Two staffers at Head Start suspended

In-house investigation prompts allegations of misuse of funds, equipment

by Scott Perry
Times Editor and

Staff Writer

The director and bookkeeper for Floyd County's Head Start program were suspended Thursday without pay after a state and local investigation into the program's expenses.

Letters notifying them of their suspensions were delivered Thursday by assistant superintendent Gary Frazier to Head Start director Janie Bailey and bookkeeper Ruth Derossett, who were immediately relieved of their duties with the federally-funded Head Start program.

The suspensions followed a week-long investigation into the program by local school officials, the state's Office of Education Accountability, and officials with the Big Sandy Community Action Program (CAP), which administers Head Start programs in the Big Sandy region. The probe reportedly was directed at abnormal expenses submitted by and approved for the Floyd County program, including reimbursements for staff travel.

Gary Frazier declined Thursday to discuss specifics of the Head Start probe, referring questions to superintendent Stephen Towler, who was expected to be out of town until Monday. Frazier did confirm, however, that Bailey and Derossett had been suspended by Towler without pay, pending completion of the in-house investigation, which Frazier said could be wrapped up within the next 30 days.

Towler's letters to the two, who are considered to be employees of the Floyd County School System, suggested that Bailey and Derossett have been accused of "misuse of funds, misuse of Head Start equipment... unauthorized credit practices" and "inappropriate" conduct.

Former assistant superintendent Pete Grigsby, who was responsible for overseeing the Floyd County Head Start program before being transferred to other duties, said Thursday that he had initiated the in-house investigation in May after "a large bill came across my desk concerning a couple of trips made by Head Start personnel." Grigsby said questions over the May expenses were "the first irregularities" he had noted during his tenure as supervisor for the program. Grigsby said he did not know the outcome of the investigation because he had been reassigned before it was finished.

"I have not been called in to discuss the investigation with Towler,"

Preliminary set for Wednesday :

Defendant pleads not guilty to threatening district judge

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A 34-year-old East Point man has been accused of threatening Floyd County District Judge Danny Caudill.

Bruce Hall

Bruce Hall was arraigned in District Court Thursday morning on a charge of intimidating a judicial officer and placed under $10,000 full cash bond. A not guilty plea was entered for Hall.

Cash taken in Market Place heist

Prestonsburg police are investigating a Wednesday night break-in at The Market Place on South Lake Drive.

Burglars made off with an undetermined amount of cash.

Police Sergeant Mike Ormerod said Thursday that burglars gained entrance to the store by crawling through an opening near the roof. The thieves apparently tried to first gain access to the building from the roof which was damaged, Ormerod said.

Police said an arrest is forthcoming and a reward is being offered for an arrest and conviction.

A special judge will be named because Judge Caudill has recused himself from the case.

Court records say that Hall indirectly threatened Judge Caudill because he allegedly "had been wronged by the judge and others" in connection with a pending custody case.

The warrant said that Hall "wanted to hurt someone by taking their head off with a fist or gun." Hall's actions were allegedly to "intimidate Judge Caudill's decision" on the custody case, court records said.

Kentucky State Police Detective Joel Newsome said Thursday that on April 9 Judge Caudill had awarded custody of Hall's 12-year-old child to Hall's sister-in-law, Marta Bailey.

"He was very, very unhappy about that," Newsome said.

Another hearing on the child's custody is set for August.

"He made threats that if things didn't go the way they were supposed to at the hearing, he would be very unhappy," Newsome said.

Hall's attorney, Tim Parker, filed a motion to reduce Hall's bond. Parker's motion said that Hall denies threatening anyone. A hearing on that motion was set for Friday at 1 p.m.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Wednesday, August 4 at 3 p.m.

Brief relief

Paul True Albert, 46, of Prestonsburg, was allowed a few moments to recover Wednesday following a suspected DUI-related accident in which two women were injured. DUI suspect jailed after two injured in accident

A Floyd County man was jailed Tuesday following an apparent alcohol-related automobile accident in downtown Prestonsburg that sent two women to the hospital.

Officer Anthony Castle of the Prestonsburg Police Department said Wednesday that the accident occurred when Paul True Albert, 46, of Prestonsburg, allegedly failed to stop at a red light at the intersection of U.S. 23 and North Lake Drive, struck a vehicle driven by Deborah K. Tackett, 34, of Beaver, and drove over a steep embankment abutting the intersection.

Tests show that Albert had a blood-alcohol content of .139, which is above the legal .10 limit, Castle said. He added that Albert also allegedly attempted to set fire to a police cruiser's interior after he was arrested.

Tackett and a passenger, 56-year-old Eva Vance, also of Beaver, were transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center. Two children, also passengers in the Tackett vehicle, were unhurt.

Albert remains lodged in the Floyd County Jail on two counts of second degree assault; four counts of wanton endangerment; reckless driving; no insurance; disregarding a traffic signal; failure to register the transfer of a vehicle; and driving under the influence of intoxicating beverages, second offense.

Although a $70,000 bond was set for Albert at an arraignment hearing, Castle said Thursday, legal authorities have issued a parole detainer requesting that Albert remain in custody for violating the terms of a five-year probation for crimes in Florida.

Albert will appear in Floyd District Court on Wednesday, August 4 at 3:30 p.m. for a preliminary hearing on the charges levied against him Wednesday.

Three vie for office of mayor

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Interest remains light in most local races just days before the filing deadline for the November general election.

The most crowded races as of Friday are for the mayors of Prestonsburg and Wheelwright. Tuesday, August 3 is the last day to file for city commission and council races and for two seats on the Floyd County Board of Education.

Three people have filed to run for the Mayor of Wheelwright, including one city commissioner. Lowell D. Parker, who has been an outspoken member of the commission, filed this week for mayor along with David Marlee Sammons and W.R. Boochie Hall.

Candidates for mayor of Prestonsburg are three current city councilmen, George P. Archer, Jerry Fannin and Mike Vance.

Two people have filed to run for school board member in Educational District Two.

Newly-appointed board member Bob Isaac is seeking to keep his seat on the board after being appointed earlier this year by Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen.

Also filing for the District Two board seat is former school superintendent Ray Brackett. Brackett served as superintendent for four years.

No one had filed as of Friday for the board seat in Educational District Three. Also, there were no filings for city commission seats for the cities of Allen and Martin.

No petition to move the county seat out of Prestonsburg was filed as of Friday.

Other filings:

- Prestonsburg City Council- Stephen Thae Allen, Harold G. Ratliff, Phillip "Rusty" Chaffins and Ralph B. Davis Jr.

- Wayland City Council- Curtis Tufts.

- Wheelwright City Commission- Charles L. Harmon.

Persons wanting to run for office have until 4 p.m. Tuesday to file with the county court clerk.

Coal monies to secure jobs at new plant

by Susan Allen

Floyd County Fiscal Court members voted at a special meeting Friday to proceed with two economic development projects which are expected to bring about 500 new jobs to the area.

Court members voted unanimously to use $200,000 of coal severance tax money to help secure a loan for RND Design Inc. to locate a plant at Warco in the old United Supply Building.

Economic Development Executive Director Darrell Gilliam told the court that securing the loan for RND Design was the "last major step" by the court.

Gilliam said that company repre-

Investigation begins into death of biker

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An investigation is expected to begin today, Friday, into a motorcycle accident Tuesday which fatally injured a Floyd County man.

Daniel (Danny) Hunt, 30, died Wednesday from injuries received in the Tuesday night accident which reportedly happened near Corn Fork in Prestonsburg.

Kentucky State Police sergeant Tony Cambron said Thursday that the accident apparently had not been reported to police when it happened.

"We had no knowledge of the accident," Cambron said. "It will be investigated by the state police. A detective will start the investigation Friday."

Hunt died at Cabell Huntington Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia.

Funeral services will be Sunday at 11 a.m. at Nelson Frazier Funeral Home.

Duty calls

Tucker Howard, left, and Bill Scurlock of the Veteran's Referral Center finished packing supplies Wednesday, July 21, for their trip to help flood victims along the Mississippi River. Three tons of supplies were transported in a five-vehicle caravan to the area. Ten area veterans made the trek.

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Duty called again for ten area veterans last week when families along the Mississippi River began their battle with the swollen river.

The veterans, most of whom are disabled by injuries received in service to their country, fought the weather, rising water and lack of sleep to help build levees in St. Charles and St. Genevieve, Missouri.

Tucker Howard, Steve Martin, Don Haney, Bill Scurlock, Roger Stambaugh, Howard Jones, Roger Williams, Ron Marshall, Frank Wisziniewski and Jimmy Fairchild transported supplies to the area in a five-vehicle caravan.

The three-ton care package of food, water and cleaning supplies was collected by the Veterans Referral Center in Paintsville and was donated by area merchants and individuals.

The veterans spent most of Tuesday and Tuesday night collecting and loading the supplies, getting about three hours sleep before leaving on Wednesday.

They arrived at their destination, St. Louis, Thursday. They were stunned at the total devastation.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Tucker Howard, who had visited the St. Louis area before the disaster.

"You would see the big arch of St. Louis, and there were streets below it," he said. "Now, below the arch, the street lights (globes) sticking out of water were all you could see."

Are we turning garbage into gold?

by Scott Perry

Letcher County Judge Ruben Watts added a dash of perspective to the pot of troubles brewing over the disposal of solid waste in Eastern Kentucky when he noted that garbage had more value than coal.

When you consider that it costs about $42 a ton to haul trash to the landfills and that coal is selling for about $20 a ton, it's easy to get the point.

Of course the big difference in the comparison is that trash is not a resource, it's a liability.

Our region benefits financially from mining and selling coal but is strained financially by the costs of having our garbage hauled away.

It's a sure bet, though, that somebody is making plenty of money on what we throw away and they are likely to for some time.

Garbage, unlike coal, is a renewable commodity, if you can call it that. Everybody creates it and nobody wants it. That means that the few who are willing to take it can name their own price.

It's not inconceivable, then, that garbage could soon be worth its weight in gold.

That's not real encouraging for those of us who'll have to pick up the tab.

It should encourage us, though, to consider a change of attitude concerning the disposal of solid waste.

The prevailing Not-In-My-Backyard stance against developing disposal sites will last only as long as somebody else's backyard is available at prices we can afford. Sooner or later we're going to have to take care of our own.

