Boyd not the target of administrators' complaint to OEA, Francis claims :

State got wrong man, head of association says

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school administrators said Wednesday that the state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA) apparently investigated the wrong school board member in connection with complaints made by administrators to that office.

OEA sent a written response to the administrator's attorney, John David Caudill, and Floyd County superintendent Steve Towler that said the group would be pleased with action taken at the state school board meeting November 4.

At the state board meeting, Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen levied misconduct in office charges against board member Tommy Boyd for statements he made at the September 8 meeting of the Floyd County school board concerning the employment of a certain individual.

School administrators asked OEA last month to investigate allegations that a board member, who has not been identified, threatened administrators with bodily harm; threatened to eliminate their jobs; threatened reprisals for administrators filing lawsuits; and had superseded the superintendent in giving work assignments.

"They don't know what they're talking about," Caudill said Wednesday. "I don't interpret their response as being responsive to my inquiry. My impression of the letter that they sent me is that they thought we were making accusations against Tommy Boyd. That is completely false. It's obvious they are talking about Tommy (in their response). We never had that intent. They obviously didn't follow up on my letter."

Boyd was not named in the response letter from OEA.

Administrator association president Frankie Francis said Wednesday that OEA had not interviewed him during the course of their investigation.

"I was told by the office of accountability that they would investigate it," Francis said. "We brought allegations and they agreed this guy was wrong, but that was not who we were talking about."

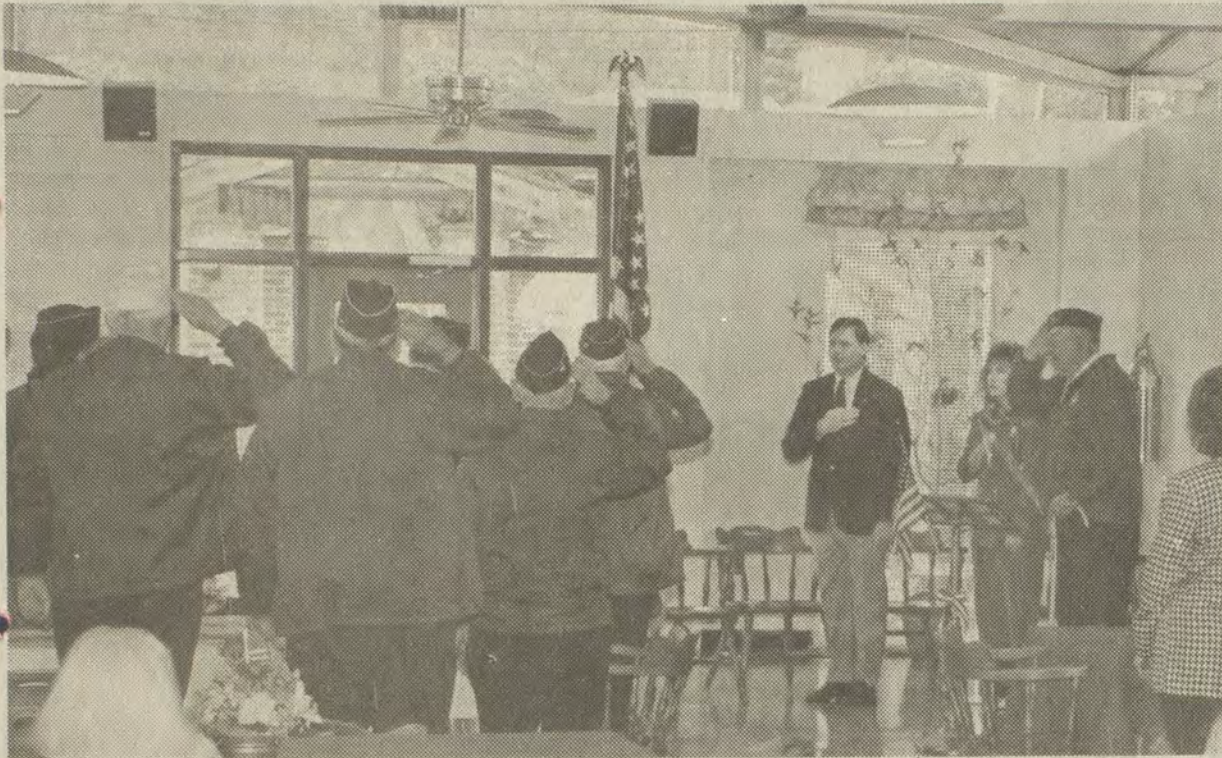

"The (OEA) response said (we) will be very happy with the state board's actions and their actions were to start proceedings to remove Mr.

Boyd," Francis said. "So that pretty much tells us who it is. We are going to respond that that's not the person we have the allegations against."

Francis said the administrators group will not name the board member to OEA.

"We are going to let the office of accountability name (the board member)," Francis said. "If these allegations don't hold true, we haven't

Stumbo renews assault

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

State Representative Greg Stumbo has apparently kept a vow he made last month to Floyd County school administrators to continue his criticism of state Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen.

In an October 23 letter to Floyd County Administration Association president Frankie Francis, Stumbo thanked the group for their support of his earlier criticism of Boysen and vowed "to continue to press the issue."

Stumbo has been criticized himself for his criticism of the education commissioner and the state education department.

Stumbo's letter also said that he had "extreme difficulty" believing that Boysen "is setting an example to be used throughout the state, or that he is performing his job in a proper manner."

Stumbo strongly criticized Boysen in Frankfort Wednesday before a legislative subcommittee on school technology. Stumbo told the committee the state's technology plan was not working because of the lack of leadership from Boysen.

Stumbo's letter to Floyd County administrators was attached to a six-page document, titled "Common Sense for Complicated Times," that was highly critical of Kentucky's Education Reform Act. The letter was mailed from the district's central office to administrators earlier this week along with the announcement of a job opening at a family resource center.

Stumbo could not be reached Thursday to discuss the origin the six-page document with his letter to Francis.

Security contract just extended by board in October :

Guards apparently absent when vandals hit school

by Susan Allen
Staff Writers

Floyd County school officials are trying to get an estimate of damages to the roof at the new Left Beaver High School after the facility was apparently vandalized Halloween night.

Officials are also trying to determine why there was no security on the school construction site when the incident happened.

"I don't know that we have one (night watchman)," buildings and grounds director Frankie Francis said Wednesday. "We don't have security there right now. We're checking the specs out right now to see what it calls for and who's responsible for it."

Construction documents indicate that the school system signed a $56,500 general work contract in January 1990 with B & J Construction Company to provide, among other things, dusk to dawn security at the school site. That original sum was increased by a $71,428.58 change order for a total contract cost of $127,928.58.

The school board voted last month to extend its contract with B & J Construction for an additional six months at a cost of $21,428.58.

"Add six months time to your contract from September 18, 1992 (through) March 18, 1993," the change order said. "All parts of your contract are to be extended and performed as before. Work to be continued includes: provide for security from dusk to dawn, provide sanitary facilities, provide water to the site and provide all garbage removal. All items to be performed at a cost of $3,571.43 per month. This keeps these contractual duties the sole responsibility of one source of liability."

The change order was signed by B & J president, Tom Ed Music, construction manager, Sam Martin Jr. and architect Paul Hoffman.

Francis said Wednesday the secu-

Friday to be Blackcat Day in Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta signed a proclamation yesterday, Thursday, proclaiming Friday, November 13 as Blackcat Day in Prestonsburg.

The proclamation came as a result of the Prestonsburg Blackcat football team reaching the semifinals of the Region 4 playoffs in which they will face the Russell Red Devils tonight at the Prestonsburg stadium.

The proclamation also stated that the city council and the City of Prestonsburg wanted to commend Coach Bill Letton and the high school football team for "their outstanding season" and to recognize their "1992 gridiron successes," and further "to support and back the team in their post-season games."

City blackout

Some Prestonsburg residents were without power for a short time Wednesday night after a transformer malfunctioned. U.S. 23 was closed for over an hour between the branch office of the First Commonwealth Bank and Hardee's restaurant. Officials are not sure what caused the power pole to snap and the transformer to short out. (photo by Susan Allen)

State police, sheriff's office stop robbery before it occurs

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Two juveniles were apprehended Tuesday evening by the Kentucky State Police Special Response Team when they attempted to rob Peggy's Quick Stop on Route 3 near Dewey Dam.

Acting on a tip that the market would be robbed, Kentucky State Police Post 9 officers coordinated a surveillance operation with the Floyd County Sheriff's office, the Paintsville Police Department and the Special Response Team.

At around 8:35 p.m., the juveniles drove into the Quick Stop parking lot and were arrested before they could enter the market. Police found weapons and stocking masks in the suspects' vehicle.

The subjects were captured without injury.

The two were charged with criminal attempt to commit first degree robbery and are currently lodged in the Floyd County Juvenile Detention Center.

The case is still under investigation by the Floyd County Sheriff's office and the Kentucky State Police.

Hoping to make a difference

Local senior citizen directors met Thursday morning in Prestonsburg to finalize plans for events to be held Friday and Saturday in conjunction with "Make A Difference Day," a nationally recognized event for volunteers. Making a difference...

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Volunteers in five counties are preparing to combine their efforts Saturday to call attention to the problem of hungry senior citizens and to celebrate national "Make A Difference Day."

Senior citizen centers and local civic groups are planning activities in the five-county area served by Big Sandy ADD to raise money for the Meals on Wheels program that provides meals to needy senior citizens.

Senior citizen directors from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties met with volunteer coordinator Sandy Williamson from Big Sandy ADD Thursday morning to finalize the agenda of activities taking place Friday and Saturday for the day recognizing volunteers.

"Make A Difference Day" was initiated by "USA Weekend" magazine and is in its second year. The event was started to honor people who do volunteer work in their communities.

"We've had a really good response," Williamson said. "I'm really impressed. If we can help one person who doesn't have a meal and can raise public awareness of the problem of older citizens being hungry, I will feel we will have made a difference."

Area activities are:

- A talent show at Prestonsburg Community College, Saturday beginning at noon and sponsored by the Single Parent Homemakers class.

- A bowl-a-thon at Rebel Lanes Saturday from 1-3 p.m. sponsored by the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center.

- A walk-a-thon at the Wayland Senior Citizens Center Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

- Prestonsburg Dominos Pizza is offering on Saturday one dollar off any pizza in exchange for a minimum one dollar donation to the Meals on Wheels program.

- Senior citizens from Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne and Magoffin County will hold a bake sale November 23 at the Mountain Heritage Arts and Craft Center in Prestonsburg.

Stumbo

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said Tuesday that Stumbo's letter and the essay were "mistakenly" mailed from the district office. "The reply from Mr. Stumbo was to be sent out to all principals by Mr. Frankie Francis, that came to him and he duplicated it," Towler said. "The secretary (apparently) put them in together (with the job announcement) as a postage saving measure knowing both of them included (with the job announcement), but obviously the Floyd County (school) envelope was not supposed to be used for the administrator's information."

"It was a mistake that those two were included (with the job announcement). It was not a mistake that those were to be mailed to the principals. To be perfectly right, he should not use school stamps and he knows that," Towler added.

As for the essay, Towler said it was "coincidental" that it was sent with Stumbo's letter. Towler said the essay had been circulating throughout the state for some time.

Francis said Wednesday the letters were sent because of "a clerical error" and that the essay was given to him by a fellow administrator, whom he declined to identify, and he was asked to "share" it with other administrators.

"It came from Jefferson County and I don't know where it came from originally," Francis said. "I have not read that, I was just asked to share it. No one said this is the way I feel. I'd have to read it before I said anything about it."

The six-page essay of unknown origin is entitled "Common Sense for Complicated Times" and is filled with criticism of Boysen, the state's method for testing students, legislators and teachers.

The essay asks that educators, parents and taxpayers "join together to reclaim our classrooms, our schools and our kids' educations from the San Diego megalomaniacs, the out-of-state philosophers, and the New Hampshire test-makers." It adds that the first-year results of student testing "had to be low" in order to justify KERA.

The document says that "legislators bought the magic elixir from the out-of-state witch doctors (and) called it KERA."

"KERA was largely written to satisfy the meddling of the Pritchard Committee and to distract public attention from the billion dollar tax increase extorted under the guise of educational reform," the essay said. "Prepare yourself for a grass roots rebellion against KERA and its destruction of Kentucky's schools. . .KASA, KASS, KASSP and most notably KEA, were intimidated to silence or too busy posturing themselves for a favorable position in the 'reconstruction following the destruction' to challenge the asinine reform proposals."

At the Wednesday meeting in Frankfort, Stumbo said he had received unsigned letters from educators complaining that education reform was not working and said reform is "an administrative nightmare."

Stumbo also criticized Boysen for hiring Joseph Kirkman, deputy commissioner for school technology. Stumbo referred to Kirkman's prior work record in San Diego, citing that Kirkman "was part of a bankrupt company" which provided technology services to school districts. Stumbo offered no further details.

An audit of Digital Equipment Corporation, which received the contract to construct a statewide computer system, was requested by Stumbo.

Education Department spokesman Jim Parks said Wednesday that the department "welcomes any scrutiny" and that they would provide any information that the legislature requested.

Left Beaver ambulance/ems extends service, adds professional personnel

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Left Beaver Fire Department, Rescue Squad and ambulance/emergency medical service has long been one of the few means of emergency service for Floyd Countians living between Martin and the Floyd/Pike County line at Abner. Now that service will be augmented by a full-time paid ambulance/emergency medical support team.

The ambulance/ems service, formerly all-volunteer, is now staffed by six paid full-time personnel and seven volunteers who will provide back-up on evenings and weekends.

In addition, emergency medical service director Danny Gullett said Monday, two more ambulances have been put into service, helping the Left Beaver ambulance squad to better serve the people of Eastern Kentucky.

The department is a publicly-owned non-profit organization, Gullett said. However, Gullett said, the ambulance service will now have to start billing for services in order to help off-set costs that are not covered by state grants and donations.

The service covers the areas of Route 122 from Martin to Abner; Route 979 from Hi Hat to Harold; certain areas of Right Beaver such as Garrett and Wayland; and all encompassing hollows and tributaries, Gullett said.

The Left Beaver Fire Department, Rescue Squad and ambulance/emergency medical service accepts all donations. For more information, please call 377-6773.

USPS offers good news for express mail customers in Pike and Floyd counties

Effective Saturday, November 14, postal customers who wish to mail Express Mail will be able to reach an expanded zip code range. Due to transportation changes and expansion of the "Eagle Network," the Prestonsburg Post Office can now offer an expansion of this premium service to their customers. Delivery areas are Pikeville, Harold, Betsy Layne, Stanville, Ivel, Banner, Allen, Martin and Prestonsburg.

An additional advantage for customers is a later acceptance time for outgoing Express Mail. Prior to these schedule changes, customers were required to have their Express Mail items at the Post Office by 1 p.m. Because of transportation changes, Express Mail may now be accepted until 2:15 p.m.

Anyone with questions about Express Mail Service, arranging or pick-up of Express Mail at their home or office, opening Express Mail corporate accounts or getting preprinted labels, please call the Prestonsburg Post Office at (606) 886-3080.

Students at the Kentucky Tech Martin County Center are conducting a type-a-thon on Friday. The students will also offer a movie showing for students Friday at 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and are asking for a two dollar donation.

A walk-a-thon will be held by the Martin County Senior Citizens beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday and will also be conducting roadblocks at intersections after the walk-a-thon.

Marrowbone Senior Citizens will have a hot dog sale Friday at the Marrowbone Fire Department from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. On Saturday, the group will have a bake sale at the fire station from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. The center also held a bingo game for the cause Thursday night.

A roadblock will be held Saturday by Elkhorn City Senior Citizens at the redlight in the city from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Pikeville Senior Citizens will have a turkey dinner sale at the center in Meyers Towers Saturday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The student government at Pikeville College will hold a bake sale in front of J.C. Penney and the new Dawahares store in Pikeville from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Johnson County Senior Citizens will have a bake sale in front of the Paintsville Wal Mart from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The group is also participating in the bowl-a-thon at Rebel Lanes in Prestonsburg from 1-3 p.m. The senior citizens center at Douglas Park in Pike County will make a donation to the Meals on Wheels program.

Proceeds from all events will go to the Meals on Wheels program. The groups hope to raise enough funds to feed citizens who are currently on waiting lists.

Anyone wanting to volunteer their services for Saturday or make a donation to the program may contact Williamson at 886-2374.

OEA investigator Steve Yater would not comment on the issue Wednesday, but said that it would be Caudill's decision to publicly release their response.

OEA's response thanked the administrators for continuing to bring these matters to their attention and hinted that further action on their concerns could be taken at the December 4 meeting of the state board in Frankfort. The letter added that if the group had more detailed information on their concerns they should notify OEA.

Local boy makes good

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

He left Prestonsburg on a greyhound bus more than forty-four years ago with thirty cents in his pocket and a head full of dreams—he came back last week in a limousine with a fat roll of hundred dollar bills and a heart full of joy.

Orphaned as a baby, James "Karo" Miller grew up the hard way. A childhood bout with polio left him with a crippled arm and a stigma that was difficult to overcome. Poverty left him with nothing much more than hope.

He didn't let any of that stand in his way.

As a child, he'd walk from his home at Bull Creek all the way to the old Abigail Theatre in downtown Prestonsburg. He'd stand on "Loafer's Corner" with his friends and watch the world go by. And he'd tell his friends that someday he'd make it big... someday he'd realize his life long dream of owning a limousine.

Now he owns two. "There were people in Floyd County that said I'd never make it," Miller laughed, "but I've got it made now."

In 1948, Miller landed in Indiana and immediately began looking for work. Because he could only work with one arm, many businesses were reluctant to hire him. But his persistence won out and he finally landed a job working in a brackeline factory, where he proved that he was not in any way, shape, form or fashion handicapped.

"Just because you're different," Miller says, "that does not mean you can't do the job."

In 1949, Miller moved to Albin, Michigan, where he worked for Corning Glass. In 1976, he moved to Jackson, Michigan and worked all over the state as an equipment operator on construction jobs and on the cross-country pipeline. And he worked hard.

"The foreman would come up to me and ask me if I wanted to work on a Saturday, and I said 'Yes sir,' or he'd ask me if I wanted to work on a holiday and I said 'Yessir....' I worked on a job once seven days a week, 12 hours a day for 21 weeks without a day off.... I never turned work down, because (before) I couldn't get it when I wanted it, when I needed it...."

Then at about the same time he was ready to retire, he hit the lottery.

By the time he had split the lottery money with nine friends, he had enough money to achieve his lifelong dream of buying a limousine. And another. And a couple of cars and trucks. He also has a young, attractive lady chauffeur who drives him all across the country.

