Miner alleges :

Threats follow findings

A Floyd County coal miner filed a complaint last week with the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission, alleging that Leo A. Marcum, Commonwealth Attorney for Martin, Johnson, and Lawrence counties, threatened to have him committed to a mental institution if he persisted with safety complaints he had made against Martin County Coal Corporation.

Randall G. Fitzpatrick of Prestonsburg, a former assistant foreman at the Black Bear No. 2 mine, filed the complaint of discrimination with the Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission in Washington, D.C. Marcum and Martin County Coal are named as defendants in the complaint.

Fitzpatrick, who worked for Martin County Coal for 13 years until he went on disability leave in September, 1990, is now receiving long term disability benefits from Martin County Coal and has been hospitalized twice for depression, according to the lawsuit.

The complaint claims that in June, 1991, Fitzpatrick gave a written summary of alleged safety complaints concerning Martin County Coal Corporation's mines to the Mine Safety and Health Administration, the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, and to the general counsel of A.T. Massey Coal Company, which is the parent company of Martin County Coal. Fitzpatrick alleges that Marcum, who is also an attorney with the law firm of McCoy, Marcum and Triplett and was representing Martin County Coal, arranged a meeting on July 2, 1991. At that meeting Marcum "angrily threatened" to have Fitzpatrick committed and to sue him for "slander" if he pursued the complaints, the complaint said. Fitzpatrick claims the alleged threats constitute discrimination under the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977.

Fitzpatrick's attorney, Tom Opepegard, said Tuesday that one complaint to which Marcum referred stemmed from an incident in 1989 at Martin County Coal's Coal Berg mine when Martin County Coal put some salaried employees under an unsupported roof to retrieve mining equipment.

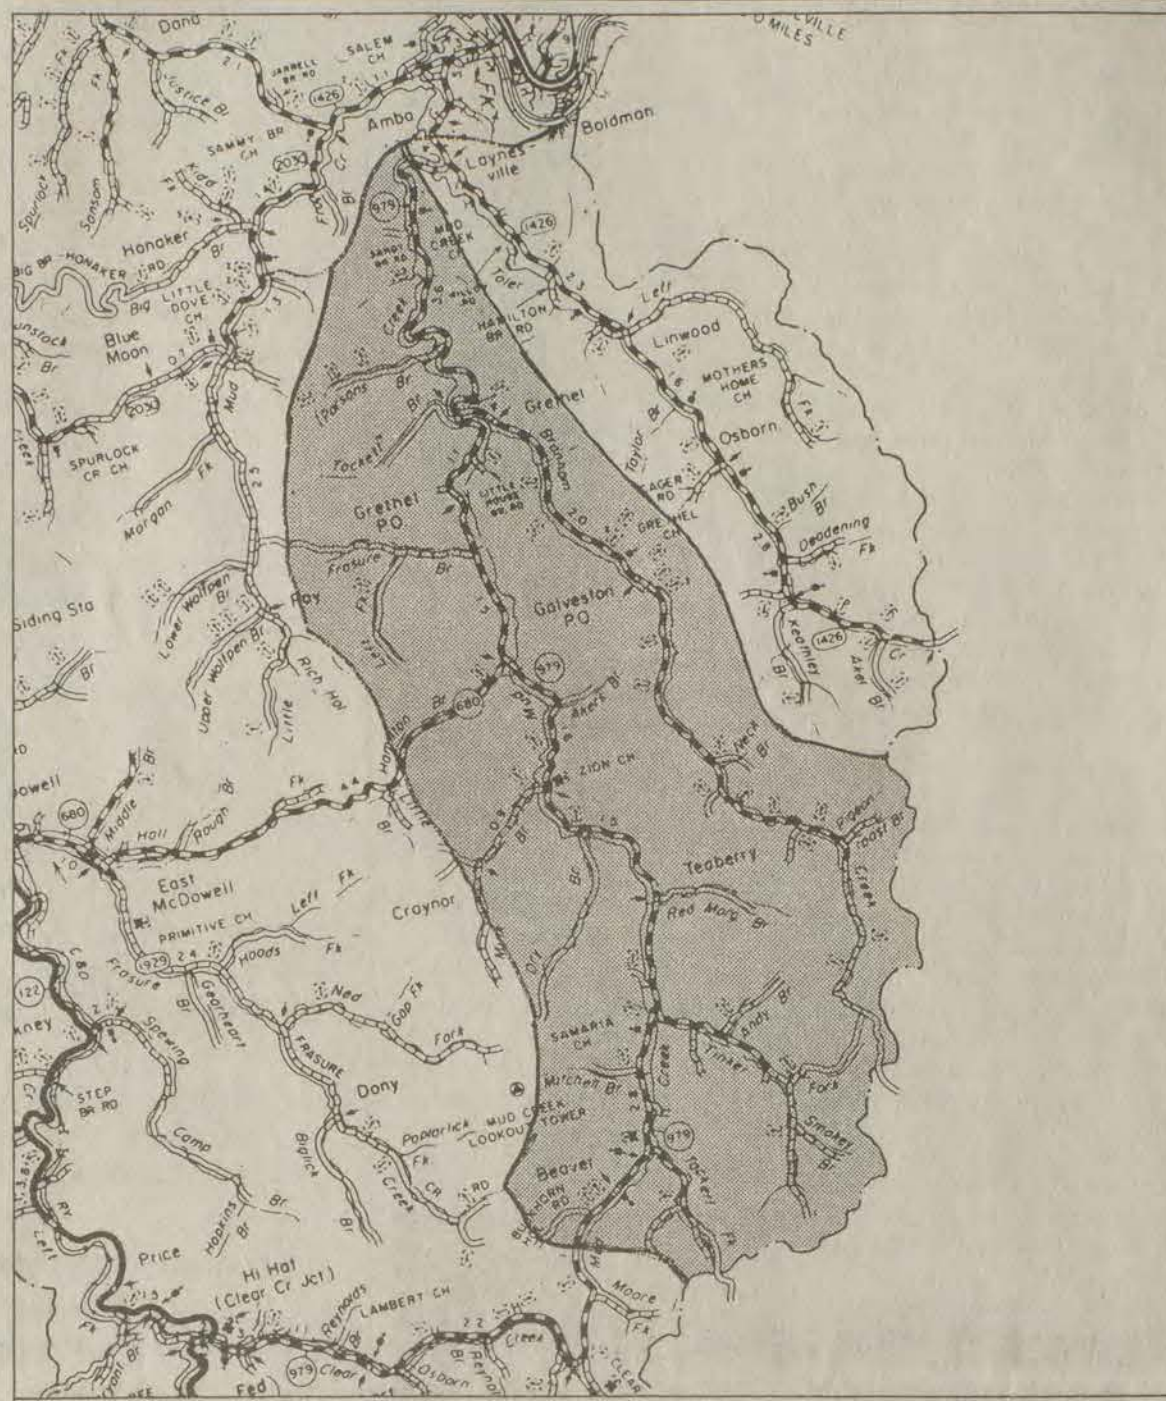

Another complaint, said Opepegard, happened "quite a few years ago" in 1980. At that time, Fitzpatrick's job was to sample dust and noise levels. Fitzpatrick submitted his findings to the Mine Safety Health Administration which showed excessive levels in the mine, Opepegard said. Fitzpatrick did not tamper with the samples, said Opepegard, but submitted the samples he found. Fitzpatrick said when Martin County Coal received citations for exceeding Charges denied, claims countered :

"Injustice" award is called an injustice by Hammond

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said Tuesday that the Kentucky Women Advocates' "injustice" award given to him was itself an injustice and was based on erroneous and purely unfounded information.

Hammond was named as one of the five recipients of the group's "injustice" awards given at their annual meeting October 5 in Louisville.

Marsha Weinstein, speaking for Kentucky Women Advocates, said Monday that Hammond was chosen to receive the award based on the results of a statewide anonymous survey of social workers, spouse abuse center employees and Cabinet of Human Resources workers.

The group also said Hammond denied domestic violence victims the right take out warrants; refused to prosecute domestic violence cases; and had an attitude that women are second class citizens.

Hammond denied the group's charges Tuesday and countered their claims.

Weinstein pointed to a case involving Penny Hall of Floyd County that was featured in the Lexington Herald-Leader's "To Have and To Harm" series about spouse abuse and domestic violence.

Weinstein said no records of the cases were reviewed by the group and the injustice awards were based on results of the survey.

In the December 9, 1990 Herald-Leader article, Hall's case was profiled because her husband allegedly broke her jaw in December 1989 and, under a plea agreement, received a 10-day probated sentence.

Hammond said Roger Hall, Penny Hall's husband, was given a probated sentence because he had custody of the couple's 10-year-old son. Hammond also said Hall had no previous record of violence toward his wife.

A review of Hall's case showed

Hager loses suit against board :

Court rules ouster valid

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Floyd County school superintendent Ronald Hager lost his bid Tuesday to block his ouster as secretary to the board and he has been ordered to transfer custody of school records to his replacement.

Hager filed suit in August in an effort to void the Floyd County board's action removing him as board secretary and appointing assistant superintendent Gary Frazier to the post.

Special judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier, of Paintsville, ruled Tuesday that the board had not acted improperly by removing Hager from the secretary's post. In that decision, Frazier adopted a part of the argument presented by board attorney Cliff Latta in an evidentiary hearing held September 9 which contended that Hager himself had created the opportunity for the board to replace him as secretary.

"The plaintiff (Hager) prepared the agendas for both the regular board meetings held in July 1990 and July 1991," Frazier wrote in his decision. "Those agendas called for the election of the secretary to the board for the ensuing year."

Hager had argued in his suit that the board's move to replace him as secretary was in violation of a four-year contract he had with the board which named him to the post with an annual salary of $2,400 for the years 1988-92. State law was amended in 1990, however, to prohibit a superintendent who served as board secretary from being paid extra for performing the secretary's duties.

Frazier wrote in his decision Tuesday that "all parties essentially ignored the four-year contract" when the appointment of board secretary was placed on the school board's agenda in 1990 and 1991. Hager was reappointed to the position in July 1990, but Gary Frazier was named secretary this year and his appointment in July was reaffirmed by board action at a special meeting held August 8.

Frazier ruled Tuesday that Frazier's appointment "was a legal exercise of the board's authority to select its secretary for the 1991-92 school year," adding that Hager's argument that he had been denied due process in his dismissal was "without merit." The judge noted that Hager had "no due process right to be reappointed as secretary to the board for the year 1991-92."

The judge also ruled that Hager had suffered no monetary damage as a result of his ouster and that his testimony that he might suffer future damage "is purely speculative by his own admission."

Frazier's judgment directed Hager to "deliver all documents constituting the records of the Floyd County Board of Education to the new secretary." Those records are to be kept in an appropriate place at the administrative offices of the board and are to be made available to the superintendent "at all reasonable times."

Prestonsburg attorney Wally Cybriwsky, who represented Hager in the suit, said Tuesday that he had not yet read Frazier's ruling or discussed it with his client. He did say, however, that he anticipated an appeal would be filed.

Trisha Yearwood

Yearwood to headline Day in Park

Radio station WMDJ and First Guaranty National Bank are gearing up for their ninth annual Day in the Park October 20 at Stumbo Park in Allen.

This year's event will feature many local entertainers and country music star Trisha Yearwood.

Yearwood made history when she became the only female in country music to reach the number one spot with her debut single, "She's In Love With The Boy."

Her self-titled debut album has been holding strong on both country and pop charts. Her second single, "Like We Never Had A Broken Heart" is currently on the charts. Other performers include the gospel group, Soul Searchers; and country music performers Cadillac Cowboys, Prime Country, Westwind and Marlow Tackett.

Dale McKinney, a co-founder of the event and deejay at WMDJ, urges everyone attending to bring a blanket and a lawn chair and settle in for a day of country and gospel music. The event began as an appreciation day for the listeners of the radio station.

The music begins at noon and prizes will be given away. Concessions will also be available. There is no charge to attend.

that her husband, Roger Hall, admitted to striking his wife on December 4, 1989, after Mrs. Hall had left him for his brother-in-law, Teddy Spears. Spears was married to Mr. Hall's sister, Deedra Spears.

In a deposition taken during divorce proceedings, Penny Hall admitted that she had had an affair with Spears for approximately four years and left her husband to be with Spears. Mrs. Hall also admitted that she left her son with her husband because she had no way to care for him.

Court records also show that Penny Hall was charged with harassment, third degree criminal mischief and terroristic threatening for allegedly threatening to kill Spears' wife, Deedra. Mrs. Hall also allegedly destroyed property belonging to Deedra Spears.

Charges were dismissed against Penny Hall after she obeyed the court's recommendation to have no contact with Deedra Spears or her family for one year.

In October, 1989, Teddy Spears was accused of hitting Deedra Spears with his fist and hitting her minor child with a cigarette. Charges against Teddy Spears were dismissed in January 1990.

An order by Domestic Relations Commissioner George Wells in November 1990, said that Mrs. Hall alleged that she was a victim of spouse abuse and introduced evidence in that regard.

The report, however, said it did not appear that Mrs. Hall left her husband out of desperation.

"It is noted that there are cases where a parent is forced out of the home and such departure may not be used against them," the order said. "However, in the instant case, the nature of the separation and the time frame of contact is inconsistent with respondent's claims. Even if she properly took action to leave a bad marriage, it does not appear to be a case where she was so victimized that she left in desperation until she could seek help in removing the child from what is purported to be a bad situation."

The commissioner's report gave Roger Hall custody of their son and stipulated that Teddy Spears have no contact or relationship with Mrs. Hall's child.

Mrs. Hall later sued her husband for monetary compensation for her injuries.

Hammond said there are several "curious" factors in the Hall case.

Charges filed against Roger Hall, Penny Hall and Teddy Spears were in 1989 before Hammond took office, he said, and former assistant county attorney, Mickey McGuire, now represents Mrs. Hall in her dissolution of marriage and civil case. "That doesn't seem right," Hammond said Tuesday.

As for the group's other charges,

Hammond said his office can only recommend warrants be issued and it is ultimately up to the district judge or trial commissioner to issue warrants. He said he has never denied any victim of domestic violence the right to seek a warrant.

"We have gone as far as to prosecute a domestic violence case after the victim dropped charges," Hammond said. "The wife, in this instance, called me and my staff everything but a milk cow because of that. That case was ordered to the grand jury."

"My staff and myself have been warned that if we proceed with the prosecution of a case where a female teacher was threatened with physical harm by a principal that we could have political fallout if we persist in prosecution," Hammond said. "We intend to proceed."

Hammond said his office has also handled a case where a husband is accused of raping his wife.

Hammond said the allegations that he treats women as second class citizens is also unfounded.

"I have never defended a company who has been charged in a civil matter charging sexual harassment or wrongful dismissal of a female or male employees," Hammond said.

"In fact, when I was state senator, I was an outspoken supporter for Equal Rights Amendment in Kentucky."

"The group's statements were purely unfounded and based, by their own admission, on innuendo and hearsay and not on my record."

Compromise clears hurdle for road funds

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A vote tentatively set for today, Wednesday, in the U.S. House of Representatives could be the light at the end of a long tunnel in a decades-old effort to rebuild Route 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

The House vote Wednesday involves a conference report proposal to allocate $7.2 million for work on the Johnson County section of new Route 23 and could bring the total federal dollars allocated to the project to $22.2 million—just $800,000 short of the amount needed.

The effort to secure federal dollars for the Johnson County segment of the 13-mile four-laning project has been an uphill battle led by 7th District Congressman Chris Perkins, who has successfully fought two presidents and the U.S. Senate over project funds during the last five years.

Perkins' latest request—for $8 million—was deleted entirely by the Senate this year but restored, less ten percent, by a House-Senate conference report released Monday. The funding measure must now be approved by full votes in the House and Senate and then signed into law by President Bush.

Perkins said Tuesday he expected the measure to clear all hurdles and that he would seek a final allocation for the project next year.

The Prestonsburg-Paintsville project, which carries a total price tag of approximately $70 million, is divided into two packages. The Floyd County section, under construction now, is being built with state Resource Recovery Funds while the Johnson County segment has been designated a federal demonstration project.

Reconstruction of Route 23 between the Floyd and Johnson County county seats has been an issue for most of the past three decades and Perkins followed his father, the late Congressman Carl D. Perkins, in the effort to take the project from the drawing board and into the construction phase.

Perkins expressed some relief this week that the funding battle appeared to be coming to a close.

"It seems like we have to fight for these funds year after year, but the bottom line is I've been successful every time in getting that money back," Perkins said. "Hopefully, we won't have to be doing this much longer."

the dust levels, he was transferred, Oppgaard alleged.

Fitzpatrick has asked the mine safety commission to fine Marcum and Martin County Coal for their alleged acts of discrimination, and to order them to cease and desist from making threats against miners who make safety complaints. The Mine Safety Act gives miners the right to make safety complaints to their employer or to federal and state safety agencies, and the law protects them from retaliation for asserting that right, said Oppgaard, an attorney with the Mine Safety Project of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky. No date has been set for a review of the case by the commission.

Claims made in the filing of a complaint present only one side of the case. Marcum did not return calls to the Times Tuesday.

Stand Up for Workers' Rights in America.

When any law-abiding American citizen is denied the right to vote, it's a threat to the freedom and liberty of every American.

