Tax bills to be late, but earlier than expected

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Property tax bills in Floyd County will be sent out late for 1994, but officials hope to get them out a month earlier than first expected.

Initial estimates had property tax bills being mailed to property owners in March, but Property Valuation Administrator Lovel Hall said Thursday that "hopefully" tax bills can be mailed in February.

The delay in getting tax bills prepared stems from a state mandated reassessment of property in all Kentucky counties which had to be completed by the time 1994 tax bills were prepared. The reassessment was part of Kentucky's 1990 Education Reform Act and is designed to ensure that the value of all properties in the state were properly and fairly assessed.

Local government officials have been keeping a close eye on their budgets to see if the delay in receiving property tax revenues would create any cash flow problems.

Hall said that property reassessments in Floyd County should be finished by January 1. When the process is finalized, property owners who are affected by the reappraisal will be notified by mail in early January.

Once landowners are informed of any change in property values, they will have 12 days to file appeals with the county court clerk if they feel the new assessments are in error. Once an appeal is filed, a three-member board will hear the property owner's arguments and render a decision. If a property owner is not satisfied with that ruling, an appeal can be made to the state Revenue Cabinet.

Landowners should be familiar with all aspects of their property prior to an appeal hearing, Hall said. Residents should also bring any documents that would contradict any information in the PVA's office. Before filing an appeal, taxpayers should review their file in the PVA's office.

Hall said that he did not expect any appeals to further delay the issuance of tax bills because any change in property assessment can be ad-

Panel to get input on public defenders

Floyd Countians can tell the government what works or doesn't work in the public defender's system at a meeting of the Gubernatorial Task Force on the Delivery & Funding of Quality Public Defender Services Monday, December 5.

The meeting, which begins at 1 p.m. in the auditorium at Prestonsburg Community College, is one of four to be held throughout the state. The Prestonsburg meeting is the last public meeting before the task force gives its final report to the governor.

The task force convened early last year to take a look at the public defender system. John Rosenberg, director of Appalachian Research and Defense Fund and a member of the task force, said Wednesday.

The task force made recommendations to the legislature, and a bill, sponsored by Rep. Greg Stumbo, was passed which increased funding to the local public defender systems by increasing DUI fees and attaching a fee to arraignments.

"For the first time, the public defender system gets a portion of the money," Rosenberg said.

He urged area citizens to participate in the meeting. "This is an opportunity for the bar and the public to give the task force their views," he said.

For more information about the task force, call Edward Holmes, co-chair of the task force, at (502) 564-7760.

Right time, wrong place

The dedication service for a memorial honoring the victims and survivors of a 1958 bus accident will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, not Archer Park as stated in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

The memorial is located between the Wilkinson/Stumbo Convention Center and May Lodge. The ceremony begins at 2 p.m., Sunday, December 4.

Governor is likely to call January session

Governor Brereton C. Jones recently announced that he will call a special session of the state legislature to coincide with the end of the January organizational session in order to repeal the state tax on private pensions.

"We have worked very hard over the past three years to cut the size of government and give the Kentucky taxpayers the absolute most for their tax dollar," said the Governor. "Today I am proud to announce that we have saved enough money to eliminate the greatest inequity in Kentucky's tax code—the tax on private pensions. Since our campaign for Governor we have stated that all

Grand jury to report out

The Floyd County Grand jury, which has been meeting over the past two weeks, is expected to report out on December 8. Last week police officers appeared before the grand jury and citizens presented cases this week.

Gift of life

Lottery luck to make holiday merry for Floyd County trio

Three area residents are $100,000 richer, and one of them doesn't even know it yet.

Three winning lottery tickets, representing $100,000 each, were sold recently within a 10-mile radius in Floyd County. Bradford Handshoe of Salt Lick and Kelly Fraley of McDowell won $100,000 each in Powerball drawings during the past week.

The third $100,000 prize in the Cash 5 drawing Wednesday night had not been claimed at presstime Thursday night. The ticket was sold at Martin Liquors, and the winning Cash 5 numbers are 1-3-27-28-33.

Prize winner Kelly Fraley is a nursing student at Prestonsburg Community College. When the powerball drawing was held Wednesday night, November 30, she was studying for a big test. Her husband was watching television in another room and called to her that the Powerball numbers were about to be selected.

Kelly decided to take a break. She didn't really expect to win, but with a jackpot of over $90 million, she and her husband had purchased $20 in Powerball tickets.

It was a sound investment. In a matter of seconds those $20 tickets became worth $100,000 in cash, or an estimated $70,000 after taxes.

At the college Thursday, Kelly was still in shock. "It was only the second time I had played," she noted with awe.

Kelly, 24, and her husband, Robert Fraley, 29, were leaving for Louisville right after the Thursday test. Initially, they plan to put the money in the bank, but eventually they hope to buy a new house for themselves and their five-year-old daughter, Stephanie.

The Fraleys purchased their tickets at Hinkle's Stop-N-Shop in McDowell.

Winning $100,000 the night before a big exam is not exactly conducive to studying. "We didn't sleep all night," Kelly said. Nevertheless, she did show up for class on Thursday to complete her exam.

This is Kelly's final semester at PCC and she has certainly ended it in

Audit says city should keep an eye on budget

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Accounting procedures have improved, but Prestonsburg city officials need to keep a closer watch on the budget.

Certified Public Accountant Flo Bartrum met with the city's finance committee Wednesday to discuss the findings of the 1993-94 audit of city books.

Bartrum told committee members that last year's budget had not been followed and that some line item accounts had been overspent.

Councilman Estill Carter commented that council was aware of that particular problem and was working to correct it.

"That was one problem when we came in—no one seemed to pay any attention to the budget," Carter said. "When we came in (midway through the fiscal year), it was awkward."

Bartrum also pointed out that some invoices did not have purchase orders, but she commented that the procedure had improved in the second half of the fiscal year.

"It did get better with a new council," Bartrum said.

Other problems Bartrum noted included: monthly statements were not being recorded; withholding checks had been improperly posted to administrative accounts; late tax revenue from the tourism department was not being distributed; the Local Government Economic Assistance revenues were not being recorded accurately; and the park board was not reimbursing the city for employees' wages and expenses.

Overall, Bartrum said that the city followed proper accounting procedures, but council needed to work on making sure the purchase order system was followed.

In other discussions, the committee wanted to know if there was enough revenue to carry the city through until the 1994 property tax bills were prepared.

Finance officer Brenda Hayes reported that there was enough cash flow in the city's general fund to carry through until tax monies started coming in.

An estimate of monthly obligations came to $37,389 and payroll for December, January and February totals $267,000. Hayes added that in January the city would receive a considerable amount of revenue from business and license fees.

Also Wednesday, committee members received a report on the amount of fuel purchased since July and came up missing about $8,000 worth.

According to finance records, the city spent $15,542 on fuel, but could only account for $7,624 of gas and diesel which was purchased in the fire, police, park and public works departments.

Committee members Carter, Dick Clark, Robert Allen and Collins agreed to develop a process in order to account for fuel purchased.

Committee to propose job and back pay

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It looks as if acting Prestonsburg police chief Darrell Conley will get the job and the pay as city police chief.

In a personnel committee meeting of the Prestonsburg council members Wednesday, members Robert Allen, Billy Ray Collins and Paula Goble all agreed to recommend raising Conley's salary to $25,000 per year and to back up and pay Conley for the time he has served as acting chief.

Allen commented that Conley had assumed the responsibility of being chief, but that he had not been compensated for it.

Collins suggested that Conley receive some type of reward for 23 years of service in the police department.

Conley was named acting police chief on July 1 when Hall took a medical leave of absence.

Hall returned to the force last month as a captain.

Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin said Tuesday that Conley would most likely be named police chief in January.

The three council members, who at times talked in almost a whisper about the issue, discussed reducing former chief Greg Hall's pay to that of a captain and raising Conley's to $25,000. Allen commented that Hall's rate of pay should be set at $8.84 per hour under the provisions of the city's personnel policy.

The three agreed to make those recommendations to council at the next meeting.

The committee also discussed a policy concerning the appointment of volunteers to the fire department and setting a fee for other cities that ask for the department's assistance.

Downtown tree lighting

A Christmas parade was a prelude to the lighting of the Christmas tree in downtown Prestonsburg Thursday afternoon. Santa led the way atop one of the city's fire trucks and the Prestonsburg High School band played Christmas music. Jenny Wiley State Park employees and the Floyd County Sheriff's Department also joined in the parade. A large crowd gathered to watch as Mayor Jerry Fannin turned on the tree lights. justed after the tax bill is received. Once the reassessment data is complete, Hall said his office will ask the Department for Local Government and the state Department of Education to put a rush on calculating the tax rates. Hall said that process sometimes takes from two weeks to a month to complete. "I'm going to rush them as hard as I can," Hall said. "We've been working late at night to get the information in the computer. It's a big job and we're working as hard as we can. We hope to get the information (to state officials) by January." Once the tax liability has been calculated, the tax bills will be printed and then the figures have to be checked. After that process, the bills have to be stuffed and mailed by the sheriff's department. Although the tax bills will be mailed out later than usual, taxpayers will still receive a two percent discount on their tax liability if the bill is paid within 30 days after it is received. Some property owners may be in for a shock when they get their 1994 tax bill. During the first year of reassessments, Hall said that approximately 30 percent of property in the county was reappraised. This year, the remaining property in the county was reevaluated and tax bills will be adjusted. "If someone is living in a $60-$70,000 house and lot, they need to expect to be assessed in that range," Hall said. "If a home is valued at $60,000, the tax bill will probably be $650. It's nothing we can control. It's the law. The education reform act ensures that the laws that are on the books are enforced. Property will be assessed for what it is worth." Overall, Hall estimates that the county's property values will increase by 30 percent due to the reassessments. Hall cautioned that that does not mean individual tax bills will increase by 30 percent. Hall said total revenues from property taxes should increase significantly, but he does not know yet by how much. Although some taxpayers will be not be happy with reassessed property values, Hall feels that, overall, property owners will be satisfied with the process. "The biggest gripe, and it's a justified gripe, is that taxpayers feel that their neighbor's tax bill is not comparable and is different from their tax bill," Hall said. "I see that eliminated by everybody now paying their fair share. I don't think a lot of people will appeal." If Floyd County can get the tax bills out by February, it will be earlier than some of the surrounding counties.

