In brief special session Thursday :

Board rescinds portion of strike pact

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

In what was called the shortest meeting to date, the Floyd County Board of Education voted Thursday to rescind two items in its agreement with the Floyd County Education Association (FCEA) that ended last August's 10-day teachers' strike.

The board voted 4-0 not to cut back all administrators by one month in extended employment and to not hold their salary increase to the state-required minimum five percent. "Our attorney has advised us that we need to rescind item number one and number three of proposal number eight (of the agreement), said board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell.

"I appointed a committee several weeks ago to try to resolve this matter, two teachers, two administrators and two board members. Those talks broke off and it has been left up to this board to resolve it." Board member James Arville Duff agreed with Campbell, saying he had spoken to board attorney Cliff Latta. "Mr. Latta said if the administrators took this matter to court, we would probably lose," Duff said. "He suggested we rescind item one and three. . . . He said it probably wasn't a legal matter but more of a board policy. "Everything pertaining to the teachers (in the agreement) will stand. We're taking out only what pertains to the administrators."

Campbell allowed no audience discussion on the issue. FCEA president Bud Reynolds said after the meeting that he was unhappy with the board's decision. "We're disappointed with the board's action and that chairman Campbell did not allow any dialogue on the matter," Reynolds said. "We felt like we were coming here to open up some dialogue. "We sent a letter to chairman Campbell explaining the situation that we still feel the board has a responsibility to the taxpayers to explain and hold accountable administrators who are hired for 12 months," Reynolds said. "They've got to have some form (See Board, page two)

Prank call causes stir

by Tess A. Whitmer

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department received a prank call on Sunday night that resulted in two and a half hours of confusion and the caller being charged with the misdemeanor of falsely reporting and incident.

According to Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson "there is no such thing as a 'cry-wolf' situation, we have to take all calls seriously." Believing on Sunday night they had a real hostage situation on Buck's Branch and were possibly dealing with a person on strong medication, four deputies and the sheriff responded to the call, as did four Kentucky State Police troopers, including a hostage negotiator from Magoffin County.

Crystal Chaffins, a dispatcher for the sheriff's office, who spent the entire time of the incident on the phone with the alleged victim, provided details of the incident. At 10:22 p.m. on Sunday, a person claiming to be a 13-year-old named Gwendalou Sammons, called the sheriff's office and told Chaffins that her mother, Gwendalyn Sammons, had been taking medication all day and was walking down the street with a loaded .38 pistol heading out to kill Kirt Hughes, for whom she had a summons.

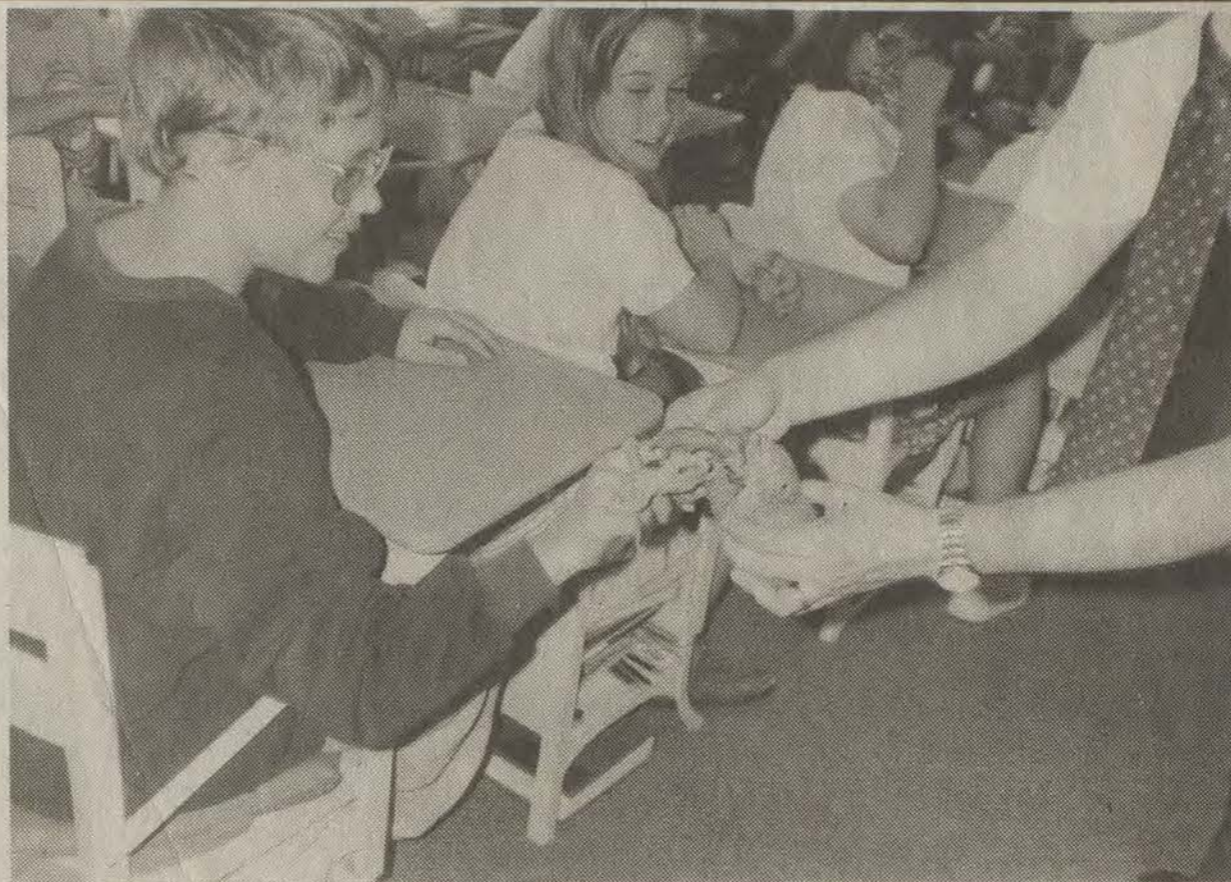

Chaffins, following standard procedures, asked the caller for her phone number and called her back to verify the complaint. Chaffins sent the call over the police radio and Constable Bob Hackworth heard it and was the first to arrive at the scene. He reported seeing a woman with a weapon on the porch of the Sammons' residence, entering the house. Hackworth also reported talking to a boy outside the home who told Hackworth that the woman had fired over his head.

Meanwhile, Chaffins still had "Gwendalou" on the phone and was told that the woman was now holding her at gunpoint. The phone call was then disconnected and Chaffins said she tried for 45 minutes to get the caller back on the phone. Twice the phone was picked up and then disconnected.

The third time a young boy answered and then "Gwendalou" took the phone away from him. When Chaffins asked who the boy was, the girl said it was her 12-year-old brother Claude. Chaffins then inquired why she was not told earlier that the boy was in the house and the girl said she was scared.

During this time more cruisers had arrived and the officers were shining spotlights on the house and

Primary vote nears:

Who's who for what?

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

While some candidates play leap frog or Family Ties, and others play What's My Line, Kentucky voters are likely to engage in a game of hide and seek when the May 28 primary election rolls around.

Despite the appearance of statewide races, including hotly contested gubernatorial contests, on the May 28 primary ballot, history will draw only passing interest from Kentucky Democrats and Republicans, who will select their nominees for November's general election face-off.

Leap-frogers on the May ballot, those who are attempting to jump from one elective office to another, include Lt. Governor Brereton Jones, who seeks the Democratic nod for governor; Congressman Larry Hopkins, who is vying for the Republican nomination for governor; incumbent Attorney General Fred Cowan, who's after the Democratic nomination as Lt. Governor; incumbent State Auditor Bob Babbge, who wants the Democratic bid for Secretary of State; and incumbent State Treasurer Robert Mead CPA, (yes, that's his legal name) who seeks the Democratic nomination for the office of State Auditor.

Other frogs seeking the Lt. Governor's office include state legislator Pete Worthington, Circuit Judge Ray Corns, and Pike County Judge Executive Paul Patton, all Democrats; and Republican state legislator Lawson Walker. Another well-known leap frog, Francis Jones Mills, seeks to return to the public payroll, in the Democratic primary for State Treasurer.

All in the family candidates on the May ballot include First Lady Martha Wilkinson, who seeks to succeed her husband and win the Democratic race for governor; Steve Collins, the son of former Governor Martha Layne

Hearing is set for Friday on request for new trial judge

A hearing today (Friday) will decide whether a motion filed on Monday to have Judge Hollie Conley withdrawn from a trial is valid.

Wendell Ray Newman, a defendant in a 12-year-old murder case, is claiming bias on the part of the Floyd County Circuit Court Judge due to an alleged coal company dealing.

Newman, of Halo, claims that he refused to buy a $20,000 coal-tipple permit from the judge last year. Newman also claims that during the deal Conley inferred that he would assist Newman with the criminal indictments pending against him. Newman asserts that another Floyd County coal operator, Sterling Hamilton, witnessed the conversation.

Conley is one of five owners of Floyd Elkhorn Coal Co. Inc., according to state records, but claims that Newman's accusations are false.

Last month Conley set Newman's murder trial for Oct. 7. Newman and two other men had been indicted in February of 1990 on the charges of conspiracy to murder Walter Hall of Letcher County, but the charges on the other two were dropped.

Hall's body has been ordered exhumed twice. First in 1989 after police learned that no autopsy had been performed and a second time on a request from the defense attorney, Daniel Taylor III of Louisville, last month.

In Pike robbery:

Fourth suspect arrested

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The last of four suspects, including another from Floyd County, have been arrested in connection with Tuesday's armed robbery of a Pike County bank.

William Burchett, 24, of Endicott was arrested at 7:33 p.m. Wednesday at Draffin in Pike County. Burchett was located by the Kentucky State Police's canine unit.

Nelson Zepeda, 37, of Fort Wayne, Indiana was arrested late Tuesday by Virginia State Police at a roadblock on U.S. 460 and Virginia 610, said KSP trooper Ghomer Prater. Zepeda allegedly stole a red pickup truck at gunpoint from a resident in Conway, Virginia prior to the arrest, Prater said.