A country that can successfully land a man on the moon ought to be able to develop an environmentally safe and economical means of taking out its trash.

If we don't put our heads together soon to discover that system, the price of a moonshot may be what it will take to get rid of the stuff.

56 years of pride

Editor:
With the closing of our school this year, we want to have a gigantic Wheelwright High School reunion on Labor Day weekend, September 4, 5 and 6.

With 56 years of graduates, it's needless to say that we didn't have names and addresses for everyone. We did the best we could. We sincerely hope everyone in the area will understand and that everyone will pass the word on to former students, principals, teachers and workers.

This is a huge undertaking. We've been working since April and would appreciate any help offered. Our next meeting is August 10 in the school cafeteria. We can use any cash donations offered. The postage has been heavy and the activities planned will cost also.

We're looking forward to seeing entire families join us in our festivities. If you are a former student, etc., and have a musical group that will perform, please call.

Wheelwright has graduated some wonderful students and has a wonderful history. We truly hate to see it close, but...time marches on!

Please, let us hear from you. This includes not only the Wheelwright Trojans ('60s to '90s) but the Wheelwright Maroons ('30s to '60s).

Watch for our formal itinerary in the next issues of the paper.

Lack of concern bothers reader

Editor:
To all concerned. When my home burned up on Corn Fork of Brandy Keg, I would like to say to all my neighbors that I thought people still cared about one another, but while we stood and watched everything we had go up in smoke, all some people were worried about was not having a phone or T.V. for a few days. My mom and son almost lost their lives. But I guess no one is really concerned just as long as they can still gossip on the phone and watch their favorite soap operas and to some people whose favorite time is gossiping, it was an accident.

Dollars and sense

Editor:
While at Archer Park Pool last Sunday, my son and his friend (both 10 years old) went to the concession to get pizza. My son gave the girl one dollar and asked for a slice of pizza. She took his money and replied "It will be just a moment." When she handed his pizza, she asked where his money was. Both boys told her she had already taken his dollar. She denied this and would not give him his pizza. He returned to our table empty-handed and in tears. My husband went and asked her about it and she said that my son hadn't paid for his pizza. As my husband was walking off, she slammed the door in his face and cursed at him.

We have spent many days (and a lot of money) at Archer Park Pool, but we won't be going back—from now on we'll go to Jenny Wiley Pool. For those of you who do go to Archer Park, please don't send your children alone to get food, go with them.

Taking out the trash

If there ever was an unpopular chore, it's taking out the garbage. More than a few family fights have started over whose turn it is. But it's a necessary and important job.

We've noted, however, that some folks take it perhaps too lightly. Too often, we see garbage bagged improperly, inviting animal pilferers and spilling over onto the ground.

Our garbage haulers work on a tight schedule, performing a job we'd have a hard time doing without. They don't have time to pick up fast food scraps that litter the ground around trash cans and bags. Nor is that their job.

So the debris lies ugly on the ground until the wind carries it into neighbors' yards, into the middle of the street or along roadsides.

Perhaps we can't individually clean up our creek banks and all our roadsides. But we can tidy up our own back yards.

Help the garbage man. Secure your garbage bags from spillage and nosy animals. Your neighbors will thank you and our county will look a lot better.

Teen trouble

America's future rests with its young people. A cliché—and from the perspective of a searching new study by the National Research Council, an alarming prospect. The study, echoing the findings of many social scientists and others in recent years, found the principal institutions serving adolescents—schools, health services, the justice system and families—are failing at their task. Not only do they falter in providing teenagers with effective guidance, the study concludes, but their deterioration can actually make matters worse for youths.

The study found that many adolescent problems have worsened in part because of the strained environments in which many young people grow up. This finding reinforces the need to pursue the many efforts already underway to strengthen family ties, bring new vitality to school classrooms and steer young people away from drugs and crime.

What is striking about this study, sponsored by the research arm of the National Academy of Sciences, is its emphasis on institutional shortcomings. True, individuals—even teenagers—are responsible for their actions. But at their vulnerable age, and buffeted by social forces over which they have little control, they need nurturing, guidance and watchful care. In short, they need help from the very entities, from schools to courts to families, that so often appear to let them down.

How can these findings be put to constructive use? We would like to see the NRC discussed at the grassroots level—at PTA meetings, school boards, youth clubs, settlement houses, juvenile courts and other agencies.

A highly respected team of researchers has found those institutions overwhelmed. What is their response? A coordinated dialogue, following up the NRC study with replies from the front, as it were, would offer a real prospect of remedial steps that could make a difference.

Time's a'wasting

Bruce Babbitt, who as Interior secretary presides over the U.S. Office of Surface Mining, offered some reassuring words this week to the agency's employees, coal field citizens, environmentalists and even coal mine operators.

The agency created to administer the federal surface mining reclamation law is, he conceded, a "mess" and in need of attention. That's hardly surprising, given the fact that for 12 of its 16 years, it was run by Republicans who often regarded environmental regulation as a costly nuisance. As the Bush era ground to an end, OSM director Harry Snyder was accused of undercutting OSM's own inspectors and of ignoring citizen concerns.

Mr. Babbitt promised to make the agency "what it ought to be" and said the administration will appoint a new director soon.

That's fine, but where's the beef? Names of possible appointees have been bandied about since December. Clinton spokesmen said in January that a successor to Mr. Snyder would be picked within a month. The transition to a new way of doing things at OSM is overdue.

Mr. Babbitt has had his hands full. But overseeing the surface mining law is one of his department's major duties, and the way he handles it is of profound importance to coal states. The prompt selection of a director who shares his goals would be the best sign that he's serious about doing the job right.

Youth Camp Director
Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch

"How can we improve relationships with the children of the nineties?"

Someone asked Indiana Coach Bobby Knight if the youth of today is any worse than yesteryear and he stated that young people aren't any worse, but their parents are. I tend to agree but would like to give what I feel may be some of the solutions to solving some of the problems with youth in the society of today. I am often asked to give an opinion since I have been the Director at the Sheriffs' Youth Camp for many years and have worked with numerous children. I have raised five children of my own and am the proud grandfather of ten. I believe this qualifies me to know about various problems facing young people and their parents today.

We must remember that today's children, starting with age ten, are much more worldly and are "grown up" in many ways. Television has made them more aware of what is going on around them while destroying many moral values. They witness profanity, vulgarity and sexuality as an everyday way of life. Unfortunately, children are learning many of the wrong ways which are not conducive to a good way of life. Yes, they are much more learned than we were at their age, but, what they are learning from us is in many ways, a real detriment to a good moral lifestyle.

Youngsters are crying out for discipline! We need to give them firm discipline, be decisive and not back off when pressured by them or our peers. There are many ways to discipline a child without being abusive. Show that you love them and sincerely follow through with your love to each child with your actions and deeds. Don't play favorites with double standards for different children.

Children need both male and female influence in their homes. Many families have only one parent raising children, but when one has the sole responsibility, an attempt should be made to have an opposite visit the home as frequently as possible. A child needs both male and female role model, as much as is possible to show by example how to lead a good life.

Please show affection toward the child! Youngsters are starving for affection of some type because they are, in many cases, shoved aside and there is no closeness when the need is so critical. They need a good hug on a daily basis. Just showing you care about them works wonders. This could be one of the most important roles an adult can play in a child's life.

Teach them that faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life! Far too many children are taking their own lives by suicide. Work hard to give their life meaning and purpose by telling them that God loves them and they are not alone in their life. A good church lifestyle should be encouraged by getting your child involved in a church of your choosing. All churches are good. Just select one and take them to it.

Your lifestyle may require you to work more than you would like. This may prevent you from spending as much time with your children as you like. Please, do not try to compensate by catering to them or showering them with unneeded gifts just to ease your guilt feelings. Simply do not try to make up your lost time by gestures of trying to buy their love and acceptance. They are not dumb and they will try both ends against the middle. This is a terrible way to try to make up to your child. Be honest with yourself and your child. Over compensation will only make the situation worse. You can give them plenty of love. This is something that can't be bought.

Work to prevent bad attitudes. This is a real problem of today. With bad news on a daily basis from television programming, pornography running rampant and news coverage of gangs and killings in all cities, it is no wonder that negative attitudes need to be changed into positive ones. We can strive to develop good attitudes and teach children to learn how to respect and be respected in return. Practice these qualities in your home and your child will more than likely possess these attributes.

Parents can spend more quality time with their children to avert a crisis that may loom on the horizon. Get to know them better so that your own pleasures may be molded to coincide with theirs. Be more tolerant with your child and try to understand their needs and wants.

Children are the lifeblood of our nation and we must set the example. Many of these suggestions can be implemented. Are we up to the task???

State to decide fate of ex-Magoffin schools chief

The State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education has scheduled an August 14 hearing on whether to prevent former Magoffin County schools superintendent Carter Whitaker from teaching.

Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen is following through on a threat to reinstate 19 misconduct charges against Whitaker if the former schools chief took a teaching position. Those are the same charges that caused Whitaker to resign last month, rather than face removal.

Kevin Nolan, general counsel for the Department of Education said the hearing, scheduled two days before Magoffin County teachers are to report for in-service training, will be to decide whether to suspend Whitaker.

Despite the threat of state charges from Boysen, Interim Superintendent Arnie Oaken earlier this month assigned Whitaker as a math teacher at the Herald Whitaker Middle School, named for Whitaker's father and predecessor. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Letcher County man held in Collins burglary

A 24-year-old Letcher County man remained in jail this week on charges of burglarizing the home of former Letcher Circuit Judge Larry D. Collins.

Coley Brown, of Haymond, was arrested by a deputy sheriff July 14 after Collins, who lives near Blackey, obtained an arrest warrant charging Brown with stealing a gun and some checks from Collins's home on June 22 and 23.

In his complaint, Collins says that Brown "entered and remained in affiant's home while affiant was out of town... and while there stole one gun... and also did take checks which (Brown) did forge and cash at First Security Bank for $200 each."

Brown was still being held in the county jail this week under $10,000 cash bond on each burglary charge. — The Mountain Eagle, Whitesburg

Three escape in Magoffin

Officials were searching for three men who escaped Wednesday while being taken to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center.

