At Wheelwright :

Rate hike is okayed for water

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

"How high?" was the cry and $3.70 per thousand was the response at Thursday's Wheelwright City Commission meeting when commissioners voted to increase water and sewer rates.

The increase was necessary in order for the city to receive a Community Development Block Grant to upgrade its water and sewer system. The system's water production capacity would be increased by 50,000 gallons per day.

Before, water customers paid a flat rate of $12 for up to 2,000 gallons of water and $7.40 for sewer service, which was 62 percent of their water usage.

Customers will pay $3.70 per thousand gallons of water beginning in January 1993 and the cost for sewer service will vary, with the lowest rate being 62 percent and the highest 111 percent of the customer's water usage. Percentages for 1,000 gallons to 23,000 gallons range from 62 percent to 99 percent.

Commissioners opted for the lower, $3.70 rate, rather than the recommended $3.85. Big Sandy Area Development District representative David Gardner urged commissioners to adopt the $3.85 rate which would have brought in over $80,000 annually in revenue.

The lower rate will bring in $77,779.44. Gardner told commissioners that the lower rate would generate just enough funds to pay for the debt service the city would have to incur to supplement the block grant. He said the amount of the debt service would not be known until the preliminary work on the grant has been completed.

He explained that the lower rate would not provide for any contingency fund for the system and the can get it without breaking the bank." The new schedule increases hourly rates for most employees and eliminates overtime for department heads and top-ranking assistants. Individual hourly rates are set by experience and seniority.

Second annexation gets first reading :

Council bridges pay gap

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A two-year rift between Prestonsburg's police and fire departments was bridged Monday by city council, which adopted a new employee pay scale in an effort to bring a measure of equality to department salaries.

The new salary schedule will cost the city approximately $44,000 per year.

The difference between department salaries has been a sore spot for at least two years, councilman George Archer noted Monday, adding that the new pay scale "fixes the system."

"It's not perfect, it's not exact," Archer said, "but it's as close as we can get it without breaking the bank."

Councilman Michael Vance, noting council had "made a major effort to get the (pay) situation resolved," hinted that the city leaders expected a "payoff" for settling the issue.

"We'll expect every department head to look for cost-cutting or, at least, some conservatism to help pay for the salary increase," he said. Vance added that the new pay schedule wasn't perfect, "but what we need to do now is move ahead."

"We've been pulling apart," councilman George Archer added, "and now it's time to come together and work as a city again." The pay dispute between the fire and police departments was one issue leading several fire department members to unionize. That union has not been recognized by city council.

In other business Monday, council gave first reading to two annexation ordinances which will eventually bring seven Bull Creek property owners into the city limits.

The latest annexation proposal comes on the heels of council's approval last month of ordinances bringing the site of a new intertrack wagering facility into the city.

Billips subject of renewed allegations:

Ouster effort hits obstacle

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A Prestonsburg man's efforts to have Floyd County Board of Education member Eddie Billips ousted were dealt a setback last week by the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance.

In a March 18 letter to Tim Sizemore, registry acting executive director George Russell indicated he would recommend dismissal of part of Sizemore's complaint against the District 1 board member.

In April 1991, Sizemore alleged in a complaint to then-Attorney General Fred Cowan that Billips had violated provisions of Kentucky law during his 1990 campaign. Sizemore contended in that complaint that Billips had published three advertisements in The Floyd County Times which had been designated as "paid for by the candidate" but Billips' election finance reports did not include expenses for those ads.

Sizemore also alleged that Billips had accepted contributions from a Floyd County Political Action Committee exceeding the legal limit for such contributions and that he had accepted campaign contributions from school employees.

In his response last week to Sizemore, Russell said he would recommend dismissal of the complaint in regard to the newspaper advertisements.

"You allege violations of KRS 121.190 in that advertising states 'Paid for by Candidate,'" Russell wrote. "It will be recommended to the Chairman of the Registry board that this allegation be dismissed based on past precedents wherein the Registry board has found such disclaimers to be in substantial compliance..."

Russell also asked for more specific information regarding Sizemore's claim that Billips had accepted PAC contributions exceeding legal limits and he referred other allegations to assistant Attorney General Ann Keating. Ms. Keating said Tuesday she had received the forwarded complaint and had "logged it in." She said the issue would probably be assigned to an investigator for further

Newman gets 25-year term without parole

Wendell Ray Newman, 39, of Jacks Creek was sentenced to 25 years in prison Monday by a federal judge in Pikeville.

Federal Judge Joseph Hood pronounced the 25-year sentence without parole on Newman and added a sentence of five years' supervised release.

Newman pleaded guilty in January to a murder-for-hire scheme and conspiracy to possess and distribute 33 pounds of cocaine. Newman was indicted for murder by a Floyd County Grand Jury last year in connection with the 1978 shooting death of Walter Hall of Letcher County.

Newman was charged with hiring an undercover FBI agent to kill David Lee Slone, 32, of Bevinville. Slone had agreed to testify against Newman in the Floyd County murder case.

Slone was a co-defendant in the drug case along with three other men and pleaded guilty to the charge last December. Slone, Clifton Shawn Hall, 21, Ricky Johnson, 36, both of Floyd County, and Lowie Hall, 32, of Knott County were sentenced last month.

No trial date has been set for Newman in the murder case, which has been moved to Pike County Circuit Court.

Race facility seeks workers for April start

The first signs of spring are bringing the first sign of jobs related to an intertrack racing facility in Floyd County.

The Department of Employment Services announced Monday that applications are being accepted for pari-mutuel ticket sellers/cashiers for Kentucky Downs. Applicants should be ready to start work on April 4.

Qualifications for the positions include: a high school education; being at least 18-years-old; and experience as a cashier, bank teller or computer operator is preferred. A drug test will also be required, according to the announcement.

Work shifts will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 5 p.m. until 11 p.m. Salary and shift arrangements will be discussed at the time of the interview with Kentucky Downs.

Applicants should apply prior to March 30 at the Department of Employment Services Office at 443 North Lake Drive in Prestonsburg.

Special meeting

A special meeting of the Prestonsburg Housing Authority has been called for Wednesday, March 25 at 11:30 a.m. at Prestonsburg City Hall.

Items to be discussed are a CIAP application for Dixie Apartments; voter registration for tenants who move into an apartment; declaration of trust for Indian Hills renovation; and admissions and continued occupancy policy.

The meeting is open to the public.

Help offered to control litter :

Court talks trash, booze, golf

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Trash, liquor and golf were the prevailing issues at Friday's Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting.

Members of Floyd County's Litter Task Force approached the court asking what more could be done to combat the county's trash problem. Kathy Tackett wanted to know how to get more people involved in cleaning the county up and chided the court about county workers littering the highways themselves.

"You need to tell (county) employees not to litter themselves," Tackett said. "I've seen them. Our tax dollars pay these people and we've got to get out and clean up after them. I think you ought to force them to quit. It hurts me bad to see the shape this county is in."

County Attorney Jim Hammond told Tackett that the county is doing all it can to fight the litter problem by having mandatory garbage pickup, employing an ecology officer, supporting adopt-a-highway programs for county and state roads, and trying to educate the citizens about problems associated with littering.

"We agree it's a problem," Hammond said. "But we have to change the attitudes and break the old habits of our people."

Dolores Smith, with the litter task force, later elicited a commitment from each magistrate to clean up their districts and offered the assistance of the task force.

"We're not here to tell you how to get the county cleaned up," Smith said. "But, we'll help you to do that."

The trash talks turned to liquor-by-the-drink when court members heard from Bull Creek resident Dickie Hall. Hall said he wanted to advise the court that there was a law on the books that would enable the court to grant liquor-by-the-drink licenses to businesses outside cities.

Hall said that the law allows such licenses for businesses, such as hotels and motels that have a restaurant capacity of over 100, located in a county that is economically depressed. Hall asked the court to have an ordinance prepared in case they were approached by such a business.

Hammond told Hall that no business had approached the court for such a license and that only businesses that met the criteria established by law could be considered.

Barefoot escapee "glad" to be caught, police say

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two juveniles escaped from the Big Sandy Area Detention Center Sunday afternoon and were recaptured by Prestonsburg Police that evening.

Prestonsburg detective sergeant Jeff Stumbo said Tuesday that the two escaped around 4 p.m. when one of the turnkeys opened the door to let visitors out.

One of the juveniles is charged with robbery and kidnapping in connection with the March 2 robbery at the home of Frank Adams at Lancer.

One of the juveniles was apprehended about an hour later by chief Greg Hall and patrolman Herman Morris in a wooded area near Westminster Street in Prestonsburg. The officers caught the escapee after a brief chase on foot, Stumbo said.

The other juvenile was caught at approximately 7 p.m. by Morris and sergeant Mike Omerod in the hills just off Highland Avenue. Both juveniles were barefoot.

"With the cold weather and the rain, the last one was glad to be captured," Stumbo said. "He was pretty cold."

The search for the two was made somewhat easier with "all the neighborhood watching out for them," Stumbo said. Several home owners reported that the juveniles had asked to use the telephone. Both juveniles were charged with first degree escape by Stumbo.

Junior Opy performs

911 needs you!

Information cards have been mailed out to Floyd County residents asking for information needed to complete the development of an emergency 911 telephone system in the county. For the project to progress, those information cards need to be returned by March 31. Information on the cards will help with the designation of new addresses. Those addresses are necessary to implement the system.

Revenue would be just enough to operate.

A poll of the audience revealed citizens wanted the "cheapest" rate to be adopted.

Commissioner Andy Akers recommended the city adopt the lower rate "for right now" to see if the governor's promise for a prison in their city becomes a reality.

Commissioner Lowell Parker said if the prison is built in Wheelwright and other businesses spring up as a result, the water rates could be lowered.

The additional property under consideration includes that owned by St. Martha's Church; a tract owned by Larry and Debbie Woods; property owned by Charles and Annabelle Reid; property belonging to Adam and Joyce Puninske; a tract owned by Clayton Holland; four parcels belonging to Phillip and Linda Haywood; and property owned by Burchett and Bottoms P.S.C.

The annexation becomes effective on second reading and publication of the ordinances.

The expected passage Monday of an ordinance increasing minimum occupational license fees was tabled after a short discussion among council members on the legality of licenses for vending machines located in the city.

A $10 fee was established by the new ordinance, but city administrator Mark Wells said state law exempted certain machines from licensing.

Wells said the only types of vending machines the city could license were those "providing entertainment—like video games." Machines which offered a product are exempted under state law.

Councilman Billy Ray Collins noted that exempting soft drink and other types of vending machines from licensing could "cost the city $10,000," and council agreed to seek input from the state's Department for Local Government before acting further on the occupational license ordinance.

A decision on the issue is expected next month.

Also Monday, council:

- Accepted the resignation, for health reasons, of housing authority chairman Blaine Hall and approved the appointment of Maribeth Compton as his replacement;

- Adopted a resolution urging local cable television operator CableVision to add the Harold-based WPRG station to its system as a local access channel;

- Approved a fund-raising roadblock for this Saturday, March 28, for the Prestonsburg High girl's softball team; and

- Agreed to review a proposal to construct asphalt "speed humps" at Archer Park in an effort to control speeding.

Before adjourning to executive session "to discuss litigation," council heard a review from tourism director Fred James on issues and projects involving the city's tourism department. Details of that review will be presented in Friday's edition of the Times.

No action was reported out of the closed session.

All members of council were present for Monday's meeting. The next regular session for council is set for 6 p.m. April 13.

Addition information is available by calling MSU's Office of Admission toll-free at 1-800-262-7474 or (606) 783-2000.

Superintendent search

The annual meeting of the Floyd County Education Forum will be held on Monday, March 30, at 7 p.m., at the new Allen Elementary School (on Old 23, 1 mile east of the light at Allen). Everyone is welcome.

Clark Thornsby wanted to read aloud a letter written by Mayor Kenneth Johnson which he called "slanderous." Thornsby said Johnson's letter, in part, said the city did not need a fire department.

The commission persuaded Thornsby not to read the letter, but the mayor responded that it was his "opinion" voiced in the letter and told Thornsby, "don't bring up no tales that's not true." Johnson said it was not mandatory for the city to have a fire department.

Thornsby said he was going to forward the letter to his attorney. The contents of the letter were not disclosed.

The commission also:

- appointed Jimmy Little and Duane Oaten to the vacant seats on the utility commission;

- held first reading of an amended ordinance for the city's auxiliary police force;

- heard citizen's complaints about someone shooting out window's on the city's backhoe and reports of vicious dogs running loose in the city;

- heard a report from Commissioner Parker about plans to modify and reopen the city's olympic-sized swimming pool; and

- discussed the city's effort to purchase a new fire truck.

All commissioners attended Thursday's meeting. The next scheduled meeting for the commission is Thursday, April 16 at 7 p.m. at city hall.

OPTICIANS SUPPORT EYE RESEARCH DURING APRIL DONOR AWARENESS WEEK

Opticians all across America will be donating to eye research during National Eye, Tissue and Organ Donor Awareness week, April 19-25, 1992. The Recycle Sight Project, a public awareness and fund raising campaign, was announced by William F. Lenz, Chairman, Guild Council, Guild of Prescription Opticians of America and Daniel J. Donahue, President, Opticians Association of America. In cooperation with TBI, the largest non-profit network of eye banks in the world, the project involves participating opticians donating a portion of each frame sold to TBI's Eye Research Program during Donor Awareness Week.

Marcus Minix, owner of Minix One-Hour Optical, in Prestonsburg, Ky., is participating in this project to fund research that investigates the causes and cures for all types of human blindness. "An optician's primary commitment is to improving sight. National Eye, Tissue and Organ Donor Awareness Week offers us a special opportunity to increase public awareness about the importance of sight preservation and to help fund research that can combat blindness."

TBI community-based non-profit eye banks provide eye tissue for sight restoring corneal transplant surgery and for research.

The Guild of Prescription Opticians of America has a long tradition of professional service to America's eyewear consumers. Member firms of the Opticians Association of America accredited by its Guild Division are independent professionals dedicated to providing superior eyewear products and services.

