Panel issues 74 indictments :

Murder tops list of grand jury true bills

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County Grand Jury handed down 74 indictments Monday, with charges including murder, reckless homicide and sexual abuse.

Those indicted were:
Ralph Gerald Newsome, 26, of Virgie, was indicted for murder in connection with the shooting death of Greg Perry, 28, of McDowell on March 9.

The indictment charges that Newsome shot Perry one time in the forehead with a .357 magnum handgun. The incident allegedly stemmed from a dispute over construction work Perry performed for Newsome.

Also indicted for murder was Douglas Hughes, 49, of Louisville, in the November 24, 1990, shooting death of his father, Billie Hughes of Salt Lick.

Billy Hughes, who was shot four times with a .32 caliber pistol, was found dead at his Salt Lick home by another son, Willard. Douglas Hughes was arrested by Kentucky State Police in Louisville on November 29.

A train engineer was charged with reckless homicide after an August 8, 1987 incident. J.A. Johnson was charged with driving a CSX locomotive at an excessive rate of speed and operating it in a reckless manner causing the death of Harry Steven Price.

Other persons indicted Monday, along with age and addresses where available were:

- William Stone, 45, of Martin, first degree rape for allegedly forcing a woman to engage in sex on December 30, 1990.

- J.A. (Jim) Ward, tampering with physical evidence on September 2, 1987, for failing to turn over records subpoenaed by the Floyd County Coroner. The indictment charged that Ward removed records which were physical evidence to be produced or used in an official proceeding.

- Clark E. Stumbo, 50, of McDowell, first degree assault, when he allegedly drove his automobile on the wrong side of the road on January 25, 1991 and struck a vehicle head-on driven by Travis Martin. The indictment said Stumbo was under the influence of an intoxicating substance at the time of the accident.

- Deborah Woods, first degree wanton endangerment, for allegedly shooting five times into the home of Betty Hall on January 17, 1991, while Hall was in the home.

- Myra Renee Watts, 30, of Auxier, first degree wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting at Danny Ray Ward and Danita Kay Wireman four times on December 4, 1990.

- William Patrick Terry and Thomas E. Skeens, second degree assault, when they allegedly hit James Thurman Mullins Jr. in the head with a two-by-four on August 31, 1989.

- Steven Clark Mills, 31, of Wayland, first degree assault, for allegedly shooting Homer Gibson with a shotgun on December 21, 1990.

- Robert Eugene Kidd, first degree assault, for allegedly shooting Michael Ray Kidd with a shotgun on January 5, 1991.

- Danny Harris, first degree wanton endangerment, for allegedly shooting a firearm in the direction of Green Hall and Sandra Hall on August 27, 1990.

- Ballard Plummer, 42, of Prestonsburg, first degree assault, for allegedly shooting Rasser Martin in the neck with a .38 caliber weapon on October 11, 1990.

- Tony Hall, third degree assault, for allegedly hitting Ralph Frasure, a police officer, on December 21, 1990.

- Greg Johnson, 32, of Prestonsburg, first degree wanton endangerment, second degree wanton endangerment and third degree assault. The first degree wanton endangerment charge was for allegedly shooting at Damon Newsome on October 9, 1990. The second degree wanton endangerment charge stemmed from allegedly applying his emergency brakes while he was being

Report on clerk's audit is disputed by official

A published account of an audit of the Floyd County Circuit Court Clerk's office brought protests from Circuit Court Clerk Frank DeRossett and from the Administrative Office of the Courts.

The audit, released by the State Auditor Bob Babbage, cited problems with bank procedures, with cash closeout and with court cost assessments. Geoffrey S. Reed, Deputy Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC), confirmed the accuracy of the Times' report, but said it needed to be clarified.

"Frank runs a good office and has for years," Reed said. He explained that the purpose of the audit is to help the clerk's office become more efficient and to make sure no money is missing. Reed said the Floyd County office has had no money missing in any of the audits during his tenure with the AOC.

Reed also disagreed with aspects of the audit, explaining that the audit cited a problem with the bank assessing a monthly service charge on the clerk's commercial account.

"Frank is getting the best interest he can with the banks in Floyd County," said Reed.

Harry Shroat, field auditor for the area, indicated in a letter to Reed that the banking problem had been corrected: "Due to not getting much cooperation from the bank personnel...the material amount of the funds had been moved to another bank to get a better rate of interest."

Another problem cited by the audit with banking procedure was early night at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center.

Conda Gail Meade, daughter of James Allen and Diana Meade, of Pikeville, performed a modern lyrical dance performance during the talent segment of the competition before judges chose her to represent the area in the Miss Kentucky Pageant.

Meade will compete with other regional pageant winners for the Miss Kentucky title in July at the Lexington Opera House. The contestant chosen Miss Kentucky will represent the state in the Miss America Pageant.

Several Floyd County women are also registered to compete in regional competition in Paintsville on May 2, 3, and 4. This year's competition in Johnson County will be held in downtown Paintsville at the Sipp Cinema on Main Street.

Principal wants leftover fees used to buy supplies

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Thomas Tackett, principal at the James D. Adams Middle School, is encouraging teachers to use school field trip funds to make up for a lack of teaching supplies at the school.

Floyd County Assistant Superintendent Russell Frazier said Tuesday he received a report that teachers are being asked to use field trip money to purchase toner for copier machines at the school.

"I will check that report out tomorrow (Wednesday)," Frazier said Tuesday afternoon. "Supposedly, the school has no money to purchase toner for the copier machines."

When asked if field trip money could be used to purchase the toner, Frazier replied, "absolutely not."

Tackett said he was unaware of a lack of toner at the school, but said he advocated teachers use excess field trip funds to buy supplies.

"I encourage any teacher to take any money left in their accounts to spend it on paper or supplies," Tackett said. "If they (teachers) have $2-$300 left in their accounts, I don't think we're talking about any significant amount of money."

Field trip funds are accumulated from fees paid by students.

Tackett said the school received $6,000 from the administration at the beginning of the school year to pay for the cost for running the school, but said it would ultimately cost $20,000 to $30,000 to operate the school this year.

"We're a poor school," Tackett said. "We don't peddle knick-knacks and snacks to the students. I think any money raised at the school should be spent to educate the students."

"This is the first I've heard about any shortage of toner," Tackett said. "But, we have four copiers at the school and teachers can use any copier they wish."

Floyd County Education Association president Bud Reynolds said Tuesday that the teachers' group did not support the use of field trip funds to pay for supplies at the school.

"We feel that the few outside cul-

A banjo from a Buick

Some people would call a man who can build a banjo from the torque converter of a Buick talented or unique, Richard Elkins of Prestonsburg just says he is crazy.

No matter what you call it, Richard Elkins' approach to building hand-crafted musical instruments is a combination of old-time craftsmanship, modern technology and the pure personality of the craftsman.

"This wasn't my idea (building a banjo from a Buick)," said Elkins, "I saw a guy on educational television who had built one, and that thing sure did sizzle. He said that you wouldn't be able to find the part, a torque converter from a 1949 Buick Dyna-Flo transmission, but I went through two or three hundred at a junkyard and I finally found one."

"I've worked on this one for about seven years on and off, and when I finally get it done it will be one of a kind because I flat out will not start another one," said Elkins with a laugh.

Other parts of the "Buick Banjo" also use non-traditional materials. "The flange plate is made of truck bed aluminum alloy and the brass parts used to be the plates that said

"Ford", or "Chevy" or whatever," said Elkins, adding that he used a cymbal from a set of drums owned by his son as a back or sounding plate on the banjo. The cymbal was installed on a threaded bolt which allowed the banjo's player to make the sound chamber of the instrument deeper or more shallow in order to affect tonal characteristics.

Another banjo Elkins is proud of is his version of a "real old-time" banjo.

"I built it to look as old as I could," said Elkins. "People have guessed that it is more than 60 years old, but I could never sell it to somebody like that. I'm not a hook or crook type of person."

The "old-time" banjo is made with a birch wood neck provided by a local cabinet maker.

A favorite story of Elkins' is about a mandolin he spotted sticking out of a garbage can in Prestonsburg.

"I saw that thing in about 15 pieces in that garbage can and I asked the people at the house there if I could have it. Well, it sat around here until I finally decided to work on it. I knew it would be tough, you could smell the age on it."

Hearing is Friday :

Immunity claimed by board

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

The Floyd County Board of Education has asked to be dismissed as a defendant in a civil action concerning a school construction project, contending in the request that the school system is protected by sovereign immunity.

Earlier this month, the board was named a co-defendant in a suit filed by Triple B Corporation, a prime contractor doing site preparation work for the school system's new, Left Beaver High School. Triple B's suit also names as a defendant DFM, Inc. doing business as B&J Construction.

The company contends, among other things, that payment for work performed has been withheld by the board. Triple B also claims that B&J Construction was paid for work actually performed by Triple B employees.

In their motion to dismiss the school board as a party, school attorneys Bryan, Fogle and Chenoweth contend the system cannot be held liable under the claim because Kentucky's constitution grants sovereign immunity to governmental agencies. The attorneys cited numerous examples of case law to support their argument, and note that sovereign immunity can be waived only by an action of the state's General Assembly.

School attorneys also cited a Kentucky law which provides that boards of education "may sue or be sued," but they argue that that statute does not constitute a waiver of sovereign immunity.

In response to the board's motion to dismiss, Triple B attorney Phillip Damron contends that state law "clearly means" that the board of education may be held liable in civil action and he has neither "the time nor the inclination" to test the state constitution's guarantee of sovereign immunity with this lawsuit.

Damron also asks in his answer that the suit be transferred to Franklin Circuit Court, basing that request on a state law which designates that court as the proper jurisdiction for such actions.

The motions will be the subjects of a hearing in Floyd Circuit Court, scheduled for 9 a.m. this Friday, March 29.

Dr. Penney Sanders to address teachers

Dr. Penney Sanders, director of the state's Office of Education Accountability, will speak to the Floyd County Education Association at its spring meeting Friday, March 29, at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center.

FCEA president Bud Reynolds said the teachers' group welcomes Dr. Sanders and looks forward to discussing the state's Education Reform Act.

Grand Jury report criticizes parking at courthouse

Parking facilities at the Floyd County Courthouse were the 1991 grand jury's major complaint during their first session.

The report said:

- Fire lanes at the courthouse shall not be blocked. Visitor parking shall be clearly marked with an one-hour time limit.

- The parking lot shall be clearly marked for office department heads.
- Employees of department heads shall park elsewhere.

- Violators shall be given a ticket with penalties more severe with each offense.

- The Floyd County Sheriff shall be held responsible for following these recommendations.

- The poor housekeeping in and around the courthouse shall be corrected immediately.

Connecting the roads

Construction crews began work recently to link the new Rt. 23 with old Rt. 23 near East Point. According to Denton Billiter, Chief District Engineer for the highway department, the road will connect with a bridge near Highlands Regional Medical Center on the Auxier Road section of Rt. 23. The bridge and road will cost approximately six million dollars upon completion. (photo by Tim Preston)

Elkins

Elkins said that wood used in the back and sides of the instrument had to be steamed and limbered before being braced and glued. The top of the mandolin required extensive work to restore a decorative butterfly inlay near the soundhole. "When I got it back in one piece it still looked like the back side of hard times," said Elkins. After further hand polishing and finishing, Elkins sold the instrument to a neighbor. "Roy Franklin, a real good fiddler and a fine builder from this area saw it later and told me it was a Spiegel, May and Stern mandolin from 1923. The guy I sold it to said he has been offered a whole lot for it, but he won't part with it."

Richard Elkins loves old musical instruments, and will gladly discuss the merits and pitfalls of various old models of Gibson, Gretsch and Martin stringed instruments. His true love, however, seems to be the workshop and the five-string banjo.

"When a five string banjo goes together it has to be one piece or there goes your sound. I put a lot into making them solid, and I'll say this, if someone wants to take one apart, it won't be me. I wouldn't go so far as to say they wouldn't ever split, but it is very unlikely. You have to build one right to get that buttery feeling neck. I won't let one go unless it is right."

These days Elkins spends many of his hours working on an elaborately inlaid banjo neck.

"I like to use these old mother of pearl buttons from 1930's style women's coats for my inlays," said Elkins, adding that he has used decorative parts of Avon powder boxes and sparkling veneers from old drum sets in building his unique instruments.

Elkins credits the work of several other local luthiers (craftsmen who build stringed musical instruments) as his inspiration to start building instruments, with particular emphasis on Prestonsburg's Dave Sizemore and an Abbott Creek fiddle builder from his childhood.

"I think his name was John McGuire, I'm not sure. He was from up at Abbott and he built his fiddles out of only buckeye wood, which is very unusual because that wood softens as it cures. Don't knock it though because it really had the sound. As for Dave Sizemore, I think the world of him. He is a fine craftsman and a great musician too. He really got me into the idea of doing this. He has slowed down some though. I told him one time that he has gotten so lazy that he has an electric knife just to whittle with."

Of the future Elkins says that he would like to build a guitar "to my own specifications". He doesn't elaborate on what plans he has for that dream guitar, but one can be sure it will be something special and different. Richard Elkins wouldn't have it any other way.

Rate decrease sought by Kentucky Power

Kentucky Power Company has notified the state Public Service Commission that it will request a $3.3 million, or 1.3 percent, annual decrease in its commercial and industrial retail rates, to be effective April 1. The company plans a formal filing on Wednesday.

Although residential customers will not be affected by this request, Coulter R. Boyle, III, president of Kentucky Power, said, "When this decrease is placed in effect, the composite rate charged to all customers will have declined by 6.6 percent since 1984."

"There are 10 different tariffs," said C. Richard Lovegrove, with the Public Relations Department of the company. Each class has a different rate structure with commercial and industrial customers paying the highest rate, Lovegrove explained. The rate decrease will "equalize" those classifications.

Kentucky Power has one of the lowest residential rates in the nation and is listed in the bottom 5 percent, Lovegrove said. He also emphasized that Kentucky Power's rates have stayed the same or decreased since 1984.

Boyle credited the overall decline in electric rates to company operating efficiencies, cost control measures and a change in federal tax laws.

"The rates we are placing into effect April 1 are subject to change pending hearings and the Public Service Commission's final order, probably next fall," he concluded.

Task force to review coal severance tax issue

A special legislative task force, created to study the coal severance tax issue, will hold its first meeting this month.

The Coal Revenue Allocation Task Force, created during the recently completed special legislative session, will meet for the first time on March 27 in Frankfort, according to Sen. Charles Berger, D-Harlan, and Rep. Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, co-chairs of the panel.

SCR 47, passed during the special session, created a task force to examine the issue of returning more severance tax revenue to coal-producing or coal-impacted counties.

The 25 members of the task force were appointed at the March 6 Legislative Research Commission meeting and were directed to issue their findings by Oct. 1.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson placed the severance tax issue in the call for the special session, proposing to raise the amount returned to coal counties from 12 percent to 25 percent. Wilkinson proposed the creation of an economic development fund to determine how the money should be spent.

The creation of the task force was a compromise between proponents of the plan to return more coal severance money to coal counties and opponents who believed the revenue issue was too complex to be considered in the special session.

The task force will meet at 1 p.m. in room 149 of the Capitol Annex and will review Kentucky's current coal severance tax allocation program and receive reports on the state's coal resources and on trends in coal industry employment. The public is invited to attend.

Report

withdrawal penalty assessments if special escrow accounts were closed before the six month minimum deposit period established by most banks in the area.

"Money deposited with the Circuit Court Clerk's Office is held pending the outcome of litigation. It is deposited in an interest bearing account, and the successful party is entitled to that interest," said Floyd Circuit Court Judge Hollie Conley.

Reed said the Circuit Clerk's office had no control over early withdrawal when the funds were requested by individuals who were entitled to the funds, or their attorneys.

"Taxpayers are not losing one dime," DeRossett said, "It's the individuals, the people who put up the accounts, that's being charged the penalty."

Reed concurred.

Also cited by the audit were cash closeout problems in the jail and small claims offices. Cathy Goble, bookkeeper for the Floyd Circuit Clerk's office, explained that both offices had been conducting cash close-outs twice a week because often the offices "had no money to close out." The state auditor's office has requested each office close out their accounts at the end of the day, even if there is a zero balance.

"We had no reason to think there was a problem (with this system),"

Goble said, "but things change."

"I've asked for an audit for the past five years," DeRossett said, "just to correct things like this. You have to beg them (state auditors) to come."

Field Auditor Shroust said he was trying to establish a better accounting trail by implementing better accounting procedures in Floyd County and other Kentucky counties.

Another complaint voiced by Shroust in his report was that court costs should be collected on state traffic school cases in district court. "Court costs were always waived by the district judge for traffic cases in which the defendant was sentenced to attend state traffic school, the report cited.

Deputy Director Reed disputed the clerk's responsibility to collect fees when "the judge sets up a situation" where the person pays on time or is not assessed court fees.

"The clerk is in no position to tell the judge how to run his court," said Reed. "The Administrative Office of the Courts will have to examine how the entire local court system operates as far as collecting of fees to be sure that the clerk's accounting system operates in compliance with the auditor's recommendation."

Reed said his office is in the process of making those recommendations for better organization and cooperation among court members.

Fees

tural events students take to Lexington or Huntington, maybe to see a museum, are meaningful to students," Reynolds said. "We need for students to expand beyond the borders of Floyd County and let them know it's a big world out there. Any and every opportunity we can provide students to get out of the county, we need to do it."

A fund raising request submitted earlier this year by Tackett for students to sell candy door-to-door to pay long distance telephone bills at the school was denied by the board of education.

Reynolds said teachers can expect a larger amount of per pupil funds next school year, because teachers were told in a training session that the Kentucky Education Reform Act mandates that schools will receive $75 per student. Reynolds said teachers can either turn that money over to principals or they can use it themselves for their own instructional use.

and Bill Jones, second degree assault, for allegedly spraying James Hamilton with mace.

• Jack Miller, theft by deception, for allegedly issuing a check to Marion T. Spriggs knowing the check would not be honored.

• Robye Dean Miller and Rodney Harrington Brown, theft by unlawful taking, for allegedly taking 270 tie plates belonging to CSX Railroad.

The grand jury also handed down 12 sealed indictments.

An indictment is not an indication of guilt, but a determination by a grand jury that criminal charges merit a full court hearing.

Two city councils cancel meetings

Scheduled meetings of both the Prestonsburg and Wheelwright city councils were canceled this week due to lack of a quorum in both cities.

Wheelwright City Clerk Mary Ann Johnson said council members were scheduled to reappoint members of the Wheelwright City Utilities Commission. The next scheduled meeting of the Wheelwright City Council will be 7 p.m. Thursday, April 18, at the Wheelwright City Hall.

The second regular monthly meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council was canceled early Monday afternoon, also for lack of council members available for the meeting. Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta is currently on vacation. The next scheduled meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council will be 7 p.m. Monday, April 8, at the Prestonsburg Municipal Building.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

"Eenie, meenie, chillie beanie...the spirits are about to speak..."

—Bullwinkle the Moose

The spirits in this case are, of course, the candidates for governor and, as the fateful date of the primary approaches, they are speaking with considerably increased frequency.