Kenneth David Warth, 35, and Daisy Helen Warth, 44, both of Endicott were arrested Tuesday evening near Harmon, Virginia by Pike County deputy sheriff Millard Skeens, who pursued the Warth's into Virginia. Burchett was identified as the son of Helen Warth.

According to state police, three armed individuals entered the Ferrell's Creek branch of the First National Bank of Pikeville at 10:50 a.m. Tuesday and demanded money from a bank employee.

The robbers fled the scene and dropped a money bag containing an undetermined amount of cash outside the bank before they fled in two vehicles toward the Virginia border, said state police.

Two individuals left the scene in a 1978 Ford. A second vehicle, a 1986 Plymouth station wagon believed to have been used in the crime, was spotted by deputy Skeens, who pursued and stopped the vehicle near Harmon, Virginia.

The Warth's were taken to the Bristol, Virginia Jail Tuesday and held in connection with the robbery. Zepeda was taken to the Buchanan County Jail in Virginia and Burchett was taken to the Pike County Jail.

The robbery is under investigation by the Kentucky and Virginia State Police, the Pike County and Buchanan County Sheriff's Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

using the megaphone to try to get Gwendalyn to come out of the house or get on the phone to talk with them.

"No one called in to ask why the police were outside their home or to say there was no problem inside," Chaffins said. "We seriously thought it was a hostage situation."

The caller told Chaffins that Gwendalyn had put the gun up, but every time the officers would approach the house the girl would say her mother grabbed the gun again. The girl asked Chaffins to have the officers come in the back door but, she noted, the back door was nailed shut and the officers would have to pry it open.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said he was at home when he heard the traffic on the police radio. When he arrived on the scene he was briefed of the situation and went around behind the house, climbed a fence and listened by a back window.

"I could hear people talking but I couldn't make out everything they were saying," Thompson said. "This is the second hostage situation we've had in two weeks and the first one resulted in an arrest so we had to take it seriously."

Thompson reported that he went back out front to talk to the other deputies when he heard the front door open. He went over to the front porch and told the girl who had opened the door that he wanted to talk to her. The girl told Thompson she wanted to know what was going on so she let him in. "There was nothing going on in the house," Thompson said.

At this time the sheriff's department radioed in to Chaffins that everything was 10-4, but the complainant was still on the phone.

The Kentucky State Police post had received a phone call at about 12:30 a.m. Monday from a person identifying herself as Gwendalou Sammons wanting to know why there were people outside of her house. Reportedly, Gwendalou had called the post four times but she would never come out of the house.

Chaffins ran a trace on the number she had received from the caller and found it led to Wanda Gunnels' home about one-fourth of a mile up the street from the Sammons' place.

"Somehow the lady on the phone knew where everything was and what was going on in the house," Chaffins said. "But there was no way she could see it from her home. Somehow she must have been tapped into the Sammons residence and both parties were involved in the the prank complaint."

A request has been put in to South Central Bell to release information on the Sammons and Gunnels phone system, according to Chaffins.

"I'd say we've had about 8 or 10 false alarm calls from her (Gunnels)," said Thompson. "And I'm sure the state police have had as many, too."

It was discovered later that the boy that Hackworth had talked to was Gunnels' son and that the gun that Sammons owned was still fully loaded.

"The set of circumstances that led up to it made it look to be true," said Thompson.

The scene was cleared at 1:02 a.m. Monday. On Wednesday Gunnels admitting to placing the hoax call, saying it was her son's idea. She and put on probation for the misdemeanor charge. The incident is still under investigation by Thompson and Deputy Linzie Hunt.

of accountability. Under the Kentucky Educational Reform Act administrators play an integral part in the process. I hope the board will take a look at each one of these (extended employment) positions and justify administrators' employment to teachers and the public."

Reynolds also said that the FCEA sold the agreement to teachers and the public as a package and to rescind any part of the agreement affects the whole agreement.

Floyd County teachers voted to go on strike last August after the board of education denied their request for a 20 percent pay increase and requests to have more input in decisions affecting their schools.

The teachers remained on strike for 10 days before an agreement was signed between the board of education and teachers, granting them a 16.5 percent pay hike and allowing teachers to have a say in decisions made at their schools.

Negotiations between Superintendent Ron Hager and FCEA representatives lasted two weeks.

Board member Eddie Billips arrived just after the conclusion of Thursday's meeting. All other board members were present.

ing, if not unusual. There's 'Gate-wood' Galbraith, in the Democratic race for governor (we've already mentioned 'Brereton'); Joe 'Rooster Run' Evans, a Democrat, and C. Hoge Hockensmith, a Republican, in the races for Secretary of State; Jim 'Pop' Malone, a Democrat, in the race for State Treasurer; Roy Rogers, Colin Cokie Cox, and Eben C. Henson, all Democrats, and W.S. Krogdahl and Edward E. Rippetoe, both Republicans, in the races for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Other interesting names on the ballot include a "Buck," a "Gabe," and a "Chum."

The most familiar of all, perhaps, is in the Democratic race for Railroad Commissioner.

At least two candidates on the May ballot are convinced that their professional occupations will help sway voters, so convinced, in fact, that they've legally changed their names to get the designations on the ballot. What's My Line contestants are "Doctor" Floyd Poore, in the Democratic primary race for governor; and (as previously noted) Robert Mead CPA, in the Democratic race for State Auditor.

There's one final category in the Who's Who lineup for the May primary which includes candidates whose names are just plain interest-

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An investigation is underway by Kentucky State Police into the use of Floyd County school facilities for the operation of bingo games and officials will offer no further information to the media until the probe is finished.

Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton sent a letter to the Times Wednesday saying the KSP is in the process of investigating the "alleged illegal" use of school facilities and that he would not comment on the issue until the investigation is complete.

"It is my policy to not discuss any pending investigation," Patton's letter said.

The probe into bingo operations at several high schools comes after an investigation by the Times into a bingo game run by the Prestonsburg Athletic Academic Association (PAAA) at Prestonsburg High School.

The Times investigation revealed that the private booster club does not meet state law criteria to operate a charitable gaming activity.

Prestonsburg High School principal Robert May, also a member of the PAAA, said his organization was unaware of the legal requirements to be considered a charitable gaming organization.

Let's Count The Ways
The release of an audit last week by State Auditor Bob Babbage was informative and offered an array of recommendations to state and local officials to cut costs and oversee school construction projects.

What the report didn't say is how to recoup funds that have been spent unwisely and how to immediately plug some of the holes in school construction projects.

Questions about procedures and contracts relating to school construction projects were raised in January. An auditing team was sent in in February and March. The report released in May, Primary May.

Coincidence?
The report will be presented to the state Board of Education at its May 15 meeting. Hopefully, the state board will initiate regulations immediately to stop the waste.

Let's wait and see.

Festival Fun
Floyd County is gearing up for the third annual Festival of FACES to be held May 16-19 in Prestonsburg. The event will offer something for everyone with music, academic competitions, food, arts and crafts, and a reenactment of a Civil War battle.

Get out, have some fun and enjoy what we have in Floyd County. Sometimes, there's no need to stray in order to have a good time.
*****

Finally Underway
An investigation into bingo games at Floyd County high schools is reportedly now underway. The investigation is being conducted to determine if any illegal activity has taken place on school facilities.

It was reported in March that the games were and had been going on for several years now.

School board members asked the superintendent for a preliminary report on the activities to be given at the April meeting of the board. Board members also asked for a full report to be made two weeks after the April meeting.

So far neither request has been complied with, in a public meeting, nor has any information about the issue been released by the board to the media.

What's been the holdup?

Mom
Mother's Day is one day a year set aside to honor mothers, thank them for their contributions to our lives and to just say I Love You.

Mother's Day is a sad time for many who no longer have their mothers with them.

Mother's Day should be celebrated every day and in every way. Tell your mom you love her and honor and cherish her always. When the day comes that you find yourself without her, you can be comforted somewhat to know that you told her just how special she was and what a difference she made in your life.

Editorial:

Mum's the word

Don't call us, we'll call you.

That's the word this week from Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton, who issued a mum's-the-word notice to the Times and, we suppose, to other media interested in following an investigation of illegal bingo games in the county.

We found Patton's pick-a-lock announcement unusual on two counts.

First, the notice came in official, written form, signed, sealed and delivered.

We've had public officials respond to inquiries with "no comment," by hanging up on us, and even by slamming the door in our faces, but we've never received advance, written notice that they aren't to be bothered with questions.

Secondly, the notice was unusual by the fact that the Times is well into its own investigation of the issue and we have never asked the Commonwealth Attorney or any other investigating authority for any information that might undermine the effectiveness of any criminal probe, bingo or otherwise.

Since the operators of the Prestonsburg bingo game have admitted they did not meet state legal requirements for conducting the games, we're curious about the necessity for such secrecy in the investigation of the issue.

When we know the reason for that, you'll know.

Mom's the word

Sunday is Mothers' Day and we'd like to salute all moms in general and three in particular.

First, Happy Mothers' Day to Peggy Perry, our mom, whose efforts to raise the perfect child worked once in three tries. Okay, those two sisters aren't all that bad and batting .333 is nothing to sniff at. Do that in the Majors and you're an instant millionaire.

Next, Happy Mothers' Day to Celeste Perry, mom to our two leastuns' and, when the occasion warrants, to us. Those latter occasions have a lot to do with used articles of clothing which have a way of jumping out of the hamper while we sleep and draping themselves over furniture throughout the house.

Finally, Happy Mothers' Day to Rudelle Preston, mother-in-law and grandmother, who always takes our side (and the side of her grandchildren) when we argue with her daughter about the volume and location of used articles of clothing that mysteriously appear draped over furniture throughout the house.

Sunday's your day. Have a goodn'.

Letters

Editor:

The other day a friend asked me, "What's a grandma like?"

I guess you know by now, that my friend didn't have one or she wouldn't have asked such a thing. I told her a little about what a grandma is like. But it's hard to tell something special like that in words.

