Solid waste commission holds its ground on volume restrictions at incinerators :

Medisin threatens suit over waste limits

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Members of the Floyd County Solid Waste board, Monday night, denied a request by Medisin to increase its intake of medical waste, despite implications by Medisin that it will take the matter to court.

Medisin representatives Robert Ford and Carl Breeding asked for a revision to the Floyd County Solid Waste Plan, changing their limit from accepting 10 tons of medical waste per year to 561.6 tons per year. That increase will correspond with its permit from the Division of Air Quality, Medisin representatives said.

Robert Ford, a member of the Medisin board, reported that the company's two incinerators had burned about 400 tons of medical waste in 1993.

"We're between a rock and a hard place," Medisin attorney Carl Breeding told board members.

"You've already burned your limit. What are you going to do with the rest of the year?" solid waste board member David Layne asked Medisin representatives.

Reports filed by Medisin to the state Division of Waste Management indicated that the company had accepted about 107 tons of medical waste for the first three months of 1994.

Breeding explained that the 10-ton per year limit does not allow the company to handle all of Floyd County's medical waste, and that the company had contracts with numerous other medical providers.

"You can't impair the right to contract," Breeding said. "We don't need to be in litigation. Don't put us in a situation where we are in breach of contract."

"We have to exist. The county needs to provide for taking care of its waste. We thought our existing facility was supposed to be grandfathered in," Breeding said.

Breeding said that Medisin had tried to be a good neighbor and work with the state on getting the permit. At that point, representatives of Floyd Countians in Action almost came out of their seats in protest, but at the beginning of the meeting, board chairman Mike Vance had set time limits for each group — Medisin and Floyd Countians in Action — to present their points of view.

Solid waste board member Darrell

Patton asked Breeding if there was any way Medisin had to take Highlands Regional waste before taking another hospital's. The Medisin attorney said that no contracts contained that stipulation, but Medisin was willing to give Highlands priority in writing.

Floyd County attorney Jim Hammond warned board members that if the board required Medisin to Magistrates nix new wheels, hint at money trouble

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Citing—but not explaining—an apparent concern about the finances of the county, Floyd Fiscal Court members voted 3-2 Friday not to purchase new vehicles.

District One Magistrate Gerald DeRossett led off the discussion on buying the vehicles by saying that he would rather prepare for winter than buy new vehicles.

"I'm for canceling the whole thing and not buy (any vehicles)," DeRossett said. "I'd rather cancel the new trucks and buy (snow) scrapers and salt."

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo commented that using snow scrapers could damage the county roads.

"It works in Pike County," DeRossett said, "but it don't seem to work here. I'd rather get that and forget about my truck."

Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams suggested the court delay purchasing new vehicles because of money concerns.

"If we're having problems with the budget, let's put a hold on the vehicles," Adams said.

There was no discussion at Friday's fiscal court meeting about any budgetary issues or concerns.

Magistrate Jackie Edford Owens wasn't too happy with his fellow magistrates' comments and pushed them to approve buying a dump truck for his district.

"I've got an '80 model (dump truck) and it costs more to keep it running," Owens said. "It ain't worth it. I need a dump truck. This county has never had a problem paying its bills."

"If they keep on they will," DeRossett replied.

Adams suggested the court wait until next year and assess the situation.

"I'm against mine and I'm against it all right now," Adams said. "Let's wait until the spring of the year and take a look back at it."

Owens disagreed. "It'll be another winter and you've got a good dump truck," Owens told Adams. "It will put my men in a dangerous position. I think it's dirty."

Magistrate Eral Tackett reminded Owens that he opted to buy a blazer in 1990 instead of a dump truck.

Owens agreed, but said it was agreed at that time he would get a new dump truck in the next round of vehicle purchases.

DeRossett also commented that workers and officials who take vehicles home will be required to pay $3 per day for federal tax purposes.

Owens made a motion to accept the bid for a dump truck and Stumbo seconded it. Magistrates DeRossett, Adams and Tackett voted no.

On Tuesday, Stumbo said that he did not know why the magistrates voted against the purchase and added that there are no financial problems facing the county.

"The magistrates get a financial report every month," Stumbo said. "The question is can they read it? They wanted to put (buying vehicles)

'Debtor's prison' could be result of new garbage law

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County Fiscal Court's attempt to put some teeth into its mandatory garbage collection ordinance may be more bark than bite.

First reading Friday of an ordinance requiring that all Floyd Countians participate in the garbage collection program and pay the monthly fee, outlined criminal penalties and possible jail time for those who do not.

Two local prominent defense attorneys said Monday that the fiscal court has apparently overstepped its bounds by trying to enact its own criminal law.

"There (are no) debtors' prisons in this country," attorney Keith Bartley said Monday. "People don't go to jail because they can't pay their debts. That's crazy. It's not legal in this country."

"By trying to pass a law that people have to pay or go to jail, I believe (the fiscal court) is stepping in the shoes of the legislature."

Attorney Ned Pillersdorf offered the same views on the county's solid waste ordinance.

"I have all sorts of problems with the criminal part," Pillersdorf said. "In my opinion, (the fiscal court) can't get into the crime business. You can't put people in prison that can't pay. It's out of the question to criminalize that."

Floyd County's ordinance calls for up to 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine for customers who do not pay their garbage bills and for landlords who do not report occupancy changes within 15 days. The ordinance does not set any specific datelines for delinquent customers.

At Friday's fiscal court meeting, court members voted 3-1 to hold the first reading of the proposed ordinance, with Magistrate Jackie Owens voting against it.

Owens commented that he did not agree with the penalty provision.

"If (the court) votes for it, it will be for putting people in the county jail for being poor," Owens said. "I'm voting against it because of people on fixed incomes. A lot of people can't afford a gallon of milk. You all voted to put these old people in jail, not me."

County Attorney Jim Hammond told magistrates that a failure by residents to pay their garbage bills would constitute theft of services and it would be a criminal matter.

Hammond added that first reading of the ordinance does not mean it

Mike Vance

Vance quits post to lead trash program

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

When the Floyd County Solid Waste Corporation hired a new director at its meeting Monday night, its chairman of the board resigned.

Board chairman Mike Vance resigned his post when his fellow board members hired him as the executive director after the members came out of executive session.

When a motion was made by board member and vice chairman David Layne to hire Vance to head the office, Vance said: "This position is one I'll accept only after I have resigned from the board."

"I will serve as executive director to keep things on track now."

He called for Layne to take the vote count and also abstained from voting.

Board members praised Vance's accomplishments as board chairman.

"Not enough has been said about the job Mike Vance has done. He's put in a lot of hours of his own time. No other person has the capabilities and the qualifications to do (the job of executive director)," board member Darrell Patton said.

Vance will be paid $1,000 per month for the part-time position. He will be hired on a month-to-month basis. Board members will ask the Floyd County Fiscal Court to pay Vance's salary monthly and the waste board will reimburse the fiscal court on a quarterly basis.

Towler has the first move in school council debacle

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It will be up to the Floyd County Board of Education to remove two parent members of separate school councils who are ineligible to serve if it is recommended by the state education commissioner.

Clarence Risner, who was elected to the Prestonsburg High School council, and Joe Tussey, who serves on the Adams Middle School council, have wives who are employees of the school district and, under state law, cannot be council members.

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said Tuesday that a law passed during the 1994 legislative session gives the local school board the authority to remove council members who are ineligible to serve.

Jim Parks, spokesman for the Department of Education, said Tuesday that if the two representatives do not resign, Towler is to ask the state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA) for an investigation.

OEA is to then make a recommendation to Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen and Boysen then makes a recommendation to the local school board.

It will take a vote by four-fifths of God's Pantry gets room to maneuver

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Last Thursday was a day of celebration for supporters of God's Pantry Food Bank-East.

The food bank held a grand opening at its new warehouse located at 74 Resource Drive in Prestonsburg. Individuals who helped make the new building a reality were on hand for the ribbon cutting and dedication ceremony held at 4 p.m.

John Rhorer, Jr., president of God's Pantry Food Bank, Inc., a non-profit organization based in Lexington, served as master of ceremonies for the informal dedication service. Rhorer introduced individual speakers, ranging from local government officials and citizens to members of God's Pantry staff, who were instrumental in getting the construction project off the ground.

During the program, Rhorer and Mary Jo Votruba, director of God's Pantry, presented an over-sized $1 check to Bob Meyer, program director of Big Sandy Area District Development, as the lease payment for the building. The warehouse, located on Big Sandy ADD property at Cliff, was funded by a $60,000 grant from the Area Development Fund and more than $69,000 provided by other individual, corporate and foundation grants to complete the project.

"It's wonderful. It provides a facility they've needed for years," Meyer said about the expanded warehouse.

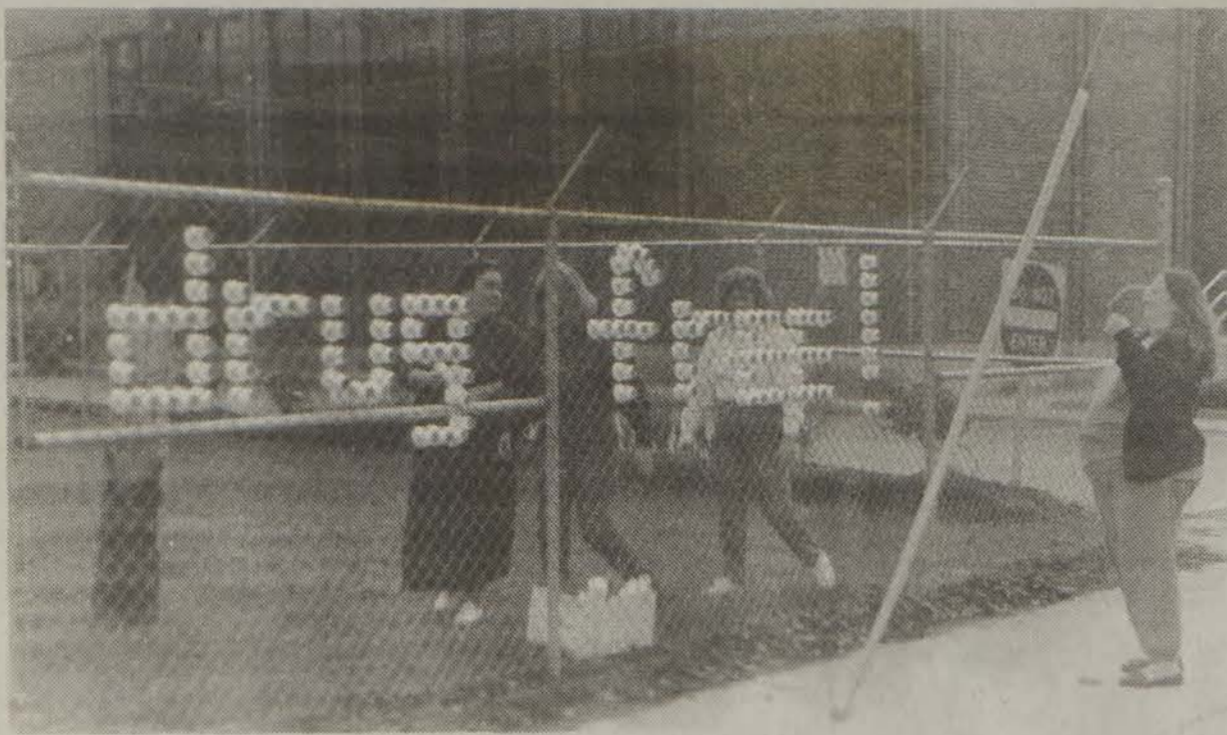

For the past eight years the food bank has distributed more than 2.7 million pounds of surplus food and

Drug task force, FBI seize cash, drugs during search of Perry County home

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

In a follow-up to an October 13 raid by the Mountain Area Drug Task Force and the FBI, agents searched a Perry County home Friday and found drugs, money and weapons.

A federal search warrant was executed Friday for the living quarters of Dave Ray Combs of Jeff in Perry County. Task force members and FBI agents seized $70,010 in cash; an undetermined amount of marijuana and cocaine; a set of scales and an assortment of automatic weapons.

Combs' brother, Troy P. Combs, 44, and George Feltner, 43, both of Hazard, were arrested October 14 by officers and charged with distributing cocaine. Officers seized explosives, automatic weapons, vehicles, cash, a houseboat and an undetermined amount of drugs in that raid.

On Friday, agents executed the warrant at the basement living quarters of Dave Combs at his mother's home behind the Jeff Mart at Jeff.

FBI agents and members of the Hazard Police Department searched the residence for most of the day. Task force director Frank Fryman and Floyd Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson arrived at the residence later in the afternoon.

Dave Combs was not arrested Friday.

After Troy Combs' arrest October 13, Fryman and Thompson said approximately one pound of cocaine a month was flowing into Floyd County from Combs' operation. Thompson added that cocaine was also being supplied to areas surrounding Perry County. Federal drug indictments are expected to be forthcoming in connection with the raid at Troy Combs' residence, Thompson said.

Two charged in shooting at Melvin

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Two Floyd County men are facing first degree assault charges after a shooting incident at Melvin Saturday evening.

Roger Henderson Jr., 18, and Eugene Caudill, 30, both of Weeksbury, are accused of shooting Charles "Chuckie" McCauley, 29, one time in the leg.

Floyd deputy sheriff Bill Howell reported that earlier Saturday McCauley told the officer that the two men had come to his house trying to start a fight with him. Howell advised McCauley to swear out a complaint against the two in the county attorney's office.

The two parties have apparently been having an ongoing dispute, sheriff's office manager Chuck Hall said Monday.

Approximately four hours later, McCauley's father, Kermit, reported to the sheriff's department that his son had been shot in the leg.

Lifeline ambulance personnel responded to the scene along with Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and deputies Linzie Hunt, Greg Clark, Stevie Little and Shawn Roof.

McCauley was admitted to the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and listed in stable condition.

the local board to remove the two from the council.

Also in 1994, legislators changed the law governing the eligibility of parent members of schools councils which disqualifies parents from serving if they have a relative employed anywhere in the school district.

Previously, a parent was ineligible to serve only if a relative was employed at the school where the parent sought to be on the council.

Risner said last week that he felt the law was unconstitutional and discriminated against parents because the same guidelines did not apply to teacher or administrative representatives on school councils.

Risner and Tussey asked the attorney general's office for an opinion on the law and they were answered last week. The opinion says that the law is constitutional and that it does not apply to teachers or administrators on a school council.

"It is our view that (the law) bears a rational relationship to eliminating nepotism and is constitutionally permissible," the opinion says. "...One might argue that teacher members would be just as vulnerable to nepotism and conflicts of interest.

"...If teachers were subject to the same nepotism conflict law as parents it could be difficult to obtain eligible and interested faculty to run for school councils," the opinion says. "Additionally, as the teachers are employed by the school district and assigned to the particular school, their interest in serving on the school council would be much less likely to be seen as favoritism or a conflict of interest."

Risner also received a letter from Charles Edwards, director of school based decision making for the state Department of Education, which said he was ineligible to serve on the council.

In response to those letters, Risner said Tuesday that he will ask Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen and Attorney General Chris Gorman to meet with the Prestonsburg High School council and explain why they are recommending he resign from the council.

Risner is also asking the attorney general for an opinion as to whether a teacher in a school district can serve as a parent representative on another council in the same school district.

Trouble in paradise?

by Scott Perry

Forget the ghoulies, the ghosties, the long-leggity beasties and things that go bump in the night.

We want to know who those guys are who are masquerading as members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

They look like the same guys all right, but they sure are acting strange.

Why, just last Friday they voted against a motion to buy themselves new vehicles, arguing instead for fiscal responsibility.

They said the county needed to spend money on more necessary things...like snow removal equipment.

Hah, we see through this charade.

Where are our real magistrates?

Has anybody received a ransom note?

Okay, enough with the sarcasm.

We should, instead, applaud their newfound concern over county finances.

And, we should commend them for putting themselves first when it comes down to watching the taxpayers' pocketbook.

They didn't have to do that.

We're still years away from another county-wide election.

But they did, and we're proud.

We're also a bit curious.

What's this talk about a financial problem in the county?

That was one reason cited for nixing the vehicle purchases, but no one offered details.

When we asked about the aforementioned money troubles, those in charge of the checkbook said there was no such thing.

The county is in good financial health, they added.

Well, somebody thinks differently and we'd like to know why.

Those who made the allegations ought to elaborate.

Otherwise, we might suspect we're all the unsuspecting victims of a good old game of political trick or treat.

Come out with it.

If there's trouble in paradise, let's look at it square in the eye.

It's our money, too, you know.

Don't you?

Lots of questions— but few answers

Editor:

The article in the October 19 edition of the Times, regarding the jailing of those who do not pay their garbage bills, leaves the reader with more questions than answers.

For instance, do the Lords High of the county (the Fiscal Court) dress in black robes and powdered wigs for their meetings? Do they break for tea? Did Barrister Hammonds (Lord Jim) attend Oxford or some other English law school? Will the delinquent garbage customers be thrown in with the common criminals, or will they construct a special debtor's prison?

Thirty-seven percent of 14,000 is 5,180; who will pay to incarcerate, guard, feed, and supply necessary medical attention to all of these dastardly debtors? Rumpke or the taxpayers?

Even those who agree that people without a pittance or a farthing must be punished, should see that this is an expensive proposition. Why not confiscate their children and let them out as bond servants until the garbage bill is satisfied?

Editor:

Recently attended the Red, White and Blue Parade in Martin and was extremely disappointed in the behavior of some of those around me. I was in a party of five which included two small children, ages 4 1/2 and 1 1/2.

We arrived two hours before parade time with the intention of securing a seat near the review stand where the young children would have an unobstructed view.

We waited with a clear view of the street until the sirens signaled the beginning of the parade. It was then that children and adults alike crowded into the street.

The problem became worse when parade participants began throwing candy. Children who appeared old enough to know better began scrambling for candy. Some were literally in the center of the street, forcing the parade to use only half the street. Some even touched the passing cars, reaching out for candy and verbally taunting those units not giving candy. I was embarrassed by this type of behavior and it definitely limited my enjoyment of the parade. The pervasiveness of the situation really hit home when the four-year-old in my party threw up his hands and said, "Let's just go!" which we did, before the end of the parade.

I have enjoyed the Red, White and Blue Parade for many years, both as a participant and as a spectator. I do not recall witnessing such behavior and was shocked at the lack of crowd control.

I suggest that the practice of throwing candy be seriously reviewed if it provokes such chaos. I also suggest that the streets be roped off to prevent spectators from advancing into the parade route.

Changes need to be made now to restore the quality and pride of this annual celebration honoring our veterans.

Let's stand together

Editor:

Seems like all we hear anymore is the fat cats wanting their garbage bill money. If you've never even used it, I don't think you should pay. There is a lot of people that live alone and all they would have is a few T.V. dinner boxes and the Floyd County Times.

When we had an outside toilet we were so glad to use the newspaper when we got one 'cause it was so much better than catalog leaves. I wonder if any of you fat cats ever had to do that?

