Out of control

Fans from both sides of Prestonsburg and Paintsville's cheering sections poured onto the floor in the fourth quarter of the game Tuesday night between the two schools causing the game to be halted and the gym emptied. The game was stopped with two minutes and twenty-two seconds remaining. After the gym was cleared, the game resumed without the fans and Prestonsburg came away with a 63-58 victory.

The Paintsville gymnasium floor resembled anything but a basketball court Tuesday night. Fans from the two schools poured onto the floor as a riot broke out interrupting the finish of the game between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

The game was in the final period, with 2:22 remaining on the scoreboard clock and a foul had been called on a Paintsville player sending John Clark to the free throw line. Attention shifted from the playing floor to the north end of the gymnasium where a fight broke out between students from Prestonsburg and an adult fan from

Says attorney for Job Corps official

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

An attorney representing a Carl D. Perkins Job Corps counselor accused of soliciting an assault on a student said Thursday that his client's 1966 murder conviction has nothing to do with the misdemeanor charges pending against him.

"They're just dragging his name through the mud for nothing," Prestonsburg attorney Keith Bartlett said. "He has repaid his debt to society.'

Bartlett's comments were made in response to news reports that his client, Clarence Trammel Jr., 52, of Wheelwright, served 20 years in Attica prison in New York after being convicted of murder. He was sentenced to 20 years to life, according to published reports.

Trammel was on parole from that conviction when he was hired as a residential advisor at the Job Corps center in 1986. He was released from parole in September 1988.

Ed Conway, an administrator with the Kentucky Corrections Cabinet, said in a published report that "his office had no problems with Trammel during his three years under Kentucky supervision."

Battle wounds close to the 'heart'

by Janice Shepherd Staff Writer

For almost fifty years, Eugene Wells of Goble-Roberts Addition has carried a piece of World War II embedded in his hip. Now Wells will also carry a piece of that war near his wheart.

Last week, Wells was awarded the Navy's Purple Heart, one of the military's highest honors, for injuries he received in one of the major air-naval battles of war.

When World War II erupted, Wells did not hesitate; he enlisted and was assigned to the U.S.S. Aaron Ward 483, a Navy battleship. Single and carefree (Navy men don't need to be married, says Wells), he thought it would be fun to join the Navy and see the world. "But what I saw was not what I expected," Wells said.

"When you meet a man face to face on the ocean, it's the best man who survives."

On board the Aaron Ward, Wells served as a "fireman" (a machinist mate). His duties included operating different types of machinery, as well as to man the larger guns.

"Bloody Friday off Guadalcanal." The Aaron Ward was part of a task force of five cruisers and eight destroyers. The Japanese attack force cruiser and 14 destroyers.

Halcion manufacturer denies allegations

by Dodie Webb Staff Writer

The maker of a highly controversial drug and an area physician have both denied any responsibility for the suicide of a Floyd County resident in response to a suit filed recently by a local attorney.

The UpJohn Company of Kalamazoo, Michigan, the maker of the drug halcion, and Dr. Rodney Handshoe, a Prestonsburg cardiologist, have denied any liability in the death of Billy Virgil Johnson, a Weeksbury resident who committed suicide on February 15, 1991 after taking the controversial drug halcion for approximately one year.

UpJohn's and Handshoe's claims were in response to a suit filed by Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf on behalf of Johnson's wife, Mary Ann, which alleges Johnson died "as a direct result of taking the highly controversial drug.'

Halcion was prescribed to Johnson by Handshoe for a period of about a year causing, Pillersdorf alleges, Johnson to become a "raging paranoid." Johnson's personality deterio-

When the air battle began, Wells and his two shipmates manned a 40 mm gun located near the engine room. They got off a few rounds before a bomb exploded "right in front of them." Wells was knocked unconscious. When he came to, he was lying on top of the gun barrel. His two shipmates "had been blown away," said Wells.

Metal had penetrated his hip, but Wells did not know he was injured until blood flowed into his shoe. He glanced at the destruction around him and vented his feelings with unprintable words. Five brothers, Well's friends, aboard a cruiser alongside the destroyer, were also killed during the battle.

"I wanted to complete the game," explained Prestonsburg coach Gordon Parido. "Coach (Bill Mike) Runyon wanted to complete the game but not under the conditions that existed." Thus the suggestion to clear the gym and finish the game without the fans.

"I thought it was a good ballgame and I told my players after the game how proud I was of them but when they went to school tomorrow (Wednesday) they will not hear talk about the game but what happen at Paintsville that night," Parido said

When some sort of order was restored, coach Runyon along with another school official, approached the scorers table and the public address announcer saying "cut it off," meaning call the game off. Prestonsburg held a 55-51 lead at the time.

According to Paintsville principal Grayson Boyd, the ordeal started with other incidents between the two schools.

"There was an incident that took place at Johnson Central earlier," explained the Paintsville principal, "when an altercation took place between some boys from Prestonsburg and boys from Paintsville. It took place after the game in the lobby at Johnson Central while they were on their way out. Then we had a situation arise at Prestonsburg last year and an incident during the regional baseball tournament last year.

"It was all building up. One of our kids who lives in the Prestonsburg area received phone calls that they were going to get him," continued Boyd. "There were rumors that there was going to be a fight last night but it would happen after the game."

According to Boyd, both coaches knew of the possible rumble and had cautioned their players about the matter.

"I felt that both coaches conducted themselves well in handling the situation," said Boyd. "One of our players got involved in the fight because he saw his dad in trouble and went to help him. The boys were playing hard and it is a shame the fans did not get to see the ending of the game."

Boyd stated that it was the decision of both coaches to clear the gym in order for the game to be completed.

"If we would have kept playing there would be no telling what would have happened," said Boyd.

Boyd said that as far as he knew nothing happened after the game or after the fans were asked to leave the gym. The Paintsville principal also noted that the big talk in Paintsville was the way the Prestonsburg student body had acted while the Paintsville seniors were being honored on "Senior Night" and the lack of control over the students.

After the senior basketball, football and cheerleaders were recognized the group moved to the center of the Paintsville gym to sing the school's alma mater. While singing, the students in the first four rows of the Prestonsburg cheering section started getting loud, disrupting the event and that didn't seem to sit well with the Paintsville fans. One such fan was Will Kendrick a Prestonsburg High School graduate and basketball player. Kendrick walked over to the Prestonsburg cheering section and asked the students to "be quiet because they wouldn't do you that way if they came to your place."

"Somebody connected with the school, a principal, teacher or adult, should have have been there to take control of the kids," said Kendrick. "Had that been done at the first then the trouble would have been choked off. It could have been avoided if somebody these kids could identify with from their school had been in control."

Kendrick stated that he was disappointed with the way the student section behaved at the game.

Prestonsburg Booster Club president Freddie James cautioned against trying to strip the students of of their rights to be enthusiastic at the games, but at the same time condemned the way they acted.

"Our fans are extraordinary fans. I woke up this morning (Wednesday) and felt guilty that I didn't so something to head this off," James explained. "I thought that there sat a football coach, an assistant football coach and Phillip Tucker, who is a state trooper, and we did nothing to control the situation."

James said that the kids "will respect other schools" from now on.

"There will be some rules laid down and the 15 or so boys that were involved will be called in and challenged to the fact that they are the leaders and they are the ones who can keep the activities going at the school. But they are going to be held responsible for their actions."

James said that if the students did not want to abide by the rules then they will not be allowed to be involved.

"This really started 25 years ago (rivalry with Paintsville)," said James. "It was going on when I was in school. But we will do something about it. coach (Gordon) Parido, coach (Bill) Letton and coach (John) Derossett

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul-Voltaire

What a shame

by Scott Perry

One of Eastern Kentucky's oldest high school rivalries most likely came to an ugly end Tuesday night.

That's a shame.

For as long as any living soul can remember, Prestonsburg and Paintsville High Schools battled in the athletic arenas for boasting rights in the Big Sandy Valley. Who's boasting now?

It's a shame you can't play a high school basketball game without a zookeeper present.

It's a shame that vulgarities and obscenities have replaced the rah, rahs and chants of "we're number one."

It's a shame, no matter what color pom pom you carry, that a game can get so far out of control that the fans have to be removed so play can continue.

It is, after all, just a game. This one was just a shame.

Report to Kentucky Senator Wendell Ford

SENATE-PASSED ENERGY BILL CAN SAVE KENTUCKY JOBS

the National Energy Security Act of 1992, which has now been passed by the Senate.

I am pleased to report that this bill contains my amendments to strengthen the energy policies of this nation while saving coal-mining jobs, uranium-enrichment jobs and other energy related jobs in Kentucky.

A number of my amendments are aimed at promoting technologies to allow us to protect our environment while continuing to burn domestic coal, including high-sulfur coal from Kentucky and elsewhere.

One amendment, for example, would promote innovative refining processes such as liquefaction allowing us to clean up our coal before rather than after it is burned.

Many of us in Kentucky have been working for this kind of energy efficiency since the early 1970s. But our efforts to reduce our dangerous dependence on foreign oil were sidetracked by some of our leaders in Washington in the 1980s — and we have seen the results.

Brave Americans have now made great sacrifices to protect oil supplies from the Persian Gulf. We are now importing 50 percent of this nation's oil at a cost of $50 billion a year. We could be importing 70 percent by the year 2010 unless we press ahead with the changes we have begun.

We have already seen the Administration back away from a shortsighted effort to hold up the fifth round of our existing clean-coal technology program. We are gaining momentum, and our new energy bill can keep that momentum going into the 21st Century.

Our bill, S. 2166, calls for a wide Kentucky has much to gain from range of energy efficiency and conservation measures. It can help us to make the best possible use of abundant supplies of coal along with natural gas, nuclear power, renewable energy and alternative fuels.

Another one of my amendments is designed to save a domestic enterprise in which Kentuckians are helping to provide enriched-uranium services to our nuclear-power industry.

My amendment moves this vital enterprise into a new governmentowned corporation. Just as importantly, it moves the enterprise out of the U.S. Department of Energy, which continues to lose markets to the Soviet Union and other foreign producers.

This new corporation can put us in a much better position to pressure this Administration to make much needed investments in a new uranium-enrichment technology known AVLIS can save the U.S. enterprise if we can just get it in place quickly enough. I have every hope that we can save many hundreds of Kentucky jobs by building an AVLIS plant to replace our existing uraniumenrichment plant in Paducah.