Factor in his early social security and retirement pension and Miller has a nice little nest egg to help him usher in his golden years.

"And I hope I live long enough to enjoy every dime of it."

Now he travels, hunts for the best bargains he can find and enjoys life to its fullest.

And, Miller says, "It's the best feeling I've ever had in my life.... There is hope out there for anyone that is willing to go get it."

Child support collection in Kentucky tops $102 million

A record $102 million was collected by Kentucky's child support enforcement program in the 1991-1992 fiscal year, Gov. Brereton C. Jones recently announced.

For the fiscal year that ended September 30, the $102,411,953 in child support payments represents a 25.4 percent increase over the $81.7 million collected last year, and triple the total collected just five years ago.

"Topping $100 million in collections is a milestone," Jones said. "It should send a positive message to families and a warning to deadbeat parents that Kentucky is no longer an easy haven for dodging family obligations."

According to county attorney Jim Hammond, Floyd County is in the upper twenty-five percent of Kentucky counties with an increase in collections. In fiscal year 1991 the child support program collected $323,845.38 compared to $222,259.11 for 1990. This is an increase of 45 percent.

Hammond believes that amount will increase to $500,000 by the end of fiscal year 1992, due in part to a new computer system which tracks deadbeat parents. Floyd County was one of 14 counties in the state which received the system.

Commissioner Mike Robinson, whose Department for Social Insurance oversees Kentucky's child support enforcement program, noted many reasons for the dramatic upswing in collections.

"Awareness, first of all, makes a difference. More publicity and more effective collection techniques are teaching non-custodial parents, usually fathers, that most likely they'll eventually be found...."

"All of these new ... techniques and interstate cooperation boost our collections each year, but the hard fact remains: an estimated $135 million a year in child support owed still goes uncollected," said Robinson.

Teaching by case

Dr. Margaret Lewis, director of Morehead State University's Big Sandy Extended Campus Center, has been selected to participate in a special four-day seminar at Harvard University. Part of the Harvard Graduate School of Education's Programs in Professional Education, the seminar, "Teaching by the Case Method," is scheduled for January 12-16 and will feature former Harvard President Derek Bok as a guest speaker. Case teaching, which uses situations—real or hypothetical—for a problem-solving approach, is becoming one of education's most successful learning tools, according to Harvard officials.

Let your fingers do the talking

by Scott Perry

An organization known as the American Family Association is gearing up to "put the blame where we think it belongs" in a movement to cleanse the airwaves of so-called "trash TV."

The group is encouraging followers to petition TV networks and commercial sponsors to rein in the writers, producers, directors, et al, of programs which portray violence, sex, filth and profanity as regular viewing fare.

The drive suggests that "people at the top" should set and enforce standards for television and movie programming.

However well-intentioned the movement may be, it's aim is most definitely misdirected.

What you see in the movie theatres or on your television screens is not some Hollywood conspiracy to drag "morals" through the gutter, it's the response to public craving.

Ratings decide what does or doesn't last on TV and ticket sales determine the success or failure of films.

Before we point fingers at the entertainment industry for piling this garbage on us, we ought to take a look in the mirror to find the real culprits.

Then we ought to point our fingers at the "off" buttons on our televisions.

That's the best way to make a difference.

Butt out, Wendell

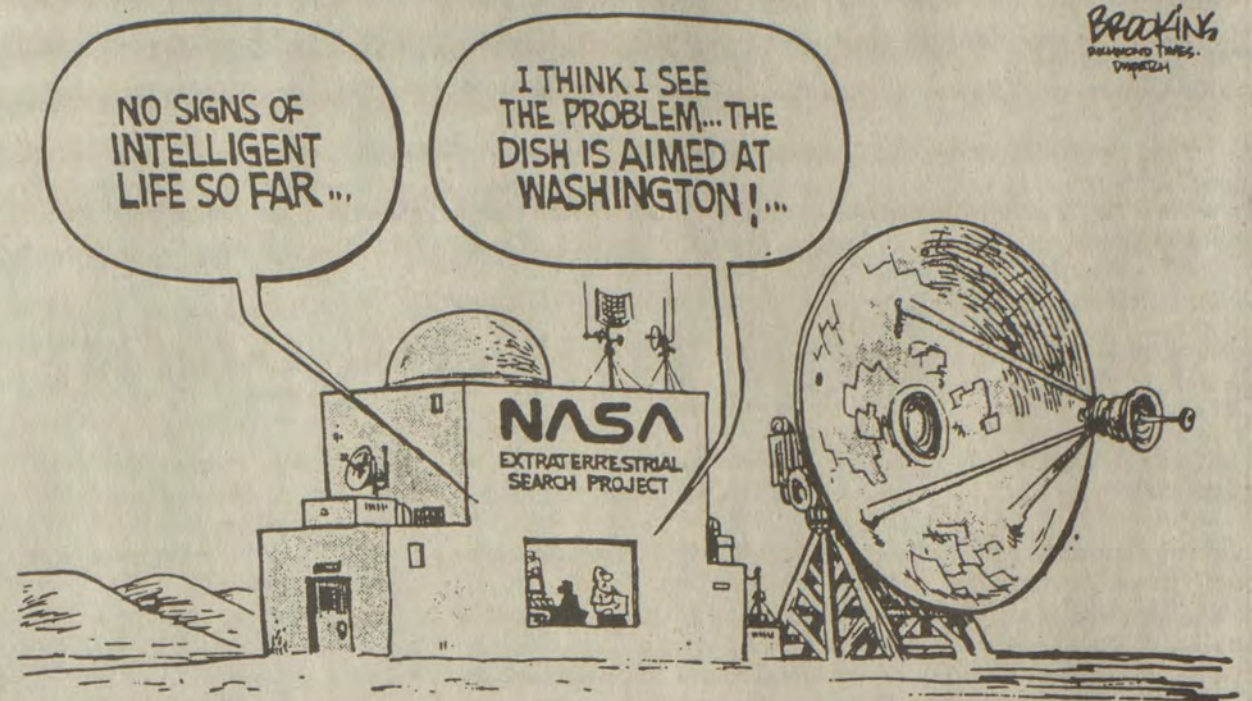

Wendell Ford, U.S. Senator and immensely popular Kentucky statesman, has suggested that there should be no delay in replacing U.S. Attorneys who are currently heading the investigation of influence peddling in the state's General Assembly.

That probe is far from completed; the feds in charge appear to be doing a very respectable job; and it seems only fair that they should be allowed to finish what they started.

Perhaps Mr. Ford should yield in this matter to the advice of a much more prominent Kentucky statesman...

"I have found that it is not best to swap horses when crossing a stream..."

Land of recycled

Editor:

While driving around Floyd County last week, I was amazed at the clean highways. After coming back on 1428, I found the usual roadside litter.

I see people out with plastic bags cleaning up the trash left by the night-time dumpers.

Pride is something you learn when you grow up. Something I was taught by my parents. I somehow assumed (as I did the same to my children during their younger years) everyone else was doing the same. Now to take a look at the waters and the roadside littered with debris, I am convinced God must surely be ashamed of us all. We in the U.S. have so much and yet we do not appreciate it.

I am reminded of a poem I learned in sixth grade at Grapevine Grade School, Phyllis, Kentucky. My teacher was Alec Reynolds.

Plaint of a Morning Walker
Oh, say can you see by the dawn's early light
The piles of debris
That were thrown here last night?
Above, the flag flutters
Broad stripes and bright stars
Below, all of clutter
Tossed out of the cars.

Bottle, box, beer can,
Descending like rain
From far purple mountain
To near fruited plain.
Oh, say, shouldn't we Start recycling to save the land of the free
And the home of the brave?

I did change the recycling part but I am sure my teacher won't mind.

Rogers pledges to continue to move of region

Editor:

Last Tuesday, Americans were able once again to exercise a privilege that has made this country the greatest on earth: the privilege of choosing the leaders for their country and community.

I want to say thank you to those who extended their vote of support to me. I have a sincere appreciation of the responsibility you have given me, and I pledge to do my best.

This election has meant many things to many people, but the most important thing is that the future of Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky was put above politics. Now, we must join together and work to move our region forward.

Our part of Kentucky has many needs: more jobs, health care for all, the opportunity with I-66, flood control, safe drinking water — needs that you have indicated, by your vote, are above politics. Thus, our work is just beginning.

When the campaign started last January, I could not have imagined the warmth and hospitality extended to me by my new friends in the new Fifth District. Likewise, the support and trust given by my friends in the "old" Fifth District was truly humbling. Both of these occurrences were, to me, the best and most important events in the campaign, and my thanks is not enough.

I want every person in the Fifth District to know that I appreciate their support and efforts for both myself and my opponent. Your participation in the election process is what makes our country great. I pledge to each of you that I will continue, as I have done the last 12 years, to do everything I can to make the quality of life and the hope for opportunity the best they can be.

Member of Congress

One answer to welfare trap

While the presidential candidates gave lip service to welfare reform, New York state was doing something about it. A unique experiment in seven counties could become the model for a nationwide system.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children, administered jointly by the federal government and localities, was set up in the 1930s to provide support for families in which the breadwinner had died and the mother was expected to stay home with the children.

Today, most client families consist of a young mother with children abandoned by a father in a society accustomed to seeing single mothers go to work. Yet, AFDC still discourages mothers from seeking jobs by reducing benefits, dollar for dollar of earned income. The system commits young mothers and babies to long-term dependency.

Other states have taken a harsh approach to reform: sharply cutting benefits or refusing to increase benefits when additional children are born. But New York officials have devised a program with sensible inducements.

The Child Assistance Program, or CAP, begun as an experiment in 1988, offers mothers only two-thirds of the AFDC benefit. But it allows them to keep 90 percent of their earnings, up to the federally designated poverty level. After that, she may keep 33 cents of every dollar earned, until she reaches 150 percent of the poverty level. At that point, her benefits end.

Apparently without increasing costs to taxpayers, CAP has caused more welfare mothers to find jobs, raise their total earnings and get child support orders.

The new Clinton administration can be expected to revive serious interest in welfare reform. If given the chance to succeed in a big city, the CAP program could make an important contribution. — The New York Times, a guest editorial in the Lexington Herald-Leader.

Honoring those who died

Veterans Day had special significance this year. It came right after an election in which Bill Clinton's efforts to avoid the draft during the Vietnam War were a major issue. And it comes as the government of Vietnam is cooperating as never before with U.S. efforts to account for Americans who never returned from Southeast Asia.

Today is also the tenth anniversary of the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, Washington's most visited monument — and for a while its most controversial.

The wall of names has done more to heal the spiritual wounds and social divisions of that unpopular war than anyone could have imagined in 1982. It is a place where grown men can weep without embarrassment.

The Korean war was unpopular, too, of course, but most Americans were too young to remember it, and those who do know that it ended, if not in victory, at least not in defeat.

Vietnam was a defeat. After U.S. forces pulled out, after 58,183 Americans died, our side — the Republic of South Vietnam — fell to the Communists.

Nothing can alter that fact. But the wall of names wasn't erected to honor a war. It honors those who were called on to serve, and who did serve, and who died.

Whatever we think of that war, whatever the judgment of history, they deserve that honor.

KSP gets chunk of coal for bagging 'King of Christmas'

Editor:

We want Marlow! The Kentucky State Police Detachment Post Nine, Pikeville, Ky., successfully captured a well-known country performer, country gentleman first-class Marlow Tackett.

The KSP lieutenant led the military column of more than 20 police cruisers to the Children's Christmas Palace. Dozens of well-dressed troopers were everywhere.

Mr. Tackett has been apparently accused and charged of selling alcohol.

Ladies and gentlemen, Marlow did not do anything wrong. He doesn't sell alcoholic beverages or even partake of the spirits.

Tens of thousands of people who have frequented his establishment can certainly attest to the fact that Marlow sells Pepsi, 7-Up, Diet Pepsi, orange juice, and has a limited menu in his kitchen. Nothing else!

There was no escape for that former Nashville recording artist. His fans had him cornered inside, demanding that he go on stage while the Post Nine commander's task force (large enough to protect Gov. Brereton Jones and Lt. Gov. Paul Patton) had him surrounded on the outside.

Our Sheriff "Fuzzy" Keesee already had one of Pike County's "finest" stationed there, providing Marlow's clientele with the best representation available from the sheriff's department.

Poyster Keene has worked the Eastern Kentucky nightspot for approximately three years. Mr. Keene has publicly stated that he has never observed alcoholic beverages for sale at Marlow's, ever!

You would think that our Sheriff "Fuzzy" would have arrested the county entertainer on the spot if such illegal offenses would have taken place.

From what I can see, it looks as though the Kentucky ABC and the Kentucky State Police have a complete total disregard for the sheriff department's integrity.

I think "Fuzzy" and "Poss" need to give them a crash course in law enforcement, and teach them how to go out and catch a "real" criminal.

Why would it take at least 20 cruisers with a minimum of two officers each to apprehend Eastern Kentucky's "King of Christmas"?

I know President-Elect Clinton wanted to increase law enforcement personnel, but personally I think the Post Nine commander just got a little excited.

Treated like a common criminal, Marlow Tackett was falsely arrested without being read his rights! One of the officers in charge detained Mr. Tackett outside in the rain until he got his executive command to transport him to the "Hall of Justice."

Arrested for selling alcohol that was never sold. This could quite well turn out to be the capture of the decade. A friend's "friend" to Pike Countians everywhere.

If such efforts were taken to put the child molesters in prison and to put food on the tables of needy families, we could be proud of our law enforcement leadership!

To give a man honor and dignity is above all things.

I think public apologies are in order to one of Eastern Kentucky's most publicly-recognized humanitarians.

State says Magoffin is only county without waste management plan

A state official said Tuesday that Magoffin County is the only one of Kentucky's 120 counties that doesn't have a solid-waste management plan ready for public review and will likely miss a January 1 deadline.

The county's garbage planning has been held up for more than a year because of controversy over a proposed 300-acre dump, which could take out-of-state waste. The county has no landfill that will meet the state's new requirements.

The state might have to write the county's plan, said Vicki Pettus, local-assistance manager in the Division of Waste Management, because Magoffin Fiscal Court is deadlocked over the issue.

Each county was to have submitted the first phase of its waste plan by October 1991, but the state repeatedly sent Magoffin County's back for corrections. Eventually, the state told the county to go straight to the second, more technical phase of the planning process.

Pettus said the public must be given 30 days to comment on the phase-two plan before it can be submitted to the state.

Patty Arnett, president of the group that opposed the landfill and a magistrate, said that the advisory committee "has had a lot of public input on its plan." Magistrate Hassell Gullett, who has consistently voted for the dump, said the county has a contract with Eastern Kentucky Resources, a Florida-based company which has proposed the dump, and he cannot approve the other plan.

Judge dismisses ex-miner's suit against CBM Mining over firing

A former Martin County coal miner's lawsuit accusing CBM Mining Inc. of discrimination has been dismissed by an administrative law judge who questioned the miner's credibility and found that the suit "has nothing to do with mine safety or health issues."

The former miner, Roy Lee Stroud of Debord in Martin County said he was fired in January 1991 for reporting safety violations, then beaten up by company officials when he tried to collect his last paycheck.

Stroud's attorney, Tony Oppgaard of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund said he will appeal the decision to the Mine Safety and Health Review Board.

Jury finds Williamson man not guilty of rape

After 12 minutes of deliberation Monday, a jury found a Williamson, West Virginia man not guilty of raping and sodomizing the 16-year-old girlfriend of his son.

William Stacy, 37, went on trial recently on charges of first-degree rape and first-degree sodomy before Pike County Circuit Court Judge Bayard V. Collier.

The victim testified that she and Stacy's son were living together at her aunt's home at Hardy when Stacy came for a visit during the morning. The victim said Stacy knocked on the door, came in and started making sexual advances toward her.

Testimony by KSP Detective Kenneth Slone indicated that Stacy told investigators that the incident never occurred, then later said that he and the victim did engage in sexual activity, but that it was consensual.—Appalachian News Express, Pikeville

LET'S HELP REBUILD THE LIVES THEY WOULD HAVE GIVEN

We send the members of our armed services into battle in unavoidable situations, knowing with sad hearts that many of them will not return home. There are, however, others who will, for although they have risked their lives for us they did manage to survive; even though in some cases with permanent disabilities. Let us never forget what we owe them for what they have done for us. We must give them every possible advantage in the way of job opportunities, housing, education and all the things they will need in order to resume their place in our society. We should also thank the Lord at our House of Worship for their safe return, and pray for their future well-being. It is incumbent upon us to do whatever we can to help them reconstruct their lives, which they were prepared to sacrifice for the preservation of our freedom.

Floyd records state's highest loss of veterans

Floyd County posted the highest percentage of veterans lost between the 1980 and 1990 Census with -28.6 percent or 1,240 fewer veterans in the area, according to reports released in October.

In 1980, the Census recorded Floyd County's veteran population as 4,342. According to the 1990 Census, the population was down to 3,102. A breakdown of figures indicate that 2,574 Floyd Countians served during war and 528 are peacetime veterans. Approximately 953 veterans served during the Vietnam War, 597 during the Korean Conflict, and 1,110 during World War II.

According to the Census, 77 Floyd County veterans are women, eight of whom are age 65 or older. Among the male veterans, 804 are 65 years of age or older.

The 1990 Census Data on military veterans in Kentucky was released in October through the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). The Census credits Kentucky with a total of 375,782 veterans. These numbers do not include the Persian Gulf Conflict. One out of every four Kentucky veterans (26 percent or 97,816) are 65 years of age and over.

Berea College lauds Floyd County native

The Berea College Board of Trustees has cited a David native for his efforts in enabling the College to successfully complete a $65 million capital campaign.

At its October meeting, the Trustees singled out Rod Bussey, vice president for alumni relations and development, and members of his alumni association, development and public relations staffs for spearheading the five-year Berea Vision fundraising effort. The campaign goal of $65 million actually was reached April 30, two months ahead of schedule. By its conclusion date of June 30, gifts and pledges totaled $70,032,520.

It is the largest college fund-raising effort in Kentucky history.

A major achievement of the campaign was the $8.2 million renovation of Hutchins Library and addition of a new Computer Center to the library. Funds also were obtained for computer equipment and the automation of library services. The complete project was dedicated in ceremonies last January.

Also successfully funded was the $800,000 apartment complex for married students.

Among other goals met were $8 million for a faculty/staff salary improvement effort; $3 million for student financial aid; $1 million for an endowed professorship in Black and Appalachian Studies, and $1 million for the creation of innovative educational programs.

As part of the five-year campaign, the college also raised $15.7 million for current budget support.

