Collins, Stumbo will square off this fall

Gorman Collins

John M. Stumbo

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Incumbent Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo turned back a spirited challenge Tuesday from one well-known radio personality to earn a chance against another this fall.

Surprisingly close as early returns filtered in Tuesday, Stumbo's margin over Republican-turned-Democrat Dale McKinney widened as the night drew on. McKinney, owner-operator of Martin radio station WMDJ, made an issue of the county's solid waste problems during his campaign and that issue obviously helped McKinney carry 12 of the county's 41 precincts. Unofficial totals gave Stumbo the win, however, with a 8,994 vote total to McKinney's 7,011 votes.

Stumbo will now face Republican nominee Gorman Collins Sr. in the November election. Collins, who was unopposed in the primary, is also a radio personality as the owner of Prestonsburg station WQHY and is currently a member of the Prestonsburg City Council.

At least 25 percent of the county's fiscal court will be new come November as incumbent District Three Magistrate Betty Caudill was bounced from the court Tuesday by challenger Tommy Neal Adams. Adams drew an unofficial total of 1,815 votes in the eight-candidate Democrat primary, with Caudill finishing second with 1,328 votes. Others, in order of finish, included Eddie Meade, 239; Glennis Caudill, 221; Danny Bates, 198; Jack Akers, 178; Hie Samons, 124; and Darlene Hall, 92.

In Magisterial District One, incumbent Gerald DeRossett turned away four challengers to win renomination and a bid to face the younger half of the GOP Collins tandem this fall. Gorman Collins Jr. was unopposed in the Republican primary for the District One seat. Unofficial totals for the Democrat vote in District One went as follows: DeRossett, 2,173; Jack Rice, 1,399; Roger Rowe, 914; O. Sam Blankenship, 304; and Ernie R. Lafferty, 179.

In Magisterial District Two, incumbent Jackie Edford Owens won handily in the five-candidate field. Owens got 1,978 votes, followed by Kenneth Roberts, 978; Earsel L. Frazier, 545; Calvin Howell, 350; and Mike Layne, 144.

In District Four, incumbent Eral Tackett topped all challengers with 2,307 votes. That field was rounded out by Lennix Cola Ray Akers, 796; and Carter King, 495.

Official precinct totals will be published in the Friday, May 28 edition.

Sheriff keeps badge; Webb is new jailer

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Incumbent Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson came cleanly away from what was easily the muddiest campaign of the primary season to lead all vote-getters Tuesday.

Although former deputy sheriff John K. Blackburn had been expected by some to run neck and neck with Thompson, the incumbent pulled away to cross the finish line with over 4,000 votes more than the second-place Blackburn.

Unofficial totals credit Thompson with earning 10,625 votes of the 17,464 cast in the race to Blackburn's 6,428. Challenger Larry Shortridge finished a distant third, garnering 411 votes.

Challengers Blackburn and Shortridge made a number of accusations and insinuations against Thompson during the course of the campaign, but apparently those tactics failed to sway voters away from Thompson, whose popularity remained intact.

Thompson's 10,625 vote total was at least 1,400 more than any other candidate on the May 25 ballot.

Although the Floyd County jailer's race was less muddled than the sheriff's contest, its outcome seemed less clear, with 14 candidates vying for position throughout.

Early returns posted jailer candidate Junior Joseph as the favorite, but unofficial totals at evening's end showed that Joseph, with 2,656 votes, finished second behind winner Roger Webb.

Webb received 3,531 votes, defeating Joseph by 875 votes.

Edgel "Bide" Click, finished a strong third, earning 2,183 votes.

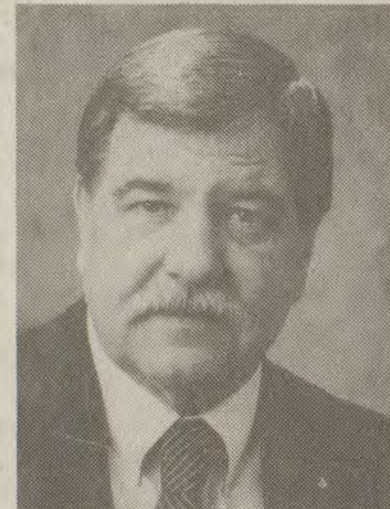

Rounding out the category in the order they appeared on the ballot, Clifford Hamilton received 1,090 votes; Ernest Graham Burchett, 1,110; Ollie Jay Leslie, 281; Herman Conn, 825; Homer Johnson, 817; Oscar E. "O" Rice, 899; Joseph Jody Mullins, 1,836; Robert A. DeRossett, 620; Onda L. Hunt, 274; and Carol Jean Neeley, 1,001.

Webb will take over at the jail in January for current Jailer Lawrence Hale, who did not seek re-election.

All winners of 1993 county elections will serve a five-year term in accordance with a constitutional amendment passed by state voters last November.

Only County Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo, District One Magistrate Gerald DeRossett and Floyd County Clerk Carla "Robinson" Boyd will face Republican challengers in November.

Non-partisan city races, with the exception of the city of Martin, will also appear on the ballot in November.

Eula Hall is lauded for "caring kindness"

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

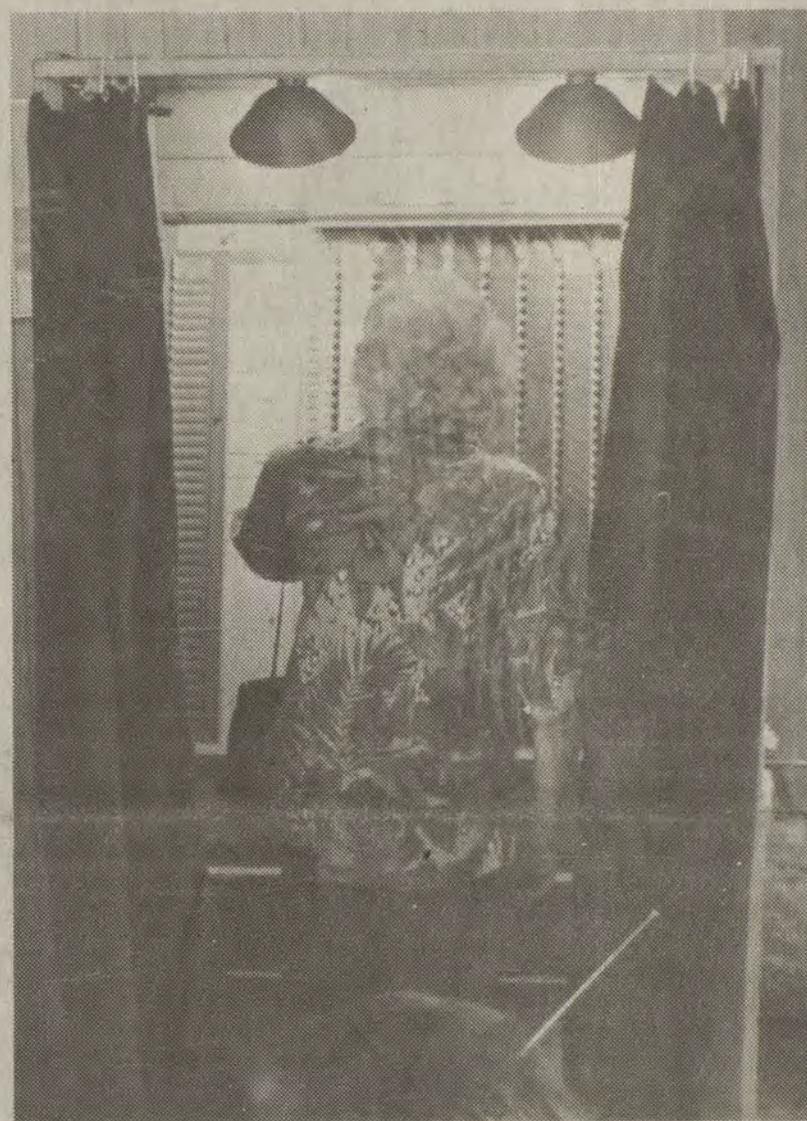

Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Clinic, received yet another honor Sunday afternoon when she was awarded an honorary Ph.D. by the president of Hartford, Connecticut's prestigious Trinity College.

According to Trinity College President Tom Gerety's speech, Hall was awarded the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters Sunday for her "... countless acts of caring kindness..., selfless toil..., and (her) message of hope for the people of Appalachia...."

Hall said Tuesday that she had been nominated for the award by a New York Times reporter who had earlier written about her groundbreaking work at the Mud Creek Clinic.

Also awarded honorary doctorates at Trinity Sunday were AIDS activist Mary D. Fisher; Emory University professor James W. Flannery; jazz bassist Milton John Hinton; Hartford Seminary professor Thomas Lanier Hoyt, Jr.; Hartford Stage Company director Mark Lamos; and author Ann Petry.

Official election results will appear in the Friday, May 28 edition of the Floyd County Times

Is this thing on?

Problems at polls curious, clerk says

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Problems at the polls plagued the political process in Floyd County Tuesday, preventing some early morning pollsters from casting their ballots and giving the state Board of Elections pause for thought.

The problems started early, Floyd County Clerk Carla "Robinson" Boyd said, when workers transporting the voting machines to the election precincts inadvertently switched the machines designated for Auxier and Abbott Creek.

Then, Boyd said, machines at the Auxier, Abbott, Porter, and Garrett precincts would not open to allow voters inside. A technician from Harp Enterprises, the company contracted to service the machines, was called in to remove and replace the doors. Others reported that Floyd County sheriff's deputies were also busy Tuesday morning opening the locked machines.

Worst of all, Boyd said, the machine placed at the Maytown precincts failed to work at all Tuesday morning because the ballot was incorrect, forcing pollsters to cast their votes on paper sample ballots for much of the day. Later in the day, Wheelwright voters were also reportedly forced to cast paper ballots.

All the voting machines were thoroughly inspected last week and seemed to be in perfect working order, Boyd said.

She suspects foul play. "You know, if it was just one machine, you might say 'Well it was just a freak accident,'" Boyd said.

Despite the numerous poll problems, Boyd said, there is no indication that the ballots have been "stuffed" or tampered with because the official seals on all the machines are still unbroken.

As a precaution, however, Boyd has requested that the state Board of Elections send an investigator to determine what, or perhaps who, went wrong, she said.

"I've been here a long time," Boyd said, "and this has never happened before."

City gives tentative okay to airport idea

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

The Prestonsburg City Council is proceeding with caution on plans to offer a portion of the Bert T. Combs Airport property as a potential site for a new Veteran's Administration nursing home.

The plan was first announced last week when Floyd County Development Authority Executive Director Darrell Gilliam told members of that agency that an informal consortium including members of the governmental bodies of Prestonsburg and Paintsville and Floyd, Martin and Lawrence counties had suggested submitting an application to the federal government offering property adjacent to the airport for the facility. In order to meet criteria for consideration, the application must be submitted by June 1. One problem with the plan, Big Sandy Area Development District director Roger Recktenwald told members of the board last week, is that the VA nursing home facility might not be compatible with the airport strip.

However, Gilliam said, the nursing home is expected to create an estimated 350 jobs with a $4 million annual payroll.

Boyd wins handily; Hunt ousts Patton

Carla Boyd

John Earl Hunt

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Floyd County voters unseated incumbent Commonwealth's Attorney Jerry Patton Tuesday, electing dark horse challenger John Earl Hunt by a slender margin in what may have been the primary's greatest upset.

In unofficial totals of the 17,030 ballots cast in Tuesday's election, representing over 56 percent of registered voters in the county, Hunt defeated Patton by a 539-vote margin, receiving 8,383 votes to Patton's 7,894.

That margin remained in question late Tuesday. The results in three precincts where malfunctioning voting machines were replaced with hand-written ballots and could be challenged. Paper ballots were cast in the Maytown, Jacks Creek and Cliff Number Two precincts Tuesday after ballot machines there failed.

Although Patton was dethroned, incumbent Floyd County Clerk Carla "Robinson" Boyd retained her crown, defeating her opponent, Willis Hall, by nearly 3,000 votes, earning 9,291 votes to Hall's 6,525.

In other election action, county surveyor candidate Larry E. Greer defeated opponent Reed Stamper Jr. by a considerable margin, ending the race with 6,061 votes to Stamper's 3,661.

Morgan Joseph, incumbent constable for District One, once again defeated all opposition, out-distancing Floyd County Detective Gary Wolfe by 1,467 to 1,063. Third-highest vote-getter in the race, William "Neal" Clevenger, received 833 votes and John Wallen received 822.

District Two Constable Bob Hackworth retained his seat, receiving 1,556 of the 3,556 ballots cast in the district. Runner-up in that race was Carmel R. "Chief" Conley, who received 657 votes. Rounding out the race are Amos Gibson, who received 283 votes; Randy Holbrook, 380; Robert L. Duncan, 406; and Sue "Robinson" Gearheart, the sole female candidate in any constable's race this year, who received 274 votes.

The hotly-contested District Three constable's race unseated incumbent candidate Ballard J. Mosely, who received only 301 votes to 25-year-old challenger Tandy B. Hamilton's 1,016. Rounding out that race, Charles Harmon received 598 votes; Sam Hall received 87; Raymond Hall, 155; Cleveland Tackett, 600; Danny "Peanut" Anderson, 178; David Hall, 342; Preston Collins, 440; Willie C. Moore, 53; and Jimmy Hall received 285.

Finally, Paul Sulton trounced the competition in the District Four Constable's race, earning 2,015 votes to runner-up Arnold Bob McKinney's 908. Green Wakeland and Ernest Hall earned 119 and 268, respectively.

Hale's extradition is delayed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It will be June 15 before a Laurel County judge decides if Floyd County native Harry Hale will be extradited to Carroll County, Georgia where he is wanted on theft and bail jumping charges.

Hale had asked to be returned to Floyd County during a hearing last week, but a judge denied his request, a Laurel County district clerk said Monday.

An arrest warrant for Hale was issued by Floyd County sheriff's deputy Homer Neeley in February for possession of stolen property after officers discovered several items in Hale's Garth home which appeared to belong to Chris Zahn, a Swiss traveler who disappeared in Georgia on May 21, 1992.

Hale is wanted on a forgery charge and for questioning in Zahn's disappearance by investigators in Cobb County, Georgia.

Floyd County officials want to question Hale about the March 1990 disappearance of Mitchell Manns of Martin. Manns was last seen in the Martin area on March 16, 1990 at around 3 p.m. He hasn't been seen since.

FBI and Prestonsburg Police also want to question Hale about the September 1992 murder of a Carl D. Perkins Job Corps student. The body of 21-year-old Walter Cropper was found lying in a wooded field just off Interstate 75 in Adairsville, Georgia.

Lanny Cox, an investigator with the Georgia Bureau of Investigation (GBI), said Tuesday that officials are waiting for Hale's return to Carroll County, Georgia, but he declined to say if GBI officials will question Hale about Zahn's disappearance. Cox said there have been no new developments in the Zahn case.

KMA grants Highlands CME accreditation

Highlands Regional Medical Center has been approved for accreditation by the Kentucky Medical Association to provide Continuing Medical Education (CME) for physicians. Highlands is the first institution in Eastern Kentucky to gain accreditation as a CME provider.

The Kentucky Medical Association grants provider accreditation only after an evaluation of the institution indicates compliance with the standards of KMA and the sponsoring organization has demonstrated ability to plan and implement CME activities in accordance with the essential guidelines. Strictly documented CME policies and procedures insure attainment of learning objectives and provides physicians the knowledge to enable them to improve medical care.

Physicians are required to attain a certain number of Continuing Medical Education credits each year, in order to stay up to date on the latest procedures and treatments options for various diseases.

Highlands has for many years provided CME programs in conjunction with the University of Kentucky.

Now, as an accredited CME provider, programs presented on a local level will enable area physicians the means to achieve a certain amount of their required CME credits without the need to travel long distances.

This year Highlands has hosted CME programs on Diabetes and Trauma and plans to hold presentations on topics including skin cancer, allergy and pediatrics.

Highlands has long been a health education resource for the community and now through its CME accreditation will be a medical education resource for physicians.

February turned up several cameras, a camera bag with Zahn's name inside and an Amish quilt reportedly belonging to Zahn.

Zahn's Euro credit card was used 31 times from April 30 through May 11, 1992. A surveillance camera in Mink's Liquor Store in Marietta, Georgia showed a man matching Hale's description purchase liquor using Zahn's credit card.

Zahn was reported missing on May 21, 1992 by a friend, Melanie Dolich of Deltona, Florida. Zahn was scheduled to begin a bus tour of U.S. National Parks on May 9, 1992. Zahn called travel agent Ann Santilli in Orange City, Florida on April 27, 1992 to confirm the tour. He has not been heard from again.

Hale was arrested in Miami, Florida in February and extradited to Carroll County, Georgia, but he was released before investigators could question him. Hale allegedly jumped bail and was arrested by Kentucky State Police investigator Frank Pierce on May 14 at Levi Jackson State Park near London, Kentucky.

Towler denies allegations :

McGuire says job posting is a sham

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County superintendent Steve Towler has denied a charge by a local attorney that he has promised jobs to individuals before the positions have been posted.

E. Mickey McGuire, who represents Pete Grigsby Jr., Tommy Thompson and Wayne Ratliff, whose jobs were eliminated under a reorganization plan, said Monday that due process hearings for his clients were canceled because he was going to introduce testimony that several key jobs had been promised before the reorganization.

"Apparently there was a real concern, I think, of what our witnesses were going to say at that hearing," McGuire said. "I think (the school board) either found out or suspected or somehow learned that we were going to ask for open hearings. We had two stories to tell, if we would've been allowed to put on our evidence."

"First of all we had considerable evidence that (posting jobs) was all a sham," McGuire continued. "That there is no job posting. That there is no openness and non-politics in hiring. Some people had been promised new jobs even before the reorganization. That jobs that are being posted are promised before they are even being posted. . . This job posting is a big show. I think we could have proven that the majority of new jobs since the date of the reorganization. . . had been promised prior to posting. The other side of our testimony would have been that our people never received anything except favorable job ratings."

Towler denied that he promised anybody a job, but said that he told school employees they would be strongly considered for positions.

"That's not the case," Towler said Tuesday in response to McGuire's allegations. "I have talked with a number of people and we've advertised all the positions. That might be someone's opinion. Whoever goes into those spots there will be some commentary that those decisions have already been made."

"There was no intention that everybody that was in a spot would not be given a spot somewhere else, but that doesn't mean that everyone will get a spot somewhere else," Towler added. "I think anyone can express an opinion that jobs have been promised or whatever. Since I'm the one that names the people only I can say if that's true or false. I doubt that I would say that it's true because I don't think that would be the way things are going. I've told some people that if they would apply for those jobs they would be given strong consideration."

McGuire declined to identify his witnesses, but he said testimony would have come from "people that just talked too much and then wished they hadn't."

Due process hearings for four administrators affected by the reorganization were set for May 17. The hearings were canceled that morning upon the advice of Cliff Latta, the board's attorney. It was Latta's opinion that the answers filed by the administrators were not adequate and therefore the administrators did not meet the legal requirements to be entitled to a hearing.

Whether or not the three administrators represented by McGuire and a fourth employee, Sharon Newsome, were entitled to a due process hearing will most likely be decided in court.

"They haven't left us any choice (but to go to court)," McGuire said. They wouldn't even give us the courtesy of showing up and hearing us. I can take these people to court and have them answer there. I'm not going to go down there and play silly games. This is silly. The school board should at least have shown up and heard Mr. Latta's recommendation and decided on their own whether they were going to (have the hearing) or not. Somebody had to make the decision not to come. It was their decision. By abdicating that decision they've become personally liable to my clients. I find it disgusting that any verdict we would win would come out of school money because it should come out of their individual pockets instead of wasting school funds."

McGuire said the three administrators' answers to notification that their jobs were being eliminated was consistent with other answers filed by previous administrators who had been notified of a demotion.

Local counties to get federal snow removal payments

City and county governments from 10 Eastern Kentucky counties are scheduled to be presented checks totalling $228,514 on Monday, May 24, to help in reimbursing their jurisdictions for the costs of emergency snow removal following the blizzard of March 13 which blanketed some counties with more than two feet of snow.

