Mayor disputes give-away claim

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta has disputed reports made by county officials that she promised to donate the city's municipal parking lot as the site for a multi-million dollar government center.

During discussions at Friday's Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting concerning a proposed government center to be built on the city's parking lot, Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said that Mayor Latta had promised to donate the property in "1990 or 91" for the project.

Mayor Latta said Thursday that Hammond's statement was not true.

"I never, never in Jim Hammond's wildest dreams did I ever offer to give that parking lot to the county," Latta said Thursday. "In fact, in 1990 and '91 we were talking about building the Kentucky Opry, the Mountain Arts Center on that parking lot. I don't have the power to do such a thing. Any disposition of that parking lot is going to be up to the city council. I really think some people are trying to play politics with this."

"The county would purchase that parking lot, that's always been the understanding," Latta said. "No deal has been struck. The council knows everything that has been done."

Weight-limit proposals may mean detour for coal haulers

Proposed extended-weight changes in the state's coal haulage routes under consideration by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet are weighing heavily on the minds of area coal haulers.

Currently, Kentucky state law allows trucks to haul up to 120,000 pounds of coal on most state roadways. If a new Transportation Cabinet proposal is enacted, trucks would only be able to haul roughly 80,000 and would be barred from travel on U.S. 23 through Paintsville, the nation's busiest coal-haul route, and the Bluegrass Parkway, used by Eastern Kentucky truckers to haul coal to Louisville.

Although other routes are being added to the system, a Transportation Cabinet spokesperson told reporters this week, "For every mile of road that's going on (the extended-weight system), we've got two and a half miles going off."

Coal industry leaders such as Kentucky Coal Association Vice President Bill Caylor have said publicly that they fear the proposed changes would cause increased traffic difficulties and accidents and could ultimately force many mines to shut down.

The Transportation Cabinet was scheduled to conduct a public hearing Thursday on the proposed 80-page addendum to the coal-haul road system, but the meeting was postponed.

Outside assistance is sought for developing fitness center at PCC

Prestonsburg Community College President Dr. Deborah Floyd enlisted the help of some heavy hitters this week in combatting cuts in the college's budget and constructing a new regional health center on the PCC campus.

Floyd met Wednesday with House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo; Kentucky state Senator Benny Ray Bailey; the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Public Properties Corporation; and the Floyd County Development Authority to pitch a proposed Regional Center for Health Education and Wellness.

The center, she said, would "improve the overall economic health of the region by creating jobs, improving the quality of life, enhancing tourism, and creating educational training opportunities for residents."

It would house health education programs, rural health initiatives, wellness programs, classrooms and a comprehensive community center, Floyd said, helping to enhance the health and allied health offerings of the college and providing badly-needed jobs.

The proposed facility, when completed, would be approximately 165,000 square feet and cost roughly $17 million to build in two phases, Floyd said.

However, Floyd added, although the University of Kentucky has encouraged the state's affiliated community colleges to undertake ambitious programs such as PCC's Project Star: Strategic Advancement for Results, U.K. continues to absorb ever greater portions of the community college system's state appropriations. At the same time, she said, enrollment continues to climb; PCC's area services are continually expanding; the campus continues to boast a faculty including the most highly educated professors in the state's community college system although they rank next to last in wages; and roughly 70 percent of PCC's students receive some form of financial aid and most still have unmet needs.

Stumbo and Bailey promised to provide legislative assistance Thursday, but added that their efforts might be hindered by other interests.

"I don't want to sound discouraging," Bailey said. "It's just going to be tough in this budget period to get anything.... Understand that in order to get that money, I've got to take it out of the University of Kentucky budget...."

Currently, Floyd said, PCC is exploring alternate means of financial assistance through private fund-raising and the creation of a general endowment.

Cuts could be a pain for schools

by Susan Allen

A $700,000 to $800,000 shortfall is expected in the Floyd County school district's state funding next year because of a projected $200 million deficit in the state's budget.

The news of a budget cut comes at a critical time in the Floyd school system with a decision remaining to be made on next year's salary schedule for certified and classified personnel.

At Tuesday's school board meeting, superintendent Steve Towler told board members that he has been meeting with state education officials to determine the exact amount of funding that is expected to be cut from next year's budget.

As of Tuesday, Towler said that the local district should plan on reducing spending by two percent, which is the amount of a funding reduction state officials are anticipating.

Towler said that he would be meeting Wednesday and Thursday with state officials in an attempt to get a

Jailer-elect indicted on arson count

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's jailer-elect was indicted Wednesday by a Floyd County Grand Jury on two charges of second degree complicity to commit arson.

The grand jury charged that Roger Webb allegedly conspired with Sam Shepherd and Rick Blevins in November 1988 and February 1989 to burn the homes of Bill Delong and Columbus Stone.

Webb beat out 13 other candidates in the May primary election to win the Democratic nomination for jailer in November's election. There are no Republican candidates running for that office and Webb is scheduled to take office in January.

Three other persons were indicted in connection with the charges against Webb, including Roger Parsons, Willie A. Delong and Columbus Stone.

Parsons is charged with second degree conspiracy to commit arson for allegedly assisting Webb and Delong in the removal of furniture from Delong's residence with the intent to commit a crime.

Delong is charged with second degree arson for allegedly starting a fire in a building he owned with the intent to destroy the building to collect insurance proceeds.

Stone is charged with second degree arson for allegedly starting a fire in a building he owned with the intent to destroy the building to collect insurance proceeds. Stone is also charged with first degree forgery for allegedly altering a fire incident report issued by the Prestonsburg Fire Department with the intent to defraud his insurance carrier.

The grand jury also returned two murder indictments and one reckless homicide true bill Wednesday.

Larry Dean Robinson was charged with murder in the Memorial Day weekend death of William K. Rose.

Robinson is accused of running over Rose with a vehicle at Banner on May 29.

Police said that Robinson had stalked Rose and Rose's estranged wife, Mary, for several hours before Rose died. Robinson claims that he was scared when Rose got out of his vehicle and walked toward him. Robinson claims that he hit the accelerator instead of the brake by mis-

Contrary to rumors, a county official said Thursday, plans to recruit a multi-million dollar manufacturing plant are moving ahead full steam, rather than having stopped dead in the waters.

The Floyd County Development Authority announced last month that RND Design Incorporated, a Chula Vista, California-based lighting system manufacturing plant, had entered the final phase of transferring its operations to the old United Supply building at Martin, currently owned by the Big Rock, Virginia-based United Coal Company.

Initially, Development Authority Executive Director Darrell Gilliam said last month, the new company will employ 150 laborers, with plans to expand in excess of 300 employees within its first three years of operations.

According to a letter from RND Design President Ralph L. Bowen, Ten-year-old Virginia Shepherd of Hueysville is becoming a celebrity.

For the past two years in June, she has appeared on the University of Kentucky's Children's Miracle Network Telethon live from WYMT-TV in Hazard. And in early June, she was featured in a Lexington Herald-Leader advertising supplement which focused on the University of Kentucky Hospital Pediatric Program and the Children's Miracle Network Telethon.

Virginia suffers from Crohn's disease, a rare inflammatory bowel disease that once threatened her life. Today, Virginia is the picture of health, with rosy cheeks and slightly plump body. She gives credit for her recovery to the University of Kentucky Medical Center. "I was sick and UK saved my life," she said in a recent interview with her mother, Janet, at the Times.

Two years ago, Virginia weighed a mere 52 pounds and she was pale and sickly. She ate very little, complained of stomach aches and had chronic bloody diarrhea. Her parents, Gorman and Janet Shepherd, knew something was wrong. But their family doctor insisted that Virginia was a normal healthy child. They took him at his word.

"We just didn't realize how weak she was," said Janet, who is a teacher at Prestonsburg High to give certified personnel a one percent increase and a three percent increase to classified personnel.

Finance director David Johnson said it would cost approximately $1.2 million to give the increases. Johnson said that the only places to make cuts in the already tight budget without taking money from instructional needs would be in capital outlay spending and maintenance.

If money is taken from the capital outlay accounts, Johnson said, less Mayor Latta said that about three months ago she had discussed the government center with Judge-executive John M. Stumbo, Hammond and Harry Hoffman, representative for the Administrative Office of Courts.

"What we decided at that meeting was that the city would have appraisals done of that property," Latta said. "We would return with those appraisals and then we would discuss it. This has been thoroughly discussed with the council."

Latta said the idea of building a government center on the parking lot was discussed with council several months ago during a closed session at a city council meeting. Latta said council agreed to obtain two appraisals on the parking lot, but she was not aware that plans for the proposed facility had been finished.

"I have no idea what the county is doing on it," Latta said. "They were going to go ahead with some planning, yes. Because Judge Stumbo and I were under the impression that we would be able to work something out that would be mutually beneficial to the city and the county."

"I hope that we can come to some type of agreement on it," Latta said. "I would think the council would be in favor of this if we get a reasonable price and reasonable appraisal for it. That would do so much for the downtown."

A call to Hammond Thursday was not returned.

The proposed government center is expected to be the topic of discussion at Monday's Prestonsburg City Council meeting. The council meets at 6 p.m. at city hall. The meeting is open to the public.

School. "She was always such a tiny little thing. She didn't complain about her stomach hurting because she was used to it."

"I looked at food and told mom to fix some and then I took about two bites," Virginia said.

Since the diagnosis of her daughter's illness in July, 1991, Janet has learned more about Crohn's disease. "When I read the characteristics of Crohn's disease, I realize I have should know that something was wrong. Children with Crohn's are smaller than usual and they don't outgrow their clothes. Virginia kept her clothes for three years and didn't outgrow them. At the time I thought, 'This is great.'"

"When we look back, we could see she was sick for years," Janet said.

It was the concern of friends at Garrett First Baptist Church that finally alerted the Shepherds.

"We went to church," Janet said, "and everybody kept saying, 'Is she sick? She looks so pale.' I thought, 'How did they know she's been sick?'"

The next day the Shepherds took Virginia to another doctor.

"We took her to Dr. Terry Wright at Martin," she said. "His nurse looked at Virginia and immediately called for the doctor. He looked at her and said, 'Send her to the hospital.'"

Virginia had blood tests at Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin and the results were startling. Doctors told Janet that if Virginia had passed out "she probably would have gone into heart failure because her blood was so low," Janet recalled. On OLW's recommendation "we took her right on to UK hospital," Janet said.

Once Virginia was admitted into UK Medical Center, she was referred to Dr. Robert Dillard, a pediatric gastroenterologist. After initial tests, Dr. Dillard used a special diagnostic tool, a fiber optic endoscopy, to examine her intestinal tract. His examination revealed that, due to chronic irritation, her bowels were bright red instead of the normal pink.

"The doctor said she had all the symptoms of Crohn's disease," Janet said. "Her stomach had been worked so much from food and he wanted to give her bowels a chance to rest," Janet said. So Virginia was tube fed a nutrient mix 24-hours a day for a week.

"After a week in the hospital, they let her start to eat," Janet said.

"She gained a little weight and she started to feel better. When she came home, she was on the tube for up to a month." She added, "A lot of prayer went out for her while she was in the hospital. I see now that she could have died."

Virginia is in remission now. But because there is no cure for, or known cause of Crohn's disease, Virginia will live with chronic flare-ups the rest of her life.

"The doctor told us that the only thing predictable about Crohn's is that it's unpredictable," Janet said.

Virginia's treatment includes avoiding spicy foods her stomach cannot tolerate, such as barbecue potato chips, and taking regular doses of vitamins and prednisone, a drug that controls the inflammation of her bowels. Every six weeks, she visits Dr. Dillard for a check up. Otherwise, except for occasional flare-ups, Virginia leads a normal life.

"She does whatever she wants to," Janet said. "Her medicine makes her ravenous. When she goes to McDonald's, she eats two big Macs. When she goes off her medicine, her appetite becomes normal. She handles it well. The most remarkable thing is how her looks have changed so much. My sister looked at her pictures from a few years ago and she said, 'You can tell she was sick.'"

Virginia also has the support of her brother, Ryan, 19, and her grandparents, Shelby and Virginia Draughn of Garrett and Mabel Shepherd of Hueysville.

Despite her illness, Virginia has maintained a high grade-point average at Duff Elementary.

"I made a B this year — my second B in my whole life — in science. I'm not too good in science," Virginia said.

And she has decided on a career. "Virginia wants to be a pediatric doctor," said Janet. "She loves babies. She goes to see them when she's at the hospital."

As a result of her appearances on the Miracle Network Telethons, Virginia has become an inspiration for other children who are ill, including a classmate who has cancer.

"In my classroom, one girl in class has a gland with cancer. She wrote me a letter and said she saw me on TV and I looked pretty," she grinned.

Sometimes it's nice being a celebrity.

Project review is offered

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An independent architectural firm's overview of several school construction projects in Floyd County suggests that if contractors "hustle," the South Floyd High School academic building should be complete in time to use for the 1993-94 school year.

Mark Ryles, representing the firm of Ross-Feldman Architecture, told board members Tuesday that if the board approved several change orders on the project, to be presented after Ryles' presentation, the school could be open for the fall term.

The board approved over $50,000 in change orders on the school project which included painting; installing a heavy-duty rubber tread on the stair system; extending the administrative and conference areas; installation of additional lighting; and relocation of windows.

Ryles said that work on the entrance area would take about six to eight weeks to complete which creates a tight deadline for the school to open on time.

Also Tuesday, Ryles reported that a classroom and technology lab addition at the Adams Middle School would not be finished until after Christmas break of the 1993-94 school year.

