State board removes Hager

Floyd superintendent first in Kentucky ousted under 1990 reform act

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Twelve days before his contract was scheduled to expire on June 30, Floyd County school superintendent Ronald Hager became the first Kentucky superintendent removed from office by the state board of education under the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act.

On Thursday in Frankfort, the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education unanimously adopted the findings of a three-member board hearing panel which found Hager "guilty" on three counts of willful neglect of duty and misconduct in office. The state board's decision could bring Hager's case back to Floyd County, where an appeal of the ruling falls into the jurisdiction of the Floyd Circuit Court.

Hager did not attend Thursday's state board meeting and a representative for the firm representing Hager told reporters no decision had been made concerning an appeal.

"We will talk to Mr. Hager about it and decide whether or not to go to court with an appeal," John Fogel said. Fogel is an associate of Robert Chenoweth who represented Hager during the removal hearing.

Hager has 30 days to file an appeal in Floyd Circuit Court. If no challenge is filed in that time period, the state board's decision will be final.

The three-member panel of state board members who presided over the removal hearing, which began May 11, presented their recommendations to the full state board Thursday morning.

After lengthy deliberations, the state board found Hager guilty of submitting a false financial statement of the district's finances; failure to follow state bidding laws when obtaining the services of security companies; allowing an unauthorized bingo game to operate at Prestonsburg High School; failing to reprimand Martin Elementary principal Bill Hughes for filing false financial reports for the school; and failing to deposit school construction monies into interest bearing accounts at First Guaranty National Bank.

On the charge of filing false annual financial reports, the board ruled that Hager knowingly and willfully failed to include a $345,347 debt to the federal government stemming from the 1984 flood for fiscal years 1989 and 1990.

"Ronald L. Hager's claim that he signed (the financial reports) as secretary to the board and not as superintendent is a distinction without a difference," the state board ruled. "The evidence is clear...that superintendent Ronald L. Hager knew of the existence of the obligation..."

Concerning the issue of security contracts, the board found that "these contracts were essentially 'night watchman' services" and did not fall into the professional services category as Hager claimed.

"The conservative good business practice approach would have been to bid the services," the board ruled.

Count three of the charges pertained to bingo games at Prestonsburg High School, the deficit at Martin Elementary and failure to place school construction monies in interest bearing accounts.

The state board ruled:

- that Hager's claim that he was not aware of the bingo game at the high school was not sufficient and that he should have monitored the situation and called for a full accounting of the funds generated;

- that Hager failed to timely address the false financial statement of finances at Martin Elementary and that he failed to require the principal to submit monthly accounting reports; and

- that Hager failed to follow up on the problem that construction monies had not been placed in interest bearing accounts after bringing the matter to the attention of the bank president in June 1990.

The state board found that Hager willfully neglected his duty and "such a pattern of willful neglect of duty is good and sufficient cause for his removal from the office of Superintendent of the Floyd County School District."

Injury award to firefighter puts city into another fight

by Geoff Belcher

The Prestonsburg City Council met in a special executive session on Wednesday to discuss the resolution of a legal battle that has embroiled the city for over seven years.

The suit involves the 1985 injury suffered by then-volunteer fireman

Ricky LeMaster in which LeMaster lost virtually complete use of his right hand.

LeMaster was working at the city's charity Halloween haunted house and was attempting to refuel a flashpot, which produces sparks and other special effects, when the flashpot

Fire in downtown Prestonsburg

The Prestonsburg Fire Department battled a fire at the Oddfellow's Club-owned C & R Office Supply building on 1st Avenue in downtown Prestonsburg for over four hours Tuesday evening. The fire began on the 2nd floor of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center offices. Preliminary investigations reveal that the fire was caused by a lit cigarette being thrown in a wastepaper basket. Conflicting opinions blur future of new golf course

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Officials at Kentucky's Parks Department seem optimistic that the proposed development of an 18-hole golf course at Jenny Wiley State Park will proceed apace, despite a Floyd County mine owner's claim to mineral rights underneath the property and his intent to surface mine land adjacent to the project site.

David May, owner and president of DFM Mining, however, feels that any development of the golf course project is years away.

"When we first began leasing (the property and mineral rights)," May said on Thursday, "we made up a map showing all the things that could be done on the site after we were through. One of those things was the golf course project. We had an engineer draw up a map of the golf course and presented it to state officials, hoping it might help us get our permit through a little faster.... They saw the map and then started to build the golf course with no land to build it on....

Any work that could be done on the golf course is four or five years down the road."

That time frame estimate conflicts with State Representative Greg Stumbo's expectations, however. Stumbo said Wednesday that the project was moving forward with great speed, and that timing was critical in order for the Parks Department to appropriate the estimated $6.5 million needed for the project from the $100 million bond proposal which Governor Brereton Jones authorized for the 1992-93 fiscal year.

"Governor Jones did not specify what that $100 million was to be used for," Stumbo said, "but he expressed great interest in the Jenny Wiley golf course project. If we don't get it off the ground soon, we will be unable to get the necessary funds. It's now or never."

"I understand Greg's point of view," May said. "He's just trying to get the money for the project.... But they've estimated that twenty acres are needed for the project, and right now there are no more than five acres of flat land cleared away. They're talking about putting greens up on the side of a mountain."

Mark Lovely, commissioner of the Parks Department said on Wednesday that the main problems lay in the need for clarifications in May's mining permit application.

"Until those clarifications can be made—and they are in the process of being made—no other determinations can take place.... However, we're very hopeful that all disputes will be resolved soon. The project is very impressive."

Humzey Yessin, director of golf for the Parks Department concurred.

"We really feel like the project will get off the ground soon," Yessin said. "They just have to straighten things out with the permit people... find out how much recoverable coal is in there and find out if its worth stripping... but they tell me there's not much left there worth mining."

"The golf course will be the biggest boost to the economy over there that the mountains have seen in years," he added.

State goes west to check out Zitterkopf

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Deputy Education Commissioner Dr. Dave Thomas will go to Nebraska over the weekend to further review the background of the Floyd County Board of Education's choice for superintendent of schools.

The board voted unanimously Tuesday to begin contract negotiations with William D. Zitterkopf of Scottsbluff, Nebraska, who emerged as the finalist for superintendent of schools. Zitterkopf is currently employed as superintendent of the Minatare Public School District in Nebraska.

Education department spokesman Jim Parks, said Wednesday that Thomas will arrive in Nebraska Friday to interview personnel in the school system and community concerning Zitterkopf.

Thomas' journey to Nebraska is on behalf of Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen who has an informal agreement with school board chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell to approve the board's candidate. Boysen will determine if Zitterkopf is qualified for the position of superintendent.

"Dr. Thomas should be finished with his review by Saturday and we could have a decision as early as Tuesday," Parks said Wednesday. "Dr. Thomas will meet with members of the community and people who have worked with Zitterkopf."

The announcement of an agreement between Campbell and Boysen to ratify the board's choice came after in April after Boysen announced an indepth joint investigation the state and the Office of Education Accountability into the Floyd County School System.

A 39-member team of investigators arrived in the county May 22 and set up camp for a week to review the fiscal and instructional management of the system, personnel and school construction projects.

A report on the state's investigation is expected to be released early next month.

Gas leak does what state does not... closes landfill

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The state fire marshal's office has given officials at the Floyd County Landfill the approval to resume operations after the discovery of a natural gas leak at the site.

David Cooley, director of the Floyd County Solid Waste Department said on Thursday that Fire Marshal Robert Lewis ordered the landfill shut down at approximately 4 p.m. Wednesday following Division of Solid Waste Management inspector Ed Harris' discovery of the leak.

Although the exact source of the leak has not yet been determined, Dale Mancuso, spokesman for the fire marshal's office, said Thursday that it was believed that the leak issued from a deteriorated casing on an active natural gas well near the site that is owned by Ashland Oil, Incorporated.

Two representatives from Ashland Oil inspected the well Thursday, under the supervision of Robert Deskins of the Martin Department of Mines and Minerals Oil and Gas Division, Linden Fields of the state Office of Occupational Safety and Health and officials from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Floyd County Solid Waste trucks continued garbage pick-up Thursday, but diverted loads to landfills in Magoffin and Perry counties.

The landfill's access road will reopen today, Friday, only to authorized personnel. Public usage is strictly prohibited. Cooley said that another site would be designated for private citizens to dump their trash.

Cooley also said that further study would be made to properly ventilate the area, and that provisions would be made in the site's closure plan to allow for ventilation and capping of the well.

Cooley added that the leak should have no bearing on Floyd County's agreement with the state Department of Natural Resources to keep the landfill open past the June 30 deadline for bringing it up to the new, stricter standards imposed by a 1990 law.

Prestonsburg City Attorney Larry Brown said that the case has been drawn out over so many years because, following the accident, a federal judge ruled that LeMaster must seek compensation from Worker's Compensation.

Eventually, Brown said, through the appeals process, it was determined that the city was liable for LeMaster's injuries, and LeMaster was awarded nearly $150,000.

Brown said that the city is now involved in a civil suit with the Hatton-Allen Insurance Agency. Brown said that at the time of the accident, city officials were under the false impression that the city was insured through Hatton-Allen due to an oral agreement.

The city council voted Wednesday to empower Brown to negotiate a settlement with the Hatton-Allen agency.

Court of Appeals rules :

No mining without owner's consent

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County couple won a major battle last week against a coal company last week when the state Court of Appeals ruled that their property could not be stripped of coal without their permission.

Marion and Patty Taylor, who live near Printer, filed a lawsuit against George Barnett, who sold the Taylors 225 acres of land in 1971. Barnett leased the surface rights to that land a few months before he sold it to the Taylors. The mineral rights to the property were severed from the surface by a 1903 deed.

The Court of Appeals ruled that under the 1988 broad-form deed amendment to Kentucky's Constitution, the Taylor's had the right to prohibit strip mining of their land. Coal Mac Inc., Triple Elkhorn Mining and CSX Minerals own the mineral rights on Taylor's property.

"This wasn't about money, I didn't want my land destroyed," Taylor said Thursday. "The entire ridge line is gone. If it was up to me, they'd be up there with cement putting my rocks back. It's been a nightmare."

Taylor said Coal Mac strip mined 38 acres of his property while his lawsuit made its way through the court system.

"I can't recoup my land, but finally somebody has said you were right and they were wrong," Taylor said. "I hope it's over and that this decision will help other people in similar situations. There is justice."

The ruling said that Barnett had no right to control the surface because of the 1903 deed. The court ruled that the Taylors "held title to the surface when the constitutional amendment was adopted and it could only benefit them."

Pike County firefighters finalize details for regional fire school

The Pike County Firefighters Association is in the process of finalizing details for the 1992 Regional fire school, scheduled for July 25 and 26.

During the May meeting of the association, members approved a new design for t-shirts, which shows firemen fighting a blaze that is personified as a dragon. The t-shirts will be given to anyone who pays the $7 registration charge and pre-registers for a class during the Pikeville Fire School.

Host motel for the school is the Landmark Inn, which has agreed to a set price per room no matter how many people lodge there.

Marlow Tackett and the Music Company Band, plus a bluegrass group, have agreed to entertain firefighters in town for the school at the Saturday night banquet.

Association President Randy Courtney says the school was well attended last year with more than 200 firefighters present during the two days, but he has hopes of even more attending this year to help keep the regional fire school in Pikeville permanently.

Twelve classes have been tentatively decided upon, including Junior Firefighter Training for those under age 18, Intermediate Rope Rescue, Pumps, Fire Cause and Origin, and EMT/EMT First Responder In-service. The EMT class is open also for those EMTs who work at coal mines or other occupations.

In other action: Courtney announced that the Safe Kids Coalition has sent in a contract to Washington so there will be a local chapter of the organization. The nationwide effort of Safe Kids is devoted to preventing death and disability in children due to accidents that could be prevented. The firefighters association and Phelps Kiwanis Club are co-sponsoring the local chapter.

The Feds Creek Department is still selling chances on a pickup truck. Only 2,000 chances will be sold at $10 each. The truck will be given away June 27th in Pikeville City Park during a gospel music show.

The training tower for Pike County is now ready for use by departments. Any station that wants to use the tower, located at the Pikeville Fire Department on Chloe Creek, should contact Bob or Randy Courtney at 437-5125.

Landfill

Cooley also stressed that Floyd County had received no special treatment in acquiring the agreed order, citing complaints from officials in other counties whose landfills are also threatened by the tougher law.

"Floyd County's extension applies only to the planning phase (of the improvements)," Cooley said. "As far as meeting the new standards, we have the same deadline."

Cooley also took offense to language in the agreed order that implied that Floyd County had no certified operator and manager of the landfill site.

"I've been a certified operator for ten years and a certified manager for five," Cooley said.

Floyd County is in the process of drilling the required groundwater wells and installing monitors, Cooley said, and he added that initial core sample studies of the landfill's clay liner were encouraging.

