Council splits over vacancy then makes vote unanimous

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A vacancy on the Prestonsburg City Council was filled Monday with all the elements of a real election, including allegations that a council member tried to influence the vote.

After two candidates for the post were nominated from the floor—David Hereford and Lida Margaret Howard—councilman George Archer told of threats and harassment he and his family had received concerning which candidate to choose.

"My family members have been verbally abused, I've had phone threats and pressure has come from within the council in the way of accusations," Archer said. "It's sad. Prestonsburg politics goes on."

Archer's comments prompted councilman Billy Ray Collins to ask which council member had pressured him to vote for a certain candidate.

Archer declined to name the councilman, but when Collins asked if the council member was present at the meeting, Archer said no.

Councilman Gorman Collins Sr. was the only council member absent at Monday's meeting.

Archer also said he had received no pressure from the two candidates, but that their supporters had been "overzealous" in their efforts to sway his decision.

Archer also explained that he abstained from voting on the issue at the May 25 meeting because he felt council's actions could have been "voidable."

Council illegally discussed the vacancy at the May meeting in closed session.

After a roll call vote, Howard received votes from Archer, Charles Hale, Danny Hamilton and Mike Vance; Hereford received votes from Collins and Jerry Fannin.

Collins immediately made a motion to make the vote unanimous, which passed 6-0.

Howard was notified that she had been named to the council and arrived at the meeting a short time afterward. She was immediately sworn in by city attorney Larry Brown.

Other issues discussed Monday included several traffic control problems in the city.

Carlos Neeley told council that a traffic hazard existed on Jackson Street because of the cars that were being parked in front of WQHY radio station.

Neeley offered three suggestions to council to alleviate the problem: stop cars from parking on state highway right-of-way on both sides of the street; install a signal light at the intersection beside the radio station; or make Jackson Street a one-way road.

Mayor Ann Latta told Neeley she has requested that the state Highway Department install a traffic light at the intersection, but that she has not received a reply. She also told Neeley that police department records report only two traffic accidents in two years at that site.

Council took no action on the is-

Landfill reprieve expected

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

A meeting between Floyd County officials and two representatives of the Cabinet for Natural Resources' Division of Waste Management on Monday apparently produced an agreement which may result in the continued operation of the threatened Floyd County landfill.

Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said on Tuesday that Phillip Shepherd, Secretary of the Cabinet for Natural Resources promised Monday to issue an agreed order between the Commonwealth of Kentucky and Floyd County that would permit the landfill to remain open at least until 1995, during which time the county must make the required improvements on the landfill site that would make it acceptable under the Environmental Protection Agency's new, more rigid standards.

Citing Floyd County's failure to meet the Environmental Protection Agency's new standards, Governor Jones and the Department of Natural Resources' Division of Waste Management had previously rejected pleas from Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo and other concerned Eastern Kentuckians to keep the Floyd County

State board delays ruling in Hager's case

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A decision by the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education on whether to remove from office suspended Floyd County Superintendent Ron Hager has been delayed until June 18.

The state board was expected to render its decision Monday at a special board meeting, but the ruling was delayed because a typed transcript of the four-day removal hearing held in May was not complete.

Hager was charged in March with willful neglect of duty and misconduct in office by Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen.

Hager answered the charges at a

May removal hearing in Frankfort.

A three-member panel of state board members heard four days of testimony and was expected to give a recommendation to the state board at its June 8 meeting.

Boysen alleged that Hager filed false annual financial reports; that he allowed an illegal bingo game to be conducted at Prestonsburg High School; that he placed school construction monies into non-interest bearing accounts at First Guaranty National Bank; that he failed to reprimand Martin Elementary principal William Hughes for allegedly filing false annual financial reports; and that he failed to follow proper state bidding procedures in awarding school security contracts.

Middle Creek saga continues :

Battlefield goes 'national'

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Federal and state officials joined Civil War enthusiasts on a tour of the Middle Creek Battlefield on Monday as part of The Kentucky Heritage Council's Civil War Battlefield Conference.

During the tour, Deputy Secretary of the Interior Frank A. Bracken and David Morgan, state historic preservation officer, officially presented Frank Fitzpatrick a certificate proclaiming the site as a National Historic Site and noting its listing to the National Register of Historic Places.

As part of the tour, Edwin Bearss, chief historian of the National Park Service, pointed out various knolls and identifying landmarks as he told of the clash between the Blue and the Gray. Bearss identified the site through officials' reports and maps drawn by the Confederate General Humphrey Marshall.

On his maps, Marshall noted the confluence of left and right forks of Middle Creek and he indicated the high ground where he sent his Confederate troops. He also showed the location of Spurlock Fork, where the Union troops were approaching, Bearss said.

The battle began near Spurlock, explained Bearss, with the Union soldiers and the Confederate soldiers moving toward each other. Numerous cannon balls have been found in the area by farmers and hunters.

In his reports, Union General James Garfield said he stood on a cemetery knoll where he looked over the valley. Bearss identified Garfield's lookout point as the ridge near the junction of old and new Route 114.

The battle was the largest in Eastern Kentucky and helped to secure control of the region for the Union.

Preservation of the site is important to bring tourists and dollars into the area.

"When manufacturing (interests) look for areas to locate their business ... they also look for places where the local community cares about their environment, their history and protecting resources," Bracken said.

"It takes a lot of coordination, a lot of effort and interest to be put on the sue and agreed to wait for a reply from the highway department on installing a traffic signal.

Other traffic problems discussed were:

- the need for speed bumps on Arnold Avenue near Prestonsburg High School;
- replacement of a stop sign at the intersection of First Street and Town Branch bridge;
- making a section of First Street a loading zone area;
- asking the highway department to make the left lane at the Friend Street intersection a left turn lane only; and
- repairing a section of road at

Trimble Branch.

Fire Marshall Larry Adams informed council that the city Buildings and Codes department wanted to develop a master contractors license that would allow contractors, who are qualified, to perform several services without having to obtain several different licenses from the city.

Adams said, for example, that some contractors, especially in the heating and cooling profession, had been installing air conditioners in homes, but that they were not qualified to perform electrical repairs on the units.

The fire marshal said that a master contractor's license would also allow contractors, who were also electricians, to make necessary repairs.

Council gave Adams permission to proceed with developing a test for master contractor applicants.

In other business Monday, council:

- held the second reading of their 1992-93 budget ordinance;

instructed Adams to re-inspect the Pelphrey Grocery building on South Lake Drive to see if it was a safe structure;

• agreed to purchase a new tape recorder and microphones in order to record meeting minutes more accurately and to keep tapes on file at city hall for five years;

• agreed to hold a city clean-up in conjunction with a county-wide clean-up June 15-26; and

• held an hour-long closed session to discuss personnel matters and pending litigation.

No action was taken as a result of the closed session. The next regular meeting of the city council will be Monday, June 22 at 6 p.m. at city hall. The meetings are open to the public.

banquet included Statewide Press and The Floyd County Times, co-recipients of the organization's Outstanding Service Award; and Ann McGuire, who was presented a special award for her beautification efforts around Prestonsburg.

The Chamber and the Floyd County Litter Task Force also recognized 37 businesses, organizations and individuals who have participated in the Adopt-A-Highway trash control program during the year, and they presented a special award to county ecology officer Cleveland Tackett for his assistance in the program.

Lt. Governor Paul Patton was the keynote speaker for the Chamber event. Patton outlined a variety of economic development programs which will have a positive impact on the region, including a revised coal severance tax formula which will return more dollars to the coalfields to assist in economic diversification efforts.

In a final ceremony Thursday, the Chamber leadership changed hands with Tedi Vaughan, director of the Jenny Wiley Theatre, assuming the presidency of the organization. Vaughan takes over from Dolores Smith, president of the Chamber for the past two years.

Installed as directors Thursday were: Sam Blankenship, Del Borden, Russell Briggs, Estill Carter, Gorman Collins Jr., Harold Cooley, Terry Dotson, Sister Mary Fanning, Chalmer Frazier, Paul Gearheart, Darrell Gilliam, Thomas Hereford III, Jim Stewart, Tim Hites, Bill Harvey Howard, Morris Hylton, Mayor Ann Latta, Steve Pack, Scott Perry, Roy Ramey, Richard Slone, Dolores Smith, Carmel Spears, and Burl Wells Spurlock. landfill open past June 30.

In order to gain an extension on the June 30 deadline, Shepherd had said, Floyd County must prove that the landfill has an impermeable clay liner, which it has so far failed to do.

"The only way to prove we have the clay liner is with Superman's vision," Stumbo said in an earlier interview.

The Division of Waste Management's Annette Haven said on Tuesday that before any agreement between the Commonwealth and Floyd County were to become official, the county must first take steps to correct numerous landfill site violations.

Stumbo said that the terms of the agreement had been set and that county officials were merely waiting to "see it in black and white" before issuing further comment.

Haven said that the terms of any official agreement order are confidential until both parties have signed and approved them.

Register," said Bracken. "Having it (the Middle Creek Site) listed on the Historic Register is significant."

As a nationally recognized site, the Middle Creek Battlefield could receive funding from non-profit organizations.

About 250 representatives are co-sponsoring a bill, the Civil War Commemorative Act, to sell coins in 1993. The proceeds will go to the Civil War Battlefield Protection Society, said Wallace D. Galloway, legislative assistant for North Carolina Representative Charles H. Taylor.

Revenue generated should be around $30 million, which will be seed money for the preservation of Civil War battlefields, Taylor said. The Battlefield foundation's goal is to raise $200 million.

Resource centers get state funds

The Floyd County School District has been awarded over $300,000 in state grants to operate three Family Resource and three Youth Services centers for students in the school district.

The two different types of centers are required to be set up in each county school district under Kentucky's Education Reform Act. Centers that have been funded for the 1992-93 school year and the locations are:

- Allen, Family Resource Center, $53,600;
- Betsy Layne, Family Resource Center, $73,800;
- Maytown, Family Resource Center, $29,400;
- McDowell, Family Resource and Youth Services Center, $81,400;
- Horizons, no location available, Youth Services Center, $68,200; and
- Upper Left Beaver, Youth Services Center, $31,300.

Assistant superintendent Pete Grigsby, who is in charge of the projects, could not be reached Tuesday for further details on the centers.

Funding for Family Resource Centers and Youth Services Centers is available to schools in which 20 percent or more students are considered to be at risk, which means they qualify to receive free school lunches.

Family Resource Centers will operate in or near elementary schools and Youth Services Centers will operate in or near schools serving students over 12 years old.

Family Resource Centers, under law, are designed to identify and coordinate existing community services and provide, as funding allows, full-time preschool child care for two and three-year olds; after school care for children four through twelve, and full-time in the summer; training for expectant parents; parent and child education programs; training for child care workers; and health services and referral for health services.

Youth Services Centers will be used to identify and coordinate existing community resources and provide referral for health and social services; provide employment counseling, training and placement; develop summer and part-time jobs; provide drug and alcohol abuse counseling; and provide family crisis and mental health counseling.

Commission gives budget first review

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Wheelwright City Commissioners met in special session June 4 to discuss various issues concerning budgets for the 1992-93 fiscal year.

The commission held its budget hearing and introduced its budget that included $35,729 in general fund revenues; utility commission revenue of $299,280 and $483,000 remaining in a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG); $20,573 in state revenues; and $36,712 from road aid funds.

City Clerk Mary Ann Johnson told the commission the $483,000 in CDBG monies would be used to finish work on the city's sewage system which is expected to complete in April.

Commissioners also prioritized road and street repair projects that would be paid for with the road aid funds.

The top three projects were to repair Hall Hollow Road by reinforcing the road to prevent further slippage; filling in a large pothole on 79 Hill; and installing a handrail on a sidewalk in the city. Commissioners also plan to repair all roadside parking as the budget allows.

It was also suggested that the utility commission be reminded to repair the roads that have been damaged by work done on utility lines.

Commissioners also reminded the public that citizens are urged to report persons seen dumping garbage at a reclaimed mine site in the city. Two persons have been caught dumping at the site and commissioners said the area would be routinely patrolled by the city police.

The next regular meeting of the commission will be Thursday, June 18 at 7 p.m. at city hall. The meetings are open to the public.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

In these fast-paced days of voice mail and electronic communications, it's good to know you can still depend on a 29-cent stamp to go a long way.

Like the one we put on a bill sent to a New York advertiser on July 2, 1991.

The envelope came back Monday, stamped "return to sender" and postmarked in Long Island on the evening of October 8, 1991.

An eleven-month roundtrip to the Big Apple and back for just 29 cents.

A bargain if we ever saw one.

"Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing."

Legendary football coach Vince Lombardi is credited with making that profound statement in association with the world of athletics. A lot of people believe it.

But Lombardi wasn't only profound, he was wrong.

He would, no doubt, have been the first to admit his error, too, had Special Olympics been around in his day.

Last weekend, 1,600 handicapped kids participated in this year's version of Special Olympics and every one was a winner, no matter where or how they finished in the competition.

They proved, too, that it's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game...

Your tax dollars at work...

In keeping with our promise to keep you informed on a semi-regular basis of how your government is spending your hard-earned money, here's our report on the Federally Funded Study of the Month.

The U.S. Justice Department has discovered in a study conducted for the years 1987 through 1989 that violent crimes were committed more often in cities than in rural areas.

