Floyd economy gets boost from Sears

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

The largest Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Store in the eastern district of the United States will open in Prestonsburg as soon as renovations are completed on the former Sundry Store building.

Jim Blackburn of Chattahoochee, West Virginia completed arrangements on the business venture Tuesday. Projected opening date for the new store is November 1, said Blackburn's son J.R.

Although it's J.R. who is helping his father, Jim, with public relations while the store is being opened, it's Blackburn's other son, Sam, who will be helping with sales at the store.

When Blackburn heard that Sears wanted to locate a store in the Prestonsburg area, he went to Atlanta and applied, son J.R. said. Several others also applied, but Blackburn's expertise and knowledge about Sears and Sam's knowledge of computers, his up-to-date style and his eight years of experience at Sears was a combination that the company couldn't refuse.

When Blackburn got the go ahead, he and J.R. contacted local realty companies and were shown several possible locations for the new business.

Initially, Sears officials directed Blackburn to locate his store near U.S. 23.

"Sears wants a small location as the general rule," J.R. said, explaining that most small towns seem to be dying.

But when Blackburn visited downtown Prestonsburg and saw the activity in the area, he saw Prestonsburg growing. He liked the Sundry Store building's location because it is near the post office and courthouse. It also has a good area for loading and unloading of equipment, and it has 6,200 square feet of selling space, making it the biggest Sears Authorized Retail Dealer Store in the eastern district.

He also liked what he saw in the building's owner, Ed Music. "(Music) seemed to be shaking hands good," said J.R.

When Blackburn and Music settled on a figure, they shook hands on the deal.

"His handshake is as good as his word," son J.R. said. "When he shook hands on the deal, he didn't know

Betsy Layne site, development exceeds limit :

Board must get state's approval

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

State education officials have rejected the purchase of a site for a Betsy Layne middle school because the cost and development of the property is projected to exceed 10 percent of the total project cost.

Mark Ryles, facilities director for the Kentucky Department of Education, said Thursday that he has requested more information from Floyd school officials on the project, including an estimate of the total project cost.

Ryles explained that the purchase has been turned down at this time because if the cost of the site and site preparation exceed 10 percent of the total project cost, the state school board must approve the expenditure.

The issue of the site cost and preparation was raised at Monday's school board meeting by Betsy Layne resident Lance Blackburn. Blackburn asked that the board delay purchasing the site because it is expected to take three years before work can begin on the project. Blackburn suggested that the school board address more pressing facility needs in the county first.

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said Thursday that he expects the state school board to discuss the purchase at its November meeting. Towler said that information concerning the site purchase and development has been sent to Ryles.

Site cost and development has been estimated to cost between $700,000 and $800,000, Towler said. The appraised value of the site is $409,000, but Towler said that could change.

"It could be more, it could be less," Towler said. "That (estimate) is the best we can do. We don't have any real serious talks going on with the property owners. Also, if we have to go through condemnation, the price could change."

The total project cost is expected to be between $5-$6 million.

Towler said of the three sites looked at—the Y site, the Conn ballfield and land adjacent to Betsy Layne High School—the Y site was most suitable, but it is not perfect.

"It is a tight area," Towler said. "But, I feel we can put a school and gym on it. It would have to be a two-story school."

The board is expected to get a

Sheriff's efforts net close to $30,000

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

In just four days, close to $30,000 in delinquent taxes have been collected by the Floyd County Sheriff's Office and taxpayers have until today (Friday) to settle up or face stern action.

Collection efforts began Monday and most offenders have been cooperative and paid their bills.

"Most people have said it's been an oversight or no one has ever tried to collect the taxes before," Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said Thursday. "Most have said, 'I should've paid it.' At this point, we haven't had to seize anyone's property."

But that could change after today. "I am going to give the county attorney three names that I'd like to see foreclosure proceedings start," Thompson explained. "For instance, there is one coal company that has a $4,000 tax bill and owes $18,000 in back taxes. I'm going to ask the county attorney to sell the land to pay the back taxes."

"I'm also going to file some distraints at local banks and (today) I'm going to begin taking some personal items or equipment," Thompson added.

A distraint is defined as the seizure of personal property by the sheriff without "involving the jurisdiction of the courts." Once a distraint is placed against someone's bank account, it would virtually freeze the account until the unpaid tax is paid or a foreclosure order is issued by the courts. Distraints can also be placed on personal property or any compensation due to the taxpayer.

"In one instance, I may be collecting rent at a shopping center if the owners don't pay the tax bill," Thompson said. "The county would be receiving the rent money due the taxpayer until the taxes are paid."

There are other measures denied by law that the sheriff can take against a delinquent taxpayer, such as liens being filed against property owned by the taxpayer.

"I think Floyd County will have

Dotson dies in car crash

A Prestonsburg woman was killed Tuesday afternoon in a two-car accident at the intersection of KY 1428 and U.S. 23 near Prestonsburg.

Jean Wallen Dotson, 60, was pronounced dead at the accident scene by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

Dotson was reportedly turning left onto U.S. 23 at the Cliff intersection and pulled into the path of a van being driven by Terry Roberts, 37, of Flat Gap in Johnson County. Roberts was treated and released at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Responding to the scene were members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, the Prestonsburg fire and police departments, the Kentucky State Police and P & B and Respond ambulance services.

Floyd County Sheriff's lieutenant Lloyd Powers reported that glare from the sun may have contributed to the accident.

The accident is being investigated by lieutenant Powers.

Men killed by own traps

State police have determined that a Floyd County man and two Magoffin County brothers who were killed in a marijuana field in Breathitt County September 1, were trying to disarm booby traps that at least two of the men had placed in the pot patch.

Relatives of the three men dispute the police ruling, saying the men stumbled into the booby trapped patches.

Luther Vanderpool of Hueysville and Lloyd and Luther Miller of Waldo, were killed in two separate explosions in the marijuana patch. Police determined that the explosive devices contained ammonium nitrate and diesel fuel.

Kentucky State Police captain Steve Brodt said that a family member confirmed that the marijuana plants and the booby traps where the bodies were found belonged to some or all of the men killed.

Police found pliers and an open pocketknife near Vanderpool's body. Officers also found wires at the site and approximately eight pounds of explosives in a truck owned by Vanderpool.

Vanderpool is believed to have been killed in the first blast and Luke Miller was seriously injured, police say. Miller went to his brother's house and the two returned to the scene and were killed. The explosions left craters three feet deep.

Police recovered 72 marijuana plants from the field the day of the blast and, acting on information received from a relative of one of the men, returned and found 175 plants in the area and another 110 plants several miles away.

Lloyd Miller's wife, Sheila, denies that her husband was involved with the operation.

Relatives of the other two men could not be reached for comment.

An honored volunteer

Lackey wins national award

For the last 28 years Constance Lackey, 93, of Tram has devoted her time, attention and compassion to the workings of the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. (BSACAP). Now, in the same year that community action programs commemorate 30 years of helping people, Constance has received two major awards for her volunteer service with the Big Sandy Area CAP program.

During the Southeastern Association for Community Action Agencies' annual meeting on August 3 in Knoxville, Tennessee, Clifford Austin, executive director of the BSACAP, accepted on behalf of Constance the association's Carl D. Perkins Human Services Award.

Constance, who was nominated by the BSACAP, was chosen from several nominees from the seven states that form the Southeastern Association.

When Austin presented the award plaque to Constance in a special ceremony at the Johnson County Courthouse last month, he said, "We are proud to present this award to such a deserving individual."

"I am just so grateful and I want to thank everyone so much..." Constance said as she tearfully accepted the plaque.

This week Austin is at the annual National Association of Community Action Agencies (NACAA) meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana, where Thursday night he picked up another award for Constance. She is the recipient of the Jayne Thomas Grassroots Volunteer Recognition Award, a prestigious national honor from the NACAA. Constance was chosen from 11 nominees from around the nation.

"What they give me credit for is caring for people," she said after learning she had won the national award. "I know people need help."

Her compassion for people came from her experience as a child of a former slave who worked hard to feed his family; and from her experience as a widowed mother of 12.

"You can have and you can lose, and I've been there," she said.

Constance was born to James Ruben and Edna Lake Justice Layne who owned a farm at Tram. Her father was a former slave of James Shannon Layne, one of the first settlers in the Betsy Layne area. "My father was 11 or 12 years old before the end of the Civil War (when he was freed)," she said during an interview at her home which is not far from her parents' original farm. "My dad farmed. My mother helped in the field," she said. Constance and her two brothers and two sisters also worked on the farm.

