Effort to rescind resignation called irrelevant

Wheelwright official claims he was forced to quit, but bond stipulates he must stay out of Floyd County

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A Wheelwright city commissioner who agreed this week to quit his post and leave the county apparently has decided that the agreement was not so agreeable.

In a letter dated August 30, the same day he was released from jail, Wheelwright Commissioner Charles Harmon alleged through his attorney, Larry Webster, that his resignation from the commission Tuesday was "signed under force and was unlawfully obtained."

Harmon had resigned from the city commission earlier Tuesday, after he had been jailed on charges of first degree unlawful imprisonment and spouse abuse.

He said in his letter of resignation that he "freely and willingly" agreed to resign and that he would "physically leave the City of Wheelwright and...will not return."

After his release from jail on bond, Harmon apparently contacted Webster, a Pikeville attorney, who issued a letter to the Wheelwright city clerk concerning the "purported resignation of Charles Harmon."

That letter alleged that Harmon, "under force, signed a document purporting to resign as a City Commissioner of Wheelwright, Kentucky."

The letter further contends that "This document was signed under force and was unlawfully obtained and, as his attorney, I am notifying you that he hereby withdraws an attempt to resign. Please let the record reflect that Mr. Harmon does not resign as City Commissioner of Wheelwright. Please destroy his purported resignation letter when it arrives."

Webster could not be reached Thursday to discuss the letter or elaborate on who might have forced Harmon to resign.

The resignation Harmon signed was not among the stipulations for his bond or release from jail on the unlawful imprisonment or spouse abuse charges.

The provisions for bond included requirements that Harmon have no contact with his wife; that he stay out of Floyd County except for court appearances on the charges; that he be charged with no other violations of the law; and that he post a $20,000 surety bond.

Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill declined comment on the case, but Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said Thursday that Harmon's bid to rescind his resignation was irrelevant.

"We will enforce the provisions of his bond," Thompson said, "and if he shows up in this county he's going to be put under arrest. He's not going to have time to serve on the commission."

Harmon was unavailable Thursday for comment.

Suspect is extradited for trial in murder

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

An Ohio man wanted on a murder charge in that state waived extradition Wednesday morning and was transported back to Geneva, Ohio, by police Wednesday afternoon.

In Floyd District Court Wednesday morning, Lawrence Smith, 20, waived extradition to Ohio, where he is charged with the August 27 beating death of Randy Marshall, 21, of Geneva.

District Judge Danny Caudill explained the extradition process to Smith and Smith signed the extradition forms.

During Wednesday's hearing, Smith told Judge Caudill, "after today, I will not be back in the state of Kentucky."

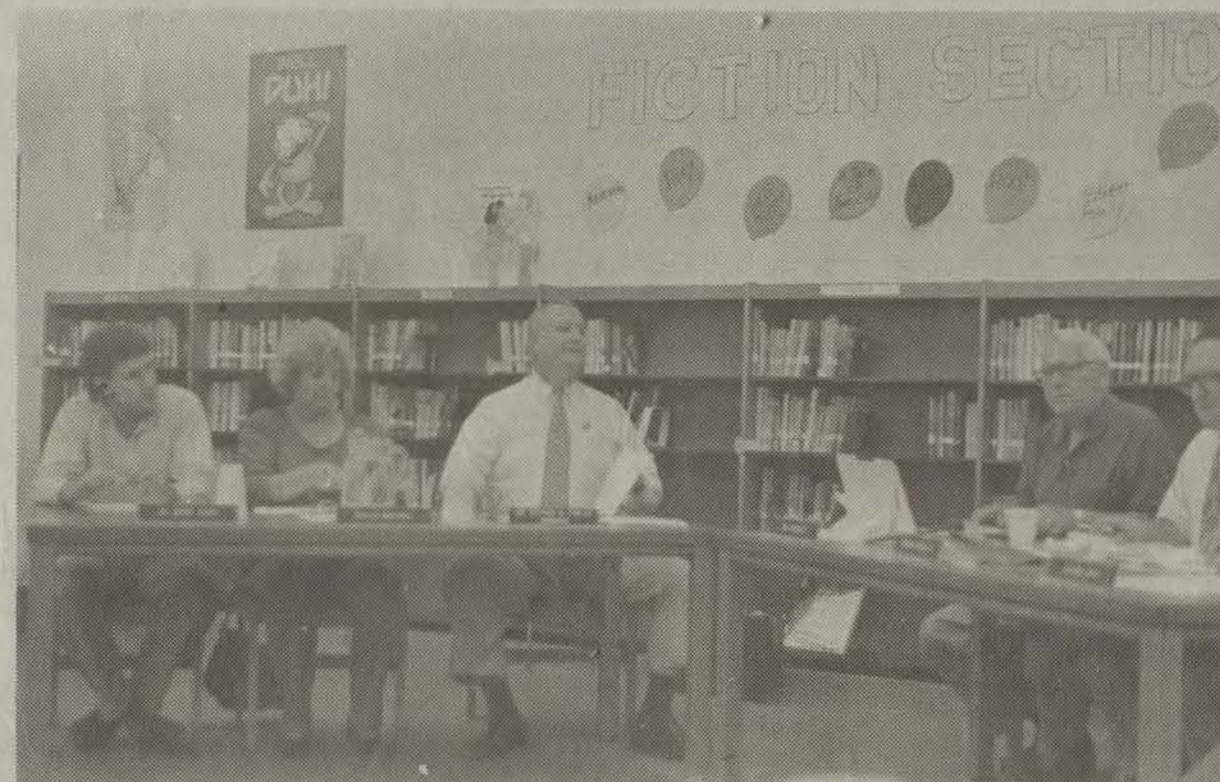

Smith was arrested Tuesday morning at a relative's home in Bucks Branch near Martin by Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and deputies Lloyd Powers and Ricky Thornsberry.

Ohio authorities alerted the sheriff's department at approximately 1:30 a.m. Wednesday that Smith could be in the county. Deputy Powers, who was on patrol at Left Beaver Townhouses, spotted a vehicle which turned out to belong to a relative of Smith.

Officers were tipped that Smith was at the Bucks Branch residence. He was taken into custody at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Smith was also wanted on eight charges in Floyd County stemming from an incident last spring at the Holiday Inn. Prestonsburg policeman Ricky Conn arrested Smith and charged with him eight misdemeanors.

On Wednesday, Judge Caudill sentenced Smith to jail time on those charges, but told the suspect that he would not have to serve his sentence if Ohio authorities extradited him.

Hearing cancelled

Hazing issue is settled without board hearing

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Prestonsburg High School football player has requested that a hearing before the school board concerning an alleged hazing incident last month be canceled.

At a special school board meeting Wednesday, board members were set to conduct a hearing to examine evidence in connection with the incident, which resulted in one player being kicked off the team and three others being suspended for several games.

Board member Eddie Patton announced that the father of the player kicked off the team had called him and requested that the proceedings not be held because, "(the student) didn't want to name names" and he felt it would hurt other players on the team.

The grandmother of the player forced off the team told board members Wednesday that she felt the punishment was unjust and that her grandson was being penalized because "he was the only child man enough to come forward and say 'I did it.'"

The grandmother added that during her other grandson's freshman year on the team, he went through a hazing incident that "was so filthy, I don't want to repeat it."

Hazing is a form of intimidation or harassment generally associated with initiation rituals.

Superintendent Steve Towler gave board members a written report on the incident and said he felt that principal Karen Trivette and coach Bill Letton had made the right decisions concerning the incident.

The one player was booted off the team, Towler said, because of his "accumulative" discipline record at the school and that the student was "more involved in the incident."

Board chairman Ray Brackett commented that the board did not condone that type of activity, but he felt that the "punishment should have been dealt out on an equal basis."

Board member Patton agreed and asked what type of supervision the students were under at the football camp and if the staff was aware of any other incidents.

Towler said that coach Letton and the principal knew of no prior hazing

Three nabbed by task force in drug bust

Three people were arrested on drug charges in Pike County Saturday during separate raids by the Mountain Area Drug Task Force, the Kentucky State Police and the Pike County Sheriff's Department.

Kenneth Dannon, 35, of Turkey Creek in Pike County, was charged with cultivating marijuana, trafficking in marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Task force director Frank Fryman said that approximately two pounds of marijuana were seized from Gannon during the raid.

In a separate raid, Ronnie Bartley, 38, of Powells Creek, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana, possession of a handgun by a convicted felon and four counts of prescription drugs not in proper container, possession of a controlled substance, codeine, possession of drug paraphernalia and two counts of possession of a radio that sends and receives police messages.

In a raid at Robinson Creek, police arrested Richard Burchett, 26, and charged him with possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of eavesdropping devices.

All the suspects were lodged in the Pike County Detention Center.

Slone Mountain, Jenny Wiley the places to be for festival fun

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

The hills of Floyd County will be alive with the sound of music next weekend when two mountain festivals present old-fashioned entertainment.

The Kentucky Highland Folk Festival begins Friday, September 9, at the Wilkinson/Stumbo Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Park. The Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival will be held on Sunday, September 11, at McDowell.

This year marks a new era for the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which was begun 29 years ago by Edith James. This year, the festival is being incorporated into the Kentucky Opry organization.

