Sex charges against principal upgraded

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

While students at Wheelwright High School were preparing to stage a walkout Wednesday to show support for their principal, sexual abuse charges against the administrator were being upgraded Tuesday from misdemeanors to class D felonies.

Lewis "Spike" Berkheimer, 45, of Paintsville, was charged Tuesday with two counts of first degree sexual abuse for two incidents allegedly involving a 15-year-old student at Wheelwright High School. The charges were initially filed as misdemeanors.

Berkheimer's attorney, John David Caudill, said Tuesday that he was unaware of the specifics of the case and that his client would plead innocent at his arraignment scheduled for April 1 in Floyd District Court.

Caudill said the use of force was the only difference between the felony and misdemeanor charges, ac-ording to the law.

When asked if the alleged incident happened at the school between Berkheimer and a student, Caudill replied, "As I understand it, the alleged acts happened at the school. But, my client is denying that anything took place."

"I'm going to make a concerted effort not to try this case in the media," Caudill said. "This is a case that needs to be tried in court."

Caudill also said he was unaware of the specifics in a case involving Berkheimer and a juvenile in Ohio 17 years ago, but added that those past charges "had no bearing" on the recent charges.

Court records show that Berkheimer pleaded guilty in 1976 in Meigs County, Ohio to a charge of contributing to the unruliness of a minor and he was sentenced to six months in a Cincinnati workhouse. The Ohio case against Berkheimer does not indicate that charges were sexually related.

Berkheimer was awarded an early release from his six-month sentence in Ohio after indicating in a letter to his trial judge that he wished to continue work on a graduate degree at the University of Cincinnati and that the incident on which he was convicted was "part of my past and I fully intend to keep it that way."

Caudill added that Berkheimer signed a waiver to the Floyd County Board of Education for a criminal records check when he was hired at the beginning of the 1991-92 school year.

That background check apparently produced no record of Berkheimer's 1976 conviction because the case was handled in juvenile court.

The Wheelwright principal voluntarily surrendered himself to authorities Tuesday and was released from custody after posting bond.

In murder trial :

'Not guilty,' jury decides

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Pike County man was found not guilty by a Floyd County Jury Tuesday in the March 1991 shooting death of a Floyd County man.

Jurors deliberated just an hour and twenty minutes before returning a not guilty verdict for Ralph Gerald Newsome, 27, of Virgie. Newsome was charged with first degree murder in the March 9, 1991 shooting of Greg Perry of Printer. The two-day trial began one year to the date after the shooting.

Perry was shot one time in the head by Newsome, who claimed he acted in self-defense after the two men had become engaged in a fight at Perry's home.

Newsome testified that Perry, 28, had asked him to come to his home to discuss a disagreement about some work Perry had performed for Newsome. Perry was a self-employed contractor who performed some dozer work for Newsome.

The defendant said Perry refused "to finish the job" he had hired him to do and the two men began arguing. The argument escalated into a fist fight. Newsome said Perry had come toward him wielding a metal bar and he felt Perry would beat him with it.

"I was trying to get to my truck and get out of there," Newsome said. "I looked over my shoulder and saw him pick up the metal bar. I reached into my truck to get my gun, to scare him off, I turned and the gun went off. He was holding the metal bar over his head. I didn't mean to kill him, I just

Police accused of ignoring pleas :

Brutality allegations denied

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

A Prestonsburg police officer has denied the allegations made by his 18-year-old daughter in a civil suit filed February 28.

In the suit, Virginia Slone alleged that she was brutally beaten by her father, Anthony Castle, three years ago while Prestonsburg police officers ignored her pleas for help.

Castle, a deputy for former Sheriff Henry Hale at the time of the alleged incident, said the allegations are not true. "I feel like it's a personal vendetta between my ex-wife and Ned Pillersdorf against me."

The complaint alleges that the initial beating occurred in 1988 when Slone, then 15, was "discovered" at Archer Park by "several Prestonsburg City Police Officers" who called her father to the scene despite Slone's pleas that she would be beaten by Castle when he arrived.

The suit, filed by Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, contends that the police officers made no effort to intervene when Castle arrived and began beating his daughter; that officers did not report the alleged incident of child abuse; and they "indifferently ignored" Slone's pleas for assistance when Castle handcuffed her and took her home.

Slone contended that the physical assault continued after she was taken home and the suit further alleged that Castle has "continued his pattern of intimidation" during January and February of this year by "calling and making implied threats" to Slone and by "sending indirect threats" to her mother, Darla Bradley, "in an attempt to block the instigation of any legal proceedings."

Board gives go-ahead to planning for alternate site

The Floyd County Board of Education unanimously approved a recommendation from superintendent Ronald Hager Tuesday evening to proceed on developing one of four alternate sites proposed as the location of a new Prestonsburg High School.

Hager's site recommendation was part of a series of proposals to be made by the superintendent during Tuesday night's regular meeting of the board.

In the proposal, Hager recommended that the board vote to approve preparation of a site design for the new Prestonsburg High School on the "tentatively approved" property which was once the home of Prestonsburg's drive-in theater. Hager recommended that the board direct architect Randall Burchett to prepare the site plan under Burchett's existing contract with the board.

Preliminary plans for the new school call for the construction of a 97,000 square foot building.

The drive-in site is one of four locations recommended as alternates to a controversial site for the new high school located at Middle Creek, purchased by the board in 1990 for $400,000.

Annexation proposal is approved for ITW facility :

Council applies finishing touches

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

With little fanfare and only limited opposition, Prestonsburg's city council approved annexation measures Monday that set the stage for the start of parimutual wagering in Floyd County.

Council adopted four ordinances Monday that incorporate a section of Route 3 and the proposed site of an intertrack wagering (ITW) facility into the city limits, also authorizing the sale of liquor by the drink at the ITW development.

Councilman Charles Hale opposed the annexation proposals and abstained on the measure authorizing the sale of liquor by the drink without

The annexation measures adopted Monday come on the heels of a decision from the state Harness Racing Commission, issuing a racing license to Prestonsburg businessman Clyde Woods. Woods proposes to develop an intertrack wagering facility at his Center Stage nightclub, which is located on the property annexed Monday by council.

The only other property included in the annexation Monday is state right-of-way along Route 3, from Goble-Roberts Addition to the Center Stage site. No other private property owners are involved.

Council has, however, invited other residents at Bull Creek to join the annexation move, offering those property owners city sewer service at half the cost of extending lines if they agree to become part of the city.

Mayor Ann Latta said at least seven property owners had expressed interest in annexation and council gave first reading Monday to an ordinance bringing two of those residents into the city limits. Others may join the annexation before the ordinance is given final approval.

Other Bull Creek residents have proposed that the area incorporate itself as an alternative to becoming part of Prestonsburg and a public meeting on the proposal is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday, March 14, at the New Hope Church at Bull Creek.

Questions about the annexation were few Monday, but councilman George Archer asked Woods to address a rumor that a live harness racing track would "never be built."

Woods responded that his license was dependent upon "substantial progress" being made on the construction of a racetrack.

"That means," Archer said, "if no progress is made (to build a track) then all bets are off—no pun intended."

The location of the track will not necessarily be the same as the intertrack wagering facility at Center Stage, and Mayor Ann Latta said

No, Floyd, there is no Madonna

Reports that star will tape here a 'hoax'

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Is she or is she ain't?

Apparently, she ain't.

Prestonsburg was abuzz Thursday with rumors that pop singer Madonna was coming to town for a two-week video session but by that evening the reports appeared to be more of an elaborate hoax than anything else.

The rumor mill shifted into high gear Thursday afternoon when a caller identifying himself as Dominique Ciccone told the Times that he was seeking a filming location in Prestonsburg for a two-week taping session for the singer.

Similar calls were apparently made to the offices of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, a local motel, and a variety of other local businesses.

The authenticity of the filming session came into question after Times reporters attempted to return a call to "Ciccone" at a New York telephone number he left after his initial call to the newspaper. That call produced a recording indicating the number was "no longer in service."

Officials with the Kentucky Film Commission also had no knowledge of any plans to film a video in

County treasurers will meet at park

Floyd County will play host to at least 92 Kentucky county treasurers and finance officers this week when the organization meets for its spring conference at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Floyd County treasurer Deloris Dingus said the local meeting is the first ever east of Lexington for the organization.

Featured speakers for the three-day meeting include Lt. Governor Paul Patton, State Auditor Ben Chandler, Secretary of State Bob Babbage, and State Representative Greg Stumbo.

The conference will begin Wednesday, March 11 and continue through Friday, March 13.

Arson suspected in blaze at Mountaineer Lounge

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

Arson is suspected in a Sunday morning fire at the Mountaineer Lounge in Auxier.

When firefighters arrived at the business, around 2 a.m., they smelled a strong odor of petroleum inside the building, said Howard Ferguson, Auxier Volunteer Fire Department chief. The fire, which was reported around 1:50 a.m., was contained to the back of the building, Ferguson said.

An air conditioner filled the building with smoke and firefighters had to cut a hole in the building to ventilate it. A small building at the back of the business was destroyed and a back wall of the lounge was damaged.

The incident is being investigated by Barry McKenzie, Kentucky State Police arson investigator. Prestonsburg firefighters also assisted at the fire.

Fire officials with the Martin Fire Department suspect arson in a fire on Buck's Branch Monday morning. The home, owned by Gwendolyn Sammons, was fully engulfed in flames when firefighters arrived on the scene around 3 a.m., said William Petry, assistant fire chief at Martin.

Due to lack of water, firefighters were unable to save the structure and concentrated their efforts on nearby homes of Curt Hughes and Ronnie Halbert. Petry said a fire hydrant located about 900 feet away from the fire provided "very little water pressure."

A car parked in the driveway was destroyed by the blaze but firefighters saved a vehicle parked behind it. The house was unoccupied at the time of the fire. A family who had been renting the home moved out late Sunday evening, Petry said.

Martin firefighters were assisted by the Maytown Fire Department.

In a separate incident, a fire Friday evening that destroyed an abandoned house on Beaver is being investigated by the Mud Creek Volunteer Fire Department. The house was "pretty well gone" by the time firefighters arrived on the scene, said Greg Frasure, assistant fire chief.

Firefighters battled the blaze from the outside because it was too far gone.

"With these old abandoned homes, it's not worth the risk to go inside. The risk is just too great," Frasure said, explaining that the best way to attack a fire is through a direct attack from the inside.

wanted to scare him."

Newsome also testified that after Perry was shot that he held his shirt to the wound in Perry's head and told him, "Hang on, we're going to get you some help."

Perry's widow, Kim Perry, testified Monday that her husband had dropped the metal bar before he was shot.

Kentucky State Police detective Les Stapleton testified that Newsome did not have any apparent abrasions or bruises on him when he examined him at the Floyd County Jail. Stapleton said Newsome's blood alcohol content was .03.

Defense attorney Ned Pillersdorf told the jury during closing arguments that Newsome was acting in self-defense and feared for his safety.

"I feel the worst thing a jury could do is send a man to the penitentiary for defending himself," Pillersdorf said. "He doesn't have to prove he is innocent, the government has to prove he is guilty. And, they have not done that."

Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton argued to the jury that Perry was murdered by Newsome while trying to defend his home.

"This was not an accident," Patton said. "I believe he held the pistol and bore down on him and fired because he was in a rage. You heard his widow testify that he had dropped the (metal) bar. When he pulled the gun it changed from a fist fight to murder."

The jury was began its deliberations at 3:40 p.m. and returned the not guilty verdict at 5 p.m.

Council

Monday that an engineering study was being conducted on city-owned property at Cliffside to determine if that site could accommodate the track and, possibly a facility to house the Kentucky Opry.

In other business Monday, council gave first reading to an ordinance setting new minimum rates for city occupational tax license fees. Those fees are deductible from annual tax payments and the increases, Mayor Latta said, "do not represent a tax increase." The new fee schedule becomes effective on second and final reading.

A tax increase was proposed, however, by councilman Jerry Fannin, who asked that the city attorney prepare an ordinance raising the city's two-cent restaurant tax to three cents, the maximum allowed by law.

Revenues from the restaurant tax are restricted for use on tourism related projects, and Fannin said the additional funds could help move the Kentucky Opry project along.

A draft ordinance on Fannin's proposal will presumably be reviewed at the next council session. Any change in current tax rates will require two readings by the council.

Also Monday, council: - gave final approval to an ordinance establishing procedures for the fire department's response to calls involving hazardous materials;

- adopted standard operating procedure policies concerning the fire department;

- advised that final details of an employee pay scale would be presented at the next council session;

Prestonsburg.

"Ciccone" had indicated in his first call that Archer Park in Prestonsburg would be the site of the filming session, but park director Ralph Little said he had not received any calls or requests for use of the park.

Ciccone apparently made another call to Prestonsburg Thursday, indicating plans for the video had been cancelled because he had received no cooperation from local people.

Little said Monday night during the regular meeting of Prestonsburg's City Council that the issue had "gotten out of hand" and that he had "been accused of causing Madonna's visit to Prestonsburg to be cancelled."

"I did not tell Madonna she couldn't come to Prestonsburg," Little said Monday. "I didn't know anything about this until the newspaper called me to ask if I had been contacted. This is nothing but a hoax."

That contention was supported by yet another call Thursday from "Ciccone," who told the Times that the country music duet known as the Judds would replace Madonna as the stars of the video. The Judds, a mother-daughter duet from Ashland, are no longer performing together.

"Ciccone" had indicated that filming of the video would begin in Prestonsburg on Monday, March 9. Madonna was a no-show.

- discussed the possible renovation of the Prestonsburg Elementary School auditorium to provide a temporary home for the Kentucky Opry; and

- reviewed a proposal to change parking on Court Street to allow for the creation of 22 additional spaces.

Before adjourning, council retired to executive session to "discuss litigation." No action was reported out of the closed session.

All members were present for the March 9 meeting. The next meeting of council is set for 6 p.m. March 23 at the city municipal building.

The City of Prestonsburg, Prestonsburg Police officer Ricky Conn, and five unknown Prestonsburg Police officers are also named in the suit. "I think it's a shame that they'd bring the Prestonsburg Police Department into this personal vendetta between my ex-wife and Pillersdorf against me," said Castle.

Prestonsburg City attorney Larry Brown, said Thursday that he could not comment on the allegations made in the suit but that he was upset about the serving of the lawsuit.

"Tony Turner (WYMT-TV anchorman) called me and asked me about the case before the city was served with it. Leaking a case to the television station before the city was served with it is not proper procedure."

"It appears that this case is being tried in the press instead of the courtroom," said Brown.

The suit seeks a trial by jury, punitive damages against all defendants except the City of Prestonsburg, and compensatory damages for "extreme pain and physical suffering and injuries."

City police officials have declined comment on the case.

Ten Free Colorado Blue Spruces

Ten free Colorado blue spruce trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during March 1992.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

"Colorado blue spruces were selected for this campaign because of their many uses in the home landscape," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "They lend beauty to their surroundings with their silver blue-green color and compact conical shape. They can be used as individual ornamental, an energy-saving windbreak, a privacy screen, or as living Christmas trees."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between April 1 and May 31 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to TEN BLUE SPRUCES, National

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

We don't mind admitting that we get a little misty-eyed when the band plays "My Old Kentucky Home" at UK games.

Don't know why the song has such an effect, it's not all that awe-inspiring and most of us don't even know all the lyrics.

Perhaps the reverence we show the tune comes from the fact that for the brief time it plays we are all Kentuckians...not Eastern Kentuckians, not Central Kentuckians, not Western Kentuckians...just Kentuckians. Damn proud of it, too.

If pride is a sin, we're guilty.

If Hell is the penalty, we'll have a lot of company. And you can bet that somewhere among the fire and brimstone there will be a group of Kentuckians singing "one last song for my Old Kentucky Home, for my Old Kentucky Home, far away..."

Nothing like a shot of reality to make you wonder what Kentuckians are so proud of.

The deadline has passed for the filing of new bills in Kentucky's General Assembly and, at last count, there were more than a thousand of them. Most won't make it beyond File 13.

Here are some things to think about, courtesy of our fearless leaders in Frankfort:

-The legislature is willing to give the right to control the import of out-of-state garbage and the development of landfills to the same people who put campaign posters and stickers on every tree, pole and road sign within public view and leave them there until they are recycled by Mother Nature. These are the same people, by the way, who do nothing to enforce state or local litter laws.

-The legislature proposed allowing 15-year-olds the right to drive, but said nothing about the fact that many are still functionally illiterate when they graduate, yes graduate, from high school.

-A state legislator has proposed a law that would require newspaper editorial writers to sign their names on all opinions they publish, but no law was proposed that would require many elected officials to be able to sign their own names in order to be qualified for office.

Stay tuned, there's more to come...

Mo' better players.

Movie director Spike Lee said in Lexington this week that college athletes ought to share in the revenues they bring into their respective colleges.

They ought to be paid to play. Wrong.

College athletes are already paid to play. They get a free education.

The good ones earn big bucks in the pros. Nowadays even the average ones earn more than they're worth.

If you want to put the revenues from college athletics to the best use, spend them on scholarships for regular kids...those who can't dribble or pass but who deserve the chance for an education and a future.

Average folks, after all, are the people who become fans.

Without fans, who needs athletes?

Shucks.

Looks like Madonna, MTV's "Material Girl," isn't coming to town after all.

Neither are the Judds, the Beatles or Elvis.

Somebody had a good time pulling our leg last week, calling the paper and advising us that Madonna would be filming a musical video at Prestonsburg's Archer Park and, we have to admit, they had us going for a while.

We weren't the only ones sucked into the hoax, which had an air of legitimacy in some of the information provided by whom-ever the jokester really was.

Never give a sucker an even break.

WANT MORE TOXIC CHEMICALS IN YOUR ENVIRONMENT?

House Bill 540 is a bill pending in the Kentucky House of Representatives that proposes to amend the state's "superfund" law — the law that deals with the reporting of spills of toxic chemicals; the cleanup of hazardous spills and of old or abandoned dumpsites or toxic spill sites. This bill would leave out many harmful chemicals, including two hundred that have been identified by Congress and the U.S. EPA as "extremely hazardous substances" but which are not on the CERCLA list. House Bill 540 would set "action levels." Levels of contamination below these action levels would be perfectly legal, no matter where they were found or who might be exposed to the remaining chemicals. These action levels would allow for people to be exposed, unknowingly and without their consent to levels of carcinogens that would equal a one in a million additional cancer risks. The action levels do not consider environmental effects, like effects on fish and wildlife at all. House Bill 540 would place a burden on the Cabinet to set those action levels, and to find the contamination. HB 540 requires the Cabinet to use the complicated and uncertain "science" of risk assessment to set those action levels. HB 540 removes any incentive for companies to avoid spilling small amounts of their wastes over large areas of land. HB 540 would greatly reduce the level of protection from exposure to hazardous chemicals from old dumpsites and spill areas. Intentional exposure of people to increased risk of illness and injury without their knowledge and informed consent is, by definition, "unreasonable" risk, in our view.

As bad as these risk-based cleanup standards appear, the bill gets worse. Any level of contamination allowed to remain in the environment, in any federal document, including statutes' regulations, policies, guidelines, and consent decrees will be "deemed protective" of health and the environment. Finally, these cleanup standards, weak as they are, need only be achieved in soil where there will be exposure through direct contact. EPA has allowed companies to remove only the top 12 inches of contaminated dirt and replace it with clean, leaving deeper contamination which would be exposed through erosion or excavation, and which, or course, can continue to leach contaminants to groundwater. This is the scenario this bill embraces. HB 540 strips the state of the ability to act quickly to require spills to be cleaned up. Under current law, the maximum penalty for failing to report or clean up a hazardous release or spill is $25,000.00. This bill reduces the penalty to a maximum of $1,000.00. This would be the maximum penalty that could be imposed for a failure to report toxic spills and releases that endanger the lives, health, and property of people in the vicinity. A penalty with the potential to serve as an effective deterrent under current law would be reduced to a level that could easily be carried as a cost of doing business for companies — an invitation to the unscrupulous to risk unlikely discovery and a weak penalty, rather than report a spill that might give rise to expensive cleanup obligations.

Lets keep Floyd County clean. Call Rep. Gregory Stumbo at (800) 372-7181 and ask him to withdraw his sponsorship of House Bill 540.

Editor:

As a concerned citizen of Floyd County, I want to thank the Cow Creek Fire Department for a job very well done in saving homes and trailers on Rt. 1428. They were on the scene within 10 to 15 minutes after they were called. We, the people in their area, need to get behind them and support them and give credit where it is deserved. We need not give credit to the Forestry Division for a job they did not do.

The Forestry Division was called three times and did not respond to the call until four hours later, after the Cow Creek Fire Department had put out the rapidly spreading flames. If the Forestry Division had responded when called, before the flames came so near to peoples' homes, the fire department would not have had to respond. If you think this is not true, simply ask the people whose homes came close to being consumed by the flames. You can't send a group of teenagers out to fight a fire without a leader with them and expect the job to be accomplished, while their leader sits in a truck and waits for them.

We, the citizens of Floyd County need to wake up and see where our tax dollars are being spent. I think the governor needs to be made aware of a few things instead of it always being who you know and who you are. I am like H. Ross Perot, we are not working for them, they are working for us.

I believe it is time for the people of Eastern Kentucky to wake up.

National Agriculture Week is celebrated March 15-21. Yet for many Americans raised in the city, agriculture is as mysterious as a college-level course in trigonometry. Some consumers, for example, may forget that the food on their tables originated on a farm long before it got to the grocery store.

Today's farmers are masters of technology, applying their skills to build the most productive agricultural system in the world, using many of the same principles this country used to become a world leader: a determination and willingness to continually develop new practices and products and spirit of community cooperation. Yet they still have the same basic qualities as they did a century ago, including a love, understanding and respect for animals and nature.

Kentucky still has one of this nation's strongest ties to agriculture. We have 91,000 farms, ranking us fourth nationally and making us a stronghold of the family farm — the seedbed of the values of cooperation, ingenuity, and family life that are as much products of farming as are crops and livestock. These farms are the producers and maintainers of many of our historical traditions, as evidenced by over 700 submitted nominations for the Bicentennial Heritage Farm Program.

