Discussions vary in marathon board session :

Probe request gets lost in the shuffle

by Scott Perry

Despite a five-hour marathon session, Floyd County's Board of Education failed Wednesday to launch an anticipated attack on a controversial new high school when a motion to probe the issue got lost in the shuffle and the noise.

Though the board took no definiitive action Wednesday on the high school issue, the matter continued to stir interest in Frankfort, and the controversy could become the topic of a special board meeting.

Since August, development of the proposed new Prestonsburg High School at Middle Creek has drawn debate, criticism and support, and the issue has been credited for sweeping long-time board chairman Dr. James D. Adams from office.

Adams' replacement on the board, Eddie Billips, who campaigned for the seat by opposing the relocation of the Prestonsburg High School, was sworn in Wednesday, and he was expected to call for an independent investigation of the high school project.

Five hours after the meeting began, the issue remained largely unresolved, and two calls for independent probes lay dead, the victims of "confusion."

One motion, offered by newly elected board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell, called for an independent probe of the high school controversy, but Campbell's motion received no second.

A similar recommendation was made by Billips, but no action was taken by the board.

A dazed Billips said after the Wednesday board meeting that he had not heard Campbell's motion calling for an investigation, and that was the reason the motion received no second.

During the back-and-forth discussion between board member James Duff and Billips concerning the validity of the site preparation contract, Campbell made the motion to hire independent legal counsel to conduct an investigation into the entire project.

Other board members, listening to Billips and Duff exchange opinions, either failed to hear the motion or opted not to act.

Board attorney Bill Francis was asked repeatedly by Billips if the proper bidding procedures had been followed. Francis answered, "I don't know, I wasn't there," and the bids were handled by the project's architect, Randall Burchett. "I assume Mr. Burchett handled it correctly," Francis said.

Billips contended the contract had been awarded in violation of state regulations which prohibit bids from being changed or altered after they are submitted. Billips claimed the contract awarded to C & W Equipment Company did not meet bid

To serve regional medical needs :

Floyd to get vets' clinic

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Veterans from Eastern Kentucky and parts of West Virginia who used to travel to Huntington or Lexington in order to receive medical attention at VA clinics and hospitals will soon find services available closer to home.

Veterans Administration officials announced Wednesday a Veterans Outreach Clinic will be located in Floyd County, said VFW Chaplain Ray Brackett, representing Walter Karr Bolling Post 5839 VFW in Prestonsburg.

VA assistant staff director Gary Grant, Dr. Thomas Poskitt, chief of ambulatory care for the VA Medical Center in Huntington, and Peggy Martin, contract officer, met Wednesday in Prestonsburg with county and city officials, Chamber of Commerce representatives and VFW members to discuss the clinic and look at available facilities.

The regional clinic will offer outpatient medical services; diagnostic screening; transportation to and from the Huntington VA Hospital; and back-up services through local medical centers. It will be staffed with doctors, nurses, and other medical personnel. The administration hopes to employ local people in those positions.

A search is underway to find a building with 1,800-2,500 square feet of floor space and minimum of 25 parking places, Brackett said. The location of the clinic will be determined by public bidding.

Approximately 20,000 veterans in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Letcher, Perry, Harlan, Knott, Pike, Morgan, Lawrence, Lee, Owsley and Breathitt counties are expected to be served by the clinic, Brackett said.

The local VFW Post has made an offer to the Veterans' Administration to use of the Prestonsburg VFW building at Lancer as a temporary clinic while a permanent facilities is located.

No official opening date has been set for the clinic, but Dave Whalen, spokesman for Congressman Chris Perkins, said July 1, 1991 was given as a "reasonable" date to begin services.

"It's in the very early stages," Whalen said. "The biggest aspects of the clinic right now are: personnel, identifying equipment and getting a location."

Martin said no official "go ahead" has been given by the Washington office of the VA, but she expects approval soon for placing advertisements for space for the clinic.

Holiday arrests down :

Designated drivers draw sheriff's praise

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said this week that the number of accidents and arrests in alcohol related cases during the holidays were reduced by the use of designated drivers.

"It was a real nice, easy going holiday season," said Thompson. "There were some arrests of course, but the majority of people stopped by our officers had a designated driver."

Thompson said that the "D-Day" (a large scale police crackdown on drunken drivers across the state of Kentucky) efforts made by local and state police had reinforced the idea that drunken driving would not be tolerated, but he was still surprised by the number of people who had taken measures to prevent drunken driving.

Firefighters from the Betsy Layne and Tolers Creek volunteer fire departments responded to a blaze at the home of Frank and Lottie Yates at Big Branch of Little Mud Creek Thursday afternoon. According to witnesses at the scene, the blaze actually claimed two homes, the second belonging to the Yates. Both homes were completely destroyed by the fire and the cause of the blaze is unknown at this time. (Photo by Tim Preston)

For commercial truckers :

New rules for the road ahead

by Tim B. Preston
Staff Writer

At one time a truck driver had only to pay an extra fee at the clerk's office to legally operate his vehicle. By April 1, 1992 those days will be gone forever.

While many truck drivers have already taken steps to obtain new federally mandated commercial driver's licensing, others are just beginning to understand the process.

"It is a new thing," said Kentucky State Police Trooper Jim Stephens. "It isn't something to be afraid of, but they (truck drivers) have to study for it."

The CDL (Commercial Drivers License) requirements result from federal legislation in 1986 which set standards for truck drivers in all 50 states. In Kentucky, all truck and bus drivers must complete CDL testing before the April 1, 1992 cutoff date.

Stephens said actual CDL testing will be different for experienced drivers and beginners.

"With drivers who have at least two years on the road experience the road test will be waived," Stephens said. "Those drivers will be 'grandfathered' into the program, which basically means that their experience will be considered. They have a definite advantage because they have not only been on the road, but they have a working knowledge of the mechanics of their trucks."

To qualify for "grandfathering", a truck or bus driver must have a two-year driving record with no more

Former Martin Postmaster takes over Paintsville office

Former Martin Postmaster Leslie C. Nelson was sworn in Monday as the new postmaster for the Paintsville office of the U.S. Postal Service.

Nelson was sworn in by Lexington Postmaster Jim Jones during ceremonies at the Paintsville office. During the ceremony, Jones said that Nelson, "has done a tremendous job," for the postal service during his career.

Nelson, who replaces retired Paintsville Postmaster Tom King, has worked throughout the area during his career. Nelson has worked for the postal service for 16 years.

For Betsy Layne :

Saturday classes are suggested

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Saturday classes and a security guard at the front gate, could curb the fighting and discipline problems at Betsy Layne High School, said Superintendent Ron Hager at Wednesday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

Mary Conn, speaking on behalf of Betsy Layne parents, told board members Wednesday the lack of discipline; sale and use of drugs at the school; and weapons on campus made for a poor environment for learning and present a danger to students and faculty at Betsy Layne High School.

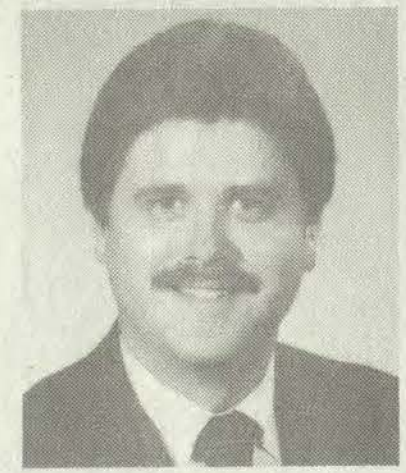

"We were told you were responsible, Mr. Hager, for what happens at our school," Conn said. "And we expect you to take care of it. I have copies of letters from parents informing you of those problems, Mr. Hager. I have petitions with over 200 parents' names who will take further action to control this situation if it is not corrected."

Hager told Conn students who are disrupting classes should be removed from the school and placed in an environment where they can be helped. He suggested holding classes on Saturdays and after-school detention as a "behavioral modification" process to help tame unruly students.

"When one student interferes with the education of other students, those students are being robbed," Hager said. "We expect teachers to handle their classroom situations and if it they can't, take it to the principal and if it's serious enough, take the proper disciplinary action."

"I believe implementing an after-school detention (program) and holding Saturday classes would be effective in this situation," Hager said.

Greg Stumbo

Stumbo gets new term as House Leader

State Representative Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg was reelected by Democratic legislators this week as House Majority Leader for the Kentucky General Assembly.

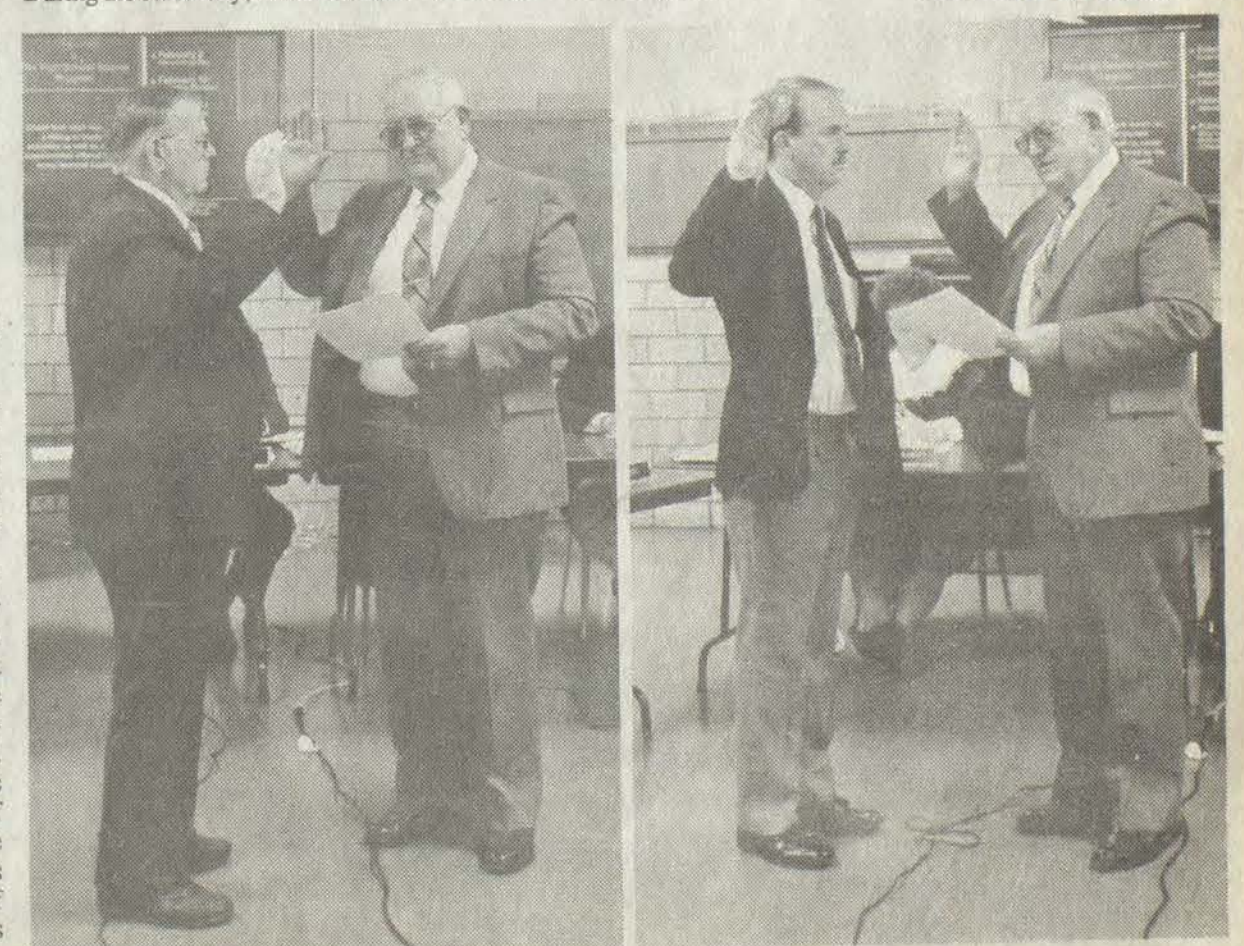

"It's obviously a great honor," Stumbo said Thursday. "I'm told that if I finish serving out this term that I will have held the position longer than anyone in state history." Stumbo has served as Majority Leader of the House of Representatives since 1985.

Stumbo also said the position was the realization of a long time dream.

"In 1963, or close to it, I acted as the Speaker of the House with the Kentucky Youth Assembly," Stumbo said. "Twenty-some years later I'm here in real life as the Majority Leader. If you would have asked me back then what job I would like to have in Frankfort, other than governor, I would have said House Majority Leader. I fell in love with the house floor way back then, I like the give and take of it."

Stumbo is busy in Frankfort this week with his duties as house leader, as final committee assignments and recommendations and preliminary organizational sessions are completed and preparations are made for an upcoming special session of the General Assembly.