Floyd County will receive a total of $34,815.

The presentations by the State Division of Disaster and Emergency Services are scheduled to take place at 2 p.m. at the Prestonsburg National Guard Armory. County judge-executives and mayors of the various city governments will accept the reimbursements for their jurisdictions.

The Floyd County government will receive an allocation of $31,549. The cities of Allen, Martin and Prestonsburg will receive $936, $662 and $1,668, respectively.

Other counties receiving allocations will be Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin and Pike.

Pike County will receive the largest allocation — $48,325.

President Clinton approved Gov. Brereton Jones' request for federal disaster funding on March 18. Under the declaration, 75 percent of the money will come from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, 12 percent from Kentucky state government and 13 percent from local governments.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

It ain't over 'til it's over

by Scott Perry

Floyd County Representatives Greg Stumbo and Russell Bentley have done the right thing in proposing a bill to dissolve and replace the state's current racing commission.

The current panel, dominated by thoroughbred interests, has all but dispatched local hope for the development in Floyd County of a harness racing facility.

The Stumbo-Bentley bill would scrap the racing panel and replace it with a Kentucky Council on Parimutuel wagering, which would prohibit its membership from having any interest in racing or breeding.

The bill would also reestablish the Kentucky Harness Racing Commission and the State Racing Commission as advisory panels only to the new council.

The proposed statute would also repeal statutory authorization for the establishment of simulcast facilities and scrap back-up funding for the state's Breeders Award Fund.

It's hard to say what chance the bill might have at survival, but it is absolutely an appropriate response to the current racing commission's high-handed treatment of our area's effort to get into the racing business.

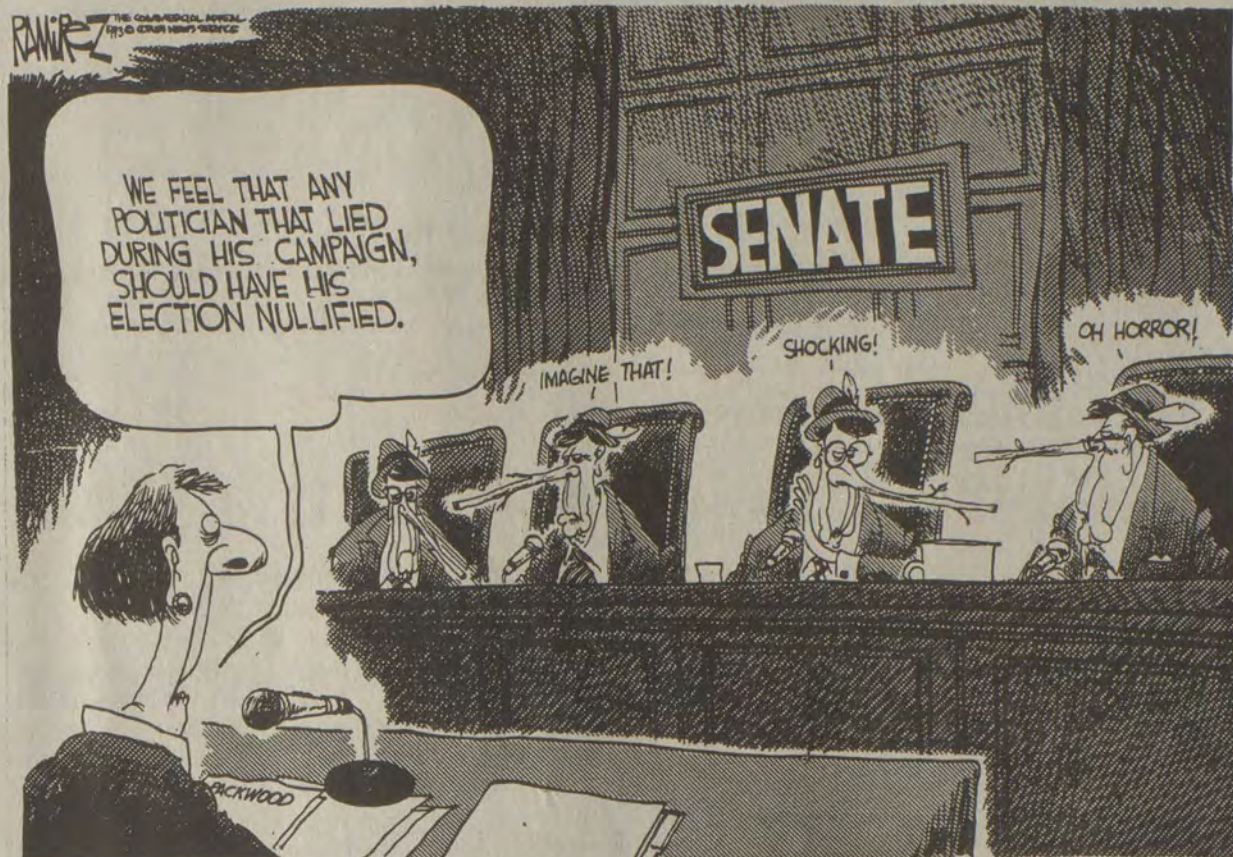

If we can't have our track, then they can't have their off-track betting parlors or the bonus money they will provide to state horse breeders.

Some may say that attitude is nothing short of childish retribution.

We say, however, that turn-about is fair play.

We're tired of finishing out of the money and if that means stooping to their level to get our fair share of the purse, then let's load up the starting gate and get it on.

We may cash a winning ticket, yet.

Religious liberty at risk

Editor:

We are shocked and saddened by the recent events in Waco. We grieve with the families on both sides who lost loved ones.

The federal government is conducting investigations to find out what happened at the Branch Davidian compound in Waco to prevent similar occurrences in the future. While we think such an investigation is appropriate, we oppose any attempt to define what is a valid religion or set the parameters of a proper church.

Under the religious liberty provisions of the First Amendment, government has no business declaring what is orthodox or heretical, or what is a true or false religion. It should steer clear of inflammatory and misleading labels. History teaches that today's "cults" may become tomorrow's mainstream religions.

The United States is a religiously diverse country. We treasure its religious pluralism. Such diversity is a natural and expected result of our constitutionally protected religious liberty and is a source of strength, not weakness. These religious contours add to the American landscape; they do not detract from it. In the midst of our national mourning, we must fend off any inclination to shrink from our commitment to religious pluralism or to seek security at the expense of liberty.

This heady freedom is not absolute. It should be exercised responsibly. Religion is no excuse for violent or criminal conduct that harms other people or threatens public safety or welfare. Absent some compelling justification, however, government should not restrict religious exercise. And force -- if ever appropriate -- must be employed as an absolute last resort.

Public discourse should be conducted with integrity. The nation's leaders ought to measure their words carefully and temper their passion with reason. Government must resist any temptation to retreat from our "first freedom." To deny religious liberty to any is to diminish religious liberty for all.

Circle of Justice

Editor:

It is good to know that we have an organization that will monitor the corruption in our governmental system, especially when those "highly influential" leaders within our system are convicted and punished for their deceit. I often wonder how far their "influence" spreads and how much corruption is covered by it?

The recent articles in the Lexington Herald and Floyd County Times are perfect examples of what is happening in the USA today. U.S. Citizens elected Mr. Lemaster in good faith and he was unopposed in 1988 and 1992. He was also credited with being the second lawyer in Kentucky to successfully use the Battered Women Syndrome as an excuse for murder. A sportsman's life.

With our six-year-old son as company, we headed off Sunday to the banks of an area lake to wet a line and to fulfill those basic human needs shared by all of us of the male persuasion...

Catch it.
Kill it.
Cook it.
Eat it.

After feeding most of our bait to a school of microscopic bluegill, our bored son turned his attention to other areas which, in this case, included a small but boisterous flock of geese.

For some reason or another, this particular group of waterfowl became particularly unappreciative of the small pebbles our son was hurling in their direction, responding with a full frontal attack that sent us into an unplanned retreat.

Regrouping and repairing our wounded male egos, we moved on to another hunting ground, where an unsuspecting bag of marshmallows was captured, impaled on sticks and burned beyond recognition.

Our bloodlust satisfied for the moment, we await our next adventure in man's unending battle to put nature in its place.

Perhaps we'll peg a few more geese then trap a bag of potatoes and cut out all their eyes.

It's a man's world, after all.

The election is over.

The winners are rejoicing and the losers are licking their wounds.

We have a request for both groups.

Leave our countrysides a little bit better than you found them by removing the campaign signs, posters and stickers from the poles, road signs and whatever so conspicuously decorated for the past several months or, in some of the cases we've noted, for the past several years.

We Average Joes in the voting public ought to make a pact to vote against anyone who won't clean up the mess they've made. That should cover their actions in office as well as their methods for getting there.

Just as we were beginning to decipher the complex issues surrounding health care reform, the General Assembly comes in and performs euthanasia.

The special session will end without meaningful changes in our system of health care but with a promise to revisit the problem later.

Meanwhile, those who have no insurance will continue to suffer while those of us who do will continue to pay outrageous costs for health care whether we use it or not.

Health care reform may very well be one of those damned-if-you-do, damned-if-you-don't issues from both political and financial viewpoints, but we're damned if we can wait much longer for some workable solution.

Let's not let too much time pass between visits.

For an example of why health care reform is important to our fiscal future as well as our own physical future, we'll give you an inside glance at our own situation.

Our company will spend about $70,000 this year to provide health insurance to our employees. That's more than twice what we paid three years ago.

That amount equals our net receipts for every newspaper we sell in a period of six months.

For what we've spent on health insurance, we could have put five more people to work. Instead, we've had to reduce staffing and delay necessary improvements.

By most standards, ours is a small business. But, regardless of size, we are a perfect example of why new jobs are hard to come by. We can't afford to hire more people, even if we need them.

Health care reform means much more than providing access to it for people who don't have it.

It means providing access to jobs, too.

Time for remembering

Editor:

Memorial Day is the summer's first holiday. For most of us it's a time to enjoy a long weekend with family or friends. It's also a time to remember the treasured memories of those who are no longer with us.

In years past, many of us have paid a special tribute to a friend or relative who has lost a battle with cancer. Memorial Gifts to the American Cancer Society provided comfort to the family while helping the American Cancer Society in its effort to eliminate cancer.

Continuing support from our friends is needed to expand the Society's programs of research, education, and patient services. You can help by remembering a loved one, friend, co-worker with a contribution to the American Cancer Society.

Call your local American Cancer Society office or 1-800-ACS-2345. What better time than Memorial Day to send a Memorial Gift?

Reader says Times keeps improving

Editor:

As a subscriber to the Floyd County Times before and after leaving Kentucky over 30 years, I want to commend you and your staff.

The paper has shown improvement in many, many ways since you became editor.

The articles in the May 5, 1993, issue on Exploring the unsung history of Women in War by Mary Combs was outstanding. Many of my women friends who served in wars have read the article and would appreciate receiving a copy.

Thanks so much. From a Kentuckian who lives far away but whose heart has never left the beautiful hills of Eastern Kentucky.

Louse brings reader's education to a halt

Editor:

I received a letter of termination from the Adult Learning Center. I have attended the Adult Learning Program since September 10, 1992.

This program was to teach us how to become better citizens and to build our self-esteem to go out and be able to work in the community. One day we were playing a game at school and we were told how we should feel better about ourselves for attending school and trying to improve our lives. I was beginning to have these feelings about myself and then I went to school one day and was handed a letter of termination.

This letter stated reasons for my termination, to me these were petty grievances. Now for the real reason in my mind that I was terminated.

I was in the rest room standing in front of a mirror and a louse jumped on my shoulder. I wrapped the louse in a paper towel and took the louse in to the instructor.

This was an embarrassing thing for me to have to do. I contacted the health department and was transferred on to the environmental control department. I know that another student also reported this incident, the only difference was that I gave them my name and the other student was smart and refused to give her name.

Obviously no one at this school except me had ever encountered a louse before or at least it was such a disgrace that they would not admit it. If the rest room is not fumigated I am sure that they will recognize the next louse.

I took the test for my GED exam on April 10, 1993. I passed but with not enough points to obtain the degree. I am scheduled for the exam on June 12 and my self-esteem has been destroyed along with my will to get my GED.

My only hope is that the next student who speaks out against the establishment will not be persecuted with a letter of termination from a program that should build self-esteem.

Now to answer the changes brought against me. (1) Breaktime was abused by a lot of students at the center. This happened numerous times as it does in every school situation. I was late coming back in on May 11—there was no way that I would use the rest room at the center after my experience with the louse. I went out to find a clean facility and was not by myself in being late to return.

(2) I made a 39 percent on my math test years ago and I do not need to retake this part of the exam. I put my time into other subjects that I did need help in.

(3) I have voiced my opinions about the program but have never been critical of the staff and the program. As to the incident of my reporting the bug problem, I am guilty.

After reading the charge against me for the use of one derogatory word that got a student so extremely upset I feel that you could be right. I never knew that I have the knowledge of word power to cause termination from a program that started out to be the beginning of my new life. I will face this person with an attorney to answer this charge.

Walkway to success

Editor:

You are invited to enjoy the River Walk! This trail is a visible symbol of PCC's commitment to our communities and to building partnerships that promote and enhance the quality of life in the Big Sandy Valley. The trail is open Monday-Saturday, 7 a.m.-10 p.m., and Sunday noon-10 p.m.

This River Walk is a true success story. Over a year ago when we began the planning, the College had no money to develop the land (but we did have valuable resource, flat land). Together, however, we creatively worked with the City, the County, businesses, and interested citizens to tap the resources and talent necessary to develop Phase One of this project.

This is an important step toward a larger dream of weaving our college into the fabric of the communities we served. I firmly believe that by developing our vision and plans, working our plans together, relying on our talents and strengths, maintaining a positive "can do" attitude, and staying focused toward our goals...we can make our dreams come true. United we can "make a difference."

After more than one year of planning and hard work, we are finally able to officially open Phase One of the River Walk trail which is a one kilometer, 10 foot wide, paved and lighted walking trail on our Prestonsburg Campus. As you walk your way to better health, please be a good citizen and help us keep the trail clean and safe. And, please note that the trail is designed for walkers only, so no bikes are allowed.

To the contributors of cash, services, labor and materials (listed on a sign at the trail)—thank you! To those who want to help, please contact us—opportunities are still available for you to be a part of this dream. We plan to develop the trail into a beautifully landscaped path that will also have educational utilization.

I want to especially thank Judge Executive John M. Stumbo and Mayor Ann Latta for their support and leadership with this project. And, my appreciation also extends to the other members of the River Walk Planning Committee: Danny Hamilton, Jim Hopson, Dean John Herald, D. B. Kazee, Dixon Nunnery and Cliff Latta. Assisting the Committee were Bill Pieratt, Director of Campus Recreation and Tim Dunnagan, Director of Wellness with the University of Kentucky Fitness/Wellness Program; Glennis Little and Diann Bartley, co-chairs of PCC's Fitness Committee; and Shirley Thomas, faculty education chair. Leonard Lawson's generous donation of the blacktop paved the road for the opening of Phase One of this dream. And, thanks to Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson for agreeing to assist with security to help keep the trail open on Saturdays and Sunday. From the bottom of my heart, thank you all!

Lace up your walking shoes and enjoy the beauty of your community college.

Mother arrested for giving alcohol to children

A Regina woman, Rita Rose Muncy, was arrested Friday after she allegedly gave her minor children alcoholic beverages, a situation that led to her daughter being taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

The 36-year-old Muncy is being held in the Pike County Detention Center following an arraignment just hours after the incident.

The Pikeville City Police citation alleges that Muncy gave her 17-year-old daughter pure grain alcohol while they were at Marlow's Country Palace.

While at the establishment, the girl was allegedly assaulted by Muncy's 15-year-old son, who allegedly became violent after Muncy gave him 12 cans of beer.

Muncy entered a not guilty plea. - The Appalachian News-Express

Radium found in Eastern Kentucky gas wells

Radiation has been found in dozens of oil and gas wells' waste pits in Eastern Kentucky. The pits, in the Martha oil field in Johnson and Lawrence counties, are tainted with radium, a long-lived radioactive element found in the rock formation known as Devonian black shale that contains most of the oil and gas produced in Kentucky.

This raises the possibility that wells elsewhere in Eastern Kentucky are contaminated with radiation, but no widespread testing has been done.

Radiation readings at some pits in Johnson County are as high as 600 times the level the federal Environmental Protection Agency deems acceptable for waste produced by processing uranium ore.

Neither the EPA nor the state has rules about how the oil-field waste should be handled or cleaned up. As a result, many pits are allowed to exist, unfenced and without warning signs, in areas where people live, work, and play, according to Tom FitzGerald of the Kentucky Resources Council, an environmental group.

FitzGerald has written Gov. Jones, asking for action to identify the extent of the problem, to prevent contamination of water, and to protect humans and wildlife from exposure to the radioactive waste.

The radium is produced by the decay of uranium and thorium, also radioactive elements found in the black shale. Unlike uranium and thorium, radium dissolves readily in water and brine, both of which are brought to the surface when oil and gas are drilled. - Louisville Courier-Journal

Letcher attorney, secretary face 206 counts

State police say they will ask the special Letcher County grand jury to consider more charges against Commonwealth Attorney James Wiley Craft.

Craft, 47, of Whitesburg is already facing 103 felony charges. He and one of his secretaries, 25-year-old Patsy Stallard of Craft's Colley, are named in a 206-count indictment returned in Frankfort May 20.

The charges involve the use of state funds to pay Stallard's salary and health benefits when she was allegedly working only on matters involving Craft's private law practice.

A Franklin County grand jury found that there was enough evidence to charge Craft with paying Stallard up to $35,000 in state money for work she did as his private secretary.

Craft, who is seeking re-election, will no longer be able to prosecute cases until the criminal charges against him are resolved. He is still eligible to receive his salary. - The Mountain Eagle

Costain landfill battle unsettled despite state permit approval

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Although the state last week issued a draft permit allowing the operation of a controversial new coal-ash depository on the banks of the Big Sandy, at least one opponent of the facility said this week that the fight isn't over yet.

The Kentucky Cabinet for Natural Resources Division of Waste Management on Friday approved a permit application submitted by Pikeville-based Costain Coal to operate a coal ash landfill at Ivel.

The 65-acre landfill is to contain the pelletized remnants of coal burned at Jacksonville, Florida's Cedar Bay Generating Company as part of a 20-year contract, under which Cedar Bay would purchase one million tons of coal per year from Costain.

A group of concerned citizens organized last September to form the Ivel and Big Sandy Citizens Against Waste, which protested the landfill at several public hearings. The Ivel and Big Sandy Citizens said that the facility would be too close to the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River and that hazardous elements in the coal ash, such as lead and arsenic, could easily contaminate the entire region's water supply.

Representatives of Costain and I.T. Corporation, which designed the facility, maintained that hazardous elements existed in the coal ash in minimal amounts and that the facility would be completely safe.

"As we said all along," Costain engineer Tom Mattox said Tuesday, "it doesn't present any kind of hazard at all."

In fact, Mattox said, "This is not an adverse thing for Eastern Kentucky. It's going to generate jobs and it's going to generate revenues. It's good for business."

Mattox said that Steve Fields, permit review supervisor for the Division of Waste Management, had remarked that Costain's permit application was one of the best designed and detailed applications he had ever received.

The only major change in the facility's plan that the state requested was to move the landfill's wastewater collection ponds out of the 100-year flood plain, Mattox said.

"We've tried to address everybody's concerns..." Mattox said, "and we feel that we have done that and expect that everything will proceed according to plan."

Still, Ivel and Big Sandy Citizens legal counsel Michael DeBourbon said Tuesday, the issue has not been settled.

DeBourbon, a Pikeville attorney, said that although he had not yet received official word from the citizens group, he expected that efforts to fight the landfill's operation would continue.

"I just think it's ill-conceived that you would place a garbage dump next to somebody's water supply..." DeBourbon said. "It doesn't seem like we're so limited in space that we'd have to locate such an impoundment in such close proximity to a source of drinking water.... If there's anything you want to protect in this world, it's the rivers."

