Commission won't permit live racing in 1993:

Racing project stalls in the starting gate

by Geoff Belcher Staff Writer

The battle to bring harness racing to Eastern Kentucky stood tall in the saddle Friday, but stumbled on a second hurdle Tuesday when the Kentucky Racing Commission denied rights to conduct live racing at Kentucky Downs in 1993.

Although Eastern Kentucky Racing's contract with Keeneland is dated for last spring, Jennings said he would attempt to get telecast rights for the fall season.

It is currently unclear how the commission's mandate will affect the newly formed Prestonsburg/Floyd County interlocal partnerships efforts to construct a live racing track.

Clara Jarvis, 32, of Banner died after she drove into the path of an 82 Mack utility truck on US 23 at Ivel. The accident happened at 6:55 a.m.

Witnesses at the scene said Jarvis had just let her two children out of the car to catch a school bus and was waving goodbye to them when the accident happened.

Floyd County deputy sheriff Dwayne Jarrell, who was fueling up at the Ivel BP Station, also witnessed the accident and radioed for assistance. Jarrell said the truck driver, Charles Castle Jr., 27, of Offutt in Johnson County, was so shaken after the accident that he had to be taken to the hospital for treatment.

"He told me that he saw her car and said 'please don't pull out," Jarrell said. "The truck driver said he couldn't swerve to the right because there was a group of children waiting for the school bus."

The Jarvis vehicle, a Plymouth Horizon, became tangled beneath the truck and was dragged for several hundred feet before it caught fire, witnesses said.

Allen Volunteer firemen responded to the scene, extinguished the fire and assisted with traffic control. The southbound lane of US 23 was closed for approximately two Eastern Kentucky school systems," Towler said. "It's a trend that we must pay attention to and we must deal with."

The drop in attendance will amount to a $3,000 a day loss in state average daily attendance funds which could cost the system $500,000 in funding for the 1993-94 school year.

The loss of students may also result in overstaffing in the schools.

"If we didn't allow for the anticipated drop in enrollment, we may be over our staff ratio," Towler said. "I don't know if we are overstaffed, we'll have to take a look at that."

Towler added that a continued decline in enrollment could result in a loss of teaching positions and other jobs in the school system. It could also call for further consolidation of schools, he said.

meet Sunday's deadline.

Both tempers and temperatures ran high Thursday evening as private citizens and coal officials made emotional appeals for and against Costain Coal Incorporated's proposed landfill before members of the Kentucky Cabinet for Natural Resources Division of Waste Management.

The public hearing was the third and final phase of the installment of Costain's proposed residual landfill, which would contain fly and bottom ash from coal produced by Costain and incinerated by an out-of-state

Opponents of the landfill fear its proximity to the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River, the main drinking supply for much of Eastern Kentucky, would pose devastating health and environmental hazards.

The landfill's proponents however, fear that denying the landfill's construction would cost Eastern Kentucky jobs and would cause the region to fall behind in its competition with other coal-producing states.

Craig Turnbo, project manager for the engineering firm which designed the landfill facility, International Technologies Corporation, opened Thursday's proceedings with a detailed analysis of the landfill's design. Turnbo said that the facility had been designed to exceed the state of Kentucky's stringent environmental regulations and that coal ash posed far less hazard than trash deposited in a traditional solid waste dump.

However, the prevailing opinion among the Ivel and Big Sandy Citizens, the citizens action committee which spearheaded the protest, is that

Floyd Countians who, due to advanced age, illness or injury, face possible placement in a nursing home new hope.

McDowell Home Health, under the auspices of Appalachian Regional Health Care's Division of Home Services, now offers services that will allow people to stay in the comfort of their own homes rather than being institutionalized.

Floyd Davis, Administrative Assistant for McDowell Home Health, said Thursday that the project was made possible through the Home/ Community-Based Waiver Program.

The idea, Davis said, was develhaving to go into intermediate nursing homes. Medicaid covers all costs of the project.

McDowell Home Health, affiliated with the McDowell Appalachian or other such institution now have Regional Health Care hospital, is one of ten home health agencies statewide and is the test center for the home health care project. After the project is perfected, it will be replicated at each of the other home health care agencies in the state.

> Through McDowell Home Health, homemaker aides provide in-home services such as personal care, housework, grocery shopping, or just keeping the patient company.

Anthony Cerrito, Assistant Administrator for the Division of Home Services, said that an added bonus is oped through Medicaid and the home that the homemaker aides provide health agency as a service for those relief for patients' family members, who would otherwise be performing those services themselves.

Home health services are much less costly than a nursing home, Davis said. By focusing on exactly what each patient specifically needs rather than providing a broad general range of services, home health care eliminates unnecessary expenditure.

"It's a win/win/win situation," Cerrito said. The patients' dignity is preserved by allowing them to stay where they feel most comfortable; family members are granted respite from the 24 hours per day, 7 days per week responsibility of caring for the patient; and the state saves money.

Aside from personal care and chore services, Davis said, McDowell Home Health can also arrange for other agencies, such as Meals on Wheels or the Christian Appalachian Project, to provide services the patient might need.

Floyd sending aid to hurricane victims

Contributing Writer

The Floyd County Chapter of the American Red Cross is currently involved in raising money for victims of Hurricane Andrew. Currently 39,000 people in Florida and 31,000 people in Louisiana are living in temporary shelters. Thomasine Robinson, county chairperson for the Red Cross, says right now there is a much bigger need for money than supplies. This is due to the fact there is no place to store donated items in the hurricane-stricken communities.

This evening (Wednesday) a telethon supporting the cause will be held at Tel-Com in Harold. It will be televised live on Channel 5 from 7-12 p.m. Various music acts and guest speakers will be the entertainment at the event. Volunteers are needed to answer the telephones at the telethon. To donate, call 478-2701.

Malcom Layne of Layne Brothers Ford and Coleman Oil have volunteered their services in helping victims of Hurricane Andrew. Ms. Allen failed this trust on two counts: Gross inaccuracy and extremely selective quotation choice.

I said Dr. Steven Towler as District Superintendent, should receive any credit forthcoming. Ms. Allen has been asked to retract her

Secondly, whether intentional or not, quotations used in the article cast my comments in an entirely negative context. In the interest of balanced reporting, my three primary points during the interview were:

(1) Dr. Boysen's letter was concise and clear as to the actions he is recommending the Board take. No mention was made of Board member removal until the press conference. I have called Dr. Boysen concerning this, but he has not returned my call.

(2) I see no problem in developing both short and long term improvement plans, and, in fact, am certain that Dr. Towler had already planned

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

After carefully scrutinizing a number of state and regional opinion pages for the past several weeks, we have arrived at a most enlightening conclusion.

More Kentuckians are apt to get their shorts in a wad over criticism of Billy Ray Cyrus' singing and dancing ability than they are over any other issue of current interest.

Rarely has a day passed, for example, in the letters section of the Herald-Leader where some writer isn't criticizing the critic who criticized Billy Ray.

Forget the problems of education reform being deformed; that the state is still writing checks despite having no money in the bank; and that some legislators are selling their influence for pocket change.

Those apparently are not panic situations. Sound a sour note on Billy Ray Cyrus, though, and you're subject to have your head made all achy breaky.

We have some amazing priorities, don't we?

The task force charged with coming up with ethics legislation to govern the way our elected officials act has recommended placing a $500 limit on the goodies they can receive from all lobbyists seeking to influence their votes.

Unless we're mistaken, that's a hundred bucks more than the $400 some legislators took for their votes in the currently-underfederal-investigation influence peddling scam in Frankfort.

Guess if we're going to limit legislators to one vote-sale per year, the least we can do is give them a cost of living raise.

Ritchie Farmer, the sweetheart of UK basketball fans everywhere, is now a bestselling author-at least in Lexington.

Better get 'em while they're hot. After all, the "life story" of someone who's what, 24 years old, is subject to change pretty quick. We'll wait for the movie.

> By the Pikeville Chapter's Public Relation's Committee

Editor's Note: This article is an address delivered to the Floyd County Board of Education at the August board meeting.

I am here this evening to again represent our committee's interest in the construction of a new high school to serve the needs of the north end of Floyd County and to urge this board to (1) proceed immediately with the site preparation phase of the Prestonsburg High School replacement facility on the only state approved site, the Middle Creek site, and (2) to change the name of the facility to North Floyd High School effective upon relocation to Middle Creek. We feel that the name change to North Floyd is absolutely necessary in order to truly reflect the geographic region served by the school. I would remind you that this school serves three board districts in Floyd County and this is out of necessity district one the school also serves Chairman Campbell's district, district two, which includes Allen and goes north on old U.S. 23 to Cow Creek and Mr. Duff's district, district five, which travels east on Route 80 down Water Gap to U.S. 23 and north on KY 404 (David Road) to KY 114. Another important statistic is school records which indicate that 80% of the students attending Prestonsburg High School are from outside the city limits of Prestonsburg whereas 20% are from within. Hence, our committee stands firm on the conviction that this school is a large county high school and it is time that the school is recognized accordingly.

On January 16, 1990, Mr. Jim Judge, KY. Department of Education, visited seven possible sites to review for a new high school in district one (one of these sites was the old drive-in theater property) and on April 20, 1990, Mike Luscher, Director of Facilities Management, and Mr. Barney Tucker, a member of the State Board of Education, visited the same sites for review. Of these seven sites only one was approved, the Middle Creek site. In a letter received October 12, 1990 by then Superintendent Ron Hager from the Executive Director of the School Facilities Construction Commission, Mr. Hager was notified that "the SFCC would participate in site acquisition at the fair market value as determined by qualified appraiser at $400,000."

