A Prestonsburg man claims that he had to plunge his utility truck over an embankment, opposite Adams Middle School, early Wednesday morning to avoid hitting a bus loaded with school children. Four witnesses agree with him, but four students on a.m. the bus say that's not the way it happened.

told Prestonsburg Police officer Mac Stewart, that a bus pulled out of Adams Middle School's lot onto South Lake Drive, directly into his path. Hatfield, who was driving a truck owned by Matt Lewis Corporation at Auxier, was headed south when the accident occurred around 7:30

Bus driver Joe R. Miller told Officer Stewart that two cars, headed Kenneth Hatfield of Prestonsburg south on South Lake Drive, had tor Earl D. Ousley, to report the inciwrecked to avoid the stopped vehicles.

> When the truck went over the embankment, Miller stopped his bus and yelled across the road to Hatfield, who was getting out of his truck, and asked him if he was okay, Stewart said. Miller then radioed his boss, Floyd County Transportation Direc-

Users to pick up costs for sewer dispute

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

Present and future customers hooked on to an extension of Martin's sewer system will be asked to ante up a hefty tap fee as part of an agreement between the city council and Mountain Christian Academy.

City officials have been feuding with the academy for some time about ownership and repair responsibility for a pump station and sewer line extension near the intersection of KY 1428 and KY 122.

As a result of the dispute between the two parties, several businesses and homeowners have been using the system without paying a tap fee or a monthly bill.

Under the agreement, the city will accept title to the system and extension lines, plus bill sewer users that use the extension a $2,000 tap fee. Also, the city would pay $1,500 to MCA to partially defray the original construction expense of the sewer line extension.

The agreement calls for the tap fee to be charged to customers who are either connected to the extension or who will be connected to the line through December 31, 1997.

Several council members and Mayor Raymond Griffith met last month with Arnold Turner, attorney for Mountain Christian Academy (MCA), to hash out terms of the settlement.

Council voted 4-2 to approve the agreement with councilmen Denzil Halbert and Steve Jenkins voting against it.

Martin boy is hurt when bike, car hit

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

An eight-year-old boy was injured Tuesday evening when he apparently crashed his bicycle into a vehicle at Pageant Hills at Martin.

Chris Cox, of Pageant Hills, suffered a fractured elbow and a slight concussion when his bike ran into the side of a car driven by a 16-year-old girl on Kennedy Drive at Pageant Hills, Martin policeman Aaron Kidd said Wednesday. The boy hit the right front fender of the vehicle.

Cox was riding a bike that did not have brakes, Kidd said. The juvenile drove the car approximately 80 feet before stopping and the girl's mother, Patricia Hagans of Pageant Hills, rendered aid to the boy.

Kidd said that the female driver was in shock and that's why she drove 80 feet before stopping. The female got out of the vehicle and called her father, Kidd said. The driver was cited for no insurance.

A matter of opinion

A utility truck driven by Kenneth Hatfield plunged over an embankment near Adams Middle School Wednesday. Hatfield said he swerved off the road to avoid crashing into a school bus that he claims pulled into his path. Four eyewitnesses agree with Hatfield's assertion. The bus driver and four students on the bus, however, dispute those claims, and say that Hatfield swerved to miss two vehicles stopped on the road. (photo by Janice Shepherd)

Spring rains continue to dampen families' spirits

by Susan Allen Staff Writer

While most people took Wednesday's spring weather as an opportunity to get a jump on doing yard work, residents of lower Garrett in." Hughes said. could only watch their yards being covered by back water.

Heavy rains, an accumulation of trash and cut trees lying in the floodway have forced several Garrett residents to leave their homes six times since January. The clogged waterway blocks excess water from receding quickly after heavy rains.

Residents Dolly Turner and Don and LaFaye Hughes have fled their homes in the middle of the night because they didn't know how high the water would rise.

"During daylight hours, we can keep an eye on it," Turner said Wednesday. "But at night, you just don't know and it's pretty scary."

LaFaye Hughes said Wednesday that she and her husband usually don't stay home when the waters begin to rise, they take refuge in her mother's home on Garrett Hill.

'We don't want to get blocked

But Wednesday, the Hughes' decided to stay at their home, which was surrounded by water, to enjoy the spring day and keep an eye on the water.

The Hughes moved into their home in 1971, and the rising water has been a problem since then. They, along with Turner, have tried to get the problem resolved but to no avail.

"We used to fight it real hard," LaFaye Hughes said. "But we got disgusted because we couldn't get anything done. Somewhere there's got to be something that can be done to help us."