DeBourbon said that the citizens group will probably begin holding town meetings similar to those conducted last year to protest Costain's proposal.

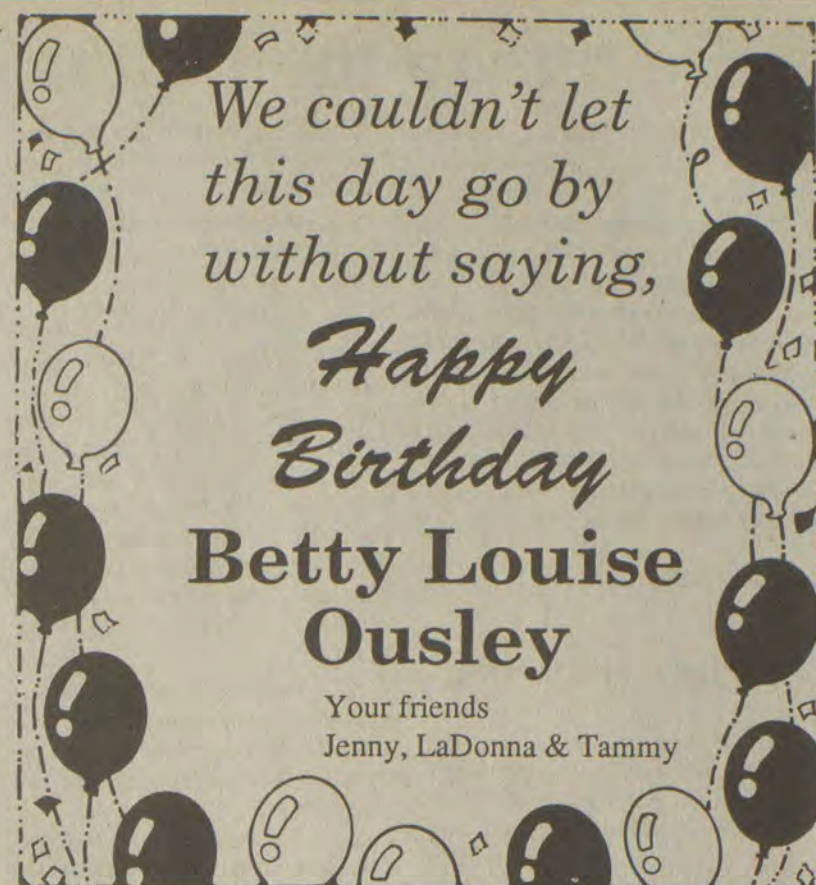

Fields said Monday that it may be several months before the Division of Waste Management issues Costain a construction permit for the landfill. In the meantime, Fields said, citizens can request a public hearing.

Barring further delays, Mattox said, Costain plans to begin constructing the landfill by the end of 1993.

"Looking good"

The band uniforms for South Floyd High School have been ordered. They are military-styled uniforms in the school colors of black and silver, creamed in white. They include two pairs of pants, one white and one black. There is also a military style cap with a plume. They are of quality workmanship and material and include a 10-year guarantee. Seventy uniforms were ordered at a cost of approximately $20,000.

Airport

Development Authority board members voted to endorse the application, to be prepared by Recktenwald, so that the site could at least qualify for consideration.

Controversy first surrounded the airport site early last year, when Prestonsburg Mayor Ann Latta and Paintsville Mayor John David Preston suggested closing the airport and developing the property for industrial use. Members of the Floyd/Johnson County Pilot's Association and American Standard officials protested that proposal, however, arguing that the airport was far too vital to the region's economy and that there were too many other sites suitable for industrial development to shut down the airport. The issue is still under review by the Paintsville-Prestonsburg Airport Authority.

Councilman Jerry Fannin, a Pilot's Association member, told members of the city council at Monday's meeting that the nursing home proposal might interfere with a tentative plan by American Automation & Manufacturing Corporation, Incorporated, to locate at the site. American Automation, an auto parts manufacturer which would initially employ between 100-125 people, has stipulated that the airport must remain open in order for their relocation to be successful, Fannin said.

The council adjourned from lengthy closed session Monday evening to authorize a resolution to proceed with the nursing home application, Councilman George Archer said, with the provision that the Paintsville City Council and American Automation President Ronald Ward also approve the plan.

"Basically," Latta said Tuesday, "this is just an application. It does not commit us irrevocably to anything.... I'm interested in seeing us get any kind of facility that will bring 300 jobs into the area, and I think we'd be short-sighted not to at least submit an application."

Latta added that Recktenwald told her Tuesday that the nursing home and American Automation should be compatible at the airport site.

However, Archer said, Fannin read into the minutes of Monday's meeting a memorandum from Paintsville attorney C.K. Belhasen concerning a plan by the pilot's association to buy the site itself.

According to the memorandum, American Standard officials had granted Johnson County Judge/Executive Gail Gillem and BSADD official Bob Meyer's request to make 18 acres of prime industrial property adjacent to the American Standard plant available for a prospective industrial plant.

Under Belhasen's plan, American Standard would deed the property to the industrial authority, which would pay for the site on a deferred basis with approximately $250,000 in coal severance funds, with the provision that sewage services be extended to the American Standard site. Since the coal severance monies would be delayed, Belhasen said, the Pilot's Association would offer to buy and extend the airport property. The $250,000 would then be paid to American Standard, then deeded to the industrial development authority. The Pilot's Association would then develop three six-acre tracts, sell one to American Automation and then develop the remaining tracts for additional industrial sites. The Pilot's Association would assume responsibility for the airport, including maintenance and liability, ensuring that the airport would remain open.

"Not only will the area get to have its cake and eat it too," Belhasen said, "but it will get to have its cake and eat it twice..." because the treasuries of both Prestonsburg and Paintsville would net $100,000 each; the new industrial prospect would have 18 acres upon which to develop; the airport would continue to operate; and American Automation would have a site on the airport, enabling it to create 125 industrial jobs.

The council briefly discussed the proposal Monday, but took no action. In other council action Monday:

• Council adopted a resolution authorizing the Prestonsburg Police Department to participate in a two-city/six-county interlocal cooperation agreement to form a regional drug task force. Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall said the task force would focus its efforts on eradicating street-level drug use.

• Council approved two new city ordinances that would annex property on Route 3 at a resident's request.

• Council adopted a resolution to continue as a member of the Kentucky League of Cities Worker's Compensation Trust.

• Council adopted a new statewide policy concerning police response to domestic violence reports.

• At Fannin's request, the council dedicated Monday's meeting to former city employee, the late Lenna "Lenny" Moore.

Council members Danny Hamilton, Lida Howard and Charles Hale were absent from Monday's meeting.

The Prestonsburg City Council convenes on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. The public is welcome.

"The Last Full Measure Of Devotion"

Perhaps Abraham Lincoln said it best: "These honored dead gave the last full measure of devotion."

On this Memorial Day, we pay tribute to the brave men and women who have given their lives in the wars our nation has fought to defend ourselves and others from oppression.

As we pause to remember on this special day, we pray that God's comforting hand will touch those who have died for our country. And we say a special prayer for the families who are still unsure of the fates of their loved ones...those Americans missing in action in Viet Nam.

KHC announces program for special populations

The Kentucky Housing Corporation recently announced that it will make made available $10 million for a program to address housing needs for special population groups. The KHC Assisted Living Pilot Program will award low-rate financing to applicants for the purpose of development, construction/renovation and day-to-day operation of an assisted living facility.

These facilities will serve populations such as the elderly, those with physical and mental disabilities, single-parent heads of household and other similar low-income groups who have special housing and service needs.

"It is the philosophy of this project that a person's need for care be balanced against choice, dignity, belonging and individuality," stated KHC's Director of Assisted Living Sue Tuttle. "Our goal is to assist low-income special needs individuals with their housing options, so that they can become productive members of society and lead normal, happy lives while having access to safe, affordable housing."

Individuals or agencies interested in submitting a proposal are encouraged to attend one of the Request for Proposal training sessions. Dates and locations of the sessions are as follows: Owensboro Executive Inn, May 26; Louisville Hurstbourne Inn, June 4; and Lexington Marriott Griffin Inn, May 24. To make reservations for either session, contact Paula Johnson at (502) 564-4753, (800) 633-8896 or (800) 247-2510 (for the hearing impaired only).

June is proclaimed Rivers Month

Kentuckians across the state are being asked to join in a variety of activities during June, which has been proclaimed Rivers Month by Gov. Brereton C. Jones.

Events are planned to take place on and along rivers across the state throughout the month. Activities include: Rockcastle River Day, with a six-mile canoe trip, picnic, live music, games, tour of environmental demonstrations, and other fun on June 12; the Four Rivers Folk Festival in Trigg County at TVA's Land Between the Lakes recreation area in western Kentucky on June 12 and 13, with traditional folk and bluegrass music featuring performers Bill Monroe and Tom Chapin, as well as demonstrations and workshops; and a wide variety of canoe trips and floats, hikes, and river bank cleanups, including the Ohio River Sweep on June 19 and the Kentucky River sweep on June 26.

Both the Ohio River Sweep and the Kentucky River Sweep are annual events that draw thousands of volunteers to clean up tons of trash and debris from the banks of the entire lengths of both rivers. Trash picked up has included the usual array of plastic milk jugs and soft drink cans but has also yielded old appliances, car bodies, and even an entire telephone booth.

The month-long recognition of the many aspects of rivers that have served the people of the Commonwealth is intended to give Kentuckians a chance to appreciate their rivers and streams. Attention will be focused on how much the state's rivers and streams add to the overall quality of life. Community efforts will be directed toward protecting the scenic, environmental, recreational and cultural values of the state's river resources.

A calendar of events and information on organizing a river event in your own community are available from Morgan Jones, Kentucky Division of Water, 14 Reilly Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-3410.

Seventh grade student to be honored in TIP ceremony

The Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP) is sponsoring a Grand Recognition Ceremony to honor some of the brightest seventh graders in the United States. On June 7, at the Duke University Chapel in Durham, North Carolina, Neil

Smith crowned queen

Leigh Ann Smith, daughter of Russell and Sue Smith of Dana, was crowned as this year's Pikeville College Spring Formal Queen. Leigh Ann is a junior at Pikeville College and is majoring in English.

Moore Jr., who attends McDowell Junior High, will be recognized for his outstanding academic achievement.

Moore is the 12-year-old son of Neil and Sharon Moore of McDowell. He has won numerous academic awards including various Governor's Cup math, science and quick recall awards.

Dr. Ronald Hoffman, winner of the 1981 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, will be the keynote speaker. Hoffman, a native of Zloczow, Poland, survived the Nazi occupation of his country and arrived in the United States in 1949. Hoffman has received numerous academic honors and has written both popular and scholarly articles on science and other subjects.

Students invited to the ceremony earned scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Testing Assessment (ACT) higher than 65 percent of college-bound seniors as part of TIP's annual Talent Search. Of the almost 62,000 students who were identified in the 1992-93 Talent Search, only 2,173 qualified for the honor.

Moore will also be honored June 3 at Western Kentucky University at a TIP recognition for the 661 Kentucky students identified by the annual search.

Memorial Day blood drive gets underway at blood center

The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of Floyd County invite the public to help save lives this Memorial Day. The annual Civic Club Challenge will be held May 25-27 at the Prestonsburg Donor Center.

Memorial Day is a time of national blood shortage. The blood center needs 200 donors every day to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply. Even more donors are needed on holidays because the number of automobile accidents increase but fewer people donate.

Statistics show that the majority of Americans will need blood sometime during their lives. It could be someone close to you who will need blood this weekend.

Do your part and donate! Donors will receive a free T-shirt and be eligible to win prizes provided by local businesses and the civic clubs. The donor center is located in the Municipal Building on North Lake Drive. The hours are Tuesday, 11-7, Wednesday and Thursday, 10-6.

Fortunate winner

Floyd man, local store owner cash in with lottery win

A Weeksbury man is one hundred thousand dollars richer after recently winning the Kentucky Lottery's Cash 5 game. Hayden Burke, correctly matched all five numbers for the April 13th drawing.

The lucky numbers were 13-16-27-28-32. Burke spent five dollars at Compton's Quik Stop and let the computer quick pick the winning ticket for him.

"My wife Sharon and I are going to use our winnings to buy that dream house we have always wanted," forty-year-old Hayden Burke told Lottery officials. "I can't believe this has happened to me!"

The Burke's are regular lottery players who only spend about $10 a week playing the Lottery's entertaining games. The Burke's were presented with a check for $68,000 (after taxes) by Kentucky Lottery President Brian Potter.

Potter, a native of Elkhorn City, Kentucky was especially pleased by the Floyd County good fortune. "I love to see folks from the mountains of my native eastern Kentucky win," said Potter.

In a year and a half, the Cash 5 game has handed out $100,000 cash to more than a hundred people. The game's theme is "Win a small fortune when you play Cash 5!"

In addition to the normal sales commission he receives, Floyd County businessman Dale Compton received a check for $1000 for selling the lucky ticket. Kentucky Lottery retailers receive a 1 percent bonus of whatever the value is of a winning grand prize ticket when they sell it.

Compton joined Hayden Burke on the drive to Louisville.

Bike-A-Thon June 11 at Allen to benefit St. Jude

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Monica Akers has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in Allen on June 11.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer, Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict children. St. Jude Hospital is non-secretarian, non-discriminatory and covers all costs of care beyond those reimbursed by insurance.

In KY, 362 children and their families have gone to St. Jude Hospital and received total medical care for a catastrophic illness.

Until now, breast cancer claimed more lives among women. Now because more women smoke, lung cancer has the top spot for taking lives—50,000 every year. Progress like this has got to stop. 1-800-ACS

Patton, Robinson, Stumbo will represent Rebels at state track meet

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a season of hard work for the Allen Central men's track and field team. But all the hard work has paid off for three individuals and two relay teams as the state track and field meet is just around the corner.

Kevin Patton, Shawn Robinson and Kevin Stumbo will represent Allen Central at state competition this Friday at UK's Shively Field.

Also making the trip will be the 400-meter and 1600-meter relay teams of Coach Dewey Jamerson.

In the preliminary round held on Friday, Allen Central placed two in every final. The showing was good for fourth place overall in the regional meet.

Allen Central's men's program has been in a rebuilding stage after losing a lot of talent from last year. But Coach Jamerson's squad has worked hard and shown a great deal of improvement in the last four weeks.

"Going to Boyd County, Coach (Forrest) Hughes and I were talking about who could go to the state meet for us," explained Jamerson. "We figured Kevin (Patton) and Shawn (Robinson). That was it. But it shows you how much I know."

While Jamerson and Hughes may have misfigured those that will travel to Lexington this Friday, the mistake is a good one and a happy one.

"We finished as a team at about where we figured we would but we did not figure we would finish as close as we did," said the Allen Central coach. "It was certainly a pleasant surprise for the boys."

Fairview took the top spot in the regional meet with 130 points. After that, the next three teams were extremely close.

Pikeville placed second with 89 points and Cordia took third, two points ahead of Allen Central, with 83 points. The Rebels finished with 81 points.

Allen Central lost points when Josh Patton missed running the two-mile because of sickness. The Rebels scored in every event with the exception of high jump and shot put.

Patton will represent Allen Central in two events at the state meet. He took first place by setting a new school record in the men's triple jump. Patton was measured at 39' 1" which is a personal best for the strong running back for the football team.

Patton also established a new school record in the men's long jump with a distance of 19' 11", good for second place.

Gary Webb placed fifth overall in the triple jump with a leap of 33' 5". Webb had a leap of 5 feet in the high jump event.

Shawn Robinson's toss of 117' 9" was good for first place and 10 points in the discus. Levi Wells placed fifth for the Rebels. Robinson will move on to the state meet at Lexington.

Kevin Stumbo, according to his coach, was the big surprise for the Rebels distance runners. Stumbo placed second in the men's 800-meter

Oden captures four first place finishes in regionals

What a season for the Wheelwright track and field team!

The Trojans continued making noise in the regional track and field meet at Bell County last weekend.

DONNIE DANIELS
Wheelwright Coach

Speedster Muntu Oden continues to wow 'em with his performance and he showed why he was deserving of being named Most Valuable Player in the EKMC track and field conference. Oden placed first in four events and will represent Wheelwright High School in the state meet this coming Friday and Saturday at UK's Shively Field.

Also traveling to Lexington this weekend will be Greg Johnson and Ricky Little. Johnson placed second in the high jump and Little was second in the 1600-meter run.

Oden took first place in the 100-meter run with a time of 11.21. Teammate Ryan Johnson ran a 12.71 in the race.

Oden then got in the starting blocks for the 200-meter run and his 23.05 was good enough for first place. Johnson posted his personal best time with a 24.94, good for fifth place.

In Oden's speciality, he ran a 15.78 for first place in the men's 110 hurdles. John Hall took fifth place at 20.11.

In the men's 300 hurdles it was a fourth first place finish for Oden with a time of 42.29.

Qualifying for the four events in the state meet seems to have created a problem for Wheelwright coach Donnie Daniels.

"We don't know what to do with him," said Daniels. "We don't know whether to scratch him in one of the four and let him go to win the other three."

Because the four events are close together time-wise, Daniels feels that it is too much for Oden.

"Muntu has done great for us this year," said Daniels. All these kids have done a great job. They are a great bunch of kids."

Reed headed for state meet after placing first in regionals

by Ed Taylor

She is just a sophomore at Betsy Layne High School but she has already made her mark in track events.

Betsy Layne's Nikki Reed improved her finish last year in regional competition--taking home first place and a regional championship in the women's 400-meter run at Breathitt County last Friday.

"I'm just glad I won," said Reed of her victory. "It is just from practicing a lot."

The hard work for the sprinter paid off after working everyday to about 4:30 p.m. Reed, like most sprinters, are successful because they are

Ryan Ortega is greeted by teammates after he clubbed a second inning grand slam last Saturday to help lead the Prestonsburg Blackcats to a 8-6 win over the Betsy Layne Bobcats and the 58th District title. The two teams met at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central (photo by Ed Taylor)

Prestonsburg District Champs Ortega's blast powers Blackcats to district title

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats had several heroes as they captured the 58th District High School Baseball Tournament last Saturday at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central.

The Blackcats of coach Russell Shepherd edged a good Betsy Layne Bobcat team 8-6 in taking the title game.

Hero number one could have been Ryan Ortega for his rare display of home run power. Ortega hammered a towering drive over the left field fence in the second inning that staked the Blackcats to a 4-3 lead.

Hero number two may have been Seth Hyden, whose timely double in the third drove in three runs as Prestonsburg opened up a 8-3 lead.

But the real hero had to be freshman Jason Hackworth, who was the winning pitcher for the Blackcats with seven very impressive innings. The kid has done that all year for Prestonsburg. In fact, he owned a previous victory over Betsy Layne during the regular season.

After Betsy Layne scored their fourth run of the game in the sixth inning with runners at second and no one out, Hackworth did his best pitching.

Showing a lot of maturity for a player not long out of Little League, Hackworth got Chris Potter on a fly ball to left, Brandon Castle on an out to right field and enticed Shawn Newsome to bounce out to short to end the inning.

The inning proved to be big for Hackworth and the Blackcats because Betsy Layne struck for two runs in the bottom of the seventh that would have tied the game had they been able to score the runners in the sixth.

Hackworth fanned five batters in going the distance. He allowed six runs on four hits and three walks. Hackworth was called on one balk (his fourth of the year) and he hit one batter.

Shannon Newsome went to the hill for the Bobcats at the start and lasted the first two and a third inning in suffering the loss. Newsome, one of the Betsy Layne's ace hurlers, had problems finding the plate and was constantly wild high and outside.

Derrick Newsome came on to get the final two outs of the third inning and was tough on the Blackcats as they could only manage one hit over the final four and two-thirds innings. Newsome retired the final 10 men he faced in the Prestonsburg lineup.

Betsy Layne jumped all over Hackworth in the first inning after the Blackcats went down in the first inning despite Sean Damron's first inning single.

Barry Collins reached on an error at shortstop to start the first for Betsy Layne. Derrick Newsome laid down a sacrifice bunt to move Collins into scoring position.