Entertainment at the Kentucky Highland Folk Festival includes story telling, dancing, puppet shows and old-time music. Performing Friday will be the Festival Band, Hamilton Sisters, Georgia Muncie, Lawrence Webster/Mule Band, Rob McNurlin, Mary A. Neal, the Hill Country Dancers, Bob & Freda Meade and the Boys from Middlecreek.

Saturday's performers include Dave Sizemore, Wanda Hall, Ron

First Guaranty Bank merger is completed

The merger of Trans Financial Bancorp Inc. of Bowling Green and FGC Holding, a holding company for First Guaranty National Bank, was completed Wednesday.

Under the terms of the merger, 419.83 Trans Financial Bancorp shares will be assigned to FGC Holding shareholders for each share of stock they own in FGC Holding.

The stock transaction is valued at $16.3 million, based on its closing value at $15.50 per share Wednesday.

First Guaranty Bank, located in Martin and Prestonsburg, has assets of $126 million.

Dobler, Paul Neil Allen, Mike Hall and Chuck Tackett. Homer Ledford will play his saw.

The festival features gospel singing on Sunday.

Arts and crafts will be exhibited on the amphitheatre parking lot during the festival.

Arts and crafts are also a big attraction at the Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival. The craft booths sit on top of the mountain and crafts people demonstrate their handiwork throughout the day. The crafts makers will allow spectators to try their hands at helping to produce a product, such as stirring the lye soap boiling in an iron kettle.

Four stages also dot the hillside, and those listening to the gospel and country entertainment there can rest in the shade under the trees. Entertainers include Marlow Tackett and the Music Company Band, Country Persuasion, Eldridge Vance and 'he

City delays a date with history to examine code

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

The Prestonsburg City Council tabled a date with history earlier this month, deciding instead to take a little more time to figure out just what kind of history they wanted to make.

Had council given second and final reading August 22 to an ordinance establishing an ethics code for city officials and employees, they would have been among the first and perhaps the first municipality in the state to do so. Rather than set the precedent, council chose to set the ordinance aside for further review.

Cities and counties have until January 1, 1995 to adopt ethics codes that set out certain criteria for the conduct of local governments. That mandate was enacted by Kentucky's General Assembly last spring.

Minimum requirements established by the new law include the development of financial disclosure statements, to be filed annually by all elected officials, appointed officials and employees; the development of a policy on hiring relatives; and the designation of a person or group to enforce the code.

Prestonsburg gave first reading to a comprehensive ordinance on August 8 and council had scheduled August 22 as the date for enacting the code. On the advice of city attorney Larry Brown, though, final approval was delayed so council members could scrutinize the provisions before they were officially adopted.

The substance of the proposed city code was developed by the Kentucky League of Cities into a model ordinance which Prestonsburg adapted for local use. Here are some of the highlights of the original proposal:

Standards of Conduct

No city official or employee or their immediate family members shall have an interest in any business, transaction or activity which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of public duties.

Family members defined by the ordinance include spouses, parents, children, brothers, sisters, mothers-in-law, fathers-in-law, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, grandparents or grandchildren.

No city official or employee may intentionally use their official position to "secure unwarranted privileges or advantages."

 Officials or employees may not take or refrain from taking discretionary action for financial benefits. Conflicts must be disclosed if the official's vote would have an effect on a prohibited interest.

Conflicts of Interest

No official or employee may hold any contract with the city unless they meet certain exceptions.
 If the contract was awarded competitively, officials may be bidders unless they have participated in establishing contract specifications or participate in awarding the contract. If they have the authority to manage contract performance, they are also prohibited from holding a contract with the city for any goods or services.

If an official or employee had a contract for goods or services prior to the adoption of the code they may fulfill their contract obligations, but renewal would be subject to ethics code provisions.

If an official or employee publicly discloses their interest in any contract and if they can provide the best deal as it relates to price or limited supplies of goods or services, the official or employee may be allowed to provide those goods or services.

The conflict provisions also prohibit officials from accepting or soliciting gifts, loans, travel, entertainment or hospitality with a market value exceeding $100 if it could be reasonably inferred that the gift was intended to influence the actions of the official or employee.

Use of city property is also prohibited under the code, unless the general public has the same opportunities or the use is authorized by a stated city policy.

No officer or employee, with the exception of recognized bargaining organizations, may represent any business before the city in connection with any cause, proceeding, application or other matter pending before the city or any city agency.

The misuse of confidential information is prohibited as is the acceptance of honoraria with market value in excess of $100.

Financial Disclosure

The proposed ordinance would require elected officials, candidates for election, members of the planning and zoning commission and the board of adjustment, members of the board of ethics and all non-elected officers and employees who have purchasing power to make certain personal financial disclosures each year.

The contents of those reports would include information that identifies each source of income for not only the filer of the report but for the filer's immediate family that exceeds $5,000 during the preceding calendar year.

The filer would also have to identify the source of any business ownership worth more than $10,000 and they would have to identify any business relationship inside or outside the state which is anticipated to engage in business with the city.

Financial disclosure criteria would not require filers to specify amounts, but only sources of income.

Non-compliance would be punishable by fines of $25 to $500 per infraction.

Nepotism

The code would prohibit any officer or employee from advocating or recommending the employment, appointment, promotion, transfer, or advancement of a family member.

No officer or employee would be permitted to supervise or manage the work of a family member, or participate in any other action relating to the employment or discipline of a family member except for setting budgets which include compensation.

A board of ethics would be created under the ordinance to oversee provisions. No member of that board may hold any elected or appointed office with the city or any city agency.

Council is expected to discuss the proposed ethics code at its next regular meeting on September 12.

activities, but that those type of incidents do happen.

"I'm not going to deny that something like this has happened in the past," Towler said. "It is not something that a student would share with a coach or parent. Mrs. Trivette and coach Letton have assured me it will not happen in the future. A (supervisor) can't be with youngsters 24-hours a day."

The issue has apparently been settled.

In other action Wednesday, the board declared that an emergency exists at the D.W. Howard Fieldhouse at Betsy Layne to forego bidding requirements for asbestos removal.

The gym has been closed since last week, when state inspectors mandated that several damaged wall panels containing asbestos be repaired.

At the August 22 board meeting, Betsy Layne parent Lance Blackburn showed board members pictures of the damaged asbestos wall panels and asked that the situation be investigated.

The gym was closed the next day and state inspectors were at the scene on August 24.

Towler recommended that the damaged panels be sealed, not removed or replaced, so that the gym can reopen soon. Alpha Contracting of Berea submitted the least expensive proposal for $4,861.

Board member Phyllis Honshell suggested that it would be less expensive in the long run to remove all the asbestos from the gym.

Towler explained that the asbestos removal was part of a planned renovation of the gym, which was put on hold after questions arose about the validity of the architect and construction manager contracts. The superintendent added that the board has paid architect Paul Hoffman to draw up specifications for the asbestos removal.

Operations chief Jim Osborne said that Hoffman had been asked to provide a copy of those plans to the board, but the architect has not delivered them.

Patton asked that the board be given information about the estimated cost and amount of time it would take to remove all the asbestos in the gym to determine if it would be feasible.

Towler said he would provide that information.

The board approved the emergency declaration.

In other business:

The board accepted the low bid of $16,103.02 from John Gray Pontiac-Buick for a maintenance van. Towler recommended that the van be purchased from Music-Carter-Hughes because it was a local dealership. The Music-Carter-Hughes bid was $200 higher, but the board opted to stick with the lowest bid.

The board approved buying 24,000 BTU air conditioners from Wal-Mart and 30,000 BTU units from Brock McVey.

The board accepted the 1994-96 offer of assistance from the School Facilities Construction Commission for $65,529. Towler told the board that because of state restrictions, the board would only be allowed to use half of that allocation for school construction projects. The $32,764.50 equates to approximately $320,000 in bonding potential.

The board approved creating the position of a data entry clerk for the energy management department. The $8 per hour salary will be paid from grant monies in that department.

The next meeting of the board will be Monday, September 19 at 6:30 p.m. at Prestonsburg Elementary.

CableVision announces Project TEACH

Demonstrating its continuing commitment to area schools, Prestonsburg CableVision recently announced the launch of a major education initiative, Project TEACH (Taking Education Along the Cable Highway).

An entirely locally-oriented initiative, Project TEACH is dedicated to assisting Clark Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary, Prestonsburg High and Adams Middle schools in a number of important areas: educational programming, teacher training and recognition and fundraising. It is intended to build on, coordinate and widen the efforts CableVision has already undertaken on behalf of education which, in addition to delivering hundreds of hours of educational cable programming at no charge, have also generated significant revenue for schools through donations of cash, awards and equipment.

According to Prestonsburg CableVision's General Manager Dan Perry, "We at Prestonsburg CableVision firmly believe there can be no greater contribution to a community than working to enhance the education of its young people. The launch of Project TEACH marks an even greater commitment on the part of all of us at CableVision to use our technology and position in the community to benefit area schools."

Scheduled to coincide with the start of the 1994-95 school year, Project TEACH kicks off in September with CableVision's You + Cable = Money for our School's campaign.

With this effort, CableVision will offer free installation and donate one-half of the first month's service fees for new customers and premium service upgrades to area schools.

Other elements of Project TEACH include: CableVision's 1994-95 Teacher Award, Cable in the Classroom program, Teacher Training Workshops and more.

