In Fifth District race for Democrats :

Hubbard takes lead in fund-raising

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Carol Brown Hubbard and Robert Rowe emerged as the financial front-runners in the Democratic Congressional race this week, as all but two of the eight Democratic candidates released their respective campaigns' quarterly financial status reports.

At the close of the reporting period, the Carol Brown Hubbard Committee had $164,312.54 in Cash on Hand. Reports indicate that $150,715.42 of that money was left over from the previous quarter. Political Action Committees donated $28,800 to Hubbard's campaign this quarter.

The Rowe Congressional Campaign Committee reported having $103,580.47 in Cash on Hand at the end of the quarter. However, the Rowe campaign still has outstanding debts totaling $66,069.87. Rowe himself loaned his campaign $60,000, well over half of the committee's total cash.

The remainder of the Democratic Congressional campaigns' financial status reports are as follows:

•Hays For Congress committee reports having $10,519.71 in Cash on Hand;

•Cecil For Congress reports having $6,471.20;

•Committee For N.P. Bingham reports $1,792.52; and •Pillersdorf For Congress campaign has $359.

Private donations make up the bulk of these candidates campaign funds.

As of Monday, April 20, the campaign committees for Logan

Turner and Stephen Maynard had yet to file their respective financial status reports for this quarter.

At Wheelwright :

Hot words heat up meeting

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A bleak financial picture and a continuing rift with the city's utility commission added to the tension at Thursday's Wheelwright City Commission meeting.

City clerk Mary Ann Johnson told commissioners that meeting the city's payroll could depend on receiving a quarterly payment of the town's share of coal severance tax monies. She said the amount of that payment is unknown.

Johnson said the city owed $4,228.66 for April's monthly bill and payroll payments and the general fund balance is $4,993.62.

"We won't know how much it is until we get it," Johnson said.

Commissioner Lowell Parker recommended the city consider employee layoffs and other ways to cut the city's monthly expenses.

"There's no way we can pay out more than is coming in," Parker said. "We're drowning. Let's look at cuts first in part-time employees and then other areas."

Commissioners took no action on the suggestion.

Tempers flared when discussions turned to the city's utility commission report.

Utility commission chairman Randall Johnson, Mayor Kenneth Johnson and Parker began a three-way heated exchange that included accusations that Parker wanted an illegal meeting of the utility commission called.

Parker began by saying that he had tried to meet with the whole commission so that commissioners would have some idea of their duties and responsibilities. Parker was assigned to be a liaison between the utility commission and the city commission.

Randall Johnson and the mayor then argued that Parker had wanted to conduct an illegal closed session of the commission.

"No man can have a closed meeting," the mayor said. "You can have a closed meeting to hire or fire. Other than that, it's illegal."

Randall Johnson snapped to Parker that if he wanted to know what was going on in the utility commission,

Court declines to act on golf course issue :

Short, but not painless . . .

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Good Friday brought good news to the Floyd County Fiscal Court who flew through their regular meeting in a record 55 minutes aided by the lack of citizen's complaints.

Not one person showed up to address the court with grievances at the Friday meeting.

The court, however, did hear from Nello Francis who continued his push to lower the cost of playing golf at Stumbo Park in Allen.

Francis asked the court at their March meeting to report in April the amount of revenues generated by the golf course.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told Francis that there "was no way" to break down the revenue generated at any one of the county's park but the park system had a deficit of $73,578 last year.

"I don't understand why there is no way to break it down," Francis said.

"We're a government agency and there is no way to break it down, we can't break it down," Stumbo told

Francis. "That's the only figures we can give."

Francis gave the court a letter which he said was from "many" of the 375 people who signed a petition to have the green fees, cart rentals and cart storage fees lowered.

The content of the letter claimed: •that the golf course at Allen was poorly managed;

•that park workers "scream and holler" at the players;

•that the greens are poorly kept;

•complained that persons who pay a membership fee are required to pay additional green fees to play the course on Sundays; and •asked that the cart paths be black-topped.

Allen/Dwale petition for wet/dry vote

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Residents of Floyd County's 44th precinct, which includes the Allen/Dwale area, will decide on July 11, 1992 whether or not the sale of alcoholic beverages will continue to be permitted.

On April 17th, Floyd County Court Clerk Carla Boyd received a petition signed by 107 of the precinct's 561 registered voters, requesting a local option election. This will be the first such election held in the precinct since it was voted wet on June 29, 1982. Only 25% of the precinct's registered voters turned out for last November's general election.

This is the second special wet/dry election petitioned for in Floyd County this year. Voters in Prestonsburg's Richmond precinct, which is currently dry, petitioned for a wet/dry election on February 21. That election will be held this Saturday, April 25. Ben Ferguson, Mike McCormick, Frank Heinze and Robert J. Wallace, who served as election officer in last November's general election, will again serve in that capacity.

Saturday's election will take place from 6:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. in the office of L & H Used cars.

The voting machines for that election will be inspected at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 23. The inspection will take place at the Owens Storage Building on West Mountain Parkway.

For superintendent's post :

Eight listed as finalists

A Floyd County superintendent search committee reduced the number of candidates to eight Friday and one Floyd Countyman is in the running.

Gary Frazier, assistant superintendent of instruction, emerged from the field of over 100 applicants to be in contention for the county's top school post.

Frazier was the only finalist selected from Floyd County and Kentucky. Other finalists are:

•Dennis Demcho, a three-year superintendent of Buckeye Central Schools in Chatfield, Ohio.

•Frank Cummings, an 18-year superintendent from Cape Cod, Massachusetts.

•William Zitterkoph, a 10-year superintendent from Scottsbluff, Nebraska.

•Michael Eberbaugh, an 11-year superintendent and former school board member from Petersburg, West Virginia.

•William J. Jutras, a five-year superintendent from North Conway, New Jersey.

•Jerry Austin, a 15-year superintendent, who was named the state's top superintendent in 1989, from South Hill, Virginia.

•James K. Walter, an assistant superintendent of buildings and transportation in Akron, Ohio.

The five-member search committee will narrow the list to five after candidates are interviewed May 8-10. The eight finalists will also appear at a public forum May 9 at 7 p.m. at May Lodge.

The five finalists will be presented to the Floyd County School Board at their May 12 meeting.

The school board does not have to choose anyone from the committee's list under Kentucky's Education Reform Act.

The new superintendent will replace Ron Hager whose contract was not renewed by the board. Hager was suspended without pay from his post April 10 by the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education after Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen charged him with willful neglect of duty and misconduct in office.

The state board appointed Eldon J. Smith, a retired superintendent from the Glasgow Independent School System, to act as interim superintendent for Floyd County.

A May 11 date was set for a hearing to decide if Hager should be removed from office.

Narrow escape :

Job Corps student hit by train

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

A Job Corps student was struck by a train early Friday morning and, miraculously, emerged relatively unscathed.

Rocky Ward, 25, originally of Florida, was hit by a CSX Transportation train near the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center. Fortunately for Ward, the train was traveling under 15 m.p.h., and merely pushed him along the tracks rather than running over him.