The Opticians Association of America is the national trade association representing the nation's more than 35,000 retail opticians and contact lens technicians.

Brothers indicted on drug charges

A Floyd County man and his brother were indicted March 19 by a Lexington federal grand jury for their alleged participation in a marijuana growing operation in Wolfe County last September.

James David Childers, 42, of Wayland and Paul Childers, 40, of Kite in Knott County were named in a three-count indictment. The charges are conspiracy to grow marijuana, cultivation of marijuana and possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute. The indictment charges that the two operated a marijuana "grow house operation" in Wolfe County.

If convicted, the two could receive five to 40 years in prison, a $2 million fine or both. The two will be arraigned in federal court in Lexington.

Note: An indictment is not an indication of guilt but a determination that enough evidence exists for further disposition of the case in court.

Ouster

Sizemore's complaint concerning contributions to Billips' campaign by school employees will not be acted on immediately, AG investigator Dale Wright said Tuesday, because a state law concerning that issue is "in limbo."

Wright said the constitutionality of the law prohibiting school employees from becoming active in political affairs is being tested now in court. He added that his office cannot address alleged violations of that law until the court rules on the statute's validity.

Wright did say, however, that the key word in the statute cited by Sizemore was an allegation that Billips "willfully" violated the law's provisions.

"For a willful violation to have occurred, it would require evidence that the violation was planned,"

Wright said.

Billips said Tuesday he had addressed Sizemore's complaint when it originated, in 1991, and repeated that he had committed "no willful violation of the law."

He added that the contribution in question "amounted to $50."

"It would appear that Mr. Sizemore would rather that school employees not have a constitutional right to voice their opinions and to support a change," Billips said.

"It would appear that Mr. Sizemore would rather that school employees continue to be oppressed and have their opinions suppressed and to be subjected to harassment if they do voice their opinions," he added.

"As I stated the first time these allegations were raised, if the Office of Education Accountability and (Education Commissioner) Dr. (Thomas) Boysen determine that this is a violation of willful intent and sufficient for me to step down, all they need to do is contact me," Billips continued. "I find it amazing that in the state of Kentucky it is not unlawful to buy votes but it would be unlawful for school employees to exercise their constitutional right to support a candidate of their choice."

Sartin was victim not suspect in W/W burglary

A Wheelwright man was incorrectly identified as the accused in a story in Friday's Times concerning a burglary last Tuesday at Wheelwright.

Marion Sartin was the victim of a burglary and Lance Mullins of Wheelwright was charged in connection with the incident.

Mullins was charged by Kentucky State Police trooper Mike Thorpe with second degree burglary for allegedly taking a compact disc player valued at $400 from Sartin's home.

Wheelwright police chief Charles Harmon said Wednesday that Mullins had confessed to the crime during questioning.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

It's probably no coincidence that the 1992 session of Kentucky's General Assembly will end on April 15, the same day your taxes are due.

There's usually a lot of pain and anguish associated with both events.

The check you write on April 15 helps pay for the 100 or so days our legislators spend in Frankfort and for the dozens of new laws which make it through the process. Your tax dollars also pay for the time wasted on hundreds of bills that never had the chance to make it into law.

Unlike your taxes, the General Assembly offers no refunds for overpayment, so you can expect no cash back on hundreds of pieces of proposed legislation that never should have been proposed in the first place.

There are no fines for foolishness.

Hmm. Now there's an idea.

Somebody ought to pass a law.

Despite the state's financial crisis, we have a hard time swallowing proposals to cut funding for vocational education.

Vocational education, particularly that provided by Mayo State, has played an important role in providing job training for young people who would otherwise not have such an opportunity. For supporting evidence you need to look no farther than the percentage of Mayo grads who have found decent paying jobs.

Granted, the majority of those employment opportunities have not come at home, but the potential for changing that relies heavily on the availability of vocational education and its adaptability to changing needs.

Vo-ed has been an educational stepchild too long and any effort to reduce its effectiveness would be a mistake.

Our story last week of the bride-to-be and her alleged pre-wedding shoplifting spree has made the national scene, appearing this week in the New York Times and drawing the attention of the Donahue Show.

The article, written by Janice Shepherd, was rewritten by the Lexington Herald-Leader and then picked up by the Associated Press.

Neither of those news sources gave the Times or Janice credit for breaking the story, but that's alright. If it pops up on Donahue, though, remember, you read it here first.

Get this.

A state administrative law judge ruled recently that an employee who broke his arm while arm-wrestling was entitled to workers' compensation.

The reasoning behind this decision which, by the way, was overturned by the state Court of Appeals, was the law judge's suggestion that excessive slack time and a written policy requiring employees to keep fit "effectively implied" acquiescence in "horse-play."

With decision-makers like this guy, is it any wonder why workers' comp rates are so high?

Lots of gardeners ended up disappointed Saturday when they lined up for free manure to fertilize their crops only to find out they were lining up in the wrong place.

The manure was being given away in Lexington by Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus. Word has it all the gardeners thought the manure giveaway was in Frankfort.

A lot of schools across the country are adopting policies that many a mom and dad have used for years.

They're offering rewards for good grades and attendance.

Those rewards can range from free pizza to college tuition credits but, according to one report, the most popular is a discount at the local record shop.

Critics of the reward system say schools are just paying students to do what they ought to be doing anyway.

They obviously have no children.

The only thing our kids do for nothing is nothing.

I'd like to thank Scott Perry for his editorial in last week's paper about the situation at Wheelwright. Because of the seriousness of the case, it is extremely important that all of the people involved, as Scott suggested, deal with facts rather than emotions. The guilt or innocence of Lewis Berkheimer should be determined in a court of law. To a large degree, I believe that is precisely what the students of Wheelwright were trying to say through their protest. It is the job of the prosecution to build a case carefully and thoughtfully and then present the evidence to a jury or judge who will then determine the guilt of the accused. It is not the job of the prosecution or the press to convict the individual before he ever goes through that process. The accused has the right, under our laws, to confront his accuser and to present his case. We all should have that right.

Last week, because I am president of our teacher's association, I received a report from the Office of Educational Accountability that several calls had been made to the KERA hotline. These callers alleged that the individual who had reported the incident of sexual abuse at Wheelwright was being harassed. Since callers to the hotline are not required to give their names or any specific information, I can only assume that teachers at our school were being charged with doing the harassment.

I spent two days talking to the teachers at our school about these charges. I found no one who knew anything about the allegation. At the same time that we were dealing with this allegation, we had reporters who kept coming to us with questions about whether teachers were rewarding the students who had walked out with bonus points. The more disturbing charge brought to us by the press and members of the community was that we were allowing the students who disagreed with the walkout to be harassed. All of the charges that were being made concerned us but this one was especially disturbing.

The teachers at Wheelwright were placed last week in a situation where they had to prove that they had not harassed the person who had reported the incident or that they had not stood by and watched other students being harassed and it was like shadow-boxing with yourself. When questions were asked about who had allowed the harassment to take place or when the incidents had occurred, no one could give any specific information. I don't know how much harm was done by some of those allegations. I am sure that some of the people who heard the rumors believed the charges.

I have enough respect for the teachers that I work with to believe two things: that they will not knowingly harm any student or endorse or be responsible for any harassment. I base that belief in part on my knowledge of Wheelwright teachers, and before I would believe either charge, I would have to see some evidence to prove that it was true. What teachers did try to do last week at Wheelwright was to work their way through a very difficult situation — one that was made more complicated by the fact that we were having unsubstantiated charges leveled at us. We didn't have a group of students protesting in front of our building and reminding people that we were not guilty of the charges until someone proved them.

That brings me to the point where I disagree with Scott Perry. In his editorial Scott argues that the question at issue is not whether Lewis Berkheimer is a good principal or had made improvements at Wheelwright. In the end, I agree that those two facts are not directly related to our principal's guilt or innocence as far as the charges that have been made against him are concerned, but they have everything to do with what happened at Wheelwright last week. The students at Wheelwright were saying, in effect, that they know this man and before they decide his guilt, they want to see evidence. "A year ago," one student told me last week, "we wouldn't have cared about this. We would have gone our separate ways and just let it happen."

When you live at the end of Left Beaver and you have gone through one principal after another and then you finally have on that instills some pride and belief in principles, you want to see the evidence before you decide his guilt. You think he has a right to that. And if you truly believe in the concept of "innocent until proven guilty," then you should be able to praise the man for what he has accomplished while he has been with you. The students' own personal knowledge of Mr. Berkheimer — along with the rights they believe are granted to all of us under the Constitution — caused students to take the action that they did last week.

I don't know how well students at Wheelwright handled all the issues of freedom last week. I know that I saw them trying and I am proud of them for that. All of them, including the students who walked out of the assembly, had the right to act on what they believed in. In classes after the walkout ended, discussions were held about the rights of those students who disagreed with the majority and left the assembly in protest. Seniors in my class said that they believed in the rights of the students who disagreed with them to act on their beliefs. Jennifer Miller, one of the student organizers of the walkout, who has said repeatedly that the students were not denying the rights of the accuser, stated again simply that they wanted the people to remember what the law says — that the accused is innocent until proven guilty.

It is an important concept, I was reminded last week of just how important it is by a group of teenagers, and by the fact that when we as teachers came under charges ourselves, we were assumed by some to be guilty. We have a right to confront out accusers and they, in turn, have the responsibility of proving our guilt. That's the way a democracy works — or, at least, that is what we tell students in our classrooms. We have a chance to show students that it actually works that way. I hope we do it right.

About 16 months ago I attended my first fiscal court meeting. I am sure most of you remember the article on the front page of the Floyd County Times.

Since that time there has been little change in the way the county distributes gravel or anything else in Floyd County. I am speaking of one magistrate — Gerald DeRossett in District 1.

I have had several phone calls from individuals telling me Gerald and his workers are telling the voters of Floyd County they cannot do any work for them because of this woman on Cow Creek — She is chasing him with a camera and watching him. Be for real Gerald. Anyone who knows you as I have come to is well aware of the fact that you never listen to the taxpayers at all.

I do not live on Cow Creek. I live on Woods Branch and since your workers know it, I want the voters to know it as well.

I may not be able to stop you from abusing the voters, but I sure intend to stand up for my rights and speak for myself. Everyone who is tired of being overlooked, unless you supported Gerald in his campaign, should stand up at these meetings and tell him we are mad as heck and we're not gonna take it anymore — read our lips, no more DeRossett in '93.

Don't send another worker to my door Gerald. I am not afraid of you.

A video of this meeting is available to those not having Tel-Com; call 874-8927.

The Kentucky Black Lung Association traveled to Washington, D.C. on March 2nd to lobby and meet with Congressmen and Senators for Black Lung Bill (H.R. 1637) and also Health & Retirement Bills (H.R. 4013 and S. 1989). Congressmen and Senators were given bags of coal and also books that contained all three Bills. The Health & Retirement Bills have now passed the Senate and will go to Congress, then to the President's desk for approval. We feel the trip was a success and very much built a fire for all politicians. We had a beautiful banner for all miners, union and nonunion; black lung concerns all, plus health and retirement effects approximately 16,000 in the area we live in. As Kentucky Black Lung we will keep the fight for all miners and families.

East Kentucky Black Lung also traveled with us to Washington.

On February 21st, we held a memorial service for all miners that had died of black lung or mine accidents. Raymond Stone and three more miners came forward with their mining hats on to pass out roses to families that named their loved ones. Also, another rose was given to the widows. Florists also gave flowers for the funeral that we staged at the East Lawn in front of the Capitol. The names of the florists contributing were: Norton Floral, Vangora's Florist, Pikeville Floral, Helen's Flowers and Patty's Green Florist. Corsages and boutonnières for all who traveled to Washington, D.C. was contributed by Molly's Florist. We really appreciate these people from the bottom of our hearts. Also, Justice Funeral Home donated the coffin that was taken to Washington. Also, we would like to thank WPRG for all of the help they have given us, Paul and Elaine Gearheart are the owners. Also, appreciation for Dr. Don, Diamond Lady, Juanita Bevins, Brian Campbell, Mark Love, and Jennifer Brooks.

Kentucky Black Lung Association now has 800 members and growing. We assist people in their cases; we meet once a month, the 3rd Friday of each month at 7 p.m. Please attend these meetings; you make the difference by bills to get passed in Washington, D.C. We are located in the UMWA Office, Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Our phone number is 606/437-7376 or home 606/478-5513. Please come and see us for assistance. You still need to keep calling the toll free number 1-800-872-2551 — to speak to any Congressman or Senator you want. This doesn't cost anything, just your time, and it's very important.

You, the citizens, wherever you were from, helped us raise $10,150.00 for the trip. We thank you with love. This was raised from a telethon and donations from all professions and businesses.

We still need to continue with the fight for miners and their families. If you need more information, please get in touch with Susie Davis, P.O. Box 3402, South Mayo Trail, Pikeville, Kentucky 41502 or call 606/478-5513 or Ace Burke at 606/452-2338. We have VCR tapes of the trip for sale; if you want one, contact at the above numbers. We are now working on the house beside the UMWA office for a permanent office for the Kentucky Black Lung Association. We will announce when we will be moving, but until then we will still be located on the second floor of the UMWA office. (We appreciate the use of the building.)

Please join, be a member; you can make the difference. We are making progress. Never give up.

Thank you again for everyone's help and contributions. We are non-profit. Again, we meet on the 3rd Friday of each month at 7 p.m. at Justice Funeral Home. We will continue to fight for your rights.

Kentucky Black Lung Association endorses and stands for all three bills—HR 1637 (Black Lung Bill), S. 1989 and HR 4013 (Health & Retirement Bill).

Thanks again to all who gave contributions at our road blocks and to everyone else who have given contributions.

The question that Scott Perry asked is correct, "Is he guilty or innocent?" I think you know what the students' answer is. The reason all the students support Mr. Berkheimer is because we do believe in him.

