc.) If what these people have done stands the test of time and is still viewed (in 20 or 30 years) as being worthy of something named after them, then name something after them. But, leave each school named for the community in which it is located. This is important to the identity of the community.

Most of all, I expect the new Floyd County Board of Education to listen to the community and to be honest with the community (not just politicians); to set major goals for education and achieve them; to put all the money that comes into this county for education into the improvement and delivery of education (and not into politicians' and contractors' pockets); to provide quality school maintenance and cleaning and to improve the buildings and grounds at each school site; to distribute funding equally to each school within this county and to look at Floyd County as a whole and not just concentrate on each little district where an individual Board member's votes are coming from.

I could probably think longer and come up with more ideas of things that I expect from "The New Board." However, the tone is set.

I did "Remember in November" and I expect you to "Remember in January."

I see the potential for a new Floyd County School System that flaunts quality education, disciplined administrators, faculty and students and facilities that are immaculate and inviting.

Our communities are watching you closely. Many people are angry and frustrated with the past nonsense of the Floyd County Board of Education and we expect your honest "best" effort to put our school system on the right track and focused in the right direction.

Mr. Boyd, Mr. Billips, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Duff and Dr. Hall, put aside your personalities, your political differences and your bitterness and achieve the new Floyd County School System.

Soap Box

By Lt. Tess Whitmer

It's happened. I'm so happy. I've finally gotten my hands on a computer. We have them organic to our unit now. He has answered my prayers.

So much for the good news. Everyone that writes me asks about my Thanksgiving dinner and if I got to see the president. Well, yes, I did have a turkey dinner with all the trimmings and complete with decorations. And, considering George and I aren't on the best of speaking terms (would you be with someone who sent you away from your home and your life?), it's probably best I didn't see him. I would certainly have a few choice words to say.

If anyone reading this knows Congressman Perkins or Senator McConnell or Ford, please tell them to vote against the president if he asks for permission to keep reservists on active duty for a year. Six months doesn't bother me now that I'm used to the idea, but A YEAR! Come on, you've got to be kidding me.

Already I feel like I've missed so much. I'm sure glad I don't have any young children that I would miss seeing grow up. However, my good friend, whom I was supposed to labor coach for, gave birth to a baby boy in early October and I was really looking forward to sharing the joys of motherhood vicariously through her. That way, I could have the best of both worlds — be single, yet have a baby around to play with whenever I wanted.

The thought of being left behind while Floyd County moves forward is not pleasant. I'm dying to know what is going on with the Jaycees (if any of those people would take time out of their busy schedules to write me and let me know I would appreciate it.) I'm also anxious to see how the Litter Task Force is progressing in its fight to beautify the county. (At least I can read about that in the paper.)

The holidays won't be easy either. I've always enjoyed going to my grandparents' home on Christmas Eve and seeing all the relatives. It is usually the only time of the year I get to see most of them and if I miss this chance I might not get another until Christmas next year. Since the family are all starting to have children now, it's hard to recognize the new additions if I don't get to see them every year.

I certainly have gotten a lot of care packages, however. Of course, being me, I get a present before Christmas and I'll open it. I am trying to save the gift wrapped presents my sister sent me so I have something to put under my little tree and open on Christmas morning. Most everyone has sent me sundries and food items. I now have enough hand lotion to last me five years, 10 if I'm conservative.

I'd like to thank everyone who contributed to those packages. I'm trying to keep up with the thank you notes, but I'm having a hard time just with the Christmas cards. My family and friends are writing me all the time. I love getting mail. If I don't get something everyday I am disappointed. The problem is, now I have so many people to write to I can't handle it all. I just hope everyone understands that they have to wait their turn and, Mom always comes first.

I'll certainly miss not being able to attend any of the New Year's Eve parties. Last year my former boyfriend and I threw one but it didn't turn out very well. Most of my parties don't. Of course, I still blame that on the rain.

Remember the torrential down-pour we had that night in Eastern Kentucky? I certainly do. My poor "ex" had to push two cars out of the mud and walk up and down the steep, long driveway several times that night to retrieve stranded guests. Ah, the good old days.

We certainly don't have to worry about mud around here. This is the rainy season, though. Whatever that means. To the people on the port that means it rains inside. With the extreme temperature changes and the proximity of the water, the fog is incredible. It condenses on the metal beams and creates an enormous amount of water. We wake up wet almost every morning these days. Hopefully, we will be out of here soon and into our building and won't have to worry about such things.

I just found out the contractor for the hard site is trying to back out. The Colonel blew up and said if he didn't stick with the contract or the BDE didn't come up with someplace for us to live within three days, he was going to call Sen. Byrd (from West Virginia) and tell him we didn't have a mission — we've been here 34 days now living on a dock. We are all getting sick and want to come home.

Boy, wouldn't that be great. It only makes sense too. Of course, if I stay until March, I already have my plans mapped out as far as where I go first — which is straight to Pennsylvania to see Mom.

Until next time...

Between the lines

The Sunshine State

The sun, the sea, the sand and the politicians. State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock, vacationing in sunny Florida, effectively lost all of his administrative powers January 1 under the state's Education Reform Act. The growing concern about the legality of a deed for the site of the new Prestonsburg High School and the break-neck speed of pushing the project through before January 1, was one issue Brock felt he should not step into during his last days in office.

He deemed it a "local matter" in a telephone interview from Florida on December 28. Brock was reached at a home owned by Sam Martin Jr., who owns Martin Engineering located in Martin and has several construction manager contracts to build new schools in several counties, including the new Prestonsburg High School.

Who else took a long holiday in Florida? Anyone we know?

Who's In Charge?

Parents throughout the county are voicing their anger and concerns about the lack of security and discipline at high schools and grade schools in the Floyd County system. Reports of older individuals entering school grounds and proceeding to, in effect, terrorize and practically assault students are on the rise.

How are these individuals gaining access to our schools? Where are the principals? What are they doing to combat this problem? Who is in control at our schools? Who's watching the children? Is the assumption it's safe to go to school no longer the case?

Times were, a deathly fear spread through the body at even the thoughts of going to the principals office. To talk back to a teacher was almost worse than back-talking Mom or Dad. It was something that just wasn't done.

Parents, instill those values in your children. Know where and what your older children are doing. Teachers, command the respect you deserve. Principals, take charge of your schools to continue making them safe. Pay attention to what's going on. Board members and administrators, support your teachers and principals. If it's needed, provide security at the schools. Don't turn a deaf ear and continue to be only self-serving. It's time to think of the children and their future.

Parents, teachers, education officials, it's your job, now do it.

Gun Control

The National Rifle Association has always opposed any type of control legislation. The organization says any type of gun control law would interfere with the constitutional right to bear arms. Anyone and everyone should be allowed to own a weapon if they choose to do so.

Get real!

Would any convicted felon or mentally disturbed individual honestly answer the questions posed by a gun store owner and admit they've either been in prison or have had severe mental problems?

What could be wrong with a seven-day waiting period to run a background check on an individual wanting to purchase a gun? If it saves one life, would it be considered such an inconvenience? If the NRA was truly interested in responsible gun ownership, how could it not back such legislation?

Employee Honored

A 23-year Pikeville Methodist hospital employee was honored as the hospital's September C.A.R.E. employee.

Maintenance worker Drew Taylor of Tram was selected by a group of his peers as the hospital's C.A.R.E. employee. Taylor was hired as a watch engineer and has continued in that position. Before starting at Methodist, he was a coal miner.

C.A.R.E., which stands for courtesy and respect for everyone is an award to honor hospital employees who show exemplary care in the way they deal with patients or other employees at Pikeville Methodist.

Taylor was raised at Grapevine and is a graduate of Feds Creek High School. He is married to Erma Taylor. They are the parents of four children: Jim Taylor, Gerold Taylor and Sandy Taylor and the late Douglas Taylor. He is the grandfather of eight.

Hospital administrator Dr. John Tummons said, "I am extremely pleased that a 23-year hospital employee was chosen to receive this award. Drew is very knowledgeable and a real asset to our maintenance department. He is also very friendly and kind to not only our patients, but his fellow employees."

New qualified Medicare beneficiaries group to receive funds from Medicaid

Effective Jan. 1, 1991, an additional 1,500 low-income Kentuckians who are disabled or elderly will qualify for Medicaid coverage to help them pay Medicare-related health care costs.

Under changes in the federal Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) law, state Medicaid programs will pay Medicare premiums, co-insurance charges and deductibles for qualified Medicare recipients who are at or below 100 percent of the federal poverty level and meet certain guidelines.

"Previously, the cutoff point for eligibility for this coverage had been for individuals living at or below 90 percent of the poverty level," said Commissioner Roy Butler of the Kentucky Department for Medicaid Services.

"The decision by Congress to expand the two-year-old QMB program should bring the total QMB eligible Kentuckians to approximately 9,300.

"This program is important to people with disabilities and the elderly who are below the poverty level because it ensures they can utilize their Medicare benefits," Butler said.

"Paying for a hospital deductible that runs nearly $600, for instance, would create a hardship on these people and may even hinder some from seeking medical attention as early as they should."

Under the program, Medicaid pays

Medicare Part B premiums costing about $30, which include services such as physician visits, lab and clinic fees and radiology. For eligible QMBs, Medicaid may also pay the $177 Medicare Part A premium; however, most recipients are not required to pay this fee because they satisfy Social Security requirements, Butler said.

The extended coverage is expected to cost about $400,000 during the last six months of fiscal year 1991 and about $800,000 during fiscal year 1992.

To qualify for the program, Kentuckians must meet the following criteria:

- * Enrolled and receiving Medicare Part A, which includes payment for in-patient hospital expenses, nursing care, home health costs and hospice;

- * Income up to 100 percent of the poverty level, $524 for an individual and $702 for a couple; and

- * Resources, such as bank accounts, of not more than $4,000 for an individual and $6,000 for a couple.

"The calls we receive from elderly Kentuckians and people with disabilities indicate that Medicaid payment of their Medicare Part B premium is important to them," Butler said.

"When you're living on a fixed income, a monthly premium payment of nearly $30 is significant and yet these two groups of people in particular can't afford not to have this coverage because it entitles them to many out-patient benefits they use."

Medicare recipients who think they may be eligible for this coverage should contact their local office of the state Department for Social Insurance.

Ten trees to be given to new members of National Arbor Day Foundation

Ten free trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during January 1991.

The free trees are part of the non-profit foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The 10 trees are the Sugar Maple, White Flowering Dogwood, Pin Oak, White Pine, Red Maple, Birch, American Redbud, Silver Maple, Red Oak, and Colorado Blue Spruce.

"These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year: lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors, and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds," John Rosenow, the foundation's executive director, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between February 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by January 31, 1991.

Anxiety leads to Post Holiday Depression

For most of us, holidays are occasions filled with joy and good will. However, the expectations for the season sometime leave us depressed or somewhat "let down" after holidays pass. This feeling has a name...Post Holiday Depression.

According to national studies, post holiday depression is really quite common. In numerous studies, researchers have concluded that over 75 percent of the nation's population suffers from varying degrees of depression following the holidays. The three most common sources of post holiday depression in seniors are disappointment of limited time with loved ones, sadness that the excitement of the holidays is over, and the feeling of loneliness. (These are similar in nature but have been identified as three distinct sources of anxiety.)

With the recent holidays over, now is the time to prepare if you have found yourself suffering from "post holiday depression." Below are a few questions to ask yourself about previous holidays and ways in which you can alleviate or at least lessen the chances of depression following the next holiday.

In order to make the future holidays better ask yourself these questions. Write down the answers, put them where you can refer to them later.

- * What was the best part of my last holiday (Christmas, New Years).
- * What do I not want to do again next year?
- * How can I plan these things better?
- * How can I plan things next year to make them less stressful and easier?
- * What did I not get to do this year that I want to do next year?
- * How can I plan to insure I get to do these things?
- * Write any other thoughts.

Analyzing how things have gone and how you would like them to be in the future can help with post holiday blues. We can't control everything but, we have more control than we use. Control over our attitude, stress, and happiness takes learning new skills and taking action.

For more information on how to find help for post holiday depression, call the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center at 886-8572; or in Magoffin County, call 349-3115; in Johnson County, call 789-3518; in Martin County, call 298-7902; in Pike County, call 432-3143.

And The Winner Is . . .

Dr. Richard D. Howard, a former resident of Hueysville, has been selected as the winner of the 1990 Traveling With The Times promotion.

Dr. Howard, who now lives in Winchester, was one of more than 300 entries in the year-long promotion, which asked Times readers to send in photographs of themselves with editions of the newspaper. Photos were received from such far-away places as Moscow, in the Soviet Union; Austria, Israel, and at the remains of the Berlin Wall in Germany. Dozens of travelers entered photographs taken at various national landmarks in the U.S.

Dr. Howard's winning entry, drawn at random, came from Australia. He was presented a marble clock Tuesday for being chosen as the contest winner.

Dr. Richard D. Howard, formerly of Hueysville, travelled with the Times to Australia's Great Barrier Reef. Howard was named the winner in the year-long Traveling With The Times promotion.

Surgery reverses hand paralysis

Buddy Ball

paralyzed until surgery at the Methodist Hospital on November 12 restored movement to his hand and increased his quality of life.

The 62-year-old retired coal miner had surgery that completely opened the carotid artery in his neck. Dr. R.S. Bhatraju, a general, vascular and thoracic surgeon, performed the surgery.

The surgery began at 10 a.m. and by 1 p.m., Mary Lou Ball said that her husband could move his hand again. "I'm glad Dr. Bhatraju was here," Mary Lou exclaimed.

Dr. Bhatraju said that the surgery lasted about two hours. He said that although Ball has already recovered about 75 percent of the muscle power of his hand, it is possible that he can recover totally. Ball began physical therapy while in the Methodist Hospital and is continuing his therapy.

Dr. Bhatraju said that the surgery was a preventive measure. He added that cleaning out the artery will prevent any further plaque from that artery from going to his brain, causing another stroke.

Vascular and thoracic surgery has not been performed at the hospital since Dr. William C. Hambley retired, according to hospital authorities. Hambley was the sole resident vascular surgeon at Methodist until his retirement.

Life for the Balls will be different now. Ball said the scare pulled his family together and made them all closer. For that he said, "I'm so thankful."

"When you've never been sick in your life and then have something like this creep up on you...you never know."

The Balls are planning a trip to the Smokies—the trip that the stroke postponed!

National economic pinch affects a Kentucky's November jobless figure

A mix of short and long-term layoffs in manufacturing, plus normal seasonal drops in agriculture and construction jobs, boosted Kentucky's unemployment rate from October to November.

The state's preliminary November jobless rate was 5.4 percent, above both October's 4.7 percent revised rate and the 5.0 percent for November 1989, according to the Cabinet for Human Resources monthly labor trends report.

Nationally the rate rose from 5.4 percent in October to 5.8 percent in November. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Ed Blackwell, the cabinet's chief labor market analyst, said, "November's figures indicate a slowing economy in Kentucky. People are revising their spending habits as expenses such as fuel cut their buying power."

"Industries producing 'luxury' items, like clothes and cars, are the first to have lower sales, so those employers begin tightening their work force."

"But it's not time to panic," he said. "Employment is still 12,000 ahead of this time last year. We're continuing to grow job wise, but more slowly."

The large manufacturing job decline (-4,500) in November occurred mostly in limited-time layoffs in durable goods employment. "In particular, transportation equipment showed a 1,600 drop as Ford Motor Company in Louisville closed for one week because of overstocking, and electrical machinery (-900) was impacted by a one-week shutdown of General Electric," Blackwell said.