A settlement problem at the middle school is under review by the soils engineer, Alan Little of Bowser-Morner, Ryles reported.

Middle school architect Randy Burchett told the board that Little had not reinspected the settlement problem, but was scheduled to do so this summer.

Board member Eddie Billips told Burchett to "put the pressure" on the engineering firm to determine who is responsible for the settlement problem.

"It's been nearly three years (since the problem was discovered) and it's past time to draw a conclusion and go for it," Billips told Burchett. "Either put the pressure on (Little) to find out (who's at fault) or he can get gone. Then we'll get someone in here to draw some conclusions."

Burchett indicated that he would relay Billips' comments to the engineer.

In other construction issues:

• Ryles reported that on June 16, Burchett, architect for the Allen Central track project, did not have any drawings available on the facility. Ryles said that if work on the facility did not start by mid-July the track would not be ready by the fall. Burchett said that when Ryles stopped by his office to view the plans, "the plans were in the computer" and that he was not "a computer person."

• Ryles reported that the firm had not been able to complete a report on the Betsy Layne 21-classroom addition project. He said a report would be given at the next school board meeting.

Cuts

money would be available for new construction in the district, specifically a new running track at Allen Central High School. If money is drawn from the maintenance department, it would limit the amount of major repairs that could be performed at some of the schools in the district, Johnson added.

Billips suggested that the district look more toward a "flat" dollar amount increase for employees rather than an increase based on a percentage if an increase is possible at all.

"The people at the top won't like it, but the last person would enjoy it," Billips said.

The board was expected to address the issue at Thursday's continued meeting.

In other action Tuesday, the board reaffirmed its reorganization plan for the district's central office.

Three school administrators, whose jobs were eliminated under the plan, filed a lawsuit against the school board claiming the state's Open Meetings Law was violated because the issue was discussed in closed session. The administrators also filed an appeal with the state's attorney general for a ruling on the issue.

Floyd County Circuit Judge Harold Stumbo last week signed a restraining order prohibiting the implementation of the plan. No hearing date has been set in the case.

The three administrators, Pete Grigsby Jr., Tommy Thompson and Wayne Ratliff also filed a federal lawsuit against the board and Towler because of the reorganization plan.

Under the plan, four administrative positions were eliminated; four positions were created; and the positions were renamed.

State education officials recommended the board develop the plan after an extensive investigation into the system last year.

Also Tuesday:

• the board took no on a proposal to lease office space in downtown Prestonsburg to relocate the central office instructional department;

• the board agreed to proceed with a plan to locate an alternative school in the county with an estimated cost of just over $200,000;

• the board named the First Guaranty National Bank as the school district's depository for the 1993-94 school year;

• the board voted to bid contracts for elevator inspection/maintenance; electrical security systems; air conditioning and heating maintenance; and HVAC water treatment; and

• the board voted to purchase 20 additional two-way radios to finish equipping the entire school bus fleet.

The meeting adjourned until Tuesday, June 29 at 6 p.m. at John M. Stumbo Elementary, but the meeting was changed on Wednesday to Thursday, June 24 at Allen Elementary.

Floyd Tech graduate to complete training at Nashville college

by Laura Kidd

Steve Blevins, a 1992 Floyd Tech graduate from McDowell, will graduate from Nashville Auto-Diesel College on June 28.

Nashville Auto-Diesel College was established in 1919 and is accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Trade and Technical Schools of Career College Association and is authorized by the Tennessee Higher Education Commission. This technical school has a 99 percent graduate placement rate which should be a positive factor for Blevins in being placed in the workforce. Blevins had also been employed in a cooperative education position during his senior year with Harris' Heavy Equipment and Truck Repair which is located in Martin.

Georgina Hall et al vs. James Dawson et al, compensation for alleged injuries suffered on June 20, 1992 at Harold; Sharon Martin vs. Toyota Motor Manufacturing USA, Inc., alleged faulty construction; Mid-State Automotive Dist., Inc. vs. Glenn Thacker et al, alleged debt; Beverly Terry Ratiiff et al vs. James Chafins, alleged assault, threatening; Preston Collins vs. Floyd County Solid Waste, alleged property damage.

under the terms of the agreement, the building will be purchased by the Development Authority and leased to the company for one dollar per year. Also according to the agreement, the Development Authority will provide, through state and local loans and grants, $600,000 for operating capital and payment to the former owners of the site; grade the property surrounding the building; and seek to have the present owners renovate the building offices.

Rumors have circulated that the Martin site was only one of several around the country that RND Design was considering and that the Development Authority's announcement was premature.

However, Gilliam said Thursday, plans to relocate the manufacturing plant in Floyd County are moving ahead according to schedule.

And, Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said Tuesday, thanks to a tentative $500,000 contract with Wal-Mart Discount Stores corporate office at Little Rock, Arkansas, RND's planned expansion may proceed at a greatly accelerated rate, creating more jobs in a shorter time-frame.

Gilliam said the Development Authority has finalized and executed a purchase option agreement on the United Supply building and has begun taking steps to acquire the necessary funding for the project. The only problem the county faces in recruiting the company now, Gilliam said, is gaining approval of an economic development block grant application from the state to finance the purchase of the United Supply building; and approval of a Small Business Administration loan to finance moving, operations and equipment costs.

Both applications have been submitted, Gilliam said, and are expected to be approved around the first of September.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

A balancing act

by Scott Perry

When Americans voted last fall for a change in Washington's business-as-usual approach, they may have unsuspectingly provided for a watchdog to keep their new president in line.

Good thing, too.

At last count, Bill Clinton's "new" approach to the country's old way of doing business tallied up like this: for every dollar in proposed deficit-reducing spending cuts, the administration offered $1.34 in new spending.

You don't have to take off your shoes to see how that adds up.

The good news is that while Clinton was swept into office by an electorate fed up with Washington's ways, 114 members of Congress were swept out.

That means that roughly 25 percent of Congress is as new to the job as the president is to his.

Because they are new, these Congresspersons haven't yet attained the power of incumbency which so often allows our officials to ignore the will of the people.

First-termers who desire to be more than one-timers will have to act in the interest of their constituents or face the old heave-ho.

As you may have noticed, the situation in Congress is providing a tougher than expected row to hoe for Clinton and an extra system of checks and balances for a government still incapable of balancing its checkbook.

Last November the people of this country demanded change.

We hope our leaders will realize, soon, that we weren't kidding.

Stand up and be counted

Editor:

This is an open letter to all employees and families that are petitioning their companies for a union. "Best of Luck" to all for standing up for what you believe is right. You must stand up and be counted. You must be open to everyone for what you believe in. Don't stand in the shadows and talk. Openly use your signs, and bumper stickers. Show what you want to be, not what may be or what should happen. Don't be afraid. Your mining buddy and your fellow U.M.W.A. brother will be there for you! You must remember that you have freedom of speech, assembly and freedom of the press. You can assemble, you can use the press and you can unionize. If you stand together, you can get what you want and need, in the union.

Every man, in each company, must be there for each other. If you unionize together, companies will fall like dominoes from the non-union ranks, unsafe working conditions, and no-open door policies, to a new and better condition called union!

Solidarity is needed for all union men. If you try hard enough and fight for what you want, you can do this for you, your buddies and the union. Please don't back down now! The men have to hold meetings, discuss issues, use bumper stickers, involve the community, neighbors, and the family. The more movement toward the union the better for you and your families. The old saying "United We Stand, Divided We Fall," is true. Solidarity is needed among all men at each company for a union to become a reality.

Each man has to decide who's side he is on. Is it for the company (non-union) or is it for the working men (and a union)? You have to decide. However, your decision is not yours alone! This decision affects you, your family, your future and others that work and live alongside of you.

If you feel that cuts in your insurance coverage and whatever may be the next cut is fair, then you need to think a little harder. Your job is a high risk every hour of every shift that you are at work. If your neighbor has a better insurance and deductible than you, and doesn't work in the mines, why risk working conditions that you are working by? Are you important? The company must think not.

Does the company do favors for you? Does the company look out for you, or your safety? Does your company really have an open-door policy?

Does your company care if you have good benefits for you and your family? Can you discuss poor company management without jeopardizing your job? I think not, to all the above questions. You have a problem! The problem is call a non-union mine!

Have you lost benefits such as overtime, float days, sick days, graduated days, insurance cuts, or other benefits that have been taken away? Then the company is taking advantage of you and the rest of the men. At least with the union, you can negotiate with the help of the union. Can you do this on your own? Does the company really listen to your complaints? Do they care? Think about all the questions that I ask.

I ask this to the women involved in the program we are facing. If you are asked to help out, do so! Show your companions you are there for them. Help out with signs, use your bumper stickers, help type information, pass out flyers, or anything else this is needed. Your future is affected by this, too. Let them know that you back them up! This is a family involvement! If you think the company will take care of you, think again. They haven't done it for the men they employ.

Don't back down now! You can do this! You have come a long way and still have a long way to go. Don't let the companies' tactics scare you! We can do this together. Solidarity and unionize is the key to open the door.

"Congratulations" Marrow Bone on a job well done. "Welcome to the union!" "Best of luck" to the men and families of Wolf Creek. To the men and families of Pontiki Coal and Beech Fork Processing, you can do it, too!

Please think hard about the questions in this letter. You have to decide for yourself!

Protect the rights of nurses in the workplace

Editor:

The Kentucky Nurses Association, the professional association representing the Commonwealth's 26,000 registered nurses, promotes the concept of safe work environments for all health care workers, and the assurance of nondiscriminatory actions toward health care workers with the HIV virus. A recent mandate from the Centers for Disease Control to the states regarding disclosure to professional licensure boards of a health care professional's positive HIV/HBV status when employed in "exposure-prone areas" led to the Kentucky Board of Nursing's proposed regulation in this matter.

The Kentucky Nurses Association (KNA), as a constituent of the American Nurses Association (ANA), opposes perpetuation of the myth that mandatory testing and mandatory disclosure of HIV status of patients and/or nurses is a method to prevent the transmission of HIV disease, and therefore does not advocate mandatory testing or mandatory disclosure of HIV status. KNA supports the availability of voluntary anonymous or confidential testing which is conducted with informed consent and pre-and post-test counseling. KNA continues to support education regarding the transmission of HIV/AIDS and the use and monitoring of universal precautions to prevent HIV/AIDS transmission. In order to reduce the risk of exposure to bloodborne pathogens, including HIV/HBV, KNA supports the consistent and strict use of universal precautions, the availability of proven safety measures, the standardization of methods to assure equipment is safe, and the continued evaluation and modification of work practices to assure optimum safety in the nursing workplace.

KNA has a long-standing position of advocating for the rights of nurses in the workplace. KNA and ANA support the development of personnel policies which create a maximally safe and healthful environment for all workers, patients/clients, nursing students, and volunteers. Personnel policies should address all aspects of HIV/HBV in the workplace, protect against social and economic discrimination, and reflect the most current scientific and epidemiological knowledge.

Power and Knowledge

The snail's pace of school reform in Eastern Kentucky's Letcher County is part of an old problem that could benefit from some creative new approaches.

Historically, Eastern Kentucky counties have been slow to embrace change that is forced on them by Frankfort, and the reluctance of some Letcher County schools to form councils ought to be viewed in that light. After Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen applied some heat in 1991, local school officials made a to-do of promising to encourage all 14 local schools to form councils; so far only six have done so.

Of greater concern are the reports that the superintendent and some principals may have sabotaged teachers' efforts to form councils and frustrated their attempts to get additional reforms rolling.

The resistance to implementing the state's ambitious education reform programs wears a variety of guises in Eastern Kentucky. Some people would like Commissioner Boysen to turn up the heat. While the strong-arm approach may eventually become necessary, state officials might accomplish more by extending a helping hand.

The reluctance of many Eastern Kentucky districts to get moving on school reform bears the hallmark of fear. Since it's possible that many local educators feel unprepared to meet KERA's enormous challenges, state officials must redouble their efforts to get excellent training and instructional materials into teachers' hands.

Knowledge is power. When teachers have more knowledge, they can more confidently seize the power KERA gives them.

A change in tradition

In today's world a two-income family is a necessity. Not for the luxuries, just to survive.

It wasn't that long ago that when a woman got married she became a housewife. That was tradition. The woman maintained the home and the husband was the breadwinner.

For example, our grandmother never worked outside the home. That's not to say she didn't work. Raising six children in Eastern Kentucky in the 30s and 40s was no simple task.

When our mother got married, tradition hadn't changed that much, although it was a little more common for a woman to work part-time or occasionally in very limited job roles.

Today, it's an accepted fact that women work. They have to.

One income just doesn't stretch as far as it used to, particularly with the limited high-paying jobs that can be found in Eastern Kentucky.

That lesson, that change in tradition, is something the three women featured in the front page story of the Big Sandy News this week on obtaining their GEDs discovered the hard way. They all dropped out of school for one reason or another but, after several years of barely scraping by while trying to raise families, they realized they were going to have to change.

They went back to school and obtained their GEDs. Now they're looking at the future, learning new skills and planning careers.

These women are shining examples that it's never too late to try. You don't even have to believe in yourself. You just have to have the courage to take that first step, and then another, and then another. It doesn't matter if you're starting at the bottom or how long it will take to achieve your goal. The only thing that matters is that you try.

As the women said, they had to change their mind sets from "I can't" to "I can!"

That change didn't come overnight. But they were willing to try, and with each small success, they became a little more confident and a little more willing to take risks.

