Judge stalls overhaul of school posts

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Circuit Judge Harold Stumbo issued a restraining order last Friday barring the implementation of a state-mandated reorganization of the Floyd County schools central office structure. Judge Stumbo signed the restraining order as a result of a lawsuit filed against the school board by assistant superintendents Pete Grigsby Jr. and Tommy Thompson and Wayne Ratliff, co-director of food service, whose jobs were eliminated under the reorganization plan.

The judge's order prohibits the local school board from "instituting the reorganization plan" which was adopted at the April 3 board meeting. No hearing date has been set in the case.

School board attorney Cliff Latta declined to discuss the issue.

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said Tuesday that only three positions have not been filled under the board adopted reorganization plan and the interview process for those positions will continue. Towler added that no one will be hired until the issue is resolved.

"My understanding of what we can and cannot do at this point is that we can continue to organize and interview, but there will be no additional appointments made until we are cleared on that, so to speak," Towler said. "We have done quite a bit of interviewing and assignments already and I haven't been told to undo any of those."

Vacant positions under the plan are chief assistant of operations, director of food service and director of facilities management.

Towler added that the three administrators have applied for other positions in the central office, but none of the three had been hired as of Tuesday.

In affidavits filed with the administrators' lawsuit, the three claim they have been denied the opportunity to transfer or fill other vacancies within

Racing is coming to the county after all

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Kentucky Racing Commission proved this week that it is not, contrary to apparently popular belief, a one-trick pony.

"It's finally happened," Eastern Kentucky Racing President Clyde Woods told members of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Public Properties Corporation Monday. The year-long effort to bring live harness racing to Eastern Kentucky has finally paid off, Woods said, thanks to the Racing Commission's announcement early Monday morning that it would conduct its season-finale celebration race at Floyd County's Kentucky Downs.

Woods said that the commission, a one-time opponent of the Kentucky Downs project, had apparently warmed up to the idea after House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo began efforts to have the commission dismantled.

Former Governor Julian Carroll, representing Eastern Kentucky Racing, said Tuesday that the racing commission had agreed to conduct an eight-race, 64-horse harness meet at Kentucky Downs, tentatively scheduled for Saturday, August 7.

"And once we run that one live race, that's it," Woods said, "they've had the lick."

In other words, Woods said, the live meet will qualify Kentucky Downs for live racing and intertrack wagering dates next year, barring further complications. Woods said that he had received assurance that the commission would approve an application for 1994 live racing dates.

Construction on the track itself should be completed within the next thirty days, Carroll said.

Council says that government center project not a done deal

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

They say you can't fight city hall, but Prestonsburg residents turned out in force Monday evening to see whether or not they'd have to anyway.

About thirty Prestonsburg citizens appeared before the Prestonsburg City Council Monday in response to rumors that the proposed Floyd County Government Center would be built atop the Prestonsburg Municipal Parking Lot.

Current plans under consideration call for the construction of a new 110-bed jail to be located in the parking lot behind the Floyd County Courthouse; the remodeling and expansion of the current Big Sandy Area Juvenile Detention Center; and for a proposed 90,000 square foot structure on the municipal parking lot site, with two levels of underground parking and three stories of above-ground office space, including several offices that would be rented to other county and state agencies. Although no projected costs for the construction of the center have been compiled, early cost estimates indicate that it would cost approximately eight dollars per square foot per year to operate the facility.

Residents including Rose Collins expressed concerns Monday that plans for the center had already been approved without public input and that more satisfactory, cost-efficient alternatives would not be considered.

In a letter circulated to the Administrative Office of the Courts, the Floyd County Fiscal Court, Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and members of the council, Collins said that the plan bears extensive further review.

"Common sense tells us that it would be more beneficial to Floyd County and the city of Prestonsburg to leave our only parking lot of any size in the center of town where it is so badly needed, and put the administrative and judicial branches of the court as well as the jail and detention center all connecting on the same side of Third Avenue."

Further, Collins said, the municipal parking lot is located over a swamp and within the 100-year flood plain and has in the past been covered with ten-foot deep flood waters.

"Do any of us have the right not to

Exceptional children's prom

Young people from the county enjoyed an evening of fun and dancing at the Jenny Wiley Convention Center on May 28 during the exceptional children's prom, founded by Prestonsburg Middle School teacher Mary Franklin. The event was made possible by the Floyd County Board of Education, parents, participating schools and the community. Special thanks is extended to Vickie Flannery, Debbie Meeks, Margurite Fannin, John Gray, Mitzi Hughes, Ruth Patterson, Jan Shepherd, Rose Shepherd and John Goble. Music for the prom was provided by Walter Clyde Dingess.

put taxpayers' money to its best and most practical use?" Collins asked.

She has offered an alternate plan, which would include remodeling of the current courthouse and the purchase of her own property behind the courthouse which would allow room for expansion. Collins estimated that her alternate plan would save taxpayers at least $4 million.

Councilman Mike Vance, filling in for absent Mayor Latta, assured Collins that the council had at no time authorized sale of the municipal lot to the county, although property appraisals had been ordered.

The council adopted a resolution requesting that a representative of the fiscal court address the council at its next meeting to offer a complete assessment of the project.

Councilman George Archer said Tuesday that the council had discussed property appraisal of the municipal lot during executive session, but took no action, adding that he currently favors Collins' alternate plan.

"It sounds like they were under the assumption that (the project) was a done deal..." Archer said, "but that isn't what the citizens seem to want.... In the long run, I think we'll be better off if the fiscal court takes (another) look at this. They need to temper the county's needs with fiscal responsibility."

In other action Monday:
• a "Rally for Jesus" was tentatively scheduled for Saturday, July 10 from noon until 6 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Municipal Parking Lot.

• Councilwoman Lida Howard announced plans under consideration to ask the Kentucky National Guard to level a mountain on city-owned property at Cliff for use as a recycling center-site.

• Council conducted the first reading of the proposed budget for the 1993-1994 fiscal year. Vance said that improvements in the city's accounting system should help the city to stay within budget guidelines.

• Council agreed to consider purchasing an insurance policy for the city's volunteer firemen. Currently, volunteer firemen are uninsured in non-emergency situations. Fire Chief Tom Blackburn stressed that his department was understaffed and that the volunteers' assistance at non-emergency functions, such as the city's annual July Fourth fireworks display, is greatly needed.

• A "Coal Mining Music Weekend Festival" has been tentatively scheduled for the weekend of July 23 at the municipal lot. The event will feature local bands.

• Vance announced that Prestonsburg Fire Marshal Larry Adams has completed an instruction course and has been certified in mechanical general inspection.

Only Mayor Ann Latta was absent from Monday's meeting.

The Prestonsburg City Council convenes on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. The public is welcome.

month, but the judge denied his request.

An arrest warrant for Hale was issued by Floyd County sheriff's deputy Homer Neeley in February for possession of stolen property after officers discovered several items in Hale's Garth home which appeared to belong to Chris Zahn, a Swiss traveler who disappeared in Georgia on May 21, 1992.

Hale is wanted on a forgery charge and for questioning in Zahn's disappearance by investigators in Cobb County, Georgia.

Floyd County officials want to question Hale about the March 1990 disappearance of Mitchell Manns of Martin. Manns was last seen in the Martin area on March 16, 1990 at around 3 p.m.

The FBI and Prestonsburg police also want to question Hale about the September 1992 murder of a Carl D. Perkins Job Corps student. The body of 21-year-old Walter Cropper was found lying in a wooded field just off Interstate 75 in Adairsville, Georgia.

Lanny Cox, an investigator with the Georgia Bureau of Investigation

(GBI), said earlier this month that officials are waiting for Hale's return to Carroll County, Georgia, but he declined to say if GBI officials will question Hale about Zahn's disappearance. Cox said there have been no new developments in the Zahn case.

A search of Hale's Garth home in February turned up several cameras, a camera bag with Zahn's name inside and an Amish quilt reportedly belonging to Zahn.

Hale was arrested in Miami, Florida in February and extradited to Carroll County, Georgia, but he was released before investigators could question him. Hale apparently jumped bail and was arrested by Kentucky State Police investigator Frank Pierce on May 14 at Levi Jackson State Park near London, Kentucky.

Zahn was reported missing on May 21, 1992 by a friend, Melanie Dolich of Deltona, Florida. Zahn was scheduled to begin a bus tour of U.S. National Parks on May 9, 1992. Zahn called travel agent Ann Santulli in Orange City, Florida on April 27, 1992 to confirm the tour. He has not been heard from again.

Grethel man held on $50,000 bond

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Two of three Grethel men charged with capital murder last week in the weekend shooting death of an Auxier teen were released on bond Friday.

Darrell Williams, 32; William Blackburn, 24; and Jerry Michael Martin, 22, were arrested last week less than an hour after 19-year-old Shawn Patrick Prater died from a 12-gauge slug allegedly fired by Martin.

Williams and Blackburn were released Friday after each posted a $20,000 property bond.

Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill set bond for Martin at $50,000 cash. Martin has been transferred to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center at Paintsville.

Babbage announces voter registration dates

Voter registration books are now open in the Floyd County Clerk's office, Secretary of State Bob Babbage announced.

Citizens may register in the county clerk's office from now through October 4, Babbage said.

Kentucky law requires the registration books to be closed four weeks before and one week after an election. This year's general election will be held on November 2.

"Voter registration trends in Kentucky are being reversed," Babbage said.

In the period between the 1988 general election and the 1989 primary election, registration dropped by 89,229. In the same period between the 1992 general election and the 1993 primary, registration increased by 83,929. Every county except Fayette and Madison recorded increased registration following the 1992 presidential election.

Babbage said he was hopeful that Kentucky would set another record for registration this year. Between the 1991 general election and the 1992 general election 184,301 Kentuckians registered to vote for the first time. This set a record for the most registration in a single year.

In 1993 another record was set in Kentucky when 2,160,192 were registered to vote.

"With the interest in local races and the renewed interest in participating in the democratic process, it is likely we will see another registration record by the end of this year," Babbage said.

the school system.

The administrators also claim that "colossal chaos" would result if the reorganization went into effect because "new people would be hired" and if the three administrators' positions were eliminated it would cause the school system "to be in a deficit position." The affidavits do not explain how implementing the restructuring plan would cause the system to be in a deficit position.

The lawsuit filed last Thursday by Mickey McGuire on behalf of Grigsby, Thompson and Ratliff claims the school violated the state's Open Meeting Law on three occasions when it discussed the reorganization plan in closed session. The suit seeks a permanent injunction to prevent the school system from implementing the plan and asks for $100 for each plaintiff for each violation of the Open Meeting Law.

McGuire has also filed an appeal with the state's attorney general because of the alleged open meeting violations.

Ed Lynch, a spokesman for the attorney general's office, said Tuesday that no ruling has been made on the issue. Lynch added that by law a ruling would be made within 10 days of receipt of the complaint.

Plaintiffs' case blown to pieces in $100,000 blast-damage suit

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

After hearing five days' of testimony and examining over 100 pieces of evidence, countless photographs and nearly 40 damage estimates, Floyd District jurors last week awarded less than $1,000 to one of seven plaintiffs seeking over $100,000 in damages from Pikeville-based Coal Mac Incorporated.

Prestonsburg attorney Arnold Turner Jr. said last week that Mud Creek residents Edgar Martin; Eddie D. Martin; Gary Slone; Jessie Douglas Jones; Jessie James Jones; Otis McClanahan; and Grant Newsome had filed the suit in 1990, seeking a combined $120,000 plus punitive damages from Coal Mac to pay for damage to their respective households they claimed was caused by the company's blasting at a mining operation.

Explosive experts told jurors that alleged damage to the plaintiffs' homes could not have been caused by Coal Mac's mining operation because houses located even closer to the blasting site received no significant damage, Turner said.

However, Turner added, jurors determined that Coal Mac's blasting had caused slight damage to one window of Grant Newsome's house and awarded him $800.

Evidence showed that other damage to the plaintiffs' homes could have been caused by Long Port Mining, which closed its Mud Creek operation in 1988.

The fact that jurors were perceptive enough to determine that Coal Mac was responsible for Newsome's home alone from among several hundred pieces of evidence emphasized the strengths of the justice system, Turner said.

"I felt as a whole that this case was just an extraordinary demonstration of how competent and effective a jury can be," Turner said. "I give them high marks for the attention... and skill with which they undertook their task."

Nursing home project wheels ahead despite many obstacles

by Tony Fyffe
The Paintsville Herald

A legal dispute that has stalled construction of Johnson County's first nursing home apparently ended Friday with a unanimous decision from the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

The appellate court said Paintsville Investors, Inc., a Prestonsburg-based company that will build the nursing home, did nothing wrong when it issued additional stock to two of its stockholders in 1991.

The ruling paves the way for construction of the $4 million Mountain Manor of Paintsville, one of the stockholders said Monday.

"We're getting closer and closer," H.D. "Buddy" Fitzpatrick said.

The stock question was one of many raised in a lawsuit filed in 1991 by Tom G. Dingus and James D. Adams, two of four shareholders in Paintsville Investors. The complaint, which sought to dissolve the company, was filed against their partners, Fitzpatrick and Jack Absher.

Paintsville Investors is a subsidiary of FADA Service Company, which owns nursing homes in Prestonsburg and Pikeville and the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg.

Local patrons of the arts will have the opportunity to purchase a piece of history-in-the-making, Prestonsburg business leader Paul Hughes, who is spearheading the fundraising effort for the proposed Mountain Arts Center, told members of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Public Properties Corporation Monday.

Hughes sought and received from the Public Properties Corporation, which will serve as the owner of the Mountain Arts Center building, authorization to begin soliciting funds for the center's construction by offering to name auditorium seats, rooms and wings of the building in honor of contributing patrons.

In addition, Hughes said, contributors of $5,000 or more will be recognized on a gold plaque which will hang on the center's "Wall of Fame." Contributors of $1,000 or more will be honored on a silver plaque, Hughes said.

Funds can be pledged in four yearly installments, Hughes said.

Floyd County Development Authority Executive Director Darrell Gilliam told members of the Public Properties board Monday that closing on the Route 114 "Lowe's" property, where the center will be built, is almost completed. All loan and purchase arrangements should be closed today, Wednesday, at the Bank Josephine in downtown Prestonsburg, Gilliam said.

in 1987 to obtain a certificate of need to construct the Johnson County facility. The certificate was denied, however, because the state at that time had a ban on developing additional nursing homes.

When the state lifted the ban, Fitzpatrick recommended that a new application be submitted. Additional funds were needed to submit the application, and each stockholder was asked to contribute $1,250, the appeals court said.

Dingus and Adams were at first reluctant to renew the application, but later agreed to it, the court said. When each partner was asked to contribute $2,500, Dingus and Adams claimed the sum was "five times greater than the amount needed for the application."

Fitzpatrick and Absher later made their contributions and Dingus and Adams signed checks for an option on the property. They refused, however, to give more money, the court said.

In March 1991, five additional shares of stock were issued to Fitzpatrick and Absher for their contributions. The issuance "broke the deadlock between the warring factions which triggered the filing for dissolution of the corporation in the circuit court," the appeals court said.

In a ruling issued in Floyd Circuit Court, Special Judge Stephen N. Frazier of Paintsville said the stock was issued properly. The court of appeals agreed.

"The directors/shareholders failed to comply with the corporate bylaws in that the stock issuance ... was not by resolution," the appellate court said. "However, such, in our opinion, was not an illegal or fraudulent act." The court said Dingus and Adams "did not object or move to prevent the issuing of the stock and its registration."

"We affirm the trial court in adjudging that Fitzpatrick and Absher are the legal owners of five additional shares each of the authorized shares of Paintsville (Investors)," the court concluded.

The appellate court, however, reversed another of Frazier's findings.

"In the instance before us, the directors/shareholders were deadlocked," the court said. "Being deadlocked, the action taken cannot fall within the scope of corporate custom, and the findings and conclusions of the trial court to this effect are clearly erroneous. The trial court's declaration of corporate custom is reversed."

Fitzpatrick said Monday that he and Absher are "pleased" with the appeals court's decision, adding that plans for the nursing home, to be constructed in King Addition, can proceed.

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved our basic plan, and we're just waiting for final (financial) commitment from them," Fitzpatrick said.

Construction is tentatively scheduled for October, Fitzpatrick said.

A horse of a different color

by Scott Perry

State Representative Greg Stumbo took one on the chin last week from a Paducah newspaper which criticized his lawyer-legislator relationship with the developers of a harness racing track in Floyd County.

While it may be true that Stumbo is the attorney for one of the developers, much of the legal legwork on the track issue has been handled by another.

Whether or not Stumbo will benefit personally on the track project is yet to be seen, but there can be no doubt now that the people who elected him will reap considerable rewards from the project's tourism potential.

We can find little cause for criticizing Stumbo for exerting his legislative power to benefit his constituents and their extended families in the Big Sandy region.

That's what he was elected to do.

Stumbo's relationship with track developers, while important, is secondary to his legislative punch to the noses of those who would continue to hit Eastern Kentucky below the belt.

The Paducah paper asks if Stumbo, through his role as a legislator, is acting in the best interest of his client.

We admit that yes, he probably is.

But, we'll also note that he is working in the best interests of his constituents, and that makes the issue a horse of a different color.

From the heart

Editor:

To be able to reach all the people who contributed to help us during my husband's illness is impossible, so I wanted to write this letter to all those wonderful people and to just thank you doesn't seem to say how very much it was appreciated.

We will never forget their kindness and thoughtfulness. I feel we live in the best communities in the world. They are always there when someone is in needs.

To all the churches who took up a collection for us, thank you from the bottom of our hearts and please continue to pray for us as we feel prayer is the best medicine there is.

Thank you again and you will never be forgotten.

Kindness of neighbors saves life of reader

Editor:

I read so many stories about the things that are wrong with Floyd County that I thought you might appreciate the story about something this is definitely right.

Last night (June 9) someone observed me going into my home in Goble Roberts. This person thought that I might be ill and placed a call to the Prestonsburg police. An officer responded and called for an ambulance. This young officer very possibly saved my life.

I do not even know the name of the officer who responded to the call, but I would like to publicly thank both him and the person who called. I believe that Prestonsburg is still a small hometown where people truly care about their neighbors. I believe we have a dedicated police force with officers who truly desire to serve the people of Prestonsburg well.

I extend my thanks to the many public servants who help make Prestonsburg a fine place to live and raise a family. I would like to thank all of those who care enough to get involved.

They have given me the greatest gift of all—my life.

Dr. Boswell disagrees with Dr. Shiber's view on AIDS

Editor:

I think it is unfortunate that you are disseminating totally wrong information in what purports to be a women's health section (The Human Condition by John W. Shiber, Wednesday, June 9, 1993). HIV, the virus which causes Aids (acquired immunodeficiency syndrome) is transmitted by heterosexual contact. While studies have shown that it is fairly difficult for a male to become infected from a woman with the virus, it is relatively easy for a woman to become infected through vaginal unprotected sex with an infected man. I think it is important to stress that while women are much more likely to become infected from heterosexual contact than men, anyone who has sex with someone who is not their monogamous partner runs a risk of becoming infected.

And then there were five. One of the last American heroes is dead, leaving those of us whose memories are long enough a little sad and the world a little bit less well off.

We were but a wide-eyed youngster when Deke Slayton and his "Right Stuff" compadres captivated our hearts and minds with their exploration of the last frontier in the early 1960s.