Bussey, a 1963 Berea alumnus who has headed the college's fund-raising efforts since 1984, noted that among the keys to the campaign's success were thousands of small donations. He said 70 percent of the approximately 80,000 gifts were $100 or less and reflected an average gift of $27.

"The importance of the campaign's success is underscored when you consider Berea's mission," he added. "The college does not charge students tuition and financial need is a requirement for admission."

Promotion for the campaign was headed by Ed Ford, public relations director who has family roots in Prestonsburg. Other Berea College employees with Floyd County ties are Dr. Paul Hager, associate dean for academic affairs; Dr. Joyce (Joy) May Hager, physical education and health chairperson; John Cook, admissions director and a 1960 Berea alumnus, and Martin May, personnel and training director.

A private liberal arts college, Berea has received national recognition for its student work program and its mission to educate residents of the Southern Appalachian region. All students work 10-15 hours per week in a College job in addition to carrying a full academic load and 80 percent of the students come from Appalachia.

U.S. News & World Report magazine, in its annual higher education survey, ranks Berea third among the South's best colleges and universities. Money magazine also has recognized Berea as one of eight "unbeatable deals" in American higher education.

Adkins, Fugate to wed

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Adkins of Ashland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Raye Adkins, to Bryan Todd Fugate, son of Homer Fugate and Sharon Fugate, both of Winchester.

Miss Adkins is a graduate of Boyd County High School and the University of Kentucky. She is presently a third-year medical student at the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine where she is a member of the American College of General Practitioners and Delta Omega.

Mr. Fugate is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School. He is presently a senior at Eastern Kentucky University majoring in Occupational Therapy. He is a member of Phi Theta Epsilon and the American Occupational Therapy Association.

He is employed by Huntington Physical Therapy and Sports Rehabilitation at the Worker's Occupational Rehabilitation Center.

He is the grandson of Sarah

Combs, of Winchester, formerly of Prestonsburg, and the late Herbert Combs.

The wedding will be held December 19 at 2:30 p.m. at the Rose Hill Baptist Church in Ashland.

Girl Scout movement stresses core values

Women are challenged today with many demands on their time. Whether at the office, on the road or at home, women are faced each day with making countless decisions that affect not only their own lives, but the lives of their families as well. There is more pressure today on women than ever before to assess situations and respond to them quickly. Fortunately, there is an organization available to girls in Kentucky—and in most parts of the world—to help them learn, among other things, responsible decision-making. That organization is the Girl Scouts.

The Girl Scout movement offers girls opportunities to build their self-esteem, contribute to the world around them, and become vital, active citizens in their communities. The opportunities offered to girls in the Girl Scouts are rooted in values such as fairness, self-respect, community service, and high standards of conduct. These core values are what set Girl Scouting apart from other social or recreational organizations for girls. In essence, they make Girl Scouting unique.

To make Girl Scouting more accessible to girls in Appalachia, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. has received a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to establish the National Center for Innovation—Appalachia (NCI-A). The center is not a place, but a moving entity of activity. It is a team of caring, Girl Scout professionals, whose aim is to help local Girl Scout councils extend new opportunities to girls within their communities. In Eastern Kentucky, the team is reaching girls in over 14 counties, including Floyd. Belinda Calendine, a former field executive with Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council in Lexington, is the project director.

Calendine, who was born and reared in Pikeville, has a personal as well as a professional interest in the NCI-A project. "They didn't have Girl Scouts at my school when I was growing up, and I only lived five miles from downtown." As a result, she is eager today to change the status quo and make Girl Scouting a reality for any girl who wants it.

She is currently working on two projects in conjunction with Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council that she hopes will interest area girls. The first one is a drop-in center at the Housing Authority in Pikeville. "I've met with the director of the Housing Authority, John Pinson, and the Resident's Initiative coordinator, Marsha Rosado," said Calendine, "and they are in the process of organizing a Resident's Committee in each complex to make sure that parents are aware of the programs available to their children...and Girl Scouting is going to be one of those programs, beginning this month." The benefits of the drop-in center are twofold: It gives girls the chance to participate in Girl Scout activities, and it provides parents with alternative child care in the afternoon.

The second project, which is being piloted at Sheldon Clark High School in Inez, is called "The Breakfast Club." The Breakfast Club will respond to what Calendine sees as one of the most important issues affecting the future of the girls in Eastern Kentucky: the wage gap. "So much of the time," says Belinda, "women here only get minimum wage jobs. There are exceptions to this, of course, but the majority of women find it very difficult to find gainful employment where they can support their families and gain self-satisfaction." The Breakfast Club, which is an all-girl, before-school meeting, will introduce girls to traditional and non-traditional careers as well as opportunities for community involvement. "We hope that being exposed to some of these things will help girls take advantage of the educational opportunities available to them," Calendine said.

Because Floyd County has such a strong Girl Scout program, Calendine said, they weren't part of this year's grant funding. Girl Scout leaders are targeting an area around the Grethel-Mud Creek communities to develop a program for next year's project.

Edward Newsome, 63, of Vermilion, Ohio, formerly of Dana, died Sunday, November 8, at his residence.

Born July 23, 1929 in Dana, he was the son of the late James and Arlene Akers Newsome. He was a retired repairman, formerly employed by the Ford Motor Company, Lorain, Ohio. He was a U.S. Army Korean War Veteran and a member of the United Auto Workers Union, Local 425, Lorain, Ohio.

Survivors include his wife, Betty Rose Conn Newsome; one son, Gerald Newsome of Vermilion; two daughters, Deloris Adams of Fremont, Ohio, and Janet Perrier of North Ridgeville, Ohio; one sister, Geneva Boyd of Dana; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Friday, November 13, at 10 a.m., at the Little Salem Regular Baptist Church at Dana, with the Clergyman Larry Newsome officiating.

Burial will be in the Conn Family Cemetery at Dana under the direction of Hall Funeral Home.

Fitzpatrick named to Executive Task Force

A Floyd County man was among 11 individuals appointed to an Executive Task Force on Historic Preservation, a body created during the 1992 session of the Kentucky General Assembly.

Frank Fitzpatrick of Prestonsburg was recently appointed as an at-large member of the task force. Fitzpatrick said he believes he was chosen because, "I'm quite a bit interested in preservation. The officials in Frankfort know of my involvement with historical preservation and (particularly) the Middle Creek battlefield. I've been the guiding light of that."

For about two years Fitzpatrick has worked to gain state and national recognition for the Civil War battlefield which is located near the junction of Middle Creek and David roads. Recently the site was named a national historic landmark.

The task force will recommend programs and legislation to ensure the state stays ahead of the pack on national historic preservation efforts. The group is to submit its findings to Governor Brereton Jones and the Legislative Research Commission by July 1, 1993. Members will meet monthly beginning this month until the report is submitted. All meetings are open to the public.

Fitzpatrick said that "Not only will I make sure Eastern Kentucky is well-represented on the task force, but my efforts would include looking at historical sites throughout the state.

"Hopefully, I'll be able to contribute quite a bit to the task force."

Presents paper

Eileen Lewandowski, Communications Professor in the Humanities Division of Prestonsburg Community College, presented a paper entitled "Case Study of a Tributary Culture—The Appalachian Culture—Empowerment, Political Awareness, and Public Party." The paper was presented at a seminar called "A New Agenda in Intercultural Communications" and was held in conjunction with the Annual Speech Communication Association Conference in Chicago.

Community Calendar

Editor's Note: As a service to the many clubs and committees that meet in our community, the Floyd County Times' Community Calendar will post meeting and public service announcements. Articles for the Community Calendar must be submitted in writing to the Times no later than 5 p.m. Monday for Wednesday's publication or 5 p.m. Wednesday for Friday's publication. These cannot be taken over the telephone.

Walk-A-Thon

Big Blue Crush

The fifth annual battle for blood between the Kentucky and Tennessee blood centers takes place November 16-20. Last year's competition ended in a tie. Just one more donor would have tipped the scale. It just goes to show you that every single donation counts. All donors will receive a free t-shirt, sticker and Pepsi. Donate blood at the donor centers in Lexington, Prestonsburg, Somerset or Hazard or at a mobile blood drive in Fleming, Estill, Montgomery or Breathitt counties to ensure blood is available over Thanksgiving by donating.

Smoked turkeys for sale

Our Lady of the Mountains School in Paintsville is going to smoke turkeys again. They can be ordered through November 15. The 10-12 lbs. birds will cost $35 and will be home delivered the weekend before Thanksgiving. OLMS smokes only fresh, not frozen, turkeys. After delivery they taste great cold or warm, and they are just as good when you put them in the freezer and use them later. Call 789-3661 or 789-7184

Homecoming

Martin Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate homecoming on November 13 and 14 at 6 p.m. and November 15 at 11 a.m. Special singers and preachers will be there. Everyone is welcome

Adoption reception

There will be an adoption reception at the Floyd County Library, Prestonsburg, on November 20, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. to help celebrate Adoption Awareness Month. The reception is for all families who are interested in adoption and those who have adopted a child(ren). The guest speaker will be Amy Christensen, president of the Big Sandy Adoption Support Group, A.D.O.P.T.

Conservation district meeting

The Floyd County Conservation District will meet Tuesday, November 17, at 3:15 p.m. in the district office at 37 South Lake Drive.

Christmas Bazaar

There will be a Christmas Bazaar on Friday, November 13 and Saturday, November 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Victory Christian Ministries on Court Street in Prestonsburg. There will be crafts, cookies, candy and jewelry.

Writers Reading

"Writers Reading" will air on WPRG-TV 5 at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Monday, November 16. The host of the show will be Ernestine Collins with special guest Dr. Mark F. Sohn. This is a literary program with poems, short stories, etc.

Akers to assist families

Eugene Akers, a state service officer for the Department of Kentucky, Disabled American Veterans, will be upstairs in the Floyd County Courthouse on Saturday, November 14, at 2 p.m. to assist veterans and their dependents with claims due as a result of military services.

World War II Revisited

On November 17, from 6:30-8:30 p.m., Johnson Building 102, PCC is having a meeting on "shared experiences" with the people of the Big Sandy Valley to share what they were doing during the Fall of 1942. The meeting is free, and everyone is welcome to attend.

Adoption Awareness Month

Meet other adoptive families and see what you can learn from and share with each other on Saturday, November 14, at 10 a.m., at St. Martha's Catholic Church on Watergap Road. The children can meet others who were adopted like themselves and play together while the adults meet.

Young Authors

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly wish to feature the student work of Nathaniel Blackburn, a first grade Young Authors' winner from Goldie Hamilton's class at Betsy Layne Elementary. He is the son of Lance and Ann Blackburn of Stanville. His picture book, Captain Lance and the Flying Pigs is printed with permission.

He was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1991-92 school year for his book. He received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Over 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

His book and all county-wide winners may be viewed in the display, November 16-25, at the Floyd County Library.

Nat Blackburn
Captain Lance
and the Flying Pigs

by Nat Blackburn

The creature
It started out in a barn with some pigs that wanted to fly. And right then some kind of creature came and made them fly.

It gave them all purple wings.
The wings looked very good on them. And then they started to fly.

They flew so fast they got out of control.
They went to the moon.

Captain Lance was there.
A little while after that the pigs found him.

The pigs made him fly, but...they didn't give him wings.

They took him to the stars. They landed on the sun.

They all said, "Pay us 500,000 dollars for some wings."

"O.K. I'll give it to you," Captain Lance said.

"Where is it?" the pigs said.
He got a piece of paper.

It said I.O.U.
He said, "Let me go to earth to get my money."

He went to earth to get his money. But he found a magician. He took the magician to the sun. The magician got the wings away from the pigs. As soon as he got the wings away from the pigs they got burned up.

They left the pigs on the sun.

Captain Lance said, "I'm sorry for the pigs. You are a magician, make them alive again. I want to take them back to earth."

So the magician made them alive again and they brought the pigs back to earth.

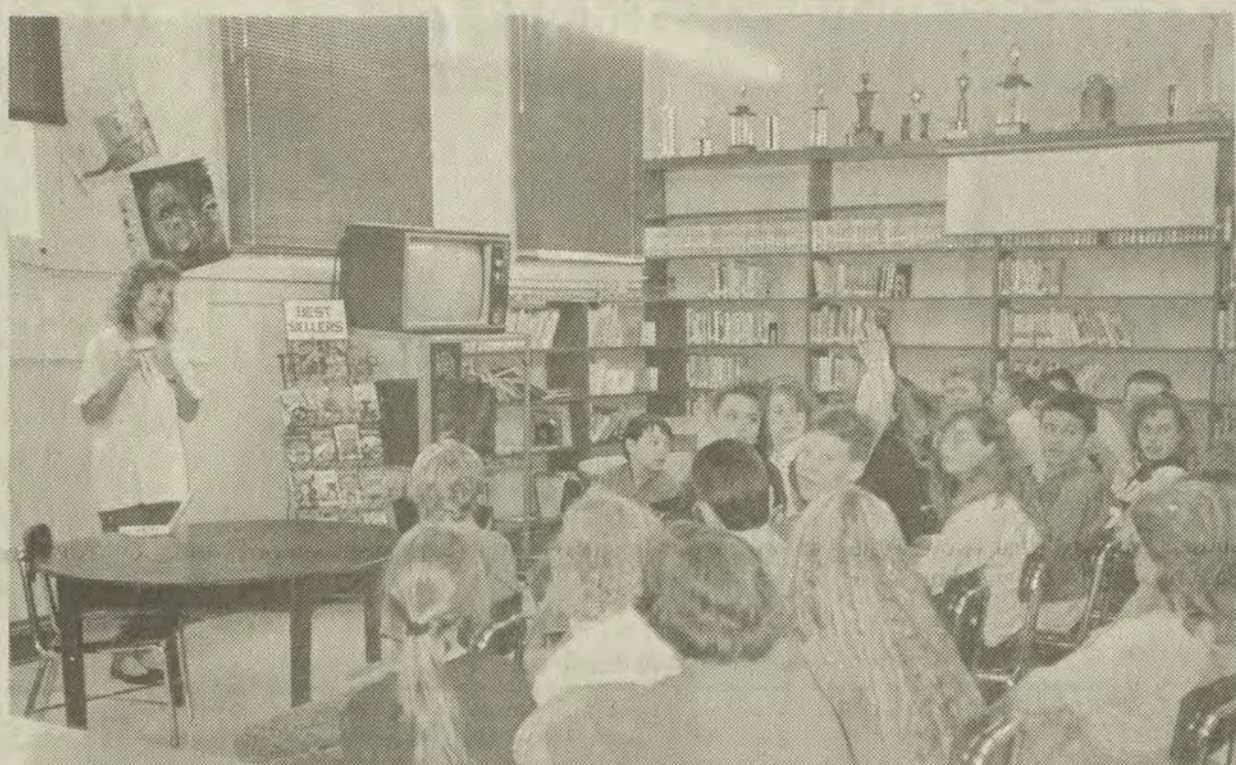

They put the pigs back in the barn and the pigs never wanted wings again.

Home again.

Mock election

Joe Bolton conducted a mock presidential election, October 30, with a compact computerized voting machine. This concluded the election unit being studied by sixth, seventh, and eighth graders of Maytown Elementary. Clinton won there also.

Drug Awareness Week

Lola Brashear, Floyd County Drug coordinator, conducted a program on alcohol and drug abuse for the sixth, seventh, and eighth graders of Maytown Grade School recently. The program was sponsored by The Family Resource Center.

Champions

Betsy Layne High School, which has Kentucky's largest chapter of Champions Against Drugs, held a rally October 25-31 featuring many of their talented students. In the foreground are Garland Rogers and Chris Lafferty performing. "Whiskey Ain't Workin' Anymore" and "Low Places" are popular country songs among adults and teens alike right now. Champions Against Drugs sponsor Reba Justice would like to make just as well-known the reality that drugs and alcohol can leave adults and young people alike in "Low Places." The 30-minute program highlighted BLHS students singing and performing popular songs that had the themes of "quitting" or "giving up" such as "Anymore" and "Wipe-Out." Students performing at the rally were David Clevinger, Chris Lafferty, Joey Newsome, Garland Rogers, Eric Richards and Steve Sturgill.

A B Cs OF EDUCATION

by Jennifer Little

In a past column we discussed the nature of children's problems - being neglected out of ignorance or rejection by the parents. It is more than dealing with the problems at home for the child. It is dealing with the social systems that perpetuate the difficulties of their lives at home. The children must deal with the stresses and strains of daily growing up, the lessons of perceiving right from wrong, dealing with rejection by peers and adults, dealing with themselves as successful or unsuccessful students.

Children of all families need successes in their lives to feel good about themselves. Success only comes from achieving something on their own. Do you remember when you climbed the mountain in the back yard (even if it was just a dirt pile)? Do you remember the joy of discovering words on a written page which gave you "secret" information just by reading them? Do you remember the feeling of power and success when you made a 100% on a spelling test or some other test at school?

How many children are prepared for school successes? Not many, according to many educational experts. That is why we have kindergarten and preschools for disadvantaged children. That is why we have free breakfast and lunch programs so children can have the nutritional foundation for learning. That is why we have integration and bussing and all the other changes that have occurred in schools during the last century.

What we need now are people to care about the children from the moment they are born to the time they blossom into adults. Those people used to be parents, at least in the Father Knows Best and Dick Van Dyke shows. In reality, those people have been the teachers the children have encountered as they grew up.

Sometimes a kindly neighbor took a child under their wing and taught them carpentry, sewing or some other skill, but usually the caretaking jobs have been for parents and teachers.

What happens when teachers are so overloaded that they cannot care enough for the child who needs? Nothing, as far as the child is concerned. We teachers need help from parents who care, not just for their children but for all children. We need you to empathize with a child, listen to a child, help the child grow from the "seedling" into the adult. We need parents who care.

You care for children by clothing them, feeding them, listening to them. You care for them by teaching them right from wrong, by showing them the wonders around them in the woods and streets. You care for them by honoring their choices in friends, in clothing, in food preferences. You show them how to be an adult who is kind, loving and accepting of all differences, regardless of their educational, social or income backgrounds. You are the ones who make a difference to children of all ages. You are the ones to be commended for helping the children around you grow. Show yourself how good you are. Recognize yourself for your accomplishments. See how much your child or neighborhood children care for you by talking with you and sharing their daily treasures with a trusted ally. Show them you care about them and yourself by being honest and sincere in the praise and recognition you both earn.

Give yourself a treat-- share your time with yourself and a "special person," hopefully a child. Share that basic part of you that loves others, regardless of age, shape, size, color, or beliefs. Show your true colors-- the colors of love for children-- in everything you do. Then you will recognize what you have become because of others who have cared for you.

