Victim claims he was "dusted":

No "gangs," director says

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The director of the Carl D. Perkins Job Corps Center in Prestonsburg said Thursday that she did not believe "organized gang" activities occurred at the center, but the victim of an alleged assault said that "dustings"—planned attacks on students—were not uncommon at the facility.

David Garcia, a former student at the Prestonsburg facility, alleged this week that as many as fourteen Job Corps students beat him in his room in an incident on January 10. Garcia also alleged that members of the center's staff were outside his room at the time of the assault but they did not intervene. He did not identify those individuals. Garcia said he was targeted for "dusting" after he was involved in an argument with a center instructor.

Center director Edna Higginbotham said Thursday she found Garcia's allegations "hard to believe."

Higginbotham, who has been director of the facility since June, said

It's here, at least part of it is, anyway. This Friday's edition of The Floyd County Times includes the first installment of a new, weekend section called:

Extra

The new section offers a variety of columns on all sorts of interesting topics, from lotteries to humor. You'll see more in the weeks to come...

She had "no recollection of other organized gang activities" and she didn't believe "we have that on the center."

Higginbotham did say, however, that local police were asked for assistance occasionally to help when students become intoxicated or unruly. She said Prestonsburg police were also called to arrest students who had been involved in fights. Prestonsburg police were called to the center 13 times over a period of 25 days between January 20 and February 13 to respond to various complaints.

City police records indicate they were not called by center personnel the night Garcia was allegedly attacked, and they learned of the incident only when they were approached by Garcia's mother the next day.

Higginbotham said Thursday that police were not notified immediately after the alleged attack because staff at the center were unaware of the incident until the next day.

Four adults and a juvenile were charged with fourth degree assault in connection with the January incident and a Job Corps counselor was arrested last week on charges he facilitated the attack on Garcia. Assault charges against the five were dropped after a February 5 court date when Garcia failed to appear at the hearing. Police said the charges will be reinstated because Garcia was unaware of the court hearing earlier this month.

Higginbotham said the counselor, Clarence Trammel Jr., 52, of Wheelwright, had been suspended from his job after his arrest pending disposition of the charges.

Trammel will be arraigned on March 4. He is currently free on bond.

Entertainment permit hearing draws crowd

Floyd County Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator Denzil Allen; County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo; Debbie Bailey of the county clerk's office; and County Attorney Jim Hammond were met Thursday by approximately 50 Allen city residents who had gathered in the meeting room and halls of the Floyd County Courthouse Annex to protest a roadhouse permit application for New Allen. ## Allen residents protest

by Dodie Webb
Staff Writer

Approximately 50 Allen city residents were at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex Thursday to protest an entertainment permit application that would allow, if approved, a beer by the drink roadhouse near a New Allen residential section.

The application was submitted by Darrell Preston of Ivel to sell beer by the drink and operate the Crossroads Lounge "three tenths of a mile from the intersection of U.S. 23 and Route 1428 at Allen," according to the Floyd County Court entertainment application. The application also noted that the business would offer live music and dancing between the hours of 4 p.m. to midnight and would be closed only on Sundays and major holidays.

Daniel Branson, an Allen resident and spokesman for the protestors, told the entertainment permitting committee that there was not adequate parking available and said that they felt that should the business be allowed to operate it would be a public nuisance in an otherwise peaceful and safe area of the city.

County Attorney Jim Hammond would not recommend an issuance of a business license for Crossroads based on an investigation of the proposed site and the proximity of it to the residential section of New Allen. Hammond cited "traffic flow through this residential section to get to the site...and the inadequacy of proper sewage serving the proposed business facility..." as determining factors relating to his recommendation.

Hammond said he had discussed the sewage issue with the Floyd County Board of Health prior to making his recommendation.

The application was denied by County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo.

Darrell Preston did not attend.

Warco businessmen disavow connection:

Mobile incinerator permit in limbo

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

No further information has been received by the state Division of Air Quality on an application by a North Carolina soil remediation company to locate a mobile soil incinerator in Floyd County.

Roger Cook, with the Division of Air Quality, said earlier this week that his office has not received the additional information from EnviroSpec that is needed to complete their application.

EnviroSpec has applied for a permit to locate a mobile soil incinerator at Warco, located between Martin and Maytown. The company's application did not say where in Warco the incinerator would be located, but indicated the site would encompass 10 acres and employ three people.

EnviroSpec president Richard Crosby said earlier this month that he was not aware why Warco had been chosen as the site and that his company did not have any contracts with any Floyd County business to accept contaminated soil.

Soil remediation involves incinerating soil, primarily contaminated with petroleum, to remove all the toxins.

Warco businessmen Terry and Larry Thornsberry placed an advertisement in Wednesday's Floyd County Times saying they were not involved or associated with the proposed incinerator.

Call-in show wants your input

A call-in program for citizens to make suggestions about what qualifications a superintendent of schools should possess has been set for Monday, February 24 on WPRG Channel 5.

"We take this opportunity to publicly state that we or none of our companies are involved with this project," the ad said. "We oppose the construction of such a project primarily due to the fact that our families live in this area."

The Thornsberrys are the owners of Warco Manufacturing Company Inc., located at Warco.

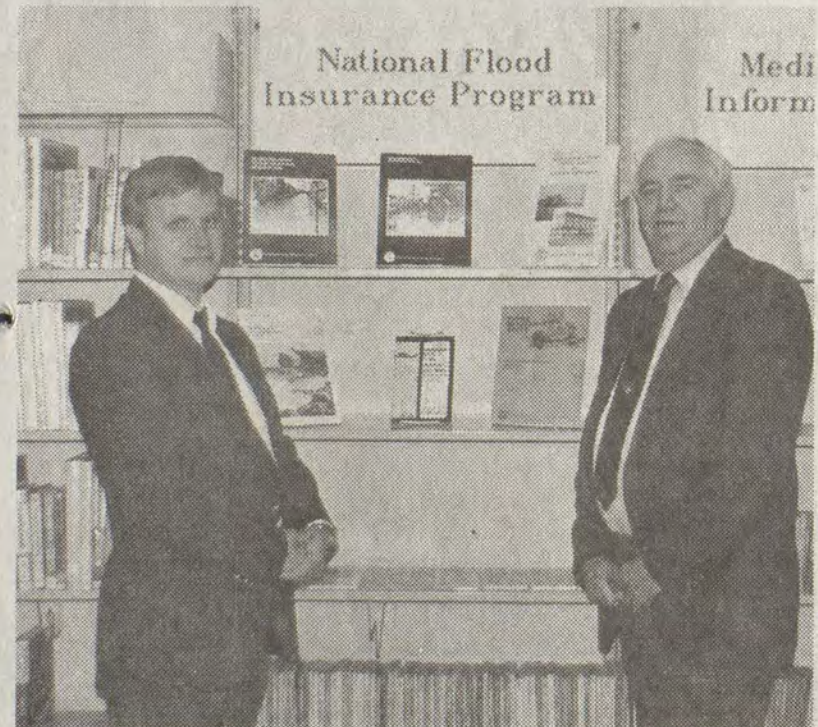

In a related issue, a bill introduced by Pike County legislators Thursday which would require local notice and public input before soil recycling facilities are permitted was passed unanimously by the House Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Committee. State Representative Herbie Deskins, D-Pikeville, sponsored the bill and is chairman of the committee.

House Bill 472 would require such facilities, which treat gasoline and diesel contaminated dirt to remove the toxins, to go through a process of public comment and obtain approval or disapproval by the local fiscal court before the state could issue permits for construction and operation.

The bill now goes to the House for a vote.

The Pike County bill is a result of recent protests by Pike Countians who are opposed to two proposed facilities for that county. Several dozen citizens attended the committee hearing Thursday in Frankfort to show their support for the bill and give testimony to the committee.

Specialist says in PCC seminar:

Abused often become abusers

by Dodie Webb
Staff Writer

Nationally known clinical social worker and child advocate Lane Veltkamp presented a compelling case Thursday at Prestonsburg Community College to students, professionals, and child care providers on behalf of child abuse victims.

"The Lafonda Faye Foster Story" was presented by Veltkamp as evidence of his theory that severely abused children, who have been overlooked or ignored by society, can explode into a rage at adulthood and become themselves, victimizers.

Veltkamp said that minimally abused children may have no recognizable symptoms of abuse at adulthood and may possibly lead "normal" lives. On the other hand, moderately abused children who have been overlooked by society may, as adults, suffer from sexual dysfunction, withdrawal disorders, and interpersonal problems. In some cases, they may be violent and abuse others either by dating violence, spouse abuse, or child abuse.

In his experience, Veltkamp said that the most catastrophic result of severe child abuse, as in the case of

Allen, Caudill are nominated

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A judicial nominating committee selected two nominees in a meeting February 7 to be considered for a district judge vacancy in Floyd County.

Committee members chose James Allen and Danny Caudill, both of whom are in the race to be elected district judge, and forwarded their selections to Governor Brereton

Foster, is that the adult victim most often becomes suicidal or homicidal.

Foster's story, related by generational graphs, life time-lines, and a videotape of Foster herself, was presented graphically as a horrific experience from birth to adulthood. Documentation proves that Foster endured countless episodes of child sexual abuse by family members, physical tortures, constant moves from foster home to foster home where sexual abuse by adults continued, drug usage, suicide attempts, and an apparent apathy to confront her problem by professionals.

"The events of Faye's life culminated when she snapped in the April, 1986 brutal slayings of five Lexington people," Veltkamp said.

Veltkamp's message was simply to take children seriously and believe them when they tell you something is wrong, as Foster had tried to convey.

To doctors, social workers, and health care providers, Veltkamp, who teaches at the University of Kentucky medical school in the department of psychiatry, said that sometimes being a child's advocate is a greater service to them.

Child abuse forum continues

FEMA application filed by city

by Dodie Webb
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg is now participating in a program that could help city residents obtain flood insurance at substantially lower premium rates.

The city has filed an application with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for participation in a new community rating system concerning floodplain management. FEMA introduced this program in conjunction with the state Insurance Services Offices to establish a rating system much like the fire insurance rating system the fire service operates under now.

The rating system was created by FEMA to provide a new incentive for city activities that should reduce flood losses and support the sale of flood insurance. Participation in the program is important for current residents but may be extremely cost efficient for new buyers of property within the floodplain area who are now usually required to have flood insurance, Prestonsburg fire marshal and FEMA liaison Larry Adams said.

Any community that participates in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) may apply for their city's rating system classification to obtain flood insurance premium rate credits for its residents.

Currently, Prestonsburg is a class 10 city and is involved in the program to reduce its rating for the best possible premium status for city residents.

Prestonsburg must demonstrate that it is implementing floodplain management and public information activities that exceed the minimum requirements of the NFIP.

Adams has been appointed Prestonsburg's community rating system coordinator and has begun to remedy any existing flooding hazards which he hopes will eventually lead to an improved classification.

In an effort to inform the public about the NFIP and the city's overall floodplain requirements, an informational section has been created at the Floyd County Public Library by Adams and Prestonsburg librarian Homer Hall.

Anyone who may have questions about the NFIP or the floodplain information may contact Adams or Joe Kendrick at 886-2335.

Abused—

"The greatest service to children is performed in the courtroom and not in your office," Veltkamp concluded. "We can't stop child abuse, but we have to try."

The community forum, sponsored by the Kentucky Council on Child Abuse and PCC, will continue on Monday, February 24 and Wednesday, February 26 at 12:40 p.m. to 1:40 p.m. in the Pike Building Auditorium at the college.

Someone apparently saw Caudill board the bus and reported the incident to the state police, Waddell added.

The citation said Caudill failed one of two field sobriety tests at the scene and registered .036 blood alcohol.

Pike County assistant Commonwealth Attorney Keith Hall said his office will pursue the DUI charge considering Caudill was operating a school bus at the time of her arrest.

Hall added his office was also considering filing wanton endangerment charges against Caudill. Caudill was released on a $500 unsecured bond. She is scheduled to be arraigned on March 2.

Pikeville bus driver arrested for DUI

A Pikeville Independent school bus driver was suspended from her job after being arrested last Saturday and charged with driving under the influence.

Vickie Caudill was arrested by Kentucky State Police trooper Damon Gayheart after she was stopped in front of Green Meadows Country Club on U.S. 23.

Caudill had earlier taken Pikeville Middle School students to an academic meet at Betsy Layne While waiting to pick up students, Caudill allegedly visited a Pikeville restaurant where she allegedly consumed one or more beers, said superintendent John Waddell.

Agreement reached in city worker dispute

by Dodie Webb
Staff Writer

An agreement concerning an ongoing wage rate dispute was apparently reached Tuesday between the city's personnel committee and city employees.

All members of the Prestonsburg City Council's personnel committee met with city firefighters and city police officers individually to discuss and resolve the dispute over pay disparities, which some employees say exist between the salaries of the two departments.

An apparent settlement was agreed to by all parties involved, George Archer, personnel committee chairman said Wednesday.

The proposal probably will be presented to the city council Monday, February 24 for approval, Archer said.

The ultimate goal has been to match as closely as possible the two departments' hourly pay rates while keeping a check on unnecessary overtime, Archer added.

Specific details of the proposal most likely will be discussed in Monday's city council meeting.

Named to honor roll

Three Floyd Countians were named to the B honor roll for the Fall 1991 semester at Georgetown College.

Named were Susanne Dawson, Cynthia Tackett and Wendy Denise Reed. Dawson, a freshman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dawson of Prestonsburg and Tackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tackett of Prestonsburg, is also a freshman at Georgetown. Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reed of Banner, is a sophomore.

CSX to cut rail service at Spurlock, Salisbury

CSX Transportation Inc. has given notice it will file with the Interstate Commerce Commission a petition to abandon two miles of rail service in Floyd County.

The company seeks permission to abandon a two-mile stretch between Salisbury and Spurlock on Left Beaver. CSX was to file the petition on February 18.

The Commerce Commission's Section of Energy and Environment will prepare an environmental assessment which is normally available 60 days after the petition has been filed.

Comments on environmental and energy matters should be filed no later than 30 days after the assessment becomes available and those comments will be addressed in a commission decision. Interested persons may obtain a copy of the assessment or make inquiries regarding environmental matters by writing to the Section of Energy and Environment, Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C. 20423 or calling (202) 275-7648.

Appropriate offers of financial assistance to continue rail service can be filed with the commission. Questions regarding offers of financial assistance, public use or banking/trails can be directed to the commission's Office of Public Assistance at (202) 275-7597.

Copies of any comments or requests for conditions should be served on the applicant's representative: Charles M. Rosenberger, CSX Transportation, Inc., 500 Water Street, Jacksonville, Florida 32202, or call (904) 359-1250.

Nursing and Allied Health Career Day

Morehead State University's Office of Career Planning and Placement will host a Nursing and Allied Health Career Day on Tuesday, February 25, in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center.

More than 30 representatives from hospital and medical centers have registered, according to Steve Swim, assistant director of Career Planning and Placement, who is coordinating the campus event.