Slayton, one of the original seven Mercury astronauts, died Saturday. He is the second—Gus Grissom died in a launch pad accident in 1967—of our first space pioneers to depart this planet for good.

A part of America's soul goes with him.

Delmas Saunders, who makes his home on Abbott Creek in Floyd County, knew he was going to have to ante up under the Clinton Administration plan to slice the deficit, but he didn't know until recently just how high the stakes would be.

Saunders got a note from the post office advising him that the rent on his post office box was due.

The fee?
$3,500.

No doubt the check's in the mail.

Kentucky taxpayers, who coughed up nearly a billion dollars to underwrite education reform, have to be somewhat disenchanted with the state's money management abilities this week.

The news from Frankfort, where a $200 million deficit is anticipated, suggests that educational funding may be cut to help erase the red ink. That's on top of the state's plan to delay tax refunds for the second year in a row and a two percent across-the-board budget cut previously enacted for all government agencies.

Kentucky used to be touted as "the state that's run like a business."

It would be more appropriate now to say that Kentucky is a state run like the federal government.

That's like no business we know.

The U.S. Supreme Court has decided that it's okay to impose stiffer sentences for those convicted of "hate" crimes and we agree.

Assault, for example, is a serious offense, but when its motivation is bigotry, racism or other form of prejudice it is nothing less than a scourge.

Narrow-minded people who resort to violence deserve longer exile from civilization.

They may not be rehabilitated, but at least they'll be neutralized for a while longer.

That's a start.

This Sunday is Fathers' Day, the most important day of the year for those of us in need of new underwear, socks and ties.

It's also the one occasion when we dads can lay around and do absolutely nothing....without feeling guilty about it.

To all you fathers, ours included, have a wonderful day.

And throw those raggedy skivvies away.

Invest in the economic future

Editor:
On February 17, I presented to our country a national economic strategy that will create jobs, increase incomes through investments in our future, and significantly reduce the deficit. This plan is tough and it requires real contributions from all Americans. This plan is now being considered in the U.S. Senate. The Senate's vote will determine whether we will invest in the economic future of our children and grandchildren or continue with the failed economic policies of the past 12 years.

This plan will improve America's long-term economic strength, the results of which we are already beginning to see. Once it became clear that we would take responsibility for bringing our deficit down, interest rates started to drop. If we can keep these interest rates down for a year, business analysts say we'll put over $100 billion back into the economy — lowering interest rates on consumer, car, college, home and business loans. This means more jobs for ordinary Americans, higher business profits, better consumer confidence and more consumer spending — all of which strengthen our economy.

Last week, unemployment fell below 7 percent for the first time in a year and a half. In just the last four months, 755,000 new jobs were created. And last month, as mortgage rates hit a 20-year low, new home sales reached a seven-year high. We're moving in the right direction. If we get our priorities right and our government house in order, more people will be able to order houses for themselves. If we drive interest rates down, jobs and investment will keep going up.

Understanding the impact of this plan on their constituents, the U.S. House of Representatives has acted courageously and decisively to approve our economic growth plan. It's time for the Senate to do the right thing as well.

This plan is balanced and fair. It will cut the deficit by $500 billion over the next five years — the largest reduction program ever proposed. We've included $250 billion in spending cuts and more than 200 specific program reductions.

We're also proposing to raise some taxes. But this time, unlike the last 12 years, we're doing it in a fair way. Seventy-five percent of the new money comes from people with incomes above $100,000 — people who can better afford it, and whose tax rates went down in the 1980s. Middle-class Americans are asked to make a modest contribution in the form of a broad-based energy tax.

While nobody wants to pay additional taxes, the energy levy will add only a few dollars per month to household expenses. For the working poor, we want to put in place the first big block of our welfare reform program. For the first time in American history, people who work 40 hours a week and have children in their homes will be lifted above the poverty line.

Very soon, the Senate will consider my plan for deficit reduction and economic growth. There are core principles I believe the Senate should honor when it considers this plan. We must cut the deficit by at least $100 billion over the next five years. There should be no increases in taxes without real cuts in spending. The wealthy must pay their fair share so that we can minimize the burden on the middle class and the working poor. We must reform the welfare system and create incentives for people to move from welfare to work. Finally, we must rebuild the American economy by investing in education and training, new technologies, defense conversion and business incentives.

The changes I am asking Congress to approve will not be easy, but our living standards are at stake and we must rise to the occasion. That is the promise of America — a community at its best provides a growing measure of prosperity for everyone who works hard and plays by the rules. Our challenge is to fulfill that promise by ensuring that as we expand opportunity and growth, everyone has a shot to earn their share.

The time is now. I hope you will support the bold changes we must make in order to strengthen our economy and ensure a strong and prosperous country for future generations of Americans.

Addressing school safety on all fronts

by Thomas C. Boyesen
Commissioner

Kentucky Department of Education

In recent months, newspapers throughout Kentucky have headlined a growing tide of violence in our schools.

* A teacher and custodian were shot to death by a student in a Carter County classroom.

* Two Bardstow middle school students were wounded when one's gun discharged in a math class.

* One Fayette County girl stabbed another on a school bus.

* Students were caught with guns at schools in Jefferson, Clark, Fayette, Kenton, Floyd, McCracken, Nelson and other counties.

We're not alone. Nationally, the U.S. Justice Department estimates 100,000 students take guns to school every day. The National Education Association reports 2,000 children attacked in schools each day.

Why is this happening?
Families of 1990s face intense economic and social pressures that impede children's healthy mental and emotional development.

Some children regularly see and experience violence in their homes and neighborhoods. Some Kentucky superintendents report that violence is seeping further and further down into schools. Misbehavior that once emerged in middle school increasingly arises in primary schools.

Thanks to television, movies and toys, violence is pervasive. Violence is an instant solution in the most popular electronic fiction. Children become desensitized. A gun becomes their instant solution to problems with other people.

As a Commonwealth, we must move quickly and carefully to take effective steps to ensure a safe, violence-free school for every child now and in the future.

There are several things we can do.

Attorney General Chris Gorman has advanced two excellent measures, one making it illegal to carry guns and knives onto school grounds, another subjecting to prosecution gun owners who fail to take reasonable steps to keep guns away from minors.

School officials — both state and local — must make it clear that weapons and violence will not be tolerated at school. Punishment must be swift, certain and severe, including perhaps mandatory expulsion.

But punishment is not enough.

While making it clear that violence is unacceptable, we must teach our young people the techniques of resolving conflicts with others through reason, discussion and persuasion. Many schools have already inserted conflict resolution techniques into their curriculums, and others are offering their teachers training in resolving conflicts. All should consider it.

Working with community agencies and parents through Family Resource/Youth Services Centers, school personnel need to increase their awareness of troubled youths and seek early intervention and treatment.

Other schools have successfully used peer mediation programs that allow youngsters to work one-on-one with other students in venting anger safely and resolving differences. Even preschool youngsters can learn and use the techniques.

From day one, children should learn that a school is a citadel of reason where differences are respected and conflicts resolved peacefully.

Two convicted on drug and firearm charges

Two Breathitt County men were convicted last Thursday on federal drug and firearm offenses.

The United States District Court for the Eastern Districts of Kentucky in Pikeville returned verdicts of guilty against Carl Martin Stacy, 26, and Roger Lynn Pelphrey, 22, of Lambric in Breathitt County. The jury deliberated for less than an hour before finding the two guilty of conspiracy to possess and possession of approximately 17 pounds of marijuana with intent to distribute. Stacy was also convicted of using and carrying a firearm during the trafficking offense.

The convictions resulted from an joint undercover investigation of the KSP and the FBI which led to the arrest of Stacy and Pelphrey along with Joseph Coburn and Kernie Bailey last August 3. All four were indicted after they attempted to sell the 17 pounds of marijuana to KSP undercover officers. Coburn and Bailey were found guilty and are awaiting sentencing.

All four men face a possible punishment of 10 years in jail and up to a $500,000 fine. Stacy faces an additional sentence of five years for using and carrying a firearm during the crime which is required by federal law to be consecutive to any sentence he may receive for the drug trafficking offenses. Sentencing is scheduled for August 13. - Staff report

Two plead not guilty in Letcher case

Two employees of suspended Letcher County Commonwealth Attorney James Wiley Craft pleaded not guilty to charges of lying to a special grand jury investigating corruption in the county.

Craft's secretary Patsy Stallard and detective Robert Adams are charged with lying about the amount of time Stallard spent on state cases. Prosecutors say Stallard received a state salary but worked only on Craft's private business.

Stallard has also been named in a separate indictment on 103 counts of theft, covering about $35,000 in state paychecks she received over four years. Craft has been charged with 103 counts of aiding in that theft. Both pleaded not guilty. - Lexington Herald-Leader

SHAPING CHILDREN'S VALUES— WHERE DO WE START?

by Blake Harris

Kids and violence, gangs, drugs in schools, confusions that school children have about sex, children giving birth to children—these all add up to a terrifying social reality. We are faced with a generation spinning wildly out of control.

The majority of youngsters are now affected. According to a survey by the Joseph & Edna Josephson Institute of Ethics, 61% of all high school students say they have cheated on an exam once or more during the last year. As well, 33% admit to having stolen from relatives at least once in the last year.

Whether it is kids owning guns to threaten and, on occasion, kill their classmates, whether it is high school students joining in "Spur Posse" games that keep track of how many different sexual conquests the players can rack up, or whether it is simply lying and cheating, these are all the symptoms of one fundamental disease—the moral decay in society.

Or perhaps moral decay is the wrong way to describe it.

More factually, at least where our children are concerned, the biggest problem since the 1970s has been the utter lack of instruction in morals and values in our schools. The idea back then was that children should grow on their own and should be encouraged simply to decide for themselves what they should believe.

"[This was] based on a materialistic idea that the development of the child parallels the evolutionary history of the race; that in some magical way, unexplained, the 'nerves' of the child will 'ripen' as he or she grows older and the result will be a moral, well-behaving adult," author and humanitarian L. Ron Hubbard pointed out in the widely distributed booklet "The Way To Happiness."

"Although the theory is disproven with ease—simply by noticing the large criminal population whose nerves somehow did not ripen—it is a lazy way to raise children," said Hubbard. "A child is a little bit like a blank slate. If you write the wrong things on it, it will say the wrong things. But, unlike a slate, a child can begin to do the writing: the child tends to write what has been written already."

Today, the good news is that schools are beginning to get back into the character development business in a big way. In this, they have the overwhelming support of parents. A 1992 study showed 86% of Americans favored schools teaching moral values while only 12% were against the idea.

However, working out the best way to build character and to instill important values in our children still lies ahead. We have learned in recent decades that recognizing problems in our school system does not mean that these problems are easily fixed.

There are a number of ideas about the best way to teach moral values to children in the classroom. Some schools have started to use videos that show the terrible consequences of dishonesty, intolerance and crime. One, for instance, starts out with the vivid, highly dramatic street arrest of a teenager.

In another approach, Kevin Ryan of Boston University has developed a school curriculum that makes character education part of everyday teaching. This relies on different works of literature to impart ethical values.

Many school systems are developing their own curriculums that focus on such things as civic responsibility, respect for oneself and for others and respect for the natural environment.

However, whether any of these approaches will work is still open to question. "Effective moral teaching, or character education as it is sometimes called, involves more than simply teaching children the difference between right and wrong," said Glen Horton, campaign manager of The Way To Happiness Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to restoring moral values in society. "Children, and especially teenagers, need to have a reason to do right and not do wrong, a reason that makes real sense to them. They have to be motivated by more than the simple fear of getting caught because they never think they will."

For almost a decade, The Way To Happiness Foundation has distributed "The Way To Happiness" booklet to a growing number of schools, civic groups, parents and children across the country.

Horton said that because the booklet outlines moral values completely based on common sense, children respond to the publication in an enthusiastic and dramatic way. They learn that right conduct is the only road to building happy and successful lives for themselves, both now and in the future.

"The Way To Happiness" is the vital educational tool that has been missing in the large majority of our schools," said Horton. "For several years now, the booklet has been working to instill moral values and build real character in the few schools where it has been included as part of the curriculum. In the classroom setting, it has a track record of resounding success. So why not simply include the booklet in more of our school curriculums?"

"It would be a tragedy if another generation was lost while school systems experimented with various approaches to character education. We need something our children will respond to now, not in 10 or 20 years time. From all the evidence I have seen, that something already exists—"The Way To Happiness."

(Note: L. Ron Hubbard, author of "The Way To Happiness," is a renowned science-fiction author and founder of the Church of Scientology.)

Former Wheelwright police chief sued

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man has sued the City of Wheelwright and its former police chief for damages because of injuries allegedly received in an auto accident last winter.

The lawsuit, filed by attorney Keith Bartley on behalf of Billy Joe Johnson, claims that former police chief Charles Harmon operated his police vehicle in a negligent manner which caused a collision with Johnson's vehicle.

Johnson is seeking compensation for pain, suffering, mental anguish and inconvenience allegedly caused by the accident. The lawsuit is also seeking money for past and future pain and suffering; past and future medical expenses; lost wages; miscellaneous expenses including but not limited to travel expenses; and a trial by jury.

The City of Wheelwright was sued because Harmon was a city employee.

Note: a civil lawsuit lists only the plaintiff's cause for action.

Jenny Wiley Theatre forms educational outreach committee

Jenny Wiley Theatre enters an ambitious program of arts education this season with its reinstated Apprentice Program for young performers, its Summer Arts Workshops, and Children's Theatre.

To support these efforts, the theatre recently formed an Educational Outreach Committee, which brings together citizens from around the region whose commitment to the arts in education is already apparent from their work in area schools. Members of the committee include Mickey McCoy (drama teacher at Sheldon Clark High School, Inez), Garland Arnett (from Gunlock, principal of John T. Arnett Elementary), Joe Clark (Production Manager at Jenny Wiley Theatre), Albert Scalf (teacher at Phelps High School), John Williamson (drama teacher at Johnson Central High School), Anna Scott (drama teacher at Paintsville High School), Ken Maciula (theatre instructor at Hazard Community College), Emma Kriz (principal of The David School), Peggy Davis (dance teacher at Pikeville College), and Dr.

Alice Adams (English teacher and director of the theatre group at Prestonsburg Community College), Leatha Kendrick, of East Point, chairs the committee.

This Educational Outreach Committee has a two-fold purpose. In the short term, the committee is charged with overseeing Jenny Wiley Theatre's Summer Arts Program, already underway at the theatre. The day camp, (already filled) will be held from July 21 through August 11. It is an apprentice program for teenaged performers in this season's plays who were chosen earlier this year by audition. A program of education for the Youth Company, aged 7-10, was also chosen by auditions in April. A series of Summer Workshops on topics from Stand-Up Comedy to Kite Making will be held on Saturdays beginning June 26. Betsy Hunter, who holds an MFA from the University of Virginia, will direct these educational programs.

For the long term, the Educational Outreach Committee has been exploring ways to extend the theatre's arts programs into the school year. One way to accomplish this goal is by bringing in performance groups that students would otherwise not have an opportunity to see. The committee is at work now on selecting and scheduling these groups. One dream of the committee is to jointly sponsor artists-in-residence at various area schools.

Luncheon matinees offered at Jenny Wiley Theatre

by Leatha Kendrick

This year for the first time Jenny Wiley Theatre will offer luncheon matinees in the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. These mid-day performances of I Do! I Do! might provide a memorable special event for clubs, church groups, business and women's organizations. Presented in the comfortable surroundings of the air-conditioned Convention Center, Jenny Wiley Theatre's luncheon matinees could also be a perfect way for senior citizens groups to enjoy lunch and a play without concern for the weather.

I DO! I DO! should appeal to almost everyone. The play chronicles a couple's marriage from their wedding night through their fiftieth anniversary. In scenes which celebrate with song and dance the happiness or minor crises of their marriage, this musical carries Michael and Agnes through the hesitations of their bridal night, the birth of their first child, their inevitable quarrels and slow realization of their dependence on each other—in short, through all the pangs and rewards of a lifetime together.

Since its debut in 1966, the play has been widely produced in New York and in touring productions. Costumes for Jenny Wiley Theatre's production are the original ones used by Lucie Arnaz when she toured the United States with the show. I DO! I DO! promises to be one of the most popular plays ever offered at the theatre.

Ticket prices are $16 adult, $15 seniors (55+), and $13 students (17 & under) includes both lunch and performance, but seating is limited. Only three matinee performances will be presented: July 27, August 3 and August 17. Early reservations are recommended. Call 606-886-9274 for tickets and further information.

16th birthday

Betsy Lynn Collins, daughter of John and Perlinda Collins of Cow Creek, will celebrate her birthday June 16. She is a sophomore at Prestonsburg High School.

Jenny Wiley Theatre opens season with Cinderella

Jenny Wiley Theatre will present two talented local actors in the leading roles of Cinderella, the first production of the 1993 summer musical season. Misty Daniels and Marty Childers, both of Pike County, will take the roles of Cinderella and the Prince when the play opens on June 18. Carrie Cinnamon, another Pike Countian, returns to the Jenny Wiley stage in the role of the Queen. Joni Rice and Sheree Wheeler take the parts of the evil stepsisters, while Elizabeth Hunter appears as their wicked mother. Jenny Wiley's production of this Rodgers and Hammerstein musical promises to be one of the most delightful shows of recent years.

Some people will remember viewing the premier on March 31, 1957, of this musical written by Rodgers and Hammerstein especially for television. It starred Julie Andrews as Cinderella, with Edie Adams as the Fairy Godmother. Kaye Ballard and Alice Ghostly played the evil stepsisters. Others may have seen a later film version which has aired on the Disney Channel. This version starred Leslie Ann Warren as Cinderella, with Stuart Damon as the Prince, Ginger Rogers as the Queen and Walter Pigeon as the King. However, a film or television version cannot match the excitement of the live stage performance.

Jenny Wiley's production will be highlighted by stunning costumes (designed by Judith Chang, this season's costume designer), striking sets designed by James W. Hunter, painted by Scenic Artist Bonnie Jean Clark, and some unexpected special effects dreamed up by Matt Parker. Bob Bogdanoff, Associate Artistic Director at Jenny Wiley Theatre, will direct this production, adding it to his long list of accomplishments that includes over 150 productions which he has directed in theatres from New York City to Boca Raton, Florida.

Some dates are already sold out. Make sure you don't miss this season's shining family musical. Call the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office at 606-886-9274 for ticket information and reservations.

Hike-A-Thon raises funds for Kidney Foundation

The sixth annual J.W. Sutherland Hike-A-Thon was held Sunday, May 16th at Jenny Wiley State Park. Twenty-one persons hiked along the lake shore trail at the park. Two transplant patients and one hemo dialysis patient completed the hike. The trail was four miles long. The hike-a-thon is a fund-raising event which benefits the National Kidney Foundation of Kentucky. The National Kidney Foundation in return provides financial assistance for kidney patients through their patient services program. $1,800 was raised for the National Kidney Foundation of Kentucky.

After the hike, a picnic was held for hikers, dialysis patients, transplant recipients, employees, and families. There were approximately seventy-five attendants.

The Hike-A-Thon is an annual event held in memory of Dr. J.W. Sutherland. Dr. Sutherland was instrumental in establishing the first Kidney Dialysis Center in Eastern Kentucky. The Hike-A-Thon is a way of carrying on Dr. Sutherland's commitment to the area and remembering the love and concern he showed his patients and staff.

