Public approval is key to prison project

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

If federal officials decide to build a medium security prison in Martin County, the economic impact could be profound in Floyd County.

U.S. Congressman Hal Rogers is working to locate a federal prison in the Martin, Johnson or Floyd County area and it appears that Martin County may get the nod for the project.

Floyd Judge-Executive Bob Meyer said Thursday that local officials have been talking with David Dorworth, acting chief for the site selection and environmental review branch for the bureau of prisons.

One site that officials are looking at is on KY Route 3 in Martin County near the Big Sandy Regional Airport and it is located two miles from the Floyd County line, Meyer said.

"I feel this is a hell of an opportunity for us," Meyer said. "I agree with Congressman Rogers that if the federal government will locate a prison here, it will be a golden opportunity for the region.

People need to be aware of what's going on and we need to get the information out there."

The medium security facility would with the lowest paying guard job starting off at $19,000, the judge-executive said. Construction costs are estimated to be $70 million, Meyer added.

One key factor in the decision on where to build the prison is community support, Meyer said.

"They have stressed that they have to be convinced the community wants them before a prison will be located here," Meyer said. "So far, I haven't heard anything negative."

One concern about the site on Rt. 3 is being able to provide the infrastructure necessary to run water and sewer lines to the area, Meyer said. It has been recommended that county officials look beyond just getting those services to where the prison may be built in order to develop the entire stretch for future use, Meyer said.

Officials are looking at a time frame of approximately four years before a facility could be built and ready to open, Meyer said. Public forums on the project are expected to be held sometime this fall, he

Stabbing case to be heard by grand jury

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Floyd County Grand Jury will hear cases against two Floyd Countians accused of assault after an alleged altercation last month that left a West Prestonsburg man with his throat cut.

During a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Floyd District Court, deputy sheriff Bob Hackworth Jr. described the investigation which led to assault charges against Karen Waugh, 34, of Maytown and Gary E. Prater, 40, of Hueysville.

Hackworth testified that he received a call that there was a fight in progress at Waugh's home and when he responded to the scene, he found Jay Dee Spears of West Prestonsburg at a neighboring residence bleeding profusely from a neck wound.

Hackworth transported Spears to Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin and then returned to the scene.

Waugh told the deputy that she had asked Spears to leave her home, but Spears refused. The two became involved in an altercation, Waugh told the deputy, and she pushed him down the steps and hit him with a beer bottle. Hackworth testified that Waugh said she did not cut Spears when she hit him with the bottle.

The deputy said that Prater "basically gave me the same statement."

Spears told the deputy that he was attacked by Waugh, who had a knife, and that Prater hit him from behind and held him while Waugh cut him on the neck with the knife.

Assistant commonwealth attorney Dwight Stacy Marshall asked that the charges against the two be lowered from first degree to second degree assault.

District Judge James Allen sustained Marshall's request and ruled that there was probable cause to refer the case to a grand jury.

Also Wednesday, theft charges against a Knott County man were amended to possession of stolen property.

Charles Moore, no age available, is charged in connection with the sale of a four-wheeler reported stolen from Huntington, Indiana.

Deputy Ricky Thornsberry testified that a woman claimed she paid Moore $2,300 for the vehicle.

Thornsberry said the four-wheeler was discovered when a group of deputies were searching for marijuana in the Right Beaver area. A check of the serial number on the vehicle showed that it had been reported stolen.

Moore's attorney, Gerald DeRossett, asked that the charge of theft by unlawful taking be dismissed, because if the theft occurred in Indiana, Floyd County authorities had no jurisdiction in the case.

The charge was amended to receiving stolen property.

Judge Allen referred the case to a grand jury.

No date has been set yet for a grand jury session this month.

The medium security facility would house approximately 1,400 inmates and create over 400 jobs...

house approximately 1,400 inmates and create over 400 good-paying jobs, Meyer said. The average salary for a federal prison employee is $30,000, plus full benefits,

A West Virginia man was seriously injured Thursday morning in the Prestonsburg Holiday Inn parking lot.

Timothy Toler, 26, of Logan, West Virginia, was hurt when he got caught between two one-ton flat bed trucks about 10:28 a.m. Thursday.

Prestonsburg police officer Anthony Castle said that Toler and his co-worker, Avery Bowling, 20, of Hazard, pulled into the Holiday Inn parking lot to unload Toler's truck and load the materials onto Bowling's truck.

Toler and Bowling work for Voto Manufacturing, of Logan, West Virginia.

Castle said that after the men completed their job, Toler supposedly got into his truck and started to pull through the parking lot.

During this time, Bowling started backing his truck up when his cellular phone rang. Bowling said he answered the phone and then his truck stopped all of a sudden, Castle said.

Bowling said that he looked into his rearview mirror and saw Toler's

Report of dam break at Grethel overblown

A false report Tuesday evening that a dam had collapsed in the Grethel area created a period of panic for local officials and residents in the area.

Kentucky State Police received a call at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday that a mining silt pond was overflowing at Tackett Branch near Grethel and that the pond was in danger of collapsing.

The National Weather Service issued a flash flood warning for east-central Floyd County and it was incorrectly reported that six feet of water covered Rt. 979 about eight miles from Harold.

Erroneous reports were also circulated that Dewey Dam at Jenny Wiley State Park was in danger of collapsing.

Loran Raschella, vice president of NALR Coal Corporation of Pikeville, the company that has the permit where the dam is located, reported that five rescue squad units, state and federal mine inspectors and local law enforcement agencies rushed to the scene.

Raschella said the false report bolstered negative feelings concerning the coal industry.

Feds approve funds to help sewer projects

The U.S. House of Representatives has approved $50 million in funding for wastewater treatment facilities in poor, rural areas, including southern and Eastern Kentucky.

The program approved by the House was written by U.S. Representative Harold 'Hal' Rogers. It will allow the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to provide wastewater and sewage collection grants to small impoverished communities that are not served by a wastewater system. Under the program, the EPA could contribute up to 100 percent of the funding for a project.

The program will aid families and communities that have no access to a public sewer system and should help improve the quality of streams and rivers which are affected by wastewater discharge, Rogers said.

The program was fully funded for fiscal year 1996 by the House Subcommittee on Veterans Affairs, Housing an Independent Agencies.

In a related issue, the state Division of Water has released a survey of wastewater treatment needs for the state.

The survey, conducted in 1994, identifies nearly $43 million in needs for Floyd County, and a total for the five-county Big Sandy Region of approximately $133 million.

Statewide, the estimated cost of needed wastewater treatment facilities is $3 billion.

Donor gives Woods a new lease on life, 'in the nick of time'

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

Although he looks like any normal, healthy young man in his twenties, for the past two years Stephen Woods has been living under the spectre of death.

In May of 1993, cardiologists at the University of Kentucky Medical Center told Stephen that his heart was failing and that he had less than a year and a half to live—unless he had a heart transplant.

Stephen agreed to the surgery, but he had to wait for a compatible donor. He was placed on the transplant program's waiting list on May 28, 1993. Then, what he thought would be a few months wait, turned into one year, and then another. Time had almost run out for the 26-year-old Hippo resident when he received the long-awaited call from UK on May 29 this year.

"It was 9:30 in the evening," Stephen recalled. "I was down the road at a friend's house and my father came to find me. He said, 'UK has a heart for you and they want you to call them back.'

"I said, 'You're kidding.' I had told the doctors if they called, I would go. There have been a lot of people who were called and then backed out."

Stephen rushed to the UK Medical Center that night and by the next evening he had a new heart and a new chance at life.

When Stephen came out of recovery, his wife Dana, 24, was amazed at the difference in his appearance.

"When I saw him, his skin color was pink again," Dana said. "It was unbelievable. Before his skin color was blue. He had blue lips, nails, and toenails."

Stephen said, "I looked like somebody holding my breath."

When he woke up after the surgery Stephen said that he felt "relieved" that he had survived with no complications. His biggest fear had been that once the new heart was attached, it wouldn't start beating inside his chest. "The doctor didn't beat around the bush," Dana said. "She said, 'If that happens, Steve, you're gone.'"

Stephen also had to contend with the possibility of transplant rejection.

(See Transplant, page two)

...Stephen's heart donor was a 28-year female who had also donated four other organs at her death. "That girl saved five lives," he said.

Tourism and festivals

The June meeting of the Eastern Highlands North Tourism Region was held at the residence of Nell Terry near Louisa. Regional representatives met with state and local officials to discuss development and implementation of promotional activities through magazines, travel shows, and other promotional campaigns. The June meeting recognized the theme of "festivals." Present at the meeting were: Tom Calvert (Morehead), Chairman Jim Williams (Paintsville), Suzanne Rasnick (Pikeville), Fred James (Prestonsburg), Jonda Burnfield, Ruby Huff and Marcus Woodward (Ashland), Carolyn Ingram (Menifee County), Nell Terry and Mary Ellen Red (Lawrence County).

Army announces additional reforms to wetlands program

The Army Corps of Engineers recently announced two changes to the Clean Water Act wetlands program designed to reduce regulatory burdens on landowners.

These two initiatives are part of a comprehensive 40-point wetlands plan issued by the Clinton Administration in August 1993. The Administrations' plan has made wetlands programs fairer and more flexible for landowners and more effective in protecting these important aquatic resources. Several other initiatives have already been completed by the Corps, Environmental Protection Agency, and other federal agencies. Others will be completed over the next few months.

The President recently announced that on July 19 the Corps will issue a new general permit for the construction or expansion of single-family homes in wetlands. The permit will allow landowners to affect up to one-half acre of non-tidal wetlands for the home and attendant structures such as a driveway or garage. Landowners will no longer have to go through the more lengthy individual permit process which typically takes over 120 days. Under Corps general permits, landowners receive decisions on their applications in an average of 16 days.

Also on July 19, the Corps will propose for public comment a new process that, for the first time, will allow landowners the opportunity to appeal a Corps wetlands jurisdiction decision or permit denial. Individuals dissatisfied with such decisions will have an administrative review process and will not have to automatically challenge the Corps in court, which can be expensive and time consuming.

Dr. John Zirschky, acting assistant secretary of the Army for Civil Works, said, "These initiatives and others in the President's Wetland Plan reflect this Administration's commitment to reducing regulatory burdens on the public while protecting the environment."

In addition to these changes, the Corps is committed to improving the performance of the wetlands regulatory program. For example, in 1994 the average time to get a permit decision was 27 days. Less than one percent of all applications were denied. While a few old cases are still pending, the Corps has reduced the backlog of cases over two years old by 70 percent—down to 62 applications out of several thousand pending.

Permits are issued in a manner that allows reasonable development and protects the nation's aquatic resources such as wetlands. In this regard, the Corps has been successful in balancing the interests of all property owners—allowing reasonable development, protecting all landowners, and protecting our nation's aquatic resources.

truck directly behind him. Bowling then got out of his truck and saw that Toler had collapsed between the two vehicles, Castle said.

Toler was transported to Highland's Regional Medical Center by Respond Ambulance Service. He was later transferred to Cabell Huntington Hospital by helicopter.

Castle said Toler's known injuries are abdominal bleeding and a pelvic fracture. Toler was listed in fair condition Thursday at Cabell Huntington Hospital.

Prestonsburg Fire Department, Respond Ambulance Service and Prestonsburg Police Department responded to the scene. Castle is the investigating officer.

"The biggest part of anything to happen in transplants is total rejection of the new heart," Stephen said. "Mine was almost a perfect match for my body—the same blood type, size and build. The only real danger was rejection."

Stephen stayed in the hospital for two and a half weeks. Soon after, he was placed back in the hospital due to adverse reactions to his medication.

"His medication made him sick," Dana said. "It had nothing to do with his heart."

"As far as the heart transplant, everything has been perfect," Stephen said. "I've had six biopsies and no signs of rejection at all. They said that after one to three months if there is no sign of rejection, you'll do real good. I've had no complications from the surgery."

"As far as being tired, I haven't been," he added. "My body is weak from lying so much, my muscles are weak. When I got sick from the medication, I lost a lot of weight. But as far as my heart and being able to breathe, I feel good."

All of his life, Stephen has struggled with fatigue and shortness of breath. Stephen was born with a congenital heart defect. "I had open heart surgery when I was six months old," he said. "Most of the time I did pretty much what I could at a slower pace. I played as much as the other kids. I couldn't run. I couldn't play basketball."

When he was 15, doctors told him he could have a stroke at any time because his blood was so thick. Every six months, he had to have his blood changed and then thinned with plasma. "My heart wasn't pumping enough blood and my bones kept making it," he said.

Despite a non-ending battle with fatigue, Stephen graduated from Pikeville College with a degree in business. He and Dana married, and almost three years ago their son, Austin, was born.

"I did pretty good until February of 1992," Stephen said. "They told me I had to have another surgery. At that time I started to have heart failure."

"For awhile we were really anxious waiting for a donor. Then as time worn on, it became an everyday thing. I didn't put it out of my mind," he said.

He went on living a normal life, to his doctors' amazement. "When I'd go to the doctors, they would say, 'Buddy, you should be sick in bed and here you are running around.' I was supposed to have a beeper on me when away from home. I put it up because I gave up."