The Laynes left Tram in 1907 and traveled down the Big Sandy on a steamboat to Portsmouth, Ohio. The family settled in West Portsmouth, Ohio. "We were the only black family there," she remembered. "Dad farmed on 50 or 60 acres and raised hogs."

Work on the family farm interrupted Constance's schooling, but not her love of learning. She would get

Welcome back

Jean Rosenberg (center), director of the Single Parent and Homemaker Career Development Program at Prestonsburg Community College, spoke to new and returning students at a potluck luncheon prior to the beginning of classes, August 24. Rosenberg welcomed the students back to class for the 1994 fall semester and updated them on the program's benefits. Dr. Alice Adams also addressed the students, inviting them to join the Parents Who Care program for parenting support and advice. Approximately 40 people attended the chicken dinner luncheon.

her school books at the start of the school year, then she studied on her own. "I would get to go to school around Christmastime," she said. She managed to gain enough education to become qualified to teach. "I passed the teacher's examination out of the eighth grade in Ohio and Kentucky," she said. "I always tell young people to get an education. I never got as much education as I wanted, but I got what I could."

In 1920, Constance married World War I veteran James Lackey of Tram. They settled at Tram and began their family. She taught in a one-room school at a coal camp while James worked as a coal miner at the Pike-Floyd mines. Soon she had to give up her teaching career because she didn't have the finances to further her education. First she worked as a cook in a Pikeville restaurant for ten years and then worked as a domestic.

James died of heart failure, leaving her with their youngest children, including a three- and a five-year-old, to raise alone. She sent the children to live with relatives in Detroit, Michigan while she worked. Later, she moved to Detroit to be with her children. She worked as a domestic in the home of a Jewish couple, she said.

After ten years, Constance quit work due to her bad heart condition and returned to her home at Tram. She began her endeavors in alleviating poverty when VISTA volunteers came to Eastern Kentucky to work with anti-poverty programs. "I got deeply involved when the government sent a group of VISTA workers here," she said. "...I made them welcome at my home."

As a result of her volunteer efforts with VISTA, she was invited to Washington, D.C. to testify before Congressional committees about poverty in the region. During this time she met President John F. Kennedy and his brother Robert. She was so impressed with the two that she said she changed from a die-hard Republican, her family's party since the days of Abraham Lincoln, to a Democrat.

Her testimony, and that of others who spoke to the Congressional committees, drew the attention of lawmakers. Congressman Carl D. Perkins, along with other concerned legislators, assisted the president in enacting laws and creating the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) with the purpose of alleviating the conditions of poverty on United States citizens. Congressman Perkins saw to it that these laws impacted his own Seventh Congressional District which included BSACAP counties Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Pike, and Lawrence.

Constance continued to volunteer with community organizations that sought to alleviate poverty in Eastern Kentucky. She had committee meetings in her own front yard on issues that included economic development, health, education, housing, and cultural and social projects. The committees also participated in the planning of programs, evaluation, election of BSACAP board members, local administration, economic improvement and institutional change.

The impact of those meetings has allowed the CAP agency to operate programs such as Head Start—a preschool program for poor children, employment, training, education and self-sufficiency programs. The agency also developed programs that involved working with other agencies to improve community sanitation, expand water services, drill wells, offer family planning, improve roads and bridges, home repairs and weatherization, food distributions, and homeless programs.

Constance has been a member of the BSACAP board of directors for the past 15 years and has served on several committees. One of her favorite committees on which she has served since 1984 was the Planning and Review Committee. She served as chairperson from 1986 to 1988 and from 1991 until May of this year. While on this committee, Constance, along with other members, established goals and criteria for agency programs — Head Start, Job Training and Partnership Act, Weatherization, Commodity, Senior Community Service Employment Program and others. She has made many trips to the Head Start Centers, Senior Citizens Centers and homes that were repaired and weatherized in the five counties for evaluation.

As a minority member of the BSACAP board of directors, Constance has been an active member and advocate of the Human Rights Committee which has established and made necessary updates for the agency Affirmative Action Plan.

In May, Constance reluctantly resigned from the BSACAP board of directors because her eyesight is failing. "I couldn't see to read directions and things at the meetings," she said.

When asked how she feels about winning the Jayne Thomas Volunteer award, Constance said, "Have you ever seen an old person cry? This is wonderful, wonderful. It makes me feel like I've accomplished something."

report on the project at the October meeting.

In other action at Monday's school board meeting, South Floyd High School students chose the name Raider Arena for the new gym at the high school.

South Floyd principal Al Osborne asked the board to approve the name after students voted overwhelming for the name. The facility is expected to open next month.

The board voted last month to let students choose the name for the gym, which had previously been named after former board member Mary Hall.

Board member Dolores Smith commented that the board apologized if the name change had hurt anyone and it was not the board's intent.

The board reaffirmed their comments made last month that no facility should be named after anyone who is still living.

Also Monday:

- Math coordinator Joyce Watson reported to the board that it is her goal to have more students participating in math classes at the schools and that she hope to get parents involved in the program.

- The board approved changing the title of coordinator of student services to director of pupil personnel which increases the salary for that position by about $4,000.

- The board voted to create the positions of coordinator of student activities, high school, and coordinator of student activities, elementary, with an annual stipend of $1,000.

he'd have to wait for or five months. Mr. Music has bent over backwards to help us. He wanted Sears in town."

Blackburn also liked the support he received from Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin and Main Street Manager Fred James. Fannin and James met with Sears regional representatives and supplied them with documents and studies regarding downtown revitalization.

It took some convincing, but when Sears representatives came to Prestonsburg to look over the building and the town, they saw the traffic flow and gave Blackburn a green light.

The project was financed by Matewan National Bank, and renovations on the building should begin this week.

The store will sell major appliances, stereos, lawn and garden equipment, water heaters and tools.

Blackburn hopes his business will become a major part of Prestonsburg, and he hopes his store will bring other businesses into the area. Mayor Fannin thinks it will.

"Things are happening business-wise in Prestonsburg. I see Prestonsburg starting to boom back."

Blackburn and his wife Libby plan to move into the Prestonsburg area, and become actively involved in the city's activities.

School violence sets off alarms

by Scripps Howard News Service

Despite well-publicized cases to the contrary, most of the nation's public schools are not hotbeds of violence. School, in fact, may be the safest haven in some chaotic communities.

But enough bad things have happened to set off alarm bells. One example: A teacher walked into a restroom at a high school in suburban Washington last April and found a student loading a handgun. The teacher asked for the gun and was shot in the chest instead.

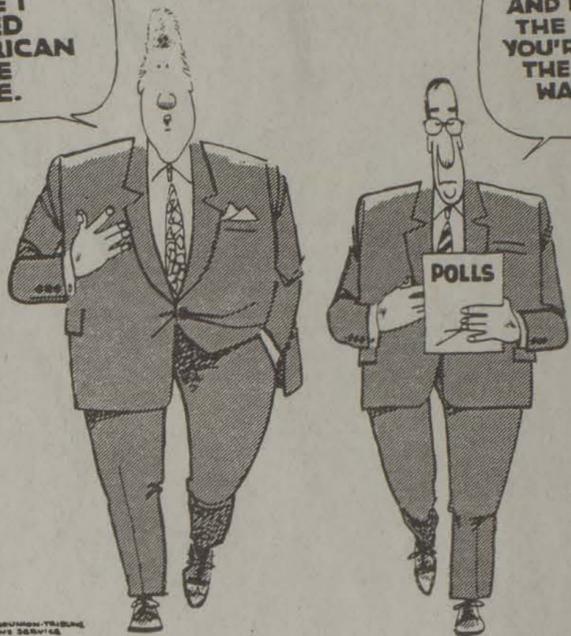

The teacher didn't die, but his wounds may keep him out of the classroom this fall. The 17-year-old student, son of a police officer, faces a stiff prison sentence for attempted murder.

Rightly or wrongly, many Americans consider school a dangerous place. A new poll of adults by Phi Delta Kappa, the professional education fraternity, ranks violence as the No. 1 problem in public schools and poor discipline as No. 2.

Ninety-four percent of those surveyed said respect for others should be taught in the schools. Here's another suggestion: Let's teach respect in the home. All too often, that's where the trouble begins.

I WAS ELECTED BECAUSE I PROMISED THE AMERICAN PEOPLE CHANGE.

YES, SIR... AND IT SEEMS THE LONGER YOU'RE IN OFFICE, THE MORE THEY WANT IT.

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

Johnson County deserves explanation from Queen of Country Music

Last week's news that country music legend Loretta Lynn will lend her name to a theme park in Harlan County will no doubt enrage many of her critics here in Johnson County. And rightfully so.