It paid off. Taking the chance to better oneself usually does. — The Big Sandy News

Education program for elected officials

Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett and Deputies Dordena DeRossett and Denise Owsley, representing Floyd County, attended the 1993 statewide clerks conference held in Louisville, June 16-18.

Driver licensing issues, including commercial driver licensing, farm equipment licensing, state traffic school and the driver license computer system were discussed. In addition, domestic violence, SUSTAIN (automated court computer system), and organ donation were topics addressed during the two-day conference.

The conference was planned by the Circuit Clerks' Education Committee, conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts, and funded by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

Toyota targeted in Floyd civil suit

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

A Knott County woman filed suit against Toyota Motor Manufacturing in Floyd Circuit Court last week, charging that the company's negligence contributed to an automobile accident that caused her serious injuries.

In a suit dated June 18, Sharon Martin, of Dema, charged that on June 19, 1992, she was driving on

Ky. 114 at Prestonsburg when a safety air bag system in her husband Madison Martin's 1992 Toyota Camry "deployed prematurely, blinding her and causing her to collide with the vehicle of William C. Coleman...."

Named as defendants in the suit are the Georgetown-based Toyota Motor Manufacturing U.S.A. Incorporated and/or Toyota Motor Manufacturing of Japan and Pikeville-based M & M Toyota.

The suit charges that each of the defendants "failed to exercise ordinary and reasonable care" in assembling and selling the vehicle because they "should have known that the automobile contained a defective air bag system."

Martin is seeking compensation and damages for injuries, suffering, loss of wages and legal fees.

A civil suit complaint lists only the plaintiff's cause of action.

"Kids Health Kamp" registration continues

Camp time will soon be here. Has your child been registered for camp yet? If not, then now's the time.

Our Lay of the Way Hospital is continuing the registration process for their "Kids Health Kamp." The camp will be held August 2-6 at Camp Shawnee and is for the children ages 6-14 who have asthma, diabetes or who are overweight. This year the camp will be an overnighter. Daily education sessions, arts/crafts and outdoor sports are just a few of the camp's activities. Parents may also attend the scheduled education session of their choice, as your work schedule allows.

The camp will be staffed with a pediatrician, registered nurse, licensed practical nurse, certified diabetes educator, respiratory therapist, lifeguard, smoking prevention consultant and Sr./Jr. counselors. Volunteers are still needed for a few of the above positions. Individuals wishing to be counselors must be 18 years of age or older to be senior counselors, and between the ages of 15-17 to be junior counselors.

Vacancies are limited. Those interested in attending the camp should contact the Community Health Education Department of Our Lady of the Way Hospital at 606-285-5181, Ext. 388 as soon as possible for registration or further information.

Well-known author to teach the art of creating children's picture book

Paul Brett Johnson

Paul Brett Johnson, well-known Kentucky artist turned children's book author, will return to his home area Saturday, June 26, when he journeys to Prestonsburg to present two workshops detailing "How Picture Books Are Made."

Johnson's workshops are the first in a series of Saturday arts workshops for children and adults sponsored by the Jenny Wiley Theatre at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center. His first workshop will begin at 2 p.m. on Saturday and is geared for children aged 3, 4, and 5. The second workshop starts at 3 p.m. and will be aimed at older children, aged 5-7. The fee for each session is $2 per child. At both sessions Johnson will be reading from his first picture book, The Cow Who Wouldn't Come Down and from a new book to be released this fall. He will also illustrate the steps that go into printing and publishing a picture book.

Johnson's visit is co-sponsored by The Bookworm bookstore, located on Court Street in Prestonsburg. A native of Mousie in Knott County, Johnson will be at The Bookworm from 11 a.m. until noon on Saturday to sign copies of The Cow Who Wouldn't Come Down. This book relates the tale of Miss Rosemary's headstrong cow, Gertrude, who has recently taken to flying. The book has proven to be a great favorite with children, who love the way Johnson tells his absurd tale with a very straight face. The book has received many favorable reviews, including a note in Booklist which comments that it has "just the right art to illustrate the fun," calling it "a terrific debut." In addition the book was honored as a Junior Literary Guild selection.

Like his character, Gertrude, Johnson says that he is flying high. "There's no way to really describe the thrill of seeing your first book published." Except, perhaps by getting back to the drawing board. Though the artist is looking forward to the release of his second book from Orchard Press in the fall, he is already hard at work on two others.

Jenny Wiley Theatre's Saturday Summer Arts Workshops continue weekly Tales, and Stand-Up comedy. Spaces are limited, so registration is encouraged. For information or to register for Paul Brett Johnson's workshop (or any workshop), call Jenny Wiley Theatre at 606-886-9274.

Law Day U.S.A.

Law Day was celebrated at Allen Elementary on May 7, with the special guest, former student Greg Allen, lawyer with Combs and Stevens law firm in Prestonsburg. Allen and his wife, Beverly, who is a paralegal in Pikeville, visited the 4th and 8th grades. Students were allowed to ask questions concerning the training to becoming a lawyer, and Allen gave all good advice, "stay in school and learn all that you can." He is the son of the 4th grade teacher, Emily Allen.

Young Authors

The Strange Day

by Charles E. McGlothen
Charles is a fourth grade student.
This is his fifth book.

June 4, 1990 started out as a usual kind of day. I noticed it was rainy as I was going to school. As the day went on, the weather cleared and the sun came out. My best friend, Dustin came home with me after school. Dustin and I quickly gobbled down a snack so we could get outside to play. We were playing baseball. Dustin pitched me a great fastball and I connected. The ball hit the house bouncing back hitting me in the head.

The next thing I remember I was in a tropical rain forest and Dustin was with me. We didn't know where we were. We were scared. The bugs bit us. We heard a lot of strange noises. The monkeys were in the trees.

It was so humid we couldn't make it through the foliage. We stopped in our tracks. Right on the path was a 50 foot snake. Its teeth looked as big as fire hydrants. We turned and ran the other way. We ran into a group of natives.

The natives took us to their village. They were very strange looking and we couldn't understand a word they said. They took us to their chief. We figured for sure we were going to get boiled in oil.

As we went into the chief's hut we were astonished to see he was like us and could speak English.

He told us not to be afraid. He said his name was Mr. Rockefeller and he had been in the rain forest for many years. He explained he got lost there many years ago and the natives made him their only jungle master chief because they thought he knew magic—flashlight, lighter fluid, etc.

He said he really didn't want to go home now. He asked us if this was what we were looking for. As he turned around he had our baseball in his hand. As soon as I touched the ball I woke up.

Mom and Dustin were standing over me with a very worried look on their faces. They had a rag on my head. I looked at my mom and said, "Let me tell you where I've been and who I've seen."

"Rest now. Let me tell you where you are going!—To the hospital and to see the doctor," my mom said.

Mountain artists

Allen Central students attended the reception and art display held at the Mountain Heritage Arts and Crafts Center. These students were chosen as All-County Artists: "Best of Show" was Chuck Compton, Micheal Ousley, and Jen Reed.

Class of 2000 tours PCC's Natural Science Center

Spaceships, robots, and creatures of other planets typify the Hollywood version of life in the 21st century. Will the next seven years produce drastic changes?

On May 7, fifth graders of Pam Combs' class at Maytown Elementary decided to find out what the world may be like in the year 2000 when they will graduate from high school. The Prestonsburg Community College Big Sandy Natural Science Center was the perfect place to hunt for clues.

Though the mystery of the 21st century remains unsolved, this class of 2000 will watch the future unfold a bit more closely after their tour into the world of science.

Dear Beakman,
How do you know everything?
Jim Schuster,
Blaine, Minnesota

Dear Jim,
Guess what? I don't. Neither does my sister, Jax. In fact, no one person can know everything. There's just too much stuff to know.

The good thing is you don't need to know everything. You just need to know how to find out the stuff that interests you.

We use 2 different ways to find out the stuff we need to know to answer your questions. The first is the library. Really. The second is the telephone. You've heard about the library before, so today we'll talk about the phone.

YOUR PHONE... ..Is Connected to Every Other Phone

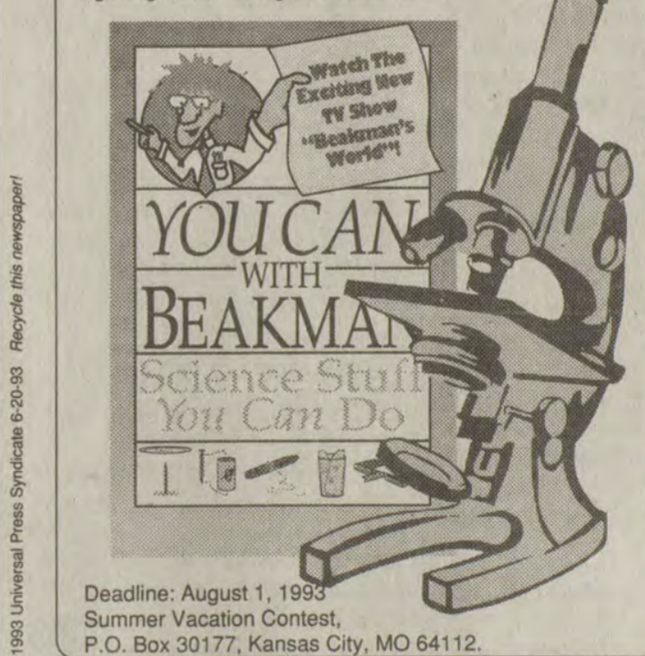

WHAT YOU NEED: The advice and permission of your family - telephone - Yellow Pages - your own question

WHAT TO DO: Think about your question for a few minutes. Think who would need the answer to that question to make their living - to earn money. For instance, if your question is about hair, you could ask a barber. If it's about a dog's nose being wet, you could ask a vet.

Open up the Yellow Pages and look up your expert. Next, you have to think about the best way to ask your question.

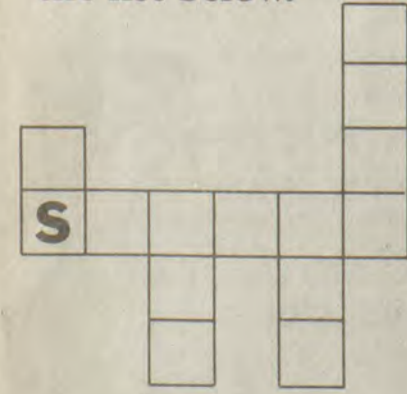

You Can still win a Tasco microscope or a copy of my fabulous book. Send us a report on something you're figuring out or doing this summer.

Deadline: August 1, 1993
Summer Vacation Contest,
P.O. Box 30177, Kansas City, MO 64112.

SUMMERTIME Journal

A journal is a book of writing you keep just for yourself. What can go in it? Anything you want! You don't have to buy a special book, either. A notebook like you'd use at school works just fine. Here are some of the things I write and keep in my journal:

- A list of books I want to read this summer
 - Words I hear or see that I want to look up in the dictionary
 - How I feel when something bad or wonderful happens
 - Stories and pictures I save from newspapers and magazines
 - Some of my dreams
 - Ideas for video stories
 - Poems and stories that I write
- Try keeping your own journal!

4-H projects

Maytown's 4-H Club had a delightful time viewing their projects. They try to apply the 4-H motto (I pledge my head to clearer thinking; my heart to greater loyalty; my hands to larger service; and my health for better living, for my club, my community, my country and my world) as they go about their daily work.

Honor's Day at Floyd Tech

by Laura Kidd

Honor roll students who are seniors received recognition on May 27th at the third annual Honor's Day ceremony. The seniors holding a 2.67 (B-) or higher average for this year are listed below according to program area: Automotive Technology—Jerry Cole, Seth Mullins, Jeff Johnson, Merlin Issac; Carpentry—Franklin Boyd, Greg Lafferty, Rhodes Prater, John Tackett, Charles McQuate; Health Services—Robin Hall, Renee Johnson, Irvonna Hunt, Parthena Gayheart, Shelia Dye, Yvonne Burkett; Machine Tool Technology—Grady Dawson, Paul Gayheart; Office Technology—Virginia Walters, Christina Wright, Melissa Stevens, Shannon Johnson, Rachel Dotson; Welding—Scottie Evans, Scottie Stevens, Jeremy Tackett.

A student from every program area was chosen as "Most Outstanding". The criteria for giving the award was based on attitude, diligence toward completing tasks, and shop performance. The outstanding students are listed as follows: Automotive Technology—Jeffery Johnson; Office Technology—Shannon Johnson; Carpentry—Franklin Boyd; Electronics—Brian Branham; Health Services—Parthena Gayheart; Machine Tool Technology—Paul Gayheart; Mine Maintenance—Harold Hall; Welding—Jeremy Tackett. Majmundar to participate in TIP

Monica Majmundar

Monica Majmundar, a student at Paintsville Independent has been selected to participate in Duke University's 1993 Summer Residential Program for academically gifted students. This program administered by the Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP) is open to seventh through tenth graders who test in the top one percent academically of their middle and high schools.

Talented students chosen to participate in TIP are tested in seventh grade and achieve scores comparable to college-bound 11th and 12th graders on the Scholastic Aptitude Test

(SAT) or the American College Testing Program Assessment (ACT).

The Summer Residential Programs provide an opportunity for talented young students to study intensive, fast-paced courses in several areas, including mathematics, science, writing, and language. The Summer Residential Program takes place on the campuses of Duke University, Davidson College, Wake Forest University, and Texas A&M University.

