Grand Jury reports :

Murder tops list of true bills

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A 21-year-old Floyd County woman was indicted for murder Wednesday in connection with the May 6 beating death of her 72-year-old husband.

Brenda Michelle Smith of Turkey Creek was charged for allegedly "inflicting blunt force trauma" on Simson W. Smith which caused his death. Smith was pronounced dead at his home on May 6 by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

Nelson said at that time Simson Smith's death was being investigated as a homicide. Brenda Smith reportedly told Nelson that she had found her husband injured and lying beside the road near their home earlier that morning. She also said her husband had refused to go to the hospital.

A preliminary autopsy showed that Simson Smith had died as a result of "blunt force trauma." Nelson said Smith's body had numerous abrasions, contusions and bruises.

Other indictments handed down Wednesday included first degree robbery and kidnapping charges against two men who allegedly robbed the home of Frank Adams at Lancer on March 2.

Rift with girlfriend ends with Czech man in Floyd jail

by Susan Allen

A 37-year-old man from Czechoslovakia was arrested Thursday and charged with alcohol intoxication after it was reported he was sleeping on the sidewalk at Auxier.

Ales Vondra had apparently spent Wednesday night in front of Jim's Stop & Shop at Auxier and was asleep or passed out when deputy sheriff Chuck Ousley arrived at the scene early Thursday morning.

Ousley said the man had a limited understanding of the English language and appeared to be confused while Ousley was talking to him, the deputy said.

After some discussion, the man produced a business card from his shoe with the phone number of his girlfriend who he said he lived with in Hazard, Ousley said.

"I telephoned his girlfriend who said the two had had a fight and he left their residence saying he was on his way back to New York," Ousley said Thursday. "The two apparently operated a graphic design business where Ales would sketch a picture that would be reproduced on tee shirts and hats. He showed me his portfolio and he's very good."

Housing board rejects low bid

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Housing Authority voted last week to approve the second-lowest construction bid for the low-income housing unit at Minnie.

The action followed a recent housing authority vote to turn down Ashland-based Debecon Construction Company's bid of $2,819,300, nearly $60,000 less than the $2,877,796 bid that the board voted to accept. That bid was submitted by the Fidelity Construction Co., a Louisville-based firm.

The housing authority rejected Debecon's bid, citing investigations of Debecon's past construction projects.

Housing boardmembers said that they had discovered complaints about a few of those projects, most notably the federal detention center in Catlettsburg and a dormitory building at Rio Grande University in Ohio.

According to housing authority attorney Brad Cowgill, the board may legally reject the lowest bid if the company that submitted it has failed in the past to "complete the project in an efficient and timely manner, and respond to any problems which may arise after the project has been completed.

Fidelity's bid is now subject to the approval of the federal office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which is partially funding the project.

HUD is expected to render its verdict within the next ten days.

Construction on the Minnie project is expected to begin on July 17.

Council split on replacement :

Callihan quits post; vacancy debated

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Emotions ran high at the latest meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council, as one councilman resigned, and the city's chief of police responded to accusations of police harassment.

William "Bill" Callihan tendered his resignation as city councilman at Wednesday's meeting, effective June 1. Callihan thanked the council and the city of Prestonsburg for allowing him the opportunity to serve as councilman for the last seven years, but said that his recent relocation beyond city limits made him ineligible to continue in that capacity.

Callihan then added a note of controversy to the proceedings when he asked the city council to elect Lyda Margaret Howard to carry out his unexpired term.

Although councilman Mike Vance immediately moved that the council accept Callihan's resignation and nomination of Howard, councilman Billy Ray Collins voiced concern that the nomination was improper.

"This is highly irregular," Collins said. "Bill's resignation isn't effective until June 1, and I don't believe we can fill the position until he's resigned."

Collins also expressed his belief that a resigning councilman was not allowed to choose his own replacement, as such action is in the province of active council members only.

"If the cook quits, he doesn't get to come into the kitchen and fix dinner anymore," Collins said.

Councilman Gorman Collins announced that he would like to nominate David Hereford for Callihan's post.

Tempers flared as Bill Collins requested that the council conduct the remainder of the discussion in an executive session, so that the council members could resolve their conflicts in private.

Confusion reigned for several minutes as the council and members of the audience argued whether or not an executive session could be held at that juncture.

Kentucky state law concerning open meetings does not allow closed sessions to discuss or approve the appointment of public officials.

Larry Brown, attorney for the city of Prestonsburg, said that the council only discussed personnel problems not related to Callihan's resignation.

Once the executive session was completed, Latta called the audience back into the room, and immediately called the council to order for a vote on Callihan's successor.

Collins asked why Callihan was still sitting with the council if he had

Indictment names Floyd mine owner

A Floyd County mine owner has been accused of the improper disposal of radioactive waste in July of 1988, while he was a resident of Pennsylvania.

Travis E. Miller, 49, president of J & K Mining, Inc. at Emma, has been accused of the illegal sale and burial of mine scales laced with Cesium 137, a nuclear by-product material, during his tenure as president of the Stanford Mining Company in Indiana County, Pa.

Connie Bowden of the Pittsburgh office of the United States Attorney General formally indicted Miller last week, charging that he had unlawfully sold the scales to the West Virginia based Phoenix Equipment Leasing Company, a salvage company that was not licensed to handle radioactive waste.

Bowden also said in the indictment that Phoenix Equipment returned one of the scales to Stanford Mining, and Miller ordered an employee to have it buried at one of the company's abandoned mine sites. Bowden further charged that Miller had lied to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Court documents show that in October, 1988, Miller told the NRC that the scales had been legally transferred to Phoenix Equipment, and that he had no knowledge of the scale's burial.

If convicted, Miller could face fines totalling $1 million, and up to 14 years in prison.

Miller was unavailable for comment at press time.

State celebrates 200 years :

Monday is "B-day"

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Mark Monday, June 1 on your calendar. Gather up the kids, bake a cake, put on your party hat and get ready to blow out the candles. Monday marks the 200th anniversary of Kentucky's official declaration of statehood.

On June 1, 1792, Kentucky became the 15th state in the Union and the first state on the western frontier.

Although many argue that Kentucky is a commonwealth, not a state, it is both. In 1792, the terms "state" and "commonwealth" were virtually synonymous, meaning a free state, independent of government by a king.

When Kentucky separated from Virginia in the late 1700's, the newly formed government chose to use the term commonwealth. The three other commonwealths in the United States are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Although Kentucky's on-going bicentennial celebration began earlier this year, it will kick into high gear on Monday, with communities across the state holding their own events.

The festivities begin with the Kentucky Statehood Day Celebration in Frankfort, an all-day festival featuring fireworks, bluegrass and gospel musicians, historical exhibits, and traditional Kentucky food and crafts booths.

The Statehood Day celebration will be held on the grounds of the Kentucky State Capitol in Frankfort.

At precisely 12:30 p.m., all of Kentucky's 120 counties will participate in "Ring Out Kentucky." Church bells, courthouse bells and sirens will ring simultaneously statewide.

On June 2, the Kentucky Historical Society will sponsor an 1860's-style baseball game at 6 p.m. at the Ancient Age Distillery Park in Frankfort.

Of special interest to Eastern Kentuckians are:

• The continuance of the "Romance of the Hills," which began in April and will continue through October in the Southeastern mountain region of the state. The celebration highlights the area's arts, literature, natural resources and heritage. The

Prater places first in Civil War essay contest

by Christopher E. Prater
Fifth grade
Prestonsburg Elementary
Editor's Note: The following essay won first place in the Festival of F.A.C.E.S. Annual History Essay Community Contest. Prater is the 10-year-old son of Gene and Fay Prater of Middle Creek and serves as a drummer for the 5th Kentucky Reenactment Unit.

In December 1861, Brigadier General Humphrey Marshall, in command of 2,800 confederate soldiers, marched from Pound Gap along the Virginia border with 1,250 of them. Marshall marched his men to Paintsville where he set up a camp. He knew the union soldiers were coming and wanted to give them a great big surprise.

In charge of the union soldiers was Colonel James A. Garfield. He commanded the 18th Brigade, made up of two Ohio regiments and two Ohio regiments and two Kentucky regiments. One of the Kentucky units was the 14th Kentucky Infantry. The soldiers in the 14th were mainly from the Big Sandy Area. These soldiers marched up river, arriving in Lawrence County December 26, 1861.

"The first skirmish between the two armies took place near Paintsville on January 4, 1862," writes Floyd County historian John David Preston in his essay, "The Battle of Middlecreek." Preston said the armies kept moving, winding up at Jenny's Creek on January 6. This skirmish made Brigadier General Marshall withdraw to a place he thought was safer. Marshall withdrew to Prestonsburg. It took two days to move his troops.

Colonel Garfield also went toward Prestonsburg with 1,100 union soldiers, arriving near the mouth of Abbott Creek January 9, 1861. Garfield's troops spent the night waiting until morning to cross the hill into Middlecreek.

At the forks of Middlecreek, Marshall waited. He knew that Garfield's troops were across the hill. He decided to put his artillery in the valley of the Left Fork. On the other side of the Creek, to the right of the artillery, he placed his regiment of Kentucky and Virginia units. Also on the ridge was a Calvary unit. The confederate soldiers numbered 1,967 at the battlefield.

During the two and one-half mile trip up Middlecreek, Garfield's troops exchanged shots with the rebel's Calvary, early on the morning of January 10, 1862. He continued marching his troops until he got 1,000 yards away from the southern troops.

Garfield placed his force on a semi-circular hill.

Garfield sent out his Calvary around noon "to draw Confederate fire and reveal their position," writes Preston. Heavy fighting began. Garfield ordered two Kentucky companies to attack the Confederates at the other end of the ridge. He also sent a company from each of the Ohio regiments to attack the opposite ridge. These soldiers had to wade through the waist high water of Middlecreek on this cold January day, says Cleve Shepherd, a Civil War reenactor.

The Confederates opened fire with their cannon, but the shells didn't explode. When the battle between the troops became rougher, Garfield sent in two Kentucky Companies. Marshall withdrew to the left of the ridge to reinforce his right position. Garfield sent in more men to strengthen his forces on the left.

The Confederates moved to the ridge on Garfield's right. They were now in a position to seriously damage the Union Army. Garfield then sent one hundred twenty men led by Lieutenant Colonel George Monroe to push the Rebels from this position, but the rebels were only pushed to the top of the ridges.