Text of state board findings in Hager's case

Editor's note: The following is the complete and unedited text of findings released Thursday by the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education in relation to the removal of Floyd County school superintendent Ronald Hager.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
KENTUCKY STATE BOARD
FOR ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION

IN RE:

Dr. Thomas C. Boysen Petitioner
Chief State School Officer
Kentucky Department of Education

V.

Ronald L. Hager Respondent
Superintendent
Floyd County Schools

Introduction

On Monday, May 11, 1992, a three-member panel of the Kentucky State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education met at the Department of Education, State Board Room, in Frankfort, Kentucky for the purpose of hearing evidence on the charges against the above-named Respondent which were preferred by Dr. Thomas C. Boysen, Chief State School Officer, Kentucky Department of Education.

The Petitioner was represented by the Honorable Stephen D. Wolnitzek, Attorney at Law, Covington, Kentucky. The Respondent was represented by the Honorable Robert L. Chenoweth, Attorney At Law, Frankfort, Kentucky.

The Kentucky State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education was represented by the Honorable Brent L. Caldwell, Deputy Attorney General, Office of Attorney General, Commonwealth of Kentucky, Frankfort, Kentucky. Members of said Board panel present during the entire hearing of this action were the following: Jane Joplin-Evans; Helen Mountjoy; and Wade Mountz.

The hearing on this matter convened on Monday, May 11, 1992 and concluded on May 13, 1992. Thereafter, the Board panel began deliberation on the pending charges and on Thursday, June 18, 1992, presented their recommendation to the full board.

After due deliberation and consideration of the charges pending against the Respondent, the State Board in open session voted unanimously to find the Respondent guilty of the following charges:
Ronald L. Hager:

- Count #1 Guilty
- Count #2 Guilty
- Count #3 Guilty

Findings of fact and order

Pursuant to KRS 156.132(6) the Board, if it votes to remove a board member, "...shall prepare written findings specifying which charge or charges it found to be the basis for removal."

After a review of the entire transcript of evidence and all exhibits and after the due deliberations of the charges in relation to the evidence, the Kentucky State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education makes the following Findings of Fact and Order:

Count #1

Count #1 of the charges against Superintendent Ronald L. Hager alleges that he did knowingly and willfully misrepresented the true financial condition of the Floyd County School District for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1989 and June 30, 1990 by filing and executing and causing to be filed fraudulent annual financial reports. The Board hereby finds that while the 1988-1989 financial report failed to note the existence of an obligation to the U.S. Government in the amount of $345,347.00 the evidence is insufficient to find that the alleged debt or obligation of $345,347.00 had been established by the government at the time the financial report was due. To the contrary, the evidence presented by the department establishes through Exhibit 6 attached to the charges that the first official notice of the existence of the obligation was by letter dated January 26, 1990 when Charles E. Hansen, Acting Director, Impact Aid Program, U.S. Department of Education sent a letter to Superintendent Ronald L. Hager requesting refund to the Federal Government in the amount of $345,347.00. The evidence is clear and the Board so finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager did have this demand letter and made minimal attempts to get the debt forgiven by the Federal Government. The evidence is clear that the debt was discussed by the team of state department representatives and local school officials on more than one occasion in the context of advising them of the existence of the obligation and of the demand for payment and seeking their assistance and counsel as to how to have the debt forgiven. As superintendent of the Floyd County School District, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager was responsible for the preparation of the financial report. Even though he was receiving assistance from the State Department of Education and their management assistance personnel, the Board finds from the evidence that at the time the annual financial report was prepared for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1990, the Department of Education personnel and their management assistant personnel were not present. The report was prepared under the direction of Superintendent Ronald L. Hager and was signed by Superintendent Ronald L. Hager as Secretary of the Floyd County Board of Education. Exhibit 2 is the Annual Financial Report for fiscal year 1990 and Superintendent Ronald L. Hager signed that report in his capacity as Secretary of the Floyd County Board of Education and certified that the information contained in that report was true and correct to the best of his knowledge. Superintendent Ronald L. Hager's claim that he signed Exhibit 2 as Secretary to the Board and not as Superintendent is a distinction without a difference. The report further indicated that Ronald L. Hager signed the report certifying that it contained all known obligations of the Board of Education. The evidence is clear and the Board so finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager knew of the existence of the obligation and failed to include the obligation as a debt in the annual financial report for the fiscal year ending June 20, 1990. As a result of the failure to include this obligation in the financial report of the Floyd County School District appeared to be in the "black" and not in a deficit situation which would have allowed the State Department of Education and State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education to intervene in the school district pursuant to KRS 160.550. The record also shows that the debt to the federal government of $345,347.00 was ultimately recommended to be paid by Superintendent Ronald L. Hager just prior to his suspension on or about April 10, 1992. The Board so finds that such conduct on the part of Superintendent Ronald L. Hager in presenting this fraudulent financial report constitutes misconduct in office in violation of KRS 156.132 (1)(2) and constitutes good and sufficient cause for his immediate removal from office as Superintendent of the Floyd County School District.

Count #2

Count #2 charges that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to follow the bid law set out in KRS 424.260 requiring bids through public advertisement for security services rendered to the Floyd County School District. Superintendent Ronald L. Hager argued that security service contracts entered into with five different companies constitutes professional services which do not have to be bid pursuant to KRS 424.260. Professional services are an exception to the requirement for advertising for public bids. The Board finds that the services rendered pursuant to these contracts were essentially "night watchman" services performed by deputy sheriffs and others who were making a wage just above the minimum wage at that time. The Board further finds that prior to July 13, 1990 each of the five security companies was paid an amount in excess of $7,500.00 per year in violation of the law which requires the amount paid over $7,500.00 to be bid and from July 13, 1990 until approximately September of 1991 amounts in excess of $10,000.00 were paid per year in violation of the bid law which required that amounts exceeding $10,000.00 be bid. The Board finds that the total amounts paid by the school board over the time period in question exceed $120,000.00 per year under all of the contracts. The Board is of the opinion, and so finds that "professional services" are services normally rendered by persons engaged in the traditional professions including, but not limited to services rendered by Doctors, Attorneys, Certified Public Accountants, Architects, and Engineers. The Board further finds that night watchman services do not fall into this category of "professional services" in the traditional and legal sense. Therefore, the Board finds that the security services which were provided to the Floyd County School District should have been bid that amount of money expended pursuant to these contract violates the bid law as set out in KRS 424.260. Notwithstanding this finding, if there was any question in Superintendent Ronald L. Hager's mind, the conservative good business practice approach would have been to bid the services. Superintendent Ronald L. Hager as the person who is charged with the responsibility of managing the school district failed to properly adhere to the requirements of the bid law and such failure on his part constitutes misconduct in office in violation of KRS 156.132 and constitutes good and sufficient cause for his removal from the office of Superintendent of the Floyd County School District.

Count #3 charges Superintendent Ronald L. Hager with failure to properly follow the mandate of KRS 160.370 and KRS 160.390 in that he alleged to have willfully neglected his duties by allowing the continuous operation of at least one unauthorized bingo game for four years at the Prestonsburg High School and failed to require an internal accounting of the funds derived from the bingo games pursuant to 702 KAR 3:130; it further alleges that he failed to insure the payment of interest on two construction accounts maintained by the school district for a period of time of approximately three years which resulted in the loss to the school district of a significant amount of interest over the time period in question. Count #3 also charges that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to timely address and correct the filing of a false year end financial report by a principal of one of the schools in his district wherein the principal is alleged to have misrepresented the financial condition of his school knowing that the school had a deficit of over $15,000.00

In relation to all the allegation concerning the unauthorized bingo game, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager testified that he was not aware of the bingo game at the Prestonsburg High School during the several years that it was in operation and did not require an internal accounting of the monies generated from such activity because he was unaware of the activity. The evidence is clear and the Board so finds that the bingo games were operated at least as early as 1987 until 1991 and that the bingo games generated significant sums of revenue (e.g., an $80,000 set of football bleachers, $60,000 academic athletic support, and a truck for use by the school principal), notwithstanding the legality of the bingo itself. Further, the Board finds that neither the organization or the Floyd County School District executed any written documents either consenting to the use of school facilities or leasing facilities to the organization conducting the bingo games, and thus the Board finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager did not comply with the policies of the local board. KRS 160.370 requires the Superintendent, as the chief executive agent of the local board of education to attend to the business affairs of the school district. The Board finds that the Superintendent, and other school employees who actually operated the bingo game, failed to account for the funds received and the Board is of the opinion, and so finds, that this bingo operation should have been a matter which the Superintendent monitored very closely. As a result the Board finds that the actions of Superintendent Ronald L. Hager in failing to properly supervise this matter constitutes willful neglect of duty on his part and is evidence of his failure to properly manage the business affairs of the local school district.

Paragraph B of Count #3 of the charges against Superintendent Ronald L. Hager again charges that he failed to properly attend to the business affairs of the school district as required by KRS 160.370 by failing to see that two construction accounts earned interest which would benefit the school district. Superintendent Ronald L. Hager testified that he first learned that no interest was being paid on these accounts from conversation on the street in June of 1990. Upon hearing this information he then checked with the bank president concerning the matter in June of 1990. The interest did not begin to accrue on the accounts until March of 1991 some nine months after Superintendent Ronald L. Hager brought this matter to the attention of the bank president. The Board finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to follow up on the interest problem during this period of time and the school district lost substantial interest income because of his failure to properly manage the school district in regard to the payment of interest. The Board further finds that no interest was paid on these accounts by virtue of the testimony of three witnesses, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager, Calvin Cranfield, CPA, and Kevin Stumbo, Vice President, First Guaranty National Bank of Martin. The Board further finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to properly manage the business affairs of the school district by failing to see that the local school district policy concerning the investments as set out in the Respondent's Exhibits #27 and #28 were followed in regard to the payment of interest on investments. The Board further finds that the failure to pay interest on the two construction accounts resulted in a significant loss of money to the school district.

Superintendent Ronald L. Hager argued that the duty to insure payment of interest on deposits was the duty of the Treasurer of the Board of Education and of the Board of Education itself pursuant to 160.560 and 160.570. Those statutes do place certain duties and responsibilities on the local board and the Treasurer of the local board. However, pursuant to KRS 160.370 the Superintendent as the executive agent of the board has the duty to properly manage and attend to the business affairs of the school district and did not do so in relation to the issue of paying interest. In fact, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to see that interest was paid upon these accounts for a period of nine months after he became aware of the problem. As a result of the failure of the school district the Board finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager has willfully neglected his duties as Superintendent as required by law.

Paragraph C of Count #3 alleges that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager failed to timely address the false financial report submitted by a principal of a local school which showed a positive balance in an internal account when in fact the balance was a deficit balance. The Board finds as a matter of fact that the account was deficit (See Respondent's Exhibit 1, August 3, 1990) even though the 1989-190 annual financial report for that school showed a positive balance. The evidence supports the finding that an audit conducted by the Kentucky Department of Education in November of 1990 identified the deficit and recommended that the principal be reprimanded for falsifying the 1989-1990 report and further recommended that the deficit accounts be paid off under the supervision of the central offices. The Board further finds that the Office of Education Accountability in April of 1991 conducted an audit and found that the deficit still existed in the approximate amount of $18,000.00 despite the fact that Superintendent Hager and the District had been notified of the problem by the Department of Education audit in November of 1990. Additional testimony presented by the witness for the Office of Education Accountability establishes the fact that Superintendent Hager was advised of this matter on May 23, 1991 in person by Office of Education Accountability and by letter from Office of Education Accountability dated May 28, 1991. Further, by letter dated July 12, 1991 the Office of Education Accountability requested that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager advise the Office of Education Accountability of steps taken to resolve this problem. Finally, the evidence establishes that by letter dated August 6, 1991 from Superintendent Ronald L. Hager to Mr. Phillip B. Austin of the Office of Education Accountability, and denoted as Exhibit 22 with the statement of charges, that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager took certain steps to resolve this problem with the principal. The letter also indicates that at that time Superintendent Ronald L. Hager issued a reprimand against the principal for failing to correct this problem.

Superintendent Ronald L. Hager argues that nearly a year is not untimely in relation to his efforts to clarify and resolve this problem concerning the false financial report by the school principal. Respondent's Exhibit #27 and #28 sets forth Board policies dealing with internal accounts and requires that monthly accounting reports be submitted for all internal accounts at the local schools. There is no evidence before this Board that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager required the principal to submit monthly accounting reports which would have been a major step in trying to resolve the problem of the deficit in this matter. The Board is of the opinion, and so finds, that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager willfully failed to do his duty as Superintendent when he allowed this matter concerning a deficit internal school account to exist nearly a year without resolving the problem. The Board finds that such actions on the part of the Superintendent are not timely in relation to his duty to properly manage the business affairs of the district and constitutes willful neglect of duty.

In conclusion as to count #2 and subparagraphs a,b, and c the board finds that Superintendent Ronald L. Hager willfully neglected his duty in these matters and such a pattern of willful neglect of duty is good and sufficient cause for his removal from the office of Superintendent of the Floyd County School District.