Last summer, over 1,300 students from more than 40 states and six foreign countries attended the program. Many of the students attended TIP's international program overseas. A variety of courses are offered this year in Italy, England, Costa Rica, Japan, China and the Federal Republic of Germany.

Students generally complete one course equivalent to a year of high school or a semester of college-level work. While at Duke, she will be enrolled in a course entitled Algebra I. She is the daughter of Drs. Gopal and Mina Majmundar.

Cinderella review

by Kathleen Carroll

The Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre opened its 1993 season with proof positive that not all of their magic was used up on the "Wizard of Oz" last summer. "Cinderella" is a happy, delightful production that will charm all families.

"Cinderella," a stage show based on the made-for-television musical by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, opened to a packed house on Friday, June 18, following a posh reception at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center.

Under the leadership of Director Bob Bogdanoff, "Cinderella" is an evening of uncomplicated enjoyment. While paying tribute to the fairy tale at hand, Bogdanoff achieves balance by allowing the cast to enjoy themselves. And, because the cast is enjoying themselves, the audience is swept up in the fun.

The entire cast gave a sparkling performance. This JWST production stars Marty Childers as the Prince and Misty Daniels in the title role, Cinderella. Both Childers and Daniels are Eastern Kentucky natives. Daniels exhibits tremendous maturity in a role that seems, like the slipper, a perfect fit. Her "Cinderella" is girlish, animated, and (what's best) not the least bit afraid to be romantic. Childers gives us the consummate Prince—handsome, witty, and aching for romance.

Childers and Daniels are joined by a talented, energetic cast. Carrie Wiley Cinnamonod portrays the Queen who seems to hope her son will just get on with this "marriage thing." Robert Lehman gives a tremendous comic performance as the King—no King was ever so regal in a union suit.

Elizabeth Hunter, Sheree Wheeler and Joni Rice cut hilarious caricatures as the Stepmother and her daughters of questionable beauty and grace, Portia and Joy. It must be said that Wheeler and Rice, as Portia and Joy, share what is probably the juiciest song in the play. In "The Stepsister's Lament," they try to figure why the Prince would forsake their SOLID charm and chase a "frothy bubble" like Cinderella. Linda Zablotsky gives a delightfully zany performance as the Fairy Godmother. Jon-Daniel Durbin deserves special mention for it is his strong performance as the Herald that sets the pace for the play.

Second only to the cast's performances, the production's set and lighting design transform the amphitheater into a charming fairy castle. The team effort of James Hunter, Scenic and Lighting Designer, and Bonnie Jean Clark, Scenic Artist amounts to sheer wizardry. Through the use of rolling platforms and smaller stages "hidden" by sliding doors, Hunter and Clark achieve a seamless production which allows the audience to enjoy the play without interruption—much like a movie.

Under the direction of newcomer George Howe, the orchestra gave a bright, lively performance of Rodgers and Hammerstein's lovely musical score, but sometimes seemed to rush the show's pace. Perhaps it was all just opening night jitters.

Following this year's triumphant opening of "Cinderella," theatergoers in Eastern Kentucky can look forward to a varied slate of summer entertainment. The JWST 1993 season is rounded out by the musicals "Foxfire" and "Pumpboys and Dinettes" in addition to the dinner theater/luncheon performances of the musical "I do, I do." For tickets and reservations, call the JWST Box Office at 886-9274.

All in all, "Cinderella" is an enchanting reminder that, for some of us, there will always be castles, fairy godmothers, handsome princes, and glass slippers.

THE WHIZZBANG CHICKEN END

This past weekend, my sisters and I were pilfering through drawers at our mother's house when we came across some quarterly report forms from 1960 that had been filed on a restaurant our father used to have part ownership in. The restaurant was known as Chick's Drive-In, and it was a favorite spot for kids and adults during the 60s and 70s.

Located across the bridge on Route 40, Chick's was the ultimate drive-in experience. Car-hops, outside jukebox speakers and souped up jalopies backed into parking spaces along the river was THE place to be on Saturday night.

As we scanned the forms, the memories came flooding back.

Surprisingly enough, Chicks' could have been remembered by another name if Dad had not sold out his interest to Chick Carroll, who kept the operation running smoothly and efficiently for many years. In fact, Chick turned it into one of the best businesses around the area.

Before Chick bought Dad's part out they speculated about naming the place "Whizzbang Chicken End" after Daddy (Whizzbang as someone once referred to him) and Chick; hence the chicken end part (I don't want to delve too deep into this).

The early years were great. Dad loved to cook and he loved to eat. And since they didn't name the restaurant after him, they did name a sandwich for him - THE BUZZBURGER.

The Buzzburger was an adventure in eating. It consisted of a hamburger, sizzled to perfection on an open grill, with a generous portion of beef barbecue spooned on top. It would now be known as a cardiologist's nightmare, but it was definitely well named.

There were lots of other memorable things about Chick's. My grandmother Lucy drove through one side of the restaurant one evening when Amanda, our youngest sibling, dropped something on the floorboard of the car. When she tried to retrieve it, she accidentally pressed the gas pedal and the car lunged forward into the dining area.

It surprised a few of the customers, but Chick never missed a beat. He ran right up to the driver's side and said, "Lucy, what would you like to eat? We would have been glad to bring it out to you, but we're glad you came on in."

Another great thing about Chick's was that your parents usually knew where you were. If you weren't at Chick's, you were either home sick or up to no-good. Thinking back on it, Chick's was a little like a built in babysitting service for young people. If Chick wasn't patrolling the parking lot, Vivian, his wife, was looking out after you. It was a fun place, and a good time was had by all.

During those early years, I was employed by the establishment as a waitress, but I soon learned it was not my life's calling when I discovered that being a waitress meant that you had to wait on people. Chick docked my pay when he overheard me say to a customer, "You don't want anything, do you?" The customer was former Circuit Judge Bill Hazelrigg, and he left me a fifty-cent tip for begrudgingly serving him a cup of coffee.

All this reminiscing occurred because my sisters are here on vacation. Amanda, the youngest, still likes to go through drawers and get down in the floor and pilfer through papers. Finding the quarterly report was like opening up a huge storybook as Mother told us other interesting

THE TIMES' WEEKEND Extra

Cloggers' heels make sparks fly

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

It's not unusual to see fireworks sparkling in a July night sky. But the sparks will fly from clogging feet during the Clogging Jamboree in Prestonsburg, July 3.

The second annual Clogging Jamboree begins at noon with a clogging workshop under the tent on the municipal parking lot. Charlie Burns will teach clogging steps to beginners and advanced cloggers.

The main event gets underway at 6 p.m. when cloggers take center stage for competition. Categories include team and individual contests. Individual categories are 0-7 years, 8-12, 13-16, 17-26, 27-35, 36-41, and 41 and older.

The team competition will have two divisions, age 25 and under and age 26 and over. Team ages are averaged. Teams must consist of four or more individuals and must be uniformly dressed.

Trophies will be awarded in all events.

Last year, the Good Time Cloggers represented this area in the event. They will return in the 26 and older age division. Good Time Cloggers are Jim, Margie and Tammy Sparks, Betty and Pete Harless, Joe and Doris Fannin and Carol Morrison. The group routinely performs at state parks and various functions throughout Eastern Kentucky.

A newly-formed group, the Cross Country Cloggers, will take center stage this year. The 22-member group formed in March. Eleven of their members — Tammy Sparks, Kim Scalf, Robin Lafferty, Regina Spears, Shawna Sammons, Sean Miller, Brandon Sipple, Nashea Prater, Wendy Martin, Brenda Sturgill and Maggie Hancock — will participate in the competition's 25 and under age division.

The Cross Country Cloggers have been hard at work rehearsing in 90°, humid weather. After an energetic dance routine, Robin Lafferty said she had lost about ten pounds of sweat in 10 minutes. Members of the group agreed that clogging is great exercise. What is lost in weight is gained in muscle, said Tammy Sparks, who emphasized it takes a lot of hard work to become a clogger.

When the mother of a clogger explained that clogging takes "dedication, concentration, and meditation," clogger Wendy Martin yelled out: "and aggravation."

Clogging is challenging said Jim Sparks, instructor of the two groups, because it takes quick, precision footwork. Sparks is a fan of the dance because it brings the family together.

"Clogging is family-oriented," said Sparks, who hopes to revive the dying art in the mountains.

Sparks said the Clogging Jamboree needs the support of the community through participation as spectators or through donations. No fee is charged to watch the event. A small fee, $5, is charged per person to compete, and $10 is charged to participate in the workshop. Though pre-registration is preferred, entrants may register on Saturday.

Vendors will also be on the site to sell various clogging supplies. If time allows after the competition, spectators can join in the fun on the dance floor. Community fireworks begin at 10 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Tourism, Recreation and the Convention Commission and the Good Time Cloggers of Prestonsburg.

THE INCREDIBLE SHRINKING COLUMN

Yes, friends and neighbors, do not adjust your glasses. This column IS getting smaller and smaller, week by week, in our ever increasing efforts to thrill and entertain you, the reading public.

Over the past year or so, I'm told, I've been just a little bit too long-winded for proper reading enjoyment (not to mention the fact that I'm plum out of silly stuff to write), so the powers that be (mainly myself, although I really have no power whatsoever) have cut me down to size.

Since we're making corrections anyways, I thought it would be apropos (which is Latin for "I'm trying to be really pretentious") to allow you, the reading public, the opportunity to make your own comments and suggestions about what you like and/or dislike about "Truth, Justice & the American Way" and what additions or deletions you'd like to see made.

Below, you will find a sample questionnaire, listing a series of multiple choice questions that will assist you in your assessment of this column and myself. Feel free to add your own comments, but please keep it clean. This is a family newspaper.

Questionnaire— please circle one (or two if you want) in each category

1. I think "Truth, Justice & the American Way" is _____ just the way it is.

(a) just about the best thing that's ever been written in the entire history of all time, with the possible exception of "Penthouse Letters"

(b) perfection personified
(c) fair to middlin'
(d) so obnoxious it makes me want to hurl
(e) not fit to house train my dog

2. I think "Truth, Justice &

American Way" should be _____.

(a) syndicated around the world so that no man, woman or child can be deprived of its sheer brilliant genius and tearfully poetic beauty

(b) placed on the front page of each and every edition of every paper published in the country, but not anywhere else in the world so we can make all them furriners jealous

(c) discontinued or at least placed somewhere deep in the paper where it won't be seen at all so that we don't have to be subjected to this filth and degradation every week

(d) considered grounds for dismissal and/or execution

3. I think Geoff Belcher, champion of "Truth, Justice & the American Way," should be _____.

(a) nominated for sainthood, or at the very least, a Pulitzer Prize
(b) given a big, fat juicy raise
(c) given a big, fat juicy raise and a promotion with his own parking space

(d) very, very ashamed of himself for spreading this garbage

(e) shot on sight

There you go. Now all you have to do is clip this sucker out and mail it (and, as always, please use an Elvis stamp) to The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

PLEASE answer this poll, or my little feelings will be very hurt and I'll probably cry. Plus, I'll look REALLY bad in front of my boss and he'll think no one reads this and he'll probably fire me and then I'll lose my house and have to come to each and every one of your homes to stay until "I get back on my feet," which may take a VERY long time. So fill this out and mail it RIGHT NOW!!!!

The sanity you save may be your own.

Thank you for your support.

Poperri

by Scott Perry

Dads of my generation, who came of age in the 60s, are really red-faced over the things our children are learning about S-E-X, mostly because they know more than we do.

We all learned the facts of life from a guy named Vernon, who was an accepted expert on the subject because he was the only guy in the 7th grade who shaved and because he had home-made tattoos which spelled L-O-V-E and H-A-T-E across his knuckles.

Vernon was, in fact, a published author on the topic of S-E-X, and many of his writings can still be seen on the bathroom walls of pool halls and bowling alleys from here to there. He was a master of poetic verse, plus he could take a puff off a cigarette and blow smoke out of his ears.

Made quite an impression and we were at an impressionable age.

Somewhere along the line, the S-E-X-U-A-L Revolution began, leading us to question our understanding of the facts of life.

Television began re-shaping our values with bold examples of the relationships between men and women.

Why, even Fred and Wilma Flintstone had a kid. On primetime TV, for crying out loud.

With television's entry into the world of S-E-X, confusion reigned.

How was it possible, we wondered, for Fred and Wilma to produce a child while Ginger and Mary Ann went unviolated for years on a desert isle with Gilligan, the skipper, too?

Obviously, the men of Gilligan's Island had never spent any quality time with Vernon.

Our discovery of the facts of life pales in comparison to what children of today are subjected to.

Even dogfood commercials have S-E-X-U-A-L overtones.

Kids know so much at so young an age it's a total waste of time to try to have one of those parent-child discussions.

Unless, of course, you're trying to learn something from them.

Try not to blow smoke out of your ears during the lecture.

Those who deny freedom for others deserve it not for themselves.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

Dear Abby

Boys learn wrong lesson when violence is ignored

DEAR ABBY: I have been working as a health-care provider for 15 years, and I see a lot of mothers and children in waiting rooms What I see and am angers me

I see mothers letting their little boys hit them and their sisters In a doctor's office, there was a mother who came in frequently with her 8-year-old son. I watched as he socked his little sister in the face—with no consequences. His mother gave him a hug.

I saw a boy of about 10 yell at his mother and hit her! She said nothing, only weakly defended herself against the slaps.