Ward had apparently been lying across the tracks. Job Corps Spokesperson Len Grant said Tuesday that Ward had no memory of what occurred.

At approximately 2:25 a.m. on Friday, April 18, the unidentified engineer of the train called the Prestonsburg City Police Department and reported that he had inadvertently struck a man. Both the police and fire departments responded to the call.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said that the train's engineer backed the

'Relax and embrace' ideas

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A push is on to educate school district personnel and the public about the concept of site based decision making (SBDM), a part of Kentucky's Education Reform Act.

Bernie Carr, division director of SBDM for the Kentucky Department of Education, met with teachers, parents and members of SBDM councils Monday at Adams Middle School. Carr said the meetings were question and answer sessions to provide detailed information about school councils.

Carr met in three separate sessions with teachers, parents and Floyd County SBDM council members.

"Teachers are apprehensive about the process because they're not sure what their responsibilities are," Carr said. "I met with about 25 teachers and their questions dealt with their frustrations that their schools had not voted for site based."

Spreading knowledge and information, plus "relaxing and embracing" the SBDM concept is the key to teacher involvement, Carr said. The Kentucky Education Association (KEA), a professional teachers' group, recently passed a resolution endorsing SBDM.

"Some teachers don't want SBDM because they think it will be a lot of extra work," Carr said. "In fact, it's not. Some say they need to get the primary school program in place before voting for site based."

In addressing reports that teachers have been intimidated by administrators to vote against SBDM, Carr said a new law was passed by the legislature that would protect teachers.

House Bill 182 prohibits any board member or school administrator from interfering with any council vote.

"If a teacher can prove they were intimidated not to vote for SBDM, they can report it to the Office of

Recktenwald is named to panel

Eileen A. Recktenwald of Prestonsburg, director of Rape Victim Services, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, has been appointed to serve on a special task force aimed at the prevention and punishment of child sexual abuse in Kentucky.

The task force is comprised of prosecutors, judges, legislators, health care workers, law enforcement officials and representatives of other disciplines who work on behalf of this issue. Beginning next month, the task force will meet monthly, and will develop new policies and model legislation designed to improve the protection now afforded to Kentucky's children.

he "should attend the (regular) meeting."

Parker responded that he had wanted an "informal" meeting, not a special closed meeting.

City attorney Greg Isaac explained that an informal meeting could be held, but that no official action could be taken. Isaac also told the three that the utility commission was to report to Parker who would in turn report to the city.

Randall Johnson asked if that meant Parker could give orders to the utility commissioners or workers. Isaac said he was unsure about that issue, but that he doubted it.

"You can't order me to do nothing, so lay off," Randall Johnson told Parker. "I don't have to report to you. I will not, I will never call that meeting for you."

"Look how you're talking," Parker said. "It's like you're there on your throne and we're on ours and don't come over here. It's the ongoing saga of a breakdown in communication. The utilities has always been a problem because the utilities control the money in this town."

Randall Johnson said there were no problems in the utility department.

Mayor Johnson jumped in saying he agreed there was a lot of confusion but some of that stemmed from talk that someone was taking money from that department.

"I'd like to clear myself," the mayor said. "If somebody's got proof of that take it to (Commonwealth Attorney Jerry) Patton and ask for a criminal investigation. I see no problems (in that department)."

"Don't tell me this Mr. Clean," Parker told the mayor. "We've always had problems. It's a new regime and there is a problem."

"I may not be Mr. Clean, but there's a few things I haven't done," the mayor retorted.

Mayor Johnson then withdrew from his pocket a letter from the Kentucky Rural Water Works which dealt with Parker attending a recertification class for water testing.

The mayor asked Parker if he wanted him to read the contents of the letter to the audience and then threw the paper down which landed at Parker's feet.

Cries of "read it" came from the audience.

Parker then picked up the letter and read it to the public. He explained that he did not imply he worked for the utility commission when took the class in 1990.

"I could run a few more things by you," the mayor said.

"Sling a little more mud mayor," Parker said.

Commissioner Andy Akers interrupted the argument saying, "We don't need to keep fighting. Let's sit down and do business to satisfy the people in this city. We don't need to argue in public, I'd rather do it before we come in here."

In other action Thursday, Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson gave the commissioners a report on the effort to locate a minimum security prison in Wheelwright.

Thompson said the citizen's advisory council, Bob Meyer of Big Sandy Area Development District and development authority director Darrell Gilliam were planning to meet to discuss an incentive package. Thompson said that request proposals to construct the prison would be mailed out May 1 and bids be let the first week in June. He said construction should begin no later than August 1 and the prison is scheduled to be finished by April 1, 1993.

Thompson also said that plans are in the works to upgrade the city's olympic size swimming pool that included making the pool smaller and adding a kiddie pool.

Commissioners also:

- went into closed session to discuss acquisition of property;
- heard a report from police chief Charles Harmon;
- approved the filing of a community development block grant for housing; and
- held second reading of an ordinance amending involving auxiliary police and first reading of an ordinance amending the annual budget.

All commissioners were present at Thursday's meeting. The next scheduled meeting of the commission is Thursday, May 21 at 7 p.m. at city hall. The meetings are open to the public.

told Francis that he had been contacted by "a number" of people who signed the petition who claimed they did not know what they were signing. "They asked to remain anonymous because they didn't want to make anybody mad," Hammond told Francis.

"I'm sure everyone who signed the petition was in agreement with it at the time," Francis said.

After much discussion, Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens asked the judge to appoint a committee to study the issue.

"Right now I don't see any problems (at the golf course)," the judge said.

Hammond agreed there were problems, although he did not specify any particular problem.

"We know we have problems," Hammond said. "But, there's nothing perfect on earth but Jesus Christ."

Francis said he would keep attending the meetings until the issue is resolved.

In other action, the court agreed to study further a proposed ordinance relating to political campaign advertising. The proposed ordinance would require political candidates to pay for an advertising permit to post signs on public property.

The suggested fees are: political advertisements placed at a single location, $50; multiple advertisements placed in a single magisterial district, $200; multiple advertisements placed in more than one magisterial district but less than four districts, $250; advertisements placed throughout the county, $300.

The non-refundable fees would go toward removing and disposing of political advertisements abandoned by the candidates seeking public office. The permit would remain in effect until 14 days after the election.

Magistrate Owens objected to the proposed fees, saying the costs were too high. Owens said that the permits could generate as much as $18,800 every four years when the county-wide offices were on the ballot.

"It's too much to charge," Owens said. "It's not right for the people who want to run (for office). We're not in this place to make money."

The court agreed for a committee to study the proposed ordinance and make recommendations at the May court meeting.

Education Accountability who will investigate it," Carr said.

Carr, who worked with Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen in California, said he feels SBDM councils allow more input and knowledge of the issues at the local school level. "Better decisions are made and decisions are better carried out, more thoroughly," Carr said.