Magoffin Sheriff Chalmer Wireman said the three ran away from Jailer John Clay Watkins on the way out of arraignment proceedings in Magoffin District Court. The jailer had removed their handcuffs after the proceedings.

The three were identified as Tony Manns, 24, held on a drug trafficking charge; Benjie Manns, 18, already charged with third degree escape, contempt of court and fourth degree assault; and Gordon Davis, 20, with charges ranging from marijuana possession and burglary to operating a vehicle on a suspended license. All three are from Salyersville. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Former Martin County principal files suit

A one million dollar lawsuit has been filed against Martin County Superintendent Bill Stone. Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf filed the suit on behalf of former Tomahawk Elementary principal Donald Fannin of July 9.

The complaint was filed in Pikeville's Federal Court and names the Martin County Board of Education as well. It alleges that Fannin's civil rights were violated when he was demoted after exposing alleged theft at the school.

The suit alleges that "the defendant Stone recognizing that his political allies were angered at the Plaintiff's actions and outspokenness, vindictively retaliated by demoting the Plaintiff to a teaching position at a lesser rate of pay."

Jeff Marsh with the firm of Boel, Stopher, and Graves in Prestonsburg has been assigned the job of defending Stone. — The Martin County Sun

Cookie strike picketer's story may crumble

The first strike-related violence in Eastern Kentucky this summer may have involved cookies instead of coal.

But state police and officials at a Pike County cookie factory suggested that it might not have happened.

James L. Abshire, 58, of Phyllis, the husband of one of the strikers at Mountain Top Bakery at Meta, claims he was struck by a tractor trailer that ran the picket lines on Wednesday.

Abshire was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital, where no evidence of injury was found. Police said he complained of a back injury.

About 65 or 70 pickets at the scene told police they saw the truck strike Abshire, but none would give statements. — Lexington Herald-Leader

Breathitt board loses sex discrimination suit

A federal jury awarded more than $1 million in damages to a Breathitt County school employee Wednesday after finding she was wrongfully passed up for a principal's job.

The jury found that Maxine Hudson was denied the position at Breathitt County High School because of her sex and her political affiliations.

The panel awarded Hudson $1.05 million for mental anguish and humiliation. She also got $17,890 in lost wages.

The board members could not be reached for comment. — Louisville Courier-Journal

To All Christians:

My life is so messed up. I have to take antidepressants to prevent depression and seven tranquilizers to sleep. I have been sick for three years and started to get better twice and had set backs! My wife has left me because I have failed to communicate with her and show her the love and affection that she deserves! When I am sick, I am grouchy and don't want to participate in family activities! I am tired of being sick! I am fasting and praying that my wife will take me back and that I can be healed. I will pray and fast until she takes me back or if it be God's will that I am healed or die. I want all the Churches to pray that my wife and I will get back together and that God will help me find a hospital that can help me get off all medication! I am willing to stay three to six months in a hospital that will not make me suffer through severe withdrawal. My biggest fear is I won't make it to Heaven. I am asking everyone to pray that I can feel God's spirit like I used to, and learn to pray daily without ceasing like I used to, and God give me the full confidence of salvation! (A Christian in need of God's grace and love!)

Floyd County schools: A system in transition

Introduction

This report is completed as a requirement of the Kentucky Department of Education Improvement Plan for Floyd County public schools. It is intended to summarize several facets of the total operation of the district as perceived by the superintendent.

The chief executive for Floyd County schools has completed one year in the district—a year in which activities have been focused on addressing 89 recommendations for improvement in the management of the school district. Even if the KDE did not require this statement, it would be a timely activity to summarize the status of programs in the school system on an annual basis. This report will be the first of many to follow on Floyd County Public Schools.

Floyd County has operated a county system of public schools since the early part of this century. Soon the system will approach 100 years of existence. Over thirty years ago, the independent school system in Prestonsburg became a part of the county system.

During the past decades, dramatic change has occurred in Floyd County Schools as well as all other public systems in Kentucky and America. During the past eight years, Floyd County has had considerable attention focused from the state level on the operation of the district. The prevailing opinion of people both in and out of Floyd County was one that suggested improvement was needed in many areas. The Kentucky Education Reform Act passed by the General Assembly in 1990 seemed to concentrate its mandates on two main areas—a results oriented curriculum based on outcomes, and a requirement that school districts operate in an effective and efficient manner.

The later goal of changed management expectations has led the state to focus its attention once again on the Floyd County District.

The Office of Education Accountability has spent considerable time in Floyd County investigating a variety of matters that were brought to the agency's attention. The Kentucky Department of Education spent several weeks in Floyd County during the spring on 1992 and conducted an investigation that was very critical of many aspects of the operations of Floyd County. An improvement plan was required to begin in October and be substantially completed by the end of December. The KDE has monitored activities in Floyd County during the past nine months of the past school year, 1992-93.

A new superintendent began work in Floyd County in July 1992. He followed an interim superintendent who served for three months under the appointment of the Department of Education. The superintendent selection process did not go as planned and the state intervened to disqualify a chosen candidate and work with the board on the final selection.

The new superintendent, Dr. Steve Towler, came to Floyd County as a native Kentuckian from the eastern part of the state. He had served 25 years in education and 15 years as a local superintendent in three different school districts, most recently as the chief executive of Hardin County, the fourth largest district in Kentucky.

With all of this brief historical perspective, 1992-93 has been a memorable year in Floyd County with a flurry of activity taking place.

Board of Education

Currently, the Floyd Board of Education operates with five members. One member, Eddie Billips, has served for two and a-half years for Division One. Two members, Ed Patton from Division Four and Hattie Owens from Division Five, were elected in November of 1992 and began serving four-year terms in January 1993. They have six months experience.

Two additional board members, Bob Isaac from Division Two and Dr. Brent Clark from Division Three were appointed in May 1993, by the Commissioner to replace a deceased member, Ray "Shag" Campbell and another member, Tommy Boyd, who has resigned.

The "new" board of education is truly a young board in terms of service, but each member has taken the oath of office with a sincere attitude to improve the Floyd County schools.

As an example, the regular meetings in February, March and April each lasted approximately 10 hours length. Special board meetings are frequently called by the chairman to conduct urgent business of the school system. The new members are attempting to learn the components of KERA and how they affect Floyd County. Anyone who attends the meetings will get a full appreciation of the many hours of reading and hard work that must be done by a board member. In Floyd County, everyone must work harder than normal and the board of education has been holding up their share of the load.

Floyd County schools' policy-making body—the board of education—appears to be well on its way to giving direction to an improved school system.

Instruction

For the past three years, the understanding and implementation of KERA has dominated the time of educators in Floyd County. Preparing for a total new system of accountability, training in a new system of school management, (School Based Decision Making) preparing for a major infusion of technology, redesigning the early childhood delivery system (the primary program), and all of the other new programs of every single teacher and administrator in Floyd County. Some have worked harder than others, but we believe the work load has increased for everyone.

The Central Office Reorganization affected instruction in that we attempted to better align the coordination of specific KERA strands with particular positions. We also employed a number of new people in instruction that will play a major role across the county in the implementation of KERA.

Specific new positions last year were the writing coordinator, technology coordinator and the vocational-tech prep coordinator. The names of other positions were changed to reflect assignment differences. In short, we believe the new instructional arrangement will allow a stronger central office role in the technical assistance that is to be offered to schools.

In a few short weeks, Floyd County will receive the initial KIRIS testing results that will give us our first reading on the new accountability criteria. While we have no idea how we will perform, we are anxious in that it will allow specific direction for improvement. We are optimistic that all schools will meet their thresholds, but we have no way of feeling confident that we will.

Instruction is moving or advancing at an acceptable pace. We still have some reluctant certified staff toward KERA, but every district has a certain number of staff that remain to be convinced that all the required change is for the good. We believe the number of reluctant staff grows smaller every day. Floyd County is equal to or farther along than the average district in Kentucky in the instructional component changes required from KERA, according to the opinion of the superintendent.

Personnel

A tremendous number of personnel decisions have been made during the past year. A philosophy of involvement has been instituted with both positions at the school level and the central office. The superintendent ultimately is responsible, but the record will show that involvement in advisory groups has been instituted extensively in Floyd County.

Personnel is clearly an important responsibility in any school system and jobs in today's economy are difficult to find. That fact makes every facet of the employment process be scrutinized and questioned more than ever. We hope to have begun the process of convincing everyone that the person who is most qualified will be the person who is employed for any and all positions in Floyd County.

Like any organization that employs over 1,100 people, the quality and attitude level will vary a great deal. But one thing is certain, Floyd County has many outstanding employees and we have tried to put the word out to do things as they should be done by law and regulation, work hard, and be ready to defend any action or decision that is made.

The image of the central office has improved and we want to work toward improving that image each day of the year. We want to be responsive, efficient and effective. When we are not and the problem can be specifically identified and documented, it will be addressed.

One major concern, our attendance problem with students is real. But the attendance attitude of many, too many of our employees has been documented. We have far too many employee absences. That must be improved and we intend to work on that as a serious problem.

Finance

The Floyd County Schools ended 1992-93 with a fund balance of slightly over one million dollars. We must maintain that balance and the coming year will be a challenge for everyone in the light of the fact that we may receive a significant reduction in state funds during the next few months.

We have a better handle on the different data bases due to the extensive work done by our new director of finance.

The budget process will begin in the fall of 1993 in order to make the best decisions in the spring of 1994 for budget year 1994-95. We must begin thinking about the budget on a year round basis as an on-going process.

The frustrations with the past year and upcoming year is a result of state budget constraints. After new money flowed in 1990-91 and 1991-92, we have essentially been on a level pace, with no new money. Some of the KERA strands have not been fully funded and salary raises have been almost non-existent over the past year and will be the case for the coming school year. Essentially, all the new money from two bienniums (four years) flowed to the district in the first two years. The new funds have been put to additional staff and many new programs—but we must be careful in the coming year because of the tightness of the budget.

Floyd County is not yet on a level playing field in terms of money per student, but we have come a long way toward equity in the past three years.

The school based budgeting process has been instituted for next year with Floyd County going far beyond the state requirements in allowing different decisions to be made at the school level. Our system believes that true school-based decision making involves significant budget decisions to be made by school councils and school committees.