The battle was heavy. "Such terrific volleys I have ever seen. The hill trembled under the recoil," Garfield said about the battle, writes Preston.

But things got worse.

The rebels attacked Garfield's men in full force. The firing of guns was like lightning and the smoke like clouds. Garfield was about to take his last reserve unit up the hill to attack when he saw Colonel Sheldon with reinforcements from the Ohio unit. The Union soldiers shouted with joy and pushed forward. By late evening Marshall ordered a retreat. The Confederates left the slopes at every point burning their supplies as they went.

Garfield and his troops spent the night on the battlefields and watched the lights of the burning fires of the Confederates.

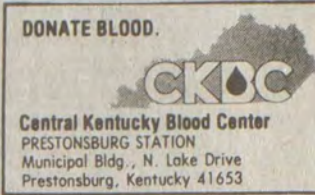

Both sides claimed victory. Marshall reported that Garfield did not spend the night on the battlefield but moved down Middlecreek into Prestonsburg after dark and then went on to Paintsville the next day. Marshall also said that eleven Confederates had died and fifteen were wounded. Marshall estimated the union loss at 250 men killed and 300 wounded.

Garfield reported his losses at one killed and twenty wounded. He said that eight-five Confederates were killed.

The Union gained control of the Big Sandy. Garfield sent troops in pursuit of Marshall but the troops only followed them for six miles. The Union soldiers were tired and hungry so they returned to camp.

On January 11, 1862, Garfield and his Union troops took over command of Prestonsburg. If Marshall had won the Battle of Middlecreek, the Confederate Army would have had a supply route that might have helped them have a victory over the North. Garfield cut off this route when he took over the Big Sandy. The Confederate forces in Eastern Kentucky were never able to overcome this Union advantage.

Editor:

I recall a campaign race in 1989 between David Allen Barber and Jim Hammond. Everyone I talked to recommended Jim Hammond to me.

Being new in the area, I felt that most of the people should know Barber and Hammond better than I.

So, finally I saw Jim Hammond as the new county attorney.

My husband said he would be an added asset to the fiscal court. After almost 3 years at the job, I have become settled with the idea. There is no change wanted or needed, for Jim fell right into place like a cog in a wheel.

At the last fiscal court meeting, May 15, I thought maybe I was wrong as Jim stood up to defend parents and students of Buffalo with their school bus and coal truck problems; but before their hands were calm from the applause they gave Jim Hammond, he stood up and put his foot in his mouth, again.

The golf course at Allen may not mean a great deal to you, Mr. Hammond—but, to the players who visit the golf course at Allen, it means a lot. As for playing on the backs of the taxpayers of Floyd County—I have never known of anyone who went to the golf course and played free. Is it free, Jim? (Of course not.)

I feel you need to apologize to the visitors at the fiscal court. I am sure the members of the court were not shocked at your behavior. I for one was.

As for the name calling, Jim, you seem to have a short memory.

I know Floyd County would rather have one of their own. But I wonder if it is for the good of the county or for the good of individuals who would like to control the reins.

I agree with magistrate Jackie Owens. Let the school board take care of their business. The fiscal court has enough to do to take care of the problems they have.

Don't you agree, Jim?

"SHAME" began the letter to your paper from Laura Goble about the "fish pond at the Festival of F.A.C.E.S." The real "shame", which some of you may not know, is what happened Friday night!

After a great deal of care was taken to compare the temperature of the waters in the Big Sandy River to that of Dewey Lake, since trout must have cold water (approx. 55-62 degrees F) to live, and have the Prestonsburg Fire Department bring that water to the pool. After providing oxygen to the water, using a pump specially prepared by one of our local merchants, and securing over 100 bags of ice to keep the water in the tank cool, the fish were delivered by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife. Keep in mind that these fish have never enjoyed the freedom of the open waters, but were bred and raised in captivity, a fish hatchery to be precise. And to set the record straight, approximately 600 fish were procured for the display. Members of the local Boy Scout Troop, their leadership, local firemen, and city police, watched the tank for hours to insure that "God's creatures" had every chance of survival. At approximately 9:10 Friday night, after the artificial environment had stabilized, those of us in charge of the display, left for the parking lot to get a bit of food. At approximately 9:30, 20 minutes later, we arrived back at the tank to find two Scouts dipping like mad to remove soap suds from the top of the pool and the trout gasping for their life. That's right, some idiot had poured liquid soap into the tank.

Being a wildlife biologist, I thought the only way to possibly save the fish, was to empty the tank. By this time fish were already beginning to float to the top from a lack of oxygen. My wife immediately left to contact a fisheries biologist, and one of our scouts contacted the Prestonsburg Fire and Police for their assistance. The fire department came, and my wife returned with the news we already knew, the water in the tank must not only be changed, but the tank thoroughly cleaned. Therefore, all 600 fish had to be transferred to temporary holding, under the same environmental conditions that existed in the original pool, before the addition of soap.

The fire department quickly assembled a portable 600-gallon tank, while every hand available was busy scraping soapsuds from the top of the pool, onto the ground. Under the best of circumstances, trout are difficult to keep alive and these were certainly less than the "best of circumstances."

As the night grew longer, several people stopped by to see what all the fuss was about. A number of people had heard it on the scanner and just stopped to offer their assistance. Word had made it to several of the scouts and their families who brought nets, pool test kits, and extra hands. We had three fire trucks, and what seemed to be the entire fire department, assisted by members of D.E.S., the city police and the Floyd County Sheriff's Office. A wildlife biologist stayed there until 2 a.m., until the safety of "God's creatures" could be insured. Two of Troop #877's assistant scoutmasters and one junior assistant scoutmaster, stayed with the tank the remainder of the night, to insure that the same stunt didn't happen again. To make a long story short, we never lost one single fish! So what's my point?

If the community of Prestonsburg could work on everything together, as well as we did at saving those fish, there's nothing that we couldn't do! "SHAME", it's a matter of perspective, I guess. The work put into setting up the display, and later working like mad to save those fish was well worth the smiles on the faces of the children who caught perhaps their first fish from that pool. One kid was at the pool at 9 a.m. sharp, Saturday accompanied with his father to catch his first fish. The expression on the faces of my two sons, Kevin (6) and Justin (3), was well worth all my efforts, of course that's a personal testimony.

"SHAME"? The real "SHAME" is that someone single handedly nearly killed 600 trout for no purpose at all. Thanks to the efforts of the Prestonsburg Fire and Police, Boy Scout Troop #877, their families, friends and the neighbors of Prestonsburg, we kept those trout alive long enough to see those many precious expressions the next day.

"SHAME"? Maybe to some it's still a "SHAME", but to the kids who fished, and apparently many others who didn't complain, it was for a good cause. We may have even learned something from that experience, if we are all willing to look at it in that light.

I do not agree with what you say Ms. Goble, "but I'll defend to death, your right to say it."

MEMORIAL CEREMONY SHOWS NEED FOR SUPPORT OF POLICE OFFICERS

I had the opportunity not long ago to take part in the 15th annual Kentucky Police Officers' Memorial Ceremony of the Kentucky State Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police.

A number of us went to Frankfort to honor the courageous service of 29 Kentucky police officers no longer in our midst, including three who have been killed in the line of duty in the tragedies of recent months.

We were there to offer our support and our prayers to the loved ones of all of these fallen heroes and to the fellow police officers left to carry on their great legacy of service.

I believe that one message from this ceremony should be clear to all Kentuckians.

We must do whatever it takes to increase our support for those willing to stand on the front lines of a continuing war on crime and drugs at a time of declining financial resources at every level of government.

I am pleased to say that the crime bills of 1988 and 1990 already are channeling new help to the state and local levels. Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance grants to Kentucky have risen from less than $2 million in 1989 to more than $6 million this year.

These same bills have produced increased death and disability benefits for police officers and the death penalty for drug-related crimes resulting in the death of a police officer.

Our recent federal legislation is also contributing to improved police-officer training, another crucial form of progress that must be continued under the new crime bill still before the Congress.

I am encouraged to see the Kentucky General Assembly moving toward a more universal system of professional training for law enforcement agencies. We must continue to build upon the foundation of training and incentive pay that we were able to put in place when I was governor in the early 1970s.

We can do many things to help meet the tremendous challenges facing all law-enforcement agencies today. But one thing we must do, in my opinion, is to follow the example of those who have made such great sacrifices for us.

Our fallen police officers must live in our hearts and minds as role models for our children and our entire society. They exemplify the family values of honesty, hard work, compassion, responsibility and courage that continue to make this nation great.

We recently dedicated our National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial in Washington. This monument now contains the names of 12,561 officers, including 251 Kentuckians, who have lost their lives in the line of duty since the earliest days of our nation.

I urge all Kentuckians to support a drive planned by the FOP to build a new memorial to all of our fallen Kentucky officers at the old Capitol building in Frankfort.

A new Kentucky memorial can symbolize the need to place law enforcement and the security of law-enforcement officers at the very top of our national agenda. It can be a lasting reminder of a debt that can never be repaid to our fallen heroes—the true representatives of the dedicated police officers of this nation.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Down to Earth Christianity

"No one has ever seen God; but God's only Son, he who is nearest to the Father's heart, he has made him known."
 — John 1:18

Since the beginning of time, God has been trying to make Himself known through creation, but some were not convinced. He revealed Himself through the history of the people of Israel, but some were not convinced. He revealed Himself through miracles, but some were not convinced. In order to reveal Himself to humankind in a way that could be convincing, God became flesh in the person of Jesus Christ. He came "Down to Earth" so we could know Him. Perhaps we should consider the question, "Do we really know God?" The way we can come to know Him is through the one who is closest to Him — Jesus, His Son.

National Endowment for Humanities Seminar

Along with Dr. Louis J. Swift, Dean of Undergraduate Studies at UK's main campus, Dr. Carolyn Turner from Prestonsburg and Dr. Dave Krueger from Paducah wrote a $135,000 National Endowment for the Humanities Grant to prepare community college faculty members to teach cross-disciplinary courses.

Under this grant professors from English, history, art, and music met for two weekend seminars, a three week session, and a three day wind-up session. Each received a $2000 stipend along with travel and lodging reimbursements.

During the sessions each participant presented material used in his/her classes in western civilization or American studies so historians and literature teachers could become aware of the opposite discipline's approach to the same material.