Turner agreed and said that they haven't complained to anyone about the problem for some time.

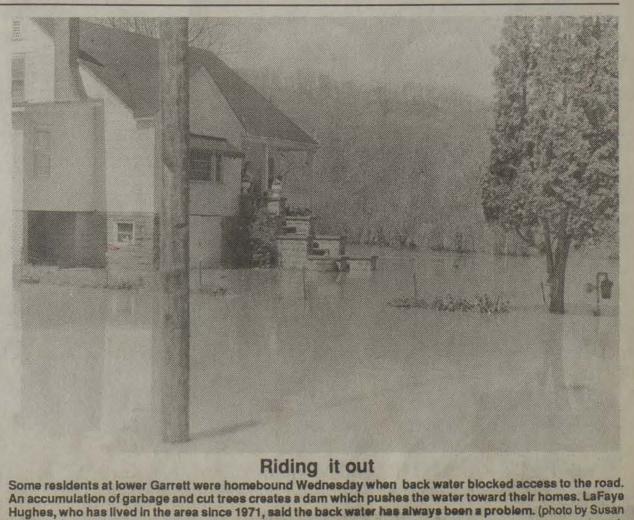

"Basically, we felt it wouldn't do any good," Turner said. "We've tried for so long.'

Turner said that the problem was compounded recently when a utility company cut down several trees and left the debris lying near a garbage dump that has formed in the bottleneck. She added that politicians have promised for years that the creek would be cleaned and dredged.

"We were told that money had been made available for the project years ago," Turner explained. "That's the last we've heard of it."

Janet Tackett, the county's flood plain administrator, said Thursday that the county is prohibited from doing work in a creek because of state regulations. Tackett said that she gave Hughes the names and phone numbers of various agencies to see if hclp was available.

Girl Scouts honor leaders

Wednesday, April 22, marks the annual observance of Girl Scout Leader's Day, Millions of Girl Scouts nationwide will salute leaders in recognition of the thousands of women and men committed to Girl Scouting. Girl Scouts Leader's Day was established in 1982 to recognize the people who make Girl Scouting possible. April 22 was chosen because it falls on or near the annual National Volunteers Week, the third week in April.

To celebrate this day, Girl Scouts and their families often present Girl Scout troop leaders with homemade gifts and cards. Many communities display banners with special thankyou messages. The 334 Girl Scout Councils around the country organize recognition ceremonies, ranging from elaborate dinners to small gatherings.

The Girl Scout organization is unique in many ways. Girl Scouting is a value-based program designed to provide young girls with role models throughout those crucial years of growing up. Without these valuable Girl Scout Leaders, Girl Scouting would not be the foremost authority on the development of young women as it is today.

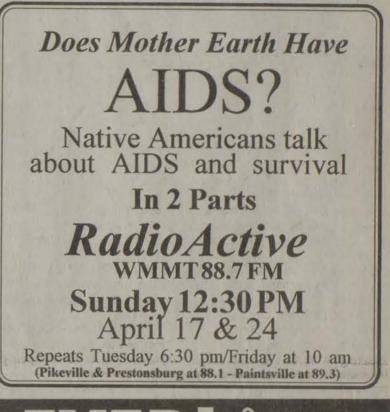

For 30 years the Girl Scouts-Wilderness Road Council has been providing adult volunteers with training and skill development to help them feel more comfortable in their role as a volunteer. For information on becoming a Girl Scout volunteer contact the Wilderness Road Council at 1-800-475-2621.

Assets or liabilities?

by Scott Perry

This may not be a real popular question to ask in an area that relies heavily on tourism promotion, but we're going to pop it anyway.

If Kentucky's state park system is the "crown jewel" it's being made out to be by legislators and the like, how come it can't pay its own way?

The governor and many legislators are pushing for the public to pick up the tab for some $100 million worth of upgrades and improvements to the park system, which is suffering from few extra bucks to spruce up the parks because we do recognize their value to our tourism economy.

But, we think we ought to get some guarantees, some security for our investments.

First, we ought to receive some assurances that the state is developing a management scheme to make the parks self-sufficient, including ideas for financing new development from revenues generated by the parks themselves.

Absent those assurances, we suggest the state develop an alternative that would allow parks management to transfer from state control to private enterprise.

Veto SB 29

Juvenile bill isn't tough, it's a mess for courts

Add another bill to the list Gov. Brereton Jones should veto. It's Senate Bill 29, yet another product of the legislature's penchant for patching together bills on important matters at the last minute.