Died:
June 14, 1992

Come all you children...come and see, what are you thinking...when you look at me, an old woman with love in her eyes, Full of pain...not very wise.

Is that what you're thinking...is that what you see, then come closer, children...you're not looking at me, I wish you to smile...when you look at me, because I love each and everyone, you see.

I'm not an old woman...with pain and suffering, I am a young girl now, with wings and loving.

So look at me, children and love one another... I'll meet you again by and by, In the blue yonder...way up in the sky.

THE FAMILY OF
MADELINE STUMBO SCHMITZ

In Memory of Rev. Abel Johnson

There is a void in our lives when death invades our ranks and takes a friend or loved one from our midst. We are suddenly faced with our loss knowing we will never in this life, see that person, hear their familiar voice, or embrace them in our arms again. It's at that time we begin to reflect on their life, of what he or she was all about, that we truly realize how great our loss is.

I remember April 8, 1993, when I picked up my Bible and opened it and read where King David had just received word that his good friend had died. As he began to mourn for him he made this statement: "A great man has fallen this day in the land of Israel." As soon as I had read those words, my phone rang. When I answered, I heard my wife, Una, sobbing on the other end of the line. She was at the U.K. Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky, where she and her family had kept a constant vigil by the bedside of her father, Abel Johnson. I could hear the family crying. "Daddy's gone," she said. Abel Johnson was my father-in-law, but he was also a good friend.

Abel had been a strong, honest, hard-working man who met and fell in love with a beautiful young lady named Olive Kiser. Abel was only 16 when he and Olive married. Their marriage lasted over 52 years and in his dying hour it was plain to see that their love for each other still burned in their hearts as strongly as it ever had. Abel had worked in the coal mines since his youth, providing a home for himself, his wife and their eight children. They had three sons—Joseph, Avery and Layne (who passed away on February 26, 1990) and five daughters—Patricia (Potter), Freda (Counts), Una (Warren), Abigail (New) and Mavis (Caudill). Abel and Olive had always felt their eight children were a gift from the Lord.

When Abel left this life he was surrounded by his wife and his five beautiful daughters, who held him in such high esteem, with tears running down their faces, telling him how much they loved him.

In the few short years that I had known Abel we became great friends. I saw in him a Christian, kind and compassionate, who would help those in need and travel hundreds of miles to pray with a sick friend. Many times he was in more pain than the person he was going to visit.

Abel had been a member of the Regular Baptist Church for 45 years and was very strict in many ways. I saw him in his last few years as he became more compassionate to those who had fallen. I do not mean to imply that he had changed his religious convictions, because he was as strong as ever in those.

It seems the longer people live in this life and face its problems, hardships, pain and sickness, upon losing our loved ones we realize that we are but flesh and blood and without Christ are so helpless and so lost in this world of trouble. Of course, everyone doesn't learn these lessons. For some it seems the hardships make their hearts grow harder, for the same sun that melts the butter also hardens the clay!

Our greatest teacher of all times, of course, was Christ. When many people think of Christ, they picture a man who was hard on sinners, casting them aside. That's not at all the Jesus of the Bible. He was kind, compassionate and forgiving of the down-trodden. It was the self-righteous leaders who claimed so much and possessed so little that he had all his problems with. Those were the ones who cast sinners at his feet demanding they should be stoned. Jesus would pick that person up and say: "This is the one I came to die for." God, help us to learn it is those who are sick that need a physician.

So, yes, Abel Johnson will be missed in his community, by all his many friends and by his great family.

The Apostle Paul made this statement: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." Praise God! We do have a hope beyond this dark veil of sorrow. It's in that land where Abel Johnson fixed his eyes and pointed his finger a short time before he died and whispered to his family, "it's beautiful, beautiful. I can't even describe it... I'm going home."

Rev. David Warren
(Son-in-law)

Daddy, we miss you so much on this Father's Day. Life will never be the same. We will never forget the good life you always lived and the many things you taught us about God. We plan to meet you again, daddy, in a better world. We Love You!

Olive Johnson and her children would like to thank the many friends who helped them during their darkest hour.

Music, Russell, Allen win WSAZ three-on-three basketball tourney

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Three-on-three basketball is quickly becoming a favorite in the sports arena with so many tournaments being held around the region. Two Floyd countians and one player from Magoffin County teamed up and traveled to Huntington and Charleston, West Virginia this past weekend to participate in the WSAZ Television 3 Three-On-Three Basketball Tournament held on Veterans Memorial Boulevard in Huntington and at the Columbia Gas Building in Charleston.

Kenny Music and Robert Allen of Prestonsburg teamed with Magoffin's Robbie Russell to win the three-on-three bout in Huntington, earning the right to advance to Charleston last Sunday.

The trio played eight games in the 25 and over division during the week-

The local squad won all four games they played in Huntington to take first place and moved on to Charleston for the final round.

Known as the Supershooters in the tournament, they defeated Dana Chapman's team in the first round on Saturday by the score of 15-8. In the semifinal round, the local team slipped past Three Men and a Baby by the score of 15-12.

It was the Big Sandy Superstars next in line to face the three and they lost to the Supershooters in the winners bracket.

Emerging from the losers' bracket in the double elimination tournament were the Rude Dogs, who weren't so rude after all, losing to Music, Russell and Allen.

Traveling to Charleston, the three faced a Lester Rains team and won by a narrow margin of 15-13. In the second round, they fell 15-7 to Windan who eventually won the 22-team tournament.

The trio faced the Lester Rains team for the second time and came with their second victory over the team, only to face Windan in the championship game. They lost 15-8 in the final game.

The game was telecast on WSAZ channel three during the evening news.

The entire tournament was comprised of 130 teams from all divisions.

"We were drained," said Allen of the tournament. "The temperatures were in the 90s and we did not have a substitute to go with us."

Les Stapleton was to be the fourth player but could not make the trip.

Allen Astros sting Cubs in protest game

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It's not too often that a coach can file a protest and have it upheld as Allen Astros coach Jackie Day Crisp did. But file a protest he did and in the replay of a game that he originally lost, his team came away with a 12-3 win over the Mud Creek Cubs as the Harold-Allen-Prater regular season ended.

The protest stemmed over the Cubs using Kenneth Childers on the mound against the Astros after not having the proper rest. The protest was filed with league director Robert Damron and the game was ordered to be replayed.

Absent from the Cubs lineup were Childers and hard-hitting Adam Tackett.

The Astros scored six times in the fifth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and built a 9-3 lead. Seth Crisp had a two-run double in the inning and Scotty Walls doubled in a run in the frame.

Allen added three more runs in the sixth to make it a 12-3 score. Alvin Reed drew a one-out walk and Crisp singled with Reed scoring on two errors on Crisp's hit. Walls got his second double of the game, driving in Crisp. Nathan Leslie singled home Walls.

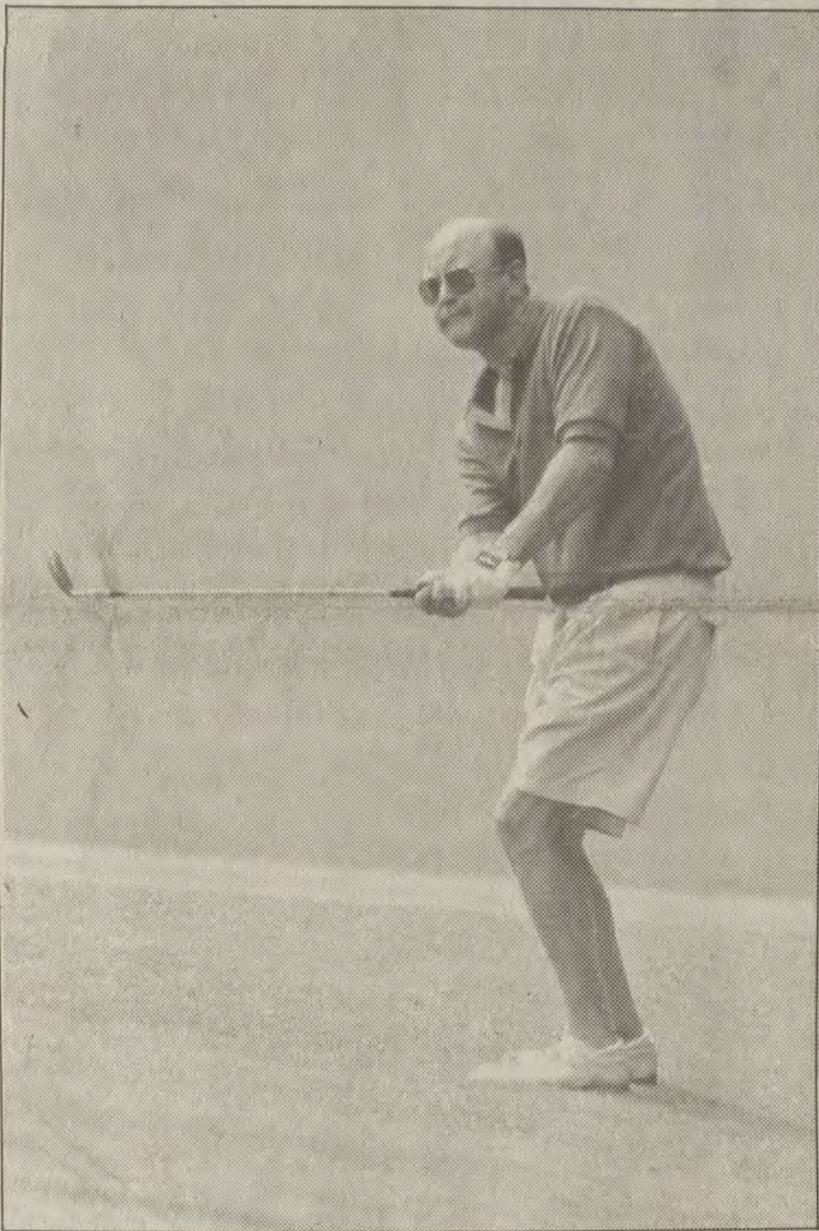

The Cubs jumped out to a 2-0 lead with a run in the first inning on a walk to Leslie Carroll and Fred Gray's base hit. They plated run number two in the third inning when Parker scored on Carroll's double.

Allen came back to take a 3-2 lead with a three run fourth. A lead-off walk to Zemo and Reed's base hit started the three-run rally. Crisp scored both runners with a triple to right. Walls scored the third and tying run on a fielder's choice.

The Cubs tied the game at 3-3 on a walk to Howell, who scored on a wild pitch from Leslie.

Crisp had three hits in the game and picked up six RBIs. Walls had

Lemaster, Vance capture Paintsville Pro-Am golf outing

by Ed Taylor

Jeff LeMaster shot a 6-under-par 204 to win the pro division of the 52nd Paintsville Pro-Am Golf Tournament played last weekend at the Paintsville Golf Course.

Jason Vance won the amateur division over former champion Bruce Walters of Pikeville.

Last year's champion Ivan Smith did not compete in this year's round after qualifying for the U.S. Open and moving up a level.

LeMaster was two strokes down to second place finisher Ken Lacy entering the third round of play. Lacy shot a 5-under-par 205 to finish second. Lacy had a triple bogey on the third hole and never could rebound to regain the lead.

LeMaster was consistent with his game, being the only player to shoot under par in all three rounds.

Lacy shot an 8-under-par 62 in the first round to take a six-stroke lead over LeMaster. However, Lacy was three over in the second round to lead by two strokes going into the third round Sunday.

Steve Evans placed third in the tournament with his 1-under-par 209. Phil Adkins placed fourth and former champion Don Pollard (1988) finished fifth.

Vance won the amateur division for the first time, defeating three-time champion Walters in the final

McDowell falls 4-2 to Harold Sharks

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Terrance Mullins of the McDowell Stars and the Harold Sharks' Brent Akers booked up in a good hardball pitching outing last Saturday at Stumbo Park.

The two teams met in the third game of the afternoon in the Floyd County Babe Ruth League.

Mullins limited the Sharks to just three hits but saw his team shut out until the seventh inning when they scored two runs.

Akers allowed McDowell but four singles as he picked up the win.

Terry Mullins ballclub avoided the shutout with two runs in the top of the seventh inning. An opening walk to Eric Cook and Kevin Thacker's field and Meade scampered to third base where he scored on a throw to second in an attempt to get Brad Kidd to give Harold a 1-0 lead.

Harold did not get a base hit off Mullins until the start of the fifth when Matt Kidd entered the game for Shawn Caudill and singled.

15TH REGION ALL-STAR GAME SLATED

The 15th Region High School Media All-Star baseball game will be held at the Johnson Central field on Friday, June 25 with all three teams taking part.

The media from around the 15th Region recently named their all-region team and now the three teams will be in action.

The first game, scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m., will pit the second team against the third team. The winner of that game will face the first team at approximately 8 p.m.

Several Floyd County players have been named to the teams and will see action.

MUD CREEK COACH WRITES

I received a letter from Terry Hamilton coach of the Mud Creek Tigers Pee Wee team. Coach Hamilton wanted to set the record straight concerning an earlier article in the Times he feels was a reflection on his team.

"We the parents, coaches and fans of the Mud Creek Tigers, would like to set the record straight concerning a recent article in the June 11 paper which made a reference to our team, the Tigers.

"The Tigers are in no way responsible for the Reds team forfeiting to the Indians. League rules state that each team must have at least nine players to begin a game. If a team does not have all players present, then a 15 minute grace period is allowed. This rule was the reason for the forfeiture."

Hamilton stated also that at no time during the regular season was there ever a three-way tie for first place in the league.

Hamilton explained that "sometimes coaches can lose sight of what the game of baseball is supposed to be about. It is for the kids to have fun and learn the game through playing."

Coach Hamilton also echoed something that I have tried to get across and that is "a coach is someone a child looks up to and respects. A coach must honor that respect by exemplifying good sportsmanship."

The Tigers coach further stated that "everyone likes to win but not at the expense of the kids."

Now the record is straight!

IS IT TIME FOR THE REDS TO MAKE A MOVE...

Not in the standings but in the trading market!

The Cincinnati Reds will never win a division or move up in the standings as long as they continue to go with the rotation that they presently have.

Four of the five starters are completely incapable of pitching a major league game. Jose Rijo should be all purposes be 8-1 on the season. Maybe 9-1.

Davy Johnson has the same problem that Sweet Lou and Doggie Perez had and that is bringing in the "closer" Rob Dibble.

How often have you seen it happen in Atlanta? The Reds are in the lead and in comes Dibble only to let the game get away and the Braves win in extra innings.

Reference last Friday night's encounter with the Braves. The Reds were leading 5-3, out goes Rijo and enter Dibble. The next thing you know, when the Braves are through batting in the ninth the game is tied at 5-5 and Dibble's in the dugout acting like a child by throwing and smashing things.

Did you also notice that the slump-ridden Braves came out of their slump against Reds pitching. Deion Sanders, Sid Bream and Terry Pendleton looked like all-stars against the Reds staff.

Tonight (Tuesday), its the hot hitting, division leading San Francisco Giants in town and it will be a disaster. Oh, well!

The Phillies continue to blow out the rest of the Eastern Division. The race in both the National League divisions are, by all practical purposes, over. Rangers end three-game skid with win over Braves

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It had been awhile but the Prestonsburg Rangers, once the front-running team in the Prestonsburg Little League, finally tasted the thrill of victory and finally shed the agony of defeat.

The Rangers saw a three game losing streak come to an end with a 11-6 defeat of the Prestonsburg Braves last week. Drew Brown hurled six strong innings for the Rangers, striking out 13 batters to secure the win for the Rangers.

Brown shut the door on the Braves in the first two innings while his team was putting six runs on the scoreboard in the first two frames. The Rangers scored a lone run in the first when Todd Kidd walked and stole his way all the way home.

Jon May's two-run double highlighted the five-run second for the Rangers as they collected three hits in the inning. Kalen Harris also had an RBI single in the second.

The Braves scored against Brown in the third inning when he gave up a triple to Lee Spriggs for the first run to make it a 6-1 game.

Robert Spradlin scored the Rangers' seventh run in the third inning when Kidd doubled to give the Rangers a 7-1 lead.

Over the next two innings, the Rangers would put five more runs on the board for an 11-2 lead.

The Braves got two runs each in the fifth and sixth inning. Luke Luster had a two-run double in the fifth for the Braves that scored Spriggs and Hall.

In the sixth, Hall drilled a two-run, two-out double for the Braves.

Brown was the winning pitcher while the loss was pinned to J.B.

Hall. Hall fanned nine batters in the game but walked 12. Hall had two hits in the game.

Harris and Kidd had two hits for the Rangers with Kidd picking up four runs batted in.

Shaky pitching spells defeat for P'burg Rangers against A's

The Prestonsburg Rangers were once the only unbeaten team in the Prestonsburg Little League but last Saturday they dropped their third straight and suffered their fourth loss in the last five outings as they fell to the Prestonsburg A's 12-9.

The loss was the result of some inconsistent pitching for the Rangers.

After walking home the first four runs, Ranger pitcher Kalen Harris settled down and retired seven of the next 10 batters he faced. He allowed the A's only four runs through the next three innings.

Harris was replaced by Drew Brown who was shelled for eight runs over the final two innings.

Brown fanned the first batter he faced but then watched his pitches sail all over the park as he gave up a single and a triple in allowing three runs to score in the fourth.

The A's continued to take advantage of the Rangers' wildness as Brown issued three walks, a single, double and a Ranger error allowed five runs to score in the next inning.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the first when Aaron Bingham walked, stole second and third before scoring on Jon May's single.

Two more runs crossed the plate for the Rangers in the second for a 4-3 game. Robert Spradlin doubled and Eric Joseph walked. Both runners trotted home on Chad Wallen's two-run single.

After going out in order in the third, the Rangers grabbed their first lead in the fourth with three runs. Brian Bowling and Spradlin collected back-to-back singles and Josh Shepherd worked George Hall for walk to load the bases. Kidd then delivered a base hit that cleared the bases and gave the Rangers a 6-3 lead.

The A's came back with three in the bottom of the inning for a 7-6 game and plated five in the fifth to make it 12-6.

The Rangers rallied in the sixth for three more runs but the rally was finished when Harris, who missed first base, tried to return safely but was tagged out.

Hall was the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts and four walks. Brown suffered the loss, striking out six and walking five.

Todd Kidd had four RBIs in the game for the Rangers with two hits. He tripled in the sixth inning. Harris had two hits and Spradlin was a perfect three-of-three.

Jessie Compton had two runs batted in for the A's with two hits in two appearances at the plate. He also had a triple in the sixth.

The A's only collected four hits in the game but took advantage of 12 walks from the Rangers' pitching staff.

Allen Astros —

two doubles and Dusty Stephens had two runs batted in.

The Cubs managed only four hits off starter Nathan Leslie. Leslie fanned 10 batters and issued four walks.

The Astros collected eight hits off ToJo Hamilton, who started for the Cubs. Hamilton easily made his first trip through the Astros' batting order, retiring the first nine batters he faced in three innings. He ran into trouble in the third when Allen scored three times. He struck out 11 batters and walked six. He hit two batters.

County school before school ended this year.

BIG LEAGUE TOURNAMENT TO START..