Some, in fact, are beginning to speak in tongues.

GOP candidate Larry Forgy, for example, says he opposes mandatory participation in garbage collection because rural Kentuckians can't afford it right now. Forgy could, however, support legislation for mandatory recycling should the issue arise in the 1992 session of the General Assembly.

Huh?

Let's see if we've got this right. Forgy doesn't think people can afford to have their trash hauled off, but they can afford to collect it, separate it and haul it themselves to various recycling centers. The state, Forgy says, should provide financial assistance to communities to help keep the costs of recycling down.

Where will the state get the funds to help finance recycling programs?

Where do you think?

Larry Hopkins, another GOP hopeful, responded to a question about mandatory garbage collection with a classic:

"Garbage is a problem for everybody. I mean, it's all of our problem and it will be in the future. It's an issue that is not going to go away and one that will be considered by somebody, somewhere, sometime, and the sooner we get started considering that the better off we're all going to be."

Geez.

That answer ought to be taken out and shot. Even Forgy wouldn't promote recycling of that garbage.

Four of five Democratic candidates for governor said they support mandatory garbage collection. Martha Wilkinson, the lone dissenter, said she thought legislation passed during the special session should be given time to work. One of the cornerstones of that legislation requires counties to offer a voluntary system for trash collection.

An official with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet said 10 percent of all waste created in Kentucky is disposed of illegally. "Volunteers," no doubt, are responsible for a large share of that total.

Is there some clue among the W-2s, 1099s and 1040 (long forms) which will satisfy our minds as to who is the right choice for governor?

Only our CPAs know for sure.

While we're as curious as the next guy about who makes how much money, the emphasis we see placed on disclosure of candidates' personal incomes makes little sense in the grand scheme of things.

Sure, we need to know if those who wish to lead are crooks, cheats or shysters, but we doubt seriously that any candidate who may have a suspicious source of income will, in a fit of conscience, make that known in a tax return. ("Hi, I want to be governor and I made all my money selling dope to devil worshipping white slave traders. It's all right there on my tax return.")

If business acumen is the clue we seek in candidate financial records, perhaps we should revise our priorities.

As a businessman, Abraham Lincoln was a failure.

By the time the November election rolls around, thousands of individuals and businesses will have contributed millions of dollars to various candidates with hopes only that their donations will ensure effective, legitimate and accountable government.

(Hey mister, wanna buy a duck? Some beachfront property in Iowa?)

When the smoke clears and the votes are counted, the winners will be those whose television commercials were most imaginative. Here's some we hope to see:

- There's Brer Jones, surrounded by Wilkinson campaign contributors. "Whatever y'all does," cries Brer Jones, "don't throw me in that thar briar patch."

- There's fatigue-clad general Martha Wilkinson (with a cardboard cutout of Stormin' Norman Schwarzkopf at her side) noting that she can't reveal her stands on campaign issues for fear of tipping off the enemy to her strategy.

- There's before and after photos of Dr. Floyd Poore, the first showing Poore is his trademark Mr. Cartoon sportscoat and the second showing the doctor in surgical garb. Poore is promoting his new diet aid "Change Fast."

"Give me the mansion," pleads the doc, "and I'll redecorate."

- And finally, there's Scotty Baesler wrapped up in Ace bandages and doing his best impersonation of Claude Raines in the invisible man. Baesler unwraps to prove there is, indeed, a man of substance under the disguise. Only problem is the commercial is aired on a channel opposite "Cheers."

Saluting Patrick Henry

Editor:

Lord Byron called him, (Patrick) "Henry, the forest-born Demosthenes." It was on March 23, 1775, that freedom's firebrand from Virginia, Patrick Henry, stood in the church of St. John the Divine and delivered his most famous speech. Some of his words are as relevant today as they were then:

"...millions of people armed in the holy cause of liberty...are invincible by any force which our enemy can send against us...There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations, and who will raise up friends to fight for us. The battle, sir, is not to the strong alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the brave...It is vain, sir, to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may cry peace, peace—but there is no peace...IS LIFE SO DEAR OR PEACE SO SWEET AS TO BE PURCHASED AT THE PRICE OF CHAINS AND SLAVERY? FORBID IT, ALMIGHTY GOD! I KNOW NOT WHAT COURSE OTHERS MAY TAKE, BUT AS FOR ME, GIVE ME LIBERTY OR GIVE ME DEATH!"

One observer described Mr. Henry's delivery... "When (he) pled, 'Forbid it, Almighty God' his arms were extended aloft; his body was thrown back, his coat flung right and left. The tendons of his neck stood out white and rigid like whips. His brow was knit, every feature marked with the resolute purpose of his soul..."

Thomas Jefferson said of him: "It is not now easy to say what we should have done without Patrick Henry." When most American statesmen (including George Washington) were counseling compromise, Patrick Henry was spreading verbal fires of independence. Henry served in the military early in the War for Independence, was later elected Governor of Virginia, and was instrumental in opening up the Northwest Territory by commissioning George Rogers Clark. He, with Sam Adams and a few others, so vigorously opposed the initial U.S. Constitution, won for all Americans our "Bill of Rights".

The Kentucky Society of the Sons of The American Revolution salutes, this month of March, Patrick Henry, possibly the purest American patriot in our history. It was Washington who was the great leader of the Revolution; it was Patrick Henry who gave him a Revolution to lead.

Where's the book?

Editor:

You had an ad in May 1990 for a book titled Coming Up Hard & Making It by Barbara Ford Ritch published by Father & Son Publishing Co.

I mailed my Citizen Banking Co. check dated May 9, 1990 for $27.95 for this book.

On January 2, 1991 Father & Son Publishing cashed my check at Havana State Bank, Havana, FL 063 101 700 (5555-45525) and it also had FRB Cleveland, Ohio 0410-0001-4 276201446 1-04-91 063100688, all this appeared on the back of my check.

It is March 21, 1991 and I still have not received my book. Can you help me since the ad appeared in your newspaper? I never thought I would need the address of Father & Son Publishing Co. or if as an individual I could get the book ordered or the refund of my money—$27.95?

I would appreciate your help on this matter.

Report to Kentucky

Senator Wendell Ford

Kentuckians are now ready to win the war on drugs

Our prayers of recent weeks and months have been answered by the brilliant and resounding victory of our troops and our military leaders in the Persian Gulf.

All Kentuckians are joined in support of the President's continuing efforts to ensure that the aggression of a brutal dictator will never be repeated.

We will never forget the proud role played by our troops from Fort Campbell and Fort Knox and by thousands of Kentucky National Guard members and reservists called into service in this conflict. We look forward to the early return of our troops and to the brighter future they have earned through their courageous service in the Gulf.

Our state and nation have demonstrated the unity, the will and the strength required to accomplish great objectives in the world. Now it is time to apply these same qualities to the very serious challenges still facing us on the home front.

We must recognize that these challenges still include a war on drugs and related crime right here at home. We must recognize that we still have to win this war to protect the lives and futures of our children.

Kentucky also is playing a vital role in this domestic war through our regional task forces and other programs to combat the continuing scourge of illegal drug traffic and dangerous drug abuse.

I am extremely pleased to report that we are now receiving more of the resources we need to prevail in this struggle.

The good news for our state is that the U.S. Department of Justice recently awarded $6,457,000 for our Kentucky drug war—an increase of $377,000 over last year.

The best news is that these funds will go exactly where they are needed most—to state and local law-enforcement officers and others on the front lines of the battle.

Federal assistance goes to the DARE program of drug education in the schools, the National Crime and Drug Abuse Prevention Program, the National Citizens Crime Prevention Campaign and the National Association of Town Watch.

Kentucky also will be using the new grant to establish two new multi-jurisdictional task forces, improve criminal history record-keeping and expand treatment and drug-testing of prisoners and parolees. Funds also will go for continued marijuana eradication and additional law-enforcement training.

The 101st Congress passed the Omnibus Crime Bill of 1990 to enable us to keep increasing the very productive investments being made in the war on crime and drugs across the nation.

I plan to press for a continued strengthening of these critically important efforts in the 102nd Congress.

The accomplishments of our Persian Gulf troops should inspire this entire nation to new heights in meeting the law-enforcement, education, economic-development and other pressing challenges still in front of us.

Our state stands ready to do more than its share in meeting these challenges, and I look forward to working with all Kentuckians in this great effort in the months and years ahead.

Open government records

by Kentucky Local Governance Project

The Kentucky Open Records Act, passed in 1976, gives the public the right to access government records. It applies to all public agencies and all public officials, including state agencies, local governments and any board or district created by state or local government or agency that gets 25 percent or more of its funding from state or local government (federal government agencies are covered by the similar Freedom of Information Act). The Open Records Act makes all government records public except for those in the categories set forth as exemptions, and it provides procedures for inspection of records, and appeals of agency denials of access to records.

In general, all kinds of records are public: budgets, payrolls, contracts, data gathered by agencies, environmental violation or monitoring records, minutes of meetings and reports. Examples of some of the exceptions include documents involving matters of personal privacy, confidential business information or trade secrets submitted by private entities to regulatory agencies, documents relating to the proposed location of a business or industry until some public announcement is made, and internal memoranda that express preliminary opinions and recommendations of staff to higher level decision-makers.

Some people feel that the Act has too many exceptions, that its penalties are not severe enough to ensure compliance, and that there are insufficient procedures in place for accessing computerized records. In addition, many people are concerned that, as more and more private companies take over tasks of government (operating water and sewer plants and prisons, for example), that the public's right to information about how these activities are conducted—and how its money is being spent—must be preserved.

If your request for records is wrongfully denied, you can appeal to the Attorney General's office or bring a lawsuit. Many citizens who have tried to get records feel that there is too much leeway for officials to claim exemptions or put off providing records until it is too late to do any good.

The legislature has created a Task Force on Open Meetings and Open Records which is now meeting. This task force is a follow-up to an effort in the last legislative session to revise the Open Meetings and Open Records laws. For information about the legislative task force or to comment on the issues, write to the Legislative Research Commission, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Open government and an active and informed public are necessary to ensure that government will be responsible, responsive and accountable to all citizens. Many people believe that public scrutiny is essential to democracy. What do you think? How important is open government? What records should the public be able to see? Should obtaining documents be simplified? Should the cost be eliminated? The Kentucky Local Governance Project would like to know how you feel about this issue.

Send your comments on open records to The Kentucky Local Governance Project, 433 Chestnut Street, Berea, Kentucky 40403.

McConnell Comments

Senator Mitch McConnell

New federal rules for bus safety

It is with great horror that we remember the 27 people that were killed in the Carrollton bus tragedy three years ago. In that tragic wreck, a truck driven by a drunk driver slammed into a church bus that burst into flames. The men, women and children that were killed died before they could exit the burning vehicle. As a consequence of this wreck, the National Transportation Safety Board undertook an investigation to determine what exactly could be done to make buses safer.

This week, the NTSB in conjunction with the Department of Transportation announced their proposals for increasing bus passenger safety. Heading the list of improvements will be changes in how many doors will be required on school buses. Exit space, which includes both removable windows, doors, and emergency exits, will be based on the seating capacity of the bus. Thus, the larger the bus, the more exit space must be provided to riders. In addition, school buses will be required to improve access to side emergency doors and bus exits must be made clearly visible.

While states will be free to improve on these safety requirements, the federal code sets a minimum standard that all bus operators must comply with or face the possibility of penalties.

By taking action now to improve the number of emergency exits on our buses, we can go a long way in helping to insure the safety of passengers, especially children, who depend on these vehicles.

Housing project flooded by leaking pipe

Stop the leak!

Prestonsburg firefighters worked to clear water flowing through the hallways of the Indian Hills Housing Complex Friday when a 3/8 inch plastic pipe developed a sizable leak. Several residents had to be evacuated while emergency units mopped up. (photo by Estill Robinson)

The right wing of the Indian Hills housing project was evacuated Friday when a crack developed in plastic pipe leading to a sink in a fourth floor apartment.

The Prestonsburg Fire Department was notified of the incident around 6 p.m. and firefighters discovered water flowing across the first floor of the building. The fourth floor apartment of John Dial, where the leak originated, had about one and a half inches of water on the floor, said Fire Chief Tom Blackburn.

The pipe had been leaking for more than an hour, before firefighters were called, Blackburn estimated. "He (Dial) was unable to reach anyone at the two housing offices," he added.

"Water was running through the light fixtures," said Blackburn. Firemen cut power on individual breakers in the building to prevent fire hazards. A door by door check led firefighters to several residents who were on respirators and their electricity was left on, Blackburn said.

Because the building is home to the elderly and disabled, firefighters have a standard operating plan when called to the building. Members of the Floyd County Rescue Squad, P & B and Respond ambulance companies, Prestonsburg police, the fire departments and other emergency units and auxiliaries respond to incidents there.

Blackburn said the operation went smoother because of the preplanning among the emergency units. "We planned for fire, but we had never planned for water," he said. The fire department purchased a ladder truck in order to reach residents on the fourth floor of the highrise.

Approximately 50 members of these units including members of the housing maintenance team assisted with the water removal operation. Firefighters worked for approximately three and a half hours using wet/dry vacuums to remove the water. Blackburn praised the efforts of those who helped clear up the situation, especially to Pizza Hut for providing the workers with refreshments. "The power was off and with all the people in the building, it got real warm," he said.

Twelve apartments were damaged by the water and several residents chose to go to other places to spend the night. No injuries were reported, but one resident had to be transported to the hospital because of elevated blood pressure, Blackburn said.

Hall initiates first tribute program in state

A new innovative program has been brought to Floyd County by Johnny Hall, funeral director with Hall Funeral Home at Martin. Hall has introduced a new way of enhancing funeral service with video.

Called the Tribute Program, it is a moving, yet dignified presentation of a life remembered, combining sophisticated video technology with a sensitive production style. Hall Funeral Home is the first funeral home in Kentucky to initiate this program.

"We view the Tribute Program as a way to celebrate the life of someone who has died," said Hall. "Families who use the Tribute Program may share a very special remembrance of their loved one's life, both at the funeral ceremony and in private, whenever they wish to do so", he added.

The Tribute Program combines photographs from the life of the deceased with tastefully presented background scenes evocative of the Eastern Kentucky area. Music, which may be selected by the family because of its association with the departed person, is added to form the sound track. A favorite scripture or other quotation completes the package. The result is a six minute videotape featuring cherished pictures complemented by respectful audio and visual imagery.

The Tribute Program is based on pictures chosen by the family. "It is not a videotape of the funeral itself," Hall pointed out. "Only photos that show the deceased as the family wishes to remember him or her are used," he added.

Produced by National Music Service, of Spokane, Washington, the Tribute Program is being used across the United States and Canada. It has drawn favorable comment from families and funeral directors. "What a beautiful and lasting remembrance to pass on to the grandchildren, especially the younger ones, when the memories are starting to fade. Yes, we have the picture albums, but there is something very different about the video," said a family member from Idaho.

The important role the Tribute Program can play in facilitating the grieving process has been recognized by Dr. Earl Grollman, widely acclaimed authority on the subject. "This is the most exciting new project I've ever heard of in funeral service," noted Grollman.

Hall Funeral Home has been serving our Eastern Kentucky community for a number of years. "We've always been dedicated to providing meaningful funeral services in line with established traditions," said Hall. "The Tribute program is innovative, yet still well within the bounds of respectful funeral custom", Hall pointed out.

"The Tribute Program is truly something that every family will want to acquire. Memories will definitely last forever. I, myself, have purchased a Tribute Program of my parents," said Hall.

Big Sandy ADD to register boarding homes

Facilities which rent 24-hour-a-day room and board to three or more unrelated adults and which otherwise do not require a license must now register with the state under a new Kentucky law.

Kentucky Revised Statute 216B.305, passed by the 1990 General Assembly, mandates registration by the Cabinet for Human Resources, but bars any fees or other form of regulation of so-called "boarding homes."

Sue Tuttle, director of the cabinet's Division of Aging Services, says the law applies to places where the renter gains a room and meals only.

"There are still state licenses required for places such as family and personal care homes that provide residents with supervision, medication assistance or a daily, supervised plan of care," Tuttle said.

"The legislature determined that there was a need for a registry of boarding homes, while not mandating that they submit to regular inspections or meet existing licensure standards for other adult care facilities."

The legislation defines a "boarding home" as any facility offering for a fee room and board on a 24-hour basis and accommodating three or more adults (excluding students) who are not related by blood or marriage to the operator and who do not require supervision or medical assistance.

The registration has no fee and there are no other requirements attached to being listed with the state.

However, failure to register carries a stiff penalty. "The law requires unregistered boarding homes, once reported and located, to be fined $100 plus $10 per day until they have completed registration," said Tuttle.

This year, existing boarding homes must be registered by April 30. New homes must register within 30 days of the start of operation.

The state's 15 area development districts (ADDs) will handle the registrations under an existing contract with the cabinet.

Anyone with questions may contact the state Division of Aging Services in Frankfort by calling (502) 564-6930, or contact staff at the Big Sandy Area Development District on N. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 42653, (606) 886-2374.

Paintsville native promoted:

Daniels named president of gas company

Paintsville native R.T. Daniel has been elected president of Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company by its board of directors.

Frederick H. Abrew, executive vice president of Equitable Resources, Inc., Kentucky West's parent company in Pittsburgh, said Daniel will maintain the additional title of vice president and general manager of the pipeline division and will have offices at the company's Prestonsburg headquarters.

Daniel will have managerial responsibility for the company's Kentucky operations and its Pittsburgh-based accounting and legal departments.

Kentucky-West Virginia gas, an interstate natural gas pipeline company founded in 1926, has multifaceted operations including the sale and transportation of natural gas to various towns, local distribution companies, and residential consumers in Eastern Kentucky in addition to its interstate customers, and provides general contracting services to other companies engaged in the production of natural gas and crude oil. Kentucky West recently completed a comprehensive restructuring program that created separate transmission and production/gathering operating divisions and transferred its headquarters from Ashland to Prestonsburg.

Daniel began working with the company in 1963 and held various management positions before being appointed vice president-personnel in 1983. He was named vice president-administration in 1988.

Daniel is a member of the American Gas Association, National Management Association, American Association of Personnel Administrators, and the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers (AIME).

Active in civic affairs and youth organizations, Daniel is a member of the board of directors of the Mayo State Vocational-Technical Foundation.

He and his wife Page reside at Cross Creek and are the parents of two sons.

R.T. Daniel

EIC is affected by nontaxable income

Congress created the Earned Income Credit (EIC) for low-income families who have children, so they can keep more of their earned income.

In general, for 1990 the taxpayer must have earned income and adjusted gross income of less than $20,264 and have one or more children living with him or her in the United States for more than one-half of the taxable year. The taxpayer must file as head of household, married filing a joint return, or qualifying widow(er) with dependent child.

For certain taxpayers, determining the income amount is not simple. Certain payments, which are not taxable, are considered earned income for purposes of the EIC. They can affect the amount of the credit or even push the taxpayer beyond the income limit for qualifying for the credit.