"You can see the results in the mountains over the last 10 to 15 years," said Stumbo. "What you are starting to see is that our area and our delegation's efforts are starting to emerge in bricks and mortar. It is nice to see progress and know that you had a little something to do with that."

than one serious moving traffic violation (excessive speeding, reckless driving); no license suspensions, cancellations or revocations; no convictions for driving under the influence in any type of vehicle; and no more than one driver's license or other disqualifying offense.

The CDL testing procedure is a comprehensive test of a driver's knowledge of road safety, physical condition, skid control and recovery, weight and balance of the vehicle and accident procedures. Specific testing for knowledge of air brake systems and hazardous cargo will also be applied for drivers of those vehicles.

Stephens said that the CDL program will serve to boost worker pride in the trucking industry.

"After completing CDL, they will be professional drivers, not just truckers," he said.

The officer added that drivers of passenger vehicles would likely see a change in truck drivers' courtesy after the CDL program is in effect.

"You won't be seeing trucks passing on hills and, in general, the drivers will be more courteous and safety oriented," he said.

There are three basic types of commercial licenses for truck and bus drivers: Class "A", Class "B" and Class "C". Class "A" licenses will be issued to drivers of any combination vehicles with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of 26,001 pounds or more, if the GVWR of the vehicles being towed is more than 10,000 pounds. Class "B" licenses will be issued to drivers of any straight truck with two or more axles and a GVWR of 26,001 pounds or more. Class "B" will apply to any vehicle or combination of vehicles with two or more axles and a GVWR of 26,001 pounds or more if the GVWR of the vehicles being towed is less than 10,000 pounds. Class "B" licenses will also be issued to bus drivers and any other driver of a vehicle designed to transport 16 or more passengers (including driver) if the GVWR is 26,001 pounds or more.

Class "C" licenses will also be issued to bus drivers, or anyone driving a vehicle transporting 16 or more people with a GVWR of less than 26,001 pounds. Drivers of any vehicle with a GVWR of less than 26,001 pounds transporting hazardous materials for which placarding is required also require a Class "C" license.

Operators of farm trucks used within 150 miles of the farm, fire equipment and emergency vehicle drivers, military and recreational vehicle operators are exempt from CDL requirements.

Truck drivers in the Floyd County area seem to support the CDL concept. David Clifton Jr. of Prestonsburg said that he liked the idea of stricter licensing for truck drivers and added, "what they really need is a breathalyzer test before they get in the truck."

Another truck driver, who asked that his name not be used, said that several truckers would be forced off the road by the testing procedure.

"A lot of these guys can't read, or can't read very well," he said. "They aren't about to embarrass themselves by going down to take a big test. They are good drivers, but there is no way they can get through that test."

To arrange for testing, drivers should first obtain a copy of the Kentucky Commercial Driver License Manual at the Floyd County Circuit Court Clerk's office. After studying the manual and obtaining all required documents, drivers can call 432-0233 to set an appointment for testing. The fee for an expert CDL (two or more years driving experience) driver is $62, non-expert CDL's will cost $75. CDL testing in this area is conducted by Trooper Jim Stephens and Trooper Danny Stumbo.

Betsy Layne

"We need to do the proper thing to help those students excel and help them become productive citizens."

Hager said a security guard would be at the school Monday, posted at the front gate to the school keep unauthorized persons off campus. He also suggested assistant principals be hired at Betsy Layne, Allen Central High School and Prestonsburg High School. The board took no action on the recommendation.

Others citizens who spoke at the meeting included Dolores Smith; Jean Rosenberg of the Floyd County Education Forum; Bud Reynolds, Floyd County Education Association president; and Carol McGlothlin, Martin parent representative.

Reynolds said teachers would no longer suffer for their political beliefs and political associations.

"At the December meeting Mr.

Hager, you said it was the end of an era," Reynolds said. "I hope you are absolutely correct. This is the dawn of a new day in the Floyd County school system. No longer will teachers be ignored or insulted. Mr. Hager, under the new reform act, you have more power and added responsibility. No longer will a select group make decisions affecting our schools."

"No longer will deals be made at the expense of the children," Reynolds said. "Eddie (Billips), I hope your promise of meetings with teachers and parents will begin soon and I hope the other board members will follow your example. We want to propel into the 90s with a bang."

Smith delivered a similar message to the board.

"I'm here to tell you how I feel," Smith began. "No longer can we afford to make excuses. It is our job to educate our children. We can have a system that works."

"Never again do I want someone hired, fired, moved or promoted due to political favoritism," Smith said. "I want someone hired, fired, moved or promoted based on performance. It's a big job and I'm willing to help you with it. I expect you to not only want my help but to actively solicit it. I'm not afraid of you and neither should you be afraid of me. We must all work together. And I believe the people of this county care and are willing to help."

Rosenberg voiced the forum's goals of sharing information about the school system between the two groups and the citizens of Floyd County. She also asked that matters voted on in meetings be explained in more detail so the audience could understand what action was being taken. She also asked for a public gathering of the board and citizens, outside the formality of board meeting, to discuss needs of the schools.

McGlothlin expressed appreciation on behalf of the Martin parents about improvements made at the school and asked for cooperation in achieving more goals set by parents at Martin school.

Field slim as deadline nears

by Tim B. Preston

In spite of the fact that candidates have only 18 days left to file for various state and local offices, only six candidates have officially filed for election.

In the race for the highest seat in state government, that of governor, only Democrat Scotty Baesler has officially declared his intention to run.

In the race for Attorney General, Democrat John Lackey is the only name on official forms.

In other statewide races only two candidates have filed. Barry Drew Barnmore has filed for candidacy in the state Agriculture Commissioner's race, while Mary Ray Oaken remains the only candidate for State Treasurer.

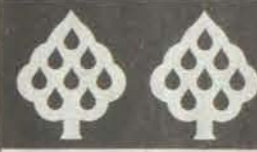

In the race for Seventh District Court of Appeals, incumbent Janet Stumbo will seek election in the first division, while Harris S. Howard of Prestonsburg will seek the post in the second division.

At the state level, no names have been filed in the race for 31st Circuit Court Judge, however Paul Burchett of Prestonsburg has filed with the Floyd County Court Clerk's office and must now file his intentions with the Secretary of State of Kentucky.

Also, District Judge Harold Stumbo is reportedly considering running for the position.

Potential candidates have until January 29, 1991, to officially file for the various offices.

Knowing what action to take during flash flooding could save your life

In the wake of this past week's heavy rains and flash flooding, the Kentucky Division of Water offers suggestions on how to deal with future flood warnings.

With flash floods, time is so short and danger is so great, people must know in advance what immediate actions they will take to save lives. Before the possibility of a flood, know how high your property is in relation to nearby streams and other waterways. If you are in an area that may receive excess water during heavy rainfall, decide what you will do and where you will go in a flash flood emergency.

Heavy rainfall, even for short periods, may be followed by flash flooding in mountain or hilly areas. When you go into any of these areas:

- * Use your maps. Know where you are and whether you are on low ground. Know where the high ground is and how to get there. Keep in mind, though, that you don't have to be at the bottom of a hill to be a target for flash flood dangers. Water runs off the higher elevations very rapidly.
- * Stay away from natural stream-beds and other drainage channels during and after rainstorms.

- * Never camp on low ground. A flash flood can catch you while you sleep.

- * A flash-flood watch is an advisory that heavy rains may result in flash flooding in the specified area. If one is issued by the National Weather Service for your area:

- * Listen to area radio and TV stations for National Weather Service warnings and reports.

- * Recall your plans for such an emergency and prepare to move out of danger's way.

- * If you are on a road, watch for flooding at dips, bridges, and low areas.

- * A flash-flood warning advises that flash flooding is occurring or is imminent in the specified areas. If a flash-flood warning is issued for your area:

- * Act quickly; you may have only minutes.

- * Do not attempt to cross a flowing stream on foot if water is above your knees.

- * If you are driving, don't try to go through any water of unknown depth. If your car stalls in rising water, abandon it immediately and seek higher ground; many deaths have been caused when people tried to move their stalled cars.

- * Be especially careful at night, when flood dangers are harder to recognize.

- * Stay tuned to area radio or TV for additional information or changing conditions.

- * After the flash-flood watch or warning is canceled, continue to stay tuned to the radio or TV for follow-up information.

Love your lenses

Itching, swelling, redness and blurred vision are irritants that often plague individuals who use extended-wear contact lenses.

The National Safety Council suggests avoiding flare-ups by cleaning the lenses regularly and by never wearing them for more than a week at a time. Give your eyes a day or so to rest in-between wearings.

specifications advertised for the site preparation.

Billips made a motion to rescind that bid saying it failed to conform to state guidelines. The motion failed for either lack of a second or failure to be heard over the discussion.

The validity of the deed to the Middle Creek site was also raised by Billips and he asked the board to halt all work on the project until a legal determination was made.

Duff continually told Billips the deed was approved by the state Department of Education and, therefore, there were apparently no problems with the deed.

"It was approved by John Brock and Mike Luscher (state director of building and grounds)," Duff said. "Everything this board has done has been approved by Frankfort."

Officials in Frankfort and Floyd County's State Representative have expressed concern about the deed and the way the project has been handled.

Representative Greg Stumbo said Thursday from Frankfort, he had talked with Education Commission Thomas Boysen about the Floyd County controversy and he was setting up a meeting between Boysen and Billips to discuss the issue.

"I feel that meeting will probably take place next week," Stumbo said. "I've talked to Dr. Boysen and Dr. (Penney) Sanders about it and they are both going to take a closer look at the situation." Sanders is director of the state's Office of Educational Accountability.

Stumbo also alluded to the possibility of an investigation by the Attorney General's office and that the matter could be brought up before a Floyd County Grand Jury.

Phil Miller, a spokesman for the Attorney General's office, said investigators had visited the area investigating the Prestonsburg High School project. Miller said the investigation is not "active" at this time.

Stumbo said he had talked with Mike Luscher in late December about the deed's validity.

"Mike Luscher told me the title opinion to the property was questionable," Stumbo said. "The question was raised if the deed was fee simple."

Calls to Luscher were not returned. Steve Yater, assistant counsel for the state, discussed the project with Stumbo.

"Steve Yater looked me up and we had a pretty nice discussion about the situation," Stumbo said. "He's pretty interested in it. We have some pretty decent people down here (in the education department) who want to do what's right for the children now that the shackles are off since Brock left office." Brock's authority was diminished January 1, when Boysen became education commissioner.

Gary Bale, associate superintendent of legal services for the state Department of Education, agreed that questions were raised when the title opinion, submitted last spring, for the property was submitted by Francis to the state department.

"Questions were raised but they didn't pertain to the coal on the property," Bale said. "It was more of a technical problem. I don't know if those were ironed out or not (before the purchase of the site was approved). I've never seen the deed. I wasn't aware the coal was given away until recently."

As part of the purchase agreement, rights to any coal uncovered during the excavation of the site were retained by the grantor, David May.

Final approval on the Prestonsburg High School project was given to the board of education by Luscher, Bale said. "Mike Luscher gave the official go ahead to buy the property."

In other action Wednesday by the board:

- Board meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month at a different high school in the county. The next meeting will be held at Betsy Layne High School.

- A copy of the complete agenda will be on public display at the central office. Board members will receive a copy of the complete agenda at least six days prior to the board meeting.

- Bids were received for food service contracts.

- Approval was given to purchase a 1983 Ford truck from Wright Lumber for $3,500 for the maintenance department.

- Channel One, a 12-minute newscast for students, was approved to begin in eligible grades 6-12.

- Approved the 1990-91 budget in the amount of over $26 million.

- Agreed to pay deficits at Osborne and Martin elementaries.

Action on a $1.5 million TLC (Teaching and Learning with Computers) package was tabled after financial and installation questions could not be answered by administrative personnel. Finance officer

Russell Frazier said he did not know if the board could bear the financial burden of the purchase. Frankie Francis, director of buildings and grounds, said electrical problems currently existed in the older school buildings and that a substantial amount of work would be needed in order to install the computers.

Ray "Shag" Campbell was elected as chairman of the board of education and Tommy Boyd will serve as vice chairman. All board members attended Wednesday's meeting.

Other business and personnel actions will be published Wednesday.

Coal company says UMWA info is in error

"United Mine Workers representative Howard Green has been providing the media with information about Blair Mountain and one of our company's mining projects that is just plain wrong," Richard Zigmond, a representative of Aracoma Coal Company, said Friday during a press conference in Charleston.

Zigmond said the facts are that Aracoma Coal Company is proposing a mining project in a location that does not disturb the historic sites. "This is a project that will provide hundreds of jobs for West Virginia coal miners."

Zigmond told reporters that mining in the Blair Mountain area has been taking place since the 1920s. "To our knowledge, there had been no effort by the UMW to preserve the historical area until Aracoma's plans were unveiled."

Maps and three books documenting the history of events that took place on Blair Mountain were used by Zigmond to show where the Aracoma property is in relation to where the battles were fought. The Aracoma property is adjacent to Blair Mountain.

"The history of Blair Mountain is a record of West Virginia's past that should not be distorted today," Zigmond said.