This is what I told her:
A grandma is a lot like a mom except her lap is a little softer and maybe there's a little more of it.

She always has a cookie in her cookie jar for me and a quarter in her purse. Grandma likes to sing to me and read to me, almost as much as she likes to play with me.

When I have breakfast at her house, she always asks me, "What would you like to eat?" and that's what we eat.

Grandma likes to shop with me and I like to shop with her because she almost always buys me what I want.

My mother says she spoils me but I think she just loves me. I know when I go to bed she prays for me.

I am glad you're my grandma because there's no one quite like you in all the world. Thanks for being my grandma!

I know this is Mother's Day, but I also want to say "Happy Grandmother's Day." I love you.

Did you ever wonder how garage sales got started. Well, here are my thoughts on same. Women have always been suckers for impulse items in all stores. They pass by something that gets their eye, knowing full well that they have no immediate use for the item. But, maybe I'll need that sometime and it goes into the shopper's cart.

This happens many times throughout the year, and one day this same house wife looks over the garage and into the closets and she comes us with a multitude of things plus some things that should be in someone else's home. An idea lights up her head, I'll have a yard sale and get rid of all this stuff and make a lot of money. A yard sale takes place. All is sold but a few items left for the next big yard sale. She tells everyone in the neighborhood, I made $300, not realizing that all those impulse items cost $750.

Then, she advises everyone how to get rid of all those old things and get rich. Next day, with the $300 profit she starts the process all over again. With this big money-making idea in her mind. Why, I might even start me a flea market.

Did you ever think with all those impulse items in your home, you could have a very big savings account. But, you couldn't make $300 on $750 worth of goodies that you'll never have a need for. Just think, with a big yard sale or garage sale, I can make at least $200 to $300 a year.

The journalism class is trying to clean up the environment and save energy. Group 1 is made up of Jason Hall, Mikie Justice, James Branham, Greg Burke, Randal Holbrook, John Ferrari, Steven Johnson, Michael Seaff, Brian Rhea and Eddie Shelton.

This group is picking up the trash and cleaning up the creeks. This will really help. I think that this will be a better place to live if it is just cleaned up a little bit. I would like to walk down the road just one time and look in the creeks and beside the roads and not see any trash.

Breathing fresh air would be real nice, also. We don't have it as bad as the people in the big cities, but it hurts us too.

We are trying to plant trees to clean up the air some. If we could get more trees, we could really clean up the air. More people should plant some trees. I bet that they would if they knew how much difference a tree would help. When there is no more air, then how are we going to breathe? Trees take in carbon dioxide and give off oxygen which is the reverse side of what people do. Trees help us and we help trees so everything should work out if there are trees around. Most people know this and still cut down the forest. I think that is really stupid. Another way that trees are destroyed is to make paper. How many trees do you think that one school goes through in one year?

Energy is one of the things that we don't pay much attention to. People leave doors open and let out heat. When a room isn't in use, we leave the lights on and that really uses up the energy. When everyone gets cold or just can't see to walk in a room, they will want back all of the energy that they wasted. Television is the biggest problem. I think that it is anyway. We turn them on and just leave them on and don't even watch what is on. That is a big waste. I guess that people will learn some day.

The wonder of science

Reinstating a love for science

Teaching youngsters to love science before they develop apathy toward the study is the goal of an outreach program developed by the University of Kentucky Department of Physiology and Biophysics.

Dr. Don T. Frazier, science department chair from UK, visited the Prestonsburg Elementary School Wednesday to show the fifth graders that science could be interesting and fun. "So many kids don't find science and biology fun and they shun it," he said.

While visiting, Dr. Frazier, along with Dr. Bob Taylor, medical student and scientist, and Kevin Krauss, a graduate student, introduced the children to the workings of the heart, lungs and the brain.

They brought with them a real heart and brain, as well as computer equipment to show the children how diagnostic testing was done on patients. The students got the chance to touch the specimens and be hooked up to machines to help them visualize how important science can be.

Dr. Frazier stressed that the science field was full of unknowns and, without more people going into the research side of the house, the discovery of cures for diseases would be slowed.

Recent reports estimate that 80 percent of this country's pre-college students are scientifically illiterate. "Our children are not incapable of learning, they are simply avoiding the science curriculum," Frazier noted. "Students view the science curriculum as too hard, too boring, or consider the ultimate career benefits as inadequate to justify the effort."

For this reason, the Science Outreach Program was developed. The outreach committee consists of a coordinator, who serves as the contact individual and dispatcher; the graduate directors of all graduate programs affiliated with the Medical Center (including toxicology and biomedical engineering); and a representative from the biological sciences faculty on campus.

"Collectively these individuals possess a wealth of information that can help solve the problems that surface in the science classroom," Dr. Frazier said. "More importantly, as program directors they have a vested interest in helping to improve the quality and quantity of potential recruits to their respective programs."

In addition to a toll-free science hotline, a newsletter, on-site campus visits and teacher workshops, the program also has off-site visits where experts will come to schools with tailor-made programs to meet the teacher's specific needs.

If possible, a visiting team will include a faculty member and/or student who have an affiliation with that school or region. Dr. Frazier, who is originally from Martin, added "such visits provide an excellent opportunity to share the excitement of a career in science and biology with students who are at the formative stage of their education."

Dr. Frazier firmly believes that educators need to help foster a love for the sciences in children at an early age and he offers this program as an assistance to the classroom teacher to accomplish that goal.

"The most significant player in the effort to improve science education is always the classroom teacher," he said. "In the final analysis, it is a teacher's sense of enthusiasm and innovativeness that attracts students to the discipline."

With this in mind the outreach program also includes summer workshops for science/biology teachers using facilities of the University and the Medical Center. These workshops are designed to upgrade the teachers' biological knowledge through lecture and laboratory exercises. Frazier noted that a great deal of time is spent discussing ways in which a teacher can be more innovative given limited resources and facilities.

Local students inducted into Golden Key society

Three students from Floyd County have been inducted into the Golden Key National Honor Society's chapter at Eastern Kentucky University.

Honored this semester were Elizabeth L. Ousley of Langley, a senior preaccounting major; Brenda G. Watson of Betsy Layne, a graduate prenursing major; and Rita G. Watson of David, a sophomore emergency medical care major.

Membership in Golden Key is by invitation only and is limited to the top 15 percent of the juniors and seniors enrolled at the college or university.

Part-time as well as full-time students qualify, and membership is open to traditional and non-traditional students.

The Golden Key National Honor Society was founded at Georgia State University on November 29, 1977 by a group of outstanding undergraduate students. The society has 161 active chapters nationwide. In addition, more than 250,000 lifetime members and 2,500 honorary members have been inducted, and more than $500,000 in scholarships have been awarded.

Kentucky Opry

by Billie Jean Osborne

Recently I had a college student visiting area schools with me to see what was going on with the "Friends" musical. Misty Daniels, who is a student at the University of Kentucky, wanted to know everything that was going on with the Kentucky Opry. She is now one of the stars on the stage and thinks she may like to come back to Eastern Kentucky to teach voice, speech and drama. After sitting in on some of our rehearsals, she had this to say:

"When Billie Jean Osborne first asked me to travel to Floyd County Schools, which were preparing the musical "Friends," I must admit I did not know quite what to expect. Eastern Kentucky is not the artistic center of Kentucky, as I would hope it to be, so I wondered how this lack of arts exposure would affect the student's performance. Also, I know that "Friends" is a very difficult piece.

I was truly curious as to how well the students would perform. The first school we visited was Betsy Layne Elementary. When I saw those students singing, dancing and acting with such great skill, I must admit, tears came to my eyes.

Who would have thought such a wealth of talent could be found in only one school? Yet each school was producing talented children. I then began wondering how much talent is still not encouraged or undiscovered here.

Now I understand the urgency in Billie Jean's voice when she talks of how Eastern Kentucky needs the services and vision of the Kentucky Opry. My high school did not have a well established choral program, and I feel I missed out on some great opportunities.

Don't allow another generation of Eastern Kentucky students to be denied an arts education. Support Billie Jean Osborne and the Kentucky Opry."

Well, the count down has begun for our big festival. All the music teachers are working so hard, each one doing his or her own thing to prepare their students for the big day.

Nine more days and our hills will come alive with music. Band and choral music will be heard in the Prestonsburg Field House on Thursday night at 7 p.m.. Each high school will have a beautiful candidate to represent their school, one will be chosen as festival queen.

I feel honored to play a small part in the festivities by directing the Junior High Chorus, which has students from 13 schools in the county.

I am enjoying working with the music teachers, Cathy Caudill, Valerie Coburn, Sandy Tackett, Miss Kettle and Mike Cooley. These people lay the foundation for these special groups. Many classroom teachers are helping with these projects, too.

In traveling around this week I found an interesting project happening at the Maytown school. They found a picture of a float that won first place in the Music Festival 40 years ago and you won't believe what they are doing with that picture. Be at the parade and you'll find out.

Floyd County History

Eureka as remembered by Lenna B. Moore

By Wanda Jean Hunt Lafferty (his niece)

During the First World War, around 1916 or 1917 coal was discovered on the mountain side of a large boundary of land owned by Anna Porter Mayo. This land followed the Big Sandy River approximately one and a quarter running miles and stretched to the top of the mountain and up a large hollow. The land lay about one mile south of Prestonsburg on what is now U.S. 23. Thus, a coal mining camp sprang up here on the banks of the river.

Two business men, Henry Porter of Floyd County, and Harry Leeburg from Huntington, West Virginia, put a plan into action to mine the coal.

During the following months, "Row" houses were built to accommodate the miners and their families. In all, approximately twenty-five houses were built in three rows through the bottom. Next, a company store was built and operated by a Mr. "Tigg" or Teague. Later it was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyde.