Our bill may not be perfect, but it moves us toward a number of crucial energy goals - goals that many Kentuckians have been striving to reach for some 20 years now.

We need to keep pushing as hard as we can until sensible energy legislation is enacted by the Congress and signed into law by the President. I urge all Kentuckians to support this effort to build a better energy future for all Americans.

Editor:

For years the people of this state who own property where the mineral and surface have been severed have had to step aside and watch as the gas and oil industry move in with their bulldozers and drilling rigs.

of Kentucky that legislation created Kentuckians For The Commonto regulate the gas and oil industry is now being considered by the Kentucky General Assembly.

The proposed legislation contains three important provisions which are, surface owner rights, water protection and reclamation. The surface owner rights provisions require the operator to obtain the landowner's permission prior to drilling and the payment of any agreed upon compensation before drilling can begin. The water protection provisions require the operator to do background testing and monitoring of all domestic water sources within one half mile of the drill site. The operator would also be required to replace or restore any domestic water source that is damaged or destroyed by the drilling operation. The reclamation provisions would require the operator to post a performance bond that would be sufficient to reclaim the drill site and roads to the site. Representatives from the Division of Oil and Gas in the Department of Mines and Minerals would be required to do periodic inspections of the drill sites.

This bill is being sponsored by Senator Benny Ray Bailey of Knott County. If you agree that this legislation is desperately needed, please call your legislators at 1-800-372-7181 and tell them that you want them to support Senate Bill 255. Imagine what life would be like if the only drinkable water in your house was what you bought in jugs at the grocery store. Or what you hauled from a distant spring. Suppose your water rusted out your washing machine and bathroom fixtures. Imagine drinking water that made you nauseous or raised your blood pressure or killed your pets.

These are not imaginary situations for thousands of Kentucky families whose water supply has been contaminated by unsound mining practices. Mining operations are not only polluting surface streams. They are also defiling ground water, the source of drinking wells and natural springs, and ground water, once polluted, cannot be replaced. If the present state of affairs continues, vast areas of Kentucky will soon have no water that is fit to drink.

Kentucky's water supply is threatened by both deep mining and strip mining. Current strip mine regulations are not strict enough, and deep I would like to inform the citizens mining is hardly regulated at all. wealth, a state-wide citizens organization, is proposing that the General Assembly pass a water protection bill, House Bill 567. This legislation would provide for a set of regulations to protect our water supply from careless underground mining or surface mining practices.

Water is priceless. Contact your legislators and ask them to vote for water protection legislation, so Kentuckians, wherever they live, can turn on the tap and drink their fill.

Editor:

I am responding to Representative Pat Freibert's effort to banish cockfighting in Eastern Kentucky. The Gentle Lady from Fayette contends that cockfighting is "barbaric, associated with gambling and drugs and harmful to children". What she describes is more characteristic of a rock concert at Rupp Arena, than a cockfight in Eastern Kentucky. I would further submit that more than a modicum of gambling, booze, and drug use occurs at the local Lexington horse races. I also remind the Gentle Lady from Favette that the Legislature approved the lottery that was to be used to improve the quality of life for certain groups of Kentuckians, such as the aged and reduce the taxation burden. It has done nei-

I do applaud Representative Freibert for her honest concern about our Eastern Kentucky culture and art forms. However, cockfighting is hardly on our list of issues that desperately need attention. Instead, I implore her not to take up the valuable time and energy of this Legislature with such a frivolous bill and concentrate on health care, health insurance, depression era unemployment, coal severance tax, highway and bridge construction, economic innovations, child abuse, treatment centers for alcohol and drug victims, and a host of other economic and social needs.

I respectfully request the Honorable Lady from Fayette to rally her colleagues in addressing these issues that are critical to Eastern Kentucky and indulge us simple hillbillies and our beloved feathered spartans.

Your second question is going to be: Are you going to be cavalier and help her with her gardening more this year? Probably not. Don't talk to me about being fair. She loves to garden and I love to play tennis. What could be more fair than that? Seems like a perfect set up to me. What kind of example am I setting for my sons? Hopefully, I am showing them that life is a mixture of work and play. I hope I am showing them that there is more to life than money (I can't believe I just wrote that sentence). # Health fair provides "hands on" approach for Prater Elementary Prater Elementary was fortunate to get some terrific assistance from our local professional community in putting together a health fair this past January 31. Representatives of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Prestonsburg Fire Department, Kentucky State Police, Mountain Comprehensive Care, and Christian Appalachian Project worked together with parents and teachers to make the day a valuable learning experience for all involved.

"It is encouraging to see parents, teachers and the community working together to make learning meaningful. Many people are willing to get involved in the education of children. We must utilize them," says teacher Rebecca Watts.

Our Lady of the Way representatives presented two skits on Scrubby Bear and smoking prevention. Larry Adams of the Prestonsburg Fire Department demonstrated CPR and first aid. Gomer Prater of the Kentucky State Police talked about gun safety and child safety, as well as providing instruction on the art of fingerprinting. Earlier in the week Ricky Roberts, Respiratory Therapist from Highlands Regional Medical Center did a presentation on the importance of caring for your lungs. Sherry Tackett, primary teacher said, "The Health Fair gave our students an opportunity to talk with professional people and, hopefully, has made them aware of the many career choices that are available just in the health field. It was a wonderful learning opportunity for both students and teachers!'

"The Health Fair was a fun event for all of the students. Every topic discussed was very interesting. I enjoyed it as much as the children," said parent Sandra Roberts.

Those especially helpful in making this endeavor a success were parents Greg Hall and Tammy Tack-

The Chief Executive Officer may administer oaths.

(b) Upon written application to the Chief Executive Officer, a respondent shall be entitled to the issuance of a reasonable number of subpoenas by and in the name of the Chief Executive Officer to the same extent and subject to the same limitations as subpoenas issued by the Chief Executive Officer himself. That any sale, encumbrance, or rental consummated prior to the issuance of any court order issued under the authority of this ordinance, and involving a bonafide purchaser, encumbrancer, or tenant without actual notice of the existence of the filing of a complaint or civil action under the provisions of this ordinance shall not be

(b) The court may grant as relief, as it deems appropriate, any permanent or temporary injunction, temporary restraining order, or other order, and may award to the plaintiff actual damages and not more than $1,000 punitive damages, together with court costs and reasonable attorney fees in the case of a prevailing plaintiff: Provided. It was Louis Pasteur's mother, Betty, who first suggested that the key to good health was to "eat a green thing." All Louis could find at the time was a moldy piece of bread.

The weapons of war have grown quite sophisticated, but subtle, over the years.

Men have developed such things as recliners, Monday Night Football and Shriner conventions while women have countered with baby pageants, soap operas and the Chippendales (not the furniture kind, either).

Truces are not uncommon in the battle of the sexes, and the most common result of such respites are called children.

Women go through a lot of pain and suffering during childbirth and they have been known to hold a grudge for doing so. That's why most hurricanes are named for women who have just given birth.

Once children come into the picture, women become much more the aggressors in the war. The most dangerous of these new warriors are known as Little League Mothers, a vigilante sect which often takes a dim view of the maledominated umpiring and coaching professions and which carries the war to new and often colorful adjectives.

Caught off guard by this new aggressiveness, men developed a system to vent their frustrations known as "dammit," where they slap around a little white ball, drink mass quantities of beer and use bad language.

Then they come home and throw their dirty socks on the floor.

THE PARENT TRAP

A recent article stated that fourteen is the most difficult year for a parent in regard to raising a teenager. This fact probably stems from the realization that 14-year-olds feel as if they have reached maturity while their parents feel as if they have reached the end of their ropes.

At our house, our 14-year-old son no longer bothers us with details. Mundane matters such as; where he is after school, what he is going to do, and when he is going to go to bed are not our concern. The only things he feels warrant our interaction is money, clean clothing, and mass transportation. Obviously, this form of behavior is frowned upon by two adults who share living space with him.

In the past few months, the sweet, angelic expression we used to see on his face has been replaced with "a rolling of the eyes." The first time I noticed this practice, it alarmed me so I wanted to make him an optometrist appointment.

"J.R. What are you planning to do this afternoon?" I asked. Within seconds, his eyes started rolling around in their sockets until I feared he was going to faint. When I finally got used to this mannerism, I surmised that if he learned to roll his "R's" the way he rolled his eyes, he could major in foreign language.

Since he turned 14, other idiosyncrasies have begun to creep into his personality. If we ask him to join us for dinner, he says he's not hungry. Though, he has no trouble eating alone in his room at any time of the day or night. If we suggest that he watch a movie with us, he insists he has homework, even though he had forgotten his books. The only time he acknowledges our presence is when we've done something wrong. Lately, that has been often.

"Where's the turtleneck I wore yesterday?"

"I haven't washed it yet."

"But I need it! Why didn't you ash it last night?"

"You didn't take it off until 11 o'clock. Why didn't you wash it?"

"I would have," he lied, "But you made me go to bed."

"It was 11:30, for goodness sakes! You should have told me you needed

"Why didn't you call after school?"

"Now that's a silly question.

hrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, evolved from the practice of shriving — purification through confes-- just before Lent. Other names also apply. Mardi Gras is the culmination of several weeks of revelry. At Fasnacht, Pennsylvania Dutch children get up early to avoid being the last one out of bed. Adults and children eat fasnacht kuchen, traditionally a rectangular doughnut with a slit in the middle, raised without yeast. Among the Polish, Paczki Day means eating paczki, special jellybuns. Pancakes are another traditional food, baked to use up the cooking fats that are forbidden during Lent.

In spite of different names, these traditions have in common special food and special events to mark the last chance to feast and make merry before the fasting and solemnity of Lent.

Some say thunder on Shrove Tuesday foretelleth wind, store of fruit, and plenty.

Three or four capfuls of bottled lemon juice added to the water in home humidifiers will eliminate musty and stale odors.

Nowerhead flow restrictors are a good idea for water conservation, but many people are reluctant to switch, fearing a "sprinkling can' shower. Newer products on the market restrict the flow to gallons per minute or less and still deliver an invigorating shower. Generally the average shower uses a quarter of the water of a bath. If you absolutely must soak in the tub now and then, afterward leave the water standing until it reaches room temperature. The heat and moisture will thereby go into the room rather than down the drain.