These values spread their roots throughout the state of Kentucky into the hundreds of small communities which evolved throughout our 200-year history to serve and be served by farmers. In our large urban areas, the influence of agriculture is ever present in the number of companies in the food distribution chain who take the crops and livestock produced on our farms and transform them into food ready for our tables. The importance of agriculture to Kentucky is reflected in the fact that one in four jobs in this state is related to raising, transporting, or manufacturing agricultural products.

As we celebrate National Agriculture Week, the old-fashioned grit and determination of our farmer is still very much alive. While our agriculture system is the envy of the world, American farmers are not resting on their laurels. They are constantly improving their practices that bring safe, nutritious and reasonably-priced food to consumers' tables in our country and abroad. When all is said and done, the American farm is really America, and that should certainly be no mystery.

Legislative Perspective

By Rep. Greg Stumbo

Cost factors of the state budget such as state employee pay raises, a road bond sale, education reform funding and solid waste funding are causing members of budget review subcommittees to look at increased fees within some state agencies. Other agencies may receive budget cuts as these panels move toward finalizing the Commonwealth's spending plan for the next two years. Next week is the deadline for bill requests. After that it will be a matter of moving bills through the process for House and Senate approval, most important among them being the biennial budget.

While the budget process is in full swing, legislation without fiscal impact is being passed by members of the House. Two bills that are intended to provide the public more access to government meetings and records were approved. House Bill 16 amends the state's open-meetings law, making it illegal for members of a public board or commission to negotiate in small groups to avoid a quorum.

If this bill is approved in the Senate, open records would allow copies of documents to be requested and obtained by mail. Currently, anyone requesting public records must apply in person.

The bills allow those who have been denied access to public records an appeal process through the Attorney General's Office and through the local circuit court.

We also passed legislation that would make it illegal to fly a plane while intoxicated. The bill would allow police officers to take into custody crew members suspected of drinking and administer breathalyzer tests.

There is an effort afoot to remove the remaining powers of the state superintendent of public instruction. The measure has already been passed by the Senate with an emergency clause that would abolish the requirement that the superintendent sign lease agreements exceeding $100,000 and would remove him from several state boards.

Pike Countians crowded into the meeting of the House Committee on Natural Resources to make public their support of House Bill 472 that allows local governments the final word on the sort of waste disposal systems that can be allowed to operate in their area.

Please contact me at 1-800-372-7181 on these bills or any others that are pending before the 1992 General Assembly.

Other Voices

Thomas M. Orf

March 17, St. Patrick's Day will soon be upon us and for many Americans it is the time for celebration, wearing green, getting involved in festivities or just enjoying their day to be Irish. During this day, however, please remember that not everyone in the Emerald Isle will be celebrating. There is still violence, terrorism, bigotry and other hardships going on today in Ireland's neighbor to the northeast, Northern Ireland.

The problem of Northern Ireland stems from the fact that the poorer Catholics and Protestants who live there do not have equal representation when it comes to politics, jobs, and other economic development in the country. Catholics make up roughly 33% of the population of Northern Ireland and have been severely discriminated against by the majority Protestant. Some Catholics feel that the best way to eliminate the problem of discrimination is to unify Northern Ireland with the Republic of Ireland creating a larger Catholic majority (the population of the Republic of Ireland is over 95% Roman Catholic). The Protestants in Northern Ireland definitely do not want to see this happen thinking that they will be discriminated against within the new Irish society. Since 1969, protest, violence, terrorism and pure hatred have occurred mainly from Catholics wanting unification with Ireland or just equal representation and from Protestants proud of their heritage wanting to keep things the way they are. Groups involved in this activity include the IRA (Irish Republican Army) wanting reunification with Ireland, the UDA (Ulster Defense Association) wanting to make sure that the Protestants are vocal and to keep the IRA in check, the military, and the police. Even regular citizens get involved trying to get their point across in the form of peaceful protest and governmental interaction.

Examples of the type of activity occurring in Northern Ireland include the following:

- 1) Belfast—9/2/75—IRA member shot and killed a 6-year-old girl after missing her parents
- 2) Belfast—5/25/71—Protestant terrorist threw a bomb into a police station in the Catholic part of town in which one soldier died and 20 people were injured.
- 3) Bangor—4/4/83—A man was slain and his wife injured in an attack by IRA gunman. IRA admits later on that the killing was a mistake.
- 4) Lame—10-27-82—A Catholic man has his hand cut off with a hacksaw by Protestant terrorists.
- 5) Belfast—10-21-81—British troops wounded a 14-year-old girl and a 16-year-old boy while shooting at a car.

These five incidents are just examples of thousands of similar incidents that have occurred and are still occurring in Northern Ireland today. The problem in Northern Ireland will not be eliminated until equal representation is given and the two sides are integrated with one another.

So when you are enjoying St. Patrick's day, please remember that not all of the Emerald Isle is in a peaceful coexistence and there are hardships which need to be solved.

Fifth graders get required shot in the arm

In a joint effort by the Floyd County Health Department and the Floyd County Board of Education, Floyd County fifth graders are receiving their measles, mumps, and rubella (MMR) shots and a physical. Both are required before students can enter the sixth grade next fall.

Nurses from the Floyd County Health Department and personnel from the Floyd County Board of Education are scheduling appointments at each school in the county. Tuesday, they visited Auxier Elementary where they administered shots and gave physicals to approximately 15 out of 19 fifth grade students enrolled there. Nurses also administered a hemoglobin test.

On hand to witness the initiation of the joint effort was Terry Vance with the Kentucky Department of Education. Ms. Vance expressed enthusiasm about the program, telling students as the shots were administered that the prevention hurt less than the disease.

Before the nurses make their visits to the schools, a preliminary is done by staff at the Floyd County Board of Education. The preliminary includes the student's medical and dietary history, height and weight measurements, blood pressures, urinalysis, hearing and vision exams, said Jennifer Martin, health nurse at the board. Extra personnel has been hired by the board to assist with the preliminary examinations, Martin said.

When the MMR shot and the examination is administered, parents must be on hand so appointments are made in order for the nurses to schedule the time allowed at the school. Parents should call the school secretary for appointment date and time as soon as possible.

Scheduled for Wednesday, today, is Prater, where approximately ten students will participate. Allen Elementary is scheduled for Thursday where 31 out of 45 students will be inoculated.

PCC instructor to author chapter

LaurieAnn Y. Drogin

LaurieAnn Y. Drogin, instructor of Psychology at Prestonsburg Community College, has been contacted by the American Psychological Association to author a chapter in The Impulsive Client.

Ms. Drogin was quite active in Jefferson County psychological circles before coming to Prestonsburg. She was even consulted on disability evaluations for Jefferson County District Court.

In March, Drogin will be attending the South Eastern Psychological Association conference in Knoxville.

Floyd seniors may apply for local scholarship fund

Graduating Floyd County high school students who plan to attend a college, university, of vocational school next year are encouraged to try for a Christian Appalachian Project Community Service Scholarship.

Recipients of this scholarship are chosen for their participation in service activities and organization in their communities. Financial need and academic achievement are secondary considerations.

Students who have worked on projects to improve the quality of life in their community through organizations such as church, chamber of commerce, scouts, Kiwanis; or as a regular volunteer in hospitals, literacy programs, or nursing homes; or on projects to help improve their school or community through school organizations.

Scholarships of $375 to $1,000 will be awarded to seniors in 29 eastern Kentucky counties. In Floyd County, either three awards of $500 each or two awards of $750 each will be given.

Graduating seniors are encouraged to contact their school counselors for applications and more information by mid-March of this year, or you can contact Rose Price, Christian Appalachian Project, P.O. Box 1119, Martin, KY 41649; 285-5111.

ACHS homemakers hold Valentine Tea at monthly meeting

February 9-15th was National F.H.A./HERO week, and members of the ACHS Chapter of Future Homemakers of America celebrated the week with a Valentine Tea and various other activities.

The tea was held February 10th with 55 members in attendance. Cake, chips, cookies, punch, and valentine candy was served to all members during the meeting. The business session of the meeting was devoted to the discussion of the upcoming Regional meeting, the State F.H.A. meeting in Louisville, regional officer candidate selection, and the sale of F.H.A. shirts. The merit system award for the most active member was presented to Melissa Corbett. She received a bouquet of red roses.

February 11th was slated as Teacher Appreciation Day. This activity was held to show student appreciation for faculty and staff support of the organization. Red and white carnations were presented to each faculty and staff member.

Student members of F.H.A. were honored on February 12th. Each member received a red silk rose for their active participation in club activities and projects.

The week ended with members donning their red and white colors to show their pride in the F.H.A. Chapter at Allen Central High School.

The Job Corps is a national employment and training program administered by the U.S. Labor Department that is designed to serve severely disadvantaged youth through the ages of 16 and 21. Q: I had a hysterectomy several years ago. Do I still need to have a Pap test?

A: The need for a Pap test following a hysterectomy depends on the reasons for the surgery and the type of procedure done. Regular Pap tests are needed if your hysterectomy was a treatment for cancer, or if you had a partial hysterectomy and your cervix was not removed. If your uterus and cervix were both removed (a total hysterectomy), you need to have regular pelvic exams. Your doctor or nurse may recommend a Pap test every 3 to 5 years.

Q: Do some kinds of cancer run in families? My brother and his son both have colon cancer.

A: Some families do have a greater risk for certain cancers. Colon and breast cancers are the most common types. Most hereditary cancers also must be triggered by something in a person's environment or lifestyle, such as the use of tobacco, radiation, air pollution, viruses or diet.

Since several members of your family have colon cancer, you may have a greater risk for getting this disease. But you can help yourself by doing these things:

* Tell your doctor about the colon cancer in your family. Your doctor can check your colon and remove any growths (called polyps) in the colon. These polyps can become cancerous if they are not removed.

* Eat foods that are high in fiber and low in fat. Foods such as fruits, vegetables, whole grain breads and cereals help protect the body from colon cancer and other cancers. For information about how to improve your diet, call 1-800-4-CANCER.

Thousands will rally to support education reform

by Lois Weinberg
Chair, Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence

Thousands of people who truly believe that Kentucky's children can enjoy and benefit from the lifelong advantages of a quality education are going to rally together on Saturday, March 14.

The education supporters are going to gather in auditoriums and gyms and halls all across the Commonwealth to give a big "Thumbs Up" sign of support for the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). They will be saying that they are on board for the long haul to full implementation of KERA.

Why are these citizens taking time away from jobs and families and leisure time to do this? Some of them are retired and their children are grown. Some of them have no children to be educated. Why would these people rally for education reform?

It's because they know that this state has taken a giant step forward by passing KERA. They know that KERA has turned the national education spotlight on Kentucky—we're out in front for a change, on the cutting edge of education in America, because the passage of KERA was a start, not a finish.

It's because they understand that education reform is crucial to the economy of this state, that it becomes more important every day as business becomes more and more sophisticated. The employee of today, and especially for tomorrow, must be able to learn and be trained and retrained and retrained again as technology advances. Our children must learn to think and create.

Please help us thank and encourage those in the General Assembly and all across the Commonwealth who have worked so hard to get us this far. They have put the machinery in place to power our education system to excellence. It's up to us now to make sure this wonderful machine doesn't run out of gas before our goals are reached.

I hope you, too, are one of those forward-looking individuals who will join with your neighbors on March 14 to give a Thumbs Up for Kentucky school reform.

Call the Partnership for Kentucky School Reform office at 1-800-928-2100 for the location of the March 14 rally in your area. Plan to be there. Plan to give a big thumbs up for education reform and Kentucky's kids.

It's the least we can do.

Garden seed program begins March 16-20

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. announces its operation of a garden seed program.

Garden seed vouchers will be issued to eligible households to purchase seeds of their choice through local merchants in the area. Vouchers will be distributed on a first come, first served basis.

Households meeting 100 percent poverty income guidelines will be eligible for the program. Households must bring social security numbers for all household members and proof of income for the prior month.

Application for the program will be taken from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. on March 16 through March 20, at the Allen Park Convention Center.

Any merchant interested in accepting these vouchers should contact the Big Sandy Area CAP, Inc. office in Allen at 874-2965 by March 13.

Correction

A caption in the March 4 issue of the Times, showing Floyd County receiving a $7,100 grant for preserving a one-room school, should have read "Josie D. Hardin's School House" not Jesse Harkin. Colloquially, the school has been generally called "Daniel's Creek School."

Community Calendar

Editor's Note: As a service to the many clubs and committees that meet in our community, the Floyd County Times' Community Calendar will host meeting and public service announcements.

ADA Seminar

An Americans with Disabilities Act Seminar will be held at the Convention Center, Jenny Wiley State Park, on March 24, from 1 to 2 p.m. The ADA is a very broad Act with many specifics for businesses. Please try to attend this seminar. RSVP to the Chamber if you will attend, at 886-1341.

DAV officer to be here

Eugene Akers, a state services officer for the Department of Kentucky, Disabled American Veterans, will be in Prestonsburg at the courthouse (upstairs) from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on March 14 to assist veterans and their dependents with claims due as a result of military service.

Dedication

A dedication ceremony will be held Sunday, March 15, at 2:30 p.m. at the Vogel Day Methodist Church at Harold.

Basic Arrhythmia Interpretation

Highlands Regional Medical Center will present a Basic Arrhythmia Interpretation on Monday, March 16 and Tuesday, March 17, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. or on Wednesday, March 18 and Thursday, March 19, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., at the hospital.

The focus is on current cardiac arrhythmia interpretation and treatment modalities. Approved by the Kentucky Board of Nursing for 16 contact hours.

For more information or to register, call Nancy Slone, R.N. education coordinator at Highlands Regional Medical Center at 886-8511, ext. 525.

Family square dance

A St. Patrick's Day family square dance will be held on Saturday, March 14, at 8 p.m., at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Health Alert:

Preschool children need measles immunization

In the wake of measles outbreaks in six Kentucky counties, public health officials are alerting parents — especially those of preschool children — to make sure youngsters have had proper measles shots.

Department for Health Services officials also are requesting prompt reporting of measles cases from Kentucky's physicians so that the disease can be properly tracked.

In January and February, 62 confirmed measles cases were reported in Kentucky in Jefferson, Nelson, Bullitt, Breckinridge, Fayette and Madison counties. During 1991, 66 confirmed cases were reported statewide.

Clarkson Palmer, M.D., the department's communicable disease branch manager, says that children should receive their first measles vaccine at age 15 months and another shot upon sixth grade entry.

"With almost a third of the current measles cases in preschool children, we know that there are children out there who are not immunized," he said. "Parents and day care centers must take the initiative to assure their protection."

Preschool children older than 15 months who have not had the measles immunization should have one immediately. Young children who contract measles generally become sicker and have more complications than older children do.

About half of the cases have occurred in school-age children with several cases being reported in university students and other young adults.

Two measles cases have been confirmed among students at the University of Kentucky, and officials recommend that students and university personnel at the Lexington campus born since 1957 be immunized.

"The university has activated a mass immunization plan on its Lexington campus," said Palmer, "and is doing its part in controlling the outbreak there."

Palmer says that for the department to mobilize special vaccination campaigns quickly and target the highest priority outbreak control actions, it is essential that doctors immediately report suspected cases to public health officials.

"Kentucky's regulations call for physicians to report measles within 24 hours to the local health department or to the Department for Health Services in Frankfort," he said. "We're simply asking that they keep this in mind when treating possible measles cases."

People with a rash accompanied by fever who suspect that they might have the disease should consult their physician immediately, he said.

Measles is highly contagious and frequently causes high fever and a rash that lasts a week or more. Other symptoms include a cough, runny nose and watery eyes. The disease can occasionally cause serious complications, especially in younger children. Milder cases may occur, especially when the person was incompletely protected by measles vaccine, as happens in about five percent of those who have received only one dose of the vaccine.

"Although Kentucky now requires a second dose of measles vaccine for children as they enter the sixth grade, most older youth have received only one dose," Palmer said.

In 1987, no measles cases were reported in Kentucky. In 1988, 36 cases were reported; in 1989, 47; and in 1990, 45.

Deadline nears for medical scholarships

The Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund, Inc. was established in 1946 as a means of providing a better distribution of physicians in rural Kentucky. The Fund offers low interest loans to qualified medical students with no payment until the physician has completed the first year of practice. The RKMSF offers a $10,000 loan for each year of medical school. The interest rate, is determined annually on May 1st.

Anyone who is a resident of Kentucky and has been accepted at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine or the University of Louisville Medical School and is willing to practice in a rural or critical county in Kentucky upon completion of residency training, may apply. Repayment options include low interest rates for recipients practicing in rural areas and loan forgiveness for those practicing in areas of the state with critical needs.

Applications are being accepted at this time. The deadline date for filing an application is April 1, 1992. Personal interviews will be held in April, 1992.

As in the past, the Fund's success has been based on the dedication of the members of the Board of Directors and the continued assistance and support of the Kentucky Medical Association. Both the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund, Inc. and the Kentucky Medical Association are committed to addressing the physician shortage problem in the critical and rural areas of Kentucky.

Those interested in applying for a scholarship loan should contact the RKMSF Office, 301 N. Hurstbourne Pkwy, Ste. 200, Louisville, KY 40222; Telephone—(502)426-6200

UK offers engineering degree by television

In what is believed to be the first program of its kind in the nation, the University of Kentucky is now enabling students to earn a master's degree in mining engineering by satellite television.

"Teaching by television recognizes that the education of only a few years ago did not prepare an engineer for the increasing complexities of today's mines," said Lee Saperstein, chairman of UK's mining engineering department.

"It allows the location-bound engineer to gain the skills needed to stay current while pursuing an advanced degree in engineering," he said. The courses originate on the UK campus in Lexington and are transmitted by satellite to the UK community colleges, the Bureau of Mines at Bruceton, Penn., and the Mine Safety and Health Administration Academy at Beckley, W. Va. Other sites may be added if there is sufficient demand.

Students at the receive sites view the lectures live and can ask questions and discuss material with the instructor by telephone. At each site, a local coordinator operates the electronic equipment and distributes course materials, homework, and tests.

The master's degree program consists of a sequence of ten courses, one of which is offered by television each semester. Students can enter the sequence of courses at any time.

Admission to the degree program is open to all engineers with an undergraduate degree, and subject to the same academic requirements as students enrolling on the main campus in Lexington.

Students who are not interested in pursuing a degree can still enroll in the courses for their own personal enrichment, and some of the credits may be applied if they later opt to seek a degree.

For more information on the program contact the UK department of mining engineering at (606)257-8026 or toll-free at 1-800-325-2766, ext. 73377.

Waiting for a home

This little sweetheart is Joey (B/3-3-90). He'll sit in your lap for a little while but before too long he's wanting to get down and explore. It is amazing how far this little tyke can reach when he wants something.

The foster mother reports his body used to be very stiff but with physical therapy his muscles have relaxed. He started walking at ten months. He loves to play chase and run after balls. When he feels comfortable with strangers he'll laugh and jabber. Joey is putting simple words together to form phrases.

This little guy has made a lot of progress developmentally but he needs a permanent home so he will have the chance to reach his fullest potential. Joey is one of many African-American children waiting for an adoptive family. Are you the one family for him? Please call the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or your local Department for Social Services offices to find out how you can adopt a waiting child.

Berea College appoints three to council

Berea College has appointed three new members of its President's Council, an advisory board established in 1988.

Joining the council are Frank C. Taylor of Berea, president of the Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED); Harriet A. Booker of Knoxville, Tenn., former American Can Company executive, and Raymond S. Bradbury, Prestonsburg, chairman of Martin County Coal Corporation.

The council, which was authorized by college trustees, is composed of 72 individuals from throughout the United States who assist President John B. Stephenson in the consideration of educational and societal issues which may affect Berea College and its future.

"The council advises the president and through him, the college in general, on matters which may influence and enhance the manner in which Berea carries out its traditional mission of service to Appalachia and to minority group members," Stephenson said.

America's bashed and beloved First Ladies

By Daisy Ridgway
Smithsonian News Service

Every four years, a job opens in Washington, D.C. It offers benefits, a large, fully staffed home, free transportation, trips all over the world and close association with the president of the United States. The job has no salary and no real description. Tough skin and stiff upper lip are required. The title: first lady.

America's first ladies are the focus of a new exhibition at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C. The exhibit, "First Ladies: Political Role and Public Image," features their historic gowns and other garments from the Smithsonian's collections, and explores the evolution of the first ladies' role. The exhibit also details the close public scrutiny and sometimes harsh criticism that first ladies—who are not even elected to their positions—have received from the news media, and their attempts to turn the press to their advantage.

Since the Colonial era, first ladies have been a target for praise or blame. Martha Washington and Abigail Adams found public life constraining. Before her husband, John, was inaugurated as our second president in 1797, Mrs. Adams wrote in a letter to a friend, "I expect to be vilified and abused with my whole family when I come into this situation," and feared she would have to "look at every word before I utter it, and to impose a silence upon myself, when I long to talk."

Yet Dolley Madison, our fourth first lady, quickly caught on to the importance of good publicity. A popular White House hostess, Mrs. Madison carefully cultivated relationships with members of the press. She was also a close friend of Margaret Bayard Smith, whose husband owned the Intelligencer, the first national newspaper, which often ran stories about Mrs. Madison's fine wit and memorable parties.

Having served in the role of first lady for third president and widower Thomas Jefferson, as well as for her husband, James, Mrs. Madison's many years in public life established her as an influential force in Washington society until her death.

Edith Mayo, curator of the exhibition, says of the early first ladies: "In the 19th century, when the role of middle-class women was supposed to be very private and within the home, a lot of these women had difficulty making the transition to public life. Most first ladies have probably liked parts of their position and intensely disliked other parts, such as the public scrutiny—and having everything they do commented upon by the public and the press."

Information spread more slowly in the 19th century than in the 20th, but controversy and negative publicity have always made good copy. In fact, good public relations—a mainstay for today's public figures—would have been a welcome resource more than a century ago for several first ladies.