There is no charge for the session which runs from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

The program, in cooperation with the Rowan State Vocational Technical School, is designed for anyone seeking employment in a medical area, Swim noted. "In addition to the nurse and allied health recruiters, there will be human resources managers available from other medical-related fields to talk to applicants," he said.

Some firms will make job offers, while others will give out scholarship information or provide employment statistics, Swim said.

Scheduled to participate are recruiters from Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee and West Virginia who work in all areas of health services. Also included are specialty groups such as veterans hospitals, various mental health and mental retardation agencies and the military—Army, Navy and Air Force.

Additional information is available from Swim by calling (606) 783-2233.

HIV workshop conducted at MSU

Morehead State University's Continuing Education Program for nursing and allied health care professionals will sponsor a "Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) Education" workshop on Wednesday, March 4, on the MSU campus.

Marsha White, assistant professor in the baccalaureate nursing program at Morehead State, will serve as faculty for the program. The evening session will provide current information on methods of transmission, methods of prevention and the moral, legal and ethical issues surrounding the HIV infection.

Registration will begin at 4:30 p.m. with class to start at 5 p.m. The cost is $24 which includes handout materials and refreshment breaks.

Additional information is available from MSU's Department of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences at (606) 783-2632.

Efforts for clean up continue

Wayland Mayor Hobert Webb and the city council have apparently had no success concerning their pleas to state and county governments or agencies in their continued efforts to gain funding or help to clean up the creeks and ditch lines in Wayland. The problem has been a concern for Wayland officials and residents for some time, but efforts to resolve the issue remains stonewalled. (Photo by Dodie Webb)

Forest fire prevention

The Kentucky Spring Forest Fire Season will begin on March 1 and will run through May 15 of this year. During this period, the Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake is urging all park visitors, hunters and fishermen to be extra careful with fire when visiting the lake.

The accumulation of dry ground litter combined with gusty winds and a careless person can result in devastation to a forest.

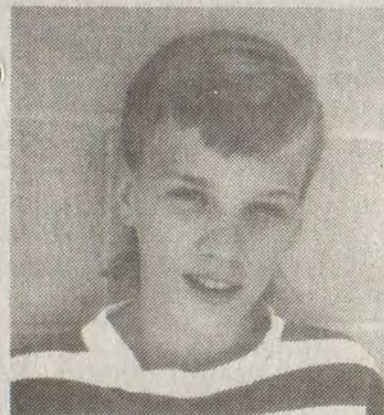

It is unlawful during the fire season to set a fire to any flammable material capable of spreading a fire located in or within 150 feet off any private woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 7:30 p.m. to midnight, local time.

Paintsville Lake fires are not permitted except when contained in fire grills designed especially for that purpose. When fires are built, care must be taken to completely extinguish them to prevent a restart that could get out of control. Smokers should also make sure that a cigarette is completely safe before it is discarded.

For additional information contact the resource manager's office at Paintsville Lake, Monday through Friday, 7:30 AM to 4:00 PM.

Teen-ager needs family

Jason

Personality-wise, Jason is easy to love. He often is compassionate and caring and easily gives affection.

Currently, Jason is a freshman in regular classes. Right now he isn't enjoying school but is academically capable. He will admit to liking math and computers. Jason's real interest—besides being adopted—is collecting coins. "This may stick with me," he adds. He keeps them locked in a box because "I'm the only kid here with things worth anything." Jason keeps all his possessions in that box.

With affection, structure and time Jason can realize his potential for success. Please call to learn more about Jason or the nearly 300 other children waiting to be adopted in Kentucky by calling the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or your local Department for Social Services.

Free trees

The Floyd County Conservation District, on 37 South Lake Drive, beside the Strand Theater in Prestonsburg, will be giving away free trees today (Friday, February 21) between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Black walnut, white oak, northern red oak, Chinese chestnut and white pine will be given away.

Don't let Jason's age (B/4-15-76) scare you off; his size and emotional maturity could easily have you mistake him for a younger child. But he has demonstrated a courage and understanding many adults never achieve. Those who know Jason well describe this intelligent child as a bud ready to burst into blossom! But his garden has been neglected.

Jason's history can be summarized as being resented by his birth mother since his birth. This crushing rejection and subsequent flip flopping in foster care left Jason insecure and eventually angry. Finally he refused contact and asked to be freed for adoption. Jason should be admired for reaching such a painful, but heroic, conclusion.

Letters

Editor:

As president of the Kentucky State Police Professional Association and Chairman of the Trooper Advisory Board and with their encouragement I am asking you the citizens of Kentucky for your help.

The recent budget cut proposals which affect The Kentucky State Police concern us. The possibility exists that police cruisers would have to be driven an excessive number of miles. To prevent this and keep down the cost of gasoline, routine patrols may have to be limited and we may have to respond to emergency calls only. Other services which we provide may have to be cut or done away with completely.

Those of you who travel Kentucky highways know that the first thing you do when you see a cruiser parked along the interstate is tap your brake and check your speedometer. The high visibility of the police cruiser is a deterrent to traffic violators, but no more than a State Police cruiser on routine patrol in the suburbs and backroads of Kentucky is to would-be burglars and thieves.

Educating members of our families is very important but no more important than their safety. In times of economic hardship historically burglaries and other theft-related crimes increase. We do not envy the task of putting together a budget for the next two years that our Governor and present legislative body face but we would hope that the last cut to be considered would be one that could affect services supplied by the State Police to the citizens of Kentucky.

We ask that you join us in contacting our legislators and ask them to approve a budget that would allow us to continue the services we now provide. Services that you not only deserve but should expect. You may contact your legislator at 1-800-372-7181.

I've been a State Trooper for 19 years and I know the support that you the citizens of Kentucky give us. With this knowledge in mind we would like to thank you in advance for your support in this matter and look forward to serving you in the future.

General Assembly Update

University board bill passes

Amid controversy and much scrutiny from the Republican Party, the Senate passed a bill last Wednesday that would purge the state's university boards by allowing Gov. Brereton Jones to name new members to the boards.

One of several changes created by the Senate was an amendment designed to maintain stability among the new boards. Under House Bill 149, half of the existing board members and the Council on Higher Education would be reappointed. Provisions in the current bill would also make each current board member eligible for reappointment.

The bill, designed to minimize politics in the selection process of board members, would give the governor three candidates to choose from for each vacancy to be filled. A screening panel would choose the three candidates. The bill allows the governor to choose the panel members, with confirmation from both legislative houses.

Another facet of the bill created by the Senate calls for proportional representation in which the board members would represent the state's voter registration, which is heavily outweighed by Democrats over Republicans, 2-1.

The bill passed through the Senate, 31-7, and won final approval from the House on Friday.

The House voted on two related health bills Monday, Feb. 10. One revoked a bill passed two years ago requiring most college students to have health insurance.

The bill comes in the wake of an injunction won by students in August, preventing colleges from enforcing the law while the students' lawsuit is pending. The bill's sponsor Rep. Ernesto Scorsone, D-Lexington, said the law was discriminatory against those who can't afford college because of the insurance. The law was an "administrative nightmare," he added.

Hospitals in rural Kentucky would face softer regulations than what acute-care hospitals in urban areas would, under a bill passed by the House Monday.

The bill would apply to primary-care hospitals, allowing them to operate emergency rooms and keep patients up to 96 hours. To be eligible, a hospital must be located within 20 miles of an acute-care hospital and have no more than 60 beds.

Raising the age limit for purchasing tobacco products and penalties for truancy were two sources of serious debate on the House floor Tuesday.

Under House Bill 352, the legal age to buy tobacco products was raised to 18. The bill also prohibited billboard advertising of tobacco products within 500 feet of a school.

The bill's sponsor Rep. Anne Northup, R-Louisville, came under attack from several rural legislators, who claimed the bill was an attack on the state's tobacco industry.

"We continue to send signals all over the country... that Kentuckians don't like the tobacco industry," Rep. Richard Turner, R-Tompkinsville, said.

House Bill 196 also passed through the house, 79-12, imposing harsher penalties on parents who do not send their children to school. The bill would impose penalties that could include possible jail time.

Editorial:

Just say "yes"

by Scott Perry

The pros and cons of two proposed amendments to Kentucky's archaic constitution are cornering the attention of state lawmakers, and both could account for sweeping changes in the state's political system if they make their way through the General Assembly and past Kentucky voters.

The first proposal, we endorse wholeheartedly.

That measure would eliminate the elective offices of superintendent of public instruction; secretary of state, state treasurer and agriculture commissioner and would abolish the state railroad commission.

As elective offices, those positions are little more than breeding grounds for career politicians.

The second proposal we endorse half-heartedly.

That measure allows gubernatorial succession; requires the governor and lieutenant governor to run on one ticket; and sets elections for only even-numbered years. The proposed amendment also increases the terms of state representatives to four years and state senators to six years.

Gubernatorial succession is a must (particularly when there's a good chance that the first governor who could benefit from it may be from Eastern Kentucky).

A single ticket for the state's top two posts and reducing the number of state elections seems reasonable enough, too.

Increasing the terms of state legislators may be the sticking point, but we're willing to accept extended terms in exchange for the other benefits of the proposed amendment.

Besides, giving legislators another couple of years of job security might help eliminate the Weenie Factor, a common ailment among many lawmakers who must choose between re-election and leadership when controversial issues are to be decided.

Critical care nurses saluted

Lorraine Jacobs, RN, CCRN; Sharon Dingus, RN, BSN, CCRN; and Susan Ellis, RN, BSN, CCRN are three of the 18 Highlands Regional Medical Center critical care nurses that are being recognized by the hospital during February, which has been proclaimed by Governor Jones as American Heart Month in Kentucky.

Critical care nurses honored during American Heart month

Critical care nursing is an important aspect of recovery for heart attack patients, and in commemoration of American Heart Month during February, Highlands Regional Medical Center is recognizing the importance of its critical care nursing staff.

Critical care nurses are seldom seen and are not acknowledged often enough for the role they play in caring for heart patients when conditions are at the most critical. At Highlands Regional, currently 18 CCU nurses staff the Critical Care Unit.

Each critical care nurse at Highlands must complete extensive training under the direction of Sharon Dingus and Sharon Ellis, both registered nurses with bachelors degrees and certification from the National Association of Critical Care Nurses. They are also encouraged to take the National Certification Board exam as soon as they are eligible. To date, Highlands nurses have attained a pass rate of 100 percent, said Drema Osborne, registered nurse and director of nursing services at Highlands.

CCU nurses are taught theory and principles of abnormal heart rhythm interpretations and treatments, location of myocardial infarctions on 12 lead EKGs, hemodynamic monitoring, dialysis, and management of patients requiring intra-aortic balloon counterpulsation. All CCU nurses are also required to undergo semi-annual certification in cardiopulmonary resuscitation, advanced cardiac life support, and intra-aortic balloon pumping. In addition to formal classroom education, new R.N.s are paired with critical care preceptors until Dingus feels they are prepared to deal successfully with the many challenges they face daily.

Highlands Critical Care Unit currently is a 12 bed intensive care ward. Concurrent monitoring systems are used to assure maintenance of the standards set by the National Association of Critical Care Nurses, Osborne said.

Kentucky History Highlights

The making of Kentucky's frontier physicians

By Katherine L. House

By today's high-tech standards, the practice of medicine in the early days of Kentucky's settlement was unsophisticated at best. The frontier physician usually worked alone with little possibility of consulting with others in the field, and without benefit of laboratories and hospitals to help in diagnosis and treatment. Although some patients appeared at his home (which usually doubled as an office), he was often called upon to ride many miles to attend his patients. Since it was common for people to try home remedies before calling for help, the patient's condition was often aggravated when the doctor arrived.

Licensing of physicians was not the norm at the time, but practicing medicine did require some formal training, and that could be acquired in several ways. Some students who could afford it studied abroad, usually in Edinburgh or London. Some few Kentuckians were able to study in Europe; Dr. Ephraim McDowell of Danville, who performed the first ovariectomy, took classes in Edinburgh; his classmate, Dr. Samuel Brown of Lexington, was a pioneer advocate for smallpox vaccination.

In the states, there were several medical colleges in the east, among them the Medical College of the University of Pennsylvania where the eminent Dr. Benjamin Rush presided. A number of Kentuckians studied there for all or part of their training. In Kentucky, a medical school was established at Transylvania University in Lexington in 1799 but did not actually get under way with a full faculty and class until 1817. The Louisville Medical Institute did not open until 1837.

The most common method of study was the preceptor-apprentice arrangement which called for the aspiring student to apprentice himself to a practicing physician for a period of three or four years. Without a medical school on the western frontier, most students in Kentucky apprenticed themselves to a doctor in proximity to their homes.

During the time of apprenticeship, the student was able to study those books on anatomy and medical science available in his preceptor's library. He was allowed to accompany the doctor on rounds to observe and help in the treatment of patients; he learned to compound and mix medicines. In return the apprentice agreed to pay a prearranged fee and make himself useful to the doctor in any way required.

One such preceptor was Dr. William Goforth who was born in 1766 in New York. He studied medicine there under a private physician and also attended public lectures on anatomy and surgery. Goforth emigrated to Washington, Kentucky in Mason County in 1788, where he began the practice of medicine and schooling young men in the medical arts. He left Kentucky for Cincinnati in 1799 where he built a large practice and continued to train physicians. Some of his pupils came to him from connections made in Kentucky. His most famous pupil was Kentuckian Dr. Daniel Drake, who subsequently taught at Transylvania University, Lexington, in 1817-18 before moving onto teach at other medical institutions. Drake gained national recognition with his book A Systematic Treatise on the Principal Diseases of the Interior of North America published in 1850.

Goforth awarded Drake a diploma on completion of his studies, probably the first of its kind given on the western frontier. It testifies to the fact that Drake had studied "Physic, Surgery, [and] Midwifery" under his direction for four years and was qualified to practice those branches of medicine.

One of Goforth's students while he was still in Mason County was Anderson Doniphan, who practiced medicine in the Germantown area for more than forty years. Three of his daybooks are in The Filson Club collections.

For further reading on this subject, the following books are suggested: Medicine in Kentucky by John H. Ellis, Lexington, University Press of Kentucky, 1977; and Early Physicians Of The West by Frederick Eberson, St. Petersburg, Florida, Valkyrie Press, 1979.

Katherine L. House, M.A.L.S., is Technical Services Librarian at The Filson Club, and is Editor of this series.

The Filson Club has been dedicated to collecting Kentucky historical material since 1884.

Health watch:

New drug for arthritis is easy on stomach

by Don Kirkman

The 13 million Americans who suffer the pains of rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis will soon be able to use a new drug that nearly eliminates the risk of stomach ulcers.

The drug is Relafen, a prescription medicine that already is being used in 15 countries, including Japan, Germany and Britain. Approved recently by the Food and Drug Administration the once-a-day tablet should be available in pharmacies by the end of February.