In this instance, the important matter is juvenile crime. In the legislature's chaotic last days, it was amended to include the provisions of House Bill 224, which never made it out of the House.

At first blush, SB 29 would seem to address the problem of violent juvenile crime head-on by requiring juveniles accused of serious crimes to be tried in circuit court, as adults are. It also would send to adult courts all juveniles accused of committing crimes while armed with firearms.

Unfortunately, the bill isn't as straightforward as it seems. While it requires that these juvenile cases be sent to circuit court, the bill does not change the standards for actually trying cases in circuit courts. That means that the vast majority of these juvenile cases will end up being transferred back to juvenile courts-but only after the more lengthy proceedings that are required in circuit court.

The result is predictable. More kids will be held for longer times in juvenile detention facilities (which already are scandalously overloaded). Juvenile case workers (who already have more cases than they can handle) will face heavier workloads. Circuit judges' dockets will be crowded with requests to transfer juvenile cases back to lower courts. And most juveniles will end up being tried in juvenile sessions of district court-just as they are now.

In short, this bill will make an existing problem worse, create problems where none now exist and do little, if anything, about violent juvenile crime. No wonder many of the state's circuit judges want Jones to veto it. The governor may find it difficult to veto any bill that its sponsors have styled as "getting tough on crime," but in this instance it's worth the trouble .- Lexington Herald-Leader

Prepare for special session

Unless a miracle happens this Friday (today), expect the General Assembly to be calledinto special session in a couple of months to work on a new budget.

Governor Brereton Jones was expected Wednesday to veto the current state budget passed two weeks ago by the legislature. His veto probably won't be overridden by lawmakers when they return for one day on Friday. Jones hopes legislators work out a substitute spending plan before adjourning. This is unlikely also, so be prepared for a special session to iron out the differences.

Joe Clarke's candor

Alcoholism doesn't carry quite the stigma it did a generation ago.

More and more Americans, including some of our most famous athletes, artists and political leaders, have publicly admitted they have drinking problems. Few families these days don't have at least one uncle or brother or niece who's in recovery-if not from liquor, then from cocaine, overeating or some other form of substance abuse or compulsive behavior.

But it still takes courage to admit you can't handle alcohol-and even more courage to commit yourself to fundamental and permanent change.

Joe Clarke, speaker of the Kentucky House, has shown such courage. He has acknowledged he has a drinking problem and says he is getting help.

Mr. Clarke is an honorable, principled man in an institution-the Kentucky legislaturethat needs such qualities in its members, and especially in its leaders.

We commend him for recognizing and acknowledging his problem and wish him success in staying on the wagon.-Louisville Courier-Journal

Pork barrel politics at the gas pump

by William F. O'Keefe Executive vice president American Petroleum Institute

Bureaucrats in Washington have saddled Americans with too many costly regulations that do too little good. The Clinton Administration says it's trying to fix the problem, but a new regulation on cleaner-burning gasoline proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) makes that hard to believe.

Indeed, this EPA proposal, issued last December—a few months after the Administration announced its goal to make regulations more efficient could be one of the most outrageous examples of unnecessary government rulemaking. It will cost business and that really means consumers, who always pay the bill in the end—hundreds of millions of dollars a year. Yet it won't help the environment and might hurt it.

The EPA proposal would require the use of ethanol—an alcohol fuel usually made from corn—in 30 percent of all "reformulated" cleanerburning gasoline. The Clean Air Act requires millions of Americans to burn this new fuel in their automobiles beginning in 1995.

Congress required cleaner-burning gasoline to achieve two specific goals: reduce smog and cut toxic air pollution. But putting ethanol in the new cleaner-burning gasoline won't do either, as even EPA admits—nor will it reduce greenhouse gases associated with global warming. The truth is that ethanol tends to increase greenhouse emissions, as both Congress's Office of Technology Assessment and the U.S. General Accounting Office have recognized.

May Harm Environment

EPA's ethanol mandate makes so little environmental sense that even environmentalists and air quality regulators oppose it. For example, the Sierra Club, the Environmental Defense Fund, the Northeast States for Coordinated Air Use Management, and the California Air Resources Board have all lined up against it. They fear that the mandate might harm the environment instead of helping it.