A boarding house was needed for the single men, so in the early weeks of the camp Jake and Mary Etta Burchett Setser, and their three unmarried daughters, Josephine Ann Setser (Moore), Emily Armita Setser (Greer) and Okie Burchett Setser (Hunt), moved from their farm on Johns Creek, Kentucky to "run" the boarding house. The first year two of the row houses were used for this purpose. One house was for the manager and his family, the other one was for the boarders. During this time, a large two-story boarding house was built, and they subsequently moved into it.

Some of the early boarders were Lenna B. Moore from Lawrence County, Kentucky, who worked as an outside foreman, Dewey Hunt and Roby Greer of Floyd County. These three men worked for the duration of the mining operation, eventually married the three Setser daughters and moved into the row houses — so grew the community.

Some other early family names were Mr. Snappe, who was the mine superintendent, Pat Coyer, one of the inside foreman, Cebert Clifton, Doc

Much of the lumber used in the housing project was bought from Melvin Wells. Construction was done by Ballard Carter and much of the wiring by Joe Harris, all of Floyd County.

A power plant and machine shop were built near the river. Two large boilers generated power for the camp. It had a smoke stack arising about seventy-five feet into the air and stood five feet in diameter.

Three mines were opened. Mine number one was located on what is now U.S. 23. Mine numbers two and three were up what was called "Mayo Hollow" across from and above the now existing Rebel Bowling Lanes, which is operated by some of the Mayo heirs.

The coal was dug from the mines and loaded on what they called "motors," which was the forerunner of the Shuttlebuggy. This motor ran on tracks, down the hill across what is now US 23, on down the river where the track ran down into a hole of water backed in from the river. There the coal was washed and loaded onto a belt line and carried across the river to a tippie where it was dumped into C & O railway cars. It was then hauled to Catlettsburg, Ashland and on into Ohio and elsewhere. This belt line crossing the river was an enclosed structure. Between shifts it could be used as a walk bridge across the river giving people who lived on either side access to each side of the river.

The miners operated ten years or longer, suspending operation during the late 1920's, about the time of the great depression. The land and all buildings reverted to the land owner, Anna Porter Mayo.

Many families stayed on, renting the houses and getting jobs elsewhere. Dick and Regina Mayo, son of Anna Porter Mayo moved into the superintendent's house. In 1944, the old boarding house was cut into four sections and moved to the upper end of the camp and reassembled. After

Simpson, Tobe Shepherd, Bud Simpson and Mr. "Big Belly" Smith. As the camp grew, and having a sizable number of children living within its confines, there arose a need for education. About 1924, a one room elementary school was built. It was called the Eureka School. All eight grades were taught here. This school continued serving a great number of children, years after the mine stopped operating. It closed when it merged with the Prestonsburg Elementary School shortly after World War II.

That another section was added that became the dairy barn, which was owned and operated by Dick and Regina Mayo.

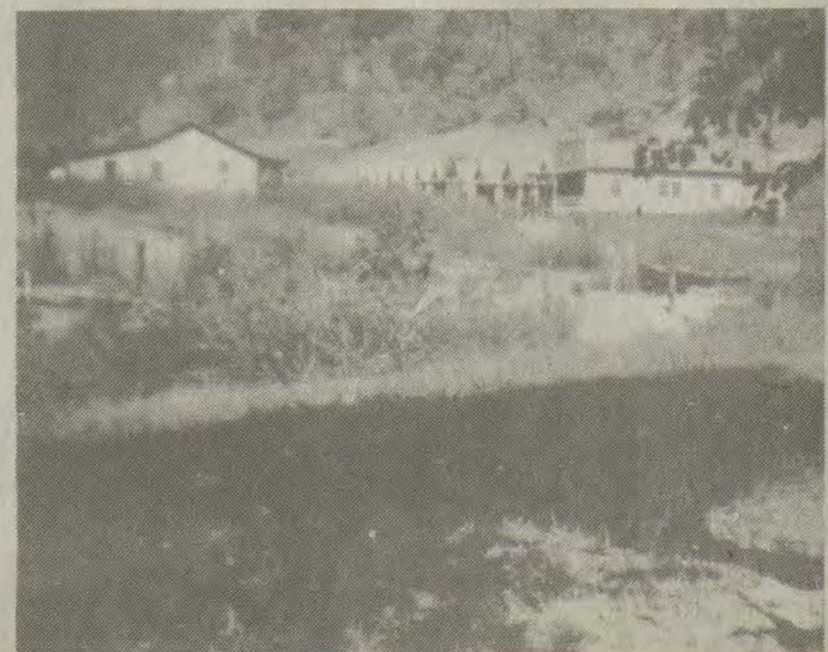

As years passed, the row houses disappeared one by one. During the late 1970's a large part of the remaining camp was purchased by C.R. Hatton, a building contractor who began a subdivision of Prestonsburg, renaming it Briarwood.

Now in 1991, only two of the original houses stand. They adjoin Briarwood and are owned by Mary Catherine Mayo Damron, daughter of Dick and Regina Mayo. Across U.S. 23 at the mouth of "Mayo Hollow" live Ruth Lucille Mayo Goble and Henry Lewis Mayo, children of H.L. and Maude Salisbury Mayo. These three are grandchildren of Anna Porter Mayo.

The modern subdivision "Briarwood" has arisen out of the dust of the coal camp "Eureka", bearing little resemblance to its beginning. Adrian and Wanda Jean Hunt Lafferty have a home where the old company store once stood. She is the daughter of Dewey and Okie Burchett Setser Hunt and granddaughter of Jake and Mary Etta Burchett Setser.

A large nursing home stands where the old machine shop once stood. Today, 1991, if one should visit modern Riverview Nursing Home, walk out on the patio overlooking the river and ask "What are those concrete pillars which stand on each side of the river?" now partly hidden by undergrowth, the answer would be, "Those are pillars that many years ago supported a large enclosed belt line that carried coal coming from Eureka mines numbers one, two and three from Mayo Hollow to a tippie on the other side and the railroad."

This is the only remaining visible evidence that a once thriving camp, where people lived, loved, worked, died or moved on, once stood on this very ground. They added much to the rich heritage of Floyd County. Of all

THE RIGHT TO VOTE IN A FREE AND HONEST ELECTION...

...It's as important now as it was when Kentuckians were just coming together as a state 200 years ago.

It's up to all of us to keep Kentucky's elections free and honest.

This election day, state law enforcement officials and the Kentucky Attorney General's Office will be on the lookout for vote fraud.

Election violations include:

- Voting more than once, voting when not entitled to do so, or voting in another person's name;
- Buying or selling a vote;
- Unauthorized possession of absentee ballots;
- Bribery or attempted bribery of election officials or voters;
- Electioneering within 500 feet of a polling place;
- Preventing authorized challengers of poll-watchers from being present at the polls or from witnessing the counting of ballots.

If you suspect election fraud when you go to vote, report it by calling toll-free to the Kentucky Attorney General's Office.

Goose Creek music to come to FACES

A special acoustical presentation of Goose Creek music will be performed by Charlie Gearheart, Willard Henke and Pearl Spradlin, who together are the band's vocalists/guitarists/writers, and comprise the "heart" of the Goose Creek Symphony.

The group will appear in a special benefit concert Saturday, May 18, during the Festival of FACES. This event will be held in the Prestonsburg High School Field House, and will benefit the Kentucky Opry, The Gumbrecht Heartbreakers and the Kentucky Opry Band will also perform.

Advance tickets are $10 reserved, and $7 general. Doors open at 6 p.m.

Goose Creek Symphony, the innovative band of the '70s, has reunited to produce their first new album in fifteen years, entitled "Oso Special," on June Appal recordings.

Goose Creek symphony, whose name is still revered in some circles, rocketed to stardom after appearing at the Atlanta Pop Festival and on the

Ed Sullivan Show. Their three albums of music were critically acclaimed, yet defied the label of "country," "rock and roll" or "progressive" or "alternative." The band describes their music as "Goose Creek music," and with its roots in the Appalachian Mountains, it sounds more "country and eastern" than "county and western."

In September, the entire seven piece Goose Creek Symphony will begin a three month tour, starting in Appalachia and the mid-Atlantic states.

Numbers — they're everywhere

Have you noticed how we have begun to name things with both a name and a number? Time was when we called an item by an appropriate handle and let it go at that. Now we feel compelled to give many items a number. This naming things by numbers combined with all the traditional uses of numbers can sometimes give us digitalphobia.

Each profession or area of interest will more than likely have this emphasis on numbers, but I am going to illustrate the ways numbers affect my own life on a daily basis.

When I start a new school year, I will fill out SID-1's, PA-2's, and PA-4's. Naturally I will have to fill that form out with a No. 2 pencil. They will insist I know the number for the county (175), the number for the school (650), and the homeroom number (1202). Before the day is out, someone will want to know my social security number. If I feel that I have worked overtime writing all these numbers down, I then have to fill out a F-75 to get my extra pay. Even the master keys for some of the combination locks have such names as V-36 and V-96. When I get to the television German class, I have to remember that we are class No. 25. During the homeroom period we get to watch Channel 1 which comes on Channel 4. Now explain that one.

When I was growing up, half the boys had Chevrolets and the other half had Fords. There was a constant argument as to which was better. Of course, we had the different styles in the cars: Chevrolet Impala and Ford Fairlane. There were no numbers to go with the car. Now, I drive a Cougar XR-7 and park next to a 4x4 on one side of me and a Mazda 323 on the other side. This is just in the teachers' parking lot. The really fancy cars are in the students' parking lot.

When I go looking for a computer to do a simple task, I am asked if I want to do it on an Apple IIe, Apple IIGs, or a Macintosh SE/30. They tell me that we will switch to IBMPS/1's and PS/2's next year. After I have finished typing the article, I have to decide what font size (Chicago 9, Times 12, or Helvetica 12) I am going to use to print the document. Then I have to decide if I want to save it on a 5.25 or 3.5 disk. If I want to use photographs with this article, I have to know if I am using ASA 100 or ASA 400 film in my Minolta XD-11 or Pentax K-1000. I also have to know the f-stop — that is should I shoot this photo at f-4 at a shutter speed of 125. When I go to pick up my prints, I don't ask for pictures or prints. I ask for 3x5's, 5x7's, or 8x10's.