The Middle Creek site was approved because it meets the minimum size requirements, is accessible from a major highway artery without traffic congestion, and the site does not flood. In addition, the Middle Creek site is a more logistic site for transportation networking and this will be especially true in relation to its close proximity to the new U.S. 23; the location itself can provide more security for students especially during school hours; and the site has more than adequate access to the necessary utilities. Also, excess dirt produced during site excavation could be diverted to the current Clark Elementary School football field to greatly enhance the value and usability of this property.

After talking with several KY. Department of Education officials our committee feels certain that the drivein theater site will not (and should not) be approved by the state and we have petitioned the Department of Education to that effect. According to the site criteria as stated in statute the minimum size of a high school site shall be ten acres plus an additional acre for each 100 or fraction of 100 students of anticipated enrollment (the interpretation here is usable acreage). The district must also produce certification that the property is above the 100-year flood plain.

At the present time an amount of money in excess of $100,000 has either been expended or encumbered in relation to the Middle Creek property. In an opinion rendered by Mr. Bob Coakley of the KY. Department of Education on March 4, 1991, Mr. Coakley stated that "if the Middle Creek site should be abandoned these monies would no longer be considered as a reimbursable expense or a receivable from the S.F.C.C., but would have to be considered a payable from the general account of the school board." This fact and the 'in excess of 10% site acquisition and site preparation clause' in the S.F.C.C. funding guidelines are the basis for our committee's belief and conviction that this board cannot afford to abandon Middle Creek nor would it be economically feasible to do so in the long run.

The question is simply this, what do we want for the youth of the north end of Floyd county? Do we want a site whose maximum usable acreage will be approximately seven (7) acres just to appease a few people or do we want a 110 acre tract of land with unlimited developmental possibilities where expansion and growth will be feasible for many years to come?

Health clinic closing in Virgie

A medical group announced Monday that it has temporarily closed the only clinic in the remote Appalachian community after doctors received threats for refusing to prescribe narcotics to some patients.

Good Health Centers Inc. began operating the Virgie Clinic following the death last month of Dr. Charles Sowards, who had been put on state medical probation for five years for his prescription practices, allegedly for dispensing pain killers, sleeping pills and other drugs indiscriminately. The group will reopen soon in a new location in the Pike County community, said Linda Cruse, the group's executive director. — The Courier-Journal president who received fewer votes than his opponent.

That was due to the Electoral College system, which allocates each state's vote on a "winner-take-all" basis

according to the size of its congressional delegation.

Each time this has happened, it has resulted in widespread outrage from those who thought democracy had been turned on its ear. Even in recent years, we have had some close calls. For example, a shift of merely 10,000 votes in Hawaii and Ohio in 1976 would have given

NO

Should the Electoral College be abolished in favor of electing the president by direct popular vote?

No. The intent of the framers of the Constitution was to give each state a voice in selecting the president. Requiring the states to choose electors who cast the votes to elect the president keeps the elections from being dominated by the most populous states.

Direct election would dilute the power of smaller states and would increase unfairly the influence of large cities and population centers in presidential politics.

What effect would eliminating the Electoral College have on presidential campaigns?

Presidential candidates would tend to ignore smaller states, or even regions with fewer voters, and concentrate their time, organizational efforts and appeal for support in the most populous areas. Entire sections of the country could be overlooked or ignored as the candidates designed their campaign strategies to gather votes in the more densely populated sections of the

What impact would abolishing the Electoral College have on our system of government?

Farmers and rural landowners would become political outcasts. It would be likely for the president to pay much more attention to the interests of the cities than the problems of rural America. Political power in our federal government would shift away from small towns and rural communities to the urban areas. Those states without large population centers would be effectively disenfranchised.

The U.S. Senate would be the only institution left in our federal system to guarantee equal consideration of the interests and well-being of the smaller states.

If more college and university teachers worked with their school districts, they could enrich and engage students in high schools and grade schools." He feels Kentucky is not using the very valuable resource of college teachers. Such sharing would benefit both the colleges and the public schools.

New ROTC commander at EKU has Prestonsburg connections

Officially, Eastern Kentucky University's Homecoming is October 3 this year.

For Lt. Col. David Shrout, however, it's Homecoming all year long. Shrout, a 1973 EKU graduate and

Mt. Sterling native, has been named to head Eastern's nationally-recognized Army ROTC program. It's also Homecoming for Shrout's wife, the former Jane Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Wright of Prestonsburg.

He takes over a program that, for each of the past two years, has been recognized as the Overall Best Battalion in the large-program category in its nine-state region. It's also a program long on tradition. Shrout is one of nearly 2,000 EKU cadets who have been commissioned as second lieutenants since the program's inception in 1936.

"This has always been one of the top programs in the country," Shrout said. "The University and community have always been strong supporters of the ROTC program."

When Shrout was a cadet here in the early '70s, ROTC was mandatory for male students. Now about 350 students take military science courses at Eastern and an average of 30-35 earn commissions each year.

But smaller numbers don't mean ate. reduced quality, Shrout said. "The program has declined in size through the years, but the quality has increased significantly. We ask a lot of our students. It's a very challenging pro-

"We want to attract as many quality students as we can into the ROTC program, and provide the professional development and leadership training required to earn their commissions. We must be honest with them, and prepare them to be Army officers. We're training the future leaders of the Army. It's a big responsibility."

Despite military cutbacks, Shrout said the future remains promising for cadets who earn their commissions through Eastern's ROTC program.

"The number of second lieutenants being brought into the Army will actually increase," Shrout said. "The preparation and training received in the program give them a good start. Of course, like in any profession, it's what you do with your training and future development that matters."

Cadets can be sure of one thing: that they'll get a chance to prove

"There aren't too many careers that will take a college graduate and give him or her as much responsibility and leadership opportunities upon graduation than the Army does," Shrout said.

"And whether they stay in the military or not, the leadership training they receive is invaluable in any profession they choose."

Shrout, who earned a bachelor's degree in recreation administration at Eastern and a master's degree in logistics management at Florida Institute of Technology, has 18 years experience in the aviation branch of the Army, most recently as director of logistics of the 98th Area Support Group, Wuerzburg, Germany. He is a graduate of the Armor Officer's Basic and Advance Courses, Rotary Wing Officer Course, Army Command and General Staff College and the Armed Forces Staff College.

Now, after making 11 moves in 18 years, he is back in a part of the world he calls home.

"I had always said I wanted to return to Eastern in some capacity," Shrout said. "My family and I were very excited to learn of the availability of the position."

A former Floyd County resident has been named Teacher of the Year in Jessamine County.

Kathleen Lamar, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Rondall Leslie of Prestonsburg, was named Jessamine County's Middle School teacher of the year during a reception on May 20 in Jessamine County.

Lamar is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Transylvania University and the University of Kentucky. This year marks her seventh year of teaching L. D. students at Jessamine County Middle

She will receive a $500 grant to purchase instructional materials and will have her name entered in the running for Kentucky Teacher of the Year honors.

Teachers of the Year candidates were nominated by parents, students, fellow-teachers, or other school employees. Nominees completed an application which was reviewed by a panel composed of the previous year's award recipients, a school board member, a parent, a student, and the curriculum supervisor.

Employment in the health service industry will grow by 3.9 million jobs between 1990 and 2005, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.

Floyd County road projects are planned

Kentucky Transportation Cabinet Secretary Don C. Kelly has announced the approval of a road improvement project for Floyd County. The project entails the placement of blacktop patching along a 2.5 mile section of Bill Hall Branch (KY 680).

The project is expected to total approximately $32,505 and will be included in the state's Rural Secondary Program. The program is funded by revenues generated from the gasoline tax, designated by Kentucky statute, to upgrade the state's secondary road system. Funds are allocated to each county based on population, land size and rural road mile-

The project will be completed through the award of a contract and will be advertised for bids as soon as possible.

Call-A-Nurse

Highlands Call-A-Nurse R.N.'s Melissa Shave (left) and Susie Osborne are there to answer your health questions or concerns from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Call-A-Nurse working, hours extended

It's 7:00 a.m. and you're trying to decide if you should send your child to school with a slight sore throat and fever, or your husband has come home from work and says he's having some chest pain. One of the most agonizing experiences we have all had at one time or another is what to do when you, your child, or other family member is sick and your doctors office is closed. Fevers, sore throats, and chest pains may all be minor or indicate more serious conditions.

This is when Call-A-Nurse can help. And to serve the public even better, Highlands Call-A-Nurse program has extended its hours of operation from 7:00 a.m. through 7 p.m. Should you face a medical question or health care concern during the early morning hours before your doctor's office opens or in the late afternoon, Call-A-Nurse is there to answer your questions, ease your fears, and to provide assistance in solving the problem.

One user of Highlands Call-A-Nurse was Patsy Evans, director of the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center. Patsy explained, "I didn't know what to do. My mother lives with me and she became ill. Her sugar level kept going up and she had vomiting and diarrhea. My mother had previously suffered a stroke and I was frightened. I didn't know what to do. Her doctor wasn't in. So, I called Call-A-Nurse and they explained to me what the sugar level reading meant, how to monitor her, and what signs to look for. They told me to call them back in two hours, and I did just that. The nurse then took more information on my mother's condition (at that time it was between 6:30 and 7:00 in the evening and my doctor's office was closed). Call-A-Nurse allowed me to talk to the emergency room physician at Highlands Emergency Room. This has never happened to me before. I was so surprised at being able to talk to an emergency room physician. He explained to me what I should do and told me just to watch my mother throughout the evening, to monitor her sugar level, and call back should any changes occur. "The next morning the problems were still there, although not as serious. I called Call-A-Nurse to check in with them. They continued to have me call back every two hours. Then toward early afternoon my mother's sugar level started to rise even further, and Call-A-Nurse told me to bring her to the emergency room, which I did. Thank goodness my mother did not have a stroke. But, through this whole experience I felt that I had the presence of an unseen hand holding mine, comforting me, and reassuring me with medical expertise. It was wonderful; I couldn't have made it without them. People in this area don't realize how wonderful this service is that Highlands has provided. I tell all my people at the Senior Citizens Center about Call-A-Nurse and to please call them if they have a medical problem."

