Against city police :

Lawsuit alleges brutality

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A Floyd County man has accused two Prestonsburg patrolmen of police brutality in a federal suit filed October 7 in U.S. District Court at Pikeville.

In his complaint, Gregory Johnson, alleges that on October 9, 1990, city police officer Jeff Stumbo "maliciously rammed his vehicle" into a car driven by Johnson in the Corn Fork area of the county. Johnson contends he was permanently injured in the collision.

Following that collision, Johnson alleges he was arrested by city police officer Anthony Castle who, the complaint said, "proceeded to maliciously choke the plaintiff and slam his head onto a vehicle without any cause or justification."

Johnson also names the city of Prestonsburg as a defendant in the action, claiming the city was "grossly negligent in hiring and retaining the defendant Castle due to his past history of violence and threats to individuals."

The suit also notes that Johnson has accused Stumbo of "negligent and reckless driving" and has accused Castle of "assault, battery and outrageous conduct" as an alternate course of action under state laws.

The suit seeks $1 million in punitive damages from Castle and $500,000 from Stumbo; an unspecified amount of compensatory damages and a trial by jury.

Police said at the time of the October 1990 incident that Johnson's arrest followed a high speed chase and they alleged the collision occurred when Johnson abruptly stopped his car. Johnson was charged at the time with two counts of assault on a police officer, resisting arrest, attempting to elude, improper passing and speeding. There has been no court resolution of those charges.

McDowell shots fired from air gun

No injuries were reported after a shooting incident at McDowell school Wednesday and the shots fired were determined to have come from a BB or pellet gun.

Kentucky State Police detective Joel Newsome said Thursday that a window in the high school building was hit with two shots from the gun and one projectile went through the window.

Newsome said witnesses reported hearing a "pop, like light bulbs breaking" near the back of the school. A teacher and three students were in the classroom when the shots were fired. One projectile made a hole in the window and the other caused a concave impression on the glass.

An hour-long search was conducted in the classroom, but nothing was found to indicate what type of gun was used, Newsome said.

Middle Creek site earns national listing :

A place in history . . .

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Floyd County has added a new chapter in the annals of Civil War history. The county's Middle Creek Battlefield site, located near the junction of Routes 404 and 114, will be added to the pages of the National Register of Historic Places within the next two months, said Marty Perry, coordinator for the National Register.

Frank Fitzpatrick, owner of the property, gained approval for the state listing on September 25 when the Kentucky Historic Preservation Review Board met in Georgetown.

A big gavel for a big job

After accepting his State and Nation Award from Senator Mitch McConnell, Dr. Henry Campbell (left), former president of PCC, took the opportunity to officially pass the gavel to his successor, Dr. Deborah Floyd (right). As he chuckled over the size of the gavel, Campbell explained that "there are a few hard heads in this community and on this campus, so I thought she'd need a formidable weapon." Above, Dean Robert Allen reads the inscription on the gavel. (photo by Tess Whitmer)

School board says :

Groups must merge to gain recognition

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

There will be no voice for the classified employees of the Floyd County School System until the workers merge the three separate employee organizations into one.

The independent organizations came before the board of education Tuesday asking to be recognized as the "designated spokespersons" for the 396 employees.

First to address the board was Herschel Slone on behalf of the Floyd County Classified Independent Association. Slone asked the board to recognize that organization as the collective bargaining agent for the classified employees.

Board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell told Slone that he didn't feel the board couldn't recognize any group as a collective bargaining agent for any organization.

"We agreed to recognize a representative of classified employees," Campbell said, "the representative being a designated member of that membership to discuss the affairs of classified employees."

Board attorney Cliff Latta said he understood that Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf represented a majority of classified employees and helped them to draft a constitution and a set of bylaws for the organization.

"I believe a couple of other groups have done the same thing," Latta said. "If you're asking the board which group to recognize—pick between them—I would advise them not to do it until you work out your in-house problems and then come to the board."

Next to speak to the board was Ron Abshire, a Teamster union organizer. Abshire said he was speaking for the classified employees because the group that was organized by Pillersdorf asked him to be their spokesperson.

Abshire said he had sent superintendent Ron Hager a letter outlining a grievance procedure for classified workers and he asked for a permanent slot on the monthly agenda for the classified personnel. He told the board he had turned in a list of personnel to the board.

The list Abshire mailed to Hager was the names of classified personnel.

Jury deliberates just fifteen minutes :

Incest conviction draws 7-year term

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A seven-year prison term was recommended for a Magoffin County man convicted of incest Wednesday after a Floyd County jury was convinced he had sex with his daughter.

Willie Wallen, 45, formerly of Prestonsburg was charged with having sex with his daughter beginning in 1987 and continuing until 1990.

Wallen's daughter, now 17, testified that her father began fondling her in the 1987 when she was 12, and began having sex with her when she turned 13.

Wallen and his wife divorced in 1987 and he had weekend visitation rights with his daughter. His daughter said the sexual abuse began approximately one month after those visitations began.

The juvenile testified that she did not tell anyone about the abuse until after a suicide attempt earlier this year. She said her father had threatened to kill her if she told and had shot at her on four different occasions when she threatened to tell other people about what had happened.

Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton asked the girl how she felt about her father and about what had happened between them.

"After the first time, I was scared," the juvenile said. "I hated him; I was angry; and I felt awful about myself. He had physically abused me most of my life. I was afraid of him."

Defense attorney Teddy Flynt of Salyersville introduced into evidence a letter the girl had written to the sister of her father's girlfriend.

"This letter you wrote says you love your father and you were tired of everybody treating him like dirt," Flynt said. "Why did you say that?"

"It was a big scam," the girl answered.

Patton asked for a short recess after the letter was introduced to discuss the issue with his client.

When court resumed, Patton asked that the envelope that contained the letter also be introduced as evidence. "When was the last time you saw that letter?" Patton asked.

"It was in the garbage at my father's house. I never mailed it; I had no intention of mailing it."

Patton showed the jury the envelope and it showed the letter had not been mailed.

The girl testified that she wrote the letter because her father and his

Opry is filming, not performing girlfriend made her do it. "I was told I would pay the consequences if I didn't."

Flynt asked her if it was true that she told her father that a boy friend had raped her.

She denied telling her father she was raped, but she testified that she told a friend of hers that she was raped by her boyfriend.

"Was that the truth?" Flynt asked. "Yes," she said.

Flynt asked the juvenile if she had fabricated the charges against her father because he would not pay for her braces and because her father had fathered a child by his girlfriend. She denied those allegations.

Patton asked her why she needed the braces on her teeth.

"Because once when my father was whipping me, something got caught on my tooth and he jerked it out," the girl said.

The jury returned a verdict after approximately 15 minutes of deliberations. A seven-year prison sentence was recommended by the jury.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley set formal sentencing for November 22.

Wallen was taken directly to the Floyd County Jail. In an incest conviction there is no chance for parole or probation.

Adams student is hurt after crowd skips out

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An Adams Middle School student was injured Thursday after he and approximately 15 other students decided to skip school.

Ted Amburgey, no age available, was injured after he reportedly fell from a cliff near the school. Amburgey was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center where he was admitted Thursday afternoon for observation.

Prestonsburg's fire and rescue squad responded to the school after Amburgey returned and reported he was injured.

Floyd County deputy sheriff Linzie Hunt found 10 of the juveniles who left the school and took them to the sheriff's department. Hunt said nine of the students were found on the riverbank behind the Eagles Club in Prestonsburg. Hunt said approximately five students returned to the school.

Parents of one of the missing students notified Hunt that their child was missing from the school. Reportedly, 25 students had planned to cut classes Thursday, Hunt said. Parents were notified to pick up their children at the sheriff's office.

The majority of the students who left school were eighth graders, Hunt said.

Middle School principal Thomas Tackett could not be reached for comment on the incident.

Ground-breaking near for Left Beaver project

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

In its first meeting in approximately six months, the Floyd County Housing Authority announced Wednesday that ground-breaking for a new public housing unit in Left Beaver should begin in November.

Floyd County Housing Authority executive director Julia May said Wednesday that the final architectural plans are scheduled to be approved by the Department for Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by mid-November, and construction is scheduled to begin shortly thereafter.

One issue concerning the board about the Left Beaver project is that HUD required the housing complex to use propane opposed to natural gas to heat the complex. May said HUD virtually gave them no choice on the issue saying propane gas would be less expensive to provide heat.

Board member Eddie Patton asked May if she thought it would be safe to use propane gas. May said it was and that HUD would allow them to install converters on the gas lines in order to switch to natural gas when it became available to housing project.

In other business, the authority changed the date and time of its regular monthly meetings to the second Thursday of each month at 6 p.m. Meetings had been held on the second Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The authority went into to closed session to discuss hiring a maintenance worker at the Warco Housing Project near Martin. No decision was made in open session about who would be employed to fill that position.

The last issue decided by the authority was to pass a resolution to increase the amount of utility assistance to low income tenants.

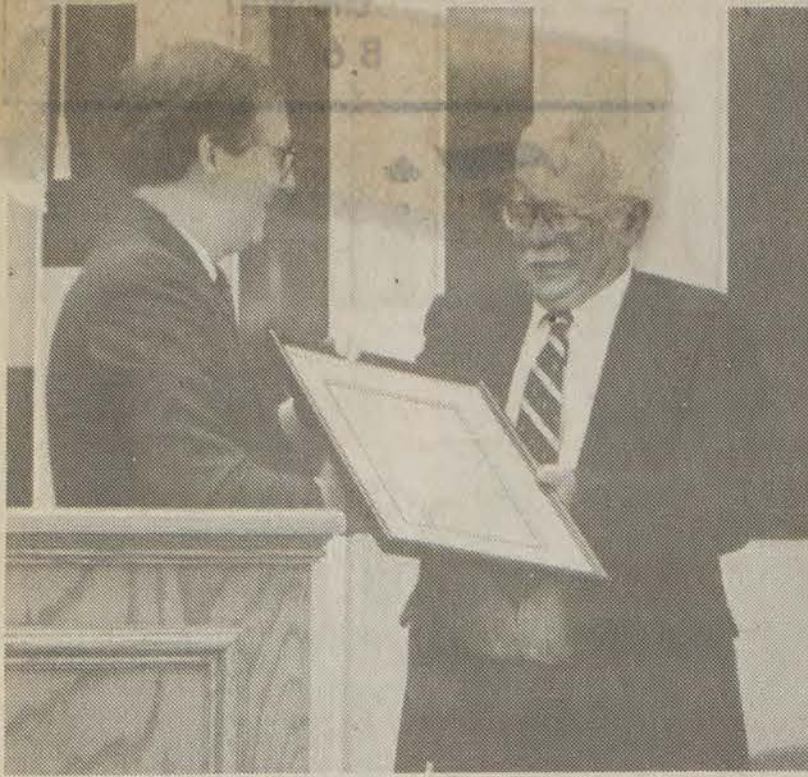

Victorious campaign

The Middle Creek, Civil War battlefield site will soon be listed to the National Register of Historic Places and a recommendation has been submitted to the U.S. Department of Interior to list the battlefield as a National Landmark. Tourism promoters are currently in the planning stages to hold a Civil War encampment and, hopefully, a reenactment on the site. In recognition of service

Senator Mitch McConnell presented the State and Nation Award to Dr. Henry A. Campbell Jr., president emeritus of PCC, Wednesday, October 9 during McConnell's visit to the Prestonsburg campus. McConnell pointed out that this award was given to very few people and was used to recognize those who have been of service to Kentucky and to the nation as a whole. In accepting the award, Dr. Campbell said, "I accept this with a great feeling of satisfaction and pride. If I've done anything at all it is to try to help Eastern Kentucky, which, in turn, helps the state." (photo by Tess Whitmer) criteria and must be significant nationally. The Middle Creek site meets two of those criteria, said Fitzpatrick. These are:

• A Civil War battle was fought on the property on January 10, 1862 that was the first victory for the Union troops in many months, and

• A national figure, James A. Garfield, who led the charge, became President of the United States in 1880.

