Festival kicks off Sunday

Something old offers something...old.

Next week's celebration of the Jenny Wiley Festival in Prestonsburg will include a revival of sorts of an event once commonplace throughout Kentucky: an Old-Fashioned Country Fair.

Organizers of the fair, Joe Bolton and Debbie Amburgey, said the event, scheduled for Friday October 11 at the Floyd County courthouse, offers local homemakers and gardeners the opportunity to show off their wares, and competition will be held for home-canned goods, handmade quilts, crafts, homegrown vegetables, and more. If successful, the fair could become an annual event.

For more information, contact Joe Bolton at 886-2574 or Debbie Amburgey at 886-1719.

The 10th annual Jenny Wiley Festival kicks off this Sunday, October 6, and runs through Saturday, October 12. Here's what's on tap:

SUNDAY, October 6- Gospel Sing, Municipal Parking Lot.

MONDAY, October 7- Dinner, Riverview Nursing Home.

TUESDAY, October 8- Little Jenny Wiley Bowl.

WEDNESDAY, October 9- Children's Pageant, 7:30 p.m. National Guard Armory.

THURSDAY, October 10- Miss Jenny Wiley Pageant, 8 p.m. National Guard Armory.

FRIDAY, October 11- Arts and Crafts, Food booths, Old-Fashioned Fair, Church Bazaar, Music and Dancing, Kentucky Opry Revue, PHS Jenny Wiley Bowl.

SATURDAY, October 12- Arts and Crafts, Food booths, Costume Contest (11 a.m.), Terrapin Trots (noon), Duck Races (1 p.m.), Parade (3 p.m.), Parade line-up (2 p.m.).

Entertainment for the festival includes the Kentucky Opry, New Touch of Class Cloggers, The Bourbon County Rhythm Cloggers, and the Community Cloggers. Performances will follow Saturday's parade. Also scheduled to follow the parade is a mountain square dance and live country music by Magnum.

Enjoying that cool weather

Just because it's fall and the kids are in school, doesn't mean they don't get a chance to enjoy the beautiful weather Floyd County has been having this past week. With mild temperatures in the 70s, the weather was perfect for rope skipping. Waynette Hoppman, K-3 phys. ed. teacher at Prestonsburg Elementary School, took advantage of the opportunity to teach a second grade class the fine art of jumping rope Thursday afternoon. Two groups apparently will represent school workers

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It appears that two groups will represent the Floyd County school classified employees and Ned Pillersdorf, an attorney willing to represent one, will not represent the Teamsters Union.

Pillersdorf sent a letter dated September 30 to school board attorney Cliff Latta that said he had been approached by several groups of classified workers and he would be willing to represent them under certain conditions.

Those conditions:

- That the organization is open and governed by democratic principles;
- The organization is viable in that at least one half of the classified workers have signed up to be in such an organization; and
- The group not be represented by the Teamsters Union.

Meanwhile, a group calling themselves the Floyd County Support Personnel Association has scheduled its second meeting for Monday, October 7 at 6 p.m. at the Martin Grade School gym.

That group, which is working with Kentucky Education Association director Betty Rowland, met last week and named interim officers. Nancy Goble was named as acting president and Freddie Smallwood was named acting vice president. Rowland said the organization is trying to become part of the Kentucky Education Support Personnel Association (KESPA) which is affiliated with KEA.

Saturday a separate group of classified personnel who have attempted to get the board of education to recognize the Teamsters Union as their bargaining agent met with Pillersdorf to begin their organization process.

That group named an interim board of directors and officers.

Pillersdorf said Saturday that it would be up to the board of education to determine who and how many groups it would recognize to represent the district's 396 classified employees.

The board voted at a special meeting September 26 to recognize "designated spokespersons" for the classified employees after the workers walked off their jobs September 13.

Four suspects plead guilty to bank heist

By Terry L. May
Appalachian News-Express

Four persons which were apprehended by the Kentucky State Police, the Virginia State Police and the FBI in connection to a May bank robbery in Pike County pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court Monday.

According to Tom Self, assistant United States attorney, Kenneth D. Warth, 36, and his wife Daisy Helen Warth, 44, both of Endicott in Floyd County, along with William A. Burchett, 25, and Nelson Zepeda, 37, both of Fort Wayne, Indiana, entered the pleas to three of the four counts for which they were charged.

The four were charged with conspiracy to rob the Ferrells Creek Branch of the First National bank of Pikeville on May 7. In addition to conspiracy, the four were charged with bank robbery and the three men faced charges of using and carrying firearms during a robbery (Daisy Warth was charged with aiding and abetting armed robbery and the use and carrying of firearms).

Self said during the robbery the four took approximately $11,725 from the bank while each carried a pistol, and while one of them carried a long bag containing three destructive devices known as "Molotov cocktails." In making their pleas, the three men said they were the three masked robbers, he added.

In exchange for their pleas, the fourth charge on the indictment against them, carrying destructive devices, was dropped.

The charges carry a penalty range of five years to 35 years, with a fine up to $750,000. Self said the formal sentencing will be held before U.S. District Judge Joseph M. Hood on November 25. All four are currently in custody pending the sentencing.

Diesel fuel, oil are cause for detour

A report prepared for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has concluded that two parcels of land to be used for a connector road for Johnson County's section of new U.S. 23 were contaminated by diesel fuel spills and waste oil disposal.

The properties are located on Route 1428 at Hager Hill and border a CSX Transportation railroad track, the report said. Transportation officials said in August that a connector road near the location would be modified because of the contamination.

Options are offered for new jail

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Time is drawing near for the Floyd County Fiscal Court to formulate a plan to correct deficiencies in the county jail. A state report released in September points toward the construction of a new jail.

Several factors play a part in the need for a new jail, the main factor is condition and layout of the present facility.

An inspection by the state Corrections Cabinet in March and another this summer has put the county on notice to develop a plan for the construction of a new jail by the first of the year.

The cabinet's report pointed out the facilities lack of a visiting area; medical examination room; no holding area; no visiting area; no multi-purpose room; and no outdoor recreational area, among numerous other violations.

J.T. Fraley, director of local facilities for the state, said last week that the only way the county can come into compliance with the state regulations is to build a new facility.

"These are problems that can't be corrected with renovation of the old facility," Fraley said last week. "The Lack of education and job skills has resulted in many people turning to welfare for help. Being a welfare recipient carries a stigma that many would trade for a good-paying job.

Floyd Countians now have the opportunity to get off the welfare rolls and a chance to break in the job market with the beginning of JOBS.

JOBS became effective October 1 in Floyd County and is designed to offer the chance for the education and training it takes to break into the job market for persons receiving public assistance.

JOBS is part of the Family Support Act passed by Congress in 1988 which is slated to bring about revolutionary changes in the country's welfare system. The focus of the act is to provide the services needed to enable persons to become self-supporting members of society.

Requirements for participants in the program are that they receive Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) or receive assistance through the W Program. The W Program involves parents who are unemployed.

Other criteria:

- Custodial parents under the age of 20 who have not completed high school must participate in the JOBS educational component regardless of the age of the child;

• All JOBS participants with few exceptions, must achieve a literacy level in both reading and math of an 8.9 grade level;

• Unemployed parents must participate at least 16 hours per week in some form of actual work; unemployed parents under the age of 25 may be required to participate in an educational activity in lieu of a work program; and

• 16-18 year old participants who, in their initial assessment show a reading level of less than seventh grade, will not be referred to high school, but will be referred to a literacy program which will help them attain a competency level required for re-entry into high school or a literacy level of 8.9.

Alger Pigman, who administers the program in Floyd County through the Department of Social Insurance, said Thursday that the JOBS program will, "for the first time," ask the people what type of vocation or career they want to train for and then provide the services to them.

"As far as I know, no one has ever sat down with these people and asked them what they want to do (with their lives)," Pigman said. "Our motto is, 'If you have the will; we have the way.' We'll be the co-pilot; they will decide what they want to do."

In October 1990, 19 Kentucky counties started the JOBS program

A warm welcome

Dr. Deborah Floyd (center), new president of Prestonsburg Community College, was given a special welcome by Floyd County business people and PCC faculty and staff members Tuesday evening. During a joint Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and Prestonsburg Holiday Inn sponsored "Business After Hours" on October 1, Dr. Floyd was given a reception and welcomed into the community. She is pictured above with Bill Francis (left), PCC advisory board member, and Gene Luka, Holiday Inn manager, giving and interview to a local TV station. Approximately 180 people attended the event. County Attorney Jim Hammond said Tuesday that he had not seen the latest inspection report on the jail, but agreed that most problems found in the March report could not be solved by renovation.

Floyd County Jailor Lawrence Hale informed the fiscal court at its

and, according to Pigman, it has been very successful.

"It has exceeded the initial expectations," Pigman said. "It has shown great progress, but it's never enough."

Persons involved in the program will receive assistance in education; child care; transportation; and finances.

Participants will be assessed on educational needs and be placed in educational programs such as literacy, GED, Adult Basic Learning Education (ABLE), vocational or college classes. Pigman said it is presumed that the majority of participant's needs will be in literacy and GED classes.

Once a person's career choice is established, the program will provide assistance for up to four years of college or vocational school training.

Services will be coordinated and contracted through the Big Sandy Area Development District (ADD).

Big Sandy ADD is working with county's interagency council, an organization that identifies the local needs and resources and subsequent coordination of services with other agencies. An interagency council is made up of various public agencies, private service providers and clients that will advise and assist Big Sandy ADD with preparing and implementing the JOBS plan.

Prestonsburg Community College, Mayo State Vocational School and Kentucky Tech are learning institutions current working with the JOBS program.

There are four mandatory components to the program: educational activities; job skills; job readiness activities; and development and placement, Pigman said.

Although the job market in Floyd County is depressed, Pigman feels the benefits of the program to individual are invaluable.

"That's one of our biggest problems (job availability)," Pigman said. "But, participants will receive the education and training the need to get a job if they choose to relocate to another area. One of the biggest benefits will be the boost to their self-esteem."

Classes in literacy, GED and ABLE will not be available to the JOBS program until January 1992, Pigman said, but, he hopes a class at PCC will serve as a mediator until the program is in full swing.

The Life Skills program taught by Jean Rosenberg at Prestonsburg Community College teaches disadvantaged adults about basic skills and helps to build self-esteem.

"I hope all of our participants will be enrolled in the Life Skills class," Pigman said. "I've been sold on that program since I was introduced to it. It is a wonderful idea."

Out of the 1,680 people in Floyd County who will be eligible for JOBS, the Prestonsburg office will be able to process about 500 in its first year, Pigman said. The program will have five caseworkers by the end of next week who will build their caseload to approximately 100 in the first month.

Volunteers will be the first enrolled in the program and, when all the voluntary positions are filled, participation will be mandatory for AFDC and W Program recipients.

"This will be an ongoing program," Pigman said. "We want to have a trained and educated work force. Do you know how much in food coupons are issued in Floyd County in a year? Over $6 million worth. I couldn't comprehend that figure when I first heard it."

Anyone wanting more information about the JOBS program can call the Department for Social Insurance at 886-3871. Offices are located in the former Pic Pac on North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg.

Hale said Wednesday that he wanted to bring the report to the court's attention so a corrective action plan could be developed. He said that the state said it could not continue to grant waivers to the county as it had in the past.

Save those receipts

The computers being used here by fifth graders at Prestonsburg Elementary School Kalen Harris, Brian Bowling, Mike McGuire (l-r seated) and Angela Hicks (standing) are just a sample of what your Food City grocery receipts can buy for local schools. Food City is once again sponsoring the Apples for Kids campaign in Floyd County, a pilot program begun last year. Representatives hope to give away as much as $1 million worth of computers and electronic equipment this year. To participate in the program, Food City shoppers need to save their receipts and give them to the school of their choice. The schools will collect the receipts for the next six months and then their totals will enable them to "purchase" equipment such as computers, TVs, VCRs, camcorders and software to help the educational system meet the high technology requirements of today's world. Allen Central student attends Governor's School for the Arts

by Carolita O'Quinn
During the summer break, one of Allen Central's students, Chuck Compton, took advantage of an opportunity available to only about twenty people in the state of Kentucky. He was selected as a student in visual arts at the Governor's School for the Arts. He was chosen only after competing at the school, regional, and state levels.