Patsy's experience is only one of a growing number of people who have found help at the other end of the telephone line. All thanks to Highlands Call-A-Nurse program. And now with extended hours, Call-A-Nurse is there to help from 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Monday through Fri-

Local theatre receives state grant monies

A local theatre group is among seven in Kentucky that have received a state grant to support the current performing season.

Jenny Wiley Drama Association of Prestonsburg has received $38,000 in grant money, according to Crit Luallen, tourism secretary. The sum represents the highest grant awarded from the $180,000 set aside for the Kentucky outdoor drama program during the current state fiscal year. The Stephen Foster Drama Association and the Fort Harrod Drama Productions also received identical

The grant program is designed to help underwrite outdoor dramas in Kentucky, Luallen said.

In Memory of Earl Yates Who passed away September 6, 1990

Its been two years today Since you went away

I can't see your face But I know you have run your race

I can't feel the touch of your hands And your presence is still in the land

Its been hard, since you went away And I'll never forget that day.

I can't hear your voice You are with God, so I'll rejoice

God promised we would meet again So I'll cherish my memories until then.

Governor's Scholar Program:

More than a learning experience

Contributing Writer

Lisa Hobson of Ligon recently attended the Governor's Scholar Program at Centre College in Danville. Hobson attended the GSP from, June 28-August 1. Approximately, 350 other students attended at the Danville location and about 350 others attended the other session held at Murray State College in Murray.

While many people think the Governor's Scholar Program is like regular school, it is an entirely differ-. ent concept. Ms. Hobson was enrolled in the biology program. She, described it as a hands-on learning, experience. She learned to use com-. puters that measured heart rate, muscle strength, and reflex response, time. As she hopes to pursue a career as a doctor, Hobson loved that learning experience. Along with the rest of her group, she went on a field trip to the University of Kentucky School of Medicine. There, the students toured the School of Dentistry. They also observed a cadaver class (gross anat-

Taking a different aspect of biology, Hobson and her class turned a field into a wetland. The area had once been a wetland, but had been drained by farmers about a hundred years ago. In order to return it to its original state, the students had to reroute a creek, survey the land, and replace the existing plants with ones that could survive after the field was flooded. The students worked on the project the whole five weeks.

The entire GSP students went on a trip to Louisville to "Day for the Arts." They toured the J.B. Speed Art Museum, heard a speech by Gover-social theory during this time.

Many clubs were available for the students in their spare time. There were poetry clubs, soccer clubs, softball clubs, etc. Hobson joined the pottery and astronomy clubs, both of which she said she enjoyed very

When asked what she learned at GSP, she said, "Well, I learned how to do my own laundry." On a more serious note, she said, "I gained a better understanding of what college life will be like. I also learned the importance of computers in the medical industry. GSP was fun, too. I met a lot of people who became good friends."

It is easy to see that the Governor's Scholar Program is a complete experience. It offers both educational and recreational experiences. Seven other students from Floyd County attended the GSP. They are Christina McKinney, Charles Nelson, William Bottoms, and Casey Jones, all from Prestonsburg High. Heather Watson from Allen Central High School attended, as well as Hattie Hall and Timothy Yates from Betsy Layne.

HOW MANY MORE....

Games will Cincinnati Reds manager Lou Piniella give away to the opposition just because he is trying to keep Rob Dibble and Norm Charlton happy.

Did you witness Sunday's disaster when Tim Belcher, who had really been struggling, finally put together an outstanding, I mean a real game, only to be taken out in the ninth inning in favor of Dibble?

So what, you say? Well, if you didn't get in on the game, Belcher had only retired 23 batters in a row and had not allowed a base runner since the first inning. But Lou, who has to be the worse manager in the major leagues, brought in the "Dibb" to pitch the ninth inning with the Reds holding a 3-1 lead. Even Chris Bergman and Joe Morgan, who called the game for ESPN, could not understand the move by Pin-

Well, do you remember the first game of a three-game series when Atlanta and the Reds held a 5-2 lead? Scott Bankhead had just hurled three perfect innings in relief and pinhead Piniella brought in lefty Charlton only to watch him let the Braves tie the game and then win it in the ninth.

The Reds do not deserve to win anything. They were certainly a dejected group as they sat in the dugout and watched the New York Mets celebrate their seventh consecutive win and a four-game sweep of the Reds.

The Braves certainly have not been playing like they want to win either (losers of seven of their last 10 games) but the Reds have failed to take advantage of the drought by the Braves. Piniella needs to learn to let the one who is doing the pitching stay in, especially if he has been pitching like Belcher was.

Lou doesn't have a contract yet for next year and here's hoping they don't offer him one. Really, the handwriting may be on the wall for the Reds skipper.

On a more pleasing note, I enjoyed seeing the Reds wear the old suits from the 1962 era (actually farther back than that). Somehow, the current players were just not built for the uniform except for Glenn Braggs. Braggs had his sleeves cut out to show off his biceps.

The Reds are to display a new uniform next season and some believe it will be a return to the sleeveless jerseys.

WITH THE EXPANSION TEAMS....

Scheduled to start their season in 1993, (Florida and Colorado) one has to wonder what players the Reds will protect when the two new teams draft from each National League club. I think that Bill Doran is history with the Cincinnati club despite his huge contract. Some of the younger players may go unprotected. Freddie Benivides, Wrona. Veteran Jeff Reed is due to be a free agent this year but could end up on one of the expansion teams.

AS FAR AS FREE AGENCY GOES...

Greg Swindell, Scott Bankhead, Reed along with Braggs can sign with another ballclub next year. The Reds definitely need to resign Swindell and Bankhead. However, it may not come down to big bucks in this one with Swindell, but rather playing for a winner. After the mammoth contract signed recently by Cal Ripken, what will that do to the market this winter.

CARDINALS OPEN UP ROSTER...

With the St. Louis Cardinals' management putting all 25 players on waivers, some team that is contending for a title could make some deals and get some needed help for the final stretch. All 25 players on the Cards roster cleared

Prestonsburg scores early; holds off JCHS 28-19 in Big Sandy Bowl

Under perfect weather conditions zone from 1-yard out. Marcus Araujo the Prestonsburg Blackcats (1-0) and Johnson Central Golden Eagles (0-1) opened their 1992 football season as the two teams faced each other in the opening game of the Big Sandy Bowl. Paintsville faced Rowan County in the nightcap.

The Blackcats scored early in the game and then held off the Eagles for a 28-19 opening game victory. The win kept the Blackcats from repeating last year's first game when they lost to Estill County in the Choochoo Bowl at Irvine.

It was the overall play of Seth Hyden that stood out in the Blackcats' victory, although several players contributed to the win. Hyden carried the football 10 times for 76yards and he scored one touchdown. However, Hyden didn't just perform on the offensive side of the line but on the defensive side as well. Hyden had five solo tackles and came up with a big interception.

Starring with Hyden on the defensive side was senior Todd Clark (5-9, 173) who came away with nine solo tackles and Clark recovered two fumbles. Brad Wells had six tackles, Brian Horn seven and Glen May Prestonsburg scored first with the help of penalties from Johnson Central. On the Blackcats' first possession, Prestonsburg quarterback Aaron Tucker carried the ball into the end kicked the extra point for a 7-0 Blackcat lead.

The drive accumulated 59-yards on seven plays but was helped by an off-sides penalty against the Golden Eagles. Prestonsburg was faced with a fourth-and-six when the Eagles were caught offsides. The 5-yard penalty put the ball on the 27-yard line of the Eagles and brought a fourth and one. Tucker, on a keeper, picked up 6yards, a first down. On the 18-yard line, Tucker carried the football for 17-yards to the Eagles 1-yard line where Tucker plunged in on a quarterback sneak.

The Eagles had trouble moving the football against the Prestonsburg defense but a 12-yard completion pass from sophomore Gary Fitzpatrick to Mike Price gave the Eagles a first down on their own 30-yard line. But Price tried to go up the middle against the big front line of the Blackcats and fumbled the football with Bill Bottoms recovering for the Blackcats on the 27. Four plays later, Garza barrelled his way up the middle for 13yards and a Prestonsburg touchdown. Araujo added his second extra point for a 14-0 lead.

With 5:16 remaining in the first period, the Golden Eagles took control of the football and marched to the Prestonsburg 6-yard line with the help of two Prestonsburg penalties just before the period ended.

