Babbage report :

Proposals will go to legislature

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

State lawmakers are expected to receive recommendations during the 1992 General Assembly from the state Department of Education to change laws pertaining to state school construction projects.

State board member John Williams told the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education Wednesday that proposed changes are being developed by the state based on recommendations from state Auditor Bob Babbage, who audited school construction projects in Floyd and Pike counties earlier this year.

Babbage made 16 recommendations to the Office of Education Accountability on school construction projects that included changing site selection procedures; more competitive bidding for construction projects; elimination of possible conflicts of interest by construction managers; identification of bidders on school construction projects; proper review and approval of bid procedures; construction manager's fees be limited and paid on percentage of completion basis; and architectural services should be obtained through competitive negotiations.

Williams said Wednesday that Mike Luscher, director of buildings and grounds for the state, is developing

Extra funds denied :

Johnson stung on site

The State Board for Secondary and Elementary Education issued a costly reprimand Wednesday to the Johnson County School System during a segment of the state board's three-day meeting in Prestonsburg.

The board voted unanimously Wednesday to retroactively approve the purchase of a school site by the Johnson County board, but denied a request for additional state funding for the purchase.

Johnson County bought the 7.85 acre site for $600,000, despite a state recommendation that another site be purchased. The state board's ruling Wednesday will mean the $600,000 price for the land will be paid through local dollars instead of by an allotment of School Facilities Construction Commission funds. The SFCC will underwrite the cost of school construction.

In another move Wednesday, the state board voted to take control of finances in Jackson County, where an annual report showed a $30,024.97 deficit for the 1990-91 fiscal year. As a result of the board's action, Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen must approve any expenditures or contracts by the Jackson County board.

GOP gubernatorial candidate Larry Hopkins presented Floyd Countians his income tax returns for the past 10 years at the Floyd County Court Clerk's office Wednesday.

Hopkins said it would be impossible to personally deliver a copy of his income tax returns in all 120 counties in Kentucky.

Floyd County Republicans turned out to show their support for Hopkins and asked his opinion about Kentucky's Education Reform Act.

"The (education reform) bill is a good step forward, but it's not the Eleventh Commandment," Hopkins said.

A high priority for Hopkins, if elected to the state's highest post, will be listening to the people and hearing what Kentucky needs, he said. Hopkins said tourism will also be high on his list as will better roads in Eastern Kentucky to help boost tourism.

Hopkins will face Democratic candidate Brereton Jones in November.

Budget talks progressing

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Mediation efforts between state school officials and local teacher organizations will resume today, Friday, after a day-long session Thursday failed to determine the amount available for pay raises for school personnel.

State financial experts Dr. Dave Thomas and Ron Moubrey met with representatives from the Kentucky Education Association and the Floyd County Education Association Thursday in an attempt to determine the school district's financial situation. Floyd County Board of Education members voted August 29 to ask for the state's assistance after superintendent Ron Hager and KEA representative Gretchen Lampe could not come to agreement on the amount funds available for salary increases for school personnel.

Both sides appeared weary after Thursday's discussion, but felt confident an agreement could be reached on Friday.

Thomas said the group came to agreement on the amount of money the district would receive for the 1991-92 fiscal year.

The agreement on general fund income estimates was broken down into two parts:

- if tax rates remain at 58.6 cents, the total general fund income will be $21.9 million in state funds plus $3.5 million in local funds for a total income of $25.5 million;

- if tax rates were to increase to 64 cents, it would generate an additional $432,049 in additional income for a total income of almost $26 million.

The two sides will continue their Local school concerns aired :

State board gets earful

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Education reform is the talk of the state and it was the talk of Floyd County Tuesday when local citizens got the opportunity to tell state education leaders about the ups and downs of trying to reform.

A mixture of teachers, parents and business people voiced their concerns about the lack of education reform in Floyd County to state board members Tuesday night at their September meeting at Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg.

Those who spoke to the board told of their frustration with the unwillingness of the local administration to allow Kentucky's Education Reform Act (KERA) to be implemented.

But, state board chairman Joe Kelly assured Floyd Countians that KERA is here to stay.

"KERA is not going away and it's not going to happen tomorrow," Kelly said. "It's going to take a great deal of work to do it, locally and at the state level."

Joe Jacobs and Roger Recktenwald spoke to the board about their experiences in implementing Site Based Decision Making (SBDM) at Betsy Layne High School and Allen Elementary.

"We have improved our image at Betsy Layne," Jacobs said, who served as a parent on the school council last year. "But, it didn't happen overnight. The teachers and parents didn't work on paved roads, we worked in the muddy trenches and had to fight the local administration on every issue."

"Many think it's strange that none of us (on the council) sought reelection," Jacobs said. "But, once you've been in the fire, you want to give someone else a chance."

Recktenwald said the council at Allen tried to simplify the process during the first year and he felt the state needed to "sell" the SBDM concept.

"Some principals feel that site based is insidious and 'how can you do this to me? Didn't I treat you well?'" Recktenwald said. "It's insane. And it's not only in this county, but others as well. They want to wait until the last strike of the gong (before implementing it)."

Parents who spoke talked about being harassed for asking questions about how schools are run and others wanted KERA implemented as soon as possible.

"Why do parents get harassed for asking about finances at school?" asked Tallina Rayburn. "Why do parents get harassed for asking about problems in the school system?"

"We want KERA to happen in Floyd County," said Debbie Hayes, speaking for Parents for Better Schools. "If KERA can work in Floyd County, it can work anywhere in the state. It will be a miracle if it can work here. We're willing to work with the state to make it work. Please call on us."

Board member Eddie Billips, the only board member of Floyd County administrator to attend Tuesday's session, spoke of things to change in Floyd County and asked the board for assistance.

"About a year ago, morale in this county was about as low as it could get," Billips said. "Me and my wife

Top candidates are on agenda

Candidates for Governor and Lt. Governor will be the featured speakers September 19 at Jenny Wiley State park during the annual meeting of the East Kentucky Corporation's board of directors.

The meeting, which begins at 11 a.m. at the park convention center, will include comments from Brereton Jones, the Democratic nominee for Governor; Larry Hopkins, the GOP nominee for Governor; Paul Patton, the Democratic nominee for Lt. Governor; and Gene Goss, the GOP nominee for Lt. Governor.

The East Kentucky Corporation is a regional organization, created to promote economic development in a 23-county area in Eastern Kentucky.

Trial is Monday in school dispute

A dispute between Floyd school superintendent Ronald Hager and the Floyd County Board of Education could be resolved Monday, when a trial in a civil suit filed by Hager is set to begin in Floyd Circuit Court.

Hager sued the board last month after members voted to replace him as board secretary with assistant superintendent Gary Frazier. Hager contended in his suit that the job was his by virtue of a four-year contract awarded in 1988.

The case will be tried by special Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier, who last month denied a request from Hager that his ouster as board secretary be enjoined pending the outcome of a trial.

Melvin death is reviewed by KSP

The death of a 58-year old Melvin man is under investigation by the Kentucky State Police after the man was found at his home Tuesday.

The body of 58-year-old Jimmy Everett Johnson was found by his nephew when he went to check on Johnson. Johnson lived alone.

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson said Johnson had been dead since Saturday and no foul play was suspected. After an autopsy was performed in Louisville, it was determined Johnson died from a heart condition, the coroner's office said Thursday.

The case is under investigation by Kentucky State Police detective Lee Weddington and the coroner's office.

Reform now

Floyd Countians got the opportunity Tuesday to voice education concerns to members of the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education. The speakers told the board they want reform in Floyd County—the sooner the better. (photo by Susan Allen)

Kentucky Power's Big Sandy plant is among nation's largest utilities

The two generating units at Kentucky Power's Big Sandy plant at Louisa ranked among the 20 most efficient fossil-powered units in the nation in 1990.

The ranking, which compared Big Sandy's units to more than a thousand units among the nation's 100 largest electric utilities, was revealed in an independent survey by Electric Light & Power magazine in its August issue.

"Such an achievement translates into a major factor for our continuing ability to hold down electric rates for our customers," C. R. Boyle, III, Kentucky Power president, said. "Rates for our residential customers are currently 196th lowest among customers of 215 electric utilities nationwide, and Big Sandy's operation is a very big reason. We are proud of it and especially of our employees who work at the plant."

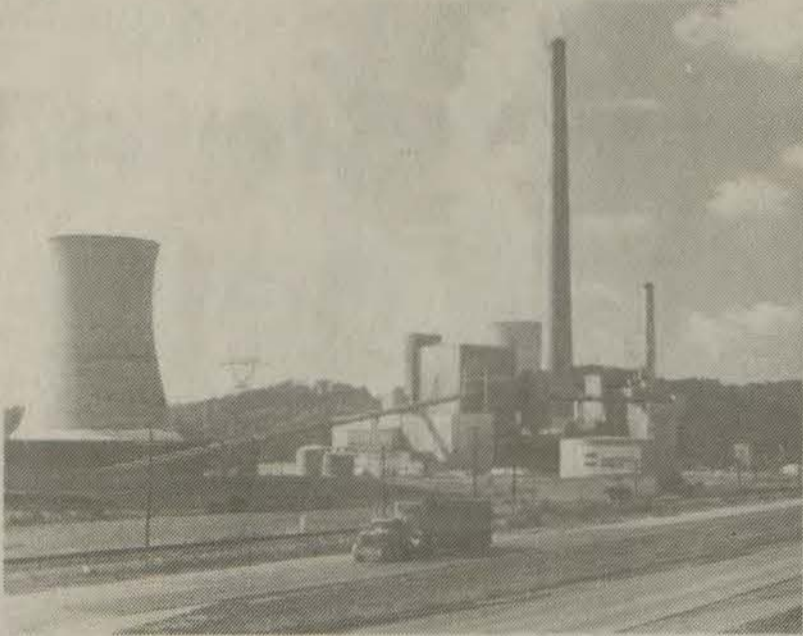

Boyle said that generating efficiency is measured in terms of the amount of heat required to burn coal to generate electricity—the less heat required the better. As an indication of how efficient Big Sandy's units really are, he said that the median heat rate for all utilities in 1990 was 10,601 Btu. Big Sandy's Unit Two was rated at 9,061 Btu, fifth best, and its Unit One was rated at 9,305 Btu, 17th best. The lower the Btu the more efficient a unit is.

Big Sandy burns about 2 1/2 million tons of eastern Kentucky coal annually to generate electricity. Its Unit One was completed in 1963 and Unit Two in 1969. The plant has a total generating capacity of 1,060,000 kilowatts.

Boyle added that Kentucky Power is a part of the American Electric Power System, and the entire AEP System's heat rate in 1990 was second best in the nation.

One of the nation's most efficient power plants is Kentucky Power's Big Sandy plant, located on Route 23 near Louisa.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Bentley Sr. of Langley announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Julia Agatha Bentley, to Christopher David Bormes, son of Thomas and Nancy Bormes, of Printer. The wedding will be held October 5, at 1 p.m. at the Maytown United Methodist Church in Langley. A reception will follow in the church basement. The gracious custom of an open wedding will be observed.