Tax-aid volunteer training workshop

Sponsored by IRS and AARP Chapter No. 3528 Floyd County, tax volunteer training classes were conducted for three days at the Floyd County Library.

The daily sessions covered all phases of 1990 income tax returns, both federal and state. Harmison and Eva Allen Hale were the instructors for the federal training and Lynn Stone from the Pikeville office, was the instructor for the state training.

Earnest Hayes, coordinator for the Big Sandy area for the Tax Aid Program, along with his associate coordinators, Arnold Moore and Arthur Haywood, handled the arrangements and details of the training session.

Those who attended the training session and who will be working at the site at the Floyd County Library are as follows: Chester Patton, Oliver Allen, Jimmy Goble, Brad Warrix, Chalmer Frazier, Everett Dotson and Burieta Gayheart.

The tax assistance program, which is free to the elderly and low-income, will begin February 5 and continue through April 12. Assistance will be available Tuesday and Friday of each week from 9 a.m.-until 3 p.m.

Help available to "desert shield" guard, reservists

Assistance in resolving employment and personal problems to guard and reserve members activated for "Desert Shield" comes quickly from the Kentucky Committee for Employee Support of the guard and reserve, says State Chairman Edward F. Hessel, Jr.

Hessel says the Committee is fielding an average of 50 calls a week statewide.

The Committee, a Department of Defense sponsored organization, is made up of volunteers whose duty is to smooth the differences that may arise between an employer and his citizen soldier employee.

"A reservist/guardsman has an obligation to keep his or her employer completely informed of active duty requirements and time tables. By the same token, the employer has a moral and legal obligation to facilitate the employee's compliance with military requirements," Hessel added.

If a problem arises, the employer should contact the unit of assignment to which the employee belongs. If that fails to clear the problem, he should contact Hessel at (502) 459-1690 or national headquarters at 1-800-336-4590.

Forty-four percent of the nation's defense is made up by the reserve and National Guard forces.

(Editors note: The following article was written on December 19, but was not received at the Times until January 8.)

As of this writing there are four shopping days left until Christmas. That's one thing I don't have to worry about doing much of this year. I'm not sure if that's a blessing or not. It's amazing that I even miss something I hated so much when I had to do it. I do have a few Christmas presents waiting under my little tree for me to open and we are in the process of planning some sort of small celebration. I think I know what my presents are though—toilet paper, chapstick, food items, shampoo...that sort of thing.

It's funny, I got my first duty injury today. I sprained my wrist trying to operate a staple gun (I've always known those things were dangerous). The doctor said I should be on my feet again in 72 hours (just kidding). It does make typing rather difficult, however. I guess I should just be grateful that I don't have to write this in longhand.

We are in our hard site now. Pretty nice. I have a small room to myself, sort of. I'm always having to turn people out of it because there is a stereo system in here. No more Walkman for me. There is a swimming pool here, too; my room is in the poolhouse. There's no water in the pool. As a matter of fact, three other females are sleeping in it. Once we get the owner of the house moved out and the ladies moved into their room, we might fill it. It's safer that way.

The only bad thing is that we may not be staying here for very long. There is a possibility that we may be moving again to be closer to our commanding unit. I'm really getting tired of moving, but the new site is supposed to be nicer, within a compound with other troops, stores and fast food restaurants and such. It is also farther from the front which means we should be safer from missile attacks. Of course, we never feel really safe because you never know what is going to happen.

We are also catching wind that Congress is going to, or has, passed a law allowing Reserve troops to stay in this country a full year. I've been debating how I feel about that. My brother told me two days ago that he finally closed down my apartment; I have no place to live when I come home.

I've already heard of one staff change at the paper and I'm sure there will be more before I get back. Within a year, there may not be anybody there I know. Trying to catch up with all that has happened over a year's time will also be rather difficult.

The only thing left for me to come home to in Kentucky is my friends, most of whom will probably have moved away too, if they make good on their threats. All the changes are mind boggling.

I'm really starting to miss home now for the first time. I guess it's because this is the longest I've been away from it. Or rather, it has the possibility of being the longest I've ever been away from it. I was at Officer's Basic Course in Arizona for six months, but at least then I was able to fly home for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Something that happened last night made me realize that I would also miss the people here if we were sent home. The other lieutenant in the unit, 1Lt Brett Stewart, came to my room and told me that all those who had volunteered were going to be sent home now that their 90 days were up. He was one of those volunteers. He said he would be leaving in the morning. I didn't believe him at first, but he kept insisting and I had already heard that it was a possibility anyway.

I realized then how much I would miss Brett if he left. He's been my one true friend. I guess that's because we were able to establish a friendship, being the same rank, without people hollering "fraternization."

As it turned out, he was only pulling my leg. "Keeping me on my toes," he said. He says I'm too gullible and he needs to train me to be otherwise. Isn't that nice of him. I, for one, wish he would quit.

That's one other thing that will make it hard staying here a year: I am bound to make some tight friendships and then have to say goodbye. I hate saying goodbye, because I've found out from past experience that you never see those people again. That's one of the reasons I didn't want to go active duty. I didn't want to have to reestablish my life and, consequently, my friendships every three years when I switched duty stations.

I guess I have a lot of decisions to make in my life — something I've avoided like the plague in the past. Do I come back to Prestonsburg and try to catch up on everything I've missed—virtually start over again—or do I take this opportunity to start my life over back in Ohio from where I came?

My grandmother would love to see me take the second option. She wants me to come home and has been bugging me for two years now to do just that. She has even offered, in a letter, to come to Kentucky with a U-haul and take my possessions back home with her so all I have to do is come to her house when I get back. Also, Lt. Stewart's dad said he could fix me up with a job near Fairmont, W. Va. if I wanted it.

It's really too much to think about right now, but it is nice to have choices in my life. Something I don't have much of at the present moment and realize how important they are. Until next time...

Send in the clowns

by Scott Perry

If we didn't know better, we'd think Kentucky House Speaker Don Blandford was auditioning for a job as a stand up comedian.

Witness Blandford's remarks Wednesday concerning a return of additional coal severance tax revenues to coal counties...

"We can't commit that money at this time," Blandford was quoted. "There would be nothing to it but pure politics."

And here's the punchline....

"I don't like the General Assembly being used in that manner."

Hahahahahahahahaha.

Hey Don, was that a fake arrow running through your head or a real one?

Hahahahahahahahaha.

Seriously (snicker) though, Blandford (tee hee) doesn't want the General Assembly "used" for issues he considers purely political (ho ho). That's why Blandford and company put so much effort into blackballing state legislators who voted against last year's Big Tax and Gooder Education bills. And that's why the Do-Bees who supported that tax and school laws got all the Party favors (get it?).

Kentucky's General Assembly, says Donny, is no place to play politics.

Hahahahahahahahaha. What a riot.

Blandford's even got a straight man in his act, House Whip Kenny Rapier, of Bardstown.

"It (the coal tax issue) should not be on the special session call," said Rapier. "It would be purely political."

"Hey Ken, what do you think about a higher tax on all that famous Kentucky bourbon made in Bardstown by all those happily employed Nelson Countians to pay for enforcement of tougher drunken driving legislation that is likely to come out of the (non-political?) special session this month?"

Hahahahahahahahaha.

We can't wait for the sequel to this routine....

That'll be the legislative session when the General Assembly prohibits "pure politics" from influencing the redistricting of Kentucky's Congressional Districts.

Hahahahahahahahaha.

In the Floyd County Times, you wrote about two people — one was Ray Brackett and the other was Lois Bond. Ray said he wanted to thank Chris Perkins and Wendell Ford for the help that was done for the Veteran's Medical Center. Lois was mad about people refusing to give for the cats and dogs. What she should do is ask people to help with the Floyd County food supply for the hungry people in the county.

I notice she didn't say anything bad about Reagan. I wonder if she knew who sold war supplies to Iran and Iraq. Now, our troops are in Operation Desert Shield facing the army and getting hit and killed with what the United States made and sold to them.

Why doesn't Lois go back to England and cry on Margaret Thatcher's shoulder? Did Lois do anything for Floyd County? Was she greatly distressed and left Kentucky?

A long time ago, we imported 40 percent of our oil — now we import 60 percent. Are our young people's lives worth more than oil?

I pray for the one of your staff over there and for our service people. At one time I had two sons and a son-in-law in the Vietnam War.

Now that Congress is back in session our elected officials can pick up where they left off before the holidays. Luckily for them, though, they can now do whatever they were doing at a much greater cost to the taxpayer. A U.S. representative's salary increased from about $85,000 annually to a paltry $124,000 annually. What a disgrace! It shows the voter where the true greed in this country originates.

It is disheartening to realize how unimportant the business of this country is to congressmen who only look for ways to survive each election. There was no great clamor to check the administration's policy in the Gulf prior to the November elections. No, it was too important to insure self-survival, even if at the expense of fellow citizens. Also, the Christmas recess is no place to continue the business of government, although many men, women and families were torn apart during this important season.

Where are the politicians who were courting veterans just a few months ago to "do everything in their power" to help veterans?

There is little reason to believe the 102d Congress will do anything different to return representative government to the people, particularly in light of their failure to enact the Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) for disabled veterans prior to their recess. "...the COLA for service connected disabled veterans is not indexed to the Consumer Price Index (CPI), (so) Congress must pass separate legislation each year to ensure that veterans receive a COLA.

The action ($2,100) "died" although approved by the Huse. In a parliamentary "tap-dance" that only bureaucrats understand, disabled veterans have been denied a simple increase in their benefits afforded to all others groups of beneficiaries, many who have sacrificed much less to keep this nation strong.

This inaction should revile any decent citizen who has a friend, relative, or neighbor who relies on this earned benefit. What Congress has done is ignore a sizable constituency, while continuing to feather their own nest.

Where are the politicians who were courting veterans just a few months ago to "do everything in their power" to help veterans?

Veterans have been a trusting group of people up until now. They have accepted promises from their Congressmen too long without demanding accountability and responsibility. The Congressmen know Kentucky has a disproportionate number of veterans and eastern Kentucky's share is higher still, yet promises is what we have settled for quietly.

The messages in this disgraceful episode are clear.

1. The best indicator of future performance is past performance.
2. Voters get just what they vote for.
3. If disabled veterans get this treatment, which group is next?

In closing, it is interesting to note there has been no great clamor or outrage, as a matter of fact, NONE during the recess to correct this inequity IMMEDIATELY! There has only been a promise to address it "early" in the next session and make the COLA retroactive.

I wonder if Congress would have accepted having their vulgar pay raise delayed and approved only when the people they represent were satisfied with their performance on domestic issues and the federal deficit?

Big Sandy unemployment rate falls

Mirroring a statewide hike to Kentucky's highest unemployment level since mid-summer, jobless rates climbed in 78 of the state's 120 counties between October and November.

Rates fell in 41 counties, according to the Cabinet for Human Resources monthly labor trends report.

In the Big Sandy region, the unemployment rate fell from a revised 6.4 percent in October to a preliminary 5.8 percent in November. Rates ranged from 5.3 percent in both Floyd and Pike counties to 9.3 percent in Magoffin County.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 35.4 percent had worked in mining, 25.2 percent in trade, 11.8 percent in construction, 8.9 percent in services and 8.1 percent in manufacturing.

October's revised state rate of 4.7 percent rose to a preliminary 5.4 percent in November—Kentucky's highest monthly jobless rate since June's 5.9 percent and above the November 1989 rate of 5.0 percent.

However, the November rate also was the fifth consecutive month Kentucky was below the national rate, which rose from 5.4 percent in October to 5.8 percent in November. Comparable state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted.

Ed Blackwell, the cabinet's chief labor market analyst, said short- and long-term layoffs and seasonal job losses occurred in almost all areas of Kentucky.

"Counties with residents working in the automotive or apparel industries were affected by some temporary layoffs in November, as these businesses tried to reduce their inventories," Blackwell said.

"At the same time, weather-related farm and road and home construction job cuts took place across the state," he said. "And I suspect that public concern about a slowing economy reduced the number of holiday shopping season jobs we normally pick up in November."

Ten counties registered double-digit rates in November, compared to six in October and five in November 1989.

Compared to November 1989, 70 counties held higher unemployment rates this November, while the remaining 50 counties had lower rates than a year ago.

Blackwell said the auto and clothing industries workforce reductions led the manufacturing sector to a drop of 4,500 jobs from October to November.

An estimated 3,000 fewer agricultural workers were needed in tobacco with the opening of burley sales. Approximately 2,000 construction jobs were lost mainly in heavy and general building and special trades such as stone work and heating and air conditioning.

Among November's employment gainers were trade (+2,800), mostly in department and clothing stores; services (+800), boosted by the fall racing meet at Churchill Downs and new business and health-related jobs; and education (+500), probably due to additional seasonal maintenance work in preparing schools for the upcoming winter weather, said Blackwell.

The category that includes self-employed people, domestic employees and people working in family businesses fell by 2,500 workers.