General Assembly will begin new session with freshman class

The 1995-96 General Assembly will feature a freshman class with 26 members and a significantly higher number of Republicans following the November 8 election. Five incumbent lawmakers were defeated, three in the Senate and two in the House; all were Democrats. Of the new members, 14 are Republicans. Democrats will remain in control of both chambers, but by narrower margins. In the Senate, Republicans gained three to increase their total to 17 of 38 seats. Republicans gained eight seats in the House for a total of 37, compared with 63 Democrats—the highest GOP totals since 1968-70. During the 1968 session, Republicans controlled 43 of the 100 House seats and 14 Senate seats. While the House GOP numbers declined in 1970, Republicans picked up one more seat in the Senate for a total of 15. Due to retirements and primary election defeats, there were no incumbents on the ballot in 21 of the 119 legislative races. Two first-term Democrats fell to newcomers. Leslie Trapp of Lexington lost his 78th district seat to Republican Ernest L. Fletcher and in the 60th district, Kenny French of Warsaw lost to Paul H. Marcotte of Union. About two-thirds of the 100 House seats were uncontested, including 56 featuring unopposed incumbents. There were 47 unopposed Democrats and 18 Republicans. No incumbents ran in 18 districts, due to retirements and primary election losses; six of those districts switched parties. Those districts are the 4th, 13th, 16th, 18th, 68th and 79th, all of which moved from the Democrat to the Republican column. There will be nine women in the new House, two more than served in the last term. Retirements also had an impact on the leadership of House committees with eight vacancies created. Arnold Simpson of Covington has already been named chair of the House Cities Committee, replacing former Rep. Bill Donnermeyer, who retired early. But new chairs will be needed for the following panels: Banking and Insurance, Business Organizations and Professions, Economic Development, Elections and Constitutional Amendments, Judiciary, Tourism Development and Energy and Transportation.

That means there will be two women in the new Senate, one more than the last term. Rand lost in the 26th district to Ernie Harris, R-Prospect. Two freshmen senators were elected without opposition, Democrats Paul Herron Jr. of Henderson and Denny Nunnelley of Midway. First-term legislators SENATE: Paul Herron Jr., D-Henderson, Elizabeth Tori, R-Radcliff, Ernie Harris, R-Prospect, Denny Nunnelley, D-Midway, Julie Carman Rose, R-Louisville, Dan Seum, D-Louisville. HOUSE: Kathy Hogancamp, R-Paducah, J.R. Gray, D-Benton, John Arnold Jr., D-Sturgis, Jim Gooch Jr., D-Providence, Brian Crall, R-Owensboro, Sheldon E. Baugh, R-Russellville, Dwight D. Butler, R-Hamed, Perry Clark, D-Louisville, Joni Jenkins, D-Shively, H. "Gippy" Graham, D-Frankfort. Paul H. Marcotte, R-Union, Richard Murgatroyd, R-Villa Hills, Katie Kratz Stine, R-Ft. Thomas, Jim Lovell, D-Paris, Ernest L. Fletcher, R-Lexington, Lawrence Brandstetter, R-Lexington, Charles Siler, R-Williamsburg, Barbara White Colter, R-Manchester, Donnie Newsome, D-Dema, Kelsey Friend Jr., D-Pikeville. All legislators elected in November will be sworn in during the 1995 Organizational Session, which begins January 3 at noon EST. House members serve two-year terms while Senators will serve for four years.

Social Security benefits will increase on January 3

From Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director For the Big Sandy Area. Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 2.8 percent, beginning with the payments that Social Security beneficiaries receive January 3 and SSI recipients receive on December 30, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently. The automatic cost-of-living adjustment is made annually. For Social Security beneficiaries, the average monthly benefit amount for all retired workers will rise from $679 to $698. The maximum federal SSI monthly payment to an individual will rise from $446 to $458. For a couple, the maximum federal SSI payment will rise from $669 to $687. Some states add a supplement to the federal payment. Social Security and SSI benefits increase automatically each year based on the rise in the Consumer Price Index. Kelly reminded beneficiaries to make sure that Social Security and the post office had their correct address. "I would also encourage every one receiving a monthly check to consider Direct Deposit at your bank."

Senate The three senators who lost were all completing their first terms and each headed a legislative committee. State Sen. Tom Smith, D-Sonora, the chairman of the Senate Labor and Industry Committee, was defeated as was Sen. Rick Rand, D-Bedford, chair of the Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee. A third committee chair, Sen. Susan Johns, D-Louisville, also lost to her Republican opponent. Johns chaired the Economic Development and Tourism panel. Smith lost his 10th district seat to Elizabeth Tori, R-Radcliff, while Johns was defeated by Julie Carman Rose, R-Louisville, in the 36th district. Smith named new South Central Bell manager South Central has named Paul Smith as its area manager to replace Tom Tucker who is retiring on December 30 with 34 years service. Smith came to Bell in 1966 after serving three years with the U.S. Army. His previous position with Bell was in Frankfort as the Network Operations service manager. He has been active in various civic activities such as Walk America, United Way and the U. S. Saving Bonds Campaigns. He also served as president of the Franklin County High School Soccer Booster Club and the Telephone Pioneers Capitol Council. Smith will be moving from Frankfort to Winchester with his wife, Donna.

The year has also been a good one for Bradford Handshoe. Handshoe matched five powerball numbers last Wednesday night, November 23, to win his $100,000 prize. Handshoe, a retired teacher, bought his winning ticket at Roger's Self-Serve at Eastern. "I'll play again," Handshoe told lottery officials. "I might get lucky again. I've heard about the man from southeastern Kentucky who won $100,000 twice in less than a month last year. Maybe, it's my turn." Kane Hale of Harold was also a lottery winner. Hale took home $2,600 playing the daily numbers game.

Ward receives credentials for outstanding work with children

Geneva L. Ward

Geneva L. Ward of Prestonsburg, has been awarded a Child Development Associate (CDA) credential in recognition of outstanding work with young children. The credential was awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession. CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care. The first credential was awarded 20 years ago, and now 46 states plus the District of Columbia include CDA in their child care licensing regulations.

Parents who use child care are especially concerned today about their children's welfare. With this in mind, as part of the CDA assessment process, every candidate for the CDA credential is observed working with young children by an early childhood professional. In addition, the candidate must demonstrate the ability to work with families to develop children's physical and intellectual capabilities in a safe and healthy learning environment.

The CDA credential is having a positive effect on the quality of child care. Its impact is evident in center-based care as well as family child care, the most common form of care for children under 5 years old.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA should write the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition at 1341 G Street NW, Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20005-3105. Or call (202) 265-9090 or 1 (800) 424-4310.

CableVision's Toys for Kids campaign will continue through December 21

CableVision customers who support CableVision's "Toys For Kids" campaign can receive a free or reduced installation or upgrade to many popular CableVision services through December 21.

New customers who donate a new, unwrapped toy worth at least $10, or donate a cash or check equivalent, may receive a reduced $5 installation of Budget Basic, CableVision Tier and any premium channel or package.

CableVision is also accepting toys from residents who want nothing more than to simply show their holiday spirit. Toys collected will be given to the Floyd County Headstart program and will be given to children in families they are assisting this holiday season. Any cash donations will be used to buy toys, as well.

CableVision customers and area residents are encouraged to call 886-2291 before December 21, to ensure their donations get to a needy child for the holidays. Toys or cash donations may also be dropped off at the CableVision office at 2565 South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg before December 21.

Hormone may improve vision

by Harold F. Spalter, M.D.
(Secretary, Scientific Advisory Panel)

(Research to Prevent Blindness)
Shedding tears is more often associated with women than with men, yet many more women than men suffer with dry eye syndrome, the lack of sufficient tears to lubricate the eyes.

Dry eye syndrome is one of the most common causes of eye disorders. The condition often makes it impossible to wear contact lenses and may be accompanied by a persistent, grating pain that patients have compared to that caused by grains of sand in the eyes. Eventually, it leads to blurred vision and may damage the cornea.

Today, there is little that doctors can do to help, except try to ease the patient's discomfort with artificial tears. However, Austin K. Mircheff, Ph.D., and Dwight W. Warren, Ph.D., of the University of Southern California, hope that basic research on the physiology of tear glands may change this situation.

Dr. Mircheff discussed his work at a National Science Writers Seminar sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness (RPB), the world's leading voluntary organization in support of eye research. He noted that the lack of tears is often associated with Sjogren's Syndrome, an autoimmune disease where, in effect, the body is fighting and trying to destroy some of its tissues.

Sjogren's Syndrome affects at least two million Americans, most of them women over age forty. In addition to causing dry eyes, as well as dry mouth, it affects the lining of the respiratory, genito-urinary and gastrointestinal tracts.

