Death of former Floyd Countian ruled a homicide :

1991 drowning blamed on 1981 shooting

Special to the Times
by Tim Gielau
Cape Coral (Florida) Daily Breeze

When 26-year-old Bryan Birdsall of Cape Coral, Florida died last month after his car plunged into a canal, it appeared to be just another accidental drowning.

Actually, it develops, he was murdered, dying of his injuries a decade after being shot in Floyd County.

According to a report released yesterday by the Lee County (Florida) Medical Examiner's Office, Birdsall was murdered—the victim of a 10-year-old gunshot wound to the head.

According to the associate medical examiner Dr. Michael Arnall, Birdsall's gunshot wound left him afflicted with seizures, and it was one of those seizures which caused him to suddenly lose control of his car, drive into a canal, and drown.

Arnall's report states the immediate cause of death as "submersion in water due to a seizure while driving an automobile as a consequence of a gunshot wound to the head" with the "manner of death" listed as "homicide."

According to the autopsy report, Birdsall was shot October 4, 1981, in Drift, Kentucky.

A 1981 newspaper account, which appeared in the Floyd County Times three days after the shooting, states

Birdsall was shot during an alleged robbery attempt at his uncle's grocery store. His uncle, Harless "Baldy" Hall, told authorities he was outside when he heard shots ring out from within the store. When he went inside, he found his 17-year-old nephew lying on the floor with a small caliber gunshot wound to the back of the head. The investigator handling the case, former Kentucky State Police detective Danny Stumbo, said the store looked like a "battlefield" because there were so many bullets on the floor.

Hall was jailed as a prime suspect a few hours after the shooting. However, a grand jury which heard evidence in the case, failed to hand up an indictment.

Stumbo said that although the case has since been classified as a murder, he doubts the state will pursue the investigation.

"If they haven't done anything with it by now, I doubt they ever will," he said.

He did say, however, he believes that Hall was sent to prison for shooting a man, but he has since been released.

Hall was indicted for murder in Floyd County in March, 1984, in the shooting of 17-year-old Robert Shepherd of Hunter. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of first degree manslaughter and was sentenced in Au-

Annual report says :

Tests show decline in skill scores

Student test scores and attendance rates declined while dropout rates increased during the 1990-91 school year in Floyd County, according to an annual school performance report issued September 12.

In measurements of basic skills, the report indicated Floyd County students had the most difficulty with math, scoring below the National Curve Equivalent (NCE) in grades two through twelve. Overall, the skills tests showed scoring declines between 1989-90 and 1990-91 in grades two, three, four, five, six and eight, while improvements were recorded in grades one, seven and ten.

An NCE of 50 is equal to the national average. In Floyd County, students scored below that average in reading in grades two, six, nine, ten, eleven and twelve. In spelling, test scores were below the average in grades two, six, seven, nine, ten, eleven and twelve. In writing, below average scores were recorded in grades six, nine, eleven and twelve. And, in reference skills tests, scores were below the 50th NCE in grades four, six, seven, nine, ten, eleven and twelve.

Overall, students in grade one tested at an NCE of 51.6 for the 1990-91 year while second graders averaged 48.6; third graders 49.1; fourth graders 49.5; fifth graders 50.0; sixth graders 47.1; seventh graders at 50.3; eighth graders at 51.0; and tenth graders at 50.3.

Attendance levels in the Floyd County system declined during the 1990-91 school year to an average of 93.78 percent. That figure represented a drop of about one-half of one percent from the 1989-90 school year but exceeded the minimum state requirement of 93.5 percent.

Student attendance rates surpassed those of district teachers (93 percent) and greatly out-distanced school administrators and other professional staff (87 percent) during the 1990-91.

The system's dropout rate increased significantly between 1989-90 and 1990-91, rising from 2.79 percent to 4.42 percent. Broken down by grades, the largest jump came in the eleventh grade where 1989-90's rate of 4.5 percent more than doubled to 9.39 percent during 1990-91. A total of 169 students quit school during the year, 61 more than the 108 who dropped out in 1990.

Staff undergoing training :

On-line computer coming

Those utilizing the Floyd County Circuit Clerk and District offices at the Floyd County Courthouse may find things a little slower during September and October while those offices operate with a smaller staff.

The offices are working on a smaller scale due to workers undergoing computer training, said Floyd County Court Clerk Frank DeRossett. A new on-line computer system will be in operation in the courthouse by October 14, and staff members are receiving training in Frankfort and in Pikeville before the system is installed.

DeRossett asked for the public's support and consideration while conducting business in these offices during this time. "Please bear with us until training is completed," said DeRossett.

The new on-line system has been developed to comply with federal requirements regarding commercial drivers and to facilitate license issuance and recordkeeping for all drivers. Federal safety act requires every commercial driver to be tested and licensed before April 1, 1992. The federal licensing requires a nationwide computer check of drivers before a license can be issued.

New information on Kentucky driver licenses will include weight, eye color, hair color, race and sex. "The on-line computer system will allow the driver's license status to be

Guilty plea taken in '87 assault case

Prestonsburg fire chief Tom Blackburn has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor assault charge stemming from an off-duty incident in 1987.

Blackburn pleaded guilty this week to fourth degree assault in connection with a July, 1987 assault on James Pennington. He was sentenced to six months in jail, with actual jail time probated for two years, and fined $300 on the plea.

updated instantaneously. The additional information on all licenses will help prevent the issuance of fake licenses and prevent bad drivers from being licensed through the use of a nationwide system of computers. The system is designed to enhance public safety and to provide more up-to-date information to the public and its users," said Milo D. Bryant, transportation secretary and commissioner of highways.

Other state agencies, including state police, court system, Revenue Cabinet and the Cabinet for Human Resources, will also benefit from the on-line driver licensing computer system.

The driver license offices will be closed Thursday, October 10, Friday, October 11, and Saturday, October 12, due to the implementation of the new system. No driver licenses or driving tests will be given on these dates. Driver license offices will be open on Monday, October 14, with the new system in use.

Board may seek legal intervention :

Strike issues go to court

The Floyd County Board of Education will meet in special session this evening, September 18, to consider possible legal action aimed at halting a four-day strike by the system's classified employees.

According to an announcement from board chairman Ray "Shag" Campell, the meeting is set to consider authorizing board attorney Cliff Latta or "other counsel" to seek a court injunction against "those who are not complying with their job descriptions and contracts" and who are "disrupting the educational process" for Floyd County students.

Classified employees of the school system, including bus drivers, cooks, janitors and school clerks, began a work stoppage on Friday, September 13, after the Floyd County Board of Education declined their request for board recognition of the workers' efforts to gain union representation.

Wednesday's special meeting agenda includes a proposal to seek a court-imposed halt to that strike through an injunction that, presumably, would force striking workers to comply with their contracts and job descriptions. Otherwise, a second item on the Wednesday night agenda could lead to the replacement of those employees. The board will also consider Wednesday an action authorizing the employment of additional bus drivers and "other classified, non-certified personnel."

In other news from the strike:

Attendance figures for the first days of the walkout indicated that about half of the system's students were showing up for classes. Each absence costs the system $16.50 per day. On Monday, 4,278 students were absent, costing $70,587. On Tuesday, 4,265 students were out, costing the school system $70,372. The amount of money lost during the strike, superintendent Ronald Hager said Tuesday, would affect the amount of money the school system receives next year from state sources.

Acting on information that students staying at home during the strike may be counted as unexcused absences, some parents indicated Tuesday they may organize picket lines of their own to protest that policy. Superintendent Ronald Hager said Tuesday that principals had been given the discretion to determine what students could or could not make it to school during the strike and to decide which absentees could be counted as

Ousley asks parents to carpool kids

A special called meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education for Wednesday to seek injunctive relief to put striking classified employees back in the schools capped off the third day of the work stoppage.

Meanwhile, the district's transportation director has issued a plea to parents to form carpools to get students to class.

Earl D. Ousley issued a statement Tuesday afternoon asking parents to provide transportation for their children and any other children in the community.

"(The) work stoppage by employees has not enabled the school district to provide transportation for the students of Floyd County to and from school," the statement said.

Workers called a strike against the school system last Thursday after the school board refused to recognize them as part of the Teamsters union. Picket lines formed at schools Friday and classes were canceled in the district. Bus drivers organized a convoy Friday afternoon to turn in their buses at the system's garage.

Counterclaim filed in school secretary issue

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A counterclaim was filed Friday against Floyd County superintendent Ron Hager by the board of education seeking to recover money paid to Hager for serving as secretary to the board.

The board's claim alleges Hager was paid $1,200 by treasurer Russell Frazier after state law was changed prohibiting compensation for a superintendent serving as board secretary.

A November 7, 1990 memo from Hager to Frazier, filed with the counterclaim, requests that Frazier pay Hager $200 per month for services as secretary to the board. Hager's memo says that Kentucky School Boards Association attorney Steve Kirby and state Department of Education attorney Gary Bale agreed that Hager should continue to receive compensation.

The board's counterclaim said Frazier has continued to pay Hager $200 per month.

An Attorney General's Opinion on the issue says that a multi-year contract for a superintendent to serve as secretary would be terminated by the passage of Kentucky's Education Reform Act.

Hager filed suit against the board in August after he was replaced as secretary to the board.

transportation director Earl D. Ousley Friday saying the drivers had not resigned their positions as school bus drivers by turning in their buses.

Striking workers said Tuesday that they have been offered support from the United Mine Workers Association in their quest to become a union.

"We've been told the U.M.W.A. would help us in anyway possible," said David Turner, a custodian at McDowell. "They said they would support us."

Don Shannon, a McDowell bus driver, said local U.M.W.A. president Bobby Joe Hicks told striking employees they would assist the group in their strike.

Shannon said the workers are determined to continue the work stoppage until they are recognized as a Teamsters union.

"Five years ago when we tried to organize the Teamsters were the only ones to even talk to us," said Turner. "We want the Teamsters recognized."

Shannon and Turner said the employees are willing to talk to board members about the strike, but the bottom line was union recognition.

"If they don't talk union, there's no use in talking," Shannon said. "We're willing to talk. We don't want to stand on this picket line all day."

"If we can get three board members together, we'll talk," Turner said. "We have to start somewhere. If we don't talk, we can't get this settled."

Bus driver Clinis Hall said the pickets were conducting a peaceful demonstration and would not condone any violence or alcohol on the premises.

Although buses continued to run in the Wheelwright and Melvin area after the strike was called, Shannon said drivers in that area vowed to park their buses Wednesday.

"We talked to them this morning (Tuesday)," Shannon said. "They told us they were coming out tomorrow. The longer we stay out, the more support we're getting. We've got more parents supporting us."

Shannon said three substitute cooks were called in to work Tuesday after seven regular cooks at the school failed to report for work. He said just two cooks reported to work Monday.

gust, 1984, to 20 years in prison. He was paroled in 1988 to an area other than Floyd County.

Floyd County Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton said Tuesday his office would review the case involving Birdsall's death to determine if enough evidence existed to bring charges against Hall.

Patton's office has requested a copy of the 1981 police report concerning the shooting of Birdsall and should receive a copy of that report within ten days.

Birdsall moved to Florida about eight years ago and married about four years later. He was working as a restaurant manager before his death.

The accident occurred about 5:20 p.m. August 13, when Birdsall's car plunged into a canal in the 200 block of W.W. 20th Street. He was in the water for about three or four minutes before his unconscious body was pulled from the vehicle by police and fire fighters. Rescue workers said he was in a state of cardiac arrest when they got him onto the bank of the canal, but they were able to restore his pulse before he was transported to Cape Coral Hospital.

There, he remained in critical condition until his death four days later. The autopsy was performed the following day.

Air conditioning units at James D. Adams Middle School were not working Monday or Tuesday, creating stifling conditions.

Classes were called off Monday at Duff Elementary when volunteer firefighters declined to cross picket lines at the school. Firefighters are required at the school to man a fire-truck, necessary because the school has inadequate water pressure and a sprinkler system is inoperative. A firetruck was on the scene Tuesday and classes resumed.

About 25 people have applied for bus driving positions and a number of others have made inquiries into jobs, according to school transportation director Earl Ousley. Ousley said 28 regular drivers were making their runs despite the strike. Ousley reported that a rumor being circulated that Carl D. Perkins Job Corps students were being recruited to drive buses was "the farthest thing from reality."

Superintendent Ronald Hager said Tuesday there was no "legal and valid reason to close" schools and that classes would continue despite the walkout by classified personnel.

When asked Tuesday if he had spoken with state officials to determine what avenues might be open for resolution of the walkout, Hager said he had "spoken with a number of people across the Commonwealth and I have no comment at this time." Hager also said Tuesday he was not aware of what was on the school board's agenda for the special meeting Wednesday evening.

Wednesday's special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education will be held at the board office at 7 p.m.

CIRCUIT JUDGE?

What is Circuit Court? Most of us in Floyd County refer to upstairs court and downstairs court. This is because the Circuit Court is located on the second floor of the Courthouse and District Court is located on the first floor of the Courthouse. What is the difference?

District Court is the lesser of the two courts. It deals mostly with traffic tickets, misdemeanor cases and small civil cases involving $4,000.00 or less, including small claims cases.

Circuit Court is the most important court any one of us will ever have contact with. Circuit Court handles the more serious cases, such as murder, rape, child abuse, robbery and burglary. It is the court that handles divorce cases, where the decision of child custody is made. This court also handles property disputes, such as someone trying to claim your property. It also handles civil cases involving more than $4,000.00.

As you can see, the job of Circuit Judge is important to all of us. I ask you to carefully consider which candidate is capable of handling these important cases. I ask for your vote for Circuit Judge of Floyd County.

PSAT is essential test for college-bound students

October 19 and 22 are dates of vital importance to Kentucky high school sophomores and juniors who are interested in attending college, said Joseph L. Fink, University of Kentucky director of admissions.

On those dates, most of the state's high schools will be offering their students the chance to take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, or PSAT.

"This test offers sophomores and juniors the chance to take a widely used practice version of a college entrance exam, the Scholastic Aptitude Test," Fink said. "Several important college scholarship programs also use these test scores to assess students."

This year, 290 of Kentucky's 376 high schools are offering students the opportunity to take the exam.