Some of Lynn's biggest admirers and critics can be found in Johnson County, where the singer was born. Some claim Lynn has forgotten her roots and doesn't do all she can to help the area. Many of these same people were upset when Johnson County's section of Route 23 was named in her honor.

Others, however, argue that the Queen of Country Music doesn't owe Johnson County anything; that we are the ones who should be grateful to Lynn for putting Johnson County on the map.

Several years ago, you may recall, a local woman, Sara Butcher, said she wanted to build an amusement park on land she owned at Butcher Hollow. The project would honor Lynn, the coal miner's daughter.

Butcher's idea made headlines across the state and in national publications. But the project stalled, reportedly because it lacked the support of Lynn herself.

Last week it was reported that Lynn signed a contract in August to lend her name to a similar project in Harlan County and also agreed to make annual appearances at the park. A developer of the project said the theme park could produce up to 5,000 new jobs.

The big question, of course, is why would Lynn support a theme park in faraway Harlan County but not endorse the same idea made several years ago in her native Johnson County? Wouldn't Johnson County be the more logical location, considering the singer's homeplace at Van Lear already attracts thousands of tourists each year?

True, Lynn has the right to endorse and support any project she chooses. At the same time, though, Johnson County deserves an explanation as to why she is letting another part of the state reap the benefits of a successful career that began in the poverty-stricken hills of Butcher Hollow. —The Paintsville Herald

It's not surprising that the honors—if not the money—keep piling up for Paintsville Lake.

The lake recently was named Project of the Year for the Ohio River Division of the U.S. Corps of Engineers. The division includes the Huntington, Louisville, Pittsburgh and Nashville districts of the corps. It will now compete with lakes across the country.

Paintsville Lake received the award based on management efficiency, public involvement, public safety, management effectiveness and joint programs with other federal, state and local agencies. Among the lake's accomplishments cited were Mountain Homeplace project with the Paintsville Tourism Commission and the Kiwanis Trail with the Paintsville Kiwanis Club.

Indeed, local support for the lake is outstanding. Whenever help is needed, Johnson County answers the call. Unfortunately, assistance from the state is sorely lacking.

How many times in the last few years have we been promised financial assistance from the governor and other state officials only to be disappointed with no appropriation from the General Assembly? If you've lost count, don't feel alone.

The lake's true Project of the Year, however, would be for the state to follow through with its rhetoric and give us some money to build some much needed recreational facilities. —The Paintsville Herald

Washington can't ignore the small-business message: "No health mandate"

Small-business owners across America are watching the health care reform debate with a combination of dread and fear. Long frustrated in their attempts to get and keep good coverage for themselves and their employees, these entrepreneurs have little faith in Washington solving the problem.

A letter received recently by the 607,000-member National Federation of Independent Business recounts a distressing tale that is being echoed by other firms. Ken Pelt, owner of Petroleum Well Services in Sour Lake, Texas, explains that when his business was doing well, he paid 100 percent of his 103 employees' health insurance. But when the oil market collapsed in 1986, he was forced to lay off some 40 employees and shift to a cost-sharing plan. And as the oil industry continued to slide, he dropped his workers' insurance altogether.

Mr. Pelt wants to provide health insurance for his remaining 35 employees. But he, like many others, can no longer afford the premiums. Washington, apparently unmindful or unconcerned over his plight, has decided the best way to achieve full coverage is to demand payments from business owners through an employer mandate. But small-business owners disagree. Their "no mandate" message has been delivered to the Clinton Administration and to Congress at various state meetings in preparation for next year's "White House Conference on Small Business." To date, entrepreneurs have gathered in 16 states to brainstorm and propose a small-business action agenda. From Idaho to Wisconsin, participants are saying that mandates will cost jobs, confirming the findings of a study done by CONSAD Research Corporation which found that small firms and their workers would suffer most from a mandate.

Nevertheless, as the health care debate continues to gather steam, a number of anti-business lawmakers and activists have been floating a nasty rumor that mandates really won't have much of an impact on Main Street firms because most owners already pay health care premiums for their employees. In reality, not even half of them do.

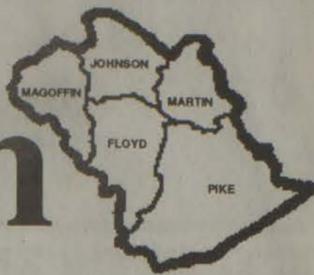

According to the Congressional Budget Office, only 39 percent of firms with 25 or fewer employees currently provide health insurance. And the smaller the firm, the more difficult it is for the employer to cover health insurance costs. More than half of the nation's businesses have fewer than five employees, the majority of the firms are minority-owned, women-owned or located in small towns. These are the very sectors of society that America is trying to integrate more into the work pool.

It is frustrating for business owners who cannot afford to provide health insurance. That is why health care reform has been the No. 1 priority among NFIB members for several years. But they want reform, not health care revolution. Most agree that the best way to build on the current voluntary system is to pass reforms making health insurance more affordable, more accessible and dependable. Hobbling small employers with a mandate, the single largest payroll tax increase in U.S. history, will only hurt business growth, investment and job creation.

Disturbing tales, like the one told by Mr. Pelt, could turn into a nightmare for the hundreds of thousands of small employers if the mandate is approved. The White House and the Congress need to listen to the "no mandate" cries of the small-business owners. Mr. Pelt sums it up best when he says that "government doesn't get up at all hours of the night to keep these rigs running and provide a place for people to work." But the business owners do, and they and their employees will be the ones who are adversely impacted by a federally imposed employer mandate.

Pike woman shot to death

A convenience store clerk was found shot to death early Monday and an undetermined amount of cash was taken from the cash register, Kentucky State Police said.

Tawne Hyden, 22, of Georgetown, formerly of Hellier, was found dead at the Shell One Stop on Ky. 620 north of Georgetown shortly after 3 a.m. Monday, police said.

Authorities said the shooting had to have happened between 3 a.m. and 3:07 a.m. because Hyden had taken an inventory of cigarettes and made an entry in a log at 3. A customer who walked in and found her shot called 911 at 3:07 a.m., police said.

Police said Hyden had been shot with a small-caliber handgun. No arrests had been made Monday — Appalachian News-Express

Four charged in insurance scam

Four Eastern Kentucky men were arrested Tuesday and charged with conspiracy and mail fraud for their alleged involvement in an insurance scam.

Federal complaints filed Monday charged the men with devising a scheme to obtain money by false and fraudulent pretenses and conspiring through use of the mails to carry out the scheme.

Those arrested were Thomas R. "Skip" Salyer, 45, of Magoffin County; Donald Epling, 60, of Pikeville; and Eppie Bartley, 56, and Mark D. Bartley, 32, both of Ashcamp.

According to U.S. Attorney Joseph Famularo, the defendants conspired to obtain money from insurance companies after Bartley was awarded $1.9 million in damages stemming from an auto accident. The complaint alleges that witnesses and jurors in the case were paid to obtain the award — The Courier-Journal

Landowners get protection from auger mining

The state will apply to auger mining a 1988 constitutional amendment that gives landowners more rights in disputes with those who won the mineral rights under their property.

In auger mining, equipment bores holes into an exposed coal face, removing the coal as it tunnels into the ground. Recent technological advances have increased the holes from about 400 feet deep to 1,200 feet.

That presented regulators with a problem. All agreed that the exposed coal faces should be regulated as surface mines. But regulation of underground tunnels was in dispute.

The 1988 amendment gave surface owners a measure of protection from strip-mining abuses by stipulating that coal companies could recover the minerals only with mining methods "commonly known to be in use at the time" the mineral rights were sold.

Since most mineral rights in Eastern Kentucky were sold during the late 1800s and early 1900s, the amendment virtually forbade strip-mining without permission from surface owners.

But state regulators decided about two years ago that the amendment didn't pertain to auger-mining tunnels. Landowners appealed. After months of wrangling, the issue came to a head in June, when the Federal Office of Surface Mining reversed its former stand on the issue and said coal companies didn't need surface owners' permission for auger mining.

Amid public outcry from landowners, OSM Director Robert Uram asked Kentucky regulators to review the issue. That led to Tuesday's announcement that the amendment will apply to auger mining. — Associated Press (Lexington Herald-Leader)

Morgan sentenced to 18 months in mine bribery

A former mine inspector who admitted extorting money with a threat to shut down an Eastern Kentucky coal operator was sentenced to 19 months in federal prison Tuesday.