Since the victims of the disorder are mainly women, particularly postmenopausal women, it has occurred to researchers that perhaps it may be treated with hormonal therapy. According to Mircheff and Warren's surprising hypothesis, androgens, male sex hormones, may have something to do with the functioning of the affected glands, including the tear glands.

Androgens are produced by the adrenal gland in both sexes. Women also produce very small amounts in their ovaries. When the ovaries cease functioning at menopause, women are deprived of the androgens needed to make tears, and an auto-immune attack on their tear glands begins.

Dr. Mircheff believes "It should be possible to design hormonal replacements to maintain lacrimal (tear) gland function when the androgen production decreases; ideally, such a therapy would also restore lacrimal glands that have regressed."

Animal experiments support this belief. Other researchers have found that androgens given to laboratory animals have reversed the symptoms of Sjogren's Syndrome, suggesting that similar hormonal therapy may have a beneficial effect on dry eye syndrome in humans.

Dr. Mircheff predicts that the androgen levels required to keep the tear glands functioning will be small, no greater than those found in premenopausal women.

Readers may obtain a free copy of Dr. Mircheff's report on Sex Hormone May Improve Vision by writing to Research to Prevent Blindness, 598 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Southeastern Kentucky is hot!

What's the hottest part of the state for Lottery winners? It's Southeastern Kentucky! Since last Wednesday the Southeastern corner of Kentucky has been producing some BIG winners in the Kentucky Lottery.

It started on November 23 when retired school teacher Bradford Handshoe from Knott County won $100,000 playing the Kentucky Lottery's POWERBALL. He came to Louisville to claim his prize.

The really big day for Southeastern Kentuckians was Friday, November 25. Four people cashed prizes that day ranging from $2,500 up to $10,000! Edith Rowe of Shelbiana won $10,000 playing Bingo, while Nicholas Wright of Pikeville won $10,000 playing Casino Cash. While those folks were winning on instant games, some others were cashing in big on Pick 4. Kane Hale of Harold won $2,600 playing the daily numbers game and Connie Fugate of Kimper won $2,500 on Pick 4.

"We always have big winners from Southeastern Kentucky, but it's been awhile since we had so many at once," says the Kentucky Lottery's Southeastern Regional Manager Jeff Riley. "This is a lucky spot right now, we could be seeing a lot more winners."

Like people all across Kentucky, folks in the Southeastern part of the state are dreaming of winning Wednesday's $90 million POWERBALL jackpot. It's the second largest in POWERBALL history.

Where do we fit in?

by Scott Perry

If you're like us, you probably thought NAFTA, AFTA and GATT was a law firm or something.

Might as well be.

And you don't have to pay them a dime unless they win your case, right?

In reality, those are nifty little acronyms for a variety of trade agreements which, proponents say, will improve business in the global marketplace.

Critics say they'll just let multinational companies take advantage of cheap labor and low prices.

Well, it doesn't matter to us what anybody says.

We don't have enough multinational companies in Eastern Kentucky to put together a good horseshoe pitching team.

We may have a coal company or two owned by foreigners, but they're really just visitors.

They'll be gone when the coal is.

Looks like our biggest problem in Appalachia is we don't have a catchy name to help us boost our economy.

Maybe we can come up with one that will work.

Acronyms aside, it's hard for us to get all worked up about the good fortune other countries will find in all these trade pacts.

Heck, we were fighting an uphill battle competing for jobs with the rest of Kentucky.

Now we'll have to square off with places like Ethiopia or Chile or even Vietnam, for crying out loud.

If there's one element of all these global trade agreements we can agree with, it's the notion that they'll really help boost our exports.

Outside of coal, though, our number one export is people.

Our brightest.

Our best.

Thanks to NAFTA, AFTA and GATT, we ought to be able to increase our supply of those folks to the world market.

Ain't it a shame the world is so far from home?

Blood center thank Floyd County donors

Editor:

On behalf of our staff at the Prestonsburg Donor Center, please accept my thanks to all of those who came out and participated in the Big Blue blood drive held November 15-17. A total of 80 Floyd County donors came out, helping UK "crush" UT, 2,463 to 2,430.

The Blood Center appreciates the commitment of the Floyd County donors who so faithfully support our local donor center. Without their efforts, a safe and adequate blood supply could not be maintained.

No one was a loser in this competition, as Central and Eastern Kentuckians worked together, donating enough blood to help almost 7,400 hospital patients. Your donations will make this Thanksgiving holiday better for those less fortunate. Thank you again.

Little Dove Church asks rebuilding assistance

Editor:

I'm writing this to thank everyone who has helped in any way in the rebuilding of our new church, Little Dove Church. As most of you know we are a small church in Floyd County on Little Mud Creek which was established in 1910. We are small in membership and big on love. My dad, Elder Johnny Hall, died July 6, 1994. He gave 62 years of his life to the church and I don't regret a minute he spent working for the betterment of the church. All the work that I'm doing in helping on the church is being done as a memorial to the life that he lived and all the lives he touched as he went along his way. If he had been living today, there would not have been a minute pass, a nail driven, or a screw turned, that he wouldn't have been here helping all he could. I would like to ask anyone, anywhere, in this season of love and giving, if you can find it in your heart to help us in anyway, it will be deeply appreciated from the bottom of my heart.

At the present time we are having our regular service at Old New Salem at Harold but by the help of God, and the help of all the people, we hope to hold service on Christmas day 1994. What better time to have services in a new church than on Christ's birthday. Our church regularly meets on the 4th Saturday and Sunday of each month.

I feel that we all could do more; after all, it doesn't belong to anyone of us, it is the House of the Lord and belongs to Him.

Anyone who wants to help in anyway can get in touch with me at 606-478-5773 or 478-5075 or by mail at 2256, Rt. 2030, Honaker, KY. 41639.

Ousley makes response to accident report

Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to respond to the article "alcohol no factor in wreck" that was printed in the November 23, 1994 issue of the Floyd County Times.

Don Armstrong, DES public relations officer in Frankfort, was either misinformed or searching for an alibi as to why the DES truck crossed the center line on the road and hit the school bus.

The Kentucky State Police report indicated that the DES vehicle was approximately two feet across the center of the road when the collision occurred.

The Kentucky State Police also stated that the driver of the truck was given a blood test due to the smell of alcoholic beverages in the cab area of the vehicle.

The driver of the school bus, Eddie Berger, is an excellent driver and the actions taken by him at the time of the accident probably prevented some serious injuries to the students on the bus.

Earl D. Ousley

Floyd County Schools

Editor's note: State police have also confirmed that blood alcohol tests taken after the mishap were negative.

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Marriage and abuse are not synonyms

A Jefferson Circuit judge has refused to rule yet on the constitutionality of Kentucky's marital rape law. Until 1990, the state's rape law exempted husbands.

In the case now before Judge Edwin Schroering, the lawyer for the accused has argued that the law now puts husbands charged with marital rape at a greater disadvantage than other accused rapists.

The man accused allegedly entered his wife's home last December 15, dragged her to a bedroom and repeatedly raped her while holding a pillow over her face. He was under a court order to stay away from her at the time.

He is charged with rape, burglary and assault.

The lawyer noted that if couples are going through a divorce—as the accused and his wife are—wives can use rape charges to gain the upper hand in decisions regarding child support and custody and division of property.

The prosecutor has countered that the state must meet the same standard as with any other defendant in proving that a husband committed a specific sex act that is alleged to be rape. The legislature dealt with the threat of rape charges being used for leverage in divorces by banning their use in custody and visitation cases, she said.

Schroering said this week that the state's rape law appears to be constitutional, but that he would reconsider at the time of trial whether the defendant was unconstitutionally affected by it.

Kentucky made a giant step forward when the legislature amended its marital rape law. While there may be some points that need fine-tuning, we hope that the courts will see fit to enforce the law.

A contract of marriage in Kentucky should not include the right to sexually abuse your spouse with no threat of fair and equal punishment under the law.—Appalachian News-Express

More jobs lost

It appears certain that Congress during the course of this week will give its stamp of approval to an historic document—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT)—which will permit such countries as China and India to dump unlimited amounts of manufactured goods in the United States. Already hard-pressed American workers stand to lose millions of jobs to overseas factories unless the Americans become competitive by agreeing to work for less than $1 an hour and forget all about such things as health care and overtime pay.

Incredibly, this devastating blow to American wage-earners comes at a time when the Republican-dominated Congress gets ready to abolish the nation's elaborate safety net which has been woven over the decades to feed and care for the needy—including displaced workers. House Speaker-to-be Newt Gingrich says "not one day of welfare." Presumably, the job-less worker, his wife and his children will be pushed out on the streets, left to starve.

The "free trade" agreement comes at a particularly hard time for the sections of Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and yes, Alabama and Mississippi, which along with parts of a half-dozen other states comprise what is known as the Appalachian area. Accelerating technology has made it possible for the coal industry to produce ever-growing amounts of coal with ever-fewer miners. Letcher County has a scant 1,200 miners these days, down from 6,000 only a decade ago. The same is true throughout the multi-state Appalachian coal region.

A vast amount of effort has been put into finding an alternative to coal—and just about every development effort has including the luring of manufacturing plants to take advantage of low-wage possibilities in the mountains.

The trade agreement dynamites any prospect for factories. Instead of coming into this area where they could hire unlimited numbers of workers at $5 per hour, manufacturers will put their investment capitol and their plants in India where child labor works for seven cents a day, or in China where a dollar a day hires skilled workers, or in Mexico, which already is producing Fords and other vehicles at wage levels of something like $1 an hour.