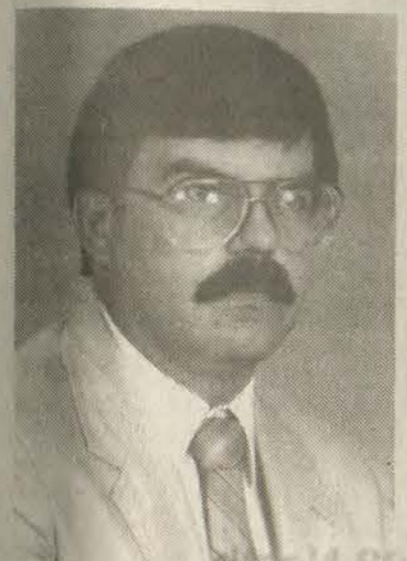

Any student who is interested in taking the PSAT, but has not signed up, must contact the guidance counselor at his or her school by September 30.

Fink said parents of children attending schools where the test is not being offered can call the largest high school in their home county to find out where their child can take the test. Parents can also call The College Board at 404-636-9465 for information.

Kentucky needs to encourage more schools to offer the test and more students to take it, Fink said.

The PSAT is a basic qualifying exam for National Merit Scholarships and for the National Achievement Program, sponsored by the National Scholarship Service for Outstanding Negro Students.

It will cost $6.50 to take the PSAT this year. In most high schools, fee waivers are available through the guidance counselor's office.

Educational ins and outs...
In Floyd County the teachers are in but the bus drivers are out. In Breathitt County the teachers are out but the students are in. In Boyd County the superintendent is in but he may soon be out. In Kentucky, we're in the second year of a six-year plan to reform education, but the supposed beneficiaries in many districts—the students—don't appear likely to get much out of it. Wait 'til next year, right?

Americans are homeless, jobless and hopeless.
Every time a Kentucky coal mine shuts down, every time a foreign company buys an American firm, and every time we look at that little box on our paycheck which says "federal taxes withheld" we wonder about whose tank payment we've made this month. In case you haven't noticed, the planet Earth is undergoing revolutionary change, both politically and economically. American taxpayers are picking up a hefty slice of the tab. Perhaps a little revolution of our own is in order. The least we could do is convince our federal government to shop at home.

Omigosh.
All was well with our world this weekend until we opened our Sunday paper. There it was, in black and white, the most disheartening story to hit the state since Governor Goebel was shot on the Capitol steps. Sallie Bingham is leaving Louisville! Sallie, Sallie, Sallie...say it isn't so. Booohooohooohoo. How will we be able to sleep nights? Where will she go? What will she do? Alas and alack. Sniff. Sob. Boo ho...hey, wait a minute, who is this Sallie Bingham anyhow?

The Perry family media empire nearly suffered a meltdown this weekend under a blazing September sun. Our father-son team did, however, manage to capture a tie for third in the second annual Member-Guest golf tournament at Paintsville Country Club despite the heat, humidity, bad backs and sandbagging, er, skillful play of the eventual winners, Johnny Ray Turner and state rep Greg Stumbo. It's not that we're sore losers, we'll be the first to congratulate Johnny Ray on the win, but that other guy won't see his name in print again until we get a chance to win back the five bucks we had to fork over on a final round wager. If old what's-his-name thinks he's going to get away that easy with our hard earned cash, he underestimates the backswing, er, power (and persistence) of the press.

We know we're just an average Joe and we're not supposed to understand the intricacies and complexities of U.S. foreign policy. But darned if we aren't curious about our country's spending habits. Take for instance the $10 billion in loan guarantees for Israel. If we read it correctly, a loan guarantee means if the borrowers don't pay off their note, U.S. taxpayers will. It will cost us a few hundred million bucks regardless. What's the return on our investment? Pals for Life? Mighty expensive engagement ring, ain't it? Of course we spend many more dollars in many more countries to make many more friends, we suppose. Meanwhile, some of the friends we've financed in the past are repaying our kindness by buying our country out from under us. And meanwhile, thousands of

By the time you read this, we'll be travelling the friendly skies toward our first encounter with the Pacific Ocean, smog, jet lag and the storied traffic of L.A. We've spent our entire 37 years in the lands east of the Mississippi and look forward to this opportunity to expand our horizons. We're particularly inspired by the time differences between here and there. If we have calculated correctly, we'll be four hours younger when we arrive in California. At this age, we need all the help we can get.

Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to recognize Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson, Floyd County, for his contribution to the Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch and the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association. Paul is a strong supporter of the Boys and Girls Ranch and has raised money for the summer camp as well as sending children to camp. He is supportive of the programs of the Kentucky Sheriffs' Association and works diligently to help sheriffs across the state. For his contributions to us, Sheriff Thompson was recognized at our annual state conference in Covington on Saturday, September 7. Sheriff Thompson will receive a special commemorative gift for his help. I am looking forward to working with Paul in the coming year and know that he will continue to support the many worthwhile projects we have planned. Sincerely,

Editor:
To the taxpayer's of Floyd County I challenge the taxpayer's of Floyd County to demand the school board to recognize the demands of Floyd County bus driver's and cooks. #1. Because we do not want our kids to ride with scab drivers. Greyhound hired scab driver's and some of those drivers wrecked and turned one bus over injuring 40 people and killing two. I am asking the people, do you want your children riding with people like that? Another greyhound went over a large mountain killing one and injuring 16. We have the best trained school bus drivers in Floyd County. Let us keep it that way. #2 Citizens of Floyd County do you want your children to eat food that is prepared by Mexicans or foreign people? As a taxpayer my property tax tripled last year. The school board vote's their own self a large raise any time they want to. They aren't worth one half what they get. I will do their job for one half what they earn. And I could do a darn better job. I would get rid of a lot of dead beats that have been drawing the taxpayer's money for years for bad service rendered. I think we need an investigation about the school levy placed on our property tax. The taxpayer's should have a say whether they agree by a ballot voted on election day for a school levy. The way it is or the way the school board works it, they just tell the tax commissioner to add more taxes on our land and automobiles. To hell with the way they are treating the Floyd County taxpayers. Other states have school levies voted on by ballots.

Are we not allowed to speak out if we are employed by the Floyd County School Board? It appears to me that if employees of the Floyd County School Board are not allowed to speak out, even if this means carrying a placard in their off hours to let everyone see that he or she is in sympathy with the bus drivers, then it would certainly appear that that person's civil rights are being obstructed.

Let us citizen's remember the school bus wreck's at Knotly Hollow where 27 children went in the river and a school bus load burnt up at Carrolton, Kentucky. The driver's and cook's are human beings too. They have to eat too. They can't afford big steaks like the $75,000 dead beats on the school board. But they need cheaper food to survive and feed their families. Shame on you, the Floyd County School Board, for your dirty deeds. You have conspired to hire replacement workers.

Why did we have to have unions in the first place? The answer is simple. We had to have unions because employers would not treat their employees equitably and respectfully without being forced to do so. School superintendents have an organization, principals and other administrators have an organization, and teachers have an organization. Why is it then so very hard to consider that bus drivers, cooks, and custodians need an organization to speak for them and give them backing when they have a grievance. When the school superintendent and the board members will not sit down and listen to grievances of these people, and not only refuse to listen, but will not try to work out solutions, then it is time for these employees to have a union.

Mr. Campbell did you learn the dirty work from Reagan and Bush and Greyhound. You recognized the teacher's union why not the rest.

According to what I have learned, the bus drivers are not striking over money, but it is over some of the following very important reasons: 1. They would like to be treated with more respect from not only administrators, but also from teachers, students, and parents; 2. They would like authority (within reason) to discipline an unruly student passenger; 3. No countermanding of that discipline the next day by the principal; 4. A fair distribution of outside trips to allow an extra bit of income for a bus driver, without favoritism.

As a taxpayer I am asking the school board to recognize the driver's union too for I want them to have a piece of the rock, too. My rock and the taxpayers, rock. Shag Campbell knew he couldn't replace all the teachers, so he decided to jump on a smaller union. My comrades, taxpayers, let our opinions be heard. — Jack Conley Martin, Ky.

Editor:
I find once again that in the face of what I see as injustice, I must speak out. My thoughts pertain to the current school bus drivers' strike in Floyd County.

Parents, you are probably aware that sometimes it is difficult to control your own two or three children at home, or even one or two. Consider for a moment that you have a bus load of students and even two or three are misbehaving behind you, but you still must keep your eyes on the road at all times that bus is moving. Those bus drivers carry a precious load. I am sure you parents could not argue with that; so, why not give those bus drivers more respect and cooperation and teach your children to do likewise. And, Mr. Hager and school board members, remember these people are human beings trying to do an honest day's work and deserve respect and fair treatment. Listen to their grievances and try to solve their problems and they will not need to have the union to which you seem to be so strongly opposed.

Two days ago I saw in the Lexington Herald-Leader a quote from a letter written to non-certified personnel of the Floyd County School Board, which states: "Any employee who participates in or encourages activities which are disruptive to the educational process may be subject to disciplinary action, including termination of contract".

My question is: "Does this mean that if an employee goes to work and fulfills the obligations of his or her employment, he or she is not allowed to join a peaceful demonstration during the hours when he or she is not employed?" Does that person not have the right to free speech in this great land of ours, or are we governed according to the way Russia was before the downfall of Communism?

THE ROCKY ROAD TO MEDICARE PAYMENT REFORM

By Martha McSteen
President
The National Committee to Preserve Social Security & Medicare

In January, if all goes well, sweeping changes will be made in the way Medicare pays physicians. The goal of the payment reform could not be more worthy — fairness to physicians, patients and taxpayers. Unfortunately, things are not going well. And Congress and the Medicare bureaucracy have only a few months to sort the problems out. The reform effort actually began several years ago. The goal was to introduce an element of reason into Medicare's handling of payments to physicians. Out of this emerged a plan to lower fees for specialists considered to be overpaid and raise fees for primary care physicians considered to be underpaid, while keeping Medicare's total physician bill about the same. In another move to help patients, Medicare has simplified and standardized its "Explanation of Medicare Benefits" form. The new one-page, two-sided form will be sent to Medicare recipients after they have seen a physician and will explain what services they received, what they cost and how much Medicare will pay. The new and improved form is to be introduced in January 1992, along with the new fee schedule. Simple enough. But somewhere along the road to payment reform, the effort veered sharply off course. Physicians say the government broke its promise to them and is using the new payment system as a budget-cutting tool. They point to a new federal regulation, proposed in June, which would not only rearrange Medicare doctors' fees relative to each other, but also would reduce fees by 16 percent overall. What upsets physicians most, however, is the explanation for the reduction. Government regulators say they anticipate that physicians whose fees will drop under the new plan (mostly specialists), will try to recover lost income by ordering extra visits, tests and procedures that patients don't need. This has elicited understandably negative reactions from physicians, who ask why they should be reprimanded for something that hasn't happened. Medicare recipients have some complaints, as well. In redesigning the "Explanation of Medicare Benefits" form, the government inexplicably stopped short of finishing the job. As things stand now, the latest version does not list the maximum charge a doctor can assess for a service and does not state clearly that Medicare patients cannot be asked to pay more than the maximum affordable charge. Yet patients have a right to this information so they can protect themselves against honest mistakes, overcharges and fraud.

All of this raises the possibility that the reform effort may be seriously weakened before it has even taken effect. Medicare recipients cannot be expected to fulfill their responsibility for making payment reform work if Medicare doesn't tell them what they need to know. There is also the possibility that physicians, disillusioned by what they see as the government's bad-faith bargaining, may turn away from Medicare altogether.

Time is short, but not too short to get the payment reform effort back on track. The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare has asked the Medicare bureaucracy to turn to the Physician Payment Review Commission for help. The Commission's policy of fairness and first-rate work have won widespread respect. It is in a good position to broker a solution to Medicare recipients, physicians and taxpayers.

We hope this will happen, and soon. Medicare payment reform is too important to be allowed to fall by the wayside.

Martha McSteen was chosen in 1965 as one of the new Medicare program's first regional administrators. A former acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration, Ms. McSteen now serves as President of

Small loans are important at First Guaranty National Bank

Most big banks can't be bothered with small loans. But at First Guaranty National Bank, even the smallest loans are important. We know small loans can meet big needs.

Through the years our customers have learned they can count on us, whatever the need. Big or small. And they know they'll get the same friendly, efficient service when their requests are small as they do for a major purchase like a home or car.

Often it's the little loans that give us the opportunity to establish lasting relationships with our customers. Relationships that bring people back to us again and again as their needs change.

A small loan can keep a son or daughter in college during a tough time. Unexpected repair bills don't have to cause a financial strain. Emergency circumstances can be easier to manage when money worries don't add to the crisis.

With a small loan from First Guaranty National Bank, you can meet needs as they come rather than wait for more budget-convenient timing.

The quality of service at First Guaranty National Bank is not measured by the number of zeros attached to the requests. It is measured by our commitment to establish a lasting relationship with each customer.

This philosophy has served us well because our customers keep coming back and they recommend us to their families and friends. Steady and constant growth, one customer at a time, has made First Guaranty National Bank a strong and sound financial institution. So sound, in fact, that we've been recognized as one of the Top 100 Best Midsized Banks in America. *

If you need a loan, from $50 to $1 million, we welcome your business at First Guaranty National Bank.

DEVOTION

*A story of the strongest devotion,
I want to tell to you,
A story of undying love,
That has proven to be true,
A young and beautiful woman,
Of only just sixteen,
Married on Christmas Day,
The most handsome man that she said
she had ever seen,
His hair was midnight black,
And his eyes were a deep, loving brown,
Their love for each other so strong,
Together, nothing could bring them down,
They shared many hard but happy years,
Their faith, they put in the Lord,
To have done any different would have been a mistake,
That they knew they couldn't afford,
As the years passed, they were blessed with four children,
Three boys and one girl,
There was no closer or more loving family,
In all of Gods world,
But then one January day,
Twenty-eight years ago,
The Lord called her husband,
It was simply his time to go,
Her loss was unbearable,
But she knew that it was Gods plan,
She still had her beloved children,
But for her there could never be another man,
I never saw my grandfather,
But through her I knew him, and he lived on,
Her stories of him were countless,
To her heart, he has never been gone,
I can see her in my mind today,
Rejoicing and smiling hand and hand,
With her life's only love,
Throughout Gods glorious land,
Her pain and sorrow are no more,
She's gone to claim her reward,
For a lifetime of the strongest devotion,
To her husband and the Lord.*

With sincerest love
from your granddaughter,
Paula Frasure Jarrell

Crafts Festival:

A weekend of fun at Renfro Valley

If you're a collector of Appalachian and other handmade crafts, both traditional and contemporary, you're in for a treat the weekend of September 20 through 22 when the folks at Renfro Valley hold their annual Fall Heritage Crafts Festival.