Seven members of the Prestonsburg Community College faculty participated in this project, the most participants of all fourteen community colleges. Dr. Robert Perry, Dr. Doug Herman, and Dr. William Barnette took part in the American studies portion; Dr. Carolyn Turner, Dr. Tom Carroll, Dr. Don Barlow and Prof. Phyllis Shell were in the western traditions seminar. Dr. Turner was the facilitator of the western traditions portion.

In addition to the faculty development derived from this project, Prestonsburg Community College also received approval from the university Cross-Disciplinary committee to teach for University Studies credit at UK the combinations of English 251-252/History 108-109 American literature and history plus English 261-262/History 104-105 European literature and history. UK main campus general studies requirements include a cross-disciplinary component.

Another benefit of the grant was the $2000 allotted to each college to buy supplemental audio-visuals for these courses.

Wiley, Wade capture individual events; relay teams take first

It has been a very successful season for the Allen Central track and field team as Coach Dewey Jamerson's squad will send the most participants to the state meet this weekend in Lexington.

The Allen Central girls team placed fourth out of 16 teams in the sectional meet last weekend at Clay County. The boys squad finished eighth out of 18 teams.

Jenny Wiley continues to prove her ability to win with the best as she was involved in two very close decisions. Wiley won the women's 400 meter race and was in second place with about 70 meters remaining. Wiley kicked in on the last leg and came on to win the event by about 10 meters. Wiley had a time of 1:04.94 for a school record in the 400 meters.

In the girl's 1600 meter relays, Wiley was the fourth runner and again a last ditch effort by Wiley gave the Allen Central team the first place medal. Wiley, Kristal Floyd, Lisa Albaugh and Dreama Isaac made up the foursome that will run in the state meet in Lexington. The four runners established a new school record for the mile relays with a time of 4:34.06.

Another foursome relay team placed first and will run at the meet in Lexington this Saturday. Wiley, Floyd, Albaugh and Jessica Wade won the two-mile relay run in a school record time of 10:45. The race look like an effortless run for the 3200 meter team.

In the women's 3200 meter run, Wade just dominated the race, lapping several of the other runners. Wade took first place with a time of 13:10 and continues to be one of the section's top female runners.

In the women's 800 meter run, Missy Goble, Issac, Nikki Queen and Rachel Hunter had a time of 2:08.27 and did not place.

Lisa Stumbo placed sixth in the women's 300 hurdles. Stumbo had a time of 59:49 for sixth place. Melanie Hagans took part in the women's shot put with a toss of 21-feet, 6-inches. In the women's long jump, Queen had a leap of 14-feet, good for fifth place.

Shane Stumbo will advance on to the state meet this weekend after finishing second in the men's 300 hurdles. Stumbo had a time of 42:22 which is a new school record. Stumbo just missed going to the state in the men's 110 hurdles. He ran a 16:79 for a new school record for third place.

Chris Yates took fourth place in the men's 400 meter run with a time of 54:82. In the men's 1600 meter relays, the team of Trevor Fitch, Chris Yates, Jason Samons and Shane Stumbo placed fifth with a time of 4:06.04.

The 400 relay team came close to setting a new school record when they finished with a time of 47:94. The team was made up of Fitch, Kevin Patton, Samons and Stumbo.

The 3200 meter relay team finished fourth with a 2:19.36 for a new school record. The foursome consisted of Phillip Anderson, Todd Howard, Chris Yates and Mike Allen.

Shawn Robinson, a freshman, placed third in the sectionals with a throw of 116-feet, 8-inches. Andrew Greenleaf was fifth in the high jump with a jump of 5-feet, 10-inches.

"I think the upset of the day was when Shane (Stumbo) beat out the Raceland runner in the 300 hurdles," said Dewey Jamerson, Allen Central coach. We thought that Shane had a chance of going to the state and he came close to winning the sectional.

"It was our highest finish ever in the sectionals plus it was our highest total points scored in the sectionals," said the Allen Central coach.

The men totaled 30 points and the women finished with 43.

Jamerson said that this year's squad will be the most Allen Central has ever sent to the state meet and it will be the first time for the girls. Allen Central also had their first women's sectional winners in the 400 meter, two-mile and relays.

On Saturday the Rebel's 3200 women's relay team will run at 8:30 a.m. at Shively Field with the team of Jessica Wade, Jenny Wiley, Kristal Floyd and Lisa Albaugh. The 1600 women's relay team will run at 4:30 p.m. The foursome will consist of Nikki Queen, Kristal Floyd, Lisa Albaugh and Dreama Isaac. Isaac will replace Wiley in the run.

Wiley will run the women's 400 meter race at 2:30 p.m. and Shane Stumbo runs the men's 300 hurdles at 2:45 p.m. Jessica Wade takes the track for the women's 3200 meter run at 10 a.m.

"I have told them that no matter how they finish in the state meet, they are among the eight best in the state," said Jamerson. Each section sends the top two performers in each event. There are four sectionals.

One of the section's best!

Here Jenny Wiley takes her turn in carrying the stick in the women's 1600-meter relay for Allen Central. Wiley help her team to a first place finish and a trip to Lexington this Saturday. Wiley also placed first in the women's 400-meter run and was part of the 3200-meter relay team that won first place. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Akers outduels Kidd in Betsy Layne's 2-1 win over Phelps

The last time Betsy Layne and Phelps faced each other in high school baseball was in the last regular season game two weeks ago at Phelps. The result was 15-3 mercy win over the Hornets by the Bobcats.

However, things were different the second time the two teams met this past Tuesday night at Pikeville in the first round of the 15th Region baseball tournament. The Bobcats eked out a 2-1 win over a determined Phelps team.

Todd Akers and Danny Kidd hooked up in a good pitching duel with Akers coming out the victor. But nothing could be taken from the way Kidd performed on the mound, also.

Akers was being clocked at 77 miles an hour with a "jugs gun" and Kidd was throwing in the low 70's. Both hurlers had pinpoint control as only two hitters reached base via the walk route. Akers issued a two-out walk in the third inning and Kidd walked Chuck Laferty in the fifth.

Kidd's walk of Laferty leading off the third, however, came back to haunt him as Hunt (pinch runner) scored the game's first run on a ground out by Akers. Hunt stole second and stumbled into the bag as the second baseman missed the ball and it rolled into centerfield. Upon fielding the ball, Hunt stopped between second and third as the throw went to third. But the third baseman was unable to field the throw and it bounded past him into the Bobcat dugout giving Hunt two bases on the overthrow and scoring the first run. Shannon Newsome collected a one-out base hit, only the second hit for Betsy Layne. Newsome moved to second and third on wild pitches. Akers' ground ball to second base scored Newsome with what proved to be the

Lady Blackcats rally for three runs in seventh for 9-8 win

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats high school softball team likes to keep their fans — and coach — on edge. For the sixth time this season the Lady Blackcats scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning and posted a 9-8 win over Pikeville in the first round of the Girl's 14th Region Softball Tournament at Boyd County High School Wednesday night.

"We have won 14 games this year," said Lady Blackcat coach Bridget Clay, "and we have won six of them with rallies in the bottom of the seventh inning. This is one team that does not quit."

Not quitting was evident as Prestonsburg came to bat in the bottom of the seventh inning trailing 8-6 and really not playing that well against a team that had beaten them twice during the regular season.

Prestonsburg starter Melissa Bailey had big league problems on the mound and struggled to get the ball over as the Pikeville coaching staff instructed their players to be patient at the plate against Bailey. Walks proved to get Bailey in trouble as coach Clay had to bring on Kerri Merion to put out a sixth inning rally that Pikeville mounted. Merion replaced Bailey with one out and held off the Lady Panthers rally.

In the bottom of the seventh, Jamie Clay lined hard to second baseman Lisa Kelly for the first out as Pikeville was only two outs away from a victory. Amy Reed then drilled a double to right field. Carolyn Reffitt hit a bouncer to short but Reed wandered off the bag at second and the play was made on her but Reed returned to second safely with Reffitt safe at first. Stephanie Music singled home Reed for an 8-7 score and Bailey was intentionally passed to load the bases and setting up a force at any base for Pikeville. Slone Onskt tied the game with a sacrifice fly to the left centerfielder scoring Reffitt and moving Music to third.

The bottom of the Prestonsburg lineup had struggled all night but when freshman Jamie Ratcliff strode to the plate with two outs, the fans were on edge with every pitch. The first pitch, swing and a miss. The second pitch, called strike two. Lisa Lowe came high with the next pitch that Ratcliff chopped down on and sent a weak grounder to shortstop Heather Bishop. Bishop, instead of going to first with the ball elected to go for the force out on Bailey who was on first. The throw to second was errant as the ball got loose between second and first and Music crossed home plate with the winning run.

Pikeville had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Rebekah Boyd singled and came all the way home after the ball got by Reffitt in leftfield.

Prestonsburg took their first lead with two runs in the bottom of the first when Clay reached on an error at first base and scored on Reed's triple over the head of the right fielder. Reed scored on an error at shortstop off of the bat of Reffitt. Onskt also had a hit in the inning.

Pikeville scored three times in the top of the third for a 4-2 lead over Prestonsburg. Bailey walked Lisa Kelly to lead off the inning but got Rebekah Robinson on a swinging third strike. Lead off batter Lisa Lowe drilled a base hit and Heather Bishop got an infield hit to load the base for the Lady Panthers with no one out. Boyd then singled up the middle on a ball that Clay made a great stop on behind second base. Kelly and Lowe scored on the hit. The third run came

Seventh inning rally lifts Pirates over Trojans in tourney

by Susan Conn
Contributing Writer

The score was tied at four-all going into the bottom of the seventh inning as the Wheelwright Trojans and Belfry Pirates met in the first round of the 15th Region high school baseball tournament at the W.C. Hamby Athletic Complex in Pikeville.

Wheelwright squandered a 4-2 lead only to lose the game in the bottom of the seventh inning, 5-4. Chad Allen started on the hill for the Trojans and suffered the loss while Chris Demurray picked up the win in relief of Payton Roberts who started for Belfry. Roberts failed to retire a batter in the first inning when he walked the first three batters.

In the Belfry seventh, Roberts singled to lead off the frame and promptly stole second when the catcher dropped a pitch intended for Scotty Blackburn. Allen got Blackburn on strikes and intentionally walked Kevin Varney placing men on first and second. With the winning run in scoring position, designated hitter Larry Moore drilled the game winning hit scoring Roberts from second base. There was one out when the winning run scored.