KET's At Issue to focus on election reform

Kentucky lawmakers are now looking at legislation which would drastically change the way elections are run in the state including such measures as public financing of campaigns and gubernatorial succession. The proposed bills and other ideas to reform Kentucky campaigns will be the topic of At Issue airing Monday, March 2 at 8:30 p.m. on

At Issue is the latest addition in KET's public affairs agenda designed to keep Kentuckians informed and talking about critical public issues. Each Monday at 8:30 p.m., a new topic is explored for 30 minutes by hosts and guests with expertise in the

"In this time of reform - focusing on everything from education to elections — it is more important than ever that KET keep people across the state in touch with the latest events and ideas, "said KET Executive Director Virginia G. Fox. "At Issue is one of the ways we are seeking to increase the information Kentuckians have on the most important issues."

At Issue is produced by KET in association with the Kentucky Center for Public Issues, a statewide group whose goal is to better inform Kentuckians about public issues and encourage greater citizen participation in the political process.

GRANDMOTHER'S SURPRISE BACKFIRES

Dear Grandparenting: This may sound bizarre and farfetched for my age, but I recently faced a most embarrassing and difficult situation, not yet resolved.

Hoping to put a little "glow" on the dying embers of my husband's "intentions" and to renew our love life, I followed some advice I had read in one of the columns of a local paper.

I decided to greet my husband of many years at the door when he came back from the store, wrapped in nothing but some see-through cellophane — a large job in itself. I had no idea that our 5-year-old grandson, at that very moment, would be dropped off, unexpected and unannounced.

Needless to say, the encounter was impossible to explain. I rattled off something about "wrapping some presents," but it sounded ridiculous and I waddled off to get my bathrobe.

What should I have said, and what should I say now? I fear there will be many more questions coming up. -Gift Wrapped, Cincinnati, Ohio

A: We like your spirit and sense of theater — or is it burlesque? This does sound like a "sitcom" or a latelate show. Why don't you take it on the road, only with your husband as the audience? As to what you might

Q: Our daughter and son-in-law waited a long time for children. Eventually, much to everyone's joy, they had a boy, now 8, and a girl, 6. But they are spoiled rotten!

If that little girl gets any more dolls, she's going to have to move out of her room. As for the boy, he has every Nintendo game known to man and boy. Yesterday, as he was playing a game, he asked me if I wanted to know how much it had cost. I said,

We wonder how they will turn out, with all these material gifts. It worries us. We visited them last Christmas and they went through their presents like two hurricanes. What can we do? - Worried, Long Beach,

A: Cheese spoils by itself, but children do not. Have you added to this vast inventory?

These two grandchildren are obviously being spoiled by their parents, and others. Tell the parents what you think. They may not appreciate your remarks, but it's worth a try. And when you give gifts, give those that will last - books, maybe a new chest for a bedroom, framed prints that will last, ones they can keep

And if you visit next Christmas, suggest they open a few presents, then take a rest and have a special Christmas breakfast, maybe with a religious theme, and then open the others later.

Parents Fear for Daughter Who Can't Leave Her Abusive Lover

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our attractive, divorced, middle-aged daughter — I'll call her Nora — was involved with an older, not-so-attractive man for about five years. During their relationship, Leo (not his real name) beat her, burned her with cigarettes, held a loaded gun to her head, and put her in other life-threatening situations. He insulted her family

Nora's therapist urged her to end the relationship, saying the man is a sociopath and a sadist. Nora finally came to her senses, left this monster and started seeing other men. Much to our relief, she found a fine, caring man, and they seemed very much in

A few months later, Leo called Nora, saying he had "found God," and that God had told him that they should be together again. She told Leo that she was in a committed relationship and didn't want to see him, but he persisted, telling her that God told him not to give up—so she foolishly agreed to see him. Now she's back under his spell again and has rejected the fine man with whom she was in love.

Leo is a psychotherapist and knows all the tricks. He has complete control over her. Nora told us that he seduces his own clients and has affairs with them in his office. She says she never really loved him, but he has some kind of power over

We simply cannot understand this it's all so illogical, and we actually fear for our daughter's life. Where do we go from here?

PAT SCHUDY & DAVID WOLFF

The days are long gone when teenagers, parents and schools worry about gum chewing in class, kids running in the halls, reprimands for wearing improper clothing and even suspension for smoking cigarettes. Today's concerns have graduated to a more serious level: alcohol and drug abuse, pregnancy and abortion, depression and suicide, family and peer relations, physical and mental abuse, financial and vocational frustrations, and endless other issues.

Talk to Us, a weekly column written by Pat Schudy and David Wolff, addresses the questions and concerns of high school kids across the nation and will begin in this newspaper this week. What makes this column extraordinary, however, is that in addition to responding to the questions with answers based on their own personal and professional experiences, Pat and David's weekly column also allows students to respond to the questions themselves.

Both Pat Schudy and David Wolff have worked professionally and personally with young people for more than 20 years. During the course of 1988-89, they surveyed more than 1000 teenagers across the country. Their findings were somewhat alarming — over 70 percent are worried about alcohol and drug abuse, nearly 40 percent expressed concern about suicide, and over 20 percent expressed feelings of "loneliness."

In addition to the survey that asked America's high school students to indicate their concerns, Pat and David also offered these young people the opportunity to write questions that they would like to have answered. The responses indicate and support the urgent need for a sounding board for teenagers. They want help and information about drugs, AIDS, parents, friendships, dating, sex, money and their future.

There is no question that specify) America's teenagers are facing critical problems. Talk to Us presents an open forum for them to express their concerns and their views and an opportunity to reach out for more information.

THE LOTTERY COLUMN

Lotteries pay by buying annuities

By Ben Johnson

Q: I read your column in our paper and I enjoy it very much. I always learn something new about the lottery from it. I would like for you to clear something up for me. In October the Illinois Lottery jackpot of $63 million was won by three people who matched all six numbers. There is a man who works with me who said that these three people only received a little over $11 million apiece because the insurance companies won't buy up small amounts. I don't believe this is true. If it is true then the Illinois Lottery is ripping people off. I'd like to know what happens to the other $30-some million. Please let me know what's going on,-T.Y.

A: Your friend is partly correct but his understanding of how lotteries work with insurance companies is incorrect.

In lottery states where the winning jackpot amount is paid to winners in the form of an annuity spread over a period of years (as is the case in Illinois), the actual amount in the jackpot for any drawing is only half of the amount the lottery says is being given away as a grand prize. For a jackpot that is advertised as $63 million, there is only about $32 million actually available to use—but that is all that is necessary in order to give to winners the promised $63 million spread over 20 years.

What the lottery does is buy an annuity, generally from a giant insurance company, for the amount of the win. This annuity is something like a paid-up savings account that allows you to make one withdrawal a year for a set number of years before the money is gone. In the case of the Illinois jackpot you are referring to, each winner won one-third of the $63 million, or about $21 million, which was to be paid to each of them over a period of 20 years in 20 equal installments. The good thing about this method of paying winners as far as the lottery is concerned is that a $21 million annuity only costs about $11 million to purchase. That $11 million, plus interest on it each year, will pay to the winner a total of about $21 million in 20 years. Three of these annuities were purchased for the Illinois winners, so each of the three winners ultimately will receive about $21 million.

Even though the jackpot was advertised as being $63 million, the lottery only had (and only needed) about half that much in actual prize money. You can rest assured that when a state lottery says it will award a jackpot of a certain amount, it does a second chance to win with losing pick-3 tickets by matching the last three digits in the ticket's validation number with the pick-3 number drawn that night? A friend of mine heard about this, but when I asked my ticket retailer, he didn't know anything about it. -P.L.

A: That's because this "second chance" with the pick-3 game is not sponsored by the lottery. It is a game that individual ticket retailers conduct sometimes in order to generate interest among customers to play the pick-3 game. The way it usually works is that if the last three digits in the validation number on a losing pick-3 number are drawn that night, the player wins a free pick-3 ticket.

Sometimes retailers even offer a "third chance" to win contest along with the "second chance" by having players fill out the back of losing pick 3 tickets and depositing them in a container in the store. A weekly drawing is held and the retailer gives prizes to the winners.

These same second and third chance contests are also conducted by retailers for scratch-off games, pick-4 and pick-5 games and lotto. Ask your lottery ticket retailer if he is planning to offer any of these "another chance" games. It might encourage him to do so.

Q: Is the 1992 Olympics now in the business of promoting the playing of lotteries? Our state just came out with an instant game ticket featuring a skier and the Olympics logo; the five interlocking colored circles.-H.N.

A: No, It's the other way around. Your state lottery is promoting the 1992 Olympics.

So far, 15 states, including California, South Dakota, Washington, Arizona, Iowa, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey and Ohio have paid the United States Olympic Committee for the right to sell lottery tickets that have the 1992 Olympic logo and name on them. All 15 states will use the same ticket design. Actually, this is good promotion for both the lotteries and the Olympics.

THE NO-GIMMICK WEIGHT-LOSS PLAN

by Kathleen McCleary

"Lose Up to 35 Pounds in 35 days! " "Eat What You Want and Lose Weight! "

You don't need to be a nutrition expert to figure out that the smart way to slim down is not the "Eat-All-You-Want Diet" (which promises you can eat 11 pounds of butter without gaining a gram). Or that cellulitereducing creams, grapefruit diets and "amazing" fat-burning pills aren't all they're cracked up to be.

But some weight-loss "gimmicks" aren't so obvious. Like this piece of exercise advice that's become a mainstay of weight-watching lore: If you want to lose fat, exercise long and slow. Fitness gurus recommend shorter, more intense workouts if your only goal is cardiovascular fitness. But if you're interested in losing fat, they advise, you're better off with longer, less strenuous workouts. Unenthusiastic exercisers have left the aerobics classes with a mixed-up message: Take it easy and you'll slim down faster.

It's a tempting gimmick to fall for, says Jay Graves, an applied physiany given moment depends on how much energy it needs and how fast it needs it, says Robert Layzer, a neurologist with the University of California at San Francisco. If you've been sitting around reading the paper and suddenly spring up to chase after an escaped house pet, you'll burn mostly carbohydrate. In fact, anytime you exercise in overdrive, outof-breath intensity, your body relies more on its stores of carbohydrate because they're right in the muscle cells, ready to go. And unlike fat, they can be converted into energy without oxygen, which may be in short supply when exercise makes you breathless.