Yet that's what happened to the employees at Pikeville Methodist Hospital in Pikeville, KY. When they wanted to vote for the United Steelworkers of America to represent them, officials of the City of Pikeville arbitrarily took the workers' right to vote away. Just because they didn't want the workers' to join a union.

The actions of Pikeville's Mayor and City Commissioners are an injustice—a slap in the face—to all working people in Kentucky. Every eligible employee at the hospital deserves the opportunity to exercise their rights as American citizens.

Working people from all over the area are holding a Rally and March on Saturday, October 12th at 12:00 noon in the Pikeville City Park. To let the City officials know—American working people aren't going to let anyone steal our rights from us.

When my 18 year old son started driving 2 years ago, I realized that he was a target. While driving his car he was a target to be hit and killed by some drunk driver. Every day we read in the paper about some innocent person killed on our highways by a person driving a car while under the influence of alcohol.

A few years ago when Kentucky passed its first tough drunk driving law, my opponent went on television to apologize to the drunk drivers for having to impose a harsh sentence. Every week in the Floyd County Times we read about people convicted of second, third, fourth and fifth offense of drunk driving. Maybe those repeat offenders didn't learn from the Judge who apologized.

I will never apologize to someone who has broken the law for the punishment they are receiving. I promise to be fair and honest with all people, but I promise to uphold the law and to enforce the law with no apologies.

Legislation dictates proper disposal of lead batteries

The General Assembly passed legislation during the 1990 regular session to limit disposal methods for lead-acid batteries. Therefore, effective immediately, no person shall dispose lead-acid batteries by placing them in mixed solid waste, which includes household garbage. Lead-acid batteries may not be discarded, abandoned, or disposed at a solid waste facility such as landfills or incinerators.

The following facilities are allowed to accept lead-acid batteries for recycling or disposal:

- A facility which delivers batteries to a secondary lead smelter.
- A recycling facility.
- A retailer or wholesaler of lead-acid batteries.
- A permitted secondary lead smelter.
- A permitted hazardous waste facility which recycles the batteries by extracting the lead and chemicals for re-use.

All retailers of lead-acid batteries are required to accept a used lead-acid battery for each new battery sold, and post a notice stating the requirement to accept lead-acid batteries. Retailers must handle and store new and used batteries in a manner which prevents breakage in order to maintain an exemption from hazardous waste regulations.

All wholesalers of new lead-acid batteries are required to accept a used battery of the same type for each new battery sold. The wholesaler is also required to remove the lead-acid batteries from the retailer's place of business within 90 days after notification by the retailer that the batteries are ready for recycling or disposal. For further information call 502/564-6716.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Here's one for the record books. You know about "Rubbergate," the controversy involving the U.S. House of Representative's private bank and the fact that some congressmen have been bouncing checks there like basketballs. Get this... Florida Representative Andy Ireland is upset that the bank never informed him that he was overdrawn.

And what is Ireland's profession when he's not managing the fiscal affairs of our country?

He's a banker.

Yep, a banker.

Is it any wonder our government can't control our federal deficit?

Not when we have banker-congressmen who think that as long as they have checks in their checkbook they have money in the bank. Geez.

Guess where you'd be if you racked up a basketful of cold checks?

Making license plates, no doubt, in the nearest hoosegow. If you're a congressman, though, you'd be in Washington deciding, among other things, how to straighten out the problems facing the country's banking industry.

Only in America...

abilities and despite the fact that most think statesmanship is a Caribbean cruise liner for elected officials.

Barnacles on the ship of state. There are two ways to get rid of them:

- Sink the boat or scrape them off one at a time.

What's your pleasure?

Oops. Almost forgot. There is a third alternative for eliminating useless congressmen and darned if Kentucky isn't using that system right now.

Since the number of congressmen per state is determined by population, all we have to do to get rid of one or two is depopulate.

There are several ways to accomplish that:

- Hide the family under the bed when census takers come calling.

- Drive often on Route 23 (the Louisa bypass is a proven depopulation zone).

- Wear antlers in the woods during deer season.

- Umpire Little League baseball games.

The end will justify the means.

Read a report over the weekend concerning a survey which indicated that the American public would be unlikely to adopt the First Amendment to our constitution if a vote were held today.

This year just happens to mark the 200th birthday of that amendment, which provides us the right of free speech, religion, the freedom of the press, the right to peacefully assemble and the right to gripe at our government.

We are not among those who would forsake those precious rights for any reasons.

The First Amendment: don't leave home without it.

Personal life—private,
no trespassing
by Jeannie G. Reeser

Most of us believe that when the workday ends and we head home, we are on our own time: What we do during non-working hours is our business, nobody else's. Whether that means having a beer, enjoying a steak, smoking a cigarette or riding a motorcycle, legal, after-hours activities are not the boss's concern.

Unfortunately, not everyone agrees with this. Many employers are taking it upon themselves to dictate employees' lifestyle choices.

Employers increasingly are refusing to hire—and are even firing—workers because of personal, legal lifestyle choices made at home and away from work. As far as I'm concerned, this is discrimination, plain and simple—and, sadly, it is becoming more and more widespread.

If such invasions of privacy are not addressed now, what next? Soon, any activity could be grounds for discrimination—even eating jelly donuts, drinking coffee or choosing to shoot the rapids on your vacation.

The old saying that you shouldn't take your job home with you has become the battle cry of some Americans forced to abide by employer-imposed codes of behavior during non-working hours.

In fact, a poll released recently by LEXIS/National Law Journal indicated that a quarter of all respondents felt they had experienced workplace discrimination, and more than three-quarters of those polled believed that most or all employers practice some form of discrimination in hiring or promoting employees.

Another survey, conducted for Equifax Inc. by Lou Harris and Associates, found that Americans overwhelmingly believe employee privacy should be respected. Eighty-five percent of the poll respondents thought it inappropriate for an employer to check into the lifestyles or political associations of job applicants. A survey by the National Consumers League found that 81 percent of Americans believe that employers have no right to refuse to hire an overweight person. Seventy-six percent of the respondents said it was wrong to refuse to hire a smoker.

I sponsored legislation—which is now law—in the House of Representatives in my state, Colorado. I'm proud that Colorado has served as a leader on this important issue. And many other states have since followed suit.

It's a sad commentary that the situation necessitates legislation. We shouldn't have to pass laws that post "Private, No Trespassing" signs on the personal lives of employees. Unfortunately, the current climate, with all its Big Brother overtones, demands that legislators take this action before we lose one of the most fundamental rights Americans enjoy.

Legislative Perspective

by: Greg Stumbo

As public schools across the Commonwealth once again ring welcoming school bells for the 1991-92 school students, the education reform mandate commences its second year of development in the academic system.

Two impressive primary school programs, one in its second stage and one premiering this fall have every aspect of being superior learning tools for young students. Section 16 of the reform law directs each school district to provide a half-day preschool program for "at risk" four-year-olds. The definition of "at risk" is those children who qualify for free lunch.

Understanding that the education reforms are based upon the premise that all children can learn and at high levels, the preschool program has the potential to provide "at risk" children that extra academic influence that will allow them to start primary school on an equal footing with the average Kentucky child.

During the 1990-91 school year, 130 of 176 school districts initiated preschool programs. Within those programs a variety of collaboration styles emerged. These ranged from the school district totally contracting the program to another agency to operate; blending facilities, and transportation; sharing waiting lists, to little or no cooperation. Collaboration insures that services are not duplicated and it increases the comprehensive sharing of information and resources as well as decreasing the costs of services provided.

Thirty nine percent of Kentucky's four-year-olds are perceived to be "at risk". In the 1990-91 school year 64 percent of all eligible children were served by a preschool program. This school year the four-year-old preschool is expected to serve 83 percent of all "at risk" children.

The ungraded primary school program has commenced with the opening of school this fall. The philosophy of the primary program recognizes that children grow and develop as a whole, not one dimension at a time or at the same rate in each dimension.

The program provides a classroom climate which is non-competitive and encourages children to learn from one another as well as from their teachers. And, diversity of skills and knowledge is accepted and accommodated by grouping and regrouping children to achieve maximum achievement levels.

The aim of the program is to allow for the broad range of children's needs, learning styles, knowledge, experiences, and interests. Children can experience success while progressing according to their unique learning needs. And making this concept special is the role that parents play in their children's learning process. Teachers will regularly collaborate, plan, consult, and involve parents to create for the child the atmosphere most conducive to his learning abilities.

In a research study comparing schools with ungraded primary levels, the following results surfaced:

*comparisons using standardized achievement tests favor nongradedness; *comparisons using a mental health component favor nongradedness;

*fewer children spend longer-than-usual time in nongraded levels; and *it is particularly beneficial for underachievers to learn in the ungraded atmosphere.

It is an exciting time for education and we are all watching with hopeful anticipation that the children are the real winners of this new era in education.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE ACT CAN HELP MANY KENTUCKY FAMILIES

I know that a vast majority of Kentuckians would agree that the preservation of our family values is the key to the future of this state and nation.

One of our greatest challenges is to maintain these values at a time when more and more parents are being forced to enter the work force in order to make ends meet. More than half of the young children of this nation now have working mothers—and this number is expected to reach 65 percent by 1995.

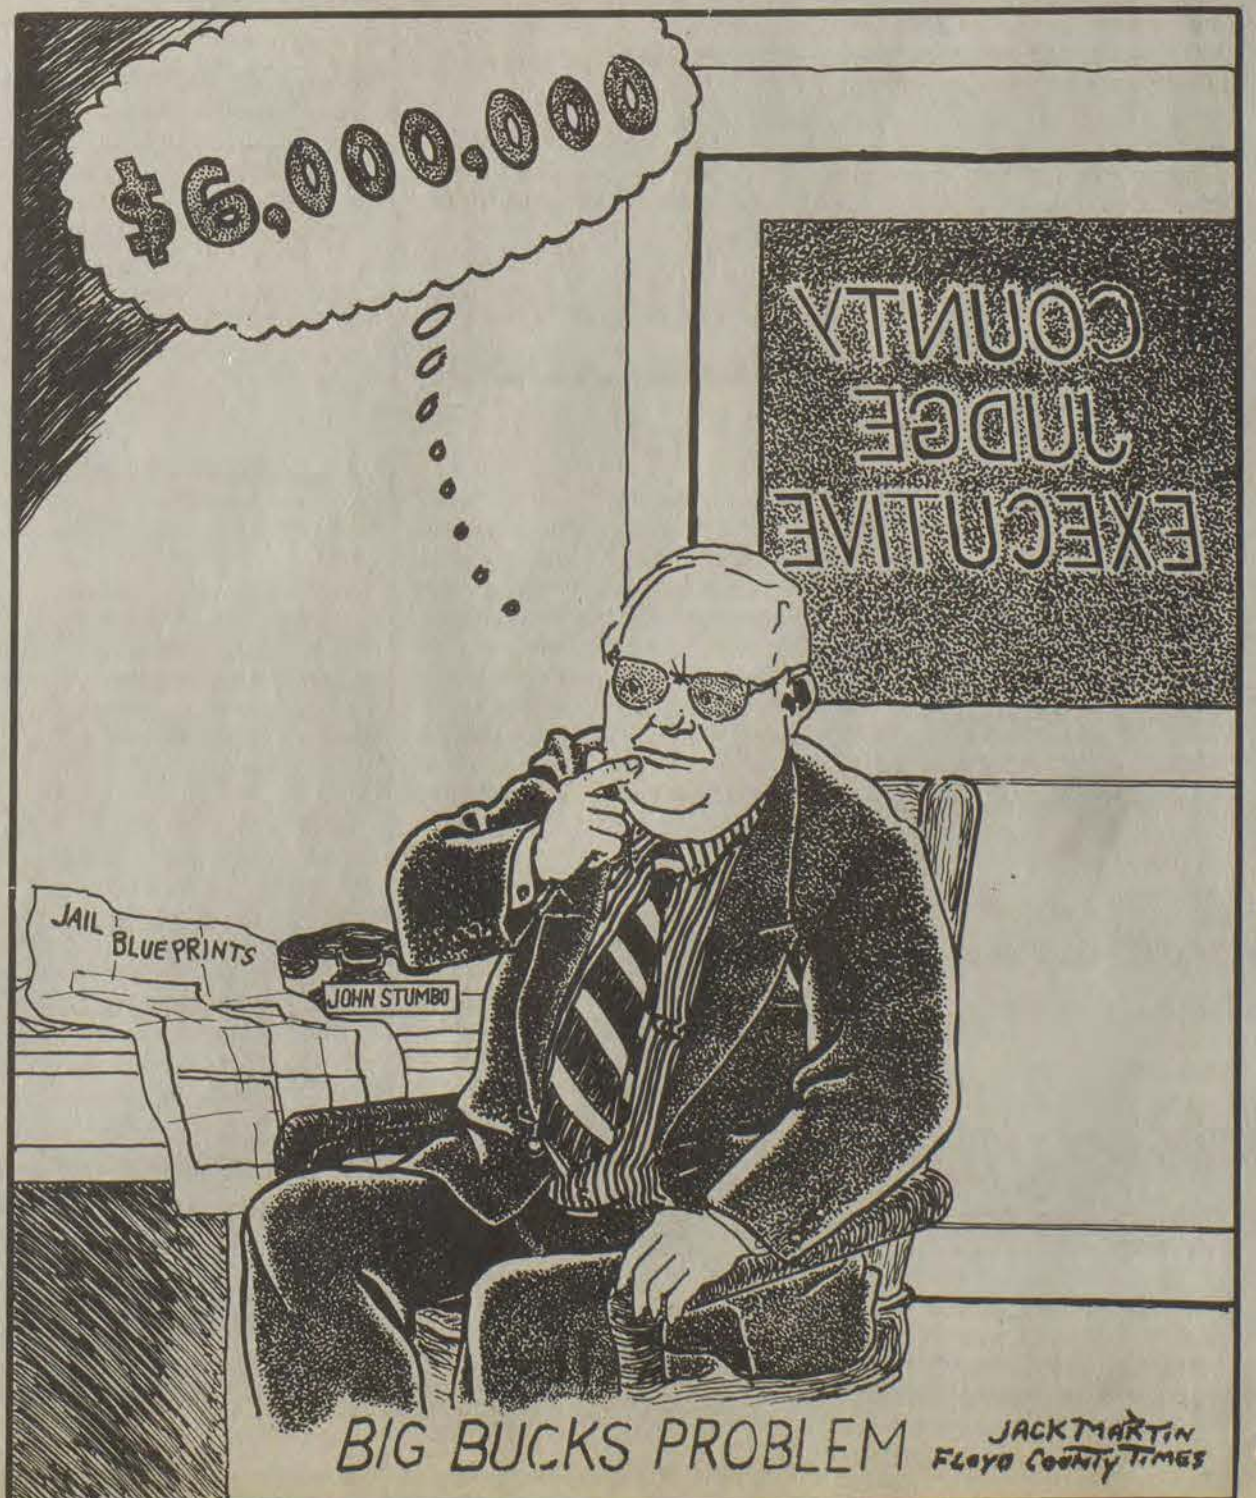

The ripple effect of a changing and highly competitive world is being felt in every part of our nation, rural as well as urban. The number of working women across Kentucky rose from 592,000 to 666,000 between 1979 and 1987 and continues to rise.

The resulting stress on family life represents a challenge of leadership affecting all levels of government along with the private sector. I am pleased to report that the U.S. Senate has now taken one crucial step toward meeting this challenge by passing our Family and Medical Leave Act of 1991.

This bill will provide up to 12 weeks of unpaid annual leave for the birth or adoption of a child or any serious illness affecting an employee or his or her child, spouse or parent. Enforcement provisions are reasonable, and small businesses with 50 employees or less are exempted. The remaining 5 percent of all employers, accounting for more than half of our nation's total work force, can meet the provisions of this bill for as little as $5.30 a year for each employee.

I was very pleased to join with Senators Christopher S. Bond (R-MO) and Dan Coats (R-IN) in offering this bipartisan compromise to break a deadlock on legislation introduced by Senator Christopher J. Dodd (D-CT).

I urge all concerned Kentuckians to support our efforts to overcome every obstacle to the Family and

HRMC employees participate in workshop

Death by fire is preventable

"Even the most concerned parents may not realize that the number one killer of children is preventable injuries," says Sharon L. Rengers, R.N., burn prevention educator at Kosair Children's Hospital.

It is alarming to consider 8,000 children die and 50,000 more are disabled by events that didn't have to happen. House fires are one of the top killers. Annually more than 1,200 children die and 11,000 are injured in home fires. Twenty-four percent of the children who perish in fire die in child-set fires. Tragically, 90 percent of all childhood fire deaths occur in homes without working smoke detectors.

"We have all read the headlines this year," Rengers says: "Two killed in fire at home;" "Three children hospitalized after being pulled from house fire;" "Family of four perishes in house fire—no smoke detector present." Headlines like these appear daily in newspapers across the country. In the Louisville-metro area alone, 11 children were killed in home fires that were not protected by working smoke detectors. So far in 1991, Kosair Children's has treated 82 children for burns.

Yet, when was the last time you changed the batteries in your detector? When was the last time you tested the battery? Ever cleaned it? How can you be sure the detector is working properly if you don't test and maintain it regularly?