It is a cycle of the ages to care for the old, infirm and the young. You have achieved much when you see the power of your abilities in caring for either end of the life cycle. Congratulate yourself, dear reader, for you have done one or the other or both at the same time. You are a kind and gentle person who loves and cares. Show yourself and others. Care often. Smile and change a life today.

Acrobats and magic thrill BL students

Mrs. Teresa Frazier and Ms. Sheila Ortega recently took their fifth and sixth grade classes at Betsy Layne Elementary to Pikeville College to see the Chinese Golden Dragon Acrobats and Magicians of Taipei.

Talent was displayed by acts such as plate spinning, high unicycle juggling, balancing bowls, stacking chairs while climbing on top of each one, gymnastic balancing, trick cycling, comedy, and much more. Their many talents were incredible and breathtaking.

The students were fascinated during the entire program. They were also impressed by the exotic wardrobe of the Chinese performers.

Muscles and brains

The fourth graders at Mountain Christian Academy are currently working on a Health project called "My Body." The students have studied several parts of the human body and the function of each. As each part of its function is studied, the students color, cut-out, and paste the particular body part to a life size human outline that was made from each student's own body. The brain, heart, pancreas, gall bladder, spleen, bone, muscle, and kidneys have all been completed. Pictured are, first row, Matthew, Terry Dotson, and Nora Traum. Second row, Ashley Leslie, Jennifer Cole, Leigh Ann Hale, and Kristin Dotson. Third row, Kayla Doernie, Scott Howell, David Harris and Michelle Honeycutt.

MCDOWELL ACADEMIC TEAM OFF TO A FINE START

The McDowell High School Academic Team is off to a fine start for the 1992-93 school year. The team consists of the following members: Lisa Hobson, Steve Hall, Curtis Hall, Doug Hall, Amy Carter, Chris Cornett, Ryan Jones, Brad Moore, Penelope Pajel, Eric Reid, Misty Shepherd, and Jamie Short. The team is coached by Bobby Allen who is starting his sixth year as the coach.

So far this year the team has had four meets and has a record of seven wins and five losses. The highlight of the young season according to Jamie Short was the match that was held on October 31. According to Jamie, "The academic team won everything hands down. They came home being first in quick recall and blew away everyone else in the written assessment."

I wanted to get a feel for the camaraderie that exists between individual team members and the rapport that Mr. Allen has with team members.

I asked Mr. Allen why he enjoys this activity so much (you can tell he really enjoys it by his reactions to the students). This is what he had to say:

"First of all I always stress academics. I feel that it is really important for students to be involved academically with activities other than their basic school work. I'm a competitive person. I like to win. If I didn't enjoy working with young people, I wouldn't do it."

I asked team member Jamie Short what was the appeal of the academic team. She answered by saying, "I believe the major appeal of being on the team is using it for college application. Four years of extra-curricular academics looks really good on a college application. Many students enjoy the competition—the way it feels to see defeat in another team-mates eyes."

The questions on the quick recall practices and games cover a wide range of subjects. Two of the questions asked at this particular practice included (1) What dormant stage occurs between the larvae and the adult stages of complete metamorphosis? and (2) What two Middle Eastern countries fought a brutal war between 1981 and 1988?

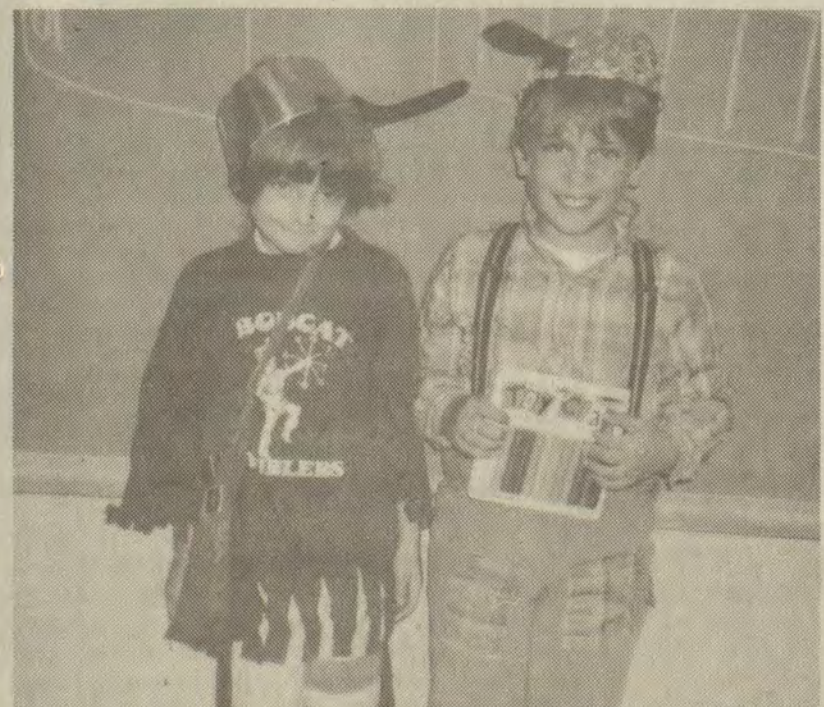

Indian culture

Peggy Davis, instructor of Pikeville College, visited Allen Elementary to help enhance the knowledge of Indians for the primary students. She brought with her several original items from Indian cultures, native music, and taught the students how to dance as the Indians do. Thanks to Ms. Davis, students were able to get a better understanding of a culture somewhat different than their own.

Blast off

Allen Elementary celebrated Young Authors' Blast-Off Week October 5-8. Many activities were shared by student and faculty. The highlight of the week was the release of helium filled balloons with written messages inside. Seven balloons have been found so far. Keep looking and thanks to everyone who made the week a success.

An apple a day

Students in Traci Tackett's primary class at Betsy Layne Elementary completed a unit on apples during the month of September. The unit ended by celebrating Johnny Appleseed Day. Students made Johnny Appleseed cake, planted apple seeds, and even dressed as Johnny did. Pictured are Kristina Parsons and Jimmy Osborne.

Throw A Hungry Loop
By Dona Schenker

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD TRES BOMER figures he's never wanted anything so much as he wants that new horse. He'll need it, after all, if he expects to join the rodeo circuit one day. And becoming a champion roper is all Tres ever thinks about. It's a feeling—a dream—veteran ropers call "throwing a hungry loop."

But Tres soon discovered that dreaming is one thing, getting is another.

A bittersweet novel about growing up that is as raw and big-hearted as Texas itself, Throw A Hungry Loop is an unforgettable and astonishingly honest portrait of a boy's commitment to a dream, and of the family obstacles and small-town prejudices that stand in his way.

This is a good story about a boy's dream and about making relationships work.

The Great Pumpkin Switch
By Megan McDonald
Pictures by Ted Lewin

ALL SUMMER LONG, Rosie's pumpkin has been growing and growing at the top of the steps. She needs to stretch both arms wide to show Mr. Angelo, the Potato Man, just how huge it is.

So when, accidentally, her brother and his pal Otto saw the vine in two and the pumpkin in all its glory bounces to the bottom of the steps, all thirty-four of them, it's a real disaster. What if Rosie finds out? What if Mama does?

It's a good thing there's a pig in the neighbor's yard, and Mr. Angelo nearby—because the boys need all the help they can get!

As they did in The Potato Man, author and artist present a vivid picture of a time, a setting, a family.

It is getting close to Thanksgiving and one thinks of pumpkin pie and family get-togethers. This would be a good story to read to children.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Pets have been a bane to male members of my family for years. My dad never cared for dogs living in the house even though he was forced to share his bed with more than one canine during his lifetime. Interestingly, my husband shares my father's disdain for "dogs in the house" and mentions it practically every time I get up and open the door to let our dog, Butch, in the house.

While my husband despises Butch for his inability to let himself in the house, I've learned that he also shares my father's disdain concerning pets and their eating habits. This conclusion can best be summed up by using two of my father's favorite "dog" expressions which were, "The dog eats better than I do," and "By all means, go buy the dog some dog food. I'll just take an old cold tater and wait."

What I didn't realize is that most men feel the same way my father did and my husband does. I have discovered this by observing women shoppers.

While on one of my daily grocery shopping excursions, I noticed a friend purchasing cat food and during the course of conversation, I asked her what she intended to fix for supper.

"I don't have a clue," she replied as she read the labels on the cat food. "I can't seem to please anybody at my house anymore when it comes to cooking."

"I know what you mean, Lil," I remarked as I glanced at a box of doggie treats. "My husband won't tell me what he wants to eat either. What kind of cat food is that?"

"Oh, that's some gourmet stuff. My cat won't eat anything but the tuna in this brand. And he won't eat anything but the beef in another brand."

"Tell me about it!" I exclaimed. "My dog won't eat anything unless I taste it first. My husband says that's because he tasted my cooking once and he wants to make sure I haven't slipped some of my own food into his."

My friend laughed as she continued to put cans of cat food into her grocery cart.

"Aren't you buying a lot of cat food?" I inquired.

"Got a lot of cats," she answered dryly.

"How does your husband feel about your spending so much money on cat food?"

"He doesn't say anything because I don't tell him. He'd make me get rid of them if he knew how much it cost to feed them."

"How do you keep it from him?"

"I clip coupons," she whispered.

"That's nothing to be ashamed of," I said reassuringly. "I think ev-

ALL MY CHILDREN: Trevor returned to Pine Valley and told Natalie of Carter's arrest. Carter, meanwhile, faked catatonia, which would make him unfit to stand trial. In Budapest, Erica completed a very successful business deal. Dimitri found her, but despite their passionate kiss, she pushed him away. Edmund was sure Dimitri had had Hugo's body stolen. Hayley found the incriminating photos of Brian and Dixie given to Adam by a private investigator. Later, Dixie threw a dinner party which turned into a disaster. Stuart tried to romance Gloria. Wait To See: Gloria weighs one of the most important decisions of her life.

ANOTHER WORLD: Although Lorna spent the night with Kevin, she couldn't shake the feeling he might have killed her father. Vicky was shaken by Grant's marriage proposal. Jamie tried to stop Cass from digging into Kelsey's past. Frankie was surprised to learn that Christy Carson (Patti D'Arbanville), her best friend from childhood, was Cass' client. Felicia flared up when Rachel asked if she was drinking too much. Jake dropped a bombshell when he testified. Kelsey felt betrayed at her hearing when the defense called Dr. Russ Matthews (David Bailey) as a witness. Wait To See: Kevin takes a risk that could backfire badly.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: A horrified Frannie watched Darryl and Jessup scuffle and fall through an attic window, injuring them both badly. Holden was unable to remember anything about his life at the Snyder farm. Later, though, Holden saw Lucinda for a split second, and felt he had seen her before. Tom promised Margo that Nevins would be in prison for a long time. Barbara got two pieces of good news: Darryl agreed to give up all rights to Jennifer, and Hal revealed the Crime Commission was set to move on the Harpers, meaning he could come out from undercover work at last. Wait To See: Tony's plans take a crucial turn.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Taylor told Jack Stephanie and Sally were bitter enemies, and they'd both be furious if they knew he was seeing them both. Darla and Sally spied on Jack and Stephanie at dinner, and to Sally's dismay, Stephanie was delighted when Jack confessed all, and forgave him with a kiss. Taylor was crushed when Brooke refused to tell her that she wouldn't pursue Ridge while they were in Europe. Stephanie learned the Dr. Kramer Sheila used as a reference had died. Sheila, aware her future with Eric was in her mother's hands, went to see her. Wait To See: Sheila is close to taking the big step in her plans for Eric.

Bad Company

Bad Company will appear in concert at Morehead State University's Academic-Athletic Center on Wednesday, Nov. 18, beginning at 8 p.m. The Atco Record artists include, from left, Mick Ralphs, Simon Kirke and Brian Howe. Tickets are $16 (reserved seats) and $12 (bleachers) for the general public while the cost for MSU students is $10 (reserved) and $8 (bleachers).

Rock 'n' roll with Bad Company

Morehead State University's Student Government Association will present a night of rock 'n' roll with Bad Company in concert on Wednesday, Nov. 18.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Academic-Athletic Center.

Tickets are $16 (reserved seats) and $12 (bleachers) for the general public. The cost for MSU students is $10 (reserved) and $8 (bleachers). Tickets may be purchased at the MSU-Ashland Area Extended Campus Center; MSU-Big Sandy Extended Campus Center in Prestonsburg; MSU-Licking Valley Extended Campus Center in West Liberty; Martin's Department Store in Jackson; Downtown Video in Mt. Sterling; County Market in Maysville; Martin's Department Store and Peoples Store in Morehead and on campus at the Student Activities Office in the Adron Doran University Center.

Sometimes referred to as a "super-group," Bad Company has sold more than a million records. From rock songs to ballads, the group's musical renditions have included "Stranger Than Fiction," "How About That," "Hold On To My Heart" and "This Could Be The One."

Recording on Atco Records, Bad Company is composed of Simon Kirke on drums, Mick Ralphs on guitars with vocal performances by Brian Howe.

The group debuted on the music scene in 1974 with its namesake album "Bad Company" which included "Can't Get Enough," an international, multi-platinum number one hit. The original band dissolved for a period in the mid-80s only to be reformed after a two-year hiatus. The musicians' popularity has continued to increase with each new record and the latest effort, "Here Comes Trouble," carries on that tradition.

Additional information is available by calling MSU's Office of Student Activities at (606) 783-2071.

Truth, Justice and the American Way

by Geoff Belcher, staff writer

Thanksgiving was founded by the Puritans to give thanks for being preserved from the Indians, and we keep it to give thanks we are preserved from the Puritans.

Theodore Geisel, better known as Dr. Seuss, the greatest author of this or any other century, The Grinch Who Stole Christmas

Well, here it is again. Another holiday season. Children laughing. Families reuniting.

People eating anything and everything they want without worrying about their cholesterol or jumping up from the table to sweat to the oldies with Little Richard Simmons.

Glasses raised in good cheer and good friends sharing good times. Peace and harmony replace the stress and animosity of our everyday lives, and love fills the air.

Makes me sick. Thanksgiving's coming up and everybody's happy except me and the turkeys. Yeah, I'm cynical. Yeah, I'm depressed. Sue me.

The way I see it, in each life, a little rain must fall. I try to save all my rain up for the last couple of months of the year, both so I can spend January through October in a relatively good mood and have the extra special added bonus of spoiling all the fun for everybody else.

Now before you get all spastic (like you did over that whole doberman pinscher/sheep thing, which I really, really apologize for— I... I don't know what came over me—for a minute there I thought I was writing for television where you can do or say anything and still make enough money to actually live on—I promise all you shepherds, pet owners and people unlike me who actually have morals and good taste, it won't happen again), look at it from my point of view:

First of all there's Christmas, that time of year when sadistic adults tell trusting, naive little children that there's actually a guy out there who will swoop down from the sky and give them everything they've ever dreamed of and then seven years later they tell 'em, "Hey, sorry kid. We lied. There ain't no such thing. In order to ever get anything in life you'll have to work and sweat and slave like a dog for the next sixty years and then you'll be too old, ugly, fat and wrinkled to actually enjoy it and then you'll die and it'll all go to your whining ungrateful brats who've hung on your butt like a @#%E#&* barnacle all the days of your life and they'll WASTE IT!!!! WAKE UP AND SMELL REALITY!!!!!" (Actually, there really is a Santa Claus. My parents just wanted to watch me cry-- it's sort of along the same cruel lines as the way they named me.)

Either that, or they'll scare the bejeezus outta the little rugrats with that song that makes 'em think ol' Santy Claws is stalkin' 'em (yes, I meant to spell "Santy Claws" that way—if you've got a problem with it, get your own column):

He knows when you are sleeping;
He knows when you're awake;

He knows if you've been bad or good,

So be GOOD for GOODNESS

SAKES—

SANTA CLAWS is coming!!!!

And then there's Thanksgiving. Maaaaaa, don't even get me started.

You know who really invented Thanksgiving? Not the pilgrims. Not the Indians. Not even the rabbits (even though historically, the rabbits have benefitted most from the holiday because it was the first time since the Puritans hit Plymouth Rock that little fluffy bunnies weren't the main entree at all the major social gatherings—the rabbits did, however, have quite a bit to do with this Easter thing, setting themselves up as the big heroes and all that).

No, you really wanna know who invented Thanksgiving?

Louis Rich.

That's right. Now the truth can be told. It's all an advertising scheme. One night back in the pilgrim days, ol' Louis was sittin' around the campfire with his faithful Indian companion, Butterball, tryin' to figure out what in the name of John Smith to do with all them butt-ugly birds they'd been swindled into buying, when all of a sudden Louis jumped up and shouted "Eureka (which, as you all know, is Latin for 'Hey, I have a really spiffy idea')! Let's throw a big shindig and tell everybody they can only come to it if they cook a turkey and maybe some sweet taters!"

And, as the history books tell us, the party was such a big hit, they decided to make it an annual event, and they named it for the little saying Louis had everytime somebody bought one of his turkeys: "Thanks for giving me all your cash," which, of course, was eventually shortened to just "Give me all your cash," but the pilgrim fathers decided that was just a little too greedy-sounding, so they changed it once again to "Thanksgiving."

Now, of course, we celebrate that first business deal between the white man and the Indians (even though it's a little known fact that Louis later cheated Butterball out of all the profits and ran off with his wife, the Indian princess We Call It Maize) by sitting around a table covered with enough food to end starvation in about ten third-world nations and pretend that we don't spend all the rest of the year moaning and groaning about the things we don't have.

"But Geoff," you say, "Thanksgiving is that one special time of the year when we give thanks for all the wonderful things the good Lord has given us (well, maybe you didn't say it, but somebody sure did.)"

Bah, humbug, I say. What's to be thankful for?

Okay, so I have a smart, funny, pretty wife who puts up with me no matter how bad a mood I'm in. And I have a warm, loving, nurturing family that has supported me in all my endeavors even though during my college years I pretty much leached them of every red cent. And I have a very nice, very comfortable house with all the basic necessities such as heat, stereo and cable TV and that is absolutely rent-free thanks to a terrific mother- and father-in-law who let their daughter marry a career underachiever. And I have a warm, nurturing German shepherd that loves me unconditionally, just as long as I supply her with a steady stream of Alpo.

So... uh, nevermind. I'm not depressed after all. Happy holidays and save a turkey. Try mutton instead.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

LEAD STORY

Researchers at Cornell University recently patented an artificial dog that would speed up the breeding of fleas for lab use. Previously, the lab required 25 live, severely infected dogs to breed the 12,000 fleas per day needed in studies of fleas' and animals' allergic reactions to fleas.