Rachel Jackson's experience was a classic example of the abuse of partisan press. During the 1828 election, reporters resurrected a decades-old scandal that Mrs. Jackson was a bigamist. In fact, she had married Andrew Jackson in 1791 without being aware that the divorce from her first husband was not final. When the final divorce decree did come through, the Jacksons remarried in 1794.

When the scandal resurfaced during the election, Mrs. Jackson wrote: "The enemys of [my husband] have dipt their arrows in wormwood and gall and sped them at me." Shortly after her husband was elected president, Mrs. Jackson fell ill and died of a heart attack. She never moved into the White House and buried in the white gown she had chosen to wear to the inaugural ball. "She was vilified by the press of Jackson's opposition," Mayo says. "This kind of scandal was talked about, and was believed to have seriously hastened her death."

Mary Lincoln, wife of Abraham Lincoln and first lady from 1861 to 1865, was misunderstood by the public while in the White House, according to Mayo. A well-educated woman from Kentucky, Mrs. Lincoln was the victim of Washington socialites who viewed women from "the frontier" as ignorant and unrefined. She tried to dispel this notion through her skills as a hostess, but instead became the target of vicious gossip about her squandering of tax dollars to furnish the White House. Being a Southerner in the White House during the Civil War also prompted rumors that she was a Confederate spy.

"She was perceived as extravagant, a social climber, a spendthrift and a loose cannon on the deck," Mayo says. "She misread how the public would react to what she did. She thought she was continuing the tradition of reinforcing the power and authority of the presidency, but the times were so changed because of the war that it made her look very selfish, egotistical and unbalanced."

By the turn of the 20th century, the role of first lady was still evolving as presidential wives became increasingly visible. New forms of media and technology, such as photography, sped this evolution.

In 1902, for instance, Edith Roosevelt, wife of President Theodore Roosevelt, hired Belle Hagner, the first social secretary to work for a first lady. Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs.

Hagner were acutely aware of the image created through photography. They carefully monitored the kinds of photos that were taken of the Roosevelt family and distributed to the press.

With the advent of radio and television, first ladies continued to turn the power of the mass media to their own advantage. In the late 1920s, Lou Hoover, wife of Herbert Hoover, made the first radio broadcast by a first lady from the White House. She addressed the nation's youth—particularly girls—articulating a subtle feminism and emphasizing physical and intellectual fitness.

Eleanor Roosevelt, who served as first lady to her husband, Franklin, from 1933 to 1945, postured herself in a way that would be imitated by future first ladies: She used the power of the media to shape her own public image.

Mrs. Roosevelt was the first modern-day first lady who was entirely comfortable with the media. She spoke frequently on the radio and wrote two newspaper columns: "My Day" and "If You Ask Me." Mrs. Roosevelt also gave a boost to women reporters by holding press conferences exclusively for them.

Despite her achievements, Mrs. Roosevelt was often ruthlessly criticized by some reporters who thought she was "meddling in politics," Mayo says. "The press was very venomous toward Mrs. Roosevelt in a kind of personal way. They would make fun of her looks or her voice or speech patterns. They felt she was unfeminine because she was a political figure in her own right."

Jacqueline Kennedy, and her husband, John, were young, rich, beautiful, well-educated and had two adorable children. They seemed the ideal American family, blessed with fame and fortune. This aura was heightened by a media image carefully crafted by experts—photographers, speech writers and marketing and media specialists. Photographs of the Kennedys gave the public a seemingly intimate glimpse into the private lives of the first family, which translated into intense political popularity.

Nancy Reagan took several steps to temper public opinion about reports of her extravagant spending habits. Aware that the media was characterizing her as "Queen Nancy," Mrs. Reagan poked fun at herself during a dinner speech in New York. "I'd never wear a crown," she said with a straight face. "It would mess up my hair."

In an exclusive interview with the Smithsonian News Service, Mrs. Reagan recalled bittersweet memories of her years in public life—and her relations with the media. "It's easy to blame it all on the press, but I now think that, in fact, there was fault on both sides," she says.

"I'm simply a very private person, and it's difficult for me to open up to people, especially reporters. I wasn't the first first lady to be attacked by the media, but it hurt nonetheless. I'd like to think that by the time we left the White House, the press and I had come to know each other a lot better."

Complex challenges will always face first ladies, considering the public's taste for telltale news. Mayo suggests that these high-powered public figures forge ahead: "The job of first lady has no parameters. She ought to continue being herself, being forthright about her views and opinions on issues and go ahead and brave the criticism."

Rachel Jackson was harshly criticized in the partisan press. Reporters dredged up a 35-year-old scandal, calling her a bigamist, since she married Andrew Jackson in 1791 without being aware that the divorce from her first husband was not final. She died shortly after Jackson was elected president in 1828.

Two canines share in 1991 Dog Hero of the Year title

For the first time in the 38-year history of the annual Dog Hero program, there has been a tie. Two dogs have been named 1991 Kibbles 'n Bits Dog Heroes.

Sheena, a mixed breed from St. Petersburg, Fla., rescued her disabled owner, John Rayner, during an attempted robbery. Rayner was attacked from behind in a supermarket parking lot while Sheena watched frantically from the car. When Rayner finally managed to open the car door, Sheena lunged at the assailants, sparing her owner from harm.

Ironically, only six months earlier, Rayner had saved Sheena's life when he discovered her lying unconscious and badly cut in his yard and nursed her back to health.

Willy, a special Weimaraner from Los Alamos, N.M., also earned the title of "top dog" for saving the life of his owner, Betty Souder, from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Souder was sleeping soundly early one morning when Willy nudged her awake. Willy "pawed, pawed and pawed" at Souder until she finally stood to let him outside.

Feeling dizzy and unsteady on her feet, Souder thought she might be having a stroke until she saw Willy staggering. Immediately, she phoned for help. According to her doctor, if she'd slept just minutes longer she might not have been able to make the call.

A survey cited in the August, 1991 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association reported that 11,547 unintentional deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning over a ten-year period. Thanks to Willy, Betty Souder's life was saved.

Both winners will receive certificates of merit along with a year's supply of Kibbles 'n Bits dog food. Four runners-up also will be awarded dog food and certificates.

- Spud, a mixed breed from Gastonia, N.C., alerted help for a man he didn't even know when he spotted the man having a heart attack.

- Sheba, an Alaskan Malamute from Nashville, Ill., protected a 20-month old child from a swarm of yellow jackets.

- Grinch, a mixed breed puppy from Joliet, Ill., retrieved help for her owner's diabetic sister when the young girl collapsed in a hallway during the night.

- Klutz, a Dashedhund Beagle mix from Lehigh Acres, Fla., lost his own life defending a three-year old girl from a rattlesnake.

Nominations are now being accepted for next year's award. If you know of a dog's heroic deed that occurred after October 1, 1991, send a detailed description along with your name, address and phone number to: Kibbles 'n Bits Dog Hero of the Year, P.O. Box 1370, Barrington, IL 60011. Entries must be received by December 31, 1992.

Dream of Irish remembered on St. Patrick's Day holiday

Shamrocks, "the wearin' o' the green," parades—these are only a few of the customs Americans associate with March 17, St. Patrick's Day. But how many of us really know who St. Patrick was or what the day celebrates? In Ireland, it is a national holiday; in the United States, the day is a salute to a heritage that has contributed greatly to the melting pot that is our country.

St. Patrick was a leader in establishing Christianity in Ireland. Historians are uncertain as to the exact dates of his birth and death, but it has been estimated that he was born in Britain around 389 A.D. and died in the latter half of the fifth century.

At the age of 16, St. Patrick was sold into slavery in Ireland, where he labored six years as a shepherd. After a voice in a dream told him, "Behold, your ship is ready," St. Patrick escaped and fled back to Britain.

Upon reuniting with his family, St. Patrick had another dream in which a man delivered a letter to him entitled "The Voice of the Irish." He interpreted this letter to be his call to convert the Irish to Christianity.

To prepare himself for the task, St. Patrick began his studies and later was ordained to the diaconate. Upon the death of the first bishop of Ireland, St. Patrick was ordained a bishop and set out for the land of his former captivity.

Once back in Ireland, St. Patrick led the life of an itinerant missionary, making converts throughout the land, developing a native clergy, encouraging the growth of monasteries and establishing dioceses.

The legend of St. Patrick has grown throughout the centuries. For instance, it is believed that he explained the concept of the Holy Trinity—three Persons in one God—using the shamrock, a three-leaved plant with one stalk. Today, Irishmen wear shamrocks, their country's national flower, to remember St. Patrick on March 17.

In the United States, St. Patrick's Day was first celebrated prior to the American Revolution, with the first parade held in New York City in 1762. Following the huge wave of immigrants who left Ireland because of the potato famine in the 1840s, celebrations in honor of St. Patrick became even more widespread.

By far the biggest and most extraordinary celebration in the United States today is the St. Patrick's Day parade still held each year in New York City. More than a million people line Fifth Avenue—where a green line is painted down the center—to watch the two-mile-long parade.

Chicago and Boston also host impressive parades, as does Washington, D.C. In San Antonio, Texas, citizens dye the river green, and Savannah, Ga., holds one of the largest St. Patrick's Day parties in the South.

Today, St. Patrick's Day is both a day for people of Irish descent to honor their origins and a time for the United States to acknowledge an important part of its heritage. And, according to historians, it is largely due to America's enthusiasm over St. Patrick's Day that it now is celebrated the world over.

VFW Conference at Capital

U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers (on right) met recently with Eddie Akers (left) of Harold, the state Junior Vice Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a VFW conference in our nation's capital. During the meeting Rogers, a veteran himself, outlined several of his efforts and discussed a number of Veterans' issues, with Akers and with Al Feher of Lynch and John Mander of Russell Springs, to provide help for our nation's veterans.

Armed violent criminals the target of new national hotline

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) announced the implementation of a national hotline intended for use in fighting violent crime in the United States. Use of the hotline number, 1-800-ATF-GUNS, allows callers to speak directly to special agents of the ATF to provide tips on gun crimes. Callers do not have to give their name and their information will be shared with city, county, and state law enforcement agencies.

ATF Special Agents in charge, William A. Curley, who directs ATF investigations in Kentucky, Indiana, and West Virginia, stressed that the hotline "will be directed at violent criminals who use firearms in furtherance of their criminal activity." Curley said that his special agents will use hotline information to initiate investigations that correspond to established ATF priorities. Those priorities are: 1) persons possessing firearms who are involved in violent criminal activity including drug trafficking, 2) persons possessing firearms who have been convicted of serious felony offenses, 3) persons illegally dealing in weapons to the criminal element such as street gangs, and 4) persons illegally possessing powerful weapons preferred by criminals such as machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, weapons equipped with silencers, and bombs. Curley stressed that "this initiative is not an anti-gun hotline, it's an anti-violence hotline." Curley and Special Agent Randall Lacy, the supervisor of the ATF agents in Lexington, Kentucky, Eastern District of Kentucky, noted that just recently two investigations serve as examples of the types of crimes ATF hopes to uncover by the hotline. These two investigations involved the execution of search warrants by ATF, Kentucky State Police and local officers. One of the search warrants resulted in the seizure of a large quantity of marijuana and other drug paraphernalia. Several loaded firearms were found in the residence, including an illegally manufactured machine gun. The other search warrant resulted in the seizure of a quantity of cocaine and a quantity of processed marijuana, approximately $10,000 currency, along with several loaded firearms, one being an SKS semi-automatic rifle.

Curley added that his office will be attempting to publicize the hotline number throughout the area with an emphasis on communities that suffer most from violent crime. In the very near future ATF intends to meet with a variety of community groups in an attempt to obtain their assistance on getting the word out. "We're not just going to ask for help in doing things our way, we recognize that constructive input from the community will be essential in this effort to reduce the level of victimization from violent crime."

Half of all women working more than one job cited the need to meet regular household expenses or pay off debts as the reason for working two jobs compared to 40 percent of moonlighting men, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Two-thirds of widowed, divorced or separated women worked at more than one job in order to meet household expenses or pay off debts.

How to avoid SSI overpayments

If you receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments, you should tell Social Security whenever there's a change in your resources, income or living arrangements. That way, we can be sure you get the right amount in your check each month, and you can avoid the hardship of paying back overpayments.

Too often, people receiving SSI forget to tell us about a change that should be reported. As a result they could end up being overpaid. This is because the amount of their SSI payment is based on their income and resources at the time they are first determined eligible. Any change in their income or resources may affect the amount to which they are entitled. If payment is not adjusted to reflect the change, an overpayment may result.

Since the law requires the Social Security Administration to recover the overpayment, the money must be withheld from future checks, often resulting in a hardship.

You can avoid overpayments and their recovery by promptly telling us about any change. When you started receiving SSI, you received a booklet called, When You Get SSI...What You Need to Know. That booklet details all the things that must be reported.

If you've lost your copy, you can tell us and get a new one—free of charge. It's a good idea to keep the booklet in a safe place and look at it from time to time to help remind you about what should be reported.

Examples of changes that commonly cause overpayments when not reported are listed below. If you receive SSI, be sure to tell us if:

- you have an increase in resources—the things you own, such as cash, checking or savings accounts, stocks, bonds, and certificates of deposit;
- you go to work or have an increase in income from any source;
- you get help with your living expenses;
- you enter a hospital or other institution;
- you plan to leave the United States;
- you move or someone moves into or out of your home;
- someone who lives with you dies;
- you or someone lives with you has a baby, changes school attendance, or gets married, widowed, divorced, or separated;

It's easy to report a change. Just call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213. You should report the change within 10 days after the month it happens. But remember, the sooner you report the change, the sooner Social Security can correct your check.

Avoid overpayments—report changes right away!

Wind-up infant swings recalled

Century Products Company, Macedonia, Ohio in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is voluntarily recalling its 1991 model wind-up infant swings with the "Whisper-Wind" motor. Century has received 31 reports of injuries to consumers involving these swings. Most injuries were to consumers who were attempting to open the motor housing or repair swings that had stopped working.

If the plastic cover over the swing motor is removed, the powerful, coiled wind-up spring will unwind rapidly and forcefully and may cause serious injury. Injuries reported to the firm include puncture wounds and lacerations requiring immediate medical treatment.

The recall applies to approximately 181,000 Century "whisper-wind" infant swings manufactured during 1991. The five swing models involved were sold for about $30-$80 nationwide (model numbers: 12-319, 12-329, 12-344, 12-345, and 12-349). Recalled units bear manufacturing date codes 9101 through 9112. The date codes are located on a white label on the bottom of the swing seat. If the date on your swing is smaller than 9101 or larger than 9112, or a circular label reading "new Improved Swing" is affixed to the motor, your swing is not affected by this recall.

Century will provide a free replacement motor to all owners of affected models. Consumers should call 1-800-446-1366 to arrange for a free replacement. Century and CPSC warn consumers not to try to disassemble the swing or remove the motor housing until the new motor and complete, step-by-step instructions are received.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is announcing the recall as part of its mission to protect the public.

Women's conference slated for Ashland

The Financial Women International Kentucky State Conference will be held March 26-28, at the Ashland Plaza Hotel, Ashland. The conference "Empowered Work Force: Myth or Reality?" will focus on the self-directed skills managers need to motivate themselves and their employees to create a prosperous organization and to promote personal growth. The closing banquet speaker will feature award winning cable news network co-anchor, Susan Rook from Atlanta. Financial women throughout the state of Kentucky will be attending this conference.

Patrick is elected bank chairman

The Salyersville National Bank has announced the election of Scotty B. Patrick as chairman of the board of directors. Patrick was elected chairman following the retirement of Luther Green Carpenter, who was named Chairman Emeritus.

Patrick, a native of Salyersville, has served as director of the Salyersville National Bank since 1972. He is the son of the late Buck and Lillie May Patrick.

Luther Green Carpenter was named to the position of Board of Chairman Emeritus after his retirement as chairman. He will also continue in his capacity as a bank director. During Mr. Carpenter's banking career which span over fifty years, he served as president of the Magoffin County Industrial Foundation, he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Foothills Rural Telephone Company for over twenty years, he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Big Sandy Regional Airport and is a distinguished Fifty Year Member of the Kentucky Bankers Association.

Long-term care may be deductible

THE TAX ADVISER

GEORGE SMITH

Q: My mother will be moving to a retirement home shortly. Is this a medical deduction?—L.R., Ashland, Ky.

A: It depends. The cost of medical care in a long-term care facility, including meals and lodgings, is deductible if the main reason for being in the facility is to receive medical care. Meals and lodging are not deductible if the main reason for being there is for retirement purposes.

Q: I just won a sizable lottery in Mexico. I am an American citizen, and I would like to know if foreign lotteries are taxable in the United States?—K.S., Austin, Texas

A: Only if you win.

Q: I have a group insurance policy at work. I'm the beneficiary of the policy. In case of my death, will this insurance be included in my estate?—G.P., Eugene, Ore.

A: Only if you don't apply some due diligence with your estate planning. Any insurance policy, like any other kind of property, investments, real estate, etc., could be subject to estate tax.

However, insurance proceeds can escape estate tax as long as (1) the proceeds are payable to someone other than the insured's estate, and (2) the insured gives up all ownership rights in the policy more than three years before his or her death.

First, discuss estate planning with your attorney. Then decide if your employer should assign the policy to whomever you designate as the beneficiary. Once you have made this decision, hand over any evidence of group membership, such as an insurance certificate, to the new owner. This starts the clock ticking.

Q: I do not have a retirement plan at work. However, my wife, who passed away this year, did. Because our salaries exceeded the maximum amount allowed for an IRA I could not take a deduction for my IRA. This year I still will file a final income tax return with her earnings. Can I take a deduction for an IRA?—O.N., Roswell, N.M.

A: Probably not. If your spouse died during the year and you file a joint income tax return as the surviving spouse, coverage by an employer retirement plan for that year is determined as if your spouse were still alive. It appears that you cannot take an IRA for this year but could be eligible the following year.

Q: Last year I moved from the West Coast to the East Coast. My actual out-of-pocket expenses were considerably more than what my employer reimbursed me. Where do I begin?—M.L., Syracuse, N.Y.

A: If you changed job locations last year, or started a new job, and kept good records, you certainly may be able to deduct most of your moving expenses. For moves within the United States or any of its possessions, use Form 3903, Moving Expenses, to report these expenses. The form itself will guide you through the intricacies of an interstate moving expedition.

But, if you really want to get into the nitty-gritty of what it's all about, and the many expenses that you can deduct, call the IRS toll-free number, 1-800-TAX-FORM, for their free publication 521, appropriately titled, "Moving Expenses."

Job Opportunities

Local realtors meet in Frankfort

Ruth Cox, Jim Gambill, Bill Gibson and Bernice Stacy were among over 300 Realtors who met in Frankfort, February 26-28 for the Quarterly Meetings of the Kentucky Association of Realtors. The Association is Kentucky's largest trade organization, with over 8,500 members.

Realtors discussed national legislative issues and were updated on many of the legislative issues before the 1992 Kentucky General Assembly. These issues included a comprehensive housing bill, restructuring of the Kentucky Economic Development and Housing Corporation Boards, the Kentucky Home Ownership Savings Account Bill, election finance reform and redistricting.

Very active in the legislative arena, Kentucky Realtors closely monitor issues which could have a negative impact on private property rights and the value of real estate.

Bill Gibson, President of the local Big Sandy Board of Realtors, said, "The Frankfort Meetings were quite informative about issues affecting real estate in Eastern Kentucky. We will continue to work for the best interests of property owners throughout the 1992 General Session of the Kentucky Legislature."

Fletcher, Greene to wed

Melanie Victoria Fletcher and Dr. Mark Edward Greene

Walter and Colleen Fletcher of Pikeville announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Melanie Victoria Fletcher to Dr. Mark Edward Greene of Pikeville, son of Julian and Beulah Greene of East Point.

Movin' on up

Beverly Goble has been an employee of the corps of engineers at Dewey lake for almost four years. All of Goble's efforts must have paid off; she is now the Lake Project assistant with a thirty percent pay increase.

SHE'S MORE THAN A SECRETARY

Beverly Goble began working for the Corps of Engineers at Dewey Lake in June of 1988, at the time she was temporary and her pay level was GS-02. Since then she has moved up quickly and recently Ms. Goble, received a promotion to GS-06. That's approximately a thirty percent increase in four years, and she has earned it.

In October Beverly was reassigned from secretary to Lake Project assistant, which gave her increased administrative responsibilities, and now she has received the pay increase to go along with it. Her duties have taken some of the pressure off of resource manager, Patricia Williams. Ms. Williams says, "Ms. Goble is irreplaceable. The project would cease to function efficiently if it wasn't for Beverly's talent for organizing and record keeping."

Beverly is the one who takes the shelter reservation and answers the Corps phone, but she does much more.

mission (hereinafter the Commission) for the purpose of approving said purchase or assignment and the granting of said live racing dates, and the conduct of Intertrack Wagering, (ITW) within the confines of Floyd County, and that a meeting of the Commission held at its headquarters at the Kentucky Horse Park near Lexington, Kentucky, on February 14, 1992, the Commission did grant unto EKRC the right to construct and conduct live Harness Racing in 1993 at or near Prestonsburg in Floyd County, Kentucky, and also granted the right to EKRC to conduct Intertrack Wagering for the remaining part of 1992 according to the dates that have previously been approved by the Joint Commission of Racing at the site near the Intersection of Ky Rt. 80 and US 23, which is currently being operated as a nightclub called Center Stage; and

WHEREAS, in support of said proposal and application, the City Council did unanimously endorse a resolution which is filed and made a part of the record of the Commission meeting, and whereas the Council believes that this will be a great economic boost to our region, that it will enhance tourism, and create jobs; and

WHEREAS, the City of Prestonsburg is extremely pleased to have been chosen as the final spot for the construction of this facility and the conducting of ITW Wagering; and

WHEREAS, Prestonsburg in so doing did beat out serious challenges from Ashland, Hazard, and most particularly, it's neighbor, Pikeville, Kentucky, and

WHEREAS, it has been widely circulated in both the Courier Journal and the Lexington Herald Leader that in so doing Prestonsburg achieved a great deal of notoriety; and

WHEREAS, the City Council believes that said notoriety along with this project will greatly enhance Prestonsburg's future for economic development and diversification, and

WHEREAS, the City Council believes that it is in the best interest of the City of Prestonsburg to allow for a special license to sell distilled spirits be granted unto EKRC to be sold at the Facility known as Center Stage, will be used for ITW Wagering for all dates approved by the Kentucky State Harness Racing Commission, which allows for ITW Racing; and

WHEREAS, the upcoming spring racing season will be a critical time for testing the feasibility of this business; and

WHEREAS, the City Council believes it would be in the best interest of the City of Prestonsburg to expedite the proceedings and grant said license so that EKRC can begin Intertrack Wagering as soon as possible, hopefully before April 1, 1992.