What can we as individuals do? Rengers says it's as easy as these seven steps:

- 1) Keep lighters and matches out of children's reach.
- 2) Teach older children that lighters and matches are tools that are used with certain precautions.
- 3) Install a smoke detector on every level of your home.
- 4) Test the battery once per month.
- 5) Clean the smoke detector regularly. Dirt can "confuse" the detector and it may malfunction.
- 6) Replace the batteries at least once per year. A good way to remember to do this is to do it the same time you change your clocks in the fall and spring.
- 7) Practice escape plans with children. Having early warning won't help if they don't know how to respond. You only have about three minutes to escape, so planning ahead is critical.

In Memory Of Danny Blanton

Dear Danny,
October 9th is your 43rd birthday and we were not able to give you a gift before God took you away. We are sure you received a better gift from God than anyone of us could have given you. Honey, we miss you so much, have cried so many tears and grieved so much for you. God knew best for you, because you won't suffer any more or have any sorrows. Darling, we know you have joined a band of angels and have met Pa Paw Lee Stumbo in heaven. We know it was a happy meeting as you and he loved each other so much. Darling, you are our loss and heaven's gain. We will meet you all up there some day when God calls us away. Honey, if you could have seen the friends you had upon your passing away, you would have had great joy. You had so many pretty flowers, but you were our flower. We loved you so much.

Small Family Day Care Program grows as Kentuckians seek quality child care

Kentucky's two-year-old program to create more high quality child care in home settings has approved 139 sites with another 90 authorized to operate while undergoing certification.

That means skilled care, stimulating activities and nutritious meals provided by trained child care-givers in safe homes for more than 650 young children under the state Department for Social Services' Small Family Day Care Home Certification Program.

It also means many small businesses providing an in-home income, businesses that are eligible for up to $160 a month reimbursement for food expenses from the federal Child Care Food Program.

"Our aim has been to get resources where there is a lack of day care centers," said Lydia Roberts, who heads the department's child care services branch. "Also, we want to offer an option for quality care. Some parents prefer a home setting rather than a day care center, especially for infants."

"At the same time, this program assures parents that there is a certain level of quality attached to the home that is certified."

The child care branch has another

39 applications in some stage of the certification process—or a potential of 117 more child care slots.

Roberts said that while the agency is pleased with the response to date, many more spaces for children are needed, especially in counties where job training programs for eligible low-income or unemployed parents provide reimbursement for child care. Certified homes are especially needed in far western and southeastern areas of Kentucky.

The small family day care home certification, for sites serving three or fewer unrelated children, is voluntary. Kentucky law requires a license and annual inspections for day care centers serving four or more children.

"Some providers who apply for voluntary certification go on to pursue licensing to expand their small day care business, thus creating more openings for children," Roberts said.

Small family day care certification brings several benefits, including free technical assistance, a newsletter that promotes professionalism and networking with other day care operators, partial reimbursement for meals through the federal child care food program, approval to advertise that the site meets high child care standards, and eligibility for subsidies to care for children from certain low-income or multi-problem families.

Operators find the Handbook for Small Family Day Care Homes a very helpful part of the certification process, Roberts said. It covers child development, discipline, learning and play activities, medical and safety concerns, nutrition, parent involvement, marketing and records keeping.

Certification is free, but a fee is required for a criminal records check. Day care home operators may need to pay for six hours of training in first aid, nutrition and child development that they must complete within six months.

Other requirements include a physician's assurance of physical ability to care for small children and freedom from tuberculosis, character references, and a home environment meeting reasonable health and safety standards.

Those who apply receive permission to open once basic requirements are met. Full certification comes only after an on-site visit.

For information call the Child Care Services Branch, Department of Social Services, at 1-800-421-1903.

PCC to present World Hunger Telecast

New, free-market economic policies now spreading through Latin America and the Caribbean and their impact on hunger and poverty will be the theme of the eighth annual World Food Day satellite teleconference, which will be held on Wednesday, October 16. Locally, this conference, entitled "The Hunger Puzzle: Adding the Macroeconomics and International Pieces," will be facilitated at Prestonsburg Community College in Room J102 from 12:00 noon to 3:00 P.M.

Sponsored by the U.S. National Committee for World Food Day, a coalition of more than 450 private voluntary organizations, the October telecast and supporting materials for student participants is made possible through the cooperation of the Agency for International Development, the United States Information Agency (USIA), the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, the Monterey Institute of Technology in Monterey, Mexico, and the Brazilian Ministry of Agriculture.

The three-hour teleconference broadcast will feature an international panel of development experts which will discuss how international debt, declining terms of trade and poor economic development planning have contributed to a "lost decade" in Latin America and Caribbean progress.

The theme reflects a growing Hemisphere-wide debate over what has been an historic seachange in accepted economic development theory over the past few years. Governments throughout the region are jettisoning systems of pervasive state control and ownership and reintroducing free-market and free-enterprise principals. But critics say the new policies aren't working, that they put an impossible burden on the poor and that they are being adopted under coercion by foreign creditors and international lending agencies.

Panelists for the program this year will include Brazilian Minister of Agriculture Antonio Cabrera, who is also Brazil's main negotiator in the GATT international trade talks, economic futurist Hazel Henderson, Norman Hicks, economic advisor for Latin America and the Caribbean at the World Bank, and Caribbean development specialist Atherton Martin of Dominica. The moderator will be syndicated columnist and author Georgie Ann Geyer, and TV/film star

Eddie Albert will serve as host.

"Our Hemisphere outreach is still in the pilot stage," says Patricia Young, national coordinator of the U.S., World Food Day committee, "but we expect to have sites in at least a dozen countries. Next year, with the interest generated by the International Conference on Nutrition to follow in December, we expect to have a truly multinational program, with the other countries sharing in the planning as well as the telecast itself."

Organizers believe the teleconference has developed into a unique and highly effective development education program. On-site activities at the hundreds of participating colleges and universities in the U.S. have created a nationwide simultaneous seminar program on the selected theme. Many of the observances of World Food Day last several days, and students sometimes earn course credit for participation. Special "study/action" packets of materials are sent to all participating schools by the national Food Day office. Participation at the sites ranges from a single class to several hundred students, faculty and community guests.

Continuing education credits for teleconference participation will be offered again this year by the American Dietetic Association, the American Home Economics Association and, through the Catholic University of America, for clergy and social service professionals.

Beyond the closed circuit teleconference hook-up, networks and stations which will offer all or part of the World Food Day program include: the AgSat Network, the Catholic Telecommunications Network of America, the Learning Channel, Vision Interfaith Satellite Network, PBS Adult Learning Satellite Service and individual PBS, educational TV and cable stations.

Young stresses that the teleconference and the activities surrounding it prove that there is a university audience for serious, in-depth programming on development issues. She also points out that use of the teleconference and its study/action packet are increasingly used in a wide range of college credit courses.

"We think our Hemisphere outreach is a tremendous breakthrough," Young says. "Through World Food Day we are bringing together the young people of all these countries to explore our common problems. We are trying to practice what we preach, which is 'ideas in action'."

World Food Day, which began in 1981, is now observed in more than 150 countries around the world each October. The day marks the founding of the Food and Agriculture Organization, which has its headquarters in Rome, Italy. Standing national committees have been formed in almost 100 countries and have been linked since 1989 in a World Food Day Confederation designed to bring non-governmental organizations and their views to the attention of the various UN agencies dealing with food and nutrition problems.

Starting your own business

The East Kentucky Small Business Development Center will offer a seminar entitled "Starting Your Own Business," on Thursday, October 17 from 6-9 p.m. at the Johnson County Public Library, Main Street Paintsville.

The seminar will be conducted by Michael J. Morley, director for the Pikeville Small Business Development Center. It is open to the public and free of charge.

Sponsored by Morehead State University and The East Kentucky Small Business Development Center, the seminar will address several issues including, getting started, knowing your market, understanding cash flow and raising money.

This program is available to all individuals without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin and arrangements will be made to accommodate handicapped when request accompanies advanced registration.

VOTE FOR AND ELECT

Harold Stumbo for Circuit Judge

A Circuit Judge must be a moral leader and a person who believes in simple justice.

He or she must make decisions which are just and fair to Floyd Countians. This person must work with the local Bar Association in order to give the public speedy trials.

A long delay in the trial of a case is an obstruction to justice. Speedy trials without unnecessary delay will obtain justice. The judge and the local Bar Association must create and promote the above. It is therefore essential that the judge have experience, judicial wisdom and the moral leadership to have the simple justice that we need in this judicial district.

PCC student receives award

Prestonsburg Community College student Jack Kelly Joseph, son of Jack and June Joseph of Paintsville, and the grandson of Girden Joseph, owner of Maggard and Joseph, received two of four awards presented in a health care program held in Lexington recently.

Joseph was one of 40 students selected from across Kentucky to attend HCOP, Health Care Opportunities Program, in Lexington. This nearly two-months-long summer program gives students who plan to enter health careers a chance to observe surgery, work in emergency room and take short courses in chemistry, biology, and physics. They also meet review boards for pharmacy, dentistry and medical schools.

At the end of the program, four awards were given to outstanding participants: one for biology, one for chemistry, one for physics, and a 110 percent award for the person who put forth the most effort and showed the most gains. PCC's Joseph won both the chemistry award and the 110 percent award.

Joseph was also selected last spring as one of Prestonsburg Community College's entries in Who's Who in Community and Junior Colleges.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

Every bank likes to loan large sums to qualified customers. But, at First Guaranty National Bank, we welcome the opportunity to make even the smallest loan too. We know that small beginnings can lead to steady and constant growth because we were small once too.

When we first opened back in 1946, we made small loans to our neighbors. Young couples borrowed just enough to fix up a place to start housekeeping. Soon, families grew and eagerly anticipated a new home of their own.

We were especially pleased when those couples came back to let us finance their new homes. Folks didn't move around much in those days and homes were built with a lifetime in mind. A lot of care and planning were involved and we were there to help.

First Guaranty National Bank is and always has been locally owned so we've been around to watch as those homes assumed characters all their own. We've seen skinny seedlings grow into tall shade trees and flower beds flourish more beautifully each year. Now some of those homes are called the old homeplace and the memories they hold are precious.

Yes, small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank. They give us the opportunity to meet needs and to establish lasting relationships with new customers. Relationships that have taken us from a brand new bank back in 1946 to a strong and sound financial institution today. So sound, in fact, that we are one of only three banks in Kentucky recognized in the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

Child care workshop at HCC

A "School Age Child Care" workshop has been scheduled for October 26 at the Hazard Community College Conference Center. This workshop will provide information about philosophy, curriculum, programming, and guidance techniques for children ages 4 through 12.

The workshop is open to the public for a cost of $10 per participant. Since the workshop is limited to 50 participants, pre-paid reservations are recommended.

The workshop will be held at the HCC Continuing Education Center (old Hazard ARH) building from 9 a.m. until noon. Beginning at 9 a.m. will be a discussion of "What is School Age Child Care?" At 10 a.m. will be a "Make-it, Take-it" session where participants will learn to make eight items ideal as student activities; participants can keep their creations! A discussion of "Guidance Techniques that Work" will be held at 11:30.

Presenters at the workshop are Julie Goodan, director of the Somerset School Age Care Program and Norma Meek, director of the Boyd County School Age Care Program. Both Goodan and Meek were facilitators at a "School Age Child Care (SACC) Leadership Conference held at Berea College and are very active in their support of SACC.

This workshop is jointly sponsored by Hazard Community College and Prestonsburg Community College. Funding is provided through a federal block grant for dependent care planning and development in conjunction with the Governor's office, Kentucky Department of Education and Cabinet for Human Resources.

Talent extraordinaré

Members of the Floyd County Arts were honored at a reception at Prestonsburg Community College recently. FLOYD COUNTY ARTS HOLD EXHIBIT AT PCC GALLERY

by Duna Combs

The variety of art works recently displayed in the Prestonsburg Community College's art gallery shared one thing in common: each work was the result of sustained and singular effort by a maker, either in solitude — or at most — away from social distractions. In truth, the making of an art work is the primary focus of the individual in a shop, studio or atelier as the artist adjusts, changes, enhances or refines what he has begun.

Absolutely crucial to each emerging form, each work ranging from the handcrafted wooden horse quilt stretchers by Carlos Neeley to hand-forged knives by Willard Lafferty and Tom Bormes, to the keyhole pine furniture of Jim Daniels, to baskets, fantasy dwellings, shocking-faced gourds, to the turned wooden bowls by Roy May, to paintings, clay, and etching. They all share a commodity that everyone wishes he had more of and only a few think they have too much of — time.

It takes a great deal of time to release an elegant wooden form from natural wood done so elegantly by Roy May of Langley. An oil portrait of Russell May by Johnny Stumbo has light and realism and reminds one of the work of the French artist, Le tour. There was a chance to feel the moonlight washing over a snow covered hill and patio by Ralph Dingus. Another painting, totally abstract, by LeMayne Dingus, which reminds one of rust-colored pockmarks on metal and which points out his concern about the environment. Nearby was displayed a pastel work of the face of a collie, perfectly rendered by Debbie Stephens.

In all, there were around 40 pieces displayed in the show which gave a glimpse of the diverse art media members of the Floyd County Arts (Brenda Crouch, director) create. Also among the work exhibited were vine-twisted, wooden canes by Russell Rice and Tom May. These artists have an uncanny manner of turning wooden sticks into the highest form of art. Creating human forms or snake forms hiding in the thicket, these artists seemed to sense what was already there in the natural wood through additional carving and a meticulous bright color painting of the surface eruptions, informing the canes with the highest individual response, not unlike the early man's bone carvings of 20,000 years ago.

Many artists took time from their shops and studios to put up their works on display, to create an exhibit that was truly unique. Those who missed this display of Floyd County talent will be able to view the works of Floyd County Arts in a Spring exhibition at the college.

Small children and buckets don't mix

During the past five years in the United States, 113 children have drowned in five-gallon industrial sized buckets.

Parents of young children take a huge risk by leaving any container filled with liquid unattended. Children are very curious and also top heavy. It takes less than a minute for the child to discover the bucket, lose balance, fall in and drown.

Not only do youngsters lack the coordination and physical strength to get themselves out of a bucket once they have fallen in, but industrial buckets are tip-resistant, which reduces a child's chance of escape.

We need a home

Brothers seek adoptive family

These handsome, young, healthy brothers are 11 and 8. They have been in foster care on different occasions because of abuse. Vincent (born January 6, 1979) will be in the fifth grade this fall. He is in a special class but has made steady progress in school. He is a sensitive child who becomes uncomfortable in new situations and around strangers. He sometimes regresses to behaviors of an insecure toddler. Vincent needs a family that can build his self-esteem, and thus help him grow emotionally.

Lee (born January 11, 1982) is very different from Vincent. He goes right up to new people and new situations and joins immediately. Lee is also in a special school class.

Both boys love the typical games and toys of average boys their ages. They enjoy Nintendo, other video games, Ninja turtles, and bikes. They agree that pizza and spaghetti are their favorite foods. By the way, Vincent loves spinach, too. They love each other but as one might suspect they fight and argue some of the time.

If you would like more information on these brothers or any other children in the Special Needs Adoption Program, please call your local Department of Social Services at 886-8192 or the special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346.

New EPA lead rule to take effect soon

Monitoring for lead in drinking water is required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to begin in January 1992 for systems that supply more than 50,000 customers. Those systems supplying 3,300 to 50,000 customers must begin monitoring in July 1992, and those serving fewer than 3,300 customers will begin in July 1993.

Lead, a highly toxic metal that serves no known useful function in the body, accumulates in bones and soft tissue of the body. It can interfere with the formation of red blood cells, cause premature birth or reduced birth weight, delay physical and mental development in babies and young children, and impair mental abilities in children in general. It can increase blood pressure and interfere with hearing in adults, and at high levels of exposure can cause anemia, kidney damage, and mental retardation. The U.S. EPA classifies lead as a probable human carcinogen.

In general, lead levels in drinking water are low, contributing to only 10 percent to 20 percent of total lead exposure by children. Most childhood exposure is by contact with old paint, soil, and dust.

Lead occurs in drinking water usually through corrosion of pipes, solder, and other plumbing materials in homes and other buildings. In approximately 1 percent of water systems, lead occurs in the source supply. Some older water supply systems may still have lead pipes in their distribution systems.

The new U.S. EPA regulations, published June 7, 1991, in the Federal Register, include:

- *maximum contaminant level for lead of 5 parts per billion (ppb) at the plant, and an action level of 15 ppb at the tap
- *monitoring requirements and analytical methods
- *treatment technique requirements that include corrosion-control treatment, source water treatment, public education, and lead service line replacement
- *utility record-keeping and reporting requirements
- *public notification
- *variances and exemptions

In Kentucky, efforts were being made even before the latest regulations to reduce the public's exposure to lead and to educate people about its potential effects.

As a result of the Safe Drinking Water Act, all public drinking water systems in Kentucky published notices to advise the public of the adverse health effects of lead in drinking water. The Kentucky Division of Water, as well as the state plumbing code, has already banned lead from plumbing in all public drinking water systems.

Following passage of the lead contamination and control act, the division advised local school districts, day-care facilities, and nursing homes of the potential adverse health effects of lead. The division provided them with the EPA's publication regarding water coolers containing lead, as well as a list of labs approved by the state to test drinking water for lead. The division also urged them to have their water tested.