Since you have been living off the taxpayers and state welfare, you have forgotten about the poor. The poor people can't have anything, such as 911 or our own garbage hole, because when there is a dollar involved, you get it one way or another, and it's not honest.

When they put you fat cats in jail for not paying your debts to Pike County, then I will walk in and you won't have to come and get me.

If the honest and poor people had stolen what our fats cats have, we would have been locked up for life. We pay our taxes and where it goes, nobody knows.

Did you ever wonder about property taxes? Some of us have a small shack to live in compared to these fat cats that have the mansions. I wonder if they have to pay as much taxes as we do? We ought to check on that. I don't think we should pay school taxes if we don't have any children.

If all the jellyfish in Floyd County would get a backbone, we could stand together and not be pushed around by these crooked fat cats. We could let them know that we still live in the land of the brave, if not the free!

So, let's all remember when election time comes around again and not be foolish like we were the last time.

I am thankful for Paul Patton. He helped us with the seat belt law four years ago.

We should have a little freedom. I think if you have a car and pay for it, you ought to be able to sit your butt in it the way you are comfortable. What do you think?

Our taxpayers, what did you think about the bus wreck on Meade Hill?

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

The law governing who can and who can't be a parent member on school based decision making councils is getting some necessary attention in Floyd County, where a provision concerning nepotism has raised questions about the law's fairness.

According to the law, parent members of school councils are not eligible to serve if they have a relative employed anywhere in the school district.

We would agree that parents shouldn't serve on councils if they have a relative at that particular school, but making them ineligible because they have a family member working elsewhere in the system seems to be overkill on the nepotism thing.

Besides, none of the other council representatives... teachers or administrators... are affected by the same nepotism restrictions.

To be fair, eligibility requirements ought to apply to everyone.

Or, as these particular restrictions are concerned, they should apply to no one.

While we're on the subject of schools, we should note that the state board of education has established a checklist of six criteria that smaller schools must meet to avoid being swallowed up by larger schools in their districts.

The rules give those smaller schools a chance they didn't have before to stave off consolidation.

To successfully fight closure, schools next year must meet four of the six requirements which, in summary, concern pupil transportation times, per pupil spending, curriculum opportunities, building plans, and parental involvement.

Those are important concerns, to be sure.

But the last requirement, which centers on performance test scores, ought to stand alone when a decision is to be made on whether a small school lives or dies.

Schools which meet or exceed academic goals ought to be left alone.

Period.

Constitutional reform is at your fingertips, or will be on November 8, when voters will be asked to decide the fate of a proposed amendment.

At the heart of the amendment is a proposal that could save taxpayer dollars while eliminating a layer of governmental bureaucracy.

The proposal would require local governments to operate under balanced budgets while allowing them to incur debts beyond one fiscal year.

Most governments get around the constitutional debt restrictions now by setting up special corporations to sell bonds, but they pay more for that loophole in the form of higher interest rates.

The balanced budget idea would prohibit governments from spending more than they take in each year, including the costs of bonded indebtedness.

Those two proposals, plus a third that would change the way Kentucky cities are classified, make the amendment an attractive choice for a state that is about to enter the 21st century.

A yes vote on the question November 8 will get things moving.

The O.J. story is running out of, uh, juice as the most-talked-about news of the day thanks largely to the rekindling of His n' Her Majesty's Secret Service, which bears more resemblance to Three on a Couch than it does to double-nought spjynks.

Charles, the Prince of Wales and heir to the irrelevant British throne, has opted to kiss and tell in a recently released biography and the book has shocked, yes shocked, the entire solar system.

The attention the story is drawing is irrefutable proof that not only does love make the world go round, it makes it spin like a top when it's escorted by a nice, steamy scandal.

The ~~tell all could be the end~~ all for Prince Charlie, who may lose his chance to be king because of his exposure as a Romeo.

Say, maybe we could rid ourselves of other pests the same way.

Anybody got any dirt on Saddam's love life?

Pike County couple gains access to grave of daughter

More than two years after the controversy began, Dorothy and Jerry Belcher of Dorton, in Pike County, have won unlimited access to the grave of their daughter, Melissa.

The issue was settled just before the case was to go to trial last week in Letcher County Circuit Court.

The dispute began when Belcher's former sister-in-law, Patsy Branham, refused to allow them to cross what she claimed was her land to get to the hillside grave in Letcher County.

Melissa, a liver transplant patient, died in 1982 at age 12 after undergoing 13 operations.

Before the settlement, the Belchers had limited visitation privileges. —The Lexington Herald-Leader

Goody businessman death investigated

A Goody businessman was found dead by an employee Monday, according to a police report.

Everett R. Thompson, 78, of Williamson, West Virginia, was found lying on the maintenance department floor of his business, Thompson's Pontiac, Buick and GMC in Pike County, according to the report.

Thompson was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Deputy Coroner Mike Hall. The cause of death is pending the results of an autopsy by the medical examiners office in Lexington. According to the report, no foul play is suspected. The death is still under investigation by Det. Jim Booth of the Kentucky State Police, Post 9. —staff report

UK Wildcat's tongue to be altered for taste

The University of Kentucky will alter its sports logo after receiving numerous complaints that the Wildcat's rolled tongue resembles part of the male anatomy.

The logo features a wildcat with its mouth open wide and a roar "rolling" off its tongue.

University officials won't take any current Wildcat paraphernalia off the shelves. But by the end of the week, any new merchandise will feature a modified tongue.

But Larry Ivy, associate athletic director, said there were too many calls to dismiss the complaints. He said the modifications will hardly be noticeable. "The roar just won't troll off its tongue like it used to," said Ivy. —The Courier Journal take in waste only from Floyd County, they were violating interstate commerce laws.

Hammond also explained that Medisin has already filed legal action challenging House Bill 2, which provides local control provisions on solid waste issues.

Breeding agreed that the company had filed suit, but said the legal action had been held in abeyance while Medisin tried to work with the county to increase their limit of waste intake. He said that the company would name the commission, the fiscal court, and the state in a lawsuit which would be filed in Franklin Circuit Court to seek a declaration of rights.

Representatives of Floyd Countians in Action urged the board to leave the plan at the 10-ton per year, 100-ton per ten-year limit. Scott Walker, a spokesperson for the group, told the board that placing the 100-ton per ten-year limit voided the permit with the Division of Air Quality.

Walker explained, under the conditions of the permit, that the permit "in no way exempts this operation from the regulatory requirements of any other federal, state, or local agency which may have regulations that apply."

Medisin does not have to burn all the medical waste, he said, and only 2 percent of the medical waste stream is considered infectious waste. That waste can be incinerated, autoclaved or sterilized and the remaining 98 percent can be handled as solid waste, Walker said.

He read guidelines from the state on how to dispose of infectious waste, such as blood, which could be "carefully poured down a drain, connected to a sanitary sewer."

Medisin representatives disputed the 2 percent figure and said that 15 percent of the total solid waste of hospitals is considered infectious waste.

"I see my family and friends very ill and unable to enjoy their homes," Walker then said. He scoffed at Medisin's reference to being a "good neighbor."

"If Medisin is a good corporate neighbor, I'd hate to have a bad one," he said.

Walker explained to the board its options and the consequences of any decision it reached.

"You can either shoot the roll or do nothing," he said. "If you base the number on the solid waste generated in Floyd County, they will take you to court in violation of the interstate commerce laws."

"If you increase it to their capacity, you're dooming us to a life of misery," he said. "Or, if you go only part way (by increasing it slightly), you're opening yourself to a lawsuit."

Dallas Sammons, a member of Floyd Countians in Action, said Medisin should be trying to reduce its intake of waste.

"If the United States is to survive, if Floyd County is to survive, we've got to reduce the waste stream," Sammons said. "We're a throw-away nation. We throw it away and Japan sends it back to us."

Judy Peterson, an ombudsman with the Cabinet for Human Resources, said the state had given Medisin 30 days to get its permit request consistent with the Floyd County plan. The state gave the company three options, Peterson said. Medisin could revise its Registration by Permit by Rule request, get a written document from the Floyd County board stating they had initiated a change in their plan; or withdraw their Permit by Rule request.

If Medisin fails to select one of those options, the state will issue a Notice of Violation, Peterson said.

Vance will take over as executive director on November 1. His resignation is effective October 31.

In other business at the meeting, the board:

- agreed to hire Debbie Prater to take minutes at meetings and to transcribe them for each meeting of the solid waste board;

- reported that the fiscal court had hired an ecology officer for the board; and

- reported that the office will not be open as often, but an answering machine will be available for customers to leave their messages.

All members were present at the meeting.

Seeks information in genealogical research

Editor:

I was born on the Keathley Fork of Toler Creek in Floyd County in 1942. I started taking the Floyd County Times less than a year ago and enjoy your articles very much.

I am now researching the Keathley and Rogers families of Pike and Floyd County and thought maybe you could help me. I was told the Floyd County Times might have pictures of the Beaver Valley Hospital and Dr. Walk Stumbo, if so I will gladly pay for copies. I am also looking for death records of James Edward Rogers who died at Beaver Valley Hospital around 1938, and also Sylvester and John Rogers who received treatment there.

If Beaver Valley Hospital kept records where would I look to find them? Any information you can give me would be a big help.

Urges equal treatment

Editor:

As a patriotic American and a member of the National Rifle Association, I'm extremely concerned about the way the media has blamed gun owners for the rising tide of crime in our country.

To counter the myths that have surrounded the gun control debate, the NRA's Wayne LaPierre has just written a book entitled, Guns, Crime, and Freedom. This book is available in local bookstores right now.

More than half of your readers are gun owners. I'm writing to ask you to give them the fair and equal treatment they deserve in the pages of your newspaper. And I urge you to begin carrying out this policy immediately, by publishing a review of Guns, Crime, and Freedom.

Thank you for your consideration.

on the agenda. I don't know what's going on."

The court accepted bids last month for four new pickup trucks; a 4-wheel drive sport vehicle; and two dump trucks. The court postponed awarding bids until they could check out the vehicles offered by bidders.

In other business Friday:

• Cow Creek citizens asked the court for help in getting guardrails installed on Cow Mountain. Citizens said they were concerned for the safety of school children who travel over the hill four times a day in a school bus. Stumbo told the group that the county has been trying for years to get the guardrails installed. Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson told the group that the governor has ordered the guardrails installed, but state officials have not complied with the order.

• The court voted to abide by an agreed order with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet to settle a lawsuit regarding violations at the county's old landfill. The agreement eliminates $4.5 million in fines levied against the county by the cabinet. The agreement includes closing the old landfill and installing groundwater monitoring wells.

• Hubert Puckett asked the court when discussions would be held on an ethics code and that he would like to see nepotism and financial disclosure addressed in the code. Stumbo said the code should be ready by the November meeting. County Attorney Jim Hammond said the court would accept public input concerning the code and that at least two public meetings would be held before the December 30 deadline for submitting it to the state. Puckett also commented that it was a "shame" that the meeting room was so overcrowded Friday.

• The court voted to name Lonnie May as the county's ecology officer. May is an employee of the solid waste department and his salary and benefits will remain the same.

• The court voted to allow the City of Pikeville to become members of the Mountain Area Drug Task Force.

• The court tabled a proposal to require all new county employees to pay for family insurance. Hammond told the court that he did not know if the requirement could exclude current county employees.

• The court agreed to allow Highlands Regional Medical Center to use a section of a county road near the hospital for a helicopter landing pad.

All members were present at Friday's meeting.

Pantry

non-food items from a warehouse in Prestonsburg to more than 75 private, non-profit agencies in 10 Eastern Kentucky counties.

The food bank first opened in 1987 in a warehouse donated by the Christian Appalachian Project in West Prestonsburg. In 1991, God's Pantry-East relocated to a leased building on South Lake Drive.

The new 48,000 square foot gray metal warehouse, located on property adjoining the Big Sandy ADD building, is the food bank's first permanent home and it is designed and equipped for the storage and distribution of its products. The building has a loading dock, fork lift, electric pallet jack, cargo van and commercial refrigeration and freezer facilities.

The two previous warehouses lacked refrigerators and freezers, which limited the food bank's inventory to non-perishable items such as canned and boxed goods. The two sites also lacked loading docks and fork lifts. Food items had to be unloaded from distribution trucks by hand, said Debbie Amburgey, warehouse coordinator.

God's Pantry officials estimate that with the expanded warehouse space and refrigeration and freezer facilities, at least 750,000 pounds of food can be distributed to agencies from the site in 1995. These agencies include emergency pantries, soup kitchens, abuse centers, residential programs for the handicapped and senior programs.

Amburgey said that the food bank can add perishable foods, such as commodity butter, frozen products, juices, and milk, to its inventory. "And hopefully, we'll get more donations of frozen products from local groceries," she added.

Since the food bank opened its doors at the new warehouse on August 24, interest in its program has picked up. "We've not really gotten any new agencies," Amburgey said. "But we've given out 20 applications from agencies, and ten phone calls from people wanting to help here and in nine other counties" the food bank serves.

God's Pantry-East distributes food to agencies in Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Martin, Magoffin, Harlan, Knott, Leslie, Perry and Letcher counties.

was passed and the court can receive public input on it.

A second reading of the ordinance must be held and it has to be published before it is enacted. The court gave no timeline or process for receiving public input on the ordinance.

Bartley said the court should be doing the opposite by outlining civil penalties for those who don't pay. He added that he felt the court knows that some people in the county cannot afford to pay.

"The court ought to be looking at levying civil penalties," Bartley said. "And, if they don't pay, cut the service off. The know up front that some cannot afford to pay and they're making criminals out of them from the start. That's just not right."

"This county wants to put them in jail when they know that people, if faced with going to jail, would find a way to pay the bill," Bartley added. "I think (the court) wants their pockets to get deeper and deeper, and that's crazy."

Prestonsburg City Council applies for storm drain grant

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Prestonsburg's city council breezed through a brief agenda Monday, wasting little breath on the approval of two projects that will improve the city's physical well-being.

Council gave unanimous approval Monday to a $10,000 contract with the Big Sandy Area Development District for the administration of grant funds to be used for planning the installation of storm drains in Goble Roberts. The project will be financed by a grant of $167,915 and the city will provide labor as in-kind support.

Council also gave the nod Monday to a project aimed at replacing curbs and sidewalks along South Lake Drive. Funding for that work will be shared by the state, with the city eligible for reimbursements totalling $24,784.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said Monday that nearly a mile of curbing could be replaced with available funds.

Also Monday, council gave unanimous approval to Fannin's reappointment of C.J. McNally to the city utility commission and heard a report from Cablevision's Dan Perry on plans to add three channels to the city's cable television service. Those stations include CNBC, a business channel; ESPN 2, a sports network; and Trinity Broadcasting, a religion channel.

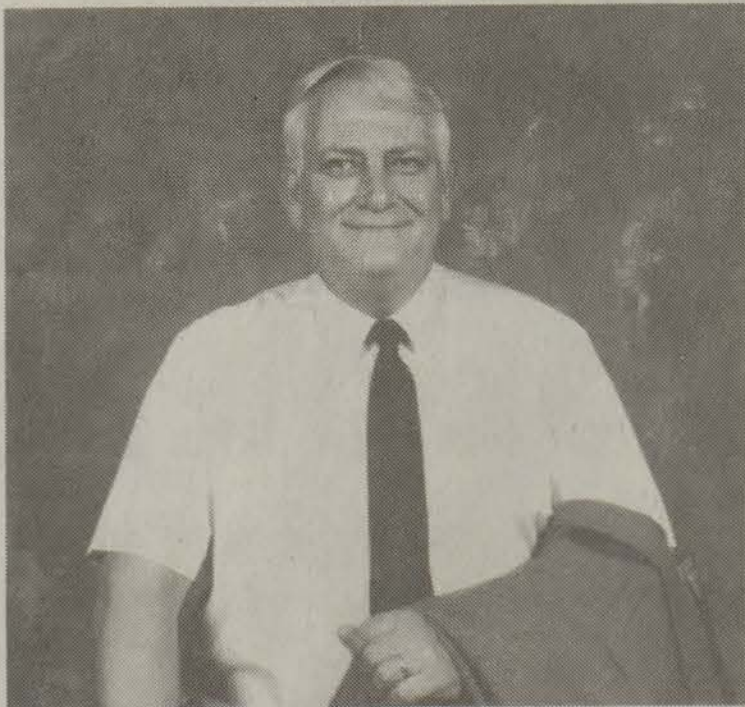

All members but Estill Carter and Paula Goble were present for the 15-minute session.

Floyd County woman to speak at annual Conference on Appalachia in Lexington

More than 45 writers, community activists, filmmakers, social workers, photographers and educators will share their talents at the ninth annual Conference on Appalachia at the University of Kentucky's Student Center on November 3-5.

"Women in Appalachia" is the theme of the conference, which is co-sponsored by UK's Appalachian Center and the Women's Studies Program. About 400 scholars, students and others from the region are expected to attend.

"We chose this theme because poverty, education, health care and many other issues in Appalachia today are being addressed by women," said Phyllis A. Braun of the Appalachian Center. "As leaders of change, women are at the core of public policy in Appalachia."

The two-and-a-half-day event will offer 20 workshops on topics such as community leadership, grassroots women's groups, telemedicine in Appalachia, and images and stereotypes.

Some highlights:
• Floyd County social work activist Eula Hall will speak on her community activism at 1 p.m. on Thursday, November 3;

• UK graduate Bette Peterson will read from her play, "Desert Flower"—which was presented last spring at Horse Cave Theatre's annual New Kentucky Plays—at 7 p.m. on Thursday, November 3;

• Helen Matthews Lewis, director of Berea College's Appalachian Center, will be honored at an assembly on Friday, November 4, at 1 p.m.;

• "Fransonata" by composer Gabrielle Mattingly Gray will be performed on Friday, November 4, at 7 p.m. The play, "Kinfolk, Cornbread, and Hillbilly Women," will follow at 8 p.m.

There also will be photo exhibits, quilt displays, music recitals, readings from plays and prose, and showings of three Appalshop films on Appalachian women, said Braun.

All events are open to the public. Registration for the conference is $35. There is a $5 cost for the Friday evening performances, but other individual events are free.

Local VFW member approved to national committee

Ellsworth H. Stumbo, a member of VFW Post 5839, in Prestonsburg has been appointed to serve as a member of the organization's National POW/MIA Committee, by the Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Allen F. Kent. Stumbo is a resident of Harold.

In announcing the appointment, Commander-in-Chief Kent stated that Comrade Stumbo's record of service and achievement to both the nation and the VFW were the key considerations in making the selection.

The National POW/MIA Committee is responsible for establishing the goals and objectives for the VFW during the 1994-95 administrative year.

The over two-million member VFW is celebrating its 95th anniversary of service to the country's 28 million living veterans and their families.

There are so many people in Floyd County that I wanted to see during this campaign, but being your Circuit Judge has taken a great deal of my time. It would have been easy to continue most of my cases or dismiss the ones with big families and spend all day (on the taxpayers payroll) campaigning. When I took the oath to be Circuit Judge, I promised the people I would do my best to keep their court open and honest. Last week I was on the bench 6 days. That is not a misprint, I worked Saturday, too!