What we have been witnessing for some years is the movement of America's industrial base to foreign countries. The extent of this movement of factories out of the country can be seen in any Christmas shopping expedition in just about any retail outlet. Clothing, VCRs, TVs and just about everything else is foreign made—which is reflected in the fact that America's trade-deficit with the rest of the world is at record highs, and climbing fast.

President Clinton and Senator Dole have failed the American people and in the process are inflicting deadly blows to the nation's economy.—Mountain Eagle (Whitesburg)

BIPARTISAN TALK COULD MEAN ACTION

by Morton Kondracke

Washington's cynical conventional wisdom has it that post-election promises of bipartisanship will dissolve within days, but GATT, health care reform, entitlement cuts, welfare reform, and decentralization of government offer opportunities for co-operation if there's real will for it at the White House and on Capitol Hill.

Surely, deep and legitimate philosophical differences between the parties, Washington's ingrained habit of partisan bitterness, and the immediate onset of 1996 politicking will discourage working together, but other forces laid bare by Tuesday's election results could encourage it.

One is the public's obvious disgust with change-blocking gridlock. Others include the overwhelming citizen conviction that the country is on the "wrong track," the continuing decline of median family income in spite of an economic upturn, and the widespread perception that the "American dream" is dying amid flying bullets on the streets and worsening prospects for young people.

With government now divided between Democrats and Republicans, the White House and congressional leaders either must cooperate in responding to the public's malaise or risk some sort of truly radical change in the future—either the emergence of a new party or the rise of demagogues.

Ironically, President Clinton at times has been the nation's leading advocate of change. Clinton perceives that in the globalized "information age" economy of the future, the United States has to be open to world trade, and major improvements are required in education and job training to give U.S. workers an opportunity to compete.

He also seems to understand that Americans are in the midst of a moral crisis, and he has emphasized "personal responsibility," crime control, and work requirements for welfare recipients as major initiatives. He also has taken steps to begin reducing the size of the federal bureaucracy. But whatever "new Democrat" steps he's taken have been counterbalanced by personal flaws and concessions to "old politics"—such as his abandonment of the line-item veto and campaign finance reform and his promotion of his wife's highly bureaucratic health care proposal.

Clinton's 1994 campaigning did nothing to enhance his "new Democrat" image, as he railed against phantom GOP threats to cut Social Security and appealed to traditional Democratic constituencies.

Now, Republicans are proposing to really shake up the system—with amendments to the Constitution to balance the federal budget and impose term limits on members of Congress, plus promises of tax cuts and major dismantling of government programs.

Almost certainly, there are items the two parties will be unable to agree upon. If Republicans insist on denying welfare benefits to illegitimate children as part of welfare reform, Clinton will feel duty-bound to veto such legislation. He also might veto tax cuts that exclusively benefit the rich.

But deals are entirely possible on other matters. Both parties favor GATT, to be voted on in the upcoming lame-duck session of Congress.

On other fronts, universal health care reform is dead, but a deal can be struck on insurance reforms to protect people who change jobs or have pre-existing conditions, and subsidies to guarantee coverage to certain groups, such as children.

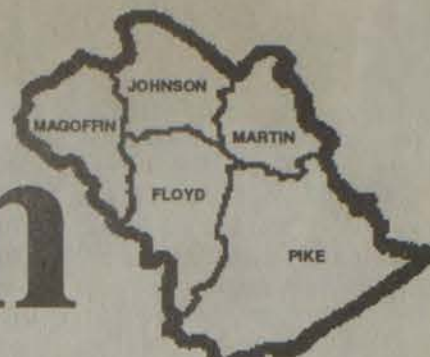

A deal is possible on welfare reform. If Clinton will agree to a hard cutoff of benefits after two years of training, Republicans drop plans to punish illegitimate children, and both sides agree to emphasize private jobs, rather than public jobs, as the goal for recipients.

The fiscal 1996 budget will be a battleground, as Clinton tries to promote "investments" in job training and education while Republicans try to cut "spending" and taxes. Clinton surely can challenge the GOP, though, by recommending major cuts in corporate subsidies to finance his spending proposals.

The possibility exists for Republicans and Democrats to compete with each other in producing constructive change. If they concentrate once again on blocking each other, the 1996 tsunami may make 1994's look like a leak in a fireplug.

Man drowns while fishing at Buckhorn Lake

A 48-year-old Yerkes man drowned Monday while fishing in Buckhorn Lake, about 25 miles northwest of Hazard.

Rescue workers found Jimmy Campbell's body at 3:30 p.m. in 10-foot-deep water, about 400 feet from his boat and 10 feet from the bank, said

Kentucky Water Patrol Officer Johnnie Brashear.

Campbell was found after a fisherman spotted an empty boat at 2:30 p.m. and notified officials, Brashear said.

Campbell, who was fishing alone, wasn't wearing a life jacket, Brashear said.

An autopsy will be performed, he said.—Courier-Journal

Paintsville man injured in accident

According to a spokesperson for the Martin County Ambulance Service, Bruce Kelley, 53, of Paintsville, was seriously injured in an accident that occurred on Route 40 at Beauty about 8 p.m. Monday.

Kelley received fractures to the neck area and was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center by the Martin County Ambulance Service. However, he was later transferred to UK Medical Center in Lexington.

Reportedly, Kelley lost control of the pickup truck he was driving west on Route 40 when the accident occurred. Martin County Sheriff's Deputy Phillip Cassell was the investigating officer at the scene, according to the spokesperson for the ambulance service.

According to the report, Kelley did not remember what caused the accident, but he had been experiencing blackouts prior to losing control of the vehicle, which ran off the road, hit a bridge and turned over in a creek. The accident occurred near the Beauty Post Office.

The accident is still under investigation.—Mountain Citizen (Inez)

Cobb, veteran United Press International White House correspondent Helen Thomas, former newspaper publisher Creed Black, and such journalistic luminaries as the late Henry Watterson and Barry Bingham Sr.

The purpose of the Hall of Fame is to recognize persons who have made significant contributions to journalism. Selection is made from individuals, living or dead, who are Kentucky natives or who have spent a substantial part of their careers in Kentucky.

Nominations should be received at UK's School of Journalism by January 16. Inductees will be honored at a special recognition program in April.

Daily tobacco market news available on toll-free hotline

Updated news from Kentucky's tobacco markets will be available each day of the market season from the Tobacco Information Hotline.

The hotline, provided annually by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and the Federal Tobacco Market News Service, can be reached by utilizing a touchtone phone and dialing 1-800-432-9262. When the recorder answers, press "5" for the tobacco market news.

The hotline is free of charge to all callers within Kentucky. Out of state callers can access the line by calling 502 564-2761. This is a toll call.

Preliminary information on the burley market will be available until November 21, when the market opens, and up-to-date information will be available thereafter. Information on dark-fire and dark air-cured tobaccos will be available as those markets open.

The recorded messages will give average prices farmers are receiving for their crops at different locations, the number of pounds of tobacco sold and pertinent grade and price information.

The messages will be updated around 11 a.m., 3:30 p.m. and again at 6:30 p.m. EST.

The morning update will give corrected figures for the previous day's sales across the Burley Belt and in Kentucky.

The late afternoon update will give current information for all that day's sales, corrected figures from the previous day's sales and some grade averages.

At 6:30 p.m., the sales figures from each market and the day's averages will be available on the hotline.

The hotline will be in operation until the end of the marketing season in early 1995.

Defining mental disorder

When is a mental disorder not a mental disorder?

When the American Psychiatric Association says it's not.

The question of defining mental disorders is researched, reported on, and sometimes hotly debated by the APA every few years when it publishes the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, or DSM. University of Kentucky psychology professor Thomas Widiger served on the task force for DSM-IV and found himself refereeing a bitter battle between different factions of the mental-health community.

Controversial issues arise with each publication as scientists clash over what will be classified as a disorder. This time, the fight centered around Pre-Menstrual Dysphoric Disorder. Widiger describes PDD as a rare and very extreme version of Pre-Menstrual Syndrome; its symptoms include severe irritability, anxiety and mild forms of depression.

The dispute surrounding PDD focused on how it should be classified and the potential consequences of that classification to women. Whether or not the profession refers to this condition as a mental disorder is very important, Widiger says: "These decisions that are made in this book have tremendous social repercussions." The standards set in the DSM volumes, which are revised roughly every seven years, can influence court cases, public policy, insurance coverage and social attitudes.

Most psychiatrists will acknowledge the existence of PDD, Widiger says. And many felt that if the existence of the disorder is not widely disputed, it should be cited in DSM-IV. Others, including the American Psychiatric Council of Women, argued against its inclusion, partly because PDD is difficult to diagnose. Widiger says that at the clinical level, "It's very difficult to differentiate reliably from normal PMS. Therefore, if it was included in DSM-IV as a recognized mental disorder, it would probably be misdiagnosed and likely over-diagnosed."

That result could have social implications for women. "We also know from a lot of research that PMS is a major source of stigmatization of women. It would not be unusual for those who don't really understand anything about PMS or the menstrual cycle to attribute a woman's anger or irritability at some time as being due to PMS," Widiger says. "It would obviously add to any sort of stigmatization and social discrimination to have a mental disorder which is an extreme version of this that would be overdiagnosed."

The likely overdiagnosis of PDD, which Widiger says is widely documented in research, was one major reason women's groups opposed PDD's inclusion. He says what would likely happen is that many women would be told incorrectly they were mentally ill three days of every month.

Widiger says he understands both points of view and doesn't have a firm conviction on the issue. His neutrality perhaps served him well in his capacity as research coordinator for DSM-IV. He had to review all materials submitted for the edition and ensure that all claims were supported with empirical, scientific evidence. "My job as research coordinator was essentially to keep everybody honest and open," he says. "Very few scientists are really objective."