Relafen's biggest attraction is its delayed action after ingestion. It becomes active after passing through the stomach. By contrast, the 15 currently available arthritis preparations cause a substantial number of stomach and duodenal ulcers, some of them life-threatening.

Pre-licensing tests on nearly 1,000 arthritis victims who took Relafen for two years showed that less than 1 percent contracted peptic ulcers.

"Individuals with arthritis now have available a highly effective (treatment) with very little risk to the stomach," said Dr. Wilbur Blechman of the University of Miami medical school, one of the drug's developers.

Relafen will be marketed by SmithKline Beecham of Philadelphia.

Wearing a hat in the summer may save your life.

A survey by Brown University researchers led by Dr. Martin Weinstein says nearly one-half of skin cancer deaths in Rhode Island are caused by tumors that originate on or in the ears.

These cancers clearly are related to sun exposure, with men more susceptible than women because most men don't have long hair that covers their ears. And most men and women don't protect their ears with sunscreen lotions.

Burial will be in the May Cemetery at Martin under the direction of Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home.

Edith P. Terry

Edith P. Terry, 70, of Wayland, died Wednesday, February 19, at Fisher-Titus Hospital in Norwalk, Ohio following a long illness.

Student's study reveals satisfaction in rural area

Dr. Anosike's The Community (SOC 220) class at PCC includes a practicum or a learning-by-doing component that gives students an on-hands experience on conducting community research. Abstracts of outstanding studies from the past year are selected to be published in the Floyd County Times in a series beginning this week. The student's name, year the article was written and the title of the article will begin each segment.

APRIL PREECE (1991):
"COMMUNITY SATISFACTION IN WARFIELD, A MINING-DEPENDENT COMMUNITY."

Residents of a rural Kentucky community are satisfied with living in rural areas. Reasons usually given by most people for residing in rural areas include: less crime, better air and water quality, better place to raise children, lower cost of living, and better community spirit, pride, participation and friendliness. Residents believe that the opportunity cost of poorly funded schools, lower quality education, isolation and poor infrastructure, characteristic of rural areas is very low. Thus they can afford to forgo the benefits of "urbanism" in exchange for the perceived "better quality of life" of rural communities. Where employment opportunities and relevant amenities exist, rural youth are also preferring rural to urban residence.

April's research tends to support much of the findings in the literature that is, many people prefer to live in smaller rather than larger communities, in spite of the obvious advantages of the later.

As an exploratory research, causes and effects are not implied. Rather an attempt is made to reveal the presence or absence of community satisfaction by controlling for residents' age and other socioeconomic factors. Data were collected through personal interviews in a survey of a random sample of 40 residents of Warfield Kentucky (total population 1000). Age, gender, household income, and education were included as control variables.

A cross classification of the variables shows that the elderly were slightly more satisfied with their communities and this has to do with their length of residence in the community. However, in spite of the age/education category selected, an overwhelming majority (80-90 percent) were satisfied with living in their community. But the reasons for satisfaction varied from one age category to another. The youth for example, would be more satisfied if recreational and entertainment amenities were readily available, compared to the elderly who were more concerned with friendliness, and cooperation of residents. Both age categories were equally concerned with jobs/industry, ruralness, church and community organizations, and quality of water and air. April drew this conclusion after examining the responses to the question: "Name three things you like most about your community." Residents who are satisfied with their community are likely to identify with the community's special attractions.

When asked "Name three changes or improvements that occurred in your community lately?" About 50 percent said none, 20 percent did not know, and only about 30 percent knew about road improvements, the new middle school building, and recent plans for recreational center in the community. The low percentage of respondents that know about recent improvements in the community, reports April may be due to the fact that respondent's relatives live nearby, a factor identified by previous studies as ultimately leading to decreased community interest and satisfaction.

April's study supports previous findings in studies in community satisfaction, i.e., people are satisfied with their community so long as their community remains relatively unchanged over time. Thus the reason why people reside in areas with depressed economies with little or no chance of recovery in the employment opportunity structure.

Although Warfield is a mining-dependent community, the coal mining industry is nevertheless characterized by periods of boom and bust that leaves many families deprived during periods of busts. Is it possible that residents have psychologically adjusted to the unpredictable nature of the area's economic base believing that things will turn around very soon and their cherished communities would resume normal economic activities once more? Further research notes April, should include length of residence as a variable. In some studies, length of residence in the community has been the most important predictor of satisfaction.

In Memory Of My Mother Nora Jones

Who passed away one year ago
Feb. 21st. I miss you Mom.

My mother was my friend
The best in all the world.
She accepted me for what I was.
I was her "little girl."

Although she went to Heaven,
I'll never be alone.
She'll always be here with me
In my heart she made her home.

O God, it's hard to face
The fact that she is gone.
I want her back here with me,
Why is that so wrong?

I want to hear her voice,
To see her lovely smile,
Just to say, "I love you,"
And to look at her awhile.

Bui Lord, I know she's with you,
She's happy and she's free.
Just tell her that I love her,
And tell her, "Wait for me."

O' thank You, Lord,
For all You do!
What comfort knowing
Our mom's with You!

Card Of Thanks

The family of Verdia Sammons would like to thank all of those who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank Bennie Blankenship, minister of Prestonsburg Church of Christ for the prayers and comforting words, the Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control, and the Floyd Funeral Home for their kind and professional service.

THE FAMILY OF VERDIA SAMMONS

Card Of Thanks

The family of Nedra Turner Slone wishes to take this opportunity to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the following people not only for their medical expertise but also for their compassion and kindness they gave to Nedra during her illness: Dr. Susan J. Brenner; the nursing staff and hospital personnel at the McDowell ARH who went beyond the call of duty in caring for Nedra; Home Health; the C & M Health Care; Dr. Ruben, Dr. F. G. Rivera, Dr. De Priest, The Markie Cancer Center, Ben and Janet at Optional Care, Dr. Dickie Tackett and his wife Cathi, and the Left Beaver Rescue Squad.

We also extend our gratitude to the Old Regular Baptist Churches, the First Baptist Church, the Pentecostal Church, their ministers, and congregations and to all our friends and relatives for their words and expressions of comfort and love. We love each and every one of you beautiful people. May God Bless You.

A special thanks to John Sr., Katherine, Tommy and John Jr., the Hall Funeral Home, whom we love so much.

We have tried to express what the family feels toward our relatives and friends. However, we think the words of Dinah M. Craik express it just a little better.

Oh, the comfort—the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person. Having neither to weigh thoughts, nor measure words, but pouring them all right out—just as they are, chaff and grain together. Certain that a faithful hand will take and sift them. Keep what is worth keeping and with breath of kindness blow the rest away.

Hoosier Dome inspired UK engineering student

Phillip Blankenship

University of Kentucky student Phillip Blankenship of Prestonsburg feels his graduate degree in civil engineering is a perfect match with his personality.

While most people eye a new building for its architecture and style, Phillip gazes at its support structures and beams. This, however, is only one example of how this 23 year old takes a different perspective of the world around us. He also doesn't forget his sense of humor along the way.

"If it was left up to civil engineers, we would probably concrete the whole world," laughed Phillip. He said his interest in engineering began when he saw the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis and remembers being immediately awed by the structure.

With a 3.66 undergraduate grade point average and a 3.8 graduate average, Phillip has plenty of career options. His UK undergraduate degree is in civil engineering with an emphasis on structural engineering. Phillip's voice takes on a serious tone when he explains that the master's degree will make him a more valuable employee to engineering firms after he graduates in December.

"I like civil engineering. It gives me a chance to work with other people, and I can also leave my mark on the world," he said.

He especially enjoys working on large-scale projects and is fascinated with how things are built. For his master's thesis, Phillip will be doing research on pavement design at the Kentucky Transportation Center in Lexington.

His good grades have certainly paid off. He boasts four scholarships during his academic career at UK. His two undergraduate scholarships include the American Society of Civil Engineers Scholarship Award and the Kentucky Transportation Scholarship.

He currently has two scholarships awarded by the University Scholars Program and the UK Advanced Transportation Institute.

The transportation award is a $12,200 fellowship, which includes being chosen as a member of the Transportation Institute. He works with geographers, engineers and seven UK students who are pursuing

While he is involved in many campus activities in Lexington, Phillip remains close to his parents, Bennie and Wanda Blankenship of Prestonsburg. He attended Prestonsburg Community College for two years and then transferred to the Lexington campus. "Prestonsburg Community College was a good transition between high school and UK," he said. "And all my credits transferred."

One of his brothers, Tim, 20, attends Prestonsburg Community College and will transfer to UK in the fall to complete his major in secondary education.

Phillip discovered the "neat side" of civil engineering when he visited UK on Engineering Day in February 1989. He said he decided on his major that day after a UK professor showed him an earthquake simulator and discussed the machine's purpose. From that day on Phillip was hooked on engineering.

For two years, Phillip was president of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Under Phillip's direction, the organization hosted a regional conference at UK along with other university chapters.

He also is a member of Tau Beta Pi engineering honor society and Chi Epsilon, a civil engineering honorary. This year he serves as editor of its newsletter.

their master's of business administration degrees.

The students are charged with studying the proposed new Interstate 66 that would span the state. They are examining the economic impact of the highway on the state and looking at possible future uses, such as mass rail. Phillip's fellowship may include a summer internship at the Asphalt Institute in Lexington.

National school teleconference to highlight education reform

The Kentucky School Public Relations Association will produce the first national school public relations teleconference, Reform and Public Relations: A Marriage of Necessity; Monday, March 30, 1992, 4-5:30 p.m. via KET Star Channels.

Invited panelist for the teleconference are Dr. Thomas Boysen, commissioner of education; Mary Dean, associate commissioner for communications; Sharon Oakes, public information officer, Kenton County Schools; Faith Miller Cole, director of communications, Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence; Dr. Joseph Scherer, executive director, National School Public Relations Association; Steve Knagg, president, National School Public Relations Association and Lamar Alexander, secretary of education.

Specific elements of school reform to be discussed are accountability, pre-school education, high technology, school-based decision making and tax increases for school financing.

Preceding the teleconference, a workshop will be conducted at the KET Network Visitors Center. The workshop will focus on marketing schools to its publics and PR training toward NSPRA accreditation for KYSPPA members.

Floyd talent has not been plumbed

The depths of talent in Floyd County students have not been plumbed, according to art teacher Paula Smith. That the ability is there and needs only to be nurtured and developed is an undisputed belief educators in this county share with Smith.

Putting her convictions into practice, Smith has recently begun extra art classes for some Martin Elementary seventh and eighth graders. In addition to regular art instruction, thirty students are currently involved in special classes designed to develop individual talent. Participants, who were chosen on the bases of interest and talent, receive an extra hour of instruction each week in a studio art setting. They plan to explore different areas of art that include oil painting, t-shirt designing and printmaking, ceramics and mural painting.

Smith is excited over this opportunity to develop latent artistic abilities. "This gives me more time to work with students who show particular promise in art. Teaching small groups (fifteen students per class) allows time to develop individual interests. Students seem eager to work and show a great deal of talent. Within the realms of KERA - the Kentucky Education Reform Act - we, as educators, need to provide more activities in order to allow students to explore and improve their talent whether it be art, music, or creative writing. Floyd County has a lot of talent and classes such as these will bring out the best in our students."

Principal William Hughes is a strong advocate of art and music instruction. "Many times art and music will reach students that conventional classes will not reach," he says. "They carry over, many times; they help prevent dropouts and instill in the students the need to study in all areas. We have been very pleased to add this art class for those who are specially gifted."

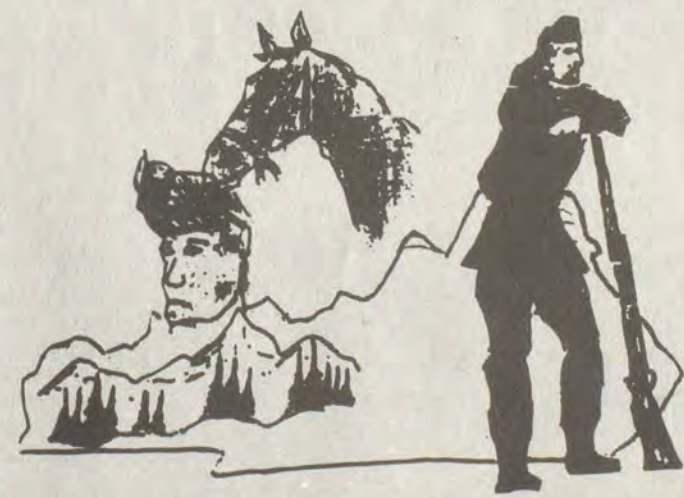

One of the local radio station announcers frequently cautions motorists to "watch out for our youngsters going to school. They're our greatest natural resource!" How true! Our children are our future and, as Smith says, it is the responsibility of parents and teachers to develop every iota of potential these youngsters may have.

Special art

Shawn Miller and Amy Crum are two of the participants in Martin Elementary's new-organized special art class.

ALL SCHOOLS ARE CREATED EQUAL

The recent attention given to the selection of the site for the upcoming 58th District Tournament certainly gives some indication of how well we like our basketball here in Floyd County. The conversation on this topic almost reaches the same heights as that of the new KERA assessment which most of the county seniors have been involved this week. On first observation, one would conclude that these two activities have nothing in common, but they have a great deal in common since they both deal with problem solving. So let's start. The first step in solving a problem is bringing it out in the open and talking about it. I get to go first.

The problem is simple: McDowell and Wheelwright must always go to someone else's gym when they host the tournament. Is this fair? I'm not asking if it is someone's fault? I'm simply asking is it fair? Anyone can readily see that it is, in fact, not fair.

Let's look at some of the reasons that are given for not having a tournament at McDowell. The roads are not as good as the ones to the other schools. That is true, but guess what we fans at McDowell and Wheelwright have to do when we go to other places (and this is year after year)? We drive on these same dangerous roads to and from the game. So far, by the grace of God and some common sense in driving, I have made it to the games and back without any serious mishaps. (Many of my students and former students will attest to the fact that I am not a great driver).

Others have pointed out the problem of parking. If done correctly, we can park more people that we can seat. Now, we come to the real crux of the matter: Will everyone who wants to see the games be able to see them? That depends. If the tournament is as exciting as it was the year McDowell and Prestonsburg played in the finals, there is not gym in Eastern Kentucky that would hold the crowd.

It is easy for the other school supporters to explain how they would set the tournament up to accommodate all the teams and fans. Sure they would. They want to get into that regional tournament just as much as we do. How far do we go to give our players that edge? That is where we are at this writing. There are rumors that we don't have the authority to make that decision. If we don't, we obviously can't and won't make the decision. If we do, let us make it.