WEIRD LAW

Colorcraft Corp., a photo processing firm, recently filed an appeal in federal court challenging a Florida worker compensation judge's ruling. The Jacksonville judge had ruled that Colorcraft employee Ruth Jandrucko is entitled to full disability benefits because she becomes hypervigilant and "extremely" nervous in situations in which she might encounter black males in the workplace. Her stress disorder stems from a mugging incident in which she suffered a fractured vertebra. Colorcraft has so far been required to pay her more than $50,000 in disability benefits.

Ronald St. John received $290,000 in April in Middletown, Conn., to settle his lawsuit against his former psychologist over the death of St. John's daughter. St. John had stabbed the 7-year-old to death, but was found not guilty by reason of insanity. He blamed her death on the psychologist, who had not been available for consultation while St. John was having the breakdown that led to the murder.

The 15,000-member Surfrider Foundation, an association of California surfers, is negotiating with Chevron Oil Corp. over surfing issues. Chevron has constructed jetties into the ocean to protect underground pipes in its refinery near Manhattan Beach. Surfrider claims the jetties have altered the patterns of monster waves in the area and that Chevron should somehow compensate the area's surfers. Surfrider recently won a $5.8 million lawsuit against two paper mills for polluting the Pacific Ocean north of San Francisco and thus harming surfers' interests.

In August, the Wyoming Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional a state law requiring a minor to forfeit his driver's license if convicted of an alcohol-or drug-related offense. The court said that was cruel and unusual punishment.

CLICHES COME TO LIFE

Davenport, Iowa, police officer Wayne Dawson filed a lawsuit recently against the Donut Time shop over a January 1991 incident in which he slipped on ice on the shop's walkway. He had been taking a break in the shop and was about to go back on duty.

Results of research at Memphis State University, released in April, showed that kids' metabolism rates drop 40 percent faster while they are watching TV than it does while they are merely sleeping. Said a researcher, "If (the kids) watch enough TV, more than 2 1/2 hours a day, they'll gain weight just due to TV's impact on their metabolic rate."

Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported in March on a courtroom setback suffered by the U.S. Postal Service. USPS needed to get an expert-witness list for its side to a Dayton, Ohio, court by the next day in an employment discrimination case. It was sent from Washington, D.C., by Express (overnight) Mail but did not arrive for 10 days.

A 13-year-old boy, trying to fend off imminent arrest by Covington, Ky., police in July, rigged his home with several booby traps based on ideas he had gotten from the movie "Home Alone." As officers entered the house, in which the boy lives with only his great-grandmother, they had to dodge 12-inch nails, open scissors and a vat of concrete triggered by trip wires; to deal with doorknobs covered with lard and pieces of glass; and to climb steps that were soaped or greased or contained protruding nails.

CREME DE LA WEIRD

In June, town councilors in Hearst, Ontario, ended the long-time tradition of requiring prospective bridegrooms to be locked in cages in the center of town, on public display. The tradition usually goes no further than allowing the townspeople to throw eggs and tomatoes at the men for a price — in part to help the couple get started financially—but a few years ago, in an extreme case, one man was given an enema with a grease gun. Local clergy advised the councilors that some men so fear the prospect that they decline marriage altogether.

ATTENTION DISORDER

The recent Miss America contestant from Mississippi, Kandace Williams, claimed in her one-page biography to be a descendant of Julius Caesar and a second cousin to Kenny Rogers and to have a rare "magnetic electrolytic body chemistry which makes (me) a human magnet." A spokesman for Kenny Rogers said the name "Kandace Williams" didn't ring a bell.

The woman eyed me suspiciously and said "I clip coupons to save money on groceries. My entire grocery bill was only $14.56 last week."

"That's terrific! My husband would be ecstatic."

Mine would, too. But I spent over $100 on cat food.

"Boy! That's pretty steep. I don't spend that much on dog food."

Lil shrugged her shoulders and picked up another can of cat food and read the label

"Aha! Cereal in this one. I wouldn't feed it to a dog."

"You got dogs, too?"

"Naw. I just hate how they put grains in pet food. You can't trick my cats with that stuff though. My tomcat has a nose on him like an ant-eater."

"What's wrong with cereal?"

"Well, besides being un-nourishing, my cat doesn't like it."

"My dog likes cereal."

"I bet he's not healthy."

"But he likes oats," I countered.

"I don't think they've done a longevity study on how oats prolong life in dogs," she stated.

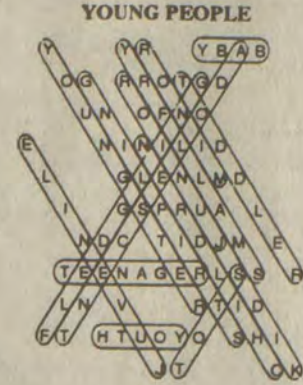

As I watched her continue to fill

GRANDPARENTING

LOVE FOR ART BEGINS EARLY

Our grandson Albert, 10, has been drawing since he first met crayons. When he's not throwing a football with his grandfathers, he's at his desk drawing landscapes.

His latest views of our Thornhill Farm are now exhibited on the door of our refrigerator. We like to encourage this artistic bent, and whenever we visit an art museum we bring home small reproductions of paintings or prints we think he might like.

We recently met a gentleman who is inspiring his grandchildren along the same lines. He buys small original paintings, "affordable" in price, to encourage his grandchildren to start their own collections.

He is Alfredo F. Siani, the horticulturist at Oatlands, in Leesburg, Va., the famous plantation house and garden open to the public as part of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

"My wife, Tracy, and I give paintings to our grandchildren to show them the tremendous excitement of collecting, of having their own works of art, paintings that no one else can claim, ones they can keep and treasure in their own bedrooms.

"We buy modestly priced paintings by young artists, often of nature since I am a horticulturist. We buy them to encourage the children, and hopefully the values will go up over the years. The project has a dual purpose — investment as well as sheer enjoyment."

Mr. and Mrs. Siani have four grandchildren, ages 10 years to 18 months. Sophie, the youngest art collector we know, will receive as her major Christmas gift this year a country scene of a duck flying off a pond.

If you are in Virginia you might want to visit Oatlands, perhaps with your own grandchildren. It was originally a 5,000-acre plantation owned by George Carter, great-grandson of the famous "King" Carter, once the richest man in Virginia. Several years ago U.S. Sen. Charles S. Robb, then governor of Virginia, called it the "premier garden in the state."

"If you have begun to feel your oats and your corns simultaneously, that's middle age." — Kiwanis Magazine

"Forty is the old age of youth; 50 is the youth of old age." — Victor Hugo (1802-1885)

Grand Remark of the Week:

"We recently spent a week caring for our 6-year-old grandson, Brian, and 4-year-old granddaughter, Hannah, while their parents were away. En route to the airport to pick up the returning parents, we discussed airport security procedures, explaining that airport guards made sure that no one carried anything dangerous like guns or knives onto the planes.

"In answer to the children's questions I emphasized that they checked everyone, including visitors, and we would have to send Hannah's doll and my purse through the X-ray belt.

"Brian was astonished: 'Why would anyone think that an old grandma would carry a gun or a knife?'"

"Concerning our family, one of our five grandchildren is 6-year-old Lexa, who came to us from India when she was adopted by our daughter, a single parent. Lexa was only 18 months old. She is a wonderful child who copes with the complicated differences of dark skin in a white family, adoption by a single parent, and a minor but visible physical handicap." — Mary Ellen Elwell, Ph.D., Westminster, Md.

Fascinated by her letter, we called Dr. Elwell to learn more. She said: "This experience has been very enriching for all of us, and has expanded our thoughts, our horizons. Lexa, who weighed only 11 pounds as a 1-year-old in an orphanage in India, is absolutely charming, despite being blind in one eye and having a slight hearing impairment.

"I am convinced that grandparents can either be a help or a problem to families who have the courage and love to make new patterns for their lives. When our older generation is open to it, there is exciting growth in these sometimes brave and unconventional situations." Bravo, Dr. Elwell!

For every Grand Remark of the Week used in December, we'll send the donor a copy of Dee's first book, "Hollyhocks, Lambs and Other Passions," as our Christmas gift.

(Dee and Tom, married more than 40 years, have five grandchildren and hope to have many more. They welcome questions, suggestions and Grand Remarks of the Week. Send to Box 34, Butler, Md. 21023. Because of the volume, personal replies are usually not possible.)

CAR FRESHENER—I have a way to freshen up the car without buying those expensive car deodorizers which don't last very long anyway. I put a tiny bit of potpourri in my car's ashtray. Whenever I need to freshen the air, I just open up the ashtray. It stays fresh quite a while, and the potpourri will last for months, too. Virginia P., Pinch, W.V.

PERFECT HAIR—When you need help telling your hair stylist exactly what you want done, take a picture at a photo booth in a mall when your hair is exactly the way you like it. Your stylist will always know exactly what you like—on you! Harriet T., Augusta, Maine

HANDY GLOVE—I use a rubber glove to help loosen a tight-fitting jar lid. The gloves also come in handy when handling cold surfaces for an extended period, such as when I'm slicing meat that is not completely thawed, or when I'm defrosting a refrigerator that is not frost-free. Dear Abby

Bride fears crying child will ruin her happy day

DEAR ABBY: You have covered this topic numerous times in your column, but it just happened to me and I am stuck for a solution.

Our wedding is coming up soon, and we just received a response card which the couple had penciled in "—and child."

Abby, their child is under 2 years old and the father is a colleague of my fiancé. We both fear it would be rude if we asked the couple to please leave their child at home.

On the other hand, we do not want a crying child to ruin our formal church wedding. What other course of action can we take?

IN A BIND

DEAR IN: Because I'm sure you wouldn't want to offend your fiancé's colleague, you could make arrangements to have someone look after the child in the church basement—or another room in the church—during the wedding ceremony. But first, you must inform the parents of your plan, and hope they agree to it.

Don't be surprised if they insist on having their child with them during the ceremony. People who are brazen enough to "pencil in" the news that they are bringing their child without asking permission to do so are capable of declining your offer to provide a sitter.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, I read a letter in your column expressing sadness over the readiness of drivers to exchange obscene one-fingered salutes and the general lack of courtesy. She wanted to know if there was some way to promote courtesy and goodwill.

We all make errors in driving either in judgment, lack of attention or knowledge. In the spirit of harmony, I am suggesting we might promote a language of hand gestures to communicate messages other than anger or irritation.

Your column reaches so many people, I am sure your readers could add to or improve on these. We need to make traveling our highways a pleasant and safe experience.

Thank you for anything you can do.

DEAR DODIE: How about a nod, a smile, and mouthing the words, "Thank you!"

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers that it is rude to stare. I am a 28-year-old adult who stands 4 foot 6 inches tall. I hate it when ill-mannered adults, and the children they raise, glare and gawk at me. It is painful and it hurts.

We "little people" thank you for the article that helped our organization a few years ago. I, too, was inspired. Please print it again.

Blair learned that Max had been shot, and arrived at the hospital where she defied Luna's warnings to leave, and demanded to see him. Wait To See: Viki makes a sad decision.

SANTA BARBARA: B.J. refused to agree to marry Warren so that he could be excused from testifying against her. Arnold produced witnesses that made B.J.'s position very insecure. Angela managed to keep C.C. from seeing Ted in the tub with her. Sophia, believing the story that Andie had been beaten by an intruder, decided to run a security check on her. Meanwhile, Ken continued to feed Sophia pills to calm her down while he stole her new designs. Reese asked Andie to file charges against Ken, but despite her growing attraction to Reese, she let Ken talk her out of it. Wait To See: Dolly may be the key to solving B.J.'s dilemma.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Fearing Victor had discovered his marriage to Victoria, Ryan was delighted to learn he'd been summoned, instead, to learn he'd been given a promotion. He and Victoria celebrated by going to a hotel, not knowing Nikki had hired Paul to report on his movements. Cricket was furious to learn that Michael was able to get a job with a Genoa City law firm. Later, she gave Suzanne, the paralegal at Michael's new firm, her card, telling her to call if she needs to. Although overjoyed to see her daughter alive and well, Molly refused to go along with Sheila's plan against Lauren. Ashley infuriated Victor by questioning his motives for promoting her, and she realized she may have lost him for good as a result. Wait To See: Lauren's problems are far from over.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Dig in your heels, concentrate on work, and make money this week. You will have plenty of excuses to spend it, enjoy it, and feel indulged by it. Besides, this weekend you'll want to either entertain massively or order in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let the sunshine in this week. You beam (actually you radiate) everywhere you go. There are absolutely no problems, unless you decide to make one. Your good humor helps you get your point across and make others understand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You find yourself on life's roller coaster once again. Be less uptight about what is happening, and just go with it. As usual, your personality carries you through the ups and downs, and you come out a winner. The one thing you can count on this weekend is overindulgence.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Expect the unexpected this week, and you won't be disappointed. There may be some moments when you feel the work week will never end. But it does, and early at that. You are a force to be dealt with all weekend long.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Accept being a leader—no one is better suited. Be careful, though. You may burn up too much energy playing out that other role—party animal. You just may need to recuperate this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You find the answers very easily, deep in your imagination. Be more perky about what is going on, and just watch those doors open for you. Yep, you are going to have whatever your little heart desires. Celebrations are in order over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) One-to-one relating is highlighted this week. You negotiate a money deal, if you want, or an emotional partnership, if that is your delight. Whatever you do, your spirits skyrocket you into the weekend. It gets better and better.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Listen to your inner vibrations right now. They tingle and stimulate. How you use this high energy and whether you charge it into a money deal or a love deal is your choice. Be ready for an offbeat solution or idea that could really work.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Plunge into work early in the week and be ready for the unusual, the happy, and the eccentric. You find many opportunities to mix business with pleasure. Your ability to succeed in this combination will amaze even you.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Go with the flow this week. If you feel a rumbling to play, then go ahead. If suddenly you come up with a brilliant idea, take it into work or wherever it belongs. Trust yourself this week and you will notice everyone else will too.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may be entrenched in some crucial domestic battles this week, but don't let them get to you. Indeed, once you let go, the fun begins. Let your creativity soar and everything benefits—work, love, even those problems at home.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Stop fussing. Just pick up the phone and get what you need cleared up. You're able to make your point. Expect a hectic yet rewarding pace this work week. If you can, plan on taking a day off, as you are likely to be distracted. Temptation calls this weekend.

Russell invades Prestonsburg tonight!

Blackcats must avoid turnovers; Garza hurt but will play tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats' football season continues tonight when the host team will entertain a good Russell Red Devil team in regional football play at the Prestonsburg Stadium.

Prestonsburg has won their last seven games in posting a 10-1 record this season. Russell will bring an 8-3 mark to the city, having finished second in District 1 behind Lawrence County.

The Red Devils reached the semi-finals of the regionals with an exciting 21-20 win over the Whitesburg any of their drives," said Letton. "They have good team speed on defense but I feel that we have the advantage on the line up front. Again, we will just need to hold our blocks."

While Russell is mostly a running team, they can't be overlooked in their passing game according to Letton.

"They will mix it up on us," he stated. "They throw the ball about 10 times a game and they have won some games with their passing offense." So the Cat's secondary will be alerted to the balance offense that the Red Devils possess.

"We just need to do what we've been doing best," said the Prestonsburg coach, "and get Seth and Dwayne going early."

While quarterback Aaron Tucker did not have one of his better games passing last Friday against Mason County, Letton believes that Tucker will have a better outing this Friday night.

Yellowjackets at home last Friday evening. Prestonsburg moved into the semi-finals after avenging last year's loss to Mason County by defeating the Royals 29-12 last Friday night.

Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton doesn't plan on changing anything, electing to stay with what has gotten his team this far.

"We just need to stay with the same thing we've been doing all season," said Letton. However, the Blackcats will have to take care of the football.

"We can't have too many turnovers," he said. "If we do, we're in trouble."

The Prestonsburg mentor explained that on the defensive side of the football the Blackcats must be able to sustain any drives that Russell tries to put together.

"We can't let them have any run outs on us or any long pass plays," he commented.

None of the Blackcats, outside of running back Dwayne Garza, has any serious injuries. Garza suffered a hamstring pull in practice but Letton noted that the fullback would be able to play.

"Russell is a good football team that likes to run the football as well as pass it," said Letton. "They have one good receiver but they are primarily a running team."

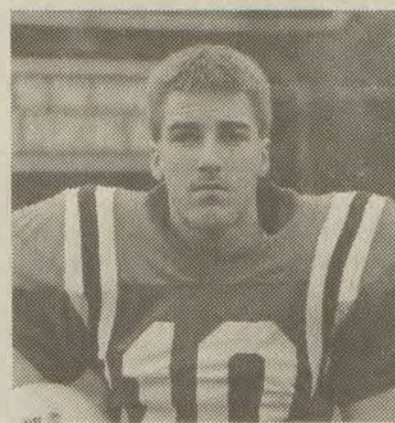

Letton remarked that his team was mentally ready and capable of advancing farther into the playoffs. "We need to hold our blocks and sustain

Russell coach rates Blackcats regions best; Red Devils young, solid team

Tonight Russell Red Devil Coach Ivan McGlone will bring his 8-3 football team to the Prestonsburg Stadium for the second round of the Region 4 football playoffs.

McGlone's ballclub is not an experienced club: several young players make up the chemistry of this team.

"We're extremely young," said the Red Devil's mentor. "We've had to play mostly sophomores for most of the season."

But isn't that good for the next two seasons, coach?

"Well, it is if they mature and get better," he said. "But you don't know if they are going to get better."

Russell will enter tonight's gridiron game coming in as the second seed in District 1 where they finished second to the Lawrence County Bulldogs during the regular season. Russell lost to Lawrence County, Ashland Paul Blazer and Ironton (Ohio). That's some pretty tough competition.

The Red Devils had to play especially well in the second half to come back and defeat Whitesburg last Friday night in a game that had Coach McGlone scratching his head.

"I don't know what happened in that game," he said. "I don't know if we played bad early or they played better. Whitesburg was a fine ballclub."

Russell goes with two quarterbacks because of the talent of each. "We have Matt Robinson, who is a sophomore, at quarterback, and then we bring in Chad Malone when we need him. Malone, who had been hurt, brought us back against Whitesburg last Friday."

McGlone said that Malone is the better quarterback when his team runs the football, but that Robinson is "the better thrower."

"We mostly run the football," said McGlone, "but we can also throw it. We will pick our place whether to throw or not. If you give us the opening, we can throw it."

"We have gotten better through the year," the Russell coach said. "We seem to be playing more aggressively than we did earlier. We are just trying to get better."

Robert Brown, who was hurt in the Whitesburg game, will run at fullback for Russell. Brown seems to have recovered from the injury and will be at 100 percent in tonight's game. Matt Cross and Doug O'Borne will be at the halfback slots for the Red Devils.