Reform

Boysen specifically mentioned Floyd County as a potential target for a similar review, referring to claims made the evening before by residents who alleged school officials here had tried to hamper reforms and intimidate teachers and parents.

"To the degree that those claims are true," Boysen said in the Wednesday press conference, "I would call it sabotage."

Boysen said the Boyd County investigation, which could be completed within ten days, would be the beginning of an all-out effort to discourage such sabotage.

"It is important in the next six months," Boysen said, "to set a tone that these types of mismanagement aren't going to be tolerated."

The commissioner said his department was in the process of developing a Kentucky Education Reform Act implementation plan for Floyd County and he hinted that a deeper investigation here could be in the making.

State

have one step to go to get lower. Now, teachers expect little from the board, parents expect less from the board and children expect less from everybody. It's taken a long time to get the system in this shape.

"I appeal to you to name an individual to implement Dr. Bob Arvin's budget process in this system," Billips said. "I can't believe that individual schools don't have a budget. How can you run a business without a budget? For once we would be able to take the lead in the state and set an example."

"We have no accountability in this system," Billips said. "For the power brokering individuals left, changes come hard. Site based management will work (in Floyd County) if it's allowed to work. Taxpayers have a lot riding on this; they need assistance and they need it immediately."

Terry Ratliff spoke about becoming involved in Martin Elementary's PTA and the district's budget committee.

"We saw that an open garbage dumpster was within 10 feet of the playground and the flies were so bad you couldn't stand it," Ratliff said. "We saw the rats on the school grounds and the broken glass. When we complained to the principal we were told to go to the central office because 'they can't fire you.'

"We heard rumors from the business community to 'cool it' in public and members were unnerved by comments like 'we know where your husband works,'" Ratliff said. "But, we stayed together and fought for better conditions. We've made some changes."

A lack of information from administrators was the major stumbling block while serving on the budget committee, Ratliff said. The committee was formed in January, but didn't hold its first meeting until June.

"Until about two weeks ago we couldn't get any information on the budget," Ratliff said. "Each time the figures were different. But, we didn't go away and we stuck it out."

Board member Tom Gish of Whitesburg told those who spoke at the meeting that the state board members knew the citizens of Eastern Kentucky would tell them what they needed to hear and that the right of free speech should be protected.

"The commissioner should assign someone to be obligated to protect the basic right for parents, teachers and school councils to speak out without fear or intimidation," Gish said. "I'm pleased to be able as board member to reshape the progress of education."

"We've heard it expressed how there are no (education) problems in Eastern Kentucky. In four or five Eastern Kentucky counties we have hotheads thinking if they quiet reform, it will go away," Gish said. "Reform is up in the air. We'll lose public support unless the system changes drastically and quickly."

Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen told the audience not to despair because the state department believed in reform and intended to see that it was implemented.

"We're making our list and checking it twice," Boysen said. "We will take action when KERA is threatened by sabotage. We have a lot at stake."

Floyd County Education Association members Carol Stumbo and Bud Reynolds asked the board what it could do differently for Floyd County than the previous state board.

"You ask what we can do differently," said board member Helen Mountjoy. "We can't give you a list of specific things we can do or make you promises. We ask for your patience and ask you to watch. We're not going to let this reform die."

Proposals

ing the recommendations to be presented to the state and should be complete in time for the 1992 session of the General Assembly.

"We feel Mr. Babbage brought up areas that need to be addressed with possibly a change in the law," Williams said Wednesday.

Luscher didn't say what amendments were being considered, but an outline of the proposal should be ready by November.

Babbage conducted a review of school construction projects in February and March after a series of articles in The Floyd County Times about Floyd County projects and a request for a review by Left Beaver High School architect James Ellis to the state's Office of Education Accountability.

Talks

session Friday to determine the district's expenditures for the coming school year. That information will provide an estimate of how much the district can spend for pay raises.

"We all agree on the estimate of how much income the district will receive," Thomas said Thursday. "We will resume at 9 a.m. tomorrow (Friday) to determine the expenditures."

When asked if Friday's session would end the talks, Thomas replied, "I hope so. But, I don't know."

Superintendent Ron Hager said Thursday's session was a "good one" and he enjoyed it.

Gretchen Lampe and Ray Tackett, KEA representatives, agreed Thursday's work session was productive and said they looked forward to Friday.

In attendance at Thursday's session were: Hager; Thomas; Moubrey; FCEA president Carol Stumbo; FCEA officer Janice Allen; Lampe; Tackett; retired finance officer Russell Frazier; and Jim Byrum of KEA.

The parties will attempt to build a budget for the district Friday and hope to announce the percentage of pay increases for classified and certified personnel.

A district budget committee appointed by the board of education earlier this year gave pay raise recommendations to the board at a special August meeting.

The committee's recommendation differed with those proposed by Hager and Frazier. The breakdown between the administration and the budget committee led to the appeal to the state Department of Education's financial department.

Division of Water suggests using water-saving devices

The continued shortage of rainfall across the state has focused attention on water supplies and water conservation methods.

The Kentucky Division of Water urges water conservation at all times. During periods when supplies may be under stress, consideration of water-saving devices is even more important. Here are some facts and figures on water usage around the house, provided by the division, that can help you select the water-saving devices for your family.

Following are some water use facts and figures:

*Conventional toilet (manufactured before 1978): 4-6 gallons per flush.

*Water-saving toilet: 3.5 gallons per flush.

*Low consumption toilet: 1.6 gallons per flush.

*Conventional showerhead (manufactured before 1978): 3-10 gallons per minute. A five-minute shower could take 15-50 gallons of water.

*Low-flow showerhead: 2-2.75 gallons per minute.

*Faucet aerator (manufactured before 1978): 3-6 gallons per minute. Washing your hands for two minutes could take 6-12 gallons of water.

*Flow-regulating aerator: 5-2.75 gallons per minute.

Area residents visits sister

Recently, Misses Corinne and Geraldine Allen enjoyed an overnight stay with their sister, Mrs. Barbara Carter, in Lexington.

Misses Corinne and Geraldine Allen attended the Goose Creek Symphony concert at the Green Door Restaurant and Lounge, Eastern, on Labor Day.

Visits in Wurland

Mrs. Valerie Hall, of Allen, her father, Jesse Laferty, of Martin, and Edith Burchett, of Cow Creek, drove to Wurland, to visit Mr. Laferty's daughter and son-in-law, Maxine and Sam Thacker. While there they also visited with some other relatives.

*Topping washer: 35-60 gallons per load.

*Front-loading washer: 22-25 gallons per load.

*Dishwasher: 8-12 gallons per load.

*Washing dishes by hand: 8-20 gallons per load.

*Watering the lawn (one hour with normal pressure): 200-300 gallons.

Leaky faucets use more water than most people realize. A slow, steady drip (100 drops a minute) will result in 350 gallons of wasted water per month; a fast drip, 600 gallons per month; a small stream, 2,000 - 2,700 gallons per month; and a large stream, 4,600 gallons per month.

Prestonsburg Rotary and Jaycees Held great American blood drive

On August 27th, 28th and 29th, the Prestonsburg Floyd County community "Great American Blood Drive" was held at the Prestonsburg Donor Center located at the municipal building on North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg. The Great American Blood Drive was co-sponsored by the Prestonsburg Rotary and Jaycees.

The drive set daily records for volunteers all three days with the highest daily volunteer total of 66 on the 28th. It also set a record for first time donors at 29. All total, 175 people volunteered to donate blood for the "Great American Blood Drive."

The winners of the door prizes are as follows:

Deborah Wallen, Reds Tickets, sponsored by Commonwealth Bank; Allen Marx, UK football tickets, sponsored by Rotary Club; Mona Napier, microwave, sponsored by Rotary Club; Jennifer Hall, dinner for two, sponsored by Holiday Inn; Donna Cox, pillow, sponsored by David Crafts.

OLWH offers free blood pressure screening

On Monday, September 9, Our Lady of the Way Hospital will provide free blood pressure screening in the lobby of the First Guaranty National Bank in Martin from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. In providing this service Our Lady of the Way is participating in the HEALTHY PEOPLE 2000 campaign recommended by the American Hospital Association. HEALTHY PEOPLE 2000 is a nationwide effort by U.S. Public Health Service to develop a broad-based strategy to improve the health of all Americans by the year 2000.

Lottery Winners

In the past month, Kentucky Lottery players from the surrounding area have won thousands of dollars. These lottery players are just a few of the big winners from Eastern Kentucky and the surrounding area during the month of August, according to Jeff Riley, regional manager of the Prestonsburg Lottery Office and Lisa Kimbler, Prestonsburg office claims clerk.

Winners were: Ruby Pennington, $100, Bluegrass Cash, of Prestonsburg; Carol Wells, $100.00, Pick 3, of Van Lear; Scarlett Murray, $544.00, Lotto Ky., Thelma; Phyllis King, $642.00, Lotto America, of Staffordsville; Allene Gayheart, $744.00, Lotto, Ky., of Hindman; Jack Price, $980.00, Lotto America, of Paintsville and William Tinker III, $1,000.00, Cash Surprise 2, of Hager Hill.

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

At First Guaranty National Bank, we welcome the opportunity to make even the smallest loan. We know the American Dream often begins with a small investment.

When we first opened back in 1946, many young men were returning from service overseas. It was an exciting time when wedding bells sounded throughout the county and young families were just starting out. New businesses sprang up all around and First Guaranty National Bank granted the first small loans to young entrepreneurs.

Money was needed for tools, equipment, inventory, delivery trucks -- an array of start-up expenses. Then, as now, no amount was too small to be important at First Guaranty National Bank.

Those first small loans were seed money for businesses that have grown and prospered. Through the years, we financed their expansion as they became an integral part of our communities and of our region's economy.

Always locally owned, we grew right along with our customers into a strong and sound financial institution. So sound, in fact, that we are one of only three banks in Kentucky recognized in the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America.*

Yes, small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank. They give us the opportunity to meet needs and to establish lasting relationships with new customers.

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

Medical miracles are hindered by politics

by Judy Culpepper

The last decade has produced many medical miracles, while other advances remain trapped in the bottle of politics, much like a genie. Advances that are being silently documented because of the controversy surrounding the use of fetal tissue that is discarded following a legal abortion. Advances that are being slowed to the point that people who might otherwise see hope on the horizon are seeing their lives and this hope dashed by a political war.

The millions of sufferers of debilitating diseases such as Parkinson's, Alzheimer's, Paralysis, Diabetes, and Birth Defects, along with their families, are entering this political war so that medical science can proceed with enough speed to save their lives.

Fetal tissue transplantation research has become bogged down in the abortion arena, when it should be considered separately. It should be considered separately as an advancement that could save the lives of those already with us and in much suffering.

While other countries march forward, Americans watch in despair.

The letter below is a personal message to President Bush, urging him to lift the ban on federal funding to the National Institute of Health (NIH) on this research. The original executive ban was put into effect in the spring of 1988 by then President Reagan just days before the first operation was to take place.