Man's Growing Waistline Weighs Heavy on His Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently quit smoking and has gained a lot of weight. I am proud of him for giving up cigarettes (he was a twopack-a-day man), but his weight problem worries me. He has always been a very nice dresser and used to look good in his clothes. Now his shirts are stretched around his midsection. He prefers button-down collars that are now uncomfortable, so he has to unbutton them most of the time. This makes him look sloppy. He refuses to buy a larger size because he is "going to lose weight." If I say anything about his weight or suggest that he buy some clothes that fit him, he becomes defensive and resentful.

Would you please make some suggestions for him, and the many other men with the same problem? If he could just see himself as others do, he might lose some weight and look nice in his clothes

How your husband looks in his clothes is not as important as the condition of his health. Tell him you love him and want to grow old with him, and all that extra weight could take years off his life. He needs to see his physician now for a general checkup. You can bet the doctor will put him on a diet. And if your husband keeps putting off a doctor's appointment, ask him if his life insurance policy is upto-date.

DEAR GEORGE: John's widow should be properly (and legally) addressed as Mrs. John Doe until she dies, or remarries.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the question of throwing rice or birdseed at weddings, here is some food for thought: I am the wedding coordinator at our church, and the brides are informed by me at our very first meeting that neither rice nor birdseed is permissible.

You see, both are very dangerous when walked on. I have seen men and women slip and fall, especially when high heels are worn and when smooth leather comes into contact with hard, round seeds and rice.

Most churches cannot afford the lawsuits that could result if someone fell and was seriously hurt.

Carbohydrate is utes, you'll start burning more fat stored in the muscles and liver; fat is than carbohydrate.

So it's true, you ARE more likely the skin. Your body can store only a to burn a higher percentage of fat during a longer period of less intense to fit in the palm of your hand. But, as exercise, says Jack Wilmore, a kinemany of us know only too well, it can siologist with the University of Texas store nearly unlimited amounts of at Austin. Walking for 50 minutes burns more fat than running for half an hour: If you take a brisk walk. you'll burn one-third carbohydrate and two-thirds fat. A not-too-strenuous run will reverse that ratio. You'll burn two-thirds carbohydrate and just one-third fat. So to lose more fat, walk, don't run, right?

> The mistake lies in assuming that burning fat as fuel automatically means you'll lose more body fat. People get sidetracked by thinking that they can trick their bodies into losing more fat by exercising at low intensity," says Graves. "But there's no advantage to burning more fat as

> Why not? Because the only way to lose body fat is to burn more calories than you take in. If you don't, your body will simply replenish depleted fat stores from the food you eat. Say you have a car with two fuel tanks, tank F and tank C. You drive 100 miles drawing equally from both tanks, using a half tank of each. When you stop to fill up at the service station, you get 10 gallons of gas, five in each tank. You drive another 100 miles, this time drawing just from the F tank. When you stop to fill up again, you need another 10 gallons of gas. But since the C tank is still full, all the gas goes into the F tank.

So if you've just burned a huge amount of fat and just a little carbohydrate, the food you eat will mostly go to replace fat stores. If you eat a pasta dinner, for instance, not only will the fat in your food—the creamy Alfredo sauce, the butter on your garlic bread — get stored as fat, but the excess carbohydrate from that same meal will become fat, too. "Fat is always stored as fat, but carbohydrate can be stored as either," says Wilmore. "That's why you can get fat if you eat too many carbohydrates."

If you're interested in weight loss, it really doesn't make a difference whether the calories you burn come primarily from fat or from carbohydrate, Graves says. Whether you run for 25 minutes or walk for 50 minutes, you're burning almost the same number of calories.

Still, that doesn't mean it makes no difference if you walk or run. Burning calories isn't the only reason exercise helps you lose fat. In fact, you actually burn relatively few calorics DURING a workout. Exercise helps you lose weight by turning your body into a calorie-guzzling machine. Running or any moderate exercise that gets your heart rate up to its "aerobic zone" - between 140 and 150 beats per minute for people in their 30s and 40s — will get you into better aerobic condition than a lowintensity workout.

Studies show that aerobically fit people have more mitochondria, the tiny "boiler rooms" inside muscle cells where fat is turned into energy, than do people who are out of shape. That means they can work harder and longer without huffing and puffing and feeling exhausted. It also means that, if they continue eating about the same amount, they're likely to burn more calories than they take in. So it's easier for them to lose fat.

But aerobic conditioning isn't the whole story. Another way to make your body burn calories faster is to add some sort of resistance training to your exercise routine - lifting free weights, working out on Nauti-

"Why can't you be more specific

"I thought I was being more specific," I cried. As always, this is the point in the conversation where I begin questioning why I allow this repartce. Should I risk making him the subject of an Oprah Winfrey Show, or he is right? That's when I console myself with please some the thought that he'll be 15 next year and supposedly things will change. only time I'll hear frrm him will be via long distance.

"Stay right there, Sweetheart. I'll be there in a jiffy." As difficult as it is cult to be a parent of one.

to build muscle. Both fat and muscle require energy just to maintain themselves. But muscle is "expensive" tissue, says Wayne Westcott, the national YMCA's strength training consultant; a pound of muscle burns 30 to 50 calories a day just to stay alive. Fat, on the other hand, is "cheap," needing two calories per pound per day. So the more muscle you have, the more calories you burn just sitting around clicking the buttons on your television's remote

In one study, Westcott had 72 people follow the same dietary guidelines and then exercise for 30 minutes three times a week for eight weeks. One group did aerobic exercise exclusively, working out for 30 minutes on a stationary bicycle; another group cycled for 15 minutes and worked out on Nautilus machines for 15 minutes.

At the end of eight weeks, the aerobics-only group had lost three pounds of fat and a half-pound of muscle. The combination group had lost 10 pounds of fat and gained two pounds of muscle. "Most people who want to lose weight say, 'I don't want to do strength training - that ADDS weight," says Westcott. "But the weight that strength training adds is like going from a six-cylinder car to an eight-cylinder car. It burns more energy racing down the freeway, but it also burns more energy just idling at a red light. That's what helps you lose fat.'

It's also what keeps you thin into middle age and beyond. While aging does influence the rate at which you burn calories, Graves says, the real culprit is a sedentary life. "The main reason people put on weight as they get older is that their activity level decreases and they lose muscle," he

Even the American College of Sports Medicine, which once touted the benefits of only aerobic activity for fitness, has added strength training to its guidelines. It suggests two weekly sessions of eight to 12 repetitions of eight to 10 exercises that condition major muscle groups such as the thighs, back and shoulders.

"That doesn't mean you need to go out and kill yourself every day. You just need to perform some regular exercises to stimulate the muscles to grow and the heart to beat faster," says Graves. "People are always looking for a gimmick. But there's no substitute for consistent hard work." (EXCERPTED FROM HEALTH

EDELL HEALTH NOTES

by Dr. Dean Edell

MILK MAKES MUCUS: TRUE OR FALSE? ... One of the most basic tenets of food faddism may be that milk increases your production of mucus. If you don't believe me, just ask the clerks in your local health food store, who will advise against drinking it when you University of Adelaide put this old wives' tale to the test, they found it was just that — a tale.

The doctors induced colds in 56 volunteers and then measured how much mucus they produced. They also kept track of how much milk each one drank. Even though twothirds of the volunteers believed that drinking milk made them more stuffed up, it actually had no effect on mucus production.

FRAUDULENT 'FAT-FREE' CLAIMS YANKED ... In the Food and Drug Administration's first victory against deceptive labeling, Kraft General Foods has agreed to pull the "90 percent fat-free" claims pasted across some of its product boxes.

It's a meaningless claim. As the FDA points out, all it means is that 90 percent of a product's weight is fatfree. But many foods contain lots of water, a rather heavy substance. So a food can be 90 percent fat-free by weight and still get 90 percent of its calories from fat.

The FDA has also warned that have a cold. But, when doctors at the companies that continue to slap a "cholesterol-free" label on products containing vegetable oils, like cookies and crackers, will be penalized. Only animal fats contain cholesterol. Far more important is the amount of saturated fat a product contains. Palm oil, coconut oil and hydrogenated oils contain saturated fat.

> The FDA's crackdown, initiated by its new commissioner, David Kessler, drew strong praise from a consumer advocate who has been one of the FDA's most outspoken critics. Michael Jacobson, the executive director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest, said that this action shows that the FDA is serious about becoming a watchdog and losing its lapdog status. Let's hope the agency can keep it up.

WHY BLACK WOMEN HAVE FEWER WRINKLES ... Two dermatologists in Beaverton, Ore., have finished a study that explains why African-American women tend to have fewer wrinkles than white women do. Put simply, they wrinkle less because dark skin is better able to resist sun damage.

The dermatologists compared the facial skin of 19 black and 19 white women and found that the cells in black skin are not only less susceptible to damage, but they also repair themselves more efficiently when damage does occur. This doesn't mean that African Americans are safe from the sun. The study also found that black women who spent lots of time in the sun had many more wrinkles than their sun-shy sisters. (EXCERPTED FROM THE EDELL HEALTH LETTER)

-A London firm recently began marketing cigarettes under the brand name "Death." Said firm director B.J. Cunningham: "I'm being honest. I am selling death." A skull and crossbones are on every package along with this warning: "Cigarettes are addictive and debilitating. If you don't smoke, don't start. If you smoke, quit." Cunningham, a heavy smoker, said sales are going fine.

WRONG PLACE, WRONG TIME

-In October, an unidentified man in Paducah, Ky., who was seen earlier in the airport trying to trade his leather jacket for a ticket to California, was killed shortly afterward when he fell off the wing of a Northwest Airlines commuter plane he was hitching a ride on when it had reached an altitude of 300 feet.

-In November, Danny Shaune Clemons, 32, was released from the Pennsylvania State Correctional Institution in Greensburg (after having served five years for assault and burglary) and had by custom been given $75 by the state to tide him over. Less than an hour later, while waiting for a train to take him to King of Prussia, Pa., where a job awaited him, he was robbed.

-William James Oden, 20, tried to break into a Pancake Pantry restaurant in Nashville in September after hours, through an air duct on top of the building, for a reason about which police could only speculate. Because the duct was caked with grease, he slid down faster than he had expected and became snagged in the vent with his arm lodged tightly under his neck, strangling himself to

-James Bullock, 22, and Paul McGuire, 22, attempting to flee after netting $8,000 in a Bronx, N.Y., robbery but encountering a traffic jam, leaped over the side rail of a four-story elevated roadway, landing in an abandoned lot glistening with broken glass. One was critically injured; the other suffered minor injuries; both were captured easily.