Compton spent three weeks at Bellarmine College in Louisville during the month of July training in various aspects of art as well as participating in field trips to surrounding areas. He visited museums and heard a number of guest speakers.

Asked to describe his impressions of the program, Chuck stated, "Through the GSA experience, I have acquired an artistic foundation which enables me to express myself more freely both emotionally and artistically as an individual. I am greatly honored to have been selected for such a rewarding and inspirational opportunity."

As a junior at Allen Central High School, he is enrolled in special art II under Carolita O'Quinn. He is the son of Joyce and Fred Post of Hager Hill.

New visitation policy begins

Effective October 1, the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky will adopt a new visitation policy that will extend visiting hours to a full eight hours per day.

The new visiting hours are from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m. During these eight hours, no passes are required for visitors, but passes will be given to special visitors and after hours visitors.

In the best interest of the patient, the hospital suggests only two visitors be allowed per patient at any given time. Visitors may be asked to leave a patient's room when treatments are administered.

And for the protection of little ones, children under the age of 12 will not be permitted to visit patients. The majority of hospitals across the nation have similar visiting policies for children.

Assistant Administrator of Patient Services Dottie Carter said, "By increasing our visiting hours, we hope to better accommodate our visitors while promoting the care of our patients during their stay with us".

Mornings from 7 a.m. until 1 p.m. are reserved for patient care, to enable doctors to make their rounds and hospital staff to work with the patients. Visitation will be restricted at the hospital during this time.

The average time lapse between a mosquito bite and mosquito itch is about three minutes.

Opening of KY Veterans Center

Kentucky's first State-owned and operated long-term care facility for veterans is now open and accepting applications from potential residents. The facility is the Kentucky Veterans Center (or KVC) and is located in the small Jessamine County community of Wilmore, about 12 miles southwest of Lexington on State Highway 29.

According to Bea Hood, the KVC Administrator, the KVC will offer Kentucky Veterans long-term care at three levels: Domiciliary (similar to Personal Care), Intermediate, and Skilled Care. The facility will have physician coverage 24 hours per day, continuous nursing coverage, physical therapy, recreational activities, social services, and other services as needed.

In order to qualify for admission, the applicant must: be a resident of Kentucky for the past two years, OR, must have entered military service from Kentucky; and must have an other than dishonorable discharge. War-time and peace-time veterans are eligible to apply.

Residents at the KVC are assessed monthly charges based on their total monthly income and family assets. The charges may, therefore, vary from one individual to another. The facility will also receive a per-diem payment from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs for approved veterans, and the State contributes to the maintenance of the home and employee salaries. The monthly charges include all meals, medications prescribed by the facility's doctors, and therapeutic services offered at the facility.

"Kentucky is proud of all our veterans and we are here to be of service to them" states Hood. "The KVC was established to serve those veterans who feel they may now need some daily supervision because of their medical problems. We are equipped to accept male and female veterans and encourage applications from all areas of the state."

The KVC was built by funds from the Federal government and matching funds from the State. It is a $16,000,000 facility, with 127,000 square feet of space, and can accommodate 300 residents. Individuals interested in applying, or who need more information, may contact the KVC at 606-858-2814 or write to the Kentucky Veterans Center, 100 Veterans Drive, Wilmore, Kentucky 40390.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

Every bank likes to loan large sums to qualified customers. But, at First Guaranty National Bank, we welcome the opportunity to make even the smallest loan too. We know that small beginnings can lead to steady and constant growth because we were small once too.

When we first opened back in 1946, we made small loans to our neighbors. Young couples borrowed just enough to fix up a place to start housekeeping. Soon, families grew and eagerly anticipated a new home of their own.

We were especially pleased when those couples came back to let us finance their new homes. Folks didn't move around much in those days and homes were built with a lifetime in mind. A lot of care and planning were involved and we were there to help.

First Guaranty National Bank is and always has been locally owned so we've been around to watch as those homes assumed characters all their own. We've seen skinny seedlings grow into tall shade trees and flower beds flourish more beautifully each year. Now some of those homes are called the old homeplace and the memories they hold are precious.

Yes, small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank. They give us the opportunity to meet needs and to establish lasting relationships with new customers. Relationships that have taken us from a brand new bank back in 1946 to a strong and sound financial institution today. So sound, in fact, that we are one of only three banks in Kentucky recognized in the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

RETIREMENT TIPS FOR WIDOWS

I read an item about Social Security in a recent financial column that gave me great concern. It said that many widows experience unnecessary financial hardship because they don't know about the benefits Social Security provides for widows.

This is important to you too if you are a widow and you haven't started receiving Social Security yet, or you know someone in those circumstances. I want to point out that, although I refer only to widows, the law applies equally to women and men, but widowers represent less than 1 percent of the total number of people who get these kind of Social Security benefits.

The main difference between the benefits payable to widows and those payable to retirees and their spouses is that widows can start getting their Social Security benefits at age 60 rather than age 62. And if a widow is disabled, she can start getting her benefits as early as age 50. A widow can also get Social Security benefits if she is caring for the deceased worker's child who is under age 16 or disabled.

If a widow starts her benefits at age 60, she gets a smaller amount than she would if she waited until age 65. Although generally, the fact that she gets benefits over a longer period of time more than compensates for the reduction.

A widow who has worked under her own Social Security number can choose to take her widows benefits at age 60 and then switch to her own retirement benefits at age 65 if it will give her more money.

A widow who remarries after age 60 can continue to receive her widows' benefits. Widows' benefits are also available to divorced women if the couple were married at least 10 years.

To apply for widows' benefits, you will need your own Social Security number and your husband's. You also need your birth certificate, marriage certificate, and the death certificate. A divorced widow also needs to furnish the divorce decree.

For more information about retirement for widows, just call or visit our office. The Big Sandy Area Social Security office is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

If you prefer to handle your Social Security matters by telephone you can call 886-8525, Monday through Friday.

McConnell's Comments

RETURN OF SADDAM

Saddam Hussein is back in the headlines, only seven months after the end of the Gulf War. Once again we are faced with the possibility of a military strike against Iraq, and more specifically against Saddam. The threat of renewed military action has been brought on by Saddam's own bizarre actions, which hamper prospects for peace in the Middle East. Patriot missiles are on their way to Saudi Arabia, troops and war planes might not be too far behind — if Saddam continues to deny United Nations inspectors complete access to his suspected weapons plants.

It seems as if it were only yesterday, a year and a month to be exact, when the United States began its first military actions against Iraq. After Iraq invaded Kuwait, the United States was quick to respond in defending the small country from the Iraqi aggressors. Now, one year and one war later, Saddam Hussein continues to play games with the world, the United States, and its allies. I do not think that anyone really expected Saddam to survive the war and reassert his aggressive posture so quickly, but it is difficult to be truly surprised by any of his actions.

When the United States and the allies sent massive numbers of troops and weapons to Saudi Arabia, the experts predicted he would retreat, but he did not. Now he faces renewed aggression against his country, and still continues to antagonize the allied countries. President Bush has made it perfectly clear that he will not stand for any more of Saddam's actions. In fact, some Congressmen who originally opposed the Gulf War are now arguing the fact that Saddam must be removed from power — by unilateral force if necessary.

No one wants to see a "Gulf War II," but President Bush and the United Nations allies have made it clear that they will not back down from the resolutions set forth following the end of the Gulf War. Saddam Hussein can kick his feet and drag his heels for as long as he likes, but eventually the United Nations will succeed in its mission. I must reiterate how important it is that the United Nations succeed, and that all of Saddam's nuclear, chemical, and biological weapons be destroyed. As long as he maintains control of weapons of mass destruction, he remains a threat to the world.

Increasingly, it appears that the removal of Saddam Hussein from power is the only lasting solution to this threat. President Bush and the allies are determined that this man, no matter how long he begrudges the United Nations, will not stand in the way of complete compliance with the United Nations resolutions and the Middle East peace process.

Editorial:

It's our party . . .

by Scott Perry

Next week is National Newspaper Week.

There are no parades scheduled; school will be in session as usual (unless it snows); and the post office isn't closing.

National Newspaper Week isn't one of your better-known events. If we didn't remind you about it, you probably wouldn't know it existed.

Now that you know, you probably don't care. It's not like you get a day off or anything.

That's okay.

We would, however, like you to take a couple of minutes next week to think about the role newspapers play in your lives.

That's apt to make some of you angry. Particularly those who think newspapers do little more than stick their noses in other peoples' business.

Well, that's okay too.

There are two unwritten rules all veteran journalists come to realize about the newspaper business:

- You don't make any money.
- You don't make any friends.

Newspapers are light bulbs.

Switch us on in a darkened room and watch the roaches run for cover. (Hey, roaches have been around since the days of the dinosaurs. We can't make them extinct, but we can let you see them for what they are.)

Point us in the right direction and we become a spotlight which focuses on your accomplishments, your goals, your needs and, yes, your faults.

Basically, we're user friendly.

We've been around in one form or another since man first learned the value of communication.

Perhaps Time magazine writer Arthur Sulzberger best described your newspaper in a 1950 comment:

"We tell the public which way the cat is jumping. The public will take care of the cat."

To that, we'll add a post script borrowed from another noted journalist...

"That's the way it is."

Lawn mowing drudgery isn't over yet

Don't put the lawn mower up just because summertime is over; lawns still need to be mowed in the fall, according to an Extension agronomist at the University of Kentucky.

"Continue mowing until the grass quits growing," said A.J. Powell, a turf specialist with the UK College of Agriculture. "Excessive fall growth increases winter lodging, causes excessive browning, and encourages winter and early spring diseases."

"You don't want grass to enter winter any taller than three inches," he added. "Depending upon fall moisture and temperatures, the last mowing may be needed as late as Thanksgiving or into early December."

Powell recommended a shorter mowing height in late fall, adding that the height should be lowered gradually.

"A close mowing height in late fall, say two to three inches, will improve winter and early spring green color," he said. "However, if you try to remove excessive top growth in a single mowing, it will cause thin spots in the grass and increase weed problems. So, it's best to lower the height in 1/4 to 1/2 inch increments."

Another advantage to mowing is that it tops and kills weeds, especially those that are flowering.

Tall fescue and perennial ryegrass lawns will need more frequent mowing than Kentucky bluegrass because they grow at a faster rate and later into the cool season.

In most instances, grass clippings should not be removed, according to Powell.

"Grass clippings are good for the lawn because they return nutrients to the soil," he explained. "They do not add to or cause problems with thatch. Collect clippings only when a serious disease is actively infecting grass; growth is so high that normal mowing would "windrow" clippings, smothering grass below; a lot of weed seed can be collected and discarded."

"When mowing, a small amount of tree leaves can be mulched and deposited back onto the lawn without damage," Powell said. "However, if leaves completely cover the surface, it is best to remove them before mowing."

Prevent rabies by vaccinating your pets

by Dr. Kristan K. Hodges
Veterinary Medical Association
A report this fall of a rabid raccoon in Kenton County only proves the point that education about rabies still hasn't reached every Kentuckian every where.

To the point: many people seem to equate rabies with summertime, possibly because for most folk's outdoor activities are summertime activities, swimming, boating, camping, hiking.

The fact is that there may be more of a danger of rabies from wild animals in the fall than in the summer, because of hunting activities.

It seems a bit repetitious to keep reminding people of the danger. On the other hand, it continues to be reported throughout the state. The disease is serious, usually fatal, and prevention is so simple.

Rabies is an acute viral infection of the central nervous system. It is a natural disease of dogs, cats, bats and wild carnivores, and all warm-blooded animals—including man—are susceptible.

It is usually spread from infected to non-infected animals through bites. The virus is carried in the saliva of the infected animal, and once deposited in the muscle or mucous membrane, the virus then replicates and makes its way up the peripheral nerves to the spinal cord and then to the brain. The virus can be present in the saliva of the infected animal—and be effectively transmitted—several days before signs appear, therefore if you are bitten by an animal it is important to keep that animal under observation.

Once signs appear in man or animal, there is no known cure and it is usually fatal.

The most effective treatment is prevention, which means avoiding infected animals. Vaccinate your domestic pets so that if they are bitten by infected wild animals, they will not develop rabies.

Beware of any animal which behaves in an uncharacteristic manner. Infected dogs, for example, may be continually agitated and vicious. They may also appear to be comatose or paralyzed, or have something stuck in their throat. Either is characteristic. Avoid the animal.