Collins scored on Scott Ousley's base hit. Catcher Bud Kidd beat out an infield hit that Damron made a great stop on going to his left at shortstop. Ousley moved to third on the play and Kidd stole second to put runners at second and third.

Barry Clark drilled a liner to center, scoring Ousley and Kidd for a 3-0 Betsy Layne lead. Hackworth got Shannon Newsome and Potter on strikes to end the inning.

It was a prosperous second for Prestonsburg as Thomas Ratliff lined a double to right center. Robbie Risner, the designated hitter, was hit by a pitch and both runners moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Jason Crisp. Newsome walked Cory Reitz to load the bases, bringing Ortega to the plate. Ortega caught Newsome's fastball and deposited the ball over the left field fence for a 4-3 Prestonsburg lead.

Hackworth retired the Bobcats in order in the second but Prestonsburg struck for four more in the third for a 8-3 game. A one-out walk to Risner, Crisp's base hit and an RBI single by Reitz made it a 5-3 game. Newsome walked Ortega to load the bases for Seth Hyden who cleared the bags with a long double over the centerfielder's head.

Derrick Newsome then replaced Shannon Newsome on the mound and Prestonsburg was held in check the rest of the way.

Betsy Layne made it 8-4 with a run in the sixth on a leadoff walk to Kidd and a hit batsman. Kidd scored on Shannon Newsome's base hit with Clark moving to third. The ball was overthrown at third base and Clark, fearing that he had missed the bag, returned to retag and was not able to score on the overthrow. Hackworth worked out of the jam with only one run scored against him.

The Bobcats made it interesting in the bottom of the sixth after Prestonsburg went out in order in the top of the inning.

A one out ground rule double off the bat of Derrick Newsome to center started the inning. With two out, Kidd blasted his two-run home run for a 8-6 game. Hackworth got Clark on a pop fly to the catcher for the final out.

For Coach Shepherd, what he saw from his ball club was pleasing.

"We hit the ball well," he said, "the best we have all year. We had a good defensive game as well as hit-

McDowell self destructs in sixth falling to East Carter

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The McDowell Lady Daredevils softball team was holding their own against East Carter in the first round of the girls' softball regional tournament.

Holding their own, that is, until the sixth inning when they could not catch a fly ball or stop a grounder. The result was a 10-run sixth for East Carter and a 18-9 whipping of the Lady Daredevils.

Fourteen batters paraded to the plate for the Lady Raiders as they saw fly ball after fly ball land safely.

Tara Bush started the East Carter sixth with a base hit but was forced at second on Angie Shemi's ground ball to pitcher Lisa Hobson. Lisa Church was safe at first on a fielder's choice and Misty Deerfield rocketed a shot for a three-run home run to make it a 11-6 game. After Jodi Pennington forced Amber Pennington, who had singled, at second, she came around to score on Jessica Hall's triple. Angie Sparks doubled and Tracy Roseberry singled home Sparks and she scored on Heather Marshall's liner to right field.

The inning continued as Bush made her second appearance of the inning and promptly delivered an RBI single. Shemi reached on an error at short field and Lisa Church did the same. Kristy Mullins caught Deerfield's fly ball to end the wild sixth inning.

McDowell mounted a mild comeback in the top of the seventh inning but fell short. Rachel Howell singled to start the rally and Crissy Tackett walked on four pitches as Bush had problems getting the ball down enough.

Lisa Hobson, who had tripled three times, lined a base hit to right, scoring Howell and Tackett. Hobson went all the way to third on a two-base error in the outfield. Hobson scored on Lisa Brown's RBI single. Susan Stephens had a one-out single but was left stranded.

Tackett, Miller qualify for state; Wheelwright first

It was a Wheelwright High School first.

Lori Tackett and Carrie Miller will represent Wheelwright High School as the first women's track and field participants in the state meet in Lexington this coming Friday at the University of Kentucky's Shively Field.

Tackett qualified for the state meet by placing second in the Bell County regional meet this past Saturday afternoon. Miller took second place in the women's long jump.

Tackett was measured at 79' 10" in the discus while Miller measured in at 14' 6" in the long jump.

Wheelwright also took third place in the women's discus with Tiffany Compton's throw of 77 feet. Tonya Floyd was a sixth place finisher in the long jump with a leap of 12' 10". Compton placed third in the shot put with a toss of 26' 4".

The overall finish of the Wheelwright women's team brought a smile to the face of coach Keith Smallwood. "I am pleased as punch," said the

Allen Central sends trio to state meet at UK meet

Wade, Wiley and Floyd.
Sounds like a law firm.

This threesome of the Allen Central Runnin' Rebels women's track and field team will represent their school in the court of the state track and field meet in Lexington this weekend.

Jessica Wade, Jenny Wiley and Crystal Floyd have been the experienced runners for coaches Dewey Jamerson and Forrest Hughes all season. All three won first or second places in regional events at Boyd County this past weekend.

Also making the trip will be two first place relay teams.

Wade took first place in three events and is a strong contender for a state title. She won first place in the women's 800-meter run with a time of 2:51.27. Teammate Floyd placed fourth in the race with her time of 2:55.55.

Floyd, after running the 400-meter run, ran the 800 and her coach said that it affected her performance in the 800.

"She was killed after running the 400," he said. "She was just tired out."

Wade came back and posted a time of 6:09.58 in the 1600-meter run, which was good enough for a first place finish. In the 3200-meter run (two-mile), Wade took first place, finishing with a time of 14:22.17. Mary Baldrige placed fourth in the two-mile run, clocked at 16:29.10.

"The way Mary ran in the 3200 was good for us," said Jamerson. "The 3200 was an important race for us and finishing first and fourth helped us. Winning the race and placing fourth helped us to break even with Fairview."

Wiley and Floyd finished one-two in the women's 400-meter dash. Wiley set a new school record with a time of 1:03.03 for first place. Floyd recorded a time of 1:05.04 for second place. Both will advance to the state meet.

Wiley established yet another school record in the 200-meter dash.

She came in at 28.32, good for third place.

"This race was a big surprise," said Jamerson. "Jenny posted the fifth best time in the finals."

The 1600-meter relay team took top honors as they were clocked at 4:42.7 in winning first place. The team consisted of Floyd, Lisa Stumbo, Dreama Isaac and Wiley.

"It was our typical race," said Jamerson. "We would be behind, Crystal would bring us back and Jenny would win it for us."

In the women's 3200-meter relays, Floyd, Wiley, Wade and Anne Harvey had little trouble in blowing out to a big lead and sustaining it for first place.

"Jenny ran the first leg and it was over at the start," said the Allen Central coach. The foursome posted a time of 11:36.3 in taking first place.

Allen Central's 400-meter relay team placed sixth with a time of 1:03.7. The foursome included Lisa Stumbo, Greta Halbert, Dreama Isaacs and René Burke.

In the women's 800-meter relays, Halbert, Isaac, Jennifer Patton and René Burke placed sixth with a time of 2:14.67.

Nikki Queen set a new school record in the women's 100-meter dash. Queen, a strong contender, placed fifth overall with a time of 14.10.

Queen established yet a second school record when she was measured at 14' 3" in the women's long jump. The distance was good for third place.

Lisa Stumbo took her turn as new school records when she placed third in the women's 300 hurdles. She was clocked at 55.52. Stumbo ran the 100 hurdles but did not place with her time of 20.13.

"Lisa was running the same time as the other runners, but she fell on the last two hurdles. It was probably the inspirational run of the day. The look of determination—you could see it on her face."

In the field events, Melissa Mullins was a surprise third place finisher in the discus with a toss of 73' 1". Jennifer Patton did not place with a throw of 57' 6".

Megan Manns made the 4 foot mark in the high jump and placed fifth overall. Mullins placed sixth in the women's shot put.

Allen Central placed second overall in the regional meet and got some satisfaction from the finish after last season.

"Last year we had second taken away from us," said Coach Jamerson. "We had the second place trophy in our hand last year and they took it back. So, winning it this year was a lot of gratification. We have been waiting 365 days for this."

Pikeville finished first with 137 points. Allen Central took second with 106 1/2 points. Fairview, Raceland and Menifee County rounded out the top five.

Paintsville placed sixth, Cordia seventh and June Buchanan eighth.

run. He had a time of 2:11.32, which was six seconds faster than his previous time.

"Kevin knew that he had to beat the kid from Cordia in order to place," said Jamerson. "In the last turn and in the straight away, he ran like he never ran before. It was good race for Kevin. It's the first time he's done that."

The men's 400-meter relay team placed second after finishing third originally. Fairview, who placed second in the race, was disqualified (for unknown reasons) and Allen Central was elevated to the second place spot.

"Someone came over to me and told me that Fairview had been disqualified in the race and that we were the second place team," said Jamerson. "I don't know why, but who cares. We're going to the state."

"Our kids ran a real strong race. The first handoff was terrible. Kevin Patton is the first runner and he has to hand off to Kevin Allen. Kevin started early and had to stop and wait for the stick, but still ran a strong race."

The real shocker for the Allen Central coach came when his 1600-meter relay team took the number one spot with a time of 3:52.8, a new school record.

"It was a shocker," said Jamerson. "Their best before was at four minutes. This time they run it under four minutes and that is the shocking thing."

What motivated them?
"They wanted Kenny (Scarberry), who is the only senior of the four, to go to the state meet. They won because they were a group of kids that was thinking of others."

"You should have seen the look on their faces when they won," stated Jamerson. "They were hugging each other. It almost made me cry."

"If someone had come to me and told me that my 1600-meter relay team was going to place first in the region I would have laughed in their face and probably would have hit them for lying to me."

The team consisted of Chris Halbert, Kenny Scarberry, Dan Stumbo and Estill Stumbo.

The 3200-meter relay team just missed qualifying for the state meet by 15 meters. The Allen Central team placed third overall with a time of 9:17.3. The foursome consisted of Todd Howard, Kenny Scarberry, Kevin Stumbo and Dan Stumbo.

Jason Samons took fourth place in the men's 100-meter run. Samons had a time of 11.98. Kevin Allen ran the race and finished with a time of 12.23.

Samons placed sixth overall in the men's 200-meter run. He posted a time of 24.59. Kevin Patton did not place in the run but had a time of 24.92.

Curtis Webb ran the men's 800-meters and had a time of 2:35.40.

Josh Patton and Howard finished five and six in the men's 1600-meter run. Patton took fifth place with a time of 5:14.55 and Howard posted a time of 5:20.20.

In the grueling 3200-meter run, Howard turned in a time of 12:02.29 for fifth place.

Nick Halbert won the sixth place award for his time of 19.11 in the 110 hurdles. Steven Akers ran in at 19.67.

In the 300 hurdles, Estill Stumbo took fourth place with a time of 47.15. Halbert was clocked at 47.50.

In the field events, Dave Gilliam had a toss of 34' 11" in the shot put. Ronnie Samons recorded a throw of 36' 7".

Jamerson is looking already to next year's squad and figures to be even stronger next season.

Reed

willing to work out on their own as well as with a group.

"Every day after school, I usually run until about 4:30 p.m."

Reed is in only her third year of track at Betsy Layne and is looking forward to her appearance at the state meet next week in Lexington.

"I do know there will be a lot of competition there at the state meet," she said. However, the sophomore runner feels it a challenge, a challenge that she is up to.

"Coach (John) Derossett will be practice with me all this week," she said. "We plan on going up to the Bob Amos Park in Pikeville to practice."

Reed said that it is the end of the race that is a problem for her because she tires at the end.

"The 400-meter is much harder than, say, the 200-meter," the regional champion stated. "It wears you out. I have a problem at the finish of a race more than any other part."

While Reed runs both the 200 and 400 she prefers the 400 because "I do better in it."

She plans to enter the 800 meters next season but may drop one of the other events that she takes part in, like the 200 meters.

"I haven't decided yet if I will drop any of them," she said. "It depends on how I do in the 800."

Reed just missed going to the state meet in the 200 meters also, just missing second place. She placed third in the region in the 200 meters.

"I would have like to gone in both races, but it is easier on me if I just go in one," she explained.

Reed qualified for the state meet by placing first in the preliminaries of the 400-meter run and then took second place in the 200 meters.

In other events, Brandon "Bubba" Combs just missed going to the state meet in discus with his toss of 105 feet. Combs placed fourth overall. Tim Hunt also participated in the event.

In the shot put, Combs had a throw of 33' 2" and Jason Hamilton was measured at 34' 5".

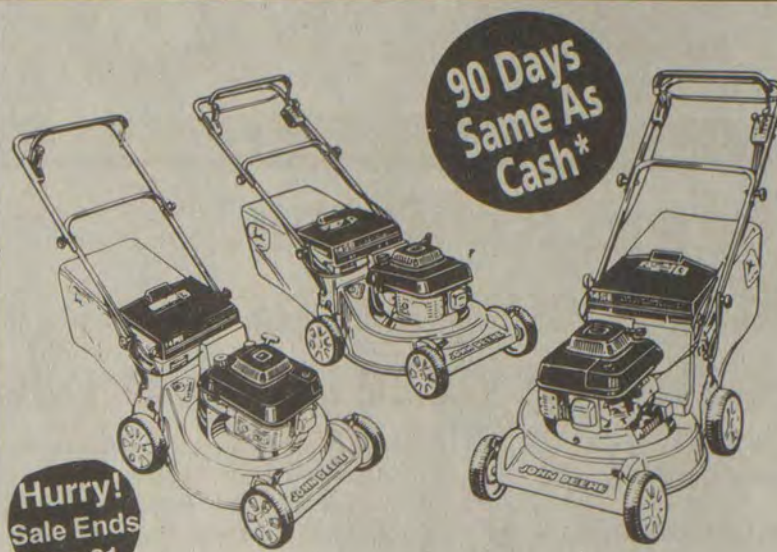

Jackie Bush ran the men's 400 meters in a time of 1:09. Bryan Combs also took part in the race.

In the 100 meters, Rocky Hamilton ran in at 13.1 and came in at 26.5 in the 200 meters.

Eric Cecil, an seventh grader, ran in the men's 800-meter run as did Matt Rose.

Rocky Hamilton was measured at 16' 4" in the long jump and the relay team of Cecil, Bush, Rose and Hamilton competed in the 1600 relays.

Top Guns fall to Bandits in preseason finals, 14-13

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Top Guns women's softball team is considered one of the top teams in the region and they displayed their talents in the preseason tournament held at Warfield Park in Martin County this past weekend.

The Top Guns mowed their way through their opponents and almost pulled off a big win over eventual champion The Bandits.

Top Guns fell in the title game by one run, 14-13, as their sixth inning rally fell a run short.

Trailing 14-9 entering the top of the sixth inning, the Top Guns plated four runs in the inning to make it a 14-13 game.

April Stephens led off the inning with a walk and Michelle Tackett also walked before Denise Justice singled home Jackie Howard, who was running for Stephens, with Tackett moving to third base.

Tracy Burke bounced to third, forcing Justice at second base but the next batter was safe on an error at second base with Tackett scoring.

With two out, D.C. Frazier lined a double, scoring Burke. Tammy Tackett followed Frazier with a base hit but Frazier was cut down at the plate when she tried to score on Tackett's base hit.

After the Bandits went out in order in the sixth, Michelle Justice singled to open the Top Guns' seventh. However, Loretta Tackett grounded into a double play. The next two runners reached for the Top Guns, but Michelle Tackett went out to left field to end the inning and the game.

The Top Guns jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first on consecutive base hits by Burke and Miller. Burke scored on Frazier's one-out base hit. The second run came in on Tammy Tackett's RBI single.

Four runs came across for the Bandits in the bottom of the second as they took a 4-2 lead. The Top Guns made it 4-3 with a single run in the third. Burke tripled to start the frame and scored on a ground out.

The fourth inning was drastic for the Top Guns as the Bandits sent 15 batters to the plate and scored 10 times to assume a 14-3 lead. Bucky Hall had a two-run triple for the Bandits.

The Top Guns dropped their first game of the preseason tournament when they lost to Kids Play 6-3. Burke had a first inning home run and Miller tripled in the first inning as they scored twice for a 2-0 lead. Kids Play went on top 3-2 with three in the second on a triple by Tracy Kirk, an error and Denise James' base hit.

Gwen Anderson had a one-out double for the Top Guns in the fourth and scored on Michelle Tackett's RBI single.

Kids Play added their final two runs in the fifth on a base hit by James and a single by Janice Damron. Both runners came around to score on Mills' triple.

Burke had three hits in the game for the Top Guns. Miller collected two as did Anderson.

The Top Guns had an easy time in game two as they posted a 20-1 win over the Misfits. The Top Guns scored seven times in the first inning and in taking a 7-1 lead and never looked back.

Frazier had a second inning home run for the winners and April Stephens tripled home three runs in the third when they sent 16 batters to the plate. Denise Justice had a two-run double and collected two hits in the inning.

Top Gun finished with a 5-1 mark in the event.

Frazier had three hits for the winners with Stephens getting two hits and four RBIs.

Top Guns went on to record a 18-5 mercy win over the Southern Eagles in game three by scoring eight times in the fifth inning. Tammy Tackett had two doubles in the game with Michelle Justice singling three times. Denise Justice also collected three hits. Burke and Frazier had two hits each.

The Villagers found out what the previous teams discovered—that the Top Guns were top guns as they rolled to a 26-2 win over the Villagers.

Frazier had three hits including two triples. Miller cracked a third inning three-run home run in finishing with three hits.

Top Gun posted a 17-1 win over KLC in game five of the double elimination tournament. Burke had a three-hit night and Denise Justice cracked a leadoff home run in the sixth. Tammy Tackett added a three-run round tripper in the same inning as did Gwen Anderson.

April Stephens had a four-hit night with Frazier finishing with three hits.

It was shutout city for the Top Guns as they advanced into the finals of the losers bracket and won another chance for the championship.

In the losers bracket championship game, they posted a 31-0 victory by bombing the Bombers. Burke and Michelle Justice each had five hits in the outing to lead the team. Stephens collected four hits including a third inning two-run double. Burke had a triple in the second inning.

Top Gun finished with a 5-1 mark in the event.

first year Wheelwright coach. "We placed sixth overall in the regional meet but there wasn't that much of a spread between us and the other five."

While Harlan slipped in and took the lead that Wheelwright once held and finished first with 83 points, Bath County shared second place with Fleming-Neon with 79 points. Fourth place went to Oneida Baptist with 65 points and Everts was fifth with 64 points. Wheelwright finished with 63 points and Coach Smallwood noticed the reason for the finish.

"I just didn't have the bodies for other events," he said. "We didn't have any distance runners. And because we were not able to enter the distance races, we lost points."

Wheelwright did not have anyone to enter the 100 meters, 1600 meters and 3200 meters -- a loss of a minimum three points. Three points added to the 62 would have tied them with Everts for third place.

"We were leading after the preliminaries on Thursday," said Smallwood. "But I just ran out of bodies for some of the events. Next year, I hope that we can get more girls out and get some distance runners."

Melissa Tackett placed sixth overall in the women's 200-meter run. "Melissa ran her heart out for us this year and especially in the regionals," said Smallwood.

Krystal Isaac looked to be heading for the state meet in the women's 800 meters, but in the last turn a pulled muscle caused the racer to pull in with a fourth place finish.

"I'm proud of Krystal and the way that she ran the race. She did not quit and did finish although she had second place. I'm proud of the way she finished," said Smallwood.

In the 400-meter relays, Wheelwright placed sixth overall to win ribbons. The foursome included Charity Wright, Shonnequa Oden, Tara Newman and Jenny Meade.

Oden, along with Amanda Foreman, Wright and Jennifer Holbrook ran in the 1600-meter relays but did not place.

Eighth grader Nikki Morgan is one of Smallwood's "pleased as punch" runners in the 100 hurdles. The eighth grader placed third in the regional meet.

Morgan stumbled over the last two hurdles and missed a state date with a fourth place finish for Wheelwright.

"She was running second in the event, but stumbled over the last two hurdles," explained Smallwood.

The Wheelwright 800-meter relay team took fourth place as Lori Tackett, Krystal Isaac, Jenny Meade and Nikki Morgan ran for the Trojans. The 3200-meter relay team finished fifth overall.