Chris Phillips singled home two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to tie the game at 4-4. Mark Carroll singled to open the inning and then stole second. Carroll moved to third on a wild pitch by Allen. Allen then issued a base on balls to his counterpart, Demurray, who then stole second placing runners on second and third. Phillips then delivered his two run single.

Belfry threatened to take the lead in the bottom of the sixth but some good defensive plays by Wheelwright kept the score tied at 4-4. Charles Johnson caught Shane Hensley's deep drive to left field just before Carroll doubled in the fifth. Demurray's grounder moved Carroll to third base as the Pirates threatened to take the lead. Allen then walked Phillips putting runners on the corners. With the pressure on, Layne Bailey hauled in Shane Edwards drive to centerfield to end the inning.

Wheelwright failed to score in the seventh inning.

The Trojans closed the first inning with a 2-1 lead over the Pirates. Wheelwright scored two runs when Roberts issued walks to Bailey, Steven Shelton and Jimmy Helton to load the bases with no outs. The Pirates coaching staff saw all they wanted to see and summoned in

Brewers roll past Expos behind Lemaster and Marsillett, 13-5

William Marsillett doubled with the bases loaded in the fifth inning and Ricky Lemaster went the distance as the Prestonsburg Brewers posted a convincing 13-5 win over the Prestonsburg Expos.

The Brewers scored five times in the third inning and pushed across five in the fifth as Lemaster scattered four Expos hits. Thomas Ratliff suffered the loss for the Expos. Ratliff worked the first three innings allowing five runs. Tony Craft came on to pitch the fourth and Baldrige hurled the fifth for the Expos.

In the fifth inning, the Brewers got five runs as Baldrige walked Lafferty, Zeth Shepherd and Bennett Allen to load the bases. David Turner then walked to force in Lafferty. Marsillett then doubled home three runs. Marsillett then scored on a fielder's choice play.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first on a base hit by Osborne and a double by Craft. Five runs crossed the plate for the Brewers in the third inning on a base hit by Allen, a double by Turner scoring Allen and a base hit by Robbie Risner scored Turner and Marsillett who had walked. The fifth run came home on a sacrifice fly by Lemaster.

Marsillett singled and scored in the fourth on a sacrifice for a 6-1 score. The Expos plated two runs in the bottom of the fourth on walks to Damron and Osborne. Jake Poston then walked to load the bases and Craft doubled home two runs.

With two out in the top of the seventh, four walks and a double by Marsillett produced two more runs for the Brewers. The Expos scored their final two runs in the bottom of the seventh when Craft, Ratliff and Collins walked to load the bases. The Expos scored twice but on a double play by the Brewers.

Marsillett had three RBIs for the Brewers with Risner collecting two. Marsillett had two hits as did Risner. Turner doubled in the second. Craft had two doubles for the Expos and three RBIs.

Lemaster went the distance for the Brewers with five strike outs and 12 walks. Ratliff fanned six in his three innings of work and issued five walks.

Braves nip A's as Hall and Music duel

Both pitchers struck out 11 batters. One walked eight the other seven. Mike Hall and Russell Music hooked up in a good old-fashioned pitching duel Tuesday night at Archer Park with the Braves scoring a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to win their sixth game of the season against only one loss. Music had a no-hitter going into the bottom of the sixth when the Braves collected their only two hits. The only setback for the Braves came at the hands of the Cubs, who they will play Tuesday night, June 2. The Cubs currently lead the league standings with a 7-0 mark.

The Braves came to bat in the bottom of the sixth inning with two out when Hall walked. Luke Luster blooped a single over third base and Jeremy Watkins got an infield hit. On a desperation play at first base the A's threw the ball away, allowing Hall to score from second base for the winning run.

The Braves took a 1-0 lead in the first inning without the benefit of a hit. Mark Stanley and Dustin Robinson drew two out walks. Stanley took third on a passed ball with Robinson holding at first. Robinson took off for second and the A's catcher threw to second on an attempt on Robinson with Stanley scoring from third base.

The A's finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth inning on a lead off triple by Gordon Bradley. Bobby Justice then doubled him home to tie the game at 1-1.

The Braves reclaimed the lead at 2-1 in the bottom of the fifth inning. With one out, J.B. Hall walked and moved to third on two wild pitches. Matt Tackett drew a walk and was on first base when the Braves called for a hit and run play. The ball was popped up for the second out and, in an effort to double Tackett off of first base, the ball was thrown away with Hall scoring for the 2-1 score.

The A's loaded the bases in the fifth inning with three walks but Mike Hall struck out the side to leave the bases jammed. In the A's half of the sixth inning, they tied the game at 2-2 when Music reached third on an error and scored on a slow roller for a hit off of the bat of Justice. Hall walked the next two batters to load the bases but ended the inning with a strikeout. Bradley and Justice had the only extra base hits in the game. Hall fanned 11 while walking eight for the win. Music had 11 strikeouts and walked 7. The A's collected only four hits in the game.

Trojans

Demurray to replace Roberts. Charles Johnson greeted Roberts' first pitch for a two run single that scored Bailey and Shelton.

Enter Demurray. Exit Roberts. Demurray gave up a base hit to Jody Johnson that loaded the bases, but Wheelwright's Mickey Johnson's foul pop resulted in a double play that took the Trojans out of the inning.

In the bottom of the first, Carroll doubled and scored on Phillips' sacrifice fly to center field to make it a 2-1 game.

Both pitchers were outstanding in the second as they shut their opponents down to keep the score at 2-1.

With one out in the third, Helton singled to centerfield, stole second and moved to third on an error. Charles Johnson's base hit scored Helton to make it a 3-1 game.

In the top of the fourth, Mickey Johnson and Matt Johnson drew lead off walks from Demurray and both runners moved up on a bunt by Kevin Johnson. Mickey Johnson scored on a base hit by Bailey but the Trojans left two runners stranded in the inning as they led 4-1 in the fourth.

Belfry made it a 4-2 game with a run in the bottom of the inning on a one out single by Blackburn who was replaced by a courtesy runner. Blackburn moved to second on a balk and scored on a base hit.

Going into the bottom of the seventh, the fans were still in their seats awaiting the outcome of this nail biter as Belfry scored the winning run in the bottom of the frame.

Demurray had six strike outs and issued four walks in picking up the win. He worked the full seven innings. Demurray allowed Wheelwright only three hits and Belfry collected eight off of Allen, the losing pitcher.

Wild pitch gives Prestonsburg 13-11 win

The Prestonsburg Reds scored two runs in the top of the sixth inning and then retired the Prestonsburg Brewers to post a 13-11 win in the Prestonsburg Senior League this week.

The teams were tied at 11-11 when the Reds came to bat in the top of the sixth. John Morris and Jeremy Osborne drew back-to-back walks off losing pitcher Bennett Allen. Both runners moved up on a passed ball and Morris scored the go-ahead run when Allen uncorked a wild pitch. Osborn later scored on a sacrifice fly off of the bat of Jason Osborne to make it a 13-11 game. The Brewers went out in order in the bottom of the inning.

Jason Spencer was the winning pitcher with 12 strike outs but experienced some control difficulty when he walked 11 batters. Spencer allowed seven hits to the Brewers.

Robbie Risner started for the Brewers before being lifted in the second inning. Risner had two strike outs and he too had some control problems in walking seven.

The Reds jumped out to a 3-0 first inning lead when Clint Shutts walked and used his speed to steal second and third. Shutts scored on Matt Trusty's base hit. Larry Morris then drove a Risner pitch over the center-field fence for a two-run homer, scoring Trusty ahead of him.

Four runs crossed home plate for the Brewers in the bottom of the inning as they took a 4-3 lead. Spencer walked the first three batters he faced in the inning to load the bases and Risner unloaded them with a long triple that hit off the left field fence. Risner came to score on Ricky Lemaster's sacrifice fly.

Risner was roughed up in the second inning when Shutts walked and again stole second and third. Risner walked Spencer, Trusty and Morris to force Shutts home to tie the game at 4-4. Jason Osborne singled to drive in two runs and two runs came in on two wild pitches to give the Reds an 8-4 lead.

It was an 8-5 game when the Brewers scored in the bottom of the inning on a walk to Allen and a balk call on Spencer. Risner, who seemed not to have any problems at the plate, doubled Allen home for his fourth RBI.

Neither team scored in the third and fourth innings with the score remaining 8-5. The Reds, in the fifth, pushed across three runs in the top of the frame for a 11-5 lead. For the third inning, Shutts led off with a walk and later scored on a base hit by Spencer. Trusty followed with a single and both runners scored on a double by Morris.

The Brewers exploded for six runs in the bottom of the fifth to tie the game at 11-11. Risner collected his third hit of the game with a base hit leading off. He came around to score on a two-bagger by Lemaster. Spencer then issued back-to-back walks to Ruff, Taylor and Allen to force Lemaster home with a run. David Turner then singled home two runs for a 11-9 score. Risner collected his second hit of the inning — fourth of the game — with a two-run single that tied the game at 11-11.

Shutts had seven stolen bases in the game for the Reds and he walked four times. Spencer had five steals. Morris finished with four hits in the game and three runs batted in for the Reds. Trusty collected two hits and two RBIs.

winning run for the Bobcats. Phelps narrowed the margin to one run when Kidd scored in the sixth inning. Kidd was a thorn in the side of Akers all night as Akers never did retire the lead off batter. Kidd singled in the first inning to open the game for the Hornets and then Akers walked him in the third. Kidd lined a single to right field to open the sixth for Phelps. Chris Compton hit a hard smash that had double written all over it, but Shannon Newsome made a back hand stab of the ball going to his right and righted himself and threw Compton out with Kidd moving to second.

An outstanding play was followed by a boner when Newsome fielded Bo Wohlford's bouncer with Kidd cutting for third base. Newsome elected to go for the out on Kidd rather taking the sure out at first, but the throw to Chris Potter at third was off the bag and Potter missed the tag on Kidd. Billy Smith then grounded to first baseman Chuck Laferty who threw to second for the force on Wohlford with Kidd scoring. Smith, who was safe at first, was then picked off as Akers caught him napping.

Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome then elected to lift Akers and brought in sophomore Barry Clark to hurl the seventh inning.

"I had to take him out or he would have been finished for the tournament," explained the Betsy Layne coach. "This way he can come back on Friday and pitch if we make it to the finals. He was throwing the ball real well and you hate to take him out, but I had to."