When you read this message, I will be completing my annual training at the Kentucky Circuit Judges' College. Attending this College cut down on my campaign time, but it better prepared me to do my job. A recent survey showed that the people of Floyd County wanted an experienced Judge to handle their court. I gave up campaign time to seek this education to better serve you.

For all you good people that I have not had time to shake hands with and personally ask for your vote, let me do it now. I am a simple man who believes in simple justice for his fellow man.

Please vote for me and I will continue to do my best for you.

For those of you on Telecom cable system, WPRG has invited my opponent and me to a debate and I have accepted. Watch channel 5 for details.

FUNERAL PRE-ARRANGEMENT— MEETING TOMORROW'S NEEDS TODAY

Each year, more people are realizing the financial advantages of pre-planning and funding their funerals. Prior arrangements ensure that individual wishes are followed. Families are relieved of worrisome detailed decisions at the time of bereavement. Often, SSI and Medicaid approved programs are included.

SAVES YOU MONEY

We all know that prices of nearly everything will increase in the future. Through our sensible and reasonable funeral insurance program, you can prepare to assure that the funds to pay for your funeral will be there when needed. You and your family save money today and in the future. No medical physical exam will be required. All ages qualify. And affordable payment plans can be made to meet your needs.

RELIEVES LOVED ONES OF CONCERN

With experience in funeral service to the families of Floyd and surrounding counties, we recommend making these decisions now, with the comfort and support of your loved ones. It is much harder to do when one is alone.

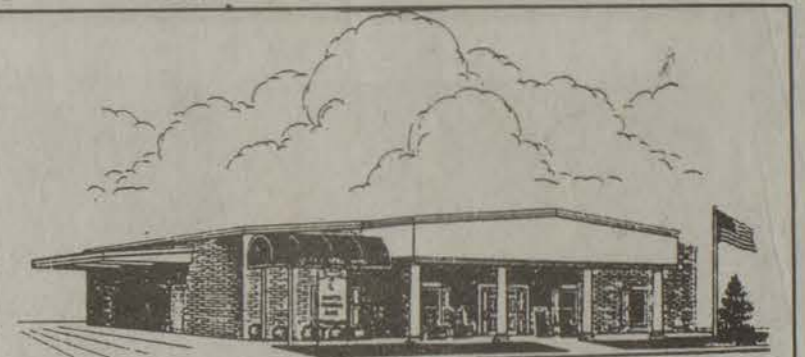

Call today for a meeting with John Hall, or a member of our competent staff in the comfort of your home, or at our funeral home. There is no obligation.

PCC seminar focuses on health care delivery in Eastern Kentucky

"Health Care Delivery in Eastern Kentucky" was the topic of discussion Wednesday, October 12, at Prestonsburg Community College during a seminar organized by Sociology Instructor Craig Mulling's Modern Social Problems class.

Guest speakers included Eula Hall, director of the Mud Creek Clinic; Lynn Weddle, coordinator of PCC's nursing program; and Kelly Adam, director of PCC's Wellness Center.

Mulling began the presentation by noting that access to health care is an issue across this nation, with 40 to 45 million Americans having no form of health insurance. At the same time, Mulling noted, more and more of our nation's GNP (gross national product) has been spent on medical care: three percent in 1935; six percent in 1960; 10 percent in 1985 and 14 percent in 1992.

Eula Hall, director of the Mud Creek Clinic, recalled how dismal the health care picture was in Eastern Kentucky when she was a child. "I've seen so much suffering as a child and as a young adult that I could write a book on the suffering caused by the lack of health care," Hall said. "I've seen people die of pneumonia and nail punctures...that could easily have been treated."

Hall related that when she was growing up there was no electricity, plumbing, Medicare or Medicaid. She said the Mud Creek Clinic was established in an effort to provide basic medical care to those who could least afford to pay; a mission the clinic still pursues to this day.

"I really feel like I can say I've done my part," Hall stated. "I've put in a long 20 years..."

Lynn Weddle, coordinator of PCC's nursing program, used her time to discuss PCC's Student Health Clinic which is targeted to begin operation in January 1995.

She explained how the need for a clinic was researched and validated, noting very high rates of cancer in Eastern Kentucky and high rates of heart disease, strokes, high blood pressure and diabetes. Most of these illnesses can be attributed to diet and nutrition, Weddle noted.

Weddle discussed plans for a new building on the Prestonsburg Campus, the Regional Center for Health Education and Wellness. She noted that while the clinic will be established in temporary quarters, it is hoped the clinic will one day find a permanent home in this new, proposed building.

"We just want to keep getting bigger and making more things available to our students and the community," Weddle explained.

Kelly Adam, director of the Wellness Center, discussed what the Wellness Center has to offer, noting that it is not only accessible to students, faculty and PCC employees, but also to members of the community. Adam said community residents can purchase a Wellness Center membership for only $35 per semester, nothing compared to what one would pay to join a health club. She also noted that trained staff are available to help Wellness Center patrons with one-on-one consultations.

In addition, Adam stated that through application for grant funds, the Wellness Center hopes to offer additional services, such as cholesterol checks to its clients.

Mulling ended the seminar by noting the difference between presenters and the progression of health education through the years. Eula Hall is focused on providing primary health care to those in need, Mulling noted, while Weddle and Adam are focused more on preventive health care.

It's striking the different experiences you all have had, Mulling told the presenters, but you all seem to have a common theme which is thinking of alternative ways of delivering health care or searching for alternative methods to address a common problem.

The session ended with a few brief questions from the audience. One woman brought her own personal experience to the discussion, noting the complete lack of mental health care for children in Eastern Kentucky.

Like all health care issues, there is no quick, easy solution to her problem. Only the hope that by working as individuals, as Eula Hall did, or working as a team, as Lynn Weddle and Kelly Adam do through PCC, we can all make a difference in the lives of the children and future children of Eastern Kentucky.

A matter of health

ENDORSEMENT

Sara Walter Combs presently holds the office of Appellate Judge for the Eastern Kentucky District. She has served faithfully and well in this capacity and has gained experience that will be valuable to her during her next term. She has demonstrated her knowledge of the law and developed a sincere interest in the administration of justice in Eastern Kentucky and the welfare of its people due to her association with Bert Combs, her late husband.

Although, this may appear to be an unimportant office and not much interest is shown in this election, the life, liberty and property of every citizen and the direction of the progress of our area is dependent upon the judicial system. Sara Combs is, by far, the most qualified candidate for this office because of her experience and legal qualifications. She deserves to be elected for another term. Bert Combs is not here to ask you to support Sara, but he would want you to support her. She deserves it.

Thanks,
Woodrow Burchett

Jim Clayton

Clayton CEO on Forbes 400 List

For the third consecutive year, Clayton Homes Inc. founder and CEO Jim Clayton has been named to the Forbes 400 List of richest Americans.

Clayton, 60, ranked number 333 on the list with an estimated wealth of $350 million, according to the October 17 edition of Forbes magazine.

Clayton Homes is the nation's largest retailer and the fourth largest builder of manufactured homes. The company builds, sells, finances and insures manufactured homes and operates communities in a 27-state market, including one retail sales center in the Harold area.

Clayton, the son of a West Tennessee sharecropper, recalls of his childhood: "Plowing, hoeing, picking cotton and just having to work that hard for survival taught me the importance of a strong work ethic and that I wanted to do more than farm."

He studied engineering at the University of Tennessee while working at a local television station and buying and selling cars through classified advertisements. By graduation, his sideline business was more profitable than his television station job.

Clayton opened his first car dealership in 1956 and then branched into manufactured home sales in 1966 and manufacturing in 1970.

Clayton was elected into The Horatio Alger Association of Distinguished Americans in 1991, the same year that the association inducted Harold Poling, chairman of Ford; Stan Musial, baseball Hall of Fame honoree; and General Colin Powell, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Clayton Homes now is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and employs more than 4,000 people nationwide in the company's 14 manufacturing plants, 171 retail sales centers, 47 manufactured home communities and its finance subsidiaries. For the fiscal year ended June 30, Clayton reported $628 million in revenue and $72 million in net income.

Home energy program to take applications

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. announces its operation of the Home Energy Assistance Program funded through the Cabinet for Human Resources' Department for Social Insurance and the Kentucky Association for Community Action.

The Subsidy component of the program will begin November 7, 1994, and will run through December 12, 1994. Applications will be taken by the last name of the head of the household as listed below from 8:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. at the Allen Park Convention Center, Swimming Pool Building, Allen Park, Allen.

To be eligible, clients must apply in the county of residence, meet the 110 percent poverty income guidelines, not have liquid resources in excess of $1,500 and be responsible for home heating costs, directly or as an undesignated portion of their rent.

Applicants will be required to apply in person, or have a person designated, in writing, to apply for them. No appointments will be made by telephone. All eligible households that apply will receive assistance. Applicants must provide proof for all household members: 1) Social Security numbers and birth dates; 2) Income for the previous month; 3) The primary and secondary heat source.

Any vendor desiring to participate in providing coal, wood, kerosene or fuel oil for clients must contact the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. office in Allen no later than October 31, 1994.

For further information, contact the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc., at Allen, 874-2965; Central Office in Paintsville, 789-3641; or the Kentucky Association for Community Action Hotline Number, 1-800-456-3452.

CAP founder to speak at foundation reception

Father Ralph W. Beiting, founder and chairman of the board of directors of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP), will be the guest of honor and speaker at The Housing Foundation's reception during the 11th Annual Governor's Housing Conference.

Father Beiting founded CAP in 1964 to relieve the poverty—financial, physical and spiritual—of Appalachia. In three decades the non-denominational group has repaired people's homes, brought them food and clothing, helped them get medical care, taught them to read, sheltered their children and abused spouses, run summer camps and workshops, supported small businesses and much more. He is well-known for his work in Floyd.

Today, CAP has a budget of $15 million, employs 400 people in an area plagued by high unemployment, and touches 100,000 people a year in 13 of Kentucky's Appalachian counties. Father Beiting has been honored with many awards, including the Governor's Outstanding Kentuckian Award and the Good Samaritan Award from the National Catholic Development Conference.

In his book Appalachia... A Special Place... A Bridge of Hope, Father Beiting wrote:

"If we can give people hope, if we can end the poverty of the spirit by building bridges of love and friendship, the Appalachian people will rise up and become real partners in the struggle to end the physical poverty they face."

The Housing Foundation is a non-profit, charitable organization dedicated to meeting the unique housing needs of low-income families including the homeless and near-homeless, single parents, people with disabilities and the elderly. The Foundation provides matching funds and technical assistance to local organizations who have found creative ways to help their low-income neighbors find or keep decent, affordable housing. Recently The Housing Foundation has been a partner with the Christian Appalachian Project building homes in several Eastern Kentucky counties.

The reception will be held at 5 p.m. on Thursday evening, October 27, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Louisville.

Health purchasing alliance seeking candidates for five-member board

The Kentucky Health Care Reform Law created a statewide health purchasing alliance to purchase health care services and provide administrative and informational services to its members.

Beginning July 15, 1995, the Alliance will be operational, having contracted with insurance companies and health care providers to procure health services for Alliance members. These services will be available in every part of the state. Because of its size and the statewide presence, the alliance will be able to negotiate competitive rates and require providers and insurers to submit data to measure the quality of the services provided.

The Alliance will include as of July 15, 1995, all state employees (mandatory) and individuals and also businesses of fewer than 100 employees and groups of fewer than 100 members who choose to participate. As of January 1, 1996, the Alliance will include public health department employees, school district employees, local government employees, judiciary employees and state higher education employees.

The Alliance will be governed by a part-time five-member board representing consumers and employers. The members will be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. They must have expertise in business, finance, economics or health benefits management.

Board members may not be nor have been: (a) health care provider or health insurer; (b) an employee of a health care provider, health insurer, or health plan; or (c) a person having fiduciary relationship to a health care provider, health insurer or health plan.

The Board will hire an executive director and staff to manage the Alliance. Board members will be required to prepare for and attend frequent meetings, particularly in the first year of operations. Members will be reimbursed for actual expenses, but will receive no other financial compensation for their services.

Persons interested in serving on or with the Board should contact Frank Hamilton, Director of Boards and Commissions, Office of the Governor, 700 Capital Avenue, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 (FAX-502-564-2517), by October 16.

Terrapin trots at Our Lady of the Mountains

"I've always known if I prepared myself physically and mentally that I could triumph, no matter how trivial or tremendous the task set before me...self-control and finesse are the tenets I live by."

These were the words spoken by the humble Brushin' Bandit in an exclusive interview following her victory in the eleventh annual Terrapin Trots held during the Apple Festival at Our Lady of the Mountains School in Paintsville. We caught up with Brushin' Bandit as she completed her dental hygiene regimen in the privacy of her green custom-made racing trailer. "This is my third victory of the Great Green Mile in the past several years. Can a fourth be far behind?" she said.

Brushin' Bandit, sponsored by Dr. Anita Hale of Prestonsburg, won the Apple Day race by trotting faster than the other fourteen heat winners in the Great Green Mile. The winning time was one minute, fifteen seconds.

"Terminator," sponsored by Joshua Wells of Paintsville, easily crawled into second place with an impressive time of one minute, thirty seconds. "I've never seen a turtle with such incredible determination to reach a destination. The dedication Joshua displayed in the preparation of this turtle deserves recognition," Cathy Zik, co-chairperson of the Trots was overheard saying as this reporter lurked outside the Turtle Central offices.

"Jet-E-Bo," sponsored by the Johnson County Court Clerk's office, meandered to the green fringe for third place after four minutes, thirty seconds. "There's no rush," the confident Jet-E-Bo called over her shoulder. "I've got all day."

All three winners received the coveted Terrapin Trot ribbons suitable for pretentious display in a prominent place in the home or business, as well as cash awards. Heat winners received a ribbon suitable for use as a bookmark and no money. Losers enjoyed the thrill of sociable competition. For the frenzied group watching the Trots, the excitement was electrifying. "I'm shocked! This is quite an outlet for anyone having excess energy!" one said.

Dr. Tim Webb, a local podiatrist and announcer for the Trots told us, "I could tell when I sounded the Call to the Post on my trombone that it would be an exciting race. The turtles seemed to want to get away quickly. It's no surprise to me that Brushin' Bandit won by a foot!"

Sister Christen Shukwit, principal at Our Lady of the Way Mountains School, became emotional. "Each year I am touched by the terrific trottery trotted out during the Apple Day festivities."

Myra Summers, the other co-chairperson for the Trots concurs, "Eastern Kentucky is fortunate to have naturally talented terrapins in abundant supply."

Altogether there were over 300 terrapins entered by businesses, civic organizations, the medical community, schools, churches, financial institutions and individual racers.

Ammendment on the ballot for November

Floyd Countians will be asked to vote on one amendment to the state constitution when they go vote on November 8, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage.

Voters will be asked if they wish to amend the state constitution to require cities, counties and taxing districts to adopt a balanced budget prior to each fiscal year.

If passed, the amendment would prohibit these local government taxing units from spending more than they take in each budget cycle.

The amendment would also allow the General Assembly to classify cities based on factors other than population alone. Currently Kentucky has six classes of cities which are determined by population.

If passed, the amendment would also allow the General Assembly to authorize cities to exercise any power or function that furthers a public purpose and does not conflict with any constitutional or statutory provision.

With voter approval, the amendment would also allow the General Assembly to make laws regarding the existence, boundaries, form of government, functions and officers of cities.

Elementary schedule allows for extra tournament

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Elementary Athletics Committee met on Monday, October 17 at the Floyd County School Board Room in final preparations for the upcoming grade school basketball season.

In a motion from Maytown coach Rick Hancock and seconded by Adams Middle School Charles Collins, the Committee voted to extend the number of tournaments each school could take part in while keeping the number of regular season games intact.

Last season each school was permitted to play 16 regular season games and three tournaments other than the regular county tournament held at the end of the year.

The Committee allows, this year, each school the chance to take part in four tournaments and 16 regular season contests. The motion passed 14-

The Mountain Christian Academy wanted to be included in the county's rotation schedule but the county seemed to be split over the move.

Bobby Hackworth made a request that MCA be included in this year's schedule but the motion died from a lack of a second.

After much discussion, a motion was made to hold a vote by ballot in order to reach an agreement on the MCA issue. When the ballots were counted by Elementary Athletic Director Brent Allen and County AD Frankie Francis, there were seven yes votes and seven no's.

In another issue involving MCA, each elementary principal was polled to see if they were in favor of MCA hosting the sectional tournament (Section One). Upon tabulation of the votes (October 24) the motion was denied by 12 no's and only one yes. McDowell is the only school to vote yes.

In other committee actions:

- Any student that turns fifteen (15) years of age prior to August 1 of that school year is ineligible to participate in grade school sports. This being in line with KHSAA rules.
- No eighth grade athlete can play on "B" team unless both coaches are in agreement.

- Officials for the county tournament will either come from the 14th, 15th or 16th grades.

- Each school was urged to solve their own cheerleader problems at the school.

- Each team was encouraged not to slaughter a team who "does not have the ability that your team has."

- All athletes must have insurance and a physical.

In a meeting held on October 10, the Committee voted to run the elementary girls' basketball season con-

Betsy Layne eases past Elkhorn City on Senior Night

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Last year, the Betsy Layne Bobcats' football team enjoyed one of the more successful seasons the school has had since starting their football program back in the early '80s.

Coach John Derosses' ballclub, last year, posted a 5-5 season and might duplicate that this season.

The Bobcats won their fourth game of the season this past Friday night when they handed visiting Elkhorn City a 24-12 setback.

Senior running back Rocky Hamilton went over the 1,000-yard mark after rushing for 202 yards against the Cougars. Hamilton carried the football 25 times in the game.

When the Bobcats took the opening kickoff, you could tell that things were going to go their way. Betsy Layne took the opening kickoff on their own 10-yard line and marched 90 yards behind the running of Rocky Hamilton and Brent Akers. Hamilton concluded the drive with an 8-yard touchdown run that gave the Bobcats a 6-0 lead.

Betsy Layne maintained the 6-0 lead at the half and added their second touchdown in the third quarter. Quarterback Craig Hamilton took the ball in from 4-yards out to make it 12-0.

The Cougars got on the scoreboard in the fourth quarter when Kenny O'Quinn plunged over the goal line from 1-yard out to make it a 12-6 game.

But Betsy Layne got the touchdown back when Rocky Hamilton scored his second TD of the game, a 23-yard run that put the Bobcats in front 18-6.

Elkhorn scored their final touchdown on an 18-yard run by Jason Smith to make it an 18-12 game.