Conclusion and Order

The Kentucky State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education having considered the evidence presented to it in the hearing transcripts and having heard the panel's recommendations as to the disposition of the charges has now hereby voted to find the respondent, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager, guilty of the charges set out in Count #1, Count #2, and Count #3 in the findings of fact, and the State Board being otherwise sufficiently advised, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, that the Respondent, Superintendent Ronald L. Hager is guilty of all the charges now pending against him and is hereby removed as Superintendent of the Floyd County School District pursuant to KRS 156.132 for the violations that are found and set out in the findings of fact.

Report to Kentucky

By Sen. Wendell Ford

Public Broadcasting Bill is good for Kentucky

I am pleased to report that the U.S. Senate has voted 84 to 11 to reauthorize the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

With this vote, the Senate has once again turned back the assaults of those who seek to limit the independence or weaken the federal support long enjoyed by public radio and television stations across this state and nation.

Our Senate debate showed once again that public broadcasting is anything but the so-called elite operation conjured up by a few misguided critics in the Congress and elsewhere.

Public broadcasting is a highly successful enterprise now receiving most of its support from non-federal sources.

It provides millions of hardworking American families with sorely needed educational, community-service and public-affairs programs they simply could not find anywhere else.

In my opinion, our Senate vote was a resounding victory for all of these Americans, including the many Kentuckians who have come to rely on Kentucky Educational Television (KET) and other public-broadcasting outlets across our Commonwealth.

Support from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting helps KET to broadcast Sesame Street, NOVA, Masterpiece Theater, the famed Civil War series and many other high-quality, family-oriented programs.

These programs help thousands of families to provide the best education for their children, particularly in the 40 percent of Kentucky without access to cable. They also help KET to gain much needed attention and support for a wide range of purely instructional, cultural and public service programs.

The Corporation also provides limited but vital support for other public stations that have won acclaim for a variety of educational and informational programs in Kentucky.

We are fortunate to have WKPC-TV in Louisville, WKYU-TV in Western Kentucky, WNKU-FM at Northern Kentucky University, WKMS-FM at Murray State University, four public-radio stations at Western Kentucky University and other outstanding public broadcasting stations in our state.

I have supported public broadcasting for 25 years. As a member of the General Assembly I supported the bond issue to build the KET system. As Governor, I worked with many others to develop the system's GED program, which has furthered the education of so many Kentuckians over the years.

Kentuckians understand that public broadcasting is a success story in our state. They understand the role of public broadcasting in educating our children and keeping us informed on such vital issues as health care and educational reform, one critical area in which our state now leads the nation.

I know we can count on Kentuckians to send a strong message to Washington: Our bill to improve the future of our children through enhanced support of public broadcasting should be cleared by a House Senate conference committee and passed without delay. If the President vetoes this bill, it should become the first veto to be over-ridden by the Congress during this presidency.

Editorial:

On the road again?

by Scott Perry

Only time will tell if the Floyd County Board of Education made the right choice when they selected Nebraska educator William Zitterkopf as the system's next superintendent.

For the present, though, the selection tells us a lot...about the board.

We wouldn't be understating if we suggested the past several months have been something akin to a civil war as far as the superintendent search process was concerned.

Friends became enemies, the innocent became victims and wounds were opened that may never heal.

Through it all, the Floyd County board stuck to its guns—unsteadily, perhaps, at times—and fulfilled a pledge to honor the selection process and pick a finalist from those recommended by a search committee.

The board followed the right road, despite the bumps along the way that certainly made the trip most uncomfortable. Where the road will lead, at this point, is anybody's guess.

Seeing the system work as it should, though, has made the ride, so far, worthwhile. The rest could be much more pleasant...if we can keep the wheels from falling off.

I-66 STUDY UNDERWAY, BUT REGARDLESS OF FINDINGS MORE INTERSTATE-TYPE MILEAGE IS NEEDED

by Jack Fish, President
Kentuckians for Better Transportation

(KBT is a broad-based, statewide transportation alliance that includes in its membership industry, businesses, chambers of commerce, local governments, and providers and users of transportation.)

During the next 15 months a team of engineers, economists, and others put together by Wilbur Smith & Associates, prime contractor, and Howard Needles Tammen & Bergendoff will determine the feasibility of an east-west TransAmerica transportation corridor. Our own Kentucky Transportation Center is among the agencies on the study team.

The contract for the study was scheduled to be signed last week after review and approval by Missouri Highway & Transportation Department's legal staff. Missouri is the lead agency for the corridor states.

The study, according to MH&TD's Lou Hancock, is an open ended look at what transportation needs are through the coast-to-coast corridor and how they can best be met—highway, rail, pipeline.

Questions the study will attempt to answer include:

Is there a need for a coast-to-coast land bridge that could provide for heavy freight an efficient alternative to the Panama Canal and existing rail lines and highways?

Would the corridor be an efficient use of resources to stimulate economic growth and development in relatively undeveloped parts of the nation?

If the entire corridor is not needed are there segments that should be developed?

If there is a highway should it be a high-speed interstate type-facility or should it be a scenic highway built for vacation travel?

Is it feasible to do anything? There are those who would like to see "I-66" as a comprehensive demonstration program or emerging transportation technologies, to guide the nation's and world's transportation planning during the next century. At any rate, the study will take a paper look at new technologies and make some recommendations.

KBT has, of course, maintained that the Interstate highway construction program should be continued as a separate funding category, and it has essentially been continued, albeit under-funded, in the 1991 Surface Transportation Act's Sec. 1105, High Priority Corridors. This section declares Congress to have found:

"...Many regions of the Nation are not now adequately served by the Interstate System or comparable highways and require further highway development in order to serve the travel and economic development of the region; and...the development of transportation corridors is the most efficient and effective way of...promoting economic development."

The feasibility study for I-66 is in this section, along with some 29 other specifically funded projects—primarily segments of "high priority corridors." The projects represent a backlog of needed Interstate-type facilities, and they are for the most part only partially funded.

There are major areas of the nation and our state that have been "left out" of the Interstate program. The I-66 study offers the hope that some of these areas will be included and will be able to start to compete more effectively in the nation's economy.

If the study is positive it is critical to move ahead as quickly as possible. Getting preliminary engineering funded in the FY '94 budget doesn't leave any time to sit around and look at the study, but most of the corridor, like Kentucky, doesn't need a study to determine an Interstate-type highway facility—at a minimum—is critically needed. And, that's why we've urged our Congressional Delegation to work to get some funding (at least $30 million) to allow the project to get a start in FY '94.

Letters

Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Prestonsburg community members for their support of the annual "Bucket Brigade" conducted by the Kentucky Army National Guard on behalf of Easter Seals.

The men and women of Co B 206th EN BN volunteered their time to raise funds for the many service programs offered by Easter Seals in Lexington, Ashland, Paducah, Covington, Carrollton and Louisville. Last year over 23,000 Kentuckians with disabilities received Easter Seal services.

We are grateful to the National Guard members for volunteering and to the community for contributing to this effort. Such grass roots support is vital to the efforts of the Easter Seal Society, and we would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who helped make the 1992 campaign such a success.

King of Kentucky Vaudeville comes to Jenny Wiley Park

Emmit Davenport's mother didn't hold with banjo playing, especially on the Sabbath. Emmit finally got so tired of being scolded every Sunday morning that he up and ran away from his home in an eastern Kentucky hollow. He joined the vaudeville circuits and spent years playing, singing, and telling jokes from Pikeville to Paducah. When radio replaced vaudeville, Davenport's inimitable style made him a favorite on the country music shows.

On Sunday, June 21, 1992, at 2:30 at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park in Prestonsburg, the Kentucky Chautauqua proudly presents Dick "Richard" Albin as Emmit Davenport, King of Kentucky Vaudeville. In Albin's knee-slapping portrayal, we catch up with Emmit backstage at a 1940s radio show. While he is waiting to go on the air, he talks about his years on the road and recalls some of the old songs and jokes that were popular in the small towns and coal camps.

Dick "Richard" Albin is a storyteller, musician, and humorist who has a special interest in early country music. He created the character of Emmit Davenport as a tribute to the hundreds of itinerant performers who entertained Kentuckians in the early years of the twentieth century. His appearance is sponsored locally by Floyd County Kentucky Bicentennial Committee and Jenny Wiley State Resort Park and by the Kentucky Chautauqua, an official Kentucky Bicentennial Program presented by the Kentucky Humanities Council. During the summer of 1992, Kentucky Chautauqua performers will portray fascinating characters from Kentucky history in every county of the Commonwealth.

This Kentucky Chautauqua presentation is free and open to the public.

Conservation winners

"Saving Soil" was the topic for this year's conservation contest. A Conservation Awards Banquet was held on May 23 at Clark Elementary. All of the winners received T-shirts and certificates. The first place winner received $25; second place, $20; and third place, $15. Stumbo school winners pictured, from left, are Marsha Howell, Sabrenia Martin, Sheena Akers, Glenn Hamilton, Billy Newsome, Larry Carroll, Stevie McKinney and Angela Howell. Not pictured is Nikki Johnson, she was also a winner.

Kentucky Opry enters the spotlight

The Kentucky Opry is beginning its 1992 "Into The Spotlight" tour and this summer is expected to be the busiest season ever for the Opry troupe.

The group kicks off its second season at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater Monday, June 22, in Prestonsburg. The Opry will bring exciting family entertainment to the hills of Eastern Kentucky every Monday night (except June 29) at the Theatre. Last year's shows proved very popular and many performances were viewed by sell-out crowds. This year's run at the Theatre promises to be even more successful.

The Opry plans to take their show on the road this summer with a variety of scheduled performances. The first of which will be a June 18 show for the Kentucky Press Association Convention in Pikeville. This performance will allow the group to be seen by journalists from throughout the state. Next on the schedule will be a June 24 performance for Toyota Motor Company in Lexington. This event will offer an excellent opportunity for the troupe to gain regional recognition.

The Kentucky Opry will also be featured at the largest coal show in the nation later this month during the "Carolina Coal Show" at Myrtle Beach, S.C. The troupe will perform June 27 for a very influential audience, including President George Bush, who is scheduled as the keynote speaker for the Coal Show.

On July 4th in Ashland, the Kentucky Opry will be the opening act for country music's newest superstar, Billy Ray Cyrus, another Kentucky native. This concert is part of the Tri-State Fair and Regatta and is expected to be the largest show to date for the Opry. More than twenty-five thousand fans are expected to attend the show.

This summer promises to be very hectic for the Opry. However, the young troupe of performers from Eastern Kentucky thrives on the excitement of playing for diverse groups and this summer will offer many opportunities for the group to garner some well-deserved recognition of their talents. Kentucky Opry supporters see the "Into Spotlight Tour" as the first trip on the road of many wonderful things to come.

McGuire wins math award

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Wesley J. McGuire has been named a United States National Award winner in Mathematics.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American high school, and middle school students.

Wesley McGuire, who attends Adams Middle School, was nominated for this National Award by Jack Goodman, a math teacher at the school.

McGuire will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

He is the son of William and Vikki McGuire of Emma.

Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Q. None of my friends have ever heard about temporal arteritis. I have been told that I have it. We all would like to know more about it.

A. This is a rather rare inflammatory disease that involves the arteries that lead to the brain and to the side of the head. All of us have noticed a small pulsating artery in the area of the temples.

The cause of this condition is really unknown. As with other conditions that have evaded scientific investigation, research workers are now turning to the possibility that some deficiency of the immune system may be present.

The condition is such a complex one, with so many diverse symptoms, that enumeration of them would only serve to confuse you and even introduce a sense of anxiety about it. Some people who have been complaining about relentless headaches that have existed for a long time without explanation may have temporal arteritis.

It is no longer necessary to speculate about the condition. It is possible to remove a small portion of the temporal artery on the side of the head for biopsy study. If, indeed, temporal arteritis exists, it can be readily recognized by microscopic study. Once the diagnosis is established, cortisone is used to relieve the arteritis and to alleviate the headaches associated with it.

I want to emphasize that the condition is relatively rare. Patients with headaches should not focus on this condition and assume that they have this disorder.

Many patients who suffer from headaches suffer from the "I too" syndrome. Sufferers from headaches very often relay to others the character of the headaches which seems to resemble another's. The result is almost invariably an exchange of medication. A headache sufferer becomes enthusiastic about a particular drug and is anxious to pass it on to a friend. Great care must be taken that this seemingly generous offering of drugs be avoided. It takes a great deal of discriminating judgment for doctors and specialists in the field of headaches to separate one condition from another. It is for this reason that many headache clinics have been established in hospitals as separate entities in order to study the vast variety of headaches.

Bicentennial Chronicles

The Commonwealth's Folk Heroes & Rogues

By J. Holly McCall

From the early days of settlement to modern statehood, the Commonwealth has produced a brash breed of people known for their exuberant exploits.