All Clark did was set Phelps down in order to end the game. The second out of the innng came when Potter went from his shortstop position into short left field to take in a fly ball off the bat of Steve Smith. Clark threw three past Daniel Lester to end the game.

Kidd had two of the three hits for Phelps with Jody Casey collecting the third hit — an infield variety — in the fifth inning.

Betsy Layne, who usually feasts on hard throwing right handers, struggled against Kidd. The Bobcats collected only two hits in the game but some smart baseball gave them their 24th win of the season against only eight losses. Laferty had a scratch single in the second inning and then Shannon Newsome singled in the fifth.

Akers worked six strong innings before being lifted for Clark. Akers struck out 10 batters and issued just the one base on balls in allowing one run on three hits. Clark worked an inning with one strike out and no walks. He retired all three batters he faced.

After Kidd led off the first with a base hit, Akers threw nothing but "smoke" as he got Compton and Wohlford on strikes and induced Smith to ground to second. Akers retired eight straight before walking

Kidd in the third. He faced four over the minimum of 21 batters.

As Kidd was a thorn in the side of Akers, Laferty proved to be the same for Kidd. Kidd retired the first four batters he faced until Laferty's infield hit in the second.

Has good outing!

Todd Akers of Betsy Layne outduelled Phelps Danny Kidd in the first round of the 15th Region baseball tournament Tuesday night. Akers and the Bobcats held off the Hornets to win 2-1. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Paintsville Tri-County baseball prepares for another season

The Paintsville Tri-County Big League baseball team was last year's Kentucky State champions and runners-up in the Southeastern Regional in Augusta, Ga. last year. The team, coached by Paul David Brown and Johnny "Peanuts" Lemaster, will kick off practice for this year's squad on Sunday, May 31. Both coaches invite all area players to come and join them for a great summer of baseball.

"This year we hope to do better than we did last year," said Coach Brown in a news release. The Tri-County team will play a 28-game schedule, three tournaments and the schedule will include trips to West Virginia, Lexington and Cincinnati.

Practice will be held at 2 p.m. on May 31 at the Paintsville City Park. This will be used also for a final day of signing up. May 31 will be orientation day to go over the team's practice schedule and other important matters.

Both coaches invite all kids who want to play quality summer baseball to be at the Paintsville City Park on May 31.

For more information, contact Coach Brown or Coach Lemaster at 789-3532 or 789-7272.

in on a sacrifice fly by Dana Huffman.

Prestonsburg got a run after the first two batters were retired in the bottom of the third. Reffitt walked with two outs and Music's fly ball to left was dropped by Allison Allara. Reffitt scored on Bailey's RBI single.

Bailey continued to have control problems in the fourth inning as she walked the first two batters she faced. Aaron McAllen reached on an infield hit to load the bases. Kelly Sullivan then popped to shortstop Clay who went into left field to take the fly ball. Kelly bounced to Clay at short who forced McAllen at second base with Allara scoring. Sarah Norman scored when Robinson's bouncer to short was misplayed by Clay. Kelly later scored the third run of the inning on a RBI single by Lowe.

The Lady Blackcats put a runner on base in the fifth inning on a one out single by Bailey but she was left stranded.

Pikeville added a run in the top of the fifth inning when Reed dropped Clay's throw to first to get Boyd. Huffman then hit one off the fence for a double and scored Boyd. Bailey worked out of further trouble.

Prestonsburg went out in order in the sixth.

"I think that Kerri did an outstanding job for us in relief," said Coach Clay. "That gave us a big boost. We're just glad to be here in the tournament at Boyd County and we have accomplished more than we expected to.

"I told the girls when we got into the tournament that we have had a great season and what we do here at Boyd County is just icing on the cake. For these girls, they believe they can win."

Coach Clay said that her team was under no pressure and that they were just going out to have fun and a good time.

Prestonsburg improved to 14-3 on the season.

SPRAY AWAY

It has happened in my lifetime and I'm thrilled.

Saturday night as I was trying to drift off to sleep, I heard an announcement on the television for a new diet that is sweeping the nation. Ruda Lee was even a spokeswoman for this diet and touted it as the most remarkable way to lose those unwanted pounds since the invention of the Ginsu knife.

I won't hold you in suspense any longer. So without further ado, the diet is—a little drum roll, please—little aerosol spray cylinders of chocolate, mint, lemon-lime and berries. Ta da!

That's right, folks! Small spray cans of sugar-free, non-fat, cholesterol-free treats that you spray in your mouth whenever you feel hungry. While it doesn't sound like a bad idea, can you imagine how people are going to act when this stuff starts saturating the market? Before you know it, you'll be able to buy the spray in a variety of flavors.

"Hey, Fred! Got any bologna spray left?" one co-worker might say to another.

"No, but I've got some Vienna left in my jacket pocket."

It would be great to be able to eat potato chips from a spray can. You wouldn't get any food caught between your teeth so it would save on dentist bills. Of course, there are those who might not want to get all their nourishment from a spray. You know, those fanatics who like real food, and my husband would be one of them.

"What are we having tonight, Sara?"

"Oh, let's see," I'd say as I'd rummage through cans of roast beef, chicken and rice and spaghetti. "How about a couple of sprays of chipped beef and gravy, and a few extra squirts of broccoli casserole, and a mist or two of vanilla yogurt with strawberries? Sure sounds good to me."

"Whatever happened to solid food?"

"It was just so unhealthy. It contained fat, sugar, and cholesterol. The spray is so much more...."

"Expensive," my husband said as he finished my sentence.

"Well, er, ... Yes. It's expensive, but you make up for it by purchasing fewer sundry items."

"Like what?" he asks.

"Um. Like toilet paper," I said honestly.

Sadly, the little aerosol sprays ran $49.95 for a month's supply and that included an extra chocolate spray. The entire set of five sprays is supposed to help you stave off starvation and lose weight without any pain. I like the no-pain theory. Though it's not practical, it's the way I want to believe life should be like.

The only bad thing I can foresee about the spray is if you inadvertently sprayed it in your mouth and it was spoiled or something. Could canned chili spoil in spray form? You never know. And what if you accidentally sprayed garlic cheese spray on for deodorant? You could lose all your friends with one sweep of your arm.

Here it is, 1992. We've been to the moon, we've discovered cures for polio and typhoid fever, and we can

by Janice Shepherd
Staff Writer

The thoughts, feelings and dreams of students at David School will form Act V of a 6-act play "Voices From Within," arranged by Boston playwright Josef Comperchio.

Comperchio, who took a year's sabbatical from Dedham Country Day School in Massachusetts after writing 40 plays a year, was at David School recently to combine the inner voices of David youth to those of America's teens.

Comperchio, a playwright and drama director, has visited four high schools across the continent to capture the diversity and similarity of the nation's culture through its youth. He usually spends from three to six weeks at each high school, compiling data to create one act of the play.

Act One, the voices of inner city youth, was created in Chicago. Rural voices were recorded at a school in Michigan.

In Phoenix, Arizona, Comperchio heard the voices of Hispanic youth, and in Santa Fe, he listened to the voices of Native American teens. The final act in the play will be created at a private prep school in New England where Comperchio will hear the voices of upper class youth.

The lines from the play are direct quotes from the students. At each school, Comperchio asks students to share their lives by answering questions such as "What do you see when you look out the window? or What sliver in your heart do you wish you could take out?"

The students answer in essay form. Because the answers are anonymous, students can express their deepest feelings. Comperchio links the student's comments, adds lyrics and music, and creates a moving portrayal of the region's culture.

"The play becomes a montage, or a reflection on them," said Comperchio. "The play is a mirror to their lives."

The student's words are powerful and Comperchio gets goosebumps each time he reads them. In Chicago, for instance, a student wrote about the violence that is part of the everyday world in the inner city.

"They shot him. He was shot for no reason. The bullet was not meant for him. The gangbangers were on drugs while they were shooting. It was an accident. They didn't mean to kill him but they did. They killed my brother."

Students from David told a different story:

"I was born in Eastern Kentucky. My home is in a mountain holler and if I ever left my mountain home, I feel that I would be lost," wrote a student.

Only the act that represents the student's region is performed and the students become the actors. No student, though, is allowed to read his own lines.

When the play is being performed, the atmosphere "is almost like a chapel," said Comperchio. "What makes this unique, I think, is that they're not putting on someone else's story, they're putting on their own life story."

When the play is over, students have told Comperchio that they didn't realize others felt as they did until they heard the inner voices of their fellow students.

"That to me is the power of the project," he said.

Originally, Comperchio's sabbatical was to be an artist in residence program, but after hearing comments from Chicago's youth, he conceived the idea of combining teen voices to help teens identify with each other's struggles.

"What I found in common is that the primary universal issues that the inner city black gang from Chicago can feel and a Mexican-Hispanic kid from Phoenix can feel is that they feel alone in their feelings because they don't know how to communicate that feeling," said Comperchio. "What I want them to experience is to be able to identify their pain and to hear that they're not the only ones to have it."

When the acts are completed, Comperchio hopes to have the collection published and then performed. His dream is to have three teens from each region perform in the play.

"In every single place, I've learned a lot about the culture," he said. "I've really loved the kids in this school (David). Kids in this area are very open and I just found them to be real dear."

Comperchio, who also teaches theatre at a summer school in Vermont, is enthused about the project and said the experience will definitely broaden his writing.

"I carry inside of me ... the student's voices from each place I've gone. When I return to my job, the voices of the kids are going to permeate my writings ..." he said.

"It's given me more than I could have ever gotten from reading. I've lived with them, talked with them about their pains and they honestly blurted out their feelings.

"And that's affected me deeply."

Truth, Justice and the American Way

by Geoff Belcher, staff writer

Last week, I wrote an article about "alleged" police harassment that, well, might have been a bit one-sided. Not because I didn't try to get opposing testimony. I called and called and called and called. It just worked out that circumstance prevented Police Chief Greg Hall from returning my calls before the article was printed. That happens sometimes. It's nobody's fault.

This isn't a retraction. This isn't an apology.

What I wrote was true. The kids did "allege" that they had been victims of continual police harassment. The kids did "claim" that on the night of Saturday, May 16, police officers had crashed their little impromptu party at the Prestonsburg municipal parking lot, verbally abused them and otherwise violated their moral and constitutional rights.

Now, I may be naive at times—if I interviewed John Wilkes Boothe, I could probably find some perfectly logical reason for him to have been in that theater box with a gun.