On a third-and-goal play, the Eagles were slapped with a 5-yard penalty when center Robert Younce picked up the football. With the ball on the 11, Fitzpatrick tried to hit Chris Bolin but the ball went off his fingertips. Again on a fourth-andgoal, the Eagles tired a bootleg play by bringing in second string quarterback Herb Stapleton at the signal calling spot and moving Fitzpatrick to the backfield. Stapleton handed off to Fitzpatrick, who spotted Chad Webb in the end zone. The ball darted off the arms of Webb into the hands of Senters but the fullback was standing out of bounds when he caught the ball and Prestonsburg took over on Prestonsburg led at the half 14-0. Johnson Central, looking to shun a season like last year's 2-8 year, made it a 14-6 game on their first possession of the second half. With 7:40 left in the third period, Senters struck pay dirt from 3-yards out. The extra point attempt for the Eagles failed. With Johnson Central facing a fourth-and-eight, Prestonsburg was flagged for a personal foul that gave the Eagles a first down on the Blackcats 18-yard line. Price took a Fitzpatrick handoff and went 15-yards before he was hauled down on the Prestonsburg 3-yard line. Senters then scored on the plunge.

Defense "shining light" for Trojans in 14-0 win over Betsy Layne Bobcats

coach Robert "Bobcat" Jackson put it all in perspective when he said that the defense of the Trojans was the "shining light" in Wheelwright's 14-0 victory over Betsy Layne Friday night at Brackett Field.

The two teams opened their 1992 football season with the Trojans riding their defensive skills to a 1-0 record. Wheelwright's defense held the Bobcats to just 104 total yardage (unofficially) and only 76 yards on the ground, Betsy Layne had chances to put some numbers on the scoreboard but penalties kept the Bobcats in trouble.

"I told our players that when they get in position to score that it was critical they go ahead and stick it in," said first year Bobcat coach John Derossett after the game.

Betsy Layne was flagged 12 times for 100-yards in penalties. The Trojan defense was hard for the running backs to penetrate. However, most of the penalties came because of offside or motion penalties.

Wheelwright coach Donnie Daniels wasn't to pleased with the way his veteran ballclub performed.

"We just don't have that killer yards on seven plays, highlighted by instinct that we need," said Daniels. "We had a chance to put them away and we didn't. That is something we have to learn to do."

"The defense was our shining light tonight," said Jackson of the defensive team's performance.

Allen Central finds Cougars' defense too much in 44-16 loss

The Allen Central Rebels opened their 1992 football schedule at home against Coach Royce Mayo's Elkhorn City Cougars and the Cougars gave Mayo his first win as the new head coach of the Cougars football program. It was a successful debut as the Cougars rolled up 44 points in subduing the smaller Rebels 44-16.

Elkhorn City scored two touchdowns that should not have been but the Rebels' defense just couldn't get the job done. One Cougar score came when Elkhorn quarterback Jason Dale took a punt and returned the ball 55 yards for a touchdown as he rank through the Rebels line. In the second quarter, a lax Rebel defense saw Dan Fraley block a punt attempt, grab the football and head upfield for a 35yard touchdown romp.

The Rebels struggled the whole game before they did put some points on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter. Trailing 44-0, the Rebels took control of the football with 8:36 remaining in the game and marched 49 yards on seven plays to score on Rebel quarterback Brad Blackburn's 1-yard plunge. Wheelwright as the Bobcats were knocking once again.

But again an off-side penalty and a face masking call back-to-back moved the Bobcats back to the Trojans 28-yard line where they could get no closer than the 25 before giving up the football.

For the third time in the game Betsy Layne came up with a big play that gave them good field position. Bryan Combs intercepted a Shelton pass and returned the ball to the Trojans 36-yard line. After a loss of six yards and an incompletion from Combs to McKinney, Combs connected with fullback Doug Hammond for a 24-yard completion that put the ball on the Trojans 18-yard line. On a first and ten play, Combs handed off to Hammond who was powering his way up the middle but the handoff was taken by a Trojan defensive lineman and thus another turnover for the Bobcats.

Betsy Layne had the ball once more inside the Wheelwright 20 but could not punch the ball across.

"Our defense was great for us," said Daniels. "Betsy Layne buried the ball twice on us inside the 20-yard line and our defense rose to the occa-

Daniels credited Coach Derossett with the way he played the game. "John came in here with a heck of a game plan," said the Wheelwright coach. "In the second quarter we didn't take advantage of the breaks that Betsy Layne was giving us."

"I thought our team played aggressive in the game," said Derossett. "They played hard and I can tell they didn't like losing. I felt that we came in here and played with Wheelwright. We played 22 people in the game and that is how many came on the bus. We had 12 people that played full-Daniels said that his team got out with a win after the subpar effort they put forth and hopes "it will be a lesson for them.'

The Bobcats did not get much real estate from their backfield and got less through the air. Betsy Layne had 76 yards on the ground on 17 carries while massing 28 yards passing for a total of 104 yards offensively.

Bush carried three times for 34 yards with Hammond carrying 11 times for 24 yards. Combs had 18 yards on three attempts.

Combs had eight completions in 28 attempts but the Bobcat quarterback was sacked four times by the Trojans defense for a loss of 34 yards.

The leading rusher for Wheelwright was Adams with 98 yards on 15 carries. Cruise Caudill had 26 yards on seven carries with Oden finishing with 20 yards on three car-

Betsy Layne was penalized for 100 yards while Wheelwright was flagged four times for 50 yards.

"We hope our fans don't get discouraged," said Daniels. "We have our next four games on the road and we need our fans support. Hopefully, we will play better Friday night."

Wheelwright will travel to Johns Creek Friday night while Betsy Layne plays at Phelps.

third period as Coach Mayo inserted some of his bench to allow them some playing time. The Rebels' defense looked much better in the third period as they began to close up some holes. The Cougars did score their final touchdown on a 46-yard run by Williams.

Allen Central massed 167-yards (unofficial) on the ground led by Gilliam's 76 yards on 17 carries. Jason Clark was impressive with 43 yards on seven attempts. Patton carried the football for 23 yards as the Cougars defense keyed on him all night. Blackburn, a sophomore, picked up 25 yards on six carries.

Blackburn did not throw the ball much against the Cougars rush but had two completions in four attempts for 12 yards which gave Allen Central a total of 179-yards offense.

The Rebels fumbled the football three times recovering one miscue themselves. The one recoverd fumble turned into a gainer for a first down that set up the first Allen Central score. Blackburn lost the ball on the snap, recovered it and picked up a big 6 yards to the Cougars 1-yard line where he, on a keeper, crossed the goal line. Blackburn was sacked once.

The Rebels were penalized on four flags for 40 yards and they picked up eight first downs.

Shane Stumbo had a good game in the return department taking the ball

Neither team could score in the on three kickoffs and having returns of 32, 12, and 29 for 73 yards.

Elkhorn City totaled 315 yards with 313 coming on the ground. The Cougars threw the football once, Chester Stiltner to Joey Belcher, for a 2-yard gain.

Eddie Morton grounded out 72 yards on four carries to lead the rushing game for the Cougars. Williams had 70 yards on just two carries while Dales finished with 85 yards on two

The Cougars (1-0) took care of the football fumbling just once. They were penalized eight times for 60 yards. Elkhorn had five first downs in

Allen Central (0-1) will take to the road as they travel to Fleming-Neon (0-1), a 33-14 loser to Hazard over the weekend.

A Look At Sports

waivers and can be dealt away. Sounds like the Cardinals are about to make some moves over the winter months. Look for several of the National League clubs to trade big time this winter and many will be looking to deal away some big money players.

The Reds will definitely need some home run help and the question mark in the pitching department is "will Swindell return to the Reds and can Tom Browning make a comeback after almost a year away from the game?"

YET ANOTHER BASEBALL PLAYER ....

Made the grade at Lee's Junior College and is getting high reviews. Stewart Hall, former Allen Central player, drew the praise of James Cook in his column "The Way I See It." Cook writes for the Clay County paper.

In his column Cook writes: "But the lone real shortstop at the tryout (at Lees College) caught my attention real quick. Stewart Hall from Allen Central High School is one kid coaches should not overlook. His range was from third base to just beyond second on the first-base side. He was impressive at all facets of the defensive game a shortstop should play.

There is no doubt that had he gotten more exposure, and his coaches had made a few contacts, this kid could be playing at a bigger school. But I also believe that Coach Delver will not let this one get away. Keep your eyes on the linescores over the next few years, you're liable to see this one in the big show."

I feel that Hall was overlooked by some of the bigger schools that could have used his talents. Alice Lloyd, Pikeville, Georgetown are just some of the many colleges that Hall could have played for. His range on the diamond is excellent and he possesses a strong throwing arm that is needed to go with the position. If he has a weakness it is with the bat. However, when playing with the Paintsville Big League this summer he swung the bat really well. But you will find no one giving it all that he has like Hall does. He is a team player and team leader.

JUST THIS ABOUT JOHNNY....

This whole area should ap preciate the hard work of one Johnny Lemaster. Lemaster gives of his time to the kids of the area and he does it unselfishly. Recently Lemaster accepted an invitation to speak at a banquet given for the Wayland-Lackey-Garrett Babe Ruth team. And in talking to Don Handsford, Lemaster was a big hit with the kids.

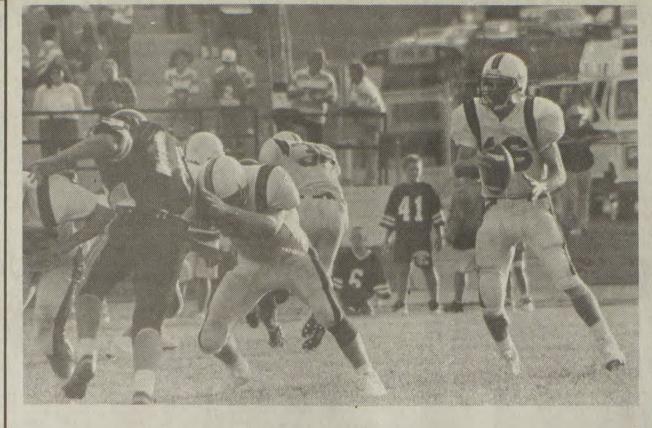

Lemaster worked with Paul David Brown this past summer in coaching the Paintsville Big League and he gave a lot in the process. Lemaster, as many know, played Major League baseball with the San Francisco Giants for approximately 11 seasons before being traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates. After retiring from baseball, Lemaster returned to Eastern Kentucky to give back to the area what he learned while living here. I, for one, thank Johnny Lemaster for all that he has done, is doing and will do for the youth of Eastern Kentucky and for the positive influence he has over the kids. More on this later.