"It needs to be noted that this is a real changing time," Carr said. "There needs to be open communication and trust in place for SBDM to work. The key to the process is trust and honest and open communication. We don't need to be territorial, us versus them, the walls need to come down, for the kids' sake, and good things will start to happen."

Carr worked as a principal for 15 years in a California school system, dealing mainly with school councils. He said Boysen sought him out for the position and he has been with the department of education for eight months.

Under Kentucky's Education Reform Act all schools must have SBDM councils by 1996.

train to a convenient spot for the fire department's rescue team to board, then carried them to the scene of the accident. The rescue team then followed first aid procedures, fit Ward with a neck brace, and loaded him onto a backboard.

Grant said that although Ward sustained no apparent serious injury, he was air-lifted to the University of Kentucky's A.B. Chandler Medical Center as a precautionary measure. Staff members at the U.K. hospital confirmed that Ward had suffered no broken bones or internal injuries, and was merely badly bruised. Ward was released from the medical center on Saturday, and his mother and sister drove him back to Florida, where he will remain on a temporary leave of absence from the Job Corps program.

Waste regulations published in Kentucky administrative register

A modified version of the special waste regulation was sent by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet on March 12 to the Legislative Research Committee to be placed in the Kentucky Administrative Register. The cabinet was required by Senate Bill 2 to recognize "special" waste as a separate and distinct waste between hazardous and solid waste.

The main feature of the special waste package allows for permitting special waste landfills for the anticipated life of the facility instead of having to re-permit every 10 years. Other highlights of the special waste package address design requirements for landfills, classification of waste, certification of operators and permitting the co-disposal of wastes.

The special waste regulations will be published in the Kentucky Administrative Register on April 1. The public comment period will run from April 1 through April 30. Any changes will be republished June 1. The waste package will then go before two legislative subcommittees the first and third weeks of June. The regulations will go into effect at the end of June.

Public comments can be sent to Division of Waste Management, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, KY 40601. Contact James Hale at (502) 564-6716 for additional information.

Letters

Dear Editor:

In response to Mr. Patton's letter, I agree with one statement, "May's a man who rubbed some parents and teachers the wrong way." However, I would change the word some to the word most. Yes, I am one teacher who was certainly "rubbed the wrong way." On September 7, 1982, I was humiliated in front of a classroom of students and a few teachers by this so-called "great" principal. He slammed my classroom steel door with such force that my students and I were locked in and could not get out when the bell rang until one of my students climbed out the window to get help. This action certainly proves that May is not a "calm" man—just as Mr. Patton stated.

After having taught four long, miserable years under May, I certainly feel that he lacks professionalism, as far as treatment of students, parents, and teachers is concerned. I spent ten years at Prestonsburg High School—four of which were with May. I can testify that he is the most arrogant, intimidating and ruthless person I have ever met.

I find it absurd for Mr. Patton to make statements about previous principals and conditions of the school. Mr. Patton has not taught under any previous principal at Prestonsburg. May is his one and only. I hardly think that qualifies him to judge the others before May. May did not come in and "straighten the school up." That started long before his time with fine school administrators such as Bill Hughes, Gene Wright, John Shepherd, Bert Layne and Bobby Wells. Unlike Patton, I was there, and I feel I know more of the situation than he does.

Personally, I too, know how the majority of Prestonsburg's teachers really feel, and believe me—it's not like Mr. Patton portrays. I feel sure the faculty would feel set free at last if May really and truly leaves at last!

As far as May's "rejuvenating the pride and respect," I find this ridiculous. All I ever saw in my four years under him were teachers with low morale, unhappy students and very upset parents. In short, a hostile surrounding dominated the entire school. Needless to say, I left of my own free will. I simply could not see staying in a place where the principal made most everyone miserable.

I certainly hope May follows through with his retirement. This, in my opinion, would be a blessing!

Dear Editor:

In response to John Patton's letter concerning Robert May, shouldn't this have been printed in your April 1st edition of the paper?

Dear Editor:

This letter is to express appreciation to Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson for his efforts in improving the roads in and around Floyd County. The undersigned travel the road leading through Town Branch going to and from work each day and we really appreciate all the tree cutting and repairing of the road in that area. This is not an especially safe road to travel under the best of conditions, but, having these improvements made has made traveling it a little easier and safer.

So many times, promises are made with good intentions, but somehow are forgotten about or get shifted to the bottom of the list. The problems do not get any better, nor do people's attitudes about them. We just felt when someone is really trying to improve our road situation they need to be complimented publicly and given a round of applause for their efforts.

Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to your editorial in the April 10 edition of the Times, concerning the consideration of Gary K. Frazier for superintendent of Floyd County Schools.

Mr. Frazier is certainly very well qualified for the position. Also, he has some very creative and progressive ideas that would improve education in Floyd County.

However, there is a catch that many people do not understand. I learned about it first hand. You see, many of the people in leadership positions in this county do not feel that people from this area are as qualified as persons from areas away from here. Although the credentials are excellent for our local people, others seem to get chosen for the higher paying positions sending the money of their salaries to pay taxes, purchase homes, pay utilities, and other expenditures to other counties. I say this is very very wrong.

Recently, a new principal was chosen for Betsy Layne High School and Gary Frazier was the chairman of the school-based council that made this selection by unanimous vote. That council, led by Mr. Frazier, looked right over the heads of our highly qualified local personnel, and didn't stop there, in addition their action resulted in the selection of an assistant principal for BLHS from another county. This act, in essence, sent over $130,000 per year to other areas to be spent. How would you take things if your or your child's potential lifetime earnings were reduced by over $200,000 and handed to someone equally qualified but from far away? I didn't like it! And you know something else, that council is composed of people that may soon find themselves or their children wanting to find employment "near home". I wonder if those jobs will be given away?

Let me say this, maybe Mr. Frazier could be a good superintendent if he can make the hard decisions. First, he needs to fill all positions with QUALIFIED local people if at all possible (remember our local people have an investment in local education, outsiders are usually here to make money or they would have stayed where they were). Second, he needs to show a commitment to education and personal improvement of our educators. Third, he needs to assure the board that he will not grant tenure to the outsiders that are currently filling too many of the "grave jobs" in this county (local unemployment is too high and it may be your child wanting to work here in the future). Fourth, and most importantly, he must show an undying commitment to putting the money in the classroom where it belongs (our classrooms sometimes look like jail cells because no one put the materials necessary for quality education in those rooms).

My mind says, "this man is well qualified," but my gut says, "this guy has helped screw over my family twice and I'm not sure it's over yet." I am extremely cautious about ever giving him another chance with my future.

I intend to be open and fair in all things I pursue so I can not close without saying, new superintendent's from other areas always bring a parade of close friends and former associates to fill their high paying upper management positions. The board of education must be very cautious in their selection and not give the new superintendent a three-year "free show" by giving him or her a four-year contract. I suggest a one-year contract so the new superintendent will listen to the Board and the "voices" spoken from within this county.