Once a rowdy frontier state, Kentucky has contributed many colorful characters and legends to American folklore—individuals such as Daniel Boone, Kit Carson and Abraham Lincoln achieved mythic status in American history long ago.

Others, like the murderous Harpe brothers, the notorious James gang and the feuding Hatfield and McCoy tribes, have earned a special place in Back Home in Kentucky's "Rogues' Gallery."

Good and bad, familiar and shocking, these people have contributed to Kentucky's tradition and sense of identity. This is the fourth in a series of eight vignettes focusing on the Commonwealth's folk heroes and rogues.

Davis' Kentucky Glorious, Virtuous

Considered a martyr by Confederate sympathizers, another of the state's native sons became a president. Jefferson Davis, born on June 3, 1808 in Fairview, was the only president of the Confederate States of America.

Born less than 100 miles from Lincoln's birthplace, Davis and his family moved to Mississippi, but he returned to Kentucky in 1815 to attend the Dominican St. Thomas school in Springfield. He later attended Transylvania University in Lexington before attending West Point.

Prior to the Civil War, Davis served in the U.S. House of Representatives, the U.S. Senate, was secretary of war under President Franklin Pierce, and fought in the Mexican War.

In his last visit to his birthplace in 1886, Davis said: "Kentucky, my own, my native land. God grant that peace and plenty may ever run throughout your borders. God grant that your sons and daughters may ever rise to illustrate the fame of their dead fathers and that wherever the name of Kentucky is mentioned, every hand shall be lifted and every head bowed for all that is grand, all that is glorious, all that is virtuous, all that is honorable and manly."

Davis died in New Orleans on December 6, 1889. A monument to Davis stands near his birthplace in Fairview.

Melissa Corbett

Student attends awards luncheon

Melissa Corbett, senior at Allen Central High School, recently attended an academic honors luncheon in Williamson, West Virginia. The awards ceremony was presented by WBTH-AM/WXCC-FM. The master of ceremonies, Denny Frost, presented the honors during a steak dinner provided for the students. The guest speaker was Dr. Gail Hall, dean of instruction and administration services at Williamson Campus.

Only students at the top of their graduating class were allowed to attend the luncheon. Several schools from Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia were represented. Melissa is the daughter of Lee and Beverly Corbett of Wayland.

Along for the ride

Traci Tackett's preschool class at John M. Stumbo School was visited by Kathy McKinney and her miniature stallion. The students were participating in a unit about the farm. Each student rode the horse around the playground area. McKinney and her preschooler, Luke, are shown above.

Mary Callihan Hereford

Local student graduates from Centre College

Mary Callihan Hereford, a student from Prestonsburg was among 192 graduates receiving bachelor's degrees at the 169th Commencement of Centre College held May 31.

Hereford, the daughter of Thomas and Mary Jo Hereford, graduated with a B.S. in chemistry. She is a 1988 graduate of Paintsville High School.

At Centre, Hereford served as first vice president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She plans to study pharmacy at Mercer University in Atlanta, Georgia, this fall.

Centre awarded honorary degrees to Kentucky Bicentennial speaker Cawood Ledford, a 1949 graduate of Centre and the retired Voice of the University of Kentucky Wildcats. Founded in 1819, Centre is among the oldest liberal arts colleges in the nation.

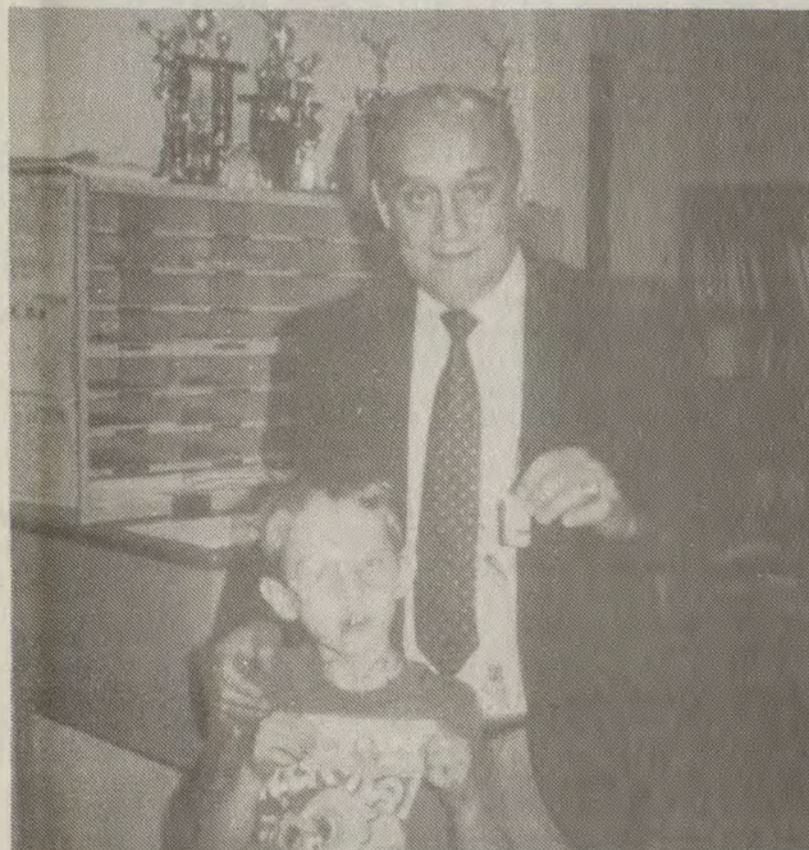

Pot-luck banquet

A pot-luck honors banquet sponsored by Auxier's PTA was held Saturday evening May 30, for students who had A and B averages for five out of the last six semesters. Seventy-five students, primary through eighth grade, were recognized with certificates for this accomplishment. Students, guests and teachers, approximately 155 people in all, enjoyed the banquet in celebration of a job well done by the students during this past year.

Mentors

There are no age barriers when it comes to learning at Auxier Elementary. Ramona Alkens' eighth grade class recently became "mentor" to Davida Bickford's fourth grade class in an unusual science lesson when the two classes came together to dissect owl pellets, which were to be later mounted, labeled and identified as the kind of animal bones found in the pellets by the students. Some students were reluctant, but this was soon overcome by the discovery of a recognizable bone structure.

Attendance winner

Rodney Watkins Jr., first grade student at Duff Elementary, won a $100 drawing for perfect attendance in the month of April. He is the son of Rodney and Mollie Watkins of Wayland. His teacher is Sharon Sexton.

Growing, in more ways than one

Martin Elementary School students, parents, and school staff have been actively involved in a school plant beautification endeavor that includes building flowers boxes, planting flower seeds and setting hundreds of colorful plants. Shown are fourth graders Jeremy Sexton, Dustin Crisp, Boge Conn and Chris Damron who obviously are enjoying their contribution to the project as well as relishing the opportunity to be outdoors in the spring sunshine.

Gillespie received red ribbons for the 50 meter run and the 100 meter walk. He also received a blue ribbon for the 100 meter relay. Bill Hunt placed first in the 100 meter run and also broke the track record for the 100 meter run for the day. He earned a red ribbon for the softball throw and a blue ribbon for the 100 meter relay. Jimmy placed first in the 100 meter walk which earned him a blue ribbon. He also received a red ribbon for the softball throw. The winners then went on to the statewide special olympics in Lexington. Martin teacher named to national directory

In the course of a teacher's career, several thousand students are under his direct supervision. Teachers know they influence the lives of these students, but hearing it, especially from those students who have been successful, is the most gratifying reward possible, according to teacher Donna Gray.

The Martin Elementary teacher was recently honored by a former student for her role in his education and the difference she made in his life. Gray has been selected for inclusion in WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICA'S TEACHERS, 1992, which will honor a select five percent of the nation's teachers. Her nomination was made by John Paul Dove, son of Paul and Lynn Dove of Martin, who cited Gray for her prominent role in his life.

To be recognized by a student is very encouraging, Gray avers. "Teachers need support now more than ever, and formal recognition from students provides us with a tremendous affirmation of our value as educators. It is a privilege to be honored by a former student's nomination. I'm deeply gratified. I would like to thank John Paul Dove for this honor and for a boost when I needed it."

In describing her personal philosophy regarding students, Gray says

she believes in teaching the "whole" child, instilling in each of them a sense of self-worth and the realization that "any dream can come true if you believe in yourself." Students should be challenged to think and learn on their own, to find pleasure in learning and have the confidence to "spread their wings."

A veteran teacher of twenty-eight years, Gray is currently teaching third and fourth graders. Her peers describe her as a very creative person who has a knack for invoking students' interest in learning. Gray is a native of Maytown and resides there with her husband, George, and three daughters, Connie, Hope and Jane.

Athlete of the year

The athlete of the year award is to recognize two outstanding eighth graders at Maytown Elementary in the combined fields of athletics, academics, school spirit and citizenship. Maytown's Male Athlete of the Year is Chad Martin and the Female Athletic of the Year is Dremia Kilgore.

Science Fair held at Stumbo

John M. Stumbo Elementary held its second annual Science Fair on May 15. Approximately 100 projects representing all the major science areas were displayed by the seventh and eighth grade students in the school gym. Most of the student body viewed the displays during the day.

The seven faculty judges selected the four winning contestants, which were Susan Ousley, first place; Marsha Howell, second place; Jeremy Parsons, third place; and Mark Tackett, fourth place.

Trophies were presented to the winners.

The purpose of a science fair is to promote interest in science and to increase knowledge in the participant's chosen area of science.

The Science Fair was under the direction of Fonzo Akers, science teacher at Stumbo Elementary.

INITIALLY YOURS

You've probably already noticed but acronyms are rapidly replacing words in normal conversation.

"Hey, Jimmie," I asked, my husband recently, "Did you ever R.S.V.P. for us?"

"No. But I will A.S.A.P."

"O.K. because my P.M.S. is horrible. I would have done it, but I heard on CNN that you shouldn't fatigue yourself during that time."

"That's o.k.," he replied.

"You were suffering from S.D.S. then anyway."

"You're right. I was. By the way, do you think A.B.C. did a good job covering the Olympics? N.B.C. doesn't think so."

"I don't care. If the N.B.A. and the N.F.L. think A.B.C. is better than C.B.S., what kind of person would I be to argue with them?"

"Oh, I don't know," I laughed. "A.S.O.B.?"

"Maybe so," he said, glumly.

"By the way. Did you order anything C.O.D.?"

"No, but something came by U.P.S."

"That must be it," I said, excitedly.

"What did you order?"

"A C.D. player."

"I didn't know you wanted a C.D. player."

"I didn't but it was free when you bought the V.C.R."

"Let me get this straight," he said in a direct tone.

"You ordered a V.C.R. and we got a C.D. player, too. How did that happen?"

"Well, I picked up the phone and asked the GTE operator for the 800 number and she gave it to me."

"You make it sound simple, Sara."

"It was. In fact, it was as simple as A.B.C."

"Good. Then it shouldn't be hard to send it back the same way."

"But, Jimmie, it was made in the U.S.A."

"I don't care if you made it yourself. It's going back because you got another O.D. By the way where's our son?"

"He's out riding in a R.V."

"Who's he with?"

"P.D., J.D. and J.W."

"Did he say when he'd be back?"

"Yes. He left a note. Here it is."

Mom and Dad:

Gone with P.D. J.D. and J.W. Home at 10. Left my glove at B.L. and my H's at LL's.

J.R.

If anybody ever comes up with an acronym to simplify our lives, I hope they keep it to themselves.

Local band begins journey to Nashville

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Karl Jarol and his band travel the open road this week to begin a tour which they hope will lead to Nashville.

They don't know where they're headed, but they know their destination — the top of the country music charts. Jarol (Carl Jarrell of Cow Creek) and the Open Road band take their music to Haysi, Virginia Friday and then, maybe, to Lexington, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

With a blend of today's country sound, 70's southern rock, and a bit of yesterday's Hank Williams, the musicians have created a style of their own that should do well in the country music industry.

The group has four self-written, self-produced debut singles which are gaining airtime on radio stations in Pikeville, Paintsville, Hazard and Williamson. Their tape is on sale at Sound City and Record Rack in Pikeville.

Most often requested for play on David Branham's Country Connection, a request-only show that airs on WDHR, is "Yesterday's All I've Got (To Look Forward To)." The song represents the new style created by the band. It offers a hint of Garth Brooks and the soft sound of southern rock. The country twang of a mandolin sneaks in to create a rhythm that lingers long after the song ends. Jarol is at his best on this song. His vocal inflections captivate his listeners.

Switching to the fast beat of calypso, "Anymore Than I Love Her" is another favorite for the request line. Jarol's soft, rendition of "What's Got Me Thinking," penetrates the soul as he describes the heartbreak of losing love.

The opening sound of "Don't Let Me Step Over & Over" is pure country with the toe-tapping beat of mandolins, banjos and fiddles, and should prove to be a favorite with country music fans.