The U.S. Department of Labor's estimate of Kentuckians working in November, based on census surveys, was 1,674,800, compared to the October figure of 1,682,000 and 12,000 higher than the November 1989 report of 1,662,800.

The federal estimate of unemployed Kentuckians was 94,700 in November, up 12,500 from October's 82,200 and 7,200 above the November 1989 figure of 87,500.

Kentucky's civilian labor force estimate for November was 1,769,500, an increase of 5,300 from October's 1,764,200 and 19,200 higher than the November 1989 figure of 1,750,300. The civilian labor force includes non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who actively are seeking work. It does not include the unemployed who have not looked for a job in four weeks.

Consumer credit card group advises: think twice before applying for gold

Millions of consumers are signing up for "gold" bankcards they don't need, and for many, the cards will mean little more than higher rates and fees and more plastic profits for the banks that issue them, according to a national consumer credit watchdog group.

In its "Gold Card Kit" which includes a 16-page "Consumer Guide to Gold Credit Cards," and a list of the best-priced gold cards available, Bankcard Holders of America (BHA), a national non-profit consumer credit education and advocacy organization, advises consumers to think twice before applying for a gold card, because:

Consumers will pay much higher annual fees for most gold cards than for standard cards;

Consumers often can obtain higher credit limits without a gold card;

The benefit enhancements that accompany most gold cards are rarely used by consumers and, in some cases, are available on standard cards or elsewhere for less money;

The prestige appeal of gold cards is fading.

For consumers who do decide they need a gold card, however, the BHA Consumer Guide to Gold Credit Cards offers some tips:

Gold card benefit enhancements are so similar from card to card that consumers usually are better off choosing a card based on rates and fees, not benefits;

Consumers can get the lowest-cost gold cards by comparison-shopping—rates and fees vary from issuer to issuer;

Consumers interested in a particular enhancement should be sure to get the facts about all the limitations that may apply to that benefit.

To help consumers decide whether a gold card is best for them—and, if so, which one—BHA is offering its Consumer Guide To Gold Credit Cards, together with a list of the lowest-cost, best deals on gold cards. The list contains the names, addresses, phone numbers, and application and acceptance requirements for more than 40 banks that issue gold cards at the lowest interest rates or with no annual fees. The list and guide are available for $5 (includes postage and handling) by writing to: BHA, 560 Herndon Pkwy., Suite 120, Herndon, VA 22070.

BHA Director Elgie Holstein explained that gold cardholders are a favorite of the big bankcard issuers, because they tend to charge more on the cards. They are also considered better credit risks since gold card income and application requirements are often more stringent than on standard cards. "Many card issuers push gold cards, usually with steep annual fees, because they bring in big profits with few losses," Holstein said. "So consumers should first be sure they really need a gold card. If they do, they can actually save money by shopping around for the best deals."

"Many consumers apply for gold cards in order to obtain higher lines of credit," explained Holstein, "but what they usually don't realize is that they can save themselves the high annual fees charged for most gold cards simply by asking for a credit limit increase on their current, standard card. If you've been a customer in good standing, most banks will be happy to raise your credit limit." According to Holstein, the annual fees for standard cards range from $0 to $55, and average $17, while gold card annual fees range from $0 to $100 and average $36.

The Consumer Guide also warns consumers that the enhancement packages that card issuers use to entice prospective gold card applicants are rarely used by consumers, and, in many cases, duplicate or cost more than similar services available to consumers elsewhere.

"Fewer than five percent of cardholders actually make use of the enhancements that come with gold cards," Holstein noted. "This means that unless you really think you may someday need one of the benefits, save your money and stick with a standard card." According to the Consumer Guide to Gold Credit Cards, some gold card enhancements, such as emergency cash, are also available on standard cards. Others, such as purchase insurance, may duplicate coverage available under homeowners' and renters' insurance policies.

Many gold card enhancements are identical from card-to-card, according to the BHA Guide. All American Express Gold Cards and Discover Card Private Issue cards (the Sear's Discover version of gold card) carry the same package of enhancements. Visa and MasterCard enhancements, however, may differ from bank to bank. The Visa and MasterCard associations have developed packages of "core" enhancements which are automatically offered to all Visa and MasterCard Gold cardholders. In addition, though, each issuer may add extra enhancements, and is free to "download" gold-card enhancements to their standard card programs, although most issuers choose not to do so.

It is generally inadvisable to pick one gold card over another simply on the basis of enhancements, Holstein explained. "The card issuers watch each other closely, so their enhancements are often similar to one another," he said. "For consumers, figuring out the differences between gold cards based on their enhancements can be confusing because in many cases, the differences are either very slight or non-existent."

In an ancient custom in Samarkand, whichever warrior could hit a gold coin with an arrow could be king for one day.

Consumers:

Precautions can prevent accidents, injuries

As Kentuckians endure the season's first real winter weather, many are using wood stoves and space heaters to stave off high heating bills. Department for Health Services safety officials say consumers should use caution along with the heaters to stave off injuries and deaths caused by such heat sources. Officials offer the following tips for heater safety.

Wood Stoves and Fireplaces—Improper installation and creosote buildup cause most injuries and deaths associated with wood stoves and fireplaces.

—Consumers should always follow manufacturer's instructions for installing wood stoves, especially the directions concerning the surface the stove sets on and its distance from the wall.

—Most wood-heating fires occur in chimneys. Chimneys should be cleaned annually by a qualified chimney sweep to prevent the dangers of creosote, a tar-like residue that can build up in chimneys and catch on fire. Homeowners should regularly inspect chimneys and repair as necessary.

—Trash, charcoal and plastics should never be put into a wood-burning appliance. These items can release pollutants as they burn.

—Install and maintain smoke detectors and keep a fire extinguisher nearby.

—Use a metal bucket with a metal cover to collect ashes.

Kerosene Heaters—The two main dangers associated with kerosene heaters are "flare up" fires and air pollutants.

—Uncontrolled flaming (flare up) can occur with the use of improper or contaminated fuels. Always use 1k kerosene and accept no substitutes.

—Pollutants from kerosene heaters can accumulate and become harmful. To prevent this, set the heater wick at the level recommended by the manufacturer and adequately ventilate the room.

Electric Heaters—These appliances are not meant for extended use; they provide only temporary heat.

—Do not use extension cords with electric heaters.

—Do not use electric heaters near water because of the possibility of electrocution.

Gas Heaters—Besides fire, the major danger from gas heaters is carbon monoxide poisoning.

—If you smell gas from a heater, immediately ventilate the room. Alert the gas company. Never light a gas heater or touch electrical switches if you smell gas.

—Carbon monoxide poisoning can occur if heaters are not properly vented. Symptoms of such poisoning include headaches, dizziness and nausea. Continued exposure to carbon monoxide, which is odorless and colorless, can cause unconsciousness and death.

General Safety Tips

—Keep the children and pets away from space heaters.

—Never use a space heater overnight in the room where you are sleeping.

—Install smoke detectors on all levels of your home and near bedrooms.

—Do not stand close to a heater when wearing a long robe, nightwear or other clothing that could come into contact with the heater. Keep heaters away from upholstered furniture, draperies and other combustible materials.

—Do not use a space heater for a clothes dryer or a foot warmer—doing so can cause fires and burns.

—For more information about space heater safety, contact Terry M. Wescott, Consumer Product Safety Branch manager, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Dispute settled: Blue Cross/Blue Shield agrees to make refund to some policyholders

Commissioner of Insurance Elizabeth P. Wright, Attorney General Frederic J. Cowan, and Blue Cross/Blue Shield announced recently that a settlement has been reached concerning individual health insurance rates imposed by Blue Cross/Blue Shield in May, 1988. The attorney general, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, and Commissioner Wright have agreed that Blue Cross/Blue Shield will make a refund of $1.9 million to about 12,000 policyholders, including approximately 1,100 family policyholders.

These policyholders bought coverage through the Kentucky Farm Bureau or directly from Blue Cross/Blue Shield. Policyholders will receive a refund as long as they were insured during the period of May 15, 1988, through May 15, 1989, regardless of whether they are currently insured by Blue Cross/Blue Shield. Refund checks should be mailed by the end of March, 1991.

The dispute involved individual health insurance rates charged by Blue Cross/Blue Shield from May, 1988, to May, 1989, when a rate increase was combined with full implementation of demographic (or age and sex) rating, resulted in rate increases of up to 80% for older policyholders. The rates were disapproved by the Commissioner of Insurance in September, 1988, as unfair or not in the public interest because, due to pre-existing health conditions, many of the affected policyholders would not be able to obtain coverage from another source.

"This settlement is fair to the public and fair to the Attorney General and Blue Cross/Blue Shield," said Commissioner Wright. "It resolves the allegations that Blue Cross/Blue Shield went too far, too fast in May, 1988, rate increases, but also recognizes that Blue Cross/Blue Shield must receive an adequate premium for its insurance coverage."

"These refunds will provide important relief to older persons holding Blue Cross/Blue Shield individual coverages through Kentucky Farm Bureau and directly from Blue Cross/Blue Shield," said Attorney General Cowan. He also said that he was pleased with the strong position taken by the Commissioner of Insurance throughout the proceedings, and with the cooperation shown by Blue Cross/Blue Shield in negotiating a settlement after the April Supreme Court decision. "I think all parties should be happy with the final settlement," Cowan said.

"This proves that when parties have disagreements, settlements can be reached when channels of communication remain open and the best interests of the general public is always a first priority," said Steve Bow, president and CEO of Blue Cross/Blue Shield. Bow also announced that Blue Cross/Blue Shield has set up a "hotline" to answer policyholder questions about the settlement: 502/425-1324. The "hotline" will begin operating on December 3.

Prepare for cold weather dangers:

Chill wind blows in danger of frostbite

In colder weather, frostbite, a common form of cold injury, will be on the increase. The people most commonly affected by it are those exposed to the cold such as skiers, mountaineers, hunters, snowmobilers, and anyone else who spends time in the cold without being properly dressed.

Precautions against frostbite consist mostly of being prepared for the conditions under which it occurs. Cold weather travelers and sports enthusiasts should carry extra clothes in the car or by pack when going by foot into the back country. They should also dress for comfort and protection rather than style. For example, use several layers of light, loose clothing that will trap air and provide adequate insulation rather than one bulky, heavy or constricting garment. It is also important to avoid getting your extremities wet when the temperature is low, and to avoid using alcohol or other drugs that influence circulation under conditions of low temperatures.

Frostbite occurs when one or more of the following conditions are present:

1. When it is so cold that the loss of large amounts of body heat occurs through conduction. This is worse when the wind is blowing resulting in a chill factor which markedly lowers the effective temperature.
2. When areas of the body become wet.
3. Long periods of inactivity with slow circulation to the extremities.
4. When your circulation is impaired by tight garments such as shoes laced too tightly, socks or gloves.

Under these conditions, frostbite is announced by the skin becoming pink followed by blanching and the occurrence of a stinging pain. These symptoms occur most commonly over the cheeks, nose, fingers or toes. It can be treated very effectively when caught early by the firm, steady pressure of a warm hand against the chilled area or by blowing warm breath on the spot, or holding the nipped fingers against the body or in the armpits for warming. These symptoms and signs should be considered a warning of worse things to come and attention should be paid to getting the extremities into a warmer environment at once.

If the problem is not treated effectively at this stage, the stinging pain turns to a numb sensation in the affected part of the body, and the skin becomes white, waxy, or grayish yellow in appearance. The skin also becomes hard or doughy in texture. It is important to recognize that the onset of numbness in a cold extremity does not mean that the situation is getting better, but is in fact a dangerous sign.

Once you are in a position to treat the frostbitten person, the following steps should be taken to warm the affected area and maintain circulation.

1. Get indoors as quickly as possible or into any shelter protected from the wind and where heat can be conserved.
2. The frozen area should be covered with extra blankets or clothing. This will allow controlled rewarming of the affected part.
3. If no extra material is available, thaw the part by using the patient's body or the body of another by placing the part under an armpit or between the thighs. You can also place warm hands over the affected part.
4. If warm water is available, it should be used with the following precaution. The temperature should be between 100-105 F. If no thermometer is present, use the elbow or hand for testing making sure the temperature is just slightly above body temperature. The limb should be treated for about one half hour until a pink color begins to return.
5. Treat the tissues gently and if the toes or feet are involved, do not allow weight bearing until the person is seen by a physician.
6. Give the person something warm to drink—this should not be alcohol in any form.

There are some very important things which should not be done when treating frostbite:

1. Do not rub the frozen part with snow or anything else. This scientifically unfounded treatment will produce great harm. Frozen skin is very fragile and can be easily damaged.
2. Do not apply heat lamps, heating pads, hot water bottles, or any form of radiant heat. This also means that the affected part should not be placed near a hot stove. These forms of rewarming may do more harm than good.

3. Do not break any blisters that may appear. This could increase the chance of infection.

4. Do not give the patient alcohol or allow him or her to smoke. These measures will work against your efforts. Using alcohol will increase the loss of body heat. Smoking will constrict the frozen blood vessels, slowing body warming.