Operations

During the past year, significant attention has been focused on facilities and finances in Floyd County. We have attempted to better organize our work order procedure, and other aspects of building cleanliness and maintenance. With a new organization headed by a chief of operations, the delivery of services to our schools in the areas of food service, transportation, facility repair, and financial accountability will continue to be a focus of our efforts.

Facility Construction

During the past twelve months, a significant planning process was undertaken by a group of 16 people to set the course for the next ten years for school facilities in Floyd County.

A plan will soon be approved by the Kentucky Department of Education and State Board of Education that will guide our efforts for the next decade. While that plan was put together with much effort and thought, changing situations in Floyd County can be dealt with through modifications to the plan if necessary.

The only significant progress in construction took place at South Floyd in that we will have completed the academic portion in phases I & II to be occupied on August 23, 1993. Phase III, the gymnasium, should have been under construction several months ago, but we hope to let bids in August and begin construction in September.

The Betsy Layne project is at a stand still until decisions are made on how to proceed in that area of the county.

The Adams addition of six classrooms and a technology lab should be let for bids in August.

Planning has begun on a new elementary school between Martin and Maytown and the renovation and addition at Prestonsburg High School. State board approval of the new plan is necessary to proceed.

The four new facilities in Floyd County at Adams, Duff, Allen and South Floyd are tremendous new schools. Floyd County was behind and still has a great deal of catching up to do in facility improvements. In the coming year we will continue to try and get three new projects underway—Betsy Layne, Martin/Maytown and Prestonsburg High. To have seven new facilities out of twenty schools is a significant accomplishment in a five year period of time. The work to keep the other 13 buildings operating efficiently will be ongoing and a challenge.

Summary

This State of the School System commentary could have covered many other areas, but the report would be too lengthy. Suffice it to say that Floyd County is truly a system in transition. Things are not the way they used to be and will never be the way they used to be in virtually every aspect of the school system. We are working to become a "system of schools"—each with an independent and unique operational plan. We want twenty successful schools in Floyd County and we have a good start on that goal.

Live music show will originate from Paintsville

Paintsville will soon be the home of a live music show patterned after the famous Grand Ole Opry, starting in September. The show will feature amateur and professional talents to fill a cast of twenty-five. The show will be broadcast on several different radio stations in Eastern Kentucky and also broadcast to thirty eight states, Bermuda and Canada via WRVA, a 50,000 watt Clear Channel AM station, which originates from Richmond, Virginia.

The music show is still unnamed and will be owned and operated by nationally known radio personalities,

John and Jean Trimble.

Trimble is a former Paintsville native.

Auditions will be held in the immediate future. Individuals interested in auditioning will find entry forms at your local radio stations, newspaper offices, and from the Paintsville Tourist Bureau office located in the Paintsville City Hall. Write to Live Promotions, P.O. Box 705, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240.

The producers are looking for country and pop musicians, singers and specialty groups such as gospel and Bluegrass. Both amateur and professional talents will be considered.

Body recall

Three residents from Riverview Manor Nursing Home (left to right), Bertha Wright, Elizabeth Vaughn and John Stephenson, recently attended a seven hour Body Recall Workshop during July. The workshop provided a total exercise program, giving the participants increased self-esteem, motivation, the ability to reach their full potential and feel successful about themselves. New health services coming to area

An Indiana diagnostic health care service plans to expand its services into Floyd County.

Precision Medical Diagnostic Services of Evansville, Indiana has proposed to expand its existing mobile X-ray, EKG and Holter (long-term EKG), monitoring services to 34 Kentucky counties, including Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties.

The services will be offered to nursing homes, personal care homes, home health agencies, correctional facilities and private corporations.

No capital expenditure is involved.

The Interim Office of Health Planning and Certification is considering the health care proposal under a nonsubstantive review. Nonsubstantive review expedites the formal review process required for a certificate of need; such review can be granted in certain cases as specified by statute and regulation.

Persons affected by the proposed change under review may request a public hearing on the application. Requests must be submitted in writing by July 29 to Richard Carroll, Chief Hearing Officer, Interim Office of Health Planning and Certification, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, KY 40621.

The interim office plans to complete its review by August 23.

Newsome-Reynolds reunion for matriarch's birthday

The family of Oma Branham Newsome Reynolds reunited on June 19, at the home of her daughter, Thelma Clark of Harold.

Those attending included her nine children: Thelma Clark of Harold; Minis Newsome of Stanville; Dollie Ralph of Carleton, Michigan; Geneva Wright of Belleville, Michigan; Wanda Patierno of Newport News, Virginia; Vernon Reynolds of Gibraltar, Michigan; M.J. Reynolds of Wyandotte, Michigan; Kenneth Reynolds of Flatrock, Michigan; and Omer Reynolds of Lantana, Florida.

Other guests were Oma's sister, Ginger Branham of Falls Church, Virginia and brother, Miles Branham and Algene of Pikeville.

Oma has 40 grandchildren, 54 great-grandchildren, and 1 great-great-grandchild. Most of these grandchildren also attended the reunion.

Oma just recently celebrated her 81st birthday.

Local students accepted into EKU teacher education program

Two Floyd County residents have met an early challenge to help shape tomorrow's young minds.

Recently accepted into Eastern Kentucky University's teacher education program was Wendy L. Scott and Debra M. Hall.

Students are accepted into the program their junior year only after meeting stringent EKU College of Education standards. They must display above-average academic ability, demonstrate proficient computer and communication skills (including a satisfactory performance on the University writing exam), perform satisfactorily in an individual interview and receive positive recommendations from four EKU faculty members.

When students graduate from EKU's program, they will be prepared to lead a contemporary classroom.

Compton-Shelton to wed

Mr. and Mrs. Omery Compton of Price, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Charlotte Renee, to Eddie Shelton, son of Donna Isaac of Wheelwright.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Morehead State University and is currently employed at Saint Claire Medical Center.

The groom is a sophomore at Morehead State University pursuing a career in Industrial Technology. The wedding will be held August 7 at 1 p.m. at the Little Nancy Church at Hi Hat.

The gracious custom of open ceremony will be observed. All family and friends are cordially invited to attend.

WEDDING BELL
BLUES?

My husband and I didn't have a wedding anniversary this year. It wasn't because the date of our wedding didn't come to pass, but rather because my husband forgot. Even after I gave him an anniversary card which stated in large, bold print—HAPPY ANNIVERSARY—he still didn't get the hint. "Yeah, that's a cute card, Sara," he remarked, as he dropped it onto the table without even a glint of recognition.

"Didn't you notice?" I asked. "Notice what?" he answered. "Oh, nothing," I said, my voice dripping in anguish. "Oh, what now?" he questioned. "Nothing!" I screamed and ran to the other end of the house.

How could anyone not acknowledge an anniversary card? The Marquis de Sade might forget, and maybe Henry VIII would have had trouble remembering, but who could forget when they were given a card themselves?

Actually he did remember after I told him. And he was on his best behavior for nearly a week.

Later I learned that ninth anniversary's are permissible to forget. This discovery was made several weeks ago when Barry Adkins told me that he and his wife, Karen, were celebrating their anniversary.

"Today is my wedding anniversary," he announced proudly.

"That's wonderful!" I exclaimed. "And I bet it's Karen's anniversary, too."

"You're perceptive, Sara. Yes, it is Karen's, too."

"How many is it?" I asked.

"It's three. I'm told that the third anniversary is leather. I think that's a bit strange, but nonetheless it's supposed to be leather."

"Could be interesting," I laughed. Barry disregarded my remark so I thought I'd quickly change the subject and tell him that Jimmie had forgotten ours.

"You mean he completely forgot?" Barry asked.

"That's right. He didn't even remember after I reminded him by giving him an anniversary card."

"Which anniversary was it?" he asked in a concerned voice.

"Ninth," I replied.

Without missing a beat Barry bluntly said, "It's acceptable to forget the ninth one."

"Huh?" I asked before I looked into his deadpan face.

"Yeah, you don't have to remember the ninth one. You can forget it if you want. No harm, no foul."

"I never heard of that."

"I never heard of it either," Karen commented.

"Well, nevertheless, it's true," Barry said assertively. "Women don't know that much about it, but men certainly are aware of it."

"Yeah, I'll bet," I said sarcastically.

"If you don't believe me, ask any man."

Actually, I really wasn't too upset about Jimmie forgetting our anniversary though I will admit I was a bit unnerved. And after I finished screaming, crying hysterically and repeatedly asked him why he didn't care anything about me anymore I felt somewhat better. The only upside to this event is that Jimmie promised he wouldn't forget our next anniversary. At least I don't think he could stand to be ridiculed another entire year.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND Extra

by Jerry Kirksey,
Singing News

Twenty years ago George Younce and Glen Payne sang with Roy Tremble and George Webster as The Cathedral Quartet. Younce and Payne are still singing with The Cathedrals, but Tremble and Webster removed themselves from the quartet more than 10 years ago.

They've kicked around in Gospel Music ever since, but are now back and serious about the business. With Chuck Crain and Brent Frederick, they've formed a new male Quartet called Heartland—and they've come to sing.

"Good singing will be there when all the gimmicks are gone," said Eldridge Fox after helping the guys cut a record on the Pinnacle label at Horizon Music Group in Asheville, North Carolina, "and these boys are good singers. To me, this is Southern Gospel at its best."

Wait till you hear the tape, and you'll likely agree. The album is called "Makin' Gold," and some of the songs are "Testing Time," "Telegram From Heaven," "No Further Than Your Knees" and "Little Is Much."

Heartland is a harmony group, and the harmony is pure male. They can do low, middle or high harmony, depending on what they think the song calls for, and they do it well.

Until last Easter all four were singing with The Blackwood Quartet. Larry Thompson, who owns Thompson Trucking in Pikeville, heard them and immediately liked their pure harmony. He told them, "If you're ever looking for an opportunity, call me."

When they left The Blackwood group last Easter, they contacted Thompson, and true to his word he put them on the road as The Heartland Quartet out of Branson, Missouri, which is rapidly becoming one of the entertainment centers of the country.