This weekend will mark the beginning of the Paintsville Big League Tournament that will include teams from around the state and area.

The tournament gets underway Friday night with Paintsville and Pikeville squaring off at 6 p.m. The action continues on Saturday and concludes on Sunday.

The tournament will be played at the Charlie Adkins Field (next to the pool).

PIKE COUNTY CENTRAL NAMES COACHES..

In a surprise move, Dave Thomas, long time baseball coach at Pikeville High School, has been named head boys' basketball coach at the new Pike Central High School in Pikeville. The new school will be a consolidation of Johns Creek and Mullins high schools. Thomas will also head up the boys' baseball program. He will be leaving a program where he has won three consecutive regional baseball tournaments and built the Panthers into a solid team.

Thomas got the nod over veteran coach Eugene Lyons (Johns Creek) who was a former coach at Pikeville College before leaving for the Johns Creek job. Also considered for the position was Mullins coach Joe Marson. Reports are that Lyons is not happy with the move.

Many are surprised that Lyons was passed over for the head boys' job at the new school.

In what may appear another surprise, Royce Mayo, head football coach at Elkhorn City last season, left the ranks with the Cougars to take an assistant's job at Pike Central under head coach Paul May. May was an assistant at Belfry under Coach Phillip Haywood.

Three others were named assistant football coaches at the new school. Terry Fannin, one time coach at Phelps, joins May's staff along with assistant Johns Creek coach Barry Thompson. Also added will be Chirs McMene who played for the 1987 Pikeville High School championship team.

David Rowe was named the school's Athletic Director and made the appointments at a news conference last Friday morning.

A head girls' basketball coach is yet to be named but it appears that Mullins girls' coach Tammy Tussey may be offered the job if Lyons or Mullins coach Joe Marson is not interested in the position. Tussey did an excellent job at Mullins High School.

The school hopes to have a new gymnasium and baseball field as well as football facilities in place in the next two years.

Meanwhile, the school will play their football games at Johns Creek as well as baseball games next spring. The basketball team will split their season between Mullins and Johns Creek.

The first half of the home schedule will be played at Mullins with the second half played at Johns Creek. The girls' team will be in reverse of the boys'.

Wayland bests Betsy Layne 11-9

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Wayland scored four times in the second inning and held off Betsy Layne for an 11-9 win in the Floyd County Babe Ruth League last Saturday at Stumbo Park.

Matt Crawford and Lance Jones did not exactly hook up in a pitcher's duel but Crawford survived to come out with the win for Wayland.

Is this mound dangerous?

Harold pitcher Brandon Castle warms up for the Sharks between innings but found the mound at the Stumbo Park not to his liking. Castle injured himself pitching off the high mound and was forced to leave the game. The mound, plus the deep hole on the slope area, has drawn complaints from players. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Both pitchers went the distance for their respective ball clubs and Jones suffered the loss. He worked seven innings and allowed all 11 runs on six hits. He struck out five batters and walked eight. He was guilty of hitting two batters.

Crawford went six innings, allowing nine runs on 11 hits. He fanned only two batters and walked five.

Betsy Layne grabbed an early 1-0 lead in the first inning as Marcus Hamilton singled and scored on an error at first base.

Wayland came back with two in their half of the first on a hit batsman, three wild pitches and a ground out. Tim Bellamy and Todd Bingham each scored for Wayland.

Wayland went ahead 6-1 with their four-run second as Jones had trouble finding the strike zone. He walked Brandon Hicks and Ephriam O'Quinn consecutively and, with one out, hit Kyle Turner. Hicks scored on a wild pitch and John Moore drove in two runs with a single. Bellamy also had an RBI single in the inning.

Brent Tackett and Doug Keathley opened the Betsy Layne second with back-to-back singles but Tackett was caught stealing and Keathley was thrown out trying to move to third. O'Quinn had a run-scoring double for Wayland in the bottom of the third for a 7-1 game.

Betsy Layne did manage to reach Crawford in the third as they sent eight batters to the plate, scoring three runs. Jones had a RBI double in the inning and Tackett drove in two runs with a single.

Trailing 11-7 entering the top of the seventh, Betsy Layne made things interesting as they scored twice with two out and left the tying runs stranded.

Lance Jones drew a one-out walk and Tackett looked at four pitches wide of the plate to put runners on first and second. Tom Taulbee laced a base hit to center field, and just like it's drawn up in the playbook, Jones was cut down at the plate on the relay from the outfield as Bellamy hit his cutoff man, Brad Allen, who fired to Bingham at the plate to nail Jones.

Derrek Stanley, however, did get the two runners home with a two-run single for an 11-9 game.

Tackett and Jones had the extra base hits for Wayland. O'Quinn had a third inning double.

CARDS AND COLLECTING

One of the most dominant, overpowering relief pitchers of his time, Richard "GOOSE" GOSSAGE had some great years with the New York Yankees... The Colorado native is still an active hurler, with the A's, holding a place near the top of the career lists in relief wins and saves... Goose had his breakthrough season in 1975, leading the A.L. in saves for the White Sox... His glory years were 1978-81, when his dependable performances led to many Yankee victories... The hard-throwing righthander led the A.L. in saves in '78 and '80... The card is from the 1983 Fleer edition, #381, his last year as a Yankee, worth 20 cents...

McDowell

Harold took a 3-0 lead with two more runs in the fourth inning. Back-to-back walks to Akers and Wes Collins allowed both runners to score unearned runs on an error at shortstop.

Chad Case came on to work the seventh inning for Harold after Akers allowed a walk and base hit by Thacker.

Akers struck out six batters and walked two in his six innings of work. Case allowed two runs on two hits in the one inning that he pitched. He had no strikeouts and issued three walks.

Mullins kept Harold off stride as he had them hitting the ball on the ground or popping out on the infield. Three of the four runs scored against Mullins were unearned.

Thacker had two of McDowell's four hits with Little and Mullins collecting the other two. Little drove in the two runs for McDowell.

McDowell will face Martin at 5 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) and will take on Wayland at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Harold faces Garrett at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Maytown scores two in seventh for win over Garrett

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Maytown's Babe Ruth team won their second consecutive game with a 13-12 win over the Garrett Rangers this past Saturday at Stumbo Park.

"We've already won more than we did last year," said Maytown coach James Layne, whose team improved to 3-4 on the season.

It was a comeback effort for Layne's ballclub as they scored twice in the bottom of the seventh inning for the one-run victory.

Maytown was down 12-11 entering the final frame when Cecil Maggard led off with a base hit. James Osborne was safe at first on a throwing error by third baseman Donny Owens with both runners moving up a base on Jimmy Radliff's grounder to shortstop.

Maggard scored on a wild pitch to tie the game and Daryl Shepherd delivered the winning RBI with a single to center scoring Osborne.

Maytown, like they had done in previous games, jumped out to an early lead and then had to hold off the opposition for the win.

Layne's club scored four times in the bottom of the first for a 4-0 lead. They made it 5-0 with a lone second inning run and took a 7-1 lead with two in the fourth.

Maggard had a double in the first inning for Maytown and Shepherd had a two-run single. One run scored on an error.

Maggard tripled home Joseph Risner in the two-run fourth for Maytown. Risner led off the inning with a base hit. Radliff scored Maggard with a single and Shepherd had a base hit in the inning, his second.

But the Rangers mounted an offensive of their own in the fifth inning as they pushed home seven runs to take a 8-7 lead. Eleven batters paraded to the plate for Garrett.

R.C. Duff, who started on the hill for Maytown, walked five batters in the inning as he failed to locate the strike zone. Gary Hunter had a two run double and Larry Hunter picked up a run-scoring single. Owens faced Duff with the bases loaded and singled home two runs with two out.

Maytown reclaimed the lead, 9-8, in the bottom of the fifth with two runs. Kevin Caudill singled and scored on Risner's double to center.

Risner scored on an error at shortstop to give the lead back to Maytown.

Garrett responded with three in their half of the sixth for a 11-9 game as Owens picked up his second and third RBIs with a base hit that scored Larry Hunter and Brady Scott.

A double off the bat of Cory Heintzelman scored Shepherd to make it a 11-10 game. Heintzelman scored on Risner's third hit of the game to tie the score at 11-11.

Garrett went back on top 12-11 as Allen Hicks scored the go ahead run on Mike Pack's base hit.

Maytown then won it with two runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Duff picked up the win for Maytown going the distance. He walked 10 batters and struck out five. He allowed 12 runs on eight hits.

Gary Hunter suffered the loss for Garrett. He allowed all 13 runs on 12 hits. He struck out four and walked three while hitting one batter.

Owens had three runs batted in for Garrett. Pack and Larry Hunter each had two hits.

Risner, Shepherd and Maggard finished with three hits apiece and each drove in two runs. Maggard finished with a double and triple.

Henson struck out 11 batters while walking four to secure the win. It took a six-run sixth for the Orioles, who trailed 7-6 at the time.

Nick Samons, who was the losing pitcher, walked Matt Ousley and Jerry Stumbo to start the sixth. He fanned Brandon Hoover and loaded the bases by walking Kenneth Childers.

Heath Scott followed with a two-run single and Nick Stumbo cleared the bases with a double. He scored on Henson's RBI single. With two out, Ivan Gunnels put the nail in the coffin with a double.

The Orioles led 1-0 before falling behind 2-1 when Martin scored twice in the inning. The Orioles struck for three in the third to take a 4-3 lead.

Jerry Miller had a fifth-inning double for the Cardinals. Nick Samons collected two hits.

Samons struck out 14 batters in the game but was wild control-wise, walking 10.

Hayes fans 12 in Martin Cards' 4-1 victory over Garrett Cubs

The Martin Cardinals got on the bandwagon of Jeremy Hayes en route to a 4-1 win over a good Garrett Cubs team in the Beaver Creek Little League last week.

Hayes struck out 12 batters and walked only three in a distance-going outing.

Barry Conley suffered the loss for the Cubs as he had six strikeouts and six walks in the game.

The Cards took a 2-1 lead after the first inning after the Cubs scored in the first on a triple by Conley. Conley had two hits and a walk in the contest.

Boge Conn had a first-inning double for the Cardinals to score one run. Martin pushed home two more runs in the third on doubles by Nick Sammons and Charles McGlothen double. McGlothen had two RBIs in the game.

THIS LURE HAD ITS ORIGIN IN A BAR OF SOAP

Bass fishing is filled with lore and legend, but few stories are more unusual than the origin of a lure known as the split tail eel, which began with a scrap of paper and a bar of soap. The split tail eel is a thin three-inch piece of plastic split down most of its length. Bass fishermen use them as spinnerbait trailers, threading them on the hook to increase swimming action. Today the little plastic add-ons are found in virtually every serious angler's tackle box.

"Back in the early 1970's, I fished with a lure maker named Stan Sloan, who used a spinnerbait with a type of split tail trailer," remembers Jerry Rhyne, a veteran tournament angler and member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff, "but even though his trailer was made of plastic, I felt it was much too thick and bulky to add any action to the lure.

"I went home that night and drew a design of a different type of split tail eel on a piece of paper, then described the idea and gave the drawing to a friend of mine to see how we might make some.

"He was a pretty good handyman," Rhyne continues, "and he started carving my design in a bar of soap."

When the carving was complete, Rhyne began melting old plastic worms, then pouring the liquid into the soap mold.

"We immediately ran into two problems," laughs the Johnson pro. "The first was that we could not seem to make just the right color of charreuse that I wanted, and the second was that after every dozen or so split tail eels, we had to carve a new mold because the hot plastic melted the soap."

Rhyne eventually made enough eels to fill his tackle box, and after using them successfully, realized he had a true spinnerbait trailer, the first of its type. He took one of his soap-made creations to a tool maker who constructed a stainless steel mold for him, and with that, the split tail eel became a reality.

"I never thought about developing a new lure when we were carving up the soap," says Rhyne. "All I wanted to do was improve my spinnerbait so it would catch more bass. I was always tinkering with lures anyway because I enjoy it."

A split tail eel or any spinnerbait trailer, says Rhyne, is used to add action to the lure, since it waves and swims behind the fluttering skirt and spinning blades. It makes a spinnerbait appear slightly larger, and it adds a degree of buoyancy. Most serious spinnerbait fishermen nearly always use some type of trailer on their lures.

Rhyne feels gratified he has been able to contribute something, however small, to the sport that has given him a livelihood for the past two decades, but few of the millions of bass anglers who use the split tail eel today realize it actually began with a paper drawing and a bar of soap.

THIS LURE CATCHES ALL TYPES OF AUTUMN BASS

Fishermen everywhere continually search for a magic lure that will catch bass and other species for them, and for the coming months of autumn, there is just such a lure, according to well-known bass tournament pro Denny Brauer.

It's a topwater popping plug with a floating jig tied behind it.

"I've used this lure many, many times on Lake of the Ozarks where I live," says Brauer, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and runner-up in this year's Bass Masters Classic world championship. "It catches largemouths, spotted bass, white bass and even stripers.

The lure Brauer likes is a small topwater popping plug with a concave face. When the lure is jerked, it pops noisily across the surface and displaces a lot of water. Using a 12 to 15-inch length of monofilament line, Brauer then ties a small bucktail jig to the read split-ring of the plug; this jig dances erratically behind the lure and catches many of the fish.

"Most anglers think this is just a lure for white bass," says the Evinrude pro, "but it really catches a lot of largemouths this time of year.

"I like to fish it around windy points and bluffs where baitfish may be concentrated, because the lure really does imitate an injured shad. A lot of bass hit the jig, but I've caught some nice dish on the lure itself, too."

The popping plug/jig lure is best fished with a steady jerking motion so the plug continually pops and gurgles its way over the surface, says Brauer. This causes the trailing jig to rise, fall and jump from side to side; some fishermen even tie two jigs on the leader to increase their chances for hook-ups.

"Saltwater anglers often use a variation of this lure for speckled trout," explains Brauer. "Instead of using a popping plug, they substitute a large popping cork. The result is the same: the cork makes noise and moves water to gain the attention of the fish, and the trailing jig catches them."

Because the plug and trailing jig is somewhat awkward to cast, Brauer suggests using a longer seven or seven and a half foot rod. The extra length not only sends the lure out further, it also makes setting the hook easier.

"I have been as guilty as anyone in searching for a magic lure," I have a tackle box full of strange and unusual plugs to prove it. This simple topwater ig combination is as close as I've come to finding a magic lure, especially at this time of year."

NEWS 'N VIEWS.

So, the University of Kentucky repeated marriage vows with Rick Pitino last week.

President Charles Wethington is "delighted." Athletics board member J.D. Gorman says the school got a bargain.

And C.M. Newton expects a cessation of media inquiries about his coach's future.

Let us examine the guarantees in this delightful bargain.

Pitino's pocket change (base salary) is guaranteed -- $131,000 through 1995.

Along with television and radio rights, a hefty sneakers contract and sundry other clothier endorsements, UK's professor of hoops is guaranteed a continuum of a million-or-so a year.

Under the contract extension, UK guarantees to swallow premium payment on Pitino's $2 million life insurance policy.

Come 1996, the school guarantees to increase Pitino's send-the-kids-to-summer-camp change to $150,000 per annum.

The coach is guaranteed eight tickets to away football dates, and 20 for basketball games.

And, if Pitino stays on till the year 2000, he is guaranteed a $1 million bonus.

Peachy, all these guarantees. What does UK and Big Blue faithful get in return?

The coach will stay ... maybe. "A contract is like a marriage," Pitino told reporters. "If you're happily married, you don't get divorced." Reassuring, huh?

Long as you make me happy, we will stay married.

UK will honor its side of the bargain, but, if, say, the Celtics call, expect a list of irconcilable differences. And UK eats a 30 grand a year insurance premium. How come the guarantees seem all one way? Because they are. Supply and demand. UK can supply, Pitino has leverage to make the demands.

Short range: Kentucky's football program remains in flux. That's being kind since ticket sales to six home games this fall have been slow. UK needs seven a season to pay the bills.

Long range: The growing noise from non-revenue sports and possibility of a gender equity war looming on the NCAA's horizon could mean a major hit to UK (and other schools') athletic budget.

Reality: To balance the books, Newton must guarantee UK gets in the NCAA Big Show if not Final Eight or Final Four virtually every spring. Pitino's presence maximizes the possibility.

So, UK must keep its golden goose happy.

A $150,000 salary per and 30 grand more for life insurance premium, is this a bargain?

You bet. Pitino (and his lawyer) know it too.

Oh, and the $1 million bonus in year 2000? Window dressing. Looks impressive to an adoring public. An ego massage for Pitino.

But in fact, UK's coach could have had two or three times that much immediately with a simple 'yes' to the Hawks, the Pacers, or another NBA owner.

Footnote: Still, somehow this week, with big dollar figures being tossed around, I can better understand how our country got to be 4 trillion dollars in the hole.

RECRUITING UPDATE

Kentucky and new recruiting chief Billy Donovan wasted no time establishing Big Blue in the front rank of schools being considered by several premier high school seniors-to-be.

The Louisville Cardinals are courting at least three top 10 prospects as well, two of whom Denny Crum could go after head-to-head with Pitino.

UK will, as of now, have four available scholarships.

Prospects with UK at or near the top of list:

1. 6-9 Sean Daugherty, Vincennes, Ind. is a leading candidate for Hoosier Mr. Basketball. A long time UK fan, Daugherty is a skilled big forward prospect with 3-point shooting range. Could be UK's best Indiana signee since Mike Flynn, '71. Main competition, Kansas.

2. 6-5 Jelani Gardner, West Covina, Ca. is a 2-guard who jumps well, penetrates and would fit Pitino's inside-outside style. Main competition: UCLA, Arkansas, Duke and California.

3. 6-9 Andre Patterson of Abilene, Tex. is a tough, physical top 5 prospect who may lean to Indiana, but is considering UK, Kansas and Duke.

4. 6-1 Allen Iverson of Hampton, Va. is touted as America's premier point guard prospect. Pick a perennial power and/or an ACC school—North Carolina, Duke, Maryland, along with Indiana and Kentucky, and you will find it on Iverson's list of schools.

Others interested in UK: 6-8 Antoine Walker of Chicago; 6-9 Samaki Walker of Columbus, OH.; 6-9 Adonal Foyle of Hamilton, NY; 6-8 Willie Mitchell of Detroit; 6-8 Alex Sanders of Mouth of Wilson, Va. and 6-4 Trajan Langdon of Anchorage, Alaska.

Among those interested in the Cardinals are:

1. 6-2 Michael Spruell of Albany, Ga. is a, dare we say it, Keith LeGree type who lists U of L along with Georgia, Auburn, Tennessee, Fla. State and Ga. Tech.

2. 6-10 Jahidi White of St. Louis is compared to Charlotte's Larry Johnson. He may be headed to Indiana, but Louisville is courting, along with Kentucky, Minnesota, UNLV and a host of others.

3. 6-9 Maceo Baston of Dallas is something of a mystery, but U of L and Arkansas are interested.

(PRE-)LOTTERY JACKPOT

NBA lottery pick-to-be Jamal Mashburn struck gold last week, signing a 7-year, $7 mill endorsement contract with Fila, an Italian sports-wear outfit that threw in a Ferrari as a bonus.

Lemme see if I've got this straight, Jamal ... five months ago you were making $15 laundry money and today you're toolin' around in a Ferrari and the weekly paycheck is $20,833.33. And you haven't been picked by a team yet, let alone played a game?