In addition, the Division of Water, in conjunction with the Cabinet for Human Resources and the Department of Education, has held workshops around the state to educate the public about the problems of lead in drinking water.

Color Forecast

Week 3/October 7, 1991

Brilliant reds, glowing oranges, bright yellows and a variety of color combinations are blanketing the state. Colder temperatures have resulted in dramatic change, with an average color percentage around 35-40 percent. Many areas are expecting peak conditions to possibly arrive as soon as the 15th. The following is a summary of current leaf conditions based on reports from 35 observers across the Bluegrass State.

Eastern Region: As expected, the areas around Carter Caves and Kingdom Come State Park have surpassed the 50 percent level and are sitting at about 60 percent coloration right now. Most areas report 25-30 percent change, with the Morehead and Prestonsburg areas closing in on 50 percent. Peak predictions range anywhere from 10 days to two weeks.

North Central Region: Rapid change is reported throughout this region with leaf observers noting an average of about 35-40 percent change in colors. Sugar Maples are orange, Sassafras are maroon, Oaks are rustic and Ashes are yellow near Buckley Sanctuary and across the way into Bernheim Forest our observers say Sweetgum, Hickory and Sassafras are near 30 percent.

South Central Region: Coloration continues to move somewhat slower, as leaf color changes are on a range as low as 10 percent near Rough River and as high as 40 percent near Campbellsville, where they're expecting peak conditions in about a week to 10 days.

Western Region: McClean County trees are near 40 percent as a good frost over the weekend helped speed up the color changing process. Overall, colors are in a range of 20-30 percent with peaks being targeted at 10-14 days.

For an up-to-date report on fall foliage conditions and general travel information, call the toll-free Color Connection, 1-800-22-TRIP (8747).

Workshop scheduled for water supply planners

Every citizen in the Commonwealth of Kentucky has an opportunity to be part of a planning process that will help ensure adequate water for each community for the next 20 years.

Legislation passed by the 1990 General Assembly requires that each county prepare a water supply plan. The regulation issued to help implement this legislation calls for two public meetings before decisions are made concerning goals and objectives and selection of water supply alternatives. All citizens have a chance to be heard at these meetings.

In addition, interested people may serve on the planning council that will oversee the planning process; focus and even encourage planning councils to expand planning goals to include local priorities such as well-head protection, growth management, non-municipal supplies (wells, cisterns, springs), and agricultural uses; encourage conservation and other water efficiency possibilities; provide planning assistance, such as research, policy advice, facilitation, or sponsorship of public input meetings; initiate the process, influencing how and when the county begins.

Area development districts and county governments are working within their own groups as well as with one another to begin the planning process. Some groups are already organizing councils and meetings. Contact your water supplier to find out what plans have been made and when public input meetings are scheduled.

For those who are interested in being involved in the process, a workshop is scheduled for October 25 at the Kentucky Horse Park. To find out more about the new water supply planning regulation or the workshop, contact the Water Quantity Management Section of the Kentucky Division of Water, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 (telephone 502/564-3410).

The Division of Water is serving as a resource for the workshop that is sponsored by the Kentucky Conservation Committee, Community Farm Alliance, Gateway Regional Environment-Education Network, Kentucky Local Governance Project, Kentucky Resources Council and the Sierra Club.

New Eyes for the Needy sets goal for its 60th year

New Eyes for the Needy is about to celebrate its 60th year of helping the needy. In honor of this milestone, the organization has set a goal of one million pairs of eyeglasses to be recycled during 1992. What started as a simple idea — recycling used eyeglasses for those who couldn't afford to buy their own — has become a nationwide cause. Radio stations in almost every state will be sending forth public service announcements for New Eyes requesting eyeglasses for recycling.

"We were into recycling long before there was such a word," says Patricia McGinley, President of New Eyes for the Needy.

"We have never solicited a single penny," continued McGinley. "We only ask people for what they're about to throw away."

This Short Hills, New Jersey, organization grew out of an idea of Mrs. Arthur Terry of Short Hills when she worked during the Depression as a volunteer in a Red Cross food depot in New York City. There she processed the food tickets which many recipients couldn't see to sign. She began by collecting used glasses from friends to give to the poor, but she soon broadened her recycling effort with the help of good publicity.

A non-profit organization, New Eyes for the Needy has helped over 4 million people to see. The organization has its own building in Short Hills where over 170 volunteers have been taught to sort and classify the donated eyeglasses.

Metal frames, old watches, broken and unwanted jewelry are sought for their metal value. Such precious metal scrap is sent to a refinery where the metal is melted down and the cash proceeds are used to purchase new prescription glasses for those in the United States who can't afford them.

Simple non-astigmatic lenses in plastic frames go to medical missions around the world. Non-prescription sunglasses are prized in bright, hot countries. Over the years, New Eyes for the Needy has expanded its recycling to include hearing aids as well.

Every week New Eyes holds sales of antique jewelry and silver along with resalable costume jewelry. Proceeds from these sales add significantly to the funds which New Eyes can use for the purchase of new eyeglasses.

Heartwarming stories have come from all parts of the world from people this organization has helped.

-10 year old Timmy of Waco, Texas, who loves to play baseball but always struck out because he couldn't see the ball, now is one of the top batters in his class with glasses from New Eyes . . .

-a child from Taiwan Free China sees for the first time in his life after cataract surgery and glasses from New Eyes . . .

-The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind wrote New Eyes: "We regret that you are unable to share in the joys that result from your magnificent efforts - the joy of an elderly client reading a newspaper for the first time in many, many years . . . and the little ones who have entered school with the best possible vision . . ."

-From a Methodist foreign mission: "We are delighted to learn that 80 cataract glasses are on the way. We do surgery every day. These people are farmers who have hardly enough to keep body and soul together . . ."

Many organizations have made a project of collecting for New Eyes. You can find collection boxes in banks, shopping centers and libraries. The Lions and Kiwanis clubs are among those who help collect used glasses. Every day hundreds of packages arrive from all over the country at New Eyes headquarters.

"Setting a goal of 1,000,000 pairs of eyeglasses is an ambitious one," said McGinley, "but we wanted to do something important to celebrate our 60th year. Helping as many people as we can to see is an important goal for New Eyes."

You can help New Eyes achieve this remarkable goal. Send your used eyeglasses or unwanted jewelry to New Eyes for the Needy, Short Hills, New Jersey 07078.

Sudden Infant Death Syndrome :

An unexpected tragedy, but help is available

A healthy happy baby dies while asleep. The infant was not abused or neglected. Nor was the child sick. The doctor declared the baby healthy and normal at a recent well child check-up.

Tragically this scenario is played out nearly 100 times in Kentucky every year when a baby dies of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), sometimes called crib death.

Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson has proclaimed October 13-19 as SIDS Awareness Week in Kentucky.

Jane Bond, SIDS counselor at the Floyd County Health Department says that SIDS is the sudden and unexpected death of a seemingly well infant whose death remains unexplained even after an autopsy.

"Because doctors can't give the family a reason for the death, their grief is compounded by feelings of guilt—many times they blame themselves for the death of their child," she said.

"But in SIDS death, no one is to blame because the deaths are not caused by something the family did or did not do," Bond said. "Since all of these emotions are extremely difficult to deal with, we offer counseling for families who have experienced a SIDS death."

A network of SIDS counselors is available to help families in all 120 Kentucky counties work through a SIDS crisis. The counselors are usually contacted by emergency room personnel, funeral directors, or coroners when an infant dies of SIDS.

The counselor will set up an appointment to talk with the family about the death.

"The main thing that we offer is information about SIDS — we want them to know the facts because that seems to help them cope," Bond said. "We explain that doctors know of no way to prevent SIDS and that the family didn't do anything to cause it."

We try to listen and answer their questions."

"We also check on older brothers and sisters in the family because sometimes they feel guilt and confusion, especially if no one has explained to the what has happened."

"Many times the brothers and sisters need special attention that grieving families might not be able to provide right away," she said. "So, it helps them to have someone who will listen."

Bond said that friends and other family members can help parents by simply being there to listen.

"It can be a tremendous comfort to parents to have someone to share their thoughts," she said. "And don't forget that the father is hurting just as much as the mother and needs the same type of understanding."

More information on SIDS is available from Jane Bond at the Floyd County Health Department at 886-2788.

Plan for your child's college education costs today

You may remember that the Kentucky Educational Savings Plan Trust (KESPT) was established through legislation passed by the 1988 General Assembly. The KESPT was created to help families save, in a planned way, to meet projected costs of higher education. This program is administered by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority, a state government agency.

Savings Plan Trust accounts may be opened at any time for any beneficiary under age 15. All it takes is a sincere commitment to a college savings program plus a minimum $25 to open the account and minimum $25 payments according to an installment schedule custom-designed by the family or individual beneficiary. Savings Plan Trust account funds can be applied to programs at accredited institutions of higher learning anywhere in the United States. Additionally, the KESPT has a special incentive — the Endowment Fund. This fund will supplement Savings Plan Trust participants with a financial bonus for students attending Kentucky institutions.

To receive more information about sending your child to college by participating in the Kentucky Educational Savings Plan Trust write to K.H.E.A.A., K.E.S.P.T., 1050 U.S. 127 South, Suite 102, Frankfort, KY 40601-4323, or call 1-800-338-0318.

A Look At Sports

MARTY WAS UPSET.....

Friday night coming back from Shelby Valley where the Prestonsburg Blackcats had just defeated the Wildcats in high school football, I thought I would turn on the radio and listen to the Cincinnati Reds and San Diego Padres as I journeyed back to Floyd County. I turned the squawk box on just in time to take in the comments of one Marty Brenaman as he revealed his displeasure of the Los Angeles Dodgers and manager Tommy Lasorda in particular. To say that Marty was upset was to say the least. He did not take too kindly to the comments coming out of Tinsel Town about the Reds laying down for the Atlanta Braves in their three game series. Said Marty, "You just have to consider the source out in Los Angeles." Marty, and of course the old lefthander, Joe Nuxhall, made it no secret that they were pulling for the Braves to take the division title.

Well, that is just about the way all America felt, except maybe the ones in the Los Angeles area (but maybe that's not America). Arrangement, pride and selfishness has a way of turning people off in anything. Especially if you want the world to know, or you are trying to tell the world, that you are the best. Well, the best of the west right now is the Atlanta Braves.

Marty made the classic comment: "I'd rather see the Russians win the west than the Dodgers." That's saying something.

How will the Braves fair against the hard hitting Pittsburgh Pirates? Well, the Braves only dropped three of 12 games to them and has the only winning record over the Pirates this year. The Pirates are not ready to be surprised again like last year when the Reds took them in six. However, the Braves have a very balanced baseball team. They are young yet, now, they know how to win. Their pitching staff is better than the Pirates with Tom Glavine, John Smoltz, Steve Avery and company. They are a solid hitting ball club with the likes of Ron Gant, Dave Justice, Terry Pendleton (National League batting champion) and others. I like the Braves in seven over the Pirates.

IS IT JUST A RUMOR?

Marty also spoke of the ongoing deal that the Reds and Padres were trying to work out. Involved in the deal was Eric Davis and Benito Santiago, the Padres outstanding catcher. Also involved in the package was to be other players. Now, the other players have been identified as Joe Oliver, Randy Myers along with Davis. The Padres in exchange would also send along Bip Roberts who has been at odds with the Padres organization for the past two seasons. The Padres are certainly interested in obtaining the services of Myers for next season seeing they were desperate for some bullpen pitching this past season.

Myers is a very expendable pitcher since Rob Dibble has taken over the role as closer for the Reds. Myers struggled all season both in the bullpen and as a starter. Oliver had a good year as far as catchers go. There are no more Johnny Benches or Gary Carters out there anymore. Oliver's 11 home runs was about average for a catcher. But Oliver, like Jeff Reed, had problems throwing out runners. Newcomer Dan Scott figures to take the number two catcher's spot and that makes Oliver expendable as well as Reed if Santiago comes over to the Reds.

Davis has been a disappointment this year for the World Champion Reds who finished where they did two years ago — one spot away from the basement. It leaves baseball fans, now, more than ever, to wonder if last year was a fluke season for the Reds. Davis certainly could have helped the team had he played more. His .230 batting average and 11 home runs was very low for, perhaps, one of the most talented players in the major leagues.

It will be interesting to see how things turn out. Until Friday, we good sports and all the way Braves

19 Teams To Compete In Right Beaver Classic

This coming Monday night the 1991 grade school basketball season will officially get underway as the Right Beaver Classic kicks off the season. The Classic got its initial start last season with Martin defeating John M. Stumbo in the finals of the boys division and the Martin Girls moving past Betsy Layne for the girls championship.

The Classic will field 19 teams this year — 10 boys and nine girls.

The lower bracket of the tournament promises to be some good basketball for all the fans. Four of the top teams in the county will fill out the bottom bracket of play. The tournament gets underway Monday night with three girls games. Maytown will face Auxier in the opener at 5:30 p.m.

and Prater will be matched up against McDowell in a 6:45 start. In the third game of the evening Martin will take on Melvin.

A girls game between John M. Stumbo will kick off the action on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. and then two boys games will follow. Mountain Christian Academy will take on Tim Eads Melvin Cougars at 6:45 and in the nightcap, Maytown faces a young Auxier team.

Wednesday night the boys lower bracket will see action as Duff takes on county champions Adams at 8 p.m. Perhaps one of the best games of the tournament and all year will be between Martin and John M. Stumbo. Both are expected to be powerhouses this year along with Duff and Adams.

The two teams meet Thursday at 6:45 p.m.

Before the Martin/Stumbo match up, a girls semifinal game will be played at 5:30 with the winners of the first two games facing each other. The final game on Thursday night will be a boys semifinal game between the first two winners.

Prestonsburg Tames Wildcats 26-12

For Coach Bill Letton's Prestonsburg Blackcats, Friday night's game with the Shelby Valley Wildcats was a "big game" and a must win if the Cats were to secure a spot in the district playoffs later this season.

It was a big game in that Shelby Valley is a contender themselves for a playoff berth. It was a big game in that the game was played at Shelby Valley. It was big game in that the Blackcats needed to keep their momentum going that they had started against Betsy Layne.

How did the Blackcats respond in the "big game"? They came away with a "big win" as they established the early tempo of the game and posted a 26-12 victory over Tom Searcy's squad.

Even before kickoff time arrived the Blackcat fans were talking among themselves of the importance of a Prestonsburg win. The Cats had struggled through an 0-4 start, but did play well in two of the four losses. The improvement was evident as Prestonsburg's defense held the Wildcats on their first possession and took over the football with 9:49 remaining in the first quarter and marched 79 yards on just five plays to take a quick 6-0 lead. The drive started on the Prestonsburg 21 yard line and culminated when Dwayne Garza ran 36 yards for the touchdown with 8:20 left in the period. Garza carried on the first two plays for the Blackcats for 5 and 6 yards. John Goble, with a power run up the middle, gained 18 yards and quarterback Aaron Tucker hit John Clark with a 14 yard pass putting the ball on the Wildcats 36 yard line where Garza completed the drive. So began the momentum the Cats needed to pull off their second straight win to go 2-4 on the season.

The margin of victory could have been greater if not for two turnovers inside the Wildcats 20 yard line. Garza, on the Blackcats' second possession of the game, fumbled the football on the 14 yard line, and Shelby Valley recovered the miscue.

The turnover allowed Shelby Valley to tie the game at 6-6 on a 14 yard run on a first down play by Rodney Kiser. Chad Justice's field goal attempt was blocked by the Prestonsburg defensive line.

Prestonsburg's defensive line kept the Wildcats quarterback Joe Don Cole scampering all night. The pressure of the rush did not allow Cole to complete a pass in the game.

On a drive that began with 4:05 remaining in the first period, Prestonsburg took a 12-6 lead on a 1 yard plunge by Tucker in the early going of the second quarter.

The 12-6 lead seemed to give Prestonsburg the added confidence that they needed and it was exemplified in the that the Blackcats did not quit — something they were guilty of earlier in the year. The inspired play was demonstrated by the hustle of Seth Hyden. Hyden took a Shelby Valley punt that moved off his hands and rolled deep into Prestonsburg territory. Hyden went back, retrieved the football and turned what could have been very poor field positioning into a 50 yard gainer moving the football into Shelby Valley territory. Again, the inspired play was seen in the running of John Goble. Hit at the line of scrimmage, the fullback broke loose for a 2 yard pick up before he was hit again, but a third effort gained him three more yards before he was brought down.

The defense turned a Shelby Valley mistake into a score. On a second-and-five play for the Wildcats, Cole lateraled to Kiser. Tucker, from the bandit side, broke quickly off the ball, slapped down the lateral toss and the ball took one bounce into Tucker's arms and he jaunted 44 yards for the touchdown to give Prestonsburg a 18-6 lead which stood up at half time. Tucker could have been content with the good defensive play but he did not give up on the ball.

Even poor field position did not hinder the Blackcats against Shelby Valley. On a punt Hyden was hit hard by the on rushing Wildcats. On first down play from the Prestonsburg 8 yard line, Garza broke tackle and

Bill Hill Places First Overall In Joe McCauley 5K Run; Roberts Takes 5th

This past Saturday, October 5, marked the fourth annual Joe McCauley Memorial 5K Classic held at the Jenny Wiley State Park. Over 70 runners were entered in the 5K (3.1

miles) race which ran along Route 3 from the Amphitheater parking lot to the swimming pool and back.