James M. Morgan Jr., of Ermine in Letcher County, pleaded guilty in July to an extortion charge involving a $500 payment from an official of Kentucky May Coal Company. U. S. District Judge Joseph Hood dismissed a second extortion charge during the sentencing.

Morgan was a $24,000-a-year inspector in the Pikeville office of the Kentucky Department of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

Morgan was among four inspectors convicted in a state and federal investigation of coalfield extortion and was the first to be sentenced. Those awaiting sentencing — Clifford Crum, Edward L. Kendrick and John W. Banks — were federal employees of the U. S. Health Administration.

Eighteen months was the minimum sentence under federal guidelines. The maximum would have been two years.

Hood ordered Morgan to be on supervised release for two years after prison. Hood did not impose a fine because he said Morgan could not pay it. — Associated Press (Lexington Herald-Leader)

How nicotine works in the body

Nicotine is believed to be a stimulant that is responsible for the dependence on tobacco many smokers experience. Here is a look at how nicotine works in the body:

The addiction debate

Tobacco industry

Maintains smoking is behavioral and smokers can quit if they want.

The AMA

Says nicotine is addictive and is the chemical that compels smokers to continue.

Is nicotine content manipulated in cigarettes?

Food and Drug Administration:

The FDA claims that tobacco companies use a naturally high-nicotine tobacco hybrid, called Y-1, to create cigarettes that may be more addictive.

Tobacco industry:

In response, tobacco companies deny manipulating nicotine content. It is unclear if any Y-1 tobacco was used for cigarettes.

Safety program and Bring-A-Bike Day

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital's Bring-A-Bike Day safety program will be conducted at MCA Preschool the week of September 26-30 to encourage safe riding behavior among children and to raise money to fight childhood cancer.

"Bicycle accidents are a major problem with American children," said Sr. Carolyn Lambert, director of the center. According to the National Safety Council, there are an estimated 1,000 fatal accidents and 40,000 injuries a year involving bicycles and cars.

Bring-A-Bike Day aims at making children aware of bike safety at an early age through the use of safety stories and special coloring sheets. By asking children to show these safety messages to their parents, MCA is exposing these youngsters to good habits.

The storytelling and coloring periods will be followed by Bring-A-Bike Day on October 3rd and 4th when children will put into practice the lessons learned. It's like a final exam, with the children practicing on a supervised course the school has laid out.

Parents of children at MCA Preschool will be seeking pledges for St. Jude Hospital during this program. St. Jude Hospital is the leading center for the study of childhood cancer which, next to accidents, is the leading killer of children.

CableVision's fund-raising effort in support of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) has resulted in $860.00 to benefit "Jerry's Kids," Dan Perry, CableVision's general manager, announced today.

CableVision's fund-raising campaign offered free installation of cable services during the month of August to those who donated $10 or more to MDA.

"On behalf of CableVision, I want to express our deep appreciation to our customers who supported our MDA campaign and made it a success," said Mr. Perry. CableVision was part of a national Cable Television industry-wide effort in support of MDA.

CableVision serves 3,200 customers in Prestonsburg and surrounding areas.

MDA is a national voluntary health agency working to defeat 40 neuromuscular diseases through programs of world-wide research, comprehensive patient and community services, and far-reaching professional and public health education.

Words of life

"LIVING WITH LIFE'S DISAPPOINTMENTS"

by Rev. Tom Biddle
Lancer Baptist Church

With the tragic news of the most recent airline crash we have once again been harshly reminded of just how disappointing life can be at times. When you see or hear about a tragedy such as that, with so many innocent lives lost, you can't help but wonder—"Why?"

Yet, on that same day and many other days like it there are people all around us who suffer some sort of disaster in their own lives. None may be as quite as severe but they can be just as painfully disappointing. The loss of a job, a divorce, death of a loved one, a diagnosis of cancer, financial crisis, and many other similar events have the potential of crippling a person. Worst of all though is the way in which these events can cause one to question how a loving and compassionate God can allow these things to happen in a person's life.

To understand this, we must first realize that disappointment is simply an aspect of the human life, even for the most devout Christian or follower of God. I am always reminded of the story of Job when I think about the tragedy of life. In that account was a man who was so prosperous and so faithful to God that he was considered to be "the greatest man of the East." Then suddenly, with two quick sweeps by Satan, he lost his children, much of what he owned, as well as his good health. His life was in such a shambles that his wife told him to curse God and die. To which Job responded, "Shall we accept only good things from God and not bad as well?" The obvious answer to that question is "No." For you see, the same God who loves us in our good times loves us still in the difficult times. If anything, He loves us even more and is more than willing to share that love with us.

Still, some wonder why doesn't God just fix it so that there will be no disappointments if He has the power to control. After all, wouldn't more people be faithful and follow Him if He did? Well, to be perfectly honest, history suggests just the opposite. In the book of Exodus, God delivers the Israelites from captivity and takes care of their every need and they show their gratitude by turning away from Him. If anything, prosperity and safety make us forget God rather than to focus on Him. Besides, God's desire is to love us and for us to love Him in a true loving relationship. And as we learn from similar human relationships, that means we take the bad as well as the good.

So life goes on with all of its ups and downs. Perhaps though Christian author Philip Yancey in his book entitled Disappointment With God tells us best how to deal with and understand our disappointments. Philip Yancey points out that no one understands disappointments more so than God. It was God who watched the tragic unfairness of life mistreat and crucify Jesus, His son. So very few seem to remember that. A friend of Philip Yancey, however, didn't forget. The man's name was Douglas. Douglas was helping his wife battle cancer when he was involved in a terrible traffic accident. The accident left him permanently damaged. Yancey asked him how he dealt with the tragedy and his obvious disappointment with God. Douglas explained that he wasn't disappointed at all with God. He said, "I challenge you to go home and read again the story of Jesus. Was life fair to him? For me, the cross demolished for all time the basic assumption that life will be fair."

Is life fair? NO! But God has and will always love you and care about you.

AUTUMN LEAVES...
AND THEN RETURNS

Where does it all end? During the summer months, grass grows and men mow. Along comes autumn, and leaves fall and men rake. Not long after, old man winter blows snow and men shovel. This cycle is repeated when spring rears its pretty head and the grass starts to grow all over again.

If God sent Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden because of sin, then he created grass to help torment them just a little more.

"When are you going to mow the grass, Adam?" Eve asked.

"I'm not going to do another thing you say, Eve. The last time I listened to you, I ate an apple and got thrown out of my house. I don't care if the grass grows up past the windows on Noah's Ark. Anyway, how would I mow it?"

"Buy a goat," Eve replied. That's what my husband and I are thinking of doing. Lawn mowing takes time and I refuse to do it. With only one good eye, an object being hurled from beneath a mower might get me a disability status.

My husband says the only bad thing about buying a goat is that it can't delineate grass from shrubs and flowers. It also produces bad odors and bad relations between neighbors. Even the present neighbors who aren't speaking to us because of the tall grass and weeds.

Falling leaves made me think about all this the other day as I was driving down the Mountain Parkway. Leaves were turning colors on only one side of certain trees. On one side of a maple it was summer, while on the other side it was fall. This makes a person wonder whether to keep the lawn mower running or bring out the rake. If Mother Nature doesn't know what to do, I'm the last person to have a clue.

I shouldn't complain though. In certain parts of the United States, it's lawn mowing season all year long. Some people don't get the opportunity to scrape ice and snow off their windshields and driveways. These people get to rev up the Lawnboy and sip lemonade while wiping sweat from their brows. However, they don't rake leaves, either.

There is no doubt in my mind that Adam and Eve didn't have a goat to help them with their lawn chores when they were turned out into the wilderness. I'm sure that God gave them this animal because He also gave them three sons who no doubt had better things to do when asked to mow the grass.

"Cain, get out there and mow the grass. It's higher than my loincloth."

"But, Dad, I can't. I'm tending my flock of sheep."

"Abel, can you mow the grass?"

"No, Sir. I'm late for my harp appointment."

"How about you, Seth?" Adam asked.

"Nah, Dad. Maybe later. Mom wants me to kill a snake in the backyard right now."

No wonder half the retired population buys condos. Grass mowing in autumn should be outlawed.

The Cowboy Way

1994 Academy Of Country Music "Top New Vocal Group"

GIBSON BAND MILLER

RED, WHITE AND BLUE COLLAR

Mammas, watch out for the cowboys. The Gibson/Miller Band is coming to Prestonsburg.

The Gibson/Miller Band has become one of country music's top new acts on the strength of hit singles like "Texas Tattoo" and "Mammas Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Cowboys."