As things stand now, the situation is unavoidable, but years to come McDowell and Wheelwright (as a combined school) students will continue to be penalized in this regard because our school was planned without a decent field house. Look at the other three gyms. Prestonsburg Field House is probably the finest basketball facility in Eastern Kentucky;

Allen Central was just recently treated to a new wooden floor; and Betsy Layne is scheduled for major improvements. Meanwhile, the new Left Beaver school will play its games in either the McDowell or Wheelwright gym. I'm going on record as saying that I don't blame board members, superintendents, or anyone else except us parents here on Left Beaver for letting this happen. I put myself square in the middle of the bunch. So don't be so quick to criticize us until you have walked a mile on our dangerous roads.

New band director

The new music and band teacher at Duff Elementary is Cecilia Houston, a graduate of Cumberland College, where she earned her degree in Music Education. She did her student teaching at Laurel County High School and specializes in saxophone and percussion instruments, but she also plays the flute, clarinet, trumpet, and trombone. Her projections for the 1991-1992 school year include a solo contest on March 17 and 18. Later, a contest festival is scheduled for the entire band on April 25. Pictured are members of the Duff Elementary Band, who will perform two concerts at the school this year.

Young speakers

Contenders who vied

In-service held at Martin school

In-service for Chapter 1 parents was held recently at Martin Elementary School in order to promote participation in building a partnership between the school and home. Thirty-five participants were involved in the six sessions conducted by the school's three Chapter 1 teachers in their individual reading units. Types of activities and discussion varied to fit the interests of parents and grade levels of students they represented.

One of the main in-service objectives was to increase the effectiveness of parents working with their children in the home to help attain the instructional objectives of the Chapter 1 program. Group discussion and activities centered around specific ways parents can help their children become more proficient in reading skills. Parents participated in fun-type activities designed to demonstrate the frustration slow readers and/or beginning readers sometimes feel and to show the need for motivation, understanding, and patience at both home and school. Packets of materials containing practical advice and helpful hints for home use were shared with participants. Parents were also invited to choose a paperback book to add to their home library.

The use of computers in the Chapter 1 program was explained as parent volunteers and designated students served as computer operators. Reading programs spanning a wide range of grade levels and reading skills enabled participants to understand the function of computer technology in reading instruction.

The role Chapter 1 plays in the school's curriculum was clarified. Participants receive daily instruction on specific basic and advanced skills in addition to reading instruction in the regular classroom. Chapter 1 teachers and classroom teachers work closely together to help students succeed in reading.

The Chapter 1 Reinforcement program is funded by the Federal Government and its objectives are to help students succeed in the regular classroom, attain grade level proficiency, and become better readers.

Martin Elementary's Chapter 1 teachers are Virginia Martin, Bonita Compton, and Pamela Wohlford.

New Beta Chapters

Susan Compton, principal of Osborne Elementary recently announced the new Junior Beta Club Chapter at the school. The national chapter includes the seventh and eighth grade students and their sponsors are Carlotta Jones and Jam Akers. The other Junior national chapter includes the fifth and sixth grades. The sponsors for this group are also Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Akers. This Beta Club represents academic and civic leadership in their school and community.

Head Start director awarded CDA

Janie Bailey Smith, director of the Floyd County Head Start Program recently received Child Development

Associate (CDA) credentials. According to Gordon Formosa, CDA trainer, CDAs are awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition of Washington, D.C., a national credentialing program.

Candidates for the CDA must complete a portfolio defining 13 competency areas. Candidates are observed working with children, and are evaluated by a team which includes early childhood professionals and a parent.

According to Smith, "The early childhood teaching skills that I acquired are invaluable to me, especially in working with my own child. With the CDA training, you get practical hands-on knowledge but most important you look through the eyes of a child."

Smith, a Langley native, is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Morehead State University. She has worked with the Head Start Program for 14 years, both on the grantee and delegate levels.

I APPLAUD AD, COACHES, PRINCIPALS

I just recently returned (Thursday morning) from the 58th District tournament meeting held at in the board room of the Floyd County Board of Education and I left with a good feeling that these men who met there this day were determined to iron out some difficulties that have persisted during the past years, as well as make some changes in this year's tournament.

If it works, leave it alone, has always been the cry. But sometimes those things that seem to be working are not, and a change is in order.

At the meeting were not only the basketball coaches here in our county but also the school principals, who also added some suggestions to the board. They were positive suggestions that certainly needed to be done...

- Make sure the offensive signs are left out of the gymnasium — they're not needed was the word from AD Frankie Francis.

- Make sure the bands do not play while the game is actually in progress. While the ruling was passed, no one sold short the fact that the bands are a big part of the tournament atmosphere.

- Changing the number of players for the number one seed to five thus eliminating perhaps a problem for the coaches.

- Mr. Francis stressed crowd control and conduct.

It was a very positive meeting and I believe we will have a very good and interesting district tournament.

DID WHEELWRIGHT GET SHORT END OF THE STICK?

I know there will be a few upset people in the Wheelwright area because the tournament was moved from McDowell to Betsy Layne. But you have to understand McDowell. Coach Johnny Ray Turner first had to think of McDowell as any coach would have done. Had it been any other school they would have thought of their team's chances and would have tried to enhance their chances to advance to the regionals.

In district tournament play you can just toss all the records out the window because it is a whole new season when March 4 rolls around. This year's teams are so close that it will be almost impossible to call a winner right now.

POINT OF VIEW WELL TAKEN!

One of the slaps at having the tournament at McDowell was the lack of space to seat all the fans. However, an interesting point of view has been brought by several McDowell people as well as Coach Turner. When the new school is built, will the gymnasium be large enough to hold the crowds there at the Left Beaver facility? According to those who have seen the plans of the proposed gym, it will not be any bigger than the E.P. Grigsby Fieldhouse is right now.

Hopefully our board members will see and be sure that when the facility is built it will be built with the intentions of having the district tournament there in future years. We hope they will not be so shortsighted as to think the tournament will never be held at the new school.

COACH OF THE YEAR AWARD?

Will go to Wheelwright's Jackie Pack! And the good people in Wheelwright are very happy about their coach receiving the award at the finals of the tournament because his team was the Floyd County Conference champion.

It certainly looked as if all the

Wheelwright Conference Champs

It was all that everybody expected it to be and more. The Floyd County Conference title chase ended Tuesday night in just the fashion predicted — a close encounter between the Wheelwright Trojans and Prestonsburg Blackcats at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse.

The Trojans nipped the Blackcats 61-60 to win their first conference title since the 1975-76 season. However, in that year the Trojans tied with McDowell and Betsy Layne for the top spot. The last time a Wheelwright team won the conference outright was the previous season, 1974-75, under coach James Francis. Wheelwright was the first conference winner under then coach Don Wallen in the conference's first year of 1963-64. The Trojans shared the conference title three times while winning it three times.

Layne Bailey, who struggled from the outside, hit a three-foot jumper in the middle with eight seconds left to give the Trojans the 61-60 victory. Prestonsburg called time out with six seconds remaining to set up a final play. The ball came into the hands of Joe Whitt, who seemed to lose track of the time remaining, and he hurled a desperation shot from center court with three seconds left on the clock. The ball was rebounded by Prestonsburg and another shot missed. Cory Reitz took the ball off the board, turned and hit a five-footer but the clock had already expired before the ball was released.

The turning point in the game came in the third period when Prestonsburg had possession of the basketball and held a 43-39 lead with 1:04 remaining. Senior guard John Clark was pushed and appealed to the referee about the push, asking for a technical foul. The result was that Clark was called for the technical instead, and Prestonsburg not only lost the ball but Harold Johnson dropped in two free throws to make it a two-point game, 43-41.

Wheelwright retained possession of the ball and, on a missed shot, Brian Johnson, off the Trojan bench, rebounded the ball and put it back in with four seconds remaining to tie the game. Prestonsburg, against Wheelwright's pressure, threw the ball away trying to get the ball in bounds. The ball came into Johnson who turned and drilled a 15-foot jumper ahead of the horn to give Wheelwright a 45-43 lead. In a matter of one minute the Trojans scored six points.

Clark was lifted from the game by Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido and remained on the pines for the remainder of the contest.

Steven Jackson started off the fourth period for Wheelwright by sinking a three-foot jumper to give Wheelwright their biggest lead of the game, 47-43. Prestonsburg came charging back on two free throws and a basket by Reitz sandwiched around a basket by Aaron Tucker to give the Blackcats a 49-47 lead. Tucker drilled a three-pointer following a Trojan turnover to make it a five-point advantage.

Johnson, on a move inside, hit a basket and drew a foul on Chris Burke, his third, and hit the charity toss to pull to within two points of the Blackcats, 52-50. Jason Crisp, going where small guards hesitate to go, journeyed into the middle of the Trojan defense and hit a short jumper to send Prestonsburg out by four, 54-50.

After Bailey had hit two free throws to make it a two-point game, Tucker's free throw put the Blackcats on top by three points, 55-52. Johnson tied the game at 55-55 on a three-point play with four minutes left in the game. Burke picked up his fourth personal on the foul.

Prestonsburg scored the next four points to go on top 59-55 on baskets by Tucker and Eric Fitzer. Johnson scored underneath for Wheelwright and with 59 seconds left in the game, John Hall hit a base line jumper to tie the game at 59-59.

Mike Newsome went to the charity stripe with 24 seconds remaining and a chance to put the Trojans in front, but missed the front of a bonus shot. Tucker was fouled with 14 seconds remaining as he drove to the basket. The junior forward missed the front of the two-shot foul but drilled the second attempt to give Prestonsburg a 60-59 lead.

After a Wheelwright timeout with 14 seconds showing on the clock, Wheelwright had to bring the ball the length of the court under pressure from Prestonsburg. Bailey took the inbounds pass and went the distance, hitting the game winning shot.

"I hadn't been hitting all night," explained Bailey, "but Coach Pack told me in the timeout to not quit, and take the shot. It was great to win this one. We wanted to bring the conference championship back to Wheelwright. We won this one for the community, fans and pep club. I feel we have a good shot of winning the district. We accomplished the goal we set at the start of the season and

Lady Blackcats have easy time with Wheelwright, 87-37

The Prestonsburg Blackcats applied full court pressure from the tip off to the final buzzer and routed visiting Wheelwright 87-37 in the final conference game for both clubs.

Wheelwright, with only five high school players and two riding the bench for disciplinary reasons, went with two grade school players in the starting lineup. Also, the Lady Trojans are still without their leading scorer Sheena Collins who was present at the game Tuesday night. Collins is still trying to comeback from an ankle injury.

"I am hoping that I will be able to play in the tournament next month," said Collins. "I have to go back to the doctor and get his okay."

Collins said that she has been able to put pressure on the ankle with the support of a brace.

More than the three players were missing in this game as the Lady Trojans offense took leave. Prestonsburg dominated the game at both ends as they roared to a 13-0 lead before Rhonda Thornsbury hit a free throw to put the Lady Trojans on the scoreboard.

Stephanie Music, playing her best offensive game of the season, led the Lady Blackcats with 25 points. Melissa Bailey tossed in 20 and Raquel Cain added 16 points. Keri Merion scored 14 points.

Crystal Isaac led the Lady Trojans scoring with nine points. Senior Becky Allen, one of the starters on the bench in the first half, came on in the second half and scored eight points. Stephanie Little, the other benched player, had six points. Both Allen and Little had two three-pointers.

Prestonsburg rolled up a big halftime lead of 49-11 after leading at the end of the first quarter, 28-4. Music scored 13 points in the first period as she opened the game with some good shooting. Merion had six first quarter points.

Music picked up where she left off, hitting the first two baskets of the second period for Prestonsburg. She scored eight points in the stanza before being lifted.

Prestonsburg led by 40 points after three quarters, 68-28.

The largest lead came in the fourth quarter when Prestonsburg took a 54

Betsy Layne to be site of 58th District Tournament

The long awaited decision was finally made official in the board room of the Floyd County Board of Education when McDowell coach Johnny Ray Turner made the announcement that McDowell, the host school, would move the 58th District tournament to Betsy Layne.

"After talking with the girls' coach (Jimmy Hopkins) and Mr. (Phillip) Paige we have decided to take the tournament to Betsy Layne," said Coach Turner.

The decision to move the tournament to Betsy Layne brought the protest of Wheelwright principal Lewis Berkheimer.

"I want to voice an official objection," said the Wheelwright principal. "It's not fair to ask the number one team (Wheelwright) to play the number five team (Betsy Layne) on their own floor."

Mr. Berkheimer wanted to know the rationalization of the decision by McDowell to move it to Betsy Layne.

Mr. Paige stressed at the meeting that McDowell wanted to host the tournament at McDowell "for the good of the community," but "we were forced, and I want to emphasize forced, to move the tournament but didn't want to."

Paige referred to several pieces of correspondence he had received from

Frankfort and other agencies that emphasized that McDowell was not an eligible site for the tournament. Reference had repeatedly been referred to school board order number 1774 which states in paragraph 1 that

"the host school is to determine the site of the 58th District tournament at existing facilities, namely the Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne gymnasiums. Added was "as new facilities becomes available, the host school will have the option to add these facilities."

Coach Jackie Pack spoke of his team being penalized as the number one team by taking the tournament to Betsy Layne.

"If it is a matter of economics," he stated, "why wasn't the tournament moved to Prestonsburg?"

Coach Turner explained that moving it to Prestonsburg would not benefit his team "because if we beat Allen Central we will have to play Prestonsburg and we don't want to have to play them on their floor."

McDowell plays Allen Central in the first night of the tournament and that was the reason that Allen Central (not in existence when board order 1774 was written) was not chosen the site for the tournament. Allen Central will, however, be the site of this year's 15th Regional tournament.

The naming of the site was forced in the early going of the meeting when Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido refused to vote on anything

It's that time of year again when the 58th District tournament is about to get underway. ### LADY EAGLES FALL TWICE; DEFEAT ASHBURY

The Alice Lloyd Lady Eagles found the going rough on the road as they dropped back-to-back games. The Lady Eagles found the Lady Cavaliers of Clinch Valley a little more than they could handle in a 83-67 loss.

The Lady Cavs defense proved to be a problem for the Lady Eagles as they could only manage 19 points in the first half. Clinch Valley led at the half 35-19.

Alice Lloyd cut the margin to eight points with seven minutes remaining but the Lady Cavaliers went on a spurt that netted them a 16 point lead. Alice Lloyd could get no closer than the eight points.

Brenda Hamilton (Betsy Layne) led the Lady Eagles with 16 points, followed by All-American Katrina Short, who leads District 24 in scoring, with 14 points. Short is also leading the district in rebounding.

It was a different game at Milligan, but with the same result. The Lady Eagles fell one point short as the Lady Buffalo's posted a 86-85 win over the Lady Eagles.

It was a frustrated Johns Mills, coach of the Lady Eagles, who saw his team squander an opportunity to win the game at the free throw line.

"We had our chance to win the game, but after we missed the four shots we lost possession of the ball three times," stated Mills. "We were so close to a win. We led the entire game until the last eight seconds."