During transplant surgery, the doctors discovered Stephen was in critical condition. "The doctors said after the surgery that Steve might have lived a month..." Dana said. "They got him just in the nick of time."

The Woods also learned that Stephen's heart donor was a 28-year-old female from Paducah who had also donated four other organs at her death. "That girl saved five lives," he said. "One man got a lung at the same time I got the heart." The Woods are grateful for the organ donation that gave Stephen the chance to live a normal life and raise his son Austin, who is at the age where playing basketball and baseball with dad are all-important. "Before the surgery doctors gave him two years to live," Dana said. "Now he has a new aspect on life and can do normal things he couldn't do before, like play ball with his son and run after him and take care of him."

The Woods would like the public to become more aware of the importance of organ donation, through educational promotions at schools, health departments, and other public avenues. "In Central Kentucky, organ donation is so common and here it's a rare thing," Dana said.

Asked what he is going to do when he recovers that he couldn't do before, Stephen smiled and looked down at his hands deep in thought. "I hadn't really thought about it. A lot of people who had transplants are out doing everything like normal people. When I'm up to feeling good, doctors want me to exercise 40 minutes, four to five times a week."

"The doctors want him to go out and be active and play sports," Dana said.

"In the back of my head I'm still scared that something might happen. But doctors say nothing will."

added. "The economic impact is significant and it's greater than any project any of us have looked at individually," Meyer said. "If we don't act in concert, it's not going to happen. Whatever resistance there is needs to be weighed carefully against the benefits. We (the judge-executives from Martin and Johnson counties) have responded individually to the bureau of prisons indicating our support for the project."

Meyer said that more specific information about the project should be available within the next few weeks.

LET'S DO IT RIGHT THIS TIME!!

Three years ago, Floyd Countians had an opportunity to select a Superintendent of Schools. We were denied that right, when Commissioner Boysen intervened and placed his chosen candidate as our Superintendent. Although Dr. Towler, did the best he could in his own words, he was never able to overcome the way he was "brought into" our county.

We now have another opportunity with his resignation to complete the process and choose the BEST candidate that applies. ALL Floyd Countians need to become involved in this process and demand that our elected school board members allow the process to go forward and that the best interest of our children be served.

Go public before going to court

by Scott Perry

The county's solid waste commission is preparing to test its newly acquired authority to lodge criminal charges against delinquent customers, but it appears that the commission needs to work out some of the bugs in its collection process before they start hauling folks off to court.

There is no doubt that a serious effort must be made to collect from people who refuse to pay to have their garbage picked up.

Those who don't pay their fair share put the burden on those who do, and that's not fair.

It would appear, though, that the commission's process for identifying delinquent accounts is less than accurate.

As noted in a story Wednesday, one of the first to be cited into court for non-payment has been dead since 1987, and attempts by his widow to correct the matter have been to no avail.

Those responsible for managing the solid waste collection program in Floyd County say they exhausted all efforts to collect past due bills before invoking the provision of the county's solid waste ordinance allowing criminal summonses for non-payers.

That appears now to be less than accurate.

We know of people who have never been notified of past due accounts and others who have multiple notices for bills they don't owe.

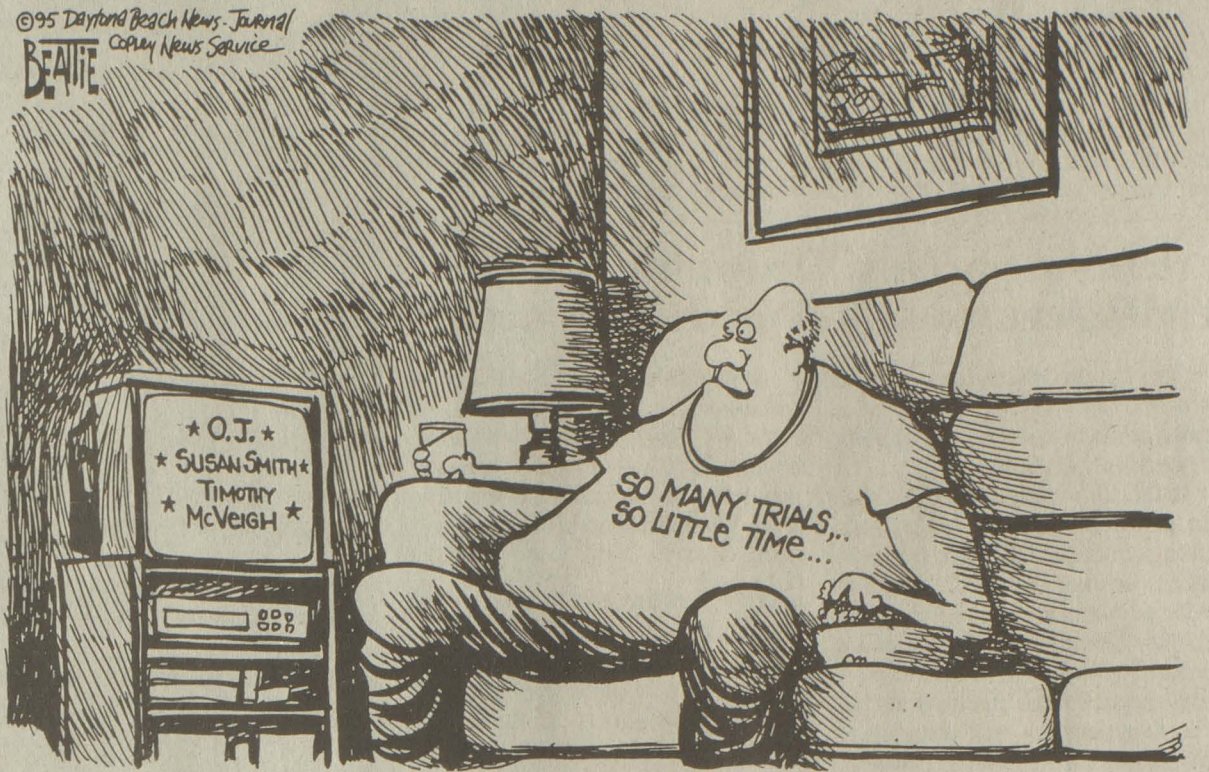

To its credit, the commission realizes that its collection process is in need of repair, and it is examining ways to fix it.

We have a suggestion. Publication of the names of delinquent taxpayers has been a tried and true method of collecting many of those past due revenues.

The commission could adopt a similar approach and publish the names of non-payers, their addresses and amounts owed.

They could set a specific time frame for resolving disputes and collecting accounts, after which all...not just a select few...who continue to withhold payment could be called into court.

That method would help the commission clean up its customer list and demonstrate to persistent deadbeats that they aren't going to be forgotten.

Good regulations are good for business

Editor:

The founder of the Eastern Kentucky Oil and Gas Association, Irene Friend, was recently quoted by the Lexington Herald Leader as saying that "groups such as Kentuckians For The Commonwealth and the agencies and legislators who listen to them have restricted drilling and coal production to the point that it has created a disaster." The disaster I have known in my lifetime is that we have so few oil and gas regulations — certainly not that the industry is over regulated.

According to his comments in the same article, even Paul Patton, long involved in the coal industry, has learned that good regulations are good for business. Alas, Republican gubernatorial candidate Larry Forgy complains that we are still in the sixties as far as regulations are concerned. As I recall, the sixties was a time when people were being broad-formed, there were no reclamation laws, no clean air act, and limited drinking water protections.

Groups such as Kentuckians For The Commonwealth have fought long and hard for accountability on the part of business and industry. Because of citizens' efforts, landowners' rights have been protected, land has been reclaimed, water loss has been remedied and all have benefited.

And, contrary to Ms. Friends rather extremist views, KFTC has negotiated with industry and legislators to arrive at fair and workable solutions.

Industry and the politicians who are courting our votes must learn that Kentuckians are not willing to let their land be destroyed for short term gain.

No response for help; no vote at election

Editor:

As an American citizen, I have the right to call upon elected officials to either do their job in a way that seems fit or to act a certain way on issues.

I don't always expect them to see things my way, but I usually get a response. These responses help me to determine whom I will vote for when they run for office again. If I don't get any response, that's probably what they will get from me at election time.

This system works fairly well until I get to the county level. With county officials, I never know what's going on except for the sheriff's office. If I have need to ask the sheriff's office for help, I get an immediate response or, at least, an answer that is reasonable and one I have always found acceptable.

If I try to get part of a county road repaired, forget it. I call and ask for damage repair to a road that has been damaged by flooding and I see the county people talking to someone else as if to as if helping me is politically correct; yet I have yet to be contacted by a county official except around election time.

Right now one more flood will in all likelihood cut a county road I must travel in two and I will be left without a way from my home. Considering I am disabled and have a bad heart, I just wonder what could occur or who cares.

Miller awarded Byrd honors scholarship

Kate Miller of Prestonsburg, is the recipient of the 1995 Robert C. Byrd honors program scholarship.

The Byrd Honors Program rewards students who demonstrate outstanding academic achievement and show promise of continued excellence. Miller will receive a $1,500 scholarship that is renewable for four years, totaling $6,000.

Fifteen students who reside in each of Kentucky's six congressional districts were chosen as scholarship recipients. Ms. Miller represents the 5th congressional district which encompasses 25 counties.

She was chosen based on grade point average, college entrance exam scores, an essay, teacher recommendations, academic honors, school activities and community service.

She will attend Prestonsburg Community College and the University of Kentucky where she will pursue a degree in medicine. She plans to return to Eastern Kentucky to practice.

Robert C. Byrd is a United States senator from West Virginia. The education and training of America's young people have been among his career-long concerns. The scholarship program provides college scholarships to eligible graduating high school seniors in every state.

Miller is the daughter of Mark and Connie Miller of Prestonsburg. Her grandparents are Lloyd and Loretta Blackburn of Little Paint and Bill and Doris Miller of Ashland.

CHA Health means affordability, hometown accessibility for Kentucky health care customers

With Kentucky health care insurers fiercely competing for customers, CHA Health is focusing on a core issue for those deciding on insurance coverage—the desire for “hometown” service at a reasonable cost.

CHA Health is a collaborative effort by physicians and hospitals from rural and urban areas to offer a provider-driven, integrated health care delivery system. CHA Health's initial service area encompasses more than one million people throughout Central, Northern and Eastern Kentucky.

“The health professionals who created CHA Health were guided by a simple belief,” explains Murray Clark, associated director, University of Kentucky Hospital and Development Director for CHA Health. “When given a choice, more Kentuckians prefer to be cared for by their hometown doctors and be treated in their local hospital. We also believe that Kentuckians can receive high-quality medical care and more value for their health care dollars when using local health care providers as the front door to medical services.”

The CHA Health provider network includes more than 1,300 physicians, 40 regional hospitals and more than 250 pharmacies across its service area. CHA Health was recently granted a Certificate of Authority to operate as a health maintenance organization (HMO) in Kentucky, and has also been designated as one of the 13 Accountable Health Plans being offered through the Kentucky Health Purchasing Alliance that began July 15. At this same time, CHA Health will also begin selling its HMO Plan directly to all employers not under the Alliance.

CHA Health marks the first time physicians and hospitals have joined in this unique type of health care partnership. Drawing together health care providers from a wide geographic area will enable CHA Health to provide care to individuals at all levels of the health care continuum by focusing primarily in the local communities. Currently, CHA Health is licensed in 63 counties with plans to expand statewide. The CHA Health delivery network will also grow accordingly to include other physician and hospital network locations.

Guards raise funds for Easter Seals

Kentucky Adjutant General Robert L. DeZarn announced recently that the Kentucky National Guard's Easter Seal drive has successfully raised $118,168.01 for 1995. This year's total takes the Kentucky Guard's “Bucket Brigade” to $2,150,871.14 in total contributions since 1972.

Volunteers from Army and Air National Guard units across the state operated collection points in their communities during March, April and May to raise money. Over 700 guardsmen and women volunteered to collect in over 43 localities in Kentucky. The top fundraising units, Detachment 1, 207th Maintenance Company from Walton and 307th Maintenance Company from Central City, were recognized for their efforts in combining forces to collect $10,800 for Easter Seals.

“This year our people went all-out in responding to the call of duty for Easter Seals,” said Major General DeZarn. “In addition to the familiar roadside collection points, we held basketball and wrestling tournaments, we sponsored golf scrambles and dances, and we ran concession stands of all types. Everyone, our officers and enlisted, our soldiers and airmen, even our families, got involved, and the result of all this hard work was our highest fund-raising year since 1987.”

Since 1972, the National Guard has been collecting for Easter Seals through the “Bucket Brigade.” Of the funds collected for Easter Seals, 99 percent stay in Kentucky and over 79 percent go to direct programs and services in Kentucky. Over 32,000 children and adults with disabilities in the commonwealth receive Easter Seal services.

Adjutant General DeZarn added in conclusion, “The men and women of the Kentucky National Guard are dedicated toward guarding the future, and with the help of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society, we are doing just that.”