But even I knew there were two sides to the protestor's claims. I just couldn't get anybody to tell me what the other side was.

Regardless of personal opinions, good reporters (I know I'm only mediocre, but I'm learning) aren't supposed to print opinions and suppositions. They're only supposed to print what they're told in an objective and impersonal manner.

Anyway, the other side came out at Wednesday evening's city council meeting (see Council, pg. A1).

I thought about including "the other side" in the city council article, but then I thought "Not. I wanna say what I wanna say."

Turns out that one of the kids gathered in the parking lot had nine cases of beer in the back of his car. He was way below the legal drinking age.

When police started to question the youth, another of the parking lot hangers-out, who was way above legal drinking age, said that the beer was his, and the youth was just transporting it for him because he was afraid it would break the axle on his own car.

Must not have been light beer.

The police then asked the man to produce a receipt for the beer, which he did, and then had him put it in his own car and go home.

They didn't make him pour it out even though it's illegal to have alcoholic beverages on public property—and nine cases of beer can run into pretty serious money.

They didn't arrest him for unlawful transaction with a minor, which they could have.

They gave it back and told him to go home.

And he's mad.

Now, here's the kicker. When the police ordered the kids to disperse, citing frequent complaints from neighbors who were disturbed by incessant noise and loud rap music, one of the youths spoke up.

Nothing wrong with that. Shows guts.

But when one of the police officers responded with what I'm reasonably sure wasn't exactly a saintly reply, the youth called him a (let's just say it wasn't a very nice name).

There is something wrong with that. Shows stupidity.

First of all, I think it should be an arrestable offense to play rap music at any level, much less loud enough to shatter windows and shake the bricks off surrounding buildings.

Second of all, I don't care how politely you say it, how calm your demeanor, YOU ARE NOT EVER, NEVER, EVER, NOT IN A MILLION YEARS SUPPOSED TO CALL A POLICE OFFICER A BAD NAME, EVEN IF HE REALLY REALLY DESERVES IT.

I got arrested once myself, and all I said was "Huh?"

Of course, there was a bit more to it than that. See, I was about, oh, 17, and believe it or not, even more naive than I am now, and I didn't realize that a police officer standing on the side of the road with a flashlight constituted a police road block.

I thought, you know, that they actually blocked the road. Guess I'd watched too much Starsky & Hutch.

Anyway, I got about half a mile down the road when I saw flashing blue lights in my rear-view mirror.

After quickly performing my instinctive, knee-jerk check of the speedometer and verifying that I was, indeed, traveling at the prescribed highway speed, I kind of chuckled to myself "Boy, somebody's in trouble," when all of a sudden a blinding white light stabbed through my brain, and I had a brief flashback to Close Encounters of the 3rd Kind, where the muppet aliens come down and whisk Richard Dreyfuss back to Planet X or whatever.

Then this booming loudspeaker Yosemite Sam voice informed me that I had better pull over immedi-

Wait To See: Asa has a plan to make Blair his next wife.

SANTA BARBARA: Connie was beaten again, and Jodie rushed off to find the children before Ramon could return. Reese took a gun and went looking for her. Later, alone in the study, Marcus found a secret panel and disappeared into it. Gina overheard C.C.'s telephone message to David about using his (David's) original plan for getting custody of Channing. Santana, realizing there was still a bond between C.C. and Sophia, told him she was leaving him. Wait To See: Marcus' activities could endanger Julia and Mason.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Sheila continued to hold Lauren and Holly hostage. Lauren was stunned when Molly told her about the baby switching, and that her child (Lauren's) was still alive. Dear Abby

Husband's fate is sealed by another woman's kiss

DEAR ABBY: During our four years of marriage, there have been a number of occasions when I've questioned my husband's fidelity. For example:

My "Mel" was in the hospital for a few days undergoing minor surgery when his secretary forwarded his office mail to the house. I went through it to see if anything needed immediate attention—perhaps a bill to pay. One envelope looked like a business letter, so I opened it. It was from a very attractive businesswoman we had both met at a convention recently. She said she is looking forward to seeing Mel in Tokyo soon! (Mel travels to Japan on business, and evidently she travels, too.) She enclosed her business card on which there was a bright red lipstick "kiss"! I was shocked, and now I'm suspicious.

Mel says I'm being stupid—that many businesswomen put their lip imprints on their business cards. Is this true, or could there be something "personal" going on here?
MEL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hate to judge your husband guilty on circumstantial evidence, but yes, I would say there could be something personal going on.

When a woman puts her lip print on her business card, the message is not very subtle, and the business could also be pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: I have started to see a woman who is in her middle 60s, but she thinks I believe that she is 10 years younger. Also, she has had some facial improvements, which she thinks no one knows about. She denies getting Social Security, which I know she gets. She is truly a lovely lady, very attractive, lively, loves to dance and play cards. She is very active socially and has many friends.

I do not mind about the age deception, nor the facial improvements. As a matter of fact, I believe every woman deserves a lot of credit for doing everything she can in order to look her best, but I would respect her more if she broke down and told me the truth. It would make no difference to me. In fact, it would clear the air.

I would never volunteer that I know all of the above. Even if she were to tell me, I would bite my tongue off before I'd say, "So, what else is new?"
NO NAME, INITIALS OR CITY

DEAR NO NAME: I hope you realize that your letter will probably initiate an epidemic of unsolicited true confessions.

DEAR ABBY: How would you define "immediate family"? Are in-laws considered immediate family?

This may be a dumb question, but if my wife's sister is my sister-in-law, is her husband my brother-in-law? And, would he be considered "immediate family"? I need an answer to this question to settle an argument.

FRANCIS BASAK IN CLARENCE, PA.

DEAR FRANCIS: According to Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, the husband of your wife's sister is your brother-in-law.

The Los Angeles Family History Center defines "immediate family" as: one's grandparents, parents, brothers, sisters, spouse, children and grandchildren.

"In-laws" are extended family—as are aunts, uncles and cousins.

BICENTENNIAL

Louisville pharmacist John Colgan, born in 1840, developed chewing gum in the 1860's as a treat for children coming to his drug store. Colgan made the original gum by mixing powdered sugar with the aromatic flavoring tolu, a product of balsam trees normally used in cough syrups, and molding the mix into small sticks. But gum balsam was expensive and Colgan's profits were small.

A twist of fate in 1879 turned this sideline into big business. A traveling salesman sold Colgan 1,500 pounds of the tree sap chicle, which had proved useless for experiments in making rubber but made a very good, cheap basis for balsam gum.

The result, Colgan's Taffy Tolu Chewing Gum, was so popular that John Colgan sold the drugstore to devote his full attention to the chewing gum business, even traveling annually to British Honduras to oversee the gathering of chicle from the sapodilla tree.

The gum was originally wrapped in small squares, six to a pack. Later it was packaged in round tin boxes accompanied by the slogan "The Gum

That's Round."
In 1880, James McAfee joined the business, which operated under the name of Colgan and McAfee. The company was sold a few years before Colgan's death in 1916, but it failed under the new owners.

Loving thanks to our family and friends for their prayers and kindness after our accident.

ately, or buddy I was gonna be holier than a reformed drunk.

Since I was on a bridge, I didn't really have anywhere to pull to, so I ended up as the prey in a high speed 35mph chase, the likes of which haven't been seen since the last Dirty Harry movie.

When I finally pulled over, I looked up to find myself surrounded by an entire battalion of city, county and state police, and vaguely wondered if they were bringing in the state militia, Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marines.

I then got out of my car. Remember, kiddies, if you get pulled over, never, ever get out of your car until the nice policeman asks you to.

Yosemite then asked me if I was on drugs, which I wasn't. Never had it, never will, but I'm quite certain I had that classic pale, glassy-eyed, I-just-shot-up-5-billion-ccs-of-heroin-smoked-4-pounds-of-marijuana-and-snorted-several-hundred-grams-of-coke stare.

The next thing I remember is ol' Sam saying "Ah'm a gonna put ya in the pokey, ya long-eared galoot."

At the pokey, I was fingerprinted, strip-searched by a five-hundred pound bald man named Bubba who told me to, and I quote, to "take them panties off."

I'm sure my memory has clouded with time, but I'm almost positive the radio was playing the theme from Deliverance.

EDELL HEALTH NOTES

GOOD NEWS ON HAIR DYE AND CANCER. . . If you are one of the estimated 30 million American women who regularly dye their hair, you will be pleased to hear about a large new study designed to show whether hair dye causes breast cancer. After screening more than a thousand women, researchers concluded that using hair dye, no matter what kind or how frequently, does not significantly raise your chances of getting breast cancer.

There was one possible exception to the report compiled at New York University Medical Center's Laboratory of Epidemiology: People who had worked for five years or more as beauticians showed a slightly elevated risk of getting breast cancer.

In a review of 98 hairdressers, other researchers found that 40 percent had traces of solvents and other toxic chemicals in their urine. But researchers refused to say whether this means that hairdressers face an increased risk of any kind of cancer.

Keep in mind that the first study looked only at breast cancer. We have very little information so far about connections between hair-dye use and other kinds of cancer.

Even if they don't lead to cancer, many hair dyes can cause serious allergic reactions. Minimize your exposure by wearing gloves when you dye your hair and washing off any dye that ends up on your skin. Look for products free of phenylenediamine, a chemical that can cause allergic reactions; most semi-permanent colors don't contain it. Natural colorings, such as henna, are non-carcinogenic and non-allergenic. You can also choose to have your hair highlighted or frosted rather than dyed, and so use less of the stuff.

Of course there's always another Option. Gray gracefully.

"AND YE EARTH SHOOKE..."
Friday, June 1, 1638, 2 PM: the first recorded earthquake in America rocked the settlement at Plymouth, Massachusetts. No accurate descriptions of earlier earthquakes exist prior to Governor William Bradford's report of this event as recorded in his History of the Plymouth Plantation: "However, it was very terrible for ye time; and as ye men were set talking in ye house, some women and others were without ye doors, and ye earth shooke with ye violence as they could not stand without catching hold of ye posts and pails yt stood next them, but ye violence lasted not long. And about halfe an hower, or less, came an other noyse & shaking, but neither so loud nor strong as ye former, but quickly passed over, and so it ceased."

Earthquake before eleven, rain same day.

TIP OF THE WEEK
Before frying or sauteing food, remove from refrigerator and bring to room temperature.