To begin with I am an office worker, and I spend a tremendous amount of time in the office with Mr. Berkheimer. During this time Principal Berkheimer has never expressed, touched or looked at me in any kind of odd or sexual way. I am not the only student that spends this much time in the office and they feel the same as I do. The question that the students ask is why didn't he ever try anything on the females that stayed in the office all the time, (if he is guilty)?

As far as the accuser, the students are not harassing the accuser that I am aware of. Most of the students are saying that she and the students that believe in her have their own opinions, and the students respect their beliefs so they should respect ours.

The reason for our walkout wasn't to offend anyone, but to show the people that we do believe in our principal, and we were not trying to be the judge and handle the situation. We also feel that the situation should be decided by the court. If he were guilty, why would two hundred and eighty-two walk out in his support?

I have been thinking about writing you for some time now. We've been subscribers to your paper for around fifty years. Occasionally, I'd write when Mr. Allen was editor. I'd like to express my views and feelings on a couple of subjects, if you don't mind?

Education and garbage problems here seem to be quite perplexing to so many of our folks. So many of the citizens clutter up our highways and creeks, streams right in front of their own homes, too. It's a dirty shame and a stinking scandal, too. Big Clorox, Little Pamper, Garbage Hollow and so on — I, for one, don't see why they should object to commercial dumps. (Looks like the old double standard, if my vision isn't failing me.) I told my wife the other day you could put me in a bag, fly me round the world, turn me loose in Kentucky, and I'd know where I was as soon as I saw how the roads were cluttered up.

Now about our education: Perhaps that's why the roads are so nasty. If our children had been taught cleanliness, sanitation, humanity, Godliness, consideration for their fellowman and a few other human traits — we'd, no doubt, have a very different and better environment.

How can one anyone teach something they don't know? I asked three school teachers and two high school graduates to work a simple little square root problem for me and neither of them could do it. (Sometimes it comes down to: "It's not what you know, but who you know.") Yes, that was occurred right here in Floyd County. I was cutting corn for my daddy the day we had that class (square root) in the eighth grade. Course A Square Deal is more important than square root but that's out of the question, I reckon. When we forget fair play, they're apt to forget square root and their roots also. What do you say?

We'd best teach our students that there's a God just like when daddy was a boy. When we take God out of school or man, we've got what we've got.

I thank you very much for your time and space. God gave us a body but it's up to us to educate it and keep it clean, just like the environment.

We Interrupt Our Doctors With This Important Message.

One more interruption in a life of interruptions. Interrupted sleep. Interrupted dinners. Interrupted vacations. Interrupted family plans. For a doctor, even interruptions get interrupted.

Too often we forget that our incessant needs—as a community, as patients and as a hospital—create an endless stream of interruptions for our doctors and for their families. And because we're always in such a hurry, we hardly ever take the time to say we're sorry, or thanks, for giving up so much to bring us your healing skills.

Not that a notice in a newspaper can make up for all that. But it can say that we do deeply appreciate all the dedication, the hard work, the long hours, the time that had to be taken from personal things and from loved ones. Your contribution has been immense. Your time and your skills have helped make Highlands a great Medical Center.

Court

Hammond said a hotel, motel or inn would have sleep no less than 50 and each request would have to be considered individually.

"You're trying to put the cart before the horse," Hammond snapped at Hall.

Hall said he was there only to inform the court of the state statute and that they may be approached sometime in the near future on the issue.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo told Hall, "when it happens, this court will take it up."

Nello Francis, representing golfers at Stumbo Park, presented the court with a petition signed by 377 people asking that green fees and cart rentals at the course be lowered.

Francis said Floyd County golfers were complaining that they could travel to Lexington and play golf cheaper than they could at home. He said it cost $30 a day to play on the Stumbo course compared to $18 a day at courses in Lexington.

"People can't afford it," Francis told the court. "If you cut the green fees you would get more players. You need to get somebody who knows about golf (to set the fees)."

Francis also asked the court to pave the cart lanes at the course and wanted to know how much revenue the course generated last year.

Judge Stumbo told him he didn't know last year's revenue, but he would have the treasurer prepare a report for April's meeting.

Francis said the golfers would help support the course themselves, if need be, and they didn't want any funds taken from any other county department to pay for needed repairs at the course.

"This May will make three years the course has been there and there have been no improvements," Francis said. "We raised $3,000 at one time and gave it to the court for improvements on the course."

The court accepted Francis' revised fee schedule for review.

In other business, the court heard from Sandra Blackburn who wants a road repaired at Buffalo and who engaged in a heated exchange with magistrate Gerald DeRossett.

Blackburn accused DeRossett of hanging up the phone on her after he realized it was her call he was returning.

DeRossett denied hanging up on Blackburn and said no one answered the phone when he tried to return her call.

Blackburn said she overheard two women in a Pike County doctor's office discussing the "crazy woman from Cow Creek" who was "giving Gerald DeRossett hell" and preventing any work from being done in that district.

DeRossett said he knew nothing about the incident.

Blackburn also complained that DeRossett ordered work performed on private property in the county.

"If you can prove it, prove it," DeRossett said.

Other action at Friday's meeting:

- the court passed a resolution honoring slain Johnson County Sheriff Cecil (Gene) Cyrus and to send condolences to his family;

- received a proposed ordinance relating to political campaign signs;
- approved a fire district tax for the Toler Creek Fire Department;
- was introduced to Darrell Gilliam, director for the Floyd County Development Authority and enrolled him as a county employee with all benefits;

- passed a three percent cost of living increase for county employees;
- approved closing a roadway at the Bob Fitzpatrick Branch of Middle Creek; and
- agreed to employ Vickie R. Moore at $8.86 per hour as a road department employee to settle a lawsuit filed in 1990 in federal court at Pikeville.

All members of the court were present at Friday's meeting. The next scheduled meeting of the court is Friday, April 17 at 10 a.m. at the Floyd County Courthouse Annex.

Skaggs quits after plea for funds

by Tony Fyffe
The Paintsville Herald

One week after vowing to save his office from extinction, the regional director of vocational education has retired.

Bronelle Skaggs of Paintsville, who has been executive director of Kentucky Tech-Region 11 since 1973, retired on Monday. He said proposed budget cuts in vocational education played a role in his decision.

Last Monday, Skaggs and other local officials held a town meeting at Mayo State Vocational-Technical School in Paintsville to encourage citizens to help restore funding that had been cut in a state spending plan approved by the House. The budget would cut half the funding for the state's 14 vocational education regions.

Skaggs said the cuts would be "devastating" to Region 11, which oversees vocational education in Johnson, Floyd, Martin and Pike counties. He predicted layoffs in his office if the budget is approved.

He also said the state's vocational regions would likely have to merge, which would mean Region Eleven would be "controlled from Ashland or Winchester or Hazard or someplace."

When asked if the cuts affected his retirement decision, Skaggs said: "To a degree it does."

"There's a time comes when one needs to make a decision," said Skaggs, who said recent health problems also contributed to his decision.

News of Skaggs' decision was greeted with disappointment from his counterparts across the state.

Stuart Hodges, executive director of Region 13 in London, called Skaggs "one of the most dedicated people in this area of education."

"He is a dedicated person who worked diligently to try to help people in the Paintsville area," Hodges said Monday.

Danny O'Neal, a regional education consultant, has been named acting director.

Porter competes

Steven G. Porter of Porter Studio recently competed in the Mid-East States Affiliated Photography Exhibition hosted by the Professional Photographers of Ohio. The computation and exhibition took place at the Columbus Hyatt Regency/Ohio Center from March 4-9.

Porter was one of 306 photographers entered in the six state regional competition. All four photographs he enter received the prestigious gold corner of acceptance.

He also received two blue ribbon awards and one red for his portraits. The blue ribbon photographs also earned his Certificates of Merit for the Professional Photographer of America, and will be exhibited at the International Exposition of Professional Photographer in Orlando, Florida in July of this year.

He also attended the 39th Annual convention and trade show of the Professional Photographers of Ohio.

PCC holds financial aid awareness day

The Counseling/Financial Aid Office at Prestonsburg Community College recently held its annual Financial Aid Awareness Day program. The purpose of this annual event is to make students aware of financial aid programs and to assist them in the completion of their financial aid forms for the coming academic year. By completing applications early, students may be eligible to receive more benefits. The program turned out to be a huge success, with over one hundred students taking advantage of the day's activities. Prestonsburg Community College has over 2,000 students receiving financial aid benefits for the 1991-92 academic year.

Garden supplies to be distributed

Approximately 1,370 families will receive seed and fertilizer between March 24 and April 3.

Each spring the Christian Appalachian Project helps low-income families and elderly people grow vegetables by giving them seeds for 15 varieties. This year will include flower and herb seeds.

An additional 1,500 families will be served through other regional agencies which receive planting supplies from CAP.

This program enables participants to supplement their diets with fresh food through their own efforts.

Participants are encouraged to can and preserve some of their harvest so that they can enjoy wholesome food throughout the year.

During the growing season CAP workers visit participants to provide friendship, a Christian witness, and gardening tips, but often receive more than they give.

The seeds are donated by Asgrow Seed Company, the Society of St. Andrew in Virginia, and individuals.

Fr. Ralph W. Beiting, founder of the Christian Appalachian Project, will help with the distribution on March 26 in Salyersville at the Old Philadelphia Tabernacle Church and on March 27 at the First Presbyterian Church, U.S. 23 north, Prestonsburg.

Kid's Day Service at Grethel Baptist Church

Grethel Baptist Church will be having a special Kid's Day Service on March 29.

The Appalachian Bible College Puppet Team will be presenting a special program during the morning worship at 11 a.m.

The day begins at 10 a.m. with Sunday School and follows with the special puppet program at 11 a.m.

Everyone is welcome to attend and more information can be obtained by calling the church at 587-2043.

Beauty pageant

Miss Shriner 1992 Beauty Pageant will be held on Saturday, April 4 at the Pikeville College Gym. The pageant begins at 6 p.m. with late registration at 4 p.m. For more information, contact Brenda Bostic, pageant director, (606) 437-4151.

Art exhibit to be held

Watercolors by Pikeville College art students will be featured in the Marguerite Weber Art Gallery on the Pikeville College campus April 1-10. The gallery is located on the bridge level of the Armington Science-Learning Center.

A larger show, featuring works in all media by Pikeville College art students, will run from April 13-30.

Both exhibits will be free and open to the public, and shuttle service is available to the gallery from the lower parking lot and the Pikeville College gymnasium. For more information, contact Gallery Director Pat Kowalok at (606) 437-3444.

Happy 50th Anniversary

The family of Tommie Frank and Noralene Belcher of Halo, Ky., wishes to congratulate them on their upcoming 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Belcher will celebrate 50 joyous years together on Saturday, March 28th.

Community Calendar

Editor's Note: As a service to the many clubs and committees that meet in our community, the Floyd County Times' Community Calendar will host meeting and public service announcements.

Lexington consistory to confer degrees

The Lexington Scottish Rite Bodies will confer the Scottish Rite Degrees, 4° through 32°, at a reunion to be held Saturday, March 28, at the auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College.

The registration for candidates for the degrees will begin at 7 a.m. and all candidates are urged to be early as each must be processed.

For additional information, call 886-3083 or 285-3066.

Floyd County 4-H Talk Meet

It is now time to register for the Floyd County 4-H Talk Meet which will be held April 8, at Maytown Elementary School. The rules are:

- The speech may cover any topic
- The speaker may be given help from any source to write the speech
- The time limits are 3-5 minutes for speakers 9-13 years old (as of January 1, 1992), and 5-7 minutes for speakers 14-19 years old (as of January 1, 1992)
- Note cards are allowed, but eye contact with the audience is a must. Registration for the Talk Meet will begin at 6 p.m. All competitors must be accompanied by an adult. For more information contact the Floyd County Extension Office at Room 106 Floyd County Annex, or call 886-2668.

Clark PTA to elect site-based council

Members of the Clark PTA will meet Monday, April 6, at 7 p.m., in the Clark Elementary School Library to elect two parents to the school's first site-based decision-making council. Only persons who have joined the PTA by March 30, 1992 will be eligible to vote.

Nominations of parents to the council may be submitted through Monday, March 30, to Principal Wayne Combs by any interested person. Nominations should be made in writing and should include a paragraph written by the nominee stating why he or she wished to serve.

Nominees must be parents, step-parents, or legal guardians whose children will be enrolled at Clark during the 1992-93 school year. Parents who are employees of the school system or whose relatives work for the school system are not eligible.

Following the provisions of the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), the school's faculty voted to go to site-based decision-making at an election held earlier this month. This means that as of July 1, 1992, Clark Elementary will be governed by a school council comprised of Principal Wayne Combs, two parents, and three teachers. The council will make policies and decisions which effect every aspect of the school's day-to-day operation. Parent and teacher council members will serve one-year terms and be eligible for re-election.

Clark faculty members will elect three teachers to the council in a separate election to be held on Thursday, April 2.

For further information concerning the election, please feel free to contact Mr. Combs at 886-2487.

Fresh start class

Join a fresh start class at the Mud Creek Clinic to help you stop smoking. Classes being Monday, March 30. To register, contact Beverly May at 886-1242. The classes are a free service of the Mud Creek Clinic and the American Cancer Society.

Great American Read Aloud

The office of Continuing Education/Community Services will offer a Great American Read Aloud on Wednesday, April 8, from 8:45 a.m. - 3:15 p.m. Many of the faculty and staff at the college have signed up to participate. For more information about readers and their subjects, please contact the office of Continuing Education at 886-3863, ext. 242. Free. Everyone is welcome.

Public hearing

The Big Sandy Area Agency on Aging will hold a public hearing regarding the area plans for programs on aging under Title III of the Older Americans Act of 1965 as amended and the Homecare Program. The hearing will be held on Thursday, April 2, at 10 a.m., at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park in Prestonsburg. The public is invited to attend.

Garden Club

Those who are interested in organizing a garden club for Prestonsburg should attend a meeting Saturday, April 4, around noon at the Prestonsburg Tourism building. For more information, call Ann McGuire at 886-0008.

