Compromise is sought in Medicaid rift

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Masten Childers II, secretary for the state Cabinet for Human Resources, met with attorneys for the Kentucky Medical Association Thursday to formulate a prescription that will bandage a wound opened by a proposed cut in Medicaid reimbursements to providers.

Last week during a multi-county meeting in Prestonsburg of medical societies, doctors expressed their anger about a proposed cut in state Medicaid reimbursements to providers. The doctors said the Medicaid reimbursements will be cut 35 percent, and that they could not keep their offices open with a reduction of that size. They threatened to stop treating Medicaid patients if the proposal is implemented.

Childers said that he has been meeting with the KMA to come up with a formula to pay more money to physicians who see more Medicaid patients. He said there had been some concern that an earlier law posed a problem in giving more reimbursement to rural areas than other areas. The law does not allow you to distribute reimbursements to physicians because of where they live, Childers said.

"We are seeking a legal avenue to not cut physicians as much who serve in underserved areas of the state," he said.

But, he said, the cuts in reimbursements have to be made because the state appropriations bill required $50 million be trimmed from the Medicaid program.

"We have to trim back (benefits) or cut how much we pay providers. And neither this governor, nor I, will let (benefits be cut)," Childers said. "We have asked enough from the poor people and the taxpayers."

"The people we're concerned about are the people who are receiving medical care. We can't continue to provide the same benefits if we continue to pay what we have. The last thing we want to do is cut back benefits."

Childers said the reimbursement cuts average 20 percent, but that reimbursements for some services will be cut 35 percent and other services won't receive any reimbursement cuts.

"Those who provide specialty services will receive the biggest reimbursement cuts, not family practitioners," he said. "They are the least affected."

Childers said he will continue meeting with the KMA in an effort to resolve the issue, and that Representative Greg Stumbo was "doing everything he could to help make this right."

Floyd miner is indicted for safety breach

A Martin County coal mine superintendent from Prestonsburg was indicted on September 1 by a federal grand jury in Lexington on two counts of alleged coal mine safety violations.

Bruce Hurley, superintendent of Mountaintop Restoration Deep Mine No. 1 at Davella, was charged with entering false data on a preshift examination book at the mine and for failing to make preshift inspections at the mine before miners entered.

The indictment alleges that between July 1, 1993 and August 1, 1993, Hurley sent his day shift crew into the mine when a preshift examination of the mine had not been conducted.

Count two of the indictment alleges that on August 23, 1993, Hurley made a false statement and representation in a preshift mine examination record book for the mine.

If convicted on the first count, Hurley could be sentenced to one year in jail and fined $100,000 or both. The second charge carries a five-year prison sentence or a $100,000 fine or both.

Hurley will be arraigned on the charges before U.S. District Judge Joseph Hopd in Pikeville. An arraignment date has not been set.

Note: an indictment is not an indication of guilt, but a determination by a grand jury that the case merits further judicial review.

District MSHA official to head new safety office

The Labor Department's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has named its first coordinator of safety and health in the nation's small underground coal mines. Jesse Cole, a long-time MSHA official and currently agency district manager in the Eastern Kentucky area, will assume duties on September 18.

Cole currently serves as district manager of MSHA's district office in Pikeville.

"The increased level of safety and health problems at small underground coal mines is of great concern to this agency," said J. Davitt McAteer, assistant secretary of labor for mine safety and health. "The new small mines safety coordinator will focus directly on the problems that confront the operators and miners at small mines across the country."

McAteer created the new position

Former Lawrence clerk indicted for sexual abuse

by Jerry Pennington
The Big Sandy News, Louisa

A Louisa man was indicted on felony sex charges Thursday by a Lawrence County Grand Jury.

Rev. Gallie Isaac Sr., 77, was charged in eight separate indictments with a total of 87 counts against him.

The indictments allege that Isaac committed five counts of first degree sodomy, nine counts of second degree sodomy and seven counts of third degree sodomy.

Also, the indictments charge him with nine counts of first degree sexual assault, nine counts of second degree sexual assault, 47 counts of third degree sexual assault and one count of criminal sodomy.

The indictments list charges that stem back as far as 1982, and as recently as May 21 of this year.

Of the eight alleged victims in the indictments, three were under the age of 16, two under the age of 14 and one under the age of 12.

Isaac was jailed at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Johnson County Thursday morning, and released on $50,000 bond.

Isaac, regarded by many as one of the most powerful political figures in Lawrence County, was elected as county clerk in 1961, when he unseated incumbent William H. Moore

Johnson logger is killed in tree fall

A Johnson County man was killed Wednesday afternoon in an apparent logging accident at Middle Creek in Floyd County.

Wayne Bowen, 33, of Sitka, was found by co-worker Benny Williams on a remote hillside in Arnett Branch around 3 p.m.

Floyd County sheriff's detective Jim Riederick said that Bowen had earlier notched the tree that fell and was cutting on another tree, when the wind apparently blew the tree over on Bowen. Riederick said the accident happened at approximately 1:15 p.m.

Bowen was working for G & W Logging Inc. of Stambaugh, clearing a hillside owned by Floyd Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo.

Members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad were called to the scene to assist in removing Bowen's body from the hillside. A rescue squad member carrying a stretcher was taken to the site on a bulldozer operated by a logging employee. Bowen was removed from the hillside and transported to the bottom in a pickup truck.

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson pronounced Bowen dead at the scene.

Wheelwright commission votes to okay resignation

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It's official.

Wheelwright City Commissioners accepted the resignation of former Commissioner Charles Harmon at a special meeting Wednesday and Mayor Marlee Sammons denied that Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson was in any way involved in the move.

At Wednesday's meeting, Mayor Sammons directed city clerk Mary Ann Johnson to read Harmon's resignation letter into the record and the commission voted unanimously to accept it.

Commissioner Luther Johnson Jr. abstained from voting saying, "I don't want to be involved in that lawsuit." Harmon signed the resignation letter last Tuesday while in jail awaiting arraignment on charges of unlawful imprisonment and domestic violence.

Hours after his resignation, Harmon claimed that he was forced to resign his seat on the commission.

In a letter dated August 30 to the commission from Harmon's attorney, Larry Webster of Pikeville, Harmon claimed his resignation was "signed under force and was unlawfully obtained."

On Tuesday, September 6, Webster said that Harmon said it was Sheriff Thompson who forced him to resign.

Thompson disputed Harmon's claim and, after Wednesday's meeting, Mayor Sammons said the sheriff was not involved in the matter.

"Me, Commissioner (David) Hall and a police officer went to Prestonsburg on other business and we went to visit Commissioner Harmon in jail," Mayor Sammons said. "Charles called us over to the cell and told us he wanted to resign because he was going to work in another state."

The mayor explained that he and the other two men went to see Sheriff Thompson to ask him how to carry out Harmon's request. Sammons said that Thompson advised them to go to their city attorney and discuss the matter. Sammons said that the letter of resignation was drawn up at city attorney Tim Parker's office and they took it to Harmon.

"Chuckie Hall, (a notary who is the office manager for the sheriff's department), read the statement to Charles and he swore he understood it," Sammons said. "Sheriff Thompson did not speak to Charles."

Parker said Wednesday that he

Judge expected to issue ruling on vote fraud suit

Perry County Circuit Court Judge Doug Combs is expected to make a ruling the week of September 12 in a Floyd County vote fraud case.

A secretary in Judge Combs' office said Tuesday that an order was not submitted in time in the case of Dale McKinney vs John M. Stumbo for the judge to sign it last week. The judge is on vacation and is expected to be back in his office on September 12.

The secretary did not disclose whether attorneys for McKinney or Stumbo submitted the proposed order in the case.

Organizing law and order

Slate is full for weekend festival fun

Two mountain festivals in Floyd County this weekend combine art and entertainment to merge Eastern Kentucky's past with its present.

The Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which begins Friday, tells the narrative of the mountains through the words and music of ballads, gospel, fiddles, dulcimers, and folk tales.

The Festival Band opens the event at 6:30 Friday night in the Wilkinson/Stumbo Convention Center. Entertainment continues after 1 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

An arts and crafts show will be held Friday through Sunday on the amphitheatre parking lot.

The 15th Annual Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival will be held on the top of Slone Mountain at McDowell on Sunday, September 11. The festival will be held from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Festival events include gospel, Bluegrass and country music entertainment on four stages scattered on the sides of the mountain. Sack races, a greasy pole contest, and a pig chasing competition will be held.

Free food is also a big attraction at the festival. The festival cooks prepare enough mountain cooking to feed at least 5,000 people. No alcoholic beverages or drugs are allowed on the mountain.

Last month McKinney's attorney, C.K. Belhasen of Paintsville, said that he was going to ask the judge to dismiss the case because McKinney could not afford to pursue it.

Arnold Turner Jr., the attorney for Stumbo, said last month that he intended to ask Judge Combs to issue a summary judgement in the case.

McKinney, an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for county judge-executive in 1993, accused Stumbo of election fraud in that election.

Stumbo has denied the charge. Depositions taken in the case failed to prove any wrongdoing on Stumbo's part.

The lawsuit has been pending since June 1993.

based, in part, on recommendations resulting from MSHA's Small Mine Summit which he convened in April. The Small Mine Summit examined the increased safety hazards at the nation's small underground coal mines, those employing 50 or fewer miners. Recent statistics reveal that small underground coal mines with fewer than 50 employees had a fatality rate about four times that of larger mines. Additionally, mines with fewer than 20 employees had a fatality rate that was six times that of larger coal mines.

A panel of mine safety experts from MSHA and other coal mining states considered presentations from many facets of the mining industry and made key recommendations to McAteer on actions to address the problem at small mines. McAteer pledged at the time that "MSHA has committed to the appointment of a small mines coordinator to see that the recommendations (of the panel) are carried out."

As coordinator of small mine safety, Cole, a resident of Beckley, West Virginia, will serve as MSHA's expert on all matters related to small mine safety and enforcement programs. Cole will work with MSHA district managers and state mining agencies to direct the agency's overall enforcement, training and technical assistance efforts to the nation's small coal mines.

In addition, Cole will also coordinate MSHA's mine emergency response activities and serve as on-site coordinator for all rescue and recovery operations in the event of a coal mine emergency.

Cole began his mining career in 1957 working in coal mines with his father. In 1969, he joined the U.S. Bureau of Mines (a part of the agency which would later evolve into MSHA) and taught many of the Federal coal mine inspectors hired following the 1968 Farmington mine disaster.