Actually, there is never any shortage of country crafts at Renfro Valley, since many of the shops in Renfro Village offer a variety of regional items throughout the year, but during the Fall Heritage Crafts Festival, the valley becomes a veritable craft-lovers' paradise as guild members from several states descend upon Renfro Valley to exhibit their work during this three-day event.

"We'll have a good representation of craftspeople this year," said Tamara Van Winkle, special events coordinator at Renfro Valley, "and it's almost impossible to list all the different items...pottery, weaving, baskets, brooms, wooden toys, doll furniture, children's clothes, and lots more."

One exhibit at the festival will feature Kentucky Hills Industry of Pine Knot, Kentucky. While the name sounds as though it might be a factory, Kentucky Hills is actually a group of 54 co-op members whose skills allow them to make a living by working in their own homes. Handmade items such as cornshuck dolls and flowers, rag rugs, pot holders and various wood crafts are then sold via catalog, at special events like the Heritage Crafts Festival at Renfro Valley, and at the Kentucky Hills Industry Store in Pine Knot, McCreary County.

Founded in 1946 by Smith Ross, at a time when the coal industry was on the decline, Kentucky Hills Industry was a lifesaver for many families in the region as a primary source of income. Co-op members must live within 25 miles of Pine Knot, and their work is presented for approval by board members before being offered for sale.

A similar co-op group, David Appalachian Crafts of Floyd County, Kentucky, will also have a booth at Renfro Valley's Heritage Crafts Festival, offering hand-painted gourds, Christmas ornaments, aprons and other country collectibles.

If you visited Renfro Valley during last year's Heritage Crafts Festival, you may remember Joe Kirby and his wife, Anna, from New Albany, Indiana. Joe builds blanket chests ("some people use them as coffee tables, too," he explained). He gives them an antique finish and paints them with scenes from the 1800s that he and Anna think up—such as "The Country Doctor" and "Gazebo in the Park."

This year, in addition to his blanket chests, Joe Kirby will have some wall hangings and possibly some small, hand-carved wooden figurines. His wife will offer her own specialties for sale — jackets and sweat-shirts appliqued with colorful ultrasuede, plus some little girls' dresses that show off her newly-acquired skills of smocking and French embroidery.

The Kirbys have been going to craft shows for about five years, and usually make nine or ten each year, but they have a special love for Renfro Valley. "When I was little we lived in Kentucky, and my mother never missed a Renfro Valley Radio Show," said Anna. "Joe's sister and brother-in-law spent their honeymoon at Renfro Valley," she added, "and we took them back for a weekend several years ago. Of course they have made many improvements since then. We love Renfro Valley more than ever."

In addition to the hundreds of handmade crafts to see, visitors to the festival can enjoy the scenery. September is usually one of the most beautiful months of the year in the hills of Kentucky, and Renfro Valley is nestled right in the heart of the hills, 45 minutes south of Lexington, just off Interstate 75 at Exit 62.

The festival, held in Renfro Village, opens at 10 a.m. and closes at 6 p.m. each day. Admission is free.

All weekend stage performances will be held as usual during the Heritage Crafts Festival at Renfro Valley. Barn-dance Shows are at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, followed both evenings by the Country Jamboree at 9 p.m. The Mountain Gospel Jubilee is at 3 p.m. on Saturday, and the world-famous Sunday Morning Gatherin' is at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

For show tickets and lodge or dinner reservations, phone 1-800-765-7464.

PCC receives scholarship funds

Roger T. Daniel, president of Kentucky West Virginia Gas, recently presented Dr. Deborah Floyd, president of Prestonsburg Community College, with a check which completed a $10,000 scholarship gift to PCC.

Along with the $10,000 grant from their parent company, Equitable Resources, in 1990, this gift brings the total given by this organization in the past two years to $20,000.

These two scholarships are specifically designed to be awarded to students in health related professions or education. Applicants must show promise of academic excellence.

The student recipients of these scholarships for the 1991 Fall term are Steven Christopher Pack of Van Lear, Dirk Foster Blevins of Staffordsville and Tommy Lee Cantrell of Van Lear.

Doctors name October "Family Health Month"

The 71,000-member American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) has named October "Family Health Month". Kentucky's family doctors urge families to take a closer look at their health by conducting a personal and family health inventory. This consists of eating habits, physical fitness, mental health, use of tobacco and alcohol, and possible home hazards.

Family Health Month is intended to make families more aware of the benefits of having a partnership for health with a family doctor who is trained to treat the entire family. Many programs have been developed by the AAFP to educate patients about detection of breast cancer, alcohol and drug abuse, motor vehicle safety, seat belt usage, spread of AIDS and more.

October is also "Breast Cancer Awareness Month" and Kentucky's family doctors urge female patients over 40 to take part in an early detection program by using self-examination and mammograms.

Another part of "Family Health Month" is the family doctors' Halloween Safety Checklist which includes tips for children, parents, drivers and home owners.

To locate a family physician in your area, contact the Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians, 502-451-0370.

SAFETY AWARENESS ON THE JOB PAYS

Safety awareness on the job can help prevent unnecessary injuries and illnesses. The National Safety Council recommends that workers take time to prevent accidents by learning how to recognize unsafe practices and conditions. Workers should follow all safety procedures and get to know about tools used to promote safety, including emergency response procedures. Show that you have the right attitude about safety — both your own and for your co-workers.

Where the Bottom Line Is Less!

Hot dogs, music and camaraderie

American Standard employees and their families gathered Saturday, September 14, at the clubhouse for a company picnic. Participants were entertained with the music of Outdoor Plumbing, the Meek Family, and Ronnie Spriggs. A variety of games were available to those who braved the sweltering temperature. Bingo was available under the tent, and winners could win big bucks through lottery ticket prizes. Listening to the rhythm of the bands were, from right, Ocelene Cole of Wheelwright, Mary Salyer of Paintsville, Wilma Cavins of Wheelwright, Joanna Stone of Staffordsville and Mac Horne of Hueysville. AUTUMN ALERT
Colorful autumn leaves are beautiful to behold — but they can be very hazardous to drivers. The National Safety Council reminds motorists that wet leaves on the road can be as slippery as ice. So, follow the same precautions as you would when driving on an icy road. Increase your following distance, brake gently and avoid abrupt changes in speed or direction. During windy weather, watch for swirling leaves that can reduce visibility and distract you. Do not park on a pile of dry leaves — hot engines, mufflers and exhaust pipes could start a fire.

Concert to benefit Appalshop radio

The legendary Goose Creek Symphony will wind up their tour-de-force of the Appalachian mountain states with a benefit concert at 7 p.m. Saturday, September 21, at the Wise County Fairgrounds in Wise, Virginia.

Special appearances by the fabulous Metropolitan Blues All-Stars and the ever popular Bad Branch bands will round out the ticket.

The concert will benefit the non-commercial radio station of the Appalshop in Whitesburg, Kentucky WMMT in its effort to bring better radio reception to its listeners in eastern Kentucky and southwest Virginia. All proceeds will go toward matching a federal grant to build auxiliary "translators" in eight communities.

Recently WMMT received the grant from the US Department of Commerce to improve its coverage. A translator is an auxiliary unit which receives the main signal and rebroadcasts it at low power on another frequency. The device is generally installed on a hill top where the signal is strong. The translator then beams the signal to lower-lying areas that otherwise would be blocked from receiving it by the hilly terrain.

WMMT, 88.7 FM, is a listener-supported radio station. It's wide variety of programming is created by a mostly volunteer force. Though it does not accept advertising, WMMT has drawn contributions from a wide range of individuals and businesses in its listening area. One such underwriter is the Wise County Otis Campbell Society. Because they support the effort to build translators in Coeburn, Norton, and Big Stone Gap, they are co-sponsoring the benefit concert at the fairgrounds.

Other towns designated to receive translators include Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Harlan and Barbourville in Kentucky.

The translators, scheduled to be installed this fall, will beam a unique sound across the mountains. WMMT's programming is probably the most diverse of any station in the region. It airs bluegrass and traditional mountain music, classic and contemporary rock, blues, gospel country Latin and African music. It also runs news and public affairs features, both locally-produced and national. Over 40 volunteers present programs each week, and over 200 people have been on-air volunteers since WMMT began operations in 1985.

June Appal Records, a division of Appalshop, has released the two latest Goose Creek recordings: "Oso Special," on CD and cassette; and "Goose Creek Music," a limited edition on cassette only.

Advance tickets are available for $10 in Wise, VA, at all Kwik-Shop

Markets, Shannon's, Lawson Water Conditioning in Norton, Virginia, at The Appalachian Peddler in Jenkins, Kentucky, at The Guitar Shop and in Whitesburg, at Sears and the Appalshop. Tickets will be available at the Wise County Fairgrounds for $12.50.

Former Miss America named child abuse spokesperson

Less than one month after her (Saturday) September 14 appearance as a celebrity judge at the 1991 Miss America Pageant, Marilyn Van Derbur, Miss America 1958, will be named the official spokesperson for the Kentucky Child Victims' Trust Fund.

Earlier this year, Van Derbur, the daughter of socially prominent Denver, Colorado parents, disclosed that, for thirteen years, beginning when she was five, her father sexually abused her. "Tonight, I stand before you, an incest survivor," Van Derbur said in her disclosure. "A list of my accomplishments together—times 100, pale before the only real accomplishment of my life, said in only three words. I survived incest."

Following the disclosure, Van Derbur announced that "I am now committing myself to bringing about a greater awareness of the lifetime trauma that can result from childhood sexual violations."

Van Derbur's story has been the subject of numerous recent TV programs and articles in McCall's and People magazine. She is also a nationally known motivational speaker having appeared before thousands of business and education groups, including General Motors, Kodak, and IBM.

As spokesperson for the Child Victims' Trust Fund, Marilyn Van Derbur will be the guest of honor at a fundraising event to be held at the Lexington Children's Museum on October 12. This is the first of several activities designed to make Kentuckians aware of the problem of child sexual abuse and what can be done about it.

Attorney General Fred Cowan, chairman of the board which oversees the Trust Fund, said that Van Derbur is an ideal choice to speak for the Trust Fund. "She symbolizes the fact that all children, from all backgrounds, are potential victims, and she exhibits the strength and hope necessary for someone to survive incest."

The Trust Fund was created in 1984 to protect Kentucky's children from sexual abuse. "Last year in Kentucky there were more than 2,000 substantiated reports of child sexual abuse," Cowan said. "Perhaps four to five times that number of children were actually victimized."

Trust Fund money goes directly to local groups to conduct prevention programs in their own communities. No state tax dollars are available to the Trust Fund. It relies solely on the voluntary state income tax refund checkoff and on direct donations.

To date, the Trust Fund has awarded 78 grants amounting to $477,000 to communities throughout Kentucky.

Information about the Trust Fund is available by calling toll-free 1-800-372-2551.

Casino Night

The Jaycees will be holding their annual "Casino Night" at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn on Friday, September 27. "Casino Night," for all those who have never attended one in the past, is an evening of fun for adults. For the low price of $5, players purchase $50,000 in "fun money" and spend the evening either losing it or trying to win more at the blackjack, craps and roulette tables. At the end of the evening there is an auction of fine gifts donated by area businesses. The big winners take home the prizes.

All proceeds from the evening go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The Holiday Inn donates the room and the Jaycees donate the manpower. Everyone is invited to come out for an evening of unusual entertainment for Eastern Kentucky.

Continuing education course

A continuing education course entitled "The Practice of Social Research," will be offered on Saturdays from 9-11 a.m. September 21, 28 and October 7 at Prestonsburg Community College.

This is an applied research techniques course for people who left college years ago, and whose jobs require knowledge in organizing and summarizing information in a cost-effective manner and in writing research reports occasionally.

It is beneficial, too, to all consumers of social scientific research of sorts: personnel managers, social workers, hospital administrators, students of sociology, the community, social work, occupational therapy and nursing currently enrolled in applied science courses. Students shall acquire skills in designing their own research, in writing and critically evaluating research reports.

Topics covered include: the logic of social scientific inquiry, research design and methods (such as questionnaire construction, observational techniques, needs assessment and evaluation techniques), interpretation of research results, and how to locate sources of information for rural research.

The course is being taught by Dr. Anosike in room J113 at PCC. It is a six hour course worth six CEUs.

U.S. food consumption studies show that nearly 40 percent of children snack between the end of the school day and dinner time, and nearly 50 percent snack again in the evening. Make sure dairy products are included in some of these snacks.

Boating safety information

The Army Corps of Engineers wishes to pass along the following boating safety information to the boaters of the area.

Boating is a part of many activities, yet few people realize the toll in death and injury that dangerous boating practices take: over 60,000 non-fatal accidents and 1,200 deaths in an average year.

Ninety percent of these boating fatalities are from drowning: capsizing and falling overboard. The primary cause of boating injury is collisions — caused mainly by operator error and inattention at high speeds. Overhead power lines present another hazard: masts coming into contact with these can mean electrocution for the people on board.

Remember, the typical victim of the accidents are experienced hunters, fishermen, boaters and canoeists — just like you.

For more information contact the Army Corps of Engineers office at Paintsville Lake at 606-297-6312.

Grote it means a personal record in his professional career has remained unbroken.

"In 21 years as head of institutions of higher education, I have seen enrollment growth every year," Dr. Grote noted. Since he became president at MSU in 1987, the University's enrollment has grown by 35 percent.

This fall's modest increase, according to the president, is an indication that enrollment at MSU has begun to stabilize. "I think that over the next few years, we'll see growth in increments of 1 to 3 percent per year, rather than the dramatic growth of the past," he said.

Housing statistics for this fall also have MSU officials smiling. With the addition of 215 new spaces this fall, campus housing is at 98 percent of standard capacity for the first time in several years, rather than at expanded capacity.

"This means the 3,706 students living in campus housing have a greatly improved living and learning environment," said Mike Mincey, vice president for Student Life and dean of students.

"I'm sure the crowded conditions in recent years may have influenced some students to commute or seek alternative housing off-campus," Mincey said. "Our return to standard occupancy housing also will generate renewed interest for University housing in the future," he added.

The following is a comparison of the 1991 and 1990 fall enrollment, respectively, by class at this time; however the class breakdown figures will change as additional information is added to the data base.