"We had a lot of personal bests in the regionals," said Smallwood. "Melissa Tackett is looking good all the time. I was more excited about this weekend that all I have been all season. These kids did it all on their own."

We certainly need a facility for our kids to practice on.

"The kids had a happy attitude and there was no pressure on them. They went down and performed and I am tickled with them."

The Wheelwright coach said that he was a little disappointed to get so close to the top and not get there because of the lack of people to run.

"If we can get four or five more runners next year we will be a strong team. We did well in the field events and we had fun. It was a learning year for them and me."

Donations are needed to help repair wind damaged dugout

The Wayland Dodgers' Little League team is looking for businesses and individuals that would help in replacing their dugout top that blew away in last Tuesday's high winds.

According to coach Ronnie Patton, the high winds lifted the top of the dugout off, causing two injuries.

"The winds started to blow real hard," explained Patton, "and I told the players to get out of the dugout. Eric Casebolt was walking behind the dugout going to his mother's car when the top came off striking him on the face and a block hit him so hard that it left an imprint on his shoulder."

Patton explained that the top then landed on top of Casebolt's car, injuring the owner.

"We were fortunate that two people are still alive today," he said.

Any businesses or individuals that would like to make a donation to the replacing of the dugout top should contact Coach Patton at Duff Elementary.

"All the help that we can get will be greatly appreciated," said Patton.

Damron stars on the mound, at the plate for Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It looked as if the 3-11 McDowell Daredevils were bent on pulling the first upset in the 58th District baseball tournament played last week at no less than three different parks.

With all the rain that in the area over the past week, the tournament was played at Allen Central, Allen and Archer Park.

Prestonsburg and McDowell, who were scheduled to meet this past Friday, moved their game to Archer Park on Thursday, the same time that Allen Central and Betsy Layne were finishing a game that started on Tuesday.

The Daredevils put a scare into the Blackcats after taking a 2-0 lead in the second inning off of Prestonsburg starter Sean Damron.

But after the second frame, Damron was anything but hittable as he mowed down the next 16 batters he faced en route to a 6-2 win over McDowell.

Damron gave up a two-run home run to Ryan Brown in the top of the second inning but got Scott Hall to fly to left to end the second.

Starting with retiring Hall in the second, Damron retired every batter after that as he took complete control from the mound.

Damron starred but at the plate also. He collected three hits in the game, driving in two of his teams six runs.

Scott Hall, although he pitched well enough to win, fell victim to the Blackcats in the fifth inning when they struck for four runs to take a 4-2 lead. Nine batters faced Hall in the inning with Cory Reitz leading off with a two-base hit. A walk to Ryan Ortega put runners at first and second with Seth Hyden singling home Reitz for the first run. With two out, Anthony Howell scored Ortega on a base hit and Damron later scored on an error at second base. Howell scored on a passed ball.

Prestonsburg added two more in the sixth on a walk to Reitz and Ortega's sacrifice bunt where he was safe at first on an errant throw. Both runners scored on Damron's two-run single.

McDowell took the 2-0 lead in the second when James Stumbo singled with two out and rode home on Brown's home run.

Hall, in suffering the loss, went the distance for the Daredevils. He allowed six runs on 10 hits and walked one batter while striking out four.

Damron gave up just the two runs while scattering three hits. He walked two and fanned three.

McDowell finished the season at 3-12 while Prestonsburg improved to 18-8.

FISHIN' TIPS FROM THE HUMMINBIRD PROS

Almost everyone who fishes owns quite a collection of lures. However, very few are what we would consider bona fide lure collectors.

Antique fishing lures make very interesting collectibles and, like most other antique items, carry worth-while values.

As with most other collectibles, the older and fewer in existence, the more valuable the lure will be. Look for these old lures at flea markets, antique shops, yard sales or talk to a senior angler. Some may have an old tackle box stored in the attic.

You should consider investing in a good book on antique lures. This type of reference will guide you in evaluating the millions of antique fishing lures in existence. There are lure collecting clubs and organizations with which to share the hobby.

Fishin' Tips are presented by America's marine electronics leader.

Fields a bunt!

Prestonsburg pitcher Jason Hackworth was not only a hard worker on the mound but in fielding the ball also. Hackworth had three such plays against Betsy Layne in district tournament play. Duff, Martin split two

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Martin Reds and Duff Orioles faced each other in a matter of two days and each came away with a win over the other.

The Reds posted a 5-1 win in the first meeting at Martin and the Orioles came back with a 8-4 setback in the second go around.

In the first game, Duff collected 12 hits but left several runners stranded as they could only score one run against Martin.

Martin had the Orioles shut out until the fifth inning when Chris Combs scored. Combs had reached on a base hit and stole second before scoring on Ivan Gunnel's double.

The Reds scored twice in the fifth inning to add to an already 3-1 lead. Hall and Kevin Goodman had doubles in the two-run fifth for the Reds.

Kenneth Childers collected two hits for the Orioles. He singled in the first and again in the fourth.

Each team collected six hits in game two but the Orioles came out on top scorewise. Duff posted the 8-4 win with Shawn Henson getting credit for the victory.

The Orioles pushed across four runs in the first inning against Chris Damron. Childers lead off the inning with a double and scored on Nick Stumbo's base hit. Chris Combs singled home two runs and one run scored on a wild pitch.

The Reds didn't dent the plate until the fourth inning when they scored twice off Henson. Back-to-back walks to Hall and Goodman leading off set up the two-run single by Meade.

Henson fanned 15 batters in the game. Damron had 11 strikeouts.

Clark hurls Bobcats past Rebels, into District finals

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It took two days, but the Betsy Layne Bobcats and the Allen Central Rebels did get to finish their game.

The game was called in the second inning on Tuesday because of rain. It was picked up in the top of the inning on Thursday with Betsy Layne at bat.

When it came to a conclusion, it was the Bobcats standing tall with a 12-3 win and a berth in the championship of the district tournament.

Barry Clark scattered three hits -- allowing one run in the five innings that he worked. He started on the mound for Coach Junior Newsome and gave way to Derrick Newsome in the sixth inning.

Clark struck out six batters and walked one. Allen Central scored a run in the first off the righthander.

Newsome was touched for two runs in the sixth inning when Allen Central strung together four hits in the inning.

Glen Floyd started for Allen Central. Toby Vance and Jason Martin followed Floyd to the mound.

Eight batters went to the plate in the first inning for Betsy Layne as they took a 4-0 lead. Barry Collins started the early rally with a leadoff infield single. He stole second and moved to third on an error on the catcher and scored on a second error. A one-out base hit and an error in centerfield off the bat of Scott Ousley plus a walk to Kidd set up the two-run double by Clark. Shannon Newsome followed with a double, scoring Clark.

Allen Central made it a 4-1 game in the bottom of the first inning when Kevin Allen singled and came to third on two errors in center and left field. Allen scored when Glenn Floyd's grounder was misplayed at third base.

Betsy Layne scored twice in the second an plated two in the third as they jumped out to an 8-1 lead.

Clark picked up his third RBI and second hit of the game with a single in the fourth inning.

Collins doubled to start the sixth for the Bobcats and Derrick Newsome's single scored him for a 11-1 score. The Bobcats finished their scoring in the sixth on a base hit by Shannon Newsome, who scored on an error at shortstop.

Two runs came in for the Rebels in the bottom of the sixth. Floyd got a one-out single and Vance reached on a two-out base hit. Roy John Martin lined a base hit to right, scoring Floyd and Vance. He scored on Josh Handsford's RBI single.

The loss closed out a rather disappointing year for the Rebels, who finish at 10-13 on the season after getting off to a strong start.

Betsy Layne collected 14 hits in the game but it has been an inconsistent offense that the Bobcats have seen.

Floyd worked the first 2 2/3 innings allowing eight runs on eight hits, striking out four and walking one. Vance went 3 2/3, giving up four runs on six hits. He fanned one and walked one.

Martin was untouchable in the sixth as he "K'd" all three batters he faced.

Allen Central stranded seven base runners while committing five errors.

Betsy Layne left seven base runners on base and were guilty of just two errors.

ting the ball."

Was the Prestonsburg coach concerned over the performance in the first inning of Hackworth?

"Yes, there was some concern," said Shepherd. "But I also knew that if he could make it through the first inning that he would be okay."

Shepherd said that Damron's play at shortstop was a big play when he stopped the ball from going through the infield.

"Had he been able to get up and throw out Kidd they don't score three runs off Jason. The first run was unearned."

"I also feel that Ortega's home run was the turning point of the game. It seemed to take some wind out of them. Also, another turning point was when Betsy Layne had runners at second and third with no one out. Jason held them to one run and that was a big inning for us."

Coach Shepherd said that his young pitcher was successful because "he did what he was told to do."

"I don't call all of the pitches, but the ones that I did call, he did what he was supposed to. He threw the fastball well as well as keeping the ball outside when he was supposed to."

Shepherd had praise for the senior leadership that catcher Aaron Tucker showed.

"Aaron called a great game for us," said the Prestonsburg coach. "He has done that all year for us."

Prestonsburg (19-8) faced Shelby Valley (10-12) in yesterday's regional tournament. Betsy Layne (22-15) will go against Sheldon Clark (13-12) tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Johnson Central High School.

Shannon Newsome had one strikeout and did not issue a walk. He hit two batters.

Derrick Newsome fanned three and walked two.

UK-Louisville football game could be reality in '94

A University of Louisville-University of Kentucky football series may be on the horizon after all.

UK director of athletics C.M. Newton said earlier this month that the Wildcats have an open date in 1994 and reports have let it be known that Kentucky might be interested in playing U of L.

Conditions? Nobody is saying so, but I'm betting it would go something like this: Howard Schnellenberger takes his team to Lexington with no promise of a return date.

After years of no interest in a football series, why would UK be inclined to play U of L now? Money.

Newton is on record with: "we have to have seven home games" to break even. This year UK has six.

If one examines Kentucky's schedule, balances it against prior seasons, it is easy to speculate 1993's football books are going to be hard to balance.

Where does Louisville fit in?

UK has eight bone crushers (synonym for SEC foes) on its schedule, four at home, and needs desperately a non-league foe that can fill seats at Commonwealth.

Wildcat fans are not fools. Central Michigan won't sell out. Likewise, Kent State or East Carolina.

A Kentucky-Louisville match would be a prime time ticket, with revenues staying in the state.

Would Bill Olsen and Schnellenberger take a one-game-no-return deal?

You bet. Negotiations would focus on "you give something to get something." One condition.

When U of L opens its new stadium in, say '96, the Kentucky Wildcats would run out of the visitors' locker room.

Says here, if a '94 game at Commonwealth comes off, and is a sellout for UK; and if a '96 rematch elevates U of L football's image as a legitimate Division I power, then an annual home and away series would be the boon for football in Kentucky the way Schnellenberger has said all along.

Stay tuned.

BONDS OR PITINO

Who's hotter, Barry Bonds or Rick Pitino?

Almost mystical how not a week has passed since the Final Four when a headline somewhere did not include the word Pitino.

Even while Bonds' image adorned the cover of Sports Illustrated (complete with likeness of himself on each wrist band), Kentucky's coach was doing a press conference last week to dispel speculations that he was talking to the Hawks, the Pacers and the Lakers.

While Bonds' name was atop more statistical charts than Cheers TV promos, there was Pitino making bad jokes about coaching in Sicily. Or was it Cicely?

Interesting, the paths of the two mega-names in sports, Bonds and Pitino, converged and came to rest on one word. Happiness.

Barry the Brat, with his millions, is still searching for it. And Kentucky's coach was saying (mentioned in this space last week), happiness is here, at the University of Kentucky.

RALPH WILLARD

A question I heard more than a few times through the spring months was apparently more than idle speculation. If Rick Pitino leaves UK, will Ralph Willard get a telephone call from C.M. Newton?

Bet on it.

HILLTOPPERS STILL HOT

The Western Kentucky Hilltoppers head into the summer still on a hot streak. The Toppers recruiting class will be ranked among the best in the country, one expert has said.

WKU has accepted a berth in the preseason NIT, joining St. John's, Cincinnati, Kansas, California, Georgia, Minnesota and nine others.

Western's 1993-94 schedule will include home dates against Kansas State and Louisville. And, old rival Alabama-Birmingham comes on the card.

Look for the Tops to play road games against an Atlantic-10 Conference team, and a foe from the west, perhaps Nevada-Las Vegas.

AMINU TIMBERLAKE

UK's Aminu Timberlake will move on to Southern Illinois, freeing a scholarship for Anthony Epps.

Takes care of that fuss, Marion County fans.

When he signed, I thought 6-9 Timberlake had better potential than Andre Riddick. But, while Riddick blossomed into something a bit ornery last season, Timberlake remained a "nice kid."

It reinforces the parity law in hoops today. Riddick answered the "my way or the highway," get tough, get going or else, challenge from Pitino. Timberlake has taken the highway.

PITINO RECOMMENDO

Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson was talking with the Atlanta Hawks about the NBA team's coaching vacancy last week.

Richardson was recommened for an interview after the Hawks failed to lure Rick Pitino.

Recommended by whom? Pitino.

The Richardson-Hawks item brought to mind a remark made by a Hogs fan I know. "Nolan can sure recruit 'em, but even with that 40 minutes of hell stuff he can't coach 'em to the Final Four."

MARK POPE

Mark Pope transfers to UK from the Left Coast. History tells us the UK has not been a particularly thriving place for prospects from the west.

In quarter of a century--California bred Rob Lock averaged 10 points in 1987-88 and Chris Mills ('89) left under a cloud; Coloradans LaVon Williams ('80) and Scott Courts ('78) were ordinary. Courts did not letter; and Mark Soderberg ('70) transferred in a huff.

Footnote: Never mind. Pope is from Nebraska.

WORTH REPEATING DEPT.

Mark Pope may have raised some eyebrows here when the 6-9 forward said he decided on Kentucky because it is a "reasonably top national program."

But Pope gave Wildcat fans a hint of how he approaches the game. Re-counting a game last year when, with his team down by two and no time on the clock, he missed the front of a bonus, Pope told the Lexington Herald-Leader, "I can't wait to get in that situation again."

Footnote: Pope shot 86 percent from the foul line last season.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Wayne Onkst of Erlanger writes: "Since when does Coach Pitino have a quota of Kentucky players to fill?"

"I get sick and tired of so-called Kentucky fans knocking Coach Pitino for not getting in-state players. Kentucky is one of the elite national programs and these people should be proud that Kentucky can recruit successfully nationwide. Let's face it, Kentucky does not have the high school athletes in football or basketball that Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and some others do."

"Coach Pitino recruits players that fit his system whether they are from Kentucky or not. He has brought several Kentuckians to play for the Wildcats and made a valiant effort to recruit several others which he lost to Louisville. I'm happy Coach Rupp didn't back off Dan Issell, Cotton Nash, Louie Dampier, Alex Groza, Pat Riley and others because they weren't native Kentuckians. Nor did Coach (Joe) Hall refuse to recruit Kenny Walker, Kevin Grevey, Sam Bowie, Rick Robey, Kyle Macy, etc."

"Indeed, Murray, Eastern, Western and Louisville have more Kentuckians on their squads than UK. (But) which of these teams were in the final eight last year and Final Four this year? Coach Pitino has done a remarkable job. Get off his back!"

COMMENT: Thank you for writing.

The result of a long blast!

Bud Kidd seems to be making a habit of circling the bases in the 58th District baseball tournament. Kidd heads for home after crushing his third home run of the tournament against Prestonsburg Saturday afternoon at Allen Central. Betsy Layne fell 8-6 to the Blackcats. (photo by Ed Taylor)

McDowell

McDowell was quick to open the game with a 3-0 lead in the first. A one-out triple by Hobson, a walk to Brown and Mullins' RBI single accounted for the first two runs. Mullins scored when Crystal Newsome was safe on a fielder's choice.

The Lady Raiders made it 3-2 with a two first. A triple by Deerfield scored Church and Deerfield came in on a triple by Amber Pennington.

McDowell threatened to tie the game in the third when Hobson led off with her second triple of the game. But the Lady Daredevils could not score her as Brown popped out to the pitcher. Mullins hit a drive to left field that was caught with Hobson tagging up and scoring. However, the home plate umpire said that Hobson left the base too soon and ruled her out.

Three runs crossed home plate in the bottom of the third for East Carter.

Deerfield had her second triple and scored when Amber Pennington's fly ball was dropped in right field. She scored on Jodi Pennington's base hit. Jessica Hall scored the final run of the inning.

McDowell did score once in the fifth for an 8-4 game. Tackett came in on Hobson's third triple of the evening.

In the sixth, McDowell scored twice to narrow the East Carter lead to two runs, 8-6. Stephens reached on a one-out error and scored on Candid Hamilton's RBI single. She came in when Misty Shannon roped a base hit.

Hobson was the losing pitcher with Bush picking up the win. East Carter collected 13 hits while McDowell managed 12. Hobson had four hits and scored twice with three RBIs. Stephens had two hits.

McDowell finished the season at 5-14 with East Carter advancing on to meet Boyd County in the semifinals tonight.

place with 132 points. Oneida Baptist finished second with 116 points and Wheelwright was only eight points behind with 108 points.

"We got beat in pole vault," said Daniels. "We don't have anyone in pole vault and we lost points there. It's not fair, but that's the way it is."

In the men's 400 meters, Steven Shelton ran his personal best and placed fifth overall with a time of 55.69. Justin Ray took sixth place at 56.61.

Brandon Holbrook just missed a date in Lexington this weekend when he lost second place by a step in the men's 800-meter run. Holbrook placed third in the event with a time of 2:12.78.

"Brandon kicked too late down the stretch," said Daniels.

Little took second place in the men's 1600-meter run and earned a berth in this weekend's state meet. Little had a time of 5:13.21. Little also placed fourth overall in the 3200-meter run by posting a time of 12:47.84.

The men's 400-meter relay team had their best time of the year and placed fifth in the regional meet. The team of Kelvin Slone, John Hall, Ryan Johnson and Chad Slone finished in a time of 49.56.

It was a third place finish for the Wheelwright 1600 relay team as they ran in at 3:56.74. The foursome included Steven Shelton, Brandon Holbrook, Justin Ray and Patrick Tackett.

"They ran a very good race," said Coach Daniels. "It was also their best time of the year."

A third relay team posted a season best time when the 3200 relay squad of Holbrook, Curtis Newman, Jeremy and Doug Caudill ran for sixth place with a time of 10:12.83.

In the field events, Greg Johnson makes a trip to Lexington by placing second in the high jump. Johnson had a leap of 5' 10" in placing.

It was in the high jump that Layne Bailey of Wheelwright placed sixth in the state last year. He was the only Wheelwright participant to place in the state.

Kelvin Slone was fourth with a jump of 5' 6".

Harold Dodgers collect first victory, 7-3, over Ivel Reds

There was a cause for celebration in the Harold Dodgers' camp this week as coach Mike Potter's charges posted their first win of the season in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League.

The Dodgers defeated the Ivel Reds 7-3 in extra innings with Nick Coleman picking up the win in relief of starter Bradley Brooks who worked the first six innings.

The Dodgers scored four times in the top of the seventh inning in winning for the first time.

Robert Rose led off the frame with a walk and scored on Justin Bartley's two-out triple. Brooks doubled behind Bartley, making it a 5-3 ballgame. Michael Gross then lined a triple to center field, scoring Brooks. He later scored when he stole home.

The Indians put two base runners on in the bottom of the seventh but were unable to score. Lonaz Stephens had a one-out double but was left stranded.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead with a run in the first inning when Aaron Swiger stole home after walking and stealing second and third.

Harold went in front with two in the fourth inning as Brooks stole home and Gross doubled and scored on Josh Meade's RBI double.

The Reds took a 3-2 advantage in the fifth with two runs. Eugene Miller, who reached on a base hit, stole second and scored on Swiger's RBI single. Swiger scored the second run on a double by Shawn Deskins.

The Dodgers tied the game at 3-3 in the sixth inning on a one-out triple by Gross and a run-scoring double off the bat of Meade.