EPA also says that an ethanol mandate will cut oil imports, but by less than our nation consumes daily in two minutes. The reduction is likely to be even more minuscule because, while cleaner-burning gasoline made with ethanol saves some oil, a lot of the savings disappear when more diesel fuel and fertilizer are used to plant, grow and harvest the corn needed to make ethanol. In short, no reasonable justification exists for EPA's proposal, only a motivation: a 1992 campaign promise by President Clinton to help farmers. Ironically, this pork barrel proposal-advanced by an administration supposedly opposed to special interest politics-won't help farmers much. According to Dr. David Montgomery-a noted expert on agricultural economics-it is one of the least efficient ways imaginable to help farmers. Ethanol producers will reap more than double the benefits that go to the corn farmers who will grow the corn to make the extra ethanol. As a result, the Archer Daniels Midland Co., which produces some two-thirds of all U.S.-produced ethanol, could profit more from the mandate than all of the corn farmers put together. Will Increase Prices Yet pork has a price that must be paid. In this case, the consumer will get the bill, paying more for cleanerburning gasoline and for food. The new gasoline will cost as much as six cents a gallon more because ethanol is more costly than the additive that otherwise would be used-even with the substantial tax breaks ethanol enjoys. Food will cost more because the increased demand for corn will drive up corn product, dairy and meat prices. The tax breaks will total about $340 million, helping to disguise the fact that ethanol costs substantially more. But the tax breaks will also result in millions of dollars less going into the federal Highway Trust Fundevery year. That will mean poorer roads and highways or additional taxes to make up for the lost highway funds. So consumers won't get off the hook. The petroleum industry in some circumstances already uses ethanol in conventional gasoline-and, even without the mandate, ethanol producers expect to sell substantially more of their product. In short, a regulation mandating the sale of ethanol is unnecessary and plain wrong. It won't help the environment, will cost consumers a bundle, and conflicts with every principle of good government that the current Administration says it supports.

State suit against judge over driver's license described as turf fight

The state Transportation Cabinet has sued an Eastern Kentucky judge in a case one lawyer viewed as "drawing a line in the sand" to establish where judicial power stops and the administrative process begins.

"It's ridiculous, is what it is," said Johnson County Attorney Scott Preston. "They're saying, 'This is my ballpark and I don't want you playing in it.' "

Both the state agency and Johnson District Judge Daniel Sparks rejected suggestions of a turf battle, but the cabinet said in the suit that Sparks years, declined to comment on the case. But he said he was bothered by the legal action because he considers himself generally strict in drunkendriving cases.—Lexington Herald-Leader overstepped his authority last month when he ordered a convicted drunken driver's license reinstated.

In the order, Sparks ruled that Ronnie Preston, 44, of Oil Springs, receive credit for the time his license was suspended upon his conviction in the 1990 case.

But the state says that it suspended Preston's license Jan. 25 after his conviction was upheld in Johnson Circuit Court and that state law does not give judges jurisdiction over driver's licenses.

The Transportation Cabinet's division of drivers licensing decides such matters, said Transportation Cabinet attorney Helen Nelson. A judge decides fines and jail terms. "You're talking about two distinct areas," she said. "One is to punish an individual; the other is to protect the public."

Nelson would not discuss the lawsuit, but she indicated the cabinet had filed similar lawsuits against other district judges.

Two other people—King's mother, Betty Miller, and his stepbrother, James Dixon—were also sent to prison for the crime, but they have since been released.

Miller's death was initially investigated as a traffic fatality. Miller was found in his wrecked pickup truck down an embankment near his home.

An investigation initiated by then-Deputy Coroner Bryan Fraley resulted in the arrests of King, Dixon and Betty Miller. Police said the trio killed Miller, who was married to Betty Miller, to collect insurance proceeds. They were later indicted for capital murder.

King and Dixon later pleaded guilty to murder and Betty Miller to second-degree manslaughter under a plea-bargain agreement.

Dixon received a 20-year prison term and Betty Miller a seven-year sentence. King, who didn't try to change his guilty plea, received life. —Paintsville Herald

Senior citizens, have you ever wondered why you don't see more people in our age group wearing hearing aids? I have.

One day, while talking with my uncle, he had to excuse himself for a few moments while he adjusted his hearing aid. I found myself wondering again, why don't more older people wear hearing aids? His has helped him so much.

I decided to do a comprehensive armchair study to determine the answer to this question. I reached into my attache' for pen and pad. After making notes, I decided to closely observe people around me. This I couldn't do from my easy chair.

Throughout the next week, I closely observed people's ears. At Legal Services, in Prestonsburg, where the Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens office is, and where I work, I walked in and out of/co-worker's offices. Sometimes I asked a question. Sometimes I only chatted. But I always looked at the person's ears. To my amazement, I Observed that no one in this office complex wore a hearing aid. Because I wanted my study to be accurate, I confirmed what I learned with a fellow employee who has worked with this staff for years. Sure enough, no one here wears a hearing aid.