Russell maintains a strong running game with the likes of the three-some. Each is capable of breaking loose for the big yardage plays.

defensive end position with Steve Gibbs, O'Borne and Sheldon Chaffins at the linebacker slots. Matt Cross and Shane Bowen will play the secondary for Russell tonight.

Coach McGlone said that Prestonsburg has an outstanding football program with a strong line both ways, as well as a potent backfield (Dwayne Garza, Seth Hyde and Jody Cornette).

"They have good receivers (Jason Crisp and Thomas Ratliff) and a quarterback (Aaron Tucker) who is very strong," said McGlone. "They have always had a good program in the past and they are an exceptional program this year."

"In fact, I think they have the best team in the regional," continued McGlone. "They do so many things well. They will be a defensive challenge to us. We will try our basic things and do the best we can. They are an extremely good football team."

Tonight's winner will advance on to the finals next week against the winner of the Lawrence County/Fleming County game. Game time is 8 p.m.

Lady Wildcats breeze past Melvin Lady Cougars, 45-7

Amanda Samons scored 12 points and Jennifer Prater added 10 as the Lady Wildcats of Maytown posted a one-sided 45-7 win over the Lady Cougars of Melvin Tuesday night at Maytown.

The win improved Maytown to 2-0 on the season while Melvin fell to 0-1.

Maytown took a 12-0 lead after the first quarter and Melvin did not score until Kristy Hall hit a shot with 2:50 left in the second quarter after Maytown scored the first eight points of the period. The Lady Wildcats led 24-2 at the half.

Hall scored three points to lead Melvin in scoring. Stacie Isaac had two points and Jennifer McKinney also scored two points.

Crystal Martin tossed in eight for Maytown. Susan Scarberry added five with Dreama Isaac and Jessica Martin scoring four each. Carrie Lovins had two points.

Howard, Shannon combine for 34 as Maytown claws Cougars

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Run, run, run. Full court pressure. Half-court trap.

That's the way the Maytown Wildcats played it against the Melvin Cougars in grade school basketball play Monday night at Maytown. Maytown, one of the top elementary programs in the county, blasted the Cougars 70-34 behind the scoring of Todd Howard and Jason Shannon. The duo combined for 34 points to lead the Wildcats to their second win of the season. Howard scored 19 points while Shannon tossed in 15.

Coach Rick Hancock kept his team in either a full court press or in their half-court trap that caused problems for the Cougars of coach Dale Pack.

It was an up-tempo game all the way as Melvin was forced to play the running game against their better wishes. Howard scored several of his 19 points off steals as he was all over the court. Shannon drilled two three-pointers for the Wildcats.

Maytown jumped to a 19-3 first quarter lead as Melvin had problems of getting a shot off in the first period. Back-to-back baskets by Shannon and

Auxier comes from behind to edge Osborne, 52-45

The Auxier Hornets won their second consecutive game with a win over the Osborne Eagles, but it wasn't an easy win, according to Hornet coach Ashland Gearheart.

"They gave us all we wanted," he said of the game. "Our full-court press in the fourth quarter made the difference. They made some costly turnovers. They're a good ballclub. The (Daniel) Hatfield kid is a good ball player."

Osborne held a seven point, 36-29, lead over the home team upon entering the fourth quarter but Auxier, working out of the trap, turned the ball over and the Hornets shot their way back into the lead with less than two minutes remaining in the game. Johnson put on a strong showing for the Hornets in the second half, according to his coach.

Clabe Hall led all scorers with 23 points and Ricky Johnson tossed in 18. Hatfield led the Eagles with 19 points and Bryan Triplett netted 12.

Osborne led at the first stop 12-9 and took a 22-19 lead to the locker room at the half.

The Lady Hornets only trailed by five points 14-9 at the half. But the Lady Eagles pulled away in the third and fourth quarters to secure their first win of the season.

Angela Turner led the Lady Osborne with nine points Janeene Fields tossed in four points and Lisa Moore added five. Crystal Mullins had four points also. Renna Flanery netted six for the Lady Eagles.

Shelly Greathouse had seven points to lead the Lady Hornets. Lisa Johnson and Brandy Wells scored three each. Tonya Honeycutt added two points.

Catrell Farler had five points in the game with Tony Honeycutt, Billy Hall and John White scoring two each. Honeycutt had to ride the pines a lot because of foul trouble.

The Auxier junior varsity won their first game under coach David Gearheart as they posted a 25-19 win over the junior Eagles. John White hit two three-pointers for the Hornets in scoring 10 points. Ricky Powers had eight points and Mike Powers added six. Billy Hall scored one point.

Jarred Johnson had five points with Justin Hall and Nicholas Little hitting for four each. Willis Tackett, David Caudill and Alan Matthews had two each.

The Lady Hornets dropped their second game of the season in falling to 1-2 on the year. The Lady Eagles of Osborne handed coach Jerome Greathouse a 29-15 loss.

"We missed enough free throws and layups to win the game," said Greathouse of his team's coldness from the free throw line. Auxier shot 39 charity tosses and connected on only nine. "We were lacking on defense also. We played no defense."

"They had a lot of shots that fell for them and we were just the opposite," said Greathouse. "We had shots that should have fallen but didn't. Osborne was a scrappy bunch to play against."

The Auxier boys and girls will be taking part in next week's Right Beaver Classic at Maytown.

Packers have perfect season, wins Pop Warner tackle title

The Pop Warner tackle football season has come to a close for another season but it closes on a very up-tempo note. The first-year league was a tremendous success and league director Dr. Don Chaffins and his staff look for better things next year.

"We hope that we may even be able to expand the league next year," said Daryl Patton, one of the parents who has become involved in the league. "We want to see it get bigger and stronger."

Brown scores 19 points to lead Maytown past Allen, 65-55

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Maytown Wildcats won their third consecutive game of the young grade school basketball season with a 65-55 win over the previously undefeated Allen Eagles. The Eagles seemed to have run out of steam in the fourth quarter after playing their third game in three days.

"We just got tired," said Allen assistant coach Kenny Conley. "After three straight games, it was hard on us, especially when our starters have to play most of the game. We're not that deep on the bench."

It was the straight night for Rick Hancock's ballclub as they defeated Melvin the night before.

Allen double-teamed Maytown's leading scorer Todd Howard and forgot to put someone on Tommy Brown, who poured in 19 points for the winners. But it was more than just Brown as Coach Hancock continues to get balanced scoring out of his starters.

Levi Wells had another good game not only in scoring but on the boards as well. Wells added 16 points in the game and Jason Shannon tossed in 14. Shannon hit two three-pointers in the game to break open an otherwise close game in the fourth quarter.

"Going into the fourth quarter, I thought we were tired also," said Hancock of his team's uninspired play in the third period. "I called time out in the fourth quarter and got on to them and they began to pick it up again."

for the turn around for his ballclub with his defensive play.

"He came into the game at the point guard position and, on defense, he caused some needed turnovers to help us pull this one out," explained Hancock.

John Hurd played a steady game for the Eagles and tossed in 14 points to lead the Eagles in scoring. Brandon Castle and Billy Mitchell added 12 points each and Kyle Conley hitting for double figures with 11 points. Sammy Nelson added six points.

Brandon Hicks had eight points for Maytown and Howard finished with eight points in his season low for the year.

In the junior varsity game, Allen posted an 11-point win, 34-23 over Maytown with Seth Crisp leading the way with 10 points. Jason Keathley added nine points and Scotty Walls scored seven. Eddie Rowe and Josh Barnett had four each.

Timbo Hagans led the Wildcats with 11 points and Ethan Martin scored seven. Jackie Owens and Jeremy Hayes had three and two points, respectively.

The Maytown girls remained undefeated with a 35-15 win over the Lady Eagles of Allen. Amanda Samons led the way with her 13 points and Crystal Martin netted 11 points. Jessica Prater scored seven and Donna Gibson had four.

Brandy Lawson led Allen with her six points. Shalena Lewis added three with Jill Compton, Stacy Stapleton and Trina Yeary each scored two.

As we enter the final week of our Pigskin Picks, Jeff Meek has retaken second place but it looks as if Jason Blanton will place first there. Mike Burke suffered a bad week last week, but Mike hasn't given up yet and neither has Celeste. Tammy had a good week at 11-1. On the local scene, Prestonsburg gets the nod in the playoffs with Russell although it will be a close one. Pikeville is picked to fall at Hazard. At the college level, Kentucky is favored over Cincinnati with Eastern coming out a winner. The Browns should win in pro football.

Maytown

High-Five!

Melvin's Justin Holbrook made sailing look easy as he went to the basket in the fourth quarter against Maytown Tuesday night at Maytown. Brown scored one point in the game as he missed this try. He played hard but his team fell 70-34 to Maytown (photo by Ed Taylor)

Howard gave Maytown a 4-0 lead before Andy Branham hit two free throws for a 4-2 game. Maytown then scored the next 11 points to race out to a 17-2 game. Howard scored nine of the 11 with Levi Wells scoring the other two underneath. Brent Tackett's free throw made it 19-3 at the first stop.

Branham started the second quarter off for Melvin sinking a three-pointer but the pressure defense of Maytown held the Cougars at bay. Levi Wells controlled the boards for the Wildcats pulling down 12 rebounds. His outlet passes led to several easy baskets for Maytown. He also added 13 points in the game.

Tommy Brown played a good defensive game for the Wildcats leading several fast breaks and some good unselfish play. Brown also scored in double figures by tallying 11 points.

Maytown led at the end of the first half 34-16 and held a 31 point advantage, 53-22 at the end of three quarters.

Branham led the Cougars in scoring with eight points. Branham kept the Maytown defense working with his moves to the basket and outside shooting. Adam Tackett scored five points with teammates Scotty Johnson and Randy Adams netting four each. Nicholas Compton and Coby Little each scored three points.

Ethan Martin had five points for Maytown. Kevin Thacker scored four with Brandon Hicks and Jason Osborne scoring two each.

In junior varsity play, Maytown won a close one over the Cougars 34-25 in a game that was closer than the final score would indicate.

Maytown trailed Melvin by one point going into the final quarter until a free throw by Ethan Martin tied the game at 21-21 early in the fourth quarter. Melvin took a 22-21 lead on a free throw before Timbo Hagan's basket put the Wildcats on top 24-21.

Consecutive baskets by B. Hamilton gave Melvin a 25-24 lead but Jason Osborne gave Maytown the lead for good when he scored with 2:02 left in the game. Maytown ran eight unanswered points to win by nine points.

Hagans led all scorers with 16 points. Martin finished with eight. Osborne and Todd Howard had four each with Jackie Owens scoring two.

Hamilton led Melvin with 11 points. Nick Compton added four as did Andy Tackett. K. Anderson, J.R. Mullins and D. Tackett each scored two points.

Mitchell visits Allen Central

Former Kansas City Chiefs football standout Willie Mitchell held a youth rally at the Allen Central High School recently as part of the ongoing efforts of the Christian Appalachian Project. Mitchell spoke to the group on setting goals and self-esteem. The student body and faculty of Allen Central would like to thank Mitchell and CAP for their time.

Good protection!

It was the final game of the season for the Pop Warner Packers as the team closed their season with a 42-0 win over the Falcons to go 6-0 on the year. Here quarterback Ray Patton tosses to the backfield. (photo courtesy of Daryl Patton)

ORDINANCE NO. 18-92

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 8-84 (CHAPTER 38 OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG), PASSED AUGUST 27, 1984, RELATING TO DISCRIMINATION DUE TO DISABILITIES, AND ESTABLISHING A GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE.

BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I: ADOPTION OF PROCEDURES.

The procedures explained in this chapter shall be the Grievance Procedures for anyone who believes he or she has been discriminated against by the city, based on handicapped status with respect to federally funded programs, for reasons of disability as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act.

SECTION II: ADMINISTRATION.

A. The administration of these procedures and related federal and state regulations shall be the responsibility of the Mayor. The City Administrator shall be designated as the ADA Coordinator, responsible for carrying out plans and procedures to eliminate discrimination against qualified individuals with disabilities.

B. There is hereby established an ADA Compliance Committee, whose purpose is to advise and assist the City in removing architectural barriers, providing facilities, services and communications which are accessible consistent with federal requirements, and to hear complaints, requests or suggestions from disabled persons regarding access to and participation in public facilities, services, activities and functions in the community.

(1) The ADA Compliance Committee shall consist of seven members, appointed by the City Council, as follows:

Three members representing the disabled community.

Two members representing the City Council.

Two members representing the general business or non-profit sector, education or the health/medical profession.

(2) The initial appointments shall serve until January 30, 1993, and thereafter, appointments shall be made for two-year terms.

SECTION III: AMENDMENT OF PROCEDURES.

These procedures may be amended by ordinance to comply with court directives or additional federal and state regulations.

SECTION IV: GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES FOR DISCRIMINATION BASED ON HANDICAPPED STATUS DISABILITY.

(A) Any person (employee or citizen) who believes that he has been subjected to discrimination as prohibited by the Federal Revenue Sharing program regulations and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, may personally or by a representative, file a complaint with the Office of the Mayor, City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. A person who has not personally been subjected to discrimination may also file a complaint. Any complaint regarding access or alleged discrimination shall be submitted in writing to the designated ADA Coordinator for resolution. A record of the complaint and action taken will be maintained. A decision by the ADA Coordinator will be rendered within fifteen working days.

(B) When any person, (citizen, applicant, or employee) who believes he has been adversely affected by an act or decision by the city, and that such act or decision was based on handicapped status, shall have the right to process a complaint or grievance in accordance with the following procedure.

(1) Step One. An aggrieved person must submit a written statement to the Mayor setting forth the nature of the discrimination alleged and facts upon which the allegation is based.

(2) Step Two. (a) The Mayor shall contact the complainant no later than 15 days after receiving the written statement to establish an informal meeting with the objective of resolving the matter informally. However, in no case shall the informal meeting be conducted sooner than five days nor more than 45 days after receiving the written statement.

(b) There shall be prepared a written documentary of the discussions at the informal meeting which shall be preserved in the records of the city.

(3) Step Three. Within 15 days of the informal meeting if no decision has been made by the Mayor or the decision of the Mayor does not satisfy the complainant, he may request a hearing with the City Council by submitting a written request to the Mayor.

(4) Step Four. (a) In thus discussing the grievance, the complainant may designate any person of his choice to appear with him and participate in the discussion. The City Council shall require the Mayor to participate in the discussion of the grievance, when it is brought before the City Council. The City Council shall issue a written decision on the matter within 15 days, and the decision shall be the final procedure for the complainant at the local level.

(b) There shall be prepared a written documentary of the discussion at the hearing, which shall be preserved in the records of the city. (B) If the complaint cannot be resolved to the satisfaction of the complainant by the designated ADA Coordinator, it will be forwarded to the ADA compliance committee.

(C) The Committee shall establish ground rules or procedures for hearing complaints, and shall hear such complaints in public, after adequate public notice is given in an unbiased objective manner. The Committee shall issue a written decision within thirty (30) days of notification. All proceedings of the Committee shall be recorded, transcribed and maintained.

(D) If the complaint cannot be resolved to the complainant's satisfaction by the Committee, the complaint will be heard by the City Council. An open public meeting of the Council will precede the vote. A determination must be made within 30 days of the hearing. The decision of the City Council is final.

(E) A record of action taken on each request or complaint must be maintained as a part of the records or minutes at each level of the grievance process.

(F) The individual's right to prompt and equitable resolution of the complaint may not be impaired by his/her pursuit of other remedies, such as the filing of a complaint with the U.S. Department of Justice or other appropriate federal agency. Furthermore, the filing of a lawsuit in state or federal district court can occur at any time. The use of this grievance procedure is not a prerequisite to the pursuit of other remedies.

ADOPTED, this 9th day of November, 1992.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Pursuant to Permit No. 836-0205

In accordance with the provisions of 405 KAR 16:120, Buck Coal, Inc., 300 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653 (606) 886-9049, proposes the following blasting schedule. The blasting site is located in Floyd County approximately 0.25 miles west from CR 1129's junction with KY 979. That latitude is 37° 29' 17" and the longitude is 82° 40' 11".

Detonations of explosives are proposed to occur from sunrise to sunset, Monday through Saturday.

The blasting schedule is for the period from November 1992 through November 1993.

Entry to the blasting area will be regulated by signs and barriers. An authorized company representative will prohibit access to the blasting area by unauthorized persons at least ten (10) minutes prior each detonation. The warning signal will consist of a one (1) minute series of long horn blasts five (5) minutes prior to detonation. A series of short horn blasts one (1) minute prior to detonation will then be sounded. The all clear signal will be a prolonged horn blast lasting up to two (2) minutes following inspection of the blast area. Events which could necessitate blasting at unscheduled times includes, but are not limited to, rain, lightning, other atmospheric conditions, or deteriorated explosives which involve personnel, operations or public safety.

Re: Proposals for Architect/Engineer Services Mud Creek Project

The Housing Authority of Floyd County is requesting proposals from interested professionals to perform basic architectural and engineering services for the construction of a Low-Income Housing Project funded by a Development Grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The construction cost for this project is presently budgeted at $982,600.00.

Services are to be provided in accordance with current HUD Handbooks and publications. You will be required to be registered for practice (licensed) in the State of Kentucky, carry Professional Liability Insurance and certify that you are not debarred, suspended, or otherwise prohibited from professional practice by any Federal or State agency.

If you are interested in submitting a proposal, you should submit information addressing the following evaluation factors; principal qualifications, professional experience, project specific staffing and organization, quality of work, timeliness and compliance with schedules, conformance to budgets, knowledge of codes/standards, knowledge of HUD regulations, current user satisfaction and proximity. Further information concerning these evaluation factors and contract provision requirements can be obtained from the Housing Authority.

Final proposals must be received at the offices of the Housing Authority by 4:00 P.M., local prevailing time, Friday, December 4, 1992, in order to be considered. Please address your proposals to:

A New Way to Cleanse and Moisturize Your Skin

(NAPS)—The skin you're in could look better whatever the weather if you keep it clean, moist and healthy, experts say.

However, most cleansing creams and moisturizers are applied on the surface of the epidermis or upper skin layer which only affects non-living cells. To enhance effectiveness, creams and moisturizers must penetrate down to the living cells in the dermis or middle skin layer or even the subcutis, the lower skin layer. Physicians and cosmetic surgeons often use large infrared heat devices to obtain this penetration.

The new InfraDerm® facial massage from Vitec uses infrared heat to open pores, letting skin "drink-in" cleansing creams and moisturizers.