Wild animals may show "furious" behavior, but more likely it will be more subtle—things such as nocturnal animals like bats and skunks or foxes being active in daytime, or losing their fear of man.

The most effective barrier between wild animals and man is vaccination of domestic animals.

If you are bitten by an animal you think may be rabid, prompt treatment is essential and the animal should be captured for observation.

There is a quarantine period only for dogs and cats, which need only be captured and observed. All other animals should be sacrificed and tested immediately. Be careful not to damage the head if you must kill the animal yourself.

It is not wise to attempt to vaccinate your dog or cat yourself. For one thing, only vaccinations administered by a licensed veterinarian give any legal protection. For another, the wrong vaccine or the wrong dosage can kill your animal.

There is only one licensed vaccine for a wild animal and it is for ferrets. No others can be effectively vaccinated.

If you are bitten, wash the wound thoroughly with soap and water and call a physician immediately.

Your veterinarian can tell you about rabies, how to prevent it and how it affects humans and animals, as well as what first aid measures to use. Protection of the public against rabies is one of the more common public health issues handled primarily by veterinarians.

Ten Free Shade Trees

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during October.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's efforts to encourage tree planting throughout America.

The ten shade trees are Red Oak, Weeping Willow, Sugar Maple, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Pin Oak, River Birch, Tuliptree, Silver Maple, and Red Maple.

"These trees were selected to provide shade and beauty, and a variety of forms, leaf shapes, and fall colors," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between November 1 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to 12 inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to SHADE TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by October 31.

THE COURT DAY TRADITION

Traditions die hard, and in some cases, they improve with age. Such is the case with Mt. Sterling's October Court Day.

Court days in Kentucky began at the turn of the century when the General Assembly passed an act requiring each county to meet once a month to hold court and conduct county business. People would come in to the city to trade, visit and watch the court proceedings.

Because of the harvest time, October court day became the most popular gathering, drawing people from other counties and even surrounding states.

While court proceedings aren't the focal point of the modern October Court Day in Mt. Sterling, the spirit is still there. People gather from all over the United States to buy and barter in the "Granddaddy of All Flea Markets." Vendors offer anything from antique furniture and collector's items to guns and knives. Kentucky crafts and foods round out the wares for sale.

But there's more in Mt. Sterling than meets the eye at October Court Day. Traditions aren't the only history you'll find there. Historic homes and businesses have been preserved.

The Trimble House, a bed and breakfast on historic Maysville Street, offers southern hospitality in a beautiful setting. When the house was built, there were no columns in the front. But when the lady of the house traveled through the south and went to the World's Fair, she fell in love with the plantation style house and had to have some columns added to her own home.

The current owners have decorated the house with items from their travels, especially Alaska, China and India. Musk-ox rugs and leather carvings make this a truly unique place to stay.

Another historic site nearby is the Monarch Mill, built in 1886. It's the oldest continually running business in Montgomery County and is on the National Register of Historic Places.

While Ruth Hunt Candies may not be as historic, it's as integral a part of Mt. Sterling as any historic home. A tray of candy for sampling sits next to the cash register; few can make it out without at least a small box of candy.

Country drives feature Cherrywood Estate, a beautiful country home, and Grassy Lick Church, where bluegrass was first discovered at a nearby salt spring.

History is everywhere in Mt. Sterling, and to make sure you don't miss a thing, it's wise to contact the Mt. Sterling Montgomery County Chamber of Commerce to help plan your visit. For more information call (606) 498-5343.

Ky Power employees awarded

Sherlie B. Hale of Prestonsburg and John Turnley of Martin will share a cash award with one other Kentucky Power Employees for an article published in Operating Ideas, the quarterly employee suggestion magazine of the American Electric Power (AEP) Service Corporation, Columbus, Ohio. Hale and his fellow authors, both meter electricians in Kentucky Power's Pikeville Division office, wrote an article about a simulator they designed and built for more efficient, "hands-on" training for electric meter installers. The simulator is now in steady use.

Weekly science experiments

Students at Duff Elementary school will be conducting science experiments on a weekly basis. After each experiment, students will record their data and report their findings. Mr. O'Quinn, principal at Duff, explains, "When a child has hands-on experience with something, then the concept becomes real for him. He will always remember something he did himself as opposed to something he read about in a book." Ky Historical Society seeking artifacts from last 200 years

The Kentucky Historical Society is currently searching for artifacts for its exhibit celebrating Kentucky in the twentieth century. "Faces of Change: Kentucky's Second Century, 1892-1992" will document the social change, technological advancement, and economic shifts over the last hundred years in a state known for tradition and conservatism. Institutions and personalities in farming, racing, mining, health care, civil rights, and the crafts industry will tell the tale of the impact of a rapid and unpredictable century.

As a part of the exhibit, the Society is collecting artifacts which illustrate the many faces of modern history. A timeline will present the "stuff of history," the many small but significant items which are often forgotten, neglected, and frequently lost. A few of the wanted objects include:

- Carrie Nation memorabilia (She raided saloons in Elizabethtown around 1900.)
- Items from the first Kentucky State Fair (1902).
- A night rider's hood or gear (Black Patch Wars, ca. 1910).
- Artifacts brought to America by early twentieth century immigrants.
- Early educational artifacts from Eastern Kentucky University or Western Kentucky University.
- School desks or other education artifacts from the beginning of compulsory primary education (ca. 1912).
- Early Kentucky-manufactured automobile.
- Artifacts associated with disease control in Kentucky.

Bonus deadline nears for vets of Vietnam

The Amended Vietnam Veterans Bonus Program is nearing completion. The deadline for application is October 31, 1991.

The Bonus Branch has received about 71 percent of the total number of potential applications. "The application rate has not been as great as we hoped," said Vietnam Veterans Bonus Branch Manager, Lanny Goins, "but, it has been steady. We have approximately 5,000 applications on hand. Our approval rate of eligible applications is running about 60 percent and the average bonus payment is $173," added Goins.

The Amended Bonus applies only to Vietnam Era veterans who also had service in Korea or World War II and who have not previously received the maximum bonus amount of $500. For more information about the Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Bonus Branch contact the Vietnam Veterans Bonus Branch at P.O. Box 1424, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602 or call (502) 564-5137.

Hospital program is getting workers back on the job

"Work Hardening" is the current trend across the country in the rehabilitation of patients with job related injuries. Since April of this year, this progressive program of therapy has expanded at Methodist Hospital with the addition of new staff, space, and equipment. The importance of "Work Hardening" is tremendous considering the fact that in the 30 to 60 age group, back pain is the most expensive ailment for injured workers.

The objective of the work hardening program is to return injured workers back to the work force at a functional level compatible with their job. The program simulates the activities involved in the patient's job: lifting, climbing, shoveling, driving, etc. and retrains the individual in these functions.

Physical Therapist Judy Stephens heads up the work hardening program located in Methodist's satellite center in the Flat Iron Building. She obtains job descriptions from employers of the patients and designs a program to suit specific needs.

- Early bus signs, billboards or material advertising cigarettes or tobacco products.
- Tobacco stripping table.
- Tobacco knives, spears, planters and other hand tools associated with Kentucky tobacco culture. Also artifacts illustrating the mechanization of tobacco like mechanical setters, chemical sprayers, chemical packages, and tobacco packaging.
- Coal mining machinery small enough to fit in our gallery.
- United Mine Workers Union artifacts.
- Any and all artifacts associated with mining and mine safety.
- Artifacts associated with prominent black figures in Kentucky from 1892-1992.
- Artifacts associated with black education and "separate but equal" black educational institutions.
- Artifacts associated with the civil rights movement in Kentucky.
- Tools and equipment associated with medical education in Ky.
- Artifacts associated with public health and public health agencies (immunization tools).
- Pharmaceutical mixing tools.
- Surgical tools & equipment.
- Artifacts from early nursing profession.
- Artifacts from "quack" medical schemes.
- Craft items bought at New York galleries as "Kentucky crafts."
- All Bybee pottery, Eastern Kentucky made musical instruments and other traditional crafts.

All items collected during this search will be exhibited in the Old State Capitol during the run of the exhibit from February 15, 1992, through February, 1993. They will then be integrated into the general holdings of the Society, which currently number over 35,000 archaeological, decorative arts, technological, natural history, and artistic artifacts. Gifts to the Kentucky Historical Society are tax deductible. For more information write Mike Hudson, Registrar, Kentucky Historical Society, Box H, Frankfort, KY 40602-2108 or call (502) 564-3016 Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Kentucky Historical Society is a non-profit state agency with headquarters in the Old State Capitol Annex in Frankfort, Kentucky. The mission of the Society is the collection, preservation, and interpretation of Kentucky's history for the benefit of the public.

Community Calendar

Editor's Note: As a service to the many clubs and committees that meet in our community, the Floyd County Times' Community Calendar will host meeting and public service announcements.

Recycling seminar

A special program entitled "Recycling: Fact and Fiction, what recycling can do for your community" will be presented on Monday, October 7 at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. There will be discussion on how schools can earn money by recycling and how to build a better future for the children.

Randy Osborne, executive director of State of the Art Recycling in Ann Arbor, Michigan, will present the program.

"Members of the community determine their own destiny," Osborne said. "Garbage is a new resource. It's up to each member of the community whether they want funds to go to the government or back into the community."

The seminar is free to the public.

Walk for Hunger

God's Pantry East of Prestonsburg will be holding their second annual "Walk For Hunger" on Saturday, October 12, during the Jenny Wiley Festival Parade. This is a project to help support the Crisis Food Bank. Refreshments and prizes will be available.

Teams are asked to sign up now. For more information call 886-8598 or 886-1719.

WRITING SKILLS SPELL SUCCESS

At Duff Elementary, every body writes. Our Write to Read lab is utilized daily for our kindergarten and first grade classes. Our new assistant is Linda Conley.

Second graders participate in the TLC programs which utilize five new computers in each classroom.

Third and fourth grades are very active in the writing process which involves prewriting, writing, revising and publishing.

Students in the fifth and sixth, seventh and eighth grades are involved in keeping daily journals, as well as the skills bank in computer class.

Even our teachers are excited about writing. Many will be attending a writing workshop soon.

SECOND ANNUAL GREAT PUMPKIN CARVING

Plans are underway for the second annual "Great Pumpkin Carving." Last year, there were 25 pumpkins delivered, one to each classroom, for all the students to enjoy. Beta Club members volunteered their services in teaching the art of pumpkin carving. This year promises to be even better.

Eric Conley of Salt Lick, son of Dexter and Beverly Conley, grew two great pumpkins this year, the largest weighing 80 pounds.

ST. JUDE'S BIKE-A-THON

A cancer bike-a-thon will be held on October 12 from 9 a.m. until noon at Duff. Anyone wanting to participate in the Fall bike-a-thon should contact Kathy Smith at 358-9873.

NON-GRADED PRIMARY BEGINS

The Duff Non-graded Primary program has begun with grades 1-4 participating in the pilot project.

The program utilizes the whole-language thematic unit approach, which provides real life experiences related to the interests of the children. Topics such as the season and apples will be used to initiate the program.

DEPARTMENTALIZATION BEGINS

Students in the seventh and eighth grades no longer stay in the same room all day. They now change classes and have different teachers for different subjects. This gives the students the opportunity to prepare for high school and also let the teachers teach the subjects they enjoy most.

FLOAT COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED

Duff Elementary plans to enter a float in the upcoming Red, White and Blue parade in Martin. Anyone interested in working on the float committee should contact Susan Bailey at 358-2361.

PTA OFFICERS ELECTED

The Duff Elementary PTA officers for the 1991-92 school year are: Tim Lawson, president; Sandy Gunnel, vice president; Cheryl Combs, second vice president; Donna Scott, secretary; and Regina Isom, treasurer. The membership drive has begun and everyone is encouraged to support the school by joining the PTA and attending meetings.

Facts about ACHS

Allen Central High School has an enrollment of 566 students.

Their nickname is the Rebels and their school colors are Columbia Blue and Gray.

The principal is Jody Sword.

Allen Central is rapidly changing to meet the needs of technology for the future. Computers are the future and AC is really moving in the right direction.

There are two new IBM labs in the vocational department and each math classroom now has an IBM computer to enhance the students learning.