Freshman, 3,088, 2,953; sophomore, 1,380, 1,557; junior, 1,266, 1,252; senior, 1,479, 1,321; graduate 1,542, 1,539 totaling 8,750 for the preliminary fall 1991 and totaling 8,622 for the final fall 1990.

The 1991 figure not only includes freshmen, but also new students who transferred to MSU this fall, who are yet to be classified.

Loafer's Glory :

An example of the value of money to Appalachian youth

by Barbara P. Martin

People of the mountains have always been thrifty. If they did not have the money to spend for the brought-on kind, they just made their own. Chester Thomas told me how he worked for $1 per day, many days, for a lot of people. John Staley of Brush Creek was one. When he worked for John, he slept in a block house near the road, which is still standing today.

Many people were still riding horses to get around. John had a beautiful one but sometimes it got frisky. As he was getting along in years, the horse was, at times, hard to handle. When it needed a calming down treatment, John would say, "Check, take this horse for a run toward Hippo and over the hill to calm it down." So he did just that, gave it a good workout. When it got back home, it was glad to settle down and obey John.

During the time he was working for Mr. Staley, he began to save his money to buy a car. Karu Gibson sold him an old A Model Ford for $15, which was pay for 15 days work.

There was something wrong with the radiator and he had to stop at every mudhole, and back then there were many in the Brush Creek road, to put water in it. When he drove off the creek, he put a huge tank of water in the back seat.

Chester and his friends found a place to get fuel to run it with. A local natural gas pumping station discarded a white gasoline by-product, which they caught and put into the Model A's gas tank. It ran like everything on that stuff. He and a buddy did a lot of running around free in that car. That was living! When the company found that it worked, they stopped the supply and asked money for the fuel.

This may have been the time when the boys invented a way to make gasoline. On their own, they found where energy was being wasted, so they put on their thinking caps and transformed it into something useful. Boys, that is the Appalachian way! Guess what? The government heard about it and sent Federal agents to put a stop to it as no gasoline tax was being paid to them, and the quality was not tested to be up to standards. Drat the luck! I guess that is the way of the government!

Along about the time of the water holes in the Brush Creek road, I visited a lot with William Hicks' daughters, Katherine, Viola, and Pearl Shannon. They lived in the first house up Brush Creek, across the creek on the left. Our distance mode of travel was Old Barney, the family beast of burden, a mule. Not being experienced at harnessing, saddling, and riding, we often got into unpredictable trouble.

One day Katherine and I had been visiting Mary Margaret Cooley.

We decided to ride old Barney down to the mouth of Brushcreek to the store to spend a small amount of money, which we had for candy. Seated properly, Katherine in the saddle and me on a pillow behind the saddle, on the mule's broad hips, we made good time.

I took our money out of my over-all pocket to count it to see just what we could expect to buy, and accidentally dropped a nickel. It rolled into the deepest mudhole on Brush Creek. We immediately dismounted and began to feel around in the water in an effort to find it. To our dismay, it became obvious that we would have to dip out all of the water if we expected to recover it. We borrowed a bucket used for watering chickens at the house near Milton Praters to dip with. We dipped and we dipped—had to throw it far across the road so it would drain down into the ditch, or it would have run back into the mudhole—creating a never ending job! It became a lengthy process.

Katherine and I had been working several minutes when Dorlin Cooley came along. He asked us what in the world we were doing?

"Trying to dip this mudhole dry", we said.

"What in the world are you doing that for?" he asked.

"To find some money we dropped in it."

Then he said, "Oh, well, that is different. How much was it? Maybe I can help."

"A nickel", we said.

"If that is all it is, I'll give you another," he replied.

We could not see losing even a nickel, so we told him that it might be more than a quarter even, as we really did not know how much had fallen off the mule.

"We just dropped it as we were riding along on the mule and it rolled into the mudhole before we could see how much it was!"

"Well," he said, "if that is the way of it, there might be more than that in there." We agreed as we were not sure how much we had before we dropped it.

So we three took turns with the old kettle dipping and throwing the water. When there was about a quart left in the deepest part of the mudhole, the money began to shine. I said, "There it is!" and the work ceased.

Without letting him know how much it was we thanked him very, very much for helping us. Katherine and I got back on the mule and rode on to the store. Dorlin got back into his car and drove off. If Chester and his friend had come along expecting to find water for his car in that mudhole, he would have found it dry until the next big rainstorm!

VA approves additional disease linked to Agent Orange

The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs will soon compensate Vietnam veterans for a fourth disease linked with exposure to Agent Orange, peripheral neuropathy. The decision must be formulated into policy and implemented.

Peripheral neuropathy is a nervous system disorder that causes numbness, tingling, and speech impediments. The other compensable disabilities for those exposed to Agent Orange are non-Hodgkins lymphoma, soft tissue sarcomas and chloracne.

VA Secretary Edward Derwinski reached the decision after reviewing recommendations from the VA's Committee on Environmental Hazards.

For more information on Agent Orange compensation or any other state or federal veterans benefit, contact the Kentucky Division of Veterans Affairs at (502) 588-4447 or Ken Miller the Kentucky Agent Orange Assistance Program Coordinator at 1-800-735-0457.

Lot of running room!

Prestonsburg's Dwayne Garza (28) found a lot of running room in the Whitesburg defense as he picked up some good yardage on this play. Garza rushed for 101-yards in Prestonsburg's 23-19 loss to the Yellowjackets. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Rose Passes Whitesburg To 23-19 Win Over Blackcats In District Game

To the Whitesburg Yellowjackets, quarterback Jason was a sweet smelling rose, after he passed the Yellowjackets to a 23-19 edging off the improving Prestonsburg Blackcats in a big District 2 football game Friday night at Whitesburg. It was an early crucial game for both ball clubs, but more so for the Yellowjackets. Whitesburg had already dropped one district outing (to Sheldon Clark) and the win was vital to the Yellowjackets.

Rose was all the offense for Whitesburg inside the final four minutes of the game as he passed for 62-yards and a touchdown in a drive that began on the Yellowjackets 34-yard line. With 3:51 showing on the stadium clock the Yellowjackets took over on a kick off from the Blackcats after they had taken a 19-15 lead late in the game.

Rose went to the air on first down play, his pass was incomplete. Jeff Hale carried for a 5-yard pick up, moving the football to the Yellowjackets 39-yard line. On a third-and-five play, Rose found Lenny Bates open and hit the tailback with a strike good for 31-yards placing the ball on the Prestonsburg 30-yard line.

Thinking success, Rose found tight end Greg Amburgey for a 27-yard toss that took the ball on the Black-cats 3-yard line. A personal foul call against the Blackcats moved the football half the distance to just past the 1-yard line where Rose plunged over on a first down play for the go ahead score. Rose hit Doug Mercer with the conversion play and a 23-19 score.

Prestonsburg had managed to contain the Yellowjackets running game with some good defensive play, and the Yellowjackets coaching staff decided to take their chance with Rose's arm. The chance paid off as the junior quarterback responded with 10 completions in 16 tosses for 148-yards passing.

Prestonsburg looked like a different team as it did in the first two games of the season and showed a much improved style of play. However, the breakdown in the secondary late in the fourth quarter proved costly for the Cats.

The Blackcats managed to take a 19-15 lead with just 3:58 remaining in the game. The Cats moved the football 52-yards on nine plays that took 3:38 to score. Blackcat quarterback Aaron Tucker carried the ball into the end zone from 1-yard out on a quarterback keeper. John Clark added the extra point for the 19-15 score.

The drive began on Prestonsburg's

48 and it was the running of Dwayne Garza that helped the Cats to cross into Yellowjacket territory. Garza carried four times on the drive for 32-yards. Tucker, on a boot leg play, connected with Clark for 16-yards placing the football on the Yellowjackets 1-yard line where Tucker scored.

The touchdown erased a 15-12 lead that Whitesburg had gained on a 32-yard touchdown pass from Rose to Amburgey earlier in the period. The same problem existed for the Blackcats on the drive — no secondary coverage. In fact, the Yellowjackets were faced with a fourth-and-two on the Blackcats 40-yard line. On a keeper, Rose swept around left end for 8-yards and a big, big first down for Whitesburg.

With 5:38 remaining in the second quarter, Whitesburg struck first for a 7-0 lead. Picking up three consecutive first downs, the Yellowjackets fullback Jeff Hale took a hand off from Rose and scored from 21-yards out for a 6-0 game. J.J. Buttrey added the extra point.

Prestonsburg broke a long scoring dry spell by putting together a good drive late in the quarter. With 5:32 remaining in the half, Garza took the

Panthers Show Why They Are Number 1 In Class A With 78-0 Win Over Rebels

The Pikeville Panthers football team is definitely the number one team in Class A football in the state of Kentucky. Coach Allara's club has proven that since the onset of the 1991 season. The Panthers continued to be impressive as they rolled over the younger and less experienced Allen Central Rebels 78-0 Friday night at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

"We are just a very young team trying to play a varsity schedule," said Rebel coach Dewey Jamerson. "I would say that the first Allen Central team had more experience than this years team. We have only eight kids that has any experience at all on the varsity level."

It was a balanced attack that the Panthers used, as Coach Allara took the opportunity the game presented to test his teams passing game. The squad passed the test as quarterback J.P. Blair was a perfect 14 of 14 for 208-yards. Murray Garvin was the one that benefited from the consistent passing of Blair as he hauled down seven receptions for a total of 111-yards. Garvin was on the receiving end of two touchdown passes from Blair.

Pikeville is currently ranked the number one Class A football team in the state of Kentucky and a heavy favorite to win their fourth state title this season. Many called the game a mismatch and certainly it was as the much younger Rebels did not quit but played hard against the much more experienced Panther team.

The game was all Pikeville, as J.J. Bailey ripped the defensive line of the Rebels for 230-yards on just 10 carries. Bailey sat out most of the second half.

The Panthers struck quickly as Bailey scored from 1-yard out and Danny Estep hit Eric Elswick with a pass on the conversion for a 8-0 lead. In reality, that was all the Panthers would need as they put 34 points on the scoreboard in the first quarter.

The second quarter wasn't much better for the Rebels as Pikeville continued to run and pass the football at will. At half time it was an insurmountable 64-0 game.

"I feel that we are playing better and that we are learning as a team," Jamerson explained. "And playing some of the top teams in the region has to help us down the road. The kids have to keep their heads up and know that better days are going to come. We are going to be a good football team, maybe not this year and maybe not next year but we will be a good football school."

Jamie Slone, Allen Central's running back, was injured and motored off to the hospital and it will be a day by day situation with Slone. "Jamie had a groin muscle hurt and they told him it was up to him and to play when he feels like he can go," stated Jamerson.

Trojans Spot Phelps Lead Then Edge Hornets 18-14 Behind Jackson

The Wheelwright Trojans became the winningest Floyd County football team as they edged the Phelps Hornets 18-14 in district play at Wheelwright Friday night before a good crowd of Trojan fans. The victory improved the Trojans to 2-1 on the year (their best start in several seasons) and gives them a 1-0 district record. Trojan coach Donnie Daniels was very pleased with the performance of his squad in the final three quarters.

"We didn't do too much on defense in the first quarter," the Trojan mentor stated. "In the first quarter (when Phelps scored two TD's) we were waiting on them to come to us and not pursuing them. We weren't getting our heads up and we were just waiting."

Things turned around for the Trojans in the second period as the climbed back into the game to make it a 14-12 game at the half. The winning touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Chuck Hutton scored on a 6-yard run to give Wheelwright a 18-14 lead. However, there were anxious moments for the Trojans left in the fourth quarter.

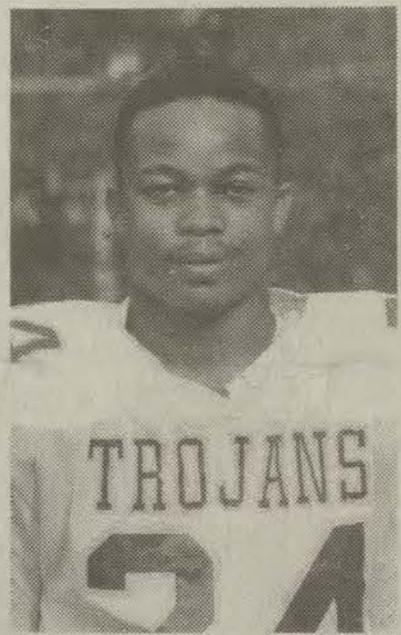

"We had the football with 2:45 left in the game," said Daniels, "and we were facing a fourth and four situation. I wanted Arnold (Adams) to run the football but he wanted to come out because he was exhausted."

On the fourth down play Wheelwright was thrown for a 5-yard loss on a quarterback sack after the Trojans tried to draw Phelps off sides with a long count. Phelps took over the football on their own 45-yard line and moved the football to the Wheelwright 8-yard line where the Trojan defense dug in and held the on charging Hornets as time ran out.

"We sacked their quarterback on the last play of the game," said Daniels. "We had very good pursuit on the play."

Phelps took a 14-0 lead in the first quarter when Kevin Hurley scored for the Hornets on a 8-yard run. The conversion play failed. The Hornets added to the lead late in the first quarter as Bo Wolford scored Phelps second touchdown and quarterback Danny Kidd ran the conversion.

The Wheelwright defense then dug and did not allow Phelps another score. "We made some changes in our defense in the second quarter and I think it might have confused Phelps some," Daniels explained. "We got more movement off the ball and caused them some problems."

Wheelwright began to play with more confidence on defense and that seemed to pick up the offense as the Trojans came charging back. Offensive lineman Marty Tackett picked up a Steven Jackson fumble on the Phelps 1-yard line and took it in for the touchdown in the second period. "Steven couldn't remember if he

Shorthanded Bobcats Fall Hard At Johns Creek 58-8; Trio Out

The Johns Creek Bobcats seemed to have their way at home against the Betsy Layne Bobcats Friday night as they posted a rather lopsided score of 58-8 and handed the Bobcats their second loss of the football season. Betsy Layne was playing without the services of halfback James Keathley, who has been a steady performer in the backfield. Also out, are defensive ace Chris Tomlinson and Reggie Hamilton. The Bobcats coaching staff is hopeful the trio will be able to return this Friday against Shelby Valley at home. The win was the first time that Johns Creek has been over the .500 mark in four years as they improved to 2-1 on the year.

It was the shot gun arm of Chris Gannon that did the Bobcats in as he tossed for 227-yards on nine completions on 24 tosses.