Former Sheldon Clark standout, Linda Short, looked very impressive at the point guard position picking up a game high 10 assists. Terri Harmon, another Sheldon Clark product, tossed in a game high 18 points hitting seven of nine from the floor and a perfect four of four from the charity stripe.

"It was the best game that Terri has played in two years here at Alice Lloyd," said Mills.

Katrina Short led the Lady Eagles with 31 points and had 14 rebounds. Brenda Hamilton added 19 points and had five assists.

At home, the Lady Eagles soared past Asbury College by a lopsided margin of 102-55.

Katrina Short tossed in a game high 34 points and gathered in 12 rebounds as she continued her hot shooting in District 24 play. Former McDowell standout, freshman Lori Bryant added 20 points and snatched eight boards.

For Mills, it was the bench that made the difference in the contest. "Our bench played great tonight," he said. "I am very pleased with the way we ran our offense. Realizing we didn't have the break we would take the ball back out and set it up."

Alice Lloyd Eagles UPEND TRANSYLVANIA

Todd Johnson tossed in 21 points and former McDowell standout, Henry Webb, added 20 points as the Alice Lloyd Eagles posted a 84-77 win over Pioneers. The win improved the Eagles to 15-9 on the year.

Johnson filled the nets from the three point circle early in the game as Alice Lloyd took an early lead. But the Pioneers were not ready to fold and, behind the scoring, of Dwayne Swintosky came back to take a 43-41 half time lead.

The Pioneers continued to build on the lead early in the second half but it was the pressure defense of the Eagles that brought them back into the game and the eventual win.

"It was a great win for Alice Lloyd," said head coach Jim Stepp. "It demonstrates that kids from the mountains can compete with kids from anywhere."

Against NAIA power Georgetown (number two nationally in NAIA) the Eagles did not fair so well, although they did hold their own against the Tigers. Russell Clark scored 26 points in the Eagles 110-94 loss to Georgetown.

Alice Lloyd trailed by as many as 31 points but a late rally led by Clark and freshman Mitch Harris cut the lead to 15 points but the Eagles could get no closer.

It wasn't a very exciting first quarter as the Fleming-Neon Pirates and Allen Central Rebels hooked up in a make-up game Wednesday night at the J. E. Allen Arena at Allen Central. Neither team burned the nets off the goals, especially the Rebels.

Senior Stewart Hall tossed in 21 points to lead the Rebels to a 61-43 win over the visiting Pirates. Mike Allen added 10 points.

Allen Central could only manage four first quarter points as they trailed the Pirates 8-4 after one. Two free throws by Mike Allen at the onset gave Allen Central a 2-0 lead, but the Pirates scored the next six points to take a 6-2 lead. Hall hit a jumper and Shane Stines' basket made it 8-4.

Things warmed up for the Rebels in the second stanza. Todd Lucas hit a jumper to start the quarter to cut the margin to two points, 8-6. Neon went out to a 12-8 lead, but two free throws by Lucas and a basket by David Martin tied the game, 12-12, midway through the second period. A field goal and three-pointer by Roddy Craft gave Neon a five-point lead. Allen Central went on a 11-2 run that gave them a 23-19 halftime lead. Hall's basket got the rally underway and Martin added two free throws to draw to within one point of Neon, 17-16. Larry Patton gave Allen Central the lead with a jumper and Hall hit a layup to send the Rebels out by three points, 20-17. Craft scored on a layup to break the dry spell for Neon and Hall's three-pointer gave Allen Central the four-point lead at the half.

Allen Central extended their lead to 14 points in the fourth quarter at 39-25 and led by 17 points at the third stop. The Rebels' lead came in the fourth quarter when they rolled to a 54-33 advantage. A late spurt by Neon cut the lead to 15 points before Hall hit his third trey for the final 61-43 count.

Stines led Neon with 19 points and Craft finished with 13.

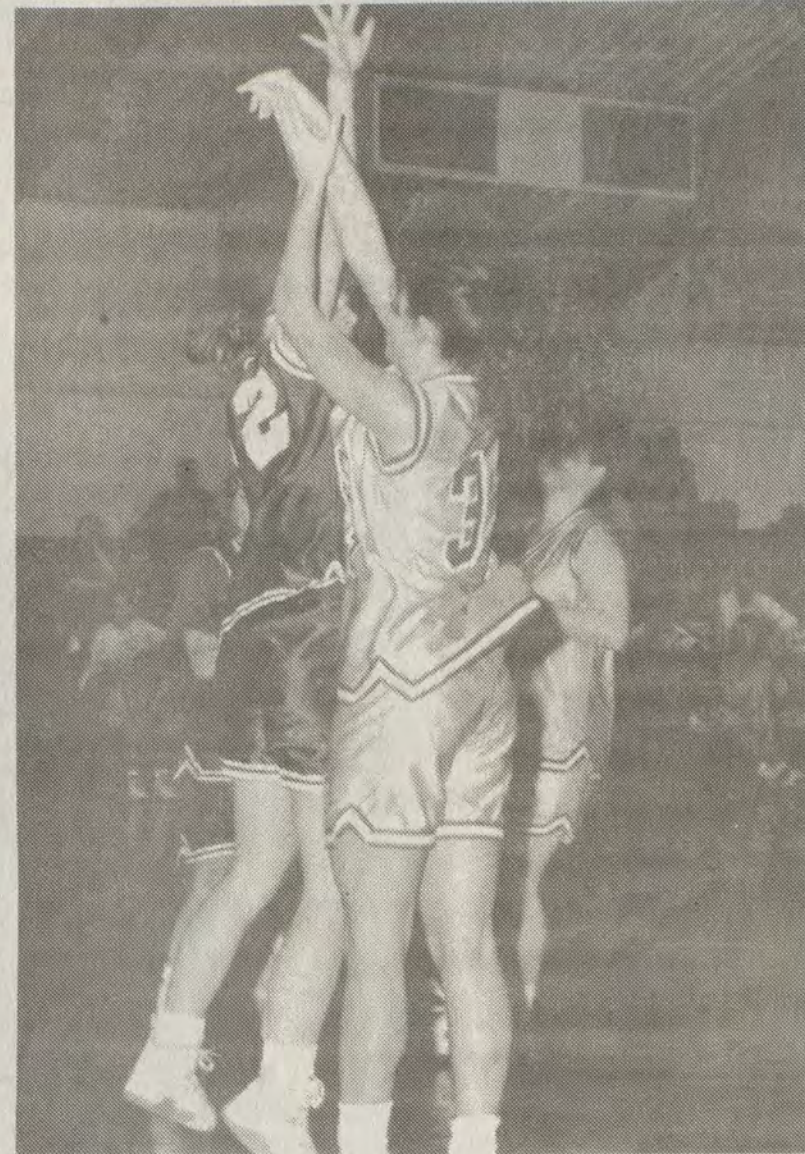

Phillip Patton tossed in seven Rebel points with Watkins and Martin finishing with six each.

Allen Central evened their record to 10-10 overall and will travel to Leslie County tonight before returning home to host Roger Harless's Sheldon Clark Cardinals.

Webb leads Eagles!

Henry Webb (32) drove on a Transylvania player in scoring two of his 20 points. Webb helped lead the Eagles to a 84-77 win over the Pioneers at Alice Lloyd.

Harmon fires up two against Ashbury

Terri Harmon, former Sheldon Clark standout, fired in a jumper from the baseline against Ashbury College in college basketball action at Alice Lloyd. The Lady Eagles posted a easy 102-55 win.

Hall at Rupp Arena!

Teddy Hall, Prestonsburg, was picked to officiate the recent Kentucky Class A state tournament at Rupp Arena recently. Hall says that all officials should have the opportunity to call a state tournament game.

McDowell Lady Daredevils second in conference

Don't take the McDowell Lady Daredevils too lightly with tournament time coming up. The Lady Devils won their last four conference games to come from fourth place to finish second after posting a 57-37 win over Betsy Layne Tuesday night. McDowell defeated Wheelwright, Prestonsburg, Wheelwright and Betsy Layne in their last four conference games. Throw in an earlier win over Belfry and then a one-point loss to the Lady Pirates and the McDowell girl's team is looking like they may have something to say about who will win this year's tournament.

One of the reasons for the McDowell surge of late has been the play of Michelle Hall who led the Lady Daredevils in scoring with 16 points. Hall also pulled down six rebounds and has three assists. But it was a balanced attack that coach Jimmy Hopkins liked. Hopkins likes for all the players to be involved in the offense. All eight players that played, scored in the game.

Debbie Fannin added 10 points, five rebounds and Shelby Howell had nine points and five rebounds. Stacy Shepherd, who continues to give needed relief off the bench, scored eight. Nikki Mullins only scored two points, but gathered in eight boards for the Lady Devils.

It was in the fourth quarter that McDowell put the Lady Cats away. Betsy Layne could only score one field goal in the final period — a layup by Jessica Hamilton — and one free throw from Tina Rice. McDowell outscored Betsy Layne 20-3 in the period.

It was a close ball game until the fourth quarter. McDowell entered the period with a slim three-point lead, 37-34. But the Lady Devils scored the first 14 points of the fourth quarter to race out to a 51-34 lead. Hall's rebound basket got the rally underway as Betsy Layne experienced some offensive difficulties. Kristy Mullins scored on a layup followed by Fannin's short jumper. Two free throws by Hall and two from Shepherd gave McDowell their first 10-point lead. After Kristy Johnson missed two free throws, Howell scored six straight points for the 17-point lead.

McDowell held a 10-8 first quarter lead as the game was tied at 2-2 and again 4-4 before McDowell went on top 8-4 on Mullins layup. Nikki Mullins grabbed an offensive rebound to make it a 10-6 game. Misty Johnson scored on a offensive rebound just before the period ended at 10-8.

The two teams continued to play close in the second quarter until McDowell took a eight point, 20-12, lead with 2:53 left in the half. Betsy Layne went on a 11-1 run to take a 23-21 lead at the half. Misty Johnson scored on a six-foot jumper to make it a 21-18 lead. Johnson came back with 35 seconds left in the quarter with a short jumper off the base line and with eight seconds to go, Kristy Johnson buried a three-pointer to give Betsy Layne the lead.

Two baskets by Fannin to start the second half netted the Lady Daredevils the lead at 25-23. McDowell went out by five points, 30-25, but Ashla Stanley hit a three-pointer and later a 15-foot jumper with 2:40 to go and tied the game at 30-30.

McDowell scored five unanswered points to claim a 35-30 lead on a free throw and two baskets by Hall. McDowell led 37-34 at the end of the third period.

Stanley led Betsy Layne in scoring with 10 points. Dee Dee Martin tossed in eight points in an off night offensively for her. Martin did pull in 12 rebounds as she continues to work hard on the boards. Hamilton and Rice finished with five points and Misty Johnson added four. Kristy Johnson had five boards. Stanley has two assists and two steals in the game.

McDowell (9-10) improves to 5-3 in the conference and will be at Paintsville Monday night. Millard will visit McDowell Wednesday night.

Betsy Layne (8-12) will host Johnson Central Monday night and travel to Sheldon Clark Thursday night.

that was to win the conference. Now we have another goal and that is to win the district."

It was a comeback game for the Trojans who trailed Prestonsburg by as many as 10 points, 36-26, in the third period. The Trojans never quit.

"We got down in the third quarter but this team never quit," said a happy coach Pack. They came back and played 32 minutes of basketball. These kids played smart basketball out there tonight. We seemed to get the big bucket when we needed it. I'm tickled to death for them.

"We are just going to enjoy this and have fun. We will come back Sunday and start getting ready for Mullins (the Trojans' last regular season game) and then get ready for the tournament."

Pack said at the beginning of the season, when he first met with the players, he asked them two things.

"I asked them if they wanted to be the best," commented Pack, "and that I expected dedication, loyalty and discipline on their part. And, Ed, they all have given that this season."

Johnson led all scorers with 24 points and Bailey tossed in 15. Johnson said that his team wasn't finished yet.

"It is a great feeling to win the conference title," he said. "We have completed a goal that we set at the start of the season and now we have another goal and that's to win the district."

"We got down there in the third quarter but we just sucked it up and never quit and played heads up ball."

"We did very well," said an otherwise subdued Steven Jackson. "We play Betsy Layne and we are just taking them one game at a time. We won't be overlooking anybody."

Jimmy Helton said that this team could go a long way. "It certainly is a different feeling," said Helton. "It's something we have been looking forward to and we reached our goal. I believe we can win the district also."

Mike Newsome, who only scored four points and was in foul trouble, found no fault in the way he played.

"I wasn't doing any scoring tonight," he explained, "but I was going outside and trying to make things happen other ways." Newsome was willing to do anything to help his team win.

Tucker led the Blackcats with 16 points. Clark and Burke each finished with 12 points.

Wheelwright (14-9) will receive the top seed in the March 4 tournament and will face number five Betsy Layne. The Trojans have scheduled a road trip that will take them to Todd Central this Saturday night. The game was not on the original schedule and was recently added because of the long projected layoff.

"I wanted our kids to have a road trip, to spend some time on the road together and have some fun," said Pack.

Prestonsburg (10-10) takes second place in the conference and will receive the first round bye. The Blackcats will take on the winner of the Allen Central and McDowell game in the tournament. Prestonsburg travels to Feds Creek tonight and then on to Paintsville Tuesday night.

until he knew the site of the tournament.

"I want to know where it's going to be before I make a statement or vote on anything," said the Prestonsburg coach.

At that time Floyd County Athletic Director, James "Frankie" Francis called on the McDowell principal for a decision. Paige turned the announcement over to Turner.

After the roll call that began the meeting, each team's record was given for the purpose of seeding the teams. Wheelwright boys were the number one seed with Allen Central's girls getting the number one seed in the girls' division. Prestonsburg was second, Allen Central third, McDowell fourth and Betsy Layne fifth for the boys.

McDowell girls received the number two seed, Prestonsburg third, Betsy Layne fourth and Wheelwright fifth.

Francis stated that the officials for the tournament would be assigned by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association. Also that the KHSAA will determine the pay for the officials.

Herschel Conn, long time Betsy Layne timer, was chosen by Coach Turner to be the official timer for this year's tournament. Mike Howard, who has been the official scorer for Allen Central this year was nominated as the official scorer for the 58th District tournament. Jackie Osborne was chosen the alternate timer and scorer.

In the past, passes for the tournament were not issued because of the abuse of them by holders. However, this year that policy has been changed and passes will be issued for each session.

"It will be difficult to recognize every eligible person every night," said Mr. Paige, who also was named tournament director. Mr. Paige put the discussion on passes in a form of a motion that was seconded by Allen Central's Jody Sword. The motion was passed. Now band members will be issued passes for the night they play.

No live coverage of the tournament will be permitted for cable television, but delay telecasts were okayed. There will be live radio coverage, but the losing coach will be prohibited from being interviewed.

Each team will be allowed 15 players in uniform and the admission for the tournament will be $4 for adults and $3 for students. There will be no reserved seats.