AC offers many activities in which students can become involved: Champions Against Drugs, Academic Team, Foreign Language, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Future Business Leaders of America, FHA/ Hero, Beta Club, Art Club, 4-H, Math, Student Council, and more.

Everyone at AC is working to make it a modern learning center.

Mountain Voices — by Willie Elliott —

HOW HARD CAN THE FIFTH GRADE BE?

It is amazing the things that I have forgotten since I was in grade school. Either I have forgotten these things or I never did know them. Ryan came home the other day with this business of sorting out South America, North America, Central America, Middle America and Latin America. After I had used several volumes of the encyclopedia, Ryan told me he would explain it to me. After he calmly explained what each term meant, I said, "I knew that. I was just giving you a chance to explain it. You will find that you learn better that way." He didn't believe me either. The fourth grade was hard, but this fifth grade business has really got me worried.

When Ryan came home with this diagram that he was to use to explain how waves travel to the ear drum and makes sound, I figured I could rely on the old, "If a tree falls in the forest and there is no one there to hear it, does it still make a sound?" The boy is smarter than I thought. He simply said that age-old problem has nothing to do with this assignment. He didn't come right out and say I don't know a thing about it, but he simply muttered, "I'll go get Mom to help me."

I hope he does well in science so he can grow up to be a doctor. That way he can take care of me in my old age. He gives me looks sometimes that suggests he thinks senility has already set in.

Have you seen the workbooks in reading that these kids have these days? Fifth graders going around talking about scrupulous merchants and taciturn people seems a little high falutin to me. And they can't simply memorize these words. They have to use the words in the proper context or they don't get credit for the meaning.

It's a good thing I memorized the "t's" in the dictionary last week or I might have missed that taciturn word. We have kids in school that have vocabularies to rival that of Noah Webster and all they can say is, "Awesome, man, awesome."

The kids today may give their teacher a rough time in the classroom, but when they get home, they act as if their teacher is a princess or something. Ryan will ask me something about a word and I will give him an answer. He will respond with something such as, "That's not what Miss Allen said." I will gently remind him that maybe Miss Allen doesn't know everything. He won't have it. He will simply say, "You don't know what it is and you're trying to bluff." If he weren't going to be a doctor and take care of me, I would throw him out to the cats.

I have seen the math kits that some of the students will be using. When the students get to that part where they use different shaped pieces of plastic to form the various geometric forms, I don't want to be around. I went to a workshop that had that as part of the session. I put those plastic pieces in nine thousand different arrangements, and I never did form a figure that anyone could recognize except me. At times such as this, I have a little saying to bail me out. I simply say, "I'm an English teacher, but you can tell it."

If I work hard this year, I figure I can do a fairly good job in my English classes. If the students will work hard, they will accomplish their goals. I don't worry much about this part of my job. It's that fifth grade work that has me worried. What about the sixth, seventh and eighth grades? Do they get harder? I guess I will just have to get a grade school education all over again. Perhaps I can go to some of the grade school tutoring sessions to get some pointers.

Duff Student Teachers

Duff Elementary welcomes three new student teachers, (l-r) Jolena Hall and Fran Slone from Alice Lloyd College and Anita Combs from Pikeville College. Hale is pursuing a degree to teach grades K-4. Her cooperating teachers are Lenice Manns and Billie O'Quinn. She is 22 years old and married to Kenneth C. Hale. Slone is a social studies and English major from ALC. She plans to teach in grades 5-8 someday. Her cooperating teacher is Helen Martin. She is married to David R. Slone. Combs is pursuing a degree in Early Childhood Education. Her cooperating teachers are Joyce Gore and Betty Baldrige. She is the daughter of Herman and Martha Combs of Raven.

Parents/teachers meet for reading program

Utilizing the newly-printed "Floyd County Chapter 1 Parent Handbook," parents and reading teachers at Martin Elementary School recently participated in a brief inservice designed to inform and involve parents in the school's Chapter 1 Reinforcement Reading program.

A strong parent-school partnership is essential for the success of the child, parents were told. Helping a child develop the skills necessary to become a proficient reader is one of the most important tasks parents and teachers face, and by working together, the parent-teacher team can help children become successful readers.

Parents were urged to use the school's Resource Center—a wealth of booklets, pamphlets, and other materials that promote the teaching of reading skills.

Chapter 1 Reinforcement Reading is a federally-funded supplemental reading program whose main purposes are to help students succeed in the regular classroom, to attain grade-level proficiency, and to improve achievement in basic and more advanced skills.

The Martin school inservice was conducted by Chapter 1 teachers under the supervision of Principal William R. Hughes.

Community service with Beta Club at Allen Central

by Heather Watson
ACHS

The Allen Central High School Beta Club recently elected officers for the 1991-92 school year, they are: Robbie Sexton, president; John Dove, vice president; Mika Gayheart, secretary; and Jane Gray, treasurer. The Beta Club is an honorary society that distinguishes itself through community service.

The Beta Club, sponsored by Patricia Murphy, has already purchased four confederate battle flags to decorate the campus. A flag raising ceremony will be held in conjunction with homecoming activities.

One of the traditional Beta activities at Allen Central is the "Scrubby Bears" program at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. This program provides stuffed animals for pediatric patients. The club also provides monetary support for Kosair Children's Hospital in Louisville and the local hospice program, as well as participating in the "Toys for Tots" project, which provides Christmas presents for underprivileged children.

The annual Beta Club trip provides a highlight to Allen Central students. The trip affords students educational opportunities ranging from Broadway musicals to trips through Pennsylvania's Amish country.

Beta Club projects are funded by the sales of citrus fruits. These sales are a major fund raiser, conducted in autumn and arriving in time for the winter holidays.

KEEPING UP WITH THE TIMES

It's fall and school is back in for the year, so it's time for the Times to change accordingly.

Today we start a favorite section in the Friday paper... school news. Each Friday of the month a different set of schools will have their news appear on this and consecutive pages. Today I have opted to forfeit some of my space to accommodate the abundance of news which came in from Maytown, Martin, Allen Central, Floyd Tech and Duff... So much was sent in that I had to weed through it and only pull out the most pertinent news items.

Notice I said "sent in," that is because, this year, each school has designated a public relations representative to handle their news. With the size of the editorial staff here at the paper it is virtually impossible for us to go out and cover all the interesting things that take place in all 21 of our county schools. So, teachers, don't call me and ask me to come take a picture of your class conducting a volcano experiment or planting a tree, find your PR rep., they have film and are more than willing to accommodate you.

I said I'd keep this short, so I will leave you with only one item... Will somebody please take the batteries out of that stupid rabbit? I'm tired of seeing it roll across my TV screen.

Receipts for computers

Students at Duff Elementary are collecting receipts from Food City in order to purchase a new computer. Kevin Shepherd, a fourth grade student in Mrs. Karen Hall's class, holds the record for $615.63 in cash register receipts.

Maytown Elementary School exemplifies that "School is fun"

Maytown Elementary has begun the 1991-92 school year with much enthusiasm. Our theme this year, "School Is Fun", expands across all aspects of our curriculum. We are currently involved in a school environment improvement project under the direction of Tom Price, our art teacher. Soon our hallowed halls will be decorated with Disney characters, Garfield and friends and many incentive slogans. Our own 6th, 7th, and 8th graders will be the artists.

Our classrooms will also incorporate our "School Is Fun" theme. All math classes will enjoy the new "hands-on" manipulative equipment. Many more students will be exposed to computer skills with the addition of the TLC (Teaching, and Learning by Computer) program in the second grade. Also, Mrs. Akers, our LD teacher, has received the computer and printer we earned through Food City and Foodland last year. We encourage all parents to send in their receipts again this year. Hopefully, we can earn more computers and software. Of course, we are still enjoying the Writing to Read Computer Lab for Kindergarten and 1st graders and our Chapter 1 Reading Computer Lab. Again this year students will be writing their own books with the Young Authors Program directed by Ruby Miller.

Our library has been the scene of much change this summer. Our librarian, Jackie Slone, has changed the entire layout. Listening centers and learning centers, and the new Geo-Safaris will provide more technology and activity learning to certainly make library more fun.

On the athlete front, we are anxiously awaiting the start of the basketball season on October 15th. Fans will be pleasantly surprised by the new seating, concession stand and scoreboard. Our coaches, Rick Hancock and Jolenda Shepherd, and parents have worked hard this summer so that our Wildcats will be decked out in new uniforms. Hopes are running high for a super season. Maytown is the host of the Right Beaver Classic, the Sectional Tournament and the County Tournament.

Our teachers are also practicing new methods. Our Kindergarten through 5th grade teachers are all taking part in the "Primary School Program" which centers around training for the ungraded primary and uses varied instructional strategies, such as whole language approach, cooperative learning, peer tutoring, thematic instruction, learning centers, etc. Teachers are very excited and anxious to get involved in the KERA school reform. Just recently, they voted unanimously to go site-based.

We would like to take this opportunity to encourage all parents and concerned citizens to get involved in their children's education. Visit our

THE NOSE KNOWS

What do you "stick into other people's business," are told to "keep clean," and is the "plainest thing on your face?" If you answered "your nose," pass go and collect $200 because that's the amount that is being spent to find out why, when, how and how often, people pick their noses.

No, I did not read about this research in the National Enquirer, or the Star. This is a legitimate study being conducted at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and I read it in a daily newspaper.

The paper stated that the survey was being conducted to find out if nose-picking was a compulsive habit to such a degree that it interfered with day-to-day functioning. Two of the questions really intrigued me. One being, what finger do you use? And, do you look at it after it's removed?

Regardless of how you feel about this disgusting habit, it's a fairly common practice. Yet, I'm more interested in where they do it. And from my observations, I've found that people invariably attempt this procedure while driving an automobile.

The sight of a person in the act of nose-picking can be nauseating. Maybe, people do this while driving because they think no one will notice, or because they have a license; but it's the wrong kind. A translucent windshield does little to protect people from public scrutiny. In all probability, the real reason turn signals were invented was so a person's hands would be freed up for personal grooming.

On any given day, you have probably passed at least one person who is engaged in the process of attempting to extract something from his/her proboscis as they maneuver in and out of traffic. Though it is a sickening display, I usually find myself wondering where they're going to dispose of it after it's indelicate removal.

Actually noting is so inhibiting as believing you have something protruding from your nose. Everybody has experienced this discomfort, and many find unique ways to pick themselves out of this situation. Once, when my older sister was away at college, she told us about talking with a gorgeous guy who appeared to be hanging onto her every word. Feeling he was mesmerized by her beauty, she ran back and told her roommates that the guy would surely be calling soon to ask her out. That's when she looked in the mirror and noticed a gigantic "tag" hanging out of one nostril. Needless to say, the phone never rang.

Anyway, I feel that watching a person do this without the aid of a tissue or handkerchief is down-right putrid. That's not to say that seeing one unattended isn't, but somehow attending to it in front of others seems rude or crude or both. In the back of my mind, I harbor a notion that people get in their cars simply to pick their noses. Can you imagine a buyer walking up to a car lot and the salesman saying, "Now this one right here is a perfect little "nose-picking" model. Get in and take it out for a test drive so you can get the feel."

A solution might be to install permanent tissue boxes on the dashboards. The only danger in this (if you're a tissue looker) would be when you averted your eyes to see what you blew out, you'd be endangering the lives of others. Undoubtedly, this would cause insurance rates to escalate because nose-pickers would be in the high-risk category.

I hope those associated with this study discover what they want to know and bring to light how automobiles and nose-picking are related. It's a booger of a problem.

New face at Martin Elem.

A new face on the campus of Martin Elementary School this year is that of Gwendolyn Hammonds who has joined the teaching staff at the upper primary level.

Hammonds, a native of McDowell, received her Bachelor's degree at Eastern Kentucky University and earned both Masters degree and Rank 1 certification at Morehead State University. Her teaching career consists of two years in Pike County and 16 years at Betsy Layne Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary, and Adams Middle School in Floyd County.

According to Principal William Hughes, Hammonds is a valuable addition to the Martin school. "She fits very well with the faculty," he commented. "She maintains an orderly climate in her classroom and her children are working and happy."

Hammonds, who has five children and four grandsons, lives at Water Gap with her husband, Harold.