Big year in sales brings big bucks for eastern players

On June 30, the Kentucky Lottery Corporation celebrated the end of a record-breaking sales year. The Lottery sold over $48.6 million tickets in the South Eastern Region for Fiscal Year 1995, part of the record $513 million sold statewide. The KLC returned about 60 percent of that money back to the players in the Southeastern part of Kentucky in prizes. That's over $29.2 million in the South Eastern Region alone.

Sales in Floyd County were $4,693,77. The estimated amount won by Floyd County players was $2,816,246. In Pike County, players won an estimated $4,305,237. Sales in Pike reached more than $7,000,000.

The Kentucky Lottery earned $141 million for the Commonwealth of Kentucky in FY '95. Dividends from the Lottery go to the state's general fund as designated by the Kentucky Legislature. Since its inception in 1989, the Lottery has paid the Commonwealth over $631 million in dividends.

McCoy win Miss Big Sandy RECC

Elizabeth McCoy won the title of Miss Big Sandy RECC 1995 in June. She is the daughter of Janie M. Lyon and Gary McCoy of Prestonsburg. She is now a junior at Morehead State University majoring in dietetics. She received a scholarship to Morehead State University from the Big Sandy RECC.

New book will aid in finding oil and gas in Kentucky

A new map and chart series on a deeply buried geologic depression in Eastern Kentucky will aid in exploration for oil and gas in the region. The map, published by the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky, gives the most current and detailed information available on the Rome Trough. This site is known to contain deeply buried oil and gas resources, according to James A. Drahovzal, a geologist with the Kentucky Geological Survey.

The new map uses available well data and newly interpreted geophysical information to present the most detailed picture that has been published to date.

The map covers most of Eastern

Kentucky's counties and shows the geologic structure that is dominated by a deeply buried, fault-bounded depression that runs from the Lexington area into West Virginia.

Several wells have tapped the resources of the Rome Trough during the past 20 years, but the full potential of the area has not yet been fully tested, according to Drahovzal.

Map and Chart Series Eight, "Preliminary Map of the Structure of the Precambrian Surface in Eastern Kentucky," by J. A. Drahovzal and M.C. Noger, may be purchased from: Publication Sales Office, Kentucky Geological Survey, 228 Mining and Mineral Resources Building, University of Kentucky, Lexington, 40506-0107, or by calling 606-257-3896.

Mosquitoes abundant in Kentucky; do more than swat at them, stop them

Pesky mosquitoes are here again this summer. But you can do more than swat at them. You can stop them in their tracks by knowing their lifestyles.

"Mosquitoes need non-flowing water and warm temperatures for their development. They can develop into biting adults in as little as a week," said Mike Potter, Extension entomologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

In Kentucky, two types of mosquitoes become nuisances in summer. One type prefers to lay eggs on the surface of water in rain barrels, bird baths, tin cans, old tires and roof gutters. The other lays its eggs at the base of vegetation bordering streams or in low-lying areas subject to flooding, he said.

The best way to control mosquitoes is to find and eliminate their breeding sites. Eliminating large areas of standing water, such as swamps or ditches, may require community-wide effort. Homeowners, however, can take several steps to prevent mosquitoes from breeding on their property, he said.

First, Potter said, dispose of old tires, buckets, plastic sheeting or other water-holding containers. Do not allow water to accumulate at the base of flower pots or in pet dishes for more than a few days.

Clean debris from rain gutters and remove any standing water on patios or flat roofs. Check around faucets and air conditioner units and repair leaks or puddles that remain with water in them for several days.

Change water in bird baths. You might even want to consider putting minnows that feed on mosquitoes in ornamental ponds.

"Scout around your property for other places where the pesky insects can breed. Eliminate those by making sure they don't hold water for very long," he said.

Mosquitoes can be kept out of homes by securely screening windows, doors and porches. Eliminate the occasional one that does enter with a fly swatter.

When mosquitoes make outdoor activities unpleasant, consider using a repellent containing ingredients such as DEET. Potter noted that the higher the concentration of DEET in the product, the longer it will help repel mosquitoes.

Other products, such as citronella-based repellents, may help, but generally provide relief of shorter duration, Potter said.

Because adult mosquitoes prefer to rest on weeds and other vegetation, you can help control them by keeping your property mowed.

Electronic bug electrocution and ultrasonic devices generally don't provide much help. Nearly all mosquitoes killed by such the electrocution devices are non-biting males and other harmless night flying insects.

Grant granted to access Internet in Big Sandy District

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $100,000 grant to Big Sandy Telecommuting Services, Inc.

The grant will be used to underwrite the operating expenses associated with the establishment of a telecommunication center in the Big Sandy Area Development District.

In addition to providing advanced telecommunication services to a wide variety of users, the center also offers work force and educational training to the business, educational and medical communities. It also provides access to the Internet, existing state networks, on-line services and consolidated data bases that are unaffordable to the individual sectors of the community.

The total cost of the project is $174,114. Local sources will contribute $74,114.

Big Sandy Area Development District jobless rate grows

In the Big Sandy region, the jobless rate grew from a revised 8.4 percent in May to a preliminary 8.7 percent rate in June. Local rates ranged from 7 percent in Johnson County to 12.7 percent in Magoffin County, one of two rates above 10 percent in the district. Floyd County's rate was 8.9.

The monthly sample of claimants of unemployment insurance benefits showed 36 percent had worked in mining, 16.8 percent in construction, 15.8 percent in trade and 13.6 percent in services.

Technical training

James Taylor, an instructor at Garth AVEC in Floyd County, recently participated in an architectural woodworking technology workshop at Eastern Kentucky University. The workshop was one of about 30 similar "technical training update workshops" hosted this summer by EKV's Department of Technology for vo-tech instructors all across the commonwealth.

Job Corps has new recruitment campaign, "Success lasts a lifetime," in Kentucky

Job Corps, the U.S. Department of Labor program which provides young people with the opportunity to learn a trade, launched a new recruitment campaign, themed "Success Lasts a Lifetime," on July 3. The campaign was designed to recruit young adults for Job Corps centers throughout the Southeast region, including the six centers in Kentucky.

The Job Corps centers in Kentucky are: Earle C. Clements, Morganfield; Great Onyx, Mammoth Cave; Frenchburg Civilian Conservation Corps, Mariba; Carl D. Perkins, Prestonsburg; Whitney M. Young, Simpsonville; and the Pine Knot center.

The new campaign will target motivated young people between the ages of 16 and 24 who wish to take advantage of the education and trade opportunities offered through Job Corps. The campaign will feature testimonials from successful Job Corps graduates and businesses that have hired Job Corps students.

The program will incorporate the Zero Tolerance for Violence and Drugs Policy with the "one strike and you're out" provision implemented in March. The policy requires immediate expulsion of any student who commits a violent act and the automatic expulsion of any student who tests positive for illegal substances after a 30-day probation period.

Job Corps has a toll-free number, 1-800-733-JOBS, for those who want to learn more about the program and what it has to offer.

As part of the Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration, Job Corps provides basic education and GED classes, as well as vocational training and job placement in health occupations, clerical skills, food service, landscaping technology, forestry, retail, automotive body repair and other fields. It is primarily a residential program, providing students with room, board and some spending money while they learn. Some centers offer non-residential programs and provide day care.

There are 22 Job Corps centers in operation in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. Depending upon vocation of interest, Job Corps applicants can be assigned to any of the centers in the Southeast region.

Grants available for purchase of heritage lands

Mayors, county judge/executives and the executive directors of area development districts are being notified that competitive grants are available to local governments to purchase heritage lands.

The grants can be used to purchase lands that are:

- Natural areas possessing unique features such as habitat for rare and endangered species,
- Important to migratory birds.
- Areas performing important natural functions and subject to alteration or loss, or
- To be preserved in its natural state for public use, outdoor recreation and education.

The first deadline for applying for the grants is September 11. The grant applications will be reviewed and successful applicants selected by the Heritage Land Conservation Fund Board. Applications that are not successful on the first submission may be resubmitted to the board 60 days prior to any of its 1996 meetings. Although exact dates have not been set, the board will meet in January, April, July and October during 1996.

The application package, which includes the administrative regulations, grant applications and other information, may be obtained by writing William H. Martin, chair of the Heritage Land Conservation Fund Board, 107 Mero Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or by calling (502) 564-2184.

Kentucky colleges and universities will offer KET telecourses this fall

KET offers nine undergraduate courses and one graduate course for the upcoming fall semester. Classes began airing in late August, but many institutions have July registration deadlines. Students can register at their college or university.

For graduate students in education, The Middle School telecourse is designed to help educators become more effective in meeting the needs of middle school students. The series deals with developing teaching strategies distinctively important for working with 10- to 14-year old students. The programs provide insight into the physical, socio-emotional, and intellectual uniqueness of middle school students; and close the gap between education theory and classroom reality with in-depth, practical, and classroom-tested activities.

Business owners as well as business majors could benefit from three undergraduate courses: Business and Law emphasizes contracts and the legal system, and gives a comprehensive overview of law and the world of business; The Business File provides insights into organizing, managing, and meeting challenges in today's business environment; and Something Ventured provides aspiring entrepreneurs an over-the-shoulder look at what it's like to start and operate a small business.

For history buffs, The American Adventure brings to life the conflicts and consequences of our nation's earliest history and The Western Tradition I explores the influential pre-Western civilizations and continues through Middle Ages to the Renaissance.

KET also will offer Discovering Psychology, an introduction to the field of psychology and some of its leading researchers; Faces of Culture, an exploration of the diversity of human values, behavior, and social organizations through an introductory study of cultural anthropology; Earth Revealed, a study of Earth's physical processes and properties, emphasizing the scientific theories behind the geological principles; and Living with Health, a course that encourages students to take a proactive stance toward maintaining health and promoting wellness.

Students can watch the courses on KET or record the programs to view later. The telecourse professor on campus makes assignments and administers tests. A limited number of visits to campus may be required. Study guides, textbooks, and other course materials can be purchased at college bookstores.

Prestonsburg Community College will be carrying some or all of the 1995 KET fall telecourse schedule. To find out which courses the college is offering and to receive a free telecourse booklet and broadcast schedule, contact the college or call KET at (800) 432-0970.

Pikeville's Misty Daniels returns to familiar ground at Jenny Wiley Theatre

After a year off, Pikeville-native Misty Daniels returns to a spot she has been familiar with for over a dozen years—the stage of Jenny Wiley Theatre, where this season she will be bringing one of theatre's most-beloved roles, Eliza Doolittle, to life in the summer's feature production of My Fair Lady.

Daniels has been performing at Jenny Wiley since 1982 when she was first cast in that year's performance of The Music Man, and has been a constant in performances throughout the years. In 1992, she was cast in her first leading role of Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz before going on to play the title role in 1993's Cinderella.

Last year saw the University of Kentucky graduate got to work for her alma mater, as well as performing with the Kentucky Opry. While at UK, Daniels was selected as one of four UK Ambassadors and conducted two years of statewide speaking engagements in fulfilling the honor.

For Daniels, however, all roads lead home, as the 1995 Jenny Wiley summer season is now her prime focus.

"I enjoyed what I did at UK, but being on stage is something I missed.

Bluegrass State Games get more enjoyable; coaches' chairs...

Last weekend I attended my sixth Bluegrass State Games in Lexington. I must admit, this one was the best.

I don't know what the difference was, but things seemed to go a lot better than previous years. It was good to see some of our friends from other newspapers and share what has been going on since we last met.

The largest gathering ever for the Games assembled this past weekend and no motel room could be found in or around the Lexington area. With such a large, diverse crowd, it was just a great atmosphere.

The Bluegrass State Games are the highlight of my summer. I look forward to attending them every year. I want to congratulate the medal winners from Floyd County and say 'thank you' to all athletes in the county who took part in the Games, even if they did not win a medal.

I would very much like to see more athletes from Floyd County take part in next year's games, especially in the three-on-three basketball division. I know we have some very good players who would do well in the Games.

I was taken by surprise by those participants at the Games whose names did not appear on my roster provided by the Games' committee.

It was good to meet Mark Pope and sit in on his press conference. I still think he needs to be stronger in order to play the middle.

He put a charge into the crowd at the opening ceremonies when he leaped off the stage at Commonwealth Stadium and join several youngsters dancing in front of the podium. He was immediately mobbed.

"It was the wrong move I guess," he said, after he was escorted by police back to the stage area. The kids loved him.

The hundreds of volunteers who assisted with the games just did an outstanding job. It would be impossible to run the Games successfully without the hard-working volunteers they've had over the years.

I look forward to next year's games and predict that participants will number over 20,000. Make your motel reservations now.

COACHES' "MUSICAL CHAIRS" CONTINUE...
I'm going to be honest with you! I was bothered about the fact that Keith Henry is not returning as head boys' basketball coach at Betsy Layne.

Now let me say this: I have nothing against Coach Junior Newsome. He and I worked well together before when he was head coach. I hope to continue to work with Coach Newsome this basketball season.

But I think the site-base council at Betsy Layne did Keith an injustice when they did not allow him to return for his second full season

Parido steps down at Prestonsburg

Saying it was time to pursue other interests, Prestonsburg High School head boys' basketball coach Gordon Parido handed school officials his resignation last Wednesday, ending his eight-year tenure as the school's basketball coach.

Parido will stay and teach this year at the county school.