The small mines coordinator and staff will operate from MSHA's National Mine Health and Safety Academy in Beckley, West Virginia.

Harmon

was not in the office when the three men came and they spoke with his partner, Wolodymyr Cybriwsky.

Parker said he would have advised the commission not to accept the resignation because Harmon was claiming he was forced out.

On Thursday, however, Parker, who did not attend Wednesday's meeting, said that once the commission accepted the resignation, it became valid.

Sammons said Wednesday that he would most likely let Governor Brereton Jones pick Harmon's replacement.

Under state law, if a replacement is not named by the commission within 30 days, that duty falls to the governor.

In other business Wednesday, the commission tabled naming commissioners to serve on the city's utility commission. Only two of the five seats on the utility commission are filled.

Mile markers installed at Dewey Lake

On August 8, the Corps of Engineers Rangers at Dewey Lake completed the installation of mile markers along the shoreline at Dewey Lake.

The mile markers indicate distance from the dam and are numbered progressively from 1 to 13, with number one being one mile from the dam and located near the Terry Boat Ramp, and number thirteen being 13 miles from the dam and located near German Bridge.

The markers were installed as an aid to navigation, especially at night and in foggy conditions. Markers are located along both shorelines. The posts are made of flexible fiberglass and are white with black numbers. ReflectORIZED green and red tape will be applied to the mile markers and will correspond with the red and green channel markers to aid in direction of travel.

This winter, Corps personnel will be installing additional channel markers between Clarks Branch and German Bridge campgrounds to delineate the old Johns Creek channel.

For more information call the Corps of Engineers office, Dewey Lake, at 789-4521 or 886-6709.

Local students at ECU do student teaching

Two Eastern Kentucky University students from Floyd County are among 118 teacher-education students doing student teaching this fall semester.

Debra Hall of Stanville will be doing student teaching at Waco Elementary in Richmond and Suzanne C. Conley of Langley will do her student teaching at Daniel Boone Elementary in Richmond.

EKU's College of Education places its student teachers in classrooms to gain practical classroom experience, said Dr. David Rush, director of ECU's professional laboratory experiences office. The student-teaching experience, which is required before a college graduate can be certified, follows on-campus instruction in teaching fundamentals, methods and subject-matter areas.

"The student-teaching experience is periodically supervised and evaluated by University supervisors who are all former teachers and who are knowledgeable about recent Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) school reforms," Rush said. "We believe our students are well-prepared to be outstanding teachers."

EKU students preparing for teaching careers also have the unique advantage of gaining practical classroom experience at Model Laboratory School, the only laboratory school in Kentucky. It is designed to provide educational experiences for future teachers that might otherwise be unavailable.

The student teachers are working at the secondary, elementary and middle school levels, as well as in areas of special education.

Eastern is the commonwealth's largest producer of classroom teachers and school administrators.

"The success of our program is based on high admission standards, a dedicated faculty, and a course of study that combines strong content and methodology courses with practical experience at the laboratory school before our students student-teach," said Dr. Kenneth Henson, dean of ECU's College of Education. "We systematically analyze our program and make adjustments as needed as KERA unfolds, ensuring our continued success."

Eastern Kentucky University is a comprehensive university serving more than 16,000 students on its 560-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-county extended service region, and beyond.

The public is invited to attend the exhibit of Jeff Murphy photographic images in the Marguerite Weber Gallery in the Armington Science Center at Pikeville College. The exhibit will run through September.

Jeff Murphy is an acclaimed photographic artist now residing in Gainesville, Florida who combines black and white photography and painting to produce striking images of life and death. Murphy creates the images by hand painting black and white negatives.

Murphy's work has been exhibited both in solo and group shows throughout the United States. He has won several grants and awards, and is in the permanent collection at the Kresge Museum of Art and the Advanced Computing Center for Art and Design.

Exhibits at the Marguerite Weber Gallery will change each month.

Our Lady of the Mountains School

Preparations have begun for the 11th annual Terrapin Trots sponsored by Our Lady of the Mountains School in Paintsville.

The Trots, a not-quite-nationally-known event draws turtles from four surrounding counties. Owners prepare for weeks attending to the care, exercise and nutritional needs of their racers. As any experienced owner of one of these creatures will attest, the emotional state of the terrapin is critical to a successful running of the Great Green Mile.

"I tell stories to my little Shellie daily," said one unidentified trotter. "She especially likes the inspirational ones like the 'Tortoise and the Hare.'"

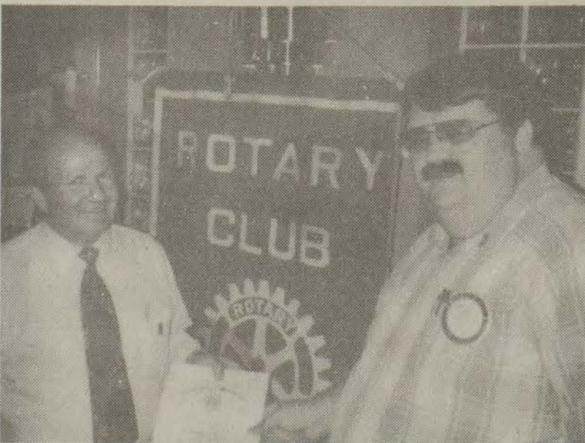

Music is another important area of training for the racers. Step outside your door anytime within the month before the race and you'll hear recordings of the "Call to the Post" being played in the backyards of surrounding owners.

At the 1993 Cannes Film Festival the cult-classic "Turtle Gump" almost got noticed. It is the story of how an ordinary terrapin found itself in the most interesting situations.

Is there a doctor in the house?

by Scott Perry

A real battle is brewing on the Medicaid front where area doctors are threatening to boycott the program if their financial incentives are reduced.

The state's plan to cut some $50 million out of the reimbursement program is the bone of contention for doctors, who say such cuts will make it unrewarding for them to treat poor people on Medicaid.

Wonder what Hippocrates might think of the issue?

No matter.

The practice of medicine is obviously not the noble profession history makes it out to be.

It is, in fact, a business and doctors are businessmen and women who offer their skills for money.

A lot of money...taxpayer money...when Medicaid crosses paths with Eastern Kentucky.

Some doctors have carried out pretty comfortable living standards for themselves by treating the poor, and their objections to cuts are understandable.

But threatening to pack up and move off if their support lines are cut is a bit too melodramatic for our tastes.

And it's a bit arrogant, too.

While physicians have been making 35 percent to 50 percent profits on Medicaid reimbursements, the working stiffs who pick up the tab are struggling to make ends meet so they won't be forced to use Medicaid.

If it weren't for the likelihood that many would suffer, we'd call their bluff and tell those doctors who threaten to leave to hit the road.

Heck, it appears that some of them are only in it for the money, anyway.

Maybe there are some out there who would be willing to settle for less.

Is there a doctor in the house?

Betsy Layne gym problems ignored!

Editor:
Brent Clark tried to throw away almost one-half million dollars by abandoning the planned classroom addition and gym renovation at Betsy Layne Grade School last year. After much effort, the citizens of the Betsy Layne area got the 26-room addition started back, preventing the waste of the one-half million dollars already invested.

Brent and the board subsequently spent around $80,000 for an architect to figure out how to scale back the classroom addition. They went as far as to try to eliminate the kitchen and cafeteria from the new building. It appeared for a while that the cooks would have to carry food from the old rundown kitchen to the new building in buckets.

Safety problems in the gym were to be corrected as part of the renovation. The classroom addition finally got underway but Brent Clark and the board members at that time, canceled the gym renovation without correcting the existing problems.

With the Floyd County School System looking like it will be short of funds to complete planned construction projects already underway, why is Brent Clark pushing the board to spend $409,400 of taxpayer dollars to buy a piece of property for an area middle school? Construction couldn't start for at least three years on a middle school because there isn't any money for construction of this project, even though it's badly needed.

It's not too hard to figure out why there isn't any money to build with when you're trying to turn construction projects into one-half million-dollar parking lots, and you're wasting thousands on architects to scale back projects without correcting the problems the construction was intended to fix.

We all want to see the area middle school underway, but ignoring problems that were to be corrected and pretending they don't exist, doesn't make them go away.

Harold and Betsy Layne Elementary, along with Betsy Layne High School, make the domed gym perhaps the most used athletic facility in the county. The children from these schools deserve a safe, dry, asbestos-free place to play, whether a certain board member thinks so or not.

Heritage, not hate

Editor:
I have to say that what I've been seeing on the news lately really has me upset. I can't believe they're really going to boycott South Carolina just because of the Confederate Flag.

This flag is a part of our heritage. It doesn't stand for racism; it stands for all the families who were torn apart and for all the young men who lost their lives during the Civil War.

Now, we're supposed to act like it doesn't exist. I don't think so! I think everyone in the United States should hang a Confederate Flag outside their homes to show support for South Carolina and their right to fly the Confederate Flag.

This is the United States of America and we're supposed to be a free country. Now, I think it's time we all stand together to protect the freedom of all people. As long as we love the stars and stripes and are willing to give our lives for it, then I think we should be able to fly the Confederate Flag as a reminder of all those young men who gave their lives in the Civil War, to show our respect for them and their families.

The public funding joke is on everyone

Editor:
Gatewood Galbraith's announcement that he is rejecting public funding for his 1995 campaign for Governor has been roughly criticized by some editors and politicians who may not be aware of all the facts. Galbraith is currently the only candidate who has actual experience in complying with the new public campaign funding law.

A Lexington editor attributes Galbraith's rejection of tax money to "confusion and unfiltered thinking." That's as far from the truth as you can get. Out mutual decision to reject public funding was "filtered" through months of deliberation and face-to-face discussions with people who must pay for public funding of political campaigns, and they are not "confused." The editorial view that anyone who disagrees with public funding favors "back-scratching Kentucky politics" is an insulting, elitist view of Kentuckians as being too dumb to know what's good for them.

While we agree elections should be fairer and campaign costs must be reduced in order to suppress corruption, the actual funding practice is going to be far different than the editorial preaching. Some candidates who profess support for public funding are already campaigning with public salaries, public offices, public staffs and publicly displayed billboards. If they ever pay their filing fees and campaign legally, any public campaign funds they receive will be like a tax-paid bonus for having cheated.