The APA finally decided to include PDD in the book, but not to list it as a mental disorder. Widiger says PDD is an appendix to DSM-IV, one designed to list proposals that require further study. Ultimately, Widiger says, neither side lost or won. As a result, "No one's happy," he says. "It's a very difficult situation."

Ross elected vice-president KEIA

Johnnie E. Ross of Prestonsburg, was recently elected vice-president of the Kentucky Environmental Inspector's Association.

Ross, a fourteen-year employee of the Natural Resource and Environmental Protection Cabinet, is currently employed by the Department for Environmental Protection and stationed in the Hazard Regional Office. His career in the environmental field began at the age of sixteen when he was employed as a summer aide at Dewey Lake by the United States Army Corps of Engineers. While with the Corps, Ross held the positions of student aide, park aide, and park technician. In 1978, the Huntington District of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers awarded him the Student Aide of the Year Award.

While with the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, Ross has not only established himself as a fair and competent professional, but has also assisted in the training of new employees. While with the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Ross was recognized by former commissioner, Elmo C. Grimm, for his efforts in developing a Reclamation Inspector's Handbook and as an instructor for his presentation of the segment, "The Inspector's Role and the Inspection Process."

In his current position as Environmental Inspector III with the Division of Waste Management, Ross is assigned 13 counties in Eastern Kentucky and is primarily assigned to the Hazardous Waste Program. He is active in the RCRA (Resource Conservation and Recovery Act), Inspector's Training Course as a presenter for the section on "Hazardous Waste Generator Inspections."

In addition to his assigned duties with the Cabinet, Ross visits many of the area schools making environmental presentations to various grade levels within the counties assigned to him.

He has recently accepted a presidential appointment at Prestonsburg Community College to assist in studying the possibility of instituting a two-year program in Forestry and Wood Technology, as well as exploring other environmental educational opportunities.

He has served as a scout leader in the area since 1981, supervisor of the Floyd County Conservation District, youth leader for the City of Prestonsburg, minister for youth and their families, and is currently preparing for ordination as a priest in the Episcopal Church.

When asked what he considered his most important environmental work, Ross said: "I believe second to my role as an environmental inspector for the Cabinet, is my work with the Floyd County Conservation District where I have been a supervisor for approximately eight years. There I am chairman of the Education and Scholarship Sub-Committee."

In awarding scholarships to students of Floyd County and working with the Essay and Poster Contest, "I believe that regardless of the employment avenues chosen by these students in their adult life, the environment will be in much better hands." Today's young people are "much more aware of environmental issues than I was at their age and with school reform, they are encouraged to creatively offer solutions to these problems. This type of creative thinking, instilled at a young age, will certainly have a positive impact on our environmental future."

Ross will begin his one-year term as vice-president on January 1, and has already begun his work with the organization by scheduling some preliminary meetings with the organization's newly-elected president, Keith Crabtree from the Frankfort Regional Office.

Other officers elected for the 1995 term were Joan Knopp, secretary from Columbia Regional Office, and Jack Reese, treasurer from the Bowling Green Regional Office.

1994 Christmas seal campaign focuses on lung disease in children

This holiday season, the American Lung Association of Kentucky will focus on children's lung disease during its annual Christmas Seal campaign, which will reach nearly 300,000 homes statewide. The association's goal is to raise $256,000, part of which will be used to fund medical research into pediatric lung disease plus asthma education and smoking prevention programs for children.

"Lung disease can be devastating for children," said John Tate, president of the ALA of the Kentucky's Board of Directors. "Children's lungs are not just miniature versions of adult lungs. They're more sensitive to infection and pollution, and early damage can cause long-term problems."

One way the Lung Association is fighting pediatric lung disease in Kentucky is through its summer camps for children with asthma. These medically-staffed overnight and day camps offer children from around the state the opportunity to experience the fun of camping while learning how to control their asthma.

Another way the Lung Association helps children who have asthma and their parents is through "Open Airways for Schools." This school-based education program offers a series of lessons designed to help families and school personnel learn how to cope with asthma.

Along with its asthma programs, the Lung Association is working throughout Kentucky with programs like The Unpuffables and Smoke-Free Class of 2000 to tackle the problem of tobacco use by children. The Unpuffables offers booklets of stories and games for pre-teens to complete at home with their parents. The Smoke-Free Class of 2000 is a national project that provides grade-specific programs each year to students who will graduate in the year 2000. Both programs are partially funded by donations to Christmas Seals.

Lung disease and breathing problems are the leading cause of death among infants. Asthma and other breathing problems affect more than 17 million American children. In Kentucky alone, nearly 77,000 children under the age of 18 have asthma.

This year will mark the 87th season for the American Lung Association's Christmas Seal Campaign. It was begun in 1907 to raise money to fight tuberculosis. Today, Christmas Seals are still the country's leading source of funds to fight all types of lung disease.

For more information about children and lung disease, or about Christmas Seals, contact the American Lung Association of Kentucky at 1-800-LUNG-USA.

Cleaning up Kentucky's waterways

Our streams and rivers may soon be a little cleaner due to the work of two UK researchers. In recent work at the Center for Applied Energy Research, Dave Robertson, a nuclear chemist, and Chris Lafferty, a coal scientist from Australia, have developed a system that uses an abundant Kentucky resource to remove heavy metals from water and dispose of them. The process begins with brown coal and ends with tiny glass beads, loaded with metals, which can be safely disposed of in a landfill.

"We start with lignite, or brown coal, which is found in abundance in Western Kentucky," says Robertson. "It's plentiful and it's dirt cheap. Brown coal, in fact, is mostly dirt." He explains that one clay company currently working a deposit in the western part of the state scrapes the lignite off, mines out the clay, and throws the lignite back into the hole. The only cost for someone able to use the lignite at the present time is the cost to move it.

In their process, Robertson and Lafferty take advantage of the disadvantages of lignite. Lignite has a high oxygen content, and the oxygen sites in the lignite have a strong liking for positively charged metal ions.

"Essentially, you can make a column out of the coal and pass the contaminated water—water, for example, from a stream near a factory—through the column," says Robertson. "The water percolates through the lignite, the metals attach to the coal, and you get clean water out the bottom." Another possibility, he says, is to mix the contaminated water and the coal in a "bath mode," which would result in most of the metal being removed.

At the present time, commercial resins are used to remove metals from water—for example, to clean a stream at an industrial site. And though the resin, Robertson admits, would remove lead from water 10 to 20 times more effectively than lignite, there's another important factor to consider in the process.

"Consider the cost. We can get the brown coal, the lignite, for $20 a ton. The commercial material costs around $20 to $100 a pound," says Robertson. "So on the basis of the amount removed per cost, using lignite turns out to be over 100 times better." It's the next part of the process which Robertson and Lafferty think is really innovative—how to take care of the waste.

"What do you do now with the material you've used to, say, clean up the water?" Lafferty asks. "You can't just take this coal with the metals in it and bury it some place because under the right conditions the metals would come back off." The solution, says Lafferty, is to take advantage of the coal's natural ability to burn and its ash content—the mineral matter in the coal.

The metal-loaded coal is placed in a cylindrical unit which has a "cyclone" attached to it that feeds everything back into the combustor. The heat content of the coal drives the unit. The mineral matter, when heated to a high enough temperature, turns into glass.

"When the glass forms," says Lafferty, "it has in it all those metals—the lead, the mercury, the uranium, the zinc. They're all locked up in this material that is stable and can be taken to a landfill and disposed of as a non-hazardous material."

Robertson adds that an important part of their research focus during the past year has been to make sure the glass pellets, when buried, don't break down. "We've shown this as a wonderful material for absorbing uranium," he says. "We then made a heap of glass in a combustor at the Institute of Gas Technology and tested to see if the uranium leached out." Using a toxic characteristic-leaching procedure the researchers found that the metals stayed locked up in the glass beads. The process works.

"What I would emphasize," says Robertson, "is that we're using a Kentucky resource that's dirt cheap to clean up a very real problem without creating waste. We're not just taking the problem from big to little—we're solving it."

Kentuckians divided on county merger issue

Should Kentucky's 120 counties be merged into fewer government bodies? It depends on whom—and where—you ask.

Forty-five percent of adults surveyed in a recent poll by Preston Research Group said they favor merging some counties, with 41 percent opposing the move. Seven percent said it would depend on the circumstances and 6 percent had no response.

The poll found strong regional differences in opinions on the issue. In the mostly urban 3rd Congressional District, 61 percent favored mergers, with 25 percent opposed. Respondents in the 6th District favored the move 53 to 36 percent. The more rural 1st, 2nd and 5th Districts, whose smaller counties would be the likeliest candidates for mergers if the idea gains momentum, showed stronger opposition. Mergers were opposed 49 percent to 36 percent in the 1st District, 48 to 39 in the 2nd, and 48 to 38 in the 5th. College graduates favored mergers 57 percent to 34 percent.

The poll surveyed 807 Kentucky adults between October 14 and October 24. The margin of error is +3.5

percentage points. The question was asked in a survey that included proprietary questions on other topics sponsored by the firm's clients. Preston Research Group is a division of The Preston Group Inc., a Lexington-based public relations and research firm.

World AIDS DAY

Floyd County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, surrounded by Floyd County Schools Health Coordinator Jennifer Martin and directors of family resource centers and youth service centers from schools around the county, proclaimed Thursday, December 2 as World AIDS Day in Floyd County.

Red Ribbon Week

Floyd County Schools students celebrated October's "Drug Awareness Month" with a month-long series of local programs and campaigns designed by school faculties, resource centers and councils to help keep kids off drugs.