"I just felt it was time to step down," he said. "This will give me a chance to finish some extra schooling that I need."

Parido took the school to its only state tournament appearance during the '88-'89 season. His team overcame a 12-point halftime deficit to powerful McDowell in the championship game of the 15th Regional Tournament, played at Prestonsburg.

It is to be a talented young ballclub that will grace the hardwood for the Blackcats this fall.

"They do have some very good players coming in this season," said the former coach. "I think that in a couple of years they will be able to really compete in the regional.

"I'm just going to stay on and teach at the high school and pursue getting my principal certification."

While leaving the coaching ranks, Parido did not rule completely out a return to the hardwood some day.

"You never say never," he said. "Someday I may pursue it again."

A replacement for Coach Parido will have to come from within the school's system, since there is no opening at the school at the present time, according to new principal Thomas Tackett.

"Coach Parido handed Mr. Hampton (athletic director) his resignation last Wednesday," stated Tackett. "He came to me and said, 'Guess what I have here.' He (Hampton) handed me Coach Parido's resignation and I was shocked.

"I stuck the resignation in my drawer in hopes that he would come back in and had changed his mind. I have waited a week and, as of now, it is official and I have accepted his resignation."

Tackett said that a search committee will be seated that will look for a replacement for Parido.

"We will be looking to our parents and teachers in our search for a new coach. We want to name one as soon as possible. We will see who is available and talk with them," said Tackett.

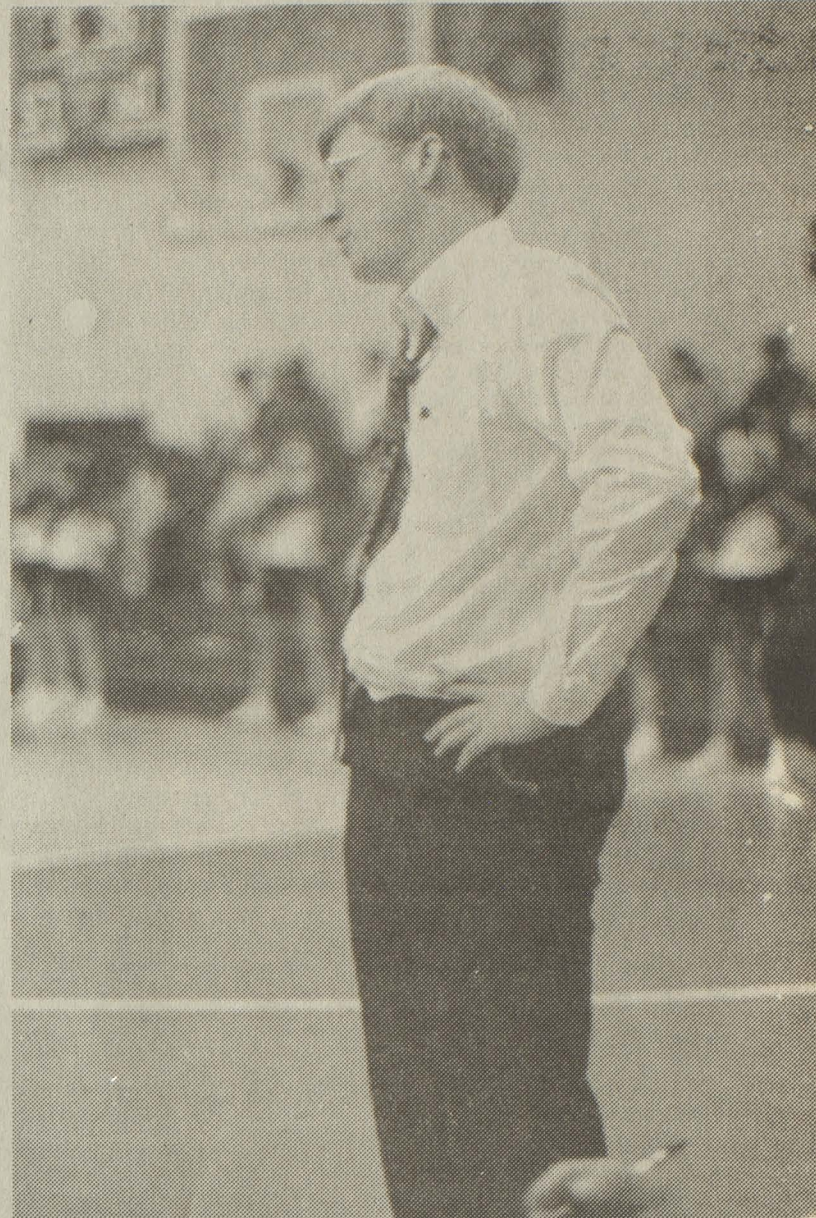

Available candidates within the school system itself could be narrowed to two parties -- girls' basketball coach Harold Tackett and boys' assistant coach Jackie Day Crisp.

Webb named new girls coach at South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Former Alice Lloyd College All-American Henry Webb was named the new head girls basketball coach at South Floyd High School this past Thursday night.

School principal Alan Osborne made the announcement and introduction to returning seniors who were invited to the gym.

"We're quite excited," said Osborne. "We have a young man and everybody knows his ability. He's demonstrated that at both the high school level and college level.

"And in talking with the people in the community, the job he did last year at McDowell Elementary was a good job. The first time I had a chance to meet Coach Webb was during the interview."

Jenny Meade, a returning senior, was asked to be part of the committee to determine who would coach at South Floyd this coming season. She said she knows hard work is ahead for this year's team.

"I know he's going to make us work harder," she said. "He will push us through a conditioning program and that will help us a lot this season. I think he will be a good coach."

Webb said that he will not take a different approach in coaching a girls team versus a boys team.

"I'm not going to look at this job as any different than a boys' team," said Webb, who was a standout basketball player at the former McDowell High School. "I am going to give it 110 percent. Hopefully, the girls will cooperate and I'm sure they will. I'm going to work hard and they are going to work hard and, hopefully, we can build a winning program at South Floyd."

Webb replaces Jimmy Hopkins, who coached at McDowell before consolidation closed the school. Hopkins took over the girls basketball program at the new school but came under fire last season from parents. He then resigned his position.

Webb has only one year of coaching experience and that was last season at McDowell Elementary where he did an excellent job with the boys program.

The new South Floyd coach is a

Woods, Hall, Sexton, Cathers capture Kiwanis golf outing

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Teddy Hall has been tournament director for the past several years, heading up the annual Kiwanis Golf Outing. And he can speak with authority when he says the 13th Annual Kiwanis Golf Outing has been rated the best of the lot.

"By far it was the best tournament we have had," he said. "No doubt we had one of the best tournaments in the 13 years of holding it."

According to Hall, the highlight of the tournament was when Jack Abshire actually showed up.

"He has always paid his entry fee but never shows up to play," explained Hall. "This year he surprised us all and made an appearance. He has been registering for the past five years, but this year he made it."

Hall said the teams were evenly matched as the 68 golfers were divided into their A, B, C, and D flights.

"That made for a better tournament," said Hall. "There was no complaining about what flight they would play in. It was just a good tournament."

The foursome of Larry Woods, Stewart Hall, Eric Cathers and Robbie

Sexton shot an 15-under-par to win the four-man scramble and took home first place.

Second place went to Steve Halbert, Doug Miesner, Bear Halbert and Ed Miller, but only after a tie existed. The team of Eddie Clark, James Spears, Jim Kennedy and Doky Joseph tied for second when both teams shot an 11-under-par.

"We usually have a playoff hole in breaking a tie," said Hall. "But that usually takes too long so we went by the scorecards to determine second place."

Scoring was referred back to the 16th hole with the 18th hole being the determining one in ruling Halbert and his team's second place finishers.

Other winners were: longest drive, Wesly Case, trophy and CB radio; closest to the line, Steve Turner, pager; closest to the hole, Van Slone, CB radio, dinner at Carriage House; longest putt, Dokey Joseph, golf putter.

Closest to circle, Lowell Vernon Slone, BQ grill; closest to the hole, Stewart Hall, trophy, certificate for dinner at Sam 'N Tonio's; closest to the hole on second shot, Eric Cathers, Players' reactions!

by Ed Taylor
Sports Writer

The South Floyd Lady Raiders will have a new head basketball coach this coming season with the hiring of Henry Webb. Here are some of the players' reactions to the announced hiring.

"I think it will be a good change for us. We needed a change and I'm pleased with it. I think he will be hard to play under, but I'm looking forward to it." - senior Jenny Meade

"I would really like to win the district tournament my last year, and beat our record the past two years. I want to play my best and help carry the team." - senior Tiffany Compton

"I don't really know anything about him. I just heard that he is a real good coach. He's capable of straightening this program out and we can have a good year. I'm hoping that's true. I'm hoping that everybody works hard and we have a good season." - Melissa Tackett

"I like the idea of a new coach. It's going to be a change. It's going to be different. I'm looking forward to the season. With a new coach, I'm happy." - Tara Newman

"I don't know anything about Coach Webb, but anything has to be better than the past. If the team pulls together and learns his new coaching philosophy, I think we'll do pretty good." - Crystal Tackett

Webb said that he wasn't going to ask this year's team to be an instant success.

"You can't ask a team to turn-around and win 20 or 25 games in the beginning," he said. "I'm not that concerned with winning right now. I want the girls to work hard and keep that positive attitude and hopefully things will fall in place for us."

Webb is aware that moving from the grade school coaching ranks to the next level is going to be a challenge for him, but he is willing to work hard to make the new venture successful.

"This is going to be a lot different from grade school which I worked in last year," he confessed. "Once again, I'm willing to put in the time and effort and the girls will be asked to do the same. We're going to work hard in the beginning and then take things from there."

"Everybody told me that I would be excited about Coach Webb and I must say I was," said Osborne. "We need to get out kids to start thinking about contributing to the program and I think Coach Webb gives the real possibility of that happening."

The school principal had stated earlier while searching for a coach, that his desire was to have a coach who was in-house and would be able to keep a check on the players. But that has not panned out, yet.

"I'll still be teaching at McDowell Elementary this year," said Webb, "and hopefully something will open up here (South Floyd)."

Webb is hoping that a new coach arriving on the scene will cause some enthusiasm as they prepare for the upcoming season.

"We're just going to approach it as everything in the past is in the past," he said. "You can't live in the past, it's over."

The past wasn't very successful for the Lady Raiders basketball team. They had won a total of five games in their first two years of existence. The new coach is not concerned with what was, but what can be.

"We'll start fresh. Everyone will be asked to contribute and put forth a strong effort. The girls will be asked to work hard," he stated.

Numbers have been the problem in the past at South Floyd and appear to be again this year because only eight players have expressed interest in being on the team. But Osborne has encouraged the returning players to use different tactics in convincing others to play.

"We talked to them (returning players) about the ham and egg breakfast," said Osborne. "We told them the hen made a contribution, but that pig was committed to breakfast."

"I told them I wanted eight young ladies who will make a commitment to the program this year. And I believe if they will go out, and I suggested if they needed to, use vigilante tactics to get these young ladies away from the swimming pool and into the gym, then that is what we need to do."

Webb stated that not a lot will be done with the team until school starts back on August 18.

"We'll not be doing a lot until school starts back. I haven't really had a chance to meet the girls, just being newly hired. I like to meet them and get to know them," he said. "When school gets started and things settle down we will be doing some conditioning and drills."

Webb will encourage his team to take part in cross-country this year and track and field in the spring.

"Anything that will help them out," he said.

Osborne is hoping to see a turn-around in the program as he had witnessed at Betsy Layne and at Prestonsburg this past season.

"I saw Betsy Layne (when he was the school's principal) advance and go to the state," he stated. "I believe we are going to put pressure on Prestonsburg but I think Prestonsburg has vastly improved their program and they are going to make a run for the district and regional this year."

"And, of course, Allen Central's going to continue their fine record. We need to get up to their level now and I feel we can do that. If we find eight ladies that are committed, we will have eight plus eight and we're going to turn the program over to a young man who's going to have the energy and will be willing to put the time and effort and has a knowledge of the game and doesn't have to prove that to anybody. I think it is in good hands and I'm excited."

Looking at the job as something different and challenging was the reason Webb became interested in the job.

"It's an opportunity for me. I'm not going to say how long I'll be here. I don't even know if I will be hired back next year. But it gives me an opportunity and experience for me."

Parido

Tackett took his first head coaching job at the high school level last year and turned the girls' program into a solid contender. Crisp was a teacher at Prestonsburg in his first year and an assistant under Parido.

Tackett returns a very strong girls' program this coming season and will be ranked in the top three in regional play. However, the lure of the boys' job could be very inviting to Tackett, who has spent most of his coaching days in the elementary ranks where he has been successful.

Crisp is very well known for his knowledge of the game and his ability to relate to young players. Tackett described the type of coach the school will pursue.

"We want the best possible person we can find," he said. "He has to be a person that is honest, of very good character, and who has a concern for young boys doing well."

"He must have a concern, as well, for athletics and the future of our young kids," he said.

Tackett said that he understood that Coach Parido would continue to teach at the school, thus making it a must that a replacement come from inside.