We also find folks reluctant to give the very detailed information which must be made public by candidates who accept public money. To qualify for public funding, all contributions—even one dollar—require reporting not only the contributor, but the contributor's employer, spouse and spouse's employer. This violates the privacy of employers and spouses and discourages participation by those who may otherwise wish to make a small contribution. And, why bother to accept five dol-

Watson convicted in retrial

For the second time in five years, a Magoffin County man has been found guilty of killing a Carver man. And this time, the jury recommended a prison sentence twice as long.

A Magoffin County jury deliberated one hour Thursday before finding David Holbrook guilty of killing Lee Watson on October 27, 1988.

Watson, 60, died of eight shots from a .22-caliber rifle after the two men argued at Holbrook's home on Bee Tree Fork of Carver Creek. Seven of the shots were fired into his back.

It was the second time Holbrook has been tried in the murder. The first, in 1989, ended in a guilty verdict after 15 minutes. He was sentenced to 45 years in prison—the longest sentence ever meted out in Magoffin County, said Commonwealth's Attorney Randy Campbell.

But Holbrook was granted a new trial because Judge John Robert Morgan did not give jurors an option of finding Holbrook guilty because of emotional disturbance. That would have reduced the charge from murder to manslaughter, Campbell said.

The new trial started last Tuesday. After finding Holbrook guilty last Thursday night, the jury deliberated an additional 45 minutes and recommended a 90-year prison sentence.

Morgan will sentence Holbrook on October 6. That sentence would be the longest ever in Magoffin County, Campbell said.—Lexington Herald-Leader

Huddy coal miner dies

The death of a Huddy coal miner last Wednesday evening, September 31, is under investigation.

Bucky Scott with the Professional Medical Trip Ambulance Service of Belfry said they responded to a call at Dynasty Resources Mines (a division of Sidney Coal Company) at Hardy at approximately 7:05 p.m.

When they arrived on the scene, CPR was already being administered to 43-year-old Lannie Murphy.

Scott said Murphy had complained of chest pains inside the mines. He was approximately one mile back inside the mines when he got sick.

Officials said Murphy was brought out immediately and CPR was administered.

Murphy was transported to Appalachian Regional Hospital where he was pronounced dead. His body has been taken to Lexington for an autopsy.—Appalachian News-Express

Mining death investigated

State inspectors are investigating the death of a Pike County coal miner killed last Tuesday when a section of roof collapsed on him.

John Jeff Spears, 23, of Feds Creek, was killed when a section of roof at the Quad Mining Inc. Mine 5 in Pike County collapsed on him at 5:10 p.m. No other miners were injured.

Spears was a roof bolter and was working at the face of the mine when the accident occurred. Eugene Atkisson with the state Department of Mines and Minerals said last Thursday that Spears was apparently in the process of installing roof bolts at the time he was killed because the block of roof that fell on him has an "X" on it.

The death is the ninth mining fatality in Kentucky this year.—Appalachian News-Express lars if you must then spend four dollars to record and report it? A major flaw in our new public funding law is that no distinction is made between one dollar contributors and five hundred dollar contributors. The new reporting requirements for small contributions discourage broad citizens participation. That's reality—not theory.

The Lexington editor admits that even under the new law "A rich man can buy the election—and make fun of the people who take the public money." If that is so, then other than an excuse to bad-mouth Gatewood Galbraith, what's the point? Instead of hand-wringing over our refusal to use tax money to promote ourselves, supporters of true election reform should be pleased that one less hand will be in the public pocket. We're complying with the law, we're not shaking down state contractors or political appointees, so as Toyota says, "Who could ask for anything more?"

The Lexington editor duly warned citizens to "Beware of politicians who refuse public financing." Citizens should also beware of the ones who accept it. Using public funds for self-promotion will not turn politicians into saints, so hand-wringing over who will or will not accept public funding misses the point. A far more useful subject for editorial wizardry are the outlaw candidates who are even now evading our campaign laws, rather than obeying them. Any way you turn it, that's corruption.

Public funding of elections is no joke, and neither were the reasons we gave for rejecting it. But, if news editors don't help the Election Finance Registry ensure strict compliance with these complex new election laws, public funding may soon become an expensive and not-so-funny joke on Kentucky taxpayers who will have to pay the bills.

BOE—Draw interest or buy property?

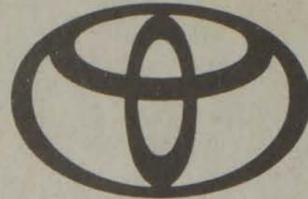

Editor:

The board is moving toward spending more than $400,000 on a piece of property for a middle school site on which they can't build for at least three or more years.

Instead of buying this property, why not invest the money in a bank and draw some interest. Over the three years, the $409,400 would grow to $473,931 ($409,400 x 1.05 x 1.05 x 1.05). If it took five years before construction could start this could be $522,509.

Why not buy needed property closer to time that actual construction could start and use the interest gained to benefit the kids of Floyd County?

Part III :

Is there lead in your tap water?

by John G. Shiber

It was good to know that all but four students who participated in the tap water sampling project had no detectable levels of lead in their household tap water. There are, however, many more people in the ten counties which were represented in this study. This leads to the question, "Is there lead in your tap water?"

Ever since the hazards of lead became known, we have done a lot to reduce its occurrence. But, there are likely to be many hundreds, if not thousands, of homes here in Eastern Kentucky which still have the same old indoor plumbing they had 30 or more years ago. The most frequent source of lead in tap water nowadays is the corrosion of materials in the household plumbing system and/or in the public water system's service line to the house. Lead goosenecks or pigtailed, lead soldiers and fluxes used to connect copper piping, and metal alloys (i.e., brass, bronze) which contain lead and are sometimes used to make sink fixtures (faucets, etc...), are examples of such materials. So, if you are living in a house with old plumbing, what should you do?

First of all, do not drink the tap water without first letting it run a few minutes, especially after it has been sitting overnight or several hours. Keep in mind that just because you have flushed one tap in the house does not mean you can drink directly from the others without flushing them. You must flush each water tap you use if it has not been used for a long time. (You don't have to waste the water you flush. Catch it in a bucket and use it for washing, or cleaning around the house.) By the way, never drink or cook with water from the hot-water tap. Hot water dissolves lead more readily than cold water does. Never mix baby formula with water from the hot-water tap.

The second thing to do is to have your tap water analyzed for lead by a certified lab as soon as possible. It may cost between $20 and $30, but it's worth it. You may want to have them analyze it for other pollutants at the same time, which will cost more. Be sure they sample your tap water according to EPA procedure, i.e., after it has been sitting, unused, for at least 6 hours.

If lead is found to be near, or in excess of the EPA limit of 15 parts per billion (ppb) for drinking/tap water and you have old copper or lead plumbing, then it is advised that you replace the indoor system as soon as possible. At the same time, contact the public water system office and ask about the type of piping which connects your house with the public water supply. They should know. If they do not, they are obliged to inspect it to find out. If they find that the service line does contain lead materials, they are required by law to change that part of the line which is on public property. Whatever part of the service line which is on your property is your financial responsibility to replace.

If your water supply comes from a well (as 33% of the water samples in this project did), it would be wise to sample the water directly from the well and have it analyzed for lead also. Recall that the four samples which had lead in them came from well water. If there is no lead in the well water and your plumbing is relatively new, then chances are that the piping which connects your household system to the well has lead materials in it. In that case, it should be replaced.

Even if you have new indoor plumbing and lead-free service lines, you are wise to have your tap water analyzed annually, not only for lead, but for other pollutants as well (i.e., copper, iron, manganese, coliform bacteria, and maybe radon). Make it a habit to let your tap water run at least several minutes before using it after a long-time without use.

If you buy your drinking water, be aware that bottled water is often only tap water which is filtered to remove contaminants and make it taste better. Be sure it comes from a company which has membership in the International Bottled Water Association (IBWA) and, thus, has required annual inspections of its facilities. To find out if the bottled water you drink comes from such a company, write the IBWA at Department RD, 113 N. Henry Street, Alexandria, VA 22314.

If you find that your tap or well water has high lead levels and you cannot afford, for some reason, to change the system or water source, the EPA advises that you install a "point-of-entry" or "point-of-use" device (i.e., calcite filter) in your system. For more information, call the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Editor's note: PCC will be offering the new course, Conservation Biology-BSL116, this fall. It will cover all aspects of environmental concern and the quality of life.

Fall color harbinger of Winter approaching

Brilliant fall foliage soon appearing across Kentucky's landscape is nature's great fanfare that winter is approaching.

"Popular myth credits Jack Frost with orchestrating the transformation from green to dazzling fall foliage, but temperature has little impact on the change," said Doug McLaren, Extension forester with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

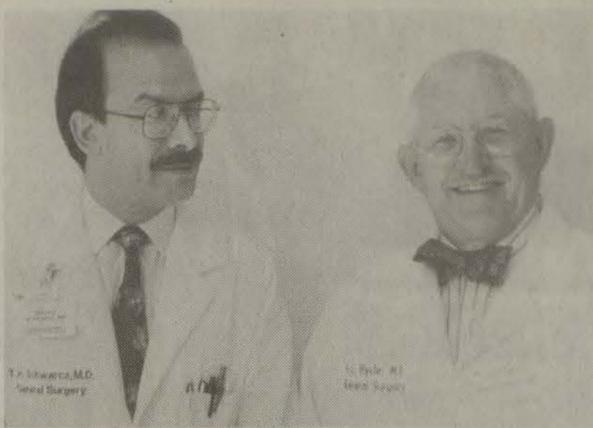

"Shorter days and longer nights open a chemical clock inside trees that triggers them to start shutting down," McLaren added. "As this change comes about, green chlorophyll that dominated leaves during the summer breaks down and is utilized less."

Chlorophyll has a vital function during the growing season, according to McLaren. It captures the sun's energy which is converted to simple sugars used for plant growth. As a tree prepares itself for winter, and is not in a growth mode, chlorophyll is no longer needed.

Leaves do contain other pigments, but green chlorophyll dominates them. As the dominant pigment dissipates, splendid colors hidden all summer become visible, as do hues created from ever-shifting chemical changes in leaves.

"Fall leaves are more than pretty colors," McLaren said. "Leaves contribute to the world's continual ecological system. When leaves drop to the ground, they decompose; minerals removed during the summer are returned for the next year's growth."

"As the colorful leaf display falls to the ground, making the final announcement of winter's approach, next year's leaves are tightly wrapped in buds flying high over head to remind us that spring will return," he added. "When spring approaches, the buds will unfurl and contribute to the ecological system by absorbing carbon dioxide and producing oxygen."