The band's tightly crafted songs and superb musicianship have led to successes on a number of fronts. Gibson/Miller is the reigning Academy of Country Music's Top New Vocal Group, and its version of the country classic "Mammas Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Cowboys" opens and closes the film hit The Cowboy Way.

In addition, the band's honky-tonk attitude and high-powered shows are impressing fans and critics all over the country.

Dave Gibson came to prominence as the writer of hits like Joe Diffie's "Ships That Don't Come In," Alabama's "Jukebox On My Mind" and Confederate Railroad's "Queen Of Memphis." Blue Miller's world-class guitar prowess has led to work with artists ranging from Doug Stone to Bob Seger (with whom he toured), and he has written songs that have been used everywhere from commercials to an Emmy-winning ABC documentary.

Gibson, who has been described in reviews as a leathery Southerner who is equal parts gentleman and roughneck, was born in Arkansas and grew up in Texas. Gibson combines his background in folk, rowdy country-rock and hardcore honky tonk with the rocking style of Blue Miller, a native of Detroit, Michigan. The two became acquainted through Don Johnson, a Nashville producer.

At Johnson's urging the duo formed a band. Gibson and Miller wanted versatility in their band. Steve Grossman, who has a jazz background, joined the group as a drummer; Brian Grassmeyer was hired as bassist; and Mike Daly, who had rock band experience, became the group's pedal steel player.

Grassmeyer left the group in 1993, and bassist Doug Cahan, also of Detroit, was hired to replace him.

"Mammas" is the first single from Gibson/Miller's second Epic album, Red, White & Blue Collar, a collection loaded with lyrical depth and a hard-hitting musical energy. It follows their debut, Where There's Smoke, which

SCHEMES

— Texas A&M officials were considering charges in July that chemistry professor John Bockris used unorthodox scientific methods, and improperly circumvented school funding procedures, for his work in which he claims gold can be manufactured from other substances. In December, Bockris expressed surprise at the charges, reminding a campus newspaper reporter that he is a professor and saying, "What professor would be doing bogus work?"

— Delaware prison officials decided in July to allow condemned murderer Nelson Shelton to undergo a kidney removal at public expense so that he can donate the organ to his mother. The state initially refused to pay but relented when Shelton played his trump card: He threatened to use all of his legal rights to appeal his sentence, which would cost the state hundreds of thousands of dollars.

— In June, South Charleston, W. Va., inmate Robert Dale Shepard, in jail on robbery charges, escaped from a recreation yard by braiding dental floss into a rope that he used to scale a fence. To prevent such occurrences, the state of Maine prohibits inmates from having dental floss, but in July, Portland inmate Michael Turk, 31, filed a lawsuit against the state, claiming that the policy hinders his ability to fight tooth decay.

— In February a federal court in California dismissed the complaint of Jogeza Kakar Khan against the director of the FBI and about two dozen other defendants for harassing him. The other defendants included President Bush, "the Queen of England," French President Mitterrand, the San Francisco Chronicle, some college professors, several street gangs in Hong Kong, "the drug cartel," H. Ross Perot, Paul Newman, Kirk Douglas, Frank Sinatra, Dennis Hopper, Phil Donahue, "the founders of Israel," Oliver North, and a "humanoid alien extraterrestrial leader speaking Greek."

— In June, police in Deventer, Netherlands, arrested six women and a man they said had been robbing local supermarkets. The women would enter the market and disrobe down to their underpants to create a distraction, while the man walked into the manager's office and grabbed money.

— In June, Michael Frazier, the "lifestyle" editor of the daily newspaper in Oak Ridge, Tenn., was charged with attempted murder of the husband of a woman he had written about. According to police reports, Frazier and Lisa Whedbee began an affair shortly after he interviewed her. In a plot to kill John Whedbee, Frazier was to pose as a robber-intruder and stab John while Lisa stood by with a baseball bat and pretended to defend John. According to John, Frazier seemed tentative, causing Lisa to break character and yell to Frazier, "You've got to do it, just do it now."

— In July, Mollie Brusstar, 48, was convicted of two counts of embezzlement from the Catholic Diocese of Arlington, Va., where she had been employed in administration. According to the prosecutor, Brusstar put imaginary employees on the rolls and issued their paychecks to herself. She and a sister went to Utah and, posing as nuns, used the money to obtain dental work and cosmetic abdomen-reduction surgery. Brusstar's defense was that a monsignor had approved everything, but he was unavailable to testify, having committed suicide in the interim after being accused of molesting a parishioner.

FEUDS

— In August, to end a feud in Concordia Sagittaria, Italy, a judge ordered Maria Bruna Bortolussi to keep her talking blackbird away from neighbor Norina Miorin, after Miorin testified that Bortolussi had taught the bird to say, in Italian, "Norina, I'm going to kill you." The two were fussing over a garden.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your intuition is a valuable asset in business. Either you or a partner has a tendency toward financial extravagance. A friend may have his or her feet out in the aisle this week, causing you some awkward moments.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You could get carried away when shopping for the home. Guard against unnecessary purchases. Tact will be needed in your business dealings, especially where higher-ups are concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A tendency to let things slide on the job needs watching this week. You may not see eye to eye with an adviser either. Guard against being too much of a loner. Those you shun now could be helpful to you soon.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You and a partner are on the same wavelength. However, you may be at odds with a friend. While this friend seems to be taking advantage of you, it would be a good idea to try to overlook this for now.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Don't go overboard in your efforts to impress bigwigs on the job. Though your judgment will be keen, you may find yourself dealing with a combative type on the job. Don't let this throw you. It's only jealousy.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A person you'll be dealing with this week tends to exaggerate and a situation at work could irk you. Don't give in to the temptation to let your temper fly. Instead, count to ten and start over again.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Spending could easily get out of hand and a romantic interest or dependent could be especially touchy this week. You swing into a home-body phase and will prefer the domestic scene.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's important that you don't forget to fulfill a promise you made to a close tie. This person is counting on you. A matter relating to home may upset you, but partners are in synch.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) After letting things slide a bit, you'll rush to catch up this week. Be careful about this since this is when you'll be apt to make careless mistakes. Try to keep on an even keel where your work is concerned.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A friend who likes to hear himself or herself talk will bend your ear. While you may not be in any mood for this right now, try to be patient. Shopping on impulse turns out to be a mistake. The weekend favors romance and leisure.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) If you're short-tempered with someone close to you, make sure you kiss and make up. You have a tendency to be obstinate and should make an effort to see the other side. Accent practicality in business.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Keep your mind on what you're doing and you'll prevent a careless oversight this week. A supervisor is watching you closely which means a promotion may soon be in the offing. Be sure to pay attention to traffic rules.

CRIES FOR HELP

In May, a Denver judge sentenced Oliver Thomas Oster, 77, to serve 12 months in prison for four attempted bank robberies. Oster, who was said to resemble the near-sighted cartoon character Mr. Magoo and who is unable to walk, attempted the robberies from a car at the banks' drive-in windows and used a gun so rusted that the cylinder wouldn't turn, which was irrelevant, said his lawyer, because Oster lacked the physical strength necessary to pull the trigger, anyway.

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

—Last fall, in Memphis, Tenn., a Loomis Armored truck guard was robbed by two men just as he was about to enter a supermarket to make a pickup. The gunmen fled with the large bag the guard was carrying, which, since the guard was entering the store at the time, was merely a bag containing other empty money bags.

—In November, in St. Joseph, Mo., Michael Gene McCrary, 37, was charged with attempted robbery of a barber shop. He walked in, reportedly slightly inebriated, pretending to have a gun in his pocket, and said to barber Fred Robertson, "Set 'em up." When Robertson requested clarification, McCrary replied, "You know what I mean." A customer walked outside and summoned police.

Chaffin's an asset to community; another bad week in football

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

WRONG PICTURE...

Player of the Week for this week on the defensive side of the ball was Jarrod Newsome. But I had the wrong picture. Seems the Bobcats coaching staff pulled a fast one on me. But congratulations anyway, Jarrod.

WAY TO GO,
DOC CHAFFINS...

I've enjoyed getting out during the week and taking in some grade school football games. I enjoy watching the third and fourth graders play. Then the fifth and sixth graders play before the seventh and eighth graders finish the evening.

While at a recent game, I thought of how it used to be with our grade school football season: We didn't have any.

In past years, we would be playing grade school basketball about now and the football program would suffer tremendously.

Then came along Dr. Don Chaffins. He had an idea: Form a grade school football conference that includes the surrounding counties.

The league was formed last year and has been a tremendous success. There is plenty of good grade school football to be enjoyed by all. These kids really take the game seriously.