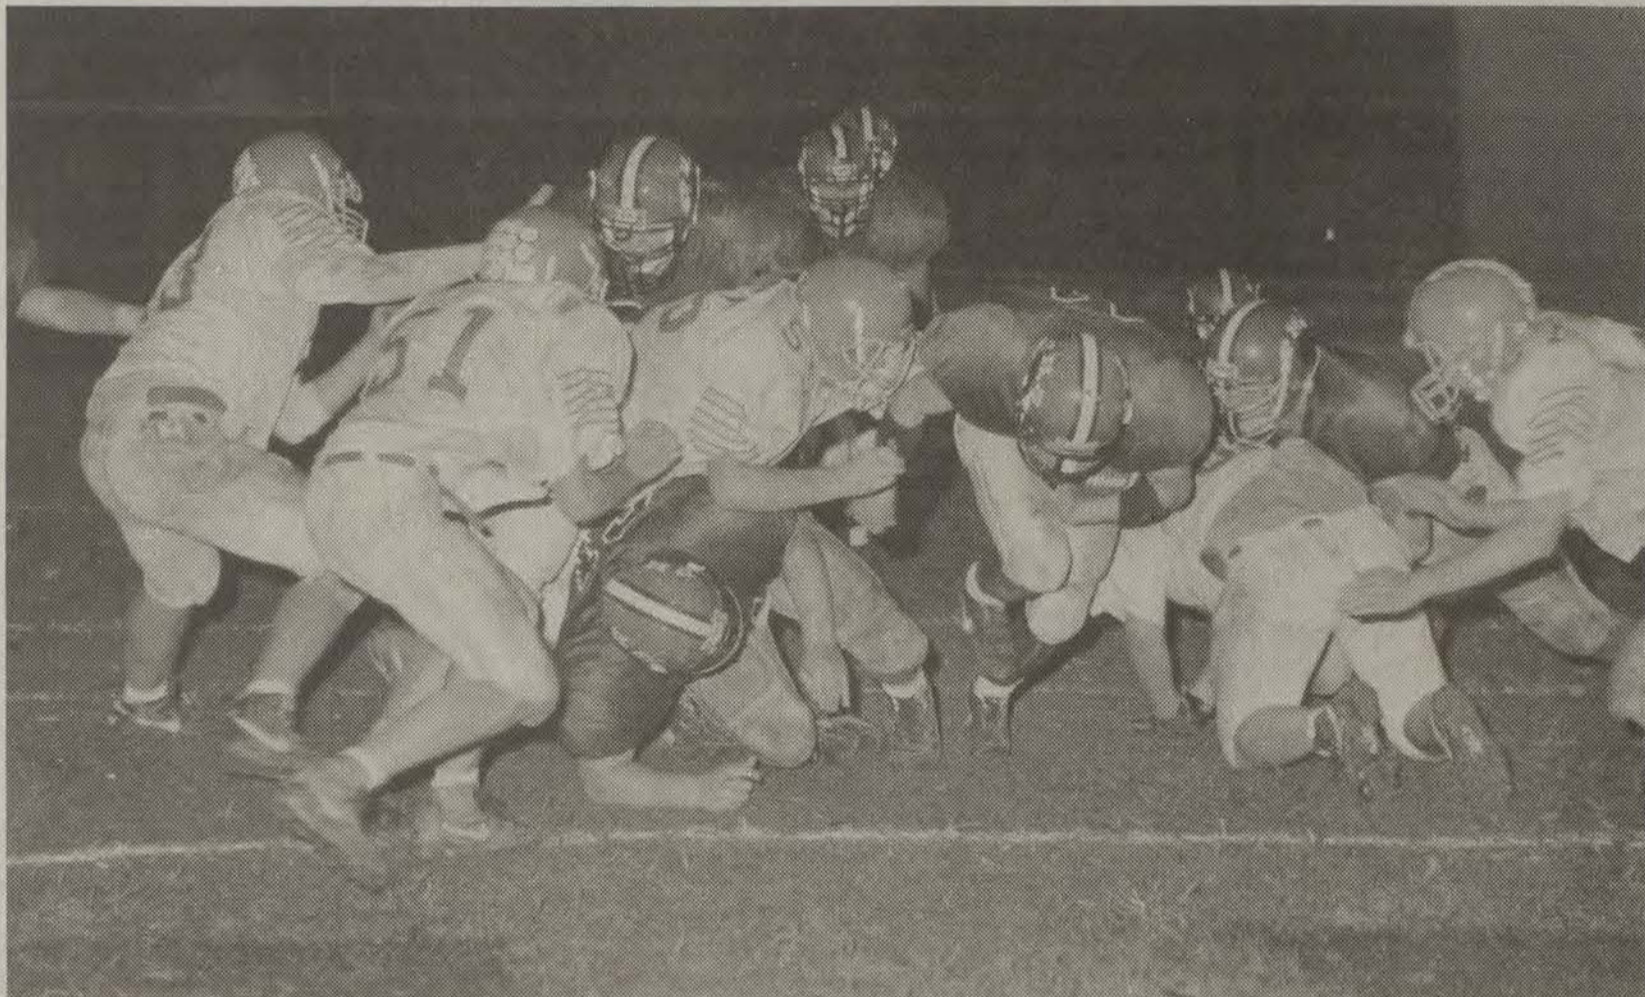

Craig Hamilton finished off the Betsy Layne scoring when he plunged across the goal line from the 1-yard line.

Rocky Hamilton was outstanding moving the football as he challenged the Cougars front line.

Akers finished with 77 yards rushing on 14 carries. Craig Hamilton only carried the football twice for only 4 yards but both carries netted the sophomore quarterback two touchdowns.

Hamilton completed 2 of 5 passes for 64 yards passing. Willie Meade

Key block!

Jason Spencer (lower left) threw a key block against Morgan County that permitted quarterback Thomas Ratliff to score in the first quarter against Morgan County this past Friday night. Ratliff scored from 1-yard line. He kicked five PATs in his team's 41-28 win over the Cougars. Prestonsburg clinched a tie for second place in the district and will travel to M.C. Napier this Friday for their final regular season game. The Blackcats will host either East Carter or Lawrence County November 4 at home in the first round of the regional playoffs. Blackcats clinch tie for second place

Prestonsburg rolls past Morgan County Cougars 41-28

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats took one more step toward wrapping up second place in District 2 as they posted a 41-28 win over the Morgan County Cougars this past Friday night.

While the second half wasn't as impressive as the first, Prestonsburg had their way against the Cougars and built a comfortable lead, 21-7, at the half.

Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton played his junior varsity most of the third quarter and all of the fourth as the Cougars managed to comeback and make the game more respectable.

Sophomore Jon Morris continues to thrill the crowd as he bounces off one defender and then another while running the football.

He finished with 73 yards rushing but saw very little playing time in the third quarter. He scored two touchdowns against Morgan County. He is a good runner who did not run the football much in the season's first three games.

The Blackcats' defensive line wreaked havoc on Morgan County as they allowed the Cougars only 45 yards on the ground (unofficially).

Junior quarterback Danny Deborde showed why he has gained a lot of respect this year as he shredded the Blackcats secondary for 236 yards passing. He threw for two touchdowns.

Prestonsburg scored on their first two possessions in the second half to build a 34-7 lead and carried that margin into the fourth quarter.

Against the Blackcat junior varsity, Morgan County struck for their second touchdown with 4:45 left in the game as Deborde hit Willie Lindon for a 48-yard touchdown pass and the PAT made it a 34-14 game.

Matt Laferty, a sophomore, broke a couple of would-be tackles on a sweep to the left and galloped 52 yards for a touchdown and Thomas Ratliff added the PAT for a 41-14 Prestonsburg lead with 4:07 remaining.

The crowd started thinning out as the lead went to 27 points. But the Cougars, with their varsity intact, scored twice more to make a game of it.

After the Laferty run, Wade O'Connor took the kickoff and returned the football 72 yards before he was brought down at the Prestonsburg 1-yard line by Josh Setser. Deborde, on a quarterback sneak, scored and the PAT made it 41-21 with 3:31 to

Monkey is off back as South Floyd rolls 20-6

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

One of the South Floyd assistant coaches stated that "it was like getting a gorilla off your back," after the Raiders snapped an 18-game losing streak.

South Floyd won for its first time since Wheelwright and McDowell consolidated last year. The Raiders were 0-10 last season and had lost their first eight games this year.

The Raiders posted a 20-6 win over McCreary Central this past Friday night and it was an elated coach Donnie Daniels, who would like to finish the season on a winning note.

"I'm happy for the kids and the program here at South Floyd," he said. "It's not like getting a monkey off your back, but as one of my coaches said, more like getting a gorilla off your back. It was a good win for us and the kids needed it."

Adam Wright led the Raiders' offense with 69 yards rushing on 17 carries. Wright scored a touchdown and a conversion.

Aaron Hall had 34 yards on 10

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISHES...

Bonita Compton, a belated wish. Her players would not tell her age. But, a belated happy birthday wish to Coach Compton.

Allen Central's Veronica McKinney celebrated her 17th birthday recently. A big happy birthday wish to 'Roni.

To Betsy Layne's Stewart Hall, a belated happy birthday wish from this sports editor. Hall turned 16 on October 19.

Happy birthday greetings are sent out to Betsy Layne's

Shawn Keathley, who turned 16 yesterday (Tuesday).

Happy birthday to Coach Compton, Veronica, Stewart and Shawn.

If you have an athlete you want to send birthday wishes on to, let me know in advance. But if you forget, call me anyway.

PITINO HYPE...

If you are like me and have been reading all the hype that Kentucky coach Rick Pitino has been dishing out about this year's Wildcat team, then you have to be as excited as I am about the upcoming season.

But, I have found if we get all charged up we may be in for a let down. The only thing I wish to know for sure about the Wildcats this year is, can they beat Arkansas and Florida?

Coach Pitino says this will be the best Kentucky team he has coached. Now, that is saying a lot after the two seasons before last year's disaster.

The mood across the county is basketball and more basketball. Everyone I talk to, who loves sports, is ready for basketball and more basketball.

I started making my rounds of the practice sessions and Monday I stopped off at Allen Central to talk with coach Johnny Martin and Coach Bonita Compton.

The Rebels are waiting for three of their top players to get the football season over with (this Friday).

Sophomore Thomas Jenkins, Beau

Tackett and senior Kevin Stumbo are currently with the football Rebels.

Jason Bevins suffered a sprained ankle while I was at the practice. Now, Jason it wasn't my fault.

Rocky Newsome, former Betsy Layne sophomore, has made the transfer from the Bobcats' court to the Allen Central gym.

Rocky was practicing with the Rebels on Monday. He looked impressive. Here is a kid that has loads of potential. I followed him when he played Junior Pro basketball and the state tournaments that he helped the Martin program to win.

I hope Rocky has a great sophomore year no matter where he plays. He is a solid basketball player and could really help a ballclub if he gets his mind on the game. Good luck, Rocky.

MUCH WORK AHEAD...

This year, for our basketball tabs, we are doing a separate one on each school. We want to look at the boys' and girls' teams as well as feature each cheerleading group. Also we will feature a look at a former player from each school. The tabs will feature schedules as well as team rosters.

ELEMENTARY SCHEDULES NEEDED...

We appreciate all the grade school teams that have sent us their schedules for the upcoming season. But there are still some that we haven't received.

If you want your games announced in the sports section, you need to let us know when you play.

I'm looking forward to the grade school basketball season. We are planning to put out a special tab on the upcoming grade school season and that is another reason we need schedules.

GRADE SCHOOL FOOTBALL ENDS SATURDAY...

The elementary football season comes to a close this Saturday when all conference teams gather at Allen Central for the Girdiron Classic.

Go out and support these kids. They have worked hard all season.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Roll your clocks back this Saturday night before you retire for the evening.

Allen Central

The lead was short-lived as wide receiver Thomas Jenkins pulled in an Adam Coleman pass for a 2-yard touchdown completion. Again the Rebels failed to convert the extra point but led 12-7.

Behind the strong passing arm of Caba, the Hornets marched up field and Caba ran the football into the end zone from 1-yard out and then added the PAT to give the Hornets a 14-12 lead.

Allen Central's defense picked up against the passing of Caba. Allen Central mounted a drive that culminated when James Osborne scored on a 4-yard run. Coleman hit Kevin Stumbo with a pass to complete the two-point conversion and Allen Central had a 20-14 halftime lead.

Neither team scored in the third quarter. But in the fourth, the Hornets' Jamie Wages, returned to the Hornets after being out with a pre-season injury, caught a Caba pass for a 6-yard touchdown that tied the game at 20-20. Caba missed the extra point attempt.

It was the fourth game of the season in which the Rebels held the lead going into the fourth quarter, only to see it get away. But this time the Rebels felt that the game should have gone into overtime.

"It was a terrible deal for us," said a disappointed Coach Reeves. "On the merits of the kid's performance, as far as I'm concerned we tied the game. The officiating hurt us."

Osborne led the ground game for the Rebels with 77 yards on 13 carries. Tackett finished with 64 yards on 15 attempts. Josh Reeves had 28 yards rushing on seven tries.

Coleman completed 9 of 23 pass attempts for 144 yards. He was intercepted three times.

Jenkins was the leading receiver for Allen Central with three receptions for 48 yards. Tackett had one catch for a 44-yard gainer. Kevin Stumbo pulled in three catches for 38 yards.

Bubba Osborne was ejected from the game for Allen Central and will miss the final regular season game this coming Friday night. The Allen Central coach thought his defensive standout got a bad call.

"He was trying to get about three players off top of him and the officials said that he was throwing punches. So, they ejected him," said Reeves.

Allen Central failed to move the football in the second half and could not get into striking distance of the goal line.

"We just didn't get to run the number of plays that we would like to have," said the Allen Central coach. "I like for us to run 25 to 30 plays per quarter. But we couldn't."

"In the first quarter we ran 17 running plays and had seven passing plays. But in the third quarter we only ran nine running plays and had six passing plays. In the fourth quarter we only had four running plays and six passing plays. We stayed on defense," he said.

Paul Varney led the Rebels defense with six solo hits, two first hits and one quarterback sack. Matt Varney had six solo tackles and one first hit.

Josh Reeves had one solo hit, three first hits and a sack. Levi Wells had four solo hits, two first hits and an assist.

"Our kids did an excellent job," said Coach Reeves. "We had their passing game down but we had problems in locking on to their fullback."

Coach Reeves said that mathematically his ballclub still has a long shot at a playoff berth but much will depend on the South Floyd/Elkhorn City game.

"If South Floyd beats Elkhorn and we can win over Phelps then there would be a four way tie for fourth place. We then would get the bid because of the point system."

Allen Central will host the Phelps Hornets this Friday night in senior night at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex. The senior night festivities will get underway at 6:15 p.m.

"We wanted to start early so the team will have more time to warm-up," said Coach Reeves. "This is a big game for us."

Rebel Note!
• When Allen Central and Phelps met last year, it was a battle for a playoff berth. Phelps won the game on, you guessed it, a controversial field goal.

The Hornets kicked a field goal in the final seconds of overtime to defeat the Rebels 38-35.

current with grade school football next year. Each school will be eligible to begin practice the first day of school.

Also, the sectional tournaments will begin the fourth week of January (weather permitting). Winners and runners-up will advance to the county tournament.

Dr. Stephen Towler, Floyd County Superintendent, opened the October 10 meeting by declaring that "any rules from the past are no longer in effect."

Dr. Towler urged the committee to decide the qualifications for the County Tournament as well as setting a game limit.

Towler told the committee to avoid games on Thursday nights if either of the schools involved have an academic meet scheduled.

Bob Watkins

UK fans ... back in the Comfort Zone; Is Blevins the next Damon?

That was only the advance party peering into the flashing psychedelics and rock music thumping in Memorial Coliseum last week.

Kentucky fans move back to the Comfort Zone, the Coliseum. A place where madness is expected behavior, high expectations soar with eagles, and the basketball team is the only thing that can possibly eclipse a trial in Los Angeles.

And why not rampant optimism when Da Coach has a roster that looks like a wish list for every college boss this side of Fayetteville?

For Rick Pitino, it's gotta deliver the goods this time, baby. Seat-tilt 'er bust. Only man on the planet with more talent, more depth and better ratings is Rush Limbaugh. Ask him.

From now until crank-it-up time, Kentucky fans will rub their hands together and stare into delicious possibilities.

Jared Prickett is past his sophomore jinx ... Mark Pope is through cheerleading ... Antoine Walker is ready to show how close he is to Jamal Mashburn ... and Jeff Sheppard is the most improved player on the team.

Then there's the starting five. Andre Riddick is an incredible hulk ... Rodrick Rhodes has grown up (Da Coach says again) ... Walter McCarty might be the best second-year player in the land ... Tony Delk is Tony Delk ... and Anthony Epps has been handed a maestro baton.

The possibilities are enough to keep 78-year old Hazel Porter of Frankfort awake for hours past her bed time. And there are millions like her.

Back to the Comfort Zone.

UK's 'DAMON BAILEY'?

From the Damon Bailey discovery saga in A Season On The Brink, Rick Pitino has torn a paragraph.

Among Da Coach's special invitees to Midnight Madness, was one for J.P. Blevins, resident of Edmonton, a typical small town nestled in the Pennyrite. Metcalfe County.

Much the way it was when Bob Knight 'discovered' Bailey as an eighth grader in Heltonville, Blevins is a bigeyed UK fan who is also a 6-2 freshman already making big noise on Metcalfe Co. High School's team, coached by Tim McMurtry.

"(Blevins is) an outstanding point guard who averaged 19 points as an eighth grader on the varsity. (He) just needs strength and improved skills on D," talent scout Rick Bolus says.

Blevins has a 4.0 grade-point average. Stay tuned.

PITINO: NO TO TODAY, BUT 'YES' TO THE 70s

Curious assessment Rick Pitino made to Lexington Rotarians last week. When asked if the movie Blue Chips was accurate in its portrayal of college coaches cheating to keep their jobs, Kentucky's coach said 'no' to today, but 'yes' it was applicable to the profession in the 1970s.

Joe B. Hall will be interested to hear it. Never mind what happened in the 1980s.

GREG MINOR: WALTER MITTY?

Applause please for Greg Minor. The ex-Louisville Cardinal, who once was reduced to tears when, after sitting out a Prop 48 year at UoFL, he suffered a broken foot that kept him out several more months, is this season's Walter Mitty winner.

Drafted by the LA Clippers last spring, then shipped to Indianapolis where the Pacers' salary cap prohibited them signing him, Minor ends up a free agent and signs this week with America's team for two hundred grand, the (rebuilding) Boston Celtics.

SI STRETCH

Kentucky's football season crashed in Week III against the Indiana Hoosiers. It was painfully obvious then the Wildcats simply were not up to the competition this season.

That's why an article in Sports Illustrated last week on UK football by Billy Reed broke new ground in stretching the limits of credulity.

Trent DiGiuro's murder, along with the deaths of Ted Presley and Trey Trumbo, Reed suggested, was the root cause for Kentucky's (latest) demise. Please.

JUST WONDERING DEPT.

Allen Iverson has been cleared by the NCAA to play at Georgetown as a freshman this winter. After a tour in jail, Iverson's eligibility was restored when the 6-1 guard presented proof he had reimbursed Nike Co. for airplane tickets it paid for to fly him back and forth from its summer camp in Indianapolis between court dates.