PCC Advisory Board to meet September 15

The Advisory Board of Prestonsburg Community College will meet on Thursday, September 15 for the first meeting of the 1994-95 academic year.

The meeting will be held on the Prestonsburg Campus in the Johnson Building in Room 132.

Items on the agenda include the election of officers, establishment of future meeting dates, and the President's Report.

The meeting is open to the public.

One that the 4-H Council is most proud of is the quality of the project work that was completed by 4-H'ers in the county.

4-H Project work goes hand-in-hand with KERA's hands-on applications, and teachers and parents have been super to support the 4-H'ers and their project work.

Over 2,000 projects were completed by 4-H'ers this year, and the county winners were Amanda Arnett (Animal Science); Brandon Haley, Lindsey Pope, Daniel Tilford (Wood Science); Jessica Carroll (Child Care); Ashlee Ellis, Desirae Tackett, Jennifer Adkins, Amy Keathley, Allison Pack (Cooking); Sarah Conn, Wesley Nelson (Fine Arts); Christi Beth Blackburn (Sewing); Wesley Nelson, Sarah Conn (Posters); Heather Nelson, Jessica Thornsberry (Poetry); Erin Rogers (Photography); Sarah Allen, Jessica Stumbo (Plant Science); Thomas Westfall (Natural Resources); Tyler Green (Bicycles); Justin Ferrell (Geology); Samantha Mitchell (Forestry); Adam Collins (Electricity); Nina Boyette (Fashion Magic); Iris Stumbo, Rachael Woods (Crochet).

Local students graduate from hospital course

Pikeville Methodist Hospital recently announced the graduation of 22 students from the School of Medical Technology and Phlebotomy Training course offered at the hospital.

The Pikeville Methodist Hospital School of Medical Technology held graduation ceremonies in July for six students who successfully completed the course requirements. Graduating were Krystal Coleman and Stephanie Ratliff both of Elkhorn City, Sammy Hamilton of Kimper, Brian Justice of Pikeville, Stephanie Little of Virgie and Kenenna Mullins of Lookout.

The students completed the 12-month medical technology program at Pikeville Methodist and received a bachelor of science degree from Pikeville College. The students are now eligible to take the national certifying exam to become registered medical technologists.

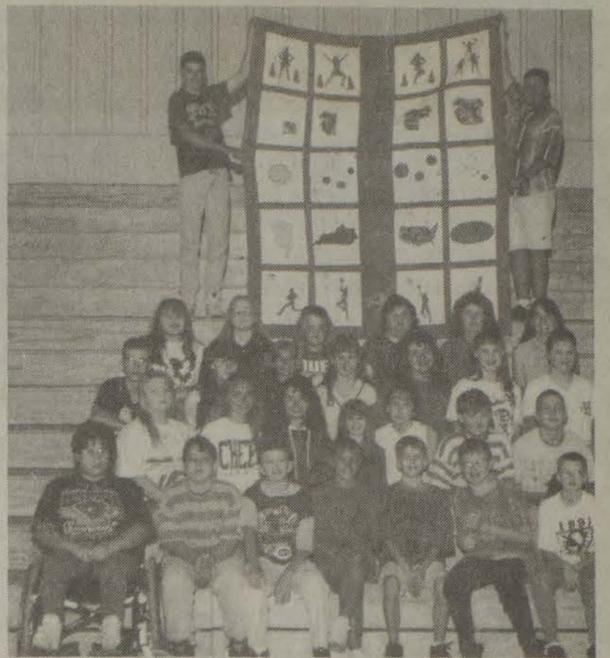

The School of Medical Technology was formed in the 1950s and is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs in cooperation with the National Accrediting Agency for Clinical Laboratory Sciences. The school is affiliated with 11 colleges and universities in Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

The Laboratory at Pikeville Methodist held two phlebotomy training courses and graduated 16 students. Each class consisted of 40 hours of academic work and six weeks of clinical practice under the direct supervision of Pikeville Methodist Hospital phlebotomists. Dianna Ross, assistant education coordinator of the School of Medical Technology, was the academic instructor, and Lead Phlebotomist Maudie May supervised the clinical practice.

Phlebotomy is the collection of blood specimens for laboratory test results by both venipuncture and skin puncture. It is an important step in diagnosing and treating illnesses.

Monthly meetings of Maytown Grade School

Maytown Grade School has scheduled their monthly meeting for Monday, September 12, with the family resource center meeting at 4; site-based council at 5; PTA at 6; and the Booster's Club at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome and urged to attend.

Duff students complete thematic unit on quilting

Mrs. Murphy's seventh grade class at Duff Elementary did a Thematic Unit on quilting. The students researched the historical aspects of quilting. They also researched the different types of patterns. The students worked in groups to design their own quilt squares on a piece of paper.

Mrs. Murphy's students selected "KERA" as the theme for their quilt. They selected cheerleading, math, social studies, science and basketball. The quilt squares represent the extra-curricular and academic program. In each row the squares represent the different levels of achievement. These quilt squares were appliqued and embroidered with embroidery thread.

In the first row across, the cheerleaders represent different levels of ability. The math in the second row is represented by a fraction bulldog. The fraction bulldog goes from the smallest to largest fraction. In the third row, social studies show different parts of the world. It goes from the county map where the students live to the world map. Science, in the fourth row, starts with the sun and expands until the entire solar system develops. In the last row, the basketball players represent different techniques. These quilt squares represent the different aspects of education.

After completing the quilt, the class presented it to Ralph O'Quinn, principal of Duff Elementary. The quilt will be exhibited at the school.

Christian rock crusade brings gospel to Martin

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

An unusual Christian crusade will be coming to Martin this Saturday night. Called a 'ROCK' Crusade by the crusade organizers, the event will feature Christian rock music performed by the live band, the Crusaders, and skits performed by youth drama teams from Magoffin County.

According to Reverend Ollie Watts, an organizer of the crusade and pastor of Brushy Fork Baptist Church in Magoffin County, the program will be youth-oriented and have a definite purpose: to give youth a chance to hear the gospel. The word 'ROCK' in the title of the crusades refers to Jesus, who is the rock of salvation, Watts said.

"...There is a generation of youth out there who have no knowledge of God...so we go to spots where youth congregate," Watts said.

Since July 1, six 'ROCK' Crusades have been held in Magoffin County. Saturday's event will mark the first in Floyd County. The crusade's tractor trailer, which doubles as a stage, will be set up at the parking lot of Pic Pac and Tackett's Furniture in Martin. The two-hour event starts at 9 p.m. and admission is free.

The crusades are financed through a joint effort of churches of different denominations in Magoffin County. In Floyd County, First Baptist Church in Martin and Pleasant Home Baptist Church at Water Gap are providing assistance with the crusade. Other churches are invited to participate.

Watts said that 'ROCK' Crusades organizers have tentative plans to hold crusades this fall at Prestonsburg, and in Johnson and Martin counties.

Quiltmakers

Students and teachers who participated in making a quilt in the seventh grade were: First row, Tiffany Conn, Kim Brown, Jennifer Thornsberry, Amy Hicke, Jason Williamson and Tommy Thornsberry. 2nd row: Kristie Teel, Wanda McCown, teacher, Shanean Spencer, Clarissa Slone, Jonathan Hall, Jeff Terry, and William Paige, and standing, Sara Slone, and Eric Combs. Others participating but, not shown are Shannon Bailey, Justin Caudill, Ann Clatworthy, Chris Ann Hall, Matthew Hall, Brandy Howard, Tina Manns, Michael Morgan, Terry Ramey, Paul Scott, Jessica Sparkman, and Joseph Collett.

Duff class completes quilt project

Wanda McCown's seventh grade class at Duff Elementary did a Thematic Unit on quilting. The students researched the historical background of quilting and invited local people to speak to the class as well as demonstrate the different quilting techniques. This information shared with the class was then combined to make a brochure telling why quilting is an economic craft as well as a hobby in the Appalachian area.

The students selected "Highlights of Kentucky" as the theme for their quilt—selecting horse racing, University of Kentucky, Cardinal (state bird), tulip tree (state tree), coal miner (coal industry), tobacco leaf (industrial crop), basketball (favorite sport), and a bulldog (Duff's mascot). These quilt squares were embroidered or applied.

The patterns used were: Monkey Wrench, Moon Over the Mountain, Nine-patch square and Jack-in-the-Box which were made by the students who chose them. Each student's quilt square had to be measured and cut accurately, be neat, color appropriate and properly stitched. After completing the quilt, the class presented it to Ralph O'Quinn, principal of Duff Elementary. The quilt will be exhibited in the foyer as a special art piece. This art piece will be shared by many future students as well as visitors at Duff Elementary.

Ms. McCown's comment was "We hope our quilt will provide a personal kind of silent, visual communication from our generation to future generations."

MSU to hold annual Family Weekend September 16-18

Mom and Dad, along with other family members and friends, are invited to go to college for the weekend.

Morehead State University will welcome the campus visitors during its 15th annual Family Weekend, September 16-18.

All the events were planned with the family in mind, according to Susette Redwine, university center programs and special events coordinator. "They will allow students to host their loved ones and friends while enjoying a variety of activities that are a part of campus life," she said.

Kicking off the festivities on Friday, September 16, will be magic and illusion by The Spencers. This husband and wife duo use a non-traditional approach to the craft to give a performance that is appropriate for all ages. Showtime is 9 p.m. in Button Auditorium. There is no charge for attending but donations to benefit the Student Emergency Loan Fund will be accepted at the door.

On Saturday, September 17, the first order of the day is a complimentary continental breakfast that starts at 9 a.m. in the Crager Room, Adron Doran University Center. The MSU Family Association will install new officers of the 1994-95 Family Advisory Committee at its annual meeting which will follow at 10 a.m. Parents are encouraged to attend to provide input or voice concerns.

As the noon hour approaches, golf enthusiasts will head to the MSU golf course for the Golf Scramble. This is a nine-hole, best ball tournament with a shotgun start. Pre-registration is necessary as play is limited to 72 registrants. The fee is $2.50 per person and tee time is promptly at noon.

Whether it's touring the campus or checking out the city of Morehead, the afternoon schedule allows time for family members to visit. A stop at the Derrickson Agricultural Complex will offer a preview of MSU's Equestrian Team when it presents a riding demonstration. The free performance begins at 2:30 p.m. in the Richardson Outdoor Arena.