The National Park Service Advisory Board meets twice a year to review landmark proposals. The next meeting is scheduled in February of 1992 in New Orleans. Board members will review the proposal to designate the Middle Creek battlefield as a landmark site.

A Civil War Site Commission which met in Atlanta about two weeks ago also expressed enthusiasm for the project, said Fitzpatrick, who met with commissioners and toured battle sites from Resaca, Georgia to Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield Park. Fitzpatrick hopes to have a national battlefield recreated on the Middle Creek site in the future. But it's one battle at a time for Fitzpatrick, who said he's currently concentrating on the landmark listing.

Plans are also underway for a reenactment and an encampment next spring if enough reenactors are available to participate in the event. Because the battle was partially fought in the hills, the event must be held when foliage is at a minimum, said Freddy James, director of tourism in Prestonsburg. Planners expect the event to be held in early April 1992.

Anyone who would like to join the local ranks of the reenactors, 5th Kentucky Infantry, CSA, should call John David Preston, Adjutant, at 789-5625.

nel who wanted Teamster union dues deducted from their paychecks.

Board members immediately began telling Abshire they would not recognize the Teamster union as a bargaining agent for the classified workers.

"I didn't come here to ask you to recognize the Teamsters union," Abshire said. "I have some questions about who's who. Would the board approve some kind of election by the classified employees to determine who is their spokesperson?" Abshire asked.

Campbell told him that it was not the board's intention to tell the employees how to conduct their affairs and that they needed to do that themselves.

"We want them to represent themselves," Campbell said. "We're not here to tell them how to do it. When the classified employees form one group, we'll talk to you."

The last classified representative to speak to the board was Kentucky Education Association regional director Betty Rowland.

Rowland told the board a number of classified workers had chosen to join the Floyd County Support Personnel Association which is affiliated with the Kentucky Educational Support Personnel Association (KESPA) and the National Education Association.

"I'm not here to ask for recognition (for classified employees)," Rowland said. "I want to provide you with some information about the organization and I ask you to look it over."

Other speakers during the public comment session were:

• Billie Jean Osborne on behalf of the Kentucky Opry. Osborne presented the board with a proposed contract to implement the Kentucky

Opry program in the county schools at a cost of $30,000. The board approved the contract.

• Danette Hazelett, a teacher at Prestonsburg Elementary and a parent of a child in the Talented and Gifted Program (TAG). Hazelett told the board she felt it was unfair that only 40 of 200 TAG students would be allowed to go on a field trip to Florida in November. She said many students could not afford the $600 price tag for the trip and not enough funds had been raised to send the 40 students. Board member Mary Hall agreed with Hazelett that if the majority of students couldn't go, none should go. The board took no official action on the issue.

• Dolores Smith, speaking for the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce. Smith told the board the chamber would be visiting schools in the county to observe and find out where the county schools stood in regards to the Kentucky Educational Reform Act.

• Carol Stumbo, speaking for the Floyd County Education Association. Stumbo said she wanted to tell the board and the classified employees that teachers supported the workers in their effort to form their own organization and FCEA would offer whatever support they could provide to the group. Stumbo also said that some principals in the county schools were not being cooperative in forming budget committees for individual schools. Stumbo said she hoped the board would encourage principals to cooperate in the effort.

• Jodi Sword, principal at Allen Central High School, asked the board for permission to proceed with a grant to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to keep the swimming pool at the high school open year round. Sword said approximately $125,000 was available through HUD and the state YMCA to provide staff to keep the facility open to provide recreational and educational activities for children and students in low income housing. The board told Sword to proceed with the grant.

Floyd County detective jailed for drunk driving

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County detective was arrested Saturday and charged with driving under the influence. Arthur Kilburn Jr., 33, of Martin was arrested by Prestonsburg city policeman Gerald Clark on Patton

Fireman files federal suit

A former Prestonsburg firefighter claims in a federal lawsuit that he was fired in July as a result of his union activity and he seeks reinstatement to his position, back pay and punitive damages from the city.

Kevin Hedrick, a city firefighter until his dismissal by Mayor Ann Latta on July 19, contends in his suit that his civil rights to free speech and equal protection under the law were violated by the city and Latta because his dismissal was the result "in whole or in part" of Hedrick's involvement with the Prestonsburg Professional Firefighters Association.

Hedrick, elected president of the local union soon after it was established in February 1990, alleges his dismissal was retaliation against his efforts to seek overtime compensation and for filing a complaint against the city for alleged violations of the Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health of Employees Act.

Mayor Latta has repeatedly denied that Hedrick's union involvement led to his dismissal and noted in a letter dated July 19 that he was relieved of duty "due to breaches of employment rules, regulations and procedures."

A specific cause for Hedrick's termination, Latta wrote, concerned his alleged refusal of his assignment to the position of fire department Health and Safety Officer, a claim Hedrick disputes in his suit.

"In light of these repeated challenges to authority, lack of respect to your superiors, unsatisfactory work attitude, refusal to accept a reasonable work assignment, and failure to perform assigned duties..." Latta wrote, "I have no option but to terminate your employment..."

Hedrick's suit was filed in U.S. District Court at Pikeville. No trial date has been set.

TVs, VCRs stolen from Allen school

Thieves made off with televisions and VCRs Thursday after breaking into the new Allen Elementary school.

Floyd County sheriff's deputy Chuck Ousley reported Thursday that person(s) who entered the school by breaking a window also vandalized several classrooms.

Frankie Francis, director of buildings and grounds for the board of education, said that a cost estimate on the amount of loss and damage to school has not been determined.

A contract with Collins Security Service, who the board employed Tuesday, did not become effective until Thursday night, Francis said.

The incident is still under investigation.

Street after the officer observed his vehicle swerving, according to court records. The citation said Kilburn failed three sobriety tests given by the officer. His blood alcohol content was .22.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said Thursday that he was unaware of the charge against Kilburn. Stumbo said Kilburn was appointed a county detective in November 1990.

County detectives, Stumbo explained, do have arrest powers and are appointed by the judge-executive, but receive no salary. Stumbo said that there are only "four or five" appointed county detectives and persons who usually carry large sums of money are appointed.

"It's mainly for people who work at grocery stores or businesses that have to take a large amount of money to banks," Stumbo said. "Detectives are told they are not appointed to get out and arrest people."

Stumbo said Kilburn came to his office approximately a week ago to renew his appointment for another year. Stumbo said he had denied that appointment for no particular reason. "Anybody's apt to get drunk," Stumbo said. "Even county attorneys and judges sometimes get arrested."

Kilburn was an honorary deputy sheriff before he was appointed as a county detective.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said Thursday that Kilburn's honorary appointment became void when he was named as a county detective. Thompson said honorary deputy sheriff's have no arrest powers.

Renovation planned for Indian Hills project

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An $843,000 modernization grant was approved Wednesday by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority to renovate the Indian Hills housing project.

Work will begin on the project after an architect and engineering firm is hired to oversee the work, said housing director Julia May.

May told the board at its monthly meeting that the funds will be used to replace kitchen cabinets, furnace units, upgrade appliances; improve the playground and parking lot; and replace the roofs on apartments. May said two housing units will be remodeled into handicapped accessible apartments and some funds will be used to make minor repairs at the Green Acres complex.

Board member Jimmy Derossett said he would like to see local business owners have the opportunity to submit bids for work on renovation.

May told Derossett that the different areas of the renovation would be advertised for bids and local contractors would have an opportunity to submit bids.

In other business:
• The board approved the annual increase in income limits for eligibility to apply for public housing. The income limit for a family of three is $17,300 and for a family of four, $19,200.

• The board approved the installation of a basketball goal at the Indian Hills project.

• The authority tabled an issue of allowing tenants, other than the elderly, to have household pets.

• The board accepted the 1991 audit report from Burchett and Bottoms, C.P.A.s.

All board members, Blaine Hall, chairman; Frank Heinze; Jimmy Derossett; and Paul Nunn attended Wednesday's meeting. Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta could not attend the meeting.

The Prestonsburg Housing Authority meets the second Wednesday of the month at 6 p.m. at the housing office in the Green Acres housing project in Prestonsburg. The meetings are open to the public.

Driving Miss Daisy crazy....

by Scott Perry

Traffic gnarls and driver snarls best sum up what has become concern number one at Adams Middle School in Prestonsburg.

Forget education reform for the moment.

Inquiring minds want to know what's going to be done to fix traffic problems at the school created by parents attempting to drop their children off and what appears to be a flaw in the school's original plans, which apparently didn't take traffic control into account.

In any case, most Adams school parents will agree that delivering their children to school each morning is Excedrin Headache Number One.

You can't get in, you can't get out.

Frustrations lead to hot tempers and those can lead to carelessness.

Carelessness leads to accidents.

The solution?

Only a traffic engineer may know for sure.

Employing one would be worth the expense.

Exorcize your way to health and fitness...

The bogeyman jumped out of the closet in Houston, just in time for Halloween.

A school superintendent there has banned the wearing Halloween costumes in his district on the grounds that children needed to be protected from our "satanic heritage."

Our what?

Okay, we'll admit that both our children have acted like little devils on occasion, but we never suspected it was because they dressed up on Halloween. We always thought their mischievousness was the aftereffect of a mind altering ray beamed down upon their impressionable little heads from an alien spacecraft on the dark side of the Moon.

Are we naive, or what?

No sense sending Arnold Swarzen, er, Schwartzen, um, no sense sending Rambo up on the space shuttle to investigate now is there?

Beware October 31. Behind those masks are thousands of midget Beelzebubs who pretend to want your candy but in reality they want to cut the head off your family pet.

Is there an exorcist in the house?

SACRAMENTO SOLUTION:
ENERGY EFFICIENCY

by Ed Smeloff

In 1989, Sacramento, California ratepayers took control of their energy future. Spurred to act by skyrocketing electric bills, Sacramentans voted to close the Rancho Seco nuclear plant, a clone of the Three Mile Island reactor. The "Ranch" had operated at a dismal 39 percent average capacity over its 14 year lifetime; ratepayers demanded cheaper, more reliable power.

In two short years since, the publicly owned Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD) has rebounded from its nuclear nightmare, stabilizing double digit rate increases, recovering Wall Street confidence for its previously plummeting bond ratings, and transforming a depressed work force into proud employees. Its plan to meet future electricity demand with efficiency improvements will actually save SMUD's ratepayers more than $1 billion by the year 2010.

After years of struggling with a troubled nuclear plant, SMUD is becoming a national leader in cost-competitive energy efficiency, and looking toward renewable energy technologies.

Efficiency is seeping into other utilities boardrooms and supply plans. In New England, 12 utilities will invest more than $300 million annually to retrofit mills, offices and homes. These utilities have committed $1.65 billion through 1996 toward programs to install high efficiency lighting, reflective windows, upgraded motors and other equipment. They foresee saving money over the long run through efficiency measures that ensure adequate electricity supplies without new plant construction.

In California, two private utilities, Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and Southern California Gas Co., have both established aggressive energy efficiency improvements for the homes and offices they serve.

Through direct installation, consumer rebates, education and loan programs, these utilities and many others are making a safe bet...because efficiency pays.

Sacramento's efficiency and conservation program is perhaps the most ambitious. It includes controlling the maximum demand for power, reaching out to architects, engineers and builders to encourage energy efficient designs for new buildings, and implementing conservation programs to save electricity in existing homes and businesses.

New construction offers a vast conservation opportunity in Sacramento, especially in lighting and air conditioning. With proper design, new buildings can be made 25 percent more energy efficient than required by building standards without adding to construction costs. Electricity to serve these new homes and offices will come from savings captured from existing customers.

SMUD provides free compact fluorescent lights, low-flow shower heads, caulking compound, weatherstripping and switch plate gaskets to its customers. Customers can also receive rebates on refrigerators, air conditioners, solar water heaters and other selected measures. And the utility provides low-cost financing and helps arrange for qualified contractors for major equipment installation.

Why all the bother? Because energy efficiency is far cheaper than building new power plants.