Hughes returns to submarine

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Johnny R. Hughes, son of James E. and Katy J. Houston of Prestonsburg, recently returned aboard the submarine USS Sand Lance, homeported in Charleston, South Carolina, from a six-month deployment to the South Atlantic.

Participating in an operation known as "UNITAS", the crew of USS Sand Lance circumnavigated the tip of South America, transited the Panama Canal and conducted operations and training exercises with the various South American navies.

Hughes was also able to visit several foreign ports including Cartagena, Colombia; Rodman, Panama; Manta, Ecuador; Callao, Peru; Co-quimbo, Puerto Aldea, Valpariso and Talcahuano, Chile.

Other stops included Golfo Nuevo and Puerto Belgrano, Argentina; Rio De Janeiro and Salvador, Brazil; and Puerto La Cruz, Venezuela.

The 1981 graduate of Prestonsburg High School joined the Navy in June 1981.

Thanks From Special Care Nursery

Hope Curry and her Mom, Teri, enjoy all the excitement.

On March 21, 1992, over 350 people gathered for the first Neonatal Reunion for babies treated in the Special Care Nursery at Pikeville Methodist Hospital. It was a wonderful time for celebrating, for seeing children who had a tough start in life grow up healthy, for sharing memories and laughter and even a few tears.

We would like to thank all those who had a part in making it happen. We thank the Board of Directors, administration, medical staff, and employees of Pikeville Methodist Hospital. Without the excellent medical services available at the hospital, we would never have been able to start a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit. We thank this community for caring about children and their future and for supporting our Neonatal Services. And we express sincere appreciation to the parents of these special children for once again sharing them with us for a little while.

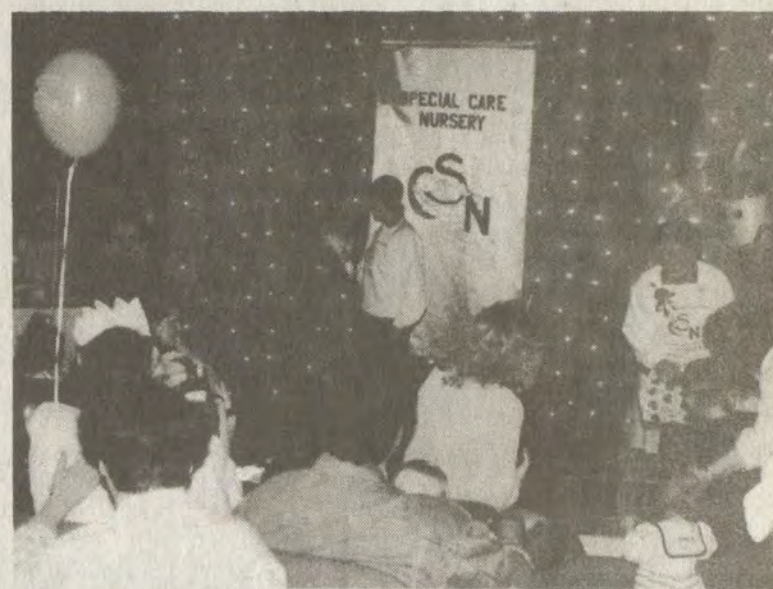

James Michael Slone buddies up to Big Bird.

Dr. Ruth Ann Shepherd, Neonatologist, visits with Jared Nichols.

(Clockwise from Front) Nashala Price, RN; Kim McCrary, RN; Anna Kiser, LPN; and Brenda Chapman, RN, join others in singing "Puff the Magic Dragon."

Dr. Shepherd and Cheryl Hickman, RN give away door prizes.

Agency offers workshop on discipline March 28

A free workshop titled "Disciplining Children Without A Paddle" will be offered by the Outreach Offices of the Catholic Social Service Bureau (CSSB) on Saturday, March 28 from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. at St. Martha Church, Route 3, Prestonsburg (near Jenny Wiley State Resort Park).

The program will be presented by Gwen Hall, a counselor for CSSB's Prestonsburg office. Ms. Hall is a licensed social worker and holds a Bachelor of Social Work degree from the University of Missouri. Her experience with children includes parenting her own four children, advocacy for children with special needs, childcare, teaching, coaching, life-guarding, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, and work at Buckhorn Children's Center and the Boone County Juvenile Justice Center.

Ms. Hall's presentation will focus on practical ways to discipline children through rules and standards for acceptable and unacceptable behavior, negative consequences for intentionally breaking rules and positive consequences for adhering to rules. Participants will be given a chance to share and practice their discipline skills. Information about community resources for parents will also be given.

"Parenting is a role that adults, even those who have never conceived a child, often need to assume in the presence of children," said Hall. "Therefore, parents, grandparents, teachers, coaches, babysitters, childcare providers, scout leaders, any persons involved with children are encouraged to attend. Hopefully, we'll teach each other many new options for nurturing and disciplining children without needing to threaten or use a paddle."

Pre-registration is not required. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. on March 28 in the church hall. Participants are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch; coffee and soft drinks will be provided.

For more information, contact Gwen Hall at 874-9170.

LOT OF ROUND BALL OVER THE WEEKEND

There was a lot of basketball over the past weekend locally as well as on the tube. The NCAA Men's basketball tournament certainly was in the limelight as all games could be seen somewhere if you have a satellite dish.

On the local level, the third annual Prestonsburg Junior Basketball tournament was held and it certainly was a very good tourney. Our congratulations to the Prestonsburg Black team upon winning over Southeast Lexington for the championship Sunday afternoon.

The black team has only lost one game in tournament competition this year and that was at Scott County. But the local team recovered and came out of the losers' bracket and won the tournament.

I was certainly impressed with the quality of play these young men (and some girls) demonstrated in the three-day event. Those in attendance, and there were many, witnessed some very talented players on the floor. Even in our own local teams our grade school and later high schools will have some very talented players coming that way.

You could tell that many of the players in the tournament were watching a lot of games on television. You could tell by the way some tried to pass the ball and do the behind-the-back dribble. Posting up and pulling up to shoot the three. It was big time basketball to these youngsters.

It's not hard to get caught up in all the action that takes place at one of these tournaments. I have never seen team support like the two Scott County teams. They had the most fans and they got involved in the games. It was enjoyable to watch the parents of these kids when their child scored. But again, both Scott County teams brought their cheerleaders with them and that meant more fans to make the trip.

I understand that over 100 rooms at the Holiday Inn were booked for the out of town teams to stay during the three days. Not only that, but area restaurants got business from the three day event. You can safely say that the tournament was good for the economy here in Prestonsburg. So, business folks, when financial help is needed for next year's tournament (which will be bigger and better) be ready to help out.

Tournament director Dickie Jarvis and his staff of workers did a great job in hosting the tournament. Two gyms had to be used to contain all the games—Adams Middle School and the Prestonsburg High School gym.

How about our area hosting a state regional sometime? Or, better yet, the state tournament?

TRAINING LEAGUE,
JUNIOR VARSITY AND VARSITY
REGIONAL COVERAGE

This Friday night the regional tournament for the Junior Pro basketball teams will be held at Richmond. The games will be played in three divisions—training league, junior varsity and varsity levels. I always enjoy going to the regionals because of the good basketball seen on this level. Our local team always seems to do well and that makes it that much more enjoyable.

I will be in Richmond this weekend to cover the games on all three levels with photos and stories in next Wednesday's sports section.

The problem about covering all the games is having to move from place to place since they will be held at three different sites. Richmond is not that hard to find your way around, but when the state tournament is held in Bowling Green, that is a different story. On the state level,

Betsy Layne Junior
Pro falls to Southeast
Lexington, 68-32

Eric Sanford scored 16 points and Brian Hundley added 14 as Southeast Lexington posted a one-sided 68-32 win over the Betsy Layne junior pro basketball team during tournament action at the Adams Middle School gym Friday night. The two teams met in the fourth game of the Prestonsburg Junior Pro basketball tournament that ran through the weekend.

Betsy Layne managed only two first quarter points—two free throws by Craig Johnson—who was held to just three points in the game. Johnson is the team's leading scorer.

It was a 22-2 ball game after the first quarter and Southeast Lexington never looked back.

Tom Taulbee led a mild comeback for Betsy Layne in the second quarter by scoring seven points including a three-point basket. Betsy Layne still trailed 32-13 at the half.

Southeast Lexington opened things up in the third and fourth quarter as they blitzed the Bobcats 21-9 in the final stanza.

Thomas Mundy added nine points in the win for Southeast Lexington. Doug Summersett scored eight.

Betsy Layne was led by Taulbee's seven points and Brent Newsome scored six. Chad Case and Kenneth Johnson had four points each. Johnson finished with three while Brad Reynolds, Tyler Mullins and Barrett Brooks each had two points.

Musick named head football coach at JCHS

Johnson County Superintendent Frank Hamilton announced that he has chosen William "Bill" Musick to replace Steve Trimble as the Golden Eagle's head football coach. Trimble, who is an assistant principal at Johnson Central High School, resigned the coaching position last year.

Musick led the Evarts High School football team to 29 wins in the three he was at the helm of the Evarts program. Scott Russell, who set new state rushing records this past year and was named Mr. Football in Kentucky, was a member of Musick's team.

Musick, 30, was one of about 20 people who applied for the coaching position, Hamilton said Tuesday. He was one of two recommended for hiring by a seven-member screening committee.

According to the superintendent, Musick was ranked number one on the committee members' list.

Musick will be an administrative assistant to Central Elementary Principal Pat Gambill in addition to his coaching duties.

Prestonsburg Black rolls past Lexington Southeast to capture Jr. Pro Tournament

It was a big weekend of basketball locally even with the high school season completed. Ten junior pro basketball teams gathered at the Adams Middle School gym over the weekend for the Third Annual Prestonsburg Junior Pro Invitational tournament.

Wesley Samons scored 15 points and Billy Mitchell tossed in 13 to lead the Prestonsburg Black team to an easy 59-37 win over Lexington Southeast for the championship.

Two teams from Scott County, Lexington Southeast joined six Floyd County junior pro teams for the tournament.

In winning the local tournament, Prestonsburg won their second consecutive tourney in two weekends and will start play for all the marbles as they travel to Richmond for the Kentucky Boys East Regional Junior Varsity tournament where the top two winners will advance to Bowling Green for the state finals.

Prestonsburg held a 29-20 lead at halftime but extended their margin to 13 points, 43-30 after three quarters. Shawn Ousley took a pass from John Ortega and dropped in a field goal and Mitchell hit a 12 footer as the black team scored the first four points of the fourth period to go out 33-20. Southeast narrowed the margin to nine points with 2:51 remaining in the third quarter, on a three-point basket by Timmy Jenkins. Lexington Southeast had a chance to cut into an 11 point deficit but missed four consecutive free throws in the final minute. With nine seconds left on the clock, Samons' basket gave Prestonsburg the 43-30 lead.

Prestonsburg ran off six unanswered points to begin the fourth period and assume a 50-33 lead. Back-to-back baskets by Mitchell and Ousley's field goal with 3:43 left in the game opened up the 17-point margin. After a basket by Eric Sanford, Prestonsburg went on a 9-2 run to close out the scoring.

Lexington trailed Prestonsburg 15-11 after the first quarter as they stayed close to the black team. Lexington took their only lead of the game at 9-8 on a basket by Steve Turner with 1:31 remaining in the stanza. Mitchell hit a jumper to reclaim the lead for the host team and Ortega followed with a lay-in and a 12-9 Prestonsburg

tournament

Craig Johnson just about did it all for Betsy Layne as he tossed in 24 points against Scott County White. But the 24-point performance wasn't enough as Betsy Layne fell to the white team 49-40 eliminating them from tournament play. Tom Taulbee added six points and five players scored two each. Johnson scored 14 of his 24 points in the final quarter.

All nine players scored for Scott County with Aaron Popp's eight points leading the way. Steven Popp and Jarred Williams each tossed in seven points.

Betsy Layne only trailed by two points, 9-7 after the first period as both teams struggled in the opening frame. Taulbee had a three-point basket for Betsy Layne and hit his second one in the third period. Six points by Aaron Popp and Hockensmith in the second period gave Scott County a 25-17 lead at the half.

Betsy Layne stayed close throughout the third period as they trailed by seven going into the final quarter. But all the scoring for Betsy Layne came from Johnson in the fourth as the Scott County team outscored him 16-14.

Betsy Layne did not hit a free throw in the game attempting only four shots from the charity stripe. Johnson attempted all four for Betsy Layne.

pounding as they fall to Scott Co.

The Martin junior pro basketball team fell hard to the Scott County Red team by a convincing score of 51-20 behind the 16 point performance of John Hawkins. Hawkins had two three-pointers in the game. Teammate A.W. Hamilton added 10 points.

Martin, who was overmatched in the game (size wise), got five points from Ethan Blackburn and four each from Nick Samons and Kaleb Yates.

It was 12-3 after the first quarter with Martin missing from the charity stripe early. Jesse Hall attempted five free throws missing all three. Desmond Spencer accounted for the three Martin first quarter points with a three-pointer. It was 26-7 at the half with Scott County in control.

Blackburn scored all five of his points in the fourth quarter on a field goal and A three-point bucket. Jesse Hall had the other two points in the quarter.

Eleven local teams will journey to Richmond for regional finals

The boys state high school basketball state tournament will be going on in Louisville this weekend and no doubt will draw a large crowd. However, there will be plenty of basketball action involving 11 local teams as the annual Junior Pro Regional basketball tournament gets underway at Richmond this Friday night.

The three-day event will find five Floyd County junior varsity teams taking part, as well as three training league teams. On the varsity level, three teams will make the trip to Richmond.

Local teams have usually done well in the regional tournament and made the trip to the state level of competition.

McDowell, Duff and Martin have entered teams with McDowell facing Middlesboro in the second game of the tournament at 7:15 p.m. on Friday night. In the late game Friday night, Duff will face Madison Central One team in a 8:30 p.m. start. Corbin plays Powell County in the final game Friday night, beginning at 9:45 p.m.