With Tremble on first tenor, Crain singing lead, Webster baritone and playing piano, and Frederick laying a solid bass foundation, Heartland has had a busy summer, singing all over the country and cutting two or three tapes and one video without benefit of a label.

But Horizon Music Group took them on recently and put them on a label tape very quickly.

Frederick is a relative newcomer to Gospel Music. A basso profundo like Arnold Hyles used to be with The Rangers Quartet. Frederick had a part-time country group in eastern Kansas, but his voice had an excellent low quality that lent itself more to Gospel.

Crain sang with Wendy Johnson and The Messengers in the early 1970s when he was in the 1961 they won the National Quartet Convention's talent contest in Memphis.

Roy attended the Stamps-Baxter School of Music in 1965 and James Blackwood heard him sing and recommended him to The Lancers Trio, an offshoot of The Junior Blackwood Brothers. After a stint with The Lancers he moved to The Weatherford Quartet for a few years, and then in 1971 began singing first tenor with The Cathedrals.

A year later, George came to The Cathedrals, and he and Roy were with George and Glen for nine years, singing for Rex Humbard in his Cathedral of Tomorrow in Akron, Ohio.

"We've been in Gospel Music all our lives, it seems," George said. "I thought we were on the shelf when we left Ron, but God brought us together again."

"We felt there was a niche for us," he said. "Most groups coming into Gospel singing are mixed groups, and we felt there was a void in the male Quartet business. We're going to do what we can to help fill that void. We'll sing some of the old stuff—folks will know the songs we sing."

This is a Quartet with experience, loaded with talent, and eager to sing.

Heartland is the opening act for Monday night's performance of the Kentucky Opry.

Heart of gospel

Heartland is a harmony group, and the harmony is pure male. They can do low, middle or high harmony, and they do it well.

Vaya Consuela

A dios. Aloha. Auf wiedersehen. Sayonara. So long. See ya.

In short, good bye. That's right, one more week and I'm history.

I'm moving on to greener pastures (although now that I think about it, greener pastures are usually greener because they have more uh... manure... to deal with, but that's another story).

At any rate, I'm leavin' and I ain't gonna let the door hit me in the backside on the way out.

NEVER AGAIN will I defile Floyd County with the filth and lies I'm so often accused of spreading. In other words— you won't have ME to kick around anymore!!!

I hope you're happy.

I know it'll certainly be a big adjustment for you to make, but I'm sure you'll do just fine.

But before those of you who are now rolling around on the floor and laughing hysterically with childlike glee bust a gut... don't get too smug just yet.

I'll STILL contribute my own personal brand of pure trash in Truth, Justice, and the American Way

"Truth, Justice & the American Way" in this very space in this very newspaper EVERY SINGLE WEEK until EVERY SINGLE SUBSCRIBER demands his or her money back or at least until the nice man with the funny moustache stops signing my paychecks!!!

That way you can worship me from afar.

And, of course, my good buddy Dr. Bubba will still be here to continue making your lives one long, horrible, endless abyss of the darkest, foulest abject humiliation, misery and despair imaginable in the worst pits of MICHIGAN since I won't be here to carry on the proud, libelous tradition anymore (and before you few die-hard subscribers in Michigan throw a hissy, I'd say "in the worst pits of" that other, warmer place, but this is a family newspaper— besides, I've lived in Michigan—it's worse). To all the many kind and wonderful people I've met (as well as all the people I've really teed-off and forced to say mean things to me and swear that I'll be consigned to the worst pits of Michigan) during my short tenure here, thank you for your time and your patience and especially for the fact that you've stopped burning the crosses in my front yard.

I'd also like to say that it's all been a tremendous learning experience that I'm certain will stay with me all the rest of my days (or at least the next couple of weeks, whichever comes first).

In case you're actually interested, I'll be moving to The Big Sandy News, Eastern Kentucky's Oldest Newspaper, in sunny downtown Louisa. Feel free to subscribe, and if you have some extra bucks you're willing to blow, I can cut you a pretty good deal on advertising.

In other words, send cash and plenty of it.

Or I'll be back. Hasta la vista, baby. See ya in the funnypapers.

Poperri

by Scott Perry

The two most popular words among young people today are the same two words passed down from generation to generation, from culture to culture to answer all of life's most important questions...

I forgot.

When asked why she took a bite of the forbidden fruit, knowing the consequences would be a life of eternal misery, Eve, being a young lady of, no doubt, the teen-age persuasion, answered: "I forgot."

Accepted through the ages as the ultimate of excuses, the phrase maintains its place today among the leading causes of gray hair in parents.

Just the other day, for instance, my son, barefoot as usual, asked if he might go out onto the front porch to play.

Yes, I said, but THOU SHALT NOT LEAVE THE PORCH WITHOUT THY FEET BEING COVERED WITH SHOES AND SOCKS.

Out the door he went, directly down the steps and into the neighbor's backyard without once glancing over his shoulder.

HALT! I cried.

Didn't I just say not to leave the porch without first putting on your shoes and socks?

Yes, the lad replied.

Then why, I questioned further, did you ignore that directive and go directly off the porch without first putting on socks and shoes?

I forgot.

As the veins in my neck bulged with the mass quantities of gray coloring being pumped to my scalp, I ventured another query...

How is it possible, I asked, to forget a direct order in the span of two seconds?

I could see the wheels turning and expected a lengthy explanation from the lad of how his brain had been sucked out by fiends from the planet Memorex when his eyes sparkled and a toothless smile, common to toothless six-year-olds, formed on his less than innocent face.

But, instead of a wild reply I got the second most common answer a person of youth can provide...

I dunno.

And I could feel my hair changing colors...

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Edmund assured Maria she was helping him get over Brooke. Tad, who almost told Dixie he loved her, revealed that Ted hoped to marry her. Kendall let "slip" to Travis that Erica wanted custody of Bianca. He reacted by revoking Erica's visitation rights, leading to a clash between Dimitri and Jack over how the case was handled. Kendall, meanwhile, had a romantic fantasy about Dimitri. After meeting Lily, Hayley formed a new opinion of Laurel, and told Adam they had no case against her. Taylor told Lucas he may be the father of Mimi's child. Wait To See: Adam's real intentions toward Laurel surface.

ANOTHER WORLD: In Banff, just before Ryan entered the cave, Ian told Vicky about his past with Carl. Accusing Ryan of double crossing him, Ian grabbed Vicky and took off with Ryan in hot pursuit. Jake's conscience irked him as he thought about Paulina and their wedding, but Spencer's generous payment for his "services" changed his mind again. Meanwhile, Paulina found information in Jake's office that will have powerful consequences for many. Wait To See: Kelsey and John make an important decision, and Grant makes a shocking discovery.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Iva was concerned about her situation with Aaron and Holden. Hal and Royce read Neal's letter, the one Graham also read. Jessica and Duncan were shocked when Lucinda said she suspected Royce has a twin. Telling Kirk about her pain over Neal's death, Lucinda said she hoped she still had another half-sibling. Damian patronizingly told Lily that as a woman, she shouldn't be concerned with his "boring" business deals. Debbie made sure Hutch found Rosanna's birth control pills. Wait To See: Royce's behavior grows stranger.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Unaware that Brooke was present, Steve burst into Eric's office where Connor identified him as a lawyer. Brooke slapped him and then told the Forresters she wouldn't sign the Belief release, and that they would soon all be working for her. Macy woke up in the guestroom in Thorne's apartment, saying she hasn't felt so well in months. He cautioned her she'd have to work on her drinking problem before they could make any plans. Later, Taylor told Jack, Macy invited her to a bachelorette party for Sally. She also persuaded Jack to visit Stephanie, who needed a friend right now. Wait To See: Sheila's plans for "changing" Brooke's mind begin to go into effect.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Despite the efforts of the doctors, Carly's life slipped away. After her "miraculous" recovery from paralysis, Vivian comforted Lawrence and Nikki, while she imagined that Carly would soon wake up from the herb-induced "sleeping death" to realize she was a prisoner in her own body. A horrified Ivan realized "Madame" intended to bury Carly alive, but ordered a coffin and did nothing to stop the burial. Carly awoke to the horror of her situation, but was unable to communicate with Bo who held her hand before the coffin lid was lowered. As the coffin was placed in her grave, Carly let out an agonized but silent scream. Lexie found a clue to the Pacific vigilante. Wait To See: Vivian takes the next step in her increasingly bizarre plans.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: After her suicide attempt, a distraught Tiffany told Sean she was going back to her parents to try to put her life together. Lucy was upset when Scott allowed Katherine to stay in his apartment. Hoping to save their marriage, Monica gave Alan another chance. Holly departed Port Charles for new adventures, leaving Bill seething at her final "revenge." Jagger defied the court order and visited his sister whose adoptive parents threatened to have him arrested. Karen's drink was spiked as a mysterious young man looked on. Wait To See: Jagger faces a new challenge in his quest to find his family.

GUIDING LIGHT: After his run-in with Roger, Ed told Holly he wouldn't be around to help her anymore. A frantic David and Hamp feared Hart would discover them in the barn. But after Bridget confided in Hart, he backed up her story when Mallet and Harley questioned her. Nadine and Buzz reluctantly agreed to share the diner apartment. McCauley West (Joe Lando), the arresting officer on the Davenport case, agreed to come to Springfield at Nick's request. Eleni had an alarming moment over Marina, but chose not to tell Frank. Nick entered just as Mindy told Eve he had been paying her rent. Wait To See: Roger sees a way of using Jenna and Holly's animosity (over him) to his advantage.