Champions all around

While most students were lying by the pool or serving up burgers at work, 11 girls from Allen Central were in Louisville attending the Governor's Conference on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse. During the four day conference the girls attended meetings, banquets, Party with the Champions and saw Doug Flynn. The participants were: Melissa Corbett, Faith Frasure, Mika Gayheart and Millie Gibson, seniors, Traci Hicks, Evelyn Howard, Tonya Lawson, Stacie Moore, Ronica Reid, Jessica Wade and Heather Watson, juniors. The students who belong to Champions Against Drugs are aware of the need to stop drug abuse and they hope, as an organization, to make statistics known to the student body. This year they will be sponsoring for the first time, Project Prom, an alcohol-free, all-night party at the school with parents, students, faculty and community coming together to show the students, "It's OK not to drink and still have a good time."

Experiment in discipline

by Judy Slone

Effective discipline is always a problem in schools; therefore, Allen Central High School has initiated a pilot program that will eventually eliminate out-of-school suspension and hopefully discourage student misbehavior by encouraging greater in-class participation.

The program, Alternative Education Program or A.E.P., involves isolating disruptive students from the rest of the student body for a specified period of time without his/her losing class credit. During their assignment to A.E.P. students will do regular classwork (provided by the classroom teacher), be counseled, and work on skill development through the use of computers. The aim is to modify behavior with proactive rather than reactive discipline.

A typical day for a student assigned to A.E.P. will be as follows:

1. Meet A.E.P. instructor upon arrival at school.
2. No contact with other members of the student body.
3. Counseling, self-esteem and image building activities for two hours.
4. Lunch separate from the rest of the student body.
5. Basic skill development with computers for two hours.
6. Two final hours of homework for regular classroom teacher.
7. No talking or communication with anyone other than the A.E.P. instructor.

The staff at ACHS is excited about this program and the idea of disciplining students when needed without damaging their grades and affecting the average daily attendance which allows for increasing instructional offerings.

Primary concept upgraded at Martin Elementary

Enthusiasm is contagious! Excitement over the ungraded primary concept (part of the Kentucky Education Reform Act) is spreading throughout Floyd County and teachers are eager to get involved. In fact, some can't wait!

Although Martin Elementary School is not one of the county's five pilot schools utilizing the primary concept, some of the teachers decided to "get their feet wet before taking the actual plunge," according to first-grade teacher Shirline Patton.

Some aspects (not all) of the ungraded primary program are being integrated into the regular curriculum. Unit themes are being taught along with textbooks and learning centers in math and language arts have been created to help children learn or reinforce skills through the use of hands-on-activities. Peer-teaching and cooperative learning techniques are being used to help students grasp and utilize basic and advanced skills. Furniture has been replaced and/or rearranged to facilitate the new program.

"While one will not find all aspects of the ungraded concept in our classrooms, evidence of this change has begun to emerge," stated Patton. "Hopefully, these small changes will make the plunge into the ungraded primary less shocking, not only for the teacher but for students and parents as well."

Long range plans for the Martin school include full participation in the ungraded primary program next year, according to Principal William Hughes.

Writing workshops are planned for Fall

Four different workshops are planned this month for teachers who are working with writing or who are interested in learning how to use writing in a particular subject area. These workshops are scheduled in different schools in order to better accommodate those teachers in their respective areas.

The first workshop is set for Thursday, October 3, at Duff Elementary. This workshop is planned primarily for those teachers who are interested in learning more about the writing process and information has been posted within the schools of the immediate area. Any individual may participate by contacting Mrs. Thelma Spears at 478-9769. After the first meeting, a follow-up workshop (to be scheduled) will include information about holistic scoring. The workshops will meet at 3:15 p.m., and will end at approximately 6 p.m. Enrollment will be limited.

The second workshop is set for Thursday, October 10, at Allen Elementary. Also, this workshop is planned primarily for those teachers who are interested in learning more about the Writing Process. Enrollment will be limited.

The third workshop is set for Tuesday, October 15, at Allen Central High School. This workshop will focus on handling the paper load and will include some update information about portfolio assessment. Susan Wood, regional writing teacher, will be available to direct this workshop and to answer questions. To participate in this workshop, contact either Patricia Watson at 358-9543 or Thelma Spears at 478-9769. Enrollment will be limited.

A fourth workshop for teachers of writing is to be scheduled to address the subject of portfolio assessment.

Multimedia center placed Another technology innovation has been placed in the Floyd County system. The location of the learning and training facility is at Floyd County Technical High School. At this site teachers can learn to use the latest technology for class presentations and in-class operations with laserdisc. The media center will be used for TV broadcasts throughout the school, videotape production and textbook enhancement when not in use for updating classroom techniques. Publishers of repute have recommended use of laserdisc technology in their latest editions of school textbooks.

The media center will include facilities for dubbing, copying and producing videotape from multiple sources onto a single tape, allowing the compilations of VCR, TV, and video camera sources. Capability of scanning documents, art sources, graphics and other applications for import into presentations and word processors is now a reality.

Aiding with this training and technical aspects of equipment is James Staggs, the math and science teacher at Floyd Technical. Staggs has presented and been approved proposals for the implementation of the multimedia center, and will begin introducing this technology to interested teachers this fall.

The addition of this center adds a new dimension to the already much-improved technology of the district. Students and teachers will learn systems of future educational techniques that will soon be present in the media centers at all Floyd County Schools.

Welcome To Jenny Wiley Country

Jennie Sellards Wiley
1760-1831

October 1, 1991, marks the 202 anniversary of the captive of Kentucky's best-known Indian captive, Jennie Wiley.

In Jennie Wiley's era, many religious services were held in the home. Her father, Hezekiah Sellards, was a Presbyterian and lay leader, and his deep-seated religious beliefs were deeply inbred in his offspring.

As you worship in your own church today, spare a silent moment of prayer and thanks for Jennie Wiley whose marker dedicated November 27, 1965, River, Ky., reads:

"Jennie Sellards Wiley, 1760-1831, captured by Indians October 1, 1789, at Walker's Creek, Va., witnessed the slaying of her brother and five children by savages. Was held captive for several months on Little Mud Lick Creek in the present Johnson County. She escaped the Indians to Harman Station at Blockhouse Bottom, and was later united with her husband, Thomas Wiley, in Virginia. Mrs. Wiley returned to Johnson County with her husband and a cabin was built about the year 1800 where they reared five children. Jennie Wiley died in 1831."

*Harman Station at Blockhouse Bottom was the first permanent white settlement in an area of which 13 Eastern Kentucky counties were later formed. When Harman Station was built in 1789, it was located in the Kentucky District of Montgomery County, Virginia; when Jennie and Thomas moved to the Big Sandy Valley in 1800, the area was then called Floyd County, Kentucky; at the time of their deaths in 1810 and 1831, River, Kentucky, was still Floyd County; in 1843, Johnson County was formed from part of Floyd County, and Jennie's grave at River was cut off from Floyd into the new county of Johnson.

GRADE SCHOOL FOOTBALL WELL.....

If you think there isn't an interest in grade school football around Floyd County you only need to go to some of the games to see that is not true. I covered the Allen/Adams game Tuesday night and a parking place could not be found close to the stadium. I did spy an empty spot that evidently no one else wanted so I did have a close parking space. Inside the field I was amazed (not surprised) at the large turn out for the grade school game. In talking with Adams football coach Jack Goodman's mother she said that she didn't believe it when someone told her there wasn't any parking spaces close by. "I was shocked to see this size of a crowd here," she told me.

Allen and Adams (Prestonsburg) has had a rivalry going for many years now and it looks like it will continue. It is healthy competition for these younger kids. To them it is big time football. The grade school junior varsity even takes it pretty serious. It is fun to watch and the games are very exciting. Also, there are some pretty good football players coming through the grade school ranks.

Standing on the side lines taking pictures and notes, I saw an Adams player tackle a player from Allen and hit him hard. After the tackle the Adams player reached down, helped the Allen player up and patted him on the head in a good sportsmanship gesture. You have to love it.

The same two teams will meet again next Thursday, October 10, at the Prestonsburg field. If you want to see a good grade school football game come on out.

Oh, yes! I don't know how many people were talking about the absence of a concession stand. The Adams crew, or whoever is home team October 10, should be sure to have a concession stand. They could have made a few bucks off the crowd that showed up this past Tuesday night. Tom Clark, whittling knife and all, said that he could have eaten two hotdogs if there had been any. Ditto here.

It was good to see Adams principal Thomas Tackett at the game. Of course he is at all of them anyway. With his school up 14-8 and Allen with the ball late in the game, he was concerned. "Boy, I hope we don't lose this game 16-14," he said. "What we need is a fumble." Three plays later Allen fumbles the football and Adams recovers. "I called that one," he said with a smile on his face. Then we talked about the upcoming basketball season.

The only negative thing about the evening's outing was the delay in getting the game started and having to be out so late at night. The varsity game didn't get started until almost 8:30 p.m. The "B" team game needs to be shortened down and so much needless delays done away with.

Boots Adams grade school majorettes, that attends her classes, performed for the crowd at half time and between games. They certainly do a great job. The lights were turned out between games and the baton's were aflame in one routine.

RIGHT BEAVER CLASSIC.....

The Right Beaver Classic will start on Monday, October 14 at the Maytown Grade School. The one day early starting date is to ensure that the tournament is finished in the allotted week. It should be a great tournament.

HAMMOND GOT THE TD...

Doug Hammond got the touchdown for the Betsy Layne Bobcats against Prestonsburg last Friday night instead of Jamie Kidd. We just reported it as it was given to us and credited Kidd with the score. The correction is that Hammond got the TD and Kidd ran the conversion.

Now that we got that straight we wish everyone good sports and, be good sports, even to Sport Editors.

Beat Goes On As Adams Downs Allen 22-14 In Grade School Football

"The tradition continues" was a quote heard from Thomas Ratliff late in the game as Adams Middle School posted their sixth straight win over the Allen Eagles, 22-14, in a come from behind effort. The last time the Eagles won over Adams (formerly part of the Prestonsburg Elementary) was in 1985. At that point Allen had posted four consecutive wins over the Blackcats. But it has been a long drought since then for the Eagles.

But this was the year that the Eagles were to dominate the Blackcats in one of the strongest grade school rivalries around. Coach Jack Goodman's Blackcats were supposed to be down some this year after such strong showing the previous year. The coaches knew it and even some of the fans talked about it. One thing was wrong — no one told the Blackcat players.

A large number of fans from both schools were in attendance as the two schools meet on the gridiron. In fact, Boots Adams majorettes entertained the large crowd at halftime and between games.

It was the running of Chester Slone that gave the Eagles problems. In fact the game came down to a running game between Slone and Tony Craft. Both players carried the ball the majority of the time for their respective teams.

Slone carried 22 times for 178 yards rushing, while Craft managed 199 yards on 26 carries. Both players had long gainers for touchdowns. Craft scored on a 70-yard run while Slone carried once for a 66-yard TD.

The game was not without its dramatics, even up to the final 42 seconds. After cutting the Adams' lead to the final margin, the Eagles coach Mike Click set up the kick off for an on-side kick that work to perfection. After an Adams player touched the football the Eagles grabbed the ball and took control on the Adams 41 yard line with 33 seconds remaining. After a failed pass attempt on first down, the desperate Eagles ran another pass play and the ball landed in the arms of Craft's receiver only to have the ball drop on the 18 yard line. On third down play William Marsillett intercepted the football and the game ended.

Allen took the initial lead on their first possession of the game. Craft took the football 70 yards on a second down play and was stopped on the 8 yard line. Craft then carried the football into the end zone and the two-point conversion was good for a 8-0 Allen lead.

The lead did not hold up long, as the Blackcats came charging back on a drive that started on their own 39 yard line. The Blackcats marched 61 yards as Marsillett crossed the goal line on a 14 yard run and Slone ran the conversion with 5:05 remaining in Here it is!

On the move!

Tony Craft of Allen made his move up field in grade school football play Tuesday night. The Eagles fell to the Adams Middle School Blackcats 22-14 for their sixth consecutive win over the Eagles. Craft rushed for 199 yards in the game. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Blackcats Hope To Keep Momentum Going Against Shelby Valley Tonight

For the Prestonsburg Blackcats their win over Betsy Layne last Friday night was certainly a welcome one. The Cats had gone 0-4 in their first four outings and needed a confidence booster despite playing some good football against some very good teams.