Possibly, the only thing that would have made the race more successful was more sunshine. Rob Schissler, race director, said, "I think God must have thought we were shooting at Him when John McCauley (Joe McCauley's son) fired the starting gun in the air. The clouds opened up and it poured for about 25 minutes." In spite of the heavy rains, all but a couple were able to complete the race in good times.

Bill Hill, a former All-American in track and cross country at Marshall University, won the men's overall with a time of 16:18. Second place went to Kenny Copley followed by Joe Barker's third place finish. Veteran Martin Bess took fourth place while local runner Rick Roberts placed fifth overall with a time of 17:01.

The women's overall winner was Debbie Biddle, who now has won the event three out of four years, with a time of 19:09. Linda Curtis came in second place followed by Rose Balmer in third.

The Classic is in honor of Joe McCauley, who was one of Kentucky's top distant runners before passing away in 1986 due to cancer. All the proceeds have been donated to benefit the American Cancer Society of the Eastern Kentucky District. Addington Inc. served as the race's co-sponsor providing the shirts and prize money given away to the winners. Schissler would like to thank all the area businesses and volunteers that supported the event. Schissler said that the race was a tremendous success, with everyone leaving as winners.

Top three finishers in each age groups are as follows:

Boys 14 and Under — Dushi Param, first, 20:10; Josh Lowe, second, 26:56; Aaron Bond, third, 34:18.
Girls 14 and Under — Jamie with good down field blocking, ran 72 yards to the Shelby Valley 30 yard line. From the 8 yard line Goble carried the football into the end zone and also scored the two-point conversion for a 26-6 margin for Prestonsburg.

The Wildcats added the final score in the fourth quarter on a 2 yard keeper by Cole.

Garza was the leading rusher for the Blackcats. The sophomore running back carried the ball 18 times for an unofficial 172 yards. Goble had a good night on the ground with 102 yards on 19 carries. Prestonsburg had 354 yards rushing as a team on 46 carries for a total offense of 386 yards.

Tucker was three of six in the passing lanes for 32 yards. Clark had two receptions and James Derossett had one. Tucker also carried the ball five times for 57 yards.

Prestonsburg had only four turnovers in the game — one fumble and three interceptions.

The big difference in the game, compared to previous ones, was in the penalties column. Prestonsburg was assessed only 30 yards in penalties on a personal foul and a clipping call.

Junior Frankie Tackett was the leading rusher for Shelby Valley with 70 yards on six carries. Kiser had 51 yards on 14 attempts. The Wildcats managed a total offense of 157 yards all coming on the ground.

Shelby Valley was penalized only four times for a total of 40 yards. Cole was intercepted once — by Derossett — and the Wildcats fumbled the football once.

Shelby Valley evens their season record at 3-3 and goes to 2-2 in district play. Prestonsburg is 2-1 in the district standings.

Prestonsburg awaits the Magoffin County Hornets this Friday night at the Prestonsburg Stadium for their Homecoming game. It also will be a district match up.

This will be the first year in the tournament for Martin's Rebels. The past two years the school was not permitted to take part because of the number of enrollments in the top three grades. However, the school was considered Class A in football.

The Lady Rebels will also be taking part in this year's tournament as well as McDowell and Wheelwright.

Officials for the tournament include Ancie Casey, Sherman Combs, Dale Conn, Keith Hall, Ted Hall and Jerry Hurley. Chosen as alternates were Brian Jones and Michael Walker.

1 in 10 men get Prostate Cancer

A PSA Test can save them.

You Can Help.

For men, the prostate gland is a problem. Located at the base of the spine, it's small, about the size of your little finger, and produces fluids for the male reproductive system. Its location makes it impossible to see and difficult, and uncomfortable, to examine by a physician. When cancer strikes, the disease is usually not discovered until it has spread to other parts of the body. This makes it difficult and often impossible to treat. Yet, like other cancers, if discovered early, treatment has a better chance of being successful.

A simple new blood test is now available to make routine checking for prostate cancer easier and more accessible than ever before. It's called the PSA or Prostate-Specific Antigen test. Like many other diagnostic tests, it isn't 100% perfect, but it is more effective than conventional tests.

When used alone it increases detection chances by approximately 20%; in combination with a rectal exam, it increases chances by 35%. Right now, about 100,000 cases of prostate cancer are diagnosed each year in the U.S., and 32,000 men will die of the disease. 1 in 10 men will develop prostate cancer during their lifetime and the risks increase with age. You can help. If you're a man, ask your doctor for a PSA test. If you're a woman, talk to the men in your life and urge them to get a PSA test. Simply call your family physician. Because what you know can save your life. The PSA test is one in a series of new diagnostic tests available through the clinical laboratory at Highlands Regional Medical Center, serving your physician with newer and better testing procedures.

For a free brochure describing the PSA test, phone Ann Martin 1-800-533-HRMC.

New Basketball Rules To Speed Up Game

The 1991-92 high school basketball season is just over a month away but the ground work is being formed for the start of the new season. The National Federation of High School Basketball has made some adjustments, changes and clarification of some of the rules from last season.

"Some of the rules needed to be changed," said veteran official Ted Hall. "I think it will be better for the game of basketball as they try and put some of the things that have been lacking back into the game."

One of the most welcomed rule change was going back to the bonus on free throw shooting instead of allowing two-shot fouls on every foul. This is a major change in the "bonus rule." Technical fouls on players will count toward disqualification. The rules committee agreed it was time to count all fouls by a team to reach the bonus. There was unanimous Committee agreement to move the bonus to the seventh foul in each half. According to Hall, the rule change nationally came about because of an experimentation that was conducted in Kentucky last season. Since all fouls will be counted, it means the bonus clearly indicates total fouls, not just personal fouls.

The rule change from the two-shot foul was needed in basketball. The bonus rule makes the game more interesting and changes the coaching status of some teams. No more will a player walk to the charity stripe knowing that he has two free throws. He must make the first one to get the second. Thus more pressure on the shooter.

"It will help other teams to ice the shooter," says Hall, who will be one of the officials that will be calling the Class A Regional tournament at Pikeville in January. "It most definitely will put more pressure on the shooter."

The rule change ties into the nationwide effort to improve sportsmanship and behavior at all high school athletic events.

Another major change in the rules this year was the lack of action calls. There will be no "lack of action" for the start of the second 100 years of basketball. Lack of action situations were few and far between. The lack of action usually occurred in the last minutes of the game and when a team held the ball for the last shot at the end of quarters. Stall tactics were challenged by the rule. A team that had the lead could hold the ball in a stall tactic and it was up to the defense to force the action by coming out and picking up the offensive player. A warning was issued to the team on defense and a count was started.

The rules committee decided that each coach should be able to use whatever strategy he/she wished as it relates to trying to score or what type of defense to use. The committee also decided a slow down pace may be the only way a less talented team can upset a superior foe.

"The new rule allows the offensive player to just stand there with the ball under his arm if he wishes to do so," explained Hall.

Used to be, before a player could wear the compression shorts, a written doctor's permit or authorization was required. Now the rule has been struck down and compression shorts now may be worn without a required doctor's permit. However, the shorts must be single in color and similar in color to the shorts or predominate color of the basketball trunks.

The alternating possession arrow must be located at the scorers table instead of just on the new type of scoreboards. Even though the scoreboard may indicate the possession arrow one way the official arrow will be the one located at the scorers' table.

The use of three officials has started to catch on in a number of states. The official's manual added a complete section on three-official mechanics in 1989. Previously, the rules stipulated that the teams had to mutually agree in order to use three officials. This agreement requirement has been deleted. Some state associations assigned three-officials crews in tournament games and did not seek the teams' agreement. The sponsoring authority may determine its use and should advise the visitors well in advance of the game date.

"I would like for us to start using three-officials in a game," stated Hall. "It would help keep people like me and my age in the officiating business longer. It would allow some of the younger officials to move up quicker. Right now there just isn't any room for them now. Moving up a younger official would allow an older referee to teach and work with the younger ones."

The three-point shot has certainly changed the game of basketball over the past few years. Last year, if a player were attempting a three-point shot and was fouled he received only two free throws. However, that all changed this year. A player fouled in the act of shooting a trey will be awarded three free throws. If the officials deemed the foul was intentional or flagrant, the player receives his three free throws and the ball is awarded the shooting team out of bounds.

"This is one of the reasons that three-official crews are needed in high school basketball," stated Hall. "An official on the outside has to be looking to see if it was indeed a three-point attempt (foot not on line) and at the same time be watching for a foul. It will make it hard on the outside official."

Other rule changes were made for the upcoming basketball season and you can be sure they all will be challenged in some form or another. The new rules and the changes will make for a better basketball season and one thing is lacking in high school basketball that will surely come in effect before long — a shot clock.

"I certainly think and believe we will see a shot clock in high school basketball before long," Hall said. "I would like to see a 45 second shot clock and nothing below 45 seconds."

Times Needs Grade School Schedules

With the approaching of grade school basketball the Times is in need of all the completed basketball schedules of each grade school, boys and girls. We plan to attend all the games that we possibly can but it is certain we cannot be at all the places all the time. Therefore, we would ask when a grade school team plays that the results will be called in to us here at the Floyd County Times. We have forms that can be completed over the phone or we will leave some with each coach to complete and mail in. We will make every effort to see that it is reported in the sports section. Again we plan to attend all the games that we can personally. But you can help us out by calling or sending in your teams results — win or lose. Mail to Ed Taylor, c/o Floyd County Times, Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653.

OCTOBER HUNTING

If you want to bag a fall turkey, get out your archery equipment and get going — to the nearest area open for turkey hunting.

Legal Kentucky turkey hunters may take one turkey of either sex from October 1 through 31.

During the October season, all of Butler and Christian counties are open for turkey archery hunting in addition to portions of Ballard, Bullitt, Caldwell, Calloway, Hopkins, Larue, Logan, Muhlenberg, Nelson, Todd and Trigg counties.

Ballard Wildlife Management Area (WMA) south of Terrell Landing Road, Ballard County, and Higginson-Henry WMA, Union County, are also open for October turkey hunting. Hunters on Higginson-Henry are required to check in and out daily.

Beginning October 1, bowhunters also are allowed afield to pursue whitetails. Kentucky's deer bow season continues through January 15, 1992.

Muzzle-loading and crossbow hunters get their first opportunity to deer hunt in Kentucky October 19-20.

Western zone squirrel hunting continues through October 31, while the eastern zone season runs through November 8. Statewide squirrel hunting reopens November 19 and continues through the last day of December 1991.

Bullfrog season closes midnight, October 31.

For complete information on any Kentucky hunting season contact: I&E Div., #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone, (502) 564-4336.

FARM POND FISH:

YOU PUT 'EM IN

Pickup trucks and vans loaded with bags of fish start rolling this month as the annual farm pond stocking program conducted by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources gets underway.

Farm pond owners who applied for the stocking program before the October 1 deadline will receive fingerling-size fish this fall and next spring. Normally, bluegill and channel catfish (if requested) are delivered in fall and largemouth bass in May.

Applicants are responsible for picking up their fish from an announced meeting place in the county where their farm pond is located. Owners also are responsible for releasing the "new" fish in their ponds.

If you're interested in the farm pond stocking program but missed the deadline, contact your state conservation officer (CO) or district fisheries biologist to get your name on the list for the next go-round (fall, 1992). District fisheries biologists also offer free technical guidance on renovating ponds or constructing new ones.

If you don't know your CO or district fisheries biologist, contact: I&E Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 564-4336. A free booklet, "A Guide to the Management of Farm Ponds in Kentucky," is available upon request.

ROUSTIN' GROUSE

Grouse hunting is underway on several Kentucky WMA's in the eastern half of the state.

Except for restrictions during periods deer gun hunting is allowed on some areas, the following WMAs are open for grouse hunting from October 1 through December 31, 1991: Beaver Creek, Cane Creek, Mill Creek, Big South Fork, Clay, Dewey Lake, Fishtrap Lake, Paintsville Lake, Redbird, Fleming, Grayson Lake and Lake Cumberland.

Grouse hunting is a challenging sport accompanied by outstanding outdoor enjoyment. Most of Kentucky's ruffed grouse are found in rough country. But upland bird hunters willing to climb steep hills and walk rugged terrain, encountering briar tangles and other low shrub growth along the way, are usually rewarded as sudden bursts of flapping wings break the air.

Quite simply, the birds are there. According to Jeff Sole, who coordinates the upland game program for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, grouse numbers in Eastern Kentucky equal or surpass grouse density in surrounding states.

Of course, suitable habitat is the main reason grouse flourish. Over the last few years the birds have been spreading westward and northward, especially along river valleys, settling into additional living areas in the commonwealth. The fish and wildlife department is speeding up the process by trapping grouse in highly populated areas and releasing the birds in suitable habitat in central and northern portions of the state. In fact, reestablishing ruffed grouse to its native range in Kentucky is a primary goal of the fish and wildlife department.

Coinciding with the opening of statewide small game hunting seasons, grouse hunting begins November 19, but only in 53 Kentucky counties. As you've probably guessed, the 53 open counties are located in the eastern half of the state.

Grouse hunting in open counties continues through February 29, 1992. The daily limit on grouse is four birds and the possession limit is eight.

For more information on grouse hunting or details concerning any Kentucky hunting season, contact the I&E Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 564-4336.

BOATING USER FEE REQUIRED ON SOME KENTUCKY WATERS

Kentucky boaters using certain waterways in the state are required to purchase registration stickers from the U.S. Coast Guard, in action taken by Congress.

Stickers cost between $25 and $100, depending on boat length and type, and must be renewed annually. Some boats are exempt from the user fee.

For complete information, call 1-800-451-9148. You will reach the U.S. Coast Guard District Office, St. Louis, Missouri, which can supply you with a list of Kentucky waters where the requirement is being enforced.

Stickers may be purchased by calling 1-800-848-2100. Use the same number to request order forms which list fee amounts and specific boats requiring stickers.

The Recreational Vessel Fee, which applies to all major river systems in the nation, is expected to help offset the federal deficit by pumping millions of dollars into the U.S. Treasury over the next few years.

The user fee system is being challenged in a federal district court.

Whitesburg To Visit Bobcats Thursday

Amy Adkins

Kimberly Carter

Tina Hall

Tanya Harris

Tonya Newsome

Tomorrow night (Thursday) will be homecoming night for the Betsy Layne Bobcats when the Whitesburg Yellowjackets invade the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex in a scheduled 7:30 p.m. kick off time.

However, before the game gets started, the festivities for homecoming will have already started at 7 p.m. and will culminate with the crowning of the 1991-92 Homecoming Queen at halftime of the game.

In fact, the celebration at the Betsy Layne High School has been going on all week as the school spirit has been raised with several dress up days and a door decorating contest.

One of five lovely young ladies will be crowned Homecoming Queen 1991-92. Competing for the coveted title will be Amy Adkins, 17-year-old daughter of Berta Adkins of Dana; Kimberly Carter, 17-year-old daughter of Keith and Sherrie Carter of Harold; Tina Gail Hall, 17-year-old daughter of Bobby and Sandra Hall of Galveston; Tanya Harris, 17-year-old daughter of Sharon Harris of Ivel and Ross Harris of Pikeville; and Tonya Dee Newsome, 17-year-old daughter of Layton and Emogene Newsome of Teaberry.

While the five contestants battle for the homecoming title the real battle will be on the football field as the Yellowjackets face a young Bobcat football team.

Betsy Layne will enter the contest with a week off and sporting a 1-4 record and 1-2 in the district rankings.

Whitesburg was edged by highly ranked Fleming-Neon 23-22 this past Friday night. The Yellowjackets have been playing better football since Jason Rose took over at the quarterback spot. Rose has a bullet of an arm and passes with a lot of consistency. He has his favorite targets like any other quarterback. One of those targets will be Lenny Bates, who used to be the signal caller for the Yellowjackets. Bates is a 6-2, 170 pound senior.

At the fullback position for the Yellowjackets will be Jeff Hale, who the Bobcats defense will have to hold down. Hale is deceptively quick and likes to get out on the sweep.

John Collins will play the tailback slot for Whitesburg. The Yellowjackets will throw the football most of the time, but can also move it on the ground.

Betsy Layne will counter with a very strong armed quarterback themselves in the person of Bryan Combs. Combs, a 6-3, 195 pound junior, has all the area talking of his ability to throw the football. Combs has six completions in 36 attempts for 90 yards passing in three games.

Betsy Layne will be depending mostly on the running game against Whitesburg tomorrow night and that will come from a trio of runners. James Keathley (5-9, 210) senior, leads the rushing for Betsy Layne with 161 yards on 39 carries for an average of 4 yards per carry. Jamie Kidd (5-10, 195) will carry the football for the Bobcats and he has carried 35 times for 140 yards, an average also of 4 yards per carry. Doug Hammonds (5-9, 150) has managed 106 yards in three games for Betsy Layne on 22 attempts for an average of almost 5 yards per carry.