No kidding.

Wonder how many trees had to die before that report could be published?

Unwilling to accept the theories of the experts—or even Vice President Dan Quayle—we decided at our house to conduct an experiment in single-parenting.

The wife and kids headed off to the laboratory (aka Disney World) while we sacrificed the luxuries of cooked food and ironed clothing for the sake of science. Everybody has to do their part, you know.

After a week of study, we arrived at these conclusions:

(1.) The house stayed a lot cleaner when the kids were away.

(2.) The phone did not ring every 30 seconds when our 12-year-old daughter was gone.

(3.) Our shoes and socks weren't ripped from our feet by dried pools of Kool-Aid nearly as often when our five-year-old son was away from home.

That's the scoop from the "absentee dad" angle. We'll give you the "single-mom" stats just as soon as they let her out of the straightjacket.

If the first three cases are an indication of things to come, the suspects in a federal investigation into corruption among Kentucky legislators will have to take a number to determine the order of pleading guilty.

So far, three people have been indicted and all three have pleaded or will plead guilty to their parts in the government bribery scam. All, by the way, professed their innocence up to the point of their indictments at which time they suddenly remembered they had broken a law or two. All are really sorry and all are cooperating now with the feds in exchange for light sentences.

Looks like the rest of the crooks would save us all a lot of time and trouble by going ahead and confessing their crimes. After all, the last one in is going to be the rotten egg.

PERHAPS THE LESSON TO BE LEARNED FROM THE FALL OF COMMUNISM IS THAT ANY GOVERNMENT MORE INTERESTED IN SERVING ITSELF THAN LISTENING TO THE NEEDS OF THE PEOPLE IT IS SUPPOSED TO SERVE, WILL EVENTUALLY BE REPLACED

Letters

Editor:

There are excellent things in Floyd County and one is The Floyd County Times, recently judged as Kentucky's best multi-weekly newspaper.

Congratulations on that wonderful edition depicting Kentucky's 200th birthday which highlighted "Floyd County home folks, education, home grown, open for business, tourism, on the job, health is wealth, your government, places in history and two centuries."

Again, congratulations on a very difficult job well done.

Frances Preston Brackett
Allen, Kentucky

Editor:

Friday, July 3 has been proclaimed "Freedom Friday" in Kentucky by Governor Breton C. Jones.

On that day groups across the state have been asked to join with the county clerks to develop a statewide voter registration program and to focus all Kentucky's attention on the importance of the individual vote.

As we plan to celebrate the Fourth of July, we focus on our freedoms and rights as Americans. Voting will guarantee that all our freedoms will continue.

In last month's primary election less than 25 percent of our registered voters cast their ballots. Kentucky has maintained the tradition of about one-third of the eligible population voting in most elections.

One-third of the population — about 800,000 — is registered but declines to vote and the remaining third is eligible but unregistered.

As we celebrate the Fourth of July and the freedoms we enjoy in a democracy, we need to remember that a democracy reflects the will of the majority. Our voter participation in Kentucky means that democracy represents the minority.

Participation in your county's "Freedom Friday" program will help change that. Please contact your county clerk for more information about how you can be a part of increasing voter registration.

CONSERVATIVES CAGE BIG BIRD

by Laurence Jarvik

Big Bird, symbol of the excesses of the public broadcasting bureaucracy, has been caged.

With the battle cry, "this is just the beginning," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kansas, orchestrated a major conservative victory by driving through a bill that would dramatically reform the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB). In a recent Senate vote (June 3) to reauthorize federal funding for public broadcasting, conservatives attached a set of amendments that requires financial accountability, program balance and objectivity, and higher programming standards.

Even Congress couldn't bring itself to vote against decency. In a 93-3 vote, Senate liberals joined conservatives to pass program content restrictions, defying threats of court challenges from broadcasters. The restrictions, applicable to both commercial and public broadcasting system (PBS) stations, amount to a prime-time ban on offensive and indecent programming.

Dole and other conservative leaders also obtained a tough enforcement clause for the 1967 Public Broadcasting Act's balance and objectivity requirement. Under the legislation, public television would have a complaint department with power to respond. Reports of unfair programs would be investigated and new shows would be commissioned to correct imbalances.

For the first time, too, American taxpayers should have access to the financial statements of PBS. A disclosure amendment requires all recipients of CPB money to keep their files open for three years, and CPB will have to publish written reasons for its grant decisions. At last, ordinary citizens as well as programming professionals would be able to keep an eye on PBS bureaucrats.

Even the scandal-ridden Independent Television Service (ITVS) is being brought under control. ITVS—which has not produced a single program in four years, despite a $24 million budget—would be subject to all the rules of CPB. That means financial accountability and balanced programming at last.

An attempt to freeze federal spending failed, and CPB will get a 50 percent budget hike, to $1.1 billion, over the next three years. However, as part of its campaign for a balanced budget amendment, the White House has vowed to veto the public broadcasting bill unless it's trimmed to $825 million. The winds of fiscal restraint seem to be blowing in that direction: State governors, pressed by budget deficits, are cutting public broadcasting budgets with little political cost. New York Gov. Mario Cuomo this year, for example, painfully trimmed $8 million, or about one-third, from his state's public broadcasting budget.

Despite hollow claims of triumph, the powerful public broadcasting lobby was shaken by its pyrrhic victory. They would like nothing better than to shake loose of congressional oversight, free to pursue a partisan agenda at taxpayer expense.

Ironically, the only way to escape congressional strings is to get public broadcasting off the public dole. If public television were owned by its viewers, contributors would be making investments instead of donations, buying stocks in a company and participating to the fullest extent possible in corporate management. As a publicly held company, with its capital raised from markets instead of the American taxpayer, public broadcasting would enjoy truly insulated funding.

Is such a transformation possible? Indeed, it is. Privatization of broadcasting has worked in Italy, Spain, France and England. It is spreading to the formerly socialist states of Eastern Europe, even to the former Soviet Union itself. And now, Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas, has introduced a privatization bill in the House.

So long as it receives federal handouts, public broadcasting should be subject to at least the same congressional scrutiny as any other government program. There's simply no other way to prevent the abuse of a public trust for private and partisan purposes.

A CALL TO ACTION...

by David N. Adamson
Founder and Chairman
National Write Your Congressman, Inc.

The average politician does the things that will keep him or her in office, while the voters want to see the Government run with the same sound business principles that a business man or woman must use in running their business, so we don't think like the politicians do. We want to see good economical government.

To get that good government the voters must stop making demands on their Members of Congress for grants, hand-outs and loans. The Government has no money except what they collect from you and me. Karl Marx is supposed to have written in the communist manifesto, "democracy cannot last indefinitely because the public will soon learn that they can vote themselves large sums of money from the public treasury." If Japan, Russia, European countries and many other countries think it is of value to send lobbyists to Washington to influence our Congress, which they do, can we afford to sit idly by and see the greatest country on earth go bankrupt and our freedoms go down the tube?

Wouldn't you agree that it is high time for a "Call to Action?"

LISTENING TO MY FELLOW KENTUCKIANS

During the recent Memorial Day recess, I spent a week traveling across the Commonwealth, meeting with community leaders, local and state officials, and citizens of eleven Kentucky counties. I always find these meetings to be enlightening and enjoyable, and return to Washington with a new insight into the needs, concerns and accomplishments of my constituents.

While the economy appears to be making a steady rebound, it continues to be a top issue of concern to all Americans. Throughout my trip, I met with community leaders from Pikeville, Winchester, Richmond, Ashland, Brownsville, Leitchfield, Louisville, Lexington, and several northern Kentucky cities. At the Northern Kentucky International Trade Association dinner, I assured those in attendance that the United States is doing very well in international trade. In fact, America continues to be the largest exporter in the world, followed by Germany and Japan, respectively. Even as Congress was pushing protectionist trade legislation, U.S. exports grew by 93 percent since 1982.

I also spoke to local chambers of commerce, and listened to their concerns about the economy, and the potential for new jobs and industry in the state. While many Kentuckians continue to struggle with the burden of unemployment, the outlook appears to be positive. During my week in the Commonwealth, I talked to business leaders about the prospects for economic recovery. I also toured several Kentucky plants, including Mountain Top Baking in Pikeville, Kentucky Electric Steel in Ashland, and Leggett and Platt in Leitchfield.

I addressed several civic organizations, including the Ashland Optimist Club and the Winchester Kiwanis Club. In addition to concerns about unemployment and U.S. trade, members of these organizations expressed concern about the overall standard of living. Disposable income per capita since 1982 increased by one-fifth, and family incomes increased at every economic level, meaning that the majority of Americans are generally "better off" now than they were ten years ago.

As always, I thoroughly enjoyed meeting with hundreds of Kentuckians during my trip across the state. These visits provide me with the necessary insight to properly serve all Kentuckians here in Washington.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

SENATE PASSES "MOTOR-VOTER" BILL

I am very pleased to report that the U.S. Senate has passed my so-called "motor-voter" bill to update our democracy by making it easier for all Americans to register to vote.

The Senate recently voted 61-38 in favor of this critical legislation — S. 250, the National Voter Registration Act of 1991. In my opinion, this vote could not have come at a more appropriate time.

S. 250 is designed to bring government closer to the people at a time when millions of Americans feel very strongly that they are losing their voice in the politics and policies of this nation. It is designed to finish a long and historic struggle to put the power of government in the hands of all the people.

Let there be no mistake. The job is still unfinished.

In an age of technological revolution, a cumbersome maze of procedural barriers continues to discourage 40 percent of Americans from registering to vote. We have everything from instant communications to fast food, but we still don't have a modern system of voter registration.

The current, outdated system is separating far too many Americans from the workings of democracy. Only about half of all potential voters took part in the last two presidential elections. Only 36 percent turned out in 1990 to elect the 102nd Congress, which now confronts some of the most difficult problems our nation has seen in many years.

Our bill, which I introduced with Senator Mark Hatfield (R-Oregon), ensures that virtually all eligible citizens will have the opportunity to vote in future elections.

Under S. 250, citizens will be routinely registered to vote when they apply for or renew their drivers' licenses. Unemployment and other offices also will provide the necessary forms and guidance, and mail-registration procedures will be extended to more Americans.

This bill allows citizens to vote as long as they are registered 30 days before an election and it ends the practice of dropping names from the rolls simply for failing to vote.

I believe we are doing just that with a bill containing strong anti-fraud provisions and carefully crafted registration reforms costing only a few cents per registered voter.

We have been working for years to strike this much heralded blow for democracy. Our reforms are pending in the House, but they still face a veto threat from the President, who recently vetoed our equally important campaign-finance reform bill.

Our government should never hide from the power of the people. I urge all Kentuckians to support our continuing efforts to see that it is not allowed to do so at this critical point in our nation's history.

Grant is awarded

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Carol M. Palmore, Kentucky's Secretary of Labor, announced on Tuesday that the Big Sandy Area Labor-Management Committee earned a $10,719 grant for the next fiscal year through the Kentucky Labor-Management Matching Grants Program.

The grants program emphasizes positive change in the area's labor-management relations.

Utilizing funds from the grant, plus an additional $1,550 from its own coffers, the Big Sandy Labor-Management Committee plans to hire a part-time executive director, create a program that will educate area school children and civic organizations, and provide information concerning regional labor market and labor-management relations to prospective new industries.

The grants program, established three years ago by the Labor Cabinet's Office of Labor-Management Relations, will benefit 10 other Kentucky committees this year.

The 1992 General Assembly voted earlier this year to provide the grants program with over $100,000 per year for the next two years.

Area jobless rate declines

In the Big Sandy region, the unemployment rate declined from a revised 10 percent in March to a preliminary 9.2 percent in April. Local rates ranged from seven percent in Johnson County to 14.6 percent in Magoffin County, the only county in the ADD with a double-digit rate. Floyd County's rate for the period was 8.1 percent.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 40.5 percent had worked in mining, 17.1 percent in construction, 13.6 percent in trade, 11.6 percent in transportation, communications and utilities, and 8.2 percent in services.

Wedding bells ring

The prom gowns and tuxedos were put to use once again by Mrs. Fairchild's Adult Living Class. A few of the students decided to take on the married life. On the following Monday, after prom, the class had a mock wedding. The class had cake, chips, dip, pop, pie, and other snacks. The wedding was filmed and shown afterwards to the school.

The family of William Everette Wohlford would like to express their sincere thanks to all who were with them during their time of sorrow.

*Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent a floral piece, if so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say,
Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much,
whatever the part.*

A special thanks to Rev. Lori Vannucci and Jim Latimer, the singers for their special songs. Thanks to the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home, for helping us during our time of need.

Domestic Violence

by Carol Lewandowski
Outreach coordinator
Christian Appalachian Project

In Eastern Kentucky, most people do not realize the amount of domestic violence which still occurs. Domestic violence is any type of abuse, emotional, mental or physical between two people involved in a family, marital or live-in relationship. Although the abuse may be directed toward either partner, 95 percent of the victims are women. Violence may occur to some extent in two out of three marriages. An average of 3-4 million women are battered each year by their male partners. Domestic violence spans all races, economic and social classes.

There are many reasons why women stay in abusive relationships. Frequently, women face danger when they attempt to leave a relationship. The threats of violence or even death are very real to the woman. Also, the woman may be emotionally dependent upon the abuser or he may be destroying her self-esteem. She may think she must keep her marriage together because of religious beliefs or cultural pressures. Many women want only the violence to end, not the relationship.