Floyd County is facing a major turning point for education. Are we going to look into the mirror, or are we going to look out the window? What do you want? Let your voice be heard.

Thanks for giving me the moment it took you to read this letter.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

CONTINUING OUR EFFORTS FOR KENTUCKY AVIATION

A few months ago in a Report to Kentucky, I wrote about several airport projects underway all across the Commonwealth. I am pleased to report that through the efforts and hard work of many interested citizens, airport officials and government officials, I have two recent success stories to report on.

As chairman of the Senate Aviation Subcommittee, I have long believed that the development of safe and efficient airports are one of our most promising tools for economic development in large and small communities across our state.

I have also believed that most any problem arising from expansion or development at an airport can be addressed if all interested parties—including citizen groups, airport officials and the various air carriers—come together in a cooperative effort to work out a solution that will benefit all involved.

In my opinion, we saw a sterling example of that cooperation recently in the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport and Delta Airline's announcement that they will jointly take action to reduce noise at the airport.

For the past fifteen months, I have been working with many to develop a plan that will immediately give short-term relief to the residents of northern Kentucky who have suffered with the constant irritant of airplane noise. I believe this plan announced by Delta and the airport is a step in the right direction.

Among the steps to be taken are:

- Increasing the use of new, quieter aircraft by 38% over departures last summer;
- Eliminating all older and noisier aircraft by the end of this year;
- Accelerating the completion of the Part 150 noise study;

- Using proceeds from a passenger facility charge for noise mitigation.

In addition to these short-term efforts, we have also worked toward finding a long-term solution to the noise problems.

At this writing, we are expecting that our efforts will be met with success by a multi-million dollar commitment from the federal government for noise mitigation, runway expansion and other projects designed for continued improvement at the airport.

This same spirit of cooperation was evident in last week's decision by USAir to offer nonstop service from Washington National Airport in D.C. to Lexington Bluegrass Airport.

This roundtrip flight, which has been a high priority for the Central Kentucky Air Service Task Force, will begin on June 1st and reduce travel time by approximately two hours by eliminating current stopovers at other airports.

We were able to secure this service by joining together my office, the Task Force and airport officials to offer our arguments in favor of this service and achieving USAir's approval for a flight that will benefit central Kentuckians.

These are just a couple recent examples of how cooperation and teamwork can bring great results for our aviation projects in Kentucky.

We've had tremendous success in the past, including the ongoing expansion at Standiford Field in Louisville, a reliever airport in Scott County and an instrument landing system at the Bowling Green airport.

I hope all Kentuckians join with me as we continue working toward a safe and efficient aviation system in the Commonwealth.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Debates over a flat-rate income tax have been around quite awhile and they are surfacing again in this year's elections.

Presidential candidates Bill Clinton and Jerry Brown are on the bandwagon as is 5th District congressional candidate Ned Pillersdorf.

Pillersdorf's proposal has a twist, though.

He has different flat rates for different income levels, ranging from a minimum of six percent to a high of 20 percent.

Pillersdorf says he thinks "rich people ought to pay a higher rate" and his plan is "consistent with Governor Clinton's call for tax fairness."

What, pray tell, is "fair" about taxing one segment of our population at a rate more than three times higher than another?

Do they get three times the benefits of government?

Lord, let's hope not.

Under Pillersdorf's plan, a person who made $100,000 would pay $20,000 in taxes while a person who made $10,000 would pay $600.

If our mathematics are correct, the person who made $100,000 made ten times the amount made by the person who earned $10,000 but paid almost 34 times the amount in taxes.

That's tax "fairness?"

the same math class.

Here's another amazing story from the campaign trail...

Carol Hubbard has reportedly suggested that one answer to our economic development woes can be found in factory outlet malls.

Mrs. Hubbard thinks that if we have more outlet malls in Eastern Kentucky, more women will spend money and more jobs will be created.

Her motto, no doubt: When the going gets tough, the tough go shopping.

Let's move on...

In the non-race of non-presidential candidate H. Ross Perot, the Texas bazillionaire has spent nearly a half-million bucks to see if he has a chance to be Mr. None-Of-The-Above in November.

In case you didn't know, Perot was the author of a school reform plan in Texas that was the basis for many of the reforms now in place in Kentucky.

Who knows, maybe this Ross for Boss campaign is just what we need to get a message through to Washington, where the phone has been off the hook for some time on both sides of the Capitol aisle.

Meanwhile, back at the White House...

The President and Congress appear ready to call a truce in the exchange over which branch of government has the lead in shafting the taxpayers of America.

The fingerpointing and bad-mouthing over who has the most tax-funded job perks may be over.

The reason?

Both sides have realized that the more they say, the more disgusted the electorate becomes and the more likely that neither side will be invited back this fall.

Counts two and three of the indictment carry a potential penalty of not more than five years, a fine of $250,000, or both.

The indictment stems from a joint investigation by the Kentucky State Police and the Shelby County Ohio Sheriff's Department.

The indictment of a person by a grand jury or the charge of a person by information or otherwise is an accusation only, and that person is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty or otherwise pleads guilty.

Deadline for HEAP program extended due to mild winter

The final segment of Kentucky's 1991-92 Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) has closed and state officials say the lack of extended periods of harsh weather enabled the program to run past its scheduled March 29 termination date.

When final HEAP figures are calculated, an estimated $19.7 million in assistance will have reached approximately 190,000 households, according to Department for Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson, whose agency is responsible for the federal-state funded program in Kentucky.

Last year, about 193,000 households shared $20.9 million in aid.

"The state of the economy and the increased public awareness efforts of the community action agencies account for the sustained high number of applicants," said Robinson.

The state's 23 community action agencies distribute HEAP funds in their respective communities. "Since the winter was another relatively mild one, some community action agencies still had funds at the end of last month," Robinson said, "so the program was allowed to continue for another two weeks (through April 15). By doing so, we were able to help a few more families during the early April cold spell."

Over 123,000 applications — a record number — were approved during the subsidy phase of the program which is for all eligible low-income Kentuckians. The average payment during the first phase was $113.92.

"One reason for the high number of recipients during the first phase is because the majority of this year's HEAP funds were earmarked for the first phase," said Robinson.

"We wanted to reach as many eligible families before the onset of the really cold winter weather in order to avoid emergency situations for many Kentuckians."

During the crisis phase of HEAP, which is for households facing an imminent loss of heat within five days, facing a disconnection from a utility or needing heating system repairs, over 67,000 applications were approved for assistance. The average payment during the crisis phase was $83.67.

HEAP subsidy benefits help pay for fuel oil, electricity, gas, wood, coal and bottled gas.

Federal government expenditures will decline over the 1990-2005 period because of cuts in defense expenditures, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. This is a major change from the 1975-1990 period when defense expenditures increased faster than the total gross national product.

Job slots open for senior citizens

Seniors in the Big Sandy area who want to add to their income have an excellent opportunity through the service of the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program's Senior Citizen's Program.

The program has several openings for senior citizens who want to work part-time. Seniors will work 40 hours during a two-week pay period and will be paid minimum wage.