I observed people walking up and down the streets; in the restaurant where I frequently lunch when at work; and at stores in shopping centers I visited. It was only on the way back to my van, one rainy day, that I saw a gentleman sitting in his car, sporting a hearing aid. I wonder, even at this writing, whether or not he may have had one in his other ear.

This particular week I listened to the volume and pitch of peoples' voices, and for strained facial or cupped-hand expressions. This would indicate that someone could be having a difficult time hearing. On several occasions I heard people asked, "huh?" As if to say, "would you re-peat that, please?" One woman seemed to use a softer, gentler voice when talking with a young child, than she did when speaking to an older woman accompanying her. One day, an older couple at a checkout, were talking loudly to each other. They were not angry. They simply had severe hearing difficulties.

Another thought came to mind while I was conducting this study. Of all the requests we get from Senior Citizens needing help, we have not received a single request from anyone stating the need to have their ears examined, or that they needed a hearing aid but couldn't afford one.

I have talked with people on the phone, who on several occasions, stated, "I'm calling for my dad because he can't hear well." Or "would you talk a littler louder. I can't hear you." I have also talked with those who didn't mention the difficulty they had with their hearing, but it was evident to me that they had a hearing problem or lived with someone who did, because of how loudly they spoke to me

Armed with this information, I was now ready to retreat to my armchair. I complied, organized, and assimilated these facts.

I concluded that there are seven reasons why people with hearing problems ignore them. Do any of these reasons apply to you?

.Some people do not realize they have a hearing problem.

*Some people are told that they have a hearing problem but they do not want to admit it.

•Some people ignore the need. "God gave me two ears. I've still got one good one.'

•Some people know that they've got a problem but they tell those around them to talk louder. These same people tend to keep their radios and TVs blasting. (This could be detrimental to others in the household).

.Some know that they cannot hear but fear that they might be embarrassed wearing a hearing aid.

·Many hold off having anything done about their hearing because it is not life threatening. They don't have the money for this "luxury."

·Many, with a need, but no money, do not realize that there is help available

If you are a Senior Citizen with a hearing problem but you cannot afford to have your ears examined, or buy a hearing aid, call the Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens at: 1-800-556-3876. We may be able to refer you to someone who can help you free of charge.

Diarrhea is worrisome when it is very watery. Frequency is less important. At any age, persistent diarrhea, especially with fever is a concern. Bloody stools absolutely need further investigation.

If fluid losses can be adequately replaced, the danger is lessened greatly.

Constipation, on the other hand, can be very troublesome but not often dangerous. It is usually caused by dairy products, bananas, rice, etc. Ask your doctor about using mineral oil.

DO YOU KNOW THE WAY TO ACAPULCO?

Often times we imagine life the way we'd like it to be instead of the way it really is. That's because sometimes pretending is easier and less complicated than confronting the truth. Other times we want to escape and put the daily grind behind us.

The latter is what my friend, Glenda, had the opportunity to do recently when the National 4-H Council sponsored her on a trip to Acapulco. That's right. An all expense paid working vacation to that exotic, sunny paradise on the coast of Mexico.

It was a dream come true for Glenda. She had always imagined lying on the sandy beaches of a Mexican resort, soaking up the rays as she read novels and ate shrimp cocktails. And now that the opportunity presented itself, she wasn't about to let it slip away.

The invitation came only a few weeks before the departure date so she didn't have a lot of time to prepare for her south of the border rendezvous. Glenda immediately went on a shopping frenzy. She purchased oversized sun hats and various sunglasses in different shapes and colors. She also bought bathing suits and cover-ups, along with gallons of suntan lotion. Aside from picking up several best selling novels, she also bought a Spanish/English dictionary and learned how to request fried ice cream in perfect, unbroken Spanish.

The closer it got to the departure date, the more excited Glenda became. "It's just a week before you leave, isn't it?" I asked her. "Si, si, Senorita," she Okay, we've known for thirty years that cigarette smoking is hazardous to our health.

Now that tobacco has been designated as the villain of choice for the 90s, though, we're finding that tobacco may not be the bad guy at all.

Dr. Rick Dart, director of the Rocky Mountain Poison Control Center in Denver, has conducted a study on cigarettes, and he has found that they aren't just tobacco rolled up in paper.

The modern smoke, in fact, has a recipe that resembles something you might concoct if you grabbed one of everything out of the fridge, wrapped it up in a newspaper and set fire to it.