The group formed about ten months ago when Pikeville businessman Jim Lawson heard Jarol sing and was so impressed that he started building a band around Jarol's voice. After numerous auditions Jarol and Lawson found what they were looking for in Brian Spears, Joe Brown, Scott Jones, Brian Thompson, and Dwayne Hunt.

Spears, of Harold, plays guitar and sings backup vocals. He has played with bands since the age of 14.

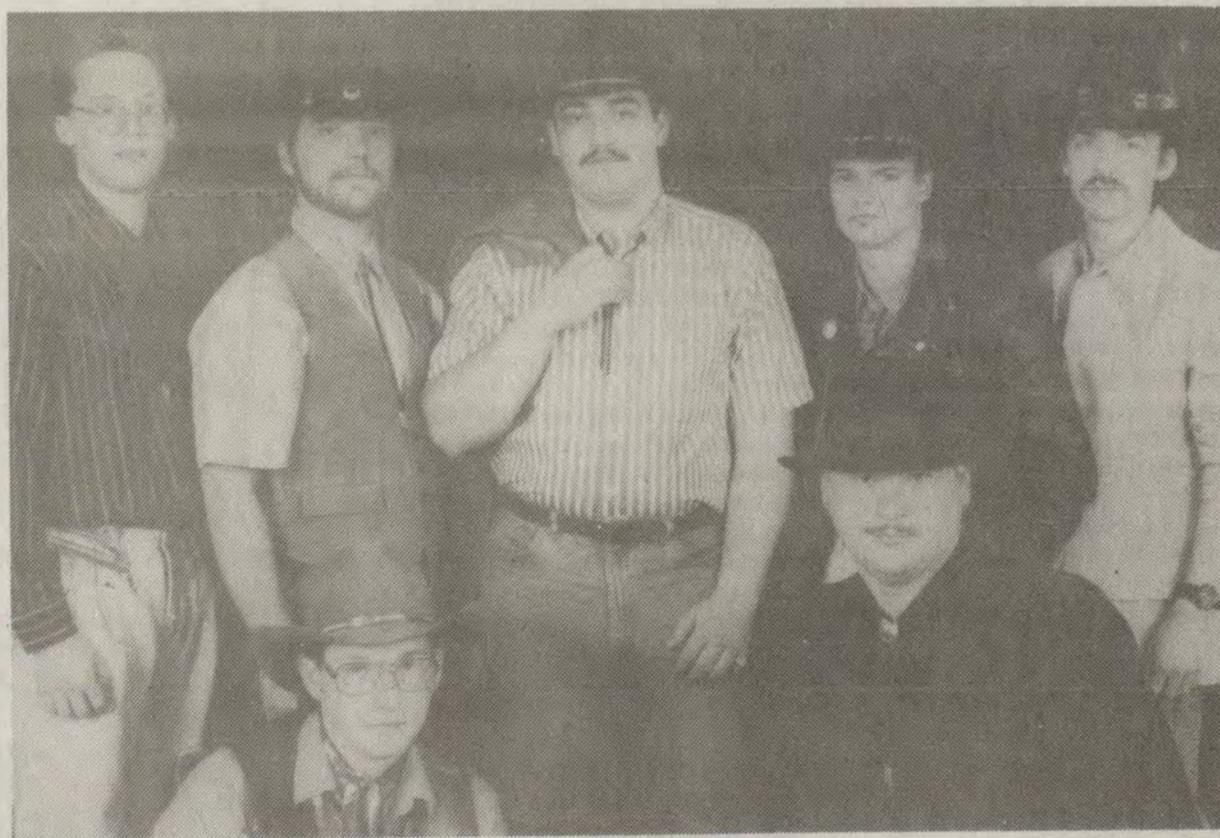

Brown, of Pikeville, plays mandolin and also sings backup. After 15 years in music, his adaptability from Bluegrass to rock adds to the music. Another 15-year veteran of the music field is Dwayne Hunt of Pikeville. Hunt is the band's bass guitar player.

Jones, of Allen, is the youngest member of the group. He plays the drums and is a student at Prestonsburg Community College. Thompson, 27, is the oldest member of the band. He began playing classical music on the piano at the age of 11. Thompson hails from Phelps.

The lead singer, Jarol, a son of Rosie Boyd Jarrell of Tram and the late Carl Jarrell, has been interested in music since he was five years old.

"I had relatives that lived across the creek who were into gospel music," Jarol said. "At first, I would just listen. Then one day I just opened my mouth to try to do what they're doing." He gives credit first to God and then to his relatives: Anita Boyd Perry,

ALL MY CHILDREN: Much to his surprise, Palmer's test results proved he wasn't sterile. Natalie and Trevor were married, but rather than leave Amanda, they postponed their honeymoon. Taylor and An Li plotted to keep Brian and Hayley apart, with Taylor pretending to be an immigration officer spying on An Li and Brian. Stuart found Gloria admiring one of his paintings, and after rejecting his offer, she then accepted one of them as a gift. Dixie spurned Stephen at the wedding reception. Galen, who was pining over Trevor, invited Stephen back to her place — no strings attached. Wait To See: Hayley considers a desperate measure to break An Li's hold on Brian.

ANOTHER WORLD: Cash was warned not to tell Frankie that La Fidela had been kept away from her lover because of murder. The photographer hired by Jake took pictures of Jamie and Kelsey kissing. Vicky was distraught over learning Ryan had been beaten by inmates, and had refused Grant's help. When Carl sent Alli a belated birthday gift, Sam refused to let Amanda get involved in Kevin's investigation. Donna rushed out after finding something alarming in Vicky's things. When Donna told Ryan she feared Vicky might be with Carl, he ordered Frankie to get him out of jail, now. Wait To See: Lorna has another bombshell to drop.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Susan accepted Larry's proposal. Connor told Scott about her past with Lucinda. Lily fantasized about her life after the baby is born. Scott asked Bob what effect his staying in town would have on Tom. After Margo expressed curiosity about Thomas Eldridge leaving his estate to Lisa, Lisa begged Scott not to tell her about her affair with Thomas. Later, Darryl interrupted Margo's call to Frannie about George Jessup, the security guard who made Frannie feel uncomfortable. Hutch found Rosanna crying, but she ran off when he tried to comfort her. Wait To See: Frannie faces a shocking possibility.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: In the hospital, Zach (who had been faking his injuries) told Sly he planned this to meet Felicia who, as he predicted, turned up to see him. Sheila was stunned when Eric said he'd like to discuss her suggestions for the infirmary over lunch. Stephanie implied to a furious Brooke that Ridge might not be her baby's father. Karen managed to reach Bill on the phone but before she could tell him where she was, the line went dead. Bill deduced she was with Blake, and he and Thorne rushed to reach her before it was too late. Wait To See: Thorne faces a crucial decision.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Bo and Carly learned that Chris was not her son. With Jo and Alice's help, Jennifer pushed Jack into admitting he's not having an affair: he's dying. Over Roman's objections, Marlana held her first session with Roger and Jesse Lombard. Lisanne told Shane that her father is paralyzed. Kiriakis assured Isabelle that John was doing the right thing for her and the baby.

Every couple of years or so, our illustrious politicians promise Eastern Kentuckians that, dadburn it, if the good Lord's willin' and the creeks don't run backwards, this year we all is a 'gonna get some really neat stuff.

Somehow, though, either by accident or design, that really neat stuff never seems to come through.

Sound and fury, signifying nothing.

These days, they're playing up tourism, tourism, tourism. This year, we've been promised a new luxury golf course, a homebase for the Kentucky Opry, and — now here's the kicker — our own harness racing and wagering facility. All of these projects for some reason or another have been put on hold.

Now as a rule, I don't go in for conspiracy theories. I seriously doubt Lee Harvey Oswald, Brereton Jones or Wallace Wilkinson are hiding behind a grassy knoll, waiting to shoot down anything positive that may actually make it to Eastern Kentucky, although I shudder to think what might happen if Oliver Stone decided to direct Kentucky: the Untold Story. And don't you just think The Bluegrass Conspiracy was tailor-made for him?

Part of the problem is discrimination. That's right. Discrimination. Cultural snobbery. Outright, unabashed racism.

Friends and neighbors, we are the third world nation of the industrialized world. Just ask Dan Rather. Just ask anybody in any state north of Kentucky. While you're at it, just ask anybody in Northern Kentucky, which as everybody knows is the cultural center of the universe since they have something called bluegrass. I've never actually seen any blue grass, but I'm reasonably certain that it is a very expensive, highly illegal controlled substance (which basically means that nobody up north wants us to have it).

Now, if you go "up north" or even "out west" or "back east," be prepared: people will look at you funny. Don't be alarmed. They're just surprised you're wearing shoes. You are expected to reply "Yeah, buddy. Ah jest bought 'em up at the Wal-Mart — muh welfare come in t'day. Ah ain't hardly got used ta warrin' 'em yet, but ah been tole they's highly comfortable after awahl."

Then of course, one of the "cultural elite," you know, the ones that can actually spell "potato," will say something like "Yo, yo, yo boyeeeee. Youse guys down dere shuah talk funny."

At that point, you're supposed to say that you are a "mountaineer" and are preserving your "cultural heritage."

I'm here to tell you I can solve all of Eastern Kentucky's problems.

But first, somebody has to get a copy of this article to Governor Jones. The rest of this article is for his eyes only, although the rest of you can keep reading if you really feel its necessary.

Dear Brer',

Do you mind if I call you Brer'? Nevermind. What I'm really writing to you about is the fact that Connecticut Governor Lowell P. Weicker recently traded jobs for a day with a New York City radio announcer.

I challenge you to switch jobs with me.

You've been trying to build up tourism? Fine. Use what we've got.

Play up the dumb hick Eastern Kentucky hillbilly angle. I've got the whole advertising campaign all worked out. It goes something like this:

"Visit scenic Eastern Kentucky. We're hillbillies. Fun for the entire family. Experience a genuine piece of American history, perfectly preserved for your enjoyment.

"You want pregnant barefoot teenyboppers? We've got 'em.

"You want moonshiners and dead revenuers? Come on down.

"Relieve yourself in the naturally fragrant and air-conditioned comfort of one of our genuine outhouses.

"Don't tell the authorities, but we have actual bluegrass, Kentucky's number one cash crop."

But wait, Governor, that's not all. After we've started trapping the tourists just like they do in Gallinburg, we expand on what we've got. Tennessee has the Smokey Mountains — we have mountains. They just aren't smokey. That's no problem. We buy smoke machines. Lots of smoke machines. But for an extra added special bonus, we use colored smoke. And the rivers are all brown anyway. In the travel brochures, we'll tell 'em it's chocolate. It'll be like a Beatles song.

We'll put "See Kentucky's fabulous Rainbow Mountains and Chocolate Rivers" billboards every fifty feet on every roadside in all the states bordering Kentucky. Just like Ruby Falls and Rock City.

But wait. There's more.

What we really really really need is an amusement park. It doesn't even have to be a good one. Look how lame Camden Park is and they rake in the bucks.

Of course we'd call it Muddy Gut Hollerland. All we'd have to do is take the tourists down a mantrip in one of the coal mines and tell 'em it's

Dear Abby

Shower Hostess Bridles At Covering Stripper's Fee

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago, I gave a bridal shower for "Sally," who has been my best friend since junior high school. I invited 44 women, which included our mutual friends and all the women in Sally's family—even her great-grandmother, who just celebrated her 88th birthday.

Without my knowledge, Sally's future sister-in-law (I'll call her Carole) surprised me by hiring a male stripper to entertain at my shower. In the course of his dance, this male stripper removed every stitch of his clothing. Several women walked out in the middle of the performance. Sally's elderly great-grandmother was so embarrassed, she hid her face in a napkin.

Of course, several women hooted, laughed and applauded loudly and thought it was wonderful. The help even came out of the kitchen to have a look.

Well, the day after the shower, Carole called to say that she was short of money to pay the stripper, and would I mind chipping in $25?

Abby, I can afford the $25, but the stripper was not my idea, and I don't think I should be asked to chip in to pay him.

I've asked a few of my friends, and some thought I should chip in to pay for the surprise entertainment, and others thought I shouldn't. What do you think?

PAULA (NOT MY REAL NAME)

DEAR PAULA: Since you didn't hire the stripper, you shouldn't have been asked to "chip in" to pay him. You paid for everything else, and you should not have to help pay for entertainment you neither planned nor enjoyed.

DEAR ABBY: For the last year and a half I have been in an exclusive relationship with a very fine widower. He has three grown children. His wife passed away seven months before we became involved. (My husband had been dead for eight years.)

Ours is a strong, loving relationship that I am sure will eventually end in marriage. We both had good marriages. His lasted for 23 years, mine 10 years.

Now the problem: Not only does he still wear his wedding ring, he also wears his wife's high school graduation ring on a chain around his neck. He never takes it off—not even to shower. This makes me uncomfortable in certain situations—for example, when we make love and the ring is dangling in my face.

I've mentioned this, but he continues to wear it. Since he has proclaimed his love for me, why is he still wearing those items?