"Project TEACH is our way of giving back to the community we feel fortunate to serve. We hope teachers, administrators, media specialists, parents and anyone else interested in education will take an active part in this effort and offer further suggestions as to how CableVision can work to benefit area schools."

Speech camp scheduled

Floyd County recorded a 6.8 percent rate.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 37 percent had worked in mining, 15.7 percent in trade, 15.5 percent in services and 12.2 percent in transportation, communications and utilities.

Follow the leaders

by Scott Perry

Prestonsburg is about to embark on an uncharted journey into the land of ethics, a frontier where few political associations have gone before.

Though they had little choice but to make this trip, it's important that they decided to get an early start so they could get the bugs worked out before a January 1, 1995 deadline.

Some branches of local government have yet to utter the word "ethics" in public, let alone start working on a code that is mandated by state law.

A few, no doubt, will do as little about ethics as they can to get by, and as late in the game as they can manage.

Prestonsburg's proposed ethics code is pretty comprehensive.

It covers nepotism, conflicts of interest, financial disclosures and enforcement...things the code is supposed to address.

That's good.

It goes beyond the minimum requirements set down by state law, too.

That's better.

We've never believed, though, that ethics are things that can be legislated.

You either have them or you don't.

Public officials without any sense of moral responsibility aren't public servants, they're self-servants.

While every government agency has its share of the latter, Prestonsburg's City Council is taking a pretty good stab at developing the kind of trust and accountability its public deserves.

Others in the business of public business should follow their lead.

The sooner the better.

Let's stand together

Editor:

Last week I was in Columbus, Ohio, visiting my sister, and when I saw those garbage trucks that said Rumpke, that made me sick. I used to work up there and how these Buckeyes made fun of us hillbillies.

And I thought, "Well, how would it be now?" They really have a right to. You poor hillbillies don't know enough to take care of a garbage hole, or can't be trusted with the collection or the money.

Where are our own elected officials that said they would stand by and help us any time? The poor don't have a chance. At least we are honest. We pay our taxes to you fat cats so you can give yourself a raise and educate your own children. You ought to stand up for the poor cause they have kept you many years and still are.

I think people that don't have any children should pay school taxes. What do you think? I know our taxes will go up again this year. According to the Left Beaver news, they had to hire guards at the Left Beaver town house. Isn't that a joke? Who does that belong to? Let's find out. You may be surprised. An old, poor, single person couldn't get in there, and I thought it was for the poor. It's just like everything else in Floyd County. It all goes to our fat cats. You can't even watch T.V. without some fat cat showing up on the screen, saying, "If you get injured, come and see me and if you don't get anything, it won't cost you."

Why don't they tell it just like it is, say, "Come see me if you've worked in the mines for thirty years, and if you get anything, we will do our best to take half of it and starve you to death in the meantime."

My brother was eight months trying to get anything and they wouldn't even give him a food stamp. And think of the taxes that he paid in. You fat cats ought to think about how many of these poor people that have given you an education and now you are trying to rob them without a gun, like our garbage bill, wanting everyone to pay three months in advance. What if they passed away? Would they get a refund? What a joke.

Did you see what Mr. Perry said about 911? Looks as though we need it more every day. Maybe our state police can take care of us. I don't know what we would do without them. We really should stand up for them.

A few weeks ago in the paper I saw where this little bald-headed fellow from New York made a few remarks about this little fellow from Somerset, Kentucky. I didn't appreciate that one bit. I believe, if I'm not mistaken, that fellow from New York came here and was on county welfare for awhile (or state). At least he was our free lawyer, so you leave our little fellow from Somerset alone. He has some good things going for us poor people. He is one of our own.

Thanks again to our Floyd County Times. They are wonderful people.

Slone letter

Editor:

Our 911 number went to join our long lost garbage bill we have been paying for all along and then was sent a double garbage bill to pay again.

What do these county and city workers think we are, a bunch of fools? I'll tell you something, I'm not paying no more than I owe, $6.22 a month. You all can cater to politics. I'm not, or not give them my vote no more. I know someone who is so old and sick that one day he'll kick the bucket and slide right into hell on a banana peeling. You know who I'm talking about, old man. You are cordially invited to Highland (Avenue) Freewill Baptist Church and we will pray for you in the meantime. Church is at 11; Sunday school is at 10 o'clock each Sunday.

We have got two good ministers, very best.

County bonds are gone property taxes. Now I believe the blackout went to harness races, and where is blackout for school roads? Children will covertime, walking muddy roads. As usual, Jones said a big grant was supposed to fix streets up. Here in the streets I fell and busted my face and nose and chin and eyes on the broken pavement along the Floyd County Times (building). Where is all the sewer system we were going to get? (And) drain pipe? The harness races got that, plus 62,846 acres of land where poor paid city taxes for race track land to use, was used.

These were campaign promises I heard. People get a hold of your life.

People, I'm angry now, but I'm going to pray a big long prayer tonight. I know God will hear me. I always feel better afterwards. Everyone is welcome to our church, Highland (Avenue) Freewill Baptist Church. There's room for all.

Other Voices

Parents + teachers = more successful children
 by Thomas C. Boysen
 Kentucky Commissioner of Education

As schools open each August, two Norman Rockwell-type memories emerge. One is of children running from their homes to catch a yellow bus. The other is of parents driving away from school while their children skip toward the front door.

For the children the feeling is anticipation. But for parents, it's the pang of separation. And too often, gradually and unintentionally, it becomes a sense of exclusion, with parents feeling that they are being barred from a critical part of their child's development.

As we move forward in Kentucky with efforts to dramatically improve student performance, it becomes increasingly apparent that including parents as full partners in their children's learning presents a critical challenge.

Kentucky's experience with school-based decision making provides some insight into the dimensions of the challenge. School-based decision making, one of the key provisions of the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990, provided an unprecedented opportunity for parent-school partnerships. We now have 1,500 parents in 750 schools—compared to zero four years ago—helping to make meaningful educational decisions.

But progress has been slow. While the number of schools with school councils continues to increase steadily, 45 percent of Kentucky schools still exclude parents from formal decision-making. And in those with councils, the percentage of parents voting in elections has been small.

Simple demographics tell another part of the story. Increasingly, the parent profile clashes with that of professional educators.

In fact, educators tend to be over 40, parents under 30. Eighty percent of our teachers have masters degrees while 30 percent of parents dropped out of high school and even fewer finished college. While most educators earn more than $30,000 a year, 40 percent of parents have incomes below the poverty line.

Educators often explain low participation by citing statistics about the growth of two-job families, single-parent households and poverty. But parents say that schools, in various ways, make it hard for them to participate.

Whatever the reasons, parents and people who work in schools have grown increasingly remote from each other in recent decades. The quality of home-school relationships has deteriorated.

It has also become apparent that reaching school reform's goal—dramatically improving student performance—requires schools to work hard at strengthening both school-home and parent-child relationships. We need parents' help and they need ours as all of us work together toward the common goal of responsible, high-achieving youngsters.

Fundamental questions need to be addressed:

** How can schools support parents as their children's first and most important teacher?

** What is the best mechanism for parents and teachers to set and work toward common goals for a child's learning?

** How can parents effectively help with academic work?

** How can schools engage all parents as partners?

** How can schools make parents feel welcome at school?

** Should schools initiate home visits, parent training and other efforts?

Fortunately, efforts are already underway this year in Kentucky. Many schools, local parent-teacher associations and other parent groups are working diligently to encourage parental participation. Their successes and failures will serve as examples for other schools that are seeking answers to these questions.

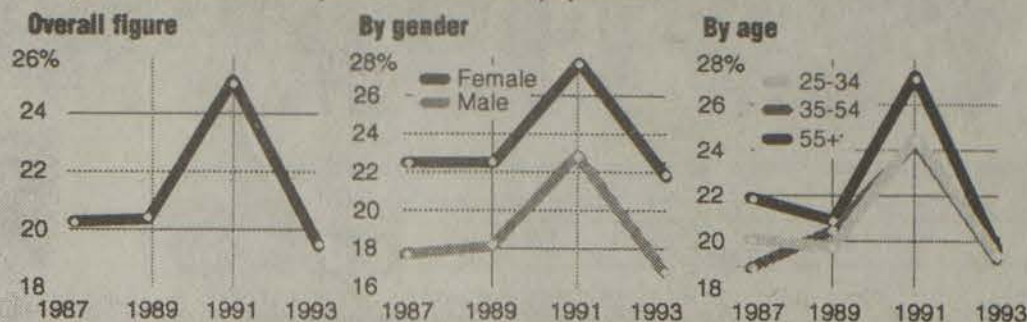

In addition, the Prichard Committee is starting a program to foster conversations between teachers and parents while the Department of Education (with federal Goals 2000 assistance) will give schools grants to develop and implement model parent engagement programs.

The payoff will be more learning and better discipline, both at home and at school. The payoff, in short, is kids learning more.

Fitness craze appears to be fizzling

A survey by the National Sporting Goods Association found 9.7 million fewer Americans were exercising regularly in 1993 than in 1991, especially men and those 55 or older.

Addington Resources Inc. reports second quarter earnings of $1.5 million

Addington Resources, Inc. (NASDAQ/NMS: ADDR), a waste management, coal mining and mining technology company, last week reported it earned $1.5 million (10 cents per share) on revenues of $35.5 million, for the three months ending June 30, 1994.