Randy Woods (6-2, 200) will be at one end position for the Bobcats. The Betsy Layne defense will be led by Ashley Lykins (5-10, 200) senior, and Shannon Reynolds (6-0, 185) senior. Look for Brandon Combs (6-2, 270), freshman, make his presence known also. Combs certainly has been playing like a seasoned player all year on defense for Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats will need a good defensive outing for the Yellowjackets and watch the passing of Rose as well as the running of Bates.

The game will be carried live on WPRG Cable Radio and then will be taped delay for television to be shown Thursday evening after the game and again on Sunday at 4 p.m.

Tackett Named Coordinator Of Bike-A-Thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced recently that Debra Tackett has agreed to be the Coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in Grethel on October 26.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer, Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is nonsectarian, nondiscriminatory, and provides total medical care to all patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side-by-side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle cell anemia and other child killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The bike-a-thon program this year is dedicated to Brooke Simon, a six year old solid tumor patient at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

National Federation 1991-1992 High School Basketball Rules

1. RULE 1-7; NO LOGOS, MARKINGS, ETC., ON FACE OF BOARD

Taking action before it becomes a problem, the Committee agreed the backboard face should be kept clean of logos, markings, lettering, etc. The coverage also prohibits such markings on the back surface and side if it is visible from the playing court. The intent is to keep the backboards clean and clear so players will have uniformity in all games. Coverage applies to school logos, mascots, etc., as well as manufacturers' identification.

RULE 1-9-1: BACKBOARD PADDING MAY BE ANY SINGLE, SOLID COLOR

Gray has for 25 years been the legal color for backboard padding. Recently, many schools began to request the use of school colors, etc., rather than gray. By deleting the gray color requirement, the Committee has made it legal for schools to use other colors. Gray is still legal. If another color is used, the same single, solid color must be used on both backboards.

RULE 1: RING RESTRAINING DEVICE IS REQUIRE

Occasionally a glass backboard is shattered as a result of play. Unless the ring is securely attached to the backboard/support system, there is the possibility the metal ring could come crashing to the floor. This rule is similar to a 1990 NCAA rule provision. Required "safety straps" has been referred to in the "Comments on the Rules" for years; however, the new wording and placement in the rules makes it very clear.

It is possible that a school's maintenance department could do the job by attaching a couple of steel straps costing less than $50. There are ready-made kits also available. The increased play at or above ring level and the amount of dunking and grasping of the ring has created a real concern for the safety of players. While a shattered, glass backboard is of itself a possibility for injury, a restrainer at least insures that the heavy metal ring will not come down on the players.

RULE 1-12-1F: BLACK RUBBER RIB MAY NOT EXCEED 1/4 INCH WIDE

Since 1968, rubber rib ball channels have been limited to 1/4 inch in width. In recent years manufacturers began making the "groove" between the panels deeper and wider. The Committee was concerned whether this violated the "channel" width limit. This specification does not limit the depth of the panels nor the width between where such depression begins. If this becomes a problem, specifications will have to be adopted setting minimum/maximum limits.

RULE 3-5-5 EXP: COMPRESSION SHORTS MAY BE WORN WITHOUT DOCTOR'S WAIVER

In 1989, undergarments below the pants simply couldn't be worn. Last season they were allowed with a doctor's permit or authorization. Beginning this season, a player may wear compression shorts without a doctor's permit provided the shorts are unadorned and of a single color similar in color to the pants or predominate color of the pants. Administrative problems with keeping record of waivers, the problem with wearing rubberized sleeves extending below the pants, their popularity in other sports, and the apparent injury prevention capabilities are all factors which entered into the change for this season.

Lettering, numbers, mascots, etc., are not permitted. A manufacturer's logo/trade mark name not exceeding 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 inch square is permitted. Players discovered wearing illegal compression shorts shall be asked to leave and may not return until legally equipped.

RULE 3-6: MANUFACTURER'S LOGO/ TRADE NAME ON UNIFORM LIMITED TO 1 1/2 X 1 1/2 INCH SQUARE

There are some parts of the uniform which may have a visible manufacturer's logo/trade name. Such a logo/trade name is permitted on the game pants, compression shorts, socks and warm-ups. The players' shirt may not have any such manufacturer's logo/trade name. While there is an increasing interest to put a logo on almost everything, the Committee is concerned about using the game uniforms as walking billboards for advertising. Wearing an illegal shirt or undershirt has a specific penalty provided. In the case of pants, socks, jewelry, etc., the player shall not be allowed to participate until the problem is remedied.

2. RULE 1-15: VISIBLE CLOCK AND SCOREBOARD REQUIRED

After 100 years of basketball, a visible game clock and scoreboard are now mandatory. In addition, alternate timing and scoring information devices shall be available in case of malfunction. The requirements do not dictate such equipment must be elaborate or expensive, but they must be visible for players, coaches, officials, spectators, etc.

RULE 1-16: ALTERNATING POSSESSION ARROW AT TABLE

The possession arrow came into the game in 1985, but no mandate on location was listed. Interpretations since 1985 have all indicated the device be at the table. Specific language has now been added to support this interpretation. While a scoreboard might also indicate the direction of the arrow, the device at the table is required and it is the official indicator.

4. RULE 2-1-1: NO AGREEMENT REQUIRED FOR USE OF THREE OFFICIALS

The use of three officials has started to catch on in a number of states. The Officials' Manual added a complete section on 3-official mechanics in 1989. Previously, the rules stipulated that the teams had to mutually agree in order to use three officials. This agreement required has been deleted. Some state associations assigned 3-official crews in tournament games and did not seek the teams' agreement. The sponsoring authority may determine its use and should advise the visitors well in advance of the game date.

5. RULE 2-8-3: 2-11-2; 2; 4-14: 10-6(PENALTY): TECHNICAL FOULS COUNTED TOWARD FIVE FOR DISQUALIFICATION

Since 1944, a player has been disqualified for committing five personal fouls. However, last season Kentucky and Iowa experimented with counting technicals toward the five for disqualifications with solid results. The Committee felt there was a need to emphasize the importance of sportsmanship and good behavior by counting a technical as one of the number permitted. There will be a higher premium placed on appropriate behavior before and during the game. Record keeping will also be simpler. If a player or squad member is charged with a technical foul, it is counted toward reaching the total of five. In reality, only one technical will actually be counted because a related rule change reduces to two the number of technicals for disqualifying a player or any bench personnel other than the head coach. Teaching sportsmanship and ethics should be a major, if not primary goal of every coach. It is the Committee's hope that coaches will spend a greater amount of time teaching correct behavior and the consequences of inappropriate actions. Play Situation: Squad member A1 dunks the ball in pregame warm-ups and is charged with a technical foul. In the 4th quarter, A1 is charged with his or her 4th personal foul. Ruling: A1 is disqualified from further participation. The technical foul and personal fouls are combined for purposes of reaching the total of 5 for disqualification.

6. RULE 2-8-5: UNCONSCIOUS PLAYER MAY NOT RETURN WITHOUT PHYSICIAN'S WRITTEN AUTHORIZATION

The concern for the health and welfare of a player who becomes unconscious or apparently unconscious during a game has resulted in an addition to the rules that he/she may no longer participate in the game. The player may not return for the remainder of the game unless there is a physician available who will authorize in writing that he or she may come back in. The definition of an unconscious or apparently unconscious player is: "a person who is unable to receive information and/or, unable to respond to questions, or whose responses are inappropriate. The injured player may or may not be motionless and his/her eyes may be open or closed". It will be the responsibility of the referee to make the determination after discussion with other crew members. If there is doubt as to whether the player was unconscious, the official should rule that the player was unconscious. Once the determination is made, it is irreversible. It is recommended that determining unconsciousness can be carried out without going into a complicated medical procedure and without touching the injured player. Play Situation: A1 loses his balance in attempting to dunk in the first quarter and crashes head first to the floor. The official's determine that A1 has been rendered unconscious. At halftime: (a) the coach informs the referee that A1 has recovered and will return; or (b) the parents of A1 indicate they authorize A1 to return; or (c) a physician indicates he/she will verbally authorize A1's return; or (d) a physician gives written authorization for A1 to return to play in the second half. Ruling: A1 is not permitted to participate in (a), (b) or (c). However, in (d) the referee will allow A1 to return as a physician has provided the required written authorization. Only a physician may authorize return unless state law or regulations permit others the authority of a physician in such matter.

7. RULE 4-8; 10-6 (PENALTY 3): ALL TEAM FOULS COUNT TOWARD SEVEN TO REACH BONUS

This year's major change in the "bonus" rule correlates with the change in counting a player's technical foul toward disqualification. The Committee agreed it was time to count all fouls by a team to reach the bonus.

School Basketball Rule Changes

There was unanimous Committee agreement to move the bonus to the 7th foul in each half. This was a rule experimentation we conducted in Kentucky during the 1990-91 season. Since all fouls will be counted, it will mean the "bonus" clearly indicates total fouls, not just personal fouls. A growing distaste for trips to the free throw line helped the effort to raise the limit to seven team fouls before awarding the bonus. This rule change ties into the nationwide effort to improve sportsmanship and behavior at all high school athletic events.

10. RULE 10-1-1 ELECTRONIC VOICE COMMUNICATION PROHIBITED

Communicating with players during game action is difficult in many game situations. Some coaches use various types of signals or hand held cards to get the job done. New technology has brought electronic signaling devices into the game. The Committee agreed they did not want electronic voice communication between the players and the coach. The coverage goes hand and hand with the previous prohibition on use of a megaphone or any mechanical device at courtside for coaching purposes. Play Situation: The team A coach: (a) has an electronic device at the bench which signals certain information by use of colored lights; or (b) is in direct contact with two players through use of electronic voice communication. Ruling: Permissible in (a) but a technical foul in (b). No electronic voice communication with players is allowed.

11. RULE 10-2. 3. 4. 5 (PENALTY NOTE): TWO TECHNICALS DISQUALIFY ALL BUT HEAD COACH

The third technical foul against any squad member or bench personnel has been considered flagrant and has resulted in disqualification since 1970. The action of the Committee reduces this number to two for everyone except the head coach. The change was made to correlate with the rule change to count technical fouls in reaching the five fouls for player disqualification and the effort to improve sportsmanship and behavior. If a second technical is called on any player, substitute or bench personnel other than the head coach, he/she shall be disqualified and banished as required. The head coach is not automatically ejected until the third technical foul is charged to him/her. No change was made in this provision as there are a number of instances in which the technical is charged to the head coach, even though the act was committed by a player or other bench personnel. Even though the head coach is permitted one more, it does keep the responsibility for all conduct and behavior on him/her. No change whatsoever was made that ejection is automatic anytime a foul is flagrant regardless of what number it is. Play Situation: A team A squad member is charged with a technical foul for illegal dunking prior to the game. Later: (a) Team A's assistant coach is charged with two technical fouls for unsportsmanlike conduct; or (b) A2 is charged with one technical while playing and then another while seated on the bench. Ruling: In (a) the assistant coach is ejected along with the head coach who has been charged with three technicals. In (b) A2 is banished, but not the head coach as he/she has only been charged with two technical fouls at this point. A2's technical while playing is not charged to the head coach.

12. RULE 10-3-6 EXP: GRASP BASKET ANYTIME TO PREVENT INJURY

Another rule which has gone full circle in just a few years! Until 1984 the basket could not be grasped legally for any reason. The rule for next season allows grasping by any player to avoid injury. In a normal situation the grasping will take place when an airborne player loses balance because of contact. However, in some instances, the player may be entirely responsible for ending up in a position where he/she or another player could be injured unless the basket is grasped. The rule was not adopted to legalize all grasping under the pretense of possible injury. Officials must judge whether or not a possible injury situation existed to the extent the player had to grasp the basket. Just because a player has dunked or attempted to dunk does not give any license to grasp unless to avoid injury. Illegal grasping must be penalized. Play Situation: A1 goes in for a shot near the basket and loses his/her balance after releasing the ball. A1 grasps the basket to prevent injury. The ball: (a) is; or (b) is not, in the basket or on the ring while A1 is hanging on the ring. Ruling: In both (a) and (b) A1 doctor's grasping is not penalized if it is judged there was a possibility of injury had he/she not grasped the basket. In (a) it is basket interference by A1 which causes the ball to become dead and no goal can be scored. In (b) there is no violation unless A1 is still hanging on the ring when the ball touches the basket or goes into the basket.

13. RULE 10-3-11: BASKET INTERFERENCE ON FREE THROW IS ALSO A TECHNICAL FOUL

Last season goaltending a free throw became a technical foul in addition to a violation. It prevented a team from gaining an advantage by goaltending in order to keep the opponent from scoring a field goal after purposely missing the free throw. However, one loophole remained...basket interference on a free throw. The action of the Committee now adds a technical foul to the penalty for committing basket interference during a free throw. The addition takes away any advantage which could be gained and makes it a most severe penalty. Play Situation: A1's free throw attempt is in the cylinder when B1 touches it. Ruling: Basket interference. Count the free throw and charge B1 with a technical foul. Clear the lane. If A1 has another free throw coming, administer it and then administer the technical foul penalty.

14. RULE 10-6 (PENALTY 5b): THREE FREE THROWS IF FOULED ON MISSED 3-POINT TRY

Awarding three free throws to the player fouled in the act of shooting an unsuccessful 3-pointer will be in effect for next season. The manner in which the game and use of the 3-point goal has evolved dictated the time had come for three free throws. Such a foul does not occur often, but this does give the fouled player a chance to score as many points as if the attempt had been successful. Play Situation: A1 is fouled in the act of shooting on a 3-point try which is unsuccessful. The foul: (a) is; or (b) is not intentional or flagrant. Ruling: In (a) A1 is awarded three free throws plus Team A gets the ball for a division line throw-in. If flagrant, the offender is disqualified. In (b) A1 is awarded three free throws.

15. RULE 10-6 (PENALTY 5b. c): THREE FREE THROWS PLUS BALL IF FOUL IS INTENTIONAL OR

A flagrant or intentional foul against a player in the act of shooting an unsuccessful 3-point try will result in three free throws plus the ball for a throw-in. The addition was necessary in order to have a greater penalty for such fouls. Of course, if the foul is flagrant, the offender is disqualified.

AMS Falls For First Time In 34-6 Loss to Pikeville

The Adams Middle School football team saw their perfect 3-0 record blemished at Pikeville last Thursday evening as they dropped a 34-6 loss to the junior Panthers. The Blackcats were on a roll after defeating arch rival Allen earlier in the week.

Pikeville scored on their first possession of the game traveling 36 yards in five plays for the touchdown. Panther quarterback Alex Belcher hit Cade Cinnamon on a 17 yard pass play for the score with 3:57 left in the first quarter.

Pikeville scored the eventual winning touchdown in the second quarter moving the football 62 yards for the score. The drive only took four plays to complete, with Belcher scoring the TD from 7 yards out with still 6:29 left in the half. Belcher passed to Powers for the two-point conversion. The lead went to 20-0 at half time.

Adams scored their only points near the end of the third when they took the football on their own 32 yard line and marched 68 yards in 13 plays for the score. Chester Slone scored from one yard out with 2:40 remaining in the game. Pikeville scored their final touchdown with 12 seconds remaining for the final 34-6 count on a 13 yard run by Dilegen Hart.

Adams only managed five first downs. The Blackcats rushed for 122 yards on 37 carries. Adams was 0 for two in the passing department with 0 yardage. Adams had a total of 122 yards offense.

The Blackcats ran 39 plays and were only penalized 10 yards. They lost the football twice on fumbles. Slone led the Adams ground game with 64 yards in 21 carries.

Most of the Panthers yardage came through the air. Belcher tossed for 225 yards passing on 14 completions in 20 attempts. The Panthers ran 34 plays and had no turnovers. Pikeville totaled 292 yards total offense with only 67 yards coming on the ground. Pikeville picked up 12 first downs.

Adams faces Allen again tomorrow evening (Thursday) in a rematch of last weeks game.

Roberts Places First In Whitesburg Run; Finishes Third In Apple Day

It was more heat than the 80 degree temperatures that Joe Barker was feeling in the 14th running of the Paintsville Apple Day run last weekend at Paintville. Barker was also feeling the heat of Martin Bess and Rick Roberts who were in close pursuit of the eventual winner. Barker covered the 3.1 mile course in 16:28 besting last year's winning numbers of 16:46. Bess finished second in the heat with a 16:34 while Roberts, who won the day before at Whitesburg, placed third in 17:15.

Paintsville's Angela Tackett, last year's winner, with a 23:45, placed fourth in this year's run with a 23:20. Flatwood's Patty Lane took first place in the race in a course record of 21:34. The race was the third race in seven days for the local runner.

Van Lear's Lance Daniels finished fifth overall in 19:11 to win his 20-25 age group. Paintsville's Garry McKenzie took twenty-third overall while Kennis DeBoard, Paintsville, finished 27th.

period and Scott Dale ran in from 1 yard out in the third period. Watts missed most of last season with an injury and has come back strong this year. His previous best in passing this year was against West Carter.

Watts seven touchdown passes were two short of the national record of nine according to the National High School Sports Record Book. The record is shared by Hogan and Randy Hendricks of Seth Sherman, W. Va. Going into the Allen Central game, Watts had tossed for seven touchdowns thus far this season.

The Rebels defense had trouble getting to the Cardinal quarterback as he had time a plenty to throw the football.