Sacramento's energy savings plan extends into the future. With the help of citizen volunteers, SMUD has committed to plant half a million shade trees in its service area by the year 2000, which will reduce customers air conditioning needs by up to 40 percent.

To meet future electricity growth, the utility is actively developing several renewable energy projects. Together with other utilities, SMUD is building an advanced solar thermal power plant. This new solar technology holds the promise of sun-powered electricity with no fossil fuel back-up. Also, Sacramento's utility is supporting the commercialization of a variable speed wind turbine, which will significantly lower the cost of wind power; it will likely install several hundred of these wind turbines in the next five years.

Citizen pressure converted SMUD from a troubled nuclear utility to a model of reliance on energy efficiency and leadership in renewable resources. Its ratepayers make conservation programs work, enthusiastically installing efficient lights and appliances...and reaping the financial benefits. Utilities across the country can save both energy and money by making energy efficiency programs their top priority.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

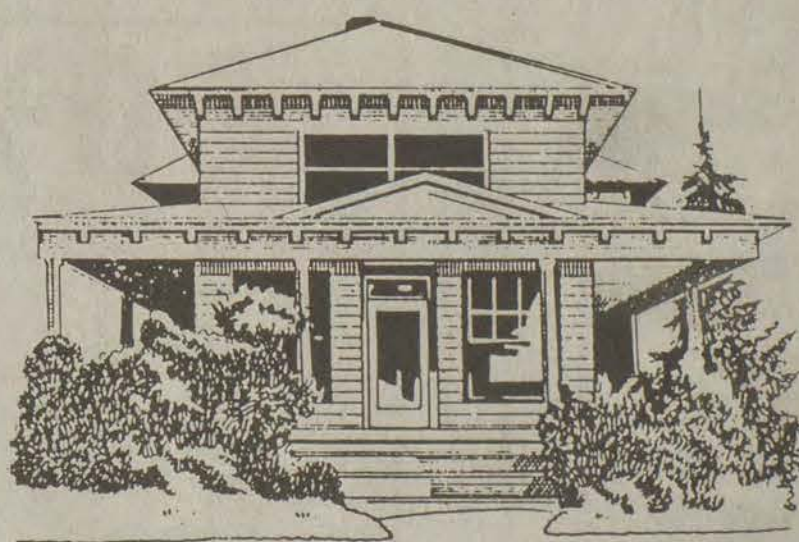

Every bank likes to loan large sums to qualified customers. But, at First Guaranty National Bank, we welcome the opportunity to make even the smallest loan too. We know that small beginnings can lead to steady and constant growth because we were small once too.

When we first opened back in 1946, we made small loans to our neighbors. Young couples borrowed just enough to fix up a place to start housekeeping. Soon, families grew and eagerly anticipated a new home of their own.

We were especially pleased when those couples came back to let us finance their new homes. Folks didn't move around much in those days and homes were built with a lifetime in mind. A lot of care and planning were involved and we were there to help.

First Guaranty National Bank is and always has been locally owned so we've been around to watch as those homes assumed characters all their own. We've seen skinny seedlings grow into tall shade trees and flower beds flourish more beautifully each year. Now some of those homes are called the old homeplace and the memories they hold are precious.

Yes, small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank. They give us the opportunity to meet needs and to establish lasting relationships with new customers. Relationships that have taken us from a brand new bank back in 1946 to a strong and sound financial institution today. So sound, in fact, that we are one of only three banks in Kentucky recognized in the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

Floyd County Arts

Floyd County Arts (FCA) members are gearing up for the Arts Expo this fall in Prestonsburg. Tentative dates set for the Expo are November 15 through December 22, from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. The Expo will be held in the old Dollar General Store, uptown.

At the Thursday, October 3, meeting of FCA, members discussed activities planned during the event, including a cleanup day on November 2 to prepare the building for the big event. Brenda Crouch, director of the group, told members the building needed scrubbing and painting. Cleaning supplies will be provided, but elbow grease is needed, she said. Cleanup begins at 8:30 a.m. and all members are asked to lend a hand.

Other activities planned during the Expo are bake sales, church bazaars, singfests, clogging and Christmas activities. Crouch said Main Street Manager Henry Mayo is checking with area civic groups to sell Christmas trees.

Area churches are encouraged to bring their handmade goodies to the event. Keep in mind, though, that anyone who prepares food must have a food handler's permit, according to the Floyd County Health Department. Food handler's permits are effective for one year, and only cost $3 for the TB skin test.

Activities are free to spectators, but those wishing to reserve a booth for sales will be charged $25 per week, $10 per day, or for only Friday and Saturday, $20. Proceeds will go to FCA for upkeep of the building. Forms are being mailed to members so they can sign up. Booth space is open, though, to anyone and those interested should contact Charlotte McFall at the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, 886-1341.

Area students will also have a chance to display their talent during the event to encourage area high school artist to keep up their work and to return their talent to Eastern Kentucky.

"You'll find arts are the first thing cut and the last thing funded (in Floyd County schools)," said Carolitta O'Quinn, art instructor at Allen Central High School. O'Quinn said she would discuss the exhibit with other art teachers at a meeting that week. Schedules for the schools will be announced at a later date.

In other business, Crouch encouraged area artists to attend with her a craft marketing workshop, "community Growth Through Craft Development Workshop," to be held October 18 at Kenlake State Resort Park or October 19 at Carter Caves Resort Park. Advance registration is required. Registration fee is $15 and must be received by October 14, Crouch said.

Also, FCA members agreed to hold another exhibit at Prestonsburg Community College next Spring at the invitation of Pat Frazier.

The next meeting will be held November 7 at the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce building, from 6-7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in promoting an art community in this area is urged to attend.

Children are awaiting adoption

Approximately 40 percent of the children in Kentucky awaiting adoption are African-American. One of these children is 11 year old Wendall Keith. Wendall is a very handsome boy who has suffered many losses and moves in his young life but has much to offer the right family.

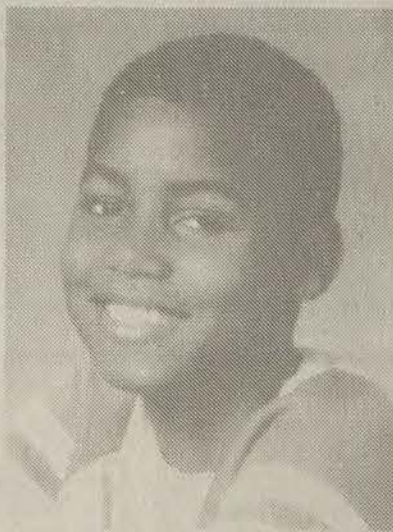

Wendall is an active child who has no physical or mental limitations. He is in the fifth grade. His present school monitors his behaviors daily. His problem is staying in his seat because he is always trying to help others.

Wendall loves both active games and quiet activities. He is very interested in playing sports, but has not been able to because the adults in his life have not been able to schedule it. At his best, Wendall can be a cheerful, bright, engaging and sensitive young boy. He can be very helpful in doing things for others. At his worst, Wendall can be angry and destructive. He strives for attention.

Wendall would do best in a two parent home, with a family where he will be the youngest child. He needs an involved role model. Both parents need to be trained to deal with his behavior problems. Wendall also needs a nurturing family that will provide lots of attention and allow contact with siblings that he is to be placed with. Are you the family for Wendall?

If you would like more information on this child or any other children in the Special Needs Adoption Program, please call your local Dept. of Social Services at 886-8192 or the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346.

AIDS:

Avoiding the subject won't make it go away

by Tess A. Whitmer
Assistant Editor

Eastern Kentucky may not, as yet, be widely affected by the AIDS crisis but some people feel that educating the young about this world-wide, lethal disease is important now, before it hits the area in epidemic proportion.

At present there is no cure for AIDS and the only prognosis is death. Due to the nature in which the disease is contracted and the lifestyles of the majority of the populace who have been diagnosed with AIDS/HIV (intravenous drug users and homosexuals), many people are reluctant to talk about this deadly and important issue.

However, AIDS is being elevated more and more to the forefront of public awareness with legislation being debated about privacy issues and whether patients and medical personnel should be required to reveal if they are infected with the disease.

One attempt to promote awareness is the creation of the Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt, which was recently on display in Lexington and will again be open to viewing by the public in the area on November 11 when it comes to Morehead State University.

A Prestonsburg woman and her child were participants in the quilt unfolding ceremony at Lexington on August 31. Gaye Meade and her nine-year-old daughter, Jennifer, were selected by to represent the Northern Kentucky Health Department by Dr. Neil Alley who works to assist people with AIDS.

The quilt includes more than 14,000 individual three feet by six feet memorial panels. About 500 of these panels were on display at the Heritage Hall in Lexington in late August. During the opening ceremonies, 40 people, including Meade and her daughter, marched into the hall in groups of five during the poetry reading portion. As each name of an AIDS victim was read, individual panels, in memory of that person, were unrolled by a group of eight people encircling the panel. Jennifer was the only child to participate in the ceremony.

"I want my daughter to know about AIDS, not telling her is not protecting her, it can only hurt her," Meade said. "She may not stay in Eastern Kentucky forever and I want her to know about the dangers that are more common in larger cities. I want to be the one to tell her about it, not someone else."

Meade said that she participated because she "just wanted to get involved."

"I gathered more information (at the quilt showing) than I knew before I went," she said, noting that it was important to her to be well educated on the subject.

Meade said her daughter was very emotional at first and cried when she saw the quilts with the baby items on them, truly realizing for the first time that each quilt panel represented someone who was dead.

"It was sad and overwhelming," Meade said, "seeing all those panels really made you think. You could see all the love that went into the sewing of these panels and knew the victims as people who had people who cared for them and they weren't just anonymous names."

Meade said that she was going to participate in the project again when it came to Morehead. A portion of the quilt will be set up in the University Center from November 11-14 as a form of AIDS education.

The goals of the NAMES Project Quilt are to:

- * Illustrate the enormity of the AIDS epidemic by showing the humanity behind the statistics;
- * Provide a positive and creative means of expression for those whose lives have been touched by the epidemic; and
- * Raise vital funds and encourage support for people living with HIV/AIDS and for their loved ones.

ABOUT THE QUILT

(As of February 1991)

— The NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt has raised $920,259 in the U.S. alone for direct services for people with AIDS.

— More than 2 million people have visited the quilt.

— There are 14,000 panels measuring 3x6 feet.

— The quilt covers 5.6 football fields without the walkway in between each 12x12 panel, with the walkway it covers 8.75 football fields.

— The total quilt weighs 31,500 pounds or 16 tons.

— There are 32 miles or seams in the quilt.

— The walkway fabric measures 4.5 miles

— 26 countries have contributed to the quilt.

HOW THE QUILT BEGAN

(taken from a publication by the NAMES Project Foundation)

Propelled by the death of a close friend from AIDS, a man named Cleve Jones searched for a way to make people understand the loss and frustration that he and so many others felt. People were dying and little was being done to stop it.

In the spring of 1987, Jones organized and met with six other people in an empty San Francisco storefront. Though strangers, they shared a common bond. Each told stories of friend, lover or family member who had died of AIDS. And each came with the hope of creating something that would serve as a lasting symbol of love and remembrance to those who had died. Starting out with sewing needles, thread and a few scraps of fabric, their special tribute soon took the shape of a quilt.

Response was immediate and widespread. People in each of the cities most affected by the epidemic — New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco — sent quilt panels to the San Francisco workshop in memory of their loved ones. The gay and lesbian community and their friends were especially generous, rapidly filling "wish lists" for sewing machines, office supplies and volunteers.

As awareness of the quilt grew, so did participation. Thousands of individuals and groups from all over the United States and overseas began to send panels to San Francisco to be included in the quilt.

On October 11, 1987, the NAMES Project displayed the quilt for the first time on the Capitol Mall in Washington, D.C. The quilt covered a space just larger than two football fields and included 1,920 panels. Half a million people visited the quilt that weekend.