Unless there is an alternative, such as a battered women's shelter, many feel trapped into staying in abusive relationships. There are fifteen shelters in Kentucky. The Big Sandy Family Abuse Center serves Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike Counties. The center, third-largest in the state, provides many services for the abused women and her family.

One of the most important services is emergency shelter for women in danger. The center also provides a 24 hour crisis line which women can call for help or just to talk with someone who cares.

Knowing there is an alternative to the violence is a great relief. Center staff do not tell women what to do, but help them sort out their feelings and determine a next step in a safe and supportive atmosphere.

For further information on domestic violence, please contact the Big Sandy Family Abuse Center at 886-6025.

One of the greatest gifts you'll ever give your family may be your funeral.

It's something no one likes to think about. But sooner or later, we all have to face it. Including you.

And when it happens, the loved ones you leave behind will have to face a lot of decisions about your funeral. Everything from your favorite flowers to friends that should be notified. All at a time when these details should be the last things on their mind.

But you can do something now to help make this time a little easier for them.

Because you care...

That's why we're offering a special book we call "Requests," which you can fill in now to help guide your family in making these choices, secure in the knowledge they're doing what you would have wanted.

It's our gift to you, and it's available free.

There is no cost, and there's no obligation.

Carter is pharmacy preceptor of the year

Lee Carter

Highlands assistant director of the Pharmacy Department, Lee Carter, R.Ph. has been selected as 1991-1992 "Preceptor the Year" by the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy. A Preceptor is a registered pharmacist who acts as a teacher/coach supervising the "hands on" work experience of senior level pharmacy students during their required four week-off campus clinical rotations.

The Preceptor Award recognizes Carter as an outstanding role model for University of Kentucky extern-ship students and notes his overall contributions to the program. Carter was chosen from over 200 University of Kentucky Pharmacy Preceptors statewide. The award was presented during the Pharmacy College Graduation on Saturday, May 9 at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Carter is a 1986 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, holds a Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy, and currently is working on his doctorate in pharmacy. He began work in the Pharmacy Department at Highlands Regional in April 1989 and has served as a preceptor for over 10 externship students.

Highlands Pharmacy has been an externship program site since 1990 with Director of Pharmacy, Tom McIntire serving as a University of Kentucky Pharmacy Field Professor for the Floyd, Pike and Johnson County area. McIntire stated, "Highlands has been so pleased with the success of the externship/preceptor program, that we are currently pursuing the next higher level of rotations for graduate students, the Pharmacy Doctorate Clerkship program." The entire study program gives students a better perspective of eastern Kentucky as a potentially viable job market and an attractive place to locate, McIntire said.

KENTUCKY JUNIOR
ALL-STAR GAMES

SHORT ON SOLID TALENT

After attending the Kentucky Junior All-Star games at Paintsville Friday night, I felt disappointed that I didn't see some real promising and upcoming basketball players in the games. I know that basketball season has been over for three months and some of the players are out of shape and must once again find themselves during the series of games. But even with the lack of playing the past three months, some talent should show through.

JUNIORS-TO-BE

Let's look at some of the players that made up the rising junior all star team. Perhaps the most impressive was Daviess County High School's Lance Parr. The 6-8 center showed that he could play with or without the ball. Parr tossed in 20 points to lead all scorers. But he did it both inside and outside. He has some very good moves on the inside but his three point shooting (he nailed two treys) gives him extra versatility. A very strong post up player, Parr also is a workhorse on the boards. Many 6-8 players could take notes on his play.

None of our juniors-to-be hit in double figures. Most of them looked as if they were lost both on offense and defense. They failed to block out and their lack of aggressiveness was very noticeable. Phillip Patton played representing Allen Central. Patton's slim frame made him no match for the bulkier players. However, Patton was impressive with his positioning under the boards in pulling down five rebounds and scoring four points. He did not shoot that much because he did not get the ball down low. That's what happens when you play on a team where everyone wants to play guard.

I was disappointed with the play of Elkhorn City's Todd Conley. I felt that Todd was trying to impress someone and forced some shots that he should not have taken. He totaled three points in the game. But on the other hand, he had a great game assist-wise and I certainly liked the way he passed off.

Shane Ratliff will certainly be missed at Johnson Central next year because the kid played well in the all-star game. I don't care what they say at Central, they are going to miss having him around. If his dad, Alvin, does trek to Bath County this coming season, then Bath County is getting not only a fine basketball coach but a player that can score for them.

On the most part, the game itself between the east and west was good but the players certainly need to improve an awful lot.

SENIORS-TO-BE

For the juniors-to-be, they have next year to improve their skills and possibly become something by the time they are seniors. For the seniors-to-be, they are in trouble. I was the most disappointed in the play of some of the state's best. The number one center, Jackson Julson (6'10") of East Carter High School was a no-show at the game because of an injury. He could be out all summer. I was anxious to see him in action.

A possible future Kentucky Wildcat, Darnell Burton, will have to really improve to be able to play major college basketball after this season. Burton looks lazy on de-fense as well as offense. He re-bounds well once he gets position but he seems reluctant to do that. But, you say, it is only an exhibition game! True. But if you are going to impress all the 200-plus college coaches that will be looking at you, you had better use the exhibition games to get back in shape.

KEN'S SPORT SHOP
1992 CAESAR'S WORTH CHAMPIONS

McQuade MVP as...

Ken's Sports Shop wins
Caesar's-Worth Classic

When you walk along main street here in Prestonsburg and pass by Ken's Sport Shop, you can't help but notice the large trophies that Ken's has won in recent years. Well, another trophy will be added to the display — over six-feet tall — as evidence of Ken's Sport Shop's recent winning of the Caesar's-Worth Ninth Annual Softball Classic held this past weekend in Johnson City, Tennessee.

In a tournament they placed second last season, Ken's defeated J & K — a team they placed second to last year — in the championship game winning it by the score of 14-9. J & K is sponsored by a West Liberty firm but has Pikeville connections.

Mike McQuate, a defensive standout, won the tournament's Most Valuable Player Award for his defensive skills.

"Mike played excellent defense for us," said Kenny Conley of Ken's Sport Shop. "He caught everything that came out there. He made some sliding catches and just played a well all-around game."

But McQuate also carried a big bat for Ken's in the title game. McQuate blasted two home runs, one a three-run shot in the first inning that staked Ken's to a 3-0 first inning lead. McQuate, who had three hits in the game, cranked out another round tripper — a two-run shot — in the fourth inning. He singled in the third inning.

McQuate batted .484 for the tournament, going 13 for 27 at the plate. He pounded out three home runs, three triples, one double and had four singles.

After McQuate's three-run home run gave Ken's a 3-0 lead, the local team scored five times in the third to take an 8-1 lead. With one out in the inning, Ken's collected six consecutive hits — started with McQuate's base hit. Isner tripled with Ronnie Little, Jerry Fultz, Tim Rice and Jeff Cole following with singles.

McQuate's home run in the fourth accounted for the two runs for Ken's in the inning. Cole had doubled in the fifth and scored on a base hit by Scott Cornett.

Cane Hale finished the scoring for the winners when he blasted a three-run home in the seventh inning scoring Rice and Cole ahead of himself.

It was the third time the two teams met in the 50-team tournament.

In the first game between Ken's and J & K, Ken's posted a 14-8 win sending J & K to the losers' bracket of the double elimination tournament. Newsome and Isner each collected three hits in the game. Rice picked up the win for Ken's as he did in the entire tournament.

J & K moved back into contention for the title after defeating Oliver's in the finals of the losers' bracket. For the second time in the tournament the two teams would meet again. This time, despite three home runs, Ken's lost 17-12, forcing the third meeting between the two teams. J & K scored eight times in the second inning to go on top 8-3. Randy Cline led off the inning with a home run and Bobby Sparks followed with a base hit and David Conley following suit. The big blow of the inning was Kenny Belcher's three-run home run. Rex Gallion had a three-run round tripper in the fourth inning.

Scott Cornette homered in Ken's third inning as did Jimmy Blankenship. Greg Shepherd had a three-run home run for Ken's in the fifth inning. Cornette just missed hitting for the cycle when he tripled in the first, homered in the third and doubled in the sixth. His line drive to right field was picked off in the fifth inning robbing of the cycle.

Ken's posted a first game 6-1 win over KJCW radio with Shepherd hitting a home run in the second inning for Ken's. In a slugfest that featured five home runs, Ken's romped past the Homeplate A's 22-12 in a wild one. Ronnie Little had two home runs in the game in back-to-back innings. Little drilled a solo shot in the second inning and then unloaded a three-run shot in the third. Shepherd hit a three-run round tripper in the fourth. The opposition hit two home runs.

Ken's hit three home runs in their 20-4 romp of Oliver's. Shepherd had a three-run home in the first inning that staked Ken's to a 3-2 lead. Little hit his third home run of the tournament in the second — a solo shot. Then Isner drilled two-run shot in the third.

McQuate went three-for-four in the game with a triple. Cornett had a sixth inning triple that scored two runs.

Hale, Blankenship and Shepherd each hit home runs in Ken's 18-11 win over Kwick in the semifinals of the winners' bracket. Hale homered in the second inning with Blankenship and Shepherd hitting back-to-back round trippers. Blankenship's was two-run home run and Shepherd hit a solo shot.

"Scott (Cornette) had a good tournament for us," said Conley. "Tim (Rice) pitched in all the games and had some good defense for us from the mound. He had a good tournament. Ronnie (Little) did a great job for us, also."

Other tournaments are on the list for Ken's Sport Shop including the Blue Grass Games.

Kentucky Junior All-Stars put in appearance at Paintsville

This year's edition of Kentucky Junior All-Star basketball was unveiled at the Paintsville gym this past Friday night as this years sophomores and juniors gathered to showcase their skills.

From the tip of the first game between the East and West sophomores, you could tell that several were out of shape and their skills in need of tuning.

However, it was one of the better all-star series that has been played around here in the past three years.

While there was no local all-star team to battle the sophomores and juniors, they played a East/West all-star exhibition before a sparse crowd. The East sophomores posted a 15-point win over the West sophomores by the score of 87-72.

Allen Central's Phillip Patton played for the winning East squad and tossed in four points. Patton said that he enjoyed playing in the all-star game and hopes to use the opportunity to improve his game for his junior year at Allen Central.

Patton pulled down four rebounds for the East team in addition to his four points. He played around 12 minutes of the game.

Prestonsburg's Chris Burke played for the junior all-stars who also divided up for an intersquad scrimmage. Burke failed to score in the first half but looked impressive in the second when he pulled down five rebounds and scored eight points. Burke stood out on defense for the East squad. The 6'8" Burke hit two of two free throw attempts. The Blackcat, who played last year on the sophomore squad, said that things will be different this year.

"I'm more confident this year than last season," said Burke. "I'm not as nervous going into the all-star games as I was last season. I've gotten to know more people and that has helped."

"I'm just working to get stronger for the high school season at Prestonsburg this year and I want to get stronger against the bigger people. I need to get my moves down."

Burke said that in order for him to help the Prestonsburg squad next season he will have to be stronger than he has ever been since he has played ball.

"I have a goal to be the best to come out of Prestonsburg," said Burke before the all-star exhibition game.

Burke had come under some criticism for his lack of dominating a game because of his 6'8" frame.

"Yeah, I heard all the criticism about me," he said, "I think it is unfair criticism too. People look at me and say 'as big as he is he should be able to do anything.'"

Burke said the criticism he hears doesn't upset him but that he just wants to do everything he can to bring a winning team to Prestonsburg. "One thing I need to do is get my 15-foot jumper down," he explained as a goal for the summer. "However, I like being in the middle."

While all the criticism is being said about Burke, a team concept is all that he is concerned with.

"I hate to be seen as someone that's too for himself," he stated. "I'd rather see the team win than me getting a lot of attention. I just want to contribute to the team this year and help out all that I can."

Burke said that playing on the junior all-star team this year brings

Hackworth and Roberts lead
P-burg Cubs past Tigers 6-5

Mike Roberts swung the bat and Jason Hackworth put out the fire as the Prestonsburg Cubs edged the Prestonsburg Tigers 6-5 in the Prestonsburg Senior League Monday evening at Archer Park.

Roberts had three hits in four appearances at the plate and he stole three bases. Hackworth came on in relief of starter Jerry Lafferty to pick up the save. Hackworth worked the final two and two-third innings with seven strikeouts. Hackworth did not allow a hit, run or walk. He struck out the side in the sixth inning and fanned two in the seventh when he retired the Tigers in order.

Lafferty went the first four and a third innings allowing five runs on but four hits. He walked two and struck out four.

John Ortega suffered the setback for the Tigers working the full seven innings. Ortega allowed all six runs in giving up six hits. He struck out three and walked four. Ortega hit one batter.

The Cubs took a 3-0 first inning lead off Ortega on Roberts' base hit and a double by Lafferty. Jason Burke walked to lead off the game, stole second and third. He scored on Robert's one-out base hit. Roberts then scored on Lafferty's double. William Lester drove in the third run with a base hit that scored Lafferty.