Remember that frostbite is actually a freezing of the tissues and can result in permanent damage to the involved extremity. This may be in the form of permanent redness or gangrene that requires amputation. Because of these factors, the person involved in the frostbite should always be seen by a physician. Never attempt to treat it by yourself. Treatment given on the trail or at the ski lodge should not be considered adequate. Lastly, please remember that frostbite is better prevented than treated.

A Look At Sports

Dialing The Guys Who Call The Game

Professional sports on television have become a funny business.

Set in front of your television set and watch any National Football League game, National Basketball League game or a National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball game and you're likely to hear more attempts at comedy than you would on a rerun of the "Andy Griffith Show." Along the way in broadcasting of sports, much of the serious art of calling a ball game has been lost.

I make no secret of the fact that I am of the old school when it comes to baseball, basketball and football on television. My all time favorite announcer was Waite Hoyt, who for many years announced the Cincinnati Reds' games. Hoyt had a very good knowledge of the game of baseball and a what you might call "straight ahead delivery of the game." Hoyt had little time for one liners in his duties of announcing games. After listening to him call a baseball game, you came away with a better knowledge of the game of baseball.

The same holds true with Cawood Ledford, the "Voice of the Kentucky Wildcats." Cawood needs no one liners to get folks to listen to him. His straight forward delivery captivates his listeners as he describes the action as though you are right there.

Announcers today have a tendency to be funny. They feel that if they are not humorous no one will listen to them or watch them. My least favorite announcer is Dick Vitale. He is nothing but a comic who will never make it. He wants to be funny, not informative. He does the game of basketball more harm than good.

I always enjoyed Dick Enberg on NCAA basketball. He was a serious sportscaster who always tried to bring out what fans wanted to see or hear. His interviews with coaches and players were always interesting.

Lots of football fans like John Madden. Madden, who teams with Pat Summerall on CBS football telecasts, tries to be too funny. I believe he is the one who inspires other announcers to be comical. Madden can talk more about things that don't apply to what's going on, on the field, than anyone I have ever seen or heard. Where is Howard Cosell? He had no sense of humor but he knew the game of football.

I like the sportscasting team of Tom Hammond and Larry Conley. Both are knowledgeable of the game. Each offer some very interesting observations of the teams playing.

Cable's ESPN has the best football commentary in Chris Berman. He is a smooth talker and knows the game. Berman has a humorous side but it doesn't override his serious side. He knows how to blend the two and make it very interesting. With Berman we can learn and laugh too.

But Waite Hoyt and Jack Moran were my favorite duo. Another sportscaster that used to be popular was Claude Sullivan, who used to do the UK basketball and Cincinnati Red games. Joe Nuxhall got his start under Sullivan. I spent many hours in front of my radio listening to Hoyt and Moran on the Reds games. No one liners on their broadcasts.

Today, I feel like many other Kentucky fans, that no one can touch Cawood.

He's the present day's best. What would Kentucky basketball be without him. Again like everyone else, I turn down the television and listen to Cawood on radio while watching the Cats on TV.

BE WATCHING FOR CONTEST

We have two blue-white Kentucky basketballs, personally autographed by Kentucky basketball coach Rick Pitino, that we are going to give away in a contest we will be conducting. Watch for more details later!

Virgie, Betsy Layne, Martin And Millard Winners In 1st Round

The Second Annual Pikeville College/Rax Junior High School Invitational basketball tournament got underway Wednesday night at the Pikeville College gym with Virgie, Betsy Layne, Martin and Millard coming away winners in the first round.

Virgie edged upset-minded Meade Memorial, 55-49. Betsy Layne swept aside Brushy Creek, 45-38. Martin posted a 50-40 win over Dorton and Millard was a 54-24 winner over Osborne.

BETSY LAYNE VS BRUSHY CREEK

Betsy Layne took the early lead in the 45-38 win over Brushy Creek. Jason Hall got the game started with a bucket and Randy Wallen followed with a short jumper. Jeremy Rogers basket made it 6-0 Betsy Layne.

The Brushy Creek Rockets exploded for the next seven points to take a 7-6 lead. Steven Blackburn accounted for all seven of the Rockets points on two jumpers and a three-point play off of a layup with 5:44 seconds left in the first quarter. The Bobcats took a 9-6 lead at the end of the first period on a basket by Rogers.

Betsy Layne built an insurmountable lead in the second quarter. The lead became six points at 13-7 as Wallen nailed a three-pointer and Ryan Newsome scored on a layup with 5:44 to go in the half.

After Blackburn hit a three-pointer for the Rockets, Betsy Layne went on a 7-0 run to extend their lead to 20-10. Wallen hit his second trey and Ryan Newsome canned a free throw. Wallen hit a layup with 2:30 left in the second quarter to cap the rally.

Betsy Layne led 31-15 at the half. The Rockets were not about to quit as they blitzed the Bobcats in the third

Laferty Scores 22 :

Just That!

A Runnin' Rebel is just what Chuck Laferty was as he drove around a M. C. Napier player in high school basketball action at Allen Central. Laferty scored 22 points to lead the Rebels to an exciting 65-63 win over the Navajo's.

With the result of last week's battle with Sheldon Clark haunting the Allen Central Rebels basketball team and their coach Johnny Martin, the Rebels got some "consolation" in that they won a game from the free throw line. Against Sheldon Clark in the consolation game of the Paintsville Invitational Tournament, the Rebels saw a 12 point lead evaporate and missed free throws down the stretch cost them the game.

However, against M. C. Napier (ranked second in the 14th Region), there were some similarities in the fact that the Rebels again owned a 12 point lead and saw the lead once again vanish to the Navajo's as they scored the first 13 points of the fourth quarter to take a one point lead 57-56.

Napier then extended their lead to three points 63-60. With a minute to go in the game, Mike Allen, who scored 18 points in the game, hit a basket underneath and he was fouled on the shot. Allen canned the free throw to tie the game at 63-63. A Navajo player was whistled for a charging foul while driving the baseline, giving the basketball back to the Rebels. On the ensuing play, Stewart Hall drove the baseline for the Rebels where he was fouled. Hall calmly stepped to the charity stripe and canned both free throws with only three ticks of the clock left to give the Rebels a 65-63 lead. Napier's desperation shot went wide as the Rebels won 65-63.

Allen's 18 points were the most the 6'6" junior center has scored this year. He had seven rebounds to go with his 18 points and he blocked six shots. "Mike played a real good game for us," said Rebel coach Johnny Martin. "He has some good spots in the games and then seems to disappear. But tonight he played a complete game."

Allen had eight points and six rebounds against Paintsville in the PIT last week, but they all came in the second quarter.

"It was just his inexperience showing up," said Martin. "If we had that kind of inside game consistently we could play with anyone. Mike has been playing better lately."

Allen Central led the whole game before Napier took the lead in the final quarter. The Rebels started taking some ill-advised shots when Napier climbed back into the game.

"We forced some shots in the last quarter and that allowed them to get back into it," Martin said.

Martin said that the Rebels have been working hard in their practices on their free throw shooting and hopes to avoid the letdown experienced in the Paintsville Invitational.

"All the players have worked hard on their free throw shooting," explained the Rebel mentor. "Ronnie (Sammons) should shoot better than he did in the PIT. He has good form and he will hit around 90 percent of his free throws in practice and shoots 51 percent during a game. He just needs to be more consistent." Sammons, normally averaging in double figures, had only three points in the Napier game.

Martin said that with some of the players it has been necessary to change some of their shots from the free throw line.

"I think with most of them it is just a lack of concentration," he explained. "We need to correct that and improve on the ability to hold a lead. If we do that we will be a pretty good ball club."

Chuck Laferty led the Rebels in scoring with 22 points. Laferty has been a steady performer for the Rebels all year. Allen finished with 18 points and Stewart Hall added 18 also. Tony Soler, who had three very good games in the Paintsville Invitational, failed to score, but drew the praise of his coach.

"Tony played three of the best games that we could ask him to play in the PIT," he stated. "He has really been playing well for us."

Missing for the M. C. Napier game for the Rebels was Brian Hall who has been out sick. "I don't know if Brian will be able to play against Betsy Layne Friday night or not. He hasn't been to practice so it is doubtful he will be able to play."

Allen Central goes to 9-6 overall and will carry a 0-2 conference record into tonight's conference game with Betsy Layne (9-5, 2-1). The Rebels will travel to Fleming-Neon Tuesday night.

It Wasn't Pretty, But Bobcats Prevail Over Trojans, 64-59

If you didn't know any better, you would have thought Wheelwright and Betsy Layne were playing their first games of the season. They weren't. Or you may have thought they had just came back from the holiday break. No, that wasn't the case. The problem was that neither team could take care of the basketball as they committed a total of 61 turnovers and committed 49 fouls in the game. Betsy Layne finally righted themselves and won over the visiting Trojans 64-59, but not before having to put out the flames of a comeback.

Adam Gearheart, who found his shooting eye in the second half, tossed in 16 points to lead Betsy Layne in scoring. Chris Newsome added 15 and Phillip King scored 10.

Game scoring honors went to Wheelwright's Harold Johnson who tallied 32 points. Paul Hall added 15 for Wheelwright.

Wheelwright, coming off two losses at Greenup County over the weekend, and Betsy Layne, suffering two setbacks in the Pikeville Invitational, played very aggressive defense at the start of the game and right on through.

Harold Johnson scored nine first quarter points to give the Trojans a 12-8 first quarter lead. After Steven Johnson hit a trey, Johnson scored the next nine and the first two of the second quarter. Betsy Layne had taken a 4-0 lead on baskets by King and Berne Eplin.

Betsy Layne built their lead to 15 points, 57-42 with just under three minutes to go in the game. Wheelwright scored six unanswered points to close to nine. Paul Hall hit two free throws and Steven Shelton scored a basket, made a steal and scored again on a layup with 1:54 remaining.

The Bobcats went back on top by 11 points, 63-52, on four out of six free throws and a basket by Shawn Wallen. Harold Johnson connected on a pair of charity tosses and Hall hit a three-pointer to make it a six point game, 63-57, with 26 ticks on the clock. The Trojans cut it to the final margin on two free throws by Hall.

It was in the third quarter that the Bobcats did their damage, with a 16-5 run on the Trojans. Johnson's three-pointer and a bucket by Hall was the total for Wheelwright in the third frame. King and Gearheart led the Betsy Layne charge with seven and four points respectively.

"It was a defensive struggle for both teams," said Trojan coach Monroe Jones. "I feel both teams played hard which resulted in a lot of turnovers. Betsy Layne played smarter than we did a couple of times and it made a difference."

Newsome said that he hoped that his team, especially his seniors, had learned a lesson from the game. "You have to learn to respect your opponent no matter who it is," he told his team. "You have got to get up before the game, not during it. You can't change in the middle of a game, you must be ready to play every time you go on the floor."

Newsome said his team made so many mistakes because their minds were not in the game. He expressed to his team that there were no paties left on the schedule and that the Bobcats were entering the heart of the conference schedule and had some tough teams coming up.

"You have to use talent to beat the teams that are better than you are," he explained. "You have to play harder than they do."

"We accomplished some things in the game," explained the Wheelwright coach. "Coming over on the bus to the game we went over some objectives for the game and one was to play hard, aggressive defense. We wanted to keep the game close and not turn the ball over too many times. We came out flat in the second half and fell behind by 10 points but our kids came back."

Jones explained that the Trojans wanted to get the flow of the game going their way.

"We just weren't ready to play," said Newsome of his team's performance.

Betsy Layne was 22 of 32 from the free throw line. Wheelwright attempted 21 charity tosses connecting on 14.

Betsy Layne goes to 9-5 overall and improves to 2-1 in conference play. Wheelwright lost their fourth straight game and fell to 3-8 overall.

Betsy Layne will be back in action tonight against the Allen Central Rebels at Allen Central. Wheelwright resumes play Tuesday night when they host the McDowell Daredevils in conference action.

MARTIN VS DORTON

Martin, playing the third game of the tournament, rallied from a slow start to defeat Dorton 50-40.

After Toby Robinson got Martin on the scoreboard first with a free throw, Dorton went on a 8-0 run to go ahead 8-1. James Gilley had a layup for Dorton and Josh Robinson hit two three-pointers, the last coming at the 4:25 mark of the first quarter.

Martin scored the next five points to move to within two points, 8-6. Robinson scored on a three point play with 3:40 to go. Ten seconds later Robinson added two more points on a layup to make it 11-8, Martin.

After Tim Polley's layup with 3:16 to go, the Purple Flash went on a 11-0 tear. Brian Conn had a rebound basket for Martin and Robinson hit a jumper. Conn then connected on two free throws and Byron Gearheart had a free throw. Robinson hit a jumper and Gearheart had an offensive put back before the quarter ended.

Martin led at the half by 12 points, 27-15, and was up by 17 at the end of the third quarter. Dorton could come no closer than the final margin of 10 points as Martin advances to second round action tonight.

Said Martin coach Jimmy Hopkins, "I was happy to get the win tonight. We played good in spots and hopefully we will be ready to play by Friday."