After the activity, it's time to enjoy the all-you-can-eat fish fry on the lawn of the Academic-Athletic Center. Tickets are $6.50 for adults, $4.50 for children 5-10 years old and free for those under four. In case of rain, the meal will be moved inside the facility.

Rounding out the evening, MSU students and their families will head to Jayne Stadium to cheer the Eagle football team as it takes on the Tennessee State Tigers. Kickoff is 7 p.m. Students may obtain tickets for their special guests at a reduced rate of $5 for reserved seats and $3 general admission. Purchases must be made by noon on Friday, September 16, at the Athletic Office in the AAC.

The MSU visitors may attend services at local churches on Sunday, September 18, before departing for home.

Throughout the weekend, a number of receptions and open house activities have been planned by the various clubs and organizations and in the residence halls. For those who want to truly experience campus life, arrangements may be made to allow parents to spend the night in their child's hall. Also, a special award will be given to the residence hall with the highest percentage of parents registering during the weekend.

If there's any question before you pack the suitcase and head for MSU's Family Weekend, additional information is available from Redwine at 783-2071.

A FAILURE TO COMMUNICATE

Modern technology has now advanced to the point that talking on the telephone is almost optional. Today's telephones have features such as call waiting, call forwarding, three-way calling, conference calling, and call blocking, but I believe answering machines have changed the way the world thinks about communication.

Nearly every person in the world has an annoying story to relate about an answering machine. Some people say machines are inconsiderate. Others say that they despise talking to a machine. And a few will tell you that they don't like to call someone and hear a goofy message talking to them.

I can understand. I don't like answering machines either, although I have one. It's a necessity. I have to have one to make sure I haven't missed a call I might have wanted to take had I been home, or because if I didn't have one someone might call and I wouldn't know.

Fortunately for me my friend, Jean, has an answering machine. Unfortunately, she made a grievous error in programming it one afternoon, and my message was heard over her machine every time someone called her. It went something like this: "Jean, if you're home don't bother getting this. I'm depressed and don't feel like talking anyway. I'm calling to tell you that the kids are sick, I'm going up to see grandmother, the battery blew up in my car, I've gained two pounds, and someone stole our credit cards."

This message was heard every time someone called Jean. I can imagine the anger and confusion some of the callers felt. Particularly those who were calling long distance.

When Jean finally returned my call, I wasn't home, so—she left me a message. Not long after, I returned her call, but she had gone again. This time I didn't leave a long message, I just said, "See ya later." The next morning, I awoke and saw the message light blinking on the answering machine so I pressed the button and waited. It was Jean telling me that she was sorry she was gone when I called but she was at her mother's house installing an answering machine. I returned her call that afternoon. The phone rang four times before a voice on the other end answered.

"Hello."
"Jean, is that you?" I asked.
"We can't come to the phone now, but..."

It was the recording. But before I could leave a message, I heard Jean say, "Sara, wait a minute."

"Okay," she said as she switched off the machine.
"Where have you been?"
"Jean is that really you?"
"Yes, it's me."
"Weren't you going to answer the phone?"

"Yes, but I was just coming up the stairs and I almost didn't make it to the phone before the machine clicked on."

"I was afraid you were screening you calls."
"Nope. Wouldn't do that, unless of course, there was a good movie on or something."

"You can really screen your calls now," I offered. "The telephone charges you a monthly fee and sends you a machine that shows the number of the person who is calling. If you don't want to talk with them, you don't have to."

"I don't talk with anyone I don't want to talk with," Jean said boldly.

"Is that so?" I asked.
"That's why I've got an answering machine. Got to go," Jean said, "leave me a message sometime."

If telecommunication technology gets any more advanced, the next thing you know we'll have answering machines to answer answering machines.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival swings into action at Jenny Wiley

29th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival begins Friday

Swing your partner and do-si-do, or clap your hands and keep the beat as the 29th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival brings three days of musical entertainment to Jenny Wiley State Park.

The festival begins Friday, September 9, and will be held at the Wilkinson/Stumbo Convention Center. It concludes Sunday, September 11 with gospel entertainment.

Begun by Edith F. James, the folk festival seeks to keep alive the tradition of the mountains through songs and storytelling. Dancers, poets, musicians, singers, storytellers, and craftsmen combine their talents during the festival to share their love of the southern mountains.

The festival will feature workshops in storytelling and in dulcimer making. Dancing workshops will also be held.

Arts and crafts will be displayed in booths located on the amphitheatre parking lot. Those who browse through the booths may catch a glimpse of the craftsmen shaping their products. Feel free to ask questions.

This year marks a first for the festival. The Kentucky Opry has taken the festival into its family of productions.

"This is an initiative to help perpetuate the folk culture and heritage that is so rich to the people of Appalachia," said Paul P. Hughes, chairman of Kentucky Opry Inc.

The festival is also supported by the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission. First Commonwealth Bank and Jim Kennedy and the staff at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park are also annual contributors.

News of the Weird

By Chuck Shepherd

In July, a 32-year-old woman who works in the wardrobe department at Universal Studios in Hollywood got lost while driving on the lot and found herself following a tram. The tram, carrying visitors, proceeded down the middle of the "Red Sea" attraction, in which the waters are mechanically "parted" for the tram. However, at the instant the tram completes the trip, the water is released, and the woman was thus trapped in the middle of the "sea" for about an hour until firefighters rescued her.

NEWS OF THE JUDGMENT-IMPAIRED

— Reuters News Service reported in August that prisons in Romania are experiencing a wave of inmates' hammering nails into their skulls in order to be transferred from overcrowded cells to prison hospitals. Nails that go an inch deep or less are removed without surgery, but several men have driven the nails into their brains.

— In July, the town council in Peru, Vt., ordered Roland Williams out of his house for a month while authorities cleaned the place up. Williams had been purchasing large quantities of dog food and cola every day to feed the hundreds of rats that had been gathering on his property. And in New York City, officials reported in May that a woman feeding cereal to rats in her apartment and singing to them had also relinquished her bed to them while she slept in a chair.

— In March, suspected drug dealer Anthony Mason, 21, took off running from police in Durham, N.C., as they attempted to question him. Mason was wearing fashionably droopy sweat pants, and during the chase, they slipped down his legs, sending him sprawling, making for an easy arrest.

— Police in Coldwater, Ontario, suspected that it was potential thieves who placed the bomb that exploded inside the night deposit box at the Toronto-Dominion Bank in June. However, Constable Doug Langlois said he doubted the culprits got any of the money because the blast sent the several thousand dollars flying through the air and brought neighbors out quickly to fight for whatever money had not been burned or shredded by the explosion.

— In Morristown, N.J., in June, police arrested Stanley Robinson, 34, for drug possession. Robinson had stopped his car to allow a parade, with police escorts, to pass. About a dozen officers were standing in front of Robinson's car when he decided to pass the time by counting the 10 vials of cocaine he had with him.

— Jill Mayfield, 21, accepted the marriage proposal of Doyle Kelley, 35, in Joplin, Mo., in June. It would be Kelley's third marriage; Joplin police have charges pending against him for strangling his first wife and drowning the second in a bathtub. And in April, Lillian Elise Lewis, 42, married Lucien Samuel Sherrod Jr., in Nashville, Tenn., despite Sherrod's present incarceration on charges that he killed his second wife and an indictment against him for attempted murder of his first wife.

— In May 1993, Eric Jason Fann, then 21, was in jail in Kansas awaiting extradition to serve time in Texas for burglary. According to his later confession, Fann so feared Texas prisons that he deliberately threatened to kill President Clinton—figuring that such a threat would get him a federal prison sentence instead of the Texas time. In July 1994, he was convicted and indeed sentenced to 30 months in federal prison, but the sentence is to start at the end of his Texas sentence.

Poperri

by Scott Perry

We're waxing nostalgic this week, which is a darn sight less taxing than, say, waxing the car, because this month represents another milestone.

Yep, a quarter of a century ago we crossed the line from adolescence to adulthood, arriving at that historic point in everyone's life when you put away childish things and take up driving.

There are certain times during the course of life that are never forgotten.

Like where you were when President Kennedy was shot or what you were doing when Neil Armstrong stepped onto the surface of the Moon.

Arriving at the age of sixteen is one of those dates to remember, too, because that's when you're legally eligible to drive a car with the windows rolled down and the stereo turned up as loud as it will go while playing the most obnoxious music known to man.

This is what is called a rite of passage, aka noise pollution.

In 1969, the newly-licensed were more concerned with how loud their car engines were than the decibel output of their stereos.

That's because car stereos hadn't been invented yet.

Neither had unleaded gas, catalytic converters, air bags, "light" beer, VCRs, or Chicken McNuggets.

We did have drive-in restaurants that offered curb service and drive-in movies that offered Elvis movies from dusk to dawn.

Oh yeah, Elvis was really, really still alive then, too.

We also had gasoline at about 35¢ a gallon, car insurance that cost us $72 a year, dollar-a-carload nights at the movies, the Jackson Five on tour in Charleston, W.Va. and four living Beatles.

Then there was Richard Nixon in the White House, a war in a place called Vietnam, and bomb shelters in nearly every house that had a basement.

Ah, those were the days.

Only real difference between then and now is we're 25 years older, much less wiser, much wider and more likely to motor down memory lane than cruise the "strip" with our first love, a 1963 VW Bug.

Wonder what ever became of her?

— Robbery suspect Phillip Christopher Hines, 23, was shot by police in Odenton, Md., in January inside the grocery store he was accused of robbing. According to police, Hines charged at them while yelling "Bang! Bang!"

— In July, officials at California Polytechnic Institute at San Luis Obispo set up a video camera to find out who was responsible for a rash of vending machine break-ins on campus. One man was caught on tape and arrested, and the police seized his truck. The Los Angeles Times reported that the man later paid the impound fee on the truck with 924 quarters.

— Kissimmee, Fla., high school history teacher John Blumberg was suspended for five days recently for poor judgment for staging a re-enactment for his class on the assassination of President Kennedy. Blumberg took the class out into a field and had a student fire his father's rifle, which was the same model as the one used by assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, three times at a target as far away as Kennedy was from Oswald, to demonstrate Oswald's firing pattern.

— Customs officials, aided by drug-sniffing dogs, arrested Mary Gray, 43, of Chicago at O'Hare Airport in June as she returned from Jamaica with 27 pounds of marijuana in her suitcase. She said she thought the marijuana would be undetectable because it was sprinkled with a "magic voodoo potion" that she had bought from a witch doctor in Jamaica.