LOVING: Leo made a chauvinist remark, leaving Shana fuming. Ally and Cooper told Isabelle about their marriage scam and she, as per arrangement with Cooper, "disowned" him. Jeremy and Ava sensed sexual tension building between them as they continued to outwit Faison. Apparently thrown out of the mansion, Cooper moved into Kate's house. Shana took over Burnell's when Leo was unable to make a loan payment. Trucker announced he planned to give away Trisha's fortune. Buck agreed to stay on in Corinth, while Tess tracked down Trucker and Buck's father, Mac Huston, to discuss a deal that would get them a share of Trucker's money. Wait To See: With Ava as his bait, Faison waits for Jeremy, unaware that Jeremy has some ideas of his own.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Trapped in a secret room, Viki and Dorian let loose at one another over events of the past 25 years. Cord regained consciousness, but had no memory of the last 18 months of his life, leaving Angela and Cain dismayed—each for her or his reasons. Max tore up the oil contract, believing his greed had jeopardized C.J.'s and Al's lives. Nora damaged Marty's credibility on the stand, while Kevin learned Carol Swift may have damaging information about Todd. Later, Nora was upset by Luna's and Rachel's persistent assertions that Marty wasn't lying. Wait To See: Max and Luna confront Alex.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Victor left the farm, with Hope sure they'll never meet again. Nikki told Cole she sent a few chapters from his book to her sister-in-law, Traci, who has connections with a New York publisher. Douglas' shocked reaction to Victor's appearance puzzled him until Douglas filled him in on his "death" and "funeral." Reactions from his family persuaded Victor to leave again, but not before giving Douglas a tape about Jack's conspiracy for delivery to Brad. John told an overjoyed Jill he loved their newborn son. Wait To See: Victor finds going back to the farm could turn out to be a mistake.

MINI-REVIEWS

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR—This wonderful fantasy centers around a 12-year-old boy named Henry (Thomas Ian Nicholas) whose life is transformed when he accidentally breaks his arm. The arm heals, but in such a way, the boy has become a formidable pitcher. In fact, he's signed to play with the Chicago Cubs through a weird freak of fate.

Any boy who's ever pictured himself in the majors will love this film. Best of all, the movie provides some very delightful moments for the adults among us. Director Daniel Stern, best known as the voice of Kevin Arnold on "The Wonder Years" and his "Home Alone" stunts, proves he is not only a talented actor, he's got a real future in directing.

Of particular appeal is the contrast between Henry's absolute amazement at being a major league ballplayer and his teammates' concern with their mega-egos and mega salaries. He brings us back to the "glory" days of this all-American sport, something anyone who's lazed away a summer afternoon at the ballpark while his team races to victory will truly appreciate.

JURASSIC PARK—I'm sure you were wondering when I'd get around to this, the "biggest" hit of the season. I'm sorry to admit it, but despite all the hype and the excited crowds who have seen this movie, I liked the book a lot better.

As to the premise of the movie, an eccentric multimillionaire comes up with what he thinks is the ultimate idea for an amusement park—a theme park centered around dinosaurs. However, his dinosaurs are not just mechanical wonders. They are the real thing, cloned from genetic material of existing dinosaur bone finds. Jeff Goldblum shines as the offbeat genius scientist, but for some unknown reason, he is not a major part of the film. It's too bad, since the rest of it is pretty formulaic.

Another disturbing thing about this film is the violence. I'm sure you've heard all the controversy about the licensing campaign aimed at the kiddies, but they're too young to actually deal with the movie. Trust it. It's true. I wouldn't bring any kid under 13 to see it.

Home Tips

OLD TOOTHBRUSHES—I have found an excellent use for old toothbrushes. Every time I have waxed my cars in the past, there was always some wax remaining in tight places behind chrome strips, door edge protectors and around tail lights after removing the wax with a rag. Now I use old toothbrushes to remove the remaining wax after polishing. The old toothbrushes are soft and will not scratch the paint, and they get into these tight areas very easily. Joe V., Bronx, N.Y.

ELECTION STAKES—As soon as elections are over, I gather the small campaign signs at local voting places. The wire poles that insert into corrugated signs make great stakes for beans, gladioli and other plants that need a little support. The wires are thin enough for vines to wrap around easily, and they can be hidden behind plant leaves for unobtrusive support. Clara D., Chester, Pa.

HOMEMADE CRAFTS—I love crafts and enjoy making gifts for friends and relatives. Someday I would like to start a home business. In the meantime, I photograph every one of my crafts and handmade articles for my portfolio. That way, future customers and gift recipients can get an idea of the quality and scope of my work. And Gary and Lisa Koffsky were off for Atlantic City following their wedding in June when they stopped their car to help a driver slumped over the wheel in the center of a parkway in North Massapequa, N.Y., and as they waited for help, another car hit them, sending them to the hospital for their honeymoon.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

This is a good week for furthering career ambitions and getting things done around the house. Talks with higher-ups are favored now. Avoid domestic disputes. Do not nurse a hurt in private as you have a tendency to withdraw into yourself.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

An argumentative type may cross your path this week. You may find the usual job routine somewhat boring. Friends are liable to distract you from your work. Satisfaction now comes from cultural interests. Visit a new restaurant and make plans for travel.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

A money dispute is possible, yet dealings with bankers, brokers, and insurance agents are favored. It is a good time to apply for a mortgage and to make home repairs. You are able to bring a project to a successful conclusion this week. Don't mix business with pleasure over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)

It is an excellent time to go after what you want and to work in cooperation with others. Social interests are favored, but you must avoid quarreling. Extra expenses may arise in connection with the household. Partners reach new levels of understanding.

LEO (July 23 to August 22)

Business-related discussions will leave you in a better financial position. Career progress comes this week, but a coworker may be difficult and jealous. A partner may not be enthusiastic about one of your plans. Watch extravagance. Go easy with the credit cards.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22)

Sharp words may be exchanged between you and a friend this week. However, things go very much your way. Some money owed you may be late in coming. Fun comes through creativity, romance and children this weekend. Enjoy!

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)

Avoid direct confrontations in business. You work best from behind-the-scenes. Maintain a low profile. You will continue work on a home decorating project. Guard against an inclination to be lazy and lethargic.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)

You should stay clear of disputes about ideological concerns. It's a good week for creative interests. You may have ambivalent feelings about a social engagement. Home responsibilities are a priority now. For the weekend, social life and group activities are highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)

Talks about business interests go very well this week. Take the lead now in contacting others. Success awaits your efforts. Avoid quarrels about money. A private worry diminishes your enthusiasm for socializing this weekend, so accent family interests.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19)

You may be consulting with a new adviser this week. Travel and distant matters are highlighted. Angry words could mar your relationship with a close tie. A business client may be slow in paying. Stay on top of commitments.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18)

Aggressiveness serves you well in business. Get an early start on the week. Financial developments now are positive, yet a disagreement could occur about money. A travel plan needs further consideration. Time by yourself this weekend leads to new insights.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20)

You will certainly be making a good impression on your friends this week. Your handling of money may be somewhat erratic. You could be both stingy and extravagant now. Couples will enjoy a special outing together this weekend.

Young Authors

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly feature the student work of Jeffrey Slone, a Young Authors' winner from Ms. Yvette Martin's room at Duff Elementary. His book, The Farm, was a winner in the "books without words" competition. His work is printed with permission.

Jeffery's book was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1991-92 school year. He received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Over 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

Earth day dance at B.L. Elementary

Nadine Blankenship, a seventh grade teacher at Betsy Layne Elementary, received state-wide recognition for her teaching of environmental protection. At the close of the environmental classes an Earth Day Dance was held where the only admission was to bring in aluminum for recycling. Entertainment was provided by Betsy Layne's very own rock band, "The Iron Jellyfish". The 2-man band consisted of Jared Hall on guitar and Jeremy Adkins on drums.

Floyd Countians travel through time at 4-H Camp

Floyd County 4-H'ers attended an exciting week at 4-H Camp the week of July 19-23. Thirty-nine campers, five teen leaders, two adult leaders and two agents traveled to the J.M. Feltner 4-H Camp in London for a fun-filled week of many activities.

Campers participated in classes such as riflery, swimming, crafts, nature, rocketry and video photography. Evening programs included talent shows, field games, water olympics and even a 50's dance.

The campers returned home Friday with many already wanting to know about next year's camp.

The Floyd County 4-H Program would like to thank the Floyd County Board of Education for use of buses and a special thanks to the following people for volunteering their time to work with these 4-H'ers: Frances Pitts, Kelli Hairston, Jamie Hylton (adult leaders); and Leigh Keathley, Heather Nelson, Kristy Scott, Nick Adkins and Tommy Wallen (teen leaders).

Floyd County 4-H'ers attending camp this year were Andy Branham, Nick Richardson, Carlos McGill, Paul Turner, Devin Newsome, Wesley Nelson, Brandon Kohler, Marc Justice, Jeremy Hayes, Mark Patton, Jesse Isaacs, Kim Shepherd, Brandi Ely, Bridget Brooks, Michele Justice, Rachel Thompson, Jennifer Newman, Amanda Clark, Crystal Williams, Natasha Baker, Crystal Richardson, Tosha Mollette, Jill Akers, Jessi Hamilton, Amber Billiter, Jerri Bentley, Rachel Tackett, Shea Mullins, Betsy Johnson, Angie Goble, Andrea Jones, Sonya Shepherd, Rebecca Tackett, Leslie Hopkins, Brooke Campbell, Carolyn Varney, Rebecca Justice, Ashley Slone and Jason Eplin.

Win prizes and recognition for using cable programming in the classroom

Cablevision is again sponsoring an awards program for teachers who innovatively and effectively use cable programming to supplement classroom curriculum.

Dan Perry, General Manager of Cablevision, announced the award is open to all teachers, media specialists and staff in Cablevision's service area.

Cablevision will award as first prize a Sharp 25" color TV; second prize will be a Sharp video cassette recorder to the winning entries.

The winning entry will also be sent to a national contest sponsored by Cablevision's parent company where the winner will receive $750 for first place plus $2500 in cash and video equipment for the school. National second prize is $500 plus $1500 in cash and video equipment for the school and third prize is $250 for the teacher and $1000 in cash and video equipment for the school.

Projects can focus on areas such as curriculum development, classroom and community activities, study-related materials and audio/video production.

Cablevision also provides free Cablevision cable service to all schools in their service area, also provides the schools with free Cable in the Classroom guides so the teachers will know when the programs are being aired and they can tape them to be used in their lessons. If you would like to know more about Cable in the Classroom and the teacher's award, please call Cablevision at 886-2291 for more information.

Writin' Willie

Willie Elliott, a Floyd County teacher, participated in the seventh annual Eastern Kentucky University Writing Project. The project, funded by grants from the Kentucky Department of Education and its parent National Writing Project, allows teachers to attend an intensive six-week course that details new and effective writing strategies for the classroom. Elliott (center) is pictured with the project's co-directors, Dr. Charles Whitaker, associate professor in ECU's Department of English, and Julie Whitaker, an English teacher at Madison Southern High School.