For example, the value of excluded meals and lodging (including parsonages for the clergy and separate rations and housing allowances for the military) is considered earned income in determining if a taxpayer qualifies for the EIC. A taxpayer, who qualifies for EIC and whose earned and adjusted gross income for 1990 is $6,000, may qualify for a credit of $842. However, if that same taxpayer also had qualifying nontaxable subsistence allowances from the U.S. military of $900, he or she may qualify for the maximum credit of $953. On the other hand, if the taxpayer had $16,000 earned and adjusted gross income and got $4,500 rental value for quarters or a parsonage, he or she would no longer qualify for the EIC even though the value of the lodging was not taxable.

In addition, certain individuals who have foreign earned income cannot claim the credit.

For more information, free IRS Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit," is available by calling toll-free, 1-800-829-3676.

Homecare program sets record for older Kentuckians

A record 9,516 Kentuckians were enrolled in a state program enabling frail older persons to remain in their own homes at the end of 1990, and officials expect the number to top 13,000 by mid-summer.

The annual report by the Department for Social Services on Kentucky's Homecare Program underscores the growing demand for the nine-year-old effort to assist persons who are 60 or older and who have some physical or mental impairment to their ability to care for themselves.

Homecare services, including assessment, case management, homemaker, home health, home delivered meals, personal care, escort, minor residential repairs and respite for family members, are designed to enable the elderly individuals or couples to avoid having to move out of their homes and into residential care.

"The most clients this program has ever served in an entire year was just over 9,200 in 1988," said Social Services Commissioner Larry Michalczuk. "In the first six months of the fiscal year, that figure was surpassed and we expect to add at least another 3,000 or more clients by the end of June.

"This public response fully justifies the decision by Gov. Wilkinson and the 1990 legislature to significantly increase Homecare funding from $8 million last year to more than $16 million this year and next."

Kentucky's Homecare Program is administered by the department's Aging Services division, and is operated in all 120 counties through contracts with area development districts and direct service providers.

Aging Services director Sue Tuttle said, "In some sections of the state, more Homecare clients were served between July and December 1990 than benefited from the program in that region in the entire previous year."

Homecare clients are typically older Kentuckians who live alone and have no other direct assistance. "For example," Tuttle said, "last year, nine out of 10 of Kentucky's Homecare clients were severely disabled.

Six in 10 lived alone, were widowed or over age 75."

"Three out of four were female and two out of three had incomes of less than $7,000 a year. In 1990, we also recorded an increase in minority clients and in persons in the 81-85 age group."

The 1990 report on more than 2.35 million services provided to Homecare clients shows the following breakdown:

Homemaker (Home Management and personal Care), 99,101; Respite (for family members of caretakers), 524,725; Home Delivered, Nutritionally Balanced Meals, 518,390; Case Management (linkages to needed services), 158,825; Home Health Aide, 52,918; Assessment, 37,080; Escort, 33,938; Chores (errands, yardwork, etc.), 31,302; Home repairs, 5,120.

"All of those numbers should grow dramatically this year, due to the expansion funds approved by the governor and the legislature," Michalczuk said.

"Yet, based on the latest population estimates, there may be three times as many older Kentuckians who could benefit from Homecare services, if the funding and the necessary community services were available.

"The bottom line of the Homecare program is two-fold," he said. "It is less costly in terms of finances for people to be cared for in their own homes by receiving only the additional, outside services that they need as opposed to being placed in a nursing home or personal care home.

"It's also less costly in human terms for the senior citizens who, through this program, are able to maintain more of the personal independence and chosen lifestyle that would otherwise be impossible."

For more information on the Homecare program in the Big Sandy Area, contact the Big Sandy ADD at 886-2374.

Card of Thanks

The family of Nora "Donnie" Johnson wishes to thank all those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers, food, and prayers. We especially want to thank the Pilgrim Rest Regular Baptist Church, the Old Regular Baptist ministers for their comforting words, the sheriff's department for their assistance in traffic control, and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional service. On behalf of the family we want to give our heartfelt thanks. A death is always hard to live through, but with people such as yourselves there to help us, it made the burden lighter.

THE FAMILY OF NORA "DONNIE" JOHNSON

Coping with bereavement

The loss of someone close, especially as a casualty during war, is one of life's most stressful events. It can leave you so numb that you have difficulty recognizing the reality of death or coping with its impact on your life.

Even so, you're forced to deal with ideas that cause a great deal of pain. We know, for example, that a refusal to acknowledge "the facts of death" is a disservice to the dying and the living alike, but doing so forces the acknowledgement of how real this situation is, and it hurts.

Bereavement literally means "being deprived by death." It describes a process all people go through when someone close dies. Each person experiences this process differently, but there are some characteristics common to most instances of bereavement:

It doesn't progress in an orderly fashion. You probably won't find yourself moving systematically from one well-defined stage to another. Instead, you'll probably drift back and forth from what might best be described as overlapping, fluid phases of anger, denial and acceptance.

Effective coping with bereavement really depends on your ability to mourn properly.

Reach out for help. Others cannot always make the first move.

In loving memory of my husband of forty-four years DEWEY LEE ALLEN

I want to thank the many individuals who came to our aid this past year. A special thanks to our family, friends, neighbors, Vogel Day United Methodist Church and its pastor Dan Frederick. We are fortunate to have become acquainted with another very special group of people from Hospice of Big Sandy. The Hospice staff and volunteers were Godsent and performed countless deeds for us. They came whenever needed regardless of the hour. They helped us spiritually, emotionally, as well as physically. Words fail to adequately express my feelings for everyone who helped.

But please know my love and prayers go out to you.

Assisi on Good Friday night

by Duna Combs

Editor's note: Langley resident Duna Combs wrote the following article after experiencing The Assisi of Light.

As the Italians would say the night was "nebbia;" there was a drizzle of cold rain and dark clouds threatened it with obscurity. The dim outline of a fortress-like structure high on a promontory was my first view of the Basilica di San Francesco di Assisi. I could see ahead of me a long string of car lights moving up the hillside quite a distance from the plain I was just leaving. Having driven part way up the hillside, I pulled into a parking lot to my left which was nearly filled with cars, vans and campers. Inside the campers could be seen family groups at their evening meals; disembarking from their vans and cars could be seen young and old alike, all arriving for this Easter weekend. For some, the campout had already begun this Good Friday.

I quickly scrambled out of my car and paid an attendant a small fee to watch it while I would be in the upper piazza that led to the main entrance of the famous Basilica. Traversing the gravel and sand lot, I made my way to the pathway leading up to an archway to the city; sprinting upstairs in the hillside I maneuvered my way into narrow streets vertically sided by walls of stone. At intervals in the walls were openings that revealed bottegas, shops that sold pottery, or utensils or jewelry and other things. Some doorways led to restaurants, hotels — these signaled by discreet markers only. There were private entrances and small windows through which I could observe interiors of homes, religious quarters with thick doors of wood, and single or double paneled doors overlaid with iron grills and perforated with wickets. Each opening was unique; either topped with brick arches or by stone lintels. In Assisi I saw it was only a step from one's quarters into the streets. They are somewhat narrow in many places while others cannot contain even the width of a small car.

From this winding street, I dashed up a wide, short staircase, turned the corner of its balustrade at the top and found myself in the main square. Patches of the cobbled street shimmered impressionistically with the light coating of fine rain. The main entrance to the Basilica was darkened; a mass of people was already standing three deep on either side of a phalanx of umbrellas leading to it. The piazza was immersed in almost total darkness save for some few lights from a single bar nearby.

Everyone was huddled together as much to get a clear view as to seek shelter from the mizzle. There were tiny children, teenagers, holiday visitors, townspeople — all queuing up for the event. Muted voices in French, German, Austrian, Swiss and Italian could be heard; all were as though luminated with the air of quiet anticipation. Then, at the sound of a single rap of a hollow drum, there was a hushed and strained silence. I wished to know the significance of this lonely beat upon the head of a drum.

Gently elbowing my way toward the barricades which set off a pathway some 30 feet or so in width, I ducked between two umbrellas near to it and stared down at the cobbled street's wet, cold surface. Another beat, then another, each followed with a shorter duration of silence but increasingly louder sounds. A gentle swishing sound accompanied by a quiet slapping of footsteps on the paving joined the silence. Barely illumined by small candles being held by persons on either side, a male figure robed in white and bent over by the weight of an enormous cross upon his back was walking barefoot. He was joined in slow procession by volunteers and chosen penitents from nearby parishes. The long line included some 30 others bearing crosses preceded and flanked by groups of sisters in black or white, seminarians, clergy, monks, deacons and students — all solemnly headed toward the darkened Basilica.

The Basilica was filling with people and instead of following after the massive crowd, I walked against it upward to the Church di San Ruffino. Its facade shone a stark white; it was a handsome Romanesque structure with its symmetry pierced by a single Rose window and two enormous wooden doors.

Stepping inside the nave, I settled into a simple wooden pew up close to the apse which held the altar. The interior was filling quickly with little children, mothers and grandmothers waiting and holding places. Shortly fathers from the workplaces quietly slipped in beside them. Older children were going over their beads led by the grandmothers while tinier children were being hused and gentled by their mothers. Conversations quietly rolled and the time passed quickly.

Immediately a hush spread over the packed interior of the stately church upon the sound of a single drum beat. Clergy began filling the altar space, the procession began returning and some 30 bearers of crosses were filing down the main aisle. They passed in front of the altar and peeled off to fill either side of the nave. Those sitting in the pews were as if guarded by the double row of crosses, one on the broadside and the other one on the lee side.

Soon after the flanks were completed, a purling sound began to build; arms were being thrust outward toward a cluster of black-clothed seminarians and the children's arms being timidly stretched out had the slack in them taken up by their parents. Almost inaudible was the single word purred softly, "JESU." At that very moment I saw the figure with a crown of thorns lying on the simple, black-canopied pallet pass before my eyes. I bowed my head. A plaintive air of lamentation began and the song, interspersed with a mournful sound built to a deeper crescendo as others joined in. This epoch offered up simply but heart moving, the enactment of the real Christ removed from the crucifix which a different time, long ago, offered up as the most complex but true event of all time.

This way of the cross closed abruptly; I said silent prayers and left the church amidst the fellowship of the young religious, looking about for and spying happily both family and friends.

Leaving the church of San Ruffino through the same doors I had entered, I found myself in the splendor of a lighted medieval city; lamplighters had gone before to rekindle the outdoor torches upon the walls of Assisi. Trekking down the hilly street, I could see clearly the portals of the Basilica di San Francesco and reflected a moment upon its magnificent rose window and the intricate key-hole openings in its Gothic Arch doorway. There were people everywhere, dispersing in all directions, continuing the search for Easter Resurrection. For many, the search had already begun.

The Assisi of light was a stunning view; varied arched openings penetrate the campanile of the Basilica, colonnades, and the walls of the building themselves. To the right of San Francesco, I caught a glimpse of the anachronistic structure of a Roman temple with Greek columned portico. Still standing from the time of Imperial Rome but 'Talso' consecrated, it joins both San Ruffino and San Francesco to open itself to all who come to Assisi.

This was an unforgettable experience. I felt an inner joy begin to well up in me; I joined the softly glowing light of this Assisi Good Friday night and it was no longer dark.

Children with asthma can be active

Children from Kentucky with asthma have a unique opportunity to attend a special summer camp sponsored by the American Lung Association of Kentucky and Kosair Children's Hospital.

Camp Superkids is a seven day, residential camp for children with asthma, ages 7 to 13. It will be held June 9-15 at the YMCA Camp Piomingo at Otter Creek Park, 30 miles southwest of Louisville.

"Children with moderate to severe asthma no longer have to settle for limited activities," said Tim Smith, Camp Superkids director. "Activities include basketball, canoeing, cave exploring, swimming, softball, arts and crafts and fishing," Smith said. Camp Superkids will provide on-site medical supervision by physicians, nurses and respiratory therapists, assuring campers of quality medical supervision while away from home.

These activities will be combined with educational programs on the self-management of asthma. Counselors trained and skilled in working with children will also be part of the camp staff.

The cost to attend the camp is $50 per person. Financial assistance will be available for those who qualify. Pre-application forms must be completed and returned by April 12.

To register and get more information about Camp Superkids call the American Lung Association of Kentucky, toll-free at 1-800-366-lung or (502) 363-2652.

War Memorial Room planned at Cow Creek

The Cow Creek Freewill Baptist Church is making available a War Memorial Room. Space will be available for placing a 5" x 7" picture of anyone living in and between the areas of Prestonsburg and Banner, including adjacent areas, who served in any of America's wars, including the recent Persian Gulf War.

The church will provide the picture frame, but the participant must provide the 5" x 7" picture with the following information written on a separate piece of paper and attached to the back of the picture with tape: name, address, war, enlistment and discharge dates.

Mail picture to: James B. Goble, HC 66, Box 1490, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or phone 874-2325.

CROFUS OWENS
Who passed away March 27, 1981
March brings sad memories of our father we laid to rest,
He'll never be forgotten by the one's who loves him best.
We think of him in silence and often repeat his name,
But all that's left to answer is a picture in a frame.
God, please take this message to our father up above,
And tell him how much we miss him and give him our love.
To all who have their father, cherish him with upmost care,
For you never know the heartache till you find out he's not there.
They say time heals all sorrow, and helps you forget,
But time so far has only proved how much we miss him yet.
Sadly missed by his wife and family

A BIRTHDAY CARD FOR DADDY
HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DADDY,
YOU TURNED 80 YEARS OLD TODAY,
WE'RE PLANNING A CELEBRATION, AND THERE'S SOME THINGS WE'D LIKE TO SAY.
THERE'LL BE NO CAKE WITH CANDLES, AND NO PRESENTS WILL WE GIVE
BUT WE'LL CELEBRATE WITHIN OUR HEARTS
CAUSE THAT'S WHERE YOU NOW LIVE.
WE'RE TAKING CARE OF MOMMY,
YES, HER EYES STILL HAVE THAT SPARK, ESPECIALLY WHEN SHE TALKS OF YOU,
HER PRECIOUS LOVING LARK.
THIS JUNE, IT WILL BE FOUR YEARS,
SINCE WE LAST SAW YOUR FACE,
BUT YOU'RE STILL WITH US, DADDY,
WE SEE YOU EVERY PLACE.
AND WHEN WE GET TOO LONELY, AND THE TEARS THAT FLOW GET DRY,
WE LOOK INSIDE OUR HEARTS AGAIN,
WHERE YOU WILL NEVER DIE.
SO HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DADDY,
THIS CARD IS JUST FOR YOU,
BUT WE'LL LET OTHERS READ IT,
SO THEY'LL SHARE YOUR DAY, TOO.

Wayland area senior citizens' directors meet

The Wayland Area Senior Citizens Board of Directors met Tuesday, March 19, at the Center with Chairperson Elmer Morrison presiding.

The roll call indicated two absent, Odis Perry and Lula Ratliff, both of Knott County.

Doug Lawson with Big Sandy ADD was in attendance and passed out various copies of financial reports pertaining to the Center, calling attention of several pertinent items. He also pointed out that the Center may be able to increase its home-delivered meals by at least five after the figure has been factored into the budget for the coming fiscal year. He suggested that assessments start being made so that if the funds are available, such persons can immediately start receiving the home-delivered meals. Lawson also stressed the need for "telephone reassurance" calls and "friendly visits" to check on seniors who might have dropped out for any reason.

Shirley Martin reported that he is still trying to locate a good reconditioned commercial type mixer for the center.

It was reported by the Home Care workers who were also present, Gregg Hamlin, Eda Cordial, and Regina Dye, that there are now 11 active and one hospitalized home care patients, with twelve more waiting to be assigned. Hamlin, who is the home care coordinator, advised that volunteers are needed for "handyman" work for shut-ins, also respite volunteers to sit with patients at home while the caretaker is gone to the store, etc., as well as volunteers to do spring cleaning for shut-ins. He advised that any of these workers must be willing to do this without pay or perhaps a very small fee. If you are willing to be a volunteer, call 1-800-866-1086 or call the Wayland Area Center at 358-4161 and give your name and telephone number to the director.

Doug Lawson explained that the center is not reimbursed for nearly the full amount of the cost of meals, gasoline, or other expenses, and that is the reason it is necessary to invite contributions for meals and local trips, but he hastened to add that no one should be discriminated against because of inability to contribute.

The next meeting will be April 16, at 4 p.m. at the center.

Those present were Morrison, Jerry Fultz, Shirley Martin, Libby Martin, Hobert Bates, Ernestine Hall, Dewey Hall, Ena Mills, Mattie Gibson, as well as the director and the four from Big Sandy ADD.

Use your head and wear a bike helmet

More than 1,000 Americans are killed in bike accidents each year, according to the National Safety Council. As many as 75 percent of all bicycle-related deaths could be prevented if all cyclists would wear helmets.

McDowell SADD Chapter plans Project Prom night

After prom woes? Don't know where to go or what to do when you've danced the last dance and the lights are turned up?

McDowell High School's Chapter of S.A.D.D. is already busy making plans to help alleviate this perplexing problem. This group of Students Against Driving Drunk has been very busy the past few weeks soliciting funds and prizes to support an all-night project prom to be sponsored by S.A.D.D. They have sent letters of request to many businesses throughout the county asking for contributions of cash or prizes for their project.

The theme this year is of a Casino type atmosphere to be held in the school gymnasium at the conclusion of the Junior-Senior prom. There will be opportunities to win many great prizes and lots and lots of food! Many different activities are being planned. The students are very excited about their project and all area businesses are requested to get behind this very worthwhile project. Be a part of youth that care!

The chapter's sponsor, Mrs. Janet Bowling is very proud of the accomplishments of these students and the commitment portrayed by each student.

Project Prom is scheduled to begin at 1 a.m. and last until 7:30 a.m.

No one will be allowed to leave and re-enter the gym between these hours. The chaperones will consist of faculty and parents, with the sheriff's office providing security officials throughout.

Everyone is expecting to have a fantastic time but, most of all, the students are hopeful that due to their efforts they may help eliminate the loss of a fellow classmate due to driving drunk on Prom night.

McDowell S.A.D.D. would like to thank the following businesses and community persons who have contributed to their cause thus far: Campbell Oil & Mine Supply, Childers & Venters, Inc., Coal-Mac Coal Co., Edford L. Clark, D.M.D., First Guaranty National Bank, Floyd County Sheriff's Dept., Hall Funeral Home, Hinkle's Stop & Shop, Jan's Florist, Jenny Wiley Theatre, Marco Tire Sales, Dr. Mary A. Hall, Bottom Drawer Florist, and Turner Automotive.

A list of all those who contribute will be printed at a later date. Any support will be greatly appreciated.

Regional councils begin helping Ky. children with emotional problems

Kentucky's plan to bring children with severe emotional disorders into contact with new and established treatment services has moved off the drawing board and into action.

Eighteen regional interagency councils (RIACs) have begun screening and referring emotionally troubled youth to a comprehensive array of services expanded with a $20 million allocation approved by Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson and the 1990 Kentucky General Assembly.

Kentucky's SED (severe emotionally disturbed) plan has been designed to draw upon a range of community-based programs and improved hospital-based services for children age two through 21.

The plan specifies priority treatment to youth who are hospitalized, at-risk of hospitalization or have already had multi-residential placements.