Just wondering: Since Iverson was in jail four months and has since been going to school to regain his basketball eligibility, did he have documents to show where he got the money (estimated $500) to pay Nike?

MR. FOOTBALL '94, & 95

Male High's Chris Redman, Boone County's Shaun Alexander, Bullitt East's Brandon Egan, Beechwood's Greg Hergott and Webster County, Ryan Hill.

Beyond the burgeoning numbers being put up by these youngsters, two things are certain.

1. Any interior lineman aspiring to Mr. Football candidacy this year and next, better recast his dream. When autumn comes again Tim Couch of Leslie County will be let loose on passing records left by Redman; and become the focus of the most intense recruiting tussle since Republicans and Democrats discovered Colin Powell.

2. Because of the inflated, uh, impressive on-field credentials of Mr. Football contenders, those who cast ballots ought to examine the off-field criteria—scholarship and citizenship. (Ballots are cast by Associated Press affiliates only)

RATINGS & BLOW-OUTS

For too many years through the 1980s, This Space railed on about harm done by Litratings. The incentive was high ratings gotten by way of lopsided scores.

Today, it remains a natural enough temptation for coaches with outstanding teams to allow scoreboards to become pinball machines if final scores improves a team's ranking and reputation.

The residual effect is not good for football in Kentucky nor for youngsters on the losing side left humiliated, disillusioned.

Coaches? Those who excuse leaving a star player in a lopsided game, saying "I have an obligation to the kid," demonstrate one more way logic has become twisted around in sports. In fact, the only obligation in high school athletics of consequence is the one a player has to his teammates, his coaches, and his school.

The flip-flop in who is obligated to whom, is another reason why sports today are polluted by fellows like Deion Sanders and Dennis Rodman.

DIS 'N DATA

...Best new nickname for a UK basketball player? Forrest Gump for rookie Scott Padgett. Perfect.

...What was that loud crash we heard last week? If you said it was an Army truck leaving tire tracks on University of Louisville's bowl bid hopes, take a bow.

Said in this space the Cardinals had not played anybody. Still haven't.... Best college coach in America today? Terry Bowden, Auburn. And the luckiest too. But then good fortune is the mother of genius in coaching isn't it?

... Best SEC coach you've never heard of, but you will? Hal Hunter, offensive line coach at Vanderbilt.

PARTING SHOT

Juror No. 32 in the O.J. Simpson trial asked Hizzoner Lance Ito to excuse her last week because, she told reporters, "the public wanted to know everything about me."

No. 32 was Simpson's NFL jersey number.

How sick has the Simpson circus become? Nicole Simpson's sister Denise Brown criticized novelty store owners this week for selling O.J. Simpson Halloween masks.

Living in America, interesting isn't it?

And so it goes.

had both receptions for the Bobcats. Meade ran the football one time for 9 yards.

Jarred Newsome and Jason Hamilton had eight tackles each to head up the Betsy Layne defense. Rocky Hamilton finished with seven tackles and Rodney Hamilton had four.

Chris Hicks came up with a quarterback sack and Jason Hamilton had two QB sacks.

Betsy Layne finishes out their season with a road game at Knott County Central this Friday night.

Betsy Layne is not competing for a district title and will not be in the district playoffs.

The Bobcats will reenter district competition next year.

ATTENTION SCHWAN'S CUSTOMERS

By now, you probably know that we are engaged in the process of recalling all of the ice cream products, sherbet and frozen yogurt that we produced in our plant in Marshall, Minnesota, prior to October 7, 1994. On October 7, we stopped all production voluntarily and in cooperation with the state and federal agencies that involve themselves in food safety issues. This recall is being made without question, because of our overriding concern for you, our customer, and your family's safety.

THERE ARE FOUR THINGS WE WANT YOU TO KNOW:

1. DO NOT EAT THE ICE CREAM.
2. The only products affected by this recall are our ice cream products made prior to October 7, 1994, in our Marshall plant. Our salespeople will give you a refund for the ice cream returned or credit on other Schwan's products you purchase.
3. If you have any questions about the recall, the symptoms of salmonella, how to return your product for a full refund, or anything else, we want you to call us at the hotline number we have established. That number is 1-800-544-6855.
4. If you believe you may have persisting symptoms of salmonella and have eaten any of our ice cream products mentioned, we want to encourage you to see your physician and get the test necessary to confirm it one way or the other. We will pay for the test.

We appreciate the positive response we have received from so many of you throughout this ordeal and we look forward to serving you for many years to come.

Sincerely,
Alfred Schwan

BIG PLAYS OF THE GAME

Paul Varney

Soph., Allen Central

Varney was instrumental in stopping a Magoffin County drive late in the game.

The Hornets had moved the football to the Rebels' 1-yard line before being hit with a 5-yard penalty. Varney then sacked quarterback Mike Caba for a 30-yard loss.

Matt Laferty

Soph., Prestonsburg

The second year running back gave the Blackcats a lift when Morgan County had scored twice in the third quarter last Friday night.

He broke two tackles and went 52-yards for a Prestonsburg touchdown that gave the Blackcats a 41-14 lead. Laferty finished with 57 yards rushing against the Cougars.

Laferty

Justin Ray

Senior, South Floyd

The Raider senior quarterback returned to the signal calling position after two weeks off and responded with some key plays that were big in South Floyd's first win as a new school.

Ray completed six of nine crucial passes for 146 yards in spearheading several big drives for the Raiders against McCreary Central.

Robertson places fourth in KTCCCA Meet of Champions

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It has been a very successful cross-country season for Prestonsburg's Stewart Robertson and placing fourth in one of the top meets in the state has done nothing to dampen his enthusiasm.

"I just want to go as far as I can this year," he said in the wake of the start of the regionals in Ashland this weekend. "I want to win the regional and go as far as I can in the state."

Robertson took fourth place in the KTCCCA Meet of Champions, a statewide meet that features some of the top runners in Kentucky. He had a time of 16:19.63 for fourth place out of 221 runners from 26 different schools.

"There was a lot of tough competition there," he said. "I want our team to go far this season."

Robertson has had some pretty strong support in Ryan Hardee, an eighth grader at Adams Middle School and Nathan Hardee. Ryan finished 53rd overall and Nathan came in the 118th spot.

Others from Prestonsburg that competed were: Jesse Robertson (149) and Charlie Wallen (173).

Covington Catholic won the super meet with 93 points. Greenwood, Bowling Green, Warren East and Dixie Heights rounded out the top five teams.

Prestonsburg, as a team, finished 14th out of the 26 schools that took part.

The top five runners in the meet were Matt Tabor, Bowling Green, 15:53; Brandon McKinney, Warren East, 16:07; Joe Galloway, Pendleton County, 16:08; Stewart Robertson, Prestonsburg, 16:19 and Joe Tackett, Ashland, 16:20.

Prestonsburg scored a season best 25 points this past Thursday at the Paintsville Lake as they went undefeated in the local meets.

Robertson took first place for the fifth time out of five meets. He posted a time of 20:03, edging out Ryan Hardee by 20 seconds. Hardee finished second behind Robertson.

Fifth place went to Nathan Hardee and Charlie Wallen placed eighth. Jesse Robertson finished ninth.

Following Prestonsburg in the final standings were Paintsville, Allen Central, Johnson Central, Lawrence County and Pikeville.

The win for Prestonsburg marked the first time one school dominated the meets by winning all five. Robertson, for the second straight year, took individual first place in all five meets.

Prestonsburg will be competing in the cross-country regionals this weekend in Ashland.

Little League owners

By Dale McFeatters
Scripps Howard News Service

It's tough to feel sorry for those most affected by the baseball strike: the hosts of radio sports-talk shows and their inarticulate callers.

In past strikes, there has always been a tear-stained Little Leaguer, with his little hat, his little glove, his little wad of chewing tobacco, who sniffled fetchingly. "I just want to see my (Phillies, Blue Jays, Dodgers or whoever) play again."

It's a tradition that goes back to the 1919 Black Sox scandal when a little kid sniffled, "Say it ain't so, Joe." It might even be the same kid.

With this strike, there is a paucity of photogenic little wretches pleading for the players to come back. Perhaps because of inline skating, video games, cable TV, preseason football, the start of school.

Or perhaps because, as I'm told one enterprising reporter did, when the strike issues were explained to Little Leaguers in terms of capped allowances and sharing money with younger siblings, the kids responded with a militancy that could have resurrected Samuel Gompers.

However, there is one class of young fan who has been dangerously overlooked during the strike: the children of the '80s, the Greed Decade; kids from families where Dad was a junk bond trader and Mom was a mergers and acquisitions specialist.

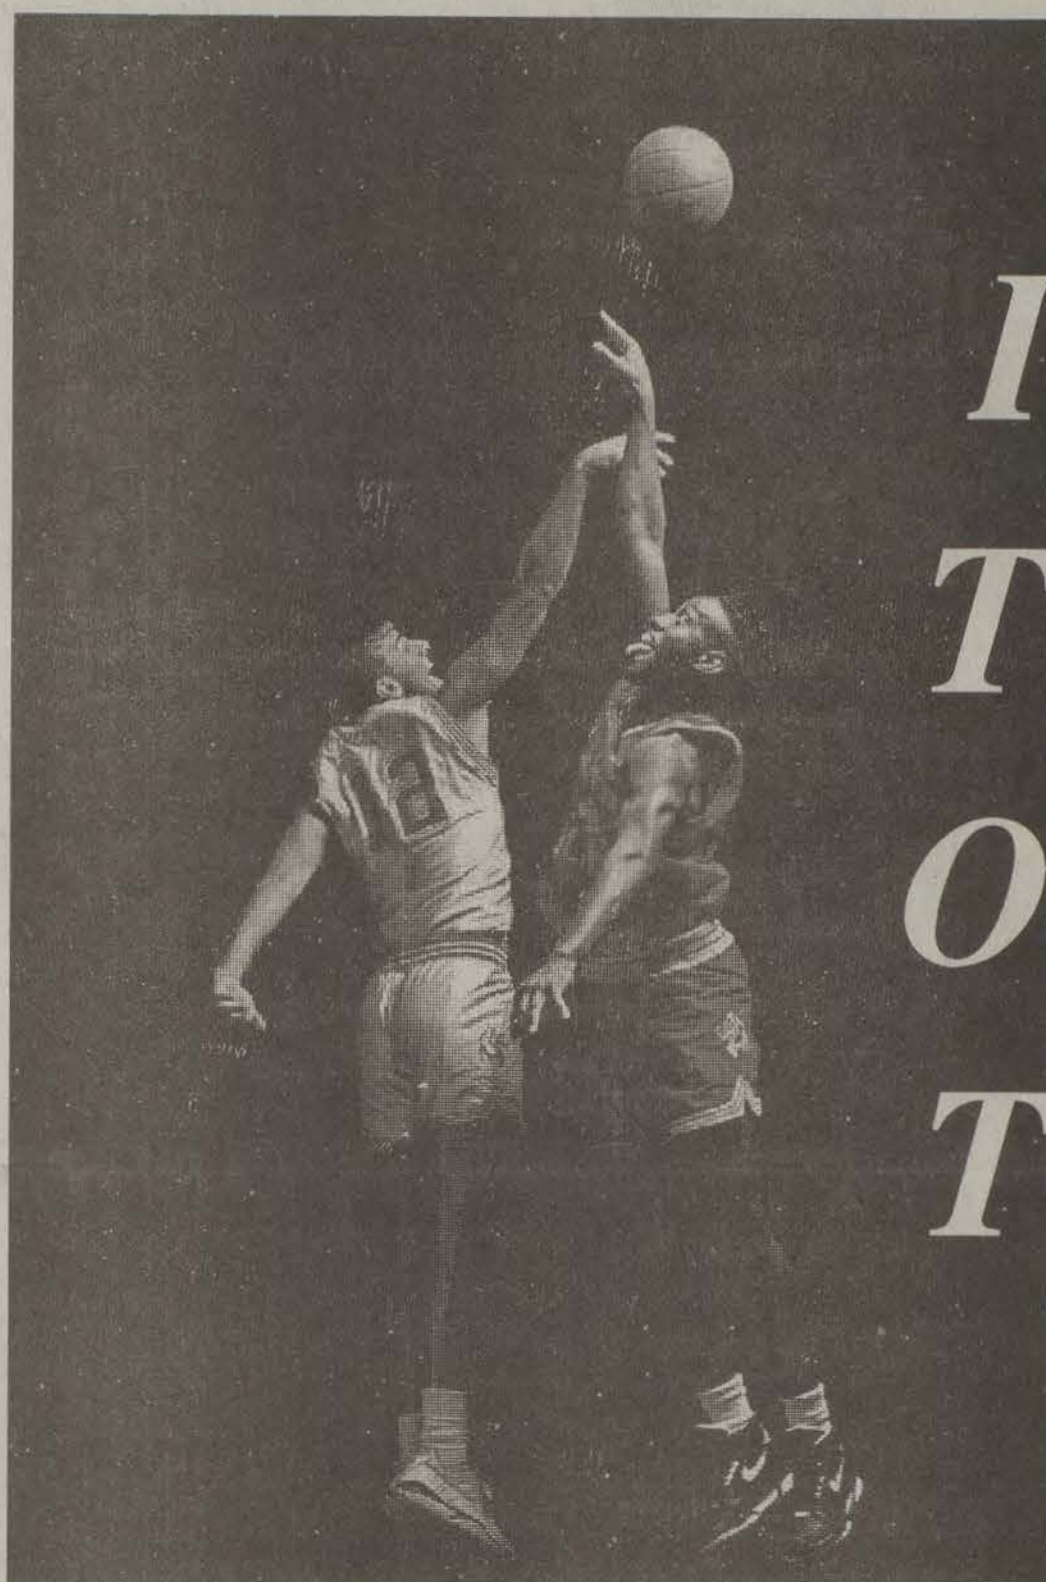

These youngsters don't want to grow up to be ball players. They want to be owners. They don't dream of unloading on a hanging curve with the bases loaded. They dream of a double major in law and accounting.

You might see them hanging around outside the luxury skyboxes after a game, wearing George Steinbrenner-model gray flannel suits, carrying little Union-Buster briefcases and pleading, "Please, Mr. Reinsdorf, will you autograph my debenture?"

But largely these kids are invisible, and that's too bad because they will run the country one day. The Little Leaguers can take care of themselves, but if these kids grow up unhappy and resentful they will cause a worldwide depression, and I, for one, do not want to live out my golden years in a cardboard box under a freeway overpass.

To keep these kids happy, and our own futures flush, I propose a line of video games to help them get through the Major League Baseball strike with their ownership instincts intact:

— MLB'S HOME RUN ACCOUNTING: The "owner" must take a franchise that is an absolute cash cow and, through inflated management fees, sweetheart cable deals, nepotism, payroll padding, tax loopholes, borderline depreciation schemes and front companies holding the parking, food and souvenir concessions, show a loss.

carries and he scored a touchdown. Fullback Chad Stone did not play for medical reasons.

Freshman quarterback Nick Compton did not see action against McCreary Central but is expected to return to the gridiron this Friday night.

Senior Justin Ray, who was the starting quarterback in the first seven games, returned to the position and responded with 146 passing yards. Ray completed 6 of 9 pass attempts and was at one point a perfect five-for-five.

Adding to the offense was Kevin Johnson who pulled down four passes for 117 yards and one touchdown.

Johnson also was a standout on defense as he had eight first hits, four assists and a blocked punt. Jarrod Compton continued his strong defensive play with six first hits and seven assists. Andrew Faine had four first hits and one assist. Terrance Mullins had the game's lone interception.

"Terrance is doing a real good job for us," said Coach Daniels. "He had one catch for 34 yards but it was a heck of a catch."

Daniels also sung the praises of split end William Willard.

"William did a heck of a job blocking for us out of his split end position," said Daniels. "He's a good receiver himself, but he did some real good blocking."

"We need to get William and Terrance more involved this weekend. They are playing some good football for us," said Daniels.

South Floyd scored at the start of the game on their first drive. Ray connected with Kevin Johnson on a 37-yard touchdown pass which gave the Raiders a 6-0 lead.

The Raiders held McCreary Central on their first possession and added their second touchdown when Wright ran into the end zone from 6-yards out. Wright then ran in the two-point conversion for a 14-0 lead at the half.

The Raiders missed a chance to go to the locker room at the half up 20-0. They had moved the football to the McCreary Central 1-yard line. Coach Daniels called time out and gave his team some advice.

"I called time-out for the express purpose of letting them know that we had shot ourselves in the foot everytime down," he said. "I reminded them where we were and called a very simple play."

The play went to Wright who crossed the goal line, but left the football behind. He fumbled the ball and McCreary Central recovered to stop the drive.

"I couldn't believe it," said Daniels. "I had called time out to tell them what to do and to not fumble the football."

McCreary Central scored their lone touchdown to start the third quarter to make it a 14-6 game. Aaron Hall, moved back into the backfield, scored for the Raiders in the third quarter for a 20-6 score that held up.

"Our defense was good tonight," said Daniels. "I figure they would be a better team after watching them on film. We thought they would throw the football more than they did."

"Justin gave us a big game. He had been off for two weeks (at quarterback) and he had a real strong game for us," he said. "But, to be honest with you, I thought we had played better games than we did tonight. I thought we had played better against Phelps, Betsy Layne and Allen Central. But things just went our way tonight."

Daniels said that his ballclub played hard all through the game and that it was "good to have the kids win one."

"We would like to finish strong with a win this Friday night at Elkhorn City," he said. "That would be a good game to go to the weight room with. To go in there with a winning streak."

The Raiders (1-8) will face Elkhorn City (2-7) on the road this Friday night as they close out their football season.

go. All the Blackcats had to do was to keep the football on the ground and run the clock out. But Setser, after picking up 5-yards, fumbled the football at the Prestonsburg 23 and Morgan County took control.

On the first play from scrimmage, Deborde hit Tim Lykins with a 23-yard touchdown pass and the PAT made it a 41-28 game with 1:44 left to play.

It was three downs and out for Prestonsburg as Morgan County took over the ball with 27 seconds showing. The Cougars were unable to move the football as time expired.

Morris gave the Cats an early lead of 7-0 in the first quarter as he scored on a 13-yard run and Ratliff added the PAT. The TD was set-up when Clint Shutts returned a Morgan County punt 25 yards to the Morgan County 43-yard line. Ratliff picked up 30 yards to the 13-yard line where Morris scored.

Morris then scored from 6-yards out and Ratliff added the extra point to give the Cats a 14-0 lead.

With 4:57 left in the second quarter, Ratliff crossed the goal line from 25 yards out and the kick made it a 21-0 game.

While the Blackcats were having their way, it was three downs and out for the Cougars.

Morgan County got on the scoreboard after recovering a Prestonsburg fumble on the Cats' 30-yard line. With 3:44 left in the half, Deborde hit Damon Ballinger with a 3-yard TD pass and the extra point made it 21-7.