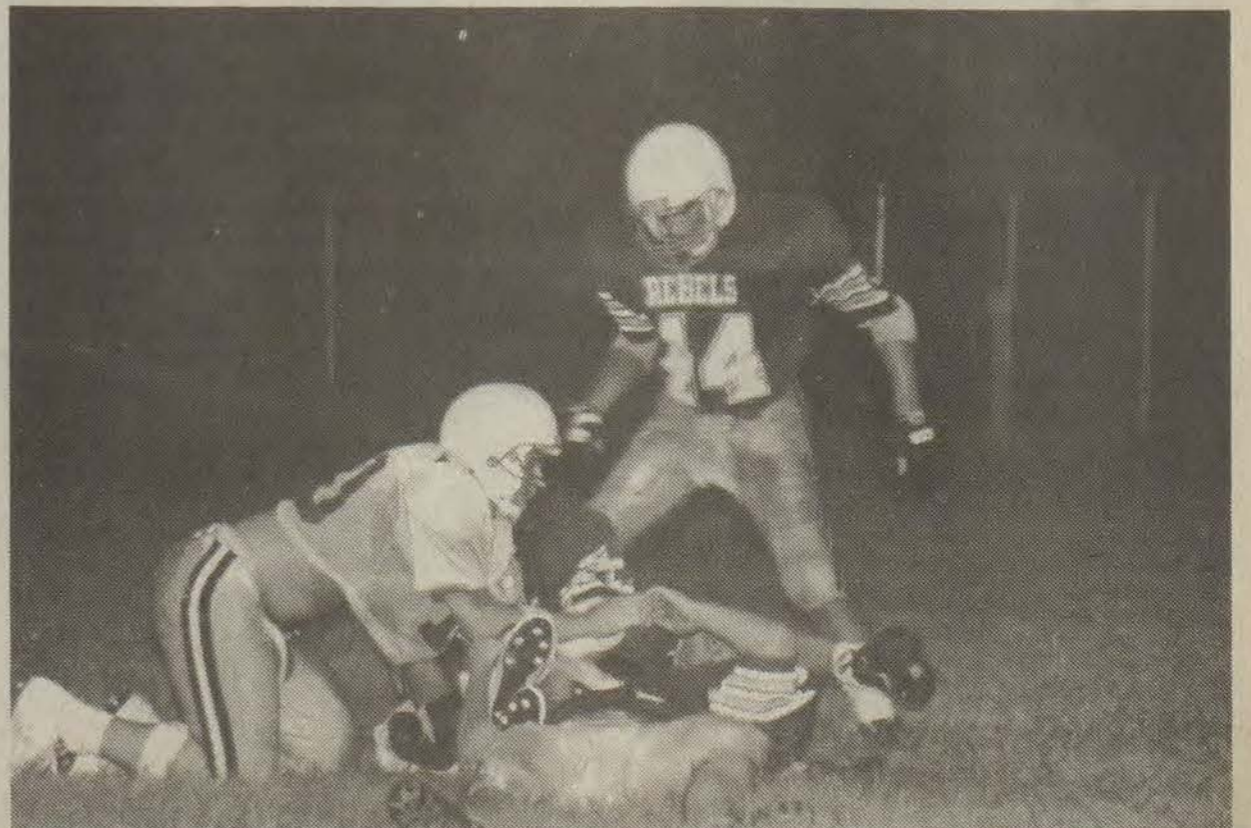

Johns Creek scored all the points they needed in the first quarter as they put 12 points on the board. Robert Collins scored the first touchdown for Johns Creek with 2:30 remaining in the period. Collins galloped 47-yards. Collins run capped a nine play, 77-yard drive that began on their own 23-yard line.

A turnover by Betsy Layne resulted in the Bearcats second touchdown. Matt Lynch stepped in front of a Bobcat receiver and picked off a Bryan Combs pass. Gannon capped off the turnover drive that went 14-yards on four plays, by crossing into the end zone on a 1-yard run with 13 seconds left in the period.

Johns Creek built up a 28-0 half time lead by scoring twice in the second period while the Bearcats defense held the Bobcats. Gannon hit James K. Taylor with a 25-yard touchdown pass and then connected with Hamilton Harris for the conversion play to give Johns Creek a 20-0 lead.

Slow to get up!

An Allen Central player lays on the ground after being hit hard by a Pikeville defender in Friday evening's football contest between the two schools. The Panthers stayed perfect at 3-0 with a 78-0 win over the Rebels.

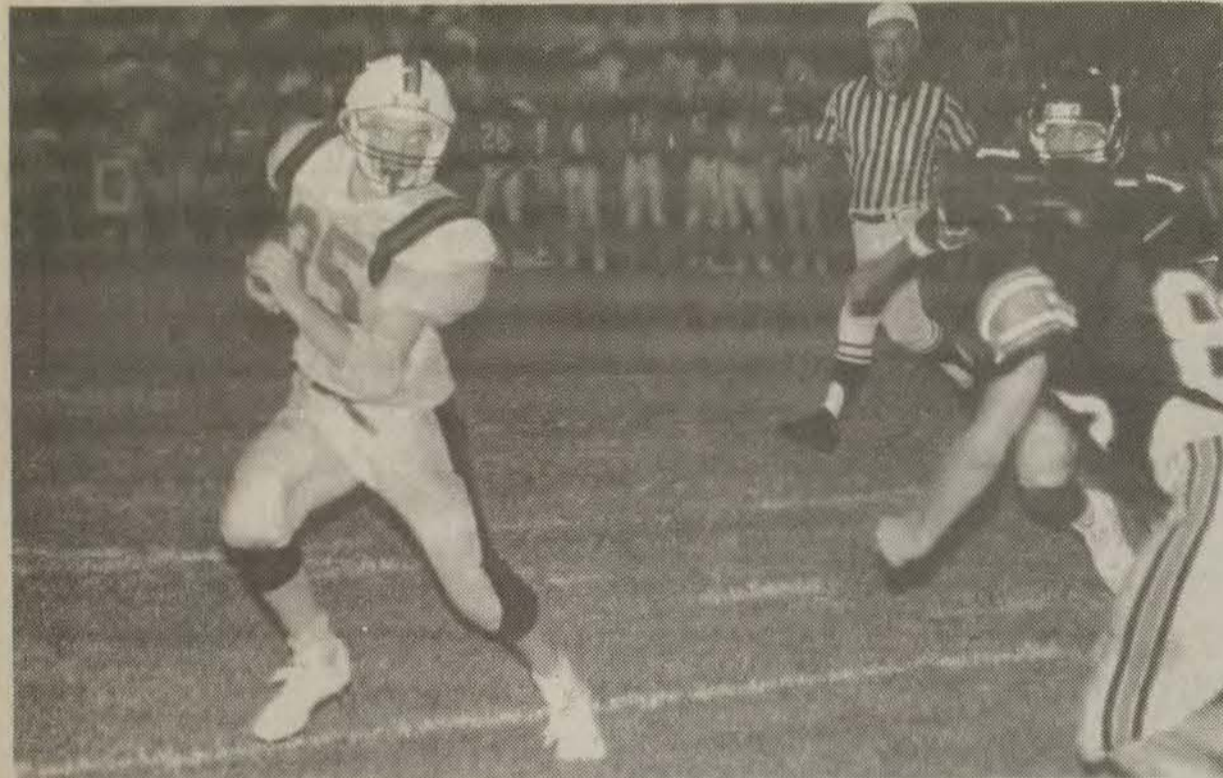

Show him the ball!

Prestonsburg quarterback Aaron Tucker (16) showed the ball to his running back as the Blackcats offensive line opened up the holes. Enough holes weren't open as the Blackcats dropped a big district game 23-19 to Whitesburg. (photo by Ed Taylor)

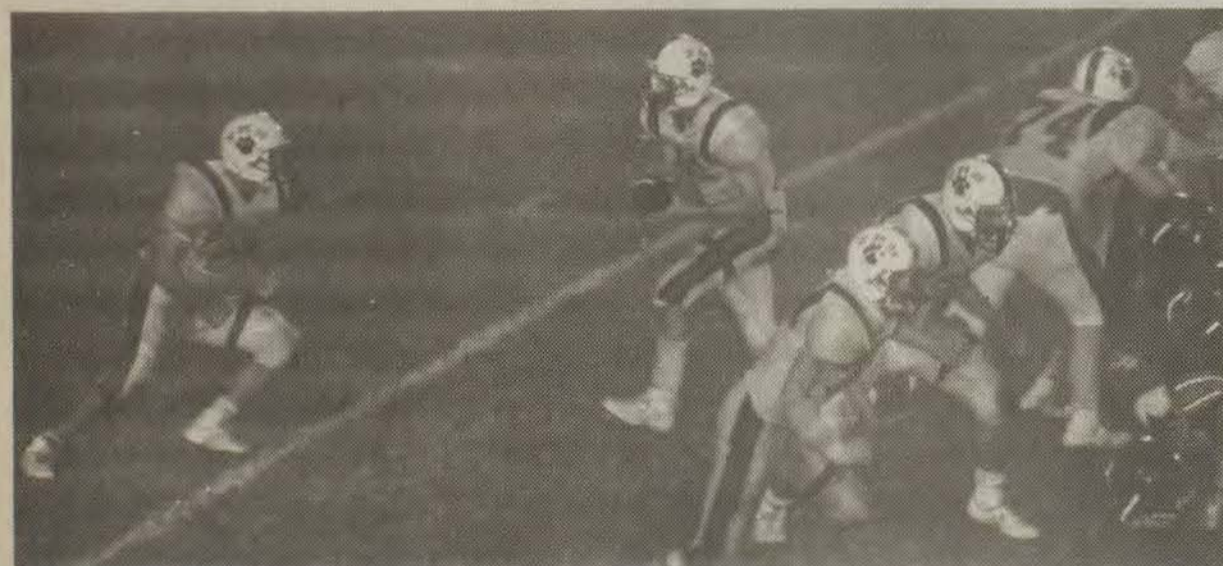

The conclusion of a good game!

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and district rival Whitesburg hooked up in a good high school football game Friday evening with the Yellowjackets coming away with a 23-19 hard fought victory. Good sportsmanship prevailed after the game. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Tucker hand off!

Aaron Tucker (16) of Prestonsburg was set to hand off to his running back Dwayne Garza (28) on this play late in the fourth quarter against Whitesburg. The drive fell short as the Yellowjackets posted a 23-19 district win over the Blackcats. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Good punt return!

Prestonsburg senior Ronnie Goodman gave the Blackcats good field position on this punt return for good yardage. The Blackcats lost a heartbreaker to Whitesburg Friday night 23-19. (photo by Ed Taylor)

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE TRACKER PROS

For M Hall

If you're buying a new boat, one of the smartest and relatively inexpensive accessories to consider is a boat cover. Mother Nature's elements can play havoc with a boat left exposed and uncovered. Wind, rain, and direct sunlight can cause deterioration on the finish, carpet and upholstery.

A boat cover not only affords protection when the craft is not in use, but provides equally important protection while trailering to the lake. If you travel over dirt or gravel roads to reach the landing, a cover will more than pay for itself for the protection it affords.

Also remember, if you have traveled a considerable distance over dusty roads, be sure to thoroughly wipe the face of all exterior mounted transducers before launching.

I'd rather be Over the Hill Than under it.

HOW WE'RE MAKING SURE KENTUCKY'S KIDS NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE A BACK SEAT.

Currently, Kentucky's kids rank well below the national average in math. Our nation's average 13-year-old fares even worse — being surpassed by those in Ireland, the UK, Spain, Canada, Korea and Japan.

Fortunately, the wheels of reform are beginning to turn. Thanks to the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), money has been allocated, programs put in place. Schools all across the state are gearing up to meet this enormous challenge. There's even a school bus that will travel the state as a mobile exhibit.

But to make any real headway, we need you to get on board. Because this is a bus that needs more than one driver.

To bring the mobile exhibit to your area, or to find out how you can get involved in supporting education reforms, please call: 1-800-928-2111.

Dollettes National Champions

During the past summer while most kids were enjoying themselves on vacations and around the pools, the Prater Dollette's were hard at work fine tuning their skills as they prepared for competition on the state and national levels.

The Dollettes during the month of May were named the 1991 DMA State Twirling Champions. The state title qualified them to compete in the 1991 DMA National Twirling Contest at Boiling Springs, North Carolina. All the hard work paid off for the local twirling group as they brought home the national title naming them national champions.

Four groups, consisting of 21 young ladies, brought home three championship titles and a second place title.

The Dollettes are made up from various schools in Floyd and Pike counties and represented Eastern Kentucky very well.

The Dollettes are under the direction of Tammy Tackett and are frequently seen at all the special days and parades in the area. The Dollettes also entertain at half time of the grade school basketball games and are available for bookings this year. If you want some quality entertainment at your school activities this year bring in the national champions. They will certainly entertain the crowd.

Trojans

scored before the fumble or that Marty got the TD," explained Daniels. "On film it looked as if the touchdown signal came after Marty crossed the goal line."

Wheelwright pulled to within two points before the first half ended on Jackson's 9-yard touchdown run in the frame. Both extra point attempts for Wheelwright failed as the half ended 14-12.

The Trojans returned to the gridiron with more confidence and it showed as they picked off two of Kidd's passes. Steven Shelton snared on a pass of Kidd's and returned it 29-yards to the Phelps three yard line. Arnold Adams, with an assist from Mutu Oden, grabbed the other one.

"Mutu got his finger tips on a pass and deflected it into Arnold's hands," said Daniels. "I have all the confidence in the world in my backs. I ran fresh backs in and out and I think we just tired Phelps down in the second half and it was a warm night anyway."

"I can't say enough about the play of my offensive guards," said Daniels. "They did a great job on the line for us."

"After we settled down in the second quarter we got some penetration on offense and were able to score in the second quarter," he continued. "We got the touchdowns and that got our confidence up. We had nine of the 11 players flying to the football and I just needed to get the other two."

The Trojans' Randy Jackson had a fumble recovery for Wheelwright that led to Jackson's touchdown in the second period. Shelton had a kickoff return of 35-yards for the Trojans.

Jackson led the Trojans rushing game with 115 yards on 13 carries. Adams carried 13 times for 77 yards kick off from Whitesburg and returned the ball 18-yards to the Prestonsburg 38-yard line. The Cats put together a drive that covered 62-yards and culminated when Garza scored the first touchdown of the year for the Blackcats from 4-yards out. Returning fullback John Goble, who had to sit out the previous game, carried the ball four times in the drive for 33-yards. Tucker had two completions of five and seven yards. The extra point attempt failed, as the Cats trailed at half time 7-6.