RODNEY DENT A UK CAT....

Did the Wildcats of Kentucky do the right thing in pursuing Rodney Dent? Will they live to regret the 6-11 pivot man's arrival on campus this past Saturday afternoon? Is Pitino losing sight of what he has accomplished with just mediocre players in the past? Would it not make more sense to go after players of the John Pelphrey, Deron Feldhaus mold?

Well, UK has certainly come under the scrutiny of some of the members of the state and national press. Some doubt that Dent can make it academically. Taking in all the problems Dent has had in the past, Pitino's hope is to help the young man mold his life into something useful. Others view the recruitment of Dent as a mistake that UK, who is coming off a very successful year following probation, cannot afford to take. Maybe the reason some of the other members of the media take a negative stance on the signing of Dent is called jealously. He didn't go to their school.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Veteran returns!

Aaron Tucker (16) of Prestonsburg returns as quarterback for his third year and hopes to lead the Blackcats to a district title again this year. Tucker rushed for 42-yards and scored a touchdown as his team handed Johnson Central a 28-19 set back in the Big Sandy Bowl Saturday evening. (photo by Ed Taylor) back into the game when they fumbled the football after Tucker was sacked by the Eagles defense. Johnson Central recovered the ball with 6:08 left in the third period and marched 32yards for the touchdown. The Eagles attempted a conversion play to tie the game but Hyden intercepted the pass as the Eagles trailed 14-12.

Dwayne Garza had carried the football only once since he fumbled the ball back in the second quarter and seemed to be the lost man in the backfield for Prestonsburg. But Tucker went to the fullback and he responded with a run of 6-yards and a pick of 21-yards as the Blackcats realized that the Eagles were not about to fly away. Garza picked up 36yards on four carries as the Blackcats marched to the Eagles' 11-yard line just before the third period ended.

Jody Cornette got into the act and carried the ball to the three and then into the end zone for the touchdown. Araujo lined up for the extra point when the Cats were assessed a 5-yard illegal procedure call moving the ball to the eight. However, before Araujo could kick the extra point, Prestonsburg was flagged for an offside penalty moving the ball to the 13-yard line forcing Araujo to attempt the extra point from the 20. The exchange student split the uprights anyway for the extra point as the Cats led 21-12.

The two teams exchanged turnovers as the Eagles saw Hyden come up with his second interception of the game as Fitzpatrick tried to connect Webb on a first and fifteen play. But the Blackcats returned the favor when Garza fumbled the football on the first play from scrimmage and the Eagles recovered.

With the ball on the Blackcats 9yard line, on fourth down, Fitzpatrick found himself cut off on a busted play but went on a sweep to the left and scampered in for the score. Senters added the extra point and the Eagles trailed 21-19.

Hyden again set up a Prestonsburg

The Blackcats let the Eagles right score when he took the kickoff and returned the football 54-yards to the Eagles 30-yard line. Hyden ran the ball in from the Eagles' four for the touchdown and Araujo added the extra point. Araujo was four-for-four in the extra point department.

> Johnson Central had one more possession of the football but could only move to their own 48-yard line where they gave the ball to Prestonsburg on downs. The Blackcats ran out the clock for the 28-19

After the game, the Prestonsburg team was presented with the Big Sandy Bowl winner's trophy.

Garza was the leading rusher with 79-yards on 12 carries. He scored one touchdown for the Blackcats. Tucker rushed for 42-yards on seven attempts and Cornette finished with 40-yards on eight carries. Both Tucker and Comette scored TD's.

Prestonsburg had 237-yards rush- Fumbles/Lost ing and 12 coming in the air for 249 Penalties/Yards total yards. Tucker was two-of-five in passing.

Prestonsburg lost the football on three fumbles and Tucker was sacked twice. The Blackcats were penalized 12 times for 80 yards.

Ratliff kicked the football four times for an average of 35 yards. Hyden returned the football four times for a total of 106 yards.

Price led the ground game for the Eagles with 154 yards on 14 carries. Senters rushed for 44 yards on 10 attempts. Senters scored two touch-

The Eagles were flagged for 11 penalties for 60 yards and they had four turnovers — two fumbles and two interceptions. Fitzpatrick was

Johnson Central had 233 yards rushing and 25 passing for 258 offensive yards.

Prestonsburg will travel to Middlesboro to face a tough Yellowjacket team this Friday night. Johnson Central plays at home against a strong Lawrence County squad.

Staying Fit

WEIGHTLIFTING FOR BEGINNERS

by Don Fields
Professional Personal Fitness
Trainer

This week staying fit begins a series of articles on proper fitness training technique. All of my previous articles gave an overview of proper fitness mentality, general diet and exercise principles. Now that you are convinced of the benefits of good nutrition, bodyfat testing and working out, it's time to get specific.

So you've decided to get in shape.
Great! What is your next step going to be? Before you go out and spend money on home exercise equipment or a health club membership you must first decide what kind of results you are looking for.

Assuming you want to lose fat, increase muscle tone and improve your cardiovascular capacity, you have decided to combine weightlifting and aerobics in order to accomplish your overall fitness goals.

Let's talk about aerobics first. The basis of aerobics is to increase the oxygenation process of your heart and lungs. The ability of your heart to carry blood to your lungs and the lungs ability to oxygenate the blood before it's return to the heart for distribution to the rest of your body, can only be increased through sustained aerobic activity. This type of activity is also essential for fat conversion into energy and subsequent fat loss.

Aerobics is simply any activity that increases your ability to use oxygen and burn fat. There are many activities that can be aerobic. Walking, jogging, bicycling, rowing, circuit weightlifting and of course the various forms of aerobic dance classes that are popular. A good idea would be to perform some form of aerobics for at least 20 minutes two or three times per week. Rotating between your favorite types of aerobics is also beneficial, if only to keep from getting bored.

Weightlifting can be either aerobic or non-aerobic in nature. If you like doing any of the aerobic activities described above then you would choose the classic form of lifting weights to increase your muscle tone and strength.

The purpose of weightlifting or "bodybuilding," as I prefer to call it, is to increase the contractile strength of individual muscle fibers through the principle of overload and recuperation. In other words, placing stress on your muscles by lifting a heavy load causes muscle damage and if allowed to recuperate, the muscle will repair the damage plus build a little extra size and strength in case it happens again. A continuation of this process is referred to as muscle conditioning. Bodybuilding can be used to build and strengthen any particular group of muscles or all of them. You can literally build your body the way you want it.

Most fledgling bodybuilders are in a hurry for that new look. They think that by doing more exercises and as many sets as possible they will get results quicker. As a bodybuilder and trainer for 12 years, I have seen hundreds of beginners quit after only a few weeks because they didn't get results fast enough. In every case the cause was the same. Too much too soon. Good advice usually falls on deaf ears. Of the few who chose to go slow and learn the basics, I have seen champion powerlifters, bodybuilders and others reach and exceed their goals in record time.

A good basic bodybuilding routine is all that is needed in order to get fantastic results in a short period of time. Whether you are a true beginner or have been lifting weights for some time, you can benefit from the routine I will outline.

Let's divide your body into six major categories of muscle groups: Abdominals, chest, back, shoulders, arms, and legs. There are hundreds of different exercises designed to work these different muscles from different angles. Which ones do you choose? Which ones are best? Before I answer there are two things you must accept as true.

• Fact 1: You cannot reduce fat in a given area by working the muscles that lie underneath or approximate to. There is no such thing as spot reduction

• Fact 2: You cannot change the shape of or totally isolate any particular muscle. Your muscle shape, regardless of it's increase in size, is determined by genetics. As far as isolation is concerned, the fact that different muscle groups work together makes it impossible to isolate one completely.

Knowing this, it makes perfect sense, that in order to work the largest number of muscles, with the highest intensity, in the shortest period of time, you must concentrate on basic compound exercises. Sound complicated? All I just said is that the best routine is the most basic routine. Don't waste time doing meaningless exercises that are supposed to isolate a certain muscle or give it a certain shape.

Let me give you an example of a basic, compound movement weightlifting routine, using free weights.

For your stomach or abdominal, you should do crunches. Barbell bench press is all you need for your chest and shoulders respond best to overhead presses behind the neck. For arms you need barbell curls for biceps and overhead extensions for your triceps. Your forearms should not need direct exercise, as they get plenty of work just gripping the bar. Your back is a complicated muscle and requires at least two different exercises such as chin-ups and bent over barbell rowing. Nothing can benefit your legs more than barbell squats below parallel (hip joint slightly lower than knee joint). And finally, you need standing toe presses for you calves. Of course I did not elaborate on proper form and execution of each exercise as I assume you will seek assistance from a qualified person before beginning this or any other weightlifting routine. I have only described a very basic and tremendously effective routine consisting of nine compound movements. A beginner should follow this routine for at least six months, gradually increasing the amount of weight used and the intensity of effort. Start out with one set of 12 to 15 repetitions with an easy weight and increase over a period of weeks to three or four set of 20 to 25 reps. At this point you may be ready to add considerable weight and decrease the number of Reps. It all depends on your goals at the time.