Recently, I had a 3-year-old boy as a patient. His mother and little sister were in the room. His sister touched his wristwatch, and he punched her in the chest with all his might! His mother saw it and didn't do anything about it.

Who's setting the example for this kind of treatment of women? Why are these children allowed—even encouraged—in such violent behavior against women?

CAROL IN LONG BEACH

DEAR CAROL: Don't blame the children. I regret to say they don't know better. And neither do their mothers, who must believe that women deserve nothing better.

Violence is wrong, and when it goes unpunished, it sends the message that the bigger and stronger person rules the roost (as is observed in the animal kingdom).

I would guess that children who act like this have seen women slapped around all their young lives, with no one lifting a finger to protect them.

Children learn by example, from adults who set limits on their behavior. If no one sets the tone at home, there is a potential problem in the making.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is a first, but I could not overlook the letter regarding Mother's Day from the woman who signed herself "Forgotten Mom in Indiana." She signed off saying, "I haven't the courage to sign my name—it might embarrass my children"

Abby, she's the one who should be embarrassed. I hope she didn't break both her arms patting herself on the back!

Back in the early '40s, my late mother had her own opinion of Mother's Day, which was: "It's nothing but a commercial promotion to sell flowers, candy, greeting cards, lunches and dinners or anything else to boost business." She told my late brother and me that if we didn't think of her more than just one day a year, we could just forget her! You may use my name.

JACK McMILLAN, METAIRIE, LA

DEAR JACK: Your mother was a wise woman. Thanks for writing.

DEAR READERS: One of the most frequently asked questions concerning homosexuality is the title of a new book, "Is It a Choice?" by Eric Marcus. It contains the answers to 300 questions about gays and lesbians—leaving none unanswered. The publisher is Harper-Collins.

To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.60 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, 111. 61064. (Postage is included.)

FINDING A VOICE

In May, Baron Trevor, 64, a member of the British House of Lords since 1950, took to the floor to make his very first speech to that body, saying that after 43 years he had finally found an issue "that affected the locality in which I live." He spoke on the need not to oversupervise police officers.

UNCLEAR ON THE CONCEPT

In February, Wellington, New Zealand, police commander Murray Jackson told reporters that construction of a new police station and lockup would be delayed because the building would be subject to the new local safety code, which would require that prisoners have immediate access to exits in case of fire. According to Jackson, that would require furnishing them with keys.

In April, the Montana Legislature passed a harsh animal-abuse law that increased the penalty for a second conviction to two years in prison and a $1,000 fine. The state's maximum penalty for second-offense wife-beating is six months and $500.

In April, the Better Business Bureau in Anchorage, Alaska, said its bank accounts were short $225,000, and accused its former president, Susan E. Whittenton, of embezzlement.

The Ontario Council of Regents proposed in January that grade 10 high school students who are having trouble be moved directly to college. The council said that Canada, in order to compete in the high-technology world, needs to increase the percentage of its high school graduates who go on to college and that unsuccessful grade 10 students tend to drop out.

To help a 43-year-old man in Ridley Township, Pennsylvania, who needed a liver transplant, friends established a fundraising "beef and beer" dinner in March.

Actress Mariel Hemingway told McCall's magazine in March that she maintains a healthy lifestyle—no drugs, alcohol, dairy, meat, bread, sugar or eggs, but lots of vegetables, grains and homeopathic remedies. Furthermore, she said she had her large-sized breast implants replaced with smaller ones.

For its 1993 annual meeting, dissident shareholders of Time Warner Inc. sought to force the company to hold a discussion of the rap songs of its artist Ice-T, including one song about violent rape. Time Warner management then argued to the Securities and Exchange Commission, which governs what information must be provided to shareholders, that even though the violent-rape song itself was sold to the general public, the lyrics were "inappropriate" for distribution to shareholders.

PERVERSIONS ON PARADE

William K. Kessie, 42, was arrested in Cleveland in December and accused of making several telephone calls to women who work for churches in which he pretends to be a young girl who has been abducted and raped and who is asking for their help.

A man whose identity was not disclosed in news accounts was arrested in April in Kissimmee, Florida, and charged with misdemeanor lewdness after he tried to obtain the underwear of several police officers to add to his 400 item collection. Said a police detective, "This guy has a fetish for cops." Officers arrested him after they talked him into dropping by the station to chat. He was carrying samples of his collection along with videotapes of the TV show "Cops."

The Denver Post reported in March that a gust of wind alerted police to stop and check out Ozell Brown, 46, of Commerce City, Colorado, on the street. The wind blew open his overcoat, under which he was nude except for pant legs that were fastened on with rubber bands. Though they did not charge him with indecent exposure because they could find no victim, they did learn that he was wanted on five other charges.

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

In early June, U.S. Coast Guard seaman Joseph Loomis, 20, was charged in Newport News, Virginia, with causing an Amtrak derailment last August, and is suspected in several other derailments back to 1990. As evidence against him, authorities produced photos of train stations from his locker, along with train schedules, including the notations "D-R" (i.e., "derailed") and "Whoa, Nellie" beside the entry of the August train, whose derailment Loomis allegedly watched.

LEAST COMPETENT PERSON

Lee Womble, 28, was arrested minutes after allegedly robbing the Lafayette Bank in Stratford, Connecticut, in April by police who happened to be nearby. But even if police hadn't found him so soon, they would have gotten him eventually because, for the holdup note, Womble used a bank withdrawal slip that had his name in two places. Speculated police Lt. Thomas Roadia, "He could have been nervous or something."

UNDIGNIFIED DEATHS

In April, a 47-year-old avid golfer who had arranged his work schedule with the Social Security Administration so that he could get in 18 holes of golf most days, and who was the president of the Southern California Knights of Columbus Golf Association, was killed when he was struck in the head on a golf course by an errant golf ball.

In April; a 61-year-old warehouse employee of the Golden Peanut Co. in Donalsonville, Georgia, was killed when he was crushed under an avalanche of peanuts.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You'll be bitten by the travel bug this week, so drag out those brochures. Put your curiosity to good use, and investigate new subjects. Leisure plans work out at the last minute. You'll enjoy a night out on the town this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You have a renewed interest in making money and adding to your possessions, but you need to take care this week concerning agreements. There are a few problems to deal with, but by week's end, you're at peace with yourself. You spend the weekend indulging in gossip.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Gemini (May 21 to June 20) Added get-up-and-go make you a force to be reckoned with this week. Watch carelessness in financial matters. At some point, you'll have difficulty reaching or understanding others. The weekend, though, brings magical rapport.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's time to dust off mental cobwebs and to draw on subconscious strengths. A behind-the-scenes vantage point suits you this week. Socially, you're on the go and perhaps somewhat careless in spending. A career break comes by the weekend through a social contact.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Though you have misgivings about a relationship, the way is clear for increased social activity. Plan a get-together in the near future. You won't feel right this week until you've completed a few tasks. Once done, you'll be in the mood to party.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Family is more of a distraction than a help now. This week, you take steps to climb further up the ladder of success. Matters of friendship are highlighted early in the week. Later, there may be a temporary let-down.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Career stirrings won't amount to much this week, but a desire for self-improvement sends you investigating a possible course of study. You're highly motivated now and will take some steps to advance. Social life swings upward this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You may have unrealistic expectations about travel, but you're down to earth about new ways to improve overall security. There are some important career matters brewing. Initial complications fall away, and success is the outcome.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Financial matters are under a cloud, and it's best to stay away from get-rich-quick schemes. Get to know a close ally better. You'll put your investments on firm footing this week. The weekend brings romantic enchantment.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Hard work seems easy for you since you are so conscious of your goals this week. Be more attentive, though, in personal relationships. The help you seek may come from a family member. Focus on home life this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Romance and good times are foremost in your mind this week. Consequently, there's a tendency to let things slide on the job. Work is the keynote later in the week, but play fills up the weekend. In romance, you will see eye to eye.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Sprucing up your home may be on your agenda this week. In fact, home is your best base now. A work problem is not as difficult as it appears. This weekend, enjoy hobbies and recreation, but be careful not to overdo.

things that happened during that time.

It's funny how one thing leads to another and how if you don't keep things down on paper, you tend to forget them or remember them differently as time goes by.

Thankfully, we still have Chick to ask why they didn't call it Whizbang Chicken End. And knowing Dad like we did, Chick won't be surprised to learn that the quarterly report wasn't filed.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Dixie told Tad she believed Michael was the real Ted Orsini. Michael told Tad the night the wed Brooke, Dixie, thinking he was Tad, swore undying love for him. Edmund blasted Michael for revealing Dixie's secret. After refusing Gloria's plea to lend Palmer money, Adam told her of the Cortlandt-Chandler feud. Jack learned Trevor was expecting a fax of "Leslie's" photo. Later, Laurel hid Adam's $1 million dollar check, telling Natalie Adam donated only $10,000. Adam was shocked when Natalie chided him for being cheap. Laurel retrieved the false I.D.'s Jack dumped when she said she was going straight. Wait To See: Terrence faces a crisis.

ANOTHER WORLD: Jake pressed Paulina to name a wedding date. Later, his jealousy exploded when he found her with Ian. Felicia agreed to rehabilitative therapy. A furious Jenna learned Dean didn't tell the whole truth about Joy. Ian saw Matt find the key at the espresso bar. Later, Alli fully put it around her doll's neck. Lorna was shocked at what arrived for her in the mail. Cass and Frankie agreed she'd take a home pregnancy test. John and Kelsey steadied a table leg with an envelope from one of Mac's books. Iris talked to Hank about her unresolved feelings for her father. Wait To See: Rachel begins to feel the effects of Carl's new plotting.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Barbara and Hal were wed. Lucinda was stunned when Royce said he never wanted to see her again. Emily realized how deeply Royce was affected by Lucinda. Iva was torn about revealing Aaron's true paternity to Holden. Margo told Lyla she forgave Tom for hiding the truth about Hal. Connor rebuffed Linc, who asked her if she would tell Cal what happened, or keep it their little secret. Susan made a decision about in-vitro fertilization. Damian comforted Lily who talked of returning to Italy. Barbara told Margo she hoped Hal would quit police work. Debbie made a discovery about Rosanna. Wait To See: Neal's secrets begin to come out.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Stephanie warned Ridge to keep his feelings about Connor and Brooke in control because of the "Belief" patent. Sally fumed when Stephanie said Jack never mentioned he was marrying Ms. Spectra. Steve was stunned to find Karen waiting for one of his special massages. Connor, fearful of losing Brooke to Ridge, told Taylor of Ridge's frequent visits to Brooke. Brooke "forgot" her date with Connor, and suggested he take Karen out instead. Thorne took Taylor to The Bikini. Sly got Macy away before she could see them. Later, Keith warned Sly never to speak harshly to his brother, Kevin. Wait To See: Eric faces another unpleasant prospect.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Jennifer and Jack were distraught as Abby's fever raged. Lucas won Carrie's sympathy after his fight with Austin. Kate realized any skeletons in her closet could zap Lucas' appointment to West Point. Unaware Victor grounded him for rear-ending Austin's car, Kate considered buying Lucas a BMW if he got Carrie to be the Face of the 90s. Carly was depressed over the deaths of two of her terminally ill patients in a short span. Vivian, dressed as a nurse, voiced suspicions about Carly to other nurses. John heard Kristen cry "Don't shoot" from inside the cabin. Wait To See: John and Sami await news from Marlena.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Ryan was rushed into emergency surgery under Sean's watchful eye. Mac and Felicia's attempt to normalize things backfired when she returned to work at the Outback. Bill made love to Victoria but his thoughts were on Holly. A surprise date turned up for Robin at the prom. Tracy put her escape plan into action after saying goodbye to her parents. Lucy was determined to make Julia and Scotty aware of her in all matters of "Deception." Karen sent Jagger conflicting signals about making love. Seething with rage over Ryan's attack on Audrey, Steve considered revenge. Wait To See: Holly has a surprise for Bill.

GUIDING LIGHT: Eleni refused Alan-Michael's divorce settlement, but A-M got Blake to help her over her financial problems. Blake was devastated when she learned the engagement ring in Ross' drawer had been bought for Holly. David saved Bridget from Vinny's advances and took her to Hart's place. Later, David, Hart, and Bridget found the diner trashed. Nick canceled his date with Mindy. Harley and Mallet made a decision about their wedding. Jenna offered to buy Hart a sports car if he didn't mention seeing her kiss Buzz. Later, Jenna rushed to get Roger when Hart reacted violently to a man in the parking lot. Wait To See: Dylan makes a puzzling discovery.

LOVING: Casey chided Ally for adapting so quickly to the Alden lifestyle. Shana told Leo she would have the baby no matter what. Curtis announced his engagement to Dinah Lee at Tyler's christening. Gwyn told Trucker Buck was his half brother. Later, she learned Curtis stopped the investigation into Buck's past. Trucker confronted Buck and demanded to know if he had anything to do with Trisha's death. Tess bid goodbye to Trucker, saying she's not the person he thought she was. Buck came to say goodbye to Gwyn, and wound up kissing her passionately. Cooper began to fall for Ally. Wait To See: Stacey is in for a surprise.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Andrew and Cassie told Sloan and Dorian they were going to be grandparents. Suede and Jason planned a party for Marty. Cord went to Arizona to be with Clint who had been injured in a plane crash. Bo persuaded Nora to move in with him. Alex had a business deal for Asa. Todd, Zach, and Powell searched for a sweatband that could be used as evidence against them in the rape trial. Viki agreed to read Sloan's book about her father. Rachel warned Hank he'll lose her as a daughter if she's forced to take the stand. Al got a scare at Serenity Springs. Wait To See: Asa is forced to reconsider a decision.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: John told Jill the document releasing him from obligations to the baby was a sham. Jill furiously insisted she wrote it to prove she loves him. Lauren felt Sheila would try something again. Ashley asked Paul to check Blade's story. Danny and Cricket realized their careers were keeping them apart. Nikki learned Victor had died in a fiery car crash. Ashley joined her in mourning him, while Jack checked to see if Victor's death returned control of Jabot to the Abbots. Meanwhile, Victor, happily helping Hope on her farm, decided not to call home, in view of the harsh words he had with Victoria, Nikki, and Ashley. Wait To See: Victoria draws closer to Cole.