"There are about 51,000 Kentucky children with a severe emotional problem," said Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Commissioner Dennis Boyd.

"The SED plan is based on providing children with help in the least restrictive environment possible. Some children who are now hospitalized may be better served in the community," he said.

"Creating a regional ability to screen and refer should mean that some of these children can stay at home and in school and avoid hospitalization.

"This is a collaborative effort by numerous agencies on behalf of a single population," said Boyd, "involving education, child protection, the courts, Medicaid and others to help these children and their families.

"We're definitely ahead of the pack in planning for such services."

For more information on SED services, RIACs and the contact person located in the mountain region (Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties), is Diane Yoder, (606) 886-8572.

Flood control funds sought

U.S. Congressman Chris Perkins appeared last Thursday before the House's Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development to request funding for a variety of Eastern Kentucky projects.

Among the requests made by Perkins, was one for $300,000 to continue the study and design of flood control measures along Left and Right Beaver Creeks.

Perkins recently addressed a group of Floyd County residents at Allen Central High School regarding the flood control problems along Beaver Creek.

If approved, the funding request would allow the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to study and design systems to deal with flooding on both branches of the creek.

Perkins introduces comprehensive black lung bill

A comprehensive Black Lung bill that would change the way by which both past and present claimants could qualify for Black Lung benefits has been introduced by Congressman Chris Perkins. The bill would also give widows and other family survivors a better shot at qualifying for benefits.

"What we have now is a Black Lung system that's inadequate and a nightmare for someone trying to get benefits. It's an unjust system that stacks the deck against the coal miner and their widows and families. What I want to do with my bill is give the miner a fair chance to receive the benefits that he or she may deserve," Perkins said.

He continued, "Our biggest fight is going to come from the Bush Administration and its supporters in Congress. They just don't understand how big a problem there is here. People are dying and nothing's being done for them or their families."

Perkins' bill would change the system in a number of ways. Here's a breakdown of the major changes:

Miners' Benefits Protection: Exempts claimants from having to pay back benefits that they had already received in the event that their cases are overturned. The claimant must have collected benefits for at least two years to be protected.

Limits on Opposition Evidence: Limits the evidence that any party adverse to the claimant can submit against him to one single opinion from a physician and only one X-ray reading to supplement that opinion. Perkins said this would keep parties opposed to the miner "from stacking the files against him." The miner is still able to submit as much medical evidence as he wants to.

Expansion of Review Progress: For claims filed between July 1, 1973 and April 1, 1980, a 10-year veteran of the mines is presumed to have black lung if they can produce: a single, positive X-ray or biopsy/autopsy; a single set of positive ventilatory studies showing an impairment; a single set of positive blood gas studies or other medical evidence by a physician showing a totally disabling respiratory impairment. Miners who filed after April 1, 1980 and who were denied, can get a new hearing as well before an Administrative law judge.

Widows/Dependents: A widow or dependent would automatically receive benefits if: the miner worked 25 years or more in the mines; if the miner died in part or whole from black lung; if the miner was receiving black lung benefits or had a favorable case pending when he died; and whether or not the widow remarries.

Attorneys: Perkins' bill would establish a contingency fee system for attorneys and the benefits paid to them. Perkins said this was necessary because of claimants' abnormally low approval rates (less than 5 percent of black lung cases are approved today) and the lengthy delays involved with black lung cases. This prevents many attorneys from taking black lung cases, Perkins added.

"The Black Lung program was first started by my father in 1969 to bring miners suffering from Black Lung and their families some sort of relief. But for the last decade, it's deteriorated to the point that it victimizes and humiliates miners and their families. All I want to do is bring back justice and fairness to it," Perkins said.

HALL FUNERAL HOME

Proudly Adds Another Feature:

A Life Remembered®
Tribute Program Videotape

We at Hall Funeral Home are excited about a new optional service we can offer you.

"Tribute Programs" is a tasteful and wonderful way to add new meaning to the funeral or memorial service. The six-minute video tape is a tribute to a LIFE carefully prepared from pictures of the person.

Yes, a tribute program may also be pre-arranged and completed. Selections of pictures, a musical theme from a long list of hymns or other music, and favorite scripture passages are all part of this unique service. All these elements are combined with sophisticated video technology and a sensitive production approach provided by National Music Service.

Eastern Ky. families have expected Hall Funeral Home to provide leadership. This new feature is expanding nationally, and we are proud to be the first in the state to offer it to the people we serve.

Images from the mountains:

A traveling exhibit of Appalachian artists

Images From the Mountains: A Traveling Exhibit of Appalachian Artists is on display at the Prestonsburg Community College Art Gallery from April 2 through April 22.

The public is invited to meet some of the artists from noon until 4 p.m. on Sunday, April 21, during a reception at the PCC Gallery. This reception will coincide with special activities honoring Dr. Henry Campbell, Jr., retiring president of Prestonsburg Community College. It was through the direct efforts and support of Dr. Campbell that the Magoffin Learning Resource Center Building included an art gallery.

On April 2 at 6 p.m., PCC Art Professor Tom Whitaker will provide information on the exhibit through an informal lecture/discussion at the PCC Gallery in the Magoffin Learning Resource Center building.

Now in the fourth year, Images From the Mountains is a juried exhibit that showcases Eastern Kentucky artists. This year's exhibit includes 27 paintings and prints by 21 regional artists. Susan Dickson, director of the Ohio Arts Council's Individual Artist Program, selected the work and gave Merit Awards totaling $1000 to the Images participants. A few featured artists and their home counties are Sam McKinney (Merit Award Winner), Carter County; Thomas Whitaker (PCC Professor of Art), Floyd County; Nan Spradlin, Johnson County, and Robert Moler (Merit Award Winner), Knott County.

According to Prestonsburg Community College Art Gallery Coordinator Etta Cantrell, seven of the Images artists, including two Merit Award Winners, Jeff Chapman-Crane and Robert Franzini, have previously exhibited their personal selections at the PCC Art Gallery. "Having seven artists return to the PCC Gallery in a prestigious exhibit sponsored by Appalshop indicates the quality of the exhibits that our gallery has provided the people in our area since the gallery's opening in 1989," said Ms. Cantrell.

Images From the Mountains is organized by Appalshop, the media arts organization in Whitesburg. After opening in Whitesburg at the end of 1990, the exhibit tours Eastern Kentucky throughout this year. Funding for this program has been provided by The Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Appalachian Center of the University of Kentucky.

To schedule class or group visits to the exhibit, contact Etta Cantrell at (606) 886-3863, ext. 296.

Pageant winner

Heather Reana Heater, 9-year-old daughter of Kenneth and Mary Heater of Prestonsburg, won many trophies at the 1991 Shamrock pageant held March 17 at the Holiday Inn. Trophies she won in the 8 to 10 division were 1991 photogenic winner, sportswear winner, best sportswear, best model, most beautiful, and two runner-up beauty categories. She was also crowned 1991 All American Girl.

Shorter tax form for seniors, too

The Internal Revenue Service revised Form 1040A so that many older taxpayers, who used to file Form 1040, may use the shorter form. The new Form 1040A still allows reporting over $400 of certain interest or dividends on Schedule 1 and the credit for child and dependent care expenses on Schedule 2.

New for this year are lines for reporting IRA distributions, pensions and annuities, social security benefits, estimated tax payments and estimated tax penalties. Schedule 3 has been added for computing the Credit for the Elderly or the Disabled.

The new 1040A and schedules are available for filing 1990 tax returns, and can be ordered by calling the IRS toll free 1-800-829-3676.

Fundraising drive begins for Jenny Wiley Theatre

Jenny Wiley Theatre kicked off its annual fundraising drive on February 1 and, according to General Manager Tedi Vaughan, the theatre group reached its goal — $120,000. "The fundraising campaign is going very well with more than 50 percent completion at this point," she said. "The response has been very generous. I am impressed with the number of new givers and the number of people who have increased their gifts to the theatre. It indicates we are going to have an excellent year!"

"Many people don't realize that 36 percent of the theatre's annual budget comes from gifts from individuals, businesses and corporations," said Vaughan. "We do get donations from all across the state, but we rely on Eastern Kentucky and if we don't reach our goal, we're in debt." Vaughan said Jenny Wiley Theatre is not unlike many other arts organizations in the U.S. which rely heavily on private support.

"If we didn't, ticket prices would soar. This helps keep the theatre affordable and available to everyone," she added.

The theatre's Opening Night Celebration this year is set for June 21 with the premiere of Gypsy. Opening Night will be a special fundraising event with a reception in the new Park Convention Center and a drawing for a cruise.

April 30 is the completion date for the fundraising drive so all gift givers can be listed in the playbill.

The $120,000 is 36 percent of a total annual budget of $341,000 for the theatre this year.

Vaughan said 22 percent of the budget comes from grants, of which 17 percent is from local tourism commissions and 5 percent is from the Kentucky Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

"Nearly 95 percent of our budget comes from area residents, businesses, corporations and tourists to this region. Federal and state grants are a small but significant portion. The remaining 42 percent comes from ticket sales," she said.

The fundraising campaign is divided into five different campaigns: Board, Corporate, Individuals, Small Businesses, and Advertising Sales (in the playbill).

"Our volunteers who solicit gifts are board members and many volunteer friends from Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Salyersville, Inez, everywhere," said Vaughan. "We are a regional theatre and we need regional support."

The Corporate Campaign is chaired by Bari Kazee of Paintsville and their goal is $70,000. A Blue Ribbon Committee of 25 regional volunteers is contacting corporations for gifts.

The Individuals Campaign is chaired by Linda Francis of Prestonsburg and their goal is $20,000.

"The Individuals Committee has already sent out letters along with our newsletter and fundraising brochures," said Francis. "These materials help explain the benefits of contributing to the theatre and why we must ask for gifts."

Among the benefits are: family entertainment all summer long; arts enrich the quality of life in our community and aid in economic development; theatre offers our children another avenue of education; and the theatre attracts many tourists who visit our surrounding communities and impact our economy by spending their dollars in our region.

That impact has been figured annually at $4,600,000.

The Small Business Campaign is chaired by Kevin Yeager of Prestonsburg and their goal is $6,000.

The Advertising Sales Campaign chaired by Nancy Martin of Prestonsburg. The goal is $16,000 in ad sales.

Advertising in the theatre's playbill, according to Vaughan, has many advantages.

"It's simply a great value," she said. "We print over 20,000 playbills—it costs so little per exposure that it's an excellent value for the advertiser."

Advertising rates in the playbill are available by calling the theatre at (606) 886-9274.

Other fundraising efforts include the Board Campaign with its goal of $15,000.

Vaughan said any gift is needed and much appreciated. If you are interested in giving a gift to the theatre, write Jenny Wiley Theatre, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or call (606) 886-9274.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

ENJOYED JR PRO STATE TOURNAMENT

I got back from the Kentucky Junior Pro State basketball tournament around 5 p.m. Sunday. It was a beautiful day on the drive back. In fact, Saturday was a super day except for all the wind. Friday night in Bowling Green it really got nasty as tornado watches were posted.

I was proud to be associated with the our junior pro teams that made the trip to the state tournament. Although there were some things there that did upset me.

One was the requirement of the Floyd County Varsity All-Stars having to play so many games back-to-back. That was a senseless and uncompassionate move on the part of the folks that were in charge of the tournament. I personally felt sorry for the kids as I saw them stretch out on the floor to play their fifth straight game while the other team was fresh and warming up.

Folks, Southeast Lexington 1 beat out Floyd County team, but they were not, by far the better team. The finals of the tournament wasn't to be held until 3:30 p.m., on Sunday afternoon. The fifth game should have been postponed until 1 p.m. Sunday afternoon, leaving plenty of time to play the championship game. However, the tournament officials decided to go ahead and play the game at 11 p.m. and the Floyd County players not being able to eat for five hours.

If the game had been played at a different time and both teams were fresh, the Floyd County team would have been a 12-point, better team.

I appreciate all the players on the varsity team that gave it their best. They certainly tried very hard. Floyd Countians should be very proud of them. Coach Bill Gearheart did an excellent job of coaching the team.

As I watch these kids play ball I couldn't help but to think what fine basketball players we have coming up in our county. It would really be something to watch if all these players could play on the same high school team. They just played so well together.

The many fans that made the trip to Bowling Green saw some very good and exciting basketball.

Two other groups that went to the tournament in the junior varsity division was Martin and McDowell. McDowell did not win a game in the tournament, but honestly they played their hearts out because they wanted to win so bad. It makes me think of those that have a chance to play high school basketball, but, yet, they do not give 100 percent, and these kids gave all the energy they had. Coach Ernie Moore and his troopers represented Floyd County very well and deserves the Sportsmanship trophy for the state tournament.

Martin. What can you say about Steve Jenkins and Barry Hopkins and the job they do with the Martin All-Stars year in and year out. They work so well together in handling these kids, it's no wonder they have the success they have. The Martin team — just a great job. Playing against bigger teams and perhaps more experienced squads, yet they refuse to quit. The Martin team went 4-2 in the tournament placing fourth.

Johnny Mayo's squad, the "Mayo Runts," were outsize anyway you sliced it. But it took a strong effort for any team to beat them. A scrappy bunch that was well drilled in the fundamentals of basketball. The future looks good with some of these players coming on next season.

Saturday, I was going from one gym to another trying to give all the coverage I could to each team. Not knowing where you're going can be a problem in Bowling Green. But thanks to the "great scout," Terry Sammons, I made it to all the spots. Terry was kind enough to help a misplaced sports editor around the big city. Terry, thanks a lot, friend!

Wayland Lady Wildcats Travel To Knoxville Friday for Nationals

After winning the Kentucky State Junior Pro girls varsity tournament and a week's rest, the Wayland Lady Wildcats will be "on the road again" as they travel to Knoxville, Tennessee for the National Junior Pro Tournament.

Coaches Kevin Webb and Roger Horne will play one of the winners out of the Southeast in the first game Friday morning at 8 a.m. Yes, a.m.! In the second game of the morning session, Mideast 1 winner will face the Knoxville winner in a 10:30 a.m. game.

The tournament will continue throughout the day Friday. The losers' bracket starts play at 1 p.m. when losers of games one and two clash. At 3:30 p.m. losers of games three and four will meet.

It's back to the winners' bracket Friday night as winners of games one and two battle in a 6 p.m. start. At 8:30 p.m. on Friday, winners of games three and four will be paired up. If Wayland wins their first game, they will play in the 8:30 p.m. game Friday. If they should fall in game one, then it will be a 3:30 p.m. game for Wayland.

The finals of the tournament will be held at 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 30.

Games in the losers' bracket are scheduled for 9 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The tournament actually gets underway on Thursday evening when the Tennessee winner goes against the Mideast 2 winner in a 5 p.m. start. The second game will pit Southeast 1 against the Midwest champions in a 7:30 p.m. game.

To win the national championship, a team will be required to win three straight games. A team dropped to the lower bracket can not come back and win the National title, but can play for a third place finish.

All games will be played in the Northwest Middle School gym.

Wayland will be looking to become only the second team from Floyd County to win the National title. The Martin girls junior pro varsity team won it all in 1985.

According to Coaches Webb and Horne, the Wayland girls are talented enough to bring home all the marbles.

"We're a good ball club," said Webb. "We are quick. Deceptively quick. We have good outside shooting and rebound real well. Our defense is good enough for us to be winners."

Several girls have been standout basketball players for their respective schools. Krystal Floyd and Veronica McKinney led Martin to the championship game of the Floyd County Grade School tournament. McKinney has some experience in playing with the Allen Central junior varsity where she averaged around 15 points a game. She also saw some playing time with the varsity girls.

April Newsome, just a seventh grader at Allen, dropped off the Allen Lady Eagles team this past year for personal reasons, but is a tremendous basketball player. She handles the ball very well and can drive the lanes as well as shoot outside.

Jenkins ties rebound record :

Hoptown East Eliminates Martin In State Tourney

For a team that was supposed to play only two games, the Martin Junior Pro junior varsity team surprised a lot of people.

The Martin team, traditionally known for their strong state tournament showings, wasn't supposed to be as strong as in previous tournaments. But this team was a team that just wouldn't quit and finished fourth in the state tournament, losing to a good Hoptown East (Hopkinsville) team, 61-56.

The loss was Martin's second of the tournament after suffering a 61-46 setback against South East Lexington White in the opening round of the tournament on Friday evening. All the games were played at Western Kentucky's E. A. Diddle Arena.

Thomas Jenkins tied a state single game rebound record when he pulled down 18 rebounds against Hopkinsville. The record tied the previous one set by Darnell Burton in 1987. Burton now plays for Lexington's Paul Dunbar and is one of the standout players in Kentucky. "Our kids did real well," said Steve Jenkins, who, along with Barry Hopkins, coached the Martin team. "We played hard in all the games and we performed very well."

Martin trailed by 26 points, 41-15 early in the third period against the taller Hoptown team. A strong defensive effort for Martin late in the third quarter rallied the team back. Jenkins scored 14 of his team's 17-point spurt in rallying Martin to within 11 points at the end of the third period, 43-32. Jenkins scored 12 consecutive points as he dominated the game inside and on the boards.

A 6-2 run in the early going of the fourth period cut the margin to eight, 45-38. Hopkinsville scored four unanswered points to pull the margin back to 11, 49-38.

The Purple Flash kept chipping at the lead and with 1:15 remaining in the game, Jenkins grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck it back in to pull Martin to within two, 53-51 in an amazing come back. Chad Crick hit four straight free throws to extend the lead back to six, 57-51. Hopkinsville held off the Martin team to win 61-56.

Jenkins led all scorers with 28 points. Kevin Robinson finished with 13 for Martin. Justin Hopkins, who hit some key shots in the come back, tossed in seven points. Wade Dameron, played a good defensive game and netted four points in the game. Beau Tackett was held to just four points after leading the way in earlier games. Tackett was a force on the boards for Martin as well.

Martin connected on 18 of 26 free throws. Jenkins was six of six and Tackett hit four of five.

Crick led Hopkinsville with 18 point coming in off the bench. It was his free throw shooting down the stretch that kept Hopkinsville out in front. He hit six of eight charity tosses at the close of the game. Don Williams added 10 points in the game.

Hopkinsville hit 17 of 29 free throws for 59 percent shooting. Hoptown ran out to a 15-6 first quarter lead and went to the locker room with a commanding 36-15 advantage.

Martin turned the ball over nine times in the game to Hopkinsville's 12 turnovers. A cold shooting first half is what did the Martin team in as they seemed to be intimidated by the taller Hopkinsville team.

Hopkinsville used a good running game in the first half to build their lead. With a guard dropping back, the taller players fired the ball up court for some easy baskets.

Fatigue effected the Martin team as they played four consecutive games in the afternoon.

In other games involving the Martin junior varsity team, Kevin Robinson scored 16 points for the Purple Flash in their opening game 61-46 loss to Southeast Lexington White, the eventual tournament winner. Thomas Jenkins added 13 points for Martin and Beau Tackett tossed in 10. Justin Hopkins added four points and Jason Isaac finished with three. Isaac played a good defensive game for Martin to go with his three points. Jason Burkley scored 13 points and Shawn Fields added 11 to lead 10 players in the scoring column for Southeast. Southeast hit 15 of 19 free throws compared to Martin's eight of 13.