Not only is this routine effective for beginners, but intermediates as well. The only difference being the number of sets, reps and weight used. Intensity is the difference between a beginner and someone more advanced.

In other words, the best workout involves using the least number of exercises to stimulate the largest amount of muscle by lifting the greatest amount of weight in the shortest period of time. Simple but effective. By doing fewer exercises there is also less chance of doing something wrong and wasting time. Master the basics and you will be ahead of the rest!

If you have any questions concerning fitness call 886-8604. Celebrate, celebrate and celebrate! Celebrate they did, as the Mud Creek Smurfs captured their league and tournament championship this past baseball season.

The Smurfs finished the season with a sparkling 12-4 record and went undefeated in tournament play posting a 3-0 record. The games were played at the John M. Stumbo Park in Grethel.

Once the season title was claimed by the Smurfs the players, along with family members enjoyed an outing at McDonald's in Pikeville. Again, when the Smurfs won the tournament, the celebration continued with a pool party at the residence of Glen and Ann Spradlin. During the pool party, the players were presented with team trophies. A cake, noting the team's players and their accomplishments for the season, was presented to the team and enjoyed with all the other goodies and pizza.

The final celebration took place at Camden Park in Huntington as the players and parents enjoyed the day at the park with rides and games. Theresa McKinney and Katheryn Tackett provided the team tickets for the Camden Park day through their cooperative fundraising efforts.

Each player on the Smurf's team received jackets acquired through team concessions headed up by Debra Tackett. Glen and Willa Tackett presented the team with individual plaques for a successful season and for winning the tournament championship.

Five players on the Smurf's team will advance to the next level in Little League play next season. Those advancing are Adam Hamilton, Jonathan Tackett, Brett Hamilton, Brandon Newsome and Jerry Keith Bentley. The players will play in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League next year.

Former players on the Smurf team in years gone by include Russell Hall, who was chosen on the HAP All-Star team this year. Hall played for the Mud Creek Cubs along with Brad Reynolds and Craig Johnson, who both played Pee Wee baseball with the Mud Creek Cubs.

1934 Prestonsburg Blackcats

The 1934 Prestonsburg Blackcats started out with mediocre material but developed into one of the best teams in the state. The Blackcats were 10-0-1 (tie to Belfry) during the '34 season and were coached by Clay Watson. The home field was located at GASCO Park beside the current

The '34 Blackcats were Big Sandy Valley Conference champs and shared the state crown with Covington and Frankfort. The school colors were orange and black.

More that 3,000 fans showed up to watch the Blackcats and ancient rival Paintsville battle it out on Thanksgiving Day with Prestonsburg, in a comeback effort, pinning a 8-6 loss on the Tigers.

Todd Tackett wins tickets to Pistons opening game

Todd Tackett, along with his cousin Shane Hargreaves, recently attended the Dennis Rodman's All-Star Basketball Camp in Detroit, Michigan. Tackett's biggest achievement came when he defeated 157 other players in competition known as "knock-out." Tackett's award was not a plaque or a trophy but tickets to the Detroit Piston's home opener this season. Hargreaves was on the team that won the five-on-five competition and received a trophy for being a member of the squad.

Tackett is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Tackett of Paintsville and the grandson of Homer and Marie Tackett of Melvin. Hargreaves is the son of Bob and Debbie Hargreaves of New Boston, Michigan, and the grandson of Bob and Helen Tackett (formerly of Melvin) who now reside in New Boston.

People, Places and Things...by Jones

by Beth Jones Contributing Writer

To most people, a basketball goal on a blacktopped court may not be very significant, but to a group of teenage boys, it is a way to beat summer boredom. One such court was set up in Price by David and Brenda Case.

The court began as a simple hoop and backboard on a dirt court. A few months later, blacktop was poured. Then, a three-point line was added. Early this spring, the backboard cracked but was soon replaced by the Cases. Their son, Neil, first had the idea for the court. One had been mounted at a neighbor's house, but had fallen several years ago. Neil had virtually nothing to do during summer vacation but sit in the house and watch television or play Nintendo.

When the goal was put up, the younger Case and his cousin, Ryan Jones, began playing basketball everyday. A few other neighborhood boys came and played, as well. Since all the improvements have been made, people from McDowell and other parts of the community travel down to the court to play. Some walk to the court; others drive. Sometimes, there is a two or three game wait to play. That doesn't matter because someone is always standing around to talk to.

Some of the kids don't even come to play. They like to watch all the action and hear the latest news. No matter why the kids come, the goal is always a place to have fun.

It seems there's a sort of unwritten schedule to the Price basketball court. In the mornings, the court is empty except for a few of the smallest children riding bikes and playing with toy cars on it. By afternoon, a few younger kids usually play. In the evening and up until dark, there are usually ten to twenty players at the neighborhood goal.

Why is the court so popular? "I like it because there is good competition. Someone there is always better than you," said Ryan Jones. Neil Case joked, "I enjoy the thrill of winning."

No one is really sure how the court became so popular. Some believe it was due to word-of-mouth, others think people saw them having fun, so they decided to come over. Whatever the case may be, the Price goal is just a place to exercise and have a good time

LONE STAR "The sun has riz, the sun has set An' here we is, in Texas yet." -Anonymous

Alaskans reading the Floyd County Times won't be impressed, but I just finished driving for what seems like forever and I finally came to the end of Texas. We learn in geography that Texas is the second largest state in the Union, and it looks pretty big on a map, but until you drive the length, you don't know what big is.

Given, driving the plains must be pretty boring, (I'll let you know, I'm coming home that way) but at least there's a state line every couple hundred miles to break the monotony. As far as the Lone Star State goes-there's just road, road, and more road after San Antonio.

I know, I shouldn't be complaining. After all, I chose to do this alone, It's not bad. I just crank Metallica to volume ear-bleed and there's no way I'll fall asleep at the wheel. The only complaints have been from the prairie dogs.

It's not all boring after all. The Pecos, which at first look like partially reclaimed strip mine land, become some beautiful scenery. The roads reminded me of the Road Runner cartoons-ramrod straight and lined with phone poles. I even had an actual roadrunner scamper in front of my car. Not all of these cute little birds are as quick as our cartoon hero. I saw several specimens of Velocitus Incrediblus in the road with a thickness of about half an inch. The Coyote should have bought a

With all this open land, where are the people? Texans are very gregarious. They cluster in big, big cities. I hit a few of them. I saw the Alamo and the gorgeous Riverwalk in San Antonio; the Astrodome all decked out for the Republican convention (complete with scads of abortion protesters) in Houston and the "Metroplex" of Dallas-Fort Worth. (Wasn't Metroplex one of the Transform-

Of course, if you want to get away from people, pay a visit to Orla, Texas. Deep in the scrub grass of West Texas along highway 285, it'll make you think Left Beaver is a veritable metropolis. There are dozens of towns just like it-places that dried up after Interstate 10, 20, and 25 were built. You can have nice conversations with the jackrabbits at these places.

I did have fun in Texas. I visited several friends, saw the Gulf of Mexico, went to NASA, got lost in Houston, ate bad Mexican food, ate good Mexican food and put loads of miles on my car.

Next, I'm heading to Carlsbad Caverns—the West's answer to Mammoth Cave. From there, I'm going to Albuquerque, where I hope not to make a wrong turn like my hero Bugs always seems Abruptly changing subjects, I realized that I drove through the hometowns of all the major candidates for President, I went through Little Rock, Arkansashome of Bill Clinton; Texarkana, Texas/Arkansas-the roots of H. Ross Perot (Remember him? So he's not running anymore. I'm rolling.) and Houston, Texas-President Bush's stomping grounds.

My friends in Houston (another couple my age now married, yipes!) live in George Bush's old Congressional district—a district that hasn't voted Democratic since FDR. The President is currently polling 36 percent of the vote. Think he's in trouble?

Also, all over Arkansas, I saw bumper stickers reading "Put Hillary in the White House," Not a bad idea, if you ask me. People in Arkansas seem to like Clinton, for the most part. The complaint I head most often was that he was spending too much time being a politician and not enough time in the state. Boy, Arkansas' lieutenant governor must be on some power trip.

I'm writing this in New Mexico. Texas was great, but I've seen enough cowboy hats. Until next time, see you a few hundred miles down the road.

Later days.

A MEDICAL GUIDE

When I'm feeling a bit under the spell?" weather and fail to bounce right out

I've given some thought to his question and so, mostly for him, I am of bed in the morning, my husband attempting to explain what it is.

A sinking spell is a condition that keeps you from running full speed ahead, but it's not serious enough to bother the paramedics, the emergency well-he becomes very concerned room or Mayo Clinic. Actually, it's not serious enough to pin down an exact diagnosis, even if you knew ago and I knew it was one of our two how.

We've had cars that coughed and sputtered. One was prone to flooding, and another couldn't go any distance without overheating. Some people I know are like that.

I can recognize an ingrown toenail-and it's for sure I know what morning sickness means—but more television and enjoying some pleasthan that, I will usually just say something hurts, like maybe my head, my back and both sides.

I overheard a friend comment recently that an ovary had been hurting all day. For the life of me I couldn't figure her being so precise about phenyltriptolene. something that lay beneath the skin and two layers of fat.

If my right side were hurting, I would be very suspicious of my appendix; and if I asked a second opinion of myself, I'd consider that it could be gas. It would have been more acceptable had my friend called her malady a sinking spell.