They played like teams that love to play. They give it all they have because winning is important to them.

Dr. Chaffins should be applauded by all parents who have children playing in the new conference. It doesn't matter what school the students go to. Dr. Chaffins should be recognized for the great job he has done putting this league together.

Also, I realize he probably doesn't have or get that much help. But the tragic thing that could happen is that the program could be turned back over to the individual schools. That would be a shame.

If that happens, then we all can kiss the program goodbye because it will die from lack of concern and the kids would be the ones that suffer, not to mention our high school football teams.

Thanks, Dr. Chaffins, for the time, energy and effort you have put into the program to insure that it is a "go."

I was talking with Dewey Jamerson, track and field coach at Allen Central, and he was telling me that $18,000 had to be raised in order to buy equipment for

KHSAA says there will be a new look next season in football

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Just when you have everything figured out as far as district races go, along comes the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) and changes everything for next season.

Next year some football schools will find themselves playing at another level than what they have been accustomed to for the past three seasons.

According to the KHSAA, the final redistricting will be presented at the board's next meeting in Louisville December 2-3.

The new alignment will be for at least the next two seasons and no school may drop to a lower level, but may move up a class if they desire.

Locally, Allen Central will be a Class 2A school next season and will be in the district that includes Breathitt County, M.C. Napier, Whitesburg, Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg.

Napier is sure to be 3A next season following consolidation with Dilce Combs to form Perry County Central.

That will leave five teams in the proposed district, including three from Floyd County.

Allen Central coach Glenn Reeves has mixed feelings about the realignment.

"Well, at least we won't have to play Pikeville," he said. "Really, it's not too bad for us. There will be five teams in the district with four going to the playoffs.

"That means Betsy Layne and Allen Central will be battling for that fourth spot," said Reeves.

Danville is a 1A school but plays a 2A schedule.

South Floyd will remain in 1A being in a district that includes the teams that are currently there, along with Paintsville.

Betsy Layne returns to district competition next season after a three year absence.

Coach John Derossett, along with then-school principal Alan Osborne, took the Bobcats out of district play for the three-year period, hoping to stock the grade school ranks and build a program that can compete.

Magoffin County will move up to a 3A level and the Hornets will face some stiff competition in a Belfry, Leslie County, and Johnson Central.

Sheldon Clark and Shelby Valley move from 2A to 3A and joins Magoffin County, Knott County Central and Pike County Central.

A school can refuse to play in district competition. Currently, seven state schools do not compete for a district title, including Betsy Layne.

The new alignment is based on each school's enrollment in grades 9 through 12.

South Floyd Raiders still searching for first victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Raiders have dropped 14 consecutive football games dating back to last season when they lost 10 straight.

This year, the Raiders have lost four in a row and will be looking to snap that streak against Fleming-Neon (1-3) tonight.

It will be a banged up South Floyd team that travels to Neon. Two key South Floyd players will be playing with injuries.

Quarterback Justin Ray suffered a bruised thumb against Pikeville last Thursday night but, according to coach Donnie Daniels, will see action tonight.

"He still has some stiffness in his hand," he said, "but he practiced and seemed to throw the football well."

Backup quarterback Terrance Mullins, who filled in for Ray, looked

Betsy Layne makes trip to Madison Southern

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach John Derossett will take his Betsy Layne Bobcats on the road for the second week as they journey to Richmond for a scheduled encounter with Madison Southern (AA, Region III, District 2).

Southern is currently 3-1 on the season and has run off three consecutive wins after dropping their opening game to Garrard County.

Last week, the Eagles had an easy time with Whitley County, posting a 24-6 win.

Coach Derossett's Bobcats fell at East Carter last week, 35-8, and will be looking to snap a modest two-game losing streak. The Bobcats are 3-1 on the season.

The Betsy Layne defense appeared to come of age last week against East Carter. Jarrod Newsome led a host of tacklers with 17 hits. The Bobcats impressive against Pikeville last Thursday night.

Justin Ray

"Terrance did a heck of a job for us when Justin went out," said Daniels.

Also injured in the game was full-back Chad Stone, who injured his leg. Stone also has been practicing and will be at Fleming-Neon.

Coach Daniels said that the priority in practice this week for the Raiders will be to get the defense straightened out.

"We want to get back to where we were when we played Phelps," he said.

The Raiders lost to Phelps 3-0 in double overtime two weeks ago.

Ketrin Mays (5'11", 155, freshman) certainly has the quickness that the Raiders need in the backfield. However, he has seen limited time back there in the first four games.

Filling in for the injured Stone, Mays had a couple of strong carries that developed because of his speed. Daniels liked what he saw from the freshman.

"I've got to find some place to play him," he said. "He carried the ball well for us. He has come a long way."

Aaron Hall, Shawn Curry, Jarrod Compton, Kevin Stancil and Aaron Caudill lead the Raiders front line.

Terrance Mullins and Justin Ray play safety.

Kevin Johnson and Scotty Johnson are at the ends slots.

Pikeville JVs stop Morris at the two for 20-18 overtime win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville Junior Varsity Panthers stopped Jon Morris at the 2-yard line and pulled off a 20-18 overtime win in junior varsity football.

The two teams battled to a 12 tie through regulation play. Prestonsburg had the football last in regulation play.

Prestonsburg won the toss of the coin for the overtime period and elected to go on defense.

But the Cats failed to play defense as Pikeville freshman Chad Johnson went on a sweep around right end and into the end zone from 10-yards out for the touchdown. Johnson also ran the two-point conversion for the 20-12 lead.

Prestonsburg got their chance from the 10-yard line and made good when Morris, on a fourth down play from the four, busted across the end zone for the score and pulled the Blackcats to within two, 20-18. Morris got the call on the two-point conversion attempt, but the Panthers' defense stopped him at the two.

Prestonsburg had their chance to win it in regulation when they took over the football on downs with 21 seconds left to play. Prestonsburg quarterback Mike Castle had an incomplection on first down play and was thrown for a seven-yard loss on second down. The horn sounded with the Blackcats at the 30-yard line of Pikeville.

With 4:21 to play in the game, the Blackcats squandered another scoring chance when they got good field position after recovering a Pikeville fumble. The Blackcats took control of the football at the Panthers' 39-yard line. They moved to the 27 where Castle was spilled for a 6-yard loss.

Pikeville took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter off their first possession that covered 67 yards. The drive ended when quarterback Ben Coleman hit Doug Powers with a 44-yard touchdown pass.

Early in the second period, Prestonsburg struck as Morris, with some nifty inside moves, galloped 33 yards for a touchdown with 8:58 left in the first half.

With 1:25 left in the half, Lorenzon McGill raced into the end zone from 4-yards out for a touchdown and gave Pikeville a 12-6 lead.

Prestonsburg had the football the final 30 seconds of the third period, and early in the final stanza, the Blackcats pushed the ball to pay dirt to tie the score at 12. Morris scored on a 44-yard run on some moves that would make Emmitt Smith take notice. The conversion run failed.

Each team tried to help the other as they exchanged fumbles. Morris recovered a Pikeville fumble and then Prestonsburg fumbled the ball back. But a face masking call against the Panthers gave the ball back to Prestonsburg.

Morris rushed for 164 yards on 22 carries to lead the ground game for Prestonsburg. Prestonsburg had 170 yards rushing.

Brian Jones carried seven times for 12 yards. He had two returns for 51 yards.

Castle completed only one of 10

(See Pikeville, B 7)

Craig Hamilton

will be looking for more of the same from Bubba Combs, who had 10 hits against East Carter.

Add "Big" John Hall, Rodney Hall and Chris Hicks to the defensive line for the Bobcats.

The Bobcats moved the football well against the Raiders but penalties hurt the Bobcats in finishing off two drives.

Rocky Hamilton keeps motoring along for the Bobcats. He rushed for 127 yards last week.

Hamilton has gained over a 100 yards in his last three games. He had set a personal goal of rushing for 1,000 yards for the year during the preseason. If he continues on his present course, he would go over the 1,000-yard mark.

Hamilton rushed for 132 yards against Morgan County and has totaled 420 yards in four games. He is averaging 105 yards per game, 6 yards per carry.

He is second in the county in scoring with four TDs and 24 points.

Brent Akers is the other workhorse in the backfield for the Bobcats. Akers has averaged just over 56 yards per game and has an average of 9 yards per carry. He has scored one touchdown this season and has one conversion.

Willie Meade is the other half-back and is used mostly as a blocking back.