Looking at who the Blackcats have played is important in trying to understand their 1-4 start in the first half of the season. One thing the Cats have going for them now is the bulk of their district schedule lays before them and it will be up to them to take advantage of it. Of the five remaining regular season games, all five are district match ups and it all begins with the Wildcats of Shelby Valley tonight in a road game. Prestonsburg has lost both previous road games at Estill County and Whitesburg. Midlandsboro and Belfry own home turf wins over Coach Bill Letton's Blackcats.

This is a different Prestonsburg football team that will travel to Shelby Valley tonight. They have improved and matured as a football team from what the opening season showed. Even in losing to Whitesburg and Belfry the Blackcats showed signs of coming into form.

Betsy Layne Training League Holds Sign-Ups

The Betsy Layne Junior Pro Training League will be having sign-ups on Sunday, October 6 at the Betsy Layne High School gym (Dome) between the hours of 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

This is for all players who are interested in participating in basketball or cheerleading between the ages of five and 13 years of age. There will be a $10 entry fee.

Led by some young players that have had to grow up fast, Prestonsburg is led by sophomore Dwayne Garza in rushing with 344 yards on 51 carries, an average of just over 6 yards per carry. Garza saw limited playing time in the Blackcats 61-22 win over Betsy Layne last Friday but still managed to carry eight times for 123 yards. He scored two touchdowns in the contest.

Another sophomore, Seth Hyden, has collected 256 yards on 25 attempts for an average of 10 yards per carry. Hyden carried the football but twice against the Bobcats but did manage 44 yards and a touchdown.

Playing just his third game of the season (early ejection in game one, a suspension in game two) John Goble is a steady ball carrier. A serious runner that gets the job done. Goble in three games is averaging just over 4 yards a carry with a total of 187 yards.

If there is a noticeable improvement in the Blackcats it has to be their quarterback Aaron Tucker. His passes are more consistent than earlier and he seems to play with so much more confidence. Tucker has passed for over 100 yards in his last two games and saw only three quarters of playing time at the signal calling position.

John Clark has certainly been a pleasant turn around for Prestonsburg. Except for a clipping call, Clark would have had scoring returns of 87 and 90 yards against Betsy Layne. He had one reception of 61 yards for a touchdown.

"I didn't think the call on Dwayne for clipping was a good call," said Clark of the called back score.

Prestonsburg will face a team that is playing in 2A competition for the first time. The Wildcats were runners-up to Pikeville in single A last season and lost to powerful Evarts in first round playoff action last season. If you ask new coach Tom Searcy what would be the strength of this year's Wildcat team he would tell you they are exciting.

"This is a great, enthusiastic bunch of players as well as a coaching staff," quoted Searcy. "The players have accepted a new system and their work habits show that and we have very good speed on this team."

Searcy says that this year's Shelby Valley team has a good balance of class sizes and that is good for a

Season Second Half Begins For Trojans Tonight In Visit To Jenkins

Being 2-3 this time of the year for the Wheelwright Trojans is something of an oddity. But that is just what the Trojans are and better things are expected as the second half of the football season gets started tonight at Jenkins.

The Trojans have been playing some good football despite having to face some of the areas top teams — the latter two being Pikeville (number one in Class A) and Fleming-Neon (number seven in Class A). Wheelwright is currently 1-3 in district competition.

A good showing at Jenkins tonight is very important for Donnie Daniels ball club as they have a lighter five games the second half of the season than they did the first. Not that the opposition is any less, but it certainly is not Pikeville or Fleming-Neon. Jenkins is a beatable foe and the Trojans defense has been better than the 60 points they gave up to Neon Friday night.

Trojan quarterback Steven Shelton displayed some aggressiveness against the seventh ranked Pirates last Friday. Shelton ran the ball and was not afraid to pass over the strong Pirate line. Shelton had one pass to Chuck Hutton for a 28 yard touchdown.

Hutton carried the football eight times against Fleming-Neon for just 35 yards but is capable of posting better numbers. He has carried the ball 37 times for 193 yards an average of 5 yards per carry.

The Trojans top gainer is Steven Jackson who was injured early in the second quarter and had to sit out the remainder of the game. Jackson has posted some impressive numbers this season accumulating 469 yards on 44 carries for an average of just over 10 yards per carry. Against Fleming-Neon Jackson carried only four times for 17 yards when he was hurt.

Top gainer for the Trojans against Neon was Arnold Adams with 71

12 run plays, Craft carried the football 10 times for 56 yards.

Marsillett had 59 yards on nine carries for Adams. The Blackcats had no turnovers while Allen had two interceptions and one fumble. Allen was flagged five times for 50 yards in penalties. Adams was penalized 50 yards on four calls.

Allen falls to 2-1 on the year as Adams stands at 3-0. The Eagles will be back in action next Thursday when they will face the Blackcats again. Adams will host Louisa this coming Tuesday evening.

In the junior varsity game, the younger Blackcats held on to defeat the Eagles 8-0. The winning touchdown came on a Eagle turnover when Seth Crisp had a pass intercepted with time running out in the second quarter. The winning TD came on a pass play with 23 seconds left from quarterback Brooks Stumbo to Neil Hamilton from 16 yards out. Brian Firtzpatrick ran the two-point conversion.

program's future but the team does have some weaknesses.

"Our overall strength as a team is weak," he commented. "Our offensive and defensive lines are inexperienced and we have poor depth in line positions."

One player that Searcy is high on is quarterback Joe Don Cole. "Joe has done a tremendous job for us this season and is a very intelligent player," stated Searcy.

Rodney Kiser will play the tailback position while at fullback will be Frankie Tackett. Shannon Tackett and Chris Kiser will rotate at tightend and call the plays. Two twins will be on the offensive line at the tackles slot — Denny and Brad Newsome. The Wildcats will run the multiple "I" on offense.

While the Wildcats will be more of a running team, Prestonsburg must be ready for the passing game as Coach Searcy likes to throw the football 30 to 40 percent of the time — something the Wildcats have had little experience at. Searcy football will be no stranger for Coach Letton's club as they faced the Wildcat mentor when he was at Whitesburg.

A big game for the Blackcats as they must keep the momentum going if they are to secure a playoff spot in the district.

Game time is 8 p.m. and the game may be heard on radio stations WXXZ or WQHY.

yards on 21 carries. Adams has 294 yards on 54 carries.

Wheelwright will have to contain the running game of William Figger (sr., 5-9, 195). Figger has been out with an injury but returned to play against Allen Central last Friday. He is the team's top gainer but carried only eight times against the Rebels last Friday for 45 yards. Halfback Don Wright led the Cavaliers' ground attack with nine carries for 76 yards.

Wheelwright must also have their secondary alert as quarterback Mark Walker can throw the football and Kenny Stanley (sr., 5-5, 130) is proof of that. Although small, Stanley had four receptions for 114 yards and two touchdowns against Allen Central. Jenkins was 15 of 23 in passing for 275 yards, so they do like to pass the football.

Coach Tim McCoy's team comes off the football quick but lack that quickness on defense. That could be well for the Trojans with the depth they have in the backfield.

Jenkins has played some tough teams taking powerhouse Everts to overtime before falling. They fell to Elkhorn City 13-12 two weeks ago.

Unbeaten Sheldon Clark Visits Rebel Country Tonight In Non District Game

One of the state's 20 undefeated teams makes a call to the Don Daniels Athletic Complex tonight as the Sheldon Clark Cardinals bring an unblemished 5-0 record to face a winless Allen Central Rebel team.

The Cardinals have certainly lived up to all the preseason expectations of them and are currently 3-0 in Class AA, Region 4, District 2 standings and in the "drivers seat" for a first place finish.

Allen Central on the other hand is still looking for that first win of the season after having gone 0-5 in the first half. One has to wonder what a team like Sheldon Clark is doing on a team that is so young and inexperienced.

"It's my fault," confessed head coach Dewey Jamerson, "I never thought they would be as strong as they are this year. And it was the first time I ever made out the schedule."

Lessons learned are sometimes hard. The Cardinals are certainly one of the top area teams and have shown it with some very good football play.

Led by Donnie Slone in the backfield, the Cards have scored 117 points this season for an average of 23.4 per game. But that isn't all. Defensively, Sheldon Clark have limited their opponents to just 33 points for a very impressive 6.6 points per game. The Cardinals have played some strong competition also having disposed of M.C. Napier on their home turf. A victory over Whitesburg and Morgan County made it a 3-0 district record for the Cardinals.

But there have been others to fall, the latest being Tug Valley out of West Virginia, no slouch by any means. Trailing 7-0 in the game last Friday night the Cardinals pulled out a 12-7 win.

Slone has carried the football 38 times this season for a total yardage of 327 yards. Slone has scored five touchdowns. Sheldon Clark is not just a running team but they like, and are capable, of throwing the football. Quarterback Jesse Watts has completed 23 passes this year for just 77 yards but with the likes of Cooper and Slone in the backfield, throwing the ball is sometimes not needed.

Cooper had been out because of an ankle injury, but saw limited action against Tug Valley, and that mostly on defense. Cooper is expected to be in the thick of things tonight at Allen Central.

If the Cardinals offensive line happens to tilt their way tonight it's because of all the beef that line up for the Cardinals. Senior Shawn King (6-4, 240) anchors down the guard spot on the offensive line. Another Shawn — Miller — stands in at 6-5 and 225 pounds at the right tackle position. Seeing playing time on the line will be freshman Nick West at 5-10 and 230 pounds.

King heads up a very experienced defensive line leading the way with 69 tackles for an average of five per game. Against Tug Valley, King had 26 hits. Slone and Cooper will be at the linebacker spots and a sophomore that has been well for Sheldon Clark is Steve Jude.

Watts has some very capable receivers in Franklin Patrick and Brian Damron. Patrick has caught 13 passes for 227 yards and two TD's. Damron has 14 receptions for 237 yards and three touchdowns. Bruce Stepp has flagged down six catches for 218 yards and scored two TD's.

Allen Central, though winless, has shown a lot of improvement in their last two games. Freshman Brad ALLEN CENTRAL VERSUS SHELDON CLARK GAME HAS BEEN CHANGED FROM A 8 P.M. START TO A 7:30 P.M. START.

Blackburn has shown that he is capable of calling the signals behind the offensive line. Blackburn got his first start this past Monday night against Johns Creek and responded with a strong showing. He had a 49 yard TD pass to Shane Stumbo.

Points have been hard for the Rebels to put on the scoreboard. But the defense certainly has allowed the opposition to score handily. But with a new look Allen Central could surprise someone this season.

Jamie Slone ran for 211 yards against Johns Creek as he carried the ball 29 times. Slone ran for two touchdowns as well as collecting 156 yards on kick off returns.

Kevin Patton is starting to show his ability of moving the football on offense. Patton had his best game thus far this season against Johns Creek as he rushed for 88 yards.

Kick off time is 8 p.m. and the game will be aired over WSIP-AM and FM.

Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Classic This Saturday At Jenny Wiley State Park

It's race time again at the Jenny Wiley State Park as the fourth annual Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Classic will be held at 10 a.m. this Saturday, October 5.

The Classic is in honor of Joe McCauley, who was widely known as an accomplished distance runner. In fact, he was a three-time Masters Division, Kentucky State Champion in the 10,000 meter (1980, 1981 and 1983). In six years of competition, he won division titles in over 50 races, including the Bluegrass 10,000, Metro United Way, Run Kentucky Run, the Kentucky Energy Run and the Kentucky Apple Run.

As the chief executive officer of Big Sandy A.D.D., McCauley was responsible for administering programs, services and funding for public projects in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. While Mayor of Middlesboro from 1961 until 1965, he was honored by the Kentucky Human Rights Commission and the Louisville Defender for his efforts on behalf of civil rights. An avid competitor, McCauley was a former high school coach and college athlete. In 1959, he set a National Outdoor Association "Worlds Record" as the first person to drive a pleasure craft boat over 60 miles an hour.

All proceeds from the Classic Run will go to benefit the American Cancer Society of the Eastern Kentucky district.

Registration will begin at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheater Parking lot at 9 a.m. until 9:45 a.m. The race is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Entry fee into the race is $8 for preregistration and $10 the day of the race. The course of the race will be a fast out and back scenic course surrounding Dewey Lake. The five kilometer course runs along the edge of Dewey Lake making it one of the most scenic runs anywhere in the state of Kentucky.