"Nondurable goods areas also staggered as textiles and apparel dropped 400 due to short-term layoffs in the Campbellsville, Glasgow and Hopkinsville areas," he said. The shut downs at Ford and General Electric also hurt the miscellaneous plastics businesses which recorded a loss of 700 jobs.

Agricultural employment fell 3,000 because of seasonal cut backs as fewer were needed in tobacco following the opening of burley sales markets.

Impending cold weather also caused construction to decline by 2,000 jobs, mainly in heavy and general building and among special trades such as stone work and heating and air conditioning, he said. The slow down in building directly affected the lumber and furniture industry, which dropped by 300.

For some sectors the season meant more jobs. Trade leaped 2,800 as department and clothing stores geared up for the holidays, Blackwell said.

Racing season at Churchill Downs gave the services sector a jump start (+800), along with new jobs in business and health services. Education grew with 500 new jobs probably coming from seasonal maintenance work, he said.

Transportation, communications and utilities increased 400 mainly in air transportation and warehousing due to the holidays and the tobacco market opening. Food and kindred products added 300 jobs.

The category that includes self-employed people, domestic employees and people working in family businesses fell by 2,300 workers.

The U.S. Department of Labor's estimate of Kentuckians working, based on census surveys, showed 1,674,800 people with jobs in November, down 7,200 from October's 1,682,000, and 12,000 above November 1989's 1,662,800.

The federal estimate of unemployed Kentuckians was 94,700 in November, up 12,500 from October (82,200) and 7,200 more than in November 1989 (87,500).

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for November was 1,769,500, a gain of 5,300 from October's 1,764,200 and 19,200 more than the November 1989 figure of 1,750,300. The civilian labor force includes non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who actively are seeking work. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for a job in four weeks.

Gas prices drop

AAA's Christmas Fuel Gauge report shows the nationwide average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline is $1.371 per gallon, down 1.4 cents from the week prior to Thanksgiving. However, many regional price differences exist, and the average for the state of Kentucky is $1.28.

A survey yesterday of 50 Lexington service facilities found the average price of self-serve regular unleaded to be $1.21 a drop of nine cents from the price prior to Thanksgiving. This is a significant drop considering the nickel increase in the federal gasoline tax which took place December 1.

Eighty-four percent of stations will maintain normal operating hours Christmas day, and thirty-three percent will be open 24 hours. AAA's national fuel gauge report is based on a survey of 5,000 gasoline stations.

Answers to common tax questions

Your IRS tax forms have probably arrived in the mail already. And you can be sure your W-2s are on their way, too. Yes, it's time to start thinking about wrapping up another tax year. But if you are like most taxpayers, once you start thinking about taxes, more questions than answers come to mind. To help you get started, the Kentucky Society of CPAs offers answers to the following common tax questions.

Q. For the past three years, I have come just a few hundred dollars short of being able to itemize my deductions. Is there anything I can do?

A. Try accelerating some of next year's itemized deductions into the current year or postponing some of this year's deductions until next year so that the total will exceed your standard deduction in one year or the other. Then you will be able to itemize once every two years and claim the standard deduction in the other year.

Q. I'm a single parent. I pay my mother to care for my son while I work. Can I claim the dependent-care tax credit?

A. Yes, you can as long as you do not claim your mother as a dependent. But be aware that if your mother comes to your home to care for your children, you must pay Social Security and unemployment taxes based her salary. You will also need to file payroll tax returns. On the other hand, if you take your children to your mother's home, she is not considered your household employee and you will not face these employer responsibilities.

Q. What's the rule for deducting consumer interest this year?

A. Borrowing has become more expensive. On your tax return for 1990, you may deduct only 10 percent of the amount you spend for interest on personal loans, car loans, student loans and credit card accounts. For 1991, no deduction for personal interest will be allowed.

Q. My child earns about $2,000 in unearned income. My business partner tells me I no longer need to prepare a separate return to report my child's income. I thought the "Kiddie Tax" required me to do so. Who's right?

A. The Kiddie Tax does require you to report your child's unearned income. But to make filing easier, the tax law provides that if your child's gross income is between $500 and $5,000, you can now use Form 8814 to indicate that you plan to include your child's gross income on your own return. But there is one factor you should keep in mind. When you include your child's income with your own, you increase your adjusted gross income. This may affect your ability to deduct medical and miscellaneous deductions.

Q. I work full time as a teacher but I just started doing some tutoring on the side. How do I report the income I receive?

A. The income you make from tutoring is self-employment income and is reported on Schedule C. You should keep track of your expenses for materials and transportation to and from the second job as these costs are deductible. If you make more than $400 in self-employment income, you must file a Schedule SE and pay self-employment taxes on this income.

Q. I charged a donation to a local charity in December. I didn't pay my bill until January. When do I deduct the donation?

A. You get to deduct your donation in the year you charge it not in the year you actually pay the bill.

Q. I know that certain miscellaneous itemized deductions are deductible only in excess of 2 percent of my adjusted gross income. What expenses fit in this category?

A. Miscellaneous itemized deductions include such expenses as union and professional dues, small tools, safety equipment and supplies for your job, fees paid to a tax adviser to prepare your return or represent you at an audit, certain travel and lodging costs connected with seeking employment, and investment-related expenses such as safe deposit box rental fees, the cost of producing or collecting income, and IRA custodial fees.

Q. I just reached 65. Am I entitled to claim a higher standard deduction?

A. Yes. If you use the standard deduction, the law allows you to add $800 to your standard deductions if you are single. If you're married, you may add $650 for each spouse who is age 65 and older.

Q. There's no way I'm going to be able to file my return by April 15th. What should I do?

A. You can get an extra four months for filing if you complete Form 4868 and file it by April 15. Be sure to include a check for the approximate amount of tax you expect to owe or you'll be subject to a hefty failure-to-pay penalty. This penalty can be avoided by paying at least 90 percent of your actual tax bill. Remember, you get an extension for filing your return, but you do not get an extension for paying the amount you owe. Also, if you are expecting to get a refund, you should file as soon as possible.

Q. How long should I keep my tax returns?

A. As long as possible. As a general rule, the IRS cannot assess additional taxes after three years starting from the due date of the return or when it was actually filed, whichever is later. If, however, you fail to report more than 25 percent of your income, the IRS has up to six years to audit you and there is no time limit if the IRS thinks you committed fraud, or you failed to file a return. Just to be on the safe side, it's a good idea to hold onto your forms indefinitely.

Well Water Testing Program to be complete in 1991

Thirty-seven Kentucky counties, including Floyd County, have been selected to participate in the Agriculture-Groundwater Education and Well Water Testing Program during February, March and April 1991.

The program was developed by the Kentucky Division of Conservation, in conjunction with the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts, Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

The primary goals of this voluntary program are to educate the public and rural landowners on how farming operations and other land-use activities may cause pollution in surface and groundwater resources and to promote the understanding that pollution prevention through the implementation of best management practices is more cost effective than clean-up after considerable damage has been done.

The program began last April with a pilot program in Hickman, Christian, Todd, Henderson, Barren, Boone, Madison, Pulaski and Johnson Counties. Other Eastern Kentucky counties participating include Breathitt, Elliott and Perry.

A third group of counties will start the water testing program in April, May and June; and a fourth group will conduct tests during September, October and November.

Prior to the testing program, farmers and landowners in each county will attend local water quality meetings organized by conservation districts, county Farm Bureau Federations and county extension agents. The meetings will provide information about: water quality problems and concerns in the local area and how contaminants reach drinking water; the importance of prevention through use of best management practices, including integrated pest management; agricultural chemical usage and container disposal; Groundwater Self Help Checklist; distribution of educational literature and water testing information.

Water sample kits will be distributed at the public meetings along with survey information sheets. The samples will be tested at the Water Quality Laboratory at Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio, for nitrate, nitrite, specific conductivity, soluble reactive phosphorus, ammonia nitrogen, chloride, silica and sulfates. A random number of samples will be tested for triazine using the immunoassay scan. Triazine is a chemical compound used in herbicides for weed control.

Results from individual tests will be compiled into county and state level databases to help identify areas in the Commonwealth that are particularly susceptible to groundwater contamination. The State Groundwater Education Committee will analyze the data and publish a statewide report on the Groundwater Education and Well Water Testing Program.

A total of 475 people attended the water quality meetings in the nine-county pilot program. During the program, 888 water samples were tested. Less than 6 percent of the samples exceeded the drinking water standard for nitrates.

In cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, 200 samples were randomly selected in four counties and tested for triazine.

The results showed only one of these 200 samples with some high-level detection of triazine.

Based on test results and well survey information in the pilot program, it was determined that dug and driven wells were 3.4 times more likely to have high levels of nitrates present than drilled wells. Shallow wells were 2.3 times more likely to have higher levels of nitrate than deeper wells.

Funds to conduct the program and subsidize the tests were provided by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and the Kentucky Division of Water under a Section 319 Grant. A number of other state and local agencies have provided money for the testing program, as well.

MSU classes to be offered in Pikeville

Morehead State University will offer 18 evening classes for area graduate students this spring through the Appalachian Graduate Consortium at Pikeville College.

Registration information night for the regional campus offerings will be Thursday, Jan. 10, from 5-7 p.m. at Pikeville College where the classes will meet, beginning the following Monday, Jan. 14, according to Dr. Dan Thomas, MSU interim dean of graduate and extended graduate programs.

The schedule of spring classes includes: ART 504, Drawing IV, Wednesdays; ART 604, Drawing, Wednesdays; EDEL 628, Materials and Methods of Teaching Reading, Tuesdays; EDEL 680, History and Philosophy of Education, Mondays; EDF 600, Research Methods in Education, Mondays; EDGC 619, Career Development and Vocational Counseling, Thursdays; EDGC 656, Principles of Guidance, Mondays; EDGC 669A, Practicum in Guidance & Counseling — Elementary, Tuesdays; EDGC 669B, Practicum in Guidance & Counseling — Secondary, Tuesdays; EDGC 669C, Practicum in Guidance & Counseling — Community, Tuesdays;

EDGC 679, Advanced Practicum in Guidance & Counseling, Tuesdays; EDIL 620, Introduction to Educational Administration, Thursdays; EDSE 634, Secondary School Curriculum, Wednesdays; EDSP 537 Educational Assessment of Exceptional Children, Thursdays; EDSP 557, Content Areas and Career Preparation for Exceptional Students, Tuesdays (prerequisites required); HLTH 508, General School Safety, Thursdays; MATH 631, Problem Solving and the Teaching of Mathematics in the Elementary School, Mondays; SOC 560, Appalachian Culture, Wednesdays.

Unless otherwise indicated, classes will meet from 6-8:30 p.m. Mail-in registration is currently underway and will be accepted post-marked through Jan. 10.

The cost per graduate hour is $77 for both in-state and out-of-state students taking classes at MSU's regional locations.

Specific information on courses or registration procedures is available locally by calling the regional coordinator, Charles Francis, at 432-9320. Information also may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Graduate and Extended Campus Programs toll-free at 1-800-262-7474 in state and 1-800-354-2090 from adjoining states.

Federal surplus commodity program to be continued

With Congress reauthorizing the federal surplus commodity food program for another five years, Kentucky officials who administer the program are breathing a sigh of relief.

The immediate result of the congressional action is to continue shipments of food items to low-income Kentuckians in January-March 1991.

Department for Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson, whose agency manages the federal program in Kentucky, said the state will receive slightly more than 1.4 million pounds of foodstuffs in the next three months.

"That equals the 1.4 million pounds of commodities received this past quarter, but it's significantly lower than the 2.6 million pounds Kentucky received for the January through March period a year ago,"

Robinson said.

Despite continued slippage in the availability of surplus commodities, Robinson said he is pleased that the program will continue.

"There are a lot of Kentuckians who depend on the program for a few 'extras,'" said Robinson. "I'm glad to know that the federal government sees this program as worthy of continued funding."

Surplus commodity food totals (by the pound) Kentucky will receive during the next three months include: flour, 756,000; corn meal, 252,000; rice, 252,000; and cheese, 186,000.

The return of commodity cheese to the list of available products is good news. However, because the state is only getting five truckloads of cheese in February and March, not every region will receive the commodity.

"We've decided to distribute the limited amount of available cheese to the organizations, if requested, who were next on the list to receive cheese when it was discontinued in April of 1988," said Robinson.

"And of course as more cheese becomes available, more Kentuckians will be served," added Robinson.

The states will be unable to get peanut butter due to the increasing cost of the product. Honey and butter are also unavailable this quarter.

Because of limits on commodities shipped to Kentucky, all commodities may not be available in every county of the state.

Seventeen regional agencies, including area development districts and community action agencies, set distribution schedules, most of which occur bimonthly or quarterly.

An estimated 100,000 Kentuckians benefit from the federal surplus commodity program.

Food prices enjoy modest decline

Lower prices on pork and poultry were enough to offset sharp cost increases for fruits and vegetables, bringing a modest .3 of 1 percent decrease in Kentucky retail food prices during November.

According to Kentucky Farm Bureau's marketbasket survey, shoppers last month paid an average of $73.03 for 40 selected food items, down 20 cents from the $73.23 level in October. The price index remained some 6 percent above last November's average of $68.76.

Ample supplies and retail price featuring brought pork prices down 7 percent across the board, following near record highs over the past few months. Chicken and egg prices fell 1.4 percent while beef prices held steady.

Dairy product costs also stayed near the previous month's average, despite farm-level milk prices that have tumbled more than the $4 per hundred pounds since last year in some markets. Grain-based foods were down 1 percent.

The surge in fresh produce tabs was most pronounced in some salad vegetables and apples. Fresh cucumbers more than doubled in price, jumping from 39 cents apiece in October to 73 cents last month. Bell peppers vaulted 17 cents each to an average 66 cents, while apple prices climbed 25 cents a pound, to an average $1.11.

Potatoes were the exception, dropping 24 cents to $2.49 for a 10-pound bag. That's well below the year's high of $3.77 in August, and the lowest since last November's $2.44 price.

Hog prices plunged around $8 a pound between mid-October and mid-November, accounting for the lower supermarket prices during the period. Loin chops were 30 cents a pound cheaper at $2.69, with similar savings seen on ham and pork ribs.

Analysts say a surge in hog marketings in early November, plus a market glut of turkeys tempting consumers before Thanksgiving helped yank the props from under hog prices.

Beef prices held fairly steady during the period, both on the farm and at retail. But the Department of Agriculture says beef production is expanding with fewer breeding-age cows coming to market.

Producers will market 1 to 3 percent more beef during 1991, the agency predicts. That could mean lower prices at some point over the next 12 months.

Poultry and egg prices are holding up well despite large supplies. Unexpected demand for eggs was being traced in part to orders totaling 5 million pounds from the military for use in special-pack dried egg products. With supplies continuing to increase by 5 to 7 percent annually, chicken may very well be cheaper in 1991 if red meat production jumps significantly.

Milk prices at retail are almost sure to fall following record drops in average prices paid to farmers. The Minnesota-Wisconsin milk index for November stood at $10.25 per hundred, $4.44 lower than a year ago.

Although milk prices in Kentucky and other Southern states have held stronger than in the Midwest, the price plunge is likely to spread if current production levels hold.

Fall potato production is up 5 percent this year, while the apple crop is 5 percent smaller, according to USDA. Those numbers are reflected in current consumer price levels.

Demand by processors is strong for the reduced supply of apples. Wholesale prices for processed apple products are being quoted as much as 15 percent higher than a year earlier.