Registration to begin May 1

Registration for Morehead State University's 1992 Counseling Summer Drug Education Institute will be conducted May 1 through May 15 by mail only.

Scheduled June 15-19 on MSU's campus, the intensive program is designed for school counselors, psychologists, nurses and social workers, according to Dr. Paul A. Turgi, MSU assistant professor of education and Institute director.

"Topics related to substance abuse prevention and treatment will be covered in an attempt to help school professionals deal with what has become a serious problem in our schools," Dr. Turgi said.

There is no registration fee for the Institute, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Education. Graduate credit, CEUs and Kentucky Leadership credits will be available to participants.

Information on registration procedures is available by writing the MSU Counseling Drug Education Institute, Morehead State University, P.O. 793, Morehead, KY 40351-1689, or by calling (606) 783-2998 or (606) 783-2261.

As space is limited, interested individuals are encouraged to contact the Institute as soon as possible, said Dr. Turgi.

Valet parking now available at Pikeville Methodist Hospital

No longer will you need to hunt for a parking place at Pikeville Methodist Hospital. Beginning Monday, April 27, a trained attendant will park your car for you. The valet parking service will be free for anyone who wishes to use it.

Deputy administrator for patient services, Dorothy Carter, said, "This is just another service Pikeville Methodist is offering in keeping with our commitment to provide the most modern medical center to the people of our area. We are the only facility that I know of outside of Louisville which offers this service. We feel it will be especially helpful to those utilizing our services such as lab work, physical therapy and out-patient surgery."

The valet parking will be administered by trained security personnel and cars will be parked in a specially marked lot. To take advantage of this service, drive up to the glass enclosed booth attached to the front of the hospital. The attendant will give you a claim ticket and park your car. When you are ready to leave, present your claim ticket to the attendant will bring your car to you.

There is no charge for this service. It will be available Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. For those unable to leave by 5:00, a regular security guard will be available to retrieve your vehicle. While the valet service will not be available on weekends, the area can be used for routine parking.

Jim Norris, hospital administrator, said, "We realize that parking can be a real problem for our outpatients, and we are offering this service in keeping with our commitment to provide the best care possible for our patients. Pikeville Methodist Hospital has always been and continues to be a vital part of this community. We try to anticipate what our people need and then make every effort to provide those services for them."

This service is also available to those visiting hospital patients. For more information or if you have any questions, please call the hospital patient representative at 437-3535.

Wiz kids needed

Is your child funny? talented? like to sing? dance? If you answered Yes to any of these questions, then we've got the perfect way for your child to spend summer vacation—singing and dancing in Jenny Wiley Theatre's 28th season's productions!

Auditions for the roles of Munchkins in the upcoming The Wizard of Oz, and other children's parts in The Jenny Wiley Story and Big River, are set for Saturday, April 25, from noon until 5 p.m. No pre-registration is required for the open auditions which will be held in the student center on the campus of Prestonsburg Community College.

If your children are 7-years-old or older and can sing, then bring them out and let them try their luck! They will need to prepare a short song as well as a small speaking part such as recitation of a poem or a monologue.

"Up to 25 children are needed for this year's shows. So come by and show us what you can do," said Jenny Wiley Theatre general manager Tedi Vaughan.

For more information or ticket reservations, phone (606) 886-9274.

KET's Comment on Kentucky airs live from Ashland, April 24

The G.B. Johnson Center in Ashland will be the site for a special broadcast of Comment on Kentucky, KET's weekly public affairs analysis program, on April 24. The program will be held in conjunction with the Fifth Annual East Kentucky Leadership Conference.

Comment on Kentucky "Live from Ashland" airs on KET at 8:00/7:00 p.m. CT Friday, April 24. A taped repeat will air at 12:30 p.m./11:30 a.m. CT Sunday, April 26.

Joining co-producer/host Al Smith for this special edition will be Russ Powell, editor of the Ashland Daily Independent, and three other journalists.

Comment on Kentucky, with its opinion and analysis format, attempts to approach the stories behind the headlines, rather than just recapping the week's major news. Smith, a veteran journalist and host of the show since its premiere in 1974, explains, "Comment is designed to tackle issues dealing with business, education, and government on a statewide level. The reporters are given a chance to reflect, interpret, and provide background on Kentucky leaders and events."

The East Kentucky Leadership Conference is a gathering of community leaders from all walks of life to discuss the problems and challenges facing Eastern Kentucky. This year's conference will include a tribute to KET founder O. Leonard Press, who retired as the network's executive director last October and now serves as president of the KET Foundation.

Safe boating requires use of personal flotation devices

In January, eight people launched a 16-foot boat near Uniontown in western Kentucky for a picnic and overnight camping trip on an island in the Ohio River. What started as an uneventful trek up the river quickly turned into the worst recreational boating accident in Kentucky history. Only one boater survived. Seven people are missing and presumed drowned. Officials say there are several factors that contributed to the accident. However, the most deadly combination appears to be the lack of personal flotation devices (PFDs) in the boat and the low water temperature. "January isn't usually considered prime time for boating, but there are hunters and fishermen who pursue their sport year-round, despite cold temperatures," said Col. Donovan Smith, director of the Kentucky Water Patrol. "A fall overboard or a cap-sized boat can mean certain death unless boaters are wearing a personal flotation device. Even good swimmers are no match for the instant numbing effect of cold water."

While state law does not require people to wear personal flotation devices while on a boat, the Kentucky Water Patrol strongly recommends people involved in activities on or around cold water wear them. Even in warm weather, officers advise PFDs should be worn, especially by children and non-swimmers. On boats 16 feet or longer, there must be a PFD for each person plus one throwable PFD. On boats less than 16 feet and canoes and kayaks of any length, there must be a PFD for each person. For more information about safe boating rules or to receive a copy of the Kentucky Water Patrol's "Kentucky Boating Guide," call toll free 1-800-828-2628.

Jenny Wiley Chapter AARP 3528 holds dinner meeting

Members of Jenny Wiley Chapter AARP 3528 held their regular monthly dinner-meeting on Friday evening, April 17, at 5:30, with Mrs. Gladys S. Allen, presiding. Orville Cooley opened the meeting with prayer, and led the group in the pledge of allegiance to the American Flag. Due to the absence of Mrs. Shirley Callihan, secretary, Mrs. Sina Blanton read the minutes of the last meeting, and James E. Goble gave the financial report.

Mr. Orville Cooley, chairman of the committee for AARP's participation in the forthcoming Festival of FACES, urged members to take part in this event. It was reported that the workshop held in Winchester on April 9 concerned "Reform Health Care," and this chapter has requested a video on the 1991 Health Care Reform to be presented to this group in the near future.

It was also reported that "55 Alive" classes will once again be provided by AARP, provided 15 request this course this spring and/or fall.