New house for Momma? Pick a villa. Pick a mountain to build it on.

Footnote: Anybody want to bet Rick Pitino has already authored and had printed a slick, glossy foldout titled Jamal's Kentucky Story, and mailed copies to Felipe Lopez, Andre Patterson and others?

NATIONAL PASTIME?

It has been suggested in this space several times the last two years that basketball may (officially) supplant baseball as our National Pastime.

A USA WEEKEND article June 4-6 asked fans to vote via 900-number for professional basketball or baseball.

According to thousands of fans, USA Today reported last week, 54 percent voted for basketball, 46 for baseball.

"It's just a matter of time," Red Auerbach says. "Eventually (basketball will) replace baseball. I have the utmost regard for big league baseball, but it is not something that is touching the younger people."

What makes this issue more intriguing is the June 4-6 article did not factor in college hoops. It was strictly NBA vs. MLB.

PARTING SHOT

(Before Pitino's new contract announcement) USA Today's Peter Vecsey: "I make Pacers' new coach Larry Brown a slight favorite to leave his next job, the one he doesn't have yet, before Rick Pitino leaves Kentucky."

And so it goes.

Six-run fifth gives Marlins 11-9 victory over Garrett prep team

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Brad Reynolds and Eric Cecil collected two hits each and Chad Case drove in two runs as the Betsy Layne Marlins defeated the Garrett Prep team 11-9 in the 13-year-old Babe Ruth League this past Sunday at Allen park.

The Marlins scored six runs in the fifth inning to erase a 5-4 deficit and improve their record to 10-1 on the season.

Case got the win for Betsy Layne in relief of Shannon Potter who started for the Marlins. Potter worked the first three innings with Case coming on in the fourth.

Mike Combs suffered the loss for the Garrett team. Combs went the first two and a third innings before giving away to Kaleb Yates. Yates worked the third, fourth before running into trouble in the fifth. He was relieved by Misty Scott with Combs returning to the mound in the sixth inning.

Scott, one of only two females playing in the Babe Ruth league, faced six batters in the fifth inning, allowing two runs and two base hits.

Betsy Layne took a 1-0 lead but Garrett came back with four runs against Potter in the bottom of the second for a 4-1 advantage. Yates led off with a double, his first of four hits, and scored on Scott's base hit. Scott moved to second and third on wild pitches and scored on Ross Goble's single. Mike Pack also had a base hit and two stolen bases in the inning.

Betsy Layne tied the game in the third with three runs as Case doubled home two runs in the inning. Combs walked four batters in the frame.

Garrett assumed a 5-4 lead after the Marlins went out in order in the fourth. Pack scored on Gary Hunter's base hit to give Garrett the lead.

In the fifth that the Marlins sent 11 batters plateward in scoring six times. Yates had little trouble in the fourth but ran into a buzz saw in the fifth.

A leadoff base hit by Brad Reynolds and consecutive walks to Case and Dwayne Hughes spelled doom for Yates.

Enter Scott. Eric Cecil greeted the reliever with a two-run single.

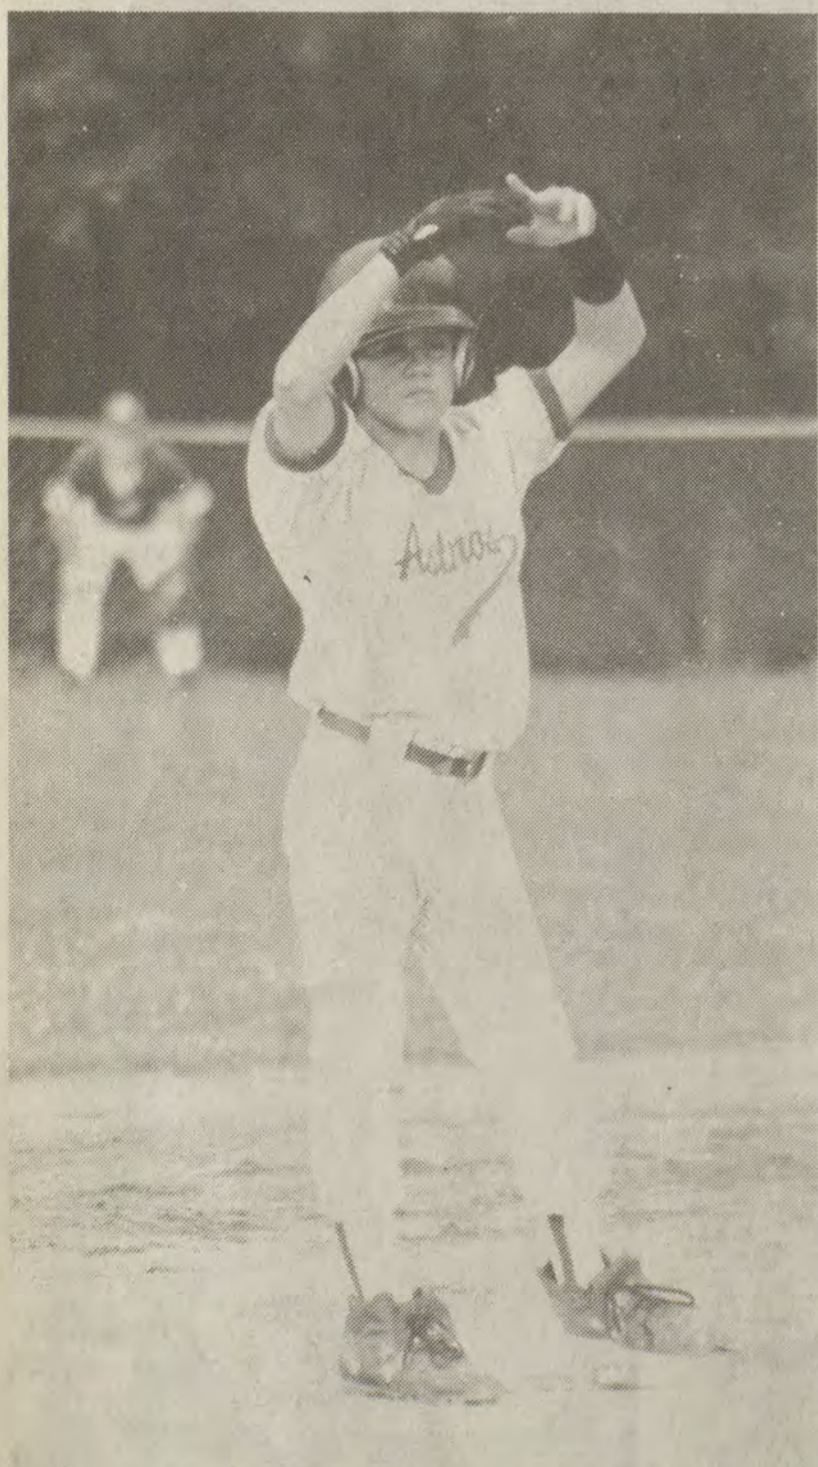

Garrett got one run back in the bottom of the fifth and scored three times in the sixth but fell short in the rally. They went out in order against Case in the seventh.

Shepherd takes control in 11-5 win over Expos

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Daryl Shepherd allowed the Martin Expos only one hit and no runs over the final five innings as Maytown posted a 11-5 win over the Expos in Floyd County Babe Ruth play at Stumbo Park.

Hard throwing Kevin Robinson experienced some control problems in the first two innings and allowed Maytown six runs -- three in each of the first two innings.

Robinson walked five batters and did not give up a hit in the first frame as Maytown scored three times.

He began the second inning much like he did the first and walked two of the first three batters he faced before giving up a two-run double to Cecil Maggard. Jason Bevins relieved Robinson in the second with one out to end the rally.

Martin came back with four runs in the bottom of the second after scoring a lone run in the first inning to make it a 6-5 game.

Kaleb Yates drilled a long double to right center field, scoring Jonathan Scarberry who had led the inning off with a single. Shannon Ferrell and Wade Damron had RBI singles in the inning. It was the second RBI in the game for Damron who drove in Martin's first run in the initial inning.

Shepherd was a stingy hurler after the second as he blanked the Expos on just one hit over the remaining innings.

Maytown scored four times against Bevins in the top of the third inning to take a 10-5 lead. Bevins issued back-to-back walks to Nick Halbert and Charles Twiss before fanning Kevin Caudill and Joseph Risner. But Bevins walked R.C. Duff to load the bases and a walk to Maggard forced home a run. Three other runs scored on a wild pitch and James Osborne's two-run single.

Maytown plated their final run in the seventh as Cory Heintzelman, who walked, scored on a wild pitch.

Martin had opportunities to score, leaving runners on base in the third, fourth and fifth innings. Shepherd retired the side in the sixth and seventh innings.

Shepherd picked up the win for Maytown who won for only the second time this season. He struck out six batters and walked four while allowing five runs on seven hits.

Robinson, who returned to the mound in the third for Martin, suffered the setback in working five and two-thirds innings. Robinson was much more impressive in his final four and a third innings. He fanned nine batters but issued an uncharacteristic 12 free passes. Over the final four and a third innings, he allowed just one hit and walked only three.

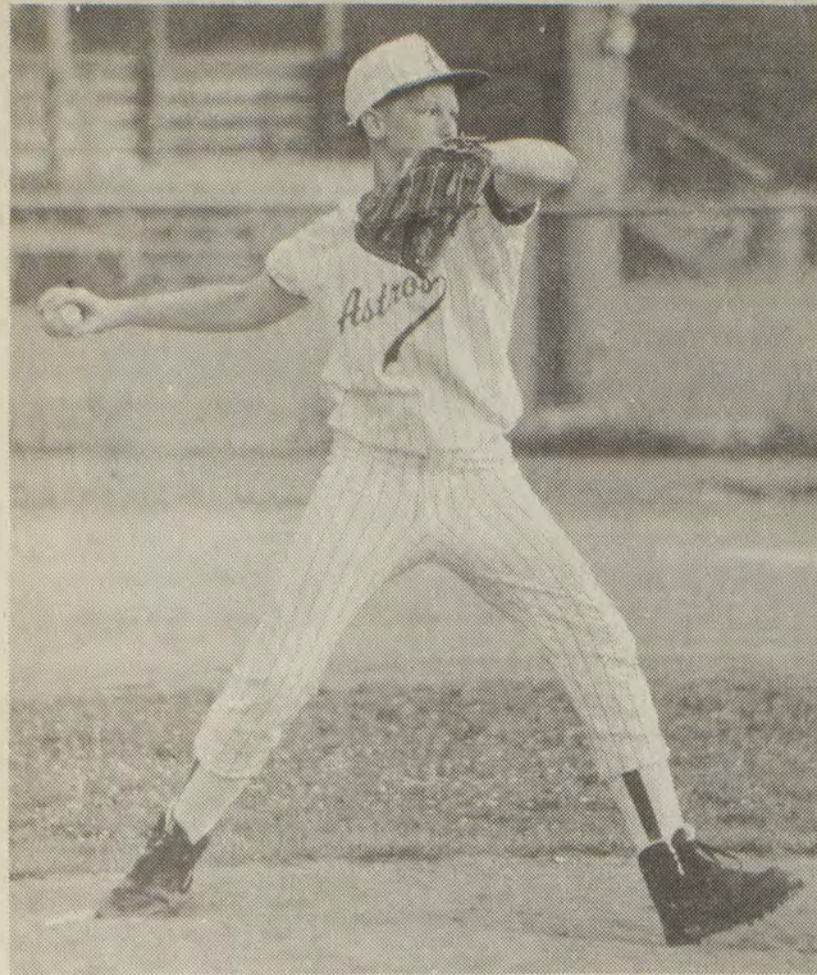

Bevins went one and a third innings with three strikeouts and five walks. Bevins allowed four runs on one hit.

Bear Stevens and Yates had the only extra base hits in the game for Martin. Both were doubles. Stevens started the game with a double and scored on Damron's first hit.

Maggard and Osborne each had two RBIs for Maytown.

Kentucky Rifles sign 13 players as practice begins

by Noel Crum
Paintsville Herald

After a month of scouting and examining their needs, the Kentucky Rifles finally signed their first players Monday.

The most notable signings were those of former Paintsville High School and Morehead State standout Adam Smith and Johns Creek and Pikeville College player Rob Taylor.

Smith gives the credit for his success to his family and friends.

"I owe everything to my family and friends who stuck by me through the good times and the bad," said Smith.

Taylor feels that this is an outstanding opportunity for him.

"I think this is a great chance to be able to play professional baseball, especially at home," said Taylor. "The organization has been run first class. I think it's a wonderful opportunity."

The other players who signed contracts on Monday were Jay Bradford, Mike McLauray, David Duncan, Pat (Wink) Laughead, Darren Poore, Al Starr, Trevor Hibbs, Klinte Rose, Rick Hall, Charlie Allen and Todd Fitzgerald.

The remainder of the Rifles' 20-man roster will be filled after the league tryout camp in Chillicothe, Ohio, June 15-17.

Signing contracts was not the only purpose of Monday's press conference at The Carriage House. The team also unveiled their home and road uniforms.

Smith feels that the uniforms are extremely professional.

"They're great," said Smith. "They are very professional and nicely done. They are also very comfortable."

After all the official business was completed, the Rifles took the field for their first practice yesterday. Practices the first week are being held at Charlie Adkins Field.

Opening day will be June 30 against Ohio Valley at W.C. Hambley Field in Pikeville.

Hamilton tosses shutout against Reds as Tigers win 2-0

The Mud Creek Tigers ran their season record to 7-2 on the year as they got a strong pitching performance from Bubo Hamilton and a 2-0 win over the third place Reds.

The Tigers scored all the runs they needed in the third inning to pick up the victory and ended the game with a double play.

T.J. Hamilton drew a leadoff walk from Reds' starter Justin Martin to start the second inning and C.J. Newsome grounded a base hit past the shortstop. Shawn Hamilton walked to load the bases for the Tigers.

It looked as if Martin would be scored on but Martin got Joseph Ratliff and Brenton Hamilton on strikes. Bubo Hamilton lifted a fly ball that third baseman Nicky Hall made a good catch on to end the threat.

The threat turned to reality for the Tigers in the third as Brian Roberts singled and Matt Slone doubled to make it 1-0. Slone scored the second run on Chase Hamilton's double.

The Reds put a runner on in the fifth inning when Joe Hall led off with a base hit but was left stranded as Hamilton retired the next three batters.

Hamilton retired the first seven batters he faced in the game until Adam Newsome singled in the third. Joe Hall had the only other hit for the Reds in the game.

Martin faced 21 batters allowing the two runs on four hits. He walked five and struck out six.

Hamilton faced 16 batters, giving up no runs on just the two hits. He did not walk a batter and he fanned six.

T.J. Hamilton pulled off the unassisted double play that ended the game when he caught Justin Martin's fly ball and tagged Joe Hall who was running on the play.

Drift Astros pitcher Billy Hall may be short in stature but has been standing tall during all the controversy surrounding his ineligibility for all-star play in July. Hall has been declared ineligible because of signing up in the Prestonsburg league. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Lendell Martin

Make some noise with a soft jerkbait this season, and you'll make this effective bait work even better.

Just add a rattle...one made for other soft plastic baits. It will actually do two things for your soft jerkbait. Not only will it add sound, but it also will add a little weight.

Now, when you cast the lure, it'll begin making noise as soon as it hits the water. And, the weight of the rattle will cause it to sink slightly faster. Both can make a difference because they'll give the bait a different look...and sound.

Experiment with placement of the rattle to balance the soft jerkbait the way you like. Start by rigging the bait the way you always do, then inserting the rattle so that it rests just behind the hook.

Lendell Martin won the 1990 Anglers Choice Classic.

Ask Dr. Bubba

Editor's note: Dr. Bubba is not a licensed, practicing therapist, but holds doctorates in analytical psychology and small appliance repair from the prestigious University of Hooterville. Dr. Bubba has also generously founded and contributed to the United White Trash College Fund, whose motto is "A mind is a terrible thing to waste, but you can stand to lose a few brain cells here and there."

Dear Dr. Bubba: I don't really have any problems that are wrecking my life or anything like that, but I wanted to write in anyway because you sort of implied in your last column that if nobody wrote in you would be very angry with us and I certainly don't want that. So uh, how 'bout that Michael Jordan betting a couple of million dollars on a golf game? Pretty goofy, huh? Just Saying "Howdy," Somewhere In Floyd County

Dear Howdy: It sure does my heart good to know that SOMEBODY out there's readin' this trash. I sure thank ya fer droppin' a line. An' about Michael Jordan, yeah, it does seem kinda stupid ta bet that kinda money on ANY sport. Then again, if I had HIS kinda money, I'd prob'ly bet a million bucks on how many bluegill an' baby diapers ya'd catch at Cave Run afore ya finally caught a real purty bass ya couldn't eat 'cause o' the sewer water. As fer muh "implied threat" last time out, well, I WAS JUST JOKIN', YOU MORON!!! Jeez-o-mighty, ain't nobody got a sense o' humor no more?

Dear Dr. Bubba: I'm a Young Republican and a fervent, faithful follower of the Reverend Pat Robertson. At the reverend's urging, I recently played a Led Zeppelin record backwards and, to my surprise, heard absolutely no Satanic messages. Even more puzzling, I decided on a whim to play my favorite Slim Whitman record in reverse and distinctly heard the words "I am Beelzebub—burn your penny loafers and let chaos reign.... I am Beelzebub—use more dirty words.... I am Beelzebub—Pat Buchanan's a big sissy but Jimmy Swaggart's a pretty fun guy...." Now I'm REALLY confused. What should I do? Should I continue watching the family channel and attending youth group meetings or should I pierce all my major body parts and become an agnostic or even, heaven forbid, an atheist? On the Horns of a Dilemma, Prestonsburg

Dear Horns: I know how terrible ya must be feelin'. Religious confusion an' lack o' faith can really screw up yer day, not ta mention puttin' a crimp in the ol' afterlife. Let's look at it this way—if ya decide ta become an atheist, when ya die ya'll be, as the sayin' goes, "All dressed up with no place ta go." On the other hand, I ain't so sure agnosticism's the way ta go either. First off, it ain't really a choice, it's a cop out. Besides that, if ya spread the news around, first thang ya know there'll be a group o' guys in white sheets burnin' question marks in yer front yard, an' that ain't no good fer property values. Basically, my advice to ya is ta make up yer own mind about it, don't take nobody's word fer it—mine or anybody else's. An' fer goodness' sakes, don't be playin' no more records backwards. Zamfir, Master o' the Pan Flute, might send ya straight ta the hot place.

That's about it fer today folks. Be sure ta tune in next week, same BubbaTime, same BubbaChannel fer the further excitin' adventures of "The Young an' the Pitiful." Keep them cards an' letters comin' ta "Ask Dr. Bubba," c/o The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. In the meantime, ask not what yer country can do fer you, but maybe check with yer lawyer ta see if ya can settle outta court anyways.

by Patricia Watson

Mrs. Dixie Cornett Lawson, 79, of the McDowell community was named "Mother of the Year, 1993," by members of the Independent Christian Women's Fellowship of Floyd County.

She was chosen in recognition of her Christian testimony and for her service to home, to family, and for her example within her community.

A biographical sketch, prepared by her family citing memorable events of her life was read by Mrs. Alice Skeans, vice president of the organization.