Martin received a bye in the tournament and will play against the winner of the Middlesboro 2/Madison 2 winner. Martin's game is scheduled to begin at 8:15 a.m. Saturday morning.

The double elimination tournament continues all day Saturday and Sunday with the winner scheduled to be crowned at 4:45 p.m. Sunday. If necessary, though, a 6 p.m. game could be played.

On the junior varsity level, five of the six teams will be from Floyd County with Prestonsburg entering two. Prestonsburg is a favorite to win the junior varsity division. Middlesboro is the other team entered.

Duff, Martin, McDowell (although word is that McDowell has dropped out), Martin and the two Prestonsburg teams will represent Floyd County.

Martin and Duff kick off the junior varsity division with a 8:15 a.m. game on Saturday morning. McDowell is scheduled to face Prestonsburg 2 in a 9:30 a.m. tip-off time. However, if McDowell (no way to confirm) has dropped out, the Prestonsburg 2 team will automatically advance to the second round. Prestonsburg 1 waits to play the winner of the Duff/Martin game at 10:45 a.m. Middlesboro will face the winner of the Prestonsburg 2 / McDowell winner. Should both Prestonsburg teams win, it would set up a game between the two Prestonsburg teams on Saturday afternoon at 3:45 p.m.

Again, the junior pro division will continue throughout the day on Saturday with the final scheduled for Sunday at 2:15 p.m. If needed, a 6 p.m. game will be played.

Three Floyd County teams will fill the brackets for the varsity league that gets underway on Saturday. McDowell, Floyd County and Duff will represent our area in the tournament. Madison 1 and Madison 2 along with Middlesboro will round out the division play.

McDowell is scheduled to face the Floyd County All-Stars in the first game of the event at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Madison 2 versus Middlesboro in game two at 10:45 a.m. on Saturday.

Madison 1 will face the winner of the McDowell/Floyd County game at noon Saturday and Duff waits in the wings for the winner of the Madison 2/Middlesboro game for a 3:45 p.m. start.

The basketball will be bouncing all day Saturday and Sunday with the varsity finals scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. and a 6 p.m. game scheduled if needed.

The Training League will play all their games at the Madison Central

Martin nips Prestonsburg Red 46-44 in junior pro tournament

It was a large and excited crowd that gathered at the Adams Middle School gym Friday night for the second night of the Third Annual Junior Pro Invitational basketball tournament with Martin taking on the Prestonsburg Red team.

Desmond Spencer scored 16 points as Martin edged by the Red team 46-44 in a well played ball game. Prestonsburg went to the locker room at the half with what appeared to be a safe nine point, 23-14 lead. However, Martin outscored Prestonsburg 14-6 in the third period to get back in the game and trailed by one, 29-28 at the third stop.

Martin took the lead at 30-29 on a basket by Nick Samons to start the final period. A free throw by Nathan Fannin tied the game before Samons nailed two free throws with 5:19 left to give Martin a 32-30 lead. A.C. Spradlin went hard to the basket for a field goal to tie the game at 32-32 and he was fouled by Shannon Mynhier. Spradlin missed the free throw with Jimmy Branham grabbing the rebound for Martin. Mynhier hit a free throw and then took a nice pass from Samons for a lay-in to give Martin a 35-32 advantage with 4:45 remaining in the game.

Spradlin drew his team to within one point with a jumper with 4:35 on the clock. But a lay-up by Spencer kept Martin's lead at three points, 37-34. The Purple Flash had their opportunities to add to the lead from the free throw line but missed four straight attempts. Scotty Walls made it a one point affair with a shot off the right side.

A free throw by Samons put Martin in front by only two points, 38-36, before Ryan Hardee hit a basket following a Martin turnover to tie the game at 38-38.

Samons missed two free throws for Martin and Gorden Bradley missed the front end of a bonus shot for Prestonsburg as both teams struggled at the charity stripe.

Prestonsburg went up 41-38 after turnovers for Martin hurt the Purple Flash. Spencer was fouled with 1:17 showing on the clock and he nailed both attempts narrowing the margin to one point, 41-40.

Both teams exchanged turnovers before Martin went ahead 42-41 on a basket by Branham with 56 seconds to go in the game. Prestonsburg converted a Martin turnover into two points on two charity tosses by P.J. Holbrook to give Prestonsburg the lead, 43-42. Spencer came up court to hit a short jumper and Martin led, 44-43. With 14 seconds remaining, Samons picked up his fifth personal foul sending Bradley to the free throw line for two shots. Bradley connected on the first attempt to tie the game at 44-44 but misfired on the second attempt. Martin rebounded the second missed shot and got the ball in the hands of Spencer who drove the length of the court and laid the ball in the basket with just four seconds remaining. Prestonsburg called time out but when play was resumed, Prestonsburg threw the ball out of bounds ending any comeback hope.

The two teams were tied at 6-6 at the end of the first quarter but Prestonsburg outscored the Purple Flash 17-8 in the second quarter to take a 23-14 half time lead. Hardee and Seth Crisp hit three pointers for the Prestonsburg team in the period. Hardee and Crisp each scored five points in the quarter.

Besides Spencer's 16 points, Samons finished with 11 points and Mynhier added seven. Ethan Blackburn and Branham each scored four points with Todd Samons and Kaleb Yates getting one each.

Prestonsburg was led by Ryan Hardee with 10 points. Scotty Walls added nine. Holbrook and Spradlin each netted six points with Crisp finishing with five. Fannin tossed in three and Russ Music scored two as did Jason Keathley. Bradley had one point.

Southeast Lexington falls to P-burg Black team, 54-45

Wesley Samons tossed in 16 points as the Prestonsburg Black team handed the Southeast Lexington junior pro team their first loss in tournament action at Adams Middle School Sunday afternoon. The Black team of Wilbur Samons moved into the finals of the tournament with a 54-45 win over the Lexington team.

Prestonsburg held a 10 point, 28-18 lead at the half after leading 15-7 at the end of the first quarter. Shawn Ousley had six first quarter points to lead Prestonsburg to their lead. Ousley scored 10 points in the contest. Samons came into the game in the second period and tossed in five points. He put eight points on the scoreboard in the third period and scored three in the final quarter.

John Ortega added nine points for the winners with Billy Mitchell and Andy Jarvis scoring six each. Neil Hamilton netted five while Kyle Conley scored two.

Steve Turner and Eric Sanford led Southeast with nine points each. Joe Everett added eight with Thomas Mundy and Brian Hundley scoring six each.

Cold free throw shooting sinks Maytown Wildcats in loss to Scott County White

You have to make your free throws. They are free attempts and you must make the charity tosses to be a winning basketball team.

That proved to be a problem for the Maytown Wildcats junior varsity team Saturday afternoon at the Adams Middle School gym where the third annual Prestonsburg Junior Pro basketball tournament was held this weekend. The Wildcats made just four of 20 free throw attempts in falling to Scott County White 46-34.

While Maytown was attempting 20 free throws, Scott County shot a total of five free throws and made only one. But Chad Hockensmith and Ashley Cassidy combined for 20 points to lead the White team to victory. Each player scored 10 points each.

The fourth quarter started out good for Maytown as they scored the first four points on baskets by Jason Isaac and Todd Howard to pull to within one point of Scott County after trailing 27-22 at the end of the third quarter. But the quick start didn't last as the White team outscored Maytown 17-8 the rest of the way to post the victory.

Maytown trailed by only two points at the end of the first quarter. In fact, the Wildcats jumped out in front to an early 4-0 lead on a three-point basket by Ethan Martin and a Todd Howard free throw. Back-to-back baskets by Jarred Williams and Stevn Popp gave Scott County a 5-4 lead. Williams basket was a three-pointer.

Maytown went on top 6-5 on a basket by Kevin Thacker. Cassidy gave Scott County the lead at 7-6 before Howard hit from the charity stripe to tie the game at 7-7. Scott County had the first quarter lead at 9-7 on Cassidy's second field goal.

Six straight points by Scott County opened up a 15-7 lead as Maytown could only score two points in the second period to trail at the half 19-9. Maytown missed nine free attempts in the quarter. Jackie Owens, normally a good free throw shooter missed five times.

The Wildcats opened on a positive note in the third period as they ran off the first seven points to close to within three points, 19-16. Isaac missed to two free throws to start the quarter for Maytown but baskets by Daniel Risner and Todd Howard coupled with Risner's three-pointer following a turnover closed the gap for Maytown. But three points was as close as Maytown could come to the White team.

The loss dropped Maytown into the losers' bracket of the tournament.

Howard's 12 points led Maytown in scoring. Thacker finished with six points. Martin and Risner each had five while Isaac tossed in three. Osborne and Owens each finished with two points.

Jarred Williams led Scott County with 11 points. Collins had six points and Jason Puckett finished with four. Patrina Coleman scored two and Aaron Popp tossed in just one.

Martin pours in 26 points as Maytown posts win over Duff

It was a big night for Ethan Martin in junior pro tournament action at the Adams Middle School Saturday morning as Martin scored 26 points to lead the Maytown junior pros past Duff 60-31. Martin scored 15 of his game high 26 in the second half after scoring 11 in the first quarter alone. The rules of junior pro prohibit starting players playing the second quarter.

Teammate Todd Howard added 12 points in the victory and Jackie Owens tossed in eight points.

Maytown roared to a 20-8 first quarter lead on the strength of Martin's scoring. Maytown led at the half, 28-18.

The Wildcats ran out to a 44-22 lead at the end of the third quarter and never looked back.

Daniel Risner had the only three-point basket for Maytown in scoring just three points.

Duff was led in scoring by Ryan Owens and Brian Crawford with seven points.

The loss eliminated Duff from tournament play. Duff will be playing in the upcoming regional tournament at Richmond when they face Martin in the opening round.

Corbett Howell, Byron Patton and Lori Nichols each had four points for Duff in the game.

Kevin Thacker added six points in the Maytown win. Jason Isaac, Timbo Hagans and John Goble had two points apiece.

A Look At Sports

the junior varsity level is held in Diddle Arena at Western Kentucky University. But the other places are difficult to find. But we will make out alright!

NCAA GOT THE COVERAGE!

Nancy is sort of put out with CBS and all their basketball coverage of the men's NCAA basketball tournament. Seems it pre-empted "Days of Our Lives," "The Young and Restless" and whatever other soaps were suppose to come on. But for us basketball nuts, we were blessed.

I, for one, didn't really like the way CBS covers the tournament games. You get settled in watching a good game and then they switch you back and forth from one game to another. I certainly didn't like that.

Then the announcers for the games were very dull in describing the action. When you are used to watching ESPN and the Southeastern Conference, CBS becomes very dull. I, like many, when the Kentucky game is on, turn down the volume and turn up Cawood. But there was one good, positive thing about CBS's coverage — no Dick Vitale. The mouth missed out on this one and again we were blessed.

I see where Kentucky is a three point favorite over UMass tomorrow night. The game is schedule to start at 7:30 p.m. UMass will be better prepared this time around but again so will the Wildcats. I certainly would like to see Kentucky make the final eight and get a shot at Duke. It has already been a banner season for us Wildcat fans.

BASEBALL IS IN THE AIR AND THE REDS ARE HAVING A GREAT SPRING

Don't you just love baseball? I love to be outdoors and watching some good baseball. I enjoy seeing our local teams and players do well. I enjoy being around the teams taking their pictures and writing about their accomplishments. This will be a very good year for our local teams.

It has been a good spring for the Cincinnati Reds. Some of the key players are having good spring training games, and looks like the trades made over the winter will pay off.

Rob Dibble may be out for some time, though, if his arm problems are as serious as they think. I will be the first to admit that I didn't appreciate the antics of Dibble two years ago, and still don't. But one thing I must admit — he can pitch. Here's hoping that he recovers and no surgery is needed.

In Friday's sports section, Dale McKinney of WMDJ, will give us a look at the Reds. McKinney has been in touch and probably knows more about Cincinnati than anyone else around this area. He will give us some insight on some of the players and the team overall.

Also, if you want to listen to the Reds, you can do so this weekend when WMDJ will air Saturday and Sunday's Reds game. Cincinnati will play Detroit at 1:05 p.m. on Saturday and then take on Denzil "Hoss" Halbert's St. Louis Cardinals in a 7:35 p.m. start on Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL WILL BE EXCITING

Next week high school baseball gets underway with all five teams being in action. If you want to see some good baseball, pick up a schedule of your favorite team and be at all the home games. I promise you, you will enjoy yourself.

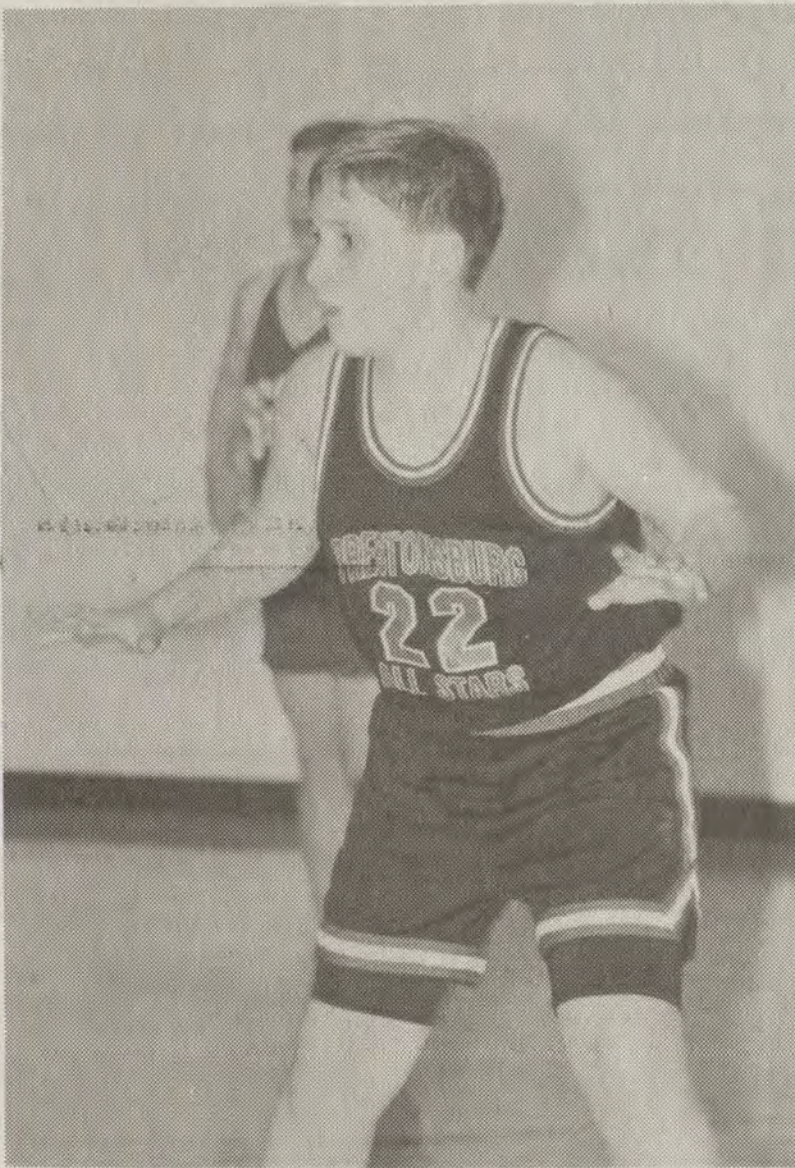

Floyd County will be loaded with good talented players and I am looking forward to the start of baseball.