Quarterback Craig Hamilton has had some impressive outings rushing. His best game passing came against South Floyd when he was six of seven for 130 yards.

Betsy Layne will not pass that

Cincinnati Reds to have new look in 1995 and maybe new manager

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

As winter is fast approaching, I still can't help but have my mind on the game of baseball.

I try to forget there is no present baseball season and there will be no World Series this year.

But then I hear about the good job that Chris Potter is having in the fall games at Pikeville College and immediately my mind wanders (as it often does) back to the game of baseball.

I have been a Cincinnati Reds fan since my early high school years at Martin. I have followed them for many, many games and listened to them religiously on the radio.

But now there is no baseball.

Questions surround the Cincinnati Reds in 1995, if there is a season. CEO Marge Schott doesn't know if she will bring back Davey Johnson as the team's manager.

Now, that would be the first mistake. I must admit that I was pretty torn up when Jim Bowden fired Tony. I mean, that was the stupidest move any GM could make. But, as it turned out, he knew the caliber of Davey Johnson and the Reds had a pretty good 1994, even though they did play in baseball's weakest division (National League).

They say that many of the familiar names on the '94 Reds will be part of the roster come 1995 (again if there is a season). Gone will be Kevin Mitchell (30 home runs), Tony Fernandez (bad attitude), Rob Dibble (who cares) and maybe Joe Oliver.

I sure hope there is a 1995 major league season. But, if there is not, then life will go on.

Oh yeah, Chris Potter. He is playing some outfield and shortstop for the Pikeville College Bears. He says that he like the college scene and is looking forward to the spring season.

OPENING OF SQUIRREL SEASON SYNDROME

by Willie Elliott
Contributing Writer

Toward the end of summer just after the time school has started, many male residents of Eastern Kentucky just drop what they are doing. School is missed, housing improvement projects are momentarily stopped, weddings are missed, and in some instances even the birth of a child is missed.

No, the Santa Anna winds have not reached all the way to Kentucky, but squirrel season has come in.

For generations it has been a custom to take a late summer break to celebrate the opening of squirrel season. Men and boys (and lately a number of women) pack up the trucks, vans, and station wagons and head toward Winchester, Mt. Sterling, Woodford County and other parts of the state in search of adventure and squirrels.

Sometimes I think adventure has more to do with the trip than squirrels. Invariably these men say they are going "down in the country," but they will not have their traditions messed with.

I have no desire whatsoever to kill a squirrel and I doubt very seriously I could kill one even if I wanted to, but I do envy the deep friendships and male bonding associated with these trips.

People that go on these trips are more than casual acquaintance—they are real friends. When these people return from their adventure, it is easy to see that the hunt was just a means for friends to be together to enjoy one another and the outdoors for a day, a weekend or a whole week.

You can hear the love (gosh how we hate to use this word in reference to two males) they have for one another.

Some men use this experience to teach their sons the art of hunting and in the process get to know each other. I can see Ryan and me on such a trip. I would no doubt accidentally shoot my son on the first day out. I want to get to know my son but I want to know him as a vibrant boy and not a corpse.

Another scenario would be that after an hour of hunting I would suggest that we pack our hunting gear up and head for a computer store. I would suggest that Ryan could have as much RAM (computer power) as he wanted. He would readily agree to this plan and I would be off the hook.

There is just a hint of this tradition in my being. When the groups begin to get ready for the trips, I pine to be with them for a while.

Then I grab my tennis racket and head out to tennis. Sometimes during the match I say a silent prayer that God will let them have a good time and bring them home safely.

Can you believe it? Susan was a perfect 12-0 moving from seventh place to tie Kari for the top spot. Chris moves off the bottom row and vows to continue the move upward. No county teams are the choice of the prognosticators after an 0-8 two-week period, but there could be a surprise. Kentucky will drop number three to South Carolina this weekend. Tennessee will lick their wounds from the Florida loss and win over Mississippi State. Oregon wins over Iowa. On the pro level the Cleveland Browns are expected to continue their climb with a win over Indianapolis. Houston will take care of the Bengals.

Jenkins must control football against Rebs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Jenkins Cavaliers (2-2) are in the thick of the race for a District 2 title as they are sporting a flashy 2-0 record in district play. Only Pikeville, at 3-0, leads coach Tim McCoy's ballclub in district standings.

The Cavaliers hope to make a 3-0 mark when they visit Allen Central tonight for the Big Game of the Week.

Jenkins will be coming to the Don Daniels Athletic Complex after defeating a good Phelps team 12-8 last week. But Coach McCoy's ballclub knows that every time out, it doesn't get any easier.

However, the Cavaliers have tasted what other schools have known all along — what it is to make the playoffs.

"We played our first playoff game ever in the school's history, here at Jenkins last year," said Coach McCoy. Knowing the thrill of last season when Jenkins finished 7-4 overall, the Cavs are ready for a repeat of another playoff berth.

But the Jenkins' mentor feels that Allen Central is going to pose some problems for his team.

Coach McCoy's Scouting Report...

"Allen Central is a much improved ballclub from the last two years," said the Jenkins' coach. "They are big upfront and I am concerned with the (Thomas) Jenkins kid."

One area that concerns the Jenkins' coach is the Rebels passing game.

"They like to throw the football a lot," said McCoy. "If there is one area that we have a weakness, it is in our pass defense.

"We expect them to throw the football a lot against us. I've seen them on film and earlier they were about 50-50 in throwing. But I've talked to some of the other coaches and now I think they throw about 65 to 70 percent of the time."

Jenkins lost nine seniors from last year's playoff team but has had capable players returning to take the slack and fill in for the losses.

A sophomore leads the Cavs at the quarterback slot. Ryan Callahan is in his first season at the signal calling position.

"Ryan throws the football well," said McCoy. "But he has had his problems early. He's getting better at running our offense for us. He's a tough kid and a competitor and is showing good leadership."

Callahan has completed 12 of just 34 pass attempts for 249 yards. He had tossed for three touchdowns and has been intercepted once.

"You can see that we don't throw the ball that much," McCoy said.

Callahan has carried the football 30 times while rushing for 156 yards through the first four games.

Shawn Williams (6'3", 255) will run at the fullback spot. Williams was moved to the fullback spot last year during the Elkhorn City game but the move didn't come until the second half, according to Coach McCoy.

"We were down 22-12 at the half and we had to do a little soul searching," he said. "We made the change in the second half and it was a good one."

Williams was the reason that the Cavs rushed for 300 yards in the second half against the Cougars to pull out the victory that gave them a playoff berth.

Williams carried eight times in the second half and scored two touch-

Allen Central needs win tonight to stay focused...

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The 1994 high school football season enters the halfway mark, and the district races are starting to heat up.

For coach Glenn Reeves and his Allen Central Rebels, the district battles started the first game of the season.

Allen Central is currently 0-4 on the season and three of those losses came against district foes.

The Rebels have three district games remaining the rest of the way and one will be played tonight when the Rebels host the Jenkins Cavaliers at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

Allen Central knows the importance of tonight's game and the need to win the remaining three district games if they are to entertain the thought of a playoff berth this season.

Coach Reeves ballclub just missed the trip last year and by a field goal. Phelps defeated the Rebels 35-34 on a last second field goal.

But this is this year. The Rebels must stay focused on the three remaining district games and hope that the fourth quarter jinx will go away.

It has been in the fourth quarter, with the exception of the Pikeville game, that the Rebels have faltered.

Against Elkhorn City, they failed to execute on defense in the final period. Ditto at Fleming-Neon in game two. Last Friday night, Allen Central permitted Berea to come back and post a 20-14 win in the final 40 seconds.

Allen Central has all but forgotten the running game, and Coach Reeves thinks that his team's offense is throwing the football.

They have a very capable quarterback in Adam Coleman. Coleman tossed for 242 yards last week against Berea.

The ground game for the Rebels had been lacking in the first two games and Coach Reeves decided to air-it-out in the Pikeville game.

Coleman has several receivers to throw to and they have been successful. Thomas Jenkins, Estill Stumbo, Brad Blackburn, Kevin Stumbo and Beau Tackett are all excellent receivers.

With the new offense, the opposition is tested in the secondary when they face the Rebels. Good protection from the offensive line, Coleman is quick to spot one of the four and is quick in getting rid of the ball.

Blackburn had four receptions last week against Berea with Tackett hauling in five catches and Estill Stumbo three.

James "Bubba" Osborne, Eric "Scotter" Moore, Shawn Robinson, Levi Wells and have been the leaders on the defensive line for the Rebels. Blackburn is an excellent linebacker. Jenkins plays the last line of defense at the safety spot.