Although East Coast production is up slightly, Washington state orchards harvested a 6 percent smaller crop because of dry weather and Michigan's crop is down 21 percent because of a late-spring freeze.

Consumers are enjoying the 30 percent drop in retail prices on Idaho potatoes, following a record harvest of 112 million pounds in that state. But dry weather in the Dakotas, another prime growing area, and continued strong domestic and export demand for French fries could cause retail prices to rebound by mid-1991.

Higher transportation costs are currently boosting produce costs for Kentucky and much of the nation. Soaring fuel prices have made it more expensive to haul winter vegetables the long distances from producing regions in the deep south and California.

Grayson had the lowest local marketbasket average during November while Princeton checked in with the high figure. Overall, volunteers working through Kentucky Farm Bureau Women canvassed retail food prices in 18 Kentucky communities. The local average for Salyersville was $70.12.

Artists and Craftspeople Sought for Louisville Show

American Traditions Folk Art Shows are looking for area artists and craftspeople interested in exhibiting at their spring show to be held Feb. 15-17 at the Hurstbörne Conference Center in Louisville. The event will feature 75 exhibitors with a wide variety of beautiful and unique hand-crafted items, along with demonstrations and workshops by the exhibitors.

Jean Earhart, the show's director, commented, "This show is scheduled just as we are about to jump into spring. People will be looking for new accessories to brighten up their homes and yards. They will find a great variety of decorative items for indoors and outdoors along with the latest trends in wearable art."

To make arrangements to participate in this show, contact Jean Earhart, American Traditions Inc., 4735 Lindstrom Drive, Charlotte, N.C. 28226, or call (704) 543-0608.

Excise taxes extinguished

The votes are in—proposals to increase the consumer excise taxes on cigarettes were defeated by 25 state legislatures this year. In addition, when an initiative to increase cigarette excise taxes was put before Montana voters in November, the proposed measure was defeated 60 percent to 40 percent.

As the dust settled on the 1990 legislative sessions across the country, state legislators who looked to increased cigarette excise taxes as a means of reducing state budget deficits or for funding specific state programs were told to look elsewhere.

States defeating proposed legislation included: Alabama, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Vermont, Missouri, Mississippi, Michigan, Maryland, Kentucky, Kansas, Illinois and Iowa.

Pike leads in mine deaths

PIKEVILLE — Of the 20 mine-related deaths in the state in 1990, five were in Pike County, making the Pikeville district the leader in the annual death toll. "There's not a thing I can say to justify it," said Director of the Pikeville District of the Department of Mines and Minerals David Phillips. "There's no use trying to kid anybody. We had an extremely bad year." (Appalachian News-Express)

Heart transplant recipient dies

HAZARD — Perry County's first ever heart transplant recipient, 39 year-old Anthony Thompson, died last Monday at his home in Yerkes. Thompson received his transplant at Jewish Hospital in Louisville on March 18, 1990. According to family members, the transplant had been successful, and his rejection rate had been low. ### Magoffin man injured in shooting at W.Va. Plant

RAVENSWOOD, W.Va. — Richard A. Barker, 24, of Salyersville was seriously injured in a shooting incident last Sunday night at a Ravenswood, W.Va. construction company. Barker lost an eye when he was shot once in the left side of the head while sitting in the driver's seat of a van parked near the plant's construction gate. Barker was serving as a security guard at the time of the shooting. No arrests have been made, and police have no strong suspects. (The Salyersville Independent)

Four arrested in Pike gambling probe

PIKEVILLE — Police have arrested four people in Pike County and confiscated an undetermined amount of cash and three draw-poker machines in an undercover gambling investigation. The machines were seized from J's Diner, located between Freeburn and Phelps, and from Pic-Pac supermarket at Phelps. Arrested were Thomas Davis, 30, Linda Lester, 21, and Margaret Davis, 30, all of Phelps; and Patricia Layne, 39, of Freeburn. They were charged with promoting gambling, permitting gambling and possession of a gambling device. All were released on bond. (The Courier-Journal)

Martin County in line to get first nursing home

INEZ — Martin County is among 11 Kentucky counties without a nursing home. However, this month, the county apparently will get its best shot at a nursing home. Human Resources Cabinet spokesman Brad Hughes said Thursday that the state Commission on Health Economics Control had received 100 proposals to build or expand nursing homes in 60 counties, including Martin County. A Lexington-based company, Rouse and Associates, has filed a letter of intent to build a 48-bed nursing home in Martin County. Sterling Health Care Centers in Ashland and Hayes Lewis if Hyden have filed applications to build 60-bed facilities in the county. Public hearings at the commission's Frankfort office begin January 14. (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Shelby Valley Wildcats Win; McDowell Places 3rd

Shelby Valley Holds Off Pikeville; Claims 37th Crown

Coach Bobby Osborne got his 398th career victory and his Shelby Valley Wildcats won the 37th Pikeville Invitational Tournament with a hard fought 97-94 win over a very good Pikeville Panther team.

Pikeville trailed Shelby Valley by 19 points, 86-67 in the fourth quarter and then went on a scoring binge to cut the lead to seven, 88-81. The Panthers outscored Shelby Valley 14-2 in the run. Lee Jones, who had been quiet most of the first half, hit a three-pointer and Chris Smith followed with a three-point play the old fashioned way to cut the lead to 11 points, 86-75. After Chad Bowling scored for the Wildcats, Chad Owens hit two free throws and a basket. Jones scored again at the two minute mark to make give the seven point difference.

After Shelby Valley was whistled for a technical foul, Owens converted one of the two free throws to climb to within six, 88-82. Mitch Harris, who had 30 points in the game, broke the Wildcats drought with a free throw with 1:30 to go. Murray Garvin offset that with a charity toss of his own and Harris marched to the free throw line with 1:08 showing and canned two tosses for a 91-83 game. Garvin scored on a rebound for Pikeville and Harris' free throw gave Shelby Valley a seven point lead, 92-85.

The Panthers closed the margin to four, 92-88, on a free throw by Owens and a basket by Garvin. After Bowling sank two charity tosses, Jess Baird hit one of his six three-point baskets to make it three points, 94-91, with 23 seconds to go. The shot was beyond the NBA's three point line. Harris went to the line for his eighth free throw in the final 1:30 and connected on both shots for a five point cushion for Shelby Valley. Owens then hit a trey for Pikeville, duplicating Baird's three-pointer. Chad Justice's free throw with seven seconds on the clock set the final margin at 97-94.

Shelby Valley maintained a one point lead at the first stop, 23-22. The

McDowell Wins Consolation Over County Rival Betsy Layne, 68-67

The McDowell Daredevils did it again. They pulled out a 68-67 squeaker over the Betsy Layne Bobcats in the consolation game of the Pikeville Invitational Tournament Saturday night at the T. W. Oliver Fieldhouse.

The two Floyd County teams met for the second time this season, with the first being a conference game at Betsy Layne. McDowell came away with a one point, come-from-behind victory.

Stacy Hall hit three free throws with 44 seconds to go to break a 64-64 tie and give the Daredevils their sixth win of the season.

Betsy Layne held a six point lead, 58-52, with 4:50 to go in the final period. McDowell scored the next six points to tie the game at 58-58. Seldom-used sub Scott Stanley scored on a baseline jumper. Earl Cook, another seldom-used substitute, canned a eight footer and Stacy Hall followed with a basket to tie the game.

Jonathan Tackett put the Bobcats back on top with a basket and a Hall score tied the game again at 60-60. King slipped underneath for a layup and Hall tied the game on an uncontested layup. Berne Eplin missed two free throws for the Bobcats and Britt Stumbo gave McDowell their first lead at 64-62 on a basket underneath. The lead was short lived as King hit on a short baseline basket to tie the game at 64-64.

With 44 seconds to go, Stacy Hall was fouled by Newsome and canned both charity tosses for a 66-64 lead. Betsy Layne turned the ball over with 33 seconds to go. When the Daredevils could find no one to inbound the pass to, they signaled for a time out. When play resumed, Tackett fouled Barry Hall who connected on the back end of the two shot foul to put McDowell up by three, 67-64. Adam Gearheart, who opened the game scoring seven first quarter points, missed two three-point attempts in an effort to tie the game. Stacy Hall grabbed the rebound and was fouled where he hit one of two free throws for a 68-64 game. Tackett connected on a three-pointer for the final margin of 68-67.

Pikeville Invitational Huge Success As Large Crowds Filled Fieldhouse

The administration of Pikeville High School did themselves proud in hosting the 37th Pikeville Invitational Basketball Tournament last week in the T. W. Oliver Fieldhouse. Eight teams made up the schedule of games with the Shelby Valley Wildcats coming away with the tournament crown.

The gym was practically filled each night while radio and television stations were on hand to send the game into the homes and businesses of those who could not be there in person.

An All-Tournament team was named at the conclusion of the tournament as 12 young men were selected by the media. Heading the All-Tournament selection was Chad Bowling of Shelby Valley, also chosen as the toumey's Most Valuable Player. Also named from Shelby Valley was Mitch Harris who had three good games. Jeremy Johnson of the Wildcats was selected also, with teammate Kevin Hall. From runner-up Pikeville was Lee Jones, Murray Garvin, Shad Owens and Chris Smith.

Betsy Layne placed two players on the team; Phillip King and Chris Newsome. Coy Scarlett of Mullins was also named. Stacy Hall of McDowell was an All-Tournament selection.

The team free throw trophy went to McDowell's Matt Johnson and the Daredevils won the team free throw trophy as well.

Third place in cheerleader competition went to the Prestonsburg Blackcat cheerleaders. McDowell received the runners-up trophy while first place went to Johns Creek. Pikeville High School was not eligible for consideration for the cheerleader awards.

Elect New Officers For 1991

The Middle Creek Sportsman Club recently held their first meeting of the new year in which new officers were elected. The meeting took place at the Middle Creek Volunteer Fire Station on January 7. Officers elected were: President, Larry Dotson; vice-president, Callie Salyers; secretary/treasurer, Mae Brown; chairperson, Trena Holbrook; board members, McDowell was the consolation winner, Pikeville runners-up and Shelby Valley champions. Coach Howard Wallen received runner-up coach's plaque and Bobby Osborne of Shelby Valley was recognized with the winner's plaque. The win was number 398 for Coach Osborne in pursuit of his 400th career win. Each player from the winners and runners-up received nice plaques for their participation.

Pikeville High School will be the site of the Kentucky Class A regional tournament starting January 28.

Darrell Allen, Lewis Dotson, Mike Hackworth, Paul Marsillett, Amos Prater, Tim Vaughn and Edmond Watkins.

The club is actively urging all old club members to rejoin. The club's annual Wild Game Supper was discussed at the meeting along with a Hunter's Safety Course which is scheduled for February 7-9.

Undeclared On The Road:

Betsy Layne Freshmen Win Tourney At Johnson Central; Go To 10-1

Stretch. Five laps. Three lines. Zig Zag. Agilityes, obliques, sprints, pukes. Help and recover. Offense half court. 1-3-1 rotation and five on five backing out.

What has all this got to do with basketball and the freshmen team at Betsy Layne?

To put it in the words of one of the players, "if you have to go through it, you would know." That is just part of the strenuous practice schedule this team faces daily. Conditioning is still an important area in the game, especially if you play an up tempo game.

The Bobcat freshmen basketball team is off to a great and exciting start this season and Coach Keith Henry is fielding one of the best freshmen teams since he began coaching at the Betsy Layne school. Henry's squad recently defeated the Golden Eagles of Johnson Central's freshmen team 48-31 to capture the championship at the Johnson Central Freshmen Invitational Basketball Tournament.

A balanced scoring attack for the younger Bobcats led to the team's tournament title. Chris Potter led in scoring with nine points. Brian Hunter and Mark Ousley added eight points each, while Jason Newsome tallied seven points. Barry Clark, who played a strong game on the boards, added six points.

For Johnson Central, Todd Ward led the losers with 12 points and three other players tossed in three points each.

Betsy Layne took a 13-5 first quarter lead and extended it out to 10 points, 27-17, by the half.

Coach Henry, who is in his ninth year of coaching freshmen ball at Betsy Layne, says that this year's squad is a close-knit group.

"They have been playing together for a long time," he explained. "They are real close to each other. A very unselfish ball club. A close bunch. The closest that I have ever coached."

The freshmen team stands at 10-1 on the season and has gained the label of the "Road Warriors" because they are 10-0 on the road; their only defeat came at home to Buchanan, 65-52. The Bobcats later returned the favor by posting a 55-49 win over

by Ed Taylor

FANS BEHAVIOR AT GAMES IS UNNECESSARY

I was at a recent high school basketball game and I was sickened by the action of a particular fan (which I am glad to say was not from Floyd County). This person kept hounding the referees with comments that would have been better served had he kept them to himself. The comments served only to show how small a person he really was because he complained on every call that went against his team.

I kept watching the calls that were made and some were excellent calls, yet he continued to complain. I notice the folks around him. Some seemed embarrassed to be in his area. Others laughed along with him, encouraging his unkind remarks.

High school basketball has no place for fans like those. Referees are not perfect and are subject to make a mistake which is easy to do. As I continued to have to sit there and listen to this motor mouth, I finally figured out why he was acting so obnoxious. The coach was acting up on the bench. I guess that he thought he should show his support for the coach by acting in the same manner.

It is a shame for adults to go to a game and act that way. It does not add to the pleasure of the game. And it really becomes an embarrassment to the kids playing the game.

ENJOYED THE PIKEVILLE TOURNAMENT

This is the second Pikeville Invitational that I have covered. The folks at Pikeville did a great job.

Only one thing they did that I did not agree with, though. Of course, again, it wasn't the tournament officials, but the media that voted the Most Valuable Player. Chad Bowling of Shelby Valley received the honor.

I will be the first to admit to you that Chad Bowling is an outstanding basketball player. The Wildcats are fortunate to have the sharp-shooting guard on their team. However, I was really impressed with the play of Mitch Harris. Harris had a great three games in the tournament. He kept the Wildcats from being eliminated by Betsy Layne and came back in the championship game. When Bowling was being held in check, Harris scored 30 points and dished off several nice passes for buckets. He played an outstanding defensive game.

I felt at that time Harris was Shelby Valley's Most Valuable Player. If you ask some of the fans that saw the games, they will tell you that Harris made the difference.

BACK TREATING AREA FANS WITH TRIP TO MOREHEAD GAME

Joe Back, renown basketball nut, made a trip to Morehead University with four area basketball fans. The five made their way to Morehead to take in the Eastern Kentucky and Morehead basketball game last night. Among Back's traveling partners were Buford, Don and Paul Layne, and Bernard Clark. Back said it was a trip that Morehead Athletic Director Steve Hamilton made possible. Way to go, Joe! Hurry back.

ROSE BACK HOME IN CINCINNATI

Well, Pete Rose as everyone knows has been set free, almost. The all-time-hit leader was released from prison Monday and will serve three months at a halfway house in Cincinnati, performing 1000 hours of public service. Here's hoping that Rose has learned his lesson and does get the new start that he desires. Hey, put him in the Hall, fellows — he deserves it!

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE CHANGES

In today's sports section you will see two articles about changes in scheduled games for Prestonsburg and Wheelwright. Check it out! I saw Bobby Hood of Wheelwright at the Pikeville Invitational and he really likes it at Thomas Moore College. Bobby is playing some basketball at the school.

ARE CATS NUMBER 11?

Question. Are the Kentucky Wildcats the eleventh best basketball team in the nation? In the hearts of Wildcat fans they should be number one. The Cats are currently ranked 11 in the nation.