That compares with a loss of $8,000, or less than one cent per share, on $92.1 million in revenues for the second quarter of 1993, when Addington Resources was primarily a coal mining and marketing company. The company sold the bulk of its direct coal mining operations, coal reserves and coal supply contracts in January 1994.

Per-share figures reflect 15.5 million common shares outstanding in the second quarter of 1993, and 16.1 million shares in 1994's second quarter. The company issued 148,673 shares in May 1994 in conjunction with a landfill acquisition.

Addington Resources Chairman Larry Addington said the company's downsized coal mining operations contributed $1.2 million in operating income during 1994's second quarter, compared with $2.9 million in the year-ago quarter.

Environmental revenues rose 52 percent over 1993's second quarter to $8.9 million. Operating income rose sharply as well—a 64 percent increase to $1.6 million.

Second quarter 1994 coal mining revenues and operating income were adversely affected due to the closure of one of the company's major mine operations, Job 17 in Pike County. Job 17 contributed to operating income during the first quarter of 1994. Addington said a new mine is expected to open during the third quarter and eventually replace Job 17's production.

The company sold 906,000 tons of coal in 1994's second quarter, compared with 2.8 million tons during the similar 1993 period. Coal operations during the second quarter of 1993 generated $86 million in revenues and $2.9 million in operating income.

A positive effect on profitability was the elimination of net interest expense, which totaled $3.5 million during 1993's second quarter. The proceeds from the January sale of Addington's coal operations were used to redeem $125 million in Senior Secured Notes and repay other long-term debt. Interest income totaled $223,000 in 1994's second quarter.

For the six-month period through June 30, 1994, the company earned $4.4 million (27 cents per share) on revenues of $75 million. That compares with a loss of $1.7 million (a loss of 11 cents per share) and revenues of $174.7 million during the similar 1993 period.

Addington Resources Inc. is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol ADDR.

Labor Day holiday travel to reach 10-year high, AAA says

Americans are expected to close out the summer travel season with the heaviest Labor Day travel in ten years, according to AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky.

AAA estimates 33.3 million travelers will vacation 100 miles or more from home, a 4 percent increase from last year. Almost 30 million will travel by motor vehicle. Another 3.8 million are expected to travel by plane, train or bus, a 15 percent jump from the same time a year ago. The most popular Labor Day destination is a city, followed by the beach, town or rural area.

AAA's most recent survey of service stations nationwide shows the average price of self-serve regular unleaded is $1.198, the highest for a Labor Day holiday since 1990 and nearly a dime per gallon more than last year, AAA reports.

Nationally, self-serve regular unleaded is 5.5 cents higher than last month. Locally, a survey of 40 Lexington service stations found the average price is $1.117, while statewide, the average is $1.14.

AAA reports 67 percent of stations will be open over the Labor Day holiday weekend and 34 percent will operate 24 hours.

AAA Blue Grass/Kentucky is a not-for-profit motoring organization serving 122,000 members in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Festivals —

Pinetop Ramblers, the Bluegrass New Edition, the Shepherd Family and Buddy Smith, and Beaver Creek Grass.

Another attraction at the festival is the old-fashioned entertainment that used to be found on the Fourth of July, such as pig-catching contests, greasy pole climbs, sack races and egg catching contests.

The Squirrel Festival is celebrating its 15th year. It began as a family reunion about 31 years ago for the family of Virginia Stone and the late Helton Stone. As more people began going to the top of the mountain during the reunion, the Stone family opened it to the public, and the Stone Mountain Squirrel Festival became an annual event.

The festival is hosted by Ray and Kelly Stone, and is held on Stone Mountain at McDowell, on Route 1086, just off Route 680 (the Garrett-McDowell Road).

Lunch is free at the festival, so come prepared to eat mountain cuisine. The menu includes roast pig, roast beef, mutton, ribs, soup beans, sauerkraut, potatoes, and bread.

Mobile dental hygiene program coming to Prestonsburg Community College

Floyd County students will soon have the option of enrolling in a new educational program at Prestonsburg Community College. PCC will be offering a new associate degree program in dental hygiene beginning in the summer of 1995.

Plans are now underway at PCC to remodel the northeast corner of the Johnson Building on the Prestonsburg Campus to accommodate the new program. Several classrooms will be remodeled to house 12 dental stations fully equipped with all the teeth cleaning apparatus that you find in any modern dental office, including a chair, lights, basin, drill, air line, plumbing, radiological equipment, laboratory, darkroom equipment, and library.

The curriculum for the associate degree program includes courses in general education and in dental hygiene as required by the Commission of Dental Accreditation. Clinical and laboratory experiences throughout the curriculum are related to classroom coursework. Clinical experiences involve working with persons of all ages with varying kinds of dental health problems. During these learning experiences, students develop competencies in performing those dental hygiene functions permitted by law.

The mobile dental hygiene programs generally stay on site for a minimum of three years, enabling at least two classes to graduate. Job placement has been excellent and students have tended to find employment in the area served by the college.

The first mobile dental hygiene program was implemented at Ashland Community College in 1975. That program has moved from Ashland, to Somerset, to Hazard, back to Ashland, to Maysville, and is presently located at Hopkinsville Community College.

The university established a second mobile program in 1978. The second mobile program began at Paducah Community College before moving on to Madisonville Community College, to Southeast Community College, to Northern Kentucky University and now on to Prestonsburg Community College.

Like most states, Kentucky suffers from an uneven distribution of allied health professionals, especially in rural areas. Studies conducted in the early 1970s indicated a need for an associate degree program in dental hygiene in some of the community colleges' service areas; however, the need did not justify the expenditure of funds for a permanent program in each of the colleges where a need existed. Also, permanent based programs in small communities result in job saturation of the surrounding area, thus creating employment problems for the graduates.

To avoid the problem of job saturation and to limit expenses, the University of Kentucky Community College System developed the concept of a mobile dental hygiene program in which a top quality educational program would move from site to site, meeting a community's educational needs and then moving on before saturation would occur.

PCC's dental hygiene program will get underway during the summer of 1995. Students interested in this program should contact Jenny Bottoms or Gia Hall at the college at (606) 886-3863 for more information. Completed applications must be on file at the college by March 1.

New faculty

Ten new faculty members are at Prestonsburg Community College this year for the fall semester. They are (back row, left) Elizabeth M. Cole, of Des Moines, Iowa, counselor at PCC's Pike County Campus; Dr. Roger H. Hall, from Bowling Green State University, assistant professor of history; Dr. Thomas L. Vierheller and Dr. Chenzhao Jian Vierheller, both assistant professors of biology moving to the area from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Christopher G. Fleming, from Clemson, South Carolina, project health coordinator and instructor; Timmy G. Bremer, from Livepool, New York, an instructor of mathematics; Bertie Kay Oldham Salyer, from Salyersville, an instructor of sociology; and Dr. Craighton S. Mauk, from Asheville, North Carolina, an assistant professor of biology. Not shown are Dr. Yonghong Sarah Chen, an assistant professor of mathematics from the University of Connecticut, and Dr. Khalid Khanfar, an instructor of computer science from Winona, Minnesota.

Weddington attends judicial conference

Kentucky Court Designated Worker Charlotte Weddington, representing the 31st judicial district, comprised of Floyd, attended the 1994 statewide CDW conference in Louisville, August 22-25.

Seminars, workshops, and small group discussions, which focused on a variety of topics including legislative issues, policies and procedures, public and status diversions, teen violence, and interviewing strategies, provided CDW's with an opportunity to develop professional skills in juvenile justice.

Guest speakers were Susan Clary, Supreme Court administrator, and David Garrard, of Program Resources.

August activities at Duff Elementary

August brought the start of a new school year. Summer found those at the center on the road a lot with trips to Jenny Wiley Theatre, Kentucky Opry, Children's Museum and Kentucky Horse Park.

The resource center also sponsored a trip to Camden Park for students with perfect attendance.

GED classes have been changed. They are now on Mondays and Wednesdays at the school from 6-9 p.m. Exercise classes are on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-7 p.m.

Pam Patton, health department nurse, is continuing health services at the center on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Receives diploma

Regina Osborne, Jobs Opportunity and Basic Skills Program participant recently received her GED diploma. She was presented a certificate of achievement by her JOBS case manager, Barbara Crider. Osborne earned her diploma through the Drift Learning Center operated by the David School. She plans to do volunteer work to gain work experience.

THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT!

My mother and I (along with approximately 50 million other Americans) had already seen "Forrest Gump," the movie starring last year's Academy Award winning best actor, Tom Hanks, but my sister, Jenny, had not. Since Jenny was home for a visit, Mom and I insisted that she see the movie.

This is where you might say, the plot thickens. Last Saturday evening, Mom and I took Jenny to see the movie and, as usual, things didn't turn out the way we'd hoped.

We purchased the tickets, bought popcorn and drinks, and seated ourselves in the same theater my husband and I had been in the previous week to view the same movie. Then we waited. I started eating my popcorn and several minutes passed before my mother said, "It sure is chilly in here, don't you think?"

"Yes, it was cool last week, too. It'll warm up when more people get in here," I assured her.

Several more minutes passed and my sister nudged me and said, "Wasn't this movie supposed to start at 9?"

"Yeah, it was," I replied.

"Well, it is 9:10 now."

"And I'm getting cooler," Mom said.

"I'll go check on the air conditioner," I quickly offered.

When I got up to the concession stand I asked, "Has anyone ever complained about it being cool?"