Laferty had 51 yards rushing for Prestonsburg on three carries. Mike Shepherd picked up 49 yards and Ratliff finished with 46.

Larry Morris led the Blackcats' defense with six tackles, three assists and one sack. Shepherd had four tackles and three assists. Waylon Bevins had four tackles, one assist and a sack.

Prestonsburg (6-3, 4-1) will face M.C. Napier (3-6) this Friday night on the road to close out their regular

Bassin' with the Pros

WINDY WEATHER BASS OFTEN HIT CRANKBAITS

If you have to fish in the wind, use a crankbait.

That's the advice of tournament pro Denny Brauer, who has used the technique not only to catch large stringers of bass but also to win national tournaments.

"It's not the lure so much as it is what the wind does to bass," says Brauer, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "Wind ripples the surface of the water and causes bass to become more active. When the bass start feeding, a fast-moving lure like a crankbait is one of the most effective lures you can use."

Brauer remembers a national tournament on Tennessee's Lake Chickamauga several years ago when wind actually gave him the winning edge.

In practice he had located a huge school of bass suspended off a steep, stumpy ridge, but no amount of casting with a variety of lures could entice those fish to strike. On the final day of the tournament, with the wind blowing at near gale force, Brauer visited the spot again.

This time he found the bass had moved on top of the ridge, and a single drift across with a crankbait produced enough bass to win the event.

"Wind stirs baitfish around and sometimes actually moves them into shallow water," explains Brauer. "For whatever reason, this action causes the bass to start feeding, and because a crankbait closely resembles a baitfish, it's one of the best lures to use." Shallow, stumpy ridges, windy points, and isolated bluffs that might trap baitfish are excellent places to fish in the wind, notes the Evinrude pro.

"Even with the wind, however, the basic rule of crankbait fishing, which is to use a lure that runs deep enough to hit the bottom, still applies," says Brauer. "Very often, also, the most effective retrieve will be one that brings the lure back in the direction of the current, rather than one that moves against it."

That means casting into the wind, and to make this a little easier, Brauer recommends using a heavier lure and casting sidearm rather than overhead so the lure stays low over the water.

"You can use a larger, heavier crankbait that sails against the wind easier," he says, "but if you cast it overhead and get it too high, it will probably still cause backlashes. If you can cast sidearm or even underhand so you don't have such an arc with the lure, you'll usually do much better. Using a limber rod will also make casting easier, too."

Paintsville's Johnny Lemaster SGMA Heroes award winner

Former major league player, Johnnie LeMaster, a resident of Paintsville, has been selected Kentucky's 1994 SGMA Heroes award winner for his dedication to youth baseball in Paintsville, it was recently announced.

The SGMA Heroes program was created as a result of the partnership between the Sporting Goods Manufacturers Association (SGMA), whose membership nominated worthy individuals throughout the country.

The program recognizes and rewards special individuals who, through their unique commitment and humanitarian spirit, have made an exceptional and lasting contribution to the pursuit of sports excellence.

The SGMA Heroes program honors these "unsung heroes" of sports within local communities across the country, recognizing one winner in every state, as well as a national winner.

After a 12-year major league baseball career, LeMaster returned to his hometown of Paintsville to give back to his community by coaching youth baseball, including Little League, senior league and Big League teams.

In addition to winning state championships with his senior league and Big League teams, LeMaster has helped many players on the Big League team (age 16-18) obtain college scholarships. LeMaster has also traveled throughout Kentucky speaking in behalf of the DARE program on the dangers of drugs and alcohol. LeMaster currently owns his own sporting good store.

LeMaster was selected for this award by Charlie McAlexander (Host Communications) and Jerry Tipton (Lexington Herald-Leader), the NSSA Sportscaster and Sportswriter of the Year in Kentucky respectively.

LeMaster and all other SGMA Heroes state winners will receive a $100 cash award, as well as a donation of $400 toward the charity of their choice. LeMaster will now be among the 50 state winners who are eligible to become the First Annual National SGMA Heroes Award winner. The national winner will receive a $5,000 cash award and a $25,000 contribution toward the charity of his or her choice, the first national runner-up will receive $2,500 cash and a $12,000 contribution, and the second runner-up will receive $1,000 cash and a $6,000 contribution.

The first annual SGMA Heroes national winner will be announced at The Super Show's annual breakfast in Atlanta on February 4, 1995. The Super Show is the world's largest sporting goods trade show.

LeMaster was nominated for the award by WSIP sports director Jason Blanton.

Children's diets lack essential nutrients

With the growing evidence that early dietary habits can contribute to the risk of developing certain chronic diseases later in life, interest in children's diets has taken on new significance. Although recent attention has focused on overconsumption of fat, cholesterol and sodium, a study reported in the December Journal of the American Dietetic Association of over 4,000 two- to 10-year olds found that although fat intake remained roughly the same over a ten-year period, there was a decrease in consumption of many essential nutrients, including vitamins A and B12, riboflavin, phosphorus, magnesium, zinc and copper. Over half of the children consumed less than their Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for calcium.

Friends of Morehead issue call for support to save football program

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The meetings keep mounting. The Friends of Morehead, a group of concerned parents, as well as alumni of the state university has been holding meetings in the area trying to figure out a way to get the university to change their minds over the direction of the school's football program.

The university's future plans include the elimination of football as a scholarship sport but the decision by Randall Eaglin has local folks concerned.

One such parent is Patty Elliott, a teacher at Prestonsburg High School, who's son Ryan Elliott plays for the Eagles this season.

Elliott is hoping that more people from Eastern Kentucky would become more interested and involved by attending meetings in the area.

"We need more people here to show support for the program," she said. "He (Eaglin) is driving nails in the coffin and the program is going to die."

"Morehead is the university of the mountains and there seems to be no one standing up for the program," she said.

Elliott pointed out that all the other athletic events at Morehead State have been successful and she is looking for some people that will make the trip to Morehead to talk with school officials.

"I have been told that finance is not the problem at Morehead," said Elliott. "This thing about gender equity is not right. We just need some people to stand up and help get things changed."

Elliott said that a meeting has been called in Lawrence County for tomorrow night (Thursday). She hopes that some political pressure can be applied by inviting the likes of Greg Stumbo, Hubie Collins and Rocky Adkins.

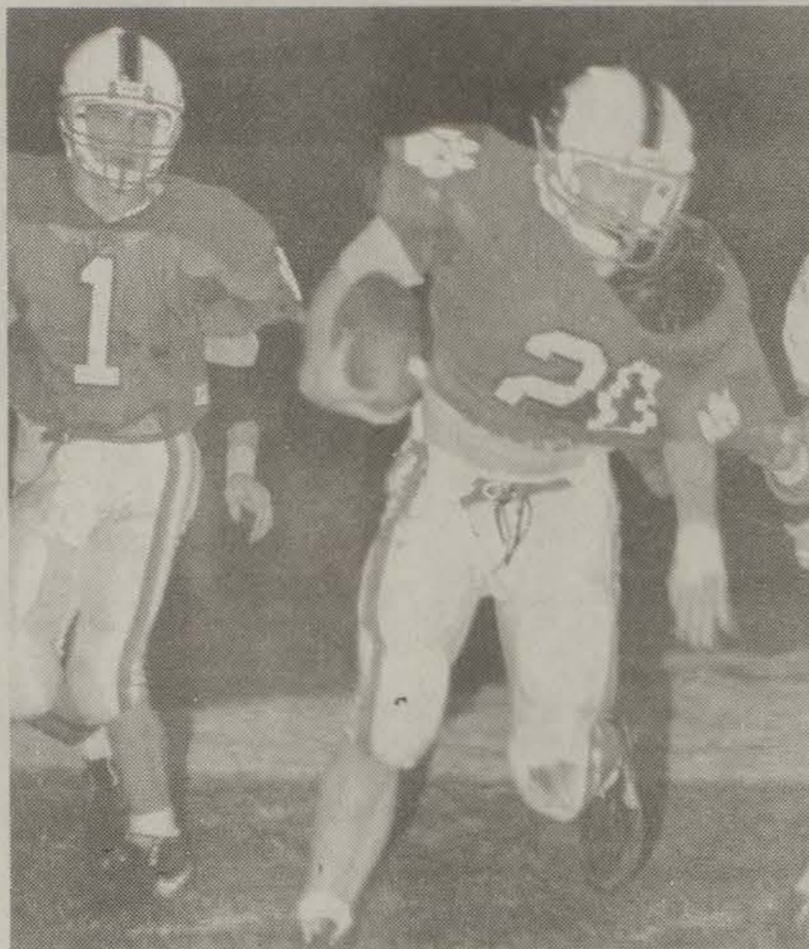

"We need to get the legislative body involved," she said. "My kid plays at Morehead and if he loses his scholarship then what is he going to do? What future has he?"

Elliott said that current coach Matt Ballard is in support of the Friends of Morehead and that he would like to see things righted.

Talking Strategy!

Chronic depression isn't just having a bad day or two. It's a disease. And, over time, it grows worse and worse.

You begin dealing with the world by sleeping too much, eating too much, or even hating too much. Nothing seems to matter after a while. You feel small and worthless. Maybe desperate. Maybe suicidal. You might not be able to stop crying.

You might not think that you'll ever feel good again. Or worse, you might not even care.

Chronic Depression Is Like Having A Bad Day. For Months At A Time.

Don't give up. If you or someone you know suffers from chronic depression, the first step toward feeling better is easy to take. Call Clear View at 1-800-228-TALK. We're the department at King's Daughters' Medical Center devoted entirely to emotional and behavioral problems of all kinds.

The call is completely confidential. You don't have to talk long or even say your name. The person on the other end of the phone will understand. They encounter these problems every day and know how to help. As a matter of fact, our entire staff, from doctors to social workers, receives ongoing education in the latest theories and practices.

So, call us and at least find out what your options are. We listen. We help. We're here. King's Daughters' Medical Center The RIGHT CARE RIGHT HERE

Prestonsburg's Jon Morris (34) found plenty of running room against Morgan County Friday night as he carried the football into the end zone on this play. Morris rushed for 77 yards and scored two touchdowns in his teams' 41-28 win over the Cougars. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Fishing with Scott Patton

This week let's go flipping for some bass. This is a great technique to work for you. A lot of fish have moved into the shoreline and onto some type of shallow cover. This cover could be anything from a dock to a shallow weed line.

You will want to make sure you have the right equipment and that will be a good quality flipping stick, good heavy line, and a good jig or worm to flip into cover. My personal favorite is a St. Croix legend series flipping stick, a heavy camoflage line in the 20-30lb range, and a new jig which I found in Connecticut fishing the last BASSMASTERS Top 100 tournament. This jig is a CAD (Computer Aided Design) and is made by Andy's Custom Bass Lures. This jig is so lifelike it's almost scary. Later in an upcoming article I'll give more information on Andy's jigs and other selections of baits from this company. For right now however, you can receive a catalog by calling (203) 777-1083 Department Bass. Ask for Andy and tell him I sent you.

In order to be 100% prepared you'll need a good contour lake map. Once you've gotten your map, look for shallow banks that close by have deeper water. This is best if it's a river or creek channel. Locate areas like this on your map. You need to locate several areas in different sections of the lake. Some on the main lake, some at the mouth, mid section and back of major creeks. Also don't forget the same thing on secondary creeks of major creeks.

Look for any cover that is in shallow water 1' to 5' deep and look for all types of cover. You'll want to make sure to fish at different depths and in different types of cover. I can't stress enough how important it is to do this.

When your flipping into your cover watch your line. You can't always feel the fish strike so keep an eye on your line. You may also want to keep a light feel for your line as well. This will enable you to feel the fish strike. Work every inch of the cover. Make several repeated flips to it. A trick that a lot of pros use on the circuit is to flip a jig into heavy cover, let it fall to the bottom, shake the bait for 10 seconds, rest the bait and then shake it again. Do this 2 or 3 times and see the results. Fish can't stand it.

To learn more about flipping techniques, call Scotts Art of Fishing at (502)957-6766.

SAY WHAT?

I suppose one of the most obvious things that sets Eastern Kentuckians apart from everybody else is the way we talk. Words and phrases that are common to us, may seem foreign—or at least a bit strange—to someone from off from here.

Unfortunately, to combat their lack of knowledge of our uniqueness, outsiders call us hillbillies (which I am, thank you very much) and try to degrade us because they aren't smart enough to know what it is we're saying.

For the benefit of those not educated to our dialect, here are a few such pieces of terminology, defined and used correctly in a sentence.

- Hind part afore: backward. He put his pants on hind part afore.
- Might nigh: almost. Jake might nigh shot his own cow.
- Pert near: might nigh. Jake pert near shot his own cow.
- Fair to middlin': doing okay. "How are you?" "Oh, I'm fair to middlin'."

- Heavy set: overweight. That lady sure is heavy set.
- Flashy: heavy set. That lady is kind of flashy.
- Raising Cain: drinking and swarpin'. Those boys are raising Cain tonight.
- Swarpin': running around at night and raising Cain with a bunch of wild boys. Drinking's bad, but swarpin' will plumb kill you.

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

- Banjer: banjo. He runs faster than a country boy can pick a banjer.
- Here lately: recently. I haven't been feeling well here lately.
- Here while back: in the not too distant past. She broke her arm here while back.
- Holler: yell. Did you holler at me?
- Holler: having nothing inside. He's got a holler head.
- Holler: space between two hills. How far up the

- holler do you live, anyway?
 - Fer piece: a great distance. I live a fer piece up the holler.
 - Smack dab: exactly in the middle. She hit him smack dab between the eyes.
 - Boggin: a cap worn in the winter time. Somebody stole my boggin.
 - Years: organs used for hearing. My years are cold because somebody stole my boggin.
 - Yorn: belonging to you. Well, this is not my boggin. Maybe it's yorn.
 - Airn: belonging to both of us. This boggin doesn't belong to you guys. It's airn.
 - Far: flame. Who set the woods on far?
 - Shine: a beverage that's still made. Let's build us a far and make some more shine.
 - Shine: disturbance. He was very upset and cut the biggest shine you ever saw.
- Our critics also, no doubt, ignored the recent report by some modern linguists which stated that

Donations needed for home-delivery program

Each weekday at each of the six senior citizens centers in Floyd County, home-cooked meals are prepared and then transported to people who are confined to their homes.

These home-delivered meals are part of the Title III Nutrition Program created by the Older Americans Act of 1965 to address some of the problems faced by the nation's older population, such as dietary inadequacy, declining health status, social isolation, and limited access to social and health services.

The major activity of the nutrition program is to provide one nutritionally-balanced meal per day which furnishes one-third of the daily recommended dietary allowances established by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council.

Many older Americans eat this meal in a congregate setting within a local senior citizens center. At the

BUNNY SUIT TAKES UNEXPECTED HOP ON PARENTS

When it came time to select our daughter's first Halloween costume, we knew exactly what she would like.

This, we thought, would be a snap. She loves bunnies.

She points out every one she sees in books and stores. She pets them and hugs them.

"Bunny, bunny!" she says. "Kiss, kiss, kiss."

Since we wanted to do something extra special for our daughter's inaugural trick or treat night, my wife decided to make her an outfit.

We bought a bunny pattern, white sweat-shirt material and pink felt for the ears and the belly. My wife spent weeks crafting the stitching that would turn a plain garment into a spotless white bunny suit, any little girl's Halloween dream.

We couldn't wait to see how cute our daughter would look with her fluffy pink ears.

Problem is we're still waiting.

The kid runs for cover every time we try to put it on her.

"No, no, no!" she says as she heads for the nearest door.

She treats her Halloween bunny like it's a 10-foot-tall grim reaper with a growl and a chain saw.

So much for our best-laid plans.

This is the first time our daughter has been old enough to take part in such annual festivities as Halloween.

It's also the first time she's had her own opinion about them. And it's making us realize more than ever how our little girl isn't a baby anymore.

We've got to accept the fact that our kid doesn't like the special bunny suit we devised for her. Maybe we should just buy her another costume while we've still got time.

We're gonna try to be grown-ups about this, like all the books recommend.

Act like mature adults, as we've promised ourselves.

Be good examples.

Yeah, sure.

"I don't care how long it takes," my wife said, "I'm gonna get a picture of her in that thing, no matter if it takes all day."

"And I'm gonna help you," I said.

TRYING TO UNDERSTAND

What makes this whole bunny business even tougher to understand is that my daughter's most precious possession in the world is a bunny.

She sleeps with it every night and walks around with it half the day. That thing gets more kisses from her than daddy does, for goodness sakes.

And we know better than to leave home without it. Forget the bunny and you're asking for big trouble when you go for a drive or anywhere else.

My wife was wrapping up at the grocery recently and putting our daughter in her safety seat when the little one discovered an important item was missing.

"Ga ga, ga ga (her special name for her bunny)," our daughter repeated over and over.

Panic time.

Our daughter screamed, kicked and cried uncontrollably.

Figuring the bunny was left behind in the store, my wife went back in and asked a stock clerk to help her find the missing bunny.

He scoured the store. No bunny.

Our daughter nearly cried her eyes out before the missing bunny was discovered on the floor back at our home.

Realizing how crucial the bunny is to our lives, we tried to develop a backup bunny.

You never know when the real bunny will wear out, get lost or be chewed up by the dog.

Our idea worked—sort of.

The new bunny is good enough for her to admire in the corner or play with in some cases. But she won't sleep with it or snuggle it.

We weren't asking her to do either when it came to the new bunny costume. Just wearing it for a couple of hours on one night would be a treat for us.

But it looks like we're going to get tricked more than treated.

WE'VE GOT A PLAN

We're going to wait until the last minute to put it on her and hope the other trick or treaters will take her mind off the costume long enough for us to get our picture and a load of candy.

That should get the job done.

But we're really going to feel like a couple of dumb bunnies if it doesn't work.

Rebekah officers installed

The regular meeting of Miriam Rebekah Lodge was held October 18, with the Noble Grand, Hope Whitten, presiding. Those members remaining ill were noted and will be remembered in prayer.

This being the night for the installation of officers Jean Hickman, lodge deputy, served as installing officer, Mary Zemo as deputy marshal, Beverly Hackworth as deputy warden, Lorena Wallen as deputy secretary, and Hope Whitten as deputy chaplain.

The following officers were presented and installed into their respective offices: Wanda Elste, noble grand; Paulena Owens, vice grand; Mabel Jean LeMaster, secretary; Lorena Wallen, conductor; Violetta Wright, warden; Beverly Hackworth, chaplain; assistant chaplain, Myrtle Allen; musician, Deborah Johns; right supporter to noble grand, Jean Hickman; left supporter to noble grand, Maman Leslie; inside guardian, Claudine Johns; outside guardian, Dora Johns; right supporter to vice grand, Susie Clifton;

Prior to the meeting, the members enjoyed refreshments and an hour of fellowship in the dining room. After dinner, the outgoing noble grand, Hope Whitten, presented her officers with a gift and expressed her appreciation for their support during her term of office. Mrs. Whitten was presented a gift from her officers.

Part of the report on the assembly meeting in Owensboro was given by Beverly Hackworth.