Dear President Bush,

I pray to God that if you ever read just one of your letters personally, it is this one. I supported you in 1988, Reagan before you, and former Gov. Martinez of Florida, as well.

I did so because I am a committed Republican who is now so torn between having spent the last sixteen years of my life as one of the true Republican workers in the trenches and fighting today for what may turn out to be my husband's life.

If you want to know what a committed individual I am and can be, take a minute to call Congressman Tom Lewis from Florida. I have only begun to fight now.....just as you would have and did for the daughter you lost.

Until recently, I truly believed that the politicians holding higher offices than mine were wiser and knew human nature far better than I ever would.

Believe me when I tell you that I entered my first term a devoted political Pro-Lifer. My minister will confirm this. However, it didn't take me long to realize how wrong I was in our democratic society to bring my personal, and deep religious beliefs with me into the law making arena.

Why? It became patently obvious to me that people do NOT obey the laws in which they do not believe. It became then patently obvious to me that it was no more right for me to force my spiritual beliefs on others in the form of law than it would be for them to force theirs on me. By the way, THESE REVELATIONS CAME TO ME BEFORE I LEARNED MY THIRTY-NINE YEAR OLD HUSBAND HAD DEVELOPED Parkinson's DISEASE.

My family has lost men in the wars of this country's history for the freedoms we enjoy. Members of my family have died so that others can practice that in which they believe. God will judge us both one day. That's His place, not ours.

You sent our men and women to war last year and people like me backed you. Backed you in the beginning, when it wasn't so popular on the streets, because world peace is our responsibility. Leadership means knowing when to put into action your position. Sometimes it isn't pleasant.

I remember you and others, after the commitment was made, saying you weren't going to send our people into battle with their hands tied behind their backs. You said we would spend what was necessary for them to have the equipment they needed while they fought for our lives and theirs, as well.

Please, please, don't send my husband and millions like him into his lonely battle without the funds he needs, without the equipment he may well need to win the war against the diseases of the living. Don't tie his hands behind his back.

I am a rational and fairly intelligent person. I know the pros and cons of this research. I have read the arguments on both sides. I know that doctors are people too and subject to the same emotions we are. I also know that if there is a profession that possesses egos greater than those of us in politics, it's doctors. They will cling to their professional beliefs. A close friend of mine who is a physician once told me the reason why.

Medical science and practice has changed radically over the years. My friend left med school in the fifties and was full of the knowledge he was taught that would ease suffering and maybe even cure folks now and then. Medical science changes, marching on and making today's knowledge obsolete tomorrow. My friend told me how sad it makes him feel today to know that he may well have contributed to some people's ill health and demise because he practiced the medicine he was taught.... the medicine he no longer practices today because it is obsolete.

You know better than I what makes this country great. I believe it is the freedom we possess to be the explorers and the innovators of this world. I also believe that collectively we are good people, not evil. I have faith in us to do what is right. Please lift the ban on federally funded fetal research transplantation at NIH! Please turn our focus inward now to fight the medical wars we've had to fore-go while our worldwide vigilance had to be kept!

You can be a Pro-Life and back this research. It is not immoral for you to do so. I suggest it may be immoral to turn your back on those who are trying to hold on to life and waiting desperately for help.

Editorial:

A test of wills

by Scott Perry

We shall see what we shall see.

Education Commissioner Dr. Thomas Boyesen used some strong words of warning during a press conference Wednesday in Prestonsburg, suggesting that his department was shifting gears from neutral to high in the effort to protect education reform from "sabotage."

His comments came in reference to school management problems in Boyd County and Floyd County, raised during a meeting here of the state board of education.

"It is important," Boyesen said, "in the next six months to set a tone that these types of mismanagement aren't going to be tolerated."

Actions, of course, speak louder than words, and we'll have to wait a while longer to see if the commissioner is willing to put some bite behind his bark.

That wait shouldn't be too long, though, because a state investigation into problems in Boyd County was initiated Thursday. The outcome—a potential ouster of the Boyd superintendent and school board members—will provide the tale of Boysen's tape.

The Boyd investigation is the first for the newly reorganized state education department and it will, no doubt, whatever the outcome, offer a signal to other districts engaged in sabotage of the reform movement.

If the Boyd probe is successful in correcting problems in that district, Boyesen and company will have, indeed, set a "tone" for intolerance.

If the Boyd confrontation becomes just another toothless bark, education reform in districts mired in politics will be doomed to failure.

There's a lot riding on this first test of wills.

We shall see what we shall see.

Letters

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the letter from Mr. Bud Reynolds of Martin that appeared Wednesday, August 29, 1991 in the Floyd County Times. Mr. Reynolds, if you read my letter carefully you would have noted that I blamed no one or one group for the "mess" that exists in the Floyd County school system. I did not blame teachers for the condition of the schools. The sole purpose of my letter was to remind all members of the school system of their purpose which is to provide quality education in a safe environment to the children of Floyd County. They deserve no less! The school system in this county needs to be a cooperative unit that strives to meet the goal of quality education for the children of Floyd County. In order to accomplish this, there most likely needs to be some major housekeeping to sweep out the trash from the whole system! There are "deadbeats" in every profession, but the label does not have to represent all. To be respected as professionals, individuals must present themselves in a respectable manner and they will earn the respect of others and this does not apply to teachers only! In reference to your statement that the poor teachers in the system having lost interest due to lack of materials, where is their creativity? Besides we all know that there are those who have a teaching certificate but cannot teach effectively or have no genuine interest in the first place. As for the strike this past year, are you implying that only the "good" teachers were on the picket line? Any scheduled school days missed, whether for strike or teacher inservice or association meetings are instructional days missed. Salary increases are salary increases regardless of the origin of the money. The people of this county definitely do not need another tax increase! Don't teachers receive a paycheck 11 or 12 months a year? As a group, teachers should develop a method by which to evaluate performance objectively and let the teachers who deserve recognition for his own merit be rewarded by extra money. This is also needed in all areas of the school system.

The majority of the school facilities in this county are in disgrace and long outdated. Even if renovated, which in many cases I doubt this is possible, we would still have old buildings with a face lift! The answers to all these problems and more lie with good financial management, ousting of politics from the system in all persons in the system and the county working together to benefit the children of Floyd County. Get rid of the "deadbeats," whatever their title and put their salaries to a profitable use, investment in the future—THE CHILDREN OF TODAY!!!!

Recycling: A key to the earth's future

by: Beth Jones

As I try to be an environmentally conscious person, I think there is a severe need for better recycling centers in our area. New recycling centers in Floyd County would only help save our environment and make our area cleaner.

Anyone knows that soft drink cans left on the roadsides will be picked up. Why is this? This is because pop cans can be recycled at Prestonsburg. Some people around this area make a living picking up cans.

So, why, I ask, don't we recycle milk and Clorox jugs? If we did, then perhaps people wouldn't throw them in the creeks when a big rain comes. Why, somebody could make a fortune getting all the jugs out of the creek at Salisbury. Common sense would say that recycling of these jugs would be a smart economic and ecological idea. We really need a place to recycle plastics.

Have you ever noticed that there are always glass bottles but never aluminum cans in the ditches? This is because there is nowhere around to recycle glass. I'm sure people would be out collecting glass if they could make some money for doing it. Therefore, two birds could be killed with one stone. The area would surely look better, someone would be making money, and our environment would be cleaner. Wait a second, that is three birds with one stone. The idea was even better than I thought.

While I'm at it, where do you think all paper discarded in the county goes? It goes to the landfill where room is rapidly running out. I know my family alone throws out ten or fifteen pounds of paper a week. Just think about all the trees that would be saved if all Floyd Countians recycled paper goods.

With our landfill space rapidly running out, recycling is a great idea. I hope I'm not the only one that thinks the reuse of glass, paper, plastics, and aluminum would be a great help to our county. If anyone agrees with me, write a senator or representative. Maybe they will help. Better yet, start a recycling center. Someone has to do it. It will take effort from all the people around the world to clean the planet. We shouldn't have let the earth get so dirty, but I guess we didn't think ahead. Now we must work together to make the world a better place to live. I hope some of you agree and would like to help or there might not be many tomorrows.

Celebrates birthday

Robbie Holbrook of Cow Creek, celebrated his 10th birthday with a pool party at the home of his grandparents, Robert and Dorothy Harris.

After several games and much swimming, he served his guests cake and ice cream and graciously thanked everyone for his gifts.

Other than his grandparents, those helping him celebrate were his other grandparents, Boyd and Onda Holbrook and his great-grandmother, Edith Burchett. Also Leah and Suzanne Reynolds, Kristi Nelson, Father Muench, Brenda and Jamie Settles, Don Ellen and Lori Holbrook. Also Sonny and Nancy Burchett, Jesse Laferty, John and J.T. Apshire, Wayne, Vickie, Jill and Drew Brown, David Morris and Keith, Joe Crockett and Gary and P.J. Holbrook.

The little boys capped it off with a "sleep-over" at Rob's house. Isn't it great to be ten!

Holiday visitors

Mrs. Edith Burchett of Cow Creek, and her daughter, Sue Holden of Apple Valley, California, had as guests over the holiday weekend: Robert and Dorothy Harris, Suzanne and Leah Reynolds, Kristi Nelson, Don Ellen, Lori and Rob Holbrook, all of Prestonsburg and Marie Shepherd of Salt Lick.

Also visiting were Jesse Laferty, from Martin, Sonny and Nancy Burchett, from Atlanta, Georgia, Brenda Bocook, Mike and Shirley Morrison, of Endicott, John Lowe, from Prestonsburg and Blaine and Betty Jo Daniels, from Louisville.

Team up for healthy babies

Last year, over one million men, women, and children across the nation participated in WalkAmerica to support the March of Dimes efforts to give babies a healthy start in life.

The annual WalkAmerica is the largest fund-raiser for the March of Dimes and the nation's largest walking event. Enthusiastic individuals and teams representing companies, clubs, and organizations walk to raise money. It takes place in over 1400 communities in all 50 states.

Pikeville has hosted WalkAmerica for the past 7 years and is planning it's 1991 walk for Saturday, September 21. Last year, 336 community citizens walked to raise over $15,000 for the March of Dimes. A picnic for all participants followed the walk and prizes were awarded.

The money raised enables the March of Dimes to carry out its campaign for healthier babies. Locally, the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky in Pikeville received a March of Dimes grant to help fund the HINT (Hearing in Infants Testing) program. This program, administered by hospital volunteers, tests hearing in infants born at Methodist and is unique to this area.

The 1991 WalkAmerica is an opportunity for all of us to support the March of Dimes and do our part to ensure a brighter future for generations of American children.

To find out more about participating in the upcoming WalkAmerica or forming a corporate team, call Judy Layne at 437-3521.