EARTHWISE

Besides using specific plants to attract beneficial insects (as suggested last week), you can plant herbs to repel the pest species. Tansy and mint discourage ants and are very nice near the picnic table. Aphids dislike chives and garlic. Fleas hop away from fennel and tansy, try planting some around the doghouse. Houseflies avoid basil, chamomile, mint, rue, and tansy. A pot of mint just outside the back door really cuts down on the unwanted winged guests.

DEE AND TOM HARDIE

GRANDPARENTING

BOY'S INVITATION BRIGHTENS GRANDMOTHER'S DAY

Our Grand Remark of the Week: "I thought you may be interested in this quip my 6-year-old grandson said to me the other day:

"'Gramma, if you get sick and think you may die, just sleep in the living room at night.'" — Hazel Hermann, Mount Horeb, Wis.

Thank you, Hazel, and we are sending you an inscribed copy of one of Dee's books, as our thanks.

Q: Our daughter-in-law and son have one child, a little boy of 5. He is very bright, and the center of their world. He even gives the message on their telephone answering machine.

His parents think it's cute; I think it's ridiculous! The child mumbles so. You can hardly tell what he's saying.

Don't you think they should wait until he can speak more clearly? Or am I being an old stick-in-the-mud? — Grandma, Palm Springs, Calif.

A: It's their child, their telephone, their business. As the grandmother of this child you should be able to translate what he is saying. Stop worrying about it, and stop worrying about what other people might think. We think that's what's really bothering you. Relax!

Q: I read your column and enjoy it very much. Do you know anything about grandparents' rights? My son and his wife will not let us have anything to do with our three grandsons, ages 8, 3 and 6 months.

At Christmas, my son actually said he could not cope with his parents and his marriage at the same time. He is 29. I have sent Valentine and birthday cards, and our daughter-in-law only sent them back. Maybe you will have an answer to our problem. — L.F., Philadelphia

A: It is certainly cruel for your daughter-in-law to return your cards. You offer cards, and she sends back daggers. She apparently doesn't appreciate you.

We suggest you might try another tactic. Instead of simply sending cards, ask the parents how you may give tangible assistance by helping out with the children. Offer to babysit so they can spend some time alone, like a quiet restaurant dinner one night a week. That sounds like a good menu to us, and they could save money by your baby-sitting.

Maybe you could also take the kids on trips to nearby places like Valley Forge or the Atlantic beaches. Show your son and daughter-in-law you can be a real asset to their marriage and family.

As to "grandparents' rights," each state has different laws, different guidelines. The U.S. House Subcommittee on Human Services, Select Committee on Aging, chaired by Rep. Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., is closely studying the problem.

However, we hope you can tactfully find a solution yourself, without resorting to legal steps.

This is graduation time again. For a grandchild about to leave high school or college, we suggest as a very special gift a few choice stocks, rather than the usual run-of-the-mill gifts. Gifts of stock have several major advantages, such as an educational value and as a tax shelter. You can give up to $10,000 a year to each grandchild (or child) without being taxed, or $20,000 a year if you're married and file jointly.

For example, Harwood S. Nichols, a vice president of the First National Bank of Maryland, Baltimore, recommends stocks of companies whose products are easily recognizable by the young, such as Proctor & Gamble (Crest toothpaste), Coca-Cola and Apple Computer. It's worth considering.

(Dee and Tom, married more than 40 years, have four grandchildren and hope to have many more. They welcome questions and suggestions. Send to Box 34, Butler, Md. 21023. Because of the volume, personal replies are usually not possible.)

Former teacher publishes book

Former Betsy Layne High School teacher, Chessie I. Cornette, publishes her second book. The book, "A Famine in the Valley," published by Braun and Brumfield of Michigan, will go on sale sometime in the first part of June. In the Prestonsburg area, they can be purchased at the Jenny Wiley Gift Shop and David Appalachian Crafts; and in Pikeville at Food City, The Lighthouse, the First of May, and Readmore Book Store. The book includes a novelle and other short stories. These stories are fictionalized accounts of childhood, school and community experiences. Her first book, "He Brought Me a Rose," was published in 1987.

Smile Awhile

give people new hearts and remove wrinkles from foreheads. But we still can't eat what we want without gaining weight. It's not fair.

Personally, a little aerosol can filled with willpower is about my speed. Of course, if it was marketable, Bristol Myers or Proctor and Gamble would have already been selling it. If you put it in pill form, the pharmaceutical companies would buy it and charge you six million dollars just to smell a capsule.

What's a fellow to do?
I'll tell you what this fellow is going to do. I'm going to buy the sprays and test it for one month. If I don't lose any weight, I'm going to send the sprays back and get a refund. Then I'm going to go out and buy a banana split-triple thick chocolate milkshake, potato chip hamburger and eat it.

Revenge (not success) is counted sweetest by those who never succeed.

Looky here, it's Connie C., only three shy of 33. But the greatest thing that it can be, is that she will always be older than me.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The week begins and ends on a high note. What occurs in between is up in the air. Take another look at an important friendship and what it means to you. Finances get tested when an associate pulls a power play. Stay steady and in command of your ship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Go for the brass ring early in the week. Listen to your instincts before you take a strong stand as the weekend rolls in. Don't worry too much, as your personality, intellect and all your finer assets carry you effortlessly over the humps. You can start beaming now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are definitely a force to be dealt with this week. Reverse course and try another approach if you must. One thing is for sure: You will not settle for less than the best—and you won't have to. You end this week on a high (very high) note.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One-to-one relating brings about changes, and you no longer can take what was for granted. Financial ventures (of all sorts) need restructuring. The good news is, you get things back on track by the weekend. Celebration is the order of the day—excuse me, the weekend.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Your efficiency is tested all week, mainly because a partner demands attention, and you need to get things done. Your natural, animal magnetism pulls in what was distant. Purr all you want, but take good care of this item, if you want it for keeps. Don't take others for granted.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You act like it's a weekend, even during the week. A late case of spring fever keeps you out on the prowl. You enjoy socializing—picking and choosing. What is likely to stop you is fatigue. Do pace yourself as you walk about and smell the roses. You are thrilled with your pickings.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) You need to get matters in order, and quickly at that. Distractions abound. Expect a problem involving a child or loved one. Rethink recent decisions though right now you need, and must have, some one-to-one talks. Negotiate a truce, if you must. Always look to the long run.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Be more playful, and you will be a lot happier. Refuse to try resolving (one more time) a home situation that does not work and isn't going to. Let go of the past and open yourself up to a brave, new world. You get a taste of what lies ahead this weekend. Yum.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Move from a centered spot and let those creative juices flow. Do not deny what exists—simply embellish what is. You discover a more nurturing, caring approach gets you much further. The weekend starts late but, for you, it can be a lot of fun. Relish the here and now.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) What starts out as a fairly normal week may have you scratching your head for a long, long time. Your planetary ruler does a back flip. Use care dealing with the week's challenges. You let off steam this weekend, but you could also use this energy to problem solve. It's up to you.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) Just about when you think you have it all handled this week, you have to backtrack. If you're a woman, this involves a man—the past haunts you. If you're a man, you may face a real identity crisis. Use this period for some heavy duty soul-searching before you launch once more.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Others will appreciate your steadiness in this most unsteady period. You understand much more than you are willing to acknowledge. Be careful about playing dumb when it involves something that makes you feel vulnerable. You need to clear the air. Busy as you are, make the time.

CHUCK SHEPHERD

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

—The U.S. Tax Court ruled in March in favor of the Internal Revenue Service's claim that Irwin Schiff would have to pay $92,000 in back taxes and penalties. Schiff is the author of "How Anyone Can Stop Paying Income Taxes," the now-failed thesis that the IRS lacked the authority to tax anyone who did not file a return, a strategy he had employed since 1973.

GOVERNMENT IN ACTION

—Chester, Pa., rookie mayor Barbara Bohannon-Sheppard created a furor in March when she appointed as her chief assistant Robert Hill, 42. When he was 14, Hill had killed an insurance agent by beating him and stabbing him 17 times on a dare. He served nine years for that crime. (He then was convicted of raping a 16-year-old girl the year he was released, and served 3 1/2 more years.) The mayor said Hill had paid his debts to society, and besides, he can type 95 words a minute.

—In January, William Powell was named deputy director of the North Carolina state agency that ensures compliance with federal and state Medicaid and Medicare regulations. Powell, a pharmacist and longtime Republican officeholder and activist, pleaded guilty in 1984 to felony Medicaid fraud. He also had his pharmacist's license suspended on two other occasions for violating state law.

—In January, a year after Onandaga County, N.Y., took her then-3-year-old child away from her for alleged abuse, Denise Perrigo got the daughter back, and told reporters of her plans to sue the county. The baby was taken from Perrigo after she called a local hot line in search of information on breast-feeding. When she told the hot line volunteer that she wanted to know whether it was normal to be sexually aroused when breast-feeding (it is), the volunteer reported her to authorities, who, with no more investigation, took the baby away.

—In December, the Detroit News reported toxic contamination in the soil at a local housing project, embarrassing Mayor Coleman Young, who had been especially proud of the project. Young then paid an environmental laboratory in Missouri to examine the contents of a ground-up issue of the Detroit News. The lab found that the contents exceeded the maximum safe levels set by the Environmental Protection Agency for several substances. Newspaper officialists pointed out that humans don't ingest newspapers, but Young retorted that they don't ingest soil, either.

—In January, as New York bus and subway fares rose and municipal budget cuts went into effect, the Transit Authority approved a $50,000 contract for consultant George Kelling to study the relationship between subway station managers and the police officers assigned to the stations.

—The Wilmington (Del.) News Journal reported in January that the Internal Revenue Service's reason for failing to pay 97 tax refunds to Delaware residents is that they are "unable to find" them. However, Alan Levin, son of one Wilmington woman on the list, pointed out his mother's name in the Wilmington white pages. Said IRS spokesperson Harriette M. Williams, the phone book had been used in the past to find people but "is not very fruitful. It's not the most expeditious way of handling it."

—Newsweek reported in December that former White House chief of staff John Sununu so controlled President Bush's agenda that Secretary of Health and Human Services Louis Sullivan had to mail his proposal for a health-care initiative to Bush's post office box in Kennebunkport.

—Singapore's environmental ministry announced in January a crusade against chewing gum. Tourists will be permitted only "a few sticks." Packs will be confiscated, and a fine of up to $6,000 could be imposed on importers. The government called gum a "perennial nuisance" for cleanup workers.