"Drug Awareness Month" culminated with "Red Ribbon Week," during which students system-wide wore red and participated in art, story and room decoration contests with anti-drug themes. Among Red Ribbon Week activities were a series of anti-drug speeches and performances by Kentucky State Police Trooper Ghomer Prater at Duff Elementary School and a personal visit and anti-drug speech from Kentucky Governor Brereton Jones at Martin Elementary.

On Tuesday, October 11, Brundell the Magician delighted boys and girls at Duff Elementary with sleight of hand magic tricks while conveying a strong personal message on the importance of moral and family values and the need for kids to say "No!" to drugs.

On October 18 at Duff, the Blue Apple Players sang, danced and presented in a program designed to show the ill-effects of drugs on our nation's youth and that children should not succumb to peer pressure.

Other anti-drug theme programs at Duff Elementary included "Wille and the Hairy Man," a play performed for grades K-4; scenes from "Huckleberry Finn" sponsored by the Duff Family Resource Center for fifth through eighth-grade students; and Mark McClintock's ventriloquist act, which travels cross-country to deliver the show "Drugs & Peer Pressure."

Floyd County students' art works featured in exhibition

The artistic works of four Floyd County residents, students at Prestonsburg Community College, will be featured in an exhibition entitled "Search for Truth" at the college art gallery December 5-14.

Drawings by Monette Sturgill, Valerie Banks, Cindy Stephens and Jimmy Artrip will be included as part of the class exhibition.

"These works are more than just subjects; they are the reflections and moods of the artists who drew them," said PCC Art Professor Thomas J. Whitaker.

Nostalgia, fantasy, landscapes and portraits dominate the show, Whitaker noted.

A reception with the artists present will be held on Monday, December 5, from 5:30 to 8 p.m.

The public is urged to come and feast on the "Search for Truth."

DEDICATION WEEKEND AT SOUTH FLOYD HIGH SCHOOL

by Willie Elliott

Former students, teachers, and friends of Wheelwright High School and McDowell High School, do you remember what a good time we had when we had a reunion for our old schools? I know the reception at McDowell was tremendous. I'm sure it was the same at Wheelwright. Those reunions were for us. Now it's time for us to be just as energetic and enthusiastic for the dedication of the Raider Arena at South Floyd High School for our children's sake.

Yes, it's time to move on. No matter how much we loved the Trojans and the Daredevils, they will compete no more—other than in the crevices of our memories. A big weekend for present and future students of South Floyd High School is coming up the 9th-11th of December. The just-completed Raider Arena, sitting atop Raider Mountain, will be officially dedicated.

I would ask one and all to come out and take a look for yourself at the beautiful facility that we have. While the arena is terrific, there is much more to our school. We have up-to-date computer labs, technology labs, and a home economics department that will knock your socks off. The other classrooms have telephones, VCR's, computers, and just about anything one could need to teach a class. You will also be pleasantly surprised at the cleanliness of the place, and it stays that way all the time, not just when we are having visitors.

You will be able to see these labs and rooms, but more than that, you can see students actually doing the things they do on a normal school day: writing portfolio entries on a computer, filming a school segment for the video yearbook, developing and processing film to produce a photo for the local paper or the school paper, preparing catered food for various events. You will have an opportunity to talk to your child's teachers to find out what is going on in his/her school work. You will find that we see things much the way you do: we have darn good kids at South Floyd High School.

Then there will be the special events such as the basketball games to kick off a new tradition of Raider basketball, the dedication ceremonies, and the concert by the Kentucky Opry. (I wish everyone could have been at South Floyd for our first assembly in Raider Arena. It was dynamite!) It will be a whole weekend packed with events and activities for everyone. I plan to spend most of the time from Friday afternoon until Monday morning on Mt. Raider. Come and be with us. It promises to be an exciting weekend.

Years from now, when South Floyd is a powerhouse in basketball (and it will happen), you can fondly remember seeing the first game of that tradition. See you on the hill for a special weekend of activities.

"STLP" at Adams Middle School

The STLP is a program to give students a chance to learn about technology and to teach about new tools with different medias.

Two years ago, the STLP Club at Adams was established by Mrs. Reynolds for students desiring extra time for innovative technologies. Students demonstrate their abilities by using multi media in various ways such as: video production, digitizing pictures through zapsots, and camcorders.

In return, these students are useful throughout the school building such as news "live show," special projects community wide, and extra activities throughout the school year.

Prism provides math, science and technology

Adams Middle School is part of PRISM—Partnerships for Reform Initiatives in Science and Mathematics. PRISM is a state-wide cooperative effort among schools, government, and businesses to provide students with the math, science, and technology skills they will need to compete for jobs in the world of tomorrow.

In the 1993-94 school year, Adams Middle School was designated as a PRISM Model Change Site. At that time, ten schools across the state were given this distinction to establish a state-wide network of schools that are focused on changing the ways that math and science skills are learned and taught. This year, there are 19 Model Change Sites helping to support one another as they establish and implement a five-year plan to provide students with high-level, hands-on experience in math and science.

How could you support the efforts of our school through PRISM? Could you volunteer in a Math/Science classroom? Do you work for a business that could help? To find out more about PRISM and how you can help, contact Adams Middle School at (606) 886-2671, or the Kentucky Science and Technology Council at (606) 233-3502.

'THE TRIP'
(The Final Episode)

Unbelievably, I was sad that we were heading home. Myrtle Beach had been the perfect setting for our bonding session with Mom and the four sisters. Even though I had been treated shamelessly, it had been a wonderful experience for all of us.

"Well, let's get the car loaded," Melinda said after we all had finished our last cup of coffee and took one last look at the beach from our balcony.

"I'll get my stuff together," I offered first.

"No, you just get yourself ready. I'll carry your things to the car," Amanda stated.

"But I want to take my things because I want to see that I haven't forgotten anything."

"I'll do that. You can look later," Amanda said huffily.

Although I didn't verbally object, I grabbed my own bags and carried them to the car. Where did she get off thinking that I wasn't responsible enough to carry my own luggage.

"Let me have that bag," Melinda offered as she lugged my bag into the trunk. "Okay, Mom, let me have yours, too." With that said and done, Melinda slammed the trunk lid and we proceeded back to the apartment to make sure that we had gotten everything.

"Are we ready?" Melinda asked. When no one objected, Melinda turned and we all followed dutifully behind her.

"What are you looking for?" Jenny asked Melinda.

"Do you have the keys?" Melinda asked.

"Why would I have the keys? You had them last."

"You opened the trunk and put our luggage in last, Melinda. You had the key then," Mother said calmly.

"But I don't have them now!" Melinda fumed.

We all returned to the apartment and retraced our steps. No keys anywhere. With furrowed eyebrows we looked at each other and yelled "the garbage!"

Melinda ran down the steps and started rummaging through the garbage. She tore open bag after bag, but to no avail. The keys were not there. That's when she realized she must have dropped them in the trunk.

"Now we'll have to get a locksmith!" Melinda bellowed.

"That's not so bad," I offered kindly.

"Not so bad! Do you want to pay the $60 bucks to get it opened?"

"Oh, it won't be that much, surely?" I questioned.

"Hah! Do you think this is the first time I've ever done this before!" she laughed. "It'll be $60 bucks, if not more."

"Excuse me!" I yelled in retaliation. "I didn't know you were proficient at losing your keys!"

"Calm down, girls," Mother chided softly. "That won't solve anything. Ask the doorman if he knows a good locksmith."

"Thirty minutes later, a van pulled up and a man jumped out and started working with the lock. Five minutes and $30 bucks later Melinda was rummaging through the trunk looking for her keys. "Volia! Here they are! Let's go!" After a three-hour delay, we were finally on our way home.

"I dread going home," Jenny said sadly. "Me, too," I intoned. "Back to the old grind." "I dread it, too," Melinda agreed. "Well, I dread it more than all of you."

"How so?" Mother asked.

Amanda scoffed.

"Because when I go back, people will know I've been with you."

"What are you talking about?"

"I regress when I get with you. I talk funny for weeks and my friends rib me about it."

"Surely you jest, Amanda! What's wrong with the way we talk? You used to talk like this yourself," I stated bluntly.

"Oh, I don't think I was as hicky as you," she smiled.

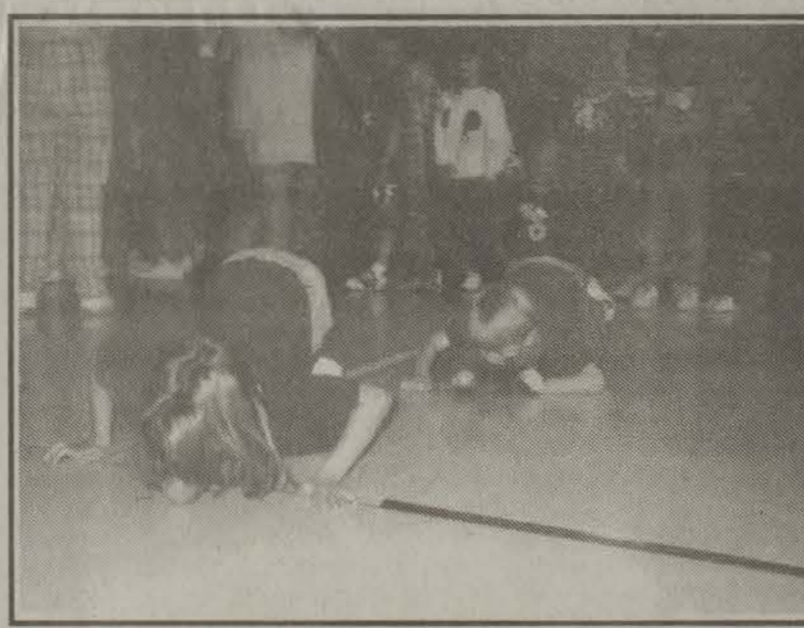

The next time I go on a trip, I'm going with people who like me just the way I am.