Bands will be admitted free on nights their team plays. Coach Johnny Martin asked that a statement be inserted in the minutes that all band directors be informed that playing while the basketball game in progress will not be tolerated. Mr. Paige strongly supported the idea and even went as far to suggest that a penalty of a technical foul be called on any band that does.

"Each band director should be informed by their principal that they will not be allowed to play during the game," said athletic director Francis.

The host school will be in charge of traffic control, parking and police protection with a fee to be determined by the host school.

Game time for the games will be 6:30 p.m. for the first game and the second game will begin approximately 25 minutes after the conclusion of the first game.

The All-Conference team was brought up for discussion by Allen Central coach Bonita Compton about the unfairness of the number one seed getting only four players on the All-Conference team. All in attendance agreed that it should be changed to five for the number one seed.

A suggestion for future consideration was brought forth by Mr. Sword who suggested that one site, preferably Prestonsburg, be determined for the tournament with no one school being the host team but all teams sharing in the revenue of the tournament.

The board also directed their attention to the issue of signs that are offensive being displayed during tournament time.

"There are signs brought in the gym that I find offensive in my view," said Mr. Paige.

"As district manager, you or your designee will make the decision on the signs," Francis told the McDowell principal. "Each sign should be viewed by the tournament manager before they are ever made up. We don't need that kind of stuff at the tournament."

Discussion was held on the board setting up a rotation of who will hold the tournament each year and the site be determined at the start of the season to avoid what has taken place this year.

Before the meeting was adjourned, Francis addressed the committee about "crowd behavior and conduct."

"The first game sets the tone for the rest of the tournament," he said. "If you have any problems arise it is best to deal with it quickly. The tournament is wide open this year and all we need to do is just throw up the ball. I want to congratulate the conference winners and we want the best two teams, boys and girls, to represent the 58th District in the regional tournament."

Coach of the Year award!

Gay Hatfield of Adams Middle School receives a plaque from Floyd County Court Clerk Carla Boyd after being named Coach of the Year in girls grade school basketball. Hatfield guided her team to the county championship.

Hatfield praises and thanks supporters: Intramural League underway at AMS

Adams Middle School girls' basketball coach Gay Hatfield took time out from her busy schedule to praise her team and thank the team's supporters after the Lady Blackcats won the Floyd County girls' basketball tournament.

"I would like to thank all the players," said Hatfield. "They worked hard all season to make it to the top and be Floyd County champions. I also would like to thank Danny Layne and Charlie Collins for the time they spent on weekends working with the girls. A very special thanks to Mr. Thomas Tackett for all his support and help he gave this team and myself."

Hatfield says that next year's team will be strong, with some veteran players returning as well as some promising new ones.

"We should be even better next year," the Adams mentor said. "We will have Jenna Fannin back and we can't do without her. Also coming back next season will be Crystal Layne, our leading scorer. Crystal is a very good ball handler. We look for Heather Collins to grow over the summer and get taller and help us rebound next season. Also we will have Meredith Majakey back and we know that she can score underneath. "The most improved player on our team, Sarah Vickers, will be back and Sarah will definitely help us."

Also returning next season will be two sixth graders that Hatfield expects to contribute to the team — Ann Hall and Mindy Hubbard. Kimi Nunnery and Andi Ratliff are just fifth graders and will be back. A very good prospect for the Lady Blackcats is fourth grader Jessica Lemaster.

"We want to thank Linda Lou Spradlin for her help in working as our P.A. announcer at all our home games," said Hatfield. "We certainly appreciate all that she did."

Without the fans support, Hatfield realizes that it wouldn't have been possible. "I just want to thank all our loyal fans that came out each game and supported us and stood behind us," she said.

Adams Middle School started their Intramural Basketball League this past Monday. The program is offered to all girls in the school as well as those at Clark and Prestonsburg grade schools who will be coming to Adams later. The program is approved by Mr. Tackett, the school principal.

city of Wheelwright was at the game Friday night at Prestonsburg. Some will never find their cattle because they took the bells off the cows and brought the bells to the game.

It was a disappointed Wheelwright crowd and then a rejoicing crowd. Disappointed, when their team fell behind by 10 points and a happy bunch when it was over. I never saw a team as pleased as the Wheelwright squad when they came out of the dressing room after the game. It had been a long time coming for the Trojans. I personally congratulate the Trojans and their fine coach on winning the title.

Well, we still have some good basketball left before the tournament starts next month and let's support our teams in the county.

Have you seen anybody eat a wart lately?...

Smile Awhile

GET SERIOUS

People these days take themselves too seriously.

Not as seriously as they did 20 years ago, though.

We grew up in the late 60s and early 70s when lots of people were really serious. They were so serious they didn't have time to cut their hair or select color coordinated clothing because they were too busy burning college buildings, bras and draft cards.

These people are the community leaders of today.

They have short hair, put bras on their cars and drink draft beer.

They are still serious, but their focus and their language has changed. Instead of saying things like "groovy" and "rock 'n roll forever," they talk about stock options, leveraged buyouts and current issues like what the hell Bob Dylan is saying when he sings. Lots of them drink wine and eat cheese now because they want to.

People today are really serious about health. They are serious about things like cholesterol, saturated and unsaturated fats and yogurt.

Yogurt is a fermented milk product made by treatment with bacteria cultures.

Just for the sake of comparison, some people believe bacteria cultures are also responsible for causing warts.

We haven't seen anybody eat a wart since the fourth grade, and it didn't look all that healthy at the time.

People today are also really serious about exercise.

The reasons are beer commercials. People who star in beer commercials do not resemble real beer drinkers. They are thin, muscular and have all their teeth.

Accomplished beer drinkers are shaped like La-Z-Boys and they can burp the National Anthem in time with Whitney Houston.

Beer drinkers have been forced to become serious about their health by their spouses who watch the same commercials and then ask, "why don't you look like that?"

Almost everyone today is serious about money.

There are some who aren't, but only because they don't have any. They are serious about trying to get some, though.

Money is a serious thing.

Without it, life, liberty and the pursuit of high political office is impossible.

Russia is a good example of how serious money is. That country was a superpower until its check bounced.

Now Russia is seeking assistance from the Appalachian Regional Commission and sleeping in a cardboard box.

You can buy their nuclear missiles at a yard sale. Seriously.

Country rolls down main street

by Tom Clifford
PM Editorial Services

What would Gid Tanner and His Skillet Lickers say if they could see country music now? Tanner was one of the first "stars" of country music, back when performers sometimes had to sidestep cow pies on the way to the stage in tent shows.

Well, welcome country music to town, America. Chances are you have already. With record sales in the multimillions, a new national TV series and two cable networks devoted solely to country, the music is bigger than Tanner possibly could have imagined—and there's no end in sight. Once the "red-headed stepchild" of the music business, country is suddenly the business in music.

Just ask Guns N' Roses. After keeping the pop world waiting for their two new albums, the band was bested immediately by country phenomenon Garth Brooks. Brooks' new album "Ropin' the Wind" debuted on the Billboard album chart at No. 1, knocking Guns N' Roses' "Use Your Illusion II" out of the position. Since its debut, "Ropin' the Wind" has stayed near the top, holding off even rap star Hammer's "Too Legit to Quit." What's more, Brooks' previous two albums are still on the Billboard) Top 40. Since his first, self-titled album came out two years ago, Brooks has sold nearly 12 million recordings.

Yet Brooks isn't the only country performer who has the competition playing second fiddle. A recent Billboard chart showed 30 of the 200 top-selling albums in America were by country artists. There is no more laughing at the guys in the 10 gallon hats.

Why the sudden explosion in popularity of country music? Part of the answer lies in the fact that country has been selling well for years, but not getting the recognition it deserved. It was not until Billboard changed the way it compiled album sales charts and began using "SoundScan," a method that more accurately reflects album sales and tracks all genres of music head-to-head, that country began to show the world how popular it is with the buying public. It then became apparent to entertainment "bigwigs" that country is not just music for rural audiences. As a result, ABC-TV, in conjunction with Dick Clark, is producing a new weekly country music program called "Hot Country Nights."

But the sudden interest by the entertainment industry does not explain what makes country popular with the public. When young country star Alan Jackson walks out on stage in Austin, Texas, to the screams of teen-age girls reminiscent of Beatlemania circa 1964, one gets the idea that the influx of young blood in country music has had a lot to do with its rise.

Today, men such as Brooks, Jackson, Clint Black and Travis Tritt and female country artists such as Reba McEntire, Patty Loveless and Kelly Willis have replaced hardliving legends like George Jones and Merle Haggard as the face of country music. Country now has sex appeal for all generations.

"For the first time in a long time, country music is being made by a younger group of people—that also brings in a younger group of songwriters," said Monte

Warden, 24, a songwriter/singer who is finding more doors in Nashville, Tennessee, opening to the younger set. "Songs express the hopes and fears of 21-year-olds everywhere."

Warden believes, as many do, that country is winning fans on the strength of its lyrical content. In a time when the rest of popular music is built around dance beats and loud guitar riffs, country's songs stand out as a breath of fresh air.

Country is reaching places and fans previously held as the province of rock 'n' roll. For example, when the Marlboro Country Music Festival played in New York City last year, young country singer/guitarist Marty Stuart packed The Ritz, a venue more accustomed to hosting heavy-metal bands than Stuart's self-described "hillbilly rock." And artists such as Dwight Yoakam, k.d. lang and Lyle Lovett are bringing new listeners to country music with air play on college radio stations.

So as the music that Gid Tanner and His Skillet Lickers helped pioneer enjoys its greatest popularity ever, the future looks bright for the rising stars of country music. And Garth Brooks probably will never have to dodge cow pies on the way to the stage.

VIVA LA DIFFERENCE

Nearly every week a new scientific study surfaces revealing facts which many people already suspected to be true; information a child would know without benefit of a test-tube.

Last week was no exception. The cover story in last week's Time Magazine boldly asked the age old question that has been on the minds of the sexes for centuries, "Why Are Men and Women Different?" In lieu of being branded a smart aleck (which I have been on numerous occasions), the question of why men and women are different was never something I lost sleep over. Granted, I have the "big eye" because of something that has been done or said by a male household member, but it had nothing, whatsoever, to do with their gender differences.

The findings, conducted by a team of behavioral scientists, have concluded that biological — not environmental — differences play a large part in determining how men and women behave. Quite frankly, this "eye-opening" revelation is not much of a surprise to anybody. If researchers wanted to spend hard-earned tax dollars on a more viable study, the question of "Why do men believe they're superior to women?" would be of greater interest.

This is a lay person's theory, but I always thought men and women were different because they were supposed to be. If you have more male chromosomes, you're a boy; more female ones, and Volia! — you're a girl. A mathematical imbecile could cipher that in his head. I did. Yet, I'm supposed to care why X's and Y's react to stimuli differently.

A test was included in the article that attempted to prove that the major differences between men and women could be pin-pointed by evaluating geometric figures. Men answered correctly 64 percent of the time while women scored an average of 41 percent. Who cares? Okay, so I answered the questions like a female. But if I hadn't, would I be considered a man? Men and women are different because if they weren't, there would be no little men and women. This, of course, is a simple deduction from a simple minded person. A person who still ponders how a wire can bring a picture of a person thousands of miles away into her home; a financial midget who believes that economic woes could be alleviated if they raised the price of an ounce of gold. A person with a mechanical aptitude that prohibits her from being able to put batteries in a flashlight because she can't distinguish +'s from -'s.

My husband is extremely more adept at changing the oil in a car than I am, but I always thought he would be. Oil-changing is not high on my list of priorities. Of course, he erroneously believed I knew more about mopping floors and peeling potatoes than he did. I believe you do what you are taught regardless of your gender. This is not to dispute the fact that biological differences can't play a large role in how we react to things.

I was always under the impression that little boys played with trucks and guns because they watched big boys play with trucks and guns. Researchers say this is false. Little boys play with trucks and guns even if they're exposed to dolls and kitchen toys. I ask you, Wouldn't you choose an object that rolls over a bunch of straw that has to be pushed manually? The bottom line is that little girls don't. They choose the straw. Of course, the little girls and boys surveyed ranged in ages from 1 1/2 to 8 years old. You can't convince me they hadn't watched women doing this, but it's

Kentucky pioneer trail encores

An estimated 150,000 viewers tuned in to the November premiere of the KET documentary Wilderness Road, making it the highest-rated program of that month and one of the most-watched KET productions ever. Wilderness Road encores on KET at 8 p.m., Sunday, February 23.

In the late 1700s, settlers along the eastern seaboard began the first leg of their western migration, traveling through Cumberland Gap and the primeval forests of Eastern Kentucky into the rich grasslands of Central Kentucky and Tennessee. Wilderness Road takes viewers along the famous route journeyed first by buffalo and Indians, and later by early pioneers, Gurney Norman, a noted Kentucky author and University of Kentucky professor, is host and author of the program.

KET has received more than 100 calls from viewers complimenting the program. "I think Wilderness Road is marvelous and should be required curriculum for every school in Kentucky," said one caller.

A Cincinnati viewer said, "Shows like this are really important, and the youngsters should know about their heritage. I've got a tape, and I won't ever let it go."

One viewer summed up many of the calls by saying that Wilderness Road is "an ideal way to learn history. It was beautifully done, and for those of us who are old enough to be nostalgic about the things we saw and heard where we have walked ourselves, it made all these things come alive."

Norman gives viewers a guided tour of the Wilderness Road beginning at Kingsport, Tenn., where Daniel Boone set off to clear a trail to Kentucky. The documentary ends in Boonesborough, but the story of the road itself continued as Boone's expedition became the first leg of the westward movement beyond Kentucky to California.

"We're telling our own story, but it's really a very American story," said Norman. "Wilderness Road celebrates this place that we have in history."

Wilderness Road is the third collaboration between Norman and KET producer John Morgan. Their first two efforts, Time on the River and From This Valley, are among KET's most popular and frequently requested programs.

During the production of Wilderness Road, the pair discovered people from a three-state area who had a great interest in the road, including retired U.S. forester John F. King of Berea, whose knowledge of a part of the road known as Boone's Trace was invaluable, according to Morgan. The program also features a Cherokee history teacher who gives her Native American perspective and a Laurel County farmer who speaks fondly of a short piece of the road crossing his land.

Wilderness Road is a KET production and was partially funded by grants from the Southern Educational Communications Association and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

safe to assume the little boys hadn't seen men doing it. Snatch these same children from the womb, and I bet every one of them would grab the smooth, shiny object.

In these troubled times, finding interesting topics that make people want to spend money on printed material is probably what prompts editors to print anything remotely related to "sex." After all, it sells. Personally, I'd like to see a study that deals with why men refuse to ask for directions when they're lost. Now there's a biological-environmental mystery that defines all reason.

Ideas for a changing constitution

Kentucky has had the same constitution since 1891. Now, more than a century later, some Kentuckians feel it is time for a change. At Issue, KET's newest public affairs series, will explore ideas about whether Kentucky should revise its constitution and, if so, how changes should be made in a program airing at 8:30 p.m., Monday, February 24.