Here's a partial list of the "additives" Dr. Dart found in his study of cigarettes...

- Licorice
- Vinegar
- Vanilla extract

now." "Si!" she exclaimed. From her responses, I knew this was going to be a trip she'd never forget, as well as one she'd never let anyone else forget either.

"How does Garry feel about you going?" I asked.

"Oh, he doesn't care. I told him I'd always wanted to go to Mexico on a honeymoon, so he told me to pretend that he was there."

"Is that possible?"

"Of course, it's possible. You know Garry, don't you?" Several days before she left the telephone rang. When I picked up the receiver I could hear someone on the other end who sounded as if they were crying. "Hello, hello. Who is this?"

I asked.

"Sar, Sar, Sara?" she shouted.

"Glenda, is that you?" "Ya, ya, Yes," she replied sadly. "What's wrong? Lose your Spanish dictionary?"

"No, I'm not going," she said sniffing back the tears.

"Not going to Acapulco?" I asked. "What happened?"

The silence was deafening. I knew Glenda was upset, but I didn't know what to say. She had looked forward to this trip so I knew she was disappointed.

"I never was going to Acapulco," she whispered. "Glenda! What ever do you mean? "I mean, I got the place

"How could you have done that? There is only one Acapulco that I'm aware of." "You don't understand. I'm still going on a trip, but I just read the brochure wrong."

"That's an easy mistake. Where are you going? It was Aruba instead of Acapulco, wasn't it?"

Apparently, there are still people like that.

Heard a report this week that a jail in Michigan was going to quit serving spinach to inmates because they were drying the stuff out and smoking it.

Don't know what effect spinach produces when smoked, but we imagine its preferable to the results of smoking oak moss, another additive found in cigarettes.

Who knows what manner of tiny forest creatures may have paused by the old oak tree for a moment of relief?

Anyway, with all these "new" pieces added to the puzzlement over smoking, scientists no doubt will have to go back to the drawing board to determine just exactly what it is about cigarettes that makes them so harmful.

Meanwhile, those of us who would rather fight than switch, may want to check out this spinach thing.

Betsy Layne wins seventh straight in 16-8 victory over Allen Central

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats extended their winning streak to seven straight with a 16-8 district victory over Allen Central Tuesday.

The Rebels, who just returned from a spring trip to Florida, played their first regular season game. The Rebels played six exhibition games in the sunshine state and they dropped all six games.

We played very well the last two games," said Rebel coach Jackie Pack. "We started to come around at that time."

Shannon Newsome continues to swing a torrid bat for the Bobcats. He ror at short and came in to score on a sacrifice fly off the bat of Greg Hunter.

Brandon Castle and Keith Hamilton had singles in the inning. Hamilton's hit loaded the bases against Floyd.

Clark looked as if he had righted himself and he got the Rebels out in order in the third. He fanned Floyd and Kevin Martin back-to-back to end the inning.

An error and consecutive singles by his bases-loaded home run.

Clark drilled a long drive to center field that Hall gathered in. The out scored Potter. Castle then roped a on five hits. The victory was the single to right center and Hunter drove in his second run with two out.

Neither team could do much in the fourth and it was in the fifth that Clark returned to miss at the plate. Clark worked the first six innings before being relieved by Shannon Newsome in the seventh.

Clark fanned six while walking an equal number. He allowed eight runs second of the season for Clark against no defeats.

Newsome allowed no runs and no hits while striking out one. He walked one batter.

Freshman Brandon Castle had two singles and a double for the Bobcats in picking up two RBIs.

Another Bobcat who has picked up his hitting is shortstop Chris Potter, who seems to be seeing the ball better at the plate. Potter collected

Halbert places first in hurdles; Allen Central takes first at Pikeville

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Under some cloudy skies and mild temperatures, the Allen Central track and field team came home with a first place overall finish at Pikeville's Bob Amos Park when they took part in the Pikeville Track and Field Meet Tuesday afternoon.

It was a good day for the Rebels in the field events, as well as track.

Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson stated that this is the first team he has coached that finished that high in the scoring.

"We have never scored like this before," he said. "We just had kids that went out there and worked hard. They tried to run their fastest times and they all competed."

Allen Central amassed 203 points, beating a previous high of 150.

"Of course, numbers have a lot to with it also," said the Allen Central coach. "We had over 60 kids on the bus when we came up here."

Shawn Robinson, who placed second in last week's Clay County meet, took first place in the discus at Pikeville with a toss of 131 feet and 6 inches. Teammate Levi Wells finished second with a throw of 108 feet. A third paticipant, Chris Bailey, finished fourth at 103 feet.