Apple Day at Clark Elementary

On a roll

News of the Weird

In November, New York City police arrested the city's most notorious traffic scofflaw, Leroy Linen, 41, after he inadvertently gave them his real name when he was stopped for having only a crudely hand-lettered "license plate" on his car. Linen's driver's license has been suspended 633 times since 1990; when police entered his name into their computer, it took an hour and 45 minutes to print out all of his traffic violations. Still at large in the city are 340 others whose licenses have been suspended more than 100 times.

GREAT ART
-- In February, artist Lars Kraemmer of Vancouver, British Columbia, emerged from a seven-week stint living in a 5-foot-by-5-foot box that had been built using five of his paintings. Kraemmer called his performance

"Retreat" and said he saw dazzling colors in the total darkness -- an inspiration that led him to develop a "new theory" of color during the seven weeks. "One thing it has done," said Kraemmer, "is put me at ease."

CULTURAL DIVERSITY
-- In August, several newspapers reported on the growing obsession abroad, especially in Japan, with Levi's blue jeans from the 1950s and 1960s. As in America, used jeans sell for more than new ones, but in Japan, vintage jeans bring as much as $5,000 a pair. An Associated Press writer noted that trendy Japanese magazines fuel the jeans market by providing readers with "detailed instructions on how to be hip." (Used, sweaty Air Jordan shoes from the 1980s sell for as much as $800 a pair.)
-- The New York Times reported in August on the increased pressure from Muslim mullahs in Iran to outlaw the satellite TV dishes that bring in Western programming, which is more popular among many people than the three religious channels available locally. Among the most popular shows is "Baywatch," quite an alternative in Iran, where even a woman's ankle cannot be exposed. Said one businessman, "We are addicted to shows like 'Donahue.' Today, Donahue had on a guy who has an open relationship with his girlfriend. ... We couldn't believe it. We

by Scott Perry

It may not mean much to you folks who occasionally dash a letter off to a friend or neighbor, but the latest news from the U.S. Postal Service is a double dose of four-letter words that ought to be classified as obscenity of the foulest order.

If you're a major user of the mail, like we are, there are no dirtier words than these...

Rate hike.
Come January, we're going to see yet another increase in postage rates...10 percent for a first class stamp.

Now there's an oxymoron for you.
First class stamp.

Hah.
In the past 30 years or so, the cost of a postage stamp has increased 640 percent.

Out of curiosity, we applied that same rate of inflation to the 1965 prices of some common items, just to see what they would cost today if you had to buy them from the post office, too.

Let's see, with a 640 percent price hike, a gallon of milk today would cost $5.06; a three pound can of coffee would cost $12.74; a pound of hamburger would be $3.78; a ten pound bag of potatoes would cost $5.70; a 21-inch color television would set you back $2,560; a pair of socks would be $8.00; and a copy of The Floyd County Times would be $1.28.

Most of us regular business folks haven't jacked our prices up that high because, well, you folks wouldn't stand for it.

And there's the biggest catch of them all.

The Postal Service isn't all that concerned about what you think of their rates or their service.

They own all the mail boxes.
Well, they'd better wise up.

Businesses like ours which rely so heavily on the mail are getting a bit more than peeved at the never-ending rate increases.

But prices aren't our only concern.

The Postal Service's Domestic Mail Manual has over 700 pages of rules and regulations we have to follow BEFORE we stick a letter or a newspaper in the mail.

Better not make any mistakes, either.

Those cost extra.

You know what's really amazing?

With all the technological advances we've made in mass communications, the U.S. Postal Service seems dead set on raising rates to a point where it'll be cheaper to revive the old Pony Express.

Hi yo Silver, and away!

Later, James was bothered even more by the "coincidence" when Brooke and Ridge said they met Laila, the veiled woman in Omar's life. Meanwhile, Taylor told Omar she was prepared to marry him and stay in Morocco, although she felt no passion for him. Brooke discovered Sally was paying Connor to be Dylan's lawyer. Later, Vanessa and Matt discussed the best way to tell people about their romance. Nadine blurted out to Buzz that she erased the videotape on which he had declared his love for Jenna. Wait To See: Alexandra and Vanessa come to a surprising agreement.

Later, David hired Sam Vance to find the true Lord heir. After drugging R.J., Sheila stole the evidence against Hank. Wait To See: A startled Dorian deals with an unexpected complication.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Rick explained to Mari Jo how he had saved himself from drowning, then told her to tell no one he was alive while he planned how to handle Blade. After learning that her mother's spinal condition was worsening and she would need expensive surgery to arrest the deterioration, Sharon decided to ask Victor for help. Norman entered the Chancellor living room with burglar tools, which he hid when other people arrived. He later threatened Esther he would leave her if she didn't give him her inheritance so he could invest it for her. John was dubious about Jill's claim that she had enrolled baby Billy in nursery school. Wait To See: Jack faces a new challenge from Mari Jo.

Allen Central learned nothing in 108-37 rout of Letcher County

Turner sends Rebels over century mark; Halls nets 27 points

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Allen Central coach Johnny Martin was hoping to learn a little more about his basketball team this past Tuesday night in his team's season opener against 14th Region Letcher County.

Martin was looking for those positive things like how did his team react in a close encounter. How they would play under extreme pressure.

But the Allen Central coach didn't get to view any such thing as the Rebels won in a lull, 108-37.

Did he learn anything?
"Nothing. Nothing at all. I don't think you can learn anything from a game like this," he said.

The Rebels are scheduled to face a favored Paintsville ballclub tonight and a tougher opponent would have helped prepare the Rebels for the game.

"We played them back in the summer and they played us tough," said Coach Martin of Letcher County. "We went over there last year and they played us tough. We did break it open in the last quarter. I thought it would be a better game."

"I think once we got out with a big lead they just quit. They were demoralized and just quit."

Coach Martin said the only positive that came from the blowout was that the bench got to see some varsity action.

"That's it. It helped to get some of the other kids in the game," he said. "If you're looking for positives, that's it."

The starters for Allen Central saw less playing time than the bench and coach Martin said that wasn't good.

"I hated to put them back in the second half but they had only played 10 minutes," he said. "These kind of games can't help you at all. It's not going to help you to get ready for a team like Paintsville."

Allen Central led by 45 points at the half, 63-18 and was up 83-30 after three periods.

"I've never been ahead at halftime by 45 points before," he said. "I didn't really know what to do."

The veteran coach could be seen emotionless (which is a rarity) on the bench as his team ran the court.

Jeremy Hall, in 11 minutes of playing time, led the Rebels with 27 points. He hit six three-point baskets.

Kevin Stumbo tossed in 18 points with a three-pointer. Matt Crawford, off the bench, scored 16 and hit two treys.

The most exciting moment in the game was when and who would break the century mark for the Rebels.

The awaited moment came with 1:37 left to play when Kyle Turner toed the charity stripe with the Rebels leading 99-37. Turner sank the first free throw as the crowd roared. He Success keeps following the Auxier Lady Hornets as they captured their second tournament this season with a 58-32 win over the Lady Eagles of Allen Wednesday night at the Allen gym.

The Lady Hornets won the Allen Invitational after defeating Blaine 63-19 in the opening round.

Shelly Greathouse led the Lady Hornets with 17 points and teammate Tonya Honeycutt added 14.

Jessica Clark (sister of Betsy Layne's Misty Clark) led the Lady Eagles with 16 points.

Tiffany Warrix was held to seven points. "We concentrated on her and wanted to stop her," said assistant coach Jerome Greathouse. "But Jessica hurt us."

"Our pressure defense really got to Allen," said head coach Ashland Gearheart. "We put a box and one on the Warrix kid and slowed her down."

Auxier led 12-6 after the first period as the Lady Eagles would not go away.

Johnson's treys lead Betsy Layne past Paintsville

Hamilton scores 26 points in 68-61 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jessica Johnson came off the bench and drilled two timely three-point baskets in the fourth period to give the Betsy Layne Lady Cats a 68-61 come-from-behind win over a very strong Paintsville Lady Tiger team.

The two teams met in the first round of the Pikeville Invitational Tournament Tuesday night at the T.W. Oliver Fieldhouse.

Betsy Layne coach Bill Newsome said that the first game is always a hard one.

"We played shaky there in the first half," he said. "But I believe it was because it was our first game."

Jessica Hamilton led all scorers with 26 points for the Lady Cats with some of her unusual moves underneath the basket. Misty Clark tossed in 19 points and Johnson finished with 11.

It was a much closer affair than the final seven points would indicate. The lead changed 11 times and it was tied four times. The Lady Tigers had two players foul out.

"We knew they were getting into foul trouble and we talked about that at the half. We decided then that we wanted to take the ball inside to Jessica."

"We set up our out of bounds play and went to her with it. I feel that was the difference in the game," said Newsome.

Karen Hall led Paintsville with 18 points in a strong outing. Hall connected on two three-pointers. Amanda Pinson finished with 12 while Cassie Cooper and Jennie Russell scored 10 points each.

Betsy Layne led 44-42 after the third period but a rebound basket by Pinson and a lay-up at the 7:45 mark of the fourth period put Paintsville up 46-44.

It was then that Johnson, who only had two points at the time, hit a three-pointer at the 7:06 mark and then buried her second with 6:20 remaining to give Betsy Layne a 50-46 lead which they held.