The overwhelming response to the quilt during that inaugural display led to a four-month, 20-city, national tour in the spring of 1988. The tour raised nearly $500,000 for dozens of AIDS service organizations and generated a wealth of community spirit: more than 9,000 volunteers across the country helped the seven-person crew move and display the quilt. Local panels were added to the quilt in each city, tripling its size to more than 6,000 panels by the end of the tour.

The quilt returned for a second showing in Washington, D.C., in October of 1988. At this time 8,288 panels were displayed on the Ellipse in front of the White House. Hundred of celebrities, politicians, families, lovers and friends read aloud the names from the quilt panels in display. The NAMES Project gained international recognition that year when it was nominated for a Nobel Peace Prize.

In 1989, a second tour of North America brought the quilt to 19 additional cities in the U.S. and Canada. And in October of that year the quilt was displayed on the Ellipse in its entirety for the third time. The quilt garnered international attention again in 1989 when the film "Common Threads: Stories From the Quilt" won an Academy Award for Best Feature Documentary.

In 1990, in response to a growing need, the NAMES Project was Foundation expanded its programs to allow for more quilt displays. Nearly 200 displays were held worldwide, including a simultaneous five-city display in October.

All told, the NAMES Project has hosted more than 500 displays of the quilt. These displays have ranged in size from the entire quilt, to smaller exhibits in schools, churches, hospitals, shopping malls, art museums, synagogues, theaters and convention centers.

Participate in ceremony

Gaye Meade and her nine-year-old daughter, Jennifer, were two of 40 people who participated in the unfolding ceremony of the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt during the Lexington portion of the Common Threads Tour on August 31.

Beverly attends foster care conference held in Louisville

The Kentucky Foster Care Review Board held their annual state-wide conference at the Hurstborne Inn in Louisville, October 4-6. CASA representative Janie Beverley of Pike and Floyd Counties was among the 150 members in attendance. Also attending were Foster Care Review Board members and employees of the Cabinet of Human Resources.

Judge Katherine English (Oregon) addressed the group and lead exercises designed to clarify the services the state offers to abused and neglected children and their families. Panels of former foster care children and current foster parents share their unique perspectives with the Foster Care Review Board volunteers.

Workshops addressed the Cabinet for Human Resources Special Needs Adoption Program, Intensive Family Based Services, Mentor Program and the Jefferson County Family Court Pilot Project. In addition, recommendations of the Termination of Parental Rights Task Force were discussed.

Highlighting the final day of the conference were Lane Veltkamp, MSW, professor child psychiatry at the University of Kentucky Medical Center presented the Pay Foster story: "When the System Fails," and Liz Curtis Higgs, an Encourager, who presented "More than a Paycheck."

The 1991 State Foster Care Review Board Conference was conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts with assistance from the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges.

Local real estate firm joins leading referral network

Action Auction and Realty is pleased to announce that it has joined the Homequity Relocation Centers (HRC) Network, the nation's largest independent broker-to-broker referral system.

"The Homequity Relocation Centers Network provides the best alternative for real estate companies who are seeking a national affiliation but who do not wish to give up their independence or become part of a national franchise," according to Bill Gibson, Action's owner and principle broker.

W. Bruce Wallin, Vice President/General Manager for PHH Network Services, reported that in 1990, "the combined sales and listing volume of the HRC Network member firms exceeded $74 billion."

The Homequity Relocation Centers Network, organized in 1980, is composed of market-dominant, independent real estate firms that serve more than 300 major U.S. markets with 1,500 offices and 36,000 sales associates.

"We are pleased to welcome Action Auction & Realty to the HRC Network," says Wallin, "because of its fine reputation and past performance with our clients moving to and from the Big Sandy area."

"Our affiliation with PHH Homequity provides us with excellent relocation and real estate connections throughout North America," notes Gibson, "and a system for helping people relocate that has proven to be highly successful."

"More important," Gibson adds, "we have retained our independence and our local identity. We can continue to concentrate on providing excellent relocation and real estate services for the businesses and the people of the Big Sandy area, just as we have done in the past."

PHH Homequity, headquartered in Wilton, Connecticut, is the nation's largest relocation management service company, assisting more than 1,100 client corporations and government agencies in relocating nearly 67,000 employees annually.

Welcomed to group

Bill Gibson and Norman Jones, relocation director of Action Auction & Realty, were welcomed to the PHH Homequity Network by regional directors Dave Collins and Roger Thurn at the regional meeting recently held in Cleveland, Ohio.

Kentucky higher education week, Oct. 12-19 proclaimed by Gov.

Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson has proclaimed the week of October 12-19, as Kentucky Higher Education Week. Noting that theme of this nationwide celebration this year is "Share in a Community of Endeavor," Governor Wilkinson urged all citizens and enterprises in Kentucky "to investigate during this week how higher education shares in the work of their communities, to deepen their understanding of the services of Kentucky higher education to every citizen and every community, and to strengthen their support of higher education so that it may give even greater teaching, research and public service to this Commonwealth and its people."

In proclaiming this week, Governor Wilkinson noted that "Kentucky's public and independent colleges and universities have played a major role in the communities and endeavors of Kentucky for hundreds of years," and today "work closely together to bring the benefits of higher education to all of Kentucky's citizens and communities in the most effective and efficient manner."

The governor called special attention to the "broad and important role" that Kentucky's higher education institutions play in "the improvement and reform of education at all levels, which today should be the foremost endeavor of every Kentucky community."

Telecommunications Research Center serving the state

Over 15,000 educators, business people and economic development officials have visited Kentucky's Telecommunications Research Center since it opened on February 20, 1990.

Educators have come to the center for hands-on experience with the latest in education technology. Businessmen and women have come to find answers to business communications questions. And economic development officials from across Kentucky have come to learn how telecommunications can play a vital role in attracting new businesses and jobs to their areas.

The University of Louisville, South Central Bell and the Commonwealth of Kentucky formed a partnership to create and operate the Telecommunications Research Center. Each partner contributes to the center's pursuit of research, education and economic development:

- * University of Louisville faculty can assist businesses by consulting on existing telecommunications technology or with applied research on new technology. There are currently 14 research projects underway at the center.

- * The center conducts demonstrations and training on the use of new telecommunications technology or other topics of interest to those who use and rely on telecommunications.

- * The center also supports state and local economic development agencies in their efforts to help existing Kentucky businesses expand and recruit information or telecommunications-intensive companies considering relocating to the state.

As more and more people use the Telecommunications Research Center, it has become a focal point for Kentucky telecommunications. The center is the state's showcase for the potential Information Age technology has to offer for Kentucky's business, education and economic development.

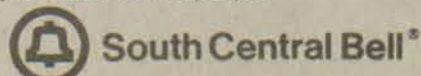

South Central Bell is proud to be a part of the center's unique, thriving alliance of high-tech business, higher education and state government. And we'll continue to apply our expertise, technology and creativity to make sure the Telecommunications Research Center works to meet the needs of Kentucky.

Pikeville hosting telecommunications seminar on October 22

The Telecommunications Research Center will be coming up to the Big Sandy Area for a day on Tuesday, October 22, 1991. Center personnel will conduct a one-day seminar at The Landmark Inn, Pikeville, to demonstrate the business applications of modern telecommunications technology.

Discussion topics will include maximizing commonly-used telephone systems, interoffice/facility communications, electronic mail, mobile communications, mass data transfer and video teleconferencing. Equipment demonstrations and question-and-answer sessions will also be conducted.

In today's competitive global economy, modern telecommunications capability is vital to business success. If you're interested in attending the seminar, please contact Bob Myers at the Big Sandy Area Development District office at (606) 886-2374, or the Pike County Chamber of Commerce at (606) 432-5504. The deadline for registration is Friday, October 18, 1991. Register soon, as seminar capacity is limited to 150 people.

CHEERLEADERS ELECTED

The Betsy Layne Elementary School recently held cheerleading tryouts for the boys' and girls' basketball teams. The new A-team members are as follows: Brandice Blankenship, Shonna Boyd, Amy Collins, Kristy Forsythe, Brandi Bryant, Jamie Hall, Amanda Justice, Holly Williams, Jill Fitzer, Amanda Johnstone and Mindy Robinette.

Cheerleading for the girls' team will be Amanda Clark, Brooke Campbell, Rexie Lawson, Angie Hunter, Amie Compton, Kelli King, Leslie Hopkins, Traci Justice, Wendy Porter and Dezereee Morton. The Betsy Layne cheerleading sponsor is Kathy Wagner, and the assistants are Patricia Adkins and Connie Hall.

ACADEMIC TEAM CHOSEN

Academic competitions have become a major facet of the middle school concept. Academic team members not only participate in sometimes intense competition, but also have the advantages of acquiring knowledge and skills and of learning to work cooperatively.

Tryouts for the Betsy Layne quick recall team were held at the school recently. This year's quick recall team members are: Brandice Blankenship, Justin Dillion, Crystal Hamilton, Leigh Keathley, Wesley Frazier, Leigh Ann Preston, Kristy Forsythe and Jade McKinney.

Alternates are Shonna Boyd, Brandy Lewis, Misty Forsythe and Jessica Hill. Tryouts for written assessment in the areas of language arts, English composition, mathematics, science and social studies are currently underway.

Under the guidance of third year coach, George Ann Case, the Betsy Layne academic team will be working hard, preparing for district, regional and state competitions.

INTERCOM SYSTEM PURCHASED

The Parent/Teacher Organization of Betsy Layne Elementary was extremely active last year. Among the events were numerous bake sales and a tremendously successful fall festival. The proceeds from these events made it possible to complete the funding for a much needed intercom system for the school. The remaining money provided each teacher with $50 for supplies. Jerry Clark, last year's president, said a lot of hard work went in to making these goals a reality, and she extends thanks and congratulations to all involved.

SAKER SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Making students aware of the physical and emotional effects of drug abuse is a major goal of drug education. On September 27, the seventh and eighth graders of Betsy Layne Elementary School participated in a program which deals with this topic. Dr. Firas Saker, of the Mud Creek Clinic, spoke to the group. Using a slide presentation, which included various charts and diagrams, Dr. Saker informed the students of the many short and long term effects of drug abuse. Drug and alcohol related accidents was the major theme of his presentation. Following the talk, a question and answer session was held. This program was the first in a series of drug education activities being planned for the school year.

Band festival at Morehead

Morehead State University's Department of Music and University Bands will host the annual Blue and Gold Festival of Marching Bands on Saturday, October 12 beginning at 12:15 p.m. in Jayne Stadium.

The 1991 festival will showcase 30 high school bands for Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, as well as an exhibition performance by the MSU Marching Band.

The Blue and Gold Festival, sanctioned by the Kentucky Music Education Association, features a "non-competitive" format with each par-

LITTLE BOYS

Last Friday, Linda, Ryan and I were having dinner at Wendy's (you don't think Linda would cook on a Friday after pay day, do you?). The meal was fine, but the real treat was the little guy who was eating at the table over from us with someone who appeared to be a special friend. The little guy appeared to be about three years old and he called his special friend Big Jack.

New, we are not in the habit of eavesdropping on other people's conversations, but this little fellow was so captivating that we were hanging on every word. After we listened and watched him for a few minutes, I said to Linda, "God knew what he was doing when he made little boys, didn't he?"

She just laughed and said, "Yes, and little girls, too."

I was attracted to the little fellow when he asked Big Jack if there were any real live magicians in the world today. Big Jack assured him that there were such people and sometimes they did magic tricks with a wand. The little fellow asked, "How they do that?" Big Jack said that he thought it was a secret. That seemed a logical enough answer for the little fellow.

The little fellow was impressed by the flags that fly atop the Wendy's building. He asked Big Jack why they were there. Big Jack told him they were put there so the wind could blow them and make them look pretty. Now, isn't that just the perfect answer to that question?

Big Jack was trying to get the little fellow to eat his food so he said, "If you don't eat your hamburger, I'll take a bite of it." The boy wondered why Big Jack didn't order any food. Big Jack simply said it was too early for him to eat. So the little fellow said, "OK, you can have a little bite of it."