Well, that's it for this Wednesday. Good sports everyone and be good sports! Yaaaaa, no Dick Vitale!

High leapers!

Guarding the middle!

Compassed about!

Maytown's Todd Howard (22) found himself all alone as three Scott County white team players circle him in going after the basketball. Howard scored 12 points but his team dropped a 46-34 loss to the Scott County team. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Richmond—

High School gym located on second street in Richmond. The Junior Varsity League will hold their games at the Model Lab School off Parke Drive. The Varsity League plays at the Clark Moore's Middle School just off U.S. 25. On Sunday, all games will be played at the Madison Central High School.

If you want to see some good basketball and don't want to fight the crowd in Louisville, head for Richmond and support the local teams.

Betsy Layne posts win over Red team

The Betsy Layne junior pro basketball squad regrouped themselves after falling to Southeast Lexington in the first round of the third annual Prestonsburg Junior Pro basketball tournament at the Adams Middle School Saturday morning, went on to edge the Prestonsburg Red team 47-46 and advanced in the tournament.

Craig Johnson also seemed recovered from game one, where he only managed three points, and tossed in 18 points to lead Betsy Layne in scoring. Tom Taulbee had a good outing with 14 points that included one of two Betsy Layne three-pointers.

Seth Crisp had the big game for Prestonsburg with 16 points. Crisp drilled two treys in the game.

Betsy Layne jumped out to a 12-8 first quarter lead but a big offensive second period led by Johnson gave Betsy Layne a 35-22 lead at the half. Johnson scored six points in the quarter. Kenneth Johnson had a three-pointer in the stanza. Ryan Hardee scored six points for Prestonsburg in the second quarter and Scotty Walls added four. Crisp only had two points in the first half scoring 12 in the fourth quarter when the Red team rallied back. Crisp was a perfect four of four from the charity stripe all coming in the fourth period. He also hit both three-pointers in the final quarter.

Johnson scored six points in the third period and six in the final quarter.

Chad Case added seven points for the winners. Tyler Mullins and Kenneth Johnson each scored three points and Wes Mullins had two.

Scotty Walls finished with seven points for the losers and Hardee scored six. P.J. Holbrook tossed in five points with Jason Keathley and Nathan Fannin scoring four each. Drew Brown and Gordon Bradley had two each.

No gifts at charity strip as Martin misses 25 times in loss to Southeast

Southeast Lexington used a balanced scoring attack to help post a 62-25 win over Martin in the second round of the Prestonsburg Junior Pro basketball tournament at Adams Middle School Saturday afternoon.

Martin found no "love" at the charity line as they attempted 33 shots and made only eight. In contrast, Southeast connected on 12 of 21 attempts.

Joe Everett tossed in 11 points to lead the Southeast team to victory and stay in the winners' bracket. Steve Turner, who hit six of seven free throws, added nine points in the win. Sam Smith had eight as did Eric Sanford.

Martin struggled from the onset as they made only one of eight free throw attempts while getting only one field goal in the quarter — a basket by Shannon Mynhier. Mynhier was the victim at the free throw line as he managed only one of nine attempts in the game. Southeast took a 14-3 first quarter lead and went to the locker room leading 23-15. The eight point margin didn't seem so big after the late start by the Purple Flash. Martin came back and made the game respectable in the second period. Nick Samon tossed in seven points in the second stanza.

Martin scored only one point in the final period as they stayed on the free throw line. In the fourth quarter alone Martin hit only one of 11 attempts and did not score a field goal.

Samons led Martin with 11 points and Ethan Blackburn added five. Jim Branham and Mynhier finished with six points with Kaleb Yates scoring two.

"SHOCKING NEWS"

There was a very startling item on the news last week. I hope none of you missed it — it seems that the Duke and Duchess of York (yes, that wonderful couple—Andrew and Fergie) may separate. What will become of the world? I could tell that even the ever-cool Dan Rather was upset by the news.

Will the monarchy survive? I ask, "Who really cares what they're doing over there across the big water?" Not I. I have more important things to worry about — things such as, "What am I going to eat for breakfast tomorrow?" or "I wonder if I have enough shampoo to last me until the end of the week." You know, important things.

I wonder why the American public, and the rest of the world for that matter, are so concerned about royalty. I mean, really, the separation of Andrew and Sarah (yes, folks, that is her first name, but gee! doesn't Fergie sound so much more... royal?) isn't going to raise taxes. It won't, unless, of course, the Pres and Dan Quayle get really shook up about the incident.

I can't believe network news would give air time to such a useless story. It seemed a little tabloid-ish to me. Boy, won't the tabloids' sales soar next week? Whoopee! What a country!

Perhaps the reason for the American fascination with royalty is because we have none. Excuse me, but I thought our ancestors settled this country to get AWAY from the king and queen. Am I right? If that's the case, then why should we care what they do.

Since the Americans love the royal family so much, maybe we should assemble one of our own. I think Madonna should be queen. Why? Because we need someone interesting, someone who will make news, so the tabloids can pick on her. Madonna's always been really publicized anyway, so why can't she be Her Highness, the Material Girl?

I don't guess we can have a king or prince. The reason for it is simple. Not many American men enjoy polo as a hobby. All royalty has to plan; it's a rule. That's something similar to the rule that says no member of royalty can be named Bitsy, Elvira, Dweezil, Moe, or Elroy.

I'm getting exhausted from all this depression about the royal family, so I guess I should go meditate or something. Do you think that will help Al and Fergie work out their differences? Just maybe, it's worth a shot. 'Til next week...

BASKETBALL FEVER
Tommy Boyd, a former basketball coach, is still a sports fan who enjoys having company to watch the games with. He has a giant screen TV and decided to invite a few friends in to his Stanville home to see Kentucky play in the SEC tournament.

One special guest was "King Kelly" Coleman who was a star high school player at Wayland back in the 50's. He now lives in Trenton, Michigan, but always enjoys coming home during tourney time.

They were joined by a few other basketball fans, including Shag Campbell, Russell Mont Frazier, Ned Bush, Jody Sword, Frankie Francis, John M. Stumbo and Walter Hall. They all enjoyed seeing Kentucky win the championship, and talking about other games and other days.

Tommy never forgets a player he coached or coached against, and Kelly Coleman has been an all time favorite. Tommy was coaching at Betsy Layne, but he remembers a game between Wayland and Maytown where "King Kelly" scored 75 points.

A game later scheduled between Wayland, coached by "Copper John" Campbell, and the Garrett team, coached by John "Dog" Campbell. Tommy wanted to see the game being played at Garrett and went a little early. He walked into a drug store where the local coach was seated at a table and drinking a Coke. Of course Tommy was invited to join him.

As they sat talking about the game of the evening, Wayland's star player walked in. The Garrett coach said, "Kelly, we're going to hold you to 25 points tonight."

Without batting an eye, Kelly looked at him and asked, "Which quarter, Coach?"

FANS AND TROPHIES

Since it is tournament time again, maybe it would be all right to tell one more Kelly Coleman story. This one, too, is from Tommy Boyd.

Wayland had won the district and regional matches and gone to play in the state tournament at Lexington. They were defeated in the semi-finals.

Back in the 50's, the championship game was preceded by a consolation game between the runners-up. In this case, it was between Wayland and Bell County.

"King Kelly" scored 68 points and helped his team defeat Bell County but, because he had received so much publicity, the fans booed him.

Kelly was more sensitive about this than might have been expected and so he didn't attend the championship game. It was no surprise that he was named to the all-tournament team, but he wasn't too impressed by that.

When his name was called to be given a trophy, he let the fans watch someone else accept it. He was in a Lexington motel room with some fellow teammates, playing with water pistols and listening to the game on the radio.

"After all," says Tommy, "he was just 17 years old."

Woodcarving is Poe family tradition

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

When the frustrations of life come crashing down around him, Charles Gene Poe, 38, of Middle Creek seeks solace in the freedom of creativity with his woodcarving.

Poe roams the hills surrounding his Middle Creek home searching for the right piece of wood for each project. He is a nature lover and enjoys these treks, studying the flora and fauna during his search.

Once he selects the wood, he lets it season. Then he strips the wood and draws in his design. He uses the natural lines in the wood to create his masterpiece. Veins running through the wood become veins running through his creations. He creates an image so powerful in his wooden sculptures that his winged creatures seem to be straining against the pull of the earth.

These images are created by a very small case knife which he uses to slowly carve each detail. He also uses a piece of string to measure for uniformity in his carving. Each piece is studied in minute detail for any flaws or imperfections.

Poe says he's never finished with his work of art and he watches each piece as it ages — sometimes he adds details months later. He seeks perfection and perfection can never be achieved by human hands, but Poe comes close.

As he carves, he will ask his wife Vickie to close her eyes. Then he gently rubs the carving across her face and asks her what it feels like. If she replies "feathers" then he smiles and continues carving.

Poe's pieces are inspired by illustrations in magazines such as "Kentucky Living," or hunting magazines. He mainly works with birds, such as eagles or owls, but he is planning to carve squirrels and raccoons and is currently experimenting with creating human-shaped figurines. He weaves baskets from wood shavings, creates tables, stools, rockers and hopes to make baby cradles, and has lots of ideas and dreams, says his wife.

Poe's persistent dream is to create a bed with eagles guarding each corner. At the head of the bed, eagles would hold baskets containing ferns or flowers. At the foot of the bed, two American Eagles would spread their wings inward until their wingtips touched to hold folded blankets or bedspreads.

Poe also hopes someday to open a store to display his carvings and the many baskets he sells. Currently, he receives several orders from Indiana and various parts of the United States.

Woodcarving is a tradition in Poe's family. His grandfather made baskets and so did Poe's father, Ned, who died about eight years ago. Poe always watched his father and helped him gather the wood, but he didn't try his hand at carving until after his father died. Bereft at the death of his father, he started whittling and then carving a figure from a piece of wood, and discovered he could release his grief in creating.

As a child, Poe became introverted. An illness robbed him of speech for six months. He had to learn to talk again. Due to his illness, his education was hindered and his shyness prevented him from forming friendships. Poe has difficulty reading, but he's trying to overcome that obstacle.

Through his father's legacy, Charles Gene Poe can release his frustrations and share his genius with those who view his masterpieces.

Sculptor

Charles Gene Poe of Middle Creek patiently carves each detail in his winged wooden carvings. He also weaves baskets and chairs, including the one pictured. Poe said he is never finished with a sculpture and will add details to the work months later.

AAA offers driving classes

Blue Grass AAA Foundation for Safety is offering a driver improvement class for people age 55 and older free of charge in Prestonsburg. The class is scheduled in three sessions: April 27 (2-5 pm), April 28 (2-5 pm), and April 30 (3-5 pm). The class will be held at the Prestonsburg Community College. Participants must attend all three sessions to receive credit for the class.

Those age 55 and older completing the eight-hour course are eligible for a discount on auto insurance under Kentucky law. Videos and class discussion are used to teach the class and there are no tests. The class is offered as part of a program sponsored by the Foundation and the Kentucky State Police. It is taught by Kentucky State Police Trooper Ghomer Prater and is certified by the state as a defensive driving class.

A STRONG WORK ETHIC

Everytime I read about unemployment in Eastern Kentucky, I can't help but get the feeling that those writing the articles are saying, "Those people are out of work and it's their own fault."

Not so! Granted, we have able-bodied citizens who, as they say, wouldn't work in a pie factory. What society doesn't? But, by and large, Eastern Kentuckians indeed have a history of a strong work ethic.

The problem is, that too many of our self-appointed critics are either ignorant of this history, or are simply apathetic toward it. Either way, what we've gotten for the past 40 years or so is a bum rap.

Of course, it all started with coal.

Those millionaire businessmen from back East who invested in our coal fields around the turn of the century, obviously felt secure in the knowledge that we'd work. What they probably didn't realize, though, and what certainly turned out to be a bonus for them was that what seemed at the time to be nothing more than just so many business transactions, were, in fact, birthings — slapping life into the Van Lears, the Wheelwrights, the Thealkas and the dozens of other communities that dot the map up and down the Big Sandy Valley.

During the first half of this century, while our people worked, these little communities grew, becoming all things to those who lived in them, while at the same time becoming microcosms of America herself.

These communities were at once wholly American, yet uniquely Eastern Kentuckian. They existed in sort of a social paradox, basking in the security of guaranteed employment during hard times, yet facing daily fears and dread that the wages earned would not be sufficient to adequately feed and clothe their families. Accompanying this, too, was the ever-present, yet unspoken, threat of disaster that primitive mining techniques afforded.