So, a school day has ended and I figure that I can get away from numbers. I stop to see my favorite dentist, Dicky Tackett. What does he do? Looks at my teeth and refers to them by number. Number ten has an occlusion. (I still don't know what that is and really don't care what it is as long as it is taken care of.) I leave there and go to get the mail. Number 408 looks me right in the eye as if to say, "You've found me again, brilliant one."

I finally make it home. I know I have to choose a channel on the television, but that seems sensible enough to me. What are some of the shows that I have to choose from — 48 Hours, 20/20, 60 minutes, and a host of other shows with numbers? Now, they are trying to tell me that should I become bonkers with all this overload of numbers, I have to remember to call 911 so they can come and take me away to the realm of imaginary numbers in the sky where someone will slap me around the head with a 2x4 for writing such drivel as this.

Finally, the day comes to an end. I tell Linda about how numbers dominate our lives, but I close the whole day with this statement: "With all the numbers that I have encountered today, you're No. 1."

Soapbox

A friend asked me the other day when I was going to stop writing about my experiences in the war and get back to writing the type of articles I used to.

by Tess Whitmer

So, this week I'll take his advice and skip the Saudi stuff and talk about local people instead.

Just for that comment Joe, tag you're it.

Those of you who have read Wednesday's paper may have noticed that a certain Floyd County personality is leaving. Joe Back, who is best known for his work at Hall Funeral Home and his local sports commentary on the radio, is heading for Carter County this weekend to begin work at another funeral home.

When Joe came into the office to drop off his article for Wednesday's paper, I had mixed feelings about his visit. Although I've known him through the paper for some time, Joe and I really started to become good friends only last summer. His visit to the newspaper was the first time I had seen him since I'd been back in town and yet he was here to tell us, and the rest of Floyd County, that he was leaving. I didn't know whether to be happy to see him or sad because I'd miss him.

I think of Joe as the perfect example of how one does not have to be born and raised here to become an integral part of life in Floyd County. Joe loves this county, as he is always saying.

He is now facing the unpleasant thought of having to leave someplace he has called home for the past five years and going back to his previous home with the hopes of blending back in. To say he is anxious about the move is an understatement. However, he does hint at thoughts of coming back to Floyd County one day. Undoubtedly, schedule permitting, he will be back for as many visits as possible.

I remember one night when Joe met several friends and me at the Holiday Inn for Comedy Night last year. We arrived first and sat on the far side of the room. When Joe got there, he took 15 minutes to get to the table because he had to stop and shake hands with everyone else in the place on his way. We observed then that Joe should be a politician. With his personality he'd be a shoo-in.

Joe used to call the paper on Tuesdays so many times in one day that it almost became frustrating. He'd call to change this obituary or add to that one, or correct some spelling of a person's name or bring a photograph down. He really took meticulous pride in his job and strove to make sure everything was just right. As aggravating as it could become, how could I fault someone for that?

I have no doubt that Joe will be a success wherever he hangs his hat. And, I'm sure that if we ever travel to Carter County we will hear the voice of the "Flash" doing play-by-play for a local ball game.

Good-luck Joe, we'll miss you.

Just one more thought before I close out this column. The other day I was riding in one of those cars that have the automatic shoulder belts. You know the kind that zips up into your face the moment you start the car and shut the door. The same ones that rotate downward when you open the door and it practically takes your head off if you simultaneously reach for your purse or packages.

What I am wondering is, if you are in an accident and your door pops open, does the belt come down? Imagine if you were then hit a second time and there you are with your door open and your shoulder harness down.

Just wondering.

Mommie dearest

If the magazine articles, florist advertisements or the greeting card companies haven't already alerted you that Mother's Day is this coming Sunday, I'm reminding you again.

Being a Mother, I enjoy this special day because it means there will be no repercussions if I decide not to cook a meal, or make a bed. Yet the most wonderful aspect of Mother's Day is that I have a mother, and my mother has a mother, and we're all lucky to have each other.

As lovely as this all sounds, the articles I have been reading are filled with the difficulties surrounding mother/daughter relationships; particularly celebrity mothers and daughters. And although my mother and I get along "famously", we certainly don't fit into the categories these articles cover.

One article told how a daughter hated the fact that her mother always wanted to dress the same way she did. For instance, if the daughter wore a mini-skirt, the mother bought one exactly like it.

Another daughter lamented that her mother still told her what to do and how to act even though the daughter was 40 years old with a family of her own.

Sound familiar?

Well, my mother and I don't have any problems remotely similar to the ones I read about. In fact, my mother would never stoop to wearing a mini-skirt because, if she did, she'd never stoop again—at least not in public. And as far as telling me what to do and how to act, she quit trying to do that years ago. It was too much of a hassle.

The only thing my mother does that perturbs my sisters and me is that, after all these years, she still instructs us on how to drive.

"You're going to fast. Don't turn off here, turn at the next one. There's a parking place. Oh, you missed it. If you hadn't been going so fast, you would have seen it. Why didn't you put your signal on back there? You could have pulled out an hour ago. Why don't you use your rearview mirror? Didn't you see that child? Slow down, there's a bump 200 yards in front of you." And, last but not least, my all time favorite, "You're making me nervous. Pull off and let me drive."

For a woman who didn't even have to take a legitimate driver's test, my mother shouts out driving commands like a Five-star general. Unfortunately, her commanding abilities are not limited to her children. Other innocent drivers she rides with are also victims.

"Doris, put your signal on now. It's easier to get to the store if you turn here. You stopped first, you have the right-of-way."

No one is immune.

I finally felt I had to get one up on her the day I noticed she wasn't wearing her seatbelt.

"Mom, buckle-up," I said.

"Why? Are you going to drive fast as usual?"

"No, it's just safer. Didn't you know that most accidents happen within 25 miles of your home?"

"If you're planning on an accident, you'd better let me drive."

"Mother, lots of states have mandatory seatbelt laws. You need to wear one in case an accident happens, that's all."

"What if we have an accident, and I can't get my seatbelt off?"

"That's hypothetical, Mother. But if we did, a seatbelt would probably save your life."

"Okay, I'll buckle mine if you promise me something."

"Anything."

"Slow down when you get to that speed bump. Put your signal on in the middle of the block, and don't go West, go East when you get to the corner. And don't forget if you have to turn in front of a car, they have the right-of-way. Don't keep your foot on the brake either. And come to a complete stop at a yield sign. You never know what the other fellow is going to do."

"Anything else," I sighed.

"Just one. Why don't you let me drive?"

Thank God for Mothers.

District Baseball Tournament Wide Open

The 1991 Floyd County High School Baseball District tournament gets underway this coming Monday to have lost his eye at the plate. Newsome will be a big key if the Bobcats are to advance to regional afternoon at the Allen Park, and this year's encounter will carry no clear-cut favorite as one of the best district tournaments should be witnessed by baseball fans.

To be able to point to a particular team and say they should win it hands down will not be the case this season. Not only will Floyd County have a strong district, but the two teams that advance on to regional play will have a good shot at winning the regional tournament at Pikeville.

Two teams in the county that have been at it about everyday have been the Betsy Layne Bobcats and Prestonsburg Blackcats. Both teams games, but are still title contenders for this year's tournament.

BETSY LAYNE (19-9)

The Bobcats have perhaps the deepest pitching staff in the district this year. Keith Hall, a lefthander, has been the work horse of the Betsy Layne staff. Another lefthander, Todd Akers, is a hard thrower with a good mixture of pitches. Seniors Adam Gearheart and Chris Newsome also take to the hill for Betsy Layne. Freshman Barry Clark has been a very pleasant surprise on the mound for coach Junior Newsome's squad this year

Offensively, the Cats are led by plate. The senior catcher has banged out five this season. Hall has a quick bat at the plate and likes to pull the ball. The southpaw also has homerun power. Danny Paige has been on a tear of late for the Bobcats and perhaps the most consistent at the plate of any starters. Freshman Chris Potter is a very good number two hitter, handles the bat real well and, when Hall (who bats in front of Potter) gets on, can lay down the bunt.

An area of concern for Coach Newsome is getting the bat of Chris Newsome moving again. Newsome, one of the top Bobcat hitters a year ago and also earlier this year, seems play.

Barry Collins seems to be a much improved player at the plate. A proven defensive player, Collins has had some strong games with the bat for Betsy Layne. Sports fans have to like the bat of Clark. Clark is very aggressive at the plate and makes good contact. He doesn't have the tendency to over swing at the plate, but just tries to make good contact.

Defensively, Betsy Layne is solid — a strong infield and a very good outfield. Hall plays first and Paige or Gearheart plays second. Gearheart sometimes sees action at third with Clark and Chris Newsome. Potter

Collins, Paige and eighth grader Derrick Newsome handle the outfield and do more than an adequate job of it. Darren Gearheart puts on the mask and pads to do the catching for Betsy Layne. Gearheart is a good catcher and blocks the ball very well but lacks in throwing to the bases.

This could be the season for the Bobcats.

PRESTONSBURG (19-10)

It has been a good and a bad season for Prestonsburg. At times they look unbeatable, and then the next time out, they look like they are no

Bryant hits for cycle...

McDowell Captures District 52 Title

For the second year in a row the McDowell Lady Daredevils softball team has captured the coveted title in the 52nd District Girl's Softball Tournament. The Lady Devils defeated a tough Sheldon Clark team 18-11 in the championship game and will now move on to Greenup County for the state regionals. The tournament was held at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central Wednesday evening.

Several players carried the big bats for Coach Cassandra Akers Lady Devil team. Karrie Newsome was a perfect five for five in the win. Lori Bryant, who hit for the cycle, had four hits in five plate appearances including a long homerun over the right centerfield fence. Bryant also singled, doubled and tripled in the game. Lisa Henry collected three hits which included her homerun to straight away centerfield. Henry was being scouted by a college coach. Jenny Slone experienced a good game at the plate with a four-for-five outing. Debbie Fannin also managed three hits in the game.