After Hall and Hamilton exchanged baskets, Paintsville turned the ball over on their next four possessions with Betsy Layne scoring on two of the mistakes to go up 57-48 with 4:04 left to play.

Six points was as close as the Lady Tigers could come in the final four minutes and that came when

Adams gets first real test in 60-55 win over Johnson County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Jack Goodman's Adams Middle School Blackcats survived their first real test of the young basketball season when they held off a late Johnson County Middle School rally in the fourth period to post a 60-55 win over the host team.

Joe Campbell led the Blackcats with a 20 point performance but it was the late free throw shooting of Adam Hall and a basket by Ryan

Hardee that sealed the game.

Adams owned a 44-34 lead entering the fourth period. But the Eagles started soaring in the final period and out scored Adams 21-16 to give the Blackcats a genuine scare. The Eagles cut the 10 point deficit to one, 56-55 inside the final minute.

Hall stepped to the free throw line with just 16 seconds showing on the clock and sank two free throws to give the Blackcats a three-point cushion. Seconds later Hardee scored on a fast break which put the game in the win column for the Blackcats.

Campbell hit eight of 13 field goal attempts and was a perfect four-of-four from the charity stripe in scoring his 20 points.

John Ortega followed with 13 points and Hall finished with 10. Kalen Harris, a work horse on the boards, netted nine points, all in the second half. Harris hit five of six free throws in the final period. Ortega had several key assists in the game.

Ortega led the way as 12 players got in the scoring column for Adams. Ortega scored 12 points while Campbell, in limited playing time, had eight points.

Russ Music added six as did Harris. Jeremy Caudill scored six with Todd Kidd tossing in eight to lead the bench.

No one scored in double figures for Letcher County. Chris Slone led with nine points. Bobby Jones added eight and Wallace Bowling scored six as did Tim Ison.

Coach Martin feels his team is ready for the Paintsville game on the strength of two tough scrimmage games.

"It's not like we needed to play another Louisville Moore or Lexington Catholic to get ready. What a game like this means is that we are going have to practice harder and have a good long practice.

"I think this team will play hard against Paintsville. That's a good thing about this team."

Betsy Layne

Pinson hit a three-pointer.

With 54 seconds left to play, the Paintsville bench was whistled for a technical foul. Johnson hit three of four shots from the charity stripe to send Betsy Layne out to a 67-59 lead. Paintsville's final two points came on two free throws by Hall.

Paintsville led most of the first half holding a 26-25 lead at the half. The game was tied only once, at 25, in the first 16 minutes. Betsy Layne held a 25-20 lead before Paintsville tied it.

The Lady Tigers jumped out to a 3-0 lead on a free throw by Jennie Russell and a rebound basket by Susan Russell.

Clark scored seven points in the first period to keep Betsy Layne close. Paintsville led 18-14 at the first stop.

Betsy Layne took their first lead of the game when they scored the first five points of the second period to lead 19-18 on Melena Gearheart's base line jumper.

Jennie Russell had a put back which gave the Lady Tigers the lead back but Clark hit a long jumper and Hamilton scored on two free throws to give Betsy Layne a 23-20 lead.

With 2:44 left, Penny Tackett went solo for a lay-up and the 25-20 margin.

Paintsville scored the next six points to take a 26-25 lead on a free throw by Jennie Russell.

Tackett missed a chance to tie the game and give Betsy Layne the lead when she missed on the front end of a bonus shot with 53 seconds left in the half.

The lead changed during the third period and the two teams played to a 32 tie with 6:04 left in the third period.

Paintsville went on a 6-0 run for a 38-32 lead on baskets by Cooper, Jennie Russell and Hall.

Betsy Layne trailed 42-37 at the 2:27 mark but scored seven unanswered points to lead 44-42 after three periods. Hamilton had two lay-ups and Johnson scored with 26 seconds left to give the Lady Cats a two point lead.

Gearheart finished with five points for Betsy Layne but played a strong game on the boards. Ashley Tackett, in foul trouble early, added three and was a factor on defense. Penny Tackett netted four points.

Susan Russell had seven points for the Lady Tigers. Beth Blakenship and Susan Able scored two each.

While the Lady Cats looked shaky at times, Coach Newsome was quick to point to the reason behind it.

"You have to give credit to Paintsville," he said. "They had something to do with it."

"They played hard and they denied the ball inside. They really caused us some problems. They have a tough ballclub," he said.

The Betsy Layne coach was pleased with the way his team handled the Lady Tigers pressure.

"We only had 10 turnovers in the game," he said. "That's way down from the two panorama's we played."

"I was especially pleased with the way our ballclub played in the second half. They bounced back real good from the first half, regained their composure and played like winners."

The free throw woes of Betsy Layne (41 attempts, 20 made) didn't sit to well with Coach Newsome.

"I think because it is early in the season is the reason we couldn't make them. It certainly isn't because we haven't worked on them. We work on them every day."

Coach Newsome said that he saw some good things out of his ballclub and leadership was one of them.

"I saw some very good leadership out there from the upperclassmen," he said, "especially in the first half."

"Some of the girls out there were acting like a coach and they played with more confidence."

Auxier

phies.

"They play hard," said Coach Gearheart. "I had most of them when they were in the fifth grade. I told them that one day they would be a good basketball team."

A shot in the arm to the girls program this year has been the play of Brandi Wells, Candy Howard, Samantha Cross and fifth grader Mandy Music.

"We are getting more points out of our other players now," said Gearheart.

"Our bench has been playing better and giving some quality time," said Coach Greathouse.

Wells finished the game with 11 points and worked very hard when she was in the game. Howard and Cross control the boards for Auxier and what points they contribute are a bonus.

Cross and Howard finished with four points each, but Music had eight points off the bench.

Valeira Stapleton scored four points for Allen. Amelia Conley had three with Courtney Harris tossing in two.

Shelly Greathouse took home the individual free throw trophy and the Auxier Lady Hornets won the team free throw shooting trophy.

Against Blaine, the Lady Hornets' press had an early effect as they rolled to a 63-19 win.

"I thought the Blaine game would have been more of a challenge for us," said Coach Gearheart. "But as you can see we scored good in the first period."

Scored good is right. Auxier jumped out to a 21-0 first period lead as Greathouse scored nine points and Honeycutt scored six. Wells had four first period points and Howard tossed in two.

Greathouse led the way for the Lady Hornets against Blaine finishing with 24 points. Honeycutt continues to play well and netted 17 points.

Wells, in another strong outing, scored 12 with Howard and Music totaling four each. Cross scored two points.

After the blitz in the first period, Auxier laid back in a zone.

"We didn't want to press the whole game so we dropped back into a zone just to see how the girls would play it," said Coach Greathouse. "It seems they are having trouble with it because they are used to pressing all the time."

Lyndella Smith led Blaine with nine points. Shana Hutchinson scored four. Kelli Graham, Erin Moore and Amy Daniel had two each.

Nothing but net!

Letcher County's Matt Oaks (10) tried to block Allen Central's Jeremy Hall's three-point shot. The attempt was in vain as Hall buried the shot. In fact, he nailed six in the game to score 27 points. Allen Central won 108-37. (photo by Ed Taylor)

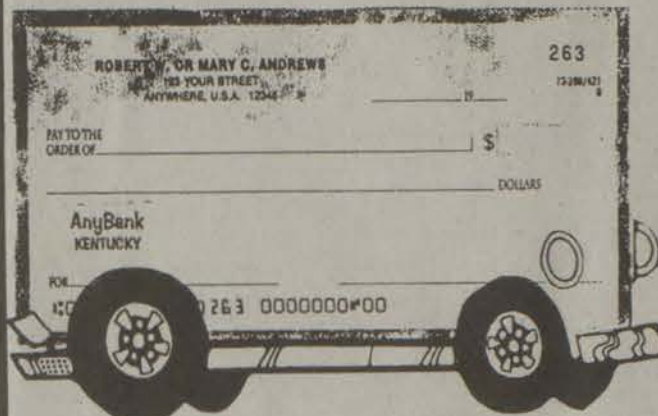

Hits jumper!

Betsy Layne Lady Cats point guard Misty Clark (3) hit a short jumper against Paintsville Tuesday night. Clark scored 19 points as the Lady Cats defeated the Lady Tigers 68-61 in tournament play at Pikeville. (photo by Ed Taylor)

The Weekend Workshop

From The Creative Workshop Of: Edward A. Baldwin

THE SWEETHEART COVERED YARD SETTLE

This week's project is a variation of one my grandparents use in their back yard. They would hold hands and tell us about how things were in the "good old days." I can see my grandmother now—she would clip roses from a nearby rose bush and place them in a mason jar on a table nearby. We kids were never allowed to sit on Grandma's covered yard settle. It was her sanctuary and a very private place for just her and Grandpa. I have never forgotten those days and the love they shared. In memory of those times long ago, I built this heart-motif lattice-covered sweetheart bench for my little sweethearts, ages 3 and 6. This is a weekend project that is really straightforward to make and uses 2x4 lumber for the basic frame with lattice surrounding it. I used pressure-treated lumber and thin plywood for the heart cutout. The cushions are the standard replacement variety that you can buy at most home centers.

You can copy this design or request plans to make it by specifying Project No. YF107 and sending $6.95 plus $2.00 postage and handling to:

For a plans packet of five additional back yard projects including a picnic table, glider, Adirondack chair, rocking sling chairs and a planter bench, ask for Plans Packet No. YF107PP and send $18.95 plus $3.00 postage and handling. For a catalog of over 250 projects, send $3.00.