Blackcats

Tucker showed signs of his freshman year at the quarterback position when he directed the opening drive of the second half that went 75-yards on 17 plays in 7:28, that saw Garza score his second touchdown of the game on a 2-yard run that gave Prestonsburg their first lead 12-7.

The drive started on the Blackcats' 25-yard line as Tucker looked good in calling the game. He hit Jason Crisp with a 10-yard pass and, on a called reverse play, Clark picked up a first down on a 11-yard jaunt. Goble collected 27-yards in the drive. Tucker's try for the extra point failed. The Prestonsburg's offensive line could be credit with some good play in opening the holes for the backfield. David Thacker had a great outing at center on the drive.

A big play that affected the outcome of the game happened in the third quarter after Josh Hyden, on a super play, intercepted a Rose pass on the Prestonsburg 6-yard line and returned the football 35-yards to give the Blackcats good field position. On first play from scrimmage on the 41, Garza broke tackle and romped 62-yards to what appeared to be a Blackcat touchdown. However, the score was nullified by a holding call against Prestonsburg and brought the football back to the Prestonsburg 26-yard line.

With time running out in the fourth quarter, Prestonsburg had the football with 1:32 remaining and on their own 36-yard line. On a pass play action, Tucker found Crisp downfield and went deep to the end. Crisp had the ball momentarily but had the ball roll off of his fingers. Had Crisp been able to hold onto the football there was nothing between him and the goal line but 20-yards. Tucker went deep again on a third and ten situation only to have Shane McFall intercept the football and end the drive. Whitesburg just ran out the clock.

Garza led the Prestonsburg ground game with 101-yards on 18 carries. Garza scored two touchdowns. John Goble collected 85-yards on 20 carries and Tucker had 15-yards on just four carries.

Tucker passed for 38-yards with four completions on 11 attempts. Tucker was intercepted twice. Prestonsburg had a total of 250-yards offensively.

The Blackcats piled up 75-yards in penalties on seven flags. Whitesburg was penalized 65-yards on eight calls.

Hale was the top rusher for the Yellowjackets with 61-yards on eight carries. John Collins managed 34 on seven attempts.

Whitesburg had a total of 284-yards offensively with 136-yards rushing and 148 by air.

Whitesburg collected 15 first downs to Prestonsburg's 13.

John Clark had two kickoff returns of 17 and 27-yards. Garza had one return of 18-yards.

Prestonsburg lost the football on only one fumble.

Prestonsburg (0-3) will face a very good Belfry team this Friday night at the Prestonsburg Stadium.

Bobcats

Johns Creek extended the lead when Taylor intercepted a Combs' pass and returned it 51-yards for a touchdown. Matt Lynch ran the conversion.

Things didn't improve much for the Bobcats in the third period as Johns Creek continued to put points on the scoreboard. Collins carried the ball 29-yards for a TD with 4:27 remaining. Late in the third period, Gannon found Taylor with a 25-yard TD pass as Gannon ran the conversion for a 42-0 lead.

In the fourth period, Gannon, for the third time, hooked up with Taylor for a touchdown, this time from 41-yards out. Gannon hit Harris with a conversion pass at the 9:20 mark of the final quarter.

Betsy Layne avoided the shutout when Doug Hammonds broke tackle and ran 32-yards for the only Betsy Layne touchdown. Jamie Kidd had the conversion run to make it 50-8.

Johns Creek scored the final TD at the 1:59 mark on a 20-yard touchdown run by Lynch. Gannon tossed to Harris for the conversion.

Betsy Layne had eight first downs in the game to Johns Creek's 10. The Bearcats totaled 417 offensive yards with 227 coming by air. The Bearcats rushed for 190-yards on 29 carries. Betsy Layne totaled 121 yards with 71-yards on the ground. Combs was four of 16 passing with three interceptions for 50-yards passing. Hammonds had three receptions for 32-yards.

Betsy Layne fumbled the football twice with Johns Creek recovering both turnovers. Betsy Layne ran five more plays than Johns Creek with 58. The Bearcats were penalized 120-yards while Betsy Layne received 25-yards in penalties.

Hammonds led the Bobcats ground game with 58-yards on 12 carries. Kidd carried the football 10 times for 41-yards. Collins led Johns Creek's rushing with 73-yards on seven carries. Harris finished with 43-yards on five attempts. Gannon ran the football from the quarterback slot nine times for 40-yards.

Defensively for Betsy Layne, Jamie Kidd led the Bobcats with 10 hits including seven solo's. Paul Daniels had four solo's in his seven hits. Adam Roberts continued to play good defense with six hits and four solo's Clyde Bush and Josh Carroll each had five tackles with Bush getting three solo's and Carroll two.

Betsy Layne (1-2) will host the Wildcats of Shelby Valley this Friday evening at the Lloyd Hamilton Field.

"The Heat Pump Really Cuts Down On Dust."

—Craig and Cindy Smith

To keep the air in their home cleaner, Craig and Cindy Smith installed the electric heat pump: "Both of us have allergies. But when the heat pump is on, we don't notice them as much. We feel better. We can really tell a difference." Plus, less dust in the air means Craig and Cindy's home stays cleaner: "Buying the heat pump was a good decision. We're very pleased."

To find out more about the clean, energy-efficient heat pump, call your Kentucky Power office, or call 1-800-562-8989 ext. 1249.

Scott on a run!

Allen Central quarterback Brad Scott (9) headed around left end on a sweep play against Pikeville. Scott and his team fell short of the Panthers in a 78-0 loss.

How they lined up!

Whitesburg on offense and Prestonsburg on defense. The game was a very important district game to both squads as each team came into Friday's match up looking for their first win of the season. The Yellowjackets improved to 1-2 with a 23-19 win. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Fifteen Under Par Good Enough To Win Golf Outing

McDowell High School basketball coach Johnny Ray Turner and State Representative Greg Stumbo fired a 194, 15 under par, to capture the second annual Member Guest golf outing over the past weekend at the Paintsville Country Club. The duo of Turner and Stumbo edged out Doctor's R.A. Hall and Erlindo Valera by one stroke. Hall and Valera shot a 195 which was 14 under par.

There was a three way tie for third place as Scott Perry and Bud Perry tied with the teams of Robbie Mullin and Larry McCullum as well as with Danny Blankenship and Kenny Richardson with a 196, 13 under par.

Perry(fect) stroke!

Floyd County Times Publisher Scott Perry took time out for a weekend of golf as he teamed with his father Bud Perry to participate in the Second Annual Paintsville Country Club Member Guest tournament. The duo placed third in the outing with a 13 under par.

Sports tribute : Conn Exemplifies True Bobcat Fan

You will always see him around the Lloyd Hamilton football field when the Besty Layne Bobcats are playing at home. During the basketball season he is at his usual place running the scoreboard in the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse. Or perhaps you just might see him at the Pikeville High School gym manning the scoreboard for some important basketball tournament.

Herschel Conn is a man in great demand. He exemplifies the true sports fan. He takes in all the sporting events in Floyd County that he can, and he says he enjoys being around the kids. That's because there is still a lot of kid left in Conn. He has spent a lot of years helping out any way he can and without complaint, to ensure that the sports scene is done right.

Conn once said that "kids in Floyd County are as good a basketball players as there can be found in Kentucky and many of them are Division 1 college players."

Conn is one of the finest people you will ever want to sit and talk with. He is very knowledgeable of Floyd County sports. We salute Herschel Conn, Bobcat and Floyd County fan!

"Wrong Way" Roberts Places Fifth In Septemberfest Five-Mile Run

Rick Roberts, who finished third last year in the Septemberfest Five-Mile run at Louisa, could do no better than fifth this year as he made a wrong turn that cost him some valuable time. Roberts recorded a 31:49 for fifth place behind winner Joe Barker who took the lead after the first mile to pull away from Steve Lyons of Ashland and Maysville's Martin Bess. Barker had a recorded time of 28:28 to edge out Bess who posted a time of 28:29, twenty-one seconds back.

Roberts lost some valuable time as he went the wrong way allowing Beth Galloway to gain some ground on him. Galloway finished sixth in 32:24 only 25 seconds behind Roberts. Roberts wasn't the only one that went the wrong way as Marvin and Mark Tuttle along with Kennis DeBoard went astray. Mark Tuttle claimed eighth place in 35:33 to win second place in the 20-29 age group. Brother Marvin was ninth in 36:51 for third place in the 20-29 age group.

Trudy Tuttle was 23rd overall in 53:35 and second in the 20-29 age group.

Garry McKenzie and Kennis DeBoard of Paintsville also finished in the race but times were not available.

Rebels

The Rebels did get some good news in that Shawn Bailey, who has been out with an injury that required surgery, will be rejoining the team this Friday night.

"Shawn has been working out with us in practice and he will get some playing time in," Jamerson explained.

The Panther bench saw most of the action in the second half as they scored TD's in the third and fourth periods for the final 78-0 count.

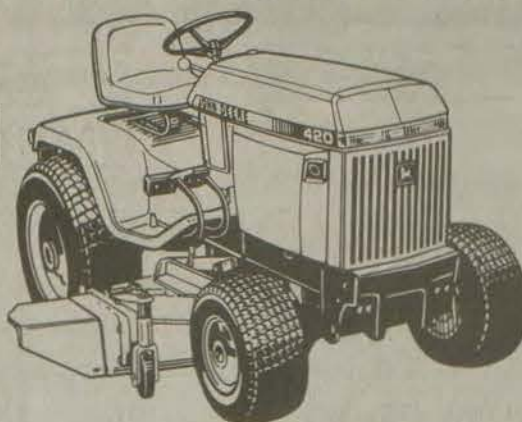

Allen Central falls to 0-3 overall and the loss was the second for the Rebels in district play. Pikeville stays perfect at 3-0 and are 2-0 in district action.

The Rebels will take to the road this Friday night as they journey to Johns Creek to play the Bearcats in a 8 p.m. game.

THE ALL NEW 1992 TOYOTA CAMRY

Toyota started with an automobile that was more than just an inspiration to others. It set the standard. But they couldn't leave well enough alone.

So they made some changes.

Like new engines. A more powerful 2.2 liter 135 horsepower engine. And a responsive 185 horsepower optional V6. Both astonishingly quiet.

They made it roomier. Adding over two feet more leg, hip, shoulder and head room.

They made it safer. With a driver-side air bag, standard, and an optional Anti-lock Brake System.

It's the all new 1992 Camry, from Toyota. Because Toyota realizes that there are times when change isn't only good -- but a lot more exciting.

BASS DIP AT KENTUCKY AND BARKLEY LAKES

Largemouth bass populations are shrinking at Barkley and Kentucky lakes. It's that simple. And their numbers will continue to dip each year until they reach a more "normal" level — probably sometime in the mid-90s. Anglers who have become accustomed to catching high numbers of exceptionally large bass will likely notice a substantial decline over the next few years.

Gerard Buynak, black bass research biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR), spent a large part of this past summer, as he does each year, measuring fish populations at Kentucky and Barkley lakes. Buynak says all data indicate the "bass boom" brought on by drought years in late 1980s, has reached its peak and bass numbers are returning to a much more realistic mark.

"The largemouth bass boom, in terms of pounds of fish per acre of water, probably peaked out in 1989 or 90," said Buynak. "The decline we've been seeing the past couple of years is exactly what we expected."

The natural decline in largemouth bass, though scientifically evident, has not yet become noticeable to the average angler. However, over the next few years, fewer fish and somewhat smaller sizes will become the rule and anglers should prepare themselves for the change.

"People have gotten used to catching artificially high numbers of really big bass out of both lakes," said Ted Crowell, KDFWR's assistant director of fisheries. "But now, things are starting to come back down to earth, much like the way they used to be."

A big problem, Crowell believes, is people won't remember the lakes as they were 10 years ago and not understand the change back to normal. "They'll remember how it was last year and the year before, when it took six fish weighing 28 pounds or better to win a tournament," Crowell contends. "By 1995, six fish weighing only 18 pounds might win a tournament."

"Folks may have gotten a little spoiled," he added.

The bass booms at Kentucky and Barkley lakes were brought on by the drought years Kentucky experienced between 1984 and 1988. During those years, total annual rainfall amounts nosedived to about half normal levels. Think of it as two years' worth of rain spread over a four- or five-year period.

Actually, drought conditions don't directly affect the fish as much as they impact the water fish live in. First of all, rainfall largely affects how quickly the water in a reservoir is "exchanged" — or passed beyond the dam and replaced by fresh, new, incoming water.

At Kentucky Lake, for example, the water is completely "exchanged" about every 30 days — under NORMAL conditions. When rainfall is heavier than usual, incoming water flows more rapidly and lake water is exchanged more quickly. When rainfall amounts are less than usual, incoming water flows much more slowly and the exchange rate is slower. That is, water stays in the pool for a much longer period of time.

Now this may not sound very significant, but the fact is the length of time water remains in the pool has a tremendous effect on those things which naturally grow in the water — the fish food supply, for example — which in turn affects the bass population, especially young fish which feed entirely on plankton.

Plankton reaches its greatest density level when the exchange rate in a lake is lowest.

The result is a virtual paradise for hungry young bass — more available food than they could possibly need. What you've got then is a higher than average number of young fish surviving the difficult early stages of life — and some extremely well-fed fish, to boot. Before long, the size of the fish population goes through the roof, primarily due to an uncanny survival rate among the young of the year. What's more, the fish all look as though they've been strapped to the feed bucket. During the drought years, several other species, namely smallmouth bass, bluegill, shellcracker and channel catfish, also showed sharp upswings. But, as with the largemouth bass, data now indicate these species are also declining to more realistic levels.

As difficult as it may be to fully understand, climatic and environmental changes don't have the same effects on all species. The very conditions which initiated the boom in largemouth numbers, had a totally negative effect on the crappie spawn. Crappie (and other fish species) struggled while black bass prospered.

As might be expected, populations of other species are also coming back into balance. White bass, crappie and sauger populations, for instance, are gradually — and naturally — increasing in numbers. It's reasonable to anticipate that over the next few years, those once flourishing fish populations will again reach normal levels similar to where they used to be.