Linda Hobson got the win for McDowell. Hobson walked only one batter with no strikeouts. Sheldon Clark collected 14 hits off Hobson in scoring their 11 runs.

Jennie Kirk was the losing pitcher, yielding 18 runs on 24 base hits. Kirk walked one batter while fanning none.

It was a comeback effort on the part of Coach Akers' club. Taking a 4-0 lead in the first inning, the Lady Devils saw the Lady Cardinals score five first inning runs and plate four in the second to take a 9-4 lead.

Trailing 9-8 going into the top of the fourth inning, McDowell exploded for five runs on six hits to go in front 13-9. Kristy Mullins singled leading off the inning. Fannin followed with her second hit of the game and McDowell's Lori Bryant drilled a pitch that hit off the top of the centerfield fence for a two run triple, scoring Mullins and Fannin. Karrie Newsome, who had six RBIs in the game, picked on the first pitch Kirk and singled home Bryant. Henry then stroled to the plate and hit a 2-1 pitch way over the fence for a two-run blast.

Hobson, who experienced some difficulty in the first and second inning, settled down and blanked the Lady Cardinals in the third and fourth innings. Hobson gave up single runs to the Lady Cards in the fifth — a homerun by Cindy Horn, her second, — and a single run in the top of the seventh.

McDowell went on top 4-0 in the first on five hits. All five hits came back to back. With one out, Fannin singled and Bryant moved her to third when her base hit was misplayed by Horn in centerfield for an error. Newsome doubled, scoring both Fannin and Bryant. Henry duplicated Newsome's feat with a two-bagger as Newsome scored the third run of the inning. The Lady Devils completed the scoring on an RBI single by Slone.

Sheldon Clark batted around in the bottom of the first inning, sending 10 batters to the plate to take a 5-4 lead. After Linda Slone grounded out to second, Jackie Harless singled and scored on Kirk's triple. Goble walked and, with two out, Horn laced a double between the center and right fielders for a two run hit. Damron followed that with a double of her own, scoring Horn. Damron came in on a base hit by Sabrina Jarrell.

McDowell made no noise in the top of the second as they went out in order. The Lady Cards picked up where they left off in the bottom of the inning, scoring five times. Slone tripled and, with one out, came in to score on a ground out to first by Kirk. Goble reached on an error on Bryant, and Bowens' grounder to second was misplayed by Fannin. Horn then hit her first homer — a three run shot — to make it 9-4.

McDowell pulled to within one with four in the top of the third. Bryant got a one out double — on a ball that bounced over the fence. Newsome doubled her home and Henry doubled home Newsome. Henry came in to score on a base hit by Slone, her second, and Lisa Brown picked up an RBI with a double to right center.

Sheldon Clark went out without any damage being done in the bottom of the third and McDowell took the lead for good with five in the fourth inning.

The game also saw some good defensive plays by the Lady Daredevils. Henry played left field errorlessly, making some outstanding catches. Fannin pulled a defensive

52nd District

McDowell Overcomes P-burg In District Game

Everything was hot except the weather Tuesday evening at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central High School, including the bats for both teams, the coaches and the fans. It was the opening game of the 52nd District Girl's Softball Tournament and there was plenty of action on the field, off and around the field. When the dust had all settled it was the Lady Daredevils of McDowell coming away with a 28-15 win under the threat of a protest being filed.

Lisa Henry carried the hot bat for the Lady Daredevils as she collected seven RBIs in the game, amassing five hits in five plate appearances and scoring four runs. Henry had three doubles in the contest. Lori Bryant tripled twice and singled twice for a four hit night. Lisa Brown was three-for-four at the plate for McDowell.

Amy Reed was perfect for Prestonsburg in the game. Reed tripled three times and had two singles for a five-for-five game. Reed also collected four RBIs for the Lady Cats.

Prestonsburg scored nine times in the second inning as 14 batters marched to the plate. The problems for McDowell in the inning began after two were out. Melissa Bailey struck out leading off the inning and after Stephanie Music singled, Stacy Reed also fanned. Stephanie Allen reached on an error in leftfield and Christy Little walked to load the bases. Clay drilled a base hit to left, scoring Music and Allen. Reed then cleaned the bases with a triple and later scored on an error at third off of the bat of Kathy Slone. Carrie Merion continued the inning for Prestonsburg with an RBI single and Carolyn Reffitt followed suit with a run producing base hit. Bailey, batting for the second time in the inning, singled home a run and Music got her second hit of the inning. Prestonsburg led 10-9 after two.

"OLD TIMERS" ALUMNI GAMES SET FOR FESTIVAL OF FACES

It all started last year as part of the Festival of FACES festivities. It caught on big as fans from around the county came out to see former county basketball players once again show that they hadn't lost the old touch.

Well, it's that time of year again as the "semi-finals" of the tournament that began a year ago will get started back. Players from Prestonsburg, Auxier, Betsy Layne, Garrett, Wayland, Martin, Maytown, McDowell, Allen Central and Wheelwright that graduated in 1987 or earlier, are eligible to participate in this year's "Old Timers" Alumni Games.

The change in this year's eligibility is for the purpose of having pity on the old timers. The younger players, however, will have a chance to take part in the three-point shooting and slam dunk contests that will be held from 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday, May 17. The Alumni Games will get started around 6 p.m. with a game in the loser's bracket (losers of the games last year).

In the first game, the Martin Alumni, coached by the legend himself, Denzil "Hoss" Halbert will face the terror of Left Beaver, Wheelwright, coached by "win at any cost" Frankie Francis. In the 7:15 p.m. game, Garrett, coached by former alumni Ronald Lawson, will go against arch rival Wayland who will be led by Jimmy Cox.

In the winners bracket, McDowell, coached by the fit and trim Pete Grigsby Jr., will face all the former players from Mud Creek, Prater, Harold and points beyond that from the Betsy Layne Bobbin Cats in an 8:30 start. Are you ready Herschel Conn? The Cats will be handled by the Jimmy Hart of basketball, Tommy Boyd.

Prestonsburg, under the guidance of "super coach" Ron Robinson, will face Gene Frasure's Maytown Wildcats at 9:45.

The games will be played in 10 minute quarters with a continuous running clock, except for the final two minutes of the second and fourth quarters.

Any player from any of the former Floyd County schools and present schools that wish to take part in this year's Old Timers Alumni Games must contact the coaches or assistant coaches as soon as possible. Assistant coaches for the team will be the current high school coaches. Monroe Jones (yes, Monroe), Johnny Martin, Johnny Ray Turner, Junior Newsome or the "golf course flash" Gordon Parido.

A lot of fun and excitement awaits the fans as players from the past (Ben Gay squad) takes to the floor at the Prestonsburg gym on Friday night. Allen Central will be the host school for this year's Alumni Games.

Admission to the games will be $3 for adults and $2 students. It is important that each player sign up as soon as possible in order to make sure enough jerseys are available.

It sure would be a treat to fans to see the Talent boys — Bob, Bill, Mike and Pat as well as the king himself — "King" Kelly Coleman — and other great former Floyd County basketball players come out and take part this year.

Special alumni referees will be used for the games. Old time cheerleaders (sorry ladies) are asked to be in attendance as well as band members. This is going to be a big night. As soon as we get a list of players that will take part we will print them. So, let's all get behind the games and make them as successful as last year's. All you former players, get your name on the list as soon as possible.

Tournament

problem for the opposition. Overall, though, this is a very, very good Blackcat team. They are strong all the way around. The young talent on this club is excellent. Probably a pitcher short of equaling Betsy Layne.

John Clark is the ace of the staff. The hard throwing Clark has a good enough off-speed pitch to keep the hitters that dig in against him, off stride. He possesses a very strong pitching arm and when he is in the groove is almost unbeatable. Clark runs out of steam in the late innings though.

Aaron Tucker, a hard throwing righthander, comes up to number two on the pitching staff. He relies mostly on his fast ball, and he has a good one. Tucker experiences periods of wildness, but seems to right himself quick enough. Chris Cavins is another hard thrower. Cavins, is a finesse pitcher. He likes to mix them up and keep batters honest. Jason Crisp, Ronnie Goodman and Anthony Howell also see some time on the hill for Prestonsburg — but perhaps not in the tournament. Coach Russell Shepherd will stay with his one and two pitcher for this one with the others ready to relieve.

Prestonsburg is an excellent hitting ball club and that alone may take them through the tournament to a district title. Prestonsburg is a good contact hitting ball club that likes to play the fundamentals of hitting — bunting, sacrificing the runners, hit and run. The Blackcat are unpredictable in what they will do, and that is what makes them dangerous.

They can hit for average or go for the long ball. Clark is currently on a hitting spree, and Sean Damron has been known to experience a streak of his own. Power wise, Tucker adds that needed long ball to clean the bases now and then. Worth McGuire, who has been an added plus to the Blackcat team this year, rarely strikes out, making good contact consistently. Jason Storey can club the long ball but has been struggling at the plate lately. However, Storey seems to get the big hit when the Blackcats need it.

Crisp, the fastest runner on the team, can circle the bases and has good bat control at the plate. Chris Cavins, who is the team's designated hitter, carries a hot bat for Prestonsburg.

Other players that Coach Shepherd look to are Goodman, Neil Slone and Scott Stephens.

Prestonsburg has one of the best outfielders in the district this season in Goodman, McGuire and Stephens. Good range all the way around and gets a good jump on the ball.

Crisp holds down the left side of the infield at third base and Storey anchor's the right side at first. Sean Damron plays second and Clark — when not pitching — is at short. Neil Slone, along with dependable Kevin Hall, handles the catching duties for Prestonsburg. Clark has great range at the shortstop spot — ranging out into the outfield to take a fly ball. Crisp has a quick glove at third — which is needed.

Prestonsburg commits very few errors which the opposition has to earn what they get. A good choice to go to Pikeville.