"Had he gone somewhere else and taught," said Tackett, "then we could have opened up applications from outside of the school. But he is going to stay on and there are no openings here. So, we must fill the position from our own people."

Parido said that he had no idea who his successor might be. He also said that he will continue as the school's golf coach and has made himself available to help anyway he can with other athletic programs at the school.

Parido was at one time the school's athletic director and worked with coach Bill Letton on the football team.

"I think that Coach Parido did a tremendous job here at Prestonsburg," said Tackett. "He took us to our only state tournament. I do want to say that I did not call for his resignation. He stunned us when we received it. We're new here and it was a shock."

"I think the world of Coach Parido and he has always been a gentleman to me," he said.

Crisp said that he was very much interested in the head coaching job and he would pursue it.

"That has always been what I wanted to do," he said, when told of the opening. "I worked there the past three to four years helping out, and officially as an assistant last year."

Tackett has mixed feelings about the job. He doesn't want to abandon his girls' program, but still the challenge of a new position is there.

South Floyd grade football registration is August 9th

The South Floyd Raiders grade school football team will hold registration for incoming players for the '95 football season.

Registration will be held at Brackett Field on Wednesday, August 9 beginning at 6 p.m. Signups are for grades fifth through eighth.

A Look At Sports

(he was named coach last year after the season began).

Nobody can step in and change a program in a season-plus. It takes time. I think the council should have shown more patience in the matter and allowed Keith to come back at least one more year.

Keith had some problems with student/athletes not making the grades to play. Yet, he had a 14-11 first season record and finished strong last year at .500.

Now we learn that Gordon Parido has resigned as head coach at Prestonsburg High School and that position is open (see story this section).

I have always been a Gordon Parido fan. I like his way of coaching and have a lot of respect for him, especially when he disciplined a player without regard to who he was or how important he was to the team.

Now Parido wants to pursue other goals in his profession, and who can blame him for that?

According to reports, a replacement for Parido as coach will have to come from in-house. Parido remains on to teach this school year.

I suppose, at last check, Jim Rose was still at South Floyd and Johnny Martin at Allen Central. I'll make a phone call or two and check in on it and let you know Wednesday.

Welcome to South Floyd, Henry Webb.

LET'S RUN THAT AGAIN... In the one run loss the Big Sandy 17-18 year-olds suffered at Louisville, player Jamo Jarrell was the innocent one.

He was not the one, although he was playing first base at the time, that made the throw to third base that allowed the winning run to score.

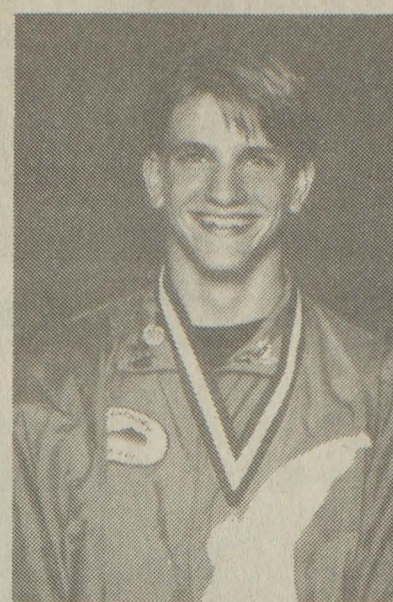

Brian Casto, second baseman, made the errant throw. Brian was covering first on a bunt and took the throw for the out. He then threw to third in an attempt to nail the runner.

Really, the shortstop should have been covering third base, anyway. The way it turned out, no one covered and the toss went awry.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Kentucky Bicentennial Passport Program

The Kentucky Bicentennial Passport Program introduced during Kentucky's Bicentennial year—1992, is into its last travel season. The passport will expire April 30, 1996. Passport holders should have their passports validated by this date to receive their special incentive.

Passport holders who plan to visit all 50 Commonwealth Sites and who have not received their Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center stamp must do so during the fair this year (August 17-27). This will be the only time to receive the Fair and Exposition Center stamp.

Passport holders visiting 20 sites receive a buy one-get one free coupon for overnight lodging at any Kentucky State Park. Passport holders visiting 40 sites receive another coupon for overnight lodging at a state park. After visiting all 50 Commonwealth Sites, passport holders receive a certificate and a special Kentucky-made, hand-painted stoneware mug from Hadley Pottery, displaying the name of the bearer.

The program has been developed to create a better awareness of the heritage found at the Commonwealth Sites, preserved and protected by Kentucky for their historical or recreational significance.

Passports can be purchased at every Kentucky State Park except Mineral Mound, Taylorsville Lake, Isaac Shelby Cemetery, Grayson Lake and Paintsville Lake. For more information, call Beckie Brumfield or John Howard at (502) 564-2172.

Public forum focus on state health plan

The Kentucky Health Policy Board announces a public forum will be held Monday, August 7 at 2 p.m. to hear comments concerning the final draft of the proposed State Health Plan. The meeting will take place in the Board Room of the Kentucky Health Policy Board, 909 Leawood Drive.

The State Health Plan provides a general overview of health care in Kentucky and is the primary document articulating health policy in the state. The State Health Plan identifies health status issues, potential health risks and prevention means, current trends and issues in health care delivery and also establishes the criteria used in Certificate of Need reviews.

The current data of the 1996-1998 State Health Plan reflects comments and concerns addressed at seven public forums held across the state in June, including concerns related to public health, health professionals, long term care, and other health care issues.

A copy of the professional plan may be picked up at the Kentucky Health Policy Board office after noon on Thursday, August 3.

The purpose of the public forum is for the Kentucky Health Policy Board to hear public comments regarding the final draft of the State Health Plan prior to taking official action.

Over 1,600 visit HomePlace during weekend

by Tony Fyffe
editor
Paintsville Herald

Anyone interested in volunteering at the HomePlace should call Little at 297-1850.

Among the attractions at the Mountain HomePlace are a blacksmith shop; the McKenzie Branch

School; Fishtrap Church; a barnyard; and the McKenzie House. Touring fees are $5 for adults; $3 for children 6-18; and $4 for senior citizens. Children 6 years of age and under will not be charged.

A couple from Louisiana were the first visitors to the Mountain HomePlace, the 1850s living-history farm at Paintsville Lake that officially opened Friday, July 28.

HomePlace officials called the opening weekend a success, with over 1,600 people touring the facility Friday through Monday, when admittance was free.

"We've had a very good turnout," business manager Bill Little said Tuesday. "Quite frankly, the turnout even surprised me."

People from 17 states and two foreign countries were among the visitors to the HomePlace, Little said, adding that there was also "very good representation" from Johnson Countians.

"What really blew me away was that it was so tremendously hot, but people still came," Little said.

Free admittance was probably one reason for the good attendance, Little said. Officials began charging a touring fee on Tuesday.

Bob Beverley, resource manager at Paintsville Lake, was the first person to purchase a ticket.

Little said the HomePlace was receiving "absolutely great comments" from visitors, with the only negative comment being about the lack of volunteers.

"To be truthful, the only downside I heard ... was that we need some more folks out here," he said.

About 30 volunteers are needed.

Pike Central projects get green light

By Linda H. Breed
Editor
Appalachian News-Express

The state says the county school district has enough money to build a gymnasium and athletic complex at Pike county Central High School — projects the state put on hold more than a year ago.

Superintendent Reo Johns and Board Chairman John Blackburn were notified yesterday by letter of the state Department of Education's decision.

"Based on the staff review and analysis, I have concluded that the Pike County School District has the financial resources available to proceed with this project," said Randy Kimbrough, deputy commissioner with the state Department of Education.

"At the same time, I would caution you that this correspondence should not be construed as approval of a particular design or financing package for this project."

In March 1994, Kimbrough and other state officials stopped at $7.9 million bond sale to fund Pike County Central High School projects because they said it would put too much strain on the district's budget. She went so far as to put a hold on any construction for one year because the district was in a near-deficit situation.

The school system ended the 1993-94 year with $91,000 in the bank. This year's financial report showed the district ended the year with $2.7 million in the General Fund. The state recommends districts carry from two to five percent of their budget total in reserve.

In her letter yesterday, Kimbrough commended Johns, his staff and the Pike County Board of Education for implementing a plan to improve the financial condition of the district.

"It is because of these improvements that we are now able to allow you to proceed with this project," she said.

The one-year delay in construction put more than the Pike Central projects on hold. It also affected the already planned construction of the consolidated Cumberland Valley High School and consolidated elementary school at Varney.

To add to the district's woes, in July 1994 the state's School Facilities Construction Commission (SFCC) notified Pike and other districts that offerings of funding made in 1990 had to be used by September 15, 1994, or lost. Originally, school officials were told the offerings would be good through 1996.

The funding in jeopardy amounted to $9 million and included allocations for Cumberland Valley High, Varney Elementary, and Pike County Central Gymnasium.

The district protested the withdrawal of funds and eventually joined with other districts in a lawsuit against the SFCC to recover the funds.

However, before the September deadline, Pike County was able to get the consolidated Varney Elementary School under way after the U.S. Corps of Engineers came through with its portion of funding. The Corps contributed to the project because it provided flood protection. The school is now slated for completion around Labor Day 1996.

With the $1.5 million in SFCC funding for the Pike County Central Gym still in dispute, it wasn't immediately clear how cost figures will change on the two projects.

When construction was halted, bids had been awarded and a corporation approved to oversee the bond sales.

The gym was the more expensive of the two projects with a price tag of more than $5.7 million. Construction was expected to take about 18 months.

In February 1994, the board awarded a construction contract to Commonwealth Building and Construction on the fieldhouse/athletic complex. At this time, architect Bill Richardson predicted the football field would be ready for use by last fall.

The construction management firm of Martin Engineering and Construction had been hired to oversee the gym project and many of the construction projects had been awarded.

Since that time, Martin Engineering has been released from his contract with the board.

State officials said Wednesday the board will have to go through the entire approval process again. Johns had a news conference Wednesday morning to discuss the projects.

Kentucky Power to cut 55 jobs

by Jerry Pennington
Editor
The Big Sandy News

Kentucky Power's Big Sandy Plant plans to cut out 55 jobs as part of a restructuring plan announced Monday by American Electric Power.

At a press conference Monday in Charleston, West Virginia, AEP announced a new severance plan that will reduce about 1,200 jobs at 16 power plants in a five-state area.

Job reductions are expected to begin sometime in early October and continue into 1996.

Lenore T. Leadingham, public affairs director for Kentucky Power, said most of the jobs will be eliminated through voluntary severance, retirement and attrition.

However, if the company does not meet the 55 jobs to be cut, layoffs could follow.

"We would end up having to look at that situation," Leadingham said. "Hopefully we'll get enough through voluntary severance."

Currently, the Big Sandy Plant employs 226 people, which means one out of every four jobs will be eliminated. Of these, 44 percent live in Lawrence County and 31 percent live in Boyd County. Leadingham said she could not predict what kind of effect the move would have on the local economy.

AEP officials said the cuts come as part of an overall plan to improve performance.

"This is another significant step in a comprehensive restructuring plan to improve performance and ensure our competitiveness amid sweeping changes in the electric utility industry," E. Linn Draper, Jr., chairman, president and chief executive officer, said.

Overall, Kentucky will lose 55 jobs, West Virginia will lose a total of 505 jobs, Ohio will lose 430 jobs,

Special prosecutor to be appointed in murder case

by Tony Fyffe
editor
Paintsville Herald

A special prosecutor will be appointed to the murder case against Martin County resident Tim Maynard.

Ed Lynch, spokesman for the state attorney general's office, said Tuesday that Commonwealth's Attorney Anna Deskins Melvin has stepped aside from the case, paving the way for the appointment of a special prosecutor.

"We've received disqualification from the commonwealth's attorney asking that a special prosecutor be named," Lynch said, "but one hasn't been named at this time."

Lynch said another prosecutor should be appointed by the attorney general's office soon.

Melvin, Commonwealth's attorney for Johnson, Martin and Lawrence counties, could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Melvin had previously said that she had asked the attorney general for assistance in the case against Maynard, accused of murder in the stabbing death of Jeff Nelson, 21, of East Point.

Nelson's body was found near a Martin County strip mine on July 8, more than a week after he was reported missing.

Maynard, 27, of Pigeon Roost, was arrested July 15 and charged with murder. He was interviewed early in the investigation after witnesses placed him with Nelson on the night of his disappearance.

Maynard, who is being held in the Boyd County Detention Center in lieu of an $800,000 cash bond, will be represented by former Commonwealth's Attorney Leo Marcum.

A special session of the Martin County Grand Jury was called to hear the case last Monday, but it was canceled to give state police more time to collect evidence.

Melvin had said the charge against Maynard could be upgraded to capital murder, a death penalty offense.

It is not known when the case will be presented to the grand jury. The regular session of the panel is scheduled for later this month.

Staffordsville man cited for trafficking

Brian L. Gatewood, 30, of Staffordsville was recently charged with trafficking in marijuana and prescription drugs following a search of his residence, authorities said.

Gatewood was arrested July 16 at the regional detention center by KSP Trooper W.L. Meade.

Gatewood was also charged with having drug paraphernalia, the citation said.