After the Cubs went out in the second, the Tigers got a lead-off double from Jason Spurlock that went to deep centerfield over the head of Roberts. Spurlock scored on Campbell's one-out base hit. Blackburn hit a looper to center field that was caught with Campbell on the move to second. Campbell was doubled off at first base to end the inning.

The Cubs made it a 4-1 game with a run in the top of the third. Roberts collected his second hit of the game — a lead-off double — and scored on a wild pitch after stealing third base. Lafferty had an easy third as he retired the Tigers in order.

It was a two run fourth for the Cubs as they upped their lead to 6-1. A lead-off walk to Kelly got the third under way for the Cubs. Hackworth reached on an error at second base when Hicks misplayed the bouncer with Kelly moving to second. Jason Roberts moved both runners up with a sacrifice bunt and Kelly scored on Burke's double. Hackworth in attempting to score was cut down at the plate. Burke later scored the second run of the inning.

The Tigers moved closer to the Cubs with a three-run fourth inning to make it a 6-4 game. Ortega singled to start the inning and was bunted to second by Sammy Nelson. Ortega scored on Spurlock's second hit of the evening. Spurlock stole second and third before he came home when Marsillett laid down a bunt and was safe at first. Marsillett was balked to second and stole third. He scored on an error at second base.

The Tigers stirred things up in the fifth inning as they threatened to tie the game. Lafferty issued a one-out walk to Ortega, who swiped second and third base. He scored when Nelson's grounder got through third base for an error. Coach Cecil Lester

Martin plated four runs in the second inning for a 13-4 game but the Astros pushed across three in the third to make it 16-4. Martin kept from being mercied when they got a bases-loaded triple in scoring five times.

Drift scored their final three runs in the sixth inning with two coming on Clabe Hall's third home run of the game. Billy Hall walked, stole second and third to score on Byron Hall's second base hit of the game. Clabe Hall then delivered his third home run.

Murriell tosses shutout as Garrett Pirates blank Sox

Brandon Murriell allowed the McDowell Sox two hits and the Garrett Pirates stayed perfect with a 9-0 win. The Pirates continue to lead the Beaver Creek Little League with an unblemished record.

Murriell went the distance for the Pirates, striking out nine batters while allowing only one walk. Garrett scored four times in the first inning to get all the runs that Murriell would need.

Nick King collected a one-out base hit in the first inning and Greg Hunter followed with a single putting two runners on. Ryan Owens then drove in both runners with a double to give Garrett a 2-0 lead. Owens then scored on Rodney Bentley's two-bagger. Bentley scored the fourth run on a wild pitch.

The Pirates took a 5-0 lead with a run in the second inning. Byron Rister doubled and scored on a wild pitch. It was 6-0 after the third when King homered to lead off the inning.

The Sox collected their first hit in the bottom of the third when Landon Elswick doubled with two out. Elswick was then tagged out in a run down.

Two runs scored for the Pirates in the fourth inning. After a lead off walk to Howard and Martin's one-out base hit, Clark walked to load the bases. Mann's base hit drove in Howard and Martin for a 8-0 score. The Pirates left the bases loaded in the inning.

Garrett plated their final run in the top of the fifth when Owens reached on an error and scored on Bentley's double.

Murriell retired the side in order in the second and sixth inning. Murriell had two strikeouts in every inning except the fourth when he gave up the second hit of the game. The Pirates finished with 10 hits in the game, including doubles from Owens, Bentley and Rister. Landon Elswick doubled for the Sox.

The Pirates are 11-0 on the season.

Kidd named MVP as Betsy Layne honors football squad

The Betsy Layne Bobcats football team may not have won any games last season but that did not stop principal Alan Osborne from recognizing the squad at a recent banquet held at the school's cafeteria.

In staying with the principles of keeping things positive, Osborne along with last year's coaches put together the banquet to bring the parents and players together before school is dismissed for the summer.

Jamie Kidd was chosen as the team's Most Valuable Player. Kidd, a running back, was also chosen Most Valuable Player on the defensive squad for the Bobcats. The offensive MVP award went to quarterback Byron Combs, a junior. Combs missed the latter part of last season because of an injury.

Also, Osborne gave special recognition to Kidd and teammate James Keathley for being four-year lettermen. Each was awarded a trophy and a school jacket.

Senior Reggie Hamilton won the offensive lineman's award. The offensive back trophy went to junior Doug Hammonds and freshman Brandon Combs was named the best defensive lineman.

Kidd received yet another award as the best defensive linebacker, while Chad Bush, a junior, captured the best defensive back trophy. Kidd was honored for his hustle by being presented with the 110 percent award. Kidd and Hamilton were noted as co-captains of last year's squad.

Betsy Layne graduates 15 seniors off last year's squad but has some young talent returning for new coach John Derossset to begin the rebuilding process with next year.

While the Bobcats will not compete for the district title next season, the coaching staff at Betsy Layne still must face a stiff schedule that will include the likes of Prestonsburg and Sheldon Clark who are favorites to capture the district title this season. Also, on the Bobcats' schedule will be three county teams - Prestonsburg, Allen Central and Wheelwright. Whitesburg and Elkhorn City also appear on the 1992 schedule. The Bobcats start the new season August 28 on the road against Wheelwright. The school will take part in two preseason panoramas yet to be announced.

McMar Reds survive early barrage; holds off HAP, 9-7

The Harold-Allen-Prater Cubs of the 13-year-old Floyd County Babe Ruth League jumped out to an early 7-1 lead over the McMar Reds only to see it disappear in falling to the Reds 9-7.

Chris Moore picked up the win for the Reds in relief of starter Thomas Jenkins. Jenkins worked only two-thirds of an inning before giving way to Moore. Jenkins had trouble finding the strike zone and walked seven in the inning when Moore was summoned. Moore worked the final six and a third inning striking out seven and walking six. He allowed two runs on five hits. Jenkins had one strike out and he issued seven walks. Jenkins gave up five runs on two hits.

Brandon Castle took the loss for the Cubs. Castle went the distance with 11 strike outs and he walked nine. He gave up nine runs on five hits.

Trailing 7-2 going into the bottom of the sixth inning, McMar scored three times to make it a 7-5 game. Four runs crossed home plate for the Reds in the seventh inning as the Reds went on top 9-7.

Castle experienced some wildness in the inning by walking Kevin Robinson to start the inning. After Jenkins struck out, Moore worked Castle for a walk before Earl Cook grounded back to the mound. A walk to Jason Woods loaded the bases for the Reds setting the stage for Wade Damron's two-run single. P.J. Holbrook walked to reload the bases and a run scored when Beau Tackett walked giving the Reds the lead.

The Cubs took advantage of Jenkins' inability to get the ball over the plate in the first inning. A walk to Craig Hamilton and a one-out double by Castle accounted for the first run. Castle scored on Lance Jones' RBI single. Jenkins then loaded the bases with back-to-back walks to Wesley Collins and Brad Kidd. Chris Holbrook was careful at the plate and drew a walk from Jenkins forcing home Jones. Eddie Rowe, Mike Shepherd and Hamilton walked to force in two more runs and a 5-0 lead.

Kevin Robinson tripled with two out in the top of the first inning but was left stranded when Castle got Jenkins to bounce back to the mound to end the inning.

McMar did score a run in the top of the second to make it a 5-1 game. Moore was safe on an error, stole second and scored on Cook's base hit. Castle then struck out the next three batters.

HAP scored twice in the second on a triple by Castle leading off and a one-out single by Wesley Collins. Collins stole second and third and dented the plate on a two-out single by Chris Holbrook.

Castle retired the next six batters he faced up to the sixth inning for the Reds when they scored three runs. Robinson doubled and scored on a base hit by Jenkins. Jenkins stole second and third and came into score on a passed ball on the catcher when Moore swung at a third strike and the ball eluded Brent Tackett. Castle walked the next three batters forcing home Cook with the third run of the inning.

The loss was the first of the season for the Cubs who fell to 4-1. HAP left six runners stranded on base while the Reds left seven on. The Reds are 3-3 on the season.

Brent Tackett had two doubles for the Cubs and Castle collected a double and triple. The Reds had no extra base hits.

Allen impressive in 10-5 Brewer win over Prestonsburg Reds

Bennett Allen didn't run out of gas when he was lifted after the fourth inning against the Prestonsburg Reds this past weekend — he just ran out of innings. After the fourth inning, Allen had reached his limit of innings and was hurling one-hit, shutout baseball over the four innings. However, despite the good outing, Allen came up one inning short of getting credit for the 10-5 Brewers' victory over the Reds in the Prestonsburg Senior League.

However, David Turner picked up the win in relief but Turner relieved Ricky Lemaster after Lemaster ran into some trouble in the fifth inning. The Reds had scored five runs in the fifth inning off Lemaster with Turner coming on in the inning to record the last out. Lemaster worked two-thirds of an inning with one strike out and five walks. Lemaster allowed one hit in the inning.

Bennett recorded three strike outs and he issued two bases on balls. Allen had retired the first eight batters he faced until he walked Jason Osborne in the third. He gave up his second walk also in the third to Jason Spencer. The only hit that Allen yielded came in the fourth when Matt Trusty led off with a base hit. Trusty was caught trying to steal third and Allen struck out Jeremy Osborne to end the inning.

Trusty started for the Reds going the first 1 1/3 inning and suffering the loss. Trusty gave way to Spencer in relief with Shutts relieving him.

The Brewers scored five times in the top of the second to add to a 1-0 lead to go on top 6-0. Trusty walked the first three batters he faced in the second to load the bases. He then issued a walk to Allen to force home James Taylor. Turner singled home two runs scoring Wesley McGuire and Zeth Shepherd. William Marsillett then laced a double to right center scoring Allen. Turner's attempt to score on the hit did not prove out as he was cut down at home plate on a throw by Jon Morris in left field. Robbie Risner had a double in the inning when Spencer came on in relief. Spencer then promptly fanned Lemaster and James Joseph to end the threat.

Two runs scored in the fourth for the Brewers. Turner collected a one-out base hit. Marsillett reached on a walk and Turner scored when Risner reached on an error at third base. Lemaster's sacrifice fly scored Marsillett.

After Lemaster relieved Allen to start the fifth, the big righthander had problems finding the strike zone as the five of the first six batters he faced forced in two runs. Daniels then roped a base hit that scored a run. Jeremy Osborne was plunked with a pitch and Lemaster walked in the fifth run by giving up a base on balls to Bailey. Turner then came on to get Lowe to foul out to the catcher and end the inning.

Marsillett scored for the Brewers in the top of the sixth after he walked, stole second and third. Marsillett scored on Lemaster's RBI single. Wesley McGuire got a one-out single in the seventh inning but was forced at second on Shepherd's ground ball. Shepherd moved to second on a wild pitch and stole third. Allen singled Shepherd home.

The Reds loaded the bases on Turner with no one out as they threatened to score big time. Jason Osborne reached on an error at third base and Clint Shutts singled behind him. Turner walked Spencer to fill the bases with Reds. Larry Morris grounded hard to shortstop Risner, who threw to the plate to force Osborne. Trusty hit a one bouncer to second to force Morris and Risner's relay to first arrived in time to get Trusty and end the inning.

The Reds left the bases jammed again in the seventh inning.

The Reds collected four hits in the game to the Brewers' 10. Turner, Marsillett and McGuire each had two hits for the Brewers. Turner and Marsillett had two RBIs. Marsillett and Risner had the only extra base hits with doubles.

The Brewers will face the Reds again this Saturday at Archer Park. The Reds play the Tigers tonight at Archer Park.

Pirates no-hit Garrett Orioles 11-0 behind Murriell's 12 Ks

The Garrett Orioles, a new team this year in the Beaver Creek Little League, found the pitching of Brandon Murriell tough to handle. Not only did Murriell fire a no-hitter against the Orioles in the 11-0 mercy rule victory, but he struck out all 12 batters he faced in the four-inning game.

The Pirates played double or nothing with the Orioles as they banged out six two-baggers. Nick King, Ryan Owens and Rodney Bentley doubled in the first inning as the Pirates scored twice. Owens along with Howard doubled again in the five run third for the Pirates. Gary Hunter had a second inning double.

Bentley had a third inning triple and King tripled in the fourth.

Murphy was the losing pitcher for the Orioles with four strikeouts and one walk.

Roberts' streak ends in Little Mtn. 5K run

Sooner or later all winning streaks come to an end. So it was for long time runner Rick Roberts of Van Lear. Roberts was on a five-race win streak until the Little Mountain Bicentennial 5K Run this past weekend.

Roberts lost to eventual winner Tim Baili who caught Roberts at the half-mile point and then "jumped all over" him in pulling away. Baili finished with a time of 17:24 with Roberts 28 seconds behind at 17:52 on a hot and hilly course.

Garry McKenzie placed first in the 40 to 49 age group. Kennis DeBoard placed third in the same age group.

Next on the list for the runners will be the Warfield Liberty Run, a two and a half mile run.

"I just want to get back into first place," said Roberts.

Hansford's 7 RBIs lead WLG Yanks past Wheelwright 18-5

Josh Hansford and Donovan Hall led the charge from the plate for the Wayland-Lackey-Garrett Yankees and Mike Baldrige picked up the win as the Yankees mercied the Wheelwright Babe Ruth team 18-5 to run their record to 4-0 on the season. Baldrige fanned five batters while walking six. Brad Allen came on in relief of Baldrige, pitching the last two innings. Allen had three strikeouts and three walks.