ALLEN CENTRAL (8-8)

A much improved ball club. A young team that has come a long way this season. With the loss of Brett Meadows to military, the Rebels lost their top pitching prospect. However, junior Robbie Sexton has come on to take up the slack left by Meadows' loss. Sexton, the hard throwing, finesse pitcher, has had some strong outings this season and continues to throw the ball well. Freshman Jason Martin has looked very impressive for the Rebels on the hill. Stevie Robinson is a strong four inning pitcher. After the fourth, he seems to tire easy and seems to aim the ball instead of throwing it.

The loss of Chuck Laferty to an injury could hurt the Rebels if he is not able to return to the lineup. Laferty hurls for Allen Central and plays first base.

John Martin has had an up and down season in the pitching rotation for the Rebels. Martin is the kind of pitcher that needs to get started right or he seems unable to gain his control later.

This is a good hitting baseball team all the way around. Every position is strong when it comes to the plate. Stewart Hall has some new found power hitting the long ball. Ditto catcher Brad Scott. Scott hit two in back to back games, the latter coming against the Paintsville Tigers.

Robinson, who struggled earlier, has found his stroke and is making better contact at the plate. B.J. Aldrich, the clean up hitter, has been a consistent hitter all year.

The Rebels are loaded with players with last name Martin. Jason Martin has been playing first base since the injury to Laferty, and the playing time has given the freshman some confidence at the plate. Martin has been stinging the ball lately and has been instrumental in two Rebel wins lately. John Martin was in somewhat of a slump, but seems to be finding his eye at the plate again. Frank Martin just seems to want to have a good time, and he does that by getting base hits.

What would the Rebels lineup be without the bat of Phillip Ritchie, the hard luck hitter for the Rebels? However, Ritchie is proof that if you continue to hit the ball hard, the ball will start to fall for you. Earlier, Ritchie was making good contact and driving the ball, but the ball was being caught. Now, the hits are starting to come for the centerfielder.

The Rebels have a top notch outfield in Martin, Martin and Ritchie. The infield has had its problems this season. With a good hitting ball club and strong pitching, one could ask why are they just 8-8? Errors! The ball club seems to have trouble handling the grounders in the infield. Allen Central committed 18 errors in three games and has had that problem all year.

Aldrich is at third and Hall at short for the Rebels. Two places from where most of the errors have come are in the infield. Robinson plays second and Jason Martin at first base. Brad Scott is undoubtedly one of the best catchers in the district this season. Scott has good work habits behind the plate and possesses a strong throwing arm.

For the Rebels to repeat as champions, they must, and a very important must, cut down on the amount of errors they commit.

MCDOWELL (12-8)

McDowell started the year off like they were ready to sweep everyone, faltered some in the middle of the schedule and now seem to have righted themselves for a run at the district championship. You talk about a hitting club, here is one. The problem is with the pitching. Inconsistent. Toby Vance is the only consistent one on the staff. Vance is a smart thrower with a good sense of all of his pitches. Curve ball, slider, fast ball. He gets stronger as the game goes on, and if the opposition doesn't get to him early, they are in for a long night.

Outside of Vance is Bud Kidd. Kidd is a hard thrower and attempts to mix up his pitches, but always has to come back to the heater to get the batter out. The opposition knows that and they are waiting on him. Shawn Newsome, Shawn Ousley and Barry Hall also hurl for Greg Johnson's ball club.

Kidd leads the Daredevils offense. Though short in stature but big at the plate, the shortstop has nailed seven long balls this season and has deceiving power. Kidd has very good speed on the base paths and a good eye at the plate.

All the way around the Daredevils are hitters. Vance is a stroke hitter. He just has a natural swing and strokes the ball to opposite fields and up the middle. Barry Hall is another home run threat. Good bat. Good speed. Likes to drive the ball to the alleys.

Shawn Newsome carries a big bat when he makes his plate appearance — long ball power and opposite field ability with the bat. Strong hitter. Shannon Price, has a good game and then struggles two or three.

McDowell is a good defensive ball club. Solid in the outfield and infield. Makes very few errors.

Ousley, Newsome and Vance roam the outfield. Shannon Price holds the first base down and Barry Hall plays third. Kidd is the strong arm at shortstop and Earl Cook does the catching.

If McDowell can combine the pitching with their hitting, it could be a very profitable tournament for the Daredevils.

WHEELWRIGHT

It hasn't been the best year for Coach Meredith Slone's Trojans. Wheelwright has struggled all season with a young ball club, talented but young. Lack of top pitching has been a sore spot for the Trojans. Jimmy Helton has been the top starter for Slone's club, but after that, the pitching tails way off. Chad Allen has had some good outings this season, but lack of offense behind his pitching has spelled defeat. Allen, a lefthander, throws hard and has an off-speed pitch but is inconsistent in getting it across the plate. Kevin Johnson, one of two, finds time on the hill for the Trojans, as does Charles Johnson.

Wheelwright has players that can hit the ball, but they don't have the strong lineup that the other county teams have. Helton is a good strong hitter, as is Charles Johnson and Kevin Johnson. Allen carries a good bat for the Trojans.

Charles Johnson, a freshman, has the long ball power. Mike Justice is a good line drive type of hitter that sprays the ball around the outfield.

Youth and lack of numbers have been a problem for Wheelwright. Layne Bailey strokes the ball very well but, as with so many other players in the county, he hits hard and at someone. Bailey is a good bat control hitter.

Defensively, Wheelwright has had their problems here also. The Trojans do commit a number of errors on the field and most of the runs scored against them are unearned.

Wheelwright will have to play their best games of the season in order to bring the championship home.

In the first game of the tournament at Allen on Monday, Betsy Layne will face the Wheelwright Trojans in a 5:30 p.m. start. Tuesday's schedule finds the McDowell Daredevils and Prestonsburg Blackcats going at each other, and this one should be a good one. Lately, McDowell has played as if they owned the Blackcats, sweeping the last three games from them.

On Wednesday, Allen Central will get a chance to prove just how much they have improved when they face the winner of the Betsy Layne/Wheelwright game in a 5:30 p.m. start on Wednesday.

The finals of the tournament will be played on Thursday at 5:30 p.m. with the awards presentation following the completion of the championship game.

HOROSCOPE

May 12 through May 18

By C.C. Clark

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

While others seem to think you have it all, your insecurities will not let you admit the facts to yourself. You have accomplished a lot lately and should praise yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

It is difficult to step back and look at things from all sides, but it is imperative you do so now. Don't play games with others' minds; it will only cause you grief in the end.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

This seems to be a week for dwelling on the past. It is OK to have memories, just don't get stuck on them. The problems that caused this trip down memory lane will be over soon.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Prideful as always, you may have trouble letting your hair down this week, but at least give it a try. Nobody ever said you always have to be right, although you usually are.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

You may reveal a secret to a close friend that takes your relationship to new heights. A common sense approach to a financial decision sends you in the right direction.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Don't be too critical of yourself or loved ones this week. Everyone is just trying to do what they think is best. Be tactful when dealing with others.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

Do not indulge in self-pity. It will get you absolutely nowhere. You simply cannot let other people dictate what is best for you. You are your own best judge.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

A love affair headed toward the rocks could make a hasty change for the better. All it takes is a few carefully chosen words from you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

Remember work isn't everything and sometimes you need to put as much energy into your personal relationships. Show that special someone just how much you really care.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Try not to let your ego get the best of you. You are doing a great job and definitely deserve the praise, but remember other people were behind your efforts.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Follow your intuition and things should work out for the best. If someone close to you is in need of assistance, try to help them to the best of your abilities.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Although you have many friends, there are times you need to just be by yourself. This is one of those times. Take time to see the value of your life.

Otto Preminger has more to name than 'Batman' role

By Steven Alan McGaw

Otto Preminger was, by many accounts, a difficult director to work with, and not all of his films are gems, to say the least. Some may only know Preminger for his turn as Mr. Freeze on Batman. Still, you can't dismiss a director responsible for classics like 1944's Laura and this week's featured videos.

Anatomy of a Murder (1959)

This movie is long, but you never feel the time passing. Everyone in the large cast is terrific, but the standouts are James Stewart as an easygoing but cagey defense attorney and Lee Remick as a woman who just can't resist the urge to flirt with every man she sees. The film is greatly enhanced by Duke Ellington's cool, evocative score.

The Man with the Golden Arm (1955)

Younger viewers may not realize what a terrific actor Frank Sinatra was (or still could be) when he wanted to be. Those with any doubts should look at films like this one.

In 1955 a film about a heroin addict was very controversial, especially because of Sinatra's searing, assaultive performance. Eleanor Parker is fully his equal as the addict's crippled, long-suffering wife, and fine supporting work comes from Kim Novak and Darren McGavin. Music was important to director Preminger, and Elmer Bernstein's jazz score suits the film perfectly. © TV Listing Inc.

Marina Sirtis kept ambitions to act a secret from family

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Marina Sirtis — she is at once the most beautiful and most sexy woman I have ever seen. I have trekked long and far to find out something about her; perhaps you can help. Tell me all you can about her and where I can write her. —Arturo Henchel, Morehead City, N.C.

Marina Sirtis

A: Marina, who plays Counselor Deanna Troi on Star Trek: The Next Generation, was born in North London to Greek parents. She demonstrated her inclination toward performing at an early age. "My mother tells me that when I was 3, I used to stand up on the seat of the bus and sing to the other passengers." Her parents didn't want her to be an actress and tried to push her toward "more serious" pursuits. After finishing the English equivalent of high school, Marina secretly applied to and was accepted by the Guild Hall School of Music and Drama. Her first job was with the Worthing Repertory Company. For the next few years, she worked extensively in British television, musical theater and repertory companies. Eventually she broke into supporting roles in such films as The Wicked Lady with Faye Dunaway and Death Wish III opposite Charles Bronson. In 1986 she moved to the United States. She is single and recently purchased her first home in the Hollywood Hills, as well as a Harley-Davidson and a convertible. Write to: Marina Sirtis, c/o Baker - Winokur - Ryder, 9348 Civic Center Drive, Fourth Floor, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

He was survived by two sons.