According to the National High School Sports Record Book, 1991 edition, James L. Hogan Jr., of Newport News, Va., passed for 636 yards against Denbigh, Va., on November 4, 1956, in his team's 60-13 win. Watts yardage would better that by 15 yards.

The Cardinals scored early in the first period when they put 14 points on the board. The first came on a 40 yard pass from Watts to Brian Damron. Christian Damron kicked the extra point for a 7-0 game. It was was 14-0 before the period ended when Watts spotted Franklin Patrick and hit him with a 50 yard pass. Again Christian Damron added the extra point.

The Rebels looked as if they were about to make it a 14-6 game when they intercepted a Watts pass and returned it to the Sheldon Clark 11 yard line but the drive failed to turn into a score as the Cards held off the young Rebels.

Sheldon Clark ran in three more touchdowns in the second period to take a 34-0 lead at halftime. Neil Parsons had a run of 20 yards for a touchdown and Damron added the extra point. Bruce Stepp took a 30 yard pass from Watts and trotted the extra yards for the score and it was all Cardinals the rest of the game.

Allen Central falls to 0-6 on the season and Sheldon Clark stays perfect at 6-0. The Rebels will host the Cougars of Elkhorn City Friday night.

Will the Cats Do the Hookie Pookie?

Pookie Jones is something special! Now there's the king of riveting insight that networks pay the exjocks big bucks to bring into your home. After that performance on Saturday night against Ole Miss, that was pretty obvious, but explaining why could be as difficult as getting Brereton Jones to release his tax returns.

Billy Kilmer — Earl Morrall and George Blanda all had it. Sure Pookie works as hard as anybody at practice, and he's blessed with an abundance of natural ability, but when he steps onto the field the crowd responds like an airport welcoming committee for Elvis, and the other 10 guys in the huddle play like he really is "The King". Thank goodness he doesn't have long side burns and an insatiable appetite for pepperoni pizza. Folks, Brad Smith hasn't done anything in mind to "lose" the starting job, he's just had it taken away. If Pookie Jones is future of Kentucky football, the future is now!

Another Recruiting Guru Predicts UK Success

For those of you who haven't heard enough about U.K. basketball recruiting, another guru predicts that Coach Rick Pitino's three year foundation building will really pay dividends for the Wildcats. Analyst Bob Gibbons predicts that Kentucky will succeed with a couple of star quality junior college kids, and continues to predict success among the nation's seniors. More on specifics in the coming weeks.

Another Pitino is an Even Bigger Battle

The older brother of UK basketball coach Rick Pitino is fighting the battle of his life. 44 year old Ron Pitino was involved in an altercation in Staten Island, New York, on Saturday, September 28. He's being treated for a severe head injury at St. Vincent Hospital. Pitino was in New York for several days after learning the news.

The Exploring Pitino? On a brighter note, Pitino will be back in The Big Apple this week — to film a commercial. Pitino is doing the spot in conjunction with, get this, the unveiling of Rick Pitino Model of Ford's Explorer. The model is being released only in Kentucky.

Details haven't been released, but you've got to believe that "fast brakes" are standard equipment.

Goodbye Memorial Stadium!

The Baltimore Orioles did a nice thing the other day. They greeted fans at the gates and passed out souvenirs before a game in the O's season ending series. I just wonder if Howard Schnellenberger had his Cardinals serving coffee and Danish for fans who may have tried to get in to Sunday morning's hastily called 6:00 a.m. practice.

After that HOMECOMING loss to Cincinnati, I think not. That loss will set the program back as much as the win over Alabama moved it ahead.

"Watts" a Game For Jesse

Congratulations to Jesse Watts of Sheldon Clark, in Inez. Assuming his statistics from last Friday's game against Allen Central are verified when audited, he will be the new national record holder for passing in a single high school game. All he did was complete 24 of 36 passes, for seven touchdowns, and a NATIONAL record 651 yards in his team's 61-16 win.

And this in spite of Coach Jim Matney's insistence that receivers not attempt to score on each play against the younger opponents. There was no desire by Matney or his troops to run up the score against the young Allen Central team.

The previous record was more than 25 years old, set by a Newport News senior in 1966.

Best Wishes to Valiant Indian

We had a chance last week to visit Donald McKiddy of Cumberland College at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. McKiddy was injured on a Kickoff during the Indians contest with Urbana, suffering a C5 fracture, in other words, a broken neck. McKiddy was scheduled for surgery to relieve pressure on his neck last Thursday. At this writing, he is doing better, and at last report is listed in satisfactory condition, and we certainly wish him well. If you would like to send him a card, send it to Donald McKiddy, c/o Room 761, Chandler Medical Center, 800 Rose Street, Lexington, 40536.

Still creating a Racquet And finally, even though Jerry Claiborne has gotten out of coaching, he's still plenty competitive, last weekend, he and former Wildcat teammate Lee Truman won the age 60-69 doubles title at the Louisville Boat Club's tennis invitational. The two-some also captured the same title at this State Hardcourt event. Tennis anyone?

THE LUCKY WINNER

My mailbox has been running over lately with messages that imply my ship is almost in. Almost, but not quite.

There was a postcard a few days ago that read: "Hi! I have been desperately trying to reach you! You are definitely tied for the first place prize of $10,000. Other are also tied."

They didn't say how many others, but I'm sure all of them, too, were advised, "You must act fast. Return this card with payment of $500...There are few opportunities in life as good as this one."

Each time I receive an announcement such as this, I remember one prize I did claim. My husband and I were in Florida for an extended visit and one weekend we decided to attend a recreational vehicle show in Tampa. There were several displays that invited you to register for a special drawing so, of course, I registered.

Sure enough, the call came a few days later. There was a bubbly young voice that said, "Congratulations! Your name was drawn and you're the lucky winner of a wonderful prize!"

"That's nice," I said. "What did I win?"

"You have a choice. You can take your pick of a 35 mm camera, a five piece set of matching luggage or a Caribbean cruise."

"A Caribbean cruise!" Now wouldn't that be nice? And what qualified me for that?

you our resort vacation system."

Walter grinned when I told him. "Well, after all," I insisted, "we spend a lot of days just looking around, and it's only ten miles away." I twisted his arm to go with me.

We were there on time and spent the required hour. They even kept us for an extra one. We witnessed a hard sell effort on the equivalent of ocean front property in Arizona. It wasn't too difficult to resist.

"Now where is my prize?" I asked. Two ladies were in charge of the prizes. "Which one would you like?" they wanted to know.

"What about the Caribbean cruise?"

"Well," one answered, "it isn't really a cruise. You pay your own transportation but you do get two free nights at this island resort." You could probably get two free nights almost anywhere if you'd stand under a coconut tree. They didn't say if mosquito netting would be provided or if you should take along some peanut butter crackers.

"Then what about the five piece luggage set?"

The other girl spoke up, "It isn't five pieces, it's three." I asked if we might see it.

It was a matching set — two pieces folded inside a third. It was fabric and had all been dipped in the same dye. Each piece had little attachments you could call handles, and it was woven in such a way that it could breath.

Not being overly excited, I asked if we might be able to see the camera.

"Do you want the camera?" they asked in unison.

"I don't know until I see it," I answered. They seemed a little hesitant, but I was handed this little bundle all done up in cellophane. I started to unwrap the package but it was sealed so tightly I couldn't get it opened.

"Are you taking that camera?" one of the girls asked.

"I don't know until I see it," I repeated. "I don't think it has a lens."

They were both becoming hyper and demanding that I not open the wrapping. I could claim it and take it or I could leave it.

"Aw, c'mon, it doesn't have a lens," I insisted.

At this point Walter spoke up. "We'll take the luggage," and he got me by the elbow to steer me toward the door.

When we got to the car he said, "See how nice and flexible it is."

He was right. It was so flexible you could roll all three pieces up and stick them behind the spare tire.

BUSINESS AFTER HOURS

Last week, Tess, Scott and I attended "Business After Hours" at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn. The Chamber of Commerce co-hosted the event which turned out to be very successful.

by Kim Frasure

If you happened to miss this "Business After Hours," (which I can't imagine you did, because, from the looks of it, everyone in Floyd County was there), let me tell you about a few of the exquisite items the Holiday Inn Chef and staff prepared to make it truly a gala event. First there were three very artfully done ice sculptures, which I later discovered were created with a chain saw. Hard to imagine that a big, bulky tool like that could create such wonderful images.

There was such a variety of food available for the nibbling that it would be hard to describe in words. All artfully displayed, a guest had a hard time choosing between the Mexican delicacies, the baked brie, the seafood corner, the carved roast beef or the wonderful assortment of pastries. I tried very hard to avoid the pastry table because I knew once I started I wouldn't be able to quit.

Since this event was also a reception for Dr. Deborah Floyd, president of Prestonsburg Community College, I'm sure she had to be impressed. I certainly was. Dr. Floyd later told Tess that she never expected such a welcome when she accepted the job at PCC. She commented on how wonderful everyone had been since she has arrived.

I guess we have lived up to our reputation of being a very hospitable place and I'm sure Dr. Floyd, and others who have been so welcomed into the area, will have only good things to say about Floyd County. Congratulations, Floyd County, you've done a good job once again. And I can't say enough about the Holiday Inn and their ability to put on a good show. It makes me very proud to know that there is so much talent right here in the good ol' hills of Eastern Kentucky.

"WHAT WOULD T.V. BE WITHOUT RERUNS?"

As I sat there with writers' block, aimlessly staring at the television, I realized my topic was right before my eyes: reruns. In the evenings, I watch many different reruns. "Mama's Family", "Welcome Back, Kotter", and "The Andy Griffith Show" are just a few of the programs I like.

"All In The Family" is my favorite rerun. The show was controversial in its first-run and remains so today. Archie is great. He's the perfect egotistical bigot, just the kind of person I love to hate. Meathead was actually the only character with any sense. And poor, old Edith, what can you say about her? Don't we all have a relative like her?

How many times a day is "The Andy Griffith Show" on? Let me put it to you this way. If I had a dollar for every time it is shown, I could retire right now. Honestly, I think I've seen every episode. My favorite character is Ernest T. Bass. Wouldn't you just like to see what would have happened if Charlene Darling had married him?

I really love "Mama's Family". I think Vint was dropped on his head as a baby. Otherwise, though, it is more believable than some old shows. Really, anything is more believable than "The Brady Bunch". Remember when Mr. Brady's plans were left on a ride at King's Island? Highly believable. Or the time when Greg and Peter were cursed by the tiki in Hawaii? That was truly realistic, as well.

I didn't remember much about watching "Welcome Back, Kotter" except the phrase, "Up your nose with a rubber hose" until I started watching it again. John Travolta really seemed to be the intellectual on that show, didn't he? I know parents would want their kids out with upstanding "Sweathogs", too. I really like the accents, though.

Two really stupid shows from the "old days" have to be "The Addams Family" and "The Munsters". I can't imagine how those two programs ever made it. Everyone knows, though, that Lurch and Thing were the stars of the "Addams Family". Herman and Lily are not even in the same caliber as Cousin It. I guess if I have to pick one, I like "The Addams Family" the best.

I'll bet all you readers are leafing through those listings right now, just trying to find out when "Leave It To Beaver" comes on. Well, I don't have any channels that carry it, but I'm sure it's on somewhere. If any of you find it, tape it for me. I need to see what trouble Beaver's in, so I won't make the same mistakes. See ya.

I'd like to wish a very Happy Birthday to my papaw, Charlie Allen, of Price. He was 79 years old Friday (October 4). I love you, Papaw. Happy Birthday!

WHEN THAT GREAT SCREEN CAME DOWN

I suppose by now everyone's aware of the latest endangered species: the drive-in theatre.

Some folks think their demise is simply the result of yet another Communist plot. Others pass it off as just another sign of the times, while still others haven't given it any thought at all.

I have, though, and even if I can't exactly put my finger on why they're gone, but I can for sure say that many of us miss them.

It hasn't been that long ago, however, that there were three or four within moderate driving distance. Today, I can think of only two, and they're both over an hour away. Furthermore, I'm not even sure they're still in operation. Of course, I'm referring to the one on the Mountain Parkway in Stanton and the one on Route 14, east of Huntington on the way to the mall.

When I was a kid living in Muddy Branch, drive-in theatres were as much a part of our lives as VCR's and cable TV are today. Even before I was old enough to drive, I can remember riding my bicycle up on Concord Road about dusk dark to that spot which overlooked King Addition, and watching the movies come on at the sky-vue. Of course, it had no sound, and the mammoth screen was reduced to the size of a postage stamp, but I'd still tell my friends the next day — and with somewhat more than a little pride — "I went to the drive-in last night."

It's too bad that today's young people can't experience what we did when we'd go to the drive-in and enjoy Hollywood's less-than-best efforts. (As I recall, you had to go to a regular walk-in-and-sit-down movie house in order to see a first-run film.)

Apparently, I'm not the only one to have given all this some thought. Ronnie Blair, a former student of mine from my old Meade Memorial days, who's now an actor, song writer and playwright out in California, brought by a video the other day of one of his recent stage performances. In the play, Oklahoma Gothic, he sang one of his own compositions entitled "Ballad of the Cain Auto Drive-In Movie."

Of course, those of us who grew up in the area remember that before the sky-vue was the sky-vue, it was the Cain — so called because of Mr. Bill Cain who built the drive-in and also ran the Sipp theatre in Paintsville. As I recall, he ran the Sipp with an iron fist, too, and would toss you out at the snap of a finger if he caught you throwing milk duds or heard you whispering too loud.

Anyway, I think Ronnie's song pretty well sums up the decline and fall of the drive-in theatres.

Sung to the tune of another great tragic ballad written about the sinking of the Titanic, a song called "The Night That Great Ship Went Down," Blair's tune goes something like this,

"It was the thirteenth day of May; Lord, I'll never forget that day, when the wrecking crew came pullin' into town. A wad of baccar i the foreman's jaw, and with a slow alkahoma drawl, he said, 'Your d ve-in movie screen is coming dow

"So, with a dozer and some rains, nine strong backs and a little rain, a thousand nights of joy cam a tumblin' to the ground. Timber, there she goes, no more buck-for-a-carload shows, it was sad when that great screen came down.

"Husbands told their wives, no more Saturday night door prize, it was said when that great screen came down.

"I saw John Wayne die at the Alamo, Abbott slapping Costello, I saw the Black Lagoon creature sink and drown, and a bunch of things from outer space tried to wipe out the human race, that's how it was before that great screen came down."

Well, the song goes on for several more verses, each a little more heart-breaking than the other. I think you get the gist of it, though. I guess the line that sums it all up best goes like this: "Sometimes hot, sometimes cold, mosquito bites from head to toe, it was sad when that great screen came down."

Alice Lloyd remembrance

In keeping with the forthcoming celebration of the 75th anniversary of Mrs. Alice Lloyd's arrival on Caney Creek, I thought it might be appropriate to submit a few excerpts from the "paper" I wrote about Bonanza for the soon-to-be-published Floyd County History Book (Paraphrased, it is):

When my family moved from next-to-the-last house on the head of the Conley Fork of Abbott to "right in the heart" of Bonanza, there was a two-roomed, white-weatherboarded schoolhouse, maintained by the Floyd County Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools, which offered eight grades, and was taught by local school teachers.

I think it would be safe to say that very few of the young people in our little village would've found it possible to have gone beyond those eight grades, if a "little wisp of a woman" by the name of Alice Lloyd hadn't entered our schoolhouse one fine day. Mrs. Lloyd, from Boston, had established a school in adjoining Knott County, and called it Caney Creek Community Center.

She told us a little about C.C.C.C., then, presenting a little group of boys she had with her, said, "A child can tell this better than a grown person," and Dan Martin, who looked to be about 10 years old, told us about Mrs. Lloyd's school, which he attended—and he told us the story of "The Frogs in the Churn."

We relayed their messages to our parents, and the next year, Bonanza Community Center, with twelve grades, was established.

Mrs. Lloyd sent us teachers from "away off yonder." Some of the names I recall are: Misses Longacre, Johnson, Crumrine, Chriswell, Barnes, Hopkins, Hardy, Dunbar, Biggerstaff, Conway, Greene, Bunnell, Daugherty, and Wood.

"Them Caney Creek Teachers," as we respectfully called them, brought many and varied talents to our school, which was attended not only by students from Bonanza and Abbott, but from Middle Creek, Little Point, Jenny's Creek, and many other surrounding places, and by a few from a distance.

The school program was one of the "prides and joys" of our area: Students (with one in the front carrying the American flag), marched over the schoolgrounds and up and down the Big Road each morning; chapel was held each day, with Bible reading and prayer, quotations, and singing. Programs were held throughout the year, with one of the most interesting ones being at Christmastime, when Mrs. Lloyd would send "pretties" of oh so many kinds, to all of us.

There were "spelling bees," debates, piesuppers, pretty girl contests, out-door basketball games, and many other activities dear to the hearts of young people.

And our parents loved the school. For the first few years of Bonanza Community Center, some of the parents "took turns" boarding the teachers a-month-at-a-time, and these ladies were well worth their "board and keep." Later on, they stayed at the girls' dormitory, which had been purchased by the school from the family of the Hatcher Hotel.

I'd like to thank the Good Lord for Bonanza, for my family and neighbors who once resided in that little village—and Alice Lloyd, who made it possible for some of us to build educationally on the foundation provided throughout those wonderful years.