Until Friday, Good Sports everyone!

Hopkins Launches Three

Shelby Valley

absence of any scoring from Lee Jones was evident for the Panthers in the first quarter, but Garvin picked up the slack with some good moves down under getting eight first period points. Kevin Hall had seven points in the first quarter for Shelby Valley.

Shelby Valley held a six point lead at the intermission, 43-37, as the Wildcats scored the final eight points of the second quarter on two treys by Harris and two Rodney Kiser free throws. The eight point run erased a 37-35 Pikeville lead. The lead changed hands eight times in the first quarter. Pikeville took their first lead at the 2:43 mark of the first period at 16-15 on a basket by Garvin.

The score was tied at 25-25 when Baird was whistled for an intentional foul on a "clothes line" foul on Harris. Harris made one of two shots but Hall grabbed the missed shot and hit it for a 28-25 Wildcat lead.

In the third period, the teams exchanged baskets, scoring on each of their first 11 possessions. Shelby Valley held a 11 point advantage on the strength of four three-pointers in the period. Pikeville finally missed a shot and the Wildcats scored back-to-back baskets to take a 73-61 lead into the final quarter.

Shelby Valley ran off seven unanswered points go up by 17 points, 81-64. Another 7-0 run made it 19 points, 86-67.

Harris' 30 points led all scorers. Bowling finished with 20 for Shelby Valley and Jeremy Johnson had 16. Kevin Hall finished with 11 before fouling out.

Jess Baird, with his six treys, led Pikeville with 21 points as five players hit for double figures. Garvin added 18 points and Owens had 16. Chris Smith tossed in 14 and Lee Jones netted 13.

Split Two Games :

Lady Blackcats Defeat Pikeville, Lose To Rowan

Prestonsburg Lady Blackcat coach Bridget Clay saw her team extend its winning streak to six games and in the same week saw it snapped. The Lady Blackcats defeated the Pikeville Lady Panthers 75-65 on Thursday night and lost to Rowan County on Saturday night 64-59.

The Lady Blackcats, coming back off the holiday breaks, faced a Pikeville team they had beaten earlier in the season at Prestonsburg in the Lady Cats Invitational tournament.

Kathy Slone's 19 points led four double figure scorers. Carolyn Reffitt added 15 points for the Lady Cats and Raquel Cain tossed in 11. Amy Reed finished with 10 points.

"When you have the balanced scoring that we had against Pikeville, you are going to win some games or be close," said Clay of her team's play against the Lady Panthers. "By halftime of the game we had eight players in the scoring column already."

Coach Clay lauded the play of Cain and Stephanie Music coming off the bench. "Both players have done an excellent job for us," she said. "We played good team ball against Pikeville."

Clay said that she was concerned coming into the game of having played Pikeville earlier and beating them. "It's hard sometimes to beat a team twice," she commented.

The Lady Blackcats shot 63 percent for the game and as a team are averaging 60 percent for the season. From three point land, the Lady Cats are hitting a big 50 percent.

Sandy Ford led the Lady Panthers in scoring with 28 points. Teresa Lockhart added 24.

"Ford (Sandy) is one of the best players in the 15th Region I think," expressed Clay. "I think she is overlooked an awful lot. She drives with the ball well and is a better player than she is recognized for."

In the Saturday night confrontation, the Lady Blackcats did not fare so well. Slone had 26 points to lead Prestonsburg in their 64-49 loss to Rowan County. In the game, Prestonsburg could only hit on just 32 percent of their shots.

"I think the fact that we came into the game having won six games in a row was factor in the loss," said Clay. "Perhaps it is best for this team to lose a game. It helps bring us back down to earth."

"We got beat on the boards by 10 rebounds," the Lady Blackcat coach continued. "This is only the second game in which we have failed to out-rebound our opponents." Rowan County had 36 boards to Prestonsburg's 26.

Prestonsburg turned the ball over 13 times during the game. The downfall for the Prestonsburg girls was the first half. "We were cold in the first half, especially the second quarter," said Clay. "Nobody could hit anything. We were two of nine from the paint in the second period. So really we didn't have too many shots at the basket. We committed four turnovers in the quarter, and that doesn't help."

"Rowan County is a fine team," she said. Clay said the fact that Reed and Reffitt didn't have good outings hurt the Lady Cats. "Both have scored in double figures in most of the games we have played. But against Rowan County they didn't have the games they are capable of having." Reed had just three points for Prestonsburg while Reffitt hit for six.

"We cut the lead down to 12 points in a comeback," said the Prestonsburg coach, "but we just lost our intensity. We turned the ball over and they scored on a three point play and they just seemed to take the steam out of us."

Senior Kathy Slone, with all the points that she has scored in her four years for Prestonsburg, hit her first ever three-point basket. "She was really happy," explained Clay.

Beth Prince led the Rowan County team in scoring with 25 points. Tish Glober added 15 and Heather Martin tossed in 13.

Prestonsburg is now 6-2 on the season and ranked as one of the top teams in the 15th Region. The Lady Blackcats are 1-1 in the conference.

Prestonsburg will be out of action until Friday, January 18 when they face the Allen Central Lady Rebels. The layoff does not please the Prestonsburg coach.

"I don't like to be off that long," she said, "but the game with Wheelwright on Friday night was a miscue on the schedule. There's nothing we can do about it."

Johnson Central will come to Prestonsburg on Monday, January 14.

Duddleson Added To Floyd County Traveling Squad; Patton Joins

What is the Floyd County Traveling Squad? Players who have moved on or are thinking of moving on from their present basketball teams. The list seems to be growing.

The latest addition is Phillip Patton who left the Prestonsburg Blackcats and moved on to Allen Central. Patton is one of the bright prospects in Floyd County basketball, standing at 6' 3". Patton last year helped lead the Allen Eagles to the Floyd County grade school championship. Patton has been seeing a lot of playing time on the Blackcat junior varsity team and was averaging 17 points per game for Dale Hamilton's freshman squad. No reason has been given for the transfer. Coach Parido says that all he knows is that Patton has left school and gone to Allen Central.

A bigger name in Floyd County high school who has made the traveling team, although he is still in school at McDowell, is Mike Duddleson. Duddleson was one of the top freshmen in the county last year, helping lead the Daredevils to the semifinals of the regional tournament. We caught up with Mike at the Pikeville Invitational and had a chat. Why did he leave the team?

"I wasn't enjoying playing anymore," he said. "I felt there was not much of a place for me on the McDowell team. I was just unhappy. I didn't like being jerked around. I would play one game and not get into the next one."

Duddleson says he has no thoughts of coming back this year and if he played again it would be somewhere else.

"I just don't want to play anymore this year and then think about it over the summer as to where I will play next year," he explained.

Rumors had it that there was discussion between Duddleson and some of the other players. "That's not true," he said. "I've heard the same rumors. I have no animosity toward of the players. I still stand behind my team and I root for them. I have had people come up to me and say 'I didn't expect to see you here at the game'. I just come to support the team. I still stand behind them and want to see them win. I have no quarrel nor have I had any quarrel with the team."

"Mike came to my office after the Magoffin County game and said he wasn't happy playing and was going to quit," stated McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner. "I didn't want to see him quit." Coach Turner hopes to see the talented player return.

Brett Morgan, a substitute for the Daredevils has also left the team. Up Betsy Layne way, power forward Jamie Smith left the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats squad during halftime of the Lady Cats game with Elkhorn City on December 13, according to Lady Bobcats coach Bill Newsome.

"I just went to the dressing room at halftime and she had gotten dressed and she quit," he explained. Newsome said that his team had taken it well and has pulled closer together.

COACHING NOT ALL GLORY!

Coaching is a rough job. I know they get the extra pay for taking the position, but if each coach will be honest with you, as much as they love the game, they will tell you it just isn't worth the little extra they get.

Parents seem to play a big part in the decision our young men and women make these days. Young athletes have the opinion that if things don't suit them they can always leave and go elsewhere. That doesn't make things right. Was makes things right is staying and giving the best to the team and, regardless of what others may think, you can have the satisfaction you did your best. You gave it your best shot.

Several coaches have stated over and over that it could be fun again if the parents stayed out of it. Coaching should be left to the coaches. Each coach has the best of the team at heart. He or she must make decisions that will benefit the team's success.

Sometimes changes are called for or a coach may have to change a starting line up to fit the opposition they have to face. If more rebounding is needed, then you start your biggest players. If more speed is called for you start your quickest players.

Every parent wants to see their son or daughter play more. That is only natural. But only a certain number of players can be on the field or floor at one time. And it must be the ones who can help the team the most.

I say let the coaches be the coaches! Their job is hard enough.

Newsome's 21 Points Lead Bobcats To 80-57 Win Over Johns Creek

Betsy Layne Bobcats look like a team that loves to play basketball and more importantly — loves to win. The Bobcats took care of business Thursday night as they rolled past a good Johns Creek basketball team 80-57 behind the 21 point performance of Chris Newsome.

Two other players hit for double figures for Coach Junior Newsome's team. Phillip King, perhaps one of the most underrated players in the 15th Region, added 20 points and Adam "Gears" Gearheart tossed in 18. Gearheart is the player that moves the Bobcats. The sharpshooting number two guard was consistent from the baseline against the Bearcats. Newsome collected three treys in the game with some pinpoint shooting from outside. King, using his deceiving quickness, slashed through the Bearcats' defense for some baskets underneath.

Betsy Layne spotted the Bearcats a 2-0 lead and then rolled out to a 12-6 advantage early in the first quarter and led 18-11 at the first stop. Chris Gannon got the Bearcats on the scoreboard first with an uncontested lay up. Keith Hall tied the game at 2-2 with a soft jumper from eight feet out and Newsome hit his first three-pointer to give the Bobcats a 5-2 lead.

Bill West, who played an outstanding game for Johns Creek, hit a basket from the paint, and two baseline jumpers by Gearheart lifted the Bobcats to a 9-4 lead. Gannon scored and King hit a free throw at the 2:28 mark to complete a three-point play and a 12-6 Betsy Layne lead.

After Doug Blackburn's basket, two free throws and a basket by King plus Gearheart's jumper made it 18-8. Blackburn hit a trey just before the buzzer for Johns Creek.

The Betsy Layne pressure defense took the Bearcats out of their game plan and the Bearcats looked confused on several possessions of the ball.

"Our defense was real good tonight," stated an elated Bobcat mentor, Junior Newsome. "Defense is the best part of the game. We are a small team and we have to play a tough D. Of course, everybody we play is bigger than us." Johns Creek certainly had the height advantage over the Betsy Layne club.

"We knew they were a big team," continued Newsome, "and we worked on that in practice. We were concentrating on their size. These kids love to play basketball and they love to win."

Stopping the Bearcats running game was also in the Bobcats game play according to Gearheart. "Our coaches told us they were a tall team," he said. "Our pressure was good tonight and we knew also that we had to stop them on the inside."

The Bobcats opened up 17 point lead early in the fourth period, rolling out to a 61-44 advantage. Betsy Layne ran off 10 unanswered points with Newsome scoring six. Betsy Layne's biggest lead was the 23 point winning margin.

Betsy Layne had 10 turnovers in the game, more than they usually make. "We usually don't make that many turnovers in a game," said Gearheart, "I don't know what happened tonight. We came out and wanted to control the tempo of the game and used our full court man to man press."

Gearheart says that the Bobcats are finally getting things together and the players are getting in shape.

"This is a very unselfish team," Coach Newsome said. "We stress that in our practices. They are a group of kids if at play hard. Keith (Hall) did a great job for us — the point guard position — and gave 110 percent. That helps win ball games."

The Bobcats go to 8-4 on the season and will be at Allen Central Friday night for a conference match up.

Bill West led the Bearcats in scoring with 20 points and Simon Ratliff added 15. Blackburn finished with 10.

Bryant scores 38 points:

Elkhorn City Back At Full Strength, Upends Host McDowell, 67-58

The Elkhorn City Lady Cougars are healthy and well again as they placed four players in double figures to slip past the McDowell Lady Daredevils 67-58 last week at McDowell.

The Lady Cougars had been hit hard with injuries to key players. One of those players, Donna Deel, tossed in 17 points to lead Elkhorn City to victory. Deel had been out with a leg injury, returning two games before. "She was the difference in the game," said McDowell coach Cassandra Keathley. Deel hit seven of 10 free throws in the game.

Three other players hit in double figures for the Lady Cougars. Amber Francisco added 15 points, Samantha Cook tossed in 13 and Renee Chaney netted 11. Cook was another who had been out for awhile after suffering an injury at Allen Central.

The Lady Cougars held the lead for most of the game, leading sometimes by as many as 12 points. McDowell got within four points in the fourth quarter but could get no closer.

"We'd make a run and get close then we would fall back," said Keathley, who said that her squad is really improving. It was at the free throw line that the Lady Cougars put the game away. Elkhorn City shot 28 free throws compared to 12 for the Lady Devils.

"We also had 17 turnovers in the game," explained the Lady Devils' mentor. "Of course I expected that in this type of game. But our offense is looking better. We are all looking forward to getting back into the conference race." Keathley said that her team's field goal percentage has improved to where they are making 44 percent of their shots while hitting 67 percent from the free throw line.

While there was not much scoring from most of the Lady Devils, McDowell's outstanding forward, Lorie Bryant, tossed in 38 points to take game scoring honors. Bryant had 15 field goals, two treys, and nine rebounds while handing off three assists and making three steals. Kristi Pack added five points for McDowell.

For Elkhorn City, Francisco hit four three-pointers, three coming in the all important second quarter. Kristy Mullins had nine assists, mostly to Bryant, for McDowell.

The loss dropped McDowell to 3-6 on the season and the Lady Devils will be back in action tomorrow night (Thursday) when they host Pikeville at the E.P. Grigsby Jr. Fieldhouse.

McDowell

Betsy Layne ran out to a 11-4 first quarter lead behind the scoring of Gearheart and Phillip King, only to see McDowell come roaring back to close to within one 11-10 on baskets by Stacy Hall, Stumbo, Matt Johnson and Dale Hinkle's two free throws. Betsy Layne led at the first stop, 15-12.

The Bobcats, looking sharp, scored the first eight points of the second quarter to take a 23-12 advantage. Gearheart hit two three-pointers and King added a basket in the spurt. McDowell did not quit, scoring the next eight points on Barry Hall's three-pointer, a three point play by Doug Hopkins and Johnson's bucket to make it 23-20 Betsy Layne with 2:50 to go.

It was Betsy Layne's turn. Gearheart hit from the outside. Coleman connected on a basket underneath and Keith Hall delivered with a short jumper for a 29-20 game.

Barry Hall's trey made it 29-23. The Bobcats were whistle for a technical foul and Hopkins dropped in both attempts and Stanley's basket cut the lead to two, 29-27 at the half.

Matt Johnson, who won the individual free throw trophy for the tournament, connected on a shot underneath to tie the game at 29-all to start the fourth quarter. Gearheart hit for a 31-29 game. Stacy Hall's two free throws tied it at 31-31. Five unanswered points gave Betsy Layne a 36-31 lead.

After a three-pointer by Stacy Hall cut the lead back to two, Gearheart scored on a trey and a free throw to make it 40-34. It was 40-38 following baskets by Hinkle and Stacy Hall. Gearheart scored four points and Tackett one to give Betsy Layne a six point cushion, 44-38. The Bobcats led 47-42 going into the final quarter. Betsy Layne held a four and five point lead before McDowell caught them at 62-62 and assumed their 64-62 lead.