SOAP SCRAPS

TEN YEARS OF LOVING: June 27 marks the 10th anniversary of ABC's "Loving," which was co-created by Agnes Nixon and the late Douglas Marland. "Loving" was introduced the night before its daytime debut by a primetime film starring Lloyd Bridges.

Today, only one member of the original daytime cast remains with the series, Lauren-Marie Taylor, who plays the oft' tempest-tossed, but perennially resilient, Stacey Donovan Forbes.

Asked to cite some of the most significant things that have happened over the past 10 years, Lauren-Marie said, "Kate, Leslie, and Olivia." (As her many fans know, these are the names of Lauren-Marie's children, so there's no doubt where her priorities lie when it comes to what's really important.)

"But you want to know about things that happened on the show. Right? Well," Taylor continued, "there was the whole thing with Rick Alden, the love affair, the child, and, of course, his murder, and Stacey standing trial for killing him. That was a lot of fun. And the Jack and Stacey love affair. That was special, because it was something that no one would have expected to happen. And the most recent story, with the death of Jack and the way Stacey got back at Clay when she realized she wasn't going crazy. That was also a lot of fun."

Lauren-Marie uses the term—fun—often to describe her soap experiences. "It is fun," she says. "I hear people say they're tired of doing soaps. Not me. I'm having too much fun ... I've been on this show 10 years, and I've never known a day when I didn't look forward to coming to work."

NEED A HUG? Hunter Tylo (Taylor "Bold and the Beautiful") has always loved animals in general, and dotes on the exotic variety in particular. Currently, she owns an iguana and one female boa constrictor. But the Tylo household, which includes husband, Michael, (Blade, "Young and the Restless") and their two sons, Christopher and Micky, is about to see a change in its critter population. "My snake is pregnant," Hunter told me, "and we're all anticipating the birth of what should be about 60 babies." And since Hunter plans to sell most of them at some point, that's good news for folks who like having a good hug once in a while.

HOT SHOTS! PART DEUX

There is nothing so refreshing as Hollywood poking fun at itself, as in "Airplane!" or the "Naked Gun" spoofs. That's what this film does, and it is absolutely knee-slapping funny.

Charlie Sheen portrays Topper Harley, a Rambo-esque character who has given up his former violent, action-packed life to go live with some monks somewhere in the Orient. Enter Richard Crenna (in a reprisal of his "Rambo" role). He recruits Harley to go "rescue Americans who were sent to rescue other Americans." That pretty much tells sets the tone of this farce.

Our hero is off and running, determined to fulfill his "mission." He lands in an unnamed Middle Eastern country run by a Saddam Hussein lookalike.

At one point, Sheen is padding down an Asian river in the requisite gunboat. Whom do we see coming from the opposite direction? Martin Sheen, star of "Apocalypse Now," apparently still somehow inside that movie. As they pass, Dad yells out, "Loved you in 'Wall Street'."

And so it goes and goes and goes in this film. I would love to relate all the jabs at scenes taken from other movies, but I just have to tell you, go see it for yourself. It's probably going to go down as one of the best movies this summer for sheer entertainment value. Best of all, it's rated PG-13.

TUNING IN

FOX FIGHTS DOG-DAY DOLDRUMS: The networks are taking a cue from the cable folks and have set a slew of original programming for the summer months: a period the webs once turned into a veritable wasteland of unsold pilots, reruns, old feature flicks, and golf tournaments.

The first of three summertime Fox offerings, "Lifepod," starring Ron Silver and Robert Loggia, along with Adam Storke, Jessica Tuck, Ed Gail, Kelli Williams, Stan Shaw, and C.C.H. Pounder, debuts June 28. The film also marks the directorial debut for Silver, who had a recurring role on CBS' "Wiseguy" series, and whose films include "Reversal of Fortune," "The Entity," "Mr. Saturday Night," and "Silkwood."

Loggia's recent television credit was last month's ABC miniseries, "Wild Palms." He also starred in "Mancuso FBI" a few seasons back. (Not to be confused with Nick Mancuso, who was his costar in "...Palms.")

"Lifepod" is set 100 years in the future, and starts with nine people who survive a blast that destroys their spacecraft by ejecting in a lifepod (the equivalent of a seafaring vessel's lifeboat). Like the characters in the classic movie, "Lifeboat," which starred Walter Slezak (Dad of "One Life to Live's" Erika Slezak) and Tallulah Bankhead, these people face the possibility that some of them may have to die so that most will survive.

The other two original flicks from the Fox den are "12:01," starring Martin Landau, to air July 5, and "Based on An Untrue Story," starring Morgan Fairchild, airing August 2.

NBC ADDS ORIGINAL PROGRAMMING: The Peacock network, which began its original summertime programming with "South Beach," now winding up its stint on the tube, has another new limited-run series on the way: "Trade Winds," starring Efram Zimbalist, is set for an August 27 debut.

DIAL TONES: There's probably more speculating going on about Johnny Carson's rumored imminent return to television than was being done in the stock market before the 1929 crash. So far, it's been noised about that Carson would take on a sort of elder statesman approach, much like his good friend, Walter Cronkite, who maintains a presence on the tube by hosting specials on CBS and cable.

Kathryn Harrold, whose previous TV series, "The Bronx Zoo" and "I'll Fly Away" — both excellent shows that should have done better in the ratings, has joined HBO's "The Larry Sanders Show" which stars Garry Shandling.

Pet Care

by Cleo & Brad Conrad

Q. We have the same problem with our golden retriever every summer. We leave her in our yard when we go to work since she loves to be outdoors. However, it seems she also loves to dig holes all over the yard. She does it every summer, and we don't know why or how to stop her. Needless to say, this is unsightly and annoying. Can you help?

A. Dogs will dig holes for two reasons: they are trying to cool off in the moist dirt, and they are bored.

Why not get your dog a child's plastic swimming pool (the inexpensive type) and fill it up with water? Since she's a retriever, she won't be fearful of getting wet.

You can also provide her with some plastic toys so that she's amused while she's cooling off.

The pool will also provide her with plenty of drinking water. However, do be sure to keep it clean. You should dump out the old water every week (you can do this right onto the lawn). Swish out the dirt thoroughly with a garden hose, and refill.

Coach Hall: "Kentucky was an extremely fine ball club"

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Former University of Kentucky basketball coach Joe B. Hall was in Prestonsburg last Wednesday to help Prestonsburg Community College promote and plan landscaping for the present walking track, "River Walk." Hall took time to walk the beautiful track that is frequented by so many health conscious people.

At the track, Coach Hall took time out to reflect on a variety of items and shared some of the personal side of himself.

This is the first part of a feature series on the popular former UK coach who was the last to lead the university to a national championship.

Hall is currently senior vice-president of Central Bank in Lexington. He worked behind the microphone during the telecast of UK basketball games this past season along with Charlie Alexander.

Coach Hall has UK pegged to be a good team this year and their success was not a surprise.

"Kentucky was an extremely fine basketball team this past season," said Hall. "I thought at one time in the SEC tournament and the first round of the NCAA tournament, they were one of the finest basketball teams I had ever seen."

"Offensively and defensively, they had great, great balance on their team. It was just exciting to watch them play. They were just blowing teams off the floor."

Hall feels that the Wolverines of Michigan changed some things.

"In the NCAA finals, meeting a team like Michigan in the first round, a team that was a youthful underdog, so to speak, just brought out the best in Michigan. They just played an exceptionally fine game."

Hall feels that Michigan just got "to the best parts of Kentucky's game" by beating the press and "they stymied (Travis) Ford in getting the three point shot."

"That seemed to inhibit Kentucky and turned out they weren't as successful as people anticipated. But, on the other hand, they were extremely successful for the year and gave us a lot of exciting moments. I'm sure we are going to see plenty more from teams like that and coach Rick Pitino."

THE UNFORGETTABLES

No one will ever forget the contribution that three Kentucky lads and a transplanted Hoosier made to the Kentucky program during the hard times the university went through during probation.

Coach Hall believes they will live in the hearts of Kentucky fans for a long time.

Isaac's three-run triple gives Astros HAP Little League title

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

There was plenty of action Wednesday night at the Stumbo Park Little League field as the Ivel Reds and Allen Astros battled in a good old-fashioned championship game.

Jesse Isaac, a fifth-inning sub, wore the hero's hat for this one. He tripled with the bases loaded to tie the game and then scored the winning run to give the Astros a 10-9 win and the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League Championship.

"We lost one game all year," said Allen coach Jackie Day Crisp, "and that was the first game of the season."

Who beat him?

"The Reds," he said.

The Astros looked as if they were doomed to just a second-place finish as they entered the bottom of the sixth looking at a 9-5 deficit.

The message was even bleaker when the first two batters were easy outs. Jason Lewis fanned and Alvin Reed, the lead-off man, bounced back to the pitcher for the second out.

The excitement that was growing in the Reds cheering section was subdued somewhat when Nathan Leslie singled with two out. Seth Crisp, who played long ball earlier, was intentionally passed. Scotty Walls then bounced a ball to deep short and legged it out for an infield single, thus loading the bases. Leslie scored when Dusty Stephens collected his second hit of the game, leaving the bags jammed with Astros.

The Allen Astro crowd went into orbit when Isaac drilled a three-run triple to tie the game at 9-9. On a wild pitch, Coach Day sent Isaac home with the winning run as the Reds' fans sat in disbelief while the Astro fans celebrated.

The Ivel Reds had nothing to hang their heads about. They defeated the Mudcreek Cubs twice in the tournament and took the Astros to the wire in the finals.

"Really, they outplayed us," confessed Coach Crisp. "They had us. We were down with two outs."

The score was tied 1-1 after the first inning as the Reds took a 1-0 lead. But Crisp tied the game with a long drive over the fence in left field. The Reds scored their run on a lead-off single by Eugene Miller and an error at shortstop. Shannon Williams had a first-inning single.

Scotty Walls doubled after Crisp homered, but he was left stranded at second.

Ivel claimed a 3-1 lead with two in the top of the second. Dale Mullins and Aaron Swiger scored for the Reds.

Allen claimed a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the third inning as seven batters paraded to the plate for the Astros. A lead-off single by Reed and Leslie's double accounted for one run. Walls singled with one out, scoring Leslie, and Stephens had a RBI single in the inning.

The way the game started, you would expect several lead changes before a final winner was determined. And that is what took place. The Reds exploded for five runs in the fourth that eventually chased Crisp, who started for the Astros.

Ivel batted around in the inning as they took a 8-4 lead. A shortstop error off the bat of Goble started the rally. Cline walked and Miller singled home one run. Williams forced Miller at first base by bouncing to short for the first out. Lonzo Stephens was safe when a throw to first was dropped, scoring Cline. Shawn Deskins walked to load the bases for the Reds.

With two out, Mullins walked, forcing in Williams. Swiger then singled home two runs to give the Reds the 8-4 advantage.

After the Astros went out quietly in the fourth, the Reds added another run in the top of the fifth inning off Walls, who replaced Crisp, to make it a 9-4 game. Walls hit Goble with a pitch and he eventually scored on Miller's base hit.

Allen came back and posted a run in the bottom of the fifth on Crisp's second home run -- a solo shot -- in the bottom of the frame.

Deskins doubled for the Reds leading off the Reds sixth, but he was left stranded when Walls fanned the next three batters.

Walls picked up the win for the Reds, working the fifth and sixth inning. He struck out four of the six batters he faced. Crisp, who started, went the first four, allowing eight runs on four hits.

Miller was the losing pitcher, going the distance for the Reds. He allowed 10 runs on 13 hits. He fanned 10 batters and walked but one.

Leslie, who had been batting clean-up for the Astros, was moved to the number two spot ahead of Crisp. Leslie had seen the bat taken out of his hands in previous games when he was intentionally walked. Coach Crisp placed the hard hitter in front of Crisp, forcing the opposition to pitch to him. Leslie had two hits in the game with a double and an RBI.

Walls continued to crush the ball with three hits and Stephens had two hits in the contest. Isaac was a perfect two-for-two from the plate with three RBIs. Crisp, with his two home runs, collected three runs-batted-in.

Miller was outstanding on the mound as well as from the plate. He collected three hits for the Reds and was hit by a pitch in the second. Williams, Deskins, and Swiger had the other Reds' hits.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor, Sports Editor

HAP ALL-STARS CARRIES FAVORITE ROLE

It is Little League All-Star baseball time and it all gets started this Monday evening in Martin County as the Harold-Allen-Prater (HAP) All-Stars set to defend their title from last year.

I look for the HAP nine to defend their title and repeat as District 7, Area 2 champions. This will be a strong squad and their strength will not lie in their pitching alone but at the plate also.

As of yet (Wednesday) the squad had not been named but was expected to be picked yesterday (Thursday) following the championship game of their tournament.