"In which theater?" the man asked.

"In one," I answered matter-of-factly.

"No, but I'll turn it down and if anyone complains of it being too hot I'll turn it back on," he said nicely.

"Oh, thank you so much," I said graciously. "Mom and I have seen Gump but my sister hasn't. We know she'll love it."

The three faces behind the counter stared back at me before one of them had the courage to say, "If you're in theater 1, you're missing Gump. It's in theater 5. It's been on for nearly 15 minutes now."

"But it was on in this theater last week when my husband and I were here," I gasped.

"Well, we changed it this week," they replied.

I had to muffle a scream. Mother and I had been talking about the movie all week. We barely had a conversation that hadn't included the movie or something about Tom Hanks. Now we were in danger of letting Jenny miss it.

Running back down the aisle, I grabbed mother by the arm and said, "Let's go! Gump's on in 5. We're in the wrong theater!"

Mom and Jenny jerked up our jackets, soft drinks, and purses and went running wildly back up the aisle and to the other theater. When we walked into the nearly full theater, we began searching for three seats together. Unfortunately, there were none.

"Aren't there three up front?" I whispered loudly to Mom.

"I'll sit here," she said as she plopped down on an aisle seat.

Jenny and I proceeded onto the front and sat down on the first row. From our positions, we could see the hairs in Sally Field's nose. The last time my head was in that position I was looking for UFO's. Not wishing to disturb the patrons any further, Jenny and I walked back up the aisle and persuaded mother to give it up and go home.

Needless to say, Mom was mad at me for screwing things up even if it was unintentional. But I made up for it by taking her to my house for a rousing game of Scrabble.

And that's all I'm going to say about that.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND Extra

Popperri
by Scott Perry

Product liability lawsuits are becoming a major source of income for many Americans, who are finding the chances of getting big bucks from businesses a lot more reasonable than, say, winning the lottery.

Take, for instance, the 81-year-old New Mexico woman who recently picked up the tidy sum of $2.9 million from McDonald's after she spilled a cup of coffee in her lap.

The restaurant made the coffee too hot, the jurors said, and they ought to be punished.

While we sympathize with the victim, it's hard to figure how she ought to deserve 2.9 million bucks.

She spilled the stuff, after all, in her car.

You know, hardly a day goes by where somebody isn't suing some company over some sort of claim for negligence.

Some are legitimate...like exploding gas tanks on cars...but many, we suspect, are little more than attempts to make a quick buck.

A lot of companies are as responsible as anyone for the proliferation of liability suits, too, because they often settle with claimants just to keep from going to court.

It's getting to the point where there is just no such thing as an unfortunate accident anymore.

Someone (other than the accident victim) is always to blame, and they must be made to pay up.

We can think of a few opportunities lost at making megabucks because we were too naive to realize that our propensity toward self-injury was really someone else's fault.

Man, we've got scars on both legs, from knee-cap to big toe, to remind us of various encounters with low-lying objects...like coffee table edges, chairs, bicycles, and short children with pointy heads.

Heck, they've financed a wing at the local emergency room from the money we've paid for X-rays alone.

We'll never, ever have the chance at winning a beautiful legs contest.

And it wasn't our fault! How much can we get for that?

Gingerbread Festival in Knott County to add variety of talented musical groups

A wide variety of music, including a Friday evening performance by the nationally-known Goose Creek Symphony, will highlight Knott County's 13th annual Gingerbread Festival, September 8-11. The festival theme is "Celebrating Knott County's 110th Birthday." The family saluted this year is the Mullins family. And, once again, the festival will crown the best gingerbread cook and will host the world's largest gingerbread man. The parade will be held at 11:45 a.m. on Saturday, September 10.

Hindman Promart and TV Service are sponsoring the Goose Creek Symphony performance, Friday, September 9, from 9 a.m.-11 p.m. Goose Creek is known for their own creative rock and roll sound, which mixes various music styles, including country, folk, blues and bluegrass. The name of the group came from a Floyd County hollow where the band's leader, Charlie Gearheart was raised. The Goose was formed in 1968 in Phoenix, Arizona. They reunited three years ago and produced the Oso Special record on the June Appal recording label.

Celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Beatles' visit to America, the hot Louisville rock and roll band Nervous Melvin and the Mistakes will perform Thursday night, September 8, and include a salute to the Beatles and the Rolling Stones. The Bank of Hindman is sponsoring the group's performance from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

For the first time, the festival will have a rock and roll group which will have a distinct soul music sound. Rumor Hazit of Louisville will perform soul, classic rock and roll and Top 40 tunes Saturday night from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Vince Combs and the Shadetree Bluegrass Boys will return from Xenia, Ohio, for the Sunday bluegrass show from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Vince is a Knott County native. Joining Vince will be Herb Stamper and the New Bluegrass Edition. The New Bluegrass Edition will perform also on Friday night. Bluegrass Uprising will perform on Thursday night.

The Hindman Settlement School is again hosting the Gospel Sing on its campus from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. The nationally-known gospel groups the Freemans and the Singing Cookes will return.

A new TV game show set to air early next year in England and Italy pits against each other couples who have decided to divorce, with the objective of determining how the marital property will be divided. Instead of relying on costly lawyers or counselors, the spouses answer questions on the air about each other and their relationship. The spouse who gives the "better" answers will get more of the property.

Although the pill was developed principally for the health care market, to improve working conditions for nurses' aides, some commentators in Japan fear that the availability of the pill for consumers will increase Japan's obsession with cleanliness. Psychiatry professor Susumu Oda said that, already, overreaction to unpleasant smells is a cause of unsociable behavior.

—The Economist magazine reported in January that one of Secre-

A team headed by physicist Tuncer Kuzay, who interrupted his work on advanced photons, placed sensors inside the frozen fries and was able to design special frying baskets to deal with the effect of steam created by melting ice crystals and to cut 30 to 40 seconds off each batch's frying time.

— According to two officials of Kentucky Baptist organizations, a recent trend to move baptisms indoors was caused primarily by the increasing pollution of creeks and river. Said Pastor Dick Vanhoose, "You've got dead animals, you've got open sewers" that make such baptisms unsafe. Said Rev. James Kelly Caudill (Caudill is minister of Tom's Creek Free Will Baptist Church in Johnson County), "There's [no nearby river] fit to baptize a dog in, to be honest with you."

The videotape trap was set after people noticed that the coffee's taste in recent days had become sour. The next day, in Lanagan, Mo., 200 miles south of St. Joseph, four arrests were made after witnesses reported seeing men urinating into the town's water supply. Residents were advised for more than a week to boil their water.

— In a July report, The New York Times contrasted the image of Singapore as a clean, sweet-smelling nation with the characteristics of its national fruit, the durian. The "spiky, soccer ball-sized globe" of sweet custard-like fruit, with purported aphrodisiac qualities, has, according to local descriptions, the aroma of "over-ripe cheese, rotting fish, unwashed socks [or] a city dump on a hot summer's day." A popular saying is that the durian has "the smell from hell and a taste from heaven."

Although Safeway Stores uses a "test panel" of 2,000 dogs and cats, Rose nonetheless carefully tastes every single product under development, as well as competitors' products, leading his wife to refer to him affectionately as "dog breath." A spokesman for rival Ralston-Purina said, "We don't use humans to test pet foods."

The scalps were retrieved and reattached after microsurgery of 12 to 14 hours' duration.

CRIES FOR HELP

Earlier this month, a 69-year-old man in San Mateo, Calif., distraught over recent eye surgery, attempted to kill himself five times during a two-day period, failing each time. He slashed his wrists, stabbed himself in the stomach with a 12-inch knife, tried to drown himself, took an overdose of Tylenol, and jumped from a second-story window with his neck tied to the house with a clothesline, which broke off. At that point, he decided he wanted to live.

According to a teller, Vazquez presented a note saying a bomb would go off unless he received $45,000. # Satisfaction, not money, drives trainer

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Larry Broughton has been in the horse training business for the past nine years and he still enjoys the daily grind of caring for and training horses.

"Horse training is hard now," he said from Thunder Ridge. "It used to be that you could make it and it was fun. But it's not easy anymore."

But Broughton is just one of several trainers who have left their homes for the thrill of just being around horses.

"I like horses," said Broughton. "I have always been around them. It's not the money, although you do need that; but I just love being around them."

Broughton recalled the days that he worked for the Roger Cullipher Stables.

"I worked for Roger about four years," he said. "Then I went off with my dad, who worked with horses. He asked me if I wanted to go with them and I did. I saw one horse that I really liked and ended up owning him four years later."

Broughton, like all the other trainers at Thunder Ridge, will be moving on after the race season ends at Thunder Ridge on September 11. He will gather the six horses that he handles and will move on to Lebanon, Ohio.

"They race six months out of the year there," he said. "Then I'll go back to Lexington and then come back here."

The day in the life of a trainer can be a long one, but Broughton likes to allow time for himself.

"I get up around seven in the morning and feed the horses," he explained. "I always like to let my horses stand for an hour before I jog them. Some trainers don't."

"I'll make three trips with the horses," Broughton said, explaining how he tries to build up the horses' stamina.

"That puts the wind back in them to where they can go a longer mile.

and fix their legs if they have bad legs. I'll feed them again at 4 p.m. and again at 10 p.m.," he said.