According to the arrest complaint, a search of Gatewood's residence turned up marijuana, prescription drugs, paraphernalia and transaction documents.

A preliminary hearing was held July 26.

Boons Camp woman cited for welfare fraud

Doris G. Rohr, 25, of Boons Camp has been charged with welfare fraud after she allegedly received food stamps illegally for over a year, a state investigator said.

Rohr failed to report a change in the factors affecting her eligibility for food stamps, said Arthur J. Rodgers, an investigator with the state Attorney General's office.

Rohr unlawfully received $3,128 worth of food stamps from July 1993 to August 1994, according to the criminal complaint.

Frazier says 'no' to plea bargain

A previously agreed upon plea bargain for a suspect in a rape case involving a Martin County man was denied by Circuit Judge Steven "Nick" Frazier Wednesday, July 26.

Commonwealth's Attorney Anna Melvin had recommended that a second degree rape charge—which carries a penalty of 5-10 years imprisonment—be reduced to a lesser charge of Sexual Abuse for Glen Carter, 29, of Inez, who was accused by a Martin County Grand Jury in March of 1994 in an incident involving a girl less than 14 years of age.

Upon recommendations from a counselor in the Carter case, Frazier denied the plea bargain and a trial for Carter has been set for late October on the second degree rape charge.

The alleged incident for which Carter is charged took place on or about February 1992. Carter was first arraigned on March 24, 1994 and a trial was set for April 26.

Magoffin County

Charges filed against Wallace

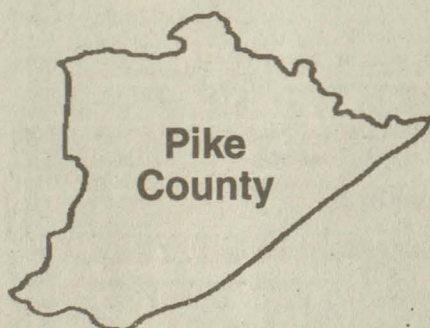

The Magoffin County Board of Education has forwarded a list of complaints against Magoffin County Superintendent Howard Wallace to the Kentucky Department of Education for scrutiny.

In a special-called meeting Thursday, Nolan Hall, school board member, announced that closed session discussion held at the previous meeting (July 18) led to the list of complaints against Superintendent Wallace and its referral to the Kentucky Department of Education.

The letter, addressed to Kevin Noland (acting chief state school officer) and the Department of Education, states a case against Wallace and asks for a review of these alleged violations and a response, including advise as to formal actions that should be taken against the superintendent.

The letter is signed and dated by each board member. (Information provided by the Salyersville Independent)

Sixth man admits to extortion

Eugene Holt, 60, a former civil penalty collector with the U.S. Mine Safety and Health Administration, pleaded guilty Monday in U.S. District Court to three counts of extorting a total of $2,000 from a mine owner. Holt had pleaded innocent and was scheduled to stand trial Monday.

The Virgie man became the sixth employee from MSHA's Pike County operations to be indicted and convicted of corruption charges in the last year.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Self has asked Judge Joseph Hood to dismiss a fourth count of filing a false worker's compensation document with the U.S. Department of Labor, of which MSHA is a division.

Hood scheduled sentencing for October 30. Holt faces up to 45 years in prison and a $750,000 fine.

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

In May, the immigration office at Pearson International Airport in Toronto announced that one of its employees had been disciplined because of complaints that, under the pretense of official policy, he had ordered people entering Canada to remove their shoes and socks so that he could photograph their feet. According to officials, the man had already been counseled four times about his habit.

COULDN'T POSSIBLY BE TRUE

- In December, the Air Force Times reported that Army soldier Joseph Cannon had recently ended his six-year career having not received a single military paycheck after boot camp. Officials said Cannon's records were lost at his first duty station, but that he had never complained, though he missed 144 paychecks totaling more than $103,000. Apparently, Cannon lived in the barracks, ate only in the mess halls, and borrowed money from relatives whenever he had special needs.

- According to records released in March of the November 1994 autopsy of serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer, officials kept Dahmer's body shackled at the feet during the entire procedure, "such was the fear of this man," according to pathologist Robert Huntington.

- In February, a fishing boat sank in rough, cold waters off Vancouver Island, leaving two men in a life raft that was tied to the sinking boat by a nylon rope.

Neither had a knife to cut the rope, and had the ship sunk, it would have pulled the boat and the men down with it. For an hour, the two men alternated chewing the rope, with one man losing a tooth in the process, and, minutes before the ship sank, the men finally chewed through the rope and survived.

- According to two colleagues, the pilot of the American Eagle airlines plane that crashed near Morrisville, N.C., in December told them and others that he was not qualified to pilot that particular aircraft and that he accepted a captain's assignment only when American Eagle told him to accept it or resign. The pilot, who had been forced out of his previous job because of poor skill performance and who had difficulty during American Eagle's training, was said by colleagues interviewed by the Associated Press to have poor emergency decision-making ability and not to be "captain material."

- According to a New York Times story in May, as many as 20 Orthodox Jewish fathers in New York City who are involved in bitter divorce fights may be improving their leverage by resorting to an obscure passage in the Torah. A father is permitted to arrange his daughter's marriage while she is still a minor (under age 13); the daughter can then marry no one else without the father's permission. Because a mother so fears for her daughter's well-being, she may relent to divorce demands of the husband if he will drop the arrangement. The Times interviewed rabbis who called the practice disgusting and abhorrent, but valid.

- According to a May story by Reuters columnist Sherwood Ross, psychic advisers Phyllis Schwartz and Hy Kaplan of Cherry Hill, N.J., have been retained by nearly 100 firms, including several of the Fortune 500, to "read" the vibes of applicants for employment. According to Kaplan, they need to know nothing more than name and position applied for, but they also note age, gender and residence so they won't "read" the wrong person of the same name.

- In April in Los Angeles, Ruth Walston filed for divorce from her husband, actor Ray Walston. She's 79, he's 80, they've been married 51 years, and she charged "irreconcilable differences."

NAMES IN THE NEWS

- Names that showed up recently on police blotters: Pleading guilty to rape in Denver, William Freelove; sentenced for assault in St. Joseph, Mo., Jesse James; cited for speeding in Parma, Ohio, Amelia A. Earhart; charged with assault and burglary in Moorhead, Minn., was a man who would not give his name and is thus listed on the rolls as Mr. Fnu Mnu Lnu (derived from "first name unknown," etc.); and jailed in Des Moines, Iowa, was Shannon Cooper, who police said went out bar-hopping, temporarily abandoning her children, Champaigne, 2, Chardonay, 1, and Chablea, 3 months.

- Notable announcements in the news recently included the hiring by a medical clinic in Koloa, Hawaii, of Dr. Michael Cholera; the success of a new tooth decay preventive by Dutch professor Taco Pilot; the appointment as county coroner in Spokane, Wash., of Pat Mummery; and the revelation of fraud uncovered in a United Nations office in Kenya, as announced by office spokeswoman, Shamp Poo.

- California Names: In Newport Beach, Miss Truly Gold recently married Cary S. Boring. The Los Angeles Times reported that 16 people named Jesus Christ have

Took a trip to the new Appalachian Homeplace at Paintsville Lake last weekend and didn't see Loretta Lynn anywhere.

Didn't really expect to see the Coal Miner's Daughter there, though, because the Lexington newspaper told us she wasn't going to have anything to do with it.

Don't it make your brown eyes blue? Oops, that's Crystal Gayle, Loretta's sister.

She doesn't have anything to do with the Homeplace project, either.

Nor do actor Tommy Kirk, musicians Dwight Yoakum, Ricky Skaggs, Patty Loveless, Tom T. Hall, the Judds or former U. S. Supreme Court Justice Fred Vinson, all notable Eastern Kentuckians who made it big elsewhere.

Have they got something against the Homeplace project, too?

We can only answer for Justice Vinson, a Lawrence County native.

No, he has no feud with Johnson County. He's dead.

Actor Richard Thomas, aka John Boy in the TV series "The Waltons" is lending his support to the project, but hey, he's no Loretta Lynn.

How many Apple Day parades did he ever ride in?

Doggone it.

To hear the Lexington paper tell it, the Homeplace can't make it without Loretta.

That probably came as a big surprise to the 1,500 visitors the project logged in during last weekend's "trial run" opening.

Of course they came to the village to see what life was like in Appalachia during the early to mid-1800s, not to see or hear Loretta sing about what Butcher Holler had to offer a hundred years later.

Guess you just can't have something nice around here without a bunch of flatlanders trying to screw it up for no particular reason.

Hey, Loretta. Love you more than our Irish setter.

As for you conscientious folks at the Lexington paper, well, you rate right up there with a fire hydrant in a kennel.

Popularity can be confusing.

First Knight

Ah, the magic of the Arthurian legends! Often, as a child, I would daydream about being a knight, fighting for the fair maiden or damsel in distress, slaying the dragon, etc., etc. My friends and I would regularly fight with fake swords and perform our own version of the joust. Any movies set in the mythical time of King Arthur naturally appealed.

Now Hollywood brings us this offering, yet another version of the ill-fated love story between Lancelot and Guinevere. In fact, this flick is sort of a "Camelot," without the music and minus (in my estimation) an essential character, Merlin. What we have here is simply a love story.

Richard Gere is the erstwhile Lancelot. He unwittingly stumbles upon Guinevere's (Julia Ormond) escort party as she's being taken to Camelot to marry King Arthur. Attracted by Lancelot's heroic efforts, Guinevere still marches on to her destiny as Queen of England, but with an ember smoldering in her heart for Lancelot. The gallant knight, for his part, is also besotted by the young queen-to-be.

As time goes on and Lancelot becomes King Arthur's (Sean Connery) right-hand knight, the two star-crossed lovers do their best to remain true to Arthur. Alas, as they say in the movies, it's too big for both of them and they consummate their relationship, causing (naturally) the demise of Camelot.

I'm sorry to say this, but Gere is awful in the role. In fact, I'd venture to say he is as miscast in this as he was in the Biblical epic, "David," which he starred in back in the '80s. It's difficult to understand why the lovely Guinevere would shun her handsome monarch and ultimately choose Lancelot. Connery, on the other hand, seems to have been born to play the betrayed king. His performance, along with Ormond's, make it worth the trip to the theater.

I also enjoyed the recreation of the mythical land called Camelot. It was very imaginative. What I could have lived without was the constant battles, complete with falling horses and screaming men being mortally wounded. Maybe when I was a kid that would have been attractive, but it has no place in what is essentially a romantic flick.

I'd give this a so-so rating. It has its moments, but it's no grabber. See it for yourself to make up your own mind.

The Weekend

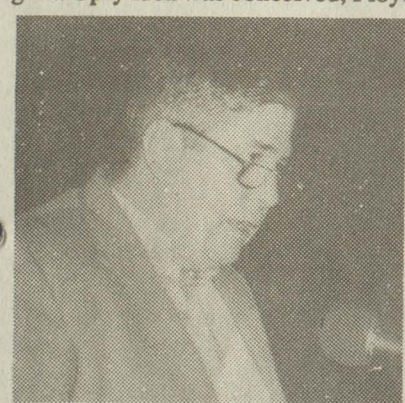

It's show time for the Virginia Opry

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Laughter rippled through the audience from the home-spun humor presented by the comedy act on-stage. Later, foot stomping, fiddle playing down-home entertainment of the Opry troupe kept the audience clapping, and when the Junior Opry displayed their musical talents, parents sat up a little straighter, leaned toward their neighbor and whispered: "That's my boy."

Just another entertainment-filled Monday night at Jenny Wiley State Park with the Kentucky Opry? Not this time. It's show time for the Virginia Opry at the Stonewall Jackson Theatre in Clifton Forge, Virginia.

The Opry concept is based on the founding of the Kentucky Opry by Billie Jean Osborne. When the Virginia Opry idea was conceived, Floyd County native M.

M. Ray Allen

Ray Allen, son of Pauline H. and Ralph E. Allen, was planning a writer's workshop at Jenny Wiley State Park for Appalfolks of America Association, which he founded.

At that time, Appalfolks had received the Stonewall Theatre as a donation, and Allen was trying to find the means to financially support the theatre.

An associate of the Kentucky Opry told Allen: "It's a shame you can't fly the opera house here, we could fill it up with the Kentucky Opry," and began to explain the Opry concept.

Allen thought: "If it works in Eastern Kentucky, it'll work here," and he made the right connections to get an Opry started at the theatre. As far as the fans are concerned, too, the Opry concept works in Virginia.

The Opry made its debut in October of 1992 and more than 10,000 country music fans have attended the Opry shows, which features a blend of country, gospel, pop and comedy.

Because the Appalfolks organization stresses the promotion of drug-free living through literary and performing arts programs, a children's Opry group was formed. The Lew DeWitt Junior Virginia Opry was organized in 1993 and from time to time appear as guests during Opry shows.

"What separates us from a lot of organizations is ... you can look all over the United States ... how many theaters can you find that have "G" rated shows," Allen said. "We screen the lyrics. No songs have lyrics about drinking. If you're looking for Hank Williams songs, you won't find them here."

Maybe that's what draws the crowds. Allen said the group has received many accolades and folks tell him it's one of the cleanest shows and the most family-oriented show they've attended.