I've never studied the anatomy much—I was always more concerned

I'm even a little concerned about some of the information that comes to us uninvited. We can be watching ant entertainment when there is an interruption for a commercial. There will be a pretty, healthy looking girl who is advising one and all to buy her product because it alone contains an ingredient that sounds something like

I don't know what that is, but evidently it's something we all need. If I'm feeling droopy, I start wondering if I might have too little of it in my system—or maybe too much.

Anyway, getting back to my explanation of a sinking spell, it can be any ailment that you expect will improve very soon. It might be something like a lazy liver; but then again, with diagraming a sentence. When it could just be a loose spark plug.

could ask, "What's the matter?"

Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James was born in Floyd County on March 17, 1892. She was a music teacher, singer, and music researcher. She attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of music and Averitt College in Danville,

The plain truth is that Mrs. James loved music and wanted to keep the folk traditions alive in this area. In the early 30's, she began the Old Christmas celebration, the day of Epiphany rather than on December 25. That tradition grew so large over the years that it is now held in the May Lodge at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

On June 24, 25, and 26, 1966, Mrs. James began a new tradition. It was called the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival. Its purpose was to preserve and encourage the continued use of the traditional expressions of the people of the Southern Mountains. James believed the area's cultural heritage was too precious to be forgotten. That first annual festival's theme was Anglo-Saxon heritage. The three-day event featured river songs and sea chanteys, fiddle tunes, Kentucky mountain tunes, and scenes from Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," just to name a few. The Sunday session which was reserved for religious themes (and still is) included lined hymns, rhythmic choir, and Gregorian chant.

Over the years, the festival has grown substantially. It now includes storytelling, arts and crafts, dancing,

Last year's Kentucky Highlands

Folk Festival included a continuing arts and crafts show (Friday-Sunday), a Writers' Workshop, poetry reading, and others. The 1991 festival featured such popular area acts as The Gum Branch Heartbreakers, the Hill County Dancers, the South Creek Band, and the Bottom of the Barrel

An extensive arts and crafts exhibit was held, also, James Daniel displayed wood creations and painted clothing. Morris Fork Crafts brought quilts, wood items, place mats, woven rugs, baskets, dolls, brooms, and stuffed animals. There were many different types of crafts on display.

This year, the 27th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival will be held September 11, 12, and 13 at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. It will be a gathering of singers, dancers, tale-tellers, poets, craftsmen, musicians, and fans to share the love of the southern mountains.

Highlands Writers' Workshop

The Sixth Annual Kentucky Highlands Writers' Workshop will be conducted by Appalfolks of America Association (AAA) September 11-12, at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park's Convention Center during the 27th Annual Kentucky Highlands Folk

While the September 11 portion of the writers' workshop is for high school students only, the Saturday, September 12, sessions are for adults who may preregister for $30 which includes six sessions.

The adult sessions begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, September 12, and run throughout the day, pausing for an Open Poetry Reading in the Convention Center at 6 p.m. Amanda Cockrell, author of nine novels, will open the Saturday, September 12, sessions by conducting a 9-10 a.m. session entitled "Writing Short Fiction That visited Metropolis, Ill., a little town just across the river from Paducah. The water tower boasted a large picture of Superman, as did the big billboard that welcomed visitors to the town. Plywood cutouts of the man of steel were displayed in front of markets and service stations. Apparently, the townspeople were attempting to publicize the fact that their town's name was the same as Superman's fictional boyhood home.

Anyway, I guess the town's name is what caught my eye and caused me to read the article in the paper this past weekend about Metropolis, Ill. high school sophomore, Misty New-

The article stated that Misty's high school principal had accused her and a friend of "unlawful assembly" and the story stated that "minutes later a You at the Pole" have designated a in singing the sacred songs that we'd sheriff's deputy escorted them to a police car."

The tragedy here is that the girl and her friend were not trying to sell drugs, incite a riot, or otherwise create any sort of chaos or mayhem. All they had done was walk to the school's flagpole...to pray.

Of course, the whole mess is a result of the ban on prayer in schools. Apparently, praying around the flagpole began in Dallas in 1990 and has been picking up steam ever since. The news story reported that last year more than a million students from 49 states and several foreign countries held hands and bowed heads around school flagpoles. That's when Misty Newberry and her friends ran afoul

This year, according to the article, special day, September 16 (before classes), to rally 'round the flagpole

Too bad Superman is only a comic book character. We certainly could use him... on the Supreme Court.

Thank goodness some of us can still remember when it was not only okay to pray in school, it was even encouraged.

As a matter of fact, if my memory serves me correctly, it was every Wednesday afternoon that the "singing teachers" came to the H.S. Howes Community School in Thealka.

We'd have a big assembly program and Miss Lola Preston and Miss Alice Crumb would lead—with much enthusiasm—the sons and daughter leaders of a movement called "See of Northeast Coal Company miners either learned at the Thealka Freewill Baptist Church or that they'd taught us over the years. Miss Crumb would stand and sing while Miss Preston sat to one side and strummed crosshanded on an autoharp. Once she even played a song on an ordinary hand saw. Her students were spell-

Then, after several selections, the ladies, with the aid of a felt-board on an easel, would take week about and tell stories from the Bible. My favorites were the ones about Daniel and the lions den and the three Hebrew children in the fiery furnace.

Aren't you glad that the Supreme Court can't legislate against remembering? I don't know about everybody else, but I cherish the memories of those days when the singing teachers came.

Woman's club holds picnic

The GFWC/KFWC Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club members enjoyed their annual August picnic Monday evening, August 17, on the backyard patio of club member LaFaye Hughes' home at Garrett.

Marsella Bradley conducted devotions prior to the picnic meal. Later, inside, following the Pledge to the Flag led by Marie Mullins, the club president, Maxine Martin, conducted a business meeting, during which she gave a report on the recent Presidents' Workshop held in Pikeville, which she had attended. She advised there is a scholarship grant for a student going into the environmental field.

Dues were paid to the club treasurer, LaFaye Hughes, who then reported that the annual scholarships had been given to Alice Lloyd College and Prestonsburg Community College, as well as the $100 award to the Allen Central High School graduate, Melissa Corbett of Estill, who was rated high in both scholarship and good citizenship.

Volunteers for hostesses and club programs were taken for the new club year, with the yearbook to be prepared shortly.

The first program meeting will be September 21 in the home of Maxine Martin, on KY 7 south of Wayland, on the subject "Education and Public Affairs." Phyllis Honshell, English professor at Prestonsburg Community College and Floyd County school board candidate for the third district has been invited to speak.

Those present were Maxine Martin, Vera Allen, Anna Marie Martin (a new club member), Blanche Bamer, Alma Souleyrette, Betty Mullins, Marie Mullins, Marsella Bradley, LaFaye Hughes, and a guest and former club member, Mrs. Irvin Mullins, formerly of Wayland, now a resident of Florida.

STUDIES GIVE SCHOOL BREAKFAST AN A+

What generations of moms have known instinctively has now been proven quantitatively. Yes, breaktast is the most important meal of the day. In fact, a good breaktast is a great learning tool.

Scientific attention to the breakfast table began in the 1950s with the famous Iowa Breakfast Studies. These studies were among the first to alert the world that breakfast skippers have a tougher time maintaining energy and attention during the morning hours.

Breakfast studies continued throughout the '60s, '70s and early '80s, growing in sophistication and supporting researchers' beliefs that a nutritious breakfast also can have a positive impact on cholesterol levels, weight control and learning.

For those concerned with children's academic performance, the message became clear: if you care about education, you should care about nutrition, because nutrition has a strong physical, emotional and intellectual impact on a child's ability to learn.

The benefits and feasibility of school breakfast were tested in a two-

1975, the national School Breakfast Program was permanently established and made available nationwide to all children, Recognized by Congress as both a nutrition program and an important educational program, the Federal Child Nutrition Act states that school breakfast was created in recognition of the demonstrated relationship between food and good nutrition and the capacity of children to develop and learn. Breakfast studies in the mid-1980s began to take on a school breakfast theme. One of the most notable school breakfast studies is the 1987 School Breakfast and School Performance study undertaken by Alan Meyers, M.D., of the Boston University School of Medicine and supported by a grant from the William T. Grant foundation.

This study examined the standardized test scores of 1,023 Lawrence, Mass., school children in grades 3 through 6. Results showed that increases in achievement test scores were significantly greater for school breakfast participants than for nonparticipants. Also, absenteeism and tardiness rates decreased for participants while they increased for nonparticipants.

From the results of this and other studies, we can infer that a school breakfast eaten by any child who ordinarily would not eat a morning meal at home will have a positive effect on that child's ability to learn, says Meyers.

> HUNGER INCREASES NEED

The importance of school breakfast has also been substantiated by related studies such as the 1991 Community Childhood Hunger Identification Project (CCHIP) conducted by the Food Research and Action Center (FRAC). FRAC is a non-profit organization working in partnership with both national and local groups to end hunger in the United States.

Even studies that have called for reactions directly from teachers and students point to the effect breakfast has on learning. In a 1987 national survey of public school teachers conducted by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, teachers reported that students who are hungry are also disruptive in class. Fourth graders, when questioned in a 1991 University of Connecticut study, said: I feel better when I have breakfast. When I eat breakfast, I'm awake more. Breakfast makes it easier to learn in class because it keeps my brain going.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Todd Vanderpool

Shepherd, Vanderpool wed in double ring ceremony

Jennifer Renee Shepherd and Jason Todd Vanderpool, both of Prestonsburg were united in marriage Saturday, August 1, at 2:30 p.m. at the Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church in Prestonsburg.