Mrs. Beverly Goble, representing the Big Sandy Mended Hearts, Inc., Chapter 220, presented an interesting and worthwhile video on "The Origin of Mended Hearts," by four patients in Boston, Mass., in 1951. The film explained how trained or accredited visitors with Mended Hearts visit patients and their families before and after heart surgery, or heart attacks, and how they offer support for heart patients by sharing educational materials, and personal experiences.

There are now approximately 30,000 members of Mended Hearts, Inc., nationwide, and they are continually updating their knowledge of heart disease, and visiting techniques by attending workshops. Mrs. Goble is an accredited visitor and has been an active member of the Big Sandy Mended Hearts since this organization was chartered in the fall of 1989. She has attended two national conventions, is banquet chairperson, and is the wife of the President of Chapter 220, Freddie Lee Goble.

Present for this dinner meeting were: Gladys S. Allen, Roberta Crider, Arnold Crider, Flem Blanton, Sina Blanton, James E. Goble, Gladys Cooley, Orville Cooley, Hager White, Elva Spradlin, Herbert Spradlin, Annabelle Maggard, Ada Meade, Matilda Johnson, Maman Leslie, Fannie Runnels, Alice Harris, Lucy C. Regan, Pearl Robertson, Jack Freed, Delmas Saunders, Edna Saunders, Alka Burchett, Beverly Goble, Dorothy Osborne, Burieta Gearhart, and Ruby Akers.

The next dinner meeting will be Friday evening, May 15, at 5:30, at this same location—the Highlands Regional Medical Center cafeteria. The president and other officers extend a cordial invitation to attend.

Have a cheeseburger—your style
It all started after the hamburger reached America in the 1800s. Hamburgers were so popular they were served everywhere—and then White Castle opened its doors in Wichita, Kansas in 1920 and quickly became the first hamburger chain. Competition in this field flourished, so someone had the creative idea of topping one of those burgers with cheese. Thus, the cheeseburger was born, giving that person the competitive edge in the fast food business.

Now, there's such a selection of cheeseburger concoctions to choose from, one seldom hears the order for a plain cheeseburger. At home, inventive cooks have learned to prepare their own style of cheeseburgers.

As idea starters, here are some nutritious and delicious ideas from the kitchen of the Southeast United Dairy Industry Association.

cheese is melted. Top with remaining slice of bread and serve immediately.

Cheese varieties inspire great snacks

What does it take to make a good snack? One way to go is to pick from basic foods such as cheese, vegetables or wheat crackers.

Cheese is a good choice to have in the refrigerator because it's nutritious and provides a quick snack. Real American cheese melts easily for a hot dip for vegetables, chips and crackers. It takes only moments to broil Swiss cheese as a topping for vegetables on a large cracker. Mix Colby and cream cheeses with water chestnuts and give them a roll in sesame seeds for a cold snack.

Mild, nutlike Edam and Gouda are interesting when scooped out of their waxed coatings with a small melon ball cutter, then put back in the shell. Or, mix either of the cheeses with cream, mustard and ground ham for a spread served from the shell.

Strong cheeses like blue-veined Gorgonzola and Blue may be blended with cream or Neufchatel for a spread, dip, or made into small balls, rolled in parsley.

Let your guests take the cheese challenge with a snack tray made from genuine cheeses, all made in America: a sharp Cheddar cheese wedge; smoky tasting, half-moon slices of Provolone; mild Muenster triangles; creamy Brie to spread on vegetables with a butter knife or firm and somewhat salty Fontina in small wedges. They're a perfect foil for an assortment of fruits or vegetables.

ZIPPY SPINACH DIP

about 3 cups
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1/3 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour

2 cups light cream OR half and half
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded American cheese
2/3 cup salsa ranchera (mild or hot)

2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
Nacho chips

Cook spinach according to package directions; drain well; set aside. Melt butter in medium sized saucepan. Saute' onion until tender, about 3 minutes. Stir in flour until well blended. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in cream. Bring to boiling over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in cheese until completely melted. (If necessary return to low heat to finish melting cheese. Do not boil.) Stir in salsa, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Stir in spinach. Serve warm with nacho chips.

VEGGIE SNACKS

makes 20
Large size sesame crackers
20 small thin tomato slices
3 tablespoons + 1 teaspoon Dijon-style prepared mustard

1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli spears, cooked and drained
5 slices (1 ounce each) Swiss cheese, each cut in 4 squares

Place crackers on cookie sheet. Place 1 tomato slice on each cracker. Spread approximately 1/2 teaspoon mustard over each tomato. Remove stems from broccoli*, cut flowerets into 20 small bunches. Place 1 bunch on each tomato. Top each with a square of cheese. Broil several inches from source of heat until cheese is melted. Serve immediately.

* NOTE: Use to make cream of broccoli soup, in stir-fried dishes, etc.

HAWAIIAN CHEESE LOG

about 3 cups
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Colby cheese

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened

1/2 cup chopped water chestnuts
1/3 cup EACH: chopped green pepper, chopped green onion

1 1/2 teaspoons soy sauce
Toasted sesame seed

Beat Colby and cream cheeses in small mixer bowl on high speed of mixer until well combined. Stir in water chestnuts, green pepper, green onion and soy sauce; blend well. Shape mixture into a log approximately 8 inches long and 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Roll in toasted sesame seed. Serve with carrot slices, celery and green pepper squares.

Eating Habits Might Need A Spring Tune-up, Too

It's time to tune up the car, clean the basement and start those home repair projects. Spring also is a good time to make changes in eating habits, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal.

Gunkler suggests building a shopping plan around meals and snacks for the entire week. A good plan can help assure that your kitchen cupboards and refrigerator shelves include healthful choices like these:

• Plenty of fruits—Fresh fruits are in good supply for snacks, desserts and salads. Choose canned fruit packed in fruit juices.

• A wide variety of vegetables—Fresh vegetables are great for spring salads and side dishes. Frozen vegetables without sauces also are good choices.

• Lots of whole-grain foods—Whole-grain pasta and rice are delicious foundations for side dishes and main dishes. Stock your shelves with whole-grain cereals and breads, too.

• Lean meats, poultry and fish—To get the protein we need, health experts recommend about 6 ounces daily, with a 3-ounce portion being roughly the size of a deck of cards. Substitute dry beans periodically for a main dish or casserole. Use lean beef or turkey in sandwiches.

• Low-fat dairy products—For snacks and meals, stock up on low-fat or nonfat milk, yogurt and cheese. Choose dairy desserts with little or no fat.

• Special treats—There are lots of ways to satisfy the sweet tooth without adding excess fat or calories. Enjoy frozen fruit or juice bars with no added sugar. Select cookies that are lower in fat and calories, such as graham crackers, animal crackers and ginger-snaps. Try rice cakes spread with all-fruit preserves.

Tuning up your eating habits with changes like these is just as important as tuning up your car or spring cleaning the house, concludes Gunkler.

UK horticulturist presented award

C. R. Roberts, an Extension horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, has been awarded the H. M. Covington Extension award by the Southern Region of the American Society for Horticultural Science.