Happily, there's now a device women can use at home that incorporates infrared heat with a massage for deep down penetration. Not only does this new InfraDerm® Facial Massager with Infrared Heat make home facials and skin care easier for the woman on the go—it's compact and easy to store in the bathroom or a suitcase—it also helps women maintain their professional facials between treatments.

"Heat is an old remedy for treating the skin," says Guenter Ginsberg, Vitec President. "Warming the skin enlarges arteries and veins to enhance blood circulation and open the skin pores. It also helps blood carry more nutrients to the skin and removes residue." The result is an increase in skin moisture—up to 40 percent, according to a European study—improved texture and healthier, cleaner looking skin. Many women use the treatment daily for the first seven to ten days and weekly thereafter.

The cordless and rechargeable InfraDerm from the Vitec Division of GMG Enterprises uses infrared heat to open pores, letting the skin "drink-in" cleansing creams and moisturizers. The massager function can also be used to relieve facial tension and relax tired facial or neck muscles.

With our environment, skin care is no longer a luxury, but essential to healthy, youthful skin, dermatologists say. Happily, a product such as InfraDerm can make good skin care easier. Suggested retail price is $49.95. For the store nearest you, call 1-800-848-3985.

Pointers For Parents
Physical Education: An Intrinsic Part Of "Whole Child Development"

The vast majority of American children (67%) cannot meet basic standards of fitness, as recent research studies indicate. What's more, obesity among children is growing at a steady rate, says the American Academy of Pediatrics.

This alarming trend could be reversed with an increased awareness among parents that the foundation for physical fitness is set in the early years, between the ages of two and five, according to Dr. Marcy Guddemi, Vice President of Education and Research for KinderCare Learning Centers, the nation's largest child care company. During these preschool years, parents can help instill in their children a joy and appreciation of physical movement and activity that will last throughout their lives.

A foundation for physical fitness is set in early childhood.

Says Dr. Guddemi, "Physical development and fitness are integral parts of whole child development, which is based on the cognitive, social, emotional and physical needs of children. Children who are physically fit tend to be academically successful and have a positive self-image."

skills via trial and error. Preschool gymnastics and swimming, for instance, should focus on enjoyment, as opposed to achieving technical perfection.

The following recommendations from Dr. Guddemi provide parents excellent, developmentally appropriate advice for guiding their pre-schoolers' physical activities:
• In all skill-based activities, focus on movement, as opposed to form or perfection. Allow children to enjoy themselves while improving

• Make the movement a game-like situation or incorporate it into a drama or make-believe role.
• Encourage children to move to various types of music, as they keep rhythm with the beat.
• Play out a story with movement activities in an obstacle-course fashion.
• Play "Follow the Leader" or "Simon Says" type games.
• Monitor children's time in front of the television.
• Plan daily visits to the park so that children can move freely and actively.

Kitchen Corner

Here are a couple of clever hints for your kitchen that combine innovation and style that should be easy to digest.

*To add personality to your kitchen, think accessories. Remember that matching racks and soap dishes, even soap and lotion dispensers can give your kitchen that coordinated look.

*You can complement any decor with a unique adjustable-height kitchen faucet, whose spout lifts a full ten inches above the sink for filling large pots and containers. The system, from Moen, is called Legend® Riser, and is available with or without a hose spray and in a variety of finishes.

It can help you keep your kitchen a spot where things are really cooking.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

For Busy Families: Safety, Comfort, Control

A new home control system may actually be giving busy homeowners more of one commodity they deem very precious—time. In addition, the system, which integrates and controls temperatures, security, lighting and appliances into a single, easy-to-operate panel, is providing increased comfort, convenience, safety and energy savings.

The system, from Honeywell and called TotalHome™, can be programmed with up to 15 different "scenarios" that control temperature, security, lighting and appliance settings tailored to the homeowner's personal preferences. Homeowners choose not only which options each scenario will include, but also what the mode or scenario will be called—such as "Good Morning," "At Work" or "On Vacation."

Then, at the touch of a button on the TotalHome

In a typical scenario, the system will lower the temperature when you are at work, arm the security system and shut off forgotten appliances, all at the touch of a button.

panel, the homeowner can select any of these scenarios. With the proper pass code, the system can also be operated remotely or in the home using a touch-tone phone. Reported to be as easy to use as an automated teller machine, it provides the versatility and convenience a busy family with children needs.

In a typical scenario, a family may awake in the morning to a comfortable warm house, with coffee brewing and a lighted hallway leading to the bathroom. When leaving for work, homeowners could select a new scenario that lowers the temperature to save energy, shuts off forgotten appliances for safety, randomly turns lights on and off and arms the security system—all at the touch of a button. When the family arrives home, the system already would have returned their home to a comfortable living environment.

TotalHome's multiple user codes and authority levels make it easy to allow a babysitter or friend to enter the home without compromising security. Surprisingly affordable, the system is monitored 24 hours a day, 365 days a year by a local Honeywell customer service center.

Call toll-free 1-800-345-6770 ext. 2039 for more information on TotalHome.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Employees Turn Closed Plant Into Wildlife Haven

After 50 years of manufacturing elemental phosphorus in Columbia, Tennessee, Monsanto announced in the middle of the 1980's that operations would cease. In similar situations, companies sometimes elect to do only what is necessary to protect their property and prevent injury.

Instead, through the efforts of Monsanto employees in Columbia, the company's 5,000 acres in Tennessee have found new life as the Monsanto Wildlife Habitat Enhancement Area.

This was a natural extension of what was already happening to the land. Over the years, animals had started to use the property as a wildlife haven. Plant ore washing operations had created over 1,000 acres of wetland habitat. These ponds had become popular bird watching sites.

The phosphorus manufacturing operation, operated by Monsanto's Chemical Group, ended in 1986. Employees, who still run water treatment and phosphorus packaging operations

In 1987, in cooperation with the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency, the Tennessee Ornithological Society and other organizations, plans were made for a wildlife enhancement area.

The goals were to enhance the area as a wildlife habitat, to realize the most cost-effective method of managing the site, to maintain a greenbelt as a buffer zone for future use of the core plant area and to offer a convenient facility for observing many species of birds.

Most of the plant's workers became involved in turning the site into a wildlife area. Beginning in 1987, 60 half acre food plots were planted. Large areas were covered with grasses beneficial to wildlife. To provide food and cover, 20,000 shrubs, 15,000 oak seedlings and 2.7 million cypress seedlings were planted. Plans call for an additional 1.3 million cypress seedlings to be planted by 1996. Eighteen deer lick stations were established, and nesting boxes were installed for Canada geese, wood ducks, bluebirds and purple martins.

To ensure safety while providing for public access, a 200-acre wildlife observation area accessible from public roads was established. Two large observation blinds and a visitors center were built. In 1990, the area was dedicated as an official Tennessee Wildlife Observation Area.

Through this project, Monsanto employees have transformed what could have been unproductive land into a productive wildlife enhancement area. In recognition of this accomplishment, Monsanto has named the Columbia employee team as a recipient of a Monsanto Pledge Award, in the category of community service.

A Look At Sports—by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

WHERE HAS THE FOOTBALL SEASON GONE TO?

It's hard to believe that the 1992 football season has come to an end. It seems that it had only just begun and now here we are at the start of the high school playoffs. We have decided to put together this tab to just sort of reflect back on the past season of each team. We congratulate each team on their past season and even though some may not have been as successful as they had hoped, we know they gave their best. Inside this tab each teams' regular season will be looked back upon, as well as a look to next year.

This is the first tab of this sort and I am grateful for all the help from different sources who have made it possible, especially from my fellow workers who did so much to help and who did a lot in putting together the tab. And to our advertisers without whom this tab would not have been possible. But to more than anyone, I suppose, most appreciation goes to all the coaches and players who spent so many hours practicing and rehearsing their game plans. I want to say that I have enjoyed this football season more than any others. You made that possible for me and many, many other fans. While the season ends, we will be looking to next season when our county teams will be even more successful. God bless each of you!

Elementary sports will benefit high school programs

When the Floyd County Board of Education made a move to form a season for elementary football, they made a move that will eventually strengthen our high school programs.

The county fielded five grade school squads this year and formed the Floyd County Elementary Conference as well. It was a good full season. A full season in respect to the fact that the grade school basketball season was put on hold until the last of October. Therefore, basketball practice didn't interfere with grade school football as in the past.

The Adams Middle School Blackcats with an array of talent won the conference championship and fielded some very impressive players. Jon Morris, Matt Lafferty and Jon Luster formed a potent backfield behind quarterback Mike Castle. Glen Hale along with Rusty Young led the offensive and defensive line for the Blackcats.

While season was disappointing :

Allen Central Rebels did improve

"We won 200 percent more games this year than we did last season," said Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson in summing up the Rebels 2-8 season.

Allen Central failed to win a football game in 1991 and the Rebels dropped their first five games of 1992 to ride a 15 game losing streak that was snapped against Betsy Layne in game six.

While the Rebels got off to such a slow start, they did finish strong in the final four games and showed much improvement on offense.

Coach Jamerson led his team to a 6-5 finish in the 1990 season for their first-ever winning season. Graduation took 17 seniors from the team. As a result, the team had to rebuild last year (1991) around some young and inexperienced players.

But it got worse this season as Coach Jamerson was forced to play players in key positions that they never played before. Dave Gilliam, a defensive player his first two years, was put in the full-back position. Gilliam showed steady improvement in running the football and became one of the strongest runners the Rebels had. Kevin Patton continued to improve in the backfield and newcomer Glenn Floyd was just starting to peak when the season ended. The running game was pleasing to Coach Jamerson.

"I was pleased with the way we ran the football," said the Allen Central coach. "We ended the year with Dave (Gilliam), Kevin (Patton) and Glenn (Floyd) in the backfield and they averaged 4 yards a carry. I felt that we had good blocking on the line for our backfield."

Perhaps the most disap-

pointing thing for the Rebels this year was their passing game. Quarterback Brad Blackburn, while not take anything away from him, just didn't have the protection from the offensive line to throw the football.

"Yes, our passing game was the biggest disappointment to us," said Jamerson. "And the blame isn't on Brad at quarterback as much as it is on the line not allowing him time to throw the football."

Patton was the leading rusher for the Rebels, carrying the football 133 times for 683 yards for an average of 5 yards per carry. Gilliam rushed for 549 yards on 128 carries for an average of 7 yards per carry. Jason Clark carried 17 times for 85 yards.

James Osborne, who was injured against Sheldon Clark and had to miss the final three games, carried the football 42 times for 143 yards. Quarterback Brad Blackburn ended up with a minus 156 yards after being sacked several times. Floyd rushed for 381 yards on 81 carries.

Coach Jamerson stated that his team played the best football in the final five games than they have in two years.

"We're up from last year," said the Rebel mentor. "Our two wins show that. I feel that we played good football and that will be a help going into next year."

A LOOK BACK....

It was to be a season of high expectations for the departing seniors this year.

They felt that they could compete for a playoff spot while conceding the first two spots to Fleming-Neon and Pikeville.

The Rebels opened their season with the Elkhorn City Cougars, who struggled in the early going but finished third in the district. The Rebels' defense could not stop the running game of Aaron Blizzard and Joe Williams as they fell hard 44-6.

"Side-Saddle" Jack Hall hosted the Rebels on their home field and man-handled Allen Central easily in a game that Hall did not want to run up. "I wish we could have quit at halftime," said Hall. "I don't like beating a team so bad."

Taking their 0-2 record frying pan into the fire, the Rebels journeyed to Pike County to face last year's state runner-up, the Pikeville Panthers. It was a blowout as the Rebels dropped game number three and their third district game.

Allen Central returned home to face a up and down Johns Creek Bearcats team who also was looking for their first win of the season. The Bearcats came away with their first win as Allen Central was starting to show some improvement even though they fell to Johns Creek.

It was the Jenkins Cavaliers in a year that everyone came to Allen Central looking for their first win and getting it. Jenkins slapped the Rebels with their fifth consecutive loss of the season and a 15 game losing streak.

Looking to get well, and anxious to continue the newly founded good play, it was off to Betsy Layne and Coach John Derossett's ball club. While others came to Allen Central looking for their first win, so did Allen Central in motoring into Bobcat country. The Rebels responded with a 18-12 victory for their first victory of 1992 and snapped their 15 game losing streak.

The winning touchdown came when Brad Blackburn intercepted a Bryan Combs pass and raced 20 yards for the TD early in the fourth quarter.

With their confidence building, Allen Central met county rival Wheelwright on their own turf in the Battle of the Beavers. Some costly mistakes on defense as well as some offensive turnovers cost the Rebels the game that they dropped 40-28.

Allen Central felt that, although they lost to the Trojans, they had played good football and it showed at Magoffin County on October 23. The Rebels fell behind 8-0 to the Hornets, but they were not ready to throw in the towel. The result was a 21-8 come-from-behind win for the Rebels, their second of the year.

The Rebels completed the 1992 season falling hard at Sheldon Clark, while still playing well.

A LOOK AHEAD....

Unlike the 1992 season, the Rebels will enter the '93 era with only a one game losing streak and the future of Rebel football looks to be on the upswing although it may not come next year.

The board of education's ruling which set a time for a grade school football season will certainly give the Rebels a new look next season and surely in two years. The Allen Central Little Rebels placed second in the Floyd County Grade School Conference this year, a feat done with some very promising players for the future.

But the Rebels will definitely be a young team next year.

"We will be younger next season than what we were this year," said Coach Jamerson. "But that's good for two to three years down the road."

Floyd will return in the backfield for the Rebels and most likely will be the number one ball carrier. Steven Akers, who saw a lot of playing time at the halfback spot, will also return. Blackburn returns at the quarterback position and should be stronger than this past season. Allen Central definitely needs to develop a passing game to keep the defense honest.

A healthy James Osborne should be back for his junior year, along with Austin Shelton.

Scott Bellemy will lead the defensive line for the Rebels, along with Osborne, Shawn Robinson and Kelvin Dye.

Jim Reynolds and Adam Coleman will return at the end positions. Also returning will be John Collins and Robert Webb.

Two promising freshmen will give the Rebels a boost next season in Mike McKinney and Chris Bailey.

On the grade school level, Thomas Jenkins could be used at the end position with teammate Beau Tackett in the backfield. Eric Moore will be a strong candidate for the fullback spot.

"Our season next year will depend a lot on our eighth graders," said Jamerson. "They will see a lot of playing time as all freshmen do here at Allen Central. "With the bunch coming in, things are looking up."

Jamerson said that while he finished the season with 26 players, and three were injured, he expects to dress close to 40 players next year.

Coach John Derossett goes over game plan with back Doug Hammonds!

JEREMY WEBB

DAN STUMBO

Under DeRossett, Betsy Layne football will grow

It wasn't a very good season for first year coach John Derossett as his Betsy Layne Bobcats finished the 1992 season with a dismal 0-9 record. The Bobcats, dating back to last year, are currently on a 17 game losing streak that came when they dropped their season finale at Sheldon Clark.

When Derossett was named head football coach at Betsy Layne, the school's principal told the players that you "crawl the first year, walk the second and run the third year".

The reference of course was for a three-year plan to rebuild the struggling program and to bring some pride back into football at Betsy Layne.

The Bobcats elected to forego competing in District 2, Region 4, Class AA competition this year in order to schedule more teams that they could compete against while going through a rebuilding process.

It wasn't that the Bobcats did not have any talented players returning, because they did. Returning was one of the top quarterbacks with the strongest throwing arms in the region in Bryan Combs. Clyde Bush and Doug Hammonds also returned to run out of the backfield for Betsy Layne. Gary Arnold, a late addition to Bobcat football, became the leading receiver for Combs. Brad McKinney, Bryan Bowling, Jamie Newsome and Wayne Stevens were also returning for their senior season. Brandon Combs, a sophomore, continued to be a leader on defense for the Bobcats assisted by sophomore Shannon Hall.

But the program had gone through so much over the past three years that Mr. Osborne decided the best course was to drop out of district competition for three years, rebuild the grade school feeder system and hire a coach who would show the leadership the program was in need of.

Enter Derossett, a former assistant to Coach Bill Letton at Prestonsburg. Immediately, Derossett reopened the weight rooms and held camps throughout the summers months in his motivational process of instilling some Bobcat pride back into the program.

He immediately, at the start of the football season, brought together the students of Stumbo, Betsy Layne, Harold and Prater and formed the Sandy Valley Bobcats, an elementary team that showcased some promising prospects.

A'LOOK BACK....

The Bobcats season got underway under a disappointing note when they hosted the Wheelwright Trojans in the two teams traditional opener. At the start of the season the Bobcats coaching staff, as well as players, were very optimistic about the success of this year's program. Wheelwright scored early in the first quarter and took a 14-0 lead and made it hold up for the victory. But the Bobcats played excellent defensive football after the first quarter.

After Magoffin County, who went winless, was scratched from the schedule, Betsy Layne added the Phelps Hornets and felt the sting of the Hornets in a 30-0 road setback. Two games into the season, Betsy Layne had yet put some points on the scoreboard.

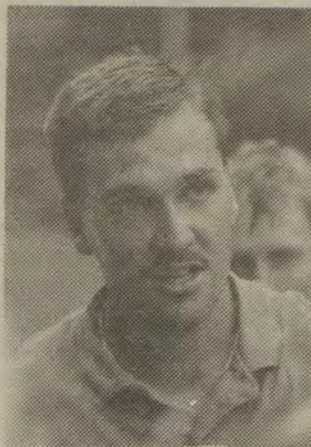

Three games deep into the season, another team that was struggling to score, Morgan County, made an appearance at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex. Morgan County had struggled like the Bobcats in their first two games. But the Pirates came to town to steal a 19-6 victory over Betsy Layne in a game they were favored to win.

After a week off from the gridiron, Coach Derossett's ball club was to face a veteran Prestonsburg squad and old familiar faces. The Blackcats were just coming off a 30-0 setback at the hands of the Belfry Pirates and some wonder if the Blackcats defense would even allow Betsy Layne into Blackcat territory.

But despite losing for the fourth time, Betsy Layne did put 24 points on the scoreboard as the offense showed some signs of coming to life. Dewey Jamerson's Allen Central Rebels were floating on the same seas as the Bobcats and had yet to post a win for the 1992 season. It was a good football game between the two winless schools.

Both ball clubs played to a 12-12 tie and Betsy Layne started the final quarter with the football. On a third-and-long play, Combs had a pass intercepted by Brad Blackburn who returned the interception 20 yards for a touchdown and a 18-12 lead that held up for the final score.

Out of the final four games remaining on the Bobcats schedule, only Kentucky School for the Deaf looked like a team the Bobcats could snap their losing streak against. Following a romp by Whitesburg over Betsy Layne, the Bobcats traveled to Danville to face the Colonels. The result was a 28-13 setback and only Elkhorn City and Sheldon Clark remained on the schedule.