NOW THEREFORE, be it Ordained by the City of Prestonsburg that the Ordinance No. 10-88 be amended as follows:

SECTION 24 to be added which shall be Section 24, which shall read as follows:

SECTION 24
"That notwithstanding any other provision of this Ordinance, that a license for the sale of alcoholic beverages by the drink be granted to Eastern Kentucky Racing Corporation for the sale of distilled spirits by the drink at the Intertrack Wagering Facility which is currently known as Center Stage once it becomes incorporated into the City of Prestonsburg, and that the Prestonsburg Alcoholic Beverage Commissioner shall charge the normal fee for application and that said license will be for the sale of distilled spirits by the drink on Monday until 1:00 a.m. on the following Sunday, but shall not include any other hours after 1:00 a.m. on any Sunday. The licensee shall comply with all other parts of the Ordinance except that pertaining to wagering which shall be waived in this instance so long as said wagering is done with the approval and according to the Rules and Regulations of the Kentucky Harness Racing Commission, the Joint Commission, or any other such regulatory Commission."

Pursuant to this Amended Ordinance, the Council further directs and waives the findings required by the Prestonsburg Alcoholic Commission insofar as same are not consistent with this Amended Ordinance and the Council further directs that all time limitations be waived except that this Amended Ordinance shall be published for final approval at the meeting of the Council of March 9, 1992 and the City Clerk is so directed to make such publication with the license applicant, EKRC to pay said cost.

At the regular meeting of the City Council of Prestonsburg on February 24, 1992, a request was made by Clyde Woods, owner of a tract of land located near the intersection of Ky Rt. 80 and U.S. 23, which is currently used to operate a nightclub and restaurant business known as Center Stage, and that said request was made to be annexed into the City of Prestonsburg pursuant to KRS 81A.412, et. seq. and according to the terms and conditions of the Annexation Request for the purpose of allowing said facility to be used for an Intertrack Wagering (ITW) Facility according to the grant of the Kentucky Harness Racing Commission issued to Eastern Kentucky Racing Corporation, which holds a valid Lease to said property for the purpose of conducting ITW at the Kentucky Harness Racings' regularly scheduled meeting of February 14, 1992, and the City Council did render a Resolution of Support, which was filed and made a part of the record at the Kentucky Harness Racing Commission's meeting showing support for the approval of Prestonsburg and Floyd County as the site of the new Harness Racing Facility and ITW Facility, and that the City Council gave a first reading to said Annexation Ordinance and a first reading to this Final Annexation Ordinance and further ordered that these Ordinances would be acted upon at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council, being held on the 9th day of March, 1992.

ORDINANCE NO. 5-92
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, ENACTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DISASTER AND EMERGENCY SERVICES DEALING WITH HAZARDOUS MATERIALS

WHEREAS; the City Council of Prestonsburg, Commonwealth of Kentucky, has determined that hazardous materials can pose a direct and potential threat to the health and welfare of the people of Prestonsburg, Kentucky and it is the responsibility of the local government to protect its citizens, and that the persons who handle hazardous materials also have a responsibility to the community and its residents to minimize risks; and

WHEREAS; the City Council of Prestonsburg, Commonwealth of Kentucky, has further determined that an ordinance is necessary to provide a comprehensive approach on the local level to prevent the uncontrolled release of hazardous materials into the surrounding environment which can directly cause harm or damage to the environment and to the citizens health and welfare, and that for this approach to be effective, cooperation between the public and private sectors is essential; and

WHEREAS; the City Council of Prestonsburg, Commonwealth of Kentucky, further determines that in order to implement a plan related to hazardous materials, information on the types, amounts, and locations of such materials used, transported or manufactured must be gathered, compiled and updated regularly for the use of emergency agencies which might be called to respond to a hazardous spill; and

WHEREAS; the City Council of Prestonsburg, Commonwealth of Kentucky, further determines that emergency responders should be trained in the aspects of dealing with hazardous materials spills on the local level, until expert help can be summoned and arrives at the scene, in order to protect themselves and the citizens of Prestonsburg, Kentucky and to minimize as much as possible the adverse effects on the environment of a release of hazardous materials or hazardous waste; and

WHEREAS; this Ordinance is intended to complement efforts at the State and Federal level to deal effectively with the issues of hazardous materials allowing coordination of the efforts of all three levels of government to avail Prestonsburg, Kentucky the best possible opportunities to protect its citizens and its environment from the potentially devastating effects of hazardous materials; and

WHEREAS; the City Council of Prestonsburg, Commonwealth of Kentucky, further determines that the timely reporting of releases of hazardous materials to the local government is critically important to the proper and safe response of local emergency agencies that will respond to such incidents in order to protect life and minimize the damage to the environment.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF PRESTONSBURG, COUNTY OF FLOYD, COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY:

This exemption in no way exempts a facility from state or federal notification requirements. Exemptions will be made on an individual basis after careful study by the administering agency. All exemptions for local notification must be approved by the administering agencies board and by the City Council of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.
(c) Emergency Phone Number: The notice required in this section shall be given by calling (606) 886-1010. This one call will meet the requirement for local notification.
(d) Duty to Report to Federal and State Agencies: No statement contained in this section shall be construed to exempt or release any person from any other notification or reporting procedure required by a State or Federal Agency.
(e) Duty to Control Release: The requirements of this Section shall in no way be construed to forbid any person on or about the facilities from using all diligence necessary to control such release prior to the notification of the local government, especially if such efforts may result in the containment of the release or the abatement of extreme hazard to the employees of the facility or to the general population or the environment. Delays in reporting releases due to in house notification of off site owners/supervisors shall not be acceptable and may result in penalties.

SECTION 8: INSPECTIONS
(a) Verification of Inventory Sheets: The administering agency shall have the authority to conduct inspections of facilities submitting or being required to submit hazardous materials inventory sheets for the purpose of ascertaining the validity of such sheets. Such inspections shall occur only one time per year and whenever possible with a routine or federal inspection. It shall be the responsibility of the facility to be inspected to call the local administering agency and inform them of the routine inspection. When this inspection arrangement is not possible, the administering agency shall give three working days notice of a pending inspection. Inspections shall be made during normal working hours.
(b) Emergency Response Inspections: The administering agency shall have the authority to conduct the necessary inspections of any facility or transporting vehicle whenever there is an emergency response and to take whatever steps are deemed necessary to protect life and property.
Inspections made during an emergency response shall be made by the senior officer from each emergency agency of local government or their designate. The administering agency shall coordinate all local response.
Local government officials may take whatever actions are necessary to prevent the incident from spreading, contain the incident to prevent its approach to water sources, evacuate the area as needed, and summon whatever other agencies of State and Federal Government that are needed to help with the situation. The administering agency shall have the authority to set up shelters as needed.

SECTION 9: UPDATED INVENTORY SHEETS REQUIRED EACH YEAR
(a) Any facility required to submit a "Prestonsburg Hazardous Materials Information Sheet Inventory" shall update the form one time per year following

(See Legals, B 11)

Legals

according to the provisions of Section 8 of this Ordinance. The administering agency will mail new sheets each year to each facility.

(b) New Hazardous Materials Added or Changes in Amounts of Hazardous Materials: Any facility which adds a new hazardous material to their operation between inspection dates which is used or stored in an amount equal to or greater than the Final "RQ" listed in Appendix A of this Ordinance shall call the administering agency and report such information so that it can be added to the facilities forms.

If the amounts of any hazardous material changes in any amount that the facilities manager determines could effect an emergency response by the local government, the facility shall make notice of this change by phone to the administering agency.

SECTION 10: AGRICULTURAL OPERATIONS

(a) Normal operation: Persons applying agricultural products in the normal mode of agricultural operations shall not be required to submit any type of form or keep any type of records for the local government. This shall include all types of agricultural chemicals used according to label directions.

(b) All persons who spill a hazardous material into the environment in any amount that equals or exceeds the amount listed in Appendix A of this Ordinance shall report the spill to the administering agency so that an immediate local determination can be made of actions that may need to be taken for the immediate protection of the local population.

(c) Retail Sales Inventory: Agricultural chemicals in retail stores for the purpose of resale to consumers do not have to be listed on Prestonsburg Hazardous Materials Information Sheets if the product is not stored in bulk form as defined in this Ordinance.

The owner may choose to list these chemicals for the protection of the emergency responders that will be responding to an emergency at his facility if he so chooses.

SECTION 12: HAZARDOUS WASTE GENERATORS

(a) Normal Forms: Any facility in Prestonsburg which is classified as a generator of hazardous waste shall submit to the administering agency the information required by KAR 264.37. This information is referred to as: Hazardous Waste Contingency Plan.

SECTION 13: LEPC ASSISTANCE TO SMALL BUSINESS'S OR SMALL HANDLERS OF HAZARDOUS MATERIALS:

(a) The Local Emergency Planning Committee is hereby directed by the City Council of Prestonsburg, Kentucky to provide assistance to any small business which used any hazardous materials in providing vital information on the types, amount, and location of hazardous materials at the facility. LEPC shall supply the necessary forms to such facilities even though the facility is not required to submit forms to the agency under Section 4 of this Ordinance. This information shall be forwarded by the LEPC to the appropriate agencies of emergency response.

Such assistance must be requested by the small business in writing to the LEPC Board.

SECTION 14: TRAINING PROGRAMS FOR LOCAL RESPONDERS

(a) The administering agency shall set up a training program for local emergency responders for dealing with hazardous materials on a first responder basis, which recognizes all State and Federal approved training courses, under which city personnel have been, or may be certified. This training program shall utilize all State and Federal training helps available and shall be in place by 1992. The administering agency shall report to City Council each year on the training program of local first responders.

SECTION 15: ENFORCEMENT: NOTICE OF VIOLATION

The administering agency of this Ordinance shall have the primary responsibility of the enforcement of the provision of this local Ordinance.

(a) Notice: Upon notification or discovery of any violation of the provisions of this Ordinance the administrative agency shall take the following steps:

(i) If the report or finding constitutes an immediate threat to the population or to the environment the administering agency may take whatever steps or have taken by necessary procedures to alleviate the danger to the population or to prevent damage to the environment.

(ii) Any facility which violates any provision of this local Ordinance shall be notified by the administering agency by certified mail and given ten (10) working days to comply with the terms of the Ordinance.

If, after ten (10) working days the facility has not complied with the formal request of the administering agency the administering agency shall seek the appropriate legal action to ascertain compliance of the facility with the terms of this local Ordinance.

(b) Governmental Response: In cases where the identity of a person who is responsible for facilities upon which a violation has occurred is not known at the time the violation is reported, City Government or any governmental agency with jurisdiction in Prestonsburg, Kentucky may take reasonable steps to clean up the area affected to assure continuing safety of the public and the environment. When the identity of the person responsible for the facility is determined, a bill shall be sent to the person for the costs of correcting the violation.

(c) Injunctive Relief: The administering agency is empowered to seek injunctive relief for violation of this Ordinance should other means prove ineffective and a threat to public health and safety exist.

SECTION 16: PENALTIES

(a) Failure to Submit Required Forms: Any facility which fails to submit the forms required by this local Ordinance shall be fined not less than $100.00 nor more than $250.00 for each day following the completion of the ten (10) day notice by certified mail from the administering agency.

(b) Failure to Notify Local Government: Any facility or person who fails to notify local government as required in Section 7 of this local Ordinance may be fined not less than $250.00 nor more than $500.00.

(c) Interference with Local Officials: Except by pursuance of legal action in the courts, no person shall interfere or attempt to interfere with any person conducting an inspection or other activity authorized by this Ordinance. Any person who violates this section shall be fined not less than $150.00 nor more than $300.00.

(d) Civil Damages: Any person violating any provision of this 11, subject to the affirmative defenses set forth in that section, become liable civilly to the City government for any expense, loss or damage, caused to the government by reason of such violation, including, but not limited to, any clean-up, evacuation, administrative or other expenses, and legal expenses.

SECTION 17: AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

It shall be an affirmative defense to an enforcement action other than for violation of Section 7 of this Ordinance, including the recovery of clean-up cost pursuant to this Ordinance, if a person can prove that a release of hazardous materials was caused by (a) an act of God; (b) an act of war; (c) negligence on the part of the City Government; (d) or an act of omission of a third part, or any combination of the foregoing clauses.

SECTION 18: FEES

No fees shall be charged by the administering agency for the forms required by this Ordinance. No fees shall be established by the administering agency for any administrative cost of this Ordinance.

SECTION 19: DISCLAIMER OF LIABILITY

This Ordinance shall not create liability on the part of the administering agency for any damages that result from reliance on this Ordinance or any administrative decision lawfully made thereunder. All persons are advised to determine to their own satisfaction the level of protection, in addition to that required by this Ordinance, necessary or desirable to insure that there is no unauthorized release of hazardous materials.

SECTION 20: SEVERABILITY

If any provision or section of this Ordinance or the enforcement of any such provision or section is held to be invalid or unenforceable by a court or competent jurisdiction such invalidity or unenforceability shall not effect or render invalid or unenforceable any other provision of this Ordinance.

SECTION 21: EFFECTIVE DATE

This Ordinance shall become effective upon passage and publication.

Approved by the city council of Prestonsburg this 9th day of March, 1992, by Mayor Ann Latta and attested by Cit Clerk Sue Webb.

Do-it-yourself packet will help communities observe 22nd Earth Day

The 20th celebration of Earth Day in 1990 brought about an increased awareness in many Kentuckians of how their lifestyles are affecting the environment.

As a result, many individuals and communities have become actively involved in protecting the environment through ongoing programs for recycling, solid waste management, energy conservation, litter control, urban forestry, soil conservation, improving groundwater quality and vehicle emission control.

The Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet is offering packets of information and activities that can be used to educate local citizens or to demonstrate environmental issues in the classroom.

The Earth Day packet contains several community environmental education exhibit plans that explain simple, inexpensive ways community groups can create exciting educational exhibits to educate citizens about recycling, environmental shopping, household hazardous waste disposal and energy conservation.

One easy-to-prepare exhibit shows how to reduce waste through environmental shopping. The exhibit will look like an aisle in a grocery. On the shelves, overpackaged products will be displayed alongside more environmentally sound alternatives—fresh produce in a polystyrene tray wrapped in plastic placed next to unwrapped fresh produce, single-serve packages of food next to larger size multi-serving containers.

A more elaborate idea suggests building an "ECO HOME." Using theater flats, the home can be constructed to simulate a kitchen, bathroom, garage and backyard. In each area of the home, tips can be offered to show people how to simple changes in their lifestyles can make a difference in the environment.

These exhibits can be used not only at Earth Day celebrations, but throughout the year at any community event.

The packet also will include a list of major environmental events happening across the Commonwealth during 1992 and a list of Cabinet environmental education staff members—and their phone numbers—who can be contacted for more assistance and information.

The teacher packet includes materials on environmental topics that can be duplicated for use in the classroom and activities for grades K through 12.

To request a copy of one or both of the Earth Day packets, write Earth Day, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, 5th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call (502) 564-3350 and ask for Cindy. Please indicate the packet you wish to receive when writing or calling.

Allen Central wins third straight 58th District tournament title

Battle of the boards!

Jenny Yates (25) of Allen Central went hard after the basketball with McDowell's Kerrie Newsome (20). Allen Central came from behind to record a 75-52 win over McDowell and won their third straight district title. (photo by Ed Taylor)

It was a "three-peat" performance for the Allen Central Lady Rebels when they won their third consecutive 58th District championship Saturday night at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne. No team has won three or more consecutive district titles since Allen Central did it back in the Judy Eversole era. The Lady Rebels won it all in 1979, '80, '81, '82.

The Lady Rebels posted a 75-52 win over the much improved McDowell Lady Daredevils to capture the coveted title. But it was the raining of three-pointers that fell the Lady Daredevils as they forgot to guard the perimeter. Staci Moore drilled eight three-point baskets in scoring 28 points to lead the Lady Rebels in scoring. Jenny Wiley finished with 16 points in a good floor game for the junior guard.

McDowell came out as if they were ready to serve notice that the reign of Allen Central was about to end. The Lady Daredevils, the second place team in the conference, rolled out to a very quick 14-4 lead in the first period.

Allen Central turned up the defense a notch and the Lady Daredevils were not able to handle the pressure as Allen Central scored nine unanswered points to close the quarter, trailing 14-13. Moore had back-to-back treys and Angie Bailey hit a field goal.

Shelby Howell gave McDowell a 16-13 lead with a field goal to open the second stanza. But Allen Central wasn't ready to quit as they went on a 11-0 run to take a 24-16 lead over McDowell. Wiley had six points in the run with Veronica McKinney, who scored 12 points in the game, tossing in four.

Allen Central's defense got only stronger as they began to cut down the passing lanes on McDowell and took a 13 point lead, 33-20, on Moore's three-pointer with 1:25 left in the second quarter. Allen Central seemed to be doing everything right both offensively and defensively.

McDowell got a free throw from Kerri Newsome and a basket by Debbie Fannin to pull to within 10 points at the half, 37-27. Marsha Brown came off the bench in the second period and gave the Lady Rebels a lift by hitting three consecutive baskets as she found the left corner to her liking. Brown finished with eight points.

"I just love it," said Wiley of her team's third straight district title. "I didn't know if we could pull it off or not the way the game started. I was scared. But once we got the ball inside, worked hard and hustled, we did all right.

"We wanted the whole starting five to have an even scoring night but Staci (Moore) really was hot from the outside and we went to her a lot."

Wiley had an answer when asked about going for four straight. "All the way again next year," she remarked. Allen Central has no seniors on their team and returns the whole squad.

"I really feel good about winning tonight," said Marsha Brown, who, as a sophomore, has been on two championship teams. "I was surprised how well McDowell played us in the first quarter. But we had the threes from Staci and that helped."

A junior guard who has been on all three championship teams is Jenny Yates. Yates did not score in the game but played an excellent floor game.

"We just played good team ball tonight," said Yates. "It was a good

"Miracle Cats" repeat as 58th District Champs with 64-51 win over Blackcats

Are the Betsy Layne Bobcats basketball team appropriately named the "miracle cats" after their stunning 64-51 win over the Prestonsburg Blackcats Saturday night to repeat as 58th District champions?

Betsy Layne entered the tournament as the number five seeded team and with the worst overall and conference record in the county. However, the Bobcats never let their record dictate how they would play. It was a solid team effort on the part of Bobcat coach Junior Newsome's ballclub.

"We (Newsome and coaching staff) kept telling the kids that if they would work hard, that good things would happen for them," the veteran coach stated after his team repeated as champions. "They worked real hard all season long and good things did happen."

But the victories were not easy ones for the uptempo Bobcats. "No, it wasn't an easy season for us," Newsome stated. "We had adversity and lost some close games during the season but the kids dedicated themselves to the task before them and this is the 'fruits' for their labors."

When you look at the scoring column for the Bobcats, only two players appear in double figures. But the underlining factor was the overall play of the entire Bobcat team that was summarized in just playing hard basketball.

Barry Hall, who really gave the Bobcats a needed lift in the second half of the season, tossed in 24 points and pulled down seven rebounds. Jason Akers added 19 points in a superb performance.

"Jason has been coming on strong for us all season," said Coach Newsome of his center's play.

The game was a close encounter in the first 20 minutes of the contest. With the score tied at 33-33 on a John Clark jumper with 5:36 remaining in the third quarter Betsy Layne ran off five unanswered points to take a five point advantage, 38-33. Hall hit a field goal and two free throws just behind a free throw by Brian Hunter. Hall's two free throws came on an intentional foul called on Clark. Hall had stolen the ball and was going for the layup when Clark caught him from behind. The officials thought it was a flagrant foul and two shots were awarded; the ball went out of bounds to Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats built their lead to seven points, 45-38, at the end of three quarters of play.

A basket by Akers and Hall's two charity tosses gave Betsy Layne an 11 point cushion early in the final period. The Bobcats no longer looked like a young inexperienced team against Prestonsburg.

"We started gaining experience as the season went on," said Newsome. "We developed a strong inside game and our outside play came along. Our inside game got stronger as Jason and Brian got more experience."

Newsome said that Hall contributed to the program after he made some adjustments.

"Barry certainly helped us," said the Betsy Layne mentor. "Once he learned the system and made some necessary adjustments Barry turned it on just in time for the tournament."

In fact all the Bobcats turned up their play. "It came at good time," Newsome remarked. "We turned on at tournament time."

Prestonsburg's Clark was injured late in the game and had to be helped off the court and was unable to finish the game. Clark pulled up lame with 1:02 left in the contest and his team trailed 57-47.

The "miracle cats" pulled two firsts in the district tournament by defeating the first seeded team and then knocking off the second seeded team to win the tournament. The Bobcats posted an opening game win over Wheelwright, the number one seed before defeating Prestonsburg.

"Both are firsts," said Newsome. "We were realistic as to our chances coming into the tournament," stated Newsome. "We knew we were the fifth place team and our record showed that. But these kids have grown up a lot and had more experience at tournament time."

Prestonsburg broke open to a 5-0 lead in the first quarter in the shooting of Clark. Clark hit two free throws and a three-pointer for the early lead.

58th District...

Bobcats stun conference leader Wheelwright, 66-62

Throw the records out the window. Forget about conference standings. When it comes tournament time, all that matters is how you perform at that particular time. And against the Wheelwright Trojans Friday night in the 58th District tournament, the Betsy Layne Bobcats stunned the 58th District fans with a 66-62 win over the front running Trojans.

"This is the first time a fifth place team beat the number one seed," explained Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome. "The kids believed in themselves. We believed in them."