Stumbo Elementary students follow various pursuits

Primary students at Stumbo studied animals. They learned the habitats of different animals and learn that many animals are endangered, mostly because of man and his influence on changes to the environment.

The primary students in Mrs. Reynolds' room at John M. Stumbo Elementary anxiously awaited Friday afternoons—not to get out of school—but to see which name would be pulled out of the hat to baby-sit their hermit crab for the weekend.

Since January, when they studied ocean animals, the students took turns babysitting by taking the hermit crab home for the weekend, with their parents' permission. Misty Parsons, Tiffany Taylor, Trenton Tackett, Justin Dye, Roberta Howell, and Jennifer Clark were among the excellent babysitters. They cleaned the cage and make sure Hermit has fish or shrimp food and water.

In academic news, the J.M.S. team was recognized at the Jenny Wiley Academic Conference Awards, held at the Wilkinson-Stumbo convention center. Jeremy Parsons, Jason Collins, and Kelli Newsome received trophies for written assessment. The Quick Recall team were recognized for first place.

Roy Johnson's room completed term papers. The students researched their topic, then wrote their paper using at least three different references. They also used footnotes, paraphrased, and constructed a bibliography and outline. Johnson teaches sixth grade.

Karen Henry's fourth graders recently wrote a letter to Gov. Brereton C. Jones. He answered them personally and sent an autographed picture of himself.

Teacher retires

Ramona Humphrey, Chapter I teacher at Stumbo Elementary, was honored at a retirement dinner on June 17 at the school. Principal Gary Newman presented her a plaque recognizing her years of service and a floral arrangement of roses and carnations. A chicken dinner and a decorated cake were served.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO...

John Ortega who just turned 13-years-old. John is going to be a dandy at basketball as well as baseball. Football? Just wait! Happy Birthday John. Have a great day!

HYLTON INELIGIBLE...

Morehead State University ruled former Belfry star J.J. Hylton academically ineligible for the upcoming basketball season.

TOP SPORTS STORY...

The New York Mets' Anthony Young's losing streak ends at 27 and I don't even know the guy but I'm happy for him. I wonder if he will start a new streak.

PAINTSVILLE BIG LEAGUE...

Has been big league all the way. Six Floyd County players are part of the Paintsville Big League team who, as of this writing, will be battling for the state championship at South Shore.

Paul David Brown and Johnnie Lemaster have done an outstanding job with this ballclub and they continue to put together a winner each year.

WHAT ABOUT THE POOL?...

Tuesday night I heard from my good friend Walter Clyde Dingsus that the Jenny Wiley Waves were taking part in their final swim meet of the summer in Magoffin County so I motored on over to take in the meet.

I haven't had a schedule of the meets but I always enjoy going to them.

The crowds are always large at these meets and are very excited. It is perhaps the most exciting sport in which fans take part.

The Jenny Wiley Waves have been a very successful squad since their first year of existence. This has been an outstanding year also.

Rhonda Clark, head of the Waves, talked that she would like to see the pool at Allen Central repaired so it could be used year-round.

The high school pool hasn't been used for several years now and it is a shame that it is being wasted.

School officials need to repair the pool, fill it with water and let the ones that it was intended for -- the kids -- enjoy and make use of it.

Why let it remain a waste? Rumor was that it would be filled in. That would be a bad mistake on the part of someone. If the pool were done away with, another one like it would never grace Floyd County again.

Let's get a high school swim team going in each of the four high schools we have. We have an excellent feeder program for such a team. Swimming is one of the best forms of exercise that can be found. School officials can make a big impression on the home folks by not filling in but repairing the pool.

A swim team would get the support of football coaches as well as basketball because it would be a good workout avenue for their players. Just think what it could mean in the way of holding invitationals.

Floyd County has lagged behind long enough and it is time for us to wake up and start making other sporting events available to our kids.

One thing I will say and that is Dr. Stephen Towler has and is trying to bring something different to our community in the way of sporting events besides baseball, football and basketball. I appreciate all the efforts that he has taken in this area.

Well, it is vacation time next week and it has been long in coming. I look forward to getting a little rest and a tune-up for the coming football season.

I'm excited about the new season and look for some exciting things to take place.

Until whenever I get back, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Manns, Hall named to UCS All-Star cheerleading squad

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Cheerleading honors were bestowed upon two Allen Central cheerleaders when they were named to the prestigious Universal Cheerleaders Association's (UCA) All-Star squad recently at Morehead State University.

Megan Manns and Allison Hall were chosen as members of the team after their performance on July 20 at MSU. The two cheerleaders were judged on four routines.

"We were judged on a dance, cheer, jump and tumbling pass routine," said Manns. "We had to perform before a staff member of the UCA at Morehead during tryouts."

Ten members comprise the elite squad which will include six high school cheerleaders and four from elementary schools.

"There were six high schools at the camp," said Hall, "and they picked six girls from the six high schools."

The two now will set their sights on raising money to pay their way to London, England, where they will take part in the Mayor of Westminster's New Year's Parade.

"We will leave on December 26," said Hall, "but we will have to raise the money we need first."

Cost for the trip to London is $1,800 per cheerleader. The two Allen Central yell leaders hopes to raise the money through donations. They will be conducting a cheerleaders' clinic at Allen Central to teach elementary (both present and future) cheerleaders.

For more information on the clinic contact Megan at 358-9574 or Allison at 285-9456. The funds will go to help with expenses to London. Both girls will accept any donations anyone may want to give.

Cheerleading is a physical and demanding sport. While they are taken for granted, few fans realize the

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Jenny Wiley Waves summer swim team showed everyone that they were alive and well by swimming past the Magoffin County Sharks Tuesday night at the Magoffin County pool.

The Waves outdueled the Sharks 289-253 in the dual meet.

The meet was close throughout with Magoffin County holding the lead then surrendering it to the Waves. Holding a one point lead, the Waves captured the girls' 12 and under backstroke for a 121-113 score. Heather Grass placed first in the event and Meridith Jarvis took second place to give the edge to the Waves.

The Sharks took the first three places in the boys' 12 and under backstroke to reclaim the edge by one point, 122-121. Allen, Whitaker and Dyer took the top three positions.

The Waves opened some space between them and the host team as they built a 211-185 margin on the strength of nine points in the girls' 10 and under meet. Ashleigh Greene, Amy Tackett and Jayne Hale brought in the first three positions for the Waves. Greene placed first, Tackett second and Hale third.

A strong finish by Magoffin County in the boys' 16 and under butterfly closed the margin to 38 points at 248-210.

It was all Jenny Wiley from then on as they swam out to a 285-248 lead on a disqualification against Magoffin County.

The Waves won the boys' 16 and under medley relay to finish the meet.

The Waves are coached by Rhonda Clark, who says the team has been hit with some problems this year because of other activities.

"We had 67 sign up for the swim team this year," she stated, "and I have never had all of them at the same meet all summer."

"We've had swimmers out because of basketball camps, baseball, cheerleader camps and other things," she continued. "Andy Jarvis, I don't know how he is living. He is into everything. Bible schools have taken our swimmers, but that's alright."

The strong part of the Waves team is the good, strong young swimmers that come into the program every year. According to Clark, the younger ones have yet to be a disappointment.

"They (9-10-year-olds) haven't lost in two years," she said. "We always come in first, second or third. Ashley (Greene), Amy (Tackett) and Jayne (Hale) are three of the top swimmers we have."

Clark said that the Waves have been very competitive against the local team they have swam against.

"We went to Barboursville and only lost by 30 points," said pleased Clark. "There, we swam against swimmers that swim year round. We swim for two months out of a year and I feel we are very competitive for just a short season."

Clark advocates starting a year-round program in Floyd County and feels that the Allen Central High School pool would be ideal.

Clark approached school officials on the status of the pool.

"Dr. (Stephen) Towler told me that they were going to fix it or fill it," said Clark. "If they try and fill it they will have to do me like they do Granny Clappett and carry me out in a rocking chair. I will camp out in the pool."

How serious the threat is from Clark seems to be the feelings of home run over the right field fence that tied the game at 1-1.

Tiller's feat was a duplication of what Will Warren did for South Laurel in the top of the first.

Clark struggled with his control in the first two innings, missing the plate high and outside. He got a pitch waist high to Warren who deposited the

Clark surrendered a run in the top of the second when South Laurel took a 2-1 lead but the run was unearned as Brent Adams' throw from centerfield went astray.

Clark righted himself over the final five innings and allowed just one run, which also was unearned, on four hits. He retired eight consecutive batters until Chris Berry doubled with one out in the sixth.

Paintsville scored a run in the third inning to tie the game at 2-2 on a one-out base hit by Adams, a stolen base and a wild pitch. Adams scored on an error off the bat of Holbrook and Paintsville took their first lead at 3-2 with a fourth-inning run when Brent Hamilton scored on Clark's long drive to leftfield.

Barry Hall, who reached on an error with one out, scored for a 4-2 game in the fifth inning. Justin Hall drilled a liner to center to score Hall, who had moved to second on an error and to third on a sacrifice fly from Kinchloe.

(See Clark, B 6)

The look...the wind...the pitch.

Barry Clark pitched a strong seven innings against South Laurel last Wednesday afternoon as the Paintsville Big League posted a 13-3 win in state tournament play. Clark chipped in with a base hit and two RBIs. The win allowed Paintsville to move on to the state finals Thursday. (photos by Ed Taylor)

And the race is on...

It was evident that the heat had drained South Laurel starter Mark Hammond as he got his pitches high and the bats of Paintsville made things worse. Kinchloe doubled to start the inning and, in his second at bat in the inning, drilled the three-run home run.

Brad Scott, batting for Justin Hall, picked up two RBIs with a double that almost went out of the ball park. Brent Adams had a two-run single in the frame and Clark picked up his second run batted in.

Clark was called on to bunt by third base coach Paul David Brown. His bunt was perfect up the first base line -- sort of. The home plate umpire called the ball foul when it had rolled to a stop on the chalk line.

First base coach Johnnie Lemaster, who usually remains calm in all situations, rushed to the plate to protest the call. Clark was sent back to the plate where he promptly roped a hit to left, scoring Kinchloe.