Stacy Hall led the Daredevils in scoring with 26 points. Doug Hopkins finished with 13. Barry Hall had seven.

Adam Gearheart topped the Bobcats in scoring with 26 points. Phillip King had 20.

Betsy Layne hit on 16 of 19 free throws and McDowell was 17 of 24 from the charity stripe. McDowell had four three-pointers — two by Stacy Hall and two by Barry Hall. Betsy Layne had four — three from Gearheart and one by Tackett.

McDowell goes to 6-5 on the season and Betsy Layne falls to 8-6. The game does not count as a conference match up. McDowell will host Sheldon Clark Friday night and Belfry on Saturday evening.

Betsy Layne will return to the hardwood with a big conference battle at Allen Central Friday night.

1991 KENTUCKY SPORT, BOAT AND RV SHOW FEB 7-10

It's time for the 1991 Kentucky Sport, Boat, and RV Show! Exhibitors will come from Kentucky and surrounding states for the sixth consecutive year. It's all happening Thursday, February 7, through Sunday, February 10. Hours will be 2 p.m. until 9 p.m., Thursday and Friday; 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., Saturday; and from noon until 6 p.m., Sunday.

This year the show will feature hundreds of displays and exhibits devoted to recreational vehicles, boats, boating equipment, sporting activities and recreational activities. Fishing experts Billy Westmorland and Jimmy Rogers will conduct fishing seminars. Also, Gary Hain with the "Hawg Trough" will be back with his entertaining, informative and expert fishing techniques.

The "Trout Tank" will be available for the kids to go fishing, and the "SR2 Simulator" is like a combination of a ride on "The Beast" from King's Island, a helicopter ride, and a ride in a fast race car.

Admission is $4. Discount coupons for 50 percent off all day Thursday and until 4 p.m. Friday will be available at participating outlets. These outlets will be announced at a later date.

RAX/PIKEVILLE COLLEGE JR HIGH BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Seven teams from Floyd County will take part in the Second Annual RAX/Pikeville College Junior High Basketball Tournament January 9 through the 12th. Martin, Adams, Betsy Layne, John M. Stumbo, Allen, Osborne and Prater Creek will take part in the three-day event.

REGULATIONS FROM TOURISM'S DEPARTMENT OF FISH AND WILDLIFE APPROVED

The Department of Fish and Wildlife's Tourism office approved the following regulations at a recent meeting.

Lake Reba in Madison County will be restricted to boats with electric motors. Tickling and noodling (hand grabbing) are no longer permitted on the tributaries to the North, Middle and South Forks of the Kentucky River.

Commercial fishing is closed in Mud River and the tailwater areas below the highlift dams on the Ohio River.

A 15-inch size limit on largemouth and smallmouth bass is imposed at Fishtrap, Buckhorn, Yatesville, Paintsville and Carr Fork lakes, with a 10-inch size limit on crappie at Barkley and Kentucky lakes. On the impounded waters of Lake Reba, the size limit for largemouth and smallmouth bass is 15-inches; creel limit is five, and possession limit is 10. And the impounded waters of Lincoln Homestead State Park are closed to fishing until January 1, 1993.

The importation and possession of the zebra mussel is prohibited. Each sport fishing trotline, jug line or setline must be permanently labeled or tagged with the name and address of the person using it. They must also be baited, checked and all fish removed at least once every 24 hours. Those not properly labeled and left unattended for a longer period may be confiscated by fish and wildlife officials.

WHEELWRIGHT/ALLEN CENTRAL SCHEDULE CHANGE

All Allen Central and Wheelwright basketball fans should take note that the games scheduled for Tuesday, January 22 between the two schools have been altered somewhat. The girls' game between Wheelwright and Allen Central will be played on Monday, January 21, and the boys' game will go on as scheduled on Tuesday night. In the place of the girls' game on Tuesday, the boys will play a junior varsity game. The change was to accommodate the Lady Trojans, who will be taking part in the All A Classic on January 22.

Pikeville Invitational:

Lack Of Defensive Boards Does Bobcats In, 53-52, Against SV

Defensive rebounds—or the lack of them—went a long way in spelling a 53-52 defeat for a good Betsy Layne Bobcat basketball team in the semifinals of the Pikeville Invitational basketball tournament Friday night at the T.W. Oliver Fieldhouse against the Shelby Valley Wildcats.

The second and third efforts afforded the Wildcats cost Betsy Layne 12 points, since six of those offensive rebounds were converted into scores.

The Bobcats trailed Shelby Valley by 10 points, 42-32, with 3:20 remaining in the third period. Phillip King grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck it back in for two points. After Chad Bowling was whistled for a charging foul, Bernie Eplin hit a base line jumper to make it 42-36. With 1:31 to go, Chris Newsome banged home a three-pointer that brought the Betsy Layne faithful to life. Shelby Valley turned the ball over and King connected with :51 showing on the clock to make the score 42-41 at the end of the third period.

In the fourth, each team turned the ball over on their first two possessions. Rodney Kiser ended the miscues with a basket that gave Shelby Valley a 44-41 lead. Jody Coleman retaliated with a basket to keep the deficit at one, 44-43. Mitch Harris made it 46-43 before Coleman scored again for a 46-45 game. Kevin Hall, off the right side, hit a trey with 3:07 to go for a 49-45 game.

Betsy Layne called time out and, after the horn sounded, the Bobcats were slow in answering the call and almost lost the ball on the inbounds play. Chris Newsome's trey cut the lead back to one, 49-48.

Each team exchanged turnovers before Hall hit from 10 feet to give Shelby Valley a 51-48 lead. Betsy Layne turned the ball over on their next possession and Kiser hit a free throw to put the Wildcats up 52-48. Newsome scored from outside to pull to within two, 52-50, with 1:22 to go. Betsy Layne missed several shots at the basket and did not score again until the final basket by Newsome with four seconds to go. The Bobcats trailed by three, 53-50, and had the ball for the last shot, but Shelby Valley pressured the ball at three-point range which prevented Betsy Layne from getting a three-point shot off. Newsome saw an opening and drove the lane to lay the ball in ahead of the buzzer.

Shelby Valley jumped out to a 7-2 lead early in the first quarter on a three-pointer by Jeremy Johnson and two baskets by Harris. Betsy Layne held the first lead at 2-0 on a bucket by Newsome. Jonathan Tackett scored to make it 7-4 and Kevin Hall sent Shelby Valley out in front 9-4 and the Wildcats led at the first stop, 17-11.

Again turnovers highlighted the beginning of the second quarter when the Bobcats turned the ball over on their first two possessions and Shelby Valley their first three. Eplin sunk a 12 footer to make it 17-13. Bobby Keys and Harris found the basket for a 21-13 game. An 11-4 spurt by Betsy Layne cut the margin to one, 25-24, just before halftime. In the run, King had seven points with Hall and Coleman getting two each.

Shelby Valley wanted to shut King down early and had Johnson fronting the big Betsy Layne forward in the first half. Betsy Layne got no offense whatsoever from one of their productive scorers, Adam Gearheart. Gearheart had only two points in the game after averaging 18 per game.

Shelby Valley scored the first seven points of the third period to build their lead back to 10 points, 34-24. Again Betsy Layne had to play catch up.

"Our offensive board work really hurt us," said Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome. "When you hold a team to 53 points you're supposed to win. We held Bowling to 10 points (actually it was eight) and did an excellent job on him." Mitch Harris and Kevin Hall picked up the scoring for the Wildcats with 15 and 13 points respectively.

Newsome led the Bobcats with 19 points, including three three-pointers. King, despite a slow start, finished with 15 points and 11 rebounds, three below his average. Coleman and Eplin each had six points.

Betsy Layne hit only one of four free throw attempts. Shelby Valley connected on four of six in a rather low fouling game.

"It was a close game," explained Newsome. "You could pick out two or three things that made the difference."

"We couldn't get any rhythm going at all," added assistant coach Keith Henry. "We only had 11 turnovers in the game which isn't too bad."

Betsy Layne falls to 8-5 on the year.

McDowell Avenges Earlier Loss To Magoffin County, 57-47

Coach Johnny Ray Turner's McDowell Daredevils got the new year off to a good start by avenging an earlier loss to the Magoffin County Hornets of coach Danny Adams.

McDowell defeated the Hornets 57-47 in the first round of the Pikeville Invitational Basketball tournament at Pikeville. The Daredevil lost to the Hornets 77-76 two weeks ago in Magoffin County.

Senior Stacy Hall tossed in 20 points and pulled down seven rebounds in leading the Daredevils to their win at Pikeville. Point guard, junior Doug Hopkins, added 13 points in the win.

The Daredevils, now 5-4 and holder of the 12th best record in the 15th Region, did not maintain the lead until late in the third quarter. Magoffin County held their last lead at 31-30 in the low scoring affair.

Brandon Holbrook's three pointer, with 3:36 to go in the third, gave the Hornets the lead. McDowell ran off eight straight points to assume a 38-31 lead—a lead they never relinquished.

Hall's lay up gave the Daredevils the lead at the 2:40 mark. Hopkins followed with a trey 26 seconds later to extend the lead to four points. Barry Hall connected from three-point land and the Daredevils led by seven.

Magoffin County closed the lead to four, 39-35, but four consecutive free throws by Stacy Hall enabled the Daredevils to go back out by five.

After the Daredevil run, the Hornets could get no closer than three points on two other occasions with the last time being 45-42. McDowell ran off six unanswered points on Matt Johnson's two free throws and Hall's two jumpers to up the margin to nine points, 51-42, with 3:08 remaining.

McDowell outscored the Hornets 6-5 to make the final margin 10 points.

For the first 19 minutes of the game, it was a nip-and-tuck battle with the score being tied six times and the lead exchanging hands five times before the Daredevils went up for good.

Matt Johnson finished with 12 points for McDowell and had six rebounds. Mike Duddleson, who was cold from the field, had seven rebounds and four points. McDowell hit 17 of 22 free throws and connected on 10 of 12 in the crucial fourth period. Stacy Hall was a perfect six of six.

Magoffin County had four three-pointers in the game but was only 8 of 16 from the charity stripe.

Jesse Russell led Magoffin County with 21 points and was the only double figure scorer for the Hornets. Brandon Holbrook added six points for Magoffin County in the loss. David Gibson netted five.

Blow 12-Point Lead:

Pinson's Trey At Buzzer Stuns Allen Central

To say that Allen Central let one get away from them is to say the least. But that is what happened Saturday night at Paintsville in the consolation game of the Paintsville Invitational basketball tournament, when the Rebels blew a 13 point lead and saw victory elude them on a three-point basket by Brian Pinson at the buzzer as coach Johnny Martin's chargers fell 77-76 to the Sheldon Clark Cardinals.

Cold free throw shooting by the Rebels contributed to Allen Central's sixth loss along with eight wins. Victory seemed to be theirs as the Rebels rolled out to a 64-51 lead over the cold shooting Cardinals with four minutes remaining. The Rebels could do no wrong in the period as their defense was causing Sheldon Clark all kinds of problems. The surprising thing was the way the Rebels dominated the boards in getting second and third shots in building their lead.

Rebel Chuck Laferty was unstoppable from start to finish in the game as the junior forward found the three-point range to his liking, hitting three treys in the game while scoring 24 points. But it was the free tosses that were the problems. In the final 1:27 seconds the Rebels misfired on eight of 12 free throw attempts, allowing the Cardinals back into the game.

Allen Central held a 69-59 lead with 3:27 remaining when Clayton Wells went solo to the basket for two points. After a basket by Brian Hall made it 71-61, Max Hale hit a basket underneath and Wells canned a three-pointer to cut the lead to five, 71-66. Ronnie Sammons, a 51 percent free throw shooter, went to the line where he connected on one of two free throws to put the Rebels up six points, 72-66. Brian Hall followed Sammons to the charity stripe and he hit the front end of a two shot foul to go up seven. J.R. Hammonds' bucket cut the lead back to five, 73-68. With 1:05 to go Sammons made another trip to the free throw line with the same results, one of two, for a 74-68 lead with on 58 ticks left on the clock. Hammonds scored underneath for a four point game, 74-70. On the inbound play, Tony Soler threw the ball right into the hands of Kevin Fields who just stuck the ball into the basket and it was 74-72.

With :37 showing on the scoreboard, Sammons made his third trip to the free throw line and again hit the back side of the two shot foul to put Allen Central on top by three, 75-72. Fields connected on a 10 footer and the lead was down to one point, 75-74. The Cardinals elected to pick on someone else and fouled Soler, a 31 percent free throw shooter. Soler sank the second shot of the two free throws for a slim 76-74 Allen Central lead with only 16 seconds to go.

With the possession, Sheldon Clark coach Roger Harless called a time out. When play resumed, Pinson missed a wide open layup and Mike Allen grabbed the rebound and was fouled with just six seconds to go. Allen was a 42 percent free throw shooter and it showed, as the big Rebel center misfired on both attempts. Max Hale grabbed the rebound and quickly got the ball to Hammonds who fired it to Pinson. Pinson launched the three-point attempt and the ball sailed through the nets as the buzzer sounded, spelling a 77-76 defeat for the Rebels.

For the game, Allen Central hit only eight of 17 free throw attempts while Sheldon Clark connected on 12 of 17.

In the second quarter of the game, Carl Watkins came in for Mike Allen, who had picked up some early foul trouble. Pinson, on a drive to the basket, plowed into Watkins with his knee going into Watkins chest knocking Watkins to the floor. Watkins head hit the floor and his right arm went behind him as he went down. While laying on the floor and being attended to, Watkins went into a scizure and was taken to the hospital and later transferred to St. Mary's hospital in Huntington. The report was that Watkins checked out alright and will be able to resume playing basketball again in a week.

The incident seemed to inspire the Rebels who were trailing 32-23 at the time. The Rebels outscored the Cardinals 10-3 and closed the lead to two, 35-33. Brian Hall and Laferty hit back to back three-pointers in the spurt. Two free throws by John Slone and a basket on a put back by Pinson sent Sheldon Clark out 39-33. Brian Hall scored just before half time to cut it to 39-35.

A 13-2 run at the start of the second period gave Allen Central its first lead at 45-41. Soler hit a short jumper for Allen Central and Wells followed with a bucket for Sheldon Clark. The Rebs then ran off 11 unanswered points, capped by a three-pointer by Laferty. Brian Hall had four points in the run. The Rebels failed to convert two free throws — one by Hall and one by Laferty — following baskets. Sammons three-pointer just before the horn gave Allen Central a comfortable 11 point lead at the third stop, 58-47. The Rebels outscored the Cardinals 23-8 in the period.

Kevin Fields took game scoring honors with 30 points. Pinson finished with 14 and Wells had 10. Max Hale, in addition to scoring eight points, pulled down 15 rebounds.

Laferty's 24 led the Rebels. Soler had 16 points for Allen Central and Brian Hall tossed in 14. Ronnie Sammons contributed 11 points. The Rebels hit eight three pointers in the game while Sheldon Clark had five.

Sheldon Clark goes to 9-4 on the season and Allen Central drops to 8-6.

The Rebels will face the Betsy Layne Bobcats at Allen Central Friday night in a big, big conference match up.

Laferty Pours In 24 Points As Rebels Continue To Roll

What do you do with a basketball team whose players saw very little playing time the previous year and you return with a team with no experience? You put them in the hands of Coach Johnny Martin of Allen Central. That is the kind of team that Coach Martin had returning to the Rebel camp this year.

However, the Rebel mentor has surprised a lot of people with this year's edition of Rebel basketball — even the coach himself.