It was on the defensive boards that Betsy Layne handled the Trojans, giving coach Jackie Pack's ballclub just one shot at the goal. Betsy Layne out rebounded the Trojans 23-18 with Brian Hunter and Jason Akers gathering 14 of the 23. Hunter had eight boards while Akers pulled in six.

"Tonight Brian and Jason grew up a little more," said Newsome. "Earlier in the year we were an inexperienced ballclub. But we have grown up some through the season."

It was a game that saw great coaching on both sides. Wheelwright took a 46-44 lead on a free throw by Layne Bailey to start the fourth quarter. But Betsy Layne ran off five consecutive points for a 49-46 lead. Steven Jackson stole the ball from Betsy Layne's Shawn Wallen and went solo for a basket to cut the margin to one, 49-48.

After a basket by Akers to make it a 51-48 game, Wheelwright turned the ball over on three straight possessions and Betsy Layne scored on all three turnovers to take an eight point, 56-48 lead with 2:35 left in the game.

It was the shooting of Bailey that kept the Trojans close as he hit a three-pointer and Jimmy Helton stole the ball for an easy basket to bring the Trojans to within three points, 56-53. John Hall came in on the blind side of Jody Coleman for a steal and had an easy layup to narrow the margin to one, 56-55.

Coleman came back, and on a move to the basket, scored — and was fouled by Hall. Coleman connected on the charity toss with 54 seconds remaining.

Harold Johnson, with his patient moves underneath, scored, on a good move to the basket, and then immediately called a time out. The basket pulled the Trojans to within two points, 59-57. On what appeared a busted play underneath the basket for Betsy Layne, Akers picked up a loose ball, scored and was fouled. Akers completed the three-point play but Bailey hit from long range again for a 62-60 score and called a time out.

Wallen hit four consecutive free throws to put the game away for the Bobcats ending a very successful season for Wheelwright.

"We knew that if we could shoot well against Wheelwright we could win," Newsome explained. "It was a gallant effort by our kids. They didn't fold when Wheelwright came back."

Newsome said that his team had some great practices and knew they could beat Wheelwright.

"Wheelwright has had a great season and Coach (Jackie) Pack has done a great job," stated Newsome. "Everybody contributed tonight and we are happy to be in the finals of the tournament. These kids have not quit all year and have hung in there."

"We knew that (Harold) Johnson would get his points and that's a tribute to him," the Betsy Layne mentor said. "We wanted to hold Bailey down. We seemingly had the game put away and then Bailey would come down and hit the threes on us."

Johnson led all scorers with 24 points. Bailey finished with 17 and hit four three-pointers. Jimmy Helton tossed in nine points and Mike Newsome finished with six.

Betsy Layne had a balanced scoring attack led by Wallen's 19 points. Coleman tossed in 15 and Barry Hall added 12 with two treys. Akers netted 11 points with Hunter scoring eight.

Mike Newsome had seven rebounds for Wheelwright and Johnson pulled in six.

"Bless this attempt!"

DISTRICT TOURNAMENT WAS GREAT!

I certainly enjoyed the 58th District tournament at Betsy Layne this past week. What large crowds we had each night. It is very easy to get caught up in the atmosphere of the event. I don't think anyone puts on a tournament like we do here in Floyd County.

My brother Bob came in just to take in the tournament since he has retired now. He enjoyed the good games that he saw and was surprised at the involvement of the fans in the games. The atmosphere was different here than in Ohio. He is planning on coming back for the finals of the 15th Regional this coming week.

Congratulations to Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats on repeating as 58th District champions. Newsome does a great job of coaching. Also, we extend our congratulations to the Allen Central Lady Rebels on winning their third consecutive district title. Coach Bonita Compton has done a fantastic job with the Allen Central girls' program. It is a program with a lot of tradition as one of the more successful programs in the county.

Thank you's have to go to McDowell principal Phil Paige and coach Johnny Ray Turner for a great job of running the tournament. To Brenda and all the ladies in the hospitality room, a million and one thanks. You were great hostesses.

Allen Central, McDowell, Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg will be representing our district in the boys and girls regional tournaments at Betsy Layne and Allen Central this week. I urge all fans to lay aside any differences and go out and support these fine teams. You can bet the other district teams coming into the tournament will have a lot of support on their side. Let's show them that Floyd County does stand behind their teams no matter what school represents us.

The girls regional got underway Monday night at Betsy Layne with Allen Central winning over Belfry (story and photos in Friday's sports section). McDowell played Elkhorn City last night (Tuesday). Betsy Layne is the host school for the tournament and the gym looks great. Mr. Alan Osborne and coach Junior Newsome as tournament managers have everything going great.

Allen Central will host the boys' tournament starting this Friday night and it will run through Tuesday night of next week. You will have very fine basketball teams competing for the right to go to Freedom Hall to represent the 15th Region in Louisville.

I hate it that John Clark will not be able to play in this week's regional tournament against Belfry. Clark injured his ankle severely against Betsy Layne in the final two minutes of the fourth quarter.

While passing out congratulations, let's congratulate the Prestonsburg junior varsity Junior Pro basketball team upon their winning the Scott County Invitational this past weekend. Wilburn Samons ballclub will be taking part in the upcoming regional tournament to be held in Richmond on March 27-29. The winner and runner-up advances on to Bowling Green for the state tournament later in April. We'll be on hand in Richmond for all the tournament action.

BASEBALL IS IN THE AIR

The Cincinnati Reds are playing their spring training games and high school baseball is just around the corner. The season is scheduled to start around the last of this month and the first of April.

We, here at the Floyd County Times, need all the high school baseball schedules as well as what girls' softball teams we will have. Now, don't wait until the season is almost over before sending us a schedule. Do it now!

We will be having a preview look at each in the county after the regional tournament is completed. I feel we have some teams in this county that could very well go to the state tournament this season. It should be a good year for high school baseball.

Radio station WQHY tells me that they will be carrying some of the high school games on radio this season. We need that kind of coverage.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports! See you at the regional tournaments.

Allen Central Rebels fall to Prestonsburg, 61-59

The Allen Central Rebels had a rough second quarter against Prestonsburg in the semifinals of the 58th District tournament Friday night at the D. W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne. The Rebels managed only four points as Prestonsburg outscored them 15-4 and then went on to edge coach Johnny Martin's ballclub, 61-59.

Allen Central held a one point lead, looked to be in the driver's seat and headed for another upset of a high seeded team. With 20 seconds remaining in the game and the Rebels on top 59-58, Larry Patton stepped to the free throw line, after Aaron Tucker picked up his fifth personal foul, with a chance to add to the one point margin. Patton missed on the front end of the bonus shot and Prestonsburg claimed the rebound. On the rebound, Todd Lucas fouled Joe Whitt with just one second off the clock. Whitt nailed two charity tosses to give the lead back to Prestonsburg at 60-59.

Allen Central still had the ball and time enough on the clock for the final shot. However, the Rebels turned the ball over when Clark picked Lucas' pocket and went for the layup. Lucas was called for an intentional foul of Clark and the Blackcat guard was awarded two free throws. Clark hit the back end of the charity tosses for a 61-59 lead and the ball out of bounds. Time expired on Allen Central, ending the Rebels season and a chance to return home for the regionals.

Allen Central's Stewart Hall was playing with an injured wrist and the high scoring guard was limited to just seven points. In the fourth quarter, the Allen Central guard hit the floor hard and the game was delayed while he was being looked after.

It was a rough game at the onset as the two teams knew the importance of the game. Prestonsburg came out with the idea of shutting the perimeter shooting of Allen Central from the three-point circle.

The Blackcats held a 47-39 lead in the fourth period only to see the Rebels come charging back. Mike Allen hit a short jumper for the Rebels and after a Prestonsburg turnover, Phillip Patton scored underneath and on a second successive turnover from the Blackcats Jeremy Hall hit a jumper to pull his team to within two points, 47-45.

Eric Fitzer's basket underneath gave Prestonsburg a 51-47 lead with just over three minutes to play. Jeremy Hall then banked a shot high off the backboard that found it's way through the hoop. Hall was fouled on the shot and sank the free throw to make it a one point affair, 51-50. Allen Central took the lead with 3:04 showing on the clock when Phillip Patton connected on two free throws.

Carl Watkins picked up his fifth personal foul, fouling Clark who hit two free throws to give the lead back to Prestonsburg. The Blackcats added to the margin on back-to-back baskets by guard Jason Crisp. Tucker's free throws completed a 7-2 run for Prestonsburg for a 58-54 lead with 1:35 left in the game.

With what seemed a safe lead, the Blackcats saw the Rebels come charging back as Allen Central scored five unanswered points to take their 59-58 lead.

Prestonsburg jumped out to a 5-0 lead on an opening basket by Fitzer and a Tucker free throw. Lucas drilled a three-pointer and Allen hit a jumper from the corner to tie the game as the Blackcats defense dropped off of him daring him to shoot.

The score was tied at 7-7 but Stewart Hall's jumper gave Allen Central a 9-7 lead. Jeremy Hall hit a three-pointer to the chants of "freshman" from the Prestonsburg cheering section to send the Rebels out by five, 12-7. Crisp and Hall exchanged three-pointers as the first quarter ended with Allen Central in front 15-10.

Then the drastic second quarter happened for Allen Central. Seven straight points by Prestonsburg erased the Allen Central lead. Allen Central got field goals from Allen and Lucas as Prestonsburg took a 25-19 lead to the locker room at the half.

Prestonsburg held their biggest lead of nine points at the end of the third period, 40-31.

Jeremy Hall led all scorers with 24 points. Hall had 24 points in each

Howell, Newsome lead McDowell past Betsy Layne in district play

The McDowell Lady Daredevils' half-court press caused some problems for the Lady Cats of Betsy Layne in the semifinals of the 58th District tournament at Betsy Layne Thursday night.

The full court pressure of McDowell was the very thing that concerned the Lady Cats earlier. The pressure defense caused Betsy Layne some fourth quarter problems and allowed McDowell to go and post a 54-42 win over Bill Newsome's ballclub who had surprised Prestonsburg in the first round.

Shelby Howell tossed in 17 points and Kerrie Newsome added 14 to lead the on-charging Lady Daredevils in scoring. Michelle Hall scored 10 points while Kristy Mullins netted seven.

Dee Dee Martin led Betsy Layne with 15 points and Misty Clark scored 11. Tina Rice and Ashla Stanley had six each.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair up to the fourth quarter when McDowell went on a 9-2 tear that netted them a 10 point, 49-39 lead. Hall scored two baskets that was sandwiched between with a Kristy Mullins' free throw. After Martin scored for Betsy Layne, Howell got a rebound basket and Newsome hit a short jumper to complete the run. Clark hit a three pointer for Betsy Layne to cut the lead back to seven.

Martin picked up her fifth personal foul with 1:52 on the scoreboard. Stanley and Misty Johnson followed Martin to the bench via the foul route as McDowell hit five of seven free throws to win by 12 points.

McDowell led by four at the end of the first quarter 16-12 as Tina Rice hit a three-pointer ahead of the buzzer. Newsome had six points in the McDowell first period.

Betsy Layne took their first lead of the game in the second quarter as they passed the Lady Daredevils on a three pointer by Stanley to take a 25-23 lead. McDowell scored the last four points of the period to go to the locker room with a 27-25 lead.

Betsy Layne's defense picked up in the early part of the third period as Martin came out and scored five of her team's first six points to send the Lady Cats out in front, 31-27. However, with 5:03 left in the third stanza, the Lady Bobcats center picked up her fourth personal foul with over five minutes left and had to go to the bench. The loss of Martin was felt both offensively and defensively as Betsy Layne could only score two points on a layup by Rice in the last five minutes of the game. In that span, McDowell outscored Betsy Layne eight to two to take a two point lead, 35-33, on a basket by Fannin.

Betsy Layne continued to struggle in the fourth quarter as McDowell raced to an eight point lead, 45-37 behind the scoring of Michelle Hall. Hall had eight of the first 10 points for McDowell in the final stanza.

With Martin out of the game most of the second half, McDowell worked the boards hard and beat the Lady Cats bad in rebounding. Betsy Layne was just getting one shot at the basket.

The Lady Cats finished the season with a 10-16 record. McDowell improved to 12-13.

of his two tournament games. Hall had four three-pointers against Prestonsburg giving him 10 for the tournament. Lucas finished with 11 points and Allen added eight.

Prestonsburg was led by Jason Crisp with 16 points. Crisp hit two treys in coming off the bench. Clark finished with 12 points but was limited to only one field goal. Clark hit 10 of 12 free throws. Fitzer also scored 12 points in the game in a starting role. Tucker had nine points and Chris Burke scored seven.

Allen Central finishes the season at 13-13 while Prestonsburg improves to 13-12. The Blackcats will face the Belfry Pirates in Friday night's opening game of the boys 15th Region tournament at Allen Central. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Harold Johnson
Male Player of the Year

Melissa Bailey
Female Player of the Year

Johnson, Bailey are players of the year

Only one word is needed to describe this year's 58th District tournament held last week at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse in Betsy Layne — tremendous, great, wonderful, magnificent. Well, maybe you couldn't describe it in one word. One had to be there to experience the atmosphere of the event.

The gymnasium was packed each night of the tournament as some of the best basketball in the 58th District was played in the four nights. The tournament had it all and there were even some surprises.

McDowell High School was the host school with principal Phil Paige and coach Johnny Ray Turner the tournament managers. I heard many fans talking about what a great job the two managers did in taking care of the tournament. Both individuals did an outstanding job.

The students and other fans were well behaved which goes to prove that a great tournament can be held and fun had in an orderly way. No problems existed and no off color signs were allowed to be displayed, although there were many others.

The bands, as usual were super and did a great job. The cheerleaders worked very hard in keeping their fans in the spirit of things.

The coaches and players put on a great show for all of us to see and enjoy. Todd Duff did an excellent job as the tournament's public address announcer. Herschel Conn and Mike Howard ran the clock and kept the books in the way they are accustomed to — outstanding job.

Upsets. We had them. Allen Central over McDowell. Betsy Layne stunned Wheelwright and Prestonsburg to win the tournament. In the girls' ranks, Betsy Layne had a big win over Prestonsburg. Wheelwright almost took it to Allen Central. It was just a great tournament.

Melissa Bailey was voted as the girls' Player of the Year and honored with a nice plaque. Wheelwright's Harold Johnson got the nod as the boys' Player of the Year.

Named to the girl's All-Conference team were: Staci Moore, Jenny Wiley, Angela Bailey, Veronica McKinney and Jenny Yates of Allen Central; Dee Dee Martin, Tina Rice of Betsy Layne; Debbie Fannin, Nikki Mullins, Kristy Mullins of McDowell; Melissa Bailey and Carolyn Refitt of Prestonsburg; Becky Allen and Stephanie Little of Wheelwright.

After the championship girls game, an All-District team was also named. Named to the squad were: Jenny Wiley, Staci Moore, Marsha Brown, Angela Bailey and Jenny Yates of Allen Central; Kerri Newsome, Shelby Howell and Michelle Hall of McDowell; Ashla Stanley and Misty Johnson of Betsy Layne; Melissa Bailey and Raquel Cain of Prestonsburg; Krystal Isaac and Stephanie Little of Wheelwright.

Named to the boys' All-Conference team were: Todd Lucas, Stewart Hall of Allen Central; Jody Coleman, Shawn Wallen of Betsy Layne; Dale Hinkle, Matt Johnson or McDowell; John Clark, Aaron Tucker, Chris Burke of Prestonsburg; Harold Johnson, Mike Newsome, John Hall, Layne Bailey and Jimmy Helton of Wheelwright.

Five players from the champion Betsy Layne Bobcats headed a 14 team All-District squad. Barry Hall, Jody Coleman, Shawn Wallen, Brian Hunter and Jason Akers were named for the Bobcats. Jason Crisp, John Clark, Aaron Tucker from Prestonsburg; Scotty Stanley and Matt Johnson from McDowell; Stewart Hall and Jeremy Hall of Allen Central; Layne Bailey and Harold Johnson of Wheelwright. Jeremy Hall was the only freshman named.

The Allen Central girls' varsity cheerleaders won first place and the Prestonsburg cheerleaders were the runners-up.

For the boys, McDowell's cheerleaders won first place with Betsy Layne taking second place.

Jenny Wiley of Allen Central won the individual girls' free throw trophy and the team free throw trophy went to Prestonsburg.

Betsy Layne's Barry Hall took the individual free throw trophy home for the boys with Wheelwright winning the team free throw trophy.

Each player on the winners and runners-up teams for both boys and girls received individual trophies.

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS
Can-Cam Video was on hand to tape the girls' district tournament. Tapes are available for $12 per game. Call 478-2511 or 478-2386 for more information.

On the Prestonsburg girls' bench was former Lady Blackcat Kany Slone with her knee in a brace. Slone plays basketball at Lee's College.

Our favorite coach, Denzil "Hess" Halbert had a special chair provided for him. It was high back, soft cushion seat on the upper level. Nothing too good for Hoss.

I noticed Betsy Layne principal Al Osborne when the Betsy Layne band was playing "Rocky Top" Mr. Osborne was keeping the beats he slapped the stands while the music flowed.

The Betsy Layne gymnasium was in great shape for the tournament. There was some painting accomplished as well as the floor being cleaned. It looked great.

Not only was there competition on the floor, but between the bands.

A good sight to see was after Betsy Layne defeated Prestonsburg when Melissa Bailey walked over and hugged two of the Betsy Layne players. Bailey is a former Lady Cat.

In the Allen Central/Wheelwright girls' game, Lady Trojan Becky Allen was throwing the ball down court to the referee but the ball hit Stephanie Little in the head instead.

Coach Donnie Daniels had his football players in attendance when the Wheelwright Trojans faced the Betsy Layne Bobcats Friday night.

Recognized at the Wheelwright/Betsy Layne game was former Trojan basketball coach G.N. Wilkinson. Wilkinson coached the Trojans during the 1949-50 season.

It was a tearful time for Betsy Layne cheerleader sponsor Shelia Furchett. Burchett received roses from each of the Bobcat cheerleaders as she was recognized for a great job.

team effort for us."

Moore, who set a new personal record for three-pointers, credited her teammates for her success.

"They got the ball to me and I was hitting," she commented. "It sure feels good to win again."

Moore hit the final basket for Allen Central before the game ended and, you guessed it, it was a three-pointer.

"That last shot was a big one for me," said Moore. "I had never hit eight three-pointers in a game before."

Allen Central held a 53-41 lead after three quarters of play and went up by 18 points, 68-50 in the fourth period. The Lady Rebels scored the final seven points of the game to win by 23 points.

Howell led the Lady Daredevils in scoring with 15 points. Newsome added 11 and Michelle Hall scored 10 before fouling out. Hall was held scoreless in the first half but had a strong third quarter by scoring eight quick points. She left the game with 4:02 left in the contest.

Allen Central (16-9) faced the Lady Pirates of Belfry in the first round of the girl's 15th Region tournament at Betsy Layne (Monday night). McDowell (12-14) took on top ranked Elkhorn City last night (Tuesday).

Lady Trojans play Allen Central close before falling 55-50

It was supposed to be a breeze. It wasn't even supposed to be a close game. After all, Allen Central had beaten the Wheelwright Lady Trojans by 50 points the last time the two teams played each other.

It was different this time as Wheelwright came to play and they gave the conference champions a scare before falling 55-50 in the first round of the 58th District tournament at Betsy Layne Friday night.

With 2:21 remaining in the game, Allen Central held a 10 point, 52-42 lead. Two free throws by Krystal Isaacs was followed with a free throw by Sheena Collins, who had been out for several weeks with an injury. Rhonda Thornsby scored underneath after Allen Central's Jenny Wiley had missed two front ends of bonus free throws. Thornsby's rebound basket made it a 52-47 game. Thornsby was fouled on the basket but missed the charity toss.

After Angie Bailey's free throw gave Allen Central a 53-47 lead, Wheelwright got two free throws from Stephanie Little with 23 seconds left to pull back to within four points, 53-49.

Wheelwright elected to put Marsha Brown on the free throw line with 11 seconds to go. Brown hit the two free throws for a 55-49 lead. A free throw by Thornsby completed the scoring for Wheelwright.

Wheelwright led three times in the game. The Lady Trojans held a 2-0 lead and a 6-4 lead in the first quarter and scored the first four points of the third period to take a 33-29 lead.

The score was tied at 8-8 and 14-14 after one quarter of play. Wheelwright scored the last six points of the first quarter to tie the game after Allen Central had gone on top, 14-8. Collins hit back-to-back baskets and Little added a field goal before the horn.

The Lady Rebels raced out to a seven point, 25-128 lead in the second period but then went cold from the field as Isaac's basket with 2:39 remaining in the first half made it a 25-24 game.

Wiley connected on two free throws to give Allen Central a 29-26 lead before Isaac's basket and free throw tied the game at 29-29 at the half.

Wheelwright rolled to a 33-29 lead early in the fourth quarter on two free throws by Becky Allen and Isaac's field goal. Staci Moore hit a layup and then drilled a three-pointer to pull the Lady Rebel back in front, 35-33. A basket by Isaac tied the game at 35-35. Wiley then scored four straight points for a 39-35 Allen Central lead. Two points came on free throws after Allen was whistled for a technical foul. Thornsby scored on a layup to keep the Lady Trojans close, 39-37.

Allen Central scored the first seven points of the fourth quarter to go on top 46-37 and stretched the lead to 12 points, 50-38 with less than four minutes left in the game.

Moore had 18 points to lead Allen Central in scoring. Wiley finished with 15 and Veronica McKinney added eight. Bailey netted seven points.

Isaac's 13 points led Wheelwright. Thornsby tossed in 11 and Collins scored 10 points. Little tallied nine for the Lady Trojans.

"Miracle Cats" (Continued from BB 1)

A basket by Hall and two free throws from Shawn Wallen cut the lead to 7-4. Betsy Layne took their first lead with 1:18 left in the first quarter on a rebound basket by Hunter. Clark's jumper with 22 seconds showing reclaimed the lead at the end of the first period, 12-11.

A free throw by Jonathan Tackett and Wallen's field goal sent Betsy Layne out to a five point lead, 28-23, before Clark hit a jumper off the right side to cut the lead to three, 28-25, as the two teams went to the locker room.