An afterthought: Dan Martin is now a prominent lawyer in Hindman, Kentucky, and sometimes, when I see him at an Alice Lloyd College Alumni meeting, I mention that little story of "The Frogs in the Churn," which helped to make it possible for Bonanza Community Center to be established.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 to Install Officers

Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31, of Prestonsburg, would like to announce the date of installation of the officers for 1991-92: It will be the 15th day of October. Officers to be installed are: Noble grand, Loretta Akers; vice grand, Claudine Johns; secretary, Mabel Jean LeMasrer; treasurer, Maman Leslie; warden, Paulena Owens; conductor, Lorena Wallen; flag/color bearer, Rebecca Bingham; chaplain, Jewel Bays; assistant chaplain, Virginia Goble; right supporter to the noble grand, Violetta Wright; left supporter to the noble grand, Beverly Hackworth; right supporter to the vice grand, Hope Whitten; left supporter to the vice grand, Billie Gayle Murdock; inside guardian, Otela Smiley; outside guardian, Thelma (Nell) Hebner; and past noble grand, Jean Hickman.

The noble grand, Akers, asks that members "give their support to these officers in the 1991-92 year," and they are encouraged by her to "make the installation night a memorable one, for the officers and for themselves."

This event will begin at 6 p.m., at the IOOF Building, here, and the noble grand announces that the chair lift there is working. Refreshments will be served, and the theme will be "Halloween." "Happy Birthday" will be extended to Violetta Wright, Hope Whitten, Effie Hopkins, Willa Mae Branham, and all other members born in October.

The noble grand asks that members bring Halloween masks for pictures to be made on this occasion.

Lodge holds regular meeting

Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 met in regular session on October 1, with the past noble grand, Hope Whitten, presiding. It was reported that several members who had been on the sick list were showing improvement, and a few new members were added to the list. Some had lost loved ones in their families due to death. Visitations had been made to those in the local hospital and a nursing home here by Myrtle Allen and Maman Leslie.

A report on the District Meeting, which was held on Saturday, September 21, was made.

Virginia S. Goble, representing the Bicentennial Committee of Floyd County, asked the lodge to give its support to this committee in the project of moving a one-room school building from Daniel's Creek to a location at Jenny Wiley State Park, for preservation. Following a discussion, members voted to support this idea.

The noble grand-elect Loretta Akers, asked for ideas for projects for the coming year. She suggested having collections for a microwave for the kitchen at the lodge. Dorothy Osborne suggested a tape recorder, with marching music on a tape, to be used when ceremonies demand marching on the floor, be purchased. A decision regarding these matters is to be made at a later date.

Present for this meeting were: Hope Whitten, Lorena Wallen, Maman Leslie, Virginia Goble, Myrtle Allen, Paulena Owens, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Jewell Bays, Dorothy Osborne, Loretta Akers, and Claudine Johns.

The next regular meeting will be October 15, at 7 p.m., at which time new officers for the ensuing year will be installed. The incoming noble grand, Loretta Akers, asks that all ladies please wear street length dresses. Refreshments will be served at 6 p.m.

LaPoint visits here

Hookers visit in Minneapolis

Judy and Ron Hooker were in Minneapolis, Minnesota, recently, where they visited with their son and daughter-in-law, Chris and Pam Hooker. It is proudly announced by the prospective parents and grandparents, that Chris and Ron are expecting their first child on April 1.

East Point Homemakers hold meeting

The East Point Homemakers met October 1, at the First Church of God's Fellowship Hall, on Little Point. The meeting was called to order by the president, Lolli Lansdell. The devotions were presented by Gloria Burch, and the roll-call was given by Lorena Horne, with members answering by telling of their favorite vacation spots.

Old and new business was discussed. Frances Pitts, Floyd County Home Economist, gave the lesson on "Door Decorations."

Members present were: Betsy Baldrige, Lee Boswell, Gloria Burch, Lorena Horne, and Lolli Lansdell.

The next meeting will be on November 5, at 12:30 p.m., at this same location.

October Fall Festival date set at Irene Cole Memorial

Lamplighters meet

Members of the Lamplighters' group of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) met in Fellowship Hall of the church on Tuesday evening, October 1, with the Rev. Michael Taylor, pastor there, presiding. From there they went to the Riverview Manor Nursing Home, where Rev. Taylor led members there in prayer, and Thomas Foy, Director of Music at the church, accompanied by Lisa Carter at the piano, led the group in the singing of hymns. Present were: Rev. Taylor, Foy, Carter, and Myrtle Allen, Annabelle Maggard, Lucy Regan, Minerva Cooley, and Maman Leslie.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 1, at 4 p.m., at the church, and a cordial welcome is extended to attend.

GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club in meeting

The executive board of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday, October 3, at 7 p.m., at the club's Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park with Garnett Fairchild, president, conducting the meeting.

Matters to be brought before the club at its 7:30 meeting were discussed. Present were: Fairchild, Elizabeth Ramey, Sue G. Martin, Diane Clatworthy, Helen Wells, Joyce Allen, Linda McGuire, and Docia Woods.

The house was decorated in keeping with the Halloween season, with tables, covered with white cloths, holding arrangements of ceramic holiday items made by members of the club at the Arts and Crafts House. Lighted candles, in crystal holders, gave a special glow to these decorations.

Garnett Fairchild, president, welcomed those in attendance, and led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag. Phyllis Herick, a former president of the club, presented the devotions, giving a reading entitled "The Secret," and asking members to join her in saying "The Lord's Prayer."

The minutes were read by Sue Martin, recording secretary, and the financial report was given by Helen Wells, treasurer.

Joyce S. Allen, chairperson of the membership committee, reported that the recent membership tea given by this committee was a success, and thanked those who worked with her for their cooperation and help.

The club voted to accept as new members, Paula Layne and Curly Hill. A colorful part of the evening's program was the presentation by Joyce Allen, on behalf of the club, of a Life Membership Certificate to Sarah S. Goble (who is the mother of the club's recording secretary, Sue G. Martin, and the grandmother of one of the new members, Paula Layne). With this certificate, Allen presented the new life member, Mrs. Goble, with a long-stemmed red rose, and read to her the poem, "Promise Yourself."

Diane Clatworthy introduced Johnnie E. Ross, from the Environmental Protection Agency, with headquarters in Hazard, who discussed ways in which we may protect Kentucky's environment, and furnished valuable information on such important topics as landfills, litter, and water quality, and answered a large number of questions from the audience. On behalf of the club,

A few days ago I received a call from Mrs. Nan Scott, of Betsy Layne. We had a nice, long talk about requested recipes. This week I am featuring the recipes she sent. She did not find one for pumpkin butter or persimmon pie, but she sent a couple others for persimmons, that sound good to me. It's people like Nan Scott and Thelma Spencer who make this column. Thanks!

LEMON-GLAZED PERSIMMON BARS

1 egg
1 c. sugar
1/2 c. oil
1 (8-oz.) pkg. dates, finely chopped
3-1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. soda
1 c. persimmon pulp
1-3/4 c. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. cloves
1 c. chopped walnuts
1 c. confectioners sugar

Combine first 4 ingredients in a bowl, mix well. Blend 1-1/2 teaspoons lemon juice and soda into persimmon pulp, combine flour, salt and spices. Add persimmon pulp to date mixture, alternately with flour mixture, mixing well after each addition. Stir in walnuts. Spread in a greased and floured 10x15-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, or until light brown. Cool for 5 minutes. Combine 2 tablespoons lemon juice and confectioners sugar in a bowl. Mix well, and spread over baked layer. Cool. Cut into bars.

NOTE!!! Leave out lemon juice from batter when using frozen persimmon pulp.

CINNAMON CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

1 pkg. (3-oz.) cream cheese, softened
1/3 c. butter, or margarine, softened
3/4 tsp. cinnamon
4 c. confectioners' sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1-1/2 to 2 tsp. milk

In a medium bowl beat first 3 ingredients until well blended. Gradually add sugar, mixing well until well combined. Stir in vanilla. Gradually add milk, beating at medium speed, after each addition, until frosting is of spreading consistency.

PERSIMMON FUDGE

2-1/2 c. milk
6 c. sugar
1/4 c. light (white) corn syrup
1 c. pureed persimmon pulp
1/2 c. margarine
1 c. (or more) chopped nuts
Bring milk to boiling point in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Stir in sugar and corn syrup until sugar is completely dissolved. Add persimmon pulp; mix well. Cook, covered over medium heat for 2 or 3 minutes, or until steam washes sugar crystals from sides of pan. Cook uncovered, to 234 to 240 degrees on candy thermometer, or softball stage. DO NOT STIR. Add margarine, beat until mixture is thickened and loses its luster. Stir in nuts. Pour into a buttered 9x13 inch dish. Let stand until firm. Cut into squares. Yield 2 pounds.

VELVEETA FUDGE

1 c. butter
8-oz. velveeta cheese
1-1/2 tsp. vanilla
2 lb. confectioners' sugar
1/2 c. cocoa
chopped pecans
Melt butter and velveeta in a saucepan, over low heat, stirring constantly. Mix in vanilla. Pour over mixture of confectioners' sugar and cocoa in bowl. Mix quickly until well blended. Spread in a buttered 9x13 inch dish. Pat pecans evenly over the top. Let stand until set. Cut into squares. Yield 3 pounds.

ZESTY ZUCCHINI SQUARES

5 tsp. chopped parsley
3/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. oregano
dash pepper
3 large eggs, beaten
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 c. Parmesan cheese
Combine all ingredients in a mixing bowl. Spoon into a greased 9-inch square baking pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Cut into squares.

SHERRY ZUCCHINI CAKE

3 c. sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. cinnamon

1-1/2 tsp. baking soda
1-1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 c. salad oil
2 c. sugar
3 eggs
2 tsp. vanilla
2 tsp. sherry
2 c. grated zucchini
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1-1/2 c. chopped nuts
1 c. seedless raisins, or chopped dates

vanilla glaze (recipe follows)
Sift together first 5 ingredients, set aside. Beat together oil and sugar; add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, sherry, zucchini and lemon peel. Stir in dry ingredients, blending thoroughly. Fold in nuts and raisins. Pour into a greased 9 or 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 325° degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let stand in pan about 5 minutes, then turn onto a wire rack to cool. Just before serving drizzle with glaze. This cake may be wrapped and frozen.

GLAZE

1-1/2 c. sifted confectioners' sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. melted butter
2 tsp. milk, cream or sherry
Mix all ingredients until creamy. Drizzle over cake.

LEMON ZUCCHINI COOKIES

2 c. flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 c. butter
3/4 c. sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
1 c. shredded unpeeled zucchini
1 c. chopped nuts
Lemon frosting (optional) (follows)

Combine first 3 ingredients and set aside. In a large bowl cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy, beat in egg and lemon peel at low speed until fluffy. Stir in a flour mixture until dough is smooth, stir in zucchini and walnuts. Drop by rounded teaspoon-fulls on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 or 20 minutes until lightly browned. While warm, drizzle with lemon frost*. Cool on rack makes 72 to 84 cookies. This is a soft, delicate cookie.

*Lemon frost

1 c. confectioners' sugar
1-1/2 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
Mix well and drizzle on warm cookies.

This recipe sounds exciting, good, and weird!! I haven't eaten it, but you are supposedly unable to tell it from "REAL" cherry pie! If any reader tries it let me know. Address is Nan Scott, P.O. Box 2166, Pikeville, Ky. 41502. The cherries are made by scooping out the zucchini flesh with a small melon-boller. These "cherries" turn red from the cherry kool-aid.

5-1/2 c. zucchini "cherries"
1 pkg. cherry kool-aid
1-1/2 c. water
1-1/2 c. sugar
2 tbsp. lemon juice
3 tbsp. cornstarch
1/4 c. cold water

Mix kool-aid with water, sugar, and lemon juice. Bring to a boil. Add cherries and simmer until cherries are tender, 10 to 15 minutes. In a small cup, make a paste of cornstarch and 1/4 tsp. of cold water. Add the paste to the saucepan to thicken the cherries. Allow to stand overnight to enable the cherries to absorb the color and flavor of kool-aid. Spoon mixture into a unbaked 9-inch pie shell. Add top crust. Prick vent holes and bake in 375 degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes until crust is brown.

SPICED CHOCOLATE ZUCCHINI CAKE

2-1/2 c. unsifted all-purpose flour
1/2 c. unsweetened cocoa
2-1/2 tsp. baking powder
1-1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
3/4 c. softened butter, or margarine
2 c. sugar
2 tsp. cinnamon
3/4 tsp. nutmeg
3 eggs
2 c. grated, unpeeled zucchini
2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 c. milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and lightly flour two 9-inch cake pans. Set aside. Mix first 5 ingredients and set aside. In a large bowl cream butter, sugar, cinnamon, and nutmeg until light and fluffy; add eggs, mix well. Stir in zucchini, and vanilla; mix well. Alternately add dry ingredients with milk; beginning and ending with flour, using one third of the milk at a time. Beat until well blended after each addition. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean, about 30 to 35 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes in a pan. Turn onto a wire rack to cool.

Cabbage Patch

By Nell Harmon

Fall planting of potatoes is one practice I have never done, yet there are some who swear by it. Karen Goble planted her potatoes last December. I did not see them but she tells me they did turn out exceptional, and she is at this time getting ready to plant next year's crop. After a lot of research I will attempt to give instructions on how. I would like any and all comments on any who do this or have tried it. I'm always ready for any new garden practice if it works.

One of the first things I have had brought to my attention brought is that if you miss digging some of your potatoes in the fall you will have some beautiful volunteers. This I have found true but I have never gotten any potatoes from them larger than marbles.

The planting in the fall is supposed to end the storage of potatoes over the winter months. You will have a storage problem with them over the hot summer months—no??

Potatoes grow best under cold weather conditions. The earlier you plant them the longer your cold-growing season will be, therefore the larger your potato crop, and they are more resistant to blight...Think cool, and the final results will be quality. Cool spuds have class! When cooked they have more body, due to the retention of starch during cool nights.

Plant your potato eyes about 15-inches apart, in the rows, with no more than three eyes per seed potato. Plant your largest potato cut in quarters. After you have covered the potato seed with dirt, cover the entire potato patch completely with 15-inches of mulch. This can be either straw or hay. Anyone priced straw late? If you use hay, buy some that has been rained on, then break the bales loose and rake through. Raking is supposed to remove the seeds so you will not have that problem.

When spring comes your potato storage bins will not need cleaning, your potatoes have been planted, and you have not eaten your seed potatoes, and you'll have potatoes on the way.

I have known some people who did plant their seed potatoes in the fall, at least one time. My grandfather was one of them. He made a deep trench, filled it with old straw, placed three cut potatoes on top, covered all this with about 24-inches of straw, then covered lightly with soil to keep the straw from blowing away. His main concern was to use up all the straw he could. At that time the straw was a problem as everyone raised large fields of wheat. The straw couldn't be given away, nor sold, as everyone had straw coming out their ears. I sure wish I had some of the tons of it that was burned, at home.

This column came to mind yesterday when my husband and a neighbor were talking about fall planting of potatoes. I will have to say neither of us could see the advantages of this practice, also we all knew of some who tried it and had poor returns for their time and hard work. No matter how, when or where you plant and grow anything, you will have plenty of hard work. To me it seems, to be more work and less chance of a crop to plant potatoes anytime, other than in the spring months. I know that storage is a problem, but if you dig the potatoes in late summer and replant come the first cool weather—WHY? I myself grow potatoes to eat over the cold winter months. Maybe I missed something somewhere. Maybe I'm just set in my ways as the person stated in the material I did my research from.

Mandatory seller disclosure of radon protects consumer, NAR says

Mandatory seller disclosure of radon instead of mandatory radon testing during a home sales transaction, better protects the consumer, according to a representative of the National Association of Realtors.

Patricia Campbell-White, who chairs the association's 1991 Legislative Subcommittee on Energy, Environment and Development discussed the issue of federally mandated radon testing during testimony recently before a subcommittee of the U.S. Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

Campbell-White said the association is concerned "that any testing requirement imposed by law during a real estate transaction would place additional stress on buyers and sellers at an already stressful time and would not allow enough time for informed and results-oriented decisions to be made."

NAR strongly opposes mandatory radon testing during the real estate transaction. Also, the association believes radon should be viewed as a public health issue to which legislative and administrative efforts should be broadly directed at the general public, rather than focused on the real estate transaction. For these reasons, NAR opposes the following bills:

S. 791, "The Radon Information Act of 1991," S. 792, "The Indoor Radon Abatement Reauthorization Act of 1991," and S. 779, "The Radon Assessment and Mitigation Act of 1991." However, the association supports state laws requiring seller disclosure of a home's radon levels.

NAR believes that every individual should have the opportunity to live in safe and decent housing, where risks to health and welfare from pollution are minimized. Because the association is concerned with the potential long-term health effects associated with radon gas, it has long advocated that this public health issue be a priority for the real estate industry.

NAR is committed to taking an active role in attempts to reduce the potential health threat that radon gas may pose, while at the same time protecting the value and salability of homes.

Campbell-White noted that it is appealing to link mandatory testing for radon at the time of transaction, yet this method will discover only a very small percentage of the potentially affected homes. While there are roughly 100 million housing units in the United States, only 3.6 million existing-home-sale transactions took place in 1990.