Q: Can you tell me if the daytime soap on NBC called Generations is ever going to be back on the air? I sure did like that show. I miss it. —Darlene Wilson, Bemidji, Minn.

A: Darlene, you are not alone. Many people miss it. Unfortunately there were not enough viewers to keep it on the air. The series is scheduled to re-emerge as a prime-time cable series on Black Entertainment Television. All 470 episodes have been purchased. The drama will air daily beginning this fall. There are no plans to produce new episodes.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas 76161-1009. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.

Q: Can you help me? I would like to know what happened to Johnny Mack Brown and Tim McCoy. Are they still alive? —Alvin Sewell, Greenville, N.C.

Allen Central Places 3rd Overall In EKMC Track and Field Meet

It was a good showing for the Allen Central track and field team in this year's EKMC track and field meet at Jenkins Tuesday afternoon. Rebel coach Dewey Jamerson was well pleased with the accomplishments of his squad.

"We did real well," said Jamerson.

"There was about three surprises for us, good surprises, at the meet at Jenkins. Some of our kids are right on track to go somewhere."

Allen Central placed in every event except three — the high jump, triple jump and 200 meters. The Rebels will take to the road today (Friday) and tomorrow (Saturday) for the regional meet at Boyd County High School.

Brian Wallen continued to win in the discus event. Wallen won his eighth meet out of nine he has been in this year. The senior discus thrower tossed the round disc 137 feet and seven inches to take first place. Tim Slone came in second with a toss of 118 feet and 10 inches. Newcomer Kenny Crum has a throw of 81 feet and five inches. It was the first Crum, who competes in shot put, ever threw in the discus event.

"We put Kenny into the event because we were looking for some extra points," explained Jamerson. "He was going to throw the discus this year until I saw what he could do with the shot put. So, I told him he would be just throwing the shot put. He placed sixth overall and got an extra point."

Crum placed third in the shot put by throwing the heavy ball 40-feet. Last week at Pikeville, Crum placed first. Tim Slone came in fifth in the event with a toss of 36 feet and nine inches.

Robert Jervis continues to amaze his coach with his steady improvement. Jervis came in first place in the men's 400 meter run with a time of 53:22.00. Randy Conn took second place with a recorded time of 57:18.00.

Jervis took first place also in the long jump event and established a new school record of 19 feet, five and a half inches.

"I was surprised by the way Robert finished in the event," stated a surprised Rebel coach. "We needed bodies to take part in the event and Coach Forrest Hughes went out and found Robert."

Randy Conn placed fourth with a jump of 18 feet and three inches.

In the 100 meter event, Jason Sammons set a new school record with a time of 12:40 that placed him sixth overall. Tim Slone finished with a 12:81.

The Rebels did not place in the 200 meters as Rondell Stewart finished with a time of 29:22 and Tim Slone came in at 27:56. Kenny Bradley, one of the three surprises for Coach Jamerson, placed fourth in the 800 meters run. Delbert Goins posted a 2:33.72 in the event.

Another first place finish for the Rebels was in the men's 1600 meter race where Jamie Slone's 5:19.00 took first place.

"Jamie was on a record run and we saw that he was pushing it too hard and had him slow down. He took control of the race from the start," said Jamerson.

Todd Howard came in at 6:38.55. Howard placed fifth overall in the men's 3200 meter run. Howard had a time of 13:36.13. Jason Flannery was clocked at 15:25.18.

In the 110 hurdles, Shane Stumbo took fourth place and set a new school record with a time of 19:20. Stumbo won second place in the 300 hurdles when posted a time of 46:05, a new school record. Randy Conn was sixth with a 49:50. Gary Webb recorded a time of 56:60.

The relay team of Jervis, Sammons, Jamie Slone and Tim Slone won third place in the men's 400 meter relay. Conn, Jervis, Sammons and Jamie Slone had a strong second place finish with a 3:57.67 in the 1600 meter relays. "It was the best four at a time overall time we have had all year," Jamerson said. "We ran real good and a good time."

A new event for the Rebel team is the triple jump. Jervis established a new school record with a jump of 34 feet, six and half inches. Goins landed at 33 feet, three and a half inches. Gary Webb posted a 29 feet, 11 and a half inches.

In the high jump event, Goins leaped 5 feet and four inches while Jamie Slone came cleared at 5 feet and two inches.

There were no girl track and field events at the EKMC meet.

Astros' Rally Falls Short In 19-14 Loss To Giants

The Drift Giants scored nine runs in the third inning to break open a close game and rolled to a 19-14 win over the Drift Astros at the Minnie Park in the Beaver Creek Little League.

The Astros scored seven times in the top of the fifth inning, but could get nothing going in the sixth as they lost to the Giants.

Chris Moore hit a home run for the Giants in the fourth inning, his second of the year, and Eric Cook drilled a home run in the third for the Giants. Cook had six RBIs for the Giants in collecting three hits. Moore had two hits and three runs batted in. Justin Hopkins was perfect at the plate in a three-for-three outing — all doubles. Hopkins collected three RBIs. He doubled in the second, third and fourth innings. Chris Moore also had a second inning double as did Cook. Woods doubled in the first inning. Woods collected a third inning triple for the Giants and teammate Eric Cook had a third inning three-bagger. Huff tripled in the first. Howell had two hits and three RBIs for the Giants.

The Astros got triples from Paige, in the first inning, and one from B.J. Moore in the third. In the fifth, Stumbo had an Astro triple. Paige had three hits and two runs batted in. Moore went two-for-three and three RBIs. R. Ward had two hits in four plate appearances for the Astros.

The Giants banged out 18 hits in the game and the Astros collected nine.

Scores From Third!

Prestonsburg

McDowell regained the lead at 11-10 with two runs in the third. Prestonsburg tied the game at 11-all with a single third inning run. Prestonsburg scored on Reed's second triple of the game.

The game remained 18-15 through the seventh when McDowell scored 10 times in the inning to open up a sizable lead. Four of the first five batters got base hits for McDowell with the fourth batter reaching on an error. After two were out in the inning, McDowell pushed across four more. Henry had two doubles in the inning, driving in four runs. The latter one came with two on base.

A controversy occurred in the fifth inning when Nikki Mullins fielded a grounder at third and stepped on the bag to force Melissa Bailey, coming from second, for the third out in the inning. To the McDowell fans, Bailey appeared to have pushed Mullins, who hit the ground rather hard. In disgust, Mullins threw her glove. Tempers flared as Prestonsburg fans protested the throwing of the glove and McDowell fans the pushing down of Mullins. A warning was given to the Prestonsburg team to slide when approaching the bases.

Seventh inning. Lori Bryant singled and advanced to second on an error in right field. Jamie Clay was covering second when, to the Prestonsburg fans, Bryant appeared to have pushed Clay down and off second base. Clay suffered an injury and was removed from the game.

Coach Bridget Clay of Prestonsburg was furious as were the Prestonsburg fans as two walked onto the field. Clay wanted a warning given to McDowell for Bryant not sliding into second.

Lisa Hobson was the winning pitcher for McDowell, fanning three batters and walking two. Bailey took the loss for Prestonsburg with two strikeouts and four walks.

Prestonsburg finished their first season with a 5-8-1 record. McDowell goes to 18-9 and advances to the finals.

Has great game!

The loss dropped the Lady Cards record to 20-4 on the season, losing for the third time to McDowell. McDowell improves to 18-9.

To Mom, With LOVE

Happy Mother's Day

I Love You Mom

As Mother's Day rolls around, it is a bittersweet time for me. As I look into the eyes of my own two children I feel such joy and I'm proud that one of the many hats I wear is that of "Mom." Yet, at the same time, I am saddened that I cannot look into the eyes of my own mother.

My mother died the summer between my junior and senior year of high school. I was seventeen. Seventeen is a very trying time in a young person's life. With graduation only a short time away, decisions of one's future must be made and here my family was dealing with one of the most tragic times in a person's life, the death of a wife, a friend and a mother.

Somehow I made it through. I graduated from college, worked for a while, married the man of my dreams, had two precious babies and got a full-time job.

As I stand here with laundry piled to the ceiling, my son crying for his bottle, my daughter screaming to watch "The Little Mermaid" and my husband wondering if it's going to be bologna sandwiches again for supper, I think of my mother and I wish I could ask her how she did it.

Mom was a woman of the 90s starting back in the 50s. She raised four kids, ran her own business, was the driving force behind my father's success, had supper ready every night, and the house clean every day.

In her spare time, after she got us to school, picked up from school, taken to football practice, drill team practice, club meetings and the like, she painted, played the piano and the guitar, wrote short stories, sewed, made hook rugs and was Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny.

Of course we didn't realize this or appreciate this until after it was too late. Too late to say "Mom you are the most talented, special lady I've ever known in my life and I thank God you are my mother." Maybe she knew we felt that way by our smiles and hugs, or the little trinkets we made for her in kindergarten, but I never got to say those words to her face to face. I've only gotten to say them to her in my dreams or sitting beside her grave each time I visit her. Somehow, though, it just isn't enough.

So, to all those sons and daughters who have a mother to share Mother's Day with, take the time to hug her and kiss her. Look her in the eye and tell her you appreciate those sleepless nights she set up with you when you were sick, or that special dress she sat up all night making for you and the hot cocoa she made that warmed you after a day in the snow. Tell her, for tomorrow may be too late.

"Momma, wherever you are, I love you and my dream in life is that I can be half the woman, the wife, the friend and especially the mother that you were. You are always in my heart."

Deedra (Brown) Gearheart

Maudie Ousley

Mom, your unselfish devotion to your four daughters helped us to become the women we are today. Many times you went without life's necessities, so that we might have a few of life's luxuries. Your love kept us warm as we struggled along life's stormy pathway. You created a bond between us that can never be broken. We love you, Mom, more than words can ever say.

Sue, Fay, Lisa, & Denise.

To Trisha Morris

Mom, Words cannot express how much you mean to me. If you are proud of anything I've done, you have only yourself to congratulate, because I am what I am today because of you. You are my heroine, my strength and my guide through life. You're the best Mom a person could ask for.

I love you,