The victory allowed the Bobcats to repeat as district champions on their home floor.

Fans knew that victory was sure when Newsome put his arms around his two assistant coaches and smiled as the clock was running out on Prestonsburg. Clark scored 17 points to lead Prestonsburg in scoring. Aaron Tucker added 10 points while Jason Crisp and Chris Burke had six points each.

Both teams advance to regional tournament play this weekend as Betsy Layne (12-18) will face the Cougars of Elkhorn City and Prestonsburg (13-12) will go against top ranked Belfry in the opening game at 6:30 p.m. Friday night. The Betsy Layne game is scheduled for Saturday night at 8:15 p.m.

Prestonsburg Black wins Scott Co. Invitational over Lexington

The Prestonsburg Black junior varsity basketball team took to the road this past week end to take part in the prestigious Scott County Invitational basketball tournament.

It was a long road but the local team came away with some sound victories to win the tournament over a good South Lexington white team. Prestonsburg lost to the Lexington team in their second game of the tournament 56-39 to drop to the loser's bracket. But Prestonsburg came out of the loser's bracket and defeated the Lexington team 56-46 behind Wes Samons' 22 points. Andy Jarvis tossed in 11 points and Billy Mitchell added 10. The loss for Lexington was their first of the double elimination tournament meaning that Prestonsburg had to defeat the white team once again.

Prestonsburg accomplished the feat once more, again by 10 points, 55-45 with Samons leading the way with 17 points. Neil Hamilton scored nine points and Jarvis totaled eight.

Prestonsburg finished the tournament with a fine 8-1 record and had to play four games back-to-back on Sunday afternoon. Named to the All-Tournament team were Samons, John Ortega and Shawn Ousley. Craig Johnson of Betsy Layne also was named from Floyd County.

PRESTONSBURG VS PAINTSVILLE

In other games involving the Prestonsburg black team, Prestonsburg posted a 65-27 win over Paintsville in their first game of the tournament. Samons scored 13 points with Ousley and Ortega each tossing in 12 points. Mitchell and Jarvis each added six points while John Stevens scored seven. Joe Campbell had three points and Kyle Conley tossed in four.

Danny Scott tossed in nine points to lead Paintsville. Brook Taylor and Kevin Green each had six points.

Prestonsburg led at the end of the first quarter 9-78 but blitzed Paintsville in the second period to take a 21-10 halftime lead.

PRESTONSBURG VS S.E. LEXINGTON

A cold Prestonsburg team saw Lexington light up the scoreboard to the tune of a 56-39 defeat. Prestonsburg stayed close to the Lexington team in the first quarter trailing by two, 14-12, at the first stop. Lexington outscored Prestonsburg 11-4 in the second quarter to lead by nine at the half, 25-16.

Ramon Cowan led Lexington with 13 points and Peter Howard added 12. Billy Mitchell's nine points was tops for Prestonsburg with Ortega and Ousley each adding eight points each. Samons scored only six points in the loss and Joe Campbell netted three. Bryan Fitzpatrick and Kyle Conley had two each with Stephens scoring one.

PRESTONSBURG VS DUFF

The black team got back on the winning trail as they faced Duff in the loser's bracket and posted a one sided 81-16 win over another Floyd County entrant.

Wes Samons was outstanding in the game, scoring a game high 29 points. Billy Mitchell added 14 points in a good outing. John Ortega tallied 10 points with Bryan Fitzpatrick and Neil Hamilton scoring eight. Andy Jarvis added three points with Shawn Ousley tossing in four. Joe Campbell and Kyle Conley had two each.

Corbett Howell scored four points to lead Duff. Ross Goble added three. Ryan Owens, Brian Crawford, Eric Casebolt and Keren Wallen each scored two points.

PRESTONSBURG VS S.E. LEXINGTON GOLD

Billy Mitchell tossed in 14 points and Wes Samons added 13 to lead the black team to a sound 59-34 win over South East Lexington gold team. Ortega had eight points and Jarvis scored five. Hamilton, Campbell and Stephens each had four points with Ousley netting three. Fitzpatrick and Conley had two each.

PRESTONSBURG VS BETSY LAYNE

Prestonsburg slipped past another Floyd County foe as they edged Betsy Layne 44-39 despite a 27 point performance by Craig Johnson of Betsy Layne. It was a balanced scoring attack by Prestonsburg that overcame the total of Johnson. Mitchell had nine points with eight scored by Ortega. Samons scored seven for Prestonsburg with Hamilton tossing in six. Stephens had five points.

Newsome scored six points for Betsy Layne. Mullins and Reynolds had two each.

Betsy Layne led 18-14 after the first quarter but trailed by two, 26-24, at the half.

PRESTONSBURG VS MADISON COUNTY

In the finals of the loser's bracket, Prestonsburg had a close encounter with the Madison County Tigers. Billy Mitchell scored 19 points to lead Prestonsburg to victory. John Ortega added 12 and Ousley scored 10. Hamilton tossed in nine.

Dickie Jarvis said that the Prestonsburg team looked sharp in Sunday's game after struggling somewhat on Saturday.

"They played awfully well on Sunday," said Jarvis. "We started around 1 p.m. and finished around 6:30 p.m."

Prestonsburg had to play back-to-back games with 15 minutes between games.

"There was no rest time for us," continued Jarvis. "The players were just going on adrenelin."

"Saturday, when we lost, we just didn't do anything right. We just didn't come to play basketball. Then later that day, we won three games and did play better."

It was a different Prestonsburg team that took to the floor on Sunday, according to Jarvis.

"From the first game Sunday our defense was tremendous," he explained. "In fact all phases of our game were good. We shot well. We protected the ball well and rebounded well."

Jarvis had praise for the coaching ability of Wilburn Samons who heads up the Prestonsburg team.

"Wilburn does a fine job at anything he does," said Jarvis. "I believe if he hadn't been coaching and making the moves he did, we wouldn't have won the tournament. He just does an excellent job." Eddie Campbell is another assistant for Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg will be hosting their own junior pro tournament starting March 20 at the Adams Middle School. The tournament will be a double elimination format with 12 teams participating. Both training league and junior varsity divisions will take part.

Jarvis said that teams from Scott County will be in the tournament and, hopefully, teams from Casey County, Madison County and Lexington as well as local teams will take part.

School or Home Improvement

Whether you're remodeling your house or rebuilding your schools, the most important goal is quality construction.

The Floyd County School System is embarking on a new course for the future and they'll soon be selecting a new superintendent to direct the reconstruction process.

It's a unique opportunity to make a positive impact on the quality of education in Floyd County.

Your input in the selection process is important. Let your board member know you care.

IT'S THAT TIME OF THE YEAR

There are exactly two days of school remaining before spring break. I must say that I am ready for it. Just knowing that I'd get a week off in March is the only thing that's kept me going since February.

Since this is my first college spring break, I'd really like to spend it in Daytona Beach. Last year (my senior year in high school), we spent ten days in sunny Florida. I guess that spoiled me, because I'm dying to go back.

I'd love to pack my suitcase, put on my shades, roll down the windows in my car, and start driving. (Warning: upcoming dream sequence). Of course, I'd take along 2 or 3 of my closest friends (actually, I'd take a hundred if I had room). Anyway, we'd drive down to Daytona and spend about a week.

There would be a nice ocean front condo set up for me when I arrived. I'd spend the next week basking on the sun-drenched beach with, oh, about a thousand or so other sunbathers. I'd do a little shopping, too.

What a way to spend spring break. (Dream sequence complete). But since I lack about a thousand dollars, hotel reservations, permission to take my car out of state, and 3 or 4 other minor details, I imagine I'll be spending the break here in good old Floyd County.

SO many choices, what shall I do first? Oh, I don't know, I think I might sleep. Call me a rebel, but, hey, one has got to start somewhere. After a half-day or so of rest, I guess, I'll go drive around the lake. That's good spring-time activity. Perhaps after that, I'll be daring enough to travel to Paintsville just to play Jungle Golf. Who needs Daytona? (Well, actually, I do, but that's beside the point).

Seriously, though, spring break is a great idea. Since it's been warm out, it's all I can do to drag myself to class. I just want to be out in the fresh air. I love spring.

You know, this spring break thing is right up there with setting the clock up an hour. Doesn't that just tickle you to death? I love to have extra time in the daylight. In the winter, it seems like forever between dusk and bedtime. It makes me crazy.

Well, anyway, everybody relax. It's springtime. Take a little time out and enjoy yourselves. See ya.

THE TRAP

It's been three or four years since I've encountered one of the little furry creatures that sometimes invade our households—and I'm reluctant to mention it, even now, lest they suddenly be thrust upon me.

Maybe the word got passed around in the world of mousedom that our sink cabinet is not to be seen as a garden of Eden, or maybe the neighbors' cats are taking care of us too. Whatever the explanation, I am grateful to be spared.

Anyway, I was surprised once when I opened a cabinet door and saw several bits of paper strewn about. It looked as if an army of mice had come in from the cold to build a nest out of a Brillo box.

I gathered up about four mouse-traps, baited them with some little delicacies and set them in what I considered a likely path for a rodent.

It didn't take long to get results. I sat down at the kitchen table to look through a magazine and soon I heard a trap spring.

I ran to see what kind of monster I'd caught and, if I'd been a big brave man, I might have picked the little fellow up and tossed him out the door. But giving in to my feminine tendencies, I had felt more inclined to squeal and wring my hands and the mouse got away.

The trap had failed to pin him but evidently had whacked him on the head. He was wandering around as if trying to get his bearings and to find an exit. If a mouse could think, I'd say he never wanted to see another Brillo box.

Every morning I would check the traps again, but they remained empty except for the bait that kept drying up a little more.

I concluded that I didn't really have mice. I had mouse.

A NEW ACCENT

I saw Dr. Ronald Hall and his family a few days ago. The five-year-old son, Cullen, looks like his father in miniature. Griffin is three, and he's the one who set off the fire alarm during their church's last Christmas program.

We exchanged a few stories and Dr. Hall asked if I'd heard about the two Eastern Kentuckians who went on a sight-seeing trip out west. Their journey, he said, had taken them into California by way of the Mojave Desert. They had stopped over for a while and engaged one of the residents in conversation.

"How hot does it get in this Mojave Desert?" one of them asked. "Sometimes it reaches 120 degrees," the old-timer answered. "But we don't pronounce it Mo-Jave. The J has the sound of an H," he said, "and we pronounce it Mo-Havie."

After a bit, the Californian asked them how long they would be visiting.

"We don't have any definite plans," he was told, "but we figure we'll go home about Hune or Huly."

DILEMMA "What I'm looking for is a blessing that is not in disguise." — Kitty O'Neill Collins

Kim's Korner

SHOULD WE KNOW OR NOT?

The other day seven of us were engaged in a conversation about politics — a subject my mother said should never be discussed in mixed company, let alone in your place of business.

Since I'm not known as one who keeps her opinions to herself, my tongue was flapping to beat 90.

The topic of whether or not we, the public, have the right to know political candidates' personal backgrounds arose.

Some individuals participating in this discussion voiced opinions that we shouldn't care if a presidential candidate slept around, or not. We should only care about his political expertise. Excuse me, but I don't think so. Anyone who's ever been involved in an election, even here in Floyd County, knows background information is first and foremost important. Or, it sure seems that way. If skeletons happen to be lurking in closets, I'll guarantee that they will surface. What I find hard to understand is why anyone running for a political office with something to hide, would dare to have their dirty laundry exposed.

Heck, there are Susan Allens all over the world, (remember Woodward and Bernstein) and thank goodness for them.

What a scary thought it would be if we were kept in the dark. With this in mind, imagine this little story, if you would.

Once upon a time, (no advertising intended, honestly) there was a presidential candidate seeking the most powerful position ever.

The First Lady-to-be deep down knew her husband was a low-life, two-timing scoundrel. Being the quiet, self-contained lady that she was, she kept all her suspicions inside. After all, she may one day become First Lady.

Only one week after being elected president of the United States, the First Lady hits the airways to inform the world about animal protection rights.

The mistress, keeping a close eye on the news and the whereabouts of the President and First Lady, knew this was her chance.

With her fatal attractions still burning for our President, she landed a job among the housekeeping staff at none other than the White House itself.

On the night before the First Lady was to return home, the mistress finally made it into the private quarters of the President.

Only to her surprise, she was a tad bit too late, for her boss had beaten her there.

Now, if you're keeping count, you know he's a three-timin' scoundrel.

Anyway, a squabble erupted and in the heat of arguing, pushing, and shoving that little red button we saw in the Phil Collins video (you know the one beside Ron and Nancy's bed) was pushed. The button read nuclear bomb. And the rest, my readers, is history.

Or, I should say: "And we, my readers, are history."

It's certainly something to ponder. Hey, far-fetched, maybe? But I would like to know. I think I could handle it far more if a candidate came clean and exposed himself — or his dirty laundry, I should say.

It would say a heck of a lot more for his integrity in my eyes. And anyway, who knows how many Glenn Closets there really are?

Better to know, than not! Till next week, to all Susan Allens — keep it up!

Part II CHILDREN GROUNDING PARENTS?

Once a child reaches a certain age, better known as adulthood, his/her parents are seen in a different light.

It's true. Just last week, I spent three days dialing my father's phone number 20-30 times a day. I didn't get an answer.

While calling his friends and sisters, I was becoming panicked. Where could he be? Worrying and wondering what could have happened to him, I made up my mind that once I did talk to him, he'd had it. Um — I believe I've heard this myself.

While I was sitting at work talking with customers last Thursday, the phone began to ring.

I answered it and Dad was on the other end.

I said, kind of loudly, "Where have you been?" Before he could answer, I continued, "You're grounded!"

From now on I want him to check in once a day, even if all I have to hear is "there were three little bears," which is what he always says after I answer the phone at work.

Parents, who says they don't pay you back for all you put them through? Till next week, phone home, your daughter's home.

Breaking the cycle of abuse

Elder Abuse

Mr. Brown, a 65-year-old man with both legs amputated and many health problems, sits alone outside in the hot sun and in pouring rain. His alcoholic son who cares for him often beats him and refuses to buy his medicine.

Mrs. Jones, 78, has had several strokes. Her daughter moved in to care for her, but does not know how to care for a bedridden person. Mrs. Jones has many bedsores and is severely malnourished.

Mrs. Williams, 85 and severely dependent, lives in a nursing home. Her son has noted that she often does not touch her food. She shows signs of depression and seems nervous when a certain aide walks in the room.

Of over 30 million elderly people in this country, it is estimated that 5 percent or 1.6 million are abused by children, spouses or outside caregivers. These people find themselves trapped in situations where they are being hurt, neglected and exploited by their caregivers. Many are so intimidated or incapacitated that they don't tell anyone about their abuse.

SIGNS OF POSSIBLE ELDER MISTREATMENT

- Physical Injuries
- Hostility
- Fear of Caregiver
- Anxiety
- Conflicting Stories
- Confusion
- Increasing Depression
- New Health Problems
- New Poverty
- Improper Medication
- Poor Personal Care
- Physician Shopping
- Malnutrition
- Dehydration
- Unresponsiveness
- Longing for Death

Caregivers. Some caregiver behaviors indicate possible elder abuse.

You may hear conflicting stories about the elderly person, with the caregiver shifting blame and excusing failures. The caregiver may be aggressive, defensive or increasingly resentful toward the elder. He or she may show new affluence while withholding food or medication from the elder.

TYPES OF ELDER ABUSE

1. Physical abuse. The abuser hurts or injures the person. This may involve physical coercion, confinement, slapping, bruising, sexual molesting, burning, restraining and pushing.
2. Passive neglect. The caregiver unintentionally fails to provide proper care.
3. Active neglect. The caregiver intentionally does not take care of the elderly person. Physical and emotional stress or injury may be inflicted by abandoning the person or denying food, medicine or personal hygiene.
4. Psychological abuse. The caregiver may inflict mental anguish by name calling, insulting, ignoring, humiliating, frightening, threatening, isolating or belittling the elderly person.
5. Financial abuse. The abuser may exploit the elderly person by using funds, property or other assets for personal gain.

WHY DOES ELDER ABUSE HAPPEN?

As the number of older Americans increases, so does the challenge of caring for the frail and dependent elderly. Families continue to provide most of the care even though under the best conditions they often are ill prepared. As the older person's health deteriorates over time, demands grow. The caregiver also may be working and caring for immediate family. When the stress becomes great, the possibility of abuse increases.

Other factors in elder abuse include mental health and substance abuse problems. Caregivers who are financially dependent on the elderly person are more likely to be abusive because they may resent their dependence. Caregivers who have little social contact may abuse because it is less likely that the mistreatment will be discovered. Unemployment, poor living conditions, and lack of support services also may contribute to elder abuse. Some abusive caregivers were abused themselves as children.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

- Stay sociable and maintain friendships.
- Develop a "buddy" system with someone outside the home.
- Participate in senior citizen community activities.
- Have your Social Security or pension checks deposited directly into your bank account.
- Only give up control of property and assets when you know you can no longer manage them.
- Ask for help when you need it. Attorneys, physicians and trusted friends will assist you.
- Keep records. Property and a will in order.
- Plan ahead for possible future disability. Get legal elder abuse, by law you must report it. In Kentucky advice on power-of-attorney, guardianship or conservatorship. Consider co-guardians so more than one person knows your affairs.

BEWARE!

- Do not select a caregiver with a background of violent behavior.
- Do not leave cash, jewelry or valuables lying out.

ABOUT ABSENT MINDEDNESS... AND...SOMETHING ELSE

To say the least, getting older sure is adventuresome. One thing age does, though, is change one's perspective about certain things.

Like absent mindedness. For instance, one of the first stories I remember hearing about this particular problem was of the old lady who kept losing her glasses, only to finally discover that she'd pushed them up onto her head.

I used to think that was silly. I don't anymore.

As a matter of fact, incidents like this one are fast becoming the norm around our house. While the ability to forget is a virtue in some instances, downright "forgetfulness" can be an absolute nuisance. I mean, one would think that some things in life would become automatic...like removing your car keys from the ignition before you lock the doors. Yet, I don't know how many times I've locked myself out of my car.

It's gotten so bad lately that my wife even suggested that I get an extra key made and carry it somewhere on my person. I did, but I forgot where I put it.

Even worse, though, are those times when I find myself wandering around the parking lot at Wal-Mart — with key in hand — trying to remember where I parked. (The only consolation here is that I meet some very nice people doing the same thing.)

Folks would swear that I'd won the lottery or something if I had a quarter for every time I've gotten up from watching TV and walked through the house, only to suddenly realize that I had no idea why I had. Of course, add a coin or two for each time I stop in mid-sentence, having no idea what I'm to say next, and I could probably retire to Florida.

Of course, gross absenteeism of the mind isn't the only thing about which I've changed my opinion.

For example, I used to snicker to myself when I'd see someone trying to read fine print by holding the paper at arm's length. "Better grow you some longer arms, Jim," I'd say.

Not anymore, though. Especially since I've progressed at least one level beyond ole Ben Franklin himself and now wear tri-focals... and still have to take them off and put the paper against my nose before I can focus on the print.

Then there's my diet. I can remember when I could eat pepperoni pizza before bedtime, then sleep like a baby. I just flat couldn't identify with someone who'd say something like, "Oh, I love this and such, but I can't eat it. It doesn't agree with me." Now, I can identify.

I've about decided, though, that it's just nature's way of taking care of us. At least while we're worrying about piddly things, like "Did I take my pill, or not?" we're not worrying about something worse, like "What if something were to happen to Bush and Quayle were to become president?"

I do hate it, though, that my sense of humor has changed. Take the story, for example, about the old gentleman who was examined by his doctor.

"You seem to be a perfect physical specimen, Tom. Why did you come to me?" the doctor asked.

"It's my mind, Doc. I can't remember anything anymore."

"Oh?" the doctor said. "How long have you had this problem?"

"What problem?" the man asked. Somehow, jokes like that are just not funny anymore. Maybe they never were. I don't remember.

Youth Night held during revival services at First Baptist

Tuesday night, March 3, was Youth Night at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial). As part of the revival services held there last week, the youth met at 5 p.m., on Tuesday, to go "kidnaping" for friends and other prospective attendants, and returned to the church in time for supper, at 6 p.m. Following the meal, the "kidnappers" and the "kidnappees" attended revival services conducted by Evangelist Lincoln Bingham, of Louisville. Thomas Foy is the youth and music director, and the Rev. Michael Taylor is the pastor.

Mrs. Mildred Salisbury visits Lexington relatives

Mrs. Mildred Salisbury, of Hunter, recently spent a week in Lexington visiting with relatives and friends. She was a houseguest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ann Johnson, of Lexington.

East Point Homemakers in regular meeting

The East Point Homemakers met March 2, at 12:30 p.m., at the Little Paint First Church of God. The meeting was called to order by Armita Snavely. Elsie Leake gave the devotionals, entitled "A Pattern for Living." Members answered the roll-call by describing their favorite clothing and telling the reason they like them.

The Bicentennial quilt, made by volunteer homemakers, was shown. This quilt will be hung in the old Daniel's Creek School House after the building has been moved to Jenny Wiley State Park.

It was announced that an area clothing seminar will be held at the Paintsville Country Club on March 26 and that a tatting workshop will be held on March 31 with Ada Martin as teacher.

The lesson, "Silver Threads for the Golden Years," was presented by Dorothy Harris.

Those present were Armita Snavely, Betsy Baldrige, Lorena Home, Priscilla Hager, Elsie Leake, Dorothy Harris and Francis Pitts.

New officers

GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club in Meeting

Members of the executive board of the GFWC/KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening, March 5, at 7 p.m., at the Arts and Crafts House at Archer Park, for the purpose of discussing matters to be brought before the club during its regular monthly meeting there, at 7:30 p.m. Present were Garnett Fairchild, Judy Burchell, Sue Martin, Diane Clatworthy, Helen Wells, Jane Wallace, Mabel Donahoe, Lida Howard, Nancy Martin, Burieta Gearhart, Boots Adams, and Drema Miller.