A commemorative long-sleeved race shirt will be awarded to the first 100 entrants. The race will also award cash prizes to the first three over-all male and female winners. First place finishers will receive $100. Second place runners will receive $75 and those finishing third will be awarded $50 in cash.

There also will be cash awards for age groups in 20 divisions, excluding the top three finishers. First place is good for $30 while second pays $20. A third place finish in an age group is good for $10. Also door prizes will be given away such as warm-up suits, radios, exercise equipment and lots more.

Jeff Meek from WXYZ was a good 8-4 last week. What a week for Jodi. 11-1 and on the move. Shawn is starting to learn the system now and was 10-2. Look for the Kentucky Wildcats to fall against Mississippi and it looks as if the Floyd County teams are all supposed to fall. On the pro level, some still have faith in the Bengals and Browns. This week's picks are rough.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 898-0335 Revision 3

(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Addington, Inc., P.O. Box 2189, Ashland, Kentucky 41105-2189, has filed a major revision to an application for a surface coal mining and reclamation operation. This major revision proposes to add an additional 2.34 acres of surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 236.39 acres of surface disturbance. The operation is located approximately 1 mile west of McCombs in Pike and Floyd Counties, Kentucky.

(2) The proposed operation is approximately 2.5 miles south of Kentucky Route 194's intersection with Kentucky Route 881 and located 3.6 miles southeast of the intersection of Buffalo Creek and Johns Creek. The latitude is 37 39' 30". The longitude is 82 36' 06". The surface area to be affected by this major revision is owned by: Sellard Heirs, Lafa & Jack Hall, Wonder Spears, Hawkeye Coal Company, Ray Taylor, Freddie James, George Spears and Roscoe Blackburn.

(3) The proposed operation is located on the Thomas U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The major revision proposes a land use change from a premining land use of forest land to a post mining land use of pasture land.

(4) The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Pikeville Regional Office, 109 Mays Branch Road, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, Number 2, Hudson Hollow Road, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. ORDINANCE NO. 12-91

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 8-89 RELATING TO THE PREVENTION OF FLOOD DAMAGE.

BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED, by the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky: SECTION 1: Ordinance 8-89, Article 5, Section B (1) is hereby amended to read as follows:

(1) New construction or substantial improvement of any residential building (or manufactured home) shall have the lowest floor, including basement elevated no more than (two (2) feet) above the base flood elevation. Should solid foundation perimeter walls be used to elevate a structure, openings sufficient to facilitate the unimpeded movement of flood waters shall be provided in accordance with the standards of Article V, Section B (3).

SECTION 2: Article 5, Section (b) (2) is hereby amended to read as follows:

(2) Non-Residential Construction. New construction or substantial improvement of any commercial, industrial or non-residential building (or manufacturing home) shall have the lowest floor, including basement, elevated no more than (two (2) feet) above the level of the base flood elevation. Buildings located in all A-Zones may be flood-proofed in lieu of being elevated provided that all areas of the building below the required elevation are water tight with walls substantially impermeable to the passage of water, and use structural components having a capability of resisting hydrostatic and hydrodynamic loads and the effects of buoyancy. A registered professional engineer or architect shall certify that the standards of this subsection are satisfied. Such certification shall be provided to the official as set forth in Article IV, Section C (9).

SECTION 3: Article 5, Section (4) (b) (i) is hereby amended to read as follows: (i) The lowest floor of the manufactured home is elevated no lower than (two (2) feet) above the level of the base flood elevation, or SECTION 4: Any action by court of competent jurisdiction declaring any section, sub-section, phrase or word of this ordinance to be invalid, unconstitutional and/or void shall remain in full force and effect. The balance of ordinance 8-89 is not hereby changed, but for the amendments hereto.

SECTION 5: This ordinance shall be in force and effect, as to the date of the passage hereof, on the 23rd day of September, 1991.

SECTION 6: All ordinances or any parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict. SO ADOPTED, this the 23rd day of September, 1991.

ORDINANCE NO. 13-91

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG RELATING TO THE MANUFACTURING, TRANSPORTATION, STORAGE AND USE OF EXPLOSIVES WITHIN THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, deems it necessary and appropriate to regulate the manufacturing, transportation, storage and use of all explosives within the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in order to protect the health and safety of its citizenry;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED by the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as follows:

ITEM I: AUTHORITY AND SCOPE

1.01 This code shall apply to the manufacturer, possession, storage, sale, transportation and use of explosives and blasting agents.

1.02 This code shall not apply to:

(a) Explosives or blasting agents while in the course of transportation via railroad, water, highway or air when the explosives or blasting agents in the normal and emergency operation of state or federal agencies are moving under the jurisdiction of, or in conformity with, regulations adopted by any federal or state department or agency.

(b) The transportation and use of explosives or blasting agents in the normal and emergency operation of state or federal agencies nor to municipal fire and police departments, providing they are acting in their official capacity and in the proper performance of their duties.

(c) Small arms ammunition and components thereof, which are subject to the gun control act of 1968 (Title 18, Chapter 44, US Code) and regulations promulgated thereunder.

(d) Blasting standards KRS 351.320 and 351.340 and regulations 805 KAR 4:010 thru 4:060.

(e) Explosives or blasting agents being used on the site of federal or state projects.

ITEM II: STORAGE, TRANSPORTATION AND USE

2.01 All activities within the scope of this code shall conform to the regulations of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals 805 KAR 4:070 thru 4:080 and 805 KAR 4:090 thru 4:145 (E & B R900 thru 914.)

3.01 No person or corporation shall conduct a blasting operation without first obtaining a permit from the Fire Marshal's Office, City of Prestonsburg for any blasting within the jurisdiction of the City Limits of Prestonsburg.

3.02 The fee for a blasting permit or permit renewal shall be $10.00.

3.03 No person or corporation shall be issued a permit to blast on public property unless that person to be in charge of the blasting holds a valid Kentucky Blaster's License.

3.04 No person or corporation shall be issued a permit to blast on private property with more than five (5) pounds of explosives unless the person in charge of the blasting holds a valid Kentucky Blaster's License.

3.05 The blasting permits shall specify the location of the blasting to be permitted.

3.06 In the event that a project is not completed, blasting permits must be renewed annually upon the applicant's payment of the renewal fee.

3.07 A permit allowing blasting shall be used upon application but, on public property, shall not become valid until seven (7) days after its issuance.

3.08 If unanticipated blasting is required, the permit may become valid as soon as the Prestonsburg Fire Marshal notifies all required agencies.

3.09 On any contract issued by an agency of the City of Prestonsburg, blasting permits shall be issued by the City Fire Marshal's Office unless otherwise specified in said contract.

3.10 False statements made for the purpose of obtaining a permit shall render the permit null and void from the time of issuance.

3.11 Copies of the blasting permit shall be distributed by the City Fire Marshal to the following required agencies: Fire Chief, Police Chief, City Utilities and other utilities which may be affected.

ITEM IV: MANUFACTURER AND SALE

4.01 No person or corporation shall operate a business established where explosives are maintained for the sale, or manufacturer for sale, of explosives in the City of Prestonsburg without first obtaining a permit from the City Fire Marshal.

4.02 The fee for this permit is $10.00.

ITEM V: PENALTIES

5.01 Any personal corporation violating the procedures of this code shall be fined not less than $100.00 nor more than $1,000.00, and/or shall be imprisoned up to, but not more than ten days.

ITEM VI: SEVERABILITY

6.01 This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and upon publication. Action by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring any section, sub-section, phrase or word of this ordinance to be invalid, unconstitutional and/or void shall not affect the remainder of this ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

6.02 All ordinances or any parts in conflict with the provisions are expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict.

ADOPTED, this the 23rd day of September, 1991.

FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION
1991 Annual Performance Report

Lighting the way to the future...

Floyd County Schools General Information

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

KINDERGARTEN

Children are required to successfully complete kindergarten before they enter the first grade. The following are entrance requirements for kindergarten:

1. Must be five (5) years of age by October 1.
2. An official full-size copy of the student's birth certificate.
3. A valid Kentucky immunization certificate (EPID-230).
4. A medical examination on the Kentucky Department of Education approved form (KDE 1671-410).
5. A tuberculin skin test (CH-91A).
6. Entrance to the sixth grade requires a second dose of MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) and present an updated immunization certificate.

ADMISSION TO HIGH SCHOOL

A student will be admitted to his school when that student has completed the prescribed elementary program of studies and has received a certificate of completion from either a public, private, or parochial school.

This certificate must be signed by the teacher or teachers under whom the program was completed.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

All transfer students seeking to enroll in the Floyd County Public Schools must provide the following documents prior to being enrolled:

1. Transcripts from previous schools attended.
2. A Kentucky immunization certificate (EPID-230).
3. A tuberculin skin test (CH-91A).
4. A medical examination (KDE 1671-410).
5. An official full-size birth certificate.

Additionally, students transferring from a non-public school to the Floyd County Schools shall be administered the appropriate level of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills/4. This test is to determine grade placement in the Floyd County Schools. This test shall be administered by the school guidance counselor or the school psychologist.

GUIDANCE

A full program of guidance counseling is available to all students in the 7th & 8th grades and high schools in Floyd County. Services include aptitude testing, career planning, scholastic and social counseling, assistance in securing scholarships for high education, academic planning and referral to other agencies.

VISITORS

A close relationship between the home and school is very important. We want to encourage parents and citizens to visit our schools. It is suggested that arrangements be made in advance with the principal. Also, when visiting a school, all parents and

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Students who qualify may attend Floyd County Technical High School on a full-time or a half-day basis. Students may choose from a number of programs including principles of technology, health careers, auto mechanics, electronics, carpentry, machine shop, mine maintenance, welding, secretarial, and clerical.

ATTENDANCE

The progress of a student depends greatly on punctuality and attendance. There is a direct relationship between attendance and achievement. The Kentucky Compulsory School Law (KRS 159.010) requires each parent, guardian, or other person residing in the state and having in custody or charge of any child between the ages of six and sixteen shall send the child to a regular public day school for the full term that the public school of the district in which the child resides is in session, or to the public school that the Board of Education of the district makes provision for the child to attend.

Regular school attendance is essential for a student to achieve maximum progress. Parents are urged to make every effort to see that their child attends regularly and on time.

OPEN RECORDS

Parents have the right to examine their children's official records, including grades and achievement test scores. Also, records of the Floyd County Board of Education, except those specifically exempted by the Kentucky Revised Statutes and the Family Rights and Privacy Act, are open to public inspection at the central office or any school office where records are housed throughout the district. Provisions and regulations for record inspection are available from each school principal or in the superintendent's office.

HAZARDOUS WEATHER

When you are not sure whether school is in session because of hazardous roads, listen for a closing announcement on Floyd County radio stations and area television stations between 6:00 and 7:30 a.m. Please do not call the administrative offices or the radio and television stations.

Rather than closing school, the system may have school open on a one or two hour delay when roads are clearer. A delayed opening will also be announced in the same manner.

EXCEPTIONAL CHILD EDUCATION

The Floyd County School System offers a wide range of special education programs and services for handicapped students of school age. Examples of types of programs offered are those for students having physical, mental, emotional/behavioral, communication, and learning disabilities. Most handicapped students, based on individual skills and needs, are able to spend part of each day in the regular education program. All instruction is provided by a certified teacher, with the assistance of classroom aides in selected programs.

Appropriate education and evaluation services are provided for students at no cost to the parent. Students may be referred by school staff. After the evaluation is completed, a special placement may be recommended or a remedial plan may be developed. Parents are a vital part of every stage of the evaluation and placement process. Parents are encouraged to contribute helpful information and insights about their child and must give their permission before initial evaluation and/or placement can occur.

COMPLIANCE WITH TITLE IX, TITLE VI, AND SECTION 504

It is the policy of the Floyd County Board of Education and all Floyd County schools not to discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, religion, marital status, sex, or handicap in employment, educational programs, or activities as set forth in Title IX, Title VI, and Section 504. Any persons having inquiries concerning the Floyd County Schools compliance with Title IX, Title VI, and Section 504 is directed to contact Mr. David L. Turner, Floyd County Schools, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, telephone (606) 886-2354, who has been designated by the Floyd County Board of Education to coordinate the District's efforts to comply with Title IX, Title VI, and Section 504.