The White team led 19-8 at the end of the first period and rolled out to a 15 point lead at the half, 31-16.

Martin mounted a come back in the third period to close the lead to nine, 39-30 at the end of the third period.

The loss dropped Martin into lower bracket play where they faced Hoptown South. Kevin Robinson scored 21 points to lead three players in double figures in their 60-48 win over Hopkinsville. Thomas Jenkins tossed in 19 points and Beau Tackett added 14. Justin Hopkins added four points while Wade Dameron and Desmond Spencer scored one each.

Carlos Wilson led the losers with 13 points and John Blake scored 10. Vic Grubb had nine points for Hopkinsville.

Martin trailed at the half 26-24 but rallied in the third period to take a 36-31 lead.

Martin was 18 of 24 from the free throw line for 75 percent shooting. Hopkinsville hit eight of 19 for a cool 42 percent.

Henderson County was waiting in the wings to face the now hot Martin squad. Henderson found the Purple and Gold a strong opponent after a 51-39 loss. Thomas Jenkins dominated the game with 25 points and 13 rebounds. Kevin Robinson and Beau Tackett added 11 points each. Wade Dameron and Justin Hopkins tossed in two each.

John Jacobs and Chad Phillips scored eight points each to lead Henderson County. Troy Sanners had five points.

Old nemesis, Madison County, lost to Newport and had to face Martin, a team that had dominated them in games past. This time around proved to be no different as Martin posted a thrilling 52-46 win over the Tigers.

Thomas Jenkins scored 17 points and Kevin Robinson added 14 to lead Martin. Beau Tackett netted nine while Justin Hopkins scored a quiet eight points. Wade Dameron had two points and Todd Sammons scored two.

Martin grabbed a 16-10 first quarter lead but held to a slim two point advantage at half time, 26-24. Martin scored the last eight points of the third quarter to open up a 39-33 lead going into the final period.

Beau Tackett took control at the onset of the fourth period and scored Late McDowell Rally Falls Short In 44-38 Loss To Henderson Co.

It was a treat for all the junior pro basketball junior varsity basketball players to have the opportunity to play in Western Kentucky's E. A. Diddle Arena, the home of the WKU Hilltoppers' basketball team. The arena was named after former coach Eddie A. Diddle.

But, sometimes playing on a big floor can also be a problem, especially if you are not accustomed to playing on one. That must have been the case with the McDowell Junior Pro junior varsity team because they opened the 1991 Kentucky State Junior Pro basketball tournament with a 4:30 p.m. game against Henderson County Friday evening.

In the spacious gym, the McDowell team tried to rally from a 40-29 fourth quarter deficit but saw the rally fall short in losing the opening game, 44-38 to Henderson.

In trailing 41-29, Jason Tackett got the McDowell rally underway with a field goal. Jason Shannon followed with a long jumper off the right side. Chris Moore canned a free throw to cut the lead to six points, 40-34. After Craig Coots hit a basket, Shannon scored underneath and Tackett hit a shot inside the paint to put to within four points, 42-38 with 16 seconds remaining. Kevin Stuart scored his only two points of the game on two charity tosses to put the game in the win column for Henderson County.

Playing on a big floor such as WKU's seemed to awe the McDowell players early in the game since they fell behind 10-4 at the end of the first quarter after enjoying a brief 2-0 lead on a basket by Brent Tackett. Henderson County scored the next five points to go up 5-2. Chris Moore hit two free throws for a one point game and then Henderson scored five unanswered points for a 10-4 first quarter lead. McDowell turned the ball over 10 times in the first period. Henderson had seven miscues.

Henderson pulled out to a 18-5 second period advantage on a 8-1 spurt early in the second. McDowell then began to shake off the jitters and outscored Henderson County 10-2 to make it a 20-15 game. Shannon came on in the second period and scored eight points to pull McDowell to within seven. It was 22-15 at the half. David Sandefur scored in the opening seconds of the third stanza to put the score at 24-15. A free throw by Ashley Tackett, the only girl player to play in the tournament, a bucket by Shannon and Jeremy Huff's free throw cut the lead to five, 24-19. Sandefur hit two four shots and Huff grabbed an offensive rebound for a basket and a 26-21 game.

Moore's two free throws just before the third period ended brought McDowell to within eight, 33-25.

Tackett scored on McDowell's first possession in the fourth period to make it a six-point game. Henderson County began to employ a full court press in the period (in junior pro basketball a team cannot press except for the final quarter) that caused McDowell some problems. Henderson scored six unanswered points to take an 11-point lead, 40-29. It was then that McDowell mounted a come back attempt that fell short.

Jason Shannon led all scorers with 14 points. Jason Tackett finished with 11 and Chris Moore added four. Ashley Tackett had three points in the game but pulled down a game high 10 rebounds. Jeremy Huff had

Roberts, Pack participates in 5k run in Lexington

Local runner, Rick Roberts, coming out of a brief retirement, along with former Floyd Countian Bob Pack, took part in last weekend's Eighth Annual 5K Run For The Clover, a 3.1 mile run in Lexington and found the going tough among 600 runners.

"When I ran at Huntington, West Virginia a week earlier I felt good about starting to run again," said Roberts, a veteran of many races (over 400 to be exact). "But after running the Lexington run, I don't know now, I'm just not where I should be right now, I'm still a little bit off."

Roberts finished with a 18:53 which was good for 38th place out of the 600 participants.

Black posted a 19:46 which gave him a finish of 54th place.

Roberts also ran in the Tim Wells Second Annual Memorial 5K run and placed second in his age group of 36-40 year olds. Roberts recorded a time of 17:29

Roberts said his next race would be on April 21 at Pikeville in the Hillbilly Days run.

"I have a month to train for the race at Pikeville," stated Roberts, "and I hope I do better there."

Roberts said that plans are being made for the Festival of FACES run in Prestonsburg on May 18. Those interested in registering early may contact Roberts for entrance forms.

QB/R Football Camp at Mercer University

The nationally-known Quarterback/Receiver Camp will return to Mercer University in Macon, Georgia on June 16-19.

Mercer is now the southeast headquarters of QB/R, the largest football specialty camp in the United States. Other camps are held in California, Arkansas, New Jersey and Germany.

Founded 27 years ago, the camp has specialized in training high school and junior high school Quarterbacks, Receivers and Running Backs.

Dr. Will Hayes, founder of QB/R, and former Dean of Men at the University of California said of the success of the program, "On Parade Magazine's recent list of the nine most outstanding quarterbacks in the entire country, four were graduates of QB/R."

"And last fall more than 200 alumni earned All-State and All-Conference honors," said Hayes. "We're proud of this record."

Eastern colleges and universities at which QB/R graduates have played include Rutgers, Michigan, Notre Dame, Penn State, Navy, Virginia, Army and Princeton. Many of these have joined Doug Flutie, Dan Majkowski, Jay Schroeder and Larry Moriarty and a host of others in the National Football League.

Laird Hayes, Head Coach at OCC heads a staff of outstanding high school and college coaches in a program that includes three field sessions each day, individualized instruction, seminars and lectures by well known coaches and football officials.

The $315 fee covers all meals, housing and instruction.

For more information and applications, write QB/R Camp, Box 6006, Santa Barbara, CA 93160, or call (805) 967-2222 or FAX TOL WM HAYES.

OUTDOOR NOTEBOOK™

Friends For The Time Of Your Life

By Mark E. Thomas

If you think the Coast Guard Auxiliary is a law enforcement group out to bust boating violators, think again. Your life just might depend on it.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary is a group of citizen volunteers looking for trouble before it happens. I guess you could say they're constantly in search of an accident that can be prevented.

According to the boating experts at the Brunswick Marine Group, every summer thousands of boating mishaps turn long awaited weekends or vacations miserable or even deadly. The auxiliary offers programs designed to foresee and forestall these tragedies.

Auxiliary volunteers stand ready to help insure your boat is even more safe than the law requires. Plus they have courses designed to teach basic boating skills and safety principles. And in time of need, it's the auxiliary that's often on-hand to bail you out of a bad situation.

What's more, the Coast Guard Auxiliary offers advanced class work in seamanship and navigation. The auxiliary is a national organization, so in all likelihood one of their evening training sessions will be held somewhere near your home.

And should you request it, the auxiliary will be happy to provide a courtesy safety examination. When these helpful folks are finished you'll know exactly what you need to meet minimum legal safety requirements. Plus the examiners can recommend additional equipment that will keep your friends and family even safer.

Following each examination, the auxiliary issues a safety certificate and sticker for your boat's windshield. Coast Guard officials have so much faith in the auxiliary that they rarely board boats that display these stickers.

And when they're not involved in safety inspections, you can bet that the auxiliary will be cruising America's most heavily congested waters, providing prompt and expert assistance to disabled boats.

Boating is one of the fastest growing sports in the nation. Yet one mishap can spoil a lifetime of fun. Enroll in auxiliary training sessions, ask for an auxiliary inspection and respect their recommendations.

And while we're on the subject of good guys, please give some thought to the nagging subject of litter.

The folks at the Brunswick Marine Group remind you that our lakes, rivers and streams need your help. Litter is just as dangerous as it is unsightly. The future of our recreational waters just won't stand up to the present massive abuse. So think before you toss trash over the side. Then pack it ashore for the sake of a better tomorrow.

three points and five rebounds. Brent Tackett netted two points for McDowell.

Tony Sanners led Henderson County with nine points for a balanced Henderson attack as 10 players scored for the winners. John Jacobs and Derrick Sandefur each added seven points.

In the other game for McDowell, the team fell to Hoptown East in the second round and was eliminated from the tournament.

"They just blew us out of the gym," said McDowell coach Ernie Moore, but he complimented his young McDowell team: "I am proud of the way we handled ourselves and the way we played. We played hard and we gave it all we had. We may get the sportsmanship trophy. I don't know of any problems they might have had with any of our players or fans."

Jessica Hamilton and Melena Gearheart help form a very good Harold Lady Red Devil team. Both are good rebounders as well as scorers. Good defensive inside players, they give Wayland the height it needs to win a national championship.

Heather Nelson played for Prater Creek this past season and led that team in scoring. Jamie Webb played for Duff last season. One player that many in Floyd County do not know about is Kathy Thornsberry out of Knott County. Thornsberry is a quick, fast, and heads-up ball player. She possesses a good outside shot and likes to play an up tempo game.

Other team members include Tonya Bentley, Angel Horn, and Jessica Stumbo. Stumbo is a strong player and adds depth to an already strong team.

"We have been having some good practices and all the players have been doing real well," Webb said. "We are a fast breaking team and when we have to set up in a half court offense we seem to have trouble because we like to run the ball."

Webb said his team plans to leave for Knoxville tomorrow (Thursday).

Eagles Drop Doubleheader To Union College, 13-0, 11-5

In a game described by head baseball coach, Scott Cornett, as the "worst game we've played all year," the Alice Lloyd College Eagles lost a doubleheader to Union College by convincing scores of 13-0 and 11-5. "We just didn't do anything right," muttered the disappointed coach. "So far we have played a very demanding schedule. Our ball club is better than our past performances, and we now need to win to establish momentum for District play."

hard." Five games this week will test the Eagles: Virginia Intermont and Sue Bennett away on March 24 and 26; Lindsey Wilson, Campbellsville and Georgetown at home on March 27, 29 and 30.

The players and coaching staff of Alice Lloyd College invite the public to come and see all the home games.

With 28 games remaining, Cornett is optimistic that the Eagles will improve as the season progresses.

"We are making the mistakes of a typically young club," explained Cornett. "We lack mental toughness. We've come close, but we're not focused. It looks like we're trying too

Finalization of Prep League To Highlight Floyd County Babe Ruth Meeting Thursday

According to Jad Deaton, vice-president of the Floyd County Babe Ruth League, the league will meet at the pool area of Stumbo Park in Allen tomorrow, Thursday, at 6 p.m. to finalize plans for the Prep League (13 year olds). The league will register those 13 year olds who are planning to play in the Prep League this season.

Deaton said that a $3 registration fee will be collected that night. The meeting is only for those interested in the 13 year old league. Deaton added that plans for the new Senior League (ages 16-18) will be discussed and registration for the new league will also be held.

"We're trying to get all the information out to our grade schools and high schools," said Deaton. "We are also going to organize a boosters club. But we need kids."

Deaton expressed frustration at the lack of coaches for the new Senior League, but added that the plan to go forth with the league is the desire of everyone, and he believes that coaches will be found.

Deaton emphasized that the meeting is not for those playing in the Parent League. "Just for those kids interested in the Prep and Senior Leagues," he said. League play is expected to begin earlier than last year.

There will be seven Parent League teams with the possibility of it expanding to 10 teams.

WHERE THE BOTTOM LINE IS LESS!

Floyd County All-Stars place third in Jr. Pro State Tourney

Fatigue caught up with the Floyd County All-Stars in the final round of the Kentucky State Junior Pro Basketball Tournament Saturday evening. The Floyd County team was forced to play five consecutive games in the losers' bracket and they played with a lot of pride. However, the local team sputtered in the final game 66-33 to a team that was not the caliber of the Floyd County team — Southeast Lexington 1.

In the previous games, the Floyd County All-Star team looked sharp and was running the court extremely well and controlling the boards on both ends. Finally, in the game with the Lexington team — the fifth straight — it was a miracle that Floyd County could make it up and down the floor with the hustle they had left.

No longer could they run the court on the break. The rebounding fell way off and shots that were falling earlier, were just hitting the lip of the rim. While Southeast warmed up for the game to decide who would face Mary Todd in the finals, the Floyd County team was lying on the floor for some rest in a game that started at 11 p.m.

The Floyd County All-Stars, after knocking off opponent after opponent, were never in this game, falling behind early and trailing all the way.

Lexington Southeast rolled out to a 20-6 first quarter lead and extended that to 23 points at the half, 38-15.

Steven Johnson scored all six points for Floyd County in the first period. Derrick Newsome came in the game in the second quarter to spark a slight spurt. But Southeast went on a 11-0 run and burst the game wide open.

Then it was Toby Robinson's turn to try and spark a Floyd County rally in the third period, but even the sharp-shooting Robinson couldn't do what the rest failed to accomplish. Robinson scored eight points in the third period as Southeast Lexington built a 23 point advantage.

"We just ran out of steam," said Floyd County coach Bill Gearheart. "That was one game that I was wishing would hurry and get over with. Our kids did a great job in the tournament and, no doubt, if the game had been played under different circumstances, the result would have been different."

Derrick Newsome led the Floyd All-Stars with 13 points. Steven Johnson and Toby Robinson each finished with eight. Jason Bevins tossed in four points.

Geoff Ritchie tossed in 12 points to lead the Lexington team in scoring.

Floyd County opened the tournament in the first round by defeating Madisonville 79-65 behind the 25 point performance of Steven Johnson. Derrick Newsome added 18 points and Jason Bevins had an excellent outing with 15 points and nine rebounds. Toby Robinson added eight points and Rocky Newsome fired in five. Brian Blackburn and Ryan Newsome scored four each.

Floyd County led at the first stop 16-12 and held a six point advantage at the half 36-30.

Charlie Ramey led Madisonville in scoring with 18 points. Jason Howell had 10 points in the loss.

It was tournament favorite Mary Todd's varsity next in the local team's path. Mary Todd, always a tough team and last season's runner up in the tournament, posted a 100-83 win over Floyd County dropping them to the losers' bracket.

"They just ran us out of the gym," said Gearheart of his team's loss. "We had two men back and they still scored on the fast break. Mary Todd is a good team and very quick."

Floyd County fell behind 72-53 going into the final quarter. They cut the margin down to six points only to see Mary Todd run it back out to 20.

Derrick Newsome led all scorers with 27 points. Jeremy Rogers added 10 points while Jason Bevins and Toby Robinson tossed in eight each. Brad Blackburn netted five as did Ryan Newsome. Steve Johnson scored four points and Rocky Newsome tallied two.

Floyd County stayed close to the taller Mary Todd team, trailing 23-19 at the first stop but fell behind 49-32 at the half.

Jonathan Richmond led Mary Todd with 26 points as five players scored in double figures.

Floyd County came back on Saturday in a 4:45 p.m. game that was the first of five to be played consecutively. Floyd County handled the Middlesboro team with ease, posting a 76-47 win. Floyd outscored Middlesboro 26-7 in the second quarter to roll out a half time lead of 46-19.

Derrick Newsome tossed in 16 points to lead Floyd County. Rocky Newsome added 12 points and Jeremy Rogers scored 9. Steven Johnson, Ryan Newsome, Toby Robinson and Robbie Wright each netted six points.

Floyd County then went from Gym B to Gym A and faced a tough Henderson 1 team. Derrick Newsome scored 16 points to lead the Floyd County All-Stars to a 72-67 win over the Henderson team in a game that wasn't really as close as the final score would indicate. Floyd County built a 17 point lead, 64-47, in the fourth period and had to hold off an on charging Henderson County team. Henderson County outscored Floyd County 13-2 to close to six points, 66-60. Henderson went to a full court press and Floyd County had trouble handling it and turned the ball over. It was at the free throw line that Floyd County pulled out the win as they never scored a field goal in the final 2:12 of the game. The local team connected on six of six charity tosses in the final 28 seconds to seal the win.

Steven Johnson scored 11 points for Floyd County. Toby Robinson also had 11 points. Rocky Newsome tossed in eight. Ryan Newsome scored four as did Brad Blackburn and Jason Bevins. Bevins had five blocked shots in the game and hauled down 12 rebounds.

Henderson 2 was the next victim for Floyd County in the double elimination tournament. Floyd County posted a not-so-easy win over a team they were favored to defeat easily.

"I could see in that game we were starting to get tired," said Gearheart, "I said if we had to play another game we would be in trouble."

Floyd County finished off Henderson 2 by 12 points, 54-42 to advance on to meet Southeast Lexington 2.

On pure determination did the Floyd County team win this one 64-46. Rocky Newsome scored 16 points to lead the Floyd County All-Stars. Ryan Newsome added 11 points and Derrick Newsome scored 9. Robbie Wright added six points and Toby Robinson tossed in four points. Jason Bevins also finished with four points.

The Floyd All-Stars held a 21-9 first quarter lead and was up 21 points at the half, 38-17.

Overall, Floyd County had a 5-2 record in the state tournament in finishing third.

Martin TL All-Stars fall to Madison Co. 56-52 in state

The Martin Junior Pro training league all-stars were over matched in height, but they made up for their lack of size with a lot of determination. The Martin squad, a scrappy bunch, played the bigger all-star teams tough. However, even that wasn't enough as the Martin team lost twice in the Kentucky Junior Pro State Tournament at Bowling Green.

"I am as proud of each player's performance as if they had won the NCAA tournament," said Martin coach Johnny Mayo. "I would like to single out every player, and I could, but I am extremely proud of them. I thank all the parents who contributed to the team."

Nick Sammons led the Martin team with 17 points. Sammons also connected on 11 of 14 free throws including seven straight free throws that triggered a Martin comeback.