The next regular meeting will be Thursday evening, April 2, at 7:30. The devotional leader will be Fannie Gunnels; the program leaders will be Martha Johnson, and the title of the program will be "Nutritional Eating" (a KFWC Special Project). The speaker for this occasion will be Sue Wilson, of HRMC, and the hostesses will be: Phyllis Stanley, chairman, and Drema Miller, Frances Pitts, Pauline Burchett, Lillian Baldrige, Pauline Sparks and Betty Porter.

Mrs. Judy Burchell, program leader, introduced Libby Martin from the Floyd County Technical High School, who gave an interesting discussion of the program and opportunities offered there. She said this program which offers career opportunities for students not planning to attend college, had experienced remarkable growth. Her discussion was well received by those in attendance. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Burchell presented the speaker a gift.

Minutes of the February meeting were read by Mrs. Sue Martin, and approved, and Mrs. Helen Wells gave the financial report.

The President said that an invitation was recently received by this club from the Kentucky Federated Woman's Club and the Frankfort Woman's Club to spend Legislative Day in Frankfort, on March 3. Responding to this invitation were members, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, Miss Burieta Gearhart, Mrs. Eileen Burchett, and Mrs. Mable Brown. While there they also toured the historic Vest Linsey House, during a tour led by Helen Evans, who has been involved in the restoration and preservation of this house. Following the Legislative Session and the tour, the group attended a coffee hour.

The president appointed her nominating committee to select officers for the club year, 1992-93. These were: Lida Howard, chairperson, and Elizabeth Ramey, Dorothy Stover, Phyllis Herrick, and Mable Brown.

Mrs. Fairchild thanked the hostesses, Lucille Nunnery, chairman, Ditty Tackett, Florence Music, Kathryn Frazier, Kathy Lowe, Betty Rowland, and Julia Curtis. A delicious desert course with coffee and soft drinks was served. Present other than the hostesses were: Garnett Fairchild, Judy Burchell, Sue Martin, Diane Clatworthy, Helen Wells, Jane Wallace, Mabel Donahoe, Lida Howard, Nancy Martin, Burieta Gearhart, Boots Adams, and Drema Miller.

The next regular meeting will be Thursday evening, April 2, at 7:30. The devotional leader will be Fannie Gunnels; the program leaders will be Martha Johnson, and the title of the program will be "Nutritional Eating" (a KFWC Special Project). The speaker for this occasion will be Sue Wilson, of HRMC, and the hostesses will be: Phyllis Stanley, chairman, and Drema Miller, Frances Pitts, Pauline Burchett, Lillian Baldrige, Pauline Sparks and Betty Porter.

Here for Fields services

Greene, all of Pikeville; Mrs. Laura Virginia Roberts Collins, of Boca Raton, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hatcher Ward of Washington, D.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Liming of Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Rev. and Mrs. William Pope of Flemingsburg. Rev. Pope assisted the Rev. Wayne Sparks in conducting the services for Mrs. Fields.

John Graham Chapter DAR Holds Business-Dinner Meeting

John Graham Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Wednesday, at 3:30 p.m., February 26, at May Lodge, for a business dinner meeting. The regent, Mrs. Carl R. Horn, presided.

The Chaplain pro-tem, Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, led the DAR rituals; the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the USA was led by Mrs. Opal S. May, the American's Creed by the Regent, Mrs. Horn, and the National Defense message was given by Mrs. Goble.

The DAR Good Citizen chairman, Mrs. Goble, introduced Prestonsburg High School senior, Carter Hamilton, 1992 Good Citizen, who spoke on his winning essay, "Our American Heritage and My Responsibility to Preserve It." Mrs. Goble assisted by Mrs. Horn, presented Hamilton with the DAR Good Citizen Medal, the National Society certificate, identification card, and a check for $50.00.

During the business session, it was decided that the DAR/SAR, in conjunction with the Kentucky Division of Forestry, Floyd County, and the Floyd County 4-H group, buy 100 trees to be delivered to any of the 20 Floyd County Schools who wished to plant one on campus in honor of Kentucky's 200th birthday, near the date of Arbor Day, April 3. A pin oak or a coffee tree will also be offered to other civic or patriotic organizations.

The DAR and SAR chapters passed resolutions in 1983 asking then Kentucky Governor, Martha Layne Collins, to preserve a small portion of the Combs Airport, if it were discontinued, for the reestablishing of the original Harmon Station, built in 1789. Frances Brackett and Virginia S. Goble were named to this committee.

Brackett, who is vice-chairman of the Floyd County Bicentennial Committee, serving as a representative from John Graham Chapter DAR, reported that the committee had received a $7,100 grant on February 10, in Frankfort, for the purpose of moving the one-room school (Josie D. Harkins school House), from Daniel's Creek to Jenny Wiley State Park. The check was presented by Lt. Governor Paul Patton and state senator and chairman, David Karem.

Registrar Goble announced that two new members were accepted into the National Society February 2, 1992. They are Karen Lynn Setser Ousley, of Allen, who joined under Revolutionary soldier, Christian Goble, Maryland, and Betty Jean Goble Conn, of Ivel, who also joined under Christian Goble.

Brackett, who has served a three year term as KSDAR State Registrar, has been named by incoming State Regent, Mrs. Thomas R. Ross, to serve as Sixth District Director. Brackett's nominator at the Kentucky State Conference, which starts March 10, at the Marriott Resort, in Lexington, will be Virginia S. Goble; her teller will be Eleanor Horn. John Graham, along with 13 other chapters in the Sixth District, will serve as hostess for this occasion. Brackett will conduct the memorial service for the state and Goble is in charge of the luncheon and banquet tickets. Horn announced that all gifts for state officers, visiting state regents, and nations visitors will be Kentucky-made. A hand-made quilt, by Mrs. Mildred Childers of Calf Creek, will be presented to president general, Mrs. Marie H. Yochim, of Washington, D.C.

In other matters, the regent announced that Maurine Mayo, Dorothy Osborne, and Olga Preston had been on the sick list.

Members in attendance were: Horn, Goble, Brackett, May, Hale, and Mac Kendrick, members, and Carter Hamilton and his father, Carter Hamilton Sr., both of Prestonsburg.

United Methodist women and men join in potluck dinner

The United Methodist Women and the United Methodist Men joined in a pot luck dinner, in the Family Life Center recently. Following the dinner, Jo Bromsa, director of Christian Appalachian Home, Inez, was the guest speaker. She shared with the group some of the experiences she'd had with families who come to the home for help. She stated that abused mothers and children come to her from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Elliott, Magoffin, and Perry Counties. She said she receives no state or federal monies, but that funds come from donations from several states and sometimes from other countries. She added that workers are needed, if only for one day, and said that volunteers are always welcome.

Following the program, the men and women held separate business sessions. The feeling was expressed that this may be an annual event.

The United Methodist Women's meeting, was called to order by their president, Mrs. Helen Neeley. Mrs. Roslyn Burchett read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mrs. Geneva Carter gave the treasurer's report.

It was announced that five mission studies, with a guest speaker were to be held during Lent. Plans were made for a pot luck dinner to be held during each of these weeks.

It was also announced that the Ashland District Spiritual Life Retreat will be held at the Pikeville United Methodist Church, on March 14.

Mrs. Joy R. Harris is here for visit

Mrs. Joy R. Harris, of Lexington, is here for a few days visit with her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, her aunt and uncle, Dolly and Bill Petrey, and with friends.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 in regular meeting

A regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge #31 was held March 3, with the noble grand, Mrs. Loretta Akers presiding. Emphasis was placed on the initiation of six new members into the order. Those initiated were: Mesdames Willie D. Petry, Nadine Conley, Liz Allen, Sandra Nelson, Geneva Bailey, and Shelby Jean Willis. Prior to the meeting all present enjoyed a covered-dish dinner and an hour of fellowship was enjoyed in the dining room.

A business session, which included planning dinner for the Odd Fellows' District Meeting, on March 14th was conducted by the noble grand. She stated that a microwave had been purchased and is ready for use. The heart drop collections on that night were $9, which had been collected all during the year, toward the purchase of the microwave.

The noble grand recognized Mrs. Effie Hopkins, who has been a member for 63 years, and Mrs. Venelia Rinehart, who has belonged to this lodge for 61 years. Mrs. Rinehart was on hand to furnish music for the initiation, after being absent, due to illness for about 2 years. She has served as musician for about 40 years.

The noble grand reported on the visit to Mountain Manor Nursing Home on March 1st, with 5 members making the trip there.

Birthdays greetings were extended to Willie D. Petry. The noble grand presented each new member, as well as the other members, with a new oval-shaped penny, with emblems of the order engraved on it.

Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster reported that the Patriarch's Militant Branch of the I.O.O.F. will confer the Decoration of Chivalry on April 10, at 7 p.m., at the Carriage House, in Paintsville, and added that all members are invited to attend. The Rebekah District 4 meeting will be on March 21, at 5:30 p.m., at Inez.

Present for this meeting, other than the new members were Loretta Akers, Donna Thomas, Maman Leslie, Sue Moore, Billie Gayle Murdock, Beverly Hackworth, Violetta Wright, Paulina Owens, Lorena Wallen, Rebecca Bingham, Jean Hickman, Nell Hebner, Susie Clifton, Mabel Jean LeMaster, Jewell Bays, Virginia Goble, Hope Whitten, Myrtle Allen, Delcie Gayheart, Effie Hopkins, Pauline Sparks, Belle Conn and Venelia Rinehart.

The next regular meeting will be March 17, at 7:00 p.m., in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Welcomed into First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial)

Welcomed by baptism into the fellowship of the First Baptist Church, during services there this past Sunday morning were: by baptism, Jim Caldwell, Jr. and Doug Collins, and by letter, Mike and Peggy Halfhill and son Mike, from the First Baptist Church of Allen and Leslie Bays, from the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church. The Rev. Michael Taylor is the pastor of this church.

FCRT Association holds spring luncheon-meeting

Members of the Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association held their Annual Spring Meeting on Thursday, March 5, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, beginning with a coffee and social hour at 9:30 a.m.

President Ruby Akers welcomed those in attendance, and read from an appropriate poem. Mrs. Danese Amburgey gave the devotions. She read a poem from her church bulletin, and led the group in prayer. Miss Ruby Akers led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag, and Mrs. Alice Martin led the group in the singing of "God Bless America."

The President reported that Tammie Moore chairperson of F.A.C.E.S., had asked for volunteers from the group to serve as judges of the work of students participating in the student Writers' Contest in the forthcoming Festival of F.A.C.E.S. Volunteering were: Roberta Fugate, Imogene Caldwell, and Annis Clark. The president expressed the hope that some of the members who were not present might also volunteer.

Elmer Martin gave a report on insurance for retired teachers. The president said that the one-room school which, in keeping with the Kentucky Bicentennial, is soon to be moved to Jenny Wiley State Park, must be kept open during the entire tourist season, and asked for volunteers to serve on a day-to-day basis in this endeavor.

Ray Brackett, former Superintendent of Floyd County Schools, gave an in-depth report on this project. He said this building would be moved from Daniel's Creek to the place at Jenny Wiley State Park where the old Girl Scout Building was once located, and would bear the name of "Josie D. Harkins," on a plaque. Brackett referred the group to a photograph appearing recently in the Floyd County Times, showing his wife, Mrs. Frances Brackett, and Mrs. Imogene Caldwell, both Floyd County Bicentennial officials, being presented a check by Paul Patton, Lieutenant Governor, and one of the state representatives, to be used toward the restoration of this building. He said that many of the necessary furnishings for this school had been received from the Floyd County Board of Education and elsewhere, but added that old books were needed for this project.

Volunteering to assist in keeping this school open to the public were Alice Martin, Louise Howard, Alma Lowe, Roberta Fugate, Danese Amburgey, and Etta Scott. It was decided that $25.00 would be donated to the N.O. Kimbler Scholarship Fund, and that $50.00 would be donated to Alice Lloyd College. Names to serve as delegates to the KRTA Convention on April 7-8 were: Ruby Akers, Imogene Caldwell, Alice Martin, and Danese Amburgey. (By virtue of her position as a member of the Executive Council of the KRTA, Virginia S. Goble will also serve as a delegate). Named to serve as an alternate to this meeting were: Roberta Fugate and Mildred Salisbury.

The following slate of officers for the year 1992-93 was presented by Danese Amburgey, and accepted. They were president, Virginia S. Goble; 1st vice President, Pauline Hicks Allen; 2nd vice President, Alice O. Martin; secretary, Imogene Caldwell, and co-treasurers, Annis Clark and Danese Amburgey.

Mrs. Virginia S. Goble presented Robert Kelley, president of KRTA as guest speaker for this event. Kelley congratulated the group on the increase in membership, and said that the goal of this organization was 80% of the potential members becoming active members. Covering many topics of interest to retired teachers, Kelley stressed the insurance program, and the amount of increases in pay that could be expected during the coming year. He explained that deductions would be taken from monthly checks to cover the amount needed to maintain the insurance program as it should be maintained, and he gave estimates of the amount of raises that may be received this coming year. Since these varied according to years of experience in teaching and other considerations, Kelley furnished lists of these variations, so that each retired teacher may figure his or her amounts of insurance education and "raises" for the year, 1992-93.

(According to Mr. Kelley, "Retired teachers live longer than any other group")

On behalf of the group, the president presented Mr. Kelley with a gift, and added that he should "share the gift with his wife"...who accompanied him here.

Two silver seals for membership were demonstrated by the president, who expressed the hope that a gold seal would be presented to the FCRT for membership this year.

Mrs. Virginia S. Goble, a member of the FCRT Executive Council, reported briefly on a meeting held recently in Frankfort.

It was announced that the Big Sandy Retired Teachers will hold their next meeting on April 15, at May Lodge. A former president, Mrs. Imogene Salyer, the present president, Miss Ethel Fetterly, and the president for 1992-93, Mrs. Danese Amburgey, of the BSRT, were present for this meeting.

Mrs. Alma Lowe presided at the guest register. Lunch was enjoyed in the dining room there. Present were dining members and guest of Ruby Akers, Virginia S. Goble, Alice O. Martin, Imogene Caldwell, Alma Lowe, Danese Amburgey, Ray Brackett, Louise Howard, Opal S. May, Oliver Allen, Ruth Rainey, Virginia Jamerson, Imogene Salyer, Ethel Fetterly, Robert L. Kelley, Jane B. Kelley, Lonzo Lafferty, Annis C. Clark, Roberta Fugate, Nancy P. Webb, Virgil Webb, Mildred S. Salisbury, Eileen Martin, Elmer Martin,

DARE sheriff

During a luncheon-meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, on February 27, Paul Hunt Thompson, Sheriff of Floyd County (shown in the above photograph), gave an in-depth report of the D.A.R.E. Program being offered by the Sheriff's Department in the Floyd County Schools. Sheriff Thompson stressed the point that education is the key to solving the drug problem, stating that the program in our county has begun in the fifth grade. (Photograph by Mrs. Jane Wallace).

Choose Your Weapon

February is National Heart Month

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in eastern Kentucky. It's also the leading cause of disability, pain, loss of income, back breaking health care costs and a heartbreaking toll on people and families. The real tragedy is that many of these can be avoided through prevention, early detection and early treatment.

Your best weapon is knowing what to do and acting on it. The free Heart Test on the right is a good way to start. So is a visit with your doctor to check your blood pressure, cholesterol, triglycerides and other factors. Then learn to recognize the early warning signs of heart attack:

- ♥ Recurring pain or tightening in the chest which occurs with exertion, but eases with rest. Often mistaken for heartburn or gas.
- ♥ Pain, pressure, fullness or squeezing in the chest for two minutes or more. This may radiate to neck, shoulders, arms, jaw or teeth. Often mistaken for indigestion.
- ♥ Shortness of breath, sweating, dizziness, nausea, vomiting and anxiety.

Not all signs occur at the same time in every heart attack, but if they do, don't delay, call your doctor or an Emergency Medical Service immediately. Minutes count.

This weapon is FREE!

It can help reduce your risk of heart disease.

Are you at risk for heart disease? The Heart Test can help you find out. It can tell you what risks you face and, most important, what you can do to reduce controllable heart risk factors. In other words, it may help save your life.

The Heart Test has been featured on ABC-TV's "20/20" and PBS-TV's "OK Heart." Now you can take it yourself. Simply complete this confidential questionnaire as accurately and honestly as possible and return it to us.

We'll analyze your answers and send you a personalized report that will tell you how you can change your lifestyle to increase your chances of remaining healthy and active as you reduce your risk of heart disease.

You, your doctor and the heart team at Highlands, working together, have a better chance of preventing or reducing the severity of a heart problem.

Fight Heart Disease

Stress Testing closely watches the heart when it is pushed to peak performance on an exercise machine. This can help doctors tell the kind and severity of a possible problem.

Echocardiography uses sound waves to create moving pictures of the heart in action and to measure its blood flow. By seeing valves and muscles at work, problems can be detected and measured.

Cardiac catheterization permits doctors to look at the tiny blood vessels that feed the heart muscle. Blockages in these vessels send a warning—heart attack! But we now have new ways to break up blockages before they kill.

Monitored exercise is prescribed for certain high risk or post-heart attack people to improve conditioning of body muscles, breathing, blood vessels and heart, enabling them to work harder and withstand exertion. Good physical condition helps lower risks.

HEALTH CARE SCARE TACTICS: As Americans begin to see the importance of getting the federal government involved in programs that will guarantee health care for all citizens, those who are against proposed changes have begun to mount their opposition using various scare tactics. Some of these are:

1. "You'll be forced to wait for years for surgery." Not true. For example, in England and Canada, no one who needs surgery is forced to delay the procedures. As a matter of fact, because fear of facing inordinate personal costs doesn't exist in these countries, more people who need life-saving operations have them. It is true that elective surgery may be delayed in some instances to give the more important procedures priority.

2. "You have to wait long hours before a doctor will see you." The answer to that is, so, what else is new? A friend of mine considered sending her very expensive specialist a bill for the three hours beyond her appointment time that she spent away from her job just sitting in his waiting room.

3. "Taxes will be backbreaking." True, taxes will rise to cover the costs of these programs. However, while taxes may increase, they could translate into lower-out-of-pocket costs. John Rother, legislative director of AARP says: "In truth, increased taxes would represent a redistribution in how we pay for health care, not necessarily an increase in the total amount of what we as a nation pay for health care."

4. "President Bush's tax credits for anyone buying health insurance can solve the problem." Insurance companies like the idea, but the unemployed, or those considered "uninsurable" by companies (either because of age or pre-existing health conditions) would still be out of luck.

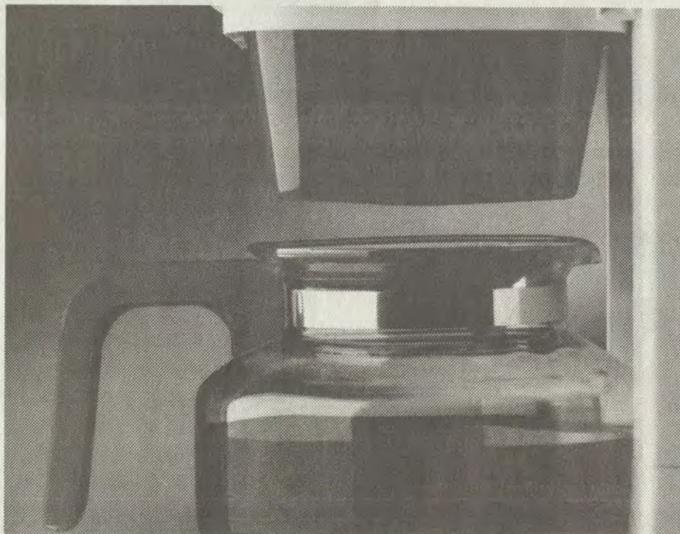

5. "Medicare and Medicaid reforms will solve the problem." As a matter of fact, pressure is being put on the federal and local governments to further limit these programs.

MAIL CALL: Thanks to Mrs. D. Jones of Kentucky for a lovely letter supporting the National Eldercare Campaign to help bring better care to seniors both in nursing facilities or at home.

A reader who doesn't want her name or area mentioned writes: "My 72-year-old aunt lives in a housing project. She and other seniors have been mugged by gangs of 12 or 13-year-olds living in the project. The housing police and manager do nothing... I told my aunt to move in with me, but she says she won't give up her independence. I'd appreciate advice on what else I can do..."

Which Would You Choose?

Would you pick woodlands teeming with wildlife over handy kitchen appliances? What about lifesaving medical equipment in place of a stand of ancient maple trees?

Fortunately, we don't have to choose between Nature and electricity. Especially when we get SMART. SMART—Saving Money And Resources Together—is a series of ideas, programs, and activities designed to conserve energy and natural resources while saving you money. After all, energy efficiency and environmental consciousness begin at home.

What We're Doing For Our House.

Squeezing the most energy out of a ton of coal is a mark of generating efficiency. It's measured in heat rates. Last year alone, American Electric Power companies saved their customers the cost of 3 million tons of coal by operating generating plants with the most efficient heat rate in the nation among multi-plant electric utilities.

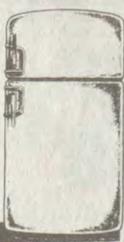

These savings have totaled 60 million tons over the past 30 years. That represents a lot of money and resources.

We've created camping and wetlands areas, ponds and fishing sites, and donated acreage for animal preserves for rare and endangered species—all from land reclaimed through efficient mining practices.

At a time when there is concern about depletion of our nation's forest resources, we manage 56,000 acres of prime woodlands that have been officially designated tree farms. Much of this acreage is also reclaimed mining property.

What We're Doing For Your House.

Several AEP operating companies have initiated various SMART pilot programs aimed at helping customers save energy, conserve resources and lower their electric bills. These projects involve providing no-cost energy audits for customers who reside in all-electric homes; distributing water heater wraps and low-flow shower heads; and donating insulation and weatherization services for low-income customers. We're trying to establish which energy efficiency programs are most effective and acceptable to our customers. Here are some other exciting SMART ideas being tested:

AEP's TranstexT® Advanced Energy Management System enables customers to alter their use of electric energy in order to utilize cheaper rates through a sophisticated computerized program.