Broughton said that it is a 24-hour questions," he explained. "My dad used to say that I asked too many questions. But you don't learn until you ask something.

Learning to be a trotter!

Thunder Ridge trainer Larry Broughton is one of several trainers who are staying at Thunder Ridge for the racing season. He is shown taking Free to Win on his morning jog. The horse, which is owned by Gwen Baldwin of Paintsville, is just learning the ropes as a race horse. Broughton thinks the horse will be ready for the track in January. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Most horses will go three-quarters of a mile and won't finish the race," said the veteran trainer.

After the jogging workout, Broughton says he likes to give his horses a soap bath, let them stand to dry and then brush them.

"I keep their feet packed, painted a day job if a trainer wants it to be. "This job, I work from seven to four and leave. But come back to feed the horses again."

Skills in caring for horses is one thing a trainer must possess. But the skills are not learned in a classroom.

"The way I started is, I would ask

"I would hang around the race track with the older guys. If the horse had bad legs, while they were packing them, I would ask, 'What are you doing?'"

Broughton said that they would not only explain what they were do-

Baldwin pins hopes on Free to Win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

In two weeks, Thunder Ridge will say goodbye to all the trainers, jockeys and owners when the harness track closes for the racing season.

For local horse owners that means their horses will be moving out with the trainers, who were hired to break them in or to care for them. Some will move on to Ohio, Pennsylvania or tracks in other states.

Gwen Baldwin of Paintsville is one of a few in the local area who has a horse stabled at Thunder Ridge. Her horse, Free to Win, will move on to Lebanon, Ohio, while it is still in the training phase.

Baldwin, like many local horse owners, is thankful for the new facility at Thunder Ridge. She believes that it is something the area has needed for a long time.

"It's just so exciting for the track to be here," she said. "I just couldn't wait for them to get it in."

Also like many owners, having a harness race horse is a result of her love for the animal.

"It's just being around them and the atmosphere of it all," she said, as she spoke of her love for her horses. "We have a mare we raised and we have a colt. Free to Win is one that we bought to see what he could do."

To watch the powerful horse, one could see the beauty of its shining coat and its strong legs and strong will. It was easy to see that this horse has the makings of a champion.

"We think he is a good horse," she said, "and we hope that he will be a good race horse."

If all fails? "Then we will just take him home and make a saddle horse out of him," she said.

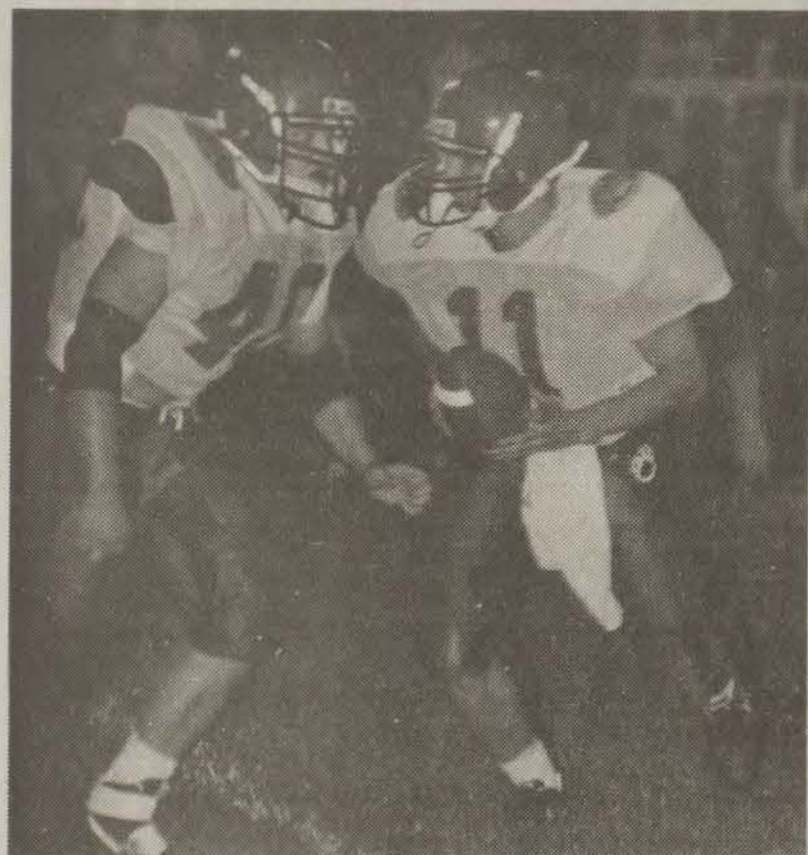

Baldwin spends a lot of time at Thunder Ridge and often video tapes the horse's jogging sessions in the mornings.

"We bought Free To Win sight unseen," she said. "My husband hasn't even seen him yet. I'll tape the horse jogging and go home and show my husband what he looks like."

A horse will go for a selling price between $2,000 or $2,500. Some horses have been bought for less and made fine harness racing horses.

Baldwin is looking forward to the time Free to Win makes his racing debut, which will be sometime in January.

"I'll be there watching when he does," she said.

Coach Clark: "Prestonsburg finds ways to win."

Blackcats travel to Lexington for game two

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

What is the mark of a championship team?

If you ask Lexington Lafayette coach Terry Clark that question, his answer would be "finding ways to win a game."

Clark has been impressed with the Prestonsburg football program and the coaching ability of Bill Letton. The Generals' coach feels that Prestonsburg has built a solid reputation as a state team and he looks for the Blackcats to be a hard team to contain.

"What has hit me about this team and this program is the tradition they have," he said. "They are coming off a very successful season last year, having gone to the championship game of Class 2A. Coach Letton has done a fantastic job and one of the best coaching jobs of all time last year."

Prestonsburg will take to the road for the second consecutive time as they face a top 4A school. But the Generals' coach doesn't measure a team by what class they play in.

"I look at the athletes they have," he said, "and Prestonsburg has some good athletes."

"We're a 4A school but that doesn't mean that we are better than a 2A school," he said. "I followed Prestonsburg last year in the playoffs and they found ways to win."

"Again, this year they are finding ways to win. Last week at Pikeville they found a way to win. That is a mark of a championship ballclub, finding ways to win."

Lexington Lafayette found their first game last week a rather disappointing one. They fell to Henderson County 14-7.

"We had a good showing under the conditions that we had to play under. We had to travel a long distance to get there and that never helps."

Coach Clark's scouting report...

"Prestonsburg is a quick team," he said. "But what concerns us the most is their power and strength. They are a strong team."

The Generals will have to contain one of the premier players in the state, according to Clark.

"Their quarterback (Thomas Ratliff) is the key for them," he said. "He is a solid football player and we will have to get him under control quickly."

"They also return one of the nation's top linebackers (Larry Morris) and a strong lineman (Tim Lewis) and nose guard (Paul Collins). They are going to be a strong team for the second week of the season."

Senior Bill Pollitt will quarterback the Generals. He is the team's returning quarterback. Pollitt, according to Coach Clark, likes to put the ball in the air. He threw for 850 yards last season and gives the Generals a balanced attack.

"We like to open it up on offense," said Clark. "We are a balanced team."

In the backfield the coach's son, Chris Clark, a senior, will run at the fullback position. Sherman Shelton will be at wingback and the halfback slot will be filled by Kelvin Woolfolk.

"We have several kids who go both ways," said the Generals' coach.

"Jamie McDowell will be our center."

Keys for a General win...

"We will have to overcome last week's loss to Henderson County," said Coach Clark. "It is the mental state that we may be in that will be a key."

"We need to cut down on our turnovers and be careful that we don't beat ourselves."

Blackcat confidence...

Prestonsburg, in coming off a 26-21 win over Class 1A Pikeville, has to be confident going to Lafayette. Before a huge crowd and television cameras, the Blackcats showed that they are a team that doesn't know the meaning of quitting.

Ratliff was superb against the Panthers. The senior quarterback made things happen and rushed for 98 yards, scoring two touchdowns.

Mike Shepherd had a solid performance for the Blackcats out of the backfield. Shepherd rolled the Panther blockers for good second and third efforts.

No race results; Grigsby honored..

RACE RESULTS?

I have had several folks stop me or call me to ask why the harness racing results from Thunder Ridge are not in the Floyd County Times. It isn't because we don't want to print them. The reason is that we do not get the results sent to us and, therefore, cannot print them.

So, if you want to know who won what race, your best bet is to call the track.

HERE AND THERE...

Floyd County's Gerri Grigsby was inducted into her fourth Hall of Fame this past Monday night when she became a member of the Kentucky Athletic Hall of Fame.

I was scheduled to be in Louisville the night of the awards, but car trouble forced me to stay home. But I am, as are many Floyd Countians, proud of Gerri and her great accomplishments. She has been a good ambassador for Eastern Kentucky and certainly is always ready to greet you with a warm smile.

I think Floyd County should proclaim a Gerri Grigsby Day. This young lady should be recognized locally for her accomplishments. After all, she is the nation's all-time leading scorer in basketball -- boys and girls. She is a member of the National Hall of Fame.

CAR SHOW...

I am looking forward to October 15. That is the day that the First Guaranty National Bank Car Show will be held in conjunction with Martin's Red, White and Blue Days.

Tina Mills (Boy! does she work hard to put together this event) says that the show will have a different twist this year in that the top 50 cars in the show will be recognized.