The Allen Central defense has improved since the first game but still has fourth quarter letdowns.

Josh Reeves, Tackett, and Osborne run out of the backfield for the Rebels. The ground game has been struggling for the team, but the potential is there.

Reeves carried 14 times against Berea for 62 yards rushing, Coleman, an excellent option quarterback, can tuck it under for good yardage.

Penalties has plagued the Rebels all season and last Friday wasn't any difference. The Rebels were flagged for 105 yards in penalties against Berea.

Passing versus running game tonight...

Jenkins

Jenkin's coach McCoy doesn't want Allen Central to have the ball to throw.

"If they throw the football 15 or 20 times then we are in trouble," he said. "We can't let them stunt our ground attack."

McCoy is in his fifth year at Jenkins and guided the Cavaliers to their best record in 10 years. Jenkins finished 5-1 in district play last season to go with a fine 7-4 record.

Injured list...

"About everyone," said Coach McCoy. "Our quarterback has a thigh injury but he will play anyway. Damron has a sore ankle as well as Hill."

"Our tightend, Jack Harris, has a bad back and our backup end is out for the game. Then our cornerback broke his leg.

"We are pretty well banged up."

On the air...

WXXZ to air tonight's matchup

WXXZ-FM station manager Jeff Meeks announced that his station would be airing tonight's district game between Allen Central and Jenkins.

"I have no problem in doing the game," said Meek. "As long as I can get a phone line in."

The local radio station normally airs Prestonsburg Blackcat football but Prestonsburg has an open date this week. So, Meek decided to provide the Allen Central fans tonight's game.

WXXZ used to air all Allen Central home games when the Rebels played on Saturday afternoons before lights were installed at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex.

"I've been away from them for several years now and I don't know the players like I used to," said Meeks. "That's why I need some help in getting to know the names of the players again."

Allen Central is still awaiting the new press box that was supposed to have been installed with the new bleachers.

WXXZ will return to doing Prestonsburg games next Friday night when the Blackcats are at home against Shelby Valley.

Meeks wants to provide a community service to the Allen Central fans. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Allen Central—

Most of the calls against the Rebs are personal foul calls.

"We have to work on getting our penalties in order," said Coach Reeves.

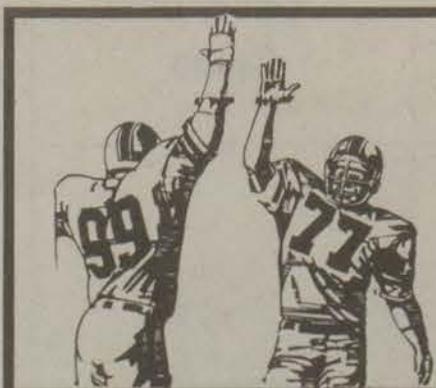

The Rebels were penalized 100 yards versus Elkhorn City and another 100 versus Pikeville.

Allen Central has been very good at taking care of the football. Turnovers haven't been a problem for the Rebels.

Converting third down and short yardage into first downs has been a problem.

"We just don't have the speed," said Coach Reeves earlier. "That's why we have to pass the football."

This will be the last home game for the Rebels for awhile. They return home for the final game of the season versus Phelps

TOPWATER PATTERNS

As cool weather and shorter days approach, we can look forward to some good topwater action. September is ranked as a great fall month. The fish begin moving into shallow areas and they get a little more aggressive, which is how I like them. Since the food chain moves into this type area, the bass will be there as well.

I'll start searching for fall bass at the mouth of small creeks off the main river system and also in the 1/2 way mark of the back of major creek systems. You will be more effective casting a faster moving surface lure such as a buzzbait. The color of the buzzbait will be determined by the water color that is present in the creek.

Note: As rains begin to come more frequent in the fall, these creeks may color up overnight. The basic rule of thumb could be white in clear water, chartreuse and white in stained water, and chartreuse in muddy water. This will allow the angler to keep color selection to a minimum. As far as the type of buzzbaits, I'll throw 3/8 oz or 1/2 oz with or without a clacker.

One buzzbait that is different from all the rest is the David Oniel buzzbait. They have two sets of buzzblades and have caught fish for me all over the country from Florida to Michigan.

Other types of top water lures are lures like the Rico. This lure is made in Japan and is probably the best topwater lure available. It resembles the PopR but outdoes it 5 to 1. The Rico is great around any type of cover as are most topwater baits. You can move the bait really erratically across the surface and the bass reacts out of reflex thinking that a baitfish is trying to flee the area to safety. You can also use it as a plop bait causing it to move more slowly.

There is one other topwater that I would like to mention and that is The RAT. Most of you probably have heard of or have done this type of fishing before and know how really exciting it can be. This time of year is when it's most productive. The grassbeds have matted to the surface during the summer. Now that the water has cooled the fish move into these shallow areas and an angler can catch some big fish throwing a rat. Don't forget you need heavy tackle like 20 to 25 lb. test line and a St. Croix legend flipping stick. This is the only topwater bait with which I'll use a graphite rod. For all the others I use St. Croix glass rods. I believe I land a lot more fish using glass rods.

Pikeville

pass attempts for 5 yards. He was intercepted once and Prestonsburg lost the football one time on a fumble.

Johnson rushed for 65 yards on 12 carries for Pikeville. He scored on touchdown and a conversion. McGill, a junior, had 37 yards on 10 carries.

Ben Coleman started the game at quarterback for Pikeville. He had one touchdown pass, a 44-yard toss to Doug Powers, before leaving.

Jay Ramsey replaced him and completed four of five attempts for 60 yards. Powers had four receptions for 28 yards.

Pikeville fumbled the ball away four times. They were flagged five times for 55 yards in penalties. Ramsey was intercepted twice.

RADIO LOG

Compton, Johnson lead South Floyd JVs to 14-6 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Junior Varsity Raiders improved to 2-1 on the season after traveling to Magoffin County Monday night. The junior Raiders posted a 14-6 win over the Hornets.

Freshman quarterback Nick Compton continues to show a lot of maturity at the signal calling spot. Compton teamed up with receiver Scotty Johnson for the first score for the Raiders. Compton hit Johnson with a 25-yard pass and then the two connected on the conversion play for an 8-0 game.

The Raiders went on top 14-0 after Heath Hall went on a sweep and raced into the end zone from 6-yards out. The extra point failed.

Magoffin County avoided the shutout in the fourth period when they scored for the 14-6 score.

South Floyd then held the ball on the ground to run the clock.

"Nick is certainly having a good year for us," said coach Donnie Daniels, who had to coach the JVs in the staff's absence. "He made a heck of a move on one play. We went to what we call a waggle play where he got to the outside to pass. When he couldn't find anyone, he just tucked the ball under and picked up 14 yards.

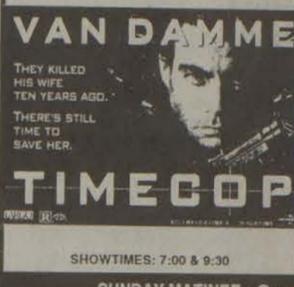

"Heath did a good job for us also," said Daniels, "as did Ricky Johnson. He's a good power runner."

A Look At Sports

The Ridgerunner's Boosters Club is currently trying to raise the money through promotions.

But wait just a minute. Why?

Aren't all four high schools supposed to be using the facility? Isn't the track for all of Floyd County?

Then why does one school have to raise the money for the equipment when all four will be using the track?

The board of education should go ahead and appropriate the money and the equipment purchased would be for all Floyd County schools.

Either that or all schools should share in the cost of the equipment if they are going to use it.

Our board members would vote to build a gymnasium and not put a floor or goals up, would they? No! They would complete the job.

Well, they should purchase the needed equipment for the new facility and let all the schools enjoy it.

AIRING IT OUT...

Allen Central football fans will be able to hear the play-by-play of the Rebels vs. Jenkins game tonight.

WXKZ will be calling all the plays live as they air it out over the airwaves for you folks from the Allen Central area.

Jeff Meek is to be applauded for putting the game over the radio. Give Jeff a call and tell him how much you appreciate it.

WQHY will carry the Pikeville/Belfry game in the absence of Prestonsburg football action. Must be a 100 stations carrying that one.

We need to stay in Floyd County with our games.

ANOTHER BAD WEEK...

For the second consecutive week our high school teams went 0-4 against outside competition.

We are 0-8 in two weeks and 2-14 on the season overall. Only Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg have a victory to show.

Prestonsburg takes the week off, while the other three will face some stiff competition.

However, don't take Sunday off. Take the kids to church.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone, and be good sports.