Some AEP operating companies are saving customers' money and resources by recycling their older, working second refrigerators. The refrigerators are picked up free of charge and disposed of in an environmentally safe manner.

We've also invested in a SMART program to design and develop high-efficiency electronic light bulbs which offer great savings potential.

Let's Get Smart Together.

You can begin by filling out the coupon below and mailing it to us. We'll send you our new booklet "SMART ENERGY SAVING TIPS" and additional information on obtaining your own SMART PAC. The SMART PAC is a do-it-yourself energy-saving starter kit designed to help residential customers achieve greater energy efficiency in the home. And it'll be available to you soon at substantial savings. So, for more SMART information, just fill in the coupon below.

DIABETIC SUPPORT GROUPS AT OUR LADY OF THE WAY

Diabetes is one of the major illnesses that affects people in the communities of Eastern Kentucky. To assist area diabetics in preventing more serious complications which might result from their illness, Our Lady of the Way's Health Education Department continues to hold monthly support group meetings free to anyone interested.

Our Lady of the Way began its diabetic program in January of 1991, with the first Diabetic Series, and had 50 people in attendance. Since that time, periodic Diabetic Series have been held on the average of one to two a year. To maintain the support initiated at the series, OLW continues care with monthly group meetings covering a variety of discussions throughout the year.

Previous topics covered have been: foot care; nutrition; exercise; mouth and skin care; meal planning; retinopathy and other eye complications; and periodic blood glucose screening.

Support group meetings are held routinely on the last Monday of each month from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. at Seton Complex, Martin. Cheryl Bentley, M.S., R.D., C.N., C.D., C.D.E., of the Kentucky Diabetes Program helps plan and attends all meetings, and answers any questions of concern for all participants.

The next support group meeting is scheduled for Monday, March 30, at Seton Complex, from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. The topic will be: stress. Free reading material and incentive gifts will be available.

Anyone interested in attending or needing further information may contact the Community Health Education Department at 285-5181, ext. 388.

1 1/4 C. fine crumbs (graham cracker, dry cereal, zwieback)
3 T. margarine (melted)
1 T. water spices (see spice and herb list)
sugar replacement

Combine crumbs with melted margarine and water; add spices and sugar replacement, if desired. Spread evenly in 9-in. (23-cm) pie pan. Press firmly onto sides and bottom. Either chill until set or bake at 325° (165° C) for 8 to 10 minutes.

Yield: 8 servings

BLUEBERRY CREAM PIE

9-in. baked pie shell
2 c. lo-cal whipped topping (prepared)
1 1/2 c. Blueberry Topping

Fold prepared whipped topping into Blueberry Topping. Spread into baked pie shell. Chill until firm.

Yield: 8 servings

BAKED SWEET POTATO

1/4 C. sweet potato or yam (mashed) dash each, salt, pepper, nutmeg
1 T. milk

Combine all ingredient. Heat until smooth and creamy. Bake at 350° F (175° C) for 20 minutes.

Yield: 1 serving

MOUNTAIN MAN PANCAKES

1 1/4 c. buttermilk
1 T. molasses
2 T. margarine (melted)
1 c. flour
1 t. salt
1/2 t. baking soda
2 t. baking powder
1/2 c. yellow cornmeal
vegetable cooking spray

Beat egg, buttermilk molasses, and margarine together until well blended. Add remaining ingredients, except vegetable cooking spray. Stir just enough to blend. Cook in skillet coated vegetable cooking spray.

Yield: 10 pancakes

POTATO PANCAKE

1 medium raw potato (grated)
1 egg
2 T. flour
2 t. salt
vegetable cooking spray

Place grated potato in ice water. Allow to stand for 30 minutes to an hour. Drain; pat potato dry. Place potato in bowl; add egg, flour, salt, and chives. Stir to blend. Divide mixture into 4 parts and spoon into large skillet coated with vegetable cooking spray. Brown on both sides.

Yield: 4 pancakes

POTATO PUFFS

1/2 c. potatoes (cooked and mashed or whipped)
1 c. flour
1 1/2 t. baking powder
1/2 t. salt

1 egg (well beaten)
oil for deep-fat frying

With a fork, break up and mash enough potatoes to fill a small cup. Combine remaining ingredients, except oil. Beat well. Heat oil to 375° F (190° C). From tablespoon, drop a walnut-size piece of dough into hot fat. Remove when puff rises to the surface (about 2-3 minutes) and is golden brown. Repeat with remaining dough. Drain.

Yield: 24 puffs

BEEF AND RICE CASSEROLE

3 oz. ground beef
1 T. onion (chopped)
1 T. celery (chopped)
3/4 C. condensed chicken gumbo soup
1/4 C. water
1/2 c. rice (uncooked)
1/4 C. condensed cream of mushroom soup
salt and pepper to taste

Combine ground beef, onion, and celery with a small amount of water in a saucepan. Boil until onion is tender; drain. Combine condensed chicken gumbo soup, water, and rice. Simmer until all moisture is absorbed. Mix beef mixture, rice, and mushroom soup; pour into a small greased casserole dish.

Microwave: Cook on medium for 8 to 10 minutes. Yield 1 serving.

GERMAN GOULASH

1 t. onion (chopped)
1 T. green pepper (chopped)
1 T. celery (chopped)
1/4 bay leaf (crushed)
1/2 c. kidney beans (cooked)
1/2 c. elbow macaroni (cooked)
1/4 c. carrot (sliced)
salt and pepper to taste

Brown ground beef, onion, green pepper, and celery over low heat. Add crushed bay leaf, kidney beans, macaroni, and carrots; mix gently. Add salt and pepper. Pour into casserole dish; cover. Bake at 350° F (175° C) for 40 minutes.

Microwave: Cook on medium for 7 minutes. Yield: 1 serving.

STUFFED PEPPERS

2 T. rice
2 oz. lean ground beef
1 egg
1 t. onion flakes
1 T. mushrooms (finely chopped)
salt and pepper to taste
1 t. Tomato Sauce

Cut green pepper in half, lengthwise. Remove membrane and seeds; rinse, drain and reserve shells. Boil rice with 1/2 c. of water for 5 minutes; drain. Combine ground beef, rice, egg, onion flakes, and mushrooms; blend thoroughly. Add salt and pepper. Fill green pepper cavities with beef mixture; top with Tomato Sauce. Place in baking dish; cover. Bake at 350° F for 20 to 25 minutes.

Yield: 1 serving.

BASIC PIE SHELL

1/3 c. shortening
1 c. flour
1/4 t. salt
2 to 4 T. ice water

Chill shortening. Cut shortening into flour and salt until mixture forms crumbs. Add ice water, 1 T. (15 mL) at a time. Flip mixture around in bowl until a ball forms. Wrap in plastic wrap. Chill at least 1 hour. Roll to fit 9-in. (23 cm) pie pan. Fill with pie filling or prick with fork. Bake at 425° F (220° C) for 10 to 12 minutes or until firm, or leave unbaked.

Yield: 8 servings; exchange 1 serving: 1 bread, 2 fat; Calories in 1 serving: 170.

More Than a Pretty Name

As you make your way through the supermarket's bakery department, words like hearty, 7-grain, whole wheat, bran and natural invite you to reach out for a tasty loaf of bread.

Bread is certainly a healthful part of the diet, confirms Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal. The Dietary Guidelines for Americans call for six to 11 servings of grain products daily—cereals, pasta, rice and, of course, breads.

The name of the bread may provide some help in identifying the whole-grain products, which experts particularly recommend, but it doesn't tell the whole story. For example, a bread name may include the number of grains, but these are not necessarily whole grains.

Words like whole wheat and cracked wheat tell you the product includes the whole wheat grain. You'll also see ingredients, such as wheat flour and enriched wheat flour, which are not made from the whole grain. However, the advantage of enriched flour is that it has nutrients added back that were lost in processing and iron.

When bran is part of the name or in the ingredient list, the bran (outer layer of a grain) has been included. Various types of bran provide different amounts of fiber. So, check the nutrition information on the label to find out how much fiber a slice of the bread contains.

Descriptive terms, such as natural and stone ground, while appealing, do not necessarily mean that bread is whole grain. Neither is color a good indicator, as bread may be dark because of added coloring, molasses or brown sugar. Don't judge by the weight either; a heavy loaf doesn't always mean that the bread contains whole-grain flour.

Bread may include grain products other than wheat, such as rye meal, flax seed, millet and products made from rice, oats and barley. All add to the taste appeal and nutrient value of bread, concludes Gunkler.

FLOWERS THAT FIGHT GARDEN PESTS

Surprisingly, delicate-looking wildflowers can be a powerful weapon in the war against destructive garden pests, say leading horticulturists.

Many gardeners use chemical pesticide to rid their plants of pests. In fact, gardener and farmers together dump about 1.6 billion pound of pesticides each year on U.S. soil, often upsetting the natural balance of the environment and creating serious health threats. Helping to restore nature system of checks and balances, minimizing and sometimes even eliminating the need for chemical controls, is Border Patrol, a mix of country flower seeds scientifically formulated to attract beneficial insects that prey on destructive bugs.

More than three years in development, Border Patrol is the brainchild of Steve Atwood, president of Clyde Robin Seed. He commissioned Jeff Ball, national lawn and garden product expert, to research and test some 100 different varieties of flowers that might attract predatory insects.

From Ball's research, Atwood identified ten flowers that would lure the widest cross section of beneficial bugs. I chose evening primrose, as an example, because it attracts ground beetles, says Atwood. Ground beetles feast on cankerworms, snails, slugs, moths, maggots, houseflies, gnats, aphids, ants and termites.

Atwood says the best time to plant Border Patrol is before you plant your spring garden. Seeds will germinate and mature early enough to provide optimum protection for newly planted flowers and plants.

The colorful Border Patrol canister seed mix covers 350 square feet and is available at local garden centers and hardware stores. You can also purchase the product directly from the manufacturer by calling, toll-free: 1-800-551-SEED. For a free catalog write: Clyde Robin Seed Co., PO Box 2366-NAPS, Castro Valley, CA 94546.

Fresh produce prices fuel food cost surge

Gyrating prices on fresh produce fueled a 2.9 per cent increase in Kentucky's food prices index during January, according to Kentucky Farm Bureau's marketbasket survey.

After dropping 5 per cent in December, fruit and vegetable prices surged upward better than 11 per cent last month. The rebound helped push the average cost of the 40-item marketbasket to $69.49, up from $67.56 the month before.

Beef and pork prices increased moderately, furthering the trend. Beef cuts averaged 3.2 per cent higher while pork was up 1.7 per cent. The gains halted a price tumble for red meats that totaled 12 per cent over the past year.

Dairy products posted a slight gain of .3 of 1 per cent while grain-based foods showed no change.

Only poultry/eggs reflected a price decline for the month. Sharply lower egg prices, which dropped by 18 cents a dozen, left that category 3 per cent below its December level. Large eggs were selling for 71 cents a dozen in January, compared to last year's price peak of 99 cents in March.

At the produce counter, salad fixings led the price rise. Tomatoes vaulted 64 cents a pound, from 77 cents to $1.31. Bell peppers jumped 20 cents each to 61 cents average, and cucumbers were 23 cents higher, at 65 cents apiece.

Idaho potatoes mirrored the uptrend, costing $2.51 for a 10-pound bag. The previous month's price was $2.07.

Prices on many pork items rebounded after dropping sharply most of the winter. Bacon jumped 9 cents a pound, sausage by 12 cents a pound and ham by 16 cents a pound. Loin chops went the other way, however, dropping 31 cents a pound, averaging $2.52.

Locally, Salyersville checked in with a 64.48 percent marketbasket average, among the lowest in the 21 community survey.

SEARCH COMMITTEE WELCOMES PUBLIC INPUT

The search is on for a new superintendent for the Floyd County School System and the public is encouraged to participate in the selection process.

Two members of the Superintendent Selection Search Committee were the guest speakers at the March 3 Chamber of Commerce board meeting. Bud Reynolds and Debra Hayes explained how the selection committee was formed and how their search is progressing.

The committee is made up of five members: two teachers, one principal, one school board member and one parent. The selection committee is responsible for screening applications and submitting the names of the top five qualified candidates to the Floyd County Board of Education. The board may then choose one of these applicants, or make their own selection.

According to Hayes, the parent member of the selection committee, 41 applications from 18 states had been received to date.

Reynolds, one of the teachers on the committee, noted that a series of meetings had been held with parent and teacher groups to determine the criteria the selection committee needed to look for in their superintendent search. The group has also solicited the public for more input through a radio call-in show and public meetings.

"Number one on the list for the parent groups has been the feeling that the new superintendent should have the ability to bring different groups and factions together," explained Reynolds.

"Next on our list is that the person must be dedicated to supporting the reforms under KERA (Kentucky Education Reform Act). We on the committee feel this is extremely important and this is one area we will be looking at very closely.

"Some of the applications we have received have indicated that they are applying in Floyd County because of KERA," he continued. "Kentucky is leading the nation in educational reforms and they feel that this is the place for them to be a part of those reforms."

Upon receiving an initial application, the committee returns a questionnaire to the applicant to provide more detailed information. According to Hayes, the questionnaire asks the following: "Why do you want to be superintendent of the Floyd County Schools? What major strengths would you bring to a superintendency? What do you consider to be your major accomplishments as an educator/administrator? What would be your leadership style with parents, teachers, staff and board members? Looking forward to the year 2,000, what skills will students need and what will schools need to do to prepare students for adult growth in the next century?"

From the answers to these questions, the search committee hopes to glean the top ten to fifteen candidates. The committee will then request that those candidates submit a video response to another series of questions. From these, according to Reynolds, the committee hopes to select the top five candidates and be ready to submit those names to the school board at their May meeting.

The committee will continue to accept applications for the position until March 31. "During the first two weeks of April, we hope to begin screening those applications and eventually come up with our list of the top five," said Reynolds. "This is a difficult job, but we feel this is one of the most important projects in Floyd County for the 1990s."

"Although we haven't done any real screening of the applications, we've received so far, just by scanning through them, we've seen that some real 'heavy-duty' individuals have applied for the position."

He continued, "Some of the concerns that we're hearing from our teachers is that the superintendent search is already a 'done-deal' and the board already knows who is going to be the new superintendent."

"But, we're not looking at it like that. While it is up to the board as to whom they hire, we will screen and recommend to them the best qualified candidates that we can find."

The percentage of employed women holding more than one job has increased significantly, from 2.2 percent in 1970 to 5.9 percent in 1989, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. In contrast, the percentage of men who moonlight has been steady at about 6 percent since 1975, although the rate inched up to 6.4 percent in 1989.

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and Floyd County Education Association have requested that the board of education select the new superintendent from the names submitted by the Superintendent Selection Search Committee.

An Open Forum on the Superintendent Search Process will be held at the Allen Elementary School, Monday, March 30, beginning at 11 a.m. Members of the Search Committee will be present and the public is invited to attend.

ADA SEMINAR

The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 will affect your business, agency and organization. Be prepared. Attend the ADA seminar, hosted by your Chamber, the Prestonsburg Office of Employment Services and the Big Sandy Job Service Employer Committee. The seminar will be held March 24 at the Stumbo-Wilkinson Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Park from 1 to 2 p.m. Please RSVP if you plan to attend by contacting the Chamber at 886-1341.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT CARD

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Chambers of Commerce will host a presentation by Kentucky Forward on the legislature's performance and an election preview April 15, from 10:45 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., at the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn.

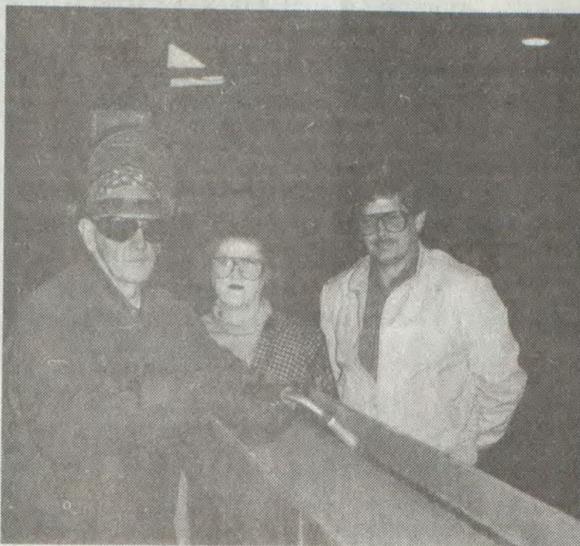

The presentation will include an overview of current legislation which effects industry and economic development in the Commonwealth by Tony Scholar, vice president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and a leading business community state lobbyist. Also included will be a scorecard on 1992 legislators' performance presented by Andy Downs, executive director of Kentucky Forward, the business community's political education and action program.

The cost of the presentation is $10 per person. Please RSVP to the Chamber at 886-1341.

Employment services makes the job easier

Where can your business find good employees? The Department for Employment Services is a great place to start.

R & S Body located talented welder Jerry Brickley through both Mayo Kentucky Tech and the Prestonsburg Employment Services office. R & S plant manager Mike Langefeld said, "We like to hire veterans. Employment Services helps us to find qualified veterans." Jerry Brickley is a U.S. Army veteran.

Continued Langefeld, "I call Bonnie Ousley and tell her we have an opening. She gets us good qualified people. She's been here several times asking questions to find what we need in our applicants. It makes our job a lot easier. They do a lot of screening for us. ## NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5033 AM#4

(1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Amber Coal Company, Inc., 29501 Mayo Trail, Catlettsburg, KY 41129, has filed an application for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation. This amendment proposes to add an additional 3.86 acres of surface disturbance for a total proposed permit acreage of 1211.36 acres located 1.0 mile north of Risner in Floyd County.

(2) The proposed operation is approximately 0.01 mile east from KY 1210's junction with Johnson Fork County Road and is located along KY 1210. The latitude is 37° 36' 05"N. The longitude is 82° 50' 24"W.

(3) The proposed amendment is located on the Martin USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected is owned by Ronald Frasure and Roger Kirk. Mining operations will occur within 100' of Public Road Johnson Fork Road and State Route 1210 and will not involve relocation of the road. The operation will be for the reclamation of a refuse fill.

(4) The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 1346 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1397. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, US 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date. W-3/11, 3/18, 3/25, 4/1

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Amendment Number 2
In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Coal-Mac, Inc., P.O. Box 3428, Pikeville, KY 41502, has filed an application for an amendment to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation. This amendment proposes to add an additional 231.0 acres of underground mining area, for a total proposed permit acreage of 804.97 acres located 1.2 miles southeast of Alvin in Floyd County.

The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.2 miles southeast from KY 194's junction with KY 1428 and located 0.3 miles south of Cow Creek. The latitude is 37° 38' 07". The longitude is 82° 41' 07".

The proposed amendment is located on the Harold and Lancer U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The proposed amendment will underlie land owned by: Daniels Creek Development Corporation, James Dillon and Jimmie Burchett. The operation will use the underground method of mining.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 1346 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. ## INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Floyd County Housing Authority will receive sealed bids for Public Housing New Development Project KY36P157012, Floyd County Housing Authority, until 2:00 p.m. (Local Time) on the 19th day of March, 1992, at the Green Acres Housing Office, U.S. 23, North Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, at which time and place all bids shall be publicly opened and read aloud.

Extent of Work: Work consists of furnishing all equipment, labor and materials, and performing all work in accordance with these Specifications and the accompanying Drawings for the complete construction of Project No. KY36P157012.

The Project consists of the complete construction of buildings on three sites, including all labor, material and equipment required to complete all building and site improvements as identified in the contract documents.

The project includes the construction of 50 three bedroom one-story and townhouse units and an office, maintenance, and community building. Prebid Conference: On March 10, 1992 at 10:00 a.m. (local time) there will be a Pre-Bid Conference conducted by the Architect at the Green Acres Housing Office, U.S. 23 North, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

For the public use of material men and subcontractors, Plans and Specifications will be on file at the following offices:
F.W. Dodge Corporation, 2525 Harrodsburg Road, One Paragon Center, Suite

230, Lexington, KY 40504-3355; F.W. Dodge Corporation, Hurstbourne Forum Two, Suite 265, 303 North Hurstbourne, Louisville, KY 40222; Associated General Contractors, 2321 Fortune Drive, Suite 112, Lexington, KY 40509; F.W. Dodge Corporation, 105 E. 4th St., Suite 1200, Cincinnati, OH 45202; Builder's Exchange, P.O. Box 5398, Louisville, KY 40205.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained from Metro Blue Print Company, 1328 Versailles Road, Lexington, Kentucky 40504, (606/259-1459). A complete set of plans and specifications requires a deposit of $100.00, ($75.00 is refundable, $25.00 is non-refundable). The refundable and non-refundable amounts will be issued on two separate checks payable to Ross-Feldman Architecture, Inc. The refundable check will be returned only if the documents are returned to Metro Blue Print in good condition within 10 days after the bid opening. If plans and specifications are to be mailed, arrangements must be made with Metro Blue Print Company. A separate non-refundable check for $10.00 per set shall be made payable to Metro Blue Print. No drawings will be mailed until receipt of checks. Successful Bidders may retain their plans and specifications and the deposit amount will be returned.

A certified check, irrevocable letter of credit, or bank draft, payable to Floyd County Housing Authority, U.S. Government Bonds, or a satisfactory Bid Bond executed by the bidder and acceptable Sureties in an amount equal to five percent of the bid shall be submitted with each bid. The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory Performance and Payment Bond or Bonds or other acceptable surety. Work to be performed under this contract is on a project assisted under a program providing direct Federal Financial Assistance from D/ HUD and is subject to the requirements of Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended; E.O. Nos. 11246 and 11375; Title VI of the Civil Rights Act 1964; the Copeland Anti-Kickback Act; and, the Contract Work Hours Standard Act.

Furthermore, the Floyd County Housing Authority requires all bidders to make every effort to involve minority-owned businesses in their bid proposals. Payment of not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Specifications must be paid on this project. It is required that all bidders conform to the conditions and procedures as set forth in the bid documents in all respects.

The Floyd County Housing Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding. No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of Forty-Five (45) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of the Floyd County Housing Authority.

Julia May, Executive Director
Floyd County Housing Authority