Mrs. Lawson grew up in a time when you walked across Sizemore Mountain to go to Stone Coal Church. She was married 43 years to the late Dewey Morgan Lawson. He worked in the coal field and she kept the home. She and her husband had nine children. After his death, she was left alone to care for her children. Of her children, one became a veterinarian, two chose to become teachers, one a psychology major doing social work at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, and one a professional secretary. The oldest son is a retired production manager for Utrad Inc., in the three white roses represented her deceased family—her husband, and her two daughters. "The basket," her daughter, Patricia Cieslak explained, "represents our mother who has held us together with her love."

From the Independent Christian Women's Fellowship, Mrs. Lawson was presented a framed certificate which named her "Mother of the Year, 1993," and a double white carnation flower corsage.

Other recognitions were part of the evening as well. Miss Barbara Wynsma

High School was presented a $100 scholarship for continuing her education. Consecutive scholarships will follow over the next four years.

Former "Mother of the Year" honorees, Mrs. Eva Furman and Mrs. Leah Bowers, were presented roses and centerpiece decorations.

Presenting the opening toast to mothers was Donna White; and presenting the opening toast to daughters was Phyllis Centers.

Music throughout the dinner was provided by Dick, Leah, Bonnie, and Bethany Bowers. Selections included: violin, saxophone, piano, and flute instruments.

A film, "Fire in the Sky," gave a message of trust and confidence to help when times are trying.

This year's banquet theme was "Bright Promises." Tables were covered with white linens and pink napkins. Mirror tiles reflected the gems from decorative crowns and candlelight. Silk grapevines trailed the tables, linking candles and crown. Decoration committee members included Lois Holmquist, Joyce Ousley, and Barbara Wynsma.

Photographer for the evening was Lois Holmquist and video photographer was Dani Smith.

Others

DIXIE CORNETT LAWSON

Huntington, Indiana.

The others chose to make their careers at home, raising a family and making a home for their children and spouses, as their mother did.

Mrs. Lawson was presented a basket of silk flowers—both red and white roses—from her family. The flowers and the basket proved to be symbolic. The seven red roses represented this mother's living children and and Miss Lois Holmquist, founders of the organization, were presented with carnation corsages. Patricia Baldrige, a graduating senior from Allen Central banquet, an annual event sponsored by the Independent Christian Women's Fellowship, was attended by approximately 150 women.

participating in the evening included Patricia Watson, club president and Sherry Hall, member. Judy Allen participated in a skit called "Herman," and Jacquie Jackson sang "Amazing Grace."

A SUNDAD MORNING

My dad, Bill Pack, died in 1969. He fathered seven children; five sons, two daughters. I was the fourth son and sixth child. He had been a coal miner all his life.

Until I was grown, I didn't know that he was also a fisherman.

Isn't it ironical, then, that as Father's Day approaches, the one memory that's so vivid from my childhood (as it regards dad) is of the time when he took my little brother Joe and me to fish in the Number One Pond in the head of Well Hollow (at least Well Hollow is what we kids called it; if it had another name, we weren't aware of it) in Thealka?

To be perfectly honest, I'm not real sure that Joe went for I can't remember his being there. However, I can't imagine my being there with dad without Joe. Joe and I nearly always did everything together. ClydeandJoe was like one entity in those days.

Anyway, I couldn't have been over five or six years old, which would have put Joe at three or four. Still I remember it was summer and early in the morning because the grass was still wet with dew and dad kept warning me not to slip and fall in.

Of course, had it been in the afternoon, we couldn't have fished because this particular hole of water was also the favorite swimming spot for all the kids in the community (and other communities, as well), and it being summer, would have been filled with screaming, splashing half-naked (and sometimes whole-naked) children.

I can remember how odd it was that the pond seems so still. It was like it was asleep. I can remember sitting on the grass and looking to the far end and seeing the cattails and their upside down reflection mirrored on the still surface. I can still see—and almost hear—the snake feeders (it was years later before I knew these were called dragon flies) as they darted back and forth over the water near the edge of the bank.

Another thing I remember is that we didn't take any fishing gear. Not even a cane pole. After we got there, dad used his pocket knife (he always carried a pocket knife that he'd never let me use) and cut a branch about five or six feet long from a nearby bush. He then tied to it some fishing line he had in his pocket. I don't know where he'd gotten the line, unless he'd picked up some that my older brother Ernest had fished around. (Ernest always fished.)

Dad also produced from his pocket a little round tin box with a few tiny fish hooks and some little lead sinkers in it. I doubt that I'd ever used real fish hooks before. When we'd lie on our stomachs on the little railroad crossing near the mouth of Society Row and fish for chub minnows through the crosssties, we'd use bent straight pins for fish hooks.

We hadn't dug for worms, either, so dad walked around the bank, turned over a few rocks, picked up a couple of worms and a cricket or two, and stuck them in a Prince Albert can he'd also picked up some place. I remember how dad seemed so big...so strong...so invulnerable...so smart.

I don't remember whether or not we caught anything, but if we had, it'd only have been a sundad or two, and we'd have thrown them back.

Many years later, dad and my sister Mary Jean dished a good deal after he got sick and had to quit work.

Until that time, through, this was the only time I ever remember him fishing. Isn't it strange how one's memory can select one day nearly 50 years ago...a brief moment in time...adjust the focus a bit and replay it? No doubt, this little fishing trip seemed so trivial at the time. It seems so precious now.

Kim's Korner

TWO WHOLE HANDS

It seems our baby girl/tombow is beginning an entire new stage and one of these days I'll probably regret writing about this subject, especially if she re-reads it in her teens.

by Kim Frasure

However, without my daughter this space would more than likely be blank. And, since so many of you relate to children and their experiences, I'll share yet one more.

Well, our little football, basketball, Ninja Turtle girl is turning the big 1-0—yes 10 years old soon and the growing-up overnight is coming even faster with this second child.

•Why, let me ask, are there no books that tell parents their children can change and change drastically overnight?

•Why doesn't someone prepare us for all these darn stages?

•And why are two children from the same two parents so totally different?

Anyone with answers may reply in care of this newspaper.

Until then, Tiffany, has informed her father, sister and I that she no longer wants to be called Tiffany. She has changed her name. Yes, she would now like us to call her Brooke, her middle name.

She told us firmly, I might add, that she will not listen to or answer us if we call her anything other than Brooke.

If that wasn't enough, she has asked for her very own Teen Spirit deodorant! (In her words, "after all, mamaw Judy says I'm developing sweat glands and I'll need deodorant soon and now that I'll be ten I will be a pre-teen.")

Well, let's just throw one more stick in the buggy, I said, as we shopped. Then came the biggie, yes, I nearly fell face down, my no-dress-ever-in-my-lifetime-daughter, no pink or lace daughter and no curlers, asked for a perm. My eyes popped out of my head. My ears had to be deceiving me. This is not Tiff, whoops—Brooke.

But, oh yes, it's the new child living under our roof.

Finally, during what seemed to be a normal Sunday evening, she dropped an even bigger bomb.

The spouse and I sat watching T.V. with Ashleigh when Brooke comes strolling into the living room to ask the big one.

"Daddy," she said, "could I start shaving my legs?" Well, the men will be coming this week to replace our roof after that one, let me tell you. Her father replied quite rapidly with the loudest "no way! No way!" I've ever heard.

Then she gave him a look as if he was the craziest person on earth and held up both her hands, stepped out with one foot to get a little closer to him to inform him—"Daddy, I am two whole hands old. Get used to it."

Well, folks I lost it, I had to break out in uncontrollable laughter. The spouse is still not over all this. I feel really sorry for him. After all, he and Tiffany (oops, there I go again.) I mean, Brooke have always had their fishing trips, Bluegrass and golf (although after the last golf trip and Brooke's accident with the golf cart and the spouse's car I'm not sure he'd mind so much if he'd just think a little harder). But that's another column.

To make it short—Daddy's losing his little girl and fishing buddy way too soon. And let's face it folks, no household deserves two pre-teens at once, especially mine.

I told Tiff to bring me a brush so I could brush her hair and we could all go to bed and discuss this episode tomorrow. As I brushed her hair I commented on how long and silky it was and how I'd love to have her hair.

Calmly, she turned, looked up at me with those big brown eyes and said, "Sorry mommy, you hair is fried, died, and laid to the side."

What a night and what a child. Till next week.

PHS Reunion

There was much reminiscing as the graduates of Prestonsburg High School classes of 1918 through 1933 gathered for a grand reunion on June 5 at May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Graduates came from many areas of the country. After visiting with each other and exchanging greetings, the group went downstairs to the dining room to enjoy a buffet meal. Joe Arnett, a 1933 graduate, asked the blessing.

After enjoying the meal, everyone convened upstairs for a program with James B. Goble as master of ceremonies. Eck Branham led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag. Arthur Haywood welcomed the graduates and guests and then introduced Elizabeth Frazier, Rebecca Haywood and David Banner Leslie who presented a musical program in which they sang and led the group in singing nostalgic songs of the bygone era familiar to those present.

Virginia Goble and Sarah Laven presented a memorial for deceased teachers and classmates.

Margaret Collins, a 1928 graduate, gave a historical sketch of Prestonsburg High School. This dated back to the first school organized in the 1800's until the present time.

James B. Goble paid tribute to the late Mrs. Carlos Haywood, who had given much of her time in the preparation and organization of the reunions held over the past ten years. She died in December. He also read several letters he had received from graduates who were unable to attend.

After a roll call and comments from graduates, the group continued their "gab fest".

Graduates and guests who attended were: James B. and Virginia Goble, Russell and Sarah Laven, Audrey Beverly, Minvera Cooley, Margaret D. Collins, John Arnett, Frank Arnett, Curtis Hopson, Muriel H. Kelly, Opal Branham, Jack and Sharon Howard, Anna Lee Alley, Mildred S. Salisbury, Frank and Gertrude Branham, Joe and Alma Jarrell, Lorraine Hatcher, Jerry Howell, Russell and Millie Prater, Joe and Rebecca Arnett, Eck and Carol Branham, Graham and Patricia Ann McGuire, Arthur W. Haywood, Thomas and Inez Hereford, Chalmer and Kathryn S. Frazier, Oval B. Hall, Mable W. Allen, Ernest and Dora Osborne, Ruth Worland, Phyllis Ranier, Delmas and Edna Saunders, Rebecca Haywood, Elizabeth Frazier and David Banner Leslie.

My pride and joy

by Lucille Tackett

I have one daughter and her name is Samantha Nicole Tackett. She was born on March 21, 1989 at 8:44 p.m. at Cabell-Huntington Hospital. She weighed 4 pounds and 14 ounces and was 18 inches long. She had lots of black, straight hair. She had baby blue eyes with long dark eyelashes. "Sam" had little hands and big feet. She could wear a size one in shoes when she was born. She had a little nose and little ears. "Sam" was two months premature but healthy.

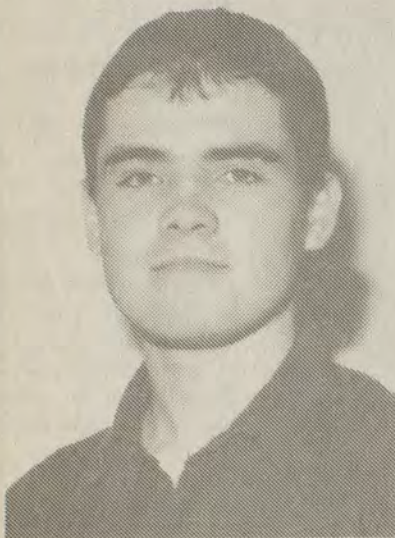

When I first saw her I thought, "Wow, she's perfect!" I thought how tiny she was. I wanted to hold her but I was afraid I would break her. I wanted a little boy but when I saw her I thought she was better than a boy. They wouldn't let me keep her that night. I couldn't wait to see her the next day.

That was four years ago. Samantha now has blonde hair and green eyes. When she is by herself she's a good kid; when she's with other kids she's rotten. Some of the cute things she likes to do are: she picks me flowers and she holds her arms out and says, "I love you this much." I wouldn't take anything for her. She is the pride of my life.

"Lucille says that Samantha is one of her main reasons for going back to school," said Peg Smith her tutor.

Lucille is enrolled in the JOBS Program and the Floyd County Literacy Council. She has recently graduated from literacy to ABE/GED classes.

He was one of three students from Allen Central who were part of the All-State Exhibit. Chuck and Chad Compton also had their work shown.

He is the son of Jerry and Ramona Ousley of Hippo. His watercolor was submitted to the competition, which is sponsored by the Kentucky Art Education Association, by Mrs. Caralita O'Quinn.

SWM

I have a confession to make.

Almost anytime I pick up a newspaper or magazine, I'll eventually end up turning to the classified section and scanning a section that brings no end of amusement.

The personals.

The Lexington paper's got a decent section, but some, mainly weekly magazines found in major cities, have sections that you can literally spend hours poring through, looking at people trying to find soulmates in twenty words or less.

How many of them succeed? Well, I can't say for sure, but since you see "Singles Who Met The Loves Of Their Lives Through The Personals" on Oprah, my guess is that the actual percentage of these things that work is very low. Now getting responses, that's another story.

The whole trick is first impressions.

Writing an ad that's interesting and creative is the key. (It also is the key for avid personals readers like myself who want to see what kind of mischief people can come up with.) How many people would want to respond to:

SWF, 45, looking for SWM 30-50 for a long term relationship.

That's what I thought. Boring. No creativity. Now, take this one from a couple of months back:

Blonde tigress looking for a Man who can tame her.

Now that's better! I bet she got flooded with responses, gifts, flowers and had hordes of men with their tongues hanging out beating down her door. Use your imagination.

Ordinarily, a prospective personal writer will jot down their marital status, their race, their sex, a couple of their interests and acceptable characteristics for someone they're searching for. Abbreviations are common: S=single, D=divorced, G=gay, WW=widowed, P=professional, C=Christian and so on and so on.

Since a person can't go into too much detail in the limited space, writers have to come up with creative ways of saying what they really mean. That's where the fun comes in, trying to decipher what these folks actually want. There are words you can pick up on, like "full-figured," "Rubeenesque" or "teddy bear" that generally mean a writer's more than a little concerned about their weight, for example.

So, ready for a "How to read personals" course? These are straight from the Herald-Leader: SWM, 26, 5'8", looking for a blonde WF for fun and maybe more.

What this guy's saying is, "I want a one-night stand with someone and if you're interesting, I'll maybe keep you around longer."

That's pretty tame, though. How about this one:

Aggressive, financially secure DWM, 34, physically fit, seeks affectionate, attractive, uninhibited, red-haired F, 30-40.

Let's cut to the chase here. This is a man who just got out of a marriage and is looking for an easy score. "Aggressive" is the key word. "Financially secure" = "I'm willing to lay out some cash for a dinner, drinks and a hotel room." "Uninhibited, red haired" = well, I'll leave that to you to figure out.

Or this: WM, 42, very open-minded, seeks F, age/race unimportant, who is looking for excitement and possible relationship.

Easy one. Since he's not an SWM, he's married and going through a mid-life crisis. "Open-minded" and "excitement" mean, "I want to have an affair." The "possible relationship" means he wants a mistress.

Let's not leave the ladies out:

*Looking for my soulmate. SWF 30's, looks 20's, blonde/green, smart, loves everything from fishing, farming, to country western music, opera. **

This one hears her biological clock ticking and is looking to get hitched. She's trying to keep herself attractive but doesn't think she's doing a good enough job. Willing to try making a relationship work at any cost, hence "loves everything."

Alluring SWF, 30, seeks older, generous M friend.

Might as well say it, "Looking for a sugar daddy."

Others can run along these lines. Some bigger cities have whole personals sections devoted to all sorts of, well, "alternative" lifestyles, a few of which get a little frightening. Like this one from the Independent, a magazine from the Durham area that I'd picked up when I was at Duke.

S & M SM seeks petite F who doesn't mind the sight of her own blood.

Yipes! Some folks just get a little carried away, don't you think? Myself, I'm content just to read, and if some people actually do find the love of their lives, more power to 'em.

I wonder what I'd write if I put in a personal ad. Probably something like:

Twentysomething 5'8" SWM volleyball playing rock & roll poet seeks smiling F for new sensation, inspiration, celebration and twitterpation.

Any takers? Later days.

Operation BigSpud

The Recyclists and Potato Growers of Central Kentucky, in keeping with recent efforts to promote sharing and understanding, are in the process of donating a portion of this year's crop. The group's Operation BigSpud is arranging to send one-third of the crop to United Nations representatives in New York to aid the humanitarian efforts in Bosnia. The Potato Growers' officers unanimously voted at the recent meeting to take this action after learning that one of the thirteen new members, Roy Miller, had relatives in the war-torn region. Pictured from left are Gordon Ray Jarrell, Bull Creek (Earth Day chairman); Roy Miller, Athens (Bosnian Relief Effort chairman); Ransom Lafferty, Hippo (president); Estill G. Robinson, Lancer (vice-president); Gary Ferguson, Flat Gap (treasurer); John Brown, Athens (photographer/videographer) and Melvin Osborne, Drift (secretary), who is representing the group at a meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, are not pictured.

Common Wealth

In this column we look at the many ways we can better use our local resources to provide for our families and rebuild our communities.

No More Landfills—Let's Compost!

by Andy McDonald

Although many people compost in their backyards for their gardens, few people realize that composting has the potential to keep us from needing new landfills. This is an important idea because many counties in Eastern Kentucky (and in most other places, too) are having to pay more and more to dump their garbage, and many of the dumps we are using are beginning to leak into groundwater supplies. Groundwater is one of our most precious resources and every new landfill or trash incinerator threatens it even more.

Agriculture department seeks information on tobacco plants

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture is compiling information on the availability of tobacco plants to assist farmers whose crops were damaged by storms. Those seeking to buy or sell plants are urged to contact Tom Bloemer at (502) 564-4696.

"Hopefully we will be able to provide burley farmers with information on where they can find plants," explained Agriculture Commissioner Ed Logsdon. "There is still time to set tobacco, and we realize that there is not a sufficient supply of plants in some areas of the state. We urge anyone with plants to call us so we can pass this along to those needing plants."

Flooding and hail associated with severe storms on June 4 destroyed a significant number of tobacco fields throughout the state.

For these reasons we need alternatives to the old methods of trash disposal. Recycling is one method which has become very popular in recent years, but there are real limits to how much we can recycle. Fortunately nature has its own recycling processes which we can employ to change our used resources into compost, rather than troublesome trash. Since 50 to 80 percent of our waste system is compostable, community-wide composting programs have the potential to drastically reduce the amount of garbage we need to dispose of.

There are currently over 2000 yard waste composting facilities around the country. Yard and kitchen waste (food scraps, vegetable trimmings, etc.) make up about 20 percent of the typical American family's waste stream and are the easiest portions of our trash to compost. Many counties with curbside garbage collection have special pickups just for yard waste and some have even banned it from their landfills to ensure that none of it is wasted.

A few dozen communities have gone beyond yard waste composting and strive to reclaim all of the compostable material in their waste system. This includes all types of paper, cardboard, discarded wood products, food waste from restaurants, and any other biodegradable materials in their garbage. Comprehensive composting programs such as these have successfully reduced the amount of trash their community's need to dispose by 50 percent or more.