Jason Bevins was injured during warmups and did not play. Gearheart had 25 points to lead Martin. Robinson finished with 18 points. Polley scored 12 points for Dorton to lead them. Gilley and Josh Robinson had nine each.

Johnson Central Places 12 In Win Over Wheelwright

The Johnson Central Lady Eagles placed 12 players in the scoring column as they handed visiting Wheelwright a 78-24 loss last week. The loss evened the Lady Trojans record at 2-2 on the season.

Blancett led the Lady Eagles with 19 points. Janet Blair added nine points and Amy Williams had eight.

"We just couldn't get going offensively," said Lady Trojan coach Donnie Daniels. "Halfcourt-wise we played good, but their press caused us all sorts of problems. I don't know what our turnovers were, but I'd say they were in double figures."

Stephanie Little led the Lady Trojans with eight points. Shelia Collins and Becky Allen added five each.

"We are just too small to be competing with teams the size of Johnson Central," explained Daniels.

In an earlier game, the Lady Trojans fell to the Lady Hornets of Phelps 70-31.

Wheelwright will host Paintsville Monday night and play conference foe McDowell on Tuesday night.

Lady Bobcats Return With 49-40 Win Over Wheelwright

The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats played their first game in three weeks and posted a 49-40 win over visiting Wheelwright Tuesday night in Floyd County Conference play. The Lady Cats have been off since the Christmas break.

"We've haven't done anything but practice against the same old faces," said Lady Bobcats mentor Bill Newsome. "It's good to get back on the floor."

Trailing by 17 points in the fourth quarter, 40-23, the Lady Trojans made a gallant comeback attempt in the second half. Stephanie Little hit one of two free throws and then Becky Allen stepped to the line and hit two to make the score 40-26. Allen's two shots were the result of a technical foul on the Betsy Layne team for an incorrect number listed. Shena Collins hit a basket and Vicky Johnson topped the run with a three-pointer to close the margin to nine points, 40-31.

Nikki Webb ended the Betsy Layne drought with a basket when she slipped underneath on a good move. Collins then came back and hit a trey for the Lady Trojans to come within eight points with 1:32 remaining. Webb took a pass underneath and laid it in for a 10 point cushion for the Lady Cats. Briana Boyd, who led the Lady Bobcats in scoring with 11 points, hit two free throws and Misty Johnson's bucket, sandwiched between a bucket by Collins, gave Betsy Layne a 48-36 lead. Allen hit a three-pointer with 15 seconds to go to draw to within eight. Asha Stanley's free throw made the final margin 49-40.

"We really struggled tonight," Newsome said of his team's play. "We just need to get back into the groove and I think we will be alright then."

Both teams had a large number of turnovers.

Susan Conn hit her first two shots of the game coupled with a basket by Shelia Hall to give the Lady Bobcats a 6-0 lead. Collins scored the Lady Trojans' first two with a jumper. After Boyd's basket, Allen scored to make it 8-4. Each team just ran up and down the floor, turning the ball over, before a basket by Johnson and a bucket by Lisa Yates gave Betsy Layne a 12-4 first quarter lead.

Free throws were about all the Lady Trojans could manage in the second period, hitting four of eight from the charity stripe. Allen had a three pointer at the start of the frame to cut the Betsy Layne lead to five, 12-7. A trey by Boyd and a bucket by Stanley opened it back to 10 points. Both teams continued to look rusty in the second quarter.

Wheelwright really struggled in the third quarter as Betsy Layne outscored them 14-3. Shelia Hall had six points in the spurt for the Lady Bobcats. Collins' basket and a free throw by Allen accounted for the Lady Trojans points.

An unusual technical foul was called on the Betsy Layne bench at the start of the fourth quarter. Someone in the stands had a whistle and was blowing it. The referee warned Coach Newsome to find the whistle. At the start of the fourth, Newsome was called for a technical foul because he did not come up with the noise maker.

"I tasked the referee what he wanted me to do, go and search all the people in the stands?" said Newsome of the call.

Besides Boyd's 11 points, Hall finished with eight points. Webb added seven while Conn and Nancy Shepherd netted six each.

"I thought Conn played a good game for us," said Newsome. "Susan just needs to shoot the ball more. She's a good shooter but hesitant in shooting it."

Allen and Collins both scored 13 points to lead Wheelwright. Vicky Little added six points. Wheelwright hit four three-pointers in the game while Betsy Layne connected on one. Wheelwright hit 16 of 28 charity tosses. Betsy Layne attempted only six free throws and made two.

The Lady Cats improve to 4-5 and go to 2-1 in the conference. Wheelwright, playing their first conference game, falls to 2-3 overall and 0-1 in the conference.

Betsy Layne will travel to Allen Central Friday night to face the Lady Rebels. Wheelwright will host Paintsville Monday night and McDowell Tuesday night.

McDowell Falls To Shelby Valley

The McDowell Daredevils took a seven point lead into the fourth quarter against Shelby Valley Tuesday night only to see it disappear in falling to the Wildcats 74-70. McDowell led 55-48 entering the final period but the visiting Wildcats outscored McDowell 26-15 to win by four.

Shelby Valley came into the game with the Daredevils as the newly crowned champions of the prestigious Pikeville Invitational Tournament with a high scoring 97-94 win over the host Pikeville Panthers. However, that did nothing to awe the Daredevils as they played hard and with a lot of intensity. Defense was the order for the day for McDowell, but that was all lost in the fourth period as Shelby Valley began to find the baskets behind the scoring of Kevin Hall and Chad Bowling.

Bowling led all scorers with 23 points. Jeremy Johnson added 17 while Hall finished with 16 to round out a well balanced scoring attack. A fourth player, Mitch Harris, also hit double figures with 10 points.

McDowell placed four players in double figures also, with Stacy Hall leading the way with 19 points. Barry Hall netted 16 while Doug Hopkins scored 11. Matt Johnson had 10 points in the Daredevils' loss.

McDowell went out to a five point lead in the first quarter after taking an 8-2 lead early in the period. The Daredevils went to the lockerroom with a seven point lead, 36-29 at halftime. Both teams played even in the third.

The loss evened the Daredevils record at 6-6. Shelby Valley improves to 11-2.

McDowell will find that things will not get easier as they host a very good Sheldon Clark Cardinal team tonight and then the Belfry Pirates will come calling Saturday night.

Stops Baker With 5 Points:

McDowell Lady Devils Upset Lady Wildcats 50-48

One way to make a season for a basketball coach is for his or her team to upset one of the region's heavyweights. That is what happened for the McDowell Lady Daredevils Monday night as they handed highly regarded Shelby Valley a 50-48 loss.

Lori Bryant hit a shot in the closing seconds of the game to give the Lady Devils their fourth win of the year. The key to the McDowell win was the defense on high scoring Jody Baker. Baker was held to just five points in the game - two field goals and a charity toss.

"We tried to minimize Baker by double teaming her when she got the ball," explained Lady Daredevil coach Cassandra Keathley. "We did a great job on defense."

McDowell, who led by as many as eight points, allowed the Lady Wildcats to tie the score at 48-48 with 50 seconds remaining. The Lady Devils held the ball and took the winning shot with four seconds to go. Shelby Valley had the ball with just two seconds remaining but failed to score.

"We knew that Shelby Valley would be really slow," said Keathley. "So we didn't panic when they tied the score on us."

McDowell dominated the boards with Bryant collecting 12 rebounds and Kristy Pack hauling in 10.

"Nikki Mullins came on in the second quarter for us and got four key defensive rebounds," explained the McDowell coach. "She played a great game for us."

One thing that pleased the Lady Devils coach was the low number of turnovers her team committed. McDowell had just 10 turnovers in the contest.

McDowell led by two points at each stop except the first when they held a one point lead. It was 22-20 at the half and 36-34 going into the final quarter.

Bryant and Debbie Fannin shared scoring honors for McDowell with 15 each. "I don't know what got into Debbie but I wish she would keep it up," stated Keathley of Fannin's point production.

Jenny Stone added nine points and Pack finished with seven.

Selena Bentley led the Lady Wildcats with 17 points and Tara Bentley tossed in 12. Christy Stewart added eight. Selena Bentley had five three-pointers in the game for Shelby Valley.

McDowell goes to 4-6 on the season and will travel to Wheelwright Tuesday.

Bowen Tosses In 33 As Sheldon Clark Slips Past Lady Rebs, 66-58

If you are to beat the Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals, one thing is very important - stop Ida Bowen. The Western Kentucky University recruit tossed in 33 points as her team escaped the Allen Central Lady Rebels 66-58 at Allen Central Monday night.

The eighth ranked Lady Cards had to go to their franchise on many occasions to help in this win. The Lady Rebels, young and talented, gave Sheldon Clark a rough way to go.

Allen Central stayed in the game and kept it close behind the shooting of Teresa Gibson, 31 points, a much underrated player in the 15th Region. Gibson hit five three-pointers in the game and turned one into a four point play. Gibson hit a trey from the top of the key in the first quarter and was fouled. The sharpshooting guard converted the free throw.

It was the intimidating force of Bowen under the defensive basket that caused the Lady Rebs to either alter their shots or feel the block. Bowen had 11 blocked shots in the game.

Allen Central trailed by 11 points 63-52 with just over a minute remaining in the game. Darnella Bradley, getting a second and third effort, put the basketball in for two points. Stacy "Mini" Moore hit a three-pointer and cut it to six 63-57. Gibson, who was getting the treys off, looked up in the closing minutes of the game only to see the 6'3" Bowen guarding her. Linda Stone added a free throw and Gibson hit two for Allen Central to set the final margin at 66-58.

Sheldon Clark came out early and established their game plan, running out to a 9-2 lead. Bowen scored nine points in the first period, showing why she is a solid candidate for "Miss Basketball" in Kentucky. Gibson had seven points in the first period with two treys and a free throw. Bradley gave a good effort in scoring 10 points in the contest. Bradley made some good moves underneath and was not afraid to take it to the basket despite the defense of Bowen. The Lady Cardinals held a five point halftime lead, 34-29, and held the Lady Rebels to just eight third quarter points to take a 14 point advantage, 51-37, at the end of the third.

Jeana Kirk hit a three-pointer to start the fourth quarter to push the lead 54-37. Allen Central ran off eight unanswered points to pull back to within eight points, 54-46. In the run Gibson scored five points on a trey and two free throws. Bradley had a three point play also. The Lady Rebs, with their young sophomore players, became more aggressive on defense and Gibson followed a bucket by Bowen with another three-pointer to make it 56-49. The Lady Cards pushed the lead back out to 11, 60-49. Gibson again hit a three-pointer on an inside-outside play with Bradley. A three point play by Bowen gave Sheldon Clark an 11 point lead again, 63-52.

Linda Stone added nine points for Sheldon Clark. Kirk finished with eight, including two treys.

Stacy "Mini" Moore had eight points for Allen Central and Stacy Moore (the other one) added six. Gibson was perfect at the free throw line hitting 12 of 12 attempts. Allen Central as a team connected on 24 of 28 attempts. Sheldon Clark hit six of nine from the charity stripe.

The loss evened the Lady Rebs record overall to 5-5. The Lady Rebels will be entertaining the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats in conference play tonight.

HERE'S HOW TO TELL THE DIFFERENCE IN CRANKBAITS

If you're having trouble telling the difference between crankbaits, don't feel bad, because you're not alone. With all the different models, sizes and designs of these billed divers, it really is difficult to understand what each one does.

"The major feature to study is the lip, or bill," explains Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler Guy Eaker, "because the size and shape of the bill determines what the lure is going to do."

"Just remember that a bill that extends straight out from the lure body will dive deep and have a tight action. A bill that extends downward at an angle will have a stronger action but will not dive as deep."

The longer or wider the bill, Eaker continues, the deeper it will dive.

"Those are really the primary things to remember when choosing one of these lures," he explains. "The way you actually fish them probably has as much effect on how they dive as their design."

"Most crankbaiting is done with 10 or 12 pound test line. If you use heavier line, the lure just won't dive as deep as it could because the line itself holds it up. You can add as much as two feet of diving depth by using lighter line like 10 pound test rather than 14 or 17 pound test."

Another trick Eaker suggests to help get a crankbait down deep is a change in retrieve speed.

"To get a crankbait down initially, turn the reel handle fast," the Evinrude pro instructs, "but then slow your retrieve. The lure will continue to dive when you do this."

"If you keep reeling fast throughout the retrieve, the force of the water on the bill pushes against it and actually keeps it from going any deeper."

Eaker also suggests using marker buoys as casting reference points when using crankbaits.

"Many anglers just don't cast far enough to get a crankbait down at the right spot," he says. "If I catch a bass or see some particular structure on the bottom, I drop a buoy, but I don't cast right to the marker."

"With a crankbait, you need to cast 20 or 30 feet beyond the marker so the lure hits bottom by the buoy where the bass are. If you don't put out a marker, you'll have a hard time getting your casts into the right spot time after time."