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

In April in Rochester, N.Y., Jeffrey Watkins, 24, was convicted of breaking into five mausoleums and of stealing the skull of a woman who died in 1933. Watkins, who refers to himself as "The Grinch," wrote in a confession that he had slept with remains inside coffins. "I'm a walker of both sides. What I mean is good and evil. I feel safe with the dead, and I can trust them. I need their company to make me peaceful inside."

LEAST JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE

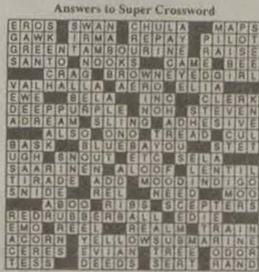

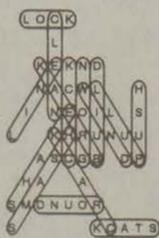

On July 16, a 21-year-old man was fatally stabbed in the chest in a New York City subway train. Witnesses said he was stabbed because he was apparently victorious in a staring contest with the man who killed him.

Sewers leads Rebels past Betsy Layne

Allen Central wins B team game 22-0 as Mullins scores twice

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Allen Central Little Rebs grade school football team got their 1994 season off on a successful note as they posted a 14-0 win over the Sandy Valley Bobcats Tuesday night at Betsy Layne.

James Sewers rushed for 110 yards and Jackie Owens came up with a big defensive play to help in the win.

Owens came up with an interception in the first quarter on the second play of the game for the Bobcats. The turnover gave the Rebs good field position and Rodney Bentley scored the game's first touchdown with 3:21 left in the first quarter. Bentley crossed the goal line on a 17-yard run. The kick failed as the Rebs led 6-0.

Betsy Layne put together a good drive as they moved from their own 45-yard line to the Rebels' five. Aaron Swiger picked up a 23-yard carry and gained 9 yards on a reverse play that put the ball on the five.

A holding call against the Bobcats moved the ball back to the 15 where quarterback Tyler Puckett tried to pass the football. His pass was intercepted by Sewers at the 4-yard line. Sewers then galloped 86 yards for the touchdown. Bentley kicked the extra point (in grade school a kick PAT is good for 2 points) to give Allen Central a 14-0 lead.

Sandy Valley was impressive on defense in the final three quarters and they held the Rebels off the scoreboard.

However, the Bobcats could not move the football into the endzone and came away with a 14-0 loss.

Sandy Valley missed a chance to score in the third period when they moved the football to the Allen Central 2-yard line. The drive started when Scott Collins came up with an Allen Central fumble on their own 42-yard line.

Aaron Swiger carried five times to take the ball to the Allen Central two. Chase Gibson broke two tackles at the 47-yard line and was brought down at the 23. Bradley Brooks carried for seven yards before Swiger picked up 10 more on two carries. A flag on Allen Central put the ball at the 3-yard line (half the distance) and Swiger picked up one to place the ball at the Rebels' two.

On a third-and-goal from the two, Swiger was thrown for a loss of 3 yards. Puckett tried to pass to the endzone on a fourth down play, but the ball fell incomplete as Allen Central held.

"This is a young team," said Sandy Valley coach Solomon Kilburn. "There is a big improvement from last year. Our defense was good. We held them for three quarters after they scored on us in the first."

"Aaron and Jeremy Brent played a strong game on defense for us. Tyler did an excellent job for us at quarterback for the first time being there," he said.

Sandy Valley totaled 113 yards of offense. The Bobcats rushed for 98 yards and Puckett had two completions for 15 yards. He was intercepted three times.

The Bobcats were flagged seven times for 40 yards in penalties.

Bentley had 29 yards rushing for Allen Central on five carries. Scott Stone rushed for 50 yards on 15 carries.

The Rebels massed 189 yards of offense, all coming on the ground. Quarterback Shawn Henson passed one time and it was incomplete. Although Henson did not pass the ball, he ran the ballclub with experience.

Allen Central fumbled the ball twice, losing the ball once. The Rebels were flagged 11 times for 95 yards in penalties.

"We started slow," said Allen Central coach Dwayne Gibson. "But these kids wanted this win and they came firing off the ball."

"Scott (Stone) did an excellent job for us carrying the ball. I'm very proud of them all. Our defense picked up after the sweep hurt us a couple of times. It's a learning experience for this team every time out. It should be a good year for us," he said.

Allen Central goes to 1-0 on the season while Sandy Valley falls to 0-1. Sandy Valley will host Knott County Central next Tuesday evening.

Little Rebels B team wins 22-0
Allen Central made it a sweep when its B team defeated Sandy Valley 22-0 in the preliminary game.

Date set for KDFWR quota hunt drawing

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) will hold a special random drawing for two quota deer hunts to be held on Birdsville Island Wildlife Management Area.

The two hunts, scheduled for October 8-9 and 29-30 are gun only, either sex. No bowhunters will be allowed to hunt during the gun quota hunts. The drawings will take place at 10 a.m. in Smithland at the site of the old hotel building a block from the junction of Highway 60 and Highway 70.

Jonathan Ellis led the ground and kicking game for the junior Rebels. The Rebels took a 6-0 lead in the second quarter when Mark Howard fell on a loose ball in the Sandy Valley endzone with 42 seconds left in the half.

In the third quarter, Larry Mullins gave the Rebels a 14-0 lead with a 20-yard touchdown run. Ellis added the extra points.

In the fourth period, Mullins struck again as he scored from 8-yards out and Ellis again kicked the extra points for the 22-0 score.

Week three of the high school football season begins tonight and for the Betsy Layne Bobcats (1-1), the week layoff has been too long.

The Bobcats, coming off a 48-26 win over South Floyd last Friday night, will host Morgan County tonight and will be looking to go over the .500 mark.

The 48 points scored last week at South Floyd is the highest ever for a Bobcat team. Besides that, Betsy Layne is the only county team that posted a win last week.

"When was the last time you saw a Betsy Layne team being the only one to win in the county?" asked Bobcat coach John Derossett.

The Pirates of Morgan County are 0-2 on the yet-young season and will be looking for their first win of the year. Morgan County fell to Greenup County 32-0 in the first week and lost to Shelby Valley in district play last Friday night.

Coach Terry Chinn's ballclub hasn't had much ball movement, especially on the ground.

"We are averaging through the first two games zero yardage as a team," said Chinn.

The Pirates were expected to be a throwing team this year with Danny DeBoard returning from a stellar season last year. A look at the stats for the first two games shows that the Pirates are looking to the air for yardage.

DeBoard had tossed for over 300 yards in the first two games and has passed for one touchdown.

Coach Chinn's Scouting Report...
But the concern that Coach Chinn has is the size of the Bobcats.

"They are a big strong team," he said. "They will outweigh us 40 to 50 pounds. I know they are very big."

"Bubba Combs is huge and a very good football player. He is very deceiving with his speed. He is quicker than you would think. He got hurt in our game last year and we didn't get to see much of him. But I have seen him play before. We will have a hard time with him."

"Also the Hamilton boys (Craig, Rocky, Jason) are very good and are solid football players. We will not matchup very well with them," he said.

Coach Chinn said, "Rocky Hamilton is a very good back with decent speed. It is his acceleration that makes him so tough. He has good strength."

Keys to a win for Pirates...

The Morgan County coach said that his team hasn't done a good job of taking care of the football and that is a must.

"If we are going to beat Betsy Layne we will have to cut down on our turnovers. That has been a problem for us the first two games."

"We had five passes intercepted against Greenup County and one interception last week. We're making

Daniels wants Raiders to keep football on the ground at Phelps

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

According to South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels, you just can't trust the Phelps Hornets.

"They fake everything," he said in speaking about the way the Hornets lineup. "They will fake everything. The kicking game, everything."

The Raiders and Hornets hook up on the gridiron tonight for the third game of the season for both teams. Phelps will bring a 1-1 record into the contest while South Floyd (0-2) will be looking for their first win as a new school. The Raiders have lost 12 straight, dating back to last year when they finished 0-10.

The Raiders are a very good 0-2 team and they have put the points on the scoreboard. Coach Daniels' team scored 40 against Magoffin County and 26 last week against Betsy Layne.

Fullback Chad Stone has been on a tear in the first two games of the season. He has eight touchdowns (four in each game) and has scored 48

Controlling football key for Bobcat win

Morgan County running at zero on the ground

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats will go three deep into the high school football season as they host the Morgan County Pirates tonight at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex and Coach John Derossett likes the way his "small band" of gridironers are playing.

Betsy Layne is coming off a 48-26 win over South Floyd last Friday night and the combination offense of passing and running the football was a key.

In their initial game of the season against Paintsville, Brent Akers attempted but one pass and it was incomplete. Last Friday night against the Raiders, quarterback Craig Hamilton completed six of seven passes for 130 yards.

But it was the total offense that the Bobcats put together as they massed 411 total yards.

Now comes game three as the Pirates sail into Betsy Layne. Coach Derossett said that the key for a Bobcat win is summed up in one word -- control.

"We have to control the football and the clock," said the veteran coach. "Our offense must control their defense in order for us to win. They have to."

Another key for a victory is not only the way in which the Bobcats take care of the football on offense but the turnovers they can create on defense for Morgan County.

"Our defensive line has to hit hard and stop the gaps," he said. "We have to create some turnovers on defense as well."

Coach Derossett's Scouting Report...

"Morgan County likes to throw the football," Coach Derossett explained. "They will go with the run and shoot. They have some very good receivers back from last year and they have good hands."

The Pirates have a solid quarterback in Danny DeBoarde (6'2", 213, junior) and the Pirates know that so far the airwaves have been their only way of moving the football as they have zero yardage on the ground.

"Morgan County is not a big team," said the Betsy Layne coach, "but they are quick. They put a lot of players on the line and they have good speed."

The Betsy Layne coach said that his team's pass rushing will be vital as he doesn't want them to give DeBoarde time to spot his receivers.

The Pirates top receiver, Mike Adkins, will be "missing-in-action" as he was hurt in the last week's game against Greenup County. Fullback Ben Castle will not see playing time because he broke his leg in the team's gridiron.

(See Bobcats, B 4)

South Floyd

points. He has amassed some yardage as well with 172 last Friday night against Betsy Layne.

Adam Wright, who Betsy Layne coach John Derossett thinks could play on the next level, totaled 100 yards on offense.