Sevierville, TN has a full-scale composting operation which began operating in September of 1992. They use three large rotating drums which can hold up to 75 tons of trash each to begin the composting of their biodegradable garbage. The drums sped up the composting process, which is completed after several weeks of maturing in a large enclosed building. Sevierville has reduced the amount they need to landfill by about 65 percent, and they sell the completed compost to nurseries and other users. Sevierville also composts the county's sewage sludge with their garbage, which takes care of another troublesome disposal problem.

As with any technology, composting is not the perfect solution to our waste problems. In fact, Sevierville's facility is rather troubling because it takes all of the county's waste—compostable and non-compostable's too—and mixes it all together at the beginning of the process. By screening the composted material, they are able to remove metals and much of the other materials which won't compost. However, there are a lot of toxic chemicals, such as the lead in batteries, the solvents in old paint, pesticides, etc., which we throw in the trash that will become part of the compost if we don't remove them from the start. Sevierville is risking having contaminated compost by not separating out its compostables from the start.

Collecting separated compostables (ie, yard waste, paper products) at the source—at everybody's house—is a good way to head off contamination problems. There are ways to compost other than the rather hi-tech method Sevierville uses, as well, which can be simpler and less expensive for communities with more limited means. Many facilities simply grind their source-separated compostables, pile them in rows outdoors, and use tractors to turn the piles on a regular basis. If there is still concern about the safety of the completed compost, it can be used as a cover at existing landfills. Most landfills cover their trash with a layer of soil every day in order to keep odors down and rodents away. Compost that is not suited for agricultural uses can be used for this purpose, and still save on landfill space.

We at ASPI have been working with our local Area Development District (the Cumberland Valley ADD) as it has investigated composting's potential in our region. There is general agreement in our area that landfills and incinerators are a dead end which simply create pollution problems for our children. Composting, on the other hand, is looking more and more like a practical and economical alternative. A regional composting facility would extend the life of our existing landfills, giving us time to improve our recycling and waste reduction programs. As groundwater contamination problems show us, the only real solution to preventing toxic pollution is to stop making toxics. Composting gives us more time to learn how to do that. We have the opportunity to make Eastern Kentucky a safer place for our children to live.

(Andy McDonald works for ASPI, a private, non-profit environmental organization based in Livingston, KY that is committed to making science and technology responsive to the low-income people of Appalachia. For more information, call 453-2105 or write ASPI, Rt. 5, Box 423, Livingston, KY 40445.)

If you see dirt or dust being blown into the air, it could mean a gas pipeline leak, even if you don't smell natural gas. If you suspect a leak, leave the area immediately, warn others to stay away, and call your gas company.

Stored grain workshop will help most farmers

Mr. or Ms. Farmer, do you store any grain for the long term? Intermediate term? How about for just a short time?

If there's a Kentucky farmer who stores grain on the farm for any length of time, a University of Kentucky-sponsored "On-Farm Stored Grain Workshop" will offer useful information, said Doug Johnson, Extension entomologist with the UK's College of Agriculture.

The day-long workshop will be offered July 29 with registration at 8 a.m. at UK's research and education center in Princeton.

"Several sessions will offer information on grain quality, pest management, bin safety and economic considerations for storing grain," Johnson said. "I advise those interested to pre-register as early as possible as enrollment will be limited to the first 75 participants to register."

Those interested in attending the workshop should contact their county Extension agent to pre-register.

The workshop will begin with a discussion on the distribution and relative abundance of insect pests in Kentucky stored grain followed by preventive measures farmers may take to avoid them or to best manage them.

"We also will offer a session on life-preserving techniques to avoid accidents inside the storage bins," Johnson said.

Special session topics include: grain bin fumigation; identification of common pests; live insect samples; insect avoidance management; harvest moisture management; where to look for trouble; commodity outlook; market considerations; and economics of harvested grain management.

A registration fee of $7 covers a catered lunch and workshop materials.

KENTUCKY POWER CUSTOMERS AND EMPLOYEES "THANK YOU"

We've just come through one of the most devastating storms in the company's 74-year history. Nearly 50,000 of our customers in 15 of the 20 counties we serve lost their electrical service in the widespread damage caused by the wind, hail, rain and possible tornadoes the afternoon and evening of Friday, June 4.

Kentucky Power employees joined with 36 contract crews and 7 Columbus Southern Power crews from Ohio working around the clock to replace over 300 broken poles, clear roadways, replace lines, and repair other storm damage necessary to restore electrical service.

We recognize the hardship and inconvenience that the loss of electricity has caused our customers. We want to express our appreciation for your patience and cooperation during this very difficult situation.

Our highest priorities are to assure public safety and then restore electrical service first to hospitals and medical facilities, public works, emergency services and primary electrical circuits that serve the largest number of customers.

Once again, we thank our employees for a job well done...and you for your patience and support.

Quality Education and Christian Values

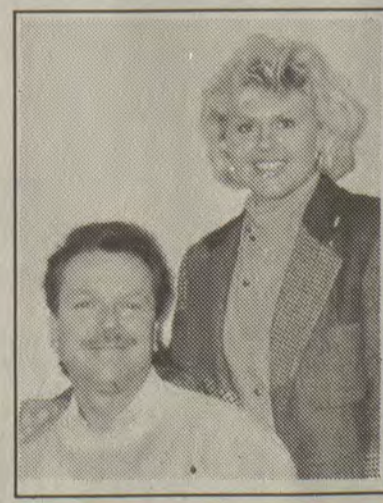

Teri Allen, Allen Four children at MCA

"We chose Mountain Christian Academy for a variety of reasons but primarily for its Christian orientation. We have a Christian home and it is important to us that our children be able to combine the Christian aspect of their lives with their academic education. It means a lot to us that our children can pray at school, have inter-denominational Christian assemblies and Christian Education classes. We find far fewer disciplinary problems at MCA and believe this is due to the Christian standards of the school. The children are challenged academically but, at the same time, allowed to be children."

Terry & Liz Giese Abbott Creek, Prestonsburg Two children at MCA

"We chose Mountain Christian Academy for our preschool and kindergarten children because of the Christian values taught there. Also, the small size of the school assures us of personal attention and care. We know they're safe there."

- Quality Education—all test scores above the national average
- Interdenominational Christian values

Sammons discusses KEY Project with Iowa Workforce Development

Connie Sammons, chair of the Big Sandy Job Service Employer Committee, a group of Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin county business and industry representatives working in coordination with the local Department of Employment Services staff to enhance employment opportunities in these counties, were invited to make a presentation at the Workforce Development Forums which were held in Des Moines, Iowa on May 26-28.

Sammons' topics was the KEY Project (Kentuckians Employing Youth), a program which helped Kentucky in receiving the "National 1992 Outstanding State JSEC Award."

The Workforce Development Forums are a partnership venture developed by the United States Employment Service, the State Employment Security Agencies and a National Planning Committee including members from the private sector, organized labor, training and education and other federal, state and local government partners.

The KEY Project addresses the critical issues facing area businesses and young people entering the job market who are inadequately prepared as viable candidates for employment. Employers in the area, representatives from the local Department of Employment Services and personnel from Prestonsburg Community College enter all area high schools to address sophomore students on the subject of employment readiness and job skills.

Special emphasis is given to positive attitudes, basic skills, staying in school, career choices, post-secondary training, work ethics and the employment process. Over 40 area employers have been involved in this project and over 650 students have been reached this past school year and it is the group's hope to expand the program during the 1993-94 school year.

"We, the employers want to make a difference in education and plan to assist Kentucky Job Services in working with tomorrow's workforce in order to make eastern Kentucky a more attractive place for potential business and industry," said Sammons, a Floyd County native who is married to John D. Sammons, a professor at Prestonsburg Community College. Her two daughters are in the sixth grade at Adams Middle School.

She has been employed by FADA Service Company for 23 years and is currently office manager/controller. FADA Service Company owns three nursing homes in the Floyd/Pike County area and the Holiday Inn in Prestonsburg.

Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance gets best's best

Kentucky Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company has received the highest rating possible, A++, from America's foremost insurance rating service, the A.M. Best Company. Only 4% of the insurance companies in the nation have achieved this A++ rating. Until recently, the highest rating any insurance company could receive was A+.

According to A.M. Best Co., the rating assignment was achieved by maintaining very low expenses from efficient operations, consistent growth in investment income and a strong capital position.

A.M. Best Company has been rating insurance companies since 1906. After evaluating various factors, the rating service issues an independent and objective opinion based on a company's financial strength and ability to meet its obligations.

Kentucky Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company is Kentucky's largest property and casualty company. The Kentucky Farm Bureau Group ranks among the top 110 property/casualty groups in the nation. The Company, founded in 1943, currently has 250 agents with offices in all of Kentucky's 120 counties. The Kentucky Farm Bureau Insurance agents offer a wide range of insurance products from homeowners, farmowners and automobile coverage to life and health insurance.

Toyota sweeps J.D. Power report

Toyota Motor Company took top honors in the J.D. Power & Associates annual report on the best cars and trucks in the United States. The report, an eagerly awaited industry standard, evaluates initial vehicle quality. The Toyota Camry, Paseo, Corolla and Tercel joined Lexus, Toyota's luxury line, to dominate the list in seven of the top ten spots.

The Toyota Camry placed fourth in the top ten, the highest ranking car produced in North America.

Toyota also scored big in auto factory rankings with its Georgetown, Kentucky, Camry plant judged the best North American factory, rising from number three in 1992.

The plant employs 4,400 people and produced 212,700 Camry sedans and 27,300 wagons last year. Mike Daprice, plant manager, credits the success to his plant's employees. "These people are 96 percent Kentuckians and they're turning out the best car in America."

That's no small feat considering the competition for quality—and for customers—in today's automotive climate.

Big Sandy area development district

In the Big Sandy region, the jobless rate climbed from a revised 11.5 percent in March to a preliminary 12.1 percent in April. Local rates ranged from 7.8 percent in Johnson county and 9.6 in Floyd County to 21.4 percent in Magoffin County, one of three counties in the ADD with a double-digit rate.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 40.6 percent had worked in mining, 18.5 percent in construction, 12.2 percent in transportation, communications and utilities, and 10.2 percent in services.

Build Your Dream House

Lakeview 10-079

Associated Designs-Eugene, Oregon

The Lakeview is a vacation home designed to take full advantage of a panoramic view. Built on a plot of beach or lake-front land, this small home lets you continue enjoying the out-of-doors even when you have to come inside.

Stacks of glass fill most of the wall space on three sides of the lofty vaulted great room. Doors on both sides provide cross-ventilation and open onto a covered porch that wraps around this dramatic living area.

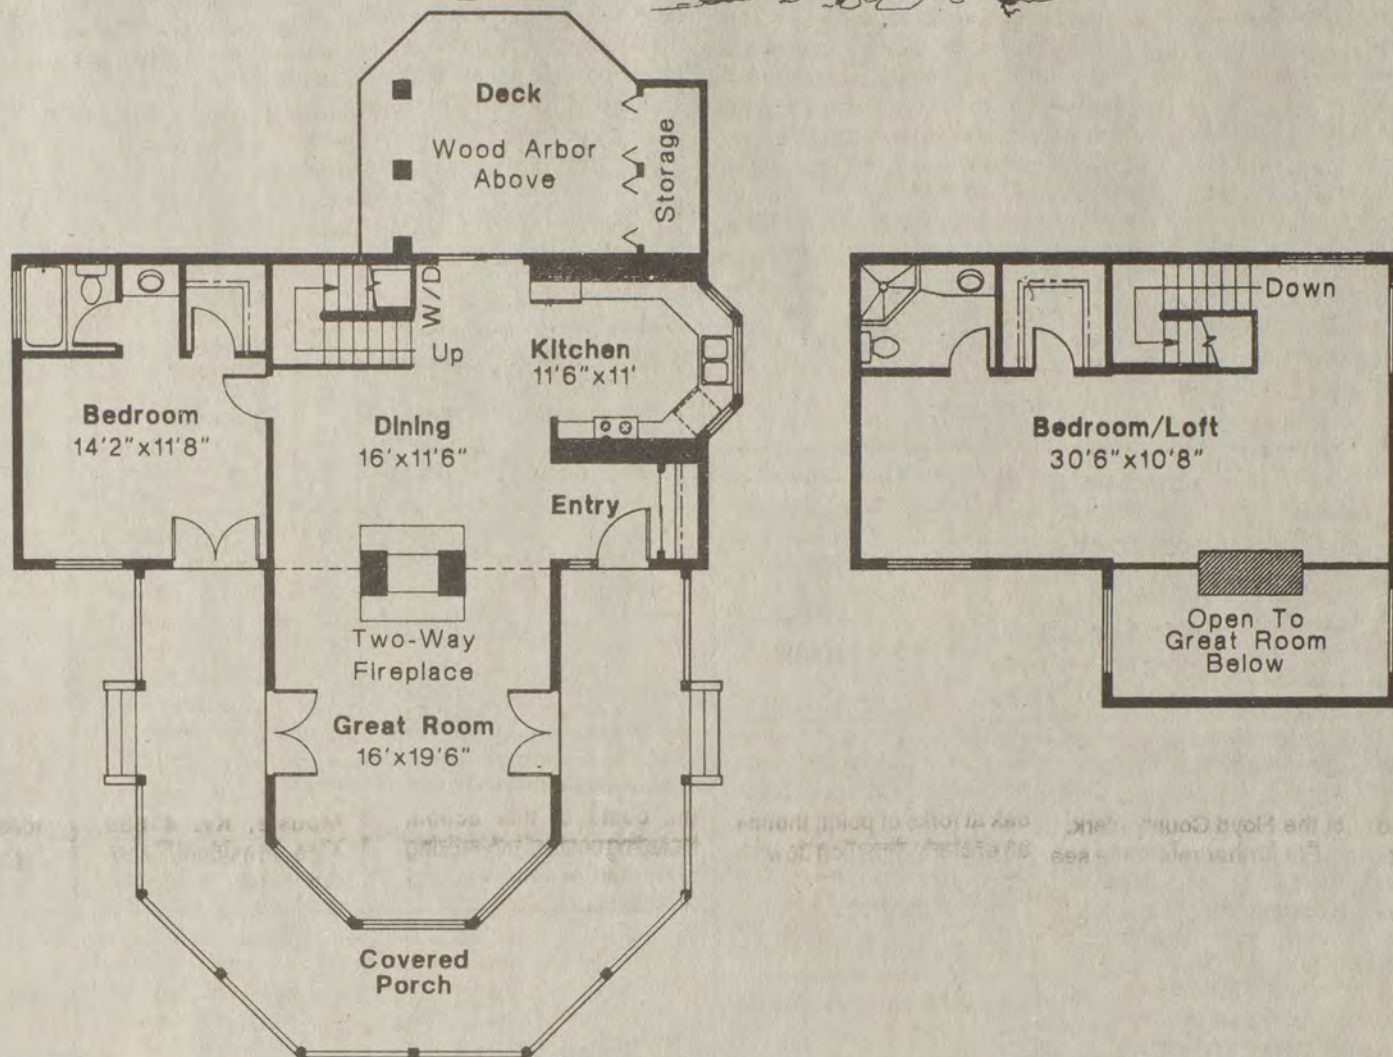

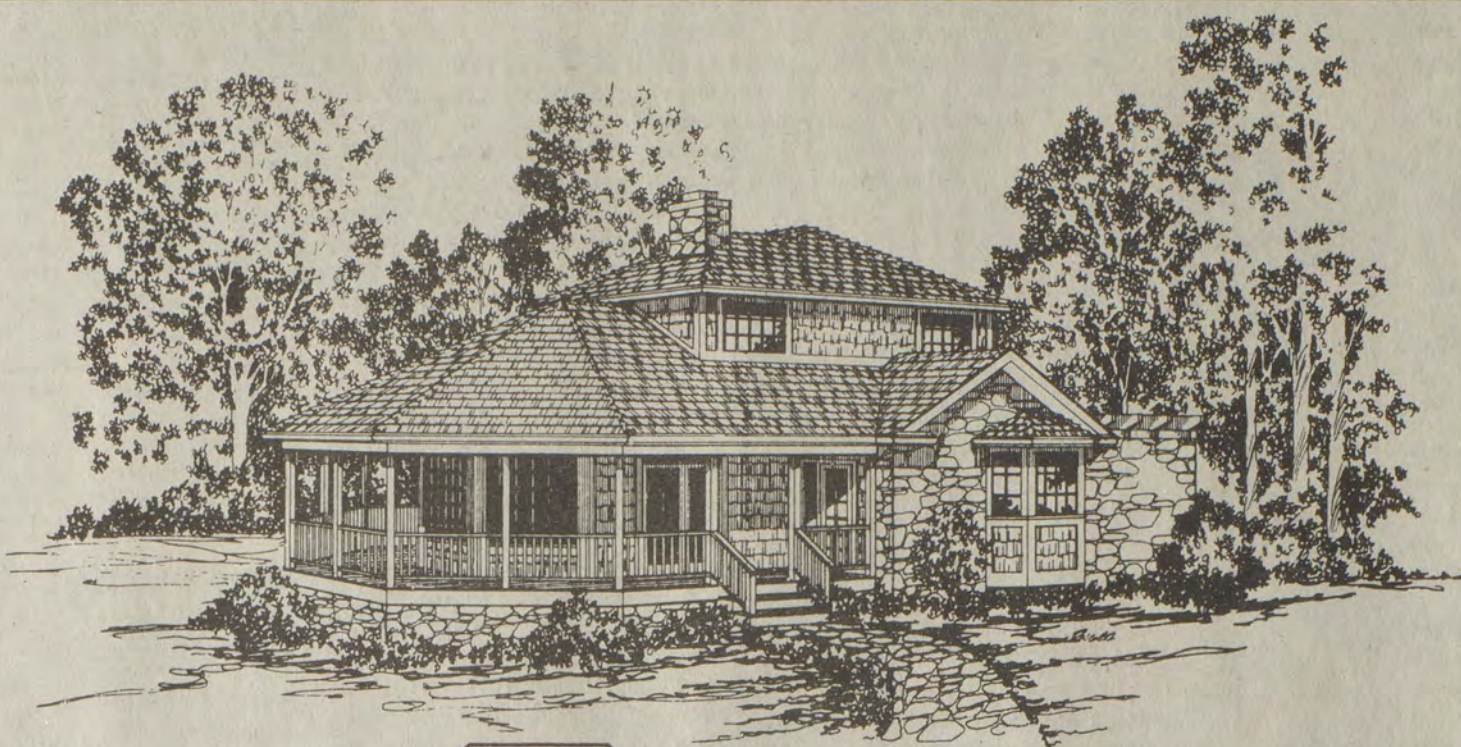

A large fireplace separates the great room from the dining room and serves as a warm focal point on chilly days. The great room ceiling in front of the fireplace goes a full two stories up. The hearth is overlooked from vantage points on either side of the wide chimney that stretches upward by the 2nd floor loft. Outfitted with bunks, the loft can provide additional sleeping space when needed.

The U-shaped kitchen is brightened by a bay window and has plenty of counter space. A compact, piggyback washer/dryer combination is nestled in an alcove under the stairs. Sliding doors open onto a small back deck shaded by a wooden arbor. This area could be screened. A storage area is also conveniently located off the deck.

Both the lower and upper bedrooms have walk-in closets and a bathroom. The upper bathroom is slightly larger and has a shower.