At Issue: Constitutional Revision will be hosted by Sheryl Snyder, chairperson of the Kentucky Center for Public Issues. Snyder has been a strong advocate of constitutional revision. "Kentucky needs to bring its constitution into the 20th century before the 20th century is over," he says.

At Issue is the latest addition to KET's public affairs agenda, designed to keep Kentuckians informed and talking about critical public issues. Each Monday at 8:30 p.m., a new topic will be explored for 30 minutes by hosts and guests with expertise in the subject.

"In this time of change and reform in the state, communication and understanding are vital," said KET Executive Director Virginia G. Fox. "At Issue is one of the ways KET is increasing the amount of information available to all Kentuckians about the most critical issues of the day."

At Issue is produced by KET in association with the Kentucky Center for Public Issues, a statewide group whose goal is to better inform Kentuckians about public issues and encourage greater citizen participation in the political process.

THE COUPON CLIPPER

$1 refunds are worth the effort

Dear June—Your column discourages sending for $1 refunds. This does not make sense, because 71 cents (after the cost of postage) is better than no cents! Also, most manufacturer's refund offers are for $1.

Put another way, after postage five $1 refunds produce $3.55 in savings. Five multiplied by nothing is nothing. — Jane Primavera, Turnersville N.J.

Dear Jane—I'm sorry if my position on $1 refunds wasn't clear. You are absolutely right about $1 refund offers being the most common. If refunders did not participate in $1 offers, there would not be much left to refund with.

As a matter of fact, in checking my own record books, I send for more $1 refunds than any other. But this does not mean I do not believe manufacturers should increase the value of their refund offers.

I definitely want to see more $1.50, $2 and $3 refunds, and I am sure you do, too. You pay more for grocery products today than you did three years ago. You also pay more for the postage to send for refunds. Three years ago, the typical refund was $1. That amount hasn't changed. We have a right to complain.

When readers write to say they are discouraged because refunding is not as profitable as it once was, I want to pass these comments along to the many manufacturers who read this column.

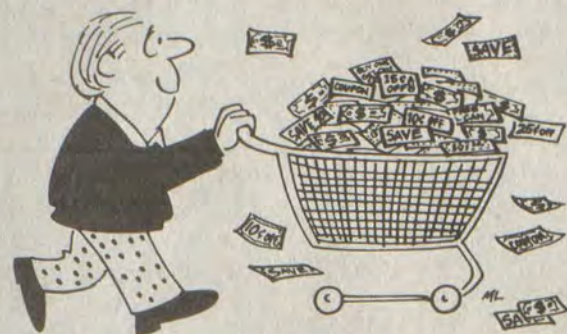

But I definitely do not want to discourage anyone from sending for a $1 refund. As you say, 71 cents is better than nothing, especially in these hard economic times.

In fact, grocery-industry sources tell me that manufacturers may be counting on consumers' increasing eagerness to save money. That's one possible reason why they have not raised the value of their refund offers.

Tips for the marketers: Manufacturers can increase the effective value of their refund offers without increasing face values by offering high-value coupons instead of cash. For example, I highly value a $1 refund that is offered in the form of two 50-cent coupons. Because supermarket double coupon promotions have become so popular in many parts of the country, two 50-cent coupons can be worth $2!

Do you look for refund offers on non-food items like hosiery and undergarments? If not, you are missing out on some wonderful ways to save money. This week's Smart Shopper, Irene Bruns of Shiner, Texas, shows how to do it: "In our local store, Fruit of the Loom underwear for men and boys has a regular price of $6.39 for a package of three. I was delighted to see them on sale for only $2.99. I keep a place in my coupon file for coupons to be used at stores other than the supermarket, and in this file I had collected four 75-cent Fruit of the Loom coupons. These coupons reduced my cost for four packages down to $8.96. But my savings were not over. I found a Fruit of the Loom $1 rebate on each package. I sent in four proofs of purchase for $4. My final cost for 12 pairs of underwear was just $4.96. What do you think of that?"

I think Irene is one very smart shopper. Her Fruit of the Loom triple proof saved her more than $20. That is what I call an exciting shopping experience.

Do you have a great buy that really stretched your budget? I publish the most interesting money-saving tips and experiences. Write to me, June Fuller, "The Coupon Clipper," in care of this publication.

Here's a refund form to write for: two pairs of free Knee Highs and one 50-cent coupon good for any Burlington Hosiery style. BURLINGTON Free Knee Highs Offer, P.O. Box NN1, Burlington, NC 27220. This offer expires April 30, 1992, but requests for the form must be postmarked by March 31, 1992. While waiting for the form, save the Universal Product Code from the package of any Sheer Legacy, Classic Full Figure or Fashion Accents Hosiery style (no Knee Highs), along with the cash-register receipt with the purchase price circled.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Today's refund offers have a value of $20.54. Soup, Candy, Snack Food (File No. 3)

These offers require refund forms: HEALTHY CHOICE Soups Try proof of purchase from Healthy Choice Soup, along with the cash-register receipt with the purchase price circled. Expires March 31, 1992.

Hambro Quartet of Pianos

The Hambro Quartet of Pianos will perform February 29 at the Convention Center, Jenny Wiley State Park. Comedy and music will be combined to create an evening of entertainment for members of the Eastern Kentucky Community Concert Series.

Eastern Kentucky Concert Series to present two area concerts

Eastern Kentucky Community Concert Series is bringing entertainment to Prestonsburg next week with performances by the University Singers and the Hambro Quartet of Pianos.

The University Singers, from the University of Missouri, will perform on Friday, February 28, at First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg at 7:30 p.m. On February 29, the Hambro Quartet of Pianos will perform at 7:30 p.m. in the Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Under the direction of Dr. Bruce Vantine, the University Singers have appeared throughout the country, including the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. The 35 select voices have been acclaimed as demonstrating "a beautiful, mature, polished sound."

The program will feature a variety of sacred and secular choral pieces, including "Praise to the Lord, The Almighty" by Hugo Distler; "O Domine Jesu Christe" by G.P. Palestrina; "Incline thine Ear" by J.S. Bach; "Regina coeli" by Aichinger; "Ascendit Deus" by Gallus; "Monotone" by Mormand Lockwood; "Prayers of Steel" by Paul Christiansen; "Concord" by B. Britten; "Abendlied" by F.J. Haydn; "Prayer from Avodath Hakodesh" by Ernest Block; "You Shall Go Out with Joy" by conductor Bruce Vantine; and several folk melodies.

Admission to this concert is free. However, it will be members only during the Series' Hambro Quartet of Pianos at the Convention Center. Members will be admitted upon presentation of their membership card, or memberships will be available at the door for anyone who desires to attend the piano recital.

The Hambro Quartet of Pianos promises to be one of the major musical events of the season. An evening of great music, brilliantly played by four virtuosi on four gleaming Kawai grand pianos, combines with hilarious fun makes this a performance not to be missed.

Playing works from classical to popular, the quartet will enchant, amuse and astound. Concerts by the Hambro Quartet of Pianos are known to be highly entertaining because of the fine quality of music mixed with wonderful comedy. Mr. Hambro quips that the group performs topless, referring to the fact that the lids of the four pianos are removed for the concert.

Leonid Hambro has forged a uniquely varied musical identity. He has combined a solo piano career with his work as composer, conductor, author, and teacher. He has appeared with major orchestras and has made numerous recordings. For ten years, he toured the world in duo-piano concerts with Victor Borge. Yolanda Licpa has performed since the age of eleven and is a frequent soloist with orchestras. Kim O'Reilly has received numerous honors and awards and is active as a soloist and chamber musician. Thaddeus Wolfe made his debut at the age of eleven. He was a student of Leonid Hambro and receives rave reviews wherever he plays.

The program at the Convention Center will include "The Overture to William Tell," Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," a Chopin "Etude," and works by Infante, Beethoven, Franz Liszt, Claude Debussy, J.S. Bach and his grandson W.F.E. Bach. Also to be performed will be "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," "Birthday Greetings from Beethoven," "Dizzy Fingers," and "Rhapsody in Blue."

You can take this tour with your fingertips

If you were blind, you'd be reading this with your fingertips by running them over a series of raised dots. That's how you read the Braille alphabet. Of course, most people have never seen a document written in Braille...

This printing house was the first national organization in the United States for people who are blind. It was founded in 1858, survived the Civil War and published its first tactile book in 1866.

In 1879, the federal Congress passed the Act to Promote the Education of the Blind, providing an annual appropriation to be used to furnish educational materials for the blind.

Today, the American Printing House for the Blind produces Braille publications, large-type textbooks and recorded publications, as well as other instructional aids.

In addition, the printing house conducts research and development to create new materials and adapt existing materials not only for blind students, but also for multi-handicapped, preschool and previous programs.

On a tour you can expect to see how Braille is done, how Braille materials are printed and the proof-reading process for Braille materials. Each publication is read aloud, including all punctuation and capitals, and compared character for character to a print copy.

In the studios you'll see and hear narrators recording "talking books." The display area will feature some educational kits for students, which include three dimensional maps and geometric tools.

It's more than a tour, it's a trip into a new world where you see with your fingers and your ears.

Tours are held at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Group tours can be arranged for adults and children in the fifth grade and up...

Down the yellow brick road to entertainment

One of the most exciting summer attractions in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky is Jenny Wiley Theatre. Each year theatre productions surpass expectations and this year's schedule promises a summer filled with entertainment.

Beginning June 19, "The Wizard of Oz" will lead youngsters and adults down the "yellow brick road" of a delightful musical fantasy; June 27 "Big River's" homespun saga of a boy's journey down the river will capture the hearts of those who view it.

On July 10, "Anything Goes" will live the crowd and on July 18, "The Jenny Wiley Story" will remind Eastern Kentuckians of a mountain heritage.

Every Monday night throughout the 1992 season, Kentucky Opry will also perform. Another special treat during the season is "Greater Tuna" scheduled June 24 in performance only, and dinner theatre on June 26 in the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center.

For more information about tickets to these productions, call 886-9274.

Area students to take part in EKU's opera presentations

Two area residents will have leading roles in the two operas presented by Eastern Kentucky University.

Melanie Park and Chip Dorton will play the lead roles in the "Impressario," composed by Mozart, and "The Old Maid and the Thief," composed by Menotti. Both operas will be performed on the same night, February 28 and 29, at 8 p.m. at the Brock Theatre.

For more information about the operas, call 622-1323.

THE LOTTERY COLUMN

THE SAME WINNING NUMBERS DON'T OFTEN REPEAT

by Ben Johnson

Q: I know that a few people have won the lottery twice, but did they use the same numbers for both wins or did they use different numbers? Have the same set of numbers ever been drawn as winners in different states?—C. U.

A: No, the same numbers were not used by the several winners who have won two lotto jackpots. So far, for all pick-6 lotto games around the country, the same set of numbers have not been winners more than once.

One man has come pretty close, however, to winning twice with the same numbers. Lon Pray of Rohnert Park, Calif., won half of a $2.96 million jackpot on Sept. 4, 1991. Three years earlier, he won $2,002 playing the same numbers when he correctly matched five of the six winning numbers.

How did Pray pick his winning numbers in the first place? A unique "system." He used an unusual formula of family birthdays added together, then divided them in half.

Q: When unclaimed prize money—as in the case of a multimillion dollar prize that goes uncollected—is returned to the lottery prize pool, just how much actually gets into the prize pool for future jackpots?—Y. O.

A: Only about a third of the announced prize money that goes unclaimed actually goes back into the prize pool to be used for future prizes.

On Dec. 17, 1991, an unclaimed New Jersey Lottery Lotto ticket worth more than $7.4 million expired since no one came forward to claim the prize within the required one-year period since the drawing.

That meant that the $3,603,059 in cash—not $7.4 million—that would have been used to purchase the 20-year annuity prize worth $7.4 million for the winner was available to be returned to the state. And it was.

First, 30 percent of the $3.6, or $1,080,918, was taken immediately and put into the state's Lottery Fund, which is used for state aid to education and institutions.

Q: Our state doesn't have a lottery and I am too far away from a neighboring state with a lottery to easily travel there every week to buy lottery tickets. I use the commercial subscription companies where you call in your order and pay by credit card, and the company then buys the tickets for you and notifies you if you win.

A: Not really, but hang in there because your state is voting on the lottery in September 1992, and by all estimates the public is going to overwhelmingly approve a lottery.

What you may want to do is take a trip to a neighboring lottery state and do an advance purchase if the lottery state offers this option. With an advance purchase, you buy lottery tickets for drawings 10, 20, 30, even 52 weeks in advance.

Perhaps in the future states will work out arrangements to sell one another's lottery tickets. It could be done by selling tickets from out-of-state lotteries for $1.50 instead of for $1.

Fox is looking for a few good ghosts — "Sightings: Ghosts" special to air Parapsychologists Loyd Auerbach and Kerry Gaynor, veteran investigators in cases of paranormal phenomena, are interested in speaking with people who are currently experiencing ghosts or poltergeist phenomena in their home or business for "Sightings: Ghosts," a special that will explore paranormal activity. Legitimate cases will be considered for possible use in the "Sightings: Ghosts" special airing Friday, February 28, 9 p.m. on WDKY FOX 56.

Individuals encountering such activity should call The Office of Paranormal Investigations at (415) 553-2588.

"Sightings: Ghosts" is a follow-up special from Executive Producers Henry Winkler and Ann Daniel, who also produced the critically acclaimed "The UFO Report: Sightings" special, which aired October 18, 1991, breaking the existing ratings record for Fox on Friday nights at 9 p.m. The special garnered a 7.4 rating and a 13 share. Fox ranked #1 in all adult male demos in the time period as well.

"We are very proud of the results on 'The UFO Report: Sightings' special and to once again be partnered with Fox Broadcasting Company to produce this upcoming special on the phenomena of ghosts," says Henry Winkler, Executive Producer.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Bertinelli, Heston Lemmon star in TV movies

By Steven Alan McGaw
On Sunday, Feb. 23, NBC offers Valerie Bertinelli and George Dzunda in What She Doesn't Know, in which a district attorney's investigations of police corruption uncover her own father's mob ties. ABC counters with Barry Levinson's Oscar-winning Rain Man, starring Dustin Hoffman.
ABC aims for the white-knuckle crowd on Monday, Feb. 24, with Crash Landing: The Rescue of Flight 232. Charlton Heston and Richard Thomas stars in this true account of a Sioux City, Iowa, plane crash. NBC begins the miniseries Grass Roots, starring Corbin Bernsen as a Southern lawyer battling racism. The conclusion airs the following evening, on Tuesday, Feb. 25.

Film buffs will enjoy AMC's showing of Suddenly on Wednesday, Feb. 26. Frank Sinatra plays an assassin hired to slay the president as he arrives in a small Midwestern town for a fishing trip. ABC schedules a rare midweek movie in Rob Reiner's When Harry Met Sally..., starring Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan.