Kevin Johnson, the first of three on the mound for Wheelwright, was the losing pitcher. Justin Ray and Travis Johnson followed Johnson to the hill. Kevin Johnson had one strikeout but he walked eight batters. Ray also had one strikeout and issued five bases on balls.

WLG scored six times in the fourth inning on a bases clearing triple by Hansford. John Moore drew a one-out walk and stole second. Tim Bellamy walked and both runners moved up on a passed ball. Moore scored on Kevin Allen's base hit. With two out, Brad Allen walked to load the bases for the Yankees. Baldrige was hit by a pitch, forcing home a run. Hansford then cleared the bases with his long triple.

The Yankees took a 7-0 lead in the first inning against Kevin Johnson. Kevin Allen walked to lead off the inning and stole second. Bingham walked and both runners pulled off a double steal. Brad Allen loaded the bases as he drew a walk from Johnson. A base on balls to Hansford forced in Kevin Allen. Donovan Hall then doubled to left field, clearing the bases for the Yankees. Moore reached on an error and Bellamy's base hit scored Hall. Bellemy and Moore scored when Kevin Allen was safe on an error at first base.

Wheelwright scored a run in the first inning against Baldrige. Walter Johnson walked and stole second with one out. Johnson scored on Compton's two-out base hit.

Wheelwright's big inning came in the fourth when they scored four times. Willard Johnson walked and stole second. Johnson scored on Kevin Johnson's double to left field. Travis Johnson and Holbrook walked to load the bases. Mike Tackett picked up an RBI when he walked to force home a run. Brad Allen then came on to relieve Baldrige and got Aaron Hall to pop out to Moore at second base. Justin Ray then singled home Holbrook. Tackett was nailed at the plate trying to score.

Tim Bellamy's double opened the third for the Yankees. He moved to third on a passed ball. Kevin Allen walked and stole second. Bingham drew a walk to load the bases. Justin Ray came on to relieve Kevin Johnson and face Brad Allen. Ray walked Allen to force in a run. Another run came home on Baldrige's sacrifice fly to left field. Ray retired the next two batters to end the inning.

Wheelwright threatened in the bottom of the fourth on a lead off walk to Willard Johnson. Compton got a one-out walk with the two runners moving up a base on a passed ball. Travis Johnson walked to fill the bases with Wheelwright runners and only one out. Allen fanned Holbrook and got Mike Tackett to ground back to the mound for the third out.

Hansford finished the game with seven runs batted in. He had a double and triple to help lead at the plate. Hall had a double, single and collected four RBIs for the Yankees. Bellamy had a single and a two-bagger for the winners. Kevin Allen had three RBIs and a double.

Justin Ray collected two hits for the Wheelwright team with a single, double and two runs batted in.

The Yankees will face Wheelwright again Thursday at Allen.

Prestonsburg Cubs continue to hold to first place with 5-3 win

Coach Cecil Lester of the Prestonsburg Cubs in the Senior League at Archer Park is much like most coaches. He is superstitious concerning some things. But one thing that Coach Lester is proud of is his 14 and 15 year senior league team.

"I have seen a big improvement in these kids this year," said Lester after his team's 5-3 win over the Prestonsburg Reds. "I have five 15-year-old kids that are work horses."

Jason Burke picked up the win for the Cubs in going the distance with eight strikeouts. Burke walked seven batters in picking up his fourth win of the season with no losses. Jason Spencer suffered the loss for the Reds.

Lester's Cubs took a 2-0 first inning lead when Burke led off with a base on balls. After James Jarrell struck out, Mike Roberts walked after Burke moved to third base on a passed ball. Jerry Laferty then lifted a fly ball to the outfield that Burke tagged up and scored on. William Lester walked and Aaron Bond singled home Roberts with the second run of the inning.

The Reds made it a 2-1 game with a run in the bottom of the inning.

Jason Spencer singled leading off and stole second base. Larry Morris' hard ground ball to second was mishandled and Spencer came around to score on the error.

Neither team could mount any kind of offense in the next three innings as Spencer and Burke hooked up in the pitching duel. The Cubs did take a 3-1 lead with a run in the top of the fifth on a walk to Burke. Burke stole second and scored when the ball went into centerfield and was tossed around.

Two more runs crossed home plate for the Cubs in the top of the sixth. Laferty singled to start the two run sixth. He stole second and Jason Roberts walked putting runners on first and second. Mike Kelly walked to load the bases with Cubs and Hackworth's base hit scored Laferty and left the bases loaded. With two out, Spencer walked Burke to force in the second run and a 5-1 Cubs lead.

The Reds tallied a run in the bottom of the sixth for a 5-2 score. Rusty Young walked and then stole second where he scored on Daniels long double. The Reds added another run in the bottom of the seventh on back-to-back walks to Spencer and Morris. Spencer stole second and third before Morris walked. Morris stole second and Spencer scored when Brandon Kinzer grounded out to short.

According to Lester, the Cubs have scored in the first inning in five of the six games that Burke has been the lead-off batter.

"I switched him to lead off from the number three position," explained Lester of the move. "Jason is more aggressive on the base paths. He has good speed and he has started listening to me more now. It helps a coach when he realizes they are listening."

Collins hurls, bats HAP Cubs past Garrett, 18-9

Wesley Collins had a field day at the old ball park this past Sunday when his team recorded an 18-9 win over the Garrett Braves. Collins picked up the win for the Cubs as they won for the fifth time this season.

But he did more than hurl the Cubs to their fifth win, he also starred at the plate, collecting four hits which included three triples and a double. Collins struck out six batters but gave up nine walks. He allowed nine runs while scattering four hits. Collins walked six of his nine bases on balls in the fifth inning when Garrett scored seven of their nine runs.

In the fifth inning, Collins issued walks to six of the first seven batters he faced in the frame. An error at shortstop allowed two runs to cross the plate.

The Cubs pushed across five runs in the first inning as they hit the Braves with a barrage of extra base hits. Two triples and two doubles helped the Cubs' cause. Craig Hamilton had a lead-off walk and Brent Tackett was hit by a pitch. With runners on first and second, Brandon Castle tripled both runners home for a 2-0 game. Lance Jones then lined a double to center, scoring Castle. Jones scored when Collins collected his first triple. Brad Kidd got a two-bagger scoring Collins to make it a 5-0 game.

Garrett scored in the top of the second on a one-out walk to Donnie Owens, a stolen base and Cory Heintzelman's RBI single.

In the bottom of the second, Collins tripled home Jones, who had walked, for his third RBI in two innings. Collins scored on a base hit by Brad Kidd. Garrett got a run back in the top of the third inning when Brandon Hicks scored after leading off with a base hit. Hicks' run was an unearned run that was the result of an error at first base.

A five-run fourth for the Cubs made it a 9-2 game. Kidd had a double for the Cubs leading off. Two walks to load the bases and a two-run single by Hamilton drove in two runs. A two-out base hit by Castle scored Hamilton and Tackett.

Collins led off the fifth for the Cubs with a long triple, his third. He came around to score when Brad Kimbler struck out and the ball got past the catcher for an error. Kimbler scored on Chris Holbrook's triple. Holbrook then scored on a passed ball.

Collins' fourth came in the sixth when he doubled home a run. Castle had singled with one out, stole second and third and scored on Collins' double.

All totaled, the Cubs had five three-baggers in the game and four doubles. Kidd finished with three hits. Slone had the only extra base hit for the Braves with a sixth inning triple.

Garrett stranded two base runners and HAP left four on base.

All-Stars

stronger competition in and that he hopes it will help him to be stronger in the middle.

The tournament feature some other 15th Region all-stars, one being Johnson Central's outstanding guard, Shane Ratliff, who more than likely will be taking his talent to Bath County the coming basketball season. Ratliff scored eight points in the all-star game and was very impressive on defense and under the boards. The hot shooting Ratliff nailed a three-pointer and hit a couple outside shots.

Ratliff's dad, Alvin Ratliff, is certain to be named head basketball coach at Bath County for the coming basketball season after losing the head job at Central.

"It's about 99.8 percent a sure thing," said Ratliff at the all-star games. "Bath County hasn't been out of the district since 1976 and they are a small 1A school. It will be a challenge." Ratliff said going to Bath County would be a good thing for him.

The officiating crew at the all-star game was three man crew made up of Dale Conn, veteran Ansey Casey and Mark Walters. All three will be working the upcoming officials camp at Belfry this month.

Walters was nursing a sore knee where he had recently underwent reconstructive knee surgery. When asked what he was doing on the floor calling the game, Conn was quick to answer for him. "He's crazy!"

Another coach that has come under uncalled for criticism of late is Sheldon Clark's Roger Harless. Harless said that this probably will be his last year at Sheldon Clark and he intends to go out in a big way. Harless said that this year's Sheldon Clark Panorama will be the school's biggest ever. "It will be bigger than any we have ever had," he said. "Our schedule for the coming year will be the best ever."

The Cardinals will feature such games as Lexington Catholic, who probably will be the preseason number one team in Kentucky going against the number one team in West Virginia, Beckley. Pleasant Ridge Park will face Portsmouth, Ohio, in one game and Tolisa, W. Va. will take on Belfry. Sheldon Clark will pay Williamson while Prestonsburg will go up against Johnson Central. Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats face Matewan.

Harless said that he has four players currently playing in Australia: Clayton Wells, Rusty Whit, John Slone and Brock Ward.

Elkhorn City's Todd Conley also played in with East sophomores and scored three points.

The average depth of the Atlantic ocean is 11,370 feet.

A Look At Sports

Willard of Western Kentucky, can shoot from the outside and seems to run a good floor game. I like his style of play and with a good senior year he could possibly become a good division two player somewhere. If not, try an NAIA team.

I like Paris High School's Alvin Sims as well as Drew Powers of Dixie Heights.

Basketball. It is still baseball season and football season is approaching, but everyone wants to talk about the upcoming basketball season. Says Jackie Osborne, "I can't wait until the round ball starts."

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

We would like to take this time to thank two important people: Dave Conley and Clara's Flower Shop, who have come out and helped support the Duff Orioles and other Little League teams; for taking a special interest in the children. If there were more people like them concerned about the children, it would be a great county.

"LIVING ON A SCHEDULE"

Are there certain ways you have to do something or you just don't feel right? I guess you could call it ritualistic behavior, but there are some I have to do or I just can't be satisfied.

Mom says I'm too young to be set in my ways. I just can't help it. When I can't do things the way I normally do, I get upset. It just ruins my entire daily schedule. I understand this sounds pretty weird, but I'll explain it to you.

For example, after I get out of bed in the morning, I put myself on a little schedule. I don't know why I do this, but I've just got to do it. The first thing I do is eat some breakfast. I think that's a pretty normal thing to do. Then I take a shower, another routine item.

After I get out of the shower, however, I've got to take a little time out to let a towel soak up the excess moisture in my hair. Mom says it's just because it's part of my routine, but really it's not. If I don't do it, my hair will never get dry. After I let it get half-way dry, I then brush my teeth, apply my make-up, and dry my hair. Now, that really doesn't seem too bizarre to me. I guess I just like to start the day in an orderly way because I never know how it will end.

Another thing I do that I feel is kinda strange occurs when I go to bed. Every night when I get in bed, I put this lip conditioner on. If I don't, I can't sleep. Isn't that weird. I think the reason is because I'm so accustomed to doing it before I got to sleep every night. I don't know, maybe I'm not too strange.

Do any of you have any "rituals" you must perform? If you do, let me in on them. It would make me feel a little better.

Later on.

AT THE AIRPORT

Joan Chaffins of McDowell said she enjoyed the stories about my husband so I thought she might like to hear about an experience we had two or three years ago in a Florida airport.

We were in Palm Harbor for an extended stay and a friend, Elsie Miller of Lexington, agreed to come down for a visit. She would be flying in to Tampa on Delta flight 147, by the way of Atlanta, and we promised to be at the airport to meet her.

Tampa International Airport is a huge sprawling complex six stories high. The three top levels are used as a parking garage.

Walter let me out at the entrance of the ground level where I was to wait while he parked the car. Our timing was about right. Our guest was due in at 7:55 p.m. and we were there at 7:30.

He had to go to the top level to find a parking space and from there he took an elevator to level one where the different airlines have service desks. He looked all around where he expected me to be while all the time I was waiting on the lower level amid the baggage claims and ground transportation areas.

We must have decided about the same time that we were on different wave lengths and began our search for each other. He took the escalator down one flight while I was going up on an elevator. We see-sawed back and forth, sometimes even using the stairways.

We both were checking the monitors spaced throughout the terminal and we saw that Elsie's flight would arrive at Gate C-39, only it had been delayed for 50 minutes in Atlanta.

There are gift shops and restaurants on the third level and I even went there to check in the coffee shops. I wondered if he had been attacked in the parking garage, or if maybe he'd decided to abandon me in this busy place.

I soon memorized the whole floor plan. There is an escalator that goes from the first to third floor with no stop on second. Where you ride it going down, you think you're going to a bottomless pit; and if you ride it going up, you get some idea of what it must be like to climb Mt. Everest.

Had we not known our friend would arrive by Gate C-39 at 8:45, we might be looking for each other yet; but we had both headed that way and met there just before she entered the terminal and said, "Boy, am I glad to see you two!" She wasn't any more glad than we were.