If you have been to one of the shows, you know how it has grown over the years to become one of the top shows in the area.

I love looking at the old cars. My brother Bob has also caught the fever since retiring. He went out and bought himself a 1965 Plymouth, showcase ready. I am trying to get him to bring it down for the show. Said he would consider it.

Be sure to come out for the show. Just take a look at the cars of the past and visit with other car enthusiasts.

George Barnette has a barn full of the old-timers that are constant winners. George says that he just enjoys showing them. I love the old Hudson that George has. Someday he will take me for a ride in it.

Mark it on the calendar. You will enjoy the show. The Kentucky Opry Junior Pros will be providing the entertainment for the day. Just a great day has been planned. Please rain, stay away.

LOUISVILLE AT KENTUCKY

Should be a classic first-time matchup. I believe the Cards maybe a tad better than this year's Cats. But I also believe that Coach Bill Curry is rounding the corner with the Big Blue football program and that they will be winners next year. Final score: Louisville 14, Kentucky 10.

BASKETBALL CATS...

The tube will be crowded with Wildcat basketball this winter. I know, you can't wait! Neither can I.

A REMINDER...

Everyone's favorite coach, "Hoss" Halbert, will be inducted into the KHSAA/Dawahare's Hall of Fame in March just before the Sweet Sixteen gets under way.

"Hoss" is yet another Floyd Countian being honored. He will become a member of the Class of '95 and it certainly will be an honor for the man who helped make basketball what it is in the 15th Region. Yours truly expects to be there with camera in hand and I want my photo taken with "Hoss."

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to church Sunday.

Broughton

ing, but what the process of packing does to a horse's leg.

Broughton said that what he does in caring for and training horses is 80 percent common sense.

"There's no classroom work," he said. "If a horse's leg is hot, you cool it off. Water is the best thing for it."

Is it all fun and games? Are there those trying moments?

"Yes, it can get aggravating at times. A week ago (actually three weeks ago), I was ready to go home. I was tired, had bad luck, horses broke down and didn't race good. The owners came down and we didn't have any luck. This makes you sour."

Watching a trainer put all the rig on a horse is fascinating because there is so much involved. Broughton recalled the first time he tried to figure out how a trainer puts a rig on a horse.

"I went with a trainer from New Castle, Kentucky named Ron Dingman. I just watched and watched. The one day he said, 'Today's the day you are going to put the harness on yourself. I said, 'No way. I can't do it.' But now I can do it with my eyes closed."

Broughton is hoping that Thunder Ridge makes it in the harness racing business because, "We need places to race."

"This is a beautiful place. I think they will make it. They need to lower the prices some," he said.

Broughton thinks that something should be done to get more people in on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

"Those are our two worst nights," he said. "We can't make it on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. They just don't have enough bets to keep us going."

The Frankfort trainer said that the new facility needs more improvements around the stable area.

"The track is perfect," he said. "It's just the little minor things. The electricity cuts off now and then."

Being around horses is the most enjoyable thing about being a trainer for Broughton. "I love race horses. I figure they are just as much my friends as I am theirs," he said. "They don't get any care unless I give it to them. They can't take care of themselves. My horses know they are getting cared for."

Some horses are naturals when it comes to harness racing. But for others, Broughton says it takes time to train them. It is up to the horse as to how long a trainer will work with one.

"It's all according to how he races as to how long I'll spend with a horse," he said. "If he shows he is capable enough to make me money, I'll keep him for a year or so. If he shows he can't pace enough, then I'll sell him. If I'm putting $200 into him and he's only getting me $50, then I sell him."

Broughton is presently the trainer for the horse of Gwen Baldwin of Paintsville. Baldwin's horse is a stallion that Broughton is training to pace.

"He hasn't raced as of yet," said the trainer. "We will harness him and put the hobbles on him to get him used to it. He has no gait (foot movement of a horse such as a trot, pace, canter or gallop). He's a regular standard bred, but he has no gait. He doesn't know what a gait is."

Hobbles on the horse's legs train him to move his feet a certain way. Some are taught to pace, others to trot.

Baldwin's horse, "Free to Win," is a five-year-old that is easier to train than a two or three-year-old.

"Their bones are more developed and it is easier for them to learn," said Binky. "After we teach him a certain gait, he will just keep getting faster and faster."

"He's better than what he was a week ago. Right how he's high strung. He can't get his mind together as to what he wants to do. There has been a 100 percent improvement. I think he will go on and make a good race horse."

Broughton stated that he told Baldwin that in two months he could tell if the horse will make it.

"It takes four to six months to get one to where he can race. If nothing goes wrong, Free to Win will be ready in five months. He should get his first start in January. He's been a super horse to break."

While most trainers get a percentage of the purse, Broughton gets paid by the month.

"I get a monthly trainer's check," he said.

Education about the harness racing business is what is needed at Thunder Ridge, according to Broughton.

"They need to advertise in the paper more," he said. "Most people don't know anything about horses or how to bet on them."

Broughton said that Thunder Ridge has to make it and needs to draw a crowd with advertisement.

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats junior varsity team got their season off with a home date against Belfry. The Pirates posted a 28-0 defeat on the younger Blackcats as Prestonsburg had trouble moving the football.

The Blackcats picked up only one first down against the Pirates defense and that came early in the second half. From that point on, it was three downs and out for the Cats.

Belfry scored on their first possession of the contest when quarterback Barry Crum went around left end on a sweep and ran 43 yards for the touchdown to give the Pirates a 6-0 lead.

The Pirates scored late in the second period to take a 14-0 lead at the half when David Oliver went in from 10-yards out to score. Oliver ran the two-point conversion for the half-time margin.

Third quarter play saw the Pirates add to the lead. They went on top 22-0 when Dwight Stepp scored on a 1-yard plunge and Crum hit a receiver in the end zone for the conversion.

Belfry's final score came in the fourth quarter on a 4-yard run by Albert Rupperman to make it 28-0.

Brian Jones looked impressive in the punting game for the Blackcats. He averaged nearly 40 yards per punt. He rushed for 21 yards on seven carries. Matt Laferty, trying hard to go up the middle of the Pirate defense, grounded out 16 yards on seven carries.

Quarterback Mike Castle did not complete a pass.

Blackcats

What can you say about Larry Morris that hasn't already been said? Morris has been referred to as a "man-child." A hard-hitting linebacker, Morris leads the Blackcat defense.

But the character development for this program came long before the Cats posted a 14-1 record last year. It began back in 1989 when Coach Letton came to Prestonsburg and instilled in the program that a team can always find a way to win.

Last season is just a memory now, but the Blackcats have established a new goal and that is to return to Louisville. To do that, they must find ways to win. And they will.

Four way tie for first place. Jimmy Goble will not admit that Marie (his wife) did the actual picking, but "Global Goble" still is the top seed. Jenny, Scott and April vow to see that change next week. Prestonsburg will win over Lafayette despite our fearless publisher saying otherwise. South Floyd and Betsy Layne hook up in a top county game with the Raiders getting the nod. On the pro level, Cleveland will hand the Bengals an opening season loss and Kentucky will win over the Cardinals. Some may have to hang their heads on this one. Auburn takes a win over Mississippi with Maryland topping Duke.

Confident Betsy Layne travels to South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

If you think the loss to Paintsville at Johnson Central in the Big Sandy Bowl hurt the morale of this year's Betsy Layne Bobcats football team, you had better think again.

The Bobcats came off a strong defensive effort when they dropped a 7-0 decision to coach Walter Brugh's ballclub. Betsy Layne came into the game a decisive underdog to the Tigers, but came away with confidence and the respect of other teams.

The Bobcats will be on the road for the second consecutive week. It should be a classic county matchup when they face the Raiders of South Floyd.

The Bobcats defeated the Raiders at home last year, 14-8, allowing South Floyd to score in the closing seconds.

Brent Akers will quarterback the Bobcats or fans could see sophomore Craig Hamilton.

Bubba Combs, "Big" John Hall and Shannon Hall form a solid line for the Bobcats' defensive line.

Hard-working Tim Hunt will be at the center position where, according to Coach Derossett, the offense begins.

Rocky Hamilton will be at a linebacker slot where South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels thinks he is the best.

Daniels thinks that Rocky Hamilton is a better linebacker than running back, and he could be a problem on defense.

"He's just a solid athlete all the way around," Daniels said. "He runs hard and is hard to bring down.

"John (Derossett) only has 24 players, but the 11 he puts on the field can play with anyone."

Betsy Layne will be able to go deeper against the Bobcats, although the numbers are down for Betsy Layne this year. Brad Kimbler, Shawn Keathley and Stewart Hall are expected to add to that depth.

On defense, Rodney Hamilton, who is very athletic, will be at the nose guard position with Keathley and Hall at a tackle and guard slot.

The Raiders will go with Justin Ray at the quarterback slot. Chad Slone, Chet McCarty and Adam Wright will run the football.

Kevin Johnson will be at one end spot for Ray to toss to. Ray threw for 146 yards last week against Magoffin County.

Wright gathered in 198 yards rushing for the Raiders last Friday.

Combs will kick the football for Betsy Layne against the Raiders. The Bobcats will look to throw the football more, testing the Raiders' secondary.

Willie Meade will be at the split end position and will play a linebacker spot as well. Meade is on the return speciality team.

A third Hamilton, Jason, carries the football in the backfield, as well as Jay Lyons.