Jack Lemmon stars in the premiere of HBO's For Richer, for Poorer on Saturday, Feb. 29. Lemmon plays a rich businessman who makes himself poor in order to teach his lazy son (Jonathan Silverman) a lesson. Also Saturday, CBS goes for laughs with Eddie Murphy and Judge Reinhold in Beverly Hills Cop II.

STEVE'S BEAT

'ABC's In Concert' renewed, with changes

By Steven Alan McGaw
Rock 'n' roll will stay on late-night TV for a while longer. ABC's In Concert has been renewed through the middle of the year, but there will be changes made. Each edition will feature a different celebrity host and include segments spotlighting new artists, plus interview clips and documentary material.
Good luck to all the nominees in this week's Grammy Awards, especially B.B. King, nominated in the Best Traditional Blues category for Live at the Apollo. Other favorites include Jesus Jones' "Right Here, Right Now," up for Best Pop Performance (Duo or Group), and Robbie Robertson's Storyville album in the Best Rock Vocal Performance (Solo) division.

Congratulations to Arsenio Hall, Janet Jackson and CNN's Bernard Shaw, all recently honored in the NAACP's Image Awards. Magic Johnson received the Jackie Robinson sports award.
Marlon Brando recently reported to Madrid to portray Spanish Inquisitor Torquemada in Ilya Salkind's epic-in-the-making, Christopher Columbus: The Discovery. Other stars include Rachel Ward as Queen Isabella and Tom Selleck as King Ferdinand.
Bravo to Peter Jennings and ABC News for last month's Growing Up in the Age of AIDS, an honest, intelligent look at the disease from teenagers' point of view.

TV PIPELINE

Many readers curious about Ann Jillian

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Can you provide me with an address for actress Ann Jillian? —Kerry Piller, West Plains, Mo.

A: I received quite a few letters asking about Jillian this week. So, for you and the others who wanted to know, you can write her in care of the William Morris Agency, 151 El Camino Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

Q: Could you give me an address for Oliver Stone? I am very impressed with his films and admire people who have the courage to examine controversial issues. I often want to write to movie stars or authors and am wondering if there are any directories available to the public so I can do this. —Betty Hawkins, Silver City, N.M.

A: You can write Stone care of CAA, 9820 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212.

There are many books available with addresses of authors, actors, directors, etc., but they are not always accurate or up-to-date, so I always call the appropriate guild or agency to check my facts. Reference books can cost anywhere from $5 to $500; periodicals such as Entertainment Weekly, Hollywood Reporter and Variety can offer needed background information, too.

If you are trying to reach an author, you might contact the publisher for information. Sometimes, it can be like Sherlock Holmes looking for clues, and you'll seldom find the information you need on the first try, but most research just takes common sense. You might begin by checking at a local library or bookstore for reference books already on the shelves, then ask for more help at the counter. If you have the name of a book, its author or publisher and want more information, check a copy of Books in Print. Happy hunting!

Ann Jillian

Q: My friends and I would love it if you would give us the address where we could write to Edward Furlong. —Sophia Theresa, Ridge Crest, Calif.

A: You can write the young star of Terminator 2: Judgment Day in care of Susan Smith and Associates, 121 North San Vicente Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90211.

Q: I am a big fan of MacGyver and want to know if there is any way to bring the series back. Also, are there any Richard Dean Anderson fan clubs? —C.M., Greenville, Texas.

A: After debuting on Sept. 29, 1985, MacGyver aired on ABC for seven seasons. While never an out-and-out hit, it certainly had a loyal viewer following. What viewers may not know is that a series becomes more expensive to produce the longer it airs, chiefly because of a built-in system of annual raises for the stars.

Fortunately for fans, the series is still available in reruns on cable's USA network. Write to Anderson care of Paramount Domestic Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., 90038. I know of no MacGyver fan clubs.

Delve into Oscar's treasure chest

By Steven Alan McGaw

As this year's Academy Awards presentation grows closer, it's fun to look back at some Oscar recipients of the past. Nearly all Best Picture winners are available on home video, as well as most of the nominated performances.

1955's Marty won the Best Picture trophy, and director Delbert Mann was similarly honored by his peers. (In the voting, actors vote for actors, etc.; all Academy members have a voice in the Best Picture designation.) Ernest Borgnine was named Best Actor and deservedly so; he's never been better than in this moving story of a lonely butcher in the Bronx. Paddy Chayefsky wrote the script, based on his own television play, and received an Oscar for his work as well. Co-stars Joe Mantell and Betsy Blair were both nominated for their performances.

In 1971, Peter Bogdanovich's The Last Picture Show garnered both of the supporting performance awards. Ben Johnson is unforgettable as Sam the Lion, owner of the local movie house and pool hall. Cloris Leachman is equally haunting as a desperate older woman who seduces young Timothy Bottoms. Oscar nominations also went to Bogdanovich and actors Jeff Bridges and Ellen Burstyn. Robert Surtees' beautiful black-and-white photography perfectly suits Bogdanovich's lean, simple adaptation of Larry McMurtry's novel. © TV Listing Inc.

Prestonsburg Community College begins Wellness Program

Reducing stress

How do you start a fitness and wellness program with no budget, and no facilities? Just ask Deborah Floyd, president of Prestonsburg Community College. She has just initiated a pilot program at Prestonsburg which is partially funded and supported by the UK Wellness and Fitness Program. In clearing out a storage area and game room, she discovered long neglected shower and locker facilities and so a fitness program was born.

Dr. Floyd believes that "exercise can reduce stress and make workers more fit and more productive." According to Floyd, employees need to have positive attitudes toward themselves, and their work; healthy exercise is one good way of moving in that direction. Many CEO's, like Dr. Floyd, feel that health promotion within the work setting is essential. An excellent way of promoting employee health is through a wellness program.

In an effort to enhance the health and well-being of the Prestonsburg Community College employees, Dr. Floyd has appointed a 10 member wellness advisory committee composed of a cross section of faculty, administrators, and support staff. The overall purpose of the committee is to assure that on-site health promotion programs are initiated and effectively promoted. The UK Wellness and Fitness Program is assisting in the planning and implementation process.

A health enhancement program has been developed which provides the 145 PCC employees with two health enhancement options. Option A is a fitness club membership. The Option A group will exercise three times a week and use one other day during the week to attend stress seminars. The Option B group will be involved with fitness activities; however, they will not attend structured classes.

To kick off membership in "The Club," 35 PCC employees traveled to Lexington where they went through two days of health profiles, fitness evaluations and a variety of health education programs, including a health food banquet with Rock Oliver as the keynote speaker. His topic was "How motivation and the correct attitude can contribute to success in making positive lifestyle changes." Oliver came to UK in 1989 from the University of Pittsburgh, where he worked with Mike Gottfried, the football coach. He is presently strength training coach for the UK basketball team; however, he is resigning to take a job with Sam Wyatt and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The two day extravaganza was sponsored by the UK Wellness Program and gave the employees an idea of where they were before they began their lifestyle intervention programs. In 15 weeks, the members of the UK Wellness Program will travel to PCC to re-test the employees and provide feedback on the effectiveness of the health enhancement procedures.

Tim Dunnagen, the Director of the UK Wellness Program, is very excited about the programming that is taking place at PCC. "Typically, you do not see organizations recruiting such a large percentage of their employees into wellness programming." PCC has been very successful in this effort primarily for two reasons. One, they have tremendous upper management support. "It is one thing for upper management to say that they support health promotion; it is something else if they are actually exercising with the employees." Second, the PCC workforce was involved in the planning process which developed ownership in their wellness program. "You can't go out to set up health promotion programs and expect everyone to participate. The employees' thoughts and feelings must be considered in the process." PCC has done a good job in both of these areas. Plans at PCC include expanding the programming to students as soon as possible.

The Wellness Program is looking forward to expanding the programming at PCC in the future and will use this site as a model for programs at other community colleges.

She was selected as the first runner-up in the National Pageant held in Hawaii this past August.

Break Fort Knox is lottery's most popular game ever

Break Fort Knox has been brought back by popular demand. The Kentucky Lottery is going to rerun their most popular instant ticket ever, Break Fort Knox. This will be the fourth time Break Fort Knox has been reissued. There have already been over 32 million Break Fort Knox tickets sold to Kentuckians.

"We brought it back by popular demand. The players just can't get enough of it. We can't keep our retailers stocked," said Jim Hosker, Kentucky Lottery Corporation President. "It is a game that the people of Kentucky can relate to."

Break Fort Knox offers the players the chance to win up to $1000 instantly. To win, the players have to scratch off the gold bars and match three prize amounts or two prize amounts and a gold bar "doubler." If the player uncovers a doubler, the prize amount will be doubled.

Break Fort Knox will be reissued and in retail stores on February 17, 1992 along with Cash Surprise. This will be the third time that the Kentucky Lottery has reissued Cash Surprise. Also, the last day to claim a prize on High Card, one of the Lottery's first instant games, will be March 1.

SMART MONEY

BRUCE WILLIAMS

DEAR BRUCE: I opened my own business about 21/4 years ago, and everything is going along real well. I do everything from janitorial work to sales to manufacturing. Business has increased to a point where I am working 16-18 hours a day and still not getting the job done.

I am very reluctant to hire someone. I was an employee and I know how much employees can goof off. My experience has been that most guys just work enough to get by. I know you own a number of businesses. What would you suggest? I would like to grow, but there's a limit to how many hours I can work. — P.S., Newark Valley, N.Y.

DEAR P.S.: I guess all young entrepreneurs feel they're invaluable and irreplaceable to their businesses. Nothing could be further from the truth. If you're a one-horse operation, meaning you're the only guy working there, what happens if something happens to you? You're not just out of business, you're busted.

The first thing you should do is figure out what you do best and stay with that. What you do next best, maybe stay with that. Or look at it the other way: What is it you do the least well? That's the first area for which you should replace your services.

It may be sales is your forte, and working in the shop is the thing that you do least well. Given that, you hire someone to do the shop work. Nobody can do everything well. Furthermore, if you limit yourself to your own activity, you limit yourself to a fixed number of hours a day. You should understand that you become less efficient the more hours you put in.

It's tough to learn to delegate, but unless you do, you are doomed to failure. Hire one employee, choose well, make him or her feel important, pay for this individual's labors, and I think you'll find that you can grow and still provide a competent product or service. From time to time, you're going to find someone who's a clunker, but that's true with bosses as well as employees.

DEAR BRUCE: We received a solicitation from a Las Vegas casino that seems too good to be true. They're offering airfare, free coupons and casino chips at a very, very good price. The casino is a large one.

When we called they said it was a direct offer from them, not through anybody packaging it. We will get the airfare, hotel reservations and coupons for the casino chips and other goodies in the mail. They gave us the Chamber of Commerce as a reference, and we checked that out and it all seems to look good.

I have always been of the opinion that when something looks too good to be true, it usually is. Are you aware of this promotion, and is it legitimate? —F.T., Nashville, Tenn.

DEAR F.T.: As far as I know, it's a perfectly legitimate operation. I believe I know the casino in question, and they're targeting the smaller gambler, not the big whales that some of the other casinos are looking for.

The free casino chips are legitimate, but they can only be played; they cannot be cashed in. If you win a wager, you are paid with a negotiable chip, and they take away the free chip. If you lose the wager, the free chip is taken away.

The casino is operating under the premise (which is probably legitimate), that once you start playing with their free chips, you'll start buying regular chips and very possibly wind up a bit of a loser. As long as you want to go to Las Vegas and have the discipline to only gamble with money that you can afford to lose, trips of this kind are truly a decent bargain. Enjoy.

THE SHAPE OF KENTUCKY

by J. Holly McCall

In his A History of Kentucky, noted Kentucky historian Thomas D. Clark wrote that "If a talented demographer had undertaken to create a state inside an irregular set of boundaries which would include a wide diversity of physical conditions it is doubtful that he could have improved on Kentucky."

Perhaps no other state in the Union boasts such a diverse set of geological and topographical features as Kentucky. From limestone deposits and mineral springs to the state's rivers and mountains, geology and geography have actively influenced the lives of Kentuckians, impacting both physical and cultural life.

This is the seventh in a series of eight vignettes focusing on the Commonwealth's geological features and events that contributed to shaping the land—and life—Kentuckians know today.

A SHAKY INFLUENCE

Infrequent but severe earthquakes not only changed the course of the Mississippi River, but also created Reelfoot Lake, a very small portion of which lies in the southwestern most tip of Kentucky, in Fulton County. Continental rifting about 650 million years ago caused the graben, or depression in the earth's crust, that makes the Purchase area susceptible to such shocks.

The center of the depression is at New Madrid, Missouri, less than 30 miles west of Hickman, Kentucky. The quakes in 1811 and 1812 ran along the New Madrid Fault between St. Louis and Memphis, also forming Reelfoot Lake. They were by far the most severe cataloged on the North American continent, even ringing church bells in Boston and permanently altering the flow of the Mississippi River. New Madrid itself was destroyed, but a sparse population led to few deaths. Fortunately, despite recent earthquake scares in the area, experts say New Madrid episodes occur only about once every 600 years.

Today, Reelfoot Lake covers 25,000 acres, including 13,000 acres of boatable water. It is surrounded by hardwood forests and farmland.

Reelfoot National Wildlife Refuge, not far from Sassafras Ridge, and other nearby oxbow lakes along the Mississippi River, serve as nesting areas for the bald eagles which have returned to their native area after more than 20 years of absence.

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of bicentennial features that appeared in BACK HOME IN KENTUCKY magazine this year. While no single publication could do justice to the Commonwealth's history, these features will try to cover as many of the highlights as possible. In the coming months look for such topics as Folk Heroes, Social Movements, Technology & Science, Kentucky At War, Cultural Influences, and Kentucky's National Contributions. For more information contact Back Home in Kentucky at the magazine's toll-free number, 800/1 229-9797.

Miller to perform at EKU High School

A student at Prestonsburg High School will perform at the fifth annual Eastern Kentucky University Honors Band Weekend February 21-23.

The student, selected by his band director, Rodney Miller, is Michael Nunemaker who plays the tuba.

About 280 students, narrowed down from a field of over 600 applicants, from 60 schools in Kentucky and Ohio are expected to attend along with their directors and chaperones.

The event will feature two free concerts open to the public. Performing at 7 p.m. Saturday, February 22, will be the EKU Symphonic Band, under the direction of Director of Bands Dr. Robert Hartwell, and the Faculty Woodwind and Brass Quintet. A second concert featuring the two honors bands will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, February 23. Both concerts will be held in the Gifford Theatre in the Jane Campbell Building.

Students attending the Honors Bands Weekend will spend some 15 hours in rehearsals with guest conductors, will attend the Saturday evening concert and be treated to clinics on each of the instruments by EKU Department of Music faculty. Students will have the opportunity to audition for scholarships to attend either the University, if seniors, or the 57th season of the Stephen Foster Music Camp.