Know the facts before buying Medigap health coverage

Soon, shopping for an insurance plan to supplement Medicare coverage will be almost as easy as shopping for a car. This is good news, according to Milford C. Maloney, MD, president of the American Society of Internal Medicine (ASIM). Medicare beneficiaries will finally be able to compare prices for similar kinds of policies and get the kind of coverage they want. In addition, there will be fewer kinds of these policies to keep up with, easing the burden of paperwork on everyone, leaving doctors more time to spend with patients managing their care, Dr. Maloney said.

What is Medigap?

As gaps, limits and deductibles in Medicare left more people with less health coverage, the insurance industry designed a new kind of insurance to supplement Medicare. It soon became common for senior citizens to have some kind of "Medigap" policy for additional coverage to fill the gaps in Medicare. Unfortunately, while many of these policies offer extended coverage at a reasonable price, there are many more that do not. In fact, some people have been talked into buying several policies — much more than they need — for fear of being financially wiped out by a catastrophic illness or injury. To make matters worse, there are thousands of companies, each marketing a different Medigap package, making it almost impossible for the average person to "shop around" for the best insurance value.

To cut through the confusion, Congress stepped in last year and ordered state insurance regulators to develop standardized Medigap policies. The National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) is fulfilling this order by coming up with 10 Medigap plans, which would offer a range of options over and above what Medicare will pay for. Prices of the various plans will probably depend on the extent of coverage — from a basic benefits package to more comprehensive policies, some of which include prescription drugs and hospital deductible coverage.

What will the new Medigap policies offer?

The core policy, as currently drafted, will cover the 20 percent of doctor fees that the patient must pay as "co-insurance." Additionally, the core policy pays for a limited supply of blood, hospital costs for 61 to 90 days (after a deductible, Medicare covers the first 60 days) and some hospitalization beyond 90 days.

In general, the other nine policies build on the core package, but each offers different options. All nine, for example, would pay the annual Medicare deductible for hospital care and medical emergencies during foreign travel. Three of the plans include prescription drug benefits, and two even include payment for preventive services, such as tests and vaccines.

It may take a little time

Since the NAIC doesn't have any legislative power, these "model" policies will next go to the states to be enacted into law. If the individual states fail to pass the law by Congress's deadline (one year for most states, two years in the few states with legislatures that only meet every other year) the Department of Health and Human Services must certify any Medigap policy written in a state that hasn't passed the NAIC-approved models. After that, any insurance company in the state that sells an unapproved Medigap policy can be fined up to $25,000.

Tips for buying Medigap insurance now

Right now, not all so-called Medigap policies available meet minimum standards set by the states — only those that contain the words "Medicare supplemental insurance" do. ASIM urges consumers to make sure their agents explain what coverage they now have and what their new policy will cover. Check waiting periods for pre-existing conditions before changing policies. In many cases, one policy should provide all the supplemental coverage needed. Always check out the insurance company with the state insurance department and local Better Business Bureau before buying a new policy.

Smile Awhile

by Sarah Hopson

ON A "STEAM" ROLL

Thanks to modern technology, one of the daily chores delegated to housewives has been alleviated by the invention of the magical steam iron. In less than a minute, a small, compact plastic appliance, (approximately the size of a loaf of bread,) heats up and becomes a tool which can press creases in a man's trousers in less time than it takes to plug in a regular iron.

This innovative contraption does not please my husband. In fact, he puts it in the same category as crock pots and microwave ovens. In other words, if you haven't slaved and perspired over it, the end results are not the same.

"Look how good this looks," I commented one evening as I waved the "magic wand" over a shirt while it hung on the hanger. "Isn't it amazing?"

He eyed the garment, but never replied.

"It only took 40 seconds," I remarked.

"How long would it have taken to do it the right way?"

"Four or five minutes probably. What difference does that make? And who says this isn't the right way?"

"My mother used to sprinkle them with water and then iron them smoothly and impeccably before she put them on a hanger."

"Your mother would have coveted this iron," I indignantly announced.

"Not my mother. She enjoyed standing at the ironing board for three or four hours just so our clothes would have that 'I'm a good wife and mother look.' How did you starch the collar?"

"I'm going to starch it now." "After you've finished ironing it?" "It'll work," I assured him.

"That's easy for you to say. It won't be your neck that'll be rubbed raw."

Jimmie obviously wasn't thinking of all the time I was going to save by using the iron so I reminded him saying, "I'll have more time to do other things now."

"Like darnin' my socks," he laughed. "Or I know. Now you'll have time to fix soup beans in the crock pot?"

"It's a time-saving device. Anyway, it doesn't hurt the taste."

"Hurt it? It cripples it! Soup beans should cook slowly over medium heat for hours. Then, just as the soup starts to thicken, you prepare a pone of corn bread in a heavy skillet that has been preheated in a hot oven."

"Then what? Wipe the sweat from your brow before you pass out from heat stroke?"

"My mother never complained." "No wonder, she didn't have the time!"

"That's the whole point. If today's women spent more time doing things instead of trying to find ways to do them easier, they wouldn't have time to complain," he said, as he started towards the garage.

"Where are you going?" I asked.

"I need to fix the toaster."

"But the toaster's in the kitchen."

"I know that, Sara. But the battery operated screw driver is in the utility box out in the garage."

"What's wrong with the manual kind?"

"It's just simpler to use the new one."

"Won't the toast taste different?" I asked in an amused tone.

"Don't start that. It's not the same."

"While you're out there, why don't you get out the old push mower and cut the grass. There's no sense in revving up that riding one and wasting gas when you don't have to. And don't use the weed eater when you start cutting along the fence. I like a more manicured look."

When he starts talking to me again, I'm going to tell him how much time I could save if I had a pair of electronic toe nail clippers.

Floyd schools pushing ahead in mathematics

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County teachers went to school themselves last week to receive training for a new computer mathematics class to be used in classrooms this year.

The class to be taught in all high school math classes involves the use of computers and graph calculators to teach students how to think through solving math problems, rather than just memorizing formulas.

"This is an exciting and wonderful program," said Joyce Watson, a teacher at Allen Central. "This will enhance and improve math classes in the high schools and give students the opportunity to think through problems."

Watson said the new technique to be used in the classrooms is in accordance with new math standards nationwide developed to raise the math level of the nation's students. She said a uniform math concept was developed so students could become more competitive with other countries in relation to mathematics.

"If we can, as a whole, improve our math skills we can improve the economical situation of this country," Watson said. "Math used to be a four-letter word. Now we can work to improve the attitudes of students and be creative with math concepts which will create excitement in math classes."

The concept includes teachers using large computer monitors networked to a computer and printer to teach math classes in the school system. Students having problems with math, can receive individual, hands-on training with the computers to understand and work through math problems. Students will also be provided with small calculators and each class will have the use of a graphic calculator to work through problems involving the use of graphs. "We are utilizing new technology and new math standards being used nationwide," said Howard Burchell, a math teacher at Prestonsburg High School. "We will use model 50 IBM computers in all high school math classes and every teacher will know how to use this technology in their classroom. It's just wonderful."

Ron Robinson, a math teacher and instructor at the workshop, demonstrated how to solve simple math problems and how to graph math equations using the new technology. "These programs will teach students all the steps involved in solving simple and complex math problems," Robinson said. "This is another tool for teachers to enhance math classes and students can also develop computer skills. I think it will create a new interest in math for students and it will revive the total math program."

The mathematics technology is part of a series of math manipulatives being introduced into the Floyd County School System this year to raise the level of math skills of students in the system.

Discovering how women transformed American society

by Mary Combs
Smithsonian News Service

One hundred years ago, American women went to war against ignorance, squalor, poverty, vice, disease, political corruption, abuse, exploitation—and war itself. Fighting for a better life for their own children and those to come, they never dreamed of a time when mothers would serve virtually in the front lines of war.

Although they lost the fight for peace, the battles they did win in the next three decades radically altered the laws and the conscience of this nation. Yet today, "most people don't know what the Progressive Era was—much less the crucial role that women played in creating the reform movement that transformed American life," says Edie Mayo, curator in the Division of Political History at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C.

"What is truly astonishing," she adds, "is the fact that they accomplished most of it without the power to vote."

After five years of research, Mayo has restored this lost chapter of American history in the museum's new permanent exhibition, "From Parlor to Politics: Women of the Progressive Era, 1890-1925." The exhibition takes its name from the fact that "women almost invariably began organizing in their homes, their own parlors," Mayo says. "As they organized and expanded their activities, they moved out to recreate parlors in public spaces, first in women's clubs, later in suffrage parlors and reading rooms. Eventually, in the settlement house, they created a domestic space wholly dedicated to community service and political reform."

In the last decade of the 19th century, women rallied to the call of activists like Charlotte Perkins Gilman. "Are you satisfied with the world as you find it?" she asked? The answer—a resounding "No!"—came from women who saw the evils that plagued American society: cramped tenements and sweatshop labor in cities flooded by immigrants; alcoholism and vice; the threat of war; squalid living conditions, rampant disease and the lack of any provision for public health; long hours, low wages and dangerous working conditions; child labor; an appalling infant death rate.

"The improvement of the world is ours to make," Gilman proclaimed. "It is our duty as women, to bring our motherhood to comfort and help humanity—our children every one..." Women who were not content with the world as they saw it grasped the prevailing stereotype of woman as wife, mother and guardian of the home firmly by the hilt and wielded it as a two-edged sword against the establishment. "They demanded reform and change as necessities that would enable them to continue their traditional roles as wives and mothers," Mayo says, "and took up 'civic house-keeping' on a grand scale."

Mayo's files—and the exhibition's walls—are full of compelling images of these women and people who sought to better their own lives. Here are gaunt-faced men working in a garment sweatshop and the corpses of women killed in the infamous Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire in 1911 when the locked doors of their workshop barred their escape. Here is 5-year-old Edith picking cotton, sun glinting on her blonde curls. She is one of hundreds of thousands of children who toiled in the fields and factories or worked with their parents at home in filthy tenements at simple tasks like rolling cigarettes or making paper flowers.

Frances Willard (1839-1898) led the largest women's organization of the 19th century, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which crusaded against alcohol and drugs—and much more. Women were totally dependent upon their husbands. What jobs there were paid miserable wages for long hours of work in horrible conditions—with no provision for child care. There was no escape from violence or abuse. "Only the women's movements dared to talk publicly about such things," Mayo says.

"The WCTU pioneered the ideas of day care, kindergartens, playgrounds, job training for women and an approach that was very similar to the 12-step programs used today by Alcoholics Anonymous and other support groups," Mayo says. "And Willard recognized that alcoholism was not an isolated problem. She told her workers to 'Do Everything' to crusade for social justice."