-Bobby Joe Reid died in December in Taylors, S.C., of a seizure and cerebral hemorrhage while having sex with his married girlfriend, on the floor of her living room. The frightened woman dragged Reid into her backyard, then called police to report a prowler. Reid still had his pants around his ankles when police arrived.

-Arthur Gloria, 20, was arrested at a police station in Chicago as he was leaving, after having taken the written test to qualify for becoming a police officer. He had driven a stolen car to the exam and parked it illegally outside the station.

-The U.S. Treasury Department reported in September that in the latest monthly tally, it had received 22 unsolicited contributions toward retiring the national debt, ranging from $5 to $45,344. About $20 million has been raised since 1961. The national debt is currently $3.9 trillion - about $15,000 per person.

-In August, Wichita, Kan., police reported they suspected that a man had beaten his three children with a board because they had refused to wear red ribbons in support of anti-abortion protests.

-The Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun reported in November that a good-conduct code had been drawn up by Yamaguchi-gumi, Japan's largest (30,000 members) crime syndicate, "to not inconvenience the public," as the Japanese police begin a crackdown on underworld crime. According to the code, members should not throw cigarette butts on the ground, make grand entries into rooms, or give out business cards with the gang's symbol.

CREME DE LA WEIRD

-In December, police in Genoa, N.Y., shot and killed farmer Rolf Rahn, 37, who had shot a plumber during an argument and then holed up for 16 hours. Rahn claimed that he was an alien and the plumber an android, and demanded that police provide him with a spaceship for his getaway. Later, investigators discovered the remains of 50 cats in Rahn's freezer, some in plastic bags with labels indicating that their cause of death was "because of a demon."

'Living With Killer Bees' not as easy as it sounds

Economic sting may be in store

By Dan Rice

The United States is being invaded by a belligerent force numbering in the millions, and the powerless government can give its citizens only this advice: Run! But don't pick up your shotguns, it's only the African honeybee.

The popular myths surrounding the migrating swarms pale beside possible economic consequences of the invasion, according to Living With Killer Bees, debuting Thursday, March 5, on PBS.

The 26 queen bees that escaped from a Brazilian lab in 1957 have produced trillions of offspring that now occupy more than 5 million square miles of territory. Moving steadily northward, the African bees are now entering southern Texas.

Though they carry less and slightly weaker venom than European honeybees, the African bees are much more defensive and will deploy half their colony (up to 40,000 bees) in a prolonged attack. (Over 1,000 people have been fatally stung in Latin America.)

Bee experts point out that the economic repercussions from the bee invasion include local funds being diverted from combatting encephalitis-carrying mosquitos to chasing the bees, and rising food prices because imposed bee quarantines impede the work of crop-pollinating migratory beekeepers.

The University of Kansas' Dr. Orley "Chip" Taylor offers this sobering conclusion: "It turns out that the African bees are better than we are. We've met our match. We just don't have the technology to deal with an invasion of this kind.

VIDEO BIJOU

Double feature: two by John Schlesinger

By Steven Alan McGaw

British-born John Schlesinger has directed many memorable films over the years, from 1963's Billy Liar (starring the young Tom Courtenay), to last year's underrated Year of the Gun, with Andrew McCarthy. Two of the director's best are this week's home video recommendations.

Midnight Cowboy (1969)

Schlesinger won the Oscar as Best Director for this searing version of James Leo Herlihy's novel. Interestingly, the film received an X rating when it was first released ... though it's pretty tame by today's standards. Jon Voight stars as Joe Buck, a hayseed who comes to New York City to find his fortune as a hustler, only to discover the Big Apple's rotten to the core. Dustin Hoffman is hypnotic as Ratso Rizzo, the dying bum who befriends Joe. Great supporting work comes from Brenda Vaccaro and Barnard Hughes, John Barry's score is terrific and the ending is most heartrending.

Sunday, Bloody Sunday (1971)

Schlesinger took on his most daring project to date in Penelope Gilliatt's story of a doctor torn between two loves: one for an attractive. intelligent woman near his own age, the other for an opportunistic, handsome young man. Peter Finch stars as the doctor, with Glenda Jackson as one lover, Murray Head as the other.

Braced for orthodontia on the prairie?

By Taylor Michaels

Q: When I was younger, I used to watch Little House on the Prairie and I still enjoy it today. One thing I've always wondered, though, is how Melissa Gilbert managed to correct her overbite. Since the show is supposed to take place in the 1800s, she couldn't very well have had braces on the show. Could you find the answer to my question? -Don Walker, Menominee, Wis.

A: As a matter of fact, the idea of orthodontia was first introduced in the early 1700s by a man named Fauchard who tied an "arch bar" or band to anchor teeth and applied pressure in the desired direction. The technique was documented in a 1728 book called The Story of Dentistry. The specialty of orthodontics was given its formal name around 1841 when a book dealing exclusively with crooked teeth was published.

So, Laura Ingalls could have worn braces, but it's unlikely that a prairie dentist would have had the training to do the job. Since we never see Gilbert in braces on screen, it's probable that she wore them during "hiatus" periods - those five or six months series actors get between finishing one TV season and beginning another. Also, it would be possible to use makeup to cover the braces, but this seems a short-term solution at best. I tried to find the agency representing Gilbert to learn more, but no luck.

Q: Could you tell me what the relationship is between John and Ellen Travolta? My friend says Ellen is his mother. I say they are brother and sister. Who is right? Also, could you tell me where to write actor Mel Gibson? -Sue Harrington, Godwin,

A: You are correct. Ellen is an actress and has worked with her famous brother on the 1978 film Grease and episodes of Welcome Back. Kotter. She has played the mother of Scott Baio in three TV series: Happy Days, Joanie Loves Chachi and, most recently, Charles in Charge.

Write to Gibson care of ICM, 8899 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif., 90048.

Q: Could you kindly give me the address of Regis Philbin's show? -Lorrain Behnke, Peshtigo, Wis.

A: The address is Live With Regis and Kathie Lee, 7 Lincoln Square, 5th Floor, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Q: Please help me settle an argument. A group of us recently watched the movie Dick Tracy and later disputed who played the part of Warren Beatty's wife and/or girlfriend. Can you tell us who this woman was? Brenda Ellzey, Natchitoches, La.

A: The actress who played the part of Tess Trueheart, Dick Tracy's girlfriend, was Glenne Headly.

Q: Can you please tell me how to contact comedian Jerry Seinfeld? - C.B. Lilly, Elkland, Mo.

A: Write in care of his series, Seinfeld, NBC Television, 30 Rockfeller Plaza, New York, N.Y., 10112. 97 TV Listing Inc.

Look Sports by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

WE HAVE A LOT TO LOOK AT THIS WEEK

Sports news continues to be one of the biggest topics in this generation. Even more so. With the growth of television into the cable area there is more sports on the tube than there has ever been.

Used to be back in the '50's, '60's and early '70's, you rarely saw as much sports on television. The Cincinnati Reds played maybe once a week on WSAZ out of Huntington. Channel three, eight and thirteen were the only three channels available for viewing. It was a real treat to get to see a Reds game on television.

Sport coverage has grown through the newspapers around the state and also nationally. It continues to be the largest read portion of a newspaper.

But sports, with all its coverage today, has had some negative things revealed because of the coverage it receives.

Let's take a look at what has happened this week.

· A riot breaks out at the Paintsville gym in a game between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. If the fans could have waited two minutes and twenty-two seconds longer before starting to fight, they could have seen the finish of the game. This way, those who were guilty of starting the ruckus, cheated other innocent fans out of seeing the completion of the contest. Fair to say they did not get their money's worth because some people had to act like little children again.

Whose fault was it is not important now that it is over. What is important is that steps should be taken by both areas to see that it will not be repeated again. I think both schools should end all contracts they have and cancel competition between the two schools for two years.

It no doubt has been one of the best rivalries in the area and now all that is in trouble.

· I can't believe that an organization which calls itself a Christian alliance would even think of putting together a campaign to get Mike Tyson off free for rape after being convicted of a very hideous crime. The group known as the Baptist Ministers Alliance has set a goal of collecting 100,000 signatures to hand over to the judge that will sentence the former boxing champ. The alliance hopes to have the sentence, that is to be pronounced on March 27, thrown

I hope that the judge, Patricia J. Gifford, realizes that there are more than 100,000 people living in America and the group does not speak for all Americans.

Do they honestly think that the man should be set free to maybe do again what he has been convicted of?

· Sports look number three. The UNLY "Grumbling Rebels" are at it again. Last year the Shark, Jerry Tarkanian, head basketball coach, soon to be former basketball coach, of UNLV agreed to resign if the NCAA would allow his talented group of Rebels the chance to defend their national title. The NCAA, a worthless organization, allowed such a thing to take place after it knew about all the allegations against the program that had not been dealt with. So, the Rebels played and lost out.

Now, the Shark wants to rescind that promise on the grounds that the NCAA and UNLV reneged on the deal that was agreed

The Shark and his crew has been found guilty and sentenced has been announced. But, the Shark has shown that he can win over the NCAA rulings and says

Lady Rebels roll to 62-49 win over June Buchanan

The Allen Central Lady Rebels ran their overall season record to 13- lard and Jenna May scored eight. 8 with a 62-49 win over June Buchanan this past Monday night. son Thursday night against Belfry The Lady Rebels placed three players in double figures with Staci Moore Friday night at 6:30 p.m. at Betsy leading the way with 18 points. Jenny Wiley and freshman Veronica McKinney each tossed in 15 points.

Although the Lady Rebs came away with the win, they didn't look all that good in winning.

"We just didn't run our offense," explained Lady Rebel coach Bonita Compton. "We didn't play good defense and didn't block out well on Compton felt that her team just wasn't up for the game and figured all they had to do was show up.

"They thought they had the game won before we ever played," she said. Allen Central jumped out to a 14-6 first quarter lead and went to the locker room leading 24-19.

Angie Bailey tossed in seven points for Allen Central with Jenny Yates finishing with six. Marsha Brown had three points on a three pointer. Moore had three treys in the Glenda Fugate led all scorers with 22 points. Hamilton tossed in eight and Nikki Ratliff scored six. Campbell netted five points with Janet Stumbo scoring four on four free throws.