"We are playing much better than I thought we would," he said in an earlier statement. Martin credits this team's early success with the type of hard nosed defense they are playing.

by five points, 50-45, going into the final quarter of play. The Rebels, behind the scoring of Laferty and Soler, came back to post the first game win.

The Rebels held a 13-9 first quarter lead but went to the lockerroom down by one at the half, 28-27.

Jonathan West of Lawrence County was the game's leading scorer with 26 points. Hopson finished with 13 and Curnutte had 11.

The win improved the Rebels record to 8-4 on the season. The Rebels will host the Betsy Layne Bobcats in a big Floyd County conference game Friday night at Allen Central.

LAWRENCE COUNTY 9 19 22 22 (72): McGraw, 7; Curnutte, 11; Hopson, 13; West 26; Abshire, 4; Shannon, 4; Phelps, 2; Hamilton, 3; Lyons, 2

P'burg Freshmen Fall To Knott County Central, 44-27

Nine players scored for the Knott County Central Patriots' freshman team as they posted a 44-27 win over host Prestonsburg Monday night.

A. Watts scored 13 points and hit three three-pointers to lead the Patriots in scoring.

Prestonsburg was playing for the first time without Phillip "Snake" Patton, who transferred to Allen Central. "We really missed Phillip badly," said freshman coach Dale Hamilton. "He was averaging 17 points a game for us and when you take that out you notice it."

Chad Caldwell led the Blackcats with nine points and Cory Reitz added eight. David Gearheart and Matt Goble each had four points. Mike Newberry scored two points. Newberry has been hampered with a sore ankle.

The loss dropped the Blackcats to 2-3 on the season and it was their third consecutive loss.

Prestonsburg, a talented but short handed team, could not score in double figures in either quarter. Knott County held a 10-5 first quarter lead and was up 22-13 at the half.

"We only have six players now," said Hamilton. Hamilton said that plans are to bring some of the eighth graders up from Auxier and Adams Middle School to fill the void on the team. "Having six players makes it rough to play as hard as you want. You can't press and pressure the ball like you want to. The players get tired and we even dropped back into a zone to rest our players and Watts killed us from outside."

The Prestonsburg freshman team will be in action Thursday night against Allen Central at home as part of a double header with the junior varsity teams. The freshman game will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with the JV game to follow.

KNOTT COUNTY CENTRAL 10 12 10 12 (44): A. Patrick, 4; B. Sumner, 5; J. Perkins, 2; A. Watts, 13; F. Williams, 2; M. Cobb, 6; B. Couch, 5; S. Caudill, 3; M. Thornsby, 4

at PRESTONSBURG 58 77 (27): C. Reitz, 8; D. Gearheart, 4; M. Caldwell, 9; M. Newberry, 2; M. Goble, 4

Chuck Laferty, who is getting better with each game, tossed in 24 points for the Rebels to lead three players in double figure scoring. Allen Central got a surprising 17 points from Tony Soler. Surprising, not because Soler is not capable, but the new student-athlete has been struggling of late. Ronnie Sammons played his usually steady game and added 11 points.

Shelby Valley Escapes Prestonsburg, 80-70, Behind Bowling's 32 Points

The Prestonsburg Blackcats tried to help Blackcat fans forget the Belfry game (a 91-53 loss) by giving regional power Shelby Valley all they wanted in the first round of the Pikeville Invitational tournament at Pikeville Thursday night. Shelby Valley came away with a 80-70 win over the Blackcats in a game much closer than the final score would indicate.

Two things were on the mind of the Blackcats entering Thursday night's play. Cut down on turnovers and stop Chad Bowling, the Wildcats' prolific scorer. Unfortunately, the Blackcats were not able to do either. Prestonsburg turned the ball over 23 times in the game and Bowling had a field day scoring 32 points.

Trailing by seven, 72-65, with 1:15 to go, Prestonsburg turned the ball over three consecutive times and Bowling scored off each turnover to give the Wildcats some breathing room as they moved out to a 13 point lead, 78-65. A three-pointer by Robert Hammond cut it back to 10 and, after another Bowling score, John Clark hit a jumper for the final 80-70 count.

In a game that many had Shelby Valley as a heavy favorite, the Blackcats showed a lot of maturity for a young team as they battled the Wildcats all the way. Prestonsburg seemed to be more in the game mentally than the previous game with Belfry, where they seemed to be going through motions.

Prestonsburg's Aaron Tucker, 18 points and seven rebounds, opened with a hot hand in the first quarter, scoring six of the Blackcats first seven points. Clark's free throw gave the Blackcats a 1-0 lead and it was tied on a charity toss by Jeremy Johnson. Tucker hit a basket and a Bowling three-pointer gave Shelby Valley a 4-3 lead. Tucker answered with a base line jumper and it was 5-4 Prestonsburg. Bowling, again with a trey, made it 7-5. Tucker tied the game at 7-7 with a bucket off the right side. Kevin Hall scored underneath for a 9-7 game and Worthie McGuire tied it at 9-9 with a jumper. When Bowling picked up his second personal foul early, Clark hit a jumper to give Prestonsburg a 11-9 lead. Shelby Valley then scored seven straight points for a 18-11 lead. Jason Crisp hit a basket with eight seconds to go to make it 18-13 at the end of the first quarter.

Shelby Valley had a hard time shaking the Blackcats as they rolled out to a 19-13 lead only to see Prestonsburg come back and cut it to one, 21-20. Shelby Valley managed to get the lead to seven at the half, 35-28.

The Blackcats scored the first four points of the third quarter to close to within three points, 35-32, on two free throws by Crisp and a basket by Clark. With 6:00 showing, two baskets by McGuire made it 37-36. McGuire scored again on a great assist from Crisp to bring the Blackcats within one, 39-38.

A 7-0 run by Shelby Valley built the lead back out to eight, 46-38. Tucker's trey made it 46-41. Turnovers started to plague the Blackcats as they turned the ball over on two possessions and Shelby Valley scored off each turnover to take a 50-41 lead. Tucker picked up his fourth personal foul with 2:29 to go in the period and was relegated to the bench.

McGuire took a big pass from freshman Cory Reitz, who is playing some good basketball for the Cats, and stuck it in. A free throw by Chad Justice made it 51-43 and the Blackcats crawled back into the game on two three pointers by Crisp and Reitz. The two treys made it 51-49 with 12 seconds to go in the period. Bowling basket at the horn gave Shelby Valley a 53-49 lead.

McGuire scored for Prestonsburg following a Shelby Valley turnover at the start of the fourth period to pull within two, 53-51. Johnson hit on a layup and was fouled to put the Wildcats out by four, 55-51. He missed the free throw and Clark canned a trey from top of the circle for a 55-54 game.

Mitch Harris hit an awkward jump shot and Bowling followed to give the Wildcats a 59-54 lead. McGuire, on another great pass from Reitz, scored underneath to make it 59-56. Shelby Valley scored the next seven points to go up 66-56 and Prestonsburg began taking some bad shots at the hoop. Trailing 68-60, Clark drove the base line and scored, but the basket was disallowed because of a questionable charging call. Prestonsburg could get no closer than 72-65 on a tip in by McGuire, losing for the seventh time this season.

For Prestonsburg, McGuire was the leading scorer with 20 points. Tucker finished with 18 and both Crisp and Clark added 12 each.

Harris had 16 points for Shelby Valley and Jeremy Johnson netted 18.

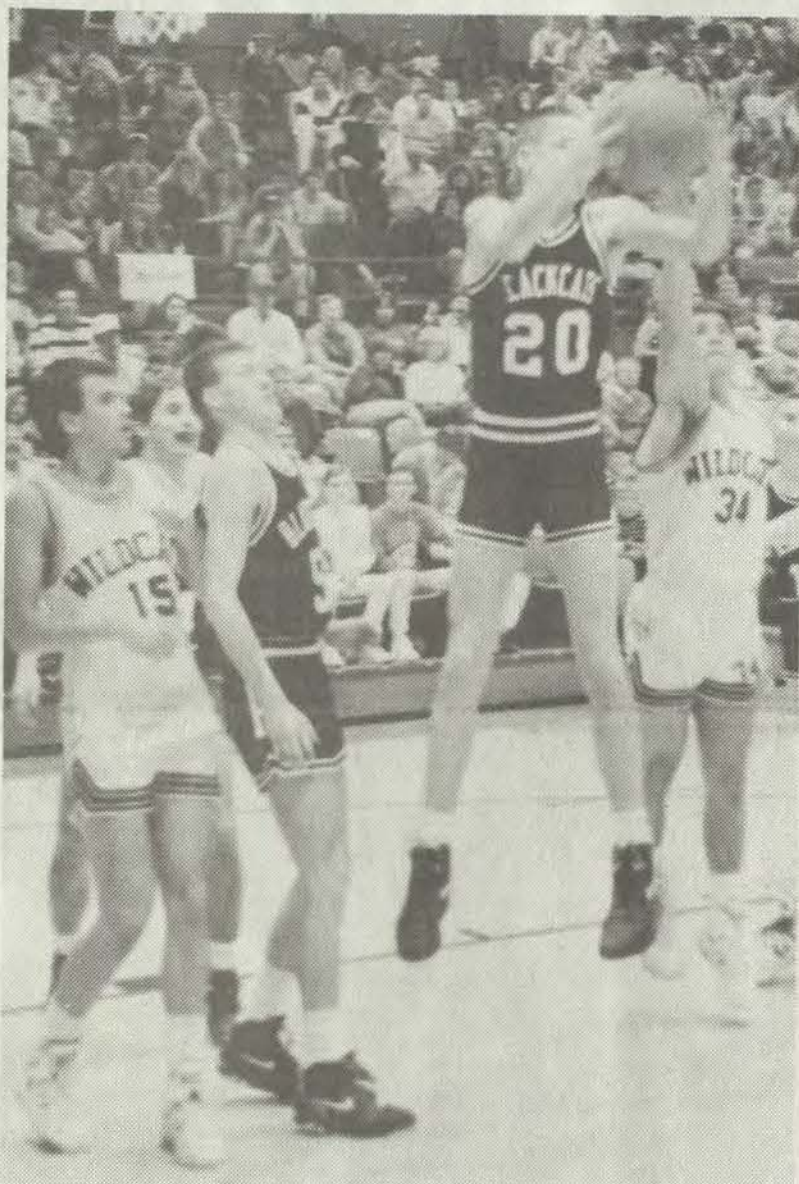

The Blackcats (1-7) will be back in action Friday night as they host the Wheelwright Trojans in a conference game.

BLACKCAT SPORTS ALERT

Prestonsburg head basketball coach Gordon Parido has announced that the games scheduled for this weekend for the Blackcat basketball team is in error. The games are incorrectly listed and should be reversed.

Friday night, the Blackcats will host Dilce Combs with the junior varsity game starting at 6 p.m. and the varsity game around 7:30 p.m. On Saturday night, the Blackcats will travel to Knott County Central with the junior varsity game beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity game around 8 p.m.

Coach Parido said that all Blackcat fans should make the appropriate change on their schedule.

Also, the game with Wheelwright that, according to the schedule, was to have been played this past Tuesday night has been rescheduled for February 16 at Prestonsburg.

NEW SIZE LIMITS ON BASS AND CRAPPIE

The arrival of the new year means new size limits on bass and crappie at several of Kentucky's major lakes.

A 15-inch minimum size limit on largemouth and smallmouth will take effect January 1, 1991, at Fishtrap, Paintsville, Buckhorn and Carr Fork lakes.

Yatesville Lake, which begins impoundment next spring, will also be under the 15-inch minimum size limit for largemouth and smallmouth bass.

Also effective January 1, 1991, there will be a 10-inch minimum size limit on crappie at Kentucky and Barkley lakes.

The changes in minimum size limits are aimed at improving fishing opportunities, according to Pete Pfeiffer. "Most sport fishermen don't care that much about keeping fish, they'd rather enjoy the thrill of catching a number of nice fish."

The number of anglers in Kentucky continues to grow steadily each year. The number of places to fish doesn't.

"Fishing pressure is tremendous at most of our major lakes, and anglers are realizing that as a resource, these fish are too valuable to catch only one time," Pfeiffer continued. "The fishermen we're talking to understand the need to better manage the resources we have. The concept of catch-and-release has really caught on."

The new limits on largemouth and smallmouth bass will provide anglers improved opportunities to catch (and release!) greater numbers of "nice" sized fish in the 12 to 15 inch range.

Pfeiffer says increasing size limits provides a cost efficient means of fulfilling anglers' expectations.

"Anglers are getting what they say they want, through our use of a fisheries management technique (increased minimum size limits) which really doesn't cost us anything," says Pfeiffer.

Similarly, the 10 inch minimum crappie size limit is intended to improve the historically outstanding Western Kentucky crappie fisheries. Extreme fishing pressure in recent years, coupled with poor reproduction in the mid-80s have had a negative affect on crappie numbers at both Kentucky and Barkley lakes.

Several other major lakes also have limits which vary from the standard statewide limits. Anglers should check specific regulations for the particular lake where they plan to fish. The current Kentucky Fishing Digest is available at most locations where hunting and fishing licenses are sold. Copies can also be obtained by contacting the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601. Phone (502) 564-4336.

WINTER FISHING - DON'T PASS IT UP

The winter months can provide excellent, though often overlooked fishing opportunities in Kentucky.

"People often think fish quit feeding when the water gets cold, and that's not true," according to Ted Crowell, assistant director of the Division of Fisheries for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "The fish slow down and feeding patterns change, but they have to eat in December and January just as they do in April and May."

Fish don't feed as frequently during winter months because their activity is slowed — which also slows their rate of energy burn.

Crowell says the only limiting factors to winter fishing are weather conditions and the fisherman's desire to brave the elements. "Winter doesn't impact fish, as much as it impacts fishermen," said Crowell.

"Black bass, striped bass, crappie — they feed all winter, just not as actively as they do in warm weather," he continued. "Fishing's not dead in the winter months, by any means."

Crowell, an avid bass angler, says he's caught lots of quality fish in December and January when other fishermen have put away their gear until spring. The key, he said, is adjusting to changes in fish behavior.

"When the water gets real cold, fish become lethargic — they're much more sluggish," said Crowell. "They won't aggressively chase a bait, but they'll hit a bait that's presented properly."

Winter anglers also have to adjust to deeper depths for fishing. Fish which are found 5-10 feet deep in the spring will probably be 20-25 feet deep in winter.

Crowell's advice to winter anglers? Slow down and fish deeper. For black bass, he recommends a jig and pig combination or any other lure which can be worked slowly. A deep running crankbait also can work well.

Effective times of day for productive fishing aren't as big a factor in winter. Whereas spring and summer fishing success is greatest in the early morning, late afternoon and evening hours, Crowell estimates that in cold weather most fish are caught between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Places where you're likely to find fish remain fairly consistent throughout the year. Structure (or cover) which holds certain species in spring and summer will likely hold fish in winter.

Smallmouth bass fishing can range from good to excellent during those winter months when water temperatures are in the mid 40s to low 50s. The deeper lakes like Cumberland and Dale Hollow provide excellent smallmouth opportunities. Carr Fork Lake in Eastern Kentucky also offers good winter smallmouth fishing.

Lake Cumberland is famous as a winter striped bass fishery. The big stripers (or rockfish) are much more tolerant of cold water than any other species. Stripers are a deep water species in the first place — they're perfectly at home in 20-30 feet of water — and again, cold water doesn't bother them a bit. Just as in spring and summer, locate the shad and you'll find the stripers. When the weather gets cold, stripers get hot!