Brooks, in six innings of work, had four strikeouts. He allowed three runs on six hits. Coleman worked just the seventh in getting the win. He fanned one, and allowed two hits.

"Both pitchers did an excellent job for us," said Mike Potter, Dodger coach.

Gross had three hits in the contest for the Dodgers, including two triples.

Deskins had two doubles for the Reds. Swiger collected two hits.

QUALITY SUNGLASSES
IMPORTANT IN FISHING

One of bass fishing champion Larry Nixon's best fishing investments isn't a rod, reel or lure, and it never goes in his tackle box.

Instead, it's a pair of quality sunglasses.

"Any fisherman who cares about his eyes and who wants to catch more bass should own a good pair of sunglasses," says Nixon, winner of more than $1 million in bass tournament prize money and a long-time member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff.

"Good sunglasses not only protect your eyes from ultraviolet light, they also help you see and catch fish. I've won a number of tournaments because I could see underwater targets better than the competition and pinpoint my casts more accurately."

Ironically, when Nixon first began fishing, sunglasses gave him a headache so he never wore them. Today, he owns at least four pairs for use in different weather conditions.

"I just kept wearing sunglasses, buying better and better ones until finally the headaches stopped," he says. "I knew I had to wear them because of the underwater cover they allowed me to see."

"I really believe I was getting headaches because I was wearing cheap, plastic sunglasses, rather than the quality glass lenses I wear now."

Optometrists generally agree prolonged exposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays, as commonly experienced by fishermen, can lead to eventual eye damage if the eyes aren't protected. Deterioration and loss of night vision is just one of the problems anglers have experienced.

"I've had many fishermen come to me and say their sunglasses are the best investment they've made in fishing," says the Evinrude pro, "and I know personally that once you do begin wearing quality sunglasses you'll wonder why you waited so long to get them."

Good sunglasses aren't cheap, continues Nixon, with prices beginning at around $75 per pair.

"The lenses can't be plastic," he says, "but unfortunately, there are a lot of plastic sunglasses on the market directed toward fishermen. The lenses have to be polarized and block out ultraviolet rays, and plain plastic doesn't do that."

Nixon's glasses include a pair with lighter lenses for use on darker cloudy days, and another pair with darker lenses for use on brighter days.

"If you want to see more fish, see the cover they're using, and even see the changes in water color, you need a quality pair of sunglasses," Nixon concludes.

"I love to see a competitor get in my boat without a pair of good sunglasses, because I know he'll never see the underwater casting spots I'll see."

A mean swing!

New sports offered at Kentucky's Bluegrass State Games

The addition of karate, racquetball and darts to the Bluegrass State Games is sure to draw some first time participants this year.

Bob Montgomery, who is chairing karate, says he is hoping for a variety of martial arts participants to get involved since the competition is open to all styles of karate.

There are about 50 karate schools in Kentucky, many of which teach and practice various style of karate, Montgomery said. There are between 3,000 and 5,000 Kentuckians who are involved in martial arts, he estimated.

"We will do our very best to make this work regardless of the many styles. We will make sure the rules are fair and safe. We need every black belt in the state to be involved in this program. The more judges we have the faster the event will run. Anyone interested in being an official should call me."

Montgomery, who has a fifth degree black belt in Shotokan, runs Karate Fitness U.S.A. in Erlanger. With some 600 students, it is one of the largest karate schools in the United States.

There are no age limits in karate. There will be five karate events: Kata (forms); Weapons Forms; Kumite (sparring); Kihon (basic techniques for beginners not yet proficient in forms); and self defense for those not interested in sparring.

The entry deadline is July 9. Anyone with questions about the karate competition can call Montgomery at (606) 331-6669.

July 9 is also the deadline to enter racquetball, which is open to any age and any skill level, according to event chair, Mark Shupe. There will also be a wheelchair division if there are enough entries for this category.

"There are divisions for every skill level so you don't have to be a talented player to enter," Shupe said. "Don't be intimidated; go out there and have fun."

Because of scheduling considerations, participants can only enter two events within racquetball.

Shupe, an account executive with Dean Witter in Lexington, is president of the Kentucky Racquetball Association which has about 250 members. There are about 1,000 racquetball players statewide, Shupe estimates.

For more information about the racquetball competition, call Shupe at (606) 288-6011.

The third new sport--darts--is for ages six and up. Participants can enter singles, doubles, triples or four person matches. Persons can enter up to four events in any age group. Entries for doubles, triples and four-person partners should be submitted together, explained darts chair Bax McClure. All matches are best two out of three. Steel tip darts will be used.

The event will be held at the Holiday-Inn North in Lexington.

There are four darting associations in the state with a total of about 2,000 members, McClure estimated. The largest is in northern Kentucky with about 800 members.

"I am expecting to get about 200 darters to participate this first year," she said.

Deadline for entering is July 9.

Am I eligible?

Here are the factors that determine eligibility for the BGSJG:

- Participants must be residents of Kentucky for at least 30 days prior to the date of the competition they wish to enter. College students and military personnel who usually reside in Kentucky or attend a Kentucky college or university are eligible.

- Age groups and gender requirements for each sport are established by the sport's national and state governing bodies. The athlete must be prepared to present a valid Kentucky driver's license or a birth certificate (or copy) on site.

- Competition is open to all Kentucky athletes meeting the amateur

Bluegrass Games registration officially opens

Governor Brereton Jones formally opened registration for the ninth annual Bluegrass State Games.

Thousands of Kentucky amateur athletes will arrive in Lexington July 23, 24 and 25 to compete in 25 sports and try to win gold, silver and bronze medals. Last year more than 18,553 athletes from 109 counties participated in the games.

"Each year the Bluegrass State Games provides all Kentuckians with an opportunity to compete in the state's largest amateur athletic event," Governor Jones said. "I am excited to be a part of the games, which bring together our Commonwealth's young and old alike in the spirit of competition."

"As the games draw near, I look forward to sharing in the excitement that the people of Kentucky project as they exemplify all levels of skill and determination."

The 1993 Games will feature three new sports: darts, racquetball and karate. The new events are open to almost all ages and levels of playing abilities.

Other sports which are back by popular demand are archery, chess, wrestling, golf, three-on-three basketball, bowling, canoeing/kayaking, croquet, cycling, diving, equestrian, fencing, gymnastics, horseshoes, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, table tennis, tennis, track and field and volleyball.

As one of 41 state games nationwide, the Bluegrass State Games is already ranked in the tops as far as participation.

Participants come from all walks of life and have ranged from age 2 to 90.

Athletes compete based on gender and skill level. Disabled athletes can compete with the disabled or non-disabled persons.

Over 55 sites will be used for the various Bluegrass State Games competitions and more than 700 volunteers will provide staff support in competitions and at opening ceremonies.

The colorful opening ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. July 23 at the University of Kentucky's Commonwealth Stadium in Lexington. There will be the annual parade of athletes, fireworks and entertainment. A family picnic from 4-7 p.m. will precede the official opening ceremonies and lighting of the Bluegrass State Games torch.

The torch will be lit in Frankfort at 11:30 a.m. that day at the old Capitol during a seniors Pacesetter non-competitive walking event and festival. A team of runners will then carry the torch to Lexington for opening ceremonies.

The Games are organized by the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government with volunteers chairing the various sports.

"Lexington is pleased to be able to organize and host the Bluegrass State Games once again this year," said Lexington Mayor Pam Miller. "We are proud of the tradition of excellence, hospitality and family fun we have established."

Entry booklets can be picked up at any SuperAmerica store or Valvoline Instant Oil Change. Interested persons can call 1-800-722-BGSG and an entry booklet will be mailed.

Deadlines for entering most sports is July 9. Bowling, soccer, softball, diving, equestrian, gymnastics, some categories of shooting, tennis and volleyball have earlier deadlines. Some shooting will be held July 17 and 18 in Owensboro.

Carl Frey, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Bluegrass State Games and Senior Vice President for External Affairs for Valvoline Inc., said, "Valvoline is pleased once again to support the Bluegrass State Games, which have become the most successful games of their type in the United States."

"Coca-Cola is proud to be founding sponsor of the Bluegrass State Games," said David McDonald, Sales Center Manager, Bluegrass Coca-Cola, Lexington Branch. "But this would not be possible without the support of our loyal customers throughout Kentucky, many of whom will participate in the 1993 Games. Because it is really those people who make the Bluegrass State Games possible."

Rangers roll in Prestonsburg Little League

RANGERS - CUBS BATTLE IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

The Rangers, led by Jon May, Drew Brown, and Kalen Harris, rallied in the sixth to beat the defending league champions 21-17 in the first game of the season.

After the Rangers scored four in the first and three in the second, Cubs coach Bobby Hackworth pulled pitcher Chris Prater and put team ace Grant Castle on the mound. The Rangers scored an additional 14 runs off Castle who allowed 12 hits, including a third inning three-run blast to center field by Jon May.

The Rangers had defensive problems also. After being shut down in the first, Fannin and Castle came alive for the Cubs. Fannin went 2 for 4 and scored two runs while Castle went 3 for 4 and scored twice. Ranger pitcher Kalen Harris allowed eight runs on only two hits before being replaced by Jon May. May allowed eight runs over two innings on four hits. Drew Brown replaced May in the fifth and allowed only one run and two hits in the final two innings to get the win.

After falling behind 17-16 in the bottom of the fifth, the Rangers exploded for five runs in the top of the sixth. May advanced to first after being hit by a pitch. First baseman Todd Kidd doubled in May to tie the game. Harris walked and both he and Kidd scored on Brown's two-run single to give the Rangers the lead. Brown later scored on Ricky Powers' double. Powers stole third and then raced home after a passed ball to give the Rangers a 21-17 lead.

In the bottom of the sixth, Brown gave up a hit and two walks before striking out Neil Fannin for the final out and the victory.

RANGERS HOLD OFF YANKEES, GO 2 AND 0

Ranger pitcher Kalen Harris hit a wild streak Thursday night as he walked home five runs and gave up four more before being replaced by Ricky Powers in the top of the fourth inning. Powers gave up five runs while striking out six as he held on for the win versus the Yankees. Gabriel Shepherd gave up 16 runs and 18 hits for the Yankees.

The Yankees were the beneficiaries of wild pitching as they scored 14 runs on only three hits. The opposite is true for the Rangers. They scored their 16 runs on 18 hits, including two triples by Jon May and two doubles by Todd Kidd. Brian Bowling of the Rangers went 3 for 3 and scored three times before injuring his thumb and leaving the line-up.

The Yankees, behind 14-10 in the fourth, started a comeback by scoring three in the fifth and one in the sixth. The Rangers held on by answering with two in the bottom of the fifth for the win.

RANGERS SURVIVE SCARE, BEAT A'S 10-9

After being held scoreless for two innings, the A's scored nine runs in the final four innings to close within one of the Rangers. Hall for the A's allowed 10 runs on 10 hits, though.

The A's were scoreless in the top of the first while the Rangers scored 3. Jon May drove home Josh Shepherd, who walked, with a triple. May scored on Todd Kidd's double. Kidd was tagged out trying to steal home. Kalen Harris scored on a fielder's choice by Drew Brown to round out the Ranger's first.

The A's again went scoreless in the second while the Rangers scored four. After getting two outs, the Rangers put two on for Kidd. Kidd doubled in two runs and later scored on a Harris triple. Harris scored on a two-run inside-the-park home run by Drew Brown.

The A's cracked the scoreboard in the third with three runs. Hall singled, Compton reached on an error, and both scored on a double by Ousley. Ousley was later forced in when Drew Brown loaded the bases then walked Combs before striking out Justice to end the inning. After issuing a walk to Robert Spradlin, Hall struck out the next three Rangers to hold them at eight.

After giving up a hit to Hall, Brown walked home three runs in the top of the fourth to bring the A's to within 2. The Rangers answered with two in the bottom of the fourth. Both Rangers runs scored on a triple by Harris.

The A's added one in the fifth on a double by Ousley while the A's defense held the Rangers scoreless.

In the top of the sixth, down by 3, the A's first two batters went down looking at strikes by Ranger reliever Ricky Powers, who started the sixth. Powers then walked two and allowed them to score when his throw sailed over the head of the Kidd at first. Powers settled down and got Compton the fly to center for the final out of the game and his first save.

RANGERS ON A ROLL, SCALP BRAVES 11-1

Kalen Harris pitched an excellent game Thursday as the Rangers beat the Braves 11-1. Harris gave up one run on three hits while striking out 11 and walking four and hitting 1. The Braves countered with J.B. Hall who gave up 11 runs on nine hits with 12 strikeouts, 11 walks, and one hit batter.

The Rangers jumped on the Braves early in the first inning by scoring seven runs. Back-to-back triples by Todd Kidd and Jon May followed by a hit batter then back-to-back doubles by Drew Brown and Brian Bowling plated six of those runs. The 7th came when Hall walked May with the bases loaded. The Braves put two on then had a fielder's choice sandwiched between two strikeouts.

Neither team scored again until Josh Slone of the Rangers stole home in the third.

In the fourth, Brown of the Rangers reached on a triple then scored when Bowling also hit a triple. Bowling was tagged out at the plate after he tried to steal home. The Braves scored their only run when Spriggs stole home on a wild pitch by Harris during the bottom of the fourth.

The Rangers added one run in the fifth and sixth. In the fifth, Eric Joseph scored on a Kidd double, while in the sixth, Brown scored on a Bowling double. Harris set the Braves down 1-2-3 in the bottom of the sixth for the Rangers' fourth victory and his first complete game of the season.

RANGERS SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER WITH METS & INDIANS

In the first game against the Mets, the Rangers had to score seven runs in the bottom of the fifth to secure the victory. Ranger pitchers Robert Spradlin and Ricky Powers combined for four strikeouts while giving up eight walks, two hit batters, and 12 runs on 10 hits. Mets pitchers Brett Bentley and Paul Wallen combined for eight strikeouts while giving up eight walks, two hit batters, and 13 runs on 10 hits.

In the first, neither team scored. In the top of the second, Paul Wallen scored when the throw to third went off Powers' glove into left field. Spradlin then loaded the bases before striking out George Thornsberry for the last out. The Rangers answered in the bottom of the second when Kalen Harris doubled then stole third before scoring on a Drew Brown single.

After putting the Mets down 1-2-3 in the top of the third, the Rangers took the lead when Todd Kidd tripled and then scored on a Jon May single. May scored on a Brown single. Brown scored on a Brian Bowling double. Bowling was stranded when the next batter flied out to first.

The Mets picked up two in the top of the fourth. Don Shepherd scored when Ranger shortstop May couldn't make the force play at home. Hill scored on a single by Goble. The Rangers also scored two in the bottom of the fourth. Mets pitcher Paul Wallen hit Kalen Harris with the bases loaded to force in a run. Brown followed with a single to score the other.

The Mets tied the score in the top of the fifth when Kim Nunnery hit a triple to right center to clear the bases. Nunnery scored on a fielder's choice. William Holbrook drove in Thornsberry then scored with Brett Bentley on a Wallen single. Wallen stole home to give the Mets a five-run lead. The Rangers rally began with a Spradlin solo home run. Josh Slone and Aaron Bingham scored on a May single. Kidd, May and Harris scored on a triple by Bowling, who stole home the give the Rangers a two-run lead.

In the sixth, Michael Fannin was awarded second on an obstruction call against Kidd and scored on a Nunnery single. But, it was not enough as the Rangers held on to win 13-12.

In the Rangers' second game, things didn't go as well. Indians pitching ace Adam Hall dominated the Rangers. He struck out 16 while walking only four and giving up just two runs on one hit. Ranger pitchers Drew Brown and Kalen Harris collected 14 strikeouts while allowing six walks and six runs on six hits.

The Indians started off the game with a score when Ranger third baseman Ricky Powers overthrew first base and Indian leadoff hitter JoJo Crockett rounded the bases. Neither team scored until the top of the third. John Dixon singled then scored along with Josh Turner on a Jarrod Hall single. Both Adam and Jarrod Hall were tagged out at third in succession to end the inning.

After a scoreless third for the Rangers, Ranger pitcher Kalen Harris struck out seven straight before Adam Hall connected for a double in the top of the sixth. Hall and Leslie Setser scored on a Ryan Manin single. Manin scored on a Dixon single to give the Indians a 6-2 lead. The Rangers' two came in the bottom of the fourth when Jon May tripled and stole home followed by Harris who walked then stole his way to the score. The Rangers threatened in the bottom of the sixth when May reached third, but was stranded as the next two batters struck out. After losing to the Indians, the Rangers remained in first place, tied with the Cubs. These two first place teams meet Thursday, May 27 at 5:30 p.m.

THE CLASS OF '57 HAD ITS DREAM

As the current crop of high school seniors participate in traditional commencement exercises, I can't help but remember when I too was turned loose on society. And, whenever I think of former classmates with whom I walked across the stage to receive my high school diploma — that so-called KEY to success; that KEY to the future; that KEY to happiness — in the old Meade Memorial High School gym thirty-six years ago, I can't help but ask, "has it really been that long?"

The old saying goes, "Time flies when you're having fun." Well, for the benefit of those who don't know already, it doesn't exactly poke along...even when you're not.

It's almost as if that little diploma, neatly enclosed in its maroon cardboard binder, instead of being all those magic "keys to" things that we always hear about, instead turned out to be nothing more than some sort of out-of-control time machine.

It's almost as if as soon as it was in our hands, life kicked to the "fast forward" mode and everything's been nothing but a blur ever since.

ZIP! Suddenly we were thirty-six years into the future.

ZAP! The complexion of things changed (We traded our acne for liver spots and wrinkles.)

POW! Those tight-legged blue jeans with a waist size we couldn't even get a leg through now, changed to baggy, saggy trousers like...like old people wear.

POOF! As if by magic, some of us have even vanished from the face of the earth. I mean, does anybody know whatever happened to the kid who was walking into the gym that Sunday afternoon for baccalaureate services when the bird flew down, lit on his cap and rode the full length of the gym floor before flying off to the rafters?? Has anybody seen the skinny guy who always had a spit curl in the middle of his forehead?

As the Statler Brothers' song says, "The class of '57 had its dream."

The class of '57. That was us, all right. A group of sixty pimply-faced, insecure kids who now might be disappointed that we still have no cure for cancer; that one of its number has never made it to the silver screen; that one of its members has never graced the stage of the Grand Ole Opry. Yet, on the other hand, we'll have to take pride in the fact that as we've been sped through time, for the most part, we've become productive citizens and have had various personal accomplishments that have exceeded the expectations of even the most optimistic dreamer among us.

And, I know for a fact that all sixty of us made more of ourselves than many of teachers (bless their hearts) even thought we would. Even I was surprised when one member of our class said "yes" and became my wife 30 years ago.

Anyway, congratulations are due the class of '93. And, although you didn't ask for it, here's some advice from the class of '57: Remember, while it's true that time does fly, dreams happen slowly. And, for Heaven's sake, don't do what we did in the Statlers' song. Don't "...expect the world to change just to fit our needs." And above all, don't be surprised if you wake up tomorrow morning and instead of it being 1993, it's 2029.

Rice "Walks" into world of folk art

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

When Russell Rice, 73, retired from Kentucky/West Virginia Gas Company 14 years ago, he wanted a hobby that would keep him busy. First, he tried his hand at picture framing and then, eyeglass painting. In the latter, he hand-painted miniature nature scenes on old eyeglass pieces, strung them on chains and sold them as necklaces. Both were nice hobbies, but ones he didn't care to pursue.

Then about five years ago, he made a cane or what could be more aptly called, a "walking stick." "I saw the need of my own for a cane," he remembered. "I needed something to occupy my time."

He took a piece of wood, hand-carved it, painted it and made it into a work of art. His daughter, Sharon R. Watkins, who lives nearby, liked the walking stick so much, she claimed it as her own — until a fellow from Florida visited Rice, saw the walking stick, and decided to buy it. Watkins told her father to sell it to him. Rice did, and "I saw there was a demand for folk art canes," he said.

He began making canes for his own enjoyment and began to sell them locally, gaining notice through his participation in regional craft festivals. Although Rice has since become well-known in Floyd County for his walking stick creations, his cane-making career, which he still considers a hobby, took off when he met Adrian Swain of the Morehead State University.