In a game played Saturday night, Allen Central defeated the Lady Mustangs of Millard rather handily, 55-36. After a close first quarter, the Lady Rebels outscored Millard by nine points in the second quarter and five in the third. Coach Compton inserted her junior varsity team in the third quarter and they played all of the fourth. Wiley tossed in 16 points to lead Allen Central. Moore added 14 including two three-pointers and Bailey had nine. Yates and McKinney had five and four points respectively.

two minutes and twenty-two seconds of the game between Prestonsburg and Paintsville Tuesday night but when the game was completed it was the Blackcats coming away with an impressive 63-58 win over the host Tigers.

Prestonsburg played perhaps one of their better games in posting their 12th victory of the season against 10 losses. The Blackcats were sharp on defense and except for a short period in the third quarter seemed in control from the onset.

It was a rough and physical game as both teams were playing very hard. Prestonsburg raced to a 43-36 lead with 2:43 left in the period. The Blackcats turned the ball over on two consecutive possessions allowing Paintsville to score. Kaito Bangudi scored back-to-back baskets to cut the margin to three points, 43-40. Paintsville went to full court pressure and Prestonsburg, having problems adjusting, had another turnover and a forced shot allowing the Tigers to take a one point lead, 44-43, on baskets from Brian Pinson and Wesley Ellis, Ellis was fouled by Chris Burke on his drive to the basket and sank the free throw to give Paintsville a 46-43 lead at the end of the third period.

Bangudi scored off a steal to start the final quarter to extend the Paintsville lead to four points, 47-43. After the field goal, Prestonsburg took charge again and ran off nine unanswered points to assume a five point advantage, 52-45. Clark hit a jumper followed by a rebound basket by Eric Fitzer. Tucker connected on the backside of a two shot foul to give Prestonsburg the lead at 48-45.

Tucker buried a three-pointer, his fourth of the game, and Pinson followed with a jumper for Paintsville to make it a 55-51 game. At the 2:22 mark Clark was fouled and set to shoot the one-and-one when the fight broke out. The gym was emptied and the final 2:22 was played without the fans. Play resumed at 9:50 p.m. after the two teams were given five minutes to warmup.

After play was resumed, Clark hit the two free throws to give Prestonsburg a six point lead. A bas-from Preston cut into the Prestonsburg lead and the margin was two points,

Dwayne McKenzie picked up his fourth personal foul when he fouled Fitzer, who calmly hit two free throws. Paintsville missed on a field goal attempt and Tucker was fouled on the rebound. Tucker hit the front of the bonus shot to make it a 60-55 game with 32 seconds showing on the clock.

But Paintsville wasn't ready to quit. Pinson drilled a three-pointer with 29 seconds remaining in the game to close to within two points, 60-58. Cory Reitz hit three of four free throws on the closing seconds to seal the win for Prestonsburg.

Dotson's treys fuel Phelps 73-70 win over Betsy Layne Bobcats

How much the three-point has changed the game of basketball. It allows a team that is down and the clock ticking away a chance to turn things around. Just ask Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome as his ballclub held a five point lead with less then a minute to go and dropped a 73-70 heartbreaker to the Phelps Hornets Tuesday night.

"Phelps is playing some good basketball right now," said Newsome. "They had to play their first 11 or 12 games on the road because of their gym getting a new floor. And Elkhorn City only beat them on point."

It was the NBA shooting of Darren Dotson that felled the Bobcats. Dotson drilled two three-pointers that erased the five point deficit and gave the Hornets the lead for good. Betsy Layne missed some free throws that could have give them the game. Dotson finished the game with 19

"Those two three-pointers that he shot were NBA three-pointers," stated Newsome. "I mean they were way back there.'

While the Bobcats dropped their 17th game of the season, Coach Newsome said that his team didn't play all that bad.

'We played well I thought," explained the Bobcats mentor. "We just missed a lot of free throws that could have won the game for us."

Betsy Layne had a balanced scoring attack with Shawn Wallen tossing in 14 points to lead the way. Jason Akers added 13 and continues to play good basketball for the Bobcats. Sophomore Brian Hunter scored 10 points and Jody Coleman netted nine.

The games leading scorer was Bo Wolford with 25 points. Dotson finished with 19 and Hurley added 14.

The Bobcats trailed at the end of the first quarter 16-14 but outscored Phelps in the second period, 26-18 to take a 40-34 lead to the locker room at the half. Betsy Layne didn't fare so well in the third period as Phelps came back and took a 60-52 lead after three quarters. The Bobcats regained the lead midway of the fourth period and held the five point lead inside the one minute mark before losing.

Betsy Layne will close out their regular season with a road game tonight at Shelby Valley. The Bobcats will take on number one seed

Wheelwright in next week's 58th District tournament. The tournament will be played on Bobcat turf at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse at Betsy Layne. McDowell will be the host

Francis, Grigsby to head up committee to set policies for athletics in Floyd County

A committee of 11 high school and elementary principals has been organized to head up a task force to review, set and add some rules to govern high school and grade school athletics in Floyd County. Eight principals from the elementary ranks and three from high school will meet at various times and work on current polices in the county as well as make some changes and enter additional policies for the betterment of athletics in the county.

Floyd County Athletic Director James "Frankie" Francis and Assistant Superintendent Pete Grigsby Jr. will chair the committee meetings.

Those principals from the elementary schools include: Gary Newman, John M. Stumbo; Franklin Pack, McDowell; Danny Branson, Allen; Susan Compton, Osborne; Bill Hughes, Martin; David Hinchman, Harold; Lorena Chaffins, Maytown; Gene Davis, Prater.

The three high school principals taking part will be: Alan Osborne, Betsy Layne; Phil Paige, McDowell; Lewis Burkhiemer, Wheelwright.

"We will focus mostly on the elementary athletics in the county," said Grigsby, "but include the high schools also. The committee will deal with sportsmanship, scheduling, time for each season and other items that involve athletics in the area. One concern of many coaches, especially in football, is the lack of feeder schools on the grade school level. Grade school basketball has always been a problem for the grade school football season and the committee hopes to be able to establish some guidelines for presented to the superintendent who may make any change or recommendation of his own. It is then presented to the board for final approval.

We used to have what they called a "blue" book that had all the policies that governed not only academics in the county but athletics as well," explained Grigsby. "But when the state came in and made the changes they threw out the blue book and wrote what we have now, a "brown" book. The brown book covers academics but someone forgot to put any policies in there which cover athletics in the county. "So, what we've got to do is set some policies, look at the old ones and then add new ones that needs adding. Mr. Francis and I will be meeting with the principals and taking their recommendations as well as any others that may come up."

Grigsby suggested that anyone in the county who might have a serious recommendation may write to him with that suggestion at the board of education.

'It can be a fan, teacher or anyone," said Grigsby. "We want serious recommendations only. Any others that are written for no benefit will be thrown away, but all serious recommendations will be considered."

The establishing of the committee is a step to restore some credibility to the athletic programs in the county.

Bobcats looking past worst conference finish

When they moved the 58th District tournament to Betsy Layne, it lit up the eyes of the Betsy Layne Bobcats. It was just the thing to boost their confidence so they can go on to the 15th Regional tournament.

The Bobcats, the defending 58th District champions, advanced to the semifinals of last year's regional tournament. This year's squad struggled early in the season but has suddenly come around and started "playing like we are capable of playing" according to coach Junior Newsome

The fact that Newsome is in his 15th year at the helm of the Bobcats makes them no light matter to overlook by Wheelwright. Betsy Layne has beaten regional powers Sheldon Clark, Johns Creek and district foe McDowell during the regular season at home. The D. W. Howard Fieldhouse certainly will be a friendly place for the Bobcats.

Jodi Coleman (senior guard) leads points per game average. Coleman is pulling in three rebounds and dishing off four assists per game. A solid three-pointer threat, Coleman can also drive the lanes and is quick to get a step on his defender.

Another senior, Jonathan Tackett is the club's second leading scorer with a 10-point-per-game average. Tackett, like Coleman, can fill it up from 19'9". A good hard nose defensive player, Tackett can beat you in so many ways.

Senior number three, Shawn Wallen is all that the other two are and gives Coach Newsome a third outside shooter. Wallen is averaging close to 10 points per game and hands off four assists per contest. A quick player with good court sense.

The inside game is handled by Brian Hunter, Jason Akers and Jason Newsome. All three are forces under the basket. Hunter, a sophomore, averages 10 points per game also. A the Bobcats in scoring with a 14.0 very good rebounder for the Bobcats averaging around five per contest. Akers is the team's top rebounder with an average of six per game. Akers averages around eight points per game but has shown improvement lately. Newsome brings a sixpoint average to the Bobcats lineup and was a starter earlier in the season.

Transfer student Barry Hall has helped fill a missing link for the Bobcats and has averaged eight points a game since coming from McDowell. A good outside shooter, Hall keeps the zone honest. Has a tendency to force a lot of his shots.

PINE SOLVERS

The bench is young for Betsy Layne but talented. Freshman Derrick Newsome sees a lot of playing time off the pines for the Bobcats. Barry Clark is another who can make an immediate impact off the bench for Betsy Layne.

WHAT THE BOBCATS MUST DO TO WIN

Not give up the easy baskets. Play hard nose defense and take care of the basketball. Play the game full court and not just half. Simply put - rebound well.

PLAYERS WHO MUST PRODUCE

Coleman, Tackett and Wallen. A must for Akers to contribute as well as Hunter. Each player must have a good tournament. This is not a star led team but all must pull together.

> BETSY LAYNE (2-6) WHEELWRIGHT (6-2) Thurs. March 5, 8 p.m.

Betsy Layne's JONATHAN TACKETT handles ball against Buckhorn

Lady Bobcats have shown a lot of maturity New coach Hopkins has turned McDowell and could be problem in tournament

They are young. Talented. And getting better. The Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats are ready to take on all comers in next week's 58th District tournament. And the tournament will be held on their own home turf - the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse.

Mostly a freshman, sophomore oriented team, the Lady Bobcats do not have a senior on their team. Which means all will return next year a year wiser. But just because they are young doesn't mean they can't compete this Dee Dee Martin (sophomore) has drawn the applause of many of the area coaches. Martin is averaging 17 points per game and pulling down 12 rebounds per contest. A tough player good player on defense but like Rice to stop once she gets the ball down has a tendency to over guard her low. Has plenty of good moves and opponent. works hard for positioning. A good defensive player.