Also, when he marries me, where will the wedding band I intend to give him be worn? We aren't just going steady; we have a lifelong commitment.

IN LOVE WITH A "MARRIED" MAN

DEAR IN LOVE: The man who has proclaimed his love for you, and with whom you believe you have a lifelong commitment, may not be as committed to this relationship as you are.

He's still wearing "those items" that symbolize his attachment to his deceased wife because he is not yet ready—or able—to let go.

a rollercoaster. They'd eat it up.

I know what you're thinking. Where's all the money going to come from? What I'd do is just forget about the state lottery. If we really want to make some money, what we need is a weekly statewide bingo game. Just think of all the blue-haired grannies frittering away their social security checks.

I bet you'd make up your campaign debt in no time. You might even get a cute little white pick-up truck out of the deal.

Then maybe we could concentrate on what's really important: golf courses and race tracks.

CHUCK SHEPHERD

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

LEAD STORY

According to Salt Lake City police, a 27-year-old woman called 911 in May because her husband refused to have sex with her. By the time police arrived, the nearly nude woman had begun beating her husband, who offered as his reason for lack of desire an exciting Utah Jazz basketball game on TV.

WELL-PUT

—Steven L. Johnson, 40, sentenced to two years in prison in Brookings, S.D., in April for drunk driving, explained to the judge: "I enjoyed drinking while driving. It's one of the most pleasurable habits I've had."

—Harvard University and McLean Hospital in Belmont, Mass., have established a center to analyze tissue from the brains of people who die after having suffered from mental illnesses. However, physicians have encountered trouble getting mentally ill patients to agree to donate their brains. Asked one physician, "How do you ask someone (to donate his brain to science) who thinks their brain is under the control of radio waves from Mars?"

—The title of Dr. June Stephenson's new book (Diemer, Smith; $20) on why crime is essentially a male pursuit, running $300 billion a year: "Men Are Not Cost Effective."

—Coshocton, Ohio, high school band director Charles Carothers, denying allegations that he sat two female students on his lap and fondled them: "I don't allow anyone to sit on my lap unless it's my daughter or my wife."

—John Hurst, a disoriented man taken to a mental health center after he was discovered propping a ladder up to the second floor of the Kennedy family estate in Palm Beach last August: "I'm looking for my wife. I think she may be up there."

—John F. Thanos, asked his sentencing preference after he had been found guilty in March for a 1990 murder, had the choice, said the judge, of the death penalty or "life in prison without the possibility of parole." Thanos, failing to capture all the details of the second choice, replied that he'd take the "life in prison with the possibility of escape." (The judge gave him the first.)

PARENTS FROM HELL

—Donna Clark, 26, and Paul Kramer, 31, faced various charges in Merchantville, N.J., in April when Clark allegedly grabbed $216 worth of film and walked out of a drugstore. The couple's names were provided by their 6-year-old son, who was in the store at the time but who was forgotten by the couple as they made their getaway.

—According to police in Knoxville, Tenn., Bobby Rose, 36, trying to avoid arrest for a traffic violation in February, threw his 2-year-old child at the feet of officers to slow them down as he made his getaway.

—Georgia state Rep. Henrietta Canty went on a hunger strike in February to protest the arrest of her son, who was jailed for failing to make court-ordered child-support payments.

—Tammie Guthrie, 28, was indicted in February for manslaughter in Baton Rouge, La. Police said that she allowed her year-old child to drown in a bathtub in December while she was in an adjacent room having sex with a 15-year-old boy.

LEAST COMPETENT PERSON

David Thomas Solomon, 35, at the Clermont, Fla., police station to file charges against his wife for hitting him, allegedly became fixated on a bag of marijuana (confiscated in another case) on Detective Danny Cheatham's desk and, according to Cheatham, "literally begged me for it and stated he wouldn't tell nobody where he got it." Cheatham then set up a hidden microphone in another room, sold the drugs to Solomon there for six bucks, and arrested him.

THE DIMINISHING VALUE OF LIFE

Paul Arbitelle, 17, was charged with attempted murder of his mother in Danbury, Conn., in February. He threw a hatchet at her because she failed to properly toast the bagel for the sandwich she made for him.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You take a leadership role all week long, until you fall into exhaustion. The boss just loves what you're doing. A parent is going "Yeah," and you get your laurels by the weekend. Just wish upon a star. Friendship and romance are also highlighted this mad and wonderful week.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your creativity and willingness to walk on the wild side make this a banner week. You finally find the solution to the madness and insanity at work. You resolve a domestic problem and make a friend very happy. No wonder this weekend is about celebrating and more celebrating.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Refuse to be intimidated and pushed by a partnership. Mellow out and gather up some daydream material. Consider a trip or a very unique opportunity that could have an impact on your work. Applause surrounds you by the weekend. Certainly you are doing something right.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The cards are stacked in a partner's favor. Be smart and don't create flak where none is needed, because you'll end up the loser. One-to-one talks about feelings and all the "gooey" things in life prevail all week long. Accept an offer of a runaway weekend to relax and enjoy.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Work while you can, because play you will this week. Distraction hits an all time high, and boy do you love it! Selection and timing are critical, as you make time to be with that special person this weekend. Ask for what you want, and be prepared to maybe just get it.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Creativity and romance are the big headlines this week—how and where you play them out is up to you. Certainly your work could benefit. The trick to making this magic work is to concentrate on one thing at a time. The weekend is exclusively for pleasure (yours).

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You need to handle a critical domestic matter sooner, rather than later. You can no longer hedge or push or demand. However, you CAN stop playing the game and see what comes down. Romance punctuates this week and weekend, but do make time to get some work done, too.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Realize what is really being asked of you, and "get real" about this one. You may need to do some heavy-duty soul-searching to come up with the answers. Whatever you decide, it seems to work, as you sensually celebrate the weekend with a loved one. No complaints allowed.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Expenses may be truly out of whack, and this may not be your own doing. Maintain a perspective when discussing alternatives—the "how comes" and the "whats." At any cost, stay on top of your work. You may need some time to "veg out" this weekend. Keep plans low keyed.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) You're in the spotlight this full moon week, and don't kid yourself—someone is watching closely. Caution with assets, both material and emotional, pays off big time. Spend the weekend being the friend you are. Catch up on neighborhood gossip and a friend's recent adventures.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Lie back and watch what must "go down." Maintain perspective and rethink your plan of attack. You gain major respect and attention for your decisions and leadership later in the week. Spend the weekend trying not to spend. Rather, get into the simple pleasures of life.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Surprises pop up this week, and, in an effort to deal with all the changes, you may need to withdraw for a while. Don't feel bad about decisions—just know what you must do, and what you are capable of. The weekend, by the way, more than makes up for the rough uphill battle.

EDELL HEALTH NOTES

DOOM! GLOOM! WATCH OUT! ... Sensational stories seem to be newspaper editors' favorites when it comes to reporting health news. This is confirmed in a study by Gideon Koren, of the Ontario Ministry of Health, and his colleague Naomi Klein.

They looked at how newspapers covered two back-to-back stories published in the March 20, 1991, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA). One of the reports showed that radiation exposure causes higher cancer rates; the other showed no radiation effect on cancer risk.

Guess which story got the most press? The JAMA story showing a cancer connection received by far the most coverage.

The trouble with ignoring or downplaying those studies that show "no adverse effects" is that it skews people's ability to make fully informed health decisions. I hope this new report has some effect on health news coverage, but I'm not optimistic.

** ** *

CAFFEINE-FREE ISN'T TROUBLE-FREE ... They say in some parts of the country that if you don't like the weather you should wait five minutes for it to change. If you're a coffee drinker, you might do the same while following the coffee health news, which seems to change daily. Right now, anyway, it looks like cloudy skies for decaf drinkers.

In a Stanford University study, 181 healthy, nonsmoking men drank three to six cups of caffeinated coffee daily for two months. A third of the men stuck with this routine for another couple of months, another third switched to decaf, and the rest gave up all coffee. In the end, the men who had switched to decaf suffered the most; every one showed an increase in his level of LDL cholesterol, the artery-clogging kind. The other men showed no change.

These results suggest that caffeine is not the cholesterol culprit in coffee; it's something in the decaffeinated version that does the damage. I'm not too worried; this is one coffee drinker who's waiting for the next weather report.

PAINTSVILLE BIG LEAGUE, FLOYD CO-STARS...

Ten players from Floyd County make up this year's edition of Big League baseball in Paintsville. Betsy Layne has placed six players on the squad with three from Allen Central and one from Prestonsburg.

Joey Brown, Brad Scott and Stewart Hall hail from Central with Barry Hall, Bud Kidd, Todd Akers, Chuck Laferty, Barry Collins and Shawn Newsome from Betsy Layne. John Thomas Clark represents Prestonsburg High School.

The team will be in Elkins, W. Va. this weekend for a big tournament of 16 teams.

Looking at the names of the players and realizing that they are seniors and will not be playing for their schools next year is rather sad. All of these players are very talented players and gave the Floyd County fans some good baseball. Of course, Kidd and Newsome will return for Betsy Layne.

About all of the district basketball teams will be heading to camps this summer as soon as school is out. I never saw a bunch of people who enjoy talking about high school basketball like we have here in Floyd County. I go to a Little League, Babe Ruth or Senior league game and we get to talking about basketball.

Prestonsburg, Allen Central and Betsy Layne head the "big three" (don't start calling) of the fans (notice) around the area. But you never can tell what will happen. After all, we haven't gotten baseball out of the way and football is just over two months off.

Could it be true! Grade school basketball will be put on hold until the first of November. No team will be allowed to start (practice or games) until then. That is to allow the elementary football teams to have a season without interference. This would put the grade school basketball season running during the high school season and the county tournament somewhere in the first part of February.

I applaud such a move if it comes about. I think our grade school football teams deserve their own season without coaches having to be concerned if they are going to lose football players to basketball practice.

Betsy Layne is planning to consolidate Stumbo, Betsy Layne, Harold and Prater into one middle school team. That will be one county team. Adams will field a team along with the Allen Central grade schools. Throw in the Allen Eagles squad and you have four good feeder teams.

I would like to see the resurrection of the old elementary football All-Star game they used to have in the county some years back. Out of the four teams you could have Allen Elementary and Allen Central's squads going against Adams and Betsy Layne — or some other combination. It would be good for the kids, programs and fans.

SCHEDULES NEEDED.....

I would like to have a copy of the high school football teams' schedules as soon as possible. So, coaches, would you please send one my way.

NO LIGHTS AT STUMBO PARK BASEBALL FIELD...

I understand that the breaker has been pulled on the lights that illuminate the Babe Ruth baseball diamond at Stumbo Park. The reason given was there seems to be a short in the system somewhere and it was charging up the fence in the outfield.

Hopefully, it will be fixed before the All-Star tournaments begin in July. Floyd County could be hosting as many as two of the three all-star events and Stumbo Park is the only place where we have lights. I'm sure the folks will have it going before then.

Hall aces number three hole at Jenny Wiley Golf Course

It has always been a golfer's delight to go to the local golf course with some old golfing buddies and take out his number whatever iron and watch the ball sail through the air and disappear into the cup on the green for a hole-in-one.

Many golfers dream of that time. But some never accomplish the feat no matter how they have been playing. Golf can be a frustrating game that makes you want to toss the clubs, golf bag and even the caddie — if you have one.

For Barry Hall of McDowell it took only his fourth trip to the course at Jenny Wiley to make his dream a reality. Hall sunk his first hole-in-one on the number three hole — a par five, 122-yard drive. Hall's feat was witnessed by Sam Bentley and Tommy Hall.

"Benji Caudill is the one who looked into the cup and found the ball," said Hall.

"I told him when he hit the ball it was going to go in," said Tommy Hall. "I was just kidding until I saw the ball disappear."

Hall becomes one of the elite eight from McDowell who has accomplished the feat of getting a hole-in-one. Other McDowell residents who have hole-in-ones include Glenn Turner, Mike Turner, Doug Hall, Steve Newsome, Teddy Hall, Scott Shannon and Vernon Stone.

"I thought it was really something," said Hall, "until I went home and found out that seven others have done it. I thought that was really something that seven others from McDowell have done it."

One who is still looking for his first hole-in-one after many years of trying is McDowell head basketball coach Johnny Ray Turner.

"I called him and told him about it," said Hall. "He said that he has been playing golf for 27 years and has never hit a hole-in-one."

"He said that he had a double eagle. That is supposed to be better than a hole-in-one but it doesn't sound as good," commented Hall.

"One thing about when I play golf," said Hall jokingly, "is that I always get the highest score."

Hall explained that he has been on the golf course only four times this year and he went out twice last year. He got the ace with a nine iron.

"Doug Hall had a hole-in-one and I told him about it," said Hall. "He asked me what hole it was on and I told him number three. He said: 'Oh, the easy one.'"

Hall said that he shot a 43 after finishing the nine holes. Wednesday, Hall was heading out to the Jenny Wiley Golf Course to see if the magic is still there.