I won't attempt to describe Walter's efforts and anxieties but as we were leaving the airport I noticed two Delta agents smiling at us as if we were old friends. Walter waved and smiled back.

As we buckled our seat belts in the car and headed toward Palm Harbor we were both telling our visitor it was good her flight had been delayed. It took us longer to find each other than it did for her to travel from Atlanta.

Listening to Walter tell his story, I realized why the two agents were smiling. He had checked with them about the flight delay and said, "You're not going to believe this, but I've completely lost my wife." They had expressed concern.

After almost an hour in the terminal he passed their desk again and one of them called out, "Did you find your wife?"

"No, not yet."

One of them, a lady, seemed really distressed. "Here," she said as she reached for a microphone, "let's page her." But he refused the offer.

"Lady," he assured her, "you don't need to get excited about my wife. I've been married to her for forty years and I've spent at least half that time wondering where she was."

Floyd infant is Bicentennial Baby

Kentucky history records the first baby born to settlers on May 29, 1777, in Boonesborough, one of Kentucky's earliest settlements. The baby, Fanny Henderson, was the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Callaway Henderson, who were married Aug. 7, 1776, in Kentucky's first recorded marriage.

In 1992, Kentucky history will record 120 firsts of another sort — "Bicentennial Babies."

Bicentennial Babies are the first babies born for each Kentucky county this year — Kentucky's 200th birthday. In Floyd County, Hanna Nichole Mullins, has been designated a Bicentennial Baby by the Kentucky Bicentennial Commission and the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources. She is the daughter of Tammy and James Thurman Mullins Jr. of the Middle Creek Road. She was born on January 1 at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Her maternal grandparents are Judy Slone Skeens of Allen and Joe R

Skeens of the Middle Creek Road. (Joe is the author of a number of Floyd, Johnson and Lawrence County Court and cemetery records.)

Her great-grandparents are Jack and Maudie Slone Ford of Warsaw, Indiana. The infant is the eighth generation granddaughter of Revolutionary soldier Thomas C. Brown and his second wife, Mary (Brown) Brown.

Her paternal grandparents are Thurman Mullins Sr. and Linda Harris Mullins of Van Lear. Her great-grandparents are Frank and Carrie Mollet Mullins of East Point, and her great-great-grandmother is Josephine Mullins of Price. Elmer and Kathleen Wade Harris of West Van Lear are also her great-grandparents, and her great-great-grandmother is Lillia Harris of Paintsville.

The first of the firsts was Nathan Dean Grider, son of Janet and Daryl Grider of Jamestown. Nathan was born at one minute into the new year. The Bicentennial Baby born latest was Brett Alan Hord on January 24 to Teresa and Ricky Hord of Tollesboro.

Human Resources Secretary Leonard E. Heller says that his agency chose to recognize "Bicentennial Babies" to join in the spirit of the statewide birthday celebration.

"So much of our work in this agency involves children and families, we take great pride in helping to celebrate the births of children born in Kentucky's 200th birthday year," he said.

The first babies born for each Kentucky county, as determined by the date and time on the child's birth certificate filed with the Cabinet for Human Resources, were sent a letter of congratulations and a "Bicentennial Baby" certificate signed by Heller and Kentucky Bicentennial Commission Chairperson David Karem.

"In doing research for this year's celebration," Karem said, "the commission discovered that Sesquicentennial Babies had been designated in 1942 in celebration of the commonwealth's 150th birthday. Even though there are no records left on who these babies were, we wanted to continue the recognition for this year's 'first' babies.

"It's a fun project that will mean a lot to 120 families across Kentucky when they place the certificate in their child's scrapbook or proudly hang it on the wall as a memento of Kentucky's Bicentennial."

All information is taken from the child's birth certificate filed with the Cabinet for Human Resources.

ABOUT DAYTIME TV

I read in the paper the other day that the government was about to agree to pay more than a billion dollars to fund public broadcasting. However, there'll be some strings attached. As it stands now, Federal Communications Commission rules prohibit the showing of "indecent programming" on public or commercial television stations between the hours of 6 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The attached "strings" will come in the form of a bill by Senator Robert Byrd of West Virginia. His proposal would extend these hours from 8 p.m. until midnight... the so-called "prime time."

After having a couple of weeks off from work and getting the rare opportunity to watch some TV other than at night, I've decided that Byrd (regardless of his good intentions) is wasting his time. He really ought not worry so much about prime time. What he'd better do is hope that daytime TV never moves to night time TV. Now, I'm not saying that daytime TV is indecent, but it sure couldn't be rated G.

If poor ole Dan Quayle and his "poverty of values" speech got jumped on and stomped on all over the place for criticizing Murphy Brown's having a baby out of wedlock, he'd probably have been run out of the country if he'd commented on last week's daytime lineup.

For example, topics that Sally Jesse discussed included fears about breast implants and what happens when one's father has sex with one's friend. Not exactly stuff upon which to base one's moral values.

Geraldo didn't do much to provide a healthy image either as his guests talked about being sexually attracted to their in-laws and keeping secrets from the one you're married to.

Both Joan Rivers and Donahue

discussed the wholesome topic of "revenge"; Joan's after the break up of a "relationship" (whatever that's supposed to mean) and Phil's topic was about seeking revenge against a former spouse.

Since pre-schoolers make up a vast number of the daytime audience, they were treated to Maury Povich's discussion of the controversies of an exotic dance club, Oprah's discussion of excessive child-support payments, and Jenny Jones' female impersonators. By the time today's pre-schoolers get to school, they'll likely be able to teach even the teachers something.

Of course, the soaps are even worse than the talk shows. On "All My Children," Adam agreed to give Erica a divorce after she told him she could never love him; Craig left town after writing Dixie a note agreeing to give her a divorce; and, Opal was in shock when tests indicated that she was pregnant.

On "Another World," Ryan up and walked out on Vicky just because she up and confessed to sleeping with Grant, and on "As the World Turns," Ned told Emma that his mentally-ill daughter tried to do herself in by attempting to jump off the roof.

Now I know that we can only watch so many episodes of "Andy Griffith" and "Leave it to Beaver." I realize, too, that eventually the "Discovery Channel," is bound to run out of new types of lizards and World War II footage. But while I think it's nice that Congress would fund PBS, I also think that regardless of how many rules and regulations that the FCC puts into force, it's still going to have to be up to us to determine what's decent and what's not. The good news is, though, that every TV set I've ever seen had an off switch.

Kim's Korner

 Part I
SNEAK PEEK OF OZ

If you haven't heard, The Wizard of Oz will be opening June 19 at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre. And seeing as how the spouse and I have a munchkin in the show, I'm about to give you a sneak peek.

by Kim Frasure

Rehearsal began last Friday for Oz and I'm here to tell you, you won't want to miss it, all prejudice aside — yes, Ashleigh's in the show and so are several very, very talented little munchkins.

For example, Leslie and Wesley, the famous A.M.S. twins, are exceptional. Besides being excellent dancers, fantastic singers, these two have personalities that are truly adorable.

The mayor, otherwise known as William Lester, eighth grader at Allen Elementary, can belt out a song like you wouldn't believe. He's always smiling and can make the scrooge smile on his worst day.

Paul Jessen, the coroner, has a beautiful voice. These kids have been amazing with their talents, and there's even more than I've mentioned here.

Dorothy is being played by Misty Daniels. We all know Misty from the Kentucky Opry. What we may not know is that this is her tenth year with the theatre and her first in a lead role. Boy, does she do it well.

Glenda, the good and beautiful witch, is being played by Lauren Hudak, an Ohio native with a voice that can make your goose bumps have goose bumps. She's perfect for the role. Neela, the wicked witch of the west, is hilarious. Neela comes to us from Pensacola, Florida, and can play a mean wicked witch. This girl has a way with kids that's unreal.

If you've never been to a show, this is definitely one not to miss. You won't regret it.

Part II

Should Murphy Marry or Not?

If you're a Murphy Brown fan, you're well aware of the controversy her newborn baby boy has brought to the show.

Of course, we must give credit where credit is due, and in this case, Dan Quayle gets the credit for bringing Murphy's out-of-wedlock child to our nation's attention.

I'm impressed. "NOT!" I can't help but wonder if Murphy's writers had chosen to write the script to have Murphy abort the baby, what Quayle would've done then?

Her choice was to have a baby by a man she adored, who loved to travel. Heck, the man's in South America as we speak. Talk about your absentee fathers.

It's not setting a proper example for our youngsters seeing Murphy Brown produce a child while not married. Give me a break Dan. M.T.V.'s got a heck of a lot worse. For another example, Bart Simpson doesn't get any recommendations from me either.

His back-talking ill-mannered, rude, crude and socially unacceptable ways bother me much worse than Murphy's baby.

I think the common person would teach his or her children morals of right and wrong at home and hold more of an influence than a sitcom.

It's amazing the attention Quayle's received over being so upset with this show.

And it's scary that our vice president of the United States, hr 1 nothing more important than this to attack. Go figure!

At any rate, I read recently the writers of Murphy's show are planning to fly the father home to marry Murphy. And the rest of the story — they lived happily ever after.

Annie Allen Circle WMU holds monthly meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Annie Allen Circle WMU of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial), was held in Fellowship Hall of the church, Thursday evening, June 4, at 7 p.m.

Eva Collins, president, was in charge of the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Sarah Laven.

The president presented the Rev. Dan Heintzelman and his wife, Sylvia, who, for several years, have served as missionaries in this area.

Rev. Heintzelman reminisced about some of the many colorful experiences they have had during their work here. He said after coming here from their home state of Michigan they were at first dissatisfied, but that they later learned to love this area. He told of their visits to one-roomed schools during the time when religious programs were allowed there; of showing Gospel films; of playing a guitar (sometimes forming a duet with a teacher of a one-roomed school) and many other stories about schools they visited in Magoffin and Floyd counties.

Rev. Heintzelman said that for five years they served in the jail ministry, and distributed Bibles to prisoners as needed. He also told of their work in Sunday School, and the program on WDOC radio, here. He listed as two of the reasons for the decline in moral values among young people of our nation as: Removal of the Bible, (the Number 1 Book) from the schools, and the failure of parental backing in disciplinary matters connected with the schools.

Following Rev. Heintzelman's discussion, a variety of refreshments, including sandwiches, potato chips, relishes, pie, lemonade and coffee were served buffet-style. Favorites were miniature baskets containing nuts and mints. The blessing was said by Chester Patton. Enjoying the refreshments were: the Rev. and Mrs. Dan Heintzelman, Lucy C. Regan, Faye and Chester Patton, Ada Meade, Maman Leslie, Myrtle Allen, Sarah Laven, Eva Collins, Ruby Lamping, Rebecca Rasnack, Roberta Sloan, and the hostess.

The president then conducted the business session, with the minutes being read, and a report that $10 had been collected by Myrtle Allen, given by Rebecca Rasnack.

Mrs. Collins reported that the nominating committee, consisting of Annabelle Maggard, Patsy Evans, and Ruby Lamping, has announced that the officers for 1991-92 would continue in their same capacities for the forthcoming year. These officers are Eva Collins, president; Julia Curtis, vice president; Docia Woods, secretary, and Rebecca Rasnack and Myrtle Allen, co-treasurers. Committee chairmen are to be announced at a later date.

Faye Patton presented the program, which was a continuation of "Through the Windows of My Home." Mrs. Patton asked for special prayer for Baptist missionaries Jamie and Bob Garrett and their family. Maman Leslie read the list of Baptist missionaries observing birthdays during the month of June, and led in prayer for them.

The next meeting will be a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins Sr., with the date to be announced.

Baptist Lamplighters hold regular meeting

The Lamplighters of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) held their semi-monthly meeting on Tuesday, June 2, at 4 p.m., in Fellowship Hall of the church. Rev. Mike Taylor, pastor there, opened the meeting with prayer.

Following the prayer, the group went to the home of Mrs. Goldie Dobson, at Highland Terrace, a member of this church, who was injured a few months ago in a fall.

They were well received by Mrs. Dobson, who told stories of her girlhood days, and of experiences during her recent hospitalization and her stay in a nursing home.

After prayer, the group returned to their homes here, with pleasant memories of a fellow-church member, who, until her recent illness, was a faithful attendant of this church.

Those enjoying this meeting at Mrs. Dobson's home were Rev. Mike Taylor, Thomas Foy, Lucy C. Regan, Annabelle Maggard, Ada Meade, Vivian Fraley, Myrtle Allen, and Maman Leslie.

The next Lamplighters' meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, June 16, at 4 p.m., and a cordial welcome is extended to attend.

Homemade pies—they keep getting better!

Even in our busy work-a-day world, Americans still love a good pie. That's one reason why pie shops have become so popular.

There's really nothing better than a flaky crust homemade pie with your favorite filling to set off that special meal. And, thanks to modern conveniences, homemade pies from scratch really aren't that difficult or time-consuming to make.

Here are some interesting facts about pies dating back to the "good olde days" perhaps you didn't know:

Ever wonder why a pie is "round"? The shape, it turns out, dates back to early American colonial homemakers who made pies shallow and round trying to s-t-r-e-t-c-h dry ingredients—thus "cutting corners."

And, then there's this in an 1883 cookbook:

"In England, the term pie is applied almost exclusively to savory or meat pies." (What we now know as pies were then and still are called tarts.)