The Purple and Gold found themselves trailing Madison County 54-38 in the fourth quarter. Martin then outscored the Tigers 14-2 before losing 56-52. Ethan Blackburn got the Martin rally underway with a short jumper off the baseline. Matthew Mayo followed with a three-point play that cut the lead to 11, 54-43. Sammons then hit his seven consecutive free throws to cut the lead to four, 54-50, with 16 seconds remaining. Martin had the ball and a chance to cut it to two, but a forced shot missed the mark. Madison's Jonas Murphy hit two free throws with eight seconds on the clock. Mayo scored the final two points for Martin.

The Purple and Gold experienced a cold second quarter from the start as Madison County scored the first 14 points to erase a 12-6 Martin first quarter lead, to take an 18-12 advantage. Marquis Estill led the Tigers charge scoring six of the 14 points. Estill hit the first two baskets of the second quarter and later canned two free throws. Blackburn then broke the Martin slump with a basket off the right side.

Martin trailed at the half 28-19 and at the end of three quarters Madison County held a 46-31 lead.

The shorter Martin team didn't know what it was to quit and give up as they began to tighten up their defense. Madison County went cold in the fourth period, mainly because of the Purple and Gold's defense. Mayo, who was held to only three first half points, began to find the range for Martin. Mayo finished the game with 13 points, which is way below his 25 point average.

Sammons took control early in the game for Martin, scoring seven of Martin's first nine points in the first period. Sammons ripped the Madison County defense for some short jumpers inside the paint. Brian Jones had two first quarter points for Martin, as did Jesse Hall. Hall scored his two points by pulling down an offensive rebound.

Martin trailed by 16 points twice in the contest, 52-36 and 54-38.

Sammons' 17 points led Martin in scoring. Mayo added 13 and Hall finished with six points. Hall played a good game on the boards for the Purple and Gold as well as on defense. Jones finished with four points.

Estill led Madison County with 16 points and Murphy tossed in 14.

In the opening round game of the tournament, Martin lost a heart breaker 54-53 game to Henderson County. Martin held a 53-52 lead with just seconds remaining when Henderson County's Brandon Fisher scored on his second three point play to give Henderson the opening game win. Fisher scored 20 points in the contest but game scoring honors went to Martin's Matthew Mayo, who tossed in a game high 23 points. Nick Sammons had a good game adding 19 points. Ethan Blackburn scored nine points and Jesse Hall netted two.

"We had a bad game against Madison County," said Mayo of his team's second game loss. "We played perhaps our worst game of the season right there. They had Matthew double and triple teamed and that slowed him down."

"Nick did a great job for us in the tournament as did Jesse (Hall) and Ethan (Blackburn)," he added. "Well, all the kids played real well."

Martin had a large fan following at the tournament as they gave their support for the local team. Many of the followers felt that, even though they did not win, it was a good learning experience for the young kids.

Up, Up and away!

FISHIN' TIPS
FROM THE TRACKER®
PROS

Woo Davis

While they may never win a popularity contest many anglers love the early spring challenge of sucker fishing.

Found in most streams and rivers across the midwest, south central and Eastern United States the sucker rates high on the list of delicate table fare. However, the meat is very boney and must be carefully scored before frying.

Generally, averaging from a pound to five pounds, a sucker makes a spring spawning run shortly after ice out and will run in schools. Among the most popular are white suckers, black suckers, red horse and hog suckers. They can be caught by fishing tight line on the bottom using red wigglers for bait. Most often two or more hooks are used on one line. Some states like Arkansas allows snagging or grab hooks for taking suckers. Check your state regulations.

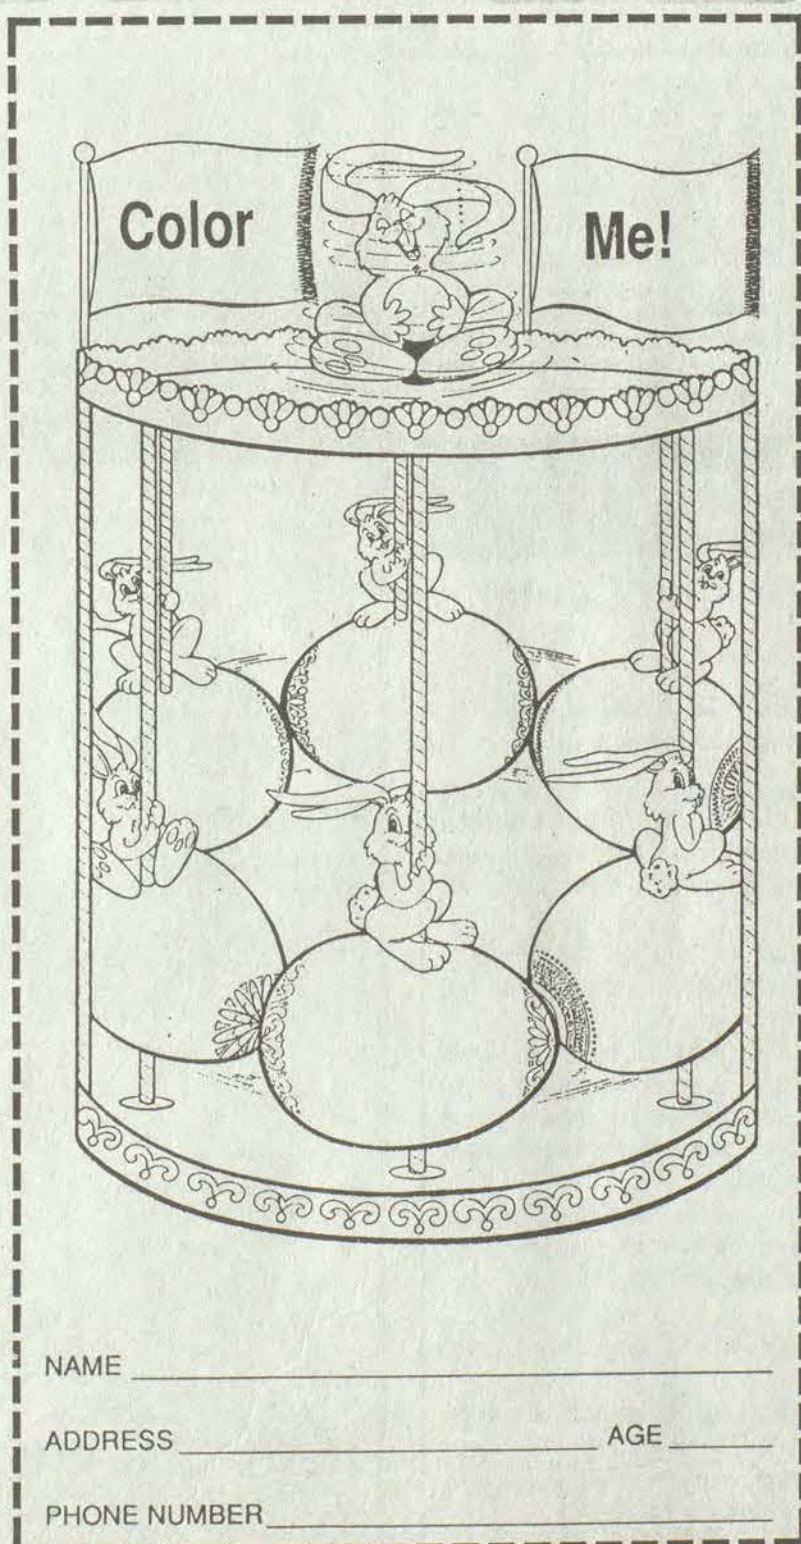

Fishin' Tips are brought to you by America's #1 Fishing Boats.

Bassin' with the Pros

THE NEWEST 'HOT LURE' OF THE PROS ISN'T REALLY NEW

As surprising as it may seem, the hottest new lure on the professional bass fishing circuit isn't new at all. In fact, it's been around more than 20 years.

It's name? The Carolina-rigged lizard, and whether it's old or new doesn't matter says well known tournament angler Mickey Bruce, because it catches bass.

"The Carolina-rigged lizard has been around for many years," acknowledges Bruce, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and national tournament winner, "but it hasn't been used much. I'm certain one reason it catches a lot of bass is because the fish haven't seen it."

The Carolina-rigged lizard is an adaptation of the Carolina-rigged worm, developed years ago by anglers fishing the shallow, stump-filled lakes of the Carolinas. Instead of tying the lure directly to the running line from the rod, a long leader is used that keeps the lure away from its heavy slip sinker.

"I thread on a three-quarter ounce slip sinker, then a small plastic bead ahead of a swivel," explains Bruce. "Then I tie my leader to the other swivel terminal, with the lizard rigged weedless by embedding the hook."

"A lizard looks completely natural in the water," explains the Evinrude pro. "It imitates a salamander, which bass eat regularly. Believe it or not, worms, which are one of our top bass lures, aren't really natural in the water."

Bruce and the other pros especially like to fish the lizard in lakes with deep, submerged grass. The heavy sinker is pulled along the bottom with continuous rod tip action, while the lizard bounces along behind it.

"You can fish the Carolina-rigged lizard at any depth or speed you want to," says Bruce, "Which gives it a lot of versatility for different conditions."

"I use a shorter three-foot leader in dingy or stained water or when I'm fishing around stumps and other heavy cover. The short leader helps keep the lizard from getting snagged."

"In clear water or when I'm fishing around grass or sparse cover, I use a longer leader to put the lizard further behind the sinker."

The bead, Bruce explains, not only helps protect the line knot on the swivel from the constant pounding of the sinker, but also adds noise that seems to help attract bass.

"I use the heaviest line I can under the water conditions," says Bruce, "and my leader is normally the same strength. The only time I use a lighter leader is in clear water."

A big lizard, says Bruce, will attract not only numbers of bass but also large bass, which is another reason the pros like it.

"All you have to do is cast, let the sinker fall to the bottom, then start working it back to the boat by raising and lowering your rod tip," Bruce notes.

We like it in lakes with grass, but it's excellent around channel breaks, in river current, or over side, shallow flats."

strikes and the fish often hooks itself. The same is true with crankbaits.

"When you set the hook with these lures, all you really need to do is pivot your body, bring the rod back with you at waist level, and keep reeling," he explains.

Although a jig is a single hook lure, it requires a slightly different hook set because of its design and because it is usually moving very slowly when a bass bites.

"I use a sweep set with a jig," says the Evinrude pro, "and I never stop reeling. You don't jerk the rod or snap your wrists suddenly because you'll pull the jig right out of its mouth. Just start reeling when you feel any pressure and sweep the rod back in one smooth motion."

Once a bass has been hooked, Nixon advises holding the rod low to try to keep the ball from jumping or even rolling on the surface. When bass jump, they often throw a lure free, and if they roll on the surface they can break line.

"Use your rod to bring the bass close to the boat where you have more control over it," explains Nixon, "then simply guide it from side to side to tire it," explains Nixon, "then simply guide it from side to side to tire it. Keep your rod tip low so the fish doesn't jump, and when the fish does tire, reach down and land it by hand."

Many anglers, Nixon included, often swing bass on board, and there is a proper technique for this, as well.

"Let the bass swim out with six or seven feet of line, he says, "then apply pressure so the fish has to run and begin swimming back toward the boat. When it's coming to you, simply lift your rod and swing the bass on board. Keep your motion as smooth as possible, and let the momentum of the fish itself help you."

HERE'S WHERE TO FIND PRE-SPAWN BASS

One of the most exciting periods of the bass fishing year — the pre-spawn season — will be starting in a few weeks, but unless you know where to look, these big bass can be difficult to locate and catch.

"It can definitely be an exciting time," says well-known Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler Denny Brauer, "but it can be an exasperating time as well. Not all bass move into the shallow water at the same time, and in fact, the movement time table can be several weeks apart from one end of a large impoundment to the other."

Spawning usually begins in the upper end of a lake because the shallow water there warms faster than the deeper water of the lower end. Those coves and shorelines with a northern exposure will be the very first to warm and attract the first spawning bass.

"Water temperature is the real key that starts the movement into shallow water in motion," explains Brauer, "so it's really important to keep watching your temperature gauge as you check different areas. You'll always find one area several degrees warmer than the rest, and this is where the bass will be the most active."

Locating warmer water solves only part of the problem, cautions the Evinrude pro. The next step is locating the fish.

"Bass seem to move shallow in stages," says Brauer. "They often travel along very definite corridors, such as ditches and other dropoffs, or along the edge of a line of trees leading from deep water into shallow."

"Bass also stop periodically along this route, very often at stumps, standing trees, rocks or simply along the edge of the drop off itself."

Thus, one way to locate pre-spawn bass in the early spring is by finding any ditches or channels that may lead into one of the spawning coves or flats. If there aren't any channels, then any available cover along the outside edge of the cove becomes a potential bass holding site.

"You can usually see any cover the bass would use," Brauer says, "but to locate a channel or ditch you'll have to crisscross the cove and study a depthfinder. Once you find the channel, you can follow it and fish it either into or out of the cove."

When fishing visible cover, Brauer explains, several different lures may be used if the bass are striking well.

"When you're working a channel or ditch," he continues, "a jig or a deep running crankbait may be your best choice. Try to find a bend in the channel and concentrate your fishing there."

It pays to remember where you catch fish during this time of year too, says Brauer, because you can often return to the very same spot two or three times during the day and catch bass each time.

Comstock Calls It Quits At Pikeville; Accepts Position at Lincoln Memorial

Marc Comstock, after just two seasons as head basketball coach at Pikeville College, will be vacating that position effective April 2.

Comstock replaced Greg White as coach at the college, and during his term he compiled a 31-29 record with the Bears.

Comstock is leaving Pikeville to become head coach at Lincoln Memorial University, a Division II, NCAA school in Harrogate, Tennessee.

"I cannot say enough positive things about Pikeville College and the opportunities it has extended to me. I feel very good about the basketball program and the direction it has taken under my two years as head coach," said Comstock.

MOST BASS LOST BY IMPROPER HOOKING AND PLAYING

Some things never seem to change, according to bass pro Larry Nixon. Such as improperly setting a hook and then misplaying a bass. These are the two most common mistakes Nixon sees in fishing, and he watches them in virtually every tournament he enters.

"One of the main reasons is because many bass fishermen have changed to lighter rods and lines because the equipment is more versatile and catches more fish," explains the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member. "but they have not adjusted to the different techniques the lighter tackle requires."

"In the past, we used much heavier rods and lines and simply over-powered bass. With the lighter tackle, you have to finesse the bass much more."

Hook setting must be matched to the lure being used, Nixon advises. Single hook lures like spinnerbaits can be set hard because the lure is usually moving rapidly when the bass

ABSOLUTE REAL ESTATE AUCTION

265 Acres ± near Yatesville Lake
Just 5 miles East of U.S. 23, Louisa, KY
Saturday, April 6, 1991, 10 a.m. on Location

This is an excellent chance to purchase prime property at ABSOLUTE AUCTION with unlimited development and investment opportunities.

265 acres ± will be divided into 14 tracts ranging from 1 acre to 85 acres. The auctioneer reserves the right to group and regroup!

DIRECTIONS: From U.S. 23 in Louisa go west on Ky. Rt. 3 approximately 3 miles and turn left toward Yatesville. This property is approx. 1 mile south of Yatesville at Bradley Gap. Watch for signs!

AUCTIONEERS NOTE: When preparing for a real estate auction, it is usually no problem to determine the best use of the property. Not this time! More than half the property, Tracts 1, 2, 3, & 5, has been used as pasture for horses and cattle but is also frequented by the deer who roam the area. The property along Blaine Creek, Tracts 9 through 14, has been farmed in the past, but now that the Yatesville Lake is a reality it might be better suited for residential development or fishing camps. The wooded land which includes the upper part of Tract 1 and Tracts 6, 7 & 8, which the resident deer now share with the other wildlife of the area, could be developed, cleared for pasture, or left as it is. On the other hand the entire parcel would make an excellent planned use development or farmstead. We have decided to leave the weighty decisions of land use up to you, the prospective buyers. If interested in investing for the future, this property which is less than a mile below the Yatesville Dam should be carefully considered.

TERMS: 10% down day of auction with balance due within 30 days. Announcements made day of auction take precedence over previous written material or statements made.

MANUFACTURER'S SUGGESTED RETAIL

Small World

by Aileen Hall

It's a picnic

My husband I had some business in Paintsville a few days ago and, on the way down, we swung by the Lake Barber Shop in Lancer for him to get a haircut.

Rather than wait in the car, I went in with him to see our friend Astor Hicks and to browse through one of those outdoor magazines he keeps.

While we were there, another customer came in and sat down to wait his turn. Somehow, we got on the subject of beauty and barber shops and how important they are to us.

"But there's a lot of difference," the man said. "I come here about once a month and Astor cuts my hair in a few minutes. My wife goes to the beauty shop once a week, and it seems to me she stays all day."

"Maybe women need more help than men," I suggested.

"I don't know about needing it, but they sure get it," he said. "The last time my wife went for a permanent it took five hours, and as soon as she got home she started working on it herself and changing the way it looked."

Then to further express his frustration he added, "Sometimes I think women just go to the beauty shop for an outing."

In the mail

We put out feelers for transplanted Floyd Countians in a recent column, and a response has come from Garland Adkins, who now lives in Minford, Ohio.

Garland is the youngest son of Luther and Dinah Adkins who, for several years, operated Adkins General Merchandise store in Betsy Layne. They moved to Ohio in the early 70's but still have relatives in Ligon and Pikeville—and they still subscribe to The Times.

There were eight children in the Adkins family, including a set of triplets—Roger, Linda and Carolyn. Roger was killed in an auto accident while they were in high school. Linda works in a Columbus, Ohio, hospital; Carolyn is married to a minister and lives in Indiana.

Garland says his father has some health problems, but otherwise the family is well. They are mighty fine people, always friendly and pleasant, and I was pleased to hear from them.

Early symptoms

During the course of a routine physical I recently learned that my cholesterol level is a bit too high, and I have been advised to bring it down.

Naturally, the foods I'm supposed to cut back on are the things that helped to make life worth living—all that "gook" I like on a baked potato, rich salad dressings and my mother-in-law's homemade dinner rolls.

In looking over a list of foods that are good or bad for you, it seems I've been bringing home the wrong things the way Harlie Sturgill of Auxier bought canned biscuits—by the case.

I'm trying to make adjustments in my eating habits. It won't be easy for, after two days, I'm already suffering from fat withdrawal.

Kim's Korner

Murphy's Laws

Sometimes I'm under the impression that Mr. Murphy knew me personally when he wrote his laws. Either that or I'm like the little cartoon character who always has that big black cloud hanging over his head.

Or, maybe there are boo-koo's of black cats crossing my path, and instead of noticing them, I'm fooling with the buttons on my radio. Who knows?

All I can tell you is that a recent trip to Paintsville proved to be more like a trip around the world.

Taking my usual route, I headed over Abbott Mountain to make my trip faster. WRONG! If you haven't traveled Abbott lately, it's changed tremendously.

First, we were stopped by flagmen while this huge truck crossed our path—and I'm talking huge. My car would have fit in the back of this thing easily. The tires on this truck were bigger than our swimming pool. WOW! I said, what a truck.