When the meal was over, Big Jack told him to wipe his mouth. He missed a sport and Big Jack dipped a napkin into his drink and cleaned the corner of the little fellow's mouth. The little boy said, "Is this the way you do it, Big Jack?" He thoroughly soaked one corner of his napkin and wiped off his mouth. To finish the job, he used the sleeve of his shirt to dry his lips.

When the meal was over and they were leaving, we told Big Jack what a fine boy he was with. He thanked us and agreed he was a terrific fellow. We didn't get their names so we will just have to say, "Big Jack and your special friend, we didn't intend to invade your privacy. But seeing that no real harm was done, I'm glad we did. It reminded us of the special moments we had with our son when he was that age. Thank you Big Jack and little one for a special afternoon.

Allen Elementary's new beginning touted

Not only have the students and staff at Allen Elementary began a new school year, new is a word to describe many experiences for them. To begin with, students and staff started off the 1991-92 year in a new 'state of the art' facility. The building has 32 classrooms, able to accommodate 600 students. The schools library has shelving capacity for 10,000 books, with 5,000 already on hand. It will comfortably seat 10 percent of the schools population.

Being in the "Age of Computers", Allen Elementary has two computer labs and two classrooms set up with five computers each for the T.L.C. Program. The Remedial Reading program has a total of eight computers. The schools library is also set up with three IBM computers, using Winnebago software.

Students in Glenda Blackburn's creative writing class are beginning to write using the word processor and the new program, telecommunications, with "Writer's Line" on KET.

One of the newest additions to Allen Elementary and the public school curriculum, mandated by KERA, is the preschool program for four year olds. This program is ran on the concept of learning through play.

The pledge of allegiance to the U.S. flag is quoted every morning by the class while the symbolism of the stars and stripes is discussed.

A daily leader checks the weather by physical observation and is learning the relationship of the days of the month to a calendar through hands-on experiences.

A NEW BEGINNING by Peter Collins

Seventh grade
September 4th of this year, students at Allen Elementary took the final step in leaving the old school and moving into a new, "State of the art" school.

Let me tell you what our 'state of the art' school consists of. We now have a science lab where we can do experiments; we also have a computer lab where every student, at the same time, will use a computer. The art and music teachers also now have a room to call their own.

The design for our new school has two wings, a primary wing and a junior high wing. The commons area contains the lunchroom, library, and a fabulous gym where soon everyone can actually sit on the bleachers.

One neat new device in our new school is the intercom system. The principal and other personal no longer have to "send messengers" to different classrooms, they use the intercom.

This is a new beginning for teachers, students, and other officials. We are proud of our new school, and hope to keep it great for generations to come.

Let this new beginning not interfere with the quality education provided by the teachers at Allen Elementary.

A NEW BEGINNING

When at first we walked,
Through these halls so new,
We knew that we must say goodbye,
To our dear old Allen school.

We've made a lot of changes,
But soon we'll all adjust.
And learn to love it as our own,
Someday I hope and trust.

We've welcomed some new faces,
And embraced our old friends dear.
We've settled in the Eagles nest,
For yet another year.

There's memories to be made here,
The good times and the bad.
But, we'll all stick close together,
Through happy times, through sad.

And, when we leave these cherished halls,
When we have learned to fly,
The Eagle will shed a tear for us,
And we'll say our last goodbye.

But, goodbyes are not forever,
For, wherever we may roam,
We'll never forget the Eagles pride,
And the place that we called home.

Around the Mulberry Bush

Songs and dances such as "Around the Mulberry Bush" and "The Hokey Pokey" help teachers to instruct young children on their left and right and teaches coordination. The teachers at Allen Elementary School use this concept of learning through play with the children in the new preschool program for four year olds, mandated by KERA.

Prater Elementary dives into the primary school

by Jim Frasure

One of the more interesting challenges facing Kentucky teachers will be that of the Primary School Program for students ages five-nine, or K-3. Students are grouped together in "pods" with first grade children working side-by-side with older second and third grade children. Sherry Tackett, Rebecca Watts, Katrina Davis, Glenna Childers and Gene Davis, principal of Prater Elementary, are among the first teacher/educators to undertake this task in Floyd County.

Does this endeavor require more work for the teachers? "We spent most of the summer painting our rooms and planning the program so our students would have a cheerful and stimulating environment in which to work," replied the spokesperson for the Prater primary team. "We have not solved all the problems, but this has been our most successful beginning of a school year. The students' enthusiasm and improved attitude toward school has made the extra work worthwhile."

Fifty-three students are involved in the program (which will not contain kindergarten students until next year) and parent volunteers come into the classrooms at least once a week. As part of the first Thematic Unit of Oceans and Sea Animals, Dusty Taylor's father, Joe David, came by to demonstrate scuba diving equipment. Dena Gibson volunteered to provide a music lesson for the children once a week. Other guests of note include the Allen Volunteer Fire Department, and an advanced biology class from Betsy Layne High School. The high school students demonstrated the dissection of three sharks.

"We attended seminars together as a primary team last May and worked this summer getting everyone's ideas developed into a working plan," principal Davis said about the program. "The students are excited and very interested in school this year. The primary team is working great together and enjoying the new approach to early childhood learning."

Soapbox

SOMETIMES I JUST WANT TO CRY

"I read an article in the paper a few weeks ago about low interest home loans, but I don't have the article and I need the phone number that was listed."

"I mailed a picture down there two months ago and sent a self addressed stamped envelope with it and haven't got it back yet, do you have it?"

"My neighbor has grown the biggest tomato in the world, we live in Wheelwright, can you run up here and get a picture?"

"We are giving out a plaque at our Moose Club meeting this Friday night, can you cover it?"

"I'm doing research on my family tree and someone told me there was an article in your paper sometime in the 1950s about my family, can you look it up for me?"

"Do you have the number for the state department of human resources?"

"My name is the same as someone else's who was listed in the Courthouse News, can you print something telling people that wasn't me?"

"You'd think the job of assistant editor would entail more important matters, but this is just a small sampling of the phone calls I get every day. All may seem terribly important to the caller, but all are time consuming, some more so than others, and sometimes I just want to scream, 'Isn't there anybody else in this office that works here! What am I? The information booth, or the phone call dumping ground?'"

Any call that comes in that no one else wants to answer they give it to me. Even the people that work here think I have the answers to everything that goes into the newspaper. News Flash...I don't.

I get so busy sometimes I don't hardly read the items I do put in the newspaper. I haven't even had an opportunity to read the front page news from the last three papers. My publisher will bring up a topic and I'll question what he is talking about and he'll say, "don't you read the state newspapers?"

When do I have the time? Today when I told him that I was not going to be here during the week of Christmas, because if I was, I would end up sitting home alone during Christmas Day (something I'm not going to do) since my family all lives out of state. He said, "you need to go out and make some friends."

Again, when do I have the time? I have friends, but they are hard to keep when you never get to see them. Forget dating, that takes up way too much time. This weekend, I, somehow, managed to have a wonderful time with a friend. Granted the housework I had planned to do didn't get done, but oh what bliss it was just to spend the whole day romping around Floyd County, doing whatever came to mind. (Thanks for the escape, Wayne!)

But, back to my job. I am scheduled to speak at the Writer's Workshop on November 1 and I hope I am in a better mood than I am today because I'm afraid of what I will say if I'm not.

I can see it now, "NO, run away, don't go into the news business young children, because then your personal life will cease to exist! You'll get hooked, and believe it is worth the sacrifice, and everyone will be relying on you to constantly be on the job."

The hardest part about the business is that it never ends. As soon as one paper goes out, that part of your life is behind you and you start working on the next paper. Time to flush out everything about the last edition, clear your mind for everything coming your way for the new one. By Tuesday, the Lifestyles Section, printed on Monday, is old news to me. Don't even ask me about it, because I've put it out of mind.

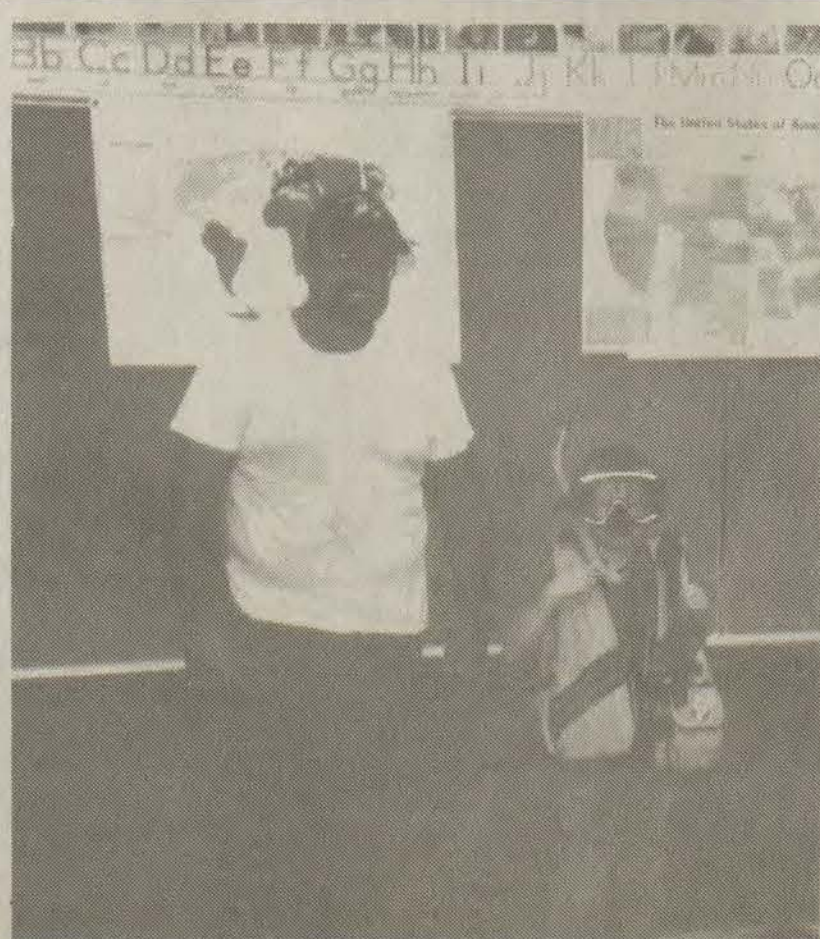

Look at your most recent newspaper, see all those stories on the inside (not counting sports)? I typed or scanned most of those. I edited all of them, including sports. I printed out many of them, and I pasted quite a few of them on the page. I also, in one day, answered 25-30 phone calls, took a few pictures, talked in my office with 5-10 people, drank four cups of coffee, and found time to visit the restroom once.

Since it is 6 p.m. on Wednesday night as I write this, I'll probably come in tomorrow morning, reread it, and realize what a poor mood I was in the night before. But, alas, there will be no time for rewrites since only 10 percent of the things that needed done for Friday's paper got done Wednesday, and it will just have to go as is.

So, forgive me if I've insulted anyone, but I'm glad I got this off my chest. I feel better now.

New approach to education

Joe David Taylor and son, Dusty, demonstrate scuba diving equipment for a primary class, a new program at Prater Elementary School.

New faculty

New faces at Betsy Layne H S

Betsy Layne High School has seen many changes this '91-92 school year, and most have been attributed to new principal Alan Osborne. Osborne, a seven year veteran principal, last held a principalship at Woodford County High School in Versailles, where his family resides. Osborne has no set plan of action at Betsy Layne.

"I won't specifically improve anything," he says. I'll be a facilitator that will allow things to change because of the attitudes and actions of the student body and faculty."

Osborne is not the only new face seen in the halls of Betsy Layne this year. Among the faculty changes at BLHS is a new band director, Mike Cooley. Cooley, a graduate of Morehead University, has taught music for six years, the past four spent at Allen

Central High School.

Other changes in faculty are Sean Ousley, recent graduate of Alice Lloyd College in social studies; Patricia Allen, graduate of the University of Kentucky in special education; Ruth Thompson, graduate of Pikeville College also in special education; Amy Mayo, recent graduate of the University of Kentucky in math; and Paul Prater recent graduate of Alice Lloyd College also in math. The Chapter One Program has also provided BLHS with a teacher in math remediation, Karen Wilson, recent graduate of Eastern University.