It's also important to have your crankbaits hitting bottom during the retrieve, Eaker Adds. If you can't feel the bottom, change to a deeper diving model that does. Many pros like Eaker try to make their crankbaits bang against stumps or rocks continuously, using deep diving lures in shallow water.

Fishermen running a lot of electronic equipment on their bass boats might consider installing a voltmeter gauge, advise experts at OMC. One of the easiest instruments for the do-it-yourselfer to install, a voltmeter monitors battery voltage regulator. OMC's new Tech Series voltmeter is available from most Johnson and Evinrude dealers.

RIVER OTTER RESTORATION PROGRAM
 Few other native Kentucky furbearers are as fascinating or genuinely entertaining in the wild as the North American river otter. The otter's graceful aquatic antics and natural activities offer pure enjoyment for anyone fortunate enough to see them.

This spring, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will begin a new project that will eventually restore the river otter throughout the state. The first phase of this restoration effort will be a release of approximately 75 otters in Central Kentucky area. Otters are currently protected from harvest in Kentucky.

Most people have become acquainted with the river otter through television and wildlife displays. However, observation in the wild has been very limited in Kentucky for many years, primarily due to man's activities.

Fortunately though, recent observations have shown otters are slowly returning to some parts of Western Kentucky. Wildlife biologists attribute the budding comeback to natural range expansion from bordering states, as well as the increase in the beaver population. Beavers create good otter habitat and many times these two species will co-exist in the same area, sometimes the same dwelling.

In addition to these factors, Kentucky has abundant water and food supplies necessary for otter survival.

"A number of states have attempted a project of this kind and all have had excellent success," said Tom Edwards, wildlife division assistant director for the fish and wildlife department.

"The otter is a highly adaptable animal, and considering Kentucky's potential, this program has practically a 100 percent chance of success," Edwards added.

A major goal of the state fish and wildlife department is to reestablish wildlife species, like the river otter, that were once found in Kentucky. Obviously, this isn't always possible. Too many changes have occurred to the land that would negate the return of some species. But, in this case, man does have the ability to help wildlife, thus helping himself toward increasing the enjoyment wildlife provides.

Bringing back the river otter is going to take time, and support from the public will be an important key to success. With any luck, Kentuckians will regain a "missing piece" of our state's natural beauty, to which our wildlife resources so greatly contribute.

HAPPY HUNTING GROUND LOOKS AT OTHERS

The January-February issue of Happy Hunting Ground magazine takes an in-depth look at the North American river otter and closely examines the otter restoration program planned by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Also in the January-February issue, readers will find interesting articles on Kentucky's Canada geese, the status of crappie at Barkley and Kentucky lakes, striped bass studies on the Ohio River, wildlife artist Rick Hill and the history of the buffalo in Kentucky.

To find out how you can subscribe to HAPPY HUNTING GROUND magazine, contact the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, Happy Hunting Ground, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601.

CHANGES IN TROPHY FISH AWARDS PROGRAM
 The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has eased the minimum requirements for trophy fish awards in several categories. The move was made to recognize a greater number of anglers for their quality catches.

The changes affect fish caught in 1991 as follows:

Species	New Min.	Previous Min.
Bluegill	10"	12"
Brown Trout	24"	30"
Crappie	16"	18"
Hybrid Striped Bass	23"	25"

Muskellunge	40"	45"
Rainbow Trout	21"	24"
Redear Sunfish	11"	13"
Rock Bass	10"	12"
Sauger	18"	21"
Walleye	25"	30"
White Bass	16"	18"

The state fish and wildlife department presents awards for 25 species of fish commonly caught by sportfishing methods in Kentucky waters.

Trophy status is determined by the length of the fish, not by weight. The minimum length requirements for species not listed above remain unchanged.

Trophy Fish and Master Angler Program applications and complete entry rules are available by contacting the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Trophy Fish/Master Angler Program, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Snow days

The holidays have come and gone, and that leaves a long stretch of time in school before the next holiday or break.

We have Ground Hog Day and Valentine's Day, but those are in-school holidays and do not involve any time off from school. But in Floyd County we have the non-scheduled holidays; we call them snow days. We don't know when they are coming or how long they will last. This uncertainty is what makes these days so intriguing.

We all start the year with a statement such as this, "I hope we go through the whole year without missing a day so school can end in May."

Do you realize that the school calendar always calls for school to end in the third week of May? (We will balance the federal budget before school will go out in May.) School goes along smoothly, and then in January a snow storm comes. Now, we all want school to stay on schedule, but it is hard not to get excited about that first storm.

Students and teachers watch the news like a hawk watching a hen house. My son Ryan tells me there is a thrill to this sound: "There will be no school in Floyd County tomorrow."

If the snow comes overnight, a person has to listen to the news in the morning for the announcement. By the time school officials have made a decision, the excitement has made it impossible for any further sleep. So we get up and enjoy the falling snow.

Sometimes Mother Nature pulls a trick on us, and by noon the snow has melted and off we go to Wal-Mart or KMart for shopping. Sometimes non-school people will ask why we aren't in school. We have to respond with something such as, "We're out because of the snow." Of course, they counter with, "What snow?"

Sometimes these snow days become a little too much of a good thing. It is very difficult to have any kind of continuity in school when these days come three or four at a time over a two-month period. One year it took Romeo and Juliet from the first of January to the beginning of March to kill themselves. We truly did begin to ask, "O Romeo, Romeo! Wherefore are thou Romeo?" (I'm over here trying to thaw out my tutu would have been an appropriate answer.) We now spare Romeo and Juliet (and ourselves) of this fate. We now wait until at least March to start Shakespeare's classic love drama.

After several days off from school because of the weather, it gets boring. Given a choice, I would much rather teach two classes than watch one day-time soap opera. I always list things to do for snow days, but the only one that I get done is the one that goes something like this, "Lie around and do nothing." The easiest way to accomplish this goal is to watch the soaps.

So as we start back to school from the holidays, we all listen and read every weather report we can. It is a little like overeating: we know we must pay for these days in June. We give our forecast a little different from the usual newscaster. Here is a good example of our forecast: Snow tomorrow with 0 percent chance of school in in Floyd County.

I leave you with this from a famous British poet: "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Solitaire

by Mike Rosenberg

"Slipping into the future" dept.

Sitting here in the newsroom the other day, I had a bizarre experience. The odd-smelling combination of newsprint and Tim and Susan's cigarettes threw me into some kind of trance. When my head cleared, I found I had prophesied the coming year. I now share these prophecies with the public, for better or worse...

January — A peaceful settlement is reached in the Middle East when MCA records offers to trade Milli Vanilli and the New Kids on the Block (excuse me, N.K.O.T.B.) for Kuwait. Saddam takes the offer and thousands of teenage girls mourn the loss. Tim Preston, however, bursts an artery in celebration.

February — After "The Godfather Part III" fails to win an Oscar, Francis Ford Coppola enters the Federal Witness Protection Program to escape embarrassment. Sweethearts nationwide gain a total of 250 tons from overconsumption of chocolate.

March — Duke avenges its loss to UNLV in the semi-finals of the NCAA basketball tournament, but once more loses its bid for the national championship to the upstart Southwestern Dakota School for the Deaf. Coach K goes on sabbatical with Dan Reeves of the Denver Broncos.

April — Following Easter, a disenchanting Easter bunny sheds his "sweet ball of fuzz" image and goes on tour as front man for the rock band Grumble Bunny and becomes the idol of millions. I turn 21 and the world shudders.

May — Mikhail Gorbachev resigns under scandal after pictures of him wearing a toga and Mickey Mouse ears are discovered. "Kim's Korner" wins a Pulitzer prize for creative journalism and for making more people grin than any other column.

June — Marge Schott sells the Cincinnati Reds to George Steinbrenner. The Reds lose their next 25 games. Steinbrenner then sells the Reds to tennis star Andre Agassi, who changes the team to the Cincinnati Chartrouses and designs new spandex uniforms.

July — The Floyd County Little League All-Star games sport a new attraction. A Golden Gloves competition for the irate parents will begin. The little leaguers will referee the fights with a grand prize of being able to pound an umpire with impunity. Andre Agassi sells the now-devalued Chartrouses back to Marge Schott.

August — Coffee drinkers nationwide revolt as "politically correct" mania sweeps the nation. Styrofoam cups and non-reusable coffee filters are banned by the powerful "PC Lobby." IBM reaps a huge benefit through name association, however.

September — The Major League Baseball Playoffs are canceled after it is discovered that the gate receipts will not pay the players' salaries.

October — Governor Wallace Wilkinson, in an attempt to outdo Martha Layne Collins before he leaves office, sells Western Kentucky to Toyota for a huge research and development colony.

November — Gatewood Galbraith wins the gubernatorial race in a stunning upset. No one is his campaign headquarters noticed. Late night convenience stores sales skyrocket.

December — Global warming will cause an 80 degree December and Roseanne Barr to spontaneously combust. 1991 will be remembered as "The Year of Living Cautiously" and will see the birth of many more odd columns in the Floyd County Times.

I hope you enjoyed my one month stint. This column may pop up again sometime in the summer, but who knows? If you've got anything you want to say to me, for me, or about me, I can be reached at Box 9482 Duke Station, Durham, N.C. 27706. Take care, everybody.

Strange Enough

by Tim Preston

What is the oldest trick in the book?

Have you ever been lying in bed, near sleep, when an extremely trivial thought took over and kept you awake for hours?

I did, and the nagging question in my mind is, "What, specifically, is the oldest trick in the book?"

This wouldn't be a hard question to answer if there actually was a book of tricks.

Think of this — anyone in the world should be able to recognize the oldest trick in the book, but no one can provide me with an answer to my question.

Ed Taylor suggested that the oldest trick in the book was probably the act of pulling a person's chair from under him as he attempted to sit down. Mike Rosenberg suggested the old "Hey, you've got something on your shirt" trick.

Myself, I think it is closer to something involving a check in the mail, "I love you" or "I'll start on the dishes tomorrow."

What is the oldest trick in the book?

Maybe Kim Frasure was right when she said prostitution.

The Bunny grumbles

The notorious rock and roll band Grumble Bunny performed its first live show recently. Although I think everyone in the band had a good case of nerves before starting, the show was above and beyond what we expected.

Thanks to everyone in Van Lear for a memorable night. More thanks go out to the group of a dozen guys who had decided to kill our bass player but changed their minds because it was Christmas.

New resolutions?

In the year 1991, I resolve to drink more coffee, smoke more cigarettes, drive even faster and have my wife wash the dishes left over from November.

If I work hard enough, I might accomplish the first three anyway.

Truly strange enough

This is one of those stories that isn't really worthy of the front page, but is definitely worthy of this space.

During the Christmas holidays someone broke into former, advertising representative Susan Coleman's home.

Susan reported that the burglars took nothing, but did hang around the house long enough to make a batch of scalloped potatoes, eat all of the pudding cup treats and leave a batch of dirty dishes.

Dirty dishes huh? This is beginning to sound familiar.

Not my department, but.....

I don't have the pleasure of covering school related topics among my duties, but I think the last minute move by the Floyd County Board of Education regarding the new Prestonsburg High School deserves the attention of "Strange Enough" readers.

I think they have shown that the "It's my ball and I'll make the rules" syndrome still lives years after the playground.

C'mon folks, that's the oldest trick in the book.

Dreams plus dedication equal reality

By Beth Jones
McDowell High School senior

Several weeks ago, a story was printed about Billie Jean Osborne and her quest to build a Kentucky Opry. What that article failed to mention was the dedication of this woman and her devotion in making Kentucky a place for aspiring musicians to get a start in the music industry.

She is not doing this for herself; she wants no credit at all. Billie Jean only wants a place where talented young people can showcase their talents without having to travel out of state.

There are probably hundreds of thousands of people in this world named Billie, but there is only one Ms. Billie Jean. I feel that she has had the most profound effect on my life, and she has done it in a very short period of time.

Ms. Billie Jean came to our school (McDowell High School) after we lost our band director to another school. She immediately took over where he had left off. We have never looked back. The band has improved dramatically along with the attitudes of the students.

Ms. Billie Jean always has a smile on her face and an air of dedication toward her students. I believe that is due to her faith in God. She shares her stories of faith and trust in the Almighty and no one ever doubts her word. She believes that God has sent her to us for a purpose. I believe she was a gift from God to us. I thank Him each day for letting her come to us.

She has been a shining example to me, and she has taught me that there is no limit to what a person can accomplish. She has helped me to gain self-respect and confidence.

I look to Billie Jean as a friend as well as a teacher. I feel I can share anything with her, and we have wonderful discussions. With each day we share, I grow to love and respect her more.

Ms. Billie Jean is also the most determined person I have ever known. Who would have thought that a music teacher from Betsy Layne could almost single-handedly launch a project to build a Kentucky Opry house? She also has gotten state and federal help in her quest to bring music to the mountains. The idea, while once only a dream, is now slowly becoming a reality. Simply doing the task is not what Ms. Billie Jean is after. I think she will only be satisfied when she sees people enjoying great country music in her native Eastern Kentucky. For this, again, I have great respect.