Yet, during the Depression and war years, we worked — doing what was necessary to pull the coal from the ground and strength from each other. We sent our daddies to the mines and our sons and daughters to war, and in both cases welcomed home those who returned while grieving eternally those who didn't.

Then, in the 1950s, almost in unison — and through no fault of those who worked them — Eastern Kentucky's mines began closing. Trains rusted and weeds grew between the cross ties of the miles of railroad track that snaked along the creek beds and hillsides.

It was, however, because of our work ethic that our families began heading north to Dayton, Detroit and Wabash. Many are still there and will likely stay.

So don't give me anymore of this business about Eastern Kentuckians not wanting to work. We are working. We're just not working here.

MISSING FATHERS

I read an article recently on the absence of fathers. The one mentioned wasn't the type of father who packed up a bag and skipped town. He was the type of father who poured heart, soul, and every waking minute into his job. The author, his wife, gave me, as a reader, the impression she was slightly miffed at his neglecting their family. He missed the majority of their children's first precious moments and so on.

Her main complaint was about the co-workers who would call after work and take his attention back to the job. "Work should be left at the office," she wrote.

Our household has one of those very fathers. But, if the spouse missed some of those calls after a day's work some of our children in Pike, Floyd, Johnson and surrounding counties may miss out on computer class.

Or, even worse, he may go in the wrong direction the next day.

The spouse doesn't get calls from his co-workers, mostly they are from principals, teachers, Mr. Buba and let's not forget his camping buddies.

I'm not saying his absence from home doesn't bother us, I'm just saying it's very important to understand it. Yes, here we go with quality time. With the girls being as different as daylight and dark, their amount and type of attention differs.

With the youngest, a wrestling match is needed at least once a week. The oldest needs an ear to hear her latest tune on the piano. As for me, all of the above and a night out dancing will do.

Of course, the spouse would prefer camping to dancing but we all must compromise, right? The author of the article I read also said she did not mean to complain especially when the economy is in such a recession.

Exactly. Maybe her complaints were legit. But from my aspect of a missing husband/father, I'm thankful, very thankful for his job, his calls, and the rewards we receive from it. Especially today. If the phone didn't ring and he wasn't working, then you guys would really have something to read about.

Part II

While writing this column Sunday night, I got a call from a friend. She began the conversation in an excited voice, telling me about her weekend. A mother of three she had experienced a shopping spree where she'd purchased a pair of new shoes for herself.

As with all mothers, the guilt feelings were entering her body.

"I can't believe I bought myself a pair of shoes," she said. "Red shoes. Of all colors, I bought red shoes," she continued.

You deserved them, I told her. Don't feel guilty, it's natural, you're a mom.

"Yeah," she said, "but this must be what an affair feels like."

An affair? I said.

"Yes, I feel guilty, but yet it feels so good," she said.

I laughed hysterically, for this was the first time I'd ever heard red shoes compared to an affair. But then I guess the color may have had something to do with that, who knows.

'Til next week, if you're thinking about an affair, try red shoes instead — it's a lot safer.

suggested the local AARP have a booth during this celebration. The President asked the following persons to serve on a committee to make necessary plans for this event. Orville Cooley, James Goble, Jack Freed, Dorothy Osborne, Mag Ackerman, and Maman Leslie.

A letter from Peggy Fraley, assistant state director of the AARP, stated that there would be an Officers Training Workshop in Winchester, on April 9. Mrs. Allen asked that members "think about" attending this event. She also announced that the Bi Annual Convention in San Antonio, Tex., would be June 2-4.

The President said that Mrs. Dorothy Osborne had recently been appointed to the Advisory Board of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, of which Atty. John Rosenberg was the director for more than 20 years. This Advisory Board is made up of 17 persons, 11 of whom are attorneys. 65 persons are employed for the purpose of assisting low income people in 37 Appalachian Counties. Mrs. Osborne is a former president of the local AARP.

Mrs. Allen, president, presented Mesdames Annabelle Maggard, Ada Meade, and Veva Kendrick, who were welcomed as new members.

Orville Cooley presented as speaker for the meeting, George P. Archer, Director of Consolidated Health Services, with headquarters at the Highlands Regional Medical Center, who seemed to "fit right in with the group" from the very beginning of his discussion, and to give the impression that it was an honor for him to have AARP members ask him questions concerning Medicare claims and other such forms of assistance.

The speaker said he goes to 17 Senior Citizen Centers in five counties of this area, and he discussed some of the situations encountered in different centers.

Mr. Archer announced that a seminar pertaining to Medicare and other related topics would be held at the Floyd County Library, on Friday, March 27, from 1-3 and 3-5 p.m., with private consultations to be given as needed on that date. He asked that AARP members wishing to attend please call him for reservations between Monday, March 23 and Friday, March 27, between 8 a.m., and 4:30 p.m., since only a limited number of reservations could be taken, and asked that this number be called: 886-8511, Extension 680.

The speaker gave much of the credit for this new program to Mr. Clarence Traum, Director of HRMC, and Miss Susan Martin, a member of the staff there.

It was announced that Mr. Delmas Saunders had said that 15 persons would be needed in order to conduct the annual "55 Alive" Drivers' Training Program, which could possibly be offered during the months of April and/or May and October. This has proven to be a very helpful and popular program during the past several years.

Present were: Gladys Allen, James E. Goble, Marie Goble, Orville Cooley, Gladys Cooley, Jack Freed, Flem Blanton, Sina Blanton, Dorothy Osborne, Lucy C. Regan, Elva Spradlin, Herbert Spradlin, Veva Kendrick, Myrtle Allen, Shirley Callihan, George P. Archer, Matilda Johnson, Ada Meade, Annabelle Maggard, Margaret S. Ackerman, Docia Woods, Fannie Runnels, Alice Harris, Maman Leslie, Tilden Collins, Goldie M. Collins, D. S. Whisman, Roberta Crider, and Arnold Crider.

The next dinner-meeting will be at the same location, on Friday, April 17, at 5:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend, and new members would be welcome.

Annie Allen Circle WMU, of First Baptist Church

Mesdames Annabelle Maggard and Ada Meade will be the hostesses for the Annie Allen Circle, WMU., which is scheduled to meet in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) on Monday evening, April 6, at 7 o'clock. The hostesses, and the president, Mrs. Eva Collins, urge all members and prospective members to attend.

Mrs. Zella Faye Wells attended sorority luncheon

One of the many members of Tau Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority, who attended the luncheon-meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, on Saturday, March 7, was Mrs. Zella Faye Wells, formerly of Prestonsburg, presently of Paintsville.

Mrs. Susan Garrett, a former patient

Mrs. Bud (Susan) Garrett spent several days recently as a patient at the Highlands Regional Medical Center. Mrs. Garrett has many friends and relatives who wish for her the very best.

Local Church Women hold recent meeting

The Local Church Women met this past Saturday, a 10:30 a.m., at the First United Methodist Church, with the new president, Mrs. Kay Hale Ross, presiding. Mrs. Ross opened the meeting with the reading entitled "Just Do It" by Meredith Young, which related to this organization's major projects, which has been, for the past few years, helping to maintain a food pantry for the poor and needy.

Mrs. Mabel Donahoe, Secretary, gave her report, and the financial report was given by Mrs. Dot Marshall.

Mrs. Sue G. Martin, Coordinator of Food Pantries, reported that the food pantry operated by the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church had closed, and she stressed the need for one to be maintained.

The Rev. Tim Jessen, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, here, and chairman of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, (FEMA), for Floyd County, gave an indepth report on the plans being made for FEMA and its relationship to food pantries. Mrs. Martin said there is a possibility that a building owned by the Episcopal Church here could be used for the purpose of a food pantry. She added that the building has no utilities, and she and Rev. Jessen formulated plans by which these needs may be met.

It was announced that Linda Harvey, Coordinator of the Lexington Food Pantries would be at the First Presbyterian Church here on Wednesday, April 1, at 10:30 a.m. to talk with this group about matters pertaining to food pantries. It was determined that a light covered-dish luncheon would be served at that time. All members are urged to bring one of their favorite foods and attend this event.

Holy Week services, which will be held at the First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial) April 13-17, were discussed, and more information in regard to these services will be forthcoming.

It was stressed during this meeting that the food pantry project is in need of canned foods, and monetary donations. It was suggested that arrangements be made for the donation(s) of these to be made during Holy Week Services—as well as at any other church services.

During the last meeting of this group, Mrs. Kay Ross, new president, suggested, and the members in attendance agreed that, due to the fact that many women work and could not come to Friday meetings, the date for these be changed to Saturday. This suggestion was a successful one, since the attendance showed a remarkable growth this past Saturday.

Women of the host church served donuts, juice, and coffee to those in attendance. Present, and the churches they represented were Kay Hale Ross, Dot Marshall, Jane Wallace, Rose Glenn, Hope Whitten Rose Langefeld, and her son John, and Rita Allen, First United Methodist; Rev. Timothy Jessen, Jane Bond, Sue Martin, Otela Smiley, and Mary Belle Short, St. James Episcopal; Mabel Donahoe and Louise West, St. Theodore's Catholic, Docia B. Woods, First Baptist (Irene Cole Memorial), and Susanne Porter.

Mrs. Rose Glenn dismissed the group with prayer.

The next meeting will be at the First Baptist Church here Saturday, May 16, at 10:30 a.m. Members and prospective members are urged to mark that date on their calendars, and to attend this worthwhile meeting.

Prestonsburg Kiwanians to hold luncheon meeting

Mrs. Mabel Jean LeMaster, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanians, reminds all members of the luncheon-meeting to be held on Thursday, March 27, at 12:30, at May Lodge, and she urges them to attend this luncheon and program.

Local Bankers to walk for Special Olympics

First Commonwealth Bank and The Bank Josephine will be joining in a statewide effort of Kentucky bankers Saturday, April 11 by sponsoring a Walk-A-Thon that places the employees of these banks in friendly competition with each other for an extremely worthwhile cause—the Kentucky Special Olympics.

The event is scheduled to begin at 10 that morning when a symbolic cannon will be fired in Frankfort, showing the start of the walks which are to be held throughout the state.

The walkers will begin at First Commonwealth Bank's main office and will follow a route within the city limits. The participants will be collecting pledges for each mile walked or they will ask for flat donations. The employees of the participating banks are asking for the support of their friends and customers in this endeavor.

Last year, twenty employees of The Bank Josephine and fourteen from First Commonwealth Bank joined for a Walk-A-Thon for Special Olympics and their combined efforts netted a donation of over $1,700. In preparation for this year's event, the employees of these banks are showing the same enthusiasm and competitive spirit that made this event such a success last year.

The Kentucky Bankers Association is the premier sponsor of the state games. Donations received from their member banks help cover the costs of the event. The Young Bankers Division of the Kentucky Bankers Association is committed to support the Summer Games by providing at least 120 volunteers on Saturday, June 6 and 35 volunteers on Sunday, June 7 to handle the nine award areas of the games. Local bankers may be found there during this special weekend serving as runners, stage managers, award escorts, award writers and award presenters.

WATCHWORDS FOR NATIONAL NUTRITION MONTH:

Healthy cooking and eating Americans working on improving their daily diets can find plenty of encouragement this March during National Nutrition Month.

Healthy eating and cooking are the watchwords for those taking control over their own good health by eating less fat and more dietary fiber.

total nutrition

New Success Symbol for Men of the 90s

Today's men care about their health, and they know that nutrition plays a key role in achieving and maintaining good health, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal.

Gunkler describes a recent survey conducted by the American Dietetic Association (ADA) in which 80 percent of the men responding said they are concerned about nutrition. Nearly 45 percent cited health as the most important reason for eating right. Other reasons often given were fitness, weight control and appearance.

For men who are concerned about nutrition, here are some easy tips to help make daily meals and snacks more healthful. Actually, these tips are equally valid for women.

- Eat a variety of foods from at least three of the food groups in each meal. Choose from breads, cereals and other grain foods; fruits and vegetables; meat, poultry, fish, eggs, nuts, and dry beans and peas; add milk, cheese, yogurt and other dairy products.

- Control food quantities to maintain a healthy weight.

- Choose a diet low in fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. Less than 30 percent of calories in the diet should come from fat and no more than a third from saturated fat.

- Eat foods high in complex carbohydrates and fiber, such as fruits, vegetables and whole-grain products.
- Maintain good balance in the diet, keeping in mind that there are no good foods or bad foods—just good diets and bad diets. Balance high-fat, high-calorie meals with others that are lower in fat and calories.

- Opt for nutrient-dense snacks—foods with lots of nutrients in proportion to their calories.

One final recommendation offered by Gunkler is for men to seek advice from a registered dietitian, who can help set up a personalized plan for more healthful eating.

Here are a few daily tips from Kellogg Kitchens to keep in mind:

- Eat plenty of fruits and vegetables (five to nine servings)

- Have six to 11 servings of grains or whole grain, high-fiber breads and cereals

- When preparing meals, steam vegetables

- Avoid adding butter, margarine or oil to cooking water

- At the table, serve whole grain breads and high-fiber muffins, and resist the temptation to spread on butter or margarine.

National health organizations encourage us year-round to eat and cook healthier by stressing the importance of high-fiber, low-fat diet. The National Cancer Institute advises that we double our average intake of dietary fiber, currently 11 to 15 grams per day, to 20 to 30 grams (not exceeding 35 grams). In addition, research is showing that a high-fiber, low-fat diet, which can include wheat bran fiber, may help reduce the risk of certain types of cancer.

WAYLAND AREA SENIOR CITIZENS

The Wayland Area Senior Citizens will be having an arts and crafts sale, as well as food on April 1, 2, and 3, at 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The center is located next to the post office.

The Wayland Area Senior Citizens board of directors met Tuesday, March 17, at 4 p.m. at the center with Chairperson Elmer Morrison in charge.

Morrison advised that a larger fan had been installed over the center's kitchen stove, along with all necessary safety items, and that everything was working satisfactorily.