The student body and faculty at Betsy Layne welcomes the new staff members and looks forward to a landmark year in education.

MSU to observe National Higher Education Week

Morehead State University will observe National Higher Education Week October 13-19 with a variety of activities, including a special luncheon featuring the chairman of the state's higher education citizens group.

The focal point of the week is a student leadership luncheon, slated Monday, October 14, at 11:30 a.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

The speaker will be James M. Wiseman of Lexington, chairman of the Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education, a statewide group of business and civic supporters of higher education.

Wiseman is the general manager of public affairs for Toyota Motor Manufacturing, USA, Inc., in Georgetown. Before joining Toyota in 1989, Wiseman served as president and chief executive officer of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

"Share in a Community Endeavor" is the theme for the week, which is sponsored nationally by the Council for Advancement and Support of Higher Education to foster public awareness of the importance of higher education.

On Tuesday, October 15, the University will take sits observance on the road to Prestonsburg for a "Meet Morehead State Night" at the Jenny Wiley Conference Center and on Thursday, October 17, the informational road show moves to the Lexington Hilton at Lexington Green.

Also included as part of the week's activities is the Arts in Morehead — sponsored performance of "As You Like It," featuring the North Carolina Shakespeare Festival touring company, on Wednesday, October 16 at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium.

Another part of the campus community, the Alumni Association, has scheduled an outing to Keeneland on Sunday, October 13, as part of the week's programming.

Setting the stage for MSU's observance of National Higher Education Week was an address by Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, on October 7. Dr. Boyer discussed higher education issues, including general education reform and the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990.

MSU also will be observing National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week during this same period with a number of program scheduled on campus.

Transylvania seeks applicants for $50,000 merit scholarships

Transylvania University in Lexington, Kentucky offers talented high school seniors a chance to compete for full merit scholarships worth more than $50,000 over a four-year period. Through the William T. Young Scholars Program, Transylvania annually selects 25 students to attend the private liberal arts college for four years without paying tuition and fees or room and board.

Finalists who are not awarded a Young Scholarship will receive consideration for a President's Scholarship. The amount of this award varies, but is substantial.

Winners are selected on the basis of academics, leadership, character and citizenship. Because the scholarship is based on merit, the financial background of a student's family has no bearing upon selection.

The Young Scholars Program was established to recognize outstanding students and attract them to Transylvania. Privately funded by individuals and corporations, the scholarship has been lauded as "one of the most ambitious merit-award programs in the nation" by the The Wall Street Journal.

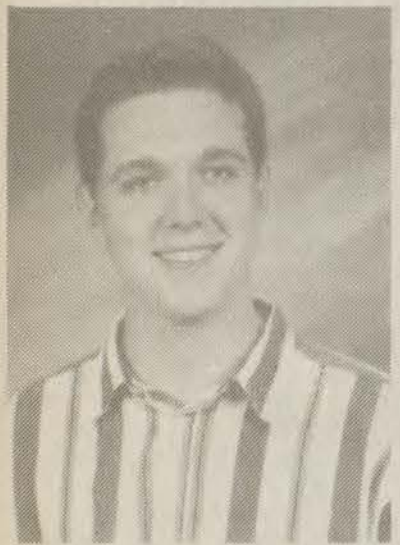

Applications for the scholarships must be submitted by January 22, 1992.

Founded in 1780, Transylvania was the first college established west of the Allegheny mountains. The university has an enrollment of about 1000 students and offers a bachelor of arts degree in 23 majors.

Transylvania was ranked first in the South among regional liberal arts colleges in a 1989 survey conducted by U.S. News and World Report. Transylvania has appeared in the top five in its category in each of the last four U.S. News surveys. It was also included among America's 50 top liberal arts colleges by The National Review College Guide.

BLHS student honored

Betsy Layne High School student Brian Newman, 16, son of Hillard and Sylvania Newman of Grethel, has been commended by the National Merit Scholar Association. This association offers scholarships to outstanding students nationwide. Brian is a Governor's Scholar and attended the program at Centre College over the summer.

German club initiation at BLHS

On Friday, September 27, the Betsy Layne High School German Club held its annual initiation day. The initiation, which was set by the old German Club members, consisted of the German I students wearing a garbage bag over their clothes, workgloves, working boots, three pony-tails (girls only), and a tie (boys only).

Other activities the German Club will be having include the Oktober Fest (fall festival), the Fashing Fest (in April), the Weinacht's Fest (Christmas festival), and a field trip in the spring.

Later this month the Oktober Fest will be held. This event features the typical German Essen (foods), Herbst (fall) decorations, and German Volksmusik (folkmusic). The club members and invited guests are exposed to the Festkultur (festival culture of Germany).

Attends workshop

Brenda Porter, senior English teacher at Betsy Layne High School, attended a workshop for advanced placement English at Paul Laurence Dunbar High School in Lexington on October 4. The workshop was conducted to update AP English teachers in their field of study. The high school AP program was developed by the College Board to offer an intensive study of English and literature for advanced high school students.

BLHS FFA participate in Pike fair

The Betsy Layne FFA participated in the Pike County Fair August 14-17. The FFA submitted 35 shop projects ranging from tool/nail boxes to Christmas ornaments. These projects were developed through class shop projects or as part of their supervised occupational experience programs. Each entry was an example of a particular student's shop capabilities. Of the 35 projects submitted for judging 24 received blue ribbons and 11 received red ribbons. Later in the year (91-92), FFA students will make individual shop projects or home improvement projects, through supervised occupational experience programs, in wood working, metal working, pipe fitting, or electricity for submitting to next year's fair.

Secretary is appreciated

Phyllis Senters

For the past four years the staff and students of Betsy Layne Elementary have enjoyed the services of an individual who has become almost indispensable. Phyllis Senters, Betsy Layne Elementary School secretary, does everything from giving change to the students to receiving messages for teachers to completing daily forms and paperwork. She lends an ear to the problems of both staff and students and is always ready to assist individuals any way that she can.

Senters enjoys her job as there is never a dull moment for her in the school day. The antics and sayings of the younger children often amuse her and brighten her day. Over the past four years she has developed many friendships at Betsy Layne Elementary as her work takes her in contact with the entire personnel department.

Senters is happily married to Bud Senters, and they reside in Betsy Layne. Their family includes their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Senters, and two grandsons, Wesley and Brandon. Senters enjoys crocheting, swimming, and singing in a gospel quartet.

The employees and staff of Betsy Layne Elementary School often express their gratitude about have such a dedicated worker employed at the school, one that adds a personal touch to everything she does.

by Sarah Hopson

DOG TIRED AND BONE WEARY

Another dog fight has erupted within the Hopson household concerning the care and treatment of my trusted companion, Butch. To date, no other argument between Jimmie and myself has been quite as intense or frustrating.

It all started when Butch began scratching on our outside bedroom door whenever he wanted in the house. Unfortunately, he always wants in between 2 and 3 a.m. which coincides with Jimmie's REM sleep.

Regardless of what Jimmie believes, I don't actually treat Butch any better than I do him. True, I do talk to Butch as if he were a person, but only because he's often more responsive.

"Look at that silly dog," Jimmie said one day last week as we were eating dinner while Butch crouched on the floor to eat his kibbles and Cheezy Chews. "He's so lazy he won't even stand up to eat."

"You don't stand up to eat. Why should he?"

"Because he's a dog, Sara. I suppose you think he ought to use a fork and knife."

"I've tried to teach him, but they keep sliding through his fingers. I mean his paws."

Jimmie glared at me and said, "While we're at it, you're going to have to do something about him waking me up at all hours of the night. Last night he woke me up, and I couldn't get back to sleep."

"Personally, I admire him for not acting like other dogs who bark to get into the house."

"He's torn up two sets of door frames!"

"But he doesn't wake the neighbors," I countered.

"Why should he? The neighbors don't have to get out of bed to let him in."

He had a point, but I had to make him understand that Butch is more than a dog to me. He's my friend and constant companion, a solace in the midst of daily turmoil.

"You might not understand this, but he's important to me."

"And my sleep isn't?"

"Certainly it is. I'll try to explain it to Butch so he can understand it."

"You're exasperating, Sara!" Jimmie exclaimed. "That dog takes precedence over everybody. You actually think he knows what to say? Do something about him or else."

Given an ultimatum, my fur was ruffled and the argument escalated.

"Why shouldn't I treat Butch like a person? When was the last time you panted when you saw me drive up in the car?"

"What?"

"And I can't remember the last time you licked my cheek!"

"You're insane!"

"And come to think of it, you never nudge my arm with your nose and try to get me to pet you anymore."

"I never did do anything that stupid!" he yelled.

"Affection is important. Butch is always tickled to see me, even if I've only been gone for 10 minutes. You barely acknowledge me if you haven't seen me for hours. If you came running to the door, wagging your tail and jumping up on me every time I pulled in the driveway, it would thrill me."

"The neighbors would get a kick out of it, too," he said, sourly. "If you think I'd make an idiot out of myself just to get scratched behind the ears, you're crazy! Listen to me. I can't believe we're talking about this. Two adults arguing over something that doesn't even have a conscience or a soul."

"I didn't say you didn't have a conscience."

Admitting defeat, Jimmie dejectedly threw his fork in his plate and rose from his chair and said, "Sara, all I ask is that you do something about that dog waking me up at night. I'm bone-tired."

When Jimmie left the room, Butch made his way to me and gently laid his head on my lap. As I rubbed his head, I explained that he would have to find another way to let me know when he wanted in the house.

At 2 a.m. the next morning, the doorbell rang. Jimmie awoke and turned to me and asked, "Now who would that be at this hour?"

Harold pilots primary school

Harold Elementary is one of five schools in Floyd County to be a pilot for the KERA Primary School.

The primary staff and principal developed a plan involving the six classrooms that would have been grades one, two, and three in a traditional school setting. Each classroom consists of approximately 1/3 six year olds, 1/3 seven year olds, and 1/3 eight year olds. These students are grouped heterogeneously so that each 1/3 is made up of high, middle, and low achievers.

The students will remain in this family type setting until completing the primary skills. These students are taught skills through thematic units.

The teachers develop these units around the interests of the students, who move through the program at their own pace without fear of retention. The remediation and special education teachers supplement the regular program by coming into the classroom to work with the students needing their assistance.

The staff and students at Harold are very excited about the program. The Primary School will be required in all schools next year.

Begins school

Camcorders at Betsy Layne

Lizzie Hamilton

Lizzie Hamilton's advanced placement art class have recently piloted a special media-art program called "Use Your Talent to Express Yourself!" With this program, one to two minute clips are recorded throughout the day, by camcorder, of special events or just of every day classes. These clips are compiled to a master tape which is edited with music and other special affects; when finished the tape will be aired along with the morning news on Channel 1.

This program was inspired by Scott Jones, a Junior at Betsy Layne High School. Scott, who excels in art, was accepted in the Appalshop Program, presented by Appalachian Media Institution in Whitesburg this past summer. This program is designed to cultivate and improve interest with various media-art forms.

HOROSCOPE

October 13 through October 19

By C.C. Clark

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)

Egotism will get you nowhere. Make certain you are aware of what you are doing and saying to those around you. You may be giving a different impression than you wish.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)

A love relationship intensifies, and the sparks will fly. Try being a little more carefree. The change in attitude will do wonders for your mental health.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)

Your financial sector is looking much better, and you will be able to plan for future ventures. Check investment options carefully. It is best to seek professional advice.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)

A tasteless comment could cause big problems with loved ones, especially a mate. Laughing at your own mistakes will boost someone else's self-esteem.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)

Friends and family think you are wonderful and want to prove it to you. Accept their kindness and reciprocate when possible. A loved one needs your guidance.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

Confronting someone close to you is not easy, but it is necessary. You will meet or reacquaint yourself with a person who will bring you great love and joy.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)

Pay close attention to detail and be cautious when signing contracts. A friend needs your advice but is afraid of being judged. Show your care by listening.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)

Ignorance is not bliss, especially in business matters. You must know all the facts before making an educated decision. Extra paperwork could cause problems.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Your creative energy is sending you in all directions. Take time to focus your thoughts. The creative process is important, but not at the expense of family and friends.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Getting plenty of sleep will help you avoid illness. The best way to make sure you don't get sick is to rest, eat right and exercise moderately.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

Open your mind to co-workers' and family members' ideas, and they might just surprise you. Children may figure prominently in your life over the coming weeks.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)

You know money doesn't grow on trees, but there will be times this week when you wish it would. Paying off debts is important, as you will soon discover.