Birthday greetings were extended to Hope Whitten and she was presented a gift from the new noble grand, Wanda Elste.

The meeting will convene again on November 1st in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Jenny Wiley 3528, AARP elects new officers

The monthly dinner meeting for Jenny Wiley Chapter No. 3528, American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), was held Friday, October 21, 5:30 p.m., in the cafeteria of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Burieta Gearhart, presided over the meeting, and after dinner, Orville Cooley led the devotionals; all joined in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag; Marie Goble presented the minutes of the last meeting and James E. Goble gave the treasurer's report.

Ted Stumbo, 55 Alive Driver Training Instructor, reported that 15 persons completed the recent course at Prestonsburg, and 17 completed the course at Betsy Layne. He further reported that a class was scheduled to be conducted at the Betsy Layne Senior Citizen Center on November 25-26.

The need for volunteers for the upcoming Tax-Aide program was noted.

Sina Blanton reported for the officer nominating committee and placed the names of the following persons in nomination for officers for the coming year: president, Burieta Gearhart; vice president, Maxine Bierman; secretary, Mary DeRossett; and treasurer, James E. Goble. These were elected by acclamation.

Following discussion, the chapter decided, that due to financial limitations, they would not renew their membership in the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

Persons having birthdays were recognized and "Happy Birthday" was sung.

The chapter decided that they would contact inactive members and to remember shut-in members at Christmastime with a visit and gifts.

Orville Cooley entertained the group with humorous stories and the meeting was dismissed by the treasurer.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held Friday, November 18, at 5:30 p.m., at which time the installation of officers will be conducted.

Present for the meeting were Flem and Sina Blanton, Ruby Akers, Roney Clark, E. H. and Marlene Stumbo, Myrtle Allen, Russell and Sarah Laven, Orville and Gladys Cooley, Mary DeRossett, James E. and Marie Goble, Jo Vaughn, L. J. and Sylvia Allen, Ernestine Hicks, Harmison E. and Eva Allen Hale, Fannie Runnels, Margaret S. Ackerman, Burieta Gearhart, Maxine Bierman, Maman G. Leslie, and John D. and Patsy Evans.

John Graham Chapter meeting

The regular monthly meeting of John Graham Chapter NSDAR was held Monday, noon, October 10, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, with regent pro tem Eleanor Horn presiding.

Chaplain Horn led the DAR Rituals; the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the USA was led by Frances Brackett; the American's Creed led by Karen Ousley; and the President General's message read by Dorothy Osborne.

Karen Ousley distributed the 1994-1995 yearbook programs and reported that she had mailed programs to out-of-town members. She reported that DAR bronze markers had been bought, and that dues should be received by her office by November 1.

Osborne reported on the progress of the May House restoration and on monies raised during the Jenny Wiley Festival. Brackett reported on the February 1958 Living Memorial Fund and monies raised during the festival. She reported that a Revolutionary stone for Simon Auxier had been placed at Burchett Cemetery, at Auxier, and that the dedication would be held July 3, 1995.

On motion of Margaret Collins, seconded by Margaret Spradlin, the chapter voted to support Kentucky state regent, Mrs. Thomas R. Ross, along with other Sixth District chapters in a co-op effort, with a full-page ad in the DAR Magazine, in Mrs. Ross's campaign for Vice-President General NSDAR.

Chaplain Horn announced the death of Opal Spears May at the home of her sister, Virginia Goble at Cow Creek, August 6. The late Mrs. May had served as chapter regent and in many capacities in the chapter; was a member of the Kentucky Regent's Club; and was chapter historian at the time of her death. She had joined the chapter under Revolutionary soldier Richard Wells with a supplementary line under soldier Samuel Auxier I. The bronze DAR marker was presented to her daughter, Mrs. Paul Hager of Berea, and Carter Funeral Home placed a tree in her memory in a national forest.

The regent announced that KSDAR Fall Festival would be held at Duncan Tavern, in Paris, on November 4 and 5. Members were encouraged to donate products to be sold on those days to benefit the upkeep of the Tavern. Brackett announced that members were invited to Hindman Settlement School as guests of Troublesome Creek and Pine Mountain Chapters, Thursday, November 10 at 6:30 p.m.; to a luncheon November 19 at Spindletop Hall, Lexington; and to a genealogy workshop with Louisa Chapter, Saturday, November 12, at 10:00 a.m.

Collins spoke briefly on the April Continental Congress where her niece, Angela Merritt Eichenbrenner, led the Kentucky Delegation of more than 60 people on Opening Night in Constitution Hall carrying the Kentucky flag.

The regent announced the marriage of member Michelle Preston Burchett and Sean Matthew Weist, September 4. She announced the birth of Eli Brackett Thrasher September 16 to member Laura Brackett Thrasher and her husband, John Thrasher.

The chapter welcomed Vivian Hale home after her recuperation at the home of her daughter for the past several years.

Announcement was made that the chapter was invited to attend Veterans Day, November 11, 11 a.m., at Veterans Island, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

The next monthly meeting will be held December 12 at noon at May Lodge. Chaplain Horn will conduct a memorial service for deceased members Pauline Archer Burchett and Opal Spears May.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen Wells Jr.

Martin, Wells exchange vows

Miss Susan Vaughn Martin was married on Saturday, July 16, to Frank Allen Wells Jr. at the First Baptist Church in Prestonsburg. The marriage was performed by the Reverend Quentin Lockwood. The reception followed at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Conference Center at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Earl Martin of Prestonsburg. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mr. Wells is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen Wells Sr. of Flat Gap.

Mrs. Wells wore a dress of silk Shantung with a scalloped v-neck of re-embroidered French alencon lace and a cut-away three-quarter sleeve. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a beaded caplet. She carried a bouquet of roses, orchids, and gerber daisies.

Miss Elizabeth Martin served as her sister's maid of honor. Miss Sara Wells, niece of the groom, served as the junior bridesmaid. Misses Kathleen and Adrienne Stonecypher served as flower girls.

Mr. Wells' best man was Donald Jones. Tom Wells, brother of the groom, served as the head usher. Michael and Joseph Schmitt, cousins of the groom, served as ushers. Britton Wells, nephew of the groom, served as junior usher.

Mrs. Wells graduated from Prestonsburg High School, Transylvania University and the University of South Carolina School of Public Health. She is employed by Highlands Regional Medical Center.

THE SAGA OF BOONESBOROUGH

by Jadon Gibson

Daniel Boone's life was filled with so many interesting occurrences it is no wonder that he is held in such high esteem in early American history.

In Early 1778 Daniel accompanied a band of about two dozen men from Boonesborough on pack horses to the Blue Licks which was a source of salt for man and animals alike. Early animal and Indian trails connected salt lick areas because deer, buffalo and other animals visited the sites and licked the salty water which surfaced from far below. The site of the Blue Licks is in what is now Northeastern Kentucky.

Boone and his men boiled large quantities of salt water since it took approximately 800 gallons of the briny water to yield a bushel of salt. Their purpose was to net a year's supply so they were away from Boonesborough for some time. Periodically three of the men returned to the fort with a load of salt.

Often Daniel went hunting while the men worked at making salt. The hunts resulted in buffalo and other meat for consumption and pelts for wearing.

On one cold evening, at the height of a blizzard, Daniel was surprised by a band of Shawnees as he returned to camp with his horse heavily laden. No Indian was a match for Daniel but several pounced upon him at once. He got away briefly but several chased him, tackling Daniel in the snow. He grabbed for his knife which had been placed with the buffalo meat but found that it was frozen there. He then laid his rifle down as a symbol of his submission. When the braves noticed that it was Daniel Boone they were delighted.

They led him away, taking him to their camp.

While Daniel Boone was a captive of Chief Black Fish and his band of Shawnees in early 1778 he thought about how pesky his captors had been to the settlers at Boonesborough in recent months. There were many opportunities for the pioneers and Indians to forge bridges of friendship but the treaties were forever broken by distrust and hostile acts from both parties.

The Indians skulked about Boonesborough practicing their mischief—burning cabins, destroying crops and attacking workers in the field when they could be caught unaware. The cornfields were destroyed but the pioneers found that the unused fields from the previous year produced corn at the rate of seven bushels per acre.

Word soon spread throughout the colonies that the rich Kentucky soil would produce twenty bushels of corn per acre when tilled and seven bushels per acre when not even planted. Kentucky was a Virginia county at the time.

Black Fish talked about his plan to attack Boonesborough and the other forts successively until all white men were pushed from the Indian lands. Boone thought about the weakened condition of the fort and feared for the safety of the women and children who remained at Boonesborough with the oldest and youngest men while the others were away making salt. He felt a plan to seemingly assist Black Fish may help them survive.

Boone told the chief he could talk the settlers who were making salt at Blue Licks into surrendering but that the War Chief, as Black Fish was called, must guarantee that they would not be harmed. He told the Shawnee that the wintry conditions were less than ideal for taking the women and children to Detroit and that they should wait until spring. Black Fish concurred, admonishing Boone that he would go along with the plan only if Boone could talk the salt-makers into surrendering. If not, he would not even guarantee Boone's safety.

Early the next morning Boone left with the Shawnee war party and later that day the camp of the saltmakers was surrounded.

Boone walked down the hill, followed by the Indians a good distance behind. Seeing the Indians the men jumped up and grabbed their rifles.

"No don't do it," Boone cautioned them. "The odds are against us. We are surrounded and they have us outnumbered badly."

The Indians remained at a distance while Boone talked to the men.

"Black Fish has agreed that you will be treated as prisoners of war and not harmed. You'll be taken to Detroit where you will be turned over to British officers. The other choice is to fight it out today. I'll fight with you but the numbers are not in our favor. I'm afraid we'll all die here early."

"Can you trust Black Fish, Dan'?" Boone was asked.

"I trust that we can," he answered. "The other choice, to fight and die here today, would leave the women and children at Boonesborough in a dangerous position."

The salt makers formed in a circle, talked quietly before stacking their arms. The Indians, en masse, then proceeded out from the woods, encircled them and instructed them to sit down.

Editor's note: The Indians decide the fate of their prisoners next week in Jadon's From the Mountains.

Health Matters

by Christopher Fleming
Exercise increases quality of life

A study of Harvard graduates demonstrated that moderate exercise may add up to 10 months longer to the lives of men ages 45 and 55. This finding is consistent with other studies published over the past few years.

The added months of life due to moderate exercise has varied with the studies. As many of these studies point out, moderate exercise may affect individuals differently. Thus, some individuals may add years to their lives while others may add a single day.

So, why exercise? Exercise offers a higher quality of life. Individuals who exercise have higher self-esteem. They tend to suffer less from depression and other psychological disorders. As many beginning exercisers report, "They just feel better about themselves."

Exercise may add years of independence to an individual's life. As people become older, they tend to need more help with daily living activities—for example, opening a jar, shoveling snow, mowing the lawn and many others. Eventually some people may have to enter a nursing home because they can no longer take care of themselves.

A study by the Tufts School of Public Health has shown that a weight training program for a person who is in a nursing home because he is no longer physically able to take care of himself may reduce the level of care he needs or may enable him to live independently.

If an individual exercises on a regular basis, he may be self-sufficient well into his 90s.

In conclusion, regular exercise may increase longevity moderately. However, the most important benefit of exercise is the increased quality of life. The best reason to exercise is the ability to do most daily living activities without being out of breath or straining. So when you exercise, do not think of the added years to your life, but think of the benefit of enjoying your later years.

Tip of the Week: Reduce the amount of nuts in baked goods. Nuts contain large amounts of fat and calories.

A stalk in the field is worth more than one-time money in the pocket

KPA News Bureau Director
Would Kentucky's burley tobacco farmers give up their tobacco crops forever for a chance at a $7.50-per-pound buy-out?

Yes, some would, Danny McKinney of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association said Tuesday.

"What would farmers do the next year after a buy-out?" McKinney said to members of the state Tobacco Task Force. "Most farmers would buy a new truck or mower with the money, and next year they would be wondering what to do for a living."

Talk about a proposed buy-out surfaced during discussion of the Rose Plan, a plan by a North Carolina congressman that would essentially pay tobacco farmers not to grow tobacco. Under the proposed plan, farmers would be paid $7.50 for every pound of their tobacco base, and then they would not grow any more tobacco.

To pay for the buy-out, an extra 10-cent-per-pack tax would be put on cigarettes.

The plan is good for tobacco growers who are planning to retire in the near future, but leaves the younger-generation tobacco farmer out of a job, McKinney said.

"I'm real concerned about that 30-to-40-year-old guy," McKinney said.

McKinney also expressed concern for tenant farmers, who grow tobacco crops for people who cannot or choose not to grow their own. There is no provision for these people under the Rose Plan.

On the bright side for some tobacco farmers, McKinney said he believes the plan has only a 40 percent chance of passing Congress, and he does not think it will pass this year.

Rep. Lonnie Napier, R-Lancaster, said he does not like the look of the future of tobacco under the Rose Plan. "You'll see farm land values drop if this happens," he said.

Sen. Fred Bradley, D-Frankfort, said he does not think everyone has thought through all the aspects of the plan.

"What would the actual dollar figure be?" Bradley asked. "I don't think it would go up. What about taxes?"

"The older farmers about ready to quit, they don't seem to mind this, but the younger ones, they want the income in the future."

McKinney also informed the task force of current issues facing the tobacco industry. Among those included:

*Leasing tobacco. McKinney said apparently some congressmen want to eliminate leasing because it adds 40 or 50 cents to the cost of tobacco production. He said some people have mentioned having people lose 4 to 5 percent of their tobacco quota every time they lease their crops, and giving that 4 or 5 percent to whomever had leased the crops.

"One old man said, 'What I hear you saying is you want to take it away from the old folks and give it to the young folks.' That could be a problem," McKinney said.

*Tobacco pool stacks are now at 410 million pounds, and they should be at about 75 million. They need to be lowered to reduce the quota out for next year. To cut the pool stacks, McKinney proposed lowering the price on them so companies would buy them out, with the assurance the companies would buy the same amount of tobacco in following years.

*Price-support levels. McKinney said the task force should look at prices for individual grades of tobacco. He also recommended freezing price-support levels for the next four or five years.

Tick feeding chamber replaces live animal

by Kathryn Barry Steljes
David Stiller encourages his 1,000 ticks to bite, but no one's complaining.

Thanks to a new feeding chamber for ticks designed by a Kenyan researcher, Stiller and colleagues in the U.S. Department of Agriculture are investigating ticks and the diseases they carry—but without relying on a live animal as food for the blood-sucking pests.

"The feeding chamber mimics the skin of a cow, tricking the finicky ticks into feeding as they do on animals," says Stiller, an entomologist for USDA's Agricultural Research Service, based at an animal disease laboratory in Moscow, Idaho.

Stiller and fellow ARS entomologist Michael Coan are the first scientists to use the chamber in conjunction with genetic probes to study Anaplasma and Babesia blood parasites that ticks transmit to cattle. These parasites, not the ticks, cause diseases like anaplasmosis and babesiosis in cattle.

Stiller says the chamber also could be used to study diseases that ticks transmit to humans, dogs and cats, like Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

"For the first time, we can use biotechnology tools to measure the amount of a disease agent transmitted by a tick to an animal host," Stiller says. This information is crucial for evaluating the effectiveness of vaccines.

Stiller's specific goals include testing potential vaccines for anaplasmosis and babesiosis. These and other tick-borne cattle diseases cause death, illness and loss of meat and milk production costing the world's cattle industry over $10 billion annually, he says.

Each jar-like chamber, about 2 inches in diameter and 3 inches deep, provides space for 20 to 50 ticks. They bite through the membrane to suck blood stored underneath. The membrane is heated to skin temperature and covered with cattle hair, cattle skin secretions and tick feces. That makes it attractive, Stiller says, to tick species that transmit anaplasmosis and babesiosis. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

3. After you start building your home or installing your mobile home, be sure that the people doing the work are certified by the state to install on-site sewage systems according to the approved design. People sometimes change their minds about locations or move soil around. Doing this changes the situation and can result in an installation that is different from the one approved in the design. When this happens, the installation may not be approved even though the plan and site had an approved design.

The best way to do this job right the first time is to keep in touch with your local health department, hire an approved installer (your local health department can supply you a list of certified installers in your area), and build according to the approved design.

Avoid trouble with a septic tank installation

by Rice C. Leach, M.D., Commissioner
Department for Health Services
If you are going to buy a lot, build a house, or set up a mobile home and you plan to use a septic system for the bathroom, laundry, and kitchen, you should read this.

As Commissioner of Health, I am responsible for enforcing regulations applicable to on-site waste systems. I have found that there are some big problems that can be eliminated by following three steps:

1. Before you buy a lot for a house or mobile home, have the lot evaluated by your local health department to make sure that the soil can accommodate the kind of septic system needed by the building and family. There is usually a fee associated with this and you can get details from your local health department.

2. Before you build a house or purchase a mobile home, be sure that you have applied for a septic system

Scientists combat pine needles threatening cows

by Marcia Wood
On pastures and ranges of the West, ponderosa pine trees shelter cattle from blistering heat in summer and violent snowstorms in winter.

But the trees' needles pose a threat to pregnant cows and the calves they're carrying. That's because the needles contain a toxin. Cows that eat the needles may abort or deliver weak, premature calves that may die.

U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have now unmasked the mysterious toxin. Their discovery may bring them a step closer to finding an antidote, says research chemist Dale R. Gardner of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"Out tests pinpoint the culprit as isocupressic (eye-so-cue-PRESS-ik) acid, a yellow, oily substance," says Gardner. To find the toxin, Gardner and colleagues at the ARS Poisonous Plant Research Laboratory, Logan, Utah, scrutinized compounds extracted from more than two tons of ponderosa pine needles and bark.

Ponderosa pine grows in every western state, where it is valued for its beauty, shade and high-quality lumber. On the other hand, cattle herd losses from premature births, abortions, post-pregnancy complications and related expenses—all due to pine needle toxin—can cost western cattle ranchers an estimated $20 million a year.

Bulls, steers and non-pregnant cows generally are unaffected by the pine needles. And domestic sheep and goats apparently can safely graze the needles.

Ranchers and scientists have known for about 30 years that cows can go into premature labor within days after grazing on ponderosa pine. "Though some pine-needle-preemies are smaller than normal," says laboratory director Lynn F. James, "they may survive. Ranchers of course try to keep their cows away from these trees in the critical last three months of pregnancy. But, there may be just too many trees and it's impossible to remove all of the fallen needles."

Now that they've pinpointed the toxin, the ARS scientists will investigate environmental factors—like temperature—that might cause the amount of the chemical in the needles to vary. And, they'll examine other pine and bark chemicals in the same family as isocupressic acid to find out if those other chemicals also may play a role in pine needle poisoning. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Lots of eager, pumped-up kids out walking at night. Most wearing masks that slip and slide so that vision comes and goes. Many wearing long costumes that are easy to get wrapped up in or caught on something. Some venturing into unknown neighborhoods, trekking through dark yards.