—Last summer, local officials in Collinsville, Ill., discovered that the Comer Deli was not in compliance with health codes because it had only one bathroom for patrons, even though the restaurant seats only 18. Forced to install a second one, owners Ed and Sandy Dawdy put a portable toilet in their front window.

CREME DE LA WEIRD

—In Bloomfield, N.M., in April, Laura Thorpe, 39, who said she was frustrated dealing with physicians about her breast implants, removed them by herself, using a disposable razor on one breast and squeezing until most of the silicone gel came out. She then passed out but came to several hours later and completed the same procedure on the other breast. The next day, a physician removed the bags. Thorpe said her regular doctor told her she had done a good job.

LEAST COMPETENT PEOPLE

—Burglars stole 25 homing pigeons from a Dallas bird sanctuary in January. The birds' trainer told reporters, "This doesn't make any sense," in that the pigeons must always remain caged, or they'll fly back to the sanctuary.

THE DIMINISHING VALUE OF LIFE

—Christopher, 21, was shot to death in September in Staten Island, N.Y., and two other people were wounded in a gunfight that started when one family's dog urinated into bushes on a neighbor's property.

Betsy Layne's Vocational Co-op bridges the gap

Betsy Layne High School is bridging the gap between education and employment through the Vocational Co-op Work Study Program initiated in the school this year.

The program alternates in-school instruction with on-the-job work experience, supervised by the school and the employer. The student's in-school instruction must be as long as their work periods.

Gregory Hall, coordinator of the program at Betsy Layne, instructs the students about such topics as taxes, dealing with the public and co-workers, and how to handle the problems at work. He also monitors grades and counsels the students and their parents if problems arise.

The program prepares students to enter the employment market, teaches them to accept responsibility, and acquire attitudes, skills, and knowledge necessary for success in chosen occupations.

Hall's students are enthusiastic about the new program.

"We learn how to balance a check-book," said Tracy Kidd, who is employed with Brent Clark's Dental Office.

"We're taught how to get along with co-workers," Freddie Hunt, who works for Pic-Pac Food Store, said.

"I'm not shy any more," said Heather Newsome, an employee of North Mayo Drug Store.

"We highly recommend co-op," said Joy Eplin.

The students also said they were glad to receive the extra spending money. They use their money for car payments, gas, and to help out with expenses at home. Some are even saving for college classes.

Hall said he is receiving excellent reports of his student's work. Jeff Mulkey, an employee of World Wide Equipment, will be promoted soon and Michael Hall, an employee of Pizza Hut, is undergoing management training.

A few students even have two jobs. Tracy Kidd works part-time at Clark's Dental Office and at the Subway Shop. Patty Williams works at Stanville Motors and Western Sizzlin; Joy Eplin is employed with Hometown IGA and State Farm Insurance, and Kim Thompson works at Hometown IGA and King Crane Service.

Other students participating in the program and their places of employment are Shelly Adkins, Happy Mart; Delana Boyd, Shear Power; Leroy Burchett, General Contracting; Kimberly Carter, Junior Hut; and Steve Duncan, King's Truck Repair.

Also, Ronnie Hamilton, Hamilton's Grocery; Mike Lewis, Hall Mart BP; Joey Luster, Shepherd's Grocery; Chris Rogers, Velocity Market; Billy Spears, Shepherd's Grocery; Kevin Tackett, McDowell Bestway Market; Theresa Jackson, Wal-Mart; and Darwin Shepherd, Yates Gulf.

Students who are interested in participating in the program should contact Hall, who has a list of businesses who are willing to participate in the program.

Participating businesses do not receive reimbursement for the student's salaries, and Hall said he is very appreciative of their interest in the students.

This pie is for Ms. Hamilton

On Thursday, May 7, Wheelwright High School had a great time by hitting five teachers with a pie. Each student was dying to hit either Ms. Hamilton, Mr. Newman, Mr. Daniels, Mrs. Brown, or Mr. Swiney. The teachers were all good sports. Pictured is Ms. Hamilton getting hit with a pie by Shannon Johnson.

Perfect graduates

Strumming a tune

Mrs. Joan Caldwell shared her talent with McDowell students. Stacy Compton and Angie Case invited Mrs. Caldwell.

Teacher Appreciation Day

The student council at Wheelwright High School presented each member of the staff with a box of candy for Appreciation Day on May 12. Each teacher really appreciated the candy and thanked the student council.

PCC holds 27th Commencement

On a beautiful sunny Sunday, May 10, Prestonsburg Community College held its twenty-seventh annual Commencement Exercises at Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheater.

Presiding for the first time was President Deborah L. Floyd, the first woman ever to serve as president of a Kentucky community college. The commencement speaker was Rod A. Risley, the Executive Director of Phi Theta Kappa International, a scholastic honorary for two year colleges similar to Phi Beta Kappa for four year institutions. In his address, Mr. Risley referred to the fact that Prestonsburg Community College had won all the major awards given in this region; the college chapter was named a Five Star Chapter and was in the top 25 of 1000 chapters.

The college also received two very prestigious awards at the international conference held in Washington. Linda Smith won one award for Distinguished Chapter President and Professor Hassan Saffari won the Giles Distinguished Advisor Award.

Also at that conference Dr. Deborah Floyd was appointed as Kentucky's Ambassador for Phi Theta Kappa.

Following the award ceremony in Washington, Alpha Nu Zeta, PCC's Phi Theta Kappa chapter, was honored in several other ways. Congressman Hal Rogers, who had read the regional awards given to PCC into the Congressional Record, also read a very eloquent speech about PCC's international awards into that record. On the Senate side, Senator Mitch McConnell read a similar proud message into Senate records. In Frankfort, House Majority Floor Leader Greg Stumbo read accolades to the chapter into the House Journal. All awards will be framed and displayed on campus.

During the Commencement Exercises, many scholarships and awards were presented. Jo Evelyn Newman received a Community College award from Morehead State University in the amount of $1000. She is a 1976 graduate of Paintsville High School. Jo was on the Dean's List four semesters and was a member of Phi Theta Kappa Honorary Society. Her major was Elementary Education; she and her husband, Paul, reside in Paintsville.

Catherine Ann Stephens was awarded a $2,500 Regional Honors Scholarship from Morehead State University. Her course of study was mathematics and she maintained a 4.00 grade point average at PCC. A 1969 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, she is the daughter of Isabelle Stephens of Prestonsburg.

The first Phi Theta Kappa transfer scholarship awarded in Kentucky was presented by Morehead State University to Alpha Nu Zeta President Linda Mae Smith. This $4000 scholarship was presented to Linda for her outstanding leadership of the chapter during the past academic year. Dr. Floyd worked to develop this Morehead State University transfer scholarship in her role as Kentucky's Ambassador to Phi Theta Kappa. Linda graduated with a 4.00 grade point average and is a 1966 graduate of Parkersburg High School. Her husband, Paul W. Smith, received a framed honorary membership from Phi Theta Kappa for his outstanding contributions to the Alpha Nu Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. The Smiths now reside in Prestonsburg.

Each year one student from each community college is selected to receive a University of Kentucky Transfer Scholarship. Criteria for this scholarship include academic achievement and leadership. The recipient of this award was Gregory Eugene Conn, a 1990 graduate of Prestonsburg High School currently majoring in Secondary Education. He is the son of Roy and Patsy Conn of Endicott, Kentucky, and was on the Dean's List each semester while attending Prestonsburg Community College.

For the first time in PCC's history, three students were recognized and awarded medals for having completed their degrees with perfect 4.00 averages. They were Catherine Stephens, Linda Heimerman, and Linda Smith.

The recipient of the 1992 Great Teacher Award was Dr. William J. Loftus, Psychology instructor at the college.

Another important award given at the ceremony was the Faculty Assembly Service Award, bestowed upon Mr. Robert M. Conley of Paintsville. Mr. Conley is currently a member of the Big Sandy College Education Foundation Board and served on PCC's Advisory Board for twenty years. Mr. Conley said that "though banking is my vocation, education is my avocation."

This year PCC graduated 231 students with Associate in Arts, Associate in Science or Associate in Applied Science degrees.

McDowell students present On the Road to Jerusalem

The Presbyterian Church of Drift celebrated Maundy Thursday, April 16, by tracing the last scenes along the road to Calvary in the Footsteps of Jesus. In a series of Biblical readings, meditations, songs, interpretive movements, and symbolic objects, the final events of Christ's life were retold.

The scenes retold were as follows: On the Road to Jerusalem (A scene of praise); The Temple (A scene of questions); The Upper Room (A scene of humility); Gethsemane (A scene of prayer); The High Priest's House (A scene of humiliation); Golgotha (A scene of sacrifice); The Tomb (A scene of sorrow); and Outside the Tomb (A scene of life).

The service was led by the Rev. Mary Alice Murray, pastor of the church at Drift. Members who took part in the Bible readings were Pastor Murray, Hugo and Sally Miller, Betty Stickler, Thelma Fugate, Archie Fugate, and Doreen Martin.

Interpretive movements were performed by students of McDowell High School. These movements were performed to the following musical selections: "I Will Build My Temple in You," performed by Shelby Howell and Curtis Hall; "The Lamb of Glory," performed by Susan Sawning, Natasha Allen, Melinda Hamilton, Martin T. Hall, Doug Osborne, and Mark Saylor; "How Beautiful is the Body of Christ," performed by Susan Sawning and Melinda Hamilton. All of these young people are members of the First Baptist Church of McDowell.

Tiffany and Maria Rivera presented the following symbolic objects to the congregation: Palm leaves, the wash bowl and towel, the crown of thorns, the purple robe, the whip, oil, and linen. All of these objects have become symbols in the Christian Church.

Special music was provided by the church organist Susan Compton and Sally Miller.

The service was concluded with the congregation gathering around the Lord's Table and sharing in the symbolic bread and juice as Jesus and His Disciples shared in the Upper Room on the first Maundy Thursday. This day is celebrated by Christian Churches around the world to commemorate the Last Supper of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Refreshments were served in the social room after the closing prayer and the response: "He is Lord."

It's the End of the Road!

No matter where you're headed, when you drink and drive, any road could lead to a dead end. Statistics show that even one drink can impair judgement and reflexes, so all it takes is one driver who's had one drink, to set the scene for tragedy. Make sure your summer has a happy ending...