Roberts, a member of UK's faculty for the past 24 years, was recognized for his "outstanding and valuable contributions to horticulture" at the society's meeting in Lexington.

Since coming to the University of Kentucky in 1967, Roberts has expanded and developed the vegetable industry in the state. He organized the Kentucky Vegetable Growers Association in 1970, and served on its board of directors. He also produced its newsletter.

Roberts' contact with vegetable processing companies has resulted in two pepper companies, three potato chip companies and three tomato processors to contract for vegetable production in the state.

In 1968, Roberts initiated, with the Wayne County Extension agent, a plan to establish a vegetable cooperative in that county. As a result, the Cumberland Farm Product Vegetable Cooperative was built. Now, that cooperative has expanded to two locations with annual sales exceeding $1.5 million. It provides services for more than 500 vegetable growers in south-central Kentucky.

Roberts also initiated a statewide program to monitor wild ginseng populations across the state. More than 200 one-acre plots have been identified with the help of county extension agents. His work with marketing the herb has resulted in more than $52 million worth of ginseng being sold.

Roberts, a native of Oklahoma, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Oklahoma State University and his doctorate from Texas A & M University.

Be aware of spring fire season

Warming weather trends after two unseasonable freezes in Kentucky could pose a threat to the state's valuable hardwood forest supplies — through forest fires.

"The ingredients for severe forest fires are all present for the next few warm weekends," said Doug McLaren, extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Those ingredients include "cabin fever," as people look for ways to get out of the house they've been cooped up in, he said. More people think of picnics and cookouts. Warm temperatures bring a desire to prepare fields for planting.

"All of this added to dry leaf litter which abounds right now in our forest floors means a potential threat for fires to get out of control," McLaren said. "Brisk spring winds can help move the fires quickly."

Farmers or landowners should understand that any fires they start which get out of control are the responsibility of the individual who initiates the fire.

"If a forest fire can be attributed to you, you will be responsible for suppression costs of fighting that fire," he said.

McLaren also pointed out that Kentucky has a 4:30 p.m. burning law. No fires in close proximity to a wooded area are legal before that time, he said.

Additional information on forest fire regulations can be obtained from the local Kentucky Division of Forestry, he said.

SIMPLE LANDSCAPING TECHNIQUES ADD TO HOME'S BEAUTY AND VALUE

While your lawn may be getting a lot of attention during the spring planting season, you may be overlooking some simple landscaping improvements that can give your home and its surroundings a beautiful new appearance all year.

Landscape experts at the Hyponex Corporation say spring is the perfect time to make landscaping additions and improvements. They recommend a simple and inexpensive do-it-yourself program that will have aesthetic and practical benefits ranging from improved energy efficiency to increased home value:

* Sketch your property to determine environmental factors. Even a rough sketch will help you identify shade patterns, areas with hard soil and poor drainage, water run-off and rainfall patterns, and the location of utility lines. The sketch should show existing vegetation that you intend to keep in your new design.

* Create a design on paper. Determine first what purpose you want the landscaped space to serve. Will it be a picnic area, a play area, a wildlife habitat, a privacy area, or simply decorative? Create the design by defining what vegetation best fits your intended purpose. Ask yourself which areas need shade, which need to be kept clear for views from the home, which areas should be defined by shrubs and similar plants, and where walkways need to be.

* Develop a plant list that puts the right plant in the right location. Use your design to select the approximate heights, shapes and forms of the plants you'll select. Match the plants with the environmental limitations (lack of sun or shade, drainage etc.) of your site. Also determine what maintenance levels are best for you. For example, fast-growing shrubs and trees will need more pruning and some plants will offer better resistance to disease problems. Plan to group plants with similar watering and nutrient needs.

* Determine your budget and set priorities. Using the sketch, design and plant lists you have made, consult with local resources such as your nearest cooperative extension service or garden center to verify your plant selections and obtain cost estimates. Don't over-extend your budget; you may need to phase-in your complete plan over several years.

* Using your local resources as a guide, shop for healthy, quality plants. Select plants that are insect, weed and disease-free, that have no signs of injury to the trunk, that have a good green leaf color, an abundance of leaves, and a healthy root system that is not pot-bound.

* Prepare the soil before planting. Fix drainage or surface run-off problems and add soil amendments such as peat moss, compost, manure or humus. It pays to buy quality soil amendment products such as those produced by Hyponex. Your local garden center can aid in the selection of these amendments. As a rule of thumb, about 2 to 3 inches of amendments should be mixed thoroughly into the top 6 to 12 inches of soil.

* Plant with tender loving care.

For shrubs and trees, dig a planting hole two to three times wider than the diameter of the root ball of the plant. Water-in thoroughly and create a water ring by mounding soil around the outside of the hole, creating a bowl to capture rainfall and irrigation water. For small plants such as annual or perennial flowers, the planting hole should be dug to the same depth at which the plant was growing when bought. After firming soil around the roots and watering in, apply a controlled-release garden fertilizer, weed control and/or mulch.

* Use mulch throughout your landscape area, not only to provide insulation for your plants, but to add attractiveness to your site. Hyponex experts recommend applying mulch at least 2 inches deep.

* Establish a preventive maintenance plan. With the same planning and detail you used to sketch your site and create a design, develop a maintenance plan and stick to it. Your planting plan should have grouped together plants with similar watering and nutrient needs. For each of these groups, develop a schedule to water efficiently and fertilize at proper times. Also, develop a pest management schedule that provides for regular inspection of plants for insects, diseases and weeds. Apply preventive controls at the proper time on susceptible plants.

For further information on landscaping materials or methods, see your local Hyponex retailer.

Presenting two performances

Sharon and Robin, a Christian musical duo, from Fort Wayne, Indiana, will be performing for two separate musical events in May at the Wilkinson Convention Center at Prestonsburg. First, they will be singing and speaking at the annual Mother-Daughter and Friends women's spring banquet, scheduled for May 16, at 5:30 p.m. Dinner tickets must be purchased in advance for this event. Second, they will be presenting a musical concert open to the public, Sunday, May 17, at 3 p.m., with a freewill offering taken afterwards.

Their music, which will include traditional, contemporary and original songs, is to be enjoyed by everyone. Sharon Hoffman studied voice at Indiana University where she achieved a music education degree with a minor in Biblical studies. Robin Howard studied piano at Butler University where she graduated with a secondary education major. Currently, she is pursuing a degree in Bible.

The duo ministers approximately 150 times a year at conferences, church services, women's retreats, camps and studio recordings. In 1987, during the Reagan administration, by special invitation, they presented the music for the National Prayer Breakfast in Washington, D.C.

These two events are sponsored by the Independent Christian Woman's Fellowship of Floyd County. To attend the banquet and take part in the activities of the evening including the naming of the "Mother of the Year," call 358-4380 by May 8. Everyone is welcome to attend the Sunday concert.

AILING SENIOR ABANDONED: By now, many of you may have read the distressing story of an older man who appears to have been abandoned ("dumped" might be a more accurate word) by someone who may not have been able to cope with the Alzheimer's Disease afflicting the 82-year-old man.