The very nature of Halloween is an invitation for someone to get hurt, so health and safety officials are reminding parents and kids of some simple precautions that can keep Halloween from turning into a real nightmare.

Terry Wescott, manager of the Department for Health Services product safety branch, says the number one precaution for trick-or-treaters is adult supervision for young children and group protection for older kids.

Wescott says the following tips can prevent Halloween mishaps.

- Before leaving home, children of all ages should be reminded of everyday safety precautions — don't run between parked cars; don't talk to strangers or accept rides from them; stay away from high-traffic areas and strange neighborhoods; and do not walk through lawns but use side-walks instead.

- Parents should try to notice the treats given at each home in case there's a question later about the safety of a particular item.

- Children should not eat candy before parents have checked each piece for signs of tampering, such as puncture holes in wrappers or candy that has been unwrapped and repackaged. Suspect items should be reported to police. Homemade treats or fresh fruit from strangers should be discarded.

- Avoid costumes longer than ankle-length and those with long, billowing sleeves and capes. Shoes should be comfortable and easy to walk in. Wigs, masks and costumes should be made of flame-retardant materials.

- Costumes should be light colored to be easily seen at night. Both costumes and sacks should be decorated with reflective "glow-in-the-dark" tape. If masks are worn, eye holes should be large enough to allow good vision. Make-up is a safer and more creative disguise.

- The best safety precaution of all is a group Halloween party.

"Parents who are looking for a good, fun option to door-to-door trick-or-treating might consider throwing a Halloween party," Wescott said. "Several families from a neighborhood or school class might get together and have a group celebration."

Here's some recipes for a hauntingly fun Halloween party. Most of these recipes were taken from the Covered Bridge Cookbook, which can be obtained by writing the Roann Covered Bridge Assn. Inc., P.O. Box 272, Roann, Indiana 46974.

Goof balls

1 lb. caramels
1 stick margarine
1 can sweetened condensed milk
1 lb. pkg. marshmallows
Rice Krispies

Melt together over low heat or double boiler the caramels, margarine and milk. Put marshmallow on a fork and spoon caramel mixture over it; roll in the Rice Krispies.

Peanut butter Ritz

1 lb regular or white chocolate peanut butter
3/4 lb. box Ritz Bits

Spread peanut butter on Ritz crackers. Make a sandwich, then dip in melted chocolate and cool on waxed paper.

Popcorn sticks

1 can (12 oz.) Planter's cocktail peanuts
1 can (12 oz.) Brer Rabbit molasses
1 bag (10 1/2 oz.) miniature marshmallows
8 oz. popped popcorn, kernels removed

1 Tbs. butter
1 heaping Tbs. baking soda

Spray two 9x13-inch pans, 4-quart saucepan and 10-quart mixing bowl with Pam cooking spray.

On medium heat, cook molasses and 1 tablespoon butter in saucepan till mixture forms a soft ball in cold water.

Add baking soda to mixture until cooked and foamy.

Then pour over popcorn, marshmallows and peanuts (in that order) and mix together until all is mixed.

Divide into pans and press mixture till formed. Note: Stick hands in cold water often to prevent mixture from sticking to you.

Let cool; cut into desired size sticks. Wrap in Saran Wrap. This treat freezes well.

Caramel corn

8 c. popped popcorn
3/4 c. packed brown sugar

6 Tbs. butter or margarine
3 Tbs. light corn syrup
1/4 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. vanilla

Remove all unpopped kernels from popped corn. Put popcorn into a 17x12x2-inch baking pan. In a saucepan, combine sugar, butter, corn syrup and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cook and stir over medium heat till butter melts and mixture comes to a boil. Cook without stirring, for five minutes more.

Remove from heat. Stir in baking soda and vanilla. Pour over popcorn; gently stir to coat popcorn. Bake in a 300° oven for 15 minutes, stir. Bake 5 to 10 minutes more. Remove corn to large bowl; cool.

Peanut butter popcorn

2 poppers of freshly popped popcorn
1 c. extra crunchy peanut butter
1/2 c. light corn syrup
1/2 c. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla

Mix peanut butter, light corn syrup and sugar in heavy saucepan. Cook till smooth. Add vanilla. Pour over freshly popped corn and mix.

This is a lot like caramel corn. Regular peanut butter may be used instead of extra crunchy, if you prefer. Recipe can be adjusted to the amount of popcorn you have.

Microwave caramel corn

6 qt. popped corn
1 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. margarine
1/4 c. light corn syrup, room temperature
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. baking soda

After corn is popped, put in brown bag, sprayed with Pam. In quart measuring bowl, put brown sugar, margarine, corn syrup and salt. Cook two minutes; stir, cook two more minutes. Remove from heat; add soda.

Pour over corn in sack. Stir or shake well. Leave sack open a little on top. Cook 1 1/2 minutes on high in microwave. Remove and shake. Cook 45 seconds — remove and shake. Cook 30 seconds. Remove and shake. Spread on cookie sheet and let cool. Will not be sticky.

Cracker Jack

3 qt. popped corn
1 c. brown sugar
1/2 c. margarine
1/4 c. white corn syrup
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda

Spray inside of a large brown paper grocery bag with vegetable cooking spray. Pour popped corn into paper bag. In a microwave-safe bowl, combine brown sugar, margarine, corn syrup and salt. Microwave on high for two minutes. Stir; microwave on high two more minutes. Stir in soda.

Pour over popped corn in the bag. Close bag by folding down top. Shake bag. Microwave on high for one minute. Remove bag from oven and shake well. Microwave one more minute on high. Shake well. Pour out on waxed paper to cool. Store in airtight container.

Peanutty chocolate apples

8 wooden skewers
8 medium-size apples, stems removed
1 pkg. (12 oz.) Reese's Peanut Butter Flavored Chips (about 2 cups)
1/2 c. Hershey's Cocoa
1/3 c. confectioners' sugar

1/3 c. shortening or vegetable oil (do not use butter or margarine)

Insert wooden skewer into each washed and thoroughly dried apple. Combine peanut butter chips, cocoa, confectioners' sugar and shortening in top of double boiler over hot water; stir constantly until chips are melted and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat. Dip apples in mixture; twirl to remove excess coating (return to low heat or add additional oil, 1 teaspoon at a time, if coating is too thick.)

Allow to cool on wax paper-covered baking sheet. Refrigerate if desired.

what we Appalachians—especially the older folk—speak is very close to the original language spoke in the days of Chaucer and Shakespeare, and that students from our region, by and large, have less difficulty when studying The Canterbury Tales and Macbeth than, say, someone from New York or Los Angeles.

If you look at it from that angle, it would appear that they, not we, need to polish up on the mother tongue.

centers, the seniors receive the benefit of socialization and many of the other services provided in the center setting.

However, there are many persons confined to their home and unable to attend a senior citizens center because of poor health, accident, frailty, etc. If these seniors are unable to cook for themselves, or have no one to provide regular meals for them, or 60 years old or older, or a handicapped person or spouse living with someone 60 years old, they may qualify for the home-delivered meals program.

Not every senior citizen eligible to receive these meals is receiving them due to the lack of sufficient funding and staff.

There are several things that individuals, churches and civic groups can do to assist the Senior Citizens Program in providing meals for all the elderly in Floyd County.

Here's how to help.

- Adopt an elderly person.
- Pay for the cost of a daily meal for an elderly person.
- Make donations to the Home Delivered Meals Program in your area.

- Volunteer to assist the senior citizens center in the pickup and/or delivery of meals.

- Provide emergency shelf meals for the elderly.

- Churches, fire departments, clubs and other organized groups can through an agreement with one of the Floyd County Senior Citizens programs, become a drop-off point for home-delivered meals in their local area and can deliver those meals to the frail and homebound elderly by using volunteers from their group.

Anyone who is interested in helping the senior citizens centers provide food to those in need, or to refer someone to receive the meals, call the senior citizens centers at the following telephone numbers: Betsy Layne, 478-9583; Martin, 285-9573; McDowell, 377-0171; Prestonsburg, 886-6855; Wayland, 358-4161; or Wheelwright, 452-2179. Or, call the Big Sandy ADD Aging Services at 886-2374.

Senior citizens, if it were possible for me to visit with each of you personally, and during our conversation I were to ask, "Would you like lower utility bills?" your answer would be an unequivocal "Yes!" If my next question were, "Are you willing to help make this possible?" Most of you would wonder, and ask, "What difference could I possibly make?" Once I told you of the tremendous impact you could have on lowering your own utility bills, most of you would want to help but most of you would be apprehensive. For some reason, those with the greatest needs are oftentimes those most afraid of speaking up; of becoming involved; of advocating change. Yet these people, and especially senior citizens existing on extremely limited incomes, are the ones who suffer most from the financial pressures caused by outrageous utility bills. Today, I'm not able to talk with you person-to-person. However, through the Floyd County Times, and its gracious attitude toward senior citizens and the working poor in Eastern Kentucky, I am able to talk with you through this newspaper.

You do want lower utility bills! You who have the greatest financial difficulties are the ones who can influence change. You can make a difference! Do you want to keep on paying high utility bills? Or, would you prefer to get involved and make a difference? It's your money. You can keep paying as you have, and expect to pay even higher utility bills in the months and years ahead, or you can get involved in a program being developed called Demand Side Management (DSM). In today's article I'll give you some highlights of what DSM is all about, but the bottom line is that it will not work without input from struggling poor people and senior citizens who find it difficult to pay high utility bills on fixed incomes.

In a nutshell, DSM is a program where utilities like Kentucky Power Company are given financial incentives to develop conservative programs to benefit its customers. In other words utility companies are paid to find ways to need less electricity to serve its customers. If there becomes less a need for electricity, much overhead now being spent to generate more electricity will be cut. These savings will then be passed on to us, the consumer. Above all, low income customers, who face shut offs when they can't pay their bills, need these conservation programs. These programs, once initiated, will be a tremendous savings to us, the customers.

Early detection may prevent breast cancer

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and The Women's Pavilion Breast Center is urging women to take responsibility for their health. While many women recognize the importance of early detection in preventing breast cancer, far too few make it a priority. Women should start today, during this nationally-recognized month, to make a difference in their own lives by following these guidelines to help ensure their continued breast health and well-being:

- For women under age 35...
 - Perform breast self-examination monthly
 - Starting at age 20, have breasts examined regularly by their physician.
 - Follow doctor's recommendation if there is a family or personal history of breast cancer.

Mammography may also be advised if a woman has never had children (or had her first child after age 30), or if a woman began menstruating before she was 11 years old.

- For women 35 or older...
 - Ages 35-40 Have a baseline mammogram for comparison with mammograms in later years.
 - Ages 41-49 Should have a mammogram every one to two years.
 - Over 50 years of age Have a mammogram once a year.

For more information on breast self-examination, call The Women's Pavilion at (502) 629-7000 or (800) 852-1770. The Women's Pavilion Health & Resource Center offers women at all stages of life resources and services for maintaining a healthy lifestyle. The Center is staffed with women's specialists to offer expertise and counseling through the Breast and Fertility centers, and a Midlife Center dealing with issues from menopause to osteoporosis.

Kentucky Power services approximately 158,000 customers in 332 communities—basically all of Eastern Kentucky. Of these, 30% or about 47,400 are residential customers like you and myself. Of these 47,400 customers, 3,383 households experienced disconnects or shut-offs in 1993. Inability of customers to pay their bills was the greatest contributing factor. Of those whose electric service was interrupted, only 2,197 customers were reinstated. Of those who once could afford electricity, it appears 1,186 customers are now having to do without. It's time we get involved in making a change that will benefit not only our children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, but allow us to keep a little more of our hard-earned money in our own pockets and not have to mail it away to pay a high utility bill.

So, senior citizen, you want to save money. You want lower electric bills. You want to have a voice in your own future. Now that you know you can make a difference here is all you have to do. Call me at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-556-3876 and ask for your free DSM packet. It contains a cover letter, information about low income program proposals, and an endorsement, that when signed and returned will make a difference. While you are at it, ask about other ways the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens may be able to help you if you are 60 years of age or over.

The Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens is sponsored by the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky Inc. (Legal Services). Our office in Prestonsburg works with senior citizens in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties. Our purpose is to help you receive benefits that are legally and rightfully yours and to help you work through any roadblocks you might encounter in the process. Call us today if we can help you. Call to request your free Demand Side Management endorsement packet. Your signature will make a difference. Remember, you can keep paying as you have or you can make a difference. The choice is yours.

Exchange vows

Rebecca Sue Wright, daughter of Paul D. and Diana Crider of Prestonsburg, and Shannon Branham, son of George and Tiann Branham of Wheelwright, were united in marriage on October 1 at the home of George and Tiann Branham. They reside at Wheelwright.

Birthday celebrated

Berry Akers celebrated his 85th birthday with his family and friends at his home on Branhams Creek at Grethel. Thirty-eight people attended. Among those were his six children: Hershel, Charles, and Buddy Akers, Jurlene Hall and Janice Murphy, all of Ohio, and Shirley Hamilton of Grethel. Also attending were five of his 22 grandchildren, five of his 24 great-grandchildren, and his great-great-granddaughter. He is still very active in the community and church, loves to hunt for ginseng and squirrel.

Cato scholarships established

The Cato Corporation has established five scholarships to institutions of higher learning including a university, two colleges, a community college and a nursing school. The scholarships are awarded to students from communities The Cato Corporation serves and are based on academic merit and financial need. The Cato Corporation operates women's apparel specialty stores under the names Cato, Cato Fashions, Cato Plus and It's Fashion!

"Our scholarship program gives us an opportunity to demonstrate our appreciation to the communities and customers we serve," said Wayland H. Cato, Jr., Chairman and CEO of The Cato Corporation. "It is important to note that each recipient will come from a community where we have a store. The program will give deserving students access to further education and will ultimately benefit the entire community."

The five institutions involved in the Cato Scholarship Program are Davidson College, Queens College, Johnson C. Smith University, Central Piedmont Community College and Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing.

The scholarships at the five institutions are awarded annually to students entering their first year of study. Contingent upon satisfactory academic performance, scholarships are renewable for the typical length of instruction (4 years at the colleges and university; 2 years at the community college and nursing school).

Students interested in applying for a Cato scholarship should contact the participating institution for an application for admission. Upon acceptance to the school, students may apply to the institution for a Cato Scholarship.

The Cato Corporation operates more than 600 stores, principally in non-metropolitan markets in the South and Southeast. The Cato Corporation has been in business since 1946 and is headquartered in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Davidson College is a private co-educational liberal arts college affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Located about 20 miles north of Charlotte, North Carolina, Davidson enrolls approximately 1,500 students. Davidson was established in 1837 and is consistently ranked among the top liberal arts colleges in the country by U.S. News and World Report.

Queens College is a private co-educational liberal arts college in Charlotte with more than 1,600 students enrolled in degree-seeking courses of study. Founded in 1857, the college has emerged in recent years as a national model for successful liberal arts learning. Queens is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Johnson C. Smith University was founded in 1867 in Charlotte and is an undergraduate school offering varied studies in the liberal arts. With an enrollment of 1,300 students, the college offers the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees.

Central Piedmont Community College has been nationally recognized as one of the top five community colleges in America based on excellence in teaching. Close to 20,000 people are enrolled full-time at Central Piedmont with an additional 40,000 participating in various class offerings as part-time and special students. The college offers the Associate in Applied Science, Associate of Arts, Associate in Fine Arts and Associate in General Education degrees.

Presbyterian School of Nursing is affiliated with Presbyterian Hospital, a 642-bed comprehensive health care facility. The hospital was established in 1903, making it the oldest hospital in the region. It was named Charlotte's preferred hospital by the National Research Corporation in 1992.

New accountant

President-elect Kelly J. King, CPA of the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants congratulates Eugene C. Weathers III.

CPAs are honored at awards banquet

Eugene C. Weathers III was recognized at the Fall Awards Banquet sponsored by the Kentucky Society of Certified Public Accountants honoring new CPAs and successful candidates from the May 1994 CPA Examination.

One of the most difficult certification tests in the nation, the CPA exam was taken by over 62,000 candidates nationwide last May. He was one of over 90 candidates sworn in by Assistant Kentucky Attorney General Richard C. Carroll at the banquet.

Weathers is employed by Faulkner and King, PSC in Mt. Sterling and is a graduate of Morehead State University. He is the son of Eugene and Linda Weathers of Prestonsburg.

Clark Grave Vault opens Eastern Kentucky distribution center

The Clark Grave Vault Company of Columbus, Ohio, announced the opening of their sixth regional distribution center in Allen. Clark also operates distribution centers in Greensboro, North Carolina; Atlanta, Georgia; Princeton, Kentucky; Dallas, Texas; and Kansas City, Missouri.

Clark will use the 7,500 square foot building as a central distributing point for funeral homes in Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, and Virginia. Funeral directors and distributors can either pick up units at the center or can choose to have the units delivered by uniformed Clark drivers on a fleet of new delivery trucks. Funeral directors in Kentucky and Tennessee are currently receiving Clark products from the Eastern Kentucky Distribution Center.

"Clark Vault is proud to be located in Kentucky and help support an area that has used our products for many years. We currently employ six Kentuckians and will hire more in the near future," stated Doug Beck, vice-president.

For more than 95 years, Columbus-based Clark Grave Vault has manufactured the highest quality metal burial vaults.

FACTS FROM EXPERTS AT THE AMERICAN PODIATRIC MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
Treat Your Feet To Proper Pain Treatment

(NAPS)—Knowing the truth from the myth when it comes to foot pain and injuries can help you walk away from some pretty serious problems. See how much you know about these:

Myth: It can't be broken if you can move it.

Truth: Often, you can walk with certain fractures, such as breaks of the thinner of the two leg bones, small "chip" fractures of the foot or ankle bones and the frequently neglected fracture of a toe.

Myth: If you break a toe, immediate care isn't necessary.

Truth: A toe fracture needs prompt attention. If x-rays reveal it to be a simple, undisplaced fracture, care by a podiatrist usually can provide rapid relief.

If x-rays identify a displaced or angular break, prompt "setting" of the fracture by a podiatrist will help prevent improper or incomplete healing. Many people develop post-fracture deformity of toes, which in turn results in the formation of a painfully deformed digit with a most painful corn.

Myth: Soaking in hot water is best for foot or ankle injuries.

Truth: Actually, hot water makes the blood vessels open wide, letting the blood rush into the injured area more rapidly, causing more swelling, more pressure on the nerves and more pain. An ice bag wrapped in a towel has a contracting effect on blood vessels, produces a numbing effect and prevents swelling and pain.

Myth: An elastic band is all a severely sprained ankle really needs.

Truth: Ankle sprains often mean torn or severe-

Don't be careless about your feet. Any pain or injury should be treated promptly and professionally.

overstretched ligaments. These should receive immediate care, such as an x-ray examination and immobilization by professional strapping to reduce motion, casting and physiotherapy to ensure a normal recovery. Sometimes surgery is necessary.

It's wise to keep an eye on your feet and to take any foot pain seriously—and to a podiatrist.