Neither Beaver Creek nor Wheelwright have made their choices but are expected to this weekend.

Prestonsburg has made their selection and will lack depth in the pitching department.

GOOD CONTESTS EXPECTED FRIDAY NIGHT

The 15th Region All-Star tournament games will be played Friday night at Johnson Central with the first game beginning at 5:30 p.m. and the second contest scheduled for approximately 8 p.m.

All three squads will see action as some of the players and coaches return for one more game.

Come on out and watch our Floyd County players perform and enjoy an evening of exciting high school baseball.

JOE B IN TOWN

Former University of Kentucky basketball coach Joe B. Hall was in town (see separate story in sports section) and I enjoyed and appreciated the time he gave me to talk a spell.

This is the second time that I have had the opportunity to interview the former Wildcat coach, the other being back in 1984 when he was recruiting Todd May.

Joe is very easy to relate to and is looking good.

WILL REDS TRY TO DEAL AFTER CLASSIC?

The 1993 major league baseball All-Star tournament is just around the corner and it doesn't appear that very many Cincinnati Reds will be named to the squad.

It's hard to believe that Barry Larkin is running second to Ozzie Smith of St. Louis in balloting for the shortstop position. While Larkin may not get the starting spot he will be the lone Red named to the team.

After the All-Star Classic, especially if the Reds are still out of contention, look for "Trader" (or "Traitor") Jim Bowden to start unloading some of the high priced (and over priced) Reds.

Surely to be placed on the block for sacrificing will be third baseman Chris Sabo. If Sabo leaves the Reds then I will become a Florida Marlin fan and root awfully hard for the Rockies.

Also, look for Bowden to unload Bip Roberts who becomes a free agent after this season. The Reds will not want to re-sign the second baseman with the price going to be what is expected.

John Smiley is a major disappointment for the Reds this year. Would anyone want to trade for an $18 million-plus pitcher who is 3-9 on the year? The only way for Tom Glavine to become a loser is for the Braves to trade him to the Reds.

Tom Browning is certain to be shipped out to other parts. The Reds are going to make sure that he doesn't get his 200-plus innings in even if it kills them.

What the Reds need, besides a complete new pitching staff, is some punch off the bench. Cecil Epsy, Gary Varsho, Juan Samuel, Jacob Brumfield and Jeff Branson make up the subs list for the Reds.

Marty and Joe don't seem to even enjoy broadcasting the Reds games. They would rather talk about those JTM's or what the opposing team has to offer.

Remember Chris Hammond? He is 8-4 for the expansion Marlins and has won seven straight.

Wasn't he a Cincinnati Red last year? Didn't the Reds trade him away this year and opt to keep Tim Lincecum?

That deal stinks.

RUMOR HAS IT

Dave Thomas will stay on at Pikeville as athletic director bypassing the job at Pike Central as head basketball coach. If so, will Eugene Lyons reenter the search or will they continue to look elsewhere? We will have to wait and see.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Mullins hurls no-hitter in shutting down of Maytown

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Terrance Mullins was mighty stingy with his pitches Tuesday evening at Stumbo Park.

All the hard throwing righthander did was toss a no-hit, no-run game against the Maytown Mets in the Floyd County Babe Ruth League.

Mullins got some offensive help from Brian Adams who had a two-run double and a fifth-inning triple, driving in three runs.

Adam Coleman and Patrick Bryant each collected two hits.

Mullins fanned nine batters in the route-going outing. He walked four batters and hit two.

McDowell led 1-0 after the first inning on a base hit by Chris Moore and Coleman's RBI single.

They plated five runs against starter Jimmy Ratliff in the third inning to take a 6-0 lead. Adams laced a two-out double to right center field, scoring Kevin Thacker and Bryant. He late-scored on a wild pitch and an error on the pitcher. Steve Hamilton, who walked, moved to third on an error when Ratliff tried to pick him off and scored on a wild pitch.

Adams tripled home a run in the fifth inning and scored on an error at second base to make it a 8-0 game. McDowell pushed across five more runs in the sixth to mercy the Mets 14-0. Coleman collected his second hit of the game in the inning.

Maytown, who had won two in a row, committed four errors in the game. McDowell played errorless baseball.

Ratliff suffered the loss, working two-and-a-third innings. He surrendered six runs on four hits while striking out but one batter. He walked five.

Nick Halbert came on in relief in the third inning to get the last out on a strike-out of Moore. He worked the final three-and-a-third innings, allowing eight runs on five hits. He walked three and fanned one and hit one batter.

Coleman and Bryant had three stolen bases for McDowell.

Martin Braves upset Duff Orioles 5-3 in comeback win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Braves spotted the Duff Orioles with a 3-0 lead and then came from behind to post a 5-3 win in the Beaver Creek Little League Tournament played at the Minnie Park at Minnie.

Brian Jones had a rough second inning when the Orioles scored their three runs. But they held Duff in check the rest of the way, giving up only one hit over the final four innings.

Jones seemed to gain confidence as the game went on and the Orioles failed to chase him in the third. He fanned nine batters, walked four in the game and allowed only two hits in six innings of work.

Shawn Hensley, the ace of the Orioles staff, was too distracted with other things to survive the Braves attack in the third and fourth innings. While Hensley did give up only two hits, he walked nine batters and that came back to haunt him.

The Braves put the game in the win column in the fourth inning when they plated three runs to take the 5-3 lead.

James Seward reached on a fielder's choice and scored on three wild pitches by Hensley to tie the game at 3-3. The righthander then walked Danny Cox and Toby Samons consecutively. Cox scored on three wild tosses to the plate which gave the Braves the lead at 4-3.

Martin scored an insurance run in the inning when Samons scored on Jeremy Wallen's base hit.

The Orioles looked as if they were going to live up their billing and have an easy time over the Braves who had won only one regular season game.

Hensley singled and advanced to third when the ball got away from the leftfielder. Hensley scored on an error at shortstop off the bat of Ivan Gunnells. John Ousley walked and scored, along with Gunnell's, when Jones uncorked a wild pitch that scored both runners.

After the Orioles went out in order in the third, the Braves went to work on Hensley and scored twice in the inning to make it a 3-2 game.

Desmond Spencer tripled with two out in the frame and scored on a wild pitch. Nathan Hackworth was hit by a pitch and later he scored on a wild pitch.

Duff went out in order in three of the last four innings, putting only one base runner on base.

Some shaky base running by Heath Scott in the sixth took his team out of the inning and a chance to tie the game.

Cummings organizing summer swim league

For Steve Cummings, competitive swimming has always been a big part of his life. As a former college swimmer, he wants now to relay his experiences to young determined swimmers.

Cummings is partly responsible for the newly-formed swim team at Johnson Central High School and the team enjoyed some success in their second season last year.

Now Cummings would like to see other area high schools develop teams on which young and upcoming swimmers could participate.

"I would love to see a program developed at Allen Central," said Cummings. "They have the indoor pool and have an excellent facility for having a team."

Cummings said that he spoke with Allen Central principal Jody Sword and he expressed interest in having such a team.

"Mr. Sword said that he was all for it," explained Cummings. "We need to find those who are interested in it and get it going. It just seems that it is not sinking in about starting a program."

Cummings envisions programs at Johnson Central, Allen Central and Pikeville joining other area schools to form a league.

Cummings has taken steps to organize a summer swim league for younger swimmers in Johnson County and would love to have a Floyd County team enter.

"This, along with other summer swim teams, could act as a feeder system for the high school teams," Cummings stated.

Cummings said that although some who come out for the teams get discouraged at times and some even quit, the majority stick with it and become good swimmers.

"This past year we had 25 to 30 swimmers," he said, "and I would write out the workouts. My assistant would then follow the workouts the best she could. Some got discouraged and quit but those who stayed have gotten better."

Cummings said that female swimmers seemed more interested than the male swimmers in competing and, therefore, they are the better swimmers right now.

"The boys still have some to go yet," he said, "but we have some good boy swimmers coming up."

As in all other athletics, parental support around the pool is of great importance. Cummings said that parental support for his team is decent. But he points to Pike County as to the type of support parents need to give.

"Pikeville had real strong parental support," said the veteran swimmer. "They have 123 swimmers on their team and 16 volunteers help with coaching workouts."

Cummings has formed the Appalachian Swim Conference which includes Lawrence County, Magoffin County, Pike County, Johnson County and the YMCA in Ashland.

"I would like to have a Floyd County team in it," he said. "I also would like for it to be a year-round conference."

The conference will not, as of yet, have a championship meet, but will take in other championship meets to help instruct parents on how a championship meet is to be run.

While Floyd County has the Jenny Wiley Waves summer swim team, Cummings feels that interest is dropping in the local squad as well as other summer teams.

If you would like more information about entering the summer league, contact Cummings at 287-2044 or phone the Highlands Regional Hospital pharmacy.

Hall

"(Richie) Farmer, (Sean) Woods, (Deron) Feldhaus and (John) Pelphrey are four players who stayed on at UK during the probation at the university," said the 1978 NCAA championship coach. "There wasn't an opportunity for them to play in an NCAA tournament and the true Kentucky spirit embodied in the three just carried them to their greatest accomplishments. Once they had their backs to the wall, they really stood tall and came forward to play great basketball."

Hall said that the four probably played greater than their talent because of their combined effort.

"They probably played better basketball than they were capable of playing individually. But they put it together in a team and the sum total of the team was much better than the individual's."

Hall said that he was not downplaying their achievements for Kentucky.

"Both Feldhaus and Farmer worked for Central Bank the summer before last and they traveled with me a lot on the road calling on banks, and I never met two finer young men. Kentucky can be proud of these two young men — and I can include both Pelphrey and Woods in there. Thanks to them for what they did at UK and for sticking around."

Coach Hall sees the move by Pelphrey to Oklahoma State as a good one.

"Pelphrey is a bright young man," said Hall. "He has a good future in coaching. If he chooses that profession, and obviously he's going to, he will be a hot item in the years to come."

In Wednesday's sports section, Coach Hall shares some memories at the University of Kentucky

Pelphrey rejoins Sutton; this time as an assistant coach

by Noel Crum
Paintsville Herald Sports

Sometimes dreams do come true. Just ask former Paintsville and University of Kentucky standout John Pelphrey.

He was named Mr. Basketball in 1987, played four years at UK and recently finished a season of professional basketball overseas.

However, one dream had eluded Pelphrey until last week. That dream was becoming a basketball coach.

But thanks to former Kentucky coach and current Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton, that dream is now a reality.

Pelphrey, who will be an assistant coach on the Cowboy staff, is excited about the opportunity.

"It's always been a dream of mine to be a college coach," said Pelphrey. "It gives me a chance to coach great players at a great university with people I know."

Sutton feels that Pelphrey will be a great addition to his staff.

"John Pelphrey was one of the most competitive players I have ever coached," said Sutton, who coached Pelphrey during his freshman season in 1989. "His work habits were as good as any player I have been associated with. He displayed qualities as a player, that I knew if he went into coaching, he would be a good one. I am glad he is on our staff."

Pelphrey feels that Sutton's credentials are outstanding.

"His coaching abilities are the stuff that make hall of famers," said Pelphrey. "He's the only coach to take four different teams to the NCAA tournament. He has won over 500 games, and he's won championships in three major conferences."

During his career at UK, Pelphrey scored 1257 points (24th on school's all-time list), averaged 11 points per game, shot 45.6 percent from the field and finished sixth on the school's all-time assist list with 327.

Pelphrey, who was an AP honorable mention All-American selection in 1991, graduated from Kentucky last year with a degree in marketing.

Now that Pelphrey has completed a successful career on the court, he is looking forward to coaching the sport that he loves.

Four-run fifth gives Dodgers win over Cubs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Harold Dodgers "B" team scored four runs in the fifth inning and held off the Mud Creek Cubs "B" team for a 12-8 win in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League Tournament at Stumbo Park.

The runs loomed bigger after the Cubs scored twice in the bottom of the fifth.

Brock Keathley suffered the setback for the Cubs with Casey Brown picking up the win.

Chase Gibson had two hits for the Dodgers with Brown and Anthony Tackett collecting one. Tim Boyd had a fifth-inning single.

Adam Hamilton had two hits for the Cubs and four stolen bases. Brent Hamilton had four stolen bases also for the Cubs. Bart Newsome, Keathley and Evan Howell collected base hits in the game. Brent Newsome singled and stole second in the fifth inning before scoring.

Roberts loses by kneecap

A video replay of the Warfield Liberty Run two-mile run showed that, although Ken Cantron and Rick Roberts crossed the finish line at the same time, there was a kneecap difference in the finish.

"They said that his kneecap crossed the line before I did," said Roberts. "We both finished with the same time."

Both runners were clocked at 13:58 but Roberts had to settle for second place in the run.

Roberts said that he had been "a bridesmaid to Martin Best the last three years in the Liberty Run but this was to be his year."

Andrew Reed of Martin placed fourth overall.

Veteran female runner Debbie Biddle ended the six-year reign of Thelma Hensley by winning the women's division with her time of 15:02.

Seventy-five runners took part in the race and was classified as the biggest race in Eastern Kentucky which seems to be seeing less and less interest in the racing events.

Richie Farmer basketball camp

Former University of Kentucky basketball player Richie Farmer will be conducting his first annual Richie Farmer Basketball Camp at Shelby Valley High School from July 26-30.

The camp is for boys and girls ages seven through 15.