Kevin Stumbo brought home a first place finish, as well as two second place spots. Stumbo competed for the first time in the pole vault (a new event at Allen Central) and placed second when he cleared the bar at nine feet. Estill Stumbo came in fourth with a clearance of 7 feet and 6 inches.

Stumbo placed second in the long jump, in a busy evening for the junior. He had a leap of 18 feet and 1

"I didn't get to see the jump by Kevin, but 18 feet is a good jump," said Jamerson.

Chris Halbert was close behind Stumbo with his leap of 17 feet and 11 inches. Halbert established a new hool record at Clay County last for the Rebels' 3200 relay team. The foursome of Shawn Amburgey, Mike Elzokari, Todd Howard and Curtis Webb finished first with a posted time of 9:59.00. Amburgey, Howard and Webb are all eighth-graders.

Nick Halbert took third place in the men's 110 hurdles with a time of 19:38. Estill Stumbo was a close fifth at 21:31.

In the men's 100-meter run, Jason Samons placed fifth overall with a time of 12:09. Trevor Fitch finished with a 12:49.

Josh Patton took second place in the men's 1600-meter run. Patton recorded a time of 5:12.51. Third place went to Allen Central's Amburgey with a time of 5:38.66. Chris Damron ran in at 7:02.30.

The men's 400-meter relay team took third overall with a time of 50:00. The four that ran the race were: Trevor Fitch, Nick Halbert, Jason Samons and Todd Samons.

Four of his five RBIs came in the fifth inning when he touched all bases after drilling a long grand-slam home run over the left field fence. The round tripper powered the Bobcats and they scored 10 times in the fifth to overcome an 8-6 deficit.

But the long ball wasn't limited to just Betsy Layne. Central's Kevin Martin brought his team from behind in the top of the fifth. Martin came to bat with the bases loaded and he was behind in the count one ball and two strikes.

He caught a Barry Clark slider and deposited it over the left field fence for a grand-slam home run. His round tripper sent the Rebels in front 8-6.

Clark was uncharacteristically wild while on the mound. He retired the Rebels in order in the top of the first, but struggled in the second when the Rebels took a 3-0 lead.

The big right-hander walked the first two batters, Martin and Josh Hansford, and gave up a run-producing double to Jeremy Hall, scoring Hansford. Adam Coleman, who was safe on a fielder's choice, scored on a passed ball and Roy John Martin drove in the third run with a bouncer to short.

Hillbilly Days. It's here again and the City of Pikeville will be buzzing with visitors from all over the area.

But the special days have become more than just a parade with furny cars, and booths. It is more, much more.

The Hillbilly Days Classic has become one of the top high school baseball tournaments in the state and this year will be no exception.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats are the defending champions of the classic, having won it over Paintsville last year.

The classic will be divided into two divisions, just as it was last year, with the winners of each division meeting on Saturday night for the tournament championship.

In Division I, Phelps, Williamson,

W.VA. and Pikeville will join Betsy Layne. Division II will consist of M.C. Napier, Paintsville, Belfry and Shelby Valley.

The tournament will feature two teams that are members of the state's Top 25. Napier is currently ranked seventh in the state with Paintsville holding the number 21 spot. With both teams in the same division, it should make for a very interesting confrontation.

The cry "Play ball!" started yesterday with three games. Pikeville faced Betsy Layne in a 4 p.m. start and Williamson took on the Phelps Hornets. Shelby Valley squared off against Belfry.

Host Pikeville will face Williamson in an afternoon game that starts at 3 p.m. The two ranked teams, Napier and Paintsville, will battle on the diamond in what has the makings of a good contest. Game time is 5 p.m. Paintsville will play back-to-back games when they take on Belfry in a 7 p.m. game. Betsy Layne and Phelps will close out the evening's play with a 9 p.m. start.

It will be a full day of baseball at the W.C. Hambly Athletic Complex when the baseball action continues Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. Shelby Valley and Paintsville will meet in the first game with Napier and Belfry to follow. at noon. At 2 p.m., Phelps will go against an always-tough Pikeville team. Betsy Layne will meet Williamson at 4 p.m. and the final divisional game will find Napier and Shelby Valley going at it on the base paths.

This is a must for those who love high school baseball. Come and watch some of the area's top talent.

The two divisional winners will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday to decide the championship.

Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats set to defend Hillbilly Classic title

Prestonsburg head softball coach Bridget Clay and her Lady Blackcats will travel to Pikeville this Saturday as they endeavor to defend their title in the Hillbilly Days Classic Softball Tournament.