Remember, over the long haul, a reservoir can support only a certain number of fish relative to the volume of water, just as 10 acres of forest can support only so many deer, and a 10-acre pasture can sustain only so many cattle. And although unusual natural occurrences can temporarily throw the system out of balance from time to time, eventually all living things return to their natural, normal levels.

Keep in mind too, that largemouth bass populations are so strong at Kentucky and Barkley lakes that even a major decline in these artificially high numbers will leave the lakes as solid, productive fisheries — far better than most.

Largemouth bass at Kentucky and Barkley lakes are simply returning to their natural, normal levels. Nothing is wrong. Nothing is out of whack. The lakes are not dying, as a matter of fact, they're not even a little bit under the weather. Nature is just putting things back the way it intended for them to be — back the way they used to be, only a decade ago.

In 1921, baseball lovers thrilled to the first radio broadcasts of a World Series.

Bassin With The Pros

BASS NEED BOTH COVER AND STRUCTURE

If you want to improve your bass fishing, you first have to improve your vocabulary.

That's the opinion of professional fisherman Ken Cook, and the words in question are "cover" and "structure."

"These are two of the most important terms in bass fishing," says the well-known Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler, "but I don't think the majority of anglers actually understand them. If you want to catch more bass, you have to know the meanings of these two words."

"Structure," explains Cook, "really refers to anything that changes the contour of the bottom and the depth. This can be a ditch or channel, a pile of rocks, a sunken ridge or mound, even a point of land."

"Cover, on the other hand," continues Cook, "refers more to some type of object that can actually provide bass a home. The best-known examples are grassbeds, blown-down trees, stumps, and boathouses."

"Basically, cover is where bass like to hide and where you need to be fishing."

Structure is important, notes the Evinrude pro, because although bass are basically shallow water residents, they prefer to have close access to deeper water. When conditions are no longer agreeable to them in shallow water, the fish head to deeper depths by the shortest possible route.

"Although bass can often be caught around structure, such as the edge of a deeper point or channel," says Cook, "the ideal situation is to find structure like this with cover on it."

"When you have that, you'll almost always locate bass."

One of Cook's favorite types of summer structure is around the mouths of tributary creeks where they flow into a main lake. He follows the creek channel to its intersection with the main river of the lake, then begins fishing the underwater points on either side of that intersection.

"Normally, these spots will have good depth changes on them so you have the basic shallow water/deep water combination," he says, "but just as often, you'll find stumps, rocks or grassbeds on the points, too, which provide the cover."

"You have to fish both points, but the downstream point is frequently the better of the two."

Cook usually begins probing the points with a deep diving crankbait, which is how he initially finds any cover present. Later he may change to a Carolina-rig worm or lizard.

"You should still fish the points even if you don't find any special cover," Cook adds, "because these points are good structure, but your chances will always be better when you find cover on that structure."

An extension handle is available from OMC SystemMatched Parts and Accessories that fits all late model Johnson and Evinrude tiller control electric positioning motors. It's made of aluminum with a nylon sleeve that locks over the tiller handle of the motor without the use of screws or bolts. It adds 18 inches of reach to the handle.

TEACHING TRIALS

Hazel Damron George of Ivel said she enjoyed the recent column about a first grade class. It was a story she could relate to for, before her retirement, she taught school for 42 years.

Her last 19 years in the classroom were spent in Pensacola, Florida, where she was once named Teacher of the Year; but her first 23 years were spent in Floyd County schools — at Ivel, Allen and Betsy Layne.

It was early in her career at Allen Elementary School that she was teaching seventh grade and Phillip Dingus was school principal. They didn't have PE classes then but they had recess periods, and teachers were expected to oversee the playground.

Hazel had a set of twin boys in her class and, during one recess period, one of them engaged another boy in a fight.

The combat was becoming rather heated and the teacher had sent another student for the principal when suddenly the twin stopped and called to his brother.

"Yes?"
"Come here and get my false teeth," he said, "and hold them so I can fight."

Sounds as if he'd been down that road before.

 IN THE MALL

William Arthur "Art" Jones is a former Floyd Countian now living in Lakeland, Florida. He gets our paper and, after reading about some other long-distance subscribers, he has reported in and shared a few memories that go back some 50 years.

As a very young teacher at Betsy Layne, he coached a boys' basketball team for five years and transported many of them in his own car. He also coached the girls' team for part of a year, or until Principal D. W. Howard could find another coach. He earned the great salary of $120 per month.

He treasures pictures he has kept of his team members and remembers their different personalities. They include Paul Gearheart, Bert Allen, Bob Hall, McKinley Hunter, Broadus Spears, Walter Hall, Aaron Conn, Wade Martin and J. D. Risner.

After school ended in 1943, a representative of Ford Motor Company came to his home and offered him more pay for a week than he was making in a month at school. He went to Michigan and worked for Ford for four years, or until after World War II had ended.

After that, he opened his own real estate office in Ypsilanti where several hundred other Floyd County families were also living. "We sold hundreds of homes to Southern families for 32 years," he writes, "but in 1982 I retired and we moved to Lakeland, Florida."

Arthur's wife, Mae, is from Elkhorn City, and they enjoy growing bananas, oranges and other fruits, as well as having a year-round garden. They say, "We live by a large lake where the fishing is great — and so is the weather."

Then he adds, "But we talk sometimes about moving back to Eastern Kentucky." We're not surprised at that, for once you breathe this mountain air and drink the water — and you've fallen in love with the hills of home — you never quite get over it. At least, not everybody does.

Reminder

"You can succeed, but first you have to endure." — Judge Clarence Thomas

Kim's Korner

First of all, I have to tell you about a telephone conversation with my Aunt Gaye Dawson.

by Kim Frasure

"Kim," she said, "I've never known you to lie, and then I read your column last week and you told two of the biggest fibs I've ever heard."

"What?" I shrilled. "What are you talking about?"

"Well, first of all," she continued, "you stated you were married into one of the strongest Republican families in the county..."

"Yeah, right, so?" I thought. No lie, Ron Frasure's the strongest Republican I know. "What else?" I asked.

My aunt then said, "You ended your column asking Gorman what Mare's milk was."

"Okay, okay, already, what's the lie?" I asked.

"Sweetheart," she said, "you can't be a Republican in Floyd County and not know what Mare's milk is."

"Ah ha!" I laughed. "Point taken."

"Why, you just ask your father-in-law," my aunt said, "I bet he's had Mare's milk in every flavor it comes in."

I had to laugh. It was funny, but only a Democrat would've thought of that, Gaye.

Political affiliations, are almost as important as religious affiliations. Ed Caudill still hasn't forgiven me for bringing an old blankety-blank Republican in his house, marrying him, and then his only daughter does the same thing.

Children, you think, you teach them right from wrong and they'll get you every time.

Come on Ed, admit it, we didn't do so bad, now did we?

Till next week...I love you Ed and Gaye.

Today, Wednesday, September 18, marks the 22nd birthday of my little brother. Who, by the way is much bigger, or should I say taller, than I.

Happy birthday, Scott, you're an exceptional little brother!

Tomorrow, the 19th, marks another Scott's birthday. The "Boss" Scott. So Happy birthday Scott Perry!

Sixty-one years together:

In sickness and in health, love lives on

Wedding Day

On September 19, 1930, Kenis Clark and Martha Risner (two in center) were married at the home of his parents, James M. and Laura Bell Clark at Honaker. Their wedding witnesses were his younger sister, Josephine (right), and her uncle Adis Risner (left).

(Editor's Note: The following is a story written by Christine Meade of Betsy Layne. It is a chapter from her book "Mud Creek Memories" (unpublished). Ms. Meade is allowing this chapter to be published in honor of her parents' wedding anniversary. Kenis and Martha Risner Clark of Honaker will celebrate their 61 years of marriage on Thursday, September 19. The Clarks have 12 children, 32 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. Although Kenis is suffering from Alzheimer's Disease, he and Martha have led very long and happy lives together.)

KENIS, AN ALZHEIMER VICTIM

Martha, his wife, speaks: It is midnight and Kenis is finally sleeping. The house is so still. I have longed for the quiet, only now it feels so strange. I am too tired to sleep, I will do some work or call someone on the phone. It is hard to be alone now after so many years with our children.

I fear the nights; each noise can cause me pain; my heart beats so fast. I think, "maybe it is only the cats." I am glad for my work; it helps me, keeps my mind busy and away from the terrible thing that is happening to my poor Kenis. The strong dark-headed man that has been near me for 61 years is changing so fast into this man-child who cries and calls me "Mommy." It is hard to believe what time can do to us.

As a young man he was so handsome. Coming up the road to visit me in the evenings, the sun would shine on his black hair, I would think, "Lord, he looks like an angel."

Since childhood he had been this good, down-to-earth person. He was a favorite of his grandpa Clark; the one he was named for.

His love of animals came, in a big part, from this Grandpa who he would rather be with. He couldn't be kept in school because he knew at home Grandpa and the animals would welcome him. Most days, he would just up and go home.

The love of animals and growing things to eat was to be a strong love which Kenis passed down especially to his seven girls, who will grow things even if they have to get down on their knees and dig with their hands.

Kenis loved to walk and would walk most of his life having only a short affair with the automobile. After a collision with a bridge early on, he never tried to drive again.

As a boy, Kenis and his Grandpa would think nothing of a trip on foot to Prestonsburg, a good 16 miles. He loved horses; they were not just to ride though. They worked the fields, hauled rocks or the family's belongings on moving day. They swim in time of floods taking him to work or to buy some medicine, but you didn't take this chance unless it was necessary.

Coming from a large family, Kenis was right at home with his own 12 children. He had a great love of babies. When we had twin daughters, he cared for one or the other as well as I could.

I was 16 when I met Kenis. We had both worked hard from childhood. It was well we were not afraid of work because we would certainly have it to do in our life together.

We were married Friday night, September 19, 1930, at the home of his parents, Laura and James Clark. My uncle, Adis Risner, was best man, and Kenis' sister, Josephine, whom I loved as a sister already, was with me. We would live near Josephine for 50 years and share each others families. Josephine would be a favorite person to our family all her life. Uncle Adis moved to Florida and was lost to his family.

A coal miner and farmer was to be Kenis work. In the 1940s, thinking he would have to be a soldier and be away for years, Kenis sold his horse, saddle and dog. Later, on learning he was not to be off to war, he found himself in a bad way; he had to borrow a horse to plow our land. His children had been heart-broken at losing their dog, but he had wanted to leave them some money.

When we were first married, I would be out in my garden or maybe cooking supper, Kenis would come home from work, walk up behind me and make this soft little noise — a private thing between the two of us. Over the years, he had stopped this until one day we were buying groceries — long after he had forgotten his children's names, and I was just Mommy —, I was busy filling my cart and Kenis was with our son Gary; suddenly, I heard this sound from the past. Turning around, there he was with this smile on his face. I say, well Daddy, I haven't heard that for a long time. Know me? Well, he did at that moment. It didn't last long — that sweet, sweet feeling we were to share for the last time, perhaps.

His illness has worsened now; I am again his care-giver, trying to ease his fear or pain. I sit and feed him or just stay near, sometimes. If he is quiet, he might smile at me, and then for a moment, I feel I am not just Mommy, but Martha, wife of Kenis.

Middle Creek Battlefield, Floyd County considered by Historic Places Register

The Middle Creek Battlefield, three miles west of Prestonsburg, will be considered for entry in the National Register of Historic Places at the September 25, meeting of the Kentucky Historic Preservation Review Board. The board, consisting of professionals in history and members of the public, recommends to David Morgan, State Historic Preservation officer and executive director, Kentucky Heritage Council, Kentucky properties for listing in the National Register.

A new appreciation of Middle Creek Battlefield shows its pivotal role in the Civil War and in presidential politics. The January 10, 1862, battle was the first victory for the Union troops in many months. It provided the much needed morale boost and strategic conquest to dislodge Confederate troops from Kentucky. James A. Garfield, leader of the successful charge, used the nationwide attention from this battle to springboard into the presidency in 1880.

Joseph E. Brent completed the National Register nomination form.

The battle site is owned by Frank Fitzpatrick.

Listing in the National Register officially recognizes a property's archaeological, architectural, or historical significance and provides a measure of protection against federally funded projects. The status does not affect property ownership rights.

Under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 the Kentucky Heritage Council is authorized to identify and recommend eligible properties for listing in the National Register of Historic Places. In order to facilitate the National Register nomination process, the Council maintains an inventory of Kentucky's historic resources. Owners of National Register properties may also qualify for tax benefits for rehabilitation of income-producing structures or for the charitable contribution of preservation easements.

Dr. Debra Floyd

Dr. Floyd speaks to Kiwanis Club

Dr. Debra Floyd, president Prestonsburg Community College, was the guest speaker at the Thursday, September 12 meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club. Club members used this time to get acquainted with Dr. Floyd and to hear her plans for the college.

The enrollment numbers both at Prestonsburg and at the Pikeville branch of PCC are impressive. Dr. Floyd said that she plans to stop apologizing for what PCC does not do and start bragging about its accomplishments. She said that PCC is one of the top community colleges in the Commonwealth and that the buildings are fast becoming filled up so that new construction in the future will be a must.

The Kiwanis Club has offered Dr. Floyd its full support and assistance and feels that PCC made an excellent choice for its President and we hope that the community will do everything possible to make Dr. Floyd feel welcome.

CHARLES ATLAS AND ME

When I was about seven years old, my little brother Joe was nearly five. Just like every other kid living in Society Row at the time, we were both heavily into comic books.

Our oldest brothers and sisters would keep us well stocked in Kid Colt, Tom Mix, Gene Autry and Little Lulu, while we'd go from door to door and trade them with neighbors as soon as we'd both read them. I'll bet the total of funny books we read would number in the thousands.

I'll bet, too, that nine out of every ten of them had the big full-page ad inside the back cover urging us to enroll in the Charles Atlas body-building course.

I'd be wealthy today if I had a dollar for everytime I read the little cartoon strip about the big guy with muscles who kicked sand into the face of the puny guy with the caved-in chest and the pretty girlfriend.

The little puny guy with the caved-in chest would just have to sit and take it, and his girlfriend would have little black lines drawn across her face, indicating that she was embarrassed. But not to worry! The little guy with the caved-in chest would then discover the Charles Atlas ad and mail in his coupon.

Then, in the last frame, the little guy would still have his same ole head, but now it sat atop a body just like the first guy with all the muscles—except better. Then when the first guy would come along kicking sand, the once-puny guy would mash his mouth and say, "Take that, you bully!"