Finally, after it passed, we went on. We were over halfway there when we were stopped again.

This time, an over-sized wrecker was trying to pull a trailer up an embankment and onto the road.

Great, I'm getting ticked. I'm running late, and getting stopped one too many times here.

"Go around him, Mommie, my seven-year-old keeps screaming. I can't! I can't! There's a ditchline there, okay? I say.

Go under it, Mommie. Under it?

"That man is," she said, "look!"

Sure enough, he was.

But, I don't think we'll try it. Aggravated and frustrated, I turned the car and headed back toward Prestonsburg and down US 23.

Taking a short cut through the PCC parking lot, I found it sure had changed, too, since I was there. This is like a maze, I was beginning to talk louder and louder. After reaching the stop sign at the top of the hill at PCC, I began to look in both directions.

There were cars, trucks, vans, and 18-wheelers coming in convoys from both directions. Okay, who let 'em out?

"Who let 'em out of where, Mommie?" my little girl asked.

It's just a saying, I explained. After what felt like a 30 minute wait, I finally was able to get on the road.

You may not believe this, but honestly, it happened. Just as we pulled onto the road, there was this tractor traveling the side, which decided to pull onto the road directly in front of me.

Being in a hurry and encountering everything else, I was livid. Pull over, pull over, I was telling the man.

"He can't hear you, Mommie."

I know, I know! Traveling at 25 mph down US 23, I followed him to the parking lot of Christina's Flowers and Gifts. Finally, he was off the road.

"I need a cigarette," I said, "hand me my purse."

As I fumbled for my cigs, I found them, but while I was nervously opening the case, I also found Mr. Murphy's rules of thumb.

No cigs. Yes, I was out. No, I didn't keep my resolution. Yes, I am finally on my way to Paintsville at a normal rate and, believe it or not, I'm gonna' stop for cigarettes.

Till next week, drive safely and have a Happy Easter...

Eastern's golden days:

Tall tales, whittler's delight, and loafer's glory

by Barbara P. Martin

Loafer's Glory was the nickname for our town, Eastern, Kentucky, in the early '30s and '40s. Our basic source of income came from agricultural activities. There was much time when no major work was being done on the farm, so the men folk spent many loafing hours around Fred Bailey's General Store and Fletcher's High Pockets Garage.

Daily mail call crew crowds to congregate around the post office and many stayed over to participate in the activities they had become involved in before the mail was distributed. During the '40s the reason to gather was due to food rationing. We went early and stayed late to purchase our share of scarce items. There were people ready to buy as soon as it was taken off the incoming trucks.

The men, who were kept busy at a regular job during the day, found time to meet after supper. Even the ladies caught on and enjoyed good companionship when housework was slack. The kids loved these gatherings too. They could go with Mom and Dad. This way they received double treats from the store and enjoyment at games played nearby. These are the times when past and present Easternites fondly look back to what we call 'the good ole days.'

Much time was spent loafing. You could find people playing cards, whittling, pitching horse shoes, discussing various topics, and spinning yarns. Fred Bailey built a 'lazy bench' for the loafers to sit on, and set it in front of the cement porch. Whittlers brought their coveted pieces of cedar of various sizes, but some used just any piece of wood available to them.

When they had cut all their wood away, they simply looked for the nearest piece of wood they could find. Sometimes they had to settle for a twig or a small limb off a Box Elder, which happened to be growing nearby.

Soon they were found whittling on the bench itself. One day Fred came out to join the loafers on the porch, during a lull in business, and found, much to his alarm, that the bench was almost whittled in two! It did not take many more visits from these tale bearing whittlers to ruin the seat. It became too narrow to sit comfortably on. Then they asked for a new loafer's bench.

Because they did contribute greatly to his business by purchasing chewing tobacco, Pepsi Cola, various snack foods and genuine good food to take home when they left, he obligingly built a second one. To this one he added a safety feature. Onto the edge he nailed a metal strip, which prevented the over zealous whittler from cutting the wood. The most guilty voiced their disapproval to him. Smiling behind his years, Fred made no reply. That bench lasted; however, a few whittled holes did appear. Some people never give up!

The fight of the green 14

Many a good card game was played out under the huge ash tree which grew in the store yard. Set back was the most popular, but when Rook came in, the players switched to it. Whole days were devoted to these games. Male residents spent their free hours with a chosen buddy trying to beat the champions. Teenage kids threw horseshoes, and the small kids played or fought in the yard. This is the setting for the following story, which "Hoggie" of the West to Eastern series, published previously, said should be passed on also. He called it the fight of the green 14.

Hoggie had spent all day pouring cement for a bridge at the foot of the hill at Kendall Moore's place. Tired and weary, as it had been a very warm day, he decided to walk over to the card game to see who was winning, while his wife made his supper. He did not even plan to play.

Lots of times partners would cheat a little bit, if they thought they could bet by with it. On this particular evening "Windy Britches" was going out of his way to steal cards, look at the discards, and to be 'omery' in order to win. They argued until the opposing partners got up in disgust and went home. Needing a new set of partners the cheating pair invited any two players to take them on.

Kendall had joined the crowd of onlookers and saw the whole thing. He said, "Hoggie, I believe it is our turn to play." Hoggie agreed to play but he warned Windy Britches not to cheat because he would get too angry, and he was too tired to have to whip him. Windy Britches either forgot or thought he could pull it off anyway so he stole a green 14 out of the Rook deck while the game was in session.

Hoggie accused Windy Britches quite angrily of the foul deed. He denied it. Hoggie immediately landed a blow above Windy Britches eye, causing blood to flow enough to obscure the vision in that eye. "Furthermore," Hoggie said, "If I were not so tired, I would wear you out!" This ended the card games for that day.

Card players under the twin trunked ash tree

"Ketch" wrote a song about it, which they played on guitars and sung around town for many years. Hoggie supposed that someone surely had a copy yet. If we can find one or if someone remembers the words, we will pass it on.

Cakes of luscious lemon, fresh orange, or light-as-air chocolate suggest a special occasion and the coming of spring. You have pulled out the linens and lace, cut fresh flowers and planned a festive menu for a traditional Easter meal. What can be better for dessert than a cake that glows with soft pastels or boasts a delicate texture that reflects the new, light feeling of the season?

ORANGE CAKE

1/2 c butter or margarine, softened
1/4 c shortening
1 1/2 c sugar
3 eggs
2 3/4 c all purpose flour
1 1/2 tsp baking soda
1/4 tsp salt
1 1/2 c buttermilk

1 1/2 tsp orange extract
1 c chopped dates
1/2 c pecans
1 tbsp grated orange rind

Cream butter and shortening; gradually add sugar, beating well at medium speed. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Combine flour, soda, and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Beat at high speed for three minutes. Stir in the next four ingredients. Pour batter into three greased and floured 9 inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, or until a wooden toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes; remove lay-

Headlice and warts

When I was a kid, my mother—for the most part—was a sane, rational, clear-thinking woman. The one thing, though, that caused her to really go bonkers and lose all reasoning was the mere mention of lice at school.

And, it didn't have to be at the Muddy Branch school either. If she heard on the radio or read in the Grit that there was an outbreak of head lice in a school in rural Mississippi or Northern Montana or even in Bangor, Maine, it was all the same. The result was that my little brother Joe and I would find ourselves down on our knees with our heads in mom's lap being gone over with a fine-toothed comb—literally.

The teeth on that comb were like a hundred little razors, and apparently she thought that it'd do no good if they didn't go all the way to the bone. When she'd get through, our scalps would feel like two freshly-turned newgrounds.

"It isn't a sin to catch lice," she'd say, "but it is a sin to keep 'em."

"But, L...ouch...ain't...got 'em!" I'd argue.

"You won't, either, if I can help it," she'd answer.

As it turned out, for all her ex-cavations, she never once unearthed a living creature. I can remember, however, when other kids (whose moms probably hated lice as much as mine did) would come to school with their hair all slicked back with Blue Ointment and stinking to high heavens.

Now, warts were altogether different. Not only did I get 'em, I wore 'em with pride. That is, of course, until mom would see them, then she'd make me go see Booten.

"Booten" was his nickname, but at the time, none of us knew—or cared—for that matter—that the old gentleman who lived with Bill and Irene Hampton was really named Kanawha Puckett.

All we knew was that he always had something clever to say and that he could rid anybody he wanted to of warts.

All he'd do was rub his index finger over the wart in a circular motion a few times and all the person with the wart had to do was to forget about it.

The beauty about Booten's cure, though, was that he'd nearly always accompany his treatment with a riddle or a rhyme. While he was "trying on" the wart, he'd say something like, "I'll rub this wart and away it goes—be glad it's not growin' on your nose."

I don't know what the poem had to do with it—if anything—but it didn't matter whether his patients were young or old, they all got a sample of Booten's poetry.

Anyway, what with Mom's fine-toothed comb and Booten Puckett's magical powers, when I grew up in the 1940s Thealka, I was generally cootie (and wart) free.

Holland citizens stop in Prestonsburg

On Sunday, March 24, Mrs. Lani Van Petten Alberts, and her husband, Mr. Ton Alberts of Amsterdam, Holland, attended services at the First United Methodist Church, and, following these services, they were guests in the home of her cousin, Mrs. Betsy Lambert, here.

Mrs. Alberts is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Archer Van Petten, a native of Prestonsburg.

The Alberts, who are touring the United States while he is giving a series of lectures on the subject of architecture, were en route to Washington, D.C. and New York City.

While in the Lambert home, the couple was visited by other relatives and friends, including Mesdames Pauline Burchett, Doris Hyden, Ruth Goebel and Marthann Damron and her three children.

Annie Allen Circle will meet April 1

Mrs. John Evans, president of the Annie Allen Circle, W.M.U., of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), announces the next meeting of this group will be Monday evening, April 1, at 7 in Fellowship Hall of the church, and she urges all members and others who may be interested in becoming members, to attend.

Rebekahs hold district meet

The District 4 Rebekah meeting was held March 16, at Inez with Allison Rebekah Lodge No. 134 as the host lodge.

Prior to the meeting, a delicious chicken and dumplin' dinner was enjoyed by those in attendance.

Those attending from Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 were Mesdames Lorena Wallen, Beverly Hackworth, Maman Leslie, Paulena Owens, Mary Zemo, Loretta Akers, and Pearl Robertson.

The members of Miriam Rebekah Lodge conducted a memorial service, in memory of those of the district who had passed away in 1990.

The attendance banner was awarded to Miriam Lodge.

District 4 is composed of lodges from Inez, Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Pikeville.

Mrs. Collins is recuperating

Best wishes are extended to Mrs.

Farthing, Hall

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Farthing of Martin announce the wedding of their daughter, Sandra Renae Farthing to Reginald Dean Hall, son of the late Jerry Hall Jr. of Drift, and Rosella Hall of Portland, Tenn. The ceremony will be held at Martin Branch Freewill Baptist Church at Estill on Saturday, March 30, at 2 p.m. All are invited to come share the happiness of the bride and groom on this, their special Day.

Beatrice (Biddie) Collins, who has been seriously ill, and is now showing remarkable improvement.

Rev. Taylor and family honored with dinner

The First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) that proclaims as its motto: "A Church in the heart of Prestonsburg, with Prestonsburg in its heart," held a dinner in Fellowship Hall there on Saturday evening, March 23, honoring the Rev. Michael M. Taylor, who had been invited by the church's pulpit committee to deliver a trial sermon on Sunday morning, March 24, "in view of a call as pastor," his wife Michelle, and their two young children, Elizabeth Ann and Jonathan Michael, from the Pleasant Run Baptist Church, Manchester, Kentucky.

An overflow of the church family was in attendance to enjoy the food and Christian fellowship.

Mr. Estill Lee Carter, a deacon there, served as master of ceremonies, and presented the blessing. Thomas Foy, the church's music and youth director led in the singing of "This is the Day that the Lord Hath Made," and other hymns.

A delicious covered-dish dinner was enjoyed at round tables, covered with white cloths and decorated with crystal vases, holding bouquets of jonquils, Easter lilies and other spring flowers.

Following the dinner, the Rev. Taylor, who was presented by Estill Lee Carter, spoke briefly.

He also answered questions asked by members of this group. Examples of these questions and Rev. Taylor's answers included, (paraphrased):

Q. If selected as pastor of this church, would you be willing to support the Missions program? A. Yes, 100 percent.

Q. If (as seems to happen at times in some churches) you observed that a few members were making an effort to (seemingly) dominate church matters, with little thought, on their parts, of allowing the majority of members to participate in the decisions and activities of their church, how would you handle the situation? A. First of all, I would pray. Q. Would you have any difficulty in working with a group of young deacons? A. (Rev. Taylor, who reportedly is 27)—None whatsoever!!

Rev. Taylor's wife spoke briefly, telling interesting highlights about their family life. Both thanked the church members for inviting them here.

Estill Lee Carter expressed the group's appreciation for the bountiful meal. Mrs. Tom Foy led in the singing of "He is Lord," and the Rev. Bill Nolan gave the benediction.

Birthday is celebrated

Jamie Nicole Lafferty celebrated her first birthday at the home of her parents, J.D. and Ida Lafferty of Bull Creek on Sunday, March 24.

The little honoree received many attractive and useful gifts. The children were entertained by Cookie the Clown. Many friends and relatives enjoyed decorated birthday cake baked by Jamie Nicole's aunt, Mrs. Billie Murdock, ice cream and soft drinks.

Senior Citizen luncheon is planned for April 3

Mrs. Patsy Evans, director of the Archer Park Senior Citizens, announces that the monthly luncheon held for this group, at the Holiday Inn here, will be Wednesday, April 3, at 11 a.m. She asks that persons wishing reservations, please call her by Monday, April 1.

Adah Chapter conducts meeting

Members of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star held their meeting at the Lodge Hall, Monday, March 11, at 7 p.m.. Mrs. Billie Murdock, worthy matron, conducted the meeting. They voted and approved Miss Charlotte Ann Wells, daughter of Sue and Wendell Wells, to be installed into the Order. Initiation for her and for Miss Tracy Burke will be Monday, April 8, at 7 p.m., at the Lodge Hall. Refreshments will be served following the initiation. Worthy Matron Mrs. Murdock urges all members to attend.

Present at Monday's meeting were Billie Murdock, Polly Sparks, Patsy Evans, Shelby Willis, Manis and Meg Gray, Paulena Owens, Lorena Wallen, Jewell Bays, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Ronald and Thelma Hebner, Mary Faye Hunt, Burieta Gearhart and Maman Leslie.

The next meeting was planned for March 26, there.

Rebekah Lodge plans lemon squeeze in April

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 was held March 19, with Mrs. Jean Hickman, worthy matron, presiding. The sick were listed, and cards for them were signed.

The noble grand stated that the assembly president, Mrs. Wilma C. Storey of Paintsville, will make her official visit on May 7. A practice session will be held on April 16th in preparation for her visit.

Mrs. Hickman further stated that during the next meeting, a lemon squeeze and a weigh-in would be held to raise money for the Arthritis Fund Drive. Members are urged to attend and take part in this fund raiser for this worthy cause.

Schuyler Colfax, founder of the Rebekah Degree, was honored. Mrs. Maman Leslie read a poem relating to his life, and the history of his life was presented by Mrs. Loretta Akers and Mrs. Donna Thomas.

Birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Beverly Hackworth.

Attending this meeting were Jean Hickman, Donna Thomas, Maman Leslie, Paulena Owens, Hope Whitten, Myrtle Allen, Loretta Akers, Beverly Hackworth, Rebecca Bingham, Claudine Johns and Mabel Jean LeMaster.

The next regular meeting will be April 2nd, in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Mrs. Price returns from UK Hospital

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Lilia Mae Price, who, for several days, was a patient at the U.K. Medical Center, will be glad to know that she is now showing improvement. She is being cared for by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, here.

Holy Week Services are now in progress

The public is asked to remember the Holy Week services, now in progress at the First United Methodist Church, here, with services at noon, and light snacks served there at 12:30 through Good Friday. Easter Sunrise services begin at 7 a.m. on Easter Sunday at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center. Miss Elizabeth Frazier, director and members of the Prestonsburg Honor Choir, will furnish the music for this early morning service. Music for the other services will be furnished by the various churches participating in these events.

A cordial welcome is extended to all these meetings.

Kiwaniannes discover Founder's Day facts

The Prestonsburg Kiwaniannes held their regular luncheon meeting, Thursday, March 21, at 12:30. Mrs. Hope Whitten, president, conducted the meeting.

The Kiwanianne Grace was said in unison. The devotional was given by Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, who spoke on the topics, "Easter Meditation: and 'Interesting Facts about Lent,'" and led the group in prayer.

Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, secretary, read the minutes of February's meeting and Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Mrs. Fairchild was in charge of the program on Founder's Day, which was being observed during this meeting. She read excerpts from meetings from the year of the founding of this organization in 1950 through the year 1975, and also presented a copy of the "History of the Kiwaniannes of Prestonsburg," which she compiled for the time capsule at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center.

Mrs. Sarah Goble and Mrs. Lucy Regan were recognized as two of the 29 charter members of the Prestonsburg Kiwaniannes. Only a few charter members are left because some have died and others have moved elsewhere.

Since the yellow rose is the Kiwanianne's club flower, Mrs. Fairchild presented one of these long-stemmed flowers to Mesdames Goble and Regan, and to all the others in attendance.

Present were members: Mesdames Hope Whitten, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Dorothy Osborne, Garnett Fairchild, Lucy Regan, Sarah Goble, Maman Leslie, Mildred Salisbury, Minerva Cooley, Minnie Pearl Robertson, Sue Martin, members. Guests included Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, who was a guest of Mrs. Mildred Salisbury.

The next luncheon meeting will be held Thursday, April 25, at the same time and same location.

Guests of son

Judy and Ron Hooker were recent guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Pam and Chris Hooker, at their home in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Woman's club will relive club history

Members of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club will meet Thursday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park. The GFWC Centennial Commemoration of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club's 70th anniversary will be observed at that time. The devotional leader will be Mrs. Lucy C. Regan; the program leaders will be members of the club's executive board; the program will be entitled, "Reliving Club History." Mrs. Kathy Lowe will present a skit which she has written.

Copies of the history of this club, compiled by Mrs. Phyllis Herrick for the Floyd County Bicentennial History Book, will be available. The hostesses for this event will be Mesdames Maxine Bierman, Phyllis Herrick, Sarah Goble, Kathryn Poe, Lois George, and Barbara Dawson.

Mrs. Linda McGuire, the club's president, asks that members of the executive board meet with her there on that same date at 7 p.m. so that matters to be brought before the club may be discussed.

Mrs. Worland visits family in Covington

Mrs. Ruth Worland spent a few days recently with her son and daughter-in-law, Attorney and Mrs. Eddie Worland, and family at their home near Covington.

Herefords visit Lexington

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hereford were in Lexington one day during the past week.

History of Kiwaniannes is summarized at meeting

When the time capsule at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center is opened in the year 2001, one of the many historic recordings it will contain will be the history of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianne, compiled by Mrs. L. G. (Garnett) Fairchild.