Raider quarterback Justin Ray tossed for 146 yards in game one, but had only 15 against the huge Betsy Layne defense last Friday night.

Sophomore Aaron Hall anchors the defensive line for the Raiders, along with Shawn Curry and Jarred Compton.

Coach Daniels' Scouting Report...
"Phelps has a very good halfback in Steve Smith," said Daniels. "He likes to run the football and will carry most of the time."

Phelps coach Bill McKinney moved Smith from the quarterback slot he held last year and installed him in the backfield for yardage on the ground.

The Hornets, according to Coach Daniels, is a 60-40 team, meaning they will throw the football 40 percent of the time.

"They like to keep it on the ground," he said. "They will run a lot of misdirection stuff. We will just have to stay home and do what we can."

"Ninety percent of the time when they line up to kick off, they will on-side kick it. We will just have to keep on guard against them. They fake everything."

Daniels said that Coach McKinney is a gambler and doesn't do things by the norm.

"He will take his chances," he said. "He's unpredictable."

Dotson will run at the quarterback slot for the Hornets. Derrick Lester will play a tightend spot and Daniels likes the look of Lester.

"He's good," he said. "He's got good hands. Can catch the ball. A good ball player."

"Phelps is a better balanced ballclub than they had last year," he said.

Keys to a Raider win...
Mistakes have been a problem in the first two outings for South Floyd. Daniels said that cutting down on mistakes will be a key to victory tonight.

"We have to cut down on our mistakes," he said. "We have had too many turnovers. We have to take care of ourselves."

"Another area we have to win in is the kicking game. We need to shore up our defense."

Daniels said that his team's defense is not as bad as people think. "We play hard. If we can cut down the turnovers, we'll be all right."

Injured list...
The South Floyd coach doesn't expect to make any changes in the lineups and his team is still battling the "flu bug" that hit the team in game one.

"We don't have any serious injuries," he said. "Just some sore ankles and knees."

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Bobcats

"Morgan County gave Shelby Valley all they wanted last week," said Coach Derossett. "Except for two dropped passes, they would have won the game."

"I'm very impressed with their quarterback. They have small receivers, but they are quick and run the routes well," he said.

Returning also for the Pirates will be Damon Ballinger (6'2", 190, senior) at a halfback slot.

"He's a good one," said Derossett. "They will run a pass 12 and be a threat to our secondary."

The chase!

Pikeville not taking Allen Central lightly

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville Panthers may be three-time state Class 1A champions, and they may be facing a team that is winless in their first two outings this year, but Pikeville coach Hillard Howard is not taking the Rebels lightly.

Howard returns to lead the Panthers coaching ranks after a three-year absence. Here replaces Bill Allara, who stepped down.

But Howard is no stranger to the game, as area football fans know. He has been one of the more successful coaches in the state in the past 10 years.

The Panthers and Allen Central clash on the gridiron tonight at Pikeville beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Allen Central fell to Elkhorn City in their first game of the year when they saw a 8-0 lead disappear in the fourth quarter. Fleming-Neon shut out the Rebels 19-0 last Friday night on the road and Coach Glenn Reeves could change his offense against the Panthers.

Pikeville, after a disappointing loss to Prestonsburg to start their season two weeks ago, manhandled Elkhorn City 56-8 last Friday night.

Coach Howard's Scouting Report...

"This is a better Allen Central team than last year," said Coach Howard. "I watched them play against Elkhorn City in a game they should have won. They led most of the game only to lose in the final quarter."

Allen Central's defense has been there in both losses and they will have their hands full containing the Panthers running game. But Howard questions how his team will run against Allen Central.

"This is a fine football team," he said of the Rebels. "They are a well-coached team. They are a disciplined team. They play you hard."

Keys to a Panther win...
Caution!

"We can't go out and beat ourselves," said the Panther coach. "We have to take care of the football and just go out and play hard. We will need to capitalize on their mistakes."

"This is a good team we're going to play," he said. "They are going to have a very good program there."

Injured list...

"We're okay there," said Howard.

Panthers to watch...

Super soph Brent Coleman (5'7", 175) will test the Rebels' middle line. The fleet-footed running back has destiny tagged all over him.

Another sophomore, Eddie Deramus (6'1", 250), is a bull of a back who has good speed for his size.

Seniorback John Hatfield (6', 185) will be at one halfback slot. Decent speed. Good third-and-short runner.

Jonathan Pruitt (6'3", 180) quarterback the ballclub. He doesn't throw the football that much with Coleman and Deramus behind him.

One of the state's best extra point kickers plays for the Panthers and he is freshman Brian Vligenthart (5'7", 220). He is just an excellent kicker.

Lady Bears get new head coach

Pikeville College announced Tuesday the hiring of Randy Roberts as the school's new women's head basketball coach. Roberts comes to Pikeville from Presentation College in Aberdeen, South Dakota.

The 1987 graduate of Lincoln Christian College brings six years coaching experience at the college level. He was an assistant at Lincoln from 1986-1993, then hired by Presentation to start a basketball program from scratch. This new program will compete in NAIA Division II in 1995.

Roberts was also an outstanding player in high school and college, winning County Player of the Year in high school and a two time All-Region team in college.

Roberts is itching to get started at Pikeville. "It's all happened very fast. I'll get to Pikeville on Monday (September 12) and go to work on Tuesday morning," says Roberts.

"I know I'm inheriting a successful program with a bright outlook for the coming season. Hopefully, we'll continue on an upward path."

Roberts takes over a program that lost only one player to graduation last year and had an outstanding recruiting season. Look for Roberts to develop a defensive oriented, up-tempo team.

key mistakes and are just turning the ball over."

Coach Chinn believes that if his team will just eliminate some mistakes they can be in the game with Betsy Layne.

"We are making mistakes like missed blocks and blocking assignments," he said. "It's a mental thing with us. We've had too many fumbles."

Aaron Cummings is the Pirates' featured back, but it hasn't been a successful first two games for Cummings.

"He has carried the football 11 times in the first two games for 15 yards," said Chinn. "We have such a mismatch up front, and going against Betsy Layne will not be easy."

Also in the backfield will be Damon Ballinger and Wade O'Conner.

"This is a good group of kids," Chinn said of his team. "They have given a good effort in the first games. They have played hard and haven't quit."

"The defense is trying to do too much arm tackles and are missing tackles."

The Morgan County coach said the Betsy Layne line will definitely pose a problem for his ballclub.

Injured list...

Ben Castle will be out for the Pirates after suffering a broken leg in a gridiron game three weeks ago. Also missing will be Mike Adkins, who was hurt in the Greenup County game.

"Other than that, it is just the normal bumps and bruises that a team goes through," said Coach Chinn.

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. and the game will be carried live by radio station WXL-R, 104.9.

PIGSKIN PICKS: WEEK THREE

This Week's Picks

- South Floyd at Phelps
- Morgan County at Betsy Layne
- Allen Central at Pikeville
- Whitesburg at Prestonsburg
- Kentucky at Florida
- Tennessee at Georgia
- Louisville at Texas
- Michigan at Notre Dame
- Buffalo at New England
- Cincinnati at San Diego
- Pittsburgh at Cleveland
- Miami at Green Bay

This Week's Consensus

- Prestonsburg
- Florida
- Tennessee
- Texas
- Notre Dame
- Buffalo
- San Diego
- Cleveland
- Green Bay

The head man takes the top spot as Scott (our fearless leader) sets the right example on how to make the picks. "Global" Goble vows to make a return to the number one position when week three is finished. But Kari may have a say so about the outcome. Florida gets the nod over Kentucky as the Wildcats travel into the 'gator-alley. On the local level, Prestonsburg defeats Whitesburg while the Raiders of South Floyd fall at Phelps. Morgan County (?) is picked to win over the Betsy Layne Bobcats, despite having zero yardage on the ground this season. Cleveland wins over Pittsburgh (sorry Tim) and the Bengals fall at San Diego.

Injured-riddled Whitesburg visits P'burg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Area football fans know that it is still early in the 1994 season, but tonight's matchup pitting the Whitesburg Yellowjackets against the Prestonsburg Blackcats is a big one.

With week three getting underway tonight, the winner of tonight's game between the Yellowjackets and Blackcats will definitely be in the driver's seat as far as a district championship goes.

Whitesburg coach Doug Chandler recalls last year's game where his Yellowjackets fell as a 16-8 victim to Prestonsburg.

"There is no doubt about it," said Whitesburg coach, "that Prestonsburg was the best 2A team in the state last year. This is a good ballclub. They are a strong team and I like Bill Letton.

He's just an outstanding coach."

Coach Chandler says that he hopes the Blackcats the best this year except, "when they play us this coming Friday night."

"We know we have our work cut out for us," he said. "This ballclub is so well coached. They are as strong as ever."

Chandler eluded to the losses of Dwayne Garza and Seth Hyden.

"I know they lost some strong backs in Garza and Hyden. I coached Seth in the all-star game against Tennessee. I know what talent he has. But they have Letton and he is a fine football coach."

Coach Chandler shrugged off the 13-0 defeat that Lafayette posted over Prestonsburg last week.

"They are a 4A school," he said. "We've lost to a 4A school and went 9-1 the rest of the way. Prestonsburg is solid."

The Yellowjackets will be short-handed when they move into Prestonsburg tonight and may resemble a MASH unit more than a football team.

"We're hurt right now," said Chandler. "We have five, possibly six, starters out for the game. Our quarterback (Chester Adams) has a bad knee and it is doubtful that he will play any."

"Our fullback (Andy Morrell) is out for the game, serving a one-game suspension for an infraction in last week's game. One of our tackles (C.B. Hall) has a pulled muscle. The Maggard boys (Todd and Travis) had a death in the family and haven't been at practice. So we're pretty well hurting."

Coach Chandler said that he wasn't trying to make excuses.

"My coaching staff told me that is part of coaching and that you just have to accept it. So, we'll be there and do the best we can. We have some good people that are capable of getting the job done," he said.

When the two clubs hook up it is always a thriller all the way leaving the fans on the edge (if they are still sitting) of their seats.

"This will be a good game," he said. "We always play well against each other. I enjoy it that way."

Coach Chandler's Scouting Report...

"Prestonsburg, as I said, is a strong football team," said Chandler. "They are a better team, I think, because they throw the football more. Before it was 85-15 that they would run the football. Now it is 70-30."