Hamilton hurls, bats Mets past Braves

Neil Hamilton banged out two doubles and collected five RBIs as the Prestonsburg Mets posted a 11-3 win over the third place Prestonsburg Braves.

Not only did Hamilton star at the plate, but he picked up the win for the Mets striking out 14 batters. Hamilton gave up four walks in holding the hard-hitting Braves to only two hits. J.B. Hall, who struck out 16 batters the last time the two teams met, struggled although he did manage to pick up 13 strike outs. But the downfall for Hall was that he issued 19 base on balls as the Mets only collected three hits and Hamilton had two of those. Hall was the loser.

Hamilton doubled home two runs in the fifth inning after the first two men had walked against Hall. Then in the sixth frame, Hall continued to struggle when he walked five batters and Hamilton hit a double with the bases loaded, picking up three RBIs.

Dustin Robinson had one of the Braves' two hits. Robinson singled home two runs in the Braves' second inning that gave them a short lived, 2-1 lead. Gavin Hale scored for the Braves in the fifth after being hit by a pitch. Hale stole second, third and then home. The Braves Mark Stanley had the other hit when he doubled in the fifth inning.

The Mets committed six errors in the game while the Mets played errorless baseball.

The Mets took a 1-0 first inning lead and then scored twice in the bottom of the second for a 3-2 game.

Collins to take talent to Hardin-Simmons

Ask former Prestonsburg standout Ray Collins the reason for his success as a baseball player at Iowa Junior College and right away he will tell you that he owes it all to his father, Estill Collins.

"He has just been super," said Collins, who just inked a scholarship with Hardin-Simmons College. "He has gotten me everything I need to improve as a baseball player. I have been working out over in Paintsville and he has been going over there with me and he will pitch batting practice to me."

Collins credits former San Francisco Giant shortstop Johnnie Lemaster for the time he has taken to give him instructions on the shortstop position.

"Johnnie has been great in helping me out," said Collins. "He will get two dozens of baseballs and then hit ground balls to me and I would take batting practice."

Collins has spent the past two years at the Iowa junior college school where he led the team in hitting his first year there. Collins batted a robust .411 and led the team in stolen bases with 20. He also has the least amount of errors on the team. This past season Collins had a .340 batting average and increased his stolen base total to 29 — tops on the team.

While at Iowa, Collins has learned to switch hit. He felt that would improve his chances in making it to the big leagues someday.

"I want to be able to play major league baseball," said the former Prestonsburg Blackcat. "And most teams are looking for infielders that can go both ways. In fact, I think I can hit better lefthanded." Collins played shortstop on the Iowa team.

Last season Collins was part of the Paintsville Big League team that went all the way to Georgia. Collins credits the program for helping him to be seen by college coaches.

"It's a good program," said

Collins. "I played over there for two years. They have a strong program this year and they could win the state again."

Hardin-Simmons is a private university where Doc Stringfellow, former Georgetown coach, handles the team.

"Coach Stringfellow saw me play while I was at Iowa and offered me a scholarship," explained Collins. "He told me that he was satisfied with what he saw and told me just to be in Abilene next year."

Collins will be making his first trip to the Texas school when he will fly down to be an instructor in Coach Stringfellow's baseball camp.

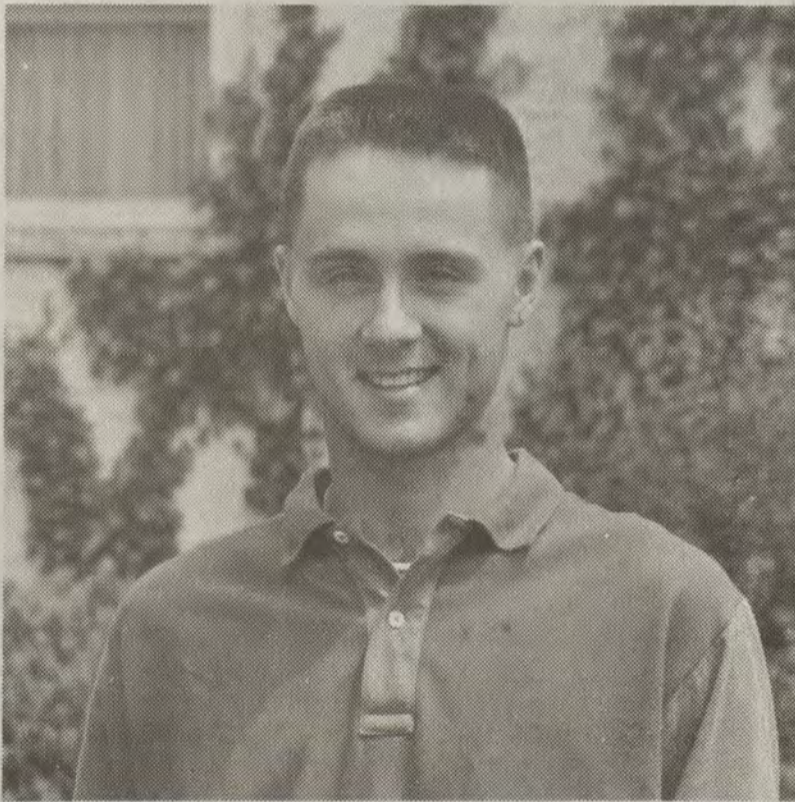

"He knew that I liked helping young kids and invited me down to help with his camp," said Collins. Collins said the camp was set for July 19 through July 25.

"He also wanted me to come down and get used to the area and see the school," stated Collins. Collins is majoring in physical therapy and has inspirations to play major league baseball.

"There are a lot of major league scouts down there," he commented. "And if I can't play professional baseball, then I would like to coach somewhere. I like helping kids."

Ousley's homers power Rangers to 13-3 win over Prestonsburg Braves

Shawn Ousley did it all! It was all his show at Archer Park last Saturday as the Prestonsburg Rangers and Prestonsburg Braves met for a make-up game. Perhaps from the Braves standpoint this one shouldn't have been made up.

Ousley just took over the game offensively. All he did was drill two home runs, one a grand slam, doubled and drove in 10 of his team's 13 runs. Ousley started on the mound for the Rangers and worked the first three before being relieved by Drew Brown. Brown got the win for the Rangers going the final three. Ousley had three strike outs and he issued four walks. Brown fanned two and walk three.

Dustin Robinson suffered the setback, losing the game in relief of starter Mike Hall. Hall went the first three with Robinson coming on to pitch the fourth. Robinson only had one strike out and he gave up eight walks. Hall struck out five, walked two and hit one batter.

Ousley accounted for the three runs the Rangers scored in the third inning. With his team trailing 2-0, Ousley deposited the baseball over the rightfield fence for a three-run home run that gave the lead to the Rangers 3-2.

An inning later, Ousley strolled to the plate with the bases jammed with Rangers and parked a pitch over the leftfield fence for a grand slam home run and a 7-2 Ranger lead.

But Ousley wasn't through — neither were the Rangers. In the sixth inning, Ousley came to the plate and found the bases loaded again. This time he cleared the base paths with a three-run double. Three more runs walked in for the Rangers in the inning.

The Braves scored first in the second inning on a double by Dustin Robinson. Luke Luster walked and when he attempted to steal second, Robinson scored on the throw to second base.

Hall walked in the third inning and scored on an error to give the Braves a 2-0 lead. The Braves scored their final run in the fifth when Gavin

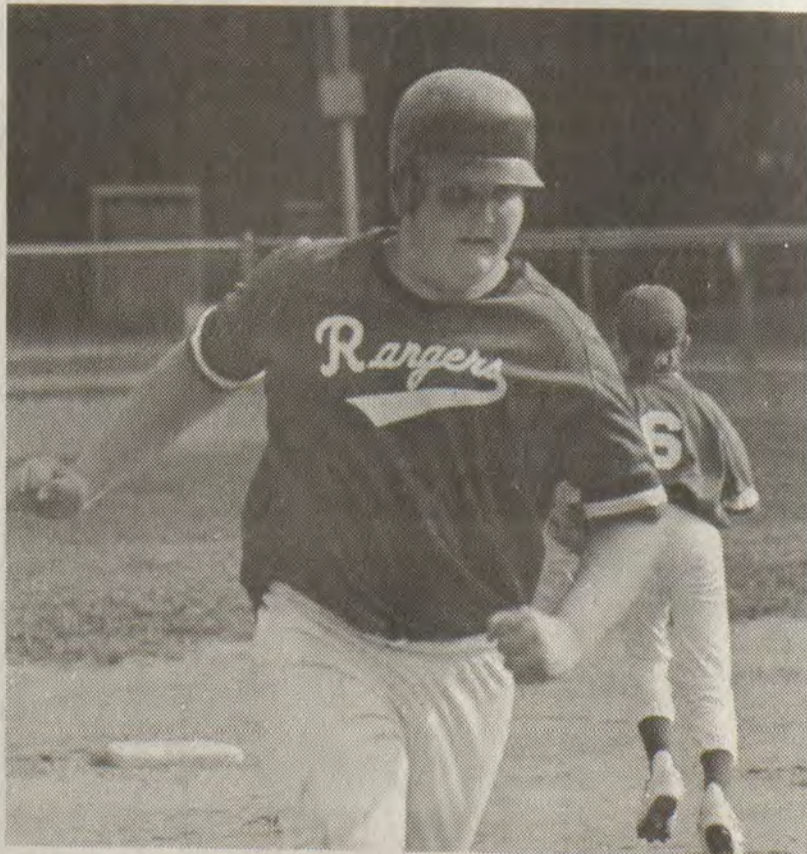

Hale singled and scored on Mark Stanley's double.

Mike Pack " packs" hot bat in Cubs 14-8 win

It's rare to see a Little League player not only star at the plate but on the mound, also. But lately that seems to be the case and it was no different for the Garrett Cubs' Michael Pack.

Pack took to the mound for the Cubs in a big Little League matchup in the Beaver Creek Little League game against a hard-hitting Martin Reds team. Pack went the distance for the Cubs in posting a 14-8 win to stay close to the top spot of the league standings. Pack also collected three hits in the game and had four RBIs.

The win gave the Cubs a 12-2 record. They have only lost once in the North Division of the Beaver Creek League and remain tied for the top spot. Several important games are scheduled for this weekend and the coming week that may help unscramble the log jam at the top between the Pirates, Cardinals and Cubs.

Jackie Owens started for the Cubs on the hill but after facing just two batters — in which he walked both — he complained about a sore arm and was replaced with Patton.

Patton then fanned 10 batters and walked four in going the full six innings. B.J. Caudill suffered the setback for the Reds. Caudill also went all the way for the Reds with seven strike outs but he struggled big time in walking 15 batters.

The Cubs scored seven times in the fourth inning to erase a 4-2 Reds lead. Caudill issued back-to-back walks to John Goble and Barry Conley before hitting Matt Moore with a pitch to load the bases with one out. Caudill then walked Nathan Goble to force in John Goble with a run to make it a 4-3 game. The tying and go-ahead runs scored on a two-run single by Matt Howard that gave the Cubs a 5-4 lead. With two out, Johnny Case singled home a run and Pack tripled the final two home for a 9-4 game.

Garrett plated five runs in the top of the sixth inning when 11 batters went to the plate. Moore, Wesley Vanderpool and Howard walked loading the bases for Mike Combs.

Combs singled driving in Moore and Vanderpool. Howard scored on a base hit by Case and Pack got his third hit of the game sending Combs home. Case scored the fifth run of the inning when John Goble walked with the bases loaded.

Martin took a 3-1 lead in the first inning when Owens walked the first two batters before leaving the mound. Damion and Nick Stumbo were the recipients of the walks and Damion scored on Sam Bentley's RBI single. Stumbo and Bentley made it 3-0 when they crossed home plate on Todd Howards' two-run double.

The Cubs had scored first in the first inning on a two-out walk to Pack who stole all the way around and scored to make it a 1-0 game.

Martin added a fourth run in the bottom of the second inning. Ethan Martin singled to lead off the inning and Goodman drew a walk. Goodman later scored on a fielder's choice play. Reds led 4-1.

The Cubs tallied a run in the top of the third on a walk to Combs and Pack's run-producing double.

Martin rallied for four in the bottom of the sixth as they tried to come back. Todd Howard had a one-out single and Caudill followed suit. Howard scored on Martin's RBI single. Goodman walked to load the bases for Hagans who drew a walk forcing home Caudill.

Jessie Hall then delivered a base hit that scored Martin and left the bases loaded. Pack nailed the next batter with a pitch forcing home Goodman as the rally continued. Brent Slone worked Pack for a walk and the fourth run in the person of Hagans scored. Pack then retired the next two batters to end the comeback attempt.

Roberts "bridesmaid" in Warfield Liberty Run

"I was a bridesmaid again," said Van Lear's Rick Roberts of his finish in the fifth annual Warfield two-and-a-half mile Liberty Run this past weekend at Warfield.