Denzel Washington took home 'Glory' Oscar

By Taylor Michaels
Q: Tell me about Matthew Broderick, one of my favorite actors. Did he win an Oscar for his performance in Glory? I've noticed that in most of his movies he talks to his audience. Is there any reason for this, do you think?
—Cynthia Rizh, Portland, Ore.

Matthew Broderick

A: Broderick was born Aug. 21, 1962, in New York City. His movies include Max Dugan Returns, WarGames, Ladyhawke, 1918, Ferris Bueller's Day Off, Biloxi Blues, The Freshman, Family Business and Glory. A few years back he was involved with Jennifer Grey (the star of Dirty Dancing and Broadway-star Joel Grey's daughter), but now he is involved with actress Helen Hunt, whom he met while filming Project X four years ago.

As for talking to his audience, Broderick used that device in Ferris Bueller's Day Off and Biloxi Blues, and he talked to himself in Ladyhawke. In all cases it was probably because the scripts called for it.

Broderick did not win an Oscar for Glory, but his co-star, Denzel Washington, did win the award for best supporting actor.

Q: I'm a big fan of the adult-film star Marilyn Chambers. I would like to know her history and how she got her start in adult films.
—Mark Tucholski, Kihei, Hawaii.

A: Ironically, Chambers was once the Ivory Snow baby. Years later she met the Mitchell brothers, producers of pornographic movies, who felt having the Ivory Snow girl in one of their movies would be fantastic.

Chambers' first adult film, Behind the Green Door, was such a popular success that its producers tried to get it nominated for an Academy Award.

In 1977, Chambers made her first mainstream film, Rabid, with director David Cronenberg (Dead Ringers, The Fly).

Q: About two years ago, Martin Mull published a humorous book titled The History of White People in America. I have tried a number of bookstores in Ohio, and none of them have a copy. I would appreciate an address for Martin Mull so I can inquire about his book.
—James Hargus, Norwalk, Ohio.

A: I called a local bookstore on this one. The History of White People in America is published by Putnam Press. Go back to your bookstore with this information and ask them to order it for you.

Q: Since Julia Roberts has been on the big screen, I have enjoyed her freshness. I have written to a few production companies for an address so I might be able to let Miss Roberts know this, but have had no luck. Please help!
—M. Wilhelm, Red Wing, Minn.

A: You can write the actress c/o ICM, 8899 Beverly Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif., 90048.

VIDEO BIJOU

Author Horton Foote has scripted many fine films

By Steven Alan McGaw

Writer Horton Foote has written the screenplays for some of Hollywood's best films, including To Kill a Mockingbird, Tender Mercies and 1985's moving The Trip to Bountiful. Let's take a look at some other movies scripted by this talented Texan.

Baby the Rain Must Fall (1965)

Perhaps this movie has always been underrated because of the title. It's too bad, because there's much here to appreciate, including Foote's warm screenplay and Robert Mulligan's (To Kill a Mockingbird, The Other) deft storytelling skills. Steve McQueen stars as a convict who, after his release from prison, tries to make it as a husband and family man, but just can't seem to get the hang of it. Lee Remick plays his wife, and Don Murray is fine as a kindhearted sheriff who tries to help him.

Tomorrow (1972)

What a pedigree this film has with Robert Duvall in the lead and a script adapted from a story by William Faulkner. Duvall plays a near-retarded, reclusive handyman and small-time farmer who takes in an abandoned, pregnant young woman he finds wandering in the woods. He gently cares for her and soon falls in love. Then the story takes a darker turn. This movie features one of Duvall's best performances and is surely the best cinematic presentation of Faulkner.

WHY ALL THE CONTROVERSY.....

I wonder when James Hogan Jr. was declared having set the record for the most passing yardage in one game. Did anyone question the stats that was produced to prove such a feat?

Now, 25 years later, a kid from the mountains of Eastern Kentucky throws for 651 yards and the coaching staff has film to back up the stats — yet, there is doubt. The doubt comes because of conflicting reports. First, it is reported that he totaled 751 yards against Allen Central, and then USA Today reports that it was 588 yards. After viewing the film, Sheldon Clark coach Jim Matney officially declares that it was indeed 651 yards, therefore, breaking the old record of 636 yards that has stood for the past 25 years.

Why would the powers-that-be be so hesitant in accepting the word of Jesse Watts coach? As Coach Matney stated, "no one is running for president."

Could it be that the national record is not to be held by someone from the mountains of Eastern Kentucky? Watts is a tremendous quarterback and knows how to pass the football. He has the good receivers, and Donnie Slone has perhaps the best set of hands in the region.

I talked to Ronnie Hickman, sports editor of the Martin County Mountain Citizen, the day following the game and he told me, before all the controversy, that Watts had the 651 yards. Hickman said that he keeps stats of every game, every play — and most sports editors do. Why should they be doubted? I say no one ever questioned their stats before.

Let it stand as a new national record.

BLANTON TAKES SHOW ON THE ROAD....

Would you like to talk baseball during the American and National League playoffs? You can by dropping by Johnny Lemaster's Sports Center in Paintsville because WSIP sports director Jason Blanton has taken his show on location at the Sports Center and, along with Lemaster, who spent 10 years in the Major Leagues and mostly with the San Francisco Giants, you can ask questions and discuss the playoffs with Blanton and Lemaster.

"Anyone can call in or stop by Johnny's Sport Center any day, Monday through Wednesday between the hours of 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.," said Blanton. "We'll be there until the playoffs and World Series are over."

NEEDED: YARD MARKERS AT LOCAL FOOTBALL FIELDS

It certainly is hard when you are trying to keep stats of a football game and have to guess where the 10, 20, 30, 40 or 50 yard lines lay. It is a real challenge when visiting our local fields.

Prestonsburg does have their lines marked off on the field, but no indicators on the sidelines. Allen Central is really a guessing game. Wheelwright's field is marked off also on the field, but sometimes the markings are too light to see. Betsy Layne's field is so sloped that the markers on the far side of the field don't seem to match up with the markings on the field next to the stands. As Keith Henry (referee) told me at Betsy Layne, "guess at it." How about investing into some sideline markers coaches?

CAR SHOW AT MARTIN'S RED, WHITE AND BLUE DAYS

Don't forget the upcoming car show at Red, White and Blue Day at Martin on Saturday, October 19. The show will take place in the parking lot of the First Guaranty National Bank. The local bank is the sponsor of the car show with Tina Mills (who knows everything about antique cars) in charge. If you are interested in entering the show, call Tina at 285-9281.

Until Wednesday, be good sports. It's always the best!

Bobcats Claw Little Rebels 14-0

Tim Rice's Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats opened their grade school football schedule on a very positive note as they posted a 14-0 win over the Little Rebels of Allen Central. The Betsy Layne football team is made up of players from John M. Stumbo, Betsy Layne and Harold grade schools.

Betsy Layne's first touchdown was set up by a fumble recovery by Donnie Elkins. The Rebels had just been hit with a 5 yard penalty when they fumbled the ball on the Betsy Layne 16-yard line.

Betsy Layne took control of the football with 6:02 left in the first quarter and marched 84 yards for the touchdown. Charlie Hall scored the first TD from 8 yards out to give the Bobcats a 6-0 lead. The extra point failed. In the drive, Elkins had a carry of 52 yards to move the football to the 8-yard line. A clipping call against the Rebels helped in the drive also.

Early in the fourth quarter, Betsy Layne, with the help of four penalty calls on the Rebels, made it a 14-0 game when Phillip Reed carried the football into the end zone from 1 yard out. Jason Cecil ran the two-point conversion for the 14-0 lead. Allen Central's players were getting frustrated on the field and were flagged for two face masks, a holding penalty and unsportsmanlike conduct calls.

Hall had ran the football into the end zone from 52 yards out, but the score was nullified when the Bobcats were called for a clipping penalty. Elkins led the Bobcats rushing game with 75 yards on six carries. Reed rushed for 30 yards on five carries. Craig Hamilton had 20 yards on three carries.

Betsy Layne picked up eight first downs and had a total of 189 total offensive yardage. Betsy Layne carried the football 22 times for 177 yards. Reed had two completions in six tosses for 12 yards passing. Craig Hamilton had the two receptions from Reed.

The Bobcats fumbled the football three times, losing the ball just once. They were penalized 40 yards on six flags.

Allen Central was led in rushing by quarterback Eric Moore with 46 yards on 10 carries. Moore was two of four in passing the football for 37 yards. Adam Coleman had two receptions for 37 yards. The Rebels had a total offense of 114 yards with 77 yards coming on the ground. Allen Central collected 90 yards in penalties on eight flags. The Little Rebs fumbled the football five times, losing it three.

Allen Central falls to 1-2 while the Bobcats are 1-0 on the year.

Prestonsburg Junior Girls Best Seniors In Powder Puff Bowl Game

Powder Puff Flag Football. What in the world is it? Is it a threat to football as we know it today? Will it replace basketball as the number one sport in Floyd County? Will radio stations be bashing at the school doors for broadcast rights to the games? Relax. There's no threat. Yet!

Powder Puff Flag Football is the brain child of Bobby Hamilton, who teaches at the Prestonsburg High School and has put together this concept of real football, but it is played by the girls and not the boys. It is flag football at its best.

This year was the second time the Powder Puff football series has been held at the local school, and it is catching on as a popular sport for fans to watch. A large crowd turned out for games played Monday night and again for the finals Wednesday evening. When it was over, it was the junior girls, coached by Jamie Howell, Jackie Howard and Billy Bottoms, who took home the Powder Puff crown. Sponsors for the junior team are Aileen Brown and Sharon Vaughn.

In the championship round between the seniors and juniors, it took an overtime to decide the winners, but the junior class prevailed with an exciting 12-6 win. Last year, as sophomores (juniors this year), they were runners-up to last year's senior class. That should make them a favorite to repeat next season. Kerry Merion is the "strike" throwing quarterback for the junior class.

In the first game Wednesday evening, played for third place, the sophomores edged the freshmen 20-14 in overtime.

The games began Monday evening when the juniors had an easy time with the freshmen and posted a 40-0 win over the frosh. Freshman quarterback Jamie Clay just couldn't get her team's running game going.

In Monday night's second game, it was the seniors rolling past the sophomore's 30-0.

Members of the winning junior Powder Puff champions are: Juda Combs, Racquel Caine, Carolyn Reffitt, Beth Ramey, Tracy Shutts, Jamie Ward, Kerry Merion, Angie Webb, Tara Robinson, Lynn Ratliff, Janine Lee, Stacie Powers, Stephanie Preston, Racquel Childers, Shawnda Lewis, Cathy Weathers, Stephanie Music, Kerry May, Jennifer Ousley, Tonyia Bandy.

On a sweep!

Blackcats Go After Third Straight Against Magoffin County

It will be homecoming tonight at the Prestonsburg football stadium as the Prestonsburg Blackcats go after their third consecutive victory against Pete Greene's winless Magoffin County Hornets. The Hornets will bring a 0-6 overall record to the Prestonsburg arena and the Hornets are 0-4 in district play.

All eyes in the stadium will be trained on the football at half time also as eight candidates vie for the title of "Miss Homecoming 1991." Competing for the coveted title will be Amber Billips, Anna Franklin, Rachel Hackworth, Crystal Hall, Krissy Hall, Carmelita Hitchcock, Tonia McGaffee and Laura Miller.