The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Clifford Austin, minister of the church.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Cleve Shepherd. Serving as the maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Sherry LeAnn Prater of Middle Creek. Bridesmaids were Tonya Thornsberry of Lexington, Stacy Calhoun and Missy Newsome, both of Prestonsburg. Samantha Sargeant, cousin of the groom, served as the flower girl.

The groom's brother, Mark Vanderpool, served as the best man. Goomsmen were Todd Slone, Darrell Jervis, Brian Lafferty and Christopher Shepherd. The groomsmen also served as ushers at the church. Andrew Michael Culver, cousin of the groom, served as the ringbearer.

The bride's cousin, Elizabeth Shepherd greeted guests at the registry table. She was assisted by Randy Polk. Denise Ousley, aunt of the bride, served as the bride's dresser. Lisa Burchett photographed casual shots of the wedding. Photo Magic served as photographer. The wedding was coordinated by Janet Austin and the bride's mother, Janice Shepherd.

Soloist at the wedding was Sean Caudill, who sang "Unchained Melody" during the lighting of the unity'

The bride wore a white, beaded Demetrios Princess gown with a basque waistline. The Juliet sleeves were fully beaded and came to a point on her hand. The white satin gown, provided by Darcy's Bridal Boutique, had a Sabrina neckline with a heavily beaded bodice. The cathedral length train was also beaded and covered with alencon lace. The alencon lace also trimmed the bottom of the gown's

The cake table was decorated with a fuchsia cloth, covered with a white lace tablectoth. Purple bows on each side of the table draped the lace cloth to create a swag in the middle of the table.

The rehearsal dinner was provided by the groom's mother, Brenda Vanderpool. She was assisted by Dawn Hicks of Wabash, Indiana.

The bride is the daughter of Cleve and Janice Shepherd of Lancer, and granddaughter of Gardis and Maude Ousley of Martin and Bud and Juanita Shepherd of Abbott.

The groom is the son of Abe and Brenda Vanderpool of Lancer, and grandson of Oma Hughes of Briarwood Addition and the late Arthur Hughes, and Abe and Betty Vanderpool of Calf Creek.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Myrtle Beach. They now reside in Lexington where both are enrolled in

GOSPEL MUSIC AT WAYLAND

Sounds of gospel music filled the air Saturday evening, August 22, at the Wayland Area Senior Citizens Center, where approximately 150 persons gathered in the parking lot and inside to hear six groups and individuals with songs and musical instruments take part in an old fashioned gospel sing.

The list of participants included Marcella Martin, Norma Salisbury, and Ella Mae Caudill from the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church, Estill; Vickie Ingels of Everlasting Worship, Hindman; Jimmy Griffith, Prestonsburg; Don Sparkman and Alma Adams, Topmost Baptist Church; the group Golden Gospel Wings, Maytown; and toward the end of the evening Bro. Green Boyd, who has been incapacitated for some time, was persuaded to join the singing and from his wheelchair rendered two songs and testified.

Many crafts were on display and a number were sold, as well as hot dogs, homemade cake, coffee, soft drinks, frozen custard, and homemade candy.

Many persons helped to make this event a success including those members who had worked for several days getting the crafts ready and baking cakes and making candy.

Comments from many of the guests and the members indicated it was the unanimous opinion the gos-

CITIZENS MEET The Board of Directors of the Wayland Area Senior Citizens met Tuesday, August 19, at 4 p.m. at the center with chairperson Elmer Morrison presiding.

WAYLAND SENIOR

The roll call indicated five absent: Jerry Fultz, Dewey Hall, Ena Mills, Lula Ratliff, and Mattie Gisbon. The minutes were then read and unanimously approved for both the regular previous month and a special meeting held July 28.

Bonnie Hale of Big Sandy ADD announced there was a drawing on Wednesday, August 19, at Prestonsburg for a new car for home delivered meals. (Two representatives from the center were there and, fortunately for the center which had never had a vehicle for that purpose, drew the winning number.)

Hale also advised that at a directors' meeting home delivered meals for Thanksgiving Day, weekends, and other holidays was discussed. She also reported that Meals on Wheels America will provide training in New York City. She reported there are grants for kitchen equipment, which centers may apply for. She said there would be a center directors' training at the Holiday Inn in Lexington October 8th and 9th with mandatory attendance by all directors, with Big Sandy ADD paying expenses. She advised it would be very informative.

The director, Sharon Smith, reported on the sick members and also that an advisory council had been elected by the members with seven on it. They are to keep her informed of any problem or any change they think might be needed. Smith also brought up the subject of temporary help for home delivered meals. She also reported that a substitute cook had been found for the center's vacationing cook.

Smith also brought up the subject of renting the center facilities to outsiders. After some discussion it was decided to have a committee draw up a suitable rental contract including all necessary policy guidelines and a team set up for opening and closing

Higher unemployment benefits coming for some; employer tax rate remains low

Despite a tough economic year, a sufficient balance in Kentucky's Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund means some laid-off individuals received higher unemployment checks starting July 5.

For eligible Kentuckians who filed new claims in July, the maximum weekly amount increased from $209 to $217 for up to 26 weeks of benefits from the Cabinet for Human Resources. The hike also applied to any federally authorized extension of unemployment compensation.

Benefit amounts are determined on an individual applicant basis, reflecting past salary levels and period of employment.

Kentucky employers also benefited because they remain in the lowest tax schedule. Unemployment tax rates are set each year based on the trust fund's balance at the end of the pre-

Since the year-end balance of $357,940,000 did not fall below the designated level of $350 million, the state qualified for the lowest tax schedule, as well as the increase in maximum weekly benefits.

Paying lower unemployment insurance taxes makes a large financial impact on Kentucky's 72,000 employers. Employers pay Unemployment Insurance taxes on the first $8,000 each worker earns.

"As a result of the national recession, Kentucky's trust fund dropped from $413,910,000 at the end of 1990 to $357,940,000 at the end of 1991," said Commissioner Margaret Whittet of the Department for Employ-

"Due to our ample reserve, we took the nearly $56 million loss and still stayed above the designated mark. This is the sixth straight year Kentucky has raised the maximum benefit amount while keeping a low employer tax rate."

In 1991 Kentucky averaged 38,270 weekly beneficiaries as compared to a weekly average of 29,041 in 1990. However, the number of people drawing checks has slowed during 1992. For example, the average weekly beneficiaries for May of this year was 28,602, more than 10,000 fewer than the average of 38,781 in May Still, the long-term impact of the national recession in 1991 and early 1992 may well be felt by Kentucky employers and job seekers as late as July 1993.

"As of April 30, the trust fund balance was at $317,971,000," Whittet said. "As a result, Kentucky probably won't be eligible for the lowest tax rate next year and the maximum weekly benefit will be frozen at $217

'That amount is still far above the $150.6 million deficit Kentucky faced in 1983 when the unemployment situation caused the state to borrow federal funds to pay claims," she said. "At that time the average weekly number of people receiving checks was 58,695. Obviously, we're in far better shape now because Kentucky has been able to collect that reserve over the years and that provides a safety net."

Local cable system promotion to help provide funding for God's Pantry

A special promotion sponsored by Cablevision will provide funding to God's Pantry, according to Cablevision General Manager Dan Perry.

Customers who respond to the September promotion will write a check for $10.00 connection directly to God's Pantry. This is a savings of $29.95 over the regular connection fee for customers who respond to this unique promotion. In addition, customers will receive a "Good Neighbor Rebate," coupon redeemable for a fourth month of service ordered during the promotion.

Perry also said that Cablevision is also working with God's Pantry East on a food drive. Anyone that would like to donate some canned food to God's Pantry can do so by dropping it off at Cablevision or at a grocery store in Prestonsburg. Just look for a big blue barrel with God's Pantry East on it. Debbie Amburgey of God's Pantry said it would be a great help.

VACATION DREAM HOMES: NOT FOR THE WEALTHY ONLY by Dorothy Harris

A second home of any typemaybe a weekend retreat by the lake or a condo in the big city, or whatever suits your fantasies—often seems a dream that only the wealthy can hope to achieve.

It isn't so.

A recent nationwide survey shows that the median household income of second-home owners is $46,500 per year-far from the Rockefeller league. What's particularly significant is the fact that this is a "medium" figure. That means that fully half of all second-home families actually earn less than $46,500 per year.

And that, in turn, means that a second home is clearly within the financial reach of a great many American families.

Ragatz Associates of Oregon, the organization that uncovered the true wealth (or non-wealth) of America's two-home families, also used its survey to turn up interesting information about the age of today's second-home owners. The average: 50. Not quite the first bloom of youth, perhaps, but also a long way from the twilight

A very substantial majority (just over 70 percent) of today's secondhome owners are between 35 and 65 years of age. That age group currently includes almost exactly onethird of the total population of the U.S., but population trends indicate that it will be 39.3 percent in the year 2000, 41 percent in 2010.

These numbers have interesting implication. They make it virtually certain, for example, that an increase in the age group that most often owns second homes will translate directly into increased demand for second homes-beach houses, fishing cottages, mountain retreats, etc. Increased demand almost always causes prices to rise. And that means that people who buy second homes in today's exceptionally affordable buyer's market stand a real chance of seeing their investment appreciate substantially over the next ten and 20

To buy a property for the fun it can give a family and then make a good profit on it is, of course, a classic winwin situation. You win while you own, improving your quality of life, and you win again when you eventually sell.

And that doesn't even take into account the tax advantages that a second home can bring. We'll take a look at those advantages in a future