Betsy Layne did perform well against the Cougars - rather their passing game was well. Combs tossed for 281 yards against Elkhorn City, but the Cougars prevailed 36-12. A devastating 64-14 at Sheldon Clark closed out the Bobcats regular season at 0-9.

A LOOK AHEAD.....

Next year the Bobcats have plans to lighten their schedule more because of the youth that will be the make of the team.

But, it is only fair to say that those who return for Betsy Layne next season will comprise a much stronger team than this year's addition. While Betsy Layne may not set any records next year, they will be a much improved ballclub with the return of Adam Roberts (junior) at fullback, as well as Rocky Hamilton (sophomore) in the backfield. Junior Marty Hamilton will also be coming back for the Bobcats. Brandon "Bubba" Combs will also return to once again lead both lines for Betsy Layne, along with sophomore Shannon Hall.

Eighth graders who will make a showing next year will be Craig Hamilton and Doug Keathley.

Some freshmen to watch next season is Jamie Garrett, Tim Hunt and Rodney Hamilton.

Look for Coach Derossett to take a long look at who will be on the Bobcats schedule next season. The one question mark facing the Bobcats next season is: Who will step in and take Bryan Combs place at quarterback? Our bet is that it will be Adam Roberts.

WAY TO GO TEAMS! GOOD LUCK NEXT SEASON!

DWAYNE GARZA

Blackcats have banner sea

The 1991 football season for the Prestonsburg Blackcats was a year to remember. The Cats started out with an 0-4 record after dropping the first four contests of the season. Coach Bill Letton's ballclub regrouped and responded by running off six consecutive wins and capturing a district title before losing to Mason County in the regional playoffs.

Now the 1992 season has started and is over. The Blackcats and their reputation on the line for never quitting was upheld this season as they finished with an outstanding 9-1 regular season record and handed Mason County a solid 29-12 defeat in the first game of the Region IV, Class 2A playoffs to give them an overall record of 10-1.

It has been a satisfying season for the returning Blackcats. But the most disappointing game of the season for the ballclub was a 30-0 shellacking at the hands of the Belfry Pirates.

"That one game I'll always look back on," said senior quarterback Aaron Tucker who has shown a great amount of maturity the last two seasons to lead the Blackcats. "I think that if the two ballclubs played again, I don't think they could shut us out again. It definitely would be different if we played again."

Tucker is not surprised by the way this Prestonsburg team has performed this season in going 9-1.

"Before the season started people didn't think we would be as good as we are," said

Tucker. "But we have worked hard during practice and I knew we were going to be a good football team."

Tucker said he knew that Sheldon Clark, Belfry and Shelby Valley would be the Blackcats toughest opponents this season.

"We played hard against Whitesburg and Shelby Valley this year," said the signal caller for the Cats. "We went to Belfry and we were too cocky when we went up there. That was a good Belfry team that night."

A LOOK BACK....

Prestonsburg won their first four games of the season before they dropped their only loss to the Pirates. The Blackcats took on 4A Johnson Central, whose program has been struggling of late, and came away with a solid 28-19 win over the Golden Eagles to get 1992 on a positive start. Senior Todd Clark emerged as a leading defensive gem for the Blackcats with nine solo hits and he recovered two fumbles.

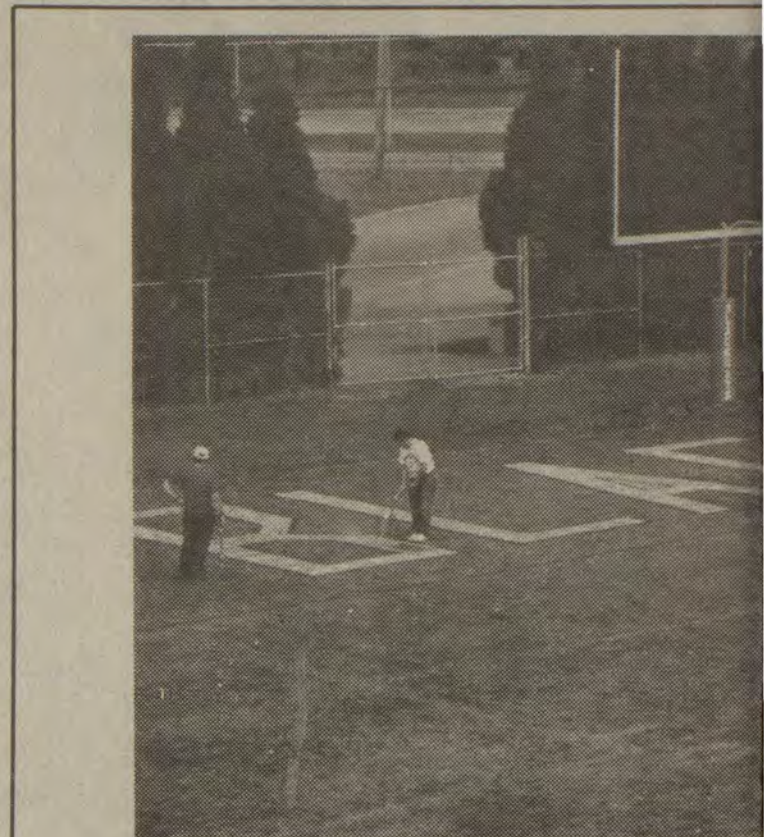

It was a trio in the backfield that gave the Eagles' defensive line fits. Junior Dwayne Garza rushed for 79 yards, Seth Hyden 76 yards and Jody Cornette totaled 40 yards to lead the ground game for Prestonsburg. Each of the backs scored a touchdown.

But the game with the Golden Eagles gave the fans a first-hand look at Marcus Araujo, from Brazil, who had never played football before. Araujo has become one of the area's leading kickers. He drilled four extra points in his debut against the Golden Eagles and went on to kick 17 consecutive points before missing.

One of the more dramatic games of the season for Prestonsburg came when the Cats traveled all the way to Middlesboro to meet a team that handled Prestonsburg 30-0 at home last season. But it wasn't the same team that went to Middlesboro. It was more mature squad that had grown up some from last year and the result was a 21-20 win on the road in a tough place to play.

Trailing 20-15 late in the game, Tucker spearheaded a drive that saw Garza run the ball in from the 4-yard line with 7:58 left in the game to give Prestonsburg a 21-20 lead.

Still plenty of time remained in the contest. It was time for the defense to grow up some and that they did. The defense, not the quitting time, held the Yellowjackets and forced them to punt, with Prestonsburg taking over the football with 5:56 left in the game.

It was a masterpiece the way Tucker directed his squad. However, the big play came with 2:44 left in the game with the Cats facing a fourth-and-one. Cornett took the handoff and just flipped in the air but landed with enough for the first down. The Cats just ran out the clock as Middlesboro had no remaining time-outs.

Prestonsburg came back home to face arch rival Whitesburg and posted a rather easy 42-8 win over yet another Yellowjacket team in a game that many thought would be closer than it was.

Following the 30-0 loss to Belfry, Prestonsburg faced a Betsy Layne program that was trying to rebuild and Prestonsburg rolled to a 42-24 win over former Blackcat assistant John Derossett's ballclub.

The final five games would be district games and would pose some very tough opponents down the stretch. Shelby Valley made an appearance at the Prestonsburg Stadium and the Blackcats put on an offensive show posting a 47-26 win over the Wildcats, improving to 2-0 in district play.

The question around Prestonsburg was: Could Prestonsburg beat the Sheldon Clark Cardinals who were riding a seven-game winning streak and standing at 7-0 overall?

Prestonsburg had just beaten a young Magoffin County squad 60-18 and was not looking at the Cardinals as the team motored into town on October 16. The fans came early and the stadium was packed that night in what was anticipated to be the game of the year. No one left the stands disappointed except for many Cardinal fans as Prestonsburg recorded a 48-43 win over a very good Sheldon Clark team. As it turned out, it would be the only regular season loss for the Cards. Garza rushed for 112 yards and scored two touchdowns and a conversion. Sophomore Thomas Ratliff had three receptions and two for TDs against the Cardinals.

Prestonsburg now had sole possession of first place in the district. They went on to have little trouble with Morgan County (48-0) and M.C. Napier (20-0) in the final two regular season games. The Napier game was thought to be a hard one, but the Cats handled the Navajos in the mud easily.

For the regular season, Garza leads the rushing game with 878 yards on 130 carries for an average of 6.75 yards per carry. He scored 11 touchdowns and averaged 87.8 yards per game.

Tailback Seth Hyden, a strong performer, carried the football 87 times for 686 yards for an average of 7.8 yards per carry. Hyden scored 10 touchdowns this season and averaged 68.6 yards per game in rushing.

Jody Cornette, the third man in the backfield, carried the football 53 times for 366 yards, an average of 36.6 yards per game and 6.9 yards per carry. Cornett scored three touchdowns.

Tucker rushed for 312 yards on 37 carries which comes to 31.2 yards per game and 8.4 yards per carry. Tucker scored eight touchdowns for the regular season.

In the passing department for the past season, Tucker completed 28 passes in 66 attempts for 660 yards and 10 touchdowns. He was inter-

Final year for Trojans a good one as they make playoffs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Second year coach Donnie Daniels accomplished what he set out to do when he took over the Wheelwright Trojans football program in 1991. The Trojans has spent the past three years struggling as they tried to build the program. Daniels arrival at Wheelwright signal a different approach and the result was a .500 season as the Trojans finished 5-5.

In 1992 the results were a tad better as the Trojans reached the playoffs for the first time since 1971. The Trojans finished the regular season with a 5-5 record, but the playoff berth was a welcome goal in what will be the final year of Trojan football. The school consolidates with McDowell next year.

Coach Daniels and his staff at Wheelwright needed only one win in the final two games to assure them of their first winning season since the 1973 season. But a trip to small Ironton St. Joe was a disaster and the final game against Elkhorn City proved too fruitless.

Quarterback Steven Shelton has been a consistent performer all year for the Trojans in his senior season. Shelton, while not possessing one of the stronger throwing arms, used his knowledge of the game in some very impressive situations.

Shelton had a young but experienced backfield behind him. Just a junior, but still a veteran, Arnold Adams is one of the hard-nosed runners that Wheelwright had this season. Adams carried the football 148 times this season for 788 yards for an average of 5.8 yards per carry. Adams averaged 78.8 yards per game.

Oden, the speedster on the Trojan squad, did not carry the ball as much as Adams, but did manage the most on his carries. He had two outstanding games with 237 yards in two outings. Oden totaled 817 yards on 114 carries for an average of 81.7 yards per game and 7.9 yards per carry.

A LOOK BACK....

The Trojans opened the 1992 season at home with a 14-0 win over Betsy Layne. Adams gained 98 yards against the Bobcats. Wheelwright scored early in the first quarter on a 7-yard run by Oden and then later on a touchdown pass from Shelton to Charles Johnson.

After the first period TDs, the Trojans, along with the Bobcats, could not generate any kind of offense.

Wheelwright then left the friendly confines of Brackett Field and embarked on what would be four games on the road. It all started at Johns Creek where the Trojans picked up a double overtime win from the Bearcats to run their record to 2-0 in the early going. Adams rushed for 118 yards as well as scoring the winning TD in the second overtime. Coach Daniels was elated with the start of his Trojan team.

It got better for Wheelwright in game three when the Trojans pulled off a big win that really helped them to set the tone in going to the playoffs. It was on the "road again" as they traveled to Phelps and pulled out a thrilling 16-14 win in a come-from-behind effort.

Wheelwright took control of the football with 2:51 left in the game and trailing 14-8 to the Hornets. With the ball on the Hornets' 2-yard line on a fourth-and-goal play, Oden fell across the line with the upper half of his body and the football to tie the score with 10 seconds left in the game. From the three, Adams ran the ball into the end zone for the two-point conversion after the coaching staff rejected the thought of going for the extra point. The result was a 16-14 win and a perfect 3-0 record.

Wheelwright stayed on the road the following week and they knew that where they were about to journey to — Pikeville — was no easy place to win.

But if the Trojans were intimidated, it didn't show as they played the three-time state champions down to the wire. In fact, Wheelwright held a 12-8 lead late in the game only to lose it 20-12.

Many Trojan fans will tell you that after the stunning loss to Pikeville, the Trojans were never the same again. Their defense, which carried them in the first three games, seemed to have disappeared.

The offensive line couldn't open up the holes it once did. Adams and Oden struggled to get some yardage.

Taking their 3-1 record, it was necessary to take off for the fourth consecutive game on the road — Fleming-Neon. Jack Hall country where the side-saddle offense grew in fame. Coach Daniels said that the bad thing about the offense was "there is no way to prepare for it." Lack of preparation was evident as the Trojans limped home after suffering an embarrassing 48-0 loss to the Pirates.

Standing at 3-2 on the season and 2-2 in district play, Wheelwright returned home much to the relief of the players and coaching staff. "It was good to get home," is the way Coach Daniels put it as he was anxious for his ballclub to get back in front of the home crowd again. It was the Jenkins Cavaliers supplying the opposition and the Cavaliers made the welcome game a disaster with a 26-13 win as the Trojans did not perform up to their expectations.

While being down somewhat over the past three games, the Trojans did find some consolation as they faced a good Kentucky School for the Deaf on homecoming night at Wheelwright. The Trojans were able to contain Pat Harris, highly-heralded running back who was just a freshman. The Trojans won in the "Mud Bowl" game 22-14 to regain some of the lost zeal they once had.

It was the Allen Central Rebels, winners of one game, coming to Brackett Field and the Trojans seemed to get well fast for their county rivals. It was at this time that the Rebels were starting to show signs of jelling together. Wheelwright won their second consecutive game as they posted a 40-28 win over Allen Central and evened their district record at 3-3.

A winning season was in the air for the first time in several years for the Trojans. Also a third place finish in district play was possible.

But first, Wheelwright had business to take care of across the Ohio River in a town called Ironton. Ironton St. Joe, a small Catholic school of approximately 100 students awaited the arrival of the mighty Trojans. When the smoke (fog) had all cleared, it was a stunned Wheelwright team that saw the reading on the scoreboard — St. Joe 34, Wheelwright 19. It was a long and quiet ride back home to prepare for the season finale against Elkhorn City.

Two things were now riding on the Elkhorn City game — a winning season and a third place finish in the district. A win over the Cougars would give the Trojans both.

But it wasn't to be. Elkhorn City handled the Trojans rather easily with a solid 44-0 win as the regular season came to an end.

A LOOK AHEAD.....

While the Trojans are in the playoff as of this writing, Wheelwright will return some very promising young players with Adams. Oden and Shelton will leave after this school year and Wheelwright will no longer be a high school but will merge with McDowell.

Coach Daniels has a good solid club returning next year and with the consolidation with McDowell, he hopes to bring in some new faces that will make the Trojan program competitive next year.

cepted five times.

Thomas Ratliff was the leading Blackcat receiver with nine receptions for 247 yards, an average of 27.4 yards per reception. Four went for touchdowns.

Jason Crisp was on the receiving end with six receptions for 207 yards and four touchdowns. Crisp averaged 34.5 yards per reception.

Hyden had six receptions for 120 yards and one touchdown.

As a team, Prestonsburg carried the ball 388 times for 2,714 yards for an average of 7 yards per carry and 271 per game. The Blackcats had 756 yards passing for a total offense of 3,470 yards, an average of 347 per game.

A LOOK AHEAD...

Garza, Hyden and Cornette will return in the backfield for the Blackcats, but Prestonsburg will lose Tucker. Heir apparent at the quarterback position will be Thomas Ratliff.

On the offensive line, Kyle Fitzpatrick will return for his senior year as will Ryan Elliott. Kevin Farthing, Brad Wells and Larry Morris also will be back.

Look for Robbie Risner, Jason Spencer, Clint Shutt and Jason Spurlock to add to the program next year.

ence was the Allen Central Little Rebels, a combination of Duff, Maytown and Martin. Quarterback for the Little Rebs was Eric "Scooter" Moore. Moore had plenty of help in end Thomas Jenkins, a first year player. Jenkins possesses a good pair of hands at the end spot and with his 6' 1" frame gave the height advantage over his opponents.

Beau Tackett, another first year player, ran the backfield for the Rebels. The Varney boys, Mark, Paul and Matt, led the defensive side for Allen Central.

Betsy Layne finished third in the conference behind the running of Craig Hunter and Doug Keathley. Look for some good things about these two down the road to "The Hill."

The Osborne Eagles found some success this year with Scotty Johnson calling the signals at quarterback. Osborne has some talented ball players that Wheelwright coach Donnie Daniels will be using next season.

The Allen Eagles, traditionally a strong team, was down some this year, but coaches Mike Click and David Mosley always has a strong squad.

Overall, the grade school season was a great success and one hopes that the program will continue to grow in numbers as well as in quality.

We salute the achievements of all Floyd County Students in the classroom, on the playing field, and in the game of life.

FOOTBALL QUIZ

HOW WELL DO YOU KNOW FOOTBALL?

So, you're a football junkie? You know all the players, coaches and teams? Why you even know what the referee's calling with all his multitude of signals.

Well, weather you're an avid or an occasional participant in football, it's time to test your football knowledge. Match up the following football terms with their definitions to see if you really know as much as you think you do.

- | | |
|--------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Advance | a. Desperate long pass attempted by the losing team when the clock is running down. |
| 2. Buck | b. Passer's act of submission to a sack instead of chancing a poorly thrown pass. |
| 3. Cadence | c. Carrying the football into the middle of the defensive line or into the area where most of the defensive players are. |
| 4. Daylight | d. When one of the players slips in behind the blockers to stop a rushing attempt. |
| 5. Eat the ball | e. Nickname for a small ball carrier with great speed and deceptive moves. |
| 6. Encroachment | f. Signal calling rhythm used by the quarterback. |
| 7. Fake | g. Penalty when a player on the defensive violates the scrimmage line neutral zone at the snap. |
| 8. Gridiron | h. Rushing attempts made in the holes between the two tackles. |
| 9. Hail Mary Pass | i. Pass route. Involves a receiver running directly toward the sideline and then cutting sharply toward the goal line. |
| 10. Inside game | j. Any hole or opening in the defensive line through which a rusher can gain yardage. |
| 11. Kamikaze Squad | k. Simulated handoff to a running back by a quarterback |
| 12. Leakage | l. Nickname for the speciality unit |
| 13. Out and up | m. Slang word for the football field. |
| 14. Scat back | n. to move the ball forward and gain yardage |
| 15. Twinkle toes | o. Slang for an agile, cute, swift ball carrier who doesn't like physical contact. |

Look for answers elsewhere in football tab.