Cost for the camp is $75 for the week per camper. Camp sessions for 7-10 year olds will be conducted 8:30 - 12:00 daily while 11-15 year old campers will be in session from 1 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

To receive a camp brochure write: Richie Farmer Basketball Camp, 259 South Collins Street, Richmond, Kentucky 40475.

Those interested may call (606) 623-5938 or (502) 223-3072 to request a brochure.

Woodford Cross Country Caper

Seventh-seven runners ran in the Woodford Cross Country Caper 5K run this past Wednesday night and Rick Roberts placed eighth overall in the run. Roberts ran the run in 19:04 holding the 13th position before kicking in and finishing eighth.

"It was hot and hilly," said Roberts, "with the temperatures in the mid-80's. It also was muggy and buggy. You could have started a bug collection out of that race."

Steve Woods of Lexington had the winning time of 16:43.

Wrestling tonight at Allen Central

Wrestling returns tonight to Allen Central High School with former WCW wrestler "Boogie Woogie Man" Jimmy Valiant taking on Ray Cooper in the feature bout.

Animal Steele, formerly of the Worlds Wrestling Federation, will go against Mr. Success. Also on the card will be the women wrestlers. Ryan "Ko Ko Warrior" Shepherd (former Allen Central student) will be making his professional wrestling debut against Chain Lighting.

The card gets underway at 8 p.m. Admission is $10 ringside and $6 general admission.

Tennis play continues at Archer Park

The First Commonwealth Bank Annual Tennis Tournament continues through the weekend at Archer Park with Class B and C ending on Sunday.

Martin Reds roll past Blue Jays, 16-8

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Darkness caught up with the Martin Reds and Martin Blue Jays Monday night at the Minnie Park, but not before the Reds had scored a 16-8 win in the first round of the Beaver Creek Little League Tournament.

Umpire Ed Moore called the game after five innings because of darkness.

Jesse Hall was in control of things to an extent, but he did experience some control problems. He walked eight batters. Hall allowed the Blue Jays only one hit in the game and that came off the bat of Bret Patton in the fifth inning.

Patton suffered the loss for the Blue Jays, working just 1 1/3 inning. He was relieved by Dustin Crisp who pitched the final 3 2/3 innings.

The Reds scored four runs in the second, third and fifth innings en route to the one-sided win. Four runs scored in the second without the benefit of a base hit. Patton walked five batters in the inning and hit one. The Blue Jays committed one error.

The Blue Jays got three of their own in the bottom of the second without a hit. Errors hurt Hall in the inning as he walked two and there were two errors.

Kevin Goodman swung a heavy bat for the Reds with two hits that included a fourth-inning triple. Goodman singled in the fifth. Jeremy Conn had two runs batted in with a third-inning double.

Hall allowed eight runs on one hit over five innings. He walked eight and struck out eight.

Patton fanned two batters and walked six in his inning-plus of work. Crisp struck out five batters, walked eight and gave up nine runs on nine hits.

The Reds stranded nine runners and the Blue Jays left five on base.

Astros edge Martin Cardinals 13-12

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Drift Astros scored five times in the fifth inning and held on to defeat a good Martin Cardinals team 13-12 in Little League baseball tournament action at Martin earlier this week.

The Astros, playing without Billy Hall, trailed the Cardinals 11-9 entering the fifth inning. Byron Hall started the five-run rally with a double and John Mullins walked. Clayton Williams then laced a double to right field, scoring both Hall and Mullins to tie the game at 11-11. Williams strayed a little too far off the bag at second and was tagged out in a run-down.

Joe Skeens walked after Graden Allen had singled. Jimmy Lee Stumbo walked to load the bases for the Astros and Jerry Bailey delivered a two-run single that made it 13-11.

McDowell got one run back in the top of the sixth but fell a run short of tying the game.

"We donated runs to them," said Astros coach Clinis Hall. "We walked runs in because we couldn't get the ball over the plate."

Brent Stumbo started on the mound for Drift and had control problems. He was relieved by Jimmy Lee Stumbo who came on in the second inning. Stumbo picked up the win for the Astros.

The Drift pitchers walked a total of 18 batters in the game.

The Cardinals' pitching didn't fair much better as they issued 15 base-on-balls. Jimmy Hayes started for the Cards with Nick Samons coming on in relief to absorb the loss.

Byron Hall was perfect from the plate with three hits in three appearances. He had two singles and a double for the Astros.

Martin grabbed a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning. But Drift came back and scored four times in the bottom of the frame to go ahead 4-3. Skeens, Bailey and Williams had runs batted in for Drift.

The Cardinals pushed across five in the top of the second for a 9-4 game and the Astros made it 9-5 with a single run in the bottom of the inning.

Three runs scored for Drift in the bottom of the third for a 8-8 game. But the Cardinals came back with two in the fourth and Drift failed to score in the inning to trail 10-8.

Miller, Davis, Hayes and Bailey all had hits for the Cardinals.

Mullins fans 14 in 5-0 shutout of McDowell Sox

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

John Mullins struck out 14 batters as the Drift Astros ambushed the McDowell Sox 5-0 in the Beaver Creek Little League Tournament being played at Martin and Minnie.

Mullins scattered four hits in the route-going performance and he walked only one batter.

The Astros scored all the runs that they really needed in the first inning when Byron Hall, who was hit by a pitch, scored on Mullins RBI single for a 1-0 lead.

But the Astros got two in the second off of loser John Lawson to take a 3-0 advantage. Lawson had some control problems in the inning and walked four consecutive batters, scoring Jerry Bailey with the second run of the game. Jimmy Lee Stumbo scored on Hall's RBI base hit to make it 3-0.

In the Astros fourth, J.J. Hall walked to start the inning and Brent Slone drew a one-out walk. Both runners scored on Clayton Williams two-run double.

"Clayton had trouble swinging the bat earlier in the year for us," said Astro coach Clinis Hall. "But he has certainly been swinging good now."

And it couldn't have come at a better time for the Astros who had better time for the Astros who had to leave their best pitcher and one of their top hitters, Billy Hall, home, the league tournament.

"This whole team misses Billy," said Hall. "Clayton's bat has started to come around and that has helped us. He is a big strong kid and was our leading hitter last year. But we still would love to have Billy out there."

Jackie Owens had two hits for the Sox with John Lawson and Jonathan Turner collecting one each.

Cincinnati Reds to conduct try-out camp in Williamson

Ever think of playing in the major leagues?

Well, this could be your first step toward a major league career when the Cincinnati Reds hold a tryout camp for baseball players Monday, June 28 in Williamson, W. Va., at the Lefty Hamilton Baseball Park. The camp is open to all boys from 16 to 22 years of age. High school sophomores and juniors are especially urged to attend.

Reds' Special Assistant, Gene Bennett, and Reds' Scouting Supervisor, Bo Trumbo, will be in charge of the workouts which are scheduled to start promptly at 9:30 a.m.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and all players participating in the workouts must be registered prior to the 9:30 a.m. starting time. Bennett and Trumbo will be assisted by Reds' Scouts Don Moyer, Dan Godby and Dick Smith.

All eligible players are requested to bring their own uniforms, gloves and shoes. The Reds will furnish all other equipment. In addition, each player will be responsible for his traveling and living expenses, if any, unless he is signed to a contract with the Cincinnati Reds organization.

Players must be at least 16-years-old to be eligible to participate and all American Legion players must bring written permission from their Post Commander or their Legion Coach in order to tryout. Also, in order to work out, any player who is under 21 years of age must bring with him a written release from a parent or legal guardian accepting full liability. No exceptions.

Several of the players now playing baseball in the major leagues were first seen at tryout camps such as this one, and any boy seriously interested in playing professional baseball should make every effort to attend this camp.

Mother Nature Preparing Double Whammy For Pets
Bumper Crop Of Heartworm, Fleas, Ticks And Allergies To Make Pets Miserable

(NAPS)—This may well be the summer of our pets' discontent. Veterinarians from Maine to Florida, to Texas, to California, are anticipating a particularly strong invasion of fleas and ticks. "Thanks to Mother Nature, these pesky pests spent their winters snug as bugs in a rug under a blanket of snow," explains Dr. Herbert Lapidus, Director of the Scratchex Pet Skin Care Center. Dr. Lapidus goes on to caution pet owners that a predicted continuance of damp weather for the next 90 to 120 days will mean a pure paradise for these humidity loving creatures.

and tick fighters. Look for flea and tick products that contain the safe and effective ingredient pyrethrins. Pyrethrins are made from a relative of the chrysanthemum plant and are so safe that this natural insecticide is even used around food. Scratchex Flea and Tick Shampoo, Dip and Powder are all pyrethrin based. Be sure that you use the three prong approach of killing fleas in the house, in the yard and on your pet.

Heartworm Threat To Cats

Of special concern to cat owners is the news that the heartworm, most often found in dogs, is now a very real and present danger for cats as well. "Cat owners are urged to have their pets tested and heartworm medication given just as they now do for their dogs. An increase in the breeding grounds of mosquitoes where heavy rains have been falling is the number one reason for the increase in feline heartworm. Veterinarians are already reporting an alarming increase in both feline and canine heartworm cases," warns Dr. Lapidus.

Allergies Increasing
The damp weather also means a tornado of airborne allergies that will not only have pet owners coughing and sneezing, but dogs and cats scratching as well. As with many canine and feline health problems, these allergies will show up in increased skin problems.

To get rid of fleas try these tips:

1. Thoroughly shampoo your pet. Leave the product on for a good five minutes before rinsing.
2. Wash all bedding that your pet uses. You might want to add a cupful of flea shampoo to the wash to kill any eggs that are playing hide-and-go-seek.
3. Vacuum your house thoroughly. Place leftover flea collar strips in your vacuum cleaner bag. After vacuuming, throw the bag out.
4. "Bomb" your yard.
5. Follow up this first assault with a Scratchex Color-Full Flea Collar. A good flea collar is the extra protection that can make a big difference for your pet after the initial assault. Use a Color-Full Collar so that your pet can look as good as it feels.
6. Don't drop your guard, not even for a minute. Make sure that your pet continues to be flea-free with a good grooming every day and a repeat of steps one through four every two weeks.

Mosquitoes On The Rise

Mother nature has been playing with all of us in the past few years and this year will be no exception. Standing puddles and pools of water across the country, even in previous drought areas, have become the perfect breeding ground for mosquitoes. New varieties of mosquitoes have slipped into the country and are introducing all kinds of new problems for both man and animals. And mosquitoes carry the heartworm larvae. If your pet is bitten by a mosquito, it could mean big trouble. Your veterinarian is the one to see for testing and preventative medicine. Pesky fleas, like mos-

Inhalant allergies which cause the itch, scratch, itch cycle resulting in raw patches of skin, will send more pets to the vet than in the last few years. These allergies are caused by tree pollen, grass clippings, mold and other airborne particles. And these allergies are predicted to start early and stay late.

For the frantic itching, scratching and nipping caused by many of summer's enemies, use a medicated lotion and shampoo. Sulfodene Medication and new Sulfodene Medicated Shampoo with conditioners, with the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval, offer relief from itching and allow healing to occur quickly. Once you've done everything you can to protect your pet against warm weather dangers... enjoy your summer.

What's a pet owner to do? "Be alert," suggests Dr. Lapidus. "Don't wait until things get out of hand, producing staggering veterinary bills. Begin your pet's protection now. The first step is a trip to your pet's doctor for a total health checkup. Then be sure that you keep your guard up at home. That means administering heartworm medication, paying attention to your pet's body language and the condition of its coat," says Dr. Lapidus.

Preventive Measures
Preventative measures are as wise for pets as they are for people. Check your pet every day while you groom it for warning signs of trouble. A dry, dull coat is almost always a sign of trouble. Comb or brush your pet on a white towel, if you see any little black spots, like pepper or you discover ticks, it's time to get out the flea

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Before Heat And Crime Wave Hit—Install Home Security System

(NAPS)—It would be nice if summer just brought longer days and vacations. Unfortunately, it also brings open doors and windows and an increase in crime.

Statistics suggest a home security system can reduce your chances of becoming a crime victim.

According to an FBI Uniform Crime Report, residential crimes are on the rise and violent crimes, burglaries and robberies all increase during the summer. Statistics from the Bureau of Justice show 45 percent of all crimes occur in households. One of every ten suburban households and two of every ten in the city will be the victim of crime.

- Have a neighbor pick up mail, newspapers and other parcels that collect at your door, suggesting you are not home.
- Keep household tools and ladders that could help a burglar gain access to your home in a locked tool shed or basement.
- Make sure all garage doors are locked before you leave home.
- Do not put your name on mailboxes or doormats.
- Have a friend or neighbor house sit if you are away for a wedding, funeral or other publicized event.
- Install an electronic alarm system monitored by a U.L. listed look when you're away for a time.

- Start a neighborhood watch program.

Security systems such as Honeywell's TotalHome can alert occupants with an alarm in case of fire or burglary and send a signal to a customer service center to notify the fire or police department. It also controls lighting to guide occupants safely to an exit and turns on outside lights to further aid evacuation or deter intruders. The system can be operated using a wall-mounted panel or accessed remotely by touch-tone phone.

On the encouraging side, mounting evidence suggests home security systems reduce your chances of becoming a victim of household crime. Here are ten tips to safeguard your home from the experts at Honeywell, whose TotalHome™ home automation system can be customized to fit each owner's lifestyle:

- Install strong doors and locks.
- Make sure all windows are secure—not just those at street level.
- Use automatic timers on lights and appliances to give your home a lived-in