Martin Bess broke the old record that he set last year and placed first ahead of Roberts. Bess recorded time was 13:30 bettering last year's time of 13:60. Roberts' time of 13:41 was good for second place as he finished for the second consecutive race and fourth time in the runner-up spot.

"I have had five first place finishes, four second place and a sixth out of the 11 races that I have ran this year," explained the veteran runner. "I feel I have had a good season so far."

Paintsville's Garry McKenzie

placed eighth overall with a time of 16:39 which was also good for first place in the 40-49 age group. Tim Goble of Staffordsville was 13th overall at 17:07 and placed first in the 21-30 age group.

Sixteenth-place went to Paintsville's Kennis DeBoard with a 17:34 time and he placed third in the 40-49 age group.

Roberts and other local runners will be taking part in Ashland's Mall Run this Saturday. The race will feature Bill Rogers, four-time winner of the prestigious Boston Marathon. Roberts placed sixth out of 228 entrants last year in the Mall Run, which will feature runners from seven states. Over 500 entrants are expected this year.

Cablevision announces Olympic triplecast

Prestonsburg Cablevision recently announced that they will provide, free of charge, special expanded coverage of the 1992 Summer Olympic Games from Barcelona, Spain, July 26 through August 9. It's an opportunity for every resident of the community to follow American athletes and share the thrill of competition as never before.

This event, known as the NBC Olympics TripleCast, will provide three channels of Olympic coverage and will be hosted by Cablevision and Mike's B&W TV. The Olympics TripleCast offers expanded Olympic coverage which is in addition to NBC's regular scheduled broadcast.

The TripleCast is open to the public and you are invited to visit Mike's B&W TV located at 579 North Lake Drive, from 9 a.m. until 11 p.m. during the 15-day period, to take advantage of this commercial free coverage. Prestonsburg Cablevision will have staff on hand to answer any questions about the program.

Dan Perry, general manager of Prestonsburg Cablevision explained: "Although the TripleCast is technically a pay-per-view event, we feel that NBC's steep retail price of $125 per subscriber to receive this event is prohibitive. By providing this event to all members of the community, those individuals who would not have been able to subscribe to this unique coverage will now be able to enjoy it to its full capacity."

"As a sign of our ongoing commitment," continued Perry, "to provide quality entertainment to our community, as well as to show our support of the U.S. Olympic team, we feel it is our responsibility to offer this special event to cable and non-cable customers, free of charge, at this convenient location."

As the world's first cablecast of its kind, the NBC Olympics TripleCast will be delivered on three channels concurrently, throughout the Summer Olympics. It will feature over 500 hours of original programming and 1080 hours of total television

Powerlifting returns as 26 lifters compete in Bench Press Contest

Powerlifting for many local lifters, both experienced and novice, took place recently at the Top Dog Gym here in Prestonsburg as 26 contestants from around the area participated in the event.

Top Dog Gym hosted the first annual powerlifting outing and they came as far as away as Ashland and Virginia.

The 26 lifters showed up to compete in the bench press event which was not a sanctioned powerlifting meet but did abide by all of the rules of the United States Powerlifting Federation (USPF) except for clothing. The USPF has been the foremost governing body for powerlifting in the world. The Kentucky state chairman for the USPF, Don Fields of Prestonsburg, also took part in the meet. The meet was sponsored by Pro-Fitness, John R. McKinney, operator of Top Dog Gym.

Fields comes with a pretty impressive record in body building and powerlifting. He has been in personal fitness training since 1984 having competed for the past 12 years.

Fields operates his own body building gym in Prestonsburg where he gives personal training instead of taking on groups.

"We use a video camera and they can see their mistakes and it helps them to learn," explained Fields, who said he will train anyone who wants to work at it.

The judges for the contest were David Willett of Pikeville, a Kentucky state certified referee for the USPF, Charles May of Hindman and Clinton Hurley of Pikeville, both state record holders in the sport of powerlifting.

The men's teenage division was divided into age groups of 16-17 and 18-19 year old competitors and judged by body weight formula to determine who was the strongest, pound for pound.

In the 16-17 age group, Otis Steele of Ashland pressed 285 for first, followed by John Collins of Weeksbury and Shawn Adams of Norton, Virginia.

Other finishers included Marty Baker of Whitesburg, fourth; Donald Ferrell of Freeburn, fifth; and Sean Ratliff of Varney, sixth.

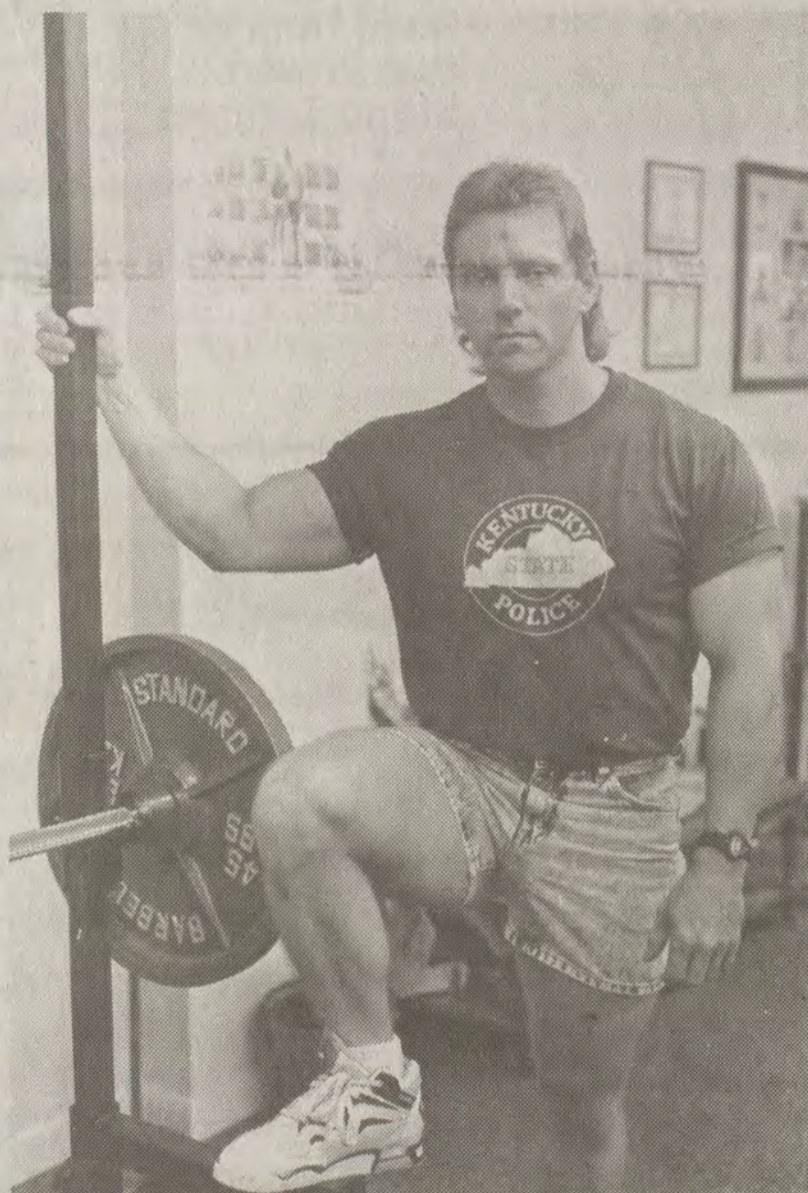

Brock Mutter won the 18-19 year old age group by nearly a hundred pounds with a press of 335 pounds. Mutter is from Coeburn, Virginia. Josh Hyden of Prestonsburg placed second in the event and H.D. Blackburn also of Prestonsburg was third.

Open classes for men and women are divided by weight groups and start with 97 and below for women, 114 and below for men. No women were present for the meet as were no men for the classes below 132 pounds.

The men's 148 pound class saw only one competitor with a very good performance of 300 pounds—Johnny Ray Harris. An experienced power-

The most hotly contested division was the 220-pound class with three closely-matched competitors. With a press of 370 pounds, Billy Sowards of Norton, Virginia took first place. Second place went to Bill Johnson of lifter from Prestonsburg, Harris was in contention for the most outstanding lifter of the day, benching more than twice his body weight.

In the 165 division, Adam Gross of Phelps tied with James Trusty of Salyersville. Both men weighed in at exactly 165 pounds and both pressed 250 pounds. In order to break the tie, both were reweighed after the meet and Gross was named the winner due to a slightly lower body weight.

The 181 class was won by Don Fields with a 350-pound press. Ray Carnes of Appalachia, Virginia placed second when he benched 315 pounds.

J.R. Rice of Ashland won the 198 division over Shawn Roop of Weeksbury with a 305-pound bench press.

Hazard and Steve Rowe of Pikeville was third with a press of 350 pounds.

A 400-pound bench press was finally reached in the 242-pound weight class by Eddie Crum, a Kentucky State Trooper, who formerly worked Floyd County but is now based in Pikeville. Crum is a native Pike Countian.

Jim Tom Allen, a very strong 20 year old from Prestonsburg, was second with a press of 370 pounds.

The most outstanding lifter of the day with a 475-pound press at a body weight of only 275 was Harve Mooney of Coeburn, Virginia. After making 455 look effortless on his opening attempt, Harve proceeded to bench 475 just about as easy before he stalled out on his third attempt player is to be successful, according to Collins.

"It's tough now," he said. "They even tell you when to eat. You have no free time. You have classes from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. Eat between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Practice from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and then it is study time."

Collins said that he would play between 45 and 50 games a season with the season divided up with spring and fall schedules.

Collins also knows to be successful requires a lot of hard work and that is something he is willing to do to succeed and he will with the continued help of one special person in his life — his dad.

Sprinkles Of Sports

CONTROVERSIAL BARKLEY HISTORY...The Philadelphia 76'ers finally unloaded a controversial Charles Barkley. Barkley has been a source of controversy over the past eight years he has played at Philadelphia. Now he will show his wares as a Phoenix Sun next season. The Suns had to give up three players for Barkley who has wanted to be traded the past two seasons.....FOUR GAME SERIES IS CRUCIAL...Contrary to what each team is saying, the four game series between the Cincinnati Reds (first place) and Atlanta Braves (second place) is important. It is almost all-star time (July 14) and if you remember last year the Reds were leading the National League West two weeks before the classic and faltered before the break and lost the lead. The Reds never did recover from the slump. Now, the Reds are leading by 3 1/2 games over the Braves and they surely do not want a repeat of last year. A split of the four would be acceptable. Three out of four would be fine but a sweep of the four would be out of this world. However, the Reds must avoid allowing the Braves, who are playing great baseball also, to take three or four games. The last time the two teams met the Reds swept them in three at Riverfront. But this is a different Atlanta team that is playing much better. The starting pitchers for the Reds (rated to be just as good as Atlanta's in preseason) versus the talented arms of the Braves. The Braves have hammered out 51 round trippers while the Reds are 20 behind with only 31 home runs.....KENTUCKY SCHEDULE LOOKS CUP CAKE AGAIN...Look at it! The Kentucky Wildcats basketball schedule for next season has been loaded again — with cup cake teams. Eastern Kentucky, Morehead State, Wright State, Rutgers. Come on!.....ALLEN'S TONY BRANHAM will be appearing in the upcoming Kentucky State Amateur Golf Championship this coming week. Branham is scheduled to tee off on Tuesday afternoon at 2:33 p.m. at the Kearney Hill Links in Lexington.....SHELDON CLARK'S ROBIN HARMON-NEWSOME, who had guided the Sheldon Clark Lady Cardinals to two consecutive state tournament appearances, will be inducted into the Kentucky High School Hall of Fame this Saturday night at the Kentucky/Indiana All-Star game in Louisville. Robin played for the Lady Cardinals and later took her talents to Morehead State University where she was an outstanding player..... CELEBRATE KENTUCKY'S FINEST at Churchill Downs for the finest crafts, food, music and horses at the fourth annual Kentucky Sampler, Saturday and Sunday, June 20 and 21. This year's Sampler will have a special bicentennial salute to Kentucky's 200th anniversary of statehood. The Sampler annually attracts the finest craftsmen and artists from every corner of the Bluegrass to display, demonstrate and sell the wares that represent the fabric of Kentucky's culture. Hand made pottery, jewelry, quilts, wood-crafts, dried floral arrangements and wearable art are among the wide variety of crafts exhibited. Gates open to the public at 11 a.m. Admission to the infield of Churchill Downs is FREE with the purchase of Grandstand General Admission: $1.50 for adults, 25 cents for senior citizens. Children 12 and under are admitted free when accompanied by an adult.....Until later!

A Look At Sports

BARRY HALL, HOLE-IN-ONE...

Barry Hall's wife Cheryl compared his recent hole-in-one at the Jenny Wiley Golf Course to the one she got in Ashland — on a Putt-Putt Course. When bearing the good news to her, Hall said his wife's comment was: "Isn't that like the one I got in Ashland." Way to go, Cheryl.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Are you listening Cheryl?!