Though Kentucky's springtime crappie "runs" are famous the world over, crappie fishing is enjoyed by many all year long. The crisp, clear days of late January and February can produce excellent crappie fishing. The same tips might apply as for black bass — fish deeper and slower. Lay the bait in front of the fish and give him plenty of time to react. Remember, crappie will probably not "chase" anything this time of year. Remember too, the same cover which holds crappie in the spring, will likely hold crappie in winter.

Crowell says lots of big crappie are caught at major lakes in January and February when no one is on the water except local folks.

And don't forget trout. Like the stripers, trout flourish in cold water. During the winter months, trout can often be found in fairly shallow water and are frequently taken by trolling imitation minnows 2-5 feet deep. A trout fishing trip to a deep water trout lake like Laurel or Paintsville can be surprisingly productive.

An important factor to consider when planning a winter fishing trip is personal comfort. Remember, layered clothing provides greatest warmth. And most important — stay dry!

If weather conditions are threatening, stay home, build a fire, do the minor maintenance work on your gear you've been putting off for months — and wait for a better day.

87 YEARS YOUNG... AND STILL GROWING WITH OUR NEW JENKINS, KY BRANCH!

87 YEARS YOUNG...

In the Beginning.. About the turn of this century, two young men from Virginia named Hurst and Persinger followed the development of the railroad construction through the rich southern West Virginia coalfields.

1904.. Hurst and Persinger opened a small hardware store. Hurst Hardware, in Williamson, West Virginia. It later became Persinger Hardware and Furniture, and then Persinger Supply Company. The company grew and expanded its service to the business and industrial community of southern Appalachia.

1964.. Persinger Supply Company opened a branch in Kenova, West Virginia to serve the Tri-State area of Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia.

1971.. Persinger Supply Company opened its second branch in Salem, Virginia to service its growing business in southwestern Virginia.

1980.. Following the devastating flood of 1977 in Williamson, the company established its modern headquarters and distribution center at Prichard, West Virginia in Wayne County, and moved the Kenova operation there.

1986.. Persinger Supply Company adopted an Employee Stock Ownership Plan, which now owns over 50% of the outstanding stock.

1989.. In July Persinger Supply Company opened the Charleston, West Virginia branch. It serves central and northern West Virginia business and industrial customers.

...AND STILL GROWING!

1991.. January marks the opening of our Jenkins, Kentucky branch located three miles north of Jenkins on U.S. Route 119 & 23, across the highway from Adams Rock Quarry. (In the building that formerly housed Marathon Industries). The Jenkins branch will serve business and industrial customers located in the surrounding counties of Kentucky and southwestern Virginia with the same dedication to quality products and dependable service that has been our hallmark for 87 years.

From the left, JIM BATES of Jenkins, warehouse supervisor; JAMES NORRIS of Pikeville, inside sales & buyer; NEAL GREENE of Jenkins, delivery driver; RICK TANKERSLEY of Jenkins, branch manager.

Reds open camp Feb 21

With Basketball In Full Swing, Baseball Is Not Far Behind

It seems that we just completed a good World Series where the Cincinnati Reds swept the Oakland A's in four games to win the World Championship from the overrated A's. Now we are in the middle of the high school, college and pro basketball seasons and we are already talking about and looking forward to baseball season once again.

For the many Cincinnati Reds fans in the area, the Reds will officially open their 1991 Spring Training program on February 21 at their new training complex — Plant City.

The Reds will play 31 spring training games this spring beginning March 8 against the Kansas City Royals at Plant City. In fact, the Reds first three Grape Fruit League games will be at home. Houston and the Chicago White Sox will follow Kansas City into town on March 9 and 10.

The home schedule includes two games each against Kansas City, Houston, Philadelphia, Boston and Detroit plus one game each with Los Angeles, Montreal, the New York Mets, St. Louis Cardinals and the White Sox.

The Reds have scheduled one night game for Plant City on Tuesday, April 2 against the American Eastern Division champions, Boston Red Sox. Game time for each of the 14 day games is at 1:05 p.m.

The 31-game schedule will be played in 31 days which will include split squad home and road games on March 22 and an open date on March 25.

Although the Reds' pitchers and catchers are to report to Plant City on February 21, the rest of the squad will not be in camp until Tuesday, February 26.

Ticket information for the Reds' 1991 spring training games may be obtained by sending a stamped, self addressed legal size envelope to Cincinnati Reds' Spring Training Tickets, 100 Riverfront Stadium, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. The Reds' Plant City ticket office will open on February 25.

Annual Effort

A Christmas tree might seem like a thing of beauty and a joy forever when it's first installed in a house — but once the holiday is over and the symbol has served its purpose, few things give a housewife more satisfaction than seeing the decorations put away and furniture returned to its normal setting.

It's a little like getting the dishes washed after a big meal or the newspapers discarded after we've worked the crossword puzzle. It's strange that something that seemed so appropriate the day before Christmas could, just one day after, be compared to wearing an overcoat in July. On a long list of "things to do", getting the tree put out of the house becomes a priority.

I wasn't always this anxious to get things done, so maybe it's a tendency that comes with the years. My mother-in-law, who is a bit older than me, didn't put up a tree this year, but she did decorate her windows, mantle and tables with red velvet, candles and greenery.

As she was putting these away a few days ago, she said, "I don't think I'll put up decorations next year. I've decided not to get anything else out that has to be put away again."

But, of course, the Spirit of Christmas moves us in a very special way and, so long as we're able, I predict that we'll be creating clutter that we have to clean up again — and putting on a few pounds that we'll be trying to take off.

It's just that it becomes a little more difficult each year.

Learning to Share

Linda Gies, who is director of Psychiatric Services at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, is married to Tom Gies, a professor at Prestonsburg Community College.

Linda and Tom have made some adjustments in their sharing of house-keeping duties, but she tells of a time when they were newlyweds and living in Maine.

With Christmas approaching, Linda reminded Tom they needed to get a tree. He didn't do it right away, so she went out and bought a live fir. She even gathered up the desired ornaments for decoration. Her selection was beautiful and brightened their home as only a sparkling Christmas tree can do.

But then came the time when the holiday was over and the tree no longer needed — or even wanted. Linda expected Tom to remove it, for certainly she had done her part in bringing it in.

Tom wasn't of the same mind. He seemed to think that she brought it in and she could take it out again.

Christmas had passed, then New Year's Day. When Valentine's Day came, the tree still stood in its corner of their big living room as it did later in the month on Washington's Birthday.

The neighbors could see the tree through a window and it became a joke in their neighborhood. Surprisingly, the needles held intact as it stood all by itself.

Finally, as Easter approached, they decided the tree ought to come down and maybe they could both work at it.

It wasn't as easy as it looked — with the first hand that touched it, every needle fell to the floor in one big "swoosh." After the skeleton was carried out, the needles had to be scooped into garbage bags.

Tom and Linda have long since left Maine, but they still have friends there — and they know that the property is still regarded as "the house with the Christmas tree."

Kim's Korner

The age "10" sure isn't what it used to be. So, I'm 20 years past it, but that doesn't mean I have forgotten it.

Maybe a few aspects of this age are somewhat foggy, but, for the most part, it's there precariously clinging to the back of my mind.

Now that my oldest daughter has reached this ripe old age, her responsibilities have grown also.

What I'm finding so troublesome is the attitude.

Wait a minute! I recall this attitude, but I believe it entered my body at age 13, which was to be expected.

Heck, I've always heard children go through stages, two of which parents dread most — "The Terrible Twos and Terrible Teens."

So, why is 10 bringing this attitude to our household?

Once my husband and I decided that 10 years old is old enough to begin washing dishes, this child became irate.

She spent the entire task crying crocodile tears into the sink and onto the dishes, which is probably why our food and drinks have that added salty taste.

Another request that we, as parents, insisted upon was that our 10-year-old was to behave better toward her younger sister.

G-R-O-S-S! How sickening! How could we do this to her?

This poor little girl — her sister is not only a pest and a tom-boy, but the mere sight of her enrages the eldest.

The simple fact that they're in the same room at the same time would bring Hussein to his knees, begging to get out of the danger zone.

Sometimes, I feel my neighbors are rushing to Wal-Mart to buy ear plugs from the high-pitched screams that rends the air when these two fight.

A few months ago, I thought I'd put an end to this controversy by making them hug, and tell one another they love each other.

Now when I try this tactic, the slightest movement of my eyes into the opposite direction, or one of the other will throw a punch Muhammad Ali would duck.

I'm telling you, at times I feel like a referee with laryngitis.

After a conversation with my mother, she began to scold me for my oldest daughter's extra chore of dirty dishes. "Kim," she said, "you never washed a dish till after graduation, and then you placed them oh, so perfectly into the dishwasher."

I kept disagreeing with her, especially on the age when I began this particular responsibility. And you know, for the life of me, this is one memory that's extremely foggy.

Maybe this is one of those childhood memories I choose to block. Who knows? Maybe my oldest daughter and I should take turns doing our worst household chore (dirty dishes). Next year for Christmas, we may both ask Santa for a dishwasher.

Are you one of those people who hate talking to answering machines? So was I until I received one of these devices as a Christmas present.

Before going back to work after the holidays, I pushed the appropriate buttons on my answering machine so that I wouldn't miss a call while I was away from home.

At the end of the day, I couldn't wait to get home to see if I had any messages.

After entering the house, I went straight to check my machine. The little red light was shimmering; ah-ha, I did indeed have a message or two.

I hurried to rewind the tape so that I could hear the voice or voices telling me to return their calls.

I pushed the play button. The first message was for my oldest daughter. "How sweet," I said. Then I heard another beep and a second voice issued another message for my 10-year-old daughter.

Another beep. Oops, whoever this third caller was didn't like answering machines — no message. As the tape went on, 10 out of 12 calls were for my daughter.

"Wow," I said, "my very first answering machine and my 10-year-old gets all the calls."

As the week went on, I continued to push the appropriate buttons, so we would be sure to receive our messages and return calls to those we missed.

There was just one problem — it seems that the majority of people who phone our residence either have no idea that this is our number, or they hate talking to a machine so bad they just hang up.

I never realized how annoying these beeps could be until the past few days, when I have come home, turned on my machine, and listened to all these beeps and dial tones.

It would be so nice to hear a voice every now and then.

I can tell you one thing — from now on if I ever dial a number and get a recorded message telling me to leave my name and number at the sound of the tone, you can rest assured I will. Till next week...

Adventure on the High Rocks :

Mounds and rock shelters provide clues to past

by Barbara P. Martin

In a study of High Rocks, at Eastern and Northern Kentucky, I found I was dealing with the age of man, particularly the Paleo-Indian, or the man who worked with oldest stone tools. He invented them. Man records that time period as 12,000 BC to 7,000 BC.

Plow points have been found at Eastern and on Prater Fork of Brush Creek where strip mining has been done. The plows have been identified by archaeologists as Stone Age tools from the last Ice Age, because someone was interested enough to take the finds and ask them what they were.

Plows mean agricultural activities were being done. It is believed that earliest Paleo-Indian (10,000 BC) did not farm; therefore, to correctly place the time of use would be around 8,000 BC. In dating tools, it appears that the more clumsy the tool in appearance, the older it is.

In Eastern Kentucky, agricultural work has been done by most every household until recent times. We raised our gardens, saved seeds for next years planting, and improved our yields by introducing new kinds, which were brought in or some say "fetched on", and by supplementing the soil with fertilizers. We did not begin to do these things ourselves, but it was a practice handed down to us by our parents, who received from theirs, right on back through history.

We were truly an agricultural people until the introduction of the shoe factory, sewing factory, etc. whichever our congressmen and other statesmen could procure for us.

A new way of life came to us. We now share in the Industrial Revolution with others. But to do this, should we give up our historical past before it has been studied?

We ought to give credit where credit is due - credit deserved by the Paleo-Indian/Archaic Indian, who tamed the hills, with its herds of wildlife, and worked the land, without previous knowledge being handed down to them.

Let me tell you their story as I learned it. It came from the ground in archaeology digs. They dug, they found, they interpreted their findings.

Cultural periods, or stages overlap, but the following periods have been used for my studies: Paleo-Indians, 12,000 BC - 7,000 BC; Archaic Indian 7,000 - 1500 BC; Early Woodland (Adena) 1500 BC - 100 B; Middle Woodland (Hopewell) 100 AD - 500 AD; Late Woodland (Cole) 500 AD - 1,000 AD; Late Prehistoric (Fort Ancient) 1,000 AD - 1650 AD; and Historic Indian (written history) 1650 AD - 1800 AD.

Complex studies have been done in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana, and Tennessee. We are surrounded by evidences of early man.

The C and O Mounds at Paintsville in Johnson County are among the studied and reported vestiges of the past. If early man existed in Johnson County, then common sense tells us that he existed in Floyd County. It is time to initiate a search.

I began my study with the Hocking Valley reports, where early man's presence is obvious. This data was taken from studies done in southern Ohio. The lithic (stone) materials available in Hocking Valley were of utmost importance to determine the cultural age. The aborigines (earliest Indians) made the tools to assist in the usage of the many plants and animals found in their area. Their ability to use what food on hand, depended upon the presence of proper stone materials.

Flint and chert (pronounced shirt) was by far the greatest stone materials furnished by nature. This material was used for arrowheads. It is a type of stone which may be found in natural deposits as thick as four feet.

Archaeologists have been able to study the finds in a given area and set the probable spread time of a specific tool from one village outward. It has been found that the average length of time for a new item to spread is 10 years per 10 miles, in a circle around the place of origin.

It is quite surprising to me that the patterns used for tools and materials were specific for a certain place. Much interaction was done by early Indians on the North and South American Continents.

Most of our early Kentucky and Tennessee information is credited to the work of W.S. Webb and William D. Funkhouser, working from the University of Kentucky and TVA (Tennessee Valley Authority). These individuals learned that the ideal homes for primitive people were provided by rocky overhangs and ledges, caves or other natural formations. Our High Rocks at Eastern must hide lots of information on the early history of man.

Webb estimated that man entered the state of Kentucky sometime prior to 5,000 BC. He believed that they existed in nomadic bands, who though few in number, roamed the state over, searching for huge game animals such as bison.

The Adena culture, which is present at Paintsville, Webb believed to have originated in Ohio. The Adena were present in Kentucky from 800 BC - 800 AD. Their culture is characterized by large burial mounds erected in north, central and eastern Kentucky during that period. The earlier presence of Paleo-Indians/Archaic Indians would be established if we could find authentic remains here.

Identical sets of formations exist near Mt. Sterling called the Wright Mounds. One similar to Bunker's Knob was dug in 1935 by William Webb and the WPA crew. Other undug mounds are similar in structure to some of our dirt formations which I suspect are mounds also.

At a lecture during UK's Archaeological weekend in Lexington, I showed one of the professors a drawn impression of an old arrowhead which was found on the top of Bunker's Knob. He said that it was probably from 5,000 to 7,000 years old.

The remaining section of the knob and the High Rocks need to be officially dug for artifacts. Since bone and muscle materials rarely remain from the past, not enough refuse has been found to compare with the places where remains have been found.

Mysteries of the Archaic Period were revealed in the study by William S. Webb, director of the WPA salvage. He called his findings, the Shell Mound Complex. Webb tells that many shells were found of creatures which had been caught and consumed by the Indians as food or for tools and ornaments.

Webb investigated cultural change in Kentucky, Tennessee, and New York in the 1930s and 1940s. The term Archaic was not introduced by him, but by Ritchie in 1932, who was also doing complex studies at that time.