Each day, Ms. Billie Jean tries to teach us a lesson. Sometimes this lesson is gained from playing music, singing, or just talking. One of Ms. Billie Jean's stories is worth ten movies. Her stories are always interesting, yet they have a moral. I think it is easier to make a point in an entertaining way rather than trying to lecture. I have learned so many things from her just by listening. She always tries to get us to keep up our grades, be good to one another, and have faith in ourselves. Everyone has gained something from her being with us.

The Floyd County Board of Education may find a new teacher to replace her (she can teach only 100 days or she will jeopardize her retirement), but they will be hard-pressed to find a person with such dedication and love for teaching music. She may have to leave us, but she will always remain with us in our minds and in our hearts.

I hope that this will help you to understand just what kind of woman Ms. Billie Jean Osborne is. We must all band together to help this Kentucky Opry to be built. If everyone would give just a few dollars, the dream would become a reality. This Opry would benefit all Kentuckians and would also increase state tourism. But most of all, it would be a showcase of Kentucky's talent and would help to show the outside world the natural abilities in the young people of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Olympians

GETTING OUR PRIORITIES STRAIGHT

Last Saturday I stopped at a local service station to get my car filled with gasoline. That's when I discovered that there are a few things more important in this life than making a buck.

It was approximately 1:33 p.m. when I pulled up to the pump and waited for the attendant to come out and fill up my tank and clean off the windshield.

"Filler'er up," I hollered.

"Can't do it," he yelled back.

"What's wrong?" I asked. "Out of gasoline?"

"Nope," he said, as he shook his head. "I'm closing."

"But it's only 1:30," I protested.

"I realize that," he said, as he closed the door on his garage. "But I'm in a hurry."

"Can't you pump me a few gallons so I can get home?"

"Look, I told you I was in a hurry."

"What's so important that you can't give me a tank of gas?"

The man seemed to disregard my question as he continued to close his station.

"Excuse me, but what's the rush?"

"Do you know what today is?" he asked.

"Yes, it's Saturday, January 5, 1991," I replied.

"Ring any bells?"

I thought, Mother's birthday wasn't until the 9th, Jimmie's birthday wasn't until the 23rd. What was I missing?

"Is it your birthday?"

"Don't be silly. U.K. and L.S.U. are tipping off in twenty minutes."

I couldn't believe it. The country's in a recession, businesses are begging for customers, the unemployment rate is at an all time high, and this man was closing down his only source of income because of a U.K. game.

"You're not serious?" I queried.

"Serious as a heart attack," he answered, quickly.

"But don't you want my money?"

"I'll take your money, lady. I'm just not going to waste any time pumping gas into your car. It's past empty as usual, isn't it?"

"Would I have stopped if it hadn't been?"

"See, I was right," he said, sarcastically.

"But I don't have enough gas to get home," I cried. "What am I going to do?"

"I sympathize with you, but being a Good Samaritan minutes before a U.K. game isn't one of my virtues."

"I've got a good mind to call your distributor and tell him about this."

"Go ahead, but you won't get him today."

"Why not?"

"Because as we speak, he's sitting two rows up from the floor at Rupp Arena. Can I call you a cab?"

I was incredulous.

"Absolutely not," I said, as I tried to restart my car. "See, I don't even have enough gas to start the car."

"Well, feel free to use the pay phone on the corner."

"You're just too kind," I whined as I started for the telephone. "You can't depend on anyone these days."

"On, on U of K," he sang, as he jumped into his car and pulled away.

"Honey," I said, as my husband answered the phone. "Can you come and pick me up?"

"Where are you?"

"I'm at the gas station. The attendant wouldn't fill my car up because he was leaving to go home and watch the U.K. game. Have you ever heard anything so ridiculous?"

"Not lately," he said, hurriedly.

"I'll be there in forty-five minutes."

"What's going to take you so long?" I asked.

"That's about half-time of the game."

Don't let anyone ever tell you that we Eastern Kentuckians don't have our priorities straight.

Floyd students selected for Midway degree program

The board of trustees of Midway College has approved five new four-year degree programs to be implemented in the fall semester of 1991.

Melissa Anne Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Harmon of Stanville, a freshman majoring in nursing, and Teresa Gwynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stumbo, a freshman majoring in general studies, are among those chosen for the program.

The new bachelor's degrees to be offered at Midway are in the areas of accounting, business administration, paralegal studies, equine studies and liberal studies. Three of the new degree programs will offer the student the option of a choice of study in a specialized area.

Midway has offered bachelor's degrees in nursing and business administration without the option of specialization since fall 1989, and continues to offer associate degrees in a number of subject areas.

"With these new four-year degree programs, we plan to continue to establish Midway College as a quality bachelor's degree institution for women that emphasizes career preparation within an innovative liberal arts context," said Robert R. Botkin, president of the college.

Founded in 1847, Midway is Kentucky's only college for women.

School Notes

McDowell Students Study Steinbeck

Recently, Willie Elliott's English III class at McDowell High School studied John Steinbeck's novel Of Mice and Men. As a culminating activity, the students did a review of the novel. Below is one of those reviews:

Of Mice and Men

by John Steinbeck reviewed by Erickson Vicher
John Steinbeck was born in Salinas, Calif. on February 27, 1902. He worked at various jobs to earn a living before becoming a writer. His first three books received little attention. His fourth book, Tortilla Flat, published in 1935, was his first success. In 1939, Steinbeck published The Grapes of Wrath. It became an explosive best-seller and won a Pulitzer prize.

Throughout his work, Steinbeck advocated a kind of moral ecology emphasizing the need for humans and nature to be in partnership. Although he was ultimately more interested in what unites humanity, Of Mice and Men explores the causes of isolation.

Mayo Vocational begins third quarter classes

Mayo State Vocational Technical School will begin third quarter classes on Monday, Jan. 14. The school reports limited openings in several classes.

Limited openings are recorded in electronics, carpentry, industrial maintenance mechanics, cosmetology, and auto body repair.

For more information about enrollment in one of these programs, call (606) 789-5321.

The economic upheavals of the 1930's produced a rootlessness in Americans who found themselves without possessions or hope. Of Mice and Men is, in part, an examination of this kind of alienation. All of the characters, except George and Lennie, are lonely people. Chance and destitution brought them together.

This excerpt best sums up the theme of Of Mice and Men: "A guy needs somebody — to be near him," Crooks whined. "A guy goes nuts if he ain't got nobody. Don't make no difference who the guy is, long's he's with you. I tell ya," he cried, "I tell ya a guy gets too lonely an' he gets sick."

Steinbeck's narrative technique must not be taken for granted. He did a marvelous job in using symbols to convey how he expresses a character. The name of Lennie Small, for example, is ironic in that Lennie is a big guy with a small mind. Candy's missing hand symbolizes powerlessness and Crooks' twisted back represents years of oppression.

The use of animal symbolism is also a very effective technique that Steinbeck used. His use of foreshadowing is also superb. A great example is how Carlson was directing a way to painlessly kill Candy's dog. This event has a significant impact on the story. Although the narrator's point of view may seem omniscient, Steinbeck reveals only the characters' thoughts and what is happening within the bounds of the characters' five senses.

Of Mice and Men is a beautifully orchestrated masterpiece. Once I started reading it, I just had to finish as soon as possible, and I even came back for seconds.

Voices of Appalachia on tour in California

The "Voices of Appalachia," a 45 voice choir from Alice Lloyd College, will be on tour January 4 through 17 in California.

The "Voices of Appalachia" is made up of students from the college. The choir specializes in the hymns and ballads of the Southern Appalachian highlands. The "Voices" sing with and without accompaniment. Through their singing, they manage to convey the deep feelings mountain people have about their homes and families.

Richard L. Kennedy is the conductor of the choir. Kennedy was born in Atlanta, Ga. and received his bachelor's degree in music from William Carey College, Hattiesburg, Miss. Kennedy earned his master's degree in music at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas, and has done additional graduate work at the University of Mississippi and the University of Kentucky. In addition to eighteen years as a college choral director, he traveled throughout the south and southwest as a tenor soloist.

The student choir presented a concert Dec. 9 in the auditorium of the Estelle Campbell Center for the Arts.

HOROSCOPE

January 13 through January 19

By C.C. Clark

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

You will come upon a great challenge, and you will discover hidden talents. This is a good time to entertain new thoughts concerning your outlook on life.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Laughing at the absurd helps make life easier, especially when dealing with relatives. Understand that family members mean well and are trying their best to please you.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Helping others is important, but look after yourself in the process. Be careful when criticizing those with whom you work. Your words could have an adverse affect on you.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

You may feel tense and anxious about certain areas of your life. Don't worry about the things you can't possibly change, and work on those you know you can improve.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Complications regarding work or school could arise for Taurans this week. Make sure to pay bills on time to avoid future hassles concerning your financial sector.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Before you jump in to defend yet another underdog, make sure you have your facts straight. You must use great tact when dealing with outsiders.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Keep those lines of communication open with loved ones and business associates this week. A great idea for a new project is just around the corner.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Work will keep you running, so it is important you take time out this weekend to have some fun. Take advantage of those who offer to help with specific tasks.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

A project you start this week could lead to bigger and better things. A companion will suggest something you are apprehensive about. Just follow your head.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Patience and good humor are necessary for you to make it through this week. Things seem impossible, but they aren't really as bad as you think.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Let go of all quarrels this week and lighten up. You are your own best judge of character; don't rely on others to do your dirty work.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

The week begins so fast your head spins, but by midweek you have it all under control. Problems that arise may be easily handled as long as you keep your temper.

VIDEO BIJOU

Hallmark to remake Alfred Hitchcock classic

By Steven Alan McGaw
The folks behind the continuing, always excellent (and sometimes classic) Hallmark Hall of Fame series of television specials have announced plans for a remake of Alfred Hitchcock's classic Shadow of a Doubt. I wish them luck, but also remind them they've got a tough act to follow in the original film.

all; a superb cast includes Teresa Wright, Joseph Cotten, MacDonald Carey and the great Hume Cronyn in a terrific turn as an incredibly nosy guy with a very vivid imagination. Hitchcock, of course, directed this gem from a screenplay co-scripted by Thornton Wilder. (Quite a pedigree, huh?)

Shadow of a Doubt (1943)
A young girl cherishes her beloved Uncle Charley, who has returned home after a long absence. But troubling facts keep popping up and raising uncomfortable questions. Could her kindly uncle also be the brutal Merry Widow murderer? I'm not telling....
This terrific movie has it

Note: Before anyone gets excited and fires off a letter, let me say that, yes, I know Shadow of a Doubt has already been re-made once. That one was a soggy mess titled Step Down to Terror, starring Rod Taylor. I have no doubt Hallmark can top this forgettable waste of film, but the question remains... why try to top the original?

TV PIPELINE

Broderick Crawford found niche in surprise hit series

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Whatever happened to Broderick Crawford? As a kid I enjoyed his series Highway Patrol but never knew much about him. Too bad there isn't a series like that on now that my son could watch. —Bob Whittaker, South Chicago Heights, Ill.

A: Broderick Crawford began his film career in the late 1930s primarily in tough gangster roles. His best success came in 1949 when he won the Academy Award for his role as a ruthless politician in All the King's Men. He made many guest appearances on television, but he really found his niche in 1955 as the tough-talking Chief Dan Matthews of Highway Patrol. The program was cheaply made and no one expected it to be a success, but it was. The whole country was going around saying "10-4." After the series ended, he starred in the television shows King of Diamonds and The Interns. He died in April 1986 after suffering a series of strokes. He was 74 years old.

Q: I enjoyed watching in the early '50s the TV western The Range Rider. Could you tell me who was the real "Range Rider," and what was his partner's name? —Lee Ann Jastrow, Rockville, Md.

A: Former stuntman and screen Tarzan Jock Mahoney starred as the Range Rider, a wandering good guy, and Dick Jones as his youthful sidekick, Dick West. The show was syndicated during the 1951-52 season and later returned in reruns on ABC in 1965. Mahoney, stepfather of actress Sally Field, also appeared in the title role of Yancy Derringer on CBS from 1958-59.

Q: Whatever happened to the beautiful actress Hazel Court who starred in movies of the 1940s? Please tell me what you can about her. —Hilda Scott, Forrest Park, Ill.

A: Hazel Court was born in 1926 in Sutton Coldfield, England. She entered British films as a Gainsborough studio hopeful in the mid-'40s. A beautiful redhead, she starred in such films as Curse of Frankenstein (1957) with Christopher Lee and Peter Cushing, The Raven (1963) with Vincent Price and Jack Nicholson and The Masque of the Red Death (1964) with Price and David Westone. She is married to actor/director Don Taylor, and they have a son, Jonathan. In recent years she has become a successful painter.

Q: Who was the man behind the voice that sent Jim Phelps on those Mission: Impossible assignments? —Muriel Clark, Surrey, Va.

A: The voice you heard instructing Jim Phelps belonged to Bob Johnson.