Clark was a problem for South Laurel after the first as the righthander kept the ball low at the instruction of Coach Brown. Tiller was kept busy at shortstop as South Laurel beat the ball into the ground.

Paintsville turned a double play in the first inning, a little "ham and eggs over light" as Coach Lemaster described it.

Hammond was lifted in the sixth inning as he failed to get a batter out. Jason Binder followed him to the mound and didn't fare any better as he retired one batter before Chris Williams finally retired Paintsville.

Clark showed signs of tiring in the fifth and sixth innings and was glad the game ended when it did.

"It was very hot out there," he said after the game. "I was getting tired in the last two innings."

But a state tournament game may have had something to do with finishing.

"Yes, it did," he said. "I've played ball all year and when you get into a state tournament it seems to bring out the little extra in you."

Coach Brown like the way his team played and said that "is what it's going to take to win it all."

"Our offense came around in the sixth inning and I liked that," he said. "We're going to have to have that if we are going to be state champions this year."

The Paintsville skipper lauded the play of his team on defense even though Paintsville committed three errors in the game. However, two of those errors came on the same play in the sixth inning.

Mark Hammond suffered the loss for Laurel County as he worked five full innings and failed to retire a batter in the sixth. Hammond allowed seven runs on nine hits while striking out two. He walked one batter and hit three.

Barry Hall, who walked once and was hit twice in the first game, thought the trend might continue.

"I was wondering if I was going to walk or get hit everytime at bat," said

Hall, who walked in his first at bat against South Laurel.

Tiller collected three hits in the game with Adams, Kinchloe and Justin Hall finishing with two each. Kinchloe had three runs batted in.

Several pro and college scouts were on hand for the tournament looking at some possible prospects.

Cheerleading

training they must undertake in order to stay physically able to perform during a school year.

The Allen Central cheerleaders, under the direction of Linda Bartrum, practice two days a week during the summer months a minimum of two hours a day.

"When school is going on we practice three hours a day, everyday," said Manns.

Besides taking time to practice everyday, there has to be time for fundraising as each squad must pay their own way during the season.

While basketball and football teams are equipped through funds generated by games, cheerleaders must find their own revenue to pay for uniforms and other needed necessities.

"It will cost each cheerleader about $700 a year," said Manns. "We have to have two pair of shoes and two sets of uniforms. Plus, we have to have different uniforms for football season."

Hall said that just for a uniform to wear to summer camps the cost is $100 plus the $150 camp fee.

While there are 15 members of the Allen Central cheerleading squad, each must take the time to help raise money.

"We raise money by holding road blocks at intersections," said Manns.

Anyone that would like to help send the two cheerleaders to England this December may do so by contacting either girl at the listed numbers or the Allen Central High School office.

Waves

many parents who have children in the summer swim program.

Rumor had it that money was allowed in the upcoming school budget to repair the pool for use.

"I haven't heard anything lately about it," said Clark, "but I sure they are right."

Clark views the pool at Allen Central as the answer to a swim team on the high school level.

"Teams from the other high schools could hold meets there and it would be something great for those that do not play basketball, baseball or football."

Clark says that the Waves have swimmers coming in from all over the county plus three from the Paintsville area.

"They said they would rather swim with us," said the Waves coach. "They are very good swimmers."

The future of finding a pool for next year seems to bother Clark but her plans is for the squad to march right along.

"I heard that they were going to renovate the Jenny Wiley pool next year," she remarked, "and if they do I don't know where we will be swimming."

Clark stated the pool at the Allen Park was too small but the location was ideal.

This was the first year for the Waves to send swimmers to this year's Bluegrass State Games and Clark was very pleased with their performance.

"We only had one swimmer to medal," she said, "but the rest held their own in the Games. I am amazed that we do as well as we do for swimming only three months."

"Our goal next year is to put more swimmers in the Bluegrass State Games and be very competitive. We want to go there and win. We want to do something the next time."

Clark said that her squad proved that they could hold their own in competition by the way they swam in the just completed Games.

"If we could swim year round like most swim teams, we could be at the top. We have a lot of talent here and we think we are good enough to compete with anyone."

The Waves are also coached by Florence Harris, Cynthia Jarvis and Melanie Grass.

In an earlier meet, the Waves swam past the Paintsville City team and swam away with a 360-119 victory.

In Tuesday's meet, Carly Bingham and Courtney Reitz placed one and two in the girls' 8 and under freestyle. Robert Absher took second place in the boys' 8 and under event.

Green, Tackett and Hale were one through three in the girls' 10 and under meet. Craig Prince was second in the boys' 10 and under freestyle.

It was a first and second place finish for Merdith Jarvis and Heather Ousley that helped the Waves to open up a 20-point lead. The two were in the girls' 12 and under race.

Robbie Holbrook settled for third place in the boys' 12 and under freestyle. Kelli Newsome, Jennifer Dingus and Myra Moore swam the girls' 14 and under freestyle and placed in the top three spots.

Ashleigh Greene finished with four first place finishes for the Waves. Andy Jarvis had three first.

The Magoffin County meet was the final one of the year for the Waves.

Cash prizes offered in three-on-three basketball shootout

A three-on-three basketball tournament will be held at Millard High School on August 20-22 for those who want to prove "how bad they are" three-on-three.

Entry fee for the tournament is $45 per team and cash prizes as well as trophies will be awarded.

Boyd is more than just a pitcher; keeps team loose

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

"He's a character" is the way Southeast Lexington All-Star coach Cisco Bryant described All-Star pitcher Stephen Boyd. Boyd, formerly of Prestonsburg where he lived with his parents Steve and Kimberly Boyd before they moved to Lexington in 1988, had just picked up a win for his all-star team over Campbellsville in the state 13-year-old Babe Ruth tournament held in Lexington this past weekend.

Boyd formerly played in the Prestonsburg farm system where his Cardinal team went 17-0 on the year.

"He's a pitcher," said Coach Bryant. "But he's also a character. While he works hard as a player, he keeps the team loose by being a practical joker. He keeps the team up. He's always doing something dramatic."

Coach Bryant further described Boyd as a "kid who just enjoys the game of baseball."

Boyd also handles some catching duties for his ballclub.

"We were happy when we heard that Floyd County was going to be in the tournament," said Mrs. Boyd.

Bassin' with the Pros

DON'T FOLLOW THE RULES FOR TOPWATER FISHING

Summer ranks as one of the most productive times to fish topwater lures for bass, but if you do try it, don't follow the rules.

That's the advice of Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler and former bass fishing world champion Guido Hibdon, who frequently catches big bass by fishing surface lures when conditions are considered less than ideal.

"Most bass fishermen use topwater lures on cloudy days when the wind puts a ripple on the water," says Hibdon, "but I have caught huge fish on bright, calm days when there wasn't a cloud in the sky."

"I love to fish topwater lures, and I believe you can use them year-round. The summer months, of course, are excellent times to use them, but you can catch bass on topwater lures in some places in the winter, too."

Hibdon, winner of the 1988 Bass Masters Classic, has made a career of going against established traditions in his choices of when and where to fish certain types of tackle. He is famous for fishing extremely light lines in heavy cover and for using tiny lures to catch big bass.

"If you use a topwater lure only on cloudy days, or only early in the morning, then you're using what everyone else is using at the same time," says the Johnson pro. "I want to show the bass something different because I think fish can become conditioned to seeing the same lures over and over."

"I'll fish topwater lures all day long, and I normally use only the larger ones, too," Hibdon continues. "I believe larger, more noisy topwater lures attract bigger bass, and when those fish do come out to look at a big lure, they're coming out to eat it, not just try to scare it away."

Hibdon does not have any specific techniques for using topwater lures, although he admits a preference for fishing them around flooded timber and over submerged grass.

"Topwater lures are excellent lure choices for fishing around cover," he says, "but don't limit yourself to shallow water the way so many fishermen do. On clear lakes, a big noisy topwater lure will often draw bass up from deep points and rocky bluffs."

Hibdon also lets the bass tell him which retrieve to use. Normally, a slow but noisy retrieve works well, but at times bass want a fast moving lure or one that stops and starts erratically.

"It takes about two bass to tell me which retrieve to use," he explains. "Until I catch those fish, I vary my retrieve on each cast. Sometimes, bass can really be particular about how they want a lure presented."

"The main thing to remember about topwater lures," he concludes, "is to fish them whenever you want to. I'm convinced bass will hit them all day long, and at all seasons of the year."

Coach Parido to hold basketball camp August 2-13

Just when you thought basketball camps were over, there remains one more.

This one promises to be a good one as Prestonsburg head basketball coach Gordon Parido conducts his annual camp August 2-13.

Camp for grades 4-6 will be conducted from August 2 through 6. Grades 5-8 will attend the second week, August 9-13.

The camp will run from 9 a.m. until noon each day.

Some of the camp features include a camp t-shirt, individual instruction, game competition and numerous awards and prizes.

The camp has limited enrollment so sign up early.

For more information contact Coach Gordon Parido at 886-2252 (school) or 886-8488 (home).

School Days

Do The "Write" Thing (NAPS)—Getting the school year off on the "write" foot can be easier these days, thanks to delightful new multi-paks of pens, pencils and other school supplies. These paks offer savings—to you and our environment.

Pentel advises that using refillable pencils for your school work can help save a tree.

When you buy these money-saving multi-paks from Pentel, you're protecting the environment by reducing packaging. The single package used in a multi-pak means less throw-away material than when you buy three or four packages of different items. Another plus: the paks feature automatic pencils that you just refill when the lead runs out—no need to cut down trees to make more pencils! Look for:

- The Smart Set—ideal for math lovers. This pak features a nine-function calculator, Econo-Sharp Automatic Pencil and a Ball Pentel-7 Fine Line Ball Point Pen. The products are available in black, blue, violet and teal. Each pak comes with a $1.00 mail-in rebate coupon.
- The Study Buddies Pak—perfect for the multi-subject whiz. This pak includes a Ball Pentel-7 Fine Line Ball Point Pen, Econo-Sharp Automatic Pencil and one 12-piece tube of Super Hi-Polymer Lead for refills. It also comes with a $1.00 mail-in rebate. You'll find these multi-paks at many local stores.

The art of teaching is the art of assisting discovery.