Although the Opry has been successful, Appalfolks is still finding it hard to financially support the theatre. When Appalfolks took it over, the theatre needed some major renovation work.

Stonewall Theatre, built in 1905 as an opera house and named the Masonic Theatre, was mainly operated as a movie theatre after 1908.

(See VA Opry, page seven)

Allen and Appalfolks have come a long way in restoring the Stonewall Theatre but they have even further to go before restorations are complete.

I want to be a clone

Science has finally devised a way for humans to reproduce themselves, not by the usual means, but through a process known as cloning. In laymen's terms cloning involves taking cells from one body and reproducing them in a test tube. The test tube clone would then have the exact genes and characteristics as its cell-provider.

Thinking of myself as a progressive person, the thought of cloning certain humans is even more advanced than I ever imagined. Think of it. If we had the cells to form the genetic make-up of some individuals, we could be inviting disaster. It's scary to think what would occur if we could reproduce another Hitler.

One bright spot to the idea would be if we could reproduce bodies for organ transplantation. That would be wonderful for people who need vital organs to save their lives. Aside from that, there are few other positive things I can think of that we could derive from cloning. However, isn't it ironic that they discovered a means to clone the human body at approximately the same time a woman chose to "cut-off" her relationship with her husband?

Smile Awhile

Sara Hopson

Americans gasped when they heard about what had to be one of the cruelest revenge stories on record. Apparently a disgruntled wife, who might have only been experiencing a nasty episode of PMS, narrowly missed killing her husband when she abruptly "cut-off" their relationship. This would be a perfect opportunity to test the virtues of cloning. If police had been unable to find the necessary missing link, another one could have been cloned and surgically attached.

My idea of true cloning would be making up a couple of dozen of me when I weighed 98 pounds, had no wrinkles and my left eye was straight: None of which ever occurred simultaneously and will never happen again in this lifetime. However, it would be nice to have a spare to fill in for me at various functions. For example, if you didn't feel like going to a meeting, you could send your clone. That would definitely be helpful, but my luck is that my clone would volunteer me for some job that I'd have to end up doing anyway.

One definite plus to having a clone is that I would have someone to do the housework. My husband would be the happiest man in the world if dinner was on the table at 5 p.m., the house was spotless, and his clothes were washed and ironed whenever he was ready to wear them. (I'd be pretty happy about it myself.) My husband wouldn't care if I did it or a clone did as long as the job was performed timely and in a routine fashion. What would please him even more is if he had a clone who could get to bed by 9 p.m. A clone couldn't do that for him, but my clone could go in my place, and he'd think I was going to bed at the same time he was.

If cloning ever does come into vogue, I'd like to be able to clone myself only if I can have the opportunity to improve my IQ. At my present level of intelligence, cloning would be hazardous to the general population.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Pierce refused to answer Laura's questions about the man (Trevor) in the photograph. Tad and Dixie talked about moving to the Napa Valley. Anita cut classes to go riding with Bobby. Mateo saw Arlene make a pass at Alec. Taylor lied to Noah about the results of Dr. Clader's pregnancy tests. Brooke and Adam gave into their passion. Later, he proposed. Laura, Janet, and Pierce decided to hike to Willow Lake. Olga gave Erica the name of a doctor in Pine Valley. Wait To See: Pierce has another surprise for Laura.

ANOTHER WORLD: Nick was stunned to learn Maggie and Tomas had been lovers. Michael told John he has leukemia. Vicky saw Ryan with a young woman and came to the wrong conclusion. Laurie and Cass became reacquainted. Acting on a tip, Jake tried to get Joe Carlino to check out his past, but decided to do it himself when he couldn't reach Joe. Meanwhile, Paulina had a surprise proposal for Joe in his hospital room. Jake met with Bunny Eberhardt (Marcia McCabe) in prison. Acting mad, Carl had himself admitted to the sanitarium where he saw the real Rachel. Wait To See: Ryan learns more than he expected from Justine.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Jessica began to cross-examine a nervous Lisa. Unbeknownst to Lily, Lucinda struck a deal with Damian and Orlena. Mike told Rosanna he loves her. A jealous Carly ripped up Rosanna's sketch. While visiting Lily at the clinic, a smug Orlena unwittingly called her Bettina. Sam searched for the incriminating photos Kirk had of her. Mark agreed to help Lily get Luke out of Malta. Orlena injured herself chasing after Lily. Realizing Hal was having him followed, Jeremy used Dani to help cover his trail. Wait To See: Mark introduces a new mystery.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: George told Sally he persuaded Jasmine to sue her for damages. Learning the tape of Anthony's confession was indecipherable, Macy went to the hotel to keep her "date" with him. He ordered her at gunpoint to put on a flimsy negligee then get into bed. While Maggie got ready for her trip with Dylan, and Jessica prepared for her dinner with Dylan, Maggie agreed it was time she met her daughter's boyfriend. As Anthony aimed his gun at Macy, Sally broke through the window and took the bullet instead. As the police led Anthony away, he told Macy he did it all for her. Wait To See: Brooke and Taylor each plan their next move to win Ridge.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Carrie slapped Austin after he admitted sleeping with Sami. John was unable to reconcile the couple as Carrie fled in tears. Gina opened the puzzle box (which only Tom and Hope could open) and knew she really was Hope after all. Lucas comforted Carrie. Lexie confronted her Aunt Frankie (Celeste) about burning the family documents. Marlena prayed for John who was still tormented by the sight of Isabella as a demon. Miraculously, Isabella appeared and told him to go on with life and find a new love and was soon gone. Bo told Hope he'll honor his marriage to Billie. Wait To See: Billie's plans take a new turn.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Damian got Maia to steer Lucy in his direction. Mac, meanwhile, assured Lucy he won't be lured by Katherine. In San Juan, Lily got Sonny to meet her son, Juan. Alan and Bobbie were more comfortable with each other than with their own mates, Monica and Tony. Mac blamed Stone for Robin's decision not to go to college. A.J. saw Stone deal with verbal assaults by AIDS bashers. Wait To See: Laura deals with her son's accusations.

GUIDING LIGHT: Ross and Vanessa's confrontation with Dinah over Roger deepened her resentment about her childhood. Nick stopped Alexandra from blackmailing a judge involved with Alan's case. Hurt by Tangie's rejection, Alan ordered Sid to destroy her and Alan-Michael on the stand. Marah overheard Josh and Annie discuss the hearing to declare Reva legally dead. Buzz overheard Lillian and Eleni talk about the possibility that Brent infected Lucy with HIV. Wait To See: Surprises await Lucy and Alan-Michael.

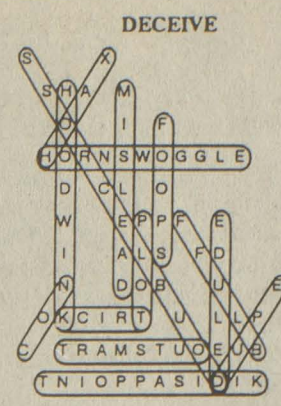

LOVING: Another death rocked Corinth. Angie caught Jacob and Lorraine kissing. Curtis told Alex he set Buck up by making it look as if he were about to flee the country. Tess tried to destroy any incriminating evidence, while Deborah was torn by guilt when she learned of the murder. Alex was sure he had a case against Tess. Wait To See: Other "clues" complicate the case.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Blair begged Todd for forgiveness. In a rage, he attempted to rape her. Later, his lawyer told him of a way to end their marriage without it costing him half his money. Carlotta told Clint she's sure Jessica and Cristian are becoming closer. Viki started her therapy with Susannah. Eddie was stabbed while he and Cristian tried to escape The Arrows. Blair forced Max to tell Addie he used her to hurt Blair.

Wait To See: Viki faces a painful ghost from the past.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: After warning Nikki to stay out of Nick's life, Victor tried to persuade Hope that she and the baby should stay with him in Genoa City. Nikki turned to Brad for comfort. Sharon and Nick eloped, but no judge was available until morning. After Sharon told Nick of Matt's rape, he tried to buy a gun. He later returned to see her leaving the hotel, and found Matt in a pool of blood. The police came in as Nick wiped a gun clean of fingerprints. Given two choices to accelerate his progress, Paul chose herbal treatments over injections. Phyllis was prepared with "proof" to show that Brian did not father little Danny. Wait To See: Nick faces a new nightmare.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You receive new ideas of a business nature this week that are more than worthwhile. Later in the week, judgments off regarding spending. Avoid temping trips to the mall. A minor spat arises this weekend with a close friend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You could be bothered with minor domestic concerns early in the week. A loved one is a valuable source of inspiration. Listen to this person's advice concerning your career. A co-worker is similarly helpful and has many suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although you have a clear idea of what you want to accomplish this week, you encounter some difficulty in the actual execution of your plans. Progress is intermittent as a result.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Enjoy a spontaneous, unplanned schedule this week rather than one set in stone. Doing things on the spur of the moment together will add spice and vigor to your romantic relationship. However, use caution with spending.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You'll be busy with assorted jobs around the house this week, as well as other domestic concerns. Some are hit with a sudden inspiration to begin a do-it-yourself project. Try not to be overly critical of loved ones or friends.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Don't give any credence to those ridiculous rumors making the rounds this week. A burst of creative energy later on could lead to artistic achievements. Your love life is dreamy and romantic this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You could discover a delightful surprise when shopping this week. In general, joy comes through home-based activities at this time. Mix-ups in communication occur with a friend, leading to a missed appointment.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Local travel could have romantic overtones for singles. You'll feel inspired, confident and creative this week. However, details related to a career matter could bog you down. Domestic life is tranquil this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It's better to rely on your own judgment now as someone is deliberately trying to mislead you. An adviser's suggestions at work are also off the mark and should be ignored. Personal projects beckon this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could be visiting with friends on the spur of the moment early in the week. New information you receive now from a surprising source could change your mind about an investment or business proposition. Look into this carefully.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Behind-the-scenes developments are in your favor in business this week. However, you and a partner aren't in agreement about everything and should sit down and work out a compromise. Listen to a different opinion.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Be thorough in whatever you do this week. You'll have an unfortunate tendency to skip over details. News comes from friends who live far away. It's a week to enjoy social life and cultural interests.

Hollywood stars such as Roy Rogers, Gene Autry, Tex Ritter and Burl Ives performed on stage at the theatre. Film star Lash LaRue reportedly rode his horse down the theatre's aisle as part of his act.

The theatre is listed on the national and state registers of historic places. It was donated to Appalfolks of America Association on December 10, 1991 by Mr. and Mrs. Irwin R. Cohen of Reistertown, Maryland.

When Appalfolks took over control of the theatre, Allen and other volunteers carted 17 loads of junk out of the theatre before beginning repair work. The dressing rooms were in the basement which was full of asbestos. The flooring was also severely damaged in the basement.

The theatre needed fireproof curtains, which would cost around $538. It also needed a cyclorama that would cost another $550.

"We couldn't afford it," Allen said. "We still can't afford it."

The air conditioning unit went out -- another $6,000 funneled into the theatre. The heating bill in the winter is around $1,300, Allen said.

"It's been a challenge to keep the funding up," he said, sighing. "We've requested and been turned down for $200,000 in funding (from the state)...The largest private donation we received was $2,000 from out of state...The largest corporate donation was $500...and the largest civic organization donation was $2,000 from the Clifton Forge Women's organization."

"If our area had embraced the Virginia Opry with the financial support that the Kentucky Opry has been embraced with in Floyd and surrounding counties, then we would be a lot further along with the restoration of the theatre."

Virginia Tech's Community Design Assistance Center has completed a three-phase plan for complete restoration and Appalfolks has set a $4 million fund-raising goal to complete the restoration project, and expand its programs. More than 30,000 hours of volunteer work have been put into the effort since 1991, Allen said. For more information about the Virginia Opry, call Stonewall Theatre at 1-(703)-862-7407. Donations may be sent to the theatre at P.O. Box 613, 510 Main Street, Clifton Forge, Virginia 24422.

Theatre Day

The Virginia Opry performed during the July 1 celebration of Stonewall Theatre Day to mark the 90th anniversary of the theatre. The Opry performs year-round in the theatre.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application #836-0157, Amendment #3

In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Bailey Mining Co., Inc., H.C. 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41636, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation located 1.5 miles south of Weeksbury in Floyd and Pike Counties. The amendment will add 6.2 acres and delete 9.1 acres of surface disturbance and delete 4.5 augering underground acres making a total of 38.8 acres within the amended permit boundary.

The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.3 miles south from Kentucky Route 466's junction with Caleb Fork County Road and located 0.4 miles south of Johns Fk. junction with Elisha Fork. The latitude is 37 degrees, 18 minutes, 30 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees, 41 minutes, 15 seconds.

The proposed amendment is located on the Wheelwright U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by the amendment is owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The amendment will underlie land owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The operation will utilize the contour and augering mining methods of surface mining. The operation proposes a postmining land use change from forest land to fish and wildlife habitat.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1455. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections or requests for a hearing or conference must be received within 30 days of today's date.