When it came to making pastry, the same book offered the following guidelines about ingredients:

"Flour should be best quality, perfectly dry and sifted. If flour is damp, the paste made from it will be heavy.

"Butter, unless fresh is used, should be washed from the salt, well squeezed and wrung in a cloth to get out all the water and buttermilk. If left in, will help in making paste heavy. (Obviously, this applies to living on a farm!)

"Lard should be perfectly sweet. This may be generally ascertained by its appearance and flavor.

"Berry pies are generally so juicy that they do not cut well. To overcome this difficulty, the beaten white of an egg may be added to thicken the juice. But, a better way is to add a small quantity of rolled crackers or cracker crumbs."

With the trend toward lighter and more wholesome foods, baking guidelines today are much different and easier to follow.

Pie baking tip: To protect a baked crust from getting too brown when heating a filling in it, put the pie—still in its pan—into a second pan. This will keep the crust from receiving too much heat.

Here is an easy-to-make homemade pie recipe created by home economists at Oster, makers of the useful all-in-one appliance, the Kitchen Center.

Easy 1-2-3 Banana Cream Pie

- 2-bananas
- 1 3/4-cup cold milk
- 1-3 1/2 ounce package instant vanilla pudding & pie filling mix
- Whipped cream

1. Make and bake 1 Pastry Shell (see below)

2. While shell is still warm, slice 2 bananas and place onto bottom of pastry shell. Reserve 4-6 slices for garnish.

3. Place 1 3/4 cups cold milk and contents of a 3 1/2 oz. package Instant Vanilla Pudding and Pie filling mix into Osterizer blender container. Cover and process for 30 seconds at Med-High speed. Let rest 1-2 minutes. Pour over bananas and refrigerate at least 30 minutes before serving.

Garnish with whipped cream and remaining bananas. Yield: 8 servings.

Easy 1-2-3 Pastry Shell

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/3 cup butter, frozen, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons ice cold water

1. Place flour, butter and salt in OsterFood Processor Accessory bowl with metal blade and cover unit. With hand on cover, process 5 Fast Pulses or until butter is the size of peas.

2. With motor running, pour water through center feed all at once. Turn unit off as soon as dough begins to gather together and before it forms a ball. Remove from processor bowl and gather into a ball.

3. Roll out and bake at 475° F for 8-10 minutes. Yield: 1 8- or 9-inch shell.

PLANTATION PECAN PIE

- 1/4 cup butter, not margarine
- 1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon evaporated milk or whipping cream
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 large eggs, room temperature
- 2 tablespoons vanilla extract
- 1 1/2 cups broken pecans
- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pie shell

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, then add syrup and evaporated milk. In another bowl add salt to eggs and beat until light. Stir well into first mixture; add vanilla and pecans. Use 1 cup nuts for halves or 1 1/2 cups if broken into like the pieces. Pour mixture into a 9-inch unbaked pie shell. Bake pie in a preheated 400° oven for 10 minutes. Lower heat to 350° and bake for 35 to 40 minutes longer or until a silver knife inserted in filling comes out clean. Yield: 1 (9-inch) pie—6 to 8 servings.

AUNT CELIA'S CHESS PIE

- Cream: 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/4 pound butter.

Then add:
3 whole eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon corn meal
Pinch of salt

Mix well; Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake in moderate oven until firm.

GRANNY'S OL' FASHIONED CREAM PIE

- 1 pint heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 egg whites, slightly beat
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 baked pie crust
- whip cream

Heat cream in top of double boiler. Mix sugar, flour, and salt. Pour hot cream over mixture, stirring well. Return to double boiler, cook til it thickens, stir constantly. Remove from heat, add whites, pour into pie crust. Bake at about 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Chill. Cover with whipped cream.

SOUR CREAM RAISIN PIE

Unusual!

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 large egg, room temperature
- 1 cup halved seedless raisins
- 1 cup commercial sour cream
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash of ground cloves
- 1 (9-inch) unbaked pie shell, chilled

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl and blend well; do not beat egg separately. Pour mixture into chilled pie shell. Bake in a preheated 400° oven or 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350° and cook for 30 minutes more. Serve hot or cold. I prefer it hot. Yield: 1 (9-inch) pie—6 to 8 servings.

JEFF DAVIS PIE

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg yolks
- 2/3 cup soda cracker crumbs
- 3/4 cup sour cream
- 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Cream butter. Combine sugar and flour; add to butter and cream until fluffy, add vanilla. Add egg yolks, beating well after each one. Fold in crumbs and cream. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in preheated oven at 425 degrees for ten minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. If desired, top with meringue.

ULYSSES' CHOCOLATE PIE

- 1 baked pie shell
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Mix well in double boiler:
- 5 tablespoons cocoa
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Then stir in 1 1/2 cups whole milk and put over boiling water, stirring often until thick (takes about 1/2 hour). It will be the right thickness when it begins to hold its shape and coats the spoon heavily. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, and stir until smooth. Add 2 tablespoons Bourbon and continue stirring occasionally until it reaches the thick stage again. Meanwhile beat 5 eggs whites with 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat until almost stiff enough to hold a peak. Add 10 tablespoons sugar gradually, and beat until stiff and glossy, but not dry. Pour chocolate mixture into baked pie shell. Then spread the meringue on top and bake in moderately slow (350 degrees) for approximately 15 minutes or until lightly brown on top.

CHOCOLATE GIRDL-BUSTER PIE

- 1 quart coffee ice cream
- 1 (9-inch) baked graham cracker crust
- 1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
- 2 (1-ounce) squares unsweetened chocolate
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/3 can chopped nuts (optional)

Allow ice cream to soften enough to pack in a chilled crust. Spoon ice cream into crust and refreeze until hard. In top of a double boiler over rapidly boiling water, heat condensed milk, chocolate, sugar, and water and stir until chocolate melts and mixture thickens. Add vanilla and allow to cool slightly. Spread on top of frozen ice cream and refreeze. Remove from freezer about 30 minutes before serving; cut into wedges. For a complete bust, sprinkle chopped nuts on top. Yield: 1 (9-inch) pie—6 to 8 servings.

FRENCH SILK CHOCOLATE PIE

- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 (1-ounce) square unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 2 large eggs, room temperature
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 (9-inch) pie shell, baked
- 1/2 pint whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Cream butter until very light and fluffy using a wooden spoon or electric mixer on medium speed. Add sugar gradually. Place chocolate in a metal cup that has been greased with vegetable oil. Place cup in a pan of very hot water to melt chocolate. Beat melted chocolate into creamed butter mixture. Add 1 egg and beat 3 minutes with electric mixer or 5 minutes by hand. Add remaining egg and repeat beating process. Add vanilla. Place bowl in refrigerator until mixture sets. Stir again and spoon into baked pie shell, chill for several hours or overnight. Whip cream sweetened with powdered sugar; add almond flavoring and serve on top of pie. Yield: 1 (9-inch) pie—7 to 8 servings.

Rogers seeks funding for local Veterans Clinic

U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers wants to expand a crowded Veterans Affairs Outreach Clinic in Eastern Kentucky where the demand for services is double what the VA expected.

Rogers has asked a House panel to provide an additional $585,000 Fiscal 1993 for the clinic at Prestonsburg. The money would be used to cover a shortfall in its operating budget, hire an additional physician and nurse, expand facilities and provide a full-service pharmacy.

"This facility was established to provide desperately needed general medical services to Eastern Kentucky's veterans, who, for years, were extremely underserved," said Rogers.

However, he said the clinic is severely overcrowded and understaffed today because the Veterans Administration underestimated both how much money it needed to operate the facility and the demand for services.

"The clinic...is projected to handle 10,500 visits by the end of this fiscal year—double the number of anticipated visits," Rogers said.

In a letter to the chairman of the House subcommittee that funds the Department of Veterans Affairs, Rogers asked for a $240,000 increase in the appropriation for the clinic in fiscal 1993 to cover a shortfall in the cost of operating the facility.

He also requested an additional $245,000 to hire another physician and nurse, expand the clinic waiting area and add two examination rooms and sought a $100,000 appropriation to provide a full-time pharmacist in the clinic's dispensary.

"This amount will make dramatic and important improvements in the clinic's ability to address already existing need," Rogers said.

He noted that the $585,000 request is substantial, particularly in a tight budget year, but said he would fight the uphill battle for funding because of the clinic's importance to Eastern Kentucky.

First Annual Woodcarvers/Whittlers' Day

Quaint historic Washington, Kentucky will welcome woodcarvers and whittlers to its first annual Woodcarvers/Whittlers' Day, Sunday, June 14, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Exhibitors are invited to display, demonstrate and sell their hand carved creations.

Peoples choice ribbon awards will be given for first, second, and third place for the best of show, best display and best duck or bird. In celebration of Kentucky's Bicentennial, there will be a special class - "Frontier Days". First place, only, will be awarded in this class.

There will be a head carving contest, at 1:30 p.m. Anyone wishing to enter may do so by bringing their own carving tool and completing their carving in one half hour. Wood will be provided for this event.

The village of Washington, four miles south of the Ohio River on Rt. 68, began with the first visit of Simon Kenton to the area in 1775. Since that time, Washington has been the home of many famous people including Daniel Boone, Albert Sidney Johnston, George Rogers Clark and Governor John Chambers. The town was visited by Harriett Beecher Stowe who witnessed a slave auction on the Court House lawn. The scene so distressed her that she was inspired to write "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

While in Washington for the Woodcarvers/Whittlers' Day Historic Washington Shopkeepers Association invites you to visit the many shops filled with antiques, collectibles, crafts, framed items, and herbs. Visitor Center tour guides will be conducting tours of the six museums.

For more information and/or exhibitor registration call Carol Georges, 606 564-3559 or 606 759-7074.

NEWSPAPERS RECYCLED AS A SOIL "BED" FOR CROPS

by Don Comis

As recycling gains momentum in urban areas, many communities are still pondering what to do with the growing stacks of old newspapers.

Give them to a farmer or gardener, says U.S. Department of Agriculture soil scientist James H. Edwards.

Edwards, with USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Auburn, Alabama, is growing cotton, corn and soybeans on a bed of shredded Opelika-Auburn News and chicken litter mixed with soil. His mixture fills a trench 4 feet deep and 6 inches wide.

"You have an ideal environment for root growth," he said, adding that the adjoining soil is like sandstone. "A fingernail can't penetrate it."

When cotton plants are grown in the mix, roots reach 4 feet deep instead of the usual 6 inches in the Southeast. The roots aren't stopped by a compacted soil layer called "hardpan" that is common to that region, he said. "There's no reason the mix couldn't be used anywhere in the country."

His mix has 40 percent shredded newspaper, 50 percent soil and 10 percent to 15 percent chicken litter. He said the chicken litter decomposes the paper rapidly, probably due to microbes and ammonia available from the litter.

Edwards said newspapers can include "regular newspaper and some grades of paper—like color ad inserts—that can't otherwise be recycled."

While he used a 4-foot deep trench, "2 feet might be best for commercial use," he said. He is also testing the mix on the surface and only 6 inches deep—applications that would be suited to home gardeners.

Edwards' research at the ARS soil dynamics laboratory is starting to attract municipalities and industry. He said the city of Prattville, Alabama, is "shipping grass clippings, leaves, shredded tree limbs and stumps here to test the technique as an alternative to landfills." He also is receiving plant material from cotton gins.

"It's a mistake to call these things 'waste'. They loosen soil, add organic matter, provide nutrients and beneficially affect soil pH," he said.

"We'd like to be able to maintain the soil at 2 to 4 percent organic matter," Edwards said. "In two more years, we'll know how well different mixtures work."

One change he will make is to lower the amount of chicken litter to

5 or 6 percent, he said. "We want to find the percentage needed to turn the newspaper cellulose into soil-softening humus without having excess nitrates that can harm groundwater."

Senior Service Line

By Matilda Charles

A SPECIAL CONTRACT: Several people have written to comment on two letters I reported on some months back. One concerned a woman whose son, an adult, was moving back into the family home because his company went through some drastic downsizing, leaving him with no job and no savings. The other letter was from a couple whose daughter had moved back in with her youngster following the breakup of her marriage. In each instance, the returnees were creating problems. For example, they expected their parents to pick up where they'd left off when the younger folks moved out. In other words, to feed them, clean up after them, do their laundry, etc. In the daughter's case, she also continues to resist getting day care for her daughter while she works, leaving grandma and grandpa with the task of caring for a young girl at the expense of their own, well-earned life in their golden years.

through them and come up with one that I'll offer for your further comments.

Send me your thoughts c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

STAMPOF APPROVAL? About two years ago, I suggested that there be a special postage rate for seniors so they can use the increasingly expensive mails more often than just for sending out their bill payments. Your response was overwhelmingly positive. Now it seems the new Postmaster is considering doing just that. I certainly hope he comes through, and when he does, please drop him a note and tell him we had discussed the idea here a couple of years ago. So, what took Washington so long?

WEIGHT CONTROL: Many people are baffled by the fact that as they grow older, they put on fat even if they keep their food intake at the same, or sometimes lower levels. What happens is that as we age, there's a gradual reduction of muscle mass which can lower the basal metabolic rate, causing a change in the way the body burns calories. To deal with this problem, people should check with their doctors to see, first, how many fewer calories they need, and, most important, to learn what kind of exercises they can do to help maintain muscle mass so they can keep their metabolic rate high and their weight down.