Betsy Layne a leader for teaching, learning

Amid much controversy, rumors and exaggerations, two things are for certain at Betsy Layne High School: teaching and learning are going on.

Four of the five Floyd County Governor's Scholars are Betsy Layne High School students. Two Betsy Layne students were also chosen to be state-at-large candidates.

Stephanie Biliter, Steve Clark, Brian Jones and Brian Newman have been selected to participate in the Governor's Scholars Program. Kenneth Boyd and Derek Hale have been selected as state-at-large candidates. Both Boyd and Hale will compete statewide for possible positions in the Governor's Scholars program.

The Governor's Scholars Program, established in 1983, is a five-*have 94 percentile or above on the CTBS in total battery;

week residential summer program for outstanding Kentucky high school juniors. The program, designed for enrichment, offers students an opportunity to be responsible for their own learning by helping them achieve their academic and personal potential and cultivate their learning capabilities.

To be eligible for the program, students must be residents of Kentucky, attend high school in Kentucky, be a junior and plan to return to the present school district next fall.

Candidates must also meet the following criteria:

*PSAT/NMSQT test scores of 80 percentile or above in at least one section—math or verbal—or in the Selection Index and have above 70 percentile in the verbal section;

*high recommendations from at least two teachers in the academic disciplines; and

*submission of two original essays.

All applications which met these criteria were sent to the county selection committee where, because of the number of eleventh grade students at the beginning of the school year, Floyd County was allotted five primary and 12 state-at-large candidates.

Stephanie Biliter, 16, is the daughter of Steve and Gail Biliter. Steve Clark, 16, is the son of Leonard and Carolyn Clark. Brian Jones is the 16-year-old son of Lester and Beth Jones. Brian Newman, also 16, is the son of Hillard and Sylvania Newman. Kenneth Boyd is the 17-year-old son of Donnie and Priscilla Boyd and Derek Hale, also 17, is the son of Buck and Joy Hale.

Floyd technical school student state champ

Billy J. Hall Jr., a student at Floyd County Technical High School, has won the State Competitions for Principles of Technology. Hall won the honor at the State competitions of the Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America held recently at Fort Mitchell, Kentucky.

Hall is a full-time senior attending Floyd County Technical High School in Machine Technology. Hall received a gold metal indicating first place, a certificate of attendance, and an electronic multimeter for testing circuitry for his winning demonstration of Mechanical Rate. Also attending the conference from Floyd Tech was Derrick Owsley, a senior, as second-place winner in the region and representative of the VICA membership at the school.

Hall represents the State of Kentucky as the first ever Principles of Technology winner.

Billy J. Hall Jr.

Hall's parent high school is J.H. Allen Central High School. The student plans to continue his education at Floyd County Technical High School next year, and then go to college. Congratulations to Mr. Billy J. Hall, of Wayland, Kentucky, father of the successful student.

As the first ever state champ in Principles of Technology, Billy represents the commitment to quality and excellence that the originators of Floyd Tech strive for. Assistance from the State Department, the Floyd County Board of Education, Administrators, members of local industry, and the Cabinet for Workforce Development have all contributed to the far-reaching reputation that Floyd County Technical High School has earned. Mr. Hall is just one of the student winners that have used the all-day program to achieve their educational goals.

Floyd County Schools and Technology

by Tim Hites

Inacomp Computer Centers
President

During this decade, technology in our schools will be one of the keys to educational quality. Technology has proven to be a tool which can help lower dropout rates, enhance student achievement and, most importantly, raise self-esteem. At the same time, technology in the classroom can inspire teachers and provide them with more time for what they do best — teaching!

Floyd County Schools, along with several surrounding counties in Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky are beginning an aggressive process of implementing technology at every grade level. The goal of each of these plans is to provide quality, curriculum-based courseware to as many students as possible on a daily basis.

The first year of the technology plan in Floyd County was to implement IBM's most successful instruction program, Writing to Read, at each of the elementary schools. After the first year of instruction using the IBM "Writing to Read" lab, reading skills and comprehensive skills have risen four NCE points over the previous year's test results. With the addition of Aides in the Writing to Read classrooms, and the completion of all the labs, we should see those results climb even further.

This fall as we begin the 1991-92 school year, Floyd County will implement the second year in its technology plan. In that plan every second grade classroom in the county will receive five networked workstations, and will begin TLC (Teaching and Learning with Computers). In the TLC concept the computer workstations become part of the learning process, and are completely integrated with current curriculum. The TLC concept is a perfect match to the new non-graded primary, and will pilot in five Floyd County schools this year.

To succeed in an implementation of this size, staff development is crucial. Many teachers have not been exposed to technology, and at this point in their careers find themselves presented with many new concepts to understand and implement, as a result of KERA (Kentucky Education Reform Act). IBM and Inacomp Computer Centers will conduct intensive training during the week of August 26. Schedules were mailed to every teacher in the county on August 9 detailing the available training dates and sites.

Education is a national concern in our country today, and many major corporations, professionals and individuals are getting involved in making a social change in the way we teach our next generation. IBM, and Inacomp Computer Centers are in the business of helping to provide the necessary tools that will make our children more competitive in the new global environment of the 90s. We hope that everyone will get involved and give educational changes the attention they need to succeed.

High-tech kids

Ronald Frasure of Inacomp Computer Centers in Prestonsburg instructs local children how to use the new computer system installed at their school. The computers feature the "Writing to Read" program which has proved successful in helping children improve their reading skills.

Wheelwright's Stumbo is among the best

The last time Wheelwright drew national attention, it was anything but flattering.

That was last time.

This time, Wheelwright has been singled out as the workshop for one of the best school teachers in America.

Carol Stumbo was selected as a Christa McAuliffe Educator by the National Foundation for the Improvement of Education (NFIE). She was honored in Washington in January by the NFIE. Stumbo was one of five teachers across the nation and the first in Kentucky to receive the honor.

The search for McAuliffe scholars is not an easy one, "they find you," Stumbo said.

Stumbo's name was mentioned by Bill Wright, a Washington educator associated with BREADnet, a telecommunications writing network for teachers, who the foundation called initially asking about another candidate. Wright, in turn, gave Stumbo's name and the search was on.

"Bill Wright gave them my name and by Christmas, they knew everything about me. David Wallace, a director at the institute, called and asked me about the telecommunications program at our school. We talked for about 30 minutes and I didn't find out until later, it actually was an interview," Stumbo said. "The final selections were made by the board of directors."

Stumbo joined four other teachers from Indiana, New York, Maryland and Washington in developing a 12-day conference to be held this summer at Stanford University on "Preparing All Students for the 21st Century: Using Telecommunications to Restructure Schools."

Via an international telecommunications network, Stumbo connects her students with other classes in Israel, Japan, Peru and Russia to discuss environmental and global issues.

Stumbo teaches English, journalism, oral history, speech and drama. Her class develops stories and transcripts for "Mantrip" Magazine, produced annually with a focus on people in Wheelwright and the community.

The publication is a result of the school's involvement with the Foxfire Project, a national effort that encourages student writings on this country's heritage. By using computer desktop publishing, the students design and write the magazine and 1,000 copies are sold in Kentucky and other parts of the country.

Stumbo has been published in the Harvard Education Review and Ashland Oil has honored her work. She serves on the Governor's School Performance Council, an 11-member group that recommends what the state's students should learn, how their performance is assessed and how schools might be restructured.

She has been a classroom teacher at the college and high school levels for 21 years. She has a B.A. in English from Berea College and a Master's degree in English from Morehead State University.

Floyd Tech is fulfilling the educational need

Floyd Tech is now in the third year of the "All-Day" concept for juniors and seniors. This program allows students to get not only vocational training but also required academic classes. The vocational classes offered are: Electronics, mining technology, carpentry, welding, automotive technology, office technology and machine tool technology which includes the computer aided design system (CAD). Health services is the newest addition to the vocational curriculum which includes health occupations (the exploration of all health related fields), structures and functions (anatomy and physiology) and lab (clinical laboratory practice).

The newest addition to the academic curriculum is a media class taught by Mr. Thomas Hardwick, the English instructor. This class will be pursuing different forms of multimedia, producing a school video, and reporting the county news, weather and sports on closed circuit TV at the school.

Floyd Tech also has the co-op program in the vocational areas which allows seniors to work in their selected area of training and receive credits, expertise and salary. This program has proven beneficial after graduation for students seeking employment or entrance to post-secondary vocational schools and colleges.

A new technology innovation has been placed at Floyd Tech. A multimedia learning and training facility was placed there to assist teachers in instruction of the latest technology for class preparations and in-class operations with laser-disc. The media center will be used for dubbing, copying and producing videotape from multiple sources onto single tape, allowing the compilations of VCR, TV and video camera sources. Capability of scanning documents, art sources, graphics and other applications for import into presentations and word processors is now a reality. Aiding with this training and technical aspects of equipment is James Staggs, the math and science teacher at Floyd Tech.

The entire faculty would like to welcome Mr. Bob Hall to the staff this year. He will be teaching junior English, world civilization and doing extensive career planning and guidance counseling for the all day junior and seniors.

Executive Summary

The goals, objectives, and activities established for Floyd County Schools were determined through needs assessments which included achievement test (CTBS/4) scores, student attendance figures, and student dropout rates.

Information taken from the needs assessment resulted in the establishment of the following goals:

INSTRUCTIONAL GOAL

All students will improve to a mean score of the 50th NCE in the basic skill subtests of the CTBS/4.

INSTRUCTIONAL DEFICIENCIES

The 1990-91 scores of the CTBS/4 indicate the following grades and basic skill subtests were below the 50th NCE:

Grade 2	Reading 49.9	Math 47.0	Spelling 48.9
Grade 3	Math 46.3
Grade 4	Math 46.9	Reference 49.3
Grade 5	Math 48.4
Grade 6	Reading 47.4	Math 46.1	Spelling 49.8
	Reference 48.2		Writing 49.1
Grade 7	Math 49.3	Spelling 49.2	Reference 47.0
Grade 8	Math 49.4
Grade 9	Reading 47.2	Math 46.4	Spelling 47.8
	Reference 48.5		Writing 49.8
Grade 10	Reading 49.3	Math 48.7	Spelling 47.5
Grade 11	Reading 41.8	Math 42.4	Spelling 41.8
	Reference 42.4		Writing 45.3
Grade 12	Reading 45.0	Math 45.2	Spelling 43.9
	Reference 43.8		Writing 45.9

Comparison of Total Battery CTBS/4 Test Scores 1989-90 to 1990-91

Note is taken that grades two, three, four, five, six, and eight fell below achievement levels of 1989-90. Gains were made in grades one, seven, and ten. Comparisons are as follows:

Years/Grade	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	10
1989-90	49.0	51.3	50.3	51.0	49.0	50.1	49.3	51.1	48.4
1990-91	51.6	48.6	49.1	49.5	50.0	47.1	50.3	51.0	50.3

The Master Educational Improvement Plan was prepared by a committee composed of students, parents, and school personnel. Improvement has been made in recent years in Floyd County Schools to the point that the Improvement Plan addresses student attendance for major focus in 1990-91.

ATTENDANCE GOAL

The Floyd County School District will improve student attendance 1% for the 1989-90 school year, and 1% for the 1990-91 school year. (1989 district attendance was 92.86).

ATTENDANCE DEFICIENCIES

The Floyd County School District had a percentage of attendance of 93.78% for the 1990-91 school year. This was a decrease from the 1989-90 school year (94.32%) of 0.54%, but exceeded the minimum state requirement of 93.5 by 0.21%. The following deficiencies are noted:

Allen Central High School	92.49
Martin Elementary School	92.42
Melvin Elementary School	92.50
W.D. Osborne Elementary School	92.90
Wheelwright High School	91.63

ATTENDANCE IMPROVEMENT

The percentage of attendance for the 1990-91 school year was 93.78%. While improvements were noted at some schools—Betsy Layne High School, McDowell Elementary School, McDowell High School and Maytown Elementary School—the district suffered a loss of 0.54% in attendance for the year.

STUDENT DROPOUT IMPROVEMENT

The Floyd County School District dropout rate for 1989-90 was 2.79. This number increased during 1990-91 to 4.42, a difference of 1.63%.