Tina Rice (junior) shares scoring averages with Martin also averaging 17 points per game. Rice plays the two guard and shoots well from the three-point circle. Rice's problem is that she gets shook up easy and does a lot of unnecessary fouling. A good defensive player.

Ashla Stanley carries a 14 point per game average into this year's district tournament. Stanley gives coach Bill Newsome vet another three-point threat for the outside. A BETSY LAYNE (3-5) PRESTONSBURG (4-4) Wed., March 4, 6:30 p.m.

Misty Johnson adequately fills the power forward position for Betsy ayne. Averaging 14 points per game, Johnson is rebounding at a 10 per contest clip. A strong player down low also. Johnson can take the 10 foot jumper or take a feed inside for a basket. Good defensive player.

Freshman Misty Clark is everyone's favorite. Does so many things well in a game. Can shoot from anywhere averaging 14 points per game. A floor leader and plays the point guard position like it should be played. She makes other players look good. A very good passer. Clark is averaging four assists per game. WHAT LADY CATS MUST DO

TO WIN

Quit fouling so much. Take care of the basketball and cut down on turnovers. Must work well against the press. Good free throw shooting team.

PLAYERS WHO MUST PRODUCE

Martin must have her usual good game and continue to work hard on the boards. Rice and Stanley will have to show some leadership for the younger players.

Lady Daredevils around; contenders now

Surprise. Another team has just to pass the ball, also dishing off asentered the district tournament picture. The Lady Daredevils of McDowell have served notice that they are not to be overlooked as a possible tournament contender.

The Lady Daredevils have experienced a revival under new head coach Jimmy Hopkins. McDowell has been averaging over 30 rebounds a game lately in the season and that is because new coach Hopkins has preached rebounding, then some. A very good rebounder rebounding and more rebounding from his guards. The result - more rebounding.

Defense also has seen a great improvement as the Lady Daredevils has been mixing it up lately. A 2-3 zone, then a 1-3-1 plus trick defenses has helped keep the opponents honest on offense.

Shelby Howell leads the Lady Daredevils in scoring with a 10 points per game average. But she is also pulling in nine rebounds per game and dishing off three assists. But not only has Howell been hitting the boards but Michelle Hall also has picked up her game and is carrying a nine rebounds per game average. But the improvement for Hall has been in her scoring, averaging 9.5 per game. Both Howell and Hall are good defensive players.

Kristy Mullins runs the team at point guard averaging five assists per game. Mullins also has been pulling down seven rebounds per game which is very good for a point guard. Mullins averages six points per game.

Keri Newsome, one of two seniors on the team, has been averaging nine points per game and four rebounds. But the two guard know how sists at a clip of five per contest. Newsome is the designated threepoint shooter.

Debbie Fannin has shown much improvement lately. Plays the court well and sees the court very well. A good defensive player, Fannin averages five points per game. Like Newsome, can fill it up from three-

McDowell High School will host the 58th District tournament this year but the games will be played at Betsy Layne High School, a place where the Daredevils don't really play that

But this is an experienced Daredevil team that is lead by one of the best centers in the region - Dale Hinkle. Hinkle has impressed many fans and coaches in the 15th Region this year with his slicing moves in the middle that has caused opponents problems. Hinkle is averaging around 18 points per game and pulling in six rebounds. The McDowell center has some of the best moves for a 6' 3" center. A team leader and works very hard on defense.

Throw one of the region's most underrated players in Matt Johnson and you have a dynamic duo underneath for McDowell. Termed as one of the hardest workers on the floor for McDowell, Johnson seems to come with a loose ball and basket just when the other team is headed down the Johnson gets the garbage baskets for the Daredevils. He is a hard worker averaging around 15 points per contest for McDowell. A good rebounder with seven per contest.

Scotty Stanley carries a nine point per game average into the district tournament. Stanley works as hard as anyone on the boards and usually gets several offensive baskets because of it. Can hit an occasional threepointer, but real strength is in the short jumpers in the lanes.

Earl Cook has been moved into the point guard position averaging five assists per game. Cook carries a three point per game average scoring but hasn't started that many games for McDowell. Can shoot well from the outside but takes some shots that should be left alone.

The two guard spot is held down by Doug Hopkins. Hopkins averages right at eight points per game and carries a three assist per contest averages, also. Hopkins will be a key for McDowell against Allen Central and the rest of the field if the Daredevils should advance. He will be ne offensively outside to open up things in the block area for Hinkle and Johnson. A good three-point shooter.

PINE SOLVERS

Mike Duddleson, eight points per game, gives the Daredevils a sixth man who could start also. In fact, Duddleson did start earlier in the season before Coach Johnny Ray Turner went to the bigger lineup. Duddleson, a junior, can play anywhere. A good shooter, Duddleson also averages three rebounds and three assists per game. A very important key to a district title.

Alan Joe Moore and Matt Rose will give the Daredevils some bench strength as will Chris Hamilton.

WHAT THE DAREDEVILS MUST DO TO WIN

Protect their leads. Do not allow the opponents a chance to get back into the game. Play hard nose defense and cut down on the turnovers. Just play smart basketball.

PLAYERS WHO MUST PRODUCE

Hopkins is a key. Hinkle and Johnson are going to score inside, but McDowell needs more offense from Hopkins. Duddleson also must contribute early and often.

> MCDOWELL (3-5) ALLEN CENTRAL (4-4) Wed., March 4, 8:30 p.m.

Burke must be hungry if Blackcats are to take title

Chris Burke has been playing with more intensity lately than he did at the beginning of the 1991-92 basketball season. That is good news for the Prestonsburg Blackcats but bad news for the rest in the 58th District.

Prestonsburg has been one of the preseason favorites to capture the district title this season but most of it has been like a roller coaster - up and down.

Burke is averaging 16 points a game for Prestonsburg, but many feel that he should be averaging much more for a 6' 8" center. Sometimes fans forget that there are other players on the floor as well and they also are loaded with talent. Burke is pulling down an average of eight rebounds per game but just as importantly, he is blocking shots at a five per game clip.

Burke will be joined underneath the basket by Aaron Tucker, a junior forward, who has some of the best athletic ability that's in the county. Tucker is a strong rebounder and positions himself well, averaging eight rebounds a game also. Tucker carries a 13 points per game average into the tournament and that plus the other things he does well is attributed to a positive attitude he possesses this year. Tucker will be a big key to the success of the Blackcats.

Nobody plays the two guard position as well as Johns Clark, although he has been seeing some time at the point guard position. Clark can certainly dominate a basketball game. Quick, alert and a deadly outside shooter, Clark will shoulder much of the load for Prestonsburg on offense and that may not be good. Clark leads the Blackcats in scoring with a 17 point per game average Prestonsburg may have the edge in this year's tournament in that they have a deep bench. A lot of teams would like to have a Jason Crisp, six points per game, come in and contribute right off. Or an Eric Fitzer who can score in double figures for you. A James Derossett who works hard in the middle.

WHAT PRESTONSBURG MUST DO TO WIN

Continue to play the hard nose defense they are capable of playing. Prestonsburg hasn't turned the ball over as much as most teams but they must guard against a mental let down on offense.

PLAYERS WHO MUST PRODUCE

Tucker is the key. Burke must play a good post game and not stray too far from the basket on offense. Clark will get his points. Strong bench play is a must.

Will this one?

Last two districts haven't been kind to Lady Blackcats

coach Bridget Clay is looking for better things from her team in next week's district tournament at Betsy years and with a junior oriented tea, Jamie Ratcliff. Clay believes this will be their year.

The Lady Blackcats are currently 14-9 on the year (Wednesday) and will finish the season with a winning mark. However, records mean little when tournament time rolls around.

Leading scorer Melissa Bailey (senior, 6' 1") is currently averaging 16 points per game. Bailey will be counted on by Clay to bring a district title to Prestonsburg. The Lady Blackcats haven't won the district since the 1987 season under Clay when they defeated Betsy Layne 51-50 in the title game.

Carolyn Reffitt leads a group of talented juniors with a 10 points per game average. A three-point shooter, Reffitt is a solid player on defense. Good court sense and a team leader.

Amy Reed is another junior who is carrying a 10 point per game average. Like Reffitt, Reed is consistent from the 19' 9" circle. Reed also is a team leader but has been hampered by an injury that seems not to heal to quickly.

Point guard Keri Merion leads the offense for the Blackcats. A steady floor performer and assist player, Merion is averaging seven points a game but is capable of scoring in bunches.

One of the most underrated players in the 58th District in girl's basketball is Raquel Cain. Cain will get her team around nine points per game and is the type of player who goes about scoring in a quiet way.

It's a good bench for the Lady Blackcats in Stephanie Music and Kristy Little. Music plays a hard Prestonsburg head basketball defense as well as being capable of scoring in double figures. Little gives some relief to Reffitt and Reed on the floor. A couple of talented freshmen Layne. # Undermanned Lady Trojans to face number one seed, Allen Central

It hasn't really been a banner year only two games this season, the Lady one seed — Allen Central. for coach Tommy Pack and the Lady Trojans find themselves facing the Trojans of Wheelwright. Winners of

It's not enough that Wheelwright hasn't fared well this season but to start off the tournament against one of the favored team doesn't help

Wheelwright did perform well against the Lady Rebels at home but fell hard at Allen Central losing by 50

Sheena Collins, the team's leading scorer has been out for the past four weeks and is doubtful for the tournament, although she promises to be back by then. Add the loss of Collins, that only leaves the Lady Trojans with four high school players having to make up the difference with grade school players. The Lady Trojans are undermanned indeed.

Becky Allen must get her shooting eye fine tuned and put some points on the scoreboard. Allen seems to play reckless at times and forces a lot of her shots. Allen will have to give all she has on defense because the loser stays home and the winners go

Stephanie Little plays hard. No one puts forth an effort like Little. And she will have to put forth all that before. Hit the boards hard and have she can if the Lady Trojans are too good shot selection. upset the number one seed. Little is a very good rebounder and works hard on offense in the block area.

Vicki Johnson runs the team at point guard but has been hesitant to shoot the ball much this year. Johnson is a solid three-point shooter and will have to score from the outside for Wheelwright.