Prestonsburg defeated Pikeville in the championship game last year and the Lady Panthers are expected to be a top regional team this season.

Other teams in the tournament include Millard, Shelby Valley, Whitesburg, Sheldon Clark, Pikeville, Magoffin and Neon.

Lady Blackcats, Bobcats Classic winners...

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats will have to rise early Saturday morning and the sleep will have be gone from their eyes for their first-game appointment with Shelby Valley. The game is the Lady Blackcats first step in the defense of their title as champions of the Hillbilly Days Softball Tournament.

Last season Prestonsburg won the Prestonsburg.

Coach Bridget Clay lost a lot of talent from last year's squad, but she will also return a strong field of players.

The Miller twins will hold down two positions for the Lady Blackcats three roaming in the outfield will be Jamie Ratcliff in left, Carolyn Fitzer in center and Jeanna Fannin in the short field.

The infield will be anchored by some pretty good gloves in Jamie Clay at shortstop and Camillie Robinson at second. Third base will find Donna Hall getting the call and Jennifer Greathouse will be behind the plate for Prestonsburg, receiving pitches from Carolyn Jones.

Clay is no doubt one of the top round-robin affair with a win over shortstops in the region and she covers a lot of ground at the six spot. A solid hitter and team leader.

> Jamie Ratcliff swings a big bat for the 2-0 Lady Blackcats, as does Robinson, Fitzer and Miller are solid hitters as well.

On the Prestonsburg bench will be with Jennifer playing first base and Michelle Clark, Misty Crider, Misty Stephanie in right field. The other Price, Mariah Hyden and Crystal

Betsy Layne, like Prestonsburg, will be looking to repeat as champions on the baseball side of the complex. Coach Junior Newsome's ballclub is contender for a regional title this season and will have to contend with the likes of Paintsville and M.C. Napier in order to repeat.

The Bobcats have all the ingredients for another championship. At 7-2 on the season, Betsy Layne fell to Paintsville this past Wednesday night. The two teams are in different divisions and could meet again in the championship game Saturday night.

Barry Clark, Shannon Newsome, Derrick Newsome and Greg Hunter give the Bobcats a strong four-man rotation. Freshman Brandon Castle makes a fifth starter who is capable of beating anyone.

But the Bobcats are more than just pitching. They are a solid-hitting ballclub as well. From the lead off batter, Scott Ousley, through the number nine hitter, each can hit the baseball.

Chris Potter follows Ousley in the lineup and has been on a personal tear of his own. A solid performer at shortstop. No bat has come around like Shannon Newsome's. The big righthander/third baseman has woke up his bat and has been one of the reasons for the success of this team.

Derrick Newsome continues to make good contact and plays a strong outfield. Castle is ahead of his years and doesn't play like a freshman. A good contact hitter who makes things happen.

Shawn Rose, catcher, and Willie Meade, outfield, have been big additions to this year's ballclub, as well as Doug Keathley and Shannon Potter.

sell? Our Classifieds are the best place to offer items for sale!

"But, I don't know anything about writing an effective ad," you think. "How will I ever get the value of the item across to the readers?" Let us give you some handy tips on composing a great ad to get the most from what you're offering!

Get Specific

Let everyone know what makes your item special. Be sure you include details such as size, color, condition, brand, model, and any other features or benefits that add value to the item. But make sure you're accurate. You don't want to confuse potential customers!

Give the Price

Don't waste anyone's time. Let everyone know how much the item will be sold for. That way, you'll be taking calls only from those who are truly interested. Surveys have demonstrated that more people will express interest in an item that is clearly in their price range.

Ads Should Run For Two Weeks

To get the best results from your ad, people have to see it. And to make sure they do, the ad should run consecutively for at least two weeks. If you sell the item before the end of the run, you can always cancel the remainder.

No Abbreviations

Try your best to stay away from abbreviations, unless it's something that everybody is familiar with (e.g. "apt." is a standard abbreviation for "apartment"). You don't want potential buyers to have to struggle when reading your ad.

Give A Time Of Day To Call

Not only is it important for potential buyers to know the correct phone number to respond to the ad, but it's also important to let them know what time of day is the best to reach you. That way, you won't miss any prospects.

How do you place a Classified Ad?

It's easy! Our friendly, helpful representatives will take your ad over the phone, guiding you through the whole process. And they'll assist you with the scheduling, too. Just call us Monday through Friday during regular business hours and get ready to make a sale!