According to the most recent reports I read, the man was taken from his hospital in Oregon and removed to Idaho where he was found clutching a teddy bear. All clues to his identity had been removed. Someone saw him on television and identified him. Later, it was learned he'd left his wife and four children years earlier and, so far as they knew, he just vanished. Meanwhile, he had remarried and started another family. His four older children had no idea where he was until last month, and have since indicated they are happy to have him back in their lives.

I won't dwell on who the culprit might be. While that's an important part of this story, it is not as important as the realization that it confirms a terrible trend in this country: abandoning our sick and ailing parents. This case, of course, was the more dramatic for the way it happened.

However, reports have been coming in for a long time of elders left in city hospitals because their families are unable to care for them. In some cases, the older folks have Alzheimer's. Others have ailments requiring attention. Some are simply too frail to be left alone.

Before we become too judgmental, and talk about how parents are always able to care for children, but adult children can't seem to care for parents, let's remember that in this country, the costs of long term care, especially for a condition such as Alzheimer's, are overwhelming, and in many cases, are not covered by insurance. It's said most of the children of the people left in public facilities have acted in sorrow, but were confronted not just with the costs of custodial care for their parents, but also the expenses in raising their own youngsters.

How long before this country wakes up to the fact that this is a problem most other industrialized nations do not have? We desperately need a civilized health care system that does not abandon the citizens who contributed so much to their own families and to our country over their lifetimes.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

APRIL 20-26, 1992
EARTH DAY, APRIL 22.

AROUND THE WORLD
On April 22, 1884, Thomas Stevens embarked from San Francisco on his bicycle trip around the world. He spent the spring and summer pedaling across America and arrived in Boston 125 days later, on August 24th. (The current U.S. transcontinental record from west to east coast is 8 days, 9 hours, 47 minutes set by Pete Penseyres in July 1986. Of course, Pete's modern bike was quite different from the 50-inch front wheel model used by Mr. Stevens.) From there he took a boat to Europe and continued his journey, actually pedaling about 13,500 miles by December 17, 1886, when he arrived in Yokohama, Japan. Boarding the City of Peking in Yokohama, he continued on to San Francisco, completing his trip on January 4, 1887.

Well begun is half done.

TIP OF THE WEEK
Before painting, run a comb through the brush to remove loose bristles.

EARTHWISE
Starting your spring cleaning? Why not try a home-made cleaning solution instead of expensive and often toxic old standbys? A good all-purpose cleaner is 1/4 cup borax and 1/4 cup vinegar in 2 gallons hot water. Up to 1 tablespoon of liquid soap (not detergent) may be added. Vinegar cuts through mildew and borax disinfects and deodorizes. Borax is inexpensive, all-natural, non-toxic, and easily obtained. For more information call the Dial Corporation at 1-800-457-8739, and ask for their free booklet "Borax, The Magic Crystal".

DILL SAUCE
1 1/2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons fresh, chopped dill
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in small pan. Stir in flour and cook 1 minute, add chicken broth. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Add sour cream and stir until smooth. Add dill. Serve over boiled beef or cod fish. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Cold, rain and snow, then sunny and warm; rainy and cool south coast.

SOUTHEAST: Sunny and warm; cold snap, some rain; then clear and warm; rainy and cool coast.

MIDWEST: Cold, sleet and snow; clearing and warmer, then rain, cooler.

NORTHWEST: Clear and warm; sleet and cold east; rainy and cooler, then clearing.

SOUTHWEST: Clear and warm, then showers and milder; finally sunny and warm.

Lack of signature delays tax refund

Q: Darn, I forgot to sign my income tax return before mailing it to the IRS. I'm going on vacation and could use the money. Now what? — L.S., Kalamazoo, Mich.

A: The wait for your refund will take longer as a consequence of forgetting to sign the return. A tax return without a signature is considered by the IRS to be incomplete—almost like not having filed a return in the first place.

Unfortunately, you will now have to wait for a formal notification from the IRS requesting your signature. This will take additional time.

Q: If I give my tax preparer something very confidential, can the IRS obtain it from him? My accountant says immunity from the IRS is also part of state law.—L.W., San Jose, Calif.

A: He's a dreamer. The IRS operates under federal law where no such privilege exists.

Q: I am ready to retire soon because of job layoffs at work. Can I start withdrawing some of my IRA funds prior to the 59 1/2 age rule without being penalized if I do retire?—R.W., Savannah, Ga.

A: Only if you follow the specific guidelines outlined by the IRS. In general, the 10 percent early withdrawal penalty is waived if a pre-59 1/2 withdrawal from your IRA is part of a series of substantially equal distribution based on your life expectancy.

The rule that allows you to take a penalty-free early withdrawal states that you must make substantially equal withdrawals from your IRA for at least five years and until you are at least 59 1/2 years of age. After that, you can withdraw any amounts you wish without any penalty or problems.

Of course, all withdrawals are subject to income tax.

THE TAX ADVISER

GEORGE SMITH

Q: Are diaper service expenses a medical deduction? How about my birth control pills?—J.R., Trenton, N.J.

A: Half and half. The diaper expense is not an allowable deduction. The IRS says it is a personal expense and not a medical deduction. Birth control pills prescribed by your doctor are a deductible medical expense, provided you can exceed the 7 1/2 percent limitation for deducting medical expenses on Schedule A.

Q: If I receive an extension of time to file my income tax return can I still qualify for an IRA?—R.O., Charleston, S.C.

A: Yes, but not for last year. You can make contributions to your IRA (or to a spousal IRA) for a particular year anytime during that year, or by the due date of the return. The law does not include any extensions of time.

For most individuals, this means that IRA contributions must be made by April 15. You can make your IRA contributions anytime up to that date and still take your deduction for the prior year. You can even file your tax return later. But the actual payment into your IRA still has to be made by April 15. That's it!

Q: I did not file my tax return on time. I do not have the funds at the present time and I did not get an extension. What will it cost me?—P.T., Eugene, Ore.

A: If you do not file your return by the due date, you will have to pay interest on the amount you owe and you may have to pay a failure-to-pay penalty plus interest on the penalty.

You may also have to pay a failure-to-file penalty, plus interest. They'll let you know what it all adds up to.

Coal companies settle dispute

Addington Resources, Inc. (NASDAQ National Market: ADDR) recently announced a settlement in which Addington Resources and certain of its affiliates and Pyramid Mining, Inc. have agreed to dismiss their claims against each other in a 1990 U.S. District Court suit.

As a result of the settlement, Addington Resources expects to incur an after-tax charge of approximately $3.1 million against first quarter 1992 earnings.

"We expressly deny any liability for any claims," President Larry Addington said. "The settlement is in the best interests of the company. It compromises disputed claims for the purpose of avoiding litigation and the associated costs and expenses. These costs include legal fees and the distraction of our employees from our business operations."

Addington Resources mines and markets coal and is engaged in developing and operating integrated solid waste disposal systems.