Last year when the two team met, Betsy Layne presented Coach Daniels and the Raiders a plaque to commemorate their first season and first game as a new school.

But this year, the Raiders and Bobcats will hook up on the field and both teams will be going for win number one of 1994.

Game time is set to kickoff at 7:30 p.m. at Brackett Field.

SF Raiders may lead county in scoring but...

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

You're coming off the biggest scoring night in the early history of your school, but you still lose the game.

You're going to face what you consider to be one of the top defensive teams in the county.

You're nursing sick players who have been under the weather the first week of the season and haven't really gotten their legs back yet.

What do you do?

You just respect your opponent, and line up and play football. That's the way South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels views tonight's matchup with county rival Betsy Layne.

"As far as their line goes, I think that, tackle to tackle, they have one of the best in the area," he said. "I respect them. They are a good football team and they proved that against Paintsville last Saturday."

The Raiders are coming off a high performance, though a losing one, where they put 40 points on the scoreboard. But the defense gave up 62 to the opposition, Magoffin County.

Still, Daniels said that the players are, "feeling pretty good about themselves."

"We had some good practices since the game last Friday night," said Daniels. "The kids are coming to practice with confidence and they feel pretty good about themselves."

Last year Betsy Layne defeated the Raiders at the Lloyd Hamilton Complex 14-8. But Daniels think that this may be a different time.

"We think we will have a good game against them," he said. "We're better health-wise than we were for the Magoffin County game. Some are still sick and some are feeling the effects of the sickness. But, we'll be ready."

Although the Raiders and Hornets put 102 points on the scoreboard last week, Daniels doubts if that is going to happen tonight.

"It will be a low-scoring game. There won't be that much scoring. They are a good defensive ballclub and we're playing better on defense."

Terrance Mullins, who went out early against Magoffin County, is expected to return tonight and fill his spot in the secondary.

"Terrance is a tough kid," said Daniels. "I asked him if he wanted to sit out a day and rest, he said that no he wanted to practice. He's a little stiff and sore some."

But Betsy Layne doesn't throw the ball that much, so will the Raiders fill the gaps to stop the running game of Betsy Layne?

"We will have to contain Rocky Newsome," said Daniels. "He could be a problem for us if he gets on a roll. He can pick up three to five yards a carry if we don't stop him."

"Then we have to be concerned about (Brent) Akers and (Craig) Hamilton. We will have to stop them from tackle to tackle."

"They play a good defensive game. They run a 5-3 and play it as well as anyone. I only saw them make a couple of mistakes on defense against Paintsville," said Daniels.

Daniels added that he likes the play of Bubba Combs and Shannon Hall and thinks they could pose some problems for the Raiders.

"There's not many better in the area than those two," he said. "They are very fast coming off the ball. They are deceptively quick for their size."

Allen Central hopes to regroup at Fleming-Neon

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Glenn Reeves and his Allen Central Rebels (0-1) will head into Letcher County where his football team will face another stiff test on the road in the second week of high school football.

The Rebels are still smarting from their 16-8 loss to Elkhorn City last Friday night and will be looking to even their record as they face Steve Holbrook's Pirates.

Neon is smarting a little themselves after being shellacked by Middlesboro, 51-8, last Saturday night.

The Rebels need to generate some offense in the worst way. Allen Central looked very good on defense against the Cougars, but it was a fumbled option play that did the Rebels in.

"We'll be coming into this game more educated," said the Allen Central mentor. "We've made some adjustments and we've pointed some things out to the players."

Quarterback Adam Coleman failed to hook up with his receivers on some crucial plays in the waning moments of the game. He had receivers open but failed to connect.

The inability to complete the passes just may cause Coach Reeves to move senior quarterback and defensive linebacker Brad Blackburn back into the signal calling slot.

"We don't want Coleman to think he has a lock on the position," said Coach Reeves after the Elkhorn City loss. "We may take a look at Brad back there against Neon."

The Rebel coach indicated that he may go with both quarterbacks against Neon.

"Instead of sending in a play via a back, we just used our quarterbacks to bring in the play," said Reeves.

The backfield for the Rebels also failed to move the ball as they rushed for only 83 yards in last Friday's encounter.

One of the adjustments that the Rebel coach expects to make is a movement in the backfield.

"We're going to move James Osborne back to the backfield," said Reeves. "He can give us more blocking there."

Osborne starred in the backfield for the Rebels last year and readily accepted the move to the line.

"I want to do whatever I can to help us win," he said at the start of the season.

The old saying "Your backfield is only as good as your offensive line," certainly holds true here. While the Rebels' line must open up holes for the backfield to run through, Coach Reeves said that his backs are going have to quit dancing around and hit the holes.

"The holes are there," he said. "But when they get the ball, they have to dance around. We showed them that on film and told them, 'There's the hole — get to it.'"

The offensive line will be anchored by Jy Shepherd (6'3", 265), Shawn Robinson (6'3", 245) and Chris Bailey (6'4", 260). The size is there, but there must be heart also.

On the defensive side of the football, the Rebels will have one of the top linebackers around, Brad Blackburn, who plays with a lot of heart.

Blackburn has come out to play in his senior year and was very strong on defense against Elkhorn City last Friday night. Hard-hitting Matt Varney (5'10", 160) will be at another linebacker slot and fans could see Varney carry the ball on offense.

The surprise on the defensive side for the Rebels last week was Mike "Bubba" Osborne, who led the Rebel charge with seven first hits and five assists.

Reeves scouting report...

"Neon has very good size," said Coach Reeves. "They will run the wing T and the 52 on defense."

"We will have to beef up our interior defense some. They have one back that really runs the ball well. They will mix it up and they will throw the football."

Neon found themselves down early to a good Middlesboro team and they trailed 41-0 at the half.

"Middlesboro is a great team," said Reeves. "I've played them before and I know about their program."

"Neon is going to be a strong team because of their size. But I feel we will play well. Our defense needs to hold them."

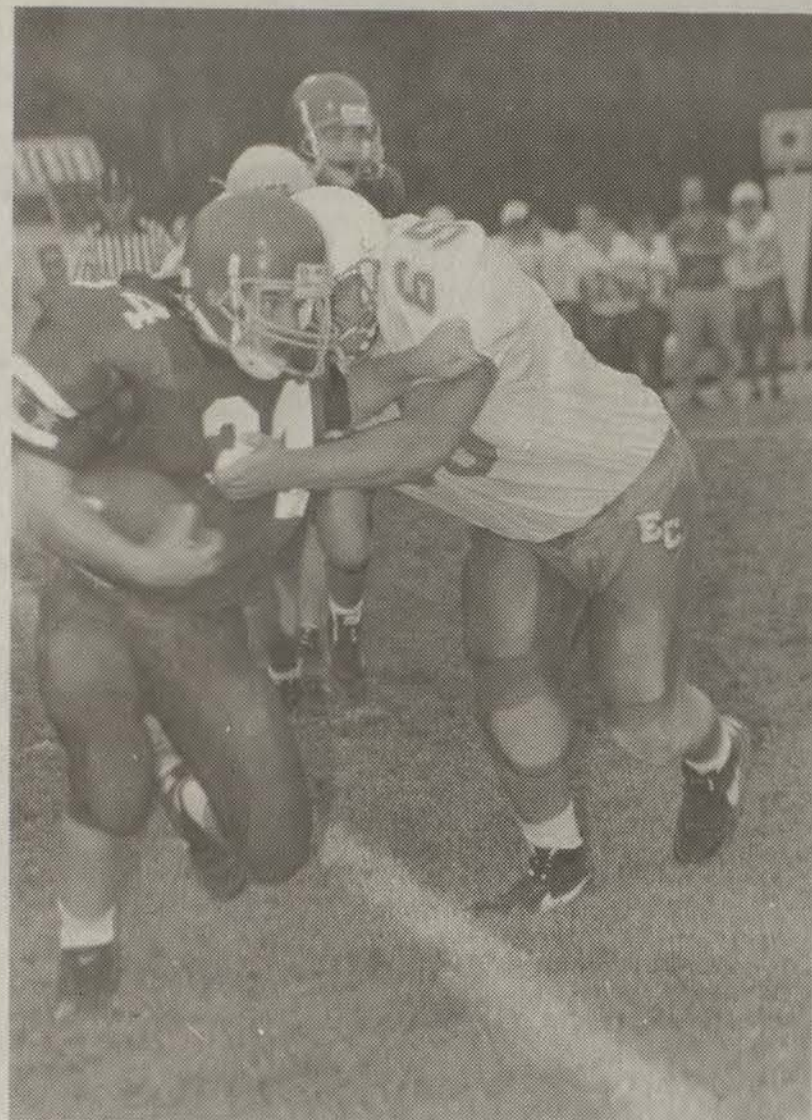

Coach Reeves said that Rebel fans should not be surprised to see the Rebels come out and throwing early in the game.

Keys of the game...

- Off tackle play.
- Our linebackers and defensive ends must play hard," said Reeves.
- Penalties. "We have to cut down on our penalties. We had too many against Elkhorn City."

The Rebels received nine flags

Tackett needs to hit holes!

The Allen Central Rebels will travel to Fleming-Neon tonight looking for their first win in the second week of the season. Beau Tackett (34) will carry, not only the football, but the hopes for a Rebel win. (photo by Ed Taylor)