You have to like the determination of Rhonda Thornsbury. Thornsbury is a young player who shows a lot of possibilities and you can see that she loves to play the game. Thornsbury will have to give her best performance of the year in Crystal Isaac is deceiving when she enters the game. A good outside shot, she likes to lean toward the hasket when she shoots. But as long as they go in who cares how much leaning there is in here shooting style.

Trojans know "good things come to those who wait"

It has been a long time in coming but the time has arrived. The Wheelwright Trojans are the number one team in Floyd County basketball and will carry the number one seed into the tournament next week.

The 1991-92 edition of Trojan basketball has the fans in Wheelwright still cheering. That can be seen in the large turn out that follows the Trojans around.

It has been a long time since a Wheelwright team had a winning record let alone entering the 58th District tournament as the number one seed.

It will be Wheelwright facing fifth seed Betsy Layne in the tournament but the game will be played on hostile territory at Betsy Layne.

Harold Johnson has led the Tro-

STEPHANIE LITTLE pulls down rebound

Layne Bailey leads the ballclub in assists this season as well as averaging 15 points per game. Bailey handles the point guard position for Wheelwright and will direct the traffic in the tournament. A very good point guard and can shoot the ball well.

Underneath is the most improved basketball player in Floyd County in Mike Newsome. Very good post up center and can run the floor on the break as well as any big man. Will give Betsy Layne matchup problems underneath.

John Hall, just a sophomore, can drill the three pointers. Hall is a great leaper for his size and rebounds very well. Gives Wheelwright the type of player in the mold of McDowell's Matt Johnson — overlooked. Plays hard but sometimes out of control.

Nobody works on his game more than Jimmy Helton, two guard for the Trojans. Doesn't shoot much as he is looking for his teammates and sometimes looking too much. A good shooter, Helton must put some points on the board to relieve the inside Bench strength is found in Steven Jackson. Fast, fast and faster is the way to describe the speedy Jackson. A terror on defense and opponents can not turn their head with him in the area. Shoots well but not too often. A good team player.

WHAT WHEELWRIGHT MUST DO TO WIN

Continue to do the things that got them the number one seed. Good sound basketball. Forget about individualize glory and just go out and play hard.

Both games should be good ones with each winner advancing to face the number two seed team in the tournament.

The Mcdowell Daredevils became the third victim for the Bobcats Tuesday night as Betsy Layne posted a 73-62 win over the Daredevils at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse. Betsy Layne defeated a strong Sheldon Clark team and then, following a loss to Allen Central on the road, returned home and defeated a good Johns Creek team.

Betsy Layne, a fifth place finisher in the Floyd County Conference standings, has played like the number one seed of late.

The Bobcats got 18 points from Jason Akers and 12 points out of Shawn Wallen in the game. Barry Hall scored 10 points against his former team.

McDowell placed four players in double figures, led by Dale Hinkle's 17 points. Matt Johnson added 14 and Mike Duddleson scored 11. Scotty Stanley tossed in 10 points.

The Bobcats scored eight unanswered points to snap a 58-58 tie and move out to a 66-58 lead. Akers hit two free throws and Wallen grabbed an offensive rebound to score underneath. Jason Newsome broke free for a layup and Wallen's two charity tosses completed the spurt.

Betsy Layne scored the final five points of the game to win by 11 points. Newsome hit the front end of a free throw and Wallen's lay-in made it 71-62. Wallen completed the scoring with another layup with 20 seconds on the clock.

The game was much closer than the final score. McDowell led 48-42 late in the third quarter on a 6-0 run on two field goals by Hinkle and a layup from Johnson. Akers' basket underneath and a 15-footer by Hall cut the lead to two points, 48-46. Hinkle hit a close in shot with 58 seconds remaining in the third period to give McDowell a four point lead, 50-46. Wallen and Stanley exchanged baskets before Hall hit a three-pointer for Betsy Layne with three seconds to go to pull Betsy Layne within one point of the Daredevils 52-51.

The score was tied at 52 on Hall's free throw to start the tourth quarter. Stanley gave the lead back to McDowell on a short jumper with 5:56 to go. A free throw by Newsome followed by Hall's lay-in gave Betsy Layne a 55-54 lead. Hinkle reclaimed the lead for the Daredevils on a layup with 3:22 showing on the clock, but a three point play by Akers put Betsy Layne on top 58-56. Duddleson tied the game at 58-58 with 3:22 remaining.

McDowell led at the first stop 15-11 and built a nine-point second quarter lead at 24-15. Betsy Layne went on a 11-0 run and went on top 26-24 as the game went back and forth. Betsy Layne led 33-26 on a layin by Jodi Coleman but McDowell hit four straight free throws to close the margin to three, 33-30, at the half. Two of the four free throws were the result of a technical foul called against the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne shot a sizzling 26 of 37 from the floor against McDowell. The Bobcats were just one of four from the three-point circle.

Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome said that his team shot a lot of layups off their full court press.

"We got some turnovers off the press," he explained. "We're starting to play some good basketball right now and it couldn't have come at a better time. We have beaten some good teams in the past four games and our overall play has been good. I believe we are starting to play like we are capable of playing.

"We have some tough non-conference games coming up and we want to do well in those games to build some momentum for the tournament. I feel we are peaking at the right time."

Akers pulled down four rebounds to go with his game high 18 points. Jason Newsome also had four boards. Coleman had a good defensive outing with five steals off the Bobcat press.

Dikeville Methodist Hospital Yours For Life

Pikeville Methodist is a great place to start out. And here's double proof: Stephanie and Amanda Combs, twin daughters of Steve and Teresa Hefner Combs of Pikeville.

Amanda and Stephanie arrived on December 11, 1989, almost two months earlier than expected. (Just couldn't wait, I guess!) Because twins are often premature, the Combs family anticipated an early arrival and planned accordingly.

"Having the Neonatal Unit at Pikeville Methodist was definitely a factor in our decision to stay at home to have our babies," said Mrs. Combs. "It's more convenient to stay home and it's nice to be near family and friends at a time like that. But the most important thing is doing what is best for the babies. We felt like the Pikeville Methodist Neonatal Unit would give our children the best start they could have anywhere."

Dr. Ruth Ann Shepherd, full-time staff neonatologist, was in the delivery room when Amanda (4 lbs. 4 oz.) and Stephanie (3lbs. 10 oz.) were born. They were taken immediately to the Neonatal Unit where they stayed for almost a month. During that time, the new parents could be with the girls anytime they wanted.

"Dr. Shephard explained everything to us in detail. We never had to wonder what was going on," Mrs. Combs continued. "Some of the little things I remember especially, like there was music playing all the time and a guest book in the hall for visitors to sign if we were out when they came by."

"I guess one of the most touching moments was when we finally got to take the girls home. You could tell the staff really cared. We were told we could call anytime we needed, day or night. And I did!"

Amanda and Stephanie Combs today

"I know we made the right decision to have our babies at Pikeville Methodist. Just look at them now - could there be any doubt?"

Paintsville scored eight straight points to take a 10-5 lead in the first period. The game was tied at 11-11 with Paintsville going up by one 12-11 as the lead exchanged hands four times before Prestonsburg took a 16-14 lead on a three point play by Clark. Prestonsburg led 18-14 after one quarter of play.

At halftime the Blackcats were clinging to a one point lead, 26-25. James Derossett rebound basket at the buzzer gave the 26-25 lead to Prestonsburg. Paintsville had taken a 19-18 lead by scoring the first five points of the second quarter on two field goals and a free throw by Wesley Ellis. Tucker's trey put Prestonsburg on top 21-19 before two free throws by Pinson tied the game at 21-21. Clark and Tucker each finished the game with 15 points as both had six three-pointers between them. Tucker hit four treys and Clark had two. Fitzer, getting a rare start, finished with 12 points and Burke added 11. Burke had seven block shots in the game as he continues to get better offensively and defensively. Fitzer usually comes off the bench to replace Burke in the lineup, but Coach Parido chose to start both big men and it was a good lineup for the Blackcats. Fitzer adds the extra height in the Prestonsburg lineup and Derossett can now be used in the need of a big man off the bench. Jason Crisp netted five points and Reitz had three.

Derossett scored two. Ellis led all scorers with 22 points. Pinson tossed in 17 for the Tigers and " Bangudi scored 12.

Prestonsburg (12-10) will close out their regular season with a home game tonight against the Sheldon Clark Cardinals. It will be senior night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. Wednesday night it will be tournament time but the Blackcats will not play until Friday night when they face the winner of the McDowell/ Allen Central game.

A Look At Sports

that he will remain as the Rebels' coach next year while the NCAA and UNLV say differently.

Now, several years back, you would never have known all this until it was weeks' old. But thanks to modern television and very quick wire services we know all about it the next day.

I certainly hope the NCAA and the officials at UNLV stand firm and rid themselves of a man who has bucked the system long enough. If it had been the University of Kentucky, you can be sure that the ax would have fallen a lot sooner and no second chances or bargains would have been struck.

Well, there you have it a look at sports these past two days. Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports you'll stay out the papers if you do!

Watkins hit double figures with 11

The games leading scorer was Jeff Campbell, who has already inked a letter of intent with Pikeville College, with 25 points. Campbell was the only Napier player to score in double figures.

Allen Central held a 9-8 first quarter lead only to see Napier come out in the second period and score the first 10 points to take a 18-9 lead. The Navajos would hold the ball as much as two minutes before shooting it. It wasn't that the Rebels didn't play good defense, it was the ball handling ability of Napier in keeping control.

Allen Central got back into the game in the fourth quarter when they finally caught the Navajos and tied the game at 42-42 with 1:40 left on the clock. However, Campbell hit a free throw and then a three-pointer to give Napier a five point cushion. Campbell added two more free throws for the final score of 47-42.

"I think that we played well against Napier," said Martin. "We ran our defense awfully well and I was pleased. They just held the ball on us and we couldn't do much."

Phillip Patton added six points for the Rebels and pulled down four rebounds. Stewart Hall also had four rebounds in the contest. Mike Allen finished with five points and two rebounds. Jeremy Hall only scored two points but picked up five assists. Stewart Hall had three assists.

"I was disappointed that we didn't win but we played well," said Martin. "They pressed us a lot," Allen Central had only nine turnovers in the game but that was contributed to the slow down game of Napier. Napier