In 1909, Nannie Helen Burroughs gave her National Training School for Women and Girls in Washington, D.C., the motto "We specialize in the Wholly Impossible." The school, a model for many others, offered young African American women a liberal-arts education and more. Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906) and Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902) led the drive for woman suffrage for five decades, but did not live to see victory. Mary Breckenridge of the Frontier Nursing Service sent nurse midwives riding on horseback through the woods of Kentucky in the 1920s. Jane Addams founded Chicago's Hull House, one of the first and most important of the establishments of Loafer's glory:

Transportation in Appalachia

by Barbara P. Martin

The most popular transportation for young Appalachians in 1916 was a mule. This farm animal served in the fields along with its master, pulling the plow, in order that the need for huge amounts of food could be met. At night this beast of burden was often rode hard, in secret, to Licking River and back to purchase booze, by the farmer's sons. The owner of both the mules and the boys did not know why some mornings his plow animal all but fell out of its stall, suffering from exhaustion. On weekends these animals were rode to visit girl friends, who might join the boys on the back of the mule, so they could travel farther to visit other youth. After they married, this would continue to be their mode of travel for many years, until roads were better and they had revenue to purchase a car.

Here is a story of how the very young achieved their need for transportation, or to fill in hours of leisure time. Our young people have shown unusual abilities by building machines and solving problems from scratch.

Bernard, "Chuggie," Martin, Goose Creek, as a small boy in the late 30s and early 40s, was an ace soap box car builder. First he took a dynamite box, added tricycle wheels, and guided it by turning the front wheels mounted on an axle, with his feet. Chuggie's cousin Robert, "Bob", Martin, supplied the power by pushing.

As their model advanced in technology, they added an old gasoline washing machine motor. This way they could both ride. The driver guided with his feet, the front wheels were movable, and the passenger used the hand brake, which applied pressure to the back wheels as needed. In fact their brakes were hardly good enough to stop the thing after it got started. As you can imagine, they spent many hours working on their car and often suffered mishaps. Joe Taylor Gearheart of Prestonsburg recalls how they dug up the ground maneuvering their contraptions around their grandfather, Malcom Gearheart's house. Joe was too small at the time to participate.

Soon other boys on the creek joined in the fun. Grown people who drove up Goose Creek in real cars, were often met by a caravan of three or four boy-operated dynamite box cars. Chug passed the art onto his sons. Johnnie Martin told me that his brother, Bennie, developed his talents so much that he is now a jet mechanic in Florida.

The story to cap all young people inventions was told by Chester Thomas of Rock Fork. Reliable sources verified that it was true.

In fact many people recalled this high achievement. Chester said his brothers, Karu and John Gibson, and some other boys once made an airplane and it actually worked!

The boys made a wooden box type open cockpit to which they attached wings constructed from pieces of plywood, with sheets tacked over them to catch the force of the wind. For a motor they combined two old talking machine (Victrola) springs. They set it up so that when one ran down it wound up the other to keep a permanent force to run the propeller.

As you might imagine the question arose as to how they would stop it. Their most successful model was tied by a strong rope to a peg drove deep in the ground in the center of a large field. This way they could shout down to the ground crew, who were working the rope, instructions needed to insure a safe flight. One day it was climbing too high up in the air, and the pilot riding at the time, became frightened and shouted for the ground crew to pull him down. The decent was too sudden. He crashed at the far end of the field, near the hillside, which enclosed the level field, and broke his leg. The plane also suffered damage, so the airplane fun ended there.

Another invention by the Gibson boys was a paddle wheel. When placed in the branch (small running stream) the water turned it, generating electricity. Electrical wiring was placed in their home. When they wanted electricity, they hooked it up. With a generator like that, you can use various things to run it to make electricity. Many people added storage cell batteries, so that when the generator was not in use, they still had electric power from the battery.

Mr. Thomas said that the boys were always inventing something.

Some people had Delco units which ran on natural gas. Of course these were brought on (brought into our region) and cost a lot. Others were busy inventing in our area also. Willie Frasure of Wilson Creek tells in Mountain Memories, "Let's Go Visit Willie" written by me, published by Alice Lloyd College, June, 1982, how he built his electrical system from parts of an old Ford car. Willie said that he dreamed one night how to hook up the fields just right to make it work. Next day when he made the connections, he was holding onto the wires and fire ran from his toenails to his eye balls! The Frasures had electric lights long before the power companies came into this country. Many people came to his house to see his lights at night. Young folks danced and kids knocked cans with a stick long after it got dark.

A recent Gallup poll of parents and children shows milk is the most common lunch beverage. Milk is also the top pick by parents and kids to include in a healthy lunch.

the settlement house movement, and won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1931.

In stark contrast to the squalor that surrounded them, settlement houses served as community centers, providing meeting places, medical services, classes, child care and entertainment. The reformers, educators and social workers who came to live in the community—to be, as Helen Cheever wrote in 1892, “good citizens and good neighbors”—were respected and trusted. And, Mayo adds, “they didn’t commute home to the suburbs. Hull House and its counterparts in cities and rural areas provided services badly needed today.”

As organizations grew at the local and national level, women gained the experience in administration and organization that men learned on the job. They became sophisticated strategists, Mayo adds. For example, when a law against child labor was declared unconstitutional (on the basis that it violated the rights of employers to make contracts), the undaunted women’s networks simply took another tack. They succeeded in getting children out of the factories by launching a campaign to make school attendance compulsory.

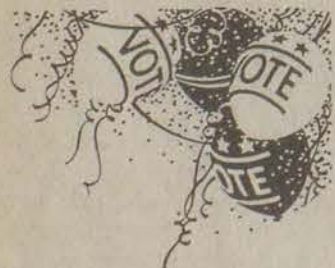

They also became masters of promotion and propaganda in a pre-electronic age, producing a wealth of buttons, postcards and posters, handbills, advertisements and slogans. Women marshaled an army of female symbols to serve the cause—from ministering angels and goddesses to archetypes of Motherhood, Liberty, Justice and Peace. One unforgettable image is a huge poster of a haggard woman toiling at a sewing machine, a baby at her breast, under the headline “Sacred Motherhood.”

The reformers’ agendas varied, but the same themes repeat: education; health and hygiene in the home and public health for the community; pure food and drug laws; woman suffrage; environmental laws; temperance; labor reform; children’s welfare, and the battle against “white slavery” (tens of thousands of poor and immigrant women were literally forced or abducted into prostitution every year).

“The networks of women’s clubs grew until they essentially served as alternative political parties,” Mayo says. By 1915, the three main networks—the General Federation of Women’s Clubs, the National Council of Jewish Women and the National Association of Colored Women—represented more than 3 million women.

Excluded from men’s unions, women formed their own. They organized consumer power as an economic weapon, using boycotts and seals of approval like the Good Housekeeping Seal to demand not only safe products but also proper treatment of workers. They pioneered the public health profession and launched massive education campaigns. “They published more instructive literature on the danger of flies than you can possibly imagine,” Mayo says.

Women created the field of home economics, elevating the homemaker to professional status, applying the techniques and language of industrial engineering to “women’s work.” They studied housework and “developed all kinds of wonderful appliances,” Mayo says, pointing to the fireless cooker, an ancestor of the crockpot that saved time and labor “so you could go off to club meetings!”

At last, in 1920, American women won the vote; in the same decade, Mayo says, they “attempted the ultimate reform—peace—on an international scale.” Ironically, she adds, it was in the ‘20s that the women’s movement received a crushing, if not quite lethal, blow. “Their power threatened the military, industrial and medical establishment, and a very deliberate campaign was undertaken to discredit women’s networks and label them as part of the international communist conspiracy.” The woman’s movement remained effectively crippled until the 1960s.

It is clear that the women celebrated in the exhibition—however diverse their racial, ethnic, social and economic backgrounds—shared a faith in progress, for society and for the individual. Looking back, Mayo says, one is struck by how much they accomplished and by how much remains to be done—or needs to be done again. Perhaps “civic housekeeping,” like the domestic kind, is never really finished.

Fifth Annual Mountain Heritage Fitness Walk And Run, Sept. 21

The Fifth Annual Jenkins Kiwanis Day Mountain Heritage Mile and Half fitness walk and a two-mile run will be held on Saturday, September 21. The time for the fitness walk will be 9 a.m. and the run will begin at 9:30 a.m. Both races will begin and finish at Jenkins City Hall.

T-shirts will be awarded to all that finish the race. Plaques will be presented to the overall male and female winners. Trophies will be given to winners in the various age groups.

The course record for the mile and half walk is 13:09 for male and 15:00 for the female. Course record in the two-mile run is 10:50 for the male and 14:48 for the female.

There will also be a division for those with special handicaps and a division for those with mended hearts.

Entry forms can be obtained in Jenkins at Jim's Superior or Cavalier Drugstore. For further information call Ked Sanders at 832-4122 or Charles Dixon at 832-2759.

If you register before September 15, the cost is $6. Registration on the day of the race is $8. Registration will be at the Jenkins City Hall starting at 8 a.m.

Middlesboro Invades Blackcat Lair

Coach Bill Letton's Prestonsburg Blackcats will be looking for their first win in the young 1991 football season as they will host Middlesboro in their home opener tonight at the Prestonsburg Field.

The Blackcats fell to a good Estill County team 21-2 last Friday night and hope to correct themselves offensively and also cut down on the mental mistakes that caused them to be penalized so heavily. The Blackcats were called for 10 violations—good for 125-yards in penalties. Three were unsportsmanlike calls and two were personal fouls.

Junior running back John Goble (5-10, 160) was ejected from the game for an unsportsmanlike call after being taking out of bounds on his third carry of the game. Goble's absence more than likely will be seen in the game tonight as he sits out a one-game suspension for the ejection.

Prestonsburg collected only 147 yards on 28 carries against the smaller Engineers. Seth Hyden (soph., 5-9, 160) led the ground game for the Blackcats with 79 yards on eight carries. Hyden and Dwayne Garza (soph., 5-8, 185) were two bright spots for Letton's team.

Untimely penalties and costly turnovers hurt Prestonsburg against Estill County as they were inside the Engineers' 10-yard line five times. Against Middlesboro, a very talented ball club, Prestonsburg will have to take care of the football and cut down the penalties.

Middlesboro was a 22-8 winner over Pineville last Friday night at Pineville. Middlesboro will run the wing "T" offense which will be led by a trio of experienced players. Bryan McCleary (sr., 5-11, 160) will be back at the signal calling post for his second year. McCleary also likes to keep the ball and run with it.

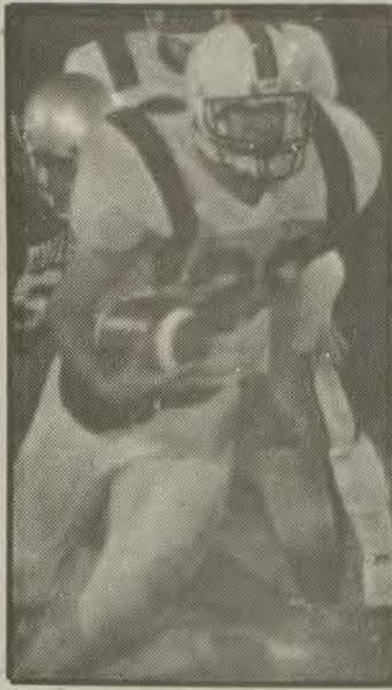

The leading rusher for Middlesboro is Wally Money (sr., 6-1, 170) who carries the ball the highest percentage of the time. But Chad Tinnel (jr., 5-10, 170) is very talented also and could be a big factor in the game.