"That makes you a better team because what it does is that it keeps the defense always thinking. They can pass or run the ball. It's always in the back of

Prestonsburg hopes to take better care of ball

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The date: September 10, 1993 at Whitesburg.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats carried a 2-0 record to Whitesburg. The Yellowjackets were considered to be one of the top contenders for a District 4 championship.

The Blackcats came away with the win, but suffered the loss of two of their backs. All-stater Seth Hyden was laid up for several weeks and Dwayne Garza was out for one game.

But this is 1994 and the two teams collide tonight on the gridiron. If the past dictates tonight's contest, it should be a barn-burner.

Prestonsburg is still smarting over their 13-0 loss to Lexington Lafayette last Friday night in Lexington. In this game, they failed to move the football, except on two possessions.

The Cats threatened first early and then late in the game, but came away empty.

Tonight the Cats will have to focus on the importance of this game as they battle in their first district game of the year with a strong contender.

Coach Bill Letton and his Blackcats have been here before. They know what needs to be done to win and, as Coach Doug Chandler of Whitesburg put it, "Prestonsburg is noted for getting the big wins."

This will be a big one. But the backfield is going to have to step up a couple of notches in hitting the holes and getting the needed yardage on the ground.

Senior quarterback Thomas Ratliff (6'2", 170) has been the bulk of the Blackcat offense in the first two games, averaging 73 yards. There is not a better option quarterback in the area than Ratliff, but he could be questionable for the game tonight. Ratliff was hit hard toward the end of the game against Lafayette and is nursing some tender ribs.

"He is bruised and has some damage around the ribs," said Coach Bill Letton. "We don't know the status of Tom right now (Thursday). If he isn't able to go, we will go with Mike Castle or Keith Marsillett."

Coach Letton's Scouting Report...

"Whitesburg is a good football team," he said. "Their quarterback position is up in the air right now. Chester Adams was hurt in their first game and missed the second one. Then the backup quarterback (Andy Morrell) was ejected in the second game.

"Roger Caudill (5'8", 165) and Billy Stamper (6'0", 185) are good backs. They're both quick. Jerome Hatton is about as good a receiver that we will see all year.

"They move the ball on offense and are aggressive on defense."

The offensive line must open the gaps. They must create the running room and that is something they have failed to do thus far.

Mike Shepherd (6', 185) is averaging just under 80 yards in the first two games. He had a strong outing against Pikeville, but struggled against Lafayette last week.

Outside of Shepherd, Ratliff is the only other player to compile any yardage. He ran for 98 yards against Pikeville and totaled 48 against Lafayette.

Larry Morris (6'1", 220) has been used sparingly in the backfield, but a hip-pointer slowed the All-State linebacker candidate down last week.

your mind.

"I like their quarterback (Thomas Ratliff). He's a very strong athlete and can throw the football or run out of the option."

Keys to a Yellowjacket win...

"First, we have to take the ball away from Prestonsburg," said Chandler. "We can't allowed them to sustain the long drives like they are capable of doing. If we do they will beat us."

"Second, we cannot let them control the game. Example of that was the Danville game last year. It doesn't matter how good you are, if the other team controls the game you'll get beat. We can't allow that to happen."

"Third, we have to take care of the football and not turn it over. I also beleive our special teams will be a big key to our winning," he said. "If you lose you lose. I just wish everyone was well for this game because it is going to be a big one. When you have everyone healthy, and you lose you can accept it. But now, with so many out, you wonder what if?"

Coach Chandler recalled last year's matchup and felt his team played well against Prestonsburg.

"It was a heartbreak for us," he recalled. "We played well enough to win. We made some crucial mistakes but I still feel the best team won the game."

Whitesburg lost to Cumberland (7-0) in a bowl game to start the season and then won over district foe Whitesburg rather handily, 44-18 last Friday night.

Coach Chandler is hoping that his team will be focused for this game and that those, who will replace the injured, will arise to the occasion and fill in the slots effectively. "Turnovers will be crucial," he said. "We have to take care of the football."

Prestonsburg missed the presence of Robbie Risner (5'9", 191) last week because he sat out a one-game suspension. Risner will return for the Blackcats tonight at his linebacker slot and in the backfield.

Sophomore Jon Morris (5'11", 170) was impressive against Lafayette last week. He had two receptions for 27 yards and played a strong defensive game, making some key tackles.

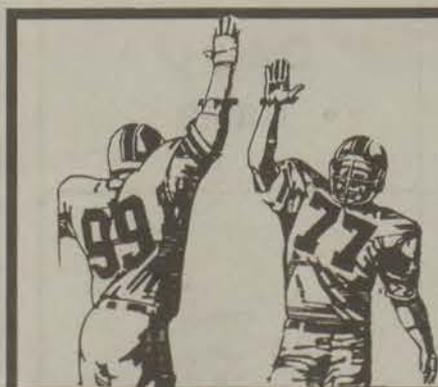

Chad Spurlock (5'9", 163) will also be in the backfield for Prestonsburg, as will Blake Leslie (5'10", 155).

"Big" Tim Lewis (6'3, 245) and Paul Collins (5'11, 198) will lead the Blackcats' lines. Lewis plays at the defensive tackle while Collins is the nose guard on defense.

Tim Lane (6'1", 173) will be at the defensive end slot. Gavin Hale (6'2", 180), the other defensive end, is still out with an injury.

What others are saying!

- Jeff Meek, WKKZ-FM Sports Director: "Prestonsburg will win by a touchdown, but they will have to establish a running game. Their running game looked anemic against Layfayette."
- Jim Allen, WQHY-FM Sports Director: "If Prestonsburg comes out in the right frame of mind, they will win by four touchdowns. They have to have the killer instinct."
- Rick Bentley, Sports Editor, News-Experss: "Both teams are rich in tradition. I'll take Prestonsburg by 14 points."

Allen Central Rebels to 'let 'er fly' against Pikeville Panthers tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When Allen Central travels to Pikeville tonight, the score may be close or it could be 100-0. But one thing is sure, the Rebels will have a change in offensive strategy in the third week of the season.

The change will come about because the ground game of the Rebels just isn't getting the job done. So Rebel coach Glenn Reeves has decided to go the other way and through the air.

"We'll go to the air tonight," said the Rebel mentor. "We may get beat 100-0, but we're going to throw the football. We need to get our air game going."

The second-year Allen Central coach says that he will stick with present quarterback Adam Coleman for now.

"He's got to do it," said Reeves. "We'll make him do it."

In the backup mode is senior Brad Blackburn and sophomore Shane Blackburn. Reeves likes to have more than one quarterback who can throw the football.

"As long as I am here, we'll always have more than one quarterback," he said.

Coleman has completed four of 16 pass attempts in the first two games. He has two completions against Elkhorn City and two against Fleming-Neon last week.

"Adam's getting better with the pass," said Reeves.

Josh Reeves leads the Rebels in rushing, averaging five yards a carry. Coach Reeves Scouting Report...

"We will be playing a legend tonight," said Reeves, speaking of Pikeville coach Hillard Howard. "I have a lot of respect for him. He gets a lot of respect state wide."

A speech Howard gave not long ago became a motivational tool for Coach Reeves.

"I heard him speak in Louisville one time and he said that coaches need to get down and communicate with the kids," said Reeves. "I've tried to do that, to think on their level. Coach Howard is a heck of an offensive coach. He's a heck of a coach."

Sophomore running back Bret Coleman poses a problem for the Rebels, according to their coach.

"We have to stop Bret Coleman," he said. "He will give us the most trouble. He's quick with excellent speed."

Eddie Deramus will be another Panther whom the Rebels will need to hold in check.

"He's got good size and speed," Reeves commented. "He could be a problem for us at nose guard, also. Prestonsburg took him out when they played. He'll be a hard one to contain."

Pikeville is not a throwing team, but that doesn't stop Coach Reeves from expecting the pass.

"They don't throw a lot, but they will throw the football," he said. "Their quarterback (Jonathan Pruitt) will give us problems because he is an excellent option quarterback."

Keys to a Rebel win...

"Against Pikeville, we've got to stay at home and not over pursue. Our tackles will have to close the gaps while our ends stay home."

"We have to control Coleman and their quarterback. That is a must for a win," he said.

Reeves also said that penetration and doing a good job passing the football is another key.

"We have good receivers in Thomas Jenkins and Estill Stumbo," he said.

Another area the Rebels will need to focus on is penalties.

"We have to hold down on our penalties," he said.

Allen Central has been penalized hard in the first two games (95 in game one, 100 against Neon).

"Against Elkhorn City and Neon, our penalties was their offense," said Reeves. "We'd have an illegal procedure called against us and personal fouls. But I want to congratulate Levi Wells because he did not get a personal foul penalty in the Neon game."

Coach Reeves said that his ballclub was working on their timing and routes in preparation for the Pikeville game.

"We will have to play the crowd and the referees when we go to Pikeville. We have to come out and hit them hard at the first."

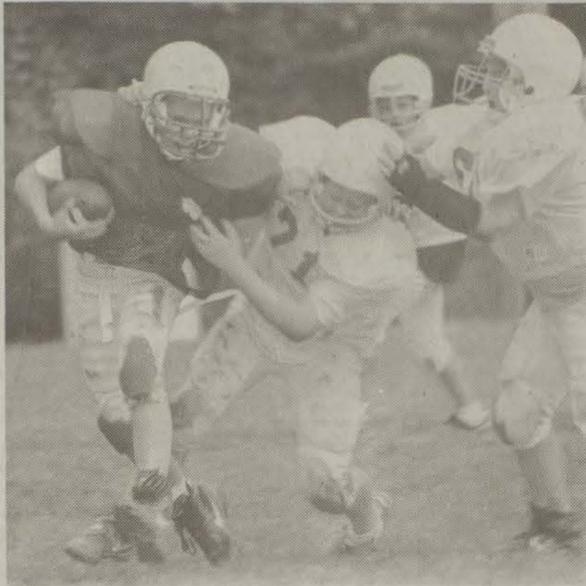

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. The game will be aired over WPKE-FM and WLSI-FM. WPRG-TV will have the game on a delay basis the same night.

Rebel notes...

- The new scoreboard at Allen Central has been hooked up and is in working order. The new board was not operational in their season opener.
- The new bleachers have been delivered to the football field and should be in place when the Rebels hold homecoming next Friday against Berea.

• The Allen Central coach said that he wants to congratulate Dwayne Gibson on the excellent job he has been doing with the grade school Rebels.