The compartmentalized lower bathroom allows one person to perform grooming activities at the basin while another uses the tub or toilet.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $7.50 to Associated Designs, 1260 Charnelton St., Suite 2, Eugene, Ore. 97401. Please specify the Lakeview 10-079 and include a return address when ordering. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Be Sure Insurance Covers Home Improvements

By Lowell Beck

(NU) - If you add a room to your home or buy an expensive diamond ring or computer system, don't forget to cover the investment by insurance.

In the case of home improvement, be sure the dollar value of your homeowners insurance would cover the cost of replacing your home if it is totally destroyed.

If you buy a diamond ring that exceeds the maximum limit for jewelry in your homeowners insurance, you will want to have an endorsement added to your policy so the ring would be covered.

The same might be true for a computer system or certain other high-priced items, depending on the type of insurance policy you have.

The smart thing to do whenever you make a major purchase or investment of this type is to talk to your insurance agent or representative and be assured that you have the protection you need.

It also is always a good idea to read your insurance policy carefully.

Some homeowners policies, for example, exclude coverage of a computer that is stolen from an unattended motor vehicle. Whether your auto insurance would cover such a theft would depend, again, on the type of policy you have.

Always feel free to discuss these matters with your insurance representative. They're glad to help.

(Lowell Beck is president of the National Association of Independent Insurers, a non-profit trade group of 560 property and casualty insurance companies in the United States.)

ACHS—20 years of change and tradition

by Heather Watson

The Allen Central High School class of 1993 marks a major milestone for the school. This, the twentieth graduating class in the school's history, reflects the traditions that link today's ACHS to past graduates while creating new traditions.

Allen Central High School is obviously deeply rooted in tradition. The school, formed as a consolidation of Garrett, Martin, Maytown and Wayland High Schools, finds many ways to show its devotion to "Rebel Pride." Even as current students pass through the campus, Allen Central's rock gardens, hallway murals and memorials reaffirm students' and teachers' commitment to preserving their memories of the school. "The first landscaping of Allen Central's campus," recalls history teacher Patricia Murphy, "was during the 1970's, a combined project of the Beta Club and Lowell Martin's SWAY Science Club. The students actually spent their weekends cutting trees and doing backhoe work."

If tradition is an integral element of Allen Central High School, then change is the most important tradition carried on by the school. With each entering class, Allen Central, like any other modern learning facility, adapts to new philosophies and technologies. Not only the physical campus has evolved since 1973—Allen Central offers a broader curriculum and greater variety of extracurricular activities than ever before.

The twentieth senior class will soon leave Allen Central High School. This group of students will continue Allen Central's customs and legacy, but will also continue to introduce new honors to the school. The 1993 senior class, which includes the school's all-time 3 point shot basketball record holder, as well as Allen Central's first National Merit Finalist, is an excellent example of AC's continued success.

While individuals' memories of Allen Central High School vary according to involvement with such activities as academic competition, athletics or the school's band, perpetual change is common to Allen Central's history. Allen Central's clubs and activities are continually changing to reflect new styles and ideas.

The history of Betsy Layne High School

by Language Arts Department
Betsy Layne High School began in humble circumstances, housed in one room of the Pike-Floyd Coal Building in Pike-Floyd Hollow. The school conducted its first classes in 1925, teaching thirty students the basic subjects of algebra, English, history and science.

The principal, Ishmael Triplett, not only served as administrator of the school, but also was the only teacher. The following year, F.A. Maggard succeeded Triplett as principal and in 1927 two new teachers, both from Berea College, were added to the staff.

In January of 1928, in that same school year, a new ten-room, brick school building was dedicated as Betsy Layne High School and remained as such until it burned.

The period between 1928 and 1930 was one of expansion. During this time the first graduating class of two members became the first alumni. A new gymnasium was also erected during this time period and the first BLHS band was formed under the direction of Jesse Elliot, a major force in bringing music to the school children of Eastern Kentucky.

Maggard continued as principal until 1934 when he was succeeded by Maurice Baker, then E.B. Lewis and finally in 1936 by D.W. Howard. Howard opened the third structure of BLHS in 1939 on the riverbank of Betsy Layne bottom. The old, red brick building housed the students of Betsy Layne High until 1982 when the school was relocated on "The Hill" in Stanville. Despite the address change, the name of Betsy Layne High School was retained, because so many members of the community look upon their days at BLHS as the finest years of their youth.

The name D.W. Howard was synonymous with Betsy Layne High School for the next thirty-three years. He retired in the spring of 1969. Howard commanded much love and respect from his students and former students through the years. He was remembered by his school in the dedication of the Betsy Layne gym as "The D.W. Howard Fieldhouse." The principals following Mr. Howard are Oscar "Chig" Bush, James Bowling, Gene Davis, Russell M. Frazier, Gene Davis, second term, Adrian Bentley and finally the current principal, Alan Osborne.

Floyd students awarded ALC Memorial Scholarship

Two Floyd County students are the recipients of Alice Lloyd College's most prestigious scholarships, the Memorial Scholarship.

Jennifer Lynn Ousley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ousley of Allen, and Michael Paul Damron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Damron of Weeksbury, have accepted the Memorial Scholarship for the 1993-94 school year as incoming freshmen.

Ousley is a senior at Prestonsburg High School. Damron is a senior at Wheelwright High School.

The Memorial Scholarship guarantees the student room, board and tuition expenses at Alice Lloyd College for the academic year. The scholarship is the equivalent of an annual grant of $9,110. The scholarship will remain in effect each succeeding year for four years so long as the student pursues 15 credit hours each semester at Alice Lloyd College and maintains at least a 3.0 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale), "B" average.

Your graduation is quite an accomplishment. You worked long and hard for it, and we wish you all the best in the years to come.

History of McDowell High School

In the year of 1932, a two-story brick building was constructed to house the newly formed McDowell High School. This building later became a grade school facility and was torn down in 1974 to make way for the Grigsby Fieldhouse. The first high school graduation took place in 1934; the first principal was Town Hall, who later became Superintendent of Floyd County Schools. McDowell was the first school to hold its own graduation. The first senior trip was in 1935 when a group of students climbed into the back of a pickup truck and started to Pine Mountain.

In 1938, the present school building was constructed, giving the school a library, an auditorium, a home ec. department, and indoor restrooms. Later the community provided the logs and labor, and "Saw-loggin" Doug Hayes donated the land and the use of his saw mill for the construction of the old white gym. During the 50's, Principal George L. Moore, some parents, and students tore down a building at Ligon and re-constructed it on McDowell's campus for the first lunch room.

Principals of McDowell have been the following: Town Hall, Boone Hall, William Martin, George L. Moore, Lloyd Stumbo, Hugo E. Miller, Gary Frazier, Bob Hall, Phil Paige, and Don Daniels.

Teachers who have stayed at McDowell longer than 20 years are Violet Moore, Francis Turner, Ruby Akers, Adrian Hall, Olive R. Hall, Kenneth Akers, Barry Martin, Bobby Allen, Nellie Moore, Estill Hall, Nannie Hall, Sally Miller, Bobbie L. Moore, and Joan Caldwell. Nannie Hall was the first full-time librarian followed by Millie Martin. Adrian Hall was the first guidance counselor followed by Bob Hall and Janet Lawson. Olive Hall became the first full-time music teacher, followed by Edith Hopkins, David Grigsby, Libbi Hall, Kay Scutchfield, July Looney, and Jeannette Oldaker. Art teachers have been Carlos Neely, Sally Miller, Johnny Stumbo, and Jeff Stratton.

Coaches who have led the Daredevils to glory have been the following: Wiley Jones, Clive Akers, Estill Hall, Adrian Hall, Pete Grigsby, Jr., David Turner, Jerry Fultz, Rick Hall, and Johnny Turner. Lady Daredevils have been coached by the following: Clive Akers, Olive Hall, Bobbie L. Moore, Johnny Turner, Doug Derossett, Meredith Slone, Cassandra Keathley, and Jimmy Hopkins. The Devils have gone to the State Tournament three times during the coaching years of Pete Grigsby, Jr.

During the 1940's and 1950's, Booster Club members were chosen. In 1938-39, Juniors and Seniors were given a banquet. In 1950, the school had the first prom. In 1951, the first athletic banquet was held, and in 1959, the first Honor Banquet was given for the honor students and their parents. In 1949 the first majorettes were chosen; in 1976, the first drama group was formed; and in 1986, the first computer class was offered.

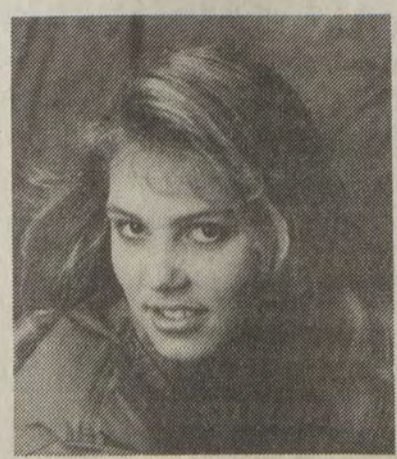

School consists of many things besides classes, books, tests, and gradecards. Most of the memories that we will carry with us will be those of decorating for the prom, getting ready for a banquet, taking a class trip, having a monthly movie, going to a pep rally, or even learning to kill a chicken out behind the Rock Building during the 40's in order to get ready for a Halloween Carnival. In other words, un-academic things, but these events are important ones that make school fun and make moments to remember.

When school begins in the fall of 1993, citizens of the McDowell High School Community will awaken to a new and strange phenomenon: McDowell High School will no longer exist! What more can we say, except to offer our sincere thanks to McDowell High School for the nourishing of our minds, our bodies, and our spirits. We will miss the security that was offered through the years. We will miss the closeness that bonded our community together. We will miss the sense of pride that was given to our community. We have rejoiced with one voice for every accomplishment. We have shared the pain of sickness and death. We have been as one with the school for so many years that we will have difficulty in coping with our loss. Saying good-bye is much too painful, yet we will endure. Thank you, McDowell High School, for all the good memories that will live in the hearts and minds of all who have shared in the dream. These people will pass the legend down to future generations. In this way McDowell High School will continue. For you have indeed... TOUCHED THE FUTURE.

Mullins receives ASF scholarship

Kristy L. Mullins

The Appalachian Student Fund has selected Kristy L. Mullins as a recipient of a scholarship loan of $2,000 for the academic year 1993-94. Recipients may attend the college or university of their choice, but must repay the loan with interest if they do not return to one of the 40 counties of Appalachian Kentucky. If they do return to one of the 40 counties to live and work, one year of the loan is forgiven for each year they work in eastern Kentucky.

Mullins is the daughter of Gary and Linda Mullins of Hi Hat. She will graduate from McDowell High School this spring. She was a leader in many extracurricular activities, had a very high grade point average and had high evaluations from references.

Applicants were chosen based on their leadership qualities, anticipated major, character, grade point average, ACT score, references, income and a personal account of reasons why they deserve the loan. The objective of Appalachian Student Fund is to retain tomorrow's leaders in eastern Kentucky through loans designed to fund a portion of their education.

ASF, a non-profit group, was organized in 1990. Most of the funds have been solicited from individuals and companies in eastern Kentucky. During the first two years, ASF has been able to award nearly $90,000 to 34 high school graduates in the region.

Nine receive degrees from EKV

Nine Floyd County students received degrees from Eastern Kentucky University at the end of EKV's spring semester.

They were among about 2,100 graduates honored at the University's 86th spring commencement ceremony held Saturday, May 8, at Roy Kidd Stadium. That number includes 810 December graduates who were invited to participate in the ceremony.

Local EKV graduates include: Kristina E. Bevins of Printer, bachelors in mathematics; Tommy Ray Craft of Garrett, masters in English; Dwayne Doug Johnson of Teaberry, bachelors in physical education, K-12; Ernie Floyd Lafferty of Prestonsburg, bachelors in police administration; Michael Lloyd Lyons of Richmond, bachelors in fire/arson investigation; Raina Dawn Phillips of Betsy Layne, bachelors in early elementary education, K-4; Carolyn Short of Allen, bachelors in aircraft professional pilot; Timothy Trusty of East Point, bachelors in police administration; and Michael Vaughan of Prestonsburg, associate in computer aided drafting.

Four Floyd students earn Transy degrees

Four students from Floyd County received bachelor of arts degrees from Transylvania University during commencement May 29. They are Clasissa Short, a graduate of Prestonsburg High School; Keith Phillip Webb and Larry M. Leslie II, graduates of June Buchanan School; and William Sheldon Terry, a graduate of Allen Central High School.

Transylvania, located in Lexington, was founded in 1780 and is the nation's sixteenth oldest institution of higher learning.

Bible institute becomes Prestonsburg High School

In 1918, Floyd County superintendent Tilden Collins proposed that the city of Prestonsburg and the county buy the Prestonsburg Bible Institute and have a joint high school.

Four years later, the city bought the county's interest. The city tore down the building in 1940 and Prestonsburg Grade School was built. For many years after that, the school was known as Floyd County and Prestonsburg High School. The majority of the classes were taught at the Floyd County High School building, now the administration building, and students would go to the grade school building for music, band, home economics and science classes.

In 1954, the Prestonsburg Board of Education merged with the Floyd County Board and plans for a new high school were made. The name under a picture of the school indicates it was called the Floyd County High School. It was sometime during this period that the name was permanently changed to Prestonsburg High School.

In 1954, the city of Prestonsburg voted a bond issue and the citizens of Prestonsburg, through taxes, built and paid for the gym constructed adjacent to the high school.

Prestonsburg High School has been noted for excellence. Academically it has ranked among the best in the state and its alumni can be found in all walks of life. In athletics, from football to track, the school has many championship trophies, including the 1989 regional championship. Its academic teams, drama teams and honor choirs have won many awards. Its National Honor Society founded by Lillian McDonald is one of the oldest chapters in the state.

Past and present teachers and principals have worked to keep the flame of education burning bright and the standard high at PHS.

Memories of Wheelwright High School

by Kim Curry-Tackett
Class of '79

Fourteen years have passed since I walked down those hallways of Wheelwright High School to change class or to the gym to practice ball.

I will always remember putting on my Lady Trojan uniform for the first time with pride and taking it off for the last time with tears.

The school song that played for my dad, uncle, husband, sisters and for me will be in my memory forever. I'll remember Shorty Jamerson walking us to class, the 1977 football team singing their hearts out after one of their many wins and Mr. Newman's whisper when we got too loud in Biology.

I will never forget Doris Osborne's quote of the week or her encouragement, Mrs. Woody's homeroom call,

Mr. Jones never raising his voice but just giving us "the look", Brody's Chemistry experiments, Ms. Stumbo expecting nothing but our very best, the first Trojan Warrior and coach Daniels' stare as I walked down the steps with his quarterback!

I now have two daughters of my own getting ready for the high school adventure. Part of me wishes they would know that "Trojan Pride" and the feeling of closeness to your classmates and teachers. The other part knows life goes on and their adventures will be on the hill and the roars will be for the South Floyd High Raiders. But in my heart, I will always be a Trojan.

To the Wheelwright High School faculty, class of 1979 and the classes before and after, God bless you.

To the future students of South Floyd High, you have Trojan blood and Daredevil blood...be proud!

Robinson awarded UK College of Agriculture Scholarship

Tara Robinson of Prestonsburg has been awarded a scholarship by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. She will be a freshman this fall.

"Scholarships are awarded to students who have strong scholarship skills and show potential for leadership," said John Robertson, associate dean of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Robinson was awarded the College of Agriculture Phone-A-Thon Scholarship. She will be majoring in pre-veterinary medicine at UK this fall. She has been involved in a variety of activities while in high school, including Beta Club, National Honor Society and the Drama Club, among others.

Slone named valedictorian at June Buchanan

Valedictorian

Rod Slone of Garrett presents the valedictorian address at the June Buchanan School. He and Maya Nayak of Perry County, also received one of the highest academic awards in the country as they both received National Merit Scholarships. This is a remarkable accomplishment for the school and the students. There were only 31 given in the state of Kentucky and only four students in all of Lexington received the scholarships.

Friday, May 14, was graduation day for the senior class of June Buchanan School in Pippa Passes. Two valedictorians, Maya Nayak and Rodney Daryl Slone, were named since both attained perfect 4.00 grade point averages.

Both were also named as National Merit Scholars. Nayak spoke of the friendship shared by the class of 1993. Slone challenged each of his classmates to face life head on with the strength of God. Salutatorian Milton Trent Spurlock encouraged his classmates to use their talents to change the world.

Rev. Michael Caudill, pastor, Hindman First Baptist Church, gave the Baccalaureate address. Hilda Gay Legg, a member of the Appalachian Regional Commission, was the commencement speaker. After a musical presentation by senior Jack David Toliver, Otis Balkcom, Dean of the June Buchanan School, and M. Fred Mullinax, president of Alice Lloyd College, awarded the diplomas.

Other graduating seniors were Matthew Benjamin Gilmore, Deedra Lynne Godsey, Carrie Ann Goodrich, Charles Jasey Maggard, Mary Elizabeth Mitchell, Suneel Marra, Jonathan Edward New, Joseph Thomas Pace, Trina Danelle Ratliff, Misty Lee Slone, Elizabeth Joyal Smith, Tiffany René Smith, Pamela Kaye Sparkman and Robyn Lynn Sparkman.

Floyd students receive degrees at Berea

Four graduates of area high schools were among the 226 seniors who received degrees from Berea College on May 23. An additional 18 students who expect to complete degree requirements this summer also were recognized at the outdoor graduation ceremony.

Prestonsburg High graduate Chris Haley was awarded a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics. He is the son of Mrs. Wilma Haley of Prestonsburg.

Jackie Hall, a graduate of Betsy Layne High School, received a bachelor of arts degree in child development. She is the daughter of Phynetta Hall of Grethel and Hershel Hall of Wakeman, Ohio.

McDowell High graduate William Michael Nalle was the recipient of a bachelor of arts degree in art. A dean's list student at Berea, he is the son of Scarlett Wallen of Minnie and Bruce Nalle of Ashland.

Patricia Tackett, also a graduate of McDowell High School, was awarded a bachelor of arts degree in biology. Her parents are Donald and Shirley Tackett of Williston, Florida.

Wells, Williams awarded U.K. scholarships

Teresa Wells

Two students from Prestonsburg Community College have been awarded academic achievement scholarships to attend the University of Kentucky this fall.

"Because of the increasing number of academically gifted students who choose to attend the University of Kentucky each year, we continue to grow as the premier institution of higher education in the Commonwealth," said UK President Charles T. Wethington Jr.

The Prestonsburg students are James Alan Williams of Dana, son of Keith and Donna Williams, was awarded a Commonwealth Scholarship valued at $5,000 over two years.

Teresa Wells, wife of Mike Wells of Dwayne, was awarded a Chancellor's Scholarship valued at $1,000 per year.

She is the daughter of Bill and Ruth Allene Campbell and the granddaughter of the late Sam B. and Minnie Castle of Thealka.

BORROWING 101

Freshman year may be when many college students learn about credit. Not academic units—spending now and paying later.

But charge and credit cards differ. A charge card, like Diner's Club or American Express, must be paid in full each month, so students are less likely to spend more than they can pay off quickly. With a credit card, like Visa or MasterCard, charges are paid over a number of month, and interest accumulates on the unpaid balance.

Congratulations