Greg Hamlin with Kentucky Homecare Service was present and passed out copies of their homecare service ticket, which must be completed on each client receiving homecare. He reported that three to four homes are visited a day and these reports are mailed back to Homecare's office and placed in the computer each Friday. Morrison asked how often is each visit repeated, and Hamlin's reply was that it depended on the client's needs. He advised that the center has twelve clients in its area and that Edith Cordial serving as homecare aide.

Bonnie Hale, with Big Sandy Area Development, asked for volunteers for various jobs needed in serving senior citizens, such as telephone reassurance and letter writing as well as visitation. She advised that she would work up job descriptions for all the needed volunteer services and get them back to the board.

A copy of the 1993 budget was passed out and discussed. It was decided to wait until further word from Hale concerning a question on one item on the budget before approving it.

The group then went into a short executive session, after which it adjourned.

Those present were Morrison, Jerry Fultz, Hobert Bates, Shirley Martin, Libby Martin, Dewey Hall, Hale and Hamlin.

The next board meeting will be April 21, at 4 p.m.

Many are unaware of Social Security benefits

There is more to Social Security than benefits for persons over 62 years of age. Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group has been researching the Social Security system and the benefits it provides since 1972. One finding is that, of the 50 million persons now collecting benefits, more than 15 million are under 62 and, surprisingly, the average age is only about 30.

Robert L. Berko, consumer writer and executive director of the center, says the organization has been publishing and updating a complete list of available benefits (and how to qualify for them) for the past 18 years. The guide offers consumers of all ages an awareness of the benefits they are entitled to under the latest laws. The 12th update (a complete revision) is now available.

The book contains a form to get a copy of your Social Security account showing all credits to your account and an estimate of the amount you will get upon retirement or disability. Workers must check their Social Security accounts frequently since any errors more than three years old will not be corrected. Often, the study found, workers have had too much deducted from their wages and were due a refund. In other cases, employers had not sent the correct amount to be credited to accounts. If you have records of the amount earnings and deductions, you will be credited with that money and the employer's share whether or not he ever sent the money to the government.

The 240-large-page Consumers Guide to Social Security Benefits Including Medicare is available for $9.95 (plus $2 P&H) from Consumer Center, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, NJ 07050 or by calling 1-800-USA-0121 (with credit card).

"Billions of dollars go unclaimed," says Mr. Berko, "because many workers do not realize they are eligible for benefits." Among the findings of the study group and included in the guide are:

*In some cases parents of a deceased worker are eligible for benefits even if they never paid into the system.

*Many children are eligible for benefits even though their parents never paid into the system.

*Minor children and surviving spouse of a person who has worked under the SS system for as little as one day in each of six annual quarters can collect benefits.

*Income from investments, interest, annuities, rentals and royalties are not considered in determining eligibility—nor is income from a business in which the person was owner or partner if payments are made as retirement benefits, purchase of equity or any of the above. Only income listed as payment for actual work will affect retirement benefits. And after age 70, even that restriction is lifted.

*A divorcee (either sex), 62 or older, who was married 10 years or more is eligible for benefits when the ex-spouse starts collecting retirement or disability payments. If the divorcee was later married and that marriage ended in death or divorce, this will not affect eligibility.

*The Supplementary Security Income (SSI) program provides benefits to aged, blind, physically disabled and even those with language handicaps. Even if these recipients own cars, homes or other assets, no lien is taken against these assets and a person cannot be disqualified because relatives are financially able to support the recipient.

*Some benefits, such as SSI, do not require any work record by the recipient or his or her family.

Demand spurs increase in dark tobaccos acreage allotments, average support prices

Continued strong demand for dark air-cured and fire-cured tobaccos led to quota increases for the 1992 marketing year.

"The supply-demand balance for dark tobaccos has improved in recent years and this is why we continue to see increases in the quotas," said Will Snell, extension agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky. "The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced a five-percent increase in the national acreage allotments for Kentucky-Tennessee fire-cured tobaccos (types 22 and 23) and a four-percent increase for dark air-cured tobaccos (types 35 and 36) acreage allotments."

Farms that have planted or received planted credit for at least 75 percent of the farm's quota in recent years will receive a 1992 dark air-cured allotment of five percent. Notices of allotments for individual farms will be mailed to producers by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Committee.

The USDA also has announced a four-percent increase in the average support price for fire-cured and air-cured tobaccos.

Dark air-cured and fire-cured tobaccos are produced in 32 counties in the western part of Kentucky.

The national acreage allotment for Kentucky-Tennessee fire-cured is set at 15,789 acres, according to Snell. The average support price increased $5.40 per hundredweight to $142.10 for these types. The dark air-cured tobaccos acreage allotment is set at 5,342 acres. The average support price for these types increased $4.80 per hundredweight to $121.70.

"Snuff production, the primary use of dark tobaccos, is up about five percent," added Snell, a tobacco policy specialist with the UK College of Agriculture. "Increased moist snuff production is offsetting slight decreases in production of other products, notably chewing tobacco, that use dark tobacco. Higher snuff production, along with the fact that use of dark tobaccos is exceeding production, is keeping pressure to increase the acreage allotments."

Dark tobaccos acreage allotments are based loosely on supplies, use, loan holdings and grade distributions.

"Dark fire-cured disappearance is exceeding production; we're several million pounds short," said Bill Maksymowicz, extension tobacco specialist at the UK Research and Education Center in Princeton. "We have the potential to increase production in the Green River area because some growers are underproducing type 36."

The average support price is determined by such factors as the average market price and production costs in past years. The cooperative marketing associations can request reduced support levels to improve the marketability of tobacco. The maximum increase in price support levels is based on changes in the three-year average parity index, compared to 1959. Individual grade loan rates will be established by the USDA before the marketing season begins.

"This season we have sold significantly above the support price for most grades on the warehouse floor," Maksymowicz said. "The emphasis needs to be on producing quality tobacco that will sell on the floor or at the barn door—not go into the pool."

SOMETHING WILD

Starting a wildflower garden is easy.

Wildflower popularity is going wild. Bright yellow lance-leaved coreopsis and black-eyed susans, as well as white oxeye daisies and purple rocket larkspurs are popping up in beds and meadows everywhere in backyards, along sidewalks and driveways, and even as decorative trim along the front of houses—adding spectacular color and beauty to home landscapes across the country.

Though easy to grow, the key to growing wildflowers successfully is to understand the conditions they require in their native habitats. Soil type, average rainfall, temperature range, shade and sunlight are all important factors. Consequently, the wildflowers best suited to your property are the same that would grow naturally under your property's environmental conditions.

Most wildflower seeds come prepackaged in mixtures. These mixtures usually contain blends of annuals, perennials, biennials and a "nurse" grass seed, such as a hard or tall fescue. The nurse grass will germinate quickly, thus preventing weed growth while the wildflowers grow and become established.

Pinto Wildflower mixtures by Lofts Seed are designed to grow in different North American temperature zones: Canadian, northern U.S., southern U.S., southwestern U.S., tropical and Texarkana. Homeowners can also choose semi-shade tolerant mixtures for shady areas, and all annual and all perennial flowers. Each mix should contain several species to ensure good growing results.

Selecting the right mixture to meet your specific needs depends on several factors besides geographical area, soil type and color. These important factors are:

Germination. If there's no rainfall after seeding, a thorough watering will promote germination and early establishment. Established wildflower plants will survive dry periods without water, but won't flower as often.

Bloom and Height. Some annual species will bloom six to eight weeks after planting. Other flower species require various degrees of maturity before they can flower. Depending on the environment, the flowering plant's height will range from two to three and one-half feet.

Flowering Expectations. Perennial wildflowers will persist the first year and bloom the next, while annuals will grow and flower the first year, produce seed, then germinate and bloom the following year. The first season is always the showiest for annuals. To preserve the original balance of the mixture, reseed every two years. Otherwise, native species will dominate over the years.

Once you've decided which wildflowers to plant and where to put them, it's time to sow the seeds. First, remove all weeds from the planting site. Thoroughly rake the soil to loosen it, then rake again lightly to form grooves. Loose, exposed soil is a must because good soil-to-seed contact is essential for successful seed germination.

In the south, Pinto wildflower seeds can be planted in early spring or mid- to late autumn; northern climates require an early or mid-fall seeding. Spread seed by hand or use a drop or cyclone spreader. Typical seeding rates for small areas are one ounce for 250 square feet or one pound to cover 4,000 square feet. As a rule, most wildflower seeds can be spread at the rate of four to six pounds per acre. Double the recommended seeding rate for sloped areas.

Once planted, routine wildflower maintenance is a breeze. Simply keep the seeds and ground evenly moist until the seedlings are established, a period of seven to 10 days. Providing adequate moisture is very important, especially if seeds are sown in late spring or early summer after the weather has become warm. Then, keep weeds out and mow once a year when wildflowers are dormant, usually in late fall or early spring. Mowing should be done at a height of four to six inches. Avoid fertilizing, which encourages weeds rather than wildflower growth.

As the wildflowers become established, certain species will begin to dominate others. If you wish to maintain the original balance of species, reseeding is recommended every two years.

For more information about how to start your own wildflower garden or grow a lush, beautiful lawn, send a stamped, self-addressed #10 envelope to: Lofts Booklet, P.O. Box 146, Bound Brook, NJ 08805.

THE HILLS ARE ALIVE WITH WILDFLOWERS—And your garden can be, too. Wildflowers are a natural addition to any home landscape and many now come prepackaged in mixtures, such as Pinto Wildflowers by Lofts.

Real charmers desire families

There are over 250 children in Kentucky who are free for adoption. They are older, part of a sibling group and/or have emotional, physical or mental disabilities. But they have one thing in common, a desire for a permanent family.

The three boys featured this month are real charmers. Lavar (B/4-17-82) is nine years old; Brandon (B/8-26-84) is seven; and Konrad (B/11-20-85) is six. They are in speech therapy. Their speech is understandable and they are making good progress. It is believed that since the birth mother was both deaf and mute, the children did not begin speaking until late. The children have learned to sign. All of the boys have difficulty expressing their sad/angry feelings regarding removal from their birth mother.

Lavar is a soft-spoken child who is in the third grade. He is well behaved in school but at times has difficulty understanding the instructions. Lavar enjoys riding his bike and playing ball. He also enjoys music and going to church. Lavar has not always lived with his brothers and, at times, acts jealous of them.

Brandon can be sweet and outgoing. He is in second grade. Brandon does have a lot of energy and is always on the go. Brandon likes Match Box cars and playing with other kids. He enjoys church and Sunday school.

Konrad is in first grade and really enjoys being able to play with the other children. Although described as quiet, Konrad is funny. He enjoys joking and play acting. Konrad also enjoys Match Box cars and playing outside.

These three boys are polite and well-mannered. They do misbehave to get attention and to test for continued affection. They are eager for a permanent family, where they can stay "forever". They need a family who will be there for them in bad times and in baseball season. An adoption subsidy is available to help a family meet their special needs. For more information call the Special Needs Adoption Program at 1-800-432-9346 or contact the Department for Social Services office.

KENTUCKY JOB SERVICE TIP OF THE WEEK

The TIP is PERSONAL. Avoid mention of your personal, domestic or financial troubles. The employer is interested only in what you can do and how well you can do it - in other words of what value you can be to the employer.

Rescue ribbon

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held at Advance Auto Parts on March 20. The ribbon was made from $10 bills which was donated to the Floyd County Rescue Squad. City Administrator Mark Wells and John Davis, store manager shared the scissors and presented the $200 ribbon to Harry Adams, who represented the rescue squad.

Tuition fees aren't deductible

Q: We are paying a lot of money to send our child to a private school for advanced tutoring. Would any of this be a deduction for charitable purposes?—R.Y., Portland, Ore.

A: Tuition, or amounts you pay instead of tuition, are not deductible as contributions, even if they are paid for children who attend parochial schools or qualifying non-profit day care centers.

A fixed amount, designated as a "donation," that is required to be paid to a private school in addition to the tuition fee as a condition of enrollment, is also not deductible.

Q: Is it true that only prescription drugs can qualify as medical deductions? What about the cost of aspirin taken for the relief of pain while I'm doing my tax return?—L.D., South Bend, Ind.

A: Only amounts paid for prescribed medicines, drugs or insulin are deductible as a medical expense. A prescribed drug is one which requires a doctor's prescription. The IRS says that pain resulting from the preparation of an income tax return is a personal pain and therefore not deductible.

Q: My attorney is going to prepare a trust for our family. It seems very involved and complicated. Our neighbor has one and says it's the only way to go. What's a trust all about anyway?—J.W., Jacksonville, Fla.

A: A trust can seem terribly complicated even if it is not. It is simply a valuable tool for good financial and tax planning to help you make the most of what you have. A trust is a means by which you can ensure that your plans for your assets are carried out in accordance with your wishes. It is an arrangement under which one person gives control of some, or all, of his money, investments, real estate or other property to another individual or institution, frequently a bank, to act as trustee of these assets.

In general, the trust document states who the beneficiaries of those assets will be, and what each will receive. And, of course, when they will receive it.

Q: After my son graduated from law school, he took some courses to pass the state bar examination. Actually, I paid for them. Are they deductible?—O.N., Phoenix, Ariz.

A: No for your son, and no for yourself. The IRS says these courses

THE TAX ADVISER

are personal educational expenses and, consequently, not deductible.

Q: Can we still give $10,000 annually to our children? Do they pay tax on the money?—D.M., Fort Worth, Texas

A: You can give as much as $10,000 annually to any number of individuals without owing any gift tax. Nor does the recipient pay any gift or income tax on the amount received. If your spouse joins in the gift, you can transfer up to $20,000 annually, tax free, to each recipient. However, any income earned on the property after the transfer is taxable to the recipient.

Q: I am on the board of directors of a rather small corporation. I am not an employee of this company. Am I considered self-employed?—S.T., Tampa, Fla.

A: Yes. Fees received for performing services as a director of a corporation are self-employment income. It does not matter whether the fees are paid for attending a director's meeting or for serving on committees.