Honorable Robert L. Meyer, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the Floyd County Sheriff's Settlement - 1991 Taxes as of September 17, 1992, and the Sheriff's Settlement - 1989 Unmined Coal Taxes as of December 19, 1992. These tax settlements are the responsibility of the Floyd County Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Sheriff prepares his financial statements on a prescribed basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the cash basis and laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the Floyd County Sheriff's taxes charged, credited, and paid as of September 17, 1992, and December 19, 1992, in conformity with the basis of accounting described in the preceding paragraph.

Our audit was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements of the Sheriff's Settlement - 1991 Taxes and 1989 Unmined Coal Taxes taken as a whole. The accompanying schedules of excess of liabilities over assets are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the financial statements. Such information has been subjected to auditing procedures and, in our opinion, is fairly presented in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on the results of our audit, we make the following comments and recommendations.

- The Sheriff Should Eliminate The Deficits In The 1991 Tax Account And 1989 Unmined Coal Tax Account
Based on available records, there was a deficit in the 1991 tax account of $5,315 and in the 1989 Unmined Coal Tax Account of $6,745. This total deficit of $12,060 resulted from un deposited receipts. We recommend the Sheriff deposit $5,315 from personal funds into the 1991 tax account and $6,745 from personal funds into the 1989 unmined coal tax account. In the future, we recommend the Sheriff maintain daily checkout sheets, receipts ledger, disbursements ledger, complete deposit tickets, and prepare monthly reconciliations for receipts and disbursements so that any shortages can be detected and corrected.
- The Sheriff Should Pay All Obligations Of The 1991 Tax Account
The Sheriff's 1991 tax account has the following unpaid obligations:

Fee Account - Underpaid Commissions	$ 8,860
Interest	1,929
Sheriff's Fees	705
Total	$11,494

We recommend the Sheriff pay these obligations from the 1991 tax account as soon as possible.
- The Sheriff Should Pay All Obligations Of The 1989 Unmined Coal Tax Account
The Sheriff's 1989 unmined coal tax account has the following unpaid obligations:

Sheriff's 1991 Tax Account	$ 4,000
Sheriff's 1992 Tax Account	2,858
Total	$ 6,858

We recommend the Sheriff pay these obligations from the 1989 unmined coal tax account as soon as possible.
- The Sheriff Should Invest All Tax Moneys In Interest-Bearing Accounts
The Sheriff did not invest all tax moneys received from the collection of the 1989 unmined coal taxes nor did he receive interest on the deposits of the 1991 property taxes during the first two (2) months of collections. KRS 66.480(4) states the official may invest money subject to the provisions of KRS 134.300, 134.320, and 160.510. We recommend the Sheriff set up interest-bearing accounts on all tax deposits.
- The Sheriff Should Pay Interest To The School Monthly
As of audit date, an additional $48 is due the Floyd County Board of Education for interest earned on the investment of 1991 school taxes. KRS 134.140(3) requires the Sheriff to pay the Board of Education interest earned on school taxes less a commission not to exceed four (4) percent. This statute also requires the Sheriff to pay the interest at the time he makes his monthly tax report. We recommend the Sheriff pay the additional interest due the Floyd County Board of Education and, in the future, comply with all provisions of KRS 134.140(3) by paying the Board of Education its share of interest on a monthly basis.
- Advertising Costs Recovered From Taxpayers Should Be Paid To The Fiscal Court
The Sheriff did not remit payment to the fiscal court for advertising fees collected on 1991 taxes. In accordance with KRS 134.440, when fiscal court has previously paid this expense, advertising costs recovered from taxpayers should be subsequently paid to the County Treasurer. We recommend the Sheriff pay $1,063 to the fiscal court for advertising costs collected on 1991 taxes.
- The Sheriff Should Maintain Better Control Over Receipts And Disbursements
The Sheriff had poor controls over receipts and disbursements during the 1991 tax collection and 1989 unmined coal tax collection. There were no receipts or disbursements ledgers; daily checkouts were not performed; bank reconciliations were not performed; and insufficient fund checks were not handled properly. The Auditor of Public Accounts, under the authority of 45 KAR 1:070, established minimum accounting requirements which include depositing receipts intact on a daily basis, reconciling receipts to daily checkout sheets, and performing monthly bank reconciliations. Receipts and disbursements ledgers are also necessary to be able to determine that all tax moneys collected are accounted for properly. Insufficient fund checks which are not collected result in delinquent taxes to be turned over to the County Clerk. We recommend the Sheriff follow the procedures set out in 45 KAR 1:070 at all times, maintain receipts and disbursements ledgers for his tax collections, and properly handle any insufficient fund checks which cannot be collected.
- The Sheriff Should Prepare All Tax Reports On A Timely Basis
The Sheriff did not submit a monthly tax report for November 1992, his final 1989 unmined coal tax collection period, until March 1993. KRS 134.300 requires reports and payments be made by the 10th of each month following the collection of taxes. This delay in payments allows the Sheriff to receive the benefit of the interest earned on these funds rather than the taxing districts. We recommend the Sheriff prepare all tax reports and submit all money due each district on a timely basis.
- Sheriff Deposits Should Be Properly Protected From Potential Loss By Bank Pledges Of Securities
The Sheriff's deposits, during the month of February 1992, were not adequately secured by as much as $1,728,571. Under the provisions of KRS 66.480(1)(d) and KRS 41.240(4), banks are required to provide pledges of securities for interest-bearing and noninterest-bearing deposits if either exceeds the $100,000 amount of insurance coverage provided by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. We recommend the Sheriff obtain pledges of securities to cover all unsecured deposits and monitor future bank balances to ensure coverage is always adequate.
- Fidelity Bonds Should Adequately Protect County From Potential Loss
During the 1991 tax collections and the 1989 unmined coal tax collections, the Sheriff's county revenue bond was $77,000 which was insufficient to adequately protect the county from potential loss. KRS 134.250 requires the Sheriff to annually execute a bond prior to collecting taxes and the bond shall be approved by the County Judge/Executive. We recommend the fiscal court review the Sheriff's county revenue bond and take appropriate action to ensure the county is adequately protected.
Respectfully submitted,

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5242 Renewal

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Tram Coal Co., Inc., P.O. Box 370, Ivel, Kentucky 41642, has filed an application for renewal of an underground mining and reclamation permit, located 0.4 miles west of Grethel in Floyd County. The application covers a surface disturbance of 6.31 acres and an underground disturbance of 316.00 acres for a total permit acreage of 322.31 acres.

The operation is approximately 2.7 miles southeast of Ky. Rt. 2030's junction with Little Mud Creek Road, and is located on Stonecol Fork of Little Mud. The latitude is 37° 28m 07s N. The longitude is 82° 40m 59s W.

The proposed operation is located on the McDowell U.S.G.S. 7.5 minute quadrangle map. The surface area disturbed by this permit is owned by the Elkhorn Coal Corporation, Effert Parsons, Estil and Cora Moore, Betty Carol, Lewis Moore and Greely Newsome. The method of mining to be used for coal extraction within the permit area are surface contour and auger, and underground mining.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining and Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 1346 S. Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the Floyd County Sheriff's Settlement - 1992 Taxes as of September 17, 1993. This tax settlement is the responsibility of the Floyd County Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and the Audit Guide for Sheriff's Tax Settlements issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The Sheriff prepares his financial statement on a prescribed basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the cash basis and laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the Floyd County Sheriff's taxes charged, credited, and paid as of September 17, 1993, in conformity with the basis of accounting described in the preceding paragraph.

Our audit was made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the statements of the Sheriff's Settlement - 1992 Taxes taken as a whole. The accompanying schedule of excess of liabilities over assets is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the financial statement. Such information has been subjected to auditing procedures and, in our opinion, is fairly presented in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on the results of our audit, we make the following comments and recommendations.

- The Sheriff Should Eliminate Deficit In Tax Account
Based on available records, there was a deficit of $16,663 in the Sheriff's 1992 tax account. The deficit resulted from un deposited receipts. We recommend the Sheriff deposit $16,663 from personal funds to eliminate the deficit and, in the future, maintain daily checkout sheets, receipts ledger, disbursements ledger, complete deposit tickets, and prepare monthly reconciliations for receipts and disbursements so that any shortage can be detected and corrected.
- The Sheriff Should Pay All Obligations Of The 1992 Tax Account
The Sheriff's 1992 tax account has the following unpaid obligations:

Floyd County Clerk - Partial Payments	$ 85
Refunds Due Taxpayers - Rifkin CCG Inc.	957
Columbia Gas Transmissions-Corp.	1,065
1991 Tax Account - Transfer	4,975
Fee Account - Interest	5,444
Sheriff's Fees	1,263
Total	$13,789

We recommend the Sheriff pay these obligations from the 1992 tax account as soon as possible.
- The Sheriff Should Transfer $7,450 To His Official Fee Account
The Sheriff transferred $7,450 from his official fee account to his 1992 tax account during the months of September and October 1993. These transfers were not necessary and should be returned to the Sheriff's official fee account. We recommend the Sheriff transfer $7,450 to his official fee account, and in the future, transfer commissions monthly and only amounts which the tax reports indicate are due.

- The Sheriff Should Pay Interest To The School Monthly
As of audit date, the Sheriff has overpaid the Floyd County Board of Education $904 for interest earned on the investment of 1992 school taxes. KRS 134.140(3) requires the Sheriff to pay the Board of Education interest earned on the school taxes less a commission not to exceed four (4) percent. This statute also requires the Sheriff to pay the interest at the time he makes his monthly tax report. We recommend the Sheriff obtain the refund and, in the future, comply with all the provisions of KRS 134.140(3) by paying the Board of Education its share of interest on a monthly basis.
- Advertising Costs Recovered From Taxpayers Should Be Paid To The Fiscal Court
The Sheriff did not remit payment to the fiscal court for advertising costs recovered on 1992 taxes. In accordance with KRS 134.440, when fiscal court has previously paid this expense, advertising costs recovered from taxpayers should be subsequently paid to the County Treasurer. We recommend the Sheriff pay $815 to the fiscal court for advertising costs collected on 1992 taxes.
- The Sheriff Should Maintain Better Control Over Receipts And Disbursements
The Sheriff had poor controls over receipts and disbursements during the 1992 tax collection. There were no receipts or disbursements ledgers; receipts were not always deposited intact daily; daily checkouts were not performed; bank reconciliations were not performed; and insufficient fund checks were not handled properly. The Auditor of Public Accounts, under the authority of 45 KAR 1:070, established minimum accounting requirements which include depositing receipts intact on a daily basis, reconciling receipts to daily checkout sheets, and performing monthly bank reconciliations. Receipts and disbursements ledgers are also necessary to be able to determine that all tax moneys collected are accounted for properly. Insufficient fund checks which are not collected result in delinquent taxes to be turned over to the County Clerk. We recommend the Sheriff follow the procedures set out in 45 KAR 1:070 at all times, maintain receipts and disbursements ledgers for his tax collections, and properly handle any insufficient fund checks which cannot be collected.
- The Sheriff Should Prepare All Tax Reports On A Timely Basis
The Sheriff did not prepare monthly reports for the 1992 tax collections in a timely manner. We remind the Sheriff that KRS 134.300 requires reports and payments be made by the 10th of each month following the collection of taxes. This delay in payments allows the Sheriff to receive the benefit of the interest earned on these funds rather than the taxing districts. We recommend the Sheriff prepare all tax reports and submit all money due each district on a timely basis.
- Sheriff Deposits Should Be Properly Protected From Potential Loss By Bank Pledges Of Securities
The Sheriff's deposits during the month of December 1992, were not adequately secured by as much as $2,238,418. Under the provisions of KRS 66.480(1)(d) and KRS 41.240(4), banks are required to provide pledges of securities for interest-bearing and noninterest-bearing deposits if either exceeds the $100,000 amount of insurance coverage provided by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. We recommend the Sheriff obtain pledges of securities to cover all unsecured bank deposits and monitor future bank balances to ensure coverage is always adequate.
- Fidelity Bonds Should Adequately Protect County From Potential Loss
During the 1992 tax collections, the Sheriff's county revenue bond was $77,000 which was insufficient to adequately protect the county from potential loss. KRS 134.250 requires the Sheriff to annually execute a bond prior to collecting taxes and the bond shall be approved by the County Judge/Executive. We recommend the fiscal court review the Sheriff's county revenue bond and take appropriate action to ensure the county is adequately protected.
Respectfully submitted,

Write It Right
(NAPS)—Our handwriting is a lot more important than many of us realize. The next time you walk into a pharmacy and are kept waiting for a prescription, illegible handwriting may be the culprit.

In a new survey conducted by Parker Pen and Zaner-Bloser, the nation's leading publisher of handwriting texts, 85 percent of pharmacists say poor handwriting can cause prescription errors. Large majorities of pharmacists say poor handwriting can also cost them time (93 percent) and money (76 percent).

Customers are kept waiting while staff phones doctors, hoping to clarify illegible prescriptions. Pharmacists also say problems reading prescriptions cost them the confidence of their customers. "If a pharmacist cannot read a prescription, he looks stupid," says one frustrated pharmacist. Indeed, more than half (55 percent) say poor handwriting caused them embarrassing situations.

Whom the gods wish to destroy they first call promising.