Webb and Funkhouser conducted a statewide survey for 12 years. During the summer of 1931, they visited 68 counties, investigating reports. Covering several thousand miles, they found 1,255 separate prehistoric sites in Kentucky. They photographed and recorded them alphabetically.

Unfortunately Floyd County does not fall into this list, but does it not tell us that it is only because they did not investigate here?

At one site, they report several types of finds on the ground surface, called surface finds. After reading this list, I am sure that Kentucky is rich with evidence.

One single summer yielded 667 earth mounds, 21 shell mounds, 38 earth works used for fortifications (protection), 163 camps and sites of ancient villages, 170 cemeteries, 108 rock shelters, 57 cave homes, seven springs and salt licks, seven workshops and quarries, nine caches where they had placed items needed later, and three pictographs drawn by people of that day.

Many rockshelters in the Ohio-Kentucky region have been excavated by both amateur and professional archaeologists who discovered that a major shift in environmental adaptation occurred between 8000 BC - 1000 BC.

Big game hunting was replaced by hunting and gathering. By the end of the Archaic period (1500 BC) seed fruit gathering techniques appeared so well performed that we can label their work as true horticulture, or the growing of plants for the use of man.

These plants might be for food or decoration. Along with the development of food raising came the need for containers to keep it in. Thus, came the invention of pottery and

1991- According to my Mason jar

Hot dog and a bottle of pop! This week's National Enquirer has its 1991 predictions — by "ten leading psychics." Take it from me, they're dandies.

For example, the lady who supposedly predicted the eruption of Mt. St. Helens says that the US government will fess up to having been contacted by aliens after a UFO attempts to communicate with a NASA space shuttle.

Another lady has predicted that Imelda Marcos and Tammy Faye Bakker will team up to open a chain of clothing and shoe boutiques, while Michael Jackson will give a bunch of money to medical research in an attempt to have himself cloned before he dies. (Doesn't she know about Diana Ross?)

One of my favorite predictions is the prediction by a Chicago seer who says that Vanna White will marry Randy Travis "...after he writes her a love song." (I guess they'll exchange vowels.)

There are dozens more. If nothing else, these things are fun. So much so, in fact, that I thought I'd make a few predictions myself.

As far as I know, I don't have a drop of gypsy blood running through my veins, and I'm 100 percent sure I don't own a crystal ball. I did turn a Mason jar upside down the other day, though, and managed to come up with many startling revelations. Now keep in mind, I'm not a professional or anything, but I suspect my psychic experiences are just as valid as anybody's. So, ready or not, here's what my Mason jar says will happen in 1991.

— There will be a definite movement all across the nation to reject another Bush-Quayle ticket. I guess the bottom of the jar was a tad dirty, because I couldn't make out who'd run with Quayle next time.

— Roseanne Barr will not be asked to sing the National Anthem at the Big Four Classic in December. She may, however, be asked to sing "My Old Kentucky Home" at the opening of the special session of the General Assembly later this month in Frankfort. The threat that she might sing it every day of the session could result in the shortest session in Kentucky history.

— The Cincinnati Reds will not repeat as world champions of baseball. The good news is that the Dodgers won't win either.

— Many of the county schools across the state will get an unscheduled day's vacation later this month. This won't be because of bad weather, either. It seems that scientists are saying that there will be a lunar eclipse very early on Jan. 30. Of course, this won't pose any sort of physical threat, like the predicted earthquake did last month. However, since so many students will be staying up all night to watch it, absenteeism will be so high the next day that the schools will have to close. Of course, that's because the schools' funds are based on attendance.

— Lawmakers will not change the way schools are funded.

— Katie Couric will replace Deborah Norville who replaced Jane Pauley on NBC's Today Show.

— No one will give a hoot.

— Mike Tyson will win back the heavyweight boxing crown that he'd never have lost in the first place if his sparring partner hadn't divorced him.

— "The Godfather Part III" will win a bunch of Oscars, or else.

Oh well, what if I never make the National Enquirer. At least I've had fun. Hope you have, too.

Nelson announced that the club would sponsor a rummage sale on April 1. Lida Howard reported that the open house held shortly before Christmas at the club's Arts and Crafts House and the Senior Citizens Center, in cooperation with the local Tourism Commission, was a success. She said both locations were attractively decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. Approximately 75 children received gifts, which were furnished by the Tourism Commission and presented to the children by Santa Claus. She also said that the appropriate refreshments were served to all those in attendance.

A highly spirited "White Elephant" sale was conducted during Thursday night's meeting. Maxine Bierman served as auctioneer. Items were brought and bought by club members. Proceeds are earmarked for use by one of the club's many local civic projects.

Members were asked to list volunteer hours given by them, and to submit these to President McGuire at their earliest possible convenience.

Serving as hostesses were Drema Miller, Nancy Martin, Mable Brown, Florence Music and Rebecca Rasnick.

Dessert was served to members and guests: Linda McGuire, Kathy Lowe, Earlene Nelson, Sue Martin, Elizabeth Ramey, Dorothy Harris, Phyllis Herrick, Shirley Callihan, Lucy Regan, Mabel Donahoe, Jane Wallace, Roberta Sloan, Ruby Lamping, Maxine Bierman, Lida Howard, Burieta Gearhart and Garnett Fairchild.

The next meeting will be Thursday evening, Feb. 7, at the same location, with the executive board meeting to be held at 7 p.m. and the regular meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Devotional leader will be Sarah Gobie; program leader will be Maxine Bierman.

The title of the program will be "Mended Hearts," with speakers to be members of the Big Sandy Chapter No. 220, Mended Hearts, Inc.

Hostesses for this event will be Orella McGuire, Shirley Callihan, Judy Burchell, Boots Adams, Dorothy Stover and Jane Wallace.

Adah Chapter to meet

Billie Murdock, noble grand of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, announces that the next meeting of this group will be Monday, Jan. 14, at 7 p.m. at the lodge hall.

"Granny" Smiley visits relatives

On November 16, J.S. Thompson arrived in Prestonsburg to accompany Otela Smiley, his mother-in-law, to his and Mrs. Thompson's home, where his two small daughters greeted "Granny" Smiley with glee.

Thanksgiving Day, many of the Smiley clan gathered at Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Smiley's home in Versailles for a covered dish dinner. Granny Smiley said she enjoyed being with her two grandsons, Brad and Keith. Dr. Judy Smiley also flew in from Texas to be with the family.

On December 21, Mrs. Dean Snor of Waddy and Mrs. J.S. Thompson of Lexington with Brittany and Dinah Elizabeth Thompson arrived in Prestonsburg to accompany their mother, Otela Smiley to Lexington where Dinah Smiley came to take Mrs. Smiley to her (Dinah's) home in Louisville for Christmas.

Again, there was a goodly gathering of the Smiley's, also bearing covered dishes.

On the 26th of December, Dinah Smiley, Delores Cook and Otela Smiley drove over into Indiana to spend the day with Delores Cook's family. They returned to Prestonsburg December 27.

Pre-Christmas visit

Dr. and Mrs. John Hereford and son, John Robert Hereford, of Kingsport, Tenn. were here for a pre-Christmas visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford and other relatives and friends.

Salisburys spend holidays with family

First United Methodist shares Epiphany with OLW newborns

The First United Methodist Church of Prestonsburg celebrated the week of Epiphany Jan. 1-6 by donating sleepers to the babies born at Our Lady of the Way Hospital during this time.

The week of Epiphany is a recognition of when the Divine was made known to the Gentiles. The First United Methodist Church began its formal recognition last year by establishing the Epiphany Fund. The 1989

Epiphany fund was sent to the miners in West Virginia to help support their cause and families.

The Epiphany Fund is part of a three year project of the Children's Church at First United Methodist. The goal of the project is to make an immediate connection between sharing, caring and loving for those in need and the children of the church. The money is collected throughout the year by the children.

Lackey club holds meeting

The GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its Christmas dinner on Monday evening, Dec. 17, at the May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, with Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, chief of the Pike County Health Department, Pikeville, as guest speaker.

Dr. Fox gave an informative and witty talk on "Life After Oat Bran." On the serious side, she read passages from the King James version of the Bible describing old age, explaining its various aspects. She concluded by urging her listeners to keep themselves physically healthy by proper diet and exercise and spiritually healthy by keeping in touch with the Lord.

Jo Ann Hall, club president, welcomed the members and guests, followed by devotions by Marsella Bradley and prayer by Don Hughes. La Faye Hughes led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Following the dinner, Marsella Bradley read the Christmas story from the Gospel of Luke. Libby Martin read "A Christmas Eve Dream" from her newly published book, "Libby's Verses," and, by request, read two other poems entitled "An Open Letter from Santa" and "Another Letter from Santa."

The club president presented a copy of "Libby's Verses" to Dr. Fox, after which gifts were exchanged among the members and their guests.

Those present were Louise West, Elizabeth Duff, Blanche Bamer, Don and La Faye Hughes, Jo Ann Hall, Marsella Bradley, Jimmy and Loretta Martin, Maxine Martin, Libby Martin and Dr. Fox.

Cabbage Patch

By Marie Harmon

Tomatoes are the queen of my garden, as any and all readers of this column surely know by now. I never really realized just how many tomatoes my family used until the two years that our tomato crop (along with most other vegetables) failed.

About two years ago, no one's tomatoes ripened. Most of the crops rotted in the green stage. Why? I have still have no idea. It couldn't have been the lack of sunshine. We did have a lot of rainy weather, but that's normal, really.

For years, I have grown Romas for eating, canning and making tomato juice and sauces. This year, I tried Chicos along with the Romas. The Chico and the Roma are the same type — they even look and taste the same. The only difference is that the Chicos will stay on the vine until fully ripe, while the Romas will not. They drop off and ripen on the ground.

I do like a few large (dinner plate size) to eat and at least one or two yellow plants. I am the only one in the family who really likes to eat the yellow ones. I do not like them canned or juiced as they are too thin and watery.

I believe I use tomatoes at least 300 out of 365 days each year. I begin before they start to turn and fry them. After all the fresh ones are gone, then we start on the juice, sauces and canned ones to tide us over until the next crop comes in.

I grow my own plants from seed. I have been stung too many times by buying one kind and actually getting something else when it's too late to do anything about it.

For early tomatoes to eat, set out a few before danger of frost is over and cover them each night, even if you don't think it will frost. The chilly night air will damage them to some degree. For early tomatoes, never mulch. Mulch holds back the ripening time for as much as two weeks.

After my tomato plants are set out in the garden, they are more or less on their own. I do not stake or prune them. This saves work and it gives me more tomatoes, as well. If you stake them, then you have to prune them; and if you cut off the limbs or branches, you cut off the tomatoes!

I save my own tomato seeds as I do most of my other vegetables. I saved only a few for large tomatoes and about half a dozen yellow seed this past year. I put them in an old medicine bottle and set them on a cabinet shelf. I forgot them and, thinking the bottle was empty, I discarded them.

No more diets!

The excess of the holiday season is finally coming to an end, and at the top of many lists of New Year's resolutions was the single word "DIET!"

Dieting as a means of weight loss has come to be associated with the latest craze—whether it be a liquid diet, a grapefruit diet, or whatever. Most people find, however, that magic diet schemes sooner or later fail, and their weight creeps back up.

What is overweight? What is obesity?

If a man or woman is 10 percent above the desirable weight, he or she is overweight. If a man weighs 20 percent or more above his desirable weight, he is considered obese. A woman who is 25 percent above her desirable weight, is also considered obese.

To find out if you're 25 percent over your ideal weight, check out the chart provided by the Floyd County Extension service. Find your ideal weight and multiply by .25 -- oh no!

Maybe, it is time to do something about those extra pounds, but this year, change the word "diet" to two simple words: "EAT RIGHT!" Eating right means consuming a balanced and varied diet of nutritious foods in moderation.

The American Institute for Cancer

Research has some dietary guidelines that lowers cancer risk and provides a sound basis for eating right:

Reduce intake of total dietary fat from the current average of approximately 37 percent to a level of no more than 30 percent of total calories—in particular, reduce the intake of saturated fat.

Increase consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grains. When purchasing frozen fruits, select ones packed without sugar. Choose canned fruits packed in their natural juices or light syrup, rather than heavy syrup, which has more sugar and is higher in calories. Many of these products are labeled "lite." Avoid purchasing the more costly products found in a special diet section of the grocery store.

Consume salt-cured, salt-pickled and smoked foods only in moderation.

The National Academy of Sciences also recommends that individuals reduce their intake of cholesterol to less than 300 mg per day; maintain protein intake at moderate levels; balance food intake and physical activity to maintain appropriate body weight; limit total daily salt intake to 6 grams (2400 mg of sodium) or less; maintain adequate calcium intake; avoid dietary supplements in excess of the RDA in any one day; and maintain an optimal intake of fluoride.

Eating right is not a diet, but rather a commitment to a new way of living. Such a change in lifestyle does not come overnight, and should be implemented gradually over the next few months.

For some good ideas on losing weight in a healthy manner, get a free copy of the booklet "Get Fit, Trim Down," by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. TD., Washington, D.C. 20069.

Recipe For Losing Weight

Take motivation—your own strong reasons for losing weight. Add knowledge—about good nutrition. Mix with self-discipline. Season with a dash of extra physical activity.

The last ingredient, exercise, is very important, for it burns up calories and takes away flabbiness. Don't believe the familiar excuse that exercise stimulates the appetite and tends to be self-defeating. It is a myth. A brisk 30-minute walk every day can take off 10 pounds a year—or keep you from putting on 10 pounds.

This recipe is short and seems easy to follow, but losing pounds and keeping from putting them right back on again are actually difficult and complex undertakings.

Baked fish on a bed of garden vegetables

8 oz. fillets (fresh or frozen, thawed)
2 medium carrots, sliced thin
1 small onion, chopped
2 celery stalks, sliced
1 medium potato, sliced very thin
1 tsp. minced parsley (or 3/4 tsp. dried)
1 tsp. margarine
Dash of pepper, paprika, lemon juice

Wash the fish and pat dry with a paper towel; set aside. Arrange the vegetables and parsley in a dish. Dot with margarine and cover. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Add the fish to the baking dish; sprinkle lightly with pepper, lemon juice, and paprika. Bake for another 8-10 minutes (or until fish flakes easily with a fork).

Yield: 2 servings; fat: 6-7 grams each; calories: 305-330, depending on type of fish used.

Layered vegetable cheese casserole

4 slices whole grain bread, quartered
4 cups broccoli florets and stem pieces, fresh or 1 20-oz. bag frozen.
1 medium onion, chopped
4 oz. mushrooms, sliced
3/4 cup lowfat cottage cheese
4 oz. part-skim mozzarella, sliced
2 eggs
2 cups skim milk
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1-2 dashes hot pepper sauce (opt.)
Lightly oil a 1 1/2 quart casserole (or 8" square pan). Place half of the bread pieces in a layer on the bottom. Add the vegetables on top of the bread. Spread the cottage cheese over the vegetables, then top with mozzarella slices (overlapping if necessary) on top.

Mix the eggs, milk, mustard and hot pepper sauce in a medium bowl. Dip the remaining bread pieces into the egg mixture and add as a top layer of the casserole. Pour the remaining egg mixture over the casserole. Bake at 350° for 35-40 minutes, or until a knife inserted into the center comes out clean. Cover, if necessary, to avoid excessive browning. Let stand a few minutes before cutting to serve.

Yield: 4 servings; fat: 10 grams each serving; calories: 260 each serving.