"Adrian Swain is the rod of folk art at M.S.U.," Rice said. "He came to an art show at Prestonsburg and I asked him if he knew anyone who wanted to buy canes."

Swain subsequently visited Rice for a look at his canes, and he liked Rice's work enough to put some selections in both the University's art museum and craft center.

"I've sold most of my work through M.S.U.," Rice said. "They have some of my work and people see it. One person tells another" and buyers show up to purchase the canes.

So far, he has made and sold over 100 canes. "I've got canes in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Alabama, New York, Massachusetts, Japan, Texas, California — I've got canes all over. Sailors Valentine Gallery, in Nantucket, Massachusetts, has been here to visit me and have bought 10 or 12 sticks from M.S.U. Swain and Susan Scheiberg of M.S.U. I credit with promoting my work."

As a result, Rice is becoming a name in the world of folk art.

October 1992, he participated in the Tuscaloosa, Alabama Kentucky Show Festival, which he declared was "one of the best shows I've ever gone to. I sold more work there than any where."

March 11, he was among fifteen Kentucky artists and craftsmen who were invited to, and who participated in, the groundbreaking ceremonies of the Owensboro Museum of Fine Arts expansion. The fifteen, who have works in the museum's collection of Kentucky Folk Art, were also invited to make special shovels for the occasion. Rice created a walking stick handle for his shovel, which he donated to the museum.

In May, he was invited to and displayed some of his walking sticks at the Kentucky Derby Craft Show at Frankfort, his third Kentucky Derby Show. June 24, he heads for a cane-makers' workshop at M.S.U. And recently, he was invited to an art show to be held in New York City in January.

The acceptance of his work in art circles is a bit of a surprise for Rice, a modest man, who reflected, "When raising my family for 35 years, I never picked up a brush or anything. I didn't have time for anything else."

One could never tell it from his work. During a visit to his workshop located next to his house, Rice showed a beautifully carved "snake" walking stick he recently completed for a customer. He makes his canes out of small trees, such as dogwood and sassafras, that a neighbor digs up and gives to him, roots and all.

"I take the bark off and season them — allow them to stand and dry, some for three to five months, according to the time of year you get the wood. If the sap is down, it dries faster. January and February are the best months."

In a corner of the workshop, several debarked sassafras trees were stacked upright in a corner where they have been seasoning for about five months. He said that it takes him a few months thereafter to finish a cane.

"When I get a piece of wood, I take the bark off, dress it up. I don't know what I'm going to put on it. That personality comes to me as I work on the piece. Then I put the personality into the wood."

He keeps his finished walking sticks — those he hasn't sold — in a small study in his house. Leaning against a wall are a myriad of colorful, whimsical walking sticks, each with a different "personality" he has gleaned from the character — the knobs, twists and turns — of the wood. His wife, Malta, an ardent supporter of his work, looked over the canes with him, and pointed out

Making canes

In his workshop, Russell Rice holds up his best walking stick, the Eastern Diamond Back Rattler. A bunch of sassafras trees, stripped of their bark, are seasoning in the corner behind him. "I'm only into cane-making now," he said. "It's better to have one project and do my best on it."

different ones for perusal. "I can't believe anybody could have so much imagination. No two sticks are alike and no colors are the same," she said with amazement. It was as if she was looking at the collection for the first time.

One cane features a knob block handle on which he has painted separate scenes depicting the four seasons. Another has the names of every Kentucky Derby Winner since 1875 captured in small painted ovals the length of the stick. Then there is the giraffe stick, the genealogy stick, the mamaw and papaw sticks, the boot stick, and on and on, each a product of Rice's sense of humor. He picked up what he considers his best cane — a carved life-like replica of a Eastern Diamond-Back Rattler coiling up a stick.

"This stick has 78 hours of work in it," he said, eyeing it. "The snake would be 7 feet and 11 inches if stretched out. It's too long to ever think about using it for a walking stick. It weighs five pounds."

His snake sticks are so life-like that "ninety-five percent of the ladies who look at my sticks will never pick up the snake to look at it," he said.

The walking sticks, priced at $75 and up, can be used to walk with, but mostly they are useful as "conversation pieces," he said.

Rice gets plenty of attention when he takes one out on the town.

"We went to Ashland to a restaurant and he had a cane," Malta related. "He got a lot of attention. One lady from California wanted it."

With such success, one would think he would be consumed with making walking sticks. Not so. Whether he stays in his workshop depends upon the weather. "If there is bad weather all day, I'll stay in the workshop. Otherwise, I garden or cut the grass and feed the squirrels and birds. I keep busy doing things that don't hardly amount to anything."

He is very active in his church, The First Church of God at East Point, where he is a trustee. "I also do a lot of visiting at hospitals," he said. He also has his priorities straight.

"My family I place first, my church second and my hobbies third," he declared. Although Rice abandoned his first workshop hobbies, creating walking sticks is a hobby Rice is likely to continue because "when I think I've taken a nothing, a stick, and made it into something somebody would like" he said, "I have satisfaction of heart and mind."

Several of Rice's unique walking sticks are on display at Mountain Heritage Art and Crafts Center in Prestonsburg.

Kim's Korner

I spoke to a reader recently who told me she and her daughter were sitting on a Wednesday evening awaiting the outcome of cheerleading try-outs.

She said she picked up the Floyd County Times and began to read this column and try-outs was the topic. She couldn't believe I wasn't a fly on her wall writing about her life.

She asked if my own daughter had made it for cheerleader because I hadn't mentioned it and she couldn't help but wonder.

Yes, Ashleigh made the squad. The feelings we experienced the day we found out were those good ol' roller coaster ones we all know so well.

Up for joy one minute, sad for friends the next.

It seems the cheerleading "thing" is starting right off the bat this year, and maybe it's because Ashleigh's now on the A-team, where as she was on B-team last year.

The squads have already made a trip to Lexington to Cheer.

Cheers, was a great experience for these girls, it's like a one-day camp with a weeks worth of work. Some other mothers and I drove down and witnessed what our daughters experienced and all agreed, it was really nice.

There were T-shirts on display along the walls and one that caught my attention read, "If you think cheerleaders are not athletes think again!"

Somehow, I get the feeling Floyd County thinks this way.

That being a cheerleader is not as "good" as being a ball player.

And in this county, with the lawsuits accompanying cheerleading one thing is for sure, it's taken a whole new direction.

In the 70s I wouldn't say we were athletes. As cheerleaders we simply were cheer-leaders. Now in the 90s, a child is expected to flip forward, backward, spot, climb, base, smile, and a whole lot more.

The athletics involved are extensive and for cheerleaders not to be included in our schools' athletic departments—I for one think is very unfair.

No money is allotted in an athletic fund for cheerleaders. Parents pay for everything—uniforms, shoes, hair bows, socks, pom poms, warm-ups, camp, etc.

To have fundraisers for these items takes an act of Congress because it has to go before the board of education before a fundraiser can be held.

I hope what I'm about to tell here doesn't cause Coach Daniels any havoc, seeing as how it happened 15 years ago.

But, it's an example and I want to share it.

Wheelwright was about to host a very important football game.

The weather was cold and I really cold. Our uniforms were sleeveless and the cheerleaders had no money for blouses or turtle necks to go underneath.

Jeanie, Steph and I went to coach and seeing as how he was also the principal, we felt he was definitely the right one to go to.

I asked coach for the school to buy us something to go under our uniforms — he explained the money situation — but we knew through some of the football players there was money left in their fund after their equipment and uniforms were purchased.

Coach shook that head of his after we'd asked about the "football money." After all, we told him we are cheering for the football team and you don't want us out there freezing to death and having to miss school from pneumonia, now do you coach? Coach gave us the money to buy eight navy blue blouses to go under our uniforms. We were warm, the football team lost nothing and no one got hurt.

I don't understand why these funds are allotted to the football program and the basketball program and the cheerleaders are left high and dry. This are not changed in 15 years, but raising the funds sure has.

We had car washes, bake sales and yard sales for camp and shoes and maybe one uniform.

Our uniforms were handed down year after year and some of them were dry rotted and falling apart.

But you see, Coach understood our position years ago and handled it in a manner that pleased everyone. There was still money left in the football fund for something unexpected, like football pads tearing up or something of that nature.

Anyway, you get my point. I'm not saying cheerleaders should be equipped head to toe with funds from our schools. But our schools could sure help more and the board could outline that say, for example: three fundraisers may be held throughout the year for raising money for cheerleaders and leave it at that with rules to follow. No road blocks, of course, but hey, everybody likes a good cupcake, a clean car. But nobody likes the red tape it takes to get them. Oh well, it's my opinion.

Till next week.

His latest novel details the life and times of "Big Bertha" Barker, whose extra "gland" earned her a place of honor in the Carnival Performers' Hall of Fame and wrecked marriages across the Southwest in the early 1920s. Dear Dr. Bubba: I've been feeling more and more lately that my co-workers hate my guts. At first, I thought it was just a case of the paranoids out to get me, but now I'm convinced. I think what tipped me off was a letter I found on my desk the other day that said "Hey, we hate your guts!!! Signed, your co-workers." What do I do now? I can't afford to quit my job, but it's kind of hard to stay where you know you're not wanted. Please help. Exiled at Auxier

Ask Dr. Bubba

Dear Exiled: As I see it, ya got a couple o' choices: 1) ya could try talkin' to 'em — sometimes a simple lack o' communication can result in terrible conflict an wreck even the best of relationships; 2) ya could look deep inside yerself to see whether or not yer co-workers' feelin's of animosity are justified an' then take steps to change yer own behavior; or 3) YA COULD STOP WHININ' LIKE A PATHETIC WORM AN' GET ON WITH YER LIFE!!! If none o' that don't work, I say ya go inta yer place o' bidness, take out an Uzi, an' ask if anybody wants ta play "Post Office." I bet they'll leave ya alone after that.

Dear Dr. Bubba: I just lost my campaign for public office, and if the feelings of depression, rejection and anxiety that are completely overwhelming me weren't bad enough, I just realized that I spent every penny all my friends, relatives and I had on my campaign. I was counting on using all the kickbacks I would receive in office to pay off my bills. All my contributors are mad now because they not only lost their money, they also aren't going to get those spiffy new jobs. Even worse, my winning opponent has vowed to run me out of business and to make my life a hideous, blood-curdling nightmare filled with anguish, despair and misery. What should I do? Up the Creek, Somewhere in Floyd County

Dear Up: Looks ta me like somebody never heard that little story 'bout countin' eggs before they's hatched. As far as advice, I really don't know what ta tell ya, 'cept maybe ta offer them three little words that mean so much — FAKE YER DEATH!!! Orya could just move far, faraway. Whatever's easiest. Either way, ya might wanna start packin' some heat.

That's all the space we got fer this week, folks. Tune in next week fer the excitin' continuin' adventures o' "Ask Dr. Bubba," same BubbaTime, same BubbaChannel.

If ya got serious problems in yer life ya can write me fer serious answers c/o the Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

In the meantime, remember ta be good ta one another. But not too good. Ya don't want nobody ta think yer a sissy.

Times begins 'From the Mountains' series

The Floyd County Times recently began a weekly series titled 'From the Mountains' which is written by Jason Gibson.

Gibson grew up at Wheelwright where he graduated in 1958. Following a two-year stint at Caney Junior College, now Alice Lloyd College, he graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1962.

"Finally in 1989, I started doing some free-lance writing," he smiled. "I do newswriting every week but I started the historical column, From the Mountains, in early 1990 and it appears in several papers in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia."

"I write stories about interesting historical events that involve our mountain area. Many are one-part

"I was in business in Missouri for 23 years following my graduation from UK," Gibson said recently. "The mountains seemed to be calling me back and in 1985, my wife, Chris, and I moved to Harrogate, TN."

"It's just across the mountain from Middleboro and next to Cumberland Gap. It's a very historical area."

Gibson explained that he had an interest in writing in high school, college, and that it had served him well in business.

stories but I also write stories with more than one part, stories that are continued from week-to-week. A lot of folks seem to like them because I'll often leave them hanging and it creates an interest for the coming issue."

Gibson is the son of Pauline and the late Jay P. Gibson who was a mine boss with Inland Steel Company. His brother and sister, Larry Gibson and Carol Hall also graduated from Wheelwright.

UNDER THE BRIDGE

"I can't write poetry."

I heard those four words last Tuesday evening. I found myself in front of about fifteen high school students in the lobby of Hemlock Lodge at Natural Bridge, trying to psyche myself up to run a poetry workshop.

I felt a slight twinge of panic. Here I am, at a writer's workshop for the Kentucky Telecommunications Writing Project, and some of the students are looking at me like they'd rather be in a dentist's chair than slapping together a poem.

A little context is necessary here, I suppose.

Back in January, I got a call from Carol Stumbo of Floyd County education fame, who told me that she was involved in a writing conference for students in grades 4-12 from all over the state. The students' classrooms were connected by computer. Knowing my poetic slant, she asked me if I'd handle an on-line poetry workshop.

I said yes, and for the last four months, I've been reading poetry from Wheelwright to Paducah and giving critiques, support and other sundry comments. Once I got comfortable with the poetry, I opened up a conference of my own to handle questions the high school students might have about college life.

When giving comments on the students' works, I told them the best way to get better was to read other poets' stuff. I suggested poets from William Shakespeare to Chuck D of Public Enemy. I wanted the students not to be afraid of poetry and not be afraid to express themselves.

I wrote to some of the students several times, but I never met any of them, not even the ones from Wheelwright, face to face.

Then came the writer's conference.

Many of the participating high school students—from Wheelwright High and The Brown School in Louisville—made the trip through those heavy storms to congregate, socialize and, I hoped, do some writing.

So here I was, trying to keep all these new acquaintances of mine straight. I had the whole agenda set in my head. I had my exercises planned out and I was all fired up to make these students into bona fide poets in one evening.

"I can't write poetry."

Sigh.

What do I do? I stick to my guns. I gave them a pep talk reminiscent of Belushi's from Animal House (you know, "Was it over when the Germans bombed Pearl Harbor...") and hit 'em with a brainstorming exercise to loosen them up. I gave them 20 minutes to at least get started on a poem.

My only rule: no rhymes.

We took our new half-done verse and went to a nearby cave (at this point, it was about 10:30—pitch black) to have a flashlight poetry recital at a Dead Poets' Society. Except for a couple of curious bats, it went off without a hitch. I started with a poem I'd prepared and then the students followed, and, I must say, they did a remarkable job.

It got pretty intense, especially when we all turned out our flashlights and went through an off-the-cuff list of what scared us. Words don't do it justice. It's a cliché, but you really had to be there.

Then what? Sleep? Nah.

That night, I pretended I was 17 again. I stayed up most of the night talking to some of the students about life, the universe and everything. I guess I crashed at about 5 a.m., and I had to do the second half of my workshop the next day.

One tired Mike.

We got into critics' circles the next day to edit what we'd done the night before, but it was pretty low intensity. Everyone was more interested in hanging out, walking around, paddleboating, flirting and just getting to know everyone. I can't argue. When you've been talking to someone all year long, and these students had, and you finally get a chance to meet face to face, the last thing you want is some crazy adult forcing structure down your throat.

But hey, everyone left The Bridge with at least one new poem. Everyone. Even the person who told me, "I can't."

She did.

And my hat's off to her, and everyone else who was there.

It was a great experience for me. I'd never run a workshop like that. It felt great to stand up in front of these folks while full of adrenaline and act silly enough to coax them into sitting down and expressing themselves.

Fortunately, most of this bunch didn't need much coaxing. To Amy, Beth, Wali, Jesse, Dieprieve, Nikki, Kris, Rhonda, Stacie, Candi, Alena, Carrie, Jimmi Lou and Angie—as well as the supervisors, Delores Woody, Sue "McV" and Jan Leake (yeah, I guess you count as one...), you've got my thanks and my respect. Peace.

Students should write, and most students write better when they get honest feedback from something like KTWP. This program is a perfect example of how technology can enhance the classroom experience. I wish I'd had it when I was on the other side of the desk. I'm proud to be part of it.

So, except for a bruise approximately the size of Delaware on my left arm from a wrestling match, the experience was fantastic. I've said somewhat jokingly that I can get any willing person to write poetry in less than 20 minutes.

I'm glad I could make good on my boast.

"I guess I can."

State trooper awarded medal for heroism

Kentucky State Police Commissioner Billy G. Wellman presented Trooper Greg Roberts, Pikeville Post, with the Kentucky State Trooper's

Medal during the annual Kentucky State Police Awards Ceremony held in Frankfort May 17. The citation that accompanied the award read as follows: On September 9, 1992, a woman pulled into the parking lot at the Pikeville Post and told Trooper Greg Roberts that she thought her mother, who was in the car with her, was having a heart attack. Trooper Roberts removed the woman from the vehicle and laid her on the pavement. He checked and found she had a pulse but she was not breathing and was beginning to turn blue. He repositioned the woman's head in an attempt to open her airway and after he did she began breathing. The woman was taken to a Pikeville hospital where she recovered.

His immediate action and knowledge of the situation saved the woman from permanent damage and, more likely, the loss of her life. Trooper Roberts brings great credit both to himself and to the Department of the Kentucky State Police.

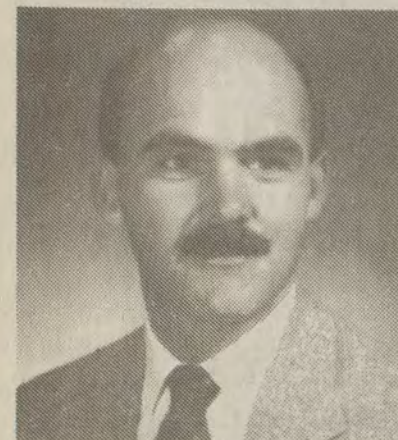

Roberts, 37, resides at Harold. He has been with the state police since 1983.

Protect your family against mumps

Mumps is a fairly common disease which is usually uncomfortable, but about one-third of the people who get the mumps recover without ever knowing for sure that they had them. In the case of a child the disease is usually mild and normally runs its course in seven to ten days. Meningitis and loss of hearing can occur in children with mumps.

Mumps is caused by a tiny virus. This virus finds its way into the glands of the face and neck. Usually swelling begins in one cheek and spreads to the other cheek within a few days. The symptoms of tonsillitis can be confused with mumps. Although similar, the infected glands accompanying tonsillitis cause a hard swelling under the jaw bone. With mumps, the swelling is found just in front of, and under the ear, and is soft to the touch.

The first symptoms appear about two or three weeks after the patient is exposed. Before the swelling appears, the patient usually has chills, headaches and pain under the ear. Fever, vomiting, loss of appetite, and difficulty in swallowing food may also occur.

Mumps is a communicable disease. That is to say, you can catch the mumps from another person. Therefore, since it is in the mouth and nose that most of the infection is found, it is best that you stay away from the patient's face.

You can also catch the disease by handling objects that have been handled by the patient. You should not drink from the same glass. Provide separate dishes, silverware and linens to be used only by the patient. When washing his or her dishes and linens, use soap and plenty of hot water. These precautions help keep the virus from spreading to other members of the family.

A soft diet including broths, soft-boiled eggs and custard is good. For the older child or adult, ice-packs applied to the face may make the patient more comfortable. When the swelling and other symptoms have disappeared, the patient can resume normal activities and return to school.

Let's discuss the complications mumps can cause. While mumps is not as common in adults, the disease usually is more serious. Serious complications occur in only one out of every 100 cases on the average. In most cases where complications arise, the virus affects more than just the glands of the face and neck. When the virus affects the testicles of a male, he may become sterile. That is to say, he will no longer be able to become a father. However, if the infection affects only one of his testicles, he can usually father children.

The mumps virus can cause a form of meningitis. If nausea, vomiting, headache and stiff neck muscles occur, it is extremely important to call a doctor. People who have had mumps may have hearing loss.

If severe stomach pain including nausea and vomiting accompanies the swelling of the cheek, it may mean a condition called pancreatitis. This form of the mumps is serious but rare. Again, a doctor should be called to make a proper diagnosis. The doctor can help prevent the loss of too many fluids caused by vomiting.