The response to these two situations has been overwhelming in favor of the parents, as you might expect. Basically, the younger folks are told to shape up, or ship out.

One couple said it's a shame no one thinks of drawing up an agreement, or contract, so that everyone knows what is expected of one another in the new circumstances.

Perhaps you'd like to send in some suggestions on what this type of contract could contain. I'll sort

Waste In The Workplace: Ways To Manage It Properly

In a growing number of states, cities, and towns, running a business means becoming more responsible for the trash you generate and complying with laws meant to reduce it—and it's likely that many more communities will require businesses to cut down on waste in the future.

Garbage created by businesses—from the local hardware store to a favorite restaurant—makes up 30 to 70% of a typical community's waste.

It is receiving more and more attention for several reasons. In some areas, landfills are filling up with trash faster than new sanitary sites can be opened. Many people are already taking steps to reduce waste at home, and small businesses are being asked to do their part.

Many things businesses use and throw away, like high-quality paper and cardboard boxes, are recyclable. And they can save money when waste is reduced because there's less to be collected.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc., has these trash-reduction tips for small businesses from its new guide, Waste in the Workplace:

• Donate magazines from reception areas and workers to senior centers or libraries.

• Show everyone how to use the copier and other equipment so that they won't make mistakes and waste paper.

• Don't over-order supplies with a limited shelf life. They may expire before you can use them.

Workers in offices, stores, and restaurants generate large volumes of trash every day.

• Recycle paper, cardboard, and other items whenever possible. Two or more businesses may be able to pool recyclables for pickup by a private recycler.

• Use paper and cardboard boxes for your own mailings if they cannot be recycled in your area.

Waste in the Workplace is the only guide of its kind available to small businesses, schools, hospitals, and government buildings.

It provides a step-by-step process any business or institution can use to get the facts about their trash, its contents, how to generate less waste, and how to save money on waste disposal.

Copies of Waste in the Workplace are available by sending $4.50 plus $2.50 postage and handling to Keep America Beautiful, Inc., 9 W. Broad Street, Stamford, CT 06902.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc. is a national, nonprofit, public education organization dedicated to improving waste handling practices in American communities.

No-risk financial lessons offered for high schoolers

(NU) - Nearly 800,000 individuals filed for bankruptcy last year, according to the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts. About 1 million are expected annually by 1993.

The increase in personal bankruptcies, consumer debt and default rates in this country may be attributed in part to a high level of financial illiteracy among American adults, experts say.

A recent survey by The Gallup Organization for Visa U.S.A. found that nearly half of all American families do not set a monthly budget. In addition, a growing number of adults lack basic financial management skills such as setting financial goals, balancing a checkbook and managing credit, the survey showed.

A new education program for high school students, introduced by Visa U.S.A., aims to provide financial know-how before any serious mistakes can be made.

Called "Choices & Decisions: Taking Charge of Your Life," the supplemental program—with both computer and print curriculum—covers real-life topics such as making financial decisions and creating a budget. The program will be made available free to high schools nationwide in the fall by Visa's member financial institutions.

Choices & Decisions was developed for Visa U.S.A. by Lucasfilm Learning, a division of LucasArts Entertainment Co., in cooperation with education experts, the National Consumers League, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs and Visa's member financial institutions. It was designed for students from a wide range of socioeconomic and ethnic backgrounds.

SMART MONEY

of the area and was no longer interested in our property.

Now we are stuck with two mortgages. And you can appreciate how difficult that can be. The buyer did nothing more than shrug his shoulders and say he would give up his $500 deposit.

Is there anything more we can do? —W.E., Chapel Hill, N.C.

DEAR W.E.: There certainly is something you can do. Not only can you go after his deposit (and by the way, $500 seems like a very tiny deposit to bind a deal), but the real estate agent can go after him for the lost commission.

You, I think, may have an action against him. By all means, consult your attorney. If the buyer met all of the contingencies and just decided not to buy arbitrarily—and while some might say being transferred is not an arbitrary reason—I think your attorney will disagree with that point of view.

Once again, this is why I so regularly point out that there is a large difference between selling a house and getting into a contract. It's not sold until the day of closing when money changes hands.

And while it may seem overly cautious, I constantly advise never to close on your new home until after the closing on the first house has been completed in a contingency situation.

Sometimes this inconveniences others, but you have to look out for No. 1—you. As a practical matter in today's market, the buyer is boss, not the seller.

Advanced Home Care wins award

Advanced Home Care, Inc. serving the Tri-Cities area, was recently named Home Medical Equipment Supplier of the Year by the National Association of Medical Equipment Suppliers. David Davis, president of Advanced Home Care received the award May 18 at the organization's annual conference in Las Vegas.

DEAR BRUCE: I am a professional manager and my job was phased out due to a merger. I am in my early 40s and (I believe) very good at what I do.

But it's become painfully apparent, that in order for me to find adequate employment, I am going to have to leave this part of the country. I am very happy here, as is my family, but the cost of living is very high.

Without an income (even though my wife is employed), I cannot continue to stay in this house.

I have sent out resumes and cover letters to various prospective employers around the country. I have decided there is a good shot for me about 2,000 miles from here. Should I go there and apply in person, introduce myself and become acquainted? Or should I continue to stay here and try to do it long distance?

There will be a considerable expense involved in my pursuing this job search in the fashion that I have described. On the other hand, the rewards will be very substantial if I bring it off.

I'm hesitant to approach my wife for two reasons: She is not enthusiastic about my being away from home for extended periods of time; and, of course, we are being very careful with our resources.—Reader.

DEAR READER: While I appreciate your wife's desire to protect the resources, I am less sympathetic with her position of not allowing you to be away from home for extended periods of time.

Since you have narrowed your search to one portion of the country, there's no question in my mind that you will do far better by being there than trying to do it long distance. And while it does mean a separation for a time, everyone in the family benefits if you are successful.

Since you have determined that there is no employment where you are, the only intelligent thing to do is to look elsewhere.

But I think it would be the height of folly to move your family, or ask your wife give up her position (which provides at least some income), until such time as you have a solid commitment in another area of the country.

DEAR BRUCE: We had our house on the market for several months, and made a deposit on another house that was contingent upon our selling our home.

The real estate agent brought in a buyer who agreed to buy at a reduced price. The buyer had 45 days to come up with the mortgage, and in under 20 days, the real estate agent arranged for financing, and they were approved.

At that time, we notified the real estate agent that was handling the other home and arranged for a closing. We had enough cash of our own to have the closing, which was seven days before the scheduled closing on our first house.

Two days before settlement, the buyer (through his attorney) called and said he was being transferred out

KENTUCKY JOB SERVICE TIP OF THE WEEK

The TIP is APPEARANCE. Make a presentable appearance. Be clean, neat and dress as well as you can afford. Don't overdress.

Big Yank expanding Morehead operation

Big Yank Corporation, which currently provides 1,000 jobs at 5 Kentucky locations, will expand production and hire 50-60 people at its plant in Morehead. Governor Brereton Jones and Lieutenant Governor/Secretary of Economic Development Paul E. Patton were in Morehead for today's announcement and to visit the Big Yank plant.

Jones, noting that today's announcement runs counter to recent national trends within the apparel industry, said the expansion reflects a positive message about Big Yank's production and marketing strategies and for Kentucky's apparel industry. He said Big Yank is a "key player" in Kentucky's apparel and textile products industry, an industry that provides more than 28,000 jobs for Kentuckians.

Judy Thompson, plant manager, said Big Yank recently signed an agreement with the Gap Corporation to produce jeans for the large retailer. Thompson said the Morehead plant will be Big Yank's only plant supplying the Gap agreement.

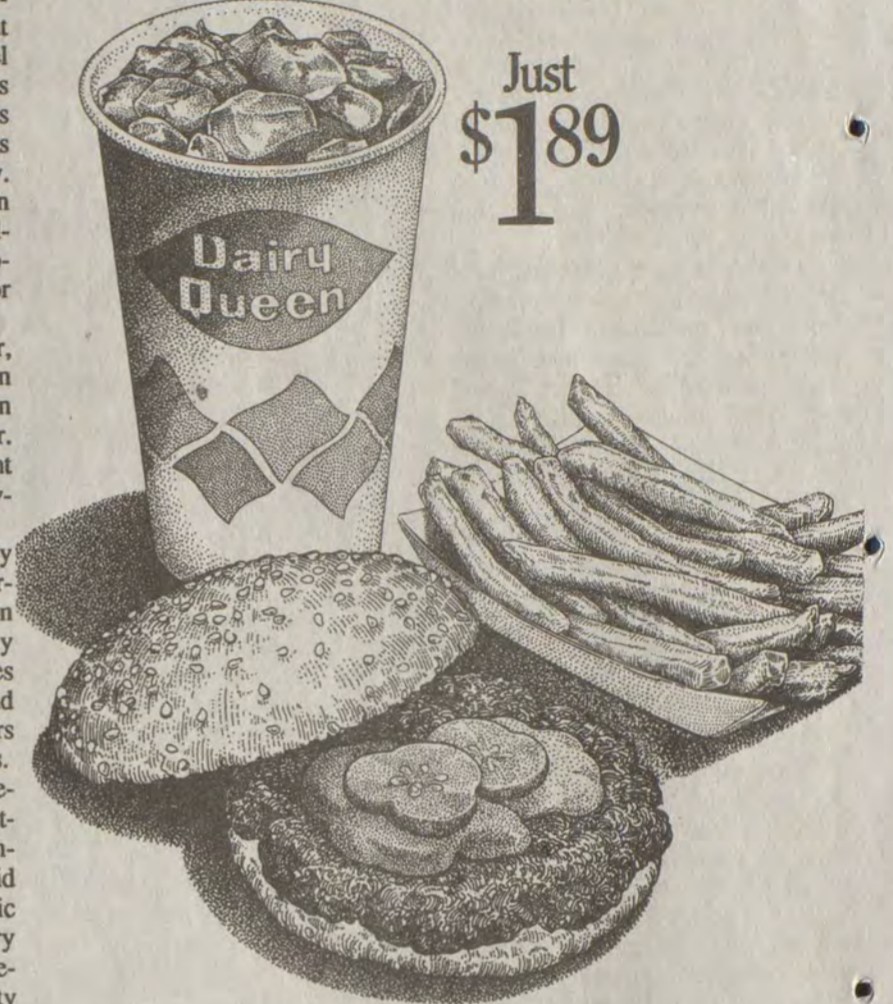

Some new workers have already been hired, Thompson said, and persons interested in making application should contact the local Kentucky Department of Employment Services office in Morehead. Thompson said the hiring of the 50 to 60 new workers will occur over the next 10 months.

Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Economic Development Patton said no state assistance is involved in the expansion. Patton said that all of the Cabinet for Economic Development's existing industry programs are available to complement efforts of the local community should the company decide to seek assistance.

Besides Morehead, Big Yank also operates plants in Lancaster, Middlesboro, Mount Sterling and Olive Hill. Formed in 1989, Big Yank owns the former Cowden Manufacturing, which has operated apparel manufacturing facilities in Kentucky since 1945.

From 1990 to 2005, employment in retail trade will increase by 5.1 million, about 22% of total job growth, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.

ment; and infectious diseases of the eye.

Dr. Hazelett stated that the singular most important thing a person should do when experiencing an eye problem is to get medical attention as soon as possible. She added, "Unfortunately most people tend to wait until eye disease is far advanced (intolerable) before seeking treatment.

With the high incidence of diabetes in eastern Kentucky, associated eye problems such as diabetic retinopathy are more prevalent. Diabetic retinopathy, a complication of diabetes is the leading cause of new blindness among adults in the United States. It is caused by changes in the blood vessels of the retina, which when damaged may leak fluid or blood causing loss of vision, and scar tissue. The disease is also likely to occur at a younger age in juvenile diabetics, who have been diagnosed with the condition during their childhood or teenage years.

Macular degeneration, also prevalent in our area, is a major cause of central vision loss, according to Dr. Hazelett. In its most common form of occurrence, involitional macular degeneration is caused by a break down or thinning of the tissues in the macula. The macula is the point of the retina upon which light rays meet as they are focused by the cornea and the lens of the eye. When damaged, the central part of images appear blurred although images around the blurred area may be clearly visible. Macular degeneration most often occurs in older people and is the leading cause of impairment of reading and fine "close-up" vision in the United States.

Dr. Hazelett, a native of Pikeville, returned to eastern Kentucky to practice medicine because she wanted to be near her family. She is married to otolaryngologist, Dr. Greg Hazelett.

Dr. Hazelett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burlin Coleman of Pikeville.

Highlands Regional Medical Center announces the addition of Kay C. Hazelett, M.D., Board Certified Ophthalmologist to its medical staff.

Dr. Hazelett attended the University of Kentucky Medical School and completed her internship at the Texas Technical Health Science Center in Lubbock, Texas. She performed her residency in ophthalmology at the University of Louisville and a fellowship in neuro-ophthalmology at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit Michigan.

As a Board Certified Ophthalmologist, Dr. Hazelett specializes in cataract surgery and implants; glaucoma treatment and surgery; laser surgery for diabetes; crossed eye treatment and surgery; lazy eye treat-