Seeing time in the backfield for Middlesboro will be Eric Weatherspoon (fr., 5-8, 150) and Matt Helms (jr., 5-10, 210). Both players have suffered injuries but will see action tonight. Weatherspoon injured his ankle last week against Pineville but, according to reports, he will be ready to play. Helms had injured his knee in preseason and is just getting back from that setback. Helms will definitely play tonight.

Middlesboro is a running ball club that will run 60 percent of the time.

Last Game: Beat Pineville 22-8

McCleary will not shy away from carrying the football as the senior quarterback can also throw with consistency. McCleary threw the football but five times against Pineville with three completions. His main target is Eddie Stanley (sr., 6-3, 190). Travis Jones (jr., 5-10, 180) will play the other end position for the Yellowjackets. Jerome Costner (sr., 5-10, 170) will anchor one guard position on the Yellowjacket line. The other guard spot will be adequately filled by senior Haylanne Ballenger (5-8, 175).

The Blackcat defensive line will have to dig in the trenches and not allow Middlesboro to run their offense at will. The offensive line will have to open the holes for the backfield. Leading the defensive line for Prestonsburg will be James Derossett (sr., 6-3, 168), Robby Watson (sr., 5-10, 146), Kyle Fitzpatrick (soph., 6-1, 225), Kevin Farthing (soph., 6-1, 250) and Brian Horn (jr., 6-2, 278). This is perhaps the biggest defensive line Prestonsburg has enjoyed in recent years.

Injured Rebels To Face Fleming-Neon

When the Fleming-Neon Pirates comes calling at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex on the campus of Allen Central Friday night, it will mark the beginning of the all important district games. But for the Rebels it will also be a time to try and regroup as a team despite all the injuries they sustained against Whitley County last Saturday night.

Rebel coach Dewey Jamerson was lost for words in describing his team's 64-8 performance at Williamsburg. Coach Jamerson had to put a very young ball club on the field to start the game and later had to go to the grade school players on the Rebel squad.

Injured are Jamie Slone, Dan Stumbo, Brad Blackburn and Shawn Bailey. Bailey is expected to be out three to four weeks after having to have knee surgery. Bailey was one of the main cogs in the Rebel defense but he has already missed the first game.

Stumbo was injured in the Whitley County game and taken to the local hospital by ambulance. According to Coach Dewey Jamerson, Stumbo suffered a bruised collar bone. "We thought it was broken at first," explained Jamerson. "The doctor told him about Wednesday or Thursday he could come back so he plans on being back at practice today (Wednesday)."

Slone was also shaken up in the game but is not expected to miss tonight's game. "Jamie had a bruised back against Whitley County," Jamerson explained. "He will be ready to go come Friday night. What should be done is to rest Jamie and Dan one game but I just can't without the people."

Blackburn has a broken finger on his right hand and is the team's back up quarterback.

The Rebel ranks have shrunk some since the departure of Phillip Ritchie and Frank Martin. Todd Lucas, who the Rebels were counting on to add some punch to their offense, missed the Whitley County game. Lucas has missed several practices and has indicated that he will not return to the team. Ritchie left following the Betsy Layne game in the Wheelwright panorama.

"We are depleted as far as talent goes," said Allen Central mentor Dewey Jamerson, "but not by numbers. In fact I have had three more players join the team."

Quarterback Brad Scott had a hard time finding his receivers until 1:35 left in the ball game against Whitley County. Scott hit Shane Stumbo with a 23-yard pass for the Rebels' only score. Stumbo is still learning the wide receiver position and was just a step slow in getting to the ball on several of Scott's passes.

With Slone hurt and out of the game, Kevin Patton got the call out of the backfield. Patton is a strong kid who used to wrestle. He was seen being tackled five yards behind the line of scrimmage by three Colonels and he carried all three back to the line of scrimmage. If the Rebel offensive line can open some holes, Patton could pick up some needed yards in the needed ground game.

Robbie Sexton, John Parrott are musts for the Rebel attack against a strong Fleming-Neon team. Defensively, David Gilliam, Kenny Crum and Shawn Robinson will have to dig in the trenches.

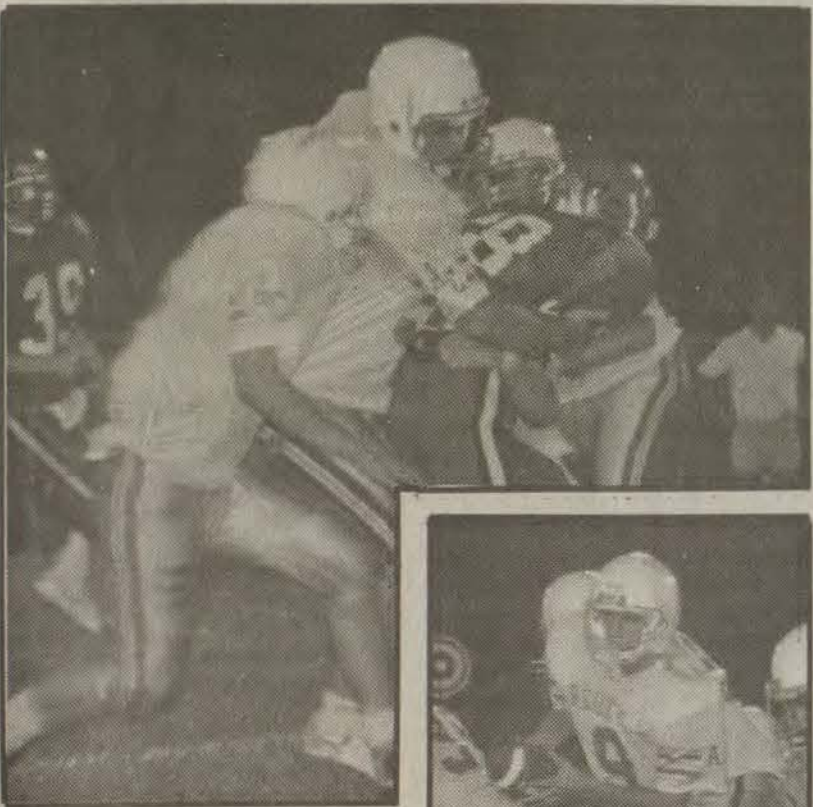

The Pirates come to Allen Central with an opening game win over Paintsville 24-21. "I thought Fleming-Neon was going to be a young club this year," said Jamerson, "but they are a tough football team. They are a typical Jack Hall coached team. They hit hard, which is Jack's trademark, as a team. Fleming-Neon will do nothing stupid to beat themselves. They like to run a sidesaddle offense which is just like the old single wing where the ball goes to the fullback or the quarterback will keep it.

Defense is the key!

Defense like the above and the quarterback play of Brad Scott will be a big key for the Allen Central Rebels against Fleming-Neon.

Johns Creek At Wheelwright Tonight

It seems to be the same story all around the districts this year. Everyone is young, inexperienced and looking to build a little pride into the football program.

The Johns Creek Bearcats are no different as they return 11 seniors this year, but will have to rely on some of the younger players for help. The new district alignment will certainly be much kinder to the Bearcats as it will be to the rest of the district teams.

Wheelwright Trojans
Record: 1-0
Last Game: Defeated Betsy Layne 24-8
Next Game: Phelps at home
Coach: Donnie Daniels

Building the team's pride is one of the priorities that coach Jim Lamb has set for his ballclub this year.

The pride will have to be built around three seasoned players: Chris Gannon, James K. Taylor and Shawn Thacker. Gannon is a senior while Taylor and Thacker are juniors.

Taylor quarterbacks the ballclub and the Bearcats like to throw the football. In their season opener 31-8 loss against Elkhorn City, the Bearcats had a 184-yards offense. Of the 184-yards, 107 came through the air. However, the 107-yards is not a true picture of the Bearcats passing game with 60-yards coming on one pass from Taylor. Taylor was five of 16 in the passing department.

The ground game of Johns Creek was slow with just 77-yards on 29 carries. Gannon and Thacker are the primary ball carriers for Johns Creek. Josh Lynch also carries the football for the Bearcats.

Wheelwright is still on cloud-nine after their 24-8 win over the Betsy Layne Bobcats last Friday night at Betsy Layne. The Trojans haven't let their win cloud their vision of what needs to be done tonight. Wheelwright is a good defensive ballclub and it will be a classic match-up with the running and passing game of the Bearcats. A strong secondary for the Trojans will be a must.

Steven Jackson, 160-yards versus Betsy Layne, will be the key figure in the backfield for the Trojans. Jackson scored the first touchdown for the Trojans on a 60-yard run on the second play of the game. Jackson is quick and uses his speed well.

Out of the Trojan backfield will come Chuck Hutton, 121-yards versus Betsy Layne. Add the talents of sophomore Arnold Adams and Ryan Johnson and the Trojan backfield is set.

Steven Shelton is at quarterback for the Trojans, but you will not see Wheelwright will have to stop the running game of the Johns Creek Bearcats as they did against Betsy Layne Friday night. The Trojans look to win their second game of the young season.

Wildcats Release Revised Schedule As Eastern University Is Added

For Eastern Kentucky University head basketball coach Mike Pollio, the wait to face the Kentucky Wildcats in Rupp Arena will not have to be put on hold until next year. The Colonels joined the list of UK opponents for the 1991-92 season when they replaced Duquesne on the Wildcats schedule. Duquesne dropped off the schedule and the Colonels were invited to be the replacement.

Playing a UK basketball team is a big plus for any college team regardless of who it is. It always gets the attention of the television people and good exposure. Said Pollio of playing UK, "It gives us credibility and it helps our recruiting."

Johnson Central's Jody Salisbury will be playing for Pollio's Colonels when they take to the hardwood this season. The UK-Eastern game will come off on January 18 and will be shown on television on the UK Network by delayed telecast.

The Cats of Rick Pitino will kick off the 1991-92 season on a happy note this year in that all NCAA sanctions will be lifted and the Wildcats will be eligible for post season tournament play. Kentucky will play two exhibition games—one in Memorial Coliseum and the other in Rupp Arena. Athlete's In Action will furnish the opposition on November 10 at Memorial Coliseum. Then the Russians invade Rupp Arena for the final exhibition tune-up before the Cats start playing for real against

West Virginia in the pre-season NIT basketball tournament. The Wildcats will face the Mountaineers at Rupp Arena on ESPN, November 20. The NIT will run through November 29.

The regular season gets underway on December 4 against Massachusetts. Indiana will be scheduled for Indianapolis on December 7. SEC play starts against newcomer South Carolina on January 4 at the home of the Gamecocks. Arkansas, choice by some polls as the number one team in the nation, also joins the SEC this year.

All but two games can be seen on the tube this year. The game at South Carolina and Vanderbilt will not be aired. All other games will be carried either by the UK Network, CBS, or ESPN. Kentucky makes four appearances on ESPN this season not counting the NIT. The all sports network got the rights to the Louisville-Kentucky match up. A game normally reserved for the networks. Kentucky's game at Georgia Tech will also be carried by ESPN.