It is a good idea to have children in your family immunized with a specially developed mumps vaccine before they are exposed. Such a precaution will help protect them from the discomforts and possible complications of the mumps.

If someone in your family gets the mumps, it is a good idea to call your doctor for proper diagnosis, treatment, and advice.

Farm & Family

Nash to oversee rural operations for ag program

Bob Nash was sworn in on May 12 as Under Secretary of Agriculture for Small Community and Rural Development, Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy announced.

Nash will oversee operations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Development Administration, Farmers Home Administration, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation and Rural Electrification Administration.

The RDA, FmHA and REA operate an array of loan and grant programs supporting housing construction, farm acquisition, job creation, private business development and community improvement in the nation's rural areas. The FCIC operates USDA crop insurance programs, which protect participating farmers from losses incurred due to weather-related and other natural disasters.

Garden seeds can stretch stamps, boost family's health and fun

Growing your own fresh vegetables can be satisfying and budget-stretching, and those who depend on food stamps help to feed their families can get into the popular pastime of gardening, too.

As spring planting time peaks, the Department for Social Insurance reminds Kentucky's 200,950 food stamp families that they can buy garden seeds and plants with the coupons to grow fresh, healthful carrots, cabbage, beans, beets, tomatoes, greens, squash and other vegetables themselves.

"This is smart stamp-stretching, while giving their families a boost for better health, too," said Social Insurance Commissioner Mike Robinson. "Gardeners will usually be able to harvest considerably more produce than they could buy for the same amount of stamps at the grocery—and they can save the stamps not needed during garden season for later use."

Many recipients live in rural areas with available land, said Robinson, whose department operates the federal food stamp program in Kentucky.

"But people with 'stamp-size' yards can be successful with mini-plots of closely packed rows," Robinson said, "and those in apartments or with no land to plant can grow vegetables in clay pots, barrels or other containers on porches or balconies."

It could be still smarter for families to pool their stamps to buy seeds or seedlings, then share some land and tools and the work involved to grow healthful food for two or several families, he said.

There is no limit on the amount of stamps used for food seeds or plants, and they can be bought from any of the 5,500 groceries and produce stands across the state that are authorized to accept food stamps.

"A little confidence, a little dirt and a little work, with tips from neighbors or extension service agents or anyone who has tried it is all it takes for the joy of feeding your family just-picked vegetables you've grown yourself," Robinson said.

Families can also get locally grown fresh fruits and vegetables at many produce stands with food stamps. Some 72 produce stands in Kentucky are actively participating in the food stamp program now, according to the Lexington office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service.

Another 36 stands are registered to accept stamps and more are expected to enroll as the garden season progresses. Food stamp users can look for a sign near the front of the market indicating that food stamps are accepted.

(Produce sellers can apply to participate by contacting the USDA Food and Nutrition Service, 1460 Newtown Pike, Lexington, KY 40511. Applications are usually processed within 30 days.)

Enrolling ongoing produce stand or truck businesses as food stamp vendors expands lower-income Kentuckian's food choices and expands the market and income for Kentucky farmers at the same time, Robinson said.

"Both the produce stands and the grow-it-yourself program help families on public assistance help themselves to more food and for their benefits and more health benefits, too," Robinson said.

Unusual dogwood

This dogwood decorates the yard of Frank Bennett, Prestonsburg. Bennett, an avid nature lover, says he's been in the woods a lot and he's never seen a dogwood stand this tall. The tree is roughly 40 feet tall. The tree is approximately 35 years old.

Safety of ground beef

Properly prepared hamburger can avoid most of the food poisoning which gained so much recent publicity when a rash of western fast food restaurants experienced a number of cases.

More than 400 persons in the Northwest became ill after eating undercooked hamburgers.

"If the beef had been properly cooked, these illnesses could have been avoided," said Fudeko Maruyama, extension food specialist with the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture.

The problem arose when a fast food restaurant switched to thicker meat patties and did not increase cooking time. The undercooked burgers were contaminated with deadly strains of E. coli.

E. coli can be present in such foods as unpasteurized milk, contaminated water, and apple cider, as well as beef. However, cooking kills these bacteria, Maruyama said.

Maruyama suggests the following guidelines to ensure safety in handling, storing, and preparing raw meats.

*Pick meat packages that are not torn and that feel cold.

*Don't let meat juices contaminate other foods.

*Don't reuse meat packaging materials.

*Use soap and water to clean utensils and platters that have touched raw meat.

*Store ground beef at forty degrees or less if it is to be used within two days, or freeze at zero degrees for longer periods of time.

*Thaw ground beef in the refrigerator, never on the counter at room temperature.

*Cook hamburgers to 160 degrees (medium done) or until the center is no longer pink and juices are clear.

*Refrigerate uneaten hamburgers promptly after cooking.

*When eating out, order hamburger "medium" or "well-done" and check for doneness when it is served.

For more information on hamburger safety, contact the county extension agent.

Hutchison's McDonald's restaurants top rated

Five McDonald's restaurants owned and operated by Bob and Tom Hutchison and located in Pikeville, South Williamson, Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Louisa have been named among this year's top rated McDonald's restaurants. The Pittsburgh Regional McDonald's Corporate Office recognized the restaurants with its prestigious Outstanding Restaurant Award.

"We couldn't have won this award without the fine management and staff at the restaurants," said Tom Hutchison.

"We also appreciate the support we receive from the Pikeville, South Williamson, Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Louisa communities," added Bob Hutchison.

The Outstanding Restaurant Awards were given to the Hutchisons in recognition of demonstrated leadership in quality, service and cleanliness, staffing and training, execution of national and local promotion and public relations programs, reinvestment and customer appeal of the restaurants. The awards are based on each restaurant's performance during the last calendar year.

"Our 38-year commitment to the highest standard of quality, service, cleanliness and value is what makes McDonald's successful," said Bill Hockett, regional vice president. "But it's the dedication and enthusiasm of the operators, managers and crew people that make McDonald's special. The McDonald's teams in the Pikeville, South Williamson, Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Louisa restaurants sure know how to do it right!"

Top rated

Bill Hockett, McDonald's regional vice president, presents McDonald's Outstanding Restaurant Award to McDonald's owner/operators Tom, Mary Jane and Bob Hutchison. The award recognizes that the Hutchison's five restaurants in Pikeville, South Williamson, Paintsville, Pikeville and Louisa were top rated among McDonald's restaurants in 1992.

Money strategies by Charles Givens

Banks use your money to make more money. For that privilege, even the smallest deposits should be treated with fairness and consideration.

Strategy: Place your checking account in a bank that won't hold your deposit checks.

Banks are glad to allow you to make a deposit, but may not credit the money to your account for several days.

Your bank's excuse is that the chances of somebody having written you a bad check are high enough that, until the bank actually receives the money, you won't get credit in your account.

The truth is your bank receives the money from the Federal Reserve Bank within 24 hours.

Prior to a law enacted in September 1988, banks were in the habit of holding deposits with out-of-town checks for up to three weeks. Federal law now limits the bank holding period to three days for local checks and seven days for out-of-town checks.

The bank still gets its money within 24 hours, but at least the scheme has been limited by law.

Even if the bank has held your deposit and collected the money, if you write a check against the so-called uncollected funds, the bank may bounce your check and charge you a "non-sufficient funds" fee. The bank has your money and is also collecting $20 from you. If the check you deposited was for $100, the bank is getting a 20 percent one-day interest return.

Here's how to overcome the problem. Introduce yourself to the bank manager and get an agreement that none of your funds will be held. Not ever, not for any reason. The manager has the power to give you instant access to all your deposits.

If your current bank won't give you special benefits, you either haven't made a friend at the bank or you're working with the wrong bank. If so, change banks and let your friends know which is the better bank.

Are you in the market to sell or buy a home while the interest rates are so low? Why not call a full-time REALTOR who is willing to go that extra step to insure you find what you need. Contact Brenda Sturgill at Century 21 American Way Realty at 285-9803 for all your real estate needs.

authorized by KRS 65.150 to expend public funds to insure their officers, employees, and properties against any liability or property damage and to associate with other public agencies pursuant to the Kentucky Interlocal Cooperation Act, KRS 65.210 to 65.300, for insurance purposes; and

WHEREAS, KRS 65.210 to 65.300 authorizes cities to jointly exercise with other public agencies under an interlocal cooperation agreement any power or powers, privileges or authority exercised or capable of exercise by cities, and further authorizes the parties to an interlocal cooperation agreement to create an administrative entity which may be delegated powers for conducting and administering joint and cooperative undertakings on behalf of the participating public agencies; and

WHEREAS, the elected officials of this city have determined that it would be in the best interests of the city to join with other cities, urban-county governments, and public agencies for the purpose of taking joint and cooperative action to create and establish the Kentucky Municipal Risk Management Association (KMRMA) as a separate administrative entity, and through KMRMA to create and administer various self-insurance, insurance, and investment programs to provide self-insurance and third party insurance coverages against all types of liability and property damage, and to establish programs for the investment of public funds; and

WHEREAS, the elected officials of the city have been provided copies of the Interlocal Agreement to Establish the KMRMA and the Articles of Association and Bylaws of the KMRMA and have reviewed these documents and found them to be acceptable.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY OF WHEELWRIGHT AS FOLLOWS: Section 1. The city hereby approves the joint and cooperative program for self-insurance, insurance, and the investment of public funds as set forth in the Interlocal Agreement to Establish the KMRMA.

Section 2. The Mayor and the City Clerk are hereby authorized and directed to execute the Interlocal Agreement to Establish the KMRMA on behalf of the city.

Section 3. The city hereby approves and ratifies the Articles of Association and Bylaws of the KMRMA, as amended.

Section 4. It is understood by the city that by executing the Interlocal Agreement to Establish the KMRMA the city shall incur no liability for the payment of any funds, and that it shall be necessary for the city to take further action before becoming a participating member in any of the self-insurance, insurance, or investment programs which may be created and operated by KMRMA.

Section 5. The city's current workers' compensation insurance coverage is due to expire on June 30, 1993. Under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the city is required to maintain workers' compensation insurance coverage on its employees. It is understood that KMRMA will begin operating a workers' compensation insurance group effective July 1, 1993, which will enable the city to obtain the necessary workers' compensation insurance coverage. However, unless the city acts immediately to enact this ordinance, there will be insufficient time for the city to take the steps necessary to become a member of KMRMA and a participant in the workers' compensation self-insurance group to be operated by KMRMA. Therefore, an emergency is declared to exist by the legislative body of the city. This ordinance shall become effective after its first reading and upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the members of the legislative body.

Section 6. The city clerk shall cause this ordinance to be published in accordance with KRS 83A.060(6) and KRS Chapter 424 within ten (10) days of its enactment by the legislative body. INTRODUCED, SECONDED, GIVEN FIRST READING, AND APPROVED BY A VOTE OF TWO-THIRDS (2/3) OF THE MEMBERS OF THE CITY LEGISLATIVE BODY AT A DULY CONVENED MEETING HELD ON THE 17 DAY OF MAY, 1993.

Build Your Dream House

ASHTON 10-065

Associated Designs-Eugene, Oregon

Classic and contemporary influences combine in the Ashton to create a stately yet unique French country-style home.

Stone-faced columns and exterior walls on the lower level imbue the home with a sense of permanence — much needed in these times of rapid change. Arched windows and a wide balcony harken back to simpler times, while the curve and sweep of the soaring rooflines, are clearly French country.

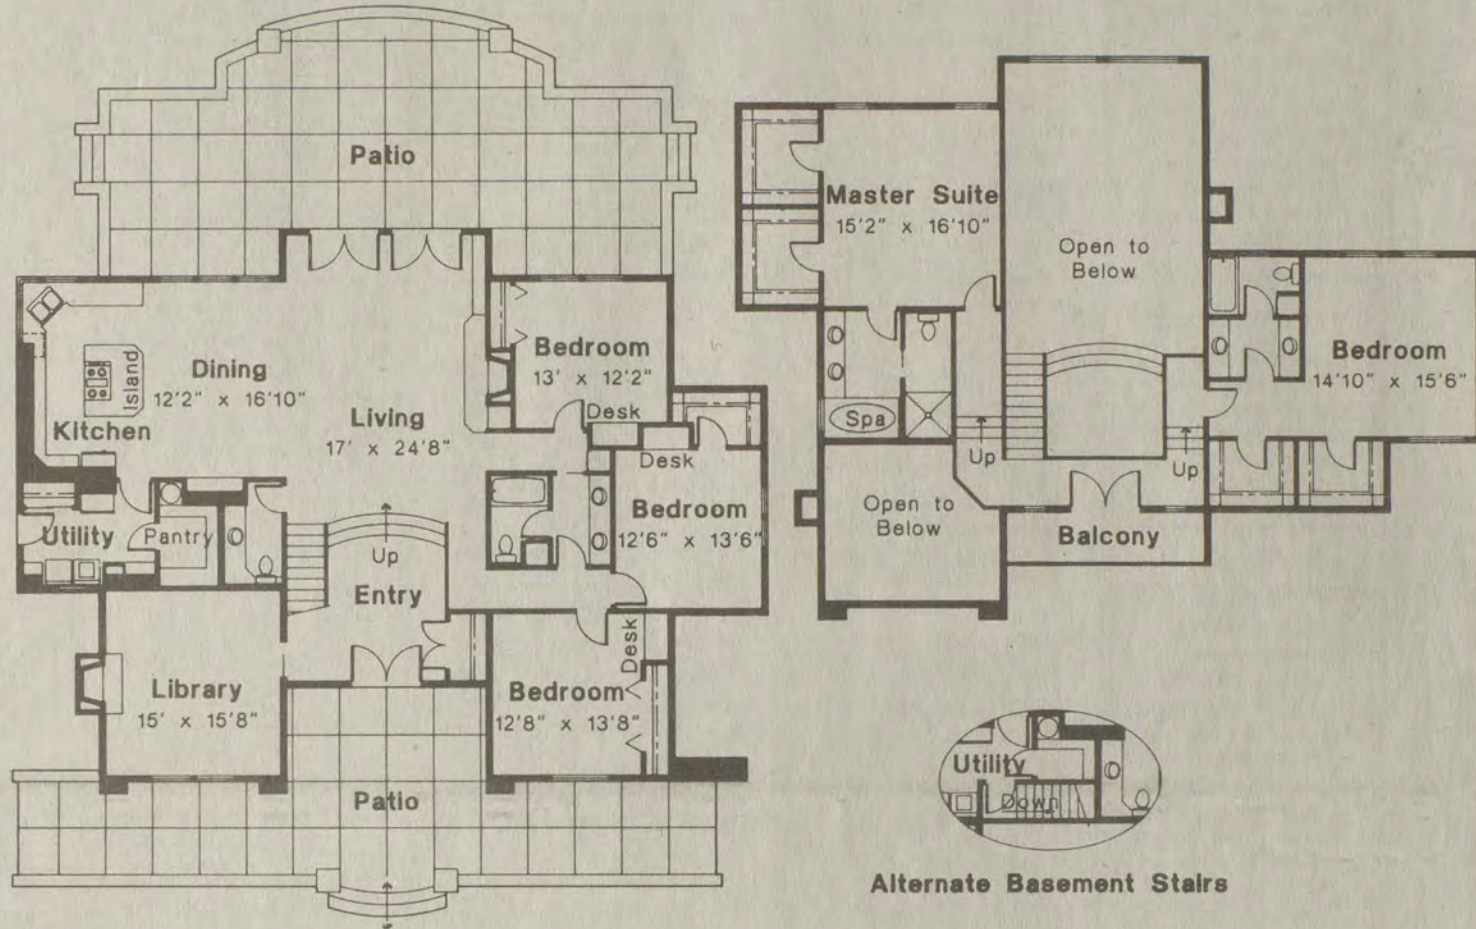

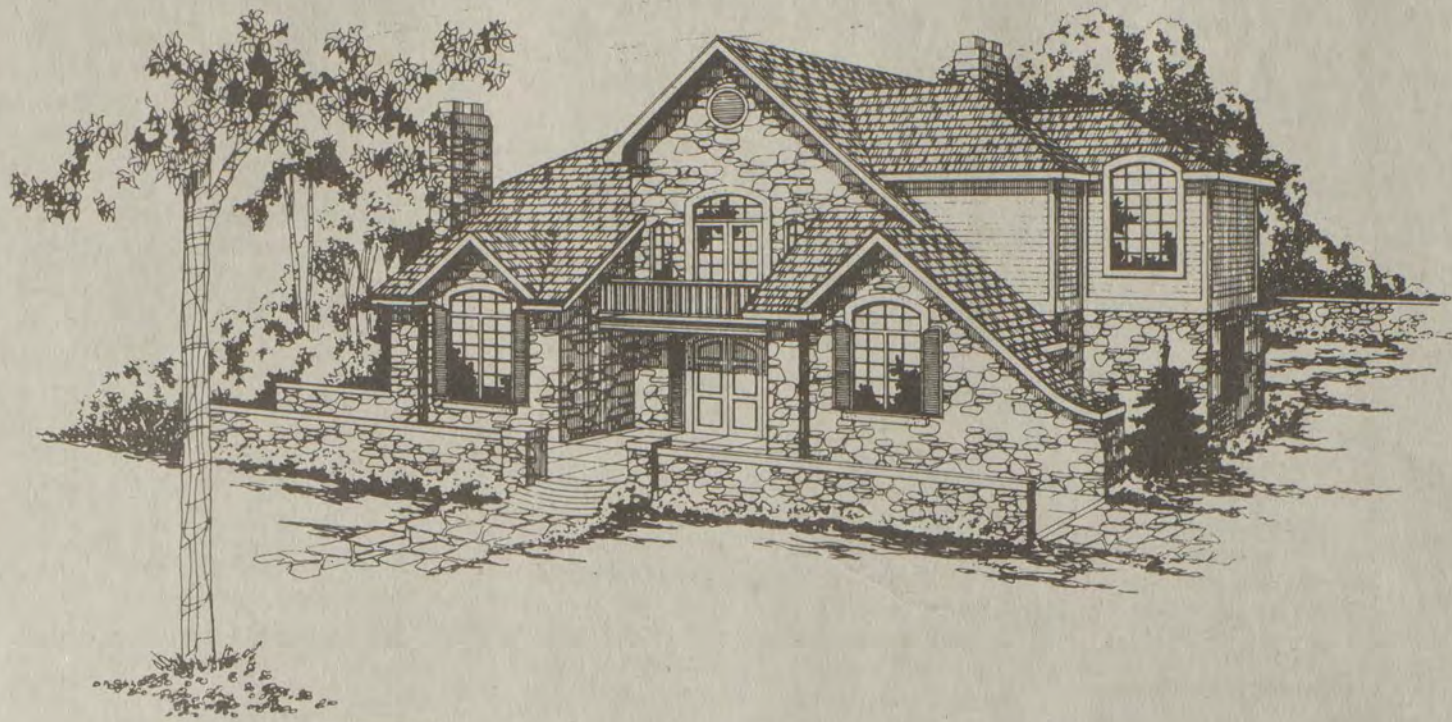

Inside, this five-bedroom home is bright, spacious and comfortable. Ceilings in the entry hall, living room and library extend to the second floor. Exterior and interior balconies bridge the grand entrance. The interior balcony also extends into the library — the only room truly at ground level. The rest of the rooms on the ground floor are three steps up.

Family living and entertaining takes place in a huge great room with a kitchen at one end, dining room in the middle and living room with fireplace at the opposite end. Two sets of French doors crowned by arched transoms open onto a custom-designed patio.

In the kitchen, a work island with built-in cooktop adds to the already generous counter space. The utility room has a large pantry, storage and counter space, and room for a freezer.

Each of three bedrooms on the lower level has a built-in desk. They share a compartmentalized bathroom with double vanities. Both of the upstairs bedrooms have two walk-in closets and a private bathroom with twin basins. The owners' suite has a luxurious spa and oversized shower as well.

If you are doing more maintenance than enjoying, you understand the purpose and importance of maintenance-free products. Bufftech now offers a complete line of totally maintenance-free fencing designed especially for the swimming pool owner.