In commemoration of Founder's Day, Mrs. Fairchild presented the following summary of the history of this organization, from 1950 through 1990, during the Kiwanianne luncheon meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, on Thursday, March 21: The Kiwanianne Club of Prestonsburg was organized March 23, 1950. The object of the club is: 1) to provide, through the club, a partial means to form enduring friendships and to build a better community; 2) to aid the Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg in any of its projects, if it so desires our help, and 3) to cooperate and work with them in any way possible. Originally, members were admitted to membership only if they were wives of Prestonsburg Kiwanis members in good standing. Later, this was changed, and today any lady who is interested in helping to attain the club's goals is invited to join.

Through the years, Kiwanianne have helped with the many clinics that the Health Department sponsors. These clinics are primarily for indigent. The Kiwanis Club helps financially with the refreshments for the patients from five counties.

Originally, the organization met semi-monthly the first and third Fridays of each month, except the months of November and December. Because of the holidays, the club met the third Thursday of these months.

Officers for 1990-91 are the following: Mrs. Denzil Whitten (Hope), president; Mrs. Thomas LeMaster (Mabel Jean), vice president; Mrs. Edgar Osborne (Dorothy), secretary; and Mrs. L.B. Fairchild (Garnett), treasurer.

Other members include the following: Margaret Collins, Pearl Robertson, Myrtle Allen, Jane Wallace, Minerva Cooley, Lucy Regan, Julia Curtis, Maman Leslie, Ada Meade, Carolyn Ford, Vera Ford, Florence Music, Docia Woods, Dixie Webb, Anabelle Maggard, Rebecca Rasnick, Dolly Pettrey, Mildred Salisbury, and Goldia Williams.

Houseguests in Ashland

Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Saunders were the houseguests from Friday through Saturday last week of her sister and brother-in-law, Ruby and Clarence Logan in Ashland.

Mrs. Herron is 97

Mrs. J.R. (Sue) Herron, formerly of Prestonsburg, presently of Pikeville, celebrated her 97th birthday at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home in Pikeville on March 16.

Pikeville friends served a buffet luncheon on Saturday.

On Sunday, her niece, Mrs. Wayne Reesor, Mr. Reesor, and son, Timothy Curtis, of Louisville visited with her. Mrs. Henry Curtis of Prestonsburg was present for all the festivities.

Mrs. Herron received flowers, cards, and gifts, along with visits from many relatives and friends, during these two days.

The honoree is well and favorable known in Prestonsburg and throughout this area, and has the very best wishes of all of us.

Prepare for the Easter Bunny

An Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the First United Methodist Church, will be held at the Fitzpatrick farm on Saturday, March 30, at noon. This event will be for children of the church through the third grade. Fourth grade children, who are to hide the eggs, are asked to be at the farm by 11 a.m. on that day. In case of inclement weather, persons planning to attend should call 886-6514 for recorded instructions. Church persons wishing to help with this event are asked to please call Mrs. Kathy Fitzpatrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale visit Prestonsburg

Eva and Harmison Hale of Prestonsburg and Lexington, were here for a few days this past week. On Saturday evening while here, they attended the dinner honoring the Rev. Michael Taylor, prospective pastor of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) here, Mrs. Taylor and their two children at Fellowship Hall, there.

Group luncheons at May Lodge

Mesdames Eva Collins of Prestonsburg, Laura Marie Ratliff of Allen, Georgia Stapleton of Estill and Louise West of Hueysville formed a group on Thursday last week for a luncheon at May Lodge.

Concern over a baby's development should be addressed before it's too late

"As long as he or she is healthy" is a common phrase spoken by expectant parents. Unfortunately, nearly 2,100 Kentucky babies are born annually with some physical or mental disability.

March is Developmental Disability/Mental Retardation Awareness Month and staff of Kentucky's Department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services are focusing this year's observance on the importance of early intervention for affected infants and toddlers.

"Our message is that if parents have any concern regarding the development of their child to seek help in finding answers," said Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Commissioner Dennis Boyd.

One program dedicated to helping parents with those answers and linking them to available assistance is the agency's Infant/Toddler Program (ITP).

"ITP is an 'umbrella' for various on-going and developing intervention projects seeking to identify and serve the estimated 4,000 Kentucky children, aged birth through two, who have a developmental delay or disability," Boyd said.

"Our goal is to provide a comprehensive array of services to the state's eligible infants and toddlers who have problems such as being unable to hold his or her steady by age four months or not responding to his or her name by nine months of age."

Jim Henson, assistant director of the Division of Mental Retardation and coordinator of the ITP program, said, "If we don't identify children with these type problems and begin working with them immediately, these kids will be playing the 'catch up' game the rest of their lives. And it is very difficult to catch up in many circumstances."

"Plus, without early intervention services, more money will be spent in special education for these children when they are older. It's the old 'pay now or pay later' syndrome. And these kids deserve help sooner than later."

Projects under ITP which are expected to be implemented during the next year include case management (service coordination), medical and developmental evaluations of identified children and written service plans for intervention and treatment. Because the lack of funds may cause some children to go unserved, the state is developing a "waiting list program," in which monthly consultation visits will be made to families who are waiting for a complete or partial range of services.

About 700 children are currently being served under ITP.

A list of some skills typical of a child's growth and development up to one year of age follows.

Birth to Three Months: holds head up steadily, reaches for familiar people, or objects, vocalizes, coos, sucks and swallows well, smiles and shows awareness of new situations.

By Six Months: keeps head up steadily, rolls over, reaches well with either hand, turns to sounds, begins to babble, laughs out loud and reaches for objects out of reach.

By Nine Months: sits by self, feeds self a cracker, holds bottle, has thumb/finger grasp, babbles several sounds in one breath, stops activity in response to 'no' sometimes and begins to listen and imitate speech sounds and responds to name.

By 12 Months: plays pat-a-cake, peek-a-boo, says ma-ma and da-da, drinks from cup held by other, creeps/crawls independently and pulls up to stand.

For more information on ITP or if you have a developmental concern involving your child, call (502) 564-7700 or toll-free 1-800-234-0497.

Household shower

Miss Traci Fields, bride-elect of Ernie Tackett, was honored on February 23 with a household shower at the Betsy Layne Freewill Baptist Church Annex. The event was hosted by Mr. Tackett's sister, Sherry, his mother, and others. The color scheme was purple and rose. They received many gifts and express their appreciation to their friends who attended this event. Miss Fields and Mr. Tackett will be married March 30 at 2:30 p.m. at the Big Creek Baptist Church at Hazard.

They serve 2-, 3-, 4- and 5-ways at Dixie Chili. But since 1947, their health insurance decision has gone just 1-way.

Variety is the spice of life at Dixie Chili. Except when you talk to Dixie Chili owners, the Sarakatsannis brothers, about their health insurance. Only one company has been good enough for the last 43 years — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

The family business has grown since the Sarakatsannis' father opened Dixie Chili in an eight-foot-wide storefront. There are four more restaurants. Seventy more employees. A retail and mail order business.

As this Northern Kentucky based business has grown, Blue Cross and Blue Shield has been able to supply the people and the products necessary to adapt to the Sarakatsannis family's changing health insurance needs.

Today, as in 1947, Dixie Chili employees still have the best choice of doctors and hospitals around. And they still have the most recognized health care card in Kentucky.

If you're interested in choosing Blue Cross and Blue Shield for your company, call us. We'll serve up a generous portion of Kentucky's most popular health plan.

ers from pan and let cool completely. Spread orange frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Garnish with grated orange rind.

ORANGE FROSTING

1/4 c plus 2 tbsp. butter, softened
6 c sifted powdered sugar
1/4 c plus 1 or 2 tsp orange juice
1 tsp orange extract
1 tsp grated orange rind
Cream butter, add powdered sugar alternately with orange juice. Add orange extract and orange rind. Beat until smooth. Add more juice, if necessary, to reach desired spreading consistency.

LUSCIOUS LEMON LAYER CAKE

1/2 c shortening
1 3/4 c sugar
6 egg yolks
2 1/2 c sifted cake flour
2 1/2 tsp baking powder
1/2 tsp salt
1 c plus 3 tsp milk
1 tsp grated lemon rind
Cream shortening, add sugar, beating well. add egg yolks one at a time, beating at medium speed. Combine flour, baking powder, and salt. add to creamed mixture. Stir in lemon rind. Pour batter into greased and floured 9 inch cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted into the center comes out clean. Cook in pan 10 minutes. Remove layers from pans and let cool completely. Spread Lemon Buttercream frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake.

LEMON BUTTERCREAM FROSTING

1/2 c butter or margarine softened
1 egg yolk
1 lb package (16 oz.) sifted powdered sugar
1 tsp grated lemon rind
5 to 6 tbsp lemon juice
Cream butter. Add egg yolk, and beat well. Add sugar, beating well. Add remaining ingredients, beating until smooth.

CHOCOLATE SPONGE CAKE

2 c super fine sugar
3/4 c all purpose flour
1/2 c cocoa
1 tsp cream of tartar
1 tsp vanilla
12 egg whites
Sift the sugar, flour and cocoa together; set aside. Beat egg white (at room temperature) until foamy. Add cream of tartar and vanilla. Continue beating for 5 minutes or until stiff peaks form.
Sprinkle one fourth of flour mixture over egg whites and blend in gently with a rubber spatula...repeat procedure with remaining flour mixture, adding one fourth of the mixture at a time. Spoon into an ungreased 10 inch tube pan with removable bottom. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly with fingers. Invert pan on funnel or bottle for two hours or until cake is completely cooled.

Loosen cake from sides of tube pan using a small metal spatula. Remove from pan: split cake horizontally into two layers. Reserve one cup of cocoa frosting. Set aside. Spread remaining frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Spoon reserved frosting into a decorator bag fitted with a star tip. Pipe a row of stars around base of cake.

COCOA FROSTING

2 c whipping cream
3/4 c sifted powdered sugar
3 tbsp. cocoa
1 tsp vanilla
Beat cream until foamy. Gradually add powdered sugar, cocoa and vanilla. Beating until stiff peaks form.

Summer phlox

When I first came to Eastern Kentucky in 1953, I saw my first summer phlox. My mother-in-law had several large clumps of the tall stately, purple flowers. The thing that I noticed most about these flowers were their uniformity in color. My mother-in-law called them Sweet Williams. Now a Sweet William was, and still is one of my favorite flowers, and a Sweet William, these were not. True, their flowers are quite alike, but are not the same.

I have one of the purple summer phlox in my yard at this time and hope to add other colors as I find them.

Summer phlox, with its fragrant colorful flowers, has been a popular garden perennial in this country for years. It is a native American plant, found in the wilds, and along road sides from New York to Illinois and south to Georgia. The wild phlox will range in color from washed out pink, rosy pink, purplish pink and sometimes white. Today's tamed phlox colors will range from purple to lilac, lavender, near blue, pink, red and white, then the odd-man-out soft orange.

Phlox can be started from crown division, root and stem cuttings. They do not breed true from seed, but you always stand the chance of a completely new color by seed startings. You will notice this, if you do not cut off the dead flowers, the seeds fall to the ground and, when new plants come up near the mother plant, they will always be a different color. Some people tend to think their plant is fading or the color is changing. In general, the new plants and colors are inferior to the parent plant. If allowed to continue growing and spreading these plants could over run the true plants with small flowered phlox of a mulky or mauve tints. Then, too, these plants could be a more pleasing color. If some plant does produce an unwanted color, the most simple thing to do is pull, or dig up, the unwanted plant and toss out. Or give it to someone you don't really like.

Summer phlox will bloom from mid to late summer, except the White Admiral which never blooms before September, giving them a short blooming season here in this area.

Summer phlox do well in the flower garden with other perennials. Phlox should never be planted in the front as a border plant. They grow too tall. Three to three and a half foot is the general height of summer phlox, and, as with all plants, there is a chance of some different heights.

Gardening time is getting so close, I am on pins and needles to get started. All my window sills are fast becoming crowded with sown pots of soil at this writing.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club holds meeting

The GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Tuesday evening, March 19, in the home of Louise West, Hueysville, for a business meeting, which was conducted by the club president, JoAnn Hall.

Devotions were given by Marsella Bradley on the subject "Inner Strength". Loretta Martin read the Club Collect, which was followed by the Pledge to the Flag.

The nominating committee reported that it had the same slate of officers for the coming club year with the exception of the office of recording secretary, which will be filled by Louise West. All officers were voted in by acclamation. The officers who will continue to serve are president, Jo Ann Hall; vice president, Marsella Bradley; treasurer, LaFaye Hughes; corresponding secretary and publicity chairperson; Libby Martin; parliamentarian, Marie Mullins.

Volunteers were assigned to various committees to help with the fall district meeting in October, at which time the club will co-host with the Drift Woman's Club.

Various projects were discussed, and the club will again send a scholarship to both Alice Lloyd College and Prestonsburg Community College, as well as the annual award to the Allen Central senior who is worthy both in academics and citizenship. Other contributions will be considered.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Marsella Bradley, Elizabeth Duff, Jo Ann Hall, LaFaye Hughes, Loretta, Anna, and Libby Martin.

The First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg, Ky. Plaintiff VS: NOTICE OF SALE
Nelce Barnett, Heir-at-Law and Administrator of the Estate of Raleigh Barnett, deceased, Virginia A. Barnett, Bobbie L. Barnett, and Floyd County, Kentucky ...Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the January 11 term, 1991, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court-house door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 11 day of April, 1991, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of three (3) months, the following described property, to-wit:

BEING THE SAME property conveyed to Raleigh Barnett by Frank E. Skeans, and Maxine Skeans, his wife, by Deed dated the 10th day of August, 1979, which is duly recorded in Deed Book 241, page 170, Floyd County Clerk's Office.

The following up-dated description differs from the source of title description as six out-conveyances were made subsequent to the original mortgage. BEGINNING at a steel pipe, and being the Northwest corner of David and Sarah Helen Fitch property and roadway; thence crossing said roadway in a South westerly direction to a two-inch steel pipe, said pipe being the Northeast corner of Fred and Brenda Shelton property; thence S 27° 35' W 86 feet to a steel pipe; thence S 45° 05' W 51 feet to a steel pipe; thence S 52° 35' W 58 feet to a steel pipe; thence N 57° 05' W 38 feet to a steel pipe and corner of Joe Hughes property; thence up the branch with Joe Hughes line to a white walnut just above old barn; thence to a forked buckeye tree marked "V"; thence up the hill, with fence and marked line to the top of the hill between Clicks Branch and Wildcat Branch of Buck Branch; thence up the hill to the top of the ridge; thence with the line of B.L.C. May heirs, to the Buzzard rock; thence down the hill between Clicks Branch and Muddy Branch to the gap; thence up the ridge to an "X" on knob between Click Branch and Muddy Branch, a corner of Ed Hampton heirs property; thence with the center of point in a Northern direction to steel rod, a corner to Hallie Barnett property and Ed Hampton heirs property; thence down the hill N 60° 55' W to a steel pipe, said pipe being the Southwest corner of David and Sarah Helen Fitch property; thence N 60° 55' W 155.82 feet to the beginning.

This property is sold, subject to property taxes due Floyd County, Ky. The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $9,704.82, accrued interest of $3,542.01 and the principal sum of $11,232.76, accrued interest of $5,014.33, with interest thereon at 12% annually from January 11, 1991 until satisfied, and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 25 day of March, 1991.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

Raymond Griffith, Mayor and the City Council
City of Martin
Martin, Ky.

We have audited the accompanying general purpose financial statements of the City of Martin, Kentucky, as of June 30, 1990, and for the year then ended. These general purpose financial statements are the responsibility of the City of Martin, Kentucky's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these general purpose financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the general purpose financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the general purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The general purpose financial statements referred to above do not include the General Fixed Asset Account Group, which should be included to conform with generally accepted accounting principles. The amount that should be recorded in the General Fixed Asset Account Group is not known.

In our opinion, except for the omission of the required statement resulting in an incomplete presentation, the general purpose financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the City of Martin, Kentucky as of June 30, 1990, and the results of its operations and changes in financial position of its proprietary funds for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audit was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental information listed in the table of contents are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the general purpose financial statements of the City of Martin, Kentucky. The information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the general purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

NAR's housing affordability index reads good

Although an increase in the median home price lowered the National Association of Realtors' Housing Affordability Index during January, declining interest rates and gains in family income kept the index at a very healthy level, the association reported recently.

At 114.4, the January Housing Affordability Index, which measures the ability of a typical family to purchase a median-priced resale home, was one of the highest readings on record in more than 13 years. January's index was down 2.3 percentage points from the revised December index of 116.7, which was the highest since May of 1977 when it was 118.6.

NAR President Harley E. Rouda said it is not surprising for the median home price to go up in January as more affluent, discretionary buyers tend to be in the market at the first of the year.

"As prices stabilize and interest rates continue to go down, we are likely to see affordability conditions get even better than they are right now, which is pretty hard to beat. I think we can look forward to a relatively active spring home buying season, especially toward the summer months, with moderate activity continuing into the fall," Rouda said.

With the recent cease-fire in the Persian Gulf, consumers will relax a bit and start nosing around in the housing market again, Rouda predicted. "When potential home buyers take a look at where interest rates are right now they will soon realize the wisdom in buying a home," he added.

The January index showed that a family earning the national median income of $35,700 in January had 114.4 percent of the income needed to qualify for conventional financing covering 80 percent of a home priced at $94,200, the median existing-home price for that month.

Half the existing single-family homes sold in January for more than the median price of $94,200 and half sold for less. Similarly, half the families in the United States earned more than the median income of $35,700 and half earned less.

The interest rate used to compute NAR's Housing Affordability Index was a composite of closing rates for both fixed-rate mortgages and adjustable-rate mortgages on existing homes, as reported by the Federal Housing Finance Board. It dropped from 9.84 percent in December to 9.80 percent in January.

NAR Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo has predicted that interest rates will decline one half of a percentage point over the next three to four months and then stabilize. This in turn will improve overall affordability conditions, he said.

When calculated with the board's effective fixed-rate mortgage interest rate of 10.02 percent for the month of January, the index was 112.3. When calculated with the effective adjustable-rate mortgage interest rate of 9.07 percent for January, the index was 121.9.

The median home price rose from $91,700 to $94,200 between December and January, the median family income rose $119, from $35,581 to $35,700, and the income needed to qualify for a loan covering 80 percent of the typical home increased from $30,486 to $31,211. Also, the monthly mortgage payment increased $15 to $650 in January.

When NAR's affordability index measures 100.0, the median family income equals exactly the amount needed to qualify to purchase a median-priced home, using conventional financing and making a 20 percent down payment. The index has been above the 100 mark since March 1986. Because the national median income in January exceeded the qualifying income, a family earning the median income could purchase a home priced at $107,800, $13,600 higher than the median price for January.

Under January's affordability conditions, a family earning $20,000 would have sufficient income to qualify for a $60,300 home using a $48,200 loan. A family earning $30,000 would qualify for an $90,400 home with a $72,300 loan. A family earning $40,000 would have sufficient income to qualify for a $120,500 home with a $96,400 loan; and a family with a $50,000 income would qualify for a $150,600 home using a $120,500 loan.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing more than 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