Only one game will be seen on CBS this year—Kentucky at Indiana—as the networks cut back on college basketball this season. NBC has really cut back carrying only a limited number of games. The peacock network chose to air the NBA games. ABC will air two UK games—at Louisiana State and Vanderbilt at

Bobcats Hopes To Break Streak Against Hornets

Both teams will be looking for their first win of the 1991 football season. But for the Betsy Layne Bobcats, they are hoping for a win to snap a 16 game streak that carries all the way back to 1989. The Bobcats are searching for a solution to the dilemma and the Hornets could be the solution.

Betsy Layne fell to county rival Wheelwright last Friday by a 24-8 count as the Bobcats could not contain the Trojan running game. Wheelwright managed 397 total yards against what should be a strong Bobcat defensive line. However, the smaller Trojans are so quick and come off the football so quickly that Betsy Layne's defense was a step and a half slow.

It's not that the Bobcats don't have the offense themselves. They do. And a strong unit at that. James Keathley (sr., 5-9, 210) led Betsy Layne in rushing with 72 yards on 17 carries.

Add the running ability of Doug Hammonds (jr., 5-9, 150) and Jamie Kidd (sr., 5-10, 195) and you can see the potential is there. Kidd totaled 49 yards on the ground and caught two passes from Bobcats quarterback Bryan Combs (jr., 6-3, 195) for 18 yards. Hammonds carried the football 11 times for 48 yards and he scored the Bobcats' only points on a touchdown and conversion run.

New coach Pete Greene, a former Prestonsburg Blackcat standout, is in his first year as he takes over the Hornet program that was one of the area's top teams two years ago. This is the first year for the Hornets in competing in district play.

Magoffin County was shut out by Shelby Valley, another new district team this year, 46-0 last Friday night. The Hornets are a young ball club and in a rebuilding stage.

"We're a very young club," said Greene of his first team. "We have around 26 players out and 14 of them have never played football before."

The Hornet offense is led by fullback Johnny Rodriguez (5-7, 150). Rodriguez may be small for a fullback but he is "mean" when he gets on the field. Shawn Perkins (6-1, 175) runs the offense at quarterback. Inexperience at the signal calling position makes the Hornet offense a little shaky. Benji Reid will be the left halfback spot and Brandon Jenkins will fill the other back slot.

The Hornet defense is led by Jerry Traylor (6-1, 220). Traylor also fills in at the tackle or guard position on offense and plays the linebacker position on defense. The largest player that Greene has at Magoffin County is junior Matt Reid (6-7, 320).

"It's too bad that he has never played football before," said Greene. "He is just a junior so I will have him back next year."

Greene said that his team ran good against Shelby Valley but that they lost the football four times on fumbles.

"It was 8-0 into the second quarter and then it seemed like they scored 21 points in the next six minutes," Greene explained of Shelby Valley. "We're just a young team."

Football looks bright in Magoffin County, though, as the grade school program is really picking up.

"We have around 50-60 players out for the fifth and sixth grade team," Greene stated. "Our middle school team is doing real good."

With the strong feeder program, Greene looks for Hornet football to be on the upswing. However, when the horn sounds for kickoff time tonight, it should be a good ball game between the Bobcats and Hornets. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Hamilton Field.

some very costly mental errors against Paintsville that almost cost us the ball game."

Fleming-Neon fumbled the football seven times in the game against the Tigers and recovered but two of them, according to Hall.

The backfield for the Pirates will be a quick one that carries experience after a two-year rebuilding program at Fleming-Neon. "We had a good football team three years ago when we got into the playoffs," said Hall. "We lost a lot of kids and we have been rebuilding the past two seasons and weren't really a strong team then. This is a good football team this year and, hopefully, it is a team that will get better as the season goes on."

John Hall (6-0, 190) will quarterback Hall's ball club against Allen Central. Hall was four of 10 in the passing department for the Pirates against Paintsville for 80 yards passing. The rest of the backfield consists of Jamie Hall (5-10, 165) at fullback and Kevin Fleming (5-8, 165) at tailback. "Kevin led our ground game with 174 yards on 15 carries," Hall said. "He perhaps is our best runner although we do alternate at the tailback position." Alternating in the backfield at tailback is Josh Fleming (5-11, 170). Jerry Gross (5-11, 160) plays the wingback slot.

The Pirates like to run a 4-5 defense led by 5-10, 250-pound Lincoln Bentley. "Lincoln is our strongest player," said Hall of his defense. "He is a tremendous defensive player."

Call in your scores to the Floyd County Times 886-8506

Also on the line for the Pirates will be Mike Quillen (6-2, 205) and Curtis Gregg (6-0, 215). "Quillen is a real fine linebacker for us," said the Pirate mentor, "and Gregg plays a solid defensive end position for us."

Against Paintsville, Neon totaled 344 yards on offense with 264 coming on the ground. So they do like to run the football and will pass when the circumstances call for it. Quillen handles the kicking game for Fleming-Neon while Gross will do the punting.

Jamerson said that the Rebels are ready to get back to the gridiron wars after suffering such a large defeat at Whitley County and that he believes that his team can play with some of the teams that he must face.

"I am looking to get some good play out of our players," he stated, "and if we do I think we have a shot at anyone on our schedule."

The Rebels will square off against the Pirates in a 8 p.m. start. No radio.

Prestonsburg
Betsy Layne

Mike Burke takes the early lead over a host of second place finishers. Jodi, Celeste and Susie vow that this week it will be different with a promise to escape the basement. The local teams did not fair to well last week but there are hopes that this week will have different results. Kentucky gets the nod over Miami (Ohio), Louisville will fall to Tennessee, Cleveland and the Bengals are winners while Wheelwright is picked over Johns CK.

Kentucky State Fair Winner!

Dancing Vixen was recently crowned Reserve World Champion at the 1991 Kentucky State Fair World Championship Horse Show for American Saddlebreds. Dancing Vixen was raised by Sherry and Mike Goeing of Bevinville, owners of the horse.

Dancing Vixen Crowned Reserve World Champion At Kentucky State Fair

There are horse shows and then there are horse shows. For Mike and Sherry Goeing of Bevinville, there is no horse show like the Kentucky State Fair. Well, right now at least. The couple's horse was crowned Reserve World Champion at the 1991 Kentucky State Fair World Championship Horse Show for American Saddlebreds.

will be the Kentucky Fall Classic where owner Sherry Goeing will be riding her.

Dancing Vixen was raised by the Goings at their farm at Bevinville with much help from their two children, Stanley and Matthew.

But the Kentucky State Fair title is not all the Goeing's horse has brought home. Other wins include this year's title in the Open Five-Gaited Championship at North Middleton (the nation's oldest horse show). Dancing Vixen also captured the Reserve Champion Mare and Reserve Ladies Five-Gaited Champion in Roanoke, Virginia.

But it doesn't stop there. Dancing Vixen won both the Open and Championship at Oldham County and the Five-Gaited Grand Championship at the Bourbon County Horse Show.

Dancing Vixen was ridden at the Reserve World Championship to the title by trainer Jack Noble of Versailles. Dancing Vixen's next show

Blackcat Band Gets New Director

by Jeff Sammons

Prestonsburg Marching Blackcat Band, now going into its 1991 season will step to a new beat this year under the guidance of its new director, Rodney Miller. Miller took command of the Blackcat Band just days before school officially began. He brings with him one year's teaching experience and also a bachelors degree in music education.

Miller comes from his hometown high school in Bedford, Pennsylvania, where he faced the same dilemma as his predecessors at Prestonsburg—a high turnover rate of band directors. After obtaining his degree, he came back to his high school to be band director, replacing his previous high school director. He spent one year at Bedford high school and felt that it was time for a change.

Miller is settling in and is just briefly acquainted with his students. However, he expressed enthusiasm about his students' abilities, especially their accomplishments over the summer without a band director, which, he said, shows a lot of team effort and courage not only on their part but the Band Boosters as well.

"They've covered a lot of ground over the summer, but they still have a long way to go," Miller said. The new director also stressed that "I came into this organization with a real positive attitude that should reflect on the students. I see a lot of potential in this group. If they work with me—with cooperation on both parts—I can show it to them as well."

The new Prestonsburg Marching Blackcats will make their first public appearance this Friday night at the first home game of the season.

The Band Boosters Club invite everyone to support the Prestonsburg High School Band through utilizing the concession stand located beside the stadium.

much passing from Shelton. Shelton had only one completion against Betsy Layne for 4-yards. It was the running game that brought the Trojans their first win of 1991 and it is the running game that the Bearcats will have to be the most concerned about.

The Trojans defense is in the capable hands of senior Marty Tackett. Tackett a four-year player for Wheelwright, leads a balanced Trojan squad. The goal line stand against the Bobcats did nothing but boost the confidence of the Trojans "D".

Chris Short, linebacker, had nine solo hits against Betsy Layne and several second hits. "He was our leading tackle in the game," said Trojan coach Donnie Daniels.

Senior Eddie Shelton helps to shore up the Trojans secondary defense and had a good outing against Betsy Layne. "Our secondary played real well," said Daniels.

The kicking game for Wheelwright belongs to Arnold Adams. Adams drew the praise of his coach. "If Arnold can get the grades he could be a good college punter," said Daniels. "He had a 38-yard average on four punts against Betsy Layne with punts from 46 to 51-yards."

Daniels says that he told his team after the Betsy Layne win that they were an average team but that "you win games against tough opponents when you are above average."

"We are a good enough ballclub to have a .500 season," he said. "I hope that by mi-season we will be a very good team."

Daniels said that his club must control the ball against Johns Creek and control the line of scrimmage. "They like to run the "run and shoot" offense," he said.

Game time is at 8 p.m. as the Trojans host the Bearcats at Brackett Field. No radio.

Wildcats

Kentucky. Kentucky will appear on seven SEC Games of the Week. Six games will shown on delay basis. The UK Network will air five games live.

Arizona State, Morehead State and Georgia Tech are new on the schedule for Kentucky this year. Missing will be the Big Four tournament at Market Square in Indianapolis this summer. Thanks NBC!

Morehead, Eastern, Western, and Louisville all four will appear against the Wildcats this season. What a change from the past. Kentucky will have more home games this year—15—than last season.

Two games will be of the late night variety as matches against Georgia and Tennessee will not start until 9:30 p.m. I like the late night games. I'm a late night person anyway and what better way to spend it by staying up with the Wildcats.

What about the polls? Several pre-season polls think that Kentucky will be one of the top five teams in the country. Others feel they are a top 10 team but should not be considered one of the top five. However, in the hearts of all Wildcat fans they have but one spot—NUMBER 1!

THE POWER RATINGS

The POWER RATING begins the third year of predictions with a combined record 630-161 (79.6 percent), and looks forward to another year of providing the reader with computer predictions.