I'd sit and look at that picture of Charles Atlas flexing his muscles and wearing his leopard-skin trunks, and try to imagine my seven year-old head on his body. I'd silently rehearse the line that'd finally make me a man: "Take that, you bully!"

All the while, I'd wonder if it would be worth the effort on my part to try to raise enough money to pay for the course and send off for it myself. I can't remember what it would have cost me, but I do remember thinking that I'd have to gather up a right smart bit of pop bottles and scrap iron before I could ever come up with that much. And, if by some miracle, I could have come up with that much cash, I'd probably have ended up spending it on Kid Colt, Tom Mix, Gene Autry and Little Lulu.

Anyway, I guess that if you know me now, you've figured out that I never ever mailed that coupon. I guess I just figured that the little puny guy with the caved-in chest already had the pretty girlfriend, and if he'd taken her to a good Lash Larue double-feature instead of the beach, he wouldn't have had sand kicked in his face in the first place. Consequently, he wouldn't have had to waste all his money building a body that didn't match his head. Besides, there was no sand at the Number One pond anyway.

Oh well! It's nearly fifty years later now, and I've given up funny books for something a little more serious (Louis LaMour). Sometimes I do wonder, though, what I'd feel like to walk up to a Sylvester Stallone or a Hulk Hogan and say, "Take that, you bully!" without knowing for certain that those would be the very last words I'd ever utter.

KRTA workshop, BSRT meeting and luncheon

The annual KRTA workshop, BSRT meeting, and luncheon for these two groups took place at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park on Thursday, September 12, opening with registration and a coffee at 8:30 a.m.

Georgia Muncy, president of the Big Sandy Retired Teachers' Association, opened the meeting with prayer, led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag, gave the devotions, and welcomed those in attendance.

Muncy presented Robert Kelley, president of the Kentucky Retired

Teachers' Association, who spoke briefly, and gave the roll-call by county. Kelly presented former KRTA president, Russell Boyd of Johnson County, and Virginia Goble, a member of the KRTA executive board, from Floyd County.

Then, he presented M. L. Archer, chairman of the membership/retirement committee, who spoke on the ways to go about increasing membership in retired teachers' organizations. Using a membership chart, he showed that membership had increased in this district and in the state during the past year, but he stressed the need for the increase to be greater.

Archer gave much of the credit for retired teachers' raises this year to members of the Kentucky Legislative committee. He asked that non-members "not be like the hog eating acorns: Just eat and eat, and not know from where the acorns were coming." He said that the pre-retirement meeting held by the FCRT at Prestonsburg Community College, here each October, was "one of the best in the state," and contributed much to the increase in membership. The group was urged to strive for 100 percent membership for 1991-92 — and to receive the Gold Emblem recognition.

President Kelley reminded members of the permanent KRTA Headquarters which should be available in Louisville within the near future, and said that KRTA Newsletters would be forthcoming.

Kelley spoke of the importance of insurance and health care, including national health care reform, Medicaid, the possible health insurance programs, and many other health matters of special concern to retired teachers.

Frank Hatfield, executive director of KRTA, expressed his appreciation to Norma Stepp, liaison person for these two organizations, for making the arrangement for the day's events, and added that this was always one of the KRTA executives' favorite workshops.

Hatfield conducted the meeting after a short break. He presented a representative from AETNA Insur-

County Kettle

By M.L. Harmon

So far I have not received any recipes for pumpkin butter for Mrs. Moore of Hi Hat. This time I am requesting a recipe for Persimmon pie. I do know some people do make them and I would like a recipe. We do like them and have a bumper crop this year. A lady was telling my husband about how good they were and she had made them for years. He did not ask her how to make them, or who she was or where she lived, not even a phone number. I could make one I am sure but, would I make it right and would it be eatable????

2 c. quick bread mix
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 1/4 c. milk

In a small bowl, beat the egg white until it holds stiff, dry peaks, fold into the batter. Do not over mix; a few small puffs of egg whites should be visible in the batter.

Lightly coat a 12-inch skillet with cooking spray and set over a medium heat. Using about 1/4 cup batter per pancake, pour in the batter, 2 or 3 portions at a time, and cook for 1 to 2 minutes, or until bubbles form on the pancakes. Turn and brown 1 to 2 minutes more. Makes 15 pancakes.

Joins church staff

Johnnie Ross

The First Presbyterian Church has begun its fall program with an addition to its church staff and exciting new plans. Johnnie Ross, a student for ordination to the ministry, is joining the pastoral staff in order to minister to youth and their families. Dr. Timothy Jessen is the pastor.

The church program year began on September 8, Rally Day, with the traditional breakfast in the fellowship hall. Using the theme "new Beginnings," Sue Martin decorated the room with examples of new beginnings in world and church history, such as the discovery of America and advancements in flight and space exploration. Members' birth dates were also used in the display.

Ross will be working with youth and developing new programs for them and their families. A graduate of Berea College, he has worked extensively in this area with the Boy Scouts, and continues as Scoutmaster of Troop 877.

He preaches frequently at area churches, including his own, St. James Episcopal, and Drift Presbyterian, and is employed by the Kentucky Department of Environmental Protection.

Folk Dance to be held

The Hindman Settlement School will have its first fall folk dance evening on Saturday, September 28. It will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held in the May Stone Building. Randy Wilson, folk-artist-in-residence in Leslie County, will be calling the dance. Wilson is a multitalented musician and dance caller. Lee Sexton, famous for his unique style of banjo playing and an accomplished fiddler, will be helping provide the music. Phil Sexton, Lee's son, will be on the bass and banjo. Donley Shepherd of Leslie County will be playing the guitar.

For an evening of fun and exercise bring the entire family to the Hindman Settlement School's folk dance evening. The experienced and inexperienced dancer is encouraged to attend. This event is co-sponsored by the Kentucky Arts Council. It is open free to the public.

As I set here trying to line up this week's column all I can seem to think about is that I am now entering my "ALL GONE" season. I picked, or rather, had my last cucumbers picked today and have them started in the process of dill pickles. We'll pick the last of our late beans and corn this week. By the time our sweet potatoes are dug, our 1991 garden will be all gone. With the exception of our turnips and greens. We did not sow too many of them. They are looking pretty. Maybe by the first frost everything will have been harvested, for the first time in years.

Have started reading next year's seed catalogs already and, as I haven't grown any fennel for years, think I will grow some, good Lord willing, come next spring. You sow the seeds about the same time as you sow your lettuce beds. Of course they are sown in a row at the back side of your garden. Otherwise, they would end up taking over the entire garden. They grow tall and bushy.

The leaves, and bulbs are both useable on the Feisty fennel. The plant is a good substitute for the anise herb. Fennel seed will do the same job as anise, even tasting the same, and are a lot less trouble to grow.

The plant grows five to six feet tall, sending out plume like stalks bearing graceful, feathery leaves that release a pleasant licorice aroma. The edible part is a six-inch, bulb-like portion of the stalk, which forms at the ground, like celery.

Given full sun, normal organic garden soil, it will grow with all the exuberance of a weed. Thinning the plants to 10 inches will do fine if you start harvesting the plants early, by pulling up every other one. Otherwise this row will become jungle if all the plants are left in the row. Start using the bulbs when they become the size of a large egg, and dry the leaves for later use. The young tender stalks sliced and blanched are great with dips.

To cook the bulbs; steam until tender, drain, cut into pieces, dip in a spicy egg batter, and saute' until brown on all sides.

In seed catalogs you may run across fennel by several different names and prices. Sweet fennel, Florence, and finocchio are all three given in the catalogs—all three have a different price. All three are the same fennel with a different name. Even the seed catalogs must be watched very closely now-a-days. Once you have sown the fennel seeds you will find the plant growing in some of the oddest places come next spring, such as a crack in the pavement of your driveway. The wind and birds do drop the seeds every where. It helps you have an earlier crop the next year as they are already planted and will come up before your ground is generally ready in the spring.

Seminar on organizing craft fair offered

Community development groups, art and civic organizations and individuals interested in developing craft cooperatives or organizing craft fairs in their communities are invited to attend one of two, day-long seminars, on October 18 and 19 at Kenlake and Carter Caves State Resort Parks, respectively. "Community Growth through Craft Development" will address two different approaches to promoting crafts that will economically and aesthetically benefit a community. The workshop is the fourth in a series sponsored by the Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation and the Kentucky Craft Marketing Program; it is the first workshop sponsored by the two groups which will focus on community development.

Jan Halkett, Marketing Specialist with the United States Department of Agriculture, Columbus, Ohio and Carolyn McKeuen, Executive Director of the Watermark Association of Artisans, Elizabeth City, North Carolina, will discuss information on how to organize a cooperative. In existence since 1978, Watermark is a successful craft cooperative of more than 400 members. Watermark currently sells to 500 stores and to over 15 catalog companies.

In an afternoon segment, organizers of several of Kentucky's most successful craft fairs will present basic information on how to organize a craft fair. Topics will include funding, promotion and advertising, exhibitor screening and selection, parking, crowd control and other related areas. Panelists include Michael Zoeller, President, Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen (Waterside Art and Blues Festival, Louisville); Teresa Deaver, Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen (Berea Craft Fair, Berea); Shirley Dexter, Festival Coordinator (Big River Arts and Crafts Festival, Owensboro); and, Diana Fulner, Chairperson (Old Brownsboro Road Arts and Crafts Fair, Louisville).

The fee for the workshop is $15.00 for Kentucky residents, $25 for out-of-state participants. Reservations are required and can be made by contacting The Kentucky Art and Craft Foundation, 609 W. Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky 40202, 502/589-0102. Deadline for registration is October 14.

Near record crowd attends 1991 Kentucky state fair

The 1991 Kentucky State Fair drew its second largest attendance ever as 663,965 people passed through the gates. That's just short of the record 666,210 set in 1977.

Fair officials cited three reasons for the high numbers, including exceptionally mild weather, the fair's marketing strategy, and a larger, established Kentucky Kingdom Amusement Park.

The 1991 Kentucky State Fair was August 15-25 at Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Dates for 1992 are tentatively set for August 20-30.

RETIREMENT COMMUNITY OPTIONS CONFERENCE

Never before held in the state of Kentucky, the nationally popular preretirement/retirement living conference will be presented by the author of RETIREMENT LIVING ALTERNATIVES USA: THE INSIDE STORY, H. Wilson Worley. Mr. Worley's book (a $9.95 value) will be presented without charge to each household along with other copyrighted material.

Thousands have highly acclaimed this conference for its dissemination of information not available from any other source. During the two-hour session, participants will review full-service preretirement and retirement living concepts through a color slide series of communities from the east to the west coast.

In addition, a new and different concept in active preretirement/retirement living being considered for eastern Kentucky will be discussed to determine its potential for active adults desiring a full menu of services from home and yard maintenance to security and health/fitness programs. The concept offers options not found in lifecare, entrance fee, expensive rental packages, or resort communities. Each participant will be asked to complete a single written survey to provide direction for the development and the public's acceptance of this community.

The conference is free of charge. However, seating is limited and will be by reservation only.

Please call Ann Martin, (606) 886-9558 or 1-800-533-4762, Monday through Friday from noon to 8:00 p.m. or write for reservations for you and your friends to RETIREMENT CONFERENCE, P.O. Box 787, Prestonsburg, KY 41653 for one of the times and locations below:

"Super IRA" legislation will increase opportunities for first-time home buyers

Fewer and fewer renters are able to scale the high-cost hurdle to owning a home because of the difficulty in accumulating cash for a down payment. However, a proposal now before Congress, allowing first-time buyers to make penalty-free withdrawals from their savings plans, would help reverse this negative trend among renters, the National Association of Realtors testified recently.

NAR's concerns about declining accessibility to homeownership for first-time buyers, and the benefits of "Super IRA" legislation, which the association endorses, were discussed recently by NAR President Harley E. Rouda, during a congressional hearing before the U.S. Senate Finance Committee.

"This proposal is not a panacea, but it will make a significant contribution to helping a large number of Americans begin to participate in the American dream," Rouda said. The "Super IRA," introduced this year by Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Sen. William Roth, R-Del., will enable young people to overcome their most critical obstacle to realizing the dream of homeownership—saving cash for the down payment, he added.

In addition, the proposal, which now has 75 co-sponsors in the Senate, will help boost the declining national savings rate in this country. A House companion bill, introduced by Reps. Jake Pickle, D-Texas, and Bill Thomas, R-Calif., has garnered 260 co-sponsors.

The "Super IRA" bill would permit penalty-free withdrawals from an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or a 401 (K) plan if the funds are used to purchase a home, pay tuition, or pay catastrophic medical expenses. The "Super IRA" reinstates the deduction for IRAs for all taxpayers.

The proposal also makes extended family resources available for home purchases. The parents, grandparents and spouse of the purchaser may make a penalty-free withdrawal to assist that individual in buying a home.

"We believe that adding the new categories for allowable withdrawals will encourage young people to begin savings programs earlier," Rouda testified. He added that the new withdrawal feature acknowledges that a home is the central element in the savings plans of most families.

Rouda said a growing number of young people today are being squeezed out of the housing market. During the 1980's, the nation's homeownership rate declined for the first time in 40 years. The largest declines were among those under 25, and, more importantly, among those in the prime family formation years of 25-34. Homeownership among these age groups declined by roughly 15 percent during the 1980's. Today, fewer than half the people in these age groups own their homes.

Today, given the high cost of housing, large sums are needed to meet the expenses of a down payment, closing costs, points and other costs that go with a purchase. Therefore, young persons often require the assistance of family members in making the first home purchase.

"If the tax code is to be used to encourage savings, we believe this is an appropriate use of such incentives," said Rouda, a Realtor from Columbus, Ohio.

In his testimony, Rouda outlined some of the causes of the declining homeownership rate. First, he said, higher prices for homes require larger down payments, and the median family income has grown more slowly than housing prices. Also, rental payments for prospective homeowners consume increasingly larger proportions of family income. For single parent-families rent consumes as much as 60 percent of family income.

"You can't save a down payment under those circumstances," noted Rouda.

He noted that the tax code acknowledges this reality in permitting deductions for the medical expenses of family members, by creating personal exemptions for family members and by creating child care credits. "Thus, the use of family funds to benefit family members is not inconsistent with current tax policy," said Rouda.

The National Association of Realtors, "The Voice for Real Estate," is the nation's largest trade association, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.