It hasn't been a good year thus far for the Hornets as they have not really been in a game except for the Betsy Layne contest early in the season. In fact, the Hornets led 6-0 against the Bobcats before losing 8-6.

Perhaps the smallest on the field will be the Hornets' John Rodriguez, but don't let his size fool you. Rodriguez is quick and likes to play the game mean.

Brandon Jenkins and Shane Perkins are two others who can run the football for Magoffin County.

The Hornets are a very young team and, in the early going, the inexperience has shown. Magoffin County was shut out last Friday night against Raceland 33-0.

Prestonsburg will look to improve their district record to 3-1 and go to 3-4 overall. The Blackcats may be looking past the Hornets to next week's show down with the district-leading Sheldon Clark Cardinals.

Prestonsburg is definitely an improved ball club and looks good in places in their 26-12 road win over Shelby Valley last Friday night. Both sides of the line have shown improvement, and you probably can credit the tough competition the Cats have had to play this year. There hasn't been what you might term an "easy game" among the first six played.

Whether the Blackcats look to the Hornets for such a game is not advisable. While the records indicate the game should be a "W" for the win column, Prestonsburg needs to play as if the district title is resting on the game.

Dwayne Garza and John Goble have been nothing but sensational coming out of the backfield for the Cats in the last two games. Garza has rushed for over 100 yards in his last two games. The power runner picked up 172 yards last Friday against a good Shelby Valley team on 18 carries. He had 123 yards rushing against Betsy Layne the week before. Garza has rushed for 516 yards this season on 69 carries.

For Goble, the running back gained over 100 yards for the first time this season when he rushed for 122 yards on 19 carries against Shelby Valley. In the four games (not counting the first game of the season when he was ejected early), Goble has managed 293 yards on 63 carries. Goble is starting to play with more confidence.

Speaking of confidence, you can see it grow in quarterback Aaron Tucker. Tucker is more consistent in his passing, and he is starting to run the ball well also.

Not only has the offense picked

Eastern, Western Renew Rivalry For 68th Time At Eastern This Saturday

The list of outstanding football games at Eastern Kentucky University's Roy Kidd Stadium should increase by one Saturday night as the state's oldest rivalry — Eastern Kentucky versus Western Kentucky — will be renewed for the 68th time at 7 p.m.

Eastern, ranked third in the nation in the latest I-AA poll, comes in at 4-1, riding a four game winning streak, following the opening 24-14 loss to Louisville. The latest star in ECU's 1991 crown came Saturday night in a regionally televised 10-6 win over defending I-AA national champion Georgia Southern.

"I thought it would be tough to top our win over Middle Tennessee and the excitement in the stands and on the field, but I believe Saturday night did that with the win over Georgia Southern," said ECU head coach Roy Kidd.

"The crowd really got into it. They stood and yelled for our defense all night long and I know that got me excited, and I'm sure, got our defense pumped up, too. That game, as much as anything, was a statement of pride for our program. It was very gratifying to beat the defending national champions for a second straight year."

The key to the win for Eastern was a very stingy and big play oriented defense that forced four GSU fumbles. Kidd was very lavish in his praise for this unit.

"What a great game they (our defense) played. It was such a tense and intense game where one big play could swing the score the other way. Yet, our defense, with their backs against the wall, came through and stopped them at the end," Kidd added.

Western, 2-2 on the season, almost upset ninth ranked Middle Tennessee last week before losing 23-21 in the final seconds. "Western comes at you hard, has good speed and quickness and will present another tough challenge for our team. We need to play with the same intensity as we did against Louisville, Middle Tennessee and Georgia Southern or we could be in trouble real quick," said Kidd.

Each year more than 300,000 people die of heart attack before they reach the hospital. Many of them might have been saved, says the American Heart Association. Studies indicate that 50 percent of heart attack victims wait more than two hours before getting to an emergency room.

Pikeville Invitational, Own Invitational Highlight Lady Blackcats BB Schedule

December 1. What happens on December 1? That is when the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats, and the rest of the basketball world, will begin season play for the 1991-92 season. In fact, the Lady Blackcats will actually play in a panorama at Paintsville on Saturday, November 30.

At present, the team is going through a conditioning program and practice will not officially begin until Tuesday, October 15.

Two invitational tournaments will highlight the 1991-92 Lady Blackcats schedule this year. Coach Bridgett Clay's club will be taking part in the Pikeville Invitational on December 6-7. Again this year, the Lady Blackcats will host their own invitational, something they revived last year. Their tournament will run from December 13 through the 14.

Prestonsburg will play just 10 home games this season, not counting the tournament, and will be on the road for 13. Clay's squad will open on the road with a Monday night game against Shelby Valley.

After the Pikeville Invitational, it will go into the conference war against always-tough McDowell in a home game. Following their own invitational, The Lady Blackcats will face two more conference foes in Betsy Layne and last year's district champions Allen Central.

Prestonsburg will play a home and

Sports Commentary

Untested College Players To Demanding, Or Is It Their Agents?

Can you believe it? The top draft picks in last year's NBA draft are asking for the sky in trying to sign with their respective NBA club.

The number four pick, Dikembe Mutombo, out of Georgetown, just signed a contract for $12 million and he has yet to play the first game in the NBA. The contract is over a four year period making him worth $3 million a year.

Now, that number four has signed for that much, think what numbers one, two and three might command. It is staggering the way salaries in professional sports have gotten completely out of hand.

At least in the major leagues owners have the chance to see what a baseball player can do in the minor league system. But, in the NBA, how they perform in college is the only gauge the basketball pros have to evaluate a player.

A ceiling price should be established for new players coming into the NBA. A first or even a second year look at a promising prospect would give the owners of an NBA club a chance to evaluate a player and, if he is deserving of more money, then open negotiations.

As of this writing there are 13 first round draft picks still unsigned. Remember the days when a college player was drafted by the NBA, he couldn't wait to ink that contract. There was not the delay in signing a player then. The problem today is the greediness of the player's agents compared to 10-15 years ago. Some want to blame the players and rightfully so, but it is through the advice of their agents they hold out for the big bucks.

If I owned an NBA team and drafted a top college player, I certainly would want to see him perform outside of college basketball and then make my decision as to pay him the big bucks.

IF YOU'RE A BASEBALL MANAGER, DON'T UNPACK!
So it seems. Especially this year. Eleven managers have bitten the dust since the start of baseball season this year, and three of those since Monday. Monday it was Stump Merrill. Tuesday Boston axed Joe Morgan and yesterday Tom Trebelhorn was a managerial tragedy.

There certainly has to be a lot of pressure in a manager's position. The problem of handling a bunch of spoiled millionaires has to be one of the biggest headaches of all time. The managers never perform on the field. He never gets to hit the ball, shag a fly ball or strike out a batter. Yet, when it comes time to making changes, he is always the one that never gets to do the things that wins ball games.

Of course changing one person is easier than replacing 25. However, when evaluating a manager, a team owner must look at the talent he has at his disposal. Trebelhorn had a horrible first half of the season, but put together a solid final two months with a 40-19 record. But, evidently the brass had their mind made up before the first half of the season was over.

Who will be next? Well, no one this year. But it could become a regular part of the managerial merry-go-round. If your team doesn't start off fast, you may not get out of April. So don't be so quick to unpack.

Blackcats

up, but the Blackcats' defense has shown signs of coming around. Still young, the Cats' defensive line has put on some good rushes on the opposing quarterbacks and especially last Friday at Shelby Valley when Joe Don Cole was 0-6 in passing.

Kyle Fitzpatrick, James Derossett, Ronnie Goodman and a host of others have been the leaders on the line.

A victory over the Hornets will keep the Blackcats in the thick of the district race, something they do every year, as they vie for a spot in the playoffs. Prestonsburg would stand at 3-1, but two of their remaining three games will have to be played on the road.

Game time is 8 p.m. and the game may be heard over radio stations WXXZ or WQHY.

ATHA POWER RATINGS

KENTUCKY IN TROUBLE THIS WEEK AGAINST MISSISSIPPI STATE

Unfortunately for Kentucky, Mississippi State has turned out to be one of the real surprise teams of 1991. At preseason, the POWER RATING predicted a close game, but not for now. Now, Mississippi State looks like a solid 14 point favorite.

OHIO VALLEY CONFERENCE

Eastern Kentucky continues to roll toward the league championship, Division I-AA playoffs. This was borne out again this past weekend when Eastern beat always tough Georgia Southern. However, look out for Nevada Reno. Nevada looks strong enough to place in the top 25 of Division I-A, although they were scared this past weekend. Eastern ranks third on the POWER RATING behind Nevada and Furman.

NATIONAL SCENE

Virginia Tech will be soundly beaten when they travel to top ranked Florida State. FSU is favored by 25 points. Both FSU and Washington improved upon their already commanding lead in the POWER RATING this week. If the two teams continue, it will be a shame that the two cannot be paired in a Bowl. Washington is pretty much an "unknown" and may remain that way since the "best" team they play this year is Nebraska. Florida State, however, has beaten Michigan and will probably beat Miami at home, and probably the third best team at the end of the season in a Bowl, and be named National Champion.

OTHER GAMES OF INTEREST

Miami will over take Penn State by 11; Notre Dame looks to be a eight point favorite against Pitt; Florida will upend Tennessee by three; Oklahoma has Texas by three.

The Importance of Conferences

The buzzword in college football this year is "conference." Every week, it seems, there's an announcement that an independent school is joining a conference, or a school already affiliated with one conference is jumping to another.

It's a trend I think we'll see continue for the next several years. When it's all over, Notre Dame may be the nation's only major football independent.

Already this year it has been announced that Penn State will be joining the Big 10, Arkansas will make the move from the Southwest Conference (SWC) to the Southeast Conference (SEC), Florida State will join the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) and the University of Miami, the NCAA's national football champion, will move to the Big East.

What's the reasoning behind the rush of conference activity? Really, the whole thing boils down to money. It's as simple as that. Conferences split money earned by their schools for bowl game appearances evenly among member schools. With individual teams earning up to $2 million for bowl appearances, conference money goes a long way toward supporting the costs of running collegiate athletic programs.

The NCAA requires that schools have teams actively competing in 14 different sports to earn Division I status. Football should be a school's real money-maker. Sports like swimming and field hockey cost colleges a lot of money. I was athletic director at Southern Illinois University and can attest to the huge financial burden of intercollegiate sports. That's why it's so important for independents to join a conference. By joining the Big East, Miami is looking years down the road to when its football fortunes may not be as great as they have been lately. What would happen if they couldn't win any games? No bowl bids, no television interest, no money for the school and its athletic program. Penn State is doing the same thing. They have seen schools like Kansas State in the Big Eight and Northwestern in the Big 10, which haven't been to bowls in many years but have survived on conference money.

Celebration time!

Dale McKinney was a 5-7 for last week as our guest picker. But Dale's not to feel bad, all the rest did not fare so well either. It was rough week in the picks last week as evidence in the shifting that took place. Ed and Deedra were the only two over .500 and moved up considerably in the ranks. The choice this week is for the Wildcats to fall on the road. Prestonsburg to win as well as Wheelwright.

GOVERNMENT FORECLOSURE SALE
By U.S. Marshall
October 24, 1991
11:00 a.m. at the
Floyd County Courthouse
Prestonsburg
of
HOUSE and LOT
Mining Branch
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

This is a nice three-bedroom home. It is well located in a quiet neighborhood. It consists of a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms, and one bath. This would be an excellent buy for an investor interested in rental property or for resale after minor repairs.

The deed which contains the legal description to the property may be examined at the Office of the Floyd County Court Clerk in Deed Book 262, Page 271. Farmers Home Administration holds a First Mortgage Lien on this property that will be released after the sale.

Terms: CASH, or 10% of the bid price on the day of sale with good and sufficient bond for the balance, bearing interest at the legal rate as set forth on the Judgment and Order of Sale filed with the U.S. District Court, until paid, due and payable 30 days from the date of sale, and said bond having the effect of a judgment. Upon default by the purchaser, the deposit shall be forfeited.