Kentucky continues to improve and is favored in eight of their 11 games. Four of those wins are by five or less points. The games are consecutive ones with Mississippi, Mississippi State, LSU and Georgia. Should the Wildcats win three, a 7-4 record would likely put them in a bowl game. However, should they lose all these games, another 4-7 record is probable. Look for Curry to continue to improve the program and greatly improve on last years inconsistency.

NATIONAL SCENE

The "BIG GAME" this week is between Notre Dame and Indiana. Notre Dame suffers again from graduation losses and another slide in the ratings appears to be imminent. Notre Dame has slid from 136 on the POWER RATING to 127, 119, and now 118. A possible upset is in the making, and a 8-4 mark looks likely with their killer schedule that includes games at Michigan, Tennessee and Penn State among others.

OHIO VALLEY CONFERENCE

Eastern Kentucky has to be favored to win the conference again this year over arch rival Middle Tennessee State. Fans won't have to wait long on this game. Eastern hosts Middle Tennessee on September 21 and is favored in this game by three points at present. Eastern will have a hard time matching last year's 10-2 record, however, due to their non conference schedule. A 9-3 mark is more likely.

ONLY TWO RACES REMAIN...

With Major League baseball in the final month of the regular season and heading toward October, there remains but two races (and that's not certain) in both the American and National Leagues. Sparky Anderson's Detroit Tigers are still in it but time is running out if they are to catch the Toronto Blue Jays. At the present (Thursday) the Blue Jays held a three game lead over the Tigers.

In the National League the East division has been decided. The Pittsburgh Pirates will make their second consecutive trip to the playoffs and will face either the Atlanta Braves or Los Angeles Dodgers. Currently the Dodgers are clinging to a half game lead and in the loss column, where it really counts, a full game.

Dave Stewart's prophetic utterance after the Cincinnati Reds swept the mighty Oakland A's last year will be a true utterance as the Reds are dead. No chance for the machine as it will definitely need an overhaul job during the winter. However, it doesn't look as the second part of Stewart's words will be a fact as he predicted the A's would once again be in the World Series. No, Dave, not this year as your A's are just as far out as the Reds.

A new champion will emerge this year and I am pulling for America's team — Atlanta. I do not want to see the Dodgers win anything. I personally don't like the antics (nor Slim Fast) of Tom Lasorda. He has always been one, if not the least favorite of mine of all the managers in baseball.

Dave Justice, Ron Gant, Tom Glavine, Jeff Treadway, Otis Nixon and Bobby Cox (I don't think much of him as a manager either).

What if the Braves don't do it and the Dodgers win? What then? Come on Brewers (Milwaukee).

DON'T FORGET....

To go out and sign up for the new Pop Warner Flag Football League that is forming here in Floyd County. Registration begins Saturday at 1 p.m. at Archer Park.

All girls interested in being cheerleaders for a team are required to sign up also. A $20 registration fee, that covers the cost of equipment, uniforms and secondary insurance, will be required also. But it's a great deal. Pop Warner Flag Football is for grades kindergarten through fourth grade.

SPOTTED....

Bide Click at the Super America station in Martin Thursday morning. Bide said that he was on his way to pull jury duty. He also stated that he has been on for three years and plans to retire soon. Click was one of those All-State Honorable Mentions in basketball for the Purple Flash back in the late '50's.

Seeing Bide reminded me of all the time and effort that he put into coaching. He coached junior pro basketball teams, Little League baseball, helped with the girls basketball program at Allen Central. Click is the only coach, I know of, that brought a national title back to the state of Kentucky when he coached the Martin Junior Pro Girl All-Stars to prominence back in '84 at Stokely Arena in Knoxville, Tennessee. It's always good to stop and talk with the former Purple Flash when you can get him to stand still long enough.

ELEMENTARY COACHES....

I need your upcoming basketball schedules (boys and girls) as soon as you have it finalized. If you are planning any panorama's let us know.

RECEIVES ANONYMOUS LETTER.....

We received a letter this week (Wednesday) that was not signed except from "Floyd County Boys and Girl's Basketball Players." The letter dealt with the unfairness of officiating in the Floyd County Grade School tournament last year. One quote from the letter was "We think it is a shame to practice hard for months and then let two grown men decide who will win the game." Again, "The county tournament was disgraced by two teachers and a local businessman that tried to referee and keep the time clock and only made a mockery of this important event in the lives of young boys and girls." Unquote.

Refereeing basketball games is no easy matter. It is much harder than it looks on the floor. It always easier to see the game and the happenings of the game from the stands than it is on the floor. I have been on both sides and believe it is not easy and certainly not a thankful job.

However, I certainly believe also that with such an important event as the Floyd County Grade School basketball tournament (and it is as big of an event as there is in the county) the best officials that can possibly be found should be.

The boys and girls that take to the floor to play the game of basketball deserve the best that can be found. Our instructors and educators owe that to them. And I believe that we have the finest officials in the 15th Region right here Floyd County.

The problem with getting these qualified officials that have been certified is the high school games that are going on at the time of the grade school tournament. A problem exists here. When grade school basketball begins in September and on into October and November, each school is after the best officials they can find in the county. They grab up the top officials, who have a chance to pick up some extra money while awaiting the start of the high school season. Once the high school season starts, the top officials go another way and then the grade school programs have to get whoever they can. Well, if the available officials are not really qualified to call a game, then the coaches and principals of certain schools have to grab whosoever.

Solution: Elementary coaches and principals should not use the high school officials during the early months of the season and use those that will be available at tournament time and see how they perform and choose from that lottery of top officials.

Any official that calls the grade school tournament should have no affiliation with any of the participating schools.

Personal safety of all ball players should be taken in account when choosing an official. I do not know of any official, and I know about all of them in the county, that would deliberately call a biased game. However, if a referee is not in the game mentally, then it can appear he is biased. Officials need to be in shape and mentally alert to what is going on on the court. These young men and women must have adequate officials for not only tournament games, but regular season as well. Why not form a Floyd County Officials Association and get the needed officials from that pool?

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

HOROSCOPE

September 8 through September 14

By C.C. Clark

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Your main priority will be to bring a sense of order back to your life. Things have been a bit more chaotic lately than you like, and organizing yourself always makes you feel better.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
True to your sign, you seem to be performing a balancing act. Though it seems at times everything is sliding to one side, you are actually handling things quite well.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Planning ahead will help you organize your priorities. Members of your family and close friends are beginning to feel neglected. Take some time out to have fun with them.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
You'll become quite angry with a friend, but the entire situation will blow over quickly. You will be embarrassed to discover your friend was acting in your best interests.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
An exciting event is about to take place in your life. A relative needs your guidance concerning financial matters, but money management isn't your strong suit; consult an expert.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
A new venture will make you busier than ever, but you enjoy the fast pace and the idea that you can really make things work. Be sure to give yourself time to relax.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
A loved one needs your undivided attention. Listen, but don't be too quick to judge. Stay away from gossipmongers in your work environment.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Although you don't feel like it, you must talk candidly with those you love. Your conversations will bring a bright light into your life and home.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Be wary of co-workers who are overly friendly. There is no reason for paranoia, but you must follow your instincts when dealing with certain people.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
A friend needs your assistance but is reluctant to ask. Seek an opportunity to show your care. Make sure domestic affairs are in order this week.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
A child will bring something special to your life, and you should react with great kindness. A business opportunity is just around the bend. Be ready.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Worrying will get you nowhere, especially when dealing with things over which you have no control. Don't let your imagination run wild wondering what could happen.

TV PIPELINE

Roberts-Sutherland romance falls flat

By Taylor Michaels
 Q: Could you tell me a little bit about the breakup of Julia Roberts and Kiefer Sutherland? I hear that Julia went away with another man. On the other hand, I hear it was Kiefer's fault. Could you also add Kiefer's address?
 —Christy Fielding, Prescott, Ariz.

A: Few are privy to the exact reasons. Supposedly, Roberts called off the wedding after getting tired of Sutherland's wild ways. Then, she was seen in Ireland with Jason Patric, who co-starred with Sutherland in The Lost Boys, and Sutherland was seen out and about with other women. Roberts met Patric during the filming of Flatliners, which co-starred Sutherland. You can write Sutherland c/o CAA, 9830 Wilshire Boulevard, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

Q: We enjoy Hunter so much. What happened to him? It's one of the best shows on television. Please return it. —The Harold Todd Family and friends of Altona, Ill.

A: Well, first of all, I can't bring it back; that's up to the network, and they have decided to cancel it. There are many rumors circulating about the reasons — low ratings, creative differences and financial haggling. Stephanie Kramer left the show, reportedly to pursue a singing career and concentrate on films. Many people thought she had been run off by Fred Dryer's attitude, but she denied that was the reason. The next season Hunter had a new partner (Darlanne Fluegel), but the spark was gone. She was killed off, and Hunter went partnerless until the next season, when he got yet another female cohort, played by Lauren Lane. At the end of last season, Dryer wanted a large amount of money per episode and was turned down. The show was subsequently canceled. You decide the reason! This was one of my favorite shows.

 Q: I wrote you two months ago requesting an address for Roger Daltrey after his appearance on Midnight Caller. It's obvious you have chosen not to respond. Therefore, do you suppose you could tell me who can give me this information? —Dianne Weist, Gilmer, Texas.
 A: I have been through all of my letters and there wasn't one from you. I truly make a serious effort to answer all of the mail. You can write to Daltrey c/o Marion Rosenberg, 8428 Melrose Place, Suite C, Los Angeles, Calif., 90067.
 Q: How can I get in touch with Larry Hagman?
 —Amos Barstead, Woonsocket, S.D.
 A: You can write to Hagman c/o Majlar Productions, Inc., 23730 Malibu Colony Drive, Malibu, Calif., 90265.
 Send your questions about the world of entertainment to Let's Talk, Features Dept., P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas 76161-1009. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.

VIDEO BIJOU

Restored Laurel and Hardy gem set for video release

By Steven Alan McGaw

Tuesday, Oct. 1 will see the release of the newly restored version of Laurel and Hardy's fantasy film gem, March of the Wooden Soldiers. A joint release between Samuel Goldwyn and Goodtimes Home Video Corporation, the critically acclaimed family musical will feature vivid colorization carefully researched and designed to recreate the bright palette of the original sets and costumes. According to film historian Randy Skredvedt, Stan Laurel sorely regretted that the lavish spectacle was not originally produced in color.

Restored to the video release are several sequences unseen since the film's initial release in November 1934.

These scenes include the "storybook" framing device featuring Mother Goose, as well as musical numbers featuring Tom-Tom Piper and Little Bo-Peep. Also, several moments with the evil Bogyman have been put back into the work.

The film was based on the Victor Herbert operetta Babes in Toyland and stars Laurel and Hardy as reluctant heroes who rid Toyland of the villainous Barnaby and the Bogyman. One of the comedy duo's top-grossing films, March of the Wooden Soldiers is a timeless family classic, now available to a new generation of children. Look for it to hit your nearest video vendor next month; the work will retail for $19.95.
